

Rural Paved Road Collapsed

ROAD COLLAPSES — Rural paved road 1417, about two miles off N.C. 11 north of Greenville, collapsed early Sunday morning after the canal apparently became clogged. A resident near the canal, Jo Ann Wilde, said she saw the road give way and collapse in front of her house about 7:15 a.m. Sunday. Department of Transportation crews were busy Monday repairing the road and cleaning out the canal. Ms. Wilde said a tree from her property fell in the canal and apparently added to the clog, causing the water to channel behind a barrier washing out the soil. Ms. Wilde also said she lost about 20 feet of her yard. Crewman at the scene, Grayson Jackson, said grass was a big part of the clog. There was no estimate of time of the repair. (Reflector Photo by Tommy Forrest)

ECU Trustees Sworn In At Gathering Of Board

By JERRY RAYNOR

Five new members of the East Carolina Board of Trustees were sworn in Monday in a meeting of the board held in Mendenhall Student Center.

Three of the new members were elected by the University of North Carolina Board of Governors. These three are Mrs. Katie Morgan of Lillington, wife of former U.S. Senator Robert Morgan; Thomas D. Blount of Greenville, Regional Vice President, Wachovia Bank; and Roy D. Flood, a physician from Murfreesboro.

The two new members appointed by Governor James B. Hunt Jr. are James H. Maynard of Raleigh and Clifton H. Moore of Point Harbor, both alumni of ECU.

One member, John F. Minges of Greenville, was re-elected by the UNC Board of Governors.

Ashley B. Futrell, Sr., editor and publisher of the Washington Daily News newspaper, was elected and sworn in as chairman of the East Carolina University Board of Trustees. Futrell succeeds Troy W. Pate, Jr. of Goldsboro, who has been chairman for six years. Pate will continue to serve as a board member. Futrell has been an ECU trustee since 1969, and vice-chairman since 1975.

Other board officers elected and sworn in by 3rd Judicial District Judge Jim Martin were Ralph Kinsey of Charlotte as vice-chairman and Harvey Beach of Kinston as secretary-treasurer. Kinsey, an alumni of ECU and Beach are both attorneys.

Resolutions of appreciation were adopted for two outgoing board members, Louis Singleton and William H. Stanley.

Pate was also honored with a resolution of appreciation for his service as board of trustees chairman and was presented a trophy by incoming chairman Futrell.

In an executive session, approval was given to the promotion of two faculty members of the ECU School of Medicine. S. Gregory Iams and Leonard English were both promoted from assistant to associate professor.

In another action, the Executive Committee was authorized to take action without the full board meeting on letting contracts necessary for an addition to the Scale Field House. Also, since authorization of the $100,000, a request has been submitted to increase the amount to $188,000 to cover needed renovations — a new roof, plaster repair and the installation of a new system of ventilation for the existing field house.

Staff reports were presented to the board by Dr. Robert H. Maier, Vice Chancellor for Academic Affairs; Dr. William E. Laupus, Dean, School of Medicine; Donald Lemish, Vice Chancellor for Institutional Advancement and Planning; Dr. Elmer E. Meyer, Jr. Vice Chancellor for Student Life; Clifton G. Moore, Vice Chancellor for Business Affairs; and Dr. Ken Karr, Director of Athletics.

A special presentation, "The Implications of Phosphate Discoveries off the North Carolina Coast" was given by Dr. Stanley R. Riggs.

Chancellor Dr. Thomas Brewer in his report noted that preliminary enrollment figures, subject to minor changes, point to an increase of about 1.5 percent in total enrollment figures for the new school year.

More Headless

GUATEMALA CITY (AP) — Authorities say an anonymous telephone caller who told firemen "a package" was waiting for them on a highway outside the capital, led to the discovery of eight bodies — six of them headless.

The victims were among 17 killed Sunday in political violence in this Central American nation, police said Monday. The casualties included five members of the national police.

Church and human rights groups estimate 200-300 people are killed every month in political warfare between the national guard and right-wing death squads battling four leftist groups trying to overthrow the military regime of President Fernando Romeo Lucas Garcia.

Inflation Rate Back Into Double Digits

WASHINGTON (AP) — Soaring housing costs and food prices boosted the nation's annual inflation rate to 15.2 percent in July, the highest rate since spring of 1980, the government reported today.

Increases in transportation and medical care costs also contributed to the 1.2 percent gain in the seasonally adjusted July figure, which would total 15.2 percent if reported for 12 consecutive months.

The sharp gain brought the inflation rate back into double-digit territory for the first time since February. It was the biggest one-month rise since the 1.4 percent increase of March 1980.

The rate ran at 10.7 percent from July 1980 to last month.

For the first seven months of this year, it was 9.4 percent on an annualized basis.

The Labor Department, in its report on the Consumer Price Index, said housing costs gained 1.6 percent in July. A 2.1 percent increase in home-ownership costs — reflecting continuing rises in mortgage interest rates and house prices — accounted for about three-quarters of that gain, the government said.

Also making gains in July were grocery food prices, which rose 0.9 percent following a 0.1 percent increase in June and declines in April and May, the government said. The report said the upswing in food prices was due primarily to sharp gains in prices for beef, pork, poultry and fresh fruits and vegetables.

Voyager 2 Sweeps Past Rings, Moons Of Saturn

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Voyager 2, America's mechanical emissary to distant worlds, swooped past battered, frozen moons and glimmering rings today as it neared its closest approach to Saturn's pastel surface.

On the eve of the encounter, the 1-ton Voyager was pronounced "in excellent health," with everything working smoothly both on the spaceship and at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory here, where nearly 500 scientists, engineers and technicians were making final preparations.

Mission director Richard Laefer said last-minute changes were still being made Monday in some of Voyager's assignments.

The ship cruises just 63,000 statute miles above Saturn's cloud tops at 11:24 p.m. EDT. News of the fly-by won't reach Earth, however, until the radio signals arrive at 12:50 a.m. Wednesday.

Its television eyes shifting frantically from one mystifying sight to the next, the robot explorer was giving earthlings their best look at an exotic kingdom 967 million miles away — a giant, gaseous world swaddled in delicately painted clouds.

The ship's cameras and instruments examined the strangely misshapen moon Hyperion late Monday, then looked from 413,000 miles at giant Titan, a planet-sized moon hidden inside a dense atmosphere, early today. On Saturday evening the spacecraft scanned another of Saturn's 17 known moons, two-tone, reddish Iapetus, with one extremely dark hemisphere and the other, a shiny region of cratered ice.

Voyager continues poking and probing one of the solar system's most spectacular sights and greatest mysteries — the cradle of rings that reaches 150,000 miles from Saturn. A major chore for Voyager 2 is to search for clues that might explain the myriad of tiny ringlets found hiding in the major rings when a sister ship, Voyager 1, encountered Saturn last November.

The ship's cameras have been taking high-resolution pictures of selected regions of the rings in hopes of confirming a popular theory for the rings' startling complexity. The search is for small moonlets — less than 20 miles across — that might be sweeping out gaps within the rings and thus creating the smaller ringlets.

Public Works Offering New Container System

REFUSE CART SERVICE . . . for front-yard roll-out collection is now available to residents as a result of the installation of hydraulic lifts on all residential refuse trucks.

Citizens have the option of buying the 90-gallon carts, shown above, if they desire the new service. (City Photo)

Mayo Allen, director of Public Works, said that all residential refuse trucks have now been equipped with hydraulic lifts, which enable each vehicle to pick up and empty 90-gallon refuse containers.

Allen said each refuse collector has been issued a 90-gallon container mounted on balloon tires so they can easily roll back-yard garbage to the truck.

He said that by installing the automotive equipment on refuse trucks, the Sanitation Division has been able to reduce the crew for each truck, through attrition, from four employees to three. The move has resulted in a reduction of eight employees at an annual savings of $80,000, according to Allen.

He said another advantage of having the lifts mounted on the trucks is that it provides citizens with the opportunity, if they so desire, to purchase a 90-gallon refuse cart for their home use.

The spokesman noted that during neighborhood budget meetings in April and May many residents indicated a preference for front-yard, roll-out refuse service while others expressed a desire to continue with back-yard service.

He explained that the roll-out cart will hold (Please turn to Page 5)

Stern School Bus Regulations Are Approved

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

Bus rules and regulations governing conduct of student passengers and responsibilities of drivers and school staff personnel were approved unanimously at a special school board meeting Monday night.

In recommending adoption of the rules and regulations, Supt. Delma Blinson commented, "These rules are tough, but we have to deal with these things as they are things that cause people to get hurt or killed, and people safety is what these regulations are directed to."

The first section of the adopted document, "Bus Rules," covering student conduct, is divided into three categories of offenses, scaled in degree of seriousness. The second section covers bus drivers, and the third section, due processes.

Category I

Category I enumerates acts of misconduct considered most serious and provides for action to counter such conduct.

The penalty for violation of any rule in Category I will result in suspension from the school buses for at least one week and up to the remainder of the school year. A second violation in one school year of a Category I offense shall result in suspension from riding any Greenville City Schools bus for the remainder of the school year.

Rules covering offenses in Category I include:

- No passenger is to hit, push, pull or otherwise distract the driver.

- The passenger is forbidden to possess, use, or transmit any weapon or other object intended to inflict bodily harm or the fear of bodily harm.

- There shall be no fighting on a bus at any time. No person shall engage in an affray or disorderly conduct.

- No passenger shall place any part of his or her body outside of the school bus while the bus is moving. No passenger shall attempt to operate the door and/or emergency door unless authorized by the driver or in the event of an accident involving the bus.

- No person shall intentionally damage any school bus or act in such a manner which could reasonably be expected to cause damage to any bus.

- No person shall board a school bus after having been specifically instructed not to do so by an authorized person (including the bus driver), nor shall any person remain on a bus after having been instructed to vacate the bus by any authorized person.

- No passenger or driver shall use, possess or be under influence of any alcoholic beverage or illegal narcotic or controlled substance (non-prescribed narcotic drug, marijuana or hallucinogenic drug) while on the bus.

