

Name New City School Superintendent

By JERRY RAYNOR

Dr. Delma C. Blinson, principal of Garner High School, has been named superintendent of Greenville City Schools and Board Chairman Nancy Middleton Jenkins has resigned because she is moving from the city.

Personnel was in the forefront of the action meeting of the Greenville City Board of Education Monday night, with announcements of the resignation of the board's chairman, the announcement of the retirement of four career teachers, and the naming of a new superintendent.

Vice Chairman Dr. Jon Tinglestad informed the board that he had received a letter from Mrs. Jenkins tendering her resignation from the board effective June 16, 1981.

Mrs. Jenkins told the board that the reason she is resigning is that she will no longer be a resident of Greenville. She was elected in May, 1978 for a four-year term beginning July 1, 1978.

Superintendent Glenn Cox said that he had notified Mayor Don McGlohon of Mrs. Jenkins' intended resignation so that the City Council can make an appointment to fill the 12½ months in her unexpired term.

Board member Jack Wall, chairman of the committee interviewing candidates for a new superintendent, announced that the board has approved the nomination of Dr. Blinson as superintendent effective July 1, replacing Cox, whom the board earlier this spring voted out of his job.

Dr. Blinson is to be in Greenville Wednesday morning, and will be at Willis Building on First Street to meet the press and the public. Wall emphasized that the public is welcome to come by and meet the nominated superintendent. He is currently principal of Garner High School.

Also, on Monday, May 25, at 7:30 a.m., the board is sponsoring an appreciation breakfast for Cox at the Cinnamon Tree Restaurant. The early hour of the event is to give teachers and principals an opportunity to attend prior to the beginning of classes.

The four teachers who will be retiring at the end of the school year are: Gladys D. Pate, Sadie Sautler; Willie F. Jones, Greenville Middle School; Lillie M. Reid, librarian, Third Street; and Grace Caraway, J. H. Rose.

In another personnel related matter, the board voted to extend the arrangement with the firm of Dixon and Horne to act as the school board attorney, working primarily with Phillip Dixon.

Financial compensation to the firm remains unchanged, with the board paying $200 a month to the firm as a retainer for miscellaneous telephone consultations and conferences and for reviewing the agenda of the board for potential legal problems. The agreement also calls for a fee of $40 per hour for any legal services rendered by the firm, in addition to the $200 monthly stipend.

Additionally, the board will pay for the firm's membership in the North Carolina School Board Association and pay for a member of the firm to attend annual workshops for school board attorneys sponsored by the Institute of Government in Chapel Hill.

The agreement is effective for a one-year period.

On the matter of a switch in school starting time, with secondary grades starting earlier and elementary grades starting later, which has been discussed in previous meetings without any action taken, Cox commented that "as far as I'm concerned you will not be hearing any more from me on this." He explained that "in my opinion it is not the right time to get involved in such a change. My reason for saying this is based primarily on the tremendous changes by the state in transportation. There's a whole new set of rules and regulations due next school year in the system of allotting funds for transportation."

Another reason Cox touched on for his stand is "that I have talked to principals and parents who are not in favor of the change at this time."

Dr. Tinglestad raised the question of Mrs. Terry Shank's earlier suggestion of schools taking in 15 minutes earlier. Cox replied "we may have to do something on that, we'll bring it back up for discussion."

Henry Groome, appearing on behalf of the city wide PTA, presented the board a two page "Suggestions for Written Rules and Regulations" to govern school bus drivers, passengers, school administrators and parents relative to behavior on school buses.

Groome noted, "These are suggestions only, and our committee is aware that final action is in the hands of the school board."

Among suggestions are: that bus drivers cannot have a criminal record; the requirement of an additional half-day training for bus drivers, to be paid for by the city wide PTA; consideration of giving one-half to one high school credit to high school bus drivers; an attempt to actively recruit parents as school bus drivers; assignment of seats to students; and enforcement of a State Board of Education rule which states that no passengers should stand on school buses.

On the suggestion of looking into criminal records of drivers, Ed Carter commented that this would need to be a matter that would have a direct bearing on bus driving, that a criminal record alone could not be the legal basis of denying a bus driving job to a candidate.

Cox pointed out that the State Board of Education had given Greenville City Schools exemption to the no standing rule. "We now have 28 buses transporting 2,500 students daily," Cox said. "If we had to have a seat for each child, that would require three or four more buses at $30,000 each, or about $120,000 total, and we simply do not have the money for them."

GNP Sharply Up Despite Lag In Spending, Income

By ROBERT FURLOW
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) —

The nation's gross national product climbed 8.4 percent in the first three months of this year, the biggest gain in nearly three years and almost two percentage points more than was first reported, the Commerce Department reported today.

The report came one day after other government statistics on personal spending and income indicated that the nation's economic growth has slowed considerably since the robust first quarter activity.

The department originally reported the first quarter gain in "real" GNP — the value of the total output of the nation's goods and services after adjustment for inflation — at 6.5 percent. The new figure, based on more complete information, showed increases in a number of categories, including the value of inventories and net exports, a department analyst said.

The first quarter GNP now is estimated at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of $2.854 trillion. That translates into $1.516 trillion in 1972 dollars, the department's benchmark for discounting inflationary changes.

The first quarter gain is the biggest since the 9 percent recorded in the second quarter of 1978.

The new report also pegged inflation at 10 percent in the first quarter as computed by the GNP implicit price deflator. That rate had earlier been reported at 7.8 percent. Analysts had questioned that figure as being too low.

Today's report also showed corporate profits up in the first quarter, with before-tax profits rising 3.7 percent to $258.7 billion and after-tax profits climbing 2.4 percent to $168.3 billion.

Corporate profits from current production — adjusting for depreciation and inventory replacement costs — rose 10.5 percent, the biggest gain since the 13.2 percent for the second quarter of 1978, the report said.

Analysts inside and outside the government agree that second quarter GNP figures will be far below those for the first three months of the year, and some are predicting an actual decline in inflation-adjusted output.

Personal consumption spending rose 0.2 percent in April, the Commerce Department reported Monday. But that increase undoubtedly would have been a decrease had not inflation driven up the prices of goods.

Such spending, which makes up more than 60 percent of the gross national product, had risen 1.4 percent as recently as January. But then it leveled off at about the rate of inflation before dropping in April.

Other details of Commerce Department reports released Monday indicated:

—Personal income rose only 0.6 percent in April, the smallest increase since last June, while spending climbed 0.2 percent, the smallest rise since last May.

—Housing starts rose 4.2 percent last month, making up only a little of the 27 percent decline recorded in February. And the department's acting chief economist, William Cox, said that "the housing sector is without a doubt going to be a negative influence on the next couple of quarters" of overall economic growth.

A separate Federal Reserve Board report showed U.S. manufacturers operating at 80.3 percent of capacity in April. That 0.3 percentage point increase — to the highest level in a year — was considered an indication that producers are not about to shut down entirely in the face of reduced consumer spending. Personal consumption spending, one of the most important fuels the economy runs on, "seems to have come to a halt," Cox said.

Audit Action Taken Monday By Pitt Board

By STUART SAVAGE

The Board of County Commissioners yesterday reviewed proposals for an audit contract for the 1980-81 and 1981-82 fiscal years yesterday, agreeing to award the contract to Lloyd R. Moody CPA if the firm proves to be a responsible bidder.

The Moody firm submitted a proposal to do the 1980-81 audit for $13,000 and the 1981-82 audit for $14,000, while the next low bid was from Lowmore Worwick & Co. which conducted the 1979-80 audit. Their proposal was $18,000 for 1980-81 and $21,000 for 1981-82. The third bidder, Farley Prescott Mizelle & Co. submitted a proposal totaling $19,500 for 1980-81 and $21,750 for 1981-82.

The board discussed with Carolina Telephone & Telegraph Co. officials extended area telephone service in the county. Such service, now in effect in most areas of the county, allows calls to and from Greenville with no toll charge. Yesterday's discussion centered around including Grifton and Fountain in the no-toll service.

Although there is no separate charge for each call under the extended area service program, base rates in the communities receiving the service are increased to compensate for the reduction in tolls.

Commissioners named Jerry Powell of Greenville as a member of the Pitt County Development Commission to replace Robert S. Griffin who resigned, and gave final approval to a lease-purchase contract with IBM for a new computer at a cost of $10,761 per month for the first year of the contract and $10,561 per month for the second year. Total purchase of the equipment would take five years.

The board, at the request of the Greenville Board of Education, agreed to look into the per diem paid to the city and county school boards.

City school superintendent Glenn Cox, on behalf of the city board, said city board members have been receiving $50 per month while the chairman of the board is paid $100 per month as authorized by the Board of County Commissioners in a June, 1977 resolution.

Cox said the resolution also authorized the same per diem for the County Board of Education. However, according to Cox, the members of the county school board have been receiving $75 per month and the chairman $150 per month for the past two years.

County Manager Reginald Gray noted that the $50 and $100 per diem figures were the, "only authorized amounts."

Guerrillas Kill Five Soldiers

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) —

Guerrillas set off an estimated 1,000 pounds of explosives hidden in milk churns under a British armored personnel carrier today, killing all five soldiers aboard, the army said.

The incident occurred near the hometown of IRA hunger striker Raymond McCreesh, nearing death in the 59th day of his hunger strike.

The vehicle was blasted off a road in South Armagh, known by the British as "bandit country," near the border with the Irish Republic.

An army spokesman said the explosives were detonated as two Saracen carriers on patrol approached a bridge. The leading carrier escaped damage, while the second one was "blown off the road," killing the crew.

It was the highest number of casualties suffered by the British Army in Northern Ireland in a single incident since 18 soldiers were killed in a bomb explosion at Warrenpoint on Aug. 17, 1979.

On the same day British soldier-statesman Lord Mountbatten and three members of his party were killed when their yacht was blown up off the west coast of the Irish Republic.

The army Saracen carrier hit the land mine at about 10:30 a.m. — 5:30 a.m. EDT — south of Newry, County Down, on a road to McCreesh's hometown of Camlough.

There were no immediate claims of responsibility.

Early today, the British government refused demands by McCreesh's family to remove two members of the medical team attending him. The relatives said the prison doctors tried to confuse McCreesh and pressure him to end his fast.

The controversy shadowed what may be McCreesh's last hours. Sinn Fein, the IRA's political front, said he was blind and slipping in and out of consciousness in his 59th day without food.

McCreesh and three other guerrillas are striking for political prisoner status for IRA convicts.

Two other IRA guerrillas, Bobby Sands and Francis Hughes, died earlier this month in Belfast's Maze prison after lengthy hunger strikes.

Special Meet

A special call meeting of the City Council will be held Wednesday, May 20 at 7:30 a.m. at the Public Works facility on Beatty Street to consider an amendment to the 1980-81 city budget.

WITNESS SOUGHT

The witness to the collision of a 1972 Ford and a 1979 black Corvette at the intersection of E. Tenth and Washington streets here Sunday about 11 p. m. is sought by one of the drivers involved. He said he has been told that a man went into the Happy Store nearby immediately afterward and commented on the accident. This is the person from whom he wishes to hear. This person or anyone else who saw the accident is asked to call Thomas Neal Dixon Jr. collect in Scotland Neck, 826-4589.

FLAG SOUNDOFF

May 10 was Confederate Memorial Day and the Confederate battle flag was flown over the State Capitol. I can understand this as the Ku Klux Klan flies the same battle flag over its meetings. I would like to say to the members of the ethnic groups for which the Klan expresses contempt that we who love the Confederacy and its history do not subscribe to the beliefs of the Klan nor stand for their cause. I would like to see the Klan members design their own flag, so that of the Confederacy can be flown without taint. J. H.

WATER COMPLAINT

We the residents of Colonial Mobile Home Park are upset about the amount we're being charged for water by the Rose Hill Water Corporation. We want to know who we can talk to get some kind of equitable action taken. J. S.

Hotline talked to J. P. Reddington, an owner of the mobile home park, who said he'd be happy to have either Don Rudd, the manager at Greenway Apartments or Raymond Eakes, a water systems consultant he retains, talk with you. The Rose Hill Company, supplier of the water for the mobile home park, buys water from Greenville Utilities he says and has to pay double rates just like an individual homeowner outside the Greenville city limits, even though it is, of course, a business retailing water service. The industries in the same area pay only single rates, he pointed out. This, he said, is why service is costly to the company and the retail-buyer residents alike. He asked that you think of the company's predicament. He said he'd be willing to have specific meters checked or do anything necessary to satisfy you that you are not being cheated.

P&G Employees Mark Million Hours Of Safety

Employees of Procter & Gamble's Greenville plant, in activities Monday, celebrated the achievement of having worked one million consecutive hours without incurring a disabling injury.

Taking part in activities at the plant were Don Wiseman, OSHA Director for North Carolina, Burney L. Tucker, vice chairman of the Pitt County Board of Commissioners, Mayor Don McGlohon, and Robert Griffin, plant manager.

Griffin accepted on behalf of the employees a special state certificate from Wiseman, who told the gathering in the P&G cafeteria that it was a "special privilege to see a group work one million hours without seeing any of your fellow workers hurt."

