Rare Special Assembly Session Opened

By WILLIAM M. WELCH
Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — House Speaker Liston Ramsey and Lt. Gov. Jimmy Green opened a rare General Assembly special session today that will be dominated by talk of pay raises, more taxes and federal budget cuts.

Green, who presides over the Senate, and Ramsey, in his first year as House leader, brought the Legislature into order shortly after 10 a.m.

With money issues dominating the agenda, both chambers planned to send their appropriations committees to work soon after the session began.

But first, the lawmakers attempted to resolve the constitutional questions that have centered around their special session. Both chambers adopted amendments to the adjournment resolution that was passed when the earlier session ended July 10, authorizing another meeting today.

Ramsey and Green said both chambers were immediately adjourning the "extra session," as defined by the constitution.

Then, both the House and Senate planned to reconvene shortly after 11 a.m. for what legally would be a new special session in continuation of the regular session that adjourned July 10.

The constitutional questions were raised by the attorney general's office and others who said there were flaws in both the previous adjournment resolution and a proclamation calling the extra session.

"There are an awful lot of constitutional experts out there," Ramsey told the House. "This should clear up any misconceptions about what we're doing."

Ramsey and Green both say they want lawmakers to wrap up the session by the end of the week. But there is no legal or constitutional requirement that says when it must end.

The special session is the first the General Assembly has had since 1971, when it wrestled with higher education reorganization.

The session will cost the taxpayers $25,000 a day for every day lawmakers are in Raleigh, said Legislative Services Officer John Allen.

The major item of business — the one that brought the appropriation committee members to Raleigh last week for a head-start on the session — is a cost-of-living pay raise for the state's 179,000 teachers and state employees.

Gov. Jim Hunt also has two items he wants considered — an increase in the tax on beer and liquor, and a $300 bond issue for water and sewer projects. And lawmakers also must consider how to handle a $25 million cut in federal Medicaid money.

House Finance Chairman Dwight Quinn, D-Cabarrus, said the bond-issue bill would be introduced immediately, during the second House and Senate session of the day.

He also predicted it would have little trouble passing: "None at all, that I can see."

Volunteers Are Honored By Pitt Commissioners

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

Twenty-two individuals and four community volunteer organizations were honored this morning by the Pitt County Board of Commissioners as nominees for the 1981 Governor's Volunteer Awards program. Board chairman Bruce Strickland presented certificates to the individuals and organizations in recognition of their nominations.

Seven of the individuals that received certificates and one of the organizations are winners of the Governor's Volunteer program and will receive these awards at a program within the next six weeks. Winners include Linda W. Asbell in the individual human service category; Randie Reinert in the individual volunteer community leader category; Catherine

A. Bolton, administrator-coordinator volunteer category; Mark Blahove, youth volunteer; Ina and Mildred Venters, co-workers in the senior citizen volunteer category; and Ann Stalls, in the disabled person volunteer category. The Greenville Jaycees were the winners in the community volunteer organization division.

Others receiving certificates today as nominees for awards in various individual categories were: W. J. Evans, Lorraine McGowan, Janice Sawyer, Rita Ayscue, Mary Jane Sisk, Mavis A. Butts, Judy E. Warren, Joy Grubbs, Dianne Pickett, Adele Moos, Howard N. Wilson, Peter Anderson, Eleanor Coleman, and Edythe Price.

Organizations receiving certificates as nominees were the Kiwanis Club of Ayden-Grifton; Circle K Club of East Carolina University; and the Greenville Service League.

The awards are presented annually in connection with Governor's Hunt support of volunteer work in North Carolina.

Jack Richardson, director Pitt Memorial Hospital, told commissioners that the hospital should have beneficial occupancy of the new bed tower by October 15 and that patients should be moved into the new wing around Thanksgiving.

The bed tower is being added to the hospital at state expense as part of the East Carolina University School of Medicine medical program.

Ed Garrison, director, Department of Social Services, said the low-income energy assistance program would be operating again this year. Last year, there were 7,579 applications. Of this number of applications, 4,708 households were approved for funding for which the average payment amounted to $122.47. Included in the 4,708 households were 14,524 people. In all, operation of the program brought $575,639 into the county.

Another Cuban Exodus Seen By CIA Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cuban President Fidel Castro's government, facing "its most serious economic challenge" since the early 1960s, may turn once again to a massive emigration program in an effort to diffuse discontent, a CIA analyst says.

Only last year more than 125,000 Cubans fled their Caribbean island homeland in a Castro-sanctioned boatlift to Key West, Fla. The prediction that another large-scale exodus may be on the horizon came in a summary of papers on Western hemisphere nations released Sunday by the Joint Economic Committee of Congress.

Although Cuba has shown improvements in areas such as education and health, per capita supplies of clothing and key staples such as sugar, rice, beef and coffee have declined since the mid 1960s, wrote Russell Swanson of the CIA's National Foreign Assessment Center.

And "the housing shortage has gone from bad to worse," he said, adding, "the prospects for dynamic economic development are bleak for at least the next decade."

In the face of deep-rooted economic problems, he wrote, "Havana could again seek to defuse internal discontent through large-scale emigration — a tactic employed successfully on three previous occasions in the past 22 years."

Swanson's portrayal of the Cuban economy contrasted sharply with a recent assessment by Cuban officials, who argued that the economy has enjoyed substantial growth despite the U.S. trade embargo and would become even stronger over the next five years.

"Castro would probably prefer to negotiate a long-term, orderly departure for some 1 to 2 million Cubans on the periphery of the revolution, but he is not above threatening a new large-scale exodus to achieve his goal," Swanson said.

"In addition, growing numbers of Cubans could take it upon themselves to leave illegally and thus escalate bilateral tensions."

Oswald's Body Identified Beyond Any Doubt By Texas Authorities

DALLAS (AP) — Two decades of theories about at least one aspect of the assassination of President John F. Kennedy apparently have been disproved with a finding "beyond any doubt" that Lee Harvey Oswald was buried in the grave marked with his name.

"There is no reason to ever disturb that body again. Ever," said Dr. Linda Norton, the head of a pathology team that announced Sunday that the exhumed body was indeed Oswald, identified by the Warren Commission as the man who killed Kennedy on Nov. 22, 1963.

"We both individually and as a team have concluded beyond any doubt, and I mean beyond any doubt, that the individual buried under the name Lee Harvey Oswald in Rose Hill cemetery is Lee Harvey Oswald," she said.

British author and assassination theorist Michael Eddowes, who agreed to pay for the exhumation, had contended the body in Oswald's grave was that of a Russian impostor who replaced Oswald when he defected to the Soviet Union in 1959.

Eddowes, who wrote "The Oswald Files," said Sunday he was "surprised, but in no way disappointed" at the findings.

Oswald's widow, Marina Oswald Porter, said she was relieved and "pleased with the results of the autopsy."

Mrs. Porter, who stayed at a discreet distance as the body was exhumed at Fort

Worth's Rose Hill Burial Park Sunday morning, said she was "glad the issues have been resolved."

She said she hoped to resume a "normal life" as Marina Porter.

Oswald was shot to death two days after the Kennedy shooting by nightclub owner Jack Ruby. Since then there have been several books propounding the idea that more than one person was involved in the assassination and several theories about Oswald, including Eddowes'.

"We hope this puts the matter to rest," said Ms. Norton, a former Dallas County medical examiner who now practices in Birmingham, Ala. "We hope the Porters can go about living a normal life without any more speculation."

Years of court battles and bitter family quarreling ended Sunday morning at 7 a.m., as gravediggers worked quickly to exhume Oswald's body at Mrs. Porter's insistence.

The final hurdle was removed when Oswald's brother, Robert, removed his legal opposition to the exhumation. A temporary restraining order issued by a federal judge at Robert Oswald's request expired at midnight Saturday, prompting negotiations between attorneys for Mrs. Porter and her brother-in-law.

As a ring of security guards and several attorneys looked on, the concrete vault containing Oswald's casket was lifted from the grave.

Winterville Sub-Station Is Vandalized

Vandalism last night at Greenville Utilities' new Winterville sub-station off State Road 1708 caused a power outage that knocked out lights in a large area of the county's southern section.

Pitt Sheriff Ralph Tyson said today his department is investigating the incident, which resulted in a power interruption of just over 30 minutes.

Malcolm Green, superintendent of GUC's electric department, said the outage from 8:28 p.m. to 9:03 p.m. was caused when someone threw tree limbs wrapped with metal strips into a 34,000 volt transmission line at the sub-station.

Green, who said that Greenville Utilities has had several vandalism incidents at the site in recent weeks, reported that lights were out in a large area from the White Road south to Craven County and from Highway 11 to Highway 33. In addition, power was interrupted for a few seconds to over half of the area system.

The spokesman pointed out that GUC is concerned not only with the loss of power during an act of vandalism but also with the safety of the person or persons involved. He said when an object is thrown into an overhead line, there is a chance the line could burn and fall, energized, to the ground.

In addition, a lightning arrester on the power pole was damaged last night and Green said if the arrester had blown up, two to three pound porcelain chunks could have been sprayed across the area. He said "it came close to blowing up."

Green said that internal damage to the $200,000 transformer could not be measured. He estimated replacement damage to equipment at the substation at "a couple of hundred dollars."

Several vandalism incidents have been experienced at the Winterville site, he said, as well as a break-in recently at a new station under construction near the hospital. In that incident, four large cooling fans were taken from the site.

"Our goal is to keep the lights on for our customers but it's hard to do with vandalism at our substations," Green said.

Moore Seeking Council Seat

Oscar L. Moore, district veterans service officer here, will seek one of the six seats on the Greenville City Council in the Nov. 3 municipal elections.

Moore, a retired Marine, filed Friday with the Pitt Board of Elections as the filing period for municipal candidates in nine area towns ended at noon.

A Greenville resident for the last 11 years, Moore (along with Walter Tucker) supervises the filing of veterans' claims for the N.C. Division of Veterans Affairs in Pitt, Halifax, Northampton, Martin, Beaufort, Washington, Tyrell, and Hyde Counties. He said his duties enable him to work closely with veterans and their dependents for benefits from the state and federal governments in such matters as pensions, hospitalization, insurance, and schooling.

In addition to his present responsibilities in the American Legion, the Disabled American Veterans, the Veterans of Foreign Wars, and the Forty and Eight, Moore is also a member of the Greenville Country Club, the Pitt County Wildlife Club, and the N.C. Wildlife Federation.

While serving in the Marine Corps, he was twice decorated with the Silver Star medal and once with the Bronze Star. He also served as a drill instructor at Parris Island, S.C., as brig warden at the Charleston Naval Base, and as a member of President Harry Truman's honor guard in Key West. He completed officer training at Quantico, Va.

Originally from Scotland Neck, Moore attended East Carolina University and the University of South Carolina. He and his wife, the former Shirley Harris of Enfield, have one son, Chris, a student at E. B. Aycock Junior High School. They are members of Immanuel Baptist Church.

In filing as a Council candidate, Moore observed, "I believe that a good common sense approach should be taken in making decisions for city government. I would like to be the voice of the private citizens and salaried working people of Greenville."

Heavy Damage In Sunday Blaze

A Sunday night fire caused by an electrical short circuit resulted in heavy damage to the S. Price Furniture Gallery at 631 Dickinson Ave.

Three fire department pumpers, the snorkel, and more than 1,800 feet of hose were used to combat the blaze, which was reported at 9:54 p.m.

The Police Department said one passing motorist saw the fire and drove to the Fire-Rescue Department a block away to report it, while another drove to the Police Department.

At the time the blaze was discovered the entire top floor of the two-story brick structure was engulfed in flames, officers said.

Firemen reported that heavy fire, smoke and water damage resulted to the building and contents.

Fire units remained at the scene until after 1:30 a.m. today, making sure that all of the fire was out.

FIGHTING BLAZE . . . Firemen pour water into second floor windows of S. Price Furniture Gallery last night after fire caused heavy damage

The building, built about 1901, was remodeled in 1930, and a $42,000 renovation was completed in 1980, according to records at the Pitt County Tax Supervisor's office.

In January, the depreciated value of the 58 by 100 foot structure at the intersection of Dickinson Avenue and Eighth Street was set at $35,060, while the replacement value of the building was estimated at $233,700.

Harry M. Brown owns the building, while owner of the furniture company stock is Samuel K. Price Jr.

Tax records indicate that in January, the inventory, office furniture and fixtures was valued at $44,275.

Fire Department officers early this morning said the short circuit near the store's electrical panel box started the fire which spread downstairs and then up a stairway at the back of the store to the second floor.

Couple Speaks Vows On Sunday Afternoon

Katie Charlene Harper and Ricky Merle Hill were united in marriage Sunday at 3 p.m. at the Oakmont Baptist Church. The Rev. Elwood Oliver of New Bern, uncle of the bridegroom, officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Maggie V. Harper of Greenville and the late Mr. Charlie William Harper. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Elsie T. Hill of Pink Hill and the late Mr. Edward Earl Hill.

A program of nuptial music was presented by Mrs. Eloise Jackson, organist. Pam Walker sang "Endless Love," "You Needed Me," "Whither Thou Goest" and "The Wedding Prayer."

Given in marriage by her mother and escorted by her brother-in-law, Donald H. Bowen of Greenville, the bride chose a formal gown of white silk organza with chantilly lace and rachel lace over peau de soie. The gown was fashioned with a fitted bodice of chantilly lace adorned at the waist and Queen Anne neckline, encrusted with pearls. The full bishop sleeves of chantilly lace closed at the wrist with a cuff of rachel lace. The crystal pleated skirt and chapel train were bordered with lace continuing around the hemline and up the skirt bordering a panel of silk organza. Her two tiered veil of silk illusion, bordered with scalloped chantilly lace, was attached to a Juliet cap of lace and pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of white silk roses and miniature carnations interspersed with blue lily of the valley tied with bridal satin streamers.

