Hunt Deadbeats

By HARRY F. ROSENTHAL
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Veterans Administration turned to government payroll computers hoping to find some of the half million deadbeats who owe it $521 million. And lo, out popped the names of 66,000 federal employees.

They will be dunned next week. The amount owed the VA by these federal employees totals $37 million, ranging from $300 overpayments for education assistance to defaults on $18,000 to $20,000 VA home loan guarantees, said an agency source.

"The debts go back as much as 10 years," he said. "Next week we are going to some 60 agencies and departments where we located debtors and notify them that they have X-number employees who owe the government money. We'll advise them we are going to contact supervisors and request assistance in collection."

The government debtors were identified by running names of people who owe the Veterans Administration through federal payroll computers.

Each year, VA sends out 5 million compensation and pension checks. The debts are created through overpayments for education, default on education loans, overpayment either of compensation or pension, or default on VA-guaranteed home loans.

The source, who asked that his name not be used, said 531,659 people owed the VA nearly $521 million as of Jan. 1. He said about half are hard-core debtors - those with debts of long standing. The VA was owed $1 billion six years ago, but that has been reduced through an aggressive program of going after the deadbeats.

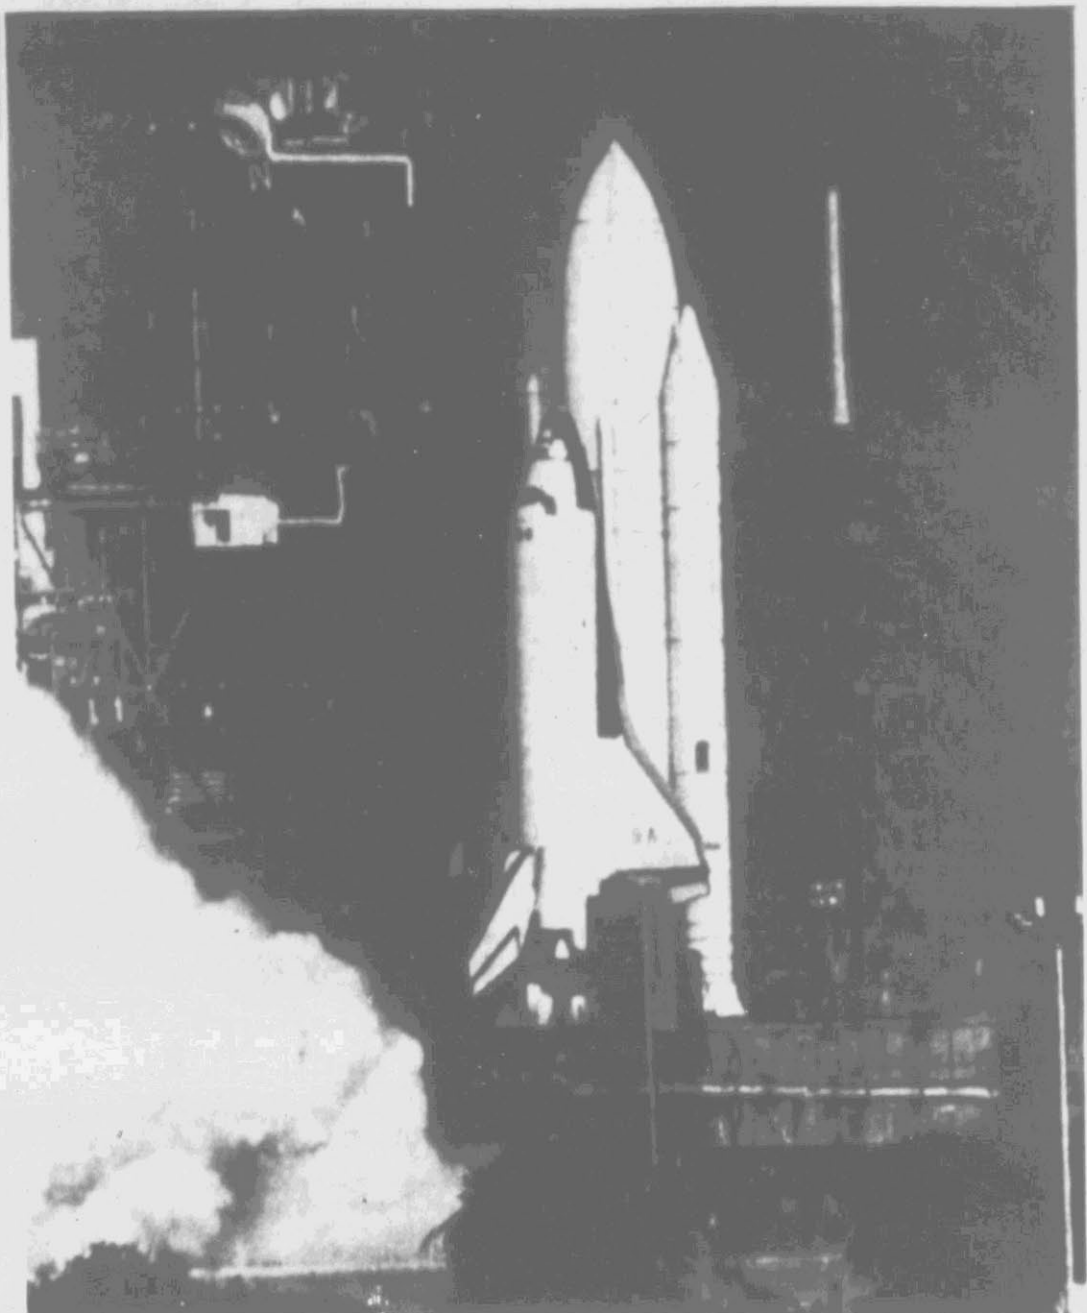

"This is not to say veterans are a bad risk," said the source. "The percentage is very small. The default rate on GI loans is lower than among conventional loans."

He cites repayment of nearly $94 million to the agency in the last three months of 1980.

"We started the computer checks with VA employees," the source said. "We cleaned out our own house first. There were 600. Recently there were 27 employees still indebted to the VA. We got after them and got them all."

The government is barred by law from garnishing the wages of its employees, even though the debt is to Uncle Sam. But there is a catch.

It is a violation of the federal personnel code of conduct not to pay debts. And violations of the federal personnel code of conduct can lead to federal personnel becoming former federal personnel.

Laughinghouse Motion Is Denied By Judge

U. S. District Judge F. T. Dupree Jr. has denied a motion by former Greenville Police Department Lt. Edward Laughinghouse for a preliminary injunction against city officials which would have, if allowed, forced the officials to reinstate him to his former position.

The order filed yesterday, resulted from a hearing on the motion in U. S. Eastern District Court in Raleigh, last week.

In denying the motion, Judge Dupree said, "the court concludes that this case does not warrant a preliminary injunction," in that, "temporary loss of income alone does not usually constitute irreparable injury."

Judge Dupree continued by saying, "In contrast, plaintiff's reinstatement for the duration of the litigation could present the serious risk of diminished police protection. Clearly, a serious drinking problem is incompatible with the position of responsibility which the plaintiff held prior to his dismissal. The public's estimation and respect for the police force would also be threatened. Tension and friction among coworkers on the force could further impair effective police services. Since several of the plaintiff's coworkers have sworn to his intoxication, enmity among them could be expected."

The judge also said, "The court has considered the merits of the plaintiff's discrimination and due process claims, and while plaintiff's case does not appear meritless, in view of the considerable amount of evidence which defendants are apparently in position to offer to refute plaintiff's claim, his chances of ultimate success on the merits appear questionable at best."

Laughinghouse, a member of the department for 16 years, and a shift supervisor, was dismissed from the department in December, after allegedly violating department regulations by being under the effect of alcohol while on duty.

Following his dismissal, Laughinghouse filed a complaint in U.S. District court against Mayor Don McGlohon, City Manager Ed Wyatt, and Chief of Police Glenn Cannon, charging discrimination and lack of due process in his dismissal.

The complaint asked for his reinstatement and $100,000 in actual and punitive damages.

No date has been set to hear testimony on the complaint.

Space Shuttle's Engines Thunder In Passing Test

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) - Columbia, the flagship of the fleet of American space shuttles, passed a successful and spectacular firing of its three powerful engines today and apparently proved that at long last it is ready to carry astronauts into orbit.

That first orbital flight could come as early as April 7, barring any more problems in a project that is already more than two years behind schedule.

The final verdict on Columbia's space worthiness must await thorough analysis of today's test. But preliminary indications from the launch control center was that Columbia had cleared the biggest hurdle yet on its way to changing the way America operates in space.

"It looks like we've had a very successful firing of Columbia's three main engines," Hugh Harris, the control-center spokesman, reported seven minutes after the 20-second test.

Among the happiest observers here were the two astronauts who are to take Columbia up on the first mission, John Young and Bob Crippen. They watched the test from the top of the control center, three miles from the launch pad.

When the practice countdown reached zero at 8:45 a.m. EST, the three engines at the base of the delta-winged spaceship flashed to life, spewing torrents of almost invisible flame, steam and smoke over the launch pad and sending a thunder-clap rolling across the scrub and palmetto of the Kennedy Space Center here.

"All engines are up and running," the control center announced.

The power plant - the world's most sophisticated rocket machine - generated 1.1 million pounds of thrust for 20 seconds, just as planned, while the 122-foot tall Columbia, its two solid-fuel boosters and a giant fuel tank remained locked firmly on the pad, held there by eight three-foot-long hardened steel bolts.

Rescue Field Is Underlined At Local Hearing

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer

Police, fire and rescue were the main focus areas for last night's public hearing conducted by the protection and safety segment of the Mayor's Advisory Committee, but rescue was clearly the key issue.

In contrast to the January hearing on local administrative services, which generated very little public interest as far as attendance, last night's session produced some citizen input and gave committee members some thoughts to ponder in preparing their overall report for presentation to the city.

Dr. Wallace Woolee, the advisory board's general chairman, told the gathering that the overall committee had been given the task of investigating all aspects of services provided by the city and would prepare a comprehensive plan on "where we want to be in 1990" with regard to services.

In discussing local services, he said it is easy to say "we need," but he suggested it is harder to find ways to pay for what is needed.

Dr. Herbert Hadley, who serves as chairman of the 12-member Committee for Continually Improving Rescue Services to Greenville, distributed what he termed "factual" update information on the status of rescue and pre-hospital emergency medical services in the area.

Hadley said the committee was formed in January of 1979 to help individuals doing full time medical rescue work and volunteers in the area "to achieve an ideal working climate conducive to improve their technical skills in advanced high levels of care."

The spokesman said the committee had requested unsuccessfully that the city consider giving autonomous administration to the rescue squad and his fact sheet stated that the committee felt the unit needed its own department "because of the increased demands on the time of the rescue personnel, advanced and increased medical technology, and a burning desire to improve their rescue skills."

Hadley, saying last night that he was "not going to make a plea," added that the committee tried to be factual and documentary in preparing its data and he offered the material to the advisory group for consideration. Hadley said copies of the committee data is available to anyone if they would contact him.

DORM STUDENTS ON THE DOLE?

I understand that some ECU dormitory students received Low Income Energy Assistance Payment checks. I think this is gross misuse of public funds. Were these checks just sent out automatically because these two were on Food Stamps or some other kind of public assistance, or what? Obviously neither had any responsibility for heating or cooling bills. I think the public deserves an answer about this.

Four students at East Carolina University did apply for and qualify, under federal guidelines for this fuel assistance payment program, according to Pitt County Social Services Department Director Ed Garrison. They all were food stamp recipients who had the income qualifications for the program, he said. Many more students probably would have been eligible based on income, had they applied, he added.

He said he personally feels that it is ridiculous that the federal guidelines did not have as a number one qualification point - has identifiable fuel expense. This simple measure, he said, would have disqualified these students and also the 455 Pitt County recipients who live in public housing.

Last year, there was public outcry about nursing and rest home residents who receive similar payment. This specific gap was closed by the guideline writers, he said, but they did nothing about the bigger loophole.

He said that while the program was open for application, he checked with the state office three different times because he could not believe that this situation was being allowed to exist. Under the law, however, he reiterated, his department had no choice but to approve the students and the public housing residents who did apply and met the income guidelines.

As further information, he added that, of those that applied, 5,500 Pitt County households qualified under the program and 1,050 were turned down.

Armed Robbery

Greenville police are pressing their investigation of an armed robbery at McDonald's at 301 East Tenth St. about 12:08 a.m. today, according to Chief Glenn Cannon.

The chief said McDonald's night manager, Tim Harris, told officers that two men approached his car after he closed the fast food restaurant, told him they were holding one of his female employees and would hurt her unless he cooperated.

Saying the robbers were armed with a revolver, Harris told investigators that after he re-entered the building and opened the safe, the two men took more than $2,000 in cash and more than $300 in quarters. After damaging the telephone so he could not use it, the intruders forced him into a walk-in cooler, telling him to remain there for five minutes or he would be shot.

After waiting a short time, Cannon said, Harris left the building and reported the incident.

Children's Concert

ECU SYMPHONY CONCERT - Robert Hause conducts the East Carolina University Symphony Orchestra in its 13th annual concert for Greenville elementary and junior high school students at Minges Coliseum Wednesday afternoon. The annual Children's Concert is designed to provide students with the opportunity to hear a symphony orchestra. Students joined with the orchestra to sing John Philip Sousa's "Start and Stripes Forever," and for "The Star-Spangled Banner" and "America, the Beautiful." Another special feature of this year's program was a performance of the overture to "First for Freedom," an outdoor drama performed annually in Halifax and written by Dr. Joseph Distifano of the ECU School of Music faculty. # Girl Has Sextuplets

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Sextuplets were born to a 17-year-old girl with a plastic hip joint, one of the babies was delivered 23 days after the first five, and all are alive, two South African newspapers reported today.

They said four boys and a girl were born Oct. 15 and that a second girl was delivered Nov. 7 because the mother's uterus was twisted for a time.

The papers also said one of the babies was treated by an orthopedic surgeon for a hip problem and another infant was treated for a heart defect, but did not elaborate.

The English-language Rand Daily Mail and the Afrikaans-language Beeld newspapers said the reason the births were not announced at the time was that the father was still married to another woman.

They said the mother, Chairmain Peterson, has a plastic hip joint as a result of a childhood bout with polio. They said she had not taken fertility drugs.

The papers said the father was Frank Craig, a well-known 41-year-old fisherman from Windhoek, South-West Africa, an adjacent territory administered by South Africa.

The papers said the sextuplets were born in a hospital in South Africa, and that the babies' names were Frank, John, Andrew, William, Salome and Deborah. The two that required medical treatment were not named.