Category II

Violation of rules enumerated in Category II may result in suspension from riding the buses from a period of two to ten days on the first offense. On the second offense the student will be suspended from the buses for a period of from two to ten days and may be suspended for the remainder of the school year.

Category II rules include:

- No object is to be thrown from, at, or on any bus at any time.

- Passengers shall not run after a moving bus on any campus.

- There shall be no use of tobacco products on a bus or within 25 feet of a parked bus by any passenger, driver or school employee.

- No person shall intentionally block, impede or cause a school bus to be diverted from its intended movement. If such action endangers the safety of the passengers or driver this will be considered a Category I offense.

- No person shall create any noise or other distraction which causes the driver's attention to be unsafely diverted from the operation of the bus. There shall be no artificial noise maker operated or otherwise used on any school bus while the bus is moving. (This includes all radios, tape players, or any other form of amplified sound).

- Students boarding a bus or students deboarding a bus to the driver's left shall remain on the left shoulder until the bus comes to a complete stop. Passengers shall never enter the street/road unless the stop arm is out and operating. When deboarding, students shall not go behind the bus, and shall cross the street at least ten feet in front of the bus and only (Please turn to Page 5)

Birthplace Of Stars?

By HOWARD BENEDICT
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Huge molecular clouds, believed to be the birthplace of stars, have been discovered in an arc stretching for trillions of miles along the outer edges of our Milky Way galaxy, the National Science Foundation reports.

The foundation said Monday the clouds were located by Dr. Marc L. Kutner, an astrophysicist, and Kathryn N. Mead, a graduate student, both of Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute in Troy, N.Y.

They made their observations using a 36-foot radio telescope of the National Radio Astronomy Observatory on Kitt Peak near Tucson, Ariz.

In reporting to the foundation, which provided funds for the research, they said a large portion of the clouds combine to form a spiral arm that stretches for 30,000 light years and ranges in distance from 30,000 to 50,000 light years from Earth. A light year is the distance that light travels in one year, or 5.9 trillion miles.

The clouds are called molecular clouds because they are made up of molecules like hydrogen and carbon dioxide. They are believed by astronomers to be the place where most stars are born.

Kutner reported several of the newly discovered clouds are about 200 light years long and may be as massive as 100,000 suns.

"We are confident that our discovery of a previously unsuspected component of the Milky Way galaxy should be bearing scientific fruit for the next several years," he told the foundation.

He said that in many respects the clouds are similar to molecular clouds already studied in the inner part of the galaxy, except they appear to be cooler.

"Although there is evidence that star formation takes place in both the inner and outer galaxy clouds, the mixture of star types is different in both regions," Kutner said. The differences may provide clues about the way stars are formed in molecular clouds, he added.

Until this discovery, most molecular clouds were thought to be confined to a band within the orbit of the sun around the center of the galaxy.

Postal Service Workers OK Contract, Aver Union Chiefs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Postal Service employees overwhelmingly ratified new contracts providing a typical worker with a $2,100 pay raise over three years plus unlimited cost-of-living increases, union officials announced today.

They said the voting was not influenced by the Reagan administration's tough stance against striking air traffic controllers.

Postmaster General William F. Bolger has said that the $4.8 billion settlement should not push the price of a first-class stamp beyond the 20 cents already sought by the Postal Service.

Members of the National Association of Letter Carriers voted 124,316 to 20,856 to ratify the tentative contract reached July 21 after an all-night bargaining session, said union president Vincent Sombrotto.

The American Postal Workers Union was still counting votes early today when its president, Moe Biller, left the suburban Maryland motel where the tally was conducted.

He said that at 4:10 a.m. EDT, 110,367 votes in favor of ratification had been counted and that he expected the number to reach 150,000 by the time all 186,500 ballots were tallied.

"I've very pleased that people have ratified it to that extent," Biller said.

The APWU represents clerks, motor vehicle operators, maintenance workers and special delivery personnel. The letter carriers union represents people who deliver the mail door-to-door.

The Postal Service says the average postal worker had earned $23,300 a year — $19,915 in base pay and the rest in benefits — under the old contracts.

Biller called the cost-of-living clause one of the most important elements of the contracts.

"That doesn't mean that we've pulled off something, a bonanza. But it does mean that our people are going to have less of a struggle if inflation continues," he said.

Suit Charges Rigging Mrs. America Contest

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Two contestants who lost the race to be crowned Mrs. America are suing the pageant for $2 million, alleging the contest was fixed.

In a Superior Court suit filed Monday by attorney Marvin Mitchelson, Denise Ames, 29, and Vicki Vidoni, 28, claim the winner "was predetermined by design and with the knowledge and consent of" the contest operators, who were sued individually along with the Beverly Hills-based Mrs. America Pageants Inc.

Mitchelson said he conducted a six-month investigation into April's pageant in Las Vegas before deciding to file suit. He added that more than 25 other contestants have backed up the allegations by Mrs. Ames, who was Mrs. Nevada, and Mrs. Vidoni, who was Mrs. Maryland.

They say that some judges admitted to contestants they were pressured about their choices, and some contestants were offered payoffs for not complaining about the way the pageant was run, Mitchelson said.

The suit asks that each of the plaintiffs be awarded $1 million in punitive damages and unspecified general damages.

Pageant owner David Marmel has termed the charges as "hogwash," saying, "The allegations are false and we resent them — all of them."

Among other things, the suit contends that families of the top 10 contestants were seated in the front of the theater throughout the pageant and that the family of the eventual winner, Mrs. Louisiana, Paddy Boyd, 33, was seated front and center throughout the contest.

The suit further claims that Mrs. Boyd had been flown to the pageant first class, while the other contestants had been flown coach class.

Three Wrecks Investigated

One person was injured and property damage amounted to nearly $6,000 in three traffic accidents investigated Monday by Greenville Police.

Officers reported that Dianne Tyndall Buck of Rt. 2, Ayden was injured and taken to Pitt Memorial Hospital for treatment following a 12:30 p.m. accident at the corner of Evans and 14th Streets.

Police said the wreck, which involved cars driven by Dianne Buck and Michael McCoy Harper of 204 E. 12th Street, resulted in damages of $2,800 to the Buck car and $2,500 to the Harper vehicle.

Dianne Buck was charged with a safe movement violation, officers reported. Daniel Paul Roeser of 210 Fairlane Road was charged with a safe movement violation following investigation of a 1:08 p.m. wreck on Fourth Street west of Cotanche Street.

Officers, who reported no injuries, said the accident involved vehicles operated by Roeser and James Herbert Bailey of 107 Williamsburg Road.

Damages were estimated at $150 to each vehicle.

No injuries or charges resulted from a 12:15 p.m. wreck on Memorial Drive south from Dickinson Avenue involving vehicles operated by Jesse James Ward of Rt. 5, Greenville and George Pell Lea of 1746 Lafayette Circle, Rocky Mount.

Damages were estimated at $150 to each vehicle.

Money Shifted To N.C. Abortion Fund

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The Department of Human Resources has shifted funds from a program for mothers with dependent children to pay for abortions for poor women, department officials say.

The State Budget Office approved in June the transfer of $235,000 in unused funds from the Aid to Families with Dependent Children program to the State Abortion Fund, department officials told the News and Observer of Raleigh.

The money was needed to pay for abortions that had been approved by county officials. The abortions were approved before the department said in May that future abortion requests would not be financed because of a money shortage, said department spokesman June Milby.

The department told the county officials that only $78.01 remained in the State Abortion Fund, she said.

"We did transfer some money, but only to cover the bills we had incurred," Ms. Milby said.

The shift was possible because the state's share of the joint federal-state-county AFDC program was less than expected, DHR officials said.

The department made a similar transfer of $280,000 from AFDC in April 1980.

North Carolina is one of 10 states that uses state money to pay for abortions. Under the program, county officials approve abortions for eligible clients and the state reimburses the counties for the costs.

'Good Day' At Farmville

FARMVILLE — Yesterday was a good day for selling tobacco in Farmville, as the market recorded its highest daily average thus far for the 1981 season, according to Georgia Willoughby, sales supervisor of the Farmville Tobacco Board of Trade.

Demand was up from last week and volume purchases by buying companies allowed only light deliveries to the Stabilization Corporation. Good quality cutter and leaf grades continued to account for most of volume.

The market sold 705,993 pounds for $1,264,264.37 for an average of $179.08 per hundred pounds. To date, the market has sold 11,285,491 pounds for $18,930,229.26 for a season average of $167.74. The season average last year this selling day was $141.64.

Couple Say Vows Recently

LENOIR — April Crump and Timothy Gray Hutchens were married Saturday, Aug. 15, at Central Advent Christian Church. The double ring service was officiated by the Rev. Marshall Tidwell.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Crump of Lenoir and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hutchens Jr. of Winston-Salem.

Given in marriage by her parents and escorted by her father, the bride wore a designer gown by Mendicino. The gown was of white organza over peau de soie and designed with a high neckline with Venice lace beaded with pearls. The empire bodice with a sheer yoke of English net was bordered in scalloped French chantilly lace and seed pearls. A cameo beaded design centered the yoke. Chantilly lace formed cap sleeves and bordered the hemline of the A-line skirt. The gown had a wateau chapel length train.

She wore a waltz length mantilla edged with chantilly lace and carried a bouquet of peach roses and white miniature carnations, gypsophila accented with lace and ribbons.

Jennifer Spann of Rocky Mount was maid of honor and bridesmaids were Melinda Hartley of Hickory, Linda Leggett of Winston-Salem, Kim Cheek of Atlanta and Anne Yancy of Virginia Beach, Va., cousin of the bride.

Honorary attendants were Tammy Rader, Mrs. Dana Lemmerman of Raleigh, Kim Batts and Mrs. Martha Mills of Chapel Hill, Becky Coleman of Charlotte, Lynn Musgrave of Greenville and Mrs. Dixie Green of Lenoir.

