City Council Votes 'Upgrading' Area

By TOM BAINES Reflector Staff Writer

The City Council, with one of its members abstaining, voted following a lengthy public hearing last night to rezone some 11 acres between E. Fourth and Fifth Streets from R-6 to R-9, an upgrading of the residential zone.

The council action, which was petitioned by a group of E. Fifth Street property owners "to upgrade and stabilize the neighborhood," was highly unpopular with members of Kappa Delta Sorority who had sought a special use permit in order to utilize a structure in the zoning area as their sorority house.

Use of the house as a sorority would be possible if a special use permit was granted by the Board of Adjustments under the R-6 zoning provisions. However, the special use would not be permitted under the R-9 zone.

Property owners and a large contingent supporting the sorority efforts attended the public hearing and many of them had comments to make. Attorneys for both sides finally ended (Please turn to Page 6)

Public Hearing Held On Rezoning, Annexation

Public hearings on three requests for rezoning and on one petition for annexation were held Thursday night by the City Council.

Approval was given by the board, following a hearing, on a request to rezone the Bill Clark property located south of Oakdale Subdivision from RA-20 to R-9. It was pointed out that the property contains approximately 15.3 acres.

A request to rezone the Allen Tucker property, located south of Section III of Tucker Estates Subdivision, from RA-20 to R-15 was approved. The property, which is currently outside the city limits, contains some 29.2 acres.

The third request, involving rezoning from Highway Commercial to R-6 of one of three CH lots owned by Harvey D. Bradshaw on the west side of Hooker Road north of Carolina Telephone property, was also approved following a hearing. Some 2.2 acres are involved in the rezoning.

Approval was given after a public hearing for the annexation of the Professional Center, Section III, located west of the hospital and containing some 4.4 acres.

The council also conducted a hearing on an amendment to the 1979-80 Community Development program to allocate surplus urban renewal funds. City Manager Ed Wyatt said that some $1,220,000 would be received by the city as a result of the close-out of two local urban renewal projects.

It was explained that the Department of Housing and Urban Development estimates that $1,222,585 will be available from the close-outs but the Redevelopment Commission feels the figure may be more.

Ben Shivar, Community Development coordinator, said that several requests have been received as possible projects for funding, including: additional acquisition in South Evans, $175,000; right-of-way purchase to widen Evans Street from Tenth to 14th Street, $200,000; paving of Meadowbrook Drive, $45,000; construction of sidewalk on Third Street to improve access for residents of University Towers, $5,000; and a downtown marketing survey, $3,600. Some $750,000 is needed to fund work on 14th Street from Charles to the railroad and administrative costs are estimated at some $120,000, Shivar said.

The council approved a contract between the city and Housing Authority for inspection services under the Section Eight moderate rehabilitation program. Under the agreement, the Authority will reimburse the CD fund for services rendered by the city inspector.

A revised cooperation agreement between the city and the Redevelopment Commission for services under the CD program was also approved. Wyatt explained in a memorandum to the council members that the agreement "clarifies responsibility and accountability for services performed by the Redevelopment Commission on behalf of the city under the CD program. However, most activities will remain the same." The memorandum noted. It added, "A completion date of Sept. 30, 1981 is included for activities currently underway."

A resolution was approved adopting a revised fire/rescue Rules and Regulations Manual and the council adopted an ordinance amending the City Code relative to the manual. Resolutions were adopted approving the sale by the Redevelopment Commission of Disposal Parcel C-2 in the Central Business District to Lily Richardson for $15,350, and the sale of Disposal Parcels 1A-1, 1A-2, and 1A-3 in the West Meadowbrook CD project to Hoke Contracting Co. Hoke submitted bids of $1,875, $4,280 and $3,991 for the three parcels.

Students Won't Need City Tags

The city has decided that only permanent residents of Greenville will be required to purchase the $5 city license tag. The move directly affects East Carolina University students who have cars here.

City Manager Ed Wyatt said that drivers of cars registered in other cities in North Carolina will not have to register their cars with the city.

According to Wyatt, the city has been flooded with inquiries regarding the charging of non-residents for city tags and a check of several other university cities indicated that none of them required city plate purchases by non-residents.

The city had advertised in December that students would be expected to purchase the tags. Cost of the city license was increased this year from $1 to $5.

Trackers Believe Leaking Balloon Is Still Airborne

By The Associated Press

The balloon "Jules Verne" was drifting toward the Arabian Sea today, crippled by a small leak that could force its two American pilots to abort their attempt at the first nonstop balloon flight around the world, trackers said.

At 7:30 a.m. EST, the tracking station in Bedford, Mass., reported the balloonists had not been heard from since midnight, but they were not alarmed and considered the balloon still airborne.

Tracker Bob Rice said a satellite locator was picking up some "spurious" signals, "something that has happened in the past," and the balloon "is in a very difficult communications area, and we anticipated that... There's no reason to believe the balloon is in any danger."

Co-tracker Jim Mitchell said the flight might have to be aborted in less than 48 hours, but held some "outside hope" the leak could be contained or fixed.

"If the leak is low in the envelope (the tall balloon filled with gas) mostly air would leak out and it wouldn't make any difference," he said. "Or it could be in the valve in the top of the envelope, and that could be opened and shut, electrically. Something like that could fix a leak there."

"Those are longshots, but a possibility," he said. Mitchell said earlier "the balloon is in no immediate danger and can fly for a number of hours."

If necessary, he said, balloonists Maxie Anderson of Albuquerque, N.M., and Don Ida of Boulder, Colo., "will apparently have the option of landing on the Arabian Peninsula, in the Arabian Sea between the peninsula and India or in India."

The 20-story-high balloon, named for the author of "Around the World in 80 Days," took off Thursday from Luxor, Egypt, and at midnight EST, after 19 hours in the air, it had flown about 850 miles, Mitchell reported.

He said at that time it was 210 miles due south of Riyadh, the capital of Saudi Arabia, traveling at an altitude of about 30,000 feet and at a speed of about 50 mph. Its track was carrying it well south of Iraq, whose revolutionary, anti-American government refused to give Anderson and Ida permission to pass through its air space.

Texasgulf, Inc. Board To Pick New Officers

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y. (AP) - As federal investigators tried to learn why a Texasgulf Inc. jet crashed near here, killing six executives, the mineral and petroleum company's board of directors was met in emergency session to elect a new top echelon.

The jet plunged through fog and rain and crashed Wednesday in woods near the Westchester County Airport during a return trip from Canada.

Eight people were killed, including Texasgulf's chief executive officer and board chairman, Dr. Charles F. Fogarty, 59, and several vice presidents, according to Texasgulf spokesmen.

In a meeting at corporate headquarters in Stamford, Conn. Thursday night, Fogarty was replaced by 64-year-old Richard Mollison, a senior vice president.

Meanwhile, investigators for the National Transportation Safety Board searched the scattered wreckage of the plane and found no reason why the jet suddenly disappeared from a radar screen, plunged to earth and burst into a huge fireball while on a routine instrument landing approach to the airport.

Westchester County Executive Alfred delBello said that because of the crash he had ordered a moratorium on a master plan for developing the airport, pending safety analyses by federal and county officials.

Initial reports Wednesday night indicated seven people, including two pilots, were aboard the aircraft when it left Toronto.

It was later learned that an eighth person was aboard, accounting supervisor Allan D. Wooding, 35, of Raleigh, N.C., the company said.

The Westchester County medical examiner's office said the condition of the eight bodies made identification possible only through dental records.

Six of the victims had been positively identified and the medical examiner was awaiting dental records on the others.

Those positively identified, in addition to Fogarty and Wooding, were Frank J. Claydon Jr., 46, of Raleigh, N.C., president of the subsidiary Texasgulf Chemicals Co., and Texasgulf Inc. vice presidents Gordon N. McKee Jr., 50, and Robert J. Boyle, 50, and Clarence D. Drew, manager of corporate communications.

Awaiting positive identification were bodies believed to be those of the pilot, J. Morgan Gregory, 63, Texasgulf's aviation manager, and the co-pilot, Shanley Sorenson, 42.

In other action by the company, Thomas J. Wright was named a vice president of Texasgulf and picked to replace Claydon as president of Texasgulf Chemicals Co.

Others with new titles are Walter F. Meyer, now senior vice president and chief financial officer; Robert P. Hedley, treasurer; John T. Thornton, comptroller; Earl L. Huntington, senior vice president and general counsel; and Stephen H. Cole, general manager for research, engineering and construction.

VALENTINE PRESENT?

I have it on good authority that a $25 check from the Pitt County Department of Social Services was cashed yesterday marked valentine present. What gives? If the DSS now passing out taxpayers' money as valentine gifts? B. J.

Pitt County DSS Director Ed Garrison, when called by Hotline, said that he was certain there is no valentine fund within the department. He then did some further checking and called back to say he had tracked-down the source of our misinformation.

A particular client who receives a $238 Supplementary Social Security check each month is incapable of handling her own business affairs. She must have a social worker handle her budget and write out every check for such essentials as rent, fuel, and the like. Yesterday, she went to her social worker and requested $25 of her own money to buy someone, Garrison doesn't know whom, a valentine present. Since the money was hers and was not absolutely needed to pay for any essential this month, the check was written, Garrison said.

The public may not be aware, he said, of the many day-to-day helps social services has to provide some clients, he commented.

Stockholders Name Speight As President

W. W. Speight was re-elected president of Greenville Industries - a development group owned by 439 local persons - at a stockholders meeting here last night.

Other officers re-elected include vice-president Charles Home, secretary J. B. Kittrell Jr., and treasurer James G. Sullivan.

Members of the board of directors re-elected include Speight, Kittrell, Home, Sullivan, Morris Brody, John F. Minges, Eugene Prescott, B. B. Sugg Jr., and James S. Ficklen. Newly elected directors include William Hunter Clark and Thomas A. Bennett.

Speight reported that a timber cruise has been made of the 280-acre Nelson Hopkins tract owned by Greenville Industries and that the timber has been valued at between $122,000 and $150,000. The board agreed to let a contract for the sale of the timber in the near future and use a portion of the proceeds to improve access to the property, located east of Burroughs-Wellcome and north of the East Carolina Vocational Center.

Speight also noted that the value of the land ranges from $5,000 to $8,000 per acre, making the tract worth, "well over $1 million."

Through the purchase of Greenville Industries' "Dail Site" for $200,000 and later the Hopkins site, and paying off all indebtedness, Greenville Industries has helped, "locate some of the best industries in the state," in the Greenville area, Speight emphasized.

The GI president pointed out that a $112,000 stock sale helped acquire and make improvements to the Burroughs-Wellcome site and construct a pilot plant for the drug manufacturing firm. The pilot plant property has since been sold by the development corporation to another industry.

Found Young Mozart's Work

MUNICH, West Germany (AP) - A symphony composed by a then-nine-year-old Wolfgang Mozart in London in 1795 and long thought to have been lost to the world has been discovered and sold to the Bavarian State Library, a library spokesman said.

In his announcement Thursday, the spokesman gave no details about how or where the original manuscript of the symphony was found. Nor would he say who sold it to the Munich library or how much was paid.

The premier performance of the symphony will take place on May 17 at the summer music festival at Castle Herrenchiemsee, near Munich, the spokesman said. No other details were known.

Jail In Check Case

Brenda Lee Clark of 401 Darden Dr. was sentenced to 8 to 10 years in jail Wednesday, on uttering and aiding and abetting uttering forged check charges in connection with the cashing of three Pitt Memorial Hospital checks in December.

The three checks, totaling $616.48 were among 85 checks, totaling $310,659.70 reported missing by hospital officials January 19. The officials, who said the checks were printed to pay hospital bills - including an $86,000 check to the Greenville Utilities Commission and one for $73,000 to the American Restaurant Association for food services - had been lost after they were taken to the county's computer center for processing on December 9.

Testimony during the trial indicated that the checks were found by a juvenile - most of them partially burned - in a trash container at the hospital's business office on Memorial Drive, near the Fifth Street intersection, and ultimately made their way to Ms. Clark.

Presto Chango: Fashion Fun

By JOY STILLEY
AP Newsfeatures Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Judith Keith has a multifaceted career: public appearances as a "fashion humorist"; writer, editor, publisher, and literary agent. And, still another activity — which she says, "maintains my mental equilibrium" — she's a ski instructor at Camelback ski area in the Poconos, where she lives and works in what was formerly her weekend ski cabin.

explained in an interview. "I come back, have dinner and work again from 8 to 10 at night."
That is, if she's not traveling, which she does a good deal of the time to put on her one-woman, one-outfit fashion show before conventions, trade associations and other audiences.
"I've done it for everyone from the wives of top corporate executives to people in correction institutions," she says. "from junior high-school groups to senior citizens. Every woman has the same interest in wanting to look good and to create a look of her own, no matter what her weight, income or age."

For the show, she designed a dress with three tiers that can be zipped off to make it different lengths. The shortest version is a tunic, which she wears with pants. With those pieces and a lot of accessories she presents her fashion philosophy, which she has elaborated on in a recent book, "I Haven't a Thing To Wear!"
The book was published by Tandem Press, which Miss Keith started about 10 years ago in Tannersville, Pa., and which she also runs as a one-woman show with the help of some free-lancers. From there she's branched out into acting as a literary agent.

