Space Shuttle Crawling To Launch Pad

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Aerospace workers rolled the space shuttle Columbia today from the Vehicle Assembly Building toward its launch pad for an October lift off to become America's first craft to make a second manned voyage into space.

The vessel began its snail-like crawl to the pad at 4:45 a.m. EDT, 15 minutes ahead of schedule.

The Columbia and its mobile launcher had been mounted onto a huge, tractor-like "crawler transporter" for the 3½-mile trip to the same launch pad where its first historic mission began last April. The shuttle was fitted with new twin solid-rocket boosters and a new external tank.

"Officials wanted to start the rollout at an early hour in order to get the space shuttle to the launch pad and beat the late-afternoon thunderstorms which we have been having lately," said Mark Hess, spokesman at the Kennedy Space Center.

Moving at speeds of less than 1 mph with frequent stops, the space shuttle was expected to be locked down to the launch pad after noon.

The launch date has been moved back from Sept. 30 to Oct. 9 because of technical problems, officials revealed Friday.

Among the minor problems that caused delays were faulty ground support equipment and complications in completing tests and attaching the Columbia's rocket boosters and fuel tank.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration said launch-team work weeks are being cut from seven to six days and crews will be given the Labor Day weekend off to reduce the possibility of fatigue.

Astronauts John Young and Robert Crippen successfully piloted the world's first reusable spaceship on its maiden flight, a 54-hour orbital trip.

The ship's second flight, scheduled to last five days, will have rookie astronauts Joe Engle and Richard Truly at the controls. The shuttle is to carry a payload that will survey Earth's resources.

The astronauts also will limber up a remote-controlled, 50-foot arm that will deploy and retrieve satellites on future missions.

Columbia won't do that kind of work until after four test flights. NASA's current schedule has the first satellite mission slated for September 1982. By then, the second of a planned fleet of five shuttles, the Challenger, is expected to be at Cape Canaveral.

'Death To America' Chants In Tehran

Leadership Being Assassinated

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Chanting "Death to America," an estimated 1 million mourners jammed the streets of Tehran today for the funeral of Iran's president and prime minister, killed by foes of Iran's Moslem fundamentalist regime, reports from Iran said.

Striking at the heart of the clergy-led government for the second time in two months, dissidents exploded a powerful bomb Sunday afternoon that killed President Mohammad Ali Rajai and Prime Minister Mohammad Javad Bahonar.

Rajai had been president for 27 days. Bahonar was prime minister for 25.

Mourners also demanded death for ousted President Abolhassan Bani-Sadr as the funeral procession wound through the streets of the capital, carrying the bodies of Rajai and Bahonar from the Majlis, or Parliament, where they had lain in state, to the Behesht Zahra Cemetery on the outskirts of the city, the official Pars news agency said.

Addressing the crowd outside the Parliament, estimated by a Majlis spokesman to number about 1 million, a member of Parliament from the Tehran district, Hojatoleslam Sadeq Khalkhali, blamed the explosion on Bani-Sadr and his leftist supporters in the Mujahedeen Khalq, Iran's largest underground group.

The nation's patriarch, Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, called the assassinated president and prime minister's martyrs but said their deaths would not alter the course of his Islamic revolution.

"Today, with two of our great people martyred, there is mourning throughout the country," he said in a Tehran Radio broadcast from his Hosseinih Jamaran residence in Tehran. "The nation has maintained its unity and will do so. Tomorrow, when they announce presidential elections, all the nation will be prepared to vote."

Loud sobs could be heard in the audience as Khomeini continued, "If the president or the prime minister are martyred, our people will not turn a hair back."

The Tehran newspaper Kayhan said Rajai, 48, and Bahonar, 47, were burned beyond recognition by the incendiary that set fire to the prime minister's office. It said the bodies were identified Sunday night through dental records.

Earlier, a spokesman for Khomeini reported by telephone from the Iranian capital that Rajai and Bahonar died in a Tehran hospital of burns and smoke inhalation suffered in the blast and fire.

"It was to be expected," said Bani-Sadr. Rajai's ousted predecessor and now an exile in France. "It was themselves who prepared their deaths. They suppressed all freedom. Those who created the state of violence are the victims of their action."

In a recent interview with the New York Times, Bani-Sadr predicted that the Iranian government would fall if five men died, and Rajai and Bahonar were at the top of his list. He said the other three key figures were Hashemi Rafsanjani, the speaker of Parliament; Abdolkarim Musavi Ardebili, the chief justice; and Ayatollah Mohammad Reza Mahdavi Kani, the interior minister.

Khomeini's spokesman, who asked not to be named, said five other people were killed and 15 were injured in the blast and fire. However, Tehran Radio reported a total of four fatalities: Rajai, Bahonar, Massoud Kashmiri, an employee of the prime minister's office, and an elderly woman who was walking past the building at the time.

No group immediately claimed responsibility for the bombing. But there was speculation that it was the work of the Islamic-Marxist Mujahedeen Khalq.

Twenty Are Wounded In Terrorist Bombing Of Base In W. Germany

By SIEGFRIED KNAUER
Associated Press Writer
RAMSTEIN AIR FORCE BASE, West Germany (AP) — An explosion rocked the headquarters of the U.S. and NATO air commands today, wounding 20 Americans and West Germans, officials reported.

West German authorities said it appeared to be the work of terrorists who planted a bomb beneath an automobile. The blast came against a background of mounting anti-American sentiment among some Germans because of U.S. defense policies.

Two injured Americans were in serious but stable condition at the U.S. Army hospital in Landstuhl, where they were evacuated by helicopter, U.S. Air Force officials said.

Five other Air Force personnel and two West Germans were hospitalized but their conditions were not serious, the Air Force said.

The explosion occurred shortly after 7 a.m. local time and apparently came from an automobile parked in a lot in front of the adjacent headquarters buildings of the U.S. Air Force Europe and of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization air command, West German police said.

Witnesses said the bomb, which went off as the first stream of civilians and military personnel were reporting for work, shattered car windshields and blew out windows and interior walls in nearby buildings.

"Thank the Lord the explosion occurred before most people reported for work or we would have had a lot more injuries," an Air Force spokesman said. He said damage was extensive.

A spokesman at the West German Federal Criminal Office in nearby Karlsruhe told The Associated Press that German authorities believe the explosion was the work of terrorists, but he gave no further details. No group claimed responsibility.

"The cause of the explosion has not been determined," a brief Air Force statement said.

Security guards sealed off the post to all but "essential" duty personnel, spokesmen said, although they insisted operations at the base had not been impaired.

U.S. officials denied German radio reports that a second bomb was found near the base.

Today's blast was the second this month aimed at U.S. military facilities in Germany. On Aug. 18, small pipebombs exploded at a U.S. garrison in West Berlin, causing minor damage, but no injuries.

The attacks come amid growing anti-military and anti-American sentiment in West Germany, fueled in part by opposition to NATO plans for modernizing its missile force.

July Tax Take

Net sales and use tax collections in Pitt County in July amounted to $297,535, according to Mark Lynch, Secretary of N.C. Department of Revenue.

The July figure compared with $303,991 recorded in the county in May and $286,989 reported for June.

Neighboring county totals for May, June and July included: Beaufort, $187,008, $150,068, $151,282; Carteret, $169,638, $175,732, $195,225; Craven, $201,841, $213,335, $233,651; Edgecombe, $145,260, $146,042, $127,398; Greene, $20,916, $19,613, $19,787; Lenoir, $191,542, $187,339, $168,606; Martin, $64,864, $69,399, $73,755; Nash, $251,011, $234,393, $232,684; Wayne, $271,337, $245,561, $269,715; and Wilson, $223,884, $204,650, $218,144.

Lynch said total distributions in the 99 participating counties for July amounted to $19,140,475, compared with $18,713,971 for June and $18,902,571 for May.

AM I ENTITLED?

I was recently injured and at the moment am confined to the use of crutches and will be for some time. After I was able to drive, I found the use of the handicapped parking area provided by area merchants a blessing. Citizens who haven't had to use crutches will never know the problems encountered: walking in the rain, carrying your mail or opening a door. I have observed many persons abuse the handicapped parking areas by unnecessarily parking there, obviously not handicapped, just because it's the first space. The main post office in Greenville is a good example. It seems to me that the police should be able to ticket any car they observe parked without handicapped identification, or to approach the person to see if there is qualification to park there. Is it possible for a person who is temporarily handicapped to obtain handicapped identification in order to make use of the parking places?

Mrs. Anna Garris at the N.C. motor vehicles licensure agency at Home and Auto Supply here said you can pick up an application form from her office. The length of time of your handicap is not important, as long as you have your doctor's signature on the application form to verify the handicap and need for special parking privileges. She said it usually takes only a week or so to obtain the card indicating you are entitled to handicapped parking from the Department of Motor Vehicles. This card can be displayed on the dashboard of your car and moved from one car to another, if need be.

Co-Venture To Keep Nurses At Pitt Hospital

By CAROL TYER
Reflector Staff Writer
Pitt County Memorial Hospital, the schools of nursing at Pitt Community College and East Carolina University and the Eastern Area Health Education Center have inaugurated a "co-venture" to enable PCMH to retain new graduate nurses.

The Co-Venture Nurse Retention Project will get under way about the time new nurses graduate from ECU, PCC and other schools of nursing next year, project director Virginia Tate said.

Ms. Tate is coordinator of nursing education at Pitt Memorial.

The project will be designed, she said, to help new nurses, during their first six months of employment, integrate themselves into the work setting of the hospital. It will provide specific learning experiences that relate directly to hospital nursing. Nursing schools, she said, must prepare the students for nursing in all medical care settings. This program, in contrast, will be entirely hospital-oriented, with emphasis on particular areas of specialization in which individual nurses may be working.

There will be a research aspect to the project in that some new nurses will be given the benefit of the project, while others will not,

No Grumbling

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — The price of bread, flour and cereals skyrocketed by 300 to 400 percent today but Poles appeared to be taking it in stride despite warning strikes and demonstrations that preceded the increases.

"Everyone seems to be taking it calmly," said one shopkeeper selling loaves of crusty brown bread. A similar mood was evident in visits to several such bread shops in this capital of 1.5 million people. Some said the price was fair and others who thought it too high argued that the quality would not improve.

Government attempts to bring food prices more in line with production costs had set off bloody riots and strikes in 1970 and 1976.

City Energy - Saver Project Finished

The city reported that installation of energy efficient improvements to the Municipal Building and headquarters fire-rescue station have been completed.

City Manager Ed Wyatt said the improvements included adding a new roof with a layer of insulation at city hall and insulating the attic of the fire-rescue facility. The improvements, he added, are expected to reduce electrical consumption and have an investment return of about two and a half years.

Wyatt said that during the 1981-82 fiscal year, the city plans to make several other energy efficient improvements at city hall. The improvements, recommended in an energy audit completed in the spring, include installing storm windows, installing hand valves to reroute heat from infrequently used areas, adding room thermostats and clock switches to prevent overheating, rerouting heat generated from equipment in the computer room and radio room to heat the lobby, and installing supplementary heaters for offices used at nights and on weekends so that central heating units can be turned off when other offices are closed.

The city manager said it is estimated that the energy efficiency measures have an investment payback of 3.9 to 5.6 years.

Venture Project outline, "large shifts of personnel necessitate expensive retraining, modestly estimated at $866 per nurse and repetitive orientation programs."

A recent study by the North Carolina AHECs indicated that the hospital nursing shortage has reached "crisis proportions," particularly in Eastern North Carolina. And Pitt Memorial, because of its nature as a regional referral medical center, has particular needs and problems. And there are stresses not found in smaller community hospitals.