The father of the bridegroom was Bruce Boteler of Roanoke, Va., Scott Mast of Winston-Salem, Doug Hoffman and Bob Glover of Greenville.

Wedding music was presented by Mrs. Lee Ensley, organist and Kevin Barlowe, soloist.

Bonnie Boteler attended the guest register. Scrolls were presented by Julie and Melanie Boteler. All are cousins of the bridegroom of Roanoke, Va.

Mrs. Joe Murray directed the wedding.

The bride is a graduate of Lenoir High School and ECU. She is a member of Phi Beta Lambda. The bridegroom graduated from R. J. Reynolds High School and is a senior at ECU.

After the wedding, the bride's parents entertained at a reception at Cedar Rock Country Club.

Mrs. James Rader and Mrs. Virgil Prince served cake while Mrs. Jack Green and Mrs. Joseph Spierer poured punch. All are aunts of the bride.

Mr. and Mrs. Waitzel Smith greeted guests and rice bags were given by Amy Boteler of Roanoke, Va., cousin of the bridegroom. Piano music was presented by Greg Knight.

After a Caribbean cruise, the couple will live in Greenville.

The bride's parents gave a breakfast at the Holiday Inn and a bridal luncheon was given for the bride and attendants Friday.

Pat's Pointers

By Pat Trexler

Now is the perfect time to try your hand at fascinating Fair Isle knitting with this Scandinavian inspired sweater with a snowflake yoke. Best of all, it is worked back and forth on circular needles so that there are no sleeves to set in and only underarm sleeve seams to be sewed.

The simplified directions are written for sizes 12 through 18, and you can take your choice of acrylic or wool yarns in knitting worsted weight.

To obtain directions for making the snowflake cardigan, send your request for Leaflet No. T-1965 with $1 and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to: Pat Trexler, "The Daily Reflector," P.O. Box 810, North Myrtle Beach, S.C. 29582.

Or you may order Kit No. K-1965, containing two colors of Wintuk yarn and the instruction leaflet, by sending a check or money order for $16.50 for sizes 12 or 14 or $18.50 for sizes 16 and 18. If wool yarn is preferred, send $24 for sizes 12/14 or $30 for sizes 16/18. The available color combinations are: blue tones; beige with copper; or ecru with your choice of rust, walnut, scarlet, Shannon green or royal blue. Be sure to specify your choice of colors.

Dear Pat: I've noticed a lot of sweater and skirt combinations in an exclusive knitwear boutique — but the prices are astronomical! I have many lovely sweater patterns but can't find one for a simple skirt. Can you help? — Sandra K., Santa Ana, Calif.

You'll be happy to hear, Sandra, that charting your own directions for skirts is relatively simple. In fact, any knitter who has achieved an understanding of the relationship between gauge and fitting should find it a snap to chart skirt directions to her own measurements.

First, take your waist measurement and your hip measurement. Then measure a skirt that fits well, that is the correct length from waist to hem and that is the same width at the hemline as the one you plan to knit.

Some designers feel that skirts should be knitted to exact waist and hip measurements, while others advise adding an inch to your waist measurement and a couple of inches to the hip measurement. The latter is my preference but the choice is really up to you.

In either case, you decide how many stitches to cast on at the waist or hem by multiplying the desired width by the gauge you are getting with your yarn and needles. You have a choice of starting at the hem and knitting up or beginning at the waist and knitting down. If these are your first "do it yourself" directions, I suggest starting at the waist as this allows you the opportunity to try on the garment from time to time to see how well it is fitting in the waist and hip area and make any adjustments before you have knitted the full length of the skirt.

The hip measurement, which is approximately 7 inches below the waist on most figures, will, of course, be larger than the waist measurement, so we have a

Several years ago, the rock group Crosby, Stills and Nash produced a popular song called the "Marrakesh Express". The second largest city in Morocco, Marrakesh is generally regarded as its Southern Capital. Located at the bottom of the High Atlas Mountains, Marrakesh is 140 miles SSW of Casablanca, connected to it by rail. The outstanding landmark is the mosque and tower of Koutoubiya, built by the Sultan Yakoutel-Mansour between 1164-1198.

Whether you are traveling to Morocco, the Orient, or New York City, start your traveling by coming to QUIXOTE TRAVELS INC. the senior travel agency in Greenville. We have a full time staff of seven to serve all your travel needs. Let us put our experience to work for you so you can have a pleasant travel experience. See us now for back to school reservations. TRAVEL TIP: Marrakesh was a northern terminus of trans-Saharan caravan routes and was occupied by the French in 1912, thus beginning its development as a modern town.

span of 6 to 7 inches in which to make the necessary increases (or decreases if you are working from the bottom up).

In my opinion, a better fit is achieved if these increases or decreases are made at each side seam and at two front and two back darts.

To figure the position of the darts, place markers on the needles one third of the way in from each side seam. You will increase or decrease one stitch at each edge and one stitch before and after each marker. This means that on each increase or decrease row you will be adding or taking away six stitches.

To see how this works, let's assume that your finished measurements are to be 26 inches at the waist and 36 inches at the hips. Divide those figures in half to determine the number of stitches for the front or back section. With a five-stitch-per-inch gauge, you would then cast on 65 stitches (5 times 13) and would need to increase to 90 stitches (5 times 18).

This gives you a 25-stitch difference between waist and hip. Your increases are to be made at a rate of six per row, so let's count on a 24-stitch difference as this is the nearest number evenly divisible by six. Twenty-four divided by six equals four, so you know that you will be fitting in four rows, over a 7-inch span. In this case, it will work out to work an increase row every inch and a half.

Even a straight skirt should be wider at the hemline than at the hip line. So subtract your hip measurement from your desired hemline width to determine how many increases should be made from hip to hem. These increases are best made at the side edges only, allowing the darts to end 6 or 7 inches below the waist. With side edge only increases, you will be adding just two stitches each time you increase. But you can use the same formula explained above to figure on the spacing of these increase rows.

If you prefer working a skirt round and round on circular needles, just double the figures given, using additional markers to show the position of side seams.

As a final word, if you're puzzled about the shaping of various pieces of a garment, why not buy a sewing pattern in your size, with the details you want to use in a knit or crocheted garment, and use it for a guide. This should be especially helpful to those of you in the half-size range who have difficulty finding knit and crocheted patterns.

Demise Is Little Noticed

Some of those grants you often read about will no longer be coming with the end of the Coastal Plains Regional Commission.

The commission has helped build three marine science centers for North Carolina and the Wanchese Seafood Industrial Park.

The commission and seven others similar to it in the nation will come to an end Sept. 30, the victim of the new budget cutting philosophy in Washington.

The commission has made grants for other things including converting a train terminal in Washington, N. C. into an arts and civic center, extending water lines in Aulander and financing a feasibility study for an indoor arena in Pitt.

It has been in operation since 1965 and has made grants of about $18 million in the North Carolina counties it served.

There probably won't be much crying about its end, even in the area it served. The prevailing mood in the nation today is to cut government spending and this commission is one of the intangibles to the public.

The cut, however, is a forerunner of the demise of many other federal programs. Some of them will be felt directly by individual citizens, but there can be little question there is a mandate for change.

New Approach Is Needed

The Democratic Party, which has suffered major setbacks nationally in recent years, is looking for new ways to attract the middle class, according to a news story.

Well it should. The party has long attempted to embrace the vast majority of Americans, so much so that it became preoccupied with the poor and the minorities.

That was commendable, but in the process the Democratic leaders lost touch with the real backbone of

Middle class voters can be returned to the Democratic fold, but it is going to take new approaches. Democratic leaders will have to offer alternatives both to what their own party was giving, and what the Reagan administration is doing to the middle class now.

THIS AFTERNOON

Block Grant War

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH — It has been clear that the U.S. Congress, ramrodded by President Ronald Reagan, has been doing little more lately than putting into practice what the man on the street has been preaching for some time now — it's time to cut government spending, balance the budget, and to keep things trimmed down, cut taxes so the system won't have as much to spend.

There have been protests from the social activist-human services sector of government and private agencies, but the clamor for protection has been largely muted by the public demand for relief.

The fight, however, is far from finished. As the slashes have become known and the recipient and professional organizations directly affected made their resistance known, the federal aim of replacing the hundreds of categorical grant programs with block grants to be divided as people in various regions of the nation see fit moved into place.

The System

To simplify: there have been nearly 500 specific federal grant programs in which welfare, medical, educational, nutritional, vocational and other aid programs were funneled. Each spawned its own little bureaucracy competing with the others for more clients and more funds. Clerks, administrators, forms, paperwork, rules, and regulations doubled and doubled again as those getting aid scurried from one office to another getting a little help here, a little help there.

Later this month the tremendous task of getting federal block grant guidelines in hand, and setting up the state and local machinery and regulations for doling out the money will begin in earnest.

With growing noise and aggressiveness, those who have been in charge of the various categorical grant programs are jockeying for position now to see who will be able to run the process of dividing up the block grant money which North Carolina will receive.

To simplify once more: if North Carolina receives anywhere near the amount of federal money it has been getting, the block grant sum will run between $500 million and $800 million. All told, the state will get about $1.5 billion in federal money. Nearly half-a-billion is for Medicaid assistance to the poor and elderly. Nearly $200 million is for highways. Welfare for families with dependent children takes about $125 million, and food in the schools gets $118 million.

Then you begin to get into things like Title One and Title Twenty and WIC and CETA and Energy Assistance, and Rehabilitation ... a long list of specialized things which have been getting $20 million to $30 million and up.

New Way
Many of these specialized programs will now be thrown into the block grant system, and that means a whole new ballgame in demanding recognition, justifying existence, scrambling for funds, and proving that the program is worthwhile.

This is, essentially, the very reason for the shift from categorical to block grants. Instead of the decision being made in Washington and enforced nationwide whether local people wanted the program or not, the decision will be made further down the ladder. Thus, communities which did not want certain programs will not only have the option of not participating, but will have the option of using the money for something else instead.