The plant manager and members of the plant's safety team accepted a P&G safety award flag from the company's corporate medical director from Cincinnati, Ohio, Dr. K.D. McMurray Jr.

McMurray congratulated the employees for the safety achievement and pointed out that "safety is a learned function. It doesn't come naturally." He said that "group safety is personal safety lumped together."

Griffin observed that the current achievement marks the third time local P&G employees have reached one million safe work hours, obtaining the record in 1977 and again in 1979. He said, "Our next challenging goal is to continue working safely and accumulate two million consecutive safe work hours."

He added, "The accumulation of safe hours is important, but what is most important and satisfying is that no one working at the Greenville plant suffered the unnecessary pain of a disabling injury during this record period. This has been possible not only because of a safe work environment, but because of the safety attitude of the employees at the...plant. Safety continues to be one of our most important priorities."

Yesterday's activities included "make-your-own" banana splits and a personal gift from P&G for each employee.

The Greenville plant began operations in August of 1975. The facility employs over 500 area citizens and produces Pampers disposal diapers and Attends disposable briefs.

Shooting Death

Greenville Police, agents of the State Bureau of Investigation, and members of the Pitt County Sheriff's Department are investigating the shooting death of Willie Ray Daniels of 1400 Myrtle Ave. last night.

Chief Glenn Cannon said investigators are presently looking for a white woman who took the 35-year-old black man to the Pitt Memorial Hospital emergency room, then left.

According to the chief, the woman, described as about 32 years old with long black hair and driving a red and black car, arrived at the hospital with Daniels about 8:53 p.m. Accompanied by a child of about 8 years old, she drove off without giving her name or any information about the shooting after hospital employees removed Daniels from the front passenger seat of the vehicle and took him into the emergency room.

Daniels, who died shortly after arriving at the hospital, was shot in the left shoulder and bled to death.

Cannon said at mid-morning that officers have not determined where the shooting occurred.

Secret Search Nets Windfall For Famous And The Obscure

BY SHARON COHEN
Associated Press Writer
CHICAGO (AP) — A secret search for genius by one of the nation's wealthiest foundations has brought windfalls of up to $300,000 to 21 people whose sole obligation now is to pursue their dreams.

"It makes a free man of you," winner Carl E. Schorske, 66, said Monday. The retired Princeton professor and specialist in modern European history is among four Pulitzer Prize winners honored.

Both the famous and the obscure were named prize fellows Monday by the MacArthur Foundation, which had tapped 100 educators, scientists and artists across the country to nominate "exceptionally talented individuals" for the five-year stipends, which winners can use as they please. The identities of the talent scouts were withheld to prevent lobbying, the foundation said.

The disciplines of the winners are as diverse as their backgrounds. They include three-time Pulitzer Prize-winning writer Robert Penn Warren; a 21-year-old California physicist; an exiled Soviet poet sent to an Arctic labor camp for "parasitism" and a colorful mosaic of scientists and historians, mathematicians and artists.

Henry Lewis Gates, Jr., 30, a literary critic interested in the portrayal of blacks in European literature, called his award "a bolt out of the blue. I asked if it was a joke.

"All of a sudden, I can dream again," he said in an interview Monday from his New Haven, Conn., home.

The MacArthur Foundation, the third-largest in the nation, is named after Catherine and John D. MacArthur, who made his fortune in insurance, real estate, banking and industry. MacArthur died in 1978 and the foundation was created two years ago. This is the first time the awards have been given.

The foundation intends to name 29 more winners this year and has committed $10 million to $12 million for the five-year undertaking.

"This program is probably the best reflection of the rugged individualism exemplified by my father — the risky betting on individual explorers while everybody else is playing it safe on another track," said Roderick MacArthur, MacArthur's son. "It's a high-risk venture."

The prize fellows, selected from more than 500 entries, will receive $24,000 to $60,000 annually for five years to "provide the economic freedom" so the recipients can devote themselves to their careers. The amounts vary according to age.

Warren, 76, of Fairfield, Conn., will receive the most money — $300,000, which he said will buy him time to write.

"The impulse to write is strong," Warren said, "but it gets impaired when you have to go on the road and give poetry readings to make anything substantial."

Stephen Wolfram, a 21-year-old physicist at California Institute of Technology in Pasadena, said he is "still a little bit mystified why they chose me.

"But I won't turn it down," the Oxford, England native said of the $130,000 he is to receive. "It doesn't come with any strings attached at all."

Elma Lewis, 59, another

MacArthur prize fellow, said when she heard she had been selected, one of her first reactions was relief.

"I have been insolvent so long trying to do what I've wanted to do without money, I feel like the old Israelites. I was making bricks without straw," said Miss Lewis, director and founder of the National Center of Afro-American Artists Inc., in Boston.

Bike Rodeos Winners Announced

In conjunction with the local observance of Bicycle Safety Week, the Citizens Bikeway Committee conducted bicycle rodeos on Saturday at Jaycee Park and at the Boys' Club.

Winners at Jaycee Park were: (third grade and below), Ashley Davenport, first; Angela Beamon, second; Aaron Tschetter, third; (fourth-sixth grades), Marty Tschetter, first; Matt Coop, second; Scott Carawan, third; (seventh-ninth grades), Ernest Reeves, first; Mark Willis, second; and Tony Campbell, third.

Winners at the Boys' Club were: (third grade and below), Carlester Crumpler Jr., first; Carlos Ebron, second; Micron Foreman, third; (fourth-sixth grades), Jimmy Kornegay, first; Tony Small, second; Kendrick Morgan, third; (seventh-ninth grades), Ernest Reeves, first; Darrin Brown, second; and Steve Mayo, third.

Baffled Over Low Road Bid

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — A paving company barred from bidding on state highway contracts in connection with the bid-rigging scandal has submitted the low bid on a project in Beaufort County — and state officials say they don't know whether to reject it.

Barrus Construction Co. of Kinston, a division of APAC-Carolina Inc., has submitted the low bid to pave about one mile of road and several parking lots in Goose Creek State Park.

Jane S. Patterson, deputy secretary of administration and chairman of the North Carolina Capital Building Authority, said Monday she doesn't know what action the authority will take.

"I think we're confused as to what the law does say," Mrs. Patterson said.

The difference between the Barrus bid and the second lowest bid — $440,438 by W.E. Garrison Grading Co. of Raleigh — is about $73,000. Chance Construction Co. Inc. of New Bern bid $444,125.93.

The authority will have to prove that Barrus was an irresponsible bidder in order to reject the company's bid, Mrs. Patterson said. In that case, authority members might be held personally responsible, she said.

T. Buie Costen, the special deputy attorney general who advises the authority, said: "If the Capital Building Authority is satisfied, as the Department of Transportation was apparently satisfied, that a company has been engaged in bid rigging and cheating the state — that would support a finding that they are not a responsible bidder."

The State Board of Transportation suspended Barrus on Sept. 18 from bidding on state highway contracts for an indefinite period after its former parent company, Ashland-Warren Inc., pleaded guilty to federal bid-rigging charges in Virginia.

In March, two Barrus executives pleaded guilty in U.S. District Court in Raleigh to violating the Sherman Antitrust Act by rigging bids on highway projects in North Carolina.

T.R. Mewborn, president of Barrus, and Alban K. Barrus Jr., executive vice president, were sentenced to 120 days and 90 days in prison.

Spokesmen for the Division of Parks and Recreation said they will recommend that the authority accept Barrus' bid.

"We are required by law to recommend low bidder, so that's what we're doing," said division landscape architect Stanley N. Williams.

John H. Emerson, chief engineer in the Division of State Construction, said that until now none of the companies suspended by the transportation board in the bid-rigging scandal had submitted the low bid on a Capital Building Authority job.

"So it is really the first time the Capital Building Authority has had to face the issue," he said.

Some 41 bikers participated at Jaycee Park, while 35 youngsters took part in the Boys' Club rodeo. All of the participants competed in seven different skill areas.

The rodeos were co-sponsored by the Host Lions Club, Optimist Club, and Recreation and Parks Department.

Rose Band Giving Concert

The J.H. Rose High School Concert Band will be giving its annual spring concert Wednesday, May 20, at 8:00 p.m. in the Rose High gym, free of charge. Featured in the concert will be Jim Bearden on clarinet, Mike Pollard on trombone, and a trumpet trio composed of Bill Saunders, Todd Lynch, and Alan Broadhurst. The band is conducted by James Rodgers.

NOTE SALE
The Local Government Commission is selling today a revenue anticipation note in the amount of $135,000 for the Town of Fountain.

The note will be repaid when the town sells bonds which have been approved for improvements in the town's sewer and waste treatment systems.

A member of St. John F.W.B. Church, Mrs. Faison is church secretary and is active in the choir, usher board and the Young People's Christian Leadership organization. He hobbies include sewing, flowers and fishing.

First runner-up in the competition was Fleeta Tetton, representing Philippi Baptist Church of Simpson. Second runner-up was Willie M. Hawkins, of White Oak Baptist Church in Grimesland, and third runner-up was Janice Shepard of St. Matthew's F.W.B. Church in Greenville.

Other contestants included Patricia Atkinson, Lucy Teel, Ida Cannon, Betsy Simpson, Willie Mae Harris, Brenda Taft, and Lue G. Holloway.

Mrs. Faison will represent Pitt County in the statewide competition next Sunday in Durham at White Rock Baptist Church.

RECEIVES DEGREE
LAURINBURG — Joni Jay Buck, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Noah Buck of Rt. 3, Greenville, received her degree from St. Andrews Presbyterian College during commencement exercises held recently.

She will continue her education at UNC-CH.

GRADUATES
Rose Mary Stocks of Greenville was among graduates receiving degrees May 16 at the University of South Carolina at Columbia, S.C. She received a bachelor of science degree in pharmacy. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mack C. Stocks, 211 Churchill Drive.

"I haven't given retirement any sort of thought whatsoever. I'm just thinking about everyday living.

"The Albemarle will be a good second home for me — one where I won't have to worry about $400 oil bills and driving into town from seven miles out in the country.

"The lifetime care that it offers is important too. If you get sick you know that somebody is going to look after you — for the rest of your life if you need it.

Cover up your clutter in the newest and brightest way with crewel stitches on a pastel plastic canvas! There's no need for tedious background filling as the luscious colors of the canvas were designed to show.

These clever "plastic point" boxes are great for desk or dresser, counter or table tops, sewing room, bedroom, den or kitchen — wherever you need to keep a few small items handy but out of sight. Best of all, they're quick and easy to make.

Pamper yourself with several and then make them ahead for gifts or for your special charity bazaar. Take your choice of stitches from beginner-easy to intermediate level.

To obtain directions for making the Plastic Point Boxes, send your request for Leaflet No. 9138 with $1 and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to: Pat Trexler, "The Daily Reflector," P.O. Box 810, North Myrtle Beach, S.C. 29582.

Or you may order Kit No. K-9138, containing sufficient materials for making three boxes, by sending check or money order for $14.50 to Pat Trexler at the same address. The pastel plastic canvas is available in blue, pink, green or yellow. You may order all of one color or a mix of three colors. Please advise your choice of colors. Coordinating yarns are included.

Dear Pat: Would you help me keep a promise I made to myself last Christmas? When the charge account bills came rolling in during December and January, I vowed that 1981 would be different and that I would make most of my gifts and decorations this year. With my long gift list, I need to start now and would like to have some suggestions. I dabble in all of the

What a smart gal you are, May, to start whittling away at your Christmas gift list now. Most of us procrastinate and are then feverishly burning the midnight oil trying to do more than we have time for at the last minute.

I'll definitely be featuring lots of ideas for knits, crochets, macrame pieces and much more in the coming months, but let's talk needlepoint today.

With the plastic canvas now available, you don't have to be expert at stitching or finishing techniques to create delightful gift items. About this time last year, I taught a group of friends a few simple pattern stitches and turned them loose with yarn and plastic canvas, telling them only to use their imaginations.

The results were terrific and all were justifiably proud of themselves. The star pupils, by the way, were two men who, between them, made over 30 tissue box covers and napkin holders for gifts.

In addition to these plastic canvas projects, they have progressed to the more traditional cotton canvas and also

WOTM Have Program

The Women of the Moose Chapter 1308 had a program on Academy of Friendship Thursday evening at the Moose Lodge.

Nettie Williams, academy of friendship committee chairman, introduced Senior Regent Mary Beppard as speaker. She told what an Academy of Friendship is and its requirements.

The slate of officers nominated for the next year was read. Election will take place May 28 at 7:30 p.m.

A combined trash and treasurer sale will be held in the Moose Lodge parking lot Saturday, May 23.

Nettie Williams was meeting hostess.