Nadine Bowen of Greenville served her sister as matron of honor and wore a formal gown of aqua silesta knit and chantilly lace. The gown was fashioned with a lace bodice with spaghetti straps and ruffled lace trimming the neck, sleeves and natural waistline. Lace ruffles also trimmed the jacket. She carried a silk nosegay of yellow daisies, apricot roses and miniature carnations with aqua baby's breath fashioned with silk and satin streamers. She wore a matching headpiece of silk flowers.

Bridesmaids were Rachel Hill of Kinston, sister-in-law of the bridegroom, Kathryn Kittrell, Jerri Phillips, June Taunton and Debbie Terterton, all of Greenville. Junior bridesmaid was Kristi Bowen of Greenville, niece of the bride. Flowers girls were Jennifer Banta of Farmville, cousin of the bride and Heather Pendleton of New Bern, cousin of the bridegroom. All were dressed identical to the honor attendant and carried similar nosegays.

Bruce E. Hill of Kinston served his brother as best man and ushers were Danny Byrd of Pink Hill, Joey Dunlow of Williamston, Dan Griffis of Farmville, Mitchell Oliver of New Bern, cousin of the bridegroom and Mike Sutton of Stokes. Ashley Jarman of Pink Hill was junior usher.

The mother of the bride wore a formal gown of peach silesta knit fashioned with a chiffon cape. The bridegroom's mother chose a formal gown of blue qiana styled with a champagne chantilly lace collar. Both wore corsages of white silk miniature carnations.

Mrs. Katie Vandiford and Mrs. Katie Hill, grandmothers, were remembered with corsages of white silk daisies.

Miss Faye Williamson presided at the bridal registry. Karen Pilgreen and Geri Smith distributed programs and rice bags.

Immediately following the ceremony the bride's mother entertained with a reception in the church fellowship hall. Guests were greeted by Mr. and Mrs. Marvin James, aunt and uncle of the bride.

The refreshment table was covered with a white lace cloth and centered with an arrangement of mixed flowers flanked by burning tapers.

Mrs. Wenonah Adams served cake and punch was poured by Mrs. Bonnie Avery and Mrs. Maxine Branton. Good-byes were said by Mr. and Mrs. Fred Chappellear, aunt and uncle of the bride.

The bride is a graduate of Rose High School and is employed with Burroughs Wellcome. The bridegroom is a graduate of South Lenoir High School and Pitt Community College. He is employed with Farrior and Sons, Inc., Farmville.

After a wedding trip to Orlando, Fla. the couple will live in Greenville.

The bridal party and guests were entertained with a pig pickin' given by the mother of the bride and Mr. and Mrs. Bruce E. Hill Saturday night at the Tar River Estates club house.

MRS. WILLIAM RAY DUNN

Dunn-Peede Vows Spoken

Miss Lana Denise Peede, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Croom Peede of Ayden, was married Sunday afternoon to William Ray Dunn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Robert Dunn of Ayden.

The Rev. R. Randall Riggs officiated at the double ring ceremony in the Grace Free Will Baptist Church at 3:30.

A program of nuptial music was presented by Mrs. Becky Overton, organist and Mrs. Susan Forlines, who sang "If," "Time in a Bottle," "One Hand, One Heart" and "The Wedding Prayer."

Escorted by her father and given in marriage by her parents, the bride wore a formal gown of white qiana over peau de soie designed with a Queen Anne neckline outlined in silk Venice lace. The bodice was accentuated with an applique of silk Venice in a V-form with flowers at center of the raised waist. The long fitted sleeves were fashioned with silk Venice lace and re-embroidered English tulle. The full skirt and attached wateau train were bordered with floral silk Venice lace. She wore a waltz length veil of illusion held in place a caplet overlaid in floral silk Venice lace beaded with pearls. The double tiered veil was edged in pencil edging and floral silk Venice. She carried a silk cascade bouquet of white roses, gardenias and stephanotis accented with baby's breath, burgundy roses, greenery and white bridal streamers.

Theresa Wells of Ayden was maid of honor and bridesmaids were Susan Holloman of Greenville and Karla McLawhorn of Winterville, cousins of the bride, Shirley Dunn of Greenville and Judy Carroll of Ayden, sisters of the bridegroom. Brook Dunn, niece of the bridegroom, was flower girl.

The attendants each wore a formal gown of burgundy tinstia Italian silk designed with an open neckline. The sleeveless gown was complemented with a draped overlay on the front and back bodice which was enhanced with a split edged in burgundy silk Venice lace. Self-fabric tie bows accented the shoulders. The gown had an empire bodice and full flared skirt. They carried bouquets of dusty rose roses accented with burgundy roses and pink baby's breath tied with pink satin bows and streamers.

The father of the bridegroom was best man and ushers were Wayne Dunn, brother of the bridegroom, Allen Hudson of Greenville, Richard Edwards of Winterville and Shannon Peede, brother of the bride. The ring bearer was Kenneth Caraway of Winterville, cousin of the bride.

The mother of the bride wore a formal gown of lavender silesta knit and the mother of the bridegroom wore a formal gown of mint green qiana. Both wore corsages of roses.

Maggie Dunn, niece of the Wedding Vows Exchanged

SMITHFIELD — Nancy Renee Foster and Jerry Wade Lassiter, both of Greenville, were married here in a double ring ceremony Sunday at 3 p.m. in the First Free Will Baptist Church.

The Rev. Philip Wood conducted the ceremony.

rehearsal party at their home Saturday evening following the rehearsal.

MRS. RICKY MERLE HILL

Helpful Hints For Fire Prevention Week

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1981 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR READERS: It's Fire Prevention Week again, and I have had so many requests to repeat my column on fire prevention that it has become a tradition. So here it is, with updated figures:

Last year, 7,800 Americans died, and nearly 130,000 civilians, plus 100,000 firemen, were seriously injured in 3,000,000 fires.

The total fire loss last year in property alone was $5½ billion in the U.S.

The chief causes of fires, in order of the toll taken, were:

1. Smoking
2. Electrical wiring
3. Heating and cooking equipment
4. Children playing with matches
5. Open flames and sparks
6. Flammable liquids
7. Suspected arson
8. Chimneys and flues
9. Lightning
10. Spontaneous ignition

Now for some tips that could save your life:

Be sure your cigarette is out. Matches, too. Never leave matches and lighters within the reach of children.

Don't run cords under rugs or over radiators where they may get damaged. Replace a cord if it is frayed.

Never leave small children or invalids alone in the house — not even for a few minutes.

Have your wiring and electrical installations done by a professional.

Store oily rags and paints in a cool place in tightly sealed metal containers.

Never use flammable liquids for dry-cleaning indoors.

Never smoke in bed.

Have a fire drill in your home to be sure everyone knows what to do in case of fire. Designate a specific meeting place outside so you will all know who's outside of the house.

Remember: Fire extinguishers put out 97 percent of all fires on which they were used, and most large fires start as small fires. So, invest in a compact, easy-to-use fire extinguisher. Keep it handy in your kitchen, or be prudent and buy one for your cottage, car, boat and the back bedroom.

Buy and install a smoke detector and then properly maintain it. It must be cleaned often with the vacuum cleaner hose so that it is dust-free. It is estimated that 6,000 lives could have been saved last year had a smoke detector been in service when the fire happened.

Now, in case of fire: If you suspect fire, alert the rest of the household. But first feel the top of the door. If it's hot, don't open it. Escape through the window.

If you can't open the window, break it with a chair. Cover the rough edges with a blanket, sit on the window ledge with one leg hanging outside and one inside, and wait for help.

The phone number of your fire department should be taped on every telephone. If it isn't, don't fumble around trying to find it. Get out and call from a neighbor's house.

If you live in an apartment building, use the stairway. Don't take a chance on the elevator. If it fails, you're trapped!

Once out, stay out. No treasure is worth risking your life.

It took less than three minutes to read this column. Was it worth it? I hope so.

New Honor Given Old Research Pilot

ALAMOGORDO, N.M. (AP) — The first man to travel faster than his voice says he would like to fly the space shuttle, "but I had my fun in other aircraft."

Charles Yeager of Cedar Ridge, Calif., who retired from the Air Force in 1975 as a brigadier general, and six others were inducted this weekend into the International Space Hall of Fame.

He gave credit for his accomplishment to the Air Force, saying, "they taught me to be a fighter, test and research pilot."

Yeager broke the sound barrier in the Bell X-1 at more than 670 mph. He eventually achieved a speed of more than 1,000 mph and an altitude of more than 70,000 feet in the X-1.

Others inducted, but not present, were: astronauts Alan Shepard, who retired as a Navy rear admiral and lives in Deer Park, Texas; Scott Carpenter, who retired from the Navy as a commander and lives in Canoga Park, Calif.; Gordon Cooper, who retired as an Air Force colonel and lives in Glendale, Calif.; and Walter Schirra, who retired as a Navy captain and now lives in Inglewood, Calif.

Virgil Grissom, America's second man into space, was inducted posthumously. He and two other astronauts died in a launchpad fire in the Apollo 1 capsule in January 1967.

A 19th century Danish rocket pioneer, Andreas Anton Frederick Schumacher, also was inducted. He developed a rocket system after the bombardment of Copenhagen in 1897.

Checkup For The Prelate

CHICAGO (AP) — Cardinal John Cody, the Roman Catholic archbishop of Chicago, has been admitted to a North Side hospital for routine tests, according to an archdiocesan spokesman.

Cody, 73, drove himself to Columbus Hospital Sunday night and checked in according to a doctor's orders, said spokesman Peter Foote.

"There is no change in his health," Foote said.

He added that Cody was expected to be released Tuesday night but refused to elaborate on the type of tests the prelate would undergo.

Cody, head of the nation's largest Catholic archdiocese, is the subject of a U.S. attorney's investigation involving the alleged diversion of church money to his step-cousin, Helen Dolan Wilson.

He was last hospitalized for routine tests June 15 and has a medical history of heart disease and diabetes.

Earlier Sunday, Cody spoke briefly to a mass honoring the 800th anniversary of the birth of St. Francis of Assisi.

He told 1,600 persons that the Italian saint was his role model as a young priest, "and only God, and the people to whom I have been sent in five dioceses, will be able to attest as to how well I have succeeded."

Examinations Will Be Given

ECU News Bureau
Two nationally standardized examinations will be given at East Carolina University Saturday, Nov. 14.

They are the Allied Health Professions Admission Test, given to students who wish to pursue degree programs in various health professions, and the National Teacher Examinations, given to candidates for teaching positions or to advanced students preparing for education careers.

Further information about the tests and application materials are available from the ECU Testing Center, 105 Speight Building, ECU, Greenville, N.C. 27834.

Prior registration is required to take either test.

Looking To New Breed

The fabulous promises of genetic engineering are still being heard; and there's no reason to doubt the hopes raised by this recently opened field will be multiplying with the passage of time.

The announcement scientists have isolated the gene that protects plants from drought and salt has raised dreams of developing hardy strains of crops that thrive on inhospitable land and increase the world's food supply.

Forecasters look for increasingly arid land in the not-to-distant future; and salt buildup in the soil is a common problem in areas under irrigation for many years.

Implanting drought genes is not an overnight process. Researchers say if progress matches their expectation, tough new plants should be available to farmers within 10 years.

Ten years is not a long time, it only seems that way in a world accustomed to overnight sensations. The prospect alone, not the accomplishment, is enough good news for our world.

WE CAN DO WITHOUT THE CALAMITY HOWLERS!

Debt Limit Play-Acting

By WALTER R. MEARS AP Special Correspondent WASHINGTON (AP) — For political play-acting, it's hard to top a debate like the one on the trillion-dollar debt ceiling Congress has just passed. Everybody knows it has to pass in the end, so it becomes a vehicle for proposals that don't stand a chance but look good on paper.

Democrats weren't about to buy that.

While the administration had to have the increase, Reagan called it a warning that should underline the need for approval of his budget cuts, so the debt won't keep going up.

"In just the past decade, our national debt has more than doubled," he said. "And in the next few days it will pass the trillion dollar mark. One trillion dollars of debt — if we as a nation need a warning, let it be that."

Part of the debt is interest on the debt, which is expected to run between $96 billion and $106 billion during the next year.

The Congress that is authorizing more borrowing can bemoan deficit spending. The president who asked for the increase can say he detests the whole idea but had to do it because of the deficits he inherited.

That's been going on for years.

Whether Republican or Democratic, presidents have to propose increases in the debt ceiling before the federal debt bumps up against the old one. Otherwise, the government couldn't borrow money.

Reagan said interest alone exceeds the combined cost of all federal education, nutrition and health programs.

"The $1 trillion debt figure can stand as a monument to the policies of the past which brought it about, policies which as of today are reversed," he said.

While Republicans complained about deficits, Democrats forced them to vote against some politically attractive amendments to the measure raising the deficit limit. One would have tied the increase to improvement of school lunch menus. Another would have instructed Reagan to press the Federal Reserve Board for policy changes to lower interest rates. A third would have reduced the tax deduction for business entertainment to produce an extra $700 million in revenues and would have earmarked the proceeds for school lunch programs.

There were proposals to postpone Reagan's income tax cuts until deficits come down, or until interest rates drop. Another would have increased taxes on the oil industry and put the proceeds into the financially fragile Social Security fund.

Each was debated and dutifully voted down. But not forgotten.

There's a campaign coming, and Democrats soon will be citing some of those votes as evidence that Republicans are more interested in three-martini lunches than in feeding schoolchildren, more concerned with breaks for the oil industry than with pensions for the elderly.

But for the latest increase, the government would have had no borrowing authority after last Wednesday, and the Treasury would have run out of money altogether as of today. Obviously, Congress wasn't going to let that happen.

So the limit was raised, for the 20th time in little more than a decade. It now stands at $1.079 trillion, $94 billion more than the old limit.

But first, Democrats made the political record. They proposed an assortment of politically embarrassing amendments. None passed, but they didn't expect any would. When it came time to pass the increase, they made sure that Republican votes provided the majority to raise the limit.

