

Heat Turned On Congress By A Lobbying President

WASHINGTON (AP) — With party invitations, phone calls and cufflinks, President Reagan is turning up the lobbying heat on wavering Democrats and Republicans as the House debates his economic program and the GOP's leader in the chamber claims Reagan already has the votes to win.

In return, the chief House budget writer is telling defecting Democrats they won't be able to come back for more money for their own districts later if they help pass Reagan's proposed budget cuts now.

"The lobbying is unbelievable," said Rep. Carroll Hubbard Jr., D-Ky., one of 47 conservative Democrats being wooed by Reagan and Republican leaders.

"I realized how big the lobbying was when I got a telephone call from the president (in early March) and he talked for so long that I had to say, 'I know how busy you are and must get off the phone.' Even my brother in Louisville doesn't talk that long," Hubbard said.

As the House kicked off budget debate Thursday, the president also launched a series of meetings that one White House aide said would bring as many as two dozen Republicans and Democrats into the Oval Office to meet with Reagan before a showdown vote expected next week.

House debate was continuing today, as were Reagan's meetings with House members.

House Republican leader Robert Michel of Illinois said Thursday, meanwhile, that he's convinced Reagan already has the battle won.

But to make sure outnumbered Republicans vote as a block, Reagan is holding a series of one-on-one chats with GOP members described by Michel as being of a "little bit more liberal persuasion" and possibly wavering.

Deputy White House press secretary Larry Speakes said today that Reagan scheduled two hours of meetings with congressmen this morning, but would not say how many were invited or reveal their names.

"We do not intend to telegraph our legislative strategy," Speakes said, adding there was "a chance" the administration could lose the vote and "we will continue our lobbying efforts here right up until the vote."

Asked why he would not reveal the names of the congressmen, Speakes said, "It's just obvious that we are not going to tell you we regard as undecided."

Rep. Bill Green of New York, one of the Republicans who met with Reagan on Thursday, said "we from the Northeastern states were being locked out of the process" while GOP leaders were wooing conservative Democrats.

Another White House guest Thursday, Republican Rep. Harold C. Hollenbeck of New Jersey, said he pointed out to Reagan that if the group's concerns are not heard, it would have no choice but "to begin to deal with the Democrats."

Green said Reagan was "a good listener," and the congressman displayed a set of presidential cufflinks given to him to commemorate the visit.

"The cufflinks don't buy my decision," Green added.

Michel said about 35 conservative Democrats have indicated support for the administration budget and estimated only three GOP defections "at the most."

If correct, that would wipe out the Democrats' 52-vote majority.

Asked if he were absolutely certain Reagan would have the votes to win, Michel said, "That's the way I've got it figured."

Faced with growing Republican confidence, House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr. said Thursday that a Democratic alternative budget may be rallying and Rep. James Jones, D-Okla., chairman of the House Budget Committee, added: "Neither side has the votes yet."

O'Neill said many Democrats are beginning to have second thoughts about backing the president's plan because of the impact it would have on their constituencies. "It's suddenly hitting home out there," the Massachusetts Democrat said.

Jones indicated he would hold members' feet to the fire by enforcing spending-cut decisions in the final budget resolution, which sets guidelines for individual committees which will write tax and appropriations bills later in the year.

Sands Maintains His Death Wish

By ED BLANCHE
Associated Press Writer

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Jailed IRA guerrilla Bobby Sands rejected another appeal today to call off his hunger strike, and his supporters briefly occupied an office at the headquarters of the opposition Labor Party in London.

The appeal was made by the Labor Party's spokesman on Northern Ireland, Don Concannon, who visited Sands and three other guerrillas who are demanding reforms amounting to granting political prisoner status to Irish Republican Army inmates. The four rejected appeal earlier this week.

"I should think there is nothing anybody else can do, and no one can accede to their demands. He had quite a political argument with me for about a minute this morning," Concannon said after visiting Sands and the others at the Maze prison. He said Sands, in the 62nd day of fasting, was mentally alert.

On Thursday, Britain accused the IRA of stirring a "calculated, cold-blooded" campaign of terror in the name of Sands.

Frank Hughes, jailed with Sands, received the last rites of the Roman Catholic Church Thursday, and relatives said he was approaching death in the 46th day of his hunger strike. They said Hughes, 25, imprisoned for life for shooting a soldier, has difficulty speaking.

Two other guerrillas, Raymond McCreesh and Pat O'Hara, joined the hunger strike 40 days ago but visitors said their condition was not critical.

Last rites have already been administered twice to Sands, who was elected to the British Parliament last month while serving a 14-year sentence on gun charges.

Visitors to the Maze said the skeletal Sands, 27, jailed for possessing arms, has now lost all feeling in his gums and mouth while his body is racked by constant pain.

Sands' mother, Rosaleen, said after visiting the prison Thursday that her son was prepared to die and doctors must not interfere. Mrs. Sands said she promised her son she would not let doctors try to save him if he slips into a coma, unless the British government concedes to his demands.

In London, 10 Sands' supporters left peacefully after a 90-minute occupation of an office at Labor's headquarters today. No arrests were reported.

Police were summoned after the demonstrators barricaded themselves in and draped a red flag from the building to protest Labor's support for the Conservative government's refusal to yield to the hunger-strikers' demands.

Leaders of both the Labor and Liberal parties backed the Conservative government's refusal to make concessions that would allow jailed guerrillas to wear their own clothes, associate freely and do no prison work.

But 28 dissenting legislators signed a bill presented by Laborite Ernie Roberts urging negotiations on clothing and work.

Probably Only Female Tobacco Sales Supervisor In The Nation

By CAROL TYER

FARMVILLE — Georgia Willoughby may be the only female Tobacco Board of Trade sales supervisor in the country.

At least, since the Farmville woman began work the first of March, she nor her board members have been able to learn of any other.

"The job interested me from when I first heard it was open," she said, "but I hesitated because I wondered how open Farmville people would be to having a woman in this position."

"My fears were for nothing, though," she went on, "because everyone has been wonderful — all the buyers, all the warehousemen, all the townspeople. I plan to do a good job and I can see that they plan to do everything they can to assist and encourage me."

Mrs. Willoughby's sales-supervisor job is combined with her duties as president and general manager of the Farmville Area Chamber of Commerce. She says she has big shoes to fill, those of Louis Williams, who held both positions for 22 years and retired early this year.

"Mr. Williams has to be one of the nicest, most considerate, most conscientious people I've ever met," she said. "Everything in the office was in perfect order.

Hats Off To The Farmers' Market!

That's what Andy McLawhorn of Renston seemed to be saying yesterday as he and other vegetable farmers, businessmen, city employees and interested citizens worked to clean the new site of the Pitt County Farmers' Market for the first sale of the season Saturday morning. The new location, in Greenville on Reade Circle between Western Auto and Marathon Restaurant, had to be cleared of debris, mowed, raked and have barriers set for parking to ready it for the the

8 a.m. opening tomorrow. "We hope to have lots for the public," said extension agent Sam Uzzell. "We'll have sweet peas, broccoli, greens, salad makings and plenty of strawberries." Uzzell added that more people are selling in the market this year, adding diversity to the items offered. "We'll open at 8 a.m. and sell until around noon or until everything is gone," he explained. Fires Rekindle In East; Renew Ban

By The Associated Press
State forest officials reacted to a resurgence of fires near Pungo Lake on Thursday by extending a ban on outdoor burning to cover nearly all the state's Coastal Plain.

Dry winds Wednesday rekindled a 6-month-old ground fire, which originated from some controlled burning done last fall on the Pungo Lake Wildlife Refuge. The fire flared up to leave some 5,400 acres of peat bogs in ashes, said state Forest Service spokesman Tom Hegele.

"Apparently some of it (the ground fire) had crept up toward the surface, and with the high winds they had yesterday, it was like blowing on coals in your fireplace — you get fire," Hegele said.

Hegele said 90 firefighters rushed back into action and three helicopters were dispatched to fight the fire Thursday.

A statewide burning ban was ordered last month because of drought conditions, but was lifted at the beginning of the week after dry conditions improved slightly.

Forest Service officials reinstituted the ban Thursday in Robeson, Hoke, Harnett, Johnston, Duplin, Lenoir, Pitt, Martin, Bertie and Hertford counties and all areas east of those counties.

Strong winds from a line of thunderstorms spread the fire later Thursday, but a forest service spokesman said the light rain from the storm did little to help firefighters.

Hegele said the peat is worth $7,000 per acre-foot, but the fire destroyed only several inches of the top layer over most of the land.

Smoke Heavy

The smoke from a peat fire in the Pungo Lake area near the Washington-Hyde County line was apparent in the Greenville area last night.

It was thick in the Washington, N.C., even causing planes flying into Washington to have to land in Kinston, it was reported. The smoke could be seen rolling southwestward toward Washington and it arrived there about 7:20 p.m.

Forestry Service Officer David Fields said the fire which is causing this smoke was begun last fall and has been burning in peat bogs underground all winter. The northeast wind yesterday afternoon brought the smoke this way, Fields said. The smoke was apparent as far south as New Bern, he added.

Pistols Missing

The theft of seven pistols from Bond's Sporting Goods on Arlington Boulevard is being investigated by Greenville police this morning.

Chief Glenn Cannon said officers were called to the building about 1 a.m. when a burglar alarm went off.

He said a search of the area failed to turn up any sign of a break-in, and company officials said they would check the building later this morning.

The chief said the theft was reported about 9 a.m. when employees arrived at the store.

Cannon said the thieves apparently gained entrance to the building through the front door sometime after the alarm was sounded.

Board To Meet

The Board of County Commissioners will meet Monday at 10 a.m. at the Pitt County Office Building at 1717 West Fifth St.

Included on the agenda is the consideration of the audit contract for the coming year, consideration of a request by S. G. Wilkerson & Sons Funeral Service for moving six graves, a discussion of the county's hospitalization insurance plan, and a report by the county computer study committee.

HIDDEN MONEY SECRET?

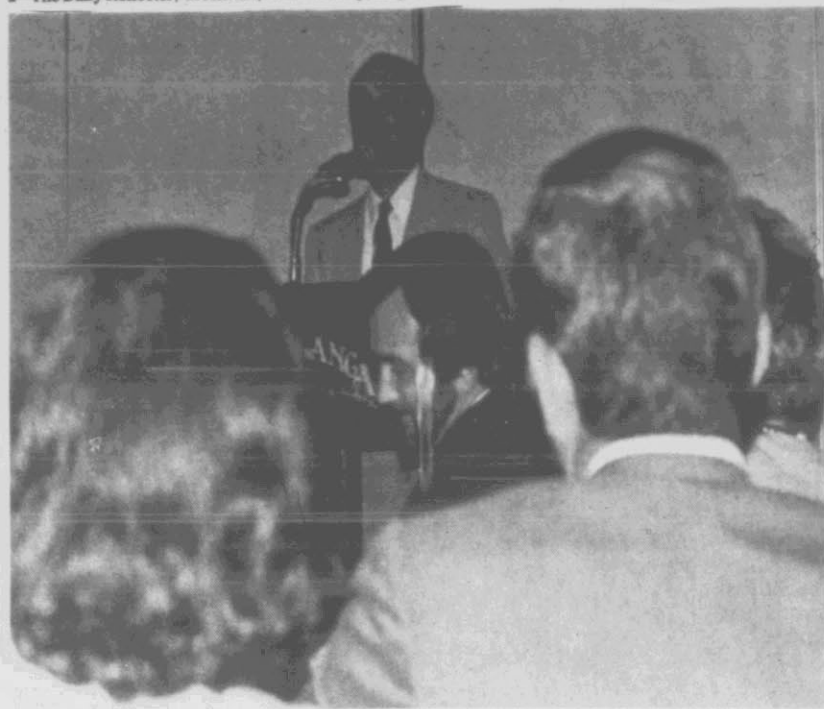

Fred W. Lilley, manager of the Greenville Social Security Office, said he is disturbed about at least two relatively new enterprises that are seeking to make a profit from operations the offices of the Social Security Administration offer free.