One way to help beat the cost of French high fashion is to visit the French owned Caribbean island Martinique. On this island of definite French influence, one can usually save 20% on bikinis, wine and fine clothing goods. Most famous designer labels are in evidence. Perhaps the finest collection of French goods under one roof is that of Roger Albert on the Rue Victor-Hugo in Fort-de-France. Crystal, perfumes, cosmetics, jewelry and watches all abound here. Beaufrand serves up a nice array of leather goods, textiles, copper and ceramics. Cade-Daniel, at 72 Rue Antoine Segur, offers up beautiful table settings and lovely gold jewelry.

Dear Abby

No Free Lunches Even For Dogs

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: In reference to the woman who brought her son to a doctor's office in an emergency without her checkbook: I assure you this happens all too often.

My husband is a veterinarian and I help in his office. "I forgot my checkbook" is a common excuse. It is often months and many reminders later before we're paid.

There are few products and services we can get without cash, check or charge (established credit, that is). And I'd like to see you get your car out of a garage after it's been repaired by saying, "I forgot my checkbook."

It's time for the consumer to realize that nothing is free, and there is no reason why a doctor or any other professional should extend credit to anyone who comes in off the street.

TIRED OF THOSE "CHECKS-IN-THE-MAIL"

DEAR TIRED: I agree. But in this case, the patient wasn't "off the street"; he was referred by his regular physician who was unavailable at the time of this emergency. Also, you can't compare a human with a broken arm to a Honda with a broken axle.

DEAR ABBY: I am 13 years old and have a problem. Softball starts soon, and it falls on the same day and time as my clarinet lesson. My parents want me to continue my clarinet lessons, but my softball coach can't change the practice time.

My clarinet instructor can't change my lesson time either. I want to play softball. Your reply will help us decide.

L. WAGNER, ELKHORN, NEB.

DEAR L.: Appeal to your clarinet teacher again. Surely there is one pupil who will change the time of his (or her) lesson to accommodate you. While sports is as important as music, a town the size of Elkhorn can't afford to lose a clarinetist to the softball team.

DEAR ABBY: Already I am worried about our summer vacation.

My husband wants to take me and the children on a picture-taking trip through Colorado for our vacation (he is a camera nut).

Our children, 7 and 6, are constantly fighting, so you can imagine what an automobile trip with them would be like for two weeks!

I realize that my husband works hard all year and deserves the kind of vacation he enjoys, but I don't relish the idea of being referee for the kids while father pursues his hobby, which involves looking for places to photograph and endless waiting for perfect sun directions.

What is your advice?

MOM

DEAR MOM: Compromise and spend part of your vacation doing his thing, and the other part doing yours.

A suggestion: On long motor trips with kids who don't get along, instead of putting them both in the back seat, let one sit in front with Dad, and keep the other in the back with you. Then switch.

INFORMATION OMITTED

In the wedding write-up of Donna Faye Grimes and Eric Thomas Pollard printed in the May 11 issue of "The Daily Reflector," the following information was omitted.

The couple is living in Greenville after a Florida wedding trip.

The bride is a staff accountant with Lowmire, Warwick and Co., CPA. She is a graduate of ECU. The bridegroom is also a graduate of ECU, where he will receive a MBA in July. He is employed by ECU.

The rehearsal dinner was given by the parents of the bridegroom at the Ramada Inn.

When the kids were growing up, no one was more of an anti-mess militant than I. Call me a fanatic. Call me strict. Call me picky. But I insisted all food stored under the beds had to be covered. Windows had to be kept closed at all times to keep the pollution localized. And dead pets had to be buried underground.

That's when I was the nagger and they were the naggees.

The other day my son walked into my office and observed, "This place is a dump!"

"If you don't like it," I said, "you don't have to look at it. Just close the door."

"If I close the door, it's still a part of the house. What are you doing with dead flowers on your desk?"

"DON'T TOUCH MY DESK!" I said. "I know where everything is."

"And these old coffee cups. I cannot believe you are too lazy to carry them out to the kitchen."

"Look, do I come in your apartment and tell you how to live? This office is warm and lived-in and efficient. Everything I need is in the wastebasket and everything that should be thrown out is on my desk."

"My friends will never believe me when I tell them about this room," he said. "When was the last time this ironing board was down?"

"In 1971. The year we moved."

"And I suppose you are going to tell me you are going to return that soft drink cooler from wherever you got it?"

"I told you I'd return it to the garage and I will ... when I get time."

"I certainly hope you're cleaner when you visit people. I'd be embarrassed to death to have people think you were my mother."

"You are confusing neat with clean. I wash my hair every day."

"I know. I just checked your bathroom and there are 36 pounds of hair in the drain. Is this sweater dirty?"

"No."

"Then what is it doing on the floor?" he asked.

"Did you want something?"

"I wanted to tell you to pick up this place. I have friends coming over."

Kids! I'll be glad when I can get my own apartment.

Much Work Is Ahead

Supporters and participants in the early development of the East Carolina University School of Medicine took justifiable pride in the graduation of its first class last week.

The school was born of controversy and its potential worth was discussed in the great public debate that preceded its establishment.

Once the issue was resolved the State Legislature appropriated adequate funds to develop the school, and it has enjoyed the full support of the UNC Board of Governors.

It is indeed a time to reflect on the success of this venture into better medical care for North Carolina.

But it is also a time to recognize that we have only begun the efforts to bring the School of Medicine to full potential.

The school will need continued financial support, public and private, if it is to be what we all want it to be. Chancellor Thomas Brewer says we are now working toward seeing it among the top 50 medical schools of the nation in excellence. More eminent medical educators will be employed to join the staff already assembled. More sophisticated medical facilities will be needed to provide the patient care and medical training that is needed. That is quite a challenge to our area and to North Carolina.

Sewage Plant Step Is Taken

Greenville Utilities Commission last week adopted a resolution authorizing filing for state and federal grants for detail design work on the new sewage treatment plant.

Step I has been completed and the documents delivered to the N. C. Department of Environmental Management in Raleigh. Local officials are hoping Environmental Protection Agency approval will come soon and work on plant design can begin in August.

This has been a frustrating project to plan and yet the new facility is needed to take care of local growth. Hopefully things will move along more rapidly than they have in the past.

Tax Reform Delay

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH — Local property taxes, the foundation of finances for county and municipal governments in North Carolina, are scheduled for review by a study commission of the General Assembly.

This process will delay at least another two years the essential reforms long sought by critics and by those dependent on property taxes for revenues.

The enormous complexity of the system, and its vulnerability to political pressures, has made it the most studied and least modernized one in government.

There are methods now available using computer technology to store full information on real estate, and continually update that information by feeding in pertinent data on sales prices of comparable property, general inflation rates, major improvements or additions, etc.

Upgraded
In this way, the valuation for property tax purposes could be regularly upgraded. The trauma of revaluation on an eight-year cycle as is currently done would be avoided. And the major complaint from local governments that property taxes are not responsive to economic change and consequently don't grow rapidly enough would be overcome.

But the eight-year cycle continues producing sporadic outbursts of taxpayer anger as they see values double — even triple — during the long delay.

Why do local government officials continue to cling to this method when others are available which specialists contend would both produce more revenue in the long run, and put an end to the bitter confrontations?

Politics and money, say those close to the situation.

As it is, local governments hire "outside consultants" to do the revaluation program. This takes local officials off the hook somewhat and they can tell constituents that the outside experts are responsible for the valuation increases. Also, it is cheaper to hire such revaluation firms every eight years than to make a much bigger initial investment in computer equipment and in training fulltime employees to do the job.

There is resistance to a change, also, from some influential property owners; especially major developers who benefit enormously from the delay in changed values for tax purposes, and from those who don't want to record actual figures on transactions listed with the local register of deeds.

BILL NOBLITT

Ignored
Actually, all 100 counties in the state are presently breaking the law by upgrading values only every eight years. There is a law on the books which requires that an interim adjustment of property values for tax purposes be made every four years. This can be accomplished by applying a formula to the valuation which takes into account several pertinent growth factors.

The new study commission will inherit this complex problem, along with other questions such as allowing local governments new sources of income; catching local tax cheaters who don't list their motor vehicles; eliminating personal property from tax listings; and the intangibles and inventory taxes which critics claim hinder economic growth and development in the state.

The result could be development of a modern local taxing system which would represent the reforms which some people want; or it could be continuation of the present cumbersome system which has its rewards for some.

SUDDENLY--A STRONG TILT TO THE LEFT!

BY JOHN J. KILPATRICK

Depression Era's Relic

WASHINGTON — Renault A. Robinson, a commissioner of the Chicago Housing Authority, turned up on Capitol Hill a couple of weeks ago. He had come to testify about light bulbs, pilot lights, toilet seats and dingy walls, and he had a story to tell that affects us all.

In Chicago, as elsewhere, public housing projects are federal projects. This means they are subject to a 50-year-old relic of Depression days, the Davis-Bacon Act of 1931. If you haven't met Davis-Bacon, you ought to get acquainted — for Davis-Bacon costs federal taxpayers a needless billion dollars a year. Indirectly, because of its effect on state, municipal and private construction, the law imposes excessive costs of $15 to $20 billion a year on the economy.

This is how the law works.

JAS. J. KILPATRICK

A federal agency proposes to let a construction contract for more than $2,000, or a service contract for more than $2,500. The Department of Labor then undertakes to determine the "prevailing wage" in the locality where the work is to be done. For all practical purposes, this means the prevailing union wage — and the rates thus fixed may not be in the locality at all. The rates may be the rates in a large city 50 or 100 miles away.

The result is that costs are vastly inflated. The actual wage for a carpenter in a given locality may be $7 an hour. Under Davis-Bacon, the "prevailing" wage is found to be $14 an hour. Near Hagerstown, Md., the actual going rate for a plumber last month was $6.40, but when the Department of Labor finished its sleight-of-hand, the "prevailing" rate on a wastewater treatment plant was $12.86.

Back to Mr. Robinson, whose task is to oversee public housing in Chicago. He would like to hire a few old-time janitors, but he can't. An old-time janitor could change a burned-out light bulb; the projects have to call in a union-wage electrician. A janitor could replace a broken toilet seat; here a union plumber is required. If a pilot light goes out, a Davis-Bacon pipefitter turns it on again.

All this costs money, but money is not the only cost. Unemployment rates in the housing developments are appalling. Mr. Robinson told a Senate committee that about 90 percent of his teen-agers are out of work. If he could use the funds wasted on Davis-Bacon wages, it would be possible to employ many of them.

Similarly, Michel did not sign a circular letter, promoted by the young congressmen, pledging support if Reagan should veto a one-year tax cut.

The biggest conflict between Michel and the back-benchers began May 6 when Rep. Newt Gingrich (R-Ga.) inserted in the Congressional Record a letter to Wright signed by two Republican freshmen, Reps. Thomas J. Bliley Jr. (R-Va.) and Ed Weber (R-Ohio). Gingrich, an aggressive second-termer, is viewed as a ringleader of activity by the junior Republicans.

Michel And 'Back Bench'

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON — The disclosure Thursday of a letter from 136 junior Republican House members demanding faster action on the president's tax package followed by one day a bitter exchange between them and House Minority Leader Bob Michel (R-Ill.).

The letter was addressed not to Michel but to House Majority Leader Jim Wright (D-Texas). Nevertheless, Michel took offense at what he told us was an effort "to embarrass the majority leader."

The incident reflects a widening gap between Michel, a 58-year-old veteran of 20 years in Congress, and the militant young Republicans elected to the House in 1978 and 1980. They fell Michel is too solicitous of his counterparts in the Democratic leadership; he thinks they are wild men who risk reprisals from the majority.

Michel has objected to the tactics used by the younger congressmen to bring pressure on Wright and Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr. (D-Mass.).

He neither liked nor participated in the rank-and-file movement to have all congressmen supporting the administration program wear miniature baseball bats when Reagan addressed a joint session of Congress Feb. 18 to show they were "playing ball" with the president.

Similarly, Michel did not sign a circular letter, promoted by the young congressmen, pledging support if Reagan should veto a one-year tax cut.

The biggest conflict between Michel and the back-benchers began May 6 when Rep. Newt Gingrich (R-Ga.) inserted in the Congressional Record a letter to Wright signed by two Republican freshmen, Reps. Thomas J. Bliley Jr. (R-Va.) and Ed Weber (R-Ohio). Gingrich, an aggressive second-termer, is viewed as a ringleader of activity by the junior Republicans.

Contending that "the American people want timely action on the tax rate reductions," the Bliley-Weber letter demanded that "the Democratic leadership schedule a vote on the tax rate reductions this month." Within a week, the letter had collected signatures from nearly 150 Republican congressmen.

When he learned Wednesday from Wright that the letter was about to be presented to the majority leader, Michel was furious. In a hot temper, he telephoned the offices of both Bliley and Weber to protest and, at the least, demand some modifications in the letter.

No changes were made, and the letter was presented to Wright (although several members removed their names).

The incident reflects a basic disagreement over tactics. "It makes no sense to embarrass the majority leader," said Michel, "because he is certainly capable of embarrassing us."

In contrast, junior congressmen want not only to pass the Reagan program but to make the Democratic leadership look bad in the process. "The trouble is that Michel is still a minority leader, and hasn't yet become a real Republican leader," commented one junior congressman.

