Inflation Rate Held To 10.6 For August

WASHINGTON (AP) — Housing costs in August posted their smallest gain in four months, the government reported today, and helped hold the nation's annual inflation rate to 10.6 percent. While less than July's sharp advance, last month's pace was still ahead of rates posted earlier this year.

August's overall advance meant the inflation rate stayed in double-digit territory for the second straight month, after falling below 10 percent for the four previous months.

Inflation was at an annual rate of 15.2 percent in July.

Transportation and food costs also rose at a slower pace last month to hold the seasonally adjusted inflation rate to 0.8 percent, which would equal 10.6 percent if that rate persisted for 12 straight months.

Last month's inflation rate was up 10.9 percent from August 1980. For the first eight months of this year, it was 9.6 percent on an annualized basis.

The Labor Department, in today's Consumer Price Index report, said housing costs climbed 1.0 percent, less than the 1.6 percent rise in July, but they still accounted for more than half of the August change.

Home financing costs increased 1.8 percent, reflecting a 1.3 percent rise in mortgage interest rates and a 0.4 percent advance in house prices, the government said. August's increase in housing costs was the lowest since the 0.7 percent recorded for April.

Rent shot up 1.2 percent in August, the largest increase in more than a year. For the fifth straight month, fuel oil prices fell.

Food prices were up 0.7 percent, slightly below the 0.8 percent gain of July, the department reported. But prices for foods purchased in grocery stores rose 0.9 percent, the same as in July. The sharp advance in food prices reflected higher prices for beef, pork, poultry and fresh fruits and vegetables. Egg prices fell sharply to somewhat offset those increases.

Haig, Gromyko Schedule Crucial Geneva Parleys

By R. GREGORY NOKES
Associated Press Writer

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — Pledging to "spare no effort" to reach agreement, Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr. and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko announced today their two natons will begin talks aimed at controlling nuclear arms in Europe on Nov. 30 in Geneva.

"Both sides believe in the importance of these negotiations for enhancing stability and international security and pledge to spare no effort to reach an appropriate agreement," they said in a joint statement.

Gromyko and Haig met for more than four hours Wednesday — three hours alone and one hour with aides — at the U.S. Mission across from U.N. Headquarters to discuss the missile control talks and other U.S.-Soviet differences. The talks represented the first high-level, U.S.-Soviet contact since President Reagan took office eight months ago and were characterized by a U.S. spokesman as being "frank and businesslike." A second meeting is set for Monday.

The joint statement issued here said the chief U.S. negotiator will be Paul H. Nitze, 74, who was a member of the Nixon administration team that negotiated the first Strategic Arms Limitation Treaty (SALT) between the United States and the Soviets in 1972. He is considered a hardliner in dealing with the Soviets on arms control and was a strong critic of the SALT II treaty concluded under the Carter administration but withdrawn from the ratification process after the Soviets sent troops into Afghanistan in December 1979.

The announcement said the Soviet's chief negotiator will be U.A. Kvitsinsky, believed to be about 60, and most recently minister counselor at the Soviet Embassy in Bonn, West Germany.

The statement said Haig and Gromyko "agreed on the need to hold formal negotiations on such arms and on behalf of their governments agreed to begin these negotiations on Nov. 30 in Geneva, Switzerland."

ECU Board Of Trustees Convening Here Friday

By MELVIN LANG
Reflector Staff Writer

East Carolina University trustees will meet in Greenville Friday to begin preparations for the selection of a new chancellor, but that meeting may be overshadowed by a growing wave of support for outgoing Chancellor Thomas B. Brewer.

One trustee, Dr. Roy Flood of Murfreesboro, has said he favors reconsideration of Brewer's resignation. Other trustees have indicated they also feel Brewer's resignation, which was submitted and accepted earlier this month, was premature.

And in the last two weeks, supporters for Brewer on the ECU campus and elsewhere have unleashed a barrage of verbal and written statements to trustees and William C. Friday, president of the University of North Carolina system, praising Brewer's accomplishments during his three years as chancellor. Some have called outright for his reinstatement at ECU.

Brewer resigned Sept. 7 during a highly publicized outpouring of concern by some members of the trustee board over his conduct in office. The hazzle was precipitated by public disclosure that Brewer had agreed to be considered an applicant for the presidency of West Virginia University without informing the ECU trustees of his action.

The resignation is to be effective at the end of the current school year, in June, 1982. Brewer also requested leave with pay during the interim, but Friday has not acted on the request and Brewer remains in office as chancellor.

In one of the most recent statements of support for Brewer, the four alumni presidents who have served under Brewer wrote Friday that "the university has sustained a great loss" in Brewer's scheduled termination.

"In Dr. Thomas Brewer East Carolina University found an individual who was not afraid to make hard decisions that are necessary in these difficult economic times," the alumni presidents said in a letter dated Sept. 21.

"It also found a man whose dedication to quality gained respect for the university in this state and across the nation which it has not previously enjoyed. With his resignation the university has sustained a great loss. It would be sad for someone not to recognize the outstanding contributions this fine man made to the university while he was here."

The letter bore the names of Phillip R. Dixon, president of the ECU Alumni Association for 1981-82; Daniel Thomas Hannon III, president for 1980-81; Jerry W. Powell, 1979-80, and Max R. Joyner, 1978-1979.

The trustees are scheduled to meet at 2 p.m. on the ECU campus. Board chairman Ashley Futrell said he expected the trustees to handle several routine items and then adjourn in executive session to discuss the chancellorship with Friday, who plans to outline selection procedures prescribed by the UNC Board of Governors.

ONLY WAREHOUSE HERE

I recently took over the operation of a country store and since that time have been calling the Royal Crown Bottling Company of Greenville trying to get them to either pick up some RC bottles or let me bring them to them for redemption. I have paid people for these bottles and would like to get my money out of them. N.W.

Thurston Lloyd, manager of the Royal Crown warehouse here, said the Royal Crown company does its bottling and makes its deliveries for this area out of a plant in Hamlet now, rather than Greenville. There's only a warehouse here.

Therefore, he said, it's true that the warehouse can no longer accept and make payment for bottles from stores that do not stock Royal Crown products. He suggested that you find a store operator in your area who does stock Royal Crown and ask him to take the bottles you have on hand and pay you for them. Then, from now on, he said, you should either open a new account with his company, refuse to accept RC bottles from customers, or see if you can work out a continuing arrangement with another storekeeper who has an RC account. "We try to be accomodating," he said, "but redeeming bottles is not a profitable operation any way you look at it and we cannot accept bottles directly from storekeepers who are not our customers, since we don't have a plant here. As long as we did and didn't have the problem of transporting them back to Hamlet, we were glad to accept them from anyone."

New Rules

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — New food stamp rules effective Oct. 1 will eliminate about 10,000 North Carolina families from the program, a Department of Human Resources official says.

The most important change will be the addition of a gross income eligibility standard, said John Kerr, chief of the Food Assistance Section of the Division of Social Services.

The change means that a person must earn no more than $467 a month before taxes and a family must earn no more than $916 a month to get food stamps, Kerr said.

The new regulations also will make it difficult for strikers to receive food stamps, Kerr said. To be eligible, a striker's household must have had a low enough income before the strike, he said.

Cannon, who noted that more than $13,000 worth of cocaine was involved, said officers confiscated six ounces of cocaine and $10,000 in cash from the home of Michael B. Shank of 108B North Meade St. following his arrest on charges of conspiracy to traffic in cocaine. Bond for Shank was set at $25,000.

Others arrested in connection with the investigation included: Frank Ray Kilpatrick, Ayden, charged with sale and possession with intent to sell cocaine, conspiracy to traffic in cocaine, and three counts of trafficking in cocaine, bond set at $75,000; Sharon Moffitt Brewer, 202 South Summit St., conspiracy to traffic in cocaine and two counts of trafficking in cocaine, bond set at $25,000; and Susan Adams Laughinghouse, Route 5, Greenville, trafficking and conspiracy to traffic in cocaine, bond set at $25,000.

Also arrested were: Drury Payne Armstrong, 408 West Fourth St., trafficking in cocaine and two counts of sale and possession with intent to sell cocaine, bond set at $20,000; Robin Blake Coddell, Baker Street, two counts of sale and possession with intent to sell cocaine, bond set at $10,000; and Roy Keith Todd, 1209 Cotanche St., conspiracy to traffic in cocaine, bond set at $5,000.

The chief noted that the investigation by local officers and SBI agents involved the actual purchase of cocaine from some of those arrested.

Dear Abby

Love Triangle Has Problem

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1981 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: I'm in love. And it's the most exciting thing that has ever happened to me. I'm 22 and "G" is 24. He's also the boyfriend of one of my girlfriends, which complicates matters. They've been very tight for several years, but he told me he has no plans to marry her, although they're living together temporarily.

There has always been a very strong attraction between "G" and me, but I never dreamed anything like this could happen. Well, the other night, the very first time we were alone together, we lost all control and made love. I don't regret it, but I'm all confused. I know it happened incredibly fast, but Abby, I've never been in love like this before. "G" says he thinks he loves me, too, but it's too soon to make a commitment.

To make matters worse, "G" and his "girlfriend" are going on a 10-day vacation together. (It was planned a long time ago.) He promised to call me every chance he gets while he's away, and said we will work something out when he gets back. He says he doesn't want to lose me, but he's a very caring person and doesn't want to hurt her.

I suppose there is nothing I can do except wait and see what happens, but in the meantime, I would appreciate an objective opinion and any useful advice.

MESSED UP IN W. VA.

DEAR MESSED UP: My objective opinion is that you should cool it. If and when "G" is free from his present commitment, you can pick up where you left off.

DEAR ABBY: A new family moved into our neighborhood. Their children are about the ages of our children, so the youngsters quickly struck up a friendship. Soon we mothers were visiting each other's homes for coffee. So far so good!

Then after one of her visits, I noticed that two towels and matching washcloths were missing from my bathroom. They were not misplaced — they are gone! Of course I didn't see her take them, but I strongly suspect she did. My questions:

1) Should my children continue to play with her children? Why or why not?

2) How can I get my towels and washcloths back in a face-saving manner for all concerned? I do not want to confront her.

Please don't mention my name or town. Sign me.

"M"

DEAR "M": I see no reason why your children shouldn't continue to play with her children. It's unfair to punish innocent children for the alleged "sins" of a parent.

There is no way you can get your towels and washcloths back without a confrontation. My advice is to forget it. But watch her carefully in the future.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 60-year-old woman who has been friends with a very nice gentleman my age for the past three years. I am quite sure he has a good income because he often goes on expensive cruises, drives a fine car and has a beautiful home.

He often asks me out for dinner, and the bill is never less than $30, but he never leaves more than a $1 tip! This is embarrassing to me as I am well-known in this restaurant in my small hometown.

How can I let him know that his tip is not enough? Thank you.

EMBARRASSED

DEAR EMBARRASSED: Use the direct approach. Tell him that a 15 percent tip is considered fair these days, and a 20 percent tip would be considered generous.

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

All the child psychology books I've ever read take you down the yellow brick road past puberty, serious petting, into mature relationships and leave you.

But parenting isn't like that. There are 30 million parents out there with kids between the ages of 18-55 who drift in and out of their lives like a revolving door.

The empty nest syndrome is overrated. I have heard of some parents who moved during the night to another city (and left no forwarding address). Others have installed pay showers. Still another parent I know waited until her son got up one night to use the bathroom, then painted his room pink and rented it to a pocket computer salesman.

No parent likes to change locks, but the situation is definitely getting out of hand. Children simply aren't leaving the home after school anymore as they did in the '60s. When they do, they multiply and come back tenfold.

So how do you displace an aging teenager? It isn't easy. When our son's bedroom began to take on the appeal of a roadside zoo (complete with sawdust on the floor), we took action.

First, we set the table for two. This made him aware that he was not expected for dinner.

Second, we intercepted his mail, wrote "No such person at this address" and had it returned to the post office for forwarding.

We posted signs in the hallway reading, "OCCUPANCY BY MORE THAN TWO IN THIS HOUSE IS A FIRE HAZARD."

We were considering telling him he would have to share his room with the family pet (and buying a wolf) when we came up with a daring but cruel idea. We stopped stocking the refrigerator.

I'll never forget the look of fear in that child's eyes standing in front of the refrigerator door (the hairs in his nose becoming frosted) saying, "Is that all there is?" if I live to be a hundred.

We never eaw him again.

You hear a lot of dialogue on the death of the American family. Families aren't dying. They're merging into big conglomerates. Daughters and sons who are between roommates (legal and lethal) drift in and approach the desk like they're in a hotel asking, "Is my old room still available?" Cribs and strollers appear with babies. Cars and special menus are requested.

I rechecked my child psychology book the other day for the answer and wondered, "Is there life after the index?"

Wedding Vows Are Solemnized Sunday

MRS. DENNIS WAYNE FURLOUGH

WASHINGTON — Sudie Leigh Bunch of Blounts Creek and Dennis Wayne Furlough of Washington were united in marriage Sunday in the Rosemary Church of Christ here by the Rev. Bruce Hardin.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Joyce Buck Bunch of Blounts Creek and the late MSgt. Milton G. Bunch, USAF. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Furlough of Washington.

The bride was escorted by her uncle, Joel T. Bunch of Greenville, who jointed her mother in giving her in marriage. For the double ring ceremony, the bride chose a formal gown of white chantilly lace over peau de soie. It was fashioned with a fitted bodice with a natural waistline, scalloped pearled sabrina neckline and long tapered sleeves ending in calla points. The bouffant skirt was designed with cascading ruffles of chantilly lace that extended into a cathedral train. The bride chose a fingertip mantilla of imported silk illusion edged with chantilly lace which fell from a Camelot cap. She carried a formal cascade of butterfly roses, phalaenopsis orchids, pixie carnations and English ivy tied with white satin.

The honor attendant was Mrs. Ann K. O'Neal of Greenville, who wore a formal gown of print organza in apricot, aqua and green designed with a portrait neckline outlined with a ruffled bertha collar and had an empire bodice. The flared skirt of the sleeveless gtown was accentuated by a ruffled flounce at the hemline overlaid by a southern belle pick-up skirt. It also featured a ruffled flounce with side swag and rolled tie bow trim. She carried a bouquet of apricot gerbera daisies, baby's breath and nutmeg poms tied with an apricot ribbon.

The maid of honor, Wendy L. Hill of Washington, wore a gown identical to that of the matron of honor in a print of blue, maize and green and carried a bouquet of blue gerbera daisies, baby's breath and gold button poms tied with a romance blue bow.

Bridesmaids included Glynda R. Furlough, Robin L. Rader, Nancy B. Furlough, all of Washington, Teresa V. Hopkins and Donna Bunch of Greenville. Their gowns were styled identically in print organza in shades of pink, green and lilac. They carried nosegays of fuchsia and orchid pixie carnations, baby's breath and lilac seafoam statice tied with lilac bows.

Amanda Cooper of Elizabeth City, cousin of the bridegroom, was flower girl and was dressed like the honor attendant. She carried a basket of coordinating flowers. The ring bearer was Richard R. Taylor of Vanceboro, cousin of the bride, and carried a satin pillow accented with a spray of flowers.

The church was decorated with a background of areca palms and brass candelabra. Two urns of white mums, poms and stock graced the altar. The prie-dieu was decorated with flowers and pews were marked with bouquets of flowers.

Ushers were Chris W. Furlough of Washington, brother of the bridegroom, Marty Woolard, William E. Clifton, Dewey A. Jones and William J. Woolard, all of Washington and Randy L. Rayburn of Charlotte, cousin of the bride. The father of the bridegroom was best man.

The organist was Barbara Alligood of Washington and soloist was Preston Phillips of Washington.

A reception was held in the fellowship hall of the church after the ceremony. The hall was decorated in the colors of flowers as those carried by the wedding party. Joanna Rayburn, aunt of the bride, was hostess.

Becky Deans of Washington directed the ceremony and Bessie Heath of Greenville and Katie Jefferson of Washington presided at the guest register.

The bride is the granddaughter of Mrs. Sudie Buck Jones and Mrs. Minnie Bunch, both of Greenville.

After a trip to Holly Ridge, the couple will live near Washington.

The bride is a graduate of Aurora High School and Beaufort County Community College. She works at Texasgulf, Inc. The bridegroom is a graduate of Washington High School and is also employed by Texasgulf, Inc.

An after-rehearsal party was held at the home of the bridegroom's parents Saturday evening.

Tax Changes

"The federal Economic Recovery Tax Act of 1981 will have a big impact on estate planning", says Dr. Justine Rozier, Extension Family Resource Management specialist. Beginning in January 1982, the number of estates subject to federal estate tax will be greatly reduced. But planning will still be necessary. Many individuals will need to change their wills in order for their heirs to benefit from the tax changes.

Current federal law requires that only estates larger than 175,000 file estate tax returns, and much more can pass tax-free if the maximum amount allowed is left to a surviving wife or husband. Beginning in 1982, the amount permitted in an estate before a return must be filed increases to 225,000 and that threshold for filing increases each year until 1987 when $600,000 can pass to heirs without a federal estate tax form being required. In addition, Dr. Rozier states that the limit on the amount one can leave to his/her spouse tax-free has been entirely eliminated.

The new law helps you give away more property during your lifetime without having to pay gift taxes to the federal government. It increases the gift tax annual exclusion from $3,000 to $10,000 per donee beginning in 1982. This also means that, if a married couple agrees to give a split tax (or joint) gift, they can give up to $20,000 per donee, each year without incurring a gift tax. The law provides an unlimited exclusion for medical expenses and school tuition paid for a donee.

