COMING IN - Escorted by chase plane, space shuttle makes approach.

Shuttle Commander Looks To The Stars

By HOWARD BENEDICT
AP Aerospace Writer

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Columbia and its jubilant astronauts, back from a remarkable maiden voyage, dramatically advanced America's chances of gaining a working foothold in space by 1982 — and someday, said Commander John Young, for "going to the stars."

The shuttle, resting comfortably in California, is A-OK. The astronauts, exuberant after Tuesday's pinpoint landing, are healthy and eager to participate in future space projects. Today they began an exhaustive week of debriefings with space agency technicians.

When Young and Robert Crippen brought Columbia down from orbit to a rock-hard lake bed in California's Mojave Desert, they demonstrated that the United States has a space machine that makes all others obsolete — a machine that can fly into space and return to Earth like an airplane, ready to fly again, a hundred or more times.

The astronauts, in their own way, probably said it best. "You can't believe what a flying machine this is," Young said. "I think we've got a fantastic and remarkable capability here. We're really not too far — the human race isn't — from going to the stars."

Said Crippen: "We are really in the space business to stay." America had left manned space flight to the Soviet Union since 1975.

Shortly after the wheels-down landing on Rogers Dry Lake, the two astronauts climbed aboard space agency executive jets for the trip back to the Johnson Space Center here.

For the next seven work days they will meet with National Aeronautics and Space Administration specialists, discussing in great detail every one of Columbia's systems to pinpoint any flaws in design or procedure.

They have few problems to analyze. From the moment of its fiery blast-off from launch pad 39A at Cape Canaveral, Fla., on Sunday, Columbia performed almost flawlessly. The astronauts had only a few minor problems to tend to.

Columbia was parked today at Edwards Air Force Base, where technicians will carefully check it for the next week or so before it is returned to Cape Canaveral, buckled to the back of a special Boeing 747 jetliner.

Its next flight, a four-day mission, is scheduled for August or September, with rookie astronauts Joe Engle and Richard Truly at the controls.

Officials said initial inspection showed the spaceship to be in very good condition. There were indications a few non-critical thermal tiles on the top of the vehicle suffered some damage. But the important ones, those that protected the underside from re-entry heat, were in good shape.

Ground crew operations were stretched several hours longer than expected when toxic freon gas was detected around the ship. One NASA official the concentrations were small, perhaps from a vented cooling system.

If subsequent test flights are successful, officials may consider accelerating the shuttle program, perhaps cutting the last of three trial runs. That could advance to mid-1982 the date the ship can begin moving routinely into space, ferrying up payloads for military, scientific and commercial missions.

Donald K. Slayton, a former astronaut who heads the shuttle test flight program, said the desert landing at Edwards was so perfect that Columbia may return to Earth at a 15,000-foot runway at Cape Canaveral sooner than (Please turn to Page 12)

Greenville Energy Plan Is Presented

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

The results of more than two years work were presented to the Greenville Utilities Commission last night in the form of an energy plan for the city, "Proposition E: A Plan for Greenville's Energy Future."

In presenting the plan to the commission, Reese Helms, manager of the commission's Office of Energy Conservation and Management said, "what we really view this plan to be is a 'start.'"

The plan, funded by the U.S. Department of Energy under contract with Argonne National Laboratories, makes recommendations and suggests ways to reduce energy consumption, increase the use of alternative energy resources, develop energy efficient land use practices, and increase energy efficiency.

The Greenville City Council is expected to apply for a federal grant to begin implementation of the energy plan.

"One of the most promising things," according to Helms, is the, "potential to develop local energy resources. By the year 2000, 28 percent of the energy mix may be obtained locally," from such sources as wood, alcohol, manure, solid waste, solar, and water.

Ormond Whichard, representing Olsen Associates, Inc., told commission members that work on the city's 201 Facilities Plan should be far enough along by mid-May to submit the Step II grant application. He noted that the 201 plan is expected to be approved by the first of August, and the Step II grant offer should come by mid-August.

The 201 Facilities Plan is required by the Environmental Protection Agency for federal funding of waste water treatment facilities. Step II in the planning chain involves detailed planning and specifications for new plant facilities. According to the present timetable, that step is scheduled for completion in August 1982, with plant construction set to begin in early 1983.

Utilities director Charles Horne reported that documents which will lead to a switch from Virginia Electric and Power Co. to Carolina Power and Light Co. as the city's electric supplier are now being prepared. "Negotiations are progressing," Horne said.

Horne, pointing out that Greenville will not transfer 40 percent of its load to CP&L on May 1, as previously planned, indicated that the present negotiations with VEPCO and CP&L would be more advantageous than switching part of the load next month.

Commissioners adopted a resolution requesting a waiver from a federal Public Utility Regulatory Policies Act regulation requiring a policy and rate schedule for cogeneration of electric power because of lack of public interest at the present time. However, the resolution said regulations and rate scheduled would be established when interest in interconnects by cogenerators was demonstrated.

The commission also adopted resolutions accepting state bond fund grants of $14,049 for water system improvements in Floral Park and of $73,750 for water system improvements in the area of Pitt Memorial Hospital and a section in East Greenville.

The board accepted, with regret, the resignation of commission attorney Louis Singleton, and awarded bids for the purchase of materials, which included: $45,450 for 75,000 feet of aluminum wire from Eastern Electric Supply, Inc. and $6,450 for 1,000 feet of 10-inch PVC pipe from Pump & Lighting Co.

WAITING FOR INSTRUCTIONS

I was employed last April by Good Will Publishers Inc. of Gastonia. Two customers to whom I sold Bible encyclopedia sets never received them. Both made $30 down payments. I turned the money over to a district supervisor. Both people have contacted me, but I don't know what to do, since I no longer have contact with the company. J. H.

You did not provide Hotline enough information for us to contact you directly. However, we were able to locate the company and talked to Jay Briody. He said he found one of the orders you mentioned and that these books had been returned to the sender. This often happens, he said, when UPS makes several attempts to deliver to no avail. The books are sitting in the shipping department awaiting further instructions from the customer. This may be the case with the other order, also. If your two customers would like refunds of their $30 down payments, these will be forwarded following their writing or calling him, he said. If they'd like the books, these will be reshipped. The price of the entire set is $249.35. He said your conscientiousness in following up on behalf of your customers is appreciated.

The two customers are advised to contact Jay Briody, P. O. Box 269, Gastonia, N. C. 28052; phone, 704-865-1256.

Opines Money 'Well Spent'

By MELVIN LANG
Reflector Staff Writer

An educator who helped train the original group of American astronauts says he believes the $10 billion space shuttle program "is money well spent."

Dr. James K. Batten is now chairman of the department of secondary education at East Carolina University. Two decades ago Batten helped train the original astronauts in navigation at the Morehead Planetarium in Chapel Hill.

He is no longer actively involved in the space program, but Batten said he keeps in "constant contact" with the Mercury astronauts.

"They talk to me and we exchange ideas," Batten said today. "Remember, space exploration is all new. It's not as if you have something published" to fall back on.

Batten noted that one of those who has maintained contact with him is former astronaut Donald K. Slayton, who now is manager of the space shuttle flight program.

Batten said he does not anticipate rejoining the space program but will continue in his unofficial "advisory capacity."

It could not be determined today whether any other East Carolina faculty member has a direct link with the current space program. However, the late Tullio Pignani, chairman of the ECU math department, helped prepare the equation which led to re-entry patterns used by U.S. spacecraft.

Batten enthusiastically endorsed the renewal of the U.S. space program. The Columbia's successful two-day flight "offers tremendous opportunities for advancement in space," he said.

"It gives us a chance to innovate and to put academics in real action. I think it is money well spent," Batten said.

He also noted that, "in 1957, when the (first) Russian satellite went up, we had a renewal of interest in science and the schools. I hope this will do the same."

Auto Plates

Police Chief Glenn Cannon today cautioned residents who own motor vehicles to make sure they are displaying current city and state license plates.

Deadline for displaying 1981 registration plates and validation stickers was midnight February 15, Cannon pointed out, adding that since April 1, 53 motorists have been charged with failing to display proper registration plates. Most of them, he said, were driving without the required city registration plate or current validation sticker.

Although city-owned vehicles display city tags, Cannon said vehicles owned by governmental agencies, such as the city, state or federal government, are not required to have city registration plates.

Three Dead In Home Fire

BETHEL — Three children died in a fire which destroyed their family's mobile home located five miles south of here on Highway N. C. 11 early this morning.

The children were identified as Jasper Leon Sherrod, nine, and Calvin Tyrone Sherrod, seven, and their sister, Demetrell Sherrod Lynch, four.

The children's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Primus Lynch, told firemen that Mrs. Lynch waked up shortly after 1 a. m. and smelled smoke. When the couple tried to leave their bedroom through a hall, they could not because of smoke and flames. They went out through a window and then tried unsuccessfully to re-enter the trailer from a door and a window to rescue the children, but could not.

Firefighters from both Bethel and Staton-House said the structure was totally involved in fire when they arrived, making hope of saving the children impossible. The alarm went in at 1:17 a. m.

Mr. and Mrs. Lynch reportedly were taken to Pitt County Memorial Hospital by the Bethel Rescue Squad for treatment of shock and smoke inhalation.

There reportedly are two other children in the family, both of whom were spending the night at the home of an aunt.

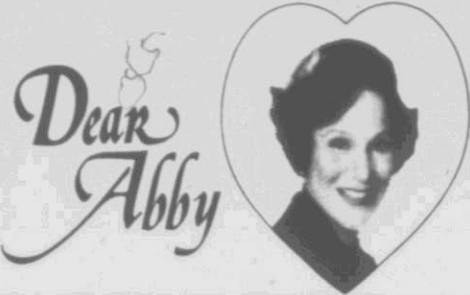

THREE CHILDREN DIED in the early morning year, were identified as Jasper Sherrod, Calvin Sherrod and Demetrell Lynch, nine, seven and four years old, respectively. (Reflector Photo By Tommy Forrest)

'Santa Claus' Is A Reply

DEAR ABBY: You missed it with IRKED, who is irked when a child answers the phone and keeps saying, "Who is this?" People who place calls and do not have the sense or courtesy to say "This is so-and-so calling" are the ones who irk me!

IRKED IN PALO ALTO

DEAR IRKED: Let's hear it from the East Coast:

DEAR ABBY: IRKED IN EDEN, N.C., complained about people who let their youngsters answer the phone when all they say is, "Who is this?" When that happens to me, I always say, "This is Santa Claus!" That always brings a grownup to the phone quickly with plenty of commotion.

DEAR ABBY: What is your opinion of a person who helps a man cheat on his wife by carrying messages and acting as a go-between for a couple of back-street lovers?

DISGUSTED

DEAR DISGUSTED: He (or she) probably looks upon it as doing a friend a favor. I'm reminded of something my father used to say: "Never look for an honest person to help you with a crooked deal."

...

DEAR ABBY: I'm curious. How many hundreds of letters have you received from gigolos protesting your hurting their business by telling folks that gigolos do not provide sexual services?

FRED M. IN HONOLULU

DEAR FRED: None so far. But I've heard from plenty of readers who hastened to advise me that I was wrong. Read on:

DEAR MS. VAN BUREN: I was amazed to read your reply to JUST WONDERING, the 15-year-old girl who asked why a gigolo wasn't considered the same as a hooker. In fact, they are quite similar. The Random House Dictionary of the English Language describes a gigolo as follows:

"1) a man living off the earnings or gifts of a woman, esp. a younger man supported by an older woman in return for his sexual attention and companionship; 2) a male professional dancing partner or escort."

While a gigolo might be defined as the latter, as you informed JUST WONDERING, the former definition is far more prevalent. I feel that a 15-year-old should be told the entire definition, as I believe that a gigolo is just another name for a male prostitute.

Columbia Was Perfect

It was exciting and beautiful and awesome — the landing of the space shuttle Columbia. It was not so because of any major problems, it was those things because the landing was so flawless... so perfect.

Perhaps the blastoff of the rockets carrying the shuttle was equally exciting, but we had done something similar before. Yesterday we did what man had never done — return a space craft from orbit and land it on a strip like a conventional aircraft.

It portends monumental changes in our utilization of space. Now we can send men in a large craft into space to work. When the time comes to return they can come back in the space craft; it can be landed and then reused for later flights. We know that can be because yesterday

Astronauts John Young and Robert Crippen did it for the first time.

The size of the craft was impressive as ground crews swarmed around it. Not only can space vehicles be flown like conventional aircraft, but they can also carry crewmen trained for tasks other than actually flying an aircraft. A large payload can also be taken into space for construction of space platforms and men working there can be rotated back to earth.

We can hardly comprehend what has been opened up, but for now we can, as a nation, take the greatest satisfaction in the accomplishments of the flight of Columbia. It was near perfect and all the people connected with the project deserve the appreciation of the nation.

President Returns 'Home'

The president went through a harrowing experience in the assassination attempt of March 30. So did the nation.

Now, however, the chief executive has left the hospital and returned home — home being the White House. That usually signals that the patient is well on his way to recovery.

Citizens of the United States can collectively heave a sigh of relief. One doesn't have to agree with the president on every issue to recognize that he is our elected leader. We can be thankful that another obscure gunman hasn't imposed his own will on the entire nation with a bullet.

THIS AFTERNOON

Just Pushed Out

By BILL NOBLITT
(Second of Two Articles)

RALEIGH — Many of the 29,000 Tar Heel youngsters who quit school each year aren't really dropouts; they're pushouts — pushed out of school by family troubles at home; peer pressures; drugs or alcohol; financial problems; rigid schedules and courses of study which leave them floundering; or even a love affair with a car.

"Helping Students Graduate," a major new research project by the State Department of Public Instruction, begins with a thorough analysis of why students quit, based on interviews and study, then follows with a laundry list of "practical and inexpensive strategies which will be effective...as a resource guide for system-level staff development."

The suggestions are just that: an exhaustive compilation of hundreds of steps which over a period of time could produce varying results depending entirely upon individual communities, schools, administrators, and the students themselves. The overall impact, however, would be to produce a high school in which a young person could find total flexibility in courses and schedules to meet his or her own future needs.

Four Reasons

Four major categories are seen in reasons students quit: the school itself, the individual and family, health, and economics.

Negative and defeatist attitudes toward school come from deficiencies in basic skills; lack of support; inadequate school activities and curricula; inappropriate teaching and staff; differing values; poor relationships; feelings of isolation or alienation; poor motivation; and poor peer relations, among others.

At home, problems range from poverty, language difficulties, poor self-concept, lack of parental support, need to care for family members, and parenthood, to abuse and neglect.

Health is an area in which specialists are not clear as to its relation to dropping out since this factor can remove the "voluntary" nature of leaving school. Still, some health problems such as pregnancy and drug or alcohol abuse can be controlled before the fact given proper guidance.

As for economics, the report notes that while many students must leave school to earn a living or help with family finances, "it is frequently a matter of student choice and not necessity...."

Linking reasons for dropping out with specific suggestions for action, the handbook proceeds to spell out approaches involving parents, the community, school boards, teachers, and administrators.

A job placement service for all high school students listing available jobs and students who need work is one such approach. Direct links with job training programs and placement services, employing elements, vocational training, and community resources are explained.

Working

To make closer job-school links possible, the study calls for change in the basic structure of the high school, with unlimited flexibility in locations, times, activities, and such.

The teacher would become

BY ART BUCHWALD

Critical: Will It Sell?

WASHINGTON — It goes without saying that when it comes to book, film and TV rights, a notorious crime has a great deal more value than a run-of-the-mill one that hardly got into the newspapers.

