U.S. Will Deploy New Missiles If Soviet Drags Out Bargaining

By R. GREGORY NOKES
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States will go ahead with plans to deploy medium-range missiles in Europe in 1983 if the Soviets drag out negotiations on President Reagan's proposal to slash nuclear and conventional weapons on the continent, administration officials say.

The Soviet Union rejected the Reagan initiative Wednesday, but U.S. officials said the initial reaction wasn't surprising and one added: "The door is still open as far as talks are concerned."

Official reaction from U.S. allies in Europe, where many television stations carried Reagan's speech live, was laudatory, reflecting relief that the administration was stressing peace, rather than engaging in hypothetical discussions of war.

There was bipartisan praise in Congress as well.

Reagan, noticeably avoiding the harsh tones that characterized his early stance toward the Soviets, proposed a "historic step" by the superpowers to reverse a trend toward growing military arsenals. The United States, he said, would cancel plans to deploy medium-range nuclear missiles in Europe if the Soviets would dismantle the 600 missiles they have trained on European targets.

It will be the initial U.S. negotiating position in talks with the Soviets on restraining deployment of medium-range missiles in Europe. The theater nuclear force negotiations open Nov. 30 in Geneva.

Meanwhile, U.S. officials said they believe the United States and the Soviet Union will decide to resume strategic arms limitations negotiations next March, also in Geneva.

In Moscow, the Soviet news agency Tass scoffed at Reagan's proposal for a Europe free from the threat of medium-range nuclear missiles, saying it was "propagandistic" and designed to cloak an American attempt to gain military superiority "through the back door."

The Soviets also said the plan was designed to trick it into unilateral disarmament in Europe because the United States would be left with a preponderance of European-based aircraft with nuclear capability.

The State Department said the Soviet reaction was "unfortunate and regrettably inaccurate."

"We hope that as the Soviets consider the president's proposal, they will come to accept the need to reach an agreement based on equality," it said.

A U.S. official, who asked not to be identified, said that while the Soviet probably will discuss Reagan's plan, they are likely to try to "drag out" the talks past the time scheduled to prepare for actual deployment of 572 U.S. Cruise and Pershing II missiles, starting in late 1983.

"I'm sure that is what they will be trying to do" to put the United States on the spot in European nations where there is hope the missiles will never be deployed, he said.

But two officials, one a senior member of the administration, declared Wednesday that the United States would proceed with deployment, if necessary, because otherwise the Soviets would lack an incentive to negotiate seriously.

"We plan to hold to the schedule unless there is a breakthrough and an agreement which would change the motivations for making a decision," the senior official said.

"I see no reason to forgo deployment of missiles just because we are talking," the other official said.

The senior State Department official signaled U.S. willingness to listen to Soviet counter-proposals, reflecting the widespread view here that any ultimate agreement would be for something less than a missile-free Europe.

"If the Soviets have counter-proposals that are meaningful and serious, they will be considered," he said.

West German Chancellor Helmut Schmidt, who urged Reagan to endorse the missile-removal plan, said he was "deeply satisfied." Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher of Britain said it should "receive a very warm welcome ... in the hearts and minds of people across Europe."

Reagan's speech at the National Press Club was designed to smooth relations with America's allies in Europe and to counter the growing anti-nuclear movement abroad. The administration paid $30,000 to have it beamed by satellite to Europe.

Deputy White House press secretary Larry Speakes said the president was "extremely pleased by the initial reaction," especially from Europe.

On Capitol Hill, Senate Majority Leader Howard Baker, R-Tenn., said the plan "will have a profound effect on foreign policy." Senate Minority Leader Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., commended Reagan for proposing "meaningful disarmament."

Reagan said the Soviets now have 1,100 warheads on 600 SS-20, SS-4 and SS-5 medium-range missiles trained on Western Europe, while the United States has no comparable missiles or warheads yet.

"With Soviet agreement, we could together substantially reduce the dread threat of nuclear war which hangs over the people of Europe," he said.

He said he has written Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev proposing a four-point agenda for "the mutual reduction of conventional, intermediate-range nuclear and strategic forces."

See Further Bid-Rigging Indictments

NEW BERN, N.C. (AP) — Further indictments are likely as state and federal officials continue their investigation of bid rigging in North Carolina, Attorney General Rufus Edmisten said.

"We have already had several tips involving other industries besides the electrical contracting industry and we are now investigating those tips," Edmisten said Wednesday. "I think we will find that bid rigging has permeated virtually every industry that does business with the state in one way or another before this thing is over."

U.S. Justice Department attorneys continued to bring witnesses before a federal grand jury Wednesday after it indicted two paving companies and three executives on charges of conspiring to rig bids on state highway contracts.

Laura M. Klaus, a trial attorney for the agency, said the jury would meet again in December and would continue until its term expires in February 1982. She would not say when more indictments would be sought or if the present grand jury would return more indictments.

Indicted were Allen Inc. of Fayetteville; Richard R. "Bobby" Allen, the company's chairman; and Arnold E. Houston Jr., vice president. Also indicted were Concrete Service Co. of Jacksonville and its president, Rudy W. Stankwyth.

Each was charged with a violation of the federal Sherman anti-trust act.

The charge against Allan Inc. and its two officers involved conspiracy to allocate five grading and paving projects. Robert E. Bloch, the U.S. Justice Department attorney who has handled the bid-rigging cases, said three of the contracts concerned the U.S. 401 bypass around Fayetteville and two concerned projects on N.C. 24, all in 1978.

The charge against Concrete Service Co. and Stankwyth concerned conspiracy to submit complementary rigged bids on one project on Independence Boulevard in the Wilmington area, Bloch said.

Allen is a prominent Fayetteville contractor who has been active in the Democratic Party and a friend of former President Jimmy Carter.

The indictments were the latest in a series of federal anti-trust charges that have been brought against companies involved in bidding on North Carolina state road projects. Sixteen companies have been convicted so far of rigging bids on state highway construction projects.

Allen was a fund-raiser for Carter in 1976 and the following year was named to the National Democratic Executive Fijiance Committee.

The charge against the two companies carries a maximum $1 million fine. The maximum penalty for the individuals is three years in prison and a $100,000 fine.

Edmisten said Wednesday that his office would seek to recover money lost by the state, as it has in earlier cases, if there is a conviction or guilty plea.

The state expanded its bid-rigging probe earlier this month, charging nine electrical companies with collusion in bids on an East Carolina University construction project.

Allen Inc. is the parent firm of the general contractor for the East Carolina University Medical School's Brody Medical Science Building.

