

Astronauts Check Out Space Shuttle's Controls

By HOWARD BENEDICT
AP Aerospace Writer

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The astronauts of Columbia, their rocketship sailing along like a "champ," tested control systems today for Tuesday's searing re-entry after sources said photographs indicated the underbelly heat shield — crucial to survival — is apparently intact.

On Flight Day Two, "everything's working just fine," a mission director said today. "There's nothing remotely resembling a problem."

John Young and Robert Crippen were awakened from a chilly night's sleep in orbit by a country-western tune that celebrated their "mean machine." They began testing Columbia for the dramatic landing that will conclude the mission that thrust the United States back into the space race.

Cabin temperatures overnight were in the 60s, a few degrees below normal and Crippen said, "we got about ready to break out the long undies." Shuttle Control quickly resolved that by dumping water out of a heat exchanger.

The song, "The flight of the Shuttle Columbia," warmed their spirits. It said, in part, "Many, many hours went into this thing. A job well done by the shuttle space team."

Following breakfast, Crippen and Young plunged into a day of extensive testing of spaceship systems — working well except for minor "anomalies." A remarkably clear telecast showed Young testing the ship's flight controls.

"The vehicle is performing just beautifully, much better than anyone ever expected on the first flight," Young said Sunday.

"It's performing like a champ," Crippen reported.

The astronauts relayed their praise nine hours after Columbia vaulted spectacularly off its launch pad at Cape Canaveral.

Today, flight director Neil Hutchinson said, "It's absolutely amazing, the machine is operating so well; we have nothing that's a real showstopper. There's nothing remotely resembling a problem."

Of the tiles, National Aeronautics and Space Administration spokesman Charles Redmond said, "We are very interested in understanding what went on, but there is still no concern. If you define a major problem as one where we think there might be danger to the lives of the crew members, no, this doesn't come anywhere near being a major problem."

The maiden flight of the world's first re-flyable spaceship is a test flight, and Young and Crippen were to do just that today. Nothing glamorous like landing on the moon. Just dogged checking and rechecking of all the systems, as they did Sunday after launch.

Today's work schedule: The pilots evaluated the accuracy of ship flight controls, assessed the small steering jets that guide their orbit and their descent, troubleshoot a minor cabin pressurization problem, adjusted Columbia's startracker alignment (navigation control) and did more test operations by remote control on the ship's cargo doors.

From the moment of the fiery on-time liftoff, Columbia was almost a flawless machine, bothered by only a few nuisance problems.

A remarkable recovery for a craft that only a few months ago critics were calling such unflattering things as "space turkey" and "aluminum Dumbo." Columbia had fallen two years behind schedule, bedeviled by technical troubles with its main engines and thermal tiles.

The three powerful engines were perfect Sunday. At least two of the ship's 30,922 tiles was missing and more than a dozen were damaged.

Sunday Hutchinson said, "We do have some (13 to 15) tiles missing in what we consider to be a non-critical area. We don't think it is going to bother us at all coming back home."

Hutchinson said the affected tiles probably were hit by a shock wave as the craft barreled up through the atmosphere. They are located on top of the ship and would not be affected by reentry heat, as would the bottom of the Columbia.

As a precaution, the Air Force photographed Columbia's underbelly with a high-resolution satellite tracking camera in Hawaii. NASA officials said the visibility wasn't so good and the photos were so far inconclusive, but sources said no tiles were discovered missing. The tiles are needed to keep the Columbia from burning up upon reentry to the atmosphere.

On Tuesday, Young and Crippen will fly the 80-ton Columbia back to Earth, with a wheels-down landing scheduled at 1:30 p.m. EST on the long dry lake bed at Edwards Air Force Base, Calif. It will be the first spacecraft, American or Russian, to go into space, return and be ready to fly again.

Launch teams were ecstatic, filled with pride and patriotism. For the first time in six years a manned space rocket had blasted away from the Kennedy Space Center here, and when it went into orbit, the launch control center exploded with cheers and a sea of small American flags.

The new space race is expected to focus as much on military goals as it does on scientific and commercial flights.

Economic Squeeze British Look For More Riots

By ED BLANCHE
Associated Press Writer

LONDON (AP) — With Britain's economic squeeze increasing competition for jobs and housing, more racial violence is predicted after a weekend of anti-police rioting in a black London suburb.

Scotland Yard said 204 people were injured — 149 police officers, 40 rioters, 12 firemen and three ambulance crewmen — as rioting snowballed in South London's impoverished Brixton district.

Hundreds of black and white youths fought the police with bottles, bricks and gasoline bombs, looted stores and burned down more than 30 buildings, witnesses said. Damage was estimated at more than $2 million.

Police, probing the causes of the worst outbreak of blacks in Britain, said political extremists may have been responsible for the trouble, which began with sporadic clashes Friday night and escalated sharply on Saturday and Sunday.

A spokesman said Scotland Yard was investigating reports that large supplies of homemade gasoline bombs were on hand an hour after the start of Saturday night's clashes. He also said the British Broadcasting Corp. called the Yard's press office nearly two hours before the trouble erupted saying it had been told there was rioting in Brixton.

Police Commissioner Sir David McNea said there were indications the violence was not spontaneous. He said troublemakers from outside Brixton gathered there before it started.

Leaders of the black community said the trouble had its roots in the poverty and unemployment among blacks. But they blamed the violence on "heavy-handed tactics" by the predominantly white police force.

"I saw no evidence of outside political extremists," said Courtney Laws of the Brixton Neighborhood Community Association. "But I wouldn't be so naive as to say that none of these young people were not politically motivated."

"This is not against the white community but against the police. They treat us like dirt," said one of the rioters, a 21-year-old black.

"This has set the cause of race relations in South London back 20 years," said Rene Webb, a West Indian and former community relations chief in south London. "It will not end here."

The National Council for Civil Liberties, an independent body, said it feared "further incidents unless the government takes immediate steps to end the harassment and discrimination against black people caused by racist immigration laws and practices and increasing unemployment among black people." The six hours of rioting Saturday night was one of the worst racially-related clashes in Britain since non-white immigrants from former colonies in Africa, Asia and the West Indies began pouring into the country in 1948.

Reagan Stays Out Of Oval Office

By MAUREEN SANTINI
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan, out of the hospital but under doctor's orders not to work in the Oval Office yet, is staying upstairs in the White House with no immediate plans for public appearances while he builds up his strength.

Reagan met today with his top three aides and received a written national security briefing, said deputy White House press secretary Larry Speakes.

He also was meeting today with Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr. and Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger to hear reports on their recent overseas trips. Both meetings were scheduled in the executive mansion's second-floor living quarters.

Speakes said Reagan was not likely to make a radio speech on his economic proposals this week but said it may be done later.

As he recuperates at home from the bullet wound in his left lung inflicted by a would-be assassin two weeks ago, Reagan also may telephone members of Congress for a progress report on how his economic plan is faring, Speakes said Sunday.

But the president planned to spend most, if not all, of the week secluded in his upstairs living quarters. First lady Nancy Reagan has redecorated the rooftop solarium for Reagan's use during his convalescence.

After being released from George Washington University Hospital on Saturday, Reagan spent a quiet weekend with his wife and their daughter, Patti. Aides agreed not to disturb him.

On Sunday he arose early to watch the launching of the space shuttle Columbia on television. "It's a spectacular sight," his personal physician, Dr. Daniel Ruge, quoted Reagan as saying.

After visiting the president, Ruge reported through Speakes: "He's in great shape. He looks great." Reagan is taking penicillin orally to ward off infection.

Speakes said Reagan's senior staff made a "conscious decision" to "leave him alone and give him some time with his family" after he returned from the hospital. To a large extent, Speakes said, the president will follow his hospital routine at home. His top three aides, counselor Edwin Meese III, chief of staff James A. Baker III and Michael K. Deaver, will visit him in the mornings "to discuss whatever matters come up," and daily national security briefings will be in written form.

Tax Take Up

Gross state sales and use tax collections in Pitt County for the February of 1980 through January of 1981 period totaled $10,470,097, up 5.11 percent from the previous year, according to Mark Lynch, Secretary of the N.C. Department of Revenue.

Lynch reported that the Pitt County collection total reflected an increase of $508,711 from the $9,961,386 recorded in 1979.

Totals for several neighboring counties included: Beaufort, $5,197,398 (1980), $4,675,562 (1979), up 521,835 or 11.16 percent; Craven, $6,883,605, $6,574,638, up $308,966 or 4.70 percent; Edgecombe, $4,243,486, $4,028,730, up $214,756 or 5.33 percent; Greene, $505,134, $479,370, up $25,764 or 5.37 percent; Lenoir, $7,204,509, $7,056,298, up $148,210 or 2.10 percent; Martin, $3,300,006, $2,972,546, up $327,459 or 11.02 percent; Nash, $9,953,688, $9,013,107, up $940,581 or 7.11 percent; Wayne, $9,409,643, $9,436,671, down $27,008 or .29 percent; and Wilson, $7,730,803, $7,510,370, up $220,433 or 2.94 percent.

Statewide, gross collections for 1980 amounted to $739,460,553, up $35,195,840 or five percent from $704,264,713 in 1979.

Administration May 'Deal' On Tax Cut Proposal

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration may trade its proposed three-year tax cut for a one-year plan and promises of more, says the chief budget writer in the Democratic-controlled House.

Administration officials "indicate they are willing to compromise on both the spending cut side and the tax cut side," Rep. James Jones, D-Okla., chairman of the House Budget Committee, said Sunday.

But deputy White House press secretary Larry Speakes said today that the administration is not interested in compromising.

"There is no plan of compromise on the part of the administration on the president's economic package and no one has been authorized by the president to talk compromise," he said.

"We believe that the economic facts justify passage of our program and we see increasing public support," Speakes said, adding that he was referring to polls and White House mail.

Jones' remarks were the first indication that the administration may be ready to compromise on its proposed 30 percent cut in individual income tax rates over three years.

Admitting that he had no "official statements" from the administration, Jones said, "What I would propose is that we state policy clearly in Congress that we want to have a multiyear tax bill. But before we do it, we ought to come to grips with the spending side, and we ought to force Congress and the administration to cut spending before we have large tax cuts."

Such a statement of intention, Jones said on the CBS program "Face the Nation," would be binding on Congress and the administration only through "political pressure."

Jones said he believed the administration is willing to compromise because "there is a growing feeling that if you have a three-year, 30 percent cut in taxes that you're leaving yourself wide open to a very large deficit the third year out."