According to Dr. Rozier, these changes have the following implications for you to consider:

1. If your will now limits the amount your spouse would receive to the current tax-free amount, and you would like to leave more to him/her, change your will to leave a larger amount (or all of your estate) to your spouse, if you survive after January 1, 1982.

2. A surviving spouse will be limited to the annual estate filing threshold for transfers at death, unless he/she remarries. These will be: $225,000 for individuals dying in 1982, $275,000 in 1983, $325,000 in 1984, $400,000 in 1985, $500,000 in 1986, and $600,000 in 1987. You or your spouse may want to reduce the size of your estate by giving away some property during your lifetime.

3. If inflation averages around 10 percent for the next 7 years, your estate could double in size by 1988. Keep your plans current with the law and your net worth.

4. North Carolina inheritance and gift tax laws have not been changed. All of your estate, except the first $100,000 you leave your spouse, children, grandchildren, and parents, will be subject to the North Carolina tax.

Question Resolved

The University of North Carolina-CBS dispute seems ended with an airing of a follow-up segment on desegregation progress during last Sunday's "Sunday Morning" news show.

The previous week the show had aired a segment which included almost no information on North Carolina's efforts to desegregate its universities. It erroneously said N.C. Central and UNC-Chapel Hill were about the same size, and featured footage of George Wallace in the early days of the desegregation battle.

The show brought protests from UNC officials, led by President William Friday. Gov. Hunt protested and many newspapers commented editorially that the segment was at best an incomplete picture of desegregation efforts in North Carolina higher education.

The follow-up was offered this Sunday on the show which is anchored by Chapel Hill graduate Charles Kuralt.

President Friday was pleased with the follow-up and said he would write a letter to Kuralt.

Kuralt at the outset of this past Sunday's segment said the story was being pursued because the issues are "more complicated" than the initial report indicated.

They certainly are that. Involved are feelings that black campuses should be kept intact, the very positive progress North Carolina has made in bringing minorities onto all its campuses, the question of who will control the programs of North Carolina universities.

Officials were concerned about the incomplete treatment of the North Carolina universities desegregation issue because our state has reached an agreement with the federal government concerning its universities desegregation program. Now we need to give the plan time to work.

Study Will Give Us Facts

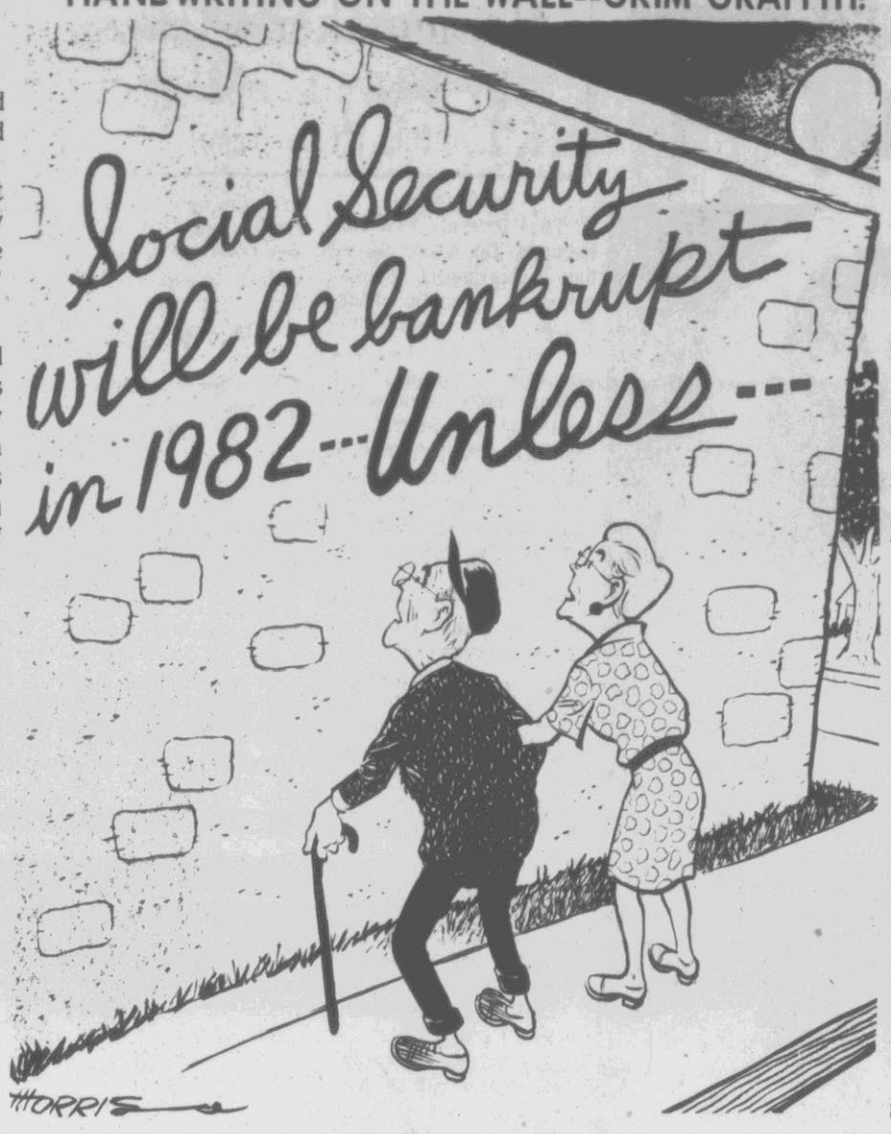

The firm of J. N. Peace Associates of Charlotte has been employed by the Pitt commissioners to do a feasibility study on the construction of a civic center in the county.

The study is to be funded with a $36,000 Coastal Plains Regional Commission grant and it will take about 19 weeks.

The study can furnish us with solid information as to whether our area can support a civic center. It can also guide us as to what kind of facilities might be included in the center, and the public support the facilities would receive.

There are many who feel that a civic center in Pitt County would offer a wide variety of services to Eastern North Carolina. We are inclined to think so, too, but what we need at this point is facts. The feasibility study authorized by the county commissioners can help us.

A Fading Tradition

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH — The trend toward multi-family housing for North Carolinians continues, now moving even into smaller cities and towns as inflation and interest rates work their will on your families.

The time-honored tradition of a single family home on a separate lot appears to be rapidly disappearing. Figures compiled by the North Carolina Department of Labor illustrate just how far reaching the change in lifestyles has become, and how rapidly it is taking place.

In the first six months of 1977, for example, building permits issued for new dwelling units in the state's cities with more than 10,000 population were dominated by single family housing authorizations: 3,213 permits for houses; 1,830 for multi-family units.

Gaining

The next year, single family units remained far ahead: 3,577 to 2,758. Then the phenomenon of planned unit developments with condominium purchase arrangements began to catch on. In 1979, single-family and multi-family units nearly drew even: 3,152 to 2,939.

As housing costs shot upward at unbelievable rates, people started taking the purchase of lower cost townhomes or the rental of apartments more seriously, and in 1980, for the first time in North Carolina, construction of multi-family housing actually moved ahead of single family construction.

Then during the first six months of 1981, that trend was established as a strong movement, not just a one-time change. Multi-family housing this year has been authorized at 3,809 units compared to 3,590 single family units.

And even though Mecklenburg and Wake counties, with their growing urban populations, dominate the condominium and apartment construction scene, such units are becoming commonplace all over the state.

Smaller cities where single family housing has been the norm for generations are seeing the change, and the accompanying conflicts.

Naturally, those who live in the multi-family units are interested in getting some of the nicer things in life along with their dwellings. Past practice has been to concentrate multi-family dwelling units on main streets, adjacent to commercial development, and separate from the exclusive single-

To the editor:

Sunday, Sept. 13, a fire caused several thousand dollars' damage to my home. I suffered a loss, but I was also fortunate. Fortunate in several respects:

1. To have neighbors like Ed Pittman and Mr. and Mrs. Dick Farris who saw the smoke and notified the Fire Department.

2. To have a fire-fighting crew, led by Capt. Jimmy Smith, who responded quickly to the call, did an extremely professional job in extinguishing the fire, and showed consideration for personal property by minimizing the amount of damage done by the fire and those working to distinguish it.

3. To have neighbors like Dick Farris and Gary Giles who provided drop cords and Terry Fields and Bill Griner who provided electricity to keep my refrigerator and freezer in operation.

4. To have a policeman like Officer Kepler who, through patience and diligence, managed to locate and provide me with the details of the fire.

Although the exact cause of the fire is unknown, it appears that tightly packed, loose-fill cellulose insulation around a recessed light receptacle which had overheated was involved. These receptacles, usually found in closets, should be checked carefully, especially by those who have installed loose-fill insulation in the ceiling.

Sunday, Sept. 13, was my birthday. It was sad for a few moments; however, due to the nature and circumstances of the fire, it could easily have been my last. Realizing that, I am most fortunate.

Strength For Today

FORGIVE OURSELVES

Yesterday we dealt with the necessity of truly knowing ourselves and coming face to face with our faults in order to reach this objective.But there is another step beyond knowing ourselves. We must forgive ourselves, too.

Whenever we make a close examination of ourselves and our lives by Christian standards, we find much to be disappointed and ashamed about. We discover many moments of failure, weakness, blindness and sin. Such an examination is sure to bring on feelings of discouragement and even despair.

But we cannot live the best and most useful lives burdened down by despair and remorse. We need peace of heart. We need the fresh start that only the state of being forgiven provides. "Forgive us our trespasses", we pray; and we ourselves must help bring about the fulfillment of this prayer by forgiving ourselves. Self-forgiveness is as necessary as self-knowledge. — Elisha Douglass.

Forum For ALL Nations

NEW YORK — The General Assembly of the United Nations, that monument to imbecility, acted in character again the other day. By a vote of 117-0, the assembly adopted another of its resolutions against South Africa, and once again the assembly violated the most elementary principles of fair play and parliamentary privilege.

Such expressions of hypocritical unanimity have become commonplace in these gaudy realms of make-believe. In theory, member nations subscribe to the original purpose of the United Nations. That was to provide a forum in which all nations — repeat, all nations — could be heard. In theory, member nations also subscribe to the principle that all nations should respect the borders of all other nations.

In practice, and notably in the matter of South-West Africa, also known as Namibia, these theories disappear into the gaseous clouds. Here the rule is that all nations may be heard in the forum — all nations, that is,except the one nation most intimately and directly concerned in the matter: South Africa.

The purpose of the assembly's most recent resolution was to condemn South Africa for an incursion into Angola. Very well. But if King Hypocrisy were not presiding over this mummery, the assembly would equally have condemned Angola for harboring forces of SWAPO (South West African People's Organization), whose purpose is to seize power in Namibia by force of arms.

Hypocrisy is defined as "a feigning to believe what one does not." It is "the false assumption of an appearance of virtue." In the matter of Namibia, the assembly feigns to believe that the United Nations has some valid authority to dictate the future of South-West Africa. But this is not so, and any person capable of tracing the last days of the old League of Nations knows it is not so. The notion that the league formally transferred its mandates to the U.N. is a notion spun from moonbeams. The chain of title is not there. No such testamentary proof exists.

The assembly also feigns to believe that all acts of international meddling are bad, but this appearance ofvirtue is false. The SWAPO terrorists are armed by the Soviet Union. No one denies it. The terrorists are supported and trained by thousands of Cuban troops. No one denies it. In the assembly, the matter is simply not discussed.

Here at the U.N. the notion is carefully fostered that only one outfit embodies the longing of all the people of Namibia for independence, and that outfit is SWAPO. The notion is fatuous. The guerrillas of SWAPO seek power for the Ovambo, who make up something less than half of the population. But the Ovambo are themselves divided into seven Bantu tribes; and beyond the Ovambo are such tribes as the Damara, the Herero, the Kavango and the Nama. There is no "Namibian people." There is no sense of national loyalty, no universal hunger on the part of "Namibians" for a flag to call their own. There is only a hunger on the part of a relatively few

Begin Holds Senate Vote

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — The specter of defeat for his promised sale of AWACS radar planes to Saudi Arabia, raising damaging implications of presidential weakness, has compelled Ronald Reagan to order his Mideast strategists back to the drawing boards to devise a new plan to defend that important region from Soviet penetration.

Reagan was struck by the prospect of defeat on Sept. 14 when he made his first lobbying foray for the AWACS deal. Soft-selling the plan to a bipartisan group of 27 senators in the White House, he discovered that Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin had done his own lobbying too well. Minds had been made up during Begin's 10-day visit. Reagan had ordered his own aides not to lobby for the AWACS sale while Begin was here, out of courtesy to him, The Israeli had been under no such restraint.

Immediately following the Sept. 14 session, an aroused and angry Reagan ordered Secretary of State Alexander Haig to fly to New York for one more talk with Begin. Haig's mission: tell Begin to cease and desist on the AWACS; warn him that the sale was the cornerstone of Reagan's whole Mideast plan to keep the Russians out.

Haig's aides say he talked tough to Begin, but at that late stage the seeds planted during Begin's 10 days in Washington and New York had already produced solid anti-AWACS votes. What was needed was a fallback position to save whatever could be saved from the devastating defeat of Reagan's first major foreign policy request to Congress.

The answer: Not much could be saved. The president's national security chiefs, back at the drawing board, are trying to locate new defense lines against Soviet infiltration of the Middle East to substitute for the Saudi Arabian anchor — if, as now seems likely, the Senate blocks the AWACS sale. The prospect is dismal.

U.S. defense installations now being built at immense cost in Egypt, the Gulf state of Oman, Saudi Arabia itself and the Indian Ocean will be sacrificed.

Instead, lacking the secure position on the Persian Gulf that would be provided by an AWACS-armed Saudi Arabia, the new anti-Soviet lines would be redrawn with Turkey on the north and Pakistan on the east as its twin anchors. The Eastern Mediterranean would replace the Indian Ocean for large concentrations of U.S. Naval power.

For the U.S. and its Western allies, withdrawal from the Persian Gulf region is ominous. Yet, administration officials believe that if Reagan cannot deliver on his agreement with Saudi Arabia, no Persian Gulf state would accept any American military installations. Israel is too far removed to substitute for Saudi Arabia.

But for the Russians, the retreat of the major U.S. defense lines to relatively far-off Turkey and Pakistan would be a strategic ten-strike. The Soviets would no longer have to divide their southern land forces if the U.S. is unable to operate in Persian Gulf regions. Instead, the Russians could concentrate those forces further east, against Pakistan.

Neither Turkey nor Pakistan has shown anything like the political stability of Saudi Arabia. But the nightmare afflicting U.S. policy-makers now examining a new strategic alliance in the Nideast offers no other strategy. Quite apart from the retreat of U.S. power out of the Persian Gulf, a serious possibility exists for Saudi Arabia to go fully neutralist, taking with it all the Gulf states.

The president had not come to grips with any of these realities until that first confrontation with senators last week. Nor had Haig — until the last few days — showed much alarm. Instead, the president's most senior aides have proceeded on the will-o-the-wisp theory that no president as popular as Ronald Reagan could lose such a crucial test in a Senate dominated by his own party.

Top Reaganites at the State and Defense Departments and on the White House national security staff fear that it may be too late to transform their soft-sell lobbying campaign against senators into a hard sell. The astute Israeli prime minister now has 50 senators pledged to vote against the AWACS deal, with a half-dozen others claimed for reserve.

Yet Reagan himself, although urged by some senior aides, has not yet agreed to take his case for the AWACS sale to the country in a personal appeal. Despite his immense stake in the outcome, the president seems

Leadership Has Good Timing

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — If President Ronald Reagan is "laid back," as some critics say of his style, then he is laid back like a fox, says a man who has studied leadership from the times of the Greeks and Romans.

"Reagan can be misunderstood because he makes a tough job look easy," says Eugene Jennings, management professor, author of "Anatomy of Leadership" and adviser to private and public sector leaders.

After a summmer of observing and analyzing the performance and style of Reagan, Jennings reaches a conclusion that probably will give the president a lift as he fights criticism of his values, goals and style.

"He is nearly a perfect match between the man and his times," says the professor, who teaches at Michigan State University.

Jennings observes that all would-be great leaders need such an ideal marriage but that few are so fortunate to achieve it. Without World War II, he observes, Winston Churchill might have died an inconspicuous Lord of the Admiralty and Charles DeGaulle might have been remembered more for his enormous ego than his enormous accomplishments in France.

Jennings contends the near-perfect match creates a momentum of its own that allows the fortunate leaders to paddle easily while others struggle to keep control. Reagan, he claims, is following in the tradition of great leaders in three ways:

1. He has value sense. Values, he suggests, are more important than objectives to great leaders. Great leaders have firm beliefs and communicate them to the people, who then permit greater flexibility on how the objectives are to be obtained. Values are the foundation, says Jennings. In his view, Reagan has a foundation, but Jimmy Carter didn't. Carter worked hard, he says, but "built sandcastles."

2. He has a priority sense. "Reagan covers only those things critical to the execution of his mission," the professor says, adding that "very few great leader scattered their shot and maintained momentum."

Reagan, he says, calls forth one issue at a time for debate, whereas Presidents Carter, Lyndon Johnson and Harry Truman inundated Congress and constituencies. "Reagan never loses control by scattering shot," claims Jennings. The President's priorities are in order, he says.

3. Reagan has a power sense, says Jennings, observing that "great leaders in bearing and behavior make a distinction between authority and power." Reagan, he says, "never appears as an authority figure."

Authority, the professor notes, is the right to order behavior and expect compliance, and is acquired by possession of office. Power is the capacity to get done what you want done. "Great leadership doesn't occur when authority is equal to or less than power," he states.