"It used to be," Ms. Tate said, "that a nurse would have a few patients she was responsible for, four or five doctors who looked in on these patients twice a day, and the rest of the day she

Report On 3 Center Clients

Case Histories of Three Career Development Center for Displaced Homemakers Clients

1. At time of enrollment, aged 23, separated from husband, four children, including twins 1 year old; 11th grade education. Previous work — cashier, waitress, both for minimum wage. Drew Aid for Families with Dependent Children. Unemployed for several months prior to enrollment. After graduation, entered unsubsidized employment with area highway construction firm as a grading crew member at $4 per hour averaging 50 hours a week. Says in follow-up that sometimes her men co-workers get on her nerves but she's learned to stand up for herself. Adds she "loves seeing all the things I've learned to do."

2. At time of enrollment, aged 27, separated from husband, one child 5 years old. High school diploma. Previous work as clerk-typist and in factories. Was drawing unemployment compensation until beginning program. Initially entered unsubsidized employment with lumber company, but has since enrolled in summer school at East Carolina University under non-traditional admissions program. Has done well and began fall semester as second semester freshman. Not sure of major yet, but has lots of time to decide, she feels. Says she wants to sample everything first. Stops by the center often to catch staff up on what's happening with her and is excellent model for other participants. Talks of problems being an older student, but says feels good among classmates. Very determined to succeed. Still receives AFDC, but hopes education will make the difference. "I was motivated before," she said, "but the program gave me a sense of control over my own life. Now I know what each of my next steps will be."

3. At time of enrollment, aged 42, divorced after four marriages, two teen-aged children, living with her parents, in and out of mental health treatment. Previous work as secretary/clerk/typist and as teacher's aide. High school, plus one year of technical school. Upon completion of program, was employed by local agency in CETA training slot. Knew this job was "not type of work I want to do permanently" but felt it was a stepping stone to real goals. In August, landed job as assistant manager of chain business. Hopes to transfer to another area of country with same firm in short while. Has been able to get and maintain an apartment. Scores from post-tests on self-concept, personal orientation, career maturity and attitudes toward sex role were markedly higher than on pre-test. "I feel that this program was well worth driving 100 miles a day for," she said. "I've learned a great deal and am now more self-confident and prepared for hunting and maintaining a job."

Sisters United For First Time

By MARJORIE ANDERS
Associated Press Writer
JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — The meeting was long overdue. But when two sisters who had been put up for adoption as babies were united for the first time at the Jackson airport, they didn't need any introductions.

Lynne Skinner, 41, and Nancy Irwin, 36, have been searching for each other for most of their lives. Two weeks ago, Mrs. Skinner got a tip from a friend of the family that led her to her sister.

"The thing that is wrong is the way the laws keep you apart, the files you can't see. If we had been able to open the (adoption) files, we would have been together years ago," said Mrs. Skinner as she held her sister around the waist Sunday.

To make up for lost time, "we've been on the phone at least three times a day," Mrs. Skinner said. "I'm going to have to sell a cow to pay the phone bill."

Each woman had believed she had only two sisters. There were six children in all; two others have been found, two remain anonymous. All had been put up for adoption.

Mrs. Irwin, the youngest of the six, flew from her home in Salina, Kan., to visit Mrs. Skinner at her chicken farm in Magee, Miss.

"This is the best thing that ever happened to me," said Mrs. Irwin.

"I feel terrific," said Mrs. Skinner.

Although they have found each other, both said they will continue the search for their other two sisters.

But they are not expecting any help from their natural parents.

"The natural parents tell us nothing but lies," said Mrs. Skinner. Before they separated, the natural parents lived next door to Mrs. Irwin, hiding their true identity.

The people she had called mom and dad were really her aunt and uncle. Her "aunt and uncle" next door were her real parents.

"It's hard to explain how you feel about someone who has kept you apart for so long," said Mrs. Irwin as she and her sister walked arm in arm.

At one time, Mrs. Irwin said, all six sisters were living within 50 miles of one another.

"Mother lived next door, she could have told us," Mrs. Irwin said. "Six girls would have been a lot of fun."

Although they are bitter about their parents, they did not let that dampen their joy at finally being reunited.

Career Center Hunting Local Funding

By CAROL TYER
Reflector Staff Writer

The Career Development Center for Displaced Homemakers may be displaced or done away with as of Oct. 1 if local sources of funding are not found, Director Amelia Peebles says.

The center, which opened Oct. 1, 1979, with a two-year funding grant, has done women of this area a world of good, Ms. Peebles said, and thus has improved the community in general. She says she can document her contention that the program has saved the taxpayers much more money than it's cost, if only in terms of welfare payments and other public funds saved.

"The women who've come to us — 15 each six weeks," she said, "are those who haven't worked in many years. Most are facing major changes in their lives — some are recently widowed, some recently divorced or deserted, some facing the need to support their families themselves because of disabled husbands. Many are either on public assistance or would have to go on it soon. We help them learn how to cope in the world of work, what their job skills are, how this new responsibility will affect their lives and those of their families. Then we help them either get jobs or get into training for specific jobs."

"We have 82 percent positive placement." That is, she said, "82 percent of all we've worked with are now gainfully employed, off public assistance, dependent on themselves alone or very nearly so and planning to be in the not-too-distant future."

This program, one of several in the state, was supposed to have been for all of Eastern North Carolina, but it's Pitt County residents who have benefited the most, Ms. Peebles said. "It just has worked out that way," she said, "because of transportation and child care considerations. We've had a few from other counties, but women just aren't going to go but so far away from home for this kind of training. They have to think of their children and transportation's a big problem for almost all of them."

Ms. Peebles said the grant has included money to help participants with transportation and child care. Asked if she believes the program could continue without these kinds of aid, she said, "I doubt it. As badly as pre-employment training is needed by some women, they just wouldn't be able to avail themselves of it till they could be sure their children are taken care of and, of course, if they didn't have a way to travel to the center."

Recruitment was supposed to be a major part of the program, Peebles said, but it hasn't been needed. "We've kept about 50 people on the waiting list all the time," she said, "with lots of referrals from local agencies. These agencies are going to miss us if we cease to exist. We've helped them improve the lot of whole families by helping them help these women."

It takes $100,000 a year to run the program, Peebles said. Asked if she knows ways the cost can be cut, she laughed ruefully. "I'm the one who went over it with a fine-tooth comb and cut it $32,000 a year already," she said. "I don't see much more that can be deleted."

Peebles said she hopes everyone in the community who knows the importance of the program will contact the county commissioners about taking over its funding. The Council on the Status of Women, which originally petitioned the county commissioners to approve the program's being located here, are working to this end, she added.

Jean Darden, a member of the Council on the Status of Women, confirmed Peebles' statements and said that the council has made numerous inquiries about funding, but so far has found none. Anyone with suggestions may contact her or any other council member, she said.

Admit Fault In Sub's Collision

TOKYO (AP) — The United States today told Japan it blamed "inadequate command supervision" and "extraordinary" coincidences for the April 9 collision of a U.S. nuclear submarine and a Japanese freighter, which sank.

U.S. Ambassador Mike Mansfield personally delivered a final U.S. report on the mishap to Foreign Minister Sunao Sonoda and expressed official regret for the collision in which the captain and the first mate of the cargo vessel were killed.

According to U.S. Embassy spokesman William Maurer, Mansfield told Sonoda the Polaris missile submarine USS George Washington was clearly at fault in the mishap, and that the coincidences — bad weather, the closeness of the two vessels and the sub crew's preoccupation with its training mission — "do not excuse what happened."

In a news conference today, Sonoda said, "The American report honestly and fully replied to questions which the Japanese have had, and it correctly recognizes the fault of the submarine."

The incident prompted strong official Japanese protests because the submarine left the scene of the collision without attempting to rescue the crew of the foundering cargo ship, the 3,500-ton Nissho Maru, and did not report the incident until the following day, after the surviving 13 crew members were rescued by a Japanese destroyer.

The United States earlier accepted liability and agreed to negotiate compensation claims by the shipowner, survivors, and families of the two men who died.

was on her own with little interaction with people other than her patients.

"In a medical center, that same nurse, even with the same number of patients, has many more doctors to deal with, medical students accompanying her and the doctor on rounds very often, numerous other health profession students to supervise and/or work with, and many more visitors who come in throughout the day. This constant interaction with many other people, coupled with illnesses that are often more serious in a referral center, combine to create great stress with which she must learn to deal.

Stress is only one of many considerations that will be dealt with in the project. This year will be used to gather data and develop the program, Ms. Tate said. The size of the project, she said, will depend largely on whether a grant can be obtained to bolster it.

The grant is being applied for through the Program on Access to Health Care, a consortium made up of three private foundations — the Duke Endowment, the Kate B. Reynolds Health Care Trust and the Z. Smith Reynolds Foundation.

The sponsors hope this project will be as successful as the project after which it is patterned, one completed in the late 1970s by Dr. Sandra J. Weiss in eight hospitals in the San Francisco area.

Dr. Weiss developed learning packages, which were used in a quasi-internship or residency program, to assist newly graduated nurses into their transition to staff nurses in the eight hospitals. Research findings associated with the project indicate that the effort did what it was proposed to do — improve new nurse retention rates, decrease hospital costs associated with turnover and probably improve nursing productivity.

Eastern AHEC hopes that the new graduate retention strides made at PCMH as a result of this project can be replicated at other hospitals in the Eastern Region, and ultimately throughout the state.

On Register

The North Carolina Department of Cultural Resources has notified the City of Greenville and the County of Pitt that the Robert Lee Humber House has been entered in the National Register of Historic Places.

The Humber House, donated to the city and county by the Humber family, is located at the corner of Fifth and Washington Streets. It is the homeplace of the late Dr. Robert Lee Humber and has been leased to the state for a regional office in the Division of Archives and History.

In his letter of notification, William S. Price, Jr., State Historic Preservation Officer, stated that "the National Register has been called a roll call of the tangible reminders of the history of the United States. It is, therefore, a pleasure for the Division of Archives and History to participate in this program and thereby make our nation aware of North Carolina's rich cultural heritage."

Hit-Run Death

A 25-year-old Gritton man, Kevin Matthew Snee, was fatally injured by a hit and run driver as he walked across Greenville Boulevard about 2:05 a.m. Sunday.

Greenville Police, 2½ hours after the mishap, arrested William Ray Ward, 28 of Statesville, on charges of hit and run driving, death by vehicle, and driving under the influence.

Chief Glenn Cannon said a van allegedly driven by Ward struck Snee as the Gritton man walked across Greenville Boulevard, 4 mile East of the Evans Street intersection.

The chief, who said friends of Snee had a motorist follow the van and get the license number, noted that officers took Ward into custody at a motel on Memorial Drive after locating the van in the motel parking lot.

Snee, who was taken to Pitt Memorial Hospital following the mishap, died in the emergency room of head injuries.

The collision caused an estimated $300 damage to the van, according to Cannon.

Ward was jailed under $2,300 bond pending a hearing of the case in court.

Wedding Vows Said In Ceremony Sunday

Jerri Lynn Tripp and Charles David Phillips were united in marriage Sunday at 3 p.m. in the Oakmont Baptist Church here. The Rev. E. Gordon Conklin officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Edward Tripp Sr. of and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne West Phillips, all of Greenville.

A program of wedding music was presented by Miss Tammy Stocks, soloist and Mrs. Gail Crisp, organist.

The bride was given in marriage by her parents and escorted by her father. She wore a formal gown of white silk organza and chantilly lace over peau de soie fashioned with a fitted bodice. Queen Anne neckline adorned with pearls and a keyhole back. A lace cuff closed the full bishop sleeves. A panel of accordion pleats bordered with re-embroidered chantilly lace enhanced the skirt front continuing around the cathedral train which featured a panel of chantilly lace down the back of the skirt and train. Her waltz length veil of silk illusion was bordered with chantilly lace and attached to a Juliet cap of lace and pearls. She carried a formal Williamsburg bouquet of bridal white miniature carnations accented by orange delight sweetheart roses, baby's breath and lace bridal streamers. The bride carried a lace handkerchief that belonged to her maternal grandmother.

