Congress Told Must Honor Its Own Vote

By JIM LUTHER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — While the administration sought to settle terms for a tax cut, President Reagan's budget chief said today that Congress will be guilty of "deliberate sabotage" if it doesn't stand by the federal spending cuts already approved in the House and Senate.

The tax and spending phases of Reagan's economic program both were at issue, at the White House and the Capitol.

A tax cut bill is likely this year even if Congress and the president cannot agree on a compromise. Congress would simply write one a step at a time and leave it to Reagan to accept or veto it.

The White House and the Democrats who have so far spurned an administration-endorsed compromise all say they want to reach a consensus before the tax-writing committees get down to business.

Another round of meetings between administration and congressional leaders is planned this week, starting with a White House session today involving Reagan and Democratic congressional leaders.

The committees that deal with federal spending ceilings were getting to work on detailed budget decisions. David A. Stockman, director of the Office of Management and Budget, said they are obligated to stand by the cuts of more than $35 billion that already have been endorsed by Congress.

He said at a news conference that any deviation from those cuts "must be considered a deliberate sabotage of the expressed will of Congress and the people."

Stockman said budget policy already has been settled, and Congress should simply implement it, not try to change that policy.

The budget resolution instructed the committees that handle detailed legislation to meet specific quotas for spending cuts, and to do so by June 12. The product is to be a reconciliation resolution, tailoring specific programs to the guidelines set last month.

"Our approach will be one of flexibility on the details but insistence on honest scorekeeping and the bottom line," Stockman said.

But he said the administration will be wary of major changes in the allocation of funds, even within the guidelines, because there are few areas left where an increase in one program can be offset by cuts in others.

"There will be a great temptation to indulge in creative accounting and dishonest scorekeeping," Stockman said. "This covers every sensitive program politically that you can possibly imagine."

He also said that in the Democrat-controlled House, the budget resolution that is supposed to be ready for action by mid-June should be handled under rules that would forbid amendments on the floor. That would bar attempts to add funds on the floor for politically popular programs.

Stockman said the budget should be handled as a package, not in a succession of House roll calls on separate spending items. "Our hope would be that the committees of both houses would adhere to the program instructions as closely as possible," he said.

On the issue of a tax cut compromise, Treasury Secretary Donald T. Regan indicated Sunday that the president is not likely to be in much of a giving mood in his talks with House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr. and others in the Democratic leadership.

"What the president wants to finally do with the Democratic leaders is to say, 'Come on fellows, time's a wasting. Are you going to go with me or do I have to find some other route?'" Regan said on the ABC television program "Issues and Answers."

One White House official, who asked not to be identified by name, has said he views today's meeting as a "final check" with the opposition party before the administration goes ahead with a compromise already largely worked out with conservative Democrats in the House.

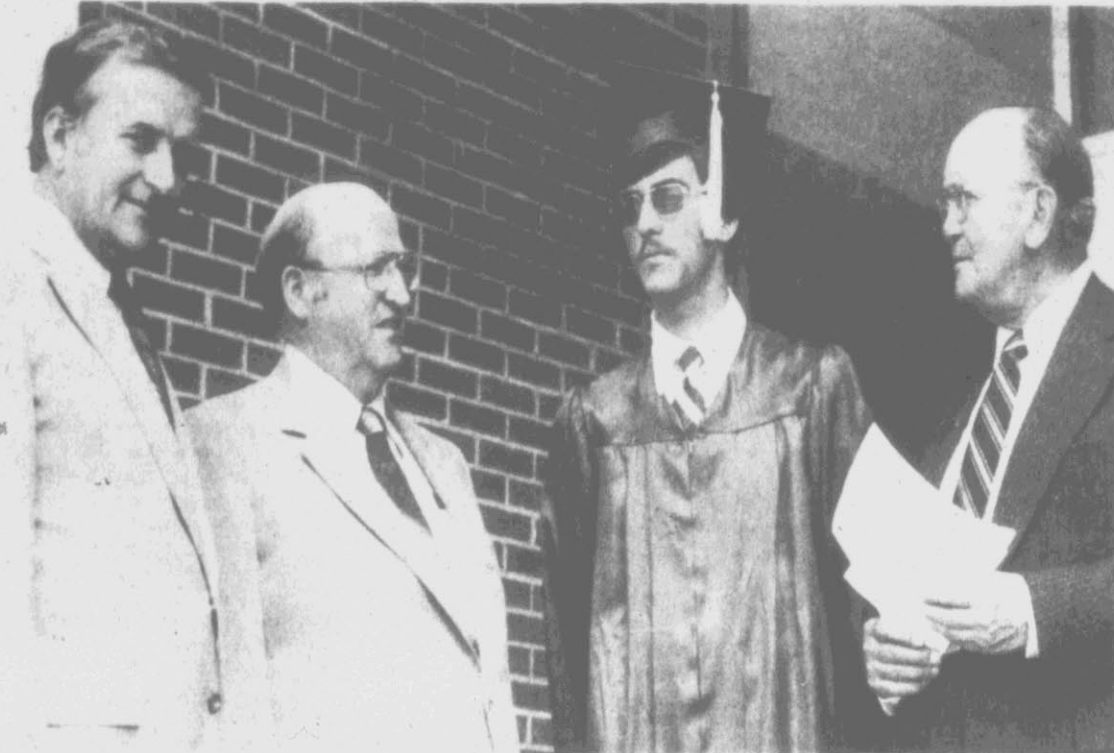

Those House Democrats are planning a strategy session of their own Tuesday.

Democrats on the House Ways and Means Committee have rejected Reagan's plan for an across-the-board, 30 percent cut in individual income tax rates over three years. They also turned thumbs-down on a compromise three-year, 25 percent cut, demanding instead a one-year reduction tilted more in favor of lower-income Americans.

Before he went to the White House today, House

Democratic Leader Jim Wright of Texas said on CBS-TV's "Morning" show he was willing to discuss a two-year tax cut of something less than 25 percent. The Democrats' aim, he said, is to give greater tax relief to moderate-income families and the working poor, and to avoid the crippling budget deficit he said Reagan's original proposals would produce.

Although the tax cut remains the chief topic of conversation in Congress, it likely will be 10 days or so before lawmakers actually begin writing the bill.

Pitt Community College Commencement Is Held

"Find your place in life and set high goals," Dr. Larry J. Blake told Pitt Community College graduates during spring commencement exercises held Sunday.

Associates in applied science and associates in arts were conferred upon graduates of technical, vocational and college transfer programs during the ceremonies held on the ECU campus in Mendenhall Student Center.

Dr. Blake, president of the North Carolina Community College system, focused his remarks on the role of community colleges and their contributions to the improvement of the quality of life for the people of this state.

Dr. Blake emphasized that Governor James B. Hunt Jr. had proclaimed 1981 as the year of the community college and said he hoped this would cause more citizens to become more aware of the great services provided by the state's community college system. "Community and technical colleges and technical institutes in N.C. are highly accessible to our people," said Blake. "There is an institution located within 30 miles for 99.5 percent of the state's population."

Blake said evening programs offered by PCC and other such institutions afford citizens the opportunity to work during the day and continue their education at night. "Without the evening programs, many people would be denied the privilege of upgrading skills and professions," added Blake.

The graduates were reminded that they attended PCC at a minimum cost. Financial support from local, state, and federal sources permitted them to take advantage of these educational opportunities. The speaker also noted that education through the community college system is the most attractive financial package available at the present time.

"Our community colleges offer many programs which are tailored to individual needs," said Blake. He stressed that the objectives of PCC and others in the system were to offer these programs under the "Open Door" admission policy which was adopted by the board of community colleges. "People from all walks of life, continue to patronize our community colleges and technical institutes," he added.

Tracy B. Coggins, a PCC graduate of agricultural business, gave the "graduate's response to the college." He emphasized that before each person lies tomorrow, which is filled with vast job opportunities and a chance for even higher education. A tomorrow where the graduates can utilize their new skills, which will help them to make their life's goals and dreams a reality. "As graduates, we can honestly say that Pitt Community College helped to inspire that tomorrow," said Coggins.

The speaker was introduced by Dr. William E. Fulford Jr., president of PCC. Dean of students, Edgar L. Boyd, introduced the candidates, and Clifton W. Everett Sr., chairman of the board, conferred the degrees and diplomas. Mrs. Kay Whichard, member of the board of trustees, welcomed the convocation and Rev. E.T. Vinson, pastor of Memorial Baptist Church, pronounced the invocation and benediction. Music was provided by organist Mrs. Shirley Moore.

Graduates of four and eight quarter programs are scheduled to receive their degrees and diplomas during the summer commencement exercises, August, 1981.

Hotline gets things done for you. Call 752-1336 and tell your problem or your sound-off or mail it to Hotline, The Daily Reflector, Box 1967, Greenville, N.C. 27834.

Because of the large numbers received, Hotline can answer and publish only those items considered most pertinent to our readers. Names must be given, but only initials will be used.

MUSHROOM RECALL

Please run something in Hotline about the recalled mushrooms. After an initial announcement came out last week, we checked the shelves at our house and found five cans of the recalled mushrooms. So they are in the Greenville area. J. H.

Yes, they're all over North Carolina and the nation, according to Food and Drug Administration Supervisory Investigator Dan Sitko, whose office is in Raleigh.

Codes AK-LK of four-ounce mushroom stems and pieces packed by Oxford Royal Company in Kelton, Pa. are being recalled, the company and the FDA concluded Friday afternoon. This company cans under many different brand names (including some store brands), so the consumer should not notice the brand name as much as the size (four-ounce) and type (stems and pieces) and codes. The letters to look for in the code are the first two and the recall will include AK, BK, CK, DK, etc. through LK, Sitko said.

One should check with one's own grocer as to whether he will accept cans back and reimburse.

TRIBUTE TO MRS. NEWTON

The parents of children in the pre-kindergarten class of St. Gabriel's School have asked Hotline to pay tribute to Mrs. Joann Newton, the volunteer teacher of the class. Her loving ways with the students and the many interesting activities she plans for the children are appreciated more than she can know, they say. "It's encouraging to know that there are still people in this world willing to give so much of themselves, without expecting anything in return," parent, Phyllis M. Hines, said.

Few Heed His Warnings As To Hurricanes

By STEPHEN C. SMITH
Associated Press Writer

CORAL GABLES, Fla. (AP) — Forecaster Neil Frank is something of a latter-day Paul Revere, delivering more than 100 speeches a year warning people about hurricanes and pleading with localities to prepare before a big storm strikes.

But most of the time, the director of the National Hurricane Center says, people in vulnerable areas refuse to listen.

As the six-month Atlantic hurricane season gets under way today, Frank again is reminding coastal dwellers about the fury of the storms and the need for evacuation plans.

"When you have a rare event like a hurricane, it's the natural tendency of human beings to deny the danger," Frank said. "They say: 'It's just not going to hit me.'"

People don't believe that a hurricane, with winds up to 200 mph, would strike their homes or push ashore huge waves that could destroy foundations of beachfront condominiums, he said.

Tropical Storm Arlene, born in the Caribbean, jumped the gun on the hurricane season last month and spread torrential rains over Jamaica, Cuba and the Bahamas.

On the average, six Atlantic hurricanes develop each year. During 1980, there were 11 named storms, nine of which became hurricanes.

"We just don't have the knowledge to predict what this season will bring," Frank said. "But if you're going to bet, you can bet against a hurricane hitting the southeast Florida coast. The odds are one in seven in any one year."

Despite the odds, Frank and civil defense officials along the Atlantic and Gulf coasts still are worried. They say residents in the most vulnerable areas never have felt the fury of a major storm.

When Hurricane David came within a few miles of the heavily populated Florida Gold Coast in 1979, thousands of elderly residents in Miami Beach fled their apartments in a chaotic evacuation that revealed glaring deficiencies in Dade County's disaster plan.

"I know of only four plans on total evacuation in the entire United States," Frank said. "They have plans for the Tampa Bay area; Lee County, Fla.; the lower Florida Keys, and Galveston Bay in Texas."

Lt. Gov. Is Subject Of SBI Probe

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The State Bureau of Investigation is investigating Lt. Gov. Jimmy Green for allegedly accepting $9,600 in free paving from a Fayetteville contractor later convicted in the highway bid-rigging scandal, a state Justice Department official said Sunday.

Senior Deputy Attorney General Andy Vanore said the SBI is probing "whether or not the lieutenant governor violated any laws in apparently receiving the paving of his parking lot" from William W. Crowell, president of Crowell Constructors Inc.

Crowell allegedly paved a parking lot at the Jimmy Green Brightleaf Warehouse and two other sites owned by Green in his Bladen County hometown of Clarkton. The work was reportedly done a few months before Green became lieutenant governor, after he served on the state Board of Transportation from 1973 to 1976.

Crowell is serving a 90-day prison sentence for paving a state Department of Transportation official's driveway in exchange for secret highway bid estimates. Asked to comment on the allegations, Green said there is "no basis for them whatsoever."

The Greensboro Daily News reported Sunday that Green gave Crowell a check for $4,800 for half the cost of the paving and that Crowell repaid Green in cash. The transaction allegedly occurred in August 1977, seven months after Green became lieutenant governor.

Green allegedly promised "to bring out more asphalt work in Bladen County" for Crowell, said Wilbur E. Dees of Hope Mills, a former Crowell vice president who recently ended a federal prison term for bid rigging.

Several weeks after the alleged transaction, Crowell Constructors won a $234,259 resurfacing project on N.C. 41 and N.C. 210 in Bladen County, the Daily News reported.

Between Oct. 25, 1977 and Sept. 25, 1979, the paper said, Crowell won all eight project bids let in Bladen County. The projects were worth a total $4.3 million.