He maintains that the authority of the office of president has not changed substantially since Carter left and Reagan took over, "but Reagan's power is incomparably greater due to the fact that he relies largely on the politics of persuasion and influence."

By contrast, he continues, Johnson used the authority of his office to coerce through seduction (if you do this I'll reward you) and intimidation (if you don't I'll penalize you).

While there is some coercion in Reagan's style, says Jennings, it is not dominant. Instead, he is "running a permanent campaign" in which he manages to keep the issues before the people and solicit support.

These senses, Jennings maintains, can be equated with good common sense. "It doesn't require massive intellectual capacity; few great leaders were intellectually gifted, but they had a good sense of values, priorities and power, which helped them make difficult jobs looks easy," he says. Such abilities are intuitive, he believes. They are natural to the individual.

And when the timing is right — that is, the match between a man and events and attitudes — it can make for great leaders, says Jennings.

Kidnapping In Tar, Feathers

MOULTON, Ala. (AP) — A woman who said she tarred and feathered her ex-husband's fiancee out of a sense of community decency faces assault charges after being convicted of kidnapping in the case.

A jury in Lawrence County Circuit Court found Marita McElwey guilty of a kidnap charge Wednesday.

The 54-year-old Vinemont, Ala., woman faces up to 20 years in prison and a fine of $10,000 on the kidnapping charge. A sentencing hearing was set for Oct. 26.

The defendant sat quietly as the verdict was read, but her 49-year-old sister, Robbie Jean McCorkle, who also faces charges in the incident, began sobbing and screaming, "No, she didn't do it."

Mrs. McElwey and her sister still face third-degree assault charges in the tarring and feathering of Elizabeth Jamieson McElwey, who is now married to John McElwey, a doctor in Town Creek, Ala.

Mrs. McElwey has never denied making the attack in March, but she has denied doing anything wrong.

The defendant testified Tuesday that she tarred and feathered McElwey's fiancee because she believed that McElwey, who was divorced from her in 1975, was still her common-law husband.

When she found out that the two planned to marry, she recalled, "I knew I had to stop them because I couldn't let them do this to a nice community, to the people I knew, or to my family."

Testimony indicated that Mrs. McElwey and Mrs. McCorkle went into McElwey's trailer on March 24 and that Mrs. McElwey cut Mrs. Jamieson's waist-length hair, spread a tar-like substance used in weatherproofing on the woman's upper torso and sprinkled feathers on it.

The victim, who was left in a garbage dump, testified that Mrs. McElwey used a shotgun to secure cooperation. The sisters denied the charge.

Mrs. Jamieson and McElwey were married March 26, two days after the incident.

ambitious men for wealth and power.

It is all dumbshow. The assembly's resolutions, devoid of the slightest power even to influence or persuade, are no more than tales told by idiots, full of sound and fury, signifying nothing. No self-respecting nation — not South Africa, not Israel in other contexts, not any of thegreat powers — will surrender its national interest to the vaporings of an impotent body. It is lunacy to suppose that South Africa will accept any imposed "solution" that creates a Marxist state upon its northern border and jeopardizes access to Walvis Bay. If the old mandated territory of South-West Africa is to be cut loose, it will have to be cut loose with strings still attached. In the 20 years that the Namibian question has been debated, no one yet has mastered such a feat of legerdemain.

Reading an inch-thick stack of windy resolutions, I wonder anew: Why the United Nations? Seriously, why? Its purpose as a forum has been reduced to a nullity. Its portentous demands have less weight than a resolution of the Maryland Audubon Society demanding the resignation of Secretary Watt. Perhaps we should carry news of the U.N. back on the comic pages to dwell with Doonesbury and his friends.

Conflict

Now, especially in resort communities, condominiums lining the ocean or lakesides, on mountaintops, and strung along exclusive golf courses, are gaining popularity.

This acceptance of multi-family living and the definite trend in that direction is going to mean that homeowners and tenants will be getting into more clashes as the attempt to locate multi-family units in the more desirable locations intensifies.

In several cities around North Carolina, there are zoning fights already taking place or developing as builders seek to put multi-family projects in country club and golf course settings, and in other "nicer" parts of town. Single family owners, however, continue to argue that the landscaping, traffic, size of buildings, and lack of community investment and interest of the typical multi-family project dweller make these units a target for protest.

House Bill Makes Identifying Of Agents A Crime

By MIKE SHANAHAN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Identifying U.S. intelligence agents would be a federal crime under a House-endorsed bill criticized as a "serious blow to civil liberties and a free press."

The legislation, approved 354-56 Wednesday and sent to the Senate, marks a major defeat for members of the House Intelligence Committee, the American Civil Liberties Union and news organizations, which say the proposal threatens the First Amendment.

By voting overwhelmingly for the legislation, the House soundly rejected its own Intelligence Committee's recommendation on what standards should be applied before a journalist or researcher could be prosecuted for revealing the name of a covert CIA or military agent.

"This is a serious blow to civil liberties and a free press," ACLU official Jerry Berman said in an interview after the vote.

Rep. Edward Boland, D-Mass., the Intelligence Committee chairman, said the bill "gives me great trouble in its present form" and voted against it.

For three years, Congress has been wrestling with the problem of how to react to incidents in which intelligence agents have been assassinated or attacked following publication of their names.

The bill approved by the House on Wednesday permits prosecution of anyone who identifies an American undercover agent if there is "reason to believe such activities would impair or impede" U.S. intelligence operations.

That wording, pushed by conservative Rep. John Ashbrook, R-Ohio, is already included in a bill pending before the Senate Judiciary Committee.

The version approved by Boland's Intelligence Committee would have required that a person have specific intent to disrupt U.S. spy operations before he or she could be prosecuted.

Ashbrook's proposal was approved 226-181 and will make it easier for federal prosecutors to obtain indictments against those who print the names of American agents overseas.

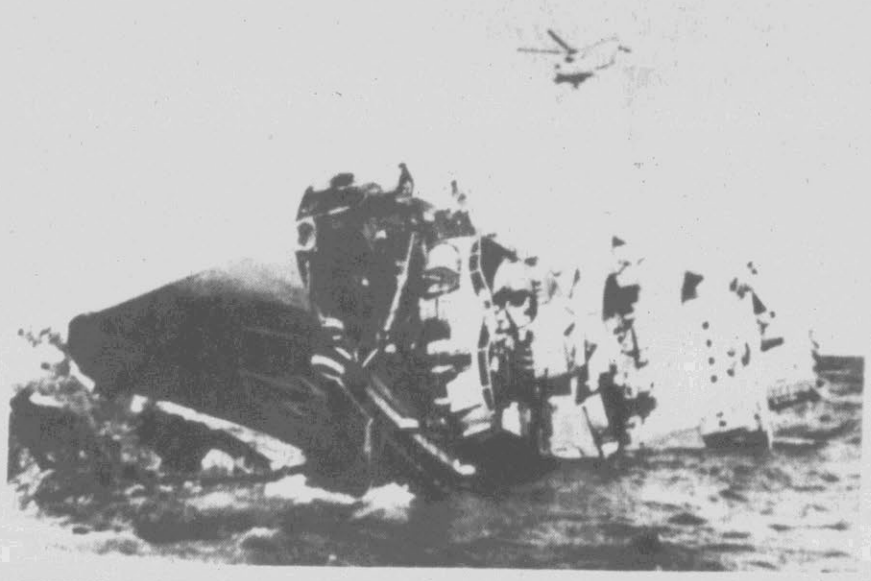

Demands for such legislation were first made in 1975, when Richard Welch, the CIA station chief in Athens, was fatally shot by terrorists after his name was published in Counterspy magazine.

In July 1980, the names of 15 Americans alleged to be CIA agents in Jamaica appeared in a publication called The Covert Action Information Bulletin. Within a few days, the homes of two people on the list were fired upon by unknown gunmen.

—Sets a maximum prison term of 10 years and fines of $50,000 for people with daily access to classified information who disclose the names of agents to anyone not authorized to have the information.

—Establishes a prison term of up to five years and fines of $25,000 for people with limited access to classified information who make similar disclosures.

—Establishes a maximum three-year jail term and $15,000 in fines for journalists, researchers or others without formal access to classified information who expose covert agents and then "impair or impede" U.S. intelligence operations.

TYPHOON VICTIM — A U.S. Navy rescue helicopter flies over the wreck of the Philippine navy destroyer escort Datu Kalantiaw on a rocky northern Philippine beach after being driven aground by powerful typhoon Clara last Sunday. At least 40 of the 97 officers and crewmen aboard died in the accident; 18 were rescued while the rest are missing. The vessel, acquired from the United States, served during World War II. Hunting For Bodies In Wreck Of Warship

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — U.S. and Filipino searchers used blow torches to cut into the wreck of a Philippine navy destroyer escort today looking for 39 crewmen missing since the ship was driven ashore in a typhoon four days ago, the Philippine navy said.

Eighteen men survived the wreck and 40 bodies have been recovered, the navy said.

Chief Rear Adm. Simeon Alejandro told reporters some sailors might still be alive in the 1,200-ton destroyer escort Datu Kalantiaw, "provided there is enough ventilation." But he said the search was progressing very slowly because of inflammable fuel fumes in the smashed compartments.

Alejandro told a news conference the navy was investigating reports an undetermined number of civilians also were aboard the Datu Kalantiaw when it ran aground Monday on Calayan island, 340 miles north of Manila.

The stricken ship, know as the Booth when it saw U.S. Navy service, was officially listed as carrying 10 officers and 87 crew members when 40-foot waves generated by the 127 mph winds of Typhoon Clara swept it onto the island's rocky shore Monday.

Most of the dead apparently were washed overboard when the vessel capsized as they prepared to abandon ship, Alejandro said.

Rescuers, including frogmen and welding teams from the U.S. Subic Naval Base, found some bodies when they cut into the ship's hull, the admiral said. The rest were found floating in the sea, he added.

The bodies were taken aboard the U.S. 7th Fleet ammunition ship Mount Hood, which was the first surface rescue craft to reach the area Tuesday, he said.

Alejandro said 12 crewmen and three officers saved themselves by staying in the pilot house below the ship's bridge until the typhoon subsided Tuesday.

U.S. Navy officials said helicopters provided by the American naval base at Subic Bay near Manila would pull out of the search and rescue operation today.

Alejandro said two Philippine navy destroyers and a landing ship would continue the search "until we have accounted for all of our men."

Nigerian Is Being Tried

ATLANTA (AP) — A Nigerian national living in Atlanta has pleaded innocent to federal charges stemming from the discovery earlier this month of a cache of weapons in his luggage at Hartsfield Atlanta International Airport.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Howard Weintraub said 33-year-old Okwara O. Ukah, 33, entered the plea Wednesday before U.S. Magistrate Joel M. Feldman.

Ukah is charged with violating a federal law which requires gun shippers, who are shipping weapons to unlicensed dealers, to notify the airline of the contents of their shipment, Weintraub said.

A conviction carries a maximum penalty of five years in jail, a $5,000 fine, or both.

The federal complaint filed Ukah alleges that 20 revolvers and 1,000 rounds of ammunition were found in a phonograph machine in a box that was discovered when U.S. Customs agents X-rayed Ukah's luggage.

Tobacco Production Is Down; All Others Up

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Flue-cured tobacco is the only North Carolina crop being produced in smaller quantities this year than last year, the Agricultural Extension Service says.

Acres of planted tobacco dropped 7.5 percent, while corn, cotton, peanut and soybean production has increased, said service spokesman Bill Humphries.

Crops expected to show an increase this year include burley tobacco, up 36 percent; Maryland-type tobacco, up 1,509 percent; corn, up 29 percent, and soybeans, up 24 percent, according to the North Carolina Crop and Livestock Reporting Service

Peanuts are expected to be up 52 percent, cotton up 44 percent, sweet potatoes up 10 percent, and pecans up 76 percent.

One reason for the improvement is that weather conditions have improved dramatically over last year's drought, Humphries said.

Also, many farmers planted more to make up for last year's losses, he said.

"They planted a lot more this year trying to recoup their losses and stay solvent. Last year, energy costs for running curing barns and keeping tractors running went up 38 percent. And interest rates were running 18 to 20 percent.

"Farmers have been fighting a desperate battle over rising production costs, while on the other hand the prices they are getting for their goods are going down," said Humphries.

Despite the problems — including increasing taxes — farmers still have to gamble on crops every year, he said.

"It's like a factory. It may operate at a loss, but if it doesn't operate at all, the loss gets bigger," he said.

The average value of a farm nationwide is $342,000, and in North Carolina, the average value of a farm is $167,000. But the average value per acre nationwide is $796, while in North Carolina, the average value per acre is $1,331.

The primary reason for smaller farms in North Carolina is the amount of labor required to produce tobacco, said Humphries. Because the cost of labor per acre is so high, most farms remain small, he said.

'Cube' Also Hurts Thumb

BOSTON (AP) — A Canadian doctor was going in circles trying to get an angle on how he hurt his thumb, until the answer looked him squarely in the face. It was the cube.

Dr. Douglas Waugh of the Association of Canadian Medical Colleges in Ottawa found his Rubik's Cube puzzle was giving him trouble, and he gave the trouble a name: "Cuber's Thumb."

Waugh describes the condition as "a localized, exquisitely tender swelling on the volar surface of the left metacarpophalangeal joint" — or a sore thumb.

Waugh said his copy of the popular game sometimes sticks when he spins the multicolored cubes, trying to get each side to be all one color.

In a letter in today's New England Journal of Medicine, Waugh said he first thought he had gout. "The correct diagnosis was made a couple of days later when I picked up my cube and jammed it on a rotation, thrusting its corner against the painful metacarpal."

Waugh has eased his ache by switching to another cube. But he notes that "a cure for cube addiction has not yet been found."

Demand Steady At Farmville

FARMVILLE — Compared to Tuesday, market conditions on the Farmville Tobacco Market improved slightly yesterday and demand has remained relatively steady all week, according to Georgia Willoughy, sales supervisor of the Farmville Tobacco Board of Trade. Volume of sales were heavy yesterday and the top price paid by a buying company was $1.96, a record for this market this season.

The Farmville market sold 683,530 pounds for $1,204,124.44, for an average of $176.16 per hundred pounds. To date, the market has sold 20,435,742 pounds for $35,268.458.15, for a season average of $172.58. The season average for the same day last year was $150.09.

Replacing With A Taller Tower

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP) — Officials for WWAY-TV said Wednesday that a 2,000-foot transmission tower will be built to replace one allegedly knocked down by a jet plane in January.

Clay Broadcasting Corp. President George Diab announced that the tower, representing a $5 million investment, would be in service by May 1982. It will be located in Winnabow in Brunswick County.

Mail Order Ordains Dog

HAGERSTOWN, Md. (AP) — Should you be looking for a minister with a toothy grin for a marriage ceremony, call the Rev. Rex and he'll help you exchange bow-wows. But act quickly, for he'll soon be defrocked.

Rex, a 7-year-old German shepherd, received his ordination papers from the American Fellowship Church of Monterey, Calif., in the mail last week.

He owes his new status to his owner, Mary Campello of Hagerstown, who sent in his ordination application after reading a newspaper story about a government inquiry into mail-order ministers.

She, her husband, Richard, and their son, Tony, have spent three years training for missionary work with Hagerstown's Trinity Bible Church. So she said she knew it took more than a stamped envelope to make a minister.

But for just $3 and a card listing his name, address and age, Rex received a card identifying him as an ordained minister.

The Rev. T.H. Swenson, whose signature appeared on Rex's ordination card, said the dog's ordination would be rescinded.

"The thing we try to do is work backward from what other churches do," Swenson said. In the American Fellowship Church, he said, ordination comes first with spiritual development following.

As for Rex, ordination hasn't gone to his head.

"He still gets off the leash and runs up the alley to see another German shephard," said Mrs. Campbello. "My minister said that maybe he's got a visitation ministry."

Two Wrecks Investigated

An estimated $2,300 property damage resulted from two traffic mishaps investigated by Greenville Police yesterday.

Officers said heaviest damage resulted from a 12:32 p.m. collision on Pitt Street, 90 feet north of the 13th Street intersection involving cars operated by Paul Ivey Jacobs Jr. of 1211 South Pitt St., and Rosa Marie Greene of 405 Cadillac St.

Officers, who charged Ms. Greene with no operators license, estimated damage at $1,400 to the Jacobs car and $100 to the Greene vehicle.

Cars driven by Milton Ray Clemons of 106C Lakeview Terr. and Wanda Marie Marlowe of Route 1, Ayden, collided about 12:35 p.m. on Greenville Boulevard, 30 feet east of the Arlington Boulevard intersection.

Damage was estimated at $300 to the Clemons car and $500 to the Marlowe auto.

'Homes Fair'

The Greenville Home Builders Association's "Better Homes Fair" is underway at Carolina East Mall through Saturday, Sept. 26.

A GHBA spokesman said that 38 exhibitors are taking part in the event, displaying new products available in the housing industry.

Exhibits include solar equipment, custom cabinets, brick, siding and wood stoves. Also shown will be tile, doors and windows, interior designs, swimming pools, carpet and bath fixtures. Heating, roofing, paint, and landscaping will also be displayed.

David Evans Jr., president of Garris Evans Lumber Co. here and a past president of the local association, is chairman for this year's show. Linda Wilkerson is show coordinator and manager.

The "Better Homes Fair" is held in conjunction with National Home Week and Gov. Jim Hunt earlier declared Sept. 19-27 as "North Carolina Home Week."

Evans and Dillon Watson, current GHBA president, opened this year's fair on Wednesday by sawing through a board in lieu of the conventional ribbon cutting.

