Milk Support Hikes Delayed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dairy price subsidies, a major budget-cutting target for President Reagan, were set to jump about 3 percent today after legislation to block the increase stalled in the House. But the Agriculture Department said the increase was being delayed today in hopes Congress would act.

Don Friedly of the Agriculture Department's dairy division said that despite the requirement that the price support level now be raised, the Commodity Credit Corp., which buys the milk for the government, was holding off raising the support level today to see if Congress will act quickly.

On the advice of CCC attorneys, no immediate action was being taken, Friedly said.

Senior House Agriculture Committee members hope to roll the support level back as quickly as possible to save the government millions of dollars. But officials say the anticipated increase in consumer milk prices triggered by the increase probably would remain. How high retail prices might go was unclear.

Elevated support prices for just a few weeks are not expected to add significantly to milk marketing costs. But Friedly said that because it is the first support increase in 12 months, retailers may take advantage of it.

"I think the trade will jump on this as an opportunity to raise their prices," Friedly said.

Rep. Kika de la Garza, D-Texas, the committee chairman, planned to put a rollback bill to a House vote today. The emergency legislation still would have to clear the Senate, however, where a similar attempt was stalled last week.

"It costs a million dollars a day about and that adds up fast," Agriculture Secretary John Block said of the higher government cost.

"At this point in time I don't see any immediate solution," Block said. "We have no other choice but to raise the dairy supports."

Facing expiration of current farm programs on Wednesday, Block needed legislation to head off the increase because Congress has not passed a new package of commodity price support programs.

SOMEBODY HAS TO DO IT — Although it's a job that most people don't think about, the courthouse dome here needs painting every seven or eight years or so. J. L. Sutton (L) and Kenneth Biggs tackled the job with little fanfare this week. The men, who are employed by A. M. Morris general contractors of Greenville, had safety ropes handy but they exhibited little apprehension as they applied the pale green paint high above the county facility. ## Congress Passes New Spending Bill To Keep Government Operating

By JAY PERKINS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress stopped the clock but not the time, shutting down the federal government today for the second year in a row.

However, this shutdown wasn't expected to last too long. And most people probably will never notice anyway.

Taking a trick right out of the handbook of state legislatures, the Senate stopped its clock at 11:50 p.m. EDT Wednesday as the midnight deadline for passing a stopgap spending bill approached.

"The whole government of the United States stops functioning (at midnight) if we don't pass this bill," said Senate Majority Leader Howard H. Baker Jr., R-Tenn.

But they didn't — not until after midnight. Despite the time shown on the clock, it was about 12:30 a.m. when the Senate completed action on the bill and sent it to President Reagan for his signature. The House had passed the legislation earlier Wednesday night.

Technically speaking, the government's authority to operate expired at midnight, when the fiscal year ended. Since Congress had not passed any legislation to fund the government by that time, no department had authority to spend any money between midnight and the time Reagan signed the bill.

But this was hardly the first time Congress has failed to meet the Sept. 30 deadline.

The legislative branch has had increasing difficulty in recent years in passing appropriations bills before the end of the fiscal year. And it has even had difficulty passing the stopgap bills designed to keep the government going until the regular appropriations can be passed.

Until last year, however, it hardly mattered. Agencies, assuming Congress wanted them to continue operating, did so.

But in 1980, then-Attorney General Benjamin Civiletti ruled that agencies had to close down if Congress failed to pass their appropriations or some stopgap bill.

Last year, Congress waited until midday on Oct. 1 before agreeing on a stopgap bill. Despite the prohibition against spending, the government continued.

Government employees reported to work — although they claimed they were there to shut down the departments. The Post Office, which is mostly funded from stamp sales, continued to operate. Social Security, which comes from a separate trust fund, continued to operate. And the Army kept on marching.

As House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., D-Mass., said at the time that "I never did see the government stop. The law says you can't operate on a certain day (without money) and they always blink at that."

The bill passed by Congress provides funds to keep the government running through Nov. 20. Congress hopes to have completed action on the regular appropriations bills by then.

The stopgap legislation also repeals the limit on the tax deductions members of Congress may claim for living expenses in Washington, ties future congressional pay raises to increases granted white-collar federal workers and allows senators to earn unlimited income from outside speaking engagements.

A proposal for an immediate 4.8 percent pay increase for legislators was rejected earlier by House and Senate negotiators, along with a Senate-passed provision that would have granted pay raises to several thousand federal workers whose salaries have been capped for four years.

Congressional officials said federal judges would receive a pay raise because a cap on judicial salaries expired automatically with the beginning of the new fiscal year and courts have ruled previously that action to reimpose the ceiling is unconstitutional.

Pay for District Court judges would rise from $67,100 to $70,300. The eight Supreme Court associate justices would go from $88,700 to $93,000, and Chief Justice Warren Burger would qualify for an increase from $92,400 to $96,800.

The compromises on financial benefits for members of Congress called for:

— Repealing the $3,000 limit on the tax deduction for living expenses in Washington, estimated by Congress' Joint Committee on Taxation to cost the Treasury $3 million a year and provide an average deduction of $13,500 for 535 representatives and senators.

Congress Gets AWACS Plan

By JIM ADAMS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration formally told Congress today it intends to sell Saudi Arabia sophisticated AWACS radar planes. But a knowledgeable source said the notification did not contain the compromise some senators have said is needed to save the deal from congressional defeat.

Less than an hour after the formal notification, Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr. met in private with the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, but the source said Haig could not tell the committee that the Saudis have agreed to long-term joint U.S.-Saudi manning of the planes.

"Haig did a good job of laying it all out to them," said the source, who did not want to be named. "But he told them nothing that they had not heard about before."

Without a compromise giving Americans at least partial control of the planes, President Reagan has been told, the deal almost certainly will not win the necessary Senate endorsement.

The formal notification was given to Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee.

Percy's press aide, Scott Cohen, told reporters as the panel questioned Haig that the secretary was relaying "new information involving terms and conditions."

After the briefing, Haig was to testify in public in defense of the proposed sale.

Early this morning, the Senate Republican leader, Sen. Howard H. Baker Jr. of Tennessee said of efforts to reach a compromise:

"That thing has been up and down all day and I honestly don't know where it wound up. At one point they thought they had a favorable report."

Panel Urges Free Vote For Party Conventions

WASHINGTON (AP) — A study group, claiming national political conventions have become meaningless, recommended today that delegates be allowed to vote as they please.

"We recommend that all delegates be permitted to decide their votes at the time of national convention balloting," said the report of the Duke University Forum on Presidential Nominations.

"This means freeing the delegates from the requirement that they vote automatically in accordance with the primary vote in their state or the instructions of candidates," the report said.

"This also means that the candidate would no longer have the right of approval over the selection of any delegates," the forum said. "The delegate selection process would once again become a party function."

The report rejects the idea of national or regional primaries, the most frequently mentioned alternatives to the present system. But it does call for a restriction of the primary campaign period, a rule already adopted by the Democrats but not enforced in 1980.

It also suggests efforts to remove barriers to convention participation, revitalization of local party caucuses and automatic delegate status for major party officers and major public officials.

The report is the first from several panels, including commissions working within the Republican and Democratic parties, studying reform of the presidential nominating system. It was headed by Terry Sanford, president of Duke University and former North Carolina governor and unsuccessful presidential candidate.

The study concluded that current rules, which bind delegates chosen early in the year to candidates according to primaries or party caucuses, have taken all the meaning out of the national conventions.

HUNTING REGULATIONS SOURCE?

I know that there are a few regulations printed for you when you get your hunting license. But I also know there are more detailed regulations that you're expected to know when you hunt in a specific area — things like what animals can be shot out of a boat in a particular location. Where can I get information like this? L.B.

Local wildlife officer Kay J. Dunn referred us to the toll-free number of the N.C. Wildlife Commission. Calling, we found out that you can get the answer to virtually any question about hunting or fishing in North Carolina by using this number yourself — 1-800-662-7137. If you prefer to write and request written information, the mailing address is N.C. Wildlife Commission, 512 N. Salisbury St., Raleigh, N.C. 27611. State specifically what you want: summary of local laws, listing of state regulations, information about gamelands, etc.

Public Greet All Savers With Mixed Response

By CHRISTOPHER LINDSAY

AP Business Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Customers lined up at the doors when some of the nation's banks and savings institutions opened this morning as the high-interest, tax-free All Savers certificates went on sale. Some financial institutions planned to stay open all weekend to handle orders for new accounts.

But others bankers said business was no greater than usual and concluded investors were waiting to see if they'd get a higher return on a later offering of certificates.

The All Savers that went on sale today pay a yield of 12.61 percent; late this afternoon the rate for All Savers effective Monday will be set by the Treasury Department, based on its monthly auction of one-year Treasury bills.

"We've had a lot of calls this morning, a lot of inquiries," said Grace Schmidt of Bank of Virginia in Richmond, "but most of them seem to be waiting" until the new rate is announced.

The auction was to take place today, with results announced tonight.

To accommodate that, banks in many states planned to stay open late and open up Saturday and in some cases on Sunday, to give customers a chance to buy the All Savers at whichever is the higher rate.

First National Bank of Boston planned to keep its 35 branches open until 7 p.m. Friday to give customers a shot at either the new or old rate. The bank is running newspaper ads advising customers the new rate will be "maybe higher, maybe lower."

In Atlanta, customers were lined up to hit the savings desk this morning at Standard Federal Savings & Loan Federation, said special services coordinator Glenda Rochester. "If the number of calls we've gotten this week is any indication at all, the response should be tremendous," she said.

John Moran, senior vice president of Baltimore Federal Savings & Loan Association, said people were waiting for the new rate and "we expect the bulk of our activity to come tomorrow."

In New York, Variety magazine foreign editor Robert Hawkins was one of the first to buy an All Savers certificate at a Branch of East River Savings Bank. He said the tax-free incentive told him: "Presumably, you can't lose."

In Dallas, Larry F. White, assistant vice president of Republic Bank said sales of All Savers should draw about 250 customers today and the bank has quadrupled its staff to handle the demand.

In Columbus, Ohio, Renee Haas, senior branch manager in the Buckeye Federal Savings and Loan office, said: "In the last 60 minutes, we have opened as many accounts as we normally do in four days."

American National Bank & Trust of New Jersey reported people were waiting at most of its 39 branches this morning. "We had around four at each branch. That doesn't sound like much, but it's unusual to get that kind of business all at once, and so early," said Michael Pagan, bank spokesman. The bank would open 14 of its branches in northern New Jersey on Sunday, the first time any bank would be open on that day in state history, he said.

Special Saving Hours

Area banks and savings and loan associations have announced plans for special operating hours for this Friday or Saturday and in some cases both days for the purpose of issuing the new All Savers Certificate.

The extended hours for depository institutions in the area include: Arlington Boulevard office of Branch Banking & Trust Co., Saturday, 9 a.m. until 1 p.m.; North Carolina National Bank, Saturday, 9 a.m. until 1 p.m.; Wachovia Bank & Trust Co., open until 9 p.m. Friday; Bank of North Carolina, Saturday, 9 a.m. until 1 p.m.;

First State Bank, normal Saturday business hours; Peoples Bank & Trust, Friday until 6 p.m., Saturday, 9 a.m. until 1 p.m.; Planters National Bank, Saturday, 9 a.m. until 1 p.m.; First Citizens Bank & Trust, Friday until 7 p.m., Saturday, 9 a.m. until 2 p.m.; First Union National Bank (Farmville), Saturday, 10 a.m. until 2 p.m.; Southern Bank & Trust (Stokes), Saturday, 9 a.m. until 1 p.m.;

Home Federal Savings & Loan, Saturday, 9 a.m. until 1 p.m.; North State Savings & Loan, normal Saturday business hours; First Federal Savings & Loan, Saturday, 9 a.m. until 1 p.m.; and East Federal Savings & Loan, extended hours on Friday if warranted by customer traffic.

The new one-year certificate of deposit, approved by Congress, allows up to $2,000 in tax-free interest for married persons filing joint tax returns and up to $1,000 for individuals. The interest rate on the certificate is 70 percent of the one-year treasury bill yield and is guaranteed for 12 months.

Hailed as the first tax-free savings account ever, the ASC is available during the 15-month period, beginning today, through Dec. 31, 1982. Minimum deposit is $500.

NAACP To Hold Four-Day State Convention Here Next Week

The North Carolina State Conference of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) will hold its state convention here October 8-11. D. D. Garrett, Pitt County NAACP branch chairman, said registration will begin Thursday at 8 a.m. at the Cornerstone Missionary Baptist Church and continue Friday at the Ramada Inn, which will serve as convention headquarters. The convention meetings begin at 9:30 a.m. Thursday with a Ministers and Church Emphasis Day session, followed by a workshop, "The Role of the Black Church in Politics." The Right Rev. Alfred G. Dunston, presiding prelate of the Second Episcopal District, A.M.E. Zion Church, Philadelphia, will speak at a 1 p.m. luncheon, while will be followed at 2 p.m. with a workshop "The Church and the NAACP in Another Time of Crisis" then a 3:30 p.m. workshop "Your Church and the NAACP — Partners for Progress." The Rev. Julius C. Hope, director of the NAACP Religious Affairs Department, Detroit will be the keynote speaker at a 7:30 p.m. public meeting at Cornerstone Missionary Baptist Church, Thursday. The convention plenary session will begin at 9:30 a.m. Friday, with Kelly M. Alexander Sr. of Charlotte, president of the N.C. State Conference of NAACP giving the president's annual address. A 1:30 p.m. membership luncheon, at which Leroy Mobley, director of the NAACP Prison Program, will speak, will be followed at 2:30 with a series of speakers, special presentations and a workshop on education. Another public meeting is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Friday at Sycamore Hill Missionary Baptist Church, to be followed by a Pitt County NAACP Branch reception for delegates and friends at the Ramada Inn. Saturday, a Leadership Development and National Internal Affairs program at 9:30 a.m. will be followed at 11:30 with a Health Manpower Workshop and at 1:30 p.m. with a life membership luncheon. At 2:30 p.m. a program on "Black Politics Today — N.C. Reapportionment and Redistricting" featuring Joseph Madison, director of the NAACP Voter Education Department, and N.C. State Reps. Melvin Creecy of Rich Square, Kenneth Spaulding of Durham, and Dan Blue of Raleigh, is scheduled. Benjamin Hooks, executive director of the NAACP, is scheduled to speak at a 7:30 p.m. Saturday "Freedom Awards Dinner." The convention will end Sunday following a 10 a.m. internal affairs meeting for state officers, standing committee chairpersons and delegates with national NAACP office staff members. According to Garrett, all sessions Thursday will be held at Cornerstone Missionary Baptist Church. All sessions Friday, Saturday and Sunday, unless otherwise noted, will be held at the Ramada Inn.

State Plan Would Require Some On Welfare To Work

The N.C. Department of Human Resources has submitted a proposal to the U.S. Department of Health and Human Service for a six-county Community Work Experience (Workfare) demonstration project. This will require welfare recipients under the Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC) program to work in schools and other government or private non-profit agencies to work off their welfare payments, if the proposal is approved. Gov. Jim Hunt has written to Richard S. Schweiker, secretary of health and human services, "Our program objectives involve demonstrating the usefulness of combining the challenge offered by the Community Work Experience Program's work requirement with appropriate supportive services and the cooperation of public and private sector employers to reduce the size of the AFDC caseload. Our research objectives focus on documenting the results of this approach." He indicated in his letter that he believes the long-term employment prospects of AFDC recipients depends on close coordination between AFDC program policies, the policies of pertinent supportive services and the labor market activities of private employers. "Yet we do not have very much experience with the kind of close relationship that is possible under the new Community Work Experience Program," he said. Pitt is one of 45 counties in the state already participating in the federal Work Incentive (WIN) program designed to find employment for AFDC recipients. This is a joint venture of the Employment Security Commission and county social services departments. All AFDC recipients who are not exempted are required to register for the WIN program in each of the 45 counties. Those exempt are children under 16 and those over 16 who are full-time students; persons 65 years of age or older, a mother or other specified relative who is caring for a child under six or another member of the family who is proved ill or incapacitated, and those who are themselves proved ill or incapacitated. A non-exempt recipient who refuses to register for work is ineligible for assistance.

States Nearing Accord On Waste Disposal Plan

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — North Carolina and at least eight other Southern states may be nearing agreement on a regional plan for disposal of low-level radioactive waste, a Duke University scientist said Wednesday. William H. Briner, an associate professor of radiology who has participated in the planning for the agreement, said a secret working draft of an interstate compact on waste disposal was scheduled to be presented at the Southern Governors Conference this week. The conference ended Wednesday, and it could not be determined whether the matter was discussed. Briner said that negotiators from the various states planned to have their final meeting Oct. 19 in Atlanta.

"The governors of each state may do some fine tuning," he said. "Then we'll be back to working hard to get each state to eliminate any internal laws that would be in conflict" with the agreement. Briner spoke at a three-day conference on low-level radioactive waste incineration began at North Carolina State University in Raleigh. Under the agreement, nine or 10 states would set up a commission that would decide each state's role in disposing of mildly radioactive wastes from research, medical centers and the nuclear power industry, he said. The states would be allowed to continue to use an existing landfill near Barnwell, S.C., he said. But he added, "I personally feel that we need, at the very least, a backup site somewhere in the Southeast." If a backup site is proposed, it may not be in North Carolina, Briner said. "Each participating state has got to provide something," however, he said. In North Carolina's case, he said, it might be a central incinerator facility that could reduce the amount of waste that needed burial. Other states involved in the proposed agreement include Virginia, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, Tennessee and Kentucky.

Creech-White Vows Spoken

Miss Laura Katherine White of Rich Square and Charles David Creech of Ayden were united in marriage Saturday, Sept. 19, in a 3 p.m. ceremony at the Rich Square United Methodist Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. White of Rt. 1, Rich Square. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Roger L. Creech of Ayden and grandson of Mrs. Pauline Moore of Ayden.

The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. William Green. Music was provided by Mrs. Charles Myers Jr., organist.

Escorted by her father, the bride was given in marriage by her parents. She wore her mother's wedding dress of white chantilly lace fashioned with a sabrina neckline and short sleeves. The bodice was of lace and the tulle skirt had a panel of lace. Her circular veil was attached a braided bandeau and seed pearls.

Carolyn Creech of Ayden, sister of the bridegroom, was maid of honor and bridesmaid was Sarah Kennedy of Rocky Mount. Stacy Creech, sister of the bridegroom, was junior bridesmaid. Ginger Moore, niece of the bridegroom, was flower girl.

Victor VanNortwick of Williamston served as best man and ushers were Lee White, brother of the bride and Durwood Creech, brother of the bridegroom.

Mrs. Charles David Creech

Miss Ann Greene of Eure was mistress of ceremonies. The couple will be living in Charleston, S.C.

A reception was given by the parents of the bride in the fellowship hall of the church immediately following the ceremony.

An after-rehearsal party was given by Mr. and Mrs. T.D. Kennedy at their home in Jackson.

She Demands Their Respect

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Your article in the Canandaigua, N.Y., Messenger prompts me to take pen in hand immediately. You advised "Distraught Mother," who was offended when her children used foul language in her presence, to demand that they clean up their act out of respect to her. I applaud that advice. I am the mother of four and the grandmother of nine, and when my teen-age grandchildren started to use filthy and offensive language, I said, "Not in my presence, and not in my house!" Believe me, they cleaned up their act in a hurry.

We usually get just what we ask for. If we demand only the best, that is what we get.

OLD-FASHIONED

DEAR OLD-FASHIONED: Right on, granny!

DEAR ABBY: I am an above-average student, and I'm also a boy who worries a lot. Here's my problem: Recently I found some magazines and letters belonging to my parents. These letters declared them as "swingers." One magazine even had a picture of my mother, whom I had always loved and respected. We are a respectable, middle-class family where modesty is enforced. I have never been mistreated and neither has my sister, who is a college freshman.

Since I came across these letters and magazines, my opinion of my parents has been totally crushed. I just don't know what to think. Abby, please don't tell me to go for counseling. I can't drive. (I'm 14.) I can't talk to a school counselor because she is a good friend and I couldn't bring myself to mention it to anyone. (My sister doesn't know.) Right now my parents are away on an "overnighter" to celebrate their 19th wedding anniversary. I'm signing my real name, but please don't use it. What should I do?

ALONE AND DEPRESSED

DEAR ALONE: Tell your parents that you found the letters and magazines. Then do a lot of listening. Please don't keep this bottled up inside you. You will feel much better after talking to your parents. They are the only ones who can explain the reason for their actions.

DEAR ABBY: I had a vasectomy six years ago because the girl I married didn't want any children. Well, we were divorced, and I'm now married to a young woman who wants children. So do I. Is it possible to have a vasectomy "un-done"?

If so, where can I find a doctor who will do it? KANSAS

DEAR KANSAS: See a urologist. I'm told that about 85 percent of vasectomies are reversible. Whether yours is will depend upon the surgical procedure used by the doctor who vasectomized you.

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

There is a reason why more humor columns have not been written about the annual church Christmas bazaar.

It is because no one has ever been able to find humor in it.