Mrs. Denise Tripp of Greenville, sister-in-law of the bride, was honor attendant and wore a formal gown of silesta knit with a print blouson tunic and apricot skirt. She carried a bouquet of orange delight silk roses, orchid silk apple blossoms and natural dried gypsophila tied with satin streamers.

Bridesmaids were Michelle Fleming of Stokes, cousin of the bride, Dawn Phillips, sister of the bridegroom, Charlene Harper and Devere Buck, all of Greenville. They wore formal gowns of apricot silesta knit styled with a blouson print bodice with sunburst pleated skirts. They each carried a single orange delight silk rose with orchid silk apple blossoms accented with satin streamers. The attendants wore clusters of apple blossoms and gypsophila in their hair.

The father of the bridegroom was best man and ushers were Jett Tripp, brother of the bride, Ronnie Cox of Greenville, Ed Jones of Snow Hill and Keith Phillips, cousin of the bridegroom of Wilmington. Junior ushers were Chip Fleming of Stokes and Lee Stocks of Bethel, cousins of the bride.

The mother of the bride wore a formal gown of daphne rose silesta knit with a three-quarter chiffon jacket. She wore a wrist corsage of matching sweetheart roses. The mother of the bridegroom selected a formal gown of dusty rose qiana with a chiffon cape. She wore a wrist corsage of pink sweetheart roses.

Mrs. Rachel Barnhill, Mrs. Mildred Tripp, grandmothers of the bride, Mrs. Alice James, great grandmother of the bride and Mrs. C. M. Harrell, grandmother of the bridegroom, were remembered with carnation corsages.

The wedding was directed by Mrs. Phyllis Fleming, aunt of the bride. Mrs. Gail Jordan presided at the guest register.

The family of the bride entertained at a reception in the fellowship hall of the church after the wedding. Mr. and Mrs. Billy Fleming, aunt and uncle of the bride and Miss Sheryl Harrell, aunt of the bridegroom, greeted guests.

Mrs. Linda Hales, aunt of the bride, poured punch and Mrs. Evelyn Stroud served cake. Nathan Barnhill, cousin of the bride, passed out rice bags. Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Barnhill, aunt and uncle of the bride, said good-byes. Mrs. Alice Wilson assisted with the reception.

ROBERSONVILLE — Lisa Anne Thomas and James Henry Haislip were united in marriage Sunday at 3 p.m. in the First Baptist Church here. The Rev. James O. Hagwood performed the double ring ceremony.

A program of nuptial music was presented by Craig Everett, organist and Mrs. Norma Casper, who sang "May Each Day," "The Wedding Song" and "The Wedding Prayer."

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Thomas of Robersonville are parents of the bride and Mr. Herbert Haislip of Rt. 2, Robersonville, is the father of the bridegroom. His mother is the late Mrs. Bernice Hopkins Haislip.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, selected a formal gown of white organza over white peau de soie designed with a scalloped Queen Anne neckline outlined in schiffli embroidered lace enhanced by silk Venise lace motifs. The center of the bodice was adorned with a beaded embroidered insert with panels on each side of silk Venise lace that extended past the waistline. Bridal covered buttons were featured at the center back closure. The full bishop sleeves were accented with scalloped embroidered lace with appliques of Venise lace. The modified A-line skirt and attached chapel train were accented by a flounce of embroidered schiffli lace, rising in the back to the waistline with a crystal pleated ruffled hemline. Her headpiece was a Venise lace caplet with a waltz length veil of illusion. The hand rolled border was accented by Venise lace motifs. The bride carried a semi cascade bouquet of roses, cushion poms, pixie carnations and daisies.

Dynita Haislip of Greenville was honor attendant and bridesmaids were Imogene Young of Chesapeake, Va., Kathy Thomas of Raleigh and Martha Knox of Robersonville, sisters of the bride and sister of the bridegroom, Bernice Ann Hardison of Robersonville.

The honor attendant wore a formal gown of lavender silesta styled with a portrait neckline outlined in lavender silk floral Venise from which fell the ruffled bertha collar of scalloped chantilly lace that extended over the empire bodice. The skirt of the sleeveless gown was styled with a gathering in back. She carried a basket of mixed flowers. Bridesmaids carried colonial nosegays of mixed flowers and wore lavender gowns designed like that of the maid of honor. They wore floral hairpieces.

Mrs. Kay Kilpatrick of Robersonville was mistress of ceremonies.

The father of the bridegroom was best man and ushers included Jerry Thomas of Stokes, brother of the bride, Mike Reason of Raleigh and Danny Reason of Williamston, cousins of the bridegroom and Gary Hardison of Robersonville, brother-in-law of the bridegroom. The ring bearer was Matt Thomas of Robersonville, nephew of the bride.

The couple will live near Robersonville after a wedding trip to unannounced points.

The bride graduated from Martin Academy and Martin Community College. She is employed by Southern Bank

Couple Marries Recently

WILLIAMSBORO — The wedding ceremony of Katherine Hicks Campbell and Drury Sprull Jenkins took place Sunday, Aug. 23, in St. John's Episcopal Church here. The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Harrison Simons at 3 p.m.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Jack H. Campbell of Oxford and Mr. Vergil Carroll Jenkins of St. Petersburg, Fla. and Mrs. Sudie Spain Jenkins of Greenville.

The couple was given in marriage by their parents. The honor attendant for the bride was Nannette Yale of Wilson and bridal attendants were Heather Jenkins and Mrs. Michael Hatcher of Greenville, both sisters of the bridegroom.

Carroll Jenkins of Greenville, cousin of the bridegroom, served as best man while ushers included Eddie Hatcher, nephew of the bridegroom and Edward Bunting, both of Greenville and Arthur Campbell of Oxford and Morganton, brother of the bride.

A program of wedding music was presented by John Whitener, who played the organ and harpsicord, Mrs. Michael Alexander, organ, Dr. Rodney Schmidt and Mrs. Ridgely Robinson, violins, Harold McKinney and Mike Murphy played the trumpets and trombones were played by Richard Norment and Bill Jones.

The bride wore a gown of white organza which featured a split neckline and yoke of petite point lace, bishop sleeves with elongated cuffs and a raised waistline. The skirt had an insert of crystal pleated organza in front and the skirt and attached chapel train were edged in re-embroidered chantilly lace. She wore a lace wide brimmed hat with a satin ribbon and carried a cascade bouquet of white roses, daisies, stephanotis, lavender daisies, baby's breath and springerli.

A reception and cake cutting followed the ceremony and was given by Mrs. R. K.

Hylar, Mrs. Bernard Lee, Mrs. Lee Campbell, Mrs. Mary Baynes and Mrs. Allen T. Freeman. The reception was held at the home of the bride's parents.

The bridal couple rode from the church in a horse drawn carriage to the home of the bride for the reception.

A wedding brunch was given by Mr. and Mrs. Clark Mitchell, aunt and uncle of the bride at Lassiter House Sunday morning and a rehearsal dinner was given by the mother of the bridegroom at the Holiday Inn, Oxford.

The couple will live in Greenville after a wedding trip to Orlando, St. Petersburg and St. Augustine, Fla.

The bride and bridegroom are both seniors at East Carolina University.

Behave ... Or Walk

Greenville City School board has adopted a strong set of rules and regulations governing students who ride the city buses, and the drivers also.

While the rules are clear, they are not unreasonable.

Passengers are prohibited, for instance, from hitting, pushing, pulling or otherwise distracting the driver.

Fighting is prohibited, and the possession of any weapon intended to inflict bodily harm is not to be allowed.

Neither passengers nor drivers are allowed to use or possess alcohol or illegal narcotics or controlled substances while on the busses.

There are a number of other rules spelled out for conduct on or around school busses. Penalties for their violation are provided for with appropriate periods of suspension from bus riding privileges.

Privileges is the proper word. School busses are provided at great expense to the taxpayers so that school children can be transported to school. It should be a student's right to ride the busses without fear of harassment or bodily harm. We think the new set of regulations provides very well for the safety of the passengers. What is important now is that the rules be enforced. No bus rider can claim ignorance of the rules, and anyone who doesn't wish to abide by them should walk to school.

Balanced Activities Best

Too much stress has long been recognized as something that can cause problems for the human body.

Stress can cause fatigue, insomnia, headaches, back tension, irritability, decrease in appetite and stomach problems.

But, Asheville psychologist Ann Weber points out, without any stress, we would die.

Another psychologist Benny

Goodman, said balance is important. "You need to work and you need to play. If you work real hard, you need to play real hard."

As with some many things balance is the key word. Too much stress can leave us with physical problems. No stress at all can cause us to lose our edge and our alertness.

A good balance of work, recreation and sleep once again proves its worth.

THIS AFTERNOON

World Fair Fever

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH — World's Fair Fever has eastern Tennessee and western North Carolina already firm in its grip.

The radio and television air waves are filled with information, restaurants and motels are making reservations at a rapid clip, and local chambers of commerce are lining up special tours and promotional events to coincide with the international exposition.

Knoxville is the site of the fair which will feature an energy theme. Don't let the educational and serious side of the six-month exposition fool you, however. People from all over aren't booking motel rooms at double the standard rate just to learn about energy.

There'll be a Sun Sphere strapping into the skies of the Great Smokies foothills featuring a restaurant, cocktail lounge and observation deck.

Pavilions from at least 11 foreign nations and dozens of states in this country will display their local customs, dress, food and entertainment.

Investment
The 70 acres of fair space which is remaking downtown Knoxville and will remain as a commercial, entertainment, recreation complex for future years will draw millions of visitors. Even the interstate highways leading to the city are being reworked at a cost of $225 million. Of course this meant tearing down some intersection motels, but replacing those are modern motor inns with nearly 1,500 rooms.

Only the skeletons are in place now, but the front desks report still unfinished rooms already solidly booked for the fair's opening next May.

What all this will mean to North Carolina is largely dependent upon the imagination and hard work of a lot of people already drawing promotional and transportation plans.

The General Assembly put up $150,000 to be split among 11 western counties on a hotel and take the bus through the park — about a two-hour ride.

Promotion
Soon, travel advertisements throughout the southeast and midwest will be pushing North Carolina as the most desirable spot from which to take in the World's Fair. Billboards will inform motorists that the shuttle bus service is available and that stopping short of the Tennessee line can pay dividends.

Business and civic leaders from western North Carolina communities, besides raising promotional funds, are making trips to Knoxville for a firsthand look at the fairgrounds and to collect brochures and schedules so they can help next year's guests prepare for their visit to Knoxville.

The top attraction, though, will be North Carolina's age-old hills. A day or two eating foreign food and visiting exhibits is about all the average visitor will want of the World's Fair.

For fairgoers east of the Smokies, the North Carolina mountains will probably provide the best place to stay, given the overbooking and over-pricing already taking place on the Tennessee side.

Why not, the promotional campaign will say, vacation in the Tar Heel mountains where the hustle won't be quite so strong, and make your fair visit a day trip. To cut into the impact of gas prices and congested highways, a number of communities are lining up chartered buses to run on a regular schedule.

If visitors stay in Asheville or Waynesville or Maggie Valley, for instance, they can leave their cars at the local

The Changing Scene

Every five or 10 years the country goes merger crazy. The Conoco-Du Pont deal is just the tip of the new iceberg. When Wall Street starts looking for companies to gobble up they are worse than gypsy moths.