There was a time when the person who was thought to have committed the offense received the lion's share of the money for telling his side of the story. But now, with legal fees so high, lawyers are demanding they get their cut of the action.

Last week, an accused murderer revealed that his lawyer would take his legal fee out of the potential proceeds of a book contract.

The D.C. Bar Association is looking into the matter because the arrangement could violate the District Bar

ART BUCHWALD

Code of Ethics.

The reason why the District doesn't approve of lawyers sharing in the literary fruits of their clients' alleged crimes (although many states do), is that a lawyer might be more interested in how the book comes out than the trial. He could even knowingly, or unknowingly, tailor the defense to make a better story.

This fictitious conversation could take place in many states where a canon forbidding a defense lawyer from sharing in literary rights does not exist:

"Lefty, as you know, we're in the second week of the trial and I think I've made a pretty strong case for you."

"I ain't complaining. You gave the D.A. a run for his money. I got a feeling the jury is going to come back with a not guilty verdict."

"That's what my editor thinks, too. Lefty. Originally, when we worked out the outline of the book, we thought it would make a better story if I got off at the end. But now that the press keeps referring to our case as the 'Crime of the Century,' we believe it would be better if you got the electric chair."

"Are you crazy or something? Why would it be better if I got the chair?"

"It's more dramatic if, after a great defense, the jury still finds you guilty. A 'Not Guilty' verdict makes the book anti-climactic and a big letdown, particularly if we're going for a 'Book of the Month' deal."

"Wait a minute. I don't mind you taking your fee out of the literary rights to my trial, but I don't want to fry for it."

"Listen, Lefty, when you came to me, you didn't have a dime. You chose me because I was the best criminal lawyer in the country. But I'm not in this business for my health. I don't want you to go to the chair any more than you do. But if I don't make any money out of this book, I'll have wasted six months of my time."

"Can't you figure out some other way of ending the book without me going to the chair?"

"I could get you life, but every major Hollywood studio is interested in making a movie from the trial. We can't make a big deal unless you get capital punishment."

George Bush Took Chance

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON — When Vice President George Bush addressed the Trilateral Commission meeting here March 29, he was overriding the advice of his closest political associates and possibly causing trouble for himself in a future attempt at the Republican presidential nomination.

Before starting his campaign for the 1980 nomination, Bush resigned his membership on the commission to avoid assaults from right-wingers who (along with the extreme left) viewed the Trilateralists as instruments of a Rockefeller conspiracy to control the world. But when press secretary Pete Teeley, consultant Vic Gold and other political advisers all urged him to decline an invitation to introduce former Japanese Premier Takeo Fukuda to the meeting, Bush said that would be an act of "cowardice."

Bush also used the argument that President Reagan was scheduled to meet in the Oval Office with Trilateralists the next day (a meeting canceled by the assassination attempt two hours earlier). "If George doesn't understand how Reagan can afford to meet with them but he can't," one well-placed conservative Republican operative told us, "then he hasn't got enough smarts to ever be nominated."

a principal foreign policy aide to the president makes him the most powerful White House aide in this century. The only possible exception was Haig himself during the brief emergency period when he was, in effect, acting president for the crippled Richard Nixon.

Dobrynin Vs. Arbatov

One of the most unusual feuds in Washington, far removed from American politics, is the mutual dislike between Soviet Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin and traveling Soviet salesman George Arbatov, a leading Soviet expert on the U.S.

Whenever Arbatov comes to Washington, as he did two weeks ago on a visa the State Department refused to extend, Dobrynin complains to his American friends. Arbatov, he says, sometimes gets in the way of the regular course of American-Soviet diplomacy; besides, he is a publicity hound.

Arbatov, who trades heavily on his supposed inside connections with top Soviet leaders, has spent more time in the U.S. than any Soviet leader other than Dobrynin. But in all that time, he has not been able to ingratiate himself with the Soviet Embassy.

Moderating Metzenbaum

Senate colleagues are raising eyebrows over the new role of Ohio's liberal Democratic Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, who has consistently voted against defense spending, as the savior of the military in preparation for his tough re-election campaign next year.

Metzenbaum's moderate Democratic colleague from Ohio, Sen. John Glenn, was particularly peeved at newspaper accounts of Metzenbaum inspecting troops and equipment at Fort Stewart, Ga., Feb. 11. Metzenbaum's position that more money is needed for the men in the field, rather than for sophisticated strategic weapons, moderates his image while not departing from his opposition to the Reagan administration defense budget.

Meese In Charge

The emergence of presidential counselor Edwin Meese III as a major foreign policy adviser to Ronald Reagan became clear when he personally selected Eugene Rostow to be director of the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency (ACDA) over retired Lt. Gen. Edward Rowny. Meese worried that Rowny was too close to Secretary of State Alexander Haig.

Meese's decision came after a confidential talk he and national security assistant Richard V. Allen had with Rowny. Meese decided Rowny would be better for the job of chief arms negotiator, the post he is now slated for — if he accepts.

The emergence of Meese as

Strength For Today

REGAINING THE IMAGE

As he was lying on his death bed, the Roman emperor Vespasian muttered wearily: "Alas, I think I am about to become a god."

Even though the emperor uttered these words derisively, we may well regard them seriously. Plurality of gods is repudiated as far as our belief is concerned. Still, when we leave this world we believe we do enter a spiritual state; we become a part of the great divine order. And as we go about our daily work everything should be lifting us up to higher levels, making us more Godlike.

Anyone who does not feel this process of spiritual invigoration is indeed declining spiritually. Vespasian was a pagan and we are believing Christians; yet there is a way in which, if we are daily fulfilling the will of God, we become more like our Maker. We are recovering the image in which we were created, the likeness after which we were made. — Elisha Douglass

Obviously Bigness Not All Bad

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — If bigness is bad, then Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger, who sees a strong American Telephone & Telegraph Co. as necessary to a strong national defense, would seem to be out of step.

So would government officials who seek to save Chrysler Corp. and bolster the auto industry through a merger of Chrysler and Ford, fourth and seventeenth on the list of largest U.S. industrial corporations.

In contrast, William Baxter, who heads the Justice Department's antitrust division, would be marching to the right tune, having pledged to pursue an antitrust case against AT&T, the biggest U.S. company.

Few people, however, seems to be really certain that bigness is indeed bad — at all times and under all circumstances. It is very bad in many instances, they say, and then concede that it may be necessary too.

There is no lack of opinions on the subject. The Supreme Court has ruled many times. Politicians have won or lost on the issue throughout this century. Unions often denounce it. So do small businesses.

Obviously, it has defenders too. Economists and industrialists often say the United States cannot defend its dollar unless it has the exporting power of very large corporations. It takes an IBM, they say to sell electronic computers around the world. And, they say, it takes an Exxon, a Mobil and a Texaco to control sufficient supplies of oil.

Perhaps the biggest complaint against bigness is when it monopolizes or threatens to monopolize all aspects of an industry, thus putting itself in a position to set prices and terms under which it operates.

Ironically, government officials who often crack down on what they claim are monopolistic enterprises are sometimes accused of fostering the same, especially in regard to public utilities. And politicians who complain about utilities are often seen as their bedfellows too.

Opinions and impressions in the business community are no more uniform, a realization that may surprise those who, for the first time, hear small-business spokesmen rail against the power of big business.

Union leaders commonly denounce big business practices, but some top union people under certain circumstances have been heard to praise and take pride in the efficiencies of volume that come with bigness.

Labor has been a big defender of bigness in others ways too, most interestingly in the manner in which pension and other funds have been invested. Shares of the very biggest companies have been favorites.

Some investment analysts do not share that philosophy. They view some of the biggest concerns as having lost their innovative spirit. Smaller companies, they say, are vital, energetic, opportunistic. "Mature" companies, they contend, are bureaucratic as government agencies.

And so the arguments go, and big business gets bigger and bigger, or so it would appear from U.S. Federal Trade commission data cited in 1978 by a House subcommittee on antitrust, consumers and employment.

According to the subcommittee, the figures show that in the years 1950 to 1976 there was a steady increase in the percentage of manufacturing assets controlled by the top 100 and top 200 manufacturers.

"The proportion of those assets controlled by the 100 largest firms increased from 39.7 percent to 47.6 percent, with the maximum of 49.1 percent recorded in 1968," the report states.

"The 200 largest firms," it said, "increased their market share from 47.7 percent to 60 percent, with the maximum of 61 percent recorded in 1971."

This concentration was, of course, at the expense of smaller businesses, which now are seeking to slow and, they sometimes declare, even reverse the trend.

Whatever the results, the argument is bound to continue. To Americans nurtured on egalitarian principles, bigness — no matter what benefits it might bring — is likely to convey an image of the bully.

Whether the bully is business, government or labor may not matter. Americans, like many other people, dislike being pushed around.

To the editor:

I am a graduate of J. H. Rose High School. I was a little upset about a week ago when I read the Sunday's paper of the Daily Reflector. It was not a professional way that Ott Alford, Superintendent of the County Schools, made the statement that the black students were the ones with the behavior problems. Children are going to be children, whether they are black, white, blue or purple. Picking one race out of many is not fair. Think about this please!

To the editor:

As we drive around Greenville and Pitt County, we can see the beauty of the blooming dogwoods, azaleas and other spring flowers; however, we can also see the litter thrown from the cars of people who do not care about their city and county.

We would like to encourage each and every citizen to do your part in cleaning up the litter on our streets and highways. According to Mr. Tom Bradshaw, Secreary of the N. C. Department of Transportation, litter control is costing the taxpayers of this state $2.2 million annually. This is one area in which we as citizens can help save our state money.

The week of April 13-18 has been designated as Clean Up Week by Governor James Hunt. We encourage you to cooperate and do your part.

School Wars
Secretary of Education Terrel Bell, one of the least powerful and least famous Reagan Cabinet members, is showing surprising tenacity in battling to keep at least some federal strings tied to school aid.

His opponent is one of the Cabinet's most powerful and famous members: David Stockman, director of the Office of Management and Budget (OMB). Stockman has drafted legislation that would cut all federal ties to federal school aid by allowing the states to use block grants any way they want — even cut school taxes, if they so desire.

Bell's Education Department will be closed out of business by President Reagan, but Bell is fighting hard to preserve some federal strings. He is insisting that categorical grants for handicapped students be lumped into one block grant to be used only to assist education of the handicapped. That and similar moves by Bell feeds suspicions by conservatives that he is plotting a rearguard action to preserve the now threatened power of the educational establishment.

In most schools, the study notes, students are "tracked" into one of three general schedules for four years. "The three areas are neither purposefully designed nor written into curricular guides, but can be easily recognized as: college bound...job bound...general education...."

Use of community and job-related resources and numerous outside activities together with credits for research or community service projects; free tutoring for all students; contracts to perform certain study for credit; a combination of short-term and longer courses compiling courses for graduation; and competency based credits are other areas explored.

In summary, the approach calls on school personnel to find out why a student may be getting ready to leave school, then work with the youngster and community resources to help the problem while keeping the young person on track to graduation.

Extra Police Leave Brixton, Slum District Said Quieter

LONDON (AP) — Young black rioters in Brixton stayed off the streets Tuesday night, letting the slum district in South London sleep undisturbed for the first time in five nights.

The tension in Brixton eased after a meeting between black leaders and police officials resulted in withdrawal of many of the 1,000 officers sent into the district when rioting escalated during the weekend.

Deputy Assistant Police Commissioner Leslie Walker and other officials met with a delegation of blacks headed by Rudy Narayan, chairman of the Brixton Defense Committee. Afterward, Narayan told reporters Walker was "a great human being ... I asked for his cooperation ... and there has been a de-escalation."

The meeting was described as friendly, and Narayan indicated his committee might call off a rally it planned for next Sunday to protest police treatment of blacks.

"If it is in the public interest not to have something next weekend, then it may be on the cards that we will not hold anything," he said. "... If we see that trouble is inevitable, then we'll try to avoid it."

Meanwhile, the neo-fascist British Movement announced it would sponsor three marches in South London May 4 to protest the rioting. The Home Office was expected to ban the demonstrations to prevent clashes.

The trouble in Brixton, where 29 percent of the residents are non-whites, started last Friday night when a policeman went to the aid of a black man who had been stabbed. Other blacks attacked the officer, thinking he was arresting the man.

Saturday and Sunday nights hundreds of young blacks and some young whites rampaged through the district, battling police, setting stores afire with gasoline bombs and looting. It was Britain's worst racial violence. Two hundred youths were arrested, more than 150 police were injured, and damage was estimated at more than $2 million.

Gangs of young blacks roamed the streets again Monday night, breaking windows and setting fires. But they kept away from the police, and there were no more arrests or injuries.

Black leaders claimed the violence was touched off by "heavy-handed" police tactics. But they said the outbreak stemmed from the black community's frustration and anger over discrimination against the 1.9 million non-whites in Britain, unemployment that runs as high as twice the national average and lack of opportunity for jobs and better housing.

The government announced a thorough investigation of the rioting and its causes, including social and economic conditions in Brixton.

Engineering Grads Lead

BETHLEHEM, Pa. (AP) — Engineers top the salary list for this year's college graduates, the College Placement Council says.

According to the Council's March 1981 "Salary Survey," nearly all of the 24 specialty categories surveyed at the bachelor's level reported increases in starting salaries over those in a July 1980 report.

Students majoring in petroleum engineering drew top offers of an average $26,224 annually, a 10.1 percent increase. Second-ranked chemical engineering, at $24,276, showed a 12.3 percent gain. The 11 engineering fields had at least 8 percent gains over last July.

Although engineering majors make up only 7 percent of the projected bachelor's degree graduates in 1980-81, they received 63 percent of the job offers reported in the survey.

Three business disciplines, with 26 percent of the bachelor's offers, reported increases of 9 to 11 percent, with the highest average offer, $16,956, going to accounting majors.

Computer science graduates reported an annual average of $19,968, while other physical and earth sciences recorded an 18 percent jump at $21,912.

Fund Hearing

The city will conduct a proposed use hearing on the appropriation of revenue sharing funds for 1981-82 on Tuesday, April 21 at 7 p.m. in the council chambers at city hall.

City Manager Ed Wyatt, who will conduct the hearing, said the major objectives of the session are to provide citizens with information on the nature and purpose of revenue sharing and to give citizens an opportunity to present their suggestions on the use of the funds.

Under the general revenue sharing program, first enacted in 1972, federal funds are distributed to state and local governments. The funds may be used, obligated, or appropriated for any purpose for which a recipient government may spend its own funds.

As a participating city in the federal program, Greenville expects to receive the following revenues in the 1981-82 fiscal year: allocation payment, $599,916; fund balance, $25,000; and interest on investments, $2,500, for a total of $627,416.

The city invited local citizens interested in the program to attend the hearing, at which time they will be afforded an opportunity to provide written and oral comments on the possible fund uses.

Have The Votes To Extend Terms In N.C. Senate

By WILLIAM M. WELCH
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — After demonstrating they had the votes on Tuesday, backers of a proposed constitutional amendment extending the terms of state legislators to four years planned to seek final Senate approval today.

If passed by the needed three-fifths vote again today, the proposal that would establish longer terms for both senators and representatives would head to the House. That was where the same proposal met its death two years ago, after also winning Senate passage. Meanwhile in the House, floor action was expected today on a bill that would provide an $86 million tax cut to industry. The bill would provide a state income tax credit to companies to offset the local property taxes they pay on manufacturers' inventories.

Also in the House, Rep. Ernest Messer, D-Canton, filed a bill that would drop the state legal requirement that all drivers have automobile liability insurance, a move he said would open auto insurance rates to competition.