Hunt Said Preparing Proffer 2-Cent Gas Tax

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Gov. Jim Hunt probably will propose a 2-cent-per-gallon increase in North Carolina's gasoline tax to fortify the state's dwindling highway funds, the News and Observer of Raleigh reported today.

The paper quotes several top Democrats as saying that the 2-cent increase in the 9.25-cent-per-gallon tax is one of several measures in the revenue package Hunt will present to the Legislature later this month and on statewide television April 27.

In an interview Saturday night, Hunt denied that he had decided on the 2-cent increase.

"Some people have talked about it, whether it's 2 cents, 3 (cents) or some percentage," Hunt said before a speech to the state Democratic Party's Jefferson-Jackson Day dinner in the Raleigh Civic Center. "But we have not made any decision."

For several months, Hunt has been hinting at some tax increase to boost Highway Fund revenues, but he has refused to say that the gasoline tax would be part of the package.

"Most of the advice I'm getting, and a lot of it from the people (Democrats) I've talked to here today, is that some gasoline tax in the package will sell," Hunt said.

Hunt aides said Saturday that they are unsure what Hunt would propose.

But Joseph A. Pell, the governor's patronage aide, said, "By guess is 2 cents."

Another top Hunt supporter said, "I hear it's two cents, and I've heard it from everybody except him (Hunt)."

Besides the gasoline tax, other ingredients expected in the package are an increase in the liquor tax, an increase in license and other fees paid by motorists and truckers, and the transfer of state Highway Patrol funds.

The patrol is funded from the Highway Fund. By shifting it to the General Fund, the state would free about $45 million a year in the Highway Fund for road construction and maintenance.

A 2-cent increase in the gasoline tax would produce about $60 million a year.

INSECT TRAPS

I am fascinated by those chartreuse upside down cups on sticks I've seen on the edges of fields along roadways. I saw a few last year, but have seen many more this spring. What are they and what is their purpose? B. B.

Sam Uzzell of the Pitt County Agricultural Extension Service said those upside down yellow-green cups are part of the Boll Weevil Eradication Program being conducted by several federal agencies and the North Carolina and Virginia Departments of Agriculture. He referred us to Glenn Olmstead, the N. C. Department of Agriculture field supervisor for the Boll Weevil Eradication Program in this area.

The yellow-green color is an attractant to the boll weevil. And an even more powerful attractant for the female weevil that the program coordinators are interested in trapping is the male pheromone-soaked teflon strip inside. The traps are set out in a three-mile grid pattern from Winston-Salem to the coast, Olmstead said, with approximately 14,000 traps in the grid.

The trial eradication program was begun three years ago in eastern N. C. and southeastern Virginia to determine if it were feasible to eliminate the boll weevil from a cotton-producing area. Since 1892 the boll weevil has migrated northward from Mexico and has been a major destroyer of millions of acres of cotton. It has cost American cotton farmers millions of dollars in crop losses and money spent on pesticides and technology to eliminate the damage the weevil has done and brought about the decline of cotton production in the 1920's. Natural fibers are again becoming popular, however, and cotton-growing is increasing; thus, the need to use the latest methods to eradicate the pest.

The traps, at this stage, are being used to monitor reinfestation of boll weevils in this area, which is one of the northernmost cotton-growing areas.

One of the primary ways the boll-weevil comes north is by hitch-hiking on vehicles. The area where the most weevils are caught is along Interstate 95, Olmstead said. Tourists are urged not to pick cotton or pull up cotton plants from fields and to check their clothing and vehicle after having stopped near a cotton field.

Olmstead said there has been some problem with people tampering with traps, but that it has not been extreme. The trap is such a simple thing that there isn't any component anyone would want, and fortunately, they're inexpensive to replace when they are done away with. He said there is nothing harmful about the traps, no way that they can hurt humans or animals that might come in contact with them.

Dear Abby

Woman's Dreams Won't Hold Up in Court

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1981 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: I am 68 years old and have had terrible luck with husbands. Three of them died on me. Abby, I have a crush on my lawyer. He is 61 and a bachelor. I have had this crush on him for nearly eight years. I've never gone out with him but I see him in his office when I have legal work for him to do. Whenever I see him, he is very nice to me and calls me by my first name.

I brought him some brownies once, and he said they were the best he ever had. I hinted that I was also a very good cook and would like to prove it to him sometime, but he just smiled and didn't say anything. I sent him a valentine but didn't have the nerve to sign it.

Maybe I'm just a foolish old lady to even think this man would have any interest in me, but I get so much pleasure just thinking about him. Abby, is there any harm in dreaming? It took me 25 years to get over George Brent.
ELSIE

DEAR ELSIE: There's no harm in dreaming. Dream castles are fun to build, so long as you don't try to live in them.

DEAR ABBY: I would like to share my own experience with PROBLEM CHILD, whose parents' fighting keeps him awake.

I had the same problem with my own parents 35 years ago. In a few months we will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary, and I hope they will hold off fighting until after the guests leave. It took me a long time to realize how wonderful my parents are in every other way. They have been very loving to their children and grandchildren (if not to each other); prouder parents do not exist. They are generous far beyond their modest means.

It may be hard to understand, Abby, but beneath their quarrelsome lie hearts of gold.

LOVING SON

DEAR SON: That you are able to accept this one unpleasant part of your parents' behavior while appreciating to the full their more admirable qualities says a great deal for your maturity and understanding.

DEAR ABBY: I was very upset by the letter in your column from the young man who has Herpes Simplex. From his letter, one would assume that only "loose" women have this disease. Well, I'm a "nice" girl who has it.

I have been with only one man in my life, and he's my husband. I didn't have sexual relations until I was 20. I'm 28 now and have two children. My husband is not the kind to sleep around, so I'm sure he didn't bring it home to me.

Please print this, Abby. There are other "nice" women who have Herpes Simplex who may resent being told they have a venereal disease.

A NICE GIRL

DEAR NICE GIRL: You undoubtedly have Herpes Simplex 1. Herpes Simplex 2 (which is a venereal disease) is vastly different from Herpes Simplex 1 — a virus that causes cold sores or fever blisters. They are two different diseases caused by two different viruses. It is unfortunate that they bear the same name with only a number to differentiate them.

Getting married? Whether you want a formal church wedding or a simple, "do-your-own-thing" ceremony, get Abby's new booklet. Send $1 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped (28 cents) envelope to: Abby's Wedding Booklet, 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

'Chip' Industry Risk Suggested

RESEARCH TRIANGLE PARK, N.C. (AP) — Several organizations are urging legislators to investigate possible health and environmental dangers in the microelectronics industry, which Gov. Jim Hunt is trying to lure to North Carolina.

The Conservation Council of North Carolina is concerned that industry-spawned growth may strain water capacity and sewer treatment, said lobbyist Bill Holman.

The newly formed Occupational Safety and Health Project is looking into health hazards related to chemicals that could affect people inside and outside the plants, said Dub Guley of Durham.

Hunt has asked the Legislature for $24.4 million to build a microelectronics center to woo firms away from California's Silicon Valley.

on the idea say little is known about the environmental hazards of the industry.

"As far as I know, it's pure, it's clean, there's no hazardous waste and no smoke going into the sky," said Rep. Ed Nye, D-Elizabethtown, co-chairman of the legislative budget committee that will review Hunt's proposal.

But monitors of California's hazardous waste say every microelectronics company produces toxic chemicals noted for their danger to humans, if not for their volume.

Numerous chemicals go into the making of electronic components. Silicon chips, for example, require dozens of chemical processes, according to a study by the Research Triangle Institute.

Riddle-Diener Vows Solemnized

In a double ring ceremony Sunday afternoon at four o'clock, Dorothy Venetia Diener, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Joseph Diener Jr. of Greenville, became the bride of Randy Troy Riddle. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Troy Riddle of Greenville. The Rev. Wes Jennings performed the ceremony in the Hollywood Presbyterian Church at four o'clock. A program of organ music was presented by Mrs. Hattie Pignani. Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of white peau de soie and Venise lace. The gown was fashioned with a colonial neckline with bib effect of lace motifs. The long fitted sleeves edged with a cuff of English net applied with Venise lace and closed with bridal buttons. The A-line skirt and full chapel train featured a panel of net and lace and were bordered with a row of Venise lace. Her fingertip veil of silk bridal illusion was attached to a Juliet cap of Venise lace matching her gown. She carried a formal cascade of phalaenopsis orchids, baby's breath, sonia roses and pixie white carnations tied with ivory satin with a garland of ivy.

Mary Lou Diener, sister of the bride, was honor attendant. She was dressed in an ivory silesta floral printed gown fashioned with a scoop neckline, split sleeves and A-line skirt.

Susan Brock, cousin of the bride and Mrs. Robert V. Parker of Greenville and Mrs. Johnny Stokes of Atlantic Beach were bridesmaids and wore apricot silesta floral print gowns styled with a scoop neckline, split sleeve and A-line skirt. Each carried a wicker fireside basket filled with sonia roses and spring flowers tied with sonia satin bows with long streamers. They wore baby's breath in their hair.

Honorary bridesmaids included Cathy Wilson of Vanceboro and Mrs. Ellwyn Anderson of Greenville, cousin of the bride. They each wore wristlets of spring flowers.

Mothers of the bridal couple wore miniature carnation corsages.

The best man was Robert V. Parker while ushers were Harold Blackwelder, Steve Simonds and David Diener, brother of the bride, all of Greenville.

A reception was held in the church fellowship hall.

The bride's table was covered with a white satin cloth edged with lace and centered with an arrangement of spring flowers flanked by five branched silver candelabra.

Throughout the fellowship hall were arrangements of spring flowers, greenery and candelabra. The walkway leading to the fellowship hall was outlined with hurricane jumps with white satin bows and greenery.

Mrs. Hazel Evans and Mrs. Hubert Mobley cut the cake and Mrs. Mavis Alder poured punch. Guests were received by Mr. and Mrs. James Mills and good-byes were said by Irene and Raymond Brock.

Mr. and Mrs. Troy Riddle entertained at an after-rehearsal dinner for members of the wedding party and out-of-town guests at the King and Queen Restaurant. Mrs. Charles V. Wilkerson was hostess for a bridal luncheon Saturday.

The couple will be living in Greenville after a wedding trip to unannounced points.

The bride works for her family's business, Diener's Bakery and the bridegroom is associated with his family's business, Riddle Brothers Heating and Air Conditioning.