Commissioners Approve Plats

The County Commissioners today approved final plats on two subdivisions and okayed two fire works permits for displays on the fourth of July.

Final plats for the Pinelog Subdivision in Arthur township and Alice Acres-part two in Pactolus township were approved as recommended by the Pitt County Planning Board.

In approving permits for fireworks displays the board okayed requests by the Greenville Jaycees and the town of Farmville Recreation Department for programs on July the Fourth.

In other business this morning, the board approved scheduling of a public hearing on a proposed building inspection ordinance for the county. The ordinance would require inspection of all residential buildings outside the limits of municipalities.

The building inspection program is required by state law to begin in Pitt County on July 1.

Commissioners also reappointed Jimmy Little to the Pitt Greenville Airport Authority and Stanley Peaden to the county's Sediment Control Commission. Reappointed to the Mental Health Area Board were Mrs. Lois Reddrick, John Mewborn and Allen Hahn.

Former U.S. Rep. Carl Vinson Dies; Longtime Defense Voice

MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga. (AP) — Former U.S. Rep. Carl Vinson, who served in the House longer than anyone else and was a powerful proponent of military might during his 50 years in Washington, died early today at the age of 97.

Molly Snead, Vinson's nurse for 34 years and a close family friend, said the veteran politician died at 5 a.m. EDT at Baldwin County Medical Center. He had suffered a heart attack a year ago and had entered the hospital almost two weeks ago with heart problems, she said.

Vinson, a Democrat, was one of the most powerful political figures in Washington from 1914 to 1965, receiving recognition for his length of service both in Congress and his 16 years as chairman of the House Naval Affairs Committee. He served as chairman of the House Armed Services Committee for 14 years.

Considered several times for Secretary of Defense during his years on Capitol Hill, Vinson once quipped, "Shucks, I'd rather go on running the Pentagon from up here."

"During his half century of service ... Carl Vinson established an unequalled record for tenure in congress and positive action to strengthen the nation's defense," said Georgia Gov. George Busbee, who was making plans to honor Vinson today.

Vinson spoke with a thick Southern accent, chewed tobacco and kept a spittoon nearby during committee hearings.

Vinson concentrated on the U.S. Navy after he was elected to Congress and was considered responsible for pushing through appropriations to build the Navy to its formidable proportions by World War II. In March 1980, he became the first living American to have a major warship named in his honor.

Mrs. Snead said Vinson had hoped for two things, to live to be 100 and to live to be able to see the USS Carl Vinson, a nuclear carrier, commissioned in February 1982.

"He kept telling me, 'Molly, I want to live to see that ship go in the water,'" she said.

When the carrier was launched on March 15, 1980, Vinson called it "a fine way to celebrate my youthful age of 96."

Vinson, who was known as the "Swamp Fox" in Congress because of his masterful grasp of parliamentary procedure and unerring strategy in getting important programs passed, was born on Nov. 18, 1883.

He became a member of the House Naval Affairs Committee as soon as he was elected to Congress, and was named chairman of the committee in 1932. Shortly afterward, Vinson presented a $616 million bill, which called for a 10-year program to build U.S. naval power.

See County Voices Divided Over Gasoline Tax

By MARY SCHULKEN
Reflector Staff Writer

AYDEN — Pitt County's voices in Raleigh are divided in their support of Governor Jim Hunt's three cent per gallon gasoline tax, according to remarks by Senator Vernon White and representatives Ed Warren and Sam Bundy today.

"We want four-lane highways here in Pitt County," said White, "but if we want these things you have to have money. The three cent gasoline tax is the only way I see we can do it."

"My support is behind this package of the governor's although it's not exactly what I'd want," added the senator. "We can't take funds out of the general fund without hurting schools, community colleges and other services dependent on the general fund." White estimated that it would take over $200 million to keep our roads in the condition they are now and begin only a minimum of new construction.

"At this time I cannot support a gas tax or the governor's package," noted Eighth Congressional District Representative Ed Warren. "I may end up supporting one, but at this time I cannot say I do."

"There are many things about the package I don't like," commented Rep. Sam Bundy. "Particularly the $15 million refund coming from the general fund. If the gas tax goes into the highway fund, I feel the rebate should come from the same place."

The legislators' remarks came this morning at a Pepsi break sponsored by the Ayden Council of the Pitt-Greenville Chamber of Commerce at the Ayden Town Hall.

White commented on a proposed tobacco tax that would return two cents per pack of cigarettes to North Carolina, saying, "I don't think we have the force to stop it at this time."

"I going to go against anything that has tobacco on it right now," said Rep. Warren. "The tobacco industry sinks a great deal of money into this state; for example this year already R.J. Reynolds has committed in the millions."

Warren added that he felt agriculture was the "most underestimated business we have in North Carolina," citing the fact that there are 1,700 farmers in Pitt County.

"One-sixth of our total state budget is agriculture," he noted, "and that's not enough."

Warren mentioned that the legislature is looking into several money saving policies during this session. "We have discussed the possibility of not trading cars as often and a possible ten percent across-the-board travel budget reduction for all state departments."

In addition, Warren reported that the exemption levels for inheritance and gift taxes have been increased.

"We've had a hard time with insurance during this session," said Rep. Bundy. "We hope that the clear-risk insurance package is going to pass." Clear-risk insurance would allow insurance companies to add surcharges only to customers who have accidents, regardless of whether they are in the re-insurance facility.

"Redistricting is going to be another big item," he added. "It appears now as though we are going to be able to keep Greene County with Pitt County."

"It's been the most frustrating session I remember in terms of getting anything done," concluded the representative.

Senator White reported there was a possibility of slicing the Pitt-Martin-Edgecombe-Hall tax district into two separate districts. "This I feel can be done without any adverse effects to either district," he noted, "and will be done only if this is true."

Alternatives To Hunt Gas Tax Lying Around

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Although Gov. Jim Hunt's proposal to raise gasoline taxes by 3 cents a gallon heads the legislative agenda this week, Republicans and fellow Democrats have filed other plans to raise money for the state's dwindling Highway Fund.

Hunt's $187 million-a-year tax package, approved by a Senate committee on Friday, goes to the Senate floor Tuesday.

But the following alternatives to Hunt's plan are lying dormant in the Legislature:

— Rep. Charles Holt, D-Cumberland, proposes to raise $160 million a year by raising the gasoline tax by only 2 cents to 11 1/4 cents a gallon.

Like Hunt, Holt wants to increase highway-related fees like driver's licenses, truck fees and overweight permits. But Holt also wants to increase registration fees for private passenger cars and buses by 15 percent, which could raise $15 million a year.

Holt would also transfer funding for the state Highway Patrol out of the Highway Fund to the general fund, thus freeing some $50 million a year in gasoline taxes for use on roads.

Holt's plan would also raise the state's 2-cent-per-pack cigarette tax — the lowest in the nation — to 5 cents. Hunt has studiously avoided that move.

Holt would raise liquor taxes by 27 percent, rather than 50 percent as Hunt is proposing in a separate bill.

— Freshman Rep. Joe Mavretic, D-Edgecombe, saying "1981 is the last chance we have for a calm, reasoned approach," proposes an 18-month waiting period to ensure that the Department of Transportation can operate efficiently and that the public can trust it.

Then, in 1983, Mavretic would begin raising gasoline taxes 1 cent a year for four years.

Mavretic's plan also would raise limits on sales taxes collected on new cars, boats and airplanes. The 2 percent tax is currently limited to the first $6,000 of the vehicle's cost. Mavretic would raise that limit to $200 in 1983, then raise it $100 a year until it hits $1,000. At the top limit, this portion of his plan would bring in an extra $160 million a year.

— GOP legislators want to cut all state spending by 5 percent — except for the Highway Patrol and for teachers — and transfer the Highway Patrol to the general fund. But with only 20 percent of the legislative seats, Republicans aren't given much chance for success.

— Senate Majority Leader Ken Royall, D-Durham, wants to raise manufacturer's taxes on cigarettes by one-half cent per pack — provided the legislatures of Kentucky, Virginia and Georgia do the same.

— Sen. Rachel Gray, D-Guilford, has proposed another manufacturer's tax of 2 cents per pack designed to raise $320 million a year.

D.H. Conley Less Afraid Of Student Wins Taxing Tobacco Scholarship

AURORA — Suzanne Wilson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Wilson of Rt. 1, Grimesland, a senior at D.H. Conley High School, has been awarded a scholarship by Texasgulf.

Suzanne's scholarship is one of 15 awarded to sons and daughters of employees of the Phosphate Operations. The scholarships provide payments up to $3,000 and are renewable for a maximum of four years for a possible scholarship total of $12,000.

SUZANNE WILSON

Texasgulf's total scholarship program provides for 50 scholarships annually. Recipients are selected by an independent educational testing service through evaluation of a number of criteria.

Suzanne has been secretary of her class for four years, is a member of the National Honor Society, the Literary, Pep, and Social Science clubs, and Future Business Leaders of America. She is also active in the high school band, is a marshal, a bus driver, a member of the student council and is church pianist at her church.

Other Texasgulf Phosphate Operations scholarships include 11 to students in Beaufort County, two to Pamlico County students, and one to a New Bern student.

Boards Grow With Company

NEW YORK (AP) — As companies grow in terms of sales or revenues, their number of board members tends to increase also, according to a recent American Management Associations study.

The number of directors per board ranges from 1 to 47 among the 1,057 U.S. companies surveyed. Banks and insurance companies tend to have more directors in relation to their assets than companies in other industries. However, in general, the type of industry has little bearing on the number of directors, the report found.

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — State legislators, looking for new sources of revenue, say the tobacco god is not as fearsome as it used to be.

And some say they are working up the courage to create additional taxes for North Carolina's No. 1 cash crop.

In fact, said House Speaker Liston Ramsey, legislators are far more willing now to tax cigarettes than when he first came to the General Assembly 20 years ago.

"I think they've pretty well sold the public on it," he said.

The state produces 70 percent of the country's flue-cured tobacco, and 93 of the state's 100 counties have an economic interest in the leaf.

Li. Gov. Jimmy Green, with an economic interest in tobacco warehouses in North Carolina and Virginia, is the chief obstacle to bills to raise the current tax of 2 cents per pack, legislators say.

Green said the public now sees tobacco as more of a taxable luxury than it did in 1969, when the Legislature enacted the 2-cent-per-pack tax.

In the current debate on methods of financing the state's falling Highway Fund, some legislators have suggested increasing the cigarette tax. Gov. Jim Hunt has consistently rejected the suggestions.

Sen. James Garrison, D-Stanly, said people in the mountain counties and most of the Piedmont are the strongest supporters of an increased tobacco tax, while eastern legislators oppose it.

"People don't want to hurt tobacco," he said. "They just feel that as long as we're lowest in the nation, we could tax it a little bit more."

"I doubt that you'll see any increase this year and maybe not in '83 either," said one legislator who refused to be identified. "But if things keep going as they are, there's no way the cigarette tax can stay at 2 cents."

The Legislature is considering three bills to increase the tax, and at least one more is expected to be introduced this week.

"The tobacco program is in trouble, there's not question about it," said Rep. Sam Bundy, D-Pitt, whose hometown of Farmville sells up to 30 million pounds of tobacco a year.

Apparently Hanged Himself

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — A 46-year-old Thomasville man serving 5 to 7 years in prison for voluntary manslaughter apparently hanged himself in his cell in Mocksville on Sunday, state prison officials said.

Prison spokesman Steward Shadbolt said James Nealy had been observed in his bunk smoking a cigar about 15 minutes before his body was discovered.

Shadbolt said Nealy apparently used a sheet to hang himself from a vent in the ceiling.

Violinist Has Realized Dream

NEW YORK (AP) — Violinist Itzhak Perlman, who won four Grammys this year and makes as many as 100 annual appearances with major orchestras, says he's finally realized a dream.

"I got to play with Oscar the Grouch," says the 35-year-old concert violinist about his recent television appearance with the big, fuzzy, sapphire-blue Sesame Street character.

The Israeli-born violinist said in a recent interview in People magazine that he won't allow his scores of appearances to cut into his family life.

"I miss my family whenever I'm away and I probably never completely get used to it," he said. Perlman and wife Toby, 38, have four children, aged 2 to 12.

Planning Try Emission Tests

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — State pollution technicians will begin voluntary vehicle exhaust emission checks in Mecklenburg County in approximately three weeks, say officials of the North Carolina Department of Motor Vehicles.

Department technicians will test exhausts on cars, trucks and motorcycles to see if their emissions exceed proposed carbon monoxide limits. There is no charge, and vehicle owners are not required to modify cars with excessive emissions.

North Carolina may require service station emission tests for Mecklenburg vehicles starting Jan. 1, 1982, because local carbon monoxide levels exceed federal standards.

Jeanne Turcotte Is Bride Of Mr. Clark

Jeanne Marie Turcotte and William Jay Clark, both of Greenville, were united in marriage Sunday afternoon at three o'clock at Saint Paul's Episcopal Church. Rev. Lawrence P. Houston performed the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Major U.S.M.C. (Ret.) and Mrs. Edward William Turcotte of Greenville. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Earl Eugene Clark of Spring Lake Heights, N.J.

A program of nuptial wedding music was presented by Mrs. Sharon Irwin, organist, and Steve Rogers, guitarist, who sang "More" and "The Wedding Song."