The papers said the father, who is white, divorced his previous wife in December, and married Miss Peterson, who is also white, in South-West Africa Feb. 3.

A fuzzy snapshot published by Beeld showed the mother was an attractive blonde of average height and the father had brown hair and beard and was of slender build.

The Mail quoted a friend of the family as saying, "I am not allowed to give you all the facts, but I can say that the children are well and with their parents in Windhoek."

But another report said, without elaborating, that the children were in Cape Town and would be flown to their parents later today or Saturday.

South Africa's first sextuplets — David, Nicolette, Jason, Emma, Grant and Elizabeth Rosenkowitz — were born in Cape Town Jan. 11, 1974. The children still live in Cape Town and occasionally appear in local TV ads for children's clothing.

El Salvador To Be 'Test'

By BARRY SCHWEID
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration, determined to make El Salvador a test of its strongly anti-communist foreign policy, is planning a big boost in economic and military aid to the civilian-military junta running the Central American country.

At the same time, the administration is urging the West European allies to support the U.S. position that the Soviets and Cubans are helping leftist terrorists wage a guerrilla campaign against the junta.

A State Department statement Wednesday emphasizing the U.S. commitment to "peaceful and democratic change in El Salvador" was designed to go beyond a reaffirmation of American support for human rights.

It was intended also to make it easier for skeptical West Europeans — who want to be on good terms with Moscow — to back the administration's tough line by affirming that U.S. officials are committed to an evenhanded approach in El Salvador.

Allied leaders would be less likely to accept U.S. representations of Soviet influence if they believed the United States' main interest in El Salvador was having a regime subservient to Washington.

French Foreign Minister Jean Francois-Poncet may make a statement during a visit to Washington next week condemning communist intervention in El Salvador.

Sources who asked not to be identified said he was impressed with evidence of Soviet and Cuban involvement delivered to Paris by Assistant Secretary of State Lawrence S. Eagleburger.

And yet, in his talks with President Reagan and Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr., the French minister is expected to advise putting the emphasis in U.S. aid on programs that encourage social reform.

Administration officials said there was no doubt Congress would be asked to boost aid above the current level of $73 million, which includes $10 million in military support.

But the hike in economic assistance, one official said in an interview, could be anything from $20 million to $100 million over two years.

An American study group is in El Salvador now making an assessment of the country's problems. Apart from the economic setbacks related to the civil strife, the Central American country has suffered a major failure in its coffee crops.

Sometime next week, the Reagan administration will issue a "white paper" in Haig's name attempting to document the U.S. case against the Soviets and Cubans for providing weapons and other support to Salvadoran leftists.

In El Salvador, the ruling junta and U.S. Embassy sources denied accusations by leftist leaders Thursday that 100 U.S. military advisers are in the country masterminding a counter-insurgency plan.

Damage Results From Wrecks

An estimated $4,150 property damage resulted from two three-car collisions investigated by Greenville police yesterday.

Heaviest damage, according to officers, resulted from a 6:30 p.m. collision on Tenth Street, 900 feet west of the Greenville Boulevard intersection, involving cars driven by Clinton Edward McGowan of Route 1, Grimesland, Kirby Lee Branch of Route 1, Winterville, and Fiona Ann Mayers of Highland Park Trailer Ct.

Police, who reported McGowan and a passenger in his car were injured, estimated damage at $600 to the McGowan car, $350 to the Branch auto, and $1,600 to the Mayers vehicle.

Branch was charged with failing to drive within lane, while Ms. Mayers was charged with failing to see her intended movement could be made in safety.

Cars driven by Matthew Carr of Ayden, Raymond Vines Cobb of Oakmont Square Apts., and Milano Owen Stancil of Route 2, Grifton, collided about 7:30 a.m. at the intersection of Memorial Drive and the Belvoir Road, causing $700 damage to the Carr vehicle, $300 damage to the Cobb car, and $600 damage to the Stancil auto.

Police reported Stancil was charged with failing to stop for a stop light following investigation of the mishap.

Woman Indicted For 'Fratiscam'

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A woman nicknamed by federal authorities as "the sweetheart of Sigma Chi," has been indicted for allegedly duping a University of Pennsylvania fraternity president by posing as a government lawyer whose life was in danger.

Barbara Jo Cain, 34, was indicted Wednesday on one count of wire fraud and one count of impersonating a federal employee, officials said. Conviction on the charges could mean a maximum $2,000 fine and an eight-year jail term.

The federal grand jury indictment said Robert Mazurkiewicz, president of Penn's Sigma Chi chapter, spent more than $4,000 from May 7 to June 7 last year, traveling around the country with Mrs. Cain "in an attempt to avoid the people Cain falsely claimed were chasing her."

Mrs. Cain originally had telephoned Mazurkiewicz, a 22-year-old senior from Reading, Pa., saying she was investigating threatening messages sent on Sigma Chi stationery. She later told him the government was unable to protect her from a man who was threatening her life, the indictment said.

A private detective found Mazurkiewicz in Santa Clara, Calif., where he was trying to pick up money his family had wired him after he had depleted other funds, the indictment said.

Mrs. Cain disappeared but was picked up by FBI agents Jan. 20 after she tried "to pull a similar deal on the Sigma Chi chapter at the University of Idaho," U.S. Attorney Peter Vaira said.

She is now in federal custody in Idaho.

Bringham said there have been reports over the past 10 years of similar incidents involving chapter presidents at the University of Michigan, the University of California at Berkeley, Ohio State University and the University of Pittsburgh.

Most of the incidents were not reported to police because "most guys don't like to brag about being duped," he said.

Bethel School Registration

On March 12 from 9 a.m. until 12 noon Bethel Elementary School will register all pre-school children who will be attending kindergarten at the school next year.

This will include all children who will be five years old on or before October 16, 1981. If a child has not attended kindergarten this year and will be six years old on or before October 16, he/she can also be registered.

Anyone having a child or knowing of a child in the Bethel School District who is eligible to attend kindergarten should contact the school before March 2 between 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. by either coming to the school or calling 825-3801.

Parents should bring a copy of their child's birth certificate along with his/her immunization records.

Career Week At Wellcome

In celebration of Career Week, Wellcome Middle School's Vocational Department sponsored a Career Fair. The theme for the fair was "Opening Doors to the Future."

The fair, which took place February 18 in the school gym, allowed students from several middle schools to visit exhibits from 15 cluster areas of occupations. Representatives from firms, agencies, organizations and career fields were on hand to present programs.

According to vocational teachers Delores Little and Thomas Council, the purpose of the exhibit was to allow seventh and eighth grade students to begin making future career choices.

REQUEST APPROVED
Police Chief Glenn Cannon announced that he approved a request by the Pitt Community College Student Ward Clerks for permission to conduct a sidewalk bake sale on Feb. 14 in order to raise funds for their graduating class.

Cannon said the request was submitted by Ms. Marina Cox of Winterville.

Revival

Tonight is the last night of a revival being conducted at Holy Mission, 905 Dickinson Avenue.

The 7:30 p.m. service will feature the singing of the Allen Chapel Junior Choir.

Saturday night the Rev. Smith and congregation of Neighborhood Tabernacle, Chocowinity, will lead a 7:30 p.m. service.

Sunday at 11 a.m., Pastor Shirley Atkinson will preach and the senior choir will sing. A prayer and praise service will be held Sunday at 7:30 p.m.

The public is invited to all these services, Pastor Atkinson said.

SERVICES

There will be a worship service at Mill's Chapel Sunday at 11 a.m. Elder Cora Cox will be the speaker and music will be provided by the Mills Chapel choir.

Workshop Set

Pitt County Community Schools, along with the Agricultural Extension Service, will sponsor a woodburning workshop at Wellcome Middle School on March 3 at 7 p.m.

The workshop will concern itself with the area of purchasing, installation and operation of woodstoves. Also various areas of woodcutting will be discussed.

This workshop will be for the person who is thinking of buying a woodstove or insert as well as the person who has owned one for years. For further information contact Sam Uzzell at 758-1196 or Barry Gaskins at 752-6106.

School Chorus Gives Recital Wellcome Plans PTO Meet

Ten members of the Wellcome Middle School seventh and eighth grade chorus presented a voice recital for family, friends and faculty February 17 at 7 p.m.

The selections performed will be contest pieces in the Pitt County Junior High School Solo Day on February 26 at Chicod Elementary. Students of Miss Barbara Plummer participated.

Wellcome Plans PTO Meet

Wellcome Middle School will have a Parent-Teacher Organization meeting to start a PTO for Wellcome Middle February 24 at 7:30 p.m.

The meeting will be held in the school cafeteria. Interested parents are invited to attend. For further information contact Richard Stevens, principal at Wellcome Middle (752-5938.)

Some scattered showers and a few thundershowers lingered on today, but skies began clearing in the western half of the state this morning.

Temperatures will remain on the warm side through the weekend. Daytime highs will be in the 60s and low 70s, with the lows mostly in the 40s.

PROGRAM ON GHANA
The Unitarian-Universalists will meet Sunday at 10:30 a.m. in the Community Room of Planters National Bank.

A slide show, "Life in Ghana," will be presented by Kacem Sebti and Donna Whitley. A covered dish lunch will be served at noon. The public is invited.

Miss Lou Joyner Weds Steven Henry Dennis

FARMVILLE — The wedding ceremony of Lou Leary Joyner and Steven Henry Dennis took place Saturday evening at seven o'clock here in the First Baptist Church. The double ring ceremony was conducted by the Rev. Ronald Lee Davis, church minister, and Dr. Marion Dodson Lark, pastor of the First Baptist Church, Henderson.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Forbes Joyner Jr. of Farmville. Mr. and Mrs. William Baker Dennis of Henderson are parents of the bridegroom.

Escorted and given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of ivory silked organza, English net and re-embroidered alencon lace over peau de soie designed by Priscilla of Boston. The fitted bodice featured an overlay of re-embroidered alencon lace and English net accented with pearls and a Queen Anne neckline. The sleeves had cuffs of lace trimmed with pearls and the A-line skirt and cathedral train were bordered with appliques of lace and pearls. Her full length mantilla was bordered with re-embroidered alencon lace attached to a lace covered Juliet cap adorned with pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of white sweetheart roses, stephanotis and white cymbidium orchids.

Mary Beth Joyner of Farmville was her sister's honor attendant and wore a formal gown of ivory lustriglo knit complemented by a long sleeved chantilly lace jacket. She carried a colonial bouquet of mixed flowers.

Bridesmaids included Mrs. Amos Russell Averett Jr.,

Ayden, Mrs. William Ward Bryan, Jane Daniel Dennis, sister of the bridegroom, and Mrs. William Austin Dennis, Henderson, Mae Suzanne Hardy, La Grange, Harriet Lang Joyner, Farmville, Cynthia Jane Smith, Charlotte, and Margaret Francie Wooden, Raleigh. Their dresses and bouquets were identical to that of the honor attendant.

Jeanne Marie Lark was junior honor attendant. Her full length dress was of ivory super vino with a fitted bodice that featured round collar, scalloped lace trim with a rose ribbon underlay. She carried a miniature colonial bouquet.

The mother of the bride chose a formal gown of champagne chiffon. She carried a cymbidium orchid on her evening bag. The mother of the bridegroom wore a coral chiffon gown, accented by a cymbidium orchid corsage.

The father of the bridegroom was best man and groomsmen included Thomas David Christopher, Durham, Graham Wesley Bullard and Larry Cobb Nickens, Chapel Hill, William Austin Dennis, brother of the bridegroom, Henry Alexander Ross, Henderson, Mark West Owens III, Fountain, William Gray Lord and John Ivan Mabe Jr., Raleigh.

The bride graduated from Farmville Central High School and Meredith College, where she received a B.S. in sociology and business. The bridegroom is a graduate of Vance Senior High School and Duke University, where he was magna cum laude. He will graduate from the School of Medicine at UNC-CH in May.

After a wedding trip to Vermont, the couple will live in Chapel Hill.

The wedding was directed by Mrs. Cedric Davis and Mrs. Marion D. Lark.

Immediately following the ceremony the bride's parents entertained at a reception at the DAR Chapter House.

Voice Teacher Hits Sour Note

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am taking voice lessons from a teacher whose fee is $45 an hour.

My problem is that when I started, he gave me an hour of his undivided attention. Now he takes time to get his messages from his answering service, and he even makes telephone calls on my time. During my lesson yesterday, he was busy on the phone for 13 minutes! (I timed him.)

I am not rich. In fact, I must make some sacrifices to study with him. He's an excellent voice teacher, and I want to continue studying with him, but he has a waiting list for pupils, so I have to be careful not to offend him. Can you help me?

SHORTCHANGED IN N.Y.

DEAR SHORTCHANGED: There's only one way to handle it. In pear-shaped tones, sing out that you expect his undivided attention during your lesson. If he's offended and drops you, there are many excellent voice teachers in New York who, for $45 an hour, will give you your money's worth.

DEAR ABBY: I was trying to tell my cousin that the children of one's first cousin are not second cousins, they are first cousins once removed, and she said I was crazy. I read this in your column not long ago, but unfortunately, I didn't clip it.

Will you please explain the cousin relationship again? And this time go into the grandnephew, grandniece, and great-aunt and great-uncle as well as great-grand-aunt and great-grand-uncle relationship. Thank you.

NEEDS PROOF

DEAR NEEDS: The child of your parent's brother or sister is your first cousin. However, your first cousin's child is not your second cousin, but your first cousin once removed. The child of your first cousin once removed is your first cousin twice removed, and his child is your first cousin three times removed. Your second cousin is your grandparent's brother's (or sister's) grandchild. That second cousin's child is your second cousin once removed, his child your second cousin twice removed, and so on.

And your third cousin? It's your great-grandparent's brother's (or sister's) great-grandchild. The third cousin's child is your third cousin once removed, his child is your third cousin twice removed.

The grandchild of your brother or sister is your grandnephew or grandniece.

The sister or brother of your grandparent is your great-aunt or great-uncle.

The sister or brother of your great-grandparent is your great-grand-aunt or great-grand-uncle.

Whew! Isn't this grand? Or is it great?

...

DEAR ABBY: Every year, elaborate plans are made for class reunions. It's fun to get together with former classmates to renew old friendships and see old schoolmates. But I wonder how many former school teachers are invited?

There are many teachers, principals and coaches who are still around and would enjoy the reunion, too. Please ask your readers to consider this when plans are being made for high school reunions. Thank you.

ON THE OUTSIDE LOOKING IN

DEAR ON: Your signature tells a rather sad story. Readers, please take note.

CONFIDENTIAL TO THINKING IT OVER IN SALEM, N.J.: Think it over thoroughly. Money isn't everything. Sometimes it isn't enough.