The D. R. Allen & Son bid on the medical school building was $15.1 million, 27 percent over what architects for the project had estimated.

House Backs MX And B-1 In Big Pentagon Budget

By DON WATERS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House, urged to strengthen President Reagan's hand at the bargaining table with the Soviets, is overwhelmingly backing a record $197.4 billion Pentagon budget complete with the B-1 bomber and MX missile.

On the day Reagan launched a major arms-control initiative, the House approved the measure 335-61 Wednesday night.

Rep. Joseph P. Addabbo, chief sponsor of the bill as chairman of the defense appropriations subcommittee, sought to delete $1.9 billion each for the B-1 bomber and the MX missile — the backbone of Reagan's strategic modernization program.

Addabbo, a New York Democrat, argued that the Pentagon didn't need the money because it could dip into more than $30 billion in unobligated funds left over from previous years.

But the House preserved the B-1 money, 263-142, and the MX funds, 264-139, as member after member alluded to Reagan's offer earlier in the day to cancel plans to deploy medium-range nuclear missiles in Western Europe if the Soviets remove their own theater nuclear weapons trained on European targets.

"I think it would be unconscionable for the Congress on this very day to pull the rug out from under the president," declared Rep. Elliott Levitas, D-Ga.

And Rep. Robert H. Michel of Illinois, the House Republican leader, referred to the nuclear weapons systems as "instruments of peace and instruments of negotiation."

Assistant Senate Majority Leader Ted Stevens, R-Alaska, said he believed the president's announcement would have an influence when the Senate takes up the bill, which he said may be Monday.

"When the president is ready to go into negotiations of the kind he announced yesterday, it is no time to give any indication that we are going into unilateral disarmament," Stevens told reporters.

Stevens, who is chairman of the defense appropriations subcommittee, predicted that attempts to eliminate funds for the B-1 and the MX would fail.

Addabbo was shouted down earlier in the floor action when he moved that $219 million for procurement of the Pershing missiles be stricken from the bill.

He contended that he was just trying to introduce some savings because the missiles are still under development and the money to buy them will not be needed for more than a year.

The appropriations bill totaled $196.6 billion when brought to the floor, but a net $836 million was added through amendments largely to bring it into compliance with the policy-setting defense authorization bill that had been approved the day before.

Defense stalwarts did have a brief scare on the way to passage.

An attempt to cut procurement and research and development funds by 2 percent except for spare parts, repair parts and ammunition failed by just five votes, 202-197.

Justice Department Attorneys Conclude No Wrong By Allen

WASHINGTON (AP) — Justice Department attorneys have concluded that Richard V. Allen was innocent of wrongdoing in receiving $1,000 from Japanese journalists who interviewed Nancy Reagan, and see no need to appoint a special prosecutor, government sources said today.

The sources, who asked not to be identified, said attorneys in the Justice Department's public integrity section are expected to make a formal recommendation soon to Attorney General William French Smith in the case involving Allen, the White House national security adviser.

Although the lawyers have made no recommendation yet, the sources said, the investigation so far has shown "there is no basis for finding wrongdoing" by Allen and that naming a special prosecutor in the case was unwarranted.

The White House, in another reversal of its statements, acknowledged that the FBI told President Reagan's top aide that an initial investigation appeared to absolve Allen of any impropriety.

D. Lowell Jensen, an assistant attorney general in charge of the criminal division, said Wednesday night that the case remains under review. He refused to comment on a report by The Washington Post that department lawyers had recommended the Allen case be closed.

The newspaper said no final decision on the recommendation to close the case will be made until the attorney general returns from an out-of-town trip next week.

Nevertheless, one source was quoted as saying of Allen: "He may have been negligent for not making sure the money was turned in, but that's not a crime."

Reagan seemed to say the same thing Wednesday when he told reporters that the Allen matter had been "investigated" and "everything was fine."

Deputy White House press secretary Larry Speakes said Reagan was relying on an "initial oral FBI report."

In a written statement, Speakes said he understood that the report given to presidential counselor Edwin Meese III indicated that all the witnesses involved had been interviewed and that "everything checked out."

"The FBI felt they could indicate to Ed Meese that no administrative action was necessary," Speakes said.

Meese "presumably briefed the president" on the conversation, Speakes added later, saying that was what Reagan was talking about Wednesday.

He said the report was made before the matter became public Friday and the Justice Department announced its investigation was continuing.

The Post also reported today that some presidential advisers are urging that Allen be dismissed because, in their opinion, he showed bad judgment in accepting the gift.

Deputy White House press secretary Larry Speakes said today he had "no information" on the Justice Department's findings, nor had he heard "those kinds of statements" about White House aides urging Allen's dismissal.

Speakes said Meese received the preliminary FBI report about two weeks ago and had decided on the basis of that report not to take administrative action against Allen.

Allen has said the $1,000 was intended as a gift for Mrs. Reagan from Japanese journalists.

Nat'l Economy Actually Grew

WASHINGTON (AP) — The national economy actually grew at an annual rate of 0.6 percent rate in the third quarter of this year, rather than declining at that rate as had been estimated previously, the Commerce Department reported today.

In a preliminary estimate last month, Commerce Department officials said economic activity fell at an annual rate of 0.6 percent in the July-September period.

The increase in inflation-adjusted gross national product was mostly due to a build-up of inventories, and therefore seemed unlikely to change the views of most analysts that the nation has now slipped into recession.

In other words, U.S. businesses were still turning out new products and materials in the July-September quarter, but other government reports have indicated those businesses were having a lot of trouble selling the products.

So analysts inside and outside the government are now saying real GNP probably is falling at an annual rate of 3 percent to 5 percent in the current quarter — a more reliable indicator that recession is underway.

Industrial production and retail sales figures are way off, and unemployment is rising — apparent indications that businesses are cutting back and laying off workers.

McLawnhorn-Docsh Vows Said

Martha Ann Docsh and William Mangum McLawnhorn Jr. were married Sunday afternoon at 2:30 in the Bethany Free Will Baptist Church. The double ring ceremony was performed by C. L. Patrick.

A program of wedding music was rendered by Judy Dail Bowen, organist and Louise Wainwright, pianist. Mary Dixon was violinist and was accompanied by Janipat Worthington, pianist.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Mabel Becker of Gainesville, Fla. Mr. and Mrs. William Mangum McLawnhorn Sr. of Rt. 1, Ayden, are parents of the bridegroom.

Given in marriage by her brother, Lenn Gore, the bride wore an ivory formal gown styled with a pleated skirt and cape edged in Victorian lace. She carried a silk bouquet of white orchids, stephanotis and ivy. She wore white stephanotis in her hair.