MRS. RANDY TROY RIDDLE

Couple Marries In Tarboro

TARBORO — The Rock Church here was the scene of the wedding ceremony of Cynthia Lynn Richardson and George Stancill Hines Jr. Saturday, April 4, at high noon. The double ring ceremony was performed by James Osborne and Chris Osborne.

A program of wedding music was presented by Danny Dixon, organist, Bill Alexander, pianist, Pritchard Adams, drummer and Debra Hines King and Randy Urgo, vocalists.

Parents of the couple are

Mr. and Mrs. Jack W. Richardson and Mr. and Mrs. George Stancill Hines, all of Greenville.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Her honor attendant was Leigh Bixler Dixon of Tarboro. Bridesmaids included Dawn Edmondson of Tarboro, Dana Hines of Greenville and Dana Bingham of Raleigh.

The father of the bridegroom was best man and ushers included Robert Lee Bryan and Jack Wilson Richardson Jr. of Greenville and Kevin Doughtie of Tarboro.

The bride was dressed in a formal gown of organza and lace. The gown was designed with a U-neckline with a ribbon sash accenting the natural waistline. Organza daisies encircled the neckline and trimmed the bodice. The A-line skirt had a flounce at the hemline and train. Ribbon trimmed the top of the flounce and daisies trimmed the skirt. Her veil of illusion was attached to a cap covered with silk flowers.

A reception was held after the ceremony in the Memorial Hall, Tarboro.

The bride graduated from Pitt Community College in general office technology. The bridegroom attended Chowan College.

Mrs. George Stancill Hines Jr.

Correction
In the McKenzie-Reid engagement announcement published in Sunday's issue of "The Daily Reflector," the mother of the bridegroom was printed as being of Winterville. She lives at Rt. 1, Whiteville.

Optical Topics

An ophthalmoscope is not like any compact instamatic camera that it may resemble. This invaluable instrument allows the optometrist to view the interior of the eye and enlarge the images. The retina, arteries, veins and optic nerve entrance are easily viewed in the light cast from the ophthalmoscope. Did you know that the eye is the only place in the body where blood vessels can be seen in their natural state? Consequently, it is quite common for the ophthalmoscope to reveal the first signs of a patient having hardening of the arteries, diabetes or hypertension.

A periodic eye exam is a crucial part of everyone's overall medical care program. If such exams reveal the need for corrective eyewear, we suggest that you come to CLEAR VUE OPTICIANS, 1706 6th, Physicians Quadrangle, Building A. We understand the importance of proper vision and accordingly set our goals to provide our friends with the highest quality visual products attended to by a professional staff and complimented by concern and attention to individual needs. At CLEAR VUE OPTICIANS when you receive your eyewear you not only see good, but you look and feel good also. Tel. 752-1446.

EYE TIP:
Your occupation should be known to the optometrist since your visual problem may be tied to the nature of your work.

Arts Support Important

It is fitting that the Governor's Business Awards were presented in Greenville during the Eastern Carolina Arts Festival which is currently underway.

Gov. Hunt recognized a number of businesses and industries for their support of the arts.

Included were Burroughs Wellcome Co. of the Research Triangle and Greenville, First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Goldsboro, Weyerhaeuser Co. of New Bern, First Union National Bank of Charlotte and Fayetteville, Dillard Paper Co. of Greensboro and R. J. Reynolds Industries of Winston-Salem.

The ceremonies were held with the annual meeting of the Governor's Council on the Arts and Humanities.

Winners received limited-edition etchings by Donald Sexauer of ECU.

"The cultural environment of our state — the livability of North Carolina's many fine cities and towns — is an important aspect of our economic development goals and our industrial recruitment efforts," the governor said in making the awards.

Cultural accomplishments are important to our society. There is obviously going to be less tax money spent on the arts because of current retrenchment in government. That means the arts must be supported more than ever by business, industry and individuals.

Budget Compromises Ahead

It is never clear just what will happen in Congress. The administration's spending and tax reductions had been enjoying smooth sailing in the Senate.

Then when the Senate Budget Committee looked at the total package it voted it down by a 12-8 margin. Apparently it was a case of conservative Republicans voting against because the cuts didn't go far enough and liberal Democrats opposing because the cuts went too far. The vote, of course, is not considered fatal to the Reagan proposals. Undoubtedly administration forces are at work now trying to line up support among senators from both parties. The Democratic controlled House also has a mind of its own on the spending programs, and there will undoubtedly be some compromising before the spending and tax cut legislation is finally approved.

THIS AFTERNOON

No 'Luxury Roads'

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH — Just as the sleek, over-powered luxury automobile is a dying breed, so are the luxury highways with their acres of interchanges, broad shoulders, and expansive median strips.

North Carolina can no longer afford a "dream program for the Department of Transportation ... and that is likely to upset some people in DOT," says Gov. Jim Hunt.

There are lots of people at DOT who spend their days dreaming up grandiose roadways. And while beauty is in the eye of the beholder, those sweeping curves flanked by lawn-green acres of landscaped right-of-way qualify as pretty by most standards.

Such projects cost more to build. They require more land, use more guardrails, require more bridges for overpasses, take more directional signs, have high speed entry and exit ramps, use more paving on shoulders, and typically have more foundation and pavement depth.

Then comes maintenance: more lane lines to paint, more grass to mow, more potholes to patch ...

Keep Going
Compared to the ideal, Gov. Hunt is saying as he prepares for a statewide television appearance later this month to present his recommendations on highway funding, what North Carolina needs is "a minimum program to keep us going ... The days of the Cadillac approach are gone in North Carolina."

Hunt's program will be a package of proposals, not just a hefty hike in the gasoline tax. That tax will be recommended for increase, but not the four or five-cent per gallon hike frequently mentioned. And Hunt is having second thoughts about a percentage tax approach which would allow the tax take to climb as the cost of gasoline climbs. A flat per gallon rate is more predictable over the long run, especially in view of the uncertainties of decreasing gasoline use, an oversupply which can mean less price increase in coming years, and possible substitution of other fuels eventually.

Always adept at using public opinion testing methods to find out what Tar Heels are thinking — then leading in that direction — the governor has commissioned a poll, and used both letters and telephone calls to help figure his proposal. It will be a package of several ingredients: avoiding the simplistic big-tax-hike solution.

"North Carolinians are reasonable people," Hunt says. He finds them opposed to steep tax increase, yet concerned with highway safety, wear and tear, and especially tourism. "They don't want to pay more — but they realize that something must be done."

So he is turning to an outline which, first, establishes the level of program necessary to the future; one based on what we can afford.

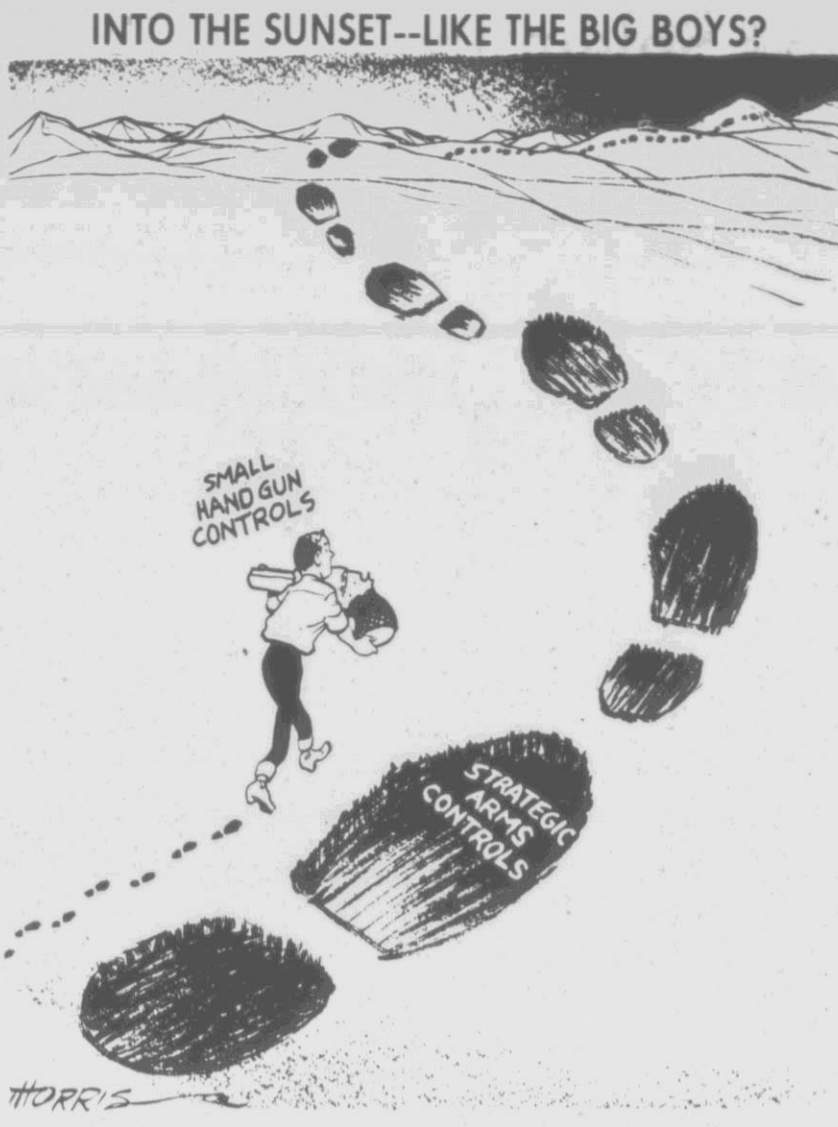

Maintenance
Item Number One is Maintenance of the System. Then comes Essential Construction. In both cases, solutions must be offered which are realistic and affordable, Hunt insists.

"We used to talk in high-

If You Have To Ask

It used to be if a person owned a boat and was queried, "How much does it cost to run?" the response was, "If you have to ask, you can't afford it."

With the arrival of spring, the same answer could go for someone owning a house.

I came home the other day to see a man standing on my roof.

"What are you doing up there?" I asked him.

"Four thousand dollars, which doesn't include the gutter work."

I was about to say something, when a truck drew up and two men started throwing mulch on the lawn.

The driver said, "You're lucky it was a warm winter. The grass looks in pretty good shape."

"How good?" I wanted to know. "Two thousand and six dollars, if you want us to prune the trees."

A car parked behind him. The man got out holding a clipboard and a ruler and started to measure the retaining wall, next to the garage. "What's up?" I asked.

"Your wife called and asked me to give her an estimate on what it would cost to repair your wall."