The back-bench view has some support at the White House. "Michel's staff is starting to isolate," one presidential aide told us. "He doesn't know what's going on out on the floor."

But Michel's more conventional tactics have backing from old Washington hands. "The last time I looked," said Tom Korologos, a top Washington lobbyist and well-known Republican activist, "the Democrats were still a majority in the House."

Other Editors Say Of No Concern

(Washington Daily News)
We read with a degree of amazement some comments made by political leaders in some of our states regarding the application made of the 1965 Voting Rights Act which has applied to several Southern states.

While we always dislike what applies only to Southerners and leaves alone national areas far more guilty of bias and hypocrisy than are we, the 1965 Voting Rights Act as applied here in Beaufort and Hyde counties has caused us no embarrassment and no bother whatsoever.

Except for the fact that a very few people know about the act, it has served no real purpose and been of no real consequence here. We say that proudly, and we say it in the knowledge that with or without any law our own Pamlico area would have complied anyway.

Insofar as we know there have been no reports of any voting or registering irregularities in this area. There have been no rumors even of any persons, black or white, who have been turned away when they sought to register or vote. When the citizenship in our area has gone to the polls to vote, we have never heard of any racial incident cropping up at the voting places. When the votes have been counted, we have heard of no charges that the counting was not done according to the rules. Yes, some mistakes might well have been made, but in no manner has anyone said or implied that those mistakes came about because of race or color.

Now the Voting Rights Act of 1965 is about to expire. It will expire unless congress seeks to renew it. And whether congress renews it or just lets it die does not bother us one bit here. Either way there will be no difference in the approach and in the result of political operations.

This is one of the first areas in the country to be put under the 1965 Voting Rights Act. And we are among the areas that needed it the least and worried about it the least.

It is to the everlasting credit of our people in Beaufort and Hyde counties that we have theoretically operated under a law which in truth has had no impact and no application here. We, the people, in general have not even known that it existed.

Let congress do now what it will or what it wishes. It just will not bother us either way.

Strength For Today

SANDWICH MAN
A minister once remarked that he felt very much like a sandwich man who goes about with a sign in front and behind advertising nutritious food to be had at a certain restaurant, but never eating any of it himself.

This, of course, could be said of most Christian believers. Almost all of us have religious theories which are better than our practices. We defend the unattainable truths of the gospel, and then live our lives according to the truths of the world.

We are like the sandwich men advertising delicious meals for sale at a reasonable price, but we never go to the restaurant ourselves. Instead we live on junk food. We satisfy ourselves with crumbs when we could have the bread of life.

Human existence all too often presents the picture of creatures stumbling through a world of gifts offered by the hand of God, but thrusting these aside for the passing pleasure of materialism and self-indulgence. — Elisha Douglass

A Solution Becomes Difficult

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP). — Among the baskets of statistical confetti tossed at us each month are a few that require no special training or insight to interpret but which say a lot of things about the state of the economy.

Is there anyone without thoughts on why mortgage delinquencies are rising? Or why the rental vacancy rate is so low? Or why new-home construction is weak? Or why the savings rate is so low?

In each instance the reasons lead an inquirer relentlessly into other problem areas of the economy, and demonstrate that nothing in this economy of ours is isolated from other factors.

Federal Home Loan Bank Board and the Mortgage Bankers Association statements, for example, now show increasing tardiness in home loan repayments. The bankers say more than 370,000 mortgage repayments are overdue by more than 30 days. Sixty days isn't rare, says the board.

One reason why is obvious: Many Americans, especially in auto-assembly areas of the Midwest, are financially strapped. Inflation is one culprit. Layoffs are another. Credit over-extension also plays a role.

The consequences spread. Many thrift institutions — savings and loan associations and savings banks — are in dire financial trouble. In the first quarter of 1981, the 10 biggest savings banks in New York City lost nearly $112 million, according to the State Banking Commission.

Their plight helps explain why the national rental vacancy rate is so low. At 4.8 percent, lowest on record in peacetime, it seems clearly to represent the inability of builders to build at a profit.

Why can't they build at a profit? For many reasons, to be sure, but one important one is the high cost of money, and the rough state in which lenders find themselves. And why is the cost of money high? Inflation is one reason. It's hard to save at today's prices. The savings rate in the first quarter was 4.7 percent, lowest since 1951.

Lenders also must charge dearly for their money, and builders say that those extra charges cannot be recaptured in rents. Meanwhile, pressures for apartment units build against a static, or even declining, supply.

Once upon a time those who could not rent or who found rents too high were motivated to buy. But high interest, inflation, and the inability to save make it difficult for builders to build or buyers to buy.

It also ruins their confidence. The University of Michigan's measure of consumer confidence shows buying attitudes near record low levels because of all the pressures mentioned previously. And when confidence is low, economic activity tends to be low also.

In its January-March

surveys, the university's Institute for Social Research found "consumer sentiment" at 68.3 percent, down 3.8 points from the previous quarter and 31.7 points from the base year of 1966.

If you choose, you can trace all these factors further on into the economy, and to your dismay probably find that what you deemed causes were really effects, or that the distinction between them is blurred.

It is this blurring that makes solutions so difficult, not only for individuals but for the President and Congress and all their economists. Still, the pursuit is revealing.

Asking why, while it inevitably draws the questioners deeper and deeper into the problems of the this inter-related economy of ours, is really the easy question.

The tough ones are where do you begin, and how do you begin, and with what do you begin to correct the problem?

How's The Weather?

WEATHER FORECAST — The National Weather Service forecast for today until early Wednesday predicts showers for parts of Oregon, Washington, Nevada, Utah, Wyoming, Montana and Idaho. Showers are also forecast for the East Coast from Florida to New Jersey, and inland to Ohio and Kentucky. (AP Laserphoto Map)

By The Associated Press
Fair weather is expected to return to North Carolina after some much-needed rain today, the National Weather Service says.

But some of today's thunderstorms may be severe, the service warns.

The low pressure system that has promised to bring rain was located over western Tennessee this morning.

The low was expected to move to eastern Tennessee by late today then east across the state during tonight and Wednesday and finally off the east coast of North Carolina by late Wednesday.

Rain has been slow in coming but a few places have had some showers and a few thundershowers overnight, the heaviest of which moved over the southeast portion of the state this morning. A frontal zone stretched east from the low center across northern North Carolina.

of them for such humble tasks as washing the dirty walls.

As you would surmise, spokesmen for organized labor take a very different view of the act. Robert A. Georgine, president of the Building and Construction Trades Department, AFL-CIO, insisted that Davis-Bacon "continues to perform important functions in protecting the interests of workers, contractors and taxpayers." The law prevents the award of contracts to fast-buck artists who traffic in "substandard wages and working conditions."

Mr. Georgine's view has become a minority view. Such diverse outfits as Common Cause, The New York Times, The Wall Street Journal, the General Accounting Office and the U.S. Chamber of Commerce all have called for repeal of Davis-Bacon. Sens. Orrin Hatch of Utah and Don Nickles of Oklahoma have introduced bills with precisely that purpose.

The arguments in support of repeal, in my own view, are overwhelming. Fifty years ago, in the pit of the Depression, the Davis-Bacon Act may have deterred the award of federal contracts to unscrupulous contractors. In those days no such protections as federal wage and hour laws were in existence. Neither the states nor the federal government had much concern for working conditions.

Times and laws have changed. In the coming fiscal year the federal government will award upward of $32 billion in construction contracts. The taxpayers surely may insist that the work be done at the lowest reasonable cost. Where union wages truly are "prevailing," the construction trade unions should be satisfied. Where lower wage rates prevail, the unions have no right to squawk.

Peanut yields vary considerably from year to year for several reasons. In the past few years, extremes of heat and cold and wet and dry have been experienced. A late planting date can decrease peanut yields, but other factors may have a greater effect in the final analysis.

A late planted peanut crop was put in the ground after May 20, 1978. Statewide, 1978 turned out to be a record yielding year and high quality was also obtained. Although 1978 began as a very wet season, the remainder of the growing season was almost ideal in terms of moisture and temperature.

Tests conducted at various locations have indicated that there is no appreciable reduction in yield of peanuts planted after May 20. Yields are dependent on factors such as temperature and soil moisture as well as digging at the proper time. Planting beyond June 1 will likely yield less.

As the 1981 crop is now being planted, several factors need consideration by peanut farmers. There has been a lack of ground moisture for several months. The overall forecast calls for a drier growing season. Because moisture reserves are so low and rainfall probability is so low, signing a contract to deliver a certain number of pounds of peanuts may be risky. If adequate irrigation is available, the risk is minimized considerably. Also, an open-ended contract is much more preferable than one that stipulates a certain number of pounds to be delivered. With an open-ended contract, the grower can market the peanuts that he is able to produce.

Another aspect to consider is how will weeds be affected by dry weather. Usually, there is less weed pressure in a dry year. But if there is not enough moisture in the seed zone, some herbicides may not be activated to the maximum extent. Wherever possible, a grower should use a pre-plant herbicide that does not require large amounts of precipitation to become activated. Again, if irrigation is available, the necessary moisture to activate herbicides is an advantage.

Lately, cool weather has brought with it some very welcome rainfall. Soil temperatures have decreased somewhat. Planting peanuts in Pitt County is proceeding nonetheless because many growers feel that this may be the best planting opportunity we get. It has not been the most ideal of peanut seasons. With peanut supplies low nationwide, and some luck in the remainder of the season, there is a considerable chance that this may be a profitable year to raise peanuts after all.

Winners Are Disclosed In State Math Contest

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Richard G. Heck of R.J. Reynolds High School in Winston-Salem is probably the state's most talented high school mathematician.

North Carolina education officials said Monday that the junior from Clemmons won first place in the third annual State High School Mathematics Contest, leading 110 contestants from 53 high schools.

The contest was sponsored by the North Carolina Council of Teachers of Mathematics and the mathematics division of the state Department of Public Instruction. It was held May 7 at the Research Triangle Park to recognize outstanding mathematics scholarship.

The first 16 finishers will represent the state as a team in the Atlantic Region Mathematics Competition at the University of Maryland June 5 and 6.

Placing second was Christopher Jolly, a senior from West Charlotte High School. Third was Eric Queen of Independence Senior High in Charlotte. Fourth was David Fortney of Chapel Hill Senior High. Fifth was Bruce Lindsey Jr. of Tuscola High in Waynesville.

Others were, in order of finish: Kenny Hirsch of Chapel Hill High; Michael Marion, Chapel Hill High; Kevin Maroney, Chapel Hill High; Kevin Knight, Chapel Hill High; Richard Wehe, Millbrook Senior High in Raleigh; Ali Shahin, Chapel Hill High; Randy Whitmeyer, R.J. Reynolds in Winston-Salem; Bruce Merryman, North Mecklenburg High in Huntersville; Tim Huson, East Mecklenburg High in Charlotte and Charlotte Nehu, N.C. School of Science and Mathematics.

Terry Bridgman, Tuscola High in Waynesville; Charles Stone, Davie High in Mocksville; Sarah Krigman, N.C. School of Science and Mathematics; Harvey Jenkins, Reid Ross Senior High in Fayetteville; and Joseph Doyle, South Mecklenburg Senior High in Pineville.

Meredith Has Graduation

RALEIGH — The following area students received degrees during commencement exercises held recently at Meredith College:

Lillian Olivia Heath of Snow Hill (cum laude); Jill Renee Coltrain, Charlotte Green Grimes, Effie Jeanette Rogers, Jane Wynne, all of Williamston; Jackie Ann Revels, Anne Rogers, Susan Ann Taylor, all of Williamston (cum laude); Elizabeth Ruth Ledbetter of Farmville; Marjorie Lee Snell of Greenville; Margaret Irene Yelverton of Farmville (cum laude).

Photo Session To Be Offered

The Pitt County Schools Program will be sponsoring a Photo Workshop at Ayden-Grifton High School May 28 at 7 p.m. in the school's vocational education department.

The workshop will focus on helpful hints for good photography, and is designed for parents and interested citizens.

The instructor for the workshop will be Ann Ehringhaus, professional photographer and resident artist in the schools.

To register call the Pitt County Community Schools office at 752-6106 ext. 249 before May 26. Interested persons are asked to call as soon as possible, since class size will be limited.

Local Students Are Graduates

WINSTON-SALEM — Three Greenville students graduated from Wake Forest University on Monday. They were among 980 who received degrees during commencement exercises at the university.

Robert Gentry Brinkley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Brinkley of 1913 E. Ninth St., graduated from the school of law and received the J.D. degree.

Brinkley was notes and comments editor for the Wake Forest Law Review. He is a member of Phi Delta Phi law fraternity and held a full scholarship at the university. He did his undergraduate work at East Carolina University, receiving the B.S. degree in business administration.

Students who received the B.A. degree are David John Middleton III and Robert Stephen Vick.