Ultimately it is the hope of government philosophers and economists that this approach will force local officials and citizens to take a long hard look at some of the programs, and decide to eliminate the borderline ones.

Meanwhile, the game is about to begin in earnest.

To the editor:

Each year on Labor Day, millions of people watch the Jerry Lewis Muscular Dystrophy Telethon. And literally millions of dollars are raised for this worthy cause. However, last year and again this year those of us in Eastern N.C. not fortunate enough to have cable will be unable to watch this national telethon. Surely the three networks that serve this part of N.C. should get together on this matter. Apparently, each assumes the other will show it, so none do.

Not only do I feel deprived of many hours of terrific entertainment (There are always many well known stars), but our area of the state is deprived of the opportunity to give generously to Muscular Dystrophy. Sure we can receive solicitations for donations in the mail and we see the little jars where we can give in restaurants and stores. But how often we pass up these opportunities during our busy schedules! Nothing can compare to what seems to be a one-on-one plea from someone we recognize on tv, be they local or nationally known.

I know there are other telethons, but this one with Jerry and his kids is the granddaddy of them all.

I have been fortunate enough to become closely associated with several people with this crippling and killing disease. In every case I've known, their lack of physical strength is compensated for many times over by their emotional strength and determination and their incredible will to survive and conquer a disease they know is killing them.

Each year I am thrilled by the amount raised by Jerry Lewis and others in his telethon, but I remain appalled that a cure or prevention is not yet known, and more money for more research is so desperately needed.

Since our networks can't find time to show this fabulous telethon, I personally challenge each one of you who read this letter to give generously to the Muscular Dystrophy Association. Send your contribution to Jerry Lewis, National Chairman, Muscular Dystrophy Association, 810 Seventh Ave., New York, N.Y. 10019.

Reluctance To Amend

WASHINGTON — It is time to take note, once again, of one of the least notable political anniversaries of the day. Three years have passed since the Congress, on Aug. 22, 1978, approved the proposed "D.C. Amendment" to the Constitution. These have been three years of neglect that could not even be termed benign.

The amendment, in case you have forgotten, would authorize voters in the District of Columbia to elect two United States senators and one member of the House. As future constitutional amendments came along, the District would share in the ratification process "as though it were a state."

The proposal was launched with some difficulty — it squeaked through the Senate by a single vote — and it has encountered rough seas ever since. Now it lies dead in the water. To bring you up-to-date: Three states ratified in 1978: New Jersey; Michigan and Ohio. Four more ratified in 1979: Connecticut, Wisconsin, Massachusetts and Minnesota. Two ratified in 1980: Maryland and Hawaii. This year has seen only a single state join the forlorn flotilla: Oregon, in June.

That adds up to 10 states, far short of the 38 states required for ratification. Ten states have rejected the proposal without invidious comment, and four others — Idaho, New Mexico, South Dakota and Nebraska — have adopted positive resolutions of disapproval. Virginia is gently "studying" the proposition. In three other states action has been postponed "indefinitely." All the rest is silence.

The D.C. Amendment thus

joins the ill-fated Equal Rights Amendment among the sunken ships of constitutional revision. There is a case of sorts to be made in support of both propositions. Residents of the District of Columbia are in fact now treated as second-class citizens. They pay all federal taxes as others do; they are subject to the draft as others are; but they have no vote in Congress on such issues. By the same token, despite great changes in recent years, some residual laws continue to discriminate against women. But these amendments are not wise answers.

My own hunch — it can be nothing more — is that the American people simply are not much inclined toward amending the supreme law of their land. Between 1789 and 1968, when a cumulative count was made, 6,940 resolutions of constitutional amendment were introduced in Congress. Since 1968, there probably have been 2,000 more.

In this current session, we have seen 28 resolutions in the Senate and 141 in the House. Many of these are duplicative, of course, but that is a vast heap of proposals to tinker with the Constitution.

Something in the American character balks at fundamental change in our political system. It may be a native wariness. Laws may come and laws may go, but the Constitution is a different matter. If a constitutional mistake is made, as Prohibition demonstrated, it is a devil of a job to correct the error.

Even the presumptively popular amendments run into trouble. The pollsters regularly find public opinion heavily in favor of direct election of presidents, but proposals for so radical a change get nowhere in Congress. The pending resolution to compel a balanced federal budget won't be approved in its present form. Early this month the Gallup Poll found "greater public support than ever before" for the Equal Rights Amendment, but the Gallup people keep asking a question about the ERA that prompts a favorable response. There doubtless is an inchoate feeling that "discrimination on the basis of sex" is wrong, but there also is an inchoate suspicion that to guarantee "equal rights under the law," which is what the ERA proposal puts forth, is to buy a pig in a poke.

Let us stay wary. As abstract propositions, I would like to end life tenure for federal judges, to remove the risk of maverick presidential electors, and to impose some limits on the general welfare clause, but I mount no crusades. Sen. Robert Byrd's rule against tinkering applies to the Constitution just as it applies to lesser mechanisms of government: If it ain't broke, don't fix it.

Marked For Destruction

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Portrayal of Interior Secretary James Watt as a religious fanatic intent on despoiling the land, based on congressional testimony taken out of context, has penetrated political folklore so deeply that "Doonesbury" now accepts it as fact.

In the Aug. 16 Sunday strip, "Doonesbury's" oil magnate, asked by his wife whether Watt's resource development policy isn't "very shortsighted," replies: "Hell, yes. But the man believes Jesus is due any minute! Who am I to say he's wrong?" Indeed, the slander that Watt favors pillaging America because of Christ's imminent second coming is Washington's conventional wisdom.

That's no accident. The well-financed environmentalist lobby has marked Jim Watt for destruction. Since his environmental views are identical to Ronald Reagan's, the way to separate them is ridicule. If Watt is transformed from an intense conservative into a madman, the environmentalist lobby has hopes that the president's advisers will toss him overboard for Reagan's sake.

Watt himself gave his enemies their opening in his first days as secretary at a Feb. 5 House Interior Committee meeting. Democratic Rep. James Weaver of Oregon asked Watt whether "you agree that we should save some of our ... scenic resources for our children, not just gobble them up all at once?"

The alleged response to this question has become the main club for flogging Watt. What he actually answered was this: "Absolutely. That is the delicate balance the secretary of the interior must have — to be steward for the natural resources for this generation as well as future generations."

Then, after a pause, Watt uttered words that have haunted him: "I do not know how many future generations we can count on before the Lord returns. Whatever it is, we have to manage with a skill to have the resources needed for future generations."

By any fair interpretation, Watt was not saying that Christ's imminent coming made resource preservation unnecessary but, on the contrary, inability to predict its occurrence makes it all the more necessary for human managers to protect the Earth. In any event, there was no commotion at the hearings. Weaver merely told a long-winded biblical joke, "seeing (that) the secretary brought up the Lord."

But by spring, Watt's "I do not know how many future generations, etc." was being widely reported as his answer to Weaver's original question — without repeating what came before or after. The caricature was embroidered when the May issue of "Audobon" published an article contending that Watt agrees with this dubious biblical paraphrase: "The Earth was put here by the Lord for His people to subdue and to use for profitable purposes on their way to the hereafter." There is nothing in Watt's often cantankerous rhetoric that suggests this.

When Watt appeared before the House Interior Committee July 16, Jim Weaver was ready with more than biblical jokes. He misquoted Watt as telling the committee in February "the Lord could come at any time," then asked: "Are you approaching the environmental issue of surface mining ... (with) 'Why worry, for the Lord's return is imminent?'"

Stunned, Watt replied he had taken an oath to enforce all laws, the Surface Mining Act included. Weaver insisted on determining whether "the imminent return of the Lord is having anything to do with this." Watt protested that "my religious freedom is guaranteed under the First Amendment." When Weaver persisted, Republicans raised a point of order. "This is not a hearing on religion," shouted Rep. Donald Young of Alaska.

Committee chairman Morris Udall told us he thought Weaver's comments "in poor taste" and that "my instinct" was to uphold Young's point of order. But since Watt first raised the religious question, he let Weaver proceed. Udall later privately apologized to Watt. But on July 21, Watt informed Udall he would not have time for the massive Central Arizona water project pushed by Udall if he had to resist hostile questioning condoned by the Interior

Business Problem: Financing

By JOHN CUNNIFF

AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — A survey of smaller businesses during July underscores the problems of the economy as viewed by the Reagan administration. At the same time it seems to dispel some popularly accepted notions.

The results also suggest a solution to the problems that might present some small businesses with the toughest decisions they ever have to make.

Asked to name their single most important problem, respondents barely complained about stiff competition or the cost or quality of labor. Such complaints were the lowest in the survey's eight-year history.

Financing, however, was at an all-time high, named by 31 percent of those answering the questionnaire, sent by the National Federation of Independent Business, and analyzed by two university professors.

Inflation scored second, named by 26 percent, and taxes were named by 15 percent. The trio of inflation, taxes and financing thus constituted 72 percent of the responses to the most-important-problem question, a percentage unequalled in any other July survey.

The Reagan people have now taken action against the tax problem and, they hope, against inflation, thus offering hope that danger from those directions will ease. But financing problems remain.

The high cost of financing represents real pain because, says Professor William C. Dunkelberg of Purdue University, who analyzes the results with Professor Jonathan A. Scott of Southern Methodist University, it means that companies have little choice but to cut costs through layoffs.

For many of these companies, borrowing is a way of life that cannot be avoided. In the federation survey, 45 percent of the companies said they continued to borrow regularly, despite in some instances having to pay 23 percent or more for their money. If they could stop, they might.

Big companies may be able to absorb some of that cost, temporarily at least. Small companies are less able to do so. Still, they are often unable to keep customers if they attempt to pass on the costs.

The alternative in many instances is an emotionally troublesome one: to lay off workers. While an upturn in layoffs hasn't shown up yet in the federation survey — in fact, after six straight quarterly declines employment rose in the latest survey — it could offer real relief.