When the White House belonged to the Democrats, Republican members of Congress did exactly the same thing. Then they campaigned against Democrats for voting to increase the debt limit.

It was the second increase since President Reagan took office. The first came Feb. 7. Ironically, that also was the first congressional action on a Reagan proposal. The administration would have preferred a more substantial increase then, to avoid the embarrassment that went with raising the limit again.

Study Candidates Carefully

The slate of candidates is complete for the Nov. 3 municipal election in Greenville.

There will be 11 candidates for the six seats on the council. For mayor three persons have filed including present mayor Don McGlohon and former mayor Percy Cox. Mrs. Beatrice C. Terry is the third candidate.

It is certain there will be two new faces. Present members Joe Taft and Clarence Gray did not file for re-election.

There will be definite choices for every voter to make on Nov. 3. Each of us needs to be certain that we understand where the candidates stand on issues prior to the election. Then we can make choices confident that we are electing people who will do their best to see that Greenville progresses.

THIS AFTERNOON

Trend Is Reversed

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH — Whether the cause is taxpayer resistance, a new conservative mood, or an expanding tax base which provides more overall income for the same tax rate, North Carolina county governments have reversed the upward trend in local property taxes which prevailed in recent years.

According to a survey by the N.C. Association for County Commissioners, only 30 counties raised their tax rates for the current fiscal year, affecting tax bills now being sent to citizens and due at the beginning of next year.

Seven counties actually lowered the rate, and 48 held the line at what it was the previous year. Another 15 counties adjusted tax rates, usually downward, as a result of the eight-year revaluation of property for tax purposes. But the rule of thumb is that when values are boosted upward, a lower tax rate will produce more income and actually cause taxpayers to see a slight increase in their tax bills — despite the appearance of a lower tax rate.

Local hassles between county commissioners and local boards of education over how much local money would be spent for education resulted in two county property tax increases as the result of legal action.

In Moore County, educators appealed to the clerk of court. County Commissioners accepted the clerk's recommendation that the schools be provided more funds. Taxes were increased six cents.

BILL NOBLITT

Those counties which actually reduced the tax rates while not enjoying the benefits of revaluation were Alexander, Avery, Forsyth, Gates, Robeson, Rowan and Scotland.

Despite the ability to hold the line on increases in most of the state's counties, local officials continue to press the General Assembly for new sources of revenue. The complaint generally is the property taxes are at a peak, too visible and vulnerable to political pressures, and not responsive enough to economic changes.

A behind-scenes is underway between local governments and legislators over which will be able to claim another one cent sales tax which is also being eyed by the State Board of Education as a way to raise money for school construction and remodeling.

BY ART BUCHWALD

Just One Stipulation

This may come as a surprise to many people but I believe Duke University did the right thing when it decided to build a Richard Nixon Library on its campus.

The only stipulation I would make is that all the Nixon papers and ALL the tapes be deposited there. Since he is probably the most interesting President we've ever had, I would hate to think that future historians would be deprived of many of the more private aspects of the man, when he served our country so well.

We all know about the Nixon who ended the Vietnam war, opened up relations with the People's Republic of China, brought detente between the United States and the Soviet Union and battled for the First Amendment rights of all Americans citizens.

But I have a feeling that behind the public image, there was another Nixon that no one knows. Behind that winning smile and demeanor of confidence that all of us loved, could have been a man with doubts and fears.

As I conceive the library, it should be divided into two sections. The Presidential Nixon part of the building would contain all his state papers, his speeches, his discussions with world leaders, the gifts and honors that were bestowed on him from a grateful citizenry, and photos such as the one of him talking to anti-war protesters about football on the steps of the Lincoln Memorial.

There would be an amphitheater, where people could sit comfortably and listen to all the tapes as the inner circle discussed the private matters that took up as much of President Nixon's time as the public ones.

ART BUCHWALD

This section would capture the spirit of a President who had to deal with the great problems of his country and the world. It would be an inspiration for generations of Americans to come, and a tribute to the 37th President of the United States.

The second section of the library would be connected by a Watergate and chiseled over its entrance in marble would be the simple words, "I Am Not a Crook."

I believe this section should be designed by the Walt Disney people. When you entered it you would be greeted with an exact replica of the Oval Office. A wax figure of President Nixon would be seated behind the President's desk wired for sound.

In chairs, and standing around the office, would be wax figures of Haldeman, Colson, Ehrlichman, Dean and John Mitchell constructed so they, too, would be able to speak.

When the tapes indicated only one or two members of the President's staff were in the office, stagehands could remove the others.

To give people an opportunity to buy popcorn and soft drinks, there would be an 18 1/2 minute intermission during the show.

For the first time, a Presidential Library would provide American citizens with the human side of a man who held the highest office in the land. His spirit and those around him would come alive for tourists, who could actually hear their voices discussing the tribulations and heartaches of an administration beleaguered by enemies from every walk of life.

Duke University has an opportunity to do the real Richard Nixon justice, and I hope they don't blow it by just showing him being pelted with tomatoes in Venezuela.

Other Editors Say The Real Source

(Winston-Salem Sentinel)

Innovation means new ways of doing things. Innovation applies technology which increases productivity. Industry profits when productivity rises.

Innovation is preceded by education, the source of the human skills which invent and operate the machines of industrial production. Without trained workers no company profits very much from technology.

Gov. James B. Hunt Jr. made the point recently to a Raleigh conference of business leaders. He told them that gaps in education are the real obstacles to overcome for technological progress and sound economic growth.

"If we don't teach our young children to read and write and do math, if we don't train teenagers and young adults on good equipment and if we don't give them good instructors and career guidance, all the technology and fancy machines in the world won't help your companies", he said.

Hunt offered a deal to the businessmen. He asked industries to donate or lend equipment to community colleges for use in training students. As a second step, he suggested that industries help set up a program under which executives or technicians could serve as instructors. President Larry Blake of the community college system will be flexible as possible in making arrangements, Hunt said.

Students would get the opportunity for improved instruction, on the kind of equipment they would use on the job. Industry would be assured a better supply of skilled workers. In short, it looks like a good deal all the way around, and one to which a number of industries should respond favorably.

Strength For Today

"FUNDAMENTAL" For several decades there has been a great furor in Protestant churches over "Fundamentalism" as against "Liberalism" or "Modernism" This is no place to continue the argument, if only because there is much that can be said on both sides.

One point might be emphasized, however: there are fundamentals in all fields. The force of gravity, for example, operates on all objects on the face of our planet. What chaos there would be if gravity worked in one part of the world and not in another. It is equally fundamental that we must all breathe, eat, and sleep in order to stay alive.

Just as there are fundamental laws in the physical universe, so there are fundamental moral principles which we believe operate everywhere. As we must learn the basic physical laws in order to live physically, so must we master the spiritual fundamentals in order to live satisfactorily as intelligent personalities, children of God. — Elisha Douglass

Cashing In On A Fix-It Trend

By LOUISE COOK

Associated Press Writer A growing number of Americans are trying to save time and money by doing their own repairs around the house, and a major appliance manufacturer hopes to cash in on the trend.

The company, General Electric, has decided to sell repair manuals and 94 common replacement parts along with its products, providing detailed advice on how to fix problems with five major appliances.

The appliance industry in general offers help for people who want repair service and can't get it. Several years ago, the industry established the Major Appliance Consumer Action Panel to resolve disputes. For information, write: MACAP, 20 N. Wacker Drive, Chicago, Ill., 60606.

Bruce R. Albertson, the man in charge of the program for GE, said the introduction of the repair plan is not a sign of deteriorating product quality. Nor, he said, does it mean that you can't get service if you want it.

Albertson said the company simply recognizes that appliances, like any other mechanical item, are subject to trouble, sooner or later. "A refrigerator operates 24 hours a day for 15 years or better," he said. "No matter how good it is, it's going to break down."

At the same time, he said, the company has found that an estimated 40 percent of all appliance repairs are being done by owners and those people need help. Albertson said GE is not trying to encourage consumers to make their own repairs; it is, however, trying to persuade dedicated do-it-yourselfers to buy GE products rather than another brand.

Studies have shown that the public is dissatisfied not only with product quality, but also with the type of service provided.

R.H. Bruskin Associates, a market research firm in New Brunswick, N.J., sampled 2,504 men and women in January and asked them whether they thought specific products were better or worse than they were five or 10 years ago. Only 17 percent of those questioned believed that today's new appliances are better than they were in the past, while 46 percent said they were not as good. Thirty-five percent of the survey participants said the quality of new appliances was unchanged and 2 percent had no answer.

In the area of repairs, only 12 percent said appliance servicing today was better than it used to be, while 39 percent said it was worse. Forty-six percent said it was unchanged and 3 percent had no opinion.

Albertson said there are several reasons for the increased number of do-it-yourself repairs. The first, he said, is money. The cost of repairs is going up and the trend is not likely to change. Another reason is quality — "people ... believe that the only way to get it done right is to do it yourself."

Other factors, Albertson said, are the sense of accomplishment and the convenience of not having to stay home to wait for a repairman.

The GE program — dubbed the "Quick Fix System" — covers washers, dryers, refrigerators, dishwashers and ranges. It does not apply to televisions, air conditioners or microwave ovens, where, said Albertson, "there's a safety factor."

Manuals and the replacement parts will be sold by dealers. Each manual costs $6.95 and runs about 100 pages. It includes photographs, diagrams and explanations of how to find the model number of your appliance. It also has a listing of common problems, potential causes and possible repairs, along with the difficulty factor.

The refrigerator manual, for example, lists 36 possible problems. No. 5, "Refrigerator too cold," has two possible causes — the control is set too high or the control is defective. If you decide the control is defective, you are directed to page 53 and repair procedure 16. The repair is rated as "difficult."

Fishery Management Plan Impact On N.C. Cited

By GEORGE THREWEITTS
ECU News Bureau

Scallop fishing, a major seafood industry worth millions of dollars to the coastal economy of North Carolina, could be severely hampered if certain fishing management measures favored by New England and mid-Atlantic fishermen are adopted, says an East Carolina University marine sociologist.

The measures are contained in a fishery management plan, proposed by the New England Fishery Management Council in 1978 and endorsed last August by the mid-Atlantic Council and would restrict the size and weight of sea scallops taken by commercial and recreational fishermen. If approved by the Secretary of the Department of Commerce, the measures will take effect next year.

Proponents of the measure say the plan will help replenish the dwindling supply of sea scallops, but North Carolina fishermen felt the New Englanders want to exclude them from scallop waters.

"North Carolinians argue that this is a result of pressure from the New Bedford fishermen who want North Carolina boats out of their region," says Dr. John R. Maiolo, chairman of the ECU Department of Sociology and Anthropology and a technical representative for the South Atlantic Fishery Management Council.

Complying with the regulations would present problems for the mostly "shellstocking" vessels that comprise the N.C. fleet. These boats, unlike large dredging vessels that shuck and process the scallops at sea, return to port where the shellfish are handled by shoreside laborers.

Shellstockers are limited in the time they can remain at sea because unshucked scallops spoil after a few days. The fishermen complain that culling smaller shells from their catch would require extra time and would thereby reduce their profits, says Maiolo.

In addition, Maiolo says the plan would force many of the state's sea scallop fishermen out of business and would virtually eliminate a shoreside industry that pays part-time scallop shuckers as much as a quarter of a million dollars in annual wages.

Details of the problems and concerns of N.C. scallop fishermen are reported in Maiolo's "Implications of Proposed Management Measures on North Carolina's Sea Scallop Fishermen and Processors." The study, based on the author's interviews with fishermen, dealers and with processing plant laborers, was funded by the UNC Sea Grant Program.

The project originated from a contract between ECU and the South Atlantic Fishery Management Council to assess the socio-economic impacts of New England's proposed management council on the fishermen and dealers in North Carolina.

"North Carolina is the only state in the South Atlantic which has had citizens involved in the mid-Atlantic and northeast sea scallop fishery," says Maiolo.

North Carolina fishermen, described by Maiolo as "opportunistic," first entered the sea scallop fishery in the mid-Atlantic as early as 1965 when three boats landed some 91,700 pounds of meat taken off the coast of New Jersey. The fishermen lost interest in the sea scallop for the next 10 years due to the abundance of shrimp and calico scallops in the South Atlantic.

In 1975, fishermen from North Carolina sailed back to the mid-Atlantic and New England to catch sea scallops. In 1978, nearly two million pounds of sea scallops were landed by the N.C. based vessels and were processed in the state. The total value of the catch was almost $7 million.

Part-time scallop shuckers employed at processing plants in the state in 1978 received annual wages totalling over $276,000. More than 600 shuckers, mostly women, were employed.

By 1971, the harvest of sea scallops had declined to such an extent that many North Carolina commercial fishermen shifted their interest to the harvest of calico scallops in Florida and shrimp in the Gulf, where bumper harvests are occurring, says Dr. Maiolo.

He says North Carolina's interest in Florida waters could result in Florida fishermen demanding a fishery management plan for calico scallops similar to the sea scallop plan supported by the New Bedford fishermen.

The adoption of a fishery management plan is mandated under the Fishery Conservation and Management Act of 1976 which designated eight Regional Fishery Management Councils. If a given species is harvested in more than one region, two or more councils can jointly develop a plan.

Maiolo says North Carolina fishermen and processors contend it would be unprofitable for them to stay in the sea scalloping business if the regulations are adopted.

"They see that as the stocks recover, renewed efforts will be in the form of larger boats with dredges, thereby producing larger economic benefits for fewer people," he says.

In recent deliberations, the South Atlantic Council has not been supportive of the measures proposed by the New England Council. Before the three councils act on the matter, more deliberations are likely to occur and "it shouldn't be an exaggeration to suggest that they will be heated," says Maiolo.

Marijuana On Seized Yacht

PORTSMOUTH, Va. (AP) — A Coast Guard spokesman says "the location of and type of vessel made authorities suspicious" and led to the seizure of a yacht carrying an estimated 10 tons of marijuana with a potential street value of $12.8 million.