The honor attendant was Jean Hall of Greenville and bridesmaids were Cassandra Docsh of Grifton and Cathy Gore of Gainesville, Fla.

The attendants each wore a gown of dusty rose styled with a blouson bodice and pleated skirt. They each carried a silk nosegay of pink and rose flowers and wore matching flowers in their hair.

The father of the bridegroom was best man and ushers included George Fouke of Cleveland, Ohio, Steve McLawnhorn of Winterville, Kent Loftin of Jacksonville, Fla. and Chad Docsh of Grifton.

The couple will live in Grifton after their wedding trip to River Forest Manor.

The bride attended the University of Florida, Gainesville and Bauder Fashion College, Jacksonville, Fla. The bridegroom attended N. C. State University and East Carolina University. They are owners and operators of Gotcha Covered Western Wear and Strawberry Fields, Ayden.

A reception was held after the wedding ceremony in the church educational building and was given by the parents of the bridegroom.

A cake cutting was held Saturday night and was given by the mother of the bride and her grandmother, Mrs. Pauline Lewis. It was held at the future home of the bridal couple.

A dinner was held Friday

night at the Ramada Inn, Greenville, honoring the bridal couple. Hosts and hostesses were Mr. and Mrs. Charles McLawnhorn, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Dail, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Byrd, Mrs. Patsy Worthington, Mr. and Mrs. R. H. McLawnhorn and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Craft.

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

What with my social life being somewhere to the right of Henry Thoreau, my husband and I have never succumbed to the machines that record a television program while you're out and can be played back at your leisure.

But I know a lot of people who have and who do.

Now it seems a suit has not only been brought against the manufacturers of home video recorders, but makes those who tape shows in their homes liable for criminal action.

Right away, my mind conjures up a picture of a family of four sitting around their living rooms, eating popcorn, playing with the dog and watching an illegal tape, when the door whips open, a couple of federal agents yell, "FREEZE!" and the father runs to the bathroom trying to flush Laverne and Shirley down the commode.

Keeping "little people" in line seems to be the American way. Big business and their tax shelters get by bilking the government out of billions of dollars while the IRS tracks down a woman who did not declare $87.65 profit on a garage sale.

The scare tactic assuring people they would break the law if they used a video recorder worked exactly as predicted. The public went out and bought every video recorder they could put their hands on before they were banned from the marketplace.

It's interesting what funny things will happen to this proposal on its way to the Supreme Court.

Maybe we'll be driving home one night and flashing red lights will pull us to the curb. We'll get out of the car and an officer will say, "Where have you been?"

"To mother's house watching television."

"Live or illegal video tape?"

"Live!"

The officer leers, "You look like you've been watching an old Gilligan's Island show to me."

"No, no, Skipper, you're wrong."

"Why did you call me Skipper?"

"It was a ship . . . I mean a slip."

"Maybe you'd better come downtown and we'll get a statement."

Hours later they will have made their Video Bust. I can somehow see my mother saying as she leaves, "Mind if I record the Osmonds while I'm gone?"

Helen Laughinghouse Marries M.L. Meeks

GAINESVILLE, Ga. — Miss Helen Moore Laughinghouse and Marion Littleton Meeks Jr. were united in marriage Saturday at 4 p.m. in a double ring ceremony performed by Father Edward O'Conner in Saint Michaels Catholic Church here.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Haywood Dail Laughinghouse of Greenville, N.C. and the late Minnie Moore Laughinghouse. She was given in marriage and escorted by her father.

The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Bennie Stone Larj of Spartanburg, S.C. and Dr. Marion Littleton Meeks of Lincoln, Mass.

A program of wedding music was presented by Mrs. Elisa Feldman, organist and Miss Harriet Woodcock, violinist.

The bride wore a gown of candlelight organza featuring a Queen Anne neckline and bishop sleeves accented with chantilly lace and seed pearls. The empire waistline flowed into a chapel train. The fingertip veil was embellished with matching lace and pearls. She carried a cascading bouquet of white sweetheart roses, stephanotis and gardenias.

The honor attendants were Susan Adams Laughinghouse and Mrs. Margaret Laughinghouse Elks of Greenville, N.C. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Robert Cowley Young Jr. of Bethel, N.C., stepsister of the bride, Lilly Davenport of Raleigh, N.C., cousin of the bride, and Mrs. Marshall Stone Meeks of Spartanburg, sister-in-law of the bridegroom.

They wore formal gowns of moca chiffon styled with a tucked bodice, Victorian neckline and three-quarter sleeves with chiffon lace cuffs and yoke. The natural gathered waistline skirt was of brown tulle.

The brother of the bridegroom, Fleming Littleton Meeks of New York, N.Y. was best man and ushers included Marshall Stone Meeks of Spartanburg, S.C., brother of the bridegroom, Haywood Dail and William Charles Laughinghouse of Greenville, brothers of the bride, and Leslie Earl Olgby of Ila, Ga.

The mother of the bride wore a hand-painted georgette gown sprinkled with sequins and seed pearls. She carried a white orchid. The mother of the bridegroom wore a blue formal gown and a white orchid. The grandmother of the bridegroom wore a mauve dress and a white orchid.

Following the ceremony the bride's parents entertained at a reception held at the Chattahoochee Country Club. Assisting were Mrs. Jack L. Raymer and Miss Sarah Burton Jenkins, great aunts of the bride.

A wedding breakfast was given Saturday morning at the Holiday Inn for the wedding party and out-of-town guests by Mrs. Raymer, Miss Jenkins, Mrs. William E. Lamb, cousin of the bride, and Miss Lilly Davenport.

The parents of the bridegroom, Mrs. Larj and Dr. and Mrs. Meeks honored the wedding party, friends and out-of-town guests at an after-rehearsal dinner party at Rudolphs Friday evening.

A luncheon was held Friday for the bridal couple and guests at the Bamboo Gardens and was given by Mrs. J. L. Meeks, grandmothers of the bridegroom, Miss Jean Meeks and Mrs. John Perrine, aunts of the bridegroom.

After a trip to the Florida keys, the couple will live in Gainesville, Ga.

Assessment Still Ahead

Objectively, we are not sorry to see Admiral Hyman Rickover "moved up" to become an advisor to the President and out of his slot as honcho of the nuclear Navy. The move was long overdue.

The Admiral is 81, many years beyond the customary age of retirement in the Navy (which speaks well of his past political persuasiveness and his undeniable genius in creating a nuclear fleet when such a concept was anathema to the service's establishment).