Says Dunkelberg, "Lower income and labor taxes will provide more bottom-line relief than a prime rate in the 13-15 percent range."

A reduction in labor costs of only a few percent, he says, "would provide the firm more cash than a 50 percent reduction in interest rates because interest expense generally constitutes a small proportion of the total expense."

Since the Federal Reserve Board appears to feel that future monetary stability requires it to continue a relatively tight money policy, the challenge seems clear.

It's the toughest one that many small-business people will ever encounter, tougher even than paying extraordinarily high interest rates.

Tough for the country too, because small business is where jobs are created, to say nothing about it being an innovative sector from which grows the new, efficient, competitive national companies of tomorrow.

90 gallons of refuse or more than three standard garbage cans. The cart, made of durable, heavy plastic which should last five to eight years with proper care, is mounted on wheels and is easy to maneuver even when filled to capacity, Allen said. It can be used for both household refuse and yard rakings and trimmings.

Citizens who desire to utilize the roll-out collection system will need to roll their cart to the curb on the night before their regular pick-up day. He said citizens who are already using the carts indicate they are pleased with the system and recommend it.

According to Allen, the special type of cart used for the service sells for $55 including tax and delivery and is available through the Public Works Department. Each cart will be stenciled with the owner's name before being delivered.

Allen said the first shipment of carts has already been sold, but the second shipment is expected within a few days. Any citizen desiring more information concerning the roll-out cart should call the department at 752-4137, extension 242.

Long Prison Term Given Extortionist

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — A Guilford County man was sentenced to 61 to 70 years in prison Monday after pleading guilty to extortion and holding the family of a local jeweler hostage.

Superior Court Judge William Wood sentenced Robert Brown after Brown admitted to four counts of kidnapping, breaking and entering, three counts of robbery and extortion in holding the Allan Barty family hostage.

Brown, 33, told Wood that he has been addicted to heroin for 13 years, was sorry for the trouble he caused the Barty's, had found God since his arrest and was praying for forgiveness.

In a two-hour hearing that leaned towards the melodramatic, Arlene Barty testified her 4-year-old daughter has had trouble sleeping since the incident and is often afraid to get out of bed in the mornings.

"I pray their daughter will become herself again," Brown said later during his testimony.

Alan Barty, owner of the three Barty's Diamond Centers in Greensboro, calmly told how a tall black man with a stocking over his face burst into his Starmount Forest home about 9 a.m. June 5. The man shouted "hold it, hold it right there," and placed a gun to the back of Barty's head, he testified.

Big Penalty In Drug Case

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — James Walter Durham of Guilford County was sentenced to 21 years in federal prison Monday on convictions of cocaine trafficking, bail jumping and two parole violations.

U.S. District Judge Hiram H. Ward of Winston-Salem also handed Durham a special 15-year parole term. The parole term will follow Durham's active prison sentence and will call for stricter monitoring of his activities than is usually required for of offenders.

A federal district court jury in Winston-Salem deliberated less than three hours Friday before convicting Durham of three cocaine trafficking charges. He was found guilty of conspiracy to distribute cocaine, possession of cocaine and being a principal in a conspiracy. Durham faced maximum sentences of 15 years in prison, a $25,000 fine or both for each count.

Durham was sentenced to 14 years in prison for the cocaine charges. A three-year sentence was imposed for failing to appear in court six months ago on the cocaine charges. He also received a two-year prison sentence for each of two probation violations.

Ward ordered that all of the sentences run consecutively. The special parole term will begin when Durham is released.

Durham was one of seven people arrested Nov. 23 at a motel near the Regional Airport at Greensboro. He was charged with possessing and conspiring to sell nine pounds of cocaine worth an estimated $1.5 million.

Five of the six co-defendants pleaded guilty to cocaine possession and conspiracy charges and received sentences ranging from two to five years in prison.

Pitt Council To Have Meet

The Pitt County Council on the Status of Women will hold its August meeting Wednesday afternoon, beginning at five o'clock, at the Pitt County Office Building.

Final plans on the fall seminar being jointly sponsored by the Councils on the Status of Women in Hertford, Martin and Pitt Counties and Martin County Community College will be discussed. The seminar will be held Saturday, Sept. 26, at Martin Community College, Williamston, and is open to any interested resident.

The seminar will include four workshop sessions as well as a luncheon with a keynote speaker. Local Council Chairman Willie Carney reminds members to be present.

Opinions Differ

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Congressional Budget Office sees no reason to revise its projection that the federal budget deficit in fiscal 1982 will be nearly half again as large as the administration's estimate, a CBO source says.

"We see nothing in the works to change our earlier estimate," a CBO official familiar with the developing estimates said Monday. The official asked not to be identified.

In May, the non-partisan agency predicted the $696 billion budget would lead to a deficit of $57 billion to $60 billion, not the $42.5 billion forecast by the administration for the year beginning Oct. 1.

Alice Rivlin, director of CBO, is scheduled to give an updated projection in committee testimony when Congress returns Sept. 9.

Higher estimates of military spending and projections that interest rates will stay above administration predictions account for the difference in deficit forecasts, the official said.

After reports surfaced last week that some administration officials said the deficit could be as much as $20 billion more than the official administration projection, the White House said the predictions were "sadly out of kilter."

"We are not changing our ideas about the 1982 deficit at all," President Reagan added.

The administration has predicted a balanced budget by 1984, and Budget Director David Stockman has sought additional spending cuts for 1983 and 1984 to meet the goal.

School Bus...

when the stop sign is out. No student shall go under the safety arm while it is extended.

Category III

Normally disciplinary action on the first offense will be designed to teach the violator that obedience is required and any subsequent violation will result in a short term suspension (one to five days) from riding the buses and repeated violation (third or subsequent offenses) will result in longer (more than five days) suspension from riding the buses.

Applicable rules in Category III include:

- No student is to board or ride any bus to which he/she is not assigned or authorized to ride.
- The student is not to board or deboard any bus at any place other than his/her assigned stop. Any exceptions must be approved in advance by the driver and/or principal.
- Students are to wait for the bus in an orderly manner. They are to remain at least three feet away from the street or road until the bus door is opened; board the bus and be seated in assigned seats or from rear to front. There are to be no seats "saved," and no one is permitted to stand as long as seats are available. Deboarding passengers are to remain seated until the bus stops.
- There shall be no eating, drinking, or littering on any bus.

Drivers

In the area of rules for bus drivers, drivers are to adhere to all applicable North Carolina General Statutes and are to adhere to duties and responsibilities of school bus drivers outlined in a state bus driver's manual.

Additionally, the local Greenville regulations for drivers include, among several other rules, one prohibiting any driver from entering or operating any school bus while under the influence of any alcoholic beverage, marijuana, illegal narcotic or controlled substance.

Drivers are also to report to their principal any violation of rules by students passengers, and are to promptly file a form on such violation. Drivers, like passengers, are not to smoke nor operate any type of noise maker while driving a bus.

In the due process section of the bus rules and regulations, which deals with appeals, the motion of the school board was to accept this section contingent on verification by the school attorney that all the wording in this section meets legal requirements for such a document.

In addition to adopting the school bus rules and regulations, the board at its special meeting Monday approved the election of two teachers and an exception to the daily deposit arrangement for Agnes Fullilove School.

WCC Politics Hit By Salvation Army

LONDON (AP) — The Salvation Army, accusing the World Council of Churches of putting politics above gospel, says it quit the group because of council support for black guerrilla movements in Africa.

A Salvation Army spokesman said its decision to quit the Geneva-based council was conveyed in a letter Monday to the council's 140-member central committee meeting in Dresden, East Germany.

The spokesman at the army's headquarters in London said it would probably attend future council sessions as an observer and would maintain harmonious relations with the group. He said the army would still participate in some council work, "especially in world mission, evangelism and Third World development."

The non-military Salvation Army was established in London in 1865. It has 2 million members in 856 countries engaged in Christian evangelism. It emphasizes its non-political nature.

Trouble between the army and council surfaced in 1978, when the army asked that its membership be suspended because the council's Program to Combat Racism gave $85,000 to African nationalists waging guerrilla war against the white-minority regime in Rhodesia, now Zimbabwe.

British newspapers said the army's final decision to quit came when the council's secretary-general Dr. Philip Potter pledged more aid to black nationalist guerrillas in South-West Africa and the banned African National Congress in South Africa. The council says the money does not go for weapons but finances humanitarian work.

In 1948 the army helped found the council, which comprises about 300 church and other organizations representing about 400 million Protestant, Orthodox and other non-Roman Catholic Christians.

Committee chairman — an inferred threat given national attention last week by the Washington Post.

Watt has himself to blame for proclaiming his belief in the second coming, shared by millions of American Christians, during his early weeks in office. Wisely, he no longer discusses religion. But that prevents any response to the lunatic stereotype now perpetuated by "Doonesbury."

"Sooner or later," one leading environmentalist told us, "Ed Meese will see this guy is hurting Reagan politically and get rid of him." In fact, presidential counselor Edwin Meese III and Ronald Reagan, Westerners who have been fighting the same cause as long as Watt, encourage him to be even tougher in attacking the environmentalist lobby. That's why Watt's enemies changed the topic from environmental policy to the second coming.

NOTED HYPNOTISTS IN GREENVILLE TO HELP SMOKERS & THE OVERWEIGHT

WADE M. GENTHNER, F.A.I.H.
Director of Techniques for Living

Are you overweight or a cigarette smoker? Have you tried to lose weight or stop smoking, only to fail time and time again? If you find yourself answering "yes" to either of these questions then the Techniques For Living Seminar, under the direction of Wade M. Genthner, F.A.I.H. at the Ramada Inn, 264 Bypass, will be the place for you to be on Thursday, September 3. Techniques For Living will be conducting their famous Lose Weight—Stop Smoking Seminar which has helped thousands of people throughout the United States. Techniques For Living is a national organization dedicated to helping Americans solve these and other problems that have kept them from enjoying their lives to the fullest.