An arraignment was scheduled today in U.S. District Court for three men found aboard the 61-foot yacht Fisherman's Paradise Too when it was seized Sunday on the Chesapeake Bay.

Held Sunday night in the Virginia Beach City Jail on federal drug smuggling charges were Robert Bryant, 48, of Glen Burnie, Md.; Romano Aice, 30, a Cuban national from Leisure City, Fla.; and Paul Nolman, 24, of Sneeds Ferry, N.C.

Chief H.L. Ceney of the Coast Guard's Operations Center said the yacht, whose home port is Lewes, Del., was stopped and boarded at about 9:45 a.m., shortly after it entered the bay Sunday morning.

The 82-foot Coast Guard Cutter Point Huron stopped the yacht just east of the mouth of the Rappahannock River, Ceney said.

The yacht and its crew were turned over Sunday afternoon to agents of the federal Drug Enforcement Administration after it had been escorted to the Coast Guard Support Center at Craney Island.

Authorities said the marijuana, packed in about 500 40-to-60 pound bales, probably would be removed some time today. Authorities normally save a small part of such marijuana seizures to use as evidence and destroy the rest as soon as possible.

Ceney said authorities first began their surveillance of the yacht after monitoring radio transmissions from the vessel.

There was no indication Sunday where the marijuana came from. The Coast Guard said the amount of pot confiscated was medium-sized by comparison with other seizures.

The current street value of marijuana is about $40 an ounce, local police said.

Joining in the investigation which resulted in the seizure were the DEA, the Coast Guard, Virginia State Police and U.S. Customs.

LUNCHES AVAILABLE

Free and reduced prices lunches will be made available to enrolled children meeting the approved eligibility criteria by United Cerebral Palsy of N.C., Inc. at the UCP Developmental Center of Greenville, 1111 Greenville Blvd. No regard will be given to race, color or national origin.

Three Arrests Made By Police

Greenville Police arrested three persons on charges of possession of marijuana in separate incidents here Saturday night and Sunday morning.

Chief Glenn Cannon said Charles Ray Dixon, 26, of Bethel, was charged with possession of marijuana. The incident occurred at the intersection of Dickinson Avenue and Clark Street, about 10:15 p.m. Saturday.

About 11:45 p.m., police arrested Roy Kenneth Newcome, 22 of Kinston after allegedly finding a quantity of marijuana in his possession in a parking lot at the intersection of Third and Cotanche Streets.

Cannon said James Earl King, 20 of Route 2, Greenville, was charged after officers allegedly found a quantity of marijuana in his possession in a parking lot at the intersection of Fourth and Cotanche Streets about 12:15 a.m. Sunday.

MX Hearings Launched Today

By W. DALE NELSON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Facing stiff questioning in Congress, the Reagan administration says its plan to deploy MX missiles in stronger silos and build a new bomber is essential to counter a "considerable danger" of nuclear attack in the next few years.

The Senate Armed Services Committee was opening hearings today on President Reagan's proposal to deploy 100 MX missiles, reinforce vacant Titan silos for at least 36 of them and build 100 B-1 bombers while working on a plane with "Stealth" equipment to foil Soviet radar.

Sen. John Warner, R-Va., chairman of the subcommittee on nuclear forces and a former Navy secretary, said he would press Defense Secretary Caspar W. Weinberger to justify the use of fixed silos and explain "whether we can afford two new bomber programs at the same time."

In interviews Sunday, Weinberger called the plan a "vast strengthening" of U.S. military might, while his predecessor at the Pentagon, Harold Brown, dismissed it as "better than nothing."

"Because of the failure to keep strategic forces modernized and because of the length of time it takes to bring new systems on, there will be a period in the middle of this decade when we will be vulnerable and will have a period of considerable danger," Weinberger said on CBS' "Face the Nation."

"That is why it is absolutely essential to start now with the modernization and strengthening of these strategic forces," he said.

Brown, interviewed on the ABC program "Issues and Answers," said, "It's better than nothing. . . . It will produce a greater symmetry between the United States and the Soviets. That doesn't make me very comfortable. I don't worry about a U.S. first strike, because it isn't going to happen. I do worry about a Soviet first strike."

Former President Carter had scrapped plans for the B-1 and advocated shuttling 200 MX missiles among 2,400 shelters in the West to conceal their whereabouts, a "shell-game" system intended to force the Soviets to saturate the area with 4,000 nuclear warheads to wipe out all the MXs.

Sen. John Tower, chairman of the Armed Services Committee, appearing on the NBC program "Meet the Press," derided Reagan's MX plan Sunday as "silo stuffing." The Texas Republican said it faces an "uncertain" fate in Congress.

Weinberger said the Reagan plan "isn't a weakening, it's a vast strengthening."

He said the Titan silos would be reinforced to withstand up to 5,000 pounds per square inch of blast pressure, almost 10 times what Carter proposed for new shelters in Nevada and Utah.

Brown argued that the Soviets will have nuclear warheads by 1984 or 1985 accurate enough to blast a cavity all around the site and added: "You can't harden a shelter enough so that it will survive being in the crater from a nuclear explosion."

Weinberger conceded there is no way to permanently guarantee that missiles in a known silo could be protected from Soviet nuclear attack but said, "We are proposing to make them invulnerable for a number of years."

"Some say that is just a stop-gap," the defense secretary said. "All right, but it's an awfully big gap and it's very vital to stop it."

The debate over strategic weapons begins as the battle builds over Reagan's proposed sale of AWACS radar planes to Saudi Arabia. Both the Senate Foreign Relations and House Foreign Affairs committees are likely to vote against the deal this week.

Ten of the Senate committee's 17 members and 24 of the House committee's 37 members co-sponsor veto resolutions against the sale. The House is likely to veto the sale Oct. 13, but the Senate's vote is still too close to call.

Reagan needs approval of only one chamber for the $8.5 billion sale of sophisticated radar planes and other arms.

In other congressional business this week:

—A confrontation is set Tuesday on the administration's drive for deeper budget cuts as the House takes up the appropriations bill for the Health and Human Services and Labor departments.

House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., D-Mass., says the bill is $73 million over the administration's budget. The White House says it is $800 million too much if the latest budget-slashing proposals are counted.

—The major civil rights debate of the 97th Congress continues in the House, with the first votes expected by Tuesday on a bill to extend key provisions of the 1965 Voting Rights Act for two years.

Scholarships Harvard Faculty Guidelines Okayed

RALEIGH — From now until Nov. 30, the Professional Engineers of North Carolina will accept applications from North Carolina high school seniors for engineering scholarships for 1982.

The scholarships will be awarded by the National Society of Professional Engineers Education Foundation under a national program that began in 1960. Projected assistance committed to engineering students in the program is $895,000 through the academic year 1985-86. The Education Foundation will award scholarships and grants worth more than $354,000 in 1982. Scholarships and grants range from $1,000 for one year to four-year tuition scholarships in excess of $20,000.

In addition, PENC offers grants to students entering Duke University, N.C. State University, A&T State University, or UNC-Charlotte.

In 1982 four industrial firms and 32 universities are participating in the NSPE program. Additionally, NSPOE offers seven separate grants in each of the society's six geographic regions, two memorial grants, one for a student in construction engineering, and six minority grants. Students are judged on national standard test scores, essays, transcripts, and extracurricular activities.

Applications for North Carolina high school seniors must be submitted to one of the nine chapters of the CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Harvard professors holding management positions in off-campus firms or using confidential information from university research for profit would be a conflict of interest under proposed faculty guidelines.

The school has proposed creation of a new committee to investigate faculty members' off-campus work and to determine if it conforms to the guidelines, according to the campus newspaper, The Harvard Crimson.

The Faculty Council approved the idea of a committee last week, and the proposal will go before the 750-member arts and sciences faculty by November for debate and vote.

The rules would replace 15-year-old guidelines which already prohibit financial conflicts of interest.

The issue of outside interests arose last year when Harvard decided against becoming a partner in a private genetic research laboratory.

Among the activities considered "unacceptable" in the four-page proposal are:

- Any outside management position.

Professional Engineers of North Carolina. For more information contact local high school counselor Steve Porter, P.O. Box 93, Greenville, N.C. 27834 (752-1137); or PENC, 4000 Wake Forest Road, Suite 116, Raleigh, N.C. 27609, (872-0683).

— The use for personal profit of unpublished information from university research or confidential sources or giving the information exclusively to any outside organization.

— Doing outside research considered detrimental to Harvard.

Paul C. Martin, dean of the division of applied science and a member of the guidelines committee, said he believed the measure will receive faculty approval and that "most of the faculty will bend over backward to be responsible."

Sponsor Meet On Exceptional Child

The Greenville-Pitt County Unit of the North Carolina Retired School Personnel will meet next at the Holiday Inn, Memorial Drive, Greenville Wednesday, Nov. 18. The date of the meeting was incorrectly reported in a recent issue of this newspaper.

Members are invited to attend a reception at East Carolina University's Mendenhall Center Wednesday, Oct. 14, at 7 p.m. A travel film, "The French Riviera," will follow the reception.

Clinical Evaluation Talk Set

ECU News Bureau
Dr. Carrie B. Lenburg, a nationally known expert in clinical evaluation in nursing will conduct a workshop at East Carolina University Oct. 9.

The workshop, scheduled for 8:30 a.m. until 4:30 p.m. at the Regional Development Institute, is open to all persons, health professionals and others.

Dr. Lenburg is coordinator of the New York Regents External Degree Programs in Nursing, State University of New York-Albany. She was previously assistant director of the National League for Nursing's Division of Research.

The author of more than 30 books and articles on nursing topics, Dr. Lenburg is a prominent authority in the field of clinical evaluation in nursing.

Her workshop at ECU is sponsored by the ECU School of Nursing's Professional Development Committee.

Dr. Mohammed Ahad, chairman of the committee, commented that clinical evaluation is "an important curricular area" which ECU and other nursing schools are interested in improving.

Dr. Lenburg is a Fellow of the American Academy of Nursing and a member of several professional organizations. Her career has included positions as staff nurse, supervisor, and nurse educator in Virginia, Ohio, Connecticut, Indiana and New York.

Commerce Secretary Is Hitting Sensitive Note

By SALLY JACOBSEN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Commerce Secretary Malcolm Baldrige seems to be striking a sensitive chord in Americans with his drive to rid government of verbosity and bureaucratic jargon.

A Californian is willing to change party affiliation to support him if he runs for president. A public relations man is offering his assistance in the fight. And several business executives want him to try their training programs on clear writing.

Baldrige told his employees last March that he wanted lean sentences, active verbs and no unnecessary adjectives or adverbs in department memos and letters.

Some word processors in the Commerce Department were programmed to flash "Don't Use This Word" when one of 43 forbidden words or phrases appeared on the TV-like screens.

Among the forbidden words and phrases were: interface, bottom line, great majority, input, I would hope, at the present time, enclosed herewith, finalize, viable, maximize, serious crisis, prioritize and to impact.

"Your word processor has to be the best thing that has happened in government offices, ever," said a Port Republic, N.J., writer.

"Right On, Malcolm!" said a La Canada, Calif., writer.

"Hallelujah, Brother! . . . You caused ecstasy in my soul," wrote a psychic counselor from Jacksonville, Fla.

Some offered sympathy: "I imagine it's an extremely difficult message to sell in such an historically overblown environment as Washington," wrote a New Yorker.

"Needless to say, it won't work. We both know that. What a grand thing to do anyway," said a sociology professor from Hartford, Conn.

Others wanted more words and phrases on the list.

Among the suggestions: mandate, turn the country around, irregardless, new beginning, in terms of, vis-a-vis, per our conversation, per your request, pre-plan, in terms of, like I say, and the writer feels.

Other suggestions: escalate, scenario, capability, system approach, disincentive, disaggregate, time frame and configuration.

A Mount Rainier, Md., woman complained about euphemisms for poor nations. People use words like developing, emerging, native, underdeveloped and Third World, she said, "when they really mean to say 'poor.'"

A Virginia man suggested ending the practice of addressing letters to strangers with the word "dear."

Administration Asks Fed To Ease Up On Money

By ROBERT FURLOW
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration, concerned that the nation's money and credit supply may be pinched too tightly with a recession looming, wants the Federal Reserve Board to loosen its grip a bit to get the economy moving again.

Treasury Department spokesman Martin Fitzwater said Sunday that the administration is not calling for an "easy-money policy" or asking that the Fed change its policy.

Rather, he said, the board should not clamp down any harder than it had said it would.

National industrial production is stagnant and housing and other credit-sensitive industries — including thousands of auto dealers and other small businessmen — are mired in some of their worst times ever. Economists in and out of government blame the hard times on high interest rates resulting from a scarcity of money to fill credit demands.

"We are coming to a time here when a change has to be made," Treasury Secretary Donald T. Regan said in an interview published Sunday in The Washington Post.

Regan said the Fed in the past has "held on too tightly to the monetary reins," exacerbating recessionary periods.

"What we are trying to do this time, and I know the Fed is as sensitive to this as I am, is to anticipate that and not stay in a low-supply mode any longer than is necessary in the downturn," he said.

"I'm not going to try to tell the Fed ... exactly what mechanisms to use in order to do this," he added. But he said the result "would be a sufficiency of money to enable the economy to recover nicely from its current flat period."

Fitzwater said Regan's comments suggested only that "the Fed stick to its policy of steady monetary growth. ... We are not calling for an easy-money policy, simply that the Fed should stay within the target range of monetary policy that it has chosen."

The money supply actually has been growing more slowly than the Fed intended.

The Federal Reserve has been trying to manipulate the money supply so that the measure known as M-1B — cash and most checking accounts — grows at an annual rate of 3.5 percent to 6 percent this year.

During the first six months of the year, however, it grew at an annual rate of only 2.2 percent. It fell by $1.3 billion last week.