The constitutional amendment won tentative Senate approval on a comfortable 37-11 vote.

If approved by both chambers, the amendment would be subject to a statewide referendum. Sen. Henson Barnes, D-Goldsboro, sponsor of the bill, said the referendum could be held in the next statewide election, possibly this November.

Should the voters approve the amendment, four-year terms would apply to those elected in 1982.

Barnes said longer terms were needed because must spend an increasing amount of time in Raleigh, and that longer terms would cut down the length of time they must spend campaigning.

"This has put a strain on the business man, the professional man, the average man to come serve in the Legislature," Barnes said. "We need to realize the changes that are coming about."

But others contended that four-year terms are not attractive because they would relieve legislators of some responsibility to voters.

"One of the reasons we've had good government in North Carolina is that we've had responsible government; we've been close to the people," said Sen. William Creech, D-Raleigh. "One reason we've been close to the people is that we've had to go back to people every two years."

Sen. Don Kincaid, R-Lenoir, warned legislators that putting the amendment on the ballot probably means the amendment will be enacted. He said that since 1970, North Carolinians have seen 20 constitutional amendments and voters have approved all of them.

Taxes

The House Finance Committee voted overwhelmingly to approve the bill providing a four-year phase-in of tax credits on the industrial inventory taxes. When fully in place in fiscal 1985-1986, the bill would reduce anticipated state tax revenue by an estimated $85.9 million.

The bill has long been sought by industries in North Carolina, particularly textile manufacturers and the North Carolina Citizens Association, an organization of big business and industry.

Supporters argued that it would make the state more attractive to industry and lead to more economic development.

But opponents noted that the tax cut comes as legislators are expected to be asked by Gov. Jim Hunt to raise state taxes on gasoline and alcoholic beverages. And the tax cut would be larger than the $80 million personal income tax cut legislators passed last year.

Insurance

Messer's bill would drop the requirement that all drivers have liability insurance — or be able to prove they have the finances to cover a large loss — in the case of drivers with clean records.

If a motorist's record was blemished by an accident in which he was charged, they would then be legally obligated to obtain liability insurance, under the bill. Insurance companies would be required to sell liability insurance to those drivers.

"If you're going to have a free market, you can't have captive consumers that must buy at any price," Messer said.

The bill would also require that insurance companies sell uninsured motorists' policies, which would protect a driver in the event he had an accident in which the other driver was at fault but had no liability coverage.

Budget

Legislators, nearing completion of the first round of budget cuts, carved more than $5.4 million from the Department of Transportation budget for fiscal year 1981-82.

Most of the money, about $3.9 million, was cut as a result of department layoffs. By 1983, some 2,661 positions will be eliminated because of reduced highway construction. The cutback in construction was prompted by decreasing revenues from gasoline taxes.

Meanwhile, in the Senate Insurance Committee, Insurance Commissioner John Ingram praised proposed legislation reducing maximum premium rates for credit life, accident and health insurance as "the light at the end of the tunnel."

Ingram urged the committee to approve the bill and "help reduce these excessive rates."

Loans

The Senate approved and sent to the House a bill that would raise the interest rates on loans below $3,000 made by small-loan companies.

It would set the interest rate at 3 percent on the balance up to $600, 2.5 percent on the balance between $600 and $1,500, and 2 percent on the remaining balance. Current rates are 3 percent up to $300 and 1.5 percent on the remainder.

Liquor

The House tentatively approved a bill sponsored by Rep. Jim Morgan, D-High Point, rewriting state liquor laws and making a number of small changes.

The bill passed on an 83-24 vote, but needs final House approval today before heading to the Senate.

The bill would ease restrictions on mixed drink sales in convention centers and would remove the current four-liter limit on amounts of fortified alcoholic beverages any person may keep in their homes.

New Bills

Sen. Russell Walker, D-Asheboro, filed a bill to regulate the management of hazardous and low-level radioactive waste in North Carolina. The bill was proposed by Gov. Jim Hunt and is the product of a special study commission.

More than half the members of the Senate have signed the bill.

Rep. Howard Coble, R-Greensboro, filed a bill that would require drivers to use their headlights during bad weather.

Ministers Among 'Tax Protestors'

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Two ministers say they are among the 15,000 Americans who will refuse to pay some or all of their taxes this year — but they are approaching the tax revolt from two different directions.

The Rev. Howard Lull of Franklin says he opposes what he calls "war taxes." And the Rev. Robert Clarkson of Anderson, S.C., says he doesn't want to support the "socialist morons in Washington."

"It's not too uncommon a belief that Jesus was a pacifist and spoke against violence," said Lull, 65, the pastor of the St. John's Episcopal Church in Franklin.

Lull said he opposes "war taxes," the military portion of the national budget, which he estimates to be about 36 percent this year.

For nine years, he has claimed a deduction "for military expenditures" and has included a letter explaining his protest. He gives the money to charities and world hunger organizations, Lull said.

Every year, the IRS calls Lull for an audit, sends him a series of letters and finally levies his bank account for the taxes.

"They take the money, that's it," said Lull. "What they're doing is practicing our religion for us."

Lull took his case to court several years ago, but "the tax court said 'guilty' because I didn't pay — period," he said. "The appeals court in Richmond — that was the first time they had heard a moral appeal against paying war taxes."

The U.S. Supreme Court refused to hear Lull's appeal in 1979.

Drop Offer For Peanuts

By The Associated Press
Planter's Peanut Co. has decided to withdraw its contract offer of $600 per ton for all peanuts grown in Virginia.

The Virginia Peanut Growers Association said Tuesday that Planters had informed the group it has decided not to offer more pre-planting contracts at that price, but contracts already signed will stand.

The company would not confirm it had withdrawn the offer nor comment on the decision. "We don't talk to the press," a company spokesman said.

Planters, the largest buyer of Virginia peanuts, was the first company to offer a contract price higher than the federal government's $455 per ton support price. Peanut growers had been seeking $800 a ton following last year's disastrous drought, which destroyed much of the 1980 crop.

Birdsong and Goldkist peanut companies still have been offering contracts with prices about $150 a ton higher than the government support level.

Hancock Peanut Co. has temporarily withdrawn its contract offer, a company official said.

Harvey G. Pope, president of Hancock, said his company had plenty of farmers willing to sign contracts but has had difficulty selling the peanuts in advance.

"As soon as we sell all of the committed peanuts, we'll re-offer the contract," he said.

Sunrise Service

WINTERVILLE — The community sunrise service will be conducted April 19 at 6:30 a.m. on the property of Helen Lawrence. The Rev. Tom Everton, pastor of the Winterville Christian Church, will bring the morning message.

The public is invited to attend, and persons are asked to bring their own chairs. A light breakfast will be served following the service.

In case of rain, the service will be conducted in the sanctuary of the Winterville Baptist Church. For further information contact the Rev. Wayne Adkisson at 756-5955/6543.

Proxmire's Fleece

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Department of Housing and Urban Development is spending millions of dollars to subsidize slum landlords "to house low- and moderate-income families in low-grade, sub-par" dwellings, Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., said today.

Proxmire gave his "Fleece of the Month" award for what he considers wasteful public spending to HUD for its Section 8 program, under which he said housing can pass inspection and qualify for subsidies even if the following conditions prevail:

- There are holes in the walls and ceilings, but no larger than 8½-by-11 inches, and holes in the floor no larger than 4 inches.
- Floors are unfinished or, if finished, are half ripped up.
- Walls are unpainted or only spot-painted.
- There are no downspouts or gutters and no storm doors and storm windows or no screens.

"The housing standards for the program are so low that the practical effect is that the tenant gets a run-down, sub-par dwelling; the landlord gets a guaranteed market and an assured return on his investment; and the taxpayer gets the bill," Proxmire said.

A HUD spokesman, Andy Gastarich, said he had no immediate comment on Proxmire's allegations.

The senator said HUD believes higher standards would "unduly restrict the housing supply to low- and moderate-income tenants."

He noted that in fiscal 1982, HUD proposes to spend $392.7 million for additional subsidies to house low- and moderate-income families in privately owned housing under the program.

Sen. East And Colleagues See Tobacco Program Ignorance

By STEPHEN M. EAMES
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Sen. John East, R-N.C., said Tuesday that he and other lawmakers from tobacco states spend much of their time in Washington "trying to dispel ignorance" about tobacco.

Much of that "ignorance" involves the tobacco price support program and tobacco's effects on health, East said.
In remarks prepared for delivery to his first major news conference in North Carolina since he became a senator in January, East said, "I have worked hard to allay the misconceptions generated by the press and the enemies of tobacco as to the nature of the program, what it does and why it's so profoundly significant to North Carolina."

Reporters outside North Carolina term the tobacco program a "subsidy" when in fact it is a market-support program, he said.
Some senators from non-tobacco states actually thought tobacco price support payments went to processing corporations like R.J. Reynolds, while the payments really go to "small farmers," East said.

In fact, the program costs taxpayers very little because it only levels the prices, rather than subsidizing farmers.
East said he generally agrees with the Reagan administration's policies on the tobacco support program. But he said he prefers that the administration would not reduce funding for grading services.

Agriculture Secretary John Block's support of tobacco is "solid and unyielding," East declared.
Admitting that arguments about smoking and health have complicated efforts by North Carolina legislators to lobby on behalf of the industry, East said it is unfair that tobacco is being "singled out for trades from officialdom in Washington."
He said other products, such as alcohol, could also be unhealthy.
As the space shuttle landed, East said at the news conference he supports the space program and its "enormous benefits, many at the time which cannot be seen."

But he sidestepped questions about its funding, saying it had to be weighed in terms of overall economic policy. However, he said it would be reckless to reduce the space program in light of its military potential and technical advances.
East said the economy is the "most important" issue he has worked on as a senator. He defended use of paid television advertisements to argue for the president's economic package, saying they are an effective medium to get the message across.
Despite the administration's support of tobacco, East said he agreed with Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., that the federal government should change its support of the peanut program.

East said supply-side economics will spark investment by middle- and upper-class Americans, and added that the government could never spend people's money better than the people themselves.

The junior senator from North Carolina predicted President Reagan's economic plan will be adopted by the Democratic-controlled House, otherwise Reagan could ask voters to elect a more cooperative GOP-controlled House.

Household Survey Set

A sample of households in this area will be visited by the Bureau of Census interviewer, Mrs. Janet P. Conway, 334 Glenn Ct., Greenville during the work week of April 20-24 to conduct the Bureau's monthly survey of employment and unemployment, Joseph Harris, acting director of the Bureau's Regional Office in Charlotte, announced recently.

Households in this area are part of a sample of 78,000 across the country scientifically selected to represent a cross section of all U.S. households.

The monthly survey is conducted for the U.S. Department of Labor and provides a continuous record of activity in the labor force. The February survey indicated that of the 105.7 million men and women in the civilian labor force, 97.9 million were employed. The nation's unemployment rate was 7.3 percent, virtually unchanged from the 7.4 percent reported in January.

Information supplied by individuals participating in the survey is kept strictly confidential by law and the results are used only to compile statistical totals.

Pitt County Chapter No. 1530 of the National Association of Retired Federal Employees will meet at the Three Steers Saturday at noon.

Lebanon Seeks Halt Flare-Ups

By FAROUK NASSAR
Associated Press Writer
BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) —

Alarmed at escalating cease-fire violations, the Lebanese government today held its first meeting in 11 days to try to head off a new round of fighting between Syrian soldiers and Lebanese Christian militiamen.

A spokesman for Lebanon's police department described artillery and gun-fire exchanges in Beirut and Zahle, 30 miles to the east, as the gravest threat yet to the cease-fire that last week quieted eight days of fighting in the two cities.

An official spokesman said Moslem Prime Minister Shafik Wazzan and Christian President Elias Sarkis huddled with other ministers around midday at the hilltop presidential palace in suburban Beirut.

The spokesman said the session was prompted both by the continued siege of Zahle, a Christian stronghold, and by the shelling Tuesday of the Lebanese Parliament building, Villa Mansour, which trapped the speaker, four government ministers and 11 legislators for three hours. The building is located on the capital's mid-city Green Line, which divides it into Moslem and Christian sectors.

Rescue operations mounted from both sides of the demarcation line brought the trapped officials and legislators to safety. Later, three shells slammed into an army post 100 yards from the presidential palace, about five miles east of the parliament building, wounding four presidential guards.

The palace and the neighboring residence of U.S. Ambassador John Gunther Dean suffered no damage.

However, several Lebanese guards at the U.S. Embassy in Moslem West Beirut were wounded in a shootout with squatters trying to move into a derelict building near the seaside embassy compound.

Despite Tuesday's fighting, which Syrians and Christians blamed on each other, the government spokesman insisted the cease-fire was still in force.

Consultations were underway at the U.N. Security Council in New York to draft a statement of concern about renewed violence in Lebanon that by police count has killed at least 265 people and wounded more than 1,000. The statement reportedly would call for respect of Lebanon's territorial integrity and urge all parties involved to exercise restraint.

However, U.N. officials indicated there would be no move toward sending an international peacekeeping force to replace the 22,000-man Syrian army contingent that is in Lebanon ostensibly to police the 4-year-old armistice that ended the nation's civil war.

In the latest round of fighting, the Syrians gained control of the hills overlooking Zahle, which they consider vital to Syria's national security. Zahle, a city of 200,000 with the largest Roman Catholic population in the Middle East, is the capital of Lebanon's Bekaa Province.

The Syrians consider the Bekaa their soft underbelly. They fear Israel could, with the cooperation of its Christian allies, mount a flank attack on Damascus through the Bekaa and avoid Syria's extensive defenses facing the Golan Heights.

Shuttle Era Begins With End Of A Perfect Flight

By ROBERT LOCKE
AP Science Writer
EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP) — The era of the space shuttle has begun.

Tuesday's near-perfect landing after a "100 percent successful flight" by the Columbia is testimony to the potential of the boxy, stub-by-winged, space-going freighter, says Donald K.
Slayton, shuttle flight test manager and a former astronaut himself.

It will, he said, become the workhorse of an era in which Americans will not only explore but exploit the unique properties of space for industrial, scientific and military gains that were impossible without low-cost round trips.

The shuttle's 60-foot cargo bay can ferry up to 65,000 pounds of instruments and components that could be orbited as high-flying laboratories or factories to produce superior metal alloys, pharmaceuticals and other products that benefit from the weightlessness beyond Earth's gravity.

The military foresees a low-cost way to place ever-larger reconnaissance, navigation and communications satellites in orbit, and talks of space-borne weapons such as satellite killers and anti-missile laser beams.

In addition, the spacecraft has re-established America as a space-going nation. For nearly six years, the high frontier was the exclusive domain of Soviet cosmonauts.

Slayton, test manager at the Johnson Space Center in Houston, said at a post-landing news briefing here the historic voyage encountered no major problems and only a few minor aggravations. He said the ship seems in good shape after its 54½-hour journey.

"We've developed a transportation system that's going ... to carry us out through the next 20 years," he said.

The Columbia, meanwhile, was already being reconditioned for its next flight: a leisurely two-day trip to Florida on the back of a specially equipped Boeing 747 jumbo jet.

Parked alongside the dry lake bed landing strip at NASA's Dryden Flight Research Center, the ship had its fuel lines cleansed, its surface examined. Other preparations also were being made for the piggy-back ride, expected in about six days.

At Florida's Kennedy Space Center, the Columbia will be checked and reoutfitted for yet another test flight this fall. That one, with astronauts Joe Engle and Richard Truly aboard, is to last four days.

"The schedule is optimistic," Slayton said, "but we hope to turn it around (and be ready to go) in the next six months."

