Pole Farmer Union Formula Is Adopted

By THOMAS W. NETTER
Associated Press Writer

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Polish farmers and the Communist government reached agreement today on a formula for registering an independent, Solidarity-style trade union for the nation's 3.5 million private farmers, Warsaw Radio reported.

But the signing was delayed by wrangling over final details. The farmers' leader, Jan Kulaj, said the formula should "say clearly that the union will be registered," while the government apparently believes a declaration of intent is sufficient, a Solidarity spokesman said.

The problem seemed to center on that part of the formula which said the government "will work" to get the private farmer's union registered by May 10, rather that stating outright that registration would be accomplished at that time.

The two sides were meeting in Bydgoszcz, 140 miles north of Warsaw, where farmers have been holding a sit-in since mid-March to demand their own union.

"The trail to the registration of a self-governing trade union of private farmers has been blazed," Stanislaw Ciosek, minister for trade union affairs, was quoted as saying.

Government recognition of such a union would be unprecedented in the communist world, as was the acceptance of Solidarity, a 10 million-member federation of trade unions that is independent of the Polish government.

Private farmers formed the organization Rural Solidarity last summer, shortly after the communist leadership recognized Solidarity. But while the labor federation was chartered by the government, Poland's Supreme Court said Rural Solidarity could not be given similar recognition without specific Parliament action.

On Thursday, Warsaw Television reported that a parliamentary committee had approved legislation needed for formal recognition of a farmers' union.

It said language recommended by the special committee for implementation of social contracts "would ensure the possibility of the establishment of trade unions of individual farmers." The language will be added to an omnibus unions bill currently being drawn up to codify the rights won by Polish workers, the televsion broadcast said.

Agriculture in Poland already is unique among the heavily collectivized Soviet-bloc countries since the nations's private farmers own 75 percent of the land and produce 80 percent of the food. Rural Solidarity claims to represent as many as 1 million of the farmers. By contrast, the official United Peasants Party, an arm of the Communist Party, has 500,000 members.

The Bydgoszcz farmers began their sit-in March 16. Three days later, when union activists refused to leave a meeting with government officials to discuss farmer grievances, police forcibly ejected and allegedly beat 23 of the them. Anger over the reported beatings brought Solidarity to the brink of a nationwide general strike, which in turn raised the possiblity of a Soviet military intervention.

Since the Bydgoszcz incident, there have been intermittent negotiations between farmers and government officials. A session had been set for Tuesday, but sources in Warsaw said Ciosek canceled it. The cancellation caused the Bydgoszcz demonstrators to expand their protest with a sit-in by about 100 farmers in Inowroclaw, 30 miles to the south.

Sen. East Working On One-On-One Contacts

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

Sen. John East said yesterday that since taking the oath of office on January 5, he has, "tried to concentrate heavily on learning about how the Senate functions," and in making, "personal...contact dealing with the tobacco issue."

The Senator made the comments at a press confrence here which he described as an, "attempt to give the people of Eastern North Carolina some idea of what I've been doing," since becoming North Carolina's junior Senator.

Indicating support for Pres. Ronald Reagan's budget proposals, East said improving the economic situation is, "one of the most vital things we can do for the State of North Carolina." He added that, "our farming economy is one of the principal beneficiaries of a restored, vital economy," nationwide.

"To the extent you weaken the tobacco program, you weaken the entire economy of this State," East said.

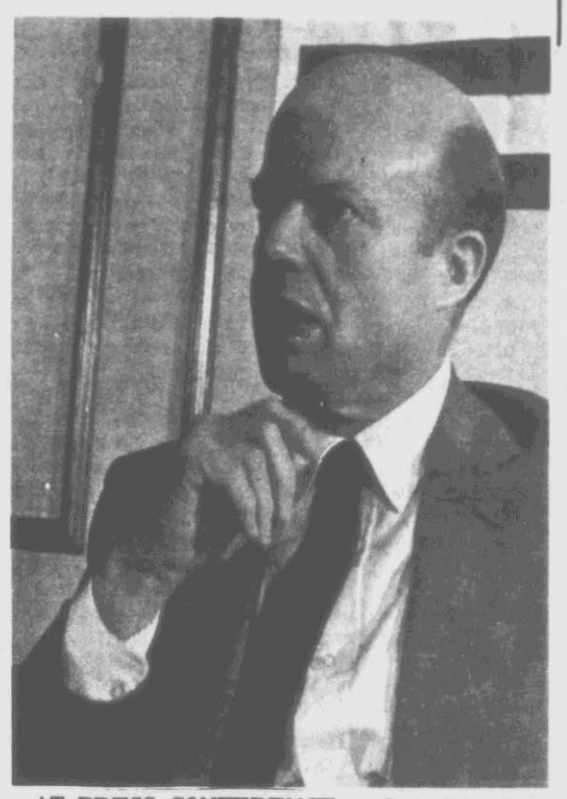

"Personally contacting people...explaining what this (tobacco) program is, and how vital it is to the economy," has taken up much of his time, East explained. "It is an essential pat of the fabric of this state."

The Senator predicted that Pres. Reagan's economic program will win approval in the Senate and House. According to East, "the president had very strong support in the Senate that has spilled over into the House. The momentum is there with the president.

"The smart money would say the President will win out for what he wants," East said, explaining there is, "a lot of non-partisan interest in this. Political parties play a key roll, but they are not the sole determining factor. What you and the people of your state feel is in the best interest of the state and nation," are vital factors.

Describing the life of a Senator as, "not bad work if you can keep it," East said, "the main thing I would like to see done," in the near future is the establishment of a, "coordinated program that can keep tabs on the farm programs in general, and tobacco in particular." He said such a program would allow leaders to know where the support is and where the

At Least 6 Die In Fire

By JIM DRINKARD
Associated Press Writer

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — A smoky, five-alarm fire erupted in a 10-story apartment building early today, killing at least six people and injured 35 others, including six firefighters, authorities said.

"If the people had of kept all their doors closed and stayed in their rooms, every one would have gotten out," said Fire Department spokesman Harold Knabe. "But, of course, it was a panic situation."

More than 60 of the residents wre evacuated by ladders from the rear of the building, he said.

Police Sgt. Jim Treece said that when firefighters first arrived at the scene dozens of people were leaning out of windows all over the building.

"Fortunately, no one jumped or we would have had a real problem," he said.

The brick and concrete Westport Central Apartments contained 180 units, mostly studio apartments. Authorities said that almost 99 percent of the 184 residents were senior citizens and estimated their average age as 60.

Treece said officers originally listed eight dead because of a mixup with a hospital report. He said nearly all of those injured were suffering from smoke inhalation or cuts and bruises.

The fire was discovered shortly after 2 a.m. CST and was reported under control about two hours later.

When the first fire units arrived, flames were shooting out of the windows on the front side of the building, Knabe said.

Fire officials said the blaze was contained in the first floor, but the entire building was filled with smoke and the second floor suffered extensive heat and smoke damage. Two small businesses, a beauty shop and a delicatessen, were located on the first floor.

The fire appeared to have started in a lobby area between the two shops, Knabe said.

Treece said the building's open stairwells "acted like a furnace flue, just pulling the smoke all the way up, through the building."

Four of the victims were found between the second floor and the ninth floor, police said. One of those four, a 23-year-old woman identified as an employee of the delicatessen, was found in an elevator that had stopped on the second floor.

Two bodies were found just outside the apartments. Treece said all the victims appeared to have died of smoke inhalation.

The cause of the fire was under investigaton by members of the police bomb and arson squad.

Fire officials said there were no smoke alarms in the building except for a few purchased by individual residents.

Treece said "there was an awful lot of smoke in the building and that seems to have been the killer. We're very fortunate we didn't have more deaths than we had."

Pitt Board OKs Fence

By MARY SCHULKEN
Reflector Staff Writer

The Pitt County Board of Education, meeting in a special session Thursday, voted to secure bids on a fence for Bethel Elementary School and negotiate the cost of having the pond on the new Ayden Middle School property filled in.

"The principal at Bethel is having problems with young adults from the housing project coming across the back border of the property from the housing project that backs up to the school, " reported board member William House. "From what I understand these young adults are showing up all over the campus, in the gym, in the halls, restrooms, and without a fence Mrs. Manning has no way to control them."

House noted that there was what he termed "a serious confrontation" between principal Janie Manning and a youth last week. "Because of this incident and the very real possibility that more like it will occur, I move that we secure bids on a fence immediately," said House.

Board members voted to get quotes on a fence, but to explore the possiblilty of having the Bethel Housing Authority take responsibility for the fence.

Board member Bill McLawhorn mentioned to the board that the dry weather provided an ideal time to fill in the pond on the new Ayden Middle property. The board voted to investigate having bricks hauled from the old Ayden School site to begin the fill and to secure quotes from businesses on the job.

In other action, the board voted not to renew the contracts of several personnel from Farmville.

Shuttle Tests To Take Time

By ROBERT LOCKE
AP Science Writer

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP) — The space shuttle Columbia's piggyback flight back to Florida next week will be delayed by at least 24 hours because of start-up problems.

Explaining that "we've never done this (post-space flight shuttle testing) before," NASA spokesman Les Reinerton of the Dryden Space Flight Center here said Thursday that none of the problems appears serious.

It's just that NASA was overly optimistic about how quickly the post-flight testing would be concluded before the shuttle could take another of its piggyback flights atop a jumbo jet, he said.

While the ship still seems in top shape after its maiden voyage, Reinertson said the earliest the Columbia could leave here atop a 747 ferry plane is next Thursday, "and that could even slip a little."

The Columbia, flagship of a new American era in space, still rested alongside its desert landing strip here Thursday, tucked beneath the open steel superstructure that will raise it 60 feet for mating with the jumbo jet.

Some 150 technicians continued checking the spacecraft and preparing it for its flight to Kennedy Space Center. It was being examined by cameras to assess the performance of its heat-shield tiles.

Preliminary inspections had indicated no serious problems, although some repairable damage to the tiles was found, space agency officials said.

Qualifies As Developer

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer

The Redevelopment Commission, in a special meeting Thursday afternoon, qualified a local firm as the developer of two disposal parcels in the Southside area.

Commissioners qualified Tipton Builders to develop lots at the corner of McClellan and Blount Streets and at McClellan and Pitt Streets, subject to approval by the City Council of the Tipton bids.

Executive Director Joe Laney, who said that Tipton Builders submitted the only bids on the disposal parcels, noted the matter will be forwarded to the Council for approval at its May meeting.

In other business, Laney reported that close-out activities of the Central Business District and Southside urban renewal projects have been completed. He said the Department of Housing and Urban Development has completed the final financial statement on Southside and a turnover of $734,727 to the city for its Community Development program has been set.

Laney said the Southside funds are in addition to the $1,112,413 in turnover to the city from the CBD project close-out, for a total turnover from the two projects of roughly $1,850,000 for the CD account.

The executive director commended J. C. Lamm, assistant director, and the commission staff for getting the close-out work accomplished on schedule.

Commissioners received copies of a new booklet highlighting the downtown and Shore Drive urban renewal activities and Laney expressed his appreciation to Tom Willis and the Regional Development Institute at East Carolina University for helping prepare the report. He said RDI helped in the general booklet layout and handled typesetting, leaving only the printing arrangements to be made by the commission.

Laney said HUD's Greensboro office made a three-day detailed real estate and relocation monitoring visit here recently and the commission has received a letter indicating the review resulted in "no findings made." He noted that the favorable report from HUD was due to the efforts of Faye Brewington, staff real estate officer.

The special session was scheduled yesterday after the regular meeting on April 13 was not held due to lack of a quorum.

A Circus Tradition

RAISING THE BIG TOP — Muscle power of men and elephants were put into full play this morning as they teamed to raise the multiple-ton canvas big top for the Clyde Beatty-Cole Brothers Circus going up at Carolina East Mall. Here, Shawn Quinn of New York works with an elephant named Helen in one phase of the erection. John Pugh, general manager of the circus, said that two other elephants, Pete and Sue, make up the trio of elephants trained for the tent raising duties. He added that the elephants know what is expected of them and work with precision with the men. The circus is in Greenville for performances today, tomorrow and Sunday. ### Turnabout

MARSHALL, N.C. (AP) — Judge Robert H. Lacey, 24th District Court, cracked down on criminals while holding court in Madison County Wednesday.

He threw every traffic violator who came before him in jail.

"I did a complete turnaround beginning today", said Lacey. He said he usually gives defendants suspended sentences and puts them on probation.

"My theory is that what we've been doing is not working", he added.

Noting that courts are often perceived as being too soft on criminals, Lacey said he intends to hand out more active jail sentences.

Sheriff E.Y. Ponder said 12 defendants went to jail as a result of Lacey's decisions Wednesday.

"I'm just trying to administer criminal justice", Lacey said. "I'm doing it the only way I know how."

SPRING SYMBOL — Eggs have been exchanged as Easter gifts since ancient times and used in Easter card design since the first cards were published over 100 years ago. These, from the Hallmark Historical Collection, are typical of early Easter cards, which often used eggs as a symbol of spring and rebirth.

Easter Cards Hatched From Popular Symbol

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Easter eggs and Easter cards evolved from the same ancient gift-giving custom, according to an expert on the history of greeting cards.

Some of the earliest Easter cards published, in the mid-19th century, featured eggs as the primary Easter symbol.

Today, the egg is still one of the most popular symbols on Easter cards. And Easter is now the third largest card-sending occasion in the United States (after Christmas and Valentine's Day) with more than 150 million cards exchanged each year.

"The egg as a symbol of spring and new life dates to antiquity," says John Dinardo of Hallmark Cards. "The ancients decorated eggs and presented them as gifts to celebrate the coming of spring."

Early Christians adapted the custom by staining the eggs a deep red to symbolize the blood of Christ, says Dinardo, adding, "But the custom declined as populations grew and spread out. The eggs were too fragile to be transported over great distances.

"The Germans solved the problem around the middle of the 19th century by designing and sending the first Easter cards. The Easter card-sending custom so popular today is really just a modern variation of a very old tradition."

Many other 19th-century Easter-card symbols have weathered the test of time. Then, as now, religious scenes were extremely popular. Christ in various settings, winged angels in the sky, crosses and Bibles entwined with flowers, were all used to convey the reverent nature of Easter.

Like the egg, children were favored symbols of new life. And baby chicks and rabbits, so popular on modern-day cards, were widely used on the first Easter cards.

While Easter cards are among the most traditional, family-oriented designs sent, with Mother-Father cards the single biggest sellers, there is room for design innovation.

"This year the line will include many unusual floral illustrations," reports Dinardo. "Delicate oriental patterns, colorful floral arrangements over shiny black backgrounds, even X-ray photographs of flowers.

"A new 'heirloom' grouping features several designs that resemble 19th-century 'mechanical' cards. These cards unfold to form a standing base and four tiers of decorative floral artwork."

Still, the more things change, the more they stay the same.

"The most popular series of cards in recent years feature floral designs in soft pastel colors laced with gold," said Dinardo. "They're die-cut cards in the shape of eggs."

Meeting Report Given Tuesday

Powhatan Cecil Bradshaw gave a meeting report at the Withla Council No. 42, Degree of Pocahontas session held Tuesday.

He reported on the Second District meeting held in Gastonia March 28. The First District meeting was held at the Redmen Hall in Washington. The Washington Tribe and Council won the attendance award. The Washington Council and Rocky Mount Council tied for the Pocahontas for the year award while the Rocky Mount Tribe won the award for the Red Man of the year.

Bessie Nobles, Lillie Randolph and Pocahontas Pennie Dunn signed resolutions of respect for Thelma Vincent and Cornelia Cox.

Reba Cannon gave the program on Easter, the meaning of each letter and thoughts of the Easter season.

Bessie Nobles and Betty Nobles were meeting hostesses while Ms. Cannon and Ms. Vincent will be meeting hostesses in May. Ms. Vincent will also be responsible for the program.

The Third French Republic was proclaimed in 1870, following the capture of Napoleon III during the Franco-Prussian War. With the fall of the empire, a government of national defense tried to continue the war with Germany but France capitulated the following year. The Third Republic was made official by decree in January of 1875.

Dear Abby

Explain Problem When Calling

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1981 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: Some years ago I had a partial laryngectomy, which left me with only 10 percent of one vocal chord. As a result of this, my voice, especially on the phone, sounds like something between a croak and a whisper.

I'm fed up, angry and often enraged when I make a telephone call and the person who answers the phone impatiently asks me to speak up, or worse yet, accuses me of trying to be "funny" or making an obscene phone call.

Please publish this letter, Abby. There are many others with speech impediments who need the understanding of thoughtless strangers who jump to the wrong conclusion when they hear us on the phone.

MR. CROAKER

DEAR MR. CROAKER: You could save yourself much hurt and anger if you were to begin every phone conversation with, "Hello. I hope you can understand me. I've had throat surgery and it's sometimes difficult to understand me, so please be patient."