The other day I called Gnu Computers to speak to a pal.

The operator who answered the phone said, "Good Morning, Hybrid Sun International."

"I'm sorry," I said, "I must have the wrong number. I wanted to speak to someone at Gnu Computers."

"Hybrid just took over Gnu Computers an hour ago," she replied. "I can put you through to your party."

"I want to speak to Walter Lyons."

"Walter Lyons speaking."

"Are you all right, Walter? I hear you were taken over an hour ago by Hybrid Sun International."

"That was an hour ago. A half-hour ago, Stellar Joints merged with Hybrid, and we're now part of Stellar, Hybrid, Inc."

"Is that good or bad?"

"It depends. Miller High Life is now talking to Stellar's lawyers and we'll know in an hour whether we're working for High Life or SoBol Oil which is offering our stockholders $85 a share."

"That's a pretty good price," I said.

has been taken over by Piccolo Instruments out of Baton Rouge, La."

"They used to be," I told him. "But Piccolo was bought by a Canadian investment firm in Toronto last month."

"Then," said Lyons, "that means I'm working for Canadians."

"It seems to me the Wall Street Journal said the majority of stockholders in the Canadian firm were Dutch and West Germans," I told him.

"Look, I better call you back, I've got Hong Kong on the other line."

He got back to me in an hour.

"Who was that in Hong Kong?" I asked.

"That was a Mr. Wu. He just bought out the Canadian Syndicate."

"You're now working for someone in Hong Kong?"

"I guess I am, unless Disneyland makes us a better offer."

"We have as much time left as this country takes to elect a president," she says.

Ms. Smeal and Ms. Cotner say they sense a backlash developing among women against President Reagan and what they see as his retreat on affirmative action programs intended to assure women equal access to jobs, pay and athletic fields.

"I never thought I'd be thanking Ronald Reagan, but he's helping us," Ms. Cotner says.

Phyllis Schlafly, ERA's most prominent foe, says ERA's heyday has passed. She predicts the amendment will never come as close to passing as it now stands.

"I don't think it would get through Congress again, and if it did I don't think they'd get five states to ratify it," Mrs. Schlafly says.

The drive to guarantee women equal status with men was, along with the civil rights and antiwar movements, one of the major social causes of these times. But the tide turned against ERA; the country's mood turned conservative.

Although 35 of the required 38 state legislatures voted to ratify ERA, none has approved it since Indiana acted on Jan. 24, 1977. Even an extension of the original deadline for ratification was little help.

Meantime, Tennessee, Idaho, Nebraska and South Dakota voted to rescind their approval, putting their status in doubt. Kentucky also voted to take back its approval, although that action was vetoed.

"I've seen corpses in a morgue that looked livelier," says Illinois state Rep. William Redmond, an ERA supporter, and Speaker George Ryan, a staunch opponent and father of triplet girls, agrees. "It's going nowhere," he says.

In North Carolina, another state on which much hope was pinned, state Sen. Helen R. Marvin said, "While there's life, there's hope." But he added: "It looks bleak."

Feminist leaders say they know the odds, but they are not giving up. They are dug in, they say, for the long haul.

Found Self In Hornet Nest

By WILLIAM M. WELCH
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — If Edgar Peters Bowron didn't know he'd stepped into a hornet's nest as new director of the North Carolina Museum of Art, he learned it last week.

Bowron, hoping to soon move North Carolina's art collection into its new $17 million home, complained publicly that an arrangement by the Art Museum Building Commission, the architect and the builders had left he and his staff unable to get inside the new building enough to plan the move.

That stirred the anger of chairman Thomas J. White, who used the commission's meeting last week to indirectly criticize Bowron for complaining and to launch into a prepared attack on newspapers and critics of his rule.

"I only want to get into the building," Bowron said afterwards. "I am a museum director."

It was unusual, said Bowron, who took the job this year, that "the North Carolina Museum of Art is powerless to affect the course of this building."

Unusual, perhaps, but the flap was really nothing new. The commission's restriction on access to the near-completed building is only the latest chapter in a long series of controversies that have surrounded North Carolina's state art museum.

The story goes back 14 years, when Gov. Dan Moore appointed White to head the commission overseeing the building of a new art museum. Since then, the slow emergence of the new art museum has been shaped and dominated by White, 78, a veteran eastern North Carolina figure and former Democratic state senator whose power in state government was legend in the 1960's and who has kept much clout through his absolute rule over the building of the museum.

"Of course there have been a whole lot of problems, which maybe he aggravated and maybe he didn't," said Lawrence J. Wheeler, deputy secretary of Cultural Resources. "But if it hadn't been for Senator White's power in the legislature, there wouldn't be a new building at all."

"Of course he's used to managing affairs in a fairly autocratic way, but with ultimate success, I think," added Wheeler.

The General Assembly created the building commission in 1967, with the terms of White and others to run until the building was complete. No one then thought it would still be in business in 1981.

But the commission bogged down on the question of where to put the museum, with White the leading advocate of a site away from the central city. Opponents argued that an art museum should be in the downtown area, where it has been housed in an old state office building.

But when the commission finally decided on the site next to the Polk Youth Center prison near Interstate 40, White undertook complex negotiations and closed the deal three weeks after the site was made public — and one day before his ally, Gov. Bob Scott, left office.

More controversies and delays have followed, and it wasn't until last year that the legislature finally consolidated the state art museum structure, where authority had been splintered among four different boards.

Now the opening date for the new museum is still unknown, although the building was dedicated in a ceremony earlier this year. Disputes between the architect and contractor over walls, flooring and other details may delay completion for several more months, and Bowron says he needs a year or more to move the collection, which he contends is deteriorating in the heat of the old building.

Meeting last week, White continued to exercise a strong rule. There was virtually no public discussion by any of the panel members — they listened to White, who provided no public explanation for most of the delays.

That style has been characteristic of White over the years. So, too, was his denunciation of the press as "monopolistic news creators" and his repeated "no comment" responses to reporters. Asked why he wouldn't comment on the public agency's dealings, White said, "Because I don't want to."

White, who continues to practice law in Kinston, was also chairman of the commission that directed construction of the state Legislative Building. It opened in 1963. Reporters were initially banned from the Senate floor, and longtime legislative observers still talk about that move, crediting White with engineering it. That same year, according to newspaper accounts, he scuffled with a reporter and delivered an hour-long speech against the press from the Senate floor.

Some say his dislike of the press dates to the mid-1950's, when newspapers gave him the nickname "Whammy." That resulted from his introduction of a bill to curtail the use of radar speed detectors, called whammies, by the Highway Patrol. White, it was soon reported, had been nabbed by a whammy shortly before introducing the bill.

White's power grew in the 1960's, as he served 10 years as chairman of the powerful Advisory Budget Commission. During those years he also was chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, guiding through Gov. Terry Sanford's sales tax on food, and later chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee for three years.

He continues to be seen daily in the General Assembly even now, as a lobbyist for the tobacco industry.

Other Editors Say Drop A Line

(Forest City Courier)

If you're the type who dutifully sends little personal notes to friends and acquaintances at appropriate times you may want to write to...

— Walter Parris, fiscal director of North Carolina Memorial Hospital in Chapel Hill (a commendation would be appropriate). The huge hospital spent $5.9 million less than it was appropriated in state tax money for operating expenses last year.

The facility used "every dollar we got from patient receipts" to operate the hospital, said Parris, and "we didn't use up all of our state appropriation just because it was available."

Admirable...
— J.B. Archer, the immediate past chairman of the N.C. Employment Security Commission (condolences are in order), and his former aide, Dollie L. Smith (suggestions might be helpful).

Archer got his pink slip from Gov. Jim Hunt recently, leaving Ms. Smith with $1,000 worth of framed, color photographs of Archer which she had ordered to be placed in the ESC's 55 main offices.

She said she did plan to salvage the frames, which cost $8 apiece, but at the moment, her best idea is to have the portraits recycled and turned into scrap paper.

If you need a little something out of the ordinary to write your grocery list on, you might get in touch with her...

Strength For Today

BEING SUCCESSFUL
A national magazine recently published an article describing how a young man can rise to success in a big business establishment.

It appears that when a newcomer becomes a junior officer, he must move to a new section of town, get a new automobile, join different and swankier clubs, and drop his modest companions of former days. The step is even bigger when the junior officer becomes a senior officer.

Hierarchies of this kind are hateful to all right-thinking people. Friendships built on anything else than the bonds of shared tastes, attractions, and ideals constitute a prostitution of something noble. They are no better than calculated exploitation.

As a matter of fact, the world is always eagerly waiting for people who have the courage to be themselves. They should, of course, acknowledge the restraints and civilities of good manners. But with these restrictions, let us just be ourselves; and success will take care of itself. — Elisha Douglass

How's The Weather?

WEATHER FORECAST — Showers and rain are expected in the forecast period until Tuesday from the central and eastern Gulf to the upper Great Lakes. Cool weather is expected for the northern and central Plains. Warm weather is forecast for most areas. (AP Laserphoto Map)

By The Associated Press
More sunshine and less rain were predicted for North Carolina through Tuesday, compliments of a high pressure system located off the New England coast.

As the high moves in, the National Weather Service said, it will replace an area of low pressure that brought considerable cloudiness to the state over the weekend would move further out to sea.

While that system was stagnant off the Georgia coast, scattered showers and a few thunderstorms were reported, although most were light and brief. On Sunday Williamston received a downpour in which 3/4 inches accumulated in a 24-hour period. But other points received much less, with Greensboro reporting seven tenths of an inch and six-tenths at Rocky Mount.

Temperatures Sunday were generally in the low and mid 80s, although Jacksonville reached 89 degrees, followed closely by Fayetteville at 88. And Hot Springs topped the state with a 90-degree reading. Meanwhile, mountain readings ranged from highs in the 60s at the higher elevations to low 80s in the foothills.

Overnight and early morning fog developed in many regions as temperatures dipped into the 60s and low 70s across the state.

The recreational weather outlook called for partly sunny skies and few showers through Tuesday, with an increasing chance of precipitation over the mountains by Tuesday night heralding an advancing cold front over the Mississippi River Valley.

As that front moves into North Carolina, the threat of showers will increase throughout the week, while temperatures will average in the 80s for the next several days.

Fourteen Dead In N.C. Wrecks

By The Associated Press
Weekend traffic accidents claimed the lives of 14 people in North Carolina, including a triple fatality near Sparta and a four-person fatality east of Rocky Mount, the state Highway Patrol said Monday.

A 15-year-old Virginia youth was in serious but stable condition Sunday after surviving a single-car accident that killed three people Saturday night. A spokesman for Twin-County Community Hospital in Galax, Va. said Michael Hawks of Woodlawn, Va. underwent surgery in the night.

He was pinned under the wreckage in an accident in which Dennis Hawks, 25, of Woodlawn, Deborah Diamond, 17, and Karen Andrews, 16, of Galax, died along the Blue Ridge Parkway.

Park Ranger Dean Richardson said the car was traveling at a high rate of speed when it left the road and struck a tree. The Highway Patrol reported that two Rocky Mount residents, a Brooklyn, N.Y. man and a Tarboro woman were killed when their cars collided head-on east of Rocky Mount on U.S. 64.

The victims were identified as Marion Anthony Casper, 36, Betty West Casper, 33, both of Rocky Mount, Mary Ethel West, 72, of Tarboro and Marvin Battle, 36, of Brooklyn.

In other accidents Saturday, Tommy Joe Hicks of Gastonia, 17, was killed in a one-car accident south of Belmont in Gaston County and Parlie Irene James, 66, of Hillsborough died when the car she was riding in turned into the path of another car east of Hillsborough.