This past Sunday's issue of the Reflector's "Family Weekly" supplement ran an ad offering to help Americans learn "The Amazing Hidden Money Secret of the Social Security Department." by ordering a $10 book with this title. Also included was a form that can be used to request a report on the amount of money recorded in his/her social security account. The administration provides this service free anyway, Lilley said, which is exactly what the company is capitalizing on; realizing that these requests will be honored. The "secret" information offered by the company is available in pamphlets and other free hand-outs from the local social security office, Lilley said, and the "brand new social security benefits just passed by Congress," which the ad offers to clue people in to, are automatically figured and included in current benefits.

Lilley said he wishes, also, to alert the public about a company that is apparently canvassing North Carolina marriage records and offering to change a newlywed's name on the social security rolls for $10. "Changing the name on a card is a simple process that is done without charge by the social security office in person or by mail, with proper documentation like a marriage certificate copy, old and new driver's license, and old and new utility bills or bank statements reflecting the name change," he said.

Pitt-Greenville Arts Council Banquet Held

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

"Arts attract people and industry to a community, and it is the responsibility of Arts Council to determine what the role of arts in a community is to be," Michael Newman told a Greenville audience Thursday night.

Newman, a Winston-Salem architect appointed in January by Governor Hunt as the new chairman of the North Carolina Arts Council, was guest speaker at the second annual banquet of the Pitt-Greenville Arts Council held at the Casablanca Restaurant.

A capacity audience of city and county officials, area artists, poets, dancers, musicians, writers and others in the arts attended the banquet.

Touching on the broad concepts applicable to fostering the growth of the arts in North Carolina, Newman said that for Greenville and Pitt County, "the close cooperation of the Pitt-Greenville Arts Council and East Carolina University is essential." Noting that the Greenville area is fortunate to have the resources of a progressive community and a fine university to draw on, Newman said he feels Greenville and Pitt County citizens need seriously to "think about whether your want Pitt County to be the leader of the entire eastern part of the state in the arts."

Newman cited the confidence that the N. C. Arts Council has shown in the work of the Pitt-Greenville Arts Council in such instances as providing assistance for the recent East Carolina Arts Festival. "We provided $2,000 for the initial work on the festival, $1,000 to your council's magazine, 'CIRCA,' $500 to help pay for a coordinator, and then $5,000 as the state's part to match the $5,000 allocated by Pitt County commissioners to the festival.

"I want to assure you the State Council spends its money wisely, we take a careful look at all requests, and there's no pork barreling in our operation."

Newman called on area planners in the arts to think in terms of formulating a five-year plan of action to include a vital program of fund raising from area industries and the inclusion of young people and minority groups on a planning board. He also cautioned it is important that individual agencies and groups "support, not compete with each other."

Mrs. Sarah Hodgkins, secretary of the North Carolina Department of Cultural Resources, introduced Newman and also spoke briefly.

"You people here are real doers," Mrs. Hodgkins said. "You are doing truly impressive work in maintaining excellence in the arts and in creating more cultural opportunities for all the people of this area."

Ed Glenn, president of the Pitt-Greenville Arts Council, a coalition that includes nearly 20 Greenville and Pitt County organizations, presided over the meeting. Glenn summed up the past year's activity, focusing on the recently concluded first annual Eastern Carolina Arts Festival. He recognized a number of local people who had key roles in planning, coordinating and conducting the two weeks plus festival.

Judge Makes His Listeners Take Pledge

CHICAGO (AP) — Judge Billy Jones says people call him "the easiest judge in the whole state."

Few would argue with that claim, coming from a judge who dismisses traffic cases at the rate of 300 an hour without a single conviction or fine. But the motorists who pack his courtroom don't get off scot-free.

"Now I want all of you to promise to do better," Jones told a courtroom throng. "Raise your right hands and repeat after me: 'I do hereby absolutely promise, now and in the future, not to park where I'm not supposed to park.'"

Jones, an associate judge from East St. Louis, Ill., on temporary assignment in Chicago, has been dispensing his down-home brand of justice this week in Cook County Circuit Court. Along with the folksy admonition to stay on the good side of the law, Jones includes a folksy warning.

"Well, I'm Judge Jones, easy judge," he said. "But I'm a visiting judge. May not be here next time. Next time you may come down here and get a hangin' judge. Or they'll swear out a warning and bring you in. Or they'll tow your car away. One of these days, the hammer's going to fall."

Jones has been a judge for 16 years, and says in that time he has learned that in a big city, being forced to take a day off work and come to court is usually punishment enough. He says his emphasis is on obeying "rules and regulations."

"Now listen, everybody," he thunders from the bench. "The sun rises in the east and sets in the west. Everything runs by rules and regulations. If it didn't, we'd have calamity."

"If I go up on the roof of this building and jump off, I'll break my neck."

"Ladies, if you eat too much candy and ice cream, you'll get fat. You can't violate the rule of calories."

"Fellows, if you drink too much whiskey, you'll get drunk. And if you get drunk, you'll get in trouble."

"Lots of people go through life, they don't observe the rules and regulations. That's not right. What do you think they got the rules and regulations for?"

"Unfortunately, some of our brothers and sisters get a traffic ticket and they're wrong as two left shoes. They come down here and get mad at the judge and police and everybody else. That's not right. But I'm a firm believer in people's rights, so let's hear some of these cases right now."

Jones summons those who have tickets, unleashing a deluge of men and women from the courtroom's benches.

"My goodness," he exclaims. "This is something. All you people got parking tickets?"

After the homespun lecture and the friendly warning, Jones dismisses all the charges and the newly acquitted motorists head for the door, puzzled but grinning.

"Remember now, you promised," Jones calls after them. "If you go out and get a ticket again, well, shame on you."

Question 3 In Reagan Threats

By The Associated Press
Federal authorities are questioning two men in Mississippi jails and another man in Omaha, Neb., who allegedly threatened to kill President Reagan.

John Kirschner, 38, of Omaha was being held in lieu of $15,000 bond after being charged Thursday with making an oral threat on the life of the president.

Authorities said Kirschner was arrested by Secret Service agents Wednesday after telling a member of the staff of U.S. Rep. Hal Daub, R-Neb., the day before that "I'm gonna kill Ronald Reagan."

Falkland Squad Notes Week

FALKLAND — The observance of Emergency Medical Services Week will be closed out tomorrow with a display of the Falkland Rescue Squad ambulance in downtown Falkland from 10 a.m. to noon.

A free blood pressure clinic will be conducted at the same time, same place by certified Emergency Medical Technicians on the squad. The public is urged to take advantage of both these opportunities.

Robert Wise Jr., 39, was ordered held on $100,000 bond in Jackson, Miss., Thursday on charges of threatening the president. Authorities said Wise's last known address was Murphy, N.C.

Randolph Melvin, a Secret Service special agent, said Wise had stated during a Wednesday night interview: "I have been hired to kill the president of the United States." The federal complaint did not mention who allegedly had hired Wise, and it did not explain the circumstances of the interview.

Melvin said he questioned Wise "about whether he would kill the president, and he stated, 'I would kill the president.'"

Mississippi authorities also said William F. Shaw, 18, of Corning, Ark., was jailed in Carthage, Miss., after being arrested Thursday by highway patrol investigators and local deputies. Arkansas authorities said Shaw was on probation for burglary and theft convictions.

Shaw's mother, Mary Shaw of Corning, said another son had written to the FBI claiming Shaw had stolen his guns and planned to kill Reagan. The brother, Ira Shaw, is a prisoner at Angola Penitentiary in Louisiana, where he is serving a 15-year sentence for being an accessory to an armed robbery, she said.

Mrs. Shaw told a newspaper that Ira Shaw called the FBI to get revenge on William Shaw.

"He's (William Shaw) been doing good lately," said Mrs. Shaw. "He wouldn't do anything like this. He likes the president real well."

The theme of the month is nature, and guest speaker at the monthly meeting was Kay Dunn of the N. C. Department of Wildlife Commission.

MAJOR AWARD WINNERS — The Greenville City Schools Bus Drivers' Recognition and Awards Banquet was held last night were David Gay (left), an adult bus driver, and Robert Brown, a student bus driver. Grain Sale Benefits Us

President Reagan has ordered the lifting of the grain embargo against the Soviet Union, which his predecessor imposed.

The lifting of the embargo came with a warning from Secretary of State Alexander Haig that there would be an across-the-board ban on trade with the Soviet Union if the Russians were to invade Poland.

The grain ban was more symbolic punishment for the Soviets than anything else. It had been in effect for 15 months and it is doubtful it caused any real suffering within the Soviet Union. Hence, it made little sense to keep it in force.

In some ways we punished ourselves as much as we did the communist nation. We are an agriculturally productive nation and we produce more food than we need for our own people. Therefore it is logical to turn to world markets to sell our agricultural products.

Certainly the United States doesn't sell grain to Moscow to strengthen communism. We sell to improve our balance of trade, and to provide a market for the products American farmers grow.

The sale of grain to Russia has the added benefit of demonstrating to the world that a free enterprise farm economy is far outproducing the state controlled farm sector of the Soviet Union.

Military Adds To Economy

The military is a big contributor to North Carolina's economy.

Maj. Gen. David Barker, commanding general of the U. S. Marine Corps Base at Camp Lejeune, made that clear in a talk here this week.

The annual payroll for the 55,000 to 60,000 men and women at the base is $338 million ($55 million of that is civilian). Another $200 million is spent for materials, supplies, construction, schools and other items.

Post exchanges buy from wholesalers, and loans are made while marines are in the state which often are paid long after the Marine has left North Carolina.

It is big business and it all adds up to an important segment of our state's economy.

Cheating Is Safe?

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH — Already it is costing local tax collectors nearly a dollar for every two dollars they get from snaring tax cheaters who don't list their motor vehicles.

And now, with that staggered registration system going into effect the job will get much tougher.

Whatever the staggered system does to relieve administrative problems in Raleigh, and to relieve motorists from long lines each winter waiting to get new tags, it will only complicate the lives of local tax supervisors.

The only way currently available to catch the cheaters is to buy a computerized printout from the Division of Motor Vehicles and cross-check each local taxpayer against the master list.