And while the nation was celebrating, the sister ships for the world's first space fleet were taking shape in a desert hanger at nearby Palmdale. The Challenger so far is just wings and part of a fuselage. Construction of the Discovery and the Atlantis should begin in a year or so, said contractor Rockwell International.

Each of them is to make 100 or more round trips into space.

"We're back in the space business to stay," said Columbia astronaut Robert Crippen.

And business, along with science and defense, is what the shuttle is all about.
Though the reception has been lukewarm so far, NASA is offering shuttle flights to industry for $35 million each and small canisters called Getaway Specials aboard shuttles for as little as $3,000.

Slayton said the first of the cut-rate specials may fly on the third or fourth test flight.

John Young, who flew the Columbia — the biggest craft ever sent into orbit and the first one with wings — told mission control at the landing, "You can't believe what kind of flying machine this is. It is really something special."

Two Wrecks Cause Damage

An estimated $3,100 damage resulted from two wrecks investigated by Greenville Police yesterday.

Heaviest damage, according to officers, resulted from a 7:10 p.m. mishap on Tenth Street, 300 feet east of the Anderson Street intersection, involving cars driven by Danny Augustus Bass of Route 1, Merry Hill, and William James Davanzo of 101 Wesley Dr.

Police estimated damage from the mishap at $1,500 to the Bass car and $1,000 to the Davanzo vehicle.

A truck driven by Mark Dixon of 204 New St., and a car operated by Kenneth Earl Arrington of 309 Paige Dr., collided about 4 p.m. at the intersection of Fifth and Vance Streets, causing an estimated $300 damage to each of the vehicles.

Shuttle Flight...

expected. The first landing near the launch site now is set for the fifth mission.

Alan Lovelace, acting NASA director, said Columbia's shakedown flight was sweet vindication for the long-delayed $10 billion rocketship, flagship of a fleet of at least four shuttles that will anchor America's space effort for the next two decades. Each will be capable of at least 100 round trips into space, carrying as many as seven people and 32 tons of cargo.

"I think John and Crip have opened the gateway to opportunity, and I hope the United States shows the resolve to seize that opportunity," he said.

John and Crip want a piece of the pie.

"As the rookie of the group, I can say that waiting 12 years to get my flight in space was really worth it," Crippen said Tuesday. "I'll go stand in line for another 12 years if that is what it will take, but I don't think it will. I think we're back in the space business to stay."

President Reagan, who will have to make that decision, spoke with pride in his congratulatory message to the astronauts.

"Your brave adventure has opened a new era in space travel. ... You put new worlds within closer reach and more knowledge within our grasp," he said. "Today our friends and adversaries are reminded that we are a free people capable of great deeds. We are free people in search of progress for mankind, and today we found a little more."

There was pride elsewhere, too.

A crowd of 170,000 near the desert runway, waving flags with frenzy as Columbia headed in, let out a cheer when Young dropped the landing gears and dropped the spaceship on the center line of runway 23.

At Shuttle Control in Houston, flight controllers waved small American flags and broke out the traditional post-landing cigars.

Tributes poured in from around the world — from Italy, Canada, West Germany, the United Nations and many others.

The Soviet Union, too, took note of the successful journey of a ship that someday will carry defense satellites aloft. The news agency Tass said the flight was "of special significance, not so much for research and academic organization, as for the Pentagon."

Columbia's return to Earth after a two-day mission was a spectacular that began when Young and Crippen triggered two spaceship rockets to brake the orbital speed of 17,400 miles per hour and start Columbia on an hour-long descent that carried it north of Australia and across the Pacific north of Hawaii.

Shuttle Control personnel were tense when Columbia plunged into the most stressful period of re-entry, plunging down over the Pacific, its tiles glowing red in the up-to 2,300-degree heat. Ionized gases generated by the heat enveloped the craft, blocking communication between astronauts and ground for 15 minutes.

It was nail-biting time. Would a winged vehicle survive the buffeting? Would the tiles hold out the heat?

The answer came from Young when Columbia dashed out of the blackout: "Hello, Houston. Columbia here."

The spaceship crossed over the California coast in a blur and zeroed in on the runway at Edwards.

"What a way to come to California," Crippen exclaimed.

Columbia buzzed eastward over the landing site, sending two shock waves rattling through the skies, made a U-turn to dissipate energy and speed and, coming in like a gigantic glider, set down gracefully on the runway.

"Welcome home, Columbia," Shuttle Control messaged.

Thatcher Given Irate Greeting

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Small Communist demonstrations and angry newspaper editorials condemning Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher's racial policies greeted her today when she arrived for a four-day visit to India.

About two dozen noisy youths waved black swatches of cloth and shouted "Go back! Go back!" as Mrs. Thatcher and Prime Minister Indira Gandhi left the airport. Several dozen more youths chanted and passed out leaflets as the motorcade reached the presidential palace where the British visitor is staying.

A police official said about 25 people were arrested and put up no resistance.

The leaflets, issued by youth organizations affiliated with the Communist parties, condemned legislation sponsored by Mrs. Thatcher's government to restrict non-white immigration to Britain and her support for the supplying of American arms to Pakistan. They also accused her of opposition to making the Indian Ocean a "zone of peace."

Mrs. Gandhi in a welcoming speech noted that "there are many problems between us" but expressed the hope that her visitor's welcome to India would be "as warm as the weather."

Replying, the British leader noted the joint heritage and continuing special relationship of India and Britain and said: "I want my visit to open a still more fruitful chapter in our countries' long relationship."

Mrs. Thatcher appeared to be in for some barbed questions from Indian officials about her government's controversial nationality bill. Her talks with Mrs. Gandhi also were expected to include candid discussion of their differences over U.S. plans to sell arms to Pakistan, India's traditional enemy, and the American military buildup in the Indian Ocean. The British leader supports both, the Indian opposes them.

British treatment of non-whites, especially the stringent checking of immigrants at London's Heathrow Airport, has long been a festering sore in Indian-British relations. The riots last weekend in the London slum district of Brixton reopened the wound.

Editorials Tuesday accused Britain of racist policies and sharply attacked the nationality bill pending in Parliament, which would create three classes of British citizenship.

The prestigious, indepen-

Employment Workshop Is Sponsored

The Greenville Alumnae Chapter of Delta Sigma Theta Sorority sponsored a Youth Employment Workshop for high school seniors in the city and county schools Saturday afternoon at the Pitt County Court House.

The purpose was to prepare seniors who do not plan to go to college to seek employment soon after high school graduation. Ms. Arcolia Thomas, who is a children's services worker at the Pitt County Mental Health Center, discussed career planning. Jake Dove, personnel manager at Wachovia, demonstrated job interviewing techniques. Ms. Mildred Lewis, employment counselor at the Employment Security Services office, told of Job Services procedures and Ms. Argie Cannon, also an employment counselor with Employment Security, summarized.

Miss Addie Gore of the Pitt County Agricultural Extension Service, will conduct a nutrition workshop for the Miss College Bound contestants in her office in the county office building Thursday, Apr. 20.

dent Times of India challenged Mrs. Thatcher, writing: "Since the '60s, one British government after another has tightened controls on immigration from non-white Commonwealth countries. But it is only Mrs. Thatcher's government which has devised a nationality act which openly distinguishes one class of British citizens from another on the basis of color to the disadvantage of the colored ones."

"The government of India has been too polite in expressing its disapproval of this blatantly racist piece of legislation."

The pro-government National Herald said the nationality bill emboldened young white extremists to attack non-whites "under the impression that if they make blood flow their government will be forced to deport the non-whites."

The Communist Party of India-Marxist called for the "strongest opposition" to Mrs. Thatcher, and the rival All-India Communist Party said it would stage "black-flag" demonstrations against her. But British sources said they expected no violence or serious trouble.

disregard."
— Jackson Brown,
"Boulevard"

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Cars and pickups crawl along bumper to bumper, neon splashing on their mirror-perfect shines. Radios blare at top volume — a strain of '60s soul here, a splash of salsa there.

The scenario is familiar — Cruise Night, the nighttime ritual based on a generation's love affair with the car — but the scene has changed. Banned from their old haunts, Whittier Boulevard in East Los Angeles and Van Nuys Boulevard in the San Fernando Valley, young motorists now converge on Hollywood Boulevard.

But in Hollywood, the relatively innocent frolicking portrayed in the movie

"American Graffiti" has been overshadowed by a new, more ominous element — petty criminals and street gangs.

Street problems are nothing new in Hollywood, home to porno movies, hustlers and runaways. But Cruise Night is a new headache for local officials touting a Hollywood renaissance.

"We feel visitors are even afraid to walk on the sidewalk. We want to restore Hollywood Boulevard's excitement and glamour, to make it the street of dreams it once was," said Robert Selig, vice president of Pacific Theaters.

On a recent weekend, a 60-officer task force descended on the 12 blocks between La Brea and Gower and arrested 80 people for anything from drug offenses to traffic violations.

But even such visible displays of authority could not prevent the first gang-related murder since cruising stepped up on the boulevard about three months ago. Eric Lucero, 16, was standing on the famed Walk of Stars with several friends on March 29, when he was killed by a single bullet fired from a passing car, reportedly full of rival gang members.

Cruising has been a fixture of Southern California life for three decades. Since the 1950s, young people have paraded their cars down Van Nuys Boulevard on Wednesday and sometimes Friday nights, with an occasional break when winter rains interfered.

Back in the early days — the era that inspired "American Graffiti" — many of the drivers belonged to car clubs sanctioned by the police.

"They would meet, handle club business, cruise the boulevard and then leave. They had a purpose," recalled Sgt. Charlie Hill, officer in charge of the Valley Division's Motor Task Force.

"Over the years, the car clubs dwindled down to nothing and then it was just kids showing off cars. We ended up with a lot of skateboarders, rollerskaters and just generally young adults that had nowhere else to go. ... You had traffic on about a two-mile stretch that was completely bumper to bumper."

At the same time, Whittier Boulevard had become so notorious a hangout for street gangs that it too inspired a film, "Boulevard Nights."

For a few years police tried to discourage traffic by such methods as banning U-turns. But this winter, unusually balmy weather brought out vast numbers of cruising teens just as the police, faced with budget restrictions and a rising crime rate, grew reluctant to commit officers to traffic control.

So for the last few months, police have simply closed down Van Nuys and Whittier boulevards whenever there were signs of a crowd developing. Their losses appear to be Hollywood Boulevard's unwelcome gain.

"You can tell the gang members by the way they dress — they like the zoot suit look," one foot patrolman said on a recent Saturday night, pointing to a slight, skinny youngster clad in baggy pants, fedora and black shirt.

The youth told a reporter he was 16, a member of the Rebels gang and that he had been shot twice several months ago. "I don't like to fight, but sometimes you have to," he said, adding that he comes to Hollywood because "there's no place else to go."

Hollywood Division Capt. Jerry Feinberg said he thinks cruising on the boulevard has so far been more of a nuisance than any real threat to safety. But he admitted that the Lucero killing may have been related to cruising in that gang members "were up here driving along the boulevard."

"What we would like to do is deter the people from coming up here," he said. "We are aggressively enforcing traffic violations or any kind of violations on Hollywood Boulevard."

Merchants won a campaign to ban night parking on the street, hoping to discourage cars of youths who sit on hoods and shout at passers-by or spark fistfights with gang members. But cars still clog the streets, and the young people return to the sidewalks no matter how many times the cops chase them off.

Some officers say they would like to shut down the boulevard, feeling they would be backed by local merchants and residents.

But Feinberg and Los Angeles Councilwoman

Peggy Stevenson, a longtime Hollywood resident whose 13th district encompasses the community, say closure is not under consideration.

"If we close Hollywood Boulevard, then they'll go to Sunset Boulevard or Santa Monica Boulevard," Feinberg said. "We just can't close every street in the city."

"We think the police are handling it," Ms. Stevenson said. "We don't want to close down Hollywood Boulevard. Closing it would be a very last resort."

Services

Scheduled

At St. Peter's

Solemn services are scheduled at St. Peter's Catholic Church, 2700 E. Fourth St., according to the Rev. J. Paul Byron, pastor.

These services keep the observance of the High Holy Days of the Catholic Church, beginning with the Mass of the Lord's Supper on Holy Thursday at 7:30 p.m.

Services on Good Friday are the Solemn Stations of the Cross at 3 p.m., the hour of Jesus' death. The Liturgy of the Lord's Dying then will be observed on the same night at 7:30 p.m. Both services are followed by the Sacrament of Reconciliation. Saturday is the preparation day, and the only service is the Sacrament of Reconciliation from 4:30-5:30 p.m., with the regular evening Mass cancelled.

The conclusion of the High Holy Days is the Easter Vigil, celebrated in the Grove and in the church, beginning at dawn, 5:30 a.m. The concluding Masses of Easter are at 8 a.m. and 10:30 a.m.

The public is invited to all services.

Two Named To Board

An assistant professor and a police officer at East Carolina University have been named to the Advisory Board of Motorcycle Safety Foundation, headquartered at Lintchicum, Maryland.

Joe S. Shrader, an assistant professor at ECU, and Jeffrey A. Karpovitch, a police officer on campus, have both been appointed to The Riders' Council of the Motorcycle Foundation.

As members of the foundation, the two will advise the foundation on local attitudes, activities and trends in motorcycling. The foundation is a non-profit organization that works to reduce motorcycle accidents and injuries through public awareness campaigns and education programs. It is funded by five leading motorcycle manufacturers.

Health Fair Held at Aycock

A Health Careers Fair was held in the library of E.B. Aycock Junior High School on Friday, April 10 from 12 to 1:30 p.m.

Approximately 30 representatives from different health professions participated. Students circulated the library asking questions concerning their particular interests in the fields. Representatives provided pamphlets and visual aids for the students to acquaint them with the different occupations.

Participants included individuals from the Health Department, Pitt County Memorial Hospital, East Carolina School of Medicine and Allied Health, Pitt Community College, as well as other public and private agencies. The fair was held in order to present opportunities from the entry to the professional level in health careers since there are many of these opportunities in the Pitt County area.

The Health Careers Fair was sponsored the two counselor education students from East Carolina University.

Exercising Not A Modern Fad

NEW YORK (AP) — Is exercise just a modern-day fad?
Not according to Jack Shepherd, author of "Cannibals of the Heart: A Personal Biography of Louisa and John Quincy Adams."
In 1790, John Quincy Adams was told by his doctor to start a regular exercise program to overcome depression.
Every day, Adams rose before the sun, and strode briskly for four to five miles.
On warm days, while serving as secretary of state and then president, Adams also swam in the Potomac to keep himself fit.

Tiles Passed Test Of Re-Entry

By Robert Locke
AP Science Writer
EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP) — Probably no part of the now-triumphant space shuttle generated more controversy, criticism and downright ridicule than the tiles — those 31,000 components of the Columbia's critical heat shield.
But when the test finally came and the homeward bound ship was glowing from the searing heat of re-entry, the tiles worked, say officials from the National Aeronautics and Space Administration and its contractors.
"I think we proved conclusively that the tiles can take all kinds of temperatures," Bud Alne, head of the heat shield development team at Lockheed Missiles and Space Co., said after Tuesday's near-perfect landing at this desert air base.
He also noted that while Lockheed made the tiles, prime shuttle contractor Rockwell International glued them on.
And Rockwell employee Mike Hudener, who says he helped attach the tiles, said after watching the touchdown, "I'm just as proud as a big dog."