Mavericks do have a place in the scheme of things. Too bad General Billy Mitchell was unable to push through his concepts of air power

'way back in the days when it too was in its infancy; it might have changed history.

But Rickover accomplished his one great single-minded goal, and earned a rightful place in the history books as father of the nuclear Navy. There was, and is, little left for him to prove.

There remains only one test for the Admiral, and that would be the degree to which he has impregnated his spirit, drive, standards and talent among his successors in today's Navy. That, in the long run, may prove to be his greatest accomplishment.

Review Signals Carefully

The City Council last week approved a recommendation for the removal of five traffic control signals in the downtown area.

The action was taken after a study of 23 signalized intersections to determine their need. The study showed that fuel consumption would be reduced by 17,248 gallons per year and the city will save $5,322 in maintenance costs with the removal of the traffic signals and their replacement with stop signs.

That is fine, if the study shows that. No doubt traffic signals should be reviewed from time-to-time so that the devices can be removed where traffic no longer justifies them.

Let's be careful though, not to remove signals solely to save money. After all, one accident at any one of the intersections could cost more in damages than the city will save for the entire year.

Four-Year Terms?

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH — With nearly half a year remaining before North Carolina voters go to the polls for the spring primaries, the battle lines are forming over several amendments to the state Constitution.

The most controversial proposal is one which would establish four-year terms for members of the General Assembly. The present term is two years.

Specialists at the Institute of Government at Chapel Hill recall that the state's Constitution of 1776 prescribed one-year terms for legislators. Since 1835, the term has been two years with elections held in even-numbered years.

If voters approve the proposed change in May 1982, candidates who win election the following November would take office on Jan. 1, 1983, and remain in the post until the end of 1986.

Turnover
All seats in the legislature — 50 in the Senate and 120 in the House of Representatives — would be up for grabs at the same time. This provision in itself is likely to generate some argument since even some of those who favor the four-year terms would like to see the election dates staggered so that at least half the members would be experienced.

Those who favor the elections of the entire membership at one time, and that time being separate from the presidential and gubernatorial elections, feel that this separation will mean a better election since national politics or the coat-tails of a popular candidate either in the state or at the national level will not have as much influence on the legislative races. To stagger election of legislators would cause half the membership to stand for election during the state and national campaigns.

Impetus for the change comes from two primary sources:

— Campaigns have become increasingly expensive, so many legislators would simply like to save the cost of running every two years;

— Longer terms would permit legislative debate on hot topics somewhat more ina state governments should be able to issue revenue bonds to help finance facilities being built by private colleges or universities. The bond money would be repaid by the institution, but the real attraction is that private investors can get tax-free income through governmental bonds, and the colleges could get cheaper money. The debate will center around whether taxpayers should be the "endorsers" of such loans even though no tax money is involved.

The question of whether government should build facilities such as airplane hangars or special shiploading terminals and then give private operators long-term insulated from the immediacy of running for re-election.

The key phrase which will dominate argument over four-year terms will be "citizen legislator." Opponents will insist that only the wealthy or retired will be able to spend four years in office, and the longer terms will provide too much insulation from citizen reaction. Proponents say the proposal will save the state from full-time professional lawmakers because the longer term and less expensive campaigning will allow more people to seek office.

Colleges
At the May primary, voters will also decide whether or not North Caro-

NOT CHINESE, BUT TORTURE JUST THE SAME!

BY JAMES J. KILPATRICK

Read It—Not About It

WASHINGTON — It was told of the late Diogenes (412-323 B.C.) that toward the end of his days he walked barefoot through the streets of Athens, holding high a lantern. He was looking, so he said, for an honest man. He must have found very few, for they called him Diogenes the Cynic.

If the old boy were alive today, I would be tempted to lead him barefoot up the steps of the Executive Office Building and down the marble corridors to the office of Budget Director David Stockman. Hold up your lantern, friend! You've found your man.

Mr. Stockman is going through hell these days as the consequence of an article about him in the December issue of The Atlantic. By his own description, he has been taken to the woodshed by the president. He has become a splendid target for the political cartoonists. The word around town is that he has "lost his credibility."

The beleaguered budget director will lose no credibility among those who take the time to read the whole of William Greider's mastery of inflation.

The budget director held another conviction. Over the long haul, a healthy economy could be restored only by tax cuts, especially for industry and for wealthy individuals, that would provide the fresh capital and incentives on which rising productivity would depend.

Thus Mr. Stockman went to work. What Mr. Greider's article brilliantly depicts — and what articles about the article have obscured — is the frenetic pressure chamber in which the Reagan budget revisions were developed. Under the calmest of circumstances, projections of revenues and outlays are little more than the casting of entrails or the reading of tea leaves. The budget director needed some numbers the administration could sell. He put together some plausible figures and plunged into battle. His tactics had to be based on shock and surprise. It was a wild time.

Over a period of months, Mr. Stockman discussed his crusade with Mr. Greider. Honest confession led to honest reporting. Deals had to be struck: Majority Leader Baker had to be stroked with the Clinch River reactor. Congressman Sonny Montgomery could be kept in harness through veterans' benefits. Little by little, the budget director shed his illusions. He watched the special interests go to work — Big Business, Big Oil, Big Sugar. "The hogs were really feeding. The greed level, the level of opportunism, just got out of control."

So what else is new? It was doubtless impolitic of David Stockman to talk so candidly with a reporter. But there was nothing really wrong — and much that was right — in his acknowledging that "supply-side economics" is no more than the "trickle-down theory" in a different dress. It's the same old 'coon, as a Virginia statesman used article, and do not simply read about the article. What did Mr. Stockman say that was so awful? In essence, he disclosed that here in Washington, politicians play politics. In the name of all the angels and the saints, what games are politicians supposed to play? Pinochle? Tiddlywinks?

As a two-term member of the House from a rural district in Michigan, Mr. Stockman had acquired an elementary knowledge of these things. Nevertheless, he came to his high office last January with an idealistic vision of the federal budget as it ought to be. Plainly, the principal entitlement programs — Medicare, Medicaid, Social Security, food stamps, educational grants, retirement benefits — were out of control. Unless these could be capped, in the fashion of gushers in an oil field, there would be no hope of balancing the budget and reducing rates

To the editor:

The National Labor Relations Board has enormous and powerful influence on the future of the Du Pont employees and more especially the Kinston plant. They have authorized the Steelworkers Union to hold elections at 14 Du Pont plants.

There are many questions about this that must concern many Kinston employees. Why did the union pick these particular 14 plants; located in a number of states and many different types of products produced?

