Ministers Study OPEC Price Shuffle

By W. JOSEPH CAMPBELL Associated Press Writer

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) - Oil ministers from six major oil-producing states opened two days of talks today that could lead to an unprecedented cut in the prices charged by the 13-nation Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries.

The OPEC members are discussing a compromise that would require Saudi Arabia to raise its price $2 a barrel to $34 a barrel, the Beirut, Lebanon-based weekly Arab Report and Memo said Sunday. In return, African producers who charge up to $40 a barrel would agree to drop prices to $36 to $36.50, the report said.

If approved, the $2 price hike would raise the average OPEC oil price by slightly more than 2 percent and add a half-cent per gallon to the price of oil consumed in the United States.

States.

Oil industry observers have said that if the pricing policy is adopted, it would mark the first time in the cartel's 20 years that members agreed together on an official price reduction.

Those favoring the compromise say it would stabilize crude oil prices by cutting back Saudi Arabia's production by about 2 million barrels a day. Some OPEC members claim the Saudis purposely have flooded the world market with oil to force down producer prices.

The six OPEC members - Algeria, Iraq, Iran, Venezuela, Kuwait and Saudi Arabia - are attempting to resolve the production and pricing policies before the full 13-nation group meets Wednesday.

Small producers claim Saudi Arabia's high production and low prices have glutted the market, causing economic hardship to some OPEC states while robbing the Arabs of their oil weapon against Israel's Western allies.

Saudi Arabia rejected the identical proposal during the cartel's May meeting.

Libyan Foreign Minister Ali Abdel Salam al Turayki said OPEC's highest producer, Saudi Arabia, "has caused other Arab states to starve instead of using the oil weapon against the enemy."

But Saudi Oil Minister Sheik Ahmed Zaki Yamani claims that high prices take away OPEC's market because they encourage Western nations to develop alternative sources of energy.

Nigeria, one of the nation's hardest hit by the oil supply glut, requested the emergency meeting. The west African nation's oil production has dropped from 2 million barrels a day to about 800,000 over the last year. That has meant a revenue loss of $45 million daily or $16 billion a year to the nation of 90 million people.

Meanwhile, a United Nations Conference on New and Renewable Sources of Energy enters its second week today in Kenya with the 4,000 delegates of 123 countries agreeing only that the world's dependence on oil must be ended.

Delegates of the Third World countries say the industrialized nations have an obligation to finance solutions to the energy crisis for their countries.

OPEC members said they were prepared to contribute to an international energy fund if other "donors" do likewise. OPEC diplomats said privately they were referring to the United States and its European allies.

The conference is dealing with 14 non-conventional energy sources and excluding the mainstays of world energy - oil, coal, gas and nuclear power.

Sewage Program Stalled By Presidential-Congress Dispute

By MARTIN CRUTSINGER Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - The multibillion-dollar federal effort to clean up the sewage pouring into the country's rivers and lakes may be going down the drain

- the victim of a stalemate between the Reagan administration and Congress.

As of now, there is no money in the 1982 budget to continue the nine-year-old program which has funneled $30 billion to help cities build treatment plants, lay sewer pipe and upgrade crumbling systems.

President Reagan has vowed to keep things that way unless Congress agrees to sharply cut back the scope of the program, the government's most expensive pollution control effort.

Congress so far has balked at enacting the requested changes, which critics say would mean skyrocketing tax and sewer bills at the local level and the abandonment of many projects.

The Environmental Protection Agency estimates $90 billion will be needed to meet remaining obligations under current law.

"We now have a program that has bloated into one of the largest public works efforts in peacetime history," says EPA Administrator Anne Gorsuch. "The federal government can no longer afford to construct every sewer line in the country."

The Reagan administration proposes slashing the federal government's commitment by 75 percent, from $90 billion down to $23 billion. That would be accomplished by cutting out many types of sewer improvements which now qualify for federal aid.

Sewage treatment plants still would qualify, but the collector pipes that carry sewage from homes to the main sewers would not. Such pipes can account for 90 percent of the costs of a sewage system in a small town.

Also cut would be federal aid to finance extra plant capacity to meet projected future growth. Instead, the government would fund only the capacity needed to meet 1980 population needs. Money to repair sewers and to better handle storm water runoff in combined systems would be axed.

The changes, the EPA maintains, would focus limited federal funds on the worst pollution problems and get the federal government out of the business of subsidizing urban sprawl.

Critics see it differently. "When the president's men finally put their guns away, the water pollution program wasn't exactly dead, but it sure had a lot of bullet holes in it," said Rep. James J. Howard, D-N.J., chairman of the House Public Works Committee.

He and other critics say Reagan is continuing his war on the federal budget by shifting its biggest environmental commitment onto the backs of local communities.

"If the administration program is enacted, the impact on consumers will be staggering. Instead of sewer rates of $150 to $200 annually for the average household, they could be $800 to $900," said Rep. Robert A. Roe, D-N.J., chairman of the Public Works subcommittee which is drafting an alternative to the Reagan proposal. But environmental groups, in support of Reagan's changes, say the current program wastes money on unnecessarily complicated sewage plants.

Secondary Road Work Is Approved By Pitt Board

By STUART SAVAGE Reflector Staff Writer

The Board of County Commissioners this morning gave its approval to a Department of Transportation plan to spend some $417,959 on improving several secondary roads during the present fiscal year.

Division highway engineer C. W. Snell said the funds would be spent on stabilization and/or paving.

Part of the money, according to Snell, will be used to make 23 road crossings in conjunction with the final phase of the Swift Creek drainage district project.

He also noted that some $349,751 has been appropriated to resurface a number of secondary roads in the county.

Pat Daugherty, speaking for the League of Women Voters, told commissioners that the League is "concerned about the detrimental effects that interruption of planning can have on orderly growth in the county," and recommended that "if funds can be reallocated, we recommend that an experienced, professional planner be hired without delay."

Ms. Daugherty, expressing the League's concern over the board's decision not to fund the county planner position during the current fiscal year, noted that "we believe it is unrealistic to expect the assistant county manager and the part-time engineer to provide the necessary leadership," for the proper planning.

The board also instructed data processing department head Gene Windham to make certain of the needs of the county before ordering equipment to handle requests by the City of Greenville, the Greenville Utilities Commission, and Pitt Community College for data processing service.

Windham, who is to make a report to commissioners at a later time, told the board that the city and the utilities commission have requested payroll and other services from the county and would pay the total cost involved.

In other action today, the board voted to appropriate $1,200 to the Pitt County Historical Society to help fund an office to manage publication of a Pitt County Heritage book.

Dr. Keats Sparrow, vice-chairman of the society, told commissioners that the society would repay the funds from the sale of the books. The project, he noted, will require about one year to complete.

Commissioners also agreed to provide office space to the society for the duration of the project.

County engineer C. A. Holliday was appointed county sedimentation control officer at this morning's session.

Council, Utilities Meet

The Greenville Utilities Commission and the City Council will meet Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the City Council Chambers in City Hall to hear reports of North Carolina Municipal Power Agency No. 3.

A discussion of the power agency will also be held.

Tropical Storm Threat Relaxes

EVERGLADES CITY, Fla. (AP) - Dennis, a gentle giant of a tropical storm, pelted South Florida with heavy rain and gusty winds as it blew ashore in the Everglades, but its threat of swelling into a hurricane ended today.

The hurricane watch imposed in South Florida was canceled at 9 a.m. EDT today, said Gil Clark at the National Hurricane Center in Miami. Dennis' strongest winds remained at about 55 mph, well below the 74 mph level required for the storm to be classified as a hurricane.

"It's like an old outboard motor," said Clark. "It just can't seem to get started." The storm moved slowly inland this morning near the Ten Thousand Islands region of Florida's lower west coast. Forecasters said it would probably continue to move north today.

Residents along the southeast Florida coast from the Upper Keys to Palm Beach County were warned to expect thunderstorms, heavy rains, some gale-force winds, high tides and perhaps tornadoes today.

Gale warnings were extended north to Palm Beach. Owners of small boats were advised to stay in port.

The storm had made its way into Florida Bay on weak steering currents Sunday night after its diffused center passed over the lower Keys, bringing downpours and gusts of wind up to 55 mph but causing no injuries or major damage.

Innocent Plea By Atlanta Suspect

ATLANTA (AP) - Wayne B. Williams, pleaded innocent today to murder charges in the deaths of two of 28 young blacks, and a Superior Court judge set a tentative trial date of Oct. 5.

The 23-year-old black freelance cameraman was arraigned before a group of 150 spectators who crowded into a heavily guarded room at the Fulton County courthouse.

Williams, who appeared with his lawyer, former City Solicitor Mary Welcome, was asked by Judge Clarence Cooper whether he was ready to enter a plea and replied, "I plead not guilty to both counts."

Security on the fourth floor of the 70-year-old courthouse was intense.

Deputy sheriffs using hand-operated metal detectors scanned spectators, searched handbags and ushered people into the courtroom on a line.

Williams was indicted July 17 on two counts of murder in the slayings of 21-year-old Jimmy Ray Payne and 12-year-old Nathaniel Carter, two of the 28 young victims in a two-year string of killings here.