Some counties have been doing that regularly; some sporadically; and some not at all. The staggered system, however, will mean that getting a complete list will be even more difficult. And those counties which already are finding the cost not worth the return will be tempted to slack up on enforcement.

The situation is simple: a motor vehicle is personal property. Owners are supposed to list them with the county tax supervisor, and pay local property taxes on them.

But, latest figures show somewhere between 15 and 20 percent of the motor vehicles in the state are not listed, and that is cheating local governments out of somewhere between $5 million and $10 million annually.

The cheaters figure they will move before caught; won't get caught; or knowingly register their vehicles as resident in counties which they know do not check the registration lists against property tax lists — some fleet owners have been known to do that.

Over the years, legislative committees have argued and studied the subject without end, or solution. At first it seems a solution would be easy: you must present a statement from your tax list before getting your plates. But state officials protest that would take up too much time; complicate mail-in orders; with the staggered system, create untold confusion as people misplace the slips between tax-listing time and registration time.

So, legislators wondered, why not a windshield sticker certifying local taxes paid each year? Not so good, respond police who say they have enough to worry with as it is. How about an excise tax collected by the state at registration time then rebated to local governments? Complicated and difficult to administer, say state officials; and an absolutely horrible notion, say car dealers who figure they would end up having to collect taxes when selling a car and getting titles straightened up.

Any Way?

Could local tax offices just handle the auto registration duties, checking each applicant against their files? That would require more room, personnel and time, say tax officials — not worth the cost.

Is there a solution? This session of the General Assembly finds legislators, tax supervisors, county commissioners, and auto dealers still arguing without success.

Meanwhile, for those local governments which go to the trouble of checking the lists, it is costing a dollar in overtime, special help, outside auditors, computer programs and lists, and mailing costs for every two dollars gained from the

There seems to be more and more of a trend toward a professional legislature for North Carolina, and that could end up causing more trouble than it's worth. In the same vein, the state Senate recently approved a proposed constitutional amendment that would increase the terms of state senators and representatives from two years to four years. The measure was sent to the House for approval, and there it will probably die. North Carolina is certainly not ready to give its elected officials in Raleigh carte blanche approval for four years. Maybe in the future it should be done in the Senate, but never in the House. Four years to most individuals seems like forever, and the first two years our members of the House and Senate are in Raleigh it would be a natural reaction to ignore state back home. Having to be elected every two years automatically makes them keep in closer touch with the voters they represent.

It is not like moving to Washington and becoming a United States senator. You have to buy a house or rent one near the Capitol and for practical purposes that is your home for six years. Certainly you keep your voting rights in the district that you represent, and you might still maintain a home there. But Washington is really your home base.

Serving in the N.C. General Assembly is a different matter. At least 90 percent of the representatives are within three hours of home, and there they spend their weekends. Few representatives ever move their families to Raleigh for the annual session.

There are only 13 states, including North Carolina, where the whole legislature is elected on a two-year basis. In 33 states, senators serve four years and representatives two. Alabama, Louisiana, Mississippi and Maryland are the only states that allow both houses to serve four years, and as the Raleigh Times remarks, "none of the four is a well-known exemplar of good state government".

The amendment, as now written, shouldn't fly. However, it could be in the best interest of better state government to approve a proposed constitutional amendment that would increase terms of state senators to four years and leave the term for members of the House at two.

Strength For Today

THE FATHER'S BUSINESS

"I must be about my Father's business."

This is the first recorded utterance of Jesus. The last recorded utterance is, "Father, into thy hands I commend my spirit." Attending to his Father's business had led to the cross.

It is well for us to remember that attending to the Heavenly Father's business always requires sacrifice of some kind or another. The Father's business for us today means more than believing a creed and attending church and keeping up our pledged contributions. It means carrying the spirit of Christ into everything we do. It means lighting a flame of love in the home. It means fighting the good fight of righteousness against a host of evil forces which have their hoodlums and sluggers in every community.

Above all it means pondering the Word of God and stopping long enough every day to let a little of its wisdom sink into our minds and souls. — Elisha Douglass

NOT GOING STEADY, BUT SUCH A NICE COUPLE!

BY ART BUCHWALD

Theories Come And Go

Phyllis Schlafly testifying in front of the Senate Labor Committee on sexual harassment in the workplace:

"When a woman walks across the room, she speaks with a universal body language that most men intuitively understand. Men hardly ever ask sexual favors of women from whom the certain answer is 'No.' Virtuous women are seldom accosted by unwelcome sexual propositions or familiarities, obscene talk or profane language."

I never accept a statement from a Senate witness without first checking it out. So I went to a government agency the other day run by a friend of mine and showed him Mrs. Schlafly's statement.

"What do you want to do?"

he asked.

"I would like to observe of your female employees, to see if they're saying

"Be my guest," he said.

I went out into a large office and stationed myself near the water cooler.

In a few moments I noticed a woman walk across the room with a folder in her hands. Intuition told me she was trying to tell me something.

When she got to the cooler I said, "What were you saying with your body when you were coming over here?" I asked her.

"I was thirsty and wanted a drink of water."

"There was more to it than that," I challenged her. "I got the feeling you were going to say 'Yes.'"

"Yes, what?"

"Yes, please."

"Get out of my way, buster, before I kick you in the shins."

"Please don't get upset. I'm just doing a study on sexual harassment in the office, and I felt that because of the way you were swinging your hips as you crossed the room, you were sending me a message."

"What kind of message?"

"Well, if it wasn't clearly a 'yes,' it certainly wasn't a definite 'no.'"

"No what?"

"No, like in 'what kind of a girl do you think I am?'"

"What department in the government did you say you were from?"

"I'm not in any department. You see, Phyllis Schlafly, who is an expert on sexual harassment, testified that you can tell a loose woman from a virtuous woman just by the way she walks. There are certain women who men know instinctively are asking for it all the time."

"She sounds sick."

"On the contrary. She's a very distinguished member of the far right, and because of her walk she's never been propositioned in her life."

"Maybe it's her face."

"Oh, no, she's a very presentable woman, but there is something about her that would keep any man from wanting to accost her. She exudes virtue and has never been pinched once."

"That's because she's never run into Sammy."

"Who's Sammy?"

On Brink Of Real Victory

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — In contrast to tactical defeats suffered before the Easter recess, President Reagan's economic program is on the brink of strategic victory in the Democratic-controlled House as Congress reconvenes.

The preliminary headcounts show a small but seemingly widening Reagan margin on the coming budget resolution, built by a coalition of the nearly-solid Republican minority and 30 or more conservative Democrats. The psychological momentum of that pivotal victory would point toward a Republican triumph on the tax cut a few weeks hence.

Despite months of conjecture about deep trouble for the tax bill and the need for a general compromise, the truth is that victory is at hand or very close to it for Ronald Reagan's economic package. Unless the Democratic leadership discovers some way to retrieve the situation, effective control of the House on economic questions is being assumed by that bipartisan coalition.

Deteriorating support for the Democratic alternative budget fashioned by Budget Committee Chairman James Jones (less defense, more social welfare, thinner tax cuts) has produced at least 30 hard Democratic defections. There are no assured Republican defectors and the possibility of only a handful at the outside. That suggests a current House headcount yielding about the net loss of 26 Democratic congressmen needed for a Republican victory.

But the post-recess mood on Capitol Hill may produce much wider Democratic defections, going beyond the 44-member Conservative Democratic Forum (CDF) — the "Redneck Caucus." Such non-CDF Democrats as Reps. Eugene Atkinson of Pennsylvania (celebrated target of a Reagan telephone call), Elliott Levitas of Georgia and Charles Wilson of Texas are moving out of Democratic ranks into the conservative coalition. That fortifies prospects of a comfortable Reagan victory.

Democrats will not have to vote for a Reagan proposal but a "compromise" co-sponsored by Reps. Delbert Latta of Ohio, the Budget Committee's senior Republican, and a CDF member, Rep. Phil Gramm of Texas. The Gramm-Latta substitute is gleefully described by one White House aide as "103 percent of the Reagan budget" — that is, what the president wants in budget cuts plus a little bit more.

Disaster looming for the regular Democratic leadership under Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill casts a long shadow on the tax struggle. Conservative Democrats are putting together a new tax package that will bring only smiles from the White House. Just as Gramm-Latta is more Reagan than Reagan, so is the compromise tax package in embryonic form.

It includes an immediate end to the distinction between "unearned" and "earned" income with the top tax rate on "unearned" (interest and dividends) falling to 50 percent. Simultaneously, the effective rate on capital gains would be pushed from 28 percent all the way down to 15 percent. As a sweetener to the farm constituents of many CDF members, the inheritance tax would be repealed. None of this is contained in the president's package.

Among tax reductions that are in the Reagan package, the accelerated depreciation allowance would be retained. But the Kemp-Roth formula of 10 percent in annual across-the-board individual rate cuts for three years would be modified from 10-10-10 to 5-10-10 and the effective date delayed as well.

The delayed effective date would be hard to take for the White House, but the rest of this still-gestating alternative delights the president's men as superior to the original. Although Reagan in his Tuesday night address to Congress adhered to his no-compromise position, the time will come — not far off — when deals will be made.

The deal right now looks like 103 percent of Kemp-Roth, without a partisan Republican Kemp-Roth label that drives off Democrats (a prospect long recognized as inevitable by Rep. Jack Kemp). If such a bill emerged, perhaps bearing the names of Rep. Kent Hance of Texas, senior CDF member on the House Ways and Means Committee, and Rep. Barber Conable of New York, its senior Republican member, it would be endorsed by the president and go to the floor with irresistible ap-

Mobility Has Doubtful Value

By JIM SHEA

Associated Press Writer

STORRS, Conn. (AP) — The belief that mobility paves the way to the executive suite is a myth, says a University of Connecticut business professor.

John F. Veiga, a professor of management and administrative sciences, says that while a certain amount of mobility is necessary for advancement, moving regularly from one position to another does not always mean an executive is advancing.

In a recently completed study of 2,000 middle management employees at three major U.S. corporations, Veiga says, he found the mobile manager often does not come out ahead of his less mobile counterpart in terms of salary and job satisfaction.

He also found that the mobile manager pays a higher price in family life disruption, strain and career disillusionment.

"While mobile managers are not corporate malcontents, they are considerably more restless and impatient with their careers, and I suspect, more readily frustrated and anxious about the prospects of plateauing than are immobile managers," Veiga says.

He defines middle managers as supervisors below the rank of vice president, with salaries ranging between $33,000 to $38,000 a year.

Veiga contends corporations sometimes promote the mobility myth as a work incentive and disguise moves that really offer no advancement in order to keep employees happy. The study found that top management often offers rewards that obscure the true nature of job switches that are really lateral moves or even demotions, he says.

"I'd like to take every manager on an elevator ride to the top of the triangular Trans-America building in San Francisco and show them how the number of desks decreases as you get closer to the top," Veiga says.

Saying companies should deal more realistically with managers about the chances for advancement, Veiga says some firms are conducting seminars with their employees in which they attempt to lay out realistic career goals.

Veiga says his study found that mobility is highest before age 30 and then tends to peak again when employees are in their 40s. He attributes the later peaking to a "last chance" syndrome.

He says the average time spent in one position before moving is 3½ years.