Heritage Tour Tickets On Sale

Tickets for the first Heritage Tour of Homes, under sponsorship of the Greenville Area Preservation Association, went on sale Wednesday following a kickoff tour of the Robert Lee Humber home, one of 16 stops on the April tour.

Chairman of the tour, which is scheduled for Saturday, April 4, from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., is Mrs. Meg Smithers. Proceeds will benefit the Humber house, which will soon be used for an eastern branch office of the North Carolina Division of Archives and History.

Tour stops will be: the Thomas Alderson-Archibald Forbes house; Jacob Wilson Higgs home (The Gathering Place); Luther M. Taylor-E. Marvin Slaughter Jr. Alumni Center, ECU; Haywood Dail house (residence of Chancellor and Mrs. Thomas Brewer); Edward Bancroft Ficklen Jr. house; old James S. Ficklen home; the William H. Long house; the J. N. Williams house; Edward Baskell Flanagan home (Greenville Art Museum); John Laughinghouse residence (Flynn House); the Louise J. Jones-Walter Lee house; the Judson Hassell Blount home; Mrs. Loula White Fleming-Mrs. Margaret Winstead house; and the Humber home. The tour will also feature Cherry Hill Cemetery and the old section of the Pitt County Court House. Refreshments will be available during the day at the Higgs home, Dickinson Avenue.

Bob Swinson, president of the preservation association and chairman of the ticket committee, announced the following tour committees.

Treasurer, Walter Faulkner; publicity, Mrs. Charles Kavanaugh; house researchers, Fred M. Charles Kavanaugh, Richard Duncan, Dr. Patricia Rice, Mrs. Helen Parks, Mrs. Bob Swinson, Charles Vincent, Mrs. Robert E. Clyde Jr., Mrs. Samuel A. Sewall, Mrs. Daryl L. Goetz, Ms. Elizabeth Ross, Maury York, Robbie Tugwell, Mrs. Larry Whitlow, Mrs. Brayom E. Anderson Jr. and Dr. Lawrence Brewster.

Tickets, Mrs. Swinson, Dr. Brewster, Mrs. R. V. Keel, Mrs. Joseph L. Murad, Mrs. Clara Moye Shackell, the Woman's Club and Mrs. Mary Shearin of the Junior Woman's Club.

Tickets will also be sold at Beddingfield's Pharmacy, Bissette's, Hair Designers, Larry's Carpetland or by writing the Greenville Area Preservation Association, P. O. Box 673, Greenville. Tickets for the tour are $5.00. Tickets for groups of 10 or more are $3.00 per person.

"The tour has been planned to acquaint the community only with what is considered historically and architecturally significant in the area," said Swinson.

Club Makes Night Plans

Saint Gabriel's Women's Club met recently, and plans for Casino Night were finalized.

Casino Night will be held at 8 p.m. Saturday in Saint Gabriel's school hall. Tickets are $5 per person and will be on sale after masses and at the door. The ticket will entitle the bearer to appetizers.

Plans for a Group Quilting session were also discussed. President Donna Biasi conducted the meeting as served refreshments. The next meeting will be held Monday, March 9, at 7:30 p.m.

Rainbow Officers Installed Sunday

Miss Sarah Houston has been installed as Worthy Advisor of Greenville Assembly No. 67, International Order of the Rainbow for Girls. The ceremony was held Sunday afternoon at the Masonic Temple here.

Installing Officer Connie Briley, PWA, welcomed guests and introduced other installing officers including: Miss Rose Jackson, PWA, Installing Marshal; Miss Karen Kingsbury, PWA, Installing Recorder; Miss Kim Harrell, PWA, Installing Chaplain; and Miss Lisa Topping, Immediate PWA, Installing Musician.

Officers installed were: Worthy Associate Advisor, Kathryn Kelley; Charity, Myra Clark; Hope, Melanie West; Faith, Margaret Clark; Recorder, Kim Harrell; Treasurer, Rose Jackson; Chaplain, Donna Evans; Drill Leader, Joyce Riggan; Love, Connie Briley; Religion, Gigi Mosley; Confidential Observer, Karen Kingsbury; Outer Observer, Becky Nelms; and Musician, Lisa Topping.

Miss Houston's parents, the Rev. and Mrs. L. P. Houston Jr., were introduced and in turn presented her a gavel. Her brother, David, was also introduced. Miss Houston received a mascot from the assembly from Miss Kelley.

Miss Mosley, Grand Service of the N. C. Jurisdiction, recognized Miss Briley as Miss Service for the coming year. Miss Mosley is a past Miss Service.

Trimming School Needs

The Pitt County Board of Education is looking over the capital improvement needs of the 20 Pitt schools. It has concluded that the list needs more work.

Thus the board sent the requests, totalling $7,377,070, back to the individual advisory boards for further trimming and better priorities.

Chairman Mark Owens said, "I see a great deal of this we could cut out, and I see many things I don't consider priority items." He said the board needed to go over the items carefully, meet with advisory boards and return with more reasonable figures.

We think that is a wise approach, not only for the county schools but for all government agencies this year. Essential needs must be met in education and elsewhere, but there is not going to be any room in governmental budgets for frills, or non-essentials.

In the county schools' case, the advisory boards are probably in the best position to determine what is most needed for their schools in the fiscal year ahead. The boards should approach the task with the thought in mind of choosing only the most essential capital improvement items for first priority.

Progress To Continue

Elizabeth Copeland has retired after a job well done in developing the Sheppard Memorial Library system.

During her tenure the city library has become one of the best in the state, and it was due largely to her leadership.

Willie E. Nelms has become the new director of Sheppard Memorial Library. A city library is most important to a community where education is emphasized as much as it is in ours. We trust that development and progress will continue under the direction of Nelms.

Counties' Squeeze

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH — County officials in North Carolina's 100 counties are keeping a close watch on the state budget as it now begins to unfold in the General Assembly.

$3.8 million in savings due to increased federal payments for nursing home patients;

BILL NOBLITT

The response so far has been measured restraint despite what many county commissioners see as a double-barrelled attack on local budgets — pressures which will force increased local spending, and no strong sign that the state will help provide substantial sums to meet added expenses.

The state is boosting its help in meeting the rapidly escalating costs of Medicaid, the health program for the poor and elderly, which has become the single most serious example of runaway spending in local budgets.

and a state takeover of costs for patients in facilities for the mentally retarded.

There will be $4.6 million to help counties pay increased bills for nursing home care;

Some Help
There is also $2 million to further help counties take care of de-institutionalized individuals from mental health facilities, and a boost from $10 to $11 daily in state payment for prisoners held in county jails on short terms instead of going to the prison system.

There is other spending increases on the state's part, but when the arithmetic is done, it is clear that projected increases in mandated programs and new programs alike will force county governments to increase their budgets substantially.

Again, Medicaid comes in for a major share of attention.

BY ART BUCHWALD

Unsuited To Earth Use

The Grumman Company, which built vehicles for the moon, and which is one of the leaders in space technology, has been having trouble building a bus that won't collapse when it tries to get from 23rd Street to 57th Street on Madison Avenue in New York City.

This has caused tremendous consternation in engineering circles. How can someone develop a lunar lander for the moon without any difficulty and not be able to build a bus for New York and other cities?

I discussed this with an urban transportation expert, and he said the Grumman people were not at fault.

"Building a bus for New York City is not the same as developing a moon vehicle.

ART BUCHWALD

There were so many unknown factors that Grumman had to deal with. New York streets have a far harsher atmosphere than the moon. For one thing, New York's craters are much larger than anything up there. For another, the environment in Manhattan is so unpredictable that no one can be sure what pressures a bus will encounter when it tries to crawl across town.

"But surely the Grumman people must have tested its Flexible bus before it delivered it."

"Of course they did, but all they had to go on were aerial maps of Manhattan taken from five miles up."

"They had no idea what they would face once the Flexible model was actually put on a street. Everything worked perfectly in the lab, and Grumman scientists were certain their bus could hold up under the toughest jobs it would have to perform on Earth. But unfortunately, when you're dealing with an unknown crust, such as New York City, you have to expect setbacks.

"We now think we know what the problem is."

"What's that?"

"Grumman didn't realize that the buses would carry people. So they failed to make the trunnion strong enough to support the frame. After four blocks, the frame developed cracks, the trunnion collapsed against the wheel, and the bus couldn't move. Urban mass transportation is still not an exact science, and it could have happened to anybody."

"Does this mean New Yorkers will never be able to have buses they can count on?"

"Not necessarily. But a lot more work has to be done in bus research. First of all, we must devise a way of mapping New York City's potholes. No bus can be expected to hit one and not collapse, no matter how strong you build the trunnion. For another, we have to test these buses under the worst-situation conditions. This means we have to load them with twice their capacity, and drive them for days through Queens, the Bronx and Brooklyn, where the streets are almost impassable."

"If the trunnions hold up to these rugged tests, they should be able to survive anything that could happen to them in Manhattan."

"Does the failure of the Grumman Flexible bus mean that our entire space program on Earth will be delayed?"

Other Editors Say Math & Politics

(Winston-Salem Sentinel)

Mathematics is at the heart of redistricting, the process by which political representation is brought in line with population as shown by the decennial census. The task awaits the North Carolina legislature at the current session.

It's not so simple as two and two makes four. The districts created must embrace, as nearly as practicable, an equal number of inhabitants. That's the mathematics of it; but there are other factors which cannot be blindly ignored. They include present boundaries such as county lines, similar economic interests, minority representation, and of course, partisan politics and the fate of incumbents.

The possibility of court review, in the event some group of citizens feels aggrieved by the results, adds redistricting headaches for the lawmakers. Unless they devise a plan which can survive judicial scrutiny — and there are few guidelines to go by — they may have the whole thing to do over.

Members of House and Senate committees handling congressional redistricting have met to size up their assignment. They learned that population shifts have caused imbalance in the 11 districts, and will require hard study to even out representation. Rep. J.P. Huskins, Iredell Democrat and House chairman, said it looks like some incumbents may wind up in the same district and have to run against each other for the seat.

The refreshing aspect of Huskins' comments was his forecast that partisan politics, once a deciding influence on redistricting plans, will have a very small part this time around. Gerrymandering to favor Democrats is unlikely, he said, because the necessity for population balance makes it so hard to do.

"Rather than being careful about what happens to Republicans, we've got to be careful about what happens to minorities," he said. "We've got to operate within such strict guidelines that we will have very little room to play partisan politics."

Terry Sullivan, director of research for the legislature, says final census figures for the legislators to work with may not be available by an April 1 deadline. Challenges in court to the count could delay the process, he explained.

Fair representation is essential to public confidence in government. Redistricting is a challenging task. If the lawmakers go about it with a determination to get the math right, in terms of population balance between districts, they can devise a plan to win public acceptance and withstand court review.

Strength For Today

SHARING THE DIVINE LIFE

Many people regard Jesus of Nazareth as simply an historical figure who lived, taught, and died 2,000 years ago.

The primary emphasis of the New Testament is that he is not only living today but spiritually he is in every part of the world's life and is exerting upon it an influence much greater than he exerted when he was here in the flesh.

Christianity would have died long ago had it consisted only of the ministry and teaching of an ancient figure. What gives Christianity its power is the spiritual presence of Jesus Christ in the life of the world right now.

When Jesus became incarnate in human flesh, he divested himself of his divine and heavenly glory and shared our life. While we live here upon earth we are invited to begin to partake of his celestial life which after death will be conferred upon us in all its glory. — Elisha Douglass

In A Pillory For 215 Yrs.

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN
AP Special Correspondent
WILLIAMSBURG, Va. (AP) — Andrew Kelly, late of the County Meath — actually quite early — has had a drinking problem for a long time. Something like 215 years.

When George Washington sat in the first pew at the Bruton Parish Church in the old Virginia capital here at Williamsburg, and Patrick Henry sat with friends from the House of Burgesses in a back stall at the Raleigh Tavern, Andrew Kelly sat in the pillory outside the gaol, waiting for his master to come pay his fine for public drunkenness.

Washington, Jefferson, Patrick Henry and all the rest have passed on into history, but Andrew Kelly still sits where he always sat, padlocked in wooden stocks, alive and hung over as ever.

Kelly, the town drunk of Colonial Williamsburg, lives on, garroliously telling his life story to anyone who will listen, pestering passers-by for a shilling, jibing at the pretensions of the colonial militia, all due to the acting skills of Harvie Credle.

Credle, a 30-year-old professional actor, not only plays the role of the bicentennial boozier but serves as artistic director of living history at Colonial Williamsburg, a form of street theater that re-creates 18th century life for the tourists on the cobblestone streets of America's most famous historical restoration.

Credle, who is fond of a glass in his off duty hours, never drinks while on duty as the town drunk, although you couldn't tell from observing him there in the public pillory near the restored Governor's Palace.

His speech is slurred and incessant, his knee bristles tattered from his being tossed out of the Raleigh Tavern after what he insists were "only a few small beers" and there is straw in his hair from the rough accommodation in the gaol house, to which he will return after a few hours of shameful public exposure unless his master shows up to bail him out.

Like all the characters portrayed in Williamsburg's theatrical living history project, Andrew Kelly was a real life person in the town's colonial past.

Actor Credle, who developed the character and wrote the script with the help of Williamsburg's research department, based him on an ad for a runaway indentured servant in a 1770 issue of the Virginia Gazette. The Andrew Kelly therein described was known to be "talkative when in liquor" and "looking to join the British sea or land forces."

Nowadays with his whining Irish face protruding from a large padlocked wooden collar, Kelly begs a "few coppers, your lordship" from amused tourists so he can send over to the Raleigh Tavern "for some decent food instead of the cornmeal mush handed to us by gaoler Peter Felham."

Loutishly, but with an ingratiating smile, Kelly-Credle delivers a droll lesson in colonial history, mocking the rebels with their talk of a Declaration of Independence ("sure isn't that all I was trying to do when I ran away?") under a social system that tolerated slavery ("and the likes of me treated worse than a slave by my master").

Living theater invites the audience of tourists and school children to participate in the dialogue, so Credle through the character of Andrew Kelly answers many questions about everyday life in the mid-18th Century. British visitors often press upon him the coppers and shillings he begs, and even the natives sometimes help poor Kelly with a handout.

"On a good day," laughs Credle, "I mop up 78 cents."

On the streets of Colonial Williamsburg these days one is apt to run into a Tory gardener who doesn't think much of the rebel militia's chances against the Redcoats, a colonial recruiting officer, a midwife, a free Black evangelist named Gowan Pamphlet, a shopkeeper who hopes all this wild talk of independence doesn't harm the economy, a hell fire itinerant preacher, a wealthy planter and a woman tavern keeper; all of them, like the rest of the historic old town, faithfully recreated from the past.