After Williams entered his plea, Cooper announced a tentative trial date of Oct. 5 and told lawyers and judges that any motions in the case must be filed within 10 days.

Cooper said he would deal with motions requiring a pre-trial date of Sept. 3. He also ordered prosecution and defense attorneys to submit to the court any questions they plan to ask experts about scientific data in the case within one week of the trial date. Any questions for jurors must be submitted by Sept. 15, the judge said.

Sixty-Four Steps For Curbing Violent Crime

By MICHAEL J. SNIFFEN Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - A federal task force today recommended 64 steps to curb violent crime, primarily by taking criminals off the street and putting them "where they can't injure innocent citizens."

After public hearings in seven cities over the last four months, the eight-member task force unanimously approved its recommendations to Attorney General William French Smith on new laws and spending.

The panel's co-chairman, Illinois Gov. James Thompson, said after the vote, "This report contains more common-sense recommendations than I've seen before, rather than dream recommendations or just throwing money at the problem. It shows a great deal of political and legislative

Stormy History

Air traffic controllers and President Reagan recently wrote another chapter in the stormy history of organized labor. Since the 1800s, American labor unions, striking for higher wages and better working conditions, have often come into conflict with the owners of business. In 1892 ten people died in a battle between striking workers and guards at the Carnegie steel mills. In the Pullman strike of 1894 President Cleveland used federal troops to end violence that caused $80 million in property damage. Despite these conflicts, union popularity grew, reaching a peak in the early 1960s. Only time will tell how the air traffic controllers strike will affect union strength in the future.

Runners up were Priscilla Barrett, Tonia Freeman, Traveda Hendrick, Vickie Payton, Crystal Chasten, and Quawntel Daniels. Trophies were given to Lisa Lang for bingo, Stanla Huggins for monopoly, Katrina Gray and Sharon Grice for bobjacks, Priscilla Barrett and Sylvia Whichard for checkers; Tonia Freeman and Sylvia Whichard for pool, and Tonia Freeman and Lisa Anderson for ping pong.

Priscilla Barrett and Tina Daniels were honored for perfect attendance.

Eighty-eight girls took part in the summer program. The fall program will begin Aug. 26 and any girl seven to 13 years of age may take part simply by going to the Operation Sunshine center, located on Broad Street in the Housing Authority Building.

Twelve Facing Hearing Today

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — Twelve people were to appear before a federal magistrate today in connection with the seizure of an estimated $6 million worth of marijuana in Chatham County.

Authorities refused to release the names of the suspects, saying they had not been officially charged. But officials said all 12 claimed to be from states other than North Carolina.

The suspects were arrested late Friday night at the Governor's Inn motel in the Research Triangle Park and were being held in the Durham County Jail.

Lt. Cleo Warren, head of the Durham Public Safety Department's vice squad, said authorities will seek federal charges of conspiracy to smuggle marijuana against each suspect.

Investigators discovered the more than seven tons of marijuana in a Chatham County house. The pot was divided into 300 bales weighing about 50 pounds each, Warren said.

Martin Honored

WINSTON-SALEM — Three former presidents of the North Carolina Association of County Commissioners, including R. L. "Bob" Martin of Pitt County, were honored Saturday night as outstanding commissioners of the year.

In addition to Martin, of Bethel, recipients of the award were Jack Brock of Harnett County and J. Richard Conder of Richmond County.

Martin, a member of the Pitt board of commissioners for 25 years, has been a member of the National Association of County Officials' Board of Directors since 1979.

Conder was recently elected president of the National Association of Counties — the first elected official in North Carolina to head one of the major public interest groups in the nation. He has been a member of the Richmond County board for 18 years.

Grover C. Lancaster of Craven County was installed a president of the N.C. Association of County Commissioners at the association conference.

Flood Insurance Cutoff Is Poised

WASHINGTON (AP) — Environmentalists are hailing a measure passed by Congress that will cut off federal flood insurance for new construction on undeveloped parts of North Carolina's barrier islands.

But developers and would-be residents say it is inequitable to restrict flood insurance for oceanfront property while leaving untouched similar insurance for property along inland streams and rivers.

be treated like the rest of the citizens," said Richard W. Bryan, mayor of Nags Head.

His community — along with Currituck Banks, Bodie Island, Hatteras Island, Bogue Banks, Topsail Island, Lea Island Complex, Wrightsville Beach, Masonboro Island and Ocean Isle — is among areas coming under the measure.

In total, the measure will cut off the insurance on undeveloped portions of 300 barrier islands from Maine to Texas, effective Oct. 1, 1983. The plan, drafted by the U.S. Department of Interior, needs only to be approved by Interior Secretary James G. Watt to be final.

Environmentalists have praised the restrictions because they believe the availability of flood protection has encouraged development on fragile, storm-prone islands.

"I'm extremely happy about it," said Orrin Pilkey, a Duke University geologist and authority on coastal protection. "But I don't think it will have the negative impact that a lot of people think. It will have some impact on development, but it will not stop development."

Private companies no longer offer flood insurance to these residences because the risk of storms and flooding make such policies unprofitable, said J. Fletcher Willey, vice president of Kellogg-Morgan Agency in Manteo.

Last year the federal flood insurance program lost about $600,000 on policies held by North Carolina island residents, according to local officials.

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP)

Each year, while legitimate tobacco growers sell their allotments at auction, crooked warehousemen and farmers are thriving on black market sales under the same auctioneers' gavel.

"The vast majority of tobacco farmers and warehousemen are good, hard-working people trying to make a living," said Richard Benton, head of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Office of the Inspector General in Raleigh. "But some are not and it's the actions and greed of these people that hurt everyone else."

The key to the illegal movement of stolen tobacco is the tobacco marketing card issued annually to farmers by the USDA's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service. The cards list a farmer's legal poundage allotment for the year, with deductions made each time the farmer sells leaf.

But some farmers bearing the cards are selling stolen tobacco at 70 to 75 cents a pound — half the price of what a legitimate farmer is paid at auction.

Much of the illegal leaf comes from farmers who produce more than their legal limit, warehousemen who steal from their customers by underweighing piles of tobacco and thieves who hook their highway tractors to $50,000 trailer-loads of tobacco and drive away.

For example, in 1973, owners and employees of the Big Yadin Warehouse in Yadkinville, N.C., regularly worked late into the night, stealing 2 to 4 pounds off piles of tobacco that the warehouse's weighmaster had managed to short-weight — by 25,000 pounds in all — when farmers brought the tobacco in earlier in the day.

On Oct. 4, 1976, a flat-bed trailer loaded with $32,000 worth of tobacco was stolen from the Danville, Va., processing plant of Dibrell Bros. Inc., a leading tobacco exporter. The stolen leaf was hauled to the Browns Summit farm of a prominent Rockingham County, N.C., farmer who paid $10,000 for the load and later sold part of it for $20,000 at warehouses in Reidsville, N.C., and Danville.

And tobacco farmer Louis E. Clarke on Nov. 2, 1977 noticed that leaf he had sold at the Jimmy Green Warehouse in Brookneal, Va., earlier in the day for 99 cents to $1.04 had tickets showing they had sold for $1.14 to $1.17 a pound.

While a conviction for misusing the marketing card carries a penalty of five years in prison and a $10,000 fine, there is little evidence the risk is deterring the crime. USDA investigators say the practice, already widespread, is growing.

Jeffrey Wells, deputy director of production adjustment with the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, said tobacco thefts and illegal sales may occur at 95 percent of the warehouses. And, while the USDA had investigated 21 cases of tobacco fraud — 13 in North Carolina — by last Sept. 30, already they have investigated 30 cases this year.

Last year's investigations resulted in 34 indictments and 27 convictions. This year, with most investigations in North Carolina, there have been 12 indictments, 10 convictions and fines of $54,000.

Pollard-Chauncey Vows Said Sunday

Cynthia Diane Chauncey and Danny Ray Pollard were united in marriage in a double ring wedding held Sunday at 3:00 p.m. in the Meadowbrook Pentecostal Holiness Church.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Phillip Bland.

Parents of the couple are

Mr. and Mrs. William Earl Chauncey of Rt. 4, Greenville and Mr. and Mrs. William Adolph Pollard of Rt. 5, Greenville.

Given in marriage by her parents and escorted by her father, the bride wore a gown which featured a white lace bodice and full-length sleeves. The neck and cuffs were adorned with white ribbons, pearls and sequins. Around the waist were ribbon and pearls. The full skirt and train featured three tiers of white silk over net. Each tier was enhanced with white lace and sequins. Her veil was white net gathered to a headpiece with lace, pearls and sequins.

Mrs. Terry Lynn Wagner of Robersonville, sister of the bridegroom, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Zina and Tammy Mayo of Greenville and Betty Sawyer of Fountain, all cousins of the bride.

The honor attendant and bridesmaids wore powder blue dresses with empire bodices, accordin pleated skirts, and blue lace capelets. Their picture hats were powder blue and trimmed in blue ribbon.

The flower girl was Tracy Sutton and the ring bearer was Timmy Pollard, brother of the bridegroom.