But both admitted to considerable nervousness as the ship re-entered the atmosphere, where friction produced surface temperatures that may have gone as high as 2,300 degrees. A few missing tiles at critical spots could have destroyed the ship and its crew.
Problems with the tiles began in 1979 when Rockwell discovered problems keeping them glued to the shuttle's aluminum skin.
The problems dragged on and on, as the shuttle slid further behind schedule and became the butt of jokes.
Rockwell finally removed thousands of the tiles, which then were reattached by hand.
Shortly after Sunday morning's jarring takeoff from Kennedy Space Center in Florida, a few of the tiles came loose. NASA news conferences turned into long series of questions about the reliability of those that remained.
The space agency said all along that no problems were expected since the dozen or so damaged tiles came off engine pods atop the ship.

Officials said they had no reason to suspect the high-temperature black tiles on the shuttle's crucial underbelly were missing or weakened.
They were apparently right. The shuttle survived.
Flight test manager Deke Slayton said Tuesday, "A preliminary inspection of the tiles indicate that no more tiles came off."
The heat shield faces exhaustive examinations in the next few days but initial results, Alne said, suggest the tiles performed "as advertised with the minor (problem) noted after launch."

The tiles are attached to about 70 percent of the Columbia's surface like pieces of a gigantic jigsaw puzzle, averaging six to eight inches on a side. Each is sized for a specific spot and no two are exactly alike.
They range in thickness from about a fifth of an inch to five inches.
Lockheed describes them as extremely lightweight but yet able to survive space travel temperatures from 250 degrees below zero to 2,300 above without weakening.

The tiles are made of silica — glass — fibers derived from common sand.
The parts of the Columbia with the most critical heat problems do not use tiles.
About 30 percent of the ship, including the nose cone and leading edges of the wings, is covered with special carbon material designed to withstand temperatures up to 3,000 degrees.

When dummy appeared, it should have been obvious to declarer that he could afford to lose two trump tricks and a club and still make his game. It was correct to start drawing trumps after winning the ace of hearts—but declarer could not afford to draw more than one round!
The right approach is to win the ace of hearts, cash the king of spades and then start on diamonds. On the third diamond declarer sluffs a heart from dummy. It makes no difference if a defender ruffs the third diamond—declarer has time to ruff a heart in dummy and force out the ace of clubs.
If neither defender ruffs a diamond, declarer clears the suit, conceding a ruff if the defenders choose to take it, and then drives out the ace of clubs. Declarer thus retains trump control, and no matter what West does he cannot make more than two trump tricks and the ace of clubs.
What if trumps are 3-2 and the hand with short trumps ruffs the third diamond? The defenders will still get only two more tricks, and all that declarer will have blown would be an overtrick.
Rubber bridge clubs throughout the country use the four-deal bridge format.
Do they know something you tactics of this fast-paced action game that provides the

On his high diamonds, declarer discarded a heart and a club from dummy.
Then he ruffed a heart on the table, but that was his last trick. When he led a club to his king, West won the ace and drew the remaining trumps, and the defenders

Analysts said there was nothing in the news to account for the advance.

The market's retreat in the past two sessions was ascribed to the recent upswing in interest rates. But there was considerable disagreement on Wall Street over whether that marked a significant turning point or just a temporary interruption of the downward trend of recent months.

Amid that confusion, brokers noted, stock prices haven't shown any clear pattern since early this month. Today's early prices included American Telephone & Telegraph, up 1/4 at 56; Reading & Bates, up 1/4 at 35; and Schlumberger, up 1/2 at 97.

On Tuesday the Dow Jones industrial average dropped 4.06 to 989.10.

Declines outnumbered advances by a 9-5 margin on the NYSE.

Big Board volume totaled 48.35 million shares, against 49.86 million in the previous session.

The NYSE's composite index lost .35 to 76.59.

At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was off 5.10 at 358.00.

Guilty Plea To Counterfeiting

FRIDLEY, Minn. (AP) — Arian D. Anderson has pleaded guilty to counterfeiting after judges ruled a Secret Service agent acted legally when he entered Anderson's house to obtain evidence by posing as a potential homebuyer.

According to documents, the agent thought Anderson was making money but couldn't get into the house to search for a printing press. Then he spotted the "For Sale" sign on the lawn, and after arranging a visit with Anderson's real estate agent, the agent found a printing press and plates.

Defense lawyers argued the evidence was obtained illegally, but a magistrate and a federal judge said "entry by consent, even if obtained by ruse, does not infringe upon the defendant's Fourth Amendment rights." Anderson pleaded guilty Monday.

Tiant Rocked By 'Minors'

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Ex-major league pitcher Luis Tiant was embarrassed in his Pacific Coast League debut Tuesday night as the Edmonton Trappers pounded him for six hits and eight runs in two innings and beat the Portland Beavers, 12-5.

Tiant was signed by the Beavers to a reported $125,000 contract and failed to make the parent Pittsburgh Pirates roster.

The 40-year-old right-hander gave up a grand-slam homer to Gary Holley in the second inning.

Tiant flew home to Mexico prior to the PCL opener and arrived Sunday with a case of the flu, but said he felt good enough to pitch.

Tiant had a 15-1 record with Portland in 1964 and began a major league career that included a world series appearance with the Boston Red Sox.

Right-hander Nardi Contreras got the victory for Edmonton, scattering eight hits and striking out six in six innings.

Doe Boyland homered for the Beavers, who began a comeback after trailing 10-0 in the third inning.

Rampants Race Past Fike, 23-0

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

Ah, with the coming of spring, the days grow longer. Tuesday afternoon, the fans of Wilson's Fike High School were probably wishing that the day could grow shorter — much shorter.

Fike had the "pleasure" of playing Rose High School's Rampants Tuesday afternoon, and Fike spent much of its time chasing balls hit by the Rampants.

As for the Rampants, it was another day of hit the ball and run — and run and run and run. By the time Rose finished running, the Rampants had romped to a 23-0 victory.

It was the fifth straight shutout for the Rampant staff, as Gordon Douglas went the distance for his fourth win in as many decisions.

Douglas allowed only five hits. In 27 innings so far, he has allowed but one earned run, and has an 0.27 ERA.

The game was a case of Rose doing very little wrong and Fike doing very little right. The Golden Demons made eight errors, five of them by third baseman John Worrell.

Rose banged the ball hard, getting 20 hits, six of them for extra bases: five doubles and one home run. They scored in every inning but the sixth.

Mark Douglas led the hitting, getting four in as many trips. Emmitt Walsh went three-for-three, while Gordon Douglas was three-for-five and Tom Buie was two-for-five.

Rose got all it needed in the first inning, scoring once. With one down, Mark Douglas singled and stole second. Mitch Brann walked and Walsh singled, scoring Douglas.

In the second, Rose picked up four more. Crowell Pope walked and Paul MacMillan reached on an error on his sacrifice attempt. Buie walked, loading the bases. Douglas doubled, driving in two runs, and Walsh singled, scoring the other two.

Rose upped the lead to 9-0 with four more in the third. Gordon Douglas singled and Pope homered to left center.

Buie kept things going by reaching on an error and Mark

Douglas singled. Walsh singled in Buie, and Douglas later scored on a wild pitch.

The fourth inning saw seven more runs come across. Gordon Douglas reached on an error and Pope walked.

MacMillan singled, and when the ball got past the left fielder, he went all the way to third as both runners scored ahead of him. MacMillan scored when Buie grounded out.

Mark Douglas reached on an infield hit and Walsh walked. Roger Williams doubled in Douglas, and Kenny Barnes scored in the fifth run of the inning as courtesy runner Mont Carter scored. Gordon Douglas singled to score Williams, and an error on the play let Barnes come over with the final run of the frame.

That made it 16-0.

The final seven came in the fifth. Sammy Hodges reached on a two-base error and Buie singled him over. Keith Phillips walked and Terry Smith singled in both runners. Bill Owens singled and Billy Dough doubled, scoring two runs. Gordon Douglas brought in Dough with another double, and Buie doubled to score courtesy runner Carter.

"That's five shutouts in a row," coach Ronald Vincent exulted afterwards. "You can't complain about that."

The victory raised the Rampant record to 10-1 on the year and 4-1 in Division I play. Fike drops to 4-7 overall and 1-4 in the conference.

Rose travels to Wilson's Fleming Stadium on Thursday for key game with Hunt High School, unbeaten in league play going into yesterday's game.

D.H. Conley Slips By Falcons

By RICK SCOPPE

Reflector Sports Writer

HOLLYWOOD — D.H. Conley continued its climb upward in the Eastern Carolina Conference Tuesday afternoon but not before nearly suffering a fall that would have proved fatal to the Vikings' title hopes.

A loss to Charles B. Aycock yesterday would have given D.H. Conley four league losses and all but left the Vikings out of the race for the conference championship.

The Vikings, however, were not ready to lose. After watching a 4-1 lead evaporate, D.H. Conley rallied for the tie-breaking run in the bottom of the fifth and held on to edge the Falcons, 5-4, yesterday in an important ECC battle.

The victory, the Vikings' fourth straight, left them at 6-3 in the ECC, one-half game behind second-place C.B. Aycock, which drops to 7-3, and a game and a half behind league-leading Ayden-Grifton. The Chargers, who were idle Tuesday, are 8-1 in the ECC.

"Psychologically, this was the biggest game we've played this season," D.H. Conley first-year coach Ritchie Wynns said. "Especially after what happened last time we played them."

When last seen, both teams were still counting the runs they scored against each other in their opening game earlier this season, a 30-25 victory by the Vikings.

A repeat of that bizarre affair was not offered Tuesday. Instead, the meager crowd watched a tight, tense and low-scoring battle.

The Falcons scored in their initial at bat and lead 1-0 until the bottom of the third when the Vikings erupted for four runs. Aycock came back with two runs in the top of the fourth and one in the fifth to tie the game before the Vikings rallied in the bottom of the fifth for what proved to be the winning run.

Sammy Tucker, one of the smoothest and best all-around athletes in the league over the past few years, opened the fifth with a single past third baseman Rich Colvin. Tucker then stole second before going to third on Chris Buck's infield single which slipped past Colvin and was retrieved by shortstop Rusty Talton.

Then, still with no outs, Doug McRoy sent a slow grounder to second baseman Paul Thomas. Thomas elected to try for the double play. His throw to second forced Buck but McRoy reached on a fielder's choice. Tucker, meanwhile, scored on the play to give the Vikings a 5-4 lead.

"I told Sammy to hold up," Wynns said. "But he's got tremendous reflexes and when he saw it was a slow ball he was off. The best thing to say to Sammy when he's on the bases is nothing. Ninety-nine percent of the time his quickness and speed will do the job."

Ironically, just one inning earlier the Falcons had nearly the same situation and failed to score what would have been the go-ahead run at the time.

Vernell Grantham led off the fourth with single and scored on Andy Bunn's double. Rusty Talton then reached on a fielder's choice when McRoy threw late to third in an attempt to get Grantham.

Grantham scored moments later on Greg Thomas' sacrifice fly to rightfield to make it 4-3 Conley. Talton, who moved to second on the deep fly out, went to third on a passed ball.

J.L. Gurley then grounded to second baseman Roy Lassiter who saw Talton straying too far off third and threw home to Buck, DHC's catcher. Buck drove Talton back to third before throwing to DHC third baseman Jeff Cox who tagged Talton out. Colvin then struck out to end the inning.

The Falcons tied the game in the fifth when Kenny Grantham doubled to lead off the inning and scored when Paul Thomas reached on an error by shortstop Todd Rouse. But McRoy then retired seven straight batters before giving up a single with two out in the seventh. He got Thomas to foul out to end the game moments after that single.

For the game the D.H. Conley left-hander struck out five, walked one and allowed just four hits in picking up his fourth win of the season against one loss. His counterpart, Andy Bunn, struck out two, walked three and allowed nine hits in suffering his first loss in four outings.

"We didn't play badly today and we hit the ball, I'm not going to say we hit the ball real well, but we hit the ball," Wynns said. "But the main thing is we got a good game out of Doug."

"Right now, we're playing well enough to win. When we're getting good pitching our hitting isn't too good. When we're getting good hitting our pitching hasn't been that good. Today, we got some of both."

And a few mistakes as well, which the Falcons used to score their first run. With two gone in the first, Thomas reached on an error by Rouse and scored on Vernell Grantham's double, which landed between three players in short centerfield.

The Vikings left two men stranded in both the first and second before finally pushing across four runs in the third to take the lead.

With one gone and Lassiter on third after a fielder's choice, a stolen base and a wild pitch, Cox reached on an error by the third baseman to give the Vikings runners at the corners. Tucker then hit a 1-2 pitch down the left field line for a double to score both Lassiter and Cox.

A walk to Buck followed and after a ground out Rouse singled home Tucker and Buck, giving the Vikings a 4-1 lead. The Falcons tied the game two innings later but never led again and when the after was over the Vikings had won not only the game but had made another step upwards in their climb upward in the ECC title race.

Fisk's 'Sox' White, But Still Turns Brewers Blue

By The Associated Press

Carlton Fisk has changed the colors of his Sox from Red to White, but he's still making the Milwaukee Brewers blue.

The veteran catcher, who became a free agent when the Boston Red Sox were late mailing him a contract and subsequently signed a long-term deal with the Chicago White Sox, has hit 21 of his 164 career home runs against the Brewers.

The latest was a grand slam that highlighted a six-run fourth inning and powered the White Sox to a 9-3 victory Tuesday before a record opening-day crowd of 51,560 at Chicago's Comiskey Park. Last week, Fisk belted a three-run homer to help defeat his former Boston teammates in the season opener.

"I never try to top anything," Fisk said. "All home runs are special, but this one had to be extra special because it came in the home opener before a big crowd and put the game out of reach."

Elsewhere in the American League, the unbeaten Oakland A's made it six in a row by beating the California Angels 5-2, the Detroit Tigers edged the Kansas City Royals 6-5, the Minnesota Twins nipped the Seattle Mariners 5-4 for their first victory of the season and the Cleveland Indians trimmed the Texas Rangers 7-1. Baltimore and Boston were rained out, while New York and Toronto had the day off.

The beneficiary of Fisk's homer, as well as his expertise with the mask and mitt, was lefty Ross Baumgarten, who won only twice in 14 decisions last season as the White Sox scored only 25 runs while he was on the mound.

Baumgarten was ecstatic, even though he failed to finish when Gorman Thomas hit a two-run homer in the ninth inning after Don Money hit a solo shot in the fifth.

"Getting a lead like that was great," he said. "And Fisk is just great behind the plate. He gets you to move the ball around and not get into a rut. He makes you change speeds, change pitches and concentrate."

Fisk hit his grand slam off loser Pete Vuckovich just after the right-hander "made me look silly on a breaking ball." Catcher Ted Simmons said he "called for a fast ball on Fisk because I thought we could get him out. But he hit a good pitch, and when he hit it I knew it was gone."

A's 5, Angels 2

Mike Norris hurled a four-hitter and Tony Armas delivered the key hit in a three-run sixth inning. The A's snapped a scoreless tie when Dwayne Murphy, Cliff Johnson and Armas opened the sixth with consecutive singles off Geoff Zahn. The other two runs scored on grounders and Johnson delivered a two-run single in the ninth.

Norris recorded his second straight complete-game victory although he was in constant difficulty by issuing eight walks. But Norris also struck out six and the Angels didn't get a runner past second until the ninth, when they scored on sacrifice flies by Bobby Grich and Rod Carew.

Tigers 6, Royals 5

Lou Whitaker doubled with two out in the ninth off Kansas City relief ace Dan Quisenberry and scored the winning run on a single by Rick Peters to spoil the Royals' home opener. The Royals had tied the score with three runs in the bottom of the eighth. Al Cowens and John Wockenfuss drove in two runs apiece for Detroit and every starter hit safely. Wockenfuss hit a solo homer in the fourth inning and added an RBI single in the Tigers' three-run sixth. Cowens followed with a two-run double.