The study also found that after age 48 there is very little job mobility.

"If you have been in the same position for six years, you had better think of moving to another company or accept the fact that your career has flattened out," Veiga says.

Louis Willoughby, has been employed by A. C. Monk Co. here since he graduated from East Carolina University and he became a buyer two years ago.

"I heard Louis make general comments about how tobacco was looking and selling," she said, "but, of course, picked up none of the intricacies of the business that I'm now encountering. I'm intrigued by it all."

A Rocky Mount native, Mrs. Willoughby is the mother of one son, Marshall Payne, an eighth grader. She majored in business administration and accounting at East Carolina University and was employed as office manager of the Guardian Care Nursing Home here before accepting her present position.

Of her Chamber of Commerce duties, she said, "Farmville has a hard-working Chamber, made up, not only of merchants, but of professional people and private individuals interested in the welfare of Farmville as well."

"Farmville has a real sense of community, effective municipal government and a very active economic council and arts council, plus good public schools. So it's an easy town to promote."

There was an invitation from the Greenville Chamber of Commerce to have Farmville merge with it some time ago. The local unit opted not to.

"I wasn't here in the office at the time," Mrs. Willoughby said, "but I understand that, while the association with the larger chamber might have been helpful, the local board felt that Farmville's independence and sense of identity was more important."

Cooperative promotion of local business is part of the function of the chamber. One innovation begun since Mrs.

Willoughby took office is coffee talks held at early-morning hours to which local people are invited to hear a speaker, usually in the field of business.

The annual Christmas parade that's becoming a thing of the past in some towns has grown bigger and better in Farmville. Last year's had far more units than any parade ever before and Mrs. Willoughby said plans are under way for an even better one.

Farmville, like most towns, has a number of vacant store buildings. Mrs. Willoughby is making contacts to try to fill these. She says she has an easy product to sell, is glad that improvement of Farmville's central business district is complete and that the town did not opt for a mall.

"Farmville's downtown is very attractive-looking," she said, "and is a good mix of offices and stores. You can drive down the major streets and see what's here. And often you can get a parking place. We have had very good success with having merchants park offstreet, so the customers can use the street parking places to the largest degree possible."

ECU Alumni Urged To Enhance University

ECU News Bureau

East Carolina University's growing ranks of alumni are being called upon to make commitments to "open up the world of ECU" and enhance the future of the university.

"The ways to promote ECU are all around us. Only the resolve to do so, the individual and group commitment, remains to be made," says ECU's Vice Chancellor for Institutional Advancement and Planning, Donald L. Lemish. Lemish spoke at a class reunion dinner honoring alumni of 10 graduating classes of past years, dating back 70 years, which opened Alumni Day-1981 activities.

"We start day-by-day, in little ways, and use the opportunities at hand, those given and those created, to touch people wherever we go and whatever we do about our university," Lemish said.

He told the reunion class members that "we must individually and collectively be willing to commit ourselves, some of our time to an idea, an institution, something that is bigger than the individuals it represents if we are to promote it and make it better."

Lemish described a variety of ways in which alumni, as individuals or in groups, can promote East Carolina University and inform people about the school.

"We represent ECU to all those with whom we come in contact" in individual contacts, talks to civic groups or professional organizations, in conversations with prospective students and their parents, through alumni clubs and individual and group gift support.

Lemish said the ECU Alumni Association awards 25 honor scholarships each fall to new freshmen, and has a goal of 100 such scholarships in force covering all tuition and fees for four years of study.

"In the last two years, the SAT's (Scholastic Aptitude Test scores) have averaged about 1,250 and the students have ranked in the top five per cent of the high school class, generally holding the valedictorian or salutatorian spot," Lemish said.

He said commitments from organizations to sponsor an honor scholar would be a "significant way" to promote ECU.

Lemish urged "active involvement" in community service and statewide activities, or by assisting a local organization for the benefit of others.

"Maybe he's a student of body language, and he can tell when a woman wants to be harassed and when she doesn't," I suggested. "I'll bet he wouldn't lay a hand on Phyllis Schlafly."

"You don't know Sammy. He doesn't care how women walk as long as they are wearing a skirt."

"But if what you say is true, that means that Mrs. Schlafly's theory about women is all wet."

"I don't know about that. But if she worked next to Sammy she'd be black and blue by the end of the day."

"Even if everything about Mrs. Schlafly's body language says, 'No.'"

"Sammy says those are the easiest kind."

A Hance-Conable bill would pose severe problems for the new chairman of Ways and Means, Rep. Dan Rostenkowski of Illinois, who does not relish being rolled on the floor in his debut. If that is the fate of Jimmy Jones on his first budget resolution, Rostenkowski might be tempted to embrace a multi-year compromise in exchange for leading a grand alliance with Reagan.

The one sure means of the Democrats escaping retreat on all fronts is for Tip O'Neill to win the budget resolution (a prospect not helped Monday when he returned from Australia to announce that "many Democrats" had defected from the Jones budget). Another is for Ronald Reagan to make a serious blunder, an event congressional Democrats have been waiting for ever since Jan. 20.

OPENING PERFORMANCE... of "Annie Get Your Gun" was presented last night by D. H. Conley High School. The second performance will be held tonight with the closing matinee Sunday afternoon at three o'clock. (Reflector Staff Photo)

'Annie Get Your Gun' Applauded

An entertaining evening of music, song and true dedication was seen in last night's opening performance of "Annie Get Your Gun." The musical play, by Irving Berlin, is being presented by D. H. Conley High School and is the school's first venture in musicals.

The voice projections of Frank Butler (Eugene Lawrence) Col. William F. Cody or Buffalo Bill (Kevin Ivey) and Charlie Davenport (David Adams) in songs and dialogue were excellent. Donna Worthington as Annie Oakley was another definite plus to the show. The facial expressions of both Annie and Frank were more than appropriate in making their audience truly believe they were falling in love.

The first appearance of Buffalo Bill was well received as he strutted onto stage.

Dolly Tate (Rene Meyer) was good in her role as supporting actress as were the sisters of Annie, Nellie (Emily Wilkerson), Jessie (Michelle Garis), Minnie (Janet Worthington) and her brother, Little Jake (Dwayne McKinney).

The percussion of the Seventh Calvary Troupe was well done and the snake dancer was well received.

"Do in What Comes Naturally" by Annie, Foster Wilson (David Miller) and Annie's family, "The Girl That I Marry" by Frank Butler, "They Say It's Wonderful" by Annie and Frank and the finale "There's No Business Like Show Business" are the show's most outstanding songs in presentation.

The smooth flow of the show was evident throughout the evening. The timing of the spotlights on several occasions was the only distraction from an excellent production. Approving applause from the audience covered only several opening lines during the evening. The audience was very receptive during the performance and registered its approval with much applause.

The sound effects were also good and the music accompanying the singers throughout was excellent.

Kim Smith is serving as pianist for the productions. The props, staging and backdrops were other special highlights and the movement of the production crew between scenes was smooth.

The performance ended in several curtain calls and standing ovations. The show's director, Jane Wilson, received a bouquet of flowers from the cast and the enthusiastic support of the audience through their applause and another standing ovation.

The second show will be held tonight at eight o'clock with a closing matinee Sunday afternoon at three o'clock in the school auditorium.

The show is truly a delight, and Broadway beware!

Science Fair At South Greenville

The South Greenville School Science Fair is in progress this week, with students displaying projects in four science areas: biological, physical, technological and earth sciences.

Concept exhibits explain a concept or prove a hypothesis; enrichment teacher, Mildred Indorf, said. "The fair participants have worked on these displays on their own time as an extracurricular exercise to reinforce their classroom experiences. Emphasis is placed on learning and sharing, rather than on winning, but recognition is given to projects considered as superior efforts."

In the Earth Science division, the fourth grade winners were Keith Wainwright, first; Susan Grimsley and Meg Evans, second; and Scott Thompson, third. Fifth and sixth grades — Kristin Shea, first; Tamaira Johnson and Tabetha Johns, second; and Richie Murphy, third. In the Technological Science division, the fourth grade winners were Debbie Stanley, first; Tristin Jones, second; and Todd Taylor and Amy DeCuzzi, tied for third. Fifth grade — Sarah Yarbrough, first; Andy Edwards, second; and Leigh Zadeits and Robert Barnes, tied for third. Sixth grade — Lara Perry, first; Greg Van Scoy, second, and Martha Taft and Cate Shappley tied with Melissa Pruden for third.

In the Biological Science division, the fourth grade winners were Michael Thompson and Chris Fuqua, first; Lisa Archie, second; and Evan Kane, third. Fifth grade — Shannon Howard and Angela Pfeiffer, first; Kelly Wirth, second; Joe Fulghum, third; Scottie Smith and Lemmie Lee, fourth. Sixth grade — Lynn Worley and Becky Britt, first; Susan Sayetta, second; and Carol Johnson, third.

In the Physical Science division, the fourth grade winners were Dwight McKinney, first; J. J. Powell, second; and Julie Garrison, third. Fifth grade — David Tingelstad, first; Duncan Park, second; and Mary Beth Brinn, third. Sixth grade — Dayla McDonnell, first; Christy Garrison, second; Becky Kirkland, third; and Michelle Robins, fourth.

Supervisors for the fair were Indorf and Ann Davis. Judges were Kay Whitehurst, Paul Waldrop, Darryl Davis, Wende Allen, Andrew Ash, John Bray and Barbara Andrews.

Warren Named To Position

RALEIGH — Liston Ramsey, speaker of the North Carolina House of Representatives has appointed Rep. Ed N. Warren of Greenville, to a group designed to function as a liaison with Congress on issues of regional interest.

According to Ramsey, one House member from each Congressional District has been named to the liaison group.

Ramsey said the appointment of the liaison group resulted from a request by the Southern Legislative Conference of the Council of State Governments.

Chief Urges Cooperation

Greenville Police Chief Glenn Cannon today urged owners of stores equipped with burglar alarms to cooperate with local law enforcement officers by checking their buildings when an alarm is activated.

Cannon said many times, police will call a businessman to report an alarm, and if a break-in is not apparent, are told the store will be checked later.

Cannon said two such incidents occurred before dawn today. In both cases, he said, break-ins had occurred.

The chief noted that in at least one of the cases today, officers may have been able to catch the intruders before they committed still another break-in in an adjoining building, where a quantity of cash and drugs were taken.

Find Rhetoric Not Inspiring Results

CHICAGO (AP) — After three years and $2 million in federal funds, the Rev. Jesse Jackson's "Push for Excellence" educational program has failed to "implement the rhetoric that first attracted support," according to a new government report.

PUSH-EXCEL, intended to motivate low-income and minority youth to higher academic achievement, does not have a long-term strategy and instead depends on "one-shot activities" such as lectures by Jackson and others, according to the report, obtained by The Associated Press.

However, a spokesman for Operation PUSH, or People United to Save Humanity, the parent organization of PUSH-EXCEL, says Jackson always intended PUSH-EXCEL to be more of a crusade than a nuts-and-bolts educational program.

"For their own reasons, they (the government) have tried to turn what is essentially a movement into a program," said spokesman Frank Watkins.