NOTED HYPNOTISTS IN GREENVILLE TO HELP SMOKERS & THE OVERWEIGHT

WADE M. GENTHNER, F.A.I.H.
Director of Techniques For Living

The subject of numerous newspaper and magazine articles as well as television appearances, Mr. Genthner and his staff have been conducting these seminars throughout the country. In a comprehensive and fascinating three hour program, those who attend the seminar experience the relaxing and beneficial effects of clinical hypnosis. Not only do people permanently lose weight and stop smoking as a result of the seminar, they also report that they sleep better, feel more energetic, and generally enjoy life more than they had previously.

Mr. Genthner's skill in clinical hypnosis was noted by Dan Rather of CBS' "60 Minutes", who referred to him in a nationally televised report as a well-trained and highly experienced hypnotist.

"Clinical hypnosis is the easiest way there is to solve these problems", Genthner says. "Simply put, it helps to eliminate these types of problems permanently."

Genthner says that the reason clinical hypnosis is so successful is that "it removes the causes of problems, not just the symptoms." For example, he explains: "People who are overweight go on diets. A diet is only good for as long as you can follow it. Once you stop the diet you re-gain the weight. Hypnosis is permanent because it eliminates the causes of overeating, not just the symptoms." The same holds true for smokers where the need to prevent cravings for cigarettes or weight gain is just as important. Both problems are covered at the seminar, and each seminar leader is personally trained by Mr. Genthner. Further information can be obtained by calling toll free. 1-800-645-5454

Are you overweight or a cigarette smoker? Have you tried to lose weight or stop smoking, only to fall time and time again? If you find yourself answering "yes" to either of these questions then the Techniques For Living Seminar, under the direction of Wade M. Genthner F.A.I.H. at the Holiday Inn, Memorial Drive, will be the place for you to be on Wednesday, May 27. Techniques For Living will be conducting their famous Lose Weight—Stop Smoking Seminar which has helped thousands of people throughout the United States. Techniques For Living is a national organization dedicated to helping Americans solve these and other problems that have kept them from enjoying their lives to the fullest.

Association To Have Dinner

The Downtown Greenville Association, Inc. will host its annual dinner for members tonight at the King and Queen Restaurant. Dave Mosier, executive director, said approximately 80 are expected to attend the dinner activities which will begin at 7 p.m.

Mosier added that a musicale featuring Dr. Will Wallace and his daughters, Cindy, Laura, and Connie will be the entertainment for the annual fellowship gathering.

The Downtown Greenville Association, which is celebrating its sixth anniversary, currently has 109 members, including 54 merchants and 55 business firms.

Officers for the 1980-81 operating year include William H. Taft Jr., president; Jack Edwards, vice-president; and Clarence B. Tugwell, treasurer. Mosier serves as secretary, in addition to his duties of executive director.

Directors for the 1980-81 operating year, in addition to the three officers are Morris Brody, Reid Hooper, John Shannonhouse, Baxter Powell, Helen Pope, Anne Guerrant, Sherrill Duncan, and Charles A. Forbes.

Five members of the Downtown Greenville Association will receive certificates of appreciation from president William H. Taft Jr., in recognition of their "outstanding work in the past year."

The recipients, Sherrill W. Duncan, Cheryl Lynn McArthur, Tina Longnecker, Carol-Ann Tucker, and W. Baxter Powell will be presented their awards at the dinner tonight.

During the past year the association has sponsored a total of 14 mall events and 14 sales events.

The board approved Donovan Phillips' motion to "consider and act upon the suggestions at an appropriate time." The appropriate time was clarified to be prior to the beginning of the 1981-82 school year.

Dr. Tingelstad said he feels the effort spent on research and suggestions offered "is commendable. I look on this as an indication of involvement on the part of many parents, and this is good."

The board approved Budget Amendment No. 12 for the Current Expense fund in a total (increase) of $50,275.26. This amount represents $12,391 in CETA Instructional Aides fund; $4,972.26 in ECU stipends; $2,912 for the school systems part in a delinquency prevention conference; and a fund balance appropriation of $30,000.

The $30,000 fund balance appropriation, Cox told the board, is for the purpose of replacing the two boilers at the Rose High heating plant. This amount is subject to the approval of county commissioners. Cox said the funds are needed now in order to put in a purchase order for the boilers at an advantageous price which will not hold after July 1.

Cox told board members that in a meeting with County Manager Reginald Gray he (Cox) had been requested to provide additional information on the city school's budget request, primarily in numbers of personnel employed locally and the money involved. Cox told the board he would have this information to Gray within a short time. Mrs. Terry Shank asked that Cox send each board member a copy of the information provided to Gray.

Also relative to budget matters, Cox noted that Senator Vernon White stated Monday in a television appearance that in regard to state funds for education, there would be a delay until October in consideration of salaries and programs in public schools.

A motion, made by Mrs. Terry Shank, was approved, in which Cox will draw up a resolution to send Senator White urging that efforts be made to take action on fund decision prior to October.

Several Churchmen See It As Suicide

NEW YORK (AP) — High-ranking Protestant and Roman Catholic leaders have voiced regret at the fasting suicide of Irish guerrilla leader Bobby Sands, but termed it useless and in Christian teaching, wrong.

It's being used to whip up destructive passions, commented Archbishop Robert Runcie of Canterbury at the end of a U.S. tour. He said "passions from a distance" don't help the majority in Ireland, facing terrorist violence.

He said the reason "extremists are making such noise" about Sands is that they are afraid progress is being made to a peaceful solution and want to block it.

Archbishop John R. Roach, president of the U.S. Catholic bishops, voiced "profound regret" at Sands' death, but called it a "useless sacrifice" and noted Vatican efforts to persuade him against it.

Several church leaders, including Catholic Cardinal Basil Hume of England, termed Sands' death the moral equivalent of suicide, which Christianity rejects as a grave sin.

Anglican Bishop Edward Scott of Canada and Presiding Bishop John M. Allin of the U.S. Episcopal Church noted Sands chose death but "the same freedom of choice was not offered victims of the kind of terrorism" represented by him and his colleagues.

Church leaders pleaded that the situation not be exploited for further violence or retaliation. Bishop Roach called for "reconciliation of differences" through peaceful negotiations.

Both he and the Rev. William Howard, an American Baptist and president of the U.S. National Council of Churches, quoted Pope John Paul II's appeal on his 1979 visit to Ireland that its people reject the voices of "hatred, revenge and retaliation."

Some Leads In Stabbing

NASHVILLE, N.C. (AP) — State and local investigators say they have several leads in a search for the killer of a 68-year-old retired Nashville schoolteacher.

Jessie Strickland Corbett, who taught for 39 years in the Nash County school system, was stabbed to death in her home Saturday night, apparently after she surprised a burglar.

Nash County medical examiner Dr. Robert E. Zipf said Mrs. Corbett had been stabbed three times in the back and suffered superficial cuts to the hands, arms and face, apparently during a struggle. He said there was no evidence of sexual assault.

Friends said Mrs. Corbett lived alone at the house on Jones Street, half a block from the Nashville Elementary School where she taught during most of her career.

On Monday, the community mourned the loss of a veteran instructor who had taught several generations of Nashville residents.

"Parents always breathed a sigh of relief when they learned their children were to have Mrs. Corbett," said Molly H. Raines, a close

Habib Is Given Cool Reception

By ALEXANDER G. HIGGINS

Associated Press Writer DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — U.S. envoy Philip C. Habib got a cool reception today in Syria, where he met with President Hafez Assad in hopes of calming the tense Syrian-Israeli standoff over Syria's missiles in Lebanon.

The government newspaper Al-Baath declared, "Habib is preparing the grounds for a large-scale Israeli aggression on Lebanon to partition that country, liquidate the Palestinian cause and eventually invade Syria."

Assad kept the veteran American diplomat waiting for 20 hours after his arrival in Damascus Monday.

After their 2½-hour meeting today at the presidential palace, the third with the Syrian in Habib's 12-day mission, the U.S. envoy would say only that "diplomatic efforts continue."

friend and former neighbor. "They knew that they would not have a wasted year, that they would come out benefiting in all areas."

Syrian and American officials reported Habib's shuttle would take him next to Jerusalem.

A Lebanese newspaper reported he was carrying a four-point plan for defusing the crisis over Syria's deployment of Soviet-made anti-aircraft missiles in eastern Lebanon. The plan also reportedly would attack the root cause — fighting between Syrian soldiers and Lebanese Christians.

But Israeli Foreign Minister Yitzhak Shamir said today his nation would not wait indefinitely for diplomatic efforts to succeed.

"It is not a question of days or hours," he said, "but we cannot wait months." Israel has threatened to remove the missiles militarily if they are not withdrawn.

For the first time, President Reagan took a personal role in the negotiations.

A White House spokesman said today that Reagan had met secretly with Saudi Prince Turki el Faisal, an adviser to the royal family, in the Oval Office Saturday.

U.S. officials have said they are seeking Saudi aid in defusing the missile crisis. Habib was in Saudi Arabia over the weekend.

No details of the Riyadh meetings were made public, but Saudi officials said King Khaled exchanged private messages with Assad. Saudi Arabia also publicly pledged full support for Syria if war breaks out with Israel. Saudi Arabia and Kuwait earlier discontinued their subsidy that had helped pay Syria's bills for keeping troops in Lebanon to police that nation's fragile armistice from its 1975-76 civil war between Christians and Moslems.

Resolution

Members of the Greenville City Board of Education Monday night unanimously approved a formal resolution of respect and appreciation for the late County Attorney W. W. (Bill) Speight who died May 4. The resolution reads in part:

"It is proper that Mr. Speight's long and capable service to his profession, to his country, to his community, and to all persons involved in the operation of Greenville City Schools be remembered.

"In his service to the Greenville City Board of Education for more than twenty-five years he offered strong leadership during times of great change in public education.

"Mr. Speight expanded the educational opportunities of the students of Greenville City Schools and the surrounding area in developing scholarship opportunities.

"The members of the Greenville City Board of Education, individually and collectively, wish to recognize Mr. Speight's broad base of service.

"The Greenville City Board of Education offers its deepest sympathy to the family of William Wesley Speight."

The resolution was signed on behalf of the Board by Chairman Mrs. Nancy Middleton Jenkins and Superintendent of City Schools Glenn L. Cox.

House May Study Ending 12th Grade

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — A resolution that opponents fear may be the first step toward making the 12th grade optional in North Carolina public schools won a victory in the state House Monday night.

The resolution would authorize the formation of a special study commission to be formed to study the feasibility of dropping the 12th grade as a requirement for high school graduation.

The proposal, sponsored by Rep. Lura Tally, D-Cumberland, won tentative approval on a 98-10 vote. But final House action was delayed, along with a pair of other resolutions, by opponents who argued that the costs of the studies would be too great.

The 12th grade study, which would be reported to the 1983 General Assembly, drew opposition from several legislators including Rep. Dave Diamont, D-Surry, a high school football coach.

"When you make the 12th grade optional you're going to have a power struggle between the community colleges and the Department of Public Instruction," he said.

"Think about the ramifications of doing away with the 12th grade on high school athletics," he added. "It is a very far-reaching study."

The idea of dropping the 12th grade requirement has been put forward by state Treasurer Harlan Boyles, a member of the state Board of Education, as a possible money saver.

But Rep. Ernest Messer, D-Haywood, said the study was needed and that more was at stake than the money. "It involves a year that may be wasted by some students and may be wisely used by others," he said.

Also given tentative approval in the House's Monday night session were resolutions calling for studies of campaign finance reporting laws and school food services.

"I believe this General Assembly is study-commissioned to death," said Rep. Howard Coble, R-Guilford. "We simply dispatch a study commission at every moving target."

In other legislative action:

Insurance

The Senate gave overwhelming approval to bill that would establish new state regulations for so-called "medigap" insurance policies, which are sold as supplements to Medicare. Those policies are often purchased by persons over 65 years of age to cover the difference between total medical costs and the amount covered by their Medicare policies.

Sen. James Clarke, D-Buncombe, said the regulation was needed to protect elderly insurance customers, some of whom have purchased several policies in hopes of fully covering the gap between Medicare benefits and actual medical bills.

"It will provide much needed protection for senior citizens," he said. "They'll know what they're getting."

The bill, passed 46-0 and sent to the House, would prohibit certain policy provisions, set minimum benefit and loss ratio standards and require that customers be given a readable guide to supplemental medical policies.

Unemployment

The Senate passed 45-0 a bill tightening restrictions on those who obtain unemployment benefits in the state. It would tighten a current restriction preventing payments to those who turn down "suitable" work, making the prohibition immediate rather than effective a week later.

Other Action

In other action, the Senate approved a resolution calling on Congress to study monetary policies with an eye toward actions that could make more money available for home loans.

The House approved 77-21 a bill that would remove most restrictions on the political activities of members of state commissions. The bill would allow members of state commissions to serve as members of a candidate's campaign committee and to engage in other campaign activities.

N.C. Gas Tax Debate Moving Into Debate Via Advertising

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) —

Proponents and opponents of Gov. Jim Hunt's proposal to increase North Carolina's gasoline tax have taken to the airwaves and billboards.

Hunt and officials of the Outdoor Advertising Council of North Carolina unveiled a rustic billboard, featuring a western stagecoach, at a news conference Monday in Raleigh.