The public is invited to attend.

Truck Stolen

Greenville Police are looking for the driver of a truck that overturned on Mall Drive one tenth of a mile south of Greenville Boulevard early today.

Chief Glenn Cannon said the vehicle had been reported stolen 25 minutes before officers found it upside down about 4 a.m.

Cannon said the truck, owned by Carolina Window and Weatherproofing, 902 Dickinson Ave., was reported taken from the home of an employee, James Lind McMahan, Edgewood Trailer Pk.

Damage to the truck was estimated at $3,000, while some $4,700 worth of equipment, including ladders, a hoist and motor, a tool chest and other items, were reported damaged when the truck overturned.

Investigators said the truck, apparently traveling at a high rate of speed, turned onto Mall Drive, went out of control leaving 500 feet of skid marks, then struck the curb and overturned.

Infections 'Common' For Nursing Home Patients

By DANIEL Q. HANEY
Associated Press Writer

BOSTON (AP) — Infected bedsores, diarrhea and lung ailments are common in nursing-home patients, and among the causes are too much staff turnover and too little hygiene training, a published report says.

Researchers who surveyed nursing home patients at seven Salt Lake City facilitiss found 16 percent suffer some kind of infection, although infected bedsores are by far the most common.

Nursing homes take care of about 5 percent of all Americans over age 65, and the researchers urged guidelines be established to prevent these outbreaks of infection.

Researchers from the University of Utah College of Medicine surveyed seven "skilled-care" nursing homes in Salt Lake City that housed 532 elderly patients, and they reported their findings in today's New England Journal of Medicine.

Although they looked at homes in only one city, they said they doubted what they saw "represents a unique or unusual experience."

They found 6 percent of the patients had infected bedsores, 3 percent had conjunctivitis, 3 percent had urinary tract infections, 2 percent had lower respiratory tract infections, and 1 percent had diarrhea.

Other studies have shown a similar prevalence of urinary and lower respiratory tract infections in hospitals. But the rates for skin infections, conjunctivitis and diarrhea were higher in the nursing homes.

The director of the study, Dr. Richard A. Garibaldi, said that despite the problems, nursing home administrators were conscientious and concerned about infection.

"We were not looking at dens of primitive care where people were treated inhumanely," he said. "At least superficially, the general level of care seemed to be reasonably good. I think it's much more subtle than obvious how diseases are transmitted."

Among the problems they found in the nursing homes:

—Turnover in the non-professional staffs was almost 100 percent during the three months before the survey, and 30 percent of the nurses also left. This "helps create an atmosphere of disorganization and confusion about infection-control issues."

—Non-professional aides have much of the direct contact with patients, such as shaving them and helping them out of bed.

—Only one home required its workers to get flu shots.

—None of them systematically surveyed for infections, routinely monitored patient care practices or conducted regular infection-control training.

—Infections broke out in clusters. Nine percent of the patients in one home had upper respiratory tract infections, while 10 percent in another had diarrhea.

—Six discouraged workers from calling in sick by refusing to pay wages during the first three days of their sick leave.

—Staff-to-patient ratio was 6 to 1 during the day but fell to 15 to 1 at night.

Bob Hope Will Be 'In Drag'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Comedian Bob Hope says he hopes it won't end his career, but he's doing a skit "in drag" with athletes Merlin Olsen and Bruce Jenner in a spoof of the Mandrell sisters to launch his 32nd TV season.

The show, which will be telecast Sunday on NBC, features Hope, former Los Angeles Rams football player Olsen and Olympic decathlon star Jenner in flaming red dresses, high silver heels and blonde wigs as the "Mandrake Sisters."

"The skit could be the end of my career," quipped Hope, 78, during a telephone interview from London. "But it really was a pretty dress."

The real Mandrell sisters, country and western singers Barbara, Louise and Irlene, have their own NBC-TV series.

While in London, he will be on the links with former President Gerald Ford for the Bob Hope British Golf Classic.

Senate Imposes Conditions On Aid To El Salvador

By JIM ADAMS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Handing a temporary defeat to President Reagan and the president of El Salvador, the Senate is moving toward blocking U.S. military aid to El Salvador unless the Central American country protects human rights and meets other conditions.

But the conditions, included in an amendment approved late Wednesday, could be reversed as the Senate continues work on a $5.8 billion foreign aid bill.

By approving the amendment, 54-42, the Senate rejected a proposal by Sen. Richard G. Lugar, R-Ind., to merely list the conditions as goals for the government of El Salvador. Reagan is against the conditions, Lugar said.

The conditions would halt U.S. military aid to El Salvador unless Reagan certified to Congress in writing that El Salvador is protecting human rights, moving to control its security forces, implementing economic reforms and is committed to free elections and willing to negotiate for peace.

El Salvador's President Jose Napoleon Duarte appealed to the Senate not to tie the condtions to military aid, calling such action "an unacceptable imposition on a government friendly to the United States."

"The rationale reflected in the conditions coincides with my own stated objectives, but the government and the people of El Salvador would consider legislative conditions as unwarranted," Duarte wrote in a letter to the Senate.

In other action on the bill, the Senate approved amendments by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., earmarking $5 million for Poland, $5 million for Lebanon and $5 million to promote breast feeding rather than use of commercial baby formulas in poor countries.

It also approved an amendment by Sen. Christopher Dodd, D-Conn., earmarking $12.5 million in economic aid for Costa Rica.

While opposing the conditions on the El Salvador aid, Reagan urged the Senate to approve the $5.8 billion without any further cuts.

He said in a letter that the bill would help meet "serious challenges abroad from the adventurism of the Soviet Union and its proxies in areas such as Southwest Asia, the Caribbean and Africa."

The bill would clear the way for the administration's planned $3 billion aid program for Pakistan and remove a ban on U.S. aid to Argentina.

It also would repeal Congress' ban on U.S. aid to Angola but would require the president to report to Congress in advance if he decides to provide aid to that southwest African country.

The bill would authorize $3.6 billion for U.S. military aid and related programs in the 1982 fiscal year, which starts next Thursday, $2.1 billion for economic aid and $105 million for the Peace Corps.

The measure is $900.5 million less than Reagan's original request, which was reduced as part of the administration's efforts to cut federal spending.

'Live' Holdup For Radio Listeners

MIAMI (AP) — It wasn't the first time crime had touched the staff of WNWS, but it was probably the most dramatic.

Listeners to the Miami radio station talk show tuned in a live stick-up Tuesday night when program director Jerry Williams stepped outside and was greeted by three men with a gun.

The men forced Williams back into the offices of WNWS and took $200, a gold chain, a watch and ring from him. They also attracted the attention of talk show host Neil Rogers, who asked listeners to call police. Many did, overloading Dade County emergency lines.

"They didn't seem to know they were in a radio station," Williams said of the robbers. "They asked if anybody else was around. I told them we were broadcasting and Neil Rogers was on the radio right now, as well as a producer.

"The one with the gun wanted to rob them, too, but the others were getting nervous. Then the one with the gun said, 'Let's kill him,' meaning me. But the other two were nervous — especially when they realized it was a radio station. I walked them to the back and showed them."

Officers arrived within minutes, but the bandits had escaped.

Another talk show host was robbed several months ago and Rogers has been held up at knifepoint at home, Williams said.

Auto Sales Above 1980

By STEPHEN JONES
Associated Press Writer

DETROIT (AP) — U.S. automakers, in what one analyst termed a "bland" but "good improvement," sold 9.9 percent more cars during the second 10 days of September than they did in the same period last year, according to company reports.

Sales for the period increased based on the rate of sales per day, although automakers said Wednesday that the actual number of cars sold was down, to 135,695 from 138,958 in the Sept. 11-20 period of 1980. There was one more selling day in last year's period.

Arvid Jouppi, an independent Detroit-based analyst, termed it a "bland improvement, considering all the rebates and so forth."

"But it's a good improvement," he said, "considering that we're running with a prime (interest) rate of 19.5 percent against a 12 percent prime rate a year ago."

General Motors Corp. said it sold 86,291 cars in mid-September, up 16.9 percent from the 83,017 cars sold in the same period in 1980. Chrysler Corp. sales of 11,017 cars were up 2.9 percent from last year's 12,044, while Ford Motor Co. sold 31,722 cars against 35,456, an improvement of 0.6 percent.

Again, the percentage comparisons are based on the daily selling rate.

Sales by Volkswagen of America fell 9.2 percent to 3,465 cars from 4,296 in the year-ago period, and American Motors Corp. sales of an estimated 3,200 cars were down 13.2 percent from 4,145. AMC sales figures are estimated because the automaker reports its sales on a monthly basis only.

Each of the automakers, except VW, offered some form of sales incentive during the period. GM was offering its customers new car loans at a 13.8 percent annual interest rate; Ford was offering incentives to dealers of up to $1,000 per car plus customer rebates on selected models; Chrysler was giving its customers $300-$1,000 rebates; and AMC was giving $100-$1,000 dealer incentives plus $500 rebates on its Concord models.

Surprisingly, Chrysler claimed only 8.1 percent of the market for domestic makes in the mid-September period, the company's smallest share for any 10-day selling period this year. Chrysler's lowest previous share was 10.1 percent during the second 10 days of March. For the Jan. 1-Sept. 20 period, Chrysler has claimed a 12 percent share of the market.

"Very simply, it's competition," Jouppi said. "General Motors has more things coming against them. Ford has more things coming against them."

For the year, industrywide sales are up 0.7 percent based on the daily selling rate. U.S. automakers have sold 4,695,431 cars compared with 4,707,050 by the same time last year.

So far this year, GM sales of 2,867,062 cars are 2 percent behind last year's sales of 2,950,811 cars, while Ford has sold 1,044,589 cars, up 0.3 percent from the 1,051,478 cars sold by the same time last year.

Chrysler has sold 560,779 cars, up 23.3 percent from last year's 458,604; VW sales are down 13.1 percent to 118,722 from 137,818.

Claims Atlanta Scapegoat Role

ATLANTA (AP) — Wayne B. Williams insists he has been made a "scapegoat" by authorities, according to a jailhouse interview in US Magazine.

Williams, a 23-year-old free-lance cameraman, is charged with murder in the deaths of Jimmy Ray Payne, 21, and Nathaniel Cater, 27, two of 28 young blacks whose slayings over the past two years have been investigated by a special police task force. No trial date has been set.

The interview, conducted by journalist Micki Siegel, appears in the Oct. 13 edition of the magazine. Advance copies of the New York-based publication arrived at Atlanta news media organizations Wednesday.

The jailhouse interview took place without the knowledge or approval of jail officials, said Fulton County Sheriff Leroy Stynchcombe after being told about the article by Atlanta television station WSB-TV.

Stynchcombe said he would meet with Superior Court Judge Clarence Cooper, who is presiding over Williams' case, today to discuss how the interview could have occurred without the sheriff's knowledge.

The only people who have been allowed to visit Williams since he was taken into custody last June were his parents, his attorneys and six persons named on a list by Williams' attorneys as being involved in preparation of his defense, Stynchcombe told WSB-TV.

Mary Welcome, Williams' attorney, said she knew about the article, but she refused to comment on whether she had authorized the interview or whether she was present when it occurred.

Cooper, who was given a copy of the article by WSB-TV, refused to comment Wednesday.

Last month, the judge ordered police, attorneys and potential witnesses to refrain from talking to reporters about the case, saying it was "the trial judge's responsibility to control prejudicial pretrial publicity and the defendant's right to a fair trial."

Ms. Welcome said Wednesday that as far as she knew, Williams himself was not subject to the judge's gag order.

She also said Williams "has not sold any literary rights," but she would not comment on whether his father, a free-lance photographer, had been paid for providing the magazine with a series of photographs of his son.

In the jailhouse interview, which will continue in a second installment in the magazine, Williams reiterated criticisms of the FBI and Atlanta police officers that he made in a news conference held at his home on June 4 after he had been interrogated for several hours by FBI and Atlanta police.

He also said he felt he was being used as a scapegoat by the special task force assigned to investigate the series of slayings. The task force, which at one point included about 100 officers, was funded partially by a $1 million federal grant.

"When you get all this money and you don't do anything with it," Williams was quoted as saying, "people start to ask questions. At some point, you've got to answer for it. I feel that I'm the scapegoat."

School Electric Usage Is Up

The kilowatt hour consumption level for all Pitt County schools increased from a total of 7,737,334 kwh for the 1979-80 school year to a total of 8,107,296 kwh for the 1980-81 school year, according to George Laws, energy control office for the county schools.

The accompanying prices rose from $398,398.30 to $440,628.92, an increase of $42,230.62, reported Laws. "Fortunately, even this level of consumption was below the 9,059,912 kwh level of use that occurred during the 1977-78 school year," noted the energy officer. "Had that much electricity been used, the costs would have totaled $498,295.16."

Laws noted that a total increase of $99,896.86 was avoided by keeping usage down. "Such a loss would have added $57,666.24 to the loss the school system suffered this past year," explained the energy officer.

Laws commented that it is essential that measures be taken to eliminate unnecessary uses of air-conditioning, lighting, electric appliances and other energy-consuming equipment.

Congress Fight Ahead Over Sewage Cleanup

By WILLIAM KRONHOLM
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A battle is shaping up in Congress over President Reagan's proposal to sharply reduce the federal government's multibillion-dollar effort to clean sewage from U.S. rivers and lakes.

The Senate Environment Committee, under pressure from Reagan, voted Wednesday to cut the long-term federal program to help cities build sewage facilities from $90 billion to $22 billion.

But the House Public Works Committee, saying the Senate version would throw more than $60 billion in additional expenses onto already overburdened municipal budgets, is showing no sign of going along.

The House committee was working today on legislation that would continue the program almost at current levels. Senators say the House bill, unless drastically trimmed, sets the stage for a House-Senate confrontation and a possible Reagan veto.

Municipalities throughout the nation have depended on federal funds for 75 percent of the cost of new sewage facilities.

Unless new legislation is enacted, the federal funds stop next Wednesday with the end of the fiscal year. Ed Hopkins of the Clean Water Action Project says that if some legislation is not enacted, construction could stop in 40 states.

But Bob Maitlin, an aide to Rep. Robert A. Roe, D-N.J., says that even without federal funds, hundreds of cities will remain under Environmental Protection Agency orders to install new facilities.

"Somebody has to pay for them," Maitlin said. "All they (the senators) are espousing is, not saving that money, but sending that $60 billion (cost) back to the states."

Roe, sponsor of the House bill, has estimated that the trimmed-down administration program approved by the Senate committee could increase annual sewer bills for average households from their current $150 to $900 or more.

Reagan has said he would not approve any funds for the program in the coming fiscal year unless deep cuts were made. The cuts adopted by the Senate committee were tailored to meet Reagan's demands.

Hardest hit would be the growing cities of the Sunbelt.

The Senate bill ends most financing for collector systems — the pipes that would bring sewage from new homes into the main sewer system — and sharply restricts financing for so-called "reserve capacity" — building larger-than-needed treatment plants to accommodate future growth.

It also bases sewer needs on 1980 population; existing law considers projected needs in 1990. And it cuts the federal share of projects from 75 percent now to 65 percent next year and 55 percent in 1985.

The House bill, by contrast, continues the 75 percent federal share of the cost and includes full federal payment for collector systems and reserve capacity treatment plants as long as they are now in the planning stages.

Since construction of such systems takes eight to 10 years from planning to completion, the cuts in the House bill would not be fully implemented for almost a decade.

The Senate committee staff estimated Wednesday that the House version of the bill could bring the long-range federal commitment to between $53 billion and $55 billion — more than twice the $24 billion ceiling Reagan has set.

Roe argues that his bill meets the president's budget figure because it authorizes only $2.4 billion for the fiscal year beginning Oct. 1, the same as the Senate bill and the amount Reagan has approved.

Hunt Predicts Tobacco 'War'

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Supporters of the federal tobacco program should brace for for more congressional attacks, Gov. Jim Hunt said Wednesday.

"It's going to be a day-in, day-out proposition," said Hunt. "The enemies of the program are going to come at it a thousand ways and a thousand times. The only way we can be successful is to have a lot of friends, good friends who will vote with us."

Hunt said the Reagan administration is no friend of federal farm commodity programs, such as those that limit production and support prices for North Carolina growers of tobacco and peanuts.

Hunt did not blame Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., and Sen. John East, R-N.C., for last week's congressional attack on the tobacco and peanut programs.

But he said the tobacco program "would have been in much better shape" if former Democratic Sen. Robert Morgan, who lost last year to East, was still in the Senate.

"I don't question that they worked hard," Hunt said of Helms and East. "But you don't put it (the coalition of farm-state lawmakers) back together at the last minute. The farm coalition has to stay together."

The coalition fell apart last week during debate on the farm bill when opponents of the peanut price-support program succeeded in passage of an amendment that alters the allotment program. Under the change, non-allotment holders will now be able to grow peanuts for export or production of peanut oil.

The coalition was patched back together in time to protect the tobacco price support program from change. But the votes were close on some amendments, with Helms' side prevailing by a one-vote margin on one amendment.

Hunt said he believes the changes in the peanut program are the beginning of a slow death for the entire peanut program.

"I think those actions will lead toward the death of the program," he said. "I think it will be a longer process for peanuts, but it's a major and terrible blow for that program."

On another topic, Hunt denied that he had any involvement in discussions about locating a Richard M. Nixon presidential library in the Research Triangle Park instead of on the Duke University campus, where talks are now under way for the library.

He said he would have no objection to the project, however, if directors of Research Triangle Park want the library.