A youthful-looking woman in her 50s who was wearing a checked suit with a wine-color scarf and hat, Miss Keith believes in the five Cs of fashion: Comfort, Contour, Color, Classics and Coordination.
"Comfort is the most important part of fashion," she declares. "Never accept a trend if it's not comfortable. And I'm not talking just about physical comfort. Other aspects are essential: social comfort, psychological comfort and financial comfort."
On the subject of contour, she sums it up with a laugh: "If the shape you're in isn't the shape you want to be, just be careful of the shapes you buy."
"The one commodity in fashion that does not cost a penny is color," she goes on. "You must know the colors that do the most for you and work with them as an artist works with colors."
Classics, she says, are the way to stay timelessly stylish and where you should make your investment in clothes. The simple, uncluttered lines and good-quality fabrics are eternally in style, she points out.

ADDED TOUCH — Wearing a basic black dress and dipping into a suitcase full of accessories such as hats, gold chains, belts and scarves, Judith Keith has been putting on a one-woman fashion show for the past 23 years.

Dear Abby

Give Latenik Fair Warning

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I have a friend I'll call "Fran" who is never on time for an appointment. I realize it's possible to have a legitimate reason for being late once in a while, but Fran is always 25 to 30 minutes (or more) late. It is positively maddening because I am always prompt. I'm not the only one she keeps waiting. Fran has a reputation for always being late, and her friends have come to accept it.
What makes a person act like this, and is there a cure for it?

HATES LATENIKS

DEAR HATES: Don't look for any deep psychological reason for chronic tardiness. It's a combination of inconsideration, lack of organization and a touch of conceit.
The "cure" is simple. Give the "latenik" fair warning that you'll wait only 10 minutes, after which you will leave. Then do it.

DEAR ABBY: About the guy who made love with his socks on I'm reminded of the minister in a small Iowa church who became enamored of the new, voluptuous, Parton-bosomed choir director. After three weeks of lusting after her, he could no longer stand it, so he gave in to his baser feelings, confessed his yearnings to her, and invited her to sneak off with him to the basement. To his delight, she confessed to similar desires and readily accompanied him. But lo, it was too narrow and cramped to recline, so both, entangled in their respective choir robes, stood upright locked in loving embrace. Then he expressed the worry, "I hope none of the congregation catches us doing this. They might think we were dancing."

WESTPORT PETE

DEAR ABBY: Please help me. I don't have anybody else to ask about this and it's tearing me apart. I have recently been through a very emotional time. I lost my husband a year ago and did some stupid things. I seemed to have lost control.
I was recently picked up for shoplifting a $2.50 article I didn't need or want, so now I have a record. I am so ashamed and embarrassed. I can't stand myself. I have lost all self-respect.

Now I want to go back to work — selling — but I am worried about this shoplifting offense being on my record. Do companies check into a person's background thoroughly enough to find something like this? Can this keep me from getting employment? I need to know. I need to work not only to support myself, but to help me keep my sanity. I am 50.

DEAR NO NAME: The chance that this single offense will prevent you from getting employment is very, very small. Put it out of your mind, apply for work and forget it. Should you be questioned about the incident, explain that it occurred while you were under stress.

CLEANING YOUR FREEZER
The rules for cleaning a freezer are much the same as those for cleaning a refrigerator. And your best guide is the instruction booklet that came with the appliance.
However, if your instruction book has been misplaced, these suggestions may help:
Using a damp cloth or sponge, clean the outside of your freezer each day. Then about twice a year, clean your freezer on the inside.
First, you'll need to unplug the electric power cord. Then, remove and clean baskets, removable shelves and parts. Defrost, if necessary. Next, wash the inside of the freezer with a baking soda solution — that's made with two tablespoons baking soda to one quart water.
Don't use strong detergent. Instead remove stubborn stains with a sponge and mild soap and water. Afterwards, rinse with clear water and wipe dry.
If your freezer has coils on the back, clean them about twice a year, using a vacuum cleaner brush.
If your freezer develops an odor after all these precautions, clean it with a special solution available from local retailers.

pulp and juice of red, ripe tomatoes. The pulp and juice are cooked in equipment designed to remove some of the water and make the product more concentrated. The more concentrated it is, the more the product costs per ounce — but the less you need to use.
Tomato paste is the most concentrated of the three products and salt is the only seasoning added to it. You must add water to make your sauce, and of course, whatever seasonings you like.
Tomato puree is less concentrated than tomato paste and salt is the only seasoning allowed. Unless the label says otherwise, you can use tomato puree without adding water.
Tomato sauce is the least concentrated of the three. It is flavored with sugar, salt, vinegar and spices. Manufacturers add differing amounts of spices or seasoning, so you may do well to check the label to see what the sauce contains.
There are standards of quality for all three of these products — tomato paste, tomato puree and tomato sauce.
The best quality ones are labeled "U.S. Grade A" or "Fancy." Lower quality products don't look or taste quite as good, but they are thrifty buys.

TOMATO SAUCE
Chances are you have a special tomato sauce for making spaghetti, lasagna, ravioli or another favorite pasta dish.
No matter how you make that sauce, you may find it useful to know the difference between canned tomato sauce, puree, and paste.

Legislators Seek No Safe-Driver Surcharge

By MARY ANNE RHYNE
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—While Rep. Richard Barnes, D-Winston-Salem, was trying to solicit Gov. Jim Hunt's support Thursday in abolishing insurance surcharges on safe drivers, two other legislators were seeking a compromise on the future of the Sunset Commission.

Barnes got his most enthusiastic endorsement yet from Hunt on his bill aimed at eliminating surcharges levied by the North Carolina Reinsurance Facility against safe drivers.

Hunt sent a letter to Rep. Mary Seymour, D-Greensboro, chairman of the House Insurance Committee, and Sen. Carolyn Mathis, D-Charlotte, chairman of the Senate Insurance Committee, voicing his support for the bill.

"I want to express to you my strong hope that this session of the General Assembly will enact legislation to eliminate those surcharges against safe drivers..." Hunt wrote.

Hunt, like some other officials, expressed concern that Barnes' bill would require all drivers with points be placed in the facility. Some drivers with points currently are not in the facility.

The Reinsurance Facility is a pool that covers drivers who are considered to be poor risks. Barnes bill deals with surcharges the facility levied to recoup losses, a power the facility was granted in 1977.

The state has a case pending in the N.C. Supreme Court to enjoin another bill, which Hunt has proposed to make minor adjustments in the already-enacted sentencing plan. Senate action was postponed on the bill when Lt. Gov. Jimmy Green sent it back to the committee because of a procedural problem.

The act establishes a new range of sentences for each category of crime and sets out a prison term that all people would be presumed to serve who were convicted of that crime.

Banks

Two bills that would raise the ceilings on interest rates banks can charge for installment, second mortgage and contract loans went before the Senate Banking Committee. No action was taken after in-depth questioning by several senators.

The first bill would raise the ceiling on installment and second mortgage loan rates from 15 percent to 18 percent on loans of $5,000 or less, and from 12 percent to 18 percent for loans between $5,000 and $25,000. Banks also could go with a higher interest rate, which is tied to the federal discount rate.

The other bill would raise the ceiling on contract loan rates from 12 percent to 18 percent on $5,000 or less, and from 12 percent to 16 percent on loans between $5,000 and $25,000. It also would give the banks the option of using the tie in to the discount rate if it is higher.

Property Tax

Sen. Cary Allred, R-Burlington filed a bill that would give more power to citizens in determining their property tax. The bill would limit property tax to 50 cents per $100, unless citizens voted to increase it. Presently, the limit is $1.50 per $100.

Senate

The Senate passed and sent to the House a bill that would make assault on a handicapped person a felony and define, only in that case, that hands and feet could be termed deadly weapons.

Divorce

Rep. Joe Hackney, D-Chapel Hill, filed a bill that would allow a spouse receiving alimony to file for divorce after one year's separation without forfeiting the right to alimony.

Another bill affecting divorced couples was filed Thursday. The bill on the equitable distribution of property is a committee substitute for a bill filed earlier by Sen. Helen Marvin, D-Gastonia.

It requires property acquired during a marriage, except inherited property, to be divided equally between partners upon divorce. The couple may choose not to have the court divide the property.

New Bills

Among the other new bills

filed Thursday was one to allow pharmacists, unless prohibited by a doctor, to substitute generic drugs for brand-name products.

Rep. Wilma Woodard, D-Garner, filed a bill that would allow state employees to work flexible hours, participate in job sharing and be eligible for permanent parttime jobs.

Deadline Is Now Feb. 16

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—The deadline for displaying 1981 tags and stickers on North Carolina vehicles has been extended to midnight Feb. 16, State Motor Vehicles Commissioner Elbert L. Peters announced Thursday.

Since Feb. 15 falls on a Sunday, and because the current renewal period represents the last time that motor vehicle owners will be required to renew their plates and stickers under the traditional period, the one-day extension is in order, Peters said.

Driving a vehicle without a current valid registration is a misdemeanor in North Carolina, which is punishable by a fine of not more than $100 or imprisonment in jail for not more than 60 days, or both fine and imprisonment.

Peters said in a prepared statement that all North Carolina law enforcement agencies have been notified of the deadline change.

State Transportation Secretary Tom Bradshaw said that under state statutes, the motor vehicles commissioner is authorized to permit short extensions of the vehicle registration deadline.

"Although motorists will get an extra day to purchase and display their license plates and validation stickers, we are still encouraging our citizens to go to the nearest location as soon as possible to get their tags and stickers," Bradshaw said.

A spokesman for DOT said Thursday that about 270,000 people have not purchased their 1981 tags and stickers.

EXTENDED WEATHER OUTLOOK FOR N.C.

Fair, Sundry through Tuesday with moderating temperatures. Highs Sunday in the 50s, warming into 60s by Tuesday. Lows in 30s Sunday morning, warming to 40s.

YEAR OF THE EAR

Ears have been peeking out further and further every year and are now making a bold fashion statement. Short hair is full bodied, so it bounces away from the ear; long hair is sleekly wrapped or braided away from the face. Resting as close to the face as they do, earrings help to frame the face and can really give you a dynamic look.

Jewelry manufacturers have noticed the fashion trends and are running wild. The fine earrings on today's market are the most exciting we've ever seen, and the choices available are limitless!

Gold in all its colors is the most popular metal used for ear adornment. It is available in the familiar hoops and buttons, but it has also shown up in just about every shape imaginable—including discs, scallops, curls and tubes. The texture might be highly polished, hammered, brushed or even faceted. And they might even have a chain tangled around them.

If earrings are this exciting in gold alone, can you imagine the possibilities when gemstones are added? You can select gemstone earrings to match each of your favorite outfits or to match the colors of your eyes.

Don't neglect your ears this year. Pay us a visit at Lautares Jewelers. If there's anything we can't bear to see, it's a naked ear. We'll have you covered in no time.

Fund Is Established

A Fund for Excellence has budded at the ECU School of Medicine with a contribution of $25,000 by Wachovia Bank and Trust Co. to initiate the fund.

The money is to be earmarked for expansion of the residency training program and for strengthening the programs for disadvantaged students.

It is hoped that other businesses and corporations will join in the effort to provide additional funding for the school's needs.

Chancellor Thomas B. Brewer saw the fund as helping the university provide quality medical services "especially in our eastern rural region where the need for adequate, modern medical care remains great."

Eastern North Carolina is a relatively poor area, and it has young people who are qualified for medical careers but who are unable to bear the expense.

Therefore it is particularly gratifying that the Fund for Excellence will assist with programs for disadvantaged students.

Organizations Can Assist

Jumping the fee for use of the city swimming pool from 50 cent to $1 is quite an increase.

Yet the operating deficit has been 78 percent and, even with the increase, the deficit will still be 40 to 50 percent. Thus the Recreation and Parks Commission has acted properly in approving the increase.

It is true the fee will work a hardship on some who are underprivileged. It is a golden opportunity for civic and service organizations to help provide for young people who can't afford the $1 fee.

THIS AFTERNOON More N.C. Crime

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH — Crime will likely continue to increase as a problem in North Carolina, ironically as a direct result of economic improvement across the state.

That is the disturbing conclusion, based on trends nationally and in this state, of a data specialist with the Governor's Crime Commission.

"As North Carolina moves into the rapid economic growth predicted for the 1980s, perhaps its greatest challenge may be to keep its crime rate low without having a large increase in its prison population," reports David E. Jones in his thoroughgoing study published by the Institute of Government at Chapel Hill.

Three essential things are happening strongly in North Carolina; things which available data indicate have significant relationship to crime rates:

1. Rapid economic growth is bringing more jobs with higher pay. As per capita income climbs, the gap between those with money and those without money widens, even as those with money buy more expensive things — a readymade target for criminals.

2. More Urban
North Carolina is becoming more urban, with half the state's population to be city dwellers in this decade. Thus, urban crime is being seen in once rural and small town sections of the state.

3. Young people, between 15 and 24, are a key factor in crime, committing a disproportionate share of criminal acts, occupying much police time, and composing the biggest and fastest growing bloc in the prisons. While birth rates are declining, youthful population continues to increase in this state due to immigration of young people seeking military, educational, and job opportunities.

Jones, in his analysis of crime rate statistics, found that unemployment does not have all that much effect on crime, especially in North Carolina where much of the unemployment is in rural areas.

He also concludes that "The number of its law enforcement personnel bears little relationship to a state's ... crime rate ... Only a small portion of police activity is related to crime prevention.

In general, if a police department is increased without focusing its activity on selected offenses — burglary or robbery for example — the impact on crime will be small."

The two significant things which do have a direct and immediate relationship to a crime rate are arrests, and prison sentences. Where being caught and punished appear most certain, crime is lower.

But this particular remedy concerns Jones, who sees need for improved efficiency and effectiveness of the criminal justice system, particularly in rural areas. One way to do this, he proposes, is to be more selective because "a small minority of offenders account for a disproportionately large number of offenses. If these individuals can be identified, prosecuted vigorously, and incapacitated through imprisonment, crime can be reduced."