Try it. I'll bet it works.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 35-year-old man who's in love with a beautiful, 28-year-old divorcee. I want to marry her, but she keeps wanting more time to think it over.

In the meantime, she's seeing another man, and I'm afraid he has the edge on me. You see, he's part Kickapoo Indian, and I hear Indians are superior to the white man when it comes to lovemaking: Closely guarded tribal secrets on how to satisfy a woman are passed down from father to son. If there is any truth to that, I'm willing to pay whatever is necessary to find out.

Let me say that I was married for four years and I never had any complaints from my wife, but if Indians are better lovers than white men, I would like to find out why.

Maybe your readers can help. Thank you.

ED

DEAR ED: I wouldn't touch your request with a 10-foot totem pole. But you can try the Bureau of Indian Affairs or the American Indian Movement.

DEAR ABBY: My husband of 26 years is my problem. We have six daughters whom he teases until they are in tears and nearly hysterical. He pretends that his tickling, pinching and slapping (hard) on the rear is done in the harmless spirit of playfulness, but he actually hurts them. The girls, who are from 5 to 22 years old, frequently spend their evenings in their rooms so they won't have to put up with his teasing.

Abby, could his actions have sexual overtones? He and I have not had sexual relations in 3½ years — he's either "too tired" or not in the mood. I think Dad is getting his jollies from teasing his daughters. What do you think?

DISGUSTED IN OHIO

DEAR DISGUSTED: I think you hit the nail on the head. Dad's masked cruelty is bound to influence his daughters' feelings toward men and their future relationships with them.

Dad needs a psychiatric consultation for his sake as well as his daughters'.

DEAR ABBY: I think your opinion is OK. The girl shouldn't be there with six boys. But if it had been OK with the parents, it would have been OK with me, too.

GERALD WILLIAMS

DEAR ABBY: I think the girl should have a chance to make up her own mind if she wants to go to the all-boy party. If the boys consider her one of the guys and there is any fuss about her sleeping with the boys, she could go for most of the party, but when it came time to go to bed, she could go home.

KYMBERLY WILLIAMS

DEAR ABBY: Sorry, but I don't think that's really fair. If they all think she is one of the guys, then what's the big problem? Besides, what can they do with parents there? Nothing much.

SHANA SMITH

DEAR ABBY: I think the girl should be invited to the party. Why not? They can't play spin the bottle with only one girl and six guys. You messed up that time, Abby.

FRESH MUSHROOMS

Served as a hot vegetable or as a complement to a variety of other dishes — fresh mushrooms are nutritious and tasty.

And since fresh mushrooms are grown in houses, cellars or caves, they are available in varying amounts all year round.

But there is a caution. If you do want some fresh mushrooms — let an expert do the picking. It's dangerous to pick wild mushrooms because there are some poisonous ones that so closely resemble the edible types — even experts have a hard time distinguishing them.

At the grocery store — you're safe. But you'll still want to select mushrooms carefully. So first — look for small to medium-size mushrooms. The caps — that's the wide portion on top — should be either closed around the stem or moderately open with pink or light tan gills.

Buy one pound for four to six servings. And select mushrooms that are clean, firm and moist with white to creamy-colored caps.

To prepare fresh mushrooms, clean them by brushing well. Do not wash unless loam clings to them. When necessary, wash mushrooms quickly. Do not soak. You can leave mushrooms whole or remove the stems.

And here's a cooking tip. For sauteed mushrooms, cook in a covered skillet in one-fourth cup butter or margarine for eight to ten minutes. Season with salt and pepper.

COOKING BEEF

An eighteenth century actor once said — Heaven sends us good meat, but the Devil sends us cooks.

And anyone who has had a good steak turn into so much leather from overcooking can sympathize.

But there are ways that a smart cook can beat the problem. He can start by matching the cut and grade of meat with the method of cooking. Here's what I mean.

Thick cuts from the rib, loin and sirloin can be roasted. But only top grade cuts of chuck, round or rump roasts can take oven roasting. The lower grades of these cuts need moist cooking — which is fine because they make excellent pot roasts.

Thin steaks cut from the loin or rib usually are best pan-fried or pan-broiled. If you have a steak that's one inch thick or thicker — and is graded Prime or Choice — broil it. But if your steak comes from a less tender cut of meat — braise it or pot roast it.

Keep in mind that beef cookery is not a speed event. To keep beef as tender and juicy as possible — cook it at a low to moderate temperature.

Timing beef cookery is not hard, but there are some things to keep in mind. For example, frozen or partially thawed beef takes longer to cook than beef at refrigerator temperature.

A thick cut takes longer to cook than a thinner cut of the same grade.

Roasts with an outside layer of fat take longer than beef with little or no fat cover. And boned and rolled roasts require more cooking time per pound than roasts with the bone left in.

SPRING CLEANING YOUR JEWELRY

You wouldn't think of wearing soiled clothing or scuffed shoes to the office or on an evening out, but do you ever pay attention to your jewelry?

Jewelry picks up soap film and grease very easily, and transparent gemstones are especially susceptible. This seriously detracts from their beauty. Here are some suggestions to follow to keep your jewelry looking its best.

1. Have all your jewelry professionally cleaned once a year. You should be patronizing a gemologically-trained jeweler who has the proper knowledge and equipment to thoroughly clean your jewelry. A gemologically-trained jeweler knows all about the structure of gems and metals and can properly handle delicate gems.

2. While your jeweler is cleaning your pieces, ask him or her to check mountings for wear and clasps for security. This will protect you against losing gemstones or an entire piece.

3. In between Professional cleanings, follow these care instructions:

TRANSPARENT GEMS (diamonds, rubies, etc.) AND CORAL, IVORY AND JADE—Wash with jewelry cleaner or mild detergent and a soft brush; rinse and pat dry with a lint-free towel.

PEARLS AND OPALS—Wipe with a chamois after each wearing to remove body oils and acids. Never use heat on opals.

TURQUOISE—Wipe off periodically. Keep away from soap or grease, which may cause discoloration.

If you have a piece of jewelry you don't know how to care for, please stop by and see me, and I'll prescribe something for you.

Approve New District

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — A legislative committee Thursday approved a new state House district Thursday that combines Buncombe, Henderson and Transylvania counties.

Five representatives would be elected from the new district, which would come within less than one percentage point of the apportionment ideal based on the total population of the three counties.

It would also resolve a decade-long dispute over an alleged violation of rules that say legislative districts must be contiguous.

Critics of the 1971 redistricting that combined Buncombe and Transylvania counties into the 43rd House District contend the two counties do not touch where they join at an infinitesimal point atop Mount Pisgah.

But Transylvania and Henderson counties definitely touch, as do Buncombe and Henderson counties. That makes the proposed district fit the contiguity rule.

The panel, which is redistricting the western half of the state to make districts conform to population shifts revealed by the 1980 census, also approved a motion to leave the four-county 45th and the four-county 44th House districts unchanged.

Student's Essay Is State Winner

An essay submitted by Tricia Tripp, a junior at North Pitt High School, is one of three selected essays from North Carolina in the inaugural essay contest. Ms. Tripp's essay will be sent to the National School Board's Association for judging at the national level.

The Inaugural Essay Contest is designed to involve students in affairs of government that affect day-to-day living. "It is important that our young people be constantly challenged to analyze important events in our society such as a presidential inauguration," said

TRICIA TRIPP

Craig Phillips, state superintendent of public instruction.

"The depth of understanding and critical thinking by all the students who submitted essays is an indication of the outstanding quality of the young people we have in our state," he added.

Ms. Tripp's essay, "Inauguration, An American Beginning" was inspired by a recent trip to Washington, D.C. made by several North Pitt students.

Winners from each state will be selected to meet Mrs. Reagan in Washington, D.C.

Tripp is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Tripp of Pactolus.

Vice Bishop R. E. Worrell, pastor, invites the public.

Leadfoot Legislators Hail New Speed Law

CARSON CITY, Nev. — They've taken some of the sting out of speeding here in jackrabbit country, and for hard-driving, gas-guzzling Nevada legislators like "Old Leadfoot," the thrill of driving may be coming back.

Old Leadfoot — state Sen. Jim Gibson — earned his nickname before Nevada bowed to federal pressure in 1973 and adopted a 55 mph limit on the straightedge highways that cut through the Nevada sagebrush. Before 1973, there was no speed limit on open roads.

Gibson said the 55 mph limit made him angry. "I can't stand driving 55 miles an hour," he said.

But on Tuesday Gov. Bob List signed a measure relaxing penalties for driving between 55 mph and 70 mph. Now there's only a $5 "energy wasting" fine — not a traffic violation — for driving within that range. Previously, there was an average fine of $2 for each mile per hour over 55 and the violation was part of the driver's traffic record.

The vote in favor of the measure was overwhelming in both houses of the Nevada legislature — 36-4 in the Assembly and 13-4 in the Senate.

Assemblyman Bob Price said he was "tickled to death" about the new law. Price said he has "always consistently exceeded" the 55 mph limit, with the help of a radar detector.

Assemblyman Marion Bennett, a Methodist minister with a white Mercedes, said Price is the "real speed demon" in the lower house.

But Price, a North Las Vegas Democrat, said he doesn't deserve the reputation as the fastest accelerator in the West. At least not nowadays. He's "reformed."

opposition is, allowing for support to be developed where it is needed.

"You need to pinpoint people in your own party who may be wavering. One-on-one contact gets it streightened out. You have to explain what it (the tobacco program) is and why it's important.

"There's a long-term need to do that," East emphasized.

Questioned about Pres. Reagan's pardoning of two former Federal Bureau of Investigation officials for their part in approving break-ins during a 1970s hunt for radical antiwar fugitives, East said, "I thought it was a good move. I feel the president's move was a very wise one...a very sound one.

"We need to take the proper steps to restore the morale of the FBI and the CIA. Crime...terrorism, is the greatest threat to civil liberties in this country," according to the Senator, who said intellegence gathering agencies need to, "find out what terrorist groups are doing."

As for federal registration of hand guns, East said, "I would be opposed," because there are, "adequate laws on the books now, if they are enforced," to deal with the use of weapons. "If people are determined to break the law, they will do it," he said.

"We ought to devote our time and resources to enforce the laws we have. We've created an atmosphere in which crime does tend to pay. We need to see that laws are enforced and that proper punishment is imposed."

According to East, "I feel my committee assignments are solid, good ones."

Not allowed under Senate rules to serve on the Agriculture Committee, because North Carolina's senior Senator Jesse Helms is chairman, East is assigned to the Judiciary, Labor and Human Resources, and Energy Committees.

Under the Judiciary Committee, East serves as chairman of the Subcommittee on Separation of Powers, and is a member of the subcommittee on Terrorism and Security.

A Losing Proposition: Snacker's Diet Vow

By GAIL MICHAELS

Last week Meg and I baked cookies. Meg had a marvelous time mixing the dough and lobbing it at the cookie sheets. But as the scrumptious smell from the oven wafted throughout the kitchen, her eyes filled with panic.

"Quick, Mommy, we've got to find a place to hide them before Daddy gets home!"

I tried to calm her down. "Don't you think that after working hard all day to earn money for us, Daddy deserves some?"

"Some, yes. Save two out and hide the rest."

"Meg!" If Daddy heard you right now, his feelings would be hurt."

She put her hands on her hips. "Well, it hurts my feelings when I spend half my afternoon baking, and by morning there's nothing left but crumbs."

She has a point. When it comes to sweets, Phillip has about as much willpower as a junkie in a poppy field. My sister once paid him to take her to Krispy Kreme so that she could watch him eat a dozen doughnuts at one sitting.

As long as he was running from one class to another on campus, his sweet tooth didn't affect him much. But now that he has a desk job, his waist no longer passes the pinch-an-inch test.

As summer gets closer, he is more painfully aware of this than ever. He is especially worried that there's going to be an inordinate amount of spillage over the waistband of last year's bathing suit.

"I'm fat," he said, looking into the mirror. "Fat, fat, fat."

"You're not fat," I reassured him. "Chubby maybe, but not fat."

My remark did nothing to soothe his feelings. "You don't have a lot of room to talk. You're not exactly Cheryl Tiegs yourself."

"True, but I have a solution."

"What?"

"I'm going to wear sundresses all summer."

"I don't think that will help me. I just have to find some way to get a little exercise."

"Why? So your bulge will be muscular? Face it dear. If you want to lose weight, you're going to have to stop eating, too."

He sighed. "I suppose you're right. Starting now, I'm on a diet."

I couldn't believe it. Phillip has as much for diets as I have for silver polish. But he really meant it. For two days he ate no in-between-meal snacks and no desserts.

On the third day I went to the grocery store. By 10 p.m. he had gone through a package of chocolate chip cookies and half a box of doughnuts. When I confronted him, he was sitting at the counter eating peanut butter with a spoon.

"Don't you want a piece of bread for that?" I asked.

"No," he managed to say between gulps, "it'll make me fat."

"I have a feeling that that's not your primary consideration at the moment."

"Don't rub it in."

"I don't have to. You're doing that for yourself. But I would like to know what happened to your diet."

"I gave it up for Lent."

British Troubles Similar

The London story of today could have been any American city in the 1960s.

Bands of young blacks have been roaming the streets on what was described as a "looting rampage" in the Brixton district.

The troubles lasted over last weekend and Saturday night there was a riot in which police and the rioters were injured.

The racial trouble follows the same lines that we saw in American cities. There are claims of racial brutality and calls for reducing the numbers of police in the black areas. The reason for the unrest is, as it was in America, social. A member of Parliament said the riots were sparked by a feeling among unemployed blacks that "they have been thrown into the garbage can by society." The authorities have reacted in similar ways. Prime Minister Margaret R. Thatcher condemned the violence and said no degree of social ills could justify it.

It is a sad situation and obviously the British cannot stand by and allow the violence to continue. It is too bad when those who feel society is not sensitive to their needs conclude they must resort to violence. The British, however, can take some comfort from the experiences of their American cousins and observe that, given time, it is possible to work through some of the problems that plague them.

Shuttle Benefits Will Come

Dr. James K. Batten, chairman of the department of secondary education at ECU, sees the funds spent on the space shuttle program as "money well spent."

Batten once helped train astronauts at the Morehead Planetarium. He is no longer active in the program but stays in touch with former astronauts still active.

Batten sees the Columbia flight as a "tremendous opportunity for advancement in space.

"It gives us a chance to innovate and to put academics in real action," he said.

We tend to agree. It is not always easy to see the potential for return from projects so complex as space flight. It is vitually certain, however, that our efforts will eventually pay rich rewards for mankind.

Best Health Care

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH — People are enjoying increasingly longer, healthier and more active lives these days.

But little thanks for that is due the world of glamor medicine which puts its priorities on expensively high technology, crisis response and the building "center of excellence" in health care, studies and research.

Instead, credit is due a number of less exciting improvements such as better nutrition, a lower birth rate, decent housing and sanitation of food and water supplies.

That is the opinion of Dr. Arden Miller, chairman of the maternal and child health department at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and a consultant to the Select Panel on the Promotion of Child Health for the U.S. Senate.

Miller's concern now is that budget-cutting procedures in Washington will favor the traditional health care industry approach while endangering the less glamorous programs which feed and care for little children and pregnant women on a basic level.

Block Grants

Categorical grant programs which earmark dollars for specific purposes among particular groups — such as food for the poor who are pregnant and their newborn — have fallen into disrepute, Miller says, and the direction is toward block grants.

There are two problems with this, he believes. First, without the protection of categorical programs, the poor and the children will most likely be pushed aside in favor of dollars spent on more popular health programs, or those for people with more political muscle.

Second, he feels, state governments are simply not prepared to handle the big chunks of money without administrative guidelines and oversight from Washington to see that the money is spent properly. Even state administrators admit this, he says, and the track record of federal revenue sharing block grants in recent years demonstrate the problem.

BILL NOBLITT

Only 11 percent of the federal money was spent on people in need when forwarded without restriction to state and local governments. Most of the money went for capital construction projects or equipment ... in many cases purchases which local residents had already rejected as priorities.

Miller believes that the health care system in this country has gotten turned about. The emphasis has been on establishing centers of excellence complete with high technology programs from which good health care is supposed to trickle out to the places where people live.

Experience is proving that essential health services such as nutrition advice, sanitation, basic health care and such broadly taken to the people better serves real world needs.

Wrong Move

The very programs which seem to have the public's attention and interest in Congress are those most difficult to make a case for in terms of prevention of disease and improvement of health, Miller argues; while the Reagan administration is phasing out those which have

Other Editors Say A Better Way

(Winston-Salem Sentinel)

Workers don't stop being people when they go to the office and the assembly line. That means they take along personal problems which can have a direct bearing on how well they perform.

If there's trouble in the family, worry over health and finances, alcoholism or any number of other difficulties, it shows up on the job. Studies indicate that absenteeism and productivity loss because of workers' personal problems add up to a heavy cost for American businesses every year.