As reluctant as I am to mention the work Christmas this early, this is the time the annual bazaars get into gear. They are staged to bring love and harmony through kind-Christian deeds among the parishioners if the chairman has to bend a few faces on self-centered bodies to do it.

How are bazaar chairmen selected, you may ask.

They are chosen from soft, matronly lumps of compassion who have had bad luck to go to the restroom while nominations are being made. When they return, it is to resounding applause and shouts of, "You'll make a wonderful chairman! If you need me, just call."

The voices are all unlisted. For the next several months, the chairman must convince parishioners that "Blessed are those who say yes, for they could inherit not only the earth, but the whole stinking bazaar."

She must convince each one they have been researched and are chosen for basic talents and skills.

Lucille Fronk, Crafts booth, whose husband has no desire whatsoever to get his car in the garage since last year when he ran over 185 bleach bottles being saved for piggy banks.

Evelyn Weiss, Pitch and Throw game, whose husband is an attorney and handled the lawsuit last year regarding the broken blackboard.

Sonya Flipper, Cake Walk chairman, who was overheard at a reception for the new minister to whisper, "If I couldn't bake a better cake than this, I'd sell my oven" and will never open her mouth again.

Dee Dee Dormat, Nursery, who is always pregnant anyway and assumed to love children when in fact she doesn't even love her husband.

My friend Jonathan Dudley and I concocted this and we hope you enjoy it as much as we do.

1 pint vanilla ice cream
1 and 1-3rd cup fresh blueberries
4 tablespoons frozen limeade concentrate, partly thawed

Put a scoop of the ice cream in 4 dessert dishes or glasses. Surround each scoop with 1-3rd cup blueberries. Drizzle 1 tablespoon of the limeade concentrate (just as it comes from its container) over the ice cream and berries. Serve at once. Makes 4 servings. Increase recipe as needed.

Castrophe Headed Off

For most living today the year 1929 is too remote to conjure up any visions of disaster.

There are some, though, who remember. It was the year of the stock market crash which led to the Great Depression and the stuff that the Waltons television series was made of.

Since World War II cured the Depression we have spent much of our time and energies devising ways to stay out of market crashes and Depressions.

With all the years that have passed since 1929, those who study the economy still fear a crash of the stock market.

We nearly had one last Monday. The early morning television news told the story. The London Stock Market had collapsed and the same world was coming from Tokyo and other markets around the world. The New York exchange had not opened but in view of the world situation a collapse in prices was widely expected there. Something like that had been predicted by a market forecaster named Joseph Granville, and it was happening.

The New York Market opened with the Dow Jones Industrial Average down some 15 points.

But also early in the morning there were reports that the prime rate was being lowered by at least one bank to 19 percent. High interest rates are regarded as stock depressants. Whether the lowering of the prime rate did it or not, the New York market turned around. It was up by 18 points at the conclusion of the day. The next day there was wild buying on the London and Tokyo Exchanges and both markets made up their huge losses of the previous day.

Was the lowering of the prime rate coincidental, or was it concluded by business interests that something was needed to offset the predicted crash?

We may never know. That action, or something, did work, however, and we undoubtedly headed off a world economic catastrophe

Bells Still Go Ching

WASHINGTON — In the old days a typical lawyer dreamed a typical dream. His office would be named to handle the multimillion dollar estate of the local banker who died leaving a hundred heirs but no will. Thinking about it, the lawyer's mental cash register went ching, ching, ching.

Times change. Nowadays the ambitious lawyer could ask nothing better than to be involved in a major case before a federal agency, and especially before the Federal Trade Commission. Probate law and regulatory law are two vastly different fields, but the music is the same. Those little bells still go ching, ching, ching.

Contemplate, if you will, just three cases before the FTC in which action has occurred this year. Back in February the commission dismissed a proceeding against the manufacturers of over-the-counter drugs. On September 1 an administrative law judge recommended dismissal of a proceeding against the cereal manufacturers. And on September 16, the commission abandoned a major proceeding against the top oil companies.

In the matter of the over-the-counter drugs, the FTC's staff set out to prove this proposition — that the manufacturer of an antacid would be guilty of fraudulent, deceptive and unfair advertising, carrying a civil penalty up to $10,000, if he said his product would "relieve excess gastric acidity" instead of saying that his product would relieve "sour stomach."

On the head of this semantic pin, lawyers and experts revolved for five years and three months. The FTC's staff put in 20,000 hours of labor. The record and exhibits ran to 13,000 pages. The taxpayers paid out $61,000 to hire witnesses. The little bells went ching, ching, ching, and nothing at all was accomplished.

The case against eight major oil companies began in 1973. It would have been the greatest antitrust proceeding ever maintained by the FTC. But after eight years, commission counsel advised the commission "that the case was still in the preliminary stages and could not be brought to trial for at least three years." Such limited progress, ruled the commission, justified dismissal.

The proceeding against Kellogg, General Foods and General Mills had a peculiar charm of its own. More than nine years ago, staff counsel dominance of the protein segment of the nutritional market might be slipping, Kellogg trumpeted the arrival of Product 19.

Elsewhere on the battlefields, Wheat Chex and Wheat Stax fell into mortal combat with Sweet Wheats and Kellogg's Krumbles. Cherrios fought with OKs. Corporate empires wavered and threatened to topple over such delectables as Sugar Sparkled Rice Krinkles, Wackies, Apple Jacks, Frosty O's, Froot Loops and Kream Krunch. In some fashion Crispy Critters "cannibalized" Alpha-Bits. A product called Count Chocula failed to get its teeth into the chocolate-flavored segment.

In the end, administrative law judge Alvin L. Berman concluded that the FTC's for the FTC came up with a novel theory of law — the theory of the "shared monopoly." The theory suffered at the outset from a contradiction of terms, for "monopoly" stems from the same Greek root that gives us monacle; monotone, monolith and monogamy. To share a monopoly is in a class with finding the cube root of infinity. What the staff perceived was a shared oligopoly, a term that suffers at once from redundancy and from the objection that there is no law against it.

Nevertheless, the lawyers went to work and the bells went ching, ching, ching. Scores of witnesses painted a picture of corporate struggles that would have enchanted Jonathan Swift. Kellogg's Special K met General Mills's Total in "head-on battle." When it appeared that its

Politics Will Be Present

By WALTER R. MEARS AP Special Correspondent WASHINGTON (AP) — Social Security is an issue that has nagged President Reagan for years, and he now says he wants to take the topic out of politics forever.

That won't happen. Neither party is going to stop talking, and campaigning, about the federal program that directly affects more voters than any other. About 36 million people now receive benefits.

And Democrats are not about to drop a subject on which they consider Reagan vulnerable, because of his own pronouncements and proposals. Reagan long ago disowned his early criticism of the system itself, and he has backed away from cost-cutting proposals that were part of his federal austerity program.

No politician and no party has a monopoly on the problem. Each side blames the other for the fragile financial state of the Social Security fund.

Reagan is likely to gain approval of the measures he now seeks to tide it over, simply because he has tailored them to the mood of Congress. House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr. said the Democrats will work with the administration for legislation to permit borrowing among the three trust funds. That way, the financially strapped old age insurance fund can borrow from the disability and hospital insurance trust funds.

Reagan called that a temporary solution, one that will buy time while the government figures out a way to put the whole system on a sound financial footing.

The president also recommended restoration of the $122 monthly minimum benefit for most of the people who get it now. Congress voted to drop it at the behest of the administration, but even the Republican Senate was moving to reinstate it. Reagan said it should be restored for the truly needy.

In his second-round budget reduction proposal, Reagan repeated — and defended — his recommendations for cuts in the benefits of people who retire before age 65, and for a three-month delay in the 1982 cost of living increase in Social Security benefits.

But he didn't push for their enactment. He simply said they were reasonable, sound ideas.

Reagan said many Americans are concerned "and even frightened" about the future of Social Security. The most frightening accounts are those that have come from the Reagan administration. Reagan's aides have called it a crisis, warned of bankruptcy. Budget Director David A. Stockman has said the real question is whether the people who depend on Social Security benefits "can count on any check at all" a year from now.

The subject is a difficult one for any president bent on curbing federal spending. Jimmy Carter and Gerald R. Ford both proposed limits on the annual cost of living increases in Social Security. Neither of them got anywhere.

It is more nettlesome for Reagan because of his earliest pronouncements on Social Security, dating to service in the 1964 presidential campaign of Sen. Barry Goldwater. Like Goldwater, Reagan said in those days that Social Security should be made voluntary.

Carter repeatedly raised that as an issue against Reagan in their 1980 presidential campaign. "This is an old canard that has been laid to rest every four years since I first ran for office in 1966," Reagan countered, promising to defend the system and put it on a sound, reliable footing.

He said no one dependent on Social Security need worry about benefits under a Reagan administration.

In his 1976 and 1980 campaigns, Reagan said he would protect current beneficiaries and, at the same time, create a commission of experts to find a permanent solution to the system's financial problems.

Costs Are Passed On

In the so-what-else-is-new category is the report that postal rates are to increase.

The Postal Service approved the increase of a first class stamp from 18 to 20 cents effective Nov. 1.

Spokesmen said the Postal Service would have suffered continuing and dangerously high operating losses without the increase.

No doubt it would, if the service continues to operate as it currently does. It is also well to remember however that it is easy to go for increased rates rather than to look for economies in the Postal Service operations.

We believe there are ways to improve postal efficiency and the service should be looking for solutions rather than so easily passing along the cost of inefficiency to the customers.

THIS AFTERNOON

Unusual Situation

By BILL NOBLITT RALEIGH — A lot of high North Carolina officials are putting a lot on the line for a major Hollywood film now being shot in this state.

It is not unusual for a movie crew to get cooperation from state officials.

It is most unusual for the cast and chief crew to breakfast at the Governor's Mansion, attend an hour-long news conference presided over by the governor and featuring the most well-behaved and polite Capitol Press Corps seen in Raleigh for many years, and receive standing instructions that if there are problems anywhere along the way, Gov. Jim Hunt is as close as the nearest telephone.

There are two big reasons for all of this cooperation above and beyond the call of duty:

The film will to a considerable degree feature North Carolina.

The subject is advanced technology computer and microelectronic communication and will portray North Carolina as a world leader in that field. That is a subject dear to Jim Hunt's heart.

Research Douglas Trumbull, director of the movie "Brainstorm," seems sold on North Carolina — both for its scenic beauty and its current research role. He said in looking about for a location he was told by several leading scientists that this state was important, and that the Research Triangle Park is a stunning location.

The pictures he reviewed of the park and surrounding areas "blew my mind," Trumbull said. The film will be shot principally at the Burroughs Wellcome Center, world headquarters of the international drug and medical firm, and at Duke University. Pinehurst, the Governor's Mansion, the Wright Memorial and the Humanities Center also will be featured. Trumbull says he is amazed at finding everything in North Carolina from the most striking modern buildings set in a forest-like park to a New England village to mountains to the shore.

Another thing that blew his mind is that the very subject of his film — the cutting edge of microelectronics communications — is taking place right now in North Carolina. The area is rich in sophisticated, high-caliber research which makes North Carolina "poised to shape the future just as the Silicon Valley of Northern California revolutionized the world with the discovery of the silicon micro chip for computers," says Trumbull.

Sometimes, movies are shot in one place that then is identified in dialogue as another. Brainstorm will identify North Carolina and will maintain "a sense of accuracy, honesty and reality," Trumbull said. "I feel it is important that real research of this nature is going on right here, in North Carolina, right now."

Future "We are here because North Carolina is beautiful ... and we are here because this is what is going on," Trumbull explained. "I want moviegoers to come away with the realization that from such research settings come ideas, innovations and products of the future."

The director, who did the special effects in movies such as "2001: A Space Odyssey," "Close Encounters of the Third Kind," "Andromeda Strain," and "Star Trek The Movie," is closemouthed about the plot of Brainstorm. But he hints that it has to do with explorations of inner space as people use a revolutionary new technique to communicate only to find that the technology invades deeply submerged thoughts and instincts and creates startling revelations of individual personalities.

Strength For Today

PERFECTION — IS IT POSSIBLE?

Jesus once told the parable of two men who went up to the temple to pray. The one was a Pharisee, proud of his righteousness, thanking God that he was not like other men. The other was a publican who beat his breast and cried, "God be merciful to me a sinner." That man, declared Jesus, went back to his house justified rather than the other.

This may seem to be in contradiction to the command of Jesus that we be perfect, even as our Father in heaven is perfect. But there is no contradiction. We are to seek perfection, but we are not to claim it, for the moment we do we reveal by our attitude that we have not attained it. Whatever eminence we have achieved is only a vantage point from which to view greater peaks yet to be scaled.

There never was a perfect human being on earth save the one whom we revere and worship. Our task is to work for perfection — knowing we cannot attain it. — Elisha Douglass

Prospect Of Panic Has Lessened

By CHET CURRIER AP Business Writer NEW YORK (AP) — A measure of calm has returned to Wall Street after its near-miss encounter with a crisis in the stock market.

The "blue Monday" forecast by one market guru was averted, thanks to a dramatic rally in stock prices Monday afternoon.

For the time being at least, the prospect has lessened that investors might, by panicking, bring on themselves the economic calamity they fear so much.

The stock market, after all, is a $1 trillion-plus pool of wealth, and thus represents a structural part of the economy. Its collapse in 1929 set in motion forces that led to the Great Depression of the 1930s.

After the Dow Jones industrial average's comeback from an early loss of almost 15 points to a close at plus-18 on Monday, however, many analysts were still unsure whether a sustained recovery was in the cards.

"The good news is that most of the damage has already been done," one broker remarked. "The bad news is that the market is still down almost 200 points."

The deep V-shape that showed up on the stock charts Monday was reminiscent of past important turning points.

"Silver Thursday" on March 27 of 1980, when the Dow Jones industrials fell about 25 points but then rebounded, provided one of the most recent examples. It marked the last phase of a decline in stock prices, and set the stage for a bull market that ran for almost a year.

But any attempt to tame the stock market by fitting it into neat, predictable patterns can be dangerous. Several analysts have pointed out lately that not every decline ends with a spectacular reversal.

"A selling climax does not have to occur," Alan Shaw at Smith Barney, Harris Upham told the firm's clients this week. "Indeed, history indicates that more than one selling climax might be looked for."

The Merrill Lynch Market

Letter, published by the nation's largest brokerage house, pointed out, "A selling climax does not necessarily mark the low point of a downturn, but frequently is followed by lower lows in a few weeks. In view of these prospects, we would be suspicious of quick rallies."

Wall Street's recent woes have been consistent with one historical pattern — a tendency for the market to encounter rough going in the first year of a new presidency.

Anthony Tabell at the Princeton, N.J., firm of DeLafield, Harvey, Tabell, pointed out that declines have been particularly common in years when a new party takes power, as the Republicans did this year.

"Since the Reagan ascendancy has produced economic policy changes perhaps more radical than previous shifts of the party in power," Tabell said, "it is not surprising, except perhaps to certain senators, that the market's response to these shifts should be accentuated."

Of course, the news that the 1981 bear market is "normal" may be small consolation to the people who have paper losses of more than $200 billion to show for it. Presumably, they are more interested in knowing when it will be over.

Reliable answers to that question are scarce. But Shaw at Smith Barney offers this suggestion:

"One standard used to judge the stock market's underlying trend is its reaction to news. A classic sign of the end of a bull market is when positive news evokes no upside response. Conversely, bear markets end when the world ignores negative reports."

Recently, the list of Wall Street's worries has been almost endless — big federal budget deficits, high interest rates, talk of a worldwide recession, and accompanying cuts in estimates of future corporate earnings. When the market starts talking such news without flinching, Shaw suggests, the bottom will most likely be near.

lawyers had failed to prove their charges of shared monopoly. There had been no price fixing, no conspiracy. On the contrary, the evidence established that the companies engaged in "intense, unrestrained and uncoordinated competition."

Last week FTC's staff counsel filed notice of its intention to appeal Judge Beran's decision to the full commission. Thus far the case has cost Kellogg $10 million, General Foods $6 million and General Mills $1 million. The record includes 41,000 pages of transcript, 35 bound volumes of exhibits and 16 other binders of exhibits. Ching, ching, ching goes the folly, and the end is not in sight.

appointed by leaders of both parties, to undertake that task, and "to remove Social Security once and for all from politics."

Reagan said it should be made up of five members he would appoint, five to be named by Democrat O'Neill, five by Senate Majority Leader Howard H. Baker Jr., R-Tenn.

That would give it a bipartisan imprint, although two-thirds of the panel would be chosen by Republicans.

O'Neill is wary. "This is a new idea," he said. "The president never discussed this with me." O'Neill said any attempt to shape the future of Social Security should involve the House Ways and Means Committee, which deals with Social Security legislation. Democrats still are in charge there.

So much for taking Social Security out of politics.

"I remain fully committed to assuring that the budget will not be balanced on the backs of Social Security recipients," the speaker said.

Two Candidates File For Seats

SIMPSON — Mrs. Virginia Smith McDonald and Galloway C. Thompson, both currently serving on the Simpson Town Board, filed Wednesday as candidates for town councilman. This is Mrs. McDonald's first bid for elected office, though she has filled an unexpired term on the council. Thompson has served two terms, with part of his current term being as mayor, following the death of John T. McDonald, who had been mayor. In Simpson, candidates file only for councilman, and after elections, choose one of their number for the position of mayor.

A native of Bethel, Mrs. McDonald is the widow of John T. McDonald, mayor of Simpson from the time the village was incorporated and instituted a town government in 1975 until his death in 1980. She has been postmaster at Simpson for the past 20 years.

Since 1975 Mrs. McDonald has also served as the town clerk and finance officer.

Mrs. McDonald stated she has checked with a lawyer to determine that no conflict of interest exists between filing as a candidate and being the town's postmaster, and has been informed that none exists.

Mrs. McDonald is a member of Simpson United Methodist Church. She also sings in the church choir and is a member of United Methodist Women. She belongs to Grimesland Chapter 350 of Eastern Star, and serves on the Advisory Council of the Manpower Program in Martin County.

Mrs. McDonald is the mother of four children — John T. McDonald III, Mrs. Laura Burke, Mrs. Linda Harvell, and Mrs. Leslie Edwards.

Thompson, a Simpson native, attended school in Simpson and at G.R. Whitfield in Grimesland. He is the owner and operator of Thompson's Convenient Mart and Grill in Simpson. He and his wife, Clara Hamilton Thompson, have six children. He is a member of the Board of Trustees of Phillippi Missionary Baptist Church in Simpson, has life membership in the NAACP, is a past master of Bright Star Masonic Lodge No. 385, and serves on the advisory board of the Pitt County Agriculture Extension agency and both the G.R. Whitfield and D.H. Conley High schools, and on the board of the Eastern Pines Water Corporation.

He says he wishes to continue the good community development work now underway in the Village of Simpson.

Flood Insurance Rates Going Up

WASHINGTON (AP) — Insurance rates for more than half a million Americans in the National Flood Insurance program are going up as of today.

The rate hikes for communities in coastal areas and those in the emergency phase of the flood insurance program were announced Wednesday by the Federal Emergency Management Administration.

Trumbull says he is hoping for a PG rating even though the film will be "awesomely frightening" and could cause strain for some young people. The frightening nature will not result from bloody violence, but from the revelations of human instincts portrayed as micro-technological become "a conduit for human interchange."

Measles Outbreak

FORT MYERS, Fla. (AP) — Lee County officials plan to vaccinate 4,000 students against measles as federal officials confirmed it was the largest outbreak in the United States with 51 confirmed cases.

An official with the national Centers for Disease Control in Atlanta said Wednesday the outbreak among high school students was "disturbing," but would not delay the CDC's target date of eliminating measles nationwide by October 1982.

Winterville Fireman Is Injured

WINTERVILLE — Winterville Assistant Fire Chief Phillip Worthington was reported injured early Monday morning when the fire engine he was working on ran over his leg.

According to Bobby Joyner, Pitt County fire marshal, Worthington was returning from a fire, and experienced trouble with the fire engine.

Upon arriving at the station he raised the cab of the tilt-cab truck in an effort to locate the trouble. Joyner said Worthington said he at first had the hand brake engaged and after a moment took the hand brake off and placed the truck in gear.

While Worthington was working, the truck apparently came out of gear and front wheels knocked him to the ground allowing the rear wheels to run over his left leg.

Joyner said Worthington's leg was broken and his hip was injured. Worthington was listed in satisfactory condition in Pitt Memorial Hospital this morning.

Investigation into the accident is continuing.

Warehouse Expansion Is Begun

Work has started on the construction of additional warehouse space at the Burroughs Wellcome Co. plant north of Greenville, company officials said today.

Spokesmen said the work involves the "extension" of existing warehouse space. The shipping warehouse addition will contain approximately 28,500 square feet.

The pre-stressed concrete structure, 150 by 190 feet, is estimated to cost about $1 million, and completion of the project is expected to take six to seven months.

Correction

An accident report in the Monday's edition incorrectly listed the driver's name of a car that struck another vehicle on N.C. 33. The name was incorrectly listed as Johnny Ray Ross, of Greenville, and should have read James Perry Morgan, of Rt. 3, Washington.