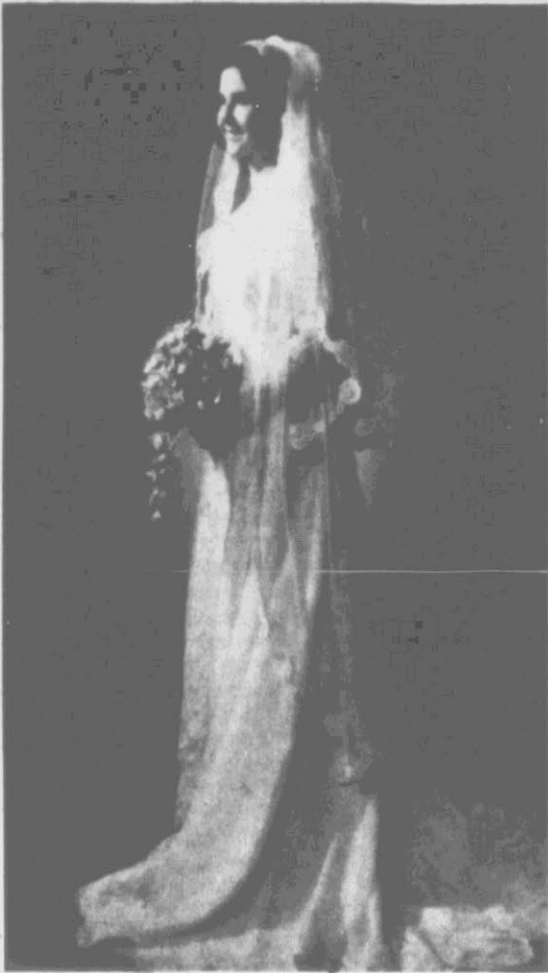

Given in marriage by her parents and escorted by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of white chiffon over peau de soie designed with a high neckline encircled with re-embroidered alencon lace beaded with seed pearls. The bodice, which featured a sheer yoke of imported English net, was entirely embellished with beaded pearled re-embroidered alencon lace. The princess styled gown was enhanced by a border of scalloped alencon lace that extended around the attached chapel length train. She wore a waltz length veil of illusion with an elbow length layer, both bordered in the re-embroidered alencon lace, held in place by a caplet overlaid in lace beaded with pearls. She carried a silk cascade bouquet of white apple blossoms, white wood roses, daisies, a touch of yellow bell blossom, accented with greenery and baby's breath.

The bride's sister-in-law, Barbara Goodson Turcotte, was matron of honor. She wore a yellow polyester knit formal gown designed with a gathered bodice, empire waist and pleated skirt. The flowing caplet of nylon chiffon was designed with a round neckline and with a back buttoned closure. She wore a hairpiece with a cluster of yellow miniature daisies and baby's breath. She carried a clustered silk bouquet of yellow ginsler, pink sweetpeas, yellow daisies, blue cornflower, accented with baby's breath and greenery and tied with satin ribbons.

Bridesmaids were Tracey Taylor and Lu Anne O'Bannon, both nieces of the bride of Greenville. They wore dresses and carried bouquets styled identically to the matron of honor. The mother of the bride wore a cocktail length dress of powder blue silk organza. She carried a white silk rose corsage on her purse. The mother of the bridegroom wore a cocktail length dress of dusty rose sheer crepe. She wore a white silk rose corsage.

Frank Edwards Restaino Jr. of Fort Meyers, Fla. was best man. Ushers were Kenneth Eugene Clark of Borden town, N.J. and Donald Oren Clark of Sprink Lake Heights, N.J., brothers of the bridegroom, Edward William Turcotte Jr. and James Gowen Turcotte, brothers of the bride of Greenville, Edward William Turcotte III, nephew of the bride of Greenville and John Henry Richardson III of Charlotte.

A reception was held after

the ceremony in the church parish hall.

Mrs. C.A. Robertson presided at the bridal register which was placed on a table displaying the bridal portrait.

An after-rehearsal buffet and dance was held Saturday evening at the Elks Lodge given by friends of the bride and bridegroom. The hosts and hostesses were Mr. and Mrs. C. Emerson Baker, Mr. and Mrs. Percy R. Cox, Mrs. Karl E. Faser, Dr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Haigwood Jr., Mr. and Mrs. James Bryant Kittrell, Mr. and Mrs. G. Henry Leslie, Mr. and Mrs. A. Lang Jr., Mr. and Mrs. R. Connor Merritt Jr., Dr. and Mrs. A.M. Mumford, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth N. Phillips, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ramey, Margaret Lewis Stevens, Mr. and Mrs. Edward W. Wilkerson Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Norman Wilkerson, and Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm C. Williams.

Mr. and Mrs. I. Jackson Edwards Jr. and Mr. and Mrs. Maxel Eugene Minges entertained the wedding party and out-of-town guests at a wedding breakfast Sunday morning. The bride is a graduate of Saint Mary's College, Raleigh, and ECU. She is employed as social service director at University Nursing Home. The bridegroom is also a graduate of ECU is employed as a chemist at

Avery-Warren Vows Said

Shirley Kathryn Warren of Ayden and Jerry Wayne Avery of Greenville were united in marriage Sunday at three o'clock in the afternoon at Liberty Free Will Baptist Church in Ayden. The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. R.A. Gaskins.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon W. Warren of Ayden. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Dalton E. Russell of Winterville.

A program of nuptial wedding music was presented by Sue Branch, organist of Ayden, and Tim Devinney, soloist, who sang "One in a Million You," "A Time for Us," and "The Wedding Prayer."

The chancel of the church was decorated with a fifteen-branch arched candelabrum flanked by two nine-branch candelabrum-trimmed with jade and springeri.

Given in marriage by her parents and escorted by her father, the bride wore a formal-length gown of white organza over white peau de soie designed with a U-neckline in front and a keyhole in back outlined in scalloped re-embroidered chantilly lace. Matching lace encircled the waistline and trimmed the shepherdess sleeves of the empire bodice which was overlaid with chantilly lace. The modified A-line skirt featured a tapered accordion pleated center panel outlined in re-embroidered chantilly lace and extended to an attached cathedral train enhanced by a full French lace panel bordered in embroidered lace. She wore a fingertip length veil of illusion bordered in chantilly lace which was held in place by a caplet overlaid in matching lace. She carried a cascade bouquet of white carnations with subtle touches of yellow roses and old fashion ivy.

The bride's sister, Janet Hignite of Greenville, was matron of honor. She wore a formal-length sleeveless gown of maize Tinasetta Italian silk designed with an open neckline featuring miniature rolled shoulder straps, gathered semi-blouse bodice and flared skirt. The gown was complemented by a sheer schiffli embroidered lace jacket. She carried three yellow carnations tied with white satin ribbons.

Bridesmaids were Wanda Warren, sister-in-law of the bride of Ayden, and Donna Avery, the bridegroom's sister of Winterville. They wore gowns and carried carnations identical to that of the matron of honor. Junior bridesmaids were Michelle Hignite, niece of the bride of Greenville, and Gayle Cash of Winterville. They wore dresses similar to the attendants and carried a single yellow carnation tied with white satin ribbons.

Melissa Harris, cousin of the bride of Winterville, was flower girl. She wore a sleeveless maize Tinasetta Italian silk dress designed with an open neckline complemented with a silk jacket. She carried a basket filled with rose petals. Honorary bridesmaids were Holly Dennis and Cindy Avery of Ayden, Pam Evans and Jennifer Tyndall of Grifton, and Gail Nobles of Tabor City. They wore pastel colored dresses and each carried a long-stemmed yellow silk rose.

The mother of the bride wore a formal-length blue dress. The mother of the bridegroom wore a formal-length green dress. They carried silk ring corsages of yellow sweetheart roses with a touch of white stephanotis.

Dalton E. Russell of Winterville was his son's best man. Ushers were Kenneth Avery, brother of the bridegroom, Vernon Ray and Richard Warren, brothers of the bride of Ayden, and Rocky Russell, brother of the bridegroom of Farmville. Keith Hignite, nephew of the bride of Greenville, was ring bearer.

A reception was held immediately following the ceremony at the Ayden Community Building.

Mr. and Mrs. Dalton Russell entertained the wedding party at a pig-picking at their home on Saturday before the wedding.

The bride is a graduate of Ayden-Grifton High School and is now attending East Carolina University. The bridegroom graduated from D.H. Conley High School and is now employed by Pitt County Schools.

After a wedding trip to unannounced points, the couple will reside in Greenville.

Saga Of Bowlegs Still Continues

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: You were way off base with your answer to the fellow who was bowlegged and miserable. It was no help to tell him to thank God he had legs! What about people who want nose jobs? Do you tell them to thank God they have noses?

Ruth Gordon, the actress, appeared not long ago on a talk show and told the world she had had surgery to correct her bowed legs. She even lifted her skirt to display the results! Then there was a 6-foot model on TV named Veruschka who thought her feet were too long, so she had an operation to shorten her toes.

Sarah Miles came on the Johnny Carson show and told now she was self-conscious because her ears stuck out, so she had a plastic surgeon pin them closer to her head.

That bowlegged fellow doesn't have to "accept" his deformity. He should find an orthopedic surgeon who will straighten his legs.

DISAPPOINTED IN YOU

DEAR DISAPPOINTED: I certainly shot from the hip on that one. Read on:

DEAR ABBY: How can you call yourself a Californian and know nothing about Roling? Have you also not heard about the isolation tanks that feature 800 pounds of epsom salts?

Roling is a technique of muscle massage and manipulation, developed by one Dr. Ida P. Rolfe. She claimed all kinds of miraculous transformations, and I'm sure bowlegs was among them.

PAUL

DEAR PAUL: And now I am informed by orthopedic specialists who tell me that bowed legs should be straightened not only for cosmetic reasons but for therapeutic reasons.

For a variation on your next salad theme, add grated raw beets. They're great on tossed greens or coleslaw.

Ingenuity In Financing

Recently it was reported to the G.R. Whitfield PTA that redecoration of the media center and installation of 10 new air conditioners should be completed before the next school year.

The projects are being financed by the PTA.

And a spokesman for the citywide PTA, in making recommendations concerning school bus safety, suggested additional training for drivers with the cost to be borne by the citywide PTA.

We are certain there are many other instances where PTAs are supporting their schools with funding for projects where tax money is not available.

It is commendable, and it is also indicative of something all of us will have to do more of in the future. Tax moneys for new projects are simply running out. The public doesn't want to pay additional taxes and frequently this is affecting worthwhile school and local projects.

Citizens groups can help fill the gap through organization fund raising to finance some of the school and other local needs.

Ideally, perhaps, some of these projects should be financed from tax funds... but if the money isn't there we will just have to use American ingenuity and our traditional strong sense of support for the community to do some things through private funding.

Something Wanted In Return

Despite Saudi Arabia's policy of "glutting" the world oil market as a move to stabilize petroleum prices, we are not all that sure the Saudis are true altruists.

There must be something more to the maneuverings because that country was among members of the cartel who, early in the game, referred to multiplying of oil prices as "for your own good".

That was another questionable point of view; but that milk was "spilled" so long ago that today it's irrelevant. The feeling persists that not only oil prices are being manipulated, but there's a conscious effort at manipulating the United States, too.

We would guess Saudi Arabia looks on the U.S. as being of value to their own wellbeing — a viewpoint which in some respects could run counter to American interests.

U.S. motorists, it is said, can expect some reprieve from the constant petroleum product price-climb; but we look to the day when our smiling Arab friends will be saying "now here's what you can do for us".

Bond Issue Pushed

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH — In the face of all the fuss over higher taxes and general reduction of government programs, city officials in North Carolina are pressing for a new water bond issue.

The matter must be first endorsed by the General Assembly, then put to the voters in a statewide election.

The statewide League of Municipalities has endorsed the proposal and plans to push the measure in the General Assembly. Officials of the state's Department of Natural Resources and Community Development have done extensive study leading to the debate to come. Only a final nod from Gov. Jim Hunt is awaited for action, but that endorsement has been put aside during the public argument over how to raise more Highway Funds.

Meanwhile, another bond issue which has been on the back burner for a couple of years has been quietly laid to rest, at least for now. State Schools Supt. Craig Phillips has been trying to get Hunt's backing on a $600 million bond issue for school construction, but it now seems certain that more pressing financial problems and public resistance to increased government spending block that action.

Critical Water, however, is another matter. Those close to the situation are keeping a wary eye on this year's near-drought conditions in some sections of the state and warning that continued pressures brought on water supplies by growth — and indeed the ability of a community to sustain economic growth — make planning now for the future critical.

In 1971, voters endorsed a $150 million bond issue to be spread over a five-year period. Again, voters approved bonds in 1977 — this time it was $230 million for a five-year spread.

Those funds are nearly exhausted. Local com-having state and local funds available to take up the slack.

Neil Grigg, assistant secretary for natural resources, says meeting state and federal standards on sewage treatment to reduce stream pollution is one of the principal reasons that local governments must escalate their programs.

There has been some talk

munities typically get a state grant for no more than 25 percent of the cost of a project. Local and federal funds make up the difference. The money is used for both water systems and sewerage systems.

The talk right now is for the new bond issue to be in the range of $200 million to $230 million, with the vote coming either this year or next.

Meanwhile, federal spending cutbacks are sure to strike hard at local water and sewer projects, which state and local officials see as boosting the importance of

Other Editors Say Flaws Dramatized

(Goldsboro News-Argus)

That "peace vigil" held near Seymour-Johnson AFB on Memorial Day served a useful purpose.

It dramatized the naivete and the misdirection of the remaining holdovers or throwbacks to the peace demonstrations of the 1960s.

A group calling itself the North Carolina Peace Network had said it would have 50 to 100 demonstrators from out of town here to protest the presence of nuclear weapons and bombers at Seymour Johnson AFB.

Only five local people had shown up to a preliminary meeting and organizers were not sure whether they would attend the protest.