The orange, black and yellow billboard, one of 450 to be displayed across the state, proclaims, "North Carolina's Future Rides on Highway Funding." The billboard group is donating at least $75,000 in space for the signs.

Meanwhile, the Committee Against the Gas Tax has begun a tough-worded radio commercials against the tax, designed to bolster the state's sagging Highway Fund.

The committee is conducting a $15,000 campaign over 25 radio stations. The four 30-second spots question the need for more highway funds, charge that the Hunt administration has mismanaged the highway program and urge listeners to "tell your legislators to vote no against the 33 percent gas tax increase."

Hunt has proposed a $207.7 million program, including a 3-cent increase in the 9 1/4-cents-per-gallon motor fuel tax. A maximum $22.50 tax credit would offset basic driving needs for most drivers.

The commercials do not mention the proposed tax credit.

Hunt spokesman Gary Pearce said the tax increase "would be made up through the credit."

"They don't mention that, and they don't mention that the Republicans and the Reagan administration have raised the price at the pump from 10 to 15 cents through decontrol (of oil)," Pearce said. "And that's not money going to any public purposes. It's money going to oil company profits."

The Committee Against the Gas Tax is closely allied with the conservative Congressional Club, which prepared the radio commercials and recently gave the committee $10,000 for its campaign.

The club is led by the state's GOP senators, Jesse Helms and John East. Hunt is expected to challenge Helms in the 1984 election.

Another group, North

Carolinians for Good Roads, is spending $150,000 for radio and television spots promoting additional funding for highways — but is not specifically backing Hunt's proposals. The group, operated through the Travel Council of North Carolina Inc., borrowed $9,900 from Hunt's political treasury to begin operations.

Asheboro industrialist David Stedman planned this morning to announce the formation of a group of businessmen against any increase in state taxes.

Also, a four-member "truth squad" of GOP legislators is planning trips across the state to criticize Hunt's plan and promote a Republican solution.

"I don't think they're named correctly," Hunt said of the "truth squad."

One anti-tax radio spot says, "There is something wrong with the record Jim Hunt's friends have in North Carolina government" and portrays a Department of Transportation "wracked by bid-rigging scandals."

A public hearing on legislation to implement Hunt's proposals is scheduled for 11 a.m. May 26, legislators said Monday.

PTC MEETING

The Public Transportation Commission will meet Wednesday, May 20 at 7:30 p.m. at the Public Works facility on Beatty Street.

Phillies Hand Valenzuela His First Loss

By The Associated Press
Mike Schmidt said it was a little like playing in the World Series, but to Fernando Valenzuela, it was nothing special, just a loss.

For the first time this season — on a Monday night before a full house of 52,439 at Dodger Stadium — Valenzuela did not go nine innings. The 20-year-old Los Angeles pitcher left after seven innings with his team trailing 4-0 to the Philadelphia Phillies. He left without a chance to win, and he eventually absorbed his first loss as a major leaguer.

After winning eight straight games as a rookie — a feat believed to have been accomplished only once before — Valenzuela became imperfect. The defending World Series champion Phillies wound up winning 4-0 on a first-inning home run by Schmidt, his 12th this year, and three more runs in the fourth inning. Right-hander Marty Bystrom, also a rookie, scattered five hits over seven innings for the victory.

"I was as nervous as I was in several of the World Series games last year," Schmidt said. "He (Valenzuela) is not unhittable, but he was unbeatable — until tonight."

Valenzuela, a screwball specialist, left in the seventh for a pinch hitter, having given up as many runs as he had in his previous eight starts, five of which were shutouts. His earned run average jumped to 0.91.

"I knew sooner or later I would lose a game," Valenzuela said through an interpreter. "I'm not sad. I don't think it will affect my type of game. You win games, you lose games."

Later, after further questioning, he said, simply: "Tonight, I lost."

In the only two other National League games played Monday night, Montreal edged San Diego 3-2 in 10 innings and San Francisco defeated the New York Mets 3-1.

The loss ended Los Angeles' winning streak at seven games and left Valenzuela tied with Dave "Boo" Ferris for what is believed to be the most season-opening wins in a row ever for a rookie. Ferris won his first eight for the Boston Red Sox in 1945.

Valenzuela gave up just three hits before leaving, but two walks in the fourth inning hurt him. Schmidt's homer came with two out in the first, and Valenzuela retired the next seven batters before walking Pete Rose and Schmidt to start the fourth inning.

Keith Moreland bunted one pitch foul before he singled Rose home, and Valenzuela let the count go full on Gary Matthews before Matthews grounded a single through the left side for another run. Moreland, who wound up on third after Matthews' hit, scored on a sacrifice fly by Garry Maddox.

"They got three base hits," Dodgers catcher Mike Scioscia said. "Only one of them was hit hard."

Rookie Dave Stewart held the Phillies hitless over the final two innings, but the Dodgers were unable to come up with that rally that could have gotten Valenzuela off the hook. Ron Reed pitched the final two innings for Philadelphia, checking the Dodgers on one hit.

Expos 3, Padres 2
Jerry White, a late-inning defensive replacement, drove in the winning run in the 10th inning with a sacrifice fly as Montreal won only its third game in the past 11.

Rodney Scott led off the 10th with a single off Gary Lucas, and Andrew Dawson hit a ground-rule double to left, putting men on second and third for White.

The Padres erased a 2-0 Montreal lead with a run in the eighth on an RBI single by Juan Bonilla and another in the ninth on Luis Salazar's run-scoring hit.

Woody Fryman, 3-1, was the winner in relief of Scott Sanderson.

Giants 3, Mets 1
Jack Clark hit two home runs, and Allen Ripley pitched eight strong innings as San Francisco dealt New York its eighth straight loss.

Ripley yielded only a solo homer to Joel Youngblood in the eighth and left in favor of Greg Minton after walking Mike Jorgenson to lead off the ninth.

Darrell Evans also homered for the Giants.

Hobgood, Agee, Rose Qualify For State Golf

JACKSONVILLE — Farmville Central's Gary Hobgood captured the individual title, Ayden-Grifton Warren Agee finished second, and Rose High School captured the team title in the Eastern Golf Sectionals held yesterday in Jacksonville.

Hobgood shot a 40-34-74 score to win the individual title and thus qualify for next week's State Tournament, to be held in Chapel Hill. Agee, who shot a 75, tied with Southern Nash's Jay Lynn, won a playoff for second place, and also qualified for the state meet, along with Lynn.

All three individuals play in the Eastern Carolina Conference.

Rose captured the team title, easily downing second place New Bern and third place Kinston. Rose finished with a score of 313, while New Bern was second with 319 and Kinston was third with 320.

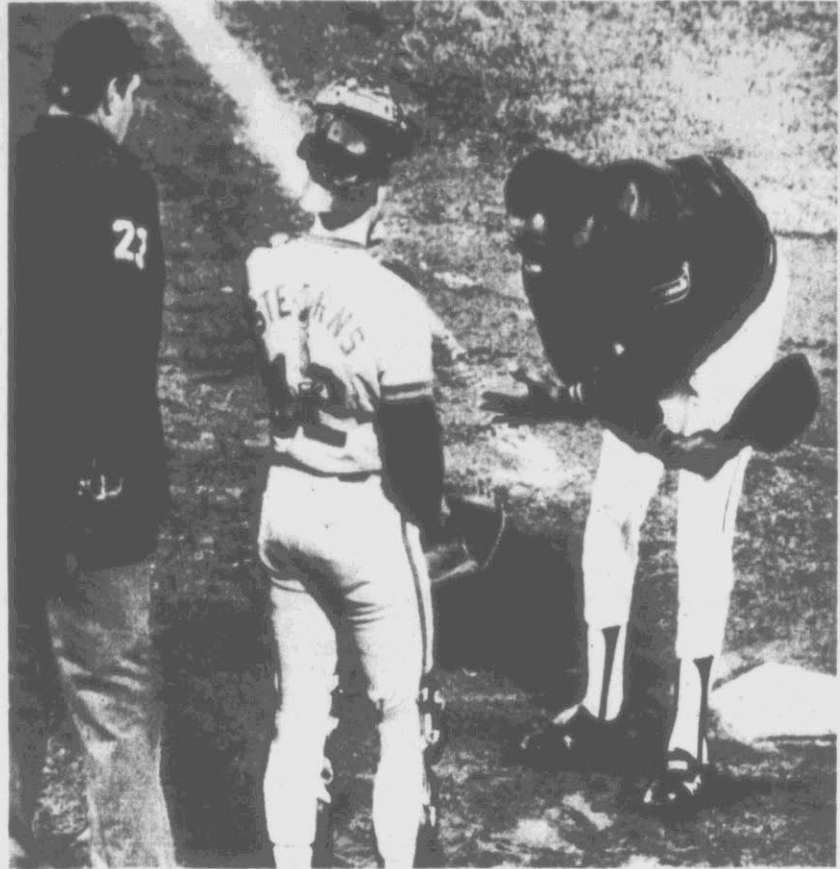

The first two teams, along with the top three individuals advance to state play.

Rose was led by Kelly Kee, who fired a 37-39-76. Brian Hill added a 36-42-78, followed by Tom Brewer, with a 43-36-79. Jack Mann rounded out the Rampan scoring with a 38-42-80.

Farmville Central's golfers finished fifth in the team standings with a 327 total. In addition to Hobgood's score, the Jaguars had Jeff Cutler with an 87, Alan Wooten with an 84, and Greg Hardison with an 82.

Ayden-Grifton did not field a full four-man team, but also had Alan Daughtry, 77, and John McDougald, 79, in the field.

The state tournament will be played at the Findley Golf Course in Chapel Hill, Wednesday and Thursday. A practice round will be held on Tuesday.

Bullets Rip Aurora, 28-1

AURORA — Jamesville High School, smarting from a loss that could cost it the Tobacco Belt championship, took some of its frustration out on Aurora last night, romping to a 28-1 victory.

The Bullets, who bowed to Bear Grass on Friday night, falling out of a tie for first, scored 19 runs in the first inning of the contest. They went on to add three in the second, two in the third, three more in the fourth and one in the fifth before the game was mercifully ended.

Aurora's only run came in the bottom of the first, when Terry Moore hit a home run.

In that first inning, Jamesville sent 24 batters to the plate and began substituting for the regulars before even taking the field. Clarence Thomas, the lead off batter, came up three times and got three hits to spark the inning. The Bullets banged out 12 hits, drew six walks and one hit batter, and took advantage of four Aurora errors for the 19 runs.

Thomas, who went three-for-three, had three runs batted in and stole four bases. Steve Davis added three hits and five rbi's, while Thyron Williams had two hits and four rbi's, and Greg Sullivan had two hits and four rbi's.

The victory boosted the Jamesville record to 17-4. The Bullets travel to Chocowinity tonight.

Roanoke Rapids, Back For A 2nd Try, Hopes To Scare Somebody

By RICK SCOPPE
Roanoke Rapids' trip to the state 3-A playoffs ended abruptly last year in the opening round with a 4-2 loss to eventual champion Greene Central.

"We travelled to Greene Central and played one of our best games and still lost," Roanoke Rapids coach Bobby Carter said. "But we scared them a little."

The Yellow Jackets are again in the state playoffs this year and Carter hopes the stay is longer this time.

"We're going to try to scare somebody," Carter said. "It might be ourselves, but we're going to try to scare somebody."

Those scared the most come Thursday night at 7:30 when Roanoke Rapids plays host to Ayden-Grifton in the opening round of the 3-A playoffs which will be the Batters. It will be their task to hit against two pitchers much of whose success this season has been via the fastball.

For the Chargers, sophomore staff ace Tyrone Gay will take the mound. Gay, a left-hander, was 9-4 this season, striking out 142 batters and walking 39 in 87 2/3 innings.

Opposing Gay on the mound will be Roanoke Rapids right-hander Chubby Butler. Butler was 12-3 this season. Although precise statistics were not available, Carter said Butler averaged eight-to-10 strike outs a game and had an earned run average of about 1.50 this season.

A senior, Butler has already signed a letter-of-intent with East Carolina.

"He can be overpowering at times," Carter said. "We've used him a lot in late in the season and I hope this rest will be good for him."

Butler went the distance last Friday night in the Yellow Jackets 6-5 victory over Edenton. That win gave Roanoke Rapids the Northeastern Conference title with an 11-3 league record, one game ahead of the Aces.

Roanoke Rapids is 15-7 overall this season, despite losing eight starters off last year's league championship team.

"We've done better than I expected," Carter said. "We thought we could finish over 500, but the rest was up to how well Butler pitched. If Butler had a good year we thought we could have a good year."

The Yellow Jackets are expected to start a lineup Thursday night featuring four hitters above the .300 mark. Leading the way is Butler, who had hit around the .400 level all season.

Second baseman Chris Wray, hitting at .350, is expected to lead off, followed by third baseman Tim Hux (.300). Butler, rightfielder Paul Carpenter (.275), catcher Bobby Weisner (.275), shortstop Griff Burgwyn (.250), designated hitter Greg Clifton (.300), leftfielder Mike Massey (.250) and first baseman Chip Edwards (.225).