Tavern Keeper Annie Shields, played with rollicking broad humor by 23-year-old actress Abigail Perry, has her dustcap set for innkeeper Henry Wetherburn (whom the records show she married nine days after his wife died while warning passers-by not to spend the night at a rival establishment called Mrs. Blakeslees where "they haven't changed the linen in seven months ... and there's lice and vermin in the bed right there with you.")

Harvie Credle's 12 strolling players all do two or more parts in Colonial Williamsburg's re-creation of history besides acting in weekly theater productions of 18th century plays like "The Country Wife" and David Garrick's "A Miss in Teens," the current offering in their repertoire.

Perhaps because he began his theatrical career as a student at William and Mary College, just up the cobblestone street, Credle's favorite role continues to be Andrew Kelly, the town drunk, who now that Williamsburg has become a convention town sometimes encounters real living drunks in his line of work.

"Then, governor, I can assure you," says Credle in his puckish Kelly brogue, "the conversation is definitely one for the history books." Credle got so locked into his role on the day we saw him he lost the key to his padlocks for a few embarrassing moments.

Letters submitted for Public Forum should be limited to 300 words. The editor reserves the right to edit longer letters.

To the editor:

In reference to the Feb. 17 liquor-by-the-drink referendum, "to drink or not to drink" is obviously no longer the question. Although I personally view a vote "for" such a referendum as an endorsement of freedom of choice, I was much appalled by the scene at the polls.

For those of you not motivated to vote, picture three adolescents (if they were that old) stationed outside of the Willis Building holding anti-LBD placards. This was obviously a cheap and somewhat selfish tactic staged to play on the emotions of responsible voting citizens who were perhaps undecided.

State law requires children six-16 years of age to attend school, a right and a privilege afforded them by the State of N. C. Was the mission of these same parents so important that they considered missing a day's work?

This scene was not selective to the Willis Building. The very presence of these children provoked tremendous verbal abuse by Greenville voters, placing these children in a difficult position.

Such tactics were thoughtless and unwarranted, demonstrating a clear lack of respect for the welfare of these children. Certainly this play was not consistent with the moral arguments of those opposed to liquor by the drink and was most un-Christian.

Almost Everyone Is On Payroll

By JOHN CUNIFF

AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — There is almost no way in which President Reagan can cut federal spending without producing outrage, because almost every family is involved in one way or another with government assistance.

Well, there's probably one way, but more about that after a bit of background.

If the government is on almost everyone's back, as the old campaign slogan put it, then it's true too that almost everyone is on the government's payroll. Each, you might say, is into the other deeply.

If you exclude military expenditures and interest on the public debt, benefit programs account for no less than 70 percent of budget outlays. Try excising anything undesirable from that without anguished cries.

You cannot tamper with Social Security, civil service, jobless assistance, student assistance, housing assistance, food stamps, child nutrition, Medicare or Medicaid without some pain. To cut the budget means almost inevitably, to cut benefits to specific human beings. Even to slow the rate at which benefits are growing can cause much howling.

In 1965, Federal payments for individuals amounted to $34 billion. In 1980, they were estimated at more than $280 billion. The growth was at a rate faster than that for military or most other spending categories.

The result: individuals, families, institutions and the government are in each other's clutches. It will take a mighty and emotional wrench to separate them. The grip is as strong as that of parent and child.

What can be done? One of the simplest restraints would be to remove benefit payments from measurement by the Consumer Price Index. Most payments increase as the CPI increases, and the CPI is acknowledged to overstate inflation.

The CPI, in fact, is so flawed, it seems, that nobody but the federal government takes it seriously anymore. It doesn't measure increases in the cost of living. What it does measure, it measures inaccurately.

What the CPI actually measures are increases in the products that make up what is called a market basket of goods and services. The government rarely changes that market basket, but individuals shoppers clearly do.

That is, shoppers switch to other goods and services when traditional ones become more expensive. They switch to chicken when beef prices rise sharply; they buy vegetables in season to avoid high prices.

Even more criticism is directed at the CPI for the unusual weight it gives to mortgage interest rates and home prices. Not everyone buys a house in a given year or month, but the CPI errs in assuming they do.

This error is then compounded by using conventional lending sources for its estimates of increases in mortgage interest costs, when last year it became clear that sellers were providing buyers with financing at rates far below those offered by banks and other institutions.

Finally, the inaccurate figures are applied improperly, most glaringly in regard to Social Security benefits. Older people who are dependent upon Social Security are rarely buyers of homes. More likely they own their home or rent, and thus are immune to mortgage cost increases.

Nevertheless, the CPI is used as an index in computing increases in Social Security payments, which in 1980 amounted to about 14 percent, an increase well above that won in raises by most American workers.

Everyone is happy, of course, that retirees have been getting a break, but if you judge by the revolt against government spending, few people are happy about the bills they've been getting. They want them cut.

The President, therefore, is presented with a great opportunity in the CPI: Get rid of it. To substitute a more accurate index is perhaps the least painful way of restraining the escalation of federal spending.

N.C. House Puts S&L Tax Break Into Deep Freeze

By WILLIAM M. WELCH
Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — A proposed $6 million annual tax break for savings and loan associations was placed in a deep freeze by the state House Thursday, while the Senate gave a tentative nod to a proposal changing the way property is divided in a divorce.

The House sent the tax-cut bill for savings and loans back to the House Finance Committee in a dramatic turnaround. Only one day earlier, representatives tentatively had approved the proposal over the objection of some powerful House leaders.

"I just felt the House would be better off if they could get their heads together and all go in the same direction," said House Speaker Liston Ramsey, explaining the rapid turnaround in House sentiment.

The action came on a day when legislative leaders said they were still largely in the dark on the effect President Reagan's proposed budget cuts would have on the state budget.

Meanwhile the Senate Banking Committee approved legislation that would greatly increase legal limits on interest rates on many consumer loans and second-mortgages made by banks.

In the House, the S&L's tax legislation was passed tentatively on Wednesday after the defeat of a delaying motion by House Base Budget Chairman Rep. Al Adams, D-Raleigh, who said any such tax-cut proposal should be held until late in the session when the economic outlook is more certain.

The sponsor of the bill, Rep. Dan Lilley, D-Kinston, had argued that the House should approve it with the assurance that the Senate would hold off final action on the bill. But he made the motion himself on Thursday to send the bill back to committee, after meeting Wednesday night with Ramsey, Adams and other House leaders.

The finance panel is expected to hold the tax proposal without action until at least June.

In other legislative action:

Divorce

With only four members dissenting, the Senate gave tentative approval to a bill that would require property acquired during a marriage to be divided equally between the husband and wife should they divorce. Final Senate action was delayed until next week.

"There is much evidence there is very strong support by the people of North Carolina for what this bill is trying to do," said Sen. Helen Marvin, D-Gastonia, its sponsor.

Budget

General Assembly staff members were at work reviewing what little specifics they knew about the president's economic program and what they mean for the state's proposed budget.

"I think it will have a negative impact. How serious it is, I don't know yet," said Linda Powell, senior fiscal analyst for the General Assembly. "I'm sure there will be an effect, especially in human resources and education."

Transportation Secretary Tom Bradshaw said his department expects a 20 percent cutback in federal aid available, with the cuts falling heaviest on airport construction and mass transit.

Deputy Budget Officer Marvin Dorman told legislative leaders that Reagan's proposed 5 percent cap in the annual growth of Medicaid payments would reduce state, federal and local Medicaid payments in North Carolina by $58 million in the next fiscal year. In the following year it would be reduced $74 million, he said.

Loans

The Senate Banking Committee approved and sent to the Senate a bill that would raise usury limits on installment loans, such as those made on automobiles, and second mortgages by banks, under $25,000.

But as it did, several lawmakers said they would try to amend the bill on the floor next week to make it go even further, removing nearly all state legal limits on interest rates.

The bill would set an effective maximum limit on the loans 6 percentage points over the Federal Reserve's discount rate, plus any surcharges applied on the federal rate. On Thursday that rate was 13 percent with a 3 percent surcharge, meaning the maximum legal rate allowed on that day, if the bill was law, would be 22 percent.

Currently the legal state limit is 15 percent for loans of $5,000 or less and 12 percent up to $25,000. There is no limit above that amount.

Other Action

In other action, — Two bills extending homestead exemptions on property taxes for the elderly and disabled were approved by the House Finance Committee and sent to an Appropriations panel.

— The House defeated a bill sponsored by Rep. Thomas Hunter, D-Rockingham, that would have required pregnant women to be tested for syphilis several times during pregnancy. Current law requires it once.

— The House defeated a bill that would have reduced the speed limit on unpaved roads from 55 mph to 45 mph.

— The Senate gave final approval to bills that would require the party affiliation of political candidates be checked when they file to run for office and that would allow voters to re-register by mail.

— Several legislators from Buncombe County filed a bill calling for $4.7 million to build a state office building near Asheville.

— The House Election Laws Committee approved and sent to the House legislation changing the way vacancies are filled when they occur in local elective positions, such as county commissions and others. The bill would require that local officials fill a vacancy with a person selected by the county executive board of the political party of which the former officeholder was a member.

Noblitt Col...

tion. The state plans to spend $19.4 million in the first fiscal year and $37 million in the second to meet cost increases in that program which is now approaching the half-billion-per-year mark. The counties will be called on to pay $4.2 million and $8.1 million more in the two fiscal years as their share in rising costs.

And borrowing a page from the federal bureaucracy, the state government is attempting to push through a special budget provision that allows the state to hold back local sales tax proceeds, shared tax revenues such as gasoline and alcohol tax funds, and state aid money from counties which refuse to pay Medicaid bills.

This measure was proposed in the 1980 General Assembly and rejected. It grew out of a bitter fight two years ago when counties ran more than $5 million into the red trying to meet nursing home costs which soared as the result of state action.

Some local governments balked at paying the bill, and the state has since moved to take over this responsibility. The change took place when the law allowed Medicaid coverage in less than intensive care nursing homes in an effort to encourage a less expensive alternative. But many individuals remained in the higher care units, while new numbers were added to the rolls in covered rest homes.

Public Schools

Education is another major concern for county commissioners who must come up with the local share of public school spending. Recommended spending for public schools as a percentage of the total General Fund budget was 47.2 percent last year, but continues to fall as it would be only 44.8 percent in the second fiscal year of the new budget. Declining state participation, county officials fear, will increase demands by local school boards for added county dollars.

The proposed budget does not offer any hope to local officials who have set their sights on a revenue-sharing approach to aiding local budgets. This system, earmarking a certain percentage of state revenue to be distributed equitably to cities and counties, is not recommended in the budget, although a separate bill has been introduced seeking that approach.

Finally, county officials are keeping close tabs on developments in the Highway Fund. There are signs that legislators will seek to close the gap by transferring money from the General Fund to the Highway Fund instead of imposing a higher gasoline tax. Such a move could only mean less money for the educational, health and social programs.

Historical

Group To Meet

The Pitt County Historical Society will hold a dinner meeting at 6:30 p.m. on Tuesday at the Masonic Lodge on Charles Street.

After a dinner served by the Eastern Star, Dr. Hugh Wease, district coordinator for an educational effort called National History Day, will give a brief presentation. He will talk about the aim of this effort to engage students in historical projects, presentations, and papers. Many students from Pitt County will participate in this activity.

Reservations must be made with Annie Turner, 1701 E. Fourth St., by noon Sunday. The cost per person for attending this dinner meeting is $5.50. Guests are invited to attend.

Confirmed

The official canvass conducted yesterday by the Pitt Board of Elections of Tuesday's mixed drink referendum results confirmed the totals published by "The Daily Reflector."

The elections board certified that the issue passed in Greenville by a margin of 4,148 to 2,599, making Greenville the 27th municipality in North Carolina since 1978 to approve the sale of mixed beverages.

Elm Grove Church

Quarterly meetings will be held this weekend at Elm Grove F.W.B. Church near Ayden, with Holy Communion Saturday night at 7:30 with Rev. Stephen Gooding.

Sunday at 11 a.m. the pastor, Rev. Elmer Jackson Jr., and choir will provide the service. At 3 p.m. Sunday, Rev. Nathaniel Darden and Live Oak Church of Grifton will be in charge of the service. The public is invited.

Whoooooooooooooooooo!!!!

Five men and five women will represent the U.S. in the Speed Skating World Sprint Championships in Grenoble, France, this weekend. Spectator interest in speed skating has increased dramatically since the 1980 Lake Placid Olympics where Sullivan Award winner Eric Heiden and other top-notch competitors dazzled the world with their determination and stamina. Racing is one of the most natural forms of competition known to man. Modern day horse, boat, and foot racing can be traced back to ancient times. The exact origin of speed skating is not known. But Dutch paintings of the 17th century depict it as a popular pastime.

DO YOU KNOW — How many gold medals did Eric Heiden win at the 1980 Winter Olympics?

Plan No Dividend By Int'l Harvester

CHICAGO (AP) — Citing a $397.3 million loss for the last fiscal year, International Harvester Co. has announced it will not pay dividends on its common stock for the first time in 70 years.

Chief executive officer Archie R. McCardell announced the decision to stockholders Thursday, saying the company posted a $36.4 million loss for the quarter ending Jan. 31 despite record first-quarter sales of $1.6 billion.

The announcement climaxed a meeting spiked with controversy over Harvester's forgiveness of a $1.8 million loan to McCardell — an arrangement Harvester officials say was written into McCardell's contract in 1977.

The truck, construction and agricultural equipment company, which recorded a $369.3 million profit in 1979, blamed its loss last year on the recession and a six-month strike by the United Auto Workers.

"All our markets are depressed," McCardell told stockholders. "The construction-equipment industry is really in the doldrums... (sales of) medium- and heavy-duty trucks are lower than at any comparable period in the last 20 years."

He also painted a dreary outlook for the coming year, telling stockholders the company probably would end fiscal 1981 with a net operating loss.

High interest rates are the biggest reason for the company's continuing struggle, he said, because they have depressed markets for Harvester products. With economic forecasters predicting the prime rate will remain at or above 17 percent until July, Harvester probably will close out fiscal 1981 with a loss of between $50 million and $100 million, he said.

However, he said, a program to slash operating expenses by $200 million could brighten the financial picture somewhat.

The company also is attempting to bolster its sagging credit rating by forming a group of international banks to structure long-term financing of its existing short-term debts. This, McCardell said, will help the company achieve "earnings recovery."

At a news conference, McCardell said it was the first time the company had not paid quarterly dividends since 1910. International Harvester was formed in 1902.

1 ♦ Pass 1 ♦ Pass
4 ♦ Pass Pass Pass
Opening lead: King of ♠

Bridge is not a game for hotheads. If you get rattled and make a hasty play, you might find that you have lightened your wallet unnecessarily.