As it turned out, only around 35 people in all showed up for the main event.

Let's note some of the things they said: "National security means total disarmament of all nuclear weapons."

"We must put less in defense and more in social programs."

"There are ways to peace other than strength."

"Russians are a pretend thing in the respect that some common enemy is needed for the people to unite. The situation is being built up by those in advantageous positions."

That Russian "pretend thing" happens to have assembled the most awesome array of nuclear missiles and conventional weapons in the world.

One needs to but look at a map of Russian presence and dominance 40 years ago and one showing Russian domination today, to readily understand the communists' intentions.

If the group that journeyed to Goldsboro to protest the presence of nuclear weapons at Seymour Johnson AFB wants to strike a blow for peace, it should address itself to the real international culprit — the Soviet Union.

But today, as in the 1960s, that is not the style of the peacekeepers. Their method is to either glorify or pretend non-existence of the gangsters that are gobbling up world geography and destroying human rights and freedoms — and damn this country that guarantees them their right to criticize it.

These people are advocating peace through submission. Consciously or unconsciously, they are handmaidens of the Soviet Union.

Strength For Today

TRUE POPULARITY

Attractive personality often arises from the fact that one is able to adapt himself to the interests, aptitudes, and mental capacities of others. Above all, this person is interested in others rather than in himself.

A little boy once expressed great admiration for a neighbor, a man about his father's age. When the boy was asked why he liked the man, he replied, "Well, he's big and he can take long steps, but he always walks little with me."

Giving City 'Bad Name'

NEW YORK — New Yorkers are always complaining that "foreigners" (those who don't live there) are giving the city a bad name. Actually we "foreigners" would have no idea what was going on unless New Yorkers told us.

I had the occasion to go up to New York on Sunday last week, and spend the afternoon in Queens at a gathering of friends. Then I announced I had to go into the city.

"How are you planning to go?" someone asked.

"I thought I'd take the subway."

"You can't take the subway!" the person said. "Why? It's Sunday. The subway shouldn't be too crowded."

"That's just the point,"

"Just a couple of days."

"I'd take off that watch if I were you. They're getting awfully good at ripping off watches. If your wife is going to be with you, tell her not to wear any gold chains. They'll rip them off, too."

"Where are you staying?"

"Down in Gramercy Park," I said.

"You weren't planning on going out at night, were you?"

"I was hoping to. I understand there's a lot to see in New York City at night."

A friend said, "It depends on where you go. Always walk on a lighted street near the curb and if they ask for your money, give it to them without arguing."

"Better still, don't walk anywhere. Take a taxi, and another friend told me. "It's much more dangerous to take it when it isn't crowded. You could be sitting in a car all by yourself, and that's when they'll get you."

"If they don't get you, the subway will," another person said.

"How could the subway get me?" I wanted to know.

"It's always breaking down. You could be stuck under the East River all night long."

"Maybe I'd better take a taxi."

"Be careful. Don't tell the cab driver you're from out of town, or he'll take you to Manhattan via Staten Island. They wait all day for people like you."

Another friend said, "If he does take you by way of Staten Island, don't argue with him. There was a story in the newspaper the other day about a man who complained the taxi was taking the long way from Kennedy Airport, and the driver beat him up with a tire iron."

"How long are you staying in Manhattan?" someone inquired.

"Just a couple of days."

"I'd take off that watch if I were you. They're getting awfully good at ripping off watches. If your wife is going to be with you, tell her not to wear any gold chains. They'll rip them off, too."

information from the Highway Users Federation. The questions come first; the answers are below.

1. Which cuts mileage the most? (a) dirty air filter (b) sticking sparkplug (c) sticky carburetor.

2. What is the most fuel-efficient way to cool a car on the open highway? (a) open the interior vents and vent windows (b) open the side windows (c) turn on the air conditioning.

3. True or false: Carrying a bag of sand in the trunk of a rear-wheel drive car increases gas mileage by improving traction and forward momentum.

4. Driving at 55 mph instead of 70 mph increases gas mileage by (a) 60 percent (b) 40 percent (c) 20 percent (d) 7 percent.

5. The reason radial tires give better mileage than bias-ply tires is (a) they are made of harder rubber (b) they are lighter and smaller (c) they reduce friction between the tire and the road (d) they can be inflated to higher pressure.

6. To save fuel, you should shut off the engine if you are going to idle (a) any time at all (b) more than 20 seconds (c) more than one minute.

7. True or false: It is more fuel-efficient to carry loads on a roof-top luggage rack which distributes weight equally through the car frame than to carry them in the trunk over the rear axle.

8. The most fuel-efficient way to start a car is to (a) let the engine warm up for a minute before driving (b) start driving immediately, going slowly for the first mile or so (c) start driving immediately in a normal fashion.

The answers:

1. (c) A sticky carburetor can cut the number of miles you get to the gallon by three. A misfiring sparkplug costs two miles to the gallon and a dirty air filter one mile.

2. (a) Open vents don't drain power from the engine. Air conditioning cuts fuel efficiency by 10 percent to 20 percent and the wind resistance created by open side windows can cost just as much.

3. False. Unnecessary weight cuts mileage by at least 1 percent for every 100 pounds you are carrying.

4. (c) Driving at 55 mph instead of 70 increases fuel efficiency by about 20 percent.

5. (c) Radial tires cut friction. They can improve mileage by up to 5 percent.

6. (c) Restarting uses less gasoline than one minute's idling, but more than only a few seconds of idling.

7. False. The key to the answer is in wind resistance, not in how the weight is distributed. Bulky luggage on top of the car increases wind resistance and cuts mileage.

8. (b) You can warm the engine up without harming it by starting to move immediately, then going slowly for a mile. Idling the engine without moving just wastes fuel.

Reform Is Never Seen

By DONALD M. ROTHBERG
AP Political Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — As certain as there are presidential elections every four years, they are followed by complaints from the participants that the process is too long, is inhumane and robs voters and candidates alike of the opportunity to have any rational discussion of the issues.

The complaints prompt quadrennial, bipartisan cries for reform. But as surely as the system is changed, later-day reformers will see the need to unravel the work of their predecessors.

A decade ago the demand was for more democracy, a greater role for the people in choosing presidential candidates; it was time to end the dominance of the bosses.

That demand led to more primaries, which led to longer campaigns, which led to the current call for fewer primaries and, in the case of the Democratic Party, moves to return the politicians to a prominent role in the nominating process.

Ironically, one of the unintended effects of the proliferation of primaries was the render the nominating conventions meaningless as final rounds in the battle for the Republican and Democratic nominations.

After 35 or more primaries, it is virtually certain that some candidate will have the strength to assure him of his party's nomination.

Democracy came to the Democratic Party with the so-called McGovern reforms of the early 1970's which were intended to diminish the power of such old-line bosses as Mayor Richard Daley of Chicago, who reformers viewed as one of the villains of the 1968 Democratic convention.

By the 1972 convention that nominated then-Sen. George McGovern for president, Daley was refused a seat as a delegate.

McGovern carried only one state against Richard M. Nixon, but his reforms lived on.

Now, the Democrats' 1980 debacle at the polls has spurred calls for returning presidential politics to the politicians. Most of the discussion centers on finding ways to lessen the physical strain of primary campaigns.

Former President Ford was in Washington recently and joined those calling for regional primaries held over a shorter time span than the current season that opens with the New Hampshire primary in February and ends the first week in June.

Ford, who had to overcome a strong primary challenge from Ronald Reagan in 1976, complained that "few incumbent presidents can devote the necessary time" to the primary campaign.

Reagan might counter that he happily would have assumed the political burdens along with the advantages of being an incumbent president seeking his party's nomination.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, who challenged President Carter for the Democratic nomination in 1980, also might feel any political disadvantages of the White House are outweighed by the advantages.

Ford may not get much sympathy for the burdens of incumbency, but he does have support for the regional primary idea.

Sen. Robert Packwood, R-Ore., advocates dividing the nation into five regions. Any state within a particular region would have to hold its primary, if it chose to hold one at all, on a specified date.

The first regional primary would take place on the second Tuesday in March and the others on the second Tuesday of each of the next four months.

The order in which regions held their primaries would be determined by lot.

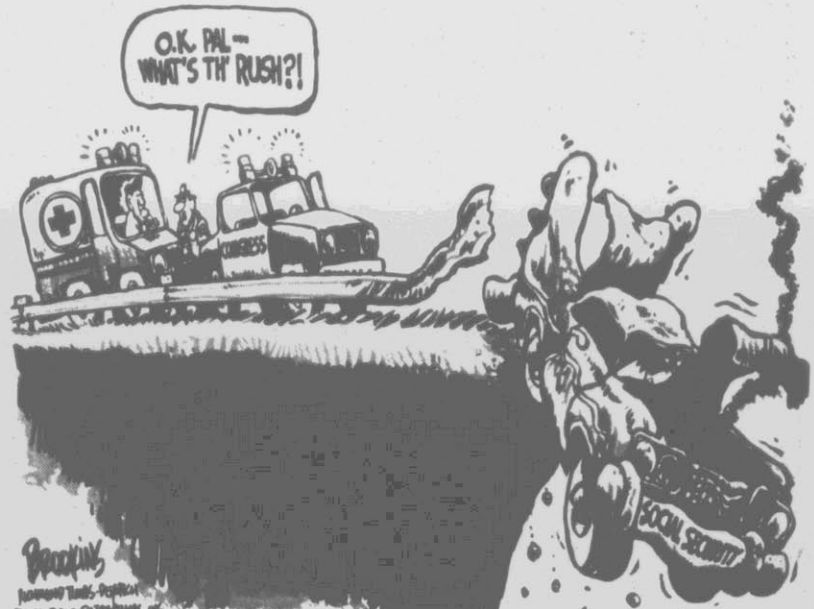

Packwood argues that regional primaries would shorten the process so "what is perceived as an 'endless campaign' wouldn't be so endless."

But some advocates of reform want more basic changes than regional primaries.

Sen. Gary Hart, D-Colo., is pushing an elaborate proposal for a series of caucuses that would begin on the precinct level and move through state conventions at which delegates would be chosen for a national convention.

Rather than nominate the presidential candidate, the

Quiz To Test Gasoline Sense

By LOUISE COOK

Gasoline prices have dropped in recent months, but motorists heading for summer vacations will find that filling up the tank still takes a big chunk of the travel dollar and stretching mileage is as important as ever.

More than seven years of shortages and soaring prices, started by the 1973 Arab oil embargo, have made many Americans familiar with the basics of saving gasoline. The more you learn, however, the more you can save.

You probably know, for example, that stop-and-go driving increases the amount of gasoline you use. But did you also know that it can actually double your fuel consumption?

What's the best way to warm up a car? Should you stow your luggage in the trunk or in the overhead rack? How can you keep cool without wasting fuel?

Here is a quiz to test your knowledge. It is based on

See No Effects In Textbook Complaints

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Complaints by the North Carolina Moral Majority that 14 state-approved textbooks lead to promiscuity, violence and communistic attitudes among students will not change the way the state selects books, school officials say.

Jerome H. Melton, deputy state superintendent of public instruction, said books are evaluated by the 14-member State Textbook Commission and individual school boards before they are used in classrooms. Each school system has channels for parental involvement in the selection process, he said.

Melton said local school boards would be urged to read a 28-page criticism of 14 texts circulated in April by the fundamentalist, conservative Christian group, and to review their local book-screening process.

"We have no plans to change the process and procedures we use because of any recommendations from the Moral Majority," he said, however.

The Rev. Lamar Mooneyham, leader of the North Carolina Moral Majority, said the textbooks promote the philosophy of secular humanism.

He said the philosophy is a guiding force in state schools and advocates euthanasia, socialism and promiscuity.

"Our crusade is to demonstrate the presence of secular humanism in the public schools," Mooneyham said. "The Bible is not against books, it's against humanism."

One state-adopted text mentioned in the booklet was "Biology" by Karen Arms and Pamela S. Camp, for advanced 11th- and 12-grade students. The Moral Majority said the book advocates abortion. One passage quoted by the group says that "the widespread use of legal abortions has considerably reduced the number of maternal deaths from unwanted pregnancies."

Dr. Jim E. Martin, superintendent of Stanly County schools, was chairman of the State Textbook Commission that reviewed the biology book.

"The book does not come on saying that there should be more abortions," but rather, given the choice between legal abortions and illegal abortions, says abortions should be performed legally, he said.

The book is "for more mature students," he said. "I honestly think the youngsters I've dealt with could handle that without becoming brainwashed."

The Moral Majority booklet also denounced a 7th-grade social-studies textbook, "People, Places and Change," saying it promotes communism by eliminating "ugly historical facts that might make these systems of government appear to be undesirable."

But Martin said, "It is having to strain a great deal to say that this is poisoning a child's mind."

The fundamentalist group also listed in its criticism the textbook "Boys and Sex" by Wardell Pomeroy, recommended by the state Division of Public Instruction for use as supplementary reading by junior and senior high school students. Following are some excerpts from the text: "By playing with girls sexually before adolescence, trying to understand how they are made and how they react, the chances are increased for a satisfactory sex life when the boy grows up...."

"Sometimes the couple uses the home of either the male or female, which is fine if they can be absolutely sure that the parents won't return home unexpectedly.... Places like woodlands, the beach or such secluded areas often work out better...."

"We are mammals and, hence, our sexual behavior which is like that of other animals is natural. Other mammals engage in practically every kind of sex, including petting, masturbation, homosexuality and even sadomasochistic behavior...."