No Records
But these young, habitual offenders are not now being targeted because they are mobile around the state, often are engaged in crimes which classify as juvenile offenses and are not reported to other law enforcement or court agencies, but mostly because there is a serious gap in the identification procedure.

State law does not now require that individuals be fingerprinted when arrested or convicted. It allows this, but does not require it. Most city police departments keep fingerprint records. Many rural and small town units do not.

Both the identification process of the Police Information Network and the central state criminal history record depend upon fingerprint identification.

Jones makes a careful distinction between crimes of violence and aggression and material crimes in his study. Murder and aggravated assault, for example, are on the decline, and largely confined to individuals who know one another or are related. Property crime is growing here more rapidly than the national average.

But because of the economic factors, Jones predicts crime "will probably record substantial increases in the future."

BY ART BUCHWALD J.R. And Deregulation

WASHINGTON — The only people I know in the oil business are the Ewing family whom I watch on the hit TV show "Dallas" every Friday night. As soon as I heard the news that President Reagan had deregulated oil and was going to deregulate natural gas, I called J.R., the president of Ewing Oil, to congratulate him.

"I know I'm going to have to tighten my belt," I told J.R. "But I'm happy for you. This could mean millions of dollars for Ewing Oil."

"Let's say we won't have to apply for food stamps."

"Are you going to use the profits to drill for new oil?" I asked him.

"No, we're just going to start selling oil that we had capped until the deregulations went into effect. There was no sense selling it while the controls were on."

"I thought the idea of deregulating oil was to encourage new drilling so we would become independent of overseas imports."

"That might have been the idea, but we don't want to glut the market or the price of oil will come down. We can't have that."

"I should hope not," I said. "How much do you think it's going to cost us at the pump?"

"Maybe 10 or 20 cents a gallon more. I have to talk it over with the boys at the Petroleum Club. We don't want to get into a price war or we'll cut each other's throats."

"Americans would hate to see you people do that," I said. "Do you think the deregulations will encourage more people to look for oil?"

"It's hard to say. Daddy is going into real estate, and my brother Bobby wants to invest in solar energy. I need money to keep all the women I've been chasing happy. So I don't know how much we'll have left for drilling."

"You'll have plenty. We've been paying through the nose for oil ever since they deregulated it. You should see our fuel bills here in the East."

"The Ewing family is aware of the burden the average person is facing. We talked about it last night at dinner."

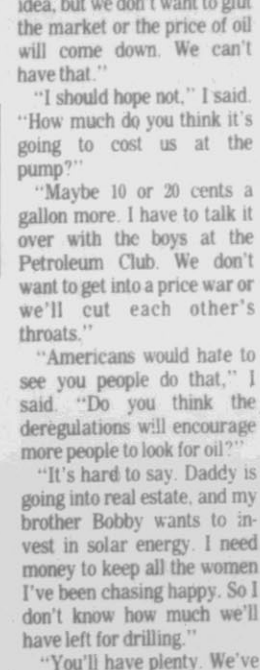

"What conclusion did you come to?"

"It was none of our business."

"I guess with natural gas deregulation you people will really make a potful of money."

"It will help get us through the winter," J.R. said. "But don't forget President Reagan said our 1960 dollar is only worth 36 cents now, so Ewing Oil can't just sit back and rake in the money. We have to think of what we're going to do about inflation."

Having recently had occasion to spend several days in Pitt County Memorial Hospital, I am extremely impressed with the hospital, not only for its modern equipment and the quality of its staff, but for the prevailing attitude of all the personnel who treat the patients as individuals and who take great pride in the hospital.

I feel we are very fortunate to have this hospital in Greenville. It combines the best qualities of the Old South with the most advanced technology of the New, and is a facility in which we can take great pride.

I, for one, am very glad it is here.

As a teenage volunteer at Pitt County Memorial Hospital, I was very happy to see such a thorough yearly report on the facility that our community and county has been provided with. I found out things about our hospital that, as a volunteer, I did not know, but found very interesting. It is a highly advanced facility in technology and is further advancing by adding the West Tower, the newest technology, and, of course the ECU School of Medicine.

The hospital, as well as its dedicated staff and other employees, deserve recognition such as this more often. In essence, to sum everything up, be proud of the great facility we have and always keep in mind that if you ever need its use you will certainly be in the best of care.

Strength For Today

SELF ESTEEM
People generally esteem us about as highly as we esteem ourselves. If we think little of ourselves and our powers, we find that others think little of them also. If we esteem ourselves as of some worth, we find that others accept our evaluation. And this attitude — if kept within reasonable bounds — is not inconsistent with the attitude of humility which the Bible continually enjoins.

It is also true that we can accomplish about what we think we can accomplish.

Expects Backing For 2 Years

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — If President Reagan manages to cut the size of government, as promised, it won't happen without cries from critics that he is insensitive to the needs of people. It is inevitable.

Amid the howling, therefore, how long are "the people" likely to stand behind their President?

Two years, at least, says Richard Leshner, president of the Chamber of Commerce and an outspoken exponent of the "let's rebuild America" theme, a theme he chose, in fact, as the title of his recent book.

Two years is Leshner's minimum estimate, based on the unlikely chance the president will make almost no progress toward his goals of cutting taxes, spending and regulations. But if Reagan succeeds as Leshner expects him to, then the support, Leshner says, "will be indefinite."

Unlike those analysts who claim the recent election shouldn't be interpreted as a mandate for Reagan's fiscal conservatism, Leshner insists it is just that. And, he says, when the tax and other cuts are in place the president probably may generate even greater support.

It is inconceivable that Reagan won't show early progress, he says, and he claims that some of that progress even now is beginning to show in the decline of interest rates, a direction he expects to continue.

"And there absolutely will be a tax cut," he said. "A deep personal cut and a cut in business taxes," as well as reductions in the marriage penalty, capital gains and taxes on interest, dividends and royalties.

Soon, Leshner believes, there will be evidence of huge spending cuts. He predicts that "both the energy and education departments will be dismantled," and that many regulations will be tamed or eliminated.

"Our candidate is OSHA,"

Never A Cut In Benefits

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Special Correspondent
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan's promise to keep his budget cutters away from Social Security retirement benefits met a campaign pledge that was as close to self-fulfilling as a candidate could make.

Congress wouldn't touch them anyhow.

No politician is going to risk the rage of all those voters who get Social Security checks. And that goes double for Reagan.

Politically, Reagan couldn't have tried to change the basic benefits of a program that has been a troublesome issue for him for the last 15 years.

So he has pledged to leave it alone and intact, including the cost-of-living increases that likely will add about 12 percent to benefit checks beginning July 1.

Jimmy Carter and Gerald Ford both proposed limits to those annual increases, and got nowhere.

Reagan advisers are proposing cuts in two phases of the program but not in the pension and survivor benefits that are paid to about 32 million Americans every month. One would drop student benefits, a step Carter proposed without success.

The other is elimination of a $122 monthly minimum benefit for people who otherwise would be entitled to less. That is supposed to save a billion dollars a year.

But the budget-cutting blueprint carries a warning: "Those recipients who would lose a portion of their income would lobby fiercely against minimum benefit elimination. Eliminating the minimum could be painted as a first step toward dismantling Social Security, resulting in heightened resistance to other Social Security reforms."

The latter danger gets into a troublesome area for Reagan, who began his political career as a critic of Social Security and who now champions the program. Indeed, as a candidate, he recommended changes that would increase the benefits, and the cost, of Social Security.

Reagan said restrictions on the amount of money recipients can earn without forfeiting benefits should be repealed. His advisers estimated that would add $2.1 billion to benefits, but they also said that nearly 80 percent of the cost would be recovered through taxes on the earnings.

During the campaign, Carter said repeatedly that Reagan would undermine Social Security and wanted to make the system voluntary.

As a fledgling politician, Reagan did say it should be voluntary. He also called it "the flagship of the liberal cause." He disowned those positions long ago.

"That is an old canard that has been laid to rest every four years since I first ran for office in 1966," Reagan said last fall.

In the process of putting it to rest, Reagan, like any convert, has had to underscore his commitment to the program he once criticized. "I will defend the integrity of the Social Security system," he promised during the campaign. "That system will be strong and reliable and protected under a Reagan administration."

At the same time, Reagan warned his campaign audiences that the system is actually unsound and headed toward eventual bankruptcy unless something is done.

He said he would appoint a task force to look into long-term financing of the system. "But first, with the statement that no one dependent on Social Security today is going to have the rug pulled out from under them."

Now the architects of his budget cuts see the long term financing problem as a possible asset in their effort to trim parts of the program. The elimination of student benefits now paid to children of Social Security recipients is supposed to save $700 million next year and $4.3 billion over the following three years.

"The new Congress may be more responsive to trimming this program on merit, particularly when the savings are needed to maintain the overall soundness of the Social Security system," Reagan's budget advisers said.

Shopping With A Loved One Has Its Drawbacks

By GAIL MICHAELS
There are dozens of things I would rather do than take my children to the grocery store. I would rather visit Nicaragua as the marshal of the first annual Somoza Appreciation Day parade. I would rather sell real estate in Love Canal. I would rather go skinny-dipping in the Amazon.

Psychologists tell us that shopping trips with our little ones should be rewarding experiences. For whom, I keep asking. I've decided it must be the supermarket manager. He's the only one who would possibly benefit from the three bags of marshmallows and the five boxes of teething biscuits that suddenly materialized on the checkout counter during my last visit.

I know I should have paid better attention to Zachary, but I was too busy explaining to Meg why frosting belonged on cakes and not cereal and why we were not going the push up the Post and Kellogg profit margins any further until we finished off the contents of the 15 boxes already on our pantry shelves.

Explanations like this don't deter Meg for long. Abandoning the cereal, she concentrated on the drink mixes selection. "On television they have a hot chocolate mix with little marshmallows shaped like stars. Don't you think that would taste better than our old yucky hot chocolate mix?"

When I answered in the negative, she told me she thought that my tastebuds were getting numb from old age. "But even you would like Strawberry Quik," she continued upon spying that product on the shelves. "You can't drink it slow cause it's Quik."

"You can't drink it slowly," I corrected. "I got a feeling I can't drink it at all," she grumbled.

Then her face lit up. "How about ice cream? Now that would be a real treat for Daddy."

"Daddy doesn't need a treat."

She swung on my arm and moaned. "But I do."
"Meg, if I bought everything you asked for, Daddy and I would have to work two jobs apiece."

"Why don't you?"
I tried to repair the bag of noodles which Zachary had just managed to punch open. "We don't want to."

"What about what I want? You won't even let me have the bread with the little girl on it."

"That's because it's not as nutritious as whole wheat bread."
She gave a long sigh. "Well at least let me push the cart."

I didn't see any harm in that until she raced it into the butter display.

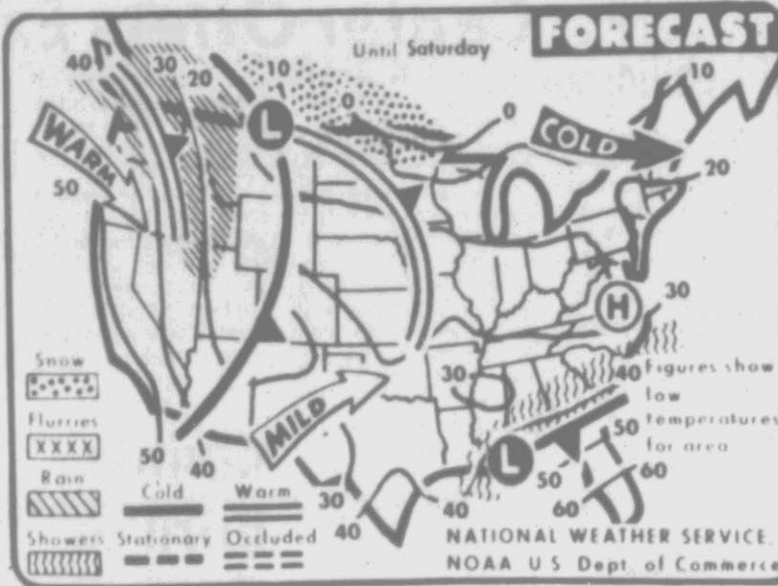

We arrived at the checkout counter with me pushing the cart and her sitting underneath providing friction with her feet. "Oh look, Mommy, candy and gum. That's not too expensive. Please, Mommy, please."

Even the best of us can be worn down. I offered her a deal. She could have a pack of gum if she promised not to touch the eggs or to help bag the groceries.

As I attempted to write a legible check while holding Zachary, the checker asked Meg if the gum was a reward for being good.

I wrenched my pen from Zachary's hand. "No," I said. "It's more like ransom."

How's The Weather?

WEATHER FORECAST — Warm weather is expected in the forecast period until Saturday morning for the Pacific coast. Mild weather for the Southwest to Florida and cold weather from the northern Plains to the Northeast. Rain is due for the northern and central Rockies; showers from the central Gulf to the Carolinas. (AP Laserphoto Map)

By The Associated Press
While North Carolinians trudge home from work under cloudy skies this afternoon, high above their heads forces are at work that will determine the environment they must endure.

High pressure over the eastern half of the nation will be the controlling force on North Carolina's weather today.
But a series of minor upper level disturbances moving across the southern sections of the nation will increase cloudiness over North Carolina.

As the high pressure area over us moves northeastward, northeast winds will bring moisture from the Atlantic into eastern North Carolina. Along with this increase in moisture will be a chance of rain along the coast tonight and Saturday.

Skies will be partly cloudy today across North Carolina with cloudy skies tonight and Saturday. High temperatures will generally be in the 40s both days.