At the same time, the broader measure known as M-2 — including all of M-1B plus such categories as money market mutual funds which can sometimes be used as checking accounts — has grown even faster than its 6 percent to 9 percent target.

Asked about the administration's position, Joe Coyne, a spokesman for the board, said Saturday: "We would have no response."

Until now, the administration has supported the Fed's tight-money policies, although President Reagan said in August that high interest rates and accompanying increases in the cost of government borrowing for the national debt were hampering his efforts to balance the federal budget.

Federal Reserve Chairman Paul Volcker has said it's up to Congress and the administration — not the Fed — to bring interest rates down by cutting federal spending.

Less than a year ago, another president was taking the Fed to task for being too tough. That was Jimmy Carter, who in the spring of 1980 ordered credit controls even beyond the Fed's own efforts at money-growth restriction to fight inflation.

The result was sudden and severe recession. The controls were lifted, the Fed eased up and economic recovery started to boom. But inflation was re-ignited.

When the Fed clamped down again in the fall, Carter said its "strictly monetarist approach ... is ill-advised. ... I think the Fed ought to look at the adverse consequences of increased interest rates on the general economy as a major factor in making their own judgment."

By The Associated Press
Cloudiness will increase from west to east across North Carolina tonight and Tuesday, the National Weather Service reports.

There will be a chance of showers tonight in the mountains.

Highs today will be in the 70s to low 80s. Tuesday highs will range from the 60s in the northern mountains to the 80s in the southeast.

The large area of high pressure that gave North Carolina cool weather for the past couple of days was centered offshore before daybreak.

This has continued the fair weather statewide and has also caused a more southwesterly wind flow. As a result, temperatures this morning were not quite as chilly as Sunday's. Skies across the state early this morning were generally clear over southern sections and partly cloudy in the north and west. The partly cloudy conditions were the result of high level moisture streaming eastward from a developing low pressure system over the southwest-ern plains. There will be plenty of sunshine today, especially in the east.

But as the high moves further out to sea and the low pressure system moves toward the state Tuesday, cloudiness will increase over the state and there will be a greater chance of showers in the mountains.

Pre-dawn temperatures were in the 40s and 50s in most areas today. The southwest wind flow now becoming established over the southeastern states means that a slow moderation in temperatures will continue into tomorrow.

northern regions. Rain is expected for the Pacific Northwest and showers from the upper Mississippi to the Great Lakes. (AP Laserphoto Map)

Fundamentalist Watch Goes On

By MARJORIE ANDERS
Associated Press Writer
TUPELO, Miss. (AP) — Although it has called off a threatened boycott of advertisers who sponsor television shows featuring excessive sex and violence, a fundamentalist TV watchdog group says it is still keeping an eye on the new fall programs.

The Rev. Donald Wildmon, chairman of the Coalition for Better Television, said Sunday the proposed boycott has been delayed until at least January, but he refused to say why.

A previously threatened boycott was canceled in June after he met with program and advertising executives.

Despite his belief that programming is not getting any better, and despite support among the coalition's 400 or so member organizations, "we have put it on hold and really won't have anything else to say until January or February," he said.

"We are in another monitoring process," the Tupelo minister added. "We had committed ourselves to look at the programs this fall."

Each night, 150 volunteers across the country will monitor prime time programming, 50 to a network.

Wildmon said the 50 are divided into three specialties: one subgroup monitors only sexual content, another violence content, and another profanity and beverage consumption in the program and sex-oriented commercials.

All monitors have watched a video tape training film, and have been provided with forms to fill out for each show, he said. The forms are mailed to Tupelo, where the information is entered into a computer.

The sex watchers look for "implied intercourse, sexually suggestive comments and what we call skin scenes, what the networks sometimes call jiggle," Wildmon said.

"The only kind of violence we are looking for is the kind that does bodily harm as opposed to a pie in the face," he added.

Additionally, each show receives an overall rating of its "inherent worth" on a 1-10 scale Wildmon calls a "constructive rating."

Monitors also note the sponsors for each show. The advertisers are given a code number that enables the coalition to develop a computer profile on the company.

"We can keep up with an advertiser," Wildmon said. "Every advertiser is like an individual. They have personalities."

He said the boycott delay was not due to a lack of enthusiasm among coalition members, adding: "Our people are ready to go to war."

The broiler weighed average price for this week is 41.79 for small purchases of plant grade broilers picked up at processing plants. Estimated slaughter today 1,820,000.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market advanced broadly today, continuing last week's rally amid hopes for a further decline in interest rates.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, up 36.72 points last week, rose 3.71 to 864.44 by noon today.

Gainers led losers by more than a 3-1 margin in the mid-day tally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Several large banks today lowered their prime lending rates from 19 1/2 to 19 percent, matching a reduction posted a week ago by Chicago's Continental Illinois bank.

Late Friday, the Federal Reserve reported a $1.9 billion decline in the basic measure of the money supply.

That development helped stir up speculation that the Fed might be willing to relax its credit policy somewhat, particularly since signs are accumulating that the economy has slowed.

Treasury Secretary Donald Regan, in a weekend interview, was quoted as urging the Fed to make a "subtle" adjustment toward easier credit.

Polaroid, which said its third quarter earnings were down sharply, fell 1 1/2 to 22 1/2 in active trading.

The NYSE's composite index rose .49 to 69.35. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up 3.50 at 311.17.

Handicapped Week Observed

The local Job Service (Employment Security Commission) will be actively participating in National Employ the Handicapped Week, which began Sunday and will continue through Saturday, October 10.

Jim Hannan, Job Service Manager, said this year's theme for the week is "Community Challenge," and it relates closely to the goals of 1981 as the International Year of Disabled Persons.

David Settle, Greenville's Job Service specialist for the handicapped, says the U.S. Department of Labor sponsors this annual observance to emphasize a continuing dedication to the employment of the handicapped. In its 37th year, National Employ the Handicapped Week recognizes the value of a national resource — the handicapped worker.

Statistics from the state's Employment Security Commission show that about 8 percent of registered applicants are handicapped. In the first 11 months of fiscal year 1981, which ended August 31, state Job Service offices placed 7,092 handicapped individuals in jobs.

"We believe that no worker is handicapped if he is placed in the proper job," Hannan says. "Employment is not based on charity or sympathy, but is the result of good business judgment."

Each Job Service office in North Carolina has at least one individual qualified to provide services such as job search assistance, counseling, and training referral to the handicapped.

Local area handicapped persons wanting Job Service assistance or employers interested in hiring the handicapped should contact the Job Service office at 3101 Bismarck Street.

Attack Occurs

A woman was reportedly raped Saturday morning about 7 o'clock after having been forced back into her car she had just parked in an employee parking lot at Pitt County Memorial Hospital.

Pitt County Sheriff Ralph Tyson said the sheriff department was summoned at 7:14 a.m. to come to the aid of a woman who'd been left at a tobacco barn west of Red Oak off Highway 264 by a man who she said raped her, took $28 from her purse and left her without her car.

The victim told sheriff's officers that, as she was getting out of her car in a parking lot adjacent to the emergency entrance of the hospital, a man carrying a crowbar approached her and forced her into the passenger seat of the car. He then drove her car to the site near Red Oak where he raped her and left her after having taken money from her purse. She walked to a nearby house and the sheriff's office was called. The car was later found at the hospital.

The sheriff said investigation is continuing. He said the alleged assailant was described as a black man about 35 years of age over six feet tall.

Nervous In House Race

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — It's not unusual for a seasoned politician like a Senate majority leader to get shaky about elections, but Howard Baker says he gets nervous when people talk about one particular congressional race.

Baker says he gets "butterflies" just thinking about his daughter, Cissy, running for election to the House of Representatives.

Miss Baker, 26, quit her job this summer as a reporter for Cable News Network in Washington, D.C., and filed qualifying papers with the Federal Election Commission to run for the GOP nomination from Tennessee's 4th Congressional District.

"I asked her recently what I could do, and she said, 'For openers, you can stay out of my district.'" The Tennessee Republican said Saturday to a group of conventioners.

Baker said he would help "if she'll let me. But I don't think she'll let me."

 The price of the sweet potatoes being sold by the Falkland Presbyterian Church Young Adult Sunday School Class was incorrectly given in an article published recently. The correct price is $8 a bushel for selects, $8.50 with the basket.

Anyone wishing to purchase potatoes may call Gall Clark at 756-5826 or Lillian Norville, 758-3664.

MARIJUANA Arrest Made
 A Rt. 1, Greenville man was arrested early Sunday by Pitt County deputies on a marijuana possession count.

Sheriff Ralph Tyson said Charles Edward Flanagan was charged with possession of marijuana with intent to sell following a raid at Flanagan's residence.

Deputies confiscated approximately 2.5 pounds of marijuana, he said. Bond for Flanagan was set at $1,000 with a first appearance hearing scheduled for today in District Court here.

 Town and Country Senior Citizens Club held its meeting Thursday at St. Paul Episcopal Church Fellowship Hall.

The birthday luncheon will be held Oct. 15 at 11 a.m. Reservations must be made by Oct. 9 by calling 752-4822, Ruby Parkerson.

Seats are available for the bus trip to Busch Gardens on Oct. 10. Members and friends wanting to go should call 752-2912. The bus will leave St. Paul's Episcopal Church parking lot at 6 a.m.

Volunteers are needed at Wahl Coates School. Members are asked to help in these projects and can call Mrs. F. Anderson, 752-7494; Mrs. E. Warren, Third Street School, and Mrs. F. Adams, 756-3568.

All members and friends with reservations for the trip to the World's Fair must make a $50 deposit to confirm the reservation. Call Sarah Ashton, 752-2912 for more information.

Mrs. Pat Byrd and Goones Weeks gave a program on the public health department and its services to the citizens of Pitt County.

Initiation Is Held By Chapter

The Beta Alpha Chapter of the Delta Kappa Gamma Society International conducted a service for five initiates at the Rotary Building on Oct. 1.

They were: Jean Averette, media/exceptional children supervisor; Joanne Bath, violin teacher; Emily Boyce, acting chairperson of library science, ECU; Andrea Norris, social studies teacher at Greene Central; and Terry Shank, director of cooperative education at Pitt Community College.

The program focus for this year is "Laying the Cornerstone, Researching the Future for Women."

Katherine Collins, state president of Delta Kappa Gamma, spoke on the topic of "Building on the Superstructure," developing the ideas of the educational system in the United States and the role of Delta Kappa Gamma Society International in education.

"The first common school law of North Carolina was enacted in 1839," she told the group. "This was the legal beginning of our system of public schools."

"Build on the superstructure that we have in Delta Kappa Gamma," Collins continued.

A memorial service was observed for two Delta Kappa Gamma members, Lois Grisby and Eunice McGehee. Louise Walker and Ola Perry conducted the services. A white rose was placed among the red roses in their honor. Anne Keel concluded the service with the song, "Whispering Hope."

Annette Jenkins presented the president's key to Anne Briley, president of the Beta Alpha chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma.

Program Set At Local School
 The Greenville City school system and the exceptional children's committee will sponsor a program, "Community Planning for Exceptional Children" Tuesday at 8 p.m. at Greenville Middle School, Arlington Boulevard.

David Mills of the N.C. Department of Public Instruction will be the guest speaker.

Marijuana Arrest Made
 A Rt. 1, Greenville man was arrested early Sunday by Pitt County deputies on a marijuana possession count.

Sheriff Ralph Tyson said Charles Edward Flanagan was charged with possession of marijuana with intent to sell following a raid at Flanagan's residence.

Deputies confiscated approximately 2.5 pounds of marijuana, he said. Bond for Flanagan was set at $1,000 with a first appearance hearing scheduled for today in District Court here.

UNICEF Cards Being Sold
 UNICEF cards featuring art from countries throughout the world are available at A-1 Imports store, Greenville Square Shopping Center here.

Proceeds from the sale are used to help desperately needy children throughout the world have the basics they need. For example, four boxes of cards can provide enough baby fish to stock a village pond for a potential protein supply for its residents.

SWEET POTATO PRICE
 The price of the sweet potatoes being sold by the Falkland Presbyterian Church Young Adult Sunday School Class was incorrectly given in an article published recently. The correct price is $8 a bushel for selects, $8.50 with the basket.

Anyone wishing to purchase potatoes may call Gall Clark at 756-5826 or Lillian Norville, 758-3664.

BB&T proudly presents its All Savers Certificate. Maybe it's not right for you.

BB&T's All Savers certificate has just about everything going for it.

The minimum deposit is only $500 and the term is just one year. The interest rate, as you can see, is nothing to sneeze at. And, best of all, you get $1000 in interest free of federal tax if you file an individual return and $2000 if you file a joint return.

What's more, under certain conditions, you can even convert your money market certificates to All Savers certificates without paying any early withdrawal penalties.

So you should just run out and buy a certificate today, right? Well, maybe. You see, it all depends on your tax bracket. Some people will have trouble beating this rate of return. Some people will do better with a different kind of certificate that pays a higher rate, even if the interest is taxed. And some people who can't tie up their money for even one year will do better with a different kind of savings plan altogether.

That's where we come in. We can help you figure out which type of certificate is best for you. We'll take the time to sit down with you and figure it out.

So come in to your nearest BB&T office. We think you'll find our new certificate fantastic. But even if you don't, we'll find something else for you that is.

12.14%

This is what you'll earn all year with our All Savers certificate. But hurry, the rate will change on November 2. The yield of 12.14% is based on an annual rate of 11.513% compounded monthly with interest left on deposit until maturity.

Nobody works harder for your money.
BB&T
 You will lose tax benefits if you withdraw your money early or use your certificate as security for a loan. If a depositor elects to withdraw interest on a periodic basis prior to maturity, the effective yield to the depositor of the All Savers certificate will be lowered. There is a substantial interest penalty required for early withdrawal.

Bryant May Be Out For Year

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — A knee injury will probably keep North Carolina tailback Kelvin Bryant off the field for the season, a team physician says.