The bridegroom's father was his best man. Ushers were Van Sutton of Greenville, Rusty Wagner of Robersonville, and David Boleman of Fountain.

Judy Harding was pianist and Marie Sutton was soloist.

A reception was given following the wedding at the VFW Building by the families of the couple. Marie Dunn presided at the guest register.

The bride is a 1981 graduate of North Pitt High School and the bridegroom is employed by Greenville Utilities Commission. After a wedding trip to Atlantic Beach, the couple will live in Greenville.

Miss May Is Bride Of Mr. Pritchard

Ary Audrey May of Greenville became the bride of Clinton Earl Pritchard of Grimesland Saturday at 4:00 p.m. in Mount Calvary Free Will Baptist Church.

The Rev. Clarence B. Gray, assisted by Eldress Shirley Daniels, performed the double-ring ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Mrs. Emma J. May of Greenville and the late Mr. Richard May and Mrs. Ethel Pritchard of Grimesland and the late Thomas Pritchard.

A program of wedding music was presented by Roger Ingram, organist, and Phyllis S. Tyson and Minister Montro A. Streeter, vocal soloists.

Escorted by her brother, Thomas May of Greenville, the bride wore a formal-length gown of white organza over white peau de soie designed with an open scooped neckline. The empire bodice was overlaid with white chantilly lace. The all-lace fitted sleeves featured buttoned closures at the wrists. The modified A-line skirt was trimmed with chantilly lace that extended to an attached chapel-length train featuring multi-tiers of matching lace. Appliques of lace were scattered over the skirt front. Her hat was accented with a net tie bow in the back. She carried a cascade of pink carnations and white daisies accented with baby's breath, fern and pink and white streamers.

Serving as matron of honor, Mrs. Estella Spence, sister of the bride, of Dinwiddie, Va., wore a formal-length gown of burgundy tinaseta Italian silk designed with an open neckline, miniature rolled shoulder straps, gathered criss-crossed bodice and full flared skirt, and an overblouse. She carried a white nosegay consisting of carnations and daisies with pink streamers.

Bridesmaids were Kathleen Edge of Rocky Mount, Elsie Williams of Tarboro, Delthas Smith and Felice Streeter of Greenville. All of them wore dresses styled identically to that of the matron of honor in a contrasting shade of daphne rose. They carried nosegays of pink carnations, white daisies, baby's breath and white streamers.

Junior bridesmaids were Jelore Spence of Dinwiddie, Va. and Betishia McIntyre of Greenville, nieces of the bride. They wore formal-length gowns of rose crepe designed with spaghetti straps and gathered waists, complemented by sheer chiffon sleeveless jackets. They carried nosegays like those of the bridesmaids.

Kimberly Allen, niece of the bridegroom, was the flower girl. She wore a white formal-length eyelet gown similar to that of the junior bridesmaids. She carried a brown wicker basket filled with pink carnations and white daisies.

Quinton Pritchard, twin brother of the bridegroom, of Grimesland was best man. Ushers were Thomas May, brother of the bride, Kevin Hawkins of Manassas, Va., Herome Pritchard of Grimesland, and Barry Smith of Greenville. Junior ushers were Omar May, son of the bride, and Adrian Pritchard, son of the bridegroom. Gemond Smith, nephew of the bride, served as ring bearer.

The mother of the bride wore a rose two-piece formal-length gown. The bridegroom's mother selected a green formal-length t-strap gown with matching jacket. Eldress Hattie M. Cobb, grandmother of the bride, wore a yellow formal-length gown. All were given white carnation corsages.

The wedding was directed by Mrs. Emma M. McIntyre, sister of the bride.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Bachelor Benedict Club. George Joyner was assisted in serving by Mrs. Elsie Bynum, Mrs. Olivia S. Streeter, Mrs. Arlene Ebron, and Ms. Carolyn May, the bride's sister. Guests were registered by Mrs. Bettie P. Allen, sister of the bridegroom, and Mrs. Ann Pritchard. Rice bags were given out by Jeffrey, Stokely and Marza May. Goodbyes were said by Mrs. Geraldine M. Smith, sister of the bride.

The bride is a graduate of Elizabeth City State University with a B.S. in early childhood education. She is a reading teacher in the Edgecombe County Schools System. The bridegroom attended Kittrell College and Beaufort Technical Institute. He is assistant manager of Eckerd's Drugs in Wilson.

After a wedding trip, the couple will reside in Rocky Mount.

Readers Sink Teeth In Quarrel

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1981 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: The letter from the senior citizen in Maine, whose dentist refused to make her a set of sparkling white dentures because they wouldn't look natural, prompts this letter.

All my life (thanks to caps at 18) I have enjoyed narrow, even white teeth. Years later, when I needed an upper denture, four dentists absolutely refused to give me beautiful white teeth like the kind I had worn for over 40 years! They all insisted that big, horsey, yellow teeth are "natural."

The poor fit is another story, but in my bathroom cabinet is the proof that dentists are "yellow happy." (Four sets of dentures!)

Finally, however, I found a young, sympathetic dentist who said, "I'll give you whatever you want." So today, and thousands of dollars later, I have dentures with narrow, even white teeth.

Tell that unhappy senior citizen to simply go from one dentist to another until she finds one who will give her what she wants, because there is a lot left in this world to smile about.

POORER BUT WISER IN PHOENIX

DEAR POORER: My mail is running 2 to 1 in favor of giving patients what they want instead of what the dentist thinks they need. One generous dentist in Bellflower, Calif., wrote to say that if the lady from Maine was willing to fly out to California, he'd give her a Hollywood smile absolutely free!

DEAR ABBY: In 1928 I made a set of teeth for an elderly woman. She insisted I use a shade that was much too white for a natural look. Against my better judgment I gave her what she wanted. In two weeks she returned, saying that all her friends thought her teeth were terrible. I made her a new set free. It was my mistake in the first place.

RETIRED DENTIST IN CALIF.

DEAR RETIRED: Now that's what I call putting the bite on the dentist with his own teeth.

...

DEAR ABBY: I think you missed the boat when you sided with the patient who wanted snow-white teeth. The dentist's professional obligation was to give his patient what she needed, not what she wanted. He should try to be receptive to her wants, but she has no right to order him to do a bad job. Let's take it one step further, Abby. If you were the dentist, what would you have done if she had insisted on purple teeth?

DOGGY DENTIST IN FLORIDA

DEAR DOGGY: Aw, come on. I'd have given her white teeth, and told her to eat blueberries and drink grape juice.

...

DEAR ABBY: I'm not a dentist, I'm a plastic surgeon. A middle-aged woman came to me for breast-enlargement surgery. The size she wanted would have made her look like a top-heavy freak and I told her so, but she insisted she wanted a pair of 44s. I refused to give them to her. I later learned she went to three other doctors before she found one who agreed to do the job. But he talked her down to 42.

Couple Marries In Florida

ORANGE PARK, Fla. — Miss Margaret Rumbley and William John Wolson were married here Tuesday in the Advent Lutheran Church.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Andrew Rumbley of Greenville, N. C. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. William Wolson of West Palm Beach, Fla. and the late Mr. Wolson.

Following the 10 o'clock ceremony, the couple was honored at a luncheon and reception at Cesar's Cafe, Jacksonville, Fla., given by the parents of the bride.

After a wedding trip to West Palm Beach and unannounced points, the couple will make their home in Jacksonville where both are associated with Florida

After work it is the custom for Egyptian men to gather at cafes to talk with friends, smoke and enjoy a game of "trick-track". This is the popular game we call backgammon. Its place of origin is uncertain. A board dating back to 3,000 B.C. has been found in the Nile valley, showing that it has been played since ancient times.

Top Priority: Service

In a surprising announcement last month Thomas W. Willis said he was resigning as director of the ECU Regional Development Institute.

Willis was obviously not pleased concerning his relationship with the university administration and complained about it in his letter of resignation.

We feel Tom Willis did an outstanding job in building the Regional Development Institute to the point where it is of real developmental benefit to Eastern North Carolina. He understands economic development as few do, and he built the institute to be of practical service to communities of the area. An example of his vitality was his successful effort to obtain an adequate facility for the institute. The building at First and Reade bears his name.

Now the Regional Development Institute will be under new leadership with the appointment of Tim Brinn as its director and Dr. Douglas C. Wilms of the faculty as associate director.

The eastern area is searching for ways to develop new incomes for its citizens and improve life for all of us. The ECU Regional Development Institute can continue to make a great contribution to this effort.

We hope that the high level of service to our communities will be continued under the new leadership.

Respect Lightning

Last week one of the severest electrical storms in remembrance hit the local area.

Lightning can be dangerous but Dr. David A. Barber, a meteorologist and assistant professor of Marine, Earth and Atmospheric Sciences at N. C. State University, says we can be safe in an electrical storm if we use common sense.

At home, he says good safety rules include: keeping away from major electrical appliances, avoiding use of the phone and staying clear of plumbing.

Outside, avoid being at or near the highest point — tall trees or big buildings. Leave golf courses, swimming pools and open areas. If caught in an open field with lightning nearby drop to your knees and bend forward with your hands on your knees.