Twins 5, Mariners 4

Ron Jackson homered twice and Roy Smalley hit another as Minnesota broke a string of 26 scoreless innings in recording its first victory of the season. Jackson slammed Seattle starter Glenn Abbott's first pitch of the fifth inning into the left-field bleachers for the Twins first home run of the season. He homered again in the seventh after Smalley connected in the sixth. Julio Cruz and Jim Anderson homered for Seattle.

Indians 7, Rangers 1

Toby Harrah's wind-blown pop fly triple in the first inning keyed a two-out, four-run rally and Cleveland spoiled the Rangers' home opener as Rick Waits scattered 10 hits. Loser Jon Mallack walked Mike Hargrove with two out in the first inning and Joe Charboneau singled. Harrah then lofted a short fly to right which dropped just under diving Johnny Grubb's glove and rolled to the wall, scoring Hargrove and Charboneau. Jorge Orta followed with a double to score Harrah and Bo Diaz singled to score Orta.

Bears Romp By Belhaven

BEAR GRASS — Clay Gardner hurled a two-hitter and Bear Grass struck for three runs early and four runs late as the Bears whipped Belhaven, 11-2, Tuesday afternoon in a Tobacco Belt Conference baseball game.

The Bears, now 8-2 overall and in the league, jumped out to a 3-0 lead in the second, scored two runs in both the second and fourth inning, and then pushed across four runs in the sixth for their final tally. Belhaven scored once in the third and fifth.

Three straight walks — to Walter Bullock, Mark Taylor and Clay Gardner — loaded the bases for the Bears in the first. Ricky Harrison, who was two for three on the day, then singled home Bullock and Taylor and David Price followed with another single to score Gardner and the Bears led, 3-0.

It went to 5-0 shortly thereafter. Edward Rogers walked to lead off the second and went to second when Tony Leggett reached on an error. Bullock then doubled to score both runs.

The Bears pushed their advantage to 7-1 in the fourth with a two-run spurt and then erupted for four runs in the bottom of the sixth for their final total.

Bear Grass was led at the plate by William Roberson and Harrison, both of whom were two of three. Both of Roberson's hits were triples.

Gardner went the distance for the victory, striking out eight and walking six.

The Bears were to have played host to Pantego Wednesday and then entertain Aurora Thursday.

Ga. Tech Hires ASU's Cremins

ATLANTA (AP) — Bobby Cremins, Georgia Tech's new basketball coach, says his immediate concern is recruiting as he takes over a program that registered victories in less than 15 percent of its games last season.

"Recruiting is the immediate concern," Cremins said Tuesday after he was named to

ECU's Felton Going To Tech

George Felton, assistant basketball coach at East Carolina University, has been named by new Georgia Tech coach Bobby Cremins as his chief assistant, sources at the Atlanta school said this morning.

Felton, 28, who came to East Carolina two years ago with head coach Dave Odom, will begin his duties with the Atlantic Coast Conference school immediately.

A graduate of All Hallows Institute in New York City, Felton played his college basketball at the University of South Carolina, where Cremins was also a player. He later served as an assistant under Cremins at Appalachian State from 1976-77. He was an aide with North Carolina A&T for two years prior to coming to East Carolina.

Cremins, in making the announcement of Felton's hiring, said he and his new assistant had been good friends for a long time. "He was my first choice as an assistant, and I'm glad that he's going to be joining me."

There was no immediate word on Felton's successor at East Carolina. Odom's remaining staff consists of assistant Eddie Payne and graduate assistant David Pendergraft.

Kings Out To Finish Off Suns

By The Associated Press

Ernie Grunfeld is 6-foot-6 and a stocky 220 pounds, with large, thickly muscled legs. He hardly fits the mold of National Basketball Association guards, those cat-quick whippers who dart and dash about the court.

"Ernie looks like the first Clydesdale pulling the Budweiser wagon," says his coach, Cotton Fitzsimmons of the Kansas City Kings. But Fitzsimmons couldn't be happier about the way this Clydesdale has pulled the Kings into a commanding position in their playoff series against the Phoenix Suns.

The Kings, who lead the best-of-seven Western Conference semifinal 3-1, will try to finish off the Suns tonight in Phoenix. Also tonight, San Antonio is at Houston and Milwaukee at Philadelphia.

Grunfeld was drafted on the first round in 1977 by Milwaukee as a forward but proved too small to play a frontcourt position in the NBA. He was traded to Kansas City in 1979 and converted into a guard, at which position he started 27 games this season because of injuries to regulars Phil Ford and Otis Birdsong.

"Sure there has been a trend around the league toward big guards," said Fitzsimmons, "but when you look at guys like Magic Johnson, Walter Davis and George Gervin, Ernie's move seems improbable. Ernie is a plugger and those guys are finesse players, but you need the pluggers, too."

Grunfeld has been a starter since Ford collided with Golden State's Lloyd Free in a late-season game and suffered a scratched eye which led to blurred vision. When Birdsong injured an ankle in the playoffs, small forward Scott Wedman was shifted to guard alongside Grunfeld.

Houston's inside and outside threats, Moses Malone and Calvin Murphy, combined for 70 points. Malone's late effort — he scored 10 of the Rockets' last 15 points — staved off a Spurs rally that cut Houston's 14-point lead to one point twice in the last four minutes.

In Philadelphia, the Bucks and 76ers are tied 2-2 going into tonight's game, and one of the key matchups figures to be the center struggle between Milwaukee's Bob Lanier and Philadelphia's Darryl Dawkins.

The veteran Lanier has outplayed Dawkins in three of the four games so far, averaging 17.5 points, 7.0 rebounds, 4.0 assists and 1.5 blocked shots in 31.5 minutes of action. Dawkins, meanwhile, got in foul trouble in three of the four games and has averaged just 12.3 points and 4.5 rebounds in 24 minutes. He also does not have a single assist and only three blocks.

The Bucks had 14 offensive rebounds in Sunday's 109-98 victory, seven of them by forward Marques Johnson, who scored 35 points.

Firebirds Edge Past North Pitt

Panthers Leave 12 On Base, Have Two Thrown Out At Plate

STANHOPE — Southern Nash pushed across three runs in the fourth inning, added a single run in the fifth and then held off North Pitt to eek out a 5-4 decision over North Pitt Tuesday in an Eastern Carolina Conference baseball game.

The Firebirds were limited to only four hits by North Pitt right-hander Bob Hemingway, but took advantage of three Panther errors to capture their sixth win in 12 outings. Southern Nash is 6-3 in the league. North Pitt drops to 6-7 and 4-6.

The Panthers moved out to a 1-0 lead in the first and led 2-1 after two. But a three-run fourth to move ahead, 4-2. It went to 5-2 one inning later before the Panthers rallied for single runs in the fifth and sixth.

In the fifth, Hemingway walked, moved to second and scored on Elwood Ayers' single to cut the deficit to 5-3.

In the sixth, Gregory Briley and Greg Briley opened with singles and scored on Ronnie House's single to make it 5-4. It was all the Panthers got, however.

North Pitt, which left 12 men on base and had two runners thrown out at the plate, was led in hitting by Gregory Briley and Ken Whitehurst, both of whom were two for four.

North Pitt plays host to D.H. Conley Thursday.

Jaguars Whip Greene Central

FARMVILLE — Farmville Central scored the go-ahead run in the third and then erupted for six runs in the fifth as the Jaguars downed Greene Central, 9-2, Tuesday afternoon in an Eastern Carolina Conference baseball game.

The game was tied going into the bottom of the third at 2-2 but the Jaguars regained the lead with a run in the inning and then two innings later pushed across six runs, sparked by Joey Steppe's double which drove home both Jeff Moore and Mike Tugwell, both of whom had singled earlier.

Steppe was one for two on the day and had three RBIs. Moore and Tugwell were both two of three and Greg Hardison was two for four with a triple. David Shirley led Greene Central at the plate with two hits in four at bats.

Farmville, now 5-7 overall and 4-6 in the ECC, led 2-0 after the first inning. Hardison and Bobby Avery opened the inning with singles and were sacrificed over by Wade Corbett. Jeff Moore then walked to load the bases.

Tugwell followed with a single to score Hardison and Steppe walked to force home Avery with the Jaguars' second run of the inning.

Greene Central tied the game in the top of the third. Shirley singled and went to second on an error by the rightfielder. Tony Barrow then singled to score Shirley and another error by the rightfielder allowed Barrow to go to second. John Mayo's subsequent single scored Barrow with the tying run.

Farmville, however, broke the tie in the bottom half of the inning. Moore singled, stole second and went to third on a passed ball. Steppe then walked and stole second and

Tigers Outlast Cougs, 12-11

AHOSKIE — Williamston outlasted Ahoskie in a Northeastern Conference slugfest yesterday, 12-11.

Williamston, down as much as 8-2, rallied to pull it out in the sixth inning with four big runs.

Ahoskie grabbed the lead with two runs in the first. Tim Harrell singled and Mike Rountree got a hit. Barry Renner reached on an error, scoring Harrell. Ronnie Harrison also was safe on an error, allowing Rountree to score.

Williamston tied it up with two in the top of the second. Phil Peaks reached on a fielder's choice and then stole both second and third. Tony Rogers walked and stole second. A passed ball let Peaks score. Ed Phippen then singled to score Rogers.

But Ahoskie came back with four in the bottom of the inning, then added two more in the third. Williamston picked up one in the fourth, then scored five in the fifth to tie it at 8-8. Ahoskie went back out, 9-8, with one in the bottom of the fifth.

But the Tigers then pushed in four in the top of the sixth to take the lead, and hold it. Victor Thomas singled and Peaks was safe on a fielder's choice. Greg Johnson singled in Thomas, and Rogers walked. Gray Thomas singled in Peaks, and Phippen was safe on an error that scored both Johnson and Rogers.

Ahoskie rallied once more, but fell one short. Phippen, Gray Thomas and Victor Thomas each had three hits to lead Williamston's hitting, while Marshall Tucker had three, and Harrell and Renner each had two for Ahoskie.

Williamston is now 4-6 overall and 2-4 in the conference. The Tigers play host to Edenton tonight.

'Real People' Are At It Again; Wedding Series

CBS Placed 7 Shows In Nielsen's Top Ten

NEW YORK (AP) — With a strong showing for "Dallas" and two new series, CBS placed seven shows in prime time's top 10, but ABC swept the week's ratings race with big audiences for its "Masada" miniseries, according to figures from the A.C. Nielsen Co.

While the ever-popular "Dallas" led the pack, the concluding installment in the four-part ABC miniseries was the second highest-rated program of the week ending April 12. Part III of "Masada" was fourth in the ratings and Part II placed fifth.

The opening installment finished seventh the week before.

The showing helped boost ABC to the No. 1 position in the three-way competition for the second straight week, with an average rating of 19.2.

CBS, the season's No. 1 network, finished second at 17.5, with NBC third — for the sixth straight week — at 14.9. The networks say that means in an average prime-time minute during the week, 19.2 percent of the nation's TV-equipped homes

By PETER J. BOYER
AP Television Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Uh-oh. Real people are at it again. In June, NBC will begin a daily half-hour show called "Wedding Day," featuring in-studio marriages.

"It's amazing," says Deanne Barkley, executive producer of the show for Osmond Productions, "people will do anything to get on television."

Apparently, marriage is a wonderful thing, but a bit drastic just for some TV exposure. Why not simply rob a bank, or pitch a no-hitter?

And why would we want to watch two strangers get married? Weddings, it seems to me, are of little entertainment value, unless Daddy arrives bearing arms.

The June 8-12 run is a tryout for a regular daytime series next fall, and if that works out, who knows? Possibilities:

"Reception Blowout," a daily, 30-minute series leading into prime time. Focus changes from the happy couple to the bride's drunk Uncle Harry. See Uncle Harry pinch, wink and sing "Danny Boy," before ripping his pants in a lunge for the garter.

"Honeymoon Night," a prime-time series that follows the newlyweds from the reception studio to the honeymoon suite studio. There, our happy bride and groom fumble and blush and do everything except what they're supposed to do (this is network TV, after all).

"Matrimonial Bliss," a rollicking weekly series that checks in with our "Wedding Day" couples a year after their wedding. Featured episodes could include, "Betty Thaws Chicken," "The Weed-Eater Runs Out of Cord" and other bits of Americana that make real people such compelling entertainers.

The reduction of the marriage ceremony to TV entertainment was anticipated, of course, by Chuck Barris' circus of matrimonial debasement, "The Newlywed Game," which encouraged young husbands and wives to humiliate one another for a cheap laugh.

Miss Barkley, a respected TV maker and veteran of the "reality TV" prototype, "Candid Camera," discourages comparisons between her new show and Barris' gone-and-not-soon-enough-forgotten products.

"No, it's not like Chuck Barris at all," she says, "it's like the Osmonds. I think that Chuck Barris, underneath it all, had the intention of making fun of people. I even had that feeling with 'Candid Camera.' But this doesn't make fun."

Miss Piggy Tells Secret

NEW YORK (AP) — "Never eat anything at one sitting that you can't lift," says porcine Muppet beauty Miss Piggy as she reveals her secrets for maintaining "the trim, slim figure that pleases fan and frog alike."

Miss Piggy, in a diet-and-exercise guide published in the May edition of the Ladies' Home Journal, says a basic problem in many diet plans is "excessive attention to the calories you consume rather than to the enormous numbers of calories you avoid."

So she suggests a 1,250-calorie dinner of pizza, ice cream and soda over the more-fattening dinner of shrimp cocktail, lobster bisque and baked Alaska with its 3,450 calories.

Some more tips from Miss Piggy:

— "Do not weigh yourself constantly. Every time you stand on the scales, it stretches the little springs and wing nuts inside. The result ... is that the scale makes you appear to weigh a little more each time."

— "If you do not like it, don't eat it. No matter how good it is supposed to be for you, it is just taking up space for something you do like."

And on exercise: "I really do not understand why a lady would run if nothing is chasing her."

Garner, Hackett Now Filming

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — James Garner and Joan Hackett star in "Hangin' On," a comedy-drama now being filmed on location in Texas.

Garner plays a man in a small Oklahoma railroad town when diesel engines begin to replace manpower as well as steam locomotives.

Stuart Margolin, who was in "The Rockford Files" with Garner, is directing from a screenplay by John Gay. It is adapted from the book "The Long Summer of George Adams," written by Weldon Hill.

ly Feud," both ABC, tie; "Magnum, P.I." CBS; "Real People," NBC; "Checking In," CBS, and "Happy Days," ABC, tie, and Movie—"Convoy" and "That's Incredible," both ABC, tie.

It can be said for "Wedding Day" that at least it is not a game show. The first segment is a "bachelor party," in which the groom's pals sit around and josh the boy. The bride has a "bridal shower" segment, her version of the bachelor party.

That part of the show is meant to establish something resembling a kinship between the couple and the audience. Then the wedding, and the couple goes off on the honeymoon it earned by allowing their exchange of vows to sell soap for NBC.

"I'm encouraging people to do something good to be on TV," Miss Barkley says.

Earl Holliman Added To Cast

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Earl Holliman has been added to the cast of "Sharkey's Machine," starring Burt Reynolds, Vittorio Gassman, Charles Durning and Brian Keith.

Holliman will portray an influential rising American political figure in the Orion film to be shot on locations in Georgia and Florida.

Holliman starred in a number of television series, including "Police Woman" and "Wide Country." His latest movies were "Visit to a Small Planet" and "The Power."