"I know what it will cost," I said.

"How much?" "Three thousand, two hundred and twenty five dollars."

"How did you know?" "I have psychic powers."

A large van pulled up in back of the retaining-wall man's car. "Where do you want the patio furniture?" the burly man asked.

"You sure you got the right house?"

The man checked his order slip. "It says 'Patio Furniture' $4,500."

"You've got the right house."

I sat on the stoop and lit a cigar. Two men in overalls came around from the side of the house. "It's had it."

"What's had it?"

"The air conditioner. The motor is shot. You need new bearings, and the cooling unit has to be replaced. You would be better off buying a new one than having us fix the old one."

"Don't I know it," I said. "What are air conditioners going for these days?"

"If you want one that will last, start thinking $6,000."

"That's what I was thinking," I said.

"You have to order one now in time for the summer," one of them said, handing me the slip.

I was about to go into the house when the painters arrived. They kept staring up at the windows and writing numbers on a pad.

"There's a lot more trim on those windows than you think," one told me. "Also your front door is warped. You better have that fixed before we paint it."

"I'll bet you couldn't paint the windows for less than three thousand dollars," I said.

"We could, but you'd be wasting your money. They should have at least two coats."

My wife called down from porch, "Don't let the painters

Curb Haig Campaign

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON — Despite the stated resolve of President Reagan's senior aides for ending their campaign to cut down Secretary of State Alexander Haig, the continuing deterioration of his position — aggravated by the White House — is attested by two new items of evidence.

Item No. 1: The obscure occupants of a secondary Cabinet office, Secretary of Agriculture John R. Block, publicly fumed at Haig for ignoring him about a French wheat sale to Moscow. The White House did not publicize the fact that although Haig failed to tell Block about the deal, he informed Ronald Reagan.

Item No. 2: Word has seeped out of the White House that among Republican foreign policy heavyweights in regular contact with presidential chief of staff James A. Baker III is Chicago industrialist Donald Rumsfeld, a superb intriguer in many former incarnations, including secretary of defense. That has persuaded one influential Western ambassador that Rumsfeld might soon replace Haig.

The White House campaign to bring Haig to heel in a self styled "collegial" atmosphere is out of control. Like a whispering campaign, the effort to tame Haig's ambitation and limit his power cannot now be stopped by the high presidential advisers who started it. That alarms foreign diplomats here and their home offices, who had hoped for a return to stability in U.S. foreign policy.

What angered Block was week-old word that French Ambassador Francois de Laublaye had been given a green light March 27 by Haig to sell wheat to the Russians despite the U.S. grain embargo. Block told reporters he was "furious" at Haig and raced to the White House to complain.

In fact, the French ambassador simply informed Haig that France was considering a sale, neither asking nor expecting any response. Word leaked by the Agriculture Department that Haig had failed to inform the White House was inaccurate. On that same March 27, Haig told the president.

Baker's conversations with Rumsfeld, however innocent in reality, take on a sinister tone in connection with statements coming out of the White House. A senior presidential aide has confided: "We will get this man (Haig) under control." A lesser White House aide predicted to newsmen that Haig would "be gone" by June 1.

Letters submitted for Public Forum should be limited to 300 words. The editor reserves the right to edit longer letters.

To the editor:
The Sunday School lesson for Apr. 5 focused upon "Preparing for Difficult Times." America may well confront the reality that difficult times are with us. Certainly the violence in our streets and the discontentment and tensions within our homes show evidence of this truth.

As we prepare for the Easter season and as we ready ourselves for the commencement hour, we are reminded of the hope of promise for everyone. Jesus' crucifixion, students' graduations and farmers' planting are examples of hope for a more productive and more fulfilling day.

In the midst of these difficult times and in light of the euphoria of this time of year, high school seniors must recognize the need for substantial preparation in the proper disciplines in order to be competitive in the employment markets. With the Reagan administration slashing funds for student aid and financial assistance, high school students must assess the training and opportunities provided by the military, by technical institutes and community colleges and by the demands of our technological society from plumbing, air conditioning-refrigeration, auto and diesel mechanics to fluency in foreign languages — particularly Japanese, Spanish, Chinese, German and Russian — and skillfulness in carpentry and brickmasonry, mathematics and the physical and biological sciences.

While our students share their excitement with us, let us encourage them to analyze their strengths and acknowledge their weaknesses with the goal that each of them may enter professions where they can be happy viable human beings. In addition, let us encourage them to recognize where the jobs will be during the next ten years in order that they may be prepared to fill in the current employment gaps and shortages.

It is unfortunate that minds are ever wasted; it is terrible, too, that dreams may never be realized. A lasting memorial to our nation will be the extent to which we challenge our students and ourselves to make substantial preparation to confront the issues of our complex society and these difficult times.

Other Editors Say Bottle The Bill

(Shelby Daily Star)

A "bottle bill" for North Carolina sounds like a good idea. But we fear that a statewide referendum on it isn't.

The measure would establish a deposit of a nickel apiece on beverage bottles and cans, requiring consumers to return the containers to a store to get their money back. Supporters claim the law would reduce litter on the state's roadsides. They also say it would encourage recycling, conserve resources, reduce solid-waste disposal costs and cut down damage to farm equipment.

Opponents, who include representatives of the N.C. Soft Drink Association, counter that a bottle bill would create higher prices and cause a lot of needless bother.

We tend to think the bill's benefits would more than make up for any inconvenience it might cause. But backers of the plan can't seem to line up enough votes in Raleigh to get it passed, though they have run it through the legislature in one form or another every year since 1973.

Rep. Dave Diamont, D-Pilot Mountain, must have seen that the bill was about to get canned again this year. That presumably was his motivation in announcing that he was changing tactics and merely asking the General Assembly to call a referendum on the matter instead of voting on it outright. He wants the bottle bill to be submitted to the voters in 1982. If approved, it would become effective in 1983.

There's only one thing wrong with the new approach: We doubt that such a proposal would stand a snowball's chance of winning public endorsement right now.

In their current mood, voters clearly are not looking kindly toward (1) more government regulation; (2) higher prices; or (3) environmentalist causes. Choosing this moment in history to submit a proposal that manages to touch all three nerves at the same time looks like a classic case of bad timing.

If the bottle-bill people don't have the votes this year in Raleigh, wouldn't it be better off waiting and trying again later? By forcing a negative public verdict now, they may effectively assure that it won't be able to raise its head again for years.

ASCENDING LIFE
Human life is a strange sequence of circumstances. The baby and young child live exclusively for themselves. As children grow up, they learn more and more how to integrate themselves into the give and take of life. Comes marriage, and the center of life changes; for as soon as children arrive, the parents cease to live for themselves and begin to live for and in their children. Even when old age descends, the mature parents and aging grandparents are living and thinking largely in terms of the oncoming generation.

It is not hard to believe that in this community of life and interests, God is preparing us for an eternal existence with Him. The universe and the heavens constitute a great household presided over by the Father. And among earthly fathers and mothers, their loves and devotions, we see God's plan for us all. Up, up we ascend into the divine perfection of the Most High. — Elisha Douglass

Al Haig started Inauguration Day when Reagan's senior aides were put out at what they regarded as Haig's effort to grab power over national security machinery. Not encumbered by institutional memory, they not only blocked Haig but took control themselves, the first time that the White House staff has ever sought to dominate both the national security assistant, now Richard V. Allen, and the State and Defense Departments.

Haig has never recovered, later losing control of crisis management to Vice President George Bush. Friends say the open season on Al Haig limits his effectiveness as a diplomat. One ambassador here blamed anti-Haig incidents, such as Block's public attack, for Haig's uneven performance on his Mideast tour. He told us Haig would never have used Israel as the soap box for castigating Syria for "brutality" in the Lebanese conflict if he were not preoccupied with considerations of self-preservation.

Even when Haig makes light of his tribulations, adversaries in the White House stick in the knife. He told a joke on himself at dinner in Jerusalem that was funny enough to be reprinted in full by the New York Times. When one White House aide was asked if he had read the joke he replied, suggestively: "Some important people here didn't think it was all that funny."

Haig is not helped by staunch support at every turn from Richard M. Nixon. At the small breakfasts and dinners Nixon now gives at his East 65th Street Manhattan townhouse, he praises Haig, then criticizes the White House staff for taking away the national security portfolio not only from Haig but also Allen and Secretary of Defense Caspar Weinberger. Those words get back to the White House and add wind to the whispering campaign against Haig.

To undermine the secretary of state partly because Nixon speaks well of him is as ludicrous as Secretary Block's outburst and White House staff predictions that Haig will be controlled — or else. This trivial byplay so hinders Haig's functioning that in the eyes of the nation's allies, the United States has yet to resume its leadership of the Western world.

flown rhetoric about solving problems forever. I have been in public office long enough to know better. We may not deal with this in one fell swoop — forever and ever," he commented.

A slight gas tax hike; a small tax on alcoholic beverages; a bond issue for construction; some increases in vehicle registration fees; a hike in fees charged truckers; and some options for the future will likely make up the package.

The key will be to suggest immediate needs, and future directions. What Hunt says he will try to do is to suggest a system which will produce increasing highway funds for the state as transportation costs climb in coming years. "If the cost-of-living portion of transportation costs goes up a little from time to time, that is not unreasonable. The cost of cars goes up. The cost of gas goes up. So must the cost of good roads."

Finds Bones Of A Child

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — A skull, skeleton and a few items of clothing may be those of missing 5-year-old Neely Smith, Mecklenburg County police say.

Neely disappeared from her East Charlotte home on Feb. 18. The bones and clothing were found Saturday morning east of Charlotte off Union Road outside Mint Hill, said Capt. Eugene Rushing.

The bones were found after a county officer set up a routine driver's license check on Union Road. Rushing said that one motorist, stopped about 8:30 a.m., said, "Hey, there's a skull a few yards down the road."

Police found the small human skull in the driveway of a house that is for sale. Rushing refused to give the address of the house.

County and Charlotte police, volunteer firemen and other volunteers combed a brushy, 300-yard area and found other bones and clothing — pants, shirt, shoes and underwear.

Neely's mother and stepfather, Kimberly and Charles Griffin of Charlotte, identified photographs of the clothing as items Neely wore on the day she disappeared.

Because there are no dental records for Neely, law enforcement officers say they aren't sure how a certain identification will be made.

"I think we feel rather certain that it is her," said Charlotte Police Maj. Paul Capell, however. More positive identification is expected in about a week.