"About one out of five boys who live on farms or else visit one during summer vacation have intercourse, or attempt it, with animals ... ponies, calves, sheep, pigs, even chickens or ducks. Dogs are also commonly used, but cats rarely.... Farm boys ... have had a loving sexual relationship with an animal and ... felt good about their behavior until they got to college, where they learned for the first time that what they had done was 'abnormal.'"

The Christian group contends that the following passages in "People, Places and Change" are too sophisticated for young readers: "In war people are killed. Are there times when it is all right to kill others? Or is it always wrong to take another person's life? "If poor people have no place to go, what do you think the police should do — throw them off the land because they do not own it; or allow them to live there, against the owner's wishes? "Would you spy on a neighbor if it would keep you from going to jail? On a friend?"

tell the driver to wait until you get into the hotel lobby," someone added.

"Is it all right to go to the theater?" I asked.

"It's all right to go. But coming back is where you could get in trouble. Whatever you do, stay off Eighth Avenue. That's where all the crazies hang out."

"Before you go, put all your valuables in the hotel safe, and be sure when you get back to your hotel you double lock your door. I know a guy who was sleeping in one of the best hotels in the city and found someone going through his trousers looking for his wallet."

"I think I better take notes," I said. "I hear the restaurants are pretty good in New York."

"It depends if they know you or not. If you go to one of the better ones, make sure you slip the headwaiter a $20 bill, or you'll be standing at the bar until 11 o'clock at night."

"When you're leaving for the airport during rush hour, give yourself two hours. If one car breaks down on the East Side Drive, you're a dead duck."

"Gosh," I said. "This sounds like a tough city."

"Why do you say that?" someone asked in a defensive voice.

"No reason," I replied, realizing I was on dangerous ground.

"That's the trouble with you out-of-towners. You're always knocking New York because you don't live here. It's the greatest place in the world."

"I wouldn't live anywhere else," another friend added.

"I love New York."

"I better get going," I said.

"Why? It's only 4 o'clock."

"Well, if I'm going get beaten up with a tire iron, I better allow some time to go to the hospital."

"If you go to the emergency room on Sunday," a friend said, "make sure there's an English-speaking doctor on duty."

Wool Pool To Be Held

The 1981 Wool Pool for eastern North Carolina will be held Thursday, June 25, from 7:00 a.m. until noon at the Douglas Hassell Warehouse, 800 Hackney Avenue, Washington, N.C.

The State Wool Pool was sold on May 12 to Prouvost Lefebvre and Company for the following prices: clean wool sold for $85.91/cwt; short, lamb and light burry was $73.02; heavy burry, stained, black, dead, reject was $64.43; tags sold for $17.18.

Marketing charges will be five cents per pound this year. Receipts should be filed with the ASCS office as soon after the sale as possible.

Wet wool will be rejected so sheep should be dry at shearing. Wool should be stored and transported properly. Every effort should be made to keep all foreign matter such as hay, straw, dirt, tags, and twine out of the wool.

Would Increase Working Share

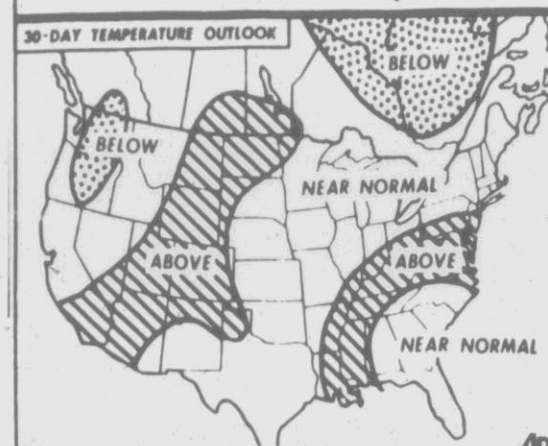

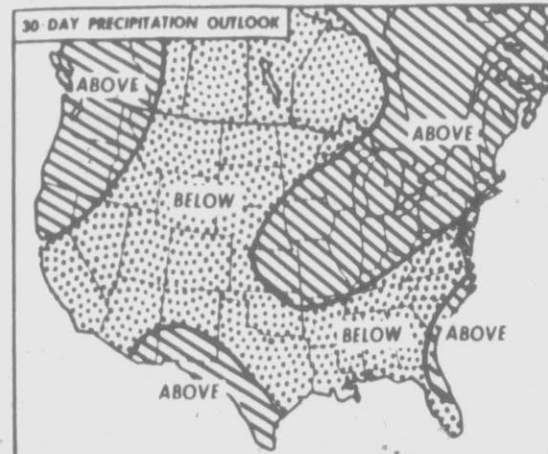

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Executive Director Vernon Bevil has proposed some changes in the North Carolina Wildlife Resources Commission he says will make it more efficient.

About 70 percent of his budget goes for salaries and fringe benefits, and only 30 percent is spent on field operations. Bevil wants to increase the amount for field work to 40 percent, leaving 60 percent for salaries and fringe benefits.

He said the commission also will be affected by cutbacks in the state budget and he expects to lose 19 temporary employees and 17 permanent positions under proposed cutbacks.

national convention would choose two or three people whose names would be on the ballot for a national primary.

Hart acknowledges his system would "drive reporters crazy" — not to mention the general public — because it would be impossible for anyone to know at the time of state precinct caucuses which candidate may have accumulated the most support.

But Hart, who managed McGovern's 1972 campaign, said he has "yet to find any major flaw" with his plan.

On the other hand, he had to admit he has yet to find any major support for his idea.

of standards being reduced, but Grigg does not expect that to happen in light of the progress already made in cleaning up surface and groundwater to date.

"We are likely to keep the same standards for wastewater improvements...and that is costing from $80 to $100 million a year in communities across North Carolina," Grigg said.

Money

The need is not quite so clear in terms of water treatment and distribution needs, but it is thought that local governments will need about the same amount for water as for wastewater, particularly in areas where supply is threatened, or where growth is rapid at this time, or anticipated to accelerate in coming years.

The 1977 bond issue set up $112.5 million for wastewater treatment projects, and $110 million for water supply systems. Another $7.5 million was earmarked for administrative and contingency costs.

While some local bond issues to fund water and sewer works are underwritten by revenues from the system, the state bonds are general obligation ones to be paid off from tax sources.

Training Program Is Available

Employers wishing to train employees in entry-level positions for higher-paying positions with better advancement potential may be able to receive financial assistance through the Greenville office of the N. C. Employment Security Commission (ESC).

James Hannan, manager of the Greenville Job Service office, explained that funds are available under the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA). Title II-C to upgrade the skills of persons currently in low-paying and/or dead-end jobs.

Funding by CETA for upgrading lasts up to 44 weeks, depending on the skill level of the training being provided. During training, CETA pays the equivalent of 40 percent of the starting wage for the trained position.

The program encourages employers to train entry-level employees who have been working at less than their full skill potential for at least six months. Hannan said.

"This enables employers to gain maximum potential of their personnel while it reduces the cost of training."

Any area employer who would like to determine if he has an employee who would qualify for the II-C program is to contact the local Job Service, 3101 Bismarck Street, or call 756-2686.

Damage Is Reported In 3 Wrecks

An estimated $4,300 property damage resulted from a series of three traffic mishaps investigated in Greenville Sunday.

Heaviest damage resulted from a 10:40 a.m. collision at the intersection of Dickinson Avenue and Hooker Road, involving a Police Department patrol car driven by Edward Carson Moore of Route 3, Greenville, and a vehicle operated by Jerrie McGowan of 3020 South Memorial Dr.

Investigating Highway Patrolman Wayne Taylor, who estimated damage from the mishap at $1,500 to the police car and $200 to the McGowan vehicle, charged Miss McGowan with failing to stop for a stop light.

Investigators reported a car driven by Michael Grant Colton of Durham collided with a fire hydrant on 14th Street, 3,000 feet east of the Osceola Drive intersection about 2:30 a.m., resulting in an estimated $1,000 damage to the car and $200 damage to the hydrant.

Cars driven by George Frederick Sallee of 1800 West Fifth St. and Robert Junior Wilson of 1106A North Washington St. collided about 12:58 p.m. at the intersection of Evans Street and Arlington Boulevard.

Police, who charged Wilson with driving under the influence, estimated damage at $300 to the Sallee car and $200 to the Wilson auto.

Counselor To Be Here

Job Corps counselor Cephus Kimble will be at the Pitt County Department of Social Services Wednesdays, June 10 and 24 to recruit youths 16-21 for job training at residential Job Corps centers.

He will be at the Martin County DSS Friday, June 12 and Tuesday, June 24, for the same purpose.

For Job Corps information, one may call the state CARELINE toll-free, 800-662-7030.

School Board Meets Tonight

The information meeting of the Greenville City Board of Education for the month of June will be held at 8 p.m. tonight at Elmhurst Elementary School.

Items on the agenda will include ones of personnel, budget and policy.

Wells Contaminated By Waste

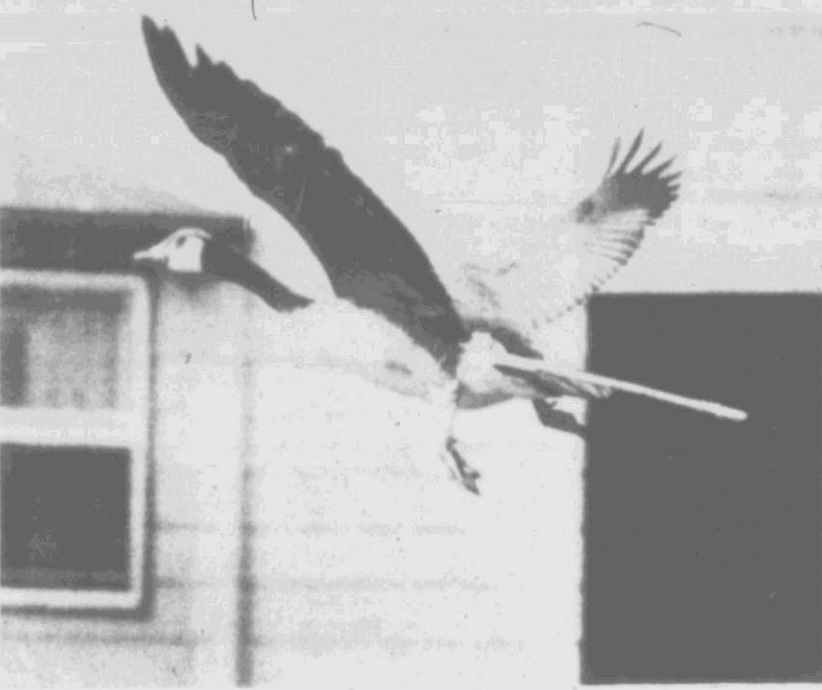

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — State officials plan to conduct more tests on poisonous chemical leaks into water wells that have forced a Mecklenburg County chemical company to evacuate company housing and buy up buildings in the affected area.

Officials of Sodyeco, a division of Martin-Marietta Corp., have acknowledged responsibility for the leaks. The company evacuated five company-owned residences and bought a gasoline station, a bar and a house, and has offered to buy three businesses and two other houses.

A groundwater expert from the state Division of Environmental Management said the leaks of toxic chlorobenzene and dichlorobenzene have seeped 575 feet beneath the surface. He warned that the chemicals could spread further into the groundwater formation, which extends down to 800 feet in the area and is several miles wide.

The dichlorobenzene found in wells serving a food store was 100 percent above the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency limit. The level of chlorobenzene in another test well was found to be 42 percent above the EPA limit.

Martin-Marietta spokesman Kenneth Jarmolow said the chemical leaks have stopped and the company has spent $5 million to prevent it from happening again. But Jarmolow denied that the company was buying houses and businesses — except for the bar — in connection with the pollution. He said the purchases were part of an expansion plan. The company's 700 employees and three homes and two businesses in the area are no longer in danger from the leaks, which apparently came from a company dump and from a railroad siding where the chemicals were loaded, Jarmolow said. But one area resident said she suffered bouts of depression two years ago for no apparent reason. "I told my husband I'm just like somebody poisoned me," said Irene Youngblood, whose husband has worked for Sodyeco for 19 years. Mrs. Youngblood said she thinks the contaminated water caused her depression — and she now drinks only bottled water. Sodyeco regrets that it contaminated the wells of nearby residents, Jarmolow said.

ANOTHER ONE — A Canada goose with a broken arrow through one of her thighs flies away as efforts continue to capture the bird and tend to the wound. The goose, named Gertrude by the Department of Natural Resources wardens attempting to capture her, took off after an unsuccessful attempt was made to feed the bird some drugged bread. (AP Laserphoto)

Arrow-Wounded Goose Again Eluded Capture

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Game wardens got a gander at Gertrude but again failed to capture the Canadian goose, whose arrow-punctured thigh has not prevented the injured animal from eluding medical assistance. Patty Trudgeon of the suburban Elmbrook Humane Society said the goose was seen feeding with other geese Sunday morning at a municipal park, but it flew away when wardens arrived with their nets. The lookout for Gertrude has increased since last week when the goose's plight received its first widespread publicity. The goose has a 20-inch portion of broken arrow protruding from a thigh. State Natural Resources Department spokesman John A. Nelson said the wound and the stress of being chased probably were tiring the bird, but it still remained leery of humans who wanted to help. Having little luck with nets on open water where Gertrude swam easily despite the arrow, wardens unsuccessfully attempted to subdue her with drugged bait, a technique used successfully in Las Vegas, Nev., last week to capture another fowl. After surgery to remove an arrow and a period of recuperation, Donna the Duck was back home today at a Las Vegas country club pond. The tiny mallard was flown by helicopter Saturday back to the Sahara Country Club, where it was greeted by a gala ceremony. "She's out enjoying herself in the pond on the 18th hole right now," Bill Acker, a Sahara Country Club executive, said Sunday. "She's doing fine, although she's switched homes from her pond on the 13th hole."