"I don't want to rule out the possibility of him playing again this season," said Dr. Timothy Taft. "However, at this time, I think the chances of him returning this year are unlikely."

Bryant, a 6-foot-2, 195-pound junior and the nation's leading scorer, injured his left knee in the first quarter of the sixth-ranked Tar Heels' 28-7 win over Georgia Tech Saturday. Surgery at the North Carolina Memorial Hospital Sunday morning indicated that the injury was more serious than originally thought, Taft said.

"Kelvin had a torn medial meniscus (a cartilage) in his left knee," Taft said. "We removed the fragments of the cartilage through the arthroscope."

Bryant also sprained two ligaments, Taft said. His injury will be reviewed in two weeks, he added.

Bryant had scored 15 touchdowns in the three games going into the Tech game. The nation's third leading rusher with 520 yards, he had 46 yards on five carries against the Yellow Jackets before the injury.

"Certainly we're going to miss a player of Kelvin Bryant's caliber," North Carolina coach Dick Crum said. "However, we've got some good young players in Tyrone Anthony and Bobby Ratliff. I believe they will step in and do a very credible job for us."

Baseball Playoffs Start Tomorrow

By The Associated Press

Forget about the records, the split season, the strike and the fact that two of baseball's best teams won't even be there. It's time for the game to get interesting again — the playoffs are here.

The best-of-five divisional playoffs open Tuesday in the home city of the second-half winners. The Kansas City Royals host the Oakland A's in the American League West, while the Houston Astros entertain the Los Angeles Dodgers in the National League West.

The series in the East start Wednesday with the Philadelphia Phillies traveling to Montreal to play the Expos and the New York Yankees meeting the Brewers at Milwaukee.

The final three games of each series will be played in the cities of the first-half division winners with the possible exception of the Oakland-Kansas City series.

The Royals finished the second season just a half-game ahead of Oakland and the A's could repeat as division winners today if Kansas City drops a doubleheader to the Indians in Cleveland. Oakland would then host games two through five.

But that possibility isn't making Oakland Manager Billy Martin any happier.

"The pennant should have been ours five days ago and we should have won it. We should have had a bye, no question about it," Martin said.

"They're not even a .500 club. It's a break for them. I think it's a black eye for baseball."

The Royals, who finished the season with an overall record of 49-53, will start right-hander Dennis Leonard, 13-11, against the A's Mike Norris, 12-9.

The best opening game pitching matchup will probably be in Houston, where the Dodgers will send out rookie sensation Fernando Valenzuela, 13-7, against Nolan Ryan, 11-5, who no-hit the Dodgers nine days ago.

"I'm glad to see us open at home," Ryan said. "I look at it as a plus. I feel we're capable of winning at home."

Valenzuela, the portly Mexican left-hander who dropped his last three decisions, said he wasn't nervous about the game.

"I'm going into the game with a lot of confidence. I'm well rested. I feel I'm still on top of my game."

The Astros suffered a serious loss Friday night when pitcher Don Sutton broke his kneecap in a freak accident while attempting to bunt in a game at Los Angeles.

"I don't feel there's any more pressure on me because we lost Sutton," said Ryan. "But we did lose a quality pitcher, a guy who's capable of beating the Dodgers and knows more about them than anybody else around here."

Philadelphia will send three-time Cy Young award winner Steve Carlton, 13-4, against Steve Rogers, 12-8, in the NL East opener as the Phillies go after a second straight world championship.

"We know whoever we played, we'd get a good game," said Phillies Manager Dallas Green. "Montreal's pitching is ahead of everybody else's. If you pin it right down, probably ahead of us."

The Expos, who lost the NL East title on the last weekend in each of the last two years, say they're ready.

"We've been waiting for this, and it's taken so long to get here that I think we have the momentum to go all the way," said Gary Carter, Montreal's All-Star catcher.

The biggest problem both the Phillies and Expos may face is the weather in Montreal, where temperatures reached a high in the low 50s Sunday.

"Hey, the cold is tough on their team, too, even though they're from Montreal," said Green. "You never get used to playing in that weather."

The Yankees, who finished the second half of the season under .500 at 25-26, will send Ron Guidry, 11-5, against the Brewers' Moose Haas, 11-7, in the opener of the AL East series.

New York's Lou Piniella said the second season was tough on the Yankees.

"I can't wait until we play when it means something. This

(the second season) has been terrible," Piniella said.

The Brewers will be making their first appearance in the playoffs in their 13-year history.

"They're a quality team, just like we are," said Haas. "The only difference is that they've been through the playoffs before and we haven't."

The Cincinnati Reds, who had the best record in baseball this season at 66-42, and St. Louis Cardinals, who had the best overall record in the NL East at 59-43, did not qualify for the playoffs. Both teams failed to win either half of the season, split by the players' 58-walkout that began in June.

"It's been a mess, that's what it's been," said Reds Manager John McNamara.

Denver 'D' Squashes Raiders

By The Associated Press

When the Denver Broncos scored 70 points in two consecutive victories, it appeared that they were counting more on their wide-open offense than their traditionally tough defense.

But the defenders aren't yet ready to give up the mantle they acquired in 1977 when they went to the Super Bowl known as the Orange Crush.

"We're playing now like we did in '77, but maybe even better because the offense has been doing so well," said Steve Foley, the free safety who made the most important of the Broncos' four fumble recoveries Sunday as they blanked the Oakland Raiders 17-0.

"I told the players we'd have to take the Raiders out physically to win this one, and they did an excellent job, did just that," said Denver Coach Dan Reeves.

He warned, however, "If we start thinking we're better than we are, we'll be in trouble and get knocked off."

The Raiders were shut out for the second game in a row after not being held scoreless since 1966. The defending Super Bowl champions were held to 168 yards in total offense.

In other National Football League games, St. Louis upset Dallas 20-17, the New York Jets tied the unbeaten Miami Dolphins 28-28, Buffalo tripped Baltimore 23-17, Minnesota edged Chicago 24-21, Green Bay whipped the New York Giants 27-14, New England defeated Kansas City 33-17, Houston clipped Cincinnati 17-10, Pittsburgh beat New Orleans 20-6, Los Angeles clubbed Cleveland 27-16, Tampa Bay bombed Detroit 28-10 and San Diego tackled Seattle 24-10.

The Philadelphia Eagles, the only unbeaten team left besides Miami, play host to the Atlanta Falcons tonight.

Oakland's only serious touchdown threat was stifled by Foley when he fell on a fumble by Kenny King at the Broncos' 12 in the second quarter.

Denver sacked Oakland quarterback Jim Plunkett three times and intercepted him once. The Raiders went to young quarterback Marc Wilson in the fourth period and he was promptly intercepted.

The Broncos took a 7-0 lead in the second quarter on Dave Preston's 4-yard touchdown run. The Raiders struck back by driving 50 yards, but that's when Foley recovered his fumble.

Rick Parros' 20-yard run in the third quarter accounted for Denver's other touchdown.

Denver stressed its running attack all day as quarterback Craig Morton, who threw eight touchdown passes the previous two weeks, threw only 16 times for 117 yards. The Broncos ran the ball 45 times for 162 yards.

The victory gave Denver a 4-1 record, including two triumphs over Oakland. The Raiders, who were shut out 16-0 by Detroit last week, dropped to 2-3.

"They say history repeats itself. Let's hope it does," said Oakland tackle Art Shell.

One year ago, the Raiders were 2-3 with severe offensive problems and went on to win the Super Bowl title.

"I don't think we need to make any drastic changes. We just have to make the blocks, run to the right holes, be consistent like we were late last year," said King.

Cardinals 20, Cowboys 17
Dallas fell from the unbeaten ranks as lanky Neil O'Donoghue kicked a 37-yard field goal with 23 seconds left.

The kick by the 6-foot-6 O'Donoghue climaxed a 63-yard St. Louis drive in the game's closing minutes, highlighted by Jim Hart passes of 20 yards to Doug Marsh and 19 yards to Roy Green, who earlier caught a 30-yard touchdown pass.

Tony Dorsett scored two touchdowns for the Cowboys. Dolphins 28, Jets 28
Miami stayed unbeaten, but had to hold off a determined Jets' effort led by Richard Todd.

Todd threw four touchdown passes, including a 36-yarder to wide receiver Bobby Jones with 1:09 remaining in regulation, and completed 28 of 39 tosses for 310 yards.

Pat Leahy missed a 48-yard field goal attempt on the final play of overtime for the Jets.

Nat Moore caught two touchdown passes from Miami quarterback Don Strock, who replaced injured starter David Woodley in the first period.

Chargers 24, Seahawks 10
With top running backs Chuck Muncie and James Brooks both injured, quarterback Dan Fouts went to the air even more than usual, but not with less success.

Fouts tossed three touchdown passes and broke his club record for completions with 30 in 41 attempts.

He hit touchdown tosses of 12 and 11 yards to Charlie Joiner and a 9-yarder to tight end Kellen Winslow, finishing with 302 yards passing, none longer than 15 yards.

Merwin Scores Three Goals As ECU Boots Catawba, 5-0

CATAWBA — Bill Merwin scored three goals to lead East Carolina to an easy, 5-0, victory over outmanned Catawba Sunday afternoon in a college soccer match.

"We moved the ball well," East Carolina coach Brad Smith said. "And our defense stopped them."

ECU plays host to UNC-Greensboro Wednesday afternoon at 4 p.m. UNC-G is ranked 12th in the nation in Division 3 play.

Mike Swan and Brian Winchell had the Pirates' other two goals. Mark Hardy had two assists, despite playing only half the match.

ECU outshot Catawba, now

1-7-1, 33 to six. Freshman Danny Curtis, in goal for Brown yesterday, had six saves.

"We moved the ball well," East Carolina coach Brad Smith said. "And our defense stopped them."

ECU plays host to UNC-Greensboro Wednesday afternoon at 4 p.m. UNC-G is ranked 12th in the nation in Division 3 play.

The story of Saturday afternoon's Duke-East Carolina game had just reached the office of The Daily Reflector, when the call came in.

"Hey, I just heard that Ed Emory has been fired! Is it true?" the caller said.

Earlier in the week, the Atlantic Coast Conference area's version of the National Inquirer, better known as "The Poop Sheet," said that Emory, already in trouble at East Carolina, would be fired if he lost the Duke game — and that firing would probably come immediately, not at the end of the season.

To us, that is simply nutty.

Let's take a look at some of the facts of the situation. Naturally, everyone is comparing Emory's less-than-two year record with that of his predecessor, Pat Dye. But a glance at the record shows us this: Dye in his first season plus five games was 9-7. At this point in his second year, he was 2-3 — like Emory is right now. Comparing the schedules is easy — there is no comparison.

Also let's compare what was left Dye by Sonny Randle and Emory by Dye. Again, there can't be much. While Randle left Dye with a number of quality players, the same cannot be said for Dye and his gifts to Emory. True, Anthony Collins was there, as was Wayne Inman and Theo Sutton.

But the Danny Kepleys, the Cary Godettes and Kenny Strayhorns were missing.

What Emory faced when he took over the job was a much bigger rebuilding job than Dye faced at the same time.

There has been little question but that Emory has had an outstanding recruiting year his first full chance. But there are those who say this team is not "young" as Emory claims.

Try this: go to the record books and find the "Top Ten" lists. There is not one player on this year's team who is close to breaking into the top ten with the exception of quarterback Carlton Nelson, whose passes have brought him close to eighth place on the pass completion list. But he's far behind in yardage, and no one else is close to making the list. That shows it to be a young team.

The leading returning rusher this year was Marvin Cobb with 412 career yards. It takes 1,673 to break into the top ten. Greg Stewart was the leader in passing yards with 400. It takes 820 to make the top ten. Nelson led the team in total offense with 708. It takes 2,207 to make the top ten. Larry O'Roarke was the leader in passes caught with six. It takes 40 to make the top ten. Will Saunders was the leader in reception yards with 73. It takes 529 to make the top ten. Nelson was the leading scorer with 14 points. It takes 132 to make the top team.

As we said: a young team.

Sure there are problems with the team. But the team is facing tougher schedules than did previous teams. A glance at Florida State last year and North Carolina this year show this.

East Carolina is facing a financial problem, too. Money that was there a couple of years back had been spent too freely, and now budget cuts are the order of the day. A comparison would show that ECU will spend less on its entire athletic budget than the University of North Carolina will spend on football alone.

This is not to excuse Saturday's performance. East Carolina didn't play well, and that was plain to see.

But to start screaming "Fire Emory!" as if that will solve all the problems is ridiculous. It's not that easy.

Emory has another year on his contract, and should get it. There have been many positive steps made by his program, and two years isn't time enough all things considered.

More than likely, he will make some changes at the end of the season, if not before. We would not be surprised to see a change in offensive strategy next fall. We would expect to see some staff changes. There will be internal problems that will have to be ironed out.

Five games into the 1975 season, East Carolina fans were screaming for Pat Dye's head.

Four years later, they were screaming when he left ECU, and not for the same reasons.

Patience is all too lacking in the football fan.

Caponi, Whitworth Combine For Title

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Millionaire golf partners Donna Caponi and Kathy Whitworth know how to work together and they proved it again with their third LPGA Team Championship in five years.

They won the $120,000 Ladies Professional Golf Association tournament Sunday with a birdie on the second hole of a sudden-death playoff against JoAnne Carner and Judy Rankin.

Both teams tied at 16-under-par 203 after the 18th hole on the 6,313-yard, par-73 Riverside Golf and Country Club.

"We're such a good team together. We really enjoy each other's games," said Caponi after she sank the winning birdie with a 32-foot putt.

"I was hanging in there when she needed me," said Caponi. "I finally helped my partner." Caponi and Whitworth could have taken the championship on the 18th hole, but Whitworth missed a birdie putt.

"If I had anybody to putt for me, it would be Kathy," Caponi said, noting that on the 18th Whitworth had to wait almost 10 minutes before taking her shot. "We had to wait an awful long time... You start churning inside."