Clifton will bat for centerfielder Steve Klinedinst.

Notes...
Ayden-Grifton takes a 14-9 record into the playoffs...Of the Chargers nine losses, eight have been by one run...
A reporter who covers Roanoke Rapids regularly said the Yellow Jackets hitting picked up noticeably when, about a third into the season, officials installed a hitting cage. A few years back the batting cage was destroyed and had not been replaced until this season...

Wildlife Commission Sets Up New Rules

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The North Carolina Wildlife Resources Commission Monday adopted new hunting and trapping regulations for 1981-82.

J. Robert Gordon, commission chairman, said commissioners passed new regulations that would extend the black bear season in the eastern counties, would open up a half dozen game lands to hunting after Jan. 1, add several days to the archery and muzzle-loading rifle seasons and establish a statewide turkey season except where game commissioners are re-stocking.

Gamelands opened after Jan. 1 include the Uwharrie game land in Montgomery County, the Pisgah gameland in Burke County, the Pisgah gameland in Caldwell County, the South Mountain gameland in Burke County and the Thurmond-

Chatham gameland in Wilkes County.

The Pisgah gameland in Yancey County would be opened Dec. 15, the Croatan gameland in Craven and Carteret counties would be opened Jan. 4-6, the Sandhill gameland would be opened Jan. 5 in Scotland, Moore and Richmond counties and the Caswell gameland in Caswell County would be opened Jan. 5.

Gordon said hunters would be issued permits for those days and that a limited number of permits were available. He said the number will range from 50 at the Caswell gameland to 200 at Southern Mountain and other larger gamelands.

Indy Rookie Garza Likes His Company

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — 22-year-old Mexican, will be starting his first Indy race in the second row, right behind four-time winner A.J. Foyt and next to three-time winner and defending champion Johnny Rutherford.

company," said Garza, the first person from his country to qualify for the race. "It's exciting to be starting a race with Bobby Unser on the pole, A.J. ahead of me. And Gordon Johncock is on the same row as Rutherford and I."

Garza, who qualified his Penske-Cosworth with an average speed of 195.101 mph, says he hasn't planned any race strategy, but anticipates success if he keeps pace with the cars that will be near him when the race begins.

But now that it has, I want to represent the country as good as I can." He's not cocky enough to predict victory in his first try, but anticipates being in Victory Lane here before his career ends.

"He knows the track pretty well and he's been telling me about wind shifts and things like that," said Garza. "The track itself is very difficult to master. You cannot be aggressive. You have to try and be smooth. That's the name of the game."

Sneva's Car Ousted As Protest Upheld

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Things looked very bleak for Jerry Karl late Sunday afternoon as Jerry Sneva sped around the Indianapolis Motor Speedway track.

Karl was "on the bubble," sitting precariously in the 33rd and final spot in the lineup for the 65th running of the Indianapolis 500 with a four-lap qualifying speed of 186.006 mph.

Karl, a 40-year-old veteran of five Indy classics, watched quietly as Sneva completed his qualifying run at 187.784 — several miles an hour faster than he'd run in a previously aborted qualifying attempt.

That bumped the Manchester, Pa., driver-car owner out of the lineup for Sunday's race. He said, "My guys worked day and night all month. We gave it the best try we could and I guess it just wasn't enough."

But everything changed Monday when the race stewards bumped Sneva from the starting lineup, upholding a protest initiated by Karl that the car driven by Sneva and owned by Rolla Vollstedt had been illegally prepared for its qualification run.

The stewards' decision came after a hearing that lasted nearly two hours, during which race officials heard testimony from several persons, including driver Steve Krisiloff, who said a crewman on Sneva's car illegally jammed a spring in the engine's popoff valve, which is used to limit manifold pressure.

That kind of tampering would bypass the popoff valve and allow the engine to produce more horsepower and more speed.

An official release, signed by Chief Steward Tom Binford and fellow stewards Arthur Meyers, Robert Cassaday, Keith Ward and John Vance, stated: "Examination of the valve, testimony of eye witnesses and other circumstantial evidence, convincingly indicate that a bolt or rod was inserted in the valve spring to inhibit the opening of the valve."

"Karl's car was placed back in the last spot on the 33-car grid and he was joyous."

"Naturally, I'm happy," Karl said. "Those guys (the stewards) did their homework. This means a lot to our racing program (financially)."

The decision was a big economic boost for Karl and costly for the Vollstedt team. The lowest payoff among the 33 starters from the record $1.5 million purse in last year's race was $24,360.

Asked if he would appeal the stewards' decision, Vollstedt said he would "sleep on it." He said, "We're going to have to see if we can find an eyewitness or two who saw the valve on the car and can testify that there was nothing wrong with it."

The stewards said they found no evidence that Vollstedt was personally involved in the infraction or had knowledge of it. They therefore recommended that the U.S. Auto Club, the sanctioning body for the race, waive the rule requiring a $1,000 fine be levied against the car's chief mechanic — in this case listed as Vollstedt.

Sneva's car would have been the only one in the lineup powered by a Drake-Offenhauser engine, the four-cylinder power plant that has carried 31 cars to victory at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway. That means this will be the first Indy 500 since 1934 in which there will be no Offenhausers.

North Lenoir Nips Vikes In Eight, 9-6

HOLLYWOOD — D.H. Conley was playing for second place in the Eastern Carolina Conference yesterday. But 12 walks, five errors and one hit batsman spelled doom for the Vikings and first-year head coach Ritchie Wynns.

North Lenoir was limited to only five hits but two were home runs, including a three-run homer in the top of the eighth, as the Hawks edged the Vikings, 9-6, Monday afternoon in the season finale for both teams.

D.H. Conley ends his season at 12-10 overall and 10-6 in the league. The loss left the Vikings tied for third with Southern Nash and one game behind second place Charles B. Aycock. Had the Vikes won, they would have finished second because they defeated the Falcons in both meetings this season.

As it were, however, the Hawks used two home runs, including the eighth-inning shot to win and up their record to 7-9 in the league.

The Vikings tied the game in the bottom of the seventh when Dixon Page walked, stole second and scored on Jeff Cox's single. But the joy quickly became sorrow in the Viking dugout.

Walks to Kevin Battle and Maurice Thorbes in the top of the eighth gave the Hawks runners at first and second. Then, catcher Gary Radford unleashed his home run — a three-run shot that proved to be the winner.

Chris Buck led off the bottom of the eighth with a single but Todd Rouse flew out to the shortstop and Ken Holland and Emory Vines struck out to end the game.

North Lenoir led 4-3 after three innings, scoring once in the first and three times in the second. D.H. Conley scored single runs in the each of the first three innings.

The Hawks increased their lead to 6-3 with a two-run homer by Thorbes in the fourth before the Vikings rallied again.

In the fifth, Page went all the way to second on an error and then stole third. Sammy Tucker then walked and continued on through to second. When pitcher Jimmy Batts' throw went into centerfield, Page trotted home to make the score 6-4.

One inning later the Vikings edged still closer. Roy Lassiter singled and moved to second on a ground out. Then, with two gone, Joey Joyner, hitting for Holland, singled home Lassiter to make it 6-5.

Conley was led by Page, Tucker, Lassiter and Buck, all of whom were two for three. North Lenoir did not have anyone with more than one hit.

Wesleyan Gets National Berth

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) — North Carolina Wesleyan bunched four of its five hits for three runs in the second inning Monday and made them stand up for a 3-2 victory over Lynchburg in the title game of the NCAA Division III South Atlantic Region baseball tournament.

The Dixie Conference champion, which earlier in the day routed Upsala 27-9 in the double-elimination tourney, advances to the national tournament with a 32-11 record.

It was the third defeat in six years in the regional championship game for the Hornets, 23-5, and their third in four games this season with N.C. Wesleyan.

After a solo homer by Dan

"It's really rewarding that I hit 195. It took a lot of patience by myself and the crew. When you're a rookie, you experience something wrong with the car and it's hard to explain," he said. "You go to the crew and you say, 'Well, the back end feels funny.' Then you have to sit and chat for some 15 minutes to find out exactly what's happening."

Garza, who began his racing career in go-karts in 1976, doesn't believe in setting goals that are easy to achieve.

"Indianapolis is the big place in racing. It's been my dream to be here. I didn't plan on being the first Mexican. That's something that just happened."

Hawks Spoil Conley's Bid

HOLLYWOOD — North Lenoir threw a monkeywrench into the path of D.H. Conley's girls yesterday, forcing the Valkyries into a playoff game with Greene Central to decide the Eastern Carolina Conference softball championship.

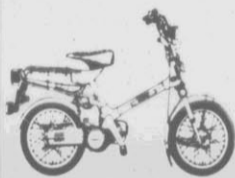

North Lenoir upset the Valkyries, 8-4, knocking them out of sole possession of first place in the league. Conley and Greene Central both finished the regular season with 13-3 ECC records, and will meet later this week in a playoff game to decide the title and the league's playoff representative. The time and place for that playoff have not been decided as yet.

North Lenoir jumped ahead with three runs in the first, and sewed it up in the third on three more runs, all brought in on a homer by S. Powell. Single runs crossed in the fourth and seventh. Conley scored once in the fifth and three times in the seventh.

J. Gray, M. Chapman and Powell each had two hits for North Lenoir. Lori Kandrotas led the Conley hitting with two. Conley winds up the regular season with a 14-3 overall mark.

The Answer To Spiraling Energy Costs Honeywell

W7000 Microprocessor Based Load Control System

The Honeywell W7000 System: the answer to spiraling energy costs. Energy. There is no way your business can do without it. Yet, spiraling energy costs are making utility bills a major factor in every month's P&L statement. Some managers believe that there really isn't any practical, cost-effective way to manage and reduce energy costs. But, there is: the Honeywell W7000 Microprocessor Based Load Control System. Honeywell's W7000 System brings your energy usage under control and substantially reduces your energy costs. It pays for itself rapidly, usually with 2 to 3 years and keeps on saving. For example, the W7000 System can be used to control: Air conditioning units and exhaust fans; Interior & exterior lighting; Compressors and other refrigeration equipment; Electric water heaters; Disposals & compactors. The Q7000 Communications Module may be field-added to any system installation and provides the following functions over standard dial-up telephone lines: Building address, W7000 model installed and current time; Remote programming; Recall of programs; Check for malfunctions; Determine which loads are OFF or ON at any given moment; Detailed energy audits (only on models with control) which include peak, time of peak, kilowatt hours and the maximum minimum and average outdoor air temperature for each day and the last 30 days. You can "talk" to your W7000 System with the Q7000 Communications Module from any standard computer terminal. It formats data in the English language, so your computer terminal operator need not be a computer programmer.

Goose Comes Up With Help For Yanks

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer
You really have to hand it to Goose Gossage.
That's what the New York

Yankees usually do in tight situations — and he rarely disappoints them.
For the 11th time this season,
the Yankees' great relief

pitcher came out of the bullpen to preserve a victory, this time a 2-1 decision over the Kansas City Royals Monday night.
That kept Gossage's relief record spotless this season. He has made two other appearances in 1981, gaining a victory in one, while having no decision in the other.

"I only have to pitch an inning or so, I can do that just about every night," said Gossage. "That's what I like about being a reliever. I've got a chance to be in there every game."
Gossage has allowed just eight hits and one run in 192-3 innings of work and owns a glittering 0.46 earned run average. Of the 59 batters he has retired this season, 27 have been on strikeouts.

"I feel comfortable with the job I'm doing," said Gossage.
"I like getting out of bed in the morning. I love coming into a tough spot. The tougher the situation, the better I am."

Monday night's situation was mild compared to most for Gossage. Yankee starter
Tommy John was taken out of the game with two out in the eighth after giving up his seventh hit. Gossage then cleaned up, getting the final four batters.
"I don't like anybody with a bat," said the sometimes awesome relief pitcher. "When a hitter steps in swinging, the adrenaline starts flowing. I say to myself 'All right! All right!'
They're trying to hurt me with that thing!"

Graig Nettles drove in the deciding run for the Yankees with a sacrifice fly in the sixth inning, snapping a 1-1 tie, as
New York won the first meeting this season between the 1980 AL Division champions.
Dave Winfield and Reggie
Jackson, who was celebrating his 35th birthday, opened the sixth against Paul Splittorf, 0-4, with singles. Lou Piniella advanced the runners with a sacrifice and Nettles followed with his fly ball.

Orlones 5, A's 1
Scott McGregor allowed just three hits — all by Rickey
Henderson — as he pitched Baltimore over Oakland. Mark
Belanger and Ken Singleton drove in two runs apiece for the Orioles.
It was the sixth consecutive triumph for the Orioles, who have won 15 of their last 18, and the fifth straight defeat for the A's.
"I was throwing strikes and getting ahead," said McGregor after tossing his second straight three-hitter. "But that's a little easier to do against the A's. They are a very aggressive club and that helps me out because they Did you know that right down the road from Greenville in the City of Kinston you can watch quality baseball played more than 70 games worth this summer. And it only costs 2 bucks to get in. (Unless you are under 18 over 65 or in the Armed Forces then it only costs $1). Here is

WE THINK YOU SHOULD CHOOSE A BANK FOR PERSONAL REASONS.