Poultry Items Are Available In Good Supply

By BILL HUMPHRIES
NCSU Agricultural Communicator

RALEIGH — A generation ago, chicken was a special treat served only for Sunday dinner or for a meal prepared for a visiting minister and the local pastor during revival week. This was true among farm and rural families, many of which maintained backyard poultry flocks.

Turkey on the table was even more scarce. It was almost never seen except during Thanksgiving and Christmas holidays.

The situation is much different today. "Poultry food products, a luxury in bygone days, are now available in plentiful supply," says Dr. Fred R. Tarver Jr., food science specialist with the N.C. Agricultural Extension Service.

Per capita consumption figures indicate the importance of poultry in the daily diet. In 1980, consumption exceeded 62 pounds of poultry, meat and approximately 279 chicken eggs per person, Tarver said.

Poultry is North Carolina's largest food industry, and it is second only to tobacco as a source of agricultural income. Gross returns from poultry and eggs produced in the state last year reached a record high of $788 million, according to estimates by country extension agents and specialists at N.C. State University.

Production included an estimated 404.5 million broilers, 23.8 million turkeys and 268 million dozen eggs. About a third of the eggs were for hatching and the remaining two-thirds for table use.

Millions of consumers in other states, as well as nearly 6 million in North Carolina, depend on Tar Heel farms and factories for their poultry food supplies.

Traditionally, poultry food products have been considered a good buy because of their nutritional value, relative low price and versatility. The wide choice of such products makes them desirable any time of the year for any and all occasions," Tarver said.

Products available include broiler-fryers, roasters, stewers, hen and tom turkeys, shell and out-of-shell egg products, ducklings and quail. And they come in many forms — non-frozen, frozen, refrigerated, freeze-dried, canned, cured, pickled, cooked and ready-to-eat.

The turkey industry, in particular, has developed a wide range of processed products for the consumer. Tarver predicted continued gains in further processing by the industry.

Turkey production has expanded more rapidly in North Carolina than in other areas. The state has moved up to second place, displacing California, and is well on its way toward overtaking first-place Minnesota in yearly turkey output.

The chicken or turkey consumer can buy whole birds, processed items, or packages of cut-up parts such as drumsticks or breasts.

"On a price per pound basis, it's more economical to buy the whole, ready-to-cook product rather than some of the meatier chicken and turkey parts cut up and packaged separately," Tarver said.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Don't neglect to pay important bills. A co-worker could pose a problem at this time. Maintain your poise.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Try to compromise more with an associate who does not agree with you. Plan how to gain your finest aims.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You find it hard to put across ideas in the morning but later all changes for the better. Don't spend money foolishly now.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Ideal day to confer with associates and express your views. Figure out what obstacles you have to overcome.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Morning is fine for handling financial matters. Try to meet expectations of family members and increase harmony at home.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Schedule your activities wisely so that everything will go smoothly later. Sidestep one who has an eye on your assets.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) State your plans to loyal friends and they will quickly cooperate with you in gaining them. Show more generosity.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Express some hidden talents you have and make a fine impression on others. Take no risks in motion.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You will have to exert more effort in business matters to gain your cherished goals. Think constructively.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Not the right time to engage in a new course of action. Show that you are wise. Relax at home tonight.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Be more cooperative with associates for mutual gain. Handle a responsibility that has been worrying you.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Talk with a partner so that you can accomplish more in your line of endeavor. Stop wasting precious time.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will be one who will like to make changes of a creative nature and upon growing up will have a pretty good idea of what it takes to be successful. Give good ethical training and teach good health habits.

CHAPEL HILL — Hattie Hardy, a sophomore, was one of the minority students at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill recognized for outstanding academic achievement Wednesday, April 8, by the UNC-CH chapter of the Pre-Professional Health Society.

The society, an undergraduate organization for students pursuing degrees in health-related fields, honored 108 black and American Indian undergraduate students who have maintained a "B" average or better.

Dundi Holt, a UNC-CH English graduate student and president of the campus United Christian Fellowship program, was the featured speaker.

PTC MEETING

The Public Transportation Commission will meet Wednesday, April 15 at 8 p.m. at the Public Works facility.

Ten People Die In N.C. Traffic

By The Associated Press
Traffic accidents on North Carolina roads killed ten people this weekend, the state Highway Patrol said Sunday.

The last reported death was 23-year-old Ronald Bradley Nobles of Thomsville, who died when he drove his car through a stop light in High Point and hit another car, troopers said.

So far this year, 340 people have died in traffic accidents in North Carolina, compared with 364 at the same time last year.

Robert Lee Henderson, 29, of Rocky Mount, died early Saturday when his car ran off a rural road near Rocky Mount and overturned.

Also killed Saturday was Bobby G. Laughinghouse, 44, of Ayden. The patrol said his car was speeding when it ran off the left side of a rural Pitt County road and struck a bridge abutment.

Twenty-year-old Ricky Forbes of Spruce Pine died when his car hit a cement retaining wall, struck a store and burst into flames in his hometown.

Elroy Duke Bullock, 22, and Littleton Levane Palmer, 20, both of Macon, also were killed Saturday. The Highway Patrol said Bullock drove a speeding car off the right side of U.S. 158 and struck a tree, then a house.

In Johnston County, Ralph Foye Jr., 38, of Selma, died Saturday night when his speeding car ran off N.C. 96 on the right and overturned, throwing him from the vehicle.

Earlier Saturday, James Edward Blake, 50, of Greensboro, was killed on impact when he lost control of his car on a rural road in Guilford County. The car overturned, hit a guard rail and threw Blake into a lake.

In an accident four miles east of Hendersonville, Keith Franklin Young, 17, of Balfour, died early Saturday night when he lost control of his car. The vehicle ran off the road on the right, came back over to the left, crossed an embankment and struck a tree.

Eighty-year-old Leile Hawkins Inabinet of Lenoir was killed Saturday afternoon in Lenoir. As she left her parked car, the vehicle started rolling backwards, throwing Ms. Inabinet underneath it.

With Calcium Nitrate I've had excellent crop health and yield. After sidedressing my tomatoes and peppers with CN this past season I just haven't had any blossom-end rot, period!"

N.C. Counties Grow As Rural Services Received

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Rural counties in North Carolina are burgeoning in population as industrial investment and city benefits become more spread out, population experts and county planners say.

Census figures show that from 1970 to 1980, the fastest-growing counties were on the coast and in western and piedmont North Carolina, where authorities credit much of the growth to new jobs.

trend towards rural growth is not as dramatic in North Carolina as in some other states, because the state never developed large urban areas, even though it ranks 10th nationally in population.

But national census and state figures show that urban counties grew faster than their core cities in six of the state's seven largest metropolitan areas: Asheville, Burlington, Fayetteville, Raleigh-Durham, Greensboro-Winston-Salem-High Point and Wilmington.

Only Charlotte's 30.2 percent growth rate exceeded that of surrounding Mecklenburg County, which grew 14 percent.

Of $1.2 billion in new industrial investment in North Carolina, two-thirds went to rural areas. Total industrial investment, both expansion of existing industry and new industry, was 60 percent non-urban.

Many of the new plants announced in 1981 have been in intermediate or small-sized cities, such as Oxford, Sanford, Franklinton, Erwin or Spindale.

North Carolina shared in the growth of the Sunbelt, as more people moved into the state than out in the last 10 years — a reversal of the previous decade.

Greensboro. The county's population grew faster than all its own towns, except Lillington.

"A lot of people would rather live in rural areas than in the city, but live close enough so they could go into the city," said county planner Tony M. Tucker.

Many services, such as water and sewer and cable television, have been extended into rural areas, and more industry is locating there, he said. Smith & Wesson and Burlington Industries announced new plants this year.

Small-town and country life now offer many of the advantages of city life, such as better telephone service and central air conditioning, without the city's problems, according to John D. Kasarda, chairman of the sociology department at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

Coupled with improving conditions in the South — racial and political attitudes, the decline of the "redneck" image, better transportation, communication and more jobs — the South has drawn 3 1/2 million immigrants since 1965, he said.

State industry hunters attribute the spreading-out of industry to several factors — a statewide community college system making more skilled workers available, lower land costs and better transportation and communication.

Heroin Arrest

Roosevelt King, 59, of 1801B Hopkins Dr., was arrested by Greenville Police and State Bureau of Investigation agents Friday afternoon on charges of trafficking in heroin, following a search of his residence.

Chief Glenn Cannon said the 2:40 p.m. search uncovered 175 bags of heroin, valued at $4,200.

King was jailed under $25,000 bond pending hearing of the case in court.

Navy Probing Sub Collision

TOKYO (AP) - A veteran U.S. Navy submarine skipper was due in Japan today to begin a formal investigation into the collision of an American nuclear-powered submarine and a Japanese merchant vessel. Two Japanese crewmen were lost when the freighter sank.

U.S. Embassy officials said Capt. Willis Rich, a senior staff officer at the Navy's Pacific headquarters in Hawaii, will serve as a one-man board of inquiry to probe the mishap as "thoroughly and quickly as possible."

His investigation will include interviews with surviving crewmen of the sunken Nissho Maru, a 2,350-ton freighter, and with personnel of the USS George Washington, a Polaris missile-firing submarine based at Guam, they said.

The report will go to Navy headquarters in Washington and then to the Japanese. Japan's Maritime Safety Agency is conducting a separate inquiry.

The collision occurred last Thursday in the East China Sea, about 110 miles off the southern tip of Japan. The Shanghai-bound freighter sank within 15 minutes. Thirteen crewmen survived but the captain and another crewman are missing and presumed dead.

Watson Wins Masters, Talking Of Grand Slam

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Tom Watson, the Masters champion, believes someone will achieve professional golf's Grand Slam.

"If we homosapiens don't blow ourselves up in the near future, I think somebody will do it," he said.

For sure, Watson has the only shot at capturing all four of the sport's major championships this year. His 2-shot Masters victory Sunday over Nicklaus and Johnny Miller assured that.

So, could what Watson terms a billion-to-one shot occur in 1981?

He grinned and said: "Ask me after the PGA (the year's final major in August.)"

Ben Hogan came the closest to pulling the elusive feat in 1953 when he won three of the four current majors, the Masters, the U.S. Open, the British Open and the PGA.

However, the late Bobby Jones achieved the Grand Slam of an earlier era when he collected the U.S. and British Amateur and Open championships in 1930.

Watson passed the slam's first milestone when he withstood his own nerves for a final round of 1-under-par 71 for a 72-hole total of 281, 7 under for trips over Augusta National's revered 6,905 yards.