Whitworth, who had to catch a plane, was unable to stay for a post-tournament interview.

"This last month, I've had my ups and downs," said Caponi. She said she didn't feel she had helped Whitworth much in the third round except for an eagle she sank on the eighth. "Maybe I'm building my confidence back up."

Mets Fire Torre, Staff

NEW YORK (AP) — New York Mets Manager Joe Torre had just reported to work for the last day of the season when general manager Frank Cashen stepped into his office. "Frank said to me, 'This is never easy,'" Torre recalled. "I said to him, 'Don't worry about it.'"

With those words, Joe Torre became the seventh manager of the 1981 major league baseball season to fall under the ax. Torre and his entire coaching staff were dismissed Sunday in a general housecleaning by Mets owner Nelson Doubleday Jr.

The writing had been on the clubhouse wall. Torre said it came as no surprise.

"I guess I felt it," said Torre, Mets manager for the past five seasons. "The man wants to make changes the way he wants them."

"I talked to him at the beginning of the second season, and I told him that being the boss, if he wants to make a change, that was good enough reason for me. I'd never ask for reasons."

Cashen said he made the decision about 10 days ago, even before the Mets were eliminated from contention for the second-half National League East title. He began to contemplate a change during the two-month-long players' strike, however.

"I want to win. I really desperately want to win," said Cashen, who won four American League pennants and two world championships in his 10 years as executive vice president of the Baltimore Orioles.

"I wanted a manager that would help us win," he said. "Managing has changed the last couple of years as ballplayers have changed. Communication has become a big part of managing."

Cashen said he and other front-office personnel would interview candidates to replace Torre during the league championship series and World Series, and he hoped to make a decision before the winter baseball meetings in early December.

"To say I don't have some thoughts in my mind (about who will become Mets manager) would be less than honest," Cashen said, "but I haven't zeroed in on any one person. There are a few around."

Sources close to the Mets said there were two likely choices — Bobby Cox, manager of the Atlanta Braves, and Jim Frey, who was fired as manager of the Kansas City Royals this season. Frey and Cashen worked together at Baltimore.

Another name being bandied about was that of Dick Williams, fired last month as manager of the Montreal Expos.

Cashen said that when he informed Torre of his decision, he gave the Mets' manager two options. He could either go home to his family, and the Mets would hold a news conference this morning. Or, he could manage the last game of the season, and the Mets would make the announcement after Sunday's game with Montreal.

Waltrip Ups Points Lead

NORTH WILKESBORO, N.C. (AP) — Darrell Waltrip says the Buick that won him $23,725 Sunday in the Holly Farms 400 at North Wilkesboro Speedway was sheer joy.

"The car was as good a race car as I've ever driven," said Waltrip, 34, who now has 53 points over Bobby Allison in the Winston Cup Grand National competition. "It never, never missed a beat. It was solid as a rock. I honestly didn't want to quit."

The checkered flag fell for Waltrip, who led 318 of 400 laps, almost 1 1/2 laps ahead of Allison, who gave up the lead 122 laps from the finish line.

Waltrip, who started on the pole, lapped Allison with 41 laps remaining and coasted to his 10th win of the 1981 season.

Waltrip now has won five times in his last 10 races and has finished second four times and third once.

"That's going to make for a tough act to follow next year," he said.

Allison had brake problems and had to battle to nose out Joe Millikan for second place.

"Bobby's car was looser than mine, and whenever we had a caution and pitted to change tires, his new tires would tighten the car up and get it running good for about 10 laps, then we'd come on," Waltrip said.

Waltrip's $23,725 prize for his first victory at North Wilkesboro Speedway since 1978 brings his winnings for the season to $451,390. He averaged 93.091 mph in the race.

Before Allison moved up to challenge, Waltrip's stiffest competition had come from Richard Petty. That challenge ended on lap 211 when a blown tire pushed Petty's car into the first-turn wall.

Harry Gant, third in the point standings, went by the wayside on the 150th lap with engine problems while top qualifiers Benny Parsons, Terry Labonte and Joe Ruttman all retired early.

Reds Best, But Not In Playoffs

By The Associated Press
The Cincinnati Reds went with a flash. Joe Torre just went out.

While the Reds were enhancing the best record in major league baseball with a 3-0 victory over the Atlanta Braves behind Mario Soto's glittering one-hitter Sunday, Torre was fired as manager of the New York Mets.

Torre, swept out along with his entire coaching staff by General Manager Frank Cashen, thus became the seventh big league manager to get the ax this season.

Ironically, the firing happened on a day when the Mets were taking a 2-1 victory over the Montreal Expos, the second-half champs of the National League East. The Expos will begin the best-of-five East Division playoffs Wednesday at home against the Philadelphia Phillies, who closed out the regular season with a 2-1 victory over the Chicago Cubs.

The Houston Astros beat the Los Angeles Dodgers 5-3 in a preview of the NL West playoffs. That will start Tuesday in Houston.

The only hit given up by Soto was a leadoff single by Chris Chambliss in the second inning. Soto, 12-9, struck out nine and walked two to post his third shutout and 10th complete game of the season.

Dave Concepcion, Ray Knight and Mike O'Berry drove in runs for the Reds, who finished the season with an overall record of 66-42. But despite the shiny record, the Reds were locked out of the divisional playoffs because they did not win a championship in either of the NL's split-season races.

"It could have been better if we had won the last two games," said Soto, who referred to the Reds' losses to Atlanta on Friday and Saturday that killed their chances to make the post-season playoffs.

To recognize their accomplishment, though, the Reds' booster organization presented the team with a pennant before Sunday's game that read, "Baseball's best record 1981."

Mets 2, Expos 1

Pete Falcone scattered seven hits and Ron Gardhire's single got New York's winning run home in the eighth to lead the Mets past the Expos. Falcone had eight strikeouts and did not allow a walk in outpitching Bill Gullickson, 7-9.

In the Mets' locker room, little was said of the game as players bid farewell to their manager of the last five seasons.

Phillies 2, Cubs 1

Lonnie Smith extended his hitting streak through 23 games with a third-inning double and scored the winning run on a wild pitch to help Philadelphia beat Chicago.

The Phillies scored twice in the third off Lee Smith, 3-6 as pinch-hitter Del Unser walked and advanced to third on a ground rule double by Smith. Pete Rose's groundout produced Unser and one out later, Lonnie Smith scored on a wild pitch by Lee Smith.

The Cubs took a 1-0 lead off Mark Davis in the second on Steve Henderson's RBI double.

Dick Ruthven, 12-7, who will start the second game of the mini-playoffs, was credited with the victory.

Astros 5, Dodgers 3

Gary Woods singled home the tie-breaking run in the ninth inning to lead Houston over Los Angeles.

Dickie Thon opened the Astros' ninth with a double off loser Dave Goltz, 2-7. After a sacrifice, Woods singled home Thon and Dave Roberts later doubled home Houston's second run of the inning.

Dave Smith, 5-3, the fourth Houston pitcher, earned the win, pitching the final two innings and striking out four of the six batters he faced.

Cardinals 4, Pirates 0

Bob Shirley and two relief pitchers combined on a four-hitter to lead St. Louis over Pittsburgh. Shirley, 6-4, allowed three hits and no walks in six innings and Silvio Martinez and Bob Sykes pitched the final three innings for the Cardinals.

The Cardinals got run-scoring hits from Gene Roof, Tom Herr and Julio Gonzalez. Odell Jones, 4-5, was the loser.

Rogers Wins Open In Playoff

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — "Unbelievable," Bill Rogers said over and over as he shook his head, digesting his sudden death victory over a frustrated Ben Crenshaw for his first Texas Open golf title.

"It's been a heck of a year for me," the Texarkana, Texas, native said after shooting a 7-under-par 63 Sunday to capture the $45,000 first prize.

Rogers sank a 3-foot birdie putt on the 18th hole to force the playoff with Crenshaw after both golfers finished at 14-under-par 266. The Rogers curled in a 12-footer on the first hole of sudden death.

Rogers, in his sixth year on the Tournament Players Association tour, became the only golfer to win four events this season — the Heritage Classic, World Series of Golf, British Open and Texas Open — and ran his career earnings to $950,310.

In addition, he won the Sunbury Open in Japan last month and goes to England for next week's World Match Play tournament with three straight victories under his belt.

Rogers also took satisfaction in winning the first of three playoffs in which he has been involved, but said a slight edge was taken off the victory because he defeated Crenshaw, one of his best friends.

"I'm excited about winning, but a little something is taken away because I was playing against a good friend. Maybe next time, he'll beat me," the former University of Houston golfer said.

"It was a putt I thought I could make when I got over it," Rogers said of the winning stroke.

Crenshaw, who had to roll in a crucial 18-footer on the final hole to keep Rogers from winning outright, fell one foot short with a 35-footer on the playoff hole. He collected $27,000 for second place.

The playoff loss was the fifth for Crenshaw career-wise against no victories, and the source of continuing frustration.

"I'm not worth a damn in playoffs. I hate them," Crenshaw said later. "I've gone backwards this year — didn't have a good year. I cannot put my finger on what was wrong."

Giants 4, Padres 3

Pinch-hitter Milt May's run-scoring grounder capped a three-run, eighth-inning rally and lifted San Francisco over San Diego.

Indians Unpack Bags, To Face Royals Today

By The Associated Press
The Cleveland Indians had their bags packed and were all set to fly to their respective homes for the winter. But in a fitting climax to this most unusual of baseball seasons, the Indians had to do something strange on this day after the conclusion of the season — play baseball.

Their opponents this afternoon in a makeup double-header were the Kansas City Royals, who already had clinched a spot opposite the Oakland A's in the American League West divisional playoffs.

But the Royals led the A's by only a half-game following Sunday's contests — when Oakland edged KC 4-3 — and therefore were required to play in Cleveland to determine the second-half winner of the West. By winning just one of the games, the Royals would clinch the second half title and the divisional playoff series would open Tuesday with the first two games at Kansas City and the final three in Oakland.

If the Indians managed to sweep KC, then the Royals would get only Tuesday's game at home, with the next four in Oakland.

If the Royals won the first game today, the second game would be unnecessary, the AL office said last week.

Not surprisingly, the Royals weren't overjoyed at having to journey to Cleveland today just for the sake of earning an extra home playoff contest. In fact, the Royals were downright depressed.

"A home-field advantage doesn't mean a thing in baseball," George Brett said. "If anybody should have to make up games, it's Oakland. It's a joke."

Kansas City played three more games than Oakland in the second season through Sunday. Brett said he was in favor of the Royals forfeiting the Cleveland double-header, which is a makeup of games rained out in April.

"If I had a choice, I sure wouldn't want to go to Cleveland," said Oakland center fielder Dwayne Murphy. "I know they don't want to go there, either."

They also didn't have to. Pinch-hitter Lee May's drive to deep center field with the tying run on base and two out in the ninth was snared by Murphy's leaping catch to preserve the A's win.

"He's been making those kind of plays all year," said A's Manager Billy Martin, who had no sympathy for the Royals' plight.

"We did them a favor by letting them cancel the game in Toronto," said Martin, referring to yet another rainout the Royals had. "That was our prerogative, not the league's. We called it off. We could have made them play three more."

Dave McKay tagged Larry Gura for a tie-breaking home run in the seventh as the Royals fell to four games under .500 for the entire season. The defending AL champs will be the only sub-.500 team in the playoffs.

They were 49-33 this season, 29-23 in the second half. Red Sox 6, Indians 2.

Boston's Dwight Evans was one of four American Leaguers to finish superb campaigns with first-rate performances in the season's last game. Evans had two homers and a double to capture the league leadership in total bases and Jim Rice had a pair of RBI singles.

Tigers 3, Brewers 2
Kirk Gibson ended his super second-half with a 3-for-5 afternoon that included a bloop RBI single to knock in the winning run in the eighth inning against the second-half champion Brewers. Gibson, a .235 hitter before the strike, had 72 hits in 192 at bats during the second half for a .375 post-strike average, tops in the majors.

Mariners 2, Blue Jays 0
Tom Paciorek also had an excellent season, batting .326 to finish third in the batting race behind Boston's Carney Lansford and Gibson. Paciorek and Terry Bulling homered to support Floyd Banister.

Pacioirek, who now becomes a free agent, finished in the top seven in seven AL offensive categories, including hits, doubles and game-winning RBIs.

Orioles 5, Yankees 2
Eddie Murray's two-run homer closed out a spectacular second half for the Orioles first baseman, even though all he could say was, "It was OK."

Murray drove in 52 of Baltimore's 201 runs in the 50 games of the second half. His two RBI gave him the American League title over Oakland's Tony Armas, 78-76 and he finished in a tie for the home run title with Armas, Bobby Grich of California and Evans.

White Sox 13, Twins 12
Jerry Hairston belted a grand-slam homer to get the White Sox back into the game, then capped a four-run Chicago rally with two-out in the ninth with a game-winning single.

Reliever Dewey Robinson got his first major-league win. Minnesota's Kent Hrbek had four hits and Gary Ward knocked in three runs.

Angels 9, Rangers 2
Don Baylor cracked four hits, drove in two runs and scored another, while Mike Witt went the distance for the last-place Angels.

"If you're a professional," said Baylor, "you go out on the field for pride, even if you're in last place. Other players will be watching you and you ought to be watching yourself. The last day of the season is just like the first day — you have to try."

Johnny Carson Fails To Amuse British Critics

LONDON (AP) - British television critics were not amused by Johnny Carson's weekend debut on England's commercial network.

"I was eager to see what made a man worth $3 million a year," Dennis Hackett wrote in the Times of London. "Whatever it was, it was not showing, though he obviously is tremendously satisfied with himself. It is not even as if we could blame this production on damage suffered by being bounced off a satellite."