Utilities Meet Tuesday Night

The Board of Commissioners of the Greenville Utilities Commission will meet Tuesday night to consider and act upon electric rate adjustments due to a wholesale increase in the cost of electricity by the utilities' supplier, Virginia Electric & Power Co.

The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the board room of the Utilities Building at the intersection of Fifth and Washington Streets.

Caught With Marijuana

Randy Lee Brown, 18 of Route 8, Greenville, was charged with possession of marijuana following a 10:35 p.m. incident here Saturday. Investigators said Brown was arrested after officers found an estimated $15 worth of marijuana in his possession in an alley behind JJ's Music Hall in downtown Greenville.

Troutman, George Mc Guffie Huff, 42, of Eden, died when the motorcycle he was driving struck a concrete culvert on N.C. 770 two miles east of Eden. And Tony Lee Galyean, 23, of Kernersville died at 3 a.m. Saturday when the car he was driving hit an embankment on Interstate 40 in Winston-Salem and overturned.

The death toll for the year now stands at 914, compared with 1,121 reported this time last year.

2nd Thoughts After PATCO

By MERRILL HARTSON
AP Labor Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — While labor leaders deny it, President Reagan's firing of illegally striking air traffic controllers is certain to force members of other public employee unions to think twice before walking out.

The shock waves caused by the administration's mass firing of 12,000 air controllers were evident in last week's overwhelming ratification by postal union members of a new three-year contract with the Postal Service.

The most significant impact of Reagan's hard line toward the air controllers union may be seen this autumn when local government leaders — facing shrinking federal funds — must cope with increasingly militant teachers' unions.

David Denholm, president of a conservative Washington lobby group, said he thinks Reagan's actions will embolden school superintendents and other local officials to deal more sternly with strikes by public employees, which are legal in only eight states.

The American Federation of Teachers, saying some 44,000 of its members face layoffs as public schools reopen this fall, forecast difficult contract negotiations in such cities as Boston and Philadelphia. It said teachers are threatening strikes in both cities.

But tough talk is being tempered with a recognition of reality within the public employee unions.

Linda Lampkin, research director for the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, which recently led Minnesota state employees through a 22-day strike, said she feels state and local government leaders will now "use everything they can and the impact of public opinion. The swing to the right will cause major problems for us."

Labor peace at all levels of government, ironically, may hinge more on Reagan administration budget policies than on the president's stern response to the air controllers' strike.

State and local government leaders likely will be forced into hard-line stands with unions because of limited funds for education and a host of other services.

That stark reality, rather than any inclination to make points with the voters, will likely impel governors, mayors and school superintendents to adopt Reagan's no-nonsense posture toward strikes by government workers.

Union leaders are reluctant to discuss the impact of the air controllers' strike. Moe Biller, the feisty, militant leader of the American Postal Workers Union, denied the rank-and-file vote sprang from fear of a similar confrontation and loss of work.

That was no surprise; union leaders want the troops to believe contracts with management are approved because the top officers have done a good job of negotiating wages and other benefits.

In fact, Biller and Vincent Sombrotto, his opposite number at the National Association of Letter Carriers, both former New York local union presidents, ascended to the top of the two unions because of rank-and-file dissatisfaction with earlier contract settlements.

On the record, top labor leaders charge that Reagan's handling of the strike by the Professional Air Traffic Controllers Organization smacks of union-busting and they assert that it will only make organized workers in the public work force more militant than ever.

That can't be reconciled, however, with the acknowledgment by one union official of the impact Reagan's harsh handling of striking controllers had on a postal contract that many said was in danger of defeat.

"Regardless of what the union leaders say, members are scared by this controllers thing," said Eugene Polanski, a national field officer of the APWU.

The Reagan White House bristles at assertions by PATCO President Robert E. Poli, the AFL-CIO and others that the administration is engaging in a campaign to break up federal employee unions.

"This is not a union-busting administration," said White House adviser Robert A. Bonitati. "This is not a union-busting president."

He said the controllers' strike was "a very unique situation. There are very few unions or organizations upon which the commerce of this nation is dependent, and the air traffic controllers union is one of them."

"If you tolerate an illegal federal strike, who knows what will happen in the future," Bonitati said, adding that Reagan would have violated his own oath of office to uphold the laws if he had taken any other course of action.

Sunday Saw 4 Accidents

An estimated $3,900 property damage resulted from a series of four traffic mishaps investigated by Greenville Police yesterday.

A car driven by John Samuel Barwick of 1301 Cotanche St. collided with a parked car owned by Patricia Ann Corey of 401 East 13th St. about 2:50 a.m. on 13th Street, 50 feet West of the Charles Street intersection, investigators said, causing $500 damage to the Barwick auto and $800 damage to the Corey car.

Cars driven by Daniel Wayne Stone of 300 Lewis St. and Laura Ann Daughtry of 602 Wright Hall collided at the intersection of Eastbrook Drive and Greenville Boulevard, causing $500 damage to the Daughtry car and $800 damage to the Stone auto.

Police estimated damage to a car driven by Ben Austin Bishop of Farmville at $800 after the car collided with a tree about 3:05 a.m. on Elm Street, 75 feet North of the Fifth Street intersection.

Phillip Henry Sendel Jr. of 505 East Fifth St. was charged with operating left of center following investigation of a 6:45 p.m. mishap on Jarvis Street, 30 feet South of the Fourth Street intersection.

Investigators said the Sendel car collided with a vehicle driven by Marshall Hill Yount of 403 Jarvis St., causing $200 damage to the Sendel car and $300 damage to the Yount auto.

Death Believed Traffic Related

FALKLAND — A Falkland man was killed near here around midnight Friday while allegedly sitting in the highway.

Highway Patrolman G. D. Britton identified the man as Jolly Jones Jr., of Falkland. The investigator said the man was found by a passing motorist and was dead at the scene.

Britton said an autopsy performed Sunday indicated the man died of head injuries. The trooper said Jones was apparently sitting on the edge of the roadway with his back to the road. There were no marks or debris on the highway indicating an accident but the incident was apparently traffic related.

The accident occurred on N.C. 222 just outside the Falkland town limits.

Investigation of the death is continuing.

Debate Continues On Duke's Nixon Library

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — With the debate over a proposed Richard Nixon memorial library at Duke University scheduled to be resolved this week, people on both sides of the issue are getting in their last shots.

Nixon, who graduated from the Duke University Law School in 1937, became its most illustrious alumnus with his election as president of the United States. But many remember him now as its most infamous alumnus, since he became the first president to resign from the office in 1974.

So far, trustee emeritus Charles S. Murphy has resigned as a result of what he called a "foregone conclusion" accepting the library. And Pulitzer Prize-winning graduate William Styron ("The Confessions of Nat Turner") has sent in a letter protesting the proposal to the trustees.

Faculty members are holding meetings Monday and Thursday to discuss the issue and the 12-member Duke trustee executive committee is supposed to decide the issue by Friday.

"Duke is a great university and just doesn't need this," Styron said. "I wouldn't call what is happening at Duke a crime against humanity, but it's incredibly bad taste."

The Nixon papers are certain to have historical value, but the Duke history department has some of the most vocal opponents.

The proponents argue that the papers are more important than any consideration of a memorial.

James B. Duke Professor Reynolds Price, a novelist and Duke graduate, said Watergate-spawned misgivings about the library "will last only as long as the generation who personally remembers Watergate. And once we're all dead, the university would have on its doorstep a tremendous resource for historians of a very long and important period of American history."

But, he added, "I don't click my heels at the thought of driving past the Nixon library, but I don't think my personal feelings are important when weight against the long-term value of the archives."

Law school Dean Paul Carrington said the school has not shied away from Nixon, who contributes regularly and made three generous donations in the past year. A Nixon scholarship is awarded annually.

"Mr. Nixon is an alumnus; he is one of us. We can't deny it," he said, adding the current undergraduates don't feel as strongly as the older graduates who went through Watergate.

Interviews with 10 incoming freshmen at Duke showed seven in favor and three opposed.

J. Porter Durham Jr., president of the Associated Students of Duke, and E. Powell Osteen Jr., a Duke senior and member of the university board of trustees, endorsed the library.

"I think the Nixon papers are of great value, especially for their negative symbolism and the fact that we can study that period, a period that should no happen again," Osteen said.

Cars Collided

At Intersection

Cars driven by Thomas Keith Rollins of Farmville, and Mary Lynn Nelson of Route 4, Greenville, collided about 9 p.m. Saturday at the intersection of Evans and Reade Streets.

Police estimated damage from the collision at $600 to the Rollins car and $2,000 to the Nelson auto.

Receiving New Scout Program

Adult Cub and Boy Scout leaders in Pitt County will begin the Fall scouting program Tuesday with a meeting at 7:30 p.m. at the Red Oak Christian Church.

Cub Pack and Scout Troop leaders will receive a program list for the new Scouting year at the meeting, Scout Executive Bob Mosley said.

There are now 57 Cub Packs, Scout Troops and Explorer Posts serving 1,200 boys in the county.

BATTERED BY RAINS

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — Fourteen people died and six others were missing today in landslides and cave-ins triggered by torrential rains that battered southern and central South Korea, officials said.

Arrested On Pot Charge

Greenville Police arrested Gail Terry Pierce, 24 of Robersonville on charges of possession of marijuana following a 12:10 a.m. incident in a parking lot at the intersection of Fourth and Cotanche Streets Sunday.

Officers said Ms. Pierce was charged after a quantity of marijuana, valued at $35, was found in her possession as she sat in a car in the lot.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market advanced broadly today, responding to a prime rate reduction by a large New York bank.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials rose 2.47 to 894.69 by noon. Gainers outnumbered losers by close to a 3-1 margin in the broad tally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Chase Manhattan, the nation's third largest bank, lowered its prime lending rate today from 20 1/2 to 20 percent.

Stocks of telephone and electric utilities, which would stand to benefit from lower interest rates, were actively traded.

American Telephone & Telegraph rose 1/2 to 56 1/2, and Commonwealth Edison 3/4 to 20 3/4. But Pacific Power & Light dropped 3/4 to 18 1/2 and Continental Telephone was down 1/4 to 15 1/2.

The NYSE's composite index rose 36 to 72.33. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up 3.60 to 358.40.

Volume on the Big Board totaled 15.57 million shares at noon, against 17.66 million at the same point Friday.

Mt. Olive Rescue Team Is 7th In Competition

MOUNT OLIVE — A Mount Olive Rescue Service team placed seventh in international heavy duty rescue competition in Toronto, Canada Friday during the 34th annual conference of the International Rescue and Emergency Care Association.

An Exxon Oil Co. team from Benicia, California took first place in the competition, while the Hoffman-LaRoche Rescue Squad — a team from the Roche Chemical Co. in Nutley, N.J. — took second place.

The defending international heavy duty rescue champions from Exxon's Bayway, N.J. plant placed third, while the team from Exxon's Baton Rouge Louisiana refinery took fourth place. The Lambertville, N.J. Rescue Squad placed fifth, while a team sponsored by the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Co. took sixth place.

Only 350 points separated Mount Olive and the first place Benicia team, while 900 points separated Mount Olive from the eighth place Cheraw, S. C. rescue squad entry. An Exxon team from Lago, Aruba in the Netherlands Antilles off the coast of Venezuela placed ninth.

Approval Of Billy Carter

NEW IBERIA, La. (AP) — The brother of the former president thinks the current one is doing a pretty good job.

In fact, Billy Carter says he hopes Ronald Reagan gets to keep running the country a bit longer than his brother, Jimmy, did.

"He's the first president that has had some control over Congress since (Franklin D.) Roosevelt," Carter said. "I hope they let him run it for a while."

Carter, who stopped here on a promotional tour for a home trailer company, also said a financial investigation of his finances and connections with the Libyans has left him bitter.