The subject of numerous newspaper and magazine articles as well as television appearances, Mr. Genthner and his staff have been conducting these seminars throughout the country. In a comprehensive and fascinating three hour program, those who attend the seminar experience the relaxing and beneficial effects of clinical hypnosis. Not only do people permanently lose weight and stop smoking as a result of the seminar, they also report that they sleep better, feel more energetic, and generally enjoy life more than they had previously.

Mr. Genthner's skill in clinical hypnosis was noted by Dan Rather of CBS' "60 Minutes," who referred to him in a nationally televised report as a well-trained and highly experienced hypnotist.

"Clinical hypnosis is the easiest way there is to solve these problems," Genthner says. "Simply put, it helps to eliminate these types of problems permanently."

Genthner says that the reason clinical hypnosis is so successful is that "it removes the causes of problems, not just the symptoms." For example, he explains: "People who are overweight go on diets. A diet is only good for as long as you can follow it. Once you stop the diet you re-gain the weight. Hypnosis is permanent because it eliminates the causes of overeating, not just the symptoms." The same holds true for smokers where the need to prevent cravings for cigarettes or weight gain is just as important. Both problems are covered at the seminar, and each seminar leader is personally trained by Mr. Genthner. Further information can be obtained by calling, toll free 1-800-645-5454.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices, already under siege because of interest rate fears, fell further today on news that consumer prices rose at a double-digit pace in July.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, which plunged 20.46 Monday to a 13-month low, fell another 6.27 to 893.84 in the first three hours of trading today.

Losers outnumbered gainers by a 6-1 margin in the midday tally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues. Volume as of noon came to 25.7 million shares compared with 20.1 million in the first three hours Monday.

Before the market opened, the Labor Department reported that its Consumer Price Index climbed 1.2 percent in July, equal to an annual rate of about 15 percent.

The increase, the biggest in five months, was far larger than most analysts had earlier estimated and raised fears the Federal Reserve might tighten credit another notch, boosting interest rates still higher.

The news came as stock and bond prices already were falling from predictions that high interest rates will persist for some time. Open-market rates in the bond and short-term money markets shot upward Monday, and were mixed in early activity today.

Energy stocks were prominent in the most active list in early trading, with Exxon down 3/4 to 32 1/2, Atlantic Richfield off 3/4 to 48, and Cities Service down 1/2 at 60 1/4. Mobil, however, was up 1/8 at 28 1/2.

Also posting early declines were International Business Machines, off 1/4 at 55 1/2, and American Telephone & Telegraph, down 1/2 at 54 1/2.

The NYSE's composite index fell 0.84 to 72.08 in the first two hours of trading.

At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was down 4.67 to 347.85.

Obituary Column

Grady
Funeral services for Mrs. Esther Carr "Knot" Grady, who died Sunday, will be held Thursday at 4 p.m. at Philippi Church of Christ by her pastor, the Rev. Randy Royall. Burial will be in Brown Hill Cemetery.

Mrs. Grady was a native of Pitt County who spent her life in the Greenville community. She was a member of Philippi Church of Christ, which she served in the Senior Choir, on the program committee, and as a deaconess. She was owner and operator of Grady's Beauty Salon and a member of Cosmetologists Chapter No. 24 of Greenville.

Surviving her are her husband, Raymond Grady of the home; a daughter, Mrs. Esther Robinson of Tacoma Park, Md.; and two grandchildren.

H.B. Suggs Reunion Is Planned

The H.B. Suggs Charitable Organization will hold its Third Annual Labor Day Homecoming Banquet and Dance Saturday, Sept. 5, at the Ramada Inn here.

The banquet is scheduled for 5:30 p.m.; the disco dance for 9 p.m., according to Cleveland Vines of Washington, D.C., in whose home the planning committee for the event recently met.

Miss Viola Vines, a Suggs High School graduate and long-time Pitt County public schools teacher, will be the banquet speaker. Three supporters of the organization will be honored: Mrs. Rosa (Bell) Whitfield and Mrs. Josie Boyd, both of Farmville, and Eugene Bass of Washington, D.C. All three have children who graduated from Suggs School and all are active in the various chapters of the organization founded in 1965.

Various reunion classes will be recognized, including the Class of 1948 and the Class of 1951, both of which are expecting approximately 80 percent of their graduates to return. The oldest (based on the year he or she graduated) and the youngest graduate of the former high school will be recognized.

The music of the popular disc jockey, The Golden Boy, will set the tone for the disco dance.

Prices of participation are $11 for the banquet and $5 for the dance. Net proceeds will be used to support the organization's annual gifts of food baskets to needy families in this area at Christmas. Tickets may be obtained by contacting J.C. Hopkins, president of the Farmville chapter, at 753-3567 or any member of the chapter.

Harris

Mr. Raymond E. Harris, 63, died Monday in Duke Hospital in Durham. He resided at 1503 Ragsdale Road.

The funeral service will be conducted at 3:30 p.m. Thursday in the Wilkerson Funeral Chapel by his pastor, the Rev. Harry Grubbs, and the Rev. Floyd B. Cherry, a former pastor. Burial will be in Pinewood Memorial Park.

Mr. Harris, a native of Pitt County, graduated from the Belvoir-Falkland High School and had been a resident of Greenville for the past 40 years. He was a retired employee of Bilbro Wholesale Company and Kinston Wholesale Company.

A member of First F.W.B. Church, he served as head usher for many years and had served on the board of deacons.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Ruby Moore Harris; a daughter, Mrs. John W. Felix Jr. of Liberia, West Africa; a brother, Charlie Harris Jr. of Jacksonville; two sisters, Mrs. Johnnie Garris of Durham, Mrs. Verlon Joyner of Greenville; and three step-grandchildren.

The family will receive friends at the funeral home from 7-9 p.m. Wednesday.

Morgan

FALKLAND — Mrs. Nora Mae Morgan, 57, died early Tuesday morning at the home of her sister, Mrs. Thelma Jackson, Rt. 1, Macclesfield.

Funeral services will be conducted Thursday at 3 p.m. in the Falkland Church of God by her pastor, the Rev. Gordon Braxton. Burial will follow in Edgecombe Memorial Park, Tarboro.

The body will be taken from Community Funeral Home to the church one hour prior to the time of service.

Lamb

Mr. Ed Lamb, 60, died Saturday morning in Pitt Memorial Hospital. He resided in Greenville after his retirement from Seaboard Coastline Railroad. He was a native of Portsmouth, Va.

Surviving are his wife, Doris of Greenville; a daughter, Mrs. Ed Tipton II of Greenville; two sons, Ed Lamb Jr. of Miami and Tom Hettenbaugh of Key Largo, Fla.

A private memorial ceremony will be held in Florida.

McNair

BETHEL — Funeral services for Mrs. Hannah Barnes McNair of 311 Linclon St. who died Sunday at Pitt Memorial Hospital

Mrs. Morgan was the widow of John E. (Duck) Morgan, who died in 1973.

A native of Greene County, Mrs. Morgan lived in the Tarboro area prior to moving to the Falkland area several years ago.

She is survived by a sister, Mrs. Thelma Jackson of Macclesfield.

The family will receive friends Wednesday from 7-9 p.m. at the Community Funeral Home in Falkland and at other times will be at the home of Mrs. Thelma Jackson, Rt. 1, Macclesfield.

Parker

TARBORO — Mr. Fred Parker died Monday in Edgecombe General Hospital. He was the husband of Mrs. Maybelle Parker of the home. Funeral arrangements are incomplete at the Hemby-Willoughby Mortuary here.

The funeral service will be conducted at 2 p.m. Thursday in the Wilkerson Funeral Chapel by Dr. Howard G. James, Christian minister of Greenville. Burial will be in Greenwood Cemetery.

Mrs. Suggs lived most of her life in Greenville. She was married to Charles Bowen, who died in 1950, and they lived in Ormondville for several years. She was a member of the First Christian Church.

Surviving are two daughters: Mrs. Peggy B. Humbles of Carlsbad, N.M., Anne B. Jennette of Grifton; two grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

The family will receive friends at the funeral home from 7-9 p.m. Wednesday.

Club Planning Fair Booth

The Town and Country Senior Citizens Club held a luncheon and business meeting Thursday at the Holiday Inn.

The club will have a booth at the Folk Art Fair September 26 in the Greenville Community Building. Members giving handmade articles should bring them to the September 17 meeting.

A birthday luncheon will be held October 1 at St. Paul's Church Fellowship Hall.

Trips to Busch Gardens, Williamsburg, are planned in September. Members and friends wanting to go should make reservations by Wednesday noon by calling 752-2912.

Plans for a trip to the World's Fair are being completed. A few seats are left on the bus. Call 752-2912 for reservations.

New members welcomed to the club included Mrs. Ethel Williams, Mrs. Roberta Churchill, Mrs. Mary Hall and Mrs. Sarah Fleeman.

Sixty-one members and guests attended.

Equality Day Is Proclaimed

Mayor Don McGlohon proclaimed Wednesday, Aug. 26 as Women's Equality Day in Greenville and recognized "all women of... Greenville for their vast contributions."

Noting that the Constitution grants equality to all American citizens, McGlohon said that "women have made outstanding contributions to the knowledge and culture of humanity in fields such as science, medicine, government, nursing, welfare, education, literature, journalism, sculpture, architecture, engineering, drama, international relations, and aviation."

He said that "women of the United States have greatly influenced the course of human progress and should receive recognition for their contributions."

Hrbek's Debut Is A Winner For Twins

By The Associated Press
To Milwaukee's Cecil Cooper, it was just another night's work.

For Minnesota's Kent Hrbek, it was his greatest evening as a major leaguer. It also was his first...and one he'll have to go a long way to top.

While Cooper, one of the American League's best hitters, finally climbed over the .300 mark — he hit .352 last season, second best in the majors — with a 3-for-4 night as the Brewers edged the Chicago White Sox 5-4, the night really belonged to Hrbek.

He was one of the best hitters in the California League until Monday.