What is the Steelworkers Union prime objective? In my opinion it is to eventually organize all Du Pont plants under one contract without regard for the needs of the people in each plant. The union is violently opposed to the North Carolina Right to Work Law. Do the Kinston employees want it removed?

How much will it cost each employee? Is it true each employee will pay about $20 each month? If both husband and wife are working, then they would pay $40 each month. That adds up to one half of $1,000 each year. Dues can be increased at any time.

National unions spend large sums of money for political activities. How much of your money will be used for political purposes? Do you agree with the Steelworkers Union top management politics who advocate and push for big government and very liberal programs without regard for the high taxes you pay?

Why is the regional office of the NLRB in Maryland making the decisions when North Carolina also has a regional office? It sounds like the Steelworkers Union has excellent relations with NLRB. We will welcome the time when President Reagan has the opportunity to appoint a conservative to the NLRB.

Du Pont wages and benefits stack up well with other companies. Last but not least, what will the Kinston employees get in exchange for their money and having someone else making decisions for them?

ELEVATOR NOT RUNNING

When the mother of Honore de Balzac, the great French man of letters, sent her twenty-year-old son out into the world to fashion a career for himself, it was with these words: "Write your masterpiece! And do not forget that in your profession there is no middle street; you must be king or nobody."

Thereupon young Balzac betook himself to Paris, rented a cheap garret room, and began to write, morning, noon and night. During his early years of poverty and hardship he formed those habits of industry and diligence which made him one of the most voluminous writers the world has ever seen, as well as one of the most distinguished.

Too many people keep pressing the button impatiently, wondering when the elevator will come along and whisk them to fame and fortune. But life doesn't work that way. No elevators run in the temple of success. There's plenty of room at the top, but you have to get there by climbing. — Elisha Douglass

Concern For Leaf Quotas

By WILLIAM M. WELCH

Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) —

After a vintage year in the fields and a narrow victory in Congress, tobacco growers are awaiting nervously a decision on how much of the flue-cured leaf they'll be allowed to produce next year.

The decision by law rests with U.S. Agriculture Secretary John Block and is due by Dec. 1. It is a question that has sharply divided tobacco interests, with many fearing a cut in production will severely hurt farmers and others arguing there is simply too much tobacco on hand now.

Though there are complex technical arguments on both sides, the question boils down to one of money. "If we cut quota, let's face it, we're cutting farmers' income," said George Dunlop, chief of staff to the Senate Agriculture Committee and aide to Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C.

But another factor outside farmers' control may also be at work: Some growers and tobacco experts have voiced concern that pressure within the Reagan administration for more budget cuts could prompt a cut in levels of production in 1982 as a way to save money in the federal budget.

Hoke Leggett, associate administrator of the USDA branch that administers the federal tobacco price-support program, said in an interview that Agriculture Department officials were to reach a decision privately this week, then submit it to the White House and Budget Director David Stockman.

Leggett said he didn't know what the ultimate decision would be, and believed the budget would not be the main consideration. But he acknowledged that there is pressure within the Reagan administration to reduce the quota.

"It is accurate to say that from the Office of Management and Budget there are some pressures to do this (cut quota)," Leggett said. Added Bill Little, commodities director for the N.C. Farm Bureau:

"In all the circles you talk to in Washington now...they do indicate privately there will be a great deal of pressure on them to reduce quota because of the budgetary requirements."

The budget reasoning behind a cut in quota is that it would not only reduce supply but also probably mean less federal money would be tied up in price-support loans.

Under the program, the government loans money that is used by the Flue Cured Tobacco Stabilization Corp. to buy up tobacco that doesn't bring an amount above the price-support level at auction. As Stabilization sells off its stocks, it repays money to the federal government.

Though they don't like to talk about it, tobacco supporters in Washington estimate that the federal government puts about $170 million to $200 million into the loans each year. The money is repaid, and the tobacco industry says that means it isn't a subsidy. But it is still considered a government outlay for budget purposes, experts say.

"A lot of the argument is it should not be a consideration, but they don't keep books that way in Washington," said Leggett, who left his Halifax County tobacco farm to take the USDA job in March.

Most tobacco leaders, including the North Carolina Agriculture Department, the N.C. and Virginia state Farm Bureaus, and growers at recent hearings in North Carolina and Georgia, said they want to keep next year's basic quota unchanged.

Those opposing a cut express the worry that following a 7.5 percent reduction last year and a heavy production this year, a cut now would make tobacco allotments — which amount to federal franchises to grow tobacco — more precious.

That, they say, would drive up the rents that must be paid by the many growers who don't own their own allotments. And they say it could set off economic reactions that would work against growers and perhaps further strain the assailed tobacco program at a time when it narrowly survived efforts in Congress to kill it.

"Any cut will hurt the farmer, but the more the cut the more it will hurt," said Bill Parham, deputy North Carolina commissioner of agriculture. "If it is cut as much as it was in 1981, it would do serious harm."

The problem would be compounded, tobacco experts say, because of this year's record $1.3 billion crop. The crop was so good growers used provisions of the tobacco program formula to sell the maximum 15 percent over quota, including stocks from the previous year, said Carlyle Teague, spokesman for the N.C. Department of Agriculture.

That requires a corresponding decrease in the following year, so most growers are already facing an effective quota below the basic quota, even if the basic quota is unchanged.

"I don't believe that in the current political climate, the tobacco program could survive the controversy that a 10 percent quota could provide," said Chris Bickers, editor of The Flue Cured Tobacco Farmer magazine and commentator on the tobacco scene.

"If rents go much higher, say over 25 percent of the price of tobacco, they'd have to ask themselves whether this thing is really worth the price," Bickers added.

Although most growers supported the current quota at the hearings, there were dissenting voices.

Calling for quota reductions were J.C. Galloway, a Greenville grower who is staff agriculture advisor to Sen. John East, R-N.C., and Bailey Williamson, a farmer and farm advisor to Helms, chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee.

That farm advisors to North Carolina's two senators advocated a quota reduction was viewed as significant by some tobacco experts.

"That's extraordinarily interesting. That's a policy balloon," said John Merritt, administrative aide to Rep. Charles Rose, D-N.C., a leading House strategist for tobacco.

Hospital Cost Controls Vital

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — John Bedrosian says he and his staff can walk into the average voluntary (not-for-profit) hospital and within a very short time determine why it is having financial difficulties.

"We know what to look for and where to cut," says Bedrosian. "We look at the various cost components, and we examine the controls on them." Many voluntary hospitals, he suggests, are simply mismanaged.

Bedrosian's credentials as critic are found in the operating results of National Medical Enterprises, Inc., which owns or operates 26,100 beds in 218 hospitals or long-term health care facilities.