"I have no respect for the Senate or Congress," he said. "I have no respect for the Justice Department."

He said the Justice Department investigation was a political move aimed at ousting his brother from office. But he said he doesn't believe the probe was the reason for Jimmy Carter's election loss.

"I'm sure I didn't get him beat in 43 states," said Carter. "I ain't that strong."

Pope Plans To Revisit Poland

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Pope John Paul II, whose visit to his homeland in 1979 touched off a torrent of national pride, will return to Warsaw next year, Polish television has reported.

The Rev. Jozef Platek, head of the Pauline monks, said in an interview Sunday that he had traveled to Rome to invite the Polish pontiff to visit on the 600th anniversary of the establishment of the Black Madonna shrine in Czestochowa.

"The holy father received us cordially and with joy," Platek said. "It will be the highlight of our celebrations."

The priest gave no specific date, but the main celebrations at Poland's most revered Roman Catholic shrine are expected to be held next August.

Orientation Set At School

The Lutheran Church Nursery School, located at Our Redeemer Lutheran Church on Elm Street, has set orientation dates for children pre-registered for the 1981-82 school year.

Judge Earl Britt, in an Aug. 20 ruling, said the 1977 lawsuit raised serious constitutional questions about a specific state law, which stipulates that one of every eight persons elected to the board be a member of a minority race.

Britt ruled the plaintiffs lacked standing, meaning they had no vested interest in the election procedure since they had never tried for appointment to the board.

One of the plaintiffs, state Rep. Reid Poovey, R-Catawba, said the decision would be appealed.

Basing the election solely on the basis of race, the lawsuit alleged, deprived the plaintiffs and others of equal protection under the law. All the plaintiffs are white.

The same law also provides for election of women and members of the minority political party in the General Assembly. The law suit did not challenge that aspect of the law.

The plaintiffs were Poovey, nne N. Cochran and David Andrew Boona of New Hanover County, and Raymond Allen Warren of Mecklenburg County. Warren was a student at UNC-Wilmington when the suit was filed.

UNC Suit Dismissed

She is survived by four sons: William I. Rogers, J.B. Rogers, David Rogers Jr., all of Greenville, Octavius (Tony) Rogers of the home; three daughters: Mrs. Paul Bess, Mrs. Bruce E. Sutton, both of Greenville, Mrs. John A. Perrotta of Villa Park, Ill.; two brothers: Grover Perry of Hamilton, Stancill Perry of Grimesland; a sister, Mrs. Ruby P. Perry of Virginia; 13 grandchildren and 17 great-grandchildren.

The family will receive friends at the funeral home from 7-9 p.m. Tuesday and at other times will be at the home of Mrs. Paul Bess on the Pactolus Highway.

School Board Meets Tuesday

The Pitt County Board of Education will meet on Tuesday, Sept. 1 at 2 p.m. in the third floor conference room of the Pitt County Office Building (old hospital) 1717 W. Fifth St.

Items on the agenda include a suggested tuition agreement for non-county students attending Pitt County schools.

Rogers Sinks Birdie On 18th For Series Victory

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Bill Rogers knew exactly what he faced standing on the 18th tee in the World Series of Golf. The gallery tipped him that Tom Kite had missed an opportunity to take the sole lead. "I heard their reaction. I knew Tom didn't make birdie," Rogers said. "Now I had my chance. I hit a very good tee shot. I couldn't have put my 5-iron approach in better position. "I had a 15-foot, slightly downhill putt with a little left to right break. If you had to pick a putt to win a tournament, that would be it." Rogers, drawing on the experience he gained from a second-place tie in the U.S. Open and a victory in the British Open this year, calmly sank the putt for a 3-under-par 67 Sunday, a total of 5-under 275 and a fat payday of $100,000. He beat Kite by a single shot, and the runnerup was not surprised. "I figured he would make the birdie," said Kite, who watched Rogers putt. "He's awful good. He played very well this week. You've got to hand it to him." It was not an altogether disappointing week for Kite. He earned $55,000 with a finish of 67-276 and took over the Vardon Trophy lead with a low-stroke average of 70.01 this year. For Hale Irwin, the leader or co-leader after all of the first three rounds, it was a demoralizing finish. He slipped to a 72 and a total of 278, tied for third place with Japan's Isao Aoki. They earned $27,850 apiece. Aoki shot 67. Irwin three-putted 17 to fall two strokes behind and leave the race to Rogers and Kite. "I'm very disappointed," Irwin said. "After last week (Buick Open victory) and this week, I'm emotionally drained. I feel like I've been run over." For Rogers, it must seem like a dream. The 29-year-old Texan has vaulted into the PGA Player of the Year race. He ranks sixth on the money list with $270,411 behind Ray Floyd's leading $346,385. He has won three times, capturing the Heritage Tournament before the British Open and the World Series. "By winning a major, you are putting pressure on yourself," he said. "People expect you to do well. What a way to relieve that pressure by coming here and winning. Everything about this year is unbelievable. "I've developed a lot of confidence. Every time you get up there in contention, you learn to handle the pressure better. What a great frame of mind I'm in." Rogers started the day at Firestone Country Club two shots behind Irwin, but charged into a share of the lead with Kite on the 13th hole. Rogers dropped a 35-foot birdie putt, while Irwin was bogeying the hole with three putts from 35 feet. "I got my chance at 13," the champion said. "That's where I broke through. Hale certainly was the one we were trying to catch all day. He kind of let it get away down the stretch." Kite, finishing in the top eight for the 13th time in his past 14 tournaments, missed birdie bids from 12 feet at 16 and from 15 feet at 18 that would have forced a playoff. "But putting was what got me back in the tournament. I putted marvelously in the last two rounds," said Kite, who stood 3 over par after 45 holes, six shots from the lead, before his rally. Jack Nicklaus continued as a non-winner for the second time in three years. He scrambled to a 74 for 283, tied for 10th place with Curtis Strange, eight shots behind Rogers. Tom Watson, the defending champion, fared even worse. He had 74-283. So did Lee Trevino, finishing with a 71.

Ken Stabler

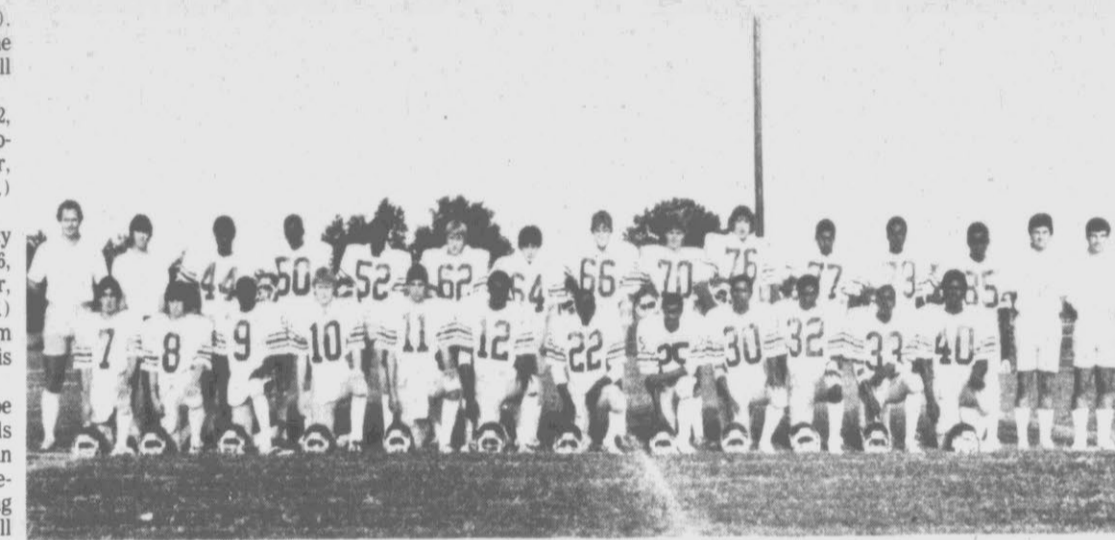

NFL Investigating Stabler's Ties With N.Y. Bookmaker

NEW YORK (AP) — Houston Oilers quarterback Ken Stabler's reported association with a known gambler is being investigated by the National Football League, which plans to make a statement as soon as possible, says Executive Director Don Weiss. According to a report in Sunday's editions of the New York Times, Stabler, one of the NFL's top signal callers, repeatedly associated with convicted bookmaker Nicholas Dudich of Perth Amboy, N.Y., in the late 1970s despite warnings from Oakland Raider officials. "The investigation into the overall thing goes back a few weeks," Weiss said Sunday night. He added that the NFL had investigated Stabler previously. "The league had indications (of Stabler's association with the gambler) as far back as 1978." Weiss said the indications had come from the Raiders, the team for whom Stabler played before being traded to the Houston Oilers in 1980. Weiss said the NFL's security department is handling the investigation adding, "We are going to do this as expeditiously as possible." Stabler, who retired just before the Oilers' preseason camp opened only to re-sign last week, refused to comment about the allegations. "If the media would leave me alone and let me play football everything would be all right," Stabler said Saturday night. Dudich, when reached by The Times, said: "I went to some football games, that's all." The Times story said inquiries with federal and local law enforcement officials, as well as with Raiders officials, disclosed that Stabler's association with Dudich began and grew during his last four seasons with the Raiders. According to the Times, Stabler was subjected to physical surveillance and other investigations in Oakland and later in Houston by federal agencies after the Raiders won the Super Bowl in 1977. However, the newspaper said the federal investigations, which now have been terminated, proved inconclusive. The investigations reportedly focused on Stabler's associations with Dudich. Enforcement officials said such associations are not illegal and that Stabler has not been accused of any crime. If there is a connection between Stabler and Dudich, Stabler would be in violation of NFL rules prohibiting players from associating with known gamblers or gambling activities.

Chargers Out To Challenge In ECC

By WOODY PEELE, Reflector Sports Editor
LITTLEFIELD — Ayden-Grifton High School after losing its first four games of the season last year, did a little readjusting, switched a few things around on offense, and won four of its last six games. For this reason, plus the fact that seven starters return on offense and eight are back on defense, the Chargers are looked on by the rest of the Eastern Carolina Conference members as one of the challengers for this year's championship. Coach Dixon Sauls isn't counting his wins, however, but he does feel that Ayden-Grifton does deserve the role of challenger.

Doug Coley (6-0, 152, So.), Koonce could also see some backup duty at fullback to spell Jackson. Derrick Atkinson (5-9, 162, Jr.), a converted guard, appears the best bet for center, but David Lister (5-11, 160, So.) also has a chance at it. Others who could see duty include Jackie Conway (5-6, 127, Fr.) at wide receiver, Bobby Hardesty (5-8, 153, Jr.) at guard, and Ricky Bynum (5-9, 150, Sr.) and Terry Ellis (5-9, 151, Jr.) at the ends. "I think we are going to be versatile on offense," Sauls said. "We have a veteran quarterback and wide receiver, and an outstanding fullback in Jackson. I feel we'll have a balanced attack: we can run inside and outside and we can throw."

Ayden-Grifton Chargers

But, he warns, having most of those returning starters, plus the newcomers going both ways, could wear the Chargers down. And injuries could prove fatal to the A-G hopes. "We really only have 12 lettermen back from last year's team," he noted, "and we just have 25 on the team, so we're mighty thin. Depth is one of the biggest factors we're going to face this year. We were hoping to have more people out, but they just didn't show."

Defensively, eight people are back, but many of the same numbers appear in the lineup. Strickland will be one of the backs, while Arnold and Smithwick are at the ends — Arnold being moved from linebacker last year. Jackson and McCotter return at tackles, while Craft is back at a guard spot. Cleveland Coley and Koonce are at linebacker, with Koonce having been moved from end.