Trooper Douglas Britton said Wednesday after an investigation of the accident that Morgan had been charged with driving while license revoked and reckless driving.

Child Find Month Marked

Gov. Jim Hunt proclaimed September as Child Find Month and each Monday thereafter for the remainder of the 1981-82 school year as Child Find Day.

The Greenville-Pitt County Interagency Council said a comprehensive effort is being made to locate all children requiring special services during this time.

The Council said that people seeking more information should contact the director of exceptional children for the local school system.

Book Salesmen End Walkout

CHICAGO (AP) — With owners guaranteeing payment of their legal fees in the event of police raid arrests, employees of 11 Chicago adult bookstores ended a 12-hour walkout.

"We've been more effective than (Moral Majority leader) Jerry Falwell," joked Art Martinez, one of three store managers who engineered Tuesday's strike, referring to the Moral Majority's announced campaign to stop the sale of pornography.

Martinez said the 51 employees involved were given a tentative agreement for 21 days, after which lawyers from both sides will negotiate a final contract.

OUR CLASSIFIED STAFF knows it's important to please you. And we receive hundreds of testimonials every year.

STORAGE BUILDINGS DESTROYED — Firemen battle flames that destroyed two storage building early this morning. According to Pitt County Fire Marshal Bobby Joyner, the buildings were owned by Thomas Parsons of Rt. 9, Greenville, near the Cherry Oaks subdivision entrance, and were engulfed in flames when firemen arrived. Firemen from Eastern Pines and Winterville responded to the 3 a.m. call. (Reflector Photo by Tommy Forrest)

PCC Enrolling New Job Class

Recruiting The Human Resources Development Department at Pitt Community College is now recruiting a new class.

The eight-week course, designed to encourage, train and help individuals maintain working positions, is open to citizens of the Greenville/Pitt County area who are unemployed or are school dropouts 18 years of age or older. Unemployed individuals actively seeking work and persons receiving public assistance are especially urged to make application.

Charles M. Dickens, PCC program coordinator for HRD, said, "Historically, persons who drop out to school and who cannot find work become frustrated, give up frequently and seek out public assistance such as AFDC and food stamps. Others who have worked on and off find themselves unable to qualify for public assistance or unemployment insurance. If these people seek out our program and enroll, we may be able to assist them."

Other target groups encouraged to enroll are single parents who are heads of households, minorities and offenders. People who receive WIN funds and other forms of periodic income will be accepted for this class.

Dickens continued, "After completing the course, our main thrust is to assist our students in finding a job."

The HRD program is will also assist high school dropouts in earning their diplomas. Dickens pointed out that the classes are made up of both men and women coming from all walks of life.

"Through a cooperative arrangement with the Pitt County Unit on Aging, we have in the past enrolled and had to graduate five individuals who had reached or passed their 55th birthday. The older members of our classes contribute as much as their younger counterparts," explained Dickens.

Application for the HRD class may be made by coming to the HRD office on the PCC campus or by telephoning 756-3130, ext. 255.

Local Student Association For Retarded Citizens To Defend State Chief

Saw Service At Museum

ROCKY MOUNT — A Greenville elementary student served for three weeks last summer as a junior curator of the Children's Museum here.

William Rouse III, a fifth-grader at South Greenville School, worked last July in the museum, which houses animals and instructs visitors in nature.

Rouse was the first out-of-county youngster to participate in the program. He found out about it while visiting the museum with a St. Gabriel School group. The staff, impressed by his knowledge of animals, asked him to participate.

The student's duties included cleaning classrooms, supervising crowds, cataloging items for exhibit, as well as being directly involved with animals.

Rouse also cleaned cages, sunned turtles and snakes and occasionally taught young birds to fly.

For their work, the junior curators receive a museum t-shirt, a certificate of achievement and a letter of commendation, sent to the curator's teacher or school the following year.

In addition, the curators earn special time to work on projects or crafts of their choice each time they successfully complete an assignment.

Rouse is a student in the enrichment class at South Greenville, and his major interest is science, according to his mother. He is a member of the band at school and serves as a student council representative.

Rouse is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Rouse Jr.

The North Carolina Association for Retarded Citizens was stunned by the news that Dr. Ann F. Wolfe, the state's chief mental retardation official, has been asked for her resignation effective Nov. 1, Carey S. Fendley, the association's executive director said.

"Dr. Wolfe has been the guiding light and, indeed, the architect of services and facilities to serve mentally retarded North Carolina citizens, young and old, for the past 10 years," he said. "ARC has been a partner in this growth, and we know first-hand of her expertise, her dedication and her ability to get the job done." Fendley said he believes "this year and the next few years are going to be critical times for social programs and services to handicapped, given the projected budget cuts at the federal level that spill over to the states. Now is not the time to divest critical programs of their most knowledgeable and capable administrative leaders." Florence C. Cain, president of ARC/NC, added, "Perhaps we could get along all right without Dr. Wolfe, but the mentally retarded of North Carolina can't." ARC is proclaiming Monday as "Ann Wolfe Day." Representatives from all over North Carolina plan to meet with legislators in Raleigh when the N.C. General Assembly convenes at 10 a.m. Fendley said, "We want to voice our support of Dr. Wolfe and we hope her departure can be avoided or at least delayed." Members of ARC/Pitt County and others who may be interested in services for the mentally retarded may participate in the delegation from Pitt County. For more information regarding the trip on Monday, call the ARC office at 758-1683.

Musical Program Is Planned

A musical program, "Electronic Music with Slides and Visuals" by Otto Henry, Theory-Composition faculty member of the ECU School of Art, will be presented at 8:15 p.m. Sunday, October 4 in the A. J. Fletcher Recital Hall. There is no admission charged, and the public is invited to attend.

The music, slides and visuals in the program have all been prepared by Dr. Henry, with the exception of "Opera Theater," which is arranged by Richard Taylor.

Henry will be assisted by faculty members Donna Coleman and Deborah Chodacki, and by graduate teaching assistant Ellen Kaner.

The opening work on the program will be "Shamen," for Moog Synthesizer and painted slides, featuring a painted film "Green is a nice color, but not in my hair." The "Opera Theater" segment consists of operatic selections for the microcomputer arranged by Richard Taylor. This work incorporates arias from operas by Verdi, Mozart, Puccini and Rossini.

These selections will be followed by "Intermittencies" for tape and color organ.

Ms. Coleman will perform the world premiere of Henry's new work for piano, "Sheet Music," composed for prepared pianist. Ms. Chodacki, clarinet, and Ms. Kaner, flute, will perform with Henry the "Memoires cinematique" for flute, clarinet and synthesizer.

Other compositions on the program will be "Carillon fantastique de Lon Chaney," "Pavanne de Harold Lloyd" and "Memoire de M. Monroe." The "Monroe" composition, a new one by Henry for flute, clarinet and synthesizer, was performed at the 11th Annual Electronic Music Plus Festival at Colgate University, Hamilton, N.Y. on September 26. This festival is a yearly forum for new music which combines the electronic medium with live performance and visuals. Electronic Music Plus attracts composers from all over the world and has become of the major festivals for this type of music.

Commission Sets Fee For Personal Use Of State-Owned Cars

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The state Advisory Budget Commission set a minimum fee of $46.50 a month Wednesday for state employees using state cars to commute to work.

The rules approved by the ABC Wednesday implement a new law passed by the Legislature this year. The law was designed to centralize control of the vehicles in the Department of Administration, which proponents said would save the state about $2.5 million a year.

Under the new law, which takes effect next year, the department is to take control of more than 5,000 state-owned cars.

The regulations restrict who may have a state car and requires most employees to leave the vehicles at work at night. Those who have the right to take the cars home must repay the state 18 cents a mile for commuting expenses.

State officials estimate that about 2,500 employees commute to work in state vehicles.

The new rules must be approved by Gov. Jim Hunt, aired in a public hearing and approved by the state Administrative Rules Commission.

ABC chairman Sen. Kenneth Royall, D-Durham, said Wednesday that North Carolina's elected Council of State members should be treated the same as other state workers who use state-owned cars.

All nine members of the council, except Lt. Gov. Jimmy Green, now have permanently assigned state cars. Green has use of a State Bureau of Investigation car with an agent assigned as bodyguard and driver.

The regulations do not say whether council members may continue to have their state cars or whether they will have to pay commuting costs.

That decision is up to Administration Secretary Jane Patterson, who has asked the ABC for advice. Last month, she also asked the Legislature's Governmental Operations Commission for a ruling.

Royall, who is on both panels and is chairman of the Senate Ways and Means Committee, said he and other legislators on the Governmental Operations Commission favor requiring the council members to pay.

"If you're going to treat everybody fairly, the feeling ... was they ought to be treated like anyone else," Royall told Mrs. Patterson.

Mrs. Patterson said no decision will be made on the council until January. Earlier she said she had received complaints from almost all the council members about the new car policy.

In addition to requiring commuting payments, the department plans to review the use of all assigned cars in light of the new restrictions.

Association Is Offering Hypnosis

The American Lung Association of North Carolina, Eastern Region is offering hypnosis clinics to residents to help them stop smoking or lose weight. John Greer, hypnotherapist and clinician, will conduct group hypnosis clinics sponsored by the Association on Friday, October 9, at the Holiday Inn.

Greer notes that hypnosis helps a person convert to a non-smoker rather than give up something he still wants to do. In weight loss, he says the key is making a life change, not a temporary body change.

Death Penalty To Be Appealed

GREELEY, Colo. (AP) — The first criminal sentenced to the gas chamber under Colorado's 2-year-old capital punishment law will appeal the death sentence, his lawyer says.

Edgar L. Duree, 43, of Aurora, was sentenced Wednesday to die in January. Greeley District Judge Jonathan Hays stayed the execution at the old Colorado State Prison in Canon City pending a review by the state Supreme Court.

Duree's lawyer, Craig

Truman, said he would oppose the sentence before the Supreme Court and would appeal to a higher tribunal if necessary.

"I believe Mr. Duree did not receive a proper trial and he sure didn't receive a fair penalty phase," he said.

Hays' sentence followed a recommendation Friday by the same jury that found Duree guilty of first-degree murder, first-degree kidnapping, aggravated robbery and theft in connection with the death of Gary Statler, 38, a Denver antiques dealer.

James W. Manners, 29, of Greeley was convicted of first-degree murder and second-degree kidnapping in the case, but the jury recommended he be imprisoned for life without parole for 20 years.

Hays agreed with that finding, ruling there were mitigating circumstances in Manners' case. Under the new death penalty law, a jury must sentence a defendant to die if no mitigating circumstances are found.

In this case, the jury decided Manners had not instigated Statler's death. Five jurors thought Duree also should have been imprisoned and registered that opinion in a note to Hays. They said they disapproved of capital punishment.

Statler's body was found bound and handcuffed in a field north of Kersey in December. Police said his throat had been cut and he was stabbed 15 times.

Duree's son, Roger Baldwin, who received 12 years for second-degree murder under a plea bargain, testified that he had arranged a "homosexual encounter" among the other three men in November. Statler was then tied up, forced to write checks and killed, Baldwin said.

Colorado's gas chamber has been idle since June 2, 1967. Seventy-eight people have been executed by the state of Colorado. The old Colorado death penalty statute was overturned in 1979 because it failed to allow a jury to consider all evidence a defendant could offer on his behalf.

River Agencies Face Reductions

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration is sending five of the nation's six river planning agencies down the drain today, but all are trying to stay afloat.

If they do survive, it will be at drastically reduced levels. Many plan only to have one or two staff members and pay them with money left over from federally supported budgets.

"We can't get into pure planning any more, that's obvious," said Dick Hurd, director of the nine-state Ohio River Basin Commission. "What you're going to see is state commissions involved in water at an issue-oriented level, a lobbying effort, primarily."

In an executive order issued Sept. 14, President Reagan precipitated "the orderly termination of the six river basin commissions" for a savings of $3.6 million in fiscal 1982, which began today.

Five of the river planning commissions — the Missouri, New England, Ohio, Great Lakes and Pacific Northwest — officially go out of business today. The Upper Mississippi Commission was granted a reprieve until Dec. 31 to complete a congressionally mandated master plan.

Commission officials say the budget cuts come at a time when water problems are developing into the nation's next great crisis.

Bill Hutchinson, director of the Pacific Northwest commission, said the problems of the Columbia River system — competition between hydroelectric power, fishery interests, irrigation and recreation — "are just emerging as intense."

"It's certainly unfortunate, in that many of these issues will languish," he said. "They are of a multi-state and federal nature, and will not be addressed by individual states or federal agencies."

Although acknowledging that water crises even loom in the Missouri basin, Carol Hamon, director of the 10-state Missouri commission, said the regional planning concept of the commissions "never turned out to be what it was meant to be, something that could be built into a national water resources plan. It was only half effective from a national viewpoint."

Only the northern tier of 32 states was covered by the commissions.

Marketbasket Prices Hold Steady For September

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer
September brought little change in overall supermarket bills, according to an Associated Press marketbasket survey. Individual price increases and decreases just about canceled each other out; 25 percent of the items surveyed by the AP went up last month, while 26 percent went down.

The AP drew up a random list of 14 commonly purchased food and non-food products and checked prices at one supermarket in each of 13 cities on March 1, 1973. Prices have been rechecked on or about the start of each succeeding month. The latest survey showed that the marketbasket bill went up last month in nine cities, rising an average of 1.8 percent. The total went down in four cities, dropping an average of 3.7 percent. Overall, the marketbasket bill at the checklist stores increased by only one-tenth of 1 percent during September. The rise was the fourth monthly increase this year. The items in the AP survey also went up in January, June and July. They decreased in the remaining five months. Comparing prices today with those at the start of the year, the AP found that the average marketbasket bill was 5.5 percent lower than it was nine months earlier. In 1980, the marketbasket bill went up about 10 percent during the first three-quarters of the year. Larger-than-anticipated supplies of meat and record grain harvests have contributed to the 1981 decrease. Economists note, however, that the farm value of the food we buy is only one factor in the final cost. George Casler, an agricultural economist in the New York State College of Agriculture and Life Sciences at Cornell University, warns that food prices probably will rise "because of high marketing costs and inflation in production costs."

The AP survey showed that the most widespread price increases during September came on two breakfast items — coffee and eggs. The price of a pound of coffee went up last month at the checklist store in seven of the cities surveyed. Prices for coffee beans have been fluctuating ever since a frost struck the Brazilian crop in July — even though world stockpiles of coffee are at high levels and the U.S. Department of Agriculture said the freeze would cut 1981 production "only slightly."

The AP found that the price of a dozen eggs went up during September at the checklist store in nine cities.

Eggs declined in price for much of this year, but started increasing in August. There was good news last month for consumers holding late summer barbecues; the price of a pound of all-beef frankfurters went down at the checklist store in seven cities and the price of chopped chuck went down in four cities. A look at the overall number of items in the AP survey showed fewer increases during September than during August. Here are the percentages of increases and decreases:

	Aug.	Sep.
Up	30.2	24.7
Down	22.0	26.4
Unchanged	41.8	41.8
Unavailable	6.0	7.1

No attempt was made to weight the AP survey results according to population density or in terms of what percent of a family's actual grocery outlay each item represents. The day of the week on which the check was made varied depending on the month. Standard brands and sizes were used when available. If the requested size and brand was not available on March 1, 1973, a comparable substitute was selected. Items temporarily out of stock on one of the survey dates being compared were not included in the over-all total. The AP did not try to compare actual prices from city to city. The only comparisons were made in terms of percentages of increase or decrease.

The items on the AP checklist were: chopped chuck, center cut pork chops, frozen orange juice concentrate, coffee, paper towels, butter, Grade-A medium white eggs, creamy peanut butter, laundry detergent, fabric softener, tomato sauce, milk, frankfurters and granulated sugar. A 15th item, chocolate chip cookies, was dropped from the list when the manufacturer discontinued the package size used for the survey. The cities checked were: Albuquerque, N.M., Atlanta, Boston, Chicago, Dallas, Detroit, Los Angeles, Miami, New York, Philadelphia, Providence, R.I., Salt Lake City and Seattle.

Hotel Reopens Tonight

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Hyatt Regency Hotel reopens tonight, its lobby shorn of most physical reminders of the day two months ago when walkways crashed down and killed 113 people in a storm of concrete and steel.

Following a news conference, hotel officials plan to open the doors without fanfare at 5:30 p.m. CDT, and the public will get its first ground-level view of the hotel since the night of the tragedy.

A 10-foot plastic shroud has kept the front and sides of the 40-story building hidden as workers renovated the lobby.

Mayor Richard Berkley led city officials Wednesday in an inspection. A worker in a jogging suit placed folded cloth napkins on precisely arranged tables in the Terrace Restaurant.

It was from the restaurant the night of July 17 that diners watched in horror as two skywalks creaked, then dropped onto a crowded dance floor. Two hundred people suffered injuries in what Berkley called the worst disaster in the city's history.

Government Seizes Counterfeit Pills

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government is confiscating fake pills at factories in five states in an attempt to end the sale of counterfeit amphetamines and other controlled substances.

U.S. marshals carrying special court orders seized the pills on Wednesday in New York, Illinois, Pennsylvania, Florida and Alabama. The court orders were sought by the departments of Justice and Health and Human Services, which houses the Food and Drug Administration.

FDA spokesman Chris Smith said the quantity and street value of the recovered drugs were not immediately known.

Some of the confiscated pills appear similar to amphetamines such as Biphemine-20 and Iomamin-30. Those pills are known as "uppers" and are sometimes are diverted to street sales.

But the pills frequently contain non-prescription ingredients such as caffeine, phenylpropanolamine, a nasal decongestant and appetite suppressant.

Antihistamines are among the ingredients found in counterfeit "downers," which are sold as such prescription sedatives as Quaalude-300 or Dilaudid.

Parents have complained to the FDA that counterfeit drugs are being promoted as "100 percent legal."

Iran Displays Coffins During State Funerals For Military Leaders

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Coffins of Iran's top four military commanders who died in a plane crash were paraded through Tehran streets today during a state funeral attended by 1 million mourners, a government information official said.

The official, who did not give his name, said when reached by telephone from Beirut that a government statement reported 41 of the 100 people aboard the U.S.-made C-130 transport died in the Tuesday night crash in a Tehran suburb. The plane had been returning from the southwest war front with Iraq.

The coffins, draped in the Islamic republic's green, white and red flag, were borne through streets in cars while the crowd chanted "death to America" and "the hypocrites must be executed," the official said.

Hypocrites is a term used by Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's regime for the leftist Mujahedeen Khalq guerrillas who have been waging a campaign of assassinations and bombings to bring down the regime. The Mujahadeen was not blamed for the plane crash.

The Tehran newspaper Kayhan today quoted officials as saying the plane ran out of fuel and crashed before it could make an emergency landing.

However, an exiled guerrilla chief suggested Khomeini ordered the plane sabotaged.

In Paris, Massoud Rajavi, the exiled leader of the Mujahedeen, said Khomeini might have ordered sabotage to get rid of Col. Javad Fakuri, the former defense minister and commander of the air force.

Tehran Radio said Fakuri was killed in the crash along with Defense Minister Musa Namju, the acting commander-in-chief of the armed forces, Maj. Gen. Valeollah Fallahi; the deputy commander of the Islamic Revolutionary Guards, Mohsen-Rahim Kolahdoz, and an unspecified number of wounded troops being brought to the capital.

Fakuri was defense minister under former President Abolhassan Bani-Sadr and was still commander of the air force when Bani-Sadr and Rajavi escaped to Paris in July aboard an air force plane that took off from the Tehran air base.

Khomeini, Iran's supreme leader, removed Fakuri from his command last month and made him an adviser of the joint chiefs of staff. Rajavi said he was demoted because Khomeini accused him of complicity in the escape.

"It is natural that Khomeini himself is a suspect in this because he hated officers like Fakuri," said Rajavi.

Today, in a statement read by telephone to The Associated Press in Paris, Bani-Sadr and Rajavi announced they had formed a "transitional government" headed by Bani-Sadr with Rajavi leading a "National Council of Resistance for the Independence and Freedom of the Democratic Islamic Republic of Iran."

They promised equality, land reform, autonomy for Kurdistan, elimination of the Revolutionary Guards and a new judicial system to replace the "Khomeinist courts" they said they "emphatically condemned."

In a condolence speech Wednesday, Khomeini exhorted the nation's 36 million citizens to defend Iran with "iron will and pride ... so that the blind-hearted people and the hypocrites and those who are in the West's embrace will know that the Iranian people and armed forces still live."

The government announced Wednesday that several guerrilla hideouts were raided and documents seized revealing a new assassination plot. It said the targets were Col. Ibrahim Hejazi, the national police chief, and the chief justice of the Supreme Court, Abdulkarim Ardabili.

The government also announced that gunmen killed three people in Gorgan, on the Caspian Sea; a Khomeini supporter was shot and killed in the western city of Hamadan, and 50 leftists were arrested during street fighting in Tehran between revolutionary guards and small groups of Mujahedeen Khalq demonstrators.

The leftists apparently were demonstrating against the presidential election Friday in which President Mohammad Ali Rajai's successor will be chosen. The Mujahedeen, Iran's most effective anti-Khomeini movement, assassinated him and Prime Minister Mohammad Bahonar Aug. 30.