Deaths caused by lightning are high in our state. Lightning is awesome and it should be respected.

THIS AFTERNOON

Hunt's Monument

By GOV. JIM HUNT
(Bill Nobilett is on vacation)
RALEIGH — The recent report that, for the first time, North Carolina school children scored above the national average in all subject areas was the best news I've had since I became governor.

Since 1978, students in grades one, two, three, six and nine have been tested in the basic skills as part of the annual testing program enacted by the General Assembly.

When I asked the legislature to pass that law in 1977, there were a lot of questions raised and much debate about the concept. We were, after all, plowing new educational ground for this state.

Now we know we did the right thing.

By measuring students' progress every year, we held our feet to the fire. We found out exactly where each student needed help, and as a result our teachers, parents and school administrators were able to direct their energies and resources to the problem areas. And every year, students' scores improved.

This year's scores were the high water mark of the four years of testing. Students not only scored above the national average, but also made progress at an unprecedented rate. On the average, students made more than a year's progress in a year's time.

Moving up

Thanks to the diligence and dedication of our fine teachers, the hard work of the students themselves, and the support of parents and communities, we have pulled ourselves up by our own bootstraps in education. We can be proud.

And because of this success with the annual testing program, I believe we can look forward to continued improvement in the competency test scores of our high school students. As we keep working with students in the early years, we will see fewer and fewer of them reaching high school with deficiencies in the basic skills.

But there is still so much more to be done.

We have, in effect, reduced class size in the first three grades through the Primary Reading Program, by putting an aide in every classroom. Now we need to reduce class size in grades four through 12. The General Assembly will have that matter before them when they return this fall, and I will urge them strongly to begin phasing in that program.

I will also urge the Legislature to adopt a fair pay raise for teachers and other state employees, because I believe it is vital that we keep good teachers teaching.

We must work harder to stop dropouts. Right now one in three North Carolina students drops out before graduation. We cannot afford, as a state, to let that continue, because it holds us back in attracting good industry and in so many other ways.

Work Options

To keep more students in school, I have directed every possible federal dollar that is earmarked for youth to be spent on efforts including work-option, extended day and co-op programs, that let young people combine jobs and school. I have also directed that federal money be spent on pre-vocational skills training programs that are very effective in motivating young people who don't see the connection between education and jobs.

We continue to spend $8.5 million a year on special remedial education for potential dropouts, but state funding for job-placement center and other job-oriented programs has been deferred by the General Assembly. I would hope that these programs would be among the first funded if additional revenues are available this fall. We are also working to make high school vocational training programs mesh more smoothly with those in our community colleges, so students can make the transition from one curriculum to the other without duplication or gaps in their courses.

As we move forward in these basic programs, one of the key ingredients to our success will be the continued development of our communities. We have more than 68,000 volunteers working in our schools now, helping students learn to read, providing special enrichment programs, and raising funds for special projects. A part of this volunteer effort is the Adopt-a-School program, where community organizations, businesses and churches adopt a school in the community as a special project. There are 32 school systems participating in that now, and we are constantly working to increase that number.

In addition, we have opened the doors of our schools to the people who own them, through the Community Schools program. In that program, the state is providing a small amount of money to school systems to fund a coordinator, who helps the school systems open their facilities on weekends and at

Island's Fish Dinners

What happens when you live on "The Island" is that people like to fish. There is nothing wrong with this except it's no fun to fish if you can't serve it to your guests for dinner. There is nothing wrong with this, except that everybody is always catching the same fish at the same time.

When the bluefish are biting, there is bluefish on every table on the island. Then there seem to be nothing but flounder on your plate.

Everyone seems to have striped bass in the same week. And then we're all overdosing on fluke.

The thing about the fish dinners is that you have to go through a certain ritual before you get to eat.

During the cocktail hour you must listen to how the fish was caught. The other night at Scudder's we were mesmerized as our host described how his 11-year-old grandson pulled in a 14-pound bluefish, the very one we were going to eat that night.

Not since "Jaws" had there been such a battle between man and a denizen of the deep. The bluefish, having chomped on the grandson's hook, was so angered he attacked the boat and tried to bash in the stern.

But the grandson, a true Scudder, held fast, determined to win the prize. The bluefish broke the line, but the grandson threw out another one, and the furious blue bit hard on it, determined to pull the boy over the side. Scudder told us he put the throttle in full gear, determined to make the blue run for its money as the lad held on for dear life.

The blue finally knew he had met his match, and after one more attempt to wreck the boat and drown all aboard, finally gave up and was pulled over the side where it flopped on the deck for a good five minutes before expiring and being thrown in the ice cooler for the long journey home.

So what we were having for dinner wasn't bluefish but the thought as a surprise we would serve Virginia ham.

My wife was sticking pieces of pineapple on the ham when there was a knock on the door. It was Scudder. He was holding a wet newspaper package. "You're not going to believe this," he said, "but my grandson caught another bluefish. Since we're coming to your house tonight we didn't want it to go to waste, so we thought you'd like to serve it for dinner tonight."

"You're too generous," I said. "Why don't you let the boy eat his own fish?"

"He hates bluefish," Scudder explained. "But you raved so much about ours, we couldn't think of anyone who would appreciate it more."

proudest moment in Scudder's life.

The next night we went to Brack's. His story was different. He had been out all day long with his house guests and they had nary a bite. On their way back to port they forgot to pull in all the lines. Darned if the line in the water didn't start wiggling and twisting. The fish literally jumped into the boat almost at the dock, and that, Brack told us happily, was why we were having bluefish for dinner instead of the large steaks that Betty Brack had ordered just in case the fishing party had no luck.

The following day at lunch Mrs. McCartney announced she had a surprise for all of us. Mr. McCartney had made the only dish he excels in, which he modestly named "McCartney's Secret Hagen-Daz Bluefish Chowder."

It was our turn the next evening and my wife and I discussed the menu. We

(The Elkin Tribune)

While local school officials are praising students and teachers for the much-improved achievement test scores this year, we wonder if this is the climax of North Carolina's drive to educational excellence.

Motivated students and capable teachers deserve praise, as do the farsighted school administrators, legislators and rank-and-file citizens who made education a priority locally and in the state during recent years.

No one has championed the cause more than Gov. Jim Hunt. Political foes sniped at Hunt for placing so much emphasis, and money, on education, but the proof is indeed in the pudding...

The emphasis on education is threatened by the Reagan administration's commitment to reduce federal expenditures, shifting the burden on local and state governments to pick up the slack at a time when taxpayers are crying for relief.

While education is not the only program to suffer from federal funding cutbacks, it is certainly the most critical for the nation's future prosperity... Unless North Carolina officials and our local governments commit themselves to make up for reduced federal expenditures, the progress we've made in the last four years will be for naught.

Business Choking On Interest

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — Their cash flows already decimated by earlier rises in energy, tax and labor costs, small businesses are viewing the current high interest rates as a noose around their necks, a survey suggests.

High interest rates "are making a bad situation unbearable for many small firms," said Professor William Dunkelberg, who regularly analyzes data from members of the National Federation of Independent Business.

For the first time since quarterly surveys were begun in 1973, a sampling of the group's membership, which numbers more than half a million, said interest rates and financing were their chief problems. "With cash flows already cut dramatically, borrowing costs come right off the bottom line," said Dunkelberg. "They are very identifiable." Although responding firms did not find it harder to get credit during the second quarter, the percentage of firms reporting higher interest rates on short term loans rose sharply, Dunkelberg said.

Average short-term interest costs reported in the survey jumped from 17.6 percent in the first quarter to 19 percent in the second. Five percent of respondents reported paying 23 percent or more.

For loans tied to the prime rate, the average interest paid was 21 percent, up from 19 percent in the first three months, one reason being that the few sources of relatively cheap funds have almost disappeared.

A consistent theme in the latest survey was the continuance of lower interest rates in rural as compared to suburban and metropolitan areas, which Dunkelberg said reflects, among other things, lower overhead. Survey returns showed 49 percent of companies in rural areas paid between 16

Ted Groping For A Policy

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
HOLLYWOOD, Fla. — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's speech was skillfully constructed and forcefully delivered to a labor audience filled with volunteers for a 1984 presidential try, but the old Kennedy magic was lacking.

Kennedy's falling at the ironworkers national convention was partly cosmetic. Nearing 50 and a little overweight, he arrived here in a wrinkled suit with graying hair in need of grooming and cutting. But it is not merely that he is no longer the dashing restorer of Camelot; he seems unwilling or unable to paint a clear picture of the future restoration, a falling common to Democratic leaders since Reagan.

His principal message attacked President Reagan's economic program that "rewards the rich and pressures hardpressed workers and the middle class." The attentive union audience sat on its hands until Kennedy turned to Social Security, high interest rates and, especially, the Davis-Bacon Act that protects wages of construction workers.

Kennedy's appearance at the ironworkers convention reflects a continuing Democratic problem as well as his own special strengths and weaknesses. Ironworkers president John H. Lyons is an old backer of the Kennedys. But rejecting advice from subordinate officials, Lyons put his union behind Jimmy Carter against Teddy Kennedy in 1980.