JCs Celebrate Their Relief From Jamscam

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Drinking beer amid a party atmosphere was the major activity during this weekend's convention of the North Carolina Jaycees, recovering from last year's "Jamscam" scandal. A Civic Center lobby on Trade Street was a prime sipping and chatting spot before and after the single-slate elections for state officers. There the conventioning Jaycee could sip Schlitz from plastic cups or buy trading pins for his Jaycee vest. One depicted a pack of Winston cigarettes, another the state of North Carolina. Another pin depicted a nude woman under a rainbow, a souvenir of Jaycees-sponsored beauty pageants. It took several announcements to drag straggling Jaycees into the main meeting room for elections. "The beer will be turned off temporarily for obvious reasons," an announcer said over the public address system. "Please report directly to the elections hall." It was little wonder people were dawdling. There were just five candidates for five offices. About 300 men stayed long enough to elect their new state president, Reich

Welborn, a 33-year-old Durham lawyer. By the time four vice presidents were elected — Paul Gosnell and Doug Rowe of Lexington, Bud Andrews of Smithfield and Jim Cole of Sanford — only half as many delegates remained. After the voting and a couple of speeches, members ambled off toward meetings and lunches. The party atmosphere was intentional. "That's what everybody tries to do: Have a good time after all the work all year," explained Jeff Daniel, president of the Charlotte Jaycees. This time last year, the state organization was reeling from "Jamscam." Three past presidents were indicted on charges they diverted money raised for charities through jelly sales and other fundraising drives to pay dues for members and chapters that did not exist. Several Jaycees admitted Saturday that 1980-81 had been a rough year. But they stressed the organization had bounced back well. Accountant Mike Turlington of Lexington, 31, an eight-year Jaycee, said: "We've been through some hard times, but I think we've got some credibility back. I started when things were good. I've seen peaks and valleys. We hit the valley about 18 months ago, and we're heading back toward the peaks. And we're doing it in fine style." Jerry Wall, 31, state Jaycees executive vice president, agreed. "It's just like the guys pulled up their pants and said, 'This is the year to go,'" he said. "And they got up and did it." On Sunday, the 1,000 Jaycees and 300 Jaycettes headed home.

Seeking Refund On Her $42,000

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — A Winston-Salem woman has filed suit in Forsyth Superior Court seeking to reclaim $42,000 she paid to the Fred Astaire Dance Studio and five dance instructors for dancing lessons. Frances Cable said she signed contracts for 2,370 hours in dance instruction and paid $42,000. Mrs. Cable said she took lessons from September 1974 to August 1977 but became ill and was unable to continue. She said she had received 475 hours of instruction, and sought a refund for the 1,900 hours of instruction to which she was still entitled. To obtain that many hours of instruction, Mrs. Cable would have to dance eight hours a day for 10 months.

Look To Ending Stream Study

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Fisheries biologists with the state Wildlife Resources Commission say they hope to complete by late summer a study of all trout streams in the state. Don Baker, chief of the Division of Inland Fisheries, said streams for many years have been managed according to the designation of each river or creek without consideration of the individual characteristics of each. The new system, he said, will study the biological and recreational characteristics of each major trout stream, including game and forage fish populations, available food sources, water quality, flow, fishing pressure, harvest rates and stream access.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

The city of Greenville has been invited by the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development to submit a full application for Community Development Small Cities Fund in the amount of approximately $3,000,000 over a three year period.

The Greenville City Council will conduct a public hearing to hear citizen's comments and recommendations on how these funds can be used to the greatest benefit of the City.

The meeting will be held on Thursday, June 11, 1981 at 8:00 P.M. in the City Council Chambers on the Third Floor of City Hall.

NEW YORK (AP) - Stock prices soared in heavy trading today as hopes rose that interest rates have peaked, sending the Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks above the 1,000 mark for the first time in a month.

The Dow Jones industrial, which gained 20.03 points last week, picked up an additional 9.83 to 1,001.58 by noon.

The blue-chip average last closed over 1,000 on April 29, after reaching an eight-year high of 1,024.05 on April 27. But it plummeted 60.61 points in re-spouse to soaring interest rates before turning higher in mid-May.

Stocks rising in price held a 5-2 lead over losing issues in the midday tally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Expectations that interest rates will slide heightened following the release of a Federal Reserve Board report late Friday that the nation's money supply and business demand for bank loans both fell for the second straight week.

This morning Morgan Guaranty Trust, the nation's fifth-largest commercial bank, No. 6 Chemical Bank and No. 7 Continental Illinois National Bank all cut their prime lending rates to 20 percent from 20.5 percent. They followed a similar move last Thursday by No. 3 Chase Manhattan Bank. And Cleveland-based Ameritrust, the 39th largest bank, today reduced its prime rate to 19.5 percent.

The NYSE's composite index of all of its listed common stocks rose 44 to 77.43. But at the American Stock Exchange, the market value index fell 32 to 376.68.

Volume on the Big Board reached 28.93 million shares over the first two hours of trading today, up from 21.81 million in the comparable period Friday.

International Business Machines topped the NYSE active list, up 1 1/2% in trading that included a block of 179,500 shares changing hands at 59 1/2.

Both IBM and the Justice Department rested their cases in a 12-year-old antitrust battle, but final summations are not scheduled until January 1982. IBM said it has requested a meeting with the department to discuss settling or dropping some of the issues.

American Telephone & Telegraph, which said it plans a public offering of 15 million shares of common stock this month, fell 3/4 to 57 1/2.

Other active issues included U.S. Steel, up 3/4 at 33; Simplicity Pattern, up 1/4 at 11 1/4; in trading that included a block of 200,000 shares crossing at 11 1/4; General Telephone & Electric, up 1/4 at 30 1/4; Sony, up 1 1/2 at 26; and National Medical Care, down 1 1/2 at 21 1/2 in trading that included a block of 200,000 shares changing hands at 21 1/2.

Atlanta Forced To Cut Big Summer Program

ATLANTA (AP) - An ambitious summer recreation program drawn up in the wake of a rash of slayings of young blacks may be trimmed because school ends this week, and Atlanta area officials say they don't have enough money.

The program, labeled "Safe Summer '81," has been targeted for $460,000 in federal funds, but officials say another $445,800 is needed from Atlanta, $149,600 from Fulton County and $189,600 from DeKalb County.

Atlanta City Council members expressed doubts Sunday the city will be able to find its full share of funds for the program, which will include day camps with longer-than-normal hours operating under tight security.

"I think we can find some money, but I don't think we can come up with half a million dollars," said Richard Guthman, a member of the council's finance committee.

"I don't think there are city funds anywhere near the balance between what the feds have offered and the cost," Guthman said. "It will be a matter of listing priorities."

When officials began planning the recreation program earlier this year, all the unsolved murders and one disappearance being investigated by a special police task force involved black children. Since then, the murders of five young black adults and one teen-ager also have been added to the task force investigation.

The task force list of 28 slayings and one disappearance has come under fire from some investigators who say the list gives the false impression that one person is responsible for all the killings.

One source close to the investigation told The Associated Press during the weekend that the list was "one of the biggest mistakes the police bureau ever made."

"Number one, it gives every ignorant person in the world the impression that all of the homicides are connected," the source said. "Two, it ensures the police will lose face when they don't make arrests in most of the cases. Three, it gives those mothers of the victims a special status and an excuse to collect money."

Some of the mothers of the victims have formed the Committee To Stop Children's Murders, a group that has sent representatives around the country during the past year publicizing the slayings and collecting donations for the victims' families.

The group's status as a charity, however, has been called into question in recent days, both by the Internal Revenue Service and the Georgia Governor's Office of Consumer Affairs. IRS regional spokesman Giles Hollingsworth said Saturday the group has not been granted tax-exempt status by the IRS as a charitable organization. Without such status, the group could be required to pay federal corporate income taxes on the donations it receives, and the donors would not be able to claim their contributions as deductions on their federal income tax returns.

Georgia consumer affairs chief Tim Ryles said Sunday his office has asked consumer agencies across the country to notify donors that the Committee to Stop Children's Murders is violating Georgia law by not registering as a charitable organization.

"We're not telling people not to give them money," Ryles said. "The public can make an independent judgment once they know the facts."

Ryles recommended last week that the group be prosecuted for failing to register. After his recommendation was made public, committee representatives obtained registration forms and promised to make a public accounting of their finances this week.

Law Hindering Search For Missing Elderly

Lt. Governor...

 1977. Crowell won all three contracts let in Bladen County. The projects were worth about $1 million.

State Highway Administrator Billy Rose said Sunday it is unlikely that Green or any other single member of the Board of Transportation could have funneled contracts into Bladen County, because the board must approve all highway contracts.

"I don't know of any way it could be done," Rose said. "The low bidder is the low bidder."

Green's only appointee on the 24-member board said Green has lobbied him for projects, some of them in Bladen County.

Sen. Jim Garrison, D-Stanly, said, however, that Green had not done it any more than state senators. "I've been frankly surprised he hasn't asked for more," Garrison said.

Attorney General Rufus Edmisten, whose department includes the SBI, is considered likely to run against Green for governor in 1984. Edmisten could not be reached for comment Sunday.

CHICAGO (AP) - Police say a growing number of elderly people are disappearing from nursing homes, retirement hotels and housing projects, and efforts to find the senior citizens are hindered by federal law.

Almost 2,500 people aged 65 and over have been reported missing in the past two years, according to Guy Neubert, a police officer who specializes in such cases.

"They disappear at an alarming rate," said Neubert in a recent interview. "They vanish in a cloud of loneliness, depression, senility and frustration. They need out. They need a respite from their lives."

Neubert said they usually return in less than a week. But, he added, some don't, and police are hampered in their attempts to find them because the federal Privacy Act limits access to Social Security information.

Officials cite the case of George Donahue, 70, who disappeared earlier this year without a clue. Donahue's wife fears he may have been the victim of violent crime. But his sons believe their father - who lived in a retirement hotel - still is alive and may be depressed or searching for something.

Neubert also thinks Donahue is still alive and counts him among the elderly who have wandered off on their own.

"Nobody has ever turned up," he said. "The morgues have been checked. Pictures have been taken to nursing homes. Nothing points to death."

But Neubert says he has been denied information by Medicaid and Social Security, which could verify if their services have been used.

"It would prove that he was at least alive," Neubert said. "And if he had lost his memory and wound up in the welfare system, we should be able to check Public Aid. They won't talk to us."

Obituaries

Kemper Win Hypes Stadler

BY TOM SEPPY
AP Sports Writer

BETHESDA, Md. (AP) — Craig Stadler believes he will be a force to be reckoned with in three weeks at the U.S. Open, one of the four major golf tournaments in the world.

Stadler said, after winning the Kemper Open by six strokes Sunday, "Right now, I feel I can knock it in the hole from anywhere."

Stadler, who finished second here a year ago, shot a 68 Sunday to go with his 66 Saturday and his 67 and 69 earlier in the week to give him a 10-under-par 270 over the famed 7,054-yard, par 70 Congressional Country Club.

Tied for second were Tom Watson, who jumped in front as the top money winner with his $35,200 second prize, and Tom Weiskopf.

John Cook, who was tied for the lead on opening day, came in at 3 under par and picked up $19,200, while Dave Edwards, the second day leader, finished fourth at 2 under and collected $16,000.

"When I made the birdie on 13, I felt that I was right there," said Stadler, who earned $72,000 with the victory and moved from 22nd to seventh place in the money standings with his $146,452.

"After that birdie, I felt the other guys had to say to themselves 'I guess I'll play for second place.'"

Watson, who went into the tournament $2,970 behind top money winner Bruce Lietzke, absent from the Kemper to get married, said he hopes to straighten out his golf swing before the U.S. Open, to be played at Merion, near Philadelphia.

"I just don't have a key swing club right now," said Watson after Sunday's round. "I'm just trying to work on my setup. It hasn't been too good all year."

"I'm playing poorly, but scoring well. I have to play better if I want to go into the Open and realistically think I have a chance," said Watson, who won the Masters and the New Orleans Open this year.

Stadler, who will turn 27 on Tuesday, said he has had only one goal since joining the tour five years ago.

"I just wanted to move up on the money list each year," said Stadler, who won the Bob Hope and Greensboro a year ago. "That's the only goal I had. I've had some long range goals which are not possible right now because my golf is so inconsistent."

Brewers Inch Up In Their Sunday Play

By WILLIAM R. BARNARD
AP Sports Writer

While the Baltimore Orioles and Milwaukee Brewers are separated by just two games on top of the American League East standings, their Sunday bests are as different as tatters and tuxedos.

The Brewers improved their Sunday record to 8-0 with a 5-2 victory over the Boston Red Sox as Jim Gantner belted the game's second pitch for his first homer, Marshall Edwards drove in two runs and Pete Vuckovich picked up his sixth victory during the month of May.

"I hope we can keep it up — on Sundays, Saturdays, every day," Milwaukee Manager Buck Rodgers said. Meanwhile, the first-place

Orioles lost for the eighth time in nine Sunday outings as the Detroit Tigers captured a 5-4 decision in Baltimore.

Scott McGregor had beaten Detroit six times in a row, but it didn't help the Orioles' Sunday jinx as Lynn Jones' two-run double in the seventh inning for the Tigers sent Baltimore to its 11th loss in 17 day games this season. The Orioles are 22-5 at night.

In other American League games, Oakland edged Toronto 6-5, Cleveland downed New York 7-2, Minnesota trimmed Kansas City 5-4, Seattle defeated Texas 5-3 and California and Chicago split a doubleheader, with the Angels winning 7-4 before the White Sox came back to win 2-1 in 10 innings.