It is the third-largest of the profit-seeking health care companies that now own or manage 1,300 of the nation's 6,500 acute care hospitals and many thousands of its long-term facilities, such as nursing homes.

National Medical, of which Bedrosian is executive vice president, is eminently profitable, earning $1.24 a share in fiscal 1981, up from 37 cents in 1977 and 15 cents in 1972, when it was three years old.

Whether they call it profit or surplus, most community hospitals (not including big-city teaching institutions) should be able to take in more than goes out, says Bedrosian, who is also president-elect of the Federation of American Hospitals.

Speaking as federation president-elect, Bedrosian insists there is no conflict between profit and health. "We take all who comes through the door. If you provide quality care the bottom line follows," he says.

The difference, he continues, is that companies such as his are more disciplined, more aware, more efficient, much better managed.

A walk through a community hospital generally reveals inadequate inventory control on supplies, he says. Moreover, he adds, they are not properly reimbursed under Medicare and Medicaid, and they have poor controls on staffing.

"You cannot have the luxury of too much nursing," he says. Ideally, he figures, you should seek 2½ to 3 employees per patient, a goal he often sees exceeded by hospitals with poor cost controls.

Bedrosian looks at the purchasing department and quickly sees savings. "We have mass buying power," he says, but he adds that voluntary hospitals can accomplish the same thing by combining to buy supplies.

"How do you know when you're cutting too much?" he was asked. "The physicians let us know," he replied. All National Medical hospitals, he points out, are governed by a board of physicians and laymen. The management seeks the lowest costs; the board, he says, prevents it from going so far as to damage the quality of medical services provided.

Whether such professionally managed, profit-seeking hospitals are an answer to rising health care costs is still being debated. Some say they contribute to the problem; some say their efficiency diminishes it.

Senate To Consider Re-Write Of Criminal Code

By MIKE SHANAHAN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) —

The fundamentalist Moral Majority and the American Civil Liberties Union are opposing a major rewrite of the federal criminal code endorsed by a Senate panel. The Senate Judiciary Committee on Wednesday approved the revisions, 11-5, and sent the measure to the full Senate.

Among its major provisions are the elimination of parole for federal offenders and a more uniform system for sentencing on a wide range of criminal offenses.

"This is the most important piece of legislation to promote criminal justice in my 27 years in the Senate," said Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., chairman of the Judiciary Committee.

Three conservative members of the panel voted against the revised criminal code because they said it did not go far enough.

Among them was Sen. Jeremiah Denton, R-Ala., who objected to provisions permitting prosecution of a husband for raping his wife.

"When you get married you might expect you're going to get a little sex," Denton said.

The Moral Majority unsuccessfully sought to include provisions for a revised death penalty and easier federal intervention in labor disputes.

While the religious lobbying organization failed in those efforts, the committee did accept some of the group's other recommendations. Among them were tougher penalties for rape and the inclusion of a proposal that prostitutes involved in interstate sex offenses could be prosecuted along with those who profit from such illegal activities.

From the other side of the political spectrum, John Shattuck, head of the ACLU's Washington office, said the 425-page proposed revision "is a major setback for civil liberties."

In an interview, Shattuck said the ACLU is opposed to provisions permitting judges to decide which defendants should be denied bail with no clear criteria to determine which are dangerous to the community.

"There are no objective standards for which defendants are judged to be dangerous, and this leaves it only to the judges to decide who will get bail," he said.

The ACLU also objects to what Shattuck said are infringements on First Amendment rights in provisions allowing tough enforcement of federal obscenity laws.

The revised criminal code was produced by a coalition of liberal Democrats and conservative Republicans, including Thurmond and Sens. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., and Orrin Hatch, R-Utah.

Similar criminal code reforms were approved by both the Senate and House Judiciary Committees, but neither proposal was approved by the full House or Senate.

Thurmond said the changed political climate in the Congress will make it easier to obtain passage of a revised criminal code, but not before 1982.

Lawyers and federal prosecutors and judges have sought a reworking of the hodge-podge of criminal laws that now govern the federal judicial system, and the Reagan administration has said it supports the version approved by the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Foul Blobs Are Infesting Beach

NAGS HEAD, N.C. (AP) — Small unidentified floating objects along the Dare County Coast have scientists and residents scratching their heads — and holding their noses.

The gray-green, oval-shaped blobs, about 6 to 10 inches in diameter, have a "hideous odor," residents say. Nevertheless, people pick them up off the beach and take them home, thinking they have something special like a sponge or shell. Others have sold them to tourists.

When the tightly compacted balls are dropped on the floor, they bounce. They will not come apart unless they are cut. Dogs love to play with them.

What are they? Scientists at the Dare County Marine Resources Center don't know. They know the blobs aren't sponges or ambergris — a sperm whale secretion used in making perfumes that sells for huge sums.

Nellie Myrtle Pridgen, a Dare County native who spends most of her time near the ocean, said, "It's not a sponge. I think it's New Jersey sludge. It has a hideous odor and when you cut into it it's black."

"You can't get that odor off your hands without going back home and washing with soap and water," she said.

One Nags Head resident has been convincing tourists — and a few locals as well — that the blobs were sponges.

"If you'll take it home to dry, peel the outside layer off and bleach it, you'll have something special," he said.

Residents report that many are taking him seriously and drying out the blobs on their garage floors.

One businessman from Hatteras Island said he collected several bags of the stuff and is taking it home to dry and sell to tourists next summer. "If it's special, a tourist will buy it," he said.

But other residents scoff, saying that the unidentified floating objects are nothing more than whale dung.

That theory has not been tested. But schools of whales have been observed offshore during the past several weeks.

Another resident said the blobs are "mud tufts."

"There used to be a forest offshore and now after storms these mud tufts will wash in," he said. "I've seen it all my life."

So far, no one has tried to convince gourmet tourists that the blobs are a rare sea delicacy.

Day of Trial For Nuclear Power Plant

By G.G. LaBelle
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — It is a day of trial for the nuclear power industry across the United States.

The federal agency that oversees atomic power considered whether to yank the license of a California nuclear plant and Congress questioned if the same agency has adequate controls over atomic facilities. And the agency itself admitted to problems in checking up on the nuclear plants that produce more than 10 percent of the nation's electricity.

STUDENTS OBSERVE HEALTH FAIR — City school fourth graders get a first hand look at operating room procedures at the annual Health Fair presented by the Auxiliary to the Pitt County Medical Society this week at St. Peter's School.