He has been making amends ever since. Last October, the ironworkers became the first union to pledge the maximum $5,000 contribution to defraying the Kennedy presidential campaign debt and later pledged the maximum for his Senate re-election campaign next year.

Lyons was so anxious to snare him for the convention that when the air traffic controllers strike posed complications, the union hired an expensive executive jet to fly Kennedy out of Florida. He seems the probable ironworkers choice for '84 against former vice president Walter Mondale.

Yet, leaders of the union admit their rank and file backed Ronald Reagan last year and still like him. "Their attitude is, 'Why don't we give Reagan a chance to see what he can do?'" one ironworker officer told us.

Thus, Kennedy's assault on the Reagan tax bills "tree ripe with the richest plums for the wealthiest individuals and corporations but... only bitter fruit for workers and the middle class" got little response. Later, Kennedy privately commented that workers seem not to care "that two-thirds of the tax cut goes to the rich so long as they are getting their one-third."

Union leaders think this attitude will change when hard times come. After Kennedy told the convention that "the construction industry is on the rocks," a union official informed the senator that ironworkers have plenty of work. "All the new office buildings?" asked Kennedy. "Only power plants," the union official replied, too polite to identify many of them as nuclear power plants opposed by Kennedy.

Naturally, Kennedy did not mention nuclear power to the ironworkers but did bring them to their feet with this: "Let us pledge together that repeal of the Davis-Bacon act (the law requiring prevailing wages for government construction projects) shall not be passed by Congress!" The easiest way to chase the union's rank and file away from Reagan, one of its leaders told us, would be a Reagan push for Davis-Bacon repeal. So far, Reagan is not obliging.

Generally, in wooing back blue-collar workers, Kennedy and other Democrats are groping. "We must be something more than just warm-over Republicans," Kennedy told the convention, thinking of opposition to him in the Senate Democratic Conference.

But having opted for boldness in general, Kennedy is cautious with specifics. His 1980 program of government controls on wages, prices, interest rates, profits, dividends and rents is buried — certainly for now, perhaps forever. His national health insurance specialty was not once mentioned here.

Substituting for new policies is familiar rhetoric. Introducing Kennedy to the Massachusetts Committee on Political Education (COPE) following his Florida trip, state AFL-CIO president Arthur Osborne denounced "the enemies of the working class, who somehow have managed to take control of our government." Accepting COPE's unanimous endorsement in Boston, Kennedy assailed the Reagan administration not only for Davis-Bacon repeal but also for such other non-Reagan policies as a national right-to-work law and an effort to apply anti-trust laws to unions.

The Massachusetts labor leaders cheered loudest when Kennedy declared of himself: "This happens to be one target of the Moral Majority who intends to fight back."

Strength For Today

REFUSING DEFEAT
About 150 years ago a boy named Arthur Kavanagh was born in Ireland without legs. Assisted by intelligent and determined parents, this youngster set about resolutely to overcome his terrible handicap. He lived to be 68, and with artificial legs not only learned to walk but to ride horseback. Toward the end his life he was a member of Parliament for 14 years.

At the time of his death, a London newspaper referred to him as "one of the most extraordinary men who ever lived."

What was the cause of his triumph over handicap? Courage, hope and a considerable religious faith. He found his soul in a lifelong campaign of achievement. He had to confront certain unpleasant facts, but what he refused to accept was their implication of defeat. He knew that he could not do away with his handicap, but he could overcome it. So he substituted brains and determination for legs.

How's The Weather?

WEATHER FORECAST — Rain and showers are forecast for today into early Tuesday over the southern Atlantic coast. Showers are predicted over the Rockies. Elsewhere sunny skies will prevail. (AP Laserphoto)

By The Associated Press
A cold front that moved south through North Carolina this morning brought with it some drier air, but unsettled conditions were expected to remain dominant in southern parts of the state until Tuesday.

But, as soon as that system and its threat of showers passes out of the state, the National Weather Service predicts that an area of low pressure forming tonight over the lower Mississippi Valley will move in to take its place.

That means the threat of showers will be continuous in the south, with a brief respite in the north today, followed by widespread showers and thunderstorms Tuesday.

There will be some cooler air accompanying the system, however, as high pressure from the Great Lakes forces temperatures lower for the next few days.

Heavy thunderstorms developed in the north Sunday, moving south through central and eastern portions of the state in the evening. Locally heavy rains were reported at Wilmington, where nearly four inches fell by 2 a.m. this morning.

High temperatures reached the upper 80s to mid 90s east of the mountains. In the mountains, highs ranged from the mid-70s to the mid-80s. Jacksonville was the hot spot in the state with an afternoon high of 94 degrees. In the mountains, Canton and Boone reported highs of 74 degrees.

The recreational weather outlook called for variable cloudiness today with a chance of showers and thunderstorms across southern sections of North Carolina. Tuesday was expected to be cloudy with a chance of showers or thunderstorms statewide.

High temperatures should reach the low 90s in the east, remaining mostly in the 70s at higher elevations.

Along the coast, small craft advisories were in effect for northeast winds increasing to 15 to 25 knots today with strong northeast winds continuing into Tuesday.

Four Dead Due Head-On Crash

By The Associated Press
A head-on collision in Durham County left four dead Sunday morning, pushing the North Carolina highway death toll to 11 for the weekend.

The weekend traffic deaths raise the year's total to 855, as compared to 927 at this time a year ago.

The state Highway Patrol said the multiple-fatality accident occurred on N.C. 98, two miles east of Durham, at 5:30 a.m.

Police reports said a car driven by Michael Earl Green, 23, of Youngsville, crossed the center line and struck a second vehicle head-on.

In addition to Green, who was the lone occupant of his vehicle, the other victims were Jerry Edward Cates, 20, of Hillsborough, Clell Stafford Caldwell Jr., 25, and 18-year-old Anthony James Garrett, both of Durham.

Two people lying in the road were killed in separate incidents.

Elijah Lee Rhodes, 36, of Elm City, was struck by a vehicle around 2:50 a.m. Sunday while lying on a rural paved road. Judy Whitted, 36, of Saint Paul's, was killed at 10:55 p.m. Saturday on a rural road in Bladen County.

Racing claimed the life of Anthony Todd Stroud, 19, of Cleveland, N.C., according to the patrol. Stroud was a passenger in a vehicle reportedly racing with another unidentified vehicle about 11:40 p.m. Saturday. The vehicle in which Stroud was riding ran off the road and struck a ditch, throwing him from the vehicle.

Mack William Collins, 57, of Chapel Hill, was killed Saturday when the vehicle he was driving reportedly crossed the center line on N.C. 54 about 7:15 p.m. and struck another vehicle head-on. The accident happened about eight miles west of Carrboro.

Earlier in the weekend,

Mattie Lee Thomas, 35, of Mount Gilead, died when her car ran off the left side of N.C. 109 in Richmond County and struck a tree. The accident occurred 20 miles west of Ellerbe at 6:15 p.m. Friday.

Police said Terry Lee Isaacs, 23, of Fayetteville, died when the driver of the car in which he was riding lost control during a high-speed police chase at 4:25 a.m. Saturday. Isaacs was thrown from the vehicle. The accident took place near the intersection of U.S. 421 and N.C. 24 in Sampson County. Van Eugene White, 64, of Hillsborough, died when the car he was riding in was struck in the side by another vehicle 10 miles north of Hillsborough at the intersection of N.C. 157 and N.C. 57. That accident occurred at 3:10 p.m. Saturday.

Hypnosis A Crime Tool

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Law-enforcement agencies from Asheville to Wrightsville Beach are showing interest in a new investigative tool — putting crime witnesses under hypnosis during interviews.

The practice helps the witnesses bring obscure details from their subconscious and has proven valuable in solving serious crimes, officers say.

"We have been seeing a definite increase of hypnotism being used as an investigative tool," said Marvin Williams, an instructor at the North Carolina Criminal Justice Academy.

Officials note that the course Williams teaches lasts 11 days instead of three or four days as do most others.

"I wanted a good, in-depth course," Williams said. Anything less than 11 days "limits practical experience under supervision," he said.

Among the topics covered are self-hypnosis processes, the history and present status of hypnosis, myths and misconceptions, dangers, interviewing techniques, laws, case studies and courtroom practices and the role of hypnoinvestigators.

As part of the class, each student hypnotizes both another student and a stranger and prepares reports in the same manner as they would for a courtroom.

nights for public use. In this way the taxpayers have the use of the shops, libraries, labs and meeting rooms that belong to them.

It's been very gratifying to me as governor to see the kind of success we've had in our public schools in the last four and a half years. If my administration were remembered for nothing else, I would be proud to have our accomplishments in public education as the monument to our hard work.

Time Extension Is Requested

WILMINGTON — The U. S. Army Corps of Engineer's has received an application from Pitt County Drainage District No. 3, for an extension of time to complete work on maintenance excavation in the Swift Creek Watershed.

The modification would extend the authorized work completion date from December 31, 1982 until December 31, 1983.