North made the technically correct opening bid of the suit below his singleton. When South responded one spade, North realized that there should be a play for game even if his partner had a minimum response, so he took the pressure off his partner by jumping to four spades.

West led the king of clubs and hit the panic button when he saw dummy. He was afraid of setting up two club tricks in dummy, so he decided to shift. In an effort to cut down on dummy's ruffing ability, he led the ace of trumps and another.

Declarer won in hand and led another club, and the ace of clubs was the last trick for the defense. Two of declarer's diamonds were discarded on dummy's queen and jack of clubs.

Had West retained his composure, he might have found the winning defense. He could account for three probable tricks in his own hand and, unless partner held the king of spades, the only source of a fourth trick was the diamond suit. For a trick to materialize there, East would have to hold the queen of diamonds.

Thus, West should have concentrated on making sure that declarer had no place to get rid of his diamond losers. Clubs represented a source of discards, so West should have tried to neutralize that suit.

After winning the king of clubs, West should continue with the ace and another club. Declarer can take one diamond discard, but that is all. When declarer leads a trump, West must grab the ace and lead a fourth round of clubs. East ruffs and, although declarer can overruff, he is deprived of his second diamond discard. No matter how hard he tries, he has no way to avoid losing the setting trick to East's queen of diamonds.

Life As It's Lived

Survivalists Miss Big Handicap In Hideaways

By GAIL MICHAELS

Not too long ago Phil Donahue had a program on survivalists. Although survivalists have often been compared to Chicken Little, they differ in one important respect. They may run out to warn their neighbors that the sky is falling, but they make sure to don their construction helmets first.

Of course, there are as many different kinds of survivalists as there are new, improved detergents. One of Phil's guests publishes a survival newsletter in which the emphasis is on individual preparation. He himself has bought a farm somewhere in Arkansas in an area so inaccessible that he and his neighbors can easily pick off with a shotgun any visitors who happen by on Doomsday.

His stated goal is no less than the survival of civilization.

The other guests on the show leaned more toward a group approach. They, too, planned to gun down intruders, but within their own community, they stressed cooperation. Although many still lived in urban areas, they were ready at the first whistle of a nuclear missile to move to hideaways in the mountains where, by working together, they could survive without the aid of the military-industrial complex.

With the world in the mess it's in, I'd be the last to dismiss the fears of these people out-of-hand. The program scared me enough so that I began to think about learning to garden my own produce.

But the more I thought about it, the more I realized that I'd need other skills if civilization began to disintegrate. Not only would I have to learn how to preserve food, I'd have to know how to weave, sew clothes by hand, and churn butter. To a woman with the manual dexterity of a rock, this kind of lifestyle as the appeal of going bear hunting with a rubber knife.

Besides, I began to think about fall-out. After all, I'd seen "On the Beach." If Gregory Peck couldn't make it, what chance would the average peon have? It would be a shame to give up reading for churning if, in the end, I could still be felled by one malevolent particle of dust.

Then I saw a newspaper article which offered the ultimate solution. Somewhere out west a company is building one and two-bedroom underground condominiums each with its own power source and a four-year supply of dried and canned foods.

They are priced below $100,000 and offer something like 700 square feet of comfortable living space.

I handed the article to Phillip. "What do you think of this?" I asked.

He read the article and, with a troubled look, handed it back. "Four years underground? In 700 square feet? With two kids?"

He's right. I'd rather be dead.

Legislators Say N.C. Banking Laws Are 'Jumble'

By W.A. WERONKA Jr.
Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — While proposals to raise legal limits on interest rates charged for many types of loans began moving in a Senate committee this week, other legislators are finding the state's banking laws an incomprehensible jumble.

"It's so complex, it defies explanation," observed Alan Hirsch of the state attorney general's consumer protection division as he tried to explain interest law to the House Banking Committee.

Hirsch said he has been dealing with the problem for six years and "I still get confused."

"It's a difficult task," Hirsch said. "It's mainly because we have a very confused state in our laws. They were never designed in one piece. It was added to piecemeal and that has caused turmoil."

Hirsch said there are so many factors affecting interest rates, that there is no one answer to a specific law. He gave the example of contract interest rates, where the interest rate is currently 12 percent for loans under $25,000. He said that rate is usually for second mortgages, but banks can and have found several other statutes that apply and can give them a higher rate.

He also said federal law complicates the problem further by preempting many of the state laws.

Hirsch said it would take a commitment from the General Assembly to solve the problem, but added that a 1977 study commission had not accomplished too much in that area.

Hirsch offered several possible solutions. The most drastic, he said, would be to lift the ceilings completely on all interest rates and allow open competition to decide the rates — a proposal backed by banking industry.

The problem with that approach, he said, was it would eliminate the usury limits, designed to protect consumers from unscrupulous lenders.

"And there are always some of them around," Hirsch said. He said the usury laws, legal limits on interest rates, have a tradition going back to biblical times and the money changers in the temple. That, he said, was evidence that they were needed.

Another approach Hirsch offered was "floating rates," which would tie the interest rate to some standard like the federal discount rate. He said this would allow open competition without endangering the protection of the consumer.

He said the entire state law on interest rates could be rewritten to incorporate floating rates in some basic categories. Another way of doing it, he said, would be to approach each statute separately.

That approach is being used by the Senate in two bills now being considered.

The Senate Banking Committee Thursday approved a bill that would set a floating rate on installment loans, such as for automobiles, and second mortgages made by banks under $25,000. The limit would be set at 6 percentage points over the Federal Reserve's discount rate, plus any surcharges.

With the federal rate now at 13 percent with a 3 percent surcharge, the limit would be 22 percent if the bill was now law.

Current law limits the rates to 12 percent to 15 percent, depending on the size of the loan.

But several senators, including both supporters and opponents of that bill, said they would back a move next week to repeal virtually all state restrictions on interest rates for those types of loans.

City Tag Policy Explained

The city has received a number of inquiries regarding the replacement of metal city license tags by persons who either lost their 1980 plates or failed to buy one for a vehicle last year.

Al Averette, city finance officer, said that people who owned a vehicle here last year but failed to have a city plate for it will have to purchase the plate this year for $2.50, plus buy the regular $5 1981 sticker for display on the permanent tag.

He said also that local motorists who lost their metal city tag would have to pay $2.50 for a replacement, as well as $5 for the sticker.

Averette noted, however, that if someone has just purchased a vehicle, resides in a newly annexed area, or just moved to Greenville, the

Quiz Man About Poison Bootleg

THOMSON, Ga. (AP) — A man was being held for questioning after agents seeking the source of poison whiskey that killed six people found a still and empty rubbing alcohol bottles behind his home, officials said.

The six people who died suffered from acetone poisoning, apparently caused by drinking isopropyl alcohol, or rubbing alcohol, which turns into acetone in the human body, officials have said.

McDuffie County Sheriff William Swan said no charges were filed against the man, but the man was being questioned in connection with the deaths.

"The charges are not definite yet. We'll likely charge him ... with possession of illegal distillery apparatus. He will be charged with something," Swan said Thursday night.

Swan said investigators from Warren and McDuffie counties, the Georgia Bureau of Investigation and the federal Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms found the still behind the man's home.

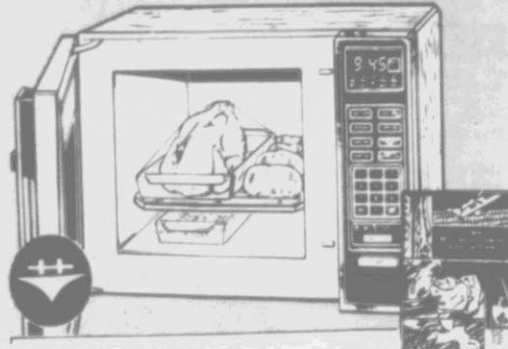

Thompson GBI Agent Jimmy Davis said four people have been killed by the brew in Warren and surrounding counties since October. The State Crime Lab in Augusta said two others died in that city after drinking it.

Energy Seminar Is Planned

The North Carolina Energy Division will present a seminar here Monday, Feb. 23 for individuals interested in applying for small scale energy technology grants.

The session will be held at 7:30 p.m. at the Willis Building, corner of First and Reade Streets.

The grants, which are part of the federal government's Appropriate Technology Small Grants Program, are designed to promote the development of new energy technologies such as solar collectors, wind and hydro systems, and other energy alternatives.

Grants of up to $10,000 for the conceptual development of ideas and up to $50,000 for projects aimed at the practical development of new technologies and for demonstrating the commercial feasibility of new energy systems will be awarded.

The two-hour seminar is free and open for all interested individuals. Persons interested in attending should pre-register by calling Linda Hix, local Energy Program coordinator, at 752-7166.

Ministers To Pets Of World

By BILL RAWLINS
 Associated Press Writer
 GALLATIN, Tenn. (AP) — It was love at first sight on a cold night in 1971 when a mutt strayed into the life of Stoney Jackson, a retired minister, writer and boxer. Now, a year after Lady's death, he preaches pets' funerals.
 "I want to spend a good part of my last years being a minister to the animals of the world," said Jackson, 67, who'd had no pets since he was 15 until that winter night in 1971. "I want to preach funeral services for pets."

 In a country which spends nearly $2 billion a year on food for more than 30 million pet dogs and about 25 million pet cats, the bearded Jackson, who receives a small pension as a retired Christian Church (Disciples of Christ) minister, may be the logical man to preach pet funerals.
 During the past summer, he slept with five stray dogs on what he says is the only property he owns — the family cemetery lot in Tullahoma.

The Rev. Charles E. Jackson — Stoney was his boxing name — last Nov. 15 brought tears to 50 mourners with what he calls the first annual Animal Memorial Day Service at Gallatin's Pet Rest Memorial Garden. A nameless stray was buried in "The Tomb of the Unknown Stray."
 Among the mourners was Lady II, another part-collie whom Jackson rescued from a shelter because she reminded him of the original Lady.
 The pet cemetery, north of Nashville, is one of 60 in the nation — and two in Tennessee. The other is south of Nashville at Columbia.
 In February 1979, Jackson was evicted from the home where his mother had died — and he said he learned then what it is like to be a stray.

 "I always would have had sympathy for a stray," Jackson said, "but now I have empathy for them. I know the feeling of abandonment and rejection is an awful thing to deal with."
 Jackson has preached at churches in Terre Haute, Ind., Fitzgerald, Ga., Daytona Beach and Lantana, Fla., and Effingham, Ill. He was in the Army Chaplain Corps during World War II — and once won $4,000 on the $64,000 Question television show in the 1950s.
 When questions about the integrity of the quiz shows surfaced, he first refused to accept his $4,000 — until the Internal Revenue Service told him he would owe taxes on it, anyway.
 Married for six years early in his life, Jackson has no children.
 When he undertook to become a modern Francis of Assisi, Jackson said he anticipated opposition from theologians who, he said, would deny that a dog has a soul.
 The Bible says God gave man dominion over the lower animals, but Jackson said, "I think we're hung up on this matter of dominion over the animals. I think it's become an ego trip."
 Asked if he believes a dog had a soul, Jackson replied, "Yessirree, I do."
 An official with the Southern Baptist Convention headquarters in Nashville was subdued in his criticism and declined to be quoted by name.
 "My hunch is that what Baptists would say is that pets are creatures of God to be treated with respect," he said. "But to imply that somehow that the animal is on the same level as a human is going further than the Scripture teaches."

 Dr. O.C. Edwards, dean of Seabury Western Theological Seminary for Episcopal clergymen in Evanston, Ill., was sympathetic to Jackson.
 "I have had dogs that I have cried over when they died," he said. He said, however, "I don't believe pets have inherent souls."
 Edwards said some Episcopal, Anglican and Roman Catholic priests bless pets during the Feast of St. Francis, in remembrance of the monk of Assisi.
 If there is a problem, he said, it would be spending money on pets at the expense of humans.
 "The money that is spent on pet food, for example, could go a long way toward solving the world's hunger problems," he noted.
 Jackson said he does not refer to his canines as pets but as friends. "They have souls. God either created all of us or he created none of us," he said.
 Three years ago, he wrote and published a paperback book titled, "The Gospel According to Lady," purportedly "by Lady herself." Lady makes Jackson's case in the opening paragraphs:
 "Of all the animals that God created, the only one for whom he found it necessary to provide a Saviour was the human animal. I think that is very significant."
 "We 'lower animals' are just what we are and we don't try to be anything else ... We figure that God knew what He was doing when He made us and that's enough."

Guest Pastor To Appear At Immanuel

Horace H. Hilton Jr. will be guest speaker at Immanuel Baptist Church here Sunday through Tuesday.
 He will speak at the 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. services Sunday and again at 7:30 p.m. Monday and Tuesday. He is senior minister of Myrtle Grove Presbyterian Church, Wilmington.

HORACE H. HILTON JR.

He received his M.D. degree from Louisville Presbyterian Theological Seminary, Louisville, Ky. and has served three times as commissioner to the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church, U.S. He has also been moderator of his Presbyteries and served on several committees.
 Hilton has completed 21 study tours to Israel and Europe. Hilton and his wife, Tennie, live at Wrightsville Beach.

Seek Universal Council Of Christians

GEVEVA, Switzerland (AP) — A World Council of Churches commission has adopted a plan aimed at leading to an universal council of Christians and a new statement of common faith.
 The WCC faith and order department is consolidating existing agreements by dialogue groups on various doctrinal matters, hoping this will encourage churches eventually to meet together in an inclusive ecumenical council.
 This would be the only body with authority to formulate a common confession of the apostolic faith, and may "take us to the end of the century, says the Rev. William Lazareth, director of the faith and order department.
 "But once the agreements on baptism, Eucharist and ministry are accepted by all the churches, we will have taken a step which is unprecedented in modern ecumenical history."

Assails Airing Play By PBS

NEW YORK (AP) — Nathan Perlmutter, director of the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith, says the scheduled presentation of Shakespeare's "Merchant of Venice" on the Public Broadcasting System network Feb. 23 is "awash in bad taste."
 He says the play's character, Shylock, "would have warmed the heart of Nazi propagandist Julius Streicher."
 The Rev. Wesley Jennings will be installed as new minister of Hollywood Presbyterian Church during morning worship Sunday. The guest speaker will be a former pastor, William S. Forbes. He will also lead the installation service. The public is invited to attend.

A Stand of Birches

When Longfellow mentioned "the spreading chestnut tree" everyone pictured it. Likewise it wasn't hard to envision "the trail of the lonesome pine." But little has been written about a single white birch. It's always a stand of birches.
 Perhaps because birches are like people. They're the same in many ways, yet each is different. And their true magnificence cannot be realized seeing one alone. It's when they stand together that their diversity blends into a oneness which can be spectacular.
 In the worship and activities of the church we gain the true perspective of our individuality — and our community. The church cares about you as a person. Yet it helps you learn to care about the society of which you are a part. It inspires each to serve all. To achieve oneness of faith and spirit despite our diversity.