There may be some 30s in the northern mountains and along the north coast today. And on Saturday there will be some 50s in the southern mountains and along the south coast.

City Council...

the hearing input. The rezoning item was scheduled for a hearing last month but the city was notified on the day of the council meeting that a temporary restraining order had been issued prohibiting the board from acting on the matter. The restraining order, secured by Kappa Delta, pointed out that the area under rezoning consideration included the property at 1801 E. Fifth Street that the sorority hoped to utilize.

It was explained last night that when the rezoning was first considered by the Planning & Zoning Commission, the signatures of only 26 of the 35 property owners in the affected area were included on the petition. The planning board voted not to recommend the rezoning to the council.

Since that time, according to the city's planning director Bobby Roberson, the signatures of all but three of the property owners have been submitted. The rezoning area, located north of Fifth, east of Maple, west of the old Wilson-Brown property, and south of Fourth Street, now includes 22 structures that do not conform to R-6 residential standards. The number of non-conforming uses would increase by three under the R-9 zoning.

Council members expressed regret that the rezoning decision had to be made in light of work underway on a comprehensive land use plan for the city. Mayor Don McGlohon said that he wished it had been possible for a moratorium to have been observed on all zoning matters until the land use plan was completed.

Bruce Garris, who said that he was married to one of the heirs owning the 1801 Fifth Street property, noted that efforts had been underway for a year to sell the house and he said that if the area is rezoned to R-9, it would "take away our right to sell the property." Garris said that he could not see where the sorority would be detrimental to the community.

Donna Wooten, a resident, said that Garris resides in the country and has never had toilet tissue in his trees, referring to the fraternity or sorority practice of throwing tissue on trees at their houses. Mrs. Wooten said that it would be very hard to convince property owners in her area that their taxes were in line "if this area is allowed to degenerate."

Mrs. Alice Long of 1702 E. Fifth Street, who said that she has lived here for 43 years, said she could not understand why the sorority would want to move two blocks closer to the campus. She also mentioned the "toilet paper hanging in the trees" at the sororities and fraternities and added that she resented "them being in the neighborhood."

Mrs. William Taft of 1707 E. Fifth Street, a 40-year resident, said that rezoning to R-9 would preserve the area for suitable living for years to come.

Various other property owners spoke in favor of the rezoning, while several sisters of Kappa Delta and others in favor of the sorority move urged the council to leave the area in the present R-6 zone. It was pointed out that the sorority is presently located at 2101 E. Fifth Street and the safety of the Kappa Delta members in getting to and from campus was mentioned.

Beth Hignite, speaking on behalf of the eight sororities at East Carolina University, said that the girls have high social and moral standards and are involved in a variety of community activities such as assisting needy families and visiting the nursing homes and hospital.

The Rev. Richard Gammon asked the council if it was fairly representing the city by saying that it does not want the sorority in the neighborhood. Gammon said he did not question the legality of the rezoning move, but he questioned the "moral, ethical right to do so."

Fred Mattox, an attorney representing the sorority, pointed out that Kappa Delta appealed to Superior Court the decision of the Board of Adjustments to deny the special use permit and the court ordered that the board hold a new hearing. That re-hearing has never been held, Mattox said, contending that the sorority is "entitled to that hearing" but has "been denied that to this day."

The attorney said he believed the council was setting a dangerous precedent to allow non-owners to petition to rezone the property of someone else. He said that over 70 percent of the property in the rezoning area would not meet the R-9 standards and he suggested that the "sole reason" for rezoning "is to keep the sorority from going in there."

The attorney for the rezoning petitioners, Charles Vincent, declared that no judge had "given the sorority the right to be in that house." He said "they have never won, never had a vested right."

Vincent said that the residents want to upgrade their neighborhood and he contended that East Fifth Street is the only area intact that can be preserved. He said the issue was not fraternities or sororities but upgrading from R-6 to R-9. Vincent said the use permit "runs with the land" and he mentioned that if the sorority ever decided to move out of the house, an undesirable group could move in.

Vincent said that once the area is lost, "you can't ever get it back."

Councilman William Hadden said he would not object to the sorority living next to him but he would not want a fraternity to move next door. He said if the use of property is opened up to absentee owners, a problem could be created if adequate control was not maintained.

Lynn Calder, SGA representative from ECU, said that students should be considered a part of the community and she hoped that more cooperation between the university and city would be forthcoming in the future.

Councilman Dick McKee said the issue reinforced his conviction that work is needed regarding the comprehensive plan to solve the zoning problems.

Clarence Gray said he had mixed feelings about what the future use of the sorority property might be.

Hadden said the situation points up the need for the university and city to integrate their respective comprehensive plans.

McGlohon noted that it was unfortunate that people had to be upset no matter how the vote went last night.

Club Supports Pupils Taste Squid As The Saving Of Lighthouse Center Offers Exhibit

Greenville Collectors Club members agreed to express their support of the drive to save the Cape Hatteras Lighthouse and to give endorsement, whenever possible.

The club met Tuesday in the home of Dave and Debbie Pruet.

It was announced that the Collectors Series of books is complete and housed at Joyner Library.

An exhibition of old cameras owned by various members of the club constituted the program, which included a discussion of the history of photography and photography equipment. The oldest camera shown was a view camera made about 1880. Others spanned the century, leading to the new instant camera. The most popular camera was the Kodak Brownie, represented by several models, showing its improvement through its years of manufacture. The most unusual cameras shown included a Kodak auto-graphic, which allowed the labeling of pictures as they were taken and a "mint condition" view camera, still operable, with its original wooden tripod. Dave Pruet showed a stereopticon, complete with an extensive collection of stereo cards.

The next meeting will be held at the home of a new member, Maury York. The program will concern a collection of art prints, including lithographs, intaglio prints, etchings and woodcuts.

Not many kids get squid for lunch, but fourth, fifth and sixth graders at Wahl-Coates School had the delicacy yesterday.

"It's surprising but everyone enjoyed it," said Susan Lanier, teacher of the enrichment class at the school. "The children compared the taste to the way french fries taste, and said the meat was chewy, not like most seafood."

The squid was prepared for the children by Helen Livingston, a representative of the North Carolina Marine Resources Center in Manteo, and was one of three exhibits provided for the children by a visit from the center's outreach program. During the day, a SCUBA display was available for the students' inspection, as well as a live touch tank containing several sea animals.

"When we visit schools we take a selection of materials with us that children may not see on a visit to the beach but ones they can identify with anyway," explained Frank Hudson, N.C. Marine Resources Center aquarium coordinator. "For example the SCUBA gear the children can try on, and the animals they can pick up and touch." The touch tank at Wahl-Coates held starfish, horseshoe crabs as well as other kinds of crabs.

Hudson said he had approximately 125 kids participate in the touch tank yesterday. "The response was very good," he added, "We had many kids that had never touched live sea animals before and they were quite curious and full of questions." The aquarium coordinator said the question most frequently asked him was "Do they bite?"

"I tell them the horseshoe crabs don't bite, so they touch them and find out that next time they go to the beach and see one, it won't hurt them," he continued.

Hudson feels going inland in the outreach program is especially beneficial to the children. "Going to an inland school, we reach many children that don't get to the beach much, and when they do, don't see a lot of the things we show them in the displays," he explained. "It helps them when they do get to the coast to recognize these creatures and identify with them."

Lanier, the Wahl-Coates enrichment program teacher, said she feels the visit from the resources center heightened the children's understanding of marine life and the environment. "Hopefully, their comprehension of marine life is improved, and their awareness of the environment we live in is increased," she said. "It helps them appreciate the environment."

"Most of the ones utilizing the touch tank were scared," she continued, "but they went ahead and handled the animals and thus gained experience from this opportunity to commune with marine life."

The outreach program of the N.C. Marine Resources Center is available to several schools per year. Its purpose is to take marine education to the schools of the area, and according to Hudson, "stimulate interest in a world they may or may not otherwise have access to."

The babies would have about a 50-50 chance for survival, but a special drug used by the mother over the past week might have improved those chances, Yount said.

He said the next four to five days will be critical to the babies' survival. Babies generally do not survive if born more than 14 weeks early, Yount added.

The mother had taken the fertility drug Pergonal and was aware of the chance of multiple birth, said Dr. Kenneth Burry, the obstetrician who delivered the babies.

Burry said he had diagnosed quintuplets when the mother was five weeks pregnant. The mother had been hospitalized for six weeks before the delivery because of the complications in her pregnancy, he said.

Quints Born In Oregon

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Tiny quintuplets whose combined weight is about that of a healthy newborn were in critical condition today as doctors closely monitored their second day of life.

The babies were born Thursday, three months prematurely, to a 28-year-old woman who took a fertility drug and knew for five months she would bear quintuplets, doctors said.

The three boys and two girls, who weigh about two pounds each, were placed in the neo-natal intensive care center immediately after delivery by Caesarean section at the University of Oregon Health Sciences Center.

The infants were suffering from hyaline membrane disease, a lung ailment common in early births, hospital spokesmen said.

"There are several doctors watching them," said a woman who identified herself as the hospital's admitting coordinator.

The babies had not been named by Thursday afternoon. Doctors said they were known as "A, B, C, D and E."

Names of the mother and father were not released at their request.

"The parents don't want to be harassed," said Dr. John Yount, chief pediatrician for the babies. "This is a very difficult time for them. It's uncertain how well we'll be able to sustain the babies." Under normal conditions,

Suspect Soviet Crash Disaster

MOSCOW (AP) — Three top commanders of the Soviet Pacific Fleet have been buried, victims of an aviation disaster that Western specialists said today may have killed as many as two dozen officers and crew.

The army newspaper Red Star reported that "admirals, generals, officers, midshipmen, warrant officers and ensigns of the Pacific Fleet" who perished in the crash last Saturday were buried Thursday in Leningrad.

Among the victims, the Soviet media have identified only the three leading officers: Adm. Emil N.

Spiridonov, 55, Pacific Fleet commander; Vice Adm. Vladimir D. Sabaneyev, 54, the fleet's top political officer, and Lt. Gen. Georgy V. Pavlov, commander of the fleet's air wing.

Reports by the Soviet press did not specify where the crash was, the circumstances or give a total casualty figure. Air crashes are not normally reported by the Soviet press.

Shooting Arrest

New York authorities have arrested David Lee Harper in connection with the death of Michael Tatum, 27 of 1107 Colonial Ave. here in September 1980.

Police Department Capt. John Briley said the Pitt County Grand Jury, on September 8, returned a true bill of indictment, charging Harper with murder in connection with the September 1 shooting incident in the 500 block of West 14th Street, in which Tatum was shot in the temple.

The 4:49 p.m. shooting allegedly resulted from an argument.

Briley said Harper was arrested on a fugitive warrant yesterday. He said agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation have indicated that Harper will fight extradition to North Carolina.

Councilman Joe Taft Jr., whose parents live in the area requested for rezoning, was allowed to abstain from voting on the issue.

Legislators Study Compensating For Federal Cuts

By MARY ANNE RHYNE
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) —
While the Reagan administration is considering where to cut spending, North Carolina legislators are waiting to see where they may be expected to pick up the federal government's share of programs.

Jordan, D-Mount Gilead, chairman of the Senate Base Budget Committee. "All we know is that he's considering a 20 percent cut in education and possibly making block grants (fixed grant sums) with programs like Medicaid."

Jordan and his counterpart in the House, Rep. Al Adams, D-Raleigh, met Wednesday with Gov. Jim Hunt, who joined other governors and President Reagan earlier this week to talk about proposed budget cuts.

Hunt, in his weekly news conference Thursday, promised to support Reagan's efforts to balance the budget. Those efforts are expected to mean a shifting of responsibility from the federal government to state government for welfare, housing and health care programs.

"It's going to tear us to pieces," Adams said. He said the cuts would hit the public schools system hard and, "not that much shows up in that budget that isn't a good program."

"We're real scared about North Carolina's situation," Jordan said, noting the federal government has funded 68 percent of some social programs while the state paid 32 percent of the bill.

"Even if we get the same number of dollars, the state is going to have to pay more."

Legislators say they're aiming to reduce the state budget by about 6 percent, or $200 million. Jordan said if Reagan cuts education funding by 20 percent, North Carolina would lose about $80 million.

in November 1971, when the legislators were consolidating schools to form the University of North Carolina system.

"In 1975 we had some major problems and had to make some heavy cuts," Jordan said, noting the 1975 recession. He said this time, the cuts will come from the Reagan administration, not just the economy.

But Adams said he believed the budget process was easier in 1975.

"We knew we were going to have a shortfall then and we knew we had to cut some things," Adams said. "But this budget is in essence a balanced one and it's hard to get people dedicated to cutting it."

Some of the big budget problems this year, Jordan said, are an overly optimistic estimate of state revenues, low budget allowances for oil costs and the lack of money in the highway fund for road maintenance and construction.

Yearbook Won Highest Honor

ECU News Bureau

The 1980 "Buccaneer," East Carolina University's yearbook, has been awarded an "All-American" rating by the Associated Collegiate Press.

The rating is the highest honor awarded yearbooks produced by U.S. campuses and ranks the "Buccaneer" as one of the leading yearbooks in the nation.

Editor of the award-winning yearbook is Craig Edward Sahli of Hudson, a business administration major at ECU who is pursuing an academic concentration in marketing.

Also the editor of the 1979 "Buccaneer," which received a "first class" award from the ACP, Sahli has been a student assistant for promotion to the general manager of the ECU Playhouse during the 1980-81 academic year.

His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Alfred T. Sahli of Hudson.

In the 1980 competition, ACP judges said they were impressed with the entire book — its design, concept, coverage, copywriting and cover. They singled out for special praise the "Buccaneer" cover design and layout.