The purpose of the work is to provide drainage and flood protection for approximately 21,253 acres of cropland and pasture in Pitt and Craven Counties. The work, according to the Corps of Engineers, has been delayed for over a year because of coordination and contracting procedures involving the use of federal, state and local drainage district funds.

Written comments pertinent to the proposed time extension may be filed with Mr. Ernest Jahnke, Wilmington District, Corps of Engineers, P.O. Box 1890, Wilmington, N.C. 28402, or telephone 343-4467, until 4:15 p.m. August 31.

Child Injured On Tenth St.

Shawn Patrick Cunningham, 9, of Route 9, Greenville, was injured when struck by a car on Tenth Street, 160 feet east of the Riverbluff Road intersection early Saturday night.

Police Department investigators said Cunningham departed into the path of a vehicle operated by Grover Cleveland Haddock Jr. of Route 1, Grimesland, causing minor injuries to the child and no damage to the car.

NEW YORK (AP) - Stock prices drifted lower today, responding to a larger-than-expected increase in the money supply reported just before the weekend.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials dropped 2.57 to 934.36 by noontime. Losers outpaced gainers by close to a 2-1 margin in the overall tally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Ramada Inns fell 1 3/4 to 6 3/4 in active trading. A Wall Street Journal article discussed mounting costs and other problems the company has encountered in its venture into the casino-gambling business.

The NYSE's composite index lost 20 to 76.80. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was off .80 at 377.29.

Volume on the Big Board came to 17.39 million shares at noontime, against 20.58 million at the same point Friday.

Stephenson Sets Record

DALLAS (AP) — In the 33-year history of the Ladies Professional Golf Association tour nobody ever did it better than Jan Stephenson did Sunday.

She one-putted all but one hole on the front nine as she shot a personal best 8-under par 64 which gave her an 11-shot victory in the Mary Kay Golf Classic.

Her rounds of 65-69-64 were 18-under par which bested the LGPA 54-hole record of 200 by two strokes.

"I didn't know I had shot 64 until I added it up in the scoring tent," said Stephenson, one of the tour glamour types who created quite a stir earlier this year with a picture in Fairway Magazine that seemed more like an advertisement for sexy nightwear.

"I asked my dad when I was 14 if all the work I was doing was worth it and my father said I would be in the record books some day ... he was right," said Stephenson.

Carol Mann shot 16-under par 200 in the 1968 Lady Carling Open in Palmetto, Ga., and Ruth Jessen shot 200 in 1964 but it was over a par 70 course.

Stephenson finished 11 shots ahead of second place Sandra Haynie who fired a final round 3-under par 69. It was the third largest winning margin in the history of the LPGA tour.

Stephenson began her birdie binge on the fifth hole with a 30-foot putt.

She almost eagled the par 5 No. 6, settling for a tap-in birdie, then birdied the seventh and eighth with 25 footers, and holed a monstrous 50-footer on the ninth green for a 5-under par 31 on the front nine.

On the backside, she birdied the par 5 No. 13 with a short putt. On the 16th, she holed 15-footers and knocked in a 10-foot birdie putt on the final green.

"I was really nervous on that last putt. I got really emotional I wanted to make it so bad," she said.

Stephenson earned $23,250 first place money to send her career high total for the year to $111,443.

It was her sixth tournament victory and each time she had the lead from the first day.

Petty Edges Pack To Capture 400

BROOKLYN, Mich. (AP) — Richard Petty, usually conservative at the beginning of races, saw the traffic jam in his rearview mirror Sunday and decided to stay out front as much as possible.

The 44-year-old superstar of stock car racing made the go-for-broke strategy work, beating six other drivers to the finish line in a blanket finish to win the Champion Spark Plug 400 Grand National race at Michigan International Speedway.

It was one of the most competitive races in Grand National history, with 63 lead changes among 14 drivers just four shy of the all-time record.

"I don't believe I've ever passed more people or had more people pass me than today," drawled the all-time winningest NASCAR driver after beating second-place Darrell Waltrip by less than one car length.

Ricky Rudd was right behind in third, followed closely by Harry Gant, Buddy Baker, Joe Ruttman and Bobby Allison, who led the 200-lap race on Michigan's two-mile, high-banked oval with just six laps remaining.

There was just one second separating the nearly identical Buick Regals of Petty and Allison, and the top 12 cars were all on the same lap at the finish.

"It wasn't a very physical race," Petty explained. "But it just gets aggravating out there because everybody's driving the same speed, or at least keeping up."

"You couldn't tell who had the quickest car. There were just enough caution flags (nine) to keep a lot of cars on the same lap. Nobody really had to the chance to break away."

Petty, who led 17 different times for a total of 65 laps, usually likes to play a little cat and mouse, staying just behind the frontrunners until late in the race. That conserves both the car and the driver and can also give you the element of surprise.

But he couldn't do it Sunday, jumping into the lead for the first time on the 10th lap as the estimated 50,000 spectators roared their approval.

"If there had been but five or six cars, I'd probably brought up the rear of the lead bunch," the Randleman, N.C., resident drawled. "But I looked in my mirror and saw there was 15 or 20 of them back there."

"When there's that many cars so close, you don't want to get too far back because a lot more things can happen to you."

"Anyway, the car was running real good. It handled about as good as I've ever had one handle."

Petty was leading the pack on lap 186 when Terry Labonte, running near the front, brought out the final yellow flag by

Post 100 Defeats Snow Hill For Title

CHERRYVILLE — The end was quick if not painless. Cherryville, ending any chance of a miracle comeback by Snow Hill, used four home runs to score 10 runs and bombed Post 94, 12-3, Sunday to win the 1981 American Legion state baseball championship.

Cherryville, which defeated Snow Hill 9-4 Saturday night to go up, 3-0, won the best-of-seven series in four straight games. Post 100, now 33-5, advances to the Southeastern Regional Aug. 25-28 at Lynchburg, Va. Snow Hill ends the season at 25-18.

"We just ran into a situation where they were playing better than we were," Snow Hill coach James Fulghum said. "Maybe they had more to play better with."

In Sunday's game, Snow Hill took a 1-0 lead in the top of the first only to see Cherryville rally for two runs in the bottom of the inning on Adrian Brewer's two-run home run to give Post 100 a lead it never lost.

Cherryville scored single runs in the second and fourth to go up 4-1 before clouting three home runs over the next four innings.

In the fifth, Shawn Lauer, Post 100's #7 hitter, connected for a three run homer to give Cherryville a 7-1 lead.

Two innings later it was Rusty Stroupe's turn. Stroupe, Cherryville's #8 hitter, matched Lauer's feat by hitting a three-run shot of his own in the seventh and Post 100 led, 10-2.

Cherryville's final home run of the game came in the eighth when David Buff hit a two-run shot for a 12-2 lead. Snow Hill's final run came in the top of the ninth.

Jabo Fulghum led Snow Hill with three hits in four at bats including a double.

In Saturday's game, Cherryville led 2-1 after two innings only to see Snow Hill go up 4-2 in the top of the fifth.

Greg Hardison and David Shirley singled to open the inning. Shirley was then forced at second when Kevin Korpi reached on a fielder's choice. Gary Ream then singled home Hardison. Fulghum followed with another single to score Korpi and Ream.

Cherryville tied it up with single runs in the fifth and sixth and then went ahead for good in the seventh. Jim Fortenberry tripped to open the inning and Brad Long followed with a walk.

With one gone, Tim Mayhue grounded out to score Fortenberry. Lauer and Stroupe followed with singles to score Post 100's other two runs of the inning to give Cherryville a 7-4 lead. Post 100's final two runs came in the eighth.

No one for Snow Hill had more than one hit.

'Critical' Green Victorious

WETHERSFIELD, Conn. (AP) — The stage was his and his alone, and Hubert Green took advantage of the situation to criticize the golf courses that make up the PGA tour and professional golf itself.

"Golf is getting away from finesse," Green said Sunday after winning the $300,000 Sammy Davis Jr.-Greater Hartford Open.

"The most important thing in golf is control of the ball," Green said. But he said many courses now are designed "to see how long you can drive it."

Green, who ended a two-year winless streak with the victory, said he "tried to adapt" by changing his swing so that he could drive the ball farther.

But he said, "I shouldn't have and I have paid for it."

Only recently, he said, has he regained the form that has led to 17 tournament victories, including the 1977 U.S. Open and Sunday's triumph.

Green sank seven birdies during his final round to shoot a 7-under-par 64 as he rallied from three strokes back to win by a stroke. He finished with a 72-hole total of 20-under-par 264, tying the GHO record set in 1973 by Billy Casper and tied in 1978 by Rod Funseth.

Third-round leader Roger Maltbie shot a 68 to finish in a tie for second at 265 with Bobby Clampett and Fred Couples. Clampett shot a 64 Sunday and Couples a 66.

Lon Nielsen, who led the first two rounds, shot an even-par 71 for a 13-under 271 total and a tie for 23rd. Defending champion Howard Twitty shot a 72 Sunday to finish in a tie for 51st with a 275 total.

Reviewing his final round, the 34-year-old Green said it was his putting that gave him the victory.