F O P W R W P N R T J L M S R F

Yesterday's Cryptquip — RIOTOUSLY BEAUTIFUL
YELLOW BUTTERFLY FLIES AWAY.
Today's Cryptquip clue: F equals S

The Cryptquip is a simple substitution cipher in which each letter used stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words, and words using an apostrophe can give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is accomplished by trial and error.

Recitals Are Being Presented

ECU News Bureau
Three senior student instrumentalists in the East Carolina University School of Music will perform in recital this week in the A.J. Fletcher Music Center Recital Hall.
David Lee Merriam of Richmond, Va., a saxophonist and candidate for the Bachelor of Music degree in music therapy, performed Thursday night.
His program included the J.S. Bach Sonata No. 4, and Eccles Sonata, "Improvisation" by Bonneau and Rueff's "Chanson et Passepied." Piano accompanist is James Gilliam.
Merriam is a student of Brad Foley of the ECU music faculty and the son of Harold and Edith Merriam of Richmond, Va.

Tonight at 7:30 p.m., a joint program by percussionist Stefan Stuber of Southern Pines and tubist Joe Alexander of Woodbridge, Va. will be held.
Both are candidates for the Bachelor of Music Education degree, and Alexander is pursuing a second degree program in music theory and composition.
Stuber will be featured in performances of "Tanka" (for multiple percussion) by John Bergamo, "Toccata" (for marimba) by Henk Badings, "Two Movements for Tympani" by Rich Holly and "O Come, Sweet Death" by J.S. Bach, arranged by Stuber for a marimba ensemble.

He will be assisted in the Bach by five student percussionists.
Stuber is a student of Harold Jones of the ECU School of Music percussion faculty and the son of Dr. and Mrs. R.L. Stuber of 120 N. Valley Road, Southern Pines.

Alexander's portion of the program will include the Camille Saint-Saens "Romance," Arcangelo Corelli's "Sonata da Chiesa," Thomas Beversdorf's Sonata for Bass Tuba and Piano, and Paul Holmes's Quartet for Tubas.

Piano accompanist is Elizabeth Braxton. Assisting are Norman Simmons and Tim Burgess, euphonium, and Bruce Mosier, tuba. Mosier, a graduate assistant at ECU, has been Alexander's tuba instructor.

Alexander's parents are George and Nellie Alexander of 1832 Hylton Ave., Woodbridge, Va.

Art Show This Weekend

Paintings, drawings, sculpture and prints by 50 leading artists from 11 states and 13 cities in North Carolina will be exhibited at the seventh annual Southeastern Fine Arts Festival at the Benton Convention Center, downtown, Winston-Salem, on Saturday and Sunday. Admission is free to the public for the first time in five years. Hours on Saturday are 10 a.m. until 10 p.m. and Sunday from 12:30 to 6 p.m.

Among the group exhibits will be Associated Artists of Winston-Salem and Associated Photographers of Winston-Salem. Many past exhibitors will be back this year. Among previous exhibitors is a Farmville resident, Clara Flanagan, who works with acrylics and pencil.

The seventh Southeastern Fine Arts Festival is sponsored by the participating artists. They sell their work directly to the public and there are no commissions on the sales. The Festival is coordinated by Southeastern Art Shows.

Public Hearing..

of Medicine, cited the degree of local emphasis on rescue as a key to the problems here. Allison contended that cross training of fire and rescue personnel has "been a bust here" and he noted that the system "not only needs a divorce, it needs an annulment." He said that with Pitt Memorial Hospital becoming a regional medical center for the 29-county eastern section, the Greenville area should be a "strong brother" in the forefront in providing services. Instead, he suggested, "we are the gimp brother...lagging behind the other counties."

Allison said a "sprint car" rescue concept is employed in some areas, including New Orleans, providing a car fully equipped for emergency medical services, manned by a paramedic. He said that he saw the sprint car in operation in New Orleans and the $30 cost involved in dispatching the vehicle to an emergency compared with $75 each time the ambulance was dispatched.

Allison told the gathering that he sensed energy among those at the meeting last night and he said he "would like to see us press on" and "keep our momentum."

Brent Stocks, who served as captain of the volunteer rescue members until they disbanded last February, said that the volunteers left because they felt the local system was one they could not work with. Stocks said "we all miss it" and he noted that their rescue involvement had constituted a "second home to us."

He said that if a system was established "we felt we could work with, many of us would come back."

Stuart Savage, who was involved in volunteer fire and rescue services here for many years prior to the 1980 disbandment, said the basic problem here is administration. He said that cross training of fire and rescue personnel for the most part is not what people are upset about but he said the problem goes back to administration of the system.

Savage contended that while fire personnel need basic rescue skills, there is a need for specialization. He said the city needs to establish priorities and "get away from less essential things." He mentioned a definite need for volunteer rescue services as a means of supplementing paid personnel.

John Conway, former member of the paid rescue force here, said the city does not have the financial resources to fund a separate system and attention, therefore, should be turned to the county. He said the county has more resources and a county operation would not mean that rescue services would be lost in the city.

Former City Council member Mildred McGrath, who was on the local governing board when the decisions were made to cross train the two segments, said she would be the first to admit that "the way it is, it is not working." She said that fire and rescue are undermanned but she added that actual services are better than what the public perceives them to be.

Mrs. McGrath observed that it would take "at least ten more people to bring the squad up to standards" but she said the "money is not there." She also cited a need for a new main fire station and a facility "on the other side of the railroad tracks."

Dr. Harry McLean, who has been involved in emergency services at the hospital, said that it would be easy to draw the conclusion that criticism was aimed at present fire-rescue personnel but he said remarks last night should not be interpreted that way. McLean said that under the circumstances, fire-rescue members "have done a magnificent job."

Dr. Sam White, a member of the protection and safety subcommittee, expressed a particular interest in the volunteer situation and said that with the sophistication of rescue "getting higher and higher," volunteers will have to be worked differently than they would have ten years ago.

White said that the question had to be answered here as to whether mediocrity is the goal or to go all the way with emergency medical services.

Committee member Tom Parrish observed that the local police department "has been the whipping boy of the community" and has "been on the short end of the stick." Parrish said that while the department had 102 members to serve a population of 27,000 in 1970, the personnel level dropped to 87 in 1980 while population increased to some 35,000.

Mrs. Ruth Trevathan and Kelly Barnhill are serving as co-chairmen of the protection and safety subcommittee.

Tide Finally Turns For State

By TOM FOREMAN Jr.
Associated Press Writer

In a year that has shown North Carolina State head basketball coach Jim Valvano every aspect of Murphy's Law, the Wolfpack mentor finally found out that things do go right once in a while.

N.C. State has held leads against Maryland in College Park, North Carolina on both teams' courts, and even took Virginia down to the wire before a controversial call. But against Duke Thursday night, the tide finally turned and the Wolfpack took a 52-51 victory. For once, Valvano could smile about a close one.

"All I can say is that we're entitled to one," Valvano said of the victory. "If that last shot hadn't gone in, I'm afraid we would have raised the white flag."

Valvano was on the edge of his seat along with the rest of the Cameron Indoor Stadium crowd as his team squandered a five-point lead midway through the second half and actually allowed the Blue Devils to gain a slight advantage late in the contest.

However, the exploits of guards Sidney Lowe and Dereck Whittenburg saved the day. Lowe canned four straight free throws to bring N.C. State to a 48-47 lead which it never relinquished. Whittenburg added four more to secure the triumph.

Only Lowe and Whittenburg attempted free throws for the Wolfpack and they hit all 12. As a team, N.C. State shot 58.8 percent from the floor, far above their norm of 49.9 percent. The performance was spurred by a 65 percent display in the first half.

"This was a big win for us. Duke has been playing well, very high emotionally," Valvano said. "We were fortunate to win. We have been on the other end of the score many times this year."

Two key moments led to Duke's loss. With a 45-44 lead, Gene Banks missed the first of a one-and-one. After that miss, Lowe hit the first of his four free throws. With 25 seconds left, guard Chip Engelland put up a "brick" which barely touched the rim. Duke trailed by one at that point and was forced to foul in an attempt to get the ball back.

But Whittenburg then hit the first of his four straight tosses and the issue was basically settled.

The loss overshadows the one-man show Banks put on in the second half. Of Duke's 26 points, he had 16, including five straight field goals. He finished the night with 18 points, the only Blue Devil to reach double figures.

"They made some big plays during the game and we made some dumb plays at the end," Duke coach Mike Krzyzewski said of the loss. "Our shot selection could have been better in the second half and we should have played more intensely..."

Lowe also had 18 points, while Jones and Whittenburg added 10 points each.

The weekend offers something for everyone in the Atlantic Coast Conference. In Chapel Hill, four seniors will play their last game in Carmichael Auditorium, while two Top 20 teams look to pick up the pieces from their last unsuccessful encounters.

The schedule has Wake Forest at Maryland, Clemson at North Carolina and Georgia Tech at Duke. Notre Dame and conference champion Virginia tangle in Chicago on Sunday afternoon.

No. 20 Maryland has likely spent the last week wondering if it will find the touch that took the Terrapins to the semifinals of the NCAA East Regionals last season. Coach Lefty Driesell's squad was embarrassed by 13th-ranked North Carolina, 76-63, on national television last Sunday. The team will be looking to avenge a loss to the Demon Deacons earlier this month.

Wake Forest was hoping to catch the top-ranked Cavaliers in the conference title chase. But the Tigers had other ideas and pinned an 81-77 loss on the fifth-ranked Wake Forest team. The battle now will be focused on second place.

The Tar Heels followed their smashing victory at College Park with an 81-55 whipping of William & Mary. A victory would keep alive their hopes of capturing the second seed for the first round of the tournament.

The Yellow Jackets have experienced enough troubles this season. Now, they must meet a Duke team quite distressed over Thursday night's loss.

Pirates Seek Revenge Over Richmond Spiders

East Carolina's Pirates get set for their next-to-last basketball game of the season, looking for a little revenge.

East Carolina will travel to Richmond on Saturday for a 7:30 p.m. in Robins Center against the University of Richmond Spiders.

The Pirates go into the game with an 11-13 record, and need to win this one and the next, Saturday at Illinois State, to avoid a losing record. But that will not be an easy task.

Earlier this year, the Spiders romped to an 80-63 victory over the Pirates in Greenville, and having to play in Robins Center certainly won't make it any easier.

"We have to approach this game as having nothing to lose and everything to gain," Coach Dave Odom said of the upcoming contest. "I hope that our players will relax, put their heads, hands and hearts together and go in with the idea of playing relaxed and hard. If they do, they have a chance."

Odom feels that it will be hard for Richmond to get up for the game, having won so easily in Greenville, plus taking into account the Pirate record. Richmond comes in with a 13-10 mark on the year, having won eight of 11 games at home.

"We can certainly use the underdog role to our advantage," Odom added.

But there are little other chances planned for the Pirates. "It's too late in the year to be trying to chance our philosophy. We've tried to love 'em and pat 'em as opposed to the hardline attitude."

East Carolina comes into the game with two players averaging in double figures, led by Charles Watkins 12.9. Barry Wright is the only other Pirate hitting double figures with a 10.0 mark. Close, however, are Mark McLaurin at 9.5, David Underwood at 9.0 and Michael Gibson at 8.3.

Richmond counters with two of the top scorers around, and has three in double figures now.

Leading the way is Mike Perry, one of the nation's leaders. He's currently hitting 23.3 points a game, including 37 points against Virginia Tech earlier this year. He's joined by John Schweitz with an 18.7 mark, and the ability to score high too, as witnessed by his 32 against Virginia State, and his 28 to lead the Spiders against East Carolina.

Of recent, Jeff Pehl has come on strong, bringing his average up to 10.6 a game. He and Schweitz each scored 18 points in leading Richmond to a 53-51 win over William & Mary last week. Pehl is also the leading rebounder, with a 7.3 average, and pulled off 15 for a seasonal high against Virginia Tech.

"Perry and Schweitz are the ones who practically did it all against us before," Odom said. "But the way Pehl is playing, we have to be aware of him too."

Despite the fact that the Pirates have no chance now for a winning season, Odom sees no reason why the players should be down. "If we had had to play, say Thursday, it might have been different (coming off a last-second 57-55 loss to UNC-Wilmington). But we gave them the day off Wednesday, and I think they'll be in a right frame of mind for the game."

The Pirates have a week off following the game before closing the season at Illinois State next Saturday afternoon.

A couple of weeks ago, when East Carolina entertained the University of North Carolina, the officials stopped the game at one point and insisted that the Minges Coliseum organ be silenced unless there was a time-out on the floor.

That, apparently, was in response to a complaint by UNC Coach Jennifer Alley, about a rule forbidding artificial noisemakers when the ball is "live." Well, we can understand that.

Wednesday night, up at N.C. State, while the game between the Lady Wolfpack and East Carolina was going on, the State pep band kept up an almost constant din. There were trumpet blasts and drum rolls after each State score.

There was no response from the officials until half time, when a request was made, not by a Pirate coach, but a Pirate supporter, for the same rules that apply in Minges to be applied at Reynolds. The official then went over and cautioned the band. That silenced them, but only for a little while. Then they started in again, and there was no more action from the officials.

It all seems strange, since State's Kay Yow was the coach who got the rule put into the state regulations.

After the game, ECU's Cathy Andruzzi was asked why she didn't complain. Her explanation was that she didn't notice. "I was too busy coaching," she said.

Could be a lesson to be a few others who seem to be looking for things to complain about.

East Carolina's women close out their home season, and the regular season Monday night, and it will be a farewell to five seniors who have been very instrumental in the success enjoyed by the Pirates.

The five include Marcia Girven, Kathy Riley, Lydia Rountree, Laurie Sikes, and Heidi Owen. The list of things these women have accomplished is extensive. Three of them, Rountree, Riley and Girven are among the top ten in career scoring, rebounding, assists, and steals. Girven, with 976 rebounds, still has a chance to join Rosie Thompson as the only other Pirate with 1,000 points and 1,000 rebounds. She also holds the record for shots blocked with 208. Sikes is the number one player in assists with 378, while Rountree is second is 229.

In addition to the numbers these women have accumulated, their leadership of the program has been outstanding.

East Carolina should almost certainly be returned to the national rankings this Monday. It would be nice to celebrate that, and cheer the Pirates on to victory over Wake Forest and into a three-way tie for the State Title with a big crowd in Minges.

Come out and bid these fine players an appropriate goodbye.