Firing a worker is a poor solution. High turnover in the workforce, finding and training replacements, is expensive. Besides, it hardly seems fair to discharge an employee who knows the job but can't keep his mind on work because of personal problems.

Enlightened companies have turned to a remedy which is both more humane and cheaper. They offer counseling for workers so that they can get a better grip on problems and therefore improve their job performance.

The Forsyth County Mental Health Department has an employee assistance program available to local companies. The mental health staff will work with a business to evaluate workers and to refer those who need counseling. The costs are modest, and the potential benefits are great.

The Jos. Schlitz Brewing Co. last fall became the first major employer in the area to contract with the agency. Schlitz employees can volunteer for help, or supervisors may suggest to workers that they enter the program. The advantage for the worker is confidential help in dealing with problems. The benefit for the company can be financial savings, as well as an improvement in morale in the plant.

Charles Fiederbach, social worker and coordinator for the program, said some companies still are skeptical about the program. The experience of Hoechst Fibers Industries of Spartanburg, S.C., should help convince them. Since it began a similar program four and a half years ago, Hoechst estimates it has saved $68,000 because of a more stable work force. Every job turnover averted, according to the company, saves $2,000.

The saving is important, of course, but the real argument for the program is the welfare of the workers themselves. Enlightened employers recognize that their responsibility to workers is more than a pay check. They have an interest in extending a helpful hand in dealing with problems too heavy to carry alone.

Strength For Today

PROSPERITY

The great evangelist Talmadge once remarked that "Prosperity is like salt water. The more you drink it, the thirstier you are."

In national affairs we lay great emphasis on prosperity and well we should; because when an economic order is not prosperous, something is out of adjustment. But prosperity often has a peculiar effect on the moral character of many people. They seem to be so created that they can endure very little prosperity without being intoxicated by it.

Jesus recognized this and declared that it was very hard for "those who have riches" to enter heaven. Inasmuch as prosperity tends to produce idleness and self indulgence, it proves to be extremely hard on moral character.

But in the last analysis, it is not prosperity that is wrong; it is the individual. If prosperity is used for the right things, particularly helping the less fortunate, it molds character to high moral purpose. — Elisha Douglass

They Never Go Aweigh

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — "Old anchors don't fade away they just.. ." Just what?

Here in New Orleans, the city that care forgot, I have been lying awake nights trying to come to grips with that question. Ships blowing their mournful whistles, getting ready to drop anchor in the muddy Mississippi, keep reminding me of a word riddle that has tormented my insomnia ever since Walter Cronkite made his farewell address on the "CBS Evening News."

Walter, if you remember, wound up 20 years at anchor with the gracious exit line: "Old anchormen, you see, don't fade away — they just keep coming back for more."

Well, with all due respect to our most respected broadcaster, it does seem to me that the line could do with a little hyping, a little more nautical pizzaz.

Walter, a sailor of recognized ability, should have been able to toss out a saltier line than that upon approaching the final anchorage.

Old anchors don't fade away, they just ... what?

They just hang on in there?

They just drift with the tide?

They just lose their grip (or, in TV, their key grip?)?

They just muddy the waters? Hit rock bottom?

They just get all fouled up?

They wind up horizontal on the yacht club lawn?

They just go off the road? Drag their bottoms?

Don't have enough scope anymore?

They just end up missing a couple of links?

Lose their bite? Gather barnacles? Become a bunch of rusty old flukes? Hawse around until they have to be shackled?

Anyhow, they just never go aweigh.

And for that we are grateful, because Walter Cronkite is the personification of the anchoring art as defined in Chapman's "Piloting, Seamanship and Small Bat Handling," the bible for all us weekend sailors.

"In the last analysis," Chapman decrees, "power to hold is the real criterion of effective anchoring." As the ratings always showed, holding power night after night is what made Walter TV's most effective anchor.

Of late I also have been pondering some improvements to TV quiz programs and game shows. During a recent bout with flu I watched quite a bit of daytime TV, mainly because I was too beat to turn off the set.

I found the quiz shows entertaining time killers chock full of breezy MCs, pretty girls and lively audiences. Their numbing fault was that the questions were too easy, too inane, an insult to the intelligence of both viewers and contestants. These offerings seemed to be almost a spinoff of "It Pays to Be Ignorant," the old radio quiz show spoof, but done deadpan without the laughs, except from the constantly cackling compere.

So I set about devising some tougher questions, which I now offer free of charge, no strings attached, no coupons to mail in, to any TV game show that cares to upgrade its I.Q. Answers at bottom.

1.Who was Domenikos Thokopoulos?

2.Who is buried in Grant's tomb?

3.Who invented the Fig Newton?

4.What does POSSLQ mean?

5.Escoffier, the great chef, had a kitchen assistant at London's Carlton Hotel who became a famous revolutionary. Who was he?

6.What do William Jennings Bryan and Henry Clay

Zimbabwe: Hanging On

By JOHN EDLIN
Associated Press Writer

SALISBURY, Zimbabwe (AP) — A wholesale exodus of whites didn't materialize, as predicted. Farmers are growing so much food that they may soon be exporting to neighboring black countries. The economy is picking up.

As Zimbabwe observes its first year as an inependent, black-governed nation Saturday, the country is a bigger success than many predicted. But it still has a way to go before it can sever all its trading links with South Africa, the last country on the continent to be run by a white minority.

Robert Mugabe, the former guerrilla leader who is now prime minister, watched proudly last April 18 as the multicolor flag of the new nation of Zimbabwe rose over a Salisbury soccer stadium for the first time, symbolizing the end of white rule.

Former Prime Minister Ian Smith's white supporters were saying that Mugabe was a Marxist terrorist who would seize their land, homes, jobs and bank accounts. They said the more than 200,000 whites would be forced to flee, and the economy would founder.

They predicted civil war between the guerrilla armies that, although rivals, were allied in the seven-year guerrilla war to end white rule — the Zimbabwe African National Liberation Army (ZANLA), drawn from Mugabe's dominant Shona Tribe, and the Zimbabwe People's Revolutionary Army (ZIPRA), made up mostly of Joshua Nkomo's Matabele tribesmen.

A year later, the whites still have their houses, savings and jobs. The economy, still mainly in private hands, is enjoying a modest boom.

A record 17,240 people, mostly whites, did emigrate in 1980, but 6,407 new settlers arrived. Most of the 36,000 guerrillas who fought the war and might have posed a threat to peace have been disarmed and integrated into a new national army. And Nkomo is still the junior partner in Mugabe's coalition government.

"Peace and reconciliation have replaced war, racial hatred and confrontation," President Canaan Banana said in an interview to mark the first anniversary of independence.

"All our people, notwithstanding the racial and ethnic heterogeneity, have accepted to live together as Zimbabweans, united by the common desire to rebuild and develop our beautiful country."

Much of the rebuilding has been done.

Exports of minerals, cotton, tobacco, corn, sugar and other commodities have increased from $1 billion in the last year of the war, 1979, to $1.4 billion.

With the help of some $1.8 billion in foreign aid pledged last month, more than a million war refugees are being resettled, some 2,000 black farmers have bought

It was our happy privilege to attend the "Tom Sawyer" production Saturday night, Apr. 11, at A. G. Cox School in Winterville. We can truly say that it was an evening well spent. It is just so wonderful to see faculty members, students and musicians give of their time and efforts to bring such a superb musical to our area. To all of you who had a part, congratulations. We'll be listening next year for the announcement of a similar production!

To the editor:

Often the act of serving must have its own reward for those valiant men who stand ready to serve their fellow citizens who need help quickly. I refer to the members of the Ayden Rescue Squad who responded so promptly on Tuesday night, March 31, to a call from the Calico community to rush a stricken lady to the hospital in Greenville. In such a desperate emergency for a family in sudden distress, it is comforting to know that help from such a source arrives so willingly and quickly. We are fortunate, but sometimes we forget that we can call for help and count on getting it. We can't always thank them in person, but we can remember to support the squad with our donations given as they give their services to the community.

Rental Housing Would Hurt

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Some rental housing people say that President Reagan's tax proposals have their priorities a bit mixed up.

Rental housing, they say, is the most affordable, and so the most needed, housing these days. Though rents are rising, they say, more people can afford to rent than can buy tract houses or condominiums.

But, says the National Multi-Housing Council, some proposals of the Reagan administration could endanger construction of rental units.

Allen Cymrot, vice chairman of the council, concedes there's a self-interest, but he asks that it not cloud the issue, which he says is whether the country is going to have enough housing to meet its needs.

He begins with the rental vacancy rate of 4.8 percent, the lowest in the 25 years since the statistic has been kept. Then he calls attention to the decline in the number of units on which construction began.

In 1977, starts were made on 414,000 units in buildings of five or more units. Of these, about 203,000 received no Federal subsidies or mortgage insurance. They represented the size of the private market.

The number shrank to 173,000 units in 1978, to 125,000 in 1979, and to about 43,000 in 1980, simultaenous with a vacancy rate decline in some cities to under 3 percent, and to a 4.8 percent national average.

At the same time, says Cymrot, who is also president of The Robert A. McNeil Corp., San Mateo, Calif., one of the nation's largest owners and operators of rental housing, many thousands of units are lost each year to age, fire, abandonment, conversion and other factors.

Result: a net annual loss of stock, and a gap between rental needs and production in the 1980s that Cymrot estimates will be 1.2 million to 4.6 million units. He contends the situation already is serious.

If passed, he adds, the tax proposals of the Reagan administration will make matters even worse.

One of these proposals would permit rental housing to be depreciated in equal installments over an 18-year period. Since most structures cannot now be depreciated so swiftly, you might think owners of rental units might be happy. Their mood, however, is decidedly the opposite.

First, the equal installment depreciation, often called "straight line," actually cuts into after-tax returns in the early years of a building's life, when owners need all the cash they can get. At least under existing law, they say, they can use accelerated depreciation methods, which create a higher return during a building's early years.

Next, says Cymrot, owners dislike what they feel is the worst tax deal of any type of structure. Owner-occupied factories, retail stores and warehouses are in line for 10-year depreciation. And other structures would be allowed 15-year depreciation under current proposals.

It means, says Cymrot, that facilities such as office buildings, which have a better tax flow than rental units, would be given additional advantages. "We have an industry that needs help, but we're giving it to an industry that already is doing well."

Some other aspects of the Reagan proposals also could hurt, Cymrot contends, and he sees it all leading to a diversion of funds from rental units, which he repeats is the most affordable housing today.

The consequence of the proposals, he predicts, would be an even more serious housing shortage. Rents would rise, and conversions to co-ops and condos would increase, adding to displacement and overcrowding among those unable to afford purchasing.

What units remained as rentals, he continued, would command higher rents, leading to pressures for rent controls, which might further discourage production and lead to deteroriation and abandonments.

Cymrot argues that rental housing, which he says already is on the bare edge of profitability, should be allowed a 15-year, accelerated depreciation plan to encourage builders, and keep rents from soaring.

Among other things, he would also repeal Section 189 of the Internal Revenue Code that phases out the expensing of construction period taxes and interest, or perhaps make it inapplicable to rental property.

Whatever, he says, if the country really wants to provide rental units it should at least reverse the 15-18 depreciation period. As proposed, he said, the incentives are reversed, with rental units the loser.

Postal Union Assails Delay

By JEFFREY MILLS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The heads of the two largest postal unions are criticizing Postmaster General William F. Bolger over his effort to delay negotiations on a new labor agreement.

"Bolger is using duplicity, deceit and downright dishonesty in an effort to undermine us," said Vincent Sombrotto, president of the National Association of Letter Carriers.

Sombrotto and Moe Biller, president of the American Postal Workers Union, reacted angrily Thursday to Bolger's announcement that the Postal Service will not begin bargaining Wednesday, as scheduled.

The bargaining talks cover about 550,00 workers, the biggest labor contract scheduled to be negotiated this year.

Bolger said "increasing rivalry and dissension" between postal unions makes it difficult to conduct meaningful negotiations. The biggest unions are seeking authority to represent members of two smaller groups, the mail handlers' division of Laborers International Union and the National Rural Letter Carriers Association.

Bolger also said in a letter to Postal Service employees that he would ask the National Labor Relations Board to decide which union represents which workers.

Sombrotto and Biller said the move is designed to delay bargaining for months, if not years.

"He's obstructing the collective bargaining process. He's totally devoid of integrity," Biller said of Bolger. "This is a problem for the whole labor movement. Bolger now is exposed as anti-labor and anti-union," he said.

Biller said representatives of postal management were meeting with union leaders on negotiations at the same time the Bolger letter to Postal Service employees was being drafted.

"We've spent six months preparing for these talks," he said, holding up a stack of documents prepared for the negotiations. "He's not going to undermine that," Biller said, noting that postal unions were given the legal right to collective bargaining in 1971.

A Postal Service spokesman refused to comment on the statements by the two union leaders.

unused white land to grow crops, and engineers and carpenters are busy building bridges, railroads, schools, hospitals and clinics.

But there are some minuses:

— Lawlessness still stalks the land. At least 500 people were slain in the year since independence, usually in fighting between the rival guerrilla armies and their militant supporters. Most of the 26 Cabinet ministers still move around Salisbury with armed bodyguards. But the new leaders argue that, by comparison, up to 100 people were killed daily in the seven-year war that took more than 20,000 lives, and in the past year 1,000 people have been killed on the roads.

— Some 5,000 armed guerrillas loyal to Nkomo are still dug in at Gwaai River, an abandoned copper mine in western Zimbabwe. They refuse to give up their weapons and threaten to fight it out with anti-aircraft batteries, SAM-7 ground-to-air missiles, light artillery and heavy machine guns unless they are given key posts in the new army.

— Nkomo himself, the grandfather of black nationalism in Zimbabwe, is still bitter because he lost the British-supervised, pre-independence elections in February 1980 that brought Mugabe, his former protege, to power. Some of his militants urge him to quit the coalition government. But he would have less influence than he has now, since his party holds only 20 of the 100 seats in the Executive National Assembly while Mugabe's has 57, and a majority of 14.

— South Africa — the neighbor to the south — is expected to remain Zimbabwe's economic lifeline for at least a decade. Virtually all of landlocked Zimbabwe's trade is handled by South African railways and ports, the South African cities of Pretoria and Cape Town control its overseas communications links, and South Africa is Zimbabwe's biggest single trading partner.

Many businessmen fear that if Mugabe supports proposals for United Nations sanctions against South Africa or backs black guerrillas from South Africa training in African or Soviet-bloc countries to wage a new African war, South Africa will sever the lifeline.

Budget Meet At Windy Ridge

Mayor Don McGlohon reminded citizens that the next neighborhood budget meeting will be held on Monday, April 20 at 7:30 p.m. at the Windy Ridge clubhouse.

McGlohon said the meeting will be held for the residents of Windy Ridge and Quail Ridge.

The mayor encouraged citizens of these neighborhoods to attend the meeting and let city officials know their views on the city budget.

had the most profound effect.

To illustrate, Miller pointed to the growing number of hospital installations to which premature babies are rushed — often by helicopter — so that highly skilled staff can use the latest technology to save a life which may be damaged by the complications of birth. Which, he wonders, is better: to spend $150,000 on one such glamorous case, or to spend the same amount giving proper health and nutrition care to young mothers, and teaching them how best to deliver a well and healthy baby.

Miller took part in a panel discussion on child health at a seminar recently at Quail Roost Conference Center near Durham. The Bush Institute and Frank Porter Graham Child Development Center at UNC-Chapel Hill sponsored the meeting.

Commissioners Meet Tuesday

The Board of County Commissioners will meet Tuesday at 10 a.m. at the Pitt County Office Building at 1717 West Fifth St.

Included on the agenda is a report on a request by the Pitt-Greenville Chamber of Commerce on more stringent control of the sale of precious metals, consideration of a franchise agreement with Alert Cable TV, consideration of plats for Treetops and Sweet Briar Subdivisions, and consideration of a proposed reduction in size for the Planning Board.

INSTALLATION

Bishop J.O. Randolph of the Northeast Original Free Will Baptist Conference and his cabinet will be installed at a special service Saturday at 8 p.m. in the Selvia Chapel FWB Church.

The sermon will be delivered by the Rev. Clifton Gardner and the music will be provided by the church's senior choir. Refreshments will be served

How's The Weather?

WEATHER FORECAST — Rain is expected in the forecast period until Saturday, from the north-central Rockies into the northern Plains. Showers are forecast from east Texas to the Ohio Valley and for Arizona and southern Utah. Most areas will be mild but cooler weather is due in southern California and New England. (AP Laserphoto)

By The Associated Press

Thundershowers are predicted this afternoon for parts of North Carolina, but little rain is expected this weekend, says the National Weather Service.

This afternoon's temperatures will be in the 70s and 80s as winds become gusty from the southwest.

Rainfall is certainly needed over North Carolina as the forest fire danger remains high, and the water table of the state could certainly use a boost.