"I was so nervous I felt like I was jumping out of my skin all day," said Watson after his second Masters crown in the last five years, the fifth major professional title among his 23 American Tour victories in 11 seasons.

Watson thought he required a round in the 60s, considering the ideal playing conditions. But no one made a move, assuring him of the first-place check of $60,000.

Nicklaus' bid for an unprecedented sixth Masters title turned sour with his 72. Miller threatened Watson with a 68, which tied Tom Kite for the low round of the muggy, sunny day.

Nicklaus and Miller earned $30,500 paydays with their runnerup totals of 282. Australian Greg Norman, playing in his first Masters, shot 72 and settled for $16,000 and fourth place at 283.

Only 10 other players in the original international field of 82 could solve Augusta National's par of 288.

Seve Ballesteros of Spain, the defending champion, couldn't even make the midway cut. Ray Floyd, the leading money-winner in 1981, shot 69-286. Gary Player, a three-time Masters winner, had 71-288.

Jay Sigel of Berwyn, Pa., 37, the British Amateur champion in 1979, grabbed low amateur honors for the second consecutive year with 72-294.

Watson, after battling the new, bent grass greens, predicted, "We're going to see a winning score over par some day. Four days of high winds would lead to outrageous numbers in the future."

Watson contends his jitters were a good prelude sign. "Usually," he explained, "when I'm playing pretty decently, I'm nervous with the lead. If you're not playing well and not in the tournament, there's no need to be nervous."

Watson was at his scrambling, championship best down the stretch. He saved pars on four of the last six holes, foiling any hopes of his would-be challengers.

He hit his second shot into Rae's Creek, but still salvaged a par 5 on the 465-yard 13th with a chip shot that left him only a 5-foot putt.

In a twist of championship irony, Watson felt he won the Masters with a scrambling par at 14, a hole that had cost him two previous titles in this event.

"I hit a good, aggressive bunker shot at 14," he said. "I never thought about missing the (4-foot) putt. I thought the championship was mine after that."

He locked it up by two-putting from 45 feet for a birdie four on the 500-yard 15th.

Watson protected his 2-shot lead with two more saves at 17 and 18. He blasted out of the front bunker to within four feet at 17. He two-putted from the right fringe at 18.

"It's better the second time around," he said. "It's indescribably delicious. It was more of a fight with myself this time."

Nicklaus was not surprised his most intense rival for current golfing supremacy did not fold in the stretch.

"Tom was there when he needed to be," said Nicklaus, frustrated at his failure to extend his Masters record to six championships.

"He has mental toughness. He doesn't like to lose. That's reflected in his putting. He makes them when he has to."

Miller seemed surprised at his round, saying, "I didn't expect to catch these great players. I didn't think I had much of a chance when I teed off today."

Waltrip Survives Pit Stop To Claim Rebel 500 Victory

DARLINGTON, S.C. (AP) — Weary Darrell Waltrip saw his boss coming in the door and said: "Nobody ask him about that last pit stop."

It was meant as a joke, but Waltrip knew that his final pit stop, just 12 laps from the end, nearly cost him a hard-earned victory in Sunday's $220,000 CRC Chemicals Rebel 500 at Darlington International Raceway.

Waltrip, who now has won four of eight NASCAR Grand National stock car races since going to work for Junior Johnson at the beginning of the season, was holding off Harry Gant late in the grueling 367-lap race. But both leaders — running well ahead of the rest of the field — had to pit for fuel in order to finish.

"I came in slow because there's a big bump with a metal plate on pit road and I wanted to avoid it," Waltrip explained. "But, I came in too slow and killed the engine."

"Then, when I tried to keep rolling to get it restarted, I almost went right past my pit and the guy with the gas can. I wasn't sure he'd gotten it (the gas) in, but I had to get out of there."

"I guess maybe I panicked a little bit," the three-time Rebel 500 winner said with a shrug.

Waltrip's troublesome stop still took only 8.81 seconds. And Gant got out in just 5.37 seconds when he came in for his fuel stop the next time around. But the challenger, held up by a slower car as he left pit road, found himself still trailing Waltrip with just nine laps remaining.

"I think if I could have beat him on that last pit stop, I would have won the race," said Gant, who has finished second five times, but has yet to win a Grand National race. "I just didn't beat him out of the pits. (Dick) Brooks just got in the way, and that was costly."

Waltrip, who averaged 126.703 mph, drove his Buick Regal across the finish line just a half-car length ahead of Gant's Pontiac Grand Prix.

The 34-year-old driver from Franklin, Tenn., picked up $23,225 in first place money for the victory. His 31st Grand National victory also moved him within one of the late Glenn "Fireball" Roberts, who is 12th on the all-time list.

Stage Set, But Masters' Drama Never Developed

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — The stage was set for another dramatic windup in the Masters. It never developed.

With two of the game's top stars, Jack Nicklaus and Tom Watson, only one shot apart at the start of Sunday's final round, it was almost expected among the crowd of 30,000 that a drama would unfold again on the Augusta National Golf Club course.

There was some, but it came early and from an unexpected source — Johnny Miller.

Miller, who started the day 5 shots behind, carved out a brilliant 4-under-par 68 to close to within a stroke of the front-running Watson, who still had five holes to play.

Miller's was the first challenge to Watson, and another mild one came later from Nicklaus, but by the time Watson saved par, and a 2-shot advantage, from a bunker on the 17th, it was all over.

Watson finished with a solid 71-280. The day's best score enabled Miller to share the runnerup spot with Nicklaus at 282.

Greg Norman, the Australian shark-shooter, was alone in fourth with a 72-283. He recovered from a double bogey 6 on No. 10 with birdies on two par-5 holes, 13 and 15, to complete his even-par round.

Miller, a lanky, blond Californian, was ushered into an interview room shortly after he finished, with Watson still on the course.

"Yes, there's still a chance to win without a playoff," he said. "I'm not pulling against anyone, though. I'm happy to at least let Watson know I was around, no matter what happened."

Miller said he had not expected to be in contention when he came to the course Sunday.

"Normally my biggest fault is I'm so realistic," he said.

Miller said two friends shouted encouragement to him and "I just decided to attack the course. I've got potential."

"Hey, I never one time went for the center of the green. I went for every flag. Maybe I'm nuts."

Miller had been in a similar situation in the 1973 U.S. Open at Oakmont. He began that final round well back in the pack, but threw a sizzling 63 at the field. It easily stood up.

UNC-W Downs Pirates, Sweeps 2-Game Series

WILMINGTON — The University of North Carolina at Wilmington did Sunday what no other team has been able to do all year long — hand East Carolina University's baseball Pirates back-to-back defeats.

The Seahawks, who had taken a 6-3 win on Saturday, came back to sweep the two-game series with a 3-1 win on Sunday.

And just like the Saturday loss, errors played a big role. Saturday, all six Wilmington runs had been unearned. Yesterday, two of the three were unearned. ECU's three runs Saturday and its single run Sunday were all earned.

Taking the loss this time was Bill Wilder, who dropped his second straight. He had bowed in another close game to North Carolina last Tuesday, and is now 5-4 on the year.

Wilder, like winner Kenny Smith, allowed eight hits. He walked two and struck out three. Smith, meanwhile, walked four and struck out two.

Wilmington struck early, getting a run in the bottom of the first inning. Tim Whitehead doubled and then went to third on a Kelly Robinette error on the relay. Tom Jones followed with a single, driving in Whitehead.

The Pirates managed to come back and tie it up with a run in the third. Robinette singled and then stole second.

He took third on an infield out and scored on a wild pitch by Smith.

But the tie didn't last long, as Wilmington came right back to score the go-ahead run in the bottom of the inning. Kelly O'Donnell singled and Paul Murr got a hit. Whitehead reached on a second Robinette error, loading the bases. Jones then hit a sacrifice fly to score O'Donnell.

The insurance run came over in the fifth. Murr singled and Whitehead reached when Mike Sage errored his sacrifice bunt. Murr took third on the play and Get Mocap. Before nematodes get your soybeans.

Nematode damage can cost you 15 to 20 bushels of soybeans per acre. But thanks to Mocap® nematicide-insecticide, it's a loss you can easily avoid.

Mocap controls root-knot, sting and lesion nematodes that feed on the root system of soybean plants. By destroying these nematodes, Mocap helps insure the development of healthy roots that can channel important nutrients and soil moisture to your plants. And that can help you get the kind of yields you should be getting.

Mocap comes in two easy-to-apply formulations — Mocap 10G (granular) and Mocap 6 EC (liquid). And it's economical to use. So see us for the Mocap you need this season. And see the difference it makes in your soybeans.

Mocap® is a registered trademark of Mobil Chemical Company, Richmond, Virginia 23261. Use only as directed on the label and observe all use precautions fully. Mocap 6 EC is a restricted use pesticide.

The 'Brown Bomber' Is Dead At 66

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Former heavyweight boxing champion Joe Louis, the "Brown Bomber" who dealt a blow to Hitler's racial doctrines by defeating a German prize-fighter and helped open the sport to other blacks, has died at the age of 66.

Louis, who died Sunday at Desert Springs Hospital here, held the heavyweight crown for 12 years and fought off 25 challenges after taking the title — a record for successful defenses.

"Joe was a boxing genius," said Max Schmeling, the German whom Louis defeated in a 1938 rematch.

Louis, who had been in ill health for some time and was confined to a wheelchair, collapsed in his home.

"He was in a cardiac arrest state when he arrived. They did everything they could to revive him," said Shirley Brown, nursing supervisor at the hospital.

Louis' wife, Martha, and other relatives were at his side. Not long before he died, Louis attended Saturday night's World Boxing Council heavyweight title fight between champion Larry Holmes and Trevor Berbick at Caesars Palace, which Holmes won.

His body will lie Thursday at Caesars Palace, where he had worked as a greeter.

"We've lost another great American," said entertainer Bob Hope, once an amateur fighter, who attended Friday night fights in Hollywood during World War II with Army Cpl. Joe Louis.

"He opened up boxing to every black fighter," said Teddy Brenner, former president of Madison Square Garden Boxing and a major matchmaker. "He even led the way for guys like Jackie Robinson in other sports. Every black athlete that follows owes a debt of gratitude to Joe Louis."

being admitted to Desert Springs Hospital in Las Vegas, Nev. He was 66. Louis is shown here, from left, in 1935, 1950, 1963 and 1977. (AP Laserphoto)

"Joe was the greatest guy and he was my inspiration in boxing," said Sugar Ray Robinson, former world welterweight and middleweight champion.