"Coverage of campus events is excellent," said the judges' report.

The "Buccaneer" previously received an "All American" rating in 1970.

Warrants Issued

Warrants charging Katherine Houska Eldridge, 44 of Tarboro, with false pretenses in connection with a check cashing scheme at First State Bank, involving some $1,430.40, have been issued, Greenville Police Department Capt. John Briley said today.

Briley said Ms. Eldridge allegedly opened an account at the bank and deposited two checks drawn on a Virginia Beach, Va., bank for a total of $1,500. Since February 2, four checks allegedly signed by the Tarboro woman amounting to over $1,400 have been cashed on the local account.

Briley noted that the checks deposited to the First State account were drawn on an account at Fidelity Bank of Virginia Beach that had been closed.

Investigation of the case is continuing.

We endorse mixed beverages in the City of Greenville

As voters and citizens of the City of Greenville, we support the referendum to be held on February 17. We feel that a fairly administered and strictly enforced mixed beverage law would have numerous benefits for the city. Among those benefits, we feel, are:

1. Increased revenues in taxes.
2. Increased economy from the ability to attract conventions, etc., from outside the city.
3. A better method of controlling alcohol, in that in restaurants where mixed beverages are served, brown bagging would no longer be allowed under state law.
4. A progressive law for a progressive city.
5. A better environment for restaurants, thus, better restaurants.
6. For those who choose to drink, the freedom to drink the beverage of their choice in small doses, without having to illegally carry an opened whiskey bottle around.

In no way do we support the establishment of walk-in bars and taverns, serving mixed beverages. The referendum that the citizens of Greenville will decide will allow established, sit-down restaurants to apply for mixed beverages licenses so that their customers may choose to have a drink along with a meal.

We urge your support for the referendum on February 17.

Interest Limit Denied By S&L Commission

By STEVEN M. EAMES
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The state Savings and Loan Commission rejected a proposal Thursday that would have given it the power to stop savings and loans from paying more than 6 percent in interest-bearing checking accounts.

The commission debated for nearly an hour before denying itself preview power over negotiable order of withdrawal (NOW) accounts.

The proposal would have required all savings and loan associations wanting to pay more than 6 percent on NOW accounts to clear their proposed interest rates with commission administrator William L. Cole.

Commission chairman W.F. McCray, after several minutes of fervent consultation with other commission members and the commission staff, refused to break a 2-2 tie vote on the measure, effectively killing it.

confusing to me," said Cole. Harold Ausley, president of the Association of State Chartered Thrift Institutions, told the commission that S&Ls are already paying much higher interest rates on money market certificates than are proposed for the NOW accounts.

"If we can survive a money market certificate, we can survive and pay a little bit more than 5.25 percent," he said.

Ausley estimated that the higher-paying money market certificates currently make up around 30 percent of S&L deposits and could climb eventually to as high as 40 percent of deposits.

Originally, the proposed NOW rule would have required S&Ls to clear with the commission any interest rates on NOW accounts above 5.25 percent. But that was amended during debate to 6 percent, the interest most such institutions pay on passbook accounts, on a 3-2 vote.

The commission considered the rule even though Attorney General Rufus Edmisten's office had issued an opinion that the measure would be outside the commission's legal authority. Church presented private legal opinions that disagreed with the attorney general's stand.

Several times during the debate, savings and loan executives and commission members referred to the complexity of interest-bearing checking accounts, which S&Ls have been allowed to offer under federal rules only recently.

"Not everybody is going to be happy," McCray said, urging those in favor of the rule to take it up with the Legislature.

Most of those in the hearing room had opposed the amendment to the commission rules. Only commissioners Walter Church and D.T. Robbins, both of whom voted for the measure, spoke in its favor.

North Carolina now has no legal limits on what state-chartered savings and loans can pay on NOW accounts.

"I think there's an obligation to protect the people in the savings and loan associations of North Carolina," said Church, who expressed fear some financially shaky S&Ls might be tempted to offer more interest on NOW accounts than they could pay.

"The only ones I'm concerned with are the ones who can't afford to pay," said Church, adding later, "I just don't see how this is going to affect any sound, safe, well-managed associations."

Church also said the rules change would give Cole more tools to do his job.

Cole also questioned whether the rule would be in the best interest of depositors. "You're trying to protect the depositor by paying him less money — and that's

Evangelist Recalls His Rough-And-Tumble Era

By BRYNA BRENNAN Associated Press Writer
RODERFIELD, W.Va. (AP) - Ronnie McKenzie says his switch from gun-toting politician to Bible-toting evangelist was the transformation of a bad guy into "a butterfly."

"I was a rough person. If you stepped on my toe I'd shoot you in a minute," he says, recalling his days in the rough-and-tumble world of southern West Virginia's coalfield politics. But he says that's all changed now that he's an evangelist spreading the Gospel message. "There's a lot of people out there who need help and need the Lord," he says.

Although McKenzie says he'll never revert to his old ways, he acknowledges that he sometimes misses his colorful past.

That past included two terms in the state House of Delegates, and then four stormy years as a McDowell County commissioner. It also included impeachment proceedings that resulted in his ouster from the commission in 1978.

Looking back on himself in the 1970s, McKenzie sees "a man after power and money."

"I wore diamond rings on all my fingers. I drove Cadillacs, and I drank the best vodka money can buy." The vodka became an obsession, he said.

"I was an alcoholic. It was a very well-kept secret. My boy would bring back cases of it," the 44-year-old storeowner said.

"It used to be that if I had on my pants I had in this gun," McKenzie added, suddenly producing a .38-caliber pistol from a drawer directly underneath the Bible on his desk top. "I killed a man one time who broke into this store."

But it wasn't the drinking or the rough living that resulted in his impeachment and ended his political career, McKenzie said. "Back then I was a real direct, honest person. I spent $9,300 with McKenzie's (his own) store and I told everyone. They said it was a conflict of interest."

McKenzie was the first of several McDowell commissioners to be ousted, a process he compares to the fall of dominoes. "You stand 'em up, knock 'em over and they all fall. This is like a new game. People didn't know you could do this. Now, if you say 'No' to them, they get four people and sign a petition and it's all over."

Such thoughts were far from McKenzie's mind when he entered politics 10 long years ago. In fact, he said, he did it on a lark.

"I was sitting at my desk and it was income tax paying time and I wrote a check. I got irritated, and without saying anything, I got up and went to the courthouse and registered."

He was elected to the House in 1970 and re-elected two years later.

"I don't think I was a success," he said, laughing as he recalled his life as a legislator.

"You do more personal favors than anything else. You help people get their welfare, workmen's compensation, free football tickets. You know what I mean."

He said he always wanted to serve the people, but his efforts were thwarted by his own mistakes and the efforts of those he calls the "money people."

"Your money people control the Legislature. McDowell County, we're still behind. The Free State of McDowell' is on the tail end of the state as far as counties go. I had wanted to make it a showplace."

McKenzie grinned impishly as he recounted his days in politics, but his eyes opened wide with wonder when he told how he found God.

"It was Sept. 9, last year, I was coming up Premier Mountain and all of a sudden I knew I was dying. I knew I had to change and I knew I couldn't do it myself.

"I'm an evangelist now...I'll never go back."

Looking DOWN at the MOUTH, lately?

There is a very sound reason for this fellow to look down at the mouth. He's a hippopotamus — and that's exactly how a hippo is supposed to look.

But what accounts for people looking down-at-the-mouth... sometimes?

It's usually because they aren't satisfied with being what they are. They wish life could have given them a different break. If only circumstances hadn't conspired...

That's no reason at all for looking hippo-like. Man has resources that can overcome his discontent. He has spiritual potential that can alter his life, make him a different person, conquer every conspiracy of circumstance.

Now is an ideal time to start looking up-from-the-heart. At church you'll experience a different approach to life. The cheerfulness that can brighten life flourishes on faith.

Three Charged With Break-Ins

Three local men have been arrested in connection with a series of break-ins here February 8 and 9, according to Police Department Capt. John Briley.

The officer reported Raymond Earl Wooten, 30 of 201 Wade St., and Gary Freeman, 24 of 414B Tyson St. have been charged with breaking and entering in connection with break-ins at South Greenville School Monday, and Harris' Cash and Carry on Dickinson Ave. on Sunday, and with breaking, entering and larceny of the FCX on Line Avenue on Sunday.

He noted that Lynn Toby Hamilton, 23 of 1001 Colonial Ave. has been charged in connection with the Harris and FCX cases.

Briley said entrance to the FCX building was gained through a rear window, and noted that a number of tools were taken. Entrance to the Harris building was gained by cutting a hole in the roof. Although nothing was taken, a quantity of meat, cigarettes and shampoo was gathered up to be removed from the building.

Entrance to South Greenville School, where a number of rooms were ransacked, was through a window, Briley said.

The officer noted that Wooten and Freeman were arrested by police on breaking and entering charges after officers found them inside a fenced-in area at the Carolina Telephone & Telegraph Co. work center on Chestnut Street early Monday morning.

Bond for the three has been set at $1,000 on each of the charges.

SUNBELT PORK PROFIT BUILDER CLINIC HELD — A day-long clinic for pork producers was held in Greenville Thursday, providing around ten speakers from agricultural organizations such as Norden Laboratories and American Hoechst Corporation. A group of approximately 135 persons from a radius of over 200 miles attended the meeting, sponsored by the Southern Hog Producer magazine. Bill Moorman of Northrup King &

Company, above, spoke to the afternoon crowd about profitable corn production. Other topics covered in the clinic included "Atrophic Rhinitis and Pseudorabies Update," "Sulfer Residues — What's the real story?," "External Parasites," and Vitamin Fortification of Swine Rations." This was the third year the clinic has been held in Greenville. (Reflector Photo By Mary Schulken)

Birthday Of Bess Truman

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP) — Bess Truman, the nation's oldest former first lady, will spend her birthday with a few friends in the Victorian mansion where she was born 96 years ago today.

"We'll have a little surprise party for her, like we've had every year," laughed Valerie LaMere, live-in companion for the widow of President Harry S. Truman. "It's hardly a surprise anymore."

Mrs. LaMere said the 10 guests invited for cake, ice cream and punch include household employees; Secret Service agents who maintain an around-the-clock watch from a house across Delaware Street; Mrs. Truman's sister-in-law, Mary Wallace; and her two hairdressers.

Margaret Truman Daniel, who is Mrs. Truman's only child, was not expected to make the trip from New York but the Secret Service said she would probably telephone her mother.

Her friends have bought "a special gift," Mrs. LaMere said. "She's in beautiful spirits," she added, "very alert."

Mrs. Truman, confined to a wheelchair, has been home just three weeks after a 26-day hospital stay for treatment of a urinary tract condition and skin irritation. She seldom ventures from her home.

Kills Orangutan After Attack

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — The orangutan that kissed and tried to molest a young woman in a Borneo village has been killed, the Antara news agency said.

It reported Thursday that the ape grabbed the woman as she was undressing to bathe in a river, she screamed and fainted, and the orangutan fled.

The agency said today that one of the villagers who came to the woman's rescue tracked the orangutan in the jungle and shot and killed it.

Historic Silver Pen Is Missing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Museum officials have reported the disappearance of a silver pen that Secretary of State John Hay used in signing the Treaty of Paris of 1898, which ended the Spanish-American War.

The 7 1/4-inch, steel-tipped pen, which has a silver handle of scroll design, was found to be missing from the Smithsonian Institution's National Museum of American History on Tuesday, one day after the pen was photographed. The pen's green leather case with silver plaque was not missing.

A Smithsonian spokesman said the pen had "considerable historic value," but he declined to estimate its monetary value.

Income averaging can save you money. But only if you make more than $30,000 a year.

True  False

What you don't know about income averaging could cost you money.

H&R Block knows that no matter how much you make, if your income went up substantially last year you may be able to income average. We'll take advantage of this if it's to your benefit. The answer is FALSE, since there is no minimum amount of income required to qualify.

To The Citizens of Greenville:

We believe that it is time for Greenville citizens to stand up and vote for those activities, programs and facilities that make our community a better place to live...like better schools, recreation facilities, slum clearance, good planning, orderly growth, etc....and to vote against any issue that does not build pride in our community!

We believe that "liquor-by-the-drink" will lead to greater alcohol consumption and its related problems, and will not build pride in our community.

We urge all citizens to examine this issue carefully, as it reflects on the pride we have in Greenville, and vote accordingly.

We plan to cast our vote for community pride by voting against liquor-by-the-drink.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market drifted lower today amid growing concern over inflation and high interest rates.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials fell 1.87 to 934.73.

Losers held a more than 7-5 edge over gainers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Indications of a strong economy in spite of high interest rates has increased investor worries about the ability of President Reagan and the Federal Reserve Board to fight inflation, said Monte Gordon of Dreyfus Corp. He said there is a perception that interest rates will stay high and may go even higher.

The stock market will be closed for a holiday Monday and trading was light Thursday because many banks were closed for a holiday. In addition, analysts say they expect investment activity to be sluggish until President Reagan submits his economic program to Congress on Wednesday.

Pirates Embarrassed By Hornets, 68-63

High School Tankers Invade Minges For Meet

East Carolina University will play host to the 26th annual Atlantic Seaboard Swimming and Diving Championships tonight and Saturday.

The event gets underway tonight at 6:30 p.m. with the one-meter diving trials. On Saturday, trials get underway in the swimming competition at 8:30 a.m., and the finals will begin at 5:30 p.m. All of the activities take place in the Minges Aquatic Center.

A total of 10 swimming events, plus the diving, will be held for boys, and a similar number will be held for girls.