The weather service predicts warm weather through the weekend.

A small craft advisory is in effect for today with brisk southwest to west winds, but by the weekend the speeds should drop off.

An area of unsettled weather over the Mississippi and Ohio valley early this morning is slowly spreading east to the Atlantic seaboard.

Most of the heavier showers and thunderstorms seemed to be over Kentucky and Ohio this morning.

This area of showers was expected to pass through North Carolina later today into this evening. A shower or thundershower is possible anywhere in the state, but the highest probability seems to be over the northwest portion.

Thursday was fine for outdoor chores with ample sunshine. Clouds began to thicken by late afternoon, but maximum temperatures did manage to reach into the upper 60s to the mid 70s east of the mountains by the end of the day.

Fayetteville peaked out at 76 while New Berm was close behind at 75.

Children's Circus Easter

Clyde Beatty-Cole Brothers Circus is presenting an "Easter Brunch" for children beginning at noon Sunday and continuing for a one-hour period until 1 p.m. The event will be at the circus site at Carolina East Mall.

Judith Eppolito, marketing director for the circus, says that children will be given an opportunity for a brief ride on the elephants. Children are also invited to bring breakfast foods and hard boiled eggs to feed the elephants, and, she added, "if they want, they can bring along some for the elephants and for themselves to eat too."

This free meet-feed-and-ride the elephants hour is primarily designed for children in the five to 12-year old age group. In observance of Easter Sunday, the elephants are temporarily being called "elephant bunnies," and if time permits, some of them will be costumed to resemble bunnies.

Ms. Eppolito stressed that for those attending the Easter event, there is no obligation whatsoever to attend the 2 p.m. performance following the event.

"What we want to do in setting aside this hour for children is to give them the opportunity to see the elephants at close hand, and we felt having it at this time of day will give parents a chance to bring their kids by after church or right after Sunday lunch," Ms. Eppolito commented.

Helms Bill Would End Federal Funding Role

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., has introduced a bill that would end federal funding for tobacco inspections and grading by July 1 — and Democrats are criticizing the move.

The legislation woudl require flue-cured tobacco farmers to begin paying an inspection fee when they take their tobacco to auction this summer, instead of starting with the 1982 crop as many had expected.

Rep. Charles G. Rose III, D-N.C., chairman of the House Tobacco and Peanut Subcommittee, will oppose the July 1 cutoff because it would unfairly penalize flue-cured tobacco growers, an aide said Thursday.

Burley and other types of tobacco, whose marketing seasons ended earlier this year, were graded at a cost to the government of $5 million, opponents of the July 1 cutoff said.

By ending subsidized tobacco inspections in July, the government will save $3 million of the $8 million appropriated for tobacco inspections during the fiscal year that ends Sept. 30.

But flue-cured tobacco farmers will have to make up the difference.

Helms is "volunteering the flue-cured tobacco farmer for special treatment," said Rose aide John Merritt.

Helms introduced the bill April 8 at the request of the Reagan administration.

Although the bill is unpopular with growers, Helms said he agreed to go along with the cuts. He said tobacco farmers are willing to take their fair share of the Reagan administration's budget cuts.

Helms agricultural aide Joseph Terrell said those opposed to the July 1 cutoff were mistaken and that the administration had planned all along to imposed the inspection fee this summer.

Several tobacco state congressmen said they thought the cutoff would not begin until next year, Merritt said.

John W. Sledge, president of the North Carolina Farm Bureau, said Thursday that he also had believed that federally funded inspections would continue through the year ending Sept. 30.

Jesse T. Dunn, deputy director of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's tobacco marketing division, disagreed that flue-cured tobacco farmers were being penalized.

He said both burley and flue-cured tobacco would begin paying fees for grading and inspection during the same crop year, which begins July 1.

Legislators Accuse Governor Of Intimidation

By W.A. WERONKA JR.
Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Legislators ended three weeks of public hearings on the Department of Transportation Thursday with several lawmakers criticizing Gov. Jim Hunt for trying to intimidate them with a plan to reduce highway construction and design.

The plan, announced by Hunt at a Thursday news conference, includes a re-evaluation of planned new highway projects and reductions in the design specifications of future roads and bridges.

Meanwhile, the state House put off until today any debate on a bill that would provide an $86 million tax break to industry.

Hunt's plan touched off criticism during the meeting of the joint House and Senate Select Committee on the Department of Transportation.

The two committee chairmen said Hunt had taken the recommendations they were pulling together from the hearings, and suggested he was trying to steal their thunder.

Rep. Martin Nesbitt, D-Asheville, one of the Transportation Department's sharpest critics on the panel, told DOT Secretary Tom Bradshaw that he felt the administration was trying to intimidate him.

Nesbitt noted that Hunt, in a prepared statement, listed three highway projects as examples of those that would be re-evaluated. One was the construction of the N.C. 280 connector to I-26 south of Asheville, in Nesbitt's district.

"I maintain that the use of this particular example could be taken as a move to intimidate me on this committee, and I resent it," he told Bradshaw.

The secretary responded that it was only an example to show that the re-evaluation would run the "breadth of the state."

Nesbitt said, "I don't accept that as a valid explanation."

Bradshaw said, "That is a project that a lot of people think is a waste of money."

And Nesbitt responded, "You've got problems in here that far surpass this one."

Another member of the panel, Sen. Bo Thomas, D-Hendersonville, joined in, saying the project was in his district too. "I certainly hope the reason it's being reconsidered is not because of some of Representative Nesbitt's pointed questions," he said.

Sen. Marshall Rauch, D-Gastonia, the Senate chairman, said he was "delighted the governor has decided to use our points even before we publish them," and said three-fourths of Hunt's announcement came from the committee.

Rauch said panel members had asked Bradshaw and other highway officials repeatedly about possible design reductions and had been told none were needed. "The governor just decided we were right," Rauch said.

Rep. Allen Barbee, D-Spring Hope, the House chairman, complained that the committee was forced to "wring and twist out every answer" from Bradshaw and Transportation officials.

The committee plans to release its recommendations by April 27, the date Hunt plans to unveil his proposal for raising new highway money.

In other legislative action:

Inventory Tax

Rep. Dan Lilley, D-Kinston, asked the House to delay the debate on the inventory tax bill and preliminary vote until today as the chamber also put off other bills scheduled for debate.

Lilley said the delay was to allow lawmakers to attend scheduled afternoon hearings and meetings, not because of opposition or maneuverings involving the tax bill.

The bill would provide a state income tax credit to offset the local property taxes manufacturers' pay on their inventories. It would be phased in over four years, and reduce state revenues by an estimated $86 million annually when in full effect.

Interest Rates

The House Banking Committee turned back moves to send to subcommittee a pair of bills sought by the banking industry to increase limits on interest rates for most types of consumer loans.

On a roll-call vote of 5-17, the committee rejected a move to send the Senate-approved bills to a subcommittee where opponents said they had hoped to substantially rewrite or change the bills.

The bills set new interest-rate ceilings on installment loans, such as loans for automobiles, and on second mortgages and contract loans, such as 90-day notes. They would apply to loans of less than $25,000.

The measures would establish interest rates that would float upward if money market rates climb nationally. Rates would be established under a formula setting them at least 6 percentage points above the published rate on six-month Treasury bills auctioned weekly by the federal government.

But the bills also would allow lenders to charge as much as 16 percent on those loans regardless of how low national money market rates fell.

The House committee, on another roll-call vote, approved an amendment by Rep. Paul Pulley, D-Durham, that would increase the ceiling on second mortgages even more and would prohibit small loan companies from making first mortgages on residences.

The amendment would set the interest rate limit on second mortgages at 18 percent instead of 16 percent.

Textiles

The House Finance Committee approved a bill that primarily would give the textile industry a property tax break on equipment used to reduce cotton-dust levels inside plants.

Rep. Dan Lilley, D-Kinston, sponsor of the bill, said it would exempt from ad valorem property taxes any equipment used to reduce air or water pollution inside or outside industrial facilities. Current laws exempt only the equipment used to keep air and water outside the plant clean.

The measure also would give local tax supervisors more authority to decide what equipment should be exempt. It would require that industry representatives collaborate with several state deparatments to list all equipment used for pollution controls. Such a list would be used by supervisors in exempting property.

Present laws require industries obtain a certificate for exemption from the Environmental Management Commission. Most of the equipment is required under federal or state law.

Ernie Ball of the N.C. League of Municipalities warned the committee that many pollution-control devices also deal with production.

The bill now goes to the full House for a vote.

Farmers

The House Finance Committee approved a Senate bill that would make sure farmers aren't taxed twice, once for their land and once for farm allotments.

Sen. Vernon White, D-Winterville, the bill's sponsor, said the bill only spells out what already should be the practice. He said tax authorities should be using allotments to determine the taxable value of farm property.

New Generation

The Senate Judiciary I Committee appointed a subcommittee to study a bill introduced by Sen. Marshall Rauch, D-Gastonia, to repeal the so-called New Generation Act. Rauch was one of the prime sponsors of the act in 1979.

Several people — including the wife of U.S. Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., a number of Republican legislators and the leaders of several fundamentalist Christian groups — appeared before the committee to indicate support of Rauch's bill.

The act, which Gov. Jim Hunt pushed for strongly two years ago, sets up committees in all 100 counties and one on a statewide level to coordinate health care for infants and young children. The act sparked a heated opposition from fundamentalist groups who have charged it is anti-family.

Initiative

A constitutional amendment that would give North Carolinians the right to initiative and referendum was debated and referred to a subcommittee by the Senate Constitutional Amendments Committee.

The amendment would give voters the right to propose laws and amendments to the state Constitution for approval by the General Assembly or by the voters themselves.

Several similar bills have been introduced this session by Republican legislators.

Executive Protection

A legislative committee approved a bill that would provide some state officials with more protection against assault and threats, and add more stringent penalties for those who make the assaults or threats.

The bill, introduced by Rep. Richard Wright, D-Tabor City, would allow special protection for state executives not previously offered such protection. In addition to the governor and lieutenant governor, they include all the council of state members, the speaker of the House and the president pro tem of the Senate.

The bill also sets specific felony classifications for assault and threats against those officials. It provides a felony classification for oral or written messages that threaten bodily harm.

Another part of the bill would give the State Bureau of Investigation the power to investigate damage to state property and threats against state officials without the necessity for an official request.

New Bills

Rep. Doug Clark, D-Kenansville, filed a bill that would allow counties to levy a 1 percent sales and use tax.

A resolution was filed in the House to invite Gov. Jim Hunt to speak to the General Assembly at noon April 28 about his suggestions for aiding the ailing Highway Fund.

In the Senate, bills were filed to appropri ate $200,000 over the coming biennium for historic preservation, to enable cities and counties to establish conservation districts and to change certain provisions of the Public Utilities Act.

Blames Waste By N.C. DOT

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Rep. Howard Coble, R-Greensboro, blames the state Highway Fund crisis partly on wasteful spending and poor management by the Department of Transportation.

Coble said Thursday he is outraged that DOT spent $300,000 to hire an out-of-state consulting firm to help a blue-ribbon study commission headed by former Gov. Dan Moore search for new sources of highway revenue.

The same firm has colleged $7.8 million for various projects in the past 10 years, he said.

"I am not willing to vote for any additional taxes on gasoline — or anything else for that matter, not even liquor or cigarettes — to pay for highways when I realize the money will be going to DOT, which has been inefficient in recent years generally and in recent months specifically."

But Democrats, who control the transportation department, said Coble's remarks on the consultant, Wilbur Smith Associates of Columbia, S.C., are "standard partisan carping."

"The feeling of DOT was that this particular firm would do the best job of putting together information the Moore commision would need to make a decision," said Brent Hackney, Gov. Jim Hunt's deputy press secretary.

"We are talking aboaut a $200 million shortfall in the Highway Fund, and Howard is quibbling over $300,000 for a consulting firm," Hackney said.

Seeks End N.C. Infant Care Act

By MARY ANNE RHYNE
Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Two years ago, Sen. Marshall Rauch, D-Gastonia, was one of the legislators pushing for passage of the so-called New Generation Act.

Gov. Jim Hunt strongly supported the act as a possible way to reduce the infant mortality rate in North Carolina, which is the eighth highest in the nation.

But fundamentalists and conservatives saw the act as an effort by government to break up families and interfere. They began to voice their objections loudly.

Now Rauch has introduced a bill to repeal the act, saying the objections have hindered its effectiveness.

"Unfortunately it got caught up in a number of things," Rauch told the Senate Judiciary I Committee on Thursday.

The panel referred the bill to a subcommittee that will hear public opinions and report back next week.

"It's not always the facts that are important. It's what people think of the facts that's important," Rauch said, noting that many people have opposed the act because they did not understand its purpose.

The act called on all 100 counties to set up committees and the state to set up a committee to coordinate health-care for infants and young children.

But Rauch said only two counties, Currituck and Harnett, have set up committees. The state-level committee, he said, has met only four times.

"Normally when we make an error we just leave it there and say it's not hurting anyone," Rauch said. "But I think this layer of bureaucracy needs to be wiped out."

But Rauch said the problem of infant deaths still exists. He suggests some other solution, one fundamentalists and conservatives approve of, should be found.

While some of his fellow legislators are applauding Rauch's stand, Hunt and his spokesmen are fighting to keep some part of the act on the books.

"This act has many fine aspects," said Zeb Alley, the governor's liaisonat the Legislature. "He feels there are other alternatives, such as a rewrite that would leave the concepts intact.

"If misconception is as broad as it appears to be, he wouldn't object to restructuring the language," Alley said.

The act's chances of survivingare unclear.

Three of eight committee members indicated they would like to defeat the bill rather than send it to a subcommittee for more study.

Revival Services

Revival services will be held April 20-24 at Philippi Church of Christ here. The guest speaker will be Elder A. L. Matthews of St. Paul Disciples of Christ Church, Ayden.

Services will begin nightly at 7:30. The following churches will be participating: Monday, Cornerstone Baptist, the Rev. Arlee Griffin, choir and congregation; Tuesday, Mount Calvary Free Will Baptist, Bishop W. L. Jones and choir; Wednesday, Sycamore Hill Baptist, choir; Thursday, Selvia Chapel FWB, the Rev. Clifton Gardner, choir; Friday, St. Paul Disciples of Christ and choir.

The Rev. Randy Royall, pastor, invites the public to attend.

GREENVILLE UTILITIES COMMISSION

PUBLIC NOTICE

At the regular meeting of the Greenville Utilities Commission on Tuesday night, May 12, 1981, at 7:30 P.M. in the Board Room of the Greenville Utilities Building, 200 West Fifth Street the Commission will consider adjustments to electric, water, sewer, and gas service fees, as necessary to reflect current costs of service.

Information concerning service charges is available in the office of the Business Manager, Greenville Utilities Building, 200 West Fifth Street, Greenville, North Carolina.

Charles O'H. Horne, Jr., Director
GREENVILLE UTILITIES COMMISSION

SUNK — The Lebanese cargo vessel "Manal" is shown sinking in Sidon's Mediterranean harbor. The ship was carrying canned foods from the Cypriot port of Limassol when an explosive charge ripped through it. Lebanese spokesmen claimed Israeli frogmen planted the explosives in a pre-dawn raid Thursday. (AP Laserphoto)

Crucifixion Of Soldier's Son

MANDALUYONG, Philippines (AP) — A Filipino laborer had himself nailed to a cross today atop a rocky hill in this Manila suburb in hopes his crucifixion will lead to a meeting with the former American GI he says is his father.

Grimacing in pain, Donald Rexford Jr. cried, "Oh God, forgive us our sins!" and remained hanging on the cross for about a minute until his friends, dressed as Roman soldiers, helped him down. About 2,000 people, most of them women and children, watched in silence.

The tableau would have been an eerie one even if this wasn't Rexford's second crucifixion — and if four men and a woman had not had themselves crucified in similar fashion in two other Philippines towns today.

In San Fernando, 30 miles north of here, 20,000 witnesses were on hand as three men were nailed to crosses on a hill overlooking a rice paddy. Officials called the event a major tourist attraction.

A 23-year-old faith healer re-enacted the crucifixion in a village churchyard at Kapitanangan, 20 miles north of the capital. She was the only woman to do so.

"Jesus asked me to do it ... to cleanse the world of sins," Luciana Reyes told reporters as five-inch nails were driven through her palms and feet.

It was the fifth time she underwent true-to-life crucifixion.

About 5,000 people watched as the woman remained impaled on the cross for about three minutes.

Sacrifice and pennance are a deeply rooted Easter week tradition in the Philippines, Asia's only predominantly Catholic nation.

For most of the country's 48 million people, this takes the form of quiet prayer in their homes and churches.

But others take the scriptures more literally. At Easter time, many of the devout can be seen along streets and highways flogging themselves, recalling the agony of Christ on the day of his crucifixion by the Romans 2,000 years ago.