The Mujahedeen has killed more than 300 government leaders and supporters since Bani-Sadr was ousted from the presidency in June. The government has announced the execution of more than 1,000 leftists in retaliation.

Solidarity Leader Calls For Cuts

GDANSK, Poland (AP) — A top Solidarity leader today urged "radical cuts" in Polish defense spending and another union activist warned that food riots will erupt soon and tear the country apart unless the independent labor federation takes full control of the economy.

The statements appeared certain to infuriate the Soviet-led Warsaw Pact further and came as the union announced that Lech Walesa would be challenged by three other candidates for Solidarity's leadership.

They also coincided with a proposal by Poles' Communist regime to triple or quadruple the price of food and fuel, and a new attack on Solidarity by the army which said the union was fanning the flames of counter-revolution.

The proposal for defense cuts was made by Bogdan Lis, the No. 3 man in the Solidarity hierarchy. He said the resolution should be part of the union program being fashioned at the national congress here. "At the moment there is no possibility of improving the (economic situation) in the country" without this, he said.

"I will probably be attacked for interfering in Warsaw Pact problems, but we will always oppose armaments both East and West."

Grzegorz Palka, a chief architect of the Solidarity program, told the delegates: "If we ignore this problem (of food shortages), people will solve it by themselves, and in four to six weeks the riots will turn the country upside down." Bloody riots over price rises erupted in Poland in 1970 and 1976.

"The existence of the nation is endangered and demanding more food doesn't make sense," Palka said. "So we must have full control of the economy and be able to guarantee society that its efforts are not being wasted."

Despite the announcement that Walesa will be challenged for leadership of the 9.5 million-member union, he is still expected to win the election, which will be conducted by balloting until one candidate gets more than 50 percent of the 890 delegates. The vote is expected within the next few days.

The other candidates are:

Andrzej Gwiazda, a long-time worker activist regarded as the No. 2 man in Solidarity; Marian Jurczyk, regarded as a union radical; and Jan Rulewski, another radical who was beaten with two other Solidarity members when police cleared a union-government meeting in northwestern Bydgoszcz March 19.

Gwiazda and Rulewski have called Walesa "dictatorial" and spoke angrily during debates that led to a resolution reprimanding Walesa and other union chiefs for the way they reached a compromise on a new law that gives workers a limited voice in choosing factory bosses.

Meanwhile, the Communist Party newspaper Trybuna Ludu said the government proposed price rises of 300 to 400 percent for sugar, potatoes, flour, salt, marmelade, heating fuel, electricity and gasoline.

Government Lists Show Economy Straining Under Interest Rates

By ROBERT BURNS
AP Business Writer

High interest rates show no sign of falling significantly any time soon and the latest government economic figures show an economy straining under the high cost of borrowing.

Interest rates in the credit markets rose Wednesday, supporting the dollar's strong position on foreign exchange markets and pushing some bond prices lower.

Southern Co., the country's largest electric utility holding company, announced it was postponing a $100 million offering of Alabama Power eight-year bonds because rates are high and buyers of long-term debt are scarce.

The Treasury Department, given the green light to issue new debt after Congress increased the federal debt ceiling above $1 trillion Tuesday, paid a record-high 15.78 percent average annual yield at its auction of 20-year, one-month bonds.

The Treasury also auctioned six-month bills at an average discount rate of 14.932 percent. That was more than one-half percentage point higher than last week's rate of 14.129 percent and means banks and savings institutions starting today may pay as much as 15.182 percent on six-month savings certificates, up from 14.379.

Meanwhile, the effect of high rates on the hard-hit housing market was underscored in a pair of government reports.

The Commerce and the Housing and Urban Development departments reported sales of new single-family houses fell 14.2 percent in August to the lowest annual rate since April 1980, when the economy was falling into a recession.

And in a separate report, the Commerce Department's index of leading indicators showed a decline in building permits issued in August for future construction. The index is designed to forecast economic activity.

Meanwhile, banks and savings institutions today began selling All-Savers certificates that the Reagan administration expects to provide a much-needed influx of money that can be used to make home mortgage loans.

The certificates, part of the administration's economic recovery program, are expected to draw new deposits into savings institutions. That will provide a stimulus for stagnant housing market, the administration believes. But bankers have been reluctant to commit the new funds to long-term mortgages because the All-Savers program is designed to expire in 15 months.

The Commerce Department said its index designed to forecast future economic trends dropped 0.5 percent in August, marking the third decline in the past four months. A major surprise was a 1.5 percent jump in the rate of manufacturing layoffs.

"This points to the possibility of a steeper rise in unemployment later this year than we had expected and a bigger dip in industrial production," said Alan Murray, a vice president and economist at Citibank in New York.

The government also revised upward its estimate of July's leading economic indicators, changing its earlier report of a 0.1 percent decline to a rise of 0.4 percent.

In other economic developments:—The Agriculture Department reported prices paid to farmers for raw products dropped 2.2 percent in September. That pushed the value of those crops—in terms of the measurement known as parity—to the lowest point in nearly half a century.

—The nation's housing supply increased 23 percent during the 1970s, the government reported, reaching a total of about 86 million houses. About 18.6 million new houses were built during the decade while 6.7 million houses were lost through demolition or disaster or other means, the report said.

Footnotes Boost Sticker Cost On 1982 Vehicles

By STEPHEN JONES
Associated Press Writer
DETROIT (AP) — Once, the destination charge was merely the price of getting your new car from the factory to the dealer. But that footnote on the sales sticker has risen sharply, making advertised prices almost academic.

Chrysler Corp. announced with much fanfare this week that the sticker prices of many of its small 1982 cars would remain the same as for 1981 models. But what Chrysler didn't publicize was that destination fees on those cars is up as much as $100.

Chrysler is not alone, and delivery fees have begun to attract attention because they have grown so large so quickly, in some cases increasing even faster than the sticker prices themselves.

"The dealers feel that it's exorbitant. The dealers just can't understand it," said Joe Barry, who sells Buicks, Pontiacs, Volvos and Datsuns in Newport, R.I., and is chairman of the National Automobile Dealers Association's industry relations group.

"In three or four years they've (destination charges) probably gone up 60 percent to 70 percent," Barry said. "Not long ago, the most expensive freight charge out here was $235. Now it's $515."

The fee, along with dealer preparation charges, taxes and licensing, once were considered incidental to the advertised retail price.

Chrysler said it was "declaring war on sticker shock" and freezing the prices of many small cars. Chairman Lee Iacocca said Tuesday that a two-door 1982 Dodge Aries or Plymouth Reliant will carry a base sticker price of $5,990, the same as for 1981 models. But the actual price will be at least $6,345 because it carries a $355 destination charge.

Depending on where the car is bought, the 1982 charge can be as much as $97 more than the 1981 fee, Doug Nicol, a Chrysler spokesman, said Wednesday.

At General Motors Corp., the base price of a 1982 four-door Chevrolet Citation is $6,899, up 9.8 percent from its 1981 counterpart, while the new $355 destination charge on the same model is 16.4 percent more than last year.

What is more, the concept of the destination charge has changed. It began as a way for automakers to recoup shipping costs, but in the last five or six years has been made uniform for each model, regardless of where in the United States the car is shipped. That means a buyer no longer can purchase a car for less by arranging to pick it up in Detroit or another city with an assembly plant.

A 1981 Mercury Marquis, for example, carried a destination charge of $324 in Chicago and $456 in Los Angeles. This year, however, the charge is the same, $475, in both cities and throughout the country.

And the charges now include more than just the cost of shipping the completed car. GM, Ford Motor Co. and Chrysler all say they now figure the cost of shipping parts and components to the assembly plants into the destination charge.

Ron Bogard, a lawyer with the Federal Trade Commission's advertising practices section, said the new system raises questions of fairness.

"If you load the cost of the car into destination charges, you can conceivably advertise the car at a much lower price," Bogard said. "Maybe it's not fair for the consumer who lives near Detroit to pay for the shipment of a car to California."

The automakers defend the practice.

"Since our parts supply and assembly network now is national, it seems sensible to make our transportation charges nationally uniform as well," said Bill Day, spokesman for Ford's Lincoln-Mercury division. When parts are bought in one place "and shipped all over the country, the other system made sense," he added.

"This eliminates much of the confusion due to different charges in different parts of the country," said GM spokesman Clifford Merriott. "The destination charge represents the recovery of costs; it does not include any profit to GM. Destination charges have been there all the time."

Design Error May Delay Nuclear Plant Opening

SAN LUIS OBISPO, Calif. (AP) — Pacific Gas & Electric Co. says it should know by the end of the week how to fix a design error that has left officials uncertain about the Diablo Canyon nuclear power plant's ability to withstand earthquakes.

The error, which officials say was caused when someone accidentally switched blueprints for a completed reactor at the plant with an unfinished one, may delay fuel loading for several weeks.

Meanwhile, arraignments were held Wednesday for protesters arrested during two weeks of demonstrations at the controversial facility. Authorities said there were 1,901 arrests during the protest organized by the Abalone Alliance, a coalition of anti-nuclear groups which says the plant is unsafe.

Low-power testing at Unit 1 of the Pacific Gas & Electric Co. plant, approved Sept. 21 by the Nuclear Regulatory Commission, was postponed earlier this week after it was learned that five seismic pipe supports at the unit were mistakenly built based on specifications for the as-yet-uncompleted Unit 2 because of a diagram mixup, said PG&E spokesman Gregg Pruett.

The support systems in the two units, although basically the same, vary in the amount of stress they can withstand. The stress requirements were based on projections of how earthquake shocks would affect different locations at the plant, which stands on the coast midway between San Francisco and Los Angeles.

"Our engineers are working around the clock to complete an analysis," Pruett said. "We think we should have a pretty good handle on the problem and what it takes to correct it by the end of this week."

PG&E spokesman Dick Davin said the plant's ability to withstand an earthquake was reevaluated after a new earthquake fault was discovered offshore in 1979.

During the reevaluation, PG&E engineers fed projected stress data into a computer to see where the reactors had to be strengthened, he said. But because engineers told the computer the pipes being analyzed were located in the uncompleted reactor No. 2 instead of the completed reactor No. 1, the computer made incorrect recommendations for modifications of the pipe supporting structures.

"We strengthened some pipe supports. Some may have been overstrengthened, some may have been understrengthened," Davin said.

Davin said the delay in fuel loading was voluntary, not NRC-ordered, as was PG&E's decision to modify the pipe supports.

The Abalone Alliance said the diagram mixup lends weight to its contention that the plant, located near an earthquake fault, is unsafe.

"We know the NRC acted irresponsibly in giving PG&E a license, and this is just an exemplification of what our concerns are," alliance spokesman Jeff Kalbach said. "There were over two dozen unresolved safety issues before the NRC, including the earthquake question, but all they cared to hear about were plant security and evacuation procedures."

Among those appearing in court Wednesday on charges stemming from the demonstrations was actor Rob-

Refunds Asked In Cost Overruns

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Labor Department, clearing a five-year backlog of audits, is seeking reimbursement of $76.5 million in cost overruns by federally subsidized job training programs.

The money being reclaimed by the government involves cost overruns by organizations sponsoring training under the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act over the past five years, agency officials said.

They said a 21-person special task force from the Employment Training Administration met Wednesday's deadline for clearing the unresolved audits before the start of the new fiscal year.

Instances of fraud and abuse were referred beforehand to the inspector general's office, and the special team had the sole task of settling $200 million in questioned costs relating to 577 CETA contracts.

Of the $200 million investigated by auditors, $76.5 million of the costs of providing the job training was declared unjustified, said Albert Angrisani, assistant secretary of labor for employment and training.

"Successful completion of this effort is a key to the future of our programs," Angrisani said as he signed the last of the audits.

"It will show we can manage, and manage well, the funds appropriated to us," said Angrisani, who displayed a refund check for $7,950.

The check was from the Seafarers' Harry Lundberg School of Seamanship in Brooklyn, N.Y., and involved a contract for job training awarded by the Labor Department in February 1977.

A Wachovia Personal Banker can give you all the facts about the All Savers Certificate, so you can make an informed investment decision. Stop by this week.

The Wachovia All Savers yield effective Oct. 1 and Oct. 2 is 12.610%* when interest is left on deposit to maturity. Here's what the tax-exemption could mean to you.

If your taxable income is approximately:	Your tax bracket probably is:	Your All Savers Yield of 12.610% is equivalent to a taxable rate of:
$46,000	49%	24.725%
$36,000	43%	22.123%
$25,000	32%	18.544%
$16,000	24%	16.592%

*The yield of 12.610% is based on an annual rate of 11.935% compounded monthly with interest left on deposit until maturity. To earn $2,000.00 interest on one All Savers Certificate at 12.610% you need to invest about $15,860.00 if you leave interest on deposit to maturity. To earn $1,000.00 in interest on one All Savers Certificate at 12.610% you need to invest about $7,930.00 if you leave interest on deposit to maturity. These tax brackets are based on a married couple filing a joint return. The equivalent taxable rate shown assumes no more than $15,860.00 is invested. Substantial interest penalty is required for early withdrawal.

If you like the high yield of money market certificates, but you don't like paying so much of it in taxes, Wachovia has the answer. The new tax-exempt Wachovia All Savers Certificate.

Tax-Exempt Interest. You pay no Federal taxes on the first $1,000 of interest; on the first $2,000 if you file a joint return. A glance at the chart will show you what that could mean to you.

Social Security May Have Sent $60 Million To Dead Beneficiaries

By CHRISTOPHER CONNELL
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — In death, as in life, thousands of Social Security recipients are being sent monthly benefit checks totaling millions of dollars, officials say.

The disclosure that up to $60 million in improper payments may have been sent to 10,000 dead beneficiaries comes as the Reagan administration and Congress search for a politically acceptable cure to Social Security's fiscal woes.

Social Security Commissioner John A. Svahn said Wednesday that investigators thus far have uncovered 8,518 cases in which benefits still were being paid to people listed on Medicare records as dead.

"In some instances, it's our fault, because people have notified us that someone passed away and we have not terminated their benefits," he said.

But he said the agency has found cases in which relatives or other people who had joint bank accounts with the deceased "are in fact using the money, and that is not legal."

Richard Kusserow, inspector general of the Department of Health and Human Services, said he will press for criminal and civil penalties against anyone who has improperly cashed benefit checks deposited in the accounts of dead people.

The government expects to recoup much of the money, he said.

In one case, investigators already have gotten back 125 uncashed checks — more than 10 years' worth — made out to one of the deceased, said Robert Wilson, a spokesman for the inspector general.

Wilson said several of the payments to dead people stretch back to 1966, the year Medicare started. The biggest payout to date was $63,000 on the account of someone who died in 1967, he said.

"I think it's absolutely amazing to me that it's been allowed to exist, but I'm not embarrassed by it," said Svahn, named by President Reagan to head the agency. "I'm trying to find out all the instances where something like this does exist (to be able to stop it.)"

Until a few months ago, no one had bothered to check the Medicare death records against the Social Security disability and retirement rolls, Svahn said, but "they will be routinely matched in the future."

Wilson said the agency is investigating whether Social Security employees were pocketing payments going to the deceased. But he added, "The information we have currently suggests the largest abusers are sons and daughters of deceased persons."

The 8,518 cases reviewed so far involved Medicare's death records through March 1981. Svahn said that bringing the investigation up to date may turn up a total of 10,000 cases.

Of the first 2,858 cases, investigators found at least 1,100 were actually dead and 190 were still alive.

Payments to the 1,100 deceased beneficiaries averaged $292 per month for an average of 44½ months after death. In these cases alone, the overpayments amounted to $14.3 million.

Checks for the 1,100 confirmed dead people will be stopped effective Saturday, the next date for Social Security payments, Svahn said.

Medicare is run by Social Security's sister agency, the Health Care Financing Administration, but Social Security handles its computer records.

Kusserow said some of the hospital death reports may prove incorrect "perhaps at least in part because the date of death and the date of discharge columns on the HCFA report form are adjacent and can easily be transposed."

At the same time, the administration has just scaled back the $255 lump sum death benefit for Social Security beneficiaries as an economy measure, a move that Svahn says "is going to make it harder for us to find out when someone passes away."

The benefit will be paid only to surviving relatives, not funeral home operators or others who pay for burial.

The administration, meanwhile, is continuing its crackdown on able-bodied people drawing disability benefits. By next year, Social Security is expecting state agencies to be reviewing 520,000 disability cases annually, compared with only 150,000 last year.

The General Accounting Office estimated earlier this year that 20 percent of Social Security's 2.8 million disability beneficiaries actually are able to work.

Stamp Rate May Hold Two Years

WASHINGTON (AP) — Postmaster General William F. Bolger says the new 20-cent first-class postage rate, which takes effect Nov. 1, should hold for at least two years.

The Postal Service, defying its ratemaking watchdog, on Wednesday raised the first-class letter rate from 18 cents to 20 cents. It was raised from 15 cents last March.

Minutes after Wednesday's move was announced, a trade association for the greeting card industry filed suit in the U.S. Court of Appeals challenging the legality of the Postal Service's action. The court, however, is not expected to decide the case for months.

The 2-cent increase will be the Postal Service's first that has not been approved by the Postal Rate Commission, which three times rejected requests for a 20-cent rate.

Robert L. Hardesty, chairman of the Postal Service Board, defended the increase as "reasonable, equitable and fiscally responsible."

He said the Postal Service has lost almost $126 million since the March increase.

Bolger said Wednesday that he expects the new rate to last for at least two years.

He said rate stability is important to large users who must know postal costs before deciding on mass mailings.

The National Association of Greeting Card Publishers, in a legal challenge to the rate increase, argued that it was discriminatory because it does not apply to all classes of mail.

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices turned mixed today after some issues recovered from deeper losses earlier in the session. The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, which rose nearly 26 points in the previous three sessions, was off 3.71 points to 846.27 after two hours of trading. It had been down nearly 5 points. The Dow Jones utilities index also was off but the transportation measure gained ground. The market value index at the American Stock Exchange rose 1.94 to 294.80. The New York Stock Exchange's composite index was off 0.10 to 66.90. Slightly more than six stocks fell for every five that rose on the NYSE, while losers and gainers were about equal on the Amex. Big Board volume was 18.19 million shares compared with 17.39 million in the same period Wednesday. In midday trading, General Portland was off 1/4 to 44 1/2 after gaining 17 on Wednesday. Canada Cement Lafarge is making a tender offer of $47 a share for General Portland's common stock. Grumman, fighting a takeover bid by LTV, was up 2 1/2 to 35 1/2. On the Amex, Nucor Oil slipped 3/8 to 26 1/2 after soaring 5 1/2 Wednesday on merger rumors.

Ballard
AYDEN — Rev. L. Beverly Ballard, 54, Free Will Baptist Minister and former newspaper man died Wednesday at the Veteran's Hospital in Durham. He lived at 749 Fairmont Village Drive in Ayden. Funeral services will be conducted at 10 a.m. Friday in the First Free Will Baptist Church of Greenville by the Rev. Harry Grubbs, the pastor, and the Rev. Willis Wilson, pastor of Reedy Branch F.W.B. Church. Burial will follow in Greenwood Cemetery.

Rev. Ballard was born in Kinston and served in the United States Navy during World War II. He attended the Free Will Baptist Bible College in Nashville, Tenn. He spent most of his life in the field of journalism and was associated with a number of newspapers in North and South Carolina as a reporter, syndicated columnist and editor. His award winning travel column, "Palmetto Pathways," was syndicated in more than 100 newspapers in the Southeast in the 1960s. Upon his retirement in 1978, Ballard served the Belhaven Free Will Baptist Church as pastor.

Surviving are three daughters, Mrs. F. Carns of Columbia, S.C., Mrs. Paul Kaminer of Calhoun City, Miss., and Mrs. William E. Palmer of Columbia, S.C.; two sons, William E. Ballard of Columbia, S.C., and Loy Neal Ballard of Ft. Mills, S.C.; his mother, Mrs. Gertrude O. Ballard of Middlesex; a brother, Dr. Terry P. Ballard of Wheaton, Ill.; and four grandchildren. The family will receive friends from 7-9 p.m. today.

Briley
Mr. L. Wade Briley, 52, died Wednesday in Pitt County Memorial Hospital.
 The funeral service will be conducted at 3:30 p.m. Friday in the Wilkerson Funeral Chapel by the Rev. R.L. Dyson, pastor of Grindle Creek Church of God. Burial will be in Pinewood Memorial Park.

Mr. Briley, a lifetime resident of Pitt County, was in the construction business for about 20 years, later owning and operating a country store until his retirement in 1976. He attended Grindle Creek Church of God and was a veteran of the Korean conflict. He was a member of American Legion Post No. 39 and the Charles Gray Morgan Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Myrtle Stancill Briley of the home; his mother, Mrs. Anna Briley of Greenville; five sisters: Mrs. Blanche E. Angle, Mrs. Inez Bullock, both of Greenville, Mrs. Doreen B. Hale of Brinkley, Ark., Mrs. Catherine B. Mazingo of Richmond, Va., Mrs. Lois Roberson of Washington, N.C.; and two brothers: Roy Briley of Greenville, Bobby Earl Briley of Brinkley, Ark.