Vuckovich provided a badly needed complete game to rest Milwaukee's relief corps, which was battered Saturday when the Red Sox rallied for five runs in the ninth inning and added the winning run in the 10th. He scattered nine Boston hits, including Rich Gedman's second homer in the third inning, to improve his record to 6-2.

"After yesterday, this looms as a very biggie. Our bullpen was shot and we needed a complete game," said Rodgers. "It was a good pick-me-up, a plus game all the way."

The Brewers' bats were perking too, pounding 15 hits off Boston pitching. After the Red Sox came to within 3-2 with a run in the seventh, Milwaukee scored two in the eighth to clinch the victory. Mark Brouhard beat out an infield hit, Edwards followed with a triple, his third hit, and came home on an infield out.

Tigers 5, Orioles 4
After Jones' double in the seventh, gave Detroit the lead, hot reliever Kevin Saucier took control.

Saucier, who has not allowed a run in 11 of his last 12 appearances, recorded his fifth save while pitching hitless ball for the final 2-3 innings.

He induced pinch-hitter Lenn Sakata to hit into a double play after replacing Aurelio Lopez, 2-1, with two runners on base in the seventh, then retired sluggers Ken Singleton and Eddie Murray after Gary Roenicke walked in the ninth and moved to second on a sacrifice.

After the final out, Saucier joyfully bounded off the field.

"On the mound, I tell myself to relax," he said. "But when I do a good job and it's over, I let it all hang out. There's nothing wrong with showing enthusiasm. So I'm a looney. There's nothing wrong with that."

Stan Papi homered for Detroit and Murray for Baltimore.

A's 6, Blue Jays 5

Wayne Gross, who had slugged a two-run homer earlier, hit a sacrifice fly to cap a two-run rally in the ninth inning to pace Oakland over Toronto.

The victory vaulted the A's back into first place in the AL West and snapped a four-game losing streak. The Blue Jays had won four in a row before the loss.

Damaso Garcia highlighted a four-run fifth inning for Toronto with a two-run single, and the Blue Jays took a 5-4 lead into the ninth. But a walk, a single by Rickey Henderson, a sacrifice and a wild pitch by reliever Jerry Garvin tied the score before Gross' sacrifice fly.

Indians 7, Yankees 2

Len Barker fired a six-hitter to win his first game for Cleveland since his perfect no-hitter May 15.

Barker, 4-2, allowed only one earned run to lower his league-leading earned run average to 1.93 and got strong hitting support from Alan Bannister, who singled, doubled and homered.

Angels 7-1, White Sox 4-2

Carlton Fisk crossed up California with a hit-and-run, run-scoring double in a bunt situation in the bottom of the 10th to give Chicago a twin-bill split.

Mike Squires drew a walk leading off the 10th off loser Don Aase, 1-1. Fisk faked a bunt on the first pitch and then doubled down the left field line, scoring Squires from first.

Juan Beniquez gave Gene Mauch his first victory as Angels' manager when he drove in four runs with three hits in the first game.

Twins 5, Royals 4

Danny Gooden hit a two-out single in the eighth inning to break a 4-4 tie and give Minnesota the victory over Kansas City.

Gooden's second hit of the game came off Dennis Leonard, 5-6, and made a winner of Jack O'Connor, 2-2, who pitched the final 2-3 innings.

Mariners 5, Rangers 3
Dan Meyer hit three

Carlton Tosses Tenth Straight Win Against St. Louis Cardinals

By JOHN NELSON
AP Sports Writer

The word "nasty" probably best described the way left-hander Steve Carlton treated the St. Louis Cardinals.

Carlton posted his eighth victory without a loss this year, tossing a five-hitter as the Philadelphia Phillies beat the Cards 6-1 Sunday. The victory was Carlton's 10th straight against St. Louis, dating back to early in 1979.

Since Carlton never speaks to reporters, St. Louis' Keith Hernandez was asked to explain Carlton's mastery of the Cardinals.

"Who do we have to blame for that?" Hernandez asked. "We had the guy and traded him (in 1972.) His slider was working today. It was a nasty pitch."

"That guy never makes mistakes."

Carlton walked three and struck out six, yielding a third-inning run on Tom Herr's RBI single that gave St. Louis a 1-0 lead.

Catcher Bob Boone gave Carlton the lead in the fourth, however, when he capped a three-run rally with a two-run single. Gary Matthews also drove in a pair of runs with two sacrifice flies.

The victory was Carlton's ninth straight, dating back to last season, and kept the Phillies one-half game ahead of Montreal in the National League East.

St. Louis Manager Whitey Herzog wasn't buying any theories that Carlton had singled out the Cardinals for punishment.

"He's pretty tough on us," Herzog said, "but I don't know about his domination of us. He dominates quite a few teams... he can pitch."

The Phillies' Pete Rose had two hits, leaving him 15 short of Stan Musial's major league record of 3,630 career hits.

"I know people don't believe me when I tell them I'm not excited," Rose said of the prospect of passing Musial. "But I think it's because I know it's going to happen. I'm not running out of time. That's why I'm not really concerned about it."

Elsewhere in the league it was Montreal 5, Pittsburgh 1; Los Angeles 16, Cincinnati 4; New York 3, Chicago 2; San Diego 5, Atlanta 1, and

San Francisco 6, Houston 1.

Expos 5, Pirates 1

Right-hander Steve Rogers tossed a six-hitter, and Gary Carter drove in a pair of runs for Montreal. Andre Dawson contributed a first-inning solo homer, his 12th of the season.

Rogers, 6-3, walked one and struck out seven. Pittsburgh starter Pascual Perez, 2-1, retired 10 in a row before Chris Speier hit a one-out single in the fifth.

After Rogers' sacrifice, Tim Raines was intentionally walked. Rodney Scott scored Speier with a double, Dawson was walked intentionally and Carter drove in two runs with a single.

Conf. Honor For Kinsey

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Mel Kinsey, Western Carolina University's hardhitting outfielder, has been chosen the Southern Conference's baseball player of the year for 1981.

Kinsey, a sophomore from Jacksonville, set seven school records and led the conference in home runs and runs batted in on a per-game basis in leading the Catamounts to a tie for the regular season championship.

He batted .400, and 26 of his 48 hits went for extra bases.

Players, Clubs Resume Parley

NEW YORK (AP) — Negotiators for major league baseball club owners and players resumed discussions today in what was to be a renewed effort at settling the strike-threatening free agent compensation issue.

Representatives of the owners and players went back to their talks with federal mediator Kenneth Moffett after having agreed last week to extend the May 29 strike deadline. While the walkout scheduled for Friday was averted it remains a threat.

If the disagreement over the degree of compensation required for signing ranking free agents acquired in the re-entry draft is not resolved at the bargaining table or a federal judge does not issue an injunction sought by the National Labor Relations Board, the players may strike within 48 hours of the conclusion of a court hearing scheduled to begin Wednesday in Rochester.

The hearing is on the NLRB request for an injunction against the owners which would rescind the free-agent compensation plan implemented by the owners last February.

The players have maintained that the owners will be reducing the market value of free agents and restricting their mobility by forcing a club signing certain of them to make a player available from its own roster. In the past, only an amateur draft choice served as compensation.

If the injunction is denied by U.S. District Court Judge Henry Werker, the players could walk out within 48 hours of his decision. Should the injunction be granted, the thorny free agent issue would be put off for another year, as it was last year when the two sides agreed on everything else in their basic agreement.

Should no compromise be reached at the bargaining table, the owners would be permitted to put the compensation plan back into their contract with the Major League Players Association next February. The players would then have until June 1, 1982 to strike.

On another front, the NLRB's complaint of bad-faith bargaining against the owners is scheduled to be heard in New York June 15 by an administrative law judge. The heart of that case is the players demand to see the clubs' financial records.

The owners contend those records are irrelevant to the compensation question. The players say they need it to determine the effect free agency is having on the teams' financial status.

"It's the kind of outing I've been hoping to have for a while," Rogers said. "Now, I just hope to put a few more together."

Dodgers 16, Reds 4
Derral Thomas cracked three hits and drove in three runs as Los Angeles moved 5 1/2 games ahead of second-place Cincinnati in the NL West.

The Dodgers trailed 4-0 after two innings, but they scored seven runs in the third inning, three in the fifth and six more in the seventh to complete the rout. Rick Monday had a two-run homer in the Los Angeles seventh.

Dave Goltz, 1-0, the third Dodgers pitcher, earned the victory with 2-3 innings of relief.

Mets 3, Cubs 2
Dave Kingman drove in two runs with a solo homer, his 11th, and a double as the Mets won their fourth game in six to complete a homestand. Kingman now has 12 RBI and five homers in those six games.

Randy Jones went 61-3 in his first win of the season after five losses, and Pete Falcone earned his first save.

Kingman's RBI double snapped a 1-1 tie in the fourth inning, and his homer, a 420-foot shot to center field, came with two out in the sixth off Cubs right-hander Rick Reuschel, 2-7. Hector Cruz hit a solo homer off Falcone to lead off the Cubs eighth.

Padres 5, Braves 1
Broderick Perkins drove in two runs, and Juwan Eichelberger shut out Atlanta for six innings. Both of Perkins' hits scored Ozzie

Oriole Record For Attendance

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Baltimore Orioles drew 28,011 spectators for a game against the Detroit Tigers Sunday, pushing them past the 500,000 mark at their earliest date in history.

After attracting 226,979 for six dates on their just completed homestand, the Memorial Stadium attendance for the season totalled 522,764. That's 132,998 ahead of last year, when Baltimore had a record home attendance of 1,797,438.

The half-million mark was reached on Baltimore's 23rd home date. The earliest that barrier had been reached before was on the 26th date in the club's inaugural 1954 season.

For the first time ever, the Orioles attracted back-to-back series crowds in excess of 100,000. A total of 124,464 turned out for a three-game series against the New York Yankees and 102,515 for three games against Detroit.

Carroll & Assoc... Exchange

Carroll and Associates defeated Exchange 7-6 in Little League play Saturday afternoon.

Carroll scored once in the first inning. In the second inning, Exchange took the lead 2-1 when they scored twice. But Carroll scored five runs in the third to regain control of the game and added one more run in the fifth inning. Exchange scored twice more in the fifth inning, but was unable to capitalize on Chris Coble's single in the sixth.

Carroll and Associates' winning runs were scored in the fifth inning when Axil Smith singled. Tim Clark then doubled and an error allowed Smith to score. An error on the next play allowed Clark to score.

Leading hitter for Carroll and Associates was Travis King with two hits. Chris Coble added two hits for Exchange.

Soviet Parents Still Try Regain Boy

By SHARON COHEN
 Associated Press Writer
 CHICAGO (AP) — Walter Polovchak likes pizza, hot dogs and American music. But his fondness for this country's lifestyle is tempered by the fear that he will be forced to return to the land of his birth — the Soviet Union.

The 13-year-old Soviet boy, who was granted political asylum last year, fears his parents will win their bitter legal struggle and he will be forced to return with them to their native Soviet Ukraine, according to Julian Kulas, the youth's attorney.

That fear, Kulas said, has been simmering since last summer, when Walter ran away from home after the Polovchaks, growing disenchanted after only a few months of American life, decided to return to their homeland with their children.

The Cook County Juvenile Court made Walter a ward of the state.

But now Walter's future is in the hands of the Illinois Appellate Court. On Wednesday the court will hear arguments on his parents' appeal of a lower court decision that took Walter away from them.

Kulas believes that according to Soviet law, Walter has committed treason and if he returns to his homeland, he won't be prosecuted but he will be deprived of his rights.

Attorneys for the Polovchaks say Walter never has been a problem child and the state has no right to intervene in family affairs.

While the legal proceedings drag on, Walter lives with Ukrainian foster parents. Kulas says the boy is comfortable in his new home.

"He has adjusted very well," Kulas said. "In fact, he has many friends. And his language ability has improved tremendously."

Kulas said he speaks with Walter every few weeks and said the teen-ager "likes to think like an average American kid does. He likes hot dogs. He likes pizza pies. He likes American music. He's an American as far as his lifestyle is concerned."

Though Walter visits his parents regularly, Kulas said he remains apprehensive about spending his life in the Soviet Union.

"The problem that we encounter is the parents have repeatedly told Walter he has to go back and they will make sure he goes back with them," he said. "That is still a fear in Walter. He is aware of the tremendous publicity this case has generated in the Soviet Union."

When Walter ran away, the Soviet Embassy said he had been kidnapped, and the Soviet news agency Tass said Walter had been bribed with a promise of a bicycle and a car.

Because of that notoriety, Kulas said Walter might be separated from his parents and probably would not receive a higher education if he returns to the Ukraine.

But Harvey Grossman, an American Civil Liberties

Union attorney who represents the Polovchaks, said Walter's safety would not be jeopardized if he returns home.

He said the parents "have assurances from their country that Walter will be treated no differently than any other child with regard to educational opportunities."

"They also have assurances their child will not be separated from them because of any activities that have taken place in America," Grossman said. "It has been here in America that Walter has been separated from his parents for almost a year, not the Soviet Union."

Grossman said the parents have a constitutional right to family privacy and the court must have a compelling reason to intervene.

In Walter's case, he said, when the boy ran away it was the first time he misbehaved and because he was staying with relatives, he wasn't causing any harm.

But Kulas said the Polovchak case doesn't set a precedent where any child could argue that he doesn't want to move with his parents if they decide to settle in another state.

"We have to consider the best interest of the child," he said. "If a family moves from Illinois to California, the child still would enjoy the same freedoms."