Catholic priests in the Philippines frown on extreme forms of "physical sacrifice," but their admonitions appear to be falling on deaf ears.

Rexford, 34, re-enacted Christ's crucifixion down to the last detail. He dragged an 88-pound cross on his shoulders across four towns in a nine-hour, barefoot march. Along the way, the "soldiers" lashed his back with leather and bamboo whips.

About an hour past high noon, with the hillside here ablaze in the summer heat, two "soldiers" drove five-inch stainless steel nails through Rexford's palms with hammer blows.

Less than a hundred yards away, at the Sacred Heart Catholic church, the Rev. Jaime Mora shook his head.

"The value of a sacrifice depends on the intention," he said. "If the intention is not right, there is no value. What is the merit of doing something if what you want is publicity?"

Pitt Fire Calls

During March the rural fire departments of Pitt County answered 165 fire alarms, County Fire Marshal Bobby Joyner said.

Involved were 38 houses, 11 house trailers, five buildings, 12 automobiles, 46 grass and woods areas, no commercial buildings, 35 "others," one false alarm and 17 mutual aids.

There was $1,599,600 involved in fires; $2,698,450 exposed; $243,925 lost, and $4,054,125 saved by the rural fire departments. The Staton House Fire Department had the most fires — 18.

Budget Cuts Less Than First Feared

By SAM D. BUNDY
N.C. House of Representatives

The introduction of bills has slowed down again since the deadline for local bills has passed. The number now stands at 806 in the House and 432 in the Senate for a total of 1,238. The joint Appropriations Committees of the House and Senate are now considering the recommendations of the subcommittees with respect to budget cuts. It now appears that the cuts will not run as deep as was feared at first. For example, in education all the cuts were in priority no. 1, with priority no. 2 and priority no. 3 not being touched. It is the feeling that the actual cuts will not be made where it will affect the classrooms.

The House Banking Committee is now working on the banking bill recently passed by the Senate and it could be that some minor changes will be made.

The main issue in the House this week was debate on legislation dealing with day care centers. There were four bills introduced with respect to this area; however, one was killed in committee dealing with classification. The other three passed the House after two days' debate lasting about two hours each day. The bill dealing with "tolerance" was the hottest issue, but finally it passed by a 64-46 vote.

On Thursday Ed Walker, Randy Smith, Richard Poole Bill Hilfinger, and Mike Strother, representing the State Concerns Committee of the Pitt-Greenville Chamber of Commerce, spent the day in the Legislative Building. They visited several committee meetings and sat in on sessions in both the House and Senate.

Sunrise Service

Sunrise services will be held at Warren Chapel Church on Sunday, beginning at 6 a.m.

Elder Willie Joyner will conduct the service, with music by the Warren Chapel Gospel Choir and the Ever-ready Usher Board.

Warren Chapel pastor Elder A. L. Miller said the public is invited to attend the Easter sunrise program.

SPRING CONCERT

The Tabernacle of Victory, located one-and-a-fourth miles north of Burroughs Wellcome on Bethel Highway, is sponsoring a spring concert through its choir Saturday at 7:30 p.m. Guest choirs from the Greenville area will be participating. Evangelist Paul A. Thomas, pastor, invites everyone to attend.

Judaism, Christianity Have Inseparable Link

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

Both the older faith, Judaism, and its offspring, Christianity, celebrate their major festivals of hope this weekend, Passover and Easter.

They're linked in history and also hold a comparable meaning — deliverance.

For Christians, that deliverance is pioneered for humanity in the resurrection of Jesus from death, a triumph celebrated this Sunday.

For Jews, the week-long Passover observance starts Saturday evening, commemorating deliverance of their people from slavery in Egypt.

"Let my people go!" Moses demanded, and they got away.

"He is risen!" the excited report spread about Jesus, and his followers concluded that with him nothing could beat them, not even dying.

The concurrence of the Passover-Easter observances "provides an interreligious mutuality founded in brotherhood," says David Hyatt, a Catholic and president of the National Conference of Christians and Jews.

Both occasions, he points out, have a timeless quality, focusing not just on past events, but on their continuing significance for the present and the future.

"... Next year may we all be free!" goes a prayer of the Seder meal of Passover.

The words "speak to us with perennial truth,," says Rabbi Arthur J. Lelyveld, president of the Synagogue Council of America, citing continuing oppression, persecution and brutalities in the world.

"May we renew our vow to labor for ... a world of justice, peace, freedom and love."

The Easter celebration also holds up a vision of the ultimate victory of goodness, of a world in which even death is overcome, as heralded in history by God's emissary.

"Easter does not come and go. It comes and stays," says Episcopal Presiding Bishop John M. Allin. "It is more than a season. Resurrection ... embraces and supports our life in Christ."

It is "a truth that lives with us each day of our lives."

Besides the shared implications and aspirations of the two holidays, they also are connected historically both in the New Testament view of extending the older prophetic vision, and sharing in its heritage.

"I have earnestly desired to eat this Passover with you before I suffer," Jesus said as he reclined with his apostles at his last supper, a Jewish Seder, before his crucifixion.

Re-enacting that supper became for Christians their central act of worship, Holy Communion, in which Christ still is regarded present with them, the guarantor that life finally wins despite the travail.

"Abide in me, and I in you," he said. "In the world you have tribulation, but be of good cheer, I have overcome the world."

The Jewish celebration of Passover strikes similar notes of persistence, hope and ultimate victory over the destructive forces of the world.

It "points the way to the future," says Maynard I. Wishner, president of the American Jewish Committee, to a time of "cosmic liberation" when, as symbolized in Scripture, "the wolf shall dwell with the lamb," when "the dry bones" of those "thought to be utterly destroyed by the wicked will live again."

Passover is seen as foretokening that dream, a sign of God's endless caring for humanity. Other such signs also are seen, including the choosing of Abraham's people, the giving of the Ten Commandments, the prophets.

Christians, too, affirm those revelations, but see Jesus as the capstone of them, "our Passover."

"The Lord is my strength and my song, and he has become my salvation," goes the old song of exultation after the Jewish escape from bondage in Egypt. "Thou has led in thy steadfast love the people whom thou hast redeemed."

"Christ," the Apostle Paul wrote, "has set us free."

Arrest 5 Men In Arson Probe

CLEVELAND (AP) — FBI agents investigating an arson-for-profit scheme say they have arrested five men on charges ranging from mail fraud to aggravated arson and will continue their investigation.

The arrests of four men in Cleveland and one in Puerto Rico stemmed from a three-year investigation, FBI special agent Joseph E. Griffin said Thursday. He said the indictments on which they were arrested concern 22 fires that caused $300,000 in property damage.

He said the alleged scheme involved "purchase of property at low rates and the insuring of this property at inflated rates, the hiring of arsonists and collecting insurance."

AWAIT INVESTIGATION

TOKYO (AP) — The submarine USS George Washington has returned to its home port in Guam, where a Navy investigator will question the crew about the collision at sea last week that resulted in the sinking of a Japanese freighter and the loss of two Japanese sailors.

Correction

The rider of the motorcycle in the picture in Thursday's edition was incorrectly identified to the paper by the 4-H office as Scott Ewell. The young man in the picture was Willie Gay Jr., winner of the overall junior division and "niftiest rider" award at the 4-H Motorcycle Rodeo.

Carrying Cross Of 'Concern'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Carrying a cross, several Protestant religious leaders are staging "Way of Suffering" processions about the Capitol this Friday to dramatize concern for the people of El Salvador and to oppose U.S. military aid to the ruling junta there.

Officials of about 10 denominations were listed as participants.

The Rev. Arie Brouwer, general secretary of the Reformed Church in America, says that "our government, with its focus on an alleged geo-political conflict, is ignoring" the suffering of El Salvador's people.

After a march to the White House, the group also set an assembly across the street in Lafayette Park for prayers and speeches, with Roman Catholic participants, and further processions to the U.S. State Department and various international office buildings.

Accidents Kill 1,000 More

CHICAGO (AP) — One thousand more Americans died in accidents during 1980 than in 1979, according to the National Safety Council.

Accidents in homes, workplaces and traffic accidents claimed 106,000 lives last year, the council said Thursday.

Work-related deaths dropped 300, to 13,000; traffic deaths rose from 52,800 to 53,500; and home deaths rose from 22,000 to 23,000.

Bucs Rebound, Take Pair From VMI

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

It's been a long, long season for the Keydets of Virginia Military Institute, and last night's visit to East Carolina University didn't do much for the Keydet ego.

East Carolina snapped a two-game winning streak, downing the VMI team, 14-3 in the first game, then coming back to win 6-3 in the second.

The double loss dropped the Keydets to an embarrassing 1-23 record — oddly enough that is their historical mark against East Carolina. The Pirates boosted their record to 20-9 with the wins.

Coach Hal Baird wasn't at all pleased with the defensive effort in the first game, that saw five Pirate errors, three of them on catcher Fran Fitzgerald. In the second game, the Pirates played a little better, but still had trouble in the backstop position, as Jay Carraway committed two misplays.

Fitzgerald helped make up for some of his defensive performance by having a hot bat. He hit two homers, accounting for five of the 14 runs.

Todd Evans and Robert Wells joined Fitzgerald in having two hits in the first game. Mike Sage had two hits in the second game to lead that contest's hitting.

"That first game was about as shakey as we can play," Baird said. "In the second, however, we did a pretty good job. We got a good pitching effort from Mike Lloyd and hit the ball pretty well in both games."

Lloyd, who went six of the seven frames in the second game, allowed four hits and struck out five. Baird gave Charlie Smith a look in the seventh inning, but Kirk Parsons had to come in and put out a late fire, earning a save.

Robbie Harper took the win in the opening game, going the distance, allowing five hits and striking out four.

East Carolina got all it needed in the first game in the first inning, scoring four times. Mike Sorrell walked with one down and moved up on a wild pitch. He scored on Todd Evans' single to center. Evans went all the way around on an error on the play.

With two away, John Hallow singled and Todd Hendley singled. Hallow scored on a wild pitch, and after Charlie Smith walked, two more wild pitches brought Hendley over.

VMI rallied for two in the top of the second. John Friend singled and Scott Gines homered.

The Pirates got one back in the second. Sorrell reached on a two-base error and moved to third on a wild pitch. He scored on Sage's sacrifice fly.

The fourth saw the Pirates put it away with seven runs. Hendley led off with a walk and Smith also got a free pass. Fitzgerald then hit his first homer.

Wells kept it going with a single and Kelly Robinette walked, as did Sorrell, loaing the bases. Todd Evans hit into a fielder's choice, scoring Wells, but getting Robinette at third. Hallow reached on an error, scoring Sorrell. Hendley doubled in Evans and Hallow.

The other two came in the sixth. Smith singled and Fitzgerald got his second homer.

VMI's other run came in the fifth. Steve Hiller reached on an error, stole second and moved to third on an error. He scored on Rob Holmes' sacrifice fly.

VMI grabbed an early lead in the top of the first inning in the second game. Sam Motley singled and stole second. He took third on an out. Friend walked and a double steal brought Motley in.

East Carolina quickly came back to score three times in the bottom of the first. Mark Shank led off with a single and Hallow was hit by a pitch. Evans singled to load them up, and Sage singled in two runs. Hendley reached on a fielder's choice, scoring Evans with the third run.

The fourth saw another run come over. Hendley singled and moved up on a wild pitch and an error. He scored on a fielder's choice by Pete Persico.

The final two came in the fifth. Hallow opened up with a homer to right. Sorrell reached on an infield hit, moving up on an out and a single by Sage. Sage then allowed himself to be caught in a rundown as Sorrell went home.

VMI rallied for two in the bottom of the seventh. Rob Preddy doubled, but injured a leg sliding into second, and Jeff Levenson ran for him. Gines walked, but was out at second on Hiller's grounder. A double steal again scored a run, with Levenson coming in. Kenny Burgess walked as did Ronnie Bowden. Holmes hit into a fielder's choice, getting Hiller at home, but an error on the relay to first let Burgess score. A fly out then ended the inning.

East Carolina returns to action tonight at 7 p.m., hosting Baptist College in a doubleheader.

Peartree To ECU

East Carolina University basketball coach Dave Odom announced the signing of Pantego High School guard Bruce Peartree this morning to a grant-in-aid.

The 6-0, 165-pound all-conference, all-East, all-State performer led Pantego to back-to-back state 1-A titles. This year's team finished the season with a perfect 32-0 mark.

Peartree averaged 15.6 points, 11 assists and six rebounds as a senior.

"Bruce combines excellent athletic talents and ball skills with great court savey. Obviously, Bruce is a product of his environment. Coming from Pantego High School and being schooled by coach Al Baker has provided Bruce with great fundamentals to be a team basketball player," Odom said.

The signing of Peartree concludes the recruiting for East Carolina this year.

Previous signees include 6-10 freshman David Reichenecker of Niceville, Fla.; and junior college transfers 6-7 Charles Green of Catonsville Community College and 6-9 Al Mack of Hilbert College.

From 1941 into the 1943 baseball season, outfielder Danny Litwhiler of the Philadelphia Phillies handled 426 chances without an error.

In eight years of competitive tennis, from 1919 through 1926, Suzanne Lenglen of France lost only one tournament match.

Rose Tops Hunt, Ties For First

By RICK SCOPPE
Reflector Sports Writer

WILSON — Greenville Rose turned a supposedly difficult test into another in a long line of easy victories last night at Fleming Stadium.

The Rampants figured to be tested Thursday evening when they walked onto the field to battle Wilson Hunt. After all, Hunt entered the game 5-0 in Division I Conference play and had won eight straight games after losing their first three of the year.

It was not a fair test. The Rampants battered, bruised and buried the Warriors and when the evening was over had left town with a 12-5 victory and a share of first place in the league — thanks to Wilson Fike's 5-2 win over Northern Nash earlier Thursday.

The win leaves the Rampants at 5-1 in the league (11-1 overall) and tied with Hunt and the Knights for first. Both Hunt and Northern Nash must still travel to Greenville to play the Rampants.

"We couldn't hope to be in a better position than tied for first place right now," Greenville Rose coach Ronald Vincent said. "I'm just glad that we were able to get out of here with this win. I really thought that if we got four or five runs we'd win it."

The Rampants got that and more last night as the Rampants scored in all but the seventh inning. Rose banged out 12 hits against three Warrior pitchers, led by shortstop Mark Douglas, who had three hits including a double. Coming into the game, Douglas had four straight hits and he extended that streak to seven before a fielder's choice in the fifth. Mont Carter and Bill Kittrell each had two hits for Rose. Both Kittrell's hits were triples.

The evening's only negative note for the Rampants came when right-hander Roger Williams gave up his first earned run of the season.

Williams, who entered the game having not given up an earned run in 30 innings this season, saw his string ended abruptly in the bottom of the first when Charles Simpson hit a 345-foot home run over the left field fence.

In all, Williams gave up five runs, three of which were earned, en route to his sixth decision in as many starts this season. Williams, who now has a 0.59 ERA, allowed five hits, struck out eight and walked five.

"Roger pitched well," Vincent said. "It's tough to pitch that well, though, when you have to groove it in there like he had to tonight."

Implied, if not stated, in his statement was Vincent's displeasure with the umpiring behind the plate. Williams' displeasure was more obvious when, after the third inning, he stormed around the dugout complaining of the umpiring.

"Everything considered, he threw the ball well," Vincent said. "They hit the ball. I think Hunt's the best team we've played this year."

The Rampants also have a fairly good team and did not wait long in showing the Warriors just how good. Rose led 3-1 after the first and 8-1 after the fourth. The Rampants added two more runs to their total in both the fifth and sixth.

Carter and Douglas singled to open the game and when Mitch Brann walked the Rampants had the bases loaded with no outs. Emmett Walsh then walked on four straight pitches from Hunt starter David Pope to force home Carter. Roger Williams' sacrifice fly to center scored Douglas and Kenny Barnes fielder's choice brought home Brann and gave Rose a 3-0 lead.

Simpson's home run in the bottom of the inning made it 3-1 but Rose regained that run in the second when Kittrell scored on Douglas' double. Kittrell had led off the innig with a triple, a 400-foot shot that would have been a home run in most parks but not Fleming Stadium, which is 440-feet to dead center and 330 down the lines.

After Hunt left two stranded in the bottom of the second, Rose pushed across another run in the third. Williams singled with one gone and then Tom Buie, running for Williams, stole second and continued to third when the throw went into centerfield. He scored on Gordon Douglas' single to give Rose a 5-1 lead.

The Rampants then put the game away in the fourth. Carter walked to lead off the inning to chase Pope. Mark Douglas hit the first pitch reliever Melvin Johnson threw for a single, which moved Carter to third. Walsh then singled home both Carter and Pope and Barnes' triple brought home Sammy Hodges, who was running for Walsh, and the Rampants led, 8-1.

Hunt loaded the bases with two gone in the bottom of the fourth but failed to score when Gordon Douglas squeezed a foul popup to end the inning.