Says He's Hired Despite Denials

NEW YORK (AP) — Despite repeated denials by both sides, UCLA basketball Coach Larry Brown has agreed to a four-year contract to coach the New Jersey Nets beginning next season, the New York Daily News said in today's editions.

The newspaper quoted sources as saying Brown, who led the Bruins into the national championship finals last year, has denied the agreement publicly because he believes an announcement that he was leaving would ruin UCLA's season and hurt recruiting. The story said Brown is still dedicated to his players on the team but has been turned off by constant comparisons to UCLA coaching legend John Wooden and unsupportive alumni. The hiring will be announced the first week of April, the News said.

Southern Nash Pressures Jags

By RICK SCOPPE
Reflector Sports Writer
LITTLEFIELD — Southern Nash likes pressure defense. Lots of it. Thursday night Farmville Central received a full-court helping of that pressure and it proved too much for the young Jaguars.

The fourth-seeded Firebirds relied on a relentless, aggressive full-court press and a 10-0 spurt late in the third quarter to defeat Farmville Central, 60-47, and advance into tonight's ECC championship game with North Pitt, a 57-39 winner over Greene Central.

In girls' semifinal action, North Lenoir's girls held off Greene Central, 45-42, and will face unbeaten Southwest Edgecombe tonight (7:00) for the tournament title.

"Their pressure defense beat us," Farmville Central coach Mike Terrell said. "They're like wildcats on defense. We worked against it and I thought we were well-prepared for it, but I guess we weren't. There's nothing like being on the court and facing it for real."

From the opening tap to the last whistle, Farmville faced the Firebird press and came away bumped and bruised and beaten. "They beat us too death," Terrell said. "We got intimidated by it and that hurt us both offensively and defensively."

In all, the Jaguars turned the ball over 21 times. That hurt. But what hurt perhaps even more was a third quarter that saw the Jaguars hit just 18% from the field and be outscored 10-0 in the final three minutes.

Farmville led at the end of the first period, 13-12, but trailed at the half, 29-26. The Jaguars regained the lead early in the third period and were up, 32-30, when the Firebirds surged ahead.

McCullen Wiggins, who finished with 16 points, hit a field goal and four of six free throws to spark the surge, which gave the Firebirds a 40-32 lead going into the final period.

Southern Nash pushed its lead to 50-34 — its biggest of the night — with five minutes left only to see the Jaguars cut the deficit to 52-47 with 2:10 left. But the Jaguars scored just two more points while the Firebirds hit six of 11 free throw in the last two minutes to seal the victory.

"That third quarter really hurt us a lot," Terrell said. "I still thought we'd come back, but every time we'd get close they seemed able to make things happen and convert it into points."

It was Farmville that converted early, however. The Jaguars took a 13-8 lead with 1:47 left on a jumper by Terrance Pettaway, who finished the night with nine points and 15 rebounds. But the Firebirds closed within one, 13-12, at the end of the period.

Far more important for Farmville, however, was what happened with 37 seconds left. Going up for a rebound, Ronald Dixon — one of only two seniors on this year's club — turned his ankle and was helped off the court. The Jaguars, already playing without point guard Stuart Gordon, now were without Dixon, who did not play again.

Things got worse moments later when Farmville's Barry Gay picked up his third foul with 5:20 left in the second period. Gay did not return until midway through the third period, after senior Arthur Wooten, playing for Dixon, picked up his fourth foul.

Despite playing without Dixon, Gay and Gordon, the Jaguars managed to stay close to the Firebirds with foul shooting and rebounding.

Farmville, which hit just 33% from the floor for the game, scored but two field goals in the second period but connected on six of seven free throws to trail at the half by only three, 26-23.

Farmville also controlled the boards, outrebounding the Southern Nash, the ECC's #2 rebounding team, 49-41. Pettaway's 15 rebounds were supplemented by Andrew Edwards' 12 and Melvin Sutton's nine. Edwards also had 11 points for Farmville.

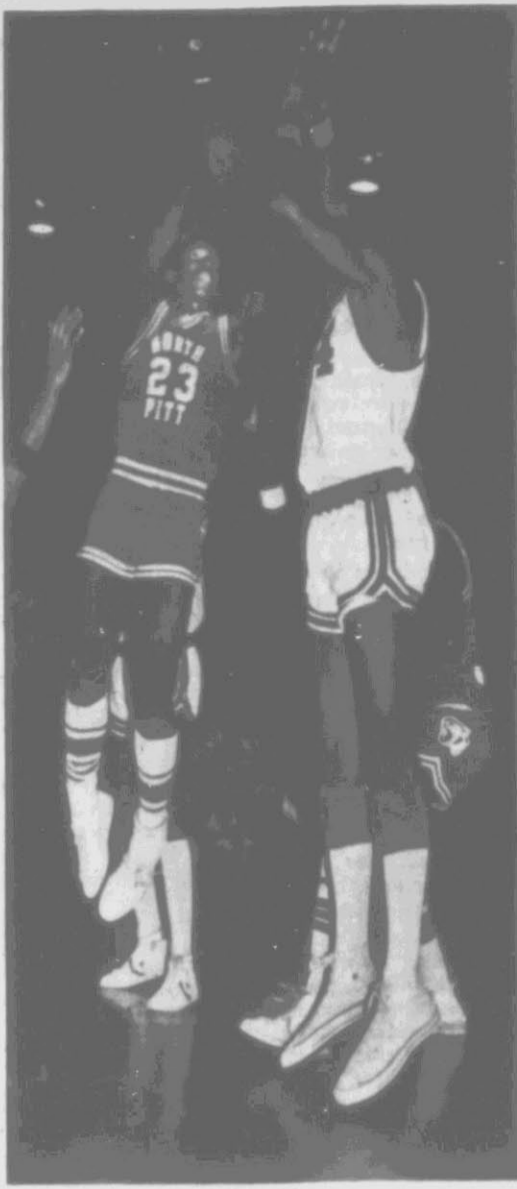

Anthony Crumel, who led the league in scoring during the regular season with a 16.0 average, had eight rebounds for Southern Nash but was held to just eight points.

"I thought we did a good job on him," Terrell said. "I'm proud of the way the guys played tonight. We ended up strong. We've got to be the most improved team in the conference and I'm looking forward to next year."

Edenton Spoils Roanoke Hopes

WILLIAMSTON — Lee Dale Leary scored 18 points and Steve Holley added 14, 10 of which came in the second half, as fourth-seeded Edenton rallied from a 10-point halftime deficit to upset top-seeded Roanoke, 62-55, Thursday night in the Northeastern Conference tournament.

Earlier, Plymouth's girls defeated Edenton, 43-25, to advance into Saturday night's championship game against the winner of tonight's Williamston-Roanoke game.

Edenton, now 16-7, will play the winner of tonight's Washington-Tarboro game Saturday for the boys' championship. Roanoke, now 20-4, will play Southern Nash Wednesday in an opening-round game of the district playoffs.

For the first half, at least, it appeared it would be Roanoke, not Edenton, in Saturday's finals. The Redskins led 16-9 after the first period and pushed their advantage to 35-25 at the half.

But Roanoke, playing without Ricky Highsmith, who sat out the third quarter with four fouls, saw the Aces slowly chip away at the lead in the second half as guard Holley scored 10 of his 14 points in the last two periods.

Edenton, using an active man-to-man defense, closed to within three, 49-46, at the end of the third period and then outscored the Redskins 16-6 in the final period to win. Highsmith, who averaged nearly 16 points this season for Roanoke, scored just two points before fouling out in the fourth period. In all, 50 fouls were called on the night, 27 against Roanoke.

Joining Leary and Holley in double figures for Edenton was Elbert Wilder with 14 points. Edenton will play D.H. Conley in an opening-round game of the districts Tuesday night in Williamston.

Roanoke was led by Donny Wallace and Maurice Chance, both of whom had 13 points. Angelo Spruill and Michael Wilson added 10 each for the Redskins.

Edenton (62) — Wilder 7 0-1 14; Morris 1 0-1 2; Leary 5 9-11 18; Holley 4 6-12 14; T. White 1 0-0 2; Hardy 2 4-8 8; D. White 2 0-0 4; Totals 22 18-33 62.

Greene Central Turnovers Help North Pitt Gain Tourney Finals

By RICK SCOPPE
Reflector Sports Writer
LITTLEFIELD — Greene Central failed to show up Thursday night for the first half of its Eastern Carolina Conference tournament semifinal battle with North Pitt.

Oh, there was a team wearing Ram uniforms, but it wasn't the same one that had entered the tournament seeded second and had won 17 games in 23 outings before last night. Nope, this was definitely another team.

How else to explain the 17 first-half turnovers in 32 trips down court against a 1-3-1 zone, or a shooting percentage of 14%? In all, the Rams accumulated 26 turnovers and wound up shooting 24% (17 of 70). The result was a 57-39 loss to North Pitt which put the Panthers in tonight's (8:45 p.m.) ECC championship game against Southern Nash, a 60-47 winner over Farmville Central last night.

In other semifinal action, North Lenoir's girls earned the right to face unbeaten Southwest Edgecombe with its 45-42 victory over Greene Central.

"This was definitely the worse game we've played this year. Definitely. We just weren't ready to play," Greene Central coach Lewis Godwin said. "If you don't come to play in a situation like this I feel for you. And we didn't come play."

"It didn't look like we had ever played together before. We didn't do anything well tonight. When you shoot 14% in the first half and turnover the ball over 17 times, you'd better hope the other team's doing a whole lot worse if you expect to be in the game."

The Panthers did not oblige. For the evening, the Panthers made 23 of 42 shots (54.7%) and had 13 turnovers. Going into the game, North Pitt coach Cobbie Deans' main worry was the Rams' strength inside.

The Rams did control the boards, outrebounding the Panthers 45 to 36, led by Phillip Hill's 12 rebounds. Roderick Lane's nine and John Ray's eight, but it didn't matter. The Rams didn't have anyone who could put the ball in the basket.

Lane and Al Speight led the Rams with 10 points each while the Panthers held Hill to just four points and Ray to a field goal.

North Pitt was led by sophomore Greg Hines, who scored 17 points and pulled down seven rebounds. Vince Parker added 10 points and eight rebounds and Paul Tucker came off the bench to score 10 points.

"We played real well," North Pitt coach Cobbie Deans said. "Offensively and defensively we did what we said we wanted to do. You don't always do that, but tonight we did."

In particular, Deans wanted his 1-3-1 to "point" to Lane when he was on the wings and front Hill. The strategy worked to near perfection.

"Vince did an excellent job on the Hill kid and I was real pleased with Hines, he had a super game," Deans said. "We happened to match up better with Greene Central than I thought we would come in. But if we played them again I'd still be concerned about their inside game."

Moments before the game, Deans' main concern was not the Rams but whether he'd have enough players to play. Nearly half the team drives school buses and it wasn't until about 10 minutes before game time that the whole team was assembled in the lockerroom.

"I didn't know if we'd all be here," Deans said. "But when you're not sure your whole team's going to be here maybe you play better. I don't know, we just seemed more at ease than Greene Central. I think we were more at ease at playing."

It showed. Hines, a 6-0 sophomore on a team that starts two sophomores, two seniors and a junior, "eased" in seven points in the first period to spark the Panthers to a 10-4 lead going into the second period.

North Pitt reeled off a 14-1 spurt in the first 4½ minutes of the second quarter to lead, 24-5. During that run, Hines and Tucker both canned two buckets. North Pitt led at halftime, 28-11, as its patient, passing offense continually found holes in the Ram man-to-man defense.

"We never got out of our offense," Deans said. "And a lot of that is because of (point guard) Ronnie House. He's our quarterback and he's beginning to show the senior leadership we've been needing." In the third period, the Panthers maintained a cushion of between 18 to 23 points and led at the end of the quarter, 47-24. The Rams did not get closer than 19 points the rest of the way.

Tournament Schedule

The Eastern Carolina Conference tournament comes to a close tonight at Ayden-Grifton with the boys and girls' championship games. Tonight's schedule:

7:00 — Southwest Edgecombe (24-0) v. North Lenoir (14-10)
8:45 — Greene Central (17-6) v. Southern Nash (16-8)

North Lenoir Girls Gain Finals In Girls Division

By RICK SCOPPE
Reflector Sports Writer
LITTLEFIELD — North Lenoir won the dubious right to race Southwest Edgecombe tonight for the Eastern Carolina Conference tournament championship.

The Hawks, led by Debra Pope's 16 points and Sharon Gillette's 14, overcame a 24-point performance by Letha Taylor to defeat Greene Central, 45-42, to advance into tonight's ECC championship game.

The Hawks, now 14-10, will face unbeaten Southwest Edgecombe (24-0) tonight (7:00 p.m.) for the ECC tournament title. Greene Central finishes its season at 10-14.

Had the Rams won, they would have received a bid to the district playoffs, regardless of the outcome of the championship game. But it wasn't to be.

Greene Central led by as many as nine in the opening half, which ended with the Rams up, 19-17. North Lenoir, however, took the lead for good at the end of the third period, 33-31, and stretched its advantage to eight before Greene Central rallied.

Down 43-35 with 3:45 left, Greene Central scored five straight points — on a bucket and two free throws by Taylor and a free throw by Sharon Suggs — to cut the lead to 43-40.

Two turnovers followed, however, and Gillette canned both ends of a one-and-one to seal the victory.

"The girls gave a great effort, especially in the last two minutes," Greene Central coach Jim Fulghum said. "North Lenoir just shot a little better and rebounded a little better than we did."

"We got hurt some on second shots and a whole lot of picky fouls. Our foul trouble was traumatic."

Sylvia Swinson, who scored 18 points in the Rams upset win over C.B. Aycock Tuesday night, picked up her third and fourth fouls in the second period. Swinson scored just six points last night before fouling out with four seconds left in the third period.

Taylor, meanwhile, picked up her third foul early in the second half but did not pick up her fourth until late in the

Leonard To Fight Again

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sugar Ray Leonard will defend his World Boxing Council welterweight title on March 28 against one of three opponents, Leonard's attorney said Thursday.

According to Mike Trainer, the possible opponents are Larry Bonds of Denver, ranked fourth by the WBC; Jorgen Hansen of Denmark, ranked seventh, and eighth-ranked Hwan Chung Jae of South Korea.

Three sites are under consideration for the fight, Trainer said. They are Syracuse, N.Y.; Hartford, Conn. and Houston.

The lawyer said selection of an opponent and a site are expected in the next few days. The March 28 fight is to be broadcast over Home Box Office television.

Leonard has come under criticism from the WBC for not defending his title.

Krafcisin Takes Punch, Helps Iowa Win

By JOHN NELSON
AP Sports Writer

Steve Krafcisin, Iowa's 6-foot-10 center, brushed off the incident. "It's no big deal," he said. "It happens all the time."