In 71 professional fights over 17 years, Louis won 68 and lost just three. Of his wins, 54 were knockouts, 12 coming in the first round.

He may be best remembered for his rematch victory over Schmeling, who defeated Louis in a stunning upset in 1936.

On June 22, 1938, in Yankee Stadium, Schmeling crashed to the floor three times before the rematch was stopped in the first round. The United States rejoiced at the victory, which was of international significance because of Hitler's racial doctrine of "Aryan supremacy."

A 6-foot-1½, 200-pounder, Louis impassively, relentlessly and gracefully stalked his opponents. When he struck, it was with a quick, jolting jab and rapid, powerful combinations. And when the opponent went down, Louis would move indifferently to a neutral corner and wait for the referee to end it.

It was his unassuming demeanor that continued to win fans for the quiet man of humble origins.

Louis was born Joseph Louis Barrow in Lafayette, Ala., on May 13, 1914, and was raised in a Detroit ghetto. At 23, he won the title by knocking out 31-year-old James J. Braddock in 1937.

In 17 years as a boxer, he earned nearly $5 million. But he lived in high style, always picking up the checks, and had little left when he was through. He was in constant income-tax difficulty.

"I really don't know how much I owe the government," he said in 1960. "When that income man said $1 million, I stopped listening."

'Full-Bodied' Parker Lifts Pirates Past Montreal

By The Associated Press
Ever since he reported to training camp this spring at more than 250 pounds this year, Dave Parker's weight has been a hefty issue.

But if he continues to hit the way he did Sunday, his batting average will be a lot fatter than his waistline.

"Dave Parker is swinging the bat and running like the Dave Parker in the MVP year he had," Pittsburgh Manager Chuck Tanner said after his full-bodied outfielder smashed three hits, including a home run, that helped the Pirates beat the Montreal Expos 3-2.

"I've never thought a thing about his weight," added

Tanner. "All I want him to do is be healthy. People make big issues out of things, but Dave is a big man. He's 6-feet-5, and Dave plays hard and he plays every day."

Parker weighed about 225 pounds when he won the National League's Most Valuable Player award in 1978. But after knee surgery during the past off-season, he reported to the Pirates' camp at an acknowledged weight of 255 pounds.

Near the close of spring training, Chicago White Sox broadcaster Jimmy Piersall likened Parker to a "baby hippo or a baby whale" and suggested he might weigh 260-270 pounds.

Parker initially responded with, "Let them look at my stats in October." But he was silent Sunday, declining to talk to reporters.

But Parker smacked Ray Burris' first pitch of the fourth inning over the right field fence at Pittsburgh's Three Rivers Stadium for his first homer of the season and Jason Thompson followed with his first homer in a Pittsburgh uniform and the Pirates were on their way.

Cardinals 7, Phillies 3

Garry Templeton tripled home one run during a three-run rally in the fifth inning and scored the winning run on first baseman Pete Rose's error.

keying St. Louis' triumph over Philadelphia.

Winner Lary Sorensen, acquired by the Cardinals in a winter trade from the Milwaukee Brewers, restricted the Phillies to five hits before giving way to Bruce Sutter in the final three innings.

Braves 3, Reds 2

Dale Murphy's RBI single in the eighth inning capped a two-run rally and led Atlanta over Cincinnati. Murphy's game-winning hit came after consecutive doubles by Claudell Washington and Glenn Hubbard had tied the game 2-2 against losing reliever Tom Hume.

The Reds had taken a 2-1 lead in the top of the eighth on an RBI single by Joe Nolan and Larry Blittner's sacrifice fly off reliever Rick Camp.

"I've come up with a lot of guys on base in this series and had chances to make all three games not very close if I could have done a little more," said Murphy, who had bounced out with the bases loaded earlier in the game.

Braves Manager Bobby Cox said, however, that Murphy "had a lot of chances to drive in runs in the series — and he did drive in the big ones."

Mets 2, Cubs 1

Rookie Hubie Brooks opened the ninth with a triple and scored on Mike Cubbage's pinch sacrifice fly to lift New York over Chicago. Brooks' triple was his third hit of the game and came off reliever and loser Rawley Eastwick. Reliever Neil Allen, the fourth Mets' pitcher, gained the victory.

Dodgers 3, Astros 2

Ken Landreaux slugged a two-run homer and doubled to lead Los Angeles over Houston for a sweep of their three-game series. Rick Sutcliffe, with relief help from Steve Howe, earned the victory while Vern Ruhle took the loss.

Sutcliffe, who won only three games last year after winning 17 the season before, restricted Houston to only two hits through five innings. But he gave up a homer to Dave Bergman in the sixth and then needed relief help from Howe in the eighth when the Astros scored their second run on Jeff Leonard's sacrifice fly.

Giants 7, Padres 6

Larry Herndon got a two-out double on a San Diego fielding misplay in the 14th inning and Mike Ivie followed with an RBI single as San Francisco beat the Padres.

Herndon hit a fly ball to deep left-center field and left fielder Gene Richards appeared ready to make the catch. But Richards pulled up at the last second, apparently thinking center fielder Ruppert Jones would make the catch, and the ball fell between them.

After reliever Gary Lucas intentionally walked Jack Clark, Ivie got his fourth hit of the game.

NHL Rookies Spark Teams To Wins

By The Associated Press
These are the Stanley Cup playoffs, when rookies are supposed to shake in their boots, fall flat on their faces and cover beneath the icy stares of disappointed coaches.

So how do you explain Dale Hunter, Mike Bullard and Tom Laidlaw?

Sunday night, those three National Hockey League freshmen extended the seasons of their respective teams with dramatic goals. Hunter scored just 37 seconds into overtime to lift the Quebec Nordiques past the Philadelphia Flyers 4-3 and even their best-of-five preliminary round series at two games apiece. The decisive fifth game will be in Philadelphia Tuesday.

Also playing the final game of their series Tuesday will be St. Louis and Pittsburgh, thanks to Bullard, who broke a 3-3 tie 44 seconds into the third period as the Penguins stopped the Blues 6-3.

And Laidlaw propelled the Rangers into the quarterfinals with a 40-foot screened wrist shot at 6:44 of the third session to boost New York past Los Angeles 6-3. The victory gave the Rangers — who finished 13th overall to Los Angeles' fourth — the series three games to one.

The other five series concluded Saturday night. Edmonton completed its shocking three-game sweep of Montreal with a 6-2 romp that was punctuated by Wayne Gretzky's three goals. Buffalo topped Vancouver 5-3 as Tony McKegney and Danny Gare scored twice. The defending champion New York Islanders blitzed Toronto 6-1 to end their series with the Islanders outscoring the Maple Leafs 20-4. Calgary outlasted Chicago 5-4, winning in double overtime on Willi Plett's goal. And Minnesota took Boston 6-3 as Steve Payne scored twice, giving him seven goals in the three games.

Nordiques 4, Flyers 3

Philadelphia appeared headed to the next round, grabbing a 3-1 lead after one period, with Terry Murray starting things off only seven seconds into the game.

But Quebec didn't quit, even though the Flyers held the Nordiques without a shot through 14 minutes of the third period. At 15:35, Hunter got his first goal of the night. Then, 1:33 later, Jacques Richard pounced on the rebound of a Hunter shot to force overtime.

"When Dale scored his first goal," said Marc Tardif, Hunter's linemate, "the whole tempo of the game changed. When you play with Hunter, you really see how good he is and how he creates openings."

Hunter, a No. 41 pick in the 1979 draft who played in juniors last season, had 19 goals and 44 assists this season. But none of the goals were anywhere near as meaningful as his overtime tally.

"This was surely the most important goal of my life," said Hunter, 20. We didn't get many chances but we sure made the most of them.

"Richard set me up in the slot," he added in describing the OT goal. "The puck was bouncing a lot and I wanted to use my backhand but I couldn't. Finally, I just whacked at it and it went into the net."

The Nordiques, who finished

11th overall to Philadelphia's sixth, have played the Flyers tough in the four games.

"We have the momentum going into Philadelphia," said Quebec goalie Daniel Bouchard, whose arrival in a trade with Calgary on Jan. 30 spurred the team's renaissance.

Falcons Slip By Farmville

PIKEVILLE — Charles B. Aycock High School gained a 5-3 baseball victory over Farmville Central Saturday night.

Aycock jumped into the lead in the first inning, scoring three times. Ken Grantham singled and stole second, moving to third on an infield out. He scored on Thomas' sacrifice fly.

V. Grantham kept the inning going with a single and A. Bunn reached on an error. Talton reached on another error, scoring both runners.

Farmville came back with a run in the fourth. Mike Tyndall walked and Bobby Avery reached on an error. David Cherry walked, and when Alvin Baker was hit by a pitch, it forced in Tyndall.

Aycock, however, came right back with two to wrap it up. Burroughs led off with a single and Ken Grantham cracked a two-run homer. That made it 5-1.

Farmville later came up with two more runs in the sixth, but never caught up.

Grantham led the Aycock hitting with three, while Wade Corbett had two for Farmville.

The Jaguars, now 4-7 overall and 3-6 in Eastern Carolina Conference play, host Greene Central on Tuesday.

N.C. Symphony Drops Concerts

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — A lack of money is forcing the North Carolina Symphony to cancel the 24 concerts remaining on its schedule after April 26, symphony officials said Sunday.

The symphony fell about $500,000 short of its goal to raise $1.5 million from private sources this year, the officials said. They said next year's plans probably won't be affected.

"We simply have come to the point where we can't operate in a deficit position," said board chairman Charles B. Wade Jr. of Winston-Salem at a news conference. "It's a very expensive operation by the fact that (the symphony) has to travel."

"We have to say we can't continue this season. We regret it exceedingly," Wade said, adding that the musicians will be paid through April 26. They have played 200 concerts since the season began Aug. 31.

The cancellation affects 12 evening concerts and nine educational concerts in May and three in April. Also cancelled is a week of in-school discovery programs involving small ensembles of symphony musicians.

Wade said the shortfall had been caused by increasing expenses for travel and meals, combined with insufficient increases in ticket revenues, state support and contributions.

"We hope that supporters of the symphony will take this as a sign to support the symphony," said Francis B. Kemp of Charlotte, chairman of the board's finance committee. "We have indications that they will."

Symphony President R. Max Abbott of Raleigh cited a lack of public support as one of the main reasons for the money shortage.