Students got a close-up look at proper dental care, parts of the body, a quick listen to the heart and other health-related points of interest. The fair is sponsored by wives of local doctors. (Reflector Photo by Tommy Forrest) and Zimmer plants, the question is quality assurance.

At Diablo Canyon, most of the inquiry centers on why the plant's owner did not catch wrong information given the consultant that lead to incorrect design discovered years later.

At Zimmer, the question is whether the utility's own checks and an initial NRC investigation provided proof that alleged welding errors had been corrected. A later NRC review showed the agency's original Zimmer investigation "was neither vigorous nor sufficiently broad in scope."

In his letter to Udall, Palladino noted that the NRC "does not have the resources to conduct in-depth investigations in all instances" where construction problems are reported at nuclear power plants.

William Dircks, the NRC's executive director for operations, said a fuller investigation of problems at the Zimmer plant would not pay off in cutting risks to the public.

As he put it: "The potential for further reduction of risk to the public is not commensurate with the incremental resources required to broaden the depth and breadth of this type of investigation."

Palladino said the findings at the Zimmer plant do not indicate "an adverse public health and safety situation," but he added the NRC's original investigation of the plant's problems should have been "more comprehensive."

"The incident at Diablo, along with allegations we have heard over the years raising questions about whether plants were being built as required by regulations, has caused us to initiate this inquiry into the quality assurance programs of the commission and the nuclear industry," said Rep. Morris Udall, D-Ariz., the subcommittee chairman.

The NRC itself released a series of documents Wednesday which admitted to "inadequacies" in an investigation of welding problems at the William H. Zimmer power plant under construction near Cincinnati. Palladino said this was symptomatic of an overall problem for inspection of U.S. nuclear plants.

"Shortcomings in the ... investigation of Zimmer reveal a generic problem," Palladino said in a letter to Udall that was among the documents disclosed under a Freedom of Information Act request.

How's The Weather?

WEATHER FORECAST — Snow flurries and snow are expected in the forecast period until Friday, from the upper Mississippi Valley into the Midwest and Great Lakes. Showers are forecast for the Mid-Atlantic and rain for the Northeast. Showers forecast in the Northwest. (AP Laserphoto)

By The Associated Press
One more day of mild temperatures was predicted for North Carolina Thursday, with a cold snap predicted for Friday and the weekend. A rather intense low pressure system was gathering strength over the central plains this morning. This storm will move into the Midwest today and into the New England states on Friday. A strong cold front will be moving east toward the Appalachians tonight, then sweep east across the state on Friday.

Mild weather will continue across the state today as winds become southwest and increase somewhat during the day and into tonight. Rather strong and gusty southwest winds will become more westerly on Friday as the storm system moves to the northeast of our region and the cold front advances across the state.

On Wednesday, afternoon temperatures ranged mostly in the mid- and upper 60s although there were a few low 70s over the southeast. At the end of the state, the higher mountains were limited mostly to the 40s.

A clear sky and near calm winds prevailed around the state during the night. Early morning readings were mostly in the 30s with the exception of the 40s along the immediate coast.

Clouds will be on the increase over the west today with a few showers and possibly a thunderstorm mainly over the mountains by late this afternoon or evening. It will continue mostly sunny over the east. High readings will reach well into the 60s this afternoon with some low 70s in the southeast.

Scattered showers and thunderstorms will spread east tonight as a rather strong cold front knifes its way into the mountains during tonight and on eastward Friday. It will be rather windy later tonight and Friday. Colder air will overspread the mountains and into the Piedmont Friday and over the coastal region by late Friday.

There is a good prospect of some snow flurries across the mountains by late Friday. Temperatures will be falling through the 40s and into the 30s across the mountains but 60s and 70s will hold forth over the east until later in the day. It will continue windy and cold Friday night and Saturday with temperatures dropping into the 20s and 30s by Saturday morning with highs only in the 40s except some 50s in the east on Saturday.

A small craft advisory will probably be issued for the coastal area late today as southwest winds increase to between 10 and 20 mph later today and 15 to 25 mph tonight. Even higher winds will buffet the state Friday.

Most Denominations Oppose School Prayer

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Most of North Carolina's major religious denominations oppose efforts to return prayer to public schools, though some support the efforts, denomination spokesman said.

"Most of the mainline denominations are opposed to prayer in the schools," said the Rev. S. Collins Kilburn, director of the N.C. Council of Churches. "The public schools are not an instrument of religious outreach or worship."

"All the churches believe very much in prayer, but praying is the business of the religious community and family."

Southern Baptists, Episcopalians, Presbyterians, United Methodists, Lutherans and Jews told The News and Observer of Raleigh they generally oppose the U.S. Senate's action Tuesday endorsing programs of voluntary prayer in public schools.

Backing the Senate initiative were the predominantly black General Baptist State convention, Roman Catholics and fundamentalist organizations.

The Senate plan would bar the Justice Department from using funds to stop programs of voluntary prayer and meditation in public schools. The Senate's action came on an amendment to an appropriations bill that still awaits a final vote.

Earlier this month, the Baptist State Convention passed a resolution opposing restoring school prayer on the grounds that it would violate the principle of separation of church and state.

"We don't think the government has any business prescribing prayer," said the Rev. Frank R. Campbell, convention president. "That's the bottom line. We don't think the state ought to be in the prayer-composing business."

The Rev. Robert C. Gregg, a professor of church history at Duke Divinity School and an Episcopalian, said: "The Episcopal church takes seriously the belief that one cannot have the government interfering in the practice of religion. I would be very much surprised in you found very much enthusiasm for this in Episcopal churches."

But the Rev. J.R. Manley, president of the General Baptist State Convention, disagreed.

"We would favor prayer in school," Manley said. "Many have the strong feeling that to take it out of the schools is by indirection saying it is not important. We don't think the state should be atheist. It should allow religion but not promote it."

The Rev. H. Lamar Mooneyham of Durham, president of the N.C. Chapter of Moral Majority, praised the Senate action.

"I think it's a wise move,"

he said. "Voluntary prayer is no more a violation of the Constitution and separation of church and state than opening the sessions of the Supreme Court with a prayer."

Now Facing New Counts

KANNAPOLIS, N.C. (AP) — A Kannapolis man who has been battling the army's claim that he is a deserter has been jailed on a charge of nonsupport.

Terry Combs, 29, is in Cabarrus County Jail under $500 bond on a charge of failure to comply with a court order concerning support of his ex-wife and two children.

Court records show that he is $745 behind on his $50-per-week payments.

Combs is scheduled to appear in court Dec. 7 on his appeal from an earlier district court ruling on three counts of writing worthless checks totaling $1,456.33.