The family requests that those desiring to make a memorial contribution consider the Wade Briley Memorial Fund, c/o Grindle Creek Church of God, Rt. 5, Box 518, Greenville.

The family will receive friends at the funeral home from 7-9 p.m. Thursday.

Braxton
Mr. James T. Braxton Jr., 65, died Wednesday at Pitt Memorial Hospital.
 The funeral service will be conducted at 11 a.m. Friday in the Wilkerson Funeral Chapel by his pastor, the Rev. Willis Wilson. Burial will be in Greenwood Cemetery.

Mr. Braxton, a native of Pitt County, was a retired farmer and spent most of his life in the Winterville and Red Oak communities. He was a member of the Reedy Branch F.W.B. Church and the Winterville Kiwanis Club.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Luna Edwards Braxton; a daughter, Mrs. Chris Tew of Grand Island, New York; three sons: Thomas H. Braxton of Thomasville, James A. Braxton of Vienna, Ga., Robert G. Braxton of New Bern; a brother, Paul Braxton of Winterville; seven sisters: Mrs. Gordon Chesson of Roper, Mrs. Wilbur Worthington of Ayden, Mrs. Billy Adams of Smithfield, Mrs. Ruby Benson of Winterville, Mrs. Janice Buck, Mrs. H.A.I. Sugg, both of Greenville, Mrs. Bob Ostrander of Pallatine, Ill.; and five grandchildren.

The family will receive friends at the funeral home from 7-9 p.m. Thursday.

Bryant
Mr. Jack D. Bryant, 59, died Thursday morning in Pitt Memorial Hospital. He resided at 117 Pearl Drive.

The funeral service will be conducted at 2 p.m. Saturday in the Wilkerson Funeral Chapel by his pastor, the Rev. Ed Walker. Burial will be in Greenwood Cemetery.

Mr. Bryant was born and reared in the Bethel community and had been a resident of Greenville for 35 years. He had been employed at Cox Armature Works most of that time. He was a member of United F.W.B. Church, the American Legion Post No. 39, and was a veteran of World War II.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Helen Cayton Bryant; a daughter, Miss Jackie Bryant, a student at East Carolina University; four brothers: Robert Bryant of Oak City, Fletcher Bryant of Durham, Earl Bryant of Robersonville, Vernon W. Bryant of Finleyville, Pa.; and a sister, Mrs. Joe Keel of Bethel.

Rampants, Gyphons In Key Meeting

Linebacker Robert Brown

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

While it's still early in the year — just the fifth week of the season — all the cards could be on the table Friday night as Rose High School visits Rocky Mount in a key Big East clash.

Both teams come into the contest with 4-0 records. Rose has beaten Jacksonville, New Bern and Hoggard outside the lead and Northern Nash inside. Rocky Mount downed Eastern Wayne, 25-6; Tarboro, 21-13; and Goldsboro, 17-7, in non-conference clashes, and beat Beddingfield, 34-7, last week in the Big East opener.

Rocky Mount was the odds-on favorite to win the conference title, and Rose was picked by most observers to give the Gryphons the biggest challenge. So far it looks like that assumption was correct.

Kickoff is set for 8 p.m. in Rocky Mount's Municipal Stadium.

Rose, in its 15-8 victory over Northern Nash last weekend, didn't make it look as easy as it was. The Rampants, who had the ball six times in the first half from the 50 inward to begin series, could only score once in the first 24 minutes. However, Northern's only touchdown came in the final minute of play when the Knights took the ball 86 yards on two plays against the second unit.

"I thought our defense played awfully well," Coach Ronald Vincent said. "You take those two plays out (on the touchdown series), and Northern hardly moved the ball against us, despite the fact that they have a real good athlete at quarterback."

Vincent did admit that the Knight defense was better than he had anticipated. "Still, I felt we should have scored more. The last two weeks, we haven't stuck it in like we should. But I'll have to admit that the other defense has been good too. It's not just that we aren't doing it. But we should have scored more than twice in each game."

"Of course, I'm tickled to win any way I can. They were tough. We thought that they would be tough, and they turned out to be tough."

But — this week — the Rampants, who dropped from third to fourth on the AP poll, will get the big test of the season on Friday.

"It's the biggest test so far, especially for the defense," Vincent said. "Rocky Mount (ranked 11th this week) has the best all-around game we've faced so far. They have an outstanding passing game, but their running game is just as good. (Quarterback Eddie) Coats is the best passer we've gone up against, and they have outstanding receivers."

Coats in the four games so far has hit on 42 of 86 passes for 555 yards and four touchdowns. He's been intercepted only three times. His top receiver has been flanker Ken Weaver, who has 18 receptions. The Gryphons like to send him on deep patterns. Tight ends Paul Merritt and Scott Tyler also catch the ball well, mostly on short crossing patterns.

The running game is led by tailback Kelvin Farmer, who has rushed for 401 yards. The last three games, he's been over 100 yards a game.

Chief among the offensive linemen is tackle Coye Still, 6-2, 230. He also is one of the anchors of the defensive line, at tackle, joined at the other tackle spot by Demetrius Smith, 6-3, 230. Linebacker Carl Bynum, monster back Joe Walker and safety Greg Luther are also stalwarts in the defense also.

"This is the big game," Vincent reiterated, "but it's no bigger than any of our other conference games. You remember we beat them last year, were ranked number one in the state, and then lost three of our last five games. So it's not our whole season."

Still, Vincent would like to see the Rocky Mount game moved down some in the schedule, to a later date. "It's developed into a real big game for the conference. Year after year, Rose and Rocky Mount are two of the top teams to beat in the league. Whoever is going to win the conference has to beat us. So it would be logical for us to play them later in the year, when it could have more impact."

That, Vincent said, isn't likely to occur, since it would involve changing everyone's schedule, and most like to stick with the current setup, relatively unchanged over the past few years.

To gain the victory, Vincent feels the Rampants must to certain things. "We are going to have to control the ball on offense. We're going to have to play superb defense. And we can't afford any breakdowns in the kicking game."

"I know that sounds stereotyped, but in any big game, you have to do this," Vincent added.

Rose continues to use both of its quarterbacks in alternating roles — going with the one with the hot hand. The last two weeks, that's been Tom Buie, while Barry Smith had the stuff in the first two games. Buie has hit on 10 of 24 passes for 168 yards and two scores, while Smith has connected on 12 of 33 for 282 yards and two touchdowns. Both have been picked off three times.

Tailback Roderick Harrell is the leading rusher with 326 yards, while flanker Donnell Lee is the only other runner with over 100 at 134. Fullback Roger Williams has rushed for 97 yards.

One prime factor for the Rampants, so far, has been its punting game. Williams has booted for a 32.9 average, but has a net of 33.3, as opponents have returned his kicks for minus five yards. That is in contrast to only a 27.1 net average for the opposition.

Next week, Rose plays host to Beddingfield, while Rocky Mount travels to Northern Nash.

Duo Set To Defend Title

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Kathy Whitworth is less concerned about whether she and her partner can duplicate last year's overwhelming victory than she is gratified that her own game has improved.

She is teamed with Donna Caponi in the Team Championship of the Ladies Professional Golf Association tour, which begins Friday at the 6,313-yard Riverside Country Club. It runs through Sunday.

Whitworth and Caponi, who have played together the last five years of the event, posted a record 24-under-par 185 last year to win their second crown.

"I'm one of the worst at predicting what's going to win," she said while practicing the course. "After all these years, I still can't do it. But it's possible for someone to shoot three 65s as we did last year."

After 15 straight years among the top 10 LPGA prize money winners, Whitworth finished 12th in 1978, 30th in 1979 and 24th in 1980.

She found the problem and corrected it.

"It was all mechanical," she said. "I wasn't making a full shoulder turn on the backswing. The difference has been like night and day."

Whitworth has won one tournament this year, ranks ninth on the season's list of money winners and recently became the first LPGA player to win $1 million in her career. She has won nearly $138,000 this year.

Caponi is third in this year's winnings list with nearly $180,000.

The winners' share of the $121,000 team championship are not counted in overall LPGA winnings.

Last year's second-place team of Janet Alex and Judy Clark and last year's third-place team of JoAnne Carner and Judy Rankin also are in this year's tournament.

Nancy Lopez-Melton and Jo Ann Washam were entered but withdrew because of injuries. Washam received in a car accident.

Trevino, Buoyed By Reception, Sets Sights On Texas Open Title

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Lee Trevino, trying to shake a year-long slump, could find himself in the right place at the right time as he tries to defend his title in the $250,000 Texas Open golf tournament.

Trevino said he is buoyed by the reception he usually gets in this predominantly Hispanic city and plans to go all out to repeat as champion over the 6,525-yard, par-70 layout.

Amid shouts of "Viva," the 41-year-old Trevino rolled in a 20-foot putt on the 72nd hole a year ago to capture the title that had eluded him during his career.

Trevino headed a list of five sons of the Lone Star state regarded as the favorites in the tournament, which opened today at Oak Hills Country Club.

The "Merry Mex" is expected to battle fellow Texans Bill Rogers, Tom Kite, Ben Crenshaw and Bruce Lietzke in the late-season Tournament Players Association event.

Besides Trevino and Crenshaw, who won his first tournament here in 1973, other defending champions in the 156-man field included Ron Streck, Butch Baird and Terry Diehl.

Also present were five of the 1981 Top 10 money winners, including Kite who heads the list with $355,724.

"I haven't played well this year," said Trevino, whose win last year enabled him to edge Tom Watson for the Vardon Trophy for the tour's low-stroke leader. "I feel at home here in San Antonio, though, and that makes all the difference in the world."

Trevino is No. 22 on the winnings list with $131,426 — his lowest total since 1977 when he earned only $85,108 while struggling with back problems. The Texas Open carries a $45,000 first prize.

Rogers, sixth on the money list with $270,411, missed five cuts in the early months of this year, but roared back to capture the championships at the Sea Pines Heritage Classic, the British Open, World Series of Golf and Suntory Open in Japan.

"I won my last two tournaments and it would be nice to make it three," Rogers said. "A win here would be important, not only for the Player-of-the-Year honor, but just because it's a Texas tournament and a lot of people from my hometown (Texarkana) will be here."

Crenshaw, who has slumped this year, admitted, "I've had a lot of problems, all golf related. Golf is so mental. I haven't been able to put anything together this year. Mechanically, I'm swinging well, but nothing has happened."

Lietzke has a chance to overtake Kite as the top money winner with a victory here, but two other players within striking distance — Raymond Floyd and Watson — bypassed the tournament.

State Tops ECU In Second Half Starting Berth Was Long Climb For Bud LaCock

By RICK SCOPPE
Reflector Sports Writer

It was apparent early that East Carolina's soccer team was outmanned, but for a half the Pirates used a gutsy defensive effort to ward off all but one North Carolina State run at the goal.

The second half, however, was a different story. The Pirates began to come out of their defensive shell and NCSU's superior talent began to tell as the Wolfpack scored four goals in the final 45 minutes to defeat East Carolina, 5-0, Wednesday night before a crowd of about 400.

The Wolfpack, now 7-1 this season and ranked 16th in the nation last week before losing to third-ranked Clemson, led only 1-0 at the intermission on a goal by Prince Afejuku with 20 minutes gone in the first-ever soccer match in Ficklen Stadium.

But four goals in the second half — two by Francis Moniedafe in less than two minutes — ended any thoughts ECU might have of upsetting the Wolfpack. Both Moniedafe and Afejuku had two goals for NCSU. The Wolfpack's other goal was by Bakty Barber.

ECU has now lost three straight and is 2-5 on the season. Three of those five losses have been shutouts, but the Wolfpack may have shut the Pirate offense down more effectively than any team thus far this season.

"Today, our lack of offense was due to State's overpowering offense," East Carolina soccer coach Brad Smith said. "We were able to get down to around the 18-yard line but couldn't put it in."

"We just don't have the skill to play with them in the box. Their first score was on a scramble inside the box but their second and third scores were on set plays. We had men with the people who scored but they just executed the plays properly."

The Wolfpack, which defeated ECU, 3-0, last season, wasted little time in getting off its first shot of the evening. With just 2:27 gone, Gerry McKeon missed wide to the left.

Moments later, after Afejuku missed a second Wolfpack chance, Moniedafe kicked the ball under ECU goalie Steve Brown. NCSU was offside on the play, however, and the goal was disallowed.

ECU's first shot of the night came with 36:40 left in the first half when Mike Swan, a sophomore from Bermuda who is the only foreign player on the team, missed wide left.

Another shot four minutes later by Swan was stopped easily by NCSU goalie Chris Hutson. Hutson had five saves before going to the bench late in the match.

NCSU, which controlled the ball in its offensive end for nearly the entire first half, finally broke through when Afejuku twirled and twisted in

The score gave NCSU a 1-0 lead with 24:37 left and was the only goal of the first half as the Pirates left down by only one to a team Smith said may be the best ECU faces all season.

"We played well in the first half," Smith said. "Basically, we did everything exactly as we planned except for their goal."

The second half, however, the Pirates began to free more defenders for offensive duties. It didn't help as the Pirates managed only four shots in the second half and 12 for the game compared to NCSU's 20.

"In the second half we released a midfielder and defender to go up, but we didn't lose in that," Smith said. "They scored their second and third goals when we were ready, we just couldn't stop them."

"I think we might have come out a little too soon in the second half. We probably should have waited a little longer but that's hindsight."

The Wolfpack's second goal of the game came with nearly six minutes gone in the second half. On a free kick, McKeon booted the ball toward the goal and Moniedafe headed it past Brown in the upper left-hand corner.

Less than three minutes later, Moniedafe did it again, heading the ball into the goal after a free kick to give NCSU a 3-0 lead with 36:25 left in the match.

The Pirates best chance of the night came later in the half. With 21:05 left, freshman midfielder Todd Engels, running parallel to the goal and about seven yards away, sliced a kick toward the right corner of the goal that missed by a matter of feet.

The Wolfpack's fourth goal came two minutes later when McKeon hit Afejuku racing down field all alone. The sophomore from Nigeria waited until Brown committed himself and then rammmed the ball home.

A minute later NCSU's completed its scoring. Barber sent a shot in from about 25 yards out that reserve goalie Danny Curtis stopped but did not cover. The ball bounced away and into the net with 18:33 left.

Afterwards, as the lights dimmed on the field, Smith was happier than might be expected after a loss. "This is the first time we've tried to do this and I think it was a success."

"I don't think anybody left here disappointed with what they saw. I know the fans had a good time and I know N.C. State had a good time. Our kids are a little disappointed, but you've got to be thrilled about this."

"This is what we wanted to do. Let's show them what it (soccer) is all about."

For Bud LaCock, offensive right guard for East Carolina, it's been a long, slow climb to the top.

The 6-4, 253-pound Wilmington senior didn't respond during the Pat Dye era at East Carolina, and only in the past two years has he come to the fore.

"I just wasn't mentally prepared for what I needed earlier in my career," LaCock said. "Then, when I was switched to offense, something I'd never played before, I just couldn't adjust. I got both of my knees hurt and that didn't help me either."

Then came the coaching change and Ed Emory told LaCock, "You've been here long enough, and it's time for you to start playing." To LaCock, that was what he wanted to hear.

Last year, LaCock worked his way up to the number two position, behind All-America Wayne Inman. "I learned a lot playing behind him," he said. "You always learn from people ahead of you. I knew that I would get some playing time spelling him."

But then, just a couple of games into the season, Inman was injured in practice and out for the season. It suddenly thrust LaCock into a starting role. LaCock ended up starting nine games last year. "It's something I would never have done but for the injury to Wayne. I guess it's a positive thing to have to mature under fire. Now, I've tried to tell (my backup) Norman Quick that it's not like playing teammates in a scrimmage. You have to go through it and get the feel of a real game, the crowd, everything."

This fall, LaCock found that he was having to go up against big Tom Carnes for the starting job. Carnes, a transfer from Miami, had gotten a lot of attention from the media, and was considered a snap for the starting job. "But I knew he wasn't going to beat me out. I'd get my position back or die trying," Bud said. "I didn't try anything fancy, though, I just played the type of game I'm capable of."

That was enough. Carnes was switched to tackle, and earned a starting position on the other end of the line.

"Last year, I got the job because someone got hurt. This year, I earned it, and that really makes me feel good. I got it on my merits, not on someone else's misfortune."

As a senior, LaCock tries to take on some of the leadership of the team, along with running mate, right tackle Tootie Robbins. "I try not to let a loss or a penalty upset me. That's the best way. We just try to keep going and get it back."

LaCock expects Duke to put up a tough defense this Saturday. "They play tough. They've been together for a while now, and have come together. They are much more aggressive; they go to the ball better."

But East Carolina's offensive line has made progress too. "I think the line has made big strides from last year. We've gotten closer, we do things together, we eat together, hang around together. We've all matured a lot."

LaCock and his teammates are hopeful that that maturity will bring them through against the Blue Devils on Saturday.

Royals Qualify In West Playoffs, Other Flags Still Up For Grabs

By TOM CANAVAN
Associated Press Writer

Baseball's second-season pennant races may be a few teams poorer, but that doesn't make them any less confusing — even the one in which the pairing for the divisional playoff has been decided.

Kansas City qualified for the division playoff against the Oakland A's in the American League West Wednesday, downing Minnesota 5-2. The victory didn't give the Royals the West title for the second season, but assured them of second place if Oakland repeats as division champ.

The Royals have five scheduled games remaining. But they could be forced to play a makeup game against Toronto Monday if they sweep Cleveland in a doubleheader today and only beat the A's in one of three games at home this weekend.

That would leave Kansas City with a 30-24 record and .555 percentage. Oakland would be 27-22 and .551, forcing the Royals to meet Toronto to determine the division titlist on Monday.

What is settled is that the best three-of-five series for the AL West divisional title will open Tuesday in Kansas City. Whether the second game also is there depends on whether the Royals win the second-half title. If they don't, the final four games will be in Oakland.

The number of contenders in the AL East slipped to three Wednesday when the Milwaukee Brewers crushed the Boston Red Sox 10-5, eliminating the Baltimore Orioles, who were rained out of their game at Detroit against the Tigers.

With four days remaining in the season, the Tigers held a slim three-percentage point lead over the Brewers with the Red Sox 1 1/2 games back in third place and on the verge of being eliminated.

Boston (27-22) could be ousted today if Detroit (28-20) defeats Baltimore in the makeup of Wednesday night's game. The Red Sox could tie for the AL East title if they win their remaining three games, Detroit loses to Baltimore today and then takes two of three games from Milwaukee (29-21) this weekend. That would leave Boston and Detroit tied for first and force a one-game playoff.

If Detroit beats Baltimore, then the Tigers-Brewers three-game series this weekend at Milwaukee will determine the AL East second-half winner. The team winning two of those three games would win the second-half title and face the New York Yankees, the first-half winners, in a best-of-five divisional playoff, with the final three games in New York.

Both National League races got tighter Wednesday night.

In the East, the Montreal Expos moved back into first place by a half-game over the St. Louis Cardinals with a 3-2 victory over Pittsburgh. The Cardinals (26-22) lost an 8-5 decision to the Philadelphia Phillies, the first-half winners.

Both the Expos (27-22) and Cardinals have four road games left, but none against each other. The Expos meet Pittsburgh again tonight and conclude the season with three games in New York against the Mets. The Cards play the Phillies again tonight and close out the season with three games against the Pirates.

The Mets (23-26) and Phillies (23-25) both have mathematical chances at tying or winning the East title, but will be ousted if they lose one of their remaining four games or if Montreal wins one.

The San Francisco Giants face the same grim facts in the NL West, which is coming down to a duel between the Cincinnati Reds and Houston Astros to determine the Los Angeles Dodgers' opponent in the divisional playoffs.

Cincinnati (30-18) reduced the Houston lead in the West to a half-game Wednesday, downing the Astros 5-2. Both teams have four games left, including today's game in Cincinnati.

A victory by the Astros (31-18), who will play one more game than Cincinnati in the second half, would eliminate San Francisco and reduce the magic number for clinching the title to any combination of two Houston victories or Cincinnati losses.

A Cincinnati victory would leave the Reds with an edge. The Reds finish the season with three games at home against Atlanta, while the Astros close on the road against the Dodgers.

The Giants also have four games left, but the best they could hope for now is to tie the Reds for the West title.

Tripucka Signs Piston Contract

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — Former Notre Dame star Kelly Tripucka believes in the power of positive thinking, and with that, says he hopes he will be able to help the Detroit Pistons from the lower rungs of the National Basketball Association.

"I'm an expert at winning," Tripucka said Wednesday after the Pistons announced they had signed the 6-foot-6, 230-pounder to a multi-year contract. "I don't want to start being a loser now."

"I'm a firm believer in a good attitude. I'm going to get that attitude across — even though I'm a rookie."

Although terms of the contract were not disclosed, it has been reported that Tripucka's contract covers three years and guarantees him $600,000 whether or not he makes the team.

Detroit Coach Scotty Robertson said he expected to use Tripucka as a small forward and guard when the Pistons open training camp Friday at the University of Michigan's Crisler Arena in Ann Arbor.