"Our number of entries is down somewhat this year," ECU swim coach and meet director Ray Scharf said. In the last few years, attendance had grown to over 300 swimmers. This year, the registration is just below 300.

"We are hurt by Virginia holding its state meet the same weekend," Scharf pointed out. "That, plus the higher cost of travel is cutting into the meet."

Still, some of the top competitors along the East Coast are expected to take part in the meet, with the defending champions in both the girls and boys divisions in attendance.

"While the numbers are down, the quality is up, and we look for some outstanding races. I look for a number of the meet records to be broken."

ECU-NCS Game To Be On Air

The East Carolina-N.C. State women's basketball game, to be played in Raleigh on Wednesday, will be carried locally over WOOW radio, it was announced last night.

Air time for the contest is 7:10 p.m., with the game starting at 7:30 p.m. in Reynolds Coliseum. Jim Woods will handle the play-by-play.

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

A few years ago, East Carolina University offered a money-back guarantee at one of its basketball games. If you didn't like what you saw, you could get your money back.

It's a good thing it wasn't offered last night: there would have been a stampede on the ticket office. What the Pirate fans saw, those 1,000 of them that showed up, certainly wasn't worth the price of admission.

East Carolina, gunning for a real chance to have a winning season, embarrassed itself, losing to Delaware State, 68-63. Delaware State, prior to the contest, had won only six of 19 games, and had lost to lowly Baptist College of Charleston, 61-60.

"If I've ever seen a team win that deserved it, I saw it tonight," a thoroughly disgusted ECU Coach Dave Odom said afterwards. "And they won it in an almost inhuman way. I'm almost glad it happened. If there is any justice they had to win."

"I'm not glad that we lost but if this is what it takes to wake us up, then there's got to be some good to come of it."

Odom went on to say that the Pirates lost the game during the first five minutes of practice on Wednesday. "I don't know why, it just happened. It was the worst practice of the year. Maybe we've been too nice to them (the players). Maybe they've traveled to well and gotten treated too well on those trips. Maybe they should have to earn things like that."

Odom added that it was the first time in his two years at East Carolina that the Pirates have lost in Minges to a team they should have beaten.

But he couldn't say whether it was the worst the Pirates have played. "We've had a couple of bad games, but we've won. What gets me is that effort isn't like hot and cold water: you can't turn it off and on. People who have to work to get up for a game will never be winners. And it was obvious that most of this group was not up for the game," he said.

Obviously, the Pirates weren't ready. And just as obviously, Delaware State was.

The Hornets led from the opening tipoff. They scored first, allowed East Carolina to tie it up, 2-2 and 6-6, then began to pull away. They made their first big break after pushing out into a five-point lead. East Carolina cut it back to three, 18-15, but Delaware State pushed through the next nine in a row to take an 11-point lead.

Jeffrey Gumbs started the string with a three-point play, and John Wright hit from the corner, then tapped in another shot. Erik Donaldson finished off the string with two free throws, making it 27-15.

East Carolina rallied behind the play of Tom Szymanski, David Underwood and Charlie Watkins to cut the lead back to five before Delaware State took a 36-30 lead into intermission.

The Hornets quickly put the lead back to ten, scoring the first two baskets of the second half, and slowly stretched it out to as much as 13-, 48-35 with 14:08 left in the period.

East Carolina then started a rally with Michael Gibson and Bill McNair leading the way. Finally, a tap-in by Gibson cut it to three, 54-51 with 6:58 left.

The Pirates had three more opportunities to cut the lead to one, but failed each time, either missing or turning it over. That allowed the Hornets to pull back out to a seven points lead, 58-51.

Still, the Pirates came back once more, as Gibson hit two free throws and Herb Gilchrist struck from the lane, cutting the lead to only one, 62-61.

But with only 45 seconds left, the Pirates were forced to foul, and then failed to hit most of the rest of the way, and the Hornets dumped in four free throws, and connected on one basket to wrap up the win. Joel Coppadge hit the first two free throws, running it to 64-61 with 32 seconds left, and Wright followed with a basket 17 seconds later. Gumbs finished it off with two free throws with two seconds left.

Wright led the Hornet scoring with 22 points, while Albert Anderson had 18 and Gumbs had 12. East Carolina was led by McNair with 15, Gibson with 14 and Watkins with 12.

The Pirates shot only 44.6 percent from the floor, while Delaware State hit on 45.0 percent. East Carolina enjoyed a 40-32 rebound advantage, but many times, the Hornets collected offensive rebounds to come away with scores, several times having as many as four shots at the basket.

East Carolina was also hurt by having four more turnovers than did the Hornets.

Asked if there were any bright spots, Odom admitted that McNair played well offensively, scoring on seven of ten shots from the floor. Gibson, who pulled down 11 rebounds, enjoyed a six for ten night.

"We've had a lot of good things said about us in the last year and a half," Odom said. "Now we will probably have a lot of bad things said. I can handle it. I told them (the players) to expect it and we deserve it. Nice things said about you don't win games, effort wins."

"I can only do my share. I believe I can coach them to win, but I can't pump 'em full of adrenalin and make 'em win. It takes three things and I can do two of them. I can tell 'em, I can show 'em, but I can't get out there and do it for 'em in the game. They have to do that themselves."

"And they can't blame each other for this. We've all got to share the blame and accept our share of it."

Odom said that the loss, which drops the Pirates to 11-12 for the year, doesn't rule out a winning season. "We still have three games left, and I think we are capable of winning all three games. But it won't be easy."

Especially if the Pirates play like they did last night.

They return to action on Monday, closing out the home season against UNC-Wilmington. The other games are road dates at Richmond and Illinois State, on the last two Saturdays of the month.

Steelwheels In Finale

The Greenville Steelwheels wind up the regular season Saturday night, playing host to the Asheville Skywheels.

Greenville goes into the game with an 8-10 record in the Carolinas Wheelchair League, and still has a shot at third place for the league tournament. Asheville is 0-18, and a sweep by the Steelwheels could up them to 10-10. Charlotte, currently in third, is 10-8, but faces Palmetto, 14-4, in its final outing on Saturday. Should the two end up tied, Greenville would get third seeding since it won three of four against Charlotte.

The first game starts at 7 p.m. and the second at 9 in Elm Street Gymnasium.

Woody Peele

It begins to look more and more like East Carolina's hopes of forming a new conference for basketball, baseball and several other sports may have to wait another year or more.

Earlier, East Carolina Athletic Director Dr. Ken Karr said that something must be done by February 15 in order to allow the schools who might be participating to get their schedules together for the coming season. Now, we understand, that deadline has been extended to around March 1, another two weeks away.

The question seems now to revolve around Old Dominion.

A year ago, the league came very, very close to becoming a real thing. The schools were on the verge of announcing that it had been formed when William & Mary's trustees drew back, asking for another look. At that time, the league would have been composed of East Carolina, William & Mary, Old Dominion, Richmond, James Madison and Navy.

After that, Navy looked elsewhere, and reportedly has opted for another group, which will get started next year.

So when things got going again, a new sixth member was needed. Talks with several schools have been underway, and reports are that Navy was re-contacted, along with Virginia Military, George Mason, Davidson, UNC-Wilmington and possibly UNC-Charlotte.

According to reports now reaching Greenville, VMI and Navy said they weren't interested. Charlotte, in the Sun Belt Conference, appears to be wanting to stay there — at least for the time being. There is some feeling that if a new conference were established first, then Charlotte might be willing to join after two years. Davidson, we understand, wanted VMI and Furman to come with it, should it bolt the Southern.

That leaves George Mason, currently a member of the ECAC's dissolving Southern Division, along with most of the other proposed members of the new league, and Wilmington, an independent. However, sources say that Old Dominion is not that interested in either George Mason or Wilmington, because of their lack of name. They would have preferred VMI or Navy — neither of which appear interested.

That would seem to put the group back to square one, with both George Mason and Wilmington on the outside, hoping for a second chance.

There are media pressures in Norfolk trying to keep Old Dominion, whose name wasn't that well known just a few years back, from joining the proposed league, advising seeking membership in the Sun Belt. However, we question that move. The Sun Belt is already wide spread, from New Orleans to Tampa to Richmond. Travel expenses are growing more difficult all the time, and we certainly can argue that ECU, Wilmington, or another of the other teams proposed would bring in larger gates, and be less expensive to visit that New Orleans, South Alabama, Georgia Southern and the like.

We are still keeping our fingers crossed that something will happen to get the league on its feet. As Chancellor Tom Brewer said last night, "I'm not pessimistic, but I'm not as optimistic as I was."

Bethel Race Saturday

BETHEL — The Coastal Carolina Track Club will hold the Bethel Ten-Mile Race this Saturday. In addition, a 3½-mile cross-country race is planned.

Registration will be held from 7:30 to 9:30 a.m. at the Bethel Elementary School gymnasium. The ten-mile race will get underway at 10 a.m. at Oak City. The cross-country meet starts at 11:30 a.m.

The races are open to all participants of all ages.

Beavers Blister Oregon, 78-61

By JOHN NELSON
AP Sports Writer

Coach Ralph Miller believes his undefeated Oregon State Beavers have reached a peak, and they appear well on their way to becoming the most efficient scoring machine ever in college basketball.

The Beavers hit 72 percent from the floor, including nine of their first 10 shots, Thursday night to beat Oregon 78-61.

It was Oregon State's seventh 60 percent-plus game this season, and the Beavers now are shooting nearly 58 percent as a team. The season field goal percentage record is 57.2 by Missouri, set last year.

In addition, 6-foot-10½ senior Steve Johnson is taking aim at a pair of individual marks. Johnson, who paced the Beavers with 20 points against cross-state rival Oregon, is hitting field goals at a rate of more than 76 percent, five points better than his NCAA record of 71 percent set last season. And he currently has a 67.2 career percentage pace that threatens to beat Bill Walton's record of 65.1.

"I think we have progressed as far as we can," Miller said nonchalantly, adding he was particularly pleased with the play of Jeff Stout, who hit eight of nine field goal attempts for 18 points. "The only weak link we have, we have had for some time. That's Jeff, and he's come back out of the doldrums."

The victory gave Oregon State a 20-0 record, 12-0 in the Pacific-10 Conference.

The Beavers hit nine of their first 13 shots of the second half to lead 53-36 with 14 minutes to play. Felton Sealey topped Oregon with 12 points.

Beavers guard Mark Radford, who added 13 points, was wondering when the skeptics would be silent.

"People have been criticizing our play, and tonight I think we dug down and played well," he said. "Oregon is a tough team at home."

In other games involving Top 10 teams, fifth-ranked Arizona

State downed Southern Cal 77-61, sixth-ranked Utah beat San Diego State 82-53 and eighth-rated UCLA defeated Arizona 90-79.

Elsewhere, it was Ohio State 105, No. 13 Michigan 87; No. 14 Iowa 60, Minnesota 58 in overtime; No. 16 Wichita State 87, Bradley 65; No. 17 Illinois 84, Wisconsin 65; South Florida 70, No. 18 South Alabama 52; No. 19 Maryland 72, Clemson 70, and No. 20 Indiana 86, Northwestern 52.

Byron Scott scored 19 points, and Arizona State outscored Southern Cal 25-10 over the final 10 minutes of the first half to break open a close ballgame. Southern Cal cut a 41-25 halftime deficit to nine points, 61-52, with 4:34 to play, but Arizona State outscored the Trojans 10-3 in the final two minutes.

Forward Sam Williams added 16 points for Arizona State, now 19-2 and second to Oregon State in the Pac-10 with an 11-1 record.

Danny Vranes, a member of the 1980 U.S. Olympic team, scored 18 points and grabbed nine rebounds to pace Utah over San Diego State in the Western Athletic Conference. Utah scored eight straight points, beginning at 7:22 of the second half, to break open a one-point game and lead 54-45.

Sophomore guard Michael Holton scored a career-high 24 points as UCLA downed Arizona in another Pac-10 contest. Holton and forward Mike Sanders led a 12-3 run that gave UCLA a 81-69 lead with 4½ minutes to play. Cliff Pruitt scored 17 points and Sanders and Rod Foster had 16 each.

Todd Penn, a 5-9 guard, and 6-10 Herb Williams both scored 24 points to lead Ohio State to its lopsided victory over Michigan in the Big Ten Conference. Clark Kellogg added 22 points for Ohio State. Mike McGee scored 37 points to become the all-time scoring kind for Michigan with 2,192 points, surpassing the mark of 2,164 by Cazzie Russell.

In another Big Ten game, Steve Kracisin and Ken Arnold hit baskets late in the overtime period to pace Iowa over Minnesota. Arnold's driving layup gave the Hawkeyes a 60-56 lead.

Fred Roberts scored 24 points and was 7-of-8 from the free throw line in the last four minutes as Brigham Young kept a step ahead of Hawaii after the Rainbows had pulled to within one point, 64-63, with five minutes remaining.

Antoine Carr scored 20 points to lead a balanced Wichita State attack, and the Shockers claimed their 10th straight victory by beating Bradley in the Missouri Valley Conference.

Eddie Johnson's 20 points boosted Illinois over Wisconsin in the Big Ten, and Vince Reynolds hit 21 points as South Florida upended South Alabama in the Sun Belt Conference.

Ernie Graham's shot at the buzzer lifted Maryland over Clemson in the Atlantic Coast Conference, and Randy Witman hit for 18 points, 14 in the first half, to help Indiana over Northwestern in the Big Ten.

Maryland Nips Clemson, 72-70

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — Albert King's final shot was his worst of the game, but Ernie Graham grabbed the rebound and scored at the buzzer to give 19th-ranked Maryland a 72-70 victory over Clemson Thursday night.