"At one level it was never our intention to develop a program in the traditional sense," Watkins said. "When Jackson speaks ... when he's appeared on talk shows, there is no way to evaluate what education has gone on in that process, no way to determine who has been inspired and motivated through some word that was given."

Encouraging students with slogans like "If you can conceive it and believe it, you can achieve it," Jackson began making speeches promoting academic achievement among minorities and the poor in 1975.

Push for Excellence was organized in 1978 and has received more than $2 million in federal education contracts and grants since that time.

The report on PUSH-EXCEL was the third of four by the non-profit American Institutes for Research for the federal Education Department. All three reports have criticized PUSH-EXCEL for its lack of an ongoing, structured program.

"No one (at PUSH-EXCEL) ... has a plan that takes the program beyond the initial phase — getting students' attention — to the phase that stimulates greater effort," says the report.

It says the activities that are under way in the six cities with PUSH-EXCEL staffs are "the sum of existing ideas" rather than the result of a plan. The six cities are Chicago, where Operation PUSH is based; Kansas City; Los Angeles; Denver; Chattanooga, Tenn.; and Buffalo, N.Y.

Watkins said the organization has developed an "Implementation Guide" that will give a step-by-step way to translate PUSH-EXCEL's philosophy into a program.

But the report said the manual does not take the steps, such as developing tutoring programs and PUSH-EXCEL clubs, "further than they have already gone on their own."

It also says PUSH-EXCEL leaders need to develop ways to raise longer-term support in the communities they serve.

"What does mobilize such long-term support? The Rev. Jackson set out some basic, concrete objectives in this regard, e.g., parents should monitor two hours of study time per evening. How does PUSH-EXCEL propose to get parents to do that? To date, the program has not developed answers," the report said.

The report said interviews with students in the program show many of them were already motivated to learn and that what they need is a better plan for translating that motivation into action.

Break-Ins Occur

Greenville Police are searching for three men who evaded capture early today in break-ins at the Cinnamon Tree Restaurant, Clear-Vu Opticians and Hollowell's Drug Store at Park View Commons on the Stantonsburg Road.

Chief Glenn Cannon said officers were called to Clear-Vu Opticians at 3:52 a.m. when a burglar alarm went off. An inspection of the area revealed nothing out of order and Clear-Vu officials said they would check the building later this morning.

A short time later, officers returned to the area when a burglar alarm went off at Hollowell's Drug Store. Again everything seemed in order, until intruders broke the glass from the front door to the drug firm and fled while police were at the rear of the building, Cannon explained.

Unable to stop the fleeing men, officers called for Department of Corrections' bloodhounds and tracked the men to Lake Ellsworth off the Farmville Highway before losing the trail.

According to the chief, the thieves entered the rear door of the Cinnamon Tree Restaurant, then climbed over the ceiling to gain access to Clear-Vu and Hollowell's.

Nothing was reported missing from the restaurant and from Clear-Vu. However, a quantity of drugs and cash was taken from Hollowell's, Cannon said.

The chief noted that $111 in cash contained in one of three money bags taken from the drug firm, and a quantity of drugs, were recovered after being dropped by the thieves as they fled. Also recovered were an ax, a sledge hammer and bolt cutters.

Facts About The BIBLE BY JOHN LEHTI

FAVORITE BIBLE QUOTATIONS OF OUR PRESIDENTS

WHEN A NEWLY-ELECTED PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES IS SWORN INTO OFFICE, HE TAKES THE OATH OF OFFICE WITH HIS HAND ON THE BIBLE. IT IS CUSTOMARY FOR THE BIBLE TO BE OPEN AT A PAGE OF THE NEW PRESIDENTS CHOOSING WHERE HE HAS SELECTED A VERSE OR QUOTATION—IT IS INTERESTING TO NOTE HOW FITTING THESE QUOTATIONS ARE! FOR INSTANCE, RUTHERFORD B. HAYES, 19TH PRESIDENT (1877-1881) WAS ALMOST DEFEATED IN A HARD-FOUGHT AND VERY BITTER ELECTION, WINNING BY ONE ELECTORAL VOTE ONLY! HIS OPPONENTS CLAIMED FRAUD BUT THE ELECTORAL COMMISSION DECIDED IN HAYES FAVOR—LITTLE WONDER THAT HE PICKED THE FOLLOWING QUOTATION FROM THE BIBLE....

"THOU HAST THRUST SORE AT ME THAT I MIGHT FALL: BUT THE LORD HELPED ME."

PSALM 118:13

THEODORE (TEDDY) ROOSEVELT, OUR 26TH PRESIDENT (1901-1909) STARTED LIFE AS A SICKLY CHILD BUT EXERCISED VIGOROUSLY AS A BOY TO GAIN GREATER HEALTH AND, AS A YOUNG MAN, WENT OUT WEST TO BECOME A CATTLE RANCHER. THE ROBUST LIFE HE CHOSE WAS EXEMPLIFIED IN HIS CAREER, IN HIS MANNER OF SPEECH, AND CERTAINLY IN THE WAY HE LED HIS FAMOUS "ROUGH RIDERS" REGIMENT DURING THE SPANISH-AMERICAN WAR! AS A PRESIDENT, HE FOUGHT HARD AND BOISTEROUSLY AGAINST THE VESTED INTERESTS AND HUGE TRUSTS OF "WALL STREET". HIS ENTIRE LIFE-STYLE IS ECHOED IN HIS FAVORITE BIBLE QUOTATION....

"BUT BE YE DOERS OF THE WORD AND NOT HEARERS ONLY, DECEIVING YOUR OWN SELVES."

JAMES 1:22

SOME JOKE

NEW YORK (AP) — Humorist Sam Levenson grew up in a household that was financially poor, but which was rich in inspiration for his unique humor.

Levenson said his mother used to tell her eight children to say they didn't like chicken, assuring enough food for company. All refusals of chicken were followed by his mother's saying, later, "All those who didn't eat chicken don't get dessert."

The entertainer died last year at the age of 68.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market showed a small gain today, attracting some support after a three-day slide.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, off 26.30 points in the past three sessions, recovered 2.34 to 1,000.09 by noon today.

Gainers slightly outnumbered losers in the mid-day tally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

The bank prime lending rate climbed to 18 percent this week, and there were forecasts that it might reach 19 percent before long as rising open-market money rates push up the banks' cost of funds.

National Medical Care led the active list, up 3/4 at 24 1/4. A 564,100-share block traded at 23 1/2 and another of 125,900 shares changed hands at 24.

The NYSE's composite index rose .26 to 77.07. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up 2.07 at 358.32.

Volume on the Big Board totaled 20.72 million shares at noon, against 21.39 million at the same point Thursday.

Post-Pulitzer Impact Is Felt

MONROE, N.C. (AP) —

Amid growing debate, spawned by the Washington Post's Pulitzer fiasco, over newspapers' use of unidentified sources, the Monroe Enquirer-Journal is killing a series of stories about drug use by several unidentified Union County residents.

Moreover, the Monroe paper is now forcing reporters to divulge confidential sources to their editors.

The controversy began two weeks ago, when the Post's Janet Cooke resigned after admitting her Pulitzer Prize-winning story about an 8-year-old heroin addict was a fake and that she would return the prize.

Enquirer-Journal reporter Henry Welles, 25, had prepared a story about drug use as part of a week-long series.

Editors yanked the story from Tuesday's editions just a few hours before deadline.

News editor Linda Ann Hughes said the parallels were eerie. "It was just incredible," she said. "Here we were with a story about drugs quoting anonymous sources just as the Cooke incident was happening. The timing was just incredible," she said.

General manager John Ashcraft, editor Sid Hart, managing editor Bob Horne and Miss Hughes discussed the story Tuesday morning with Welles.

Welles, who has worked with the Enquirer-Journal for three years, refused to tell his editors or print in his story the names of drug users he had interviewed.

"What was so sad was that it was the best piece in the series," Miss Hughes said. "It was interesting, informative and well-written."

But because the Cooke hoax made journalistic credibility such an issue, the paper's management decided to withhold the story.

"The stories had too many similarities with Janet Cooke," Horne said. "It was chock-full of unattributed sources."

Horne then wrote a policy ordering reporters to divulge sources to him and stating that he has to the option of double-checking with the sources to insure that the information is accurate.

The managing editor said he never used to ask his reporters about their sources, but after the meeting with Welles and the other editors, he said he will now ask his reporters how they got their notes.

Low Surcharge For N.C. Drivers Set

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) —

North Carolina drivers will have to pay the lowest surcharges ever on their automobile insurance policies from July to September, the state Reinsurance Facility announced Thursday.

Facility officials said they would impose a surcharge of four-tenths of 1 percent to make up for losses of $615,000 during the quarter that ended Dec. 31, 1980.

The surcharge for the current quarter is 5.6 percent. Since the surcharges began in 1977, they have ranged between 4.9 percent to 8.3 percent.

The facility is a pool formed for insurance companies to insure high-risk drivers. Because state law requires it to operate without loss or profit, its board may set surcharges for companies to recover the money they must pay to participate in the facility.

A reduction in losses and an increase in investment income brought about the surcharge reduction, said board chairman Bruce Fritz, adding that he hopes the relatively modest operating loss is the beginning of a trend.

"We sincerely hope that the losses will continue to decline so the facility can become the no-profit, no-loss operation that the General Assembly intended," he said. "However, the losses may increase again as they have done in the past."

Insurance Commissioner John Ingram, who is pushing a bill to stop the surcharges on safe drivers, was not available for comment.

Bright Spot At Box Office

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The sword and sorcery film epic "Excalibur" is the only new bright spot in a continuing decline of box-office business, says the trade paper Daily Variety.

Movie attendance usually picks up during Easter school vacation, but April returns were off 5 percent nationwide, the paper says. Unless business picks up this summer, total film revenues for 1981 may drop as much as 10 percent from the $2.7 billion of 1980, which in turn was down 8 percent from 1979, Variety said Wednesday.

Orion Pictures' "Excalibur" is the spring exception so far, and the ever-popular "Star Wars" is doing well in reissue, Variety said.

Praise Passed By Inattentive

LANSING, Mich. (AP) —

State Sen. John Kelly, who got a resolution protesting British actions in Northern Ireland past an inattentive Senate, says he plans to keep pushing the proposal.

Senators have admitted they passed the proposal — which lauds hunger striker Bobby Sands and calls for eviction of the British Consulate from Detroit — two weeks ago without knowing what they were voting on. They recalled the measure Tuesday and sent it back to committee, and one senator urged the body to apologize to the British.

"I don't think any apology is necessary," said Kelly, adding he will try to win approval for the proposal again.

Candidate Has Time In Prison

SUNBURY, Pa. (AP) —

A man who served prison terms for bank robbery, assault and car theft says he wants to be mayor of this town because "Sunbury is a cesspool of corruption."

Robert Huffert, 31, who became a member of the city planning commission after his 1978 release, said he can't prove corruption, but, "I decided to get into politics and fight the whole system from within."

Daniel Filer, the Republican-endorsed candidate who will oppose Huffert in the May 19 primary, worked in the federal prison system for 20 years. The part-time mayor's post pays $1,500 a year.