"Detroit is a workingman's town where people roll up their sleeves and get their hands dirty," Robertson said. "In my opinion, Kelly typifies that kind of spirit. When the ball game is on the line, and there's one second to go, Kelly wants that ball."

Tripucka denied reports that he did not want to play for Detroit. However, the Bloomfield, N.J., native admitted he would rather have played in the East where he was raised.

"I'm just happy ... to be playing anywhere," Tripucka said. "There are a lot of people who never get this chance. I'm here to play and I'll give my best."

Kansas City Hasn't Started Celebration

By WILLIAM R. BARNARD
AP Sports Writer

The Kansas City Royals, who have clinched a playoff spot with a 48-51 overall record, aren't in a celebrating mood yet.

After all, they've been in the playoffs five times in the last six years and have won everything except a World Series, so the idea of a playoff with Oakland for the American League West championship doesn't stir their emotions.

beat the Minnesota Twins 5-2 Wednesday to assure the playoff berth. "The champagne's still on ice. After we get to the (AL) championship game, maybe some then. Then some more for the World Series."

Kansas City could still lose the second-half title to Oakland, but the Royals can finish in no worse than second place behind the A's, the first-half winners. Kansas City now has a 1½-game lead.

The Royals, despite their dismal 20-30 record in the first half, have redeemed themselves with a 28-21 mark since play resumed after the strike.

"Everything starting to click for us," said Larry Gura, who pitched a four-hitter to extend Kansas City's winning streak to four games. "The hitting is coming around and the pitching has been solid the whole time."

"The last four games are as good as we've played all season," said Manager Dick Howser. "We're not going to be changing anything the rest of the way. It would be to our advantage to finish first instead of second so we're going all out to win."

Oakland will get four of five possible playoff games at home if the A's can finish ahead of the Royals.

In other AL games, Milwaukee bombed Boston 10-5 to move into a virtual tie for first place with Detroit in the East, Oakland shut out Toronto 3-0, Chicago whipped California 10-3 and Texas tripped Seattle 3-1. New York-Cleveland and Baltimore-Detroit were rained out, but only the Orioles-Tigers game was rescheduled — for today.

Gura gave up a two-run home run to Pete Mackanin in the second inning, but allowed just two hits the rest of the way.

The veteran left-hander, 11-7, allowed an infield single to Ron Washington with two outs in the third and then retired 16 straight before Gary Ward singled to open the ninth.

Clint Hurdle hit a two-run homer in the fourth off Fernando Arroyo, 7-10, to snap a 2-2 tie and highlight the Royals' 16-hit attack.

John Wathan followed Hurdle's homer with a single, but was thrown out at second. U.L. Washington then doubled and scored Kansas City's final run on a single by Willie Wilson, his third hit of the day.

Kansas City took a 2-0 lead in the top of the second on run-scoring singles by Washington and Wilson before Mackanin tied the game with his fourth homer, the last by a Twin at Metropolitan Stadium in Bloomington. The Twins will move to a new domed facility in downtown Minneapolis next spring.

"I might be in a trivia question 10 years from now," said Mackanin.

Brewers 10, Red Sox 5
The victory by Milwaukee assured the Brewers of the AL East title if they can beat Detroit two out of three games starting Friday.

Regardless of whether Detroit or Baltimore wins today's game, the Brewers would have to win two of three to finish first.

The same holds true for Detroit, although a Tiger loss today would keep Boston's slim hopes for a first-place tie alive.

Robin Yount lashed four hits and scored three times and Cecil Cooper knocked in three runs for the Brewers against the Red Sox.

Two errors by first baseman Carl Yastrzemski helped Milwaukee break a 3-3 tie in the fourth inning and Boston never caught up. Sal Bando hit a two-run single for the Brewers in their four-run fifth.

A's 3, Blue Jays 0

Mike Norris, in Billy Martin's doghouse in recent weeks, earned a start in next Tuesday's opener of the West playoffs by pitching a three-hitter for Oakland against Toronto.

Norris, who had lost three of his previous four decisions, allowed only three singles, struck out four and walked one to improve his record to 12-9.

"I knew Mike would come back," Martin said. "I think he might have just gotten a little lazy."

Rob Picciolo homered in the third inning for the A's, and they got two more runs in the fourth, one on an infield single by Jeff Newman and the other on a steal of home by Dave McKay.

White Sox 10, Angels 3

Greg Luzinski hit his 20th homer and drove in four runs and Chicago scored seven runs on six singles and two California errors in the second inning.

Britt Burns picked up his 10th victory in 16 decisions with six innings of pitching and Lamarr Hoyt earned his 10th save.

Bobby Grich hit his 21st homer for the Angels, tying him for the AL lead.

Rangers 3, Mariners 1
Charlie Hough won his fourth straight game, all as a starter, tossing a three-hitter for Texas in its victory over Seattle.

Hough, 4-1, who struck out eight and walked four, surrendered the Mariners' only run in the seventh on Jim Anderson's RBI double.

The Rangers scored all their runs in the fourth inning despite collecting only one hit, an RBI single by Bobby Johnson. Loser Floyd Banister, 8-9, walked three batters in the inning.

Ainge: Toronto Said He Could Play Basketball If He Wished

NEW YORK (AP) — Danny Ainge says he just wants to play basketball.

Wednesday, Ainge took the stand for more than an hour in federal court, testifying that on two days in June, Toronto Blue Jays President Peter Bavasi gave him the go-ahead to do just that with the Boston Celtics.

"He told me in life people change their minds," said Ainge, who insists he will not return to baseball regardless of the outcome of the trial. "I told him I was worried about my baseball commitments and Mr. Bavasi said not to worry. I don't remember his words, but he said my contract was void. His advice to me was I should do what I want to do."

Ainge, 22, signed a three-year contract on Sept. 15, 1980 with Toronto. The deal included a $300,000 addendum which prohibits Ainge, an All-American basketball player from Brigham Young, from playing either professional or recreational basketball. The Blue Jays were well aware Ainge was a valuable basketball commodity and took an expensive precaution to guard against enticement from any National Basketball Association club. But on June 30, one day after the Celtics drafted him, Bavasi and Pat Gillick, the Blue Jays' vice president, each told him to make a decision based on his happiness, Ainge said.

At the time, Ainge was hitting just .177 as the regular third baseman (he since has lost his job to journeyman Ted Cox). His frustrations at the plate, combined with a spectacular senior year at BYU where he averaged 24.4 points a game, made him wonder if he made the right choice. And when the Celtics picked Ainge — despite his baseball commitment and a strong letter from the Blue Jays to leave him alone — in the second round of the June 9 draft, Ainge became convinced he made the wrong choice with baseball.

The next day, Ainge testified, he went to visit Bavasi and Gillick, taking them up on a May conversation to come and see them if he became disenchanted with baseball and wanted out.

"They agreed to let me out of my contract," Ainge said, "and asked if I would be willing to play out the year if they needed me. I said yes. It was an agreement, I thought, that I would play out the year unless I was otherwise notified."

"On June 11, Mr. Gillick came to my apartment in Toronto and asked if I still wanted to play basketball. I said yes. I told him I would prefer not to play baseball the rest of the season so I could get ready for the basketball season, but they told me to hold off on the decision. I was certain they had released me from my contract. I thought things were finalized."

Ainge testified that Gillick told him he would prepare for a news conference to announce his retirement from baseball.

"Danny called me and was all excited," said Celtics President Red Auerbach, the first to testify Wednesday. "He told me he was free to play basketball."

"But on the 12th," Ainge said, "they handed me a letter prepared by their lawyers indicating they had changed their minds and would take all legal remedies to prevent me from playing basketball."

"Danny called me back," Auerbach said. "He told me Toronto had changed its mind. I couldn't believe it."

Gillick, who was the third witness to testify after Auerbach and Ainge, said the Blue Jays never agreed to let Ainge out of his contract. He said Bavasi was "shocked and stunned" by Ainge's decision to play basketball.

"Peter told Danny it was like he was trying to split up their marriage because his wife was sick (the Blue Jays were well under .500 at the time) and he saw a pretty blonde (the Celtics) walking down the street," Gillick said. "But we never told Danny we would let him out of his contract."

Gillick did admit during cross-examination by Celtics' attorney Earl Cooley that he told Ainge he could not stand in the way of what would make him happy.

Ainge, who is not a party to the suit, appeared somewhat depressed after the day's proceedings. He delayed his trip to Seattle to rejoin the Blue Jays for the final games of the season with the possibility a decision in the case would be reached today.

The jury of four men and two women will decide whether the Blue Jays did, as Ainge testified, verbally release him from his contract and whether the no-basketball addendum to his contract is illegal, as the Celtics claim.

U.S. District Judge Lee Gagliardi would not allow into evidence videotape testimony from Michelle Ainge, Danny's wife, on the grounds the Blue Jays were not given sufficient

Cox Takes Two Wins

WINTERVILLE — Hosting A.G. Cox won two matches, while Bethel took one during a junior high school volleyball tri-meet yesterday at Cox.

Cox topped Bethel, 13-15, 15-2, 15-12, behind eight straight serves each by Patty Keeter and Karen Credle.

Cox then topped Ayden, 15-2, 15-12, with Michelle Waters serving up seven straight points.

Hopewell Is Putt Champ

Hopewell Pentecostal opened a huge seven game lead over the field with only three games remaining to ice the Putt-Putt Church League crown for the second consecutive time.

Danny Pollard, George Mayo, Bobby Braxton and Billy Dixon led Hopewell (15-0) last night. Faith Pentecostal (3-11-1) was led by Ann Cherry, and Lanny Morris was the best for Bell Arthur Christian (3-11-1). Salem Methodist (8-7) continues to hold second place, although finishing fourth last night.

Cincinnati Wins, 5-2, Closes On Astros

By BARRY WILNER
AP Sports Writer

The Cincinnati Reds won the game they had to win. Now all they have to do is repeat that accomplishment.

"We must win tomorrow," Cincinnati third baseman Ray Knight said Wednesday night after the Reds topped Houston 5-2 to move within a half-game of the Astros in the chase for the National League West's second-half title. The two teams meet for the final time this season today at Riverfront Stadium.

"Our whole season hinges on that game. We'll have three games left after that, but I don't think it will matter if we lose tomorrow."

Nor would the Reds have had much chance if they had fallen to Houston Wednesday night.

"This was a 'must' ballgame for us," added Knight, who doubled and scored one run. "It's like (Manager John)

McNamara said, tonight was our most important game of the season.

"Now tomorrow becomes the most important game of the season. It's right there in front of us. We've got to go out there and get them."

While Cincinnati was moving closer to the top of its division, the Montreal Expos were leaping over the St. Louis Cardinals and into first place in the East. Montreal edged Pittsburgh 3-2 and the Cardinals were beaten by Philadelphia, the first-half winner in the East, 8-5.

In other games, San Diego blanked Los Angeles, and the West's first-half champion, 2-0. New York downed Chicago 2-1, and Atlanta bombed San Francisco 9-2.

Reds 5, Astros 2

The Reds have won 13 of their last 16 games. They rode the pitching of Mario Soto, 11-9, who went eight innings for his third consecutive victory, and reliever Tom Hume, who got his 13th save, and the power of George Foster, who hit his 21st homer and knocked in his 87th run.

"It was a game in which everybody contributed," said Reds outfielder Dave Collins. "We've been doing that for some time now. I think that's why we made our move."

Both of us (the Reds and Astros) knew this was a big game. It wasn't like the seventh game of the World Series, but it was an important game for us."

And today's contest, which was scheduled for a 5 p.m. start, has become the pivotal game of the season for the Reds, who lost out to the Dodgers by a half-game in the first half, and Houston, which wound up eight games back.

The Astros were counting on ace Nolan Ryan to continue applying the magic with which he no-hit the Dodgers Saturday, while the Reds hoped rookie Bruce Berenyi could pitch them into first place.

"I wouldn't want to be a batter," Astros Manager Bill Virdon said after his team received all of its offense Wednesday from solo homers by Craig Reynolds and Cesar Cedeno. "If the Reds don't win, they have their work cut out for them."

"The game is the biggest of the year, even ahead of my game last week," said Ryan. "I hope I pitch well — well enough to shut them out."

Expos 3, Pirates 2

Montreal's Rodney Scott drew a walk from Rod Scuderi with two out and the bases loaded in the seventh inning to force in the winning run. Pittsburgh starter Eddie Solomon, 8-6, walked Parrish to open the inning. Following a sacrifice and a groundout, he also walked pinch-hitter Wallace Johnson. Scurry then wild pitched both runners up a base, walked John Milner to load the bases and then gave Scott a free pass.

"After losing three straight, we knew we couldn't lose anymore. We knew we had to come back in here tonight and win to get us back on the right track," said Larry Parrish, who tripled in two runs. "We didn't exactly blow them out. But it was a win, and we'll take it."

Steve Nicosia homered for Pittsburgh and Bill Madlock flew out as a pinch-hitter but the one at-bat gave him enough plate appearances to qualify for the NL batting title. Madlock leads the league in batting with a .342 average.

Phillies 8, Cardinals 5

Thirteen walks helped the Phillies. Lonnie Smith's run-scoring double in the seventh off Cardinals relief star Bruce Sutter produced the go-ahead run. Mike Schmidt slammed a three-run homer, his 29th of the season, then left with a slight groin pull.

"I knew it was Bruce," said Smith, who has hit safely in 19 straight games. "I was just lucky enough to get a hit. That's the first one I've ever gotten off of him."

"We put a bunch of runners on for them," Cardinals Manager Whitey Herzog said. "That's how you get beat. We beat ourselves."

Mets 2, Cubs 1

Lee Mazzilli pinch-hit a single in the ninth inning to knock in the decisive run. John Stearns led off the ninth with an infield single off Randy Martz, 5-7, advanced to second on Hubie Brooks' sacrifice and, after Dave Kingman was intentionally walked, Mazzilli batted for Mike Jorgensen and singled to left.

Braves 9, Giants 2

Larry McWilliams threw an eight-hitter and was supported by the long ball, with Bob p.m. PDT. In Dodger Stadium's 20 years there have been only nine rainouts and none since Sept. 5, 1978.

The loss virtually eliminated San Francisco Cincinnati by three with four games left.

"Any pitcher will take that kind, any day," McWilliams said after winning his second game since being recalled from Richmond of the International League. "I don't mind staying in the dugout all night as long as we are hitting that way."

Padres 2, Dodgers 0

Steve Fireovid, Dan Boone and Gary Lucas combined on a six-hitter and San Diego scored in the eighth inning on Tim Flannery's sacrifice fly and Jose Moreno's RBI single. Boone, 1-0, earned his first major-league victory. Lucas worked the final two innings for his 13th save.

The game was delayed by rain and did not start until 9:44

HOW TO MAKE BREAD FROM CORN.

You nursed it through the rainy season, and saved it from baking away in the hot sun. Your beautiful crop of corn. You've worked hard to make it the best ever, and now it's time to turn it into some hard-earned cash. You'll want to put that money away of course, but you'll also want to put it to work. Your best bet?

CONSIDER A SIX-MONTH MONEY MARKET CERTIFICATE FROM PLANTERS NATIONAL BANK. With a Planters six-month Money Market Certificate, your money earns the highest interest possible over a limited period,* and it matures right when you need it most — at the start of your next planting season. So the bread you make from that corn has made even more bread, and you've got the extra cash you need to keep your farm growing strong.

IN ADDITION, WHEN THE TIME COMES TO MAKE A LONGER INVESTMENT, PLANTERS NATIONAL BANK OFFERS A 2 1/2-YEAR MONEY MARKET CERTIFICATE. And for interest on your checking account, there's Planters Interest Checking. That's three smart ways to make that hard-earned cash work hard for you, no matter what kind of crop you grow.

Sure, you can find other banks with accounts like these, but you'll be hard-pressed to find a bank with the kind of investment know-how for farmers that Planters National Bank has. Why do you think they call it Planters? Stop by one of our convenient locations soon. Our experienced staff is ready to help put your money to work.

New York Bank Recalls Loans

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Michael Shail says he was shocked when he opened his mail to find a notice saying the Ulster Savings Bank of Kingston was recalling his 8.5 percent home mortgage.

"When I got the letter, I died," the IBM programmer from Rhinebeck said. Shail said he has been negotiating with the bank since he received the notice in April.

On Wednesday, the bank said it wanted 50 mortgages paid off or reissued at higher interest.

Howard St. John, president of the Kingston bank, said it lost "hundreds of thousands of dollars" this year because it lent money for mortgages at low rates several years ago and now must pay rates in double digits.

He said customers were warned when they signed mortgage agreements that the bank could recall the loan in five years. But for mortgage-holders like Shail, it was no consolation.

"How many times do you read your mortgage?" Shail asked.

The Kingston institution became the second bank in the state to announce a recall of some of its low-interest home mortgages. The mortgages being recalled were written before the state dropped its 8.5 percent rate ceiling.

In September, Buffalo Savings Bank announced a recall of 900 mortgages written in 1975 and 1976 at the same interest rate. However, it dropped the plan several days later following widespread publicity and threats of protests and boycotts.

St. John said Ulster is offering customers whose loans have come due the chance to obtain new one-year renegotiable mortgages at 17 percent. The current rate for mortgage loans is 17 percent to 18 percent.

Customers also have the option to pay off the loan in full, or seek financing from another bank, St. John said, but the loans are due and the bank expects the money.

"There's no surprise," he said. "They guessed wrong. They thought interest rates would be lower or stay the same."

He said the savings bank's obligation is to pay the highest possible interest rates to its depositors, and to do so, it needs to collect the higher rates from mortgage holders. The bank has about 5,000 mortgage customers but only 50 have the five-year version.

"We're only doing what we have to protect our depositors," St. John added. "Our obligation is to our depositors. I don't see why people can't understand that."

A third bank, Poughkeepsie Savings, said Wednesday it planned to collect full payment on three-year and five-year mortgages it wrote in 1980 at 9.5 to 12.75 percent, but the first of those mortgages do not come due until 1983.

"It's a contract; we want the loans paid," said Eric Stoutenburgh, Poughkeepsie vice president. "We took a very upfront attitude with these people. All our documents are in plain language."

On a $30,000 mortgage at 8 percent, the monthly payment over 30 years is about $230. At 14 percent, the payment is $355 a month. At 17 percent, it would be $427.80.

After rescinding his institution's plans last month to recall some 900 mortgages at 8.5 percent, Buffalo Savings Bank president Ross Kenzie said: "We made a mistake and we fixed a mistake."

Before the bank reversed itself, mortgage holders planned to picket the bank's branches and urged customers to withdraw their accounts.

Senate Chaplain Gets Pay Raise

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chaplain who opens the Senate with prayer most mornings is getting a pay raise of more than $12,000 a year, but he says he didn't ask for it and "I'm afraid I'm going to wish I didn't get it."

House and Senate negotiators working on a multibillion-dollar stopgap spending measure agreed Wednesday to increase the Rev. Richard C. Halverson's salary from $40,110 to $52,750.

The raise makes him equal in pay to the House chaplain, the Rev. James David Ford, a former chaplain of the U.S. Military Academy at West Point, N.Y., who has been getting the higher figure for three years.

Halverson said he had no idea why he got the raise.

"I certainly did not seek it or ask for it and I'm afraid I'm going to wish I didn't get it," he said. "I'm sort of embarrassed by it. I have been here such a short time."

Halverson was sworn in as Senate chaplain Feb. 2 after more than 22 years as pastor of the Fourth Presbyterian Church in suburban Bethesda, Md. He succeeded the Rev. Edward Elson, a fellow Presbyterian, who retired after 12 years in the post.

An aide to the Senate

Appropriations Committee said the raise was first proposed at a July meeting during a discussion between Republican Sens. Mark O. Hatfield of Oregon, a Baptist, and Ted Stevens of Alaska, an Episcopalian.

James H. English, a professional staff member for the subcommittee on legislative branch appropriations, said Hatfield and Stevens concluded that the Senate chaplain should make as much as the House chaplain.

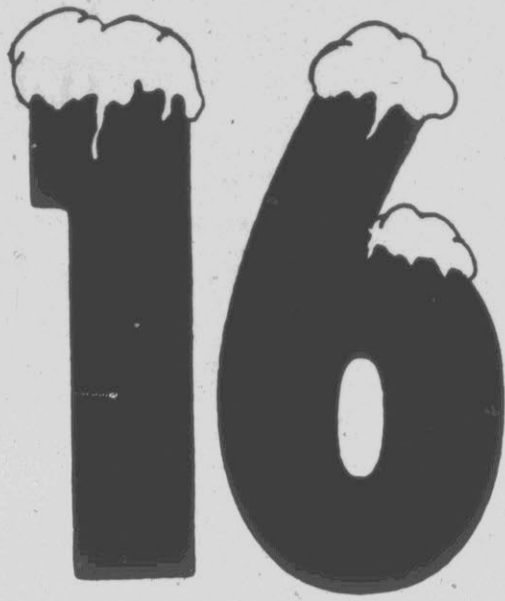

The committee and the Senate also agreed, and the House-Senate conferees who met Wednesday endorsed the raise without discussion.