"There were many putts that could have lipped out but went in," Green said. "The putts that went in today didn't have to go in. I kind of feel that it was my week."

Green's last victory was in 1979 in New Orleans. His best previous finish this year was a tie for 11th in the Masters.

ROYALS 6-6, INDIANS 2-8

Frank White's three-run homer in the second inning paced Kansas City over Cleveland in the first game of the season into the bleachers at Tiger Stadium.

Aurelio Lopez, 4-1, who relieved starter Jack Morris in the fifth inning, gained the victory. Earlier, Reggie Jackson had blasted a pair of RBI doubles to help the Yankees take a 4-1 lead into the ninth.

"I was just waiting for a pitch inside and I got it," Gibson said. "I knew I hit it well, but others hit it long today and the wind blew them back."

Brewers 6-2, Blue Jays 2-0

Jim Gantner and Roy Howell each drove in two runs to key Milwaukee's six-run fifth inning as the Brewers beat Toronto in the first game of their doubleheader.

Ben Oglivie smashed a two-run homer and Randy Lerch and Rollie Fingers combined to scatter 10 hits as Milwaukee blanked the Blue Jays in the second game. Fingers saved both games, raising his season's total to 15.

"I've had two saves before and I've got two losses before and a win and a save, but I've never had two wins on the same day," said the 34-year-old righthander. "I had good breaking stuff and I was happy with myself, especially after a long layoff."

Dodgers 6, Braves 5

Steve Garvey doubled home the tying runs and Ron Cey followed with a run-scoring single as Los Angeles scored three times in the seventh inning for its come-from-behind victory over Atlanta.

Valenzuela, the Dodgers' early-season sensation when he won his first eight starts, struck out nine in five innings but gave up five runs on eight hits.

Bernazard Goes Against O's 'Book'

By The Associated Press

Baltimore Orioles pitching coach Ray Miller has a "book" on Tony Bernazard from managing him in the Puerto Rican winter baseball league, but as far as Earl Weaver is concerned, you can burn it.

"Evidently," says the manager of the Orioles, "what they did against him in Puerto Rico doesn't work up here in the major leagues."

While playing for Miller this past winter, Bernazard hit a paltry .215. While playing for Chicago this season, Bernazard is 17-for-35 against the Orioles, including a game-winning single in the 10th inning Sunday that provided the White Sox with an 8-7 victory.

"How can you figure it out?" Miller said of Bernazard, who had four game-winning RBIs as the White Sox took the abbreviated season series over the Orioles, 6-3. "Everything he hits, goes in."

Weaver is just as puzzled about the infielder's success against his team, considering the information available on him.

"Miller gave us about as much on him after seeing him play 60 games, as we had on anybody," said Weaver. "I just don't understand it."

Says Bernazard: "It's just one of those things, I can't explain it. I'm just making contact. There's not any special reason."

Harold Baines doubled to open the White Sox 10th off Dave Ford, 1-2, and Bernazard singled off Jeff Schneider, the fifth Baltimore pitcher. Reliever Ed Farmer, 2-2, was the winner with help in the 10th from Kevin Hickey, who gained his second save.

Rangers 3, Red Sox 0

Rick Honeycutt scattered six hits and logged the first complete game by a Texas pitcher in the second season as the Rangers beat Boston.

Honeycutt, 8-1, struck out one and walked none in recording his fourth complete game of the year.

The Rangers took a 1-0 lead in the sixth on Bill Stein's RBI infield hit and added two insurance runs in the eighth, one on an RBI double by Leon Roberts.

A's 7, Angels 6

Ken Forsch walked Tony Armas with the bases loaded in the sixth inning to force in the winning run as Oakland beat California.

The A's had loaded the bases on singles by Rob Picciolo and Dwayne Murphy and a two-out loaded the bases in the fifth inning on a single by Tim Blackwell and a pair of walks. With two out and a 2 count, the runners were running when Bonds singled to left, scoring all three baserunners.

The Cubs held a 3-1 lead in the third inning of the opener before Pittsburgh came back to tie the game with single runs in the fourth and eighth, setting the stage for Pena's game-winning hit.

Pirates 4-4, Cubs 3-6

A three-run single by Bobby Bonds in the fifth inning of the second game led Chicago to a 6-4 victory over Pittsburgh and a split of their doubleheader.

Tony Pena's run-scoring single in the 11th inning, his third hit of the game, gave the Pirates a 4-3 triumph in the opener.

Astros Win, Tied With Braves

By The Associated Press

Veteran Joe Niekro and Tony Scott combined their talents to pull the Houston Astros into a tie with the Atlanta Braves for first place in the National League West.

"We thrive on pitching and defense," Niekro said after Houston gained its second straight shutout victory over the San Diego Padres, winning 3-0. "We have good pitching and we're going to keep a lot of clubs down."

Niekro, a veteran knuckleballer who had limited the Padres to just two hits, asked to be relieved after Scott broke a scoreless tie in the top of the eighth with the first of his two RBI singles.

"Each game makes me feel much better here," said Scott, who was acquired by the Astros from the St. Louis Cardinals shortly before the strike began last June.

Reliever Dave Smith held the Padres hitless over the final two innings, picking up his fourth save of the season.

"If we started the second half like we did the first half, we would be in real trouble," said Niekro, referring to how the Astros won only three of their first 15 games last April. "With a short season, it helps to get off to a fast start. There is not much room for error with 50 games."

Niekro, 7-6, gave up only a third-inning single to losing pitcher Steve Mura and a sixth-inning double to Ruppert Jones as he defeated San Diego for the 17th time in his career.

Mets 5, Phillies 2

Ellis Valentine's two-run double highlighted a two-out, four-run third inning and Huble Brooks added a solo homer as the New York Mets downed Philadelphia and moved into a virtual tie for the NL East lead.

The Mets are .006 percentage points behind the St. Louis Cardinals after the first week of baseball's "second season."

And Dave Kingman singled home the Mets' first run of the inning, Valentine dumped a bloop hit down the left field line that fell just short, scoring Brooks and Kingman. Lee two innings, picking up his fourth save of the season.

Brooks slammed his third homer of the year — all in the last week — in the fifth.

Schmidt belted his 18th home run only three of run, a solo shot, for Philadelphia.

Reds 2, Giants 1

George Foster singled home Dave Collins in the first inning and doubled and scored in the sixth on Sam Mejias' single to lead Cincinnati past San Francisco. Mario Soto, 7-6, needed seventh-inning relief help from Tom Hume, who pitched out of a bases-loaded jam to post his seventh save.

The Giants scored in the seventh when pinch-hitter Dan Bergman doubled home Milt May.

Pirates 4-4, Cubs 3-6

A three-run single by Bobby Bonds in the fifth inning of the second game led Chicago to a 6-4 victory over Pittsburgh and a split of their doubleheader.

Tony Pena's run-scoring single in the 11th inning, his third hit of the game, gave the Pirates a 4-3 triumph in the opener.

Greenville Netter Wins '50's' Crown

Greenville Al King defeated Tony Giacomini of Farmville 6-2, 6-2 Sunday afternoon to win the 50-and-over Roanoke League tournament singles finals at the River Birch Tennis Center.

Steve Walker of Washington defeated Norman Bryant of Tarboro 6-2, 6-0 for the open singles crown while Jimmy Rogers of Tarboro downed Tom Sayetta of Greenville 6-2, 6-4 for the 35 and over crown.

King and Giacomini combined to defeat Kelly Abeyounis of Bethel and Tom Norfleet of Roxobel 6-0, 6-1 for the 50 and over doubles crown.

Wes Hankins and Frances Cain, both of Greenville, defeated Billy Jenkins and Kim Scott, both of Rocky Mount, 6-0, 3-6, 6-3 for the mixed doubles championship.

Because of rain, two other doubles matches were postponed and will be played at a later date.

In one match, Steve Walker and Will Jones were to have played Norm Bryant and Ed Hurst. In the other match, Hankins and Tom Richter were to have met Jack Bryant and John Reynolds.

'Annie' Looking To Tomorrow

By LESLEY TAYLOR
PHILADELPHIA (UPI) —
Like the song she made famous in "Annie," Andrea McArdle has her mind set on tomorrow.

GOREN BRIDGE

BY CHARLES H. GOREN
AND OMAR SHARIF
© 1981 by Chicago Tribune

Q.1—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♦72 ♠965 ♣AK872 ♦Q103
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♦ Pass 1 ♠ Pass
1 ♠ Pass ?
What do you bid now?

A.—First, forget about rebidding your five-card minor suit. That leaves you a choice between one no trump and a raise of partner's first bid suit. While no trump describes both the strength and shape of your hand, you do not have a heart stopper, but you do have two honors in partner's suit, a ruffing value and prime cards on the side. Those assets should not be suppressed. Bid two clubs.

Q.2—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♦872 ♠9 ♣KJ6532 ♦A38
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♦ Pass 2 ♠ Pass
2 ♠ Pass ?
What action do you take?

A.—Since partner could do no more than rebid two hearts, you should resign yourself to the fact that game is a remote possibility. With a potential misfit, get out of the bidding as soon as you can. Pass. A bid of three diamonds suggests that the ego is mightier than the wallet.