"The state supports the North Carolina Symphony, but the average man on the street has no idea that we have to raise the amount that we do," he said.

The symphony received $1.2 million from the Legislature this year toward a $2.7 million budget. The remaining $1.5 million was to be raised from private donors.

"We raised as much as we did last year," Abbott said. "But last year's budget was $2.5 million."

Salaries for the symphony's 73 musicians contributed to rising costs. The musicians went on strike in September because of disagreements about salaries, season length and orchestra size. Under the settlement, the musicians received a $35 weekly raise and expanded insurance benefits.

Wade said the strike was one of many factors, and that musicians plan to cooperate with management and help with fund raising activities.

The cancellation could mean a one-eighth drop in the annual income for many symphony musicians, Abbott said.

Cities that had symphony concerts scheduled during the five weeks were: Durham, April 28; Asheville, April 29; Greensboro, April 30; Goldsboro, May 11; Henderson, May 12; Jefferson, May 9; Kings Mountain, May 12; Marion, May 21; Mocksville, May 10; Pinehurst, May 7; Raeford, May 14; Raleigh, May 30 and 31; and Williamston, May 8.

Educational concerts were canceled for Henderson, Jefferson, Marion, Mocksville, Raeford, Robbins, Aberdeen and Williamston.

GOREN BRIDGE

BY CHARLES H. GOREN AND OMAR SHARIF
1981 by Chicago Tribune

Q.1—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠QJ108752 ♠Q72 ♦Q53
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South
1 ♦ 1 ♦ ?
What do you bid now?
A.—You have tremendous playing strength but virtually no defensive tricks. Someone at the table must hold a lot of spades because partner is unlikely to have more than four. You must do all you can to shut out that suit. Jump to four hearts. You would make the same bid had East not entered the auction.

Q.2—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠AQJ10854 ♠AJ63 ♦6 ♠4
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♦ 2 ♦ Pass Pass
2 ♦ 3 ♦ 3 ♦ 4 ♦
4 ♥ 5 ♦ Dble. Pass
What action do you take?
A.—Defensively, your hand is bound to be a disappointment to partner. However, if he has no more than six hearts to the king and a singleton spade, you have a good play for five hearts. In any event, you won't get hurt badly. Since there is no guarantee that you can beat five diamonds, pull to five hearts. We don't like overruling partner, but this is one of those cases where you should bid one more "for luck."

Q.3—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠6 ♠AQ872 ♦J5 ♠109863
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♦ Pass 1 ♥ Pass
2 NT Pass 3 ♠ Pass
3 NT Pass ?
What action do you take?
A.—You have already told partner that you are not enamored with a no trump contract, yet he has persisted. Obviously, he has spades well stopped, for the auction has pinpointed that you have spade shortage. Pass, and hope that your values are sufficient for partner to make game.

Q.4—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠832 ♥5 ♦98 ♠AQ108763
Your partner opens the bidding with one no trump.

another "major crisis" will occur in the series this year to match last year's shooting of the nefarious J.R. Ewing. "I know what it is, but all of us in the show have been sworn to secrecy," she said. Miss Flannery is on a week's vacation in London.

Shostakovich's Son And Grandson Defect

NUREMBERG, West Germany (AP) — The son and grandson of the late Dmitri Shostakovich, the Soviet Union's foremost composer, are the latest Soviet artists to defect to the west.

Conductor Maxim Shostakovich led a performance Saturday night of the Soviet Radio Symphony Orchestra in nearby Fuerth, then went to the police and requested political asylum for himself and his 19-year-old son, Dmitri, a pianist with the orchestra.

"He just told the police he didn't want to go back and said his son wanted to stay, too," said a federal police officer.

A friend in Moscow said Maxim, who is 42, and his wife were divorced and that Dmitri was their only child. Maxim's father died in 1975 of a heart ailment.

The friend said Maxim and his son left the Soviet capital earlier this month for the Soviet Radio Symphony's West German visit and had been scheduled to return to Moscow in a few days.

The West German government in Bonn had no immediate comment, and officials would not say where the two defectors were staying or planned to go. But West Germany has one of the world's most liberal political asylum laws, and it was expected that the request of the two Shostakovichs would be granted speedily.

A small army of Soviet artists have defected to the West, most of them to escape the Soviet Communist Party's restrictions on experimentation and innovation and its complete and arbitrary regulation of the careers of all artists.

These notable defectors include pianist Vladimir Ashkenazy, cellist Mstislav Rostropovich and his wife, Galina Vishnevskaya, the Soviet Union's leading soprano; conductor Kirill Kondrashin, who died in Amsterdam recently; and ballet dancers Rudolf Nureyev, Natalia Makarova, Mikhail Baryshnikov, Alexander Godunov and Valery and Galina Panov.

Maxim Shostakovich, while not in the top rank of Soviet orchestral conductors, was one of the Soviet Union's most popular artists because of his frequent appearances on television with the Soviet Radio Symphony.

His father was acclaimed for an enormous output of symphonies, operas and chamber music that included some of the outstanding compositions of the 20th century as well as worthless potboilers written to satisfy Soviet officials.

Because Stalin disliked the harsh realism and advanced musical idiom of his opera

"Lady Macbeth of Mzensk" in 1934, he was severely criticized by Soviet cultural officials and performance of his music stopped in the Soviet Union. The composer worked his way back into the dictator's good graces with compositions written in a more conventional style and frequently on patriotic themes, and in 1937 he was rehabilitated.

After Stalin's death, Shostakovich became more experimental and his later thematic works displayed a dark pessimism that the old dictator would never have accepted. But Western critics generally agreed that his development as an artist had been damaged by his self-censorship to regain official favor.

Saturday's Cryptiquip — YELLOW FORSYTHIA NOW BURSTS FORTH INTO BEAUTIFUL FLOWER.

Today's Cryptiquip clue: J equals T

The Cryptiquip is a simple substitution cipher in which each letter used stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words, and words using an apostrophe can give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is accomplished by trial and error.

Faces Sentence In Biting Off Nose

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — A North Carolina motel supply salesman faces up to 25 years in prison when he's sentenced June 1 for biting off the tip of a woman's nose.

"When I told the two men who came to help me what had happened, they looked at me like I was crazy," testified Josephine Webb of Virginia Beach at the trial of Thomas Moore. "Then when I moved my hand off my face, they could see that I was serious."

A Circuit Court jury convicted Moore, 35, of Durham, N.C., on charges of unlawful wounding, abduction and attempting to steal the car in which the woman was attacked. The jury Friday recommended a 25-year prison term.

Ms. Webb, 30, who has visible scars from the injury despite plastic surgery, testified she was on her way to a birthday party the night of Oct. 23 at a dinner theater. She said she had driven to the Lake Wright Motel near where the theater is located but was unable to find her destination.

After going inside the motel to ask for directions, she returned to her car "when a hand went over my mouth," she said. "He told me if I screamed, he would blow my brains out."

She said Moore forced his way into the car and turned the key, but she reached over and turned it off and then opened the door on the other side and began screaming.

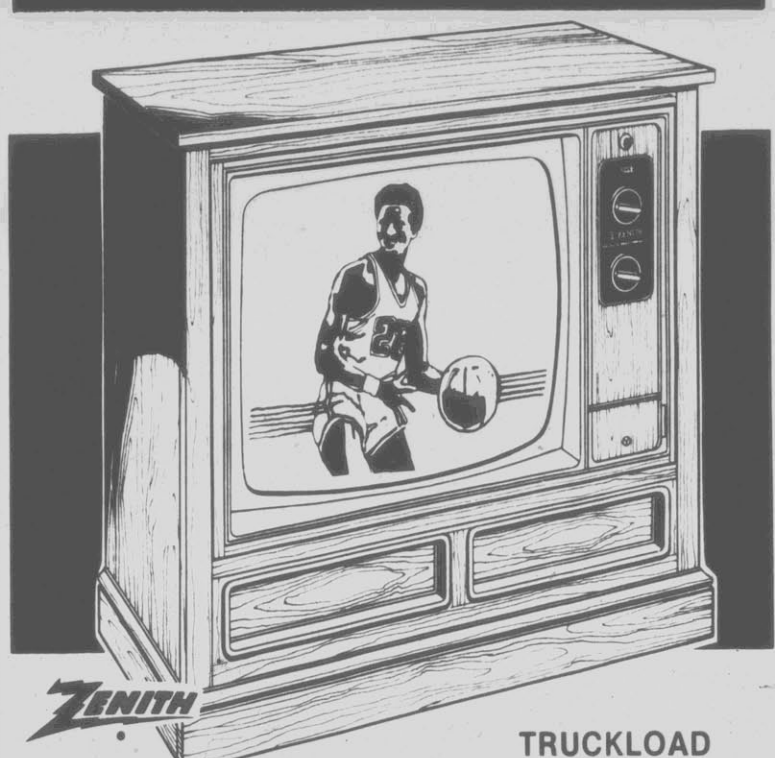

"He put his legs over me, but I kept on screaming. I knew that was my only chance," she said.

During the struggle that followed, Ms. Webb said her assailant "turned his head up and bit off my nose. I saw him spit it out, and then he took off running."

Ms. Webb, who said she had never seen Moore before, identified her attacker in a crowd of people that surrounded her moments after the incident.

An American Genius

President Kennedy quipped to a group of famous figures from the arts and sciences: "This [is] the most extraordinary collection of talent, of human knowledge, that has ever been gathered together at the White House, with the possible exception of when Thomas Jefferson dined alone." Jefferson, who was born on this day in 1743, inspired this homage because of his wide-ranging intellect. He is best remembered as a President and author of the Declaration of Independence. But he was also the foremost architect of his time and the inventor of such things as the swivel chair and the dumb waiter. Yet he asked to be remembered on his gravestone only as the founder of the University of Virginia.

DO YOU KNOW — What is the name of Jefferson's Virginia home.

FRIDAY'S ANSWER — "Columbia" is the first space shuttle scheduled to go into orbit.

Avers Shuttle Worth The Cost

WASHINGTON (AP) — The space shuttle was "worth every nickel" of its $10 billion cost because of the potential military benefits alone, says the first American to orbit the earth.

Glenn, whose round-the-globe trip electrified Americans in 1962, appeared Sunday on the NBC-TV program "Meet the Press."

Those benefits, said Sen. John Glenn, D-Ohio, could include "lasers in space ...

defensive weapons from above the atmosphere — as ICBMs come up you could hit any weapon that would be coming over to attack the United States."