Barbara Eden Stars In Film

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Barbara Eden stars in the CBS movie "The Eagle Rock Rebels Ride Again."

Miss Eden, currently starring in the NBC series "Harper Valley," will play a former motorcycle rebel whose old gang comes to her rescue when she and her teen-age daughter are threatened.

"This is a love-filled event." For the June debut run, the show is trying for an elderly couple, a second-time-around couple, a computer dating couple, even — ! — a boy-meets-girl-and-they-feel-in-love couple.

"After all," says Miss Barkley, "there are a lot of normal people around who have nice love stories..."

And everyone knows about television's abiding interest in normal people.

Yesterday's Cryptquip — FINE PURPLE TULIPS FLOURISH IN THE HOT SUN.

Today's Cryptquip clue: R equals L

The Cryptquip is a simple substitution cipher in which each letter used stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words, and words using an apostrophe can give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is accomplished by trial and error.

Honor 'Boat People' Book

NEW YORK (UPI) — A book about the Vietnamese "boat people" has won the 38th Annual Children's Book Award of the Child Study Children's Book Committee.

The prize honors authors whose works deal honestly with problems confronting young people today.

The 1981 award will be presented to Maureen Crane Wartski at a reception on April 14 for her novel, "A Boat to Nowhere" (Westminster Press hardcover, New American Library, paperback), says committee chairman Flora S. Straus.

The book tells of a dispossessed and decimated family whose children escape from Vietnam with the help of a stray boy and the strength and faith of an old grandfather, Ms. Straus says.

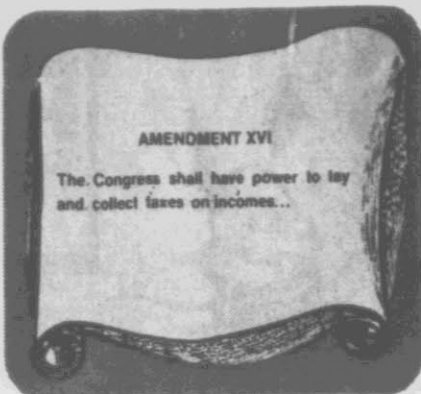

The author, who was born in Japan, now is a teacher in Sharon, Mass.

Announcement of the prize coincided with publication of the 1981 edition of the committee's "Children's Books of the Year," an annual, annotated listing of about 600 books grouped by age and interest from nursery age through 13 years.

The volunteer committee consists of parents, librarians, educators, specialists and others interested in children and their reading. It meets weekly throughout the year to review more than 2,500 children's books.

FOCUS

Death and Taxes

Benjamin Franklin said, "In this world nothing is certain but death and taxes." Like Franklin, millions of Americans are resigned to the idea of paying taxes, and will file their annual income tax forms by midnight tonight. In 1895 however, the Supreme Court ruled that an income tax law was unconstitutional, because it opposed the constitutional requirement that all direct taxes be divided fairly, or "apportioned," between the states according to population. In 1913, the discrepancy was settled with the 16th Amendment, which removed the "apportioning" restriction, and the first modern federal income tax went into effect.

DO YOU KNOW — How many Amendments are there to the U.S. Constitution?

TUESDAY'S ANSWER — The Speaker of the House of Representatives would become President if both the President and the Vice President were to die. 4-15-81 VEC, Inc. 1981

Authentic Casey Stengel

NEW YORK (AP) — When the late Casey Stengel, irrepressible ex-manager of the New York Yankees and Mets baseball teams, is portrayed on television this spring, he'll be as close to the real thing as actor Charles Durning can make him.

The show's researchers and writers plowed through heaps of clippings, tape recordings, and films to capture the "Casey" spirit.

Get Mocap.[®] Before nematodes get your soybeans.

Nematode damage can cost you 15 to 20 bushels of soybeans per acre. But thanks to Mocap[®] nematocide-insecticide, it's a loss you can easily avoid.

Mocap controls root-knot, sting and lesion nematodes that feed on the root system of soybean plants. By destroying these nematodes, Mocap helps insure the development of healthy roots that can channel important nutrients and soil moisture to your plants. And that can help you get the kind of yields you should be getting.

Mocap comes in two easy-to-apply formulations—Mocap 10G (granular) and Mocap 6 EC (liquid). And it's economical to use. So see us for the Mocap you need this season. And see the difference it makes in your soybeans.

Mocap[®] is a registered trademark of Mobil Chemical Company, Richmond, Virginia 23261. Use only as directed on the label and observe all use precautions fully. Mocap 6 EC is a restricted use pesticide.

Circus Here For Three Days

Eastern North Carolina and Pitt County's festival days are getting a colorful extended dimension with the arrival of the Clyde Beatty & Cole Brothers Circus at Carolina East Mall for a three-day stay beginning Friday, April 17, the day following the April 16 termination of the Eastern Carolina Arts Festival.

From 7 a.m. until noon Friday, the traditional tent-raising will take place. A sea of canvas, larger than a football field, will be erected during this five hour period, with elephants pulling and helping the men with this back-breaking work. The public is invited without charge to attend and watch the tent raising.

Showtimes for the seven performances on the three days are:

— Friday, April 17 — 5 p.m. and 8 p.m.
— Saturday, April 18 — 2 p.m., 5 p.m., and 8 p.m.
— Sunday, April 19 — 2 p.m. and 5 p.m.

Tickets are priced at $4 for adults, advanced general admission; at $5 for general admission; and $3 for children and senior citizens. All reserved seats are $1 additional. Also, one-half price coupons for children under 12 are available where tickets are sold, and at stores displaying circus posters.

A tent full of circus star talent - thrilling trapeze and aerial acrobats, pole vaulters, all in graceful, daredevil acts, sad and happy faced clowns and jesters, and trained animals, all accompanied by the fascinating sounds of circus music, will be on hand to delight and entertain young and old.

Acts scheduled to perform during the three day carnival of entertainment include The Albarracines, Munoz Sisters and The Flores Duo, The Apollos and the Robertos, aerialists and acrobats; motorcycle madness master The Great Vashek; the trapeze acts of The Flying Alvarez and The Flying Lantons; aerial ballet performers Marie Christine, Miss Darlene and Senor Gabriel; Antonio and Julio, Miss Sarazochil and Los Argentinas in balancing and equilibristic maneuvers; The Wee Gets, Teen Titans of the Tanbark; teeterboard artists The Martin Trio, The Estadas, and The Ayala Troupe, and Barrie Sloan on stilts.

Also in the big cast are The Albanis, a mid-air motorcycle act; the Fay Alexander presentation of Al's Lemon-Zen in a display of auto antics; and the equestrian exhibition of The Herriots.

Comic relief from the exhilaration of aerial performers, trapeze acts and motorized daredevils will be provided by The Clowns.

Circus animals will be featured in acts by John Welde's Russian Bears; tiger and lion trainer Dave Hoover; and Captain Fred Logan and his family with their parade of a procession of trained elephants.

James (Jim) Windland is master of ceremonies for the big sideshow which will be presenting attractions during the three days.

Cyle Beatty Cole Brothers is near its century mark of traveling and entertaining American audiences. This year marks the circus' 98th season.

Hugging Said Good Medicine

NEW YORK (UPI) — A California social scientist says hugging is good medicine. It transfers energy and gives the person hugged an emotional boost.

"You need four hugs a day for survival, eight for maintenance and 12 for growth," says Virginia Satir in the April issue of Seventeen magazine.

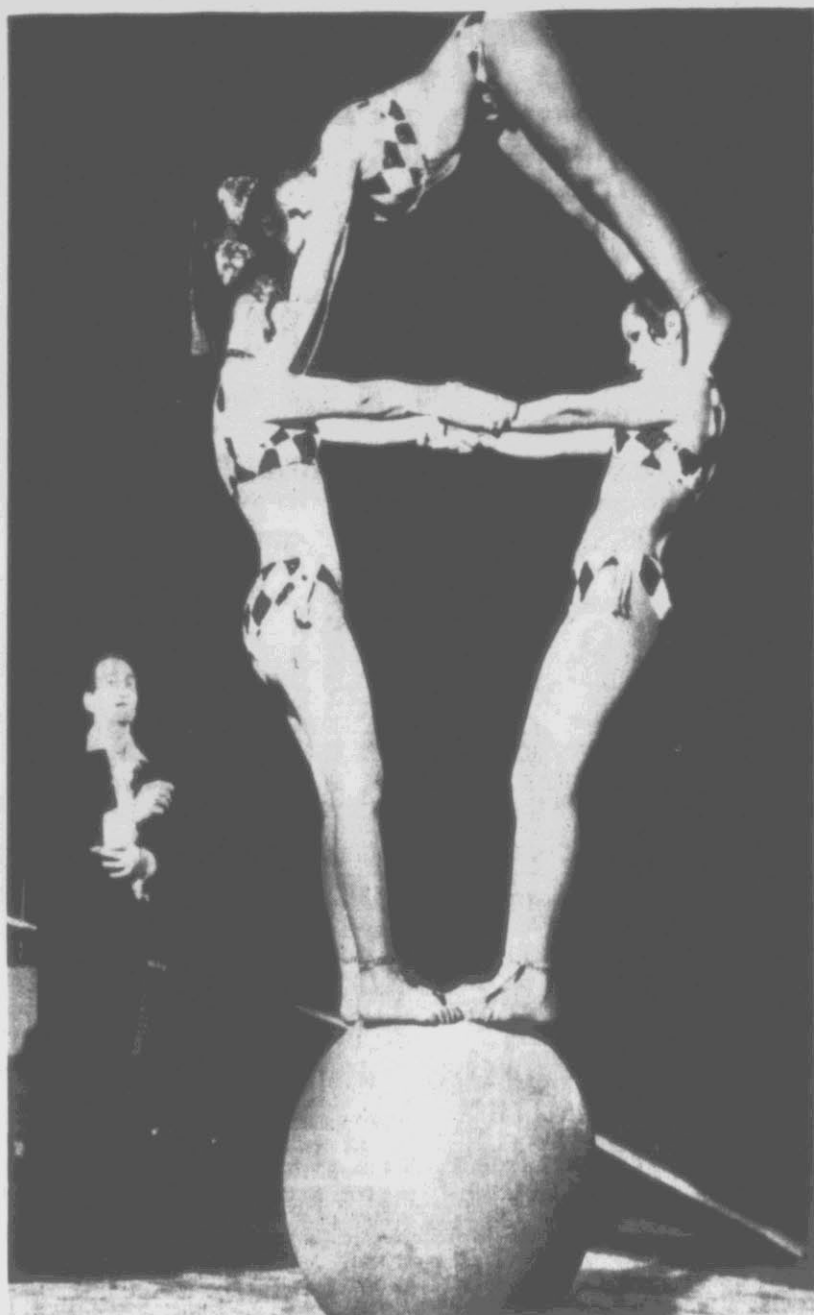

She says a hug makes people feel good because "the skin is the largest organ we have and it needs a great deal of care. A hug can cover a lot of skin area and give the message that you care."

It's also a form of communication, the scientist says, because it can say things you don't have words for.

And, "The nicest thing about a hug is that you usually can't give one without getting one."

being sung by the students, as well as students reading some of their own poems based on the works of Miss Dickinson.

"We also wound up with refreshments, including gingerbread made by student Kennette Stiles from Emily Dickinson's own recipe," Wager said.

THE VERDUS ... one of a large number of circus acts with Clyde Beatty Cole Brothers, will be performing during a three day visit at Carolina East Mall on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, April 17, 18, and 19. Tickets are available in advance or at the door prior to performance hours.

Marathon Reading Held In A Salute To Dickens

BRISTOL, Tenn. (AP) — An unusual course taught by Dr. Willis Wager, adjunct professor of American Literature at King College, and his wife, Inez Morton Wager, associate professor emerita of English, had an equally unusual ending.

The classes on the works of Emily Dickinson were offered in King's month-long "between semesters" period for specialized study. For the final session the more than 1,700 poems of Miss Dickinson were read aloud in a 14-hour marathon. Thirty students took part, with King president Dr. Donald Mitchell opening the reading with "This Is My Letter To

The World."

Similar marathons were held recently at Mount Holyoke College in Massachusetts, which Miss Dickinson attended, on the 150th anniversary of the poet's birth. But the King session had "innovations," including some of the poems which have been set to music

Explorers Open Doors To Women

By RICK HAMPSON
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — For three quarters of a century, at the poles, in Darkest Africa, on the moon, the men of the Explorers Club accepted any challenge — except the admission of women.

On Sunday, in New York, they took the final dare.

The club's members embarked on a new, surprising adventure by voting 753 to 618 to admit women members.

Even Explorers president Dr. Charles Brush, who had pressed for the change, was stunned by the 753-to-618 vote, which was taken by secret mail ballot earlier this year. Two members of the board of directors predicted that as many as 300 members would resign over the vote.

"You have no idea how strongly some men feel about this," said John W. Flint, a board member. "These are very conservative guys who are afraid women would change things."

The vote meant that NASA astronaut Kathryn Sullivan, who has flown higher than any other woman in the world, and Sylvia Earle, who has dived deeper than any man or woman, will be the first female Explorers.

But the Explorer tradition remains male, or at least macho.

Old-timers still brave the wilds of the Upper East Side to gather in a room that looks like an English club room in the headiest days of Empire. Stuffed animal heads stare down from the rafters and a rack of old hunting rifles leans against the wall near a lamp stand made of donkeys' hooves and a set of African blowpipes.

Above the fireplace, bracketed by elephant tusks, hangs a painting of a member who had to amputate his own frozen toes.

The announcement closed out the presidency of Brush, who favored female membership and has tried to steer the club into an era when exploration means rowing across the Atlantic in a 25-foot boat, diving 1,800 feet below the ocean or trying to raise the Titanic.

But, he was asked in an interview at the club, what new places are left to explore? And isn't rowing across the ocean like trying to type a manuscript with your nose?

"There are more frontiers than ever," said Brush, a lanky archaeologist who led his first expedition in the Himalayas when he was 14 and has been exploring ever since.

Today, he said, there are plenty of unexplored caves, unsealed peaks and uncharted wastelands. And there is outer space, the final frontier.

Brush has urged on the Explorers a broader definition of exploration which would embrace investigation through a telescope or in a laboratory.

But what would old Explorers like Teddy Roosevelt, Charles Lindbergh, Robert Peary and Edmund Hillary say? Doesn't real exploring suggest an element of necessary risk?

"Many of our members would say so," he admitted. But, he added, there are subtle risks, the kind astronaut J. Edgar Mitchell took by participating in parapsychology experiments on which most scientists were sure to frown.

"Part of exploring is a frame of mind, a willingness to challenge dogma, to be on the edge," Brush said.

That is what has bothered him about the club's males-only admission policy: "explorers by definition embrace change, why cling to the past? Virtually all the club's programs had been open to women, but many male members had objected to integration of the sexes on the grounds it would destroy the club's special 'camaraderie.'"

"There's a lot of tradition around here," he said, glancing at the stuffed heads around the room. "You have to respect it, but we shouldn't be governed by it."

The club, which has grown to include about 3,400 members in 58 nations, has always been a mixture of "wild characters and sober, scientific types," he said.

Relatives, Friends Are Big Killers

By The Associated Press
State and federal crime statistics indicate strangers may be your best friends — they commit only about one-eighth of reported murders, while friends and relatives commit the rest.

Friends of the victim accounted for 35 percent of the 22,000 murders in the United States last year and 39 percent of the 600 killings recorded in North Carolina, according to the annual crime report prepared by the state attorney general's office.