"He threw a brick up there, it didn't even hit the rim," said Clemson Coach Bill Foster after the Atlantic Coast Conference contest. And, King had to agree.

"I did," said the Maryland senior, who scored 28 points. "But we won, that's what counts. I'd shoot it again as long as we win the game."

Graham, who scored 17 points, said the final play, set up during a timeout with 12 seconds remaining, was designed to go to King.

"If he wasn't fouled he was to shoot with about four or five seconds to go," Graham said. "Me and Buck (Williams) were to crash the boards. I was fortunate enough to have it come into my hands. I didn't have to do anything."

Fred Gilliam of Clemson said when King went up for the shot, guarded by two Tigers beyond the foul circle, "I looked over my left shoulder and no one was there. If the ball had hit the rim, I'd have had it. I was in good position. But it hit the backboard and went into his hands."

Foster saw it another way. "Fred looked at the ball instead of boxing out," he said.

The Terps, now 16-6 including 6-4 in the ACC, overcame a 61-54 deficit in the final 11 minutes as King and Graham combined for 24 of Maryland's 34 second-half points.

After a 12-2 string gave Maryland a 66-63 lead, Clemson twice rallied and took the lead for the last time at 69-68 on a basket by Chris Dadds.

King's field goal with 2:03 remaining gave Maryland a 70-69 lead and Vince Hamilton tied it for the Tigers when he made one of two free throws with 1:45 left. Maryland controlled the ball the rest of the way, setting up the shot by King.

Clemson, now 17-7 and 5-5 in league competition, was led by Larry Nance with 18 points. The Tigers, who led by as many as 11 points in the first half, also had 12 by Dadds and 10 by Fred Gilliam.

Maryland had lost three of its last five, including two in a row.

Watson, Lietzke Tied

HONOLULU (AP) — Bruce Lietzke shot 66, was tied for the first round lead in the Hawaiian Open and was just as pleased as could be.

Tom Watson shot 66, was tied for the first round lead in the Hawaiian Open and wasn't pleased at all.

"It's pretty incredible, but it's fun," Lietzke said Thursday after running his string of consecutive rounds at par or better to 15.

"I'm just going to continue to keep on playing and see how long I can run this streak."

And, while Watson had the same score, his reaction was the other side of the coin.

"I played like a clown," said the man who has led the PGA Tour in money winnings and been named golf's Player of the Year for the past four seasons.

"The results were great but the execution was poor."

"Nothing is working in my swing. I don't really know what it is. I think it's tempo. I'm too fast. It's just something I have to work out."

"It's one of those things that you go through. All you can do is work on it and hope it doesn't last too long."

Tied with Lietzke, a two-time winner already this year, and Watson were Jay Haas, Scott Simpson and Jon Chaffee, also at 6 under par on the 6,881 yard

Waialae Country Club course that Watson said "played about as easy as it can. I'm just surprised the scores weren't even lower."

A single stroke off the lead at 67 were Don January, Terry Diehl, Pat McGowan, Doug Tewell, Bill Kratzert and Terry Mauney.

The big group at 68 included Hale Irwin, Ben Crenshaw, John Mahaffey, Ed Sneed, Jim Simons, Leonard Thompson, Don Bies and Bruce Douglass.

Andy Bean was another shot back at 69, 3 under par but well off the devastating pace he set last year when he shot a tournament record 22 under.

Top 4 Advance

CLEMSON, S.C. (AP) — Clemson, Virginia, Maryland and North Carolina State.

The four top-seeded teams advanced to the semi-finals of the fourth annual Atlantic Coast Conference women's basketball tournament with opening day wins here Thursday.

The top-seeded Lady Tigers defeated Wake Forest 90-58. Virginia took Georgia Tech 61-49, Maryland trounced Duke 72-49 and N.C. State eliminated North Carolina 77-64.

Ranked 19th in the nation, Clemson plays No. 13 N.C. State at 7 p.m. EST, and 12th-ranked Maryland takes on No. 16 Virginia at 9 p.m.

Trudy Lacey scored 20 points and was one of four N.C. State players in double figures as the Wolf Pack beat the Tar Heels for the 17th straight time. Meredith White scored 14 points for the Tar Heels, who outrebounded the Pack 42-34.

White had a game-high 10 rebounds.

Maryland and Duke had a slow first half with both teams scoring a total of 40 points.

But in the first four minutes of the final period, the Terps outscored Duke 15-2 with Lydia McAliley and Marcia Richardson getting two baskets apiece. That gave the Terps a 21-point lead, 39-18, and Maryland stayed over 20 points ahead the final 12 minutes of the game, except twice briefly when Duke cut the margin to 19.

Duke had its only lead early in the contest at 9-7. Leading scorer for the Terps was Myra Waters with 19, followed by McAliley with 16. Barbara Krause led Duke with 14 points.

Clemson's Barbara Kennedy scored 30 points to tie the record set by Tara Heiss of Maryland against N.C. State in the 1978 finals.

Clemson set a tournament record by grabbing 68 rebounds, and Kennedy broke an individual record by snagging 21 rebounds. The Lady Tigers tied another tournament record with 88 field goal attempts.

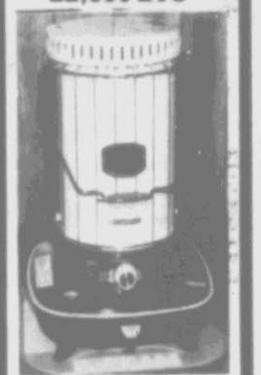

Clemson's biggest lead of the game was 37 points, 86-49, when Celia Slater hit from the baseline with 1:48 remaining. Behind Kennedy in scoring for Clemson were Annette Wise with 14 and Slater with 12.

Barbara Buchanon was the only Lady Deacon in double figures with 12 points.

Virginia scored the first four points and were never headed in its game with Georgia Tech. The Cavaliers led by nine points four times in the first half before settling for a 32-25 halftime lead.

Jill McKone scored 12 points to lead Virginia, and Kate Brandt pumped in 18 for Tech.

Allison, Waltrip Capture Preliminaries

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — There has been considerable speculation this week that Sunday's Daytona 500 stock car race will be a battle between Bobby Allison and Darrell Waltrip.

Neither driver did anything to dispel that notion Thursday as each won one of the Uno Twain 125-mile qualifying races at Daytona International Speedway.

Allison dominated the first race in his controversial Pontiac LeMans, while Waltrip was roundly criticized for his tactics in driving his Buick Regal past Benny Parsons' Ford Thunderbird in the last 200 yards of the second race.

That set up a showdown between the fastest qualifiers for the $780,000 race, each of whom has won two of the first four competitive events of the young NASCAR Grand National season.

Allison piloted a car the other drivers say is too fast to catch, and Waltrip was accused of nearly causing an accident in his quest for victory.

"Darrell done some of the stupidest things today I've ever seen in racing," said six-time Daytona 500 winner Richard Petty. "It's a good thing Benny has enough sense to back off and let him (Waltrip) go ahead with something like that."

Petty, who finished fourth in the second race, was in perfect position to see Waltrip go to the apron and squeeze leader Parsons up the track as they raced around the Speedway's tri-oval for the final time.

Waltrip won the 50-lap event by less than a car length.

"If he wants to win races that bad," Petty said, "I'll back off and let him win them...he ain't going out there and endangering my life like that."

Waltrip, who averaged 152.905 mph to collect $12,000 in prize money, would not respond to Petty's remarks. Earlier, he said air currents from his passing car helped push Parsons to the right after the latter had moved left to block his path.

Parsons, however, did not agree.

"I took the inside lane away from him, but he went down there anyway," said Parsons. "He was going to crash 12 cars, and before I'd let that happen I just turned right and let him go."

Parsons said he would "run on the apron if it is necessary to win" Sunday.

There was little controversy over the running of the first race. Allison, despite three accident-caused caution flags which slowed the field for 13 laps, averaged 151.210 mph.

The speed of his sleek car, with its sloped rear window, was impressive because Waltrip was forced to run two fewer laps under caution.

"Having a Waddell Wilson engine is a definitely an advantage," said Allison of his team's engine builder. "We thought we'd run well and we did."

Although his victory came under a caution flag, Allison was tested. Neil Bonnett, driving a Thunderbird, and John Anderson, in an Oldsmobile, drafted immediately behind him for much of the race.

But Anderson lost control of his car entering the back straight on the 2½-mile, high-banked oval and flipped over six times before coming to rest on his roof in the infield.

Anderson was one of six drivers, three in each race, to crash. Four of the six lost control coming out of turn two.

Neither Anderson, Connie Saylor — whose car became airborne and slid halfway down the back straight on its top — nor any of the other drivers were seriously injured.

Waltrip later called for NAS-CAR to permit the teams to put more glass into the side windows of the cars. He said they become airborne because too much air is entering through the side openings.

"You can see these guys coming right off the ground," he said. "They aren't supposed to do that."

Allison said he could see Anderson "was going for a 25-cent circus ride."

But both drivers said the raised rear spoilers, agreed to earlier in the week by NAS-CAR, made the cars somewhat safer despite the accidents.

Waltrip said he would turn his attention to "staying with the 28 (Allison's car) on Sunday."

Paladins Pound Baby Bishops

FARMVILLE — Pitt Community College captured its 15th victory last night, downing the North Carolina Wesleyan junior varsity in a game played at Farmville Middle School, 95-72.

The Paladins led most of the way, but it was close throughout the first half, which ended with Pitt ahead, 37-30.

"Playing at the Middle School caused us some problems," Coach Linwood Woodward said. "They have a short court, and that cut down on some of the passing lanes, and a lot of passes that normally would have been okay went out of bounds."

"We were also unable to get our fast break going early, and had to go to a pressing game to get into the transition game. Once we were able to get the SNOW HILL — Mike Cole scored 14 points and Kenneth Williams added 11 to lead Snow Hill past Chicod, 48-44, Thursday in a junior high basketball game.

Snow Hill's girls also won, defeating Chicod, 35-22, behind Cyndi Hicks' 23 points. Chicod's girls did not have anyone in double figures.

Chicod's boys were led by Steve Mills' 19 points and Leonard Johnson's 12.

FARMVILLE — Gentry Sneed pumped in 20 points and Vernon Patrick added 18 as Wellcome Middle School defeated Farmville, 63-59, Thursday to win the Pitt-Greene Conference title.

Wellcome, now 7-0 with one game remaining, also got 14 points from Derrick Blount, Ronnie Barnes had 24 points and Bryan Cobb, 14, for Yesterday's Cryptquip — BUS STRIKE STRUCK STRICT BOSS AS A COMMUTER TRICK.

Today's Cryptquip clue: T equals D

The Cryptquip is a simple substitution cipher in which each letter used stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words, and words using an apostrophe can give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is accomplished by trial and error.

Oscar Award To Henry Fonda

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — After a half-century in show business, 75-year-old actor Henry Fonda will at last claim an Oscar.

Special Academy Awards have been given to Fonda, "The Empire Strikes Back" and the inventor of an air gun that shoots knives, arrows and spears, it was announced Thursday.

In honoring Fonda, the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences termed him "the consummate actor" who has made "brilliant accomplishments and enduring contributions to the art of motion pictures."

The special Oscars will be presented during the annual Academy Awards gala March 30. Nominations for best picture, actor, director and other creative awards will be announced Tuesday.

Hasty Pudding Honor to MTM

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Hasty she wasn't, but actress Mary Tyler Moore got Harvard's pudding pot anyway.

The newest Hasty Pudding Theatricals' Woman of the Year showed up for the award ceremony a day late Thursday after stormy weather hampered her efforts to catch a flight to Massachusetts.

Hasty Pudding bills itself as the oldest dramatic organization in the United States. In presenting Ms. Moore with the engraved pudding pot, the group hailed the actress as "one of the extraordinary people in the world."

The club jokingly said it had decided this year's award would have to go to a woman who had portrayed a dancing elf in an appliance commercial, a nun in an Elvis Presley movie and the role of a man in a Broadway show.

Ms. Moore declared it "the most wonderful day that I will remember forever." John Travolta is to receive this year's man of the year award Wednesday.

Film Story Of Chicago Clown

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Mickey Rooney, Anne Jackson and Red Buttons star in "Leave 'Em Laughing," the story of Jack Thum, a Chicago clown who cared for dozens of homeless children while struggling to find work in his profession.

The director is Jackie Cooper, who first worked with Rooney in 1935 in "The Devil Is a Sissy."

wife to the Kennedy Center for a performance by the Dance Theater of Harlem.

In between, an accumulation of 20 hours of videotape, the raw material for "A Day with President Reagan," to be broadcast Friday evening, 10-11 EST, as a special edition of "NBC Magazine with David Brinkley."

"People who wonder about these things want to know what the president is like, how he is taking hold of his job," said Paul Friedman, the series' producer, who accompanied Brinkley and five camera crews to the White House for the day-long visit.

"Doing it as early as we did," he said, "people are still curious about the man and how he works. But I think it's clear they're still shaking down their procedures, and six months from now, a lot about the way they run the place will be quite different."

The program is the third in what has become a series of "Day with the President" news specials on NBC. "A Day with President Carter" was broadcast four years ago, in April, and a similar "Day with President Nixon" was produced before that.

Friedman said the Reagan program developed as recently as the evening of Feb. 5, when the White House suggested to Lester Crystal, an NBC News executive there on other business, that the following Tuesday would be a good day for the visit.

It couldn't have worked out better for "NBC Magazine," which has struggled all season to build an audience opposite "Dallas," the highest-rated show of the TV year. "NBC Magazine" has been last in the prime-time ratings, or close to it, nearly every week.