Rampants Slip Past Northern Nash, 2-1

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

It was billed as a grudge battle for the Rose High School Rampants. They wanted to show Northern Nash that the Knights earlier 6-5 victory was only a fluke — the only blemish on the otherwise perfect Rampant record.

The task proved to be a little more difficult than expected, but when it was all over, Rose had come away with a victory, 2-1.

"This was the biggest game of the year to now. There's not question about that," Coach Ronald Vincent said with a sign of relief afterwards.

But the victory didn't come easily, thanks to sophomore hurler Chris Baker. Baker, who did not have a record prior to last night, went the distance against the Rampants, walking one (intentionally), striking out one, but more importantly giving up only three hits.

Baker's slow curves, which he threw most of the night, kept Rose off balance. The Rampants, desiring more rapid deliveries, had trouble being patient enough to wait of Baker's balls to make it to the plate. And even then, the lack of velocity gave the batters the illusion of hitting marshmallows.

"Nobody has done to us what he did," Vincent said. "We just tried too hard to hit him, and he had us right where he wanted us."

Of course, one aspect of the game could not be overlooked either. It was also a fight for sole possession of first place in the Division I standings. Both teams came into the game with only one league loss. Rose, now 7-1, holds sole possession of first, while Northern, now 6-2, drops into second for the first time this year. Wilson Hunt, which had been one game back, dropped one further off the pace, 5-3, after being upset by Bertie, 4-1. Rocky Mount, a 5-0 winner over Wilson Beddingfield, is also 5-3 on the year.

While Baker was doing his thing on the mound for Northern, Roger Williams, now 8-0, was doing likewise for the Rampants. While he got behind with a number of batters, eventually walking five (one intentionally), he struck out seven. He also allowed three hits.

"Roger usually doesn't get behind like that," Vincent said. "I don't really think the pressure of the game got to him. In fact, he really threw his best stuff when they got people into scoring position."

Vincent was also impressed by the defensive play behind

Williams, singling out the play of shortstop Mark Douglas, who had four assists and two putouts.

The Rampants pulled off one double play, while the Knights got two, but the Rampant one came the hard way. In the third, Williams walked Kevin Payne to open the frame, and Thomas Mabry laid down a sacrifice bunt. Mabry was thrown out, Williams to first baseman Billy Kittrell. Payne, rounding second, saw third unoccupied and took off, but lost the footrace when Gordon Douglas got back in time to take the throw from Kittrell for the putout.

The two Knight twin-killings came on a routine grounder to short, and on a line drive to third with a man on that base.

That second doubleplay erased one of the better Rose threats in the fourth. Mitch Brann had reached first when he struck out on a wild pitch, and then moved all the way to third on a pickoff error with none out. But an infield out and the double-play erased that threat.

Northern struck first, getting its only run in the second. Bruce Ellis opened the inning with a single through the middle. Phillip Sikes moved him up with a ground out, and Johnny Richardson doubled to right, scoring Ellis.

The Knights left the bases loaded in the fifth, on two walks and a single, but Douglas scooped up a grounder to short to nip the next runner at first for the third out.

Rose came quickly back from the 1-0 deficit, tying the game in the bottom of the first. Emmett Walsh reached when his grounder to short was booted at first, and Sammy Hodges came on to run for him. Roger Williams singled, moving Hodges to second. Kenny Barnes then grounded back to shortstop, where a double play was initiated, but Hodges alertly kept racing past third and scored easily on the play for a 1-1 tie.

Rose, after leaving a man on second in the third, saw the blue-drive double play end their fourth-inning threat.

Then, in the fifth, the Rampants got the winning run. Ironically, it came on a solo homer by Kittrell, who got one of Baker's few fast balls and rode it over the fence in left. The irony in it was that a homer — that one a grand slam — had powered Northern past Rose in their first meeting.

The victory upped Rose's overall record to 16-1, while Northern dipped to 12-4.

Rose will travel to Rocky Mount on Tuesday night for a 7:30 p.m. meeting with the Gryphons in another key contest.

Lady Pirates Defeat Milligan; Louisville In Region II Contests

JOHNSON CITY, Tenn. — East Carolina University's Lady Pirates, the defending Region II champions, moved into the winner's bracket yesterday, capturing their first two games to move within two victories of the title and an automatic berth in the AIAW Nationals to be held in two weeks at N. C. State University.

The Lady Pirates dumped hosting Milligan College, 19-2, in the first game of the day, then came back with an 11-4 win over Louisville in their second outing of the afternoon.

In other action, Louisville downed Western Carolina, 9-7, North Carolina beat Bryan (Tenn.), 16-1, and Northern Kentucky beat Morehead State, 3-2, in nine innings in the first round. Carolina topped Northern, 8-6, in the winner's bracket second round. In the losers' bracket, Milligan was ousted by Western, 16-0, and Bryan by Morehead, 11-4. Morehead then sent Louisville home, 3-2, while Western ended Northern Kentucky's hopes, 6-4.

Today at 10 a.m., East Carolina and North Carolina collide for the right to move unbeaten into the finals. Morehead and Western play at 11, with the winner of that meeting the loser in the 10 a.m. game. The championship was to be decided later this afternoon.

East Carolina, now 40-4, spotted Milligan two unearned runs in the first inning, then came back with two in its half of the frame on a Mitzi Davis homer. Two more runs crossed in the second, followed by three in the third. After scoring four times in the fifth, the Lady Pirates added eight in the sixth.

Davis added another homer in the third with none one, while Kathy Riley also had a solo shot in the third. Shirley Brown hit a three-run homer in the fifth. Cynthia Shepard, Jo Landa Clayton and Brown also added doubles.

Davis and Shepard each went three-for-five, while Brown was three-for-four, and Yvonne Williams, three-for-three. Riley was one for two.

In the second game, East Carolina took the lead with three in the first inning, then saw Louisville come up with three in the top of the fourth to tie it. But the Lady Pirates pushed in eight in the bottom of the frame to put the game away.

Again, all the opponent runs were unearned. Riley sparked the Pirates in the fourth, hitting a grand-slam homer. She also added a double, as did Brown.

Riley and Ginger Rothermel each had three hits in three trips, while Brown went two-for-three. Louisville's Janet Cloyd was three-for-three and Stephanie Stittney was two-for-four.

The Pirates saw several seasonal records set during the two games. The 40 victories represents the first time any ECU team has won that many in a season. Davis has set marks in games played (41), at bats (141), and hits (66), while Riley had set a new record in walks with 22.

Honeycutt Handcuffs Kansas City, 7-0

By The Associated Press
Home plate umpire Vic Voltaggio took a look at the baseballs Rick Honeycutt was throwing and didn't do a thing with them.
Neither did the Kansas City Royals.
Honeycutt, whose claim to fame is his getting thrown out of a game last year and getting a 10-game suspension as well for illegally doctoring baseballs with a thumbtack, found out Thursday night that clean living has its own rewards.
He pitched a five-hitter for Texas' fourth consecutive shutout as the Rangers beat the Kansas City Royals 7-0. Pat Putnam's two-run double highlighted a four-run fifth inning against Rich Gale that broke open the close encounter.

It was the Royals who nailed Honeycutt when he was pitching for Seattle last year. He had a tack taped to the index finger of his glove hand and couldn't get rid of it before the search commenced.
Kansas City, unable to deal with his sinker this time, asked Voltaggio five times to check the baseballs as they arrived home.
"None of the players said anything to me, though, and I didn't have any tacks on me, so that was just my straight stuff. I get checked a lot, especially when my sinker is working like it was tonight."

A lot of things have been working for the Rangers' staff. The four successive shutouts is one shy of the AL record set by the 1974 Orioles.
"This is fun," Honeycutt said. "They talk about hitting being contagious and I think good pitching may be, too. You get something like this going and I think it really catches on."
The bad news for the Rangers was that Buddy Bell, their Gold Glove third baseman, suffered a groin pull after beating out a grounder in the seventh inning. The severity of the injury was not immediately known.

Orioles 4, Blue Jays 0
Ken Singleton can be a pitcher's best friend, when the pitcher is Mike Flanagan.
Singleton has hit 124 homers for Baltimore since Flanagan joined the Orioles' staff late in the 1975 season, and 43 of them have come with Mike on the mound.
No. 43 came in the Orioles' 28th victory over Toronto in the teams' last 32 games. It was Singleton's seventh of the year and sixth in the past eight games.
Flanagan, who stifled the Blue Jays on three hits, was, as Singleton put it, "awesome. He made some pitches on left-handed batters that made me thankful I wasn't batting against him."
The first-inning homer off Jackson Todd was the only run the Orioles needed but they added three in the second, aided by two Toronto errors.
Indians 3, White Sox 2
Toby Harrah's two-run homer — only the fourth homer by a Cleveland batter this year — was also only the third hit off Ross Baumgarten, but the shot tied the score and triggered the three-run seventh inning that boosted Indians to their victory over Chicago.

"As far as I'm concerned, the team scored more than enough runs for me," the dejected Baumgarten said. "I made a bad pitch and I blew the game." Rick Waits was the winner, scattering nine hits.
After Harrah's homer, Bo Diaz walked and raced around the bases when catcher Jim Essian threw Rick Manning's bunt away. Right fielder Harold Baines fired the ball home, beating Diaz, but the Cleveland runner eluded Essian's lunging tag.
Tigers 2, Mariners 0
Dave Rozema stifled Seattle on two hits — singles by Richie Zisk in the second inning and Rick Auerbach in the third — and allowed only one other runner when he hit Jerry Narron with a fifth-inning pitch as the Tigers snapped their 10-game tailspin.
"When you're in a losing streak like this, it feels like forever," Manager Sparky Anderson said. "To be honest, I really didn't know that it wouldn't go on forever."

Rozema got all the support in the first inning when Alan Trammell singled, Steve Kemp walked, Lance Parrish doubled for one run and another scored on a grounder by John Wockenfuss.
Twins 8, Red Sox 4
Roy Smalley's two-run homer and two RBIs apiece by Gary Ward and Glenn Adams enabled Minnesota to saddle the Red Sox with their fourth consecutive defeat.
Smalley's sixth homer came off winless Frank Tanana in the first inning. He later singled and walked twice, scoring after each of the walks. Ward's two-run single capped a three-run second and Adams hit bases-loaded singled off

Bob Stanley in the fifth.
Boston finally snapped its scoreless string at 28 innings on Dave Stapleton's first-inning single. Consecutive solo homers by Jim Rice and Tony Perez chased Minnesota starter Roger Erickson in the ninth.
Brewers 12, Angels 1
It's been a long time between starts for Milwaukee reliever Jerry Augustine.
The last time he won as a starter was Aug. 28, 1978, when he two-hit Detroit 10-1. This time, as a late replacement when Pete Vuckovich said his shoulder bothered him, Augustine two-hit California for seven innings before retiring.

Roy Howell drove in four runs and Larry Hisle homered to lead the Brewers' 16-hit assault.