Q.3—North-South vulnerable, as South you hold:
♦952 ♠AK92 ♦K76 ♠854
The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West
1 ♦ Pass 1 ♠ Pass
2 ♠ Pass ?
What action do you take?

A.—Partner's single raise has promised no more than a minimum opening bid, so at best your side has a combined count of 25 points. If you allow for the fact that you should deduct one point for your flat distribution, it is most unlikely that your hands will stretch to game. Pass.

Q.4—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♦105 ♠K7 ♣9653 ♦AK854
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♦ Pass 2 ♠ Pass
2 ♠ Pass ?
What do you bid now?

A.—Don't bid no trump without a sure diamond stopper. Also—neither the quality of your suit nor the strength of your hand warrants any bid at the three-level. You have shown your values with your two-over-one response at your first turn. All you can do for the moment is take preference to partner's first-bid suit. Bid two spades.

Q.5—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♦KQ76 ♠AQJ8 ♣J72 ♦J9
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♦ Pass 2 ♠ Pass
3 ♠ Pass 4 ♠ Pass
What do you bid now?

A.—Partner's cue-bid of four diamonds shows interest in slam and asks for your cooperation if you have additional values, either in high cards or distribution. Unfortunately, you have neither—queens and jacks do not a slam make. Therefore, you must sign off at four hearts despite the fact that you have excellent trump support.

Q.6—North-South vulnerable, as South you hold:
♦AKQ109 ♠KQ96 ♣94 ♦84
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♦ Pass 3 ♠ Pass
4 ♠ Pass 4NT Pass
5 ♠ Pass 5 ♠ Pass
What action do you take?

A.—When partner launched into Blackwood, he became the captain of the hand, and he has decided that he doesn't want to play in slam. Even though you have extra values, you must respect his wishes—you are almost surely off two aces. Pass.

Now 17 and graduated from high school, Andrea wants to see her name in lights again—in between the touring, the recording, the talk shows, the television appearances, the university studies and, of course, the dating.

Andrea was 13 years old when she walked onto the stage of the Goodspeed Opera House in East Haddam, Conn., in the role of Little Orphan Annie and went on to play the starring role in one of Broadway's most popular shows.

When she left the Broadway show in 1978, she took her talents to London and opened the West End production of "Annie." After outgrowing the Annie role, and in between her studies at the small, private Melrose Academy run by Roman Catholic nuns in Philadelphia, Andrea played a young Judy Garland on national television and appeared in Las Vegas with Liberace.

Looking back, Andrea says it wasn't easy to play a high school student and a Broadway star simultaneously. "I would have liked to go to a big high school... but there were times when I'd have to drop out for a couple months, to tour with Liberace or to do shows," said Andrea. "You couldn't do that in a bigger school."

When she entered the Academy, Andrea already was a celebrity. It took a while, she said, until the other students forgot that and accepted her as another girl. "Some of them treated me differently," she said. "But most of them, once they got to know me, would just ask questions. I didn't mind, but they didn't think I wanted to talk about it."

While Andrea started her high school years as

"Annie," she finished them as the star of "Annie Get Your Gun" in her senior class play.

"I learned a lot," she said of the "Annie Get Your Gun" production. "I learned as much as the other show. The only problem was the directors were afraid to tell me what I did wrong because I was a professional and they weren't. But it turned out really good."

And what of the rest of the high school cast? "They took it seriously, more seriously than I did," she said.

Andrea calls herself an "a little bit above average" student interested primarily in history and art. She and a group of Melrose friends "go out all the time" and she admits to having a boyfriend. Of him, she will say he's "not awed by the fact" of her stardom, but she will say nothing else.

Her Melrose friends will see little of Andrea this summer, when she has plans to tour in the national company performing the musical "Grease" before settling down for some serious work on her career.

"I want to continue working," she said. "Basically, I want to record. Not rock and roll—top 40s music." In addition to her "Grease" tour, Andrea will be working this summer on an eight-city tour for the March of Dimes, doing concerts in hospitals.

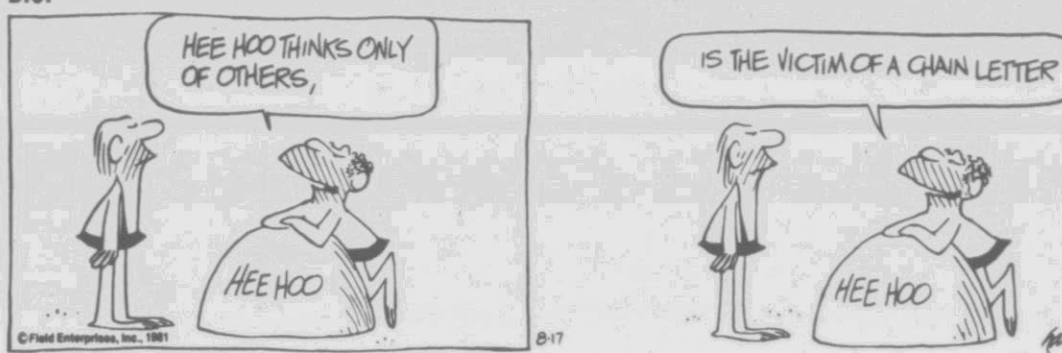

In the fall, "I'll also be out in California taping some TV shows, talk shows and variety shows," she said. Andrea hopes to be enrolled as a theater arts student at New York University in February.

Answer to Saturday's puzzle.

CRYPTOQUIP 8-17

KCXIUA LSBUR WHAUI EMKCK
XRBL QUMHBXSHW EUQ

Saturday's Cryptiquip — LEISURE PLEASURE PRESUPPOSES SOME MENTAL STIMULATION.

Today's Cryptiquip clue: M equals A

The Cryptiquip is a simple substitution cipher in which each letter used stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words, and words using an apostrophe can give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is accomplished by trial and error.

Demonstration Is Planned

Microwave cooking will be taught to Pitt County youth between the ages of 9-15 at a special workshop sponsored by the Agricultural Extension Service.

The workshop is scheduled for August 14 from 10-12 noon in room 201 of the county office building (old Pitt Memorial Hospital).

Participants must pay $1 registration fee and bring the owner's manual from their microwave oven at home. Interested youth must pre-register for the workshop by calling 752-2934, ext. 369 by 12 noon on Wednesday.

The youth will have a demonstration on proper cooking techniques, will discuss differences in conventional and microwave cookery, and will sample various recipes prepared in the microwave by the instructor.

All youth who are interested and have a microwave oven in their home are encouraged to attend this workshop.

Kinston Lion To Be Speaker

Kinston Lion Jake Strother, journalist and educator who teaches part-time at Lenoir Community College, will address both the Breakfast and Luncheon Lions Clubs in Greenville on Tuesday, August 18.

Both meetings will be held at the Three Steers Restaurant, according to Deputy District Governor George A. Pollock, Jr. of Greenville.

Strother will stress the theme of International President Kaoru Murakami of Japan, which is "People at Peace." He will also bring clubs up to date on Candy Day sales and other programs.

Farm Scene

Corn combines have already started running in many areas of North Carolina.

Early planted corn is being removed from the field and much corn harvest will begin the next few weeks in the remainder of the state. With harvest time rapidly approaching, it is time for many farmers to get the combine ready for harvest season. Downtime can be prevented through good machine maintenance before harvest begins.

If you consider the total cost of an untimely breakdown, you will see the importance of good machinery maintenance. The most obvious cost is the parts and labor to get the machine back to work. These costs have soared in recent years and are a major expense. But they may be incidental compared to the other costs of a breakdown.

The most important cost of an untimely breakdown is the lost machine time. One way to estimate the value of machine-time is to look at custom rates. An average sized combine will cut three to four acres per hour. If custom rates are $20 per acre, the lost time on the machine is worth $60-80 per hour.

Now consider the extreme case where a hurricane comes before your own crop is harvested. In this case, the cost of the breakdown could be up to the entire value of the crop that was left unharvested because of the breakdown.

The first thing to do to get your combine ready for the field is to get your operators manual and study it. If you cannot find your manual or if you do not have one, get a dealer to order one or he may have one in stock. Then put it in a place where you can find it and use it regularly.

Proper adjustment of all drive chains, belts and gear-boxes will decrease your chances of excessive downtime during the harvest season. Proper maintenance on the grainhead and cornhead will also reduce delay and will aid in better operation.

Next, start the machine and run it at a low speed with the threshing and header engaged to check for any unusual noises. It should then be run at a higher speed and the bearings checked to see if they are worn.

The speed of the machine should be checked with a tachometer to make sure it is operating within the proper range. If not, adjustments should be made to the RPM to the specified operating range.

If you consider all these consequences, you cannot afford not to have your combine in top condition for the harvest season. Your time spent on machinery maintenance may be more valuable than the time spent in the field.

Commissioners Ask Tax Option

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — North Carolina county commissioners, at their annual conference Saturday, renewed their campaign for power to raise local sales taxes by a penny.

County Commissioners conference unanimously approved a resolution urging the General Assembly, at its special fall budget session, to give commissioners the power to add the second penny to the local sales tax.