"The day was devoted almost entirely to the economic package they are putting together," Friedman said, "and our program will fall midway between Reagan's address to the nation on the economy, last Wednesday, and his speech to Congress next Wednesday."

"We had five crews there, so while Reagan was doing one thing — for example, having breakfast with the labor leaders — his aides were meeting somewhere else, talking about the policy they are working on. We could cover both meetings."

An NBC News crew was with Reagan, for instance, when David Stockman, director of the Office of Management and Budget, told the president's Cabinet of social programs which would not be affected by budget cuts.

The story became the lead item on all three network newscasts that evening.

"The show will not be strictly chronological," Friedman said. "The economic program was the theme of the day, and we felt it would be more important to provide a clear sense of the development of that program as we observed it, rather than stick to a chronological format."

Thus Brinkley's interview with Reagan, which came toward the end of the president's day at the White House, will be used early in the program to help explain the material that will follow.

"I should say that the access they gave us was greater than we have had in the White House before," the producer said. "We were told to leave the room at certain times, but there was nothing malevolent about that."

"And there are some wonderfully candid moments."

"They made an audio tape of the day," Friedman said of the White House, "and said they would call us if they find any breach of security. I don't expect that to happen."

Dreams Come True For Ossie Davis And Ruby Dee

By VERNON SCOTT
UPI Hollywood Reporter
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) —
Ossie Davis and Ruby Dee's dreams will come true when their new PBS series make its debut Sunday evening. Married 32 years and the parents of three grown children, Ossie and Ruby have been as devoted to one another over the years as they have to show business.

The couple's 13 half-hour shows, titled "With Ossie and Ruby," are a culmination of a quarter-century of professional dedication and research.

For 25 years Ossie and Ruby have toured the country playing theaters, colleges, churches, union halls, weddings and funerals with one of the most original and difficult acts in show business.

They are essentially story tellers who recite folk tales, poetry and anecdotes taken principally from the works of black writers who, in many cases, are little known to the black and white communities.

Among their favorites are Carolyn M. Rogers, Toni Cade Bambara, Rosa Guy, Langston Hughes, Phillis Wheatley, Paul Lawrence Dunbar and Sterling Brown.

The Davises, who make their home in New Rochelle, N.Y., are currently touring the country to promote "With Ossie and Ruby." They stopped in Hollywood to appear on talk shows to generate interest in their series.

"There's a body of black literature out there that has contributed significantly to American culture," Ossie said. "And that's what we're trying to get across as entertainingly as we can."

"In many ways it's different from white literature because men like Hughes and Brown wrote 'blackly.' That is to say, they used the blues musical form as a literary device to create a poetic form."

"It's like blues music — concise, non-sentimental, tough and lyric. There's a special quality of sound and rhythm when it's read aloud that equates with blues music. It is spoken in syn-copation."

Ruby nodded agreement and said, "The essence of our show is entertainment. But it will be a revelation to many, many viewers. It's a TV original. I've never seen anything like it on the tube."

"Each show is different. The first is a pastiche of poetry, from one-liners to excerpts, sketches and an original song that I wrote myself. The second is a dramatization of two short stories by Langston Hughes."

"The third is a visit to the home of the poet Sterling Brown. This project is very close to us. Our son, Guy, wrote the musical theme for the series and our daughter, Nora, is one of the associate producers."

"The series is a culmination of what we've been doing almost all our lives. We began performing literary works as an alternative means of making a living when Hollywood and New York weren't hiring us."

Ruby is diminutive, pretty and bright. Ossie is physically imposing — big, graying at the temples and possessed of a rich, sonorous bass voice. They are singularly articulate and knowledgeable about black literature.

Ossie took over, saying, "The show presupposes that all of us can respond to the same feelings and arrive at a definition of American that includes everyone — black, white and brown."

"Our series isn't limited to black authors and personalities, but most of it does involve minorities. And our timing for the debut show is just right."

"Most of our personal appearances around the country take place from Jan. 15 to May 18 — the first is the birthday of Martin Luther King and the second is the birthday of Malcolm X."

"Back in the 1920s National Negro History Week was centered on the two February birthdays of Abraham Lincoln and Frederick Douglass, who was a black and one of the great orators of American history. Lincoln credited Douglass with helping foment the Civil War."

"Negro History Week has been extended to about a four-month consciousness of black contributions to our American heritage and the black men and women who have given so much to our culture."

"This new series is a real joy for us. Ruby and I came along professionally at a time when being black was not yet fashionable. In our first year of marriage, Ruby and I together earned less than $1,000. We were starving to death."

It was then that the Davises began playing temples, churches and schools. But in the early days they gave dramatic interpretations of Dostoevsky, Yeats and the classics for $15 a performance.

Later they discovered

there was an eager and sizable audience for what was then called Negro literature.

Ossie's theatrical experience includes starring roles in "Anna Lucasta," "Green Pastures" and "A Raisin In The Sun." He wrote and starred in "Purlie Victorious" in which Ruby also starred.

Of her own performances, Ruby's favorites are "A Raisin In The Sun," "Buck and The Preacher" and the TV film, "King," on the life of Martin Luther King.

Both Ossie and Ruby, however, feel that the PBS series is the crowning achievement in their lives as black Americans and as professional entertainers.

AND FOR HIS NEXT ACT — Larry Vaksman of Philadelphia, Pa. balances on a unicycle, keeps a hula hoop going and juggles pins and a basketball as he performs at a meeting in Atlanta. ## Miss Lillian Is Back In Therapy

AMERICUS, Ga. (AP) — Jimmy Carter's 82-year-old mother is back at a nursing center undergoing physical therapy for an earlier hip injury after spending five days at Americus-Sumter County Hospital recuperating from a recent fall, a hospital spokeswoman said.

Miss Lillian slipped at her Plains home Saturday while using the metal walker she has needed to get around since breaking her hip last year.

After the fall, Mrs. Carter experienced low back pain and entered the hospital for X-rays, which showed no broken bones, nursing director Jo Collins said.

Although Mrs. Carter's hip is giving her no problems, physical therapy at the South Georgia Methodist Nursing Center will help speed up her full recovery, Mrs. Collins said.

Court Ponders Census Appeal

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Detroit census dispute, a case that may affect federal funding and government representation of minorities, has been taken under advisement by the 6th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

Several cities and states are seeking adjustments to the U.S. Census Bureau figures, claiming their populations were undercounted.

The figures affect apportionments in congressional and state legislative districts as well as federal funding.

The government asked the federal appellate court here Thursday to throw out a Detroit federal judge's decision ordering the Census Bureau to boost that city's population count to reflect blacks and Hispanics who Detroit said were not counted. Population experts testified during the trial that minorities are most likely to be overlooked in a census because of crowded housing conditions.

Court challenges have been launched in 13 states against the census, which pegged the U.S. population at 226.5 million.

In September, U.S. District

Judge Horace Gilmore ruled that the census didn't account for about 5 million people in the United States, particularly minorities. He ordered the figures adjusted to prevent discrimination and blocked the census figures from becoming official.

But U.S. Supreme Court Justice Potter Stewart set that order aside pending the 6th Circuit decision.

The city of Detroit has described under-representation of minorities in the census figures as discriminatory.

"In all likelihood, there is an undercount (of the U.S. population) because of the illegal aliens," said Michael Singer, a Justice Department lawyer. "We just don't know how much it is. I think the bureau has done the best possible job that could be done."

According to Singer, Congress can adjust its revenue sharing methods if it fears minorities won't get a fair share.

James Tuck, a lawyer representing Detroit, said an undercount of minorities would deprive them of adequate representation in government.

Opening lead: Five of ♠.

A receiver's job is only partly completed when he gets free in the end zone. To score a touchdown, he must also hold onto the ball!

North-South did well to get to a grand slam with a combined high-card count of only 26. North had intended reversing into spades at his second turn, but when his partner responded in that suit, he showed his powerhouse by jumping to game. After checking that his side held all the aces, South used a version of the Grand Slam Force to find out about the missing trump honors. Since North held two of the top three honors, he bid the grand slam.

The opening diamond lead was won in dummy and the king of spades revealed the 3-0 trump split. Declarer cashed the ace and king of clubs, then tried to ruff a club low on the table. East overruffed for down one. (It would not have helped declarer to ruff the club high for he would still need to ruff a second club to set up the suit, and East would then have been able to overruff.)

Declarer could have made the slam despite the unfortunate trump division. At trick two he should have led a low trump from dummy to his ace. If East shows out of trumps, declarer can ruff two clubs in dummy without fear of being overruffed, and still be left with two trump honors to draw the remaining cards in the suit.

When West shows out of trumps, however, declarer must ruff his two clubs with the king and queen of trumps to prevent an overruff. After ruffing the fourth club with a high trump, declarer can then lead the nine of trumps from dummy and pass it, taking the marked finesse for the ten. He can get back to his hand with a ruff to draw the last trump with the jack, and the last two tricks are declarer's—a good club and a trump.

Wetzel Is Finally Awarded Transfer

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Convicted murderer and Jaycee honoree Frank E. Wetzel won a long-awaited transfer Thursday from Raleigh's Central Prison to the Caledonia prison unit in Northampton County.

Some authorities call Wetzel a "model prisoner"—he received the prison Jaycees' distinguished service award this week. But one state attorney has described him "probably North Carolina's most notorious criminal."

Wetzel, 58, was escorted from the state's only maximum security prison to the medium-security Caledonia unit Thursday morning, said Stuart Shadbolt, spokesman for the state Department of Correction.

Ralph D. Edwards, director of the N.C. Division of Prisons, refused to comment on reasons for the transfer, except to say it had been recommended by a prison division's review committee.

Wetzel is serving two life terms for the 1957 slayings of two state troopers. Because of his clean prison record, he was awarded medium-security status in 1974 and has been the only medium-security prisoner at Central Prison since then.

Wetzel began seeking a transfer from Central Prison in 1977, but prison officials turned him down. He filed a lawsuit in federal court against the correction department, arguing that since prisoners are rarely paroled from Central Prison, he was being denied a fair chance at parole. The lawsuit is still pending.

U.S. District Court Judge Franklin T. Dupree last year ordered the state to transfer Wetzel until his lawsuit was heard, but an appeals court ruled that state officials had the right to decide where prisoners are assigned.

Eyes Expanding Of Ministry

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Television evangelist James Robison says he is expanding his ministry into the ghetto areas of America, starting with a prototype program in Dallas.

He and the Rev. E. V. Hill, a black pastor from the Watts area of Los Angeles, told a news conference that their goal is to form coalitions of local churches, businessmen and others to attack problems of inter-city neighborhoods.

"We are our brother's keeper," Robison said, "and Christians can't turn all the responsibility for helping the poor over to the government."

Hope For Heart Disease
A group of doctors in Utah has developed a Valentine's gift for the world! They have invented an artificial heart for patients with incurable heart disease. The doctors hope their invention, with which they have experimented for 20 years, will become an important weapon in fighting the nation's number one killer. Some doctors believe artificial hearts could save 50,000 lives a year. Fewer than 50 transplants are performed yearly now because the supply of hearts is limited and patients' bodies often reject them. The Food and Drug Administration says next month it will announce whether the new plastic heart can be used in humans.

DO YOU KNOW - What is the name of the largest artery in the human body?
THURSDAY'S ANSWER - Nine justices make up the Supreme Court.

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, FEB. 14, 1981

YOUR DAILY Horoscope from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A day to consider how you can place yourself more in tune with up-to-date methods that could help you advance in career matters. Take positive steps to gain your aims.
ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Look over your environment and make plans for improvement. Make contacts that will improve your social life.
TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Be sure not to disturb anyone who has power over your affairs or you could regret it later. Safeguard your reputation.
GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Be sure you first investigate thoroughly any new project you want to engage in. Spend your money wisely.
MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Some family members may not agree with your views now, so try to understand their better.
LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Good day to look over your business records and make sure everything is in proper order. Think constructively.
VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Take added steps to improve your environment. Show more interest in civic affairs and gain added respect.
LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Make long-range plans that could give you added income in the days ahead. Plan how to gain your most cherished aims.
SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Show appreciation to those who have done you favors in the past. Be sure to keep promises made to others.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You are filled with new ideas but you have to study them better before you put them in operation.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Not a good day for serious talks with allies, since they are busy with other things. Be more willing to cooperate with others.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Don't try to force your ideas on others and avoid getting unexpected rebuffs. Express happiness with congenials.
PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Make plans to have more favorable conditions around you in the days ahead. The evening is fine for social activities.
IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one who can understand both sides of a problem and intuitively will know how best to solve it. The field of law is particularly good in this chart. Give spiritual and ethical training early in life.
"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

N.C. Could Use 5 Or 6 More Rains

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) - This week's storm may have been destructive, but it was also wet - and North Carolina could use another five or six like it to ease a 13-month drought, a National Weather Service hydrologist says.
And conditions are favorable for more rain over the next week or so to help refill rivers and reservoirs and raise water tables, said Allan Gustafson at the NWS office at Raleigh-Durham Airport.
"It's just not going to do it with just one storm," said Gustafson, who said North Carolina rainfall was 9.31 inches below normal for the past 13 months and is down 2.45 inches so far this year.
The rains Tuesday night and Wednesday morning provided from 1 to 3 inches, with the larger amounts falling over the mountains.
"All the levels (of reservoirs and rivers) did go up today (Thursday)," said Gustafson, "But it's a short term thing and by the end of this week it will be coming back down (if there's no further rain)."
For the next six to 10 days, conditions are favorable for North Carolina to get more rain, said Gustafson. The jet stream trough is now west of the Mississippi River, encouraging the flow of warm, moist air from the Gulf of Mexico.
But the jet stream trough "meanders" and Gustafson declined to speculate on the long term prospects for