Pittsburgh Lumber Co. Seems Back In Business

By The Associated Press
The Pittsburgh Lumber Company is back in business.
"We came into New York batting 211. You can't help your pitchers with such a weak attack. But in our three games here we started to produce at the plate. Watch us from here on in," Manager Chuck Tanner said Thursday night after the Pirates' 7-4 victory gave them a sweep of a three-game series in which they outscored the Mets 25-4.
The Pirates battered Mets pitchers for 38 hits in the three games — New York has dropped six in a row — including four doubles, five triples and three home runs. Dave Parker slammed a two-run homer Thursday night while Tim Lincecum had three RBIs.

"I don't have any new-found power," said Reynolds, who hit only three home runs in the previous two seasons but connected for the second game in a row. "I'm not a power hitter. I just happened to hit it in the right ballpark."
Reds 4, Padres 3
Dave Collins rapped three hits to support the five-hit pitching of Mike LaCoss, Joe Price and Tom Hume, enabling the Reds to beat San Diego despite two home runs by the Padres' Joe Lefebvre. LaCoss, who lasted only 22-3 innings in his previous two starts, scattered four hits in 71-3.

Collins, now batting .405, doubled in the first inning and scored on Dave Concepcion's single. Collins then drove in one of two runs in the second inning. The Reds made it 4-1 with what proved to be the winning run in the eighth on singles by Dan Driessen and Johnny Bench plus an error by San Diego right fielder Jerry Turner.

Bear Grass Tops Creswell

BEAR GRASS — Bear Grass erupted for seven runs in the first inning and went on to defeat Creswell, 9-4, Thursday in a Northeastern Conference baseball game.
The Bears, now 12-2, led 7-0 after the first inning and 8-0 after scoring a run in the fourth.
Creswell got three of its four runs in the fifth and scored its final run of the day in the sixth. The Bears' last run came in the bottom of the fifth.
Walter Bullock got the Bears started in the first inning with a single. He went to second on Bob Peele ground out. Clay Gardner, Jodie Peaks, Edward Rogers and David Price then walked to force home two runs.
Craig Gardner then reached on an error that allowed three more runs to score and the Bears led, 5-0. Greg Harrison then walked and Bullock, up for the second time in the inning, singled home both Craig Gardner and Harrison and Bear Grass led, 7-0.

Bullock led the Bears in hitting with three singles in four at bats. Gardner had a double for Bear Grass.
Bear Grass travels to Chocowinity Tuesday.
Creswell 000 031 0-4 4 2

Creswell Rips Bears

BEAR GRASS — Creswell rocked Bear Grass for 29 hits en route to a 20-3 victory over the Lady Bears in a Northeastern Conference softball game that was called in the seventh inning because of rain.
Creswell jumped out to a 4-0 lead in the top half of the first only to have Bear Grass counter with three runs in the bottom of the inning to cut the deficit to one.
But Creswell scored two runs in the second, three in the third and then sandwiched five-run fourth and sixth innings around a one-run fifth for the victory.

Grantham New Greene Coach

SNOW HILL — Spence Grantham has worked under three head coaches while a Greene Central assistant coach and says he's learned something from each one. Now, he has a chance to put what he's learned to use.
Earlier this week Grantham was named head football coach at Greene Central, replacing Stewart Smith, who resigned recently after more than a decade as the Rams' head mentor. He will begin work immediately.
Grantham, a 38-year-old Greene County native, was head coach of the Rams' junior varsity football team and girls' track team and an assistant basketball coach this past year.

His JV teams have won the Eastern Carolina Conference championship the past two seasons and have gone 15-1 over that two-year period. During one stretch, his JV teams were unbeaten for four consecutive seasons. In all, the JV Rams lost just three games under Grantham.
Grantham is an East Carolina graduate with a B.S. degree in health and physical education and a minor in psychology. He was a member of the last graduating class of the now-defunct Snow Hill High School in 1961.

Kinston Tops Rose

ZEBULON — Kinston's Charles Evans shot a 69 to lift the Vikings past Zebulon and Greenville Rose Thursday afternoon in a high school golf match.
Evans' 69 left him as the match medalist, ahead of Zebulon's Art Roberson, who finished with a 70.
Rose was led by Kelly Kee's 72. Jack Mann and Tom Brewer had 73s for the Rampants and Brian Hill a 74.
The Rampants return to action Monday when they travel to Rocky Mount Division I All-Conference match.

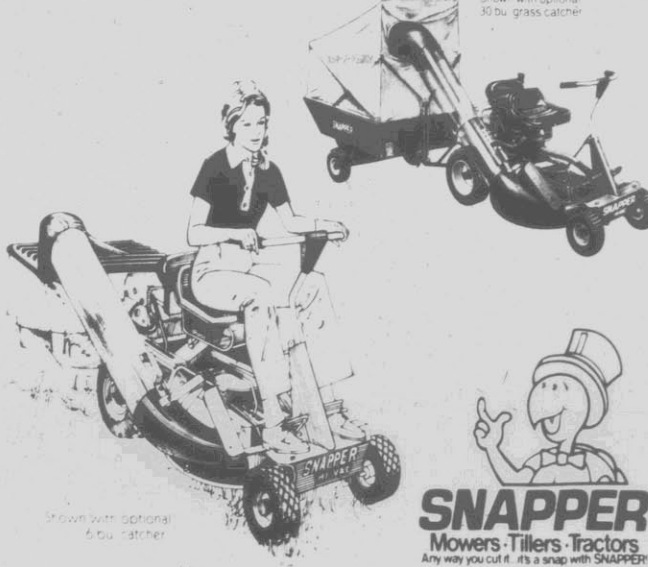

Rampants Roll Over N. Nash

Rose High School's netters gained an 8-1 victory over Northern Nash yesterday.
They return to action on Tuesday, traveling to Rocky Mount.
Details of the match were not made available to The Daily Reflector.

SNAPPER HI-VAC™ RIDERS BAG WHEN IT'S DRY... AND WHEN IT'S NOT.

Just about any mower can bag grass cuttings when it's dry but there is only one rider which operates efficiently during high moisture conditions. That mower is the SNAPPER Hi-Vac™ rider. It has "high vacuum" power for vacuuming cuttings, leaves and litter into an optional 6 bu. catcher or trailing 30 bu. Bag-N-Wagon. With the rear-mounted catcher you can maneuver in tight places, and without the cover, your Bag-N-Wagon becomes an ideal dump cart for hauling tools, fertilizer, firewood, etc.
SNAPPER mowers are worth more because they do more and their price is competitive with other quality mowers.

Three Sign At ECU

Two junior college transfers and a Raleigh freshman have signed to play volleyball at East Carolina University.

Sophomores Pam Fenton and Graciella "Lita" Lamas of Miami-Dade South and Raleigh Sanderson's Jenny Hauser will join the Lady Pirates, according to ECU assistant coach Lynn Davidson.

Fenton, a 5-8 outside hitter, and Lamas, a 5-8 defensive specialist, come from Miami teams that finished third and fourth in the nation over the past two years. Fenton sat out 1980 after helping the junior college to a third place finish in 1979. Lamas played on the No. 4 team last season.

Hauser, an all-star setter who led Sanderson to a state volleyball title this fall, also plays U.S. Volleyball Association volleyball. The 5-6 playmaker impresses Davidson greatly.

"Jenny really has good hands," Davidson said. "She has good quickness and can get to the ball well. She has great potential and comes from the best high school program in the state."

Cadwell Is Putt Winner

John Cadwell, after shooting a five-under par 31 in the first round, struggled home with a one-under par 35 to win the Thursday Night Amateur Tournament at the Putt-Putt last night.

Don Lewis was only one stroke behind with a 67 and Mike Wetherington finished third with a 68 as windy conditions plagued the putters for the third consecutive tournament.

Junior Samples On Strict Regime

ATLANTA (AP) — "Medicine, weight loss and clean living" is the prescription for "Hee Haw" star Junior Samples, who has been hospitalized in serious condition with hardening of the arteries, doctors say.

Samples, 54, a regular on the country music television show since 1969, has been in the intermediate intensive care unit at Atlanta's Northside Hospital since he suffered chest pains Monday, said his physician, Dr. Fred Bennett.

Tests indicated that the Cumming, Ga., man had not suffered a heart attack but did have coronary atherosclerosis, or hardening of the arteries, the physician said.

"It is not severe enough to warrant coronary bypass surgery," Bennett said. However, it will be "at least a month" before the comedian can return to work on "Hee Haw."

Meanwhile, Samples is "very chipper" and "in fine spirits," Bennett said. "He's joking with the nurses and with me."

His Reds cap perched squarely on his head, his ample belly sparring with the edge of the formica table in the NBC publicity conference room, Winters does his stuff. He's supposed to be here to publicize his series pilot airing on NBC Friday, a half-hour of pure Winters improvisation called "Take One." But the characters living in his head interrupt incessantly, turning the interview into a performance.

You don't interview Winters, you audience. Willingly. On the soul of an improv artist:

"You know, you get labels in this business, a wild person, 'Jonathon Winters is a wild person. How do you get a net over him? Was he really in a crazy house?'"

"But I enjoy my insanity. And I say 'insanity' because when people say to me, 'There's nothing the matter with me,' that's the person who puts the telescopic sight here (he levels an imaginary rifle out the window, aiming into the NBC parking lot) and says, 'Let's see how many we can get before we lose light. There's one (he pulls the trigger). That's the sort of person who says there's nothing wrong with him.'"

That kind of craziness, that senselessness, alienation and blind brutality of modern life, crashes the conversation relentlessly. There's reason for this, Winters has said that it's the child in him that's funny, and it's the child in us that laughs. The times are tough for all his children.

"It's harder to reach that little boy now. When I was growing up, the little boy saw six cars in the high school lot. Now, in some cases, there's no high school, just cars. We were confused, too, but we were confused in a wonderful way. Our imagination..."

The characters take over. This time it's Captain Midnight (with sound affects). "I'm Captain Midnight, off into space (whoosh)! What's the matter, Billy and Betty?"

Billy and Betty: "We're caught in the jungle and can't get out."

And on it goes, until Winters' adult returns to pick of the thread. "That was the world of imagination. Now, times have changed. It was one thing to live when there was no atomic bomb, another thing to live with the atomic bomb. And a completely different thing to live in a time when you wonder whether there will be total holocaust by Friday at 12:30."

"We've gotten used to assassinations, we've gotten used to guys in the Dallas towers, we've gotten used to guys taking shots at our leaders. I think the hardest thing, for the little boy in me to break through to the little boy out there, is this terrible paranoia we're all in. My little boy has to work 200 percent harder."

Another character, 8-year-old Tommy Brighton, comes forth to demonstrate the point.

Man: "You're little Tommy Brighton."

"Yes I am."

"Tommy, how are you doing in school?"

"Well, it's difficult to know what's going on from one day to the next. I watched a man on television who said he school situation is going to turn around by July. But we're going to be out of school by July, so what does he mean?"

"You're talking about busing..."

"Yes, I'd like to ride a bus."

"Why not walk to school?"

"No waaaaay. Eddie Terrell was stabbed to death by a 91-year-old man. He couldn't see. Thought it was a dog, that's what he said. C'mon, he killed him."

"That's terrible. How did you feel?"

"Eddie was bad. He would have died before he got to high school because he was bad news. He passed out gum balls with stuff in it..."