The Rampant led went to 10-1 in the fifth when Carter scored on Mark Douglas' fielder's choice and Douglas came home on Billy Dough's single. Rose's other two runs came on inning later. Buie, running for Williams, who had reached on an error to open the inning, scored on Kittrell's triple. Kittrell later scored on an error.

Hunt managed one run in the fifth, two in the sixth and one in the seventh, a 340-foot home run with two gone by Andy Jones, for its five-run total. Only one other team has scored more runs against the Rampants — Northern Nash.

The Rampants have now given up 16 runs (nine earned) in 11 games, an average of just under 1.5 a game. Rose, meanwhile, is averaging just over 14 hits and 13 runs a game and sports a .386 team batting average.

Rose takes a break from conference play next week when the Rampants host to Rose-Pitt Country baseball tournament. The Rampants open play against Williamston Wednesday (5 p.m.).

Bear Grass Rips Aurora

BEAR GRASS — Bear Grass gained a 4-0 Tobacco Belt Conference baseball victory over Aurora yesterday, raising its record to 10-2.

The Bears pushed over one run in the first inning. Jody Peaks doubled and Walter Bullock reached on an error, allowing Peaks to score.

Bear Grass came back in the fourth to score three more times. Peaks reached on an error, as did Tony Leggett. Bullock grounded into a fielder's choice, scoring Peaks, but getting Leggett. Bob Peele singled, and William Roberson's sacrifice fly scored Bullock. Clay Gardner then doubled in Peele.

Gardner led the Bear Grass hitting with four, three of them doubles. No one else on either team had more than one hit.

Bear Grass returns to action on April 28, traveling to Bath.

Baseball Finances: Is Pay TV Ahead?

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Sports Writer

Baseball has a superstar more important than George Brett or Dave Winfield. It is television, pay and cable.

"Pay TV is the future of baseball," said Buzzie Bavasi, executive vice president of the California Angels.

While the National Football League has a $656 million network TV contract, the money in baseball is not in national games but in getting viewers to pay for the locally televised games they see free.

"The bottom line down the road is a pay-for-play kind of thing, an event fee," said Eddie Einhorn, a former executive at CBS who recently became one of the owners of the Chicago White Sox. "You're going to pay $2 a game to stay at home."

If 100,000 fans in the Chicago area pay $2 to watch each of the White Sox' 81 home games, then you're talking $16 million a year. These are the kinds of figures that induced basketball's Seattle SuperSonics to put their games on pay TV (more than half the homes in Seattle are outfitted with cable) and charge a $120 subscription fee per season.

That breaks down to $1.33 per game.

Tom Villante, baseball's director of broadcasting, says the big payoff will come when a collection system can be devised by which viewers would pay only for the events they want, rather than by the season. "This is the purest form of expanding your box office. Potentially, everybody in the market place could be tuning in."

Many officials in baseball and broadcasting feel that pay TV, as a revenue-producer, is the answer to rising salaries and costs. They feel free TV has gone about as far as it can go as a money-maker.

Local broadcast packages range from Kansas City's $500,000 to Montreal's $6.3 million. The champion Phillies, whose rights sold for $4 million this year, once received $600,000 from their broadcaster, WPHL, to help them sign Pete Rose. But the cost of these local rights hinge on advertising revenues, which fluctuate little and will never make the quantum jump that pay TV is expected to provide immediately.

Network TV isn't the answer. Each baseball team receives $1.8 million annually from deals with ABC and NBC. National baseball just doesn't create the interest and revenue that network football does.

There is no local TV in the NFL, but each club receives $5.2 million a year from the networks before the opening kickoff. The TV revenues are shared equally, whether the club is the Super Bowl champion Oakland Raiders or the New Orleans Saints, who were 1-15 last year.

The have-nots in baseball want revenue sharing, but don't count on it. George Steinbrenner gets some $5 million from local TV because he owns the Yankees, who happen to play in media-land in New York. It's unlikely he'll want to share it with his competitors just because they have the misfortune of playing in smaller broadcast markets.

"We in management are united by our problems and divided by our solutions," said Frank Cashen, general manager of the New York Mets. "Each club sees itself as a special case."

Cashen points out that the Mets and Baltimore Orioles were both sold recently. The Mets changed hands for $21.1 million, while the Orioles went for $10 million.

However, one enterprising owner has turned his local market into the entire United States. Ted Turner, owner of the Atlanta Braves, rescued the floundering franchise in 1976 for the expressed purpose of putting the Braves games on his Atlanta TV station, WTBS.

WTBS was the first of the superstations, which have their programming beamed by satellite and picked up by cable systems across America. Other superstations are WGN in Chicago, carriers of the Cubs and the White Sox, and WOR in New York, TV home of the Mets.

WTBS doesn't get paid by the cable systems that pick up the Braves' games, but Turner doesn't care. He can charge his WTBS advertisers four times the going local rate because their products are being pitched far beyond Atlanta, potentially reaching 11 million homes.

William C. Bevins, vice president of finance for Turner Broadcasting, said the team has recouped some of its $8 million-plus losses over the last three years through the Braves' TV revenues. Bevins calls the team "a very valuable piece of programming."

Chet Simmons, president of ESPN, the all-sports cable network, points out that cable systems may attract subscribers because they're carrying Atlanta baseball, and more subscribers mean more potential viewers for WTBS' programs and commercials.

Budweiser commercials are on nearly every local baseball station, but they get wider exposure on WTBS.

"A place like Idaho can watch the Braves," said Mike Trager, who handles the Anheuser-Busch account for the D'Arcy McManus adverising agency. "So we pay a lot more for the national exposure. And if the Braves are contenders this year, we sure want to be there."

Turner is one of a host of entrepreneurs who are parlaying sports and TV into a financial empire. Gene Autry, owner of the California Angels, has interests in radio, cable TV and over-the-air TV. Jerry Buss of the Los Angeles Lakers is involved in pay TV and entertainment programming. Ed Snider of the Philadelphia Flyers has his hands in the entertainment programming area and cable TV.

When Einhorn took over the White Sox this year, he inherited a cable TV deal with Cablevision. Plans were for the White Sox home games to be broadcast exclusively on cable. It would be the first time that none of a major league baseball team's home games would be on free TV. Einhorn hopes to go to a pay-for-view system next year.

"The idea is eventually to get the maximum dollar out of pay television," Einhorn said. "Last year, the (Philadelphia) Phillies drew about the maximum that you can draw and still didn't make any kind of money. How many teams are going to draw close to 3 million people? Maybe two out of 26?

"So you can't just depend on the money coming into the stadium. I mean, if you can't make it selling close to 3 million tickets and you can't raise the price of tickets, obviously every pro franchise is going to go broke unless they do something about it."

Bullets Slip Past Manteo

MANTEO — Jamesville picked up a 5-2 victory over Manteo yesterday, raising its record to 10-2 in Tobacco Belt Conference play.

Jamesville picked up its first run in the first inning. Clarence Thomas singled and stole second. He was sacrificed to third and scored on Carl Ange's sacrifice fly.

In the second inning, however, Manteo came up with a run to tie it up. Hank Beasley singled and Stanley Midgette got a hit. Eddie Chabay singled, loading them up. Danny Midgette then reached on an error, scoring Beasley.

In the third, Jamesville came up with two more runs, taking a 3-1 lead. Rex Bell was safe on an error, stole second and took third on an out. He scored when Greg Sullivan struck out, but reached second when the catcher dropped the ball, then overthrew first. Keith Waters then singled in Sullivan.

Jamesville added two more in the sixth, while Manteo got one in the inning.

Keith Waters led Jamesville with three hits, while Sullivan and Thomas each had two. Chabay had two hits to lead Manteo.

Jamesville is now 10-2 on the year.

SNAPPER HI-VAC™ RIDERS GET YOU MOWING BEFORE THE DEW DRIES OUT.
The "high vacuum" action of your SNAPPER Hi-Vac™ rider lets you mow during high moisture conditions. The power will give you a jump on your chores as your SNAPPER vacuums cuttings, leaves and litter into an optional 6 bu. catcher or trailing 30 bu. Bag-N-Wagon. The floating cutting unit gives you a smooth even cut and minimizes scalping and damage. Cutting height and speed can also be adjusted while on-the-go. And, tight spots are no problem when you have immediate response steering.
SNAPPER mowers are worth more because they do more and their price is competitive with other quality mowers.

Life At 40 Quite Fine For Pete Rose

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Life at 40 is treating Pete Rose just fine these days.

Rose belted two doubles and a single Thursday night while Mike Schmidt drilled a solo homer as the Philadelphia Phillies beat Pittsburgh 5-3 to sweep a three-game series from the Pirates.

The Montreal Expos blanked the Chicago Cubs 7-0 and the St: Louis Cardinals topped the New York Mets 5-1 in the only other National League games.

Rose, who turned 40 on Tuesday, has 13 hits (including five doubles) in 26 at-bats this season. He needs 61 hits to set the all-time NL hit record, now held by Stan Musial with 3,630.

"I think it's my best hitting start ever," said Rose, playing his 19th season. "It might seem impossible, but I think I might swing the bat even better in the next weeks."

Phillies Manager Dallas Green isn't so amazed. "Pete had a good stroke when I pitched to him. He hit home runs off of me," said Green, a pitcher for Philadelphia in the 1960s. "He's got one thing on his mind right now and with the way he's going, he might set the record before May 29," the day the players say they may strike.

Pirates Manager Chuck Tanner, meanwhile, isn't too worried about his team's slow start.

"We came in here and hit the ball hard at people. Pretty soon they'll start falling in," said Tanner, who noted his 1979 world championship team also got off to a 1-4 start.

Dick Ruthven, 2-0, had a shaky first inning. Pittsburgh leadoff hitter Omar Moreno reached on an error, stole second and dashed home on Jason Thompson's single. Pirates sparkplug Bill Madlock, who collects fine wines in his spare time, collected a fine hit — one of his three — after a Mike Easler single to make it 2-0.

Ruthven then mixed his pitches well until Tug McGraw retired the Pirates in order in the ninth to gain his first save. It was the 700th game for McGraw, one of only 18 pitchers to make that many appearances.

Schmidt's second homer of the season cut the Bucs' lead to 2-1 in the second. Rose doubled home a run in the third and, moments later, slid past catcher Steve Nicosia on Luis Aguayo's hit to put the Phillies ahead 3-2.

Singles by Gary Matthews and Garry Maddox — who had three hits — opened the Philadelphia fourth against loser Don Robinson. Matthews scored when Nicosia fielded Larry Bowa's bunt single and threw wildly past third.

Pittsburgh pinch-hitter Willie Stargell's RBI single made it 4-3 in the seventh. It was only the second at-bat this season for the veteran slugger, who says it might be another week or two before he recovers from a lingering injury. Maddox's two-out triple and a wild pitch by Pirates reliever Eddie Solomon in the eighth ended the scoring.

Expos 7, Cubs 0

Scott Sanderson used to be able to count his RBIs on one hand. "I don't think I ever had four in a season, let alone in one game," he said after his batting prowess — a run-scoring double in the second inning and a three-run double in the fifth — powered Montreal past the Cubs.

Sanderson was more than correct. Going into this season, he had two RBIs in his entire big-league career.

"Just because I got two hits today doesn't mean I'm going to continue that way for the rest of the year," he said. "But if I can keep on working at it, my hitting might help us win a few extra games."

The Expos will be very happy, thank you, if he continues to pitch the way he did for the rest of the year. In six shutout innings, he silenced Chicago on five hits.

He hadn't pitched since a March 25 exhibition game because of shoulder problems. "The shoulder felt fine," he said reaassuringly. "I was gettting a little tired, not so much my arm but my body. After all, it had been close to a month since I last pitched."

Cardinals 5, Mets 1

Keith Hernandez and George Hendrick hit two-run homers and Darrell Porter contributed a solo blast while Bruce Sutter chalked up his second save with 22-3 innings of one-hit relief for St. Louis against the Mets.

The homer was Porter's first in the NL after eight seasons in the American League. He hasn't found the transition difficult. "Baseball is baseball where ever it is played," he said. "The distance is still 60 feet, 6 inches to the plate and you do the best you can."

Chargers Nip Jaguars, 7-6

LITTLEFIELD — Tyrone Gay was rocked early but emerged with 16 strike outs and Ayden-Grifton scored six runs with two outs in the second to edge Farmville Central, 7-6, Thursday night in an Eastern Carolina Conference baseball game.

Gay, now 6-1 this season (6-0 against ECC opponents), walked three, including the first batter he faced, and gave up four earned runs, including two solo home runs.

The Jaguars led 2-1 after the first inning before the Chargers took the lead with six runs in the second. Farmville battled back with two runs in the third and single runs in the fourth and fifth but could not quite catch A-G.

Farmville's Greg Hardison led off the first with a walk and moved to second when Bobby Avery reached on an error. Both runners moved up a base after a wild pitch. Hardison scored on Mike Tugwell's bunt and Avery came home on a wild pitch.

The Chargers, trailing 2-1 going into the second, took the lead for good in the bottom of the second. Doug Coley singled and moved to third on Chris Strickland's double. Bernard Ricciarelli then reached on an error, scoring Coley.

Terry Locust walked to load the bases and Chuck Smithwick followed with a single to score Strickland and Ricciarelli. Locust then moved to third on a passed ball and scored on a wild pitch.

After Gay walked, Smithwick went to third on a passed ball and scored on Art Rouse's single.

Hardison's solo home run in the third and Joey Steppe's double to score Avery, who doubled to lead off the inning, cut the deficit to 7-4. The Jaguars chopped the lead to two with a run in the fourth and to one with Jeff Moore' solo home run in the fifth but could not get any closer.

Farmville Central returns to action Wednesday in the Rose-Pitt County Baseball Tournament. The Jaguars meet Kinston at 2:30. Ayden-Grifton plays Chapel Hill Saturday in the Wilson Breakfast Optimist Tournament.

Hill Tied For Lead

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — It's been more than two years since Cindy Hill last won a tournament on the LPGA tour.

Still, she was not overjoyed about being tied for the lead after one round of the $100,000 Florida Lady Citrus tournament.

"It's too early to get excited about being in the lead," Hill said Thursday after she, Beth Daniel and rookie Kyle O'Brien fired four-under-par 68s to share a two-stroke lead on the 6,138-yard Rio Pinar Country Club course.

"In the 1973 U.S. Open in Rochester, I led after the first round with a 68 and shot 79 the next day," Hill continued. "I learned something from that."

Daniel, the LPGA's Player of the Year in 1980 when she set an earnings record with $231,000, has yet to win this season. And O'Brien, a graduate of Southern Methodist University who will celebrate her 23rd birthday next month, has done no better than a tie for 30th in her first tour season.

"I've been ready to win all year," said Daniel. "But that's something you can't control and it just hasn't happened yet."

Daniel shrugged off suggestions that she is having a bad season.

Panthers Top Vikes

BETHEL — Jerry Simpson's suicide squeeze bunt in the bottom of the seventh inning scored Ronnie House with the wining run and gave North Pitt a 5-4 victory over D.H. Conley Thursday afternoon in an Eastern Carolina Conference baseball game.

The loss, which ended a three-game DHC winning streak, dealt a severe blow to the Vikings' hopes of battling for the ECC championship. Conley is now 6-4 in the league (6-7 overall), three games back of league-leader Ayden-Grifton with only six conference games remaining.

North Pitt, meanwhile, pushed its record to 7-7 overall and 5-6 in the league.

"When you play ball like we did yesterday you're going to win some games," North Pitt coach Pat Smith said. "We've been in three striaght one-run games and had lost two. It was about time we won one."

And win the Panthers did — but not before seeing the Vikings tie the game in the top of the seventh. Emory Vines opened the inning with a single and then stole second. He moved to third on a ground out and scored on Jeff Cox's single to knot the game at 4-4.

The Panthers, however, won it in the bottom of the seventh. House walked and raced to third on Bob Hemingway's sacrifice bunt. Simpson, who was three for four at the plate yesterday, then put down a squeeze bunt to score House with the winning run.

D.H. Conley had jumped out to a 3-0 lead in the first inning and held that lead until the bottom of the fourth when the Panthers pushed across four runs to take the lead.

Gregory Briley, Quintin Dove and House all walked to lead off the inning. Briley scored on Hemingway's ground out. Simpson then singled to score Dove and House to tie the game at 3-3. After Simpson went to second on a passed ball, Mike Brown singled to score his teammate and the Panthers led, 4-3.

North Pitt returns to action Wednesday at noon when the Panthers play New Bern in the Rose-Pitt County Baseball Tournament. D.H. Conley opens tournament play Wednesday at 7:30 against Washington.

Rose Nips Farmville

FARMVILLE — Rose High School's golfers, who suffered their first dual meet loss in over 120 matches last time out, just did scrape past Farmville Central yesterday. The Rampants finished with 313 strokes, while the Jaguars had a 315 score.