Halverson, however, said, "I have never in my life put a price on my ministry."

Aycock Students To Sell Magazines

Students at E.B. Aycock Junior High School will begin their annual magazine sales on Friday. The goal for Aycock this year is $6,000 with a super-goal of $7,000. The sale will last for two weeks.

A recent student activity took place Monday when students at Aycock attended a production in school of a musical comedy, "Feats."

New Mexican President To Get On-Job Training

By JOE FRAZIER
Associated Press Writer
MEXICO CITY (AP) — Miguel de la Madrid, Mexico's next president, is well versed in the country's economic administration but a novice in foreign policy.

He will have a chance to learn. He won't be elected until next July 4, and President Jose Lopez Portillo's six-year term doesn't end until Dec. 1, 1982.

De la Madrid, 46, now the secretary of budget and planning, was nominated last Friday by the Revolutionary Institutional Party, the PRI, a designation that guarantees his election. He was chosen by Lopez Portillo, who taught him in law school, brought him up through the ranks of government and appointed him to the Cabinet.

The nomination of an economist, planner and conciliator was a defeat for followers of former President Luis Echeverria, who wanted a politician.

Founded in 1929, the PRI (for Partido Revolucionario Institucional) has never lost a presidential election, and the vote next summer is a formality. And in Mexico the power is concentrated in the presidency.

De la Madrid's speeches since his nomination have hammered on issues of public morality, a new social fairness and cooperation to build a better nation. He has spoken only in general terms about foreign policy, but his statements on oil sound like pages from Lopez Portillo's last State of the Union address.

Lopez Portillo's policy has been to sell only enough oil to finance industrialization and not to meet foreign demands that might deplete the resource and inflate the economy.

De la Madrid in an interview with the government newspaper El Nacional said the country must use its oil to develop a diversified economy and not waste it by selling too much too fast.

"This is why we cannot be an oil country as some would like, or as some have implied in their baseless criticism," he said. "We are taking advantage of our oil for the adequate diversification of our economic development, to succeed in what Lopez Portillo already has made a reality."

He has been less clear about whether he will follow other aspects of Lopez Portillo's foreign policy, which has brought greater recognition to Mexico, especially among Third World nations.

When his candidacy was announced, de la Madrid said the PRI "would follow the unyielding principles of our foreign policy: self-determination of peoples, non-intervention, peaceful solution to controversies, international cooperation for development of world peace and the building of a more just and balanced world economic order."

That could mean doing very little, or it could mean an active push to convert principles into action, as Lopez Portillo has done.

De la Madrid has given no indication of what his policy toward the United States might be. But his constant references to the importance of nationalism are a sign that, like Lopez Portillo, he will not permit Mexican interests to suffer.

The Third World's demand for a new international economic order, which President Reagan opposes, is a top priority item for Lopez Portillo.

The annual yield and rate on Six Month Money Market Certificates is available for $10,000 or more. Term: Six months (26 weeks). Interest paid monthly, quarterly, or at maturity. Federal regulations prohibit the compounding of interest on these certificates. Rate effective from 09/29/81 through 10/05/81.

Here's how: 1) Purchase an NCNB $10,000 Six Month Money Market CD 2) Ask us to automatically deposit your interest every month in an NCNB Regular Savings Account, currently paying 5 1/4% compounded daily.

So you're earning interest on interest. And you can count on this same interest for a full six months. Unlike Money Market Mutual Funds, your rate won't fluctuate with each day's news.

Dealing with NCNB, you also have the added security of knowing your deposits are backed by the largest banking institution in North Carolina. And every depositor is insured for up to $100,000 by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.

So come see us at any of our 175 offices. You'll find that the best place for high interest is right in your neighborhood.

Federal regulations require a substantial interest penalty for early withdrawal. Each depositor insured to $100,000 by FDIC.

Medicine Offers Hope For Heart

By DANIEL Q. HANEY
Associated Press Writer
BOSTON (AP) — A medicine that allows doctors to dissolve the blood clots that block coronary arteries during heart attacks can salvage the heart and may dramatically change the way heart attacks are treated, researchers say.

In experimental therapy, doctors are dissolving clots and restoring the flow of blood to the heart before permanent damage occurs.

In today's New England Journal of Medicine, doctors report they have demonstrated for the first time that heart muscle rescued this way will function normally after the blood flow resumes.

"I think it has great promise," said Dr. John Markis of Beth Israel Hospital in Boston. "I continue to be reinforced by what we've seen."

Markis said the new approach, which is being studied at several medical centers, could have as dramatic an effect on the treatment of heart disease as the development of coronary bypass surgery did more than a decade ago.

Heart attacks are the nation's leading cause of death. The American Heart Association estimates they kill 641,000 Americans a year.

The treatment, called intracoronary thrombolysis, was first used in West Germany three years ago. Doctors insert a catheter tube into the victim's leg, thread it through an artery to the heart and then release streptokinase, a medicine long used to dissolve clots.

The Boston doctors performed the procedure on nine patients within an average of three hours after their heart attacks. The blocked arteries of all nine opened within 20 minutes.

The doctors then gave the patients a radioactive material called thallium-201, which is absorbed by living heart muscle but not by tissue that has died.

The results showed that heart tissue that had been blocked by the clots was working normally in seven of the nine patients. Without the treatment, their heart tissue would have been in danger of dying because of lack of blood.

In their report, the doctors said the treatment "represents an exciting new approach to the treatment of acute myocardial infarction" (heart attack).

In an earlier study in Europe, doctors found the death rate was cut in half when heart attack victims received injections of streptokinase. Even though it is easier to give the medicine with a needle than with a catheter, the Boston doctors said this method can cause excessive bleeding throughout the body.

Markis said more study is needed before doctors routinely give streptokinase to heart attack victims.

"The bottom line is: Do people live longer and do their hearts function better because we did this?" he said.

Markis also said doctors hope to be able to find a better way to administer the drug than through catheterization, a procedure that is fatal about one time in 1,000. Many hospitals are not set up to use heart catheters, he said, and outfitting all hospitals with this equipment would be expensive.

Test Developed To Measure Asthma Attack

BOSTON (AP) — By measuring seven conditions of asthma victims, doctors can accurately predict which patients can be successfully treated in the emergency room and which should be admitted to the hospital, a study shows.

The doctors said their simple test was 95 percent accurate in forecasting which patients needed to stay in the hospital.

Doctors from the University of Miami Medical School drew up the guidelines after observing the outcome of 205 patients who went to the emergency room with asthma. They reported the results in today's New England Journal of Medicine.

The seven factors were pulse rate, respiratory rate, airway obstruction, shortness of breath, wheezing, a drop in pulse pressure, and the physicians' perception of labored breathing.

Ordinarily, doctors admit asthma victims to the hospital only after they fail to respond to treatment in the emergency room. However, this can mean waiting eight hours or longer to see whether the medicine has its desired effect.

Without using the test, doctors found that one-third of the patients have relapses after they leave the emergency room and must return for more treatment.

The test, the doctors said, "should allow the physician to identify rapidly those patients who are at risk for relapse and in need of hospitalization."

New Federal, State Laws Effective Today Create Major Changes

By The Associated Press
The beginning of the U.S. government's fiscal year today may seem more like an early Halloween, with budget cuts and costly state laws haunting North Carolinians.

But the Halloween-like tricks will be balanced in part with a treat as President Reagan's 5 percent tax cut goes into effect, giving wage earners a few extra dollars in their paychecks.

Also beginning today are Reagan's massive budget cuts, which will mean thousands across the state will lose welfare benefits and other types of government aid.

New state laws going on the books include one that will slap bad drivers with higher auto insurance rates, and another that could make it more costly for men to divorce their wives.

The Reagan budget cuts will mean $122 million less in federal aid for social services programs in North Carolina, according to Tom Gilmore, deputy secretary of human resources.

"What's happening today will be the most significant change in federal-state relations since the New Deal," he said, explaining that what is taking place is a massive shift in responsibility for social programs from federal to the state and local levels.

The cuts may force as many as 3,500 children to leave subsidized day-care centers in the long run, Gilmore said, and some 13,300 single parents will be cut off from welfare benefits under the Aid to Families with Dependent Children program.

"A mother of two who works 20 hours a week at the minimum wage, making $288 a month, will lose all assistance because eligibility requirements have been

In addition, money for health programs for crippled children, pregnant women and child vaccinations are being reduced 25 percent.

"We will lose $4.5 million unless the counties pick up this amount," said Gilmore. He also said some 200 Human Resources Department workers will be losing jobs as a result of the cuts.

On the more positive side, thousands of North Carolina workers will benefit by the Reagan's tax cut — a 5 percent reduction in the amount withheld from paychecks — effective with the first paycheck in October.

Glenn Jones, an official with Internal Revenue Service's state headquarters in Greensboro, said a married person with two dependents who receives about $500 every two weeks will see about $4.90 more in each paycheck.

The tax reduction is the first of three that Reagan pushed through Congress this summer. The other two — 10 percent each — will go into effect Oct. 1, 1982, and Oct. 1, 1983.

The new state laws will not have the impact of the federal cuts. Nevertheless, they will be felt by many North Carolina residents.

Auto insurance changes mean about one driver in 50 will face increases up to 30 percent when they renew policies after today. Those drivers assigned to the N.C. Reinsurance Facility, an assigned risk insurance pool for motorists with marks on their licenses — will pick up most of the increase.

Meanwhile, safe-drivers who have been paying surcharges in order to keep the facility solvent will see a reduction in premiums beginning today.

Women should feel more on an equal footing with men when they go into divorce court. The Legislature has created a new legal concept called "marital property" under which material possessions acquired by a couple during a marriage will be distributed after a judge examines each spouse's contribution to the marriage.

"The law tries to give a woman a better break," says state Sen. Rachel Gray of Guilford County, who co-sponsored the new law. But the law will cut both ways, in some instances helping men in divorce proceedings.

A law aimed at closing businesses that sell accessories for drug use also goes into effect today. Already the law, which requires prosecutors to prove a proprietor knows the item will be used with illicit drugs, has been challenged in court.

Many businessmen who sell rolling papers, pipes, and such innocuous items as strainers and plastic bags are worried that the law is overbroad, vague and may be unconstitutional. Others have quit carrying items named in the new law to avoid arrest.

Bingo and raffle operators will have to file applications with the police department starting today if they hope to continue in business. A new law also requires the filing of financial reports by operators and organizations that conduct bingo contests and raffles. Cash prizes will be limited to $500 per game or raffle, although some larger prizes will be allowed under certain conditions.

Tobacco sellers now must pay for tobacco grading services, which had been financed by the federal government. The cost is 45 cents per 100 pounds of tobacco, about $10 per acre. The new fee is not expected to have any effect on the consumer.

Budget Panels Discuss Options

By WILLIAM M. WELCH
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Members of the House and Senate budget committees are preparing for next week's special session by discussing their options for changing the current state budget.

The joint appropriations committees, which include half the Legislature, planned to meet all day today and Friday to discuss, among other issues, demands for a pay raise for teachers and state employees.

The rest of the 50-member Senate and 120-member House will meet at 10 a.m. Monday for the first special session since 1971.

The budget committees will not take any action until the full Legislature convenes to consider the impact of federal budget cuts — which take effect today — on state programs.

Legislators will discuss primarily decisions on state revenue because the administration of Gov. Jim Hunt already has acted to pass along federal cutbacks on a proportional basis to the affected programs.

"They're going to hear the bad news — how little money we've got, what the governor's priorities are and how we can give state employees a pay raise," said Rep. Al Adams, one of two House appropriations chairmen.

The pay raise question is the major issue, and it will be affected by nearly all other budget decisions.

When the regular General Assembly session ended in July, lawmakers followed the advice of the budget leadership in delaying a decision on Hunt's proposal for a $106 million pay raise.

Hunt said the state could raise salaries by picking up a larger share of each employee's contribution to his pension plan. Such a move, the administration argued, would amount to a larger boost in take-home pay.

But legislators adopted a budget for the year that began July 1 that contains a more conservative estimate of how much tax money the state will collect during the fiscal year.

As a result there is only $84 million in unappropriated reserves available for the budget committees to consider.

Hunt has also asked for $23 million for other postponed projects. There are also $110 million in requests for "pork-barrel" projects that legislators want for their own districts.

Hunt wants the lawmakers to raise their budget projections to count on a growth in general fund taxes of 12 percent over last year, rather than the 10 percent approved in the budget.

That would leave the committees with $140 million to divide up between the pay raise and the requests of the administration and individual legislators.

The committees also will consider changes in the second year of the biennial budget, and any extra spending in the first year — aside from one-time capital projects such as new buildings — must be built into the second year's budget as well.

Herbert, who said he was not contacted by the study group, said the study used 1977 wage data to support its claim, although later wage information was available.

"The picture has changed tremendously since 1977," Herbert said in an interview. "Facilities built since then are of a totally different generation of technology than existed in 1977."

"It's ridiculous that anybody doing serious research should use 1977 wage data," he said.

Low-Pay Claim Is Disputed

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The chairman of the board of the Microelectronics Center of North Carolina rejected Wednesday a state-sponsored study that said the microelectronics industry would bring mostly low-wage jobs to the state.

"We expect to attract a large share of the most sophisticated and highly skilled jobs in the industry," said George Herbert in a prepared statement.

Firms locating in North Carolina will rely heavily on the state's concentration of educational and research facilities, "and will employ the people we rain here," he said.

A study prepared for the state by the Department of City and Regional Planning at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill said the state appeared to be trading in employment in low-skill, low-wage textile and apparel industries for similar jobs in microelectronics.

Herbert, who said he was not contacted by the study group, said the study used 1977 wage data to support its claim, although later wage information was available.

"The picture has changed tremendously since 1977," Herbert said in an interview. "Facilities built since then are of a totally different generation of technology than existed in 1977."

"It's ridiculous that anybody doing serious research should use 1977 wage data," he said.

Interest Rates Provide $19 Million Surprise For State's Treasury

By WILLIAM M. WELCH
Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — While legislators' complaints of economic woe have received all the notice, there has been at least one bit of pleasant news — enough to produce a $19 million surprise for the state's coffers.

The money, from higher-than-expected interest payments in the state treasurer's cash management program, was discovered after the General Assembly adjourned its regular session July 10.

It has been added to the amount lawmakers will have to spend when they reconvene next Monday.

The unexpected funds underscore the fact that while inflation and record-high interest rates may hurt individuals, the two economic problems can result in handsome profits for state government.

Like other states and large businesses, North Carolina puts the cash it routinely has on hand to work in securities traded in the national financial markets. On any given day the state may have $1 billion to $1½ billion in taxes that have been collected but not yet spent.

That money is invested in short-term obligations that are bought and sold daily by traders in Treasurer Harlan E. Boyles' investment division. The fund has been reflecting the country's record-high rates of interest, with a yield this week of 16½ percent.

For the fiscal year that ended June 30, the fund — of general and highway tax revenues — produced $118.6 million in interest, which the state was free to spend just like tax collections.

That yield was slightly below the previous year but above all others, and more than twice as much as the $54.2 million the state made in 1978.

"There are two reasons," said Marvin Dorman, deputy state budget officer. "Interest rates are high, and the daily balance grows larger as the state budget grows."

Legislative leaders, who say an uncertain economic outlook threatens their ability to provide state workers with a pay raise, found the interest-rate windfall because earlier predictions by Dorman's office underestimated interest rates generally and the fund's profits.

The investment program has been operating since 1949, but its value to the state has risen with the money markets. That first year it earned $355,718.70. Total earnings over the 32 years topped $1 million just last June, with one-fourth of that amount coming in the past two years.

Today, the fund has become North Carolina's fifth biggest source of revenue, Boyles said in an interview this week, behind corporate and individual income taxes, sales taxes and franchise taxes.

The state's profit last year was actually larger than the stated amount — it was $156 million when all short-term investments are taken into account. Boyles has begun adding a small portion of the state's retirement and insurance funds — which are more conservatively invested — into the more aggressive short-term fund.

That means the investments produced more revenue for the state last year than all the money collected through inheritance taxes, cigarette taxes and alcoholic beverage taxes combined.

For the highway fund it is the second largest source of income, behind only the gasoline tax, Boyles said.

"You can attribute that to higher interest rates," he said. "An aggressive cash management program in North Carolina over the years has been very successful, and it has attributed (contributed) very materially to the resources of the state."

A research report published last month by Merrill Lynch Pierce Fenner & Smith Inc., the investment company, analyzed North Carolina's credit standing. It said the state's finances "appear to be well managed," and pointed to the investments as a major reason the state had a credit balance of $131 million when the fiscal year ended June 30.

The fund is invested in much the same way as the popular money market mutual funds, where high yields and liquidity are drawing increasing amounts of money from the small savers. The money is invested in large lots — amounts of at least $100,000 and often as much as $20 million.

It is invested in bank certificates of deposits, federal obligations such as treasury bills and U.S. government agency notes, bankers' acceptances and commercial paper.

But there is a major difference between the state's program and private funds. By law, the treasurer sets a weekly rate that banks or investment houses must pay if they want North Carolina's money. Law requires the treasurer's rate to be no lower than the annual rate available in the market on government securities of comparable maturity.

In practical terms, Boyles said, that means North Carolina doesn't have to go through a bidding process and is assured of a high yield as it buys and sells the securities daily.

For instance, this week's rate is nearly a full percentage point above the rate on six-month Treasury bills because the state could get as much as 16.4 percent on Federal National Mortgage Association notes, said C. Douglas Chappell, assistant director of the investment and banking division of the treasurer's office.

The treasurer's rate reached an all-time peak at 18½ percent during the last week in August, and has been no lower than 13¼ since January, he said.

For the last fiscal year, he said, the rate averaged 10.94 percent. That was up from 7.8 percent and 5.2 percent in previous years, but still a couple percentage points below the average annual yield some of the money funds enjoyed.

Chappell, in an interview, said that was because of a more conservative objective. He said the treasurer's office has chosen to avoid extremely short-term investments such as those that mature overnight, which may have high yields today but could force the fund heavily into investments of lower rates if the markets began a serious decline.

Hell's Angels Funerals Set Today

MARSHVILLE, N.C. (AP) — Investigators in the shooting deaths of two Hell's Angels motorcycle gang members say they still have no suspects or firm leads in the slayings.

Meanwhile, Union and Mecklenburg county authorities planned a police escort for the funerals today of victims Michael Franklin "Thunder" Finazzo, 40, and Tyler Duris "Yank" Frmdak, 31.

"We're standing by to provide an escort from Marshville to Mecklenburg County, which we always do for out-of-county burials," said Union County Sheriff Frank McGuirt.

Marshville Police Chief Bill Wallace said he and his force of four officers will stand by for the services, tentatively set for this afternoon in Marshville, where the Charlotte Hell's Angels maintain a clubhouse.

McGuirt said the service would be held at Morgan and Son Funeral Home in Marshville, but Jeff Morgan of the funeral home said arrangements were incomplete.

"We'll be reluctant to give the details out when they are known," he added.

The bodies of Finazzo, president of the Charlotte chapter for the last two years, and Frmdak were found in the trunk of an abandoned car Saturday about 10 miles east of Asheboro in Randolph County. Finazzo was shot once in the back of the head, and Frmdak was shot three times in the head.

Authorities say they intend to enforce a new law that goes into effect today banning weapons at funerals, despite a Hell's Angels custom of firing guns into the air over the graves of its members.

"My concern is for the safety of the citizens of Union County and we are going to try certainly not to incite any problems for them while they're here," McGuirt said.

Gary Griffith, a supervisor at Raleigh headquarters of the State Bureau of Investigation, said agents won't observe the funeral "unless there is a potential" for violence.

"We'll have to wait and see," he said. "Of course, we'll assist if some situation develops that warrants it."

New Bern Election Set

NEW BERN, N.C. (AP) — U.S. District Judge John D. Larkins Jr. cleared the way Wednesday for a municipal election in New Bern next week, denying a request to delay it until residents of annexed areas are allowed to vote.

About 212 residents of the annexed Pinecrest and Kensington Park communities will be unable to vote in the Oct. 6 election.

The U.S. Justice Department has objected to New Bern's annexation of Pinecrest and Kensington Park, contending that the addition of the two predominantly white communities would dilute the voting strength of the city's black residents.

Under the 1965 Voting Rights Act, the department can block voting or filing for office by residents of any of the annexed areas until the issue is settled in federal court.

Attorney Henry Jones, representing four Pinecrest residents, asked the court to issue an injunction stopping the election.

Throughout the two days of hearings, Jones contended that his pursuit of the injunction to stop the Oct. 6 election was separate from, although related to, the city's problems with the federal government.

Jones argued that if the federal suit (between the city and Justice Department) goes on for three, four or five years, the Pinecrest people will still be taxed and not able to vote.

Jones had issued a temporary restraining order until he could rule on an appeal by residents of the two communities.

SPCA Upset Over Shooting Goats For Green Beret's Training

PORT BRAGG, N.C. (AP) — Margo Hubal says she wants a first-hand look at a Fort Bragg Special Forces program that involves shooting goats and treating them in operating room conditions.

Then again, she thinks her stomach might not survive the experience.