J.R. To Return To Houston Tuesday

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston pitcher J.R. Richard, who faced long odds of even leading a normal life after falling to the Astrodome turf with a near-fatal stroke, takes another step Tuesday toward his dream — to pitch again in the major leagues. Richard, one of the most feared pitchers in baseball before his stroke last July 30, will be reactivated Tuesday, the Astros announced Sunday during a game against Philadelphia. The National League team also said they will reactivate troubled first baseman Mike Ivie, who had been on the its disabled list while recovering from mental exhaustion. Neither Richard nor Ivie was available for comment on the team's announcement. Choosing his words carefully, Manager Bill Virdon said Richard could pitch as soon as Tuesday against the New York Mets. "He's ready to be activated and he said he'll go along with any decision we make," Virdon said. "I told him it just depends on what happens down the road. If the right circumstance arises, he may pitch Tuesday. If not, it could be Sept. 25. Rookie Catcher Helping Revitalize 'Tame' Cubs

By The Associated Press
The Chicago Cubs were the tamest team in the National League before the baseball strike. Suddenly the Cubs are acting like tigers. "We just couldn't get a break," says rookie catcher Jody Davis. "Now we're getting a few."
They're also making their own breaks — as Davis did Sunday while collecting three singles and knocking in two runs as the suddenly revitalized Cubs beat the Los Angeles Dodgers 2-1. "It seems like the first half was a hundred years ago," said Chicago Manager Joe Amalfitano.
Before the strike, the Cubs had won only 15 of 52 games, the least amount of victories in major league baseball, and finished last in the National League East, 17½ games behind. Starting over with the split season, they're now only two games out of first place in the National League East with an 11-9 record, tied for third with the New York Mets.
The Cubs earned a split in their four-game series with the Dodgers despite relatively low run totals in the last two games. On Saturday night, they beat the first-half NL West champs 3-1. "Who would've thought a club would've scored five runs in two games and win both games?" asked Dodger outfielder Dusty Baker.

The Cubs took a 1-0 lead in the fourth when Bill Buckner walked and Leon Durham singled. After Bobby Bonds hit into a double play, Davis singled home Buckner. In the sixth, Durham doubled and Davis knocked him in with a single.
Winner Doug Bird, 3-1, lost his shutout when Ron Cey led off the Dodger seventh with a triple and scored on Derrel Thomas' infield out. Dick Tidrow, earning his seventh save, took over in the eighth.
Dave Goltz, 2-2, took the loss.
Giants 5, Pirates 0
Right-hander Tom Griffin scattered six hits and Jack Clark belted a pair of doubles as San Francisco downed Pittsburgh for a sweep of their four-game series.
The sweep was the first this year for the Giants, who finished 10 games behind in the West in the First Season, and the Pirates reeled to their seventh consecutive loss. The victory moved the Giants into a first-place tie in the West with a 12-8 record.
Griffin, 7-6, worked out of trouble in the early innings while posting his third victory in four second-half decisions. He struck out seven and walked four.

Braves 5, Expos 4
A throwing error by second baseman Rodney Scott with two outs in the 12th inning allowed Eddie Miller to race home with the winning run as Atlanta edged Montreal and snapped a five-game winning streak for the Expos.
The Braves had taken a 4-3 lead in the top of the ninth on Claudell Washington's run-scoring single, but the Expos pulled into a 4-4 tie in the bottom of the inning on an RBI base hit by John Milner.
Gene Garber, 3-3, the third Atlanta pitcher, was the winner while Bill Lee, 2-3, took the loss.
The Braves, four games below 500 and 9½ games off the pace before the strike, pulled into a tie for first in the West with their victory.
Astros 5, Phillies 4
Jose Cruz's RBI single in the 10th inning lifted Houston over Philadelphia. Craig Reynolds opened the 10th with a single off loser Sparky Lyle, 6-4, and Denny Walling sacrificed him to second before Cruz came through with his hit made a winner of reliever Dave Smith, 3-3.

Pete Rose's third hit of the game, an RBI double, tied the score at 4-4 in the ninth.
The victory capped a four-game sweep by Houston, the first time the Astros have beaten the Phillies four straight times since 1972.
The Astros, eight games behind the West leader at the time of the strike, also moved into a first-place tie.
Padres 9, Cardinals 6
Juan Bonilla and Luis Salazar scored three runs each and Ruppert Jones had three hits as San Diego snapped a seven-game losing streak. Padre reliever Gary Lucas, 4-7, pitched the final 21-3 innings to get the victory.
"Today was not an instructional film on how to play baseball," said St. Louis Manager Whitey Herzog. The Cardinals had three runners thrown out at the plate and committed three errors, a wild pitch and a passed ball.
"We played worse than they did. We did about everything today that you could do wrong," added Herzog.
Reds 6, Mets 3
Consecutive sixth-inning home runs by Dave Collins and Ken Griffey off reliever Dan Boitano helped Cincinnati beat New York.
Collins' homer, his third this season and just his ninth in four NL seasons, was a one-out shot off Boitano, the third of four pitchers used by the Mets. Griffey, who had grounded a run-scoring single in the second inning, then cracked his second home run this season to give the Reds a commanding 5-2 lead.
Mike LaCoss, 3-7, relieved Paul Moskau in the fifth inning to earn the victory.

Indians Hand Mariners 10th Straight Loss, 17-11

By The Associated Press
For Seattle Manager Rene Lachemann, although his team scored 11 runs and collected 20 hits, it was possibly the worst day of his baseball career.
"I believe it's the biggest embarrassment I've had as a manager and maybe as a player," he said. "I take the blame. I made the changes and they didn't work out."
What made Lachemann want to put a sack over his head were the 13 runs the Cleveland Indians scored in their last two at-bats, including 10 in the eighth inning, as they outlasted Seattle 17-11 Sunday. To add salt to the wound, the Mariners were trying to break a nine-game losing streak.
Lachemann, who has seen his Mariners fall to a 7-13 record after being in first place with a 7-3 mark earlier in the second season, had a 10-minute meeting with his players after the game.
"It's ridiculous. We did not execute plays, did not cover bases," he told the media. "I said some of them, including myself, should probably miss the flight to Baltimore and fly home instead."
Rookie catcher Chris Bando, younger brother of veteran Sal Bando, knocked in four runs, including the go-ahead run in the eighth, to lead a 16-hit Cleveland attack against the Mariners.

brought in two more runs and an error by first baseman Bruce Bochte on a grounder by Kelly tallied two more. Kelly moved to third on a Dilone single and scored on Jorge Orta's grounder.
Brewers 6, Rangers 2
Pete Vuckovich joined Morris, Ken Forsch and Dennis Martinez as the AL's 10-game winners, scattering seven Texas hits over 81-3 innings.
Vuckovich, 10-3, who has won 10 of his last 11 decisions, was replaced in the ninth by Rollie Fingers, who registered his 19th save.
Ned Yost had a solo homer for Milwaukee, his third of the season but only the fifth hit of the year for the third-string catcher. Robin Yount had a two-run single to break a 2-2 tie in the fourth.
Yankees 5, White Sox 1
Rudy May improved his record to 5-8 with a five-hitter for New York against Chicago, which maintained a half-game lead over Kansas City, Oakland, California and Texas in the West despite the loss.
Larry Milbourne and Graig Nettles scored two runs apiece for the Yankees, which took a 3-0 in the first inning on a run-scoring single by Reggie Jackson, an RBI triple by Nettles and Dave Winfield's bunt hit.
A's 5, Red Sox 3
Oakland broke a four-game losing streak and a string of 10 straight defeats at Fenway Park with a three-homer performance against Boston.
Cliff Johnson hit a two-run homer in the third inning on a 3-2 pitch after arguing that a strike call was ball four. Mickey Klutts and Jeff Newman hit consecutive homers leading off the fourth.

NEW YORK (AP) — Fourth-seeded Jimmy Connors will kick off the U.S. Open tennis championships Tuesday when he takes on Britain's John Lloyd.
The centennial celebration of America's premiere tournament, starting with the 11 a.m. EDT match between Chris Evert Lloyd's former boyfriend and her husband, runs through Sept. 13.
Connors is the only three-time champion in the field, and the only one to win the open on all three surfaces it has been played: grass, clay and Deco-Turf II, a rubberized asphalt.
Top-seeded John McEnroe begins his quest for a third straight U.S. Open title later Tuesday at the National Tennis Center in Flushing Meadows.

McEnroe's first-round opponent is Juan Nunez of Chile.
Mrs. Lloyd, the women's top seed, also is defending the crown she won a year ago. She will play later in the week.
Other featured men's matches involving seeded players on the first day will send fifth-seeded Jose Luis Clerc of Argentina against Brad Drewett of Australia and number eight Elliot Teltsher against Victor Amaya. Also playing Tuesday is Stan Smith, who won this championship in 1971. His opponent is John Sadri.
The top women who begin on the first day of play are No. 5 Hana Mandlikova of Czechoslovakia against Mary Lou Piatek, No. 9 Virginia Ruzici of Romania against Wendy White, No. 13 Regina Marsikova of Czechoslovakia against Rosie Casals, No. 15 Sue Barker of Britain against Laura DuPont and No. 16 Dianne Fromholtz of Australia against Anne Smith.

The advance sale of this year's extravaganza has passed 296,000 a record with five sessions sold out. Last year, 331,140 paid to watch the world's top players battle it out, a record that is almost assured of being broken.
Sweden's Bjorn Borg, who has won Wimbledon five times and the French Open six times, has never captured the title here, losing a thrilling five-set final to McEnroe last year. He's seeded second.
McEnroe, whose home is just a few miles from this facility in Queens, has been almost unbeatable here. But he lost a Davis Cup match to Czechoslovakia's Ivan Lendl in July, just six days after he beat Borg for the Wimbledon crown. Lendl is seeded third.
The other men's seeds are No. 6 Guillermo Vilas of Argentina, No. 7 Gene Mayer, No. 9 Roscoe Tanner, No. 10 Brian Teacher, No. 11 Peter McNamara of Australia, No. 12 Johan Kriek of South Africa, No. 13 Yannick Noah of France, No. 14 Wojtek Fibak of Poland, No. 15 Vitas Gerulaitis, and No. 16 Brian Gottfried.
The other women's seeds are No. 2 Andrea Jaeger, No. 3 Tracy Austin, No. 4 Martina Navratilova, No. 6 Sylvia Hanika of West Germany, No. 7 Wendy Turnbull of Australia, No. 8 Pam Shriver, No. 10 Mima Jausovec of Yugoslavia, No. 11 Barbra Potter, No. 12 Bettina Bunge of West Germany and No. 14 Kathy Jordan.