Weather Post Tour Offered

RALEIGH — The National Weather Service will host an open house at its facility at Raleigh-Durham Airport Saturday from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m.

A tour designed to explain forecasting, observing and equipment for the 1980's has been planned for visitors, according to meterologist in charge John R. McClain.

During the tour, the public, marine, aviation, flood, fire-weather, air pollution, severe weather, NOAA Weather Radio, and agriculture programs will be discussed, and the use of satellite imagery and radar will be demonstrated.

"People are affected by weather every day, McClain said. "We believe residents that are informed are likely to make weather-related decisions that result in better and safer lives."

The tour will begin at the Imperial Air Freight facility next to the National Weather Service office. A sign will direct visitors to the "Air Cargo" area at the Raleigh-Durham Airport where free parking has been made available.

The Third Annual Pitt County Market Hog Show and Sale will be held Sept. 29 at the Livestock Arena on the Pitt County Fairgrounds, beginning at 7 p.m. Competition will be open to purebred and crossbred gilts and barrows weighing at least 200 pounds but not more than 240 pounds. All hogs will be checked on Sept. 28 from 8 a.m. to noon and be on exhibit until Sept. 30, when all hogs will be sold for slaughter. Hogs will be shown in classes of individuals and pens of three in both junior and senior divisions.

N.C. Zoo May Limit Budget

ASHEBORO, N.C. (AP) — The sluggish economy may force the North Carolina Zoological Park Council to restrict its budget for the next two years, a state official said Wednesday.

"The next two years may be the toughest we've had, the tightest budgets since the 1975 recession," said Joe Grimsley, secretary of state Department of Natural Resources and Community Development. "Moving ahead to new territories (zoo exhibits) will not be easy."

Grimsley, in his first appearance before the council since he replaced Howard Lee as NRCD secretary, said the board would have to look more to private sources for financial contributions to expand in the future.

"But we must increase attendance and revenues," Grimsley said, referring to figures announced at the meeting showing attendance down by more than 21 percent from last year.

Bars Voting In New Bern

NEW BERN, N.C. (AP) — A federal judge has issued a restraining order to halt New Bern's Oct. 6 municipal election until a hearing can be held on the diputed annexation of two communities.

U.S. District Judge John D. Larkins signed the order Wednesday. A hearing on the annexation is scheduled Monday in U.S. District Court in New Bern.

About 210 Pinecrest and Kensington Park residents have been left in political limbo because the U.S. Justice Department objects to New Bern's recent annexation of the two areas. Under the 1965 Voting Rights Act, the federal government must approve the annexation before it becomes effective.

The Justice Department has agreed to allow the Oct. 6 New Bern municipal elections to take place, but won't allow residents of Pinecrest and Kensington to vote until the annexation issue is settled.

Some Pinecrest residents have formed the West New Bern Community Action Association, and have hired a Raleigh lawyer to stop the election until they are allowed to vote.

Don McDowell, the leader of the group, said he was pleased when he heard the news of the temporary restraining order.

Demonstrated Against FBI

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — More than 100 people rallied against the FBI during a bureau recruitment drive Wednesday at the University of North Carolina.

Several professors and students, characterizing the FBI as "political police" or an "activist tool" of the Reagan administration, spoke to those assembled in the UNC Law School's Van-Hecke-Wettach Hall.

Richard Rosen, a UNC law instructor, said the Reagan administration will use the FBI to curb opposition to its policies.

Meanwhile, an unperturbed agent Chuck Richards conducted a recruiting "seminar" in a nearby room.

Richards said he's been coming to UNC at Chapel Hill every six months for the past three years. About 10 students were recruited from the campus furing the past couple of years, he said, with approximately 60 percent o those came from the law school.

Sees Elegance Lost To World

NEW YORK (AP) — Today's world lacks elegance in clothing, food, women and especially music, 72-year-old jazz legend Benny Goodman says.

Goodman says he "can't imagine someone 40 years from now reminiscing fondly about having heard Blondie, or even the Rolling Stones, or — what was the name of that group the other day? — Clash."

"What can they say about it?" the clarinetist and band leader told American Heritage magazine. "'Remember the volume, the flickering lights? Remember when we got high?' I doubt it.

Rose Hosts Knights In League Opener

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

When Ronald Vincent thinks bout last year's game against lorthern Nash, he remembers ividly the fact that Rose was ehind 21-6 after the first uarter of play.

The Rampants came back to vin the game, 42-21, but that arly lead brings back ightmares.

The Rampants, 3-0 on the eason and ranked third in the tate by the Associated Press, lay host to Northern Nash on 'riday at 7:30 p.m. in Ficklen tadium. It will be the first Big East game of the year for the wo teams, and a key game in he league race.

Rose comes into the game off he heels of a 14-12 victory over trong Wilmington Hoggard, while Northern Nash had the week off last Friday.

Overall, Rose has beaten Jacksonville (15-14) and New Bern (34-14) in its other two outings. Northern Nash, 2-1 on he year, lost its opener to strong 3-A power Tarboro, 22-16, then bounced back to beat 3-A Southern Nash, 26-0, and 4-A Vance, 8-6. Vance, last week, overpowered previously unbeaten Raleigh Sanderson, 40-0.

Looking back on last week's game with Hoggard, Vincent said he felt that Rampants were quite fortunate to come away with the victory. "We really played well, but they were so big. Hoggard's size dominated us inside at times. I hope we won't be playing anyone else of their size."

Vincent also pointed out that Rose was also fortunate to be 3-0 having faced three fullbacks listed among the top 100 players in the state in those first three weeks.

"I'm disappointed that we didn't throw the ball better than we did against Hoggard. At the same time, I'm pleased with the running game." Vincent explained that Hoggard, trying to protect against Rose's passing game, brought its inside linebackers outside to double cover both split ends, Chris McLawhorn and Marty Barnes, and that left the inside vulnurable to the run.

"Roderick Harrell did a good job running the ball," Vincent said. Harrell finished the game with 164 yards, more than he had rushed for in his first two games. Harrell now has 279 yards on the season, a 5.1 per carry average. Oddly enough, he has yet to score.

"I'm extremely pleased with the play of our offensive line. Coach (Joe) Godette has done a fine job in bringing them along. Donnell Lee (flanker) also played really well. He did a good job blocking, running the ball and running his pass patterns."

Lee, at flanker, has rushed for 127 yards with a 9.8 average, and is the only other runner besides Harrell with over 100 yards. He's caught three passes for 41 yards.

McLawhorn is the leading receiver, with eight catches for 160 yards and two scores. Barnes has five receptions for 140 yards.

Defensively, however, Vincent was not as happy. "I can't remember when someone has rushed for the yardage they got against us," he said. "A lot of that, however, was due to their size. We were able to make the big plays and that saved us.

Also, Hoggard had trouble hanging onto the ball, turning it over six times. "We can't expect things like that in every game," Vincent added.

He did single out the play of Calvin Joyner, Larry Batts and Freddy Cherry for the game.

"I thought that our kicking game was very good this week, too. We covered kickoffs and punts well, and Willie Levett's kicks on extra points won the game for us."

Northern Nash brings one of the better passing games the Rampants will face into the game. Quarterback Thomas Mabry, working from the I-formation, has been a pocket passer, hitting about 50 per cent of his throws.

"Northern is a very good team," Vincent said. "They have thrown the ball really well, but haven't run the ball that well so far. Mabry will also go into the shotgun at times. He's a fine athlete."

When he has to, Mabry can scramble, and is rated a fine runner.

The leading rusher so far, however, has been tailback Kevin Haywood, who has collected 165 yards in the three games.

Mabry's top receivers have been split end Kevin Payne with eight catches, and flanker Maurice Williams with six.

Defensively, Northern uses a 4-4 alignment, led up front by 5-11, 220-pounder Linwood Harper. Linebacker Clint Carter (6-1, 185) is listed as the top defensive player, but is also helped along by linebacker Mike Buettener (5-9, 180). In the backfield, Ronnie Stample has intercepted two passes thus far.

"Their defense has been very effective these last two games," Vincent said. "They blitz a lot, on nearly every play, and that has us worried. They are very aggressive and won't give up."

Vincent doesn't want the Rampants to get off to the start they got off to last year against the Knights. "Getting that far behind could kill us," he said. "We need to set the pace this time."

The coach admits surprise at being 3-0 and third ranked in the state right now. "We've done a lot better than I thought we would," he said. "We still have a lot of improving to do both offensively and defensively.

"These next two games are going to tell us a lot about where we stand in the conference," Vincent added. "Beating Northern would really get us off to a good start in the conference race."

Rose travels to Rocky Mount next week, while Northern visits Beddingfield. Elsewhere in the league this week, Beddingfield (3-0) is at Rocky Mount (3-0), in a key league game, while Fike (1-2) entertains Northeastern (2-1), and Hunt (1-2) is at Kinston (0-2-1).

Disappointed In Not Getting Win

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

East Carolina coach Ed Emory expressed disappointment that the Pirates didn't beat N.C. State last Saturday night, feeling that they should have done so.

"I felt we played 57 minutes of good football — good enough to win. After evaluating every play, every series, every call, I feel we should have won if we hadn't had breakdowns during those three minutes," Emory said at his weekly press conference yesterday.

Those three minutes involved a time when the Pirates fumbled the ball deep in State territory, and on two punt returns that came slightly later in the game. Late in the third period, the score was still tied at 10-10.

"The fumble hurt us, but I still think we had a chance to win the game. We missed a field goal right after that, but got the ball back when they fumbled."

After that, East Carolina was forced to punt and Louie Meadows drove the kick back 36 yards to set up another State touchdown. "But even at 24-10, we weren't out of the game. There was still time left," the coach said.

Minutes later, however, East Carolina faced a fourth and one situation. "We made the decision to go for it on a fake punt, but some missed communications caused us to punt."

Emory explained that like this: he had told the kicking coach he wanted to run the fake punt, and the punting unit was given this information. Meanwhile, the press box coaches requested through offensive coordinator Wright Anderson that the offensive unit make the play, rather than the punting unit.

"When Wright asked me about using the offensive unit, I told him, 'No, we're going with the punting team.' Apparently, the kicking coach heard me and misunderstood, thinking that we were going to kick after all, and instructed the team to punt."

Emory added that the Pirates held the ball more time than State did, had a good amount of yardage, but should have scored more. "We converted only 33 per cent of our third downs (6 of 18), and that's well below our goal of 60 per cent. We failed in third and four and third and five situations too many times."

But, the coach added, of the 13 times the Pirates got the ball from State, 12 were inside the ECU 25, and the other time was inside the Pirate 40. "We BUIES CREEK — Campbell rolled to a 3-1 soccer victory over East Carolina University yesterday.

All of the scoring came in the first half, as Doug Kelly scored the ECU goal, off an assist by Andy Roman.

East Carolina had only five shots on goal, with Campbell recording two saves. Campbell meanwhile had 18 shots on goal, with goalie Steve Brown having ten saves and freshman backup Danny Curtis having three. Brown is currently playing with a broken hand.

"They outhustled us, they beat us to the ball," Coach Brad Smith said in disgust after the loss.

East Carolina, now 2-3, travels to Greensboro on Saturday to face Guilford College in a 3 p.m. match. Campbell is now 5-0-1 on the year.

Matthews Homer Hurts Card Chances

By WILLIAM R. BARNARD
AP Sports Writer

Gary Matthews, whose sixth homer this month helped knock the St. Louis Cardinals out of first place, doesn't relish having to take his hot bat to cold Montreal for the National League East playoffs.

"It's just so cold up there in Montreal," Matthews said after his two-run homer and RBI single paced the Philadelphia Phillies to a 9-4 triumph over the Cardinals Wednesday night. "It makes it a little bit harder to get up. I think really, within a short series, they (the Expos) would have the advantage."

The Phillies, who are automatically in the division playoffs because they finished in first place in the East before the players' strike, will meet the second-half winner starting Oct. 6. Montreal now leads by one-half game.

After reflecting on the question of who the Phillies would rather play, Matthews said, "Actually who you play is not significant in that anybody represents a threat in a short series. It was proven last week when St. Louis lost three games in New York."

What concerns Matthews and Manager Dallas Green is how the Phillies, 4½ games out of first in the second half, are playing.

"We've just got to be more consistent," Matthews said. "We're not really playing the way we're capable of playing."

"We're going hard into ohe playoffs trying to prove that we can maintain some kind of consistency," said Green. "I keep telling them we can't turn our talent on and off like a light bulb."

In other NL games, Montreal nipped Pittsburgh 3-2, Chicago edged New York 2-1, Atlanta beat Houston 3-1, Cincinnati drubbed San Diego 5-1 and San Francisco tripped Los Angeles 8-4.

"We'll be all right if we start hitting," said Cards Manager Whitey Herzog after Wednesday's loss to the Phillies, St. Louis' fifth in six games. "Tonight we got out of the game early.

"We've got 11 games to go. If we win seven, we'll be all right. If we don't, we won't."

Dickie Noles, 2-2, pitched six innings and allowed four hits for the victory. Left-hander Sparky Lyle worked the final three innings for his second save.

Philadelphia scored four runs in the fourth inning. Pete Rose's two-run single off John Martin, 6-5, preceded Matthews' two-run homer, only his eighth of the season despite his hot September.

Matthews also singled home a run in the fifth, Dick Davis belted his second homer in the sixth and Mike Schmidt hit a three-run double in the ninth for the Phillies, who had 13 hits.

Noles, who spent half the season in the minor leagues, pitched a one-hit shutout through five innings, but pinch-hitter Steve Braun and Garry Templeton both doubled home runs for St. Louis in the sixth.

Expos 3, Pirates 2

Jerry White hit a solo homer with one out in the ninth off Rick Rhoden to give Montreal the victory and a half-game lead in the East.

The Expos had tied the score 2-2 in the eighth on Larry Parrish's RBI single after the Pirates took a 2-1 lead in the sixth on Tim Foli's sacrifice fly.

Jason Thompson hit his 14th homer for Pittsburgh, his third in three games and fourth in five contests.

Grant Jackson, 2-2, was the victor with two innings of hitless relief.

Braves 3, Astros 1

Atlanta has been shut out four times in the second half of the season when Rick Mahler was the starter, but against Houston the right-hander made sure it wouldn't happen again.

Besides pitching a three-hitter, Mahler, 6-6, hit a two-run double in the fourth inning. The Braves also scored in the second on Matt Sinatro's RBI single.

Reds 5, Padres 1

Cincinnati cut first-place Houston's margin to two games in the NL West by beating San Diego as George Foster and Junior Kennedy both drove in a pair of runs.

Foster keyed a three-run first inning for the Reds with a two-run double and Kennedy knocked him in with a single. Kennedy also got an RBI on a grounder in the fifth.

Frank Pastore, 4-7, allowed all six of San Diego's hits in 7⅓ innings before Joe Price got the last five outs for his fourth save.

Cubs 2, Mets 1

Mike Krukow, 8-9, pitched a two-hitter for eight innings and Dick Tidrow bailed him out of a ninth-inning jam to keep Chicago ahead of New York.

The Cubs scored both of their runs in the fourth inning off Ed Lynch, 4-4, when Ivan DeJesus tripled and scored when catcher John Stearns dropped a throw to the plate after a rundown. Steve Henderson hit a run-scoring single later in the inning.

Giants 8, Dodgers 4

Enos Cabell climaxed a four-run sixth inning for San Francisco with a two-run single and Joe Morgan hit a solo homer as Los Angeles lost its fifth in a row.

The Giants broke a 4-4 tie in the sixth as Milt May and Johnnie LeMaster singled in runs before Cabell's hit.

Gary Lavelle won his first game in seven decisions this year by getting the last two outs in the sixth after the Dodgers tied the score on Rick Monday's homer and a groundout.

Wake Planning Athletic Dorm

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — Wake Forest University is considering building an athletic dormitory to house varsity football and basketball players, but officials say it will be in line with NCAA regulations.

National Collegiate Athletic Association guidelines for athletic housing specify that athletic dorms must be "on the same basis" as housing for other students.

Dr. James McDowell, chairman of the Institutional Planning Committee, has expressed concern over long-range planning that might be disrupted by the proposal.

He said there are limits on space for buildings on the campus and that further construction should be studied carefully to take in the needs of the students as a whole.

"We are facing a definite space shortage and building another dorm without considering space lost would be very costly in the future," he said.

Athletic director Dr. Gene Hooks, who recommended the athletic dormitory, said he was aware of the problems in housing.

"I can understand their concerns," he said, "but the athletes are my responsibility and I want to do the best job I can for them."

Hooks said the proposed dormitory would be similar to the new women's student housing, which is reported to be considerably better than the men's housing constructed when the university moved to Winston-Salem.

Dr. Jack Sawyer, a member of the NCAA Council, said NCAA regulations permitted some differences in student housing but barred luxury accommodations.

Clint Harris Anticipates Good Year Ahead For ECU's Pirates

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

Last Saturday night, East Carolina defensive back Clint Harris made it look easy. He stepped in front of an N.C. State defender, pulled in a Tol Avery pass and returned it 21 yards.

The interception was his second of the season, and gives the 5-11, 186-pound Chesapeake, Va., sophomore a career total of four for 124 yards. Both figures lead the team.

"It was just anticipation from watching the quarterback," Harris said of the State interception. "I usually watch films to see how the quarterback reacts. Normally, he throws quickly, but he didn't on that one."

As to how easy he made it look, Harris said he felt that the ball may have been overthrown to another receiver. "I was really coming up thinking to make the tackle," he said.