Hrbek, the Most Valuable Player in the Class A circuit with a .380 average, 112 RBI and 27 homers, had been told Saturday by Visalia Manager Dick Phillips that the Twins had called him up. Hrbek grew up near the Twins' home stadium in Bloomington, Minn. But the 21-year-old first baseman wasn't going to make his debut before friends and family at Met Stadium. Instead, he joined the Twins in New York to play the Yankees.

"Just walking down the runway and into the dugout and seeing Yankee Stadium was a big thrill," said Hrbek after his 12th-inning home run had lifted the Twins over New York 3-2. He also knocked in the first Minnesota run with an infield single in the fifth inning. "I was shaking a little bit but the guys said to stay cool. I thought, 'Hey if I go out there scared, I could get hurt.'"

The only ones to get hurt were the Yankees, as Hrbek wrote his own storybook ending to his memorable night.

"I knew they were gonna throw me fastballs because they had no book on me," Hrbek said. "He (reliever George Frazier, who hadn't given up a run in 13 innings since being called up from the minors by the Yankees) got the ball up a little bit and I happened to get around on it and it went. I knew I hit it good but I didn't start jogging right away. I started running like a rabbit."

"When I saw it was gone I just said 'Yeah!' to myself and slapped my hands together. I probably ran around the bases too fast."

Another Twins rookie who will remember Monday's game was Lenny Faedo, a 21-year-old shortstop also brought up from the minors on Monday. Faedo singled in the eighth, took second on an infield out and scored on a single by Dave Engle to tie the game 2-2.

Jerry Mumphy opened the game with a double for New York and scored on a single by Larry Milbourne, then singled home Graig Nettles in the seventh.

It was the Yanks' first extra-inning loss after six wins this year.

Brewers 5, White Sox 4
Cooper, batting only .196 in mid-May, drove in three runs with his ninth homer, a double and a single. He has 27 hits in 69 at-bats, a .391 average, since play resumed Aug. 10.

"I feel like I'm finally hitting as well as I did last year," he said. "I knew if I played long enough I'd be at .300 sooner or later. I'm seeing the ball as well as I did at the first half of the season, but my mechanics are a lot better."

Cooper's double and an RBI grounder by Ben Oglivie made it 2-0 Milwaukee after one inning. Oglivie singled in a run in the third and, after the Chicago had closed to within 3-2 with two fifth-inning runs, Cooper's 420-foot blast to right field made it 5-2.

Tony Bernazard hit his fourth homer in the White Sox seventh.

Royals 4, Tigers 2
Amos Otis had a homer and bases-loaded double and drove in three runs for Kansas City as Detroit lost for the first time since Aug. 13.

"When you come in against a team as hot as Detroit, the breaks seem to go their way," Otis said. "I knew we'd have to be at our best."

"I can't complain about the streak being broken," said Tigers Manager Sparky Anderson. "We played a heck of a ball game."

Willie Aikens also homered for Kansas City.

Rangers 3, Blue Jays 0
Texas snapped a three-game losing slide behind Doc Medich's six-hitter. The Rangers got 11 hits off Toronto's Juan Berenguer, who also hurled a complete game.

Buddy Bell singled in runs in the fourth and eighth for Texas and Al Oliver had an RBI single in the sixth.

"This is a team we feel we just have to beat," said Medich. "We have to beat the second division clubs on a regular basis if we're going to be a factor. The good clubs do."

Angels 8, Red Sox 6
A six-run sixth inning sparked California over former teammate Frank Tanana, who entered the inning with a four-hitter and a 4-1 lead.

With one out, Bobby Grich reached on third baseman Carney Lansford's error. Dan Ford and Don Baylor each singled to score Grich. Brian Downing's double scored Ford and Baylor. Bob Stanley relieved and Juan Beniquez singled off shortstop Glenn Hoffman's glove with Downing scoring the lead run. Beniquez went all the way to third on Hoffman's wild throw home and Bobby Clark followed with his fourth homer to give California a 7-4 lead.

Grich homered in the seventh for another California run.

A's 16, Indians 4

Rickey Henderson collected four hits, Mike Heath drove in three runs with three hits and Shooty Babbit and Jeff Newman also had three hits apiece as the Oakland totaled a season-high 20 hits.

Henderson, who raised his batting average to .331 with a 4-for-4 performance, led off the first with a homer. Newman and Cliff Johnson also homered for the A's, with starter Matt Keough allowing only two hits after the fourth for his ninth complete game.

Orioles 12, Mariners 8

Rich Dauer belted two home runs and drove in five runs, Al Bumby scored four times and Rich Murray had four hits, including a home run and three RBI for Baltimore. Dauer hit a two-run homer in the third inning and a three-run shot in the fourth.

Ken Singleton also homered for Baltimore, while Seattle's Jeff Burroughs connected for a grand slam home run, his ninth of the season and ninth career grand slam.

Richie Zisk added a solo homer for the Mariners.

No Predictions From New Coach As Conley Seeks To Snap String

By RICK SCOPPE
Reflector Sports Writer
HOLLYWOOD — D.H. Conley first-year coach Gerald Garner is offering no predictions, predicting no miracles.

Instead, Garner is looking for one thing: a victory. "I'm making no predictions," Garner said. "Our philosophy is to win one game. After we do that, we want to win two."

"If we can win a game early that could mean the difference in our season. We're hoping for a .500 season. If we do that I will be national coach of the year."

First, however, D.H. Conley must win one game, not the easiest task of late. The Vikings carry a 13-game losing streak into the 1981 season, a string that includes a 0-10-0 mark last year under second-year coach Jimbo Walker.

When Walker resigned at the end of the school year to return to his home state of Alabama, Garner took over.

Among Garner's first moves were to change from a veer to a slot-I on offense and from a 5-3 to a 5-2 on defense.

"The kids have been very receptive to the change," Garner said. "The point I've tried to stress is that the veer didn't work. If it had of we wouldn't have a 13-game losing streak."

If the results from the Vikings' scrimmage with Roanoke last Friday night are any indication, the change is working.

The Vikings "lost" the scrimmage to the highly-regarded Redskins, two touchdowns to one. However, Roanoke's last score came on the Redskins' final series. Conley, meanwhile, used its final offensive series to work on extra points.

"I was elated (after the scrimmage)," Garner said. "They are extremely big. (Roanoke coach) Nolan (Respass) said this is the best team he's had since his 2-A state championship team."

Garner was particularly pleased with his defense, which, at least early in the season, may have to carry the Vikings.

But what pleased Garner most was the attitude the Vikings carried out of the scrimmage with them. Said Garner: "We have two starters — Todd Rouse and Stacy McCarter — who have never played in a winning ball game, not a season but a ball game."

"Right now our kids feel they can win. I'm real pleased with the frame of mind we have."

Other than frame of mind the Vikings appear to have much going against them as they ready for Friday night's season opener at Washington.

Item: Of the first 19 players, only one weighs over 200 pounds — left tackle Stacy McCarter.

Item: Only three players are under 5.0 in the 40-yard dash. Tailbacks Jesse May (6-0, 168 senior) and Steven King (5-9, 165 sophomore) are the team leaders at 4.7 while senior fullback Isaac House (6-0, 165) runs a 4.9.

Item: The Vikings are, said Garner, "paper thin in depth."

Despite all this, Garner is more optimistic now than when he took over the program. "We're going through some growing pains at Conley. I expected the kids to be lifeless and subdued, but they're not."

Leading the Vikings on the offensive line is three-year starter Ray Crawford (5-11, 172). Crawford will play right guard this season after three years at center.

Junior William Paramore (5-10, 165) will man the other guard. Junior Gary Adams (5-10, 160) will start at center.

McCarter (6-0, 215) and senior Terry Nicholson (5-10, 199) are set at the tackles while junior Mike Long (6-1, 190) will be at tight end.

A two-way battle at quarterback is underway between seniors Jeff Manning (5-10, 150) and Doug McRoy (5-10, 165).

House (6-0, 165), a senior, will be at fullback while both Maye and King are expected to see action at tailback.

Seniors Greg Toler (5-6, 127) and Wesley Smith (5-10, 145) are fighting for wingback. Meanwhile, a three-way battle is going on at split end between Rouse (6-1, 175), a junior, Jeff Hudson (5-10, 160 senior) and Raymond Reddrick (5-11, 145).

On defense, Crawford and sophomore Leander Maye (6-0, 158) are set at defensive ends, Nicholson and Paramore at tackles and junior Earnest Roach (5-9, 170) at noseguard.

Long and McCarter are at

linebacker, where Garner feels the Vikings may be the strongest. "Long is a solid college prospect," Garner said. "He's a good one."

The secondary will include Reddrick, Toler, senior Dixon Page (6-0, 172) and either McRoy or Toler.

Rouse will do the punting for DHC while McRoy will kick extra points. Long will kick off and do the field goal kicking.

The Vikings, long members of the Eastern Carolina Conference, move into a new league this year, the Coastal Conference.

The CC includes perennial East power Havelock, along with White Oak and West Craven, which won the league crown a year ago. West Carteret and North Lenoir, which like DHC moved into the CC from the ECC this season, round out the six-team conference.

"They (Havelock) had 115 out for the first practice and they're loaded," Garner said. "They've got a six foot six, 260 pound defensive tackle."

Garner believes White Oak and West Craven will join Havelock in the fight for the league title. And what's in store for D.H. Conley? Said Garner:

"I'm from the old school. I believe hard work can overcome a lot of other things. We might be out-coached, in fact we probably will be in some games, but we're not gonna be out-worked."

"We need to win a game early and keep free from injuries. We're gonna need some breaks to help us do that."

Still Garner sticks by his philosophy: no predictions. For now, the first-year coach is just hoping the Vikings can end their 13-game losing streak — soon.

DHC Schedule

Aug. 28 — at Washington; Sept. 4 — Southwest Edgecombe; Sept. 11 — at North Pitt; Sept. 18 — Farmville Central; Sept. 25 — at Ayden-Grifton; Oct. 2 — OPEN; Oct. 9 — West Carteret; Oct. 16 — at White Oak; Oct. 23 — North Lenoir; Oct. 30 — West Craven; Nov. 6 — at Havelock.