"When he goes to the Soviet Union, that is not the case," Kulas added. "It is a one-way ticket. We would send Walter back and he would not see freedom again."

N.C. Population Up 15.5 Percent

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — North Carolina's population grew 15.5 percent from 1970 to 1980, 1980 U.S. Census figures show.

The census shows eastern North Carolina grew 13.6 percent, the Piedmont area grew 16.3 percent and the mountain region grew 17.1 percent.

State officials say the fastest growing areas were coastal resort areas, the Triangle region and the Interstate 95 corridor.

Now 1,748 Bills In Assembly Hopper

By SAM D. BUNDY
 N.C. House of Representatives

House bills now amount to 1,127 and Senate bills, 621 for a total of 1,748. If the session at the beginning was slow and agreeable, it is now the reverse. The Governor's "tax package" and redistricting are now causing the pot to boil.

The Senate Finance Committee met Wednesday to vote on the "tax package" but postponed it because, according to all reliable sources, they were three votes short; however, on Thursday the committee did vote and the "package" carried by a 14-11 vote, with six Republicans and five Democrats voting against it. The bill will be on the Senate floor on Tuesday, June 2, 1981. The House Finance Committee has not yet voted, and the report is that at present it would not carry. It could change.

I reported last week on tempers flaring and an abrupt adjournment of the House (East) Redistricting Committee. This week the Congressional Redistricting Committee met, with charges and counter charges, finally adjourning on a disputed adjournment vote.

It was good to have two school groups this week from Pitt and Greene Counties. On Wednesday the gifted and talented class from the sixth grade of South Greenville Elementary School visited, and on Thursday we welcomed the North Greene Elementary School from Walstonburg.

GOREN BRIDGE

BY CHARLES H. GOREN
AND OMAR SHARIF
1981 by Chicago Tribune

Q.1—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠987 ♥A1063 ♦AK63 ♣Q8
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♠ Pass 1 ♥ Pass
2 ♣ Pass 2 ♦ Pass
3 ♠ Pass ?
What do you bid now?
A.—Don't take a stab at three no trump—partner had a chance to show a spade stopper, but passed it by. It is simply a question of bidding four clubs or five clubs. Even if partner's opening is feather light, he must have at least six or seven clubs headed by the ace-king and an outside king, so there will be reasonable play for eleven tricks. Bid five clubs.

Q.2—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠K6 ♥QJ8 ♦AQ105 ♣AQ98
Your right-hand opponent opens the bidding with one diamond. What action do you take?
A.—If your black-suit holdings were reversed, you might consider a takeout double. As it is, you are unprepared to handle a response in either major, so we suggest that you make the bid which describes your balanced 16-18 point hand with stoppers in the enemy suit. Bid one no trump.

Q.3—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠95 ♥Q87 ♦632 ♣K10742
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♠ 2 ♣ Pass Pass
2 ♥ 3 ♦ ?
What action do you take?
A.—You started out with a poor hand, and nothing has happened in the auction to improve it one whit. Pass.

Q.4—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠10962 ♥K4 ♦632 ♣Q984
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♠ 2 ♣ Pass Pass
2 ♥ 3 ♦ ?
What action do you take?
A.—No, this is not a repetition of the previous problem, even though the point count of the two responding hands is the same. This time you have four-card support for partner's first suit and the king doubleton in his second—two key features. Not to bid three spades would be a dereliction of duty, and we wouldn't blame you if you took the aggressive course of leaping to four spades!

Q.5—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠J7 ♥QJ93 ♦Q1087 ♣KQ6
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
Pass Pass 1 ♠ Pass ?
What do you bid now?
A.—Since you are a passed hand, you can afford to jump to two no trump. Had you not passed originally, that bid would show 13-15 points. Now, however, it shows a hand that is just a bit short of an opening bid, i.e., 11-12 points and balanced. Partner should not proceed to game unless his opening bid is better than dead minimum.

Q.6—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠7 ♥KQ85 ♦KJ107 ♣8632
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
Pass Pass 1 ♥ Pass ?
What do you bid now?
A.—In support of hearts, your hand revalues to 12 points. Since you passed originally, you should advise partner of your strength by jumping to three hearts.

Upset Over Suggestions

NEW YORK (AP)—Lauren Bacall says "The Fan," her new film, "is much more violent than when I read the script." But she says she's even more upset at suggestions the movie is a dramatization of John Lennon's murder.

"The movie I wanted to make had more to do with what happens to the life of the woman — and less blood and gore," Miss Bacall said in an interview with People magazine. The film, about a psychotic admirer who stalks an aging actress, was finished four years ago, but some parts of the movie are similar to the December murder of the ex-Beatle. To make matters worse, Miss Bacall, 56, lives in the same Manhattan apartment house — the Dakota — where Lennon lived. He was shot to death outside the building.

Critic Rex Reed, who also lives in the building, publicly identified Miss Bacall as one of the tenants, and now, she says, "the ghouls are outside non-stop with their cameras. It's a heavy price to pay. I must say." She also is angry with Paramount Pictures for running a disclaimer in its advertisements for the film saying "The Fan" is not a take-off on Lennon's death. "I think it's disgusting, revolting and exploitive," she said.

PCC COURSE SET
Pitt Community College will start a course entitled "Organizing Time and Space in the Home" on June 2 with classes running four weeks from 7-10 p.m. on Tuesday evenings.

The course will cover space planning, open and closed floor plans, kitchen and bath designs and storage problems. For further information, contact the Continuing Education Division at Pitt Community College at 756-3130, Ext. 238 or 266.

Less Regulation In Cable TV Pledged

By JERRY BUCK
AP Television Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP)—The "unregulation" of telecommunications will take control of the industry away from the government and give it to consumers and entrepreneurs, the new head of the Federal Communications Commission says.

The FCC, more than any other regulatory agency, "will make the decisions that will affect the type of society this country will have in years to come," Chairman Mark S. Fowler said Sunday as the 30th annual convention of the National Cable Television Association wound up a three-day meeting here.

"There is an unbearable arrogance, I think, when any agency acts as if it knows all about how individual technologies ought to operate," Fowler said. He promised "consumer choice and entrepreneurial initiative" would come before government control during his tenure. Cable TV is a perfect example of how the telecommunications industry can grow after restrictive controls are lifted, Fowler noted.

"Cable is where it is today because of the imagination and enterprise of its people," said Fowler, a former communications lawyer sworn in May 18. "I think this experience shows that the commission's job is not to invent the wheel, but to let it spin."

Besides economic considerations, Fowler said, "First Amendment safeguards are interwoven into the fabric of our country as a democracy. There is no other single area where First Amendment concerns are highlighted in such bold relief as in the regulation" of the telecommunications industry.

Noting the FCC has not always had a cohesive regulatory policy, Fowler said he and the five other commissioners had adopted five objectives:

- Create, to the maximum extent possible, an unregulated, competitive marketplace.
- Eliminate all regulations and policies that do not "hold up against the hard, cold light of present-day realities."
- Update and streamline procedures to provide efficient and expeditious service.
- Promote and coordinate international communications to "assure the vital interests of America in commerce, defense and foreign policy," and
- Eliminate government action that infringes the freedoms of speech and press.

Paris-Born New Yorker Wins In Van Cliburn Piano Competition

By SYLVIA LEE
Associated Press Writer
FORT WORTH, Texas (AP)—Although the anxious moments of the contest were somewhat of a sour note, Andre-Michel Schub admits that winning the Sixth Van Cliburn International Piano Competition was a dream come true.

"I'm in a stupor. I'm extremely happy," the Paris-born New Yorker said Sunday after winning $12,000 and a gold medal in the quadrennial competition. "It is the first step in what I've been dreaming about."

In addition to the prize,

Schub will receive two years of international concert engagements that assure the 28-year-old pianist of the chance for a performing career.

The competition route is rugged and sometimes criticized in music circles, Schub said. But he said, "there has to be a way for people to be recognized and get concert opportunities. The advantage is that you are heard."

"The anxiety and uncertainty of waiting for results don't go together with making music," Schub was cited by an international jury of 11 judges as having delivered the "most consistently superior performances" during the two-week competition, which began May 17.

Six finalists were picked from a field of 123 Van Cliburn hopefuls, who were screened in videotaped auditions. For the finals, Schub played Beethoven's Piano Concerto No. 2 in B flat, Opus 19.

A preliminary favorite with an established reputation as a soloist, Schub was one of the few contestants permitted to enter without a videotaped audition. He has appeared in the Great Performers Series at Alice Tully Hall in New York and in a "Live From Lincoln Center" broadcast with the Lincoln Center Chamber Music Society.

Schub came to the United States as an infant and started piano lessons with his mother at the age of four. He studied music at the Curtis Institute of Music in Philadelphia and attended Princeton University.

Second-place honors were shared by Panayis Lyras, also of New York, and Santiago Rodriguez of Adelphi, Md. They will split $1,400.

Lyras, 27, trained at Athens Conservatory and the Juilliard School of Music, winning the silver medal in the Arthur Rubenstein International Piano Competition in Tel Aviv last year.

Rodriguez, 29, trained at the University of Texas in Austin and at Juilliard and is now an instructor at the University of Maryland. He was a finalist in the Leventritt International Competition in 1977.

Fourth place went to Jeffrey Kahane, 24, of Piedmont, Calif. He trained at the San Francisco Conservatory of the Juilliard.

Christopher O'Riley, 25, of Jamaica Plain, Mass., took fifth place, and Zhu Da Ming, 29, of the People's Republic of China, played his way to a sixth-place finish. Another first was the absence of contestants from the Soviet Union, which still is in a cultural exchange freeze with the United States following American protests over the Soviet occupation of Afghanistan. Seventeen nations were represented in this year's competition.

The awards were presented in a nationally televised ceremony from Fort Worth's Kennedy Theatre by Van Cliburn, whose 1958 victory in Moscow's First Tchaikovsky competition was the inspiration for the contest that bears his name.

Saturday's Cryptoquip — BIG WHIRLYBIRD SWINGS IN WIDE CIRCLES NEAR HIGHWAY.

Today's Cryptoquip clue: Y equals O

The Cryptoquip is a simple substitution cipher in which each letter used stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words, and words using an apostrophe can give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is accomplished by trial and error.

Relieve Officers Of Sub In Mishap

TOKYO (AP) — The commanding officer of the U.S. submarine George Washington and one of his deck officers have been relieved from duty and reprimanded because of the sub's collision with a Japanese freighter April 9, the U.S. Embassy said today.

The Nissho Maru sank following the collision in the East China Sea and its captain and first mate died. Surviving crewmen from the Japanese vessel said the submarine surfaced briefly after the accident, then submerged and left the area without attempting rescue operations.

U.S. Embassy spokesman John Ohta disclosed the disciplinary action against the two officers and said it is subject to appeal and review by higher naval authorities. The Navy announced earlier that Cmdr. Robert D. Woehl and Lt. R.D. Hampton were being temporarily reassigned while the accident was investigated. The actions of the submarine and the failure of U.S. authorities to notify the Japanese government of the accident for more than 24 hours were angrily denounced in Japan, and the Japanese Maritime Safety Agency is conducting its own investigation. U.S. officials said last month that a preliminary report showed the Americans did not realize the Japanese ship was sinking. But they said the Navy would accept liability for the collision. Lawyers for the ship's owners and crew are seeking a total of $4.5 million in damages.

FOCUS

The Name Game

Hurricane season officially begins this week. This is a picture, taken in space, of a hurricane — the world's largest storm. In a single day these violent storms can release energy equal to 400 20-megaton hydrogen bombs. Originally hurricanes were identified only by their location. But this became confusing when more than one storm developed in the same region. About 80 years ago weather forecasters began using women's names to identify Pacific cyclones. During World War Two, American forecasters adopted that custom for Atlantic storms. Now hurricanes are named after men and women. This season could bring Bret and Floyd as well as Carla and Emily.

DO YOU KNOW — What is the name of a hurricane's calm center?

FRIDAY'S ANSWER — President Lyndon B. Johnson succeeded in getting the Voting Rights Act passed during his administration.

WHY THE 1981 U.S. GOV'T. REPORT ON CIGARETTES IS BEHIND THE TIMES!

On May 5, 1981, the Federal Trade Commission released its "new" 1981 report on cigarette tar levels.

Unfortunately, the new FTC report is really quite old.

Old because it is based on 1979 cigarette brands.

Old because much has happened in cigarette development during the year and a half that it took to complete the study.

Old because it doesn't tell tar-conscious smokers what they want to know today.

Even the FTC concedes that its report is out of date. And the fact is consumers do not have the latest statistics on comparative tar levels in ultra low tar cigarettes.

If you're a smoker, what does all this mean to you?

Now cigarettes are the Ultra Lowest Tar™ cigarettes available. No matter what the style, there is no cigarette lower in tar than today's Now.

These are the facts.

The 1981 FTC report is based on measurements of 1979 products. Here are the actual 1981 figures on lowest tar cigarette levels.

Closest to tar-free™

NOW

The Lowest

The lowest in tar of all brands.

NUMBERS DON'T LIE.
NO CIGARETTE, IN ANY SIZE, IS LOWER IN TAR THAN NOW.

	80's box	85's soft pack	100's box	100's soft pack
NOW	Less than 0.01mg	1mg*	Less than 0.01mg	2mg
CARLTON	Less than 0.01mg	1mg*	1mg	5mg
CAMBRIDGE	0.1mg	1mg	—	4mg
BARCLAY	1mg	1mg	—	3mg

All tar numbers are av. per cigarette by FTC method, except the one asterisked (*) which is av. per cigarette by FTC Report May '81.