In 1979, while robbers were murdering 38 people across the state, enraged husbands and wives killed 90 times. While burglars caught in the act murdered four innocent home owners, 30 children were killed by their parents.

Felons killed 59 people on the streets of North Carolina in 1979, while another 144 North Carolinians were killed by a member of their own family.

Alcohol, arguments and close contact are the common ingredients in most murders, said Dr. Allen Harrop, human services director of the N.C. Department of Prisons.

"Studies have shown that either the victim or the offender have been drinking in about 65 percent of all murders," Harrop said. "When people are emotionally distraught, drinking lowers the inhibitions against violence."

Harrop said strangers are involved in fewer murders because people tend to behave better in public than in private.

"Around strangers we tend to play a role, to be better behaved than at home or around friends," he said. "If a stranger is aggressive towards you, you tend to back away from the situation. You walk away from it. At home, you can't avoid the aggression, however."

Harrop, who is in charge of psychological services for the 16,259 men and women in North Carolina prisons, said the number of murderers who kill again is very low — about 5 percent.

But people who kill tend to have a history of violence, he said. They are accustomed to resolving frustration with aggression. And there is a great deal of latent hostility bottled up inside of many people who kill.

"We are talking about people who carry this hostility around with them all the time," he said. "They may think all women are no good because a girlfriend dumped them, or they may hate any authority figure because their parents had been overly strict."

"They are tense and frustrated in their normal lives and usually unable to articulate this anger," he said. "They often appear to be in control because they spend every waking minute fighting to keep that control."

It is often a violent argument that sends them over the edge and the victim into the abyss. Arguments, especially arguments over money or property, are listed as the fatal spark in 48 percent of all murders.

Whites killed more often than blacks, by a 9.010 to 8.693 margin in 1979, according to FBI statistics. Whites tend to kill whites and blacks tend to kill blacks in about 95 percent of all murders.

Men kill five times more often than women, but are victims by only a three-to-one margin. More than 45 percent of the victims are between ages 20 and 34 and more than 63 percent are between 15 and 39 years old.

The southern states have the highest murder rate with 11.9 murders per 100,000 population. The northeastern states have the lowest rate with 5.6 murders per 100,000 population.

North Carolina, with 10.74 murders per 100,000 population, has a rate higher than the national average of 9.7. Texas, with 16.7 murders per 100,000, has the highest rate in the nation.

North Carolina's prison inmate population of 270 prisoners per 100,000 people is about twice the national average and the second highest, behind South Carolina, in the nation. More than 2,000 inmates are serving time for first or second-degree murder or manslaughter.

Relatives, Friends Are Big Killers

By The Associated Press
State and federal crime statistics indicate strangers may be your best friends — they commit only about one-eighth of reported murders, while friends and relatives commit the rest.

Friends of the victim accounted for 35 percent of the 22,000 murders in the United States last year and 39 percent of the 600 killings recorded in North Carolina, according to the annual crime report prepared by the state attorney general's office.

In 1979, while robbers were murdering 38 people across the state, enraged husbands and wives killed 90 times. While burglars caught in the act murdered four innocent home owners, 30 children were killed by their parents.

Felons killed 59 people on the streets of North Carolina in 1979, while another 144 North Carolinians were killed by a member of their own family.

Alcohol, arguments and close contact are the common ingredients in most murders, said Dr. Allen Harrop, human services director of the N.C. Department of Prisons.

"Studies have shown that either the victim or the offender have been drinking in about 65 percent of all murders," Harrop said. "When people are emotionally distraught, drinking lowers the inhibitions against violence."

Harrop said strangers are involved in fewer murders because people tend to behave better in public than in private.

"Around strangers we tend to play a role, to be better behaved than at home or around friends," he said. "If a stranger is aggressive towards you, you tend to back away from the situation. You walk away from it. At home, you can't avoid the aggression, however."

Harrop, who is in charge of psychological services for the 16,259 men and women in North Carolina prisons, said the number of murderers who kill again is very low — about 5 percent.

But people who kill tend to have a history of violence, he said. They are accustomed to resolving frustration with aggression. And there is a great deal of latent hostility bottled up inside of many people who kill.

"We are talking about people who carry this hostility around with them all the time," he said. "They may think all women are no good because a girlfriend dumped them, or they may hate any authority figure because their parents had been overly strict."

"They are tense and frustrated in their normal lives and usually unable to articulate this anger," he said. "They often appear to be in control because they spend every waking minute fighting to keep that control."

It is often a violent argument that sends them over the edge and the victim into the abyss. Arguments, especially arguments over money or property, are listed as the fatal spark in 48 percent of all murders.

Whites killed more often than blacks, by a 9,010 to 8,693 margin in 1979, according to FBI statistics. Whites tend to kill whites and blacks tend to kill blacks in about 95 percent of all murders.

Men kill five times more often than women, but are victims by only a three-to-one margin. More than 45 percent of the victims are between ages 20 and 34 and more than 63 percent are between 15 and 39 years old.

The southern states have the highest murder rate with 11.9 murders per 100,000 population. The northeastern states have the lowest rate with 5.6 murders per 100,000 population.

North Carolina, with 10.74 murders per 100,000 population, has a rate higher than the national average of 9.7. Texas, with 16.7 murders per 100,000, has the highest rate in the nation.

North Carolina's prison inmate population of 270 prisoners per 100,000 people is about twice the national average and the second highest, behind South Carolina, in the nation. More than 2,000 inmates are serving time for first or second-degree murder or manslaughter.

HITCH-HEIGHT — Hang glider pilot Frank Knippers gets a free ride 1300-feet up, by tying on to a hot-air balloon at Hammond, Louisiana, recently. The ride down, for Knippers after his release from the balloon, was about two and one-half minutes, his first such launch. (AP Laserphoto)

This Daisy Mae Just Too Busy

By GEORGE W. HACKETT
Associated Press Writer
LOUISVILLE, Ky (AP) —

It's not easy to catch up with Daisy Mae Luttrell.

During any 24-hour period, this attractive and talented young lady may be:

—Attending classes at Berea College and working there as a secretary.

—Refereeing high-school basketball games somewhere in Kentucky.

—Singing at weddings or composing music. She's already won the Red Foley Award.

—Campaigning for Republican nomination as county judge executive of Casey County. That's reserved for weekends.

"I go home to Liberty and talk to everyone," said Ms. Luttrell. "I'm doing it because there is a lot my county needs and nothing is being done about it."

She served briefly as judge pro-tem, decided to run for the office — the first woman to do so — and was surprised by the positive reaction.

"People have been telling me that we need a woman in the courthouse. They also thank me for not promising them the moon."

Political expenses have been minimal because her income is limited. She's paying for her education by working at the college and refereeing. "It keeps me away from campus two or three nights a week but I receive $25 a game and 15 cents a mile." She recently qualified to call college games.

After her freshman year, she took a sabbatical and joined county government as an administrative assistant, with her salary coming from the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act.

She returned to Berea in 1979 as a physical-education major. One thing she brought with her was a guitar.

"I've never had formal training, but music has always been part of the family," said Ms. Luttrell. "On my sixth birthday, Dad bought me a mandolin. My fingers were so short that's the only thing they would reach around. As my fingers grew, I began changing instruments."

She now plays mandolin, guitar, banjo, fiddle, piano, harmonica and dulcimer.

"I took one semester on voice but felt I didn't fit into the course because it was opera-oriented. I'm more in tune with ballads and folk songs. They're popular in the dormitories."

Last year she received $100 and the Red Foley plaque as the student who contributed most to campus social life through music.

She will be graduating this spring when Casey County voters will also be deciding the political future of their 25-year-old candidate and the two men opposing her.

"We need industry. We need an industrial park. We need programs for youngsters who have nothing to do," she said. After she finishes a concert, someone in the audience always asks about her name, Daisy Mae, and the whereabouts of Li'l Abner.

"My Dad supplied the name. Why, I don't know," she replies. "As for Li'l Abner, there's no room in my schedule for him."

Crying Can Be Good Medicine

NEW YORK (UPI) — Crying can be potent medicine, says Dr. Robert L. Sadoff, a University of Pennsylvania psychiatrist.

Asthma attacks have been known to stop when crying starts, according to Sadoff. Crying tends to make some psychosomatic problems disappear, the doctor says in an article in the April issue of Glamour magazine.

Crying may also help protect against stress-related ailments such as high blood pressure and ulcers, the article says. It quotes biochemist William H. Frey as saying men, who have long been taught to suppress tears, have a higher incidence than women of many stress-related disorders.

Frey, who directs psychiatry research laboratories at St. Paul-Ramsey Medical Center, is studying the chemical difference between emotional tears and those caused by eye irritations.

Europeans' Garbage Is Put To Use

By CLARA HEMPHILL
Associated Press Writer
ROME (AP) — Most people think of garbage as something to throw away. But in Rome they turn it into animal feed. In Paris, they burn it to heat houses and generate electricity. In Chicago, they get methane gas out of it.

"There's a lot of stuff that can be used in garbage," said Mirella D'Arcangeli, a member of the Rome City Council and a delegate to an international conference on garbage here. "The thing that I really think is a mistake is not to do anything with it — to just throw it away."

City planners, engineers and political leaders from 37 countries met in Rome recently to talk about what to do with the millions of tons of garbage produced by modern cities.

In rural areas and in many cities, there is still plenty of room to put the trash in landfills. But some cities have run out of room and are looking for cheaper ways to get rid of rubbish than trucking it miles out of town.

With the cost of energy going up, some cities are trying to get electricity, gas or steam heat out of what their citizens throw away.

Rome sends its garbage to a plant that extracts the metal with a huge magnet, sifts out the paper and plastic with fans and whirlpools of water, and separates out the orange peels and other organic material to be used for animal feed and fertilizer. What can't be recycled is burned and the heat powers a steam turbine that runs the plant.

It looks like a Rube Goldberg device, rattling and shaking with shovels and sieves and centrifuges. Unlike the fanciful inventions of the American cartoonist, however, it's practical: it costs about $8.50 to dispose of a ton of garbage in the plant, or about one-third of what it costs London to burn its garbage, according to Mrs. D'Arcangeli. Rome has been using the plant for 10 years.

In France, three incinerators on the outskirts of Paris burn the garbage from the capital and 54 surrounding communities.

Some of the heat turns water into steam, which is piped into Paris and warms about 7 percent of the city's houses. The rest generates electricity.

Jean Defeches, president of a French garbage-treatment agency and a delegate to the conference, says it's cheaper to burn the garbage than put it in a dump. Paris has been burning garbage to obtain electricity since 1902.

In Chicago, an oil company has put perforated pipes in a landfill to recover methane gas, which is drawn away and used to heat houses. Methane and carbon dioxide are released when garbage decomposes.

"They're getting enough out of it to make it pay," said John Teipel of Dallas, Texas, president of the International Solid Waste Association.

"The trick is to clean out the carbon dioxide," which is done with a complicated system of pipes, heaters and coolers, he said.

Teipel's organization co-sponsored the International Municipal Conference on the Collection, Treatment and Recycling of Solid Urban Waste here. Other sponsors were the city of Rome, the United Towns Organization and the Parliamentary Assembly of the Council of Europe.

EARTHY BATHROOM
STREAMWOOD, Ill. (AP) — Many houseplants are finding a home in the bathroom, where there is high humidity and often fluorescent lighting.

"It's an ideal place for plant growth," say the makers of Garden Scene planterware.

"Our study shows that one-third of all households with plants have at least one plant in the bathroom," said Dick Husby, marketing manager.

Ten plants that grow well there, according to Husby, are fittonia, kangaroo ivy, grape ivy, lipstick plant, myrtle, nauticalyx, Swiss cheese plant, peacock plant, prayer plant, and snake plant.

Mansfield Likes Less Pressure

By JOHN RODERICK
AP Special Correspondent
TOKYO (AP) — U.S. Ambassador Mike Mansfield says the Reagan administration is assembling an Asian policy designed to avoid "threats and demands" which may prove more acceptable to governments in this critical region than his predecessor's.

Mansfield, a Democrat and former Senate majority leader, voiced implicit criticism of the policies of President Jimmy Carter — the man who named him ambassador to Japan — in an interview with The Associated Press.

His oblique references were to the Carter administration's exertion of pressure on Japan to increase defense spending, and to its hard-nosed approach toward human rights in South Korea and the Philippines, both important U.S. allies with U.S. military bases on their soil.

The Japanese have complained of the U.S. demands for a boost in defense outlays. As a matter of policy these are held below 1 percent of Japan's gross national product (GNP), compared to about 5 percent for the United States. The government recently endorsed a 7.61 percent hike in military spending for fiscal 1981, short of the 9.7 percent increase urged by Washington.

Mansfield, who was asked by President Reagan to remain on as ambassador here despite strong Democratic Party ties, defended Japan as "living up to its commitments" on the defense issue.

"As (the late Prime Minister Masayoshi) Ohira promised Carter last year, they will continue to make steady and significant progress," he said.

"I think the way to conduct relations with Japan is to recognize that it is a sovereign nation, that it is an equal partner and that it will do its share without pressures or demands."

He added: "I would expect less of that in this administration, which is formulating an Asian policy which will be better understood and more appreciated in this part of the world."

He said the United States is "getting away from the percentage factor and looking more at substance. And they (the Japanese) are also moving toward private diplomacy rather than newspaper threats, pressures and demands, because they were counter-productive. They were getting to be old hat."

Mansfield said the United States expects Japan to contribute to the protection of its own territorial air, land and sea areas but "we don't ask them to go beyond that."

He denied published reports that the United States wants Japanese naval self-defense units to join the Japan-based U.S. 7th Fleet in patrolling the Pacific portion of the oil lifeline from the Middle East, beginning at the strategic Malacca Strait gateway from the Indian Ocean.

Concerning human rights in South Korea — an issue over which the Carter administration was at odds with the Seoul government — Mansfield said he could sum up the new Reagan approach in one sentence: "There will be a more practical application of the principle."

He welcomed South Korean President Chun Doo-hwan's visit to Washington, the first by a foreign leader after the Reagan took office, and Chun's decision to commute the death sentence of opposition leader Kim Dae-jung, convicted of sedition, to life imprisonment.

He said the two events — the Kim reprieve and the Chun visit — improved relations between Seoul and Washington, and brought sighs of relief among Japanese officials because they "helped stabilize this very important area."

Calling South Korea and the Philippines "very important countries in their own right, but also as far as our security is concerned," Mansfield indicated that in both countries, security considerations were paramount.

Lowe's Pricing Policy

Many items in this tabloid carry a reference retail price. This reference is intended to provide a guide to the range of retail selling prices in our selling area and may be useful in identifying different units of the same manufacturer. An item's reference retail price is either the manufacturer's suggested retail price or our determination of its full retail price based on prices at which it or similar merchandise is offered by principal retailers (department stores, specialty shops and other non-discount sellers) in our selling area. While we believe our reference retail price does not appreciably exceed the highest retail prices at which sales are made in our selling area, we cannot assure you that our reference retail prices, as described above, represent the prices in every community on any given day. Some items in this advertisement are listed at "regular" selling price. The merchandise is offered at this price except during a special sale. The purpose of showing a reference retail price (or a regular price) is to assist you, our customer, in making a knowledgeable and better informed buying decision. We suggest that you also do comparative shopping and compare our prices. (Prices in this tabloid do not include delivery charges. Ask about delivery rates.)

Lowe's Raincheck Policy: If we sell out of an advertised item, we'll issue you a raincheck. When we restock, you'll be notified so you can buy at the previously advertised price (except for products marked "Limited Quantities"). Our smaller stores may not stock all advertised items. But every item shown here can be ordered for you.