Krafcisin was referring to a punch in the face he got from 6-foot-1 Indiana guard Isaiah Thomas Thursday night as the 12th-ranked Hawkeyes were administering a 78-65 beating to 16th-ranked Indiana.

"It was just a reflex more than anything," Krafcisin said. "He came up and apologized later. He said he was sorry and that it was an accident."

Thomas was ejected from the ballgame with 39 seconds left after he tried to fight his way between Iowa players and took a swing in a crowd at Krafcisin.

"I can't blame the officials," Thomas said, adding he never had been thrown out of a game before. "It was just a stupid play."

After Thomas was tossed out, Krafcisin hit a pair of free throws that gave the Hawkeyes a 71-63 lead.

Indiana Coach Bobby Knight was assessed a technical foul shortly afterward, and he said he would reserve judgement on Thomas until he had seen the films. He said it appeared Krafcisin had grabbed Thomas' jersey.

"It was not a good play," Knight said. "It sure was a play you don't want to see, but I'm anxious to look at the film."

Krafcisin wound up with 18 points, and Vince Brookins topped Iowa with 19. Landon Turner led Indiana with 18 and Ray Tolbert had 17. Thomas had 16 points.

Iowa, 18-4 and atop the Big Ten with a 10-3 conference mark, hit 15 of 16 free throws in the final two minutes after going into a four-corner stall to ensure the victory.

In games involving other ranked teams, sixth-ranked UCLA downed California 72-66, No. 9 Utah whipped New Mexico 90-73, New Mexico State upset 14th-ranked Wichita State 82-80, 15th-ranked Illinois defeated No. 18 Michigan 67-64 and No. 17 Brigham Young beat Texas-El Paso 84-75.

Mike Sanders scored 20 of his 24 points in the second half, rallying UCLA over California in the Pacific 10 Conference. UCLA trailed 33-30 early in the second half, but the Bruins took the lead 48-46 on a layin by 7-foot-2 reserve center Mark Eaton and later stretched their advantage to as many as 10 points.

UCLA improved its record to 17-4, 10-3 in the Pac 10, with its sixth straight victory.

Tom Chambers scored 27 points, and Utah held New Mexico's high-scoring Kenny Page to just seven points in the second half to break open a close game. The victory kept Utah two games ahead of BYU and Wyoming in the Western Athletic Conference with an 11-1 league mark, 22-2 overall.

Page led the Lobos with 21 points, and Karl Bankowski added 16 for the Utes.

Jerome Akins came into the game shooting only 37 percent from the free line, but he hit a pair of free throws with 22 seconds left that boosted New Mexico State over Wichita State in the Missouri Valley Conference.

Akins' free throws gave New Mexico State an 82-79 lead, and Tony Martin pulled the Shockers within one when he hit a foul shot with three seconds left. Martin intentionally missed his second shot, got his own rebound but missed a jumper at the buzzer.

Jamie Pena led the Aggies with 26 points, the fifth game in a row in which he has scored 20 or more. Randy Smithson had 22 for Wichita State.

James Griffin scored a three-point play, and guards Craig Tucker and Perry Range each added two foul shots to rally Illinois over Michigan in the Big Ten. Griffin's three-point play with 1:02 left put Illinois ahead by one, 63-62. Eddie Johnson led Illinois with 18, and Mike McGee paced Michigan with 24.

Fred Roberts scored 28 points, including 15 of BYU's final 23, to help the Cougars take revenge against Texas-El Paso in the WAC. The victory improved BYU's record to 19-5 overall and 9-3 in the WAC.

Texas-El Paso upset BYU 64-62 last Jan. 17, but the Miners never led in this game.

Dr. Morgan Keeping His Eye On The Ball

LOS ANGELES (AP) — If you look close enough, history can repeat itself.

And who can look closer than Dr. Gil Morgan, an optometrist who is more concerned with golf balls than eyeballs? He doesn't practice his medical art.

Morgan went into today's second round of the $300,000 Glen Campbell-Los Angeles Open golf tournament, which he won in 1978, with a one-stroke lead after firing a 6-under par 65 Thursday.

Morgan opened in 1978 with a 66 and went on to win when Jack Nicklaus played a duffer's shot on the final hole.

"My game has matured a lot since I won here," Morgan commented. "I think I'm a little bit smarter, especially around the greens. And I think I am better tee to green."

But look out for the bridegroom.

Namio Takuso, on his second marriage, decided to take his bride to Honolulu where he found there was a golf tournament going on. He joined the Monday morning rabbits and attempted to qualify.

He did, and finished 73rd in the tournament. But since one golfer in front of him was an amateur, he qualified to play at Los Angeles.

And he came out of the first round in a six-way tie for second place after shooting a 32-34-66. He was better than Jack Nicklaus.

71, Tom Watson, 72, and Lee Trevino, 72.

Tied with the Japanese bridegroom were John Cook, Johnny Miller, Bruce Lietzke, Keith Fergus and Miller Barber.

Then came amateur Ron Commans, a University of Southern California collegian, who shot a 32-35-67.

"I don't think Riviera (the 7,022-yard Riviera Country Club course) is going to give up a whole lot," Morgan commented. "If it gets wet, it will be tougher."

In answer to a question about his playing partner Watson, the leading money winner four years who hasn't won in 1981, Morgan said, "He got started bad and made bad chips. He didn't hit as solidly as I remembered him."

The golfing doctor said he always likes to be in the lead and rated this the lowest he has ever shot at Riviera, a demanding layout which truly tests the skill of the golfer. Fergus, who never has won a PGA event, said: "If the weather stays good, somebody can shoot a 63. It's a good course with a lot of good holes and the greens are not real hard yet. But I predict the scores will go up."

No less than 12 were tied at 68 — Greg Powers, Andy Bean, Danny Edwards, Gene Littler, Rod Nuckolls, Mac O'Grady, Mike King, George Cadle, Hale Irwin, Ed Flori, Tom Purtzer, and Alan Tapie.

Pirates Second In Swim Meet

WILMINGTON — Two-time defending champion East Carolina found itself in second place after the first day of competition in the Seahawk Invitational Swim Tournament at UNC-Wilmington Thursday.

The Pirates, with 97 points, trailed the hosting Seahawks by ten. Tampa was third with 74 points.

In the women's division, Virginia Tech leads the way with 194 points, while Old Dominion is second with 129. East Carolina stands fifth with 101 points.

Eight teams make up the field for both the men's and women's divisions.

East Carolina produced only two individual winners during the first day of competition. Jan Wiklund won the 500-yard freestyle with a time of 4:41.41. Doug Nieman captured the 200-yard individual medley in 1:59.01.

Other East Carolina finishers in the top 12 included: John Bennett, ninth in 4:55.78, and Lance Timmons, 11th in 4:57.43 in the 500-yard freestyle; Kevin Richards, seventh in 2:00.53 and Matt McDonald, ninth in 2:02.69 in the 200-yard individual medley; Jack Clower, second in 21.96 in the 50-yard freestyle; and Mike Aman, sixth in one-meter diving with 256.70 points.

Among the women, Sally Collins was fifth in 5:13.18 and Sally Marburger was 10th in 5:20.19 in the 500-yard freestyle; Julie Malcolm was tenth in 33.81 in the 50-yard breaststroke; Dordi Henriksen was fourth in 1:00.91 in the 100-yard butterfly; Tammy Putnam was sixth in 2:19.33 in the 200-yard individual medley, and Jennifer Jayes was fifth in 2:19.10 and Collins was seventh in 2:19.51, in the 200-yard backstroke.

The meet continues today and Saturday.

The Rams led after the first period, 9-7, and had moved ahead 19-10 on a pair of free throws by Taylor when Suggs picked up her third foul. From there, the Hawks scored seven straight points — all but one by Pope — to cut the deficit to 19-17 at the half.

North Lenoir moved ahead 27-23 midway through the third period but the Rams tied it moments later but trailed at the end of the quarter, 33-31. The Hawks then stretched their lead to eight before the Rams rallied, a rally that came up short.

"We had some steals there at the end but we just couldn't capitalize on them. Maybe we had the wrong people making the steals," Fulghum said with a laugh. "But defensively, we didn't play bad. We just got beat on the boards. Offensively, we got into foul

Rock Group To South America

NEW YORK (AP) — The British rock group Queen will begin "the largest tour South America has ever seen" this month, lugging along some 75 tons of equipment — including a roof to cover the world's largest soccer stadium, producers say.

Nancy Ambrosio, Queen's press agent in New York, told The Associated Press in an interview Thursday that the group's tour of Argentina and Brazil "will probably amount to several hundreds of thousands of dollars" in transportation costs.

The equipment will be moved back and forth between Argentina and Brazil in a nine-trailer convoy, Ms. Ambrosio added.

In total, producers estimated, some 300,000 people will see Queen perform live in soccer stadiums in the three-week tour beginning Feb. 24.

Dunaway Will Play Crawford

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Faye Dunaway will play Joan Crawford in Paramount Pictures' "Mommie Dearest," based on the book by her daughter, Christina Crawford.

Miss Dunaway, who won an Oscar for "Network," also stars in "Evita Peron," which airs on NBC on Feb. 23.

Black Arts Festival Set

Plans for have been finalized for the 1981 Black Arts Festival at East Carolina University.

The festival, sponsored by the Student Union Minority Arts Committee, is slated to begin on February 22 and continue through February 28.

The festival will open with a "soul food dinner," on Sunday at 2 p.m. The dinner will be held in the Ledonia Wright Afro-American Cultural Center. The meal, catered by Bell's Plantation Restaurant, will include such items as collards, chitterlings, yams, cornbread, and other traditional southern foods. Tickets for the dinner should have been purchased by February 13.

Clarence Morgan, a member of the school of art faculty will present an illustrated lecture on "The Plight of the Black Artist" at 8 p.m. The lecture will be held in auditorium 244 of Mendenhall Student Center and there is no admission charge.

On February 24 the film "A Man Called Adam" will be shown at 8 p.m. in the multi-purpose room of the student center. The world of jazz musicians is explored in this drama of a jazz trumpeter who finds himself unable to cope with the problems of everyday life. The film stars Sammy Davis Jr., Louis Armstrong, Cicely Tyson, Frank Sinatra and Ossie Davis. There is no admission charge.

A cabaret of talent will be on display Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the Student Center Coffeeshop. Selections range from comedy to dramatic readings. Admission will be 50 cents and tickets will be on sale at the door.

Yotanda King, daughter of the late Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. will appear in Hendrix Theatre on Thursday at 8 p.m. Her presentation will be a dramatic lecture on "Black Theatre: Moving Us Higher." She will cover the history of black theatre to the present, with the focus on black theatre's attempt to enlighten as well as to entertain. Admission will be by ID and activity cards for ECU students and by MSC membership for ECU faculty and staff. Public tickets are $1.50.

A musical production, "A History of Music in the Black Church," is slated for Friday night at 8 p.m. in auditorium 244 of the student center. This production is being written and narrated by Ronald Maxwell, president-elect of the Student Union and a student in the school of music. The production will trace the development of music in the black church from the advent of the slave spiritual to the contemporary gospel sound. The ECU Gospel Ensemble will be featured in the production. There is no admission charge for the program.

The festival concludes on Saturday with a dance in Wright Auditorium featuring "The Third Generation Band." This group was inspired by such artists as Earth Wind and Fire, and Pockets. In addition to their numerous club appearances, the group has traveled with acts like Cameo, B.T. Express, Lakeside, Mother's Finest, and Parliament Funkadelic. Tickets for the dance are available at the Central Ticket Office and are priced at $1.50 for ECU students and $3 for the public. All tickets at the door will be $3.

'Nero Wolfe' Has A Chance For Greatness, But Requires Work

By PETER J. BOYER
AP Television Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) —

For a year now, ever since "The Rockford Files" went off the air, there has been a bleak gap in that period drama of the after-work beers and "Dallas." Waiting for "Dallas," in fact, carries a very heavy price if you pass the time watching TV.

Two Fridays ago, for example, a "Dallas"-fan-in-waiting had to abide "Harper Valley PTA" and the movie, "The Brady Girls Get Married" on NBC, or an hour of sitcoms and a movie about a rock star in a haunted house on ABC. If the most direct path to "Dallas" were chosen, staying tuned to CBS through the evening, "Incredible Hulk" and "Dukes of Hazzard" had to be endured (at risk of permanent damage to the cerebral cortex).

But your ever-vigilant scout has spotted what may prove to be comfortable, reasonably safe way station en route to "Dallas." I have some hesitation and a little more probing to do, but this could work out. It is "Nero Wolfe," on NBC.

I know, I know, the show pales next to "The Rockford Files." But I've tried it a couple of times and I think there's a good TV series there, obscured, admittedly, by some inane scripts.

"Nero Wolfe" has some very valuable assets: It is adult, it has at least the broad outlines of mystery and it has a charismatic central character. The character, of course, is the wonderfully eccentric Wolfe of the Rex Stout novels, a rotund, sedentary savant who fusses over orchids and has others do his physical work. NBC and the producers can't take credit for the character, of course, but they did have the good sense to hire William Conrad, who is perfectly suited to the part, to play Wolfe.

Conrad seems to delight in the role, which requires little more than stringing together some elegant words and doing a bit of deduction, neither of which requires physical exertion.

The mysteries so far have been rather shabbily constructed. My wife guessed whodunnit 24 minutes into the first one, and she was working a crossword puzzle, at the time. I guessed the baddie in the second episode halfway through, and I'm a fellow who never, in 200 or so viewings of "Perry Mason," correctly identified the guilty party.

Since Wolfe almost never leaves the house, an assistant is mandated and I'm not completely sold on the selection here. The character of Archie Goodwin is necessarily prominent and Lee Horsley renders an Archie who's just a bit too Apple Pie. His modified pompadour I can forgive, but I had to cringe when he ducked an invitation to spend an evening with a young lovely because Nero wanted him home and "Nero's got this Puritan streak in him."

Perhaps wholesomeness is something to which one can adjust.

Anyway, the writers have come up with some pretty good lines for Nero, including this one, which hooked me:

In the second episode's denouement, gathered the suspects in his office and dramatically identified the perpetrator. The baddie promptly whipped out a rod and shouted, "Don't move!"

"I almost never do, Mr. Shane," replied Wolfe, not missing a beat.

Aw, that's great. Yes, this will do. At least until "Maverick" returns.

HOST REHEARSES — Actress Charlene Tilton, who is perhaps more familiar in her role of "Lucy Ewing" in the TV series "Dallas," smiles during rehearsal at NBC-TV studio in New York City. She was preparing for her stint as host of the popular "Saturday Night Live" show which is to air this weekend. (AP Laserphoto)