"I don't know if I'd be able to stand it," Mrs. Hubal said. "I might become ill."

Mrs. Hubal is a special investigator with the Fayetteville chapter of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. She and chapter president Viola Bowling are upset that the Army base shoots goats as part of medical training for the Green Berets.

Base officials have defended the program, saying it is necessary for training medics to treat soldiers injured in combat. But Mrs. Hubal says there has to be a better way.

"I feel like in today's times, there must be other ways of training," she said. "But I'm not a veterinarian or physician, so I can't make that kind of determination."

Mrs. Hubal also wondered whether the training would ever become necessary.

"These men might not ever have to exercise those skills. There is no war going on, so why should the goats be sacrificed?" she said.

"There are a number of surgical procedures which are essential to saving soldier's lives in war and must be taught to U.S. Army medical personnel," said a statement read by Capt. William O'Connell, base public information officer. "Competence in these techniques, once taught, must be maintained."

A base officer said the goats are given anesthesia, then shot with a "small caliber weapon" in the lower extremities. Under supervision of a veterinarian and surgeon, the goat's wound is treated in operating room conditions, he said.

The animal's care is then the responsibility of the medic. He must check the wound every day for infection and other complications.

After one week, the animal is again given anesthesia and brought back into surgery. The medic then performs a delayed primary closure of the wound, a common procedure for gunshot wounds. If the wounds are determined to be debilitating, the animal is "painlessly euthanized."

"It's long established and it's kind of a routine thing," said Col. Patrick Cannan, who developed the document.

But Mrs. Bowling said: "I can't see shooting an animal and then operating on it. I guess I just love animals too much to allow this to happen."

The statement from O'Connell said: "Medical training, using live animals ... conforms to applicable Army regulations, federal laws and regulations, and guidelines established by the American College of Surgeons. Were this type of training not available, the lives of American soldiers in combat would be in greater jeopardy than combat alone would dictate."

Base officials refused comment on how long the Special Forces have been using goats.

Mrs. Hubal said she received information from an enlisted man that the goats were being used in the training. She said she had not heard from Fort Bragg officials.

The enlisted man is "afraid of something happening to him in his (military) career," Mrs. Hubal added. "He did not want us to reveal his identity."

Nursing Program Will Continue

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — Nursing programs at three black campuses will continue despite low passing rates on the state licensing exam, a committee of the University of North Carolina Board of Governors says.

Ignoring a resolution it passed in 1977 and following the advice of UNC president William C. Friday, the Committee on Educational Planning, Policies and Programs voted 5-2 to allow the nursing programs at North Carolina Central University in Durham, North Carolina A&T University in Greensboro and Winston-Salem State University more time to improve.

The 1977 mandate required that two-thirds of the graduates of the three programs who took the state licensing exam for the first time in 1981 must pass, or the programs would be discontinued.

This year, only 28 percent of the A&T nursing graduates, 54 percent of the NCCU graduates and 64 percent of the WSSU graduates passed on the first try.

"The minimum goals set for 1981 have not been met," Raymond H. Dawson, senior vice president of the UNC system, told the committee.

While WSSU and NCCU have made "significant progress," Dawson said, "N.C. A&T does not even approach the minimum passing rate which was called for four years ago."

Friday blamed himself and the board for A&T's performance.

"If you're looking for culpability, some of that rests with me and with you as a board," he said. "We didn't follow through. We did not look inside the institution with the severity that perhaps we should have. That won't happen again."

Dissenting members in Wednesday's vote were Lillingston attorney William A. Johnson and F.B. Bodenheimer of Raleigh.

Adopting the staff report, Johnson said, would amount to "whitewashing what has been an incredibly poor performance in nursing" at A&T.

Allowing students to enroll in a program that does not prepare them to pass the licensing exam is frustrating and costly to them and the state, he said.

"I believe if we've got something there that is a sore, then we ought to remove it in the best interests of the state and the institution," Johnson said.

The report adopted Wednesday provides for continuing annual review of all nursing programs in the UNC system.

It incorporates a new requirement of the state Board of Nursing on passing rates as the board's minimum goal.

Under the nursing board rule, each nursing program in the state should achieve a passing rate of no less than 60 percent of first-time takers at each testing and no less than a 70 percent rate over a period of three years.

Auction Planned At Glebe House

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

BATH — Lovers of antiques and arts with the flavor of local history will have a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity Saturday to consider acquisition of pieces from one of North Carolina's finest historic houses — the Glebe House in Bath.

At noon Saturday, October 3, the extensive contents of the Glebe House in Bath will go under the auction hammer, with Bobby Langston conducting the auction.

The contents of the house will be on public view from 9 to 11 a.m. Saturday morning for interested people to view. The contents will be taken outdoors shortly before noon with the auction to take place on the premises.

Recently, the congregation of North Carolina's oldest church, St. Thomas Episcopal Church of Bath, owners of the house, voted to sell the valuable contents in order to raise funds to keep the house in church ownership.

Among the many items to be auctioned are an 18th century mahogany Chippendale slant-front desk; a William and Mary Bachelor's Chest, circa 1750; an 1830 mahogany Sheraton Pembroke drop leaf table; a ball and claw foot Chippendale corner chair; an 18th century Queen Anne open arm chair; and a set of pine half-spindle plank chairs, circa 1820.

Other items being auctioned include a good representation of pieces of Oriental crackleware in various colors; a Regency Shaving Stand with three drawers, a pair of blue and white Spode vases; a bronze bust of General Douglas MacArthur by sculptor Robert Dean; a number of oil paintings; and a collection of sterling flatware.

Glebe House, the only known glebe style house still in existence in North Carolina, has long served as parish house for St. Thomas. Occupants have included an early rector, Rev. Alexander Stewart on down through Rev. Alex Noe, last occupant of the house. Noe and his wife, who were responsible for restoration work on the house ten years ago, gave the house to the East Carolina Diocese of the Episcopal Church.

A spokesman for St. Thomas noted that following the auction, plans are to lease Glebe House on a long-term basis to a person or persons under provisions of protective covenants.

Union To Seek Settlement

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — The North Carolina Civil Liberties Union said Wednesday it hopes to avoid a lawsuit over the expulsion of 10 youths for wearing club T-shirts by working with the Greensboro school board.

"If the matter can be settled through administrative channels, it should be," said Judith Behar, an NCCLU board member and consultant attorney. "No one is interested in rushing into court."

George Gardner, NCCLU executive director, last week predicted NCCLU would sue the schools "as soon as the paper work can be completed." On Tuesday, he said no decision on a suit will be made until the organization's Legal Committee meets late Friday.

The 10 students were expelled by Bonny Baur, principal at Grimsley High School, on Sept. 14 after they disobeyed her order not to wear club T-shirts to school.

The bidding:
North East South West
2NT Pass 3♥ Pass
4♥ Pass Pass Pass
Opening lead: King of ♠.

To achieve maximum results, defenders must learn to cooperate at the bridge table. Here's an example from the Ruitenboer Tournament in Holland.

While we prefer not to open two no trump with one suit virtually unguarded, we must admit that we see no other good bid with the North hand. As little as the ten of diamonds in partner's hand would make a sure stopper in the suit, and the hand is really too strong to risk opening one club. That might end the auction when partner could easily have a key card or two that would offer excellent play for game.

West led the king of diamonds. East must play the eight, an encouraging card, to prevent West from shifting. Those Wests who trusted their partners were well rewarded. The ace of diamonds and another forced declarer to ruff in dummy, and it needed only a bit of care on the part of East to assure that the contract would be defeated—instead of overruffing, he must discard.

Now there is no way that declarer can avoid losing two trump tricks as the cards lie. If he comes to his hand with the ace of clubs for the trump finesse, East will win and wait patiently to score the ten of trumps for down one.

Observe that if East overruffs dummy on the third diamond lead, he can score only one trump trick. There are many similar situations where a defender can promote an extra trick by refusing to overruff. Be on the lookout for them.

Three Colleges Sharing 'Scope

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — The Three College Observatory is a "milestone in science education," the chairman of the University of North Carolina Board of Governors said Wednesday as the observatory opened.

"To live among the stars without attempting to fully understand them would be like living in the forest without trying to learn about the trees," said chairman John Jordan.

The observatory, 8 miles south of Burlington, has a 32-inch optical telescope, the largest of its kind between Charlottesville, Va., and Atlanta.

The observatory will be used for undergraduate astronomy instruction and student and faculty research by students of the University of North Carolina at Greensboro, North Carolina A&T State University and Guilford College.

We put our foot down about apartments being within walking distance.

Old Coastal Patrol Holds Reunion

By PEGGY HOWE
N.C. Civil Air Patrol

MANTEO — After nearly 40 years, personnel of Base 16 and the former Coastal Air Patrol are going to have a reunion. Beginning today, and continuing through Friday and Saturday, about 50 to 60 of the 72 surviving members of World War II Outer Banks units will gather in Manteo and Nags Head.

In 1942 they were young, far from home and eager to do their duty — they were members of the Manteo CAP — they called it "Coastal Air Patrol." These young men were personnel at Base 16, stationed at Manteo in the early days of American participation in World War II.

Full time volunteers, amateur pilots, they answered the wartime call to fly long patrol missions far out over the Atlantic, searching for enemy submarines. Theirs were tiny fabric covered civilian airplanes, with top speeds of 105 mph which had been quickly converted into "warplanes." Some even had makeshift bomb racks for small bombs.

Some of them gave their lives to help their country. They logged thousands of hours and almost one million miles in those planes. Most had hastily installed radios, if any at all.

Last summer, Henry Bridges, son of Paul Bridges of the original squadron and a member of the newly reactivated Manteo CAP Squadron, began to work on a reunion plan for survivors of the World War II group.

Of approximately 150 original members, 116 have been accounted for, Bridges says. Of the 116, 44 are deceased. Of the 72 surviving members, 50 or 60, along with their spouses, are expected to attend the three-day reunion.

Anyone interested in attending the reunion banquet may call Dwight H. Wheeler in Manteo, telephone 473-2143 (office) or 473-3780 (home).

Two Pitt Students Chosen Scholarship Semifinalists

Two Pitt County students, Pamela Joyner of D. H. Conley High School and Curtis E. Edwards of Rose High School, have been selected as semifinalists in the 18th annual National Achievement Scholarship Program for Outstanding Negro students.

They are among the 1,500 semifinalists selected from among 70,000 black students who took the PSAT/NMSQT (qualifying tests) in 1980.

Semifinalists represent the highest-scoring black students in their regional selection units. Each unit is composed of several states, and the number named in each region is proportionate to the total Negro population of that region.

Pamela, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B.T. Joyner of Route 2, Greenville, is a member of the Honor Society, the Math Club and the Spanish Club. She has been secretary of the Science Club for two years. Other school activities include attendance at Governor's School in Laurinburg this past summer, participation in the ECU and the Pitt County Math Competitions for two years; and attendance at the Minority Involvement in Engineering program. Pamela hopes to major in engineering in college. Her hobbies include work in arts and crafts.

Curtis Edwards is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis A. Edwards of Greenville. A Boys' State nominee, he has also been nominated for "Who's Who Among American High School Students." He is an active member of the local Boys' Club and of Mount Calvary F.W.B. Church. He is a former student government representative and a former keyclubber. His hobbies are skating, reading and listening to rock-soul music. He hopes to attend East Carolina University and to major in pre-med studies.

'Saturday Night Live' Is Returning

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Since Chevy Chase, John, Dan, Jane and Bill went Hollywood, no member of "Saturday Night Live" or any of its clones has gained any noticeable public recognition. Even today's weekend TV freaks would be hard-pressed to identify the names of their favorite troupe members.

So one measure of the appeal of NBC's "Saturday Night Live," which returns Saturday, will be the public's familiarity with the new cast. If a star emerges, like Chevy Chase did six years ago, "SNL" will have taken a big step.

"In its heyday, the audience knew the actors as friends," said Dick Ebersol, producer of the new "SNL."

"The public had a sense that there were fights backstage, that John (Belushi) and Jane (Curtin) didn't get along. We did bits on John borrowing money for drugs and on what Gilda (Radner) ate during the week.

"There were scenes from the back lockers, with Dan (Ackroyd) and his motorcycle. We never took a straight slice of life, we bogused it up a bit. But it all had pseudo-humanizing effects."

Disdaining heavy make-up also helped. "When Chevy did Gerald Ford, you knew it was Chevy," said Ebersol, who also developed the first "SNL" and hired original producer Lorne Michaels.

Ebersol says the same approaches will be applied to the new repertory company. One player, Mary Gross, is here while her boyfriend is in Chicago. "We can't do anything with that yet. But in a show or two, we can get into it."

Whether the cast develops some stars and a strong team identity, it will suffer initially with comparisons to the "Not Ready For Prime Time Players." The original also had the advantage of being original. "It was the first show for and by the TV generation," said Ebersol.

Ebersol doesn't plan major structural changes, but the show won't rely as heavily on parody. "It will aspire to 'Saturday Night Live's' first two years, when it was more a multi-element show. Later on, it went for longer sketches. We plan 20-25 elements and one long sketch."

To pick up the pace, "Weekend Update" — still associated with Chevy Chase — will be seen as periodic segments of "Saturday Night Live: Newsbreak." One actor does ABC's Ted Koppel.

Although the players are unfamiliar, if the material is good, people will return for more saiples. Then the word might spread Monday mornings on commuter trains and at the office.

"The great strength of the old show was expecting the unexpected," Ebersol said. "We want to do that again, surprise people. The material alone won't do that anymore." Hence the new "SNL" ad campaign: "Just when you thought it was safe to go out Saturday nights..."

Consequently, Saturday's guest host is a secret, and Ebersol has restricted the news media from rehearsals. "We'll have fights, and I don't want anybody to hold back."

Another great strength of the old show was the writing. Ebersol has brought back some originals, including Michael O'Donoghue who joins Bob Tischler as supervising producers. O'Donoghue, the outrageous Mr. Mike, "has blacker comedic tastes," said Ebersol. "Bob's comedy has a brighter, happier kind of look."

Only two cast members from producer Jean Doumanian's 1980-81 fiasco remain: Eddie Murphy and Joe Piscopo.

"Most of the players in that cast were stand-up comedians, not comedic actors who could relate to each other," Ebersol said.

The new company also includes Ms. Gross, Robin Duke, Tim Kazurinsky, Tony Rosato and Christine Ebersole — just names now, rushing home by 11:30 might but if they do become people, become "in" again.

Disney World Observes 10th Year In Florida

By IKE FLORES
Associated Press Writer
LAKE BUENA VISTA, Fla. (AP) — Mickey Mouse and his gang are celebrating their 10th year in Florida, a decade that has transformed a once-sleepy, semi-rural area into one of the world's leading tourist destinations.

Since Walt Disney's Magic Kingdom opened its doors to a "modest" 10,000 guests Oct. 1, 1971, it has drawn 126 million visitors.

Disney World has turned central Florida, with its core city of Orlando, into a throbbing megalopolis boasting scores of family-fun attractions, 32,000 hotel rooms, a new $300 million airport, an influx of industry and more than 250,000 new residents.

There are those who say this isn't all to the good, noting that rapid growth has led to mushrooming problems in housing, sewage disposal, overcrowded highways, polluted waterways and a rising crime rate.

But the euphoria of expansion escalates by day, and few blame Disney for the growing pains.

After all, Disney World has its own police and fire protection, disposes of its own garbage, operates its own telephone system and sewage treatment plant and generates a third of its own electrical power.

"Problems are made to be overcome," a county planning official says. "What's important is that we get good, clean growth."

And Disney has led the way.

Its original investment estimate of $100 million for the theme park grew to $400 million by opening day. Ten years later, it is past the $700 million mark.

Next year, Disney opens the second phase of its long-range project on the sprawling 43-square mile vacation resort complex near Orlando — a permanent exposition of world cultures and American technology called Epcot Center, which stands for Experimental Prototype Community of Tomorrow.

The price tag for the twin drawing cards, called Future World and World Showcase, is $800 million. This will make a total investment of about $1.5 billion in central Florida.

An economic impact study estimates that Disney has generated more than 52,000 new jobs in its first 10 years. One in every five residents of the area is employed in tourism and related services.

Disney World's yearly attendance figure of 14 million already surpasses such popular tourist spots as the Eiffel Tower, the Taj Mahal, the Egyptian Pyramids — and it rivals the entire country of Spain.

It expects to get another 6 million or so visitors in the first year of Epcot's operation.

But Disney Productions Chairman Card Walker says the company's "imagineers" won't be resting on their laurels after Epcot.

CRYPTOQUIP 10-1

XOV NZQ GWQDWV ZQSWP ZSZFQJD
 XGWPDFNW YZJWYZOO SZNWJ

Yesterday's Cryptokuip — THIS CODE DOESN'T CONTAIN DOTS AND DASHES.
 Today's Cryptokuip clue: X equals O

The Cryptokuip is a simple substitution cipher in which each letter used stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words, and words using an apostrophe can give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is accomplished by trial and error.

Carolina Power Defends Plant

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Published reports that Carolina Power & Light Co.'s H.B. Robinson nuclear plant is unsafe are wrong, CP&L officials say.

The New York Times reported Sunday that federal officials fear the metal protective shells in 13 older nuclear power plants have become so brittle they may crack, causing a possible meltdown. One reactor named was the H.B. Robinson plant in Hartsville, S.C.

But E.E. Utley, executive vice president of CP&L, said a re-evaluation by the utility indicates the Robinson vessel is safe for continued operation.

The Robinson plant will be taken out of service for tests next year as scheduled, Utley said in a prepared statement.

42,000	Sodium Vapor	400	490	160	16.07

400 W MV (T) are units controlled by photo cells with timers that cut lights off 6 hours after cut-on, reducing kWh energy consumption equivalent to $1.25/month/unit.

B. Minimum Charge
 The monthly minimum charge shall be the rate specified in II. A. above and shall be increased or decreased by the monthly fuel charge set by the Commission to recover from energy sales the total net fuel adjustment costs paid by the Commission to Veppo.

Deadly Weapons

When Secretary of State Haig accused the Soviets of producing chemical and biological weapons for use against foes in Southeast Asia and Afghanistan, he brought back memories of a deadly past. Such weapons go back hundreds of years. In the Middle Ages, soldiers threw bodies of plague victims into the enemy camp to spread disease. German troops began the use of poison gas in World War I, with a surprise attack in 1915. In the next three years, both sides used gases with devastating effect. After that war, the nations of the world outlawed the use of poison gas as a weapon. In 1971, the U.S. and U.S.S.R. agreed to ban biological weapons. If Mr. Haig's charges prove true, the Soviets have broken the agreement.

DO YOU KNOW — In what country was poison gas first used in WWI?
 WEDNESDAY'S ANSWER — David Stockman is Director of the federal Office of Management and Budget.

America's Best Tax-Free Savings Is Right In Your Neighborhood.

Right now, you're hearing a lot about the All Savers Certificate offering Tax-Free Interest.

At NCNB, we call it our Tax Saver Certificate and like banks and savings & loans all over the country, we can sign you up for as little as $500.

But unlike any other bank or savings & loan, when you invest $10,000 or more, NCNB NCNB Deluxe Banking. As far as we know, no other bank or savings & loan offers anything like it along with tax-free savings.

1) Open a checking and savings account and get DeLuxe Banking, all the banking services you need at no charge, plus

2) Up to $2,000 Tax-Free Interest on Joint Returns; $1,000 on Individual Returns.

The details are in the panel. So take a look. Then come see us; let's talk things over.

No matter how you want to save, we have a plan. From NCNB Regular Savings to America's Best Tax-Free Savings Plan.

And best of all, you don't have to leave your neighborhood to get it.

NCNB

The NCNB Plan: 12.61% Interest*

Rate good Oct. 1-3. 1-Year Term. NCNB Tax Saver Certificate pays 70% of the average annual investment yield of the most recently auctioned 52-Week T-Bill.

Earn Up To $2,000 Tax-Free Interest

Up to $2,000 exempt from Federal Income Tax for couples filing a Joint Return; up to $1,000 on Individual Returns.

Plus Charge-Free Banking

When you invest $10,000 in a Tax Saver Certificate and open an NCNB checking and savings account, you get NCNB Deluxe Banking:

1. No Charge for Safe Deposit Box, available at most NCNB offices.
2. No Charge for Interest on all deposits in your NCNB Checking Account.
3. No Service-Charge Checking.
4. No Charge for Printing Checks.
5. No Charge for Checkmate, the plastic check you use all over the world.
6. No Charge for Travelers Checks.
7. No Charge for Periodic Financial Newsletter.

Additional Benefits - preferred rate on personal loans, preferred rate on a "Credit Cushion" in your NCNB checking account and a personal line of credit on American Express Gold Card® available only for customers who meet other deposit requirements.

*Yield is based on 11.935% annual rate compounded monthly, with interest left on deposit until maturity. With this yield, you'll need to invest $15,860 to get the maximum tax-free interest on joint returns, and $7,930 on individual returns. This plan works best for people who are in the 30%-and-up bracket. Substantial Interest Penalty is required for Early Withdrawal. Each depositor insured to $100,000 by FDIC.