Point taken. It's kind of strange to find so much grim in a fellow so thoroughly comic. Maybe not so strange, come to think of it.

Winters shrugs and says, "These are the things that are happening, in Atlanta, everywhere. It's tough to take. But you can't make comedy a rubber doll. Then you've got nothing. You have to go with a piece of reality."

"The key is, somehow we've got to slip in a little more truth and still keep the world a fantasy."

If such is possible, Winters can work it. An original.

The bidding:

West North East South
1 ♦ Dble Pass 1 ♥
2 ♦ 2 ♥ Pass Pass

Pass

Opening lead: King of ♦.

One of the secrets of good defense is trust in your partner. This example from our files took place 30 years ago and afforded one of the writers of this column the pleasure of watching Helen Sobel at her best.

The bidding was routine, and Sobel, who held the West cards, started off with king, ace and the jack of diamonds. Rather than ruff low in dummy, and be overruffed, declarer sluffed a losing club from the table and East seized ed the opportunity to signal his strength in clubs by discarding the seven.

It would be easy for a careless defender to err and give declarer his contract. For instance, if West leads ace and another club, the defenders would get their two club tricks and no more. Or if West continues with a fourth diamond, declarer would sluff another club from dummy and again make his contract.

Helen was not regarded as one of the best players in the world for nothing. Placing absolute faith in her partner's club signal, she shifted to the nine of clubs! East won the king and returned a club to West's act to complete the defensive book. Now came the coup de grace: West led a fourth diamond. It made no difference what declarer elected to do. In practice, he sluffed a spade from dummy. East ruffed with the ten of trumps—a classic uppercut. Declarer overruffed, but West was now certain of a trump trick, and the contract had to go down one trick.

There was nothing earth-shattering about the defense. But simply believing partner was worth an absolute top score on the board.

Life As It's Lived

Conserving Energy Not A Paying Proposition

By GAIL MICHAELS
I have only one printable thing to say about the meteoric rise of my electric bill: conserving energy does not pay.

I realize that this assertion represents a radical departure from current utility company wisdom, but truth is on my side. Having followed every step of every how-to pamphlet ever enclosed in my monthly statement, I can safely say that for each penny I've avoided paying the power company, I've spent at least a dollar elsewhere.

My medical bills alone prove my point. The pamphlets tell us that, according to research, temperatures below 68 degrees are healthier for us. After three years of setting my thermostat below 68, I have my own theories about this research: either the researcher was working with Centigrade or he was a doctor whose practice needed a boost.

This winter destroyed the last vestiges of my faith in this particular piece of energy propaganda. I set my thermostat at 65 degrees Fahrenheit from November to April. With the proceeds my pharmacist took a trip to Acapulco.

What Allied Health didn't get of our savings went to building supply. Because our house is built like a sieve, Phillip and I decided to buy extra insulation. We noticed an immediate drop in the monthly power bill. At that rate I'll be knitting booties for my grandchildren before we'll realize any savings.

As the power bills kept going up, I turned in desperation to my washer and dryer. Although one of my cherished beliefs is that true sexual equality will never be achieved until there's an electric dryer in every home, I gave up my dryer in favor of line-drying.

The energy saving manuals are quick to mention this primitive undertaking's primary advantage: fresh-smelling clothes. Big deal. I can get a fresh smell with Bounce. What the manuals don't mention is that to get this smell from fresh air you may have to run the same wash two or more times.

My initial wash was bad enough. I had begun washing with cold water. I would have done better to beat it on a rock. Everything that was not navy blue or brown was gray. Everything that was navy blue or brown was wet. That's about all I can say for them. I'm not about to wager on the cleanliness of these items.

But the wet clothes were sparkling in comparison to the dry. The intrinsic inferiority of line-drying was apparent at a glance. Cat hairs clung to Phillip's white shirts with the tenacity of the soap scum on my bathroom tiles.

FOCUS

Everest on 5th Avenue

The Empire State Building is fifty years old today. When it opened, the world was in the midst of the Great Depression. However, the 102-story building inspired hope and faith. It was the tallest building in the world, and many identified it as a symbol of man's technical and creative talents. One reporter referred to the 3,000 men who labored each day on the building as "the poet builders." The "Everest on 5th Avenue" was built in record time, taking only one year and 45 days to complete. In all, the construction took seven million man-hours of labor. Today, the Empire State Building is still New York's biggest tourist attraction.

DO YOU KNOW — Which buildings, completed in 1973 in New York City, are taller than the Empire State Building?

THURSDAY'S ANSWER — Prince Charles will marry Lady Diana, the daughter of the eighth Earl Spencer. VEC, Inc. 1981

House Panel Kills Bottle Deposit Bill

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The bottle bill, a proposal to hold a statewide referendum on the question of setting a mandatory deposit on most beverage containers, was soundly defeated Thursday in a House committee.

The 12-5 defeat was a repeat of the fate that has met similar proposals to levy mandatory 5-cent deposits on drink bottles and cans in every legislative session since 1973.

The latest bill, sponsored by Rep. David Diamond, D-Surry, and 11 others, differed from previous proposals in one major respect — it would have authorized a statewide vote on the question next year. They said they knew they faced stiff opposition in the committee.

The measure was aimed at discouraging people from littering the roadside with beverage bottles and cans by providing an economic incentive for the return and reuse of containers.

The defeat effectively kills the bill for this session of the General Assembly, although supporters technically could still attempt to take a minority report to the House floor. Diamond said supporters did not know what their next step would be.

Diamond charged that lobbyists for the soft drink industry raised questions designed to confuse the committee members. He said the lobbyists charged that a deposit law would apply to juice and milk containers as well as soft-drink and beer bottles.

"Look on the side of the road. You don't see prune juice jars. You see beer bottles," he said. "We are just beginning to reverse the trend in North Carolina."

Rep. Marie Colton, D-Buncombe, urged committee members to speak up for their constituents who have no well-financed lobbying effort.

"Those people are unrepresented ... and have no voice except for the ones of us who are willing to go out on the line and say we are willing to represent them in the Legislature," she said.

But others said they did not believe the bill would accomplish supporters' goal of cleaning up the roadsides.

"If we approve this bill, it would lead the people of this state to believe it would correct the litter problem," said Rep. T.W. Ellis, D-Vance. "I don't believe it would do that."

In other legislative action:

Workers Comp

On a motion of Rep. Dwight Quinn, D-Cabarrus, the House Manufacturing and Labor Committee agreed to send to a subcommittee a bill easing the limitations on the filing of compensation claims by victims of asbestosis and silicosis.

The bill, already passed by the Senate, would drop a 1935 law that now prevents workers who contract those two diseases from filing claims more than two years after their last exposure to working conditions that led to the lung diseases.

Sen. Cecil Jenkins, D-Cabarrus, sponsor of the bill, told the panel that the time prohibition should be dropped because in many cases, it takes more than two years for symptoms of the disease to develop.

Abortions

A bill in the state Senate that would require the notification of parents when their daughters are considering an abortion was delayed Thursday. But supporters demonstrated they may have enough strength to win approval of the measure in that chamber.

Sen. Carolyn Mathis, D-Mecklenburg, stopped action on the bill by calling for an analysis of how much the measure would cost the state should it be enacted into law. Her request delays a vote on the bill until at least Monday.

Sen. Ollie Harris, D-Cleveland, introduced the bill, which would require doctors try to contact a minor's parents to tell them she is seeking an abortion. A violation would be a misdemeanor and punishable by $500, six months in jail or both.

The bill would not affect minors who are married.

Supporters defeated a pair of gutting amendments offered by Sen. Charles Vickery, D-Orange. The first would have given doctors discretion on whether or not to contact the young woman's parents. The second would have removed the threat to physicians of criminal prosecution.

Succession

A constitutional amendment prohibiting the governor and lieutenant governor from serving two successive terms was

Remains Opposed To Any Tax Boost

ASHEBORO, N.C. (AP) — Asheboro industrialist W. David Stedman said Thursday that a meeting with Gov. Jim Hunt last week has not changed his determination to fight Hunt's highway tax increase proposals.

"I am unalterably opposed to any increase in taxes as I have said repeatedly," Stedman said. "We are talking about impacting on the standard of living of people. That's in bad enough shape now. We don't need to make it worse."

Hunt proposed on Monday a 3-cent increase in the state's gasoline tax and a 50 percent increase in liquor taxes.

Instead of raising taxes, the highway and general funds should be combined to finance road construction, Stedman said, adding that the state should then make major spending cuts across-the-board without raising taxes.

"As far as I'm concerned, this is not a compromise issue," he said.

Stedman said he is among the Democrats opposed to the tax increases and will help lead the fight against them.

Death Penalty Decreed In Cheerleader's Murder

HALIFAX, N.C. (AP) — Weeping jurors Thursday sentenced Kermit Smith Jr., a self-described "all-American boy," to die in the gas chamber June 26 for the brutal murder of a Wesleyan College cheerleader.

"I've been ready to die for some time," said the lean, pale, 23-year-old Roanoke Rapids man, convicted by the same jury Wednesday of first-degree murder in the December death of 20-year-old Wheelie Collins. "I've made too many mistakes in my life."

Miss Collins' raped, beaten body was found at the bottom of a quarry, her legs stuffed into a concrete block, after two other abducted cheerleaders escaped from the trunk of Smith's car.

The courthouse clock called 5 o'clock as Superior Court Judge George M. Fountain finished the sentencing with the words, "May God have mercy on your soul."

Smith, who remained calm as he was sentenced to death, thus becomes the 15th person on North Carolina's death row.

After the session, members of the victim's family and the other two cheerleaders — Yolanda M. Woods and Dawn Lavelle Killen — tearfully embraced prosecutors.

"I felt sorry for him, but it could have been all three of them (murdered)," said Rose Coleman of Baltimore, mother of Miss Woods.

Defense attorneys Lunsford Crew and Dwight Cranford pleaded for Smith's life, saying neither the jury nor the state had a right to take a life.

"To kill him now would be as deliberate an act, more deliberate than what he did that fateful night," Cranford said.

But prosecutor Don Stevens said, "His witnesses said he lived in a fantasy world. He accomplished his fantasy. For that he must die."

District Attorney W.E. Murphrey III said, "We are asking for the death penalty because justice demands it."

The jurors asked Fountain if Smith could be paroled if he were sentenced to life in prison, but Fountain told them not to consider that question. They also asked the judge if they should impose the death sentence if aggravating circumstances outweighed the mitigating circumstances.

"If they do, yes, it is your duty to impose the death penalty," Fountain said. Jurors returned the death sentence after 1½ hours of deliberation.

Fountain also sentenced Smith to consecutive sentences of 40 years on the rape charge and 10 years on a robbery charge.

During Smith's trial, defense attorneys refused to submit any evidence on his behalf. But for the sentencing portion of the trial, two psychiatrists testified that Smith is anti-social, although not insane.

Testimony revealed Smith as the product of a broken home. His father said young Smith tried to kill himself in 1977 by connecting a hose from his car exhaust. The attempt failed when the car ran out of gasoline, he said.

Young Smith served a previous term for larceny and asked to be separated from other prisoners because of sexual abuse, witnesses said.