You don't choose a bank because the building is pretty. You choose a bank for more personal reasons. For the people.

People like Jack Collins, Assistant Cashier and Manager of the Carolina East Mall branch on Highway 11. Jack has been actively serving Greenville's financial needs. He understands the kind of services you want. And he also knows that Planters National Bank understands how to give them to you.

Visit Jack at Carolina East Mall and meet his staff of banking professionals. They're the kind of people you can depend on, too.

We think it's the only way to do business. Good service and strong support from people you can count on. And when you think about it, those are the only reasons that matter.

"Gentlemen:

"I know that, in the past, you have written that players who complain about chronic bad luck usually need to brush up on their play. But look at this misfortune I encountered on a recent deal, which is typical of the way things have been running for me lately at the table.

"We reached an excellent four spade contract in quick time. A heart was led and I finessed the jack, which lost to the king. Back came a diamond, and the finesse of the nine lost to the queen. I won the heart return in dummy and tried the king of spades, only to learn that I had a trump loser as well. So I took a second finesse in diamonds and, naturally, that lost.

"I went down one, but look at what had to go wrong: Trumps had to break 3-0; the heart finesse had to lose; and both diamond honors had to be wrong. I am not enough of a mathematician to work out the probabilities, but to me it seems devilishly unlucky.

"A Faithful Reader"
Yours is indeed a harrowing tale, and must be close to the unlikeliest we have come across in some time. We say close, because despite the unfortunate distribution, you should still have made your contract.

If you can hold your diamond losers to one, you can afford to lose a trick in each major. Therefore, you should win the ace of hearts at trick one. Now a trump to the ace reveals the sad news in trumps, but you can prepare for an end play.

Cash the ace-king of clubs and ruff a club, then cash the king of spades. Now simply exit with a heart. If the finesse would have succeeded, West must win this trick and must then either lead a heart or a club, giving you a ruff-and-sluff, or a diamond. In all cases, you lose only one diamond.

As the cards lie, East wins the king of hearts. He can cash a spade winner if he chooses, and then shift to a diamond. You insert the nine. West wins the queen, but again he is end played. He must yield a ruff-and-sluff or lead a diamond into the ace-jack. Again, your contract is secure.

Soap Addicts Ired By Time For News

By PETER J. BOYER
AP Television Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — And so, there is this:
In Kansas City, Mo., outraged television viewers screamed complaints and threatened violence against their local stations when soap operas were interrupted to provide coverage of the shooting of Pope John Paul II.

"I'm a religious person," said one woman, "but the pope is not an American."
One viewer threatened to burn down station KMBC if the pope story continued to disrupt the station's program schedule. Another viewer called KCMO and promised to "come down and do bodily harm to the people at the station unless the pope story went off the air by 1:30," according to Steve Shannon, general manager of KCMO's sister radio station.

"They just wanted to know mainly when their favorite soaps would play again," said CBS' Joyce Goodman, of the calls received by that network.

"(Complaints about interrupted) game shows were just about as bad as the soaps," said an NBC spokesman, "because people get addicted to them."

"I am amazed and shocked," said KCMO's Shannon.

I'm not. Nor will I be amazed and shocked when TV makes a movie on the life of Mehmet Ali Agca, the man arrested in the pope's shooting. Nor will I be amazed and shocked when that movie scores in the Nielsen top 10.

An esteemed TV critic once gave me some advice regarding television and the criticism and commentary thereupon: "Television isn't serious," he said. "And writing about television is like trying to tattoo a soap bubble."

If only that were so. A soap bubble can't be grasped, but at least it can be defined, known for what it is. The difficulty with television, the problem with television, is that it is more than that it is perceived to be by television's haters and, sadly, by television's makers.

It shouldn't be so, probably, but it occurs to me after 2½ years of watching television for a living that television really is the shared national experience, the bridge that connects folks in Gulfport, Miss., to folks in New York City. It also occurs to me that television's makers are interested in collecting the toll, not in building good, sturdy bridges.

Thus do we have a citizenry that picks up the phone and complains that the pope has ruined its day. A day without "The Guiding Light" is a day misspent, right?

And, there is this...
In an episode of CBS' "One Day at a Time," young star Valerie Bertinelli appears taking a bath. CBS worried over this. Said the CBS censor, Donn O'Brien:

"The question is how many bubbles will cover Valerie and can more bubbles be added if needed. Unfortunately, that's not possible because the bubble machine makes too much noise. During the first taping, it will be determined how long the bubbles will last."

Ah, yes. Soap bubbles. This tattoo artist respectfully asks your leave.

Arthur O'Connell A Versatile Actor

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actor Arthur O'Connell, whose supporting roles in the movies "Picnic" and "Anatomy of a Murder" were nominated for Oscars, has died at the age of 73.

O'Connell died Monday at the Motion Picture Country House and Hospital of Alzheimer's disease, a deadening of nerve endings in the brain, said publicist Ted Pettit, spokesman for O'Connell's conservators.

The versatile and unassuming actor began his career on Broadway, where he won a 1953 Tony award for his role in "Picnic."

During his 15 years as a Broadway stage actor, his work varied from the punch-drunk fighter in "Golden Boy" to Polonius in "Hamlet" and Banquo in "Macbeth."

His portrayal of Howard Bevens in "Picnic" won O'Connell the same role in the 1955 movie version. He was nominated for an Oscar as the suitor of Rosalind Russell.

In "Anatomy of a Murder," he played the friend and counselor to defense attorney Jimmy Stewart and won a 1959 Academy Award nomination.

O'Connell also co-starred in "Citizen Kane," "Naked City," "Bus Stop," and "The Poseidon Adventure." Lately he had worked in television commercials.

Capital Debut For Reagan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Another Reagan has had his debut in the nation's capital.

This time, however, it was Ron Reagan, the son of the president.

President Reagan and his wife, Nancy, slipped out of the White House amid tight security Monday night to see their 22-year-old son perform with the Joffrey II ballet troupe at George Washington University's Lisner Auditorium.

Wins Round In Palimony Suit

Says Lennon Very Jealous

NEW YORK (AP) — Slain ex-Beatle John Lennon was an extremely jealous husband and didn't like it when his wife, Yoko Ono, read Japanese books or newspapers, Miss Ono says.

"Jealous! My God!" she said in an interview with New York magazine. "After we were together, he made me write a list of all the men I'd slept with before we met. I started to do it quite casually, then I realized how serious it was to John."

"He didn't even like me knowing the Japanese language because that was a part of me that didn't belong to him. After a while, I couldn't even read any papers or books in Japanese," she said.

Lennon was shot Dec. 8 as he and Miss Ono were entering their New York apartment building, Mark David Chapman, who is charged with second-degree murder in Lennon's shooting, is to stand trial June 1.

Miss Ono says that shortly before Lennon was shot to death, she thought to herself how happy their life together had been.

Wins Round In Palimony Suit

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actor Telly Savalas, who played a lollipop-sucking police detective in the television series "Kojak," can sell a luxurious mansion where his former girlfriend and their 8-year-old son have been living, a judge has ruled.

Sally Adams, who lived with the actor for several years and goes by the name Sally Savalas, had asked Superior Court Judge Robert Weil to block sale of the house, valued at $3 million, pending outcome of her palimony suit against the actor.

Weil refused the request for a restraining order Monday.

The woman, in a palimony suit patterned on a 1979 claim Michelle Triola Marvin won against actor

Bob Hope For Gun Control

NEW YORK (AP) — Comedian Bob Hope has come out in favor of gun control, saying he sees it as a deterrent to violence in America. And he says he's going to give President Reagan his views on the subject.

Lee Marvin, has sued Savalas for half of all the property he acquired during their relationship, which she claims lasted from 1969 until 1976.

She said she has lived in the Savalas' Bel-Air mansion with the couple's 8-year-old son, Nicholas, since 1976. She also has claimed part ownership of the house.

Savalas and the woman never married, and Savalas contends their relationship ended in 1973.

The actor's attorney, Sanford Ehrmann, said "It seemed reasonable ... that the house would be an ideal place for the child," whom Savalas has supported.

"The house was provided as a place of abode for Nicholas; I guess the mother goes along with the child," Ehrmann said, adding that the woman also was given a car.

He said the woman rejected Savalas' offer to provide another house so the Bel-Air property could be sold.

In her palimony suit, Ms. Adams claimed she gave up her career as an actress to care for Savalas and their son. Similar allegations by Michelle Marvin resulted in a $104,000 palimony settlement against the actor.

Answer to yesterday's puzzle. 47 Hebrew tribe

Refugees — One Year Later

It has now been a year since more than 100,000 Cuban refugees fled to our shores. Last April and May, a large fleet of private boats, known as the "flotilla" ferried Cuban citizens to Florida. As late as last fall, an average of 100 Cubans were still arriving there each week, though American officials had stopped allowing the "flotilla" to operate. In the 21 years since Fidel Castro's communist government took power, more than 1 million Cubans — about one-tenth of the island nation's total population — has fled. Of last year's 124,000 refugees, all but about 2,000 have been absorbed into American society, making this another dramatic chapter in the story of immigration to the U.S.

DO YOU KNOW — What is the capital of Cuba?
MONDAY'S ANSWER — Britain's Queen Elizabeth is the reigning monarch of Canada.

Yesterday's Cryptoquip — GORGEOUS GAL LURES A SLY GUY.
Today's Cryptoquip clue: J equals E
The Cryptoquip is a simple substitution cipher in which each letter used stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words, and words using an apostrophe can give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is accomplished by trial and error.

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, MAY 20, 1981

YOUR DAILY Horoscope

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The daytime finds a number of problems that come from broken promises, so avoid those who are upset and avoid moodiness yourself. Strive to gain your aims.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Not a good day to put a new plan in operation. Your hunches are not good, so don't rely on them now. Be more cheerful.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) A good day to arrange a meeting with higherups and get the support you need. Attend group meeting and get fine results.

GEMINI (May 21 to Jun 21) An ally wants to talk over a business matter with you, but await a better day for that. Sideswap a troublemaker.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Try not to argue with co-workers today, and remain poised and collected. Take needed health treatments.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Avoid a temptation to over-spend where recreation is concerned. You can join with good friends later for inexpensive fun.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Try not to have any long conversations at home until evening or there could be serious arguments occurring.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You can now make better plans regarding your personal finances. Talk with an expert about ways to increase your income.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Wait until the afternoon before going through with a practical matter you have in mind. Strive to get ahead.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Make sure you are not helpful with others now or you could meet with delays. Help a friend in need.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Be careful not to fall into some kind of a trap during the day or you will find it difficult to get out of it later.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You have many obligations to attend, so doublecheck with officials so you don't make mistakes. Don't lose your poise.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Some unsavory situation could ruin your good name. So refuse to become involved in it. Express happiness.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will be one who will like to study every aspect of any situation and then reach the right decisions, be it in business matters or in dealing with friends. This can be a successful life if the best education is provided.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

Doctor Attends Seminar

Dr. Steven I. Cohen, Chiropractic Physician of Family Chiropractic Health & Accident Services of Winterville, attended a seminar in Raleigh sponsored by the North Carolina Chiropractic Association this past weekend on disorders of the low back.

The program focused on the most recent advances in diagnosis and treatment of low back conditions which have reportedly reached epidemic levels in the U.S. Included in the seminar were discussion of disk lesion, myelography, surgical responses, and explicit procedures whereby disk protrusions can be corrected without surgery.

Dr. Cohen has applied for research membership to the International Academy.

ON DEAN'S LIST
LOUISBURG — Dennis Paul Ross, the son of Dr. and Mrs. L.E. Ross of 217 Churchill Drive, made the Dean's List for the Spring semester at Louisburg College. To make the Dean's List a student must have a 3.5 average on a 4.0 scale for a semester's work.

Notice of Sale of 1980 Tax Liens on Real Property Town of Winterville

Under and by virtue of the power vested in me by the State of North Carolina and the Winterville Town Board, I will on Tuesday, June 9, 1981 at 12:00 noon in front of the Municipal Building expose for sale to the highest bidder for cash, the following real estate for unpaid taxes for the year 1980. Interest in the amount of 5 percent has already accumulated on these taxes.

SNAPPER HI-VAC™ RIDERS GET YOU MOWING BEFORE THE DEW DRIES OUT.

The high vacuum action of your SNAPPER Hi Vac™ rider lets you mow during high moisture conditions. The power will give you a jump on your chores as your SNAPPER vacuums cuttings, leaves and litter into an optional 6 bu. catcher or trailing 30 bu. Bag 'N' Wagon. The floating cutting unit gives you a smooth even cut and minimizes scalping and damage. Cutting height and speed can also be adjusted while on the go. And, tight spots are no problem when you have immediate response steering. SNAPPER mowers are worth more because they do more and their price is competitive with other quality mowers.