Rose, now 19-1 on the year, was led by Jack Mann with a 36-37—73. Tom Brewer added a 37-38—75, while Scott Wilson had 39-41—80 and Brian Hill had 38-47—85.

Three Farmville golfers carded 78's, including Gary Hobgood (39-39), Jeff Cutler (38-40) and Alan Wooten (41-37). Bert Warren rounded out the team with a 39-42—81.

Rose returns to action on Monday, April 27, hosting the other Division I schools, while Farmville entertains the Eastern Carolina Conference members the same day.

Blount Wins Putt Tourney

John Blount, with a five-under-par second round, won the Thursday Night Amateur Tournament at the Greenville Putt-Putt last night.

Don Lewis was four strokes off the pace with a two-under-par 70. Bobby Beacham came in third with a 76 as the high windy conditions kept most scores high.

Oakland Takes Eighth In Row

By The Associated Press

"I'm getting pretty tired of this 'Billy Ball' stuff," says Billy Martin, manager of the Oakland A's.

It's become the buzzword of the American League this season. What it means is heads-up, go-for-broke ball. And has it ever worked so far!

The unbeaten A's 5-1 victory Thursday night over California was their eighth. That's one short of the team's longest winning streak since it arrived in Oakland in 1968 and two short of the modern-day major-league record for victories at the start of the season.

So what could be bugging Mr. Martin?

"Billy Ball?" the Oakland manager — and director of player development — snorted. "I'd rather have it called A's ball. It's the same way we are playing in the minor leagues."

And that's the way he hopes the A's will be playing tonight, when they play their home opener against Seattle. They'll find a most remarkable sight — the first full-priced sellout in the Oakland-Alameda County Coliseum since the 1975 World Series.

"We are bringing the baseball fan out of the closet," said Martin. "It's just great. I never thought we'd get a sweep in Anaheim. I didn't think we would sweep four in Minnesota, either.

"That's what makes baseball such a great game."

In the only other AL games, Cleveland beat Milwaukee 1-0 and Detroit defeated Toronto 2-0.

Matt Keough, who pitched a five-hitter for his second complete game (and Oakland's seventh of the season), said the A's goal this year is "to prove that last year wasn't a fluke." That's when Martin, in his first year as Oakland's manager, guided the A's to a second-place finish in the West.

"The key to our success," Keough said, "is that everyone is forgetting about statistics and trying to fulfill the role that Billy and the coaches have drawn up for us. If we keep that as our top priority, we'll be all right."

Keough gave up a first-inning run on Fred Lynn's single, Oakland tied it in the fourth on Wayne Gross' single, then the A's broke it open with three runs in the sixth off rookie Mike Witt.

Rickey Henderson singled, Dwayne Murphy beat out a bunt, then Henderson scored when first baseman Rod Carew fielded Dave Revering's grounder and fired it wildly past second. Gross' grounder to Carew moved Revering to second — Murphy held third on the play — and both runners scored when Tony Armas doubled down the left field line.

Indians 1, Brewers 0

Just how far back Cleveland pitcher Wayne Garland has come since shoulder surgery three years ago is a matter of debate.

"He pitched nine innings and won 1-0," Milwaukee Manager Buck Rodgers said after Garland, in his first appearance of 1981, spun a six-hitter. "That's a pretty good indication he's back . .. He kept us off-balance and had us popping up or beating the ball into the ground."

But Garland cautioned: "I'm not going to say I'm all the way back yet. I've had too many ups and downs the last few years to say everything's fine."

Five years ago, when he played out the option year of his contract with Baltimore, he was 20-7. Since joining the Indians in 1977 he's 25-41.

Bo Diaz got him started on the right foot this year with an RBI double to right-center in the second inning after Mike Caldwell had walked Toby Harrah.

Tigers 2, Blue Jays 0

While Garland was throwing 86 pitches, 64 of them for strikes, Milt Wilcox was throwing the ball all over the place for Detroit — but he and relievers Kevin Saucier and Aurelio Lopez threw enough strikes to silence Toronto.

"I threw about 136 pitches and I think about 130 of them were balls," Wilcox said. "But I made the pitches when I had to and the guys in the bullpen came in and did the kind of job they're supposed to."

He allowed just three of Toronto's four hits and struck out six batters, but he walked seven, too. "Pretty bad," Wilcox said. "I can't remember walking that many batters in my career."

It was his second victory of the year. Each has come against Toronto and each time Dave Stieb has been the loser.

The run that burned Stieb this time came in the third inning when Rick Peters tripled and Alan Trammell doubled. The Tigers also scored in the fourth on Lou Whitaker's bases-loaded grounder.

EBA Wins Its Sixth

E.B. Aycock romped to a 10-0 victory over Wilson Fike Junior High School yesterday. The game was called after five innings.

Michael Kirby hurled the victory, striking out 13 batters.

Tubbie Fisher, Patrick Rand and Tony Taylor led the Aycock hitting with two, while Michael Walsh provided a home run.

Now 6-0, the Jaguars are idle until April 28 when they travel to Bertie.

CHICOD — Kevin Gray banged out three hits to lead Chicod past Snow Hill, 5-4, Thursday afternoon in a junior high baseball game. Snow Hill's girls' softball team easily defeated Chicod, 15-0.

Steve Mills got the win in the baseball game. Snow Hill was led by Stacey Chase with two hits.

In the softball game, Trenette Daniel and Antionette Welks both had three hits to lead Snow Hill.

Strange In T Of C Lead

RANCHO LA COSTA, Calif. (AP) — The last four holes at the La Costa Country Club measure exactly one mile and comprise one of the toughest finishing sets in golf.

"Usually, you can figure if you play them about one over you haven't lost any ground," Tom Watson said before opening defense of the title he has won the last two seasons in the $300,000 MONY-Tournament of Champions.

But Watson, who won the Masters last week, played those four holes 2 over par Thursday in the first round of the T of C and lost six shots to leader Curtis Strange.

"Just something that happened," shrugged the 26-year-old Strange, who became the first man in the history of the exclusive tournament to birdie all four of the finishing holes.

It completed a 6-under-par 66 that gave him a one-stroke lead over Lee Trevino and eight over Watson, who struggled to a 74 and then headed for the practice tee and a long workout.

Trevino, a four-time runnerup in this elite tournament that brings together only the winners of PGA Tour titles from the last 12 months, birdied three of the last four holes which he called "as good as any finishing holes I've ever played."

Bruce Lietzke, who finished second in this tournament the two previous times he's played here, had a 68 as Strange's partner in the cool, breezy weather. He was tied with Bill Rogers, also 4-under-par and only two strokes back in the chase for a $54,000 first prize.

"A fantastic finish," Lietzke said of Strange's closing burst. "Curtis wasn't playing all that well for the first 10 holes or so, then he put on an absolutely fantastic finish."

Tied at 69 were Canadian Dan Halldorson, Howard Twitty, Ray Floyd and Tom Kite.

Jack Nicklaus, who chased Watson to the Masters title last week, matched par 72.

"Nothing to write home about," he said. "I was playing pretty decently, had it 3-under-par after 12 holes, then couldn't finish the round. I drove it into the rough three times, couldn't get the ball on the green and made bogey."

Strange, 26, winner of two titles last year, also had some problems in the early going, but some excellent putting helped.

He dropped birdies putts of 20 and 30 feet on the frontside, made one bogey and saved par with a 20-footer.

He got to 2-under with another 20-foot putt, then soared into the lead with the brilliant burst over the last four holes.

Opening lead: Queen of ♡.

At rubber bridge, you should always make sure of your contract—other considerations are secondary. But man is greedy by nature, and West took advantage of this with a clever bit of deception to defeat a sound no trump game.

The auction was routine. Since South's hand was one point short of a two no trump opening bid, he opened the bidding with one club and then jumped to the no trump game over North's one diamond response. Despite his weak hand, North had no reason for further action—there were not enough values for a five-diamond contract, but his suit might be a source of tricks at no trump.

West led the queen of hearts and declarer correctly decided that this was not the hand for a holdup—the last thing he wanted was for the defenders to shift to clubs. There were six top tricks available, and the diamond suit was the obvious source for the three additional tricks. Since there was no entry to the dummy outside of the diamond suit, declarer intended letting one of the defenders win the second diamond trick to insure that he could run the suit even if it divided 3-1.

With this plan in mind, declarer led the king of diamonds and followed with the jack. Without batting an eyelid, West followed smoothly with the ten of diamonds!

Declarer fell hook, line and sinker. He reckoned that any defender with both the queen and ten of diamonds would cover the jack to make sure of a diamond trick. Therefore, it was only logical that East held the queen and that the whole suit was coming in. Blinded by the possibility of collecting overtricks, declarer rose with the ace of diamonds, and the roof fell in.

When East showed out on the second diamond, the diamond suit was dead. Declarer made use of his entry to dummy to take the spade finesse but that was only his seventh trick. He ended up down two.

Had West covered the jack with the queen, declarer would certainly have allowed him to win the trick to assure his contract. Thus, West is to be congratulated for his great defensive effort. We feel, though, that South was rather short-sighted to risk his vulnerable game for an overtrick or two.

Johnny Cash Aid State Fair

HURON, S.D. (AP) — Country and western singer Johnny Cash will lend a helping hand to the debt-plagued South Dakota State Fair, a fair official says.

Sheldon Songstad, chairman of the State Fair Commission, said Thursday that Cash will donate to the fair his share of the profits from two shows Sept. 6.

The gift could amount to $50,000, Songstad said.

"We need it and appreciate it very much," he said. "The fair has had its share of problems, but the new fair commission is working hard to turn things around."

Songstad said enough tickets have already been sold to cover expenses for Cash's appearance, and that additional ticket sales will be profit for the fair.

The 1981 state fair runs Sept. 2-7 in Huron.

Kaye's Gift To Children's Fund

THE HAGUE, Netherlands (AP) — Entertainer Danny Kaye, honored for raising millions for UNICEF, has given the United Nations Children's Fund an additional $17,000.

Kaye was presented Thursday with the Carnegie Foundation Wateler Peace Prize for his work on behalf of children and immediately turned over the prize money to the Dutch branch of UNICEF.

Foundation President J.H. Van Royen said the entertainer, who gave up much of his career to serve as a goodwill ambassador for UNICEF, had "raised millions of dollars" and "deepened the world consciousness with regard to the continuing distress of millions of children in the Third World."

"The reason I think I can relate to children is that I can be a child with them, because I'm uninhibited about behaving like a lunatic with a child," said Kaye, who has worked for UNICEF since 1953.

Actor's Mansion Is Up For Sale

NATCHEZ, Miss. (AP) — Looking for a Mississippi mansion? Got $1.2 million to spend?

If so, George Hamilton has the place for you.

The actor, who recently portrayed Dracula in "Love at First Bite," has placed the The Cedars, his 1828 plantation home, on the market.

Hamilton, along with his brother, Bill, restored the 16-room house to its antebellum authenticity.

'Tired Old Format' Nears End

By PETER J. BOYER
AP Television Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "It is clearly time," said Al Franken, in one of the infrequent successful routines of last week's "Saturday Night Live," "to put this tired old format to sleep."

Alas, Al Franken, you may be right.

The latest "new" "SNL" was meant to remind us of the old "SNL," the one that made us laugh and marvel at its daring efforts. But this new "SNL" resembled nothing so much as a dear, palsied old pet painfully trying to please with tricks long lost to it.

The faithful were willing to believe, and their belief was sustained at first when Chevy Chase appeared for the patented SNL "cold opening." Chevy ventured into his old dressing room, now supposedly a storage room filled with mementos of happier Saturday nights long gone — Conehead getups and the like. And who did Chevy find in the ash can? Old friend Mr. Bill, whose silly putty being was soon enough ripped asunder in a spectacular Chase pratfall. Classic.

And there were encouraging signs of life behind the eyes of some of the third-generation SNL players, especially Tim Kazurinsky, whose "I Married a Monkey" sketch displayed the spontaneity and free-flow absurdity viewers once expected from SNL.

But, oh, those tedious in-betweens, exemplified by Chase's marathon "Weekend Update" routine. Chevy picked his nose, Chevy did his Francisco Franco-is-still-dead gag, Chevy told sick jokes such as this:

"The war in El Salvador ended tonight when the last villager in the whole country was shot in the head."

Chevy did everything except make us laugh. He even exhumed his old lead-in, which is now only half-right:

"Good Evening, I'm Chevy Chase and you still aren't." No, we're not, but neither is he.

Dick Ebersol, the producer who helped develop the original SNL and who replaced Jean Doumanian (who rode helm over the show's utter demise this season), says the presence of Chase and Franken and Mr. Bill was not a nostalgia trip so much as a comfort for the SNL audience "which has been bashed around enough already."

Ebersol's idea was to establish a link to the glorious past in last week's show, giving about 25 percent of the time to old-timers. That's why the new cast members were scarcely present. This Saturday, when Dan Aykroyd was to have been the guest host, "we were going to give nostalgia about 10-15 percent," he says. "By show five, we were going to be all on our own."

A nice thought, but warm connections are no replacement for funny material. Anyway, Aykroyd's visit — indeed, the rest of the season, likely — was scotched by the writers' strike, which sent the 17 SNL writers scurrying out of the NBC Building at 5 a.m. last Saturday.

Ebersol says that at least half the show is usually altered between dress rehearsal and air, a process that had to be skipped last week. That may explain the ragged edges. Also, Ebersol only had four weeks to assemble the latest new SNL.

He and Michael O'Donoghue — a returning force from the original show — are hoping for one last chance from NBC.

"Give me three or four months with Michael to build a staff," Ebersol says. "If we come back in September, we'll have all the writers we want. We'll have time to do our show."

NBC has at least a month, when network executives face an affiliates convention, to make a decision on the show. It may be easier to give SNL another try if indeed, as Ebersol claims, the advertising sales are up on the show amid all the publicity over its reconstruction.

Ebersol's new troupe showed promise, to be sure. But then, as Franken said, "no English-speaking person could do worse than Jean (Doumanian) did."

Anyway, the IDEA of "Saturday Night Live," with its free rein to young, very creative writers, is too rare a thing to kill just yet. The worst of any of the three renderings of SNL is better, in terms of its reach alone, than most prime time network comedy.

"Saturday Night Live," battling its own ghosts and imitators, can't ever be unique again. But you never know — it might be funny again. That would do.

Predict More Racial Violence Awaiting Britain

THE MORNING AFTER — A youth leans on his bicycle as he watches a fireman spray the smouldering debris of a building gutted by fire during the recent rioting in the Brixton section of London. (AP Laserphoto)

(EDITOR'S NOTE — Britain's simmering racial problem has boiled over again into rioting and leaders of non-white groups are predicting that the worst is yet to come. Here is a report on what lies behind it all.)

By ED BLANCHE
Associated Press Writer

LONDON (AP) — "Make no mistake, black people are here to stay," said radical black leader Darcus Howe. "History has placed a lot of us in circumstances that are unhealthy and barbaric. We have to stand firm.

"There's going to be a lot of social explosion as this society wrenches itself out of its racialist postures."

Howe, a 38-year-old West Indian and editor of Race Today, echoed the sentiments of many of Britain's young non-whites who claim they are trapped in a web of discrimination, unemployment and mounting white hostility — with nowhere else to go.

The black slum in the center of Brixton, an impoverished south London district, exploded last weekend into four nights of fierce rioting by young blacks hurling bottled-gasoline bombs and paving stones at police.

More than 200 people were reported injured, most of them white police officers. Scotland Yard said 207 rioters, virtually all of them young non-whites, were arrested.

It was the worst racial eruption in this country since large-scale non-white immigration to Britain began in 1948 when people from the Commonwealth countries of Asia, Africa and the West Indies started flights from political, social and economic disorders in their homelands.

The fighting and the bitterness that caused the rioting underlined the non-integration of the nation's 1.9 million non-whites, 40 percent of them born in Britain, into the mainstream of British life. Britain's population is 56 million.

The Battle of Brixton, and the sight of London policemen, their faces dripping blood, charging into mobs of rioters brought the state of Britain's race relations into vivid focus.

Britain has suffered periodic racial outbursts, but nothing on the scale or ferocity of the race riots that swept U.S. cities in the 1960s.

But as racial violence spreads to urban areas until recently untouched by trouble, Britons are beginning to wonder if it does not carry echoes of America's long hot summers.

Non-white leaders and community relations officials have cited police harassment, unemployment, poor social conditions and racial discrimination as the root causes of the Brixton violence.

Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher has denounced the rioters as "criminals" and not people who claim they acted out of frustration and anger and in the belief that by rioting they would demonstrate to whites that something is seriously wrong with Britain's race relations.

David Lane, chairman of the state-funded Commission for Racial Equality, recently urged Mrs. Thatcher's Conservative government to do more to stamp out racism as Britain's economic squeeze and the scramble for jobs heightened the sense of alienation among non-whites.