A week earlier, he had given the Pirates field position for the first time against North Carolina with an interception of Rod Elkins. "We were in a 'two' coverage where I have to cover half of the field. I try to keep everything in front of me in that situation, and break on the quarterback. Again you have to anticipate the quarterback."

It might be noted that the ECU media guide, two statements appear under Harris' name in the All-Star section; "Exceptional speed," and "Anticipates well."

He apparently lives up to that billing.

In high school, Harris played a number of positions. "I was a running back, a split end and a flanker, along with playing defensive back," he said. "I like playing defense better because I like to hit. But I guess I like to run too — I'd really like running back punts and kickoffs, since I have 4.4 speed in the 40." Harris added that he really doesn't expect to get the chance to do that, however, since the usual scheme is to have an offensive back in to do the runbacks.

Asked to compare Carolina's Elkins to State's Avery, Harris feels Elkins is "definitely" the better thrower. "He sprints out more, but Avery is the better runner."

And for Carolina Kelvin Bryant and State's Joe McIntosh, Harris feels Bryant is "stronger and faster. There's no comparision between them now. I do think McIntosh slips off blocks better. You really have to wrap him up to bring him down. He's more like Amos Lawrence in that. He does have a chance to be real good, however."

Harris isn't looking back on the first three games of the season, in which the Pirates lost twice. "I look at the season as just starting now. Those first three were just exhibitions. I just think we have to win eight straight now and I think we can. We're ready to play (Toledo) at this point and show 'em that we don't quit and have the potential to be an outstanding team."

Safety Clint Harris

Disappointed...

had a drive a long way to get anything, and we needed some big plays, like the pass to (Norwood) Vann to get us going." That pass, down to the two yard line, set up the lone ECU touchdown.

"But our defense has to get us into better field position. I think we played hard in the game, but we didn't wrap 'em up on tackles. We have to attack the blockers more. On a positive note, they converted only two of 12 third down situations, but I'm still concerned about them getting us better field position."

Emory also expressed disappointment in the punting game. "I've been proud of our philosophy here and in the punting team. We've spent months and months on this and to have a breakdown hurts. We have made some personnel changes, and I'm not going to tolerate anything but fine play from our specialty teams."

East Carolina returns to action on Saturday night, hosting the University fo Toledo at 7 p.m. in Ficklen Stadium.

Reggie Gets In His Swings At Denny

By JOHN NELSON
AP Sports Writer

Two of his teammates carried Reggie Jackson from the field. He was clapping his hands together and laughing.

The reaction of New York Yankees owner George Steinbrenner several hours later was much less jocular.

"From here on, any pitcher who throws at a Yankee batter will be served with a lawsuit within 24 hours or during his next visit to New York — be it for pleasure or for work," Steinbrenner warned.

Steinbrenner's statement was prompted by two bench-clearing episodes and a fight between Jackson and Cleveland Indians pitcher John Denny over a brushback pitch Wednesday night.

After being knocked down and striking out in the second inning, Jackson postured angrily at Denny, and both benches spilled onto the field.

In the fourth inning, Jackson slugged a two-run homer off Denny, contributing to the Yankees' 6-1 rout of the Indians. After circling the bases, Jackson shouted and charged Denny, who had walked halfway from the mound to home plate.

Jackson knocked Denny to the ground, grabbing him arond the neck, and the benches and the bullpens cleared once again. After Jackson was carried from the field by Bobby Brown and Oscar Gamble, both he and Denny were ejected.

In a slugfest of a different sort, the Oakland A's clobbered Toronto 6-0 behind the five-hit pitching of Rick Langford to move into first place in the AL West by two percentage points over Kansas City.

Benefitting from the Royals' 6-2 loss to Minnesota, Oakland became the only first-half winner in the major leagues to currently lead its division in the second-half of the strike-torn season.

Rounding out AL action, it was Baltimore 1, Detroit 0; Boston 11, Milwaukee 5; Seattle 2, Texas 1, and California 7, Chicago 3.

Jackson said Denny acted as if he was daring him to act.

"That's the way I looked at it," Jackson said. "It looked like he was almost standing on the dirt near home plate. It looked like he wanted to slap me or something."

Cleveland Manager Dave Garcia spoke in behalf of Denny, who normally does not talk with reporters.

"I don't think that Denny tried to hit Jackson," he said. "I thought he was trying to move him away from the plate. I think it was unprofessional of Reggie and unprofessional of the umpire (home plate umpire Dale Ford) to warn my pitcher."

The Yankees already led 4-1 when Jackson hit his homer, only his 12th of the year. Yankees right-hander Rick Reuschel, 4-2, was the beneficiary of runs in the first two innings. The Yankees scored two more in the third on Brown's two-run single.

A's 6, Blue Jays 0

For the second straight night, Keith Drumright provided the lion's share of the Oakland offense. He drove in the winning run in Tuesday night's victory and had three RBI for Oakland Wednesday night as the A's completed a three-game sweep of Toronto.

Wayne Gross added a solo homer to back Langford, 11-9, who collected his third straight victory.

Drumright tripled home two runs in the second inning off Jim Clancy, 6-11, and his ground ball brought home a run in the fourth.

Twins 6, Royals 2

Gary Ward had three hits and scored three runs, and Dave Engle added a solo homer in the first inning to help move the Twins within 2½ games of Oakland.

Ward also drove in a run with a triple in the fifth, scoring on Engle's sacrifice fly.

Pete Redfern, 7-8, and Doug Corbett combined on a seven-hitter with Corbett picking up save No. 15.

The Twins have won two of the first three games in this four-game set that will be completed today.

Orioles 1, Tigers 0

Dennis Martinez became the major league's first 14-game winner with a three-hitter, and Jim Dwyer's leadoff homer in the ninth powered Baltimore over the Tigers. The loss snapped a four-game Detroit winning streak and trimmed the Tigers lead in the AL East to a half game over Boston.

Martinez, who has lost four, won his ninth straight, walking seven an striking out six. Martinez has not lost at Memorial Stadium in Baltimore since Aug. 16, 1980.

Dwyer's homer, his fourth, made a loser of Dan Petry, 9-8, who went into the ninth with a four-hit shutout.

Red Sox 11, Brewers 5

Gary Allenson slugged a grand slam homer, the second of his career, to key Boston's eight-run rally in the seventh inning.

With the bases loaded, Boston's Dave Stapleton walked to force in a run that made it 4-4, and Allenson's slam on a 3-2 delivery from Reggie Cleveland snapped the tie. After Dwight Evans, who homered in the first, singled in another run, Carl Yastrzemski completed the inning's scoring with a two-run single.

Evans had three hits and a walk, scored four runs and drove in two for the Red Sox.

Mariners 2, Rangers 1

Seattle shortstop Paul Serna homered to start a two-run rally in the seventh inning and make amends for a fourth-inning error that allowed Texas' only run to score.

Glenn Abbott, 4-7, and Shane Rawley combined on a four-hitter for the Mariners as Rawley earned haced to third on a single by Terry Bulling and scored as Julio Cruz grounded into a doubleplay.

Angels 7, White Sox 3

Brian Downing slugged a three-run homer and Mike Witt pitched a seven-hitter as California downed Chicago.

Downing's third-inning homer, his ninth, was the first off White Sox starter Steve Trout in the second season, covering 72 innings.

Witt, 6-9, broke a personal three-game losing streak.

Killanin Blasts U.S. Policy

BADEN-BADEN, West Germany (AP) — Lord Killanin, former president of the International Olympic Committee, began the 11th Olympic Congress today with a scornful attack on former President Carter over the United States' boycott of the 1980 Games in Moscow.

He described Carter's action as ill-advised and unprepared, and accused him of trying to sabotage the Moscow Games.

Killanin finished his eight-year term as IOC president after the Moscow Olympics and now has the title of honorary life president. He has played little part in Olympic affairs in the last year, however.

Killanin recalled the problems of his term of office, and the IOC's efforts to resist political interference.

"Little did we realize that the Olympic movement and the Olympic competitors were to be sacrificed by the ill-advised, unprepared action of the president of the United States of America, who endeavored to sabotage the Olympic games in Moscow — the Olympic games, the property of us all here and not that of the Soviet Union.

"I am glad to say this failed, and I believe the attempt is regretted by all concerned."

The speech set the stage for a congress during which talks are to be held on the subject of permitting professional athletes to compete in the Olympic Games.

While speakers from the International Olympic Committee, the National Olympic Committees and the international sports federations talked about the problems of the games Wednesday, IOC members were studying proposals for open Olympics.

The plan, prepared by the IOC's Eligibility Commission, keeps the door closed on money prizes in the Games.

It proposed that all athletes, whether professional or amateur, be allowed to compete in the games for medals only. The IOC could approve the plan next week, in time to change the whole character of the Games in Los Angeles in 1984.

A report from the commission, presided over by Willi Daume of West Germany, spoke of the changes that have come over the world sports scene.

It said sports meets had multiplied, standards had increased and athletes had to prepare more and more intensively for top-class competition, often training for many hours each day.

"The true amateur cannot be identified with the present-day champion," the report said.

The report drew conclusions about financial rewards for athletes that would have astounded the late Avery Brundage, president of the IOC from 1952 to 1972, and others who have upheld the ideals of amateurism.

"Money itself is not degrading unless it is wrongly acquired," the commission reported. "If openly declared, the athlete has every right to receive it."

The report declared that present-day athletes are not amateurs and at the same time are not true professionals.

"They are simply paid athletes," it added.

In an effort to reconcile this situation with the ideals of the lateBaron Pierre de Coubertin, founder of the modern Olympic Games, the commission recommended the adoption of two principles:

—Total unselfishness by athletes.

—An absolute ban on commercial interference in the Olympic.

Daume's commission proposed that participation in the Olympics be open, without any form of discrimination. But the athlete, usually paid, would compete for medals only.

"By trying to win it, he will prove his identity of the Olympic ideal," the report said. "He will enhance his reputation and his supremacy, and his future income."

The International Amateur Athletic Federation, at its congress in Rome last month, made no secret of athletes who take under-the-table payments. It said there was an accepted going rate for Olympic medallists and European champions at various meets.

John Holt, secretary general of the IAAF, was among the early speakers listed for today's congress session.

Another was Lance Cross of New Zealand, a member of the IOC's executive board, who has long campaigned for cleaning up what he calls hypocrisy in sport.

The congress is set to last five days. But decisions can only be made by the IOC, which is due to hold its session next week.

The IOC also has to decide where to stage the 1988 Olympic Games.

Seoul, the capital of South Korea, is reported gaining support in its bid for the Summer Games against the Japanese industrial city of Nagoya.

There are three rivals for the Winter Games — Calgary in Canada, Cortina d'Ampezzo in Italy and Falun in Sweden.

Both the Republic of Korea and the communist state of North Korea have National Olympic Committees which are recognized by the IOC.

The communist bloc on the IOC, numbering about 15, is expected to vote against Seoul.

The tension between the two Korean states, with the possibility of an invasion by the North, could sway some IOC members in favor of playing safe and going for Nagoya.

A question mark has hung over South Korea since the assassination of President Park Chung Hee two years ago.

Boos Turn To Cheers

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Garry Templeton was out in a baserunning gamble for the St. Louis Cardinals, but a Busch Stadium crowd of 16,845 cheered anyway.

The 25-year-old shortstop, suspended Aug. 26 for a series of obscene gestures directed at fans, was playing in his first contest at home since being reinstated Sept. 14 following an apology. He doubled twice in St. Louis' 9-4 loss Wednesday night to the Philadelphia Phillies.

Templeton's baserunning gamble came in the first inning when he attempted to streoch a hit to left-center off Dickie Noles into a triple.

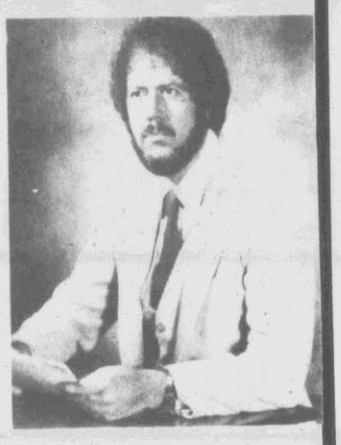

Center fielder Lonnie Smith relayed the ball from near the wall to shorstop Larry Bowa. The shortstop, although momentarily stunned to see Templeton trying for third, relayed the throw to third baseman Mike Schmidt in time to nail the fleet infielder.

Templeton, greeted by applause as he returned to the dugout, afterward drew more cheers each time he batted. He had also drawn generous applause when lineups were announced before the game.

Floyd Hopes To Gain Ground

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP) — Ray Floyd, gunning for some of golf's major seasonal honors, hopes to make up ground on absent rivals this week in the $250,000 Hall of Fame Classic.

"As you grow older, these things take on a greater importance in your thinking," said Floyd, who is the race for Player of the Year, leading money-winner and, possibly, the Vardon Trophy for the tour's low stroke average.

"You know that these things, along with the majors you may be fortunate enough to win, are the highlights of your career," he continued.

"I want to give it my best shot. I'd be foolish not to. I'll play as much as I have to the rest of the year," Floyd said before teeing off in today's first round of the 72-hole chase for a $54,000 first prize.

At 39, he's enjoying the best season of his 19-year tour career. He's won four times, including three events on the American tour, and has a great opportunity to improve his position in all three seasonal races. None of his major rivals are playing in this event.

Tom Watson, Bruce Lietzke, Bill Rogers and Tom Kite are his chief challengers in the race for Player of the Year. All are among the missing this week. Watson is not expected to play again in the United States this year. Rogers has only one more American tournament on his schedule. Lietzke's schedule for the remaining three events is uncertain.

Kite leads both the money-winning race ($355,724) and the Vardon Trophy standings (an average of 69.94.)

Floyd, with $347,676 in winnings, needs a finish of eighth or better this week to take over the No.1 money-winning spot. He also has a chance to make a move in the Vardon Trophy race. Lietzke is second with a 70.10 average and Floyd third at 70.24.

Floyd, a former winner of this event, needs to play the famed No.2 course at the Pinehurst Country Club in something under 280 — 4 under par — to make up important ground. And that is very possible, he said.

"It's one of my favorite courses and I'm continuing to play well," he said.

Among his major challengers are three members of the Hall of Fame: South African Gary Player, Jack Nicklaus and recently inducted Lee Trevino.

Also on hand are Hale Irwin, Ben Crenshaw and Jerry Pate, defending champion Phil Hancock, U.S. Amateur titleholder Nathaniel Crosby and Tom Weiskopf, a winner last week in the La Jet Classic.

Duran Set For Minchillo Bout

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Ever since he abruptly quit in the eighth round of his welterweight title defense against Sugar Ray Leonard, fighting Leonard again has been the only thing on Roberto Duran's mind.

The former welterweight king takes another step on the comeback trail Saturday when he fights Italy's Louigi Minchillo, the European junior middlweight champion, but he makes it clear he thinks of Minchillo as only a stepping stone to the top.

"I came back into the ring and boxing to fight Sugar Ray Leonard again and not anybody else," Duran said through an interpreter. "I'm ready for this guy (Minchillo) but I'm continuing fighting only to fight Sugar Ray Leonard."

Duran, who gave Leonard his only defeat by decisioning him in their first bout, abruptly quit in the eighth round of their rematch last November in New Orleans.

Stung by the universally heavy criticism of his action, Duran hung up the gloves until Aug. 9 when he returned, a bit rusty and out of shape, to pound out a 10-round decision over Nino Gonzales in Cleveland.

The fight against Minchillo, ironically at the same outdoor arena at Caesars Palace where Leonard stopped Thomas Hearns last week, is another step toward what Duran hopes will be a third match with Leonard, now the undisputed welterweight champion.

"When I won the championship they told me I would have to give Leonard a rematch and I didn't create any problems about it," Duran said. "I fought him in five months and gave him a return match. Why doesn't he do the same for me?"

Duran, whose bout against Minchillo is at a contract weight of 154 pounds, says he would have liked to fight Leonard for his World Boxing Association junior middleweight crown. Leonard gave that up Wednesday because of WBA rules against a fighter holding crowns in more than one weight division.

But, Duran said, he will fight Leonard as a welterweight if that is what it takes to get a rematch.

"If I have to I will," Duran said. "I just hope you can understand he is trying to duck me by doing that. He should just stop talking and start fighting. That's what we're here for."

Duran said he hopes to have one more fight after Minchillo and then go up against World Boxing Council junior middleweight champion Wilfred Benitez early next year. After that, he says, he wants Leonard.

In Minchillo, Duran will be fighting a virtual unknown in the United States, but also a fighter with a very respectable 33-1 record and 20 knockouts.

Minchillo, who took the European junior middleweight title July 1 with a 12-round decision over Luis Arcaries, has never fought in the United States. He has a common opponent with Duran in Leonard, who knocked Minchillo out in the second round of an amateur bout in Italy before the 1976 Olympics.

The fight, which begins about 1:30 p.m. PDT in what is expected to be near 100-degree heat in the outdoor arena, will be televised nationally by CBS.

A TALL HOOSIER

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) — Bobby Knight, the flamboyant coach of Indiana University's national championship basketball team, has his first 7-footer at that school.

The energetic Knight recruited Uwe Blab, a 7-2 center from West Germany. Bobby found Uwe at Effingham, Ill., High School.

Jefferson, Williams May Play For GB Saturday

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — John Jefferson and Delvin Williams, two new cogs in the Green Bay Packer offense, may be ready to play against the Minnesota Vikings Sunday at Milwaukee.

"I expect to play Sunday, at least some, because I think I can get the game plan down," said Jefferson, the swift and slick wide receiver the Packers snared from the San Diego Chargers, who could not reach agreement with him over a contract.