Joe Frazier was originally listed as a sparring partner for the 1964 American Olympic boxing team. But he eventually got a chance to take part and won the gold medal in the heavyweight division.

Lengthy Process By Commission

A Staff Report

It may be longer than first expected before Pitt County will have its first professional boxing match because of the lengthy process required to formulate and then adopt the rules and regulations that will govern boxing in the county.

In the first step toward bringing boxing to the county, the Pitt County Boxing Commission last night appointed a three-man committee to examine the rules and regulations used by other boxing commissions in both the state and nation.

The committee, made up of ECU sports medicine director Rod Compton, ECU football team physician Dr. James Bowman and Ayden Middle School principal Gaston Monk, will report its findings back to the commission. No deadline has been set for the committee's report.

"I'm going to write the AAU and the New York boxing commission and a couple of counties in the state to see how they operate," said Ayden mayor Ross Persinger, who last night was elected to a one-year term as the commission's chairman. "From those we'll come up with a set of rules and regulations for Pitt County."

Persinger said after the committee comes up with a list of proposed rules and regulations the commission will meet to approve them. Once the commission adopts the rules and regulations it must report back to the County Board of Commissioners.

The county commissioners must approve the rules and regulations before a bout can be held in the county. The entire process could take up to four months, Persinger said.

"It's going to take some time," Persinger said. "It could be January before we've got it all completed."

In other action last night: Compton was named as the committee's vice-chairman while WNCT-TV sports director Jim Woods was named secretary and treasurer.

"The committee adopted the bylaws, set up by the state and county, under which it can operate. The 12-page set of bylaws include such guidelines as the times a bout can be held, when the committee must meet and how much the committee can charge a boxing promoter to put on a bout."

Phantom Out Makes Green Turn Red

By The Associated Press
Manager Dallas Green was long gone when Manny Trillo slammed a two-out, two-run homer that boosted the Philadelphia Phillies to a 13-inning victory over the Atlanta Braves. How long Green will be gone may be up to National League President Chub Feeney.

Green and Philadelphia shortstop Larry Bowa were ejected in the ninth inning from Monday night's game after what at first appeared to be an inning-ending double play.

Bowa grabbed Dale Murphy's grounder, ran to second base, then threw to first. As the Phillies started to leave the field, thinking they were going into the bottom of the ninth with a 4-4 tie, second base umpire Steve Fields ruled runner Chris Chambliss was safe at second as Atlanta's fifth run crossed home plate.

"He (Bowa) wasn't even close to tagging the base," Fields said. "The only thing I can tell you is he straddled the bag... He just flat missed it by six inches."

Bowa charged Fields, yelling at the umpire, waved his glove and slammed his hat to the ground. "I ran Bowa for throwing the glove," Fields said. Green raced from the dug-out, put himself between Bowa and the umpire, screamed at Fields, bumped him several times and grabbed the umpire's hat, knocking it off his head. Green finally was restrained by his players after he bumped Fields several times. Bowa also was restrained by his teammates and the other umpires as he tried to get at Fields a second time. "I ejected Dallas because he threw his hat and threw my hat," Fields said. "I've been in the game 25 years and seen that play 10,000 times." Green said of Bowa's "phantom tag" at second. "Five thousand times he (the fielder) touches the bag. Five thousand times he doesn't. But 10,000 times the runner is out. "Bowa touched the base." The shotstop later described Fields as incompetent. "I hit the bag with my heel," Bowa said. "If I didn't think I hit the bag, I wouldn't argue. I've never seen that call ever." The Phillies came back to tie the game in the bottom of the ninth and send the game into extra innings, setting the stage for Trillo's heroics. Another argument broke out after the game in the tunnel leading to the umpires' dressing room. Nick Colosi, the umpire-in-chief, turned on a television commentator, cussed him out and reportedly smashed what the commentator said was a $40,000 camera. Reds 2, Mets 0

Rookie Cincinnati right-hander Bruce Berenyi stopped New York on just two hits — a leadoff infield single by Mookie Wilson to start the game and a two-single by Ellis Valentine in the fourth. Berenyi retired 26 of the last 28 batters who faced him, striking out a career-high 12, including slugger Dave Kingman four straight times — the last time to end the game. "I certainly can't expect to pitch every game like tonight, but I'll get my share," Berenyi said. "I know sometimes I try too hard and I start to regress into last year's mistakes." It was Berenyi's third complete-game shutout of the season. He hurled a one-hitter — an infield single — against the Montreal Expos on June 7 and a two-hitter against the San Diego Padres on April 14.

home three runs in the first inning, walked to open the 11th. Tyson then batted for winning pitcher Lee Smith, 2-5, and delivered his game-winning blow. The Cubs had tied the score 8-8 in the ninth on Bill Buckner's two-out, two-run single. Earlier, Jerry Turner's pinch three-run homer and a two-run single by Ruppert Jones featured a five-run San Diego fifth inning.

For First Time, ABC Sports Is Looking At The Competition

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — ABC Sports, which boasts it is "recognized around the world as the leader in sports television," normally doesn't take time to glance back and fire at the competition.

So it was unusual when a publicist from ABC called last week to suggest CBS Sports was copying ABC's stories and rushing them onto the air. For the first time, ABC appeared to be looking over its shoulder.

Sports journalism on network TV for a long time has been the province of ABC's Howard Cosell.

But NBC has made strides under executive producer Don Ohlmeyer, and No. 3 CBS began making noises a year ago when Van Gordon Sauter became sports president.

CBS dumped many of its trash sports and revamped its weekend programming to include sports news, features and investigative reports.

In fact, Terry O'Neill, in charge of CBS' "Sports Saturday" and "Sports Sunday," used to work for ABC. He was highly regarded at ABC and had become producer of "Monday Night Football." Personal differences with Cosell and others led to his removal from that job prior to the 1980 football season.

Thus when ABC decided to launch "Sportsbeat," a sports-magazine show for Cosell, there were suggestions that its timing was inspired by CBS Sports' well-publicized new efforts.

In a recent interview, Cosell scoffed at the CBS competition. But doth Cosell protest too much? Do his put-downs mean something more?

A call from ABC spokesman Art Berke seems to suggest they do.

Berke called to say the premiere of "Sportsbeat," pre-empted by an extraordinary baseball game Aug. 16, would debut Aug. 30. By the way, he added, did you notice that CBS tried to copy all three segments scheduled for the Aug. 16 "Sportsbeat?"

The stories were: an interview with Russ Francis, the all-pro tight end who quit football; a look at the other side of tennis star John McEnroe, and why McEnroe decided not to play a big-money match in white minority-ruled South Africa, and an exclusive interview with heavyweight champion Larry Holmes on his upcoming fight with Gerry Cooney.

ABC contended that CBS seriously pursued Francis only after ABC snared him; was filming with McEnroe last week, and intended to have Holmes on live the night of Aug. 15, between halves of a football game.

Sounds like one-upmanship by CBS, right?

But CBS spokesman Jay Rosenstein said CBS had been trying all along to get the veteran Francis to explain his decision to leave the New England Patriots. And like NBC and ABC, the network was trying to hire Francis as a sports commentator. Reportedly, Francis has decided on ABC.

CBS did a major McEnroe piece after he won Wimbledon and was filming with McEnroe last week, Rosenstein said. But it was not because of the South Africa story that had been covered in detail by newspapers, but because CBS was doing a tournament and he was top seed.

And, not to be outdone, he added that Holmes had indeed promised to do the interview — but then had apologetically canceled when ABC threatened not to televise any more fights with Holmes or his brother.

ABC emphatically denied that it would — or could — browbeat a heavyweight champion, but it did say that "Sportsbeat" producer Alex Wallau merely asked Holmes how he could grant an exclusive interview to ABC and still appear on CBS the night before.

Calls to reporters and heavyweight fighters seem to say what ABC doesn't want to say aloud — the long-time leader in sports television is hearing footsteps on the sports beat.

Signals More Cost-Cutting

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The North Carolina Symphony will return to management by volunteer trustees in a series of cost-cutting measures that included the resignation of symphony president Dr. R. Max Abbott on Monday.

"I am very happy with what the staff has been able to do this past year," said Abbott, who became the symphony's first paid president in July. "I think the symphony is off to a good start this year, and I wish it well."

He said he agreed to change his original contract when trustees approached him about the board's change in policy.

Meanwhile, symphony controller Don Wall told the symphony executive committee that by matching last year's fundraising performance of $500,000 to $600,000, the symphony could remain in the black this season.

That wasn't enough under last year's longer season, as trustees were forced in April to cancel the final 24 concerts scheduled for 1981 when they ran short of funds.

But it will be sufficient for 1981-82 because of the sharp cut in spending called for in the new budget, Wall said.

"This isn't to say that we're in great shape, but I am saying that we have more realistic goals this year and I think we can meet them," he said.

Board chairman Nancy Faircloth called on her fellow trustees to spearhead the fundraising drive. She has asked all 39 trustees to contribute $1,000 over what they would normally give, and also to raise $10,000 apiece from private donors.

"If they come through with that, there's most of the money raised already without even going to the foundations," Wall said. "That's why I think the budget is reasonable."

After lengthy bargaining with musicians, trustees last month adopted a $2.2 million budget for 1981-82, making over $800,000 worth of cuts.

Included in the cuts were several staff and orchestra positions and several weeks of the concert season.

The original $3 million budget was based on last year's level of services and included funds to pay debts carried over from past years.

Wall said he expected fundraising this year to be an uphill battle because of the uncertain economy and the heavily-publicized strife between musicians and trustees. But early signs are favorable, he said.

"We've already gotten pledges totaling over $100,000 and we haven't even begun our major drive yet," he said. "I don't think that's necessarily a sign of things to come but it's nice to start off so well."

Only $87,000 had been pledged at this time last year, he said.