"The government has not done enough," he declared. "We'd like senior (Cabinet) ministers to speak out against discrimination, to show they mean business."

Courtney Laws, a West Indian community leader in Brixton, said after the riots there: "It needs this sort of explosion to awaken the authorities and make them think about doing something."

The government has ordered Lord Scarman, a leading appeal judge and a human rights advocate, to investigate the causes of the riots. But few non-white leaders believe it signals any dramatic change in official or public attitudes to what they term "a timebomb ticking away."

Most of the non-whites who came in 1948 took menial jobs that whites no longer wanted — working on the subway, cleaning offices and sweeping streets. Many Asians opened neighborhood stores or took low-paid jobs in textile mills and factories.

They concentrated in big cities, usually in the poorest areas vacated by whites, sticking together to preserve their identity and culture in what they saw as a hostile environment.

Mrs. Thatcher, who two years ago said Britain was being "swamped" by non-whites, has stopped husbands and fiances of Asian immigrants from coming in — a move bitterly resented by non-whites.

Few non-whites have broken through the race barrier into the white establishment. There are only a handful of non-white judges and no non-whites in the House of Commons. Lord David Pitt, a West Indian doctor, is the sole non-white in the House of Lords.

A recent report of the Commission for Racial Equality said that unemployment among non-whites is rising four times faster than for whites. As of last Nov. 30, 82,500 non-whites were unemployed in Britain, about 4.4 percent of the national jobless total although non-whites make up only 3.2 percent of the population.

John Grant, the opposition Labor Party's spokesman on employment, noted: "Black (non-white) unemployment is potentially the most explosive issue."

An Employment Department report noted that racial discrimination in jobs remains a major problem, despite legislation outlawing it. Overt discrimination is rare now, but the report said "concealed and indirect discrimination persists."

The Commission for Racial Equality said it tested employers in Nottingham, a pleasant midlands city little touched by racial animosity, by having a white, a black and an Asian, all equally qualified, apply for 103 different jobs. Half the companies refused to even interview the two non-whites. All asked to talk to the white.

Worst hit of all are the young non-whites, most of whom were born in Britain. Having been educated here in racially mixed state schools they are less willing to accept the menial jobs their immigrant parents did.

On the other side are the National Front and the British Movement, Britain's two main neo-fascist organizations, which claim non-whites are taking whites' jobs. They often march in cities demanding an end to all non-white immigration and the repatriation of ethnic minorities.

Enoch Powell, a maverick right-wing member of Parliament, fueled alarm in March by saying that Britain faces "civil war" unless there is wholesale repatriation of non-whites.

Six Conservative legislators echoed his call for repatriation after the Brixton riots.

The Joint Committee Against Racial Discrimination, umbrella group for a score of non-white organizations, reported 1,000 serious attacks by whites on non-whites over the last 18 months, more than double the number a couple of years ago.

"These attacks are getting worse all the time," said Mohammed Ashgar, 27-year-old Pakistani coordinator of a self-help group in London's Southall district, known as "Little India," where half the 60,000 population is non-white.

"Last week a bunch of these thugs beat up a 14-year-old Pakistani boy, poured molten wax over his face and chest, causing second-degree burns. Then as a final injury they painted his face white."

Young non-whites are forming self-defense groups, usually armed with clubs, and organizing karate classes. White leftist vigilantes prowl the streets of Asian areas to protect them from hostile whites.

Authorities also are alarmed at the relations between police and non-whites who accuse the the law-enforcement agencies of harassment and brutality. There have been a score of clashes between young non-whites and police in a dozen cities in the last 18 months.

The police deny discriminating against non-whites, but say that street crime and narcotics offenses are increasing rapidly in non-white areas.

Community relations officials in Brixton, where the rioting was sparked by detectives trying to arrest a young non-white, reported in January that "few black people feel safe on the streets any more" because of police harassment.

Towns Lift Rationing

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) — Less severe drought conditions in 55 towns in the Raritan River basin have allowed state officials to lift water rationing in the Central Jersey communities.

"The drought situation continues to remain serious, but certain regional circumstances allow for 55 communities to be removed from water rationing and put on a standby basis," drought emergency coordinator Paul Arbesman said Thursday.

Standby status means mandatory 50 gallon a person a day rationing is revoked, but non-essential water uses such as watering lawns and using a hose to wash cars still is prohibited.

The action came after the Governor's Citizens Advisory Task Force on the Water Management Emergency made a series of recommendations about the drought.

"We are entering the warm weather season with substantially less water in northern New Jersey reservoirs than we had a year ago," said Dr. Saul Fenster, advisory board chairman.

"We cannot tell whether this summer will bring a repeat of abnormally hot, dry conditions which prevailed last summer. We have to assume this can happen again. Therefore, those areas removed are required to have standby rationing plans."

Youth Sunday At Philippi

Easter Sunday will also be Youth Sunday at Philippi Church of Christ, 1610 Farmville Boulevard.

The youth choir and junior ushers, assisted by the deacons and mothers, will be in charge of the pre-opening devotional services. Pastor Randy Royal will deliver the morning sermon. Maronica Carr, Sabrena Carr, Tonya Moore, Sabrina Rogers and Pam Smith will present the Cross in Passion, Thorns, Glory and Crown; Mary Jones, a memorial for the murdered children in Atlanta.

At 3 p.m. the Mothers' Board will hold its annual program featuring the Community Gospel Chorus of Greenville rendering special Easter songs. Mothers of all churches are invited. Eldress Martha Tyson will give the sermon.

At 6 p.m. the Junior Ushers will sponsor their annual program with past junior ushers of the church and junior ushers of other churches as special guests. The young adult choir will render music and Eldress Martha Tyson will deliver the sermon, once again. Pastor Randy Royal invites the public to all these services.

Saturday members of the church are urged to take part in the completion of Pine Straw Day, beginning at 8 a.m. The plan is to have the church grounds ready for the egg hunt to be held Monday at 10 a.m. Those planning to work on the grounds are asked to bring garden tools, and bedding plants and shrubbery also will be appreciated. There is also plenty of work needed on the inside of the building, Rev. Royal said.

One-Week Holiday For City Schools

The Greenville City Schools will be closed at all levels next week, Monday, April 20 through Friday, April 24, in observance of Easter Week.

The regular schedule for city schools will get underway following the holiday on Monday, April 27.

SIMPSON MEETING

The Village of Simpson will hold its regular monthly village meeting Tuesday at 8 p. m. in the Simpson Fire Department.

All citizens are urged to attend.

FOCUS

The Egg and Spring

Countless eggs all over the world, including this grand imitation in chocolate, are being transformed into original art in preparation for the celebration of Easter this Sunday. The egg represents the new life that returns to nature around Easter time. Most religions use objects like the egg as symbols of rebirth. For instance, some believe the custom of eating eggs and greens at the traditional Jewish Passover ceremony originated partly as a reminder of the coming of spring. The custom of exchanging eggs started among the ancient Persians, who believed that the Earth had hatched from a giant egg. Early Christians of Mesopotamia were the first to use colored eggs for Easter.

Balloons Reach Pitt Residents

Two Pitt County residents have unexpectedly joined in the 30th anniversary celebration of a Burlington hospital.

Alamance County Hospital released 591 brightly colored, helium-filled balloons last week to mark its anniversary. Each balloon carried a pre-stamped card asking the finder to mail it to the hospital.

Two of the balloons made their way to this area and were found by Randy Davenport of Route 1, Stokes, and Betty Burlingham of Route 4, Greenville.

Jean Earnhardt, public relations director for the Burlington hospital, said balloons also have been reported in Rocky Mount, Hobgood and Washington, N.C.

"We thought they were going to go north when we released them, but it seems they turned due east," Ms. Earnhardt said.

Davenport, 20, a farmer, said he found his orange balloon in a corn field.

"I picked it up and put it on my tractor. I forgot it and it stayed there for two days before we sent the card back," he said.

Ill Woman Dies At Disneyland

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — An autopsy is planned for a Chula Vista woman who took ill at Disneyland and died a short time later at a nearby hospital after being taken there by Disneyland nurses.

An Orange County Coroner's spokesman said the cause of death is still to be determined for Janet Wallace, 34, who died Thursday.

The death appears likely to add more fuel to the fire raging over Disneyland's practice of having staff nurses treat ailing or injured guests rather than summoning paramedics.

The park is currently is the defendant in two wrongful death suits filed by families of a Riverside youth and a Redlands man. In each case, the park was accused of negligence in allegedly failing to provide adequate emergency health care.

As the suits were announced, local public health officials were quoted

saying Disneyland is reticent to call in paramedics, allegedly to protect its "image." Disneyland has denied the allegation.

The victims whose families filed the suits were both rushed to Palm Harbor General Hospital in nearby Garden Grove in an unmarked Disneyland van, accompanied by park nurses.

The same set of events occurred Thursday with the Chula Vista woman, Disneyland spokesman Bob Roth said, adding that the nurses made the decision, based on symptoms including convulsions, that she should be rushed to the hospital.

Disneyland officials were notified about 11:57 a.m. that the woman had become ill in the "hub" area of the park near the end of Main Street, Roth said.

"Both nurses accompanied the victim to the hospital, administering CPR (cardiopulmonary resuscitation) as well as oxygen," Roth said.

The van left Disneyland at 12:07 p.m. and arrived at Palm Harbor at about 12:14 p.m., Roth said, adding that "Palm Harbor had been called in advance, so the emergency room was prepared."

Disneyland accommodates some 10 million visitors a year, and about 60,000 on busy days.

THE ONE PART OF A NEW HOME AD YOU CAN'T AFFORD TO MISS.

The HOW symbol won't be the biggest thing in a new home advertisement.

But when you know what it stands for, it just might be the most important.

Because HOW, the Home Owners Warranty Program, is a unique plan that actually protects that new home against major structural defects.

And HOW's 10 years of protection is included in the cost of the home.

You're protected against workmanship and material defects the first year. Defective wiring, ductwork, and piping in the second. And your home is protected against major structural defects that vitally affect the use of the home for the full 10 years* Your builder can give you all the details, including the reasonable exclusions.

So look for the HOW symbol when you're looking for new homes.

It's the fine print that's working in your favor for 10 full years.

Man Dies In Wreck

CHOCOWINITY — Bobby Morris Swinson, 42 of 3000 Fern Dr., Greenville, died from injuries received in an 11:30 p.m. collision yesterday on U.S. 17 just north of the Chocowinity town limits.

Investigating Highway Patrolman R. L. Hawley said the Swinson car was headed south on U.S. 17, crossed the center line, and collided head-on with a north-bound vehicle driven by Gilbert Leon Noble of Plymouth.

According to Hawley, the Noble car was forced into the right-hand lane of the roadway where it collided with a car driven by Stephen Douglas Normen of Washington.

Trooper Hawley, who said Noble was injured in the mishap, estimated damage at $3,500 to the Noble car, $6,000 to the Swinson vehicle, and $300 to the Normen auto.

Viet Fishermen Look To Laws

By JAMES R. KING
Associated Press Writer

HOUSTON (AP) — Ku Klux Klansmen, who allegedly have told Vietnamese fishermen to get out of Galveston Bay, say they welcome a lawsuit by former refugees seeking federal protection because it "shows we're effective."

The Vietnamese Fishermen's Association, which represents 58 fishermen who own 51 boats, filed suit in federal court Thursday seeking injunctions against the Klan and the protection of federal deputies.

It also seeks the possible assistance of the U.S. Coast Guard in the bay, where tensions have run high between local fishermen and refugees of the Vietnam War who have settled there.

The Vietnamese say they have been victims of "intimidation, harassment, threats, violence and other illegal actions ... to obstruct them from fishing in Galveston Bay."

Two Vietnamese boats have been burned in recent weeks, and Klansmen have held rallies, burned crosses and ridden "patrol boats" carrying guns and wearing robes.

The Vietnamese say the Klan has warned them to get out of the area by May 15 or the Klan would be forced to "take matters into its own hands," according to the suit.

The grand dragon of the Texas Klan, Louis Beam, calling another rally in the bay area for May 9, said, "Only a fool can expect these Texans to give up their birthright without a fight."

Asked what would happen if the refugees were still in the bay after May 15, Beam said: "I'm not a prophet or a seer. Violence is possible, but it is avoidable at this point."

Another Klan spokesman, who identified himself as John Galt, exalted cyclops, said: "We really consider it (the suit) a compliment. It shows we're an effective organization in the state."

The fishermen are among about 2,500 Vietnamese who settled on the Texas coast after the fall of Saigon in 1975. Resettlement agencies placed the refugees along the coast on the assumption that its warm climate and fishing opportunities would be familiar to the Asians.

Native fisherman charge the Vietnamese overcrowd prime shrimping waters, violate game laws and threaten to wipe out certain shrimping areas by over-fishing.

In Seadrift, two Vietnamese were acquitted two years ago of charges stemming from the death of a Texas crab fisherman in a dispute over fishing rights.

Nguyen Van Nam, a former colonel in the Vietnamese army and now president of the refugee group, had said earlier he and most of his members would leave the area if they could sell their boats.

But he said none had been able to sell so far. If the vessels are not sold by May 15, the Vietnamese will continue to shrimp, he said.

"But I think in near future I will get out from this area," he said.

Pin Future On Building

DUNN, N.C. (AP) — Harnett County pinned its long-range industrial future to the success of a metal shell of a building Wednesday.

About 100 well-wishers, including Lt. Gov. Jimmy Green, gathered Thursday in Dunn for the dedication of the Harnett County Industrial Training Center.

"This is a red-letter day for Harnett County," Green told the crowd at a luncheon. "We're not just dedicating a building here. We're dedicating ourselves to the future of this county."

Twelve trainees are enrolled in the center's fledging machinist program and future plans call for enrollment of up to 100 persons in various training programs related to industrial needs in the county.

County officials are expressing concern, however, over ways to prevent a dependence on CETA funds by the center. Both Harnett County Manager Jack Brock and Richard Wilson, Dunn Area Chamber of Commerce vice president, said the uncertainity of CETA may create problems, but that the community will try to prevent over-reliance on a single source of funding.

Pilgrims Take Calvary Path

JERUSALEM (AP) — Pilgrims from around the world flocked to the Via Dolorosa this Good Friday to retrace the tortured path of Jesus Christ to the skull-shaped hill called Calvary where he was crucified.

Many brought heavy wooden crosses to carry along the narrow alleyway that leads from the place where Pontius Pilate condemned Christ, to the Church of the Holy Sepulchre, traditional site of his crucifixion and entombment.

Jerusalem was bathed in warm spring sunshine as hundreds gathered for the annual pilgrimage that marks the saddest occasion in the Christian calendar.

Israeli troops kept an inconspicuous but watchful guard to prevent any possible Palestinian guerrilla attacks.

With Easter and the Jewish Passover holiday partly coinciding, some 100,000 tourists have flocked to the Holy Land, and police are issuing pleas to the public to look out for suspicious objects.

The military said it strengthened its alert along the Lebanese frontier following an attempt by guerrillas Thursday to fly into the Jewish state from Lebanon in a hot-air balloon. Israeli troops shot down the balloon and killed the guerrillas.

The Jerusalem municipality has been repaving the Via Dolorosa after digging it up to replace its drainpipes as part of a major urban renewal project in the old walled city.

Outside the Third Station of the Cross, where tradition says Jesus fell the first time under the weight of the cross, the street has been paved with the same stones believed to have lined the Via Dolorosa during Christ's lifetime.

Whether Christ actually trod on these stones is open to debate, since scholars do not agree on the actual route he took to Calvary.

The stones were dug up by chance during the pipe-laying.

At the Garden Tomb north of the city walls, where many Protestants believe Christ was crucified and entombed, prayers were conducted throughout Good Friday in German, Dutch, English and the Scandinavian languages.

Michael Landon Seeks Divorce

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Michael Landon, star of the popular NBC series, "Little House on the Prairie," has filed a divorce petition in Los Angeles Superior Court, seeking to end his 18-year marriage to Marjorie Lynn Landon.

The couple, who have three children, separated in early 1980.

Landon, 44, who earlier co-starred in the long-running "Bonanza" series, cited irreconcilable differences as the reason for the divorce in the petition, filed Thursday.

Pair Held For Cocaine Sales

WILKESBORO, N.C. (AP) — Two men are being held in the Guilford County Jail pending hearings in U.S. District Court in Greensboro on charges of distributing cocaine and conspiracy to distribute cocaine, Drug Enforcment Association and SBI agents report.

Gene Howard Parsons, 33, of Wilkesboro, and Bernard Wayne Simpson, 30, of Bluefield, W. Va., were arrested Thursday night near Wilkesboro with $250,000 of cocaine.

They are being held under $350,000 bond each.

Police said the men had about a kilo - 2.2 pounds, of the drug when arrested.

SBI agents said the cocaine has been sent to the SBI laboratory in Raleigh for analysis.