"We had some crazy wins at Charleston, but nothing like this one," said Bando, called up this month from Class AAA. "It was a great team effort, good for confidence and morale."
He said the Indians were not discouraged by the deficit, which was 10-4 when they came to bat in the bottom of the seventh.
"Anything is possible in this game," Bando said. "We had a feeling we could explode."
The Indians scored three runs in the seventh, but the Mariners made it 11-7 in the eighth before things went haywire for them in the bottom of the inning.
Consecutive pinch-doubles by Duane Kuiper and Pat Kelly sparked the winning rally for the Indians, chasing reliever Dick Drago, the second of five Seattle pitchers.
After Miguel Dilone singled in Kelly to make the score 11-9, Cleveland loaded the bases and Bo Diaz — out since Aug. 11 with an injury — stroked a two-run pinch-single off loser Shane Rawley, 2-5, to tie the game 11-11.
Bando's bases-loaded grounder, following an intentional walk to Toby Harrah, put Cleveland ahead. Kuiper's second double of the inning

Mandlikova Wins Volvo Tennis Title

MAHWAH, N.J. (AP) — Hana Mandlikova is playing tennis these days for more than fun and money. The 19-year-old Czech star is out to show members of the U.S. Open seeding committee that they were mistaken in ranking her fifth in this week's tournament.
"This was the best preparation for me," Mandlikova said Sunday after overwhelming unseeded Pam Casale 6-2, 6-2, to win her second straight $100,000 Volvo Women's Tennis Cup tournament.
"I played sometimes three matches a day with the doubles," she said. "I'm going to be in very good shape for the U.S. Open. I'm No. 5 and I should be No. 2, and if I beat all the others, I'll show them."
Mandlikova was runnerup to Chris Evert Lloyd in last year's U.S. Open, held at Flushing Meadows.
The U.S. Tennis Association went strictly by the computer rankings and seeded Mandlikova behind Lloyd, Andrea Jaeger, Tracy Austin, and Martina Navratilova.
After a 49-minute rain delay Sunday, second-seeded Mandlikova took less than an hour to overwhelm her 17-year-old opponent, employing an effective forehand. Casale had defeated three seeded players.

Mandlikova, who has not lost a set in six matches, was undisturbed by a 1-2 deficit early in the second set. In a sensational sixth game, Mandlikova showed the form that has made her fifth in world rankings by winning at love with two aces.
Casale, who advanced with triumphs over fifth-seeded Virginia Ruzici of Romania, fourth-seeded Wendy Turnbull of Australia, and eighth-seeded Bettina Bunge, said she was tense and tired going into the final round.

Q.1—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♦KJ1076 ♥KQ72 ♦K85 ♦Q
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
Pass Pass 1 ♦ Pass
2 NT Pass ?
What action do you take?
A.—North has shown a balanced hand of near opening bid strength, which means that all of your values are probably working. Since you have no reason now to be ashamed of your opening bid, you must search for the best spot. Bid three hearts. Your hand is suit-oriented—if you can find a playable fit.

Q.2—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♦8 ♥A73 ♦10986542 ♦63
The bidding has proceeded:
East South West North
3 ♦ Pass 4 ♦ Dble
Pass ?
What action do you take?
A.—Partner's double of four spades is for penalties rather than takeout. However, it shows a good hand in high cards, not a trump stack. Despite your heart ace, your hand is ill-suited for defense because of your length in diamonds, which might detract from partner's ability to take tricks. We favor a judicious retreat to five diamonds.

Q.3—East-West vulnerable, as South you hold:
♦8 ♥873 ♦954 ♦AQ10965
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
Pass Pass 1 ♦ 2 ♥
What action do you take?
A.—If we could venture three clubs in the certainty that partner would pass, we would do so. Unfortunately, in real life he will almost surely bid again, and he isn't going to be happy when we put this dummy on the table. Pass.

Q.4—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:

♦KQJ95 ♥83 ♦732 ♦1065
The bidding has proceeded:
West North East South
1 ♦ Dble 4 ♦ ?
What action do you take?
A.—Don't let the opponents' preemptive tactics crowd you out of the bidding. Since partner should have at most a singleton diamond, his hand rates to fit well with yours. Bid four spades. This is not without risk, but it's more dangerous to pass because partner might not be able to act again at such a high level, and you could lose a game.

Q.5—North-South vulnerable, as South you hold:
♦96 ♥K98 ♦AK1072 ♦742
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♦ Pass 2 ♦ 3 ♦
3 ♦ Pass ?
What do you bid now?
A.—You have only 10 points in high cards and a doubleton spade, but partner has bid freely at the three-level. He must have a reasonable hand with at least a six-card spade suit, and your controls, especially the king of hearts, should prove most useful. Bid four spades.

Q.6—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♦A10763 ♥A7 ♦942 ♦862
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
Pass 1 ♦ Dble Pass ?
What do you bid now?
A.—Considering that you passed initially, you have a very useful hand indeed, so a jump bid is in order. Bid two spades. This bid is not forcing, even by a non-passed hand. It simply shows a hand of some 9-12 points with interest in game if partner has better than a minimum takeout double.

Begin Push On An Alcohol Tax

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Gov. Jim Hunt is paving the way for a proposed alcohol tax increase that will put more money into the ailing Highway Fund.

Joseph A. Pell Jr., a Hunt adviser, said the administration would try to push the $20 million tax increase through the Senate when the Legislature reconvenes Oct. 5.

The tax funds would go to the General Fund, freeing an equal amount in sales taxes on sales of automotive accessories which would be added to the High Fund.

To enhance the chances for passing the liquor and beer tax increases, the bill includes an amendment that Chairman Marvin L. Speight Jr. for data showing how individual localities would benefit from the increases. Pell said the data would be used by Hunt allies to drum up support in local government circles for the legislation.

The report prepared by Speight showed that Wake County would receive $423,440; Pitt County, $114,030; Carteret County, $67,266; Edgecombe County, $83,947; Nash County, $104,781 and Mecklenburg County, with the state's largest population and ABC operation, $775,339.

The bill passed the House in the spring session, but only after a proposed increase in the wine tax was removed.

Under the proposal, about 1 cent would be added to the price of each can of beer and about 40 cents to each $6 bottle of liquor.

Durham Jail Escape Fails

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — A fake seizure by one inmate triggered an escape attempt from Durham County Jail Sunday night in which a group of prisoners overpowered jailers and locked them into a cell, Sheriff Bill Allen said.

"One of the inmates in the jail faked a seizure of some type," Allen said. "When deputies went to his assistance, they were overpowered by some of the inmates in the cell block. They (the jailers) were locked into the cell."

The prisoners were recaptured before they escaped the seventh floor jail area of the Durham County Judicial Building.

"I think in a matter of five to 10 minutes, they realized they could not go any further and they went back into their cells voluntarily," Allen added.

Police said between six and eight prisoners escaped from their cells, although an exact count was not immediately available.

Authorities said the two jailers locked in the cell were not hurt and were eventually released by another jailer.

When word of the escape attempt was released, Durham public safety officers surrounded the courthouse, police said.

Sheriff's deputies arrived and went inside the building. At one point, a public safety officer's shotgun accidentally discharged and shattered windows on the floor below the jail.

The prisoners were unarmed, according to police, but a fire alarm was sounded during the incident, bringing fire fighters to the scene along with police.

Allen said charges would be filed against the inmates involved in the escape attempt later today.

Uncover Bodies Of Two Slain People

By The Associated Press
 Unrelated investigations in Sampson and Lee counties this weekend uncovered the bodies of a missing Cumberland County man and a woman apparently slain with a blow to the head, officials said.

The body of Luke Pedro Hales, 38, a farmer from the Beaver Dam community, was found during dragging operations Sunday morning in the South River between Garland and Roseboro.

Sampson County Sheriff W. Cranford Fann said Hales was reported missing by his family Wednesday. He said the cause of Hales' death would not be known until early today when an autopsy was completed in Chapel Hill.

Fann indicated the death may have been suspicious and said authorities first went to the scene when blood was found on a bridge nearby.

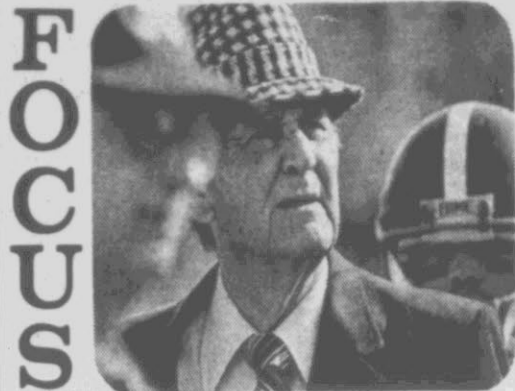

Authorities continued their investigation today into the apparent slaying of Mavis Thorne, 44, whose body was found in a remote area east of Sanford Saturday afternoon.

Lee County law enforcement officers said her body was found lying on the ground about 200 yards away from N.C. 42.

Chief Deputy James Holt said it appeared Ms. Thorne died from a blow to the head, but the official cause of death was not known Sunday. Officials said Ms. Thorne was last seen leaving her job at a local plant Friday morning. She was going to purchase a gift for a job supervisor. She never returned to the plant. However, her car was eventually found near a restaurant south of Sanford on U.S. 1, according to reports.

The body was transported Saturday to the chief medical examiner's office in Chapel Hill for an autopsy. The results of the autopsy have not been released.

9 Left For The "Bear"

University of Alabama football coach Paul "Bear" Bryant won his nickname by losing a wrestling match with a carnival bear in 1924. But he hasn't lost much since. Last year the 36-year coaching veteran became the third man in college history to win 300 games. More than 60 of his former players, including Joe Namath, have played professionally. Forty-two former assistants or players have become college or pro coaches. The football season opening this week could give Bryant the nine victories he needs to become the winningest coach in college football history. Recently the Alabama Legislature passed a law that would exempt Bryant, 68, from the state's mandatory retirement age.

DO YOU KNOW — Who currently holds the record for 314 college football victories?
 FRIDAY'S ANSWER — Wood must reach a temperature of at least 375°F to burst into flames.

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, SEPT. 1, 1981

YOUR DAILY Horoscope from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A day to focus more upon unconventional activities instead of relying so much on regular routines. You have a good chance to impress others now. Keep cheerful at all times.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) A private affair can easily be solved now. Don't try to borrow from others at this time or you could get into trouble.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Contact a person who appears to be backward but actually is very clever and can help you solve an important problem.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) A different attitude and perspective where your career is concerned brings fine results today. Think constructively.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Take steps to get out of a rut and make your life more interesting. Make practical plans for the future.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Your hunches are fine so be sure to follow them and clear up any confused thinking you may have. Avoid "yes" people.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Know better what is expected of you by associates and come to a better understanding of them. Be more diplomatic.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) State your finest ideas to associates and gain their cooperation to put them across. Try to improve your environment.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) A good time to engage in a new amusement that will be enjoyable. Be careful of one who is hypocritical. Use that winning smile.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Do something nice for family members and gain increased affection. Take no chances with your fine reputation.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You can now engage in new avenues of expression that will be more suited to your talents. Express happiness.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) A day to engage in activities that you didn't have time for recently. Cultivate new acquaintances and turn them into friends.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) A sudden inspiration could solve a long-standing problem you have. Avoid one who is a troublemaker. Show that you have poise.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will have good ideas to express and should be encouraged from early in life. Give a good education in modern schools where your progeny can make rapid progress. Permit to take part in healthful sports.

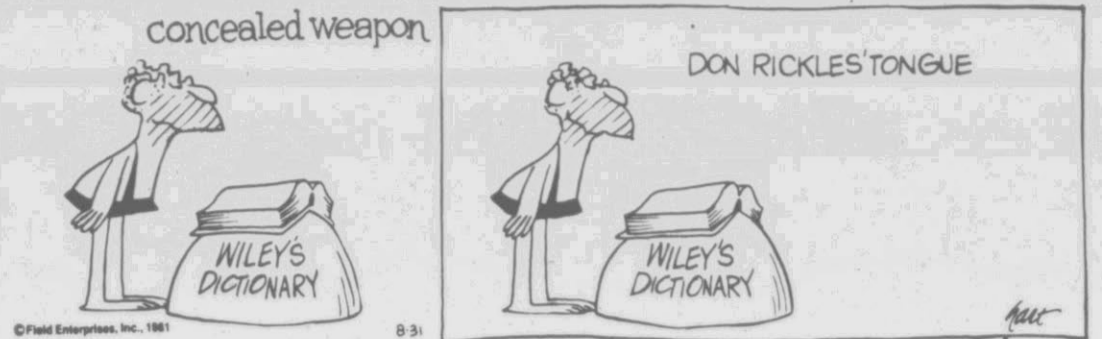

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!