Independent Television launched a 13-week series of once-a-week Carson broadcasts on four of its 13 stations Saturday evening with a tape of his 19th anniversary show. Herbert Kretzmer of the Daily Mail reckoned Carson lost the opening bout with Britain's top-rated talk-show host, Michael Parkinson, whose program ran earlier in the evening on the British Broadcasting Corp. network. "Carson is the archetypal American, catering for an audience that is terrified of even momentary boredom," Kretzmer wrote.

Nancy Bank-Smith, titling her review in the Guardian "Performing Monkeys," said she was more impressed with Carson's sidekick, Ed McMahon, than with the silver-haired star. "He (McMahon) has been doing nothing in particular on the Johnny Carson show for 19 years and Carson appreciates it," she noted.

"The idea that Ed should actually do something, such as remove a piece of chicken from a small but contentious puppy, is treated by the audience as a great joke." The London station that carried the show reported it got "more than 50 calls" from viewers complaining about the program. But a spokesman estimated "millions" watched the show. Official ratings won't be known until later this week, the station said.

Saturday's Cryptquip — SIMPLE CROSSWORD PUZZLES SOMETIMES STUMP WORRIED COMMUTER.

Today's Cryptquip clue: L equals H

The Cryptquip is a simple substitution cipher in which each letter used stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words, and words using an apostrophe can give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is accomplished by trial and error.

Q.1—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♦6 ♥K10752 ♦10432 ♣765
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♦ Pass ?
What action do you take?
A.—You have 3 HCP—even the weak response of one no trump promises 6. You are not thrilled with your spade singleton, but any attempt to improve the contract courts disaster. Pass.

Q.2—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♦6 ♥K10975 ♦10432 ♣J109
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♥ 2 ♦ Pass Pass
2 ♣ Pass ?
What do you bid now?
A.—By reversing, partner has shown a powerful hand with at least five hearts and four spades. You have golden values. In support of hearts, your hand is worth 8 points, and partner should have the equivalent of 18. A timid preference to three hearts, which promises no values at all, does not come close to expressing the value of your hand. Jump to four hearts.

Q.3—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♦954 ♥QJ762 ♦8 ♣10432
Partner opens the bidding with one heart. What action do you take?
A.—While this hand contains only 3 HCP, it is worth 7 points in support of hearts—your singleton revalues to 3 points and you must upgrade your heart length by 1 point. Do not give a thought to bidding anything but two hearts.

Q.4—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♦AKQ105 ♥Q954 ♦K103 ♣6
The bidding has proceeded:
West North East South
1 ♣ Pass Pass ?
What action do you take?
A.—Although you have a very good spade suit, you should not lose sight of the possibility that your best spot might be in one of the other suits—or even defending one club doubled. In addition, a simple balancing overall would not come close to doing justice to your fine hand—in fourth seat a reopening bid in a suit can be made on very sketchy values. Double.

Q.5—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♦J5 ♥AK843 ♦106 ♣K982
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
Pass Pass 1 ♥ Pass 2 ♦ Pass ?
What action do you take?
A.—In third seat, you opened a dead minimum hand. Since partner is a passed hand, game prospects cannot be considered. Therefore, you should be concerned about reaching the best part score. As a passed hand, partner must have at least a five-card suit for his two-level response and you have a doubleton in support. However, he may have no

Cameras In The Courtroom?

TV cameras will be banned from the courtroom where Wayne Williams goes on trial today on charges of murdering two young blacks in Atlanta. Under the Constitution, "In all criminal prosecutions, the accused shall enjoy the right to a speedy and public trial..." The American Founding Fathers made this guarantee partly because of fear of long-secret trials such as those of the Spanish Inquisition. Today, some lawyers argue that TV cameras are just an extension of the old "right to a... public trial" in the electronic age. Others, including the judge in the Williams case, say cameras can be disruptive and can harm the rights of victims of crimes or their families.

DO YOU KNOW — What Amendment to the Constitution guarantees "the right to a speedy and public trial"?

Nichopoulos Is Slated Testify

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — The pathologist who officiated at Elvis Presley's autopsy is among the witnesses expected to testify in the Criminal Court drug trial of the doctor charged with overprescribing dangerous drugs to the rock 'n' roll singer and eight other people.

James F. Neal, a former Watergate prosecutor heading the defense team, said jury selection could be completed today in the trial of Dr. George Nichopoulos.

The 53-year-old internal medicine specialist is charged in a 14-count indictment with overprescribing dangerous drugs for Presley and eight other patients. The charges carry penalties of two to 10 years in prison and a fine of $20,000 on each count.

Jury selection began Wednesday.

The state Board of Medical Examiners suspended Nichopoulos' medical license for 90 days in 1980 following a week-long hearing. The board found Nichopoulos violated the law by prescribing large amounts of amphetamines, barbiturates and pain killers for Presley, singer Jerry Lee Lewis and other patients.

Nichopoulos was Presley's personal physician for 11 years.

The entertainer's death in 1977 at the age of 42 was officially blamed on heart disease. Dr. Jerry T. Francisco, the state medical examiner, steadfastly maintained Presley's death was not drug-related and he refused to release the contents of an autopsy report on Presley's body. An ABC-TV program, "20-20," reported in 1979 that Presley's death was related to his dependence on drugs.

support whatsoever for your heart suit. Pass before you end up in the wrong contract or get too high.

Q.6—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♦104 ♥K87632 ♦Q102 ♣J9
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♦ Pass 1 NT Pass
2 ♦ Pass ?
What action do you take?
A.—Hearts may be your best spot, but you are too weak to explore. Should partner have no tolerance for that suit, he will probably take out to two spades, and your hand rates to play better in diamonds—but not necessarily at the three-level.

Beginning To Realize Fraud

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) - A police expert on carnival confidence games says the extent of fraud at county fairs is now becoming known.

"We're just now starting to realize some of the things that go on in a fair," said Winston-Salem police detective Gary Lloyd.

Lloyd spent last week at the Charlotte Police and Fire Training Academy, detailing carnival cons to prosecutors, FBI agents and police from Mecklenburg and Gaston counties.

One example of a rigged game is the "swinger," the upright pin you're supposed to knock down with a ball dangling from a chain anchored directly over the pin, Lloyd said.

"They've usually got a real nice stuffed teddy bear. But you're not going to win it," Lloyd said.

You will lose your dollar because the rules say you've got to swing the ball past and away from the pin, upending the pin as the ball swings back toward you, Lloyd said.

But moving the ball to one side to avoid the pin on the forward swing sends the ball to the other side of the pin as it swings back. Thus, the player misses - and loses.

Sometimes the carries will help someone win, perhaps to goad him into spending more, he said. That's called a "fairbank" and "throw a cop," according to Lloyd's seven-page list of carnival lingo.

Lloyd said unscrupulous carries are a minority. Prowling the recent Dixie Classic Fair in Winston-Salem, however, he said: "If a man knows he can make a 100 percent profit, he's going to seek what he can get by with."

"I wouldn't let any carry or any agent have an opportunity to see how much money I have in my pocket."

Aim For Tax Break Without Legislative Action

An AP News Analysis
By WILLIAM M. WELCH
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) —
Borrowing some of the reasoning from President Reagan, the Democratic Hunt administration is hoping to pass along a state tax break to businesses without action by the Legislature.

The break would come in the form of faster tax writeoffs for new investments in plants and equipment, if North Carolina's state government adopts the same accelerated depreciation schedule that Reagan won from Congress for federal taxes.

Just how large this tax break would be for corporations, and what if anything it would cost state government in lower revenues, kicked up a fuss when the Reagan tax cut package was enacted in August.

State Revenue Secretary Mark Lynch was called down by John A. Williams, state budget officer and a top aide to Gov. Jim Hunt, for embracing an early estimate that the state could lose as much as $12 million a year.

Another estimate by legislative staff economist David Crotts said the cost could go as high as $40 million in the first year or two.

Williams, arguing much like Reagan that the tax advantages would offer incentives for new investment, said the cost would be inconsequential, however. The state, he said, would reap larger gains through other taxes as the new investment ignites the economy.

But a quieter debate is now going on within state government over whether the administration can itself adopt the new accelerated depreciation policy for North Carolina corporate taxes, or whether the General Assembly would have to consider the move just as it must consider other tax bills.

Williams, in an interview, says the administration plans to view the change as within the discretionary powers of the state Revenue Department and hopes to get an attorney general's opinion supporting that view this week. He said the state has informed corporate taxpayers who asked that the state will follow the federal changes.

But one powerful and partisan legislative leader, House Base Budget Chairman Rep. Al Adams, D-Wake, said last week he would fight the administration's plan. Any change, he said, should be decided by the General Assembly, which opens its special session today.

"I think the law is clear," Adams said. "Unless we introduce a bill and pass a law to enact the Reagan program, the old schedule is the law."

In the past, North Carolina has followed federal law in deciding how businesses may take their investment deductions. In general, the useful life of an asset determined the number of years the deduction had to be spread over.

The Reagan change simplified as well as speeded the schedule, so that in general investments may be written off in three years for automobiles and light trucks; five years for other equipment, including some farm equipment; and 15 years for most buildings.

Lynch, in an interview and a letter to a reporter, acknowledged that "there is considerable debate" about what North Carolina's law is on the change. He has asked for an opinion from the attorney general.

The law, said Myron Banks, deputy attorney general for tax matters, says North Carolina considers taxable income to be whatever the federal government considered it to be on Jan. 1, 1981. The confusion arises because on that date the old schedule was in place, but it was changed retroactively in August.

Banks said he had not yet ritten the opinion but hoped to have it by the middle of this week — in time for the administration to seek action by the General Assembly if Banks says it is required.

But Williams said he already knew what Bankw' opinion would be — and that it would give the administration the green light to adopt the federal cuts.

"As I understand it, Mr. Banks had informally told Mark he would support that position with an opinion," Williams said.

Lynch, however, said he didn't know what the opinion would be. "I want the attorney general's opinion. I want to receive it and study it and see where we go from there," he said. "My position is I don't know yet."

Whatever the outcome of that debate, Williams says it would be too cumbersome for corporations to use differing state and federal schedules. And he said Gov. Jim Hunt's administration is certain it will encourage business to invest more in the state by granting the tax break.

But doesn't that sound a bit like Reagan's supply-side economics?

"It is to a degree, yes," agreed Williams. "I'm not uncomfortable with it because I said this before Reagan did."

Crotts, however, is more skeptical. "The question is, will all that investment outweigh the cost," he said. "The supply siders say it will."

Adams, however, thinks the Hunt administration has taken a Republican position on this one.

"It's the same thing that you always get — we're going to give these breaks for business because we'll make so much more," he said. "By this philosophy, we're not going to have any taxes for business before long."

Farm Scene

By ROGER COBB
Agri. Ext. Agent

Corn harvest is almost complete in Pitt County. The yield is going to be a lot better than last year, but prices have declined sharply from a year ago. Because of this, many farmers have elected to use on-farm storage facilities to store their corn.

With such a large volume of corn being stored on the farm, certain precautions need to be used to assure that corn will not mold in the bins. Along with mold, insects can cause storage problems.

The most common problem in on-farm storage is the tendency to put grain into a bin too fast. Not being able to dry corn fast enough can cause corn to mold.

For long term storage the corn needs to be dried down to 13 percent. After this moisture is reached you should begin to cool the grain. Cooling or aeration is accomplished by running the drying fan with the heater shut off.

Cool the grain when the air is colder than the grain and the relative humidity is less than 60-70 percent. The grain needs to be cooled to a temperature of 50-55 degrees Fahrenheit. Start cooling before the outside temperature reaches 50 degrees F. It will usually take approximately 30 hours of fan operation to initially cool the grain to 50-55 degrees with the drying fan. It is important not to freeze the grain.

After the grain reaches this temperature, run the fan approximately two hours each week to keep the grain cool and prevent temperature rise, insect buildup, or moisture from migrating to the top of the bin walls to cause sweating.

Grain in bins should be inspected periodically to check for insects, heating and moisture buildup. Do not let a hard year's work be ruined because you do not properly manage your grain bins.

Annual Meeting

The annual stockholder's meeting of the Pitt-Greene Production Credit Association will be held on Oct. 10 at Minges Coliseum at 6 p.m.

Activities will include reports on the association's progress during the year, election of directors and a nominating committee, and a report from the Board of Directors on important actions taken during the year. The meeting will also feature a barbecue and chicken dinner to be served at 6 p.m. and entertainment will be provided by The Home Town Boys and The Green Grass Cloggers.

Directors of the Pitt-Greene PCA are David Harold Smith, chairman; A. Roscoe Barnhill and Wayne K. Stokes of Pitt County, and James E. Manning and T. Weldon Shingleton of Greene County.

The association makes short and intermediate-term loans to farmers, ranchers and growers in Pitt and Greene Counties. The main office is located at 100 E. First St. The branch office is located at 301 S.E. Second St., in Snow Hill. The association is entirely owned by its member-borrowers.

Memorial Service

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Civil rights activist Harry Golden, who died Friday at the age of 78, brought humor to the civil rights battle, say notables who attended Golden's memorial service on Sunday.

"He had a lot of wit and humor," former Sen. Robert Morgan said. "It made him able to approach real sensitive issues. He probably did as much as anyone to bring about a better understanding of not only the Jewish people, but most of all the people in this country."

Rabbi Israel Gerber recalled Golden's Vertical Negro Plan — his tongue-in-cheek response to the 1954 U.S. Supreme Court's desegregation ruling.

The "plan" would solve the integration problem by removing the seats in buses and restaurants and schools. Southerners didn't mind standing beside blacks, but they became incensed when they had to sit beside them, Golden wrote.

About 200 people gathered Sunday to honor the outspoken writer, who championed civil rights and trade unions for 36 years.

Golden was a New York City native who went to Charlotte in the early 1940's. He published a weekly tabloid in the heart of his adopted home — the heavily anti-integration, anti-union South.

He closed his controversial publication, the Carolina Israelite, in 1968. Golden was also a bestselling author with the book "Only in America," published in 1958.