As to Sunday plans for halfback Williams, picked up on waivers from the Miami Dolphins Wednesday, Coach Bart Starr said he was uncertain.

"It's hard to say. He hasn't been that active," Starr said. "I chatted with him when he was here and he said he had been working out. Again, that depends on what he's been doing and how extensively."

Williams at first was a training-camp holdout and asked the Dolphins to trade him. Later he reneged and told Coach Don Shula he wanted to return. He was waived before the start of the season.

He was in Green Bay a week ago for a tryout. Starr said the Packers acquired him because they were "short of some people and have some guys banged up."

Specifically, the Packers have lost starting tailback Eddie Lee Ivery for the season with a knee injury, and starting fullback Gerry Ellis twwsted his ankle last Sunday against the Rams and did not practice Wednesday.

Williams' agent, Ohio attorney Greg Lustig, would not reveal terms of the contract Williams was to sign but said Williams would make more than half the $275,000 salary Miami paid him last season.

$300 Million Marijuana Smuggling Ring Broke

By KEN KLEIN
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Federal indictments have broken up a brazen $300 million drug smuggling ring that used profits from marijuana sales to buy $10 million in valuable Florida land where it often stashed the contraband, authorities say.

A federal grand jury in Pensacola on Wednesday indicted 12 people — including a former Key West city attorney — in connection with smuggling in "Operation Sunburn." State and federal officials said three men in the ring had been arrested and nine others were still at large.

The investigation began in 1978 after a shrimp boat ran aground in the Gulf of Mexico off the Florida Panhandle after a marijuana shipment was unloaded, said James W. York, commissioner of Florida's Department of Law Enforcement.

"They won't hesitate to bring it (marijuana) in right under your nose," he said. "This operation didn't use the mother-ship method. The marijuana was flown in or sent directly by boats."

Since 1978, authorities have made related drug busts in Panama City, Fla., and Savannah, Ga. The largest occurred in 1978, when agents found 70,000 pounds of marijuana in a Tallahassee warehouse.

Shrimpers in the Florida Keys were hired to haul some of the illicit weed, York said.

Some of the nine fugitives are expected to surrender, state drug agents said. But two of them are apparently in South America, said U.S. Attorney Nicholas P. Geeker of Pensacola.

All of the defendants were charged with conspiracy under the federal racketeering act. Six were also charged with operating a continuing criminal business.

"The indictment of these 12 people penetrates the backbone of the largest marijuana organization to be prosecuted by the U.S. Justice Department," York said.

Authorities said they combed through records to penetrate the secret drug underworld. Geeker described leaders of the marijuana-smuggling trade as confident and gutsy.

Two defense lawyers from southern Florida were named in the indictments. One of the lawyers, Manuel Winston James, is a former city attorney of Key West as well as the step-son of that city's police chief.

Geeker said he will seek forfeiture of some 20 parcels of land, which he said the defendants bought with smuggling profits and sometimes used to store pot. Assets can be confiscated under the federal Racketeering Influenced and Corrupt Organization Act.

Among parcels are the 23.5-acre Safe Harbor Marina in Key West, valued at more than $3 million; a 690-acre farm near Cottondale in Jackson County, and the Aucilla River Fish Camp in Taylor County, south of Tallahassee in the Florida Panhandle. Geeker said marijuana has been unloaded at the camp.

During the investigation, state and federal agents used seven court-ordered wiretaps in Pensacola, Milton, Hallandale, Miami and Key West.

In custody Wednesday were James L. Sellers, a Pensacola truck driver; Manuel Eric Villanueva, and Antonio E. Bascaro, both of Miami. Authorities said neither Jose Luis Acosta of Miami nor Rene Benitez of Colombia were in the country.

Also indicted were James; Gustavo J. Fernandez of Key West; Fort Lauderdale defense attorney Clifford B. Wentworth; Carlton C. Reeves of Milton; Russell Hobson of Satellite Beach; John M. Araneo of Fort Lauderdale and Patrick Waldrop of Birmingham, Ala.

Villanueva, Acosta, Bascaro, Fernandez, James and Wentworth were charged with operating a continuing criminal enterprise.

Hunt Believes Money Available For Raises

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Gov. Jim Hunt said Wednesday that healthy tax collections in August bear out his administration's forecast that money would be available this year for a teacher and state employee pay raise.

At his weekly news conference, Hunt said state tax collection figures for August support revenue estimates showing a 17.25 percent increase in General Fund income over the same period last year.

For July and August, the first two months of the fiscal year, the report shows a 14.2 percent rise in General Fund revenues, although fiscal analysts have said that part of the increase is a statistical exaggeration.

Hunt also voiced caution about the figures. "We shouldn't read more into them than they deserve because things tend to even out," he said.

Hunt said he would oppose any move by the Legislature to give a pay increase in the form of a one-time bonus when it returns for a budget session Oct. 5. He said he favors an across-the-board increase that would have a lasting impact on employees' pocketbooks.

The governor still must convince lawmakers that his estimates of economic growth are correct, if he is to bring about the pay raises.

The Hunt administration has projected growth in General Fund revenues of 12 percent this fiscal year, while the Legislature is sticking to a more conservative 10-percent figure.

The difference between the two figures translates into $177 million, which becomes crucial because Hunt has asked for $212 million over the next two years to fund the equivalent of a 4 percent pay raise.

Some legislators have discussed the possibility of a compromise in the form of a $300 to $400 one-time bonus, with no guarantees of the raise being carried through the second half of the biennium.

Adjustments Board To Meet

The Greenville Board of Adjustments will meet tonight at 7:30 p.m. in the council chambers at city hall.

Business on the agenda includes: public hearing on a request by K. E. Noland for a special use permit in order to operate a boarding house/rooming house at 108 N. Elm Street;

Public hearing on a request by York Memorial A.M.E. Zion Church for a variance in order to construct a church at 201 Tyson Street; adoption of new rules of procedure; discussion of new forms; and election of officers.

State Council Appointment Is Made

FARMVILLE — Farmville Town Commissioner John Turner Walston has been appointed to the Pitt County Transportation Efficiency Council.

The appointment, effective immediately and running through Sept. 30, 1983, was announced by Gov. Jim Hunt.

According to a letter from the Governor received by Walston, the Council was set up to examine the work program, policies, methods, and operations of the local Department of Transportation county maintenance unit. Members' responsibilities are to make recommendations to the Governor and to the Board of Transportation on improving efficiency and productivity in the local areas and to act as a channel for citizens to express concerns, complaints, comments and suggestions regarding the county's transportation needs.

The dogs are Siberian Huskies and need this kind of exercise to answer their instincts. For John, 27, and weighing 220 pounds, taking the dogs for a walk means he just goes along for the ride. Chubby Checker An Institution

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — As Chubby Checker sees it, he's almost like an institution.

The singer, who twisted to fame more than two decades ago only to see his career suddenly drop off sharply, puts himself on the same plane as Elvis Presley and the Beatles.

"You know, I would say that of all the entertainers in the music industry who've come and gone during the last 25 years, only the effects of Elvis, the Beatles and Chubby Checker remain," he told the Akron Beacon Journal. "That means I'm the only original you can see now. I'm a living art form.

"You see, when you've got lemons, you make lemonade. When you're John Wayne you make Westerns. And when you're Chubby Checker ... you twist."

The hind legs of some water beetles are lengthened, flattened and equipped with long, closely-set hairs converting them into paddles for swimming.

The annual yield and rate on Six Month Money Market Certificates is available for $10,000 or more. Term: Six months (26 weeks). Interest paid monthly, quarterly, or at maturity. Federal regulations prohibit the compounding of interest on these certificates. Rate effective from 09/22/81 through 09/28/81.

Here's how. 1) Purchase an NCNB $10,000 Six Month Money Market CD 2) Ask us to automatically deposit your interest every month in an NCNB Regular Savings Account, currently paying 5¼%, compounded daily.

So you're earning interest on interest. And you can count on this same interest for a full six months. Unlike Money Market Mutual Funds, your rate won't fluctuate with each day's news.

Dealing with NCNB, you also have the added security of knowing your deposits are backed by the largest banking institution in North Carolina. And every depositor is insured for up to $100,000 by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.

So come see us at any of our 175 offices. You'll find that the best place for high interest is right in your neighborhood.

Federal regulations require a substantial interest penalty for early withdrawal. Each depositor insured to $100,000 by FDIC.

Weinberger Lists $13 Billion In Defense Cuts

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger, outlining cuts to achieve President Reagan's proposed $13 billion reduction in defense spending, is providing few details about how they will affect military personnel or the areas that depend on military programs.

After listing some budget cuts for the Army, for instance, Weinberger said Wednesday that others would include "reducing a variety of other air defense, missile, combat vehicle, aviation, combat support and intelligence programs."

Weinberger, testifying before the House Budget Committee, promised to provide "details to Congress early in October as soon as they are worked out." Spokesmen for the Army, Navy and Air Force also did not have specific implications of the cutbacks.

As outlined by Weinberger or in added information from service spokesman, major points of the cost-cutting program are:

Army:

—Putting the 7th Infantry Division at Fort Ord, Calif., on "cadre" status in fiscal 1983, meaning its force would be cut from 15,000 to 5,000. The fort near Monterey, Calif., has a work force of about 20,000. Weinberger said, however, that these savings might be achieved through "similar changes to other units in the United States."

—Saving $1.1 billion by slowing a planned increase in ammunition stockpiles.

—Canceling various building projects, including construction at the Tripler Army Hospital in Honolulu, but not including any planned new housing for military personnel in Europe.

Navy:

—Cutting by 11 the number of ships to be built and retiring other vessels earlier than expected, including a nuclear submarine commissioned in 1959 and two destroyers.

—Canceling plans to reactivate the aircraft carrier Oriskany, which had been given $513 million in the budget outlined by the Reagan administration in March.

Air Force:

—Slowing by two years a planned manpower buildup in the Air Force. The administration's March budget called for increasing the Air Force in fiscal 1982 by 17,800 military personnel and 3,600 civilians.

—Retiring all 52 Titan II nuclear missiles, which are based in Kansas, Arkansas and Arizona. The action leaves the service with 1,000 long-range Minuteman nuclear missiles.

—Canceling a program for the KC-10 military cargo aircraft, a plane similar to civilian DC-10, as well as curtailing construction of A-10 and F-15 fighter jets and retiring B-52 bombers earlier than planned.

How's The Weather?

WEATHER FORECAST — Warm weather forecast for the Northwest and Northeast. is expected in the period into Friday for the Showers are indicated from the Dakotas to the southern half of the country. Cool weather is upper Great Lakes. (AP Laserphoto Map)

By The Associated Press

Fine fall weather will continue across the region for the rest of the week, the National Weather Service reported today.

Sunny skies will persist today and again on Friday. High temperatures will be in the low and mid 70s this afternoon, with temperatures close to 80 degrees in most areas on Friday.

High pressure, centered over Ohio this morning, is responsible for the clear, cool weather. The center of this high pressure will drift slowly southeast to a position near southwest Virginia by early Friday morning and settle over North Carolina on Friday.

Fresh northerly breezes will continue to bring in cool air today, but a slight moderation will begin during Friday and last on into the upcoming week-end.

Northerly winds kept Wednesday's temperatures several degrees below normal.

There was a 20-degree range in high temperatures across the mountains, from 80 at Bryson City to 60 at Boone.

East of the mountains, the range was from 69 at Elizebeth City, Greensboro and Raleigh-Durham to 77 at Wilmington.

Pre-dawn temperatures were mostly in the 40s with a few 30s in the mountains. The 50s were reserved for the immediate coast.

Indian Heritage Week Noted

The North Pitt High School Media Center, under the direction of Mrs. Gladys Avery, observed North Carolina Indian Heritage Week Sept. 20-26.

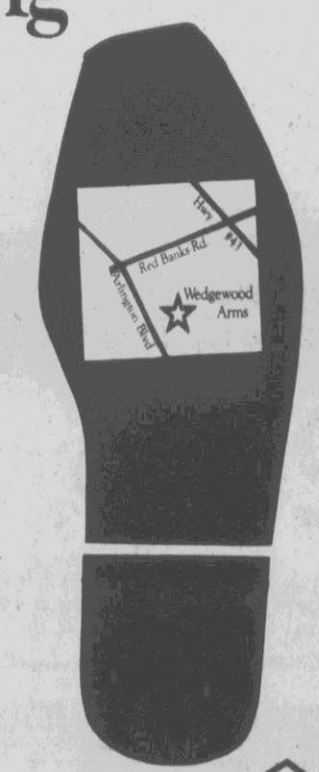

Special activities in the media center directed student attention to the Indian cultures. Several displays featuring an Indian theme were placed throughout the media center. The highlight of the week was a film entitled "Indians of Today." The film was made available to the school by the Pitt County Central Office media center and was viewed by social studies classes and other special groups.

Cherokee Is Speaker

The Pitt County Extended School, in accord with the public school recognition of North Carolina Indian Heritage Week, presented Ed Walkinstik Wonder, an American Indian of the Cherokee tribe, as a featured speaker.

Ed Walkinstik is known nationally for his solar chariot that he drives to solar energy demonstrations throughout the country. A solar powered television and a solar-run motor were also demonstrated.

Walkinstik also discussed a brief history of the North Carolina Indian heritage and the Cherokee Trail of Tears.

Mary Martin Begins Another Career Next Week

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Larry Hagman's mother remembers the time she saw her son get a belly full of lead. Yeah, she and 100 million other Americans.

Hagman's mother is not your sit-at-home, wait-for-sonny-to-call type. She's Mary Martin, musical star of Broadway and Hollywood. Her son is America's meanie, J.R. Ewing of "Dallas."

"It was in a hotel room in New York. I switched on the set and saw Larry coming out the door. The next thing I knew he was on the floor," said Miss Martin. "I called him and asked what it meant, and he said it meant that 'nobody is going to know who shot me, Mother.'"

But Mary Martin has been around. She guessed it was Bing Crosby's daughter, Mary (J.R.'s mistress, Kristin), who was leaving the series.

"Who would have thought, when I was making all those movies with Bing, that his daughter would shoot my son and have an illegitimate baby with him."

Movies and the theater were Miss Martin's stage. It's only later in her career that TV found her. She's never had a series, a prerequisite for TV stardom, although her "Peter Pan" special and live performance with Ethel Merman in the 1950s attracted "Dallas"-sized audiences.

A NEW CAREER — Mary Martin begins a new career as co-host with former newscaster Jim Hartz on PBS' "Over Easy" — a program of interviews, issues and information. (AP Laserphoto)

Next week, she begins a new career, as co-host with former newscaster Jim Hartz on PBS' "Over Easy," a program of interviews, issues and information geared for the older set. In its fifth year, "Over Easy" had been anchored by Hugh Downs and Frank Blair. The producers felt it needed a woman's touch.

"Jim's like another son. We're a perfect match. I'm over and he's easy."

At a lively 68, the world renowned Peter Pan had to learn to play the other side of the couch. "It was very challenging. From June to September we taped two shows a day. I had to learn to read a TelePrompTer, and I didn't know much about finding the cameras. The cameras had always found Peter Pan."

Miss Martin was only apprehensive about a few of the interviews. "One of the first ones was Janet Gaynor, and we know each other so well that I was afraid I'd embarrass her with my knowledge. It worked out fine."

Then there was a show with her six grandchildren, including Hagman's daughter Heidi (an actress) and son Preston (a pilot), and one with ol' J.R. himself. "I brought out a side of him that the public hadn't seen before. He played the flute, did some tai chi (Chinese exercises), we whistled and cooked together. It was great fun."

But Miss Martin admits that the mother-son relationship "was a rocky road for awhile. We didn't talk for three years, when I was away living in Brazil. Now, with my children and grandchildren, I'm getting a second chance, and I love it."

Hagman's 50th birthday party was last week. It was a Texas theme, of course, and Miss Martin danced disco with J.R. "I enjoy movement. I exercise all the time and can do the same exercises I did 50 years ago."

Miss Martin says she has one more goal: "I want to act with Larry and be directed by Larry."

She isn't enthusiastic about a cameo in "Dallas," however. "That would be reaching, just to get mother into the act. I want to do a new or old play.

"I think J.R. would make a sensational Captain Hook ... and I could play Nana the Dog."

Network, Cable Teaming Up

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — ABC, which started the televised boxing boom in the 1970s by carrying Muhammad Ali's fights in prime time, may be back in the big-time boxing business after losing the best bouts in recent years to closed-circuit TV.

That could be a major impact of the announcement Wednesday that ABC is teaming up with ESPN, the all-sports cable operation owned by Getty Oil, on a pay-TV venture. The plan is to establish a network and charge subscribers for one major sports event a month, tentatively beginning next spring.

This could mean that ABC and the other two networks, which couldn't afford the big box-office bouts that have gone the closed-circuit theater route, now may be competing for fights like the recent $35 million match between Sugar Ray Leonard and Thomas Hearns.

Wednesday's announcement was made jointly by Herbert A. Granath vice president, ABC Video Enterprises, and Stuart W. Evey, vice president and general manager of Getty Oil's Diversified Operations Division. ESPN, a money drain for Getty, carries sports 24 hours a day and reaches 12 million homes.

Chet Simmons, president of ESPN, admits there will be pressure to come up with top-line events each month. "Not every event will be Hearns-Leonard. It will be a mixture of events that exist and that we'll put together ourselves."

Simmons said competitive reasons prevented him from naming other specific events, although he said something like a heavyweight championship of tennis could be one possibility.

The future benefits would seem even greater as more of the nation gets hooked up to cable TV and equipment for charging viewers is installed. Free events like the Super Bowl and World Series would then be more attractive as pay-TV vehicles.

Granath said no definitive projections for cost of the new venture would be available until the completion of some marketing surveys.

Simmons said ABC has not purchased an interest in ESPN, but ABC has an opportunity to acquire minority ownership in the future. ESPN, in operation for two years, has been losing money for Getty. The oil company has been discussing possibilities for new capital, an industry source said.

Besides getting a toehold in pay-TV, ABC has gained some leverage against NBC and CBS in the highly competitive area of acquiring sports properties. Under a separate provision of the ABC-ESPN deal, ESPN will be allowed to broadcast some segments of events owned by ABC Sports.

This additional exposure would be a big lure for event organizers to reach agreements with ABC. It also would allow greater coverage on ESPN for events like the time trials for the Indianapolis 500, early rounds of golf and tennis tournaments, and many of the events that are given limited treatment on "Wide World of Sports."

The 1984 Summer and Winter Olympics, for which ABC bought broadcast rights for about $315 million, is another possibility, although cable rights have not been sold by the Los Angeles Olympic Organizing Committee, an industry source said.

Swedish Women See Unequal Role

By ANNIKA NILSSON
Associated Press Writer

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — Two decades after Swedish women won equality under the law, a depressed economy and a society resistant to change are making reality less than the law.

"It is still harder to be a woman than a man in this country," said Lisa Mattson, president of the Federation of Social Democratic Women. "It is true that the situation in Sweden is improved, but it is still a long way before the situation is satisfactory."

A recent study indicates that sexual segregation in the labor market pushes women into lower-paying, less prestigious jobs, with only about 1 percent of managerial positions in the private sector filled by women.

Past surveys by the National Bureau of Statistics tend to back up the claim:

—In 1975, 50 percent of employed men worked in mining, manufacturing or construction. Less than 20 percent of female workers were in those industries. By contrast, 49 percent of working women performed public administration or other services — education, medical care and social welfare — sectors employing only 17 percent of the male workforce.

—Women dominated 70 occupations in 1977, men 300.

—In the private sector, the average male worker earns 22.6 percent more than the average woman.

Major demands by Swedish feminists have been for day-care facilities for all children and for six-hour work days to make it easier to combine a job with home duties. These remain overwhelmingly women's work, despite official efforts begun in the 1960s to encourage load-sharing in the home.

But solving Sweden's economic worries has top priority with most politicians, who say the country cannot afford costly social reforms or expanded anti-discrimination programs right now.

Nevertheless, there have been gains.

A 1980 law bans sexual discrimination in hiring and promotion in public and private jobs and demands active efforts to promote equal opportunity in the workplace.

Equal opportunity ombudsman Inga-Britt Tornell, appointed to enforce the act, said it is too early to say whether the law will live up to its high expectations. Ms. Tornell has received 161 complaints about work discrimination or lack of active promotion of sexual equality, all but four of which have been settled by negotiation. The four contested cases are still pending in labor courts.

One complaint involved Bishop Bertil Gartner of the Swedish Lutheran Church in Goteborg, who refused to allow female ministers to practice in his diocese. The church ordains women but permits male clergy to refuse to work with female colleagues under a so-called "conscience clause."

Ms. Tornell told the bishop to draft an equal-opportunity plan.

She also received a complaint alleging that a male magazine reporter who did the same work as four female reporters was paid $200 a month more than the women.

Economist Christina Jonung said such cases are rare.

"In Sweden, women are not discriminated against by getting lower salaries than men on the same jobs, but by not being given access to the same jobs," she said.

Even the government occasionally runs afoul of Ms. Tornell's office. In one case, a government post was advertised and women were encouraged to apply, but Ms. Tornell discovered the job was set aside for a man already holding a temporary appointment.

Such complaints ideally should come from labor unions, Ms. Tornell said, adding, however, that she fears that nothing much can be expected from them until the "middle-aged men who do not care about equality are gone."

A female trade union official retorted that the unions do try to promote equality and said: "We simply have not found any cases of discrimination."

The official, Aina Westin of LO, the Swedish Trade Union Confederation, said, "Extensive work for equality is going on. ... Pamphlets, study material, local programs have been worked out. Discussion programs and conferences have been started.

"The results will show in the long run. It takes time to convince men that they, too, stand to gain from equality."

LO has no female directors, although more than one-third of its 2 million members are women.

Birgitta Wistrand, president of a women's rights organization called the Fredrika Bremer Association, complained that one reason for discrimination is that the Swedish public simply doesn't care.

Sexual discrimination "is taken very lightly," she said, and penalties for violations — Ms. Tornell has been seeking damages of about $4,000 in each case — are much too small for effect.

"Today it is almost inconceivable that someone would stand up and talk against equality," she writes in her soon-to-be-published book, "Swedish Women on the Move." Yet, she said in an interview, "The awareness is very much on the surface and very fragile. Women are ready to make demands at work and for other women, but it becomes too hard in their private lives."

Ms. Wistrand argues that Swedish women have been held back because they are "too wellbred and too adaptable."

"We have reached an accommodation with the establishment," she writes in her book. "This may help foster harmonious change, but it also carries the risk of stagnation, of too easy acceptance of the status quo."

GOING HOME — Former U.S. Attorney General Richard Kleindienst waves to press Wednesday as he arrives for news conference at office of his Phoenix attorney. Kleindienst was acquitted by an Arizona court jury Tuesday night of perjury. He says his only plans are to return to Tucson and resume the practice of law. With him is his wife, Margaret. THE UNEMPLOYED

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — Unemployment in the 10-nation Common Market hit a record 9.1 million last month according to statistics released Wednesday. Unemployment is usually measured by numbers of people eligible for public assistance.

Bankers' Hours To Be Lifted Oct. 3

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Traditional bankers' hours will be suspended by some of North Carolina's largest financial institutions when they open their doors Saturday, Oct. 3 to meet demand for new, tax-free all-savers certificates.

So far, North Carolina National Bank, First Union National Bank and First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Raleigh have announced the special Saturday hours.

Bank officials say the hours are being held on the expectation that interest rates on the certificates will drop the following Monday, prompting savers to try to get the higher rate.

"Indications tend to point to a lower rate on Monday as a high possibility," said James Singleton, spokesman for First Union.

Under the new federal tax law passed this summer, the one-year certificates will be offered initially Oct. 1 at an interest rate of 12.61 percent. Up to $1,000 in interest earned on the certificates is exempt from federal income tax ($2,000 on a joint tax return).

Rates on the certificates are set at 75 percent of the rate on one-year Treasury bills, which will change on the first Thursday of each month. But purchase of a certificate locks in the interest rate for a full year.

Although the new rate on certificates is announced Thursday, it does not take effect until the following Monday.

The banks and S&Ls are betting that rates will follow the market trend of recent weeks and fall below 12.61 percent between Oct. 1 and Oct. 5.

Freshman Justice

As Sandra Day O'Connor, the first woman appointed to the Supreme Court, takes her oath of office, she will become one of history's most famous "firsts." But when the new session begins on the first Monday in October, she will have to content herself with often being last. That's because she is the "freshman" justice. The traditions of the Court dictate a rigid hierarchy for members. According to the rules, the freshman justice speaks her opinions last, serves as "doorkeeper" during secret court conferences, and even plans the annual Christmas party. She will also occupy the seat to the left, furthest from the Chief Justice when the Court is hearing cases — but only until the next justice is appointed.

DO YOU KNOW — Which Supreme Court justice has been the "freshman" since 1975?

WEDNESDAY'S ANSWER — Yassir Arafat is the leader of the PLO.

Hopeful News in Medicine

A new approach to the treatment of recurrent genital herpes infections is being tried by Dr. Michael Truppin, a gynecologist on the staff of the Mount Sinai Hospital in New York City.

Using a laser beam, Dr. Truppin has treated a group of patients and has reported results that are as good and better than those achieved with any of the other methods now available. Long periods of freedom from recurrences of herpes infections seem to have occurred because of this method. Dr. Truppin says, "These results look even better when one considers that many of these patients have been plagued with monthly recurrences which seemed to be triggered by menstruation."

Dr. Truppin modestly states that he learned this technique in New Orleans from Dr. Joseph Bellina, who has been using this technique since 1974. A great deal of interest surrounds this form of treatment because of the physicial and emotional havoc caused by recurrent episodes of viral herpes infections.

The importance of the use of aspirin after a mild myocardial infarction, or heart attack, deserves to be re-emphasized.

At a recent symposium it was reported that five major studies made in the last six years suggest that if a patient with a recent myocardial infarction is given small, regular doses of aspirin, it markedly reduces the possibility of recurrence of the heart attack.

Apparently aspirin exerts a special anticoagulating effect on the blood. This, of course, is well known and is one of the reasons why aspirin is not given to patients with a bleeding stomach ulcer.

Since aspirin is so easy to obtain, and is thought to be such a "simple" drug, some patients might be inclined to use it without the direct supervision of a doctor. This is wrong.

The continued use of aspirin, even in small doses, should be used only on the recommendation of the doctor. Repeated blood studies are essential to insure complete safety when patients are on the sustained aspirin regime.

A unique way of treating kidney stones was recently presented at the Institute for Surgical Research in Munich, Germany. Dr. Walter Brendel and his colleagues used mild underwater shock waves that were generated in a bathtub while the patient sat in it. It seems that the mild shock waves that were produced passed thrcugh normal body tissue without any harm but shattered any stone that lay in their path.

Dr. Brendel said, "We are still in the experimental stage and it will take three to five years before physicians will be adequately trained to use this technique." The very early preliminary studies even suggest the possibility that this "shock-wave technique" may be applied to gallbladder stones.

Warning, warning, warning! Under no circumstances should anyone get the misguided idea that a homemade blitz bath method should be tried.

BED TIME

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Serving ice cream in the home is not most often done as dessert after a meal, according to Sealright, a dairy and food packaging company.

Instead, ice cream is most often served as a snack, frequently in the evening before bed.

A LIVING LEGEND — Wilfred Hardy, from Great Britain (center) is being meticulously investigated by French TV entertainer Jacques Martin, right, and Murielle Hess, while posing during a TV show — "Unbelievable but true!" in Paris. Mr. Hardy, a self-claimed world champion of the tattooed, says that every single part of his anatomy but the face and the toenails had a "printed and colorful aspect". Both entertainers chose to believe him. (AP laserphoto)

Volunteers Gave 57 Million Hours Of Their Time

By RANDOLPH E. SCHMID
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — If the generation that came of age in the '70s was the "me" generation, the generation now approaching age 70 might be called the "thee" generation.

By the thousands, older Americans are flocking to give of their time and talents as longer lifespans lead more and more people into the ranks of the retired.

Now a decade old, the Retired Senior Volunteer Program boasts more than 319,000 people, aged 60 and over, who each year donate more than 57 million hours of their time.

For one elderly man or woman, the attraction to volunteer work is to try to share the joys of a long life, for another it's helping ease the pain of death. For thousands it's a rewarding chance to help both others and themselves.

"I enjoy everything about being an RSVP volunteer. Being needed is the big reward. And it helps keep me young at 81 years. It makes me feel like a useful citizen," said Lois Wayland of Omaha, Neb., who tutors disadvantaged youngsters.

Another volunteer is Mary Felek, 81, of New Haven, Conn., who remembers the despair of a relative who died of cancer in 1972.

Mrs. Felek explained that her sister-in-law "was very low and wanted to talk to somebody outside of the family. You see, at that time we didn't want to talk about dying."

A young Roman Catholic priest befriended the woman, who was Jewish. He would "come in and talk to her by the hour, and she got such ... — like a catharsis," Mrs. Felek said.

Today Mrs. Felek volunteers her time at a local hospital coordinating visits to the sick by ministers, priests and rabbis. She lets them know when parishioners are ill and suggests when to visit them and their families.

When she heard about the hospital's program, in October 1972, "I thought to myself, I thought, 'Oh, this is just for me.' When I joined up I knew that was the job for me.

"To me it's a great joy. I tell you honestly, I go to work with the greatest of pleasure. I don't know what I would have done. God help us if that RSVP ever folds up, me and a millon others."

RSVP volunteers around the country — lawyers, teachers, carpenters, doctors, bricklayers and so forth — receive no pay for their efforts, at least not in money.

But the federal government spends about $27.7 million a year to administer the program. That's about $87 a year per volunteer, or 48 cents per hour worked.

The Reagan administration has proposed a modest increase in next year's RSVP budget, to $28.7 million.

Dr. Harold Gunn, 61, a retired Detroit speech pathologist, said his interest in counseling troubled young men is sustained by the success stories.

He recalled one particular youth, a small boy who was picked on by his peers and had been shuffled between foster parents and grandparent most of his life. With Gunn's help and encouragement, he enrolled in a job training program, earned a high school equivalency diploma and now hopes to enter college.

"There may not be any money in volunteer service but this is a reward money can't buy," Gunn said.

Among the senior volunteers scheduled to attend the RSVP convention is 77-year-old Donald Mortlock of Laurel, Del.

Mortlock retired 11 year ago from a job as an insurance auditor in Buffalo, N.Y., and moved to Laurel, where he founded the 1,000-member Indian River Senior Center.

Mortlock said he started the center because he was just not inclined to spend the rest of his life in a rocking chair.

He kicked off operations in an Episcopal church with just 35 members.

"By the end of the year we had 120, by the end of '71 we had 250 and we kept picking up new members. It was much needed around here, apparently," he said.

"We grew to 500 by 1975 and we had to stop taking in members because we were crowding out the hall," he said.

A federal grant for a new civic center allowed the group to expand, and it now has 1,000 members.

"We had 250 out to a luncheon yesterday and we're worried now about crowding out our room again," said Mortlock.

The senior citizens center has a part-time secretary and a custodian but is otherwise operateed by volunteer workers.

"We're all volunteers so we can't spend seven days a week there. We compromise and spend 6½," he joked.

Builder Of New Brazil Capital Honored Again

By BRUCE HANDLER
Associated Press Writer

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) — The late President Juscelino Kubitschek, the civilian leader who built the inland capital of Brasilia but then was "blackballed" by a military regime that later seized power, has been restored, posthumously, to a place of honor in the history of Brazil.

Some 30,000 people — including the current president, retired Gen. Joao Figueiredo, and the chiefs of the army, navy and air force — turned out for a mid-September ceremony in which Kubitschek's remains were placed in an imposing new monument in the modernistic capital.

Kubitschek, a country doctor turned politician, was elected president in 1955 and served his full constitutional term until 1961. He is best remembered for the bold determination with which he built Brasilia out of the central wilderness, in an attempt to draw Brazilians away from the crowded Atlantic coast and open up the nation's undeveloped interior.

Today, 21 years after its founding, Brasilia has more than a million people and is uncontestably the seat of government, housing the presidential palace, Congress, the Supreme Court, all foreign embassies and practically all Brazilian government agencies.

But after a 1964 military coup that ousted the left-leaning civilian regime of President Joao Goulart, Kubitschek was stripped of his political rights, in a general crackdown against real and supposed enemies of the regime. His importance was downplayed by the military government, which even changed the name of the Juscelino Kubitschek Hotel on a jungle island the ex-president wanted to develop for tourism to the John Kennedy Hotel. This was to cover up the real meaning of the "JK" initials on the walls, china and silverware.

Kubitschek, working virtually anonymously as a banker in Rio de Janeiro, was killed in a car accident in 1976.

JUSCELINO KUBITSCHEK

The inauguration of the JK monument in Brasilia on Sept. 12 coincided with what would have been the ex-president's 79th birthday.

Last year, President Figueiredo, who has pledged to return Brazil to civilian government, publicly admitted that the political ostracizing of Kubitschek was a mistake. Figueiredo gave his open support to the construction of a permanent monument to the former leader — in a prominent point in the capital that made him famous.

Kubitschek's friend, Brazilian architect Oscar Niemeyer, who designed most of the public buildings in Brasilia, was called in to create the JK Memorial. He planned a 92-foot-high concrete pedestal, topped by a cresting, modernistic concrete semicircle, with a statue of Kubitschek, waving, in the middle.

Shortly before the inauguration of the monument there were complaints, apparently encouraged by right-wing elements within the armed forces, that the statue and semicircle, when viewed from certain angles, resembled the communist hammer and sickle.

Conservative Union Meets

The Pitt-Beaufort Conservative Union (PBCU), meeting here recently, elected new officers and board members from the two-county area.

Officers elected from Pitt County were: Douglas Gerry, chairman; Martin Kilcoyne, secretary; Frank Wooten, vice chairman; and board members Lester Nail, Marshall Helms, and Herb Lee.

Beaufort County officers elected were: Carrie Hardison, treasurer; Carol Cochran, executive vice chairman; Ed Springer, vice chairman; and board members Grover Boyd, D. S. Swain Jr., Don Barham, Jim T. Hodges, and John Wilkinson.

Plans were made to attend the North Carolina Conservative Union Symposium '81, scheduled for Oct. 9-11 in Raleigh with Stanton Evans, syndicated conservative columnist, as the featured speaker.

The PBCU, a spokesman said, is a non-profit, bipartisan association that promotes the principles of free enterprise, limited government, and individual liberty guaranteed by the Constitution.

Senator's Niece In Big Trouble

WASHINGTON (AP) — A niece of Senate Minority Leader Robert Byrd, D-W. Va., could be sentenced to five years in prison and fined $10,000 after pleading guilty to embezzling more than $12,000 from the Senate Post Office.

Barbara Bowman, 45, formerly chief clerk of the Senate Post Office, pleaded guilty in federal court Wednesday to embezzling the money and trying to cover up the incident.