Meanwhile, Capt. William O'Connell of Fort Bragg said the Army has located military orders that directed Combs to report to Vietnam in 1971. But he said the Army has no proof that Combs received the orders.

Combs, who was ordered back into the Army in September after an inquiry that he initiated, claims he never received the orders because the Army lost his records.

EYES IMPACT — Robert Nimmo, Veterans Administration Administrator, appears before a Senate Committee on Veterans' Affairs on Capitol Hill, saying that he foresees a cost to the government of hundreds of millions of dollars a year if a study finds that the health of servicemen in Vietnam was damaged by Agent Orange. DRIVER INJURED — Gerald Leo Hardee of Robersonville, the driver of this car, was admitted to Pitt Memorial Hospital for treatment of injuries he received in this 2:46 a.m. collision today. Police Department investigators said the Hardee car slammed into a guard rail at the north end of the Tar River bridge on Greene Street. The rail, according to officers, went through the front of the car and into the passenger compartment. The car caught fire, but firemen were able to extinguish the blaze, and rescue workers were able to free the trapped man in about 55 minutes without additional injury. Damage to the car was estimated at $11,000 and damage to the guard rail was set at $300. Hardee was charged with operating left of center. (Reflector Photos by Tommy Forrest)

TRAPPED IN AUTO — Fire/rescue officer Ben White gives emergency aid to Hardee as rescuers using a Hurst rescue tool pry parts of the car to free the victim.

New Fitness Facility Here

Ken Littrell and Becky Raynor have announced the opening of the new Spa of Greenville, an exercise and physical fitness facility. They said the Spa, located next to Foodtown in South Park Shopping Center, is celebrating its grand opening this week through Nov. 30. As a feature of the grand opening, Dennis Cole of the "Young and the Restless" daytime television show will make a guest appearance from 9 a.m. until noon on Saturday, they said. The Spa of Greenville will offer exercise and fitness facilities for both men and women, it was noted. The Spa features Dynacam equipment, a whirlpool, sauna, steamroom, and locker and shower facilities in offering a planned exercise and diet instruction program. Littrell and Ms. Raynor, who own and operate the facility, opened their first club in Rocky Mount in 1979.

they reported. They operated the European Health Club at Virginia Beach, Va., before moving to Raleigh as part-owner of the Spa Health Clubs of Raleigh and Cary.

Optimistic On His Tour

By The Associated Press
Gov. Jim Hunt, in the midst of a promotional tour of the Orient, says he is optimistic about the prospect for getting Japanese firms to relocate in North Carolina. "Some of these companies are very close to making a decision on a new plant location," Hunt said. "In each case, these are the kinds of companies that we are looking for to diversify our economy."

Hunt called on industrial prospects in Tokyo and Odawara, Japan on Wednesday before traveling to Nagoya for a meeting with that city's Chamber of Commerce. He met with a Tokyo firm that manufactures automobile parts for Datsuns and which is beginning to look at North Carolina for a new location. Hunt was the luncheon guest of a poultry processing company looking at a Piedmont location for its factory and now doing market research in North Carolina, his spokesmen said. Later, he will visit South Korea and Taiwan before returning on Nov. 25.

Judge Refuses Hear Lawsuit

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — A federal judge has refused to hear a lawsuit aimed at halting the 6-week-old Coast Guard program of stopping Haitian refugee boats trying to reach Florida. U.S. District Judge Norman Roettger Tuesday threw out the suit without allowing arguments to be heard. He said the Haitian Refugee Center Inc. had no authority to represent Haitians in their homeland and said President Reagan's Sept. 29 order on interdiction was within his constitutional powers.

Yesterday's Cryptoquip — REBELLIOUS BROKER BROKE OUR OFFICE CLOCKS.
Today's Cryptoquip clue: V equals P
The Cryptoquip is a simple substitution cipher in which each letter used stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words, and words using an apostrophe can give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is accomplished by trial and error.

Name Of The Game Is To Make Money

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — New Jersey has its Monopoly; now North Carolina has its Battle of Guilford.
Norm Haddad has created the Battle of Guilford, a real estate board game similar to Monopoly. It consists of 28 pieces of commercial real estate that players try to conquer. The properties listed on the game, complete with deeds, are actual restaurants, retail and factory outlet stores, banks and car dealers in the Greensboro area.
The object of the game is to bankrupt opponents by collecting property, building "branches" (rather than hotels) and knocking out opponents with high rental fees.
The object of the game for Haddad and Gamedia Productions, which markets the game, is to make money. Each business named on the board paid about $600 to be listed.
Slogans or business logos appear on the real estate squares, on the backs of the deeds, on most of the doubles cards. Even the rules pamphlet has a few advertising plugs. Discount coupons for several businesses are included in the package.
Haddad said he is delighted with how people are responding to the Battle of Guilford.
"The main thing is it's fun and people can relate to it," he said.

Prosecutors Rest Case In A Death By Poison

GOLDSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Sally M. Holloman ran down the corridor of Wayne Memorial Hospital screaming, "I killed him," after she was told of the death of her second husband, a witness testified Wednesday.
Ollie J. Kornegay, a licensed practical nurse, testified during the second day of testimony in the first-degree murder trial of Mrs. Holloman, 38, of Smithfield. She is accused of poisoning Jasper Talton Weaver, 33, who died Feb. 19, 1970 of a massive dose of arsenic while in the Goldsboro hospital.
The prosecution ended its case Wednesday, and Judge Wiley F. Bowen refused a request by Mrs. Holloman's lawyer to order her acquittal for lack of evidence. The defense was to begin presentation of its case today.
Mrs. Kornegay said she was on duty the night Weaver died, two weeks after he had been admitted to the hospital with symptoms that resembled an adverse reaction to antibiotics he had been taking.
On the night of Weaver's death, Mrs. Kornegay said, a nurse ran from Weaver's hospital room yelling that Weaver was convulsing. Doctors and nurses frantically tried to save him but failed. Later, Mrs. Kornegay testified, a doctor told Mrs. Holloman that Weaver was dead and Mrs. Holloman screamed, "I killed him. It's all my fault."
Under cross-examination, Mrs. Kornegay said such outbursts were typical of a person whose relative has just died.
Weaver's brother, Sammy K. Weaver of Columbia, S.C., testified Wednesday that Weaver was broke when he died in February 1970 but that his wife, Sally M.

The actual cause of Weaver's death was not known until this year when Kathy Jo Faircloth, a friend of Mrs. Holloman, told the Johnson County Sheriff's Department that Mrs. Holloman said she had poisoned Weaver, according to earlier testimony. When Weaver's body was dug up, arsenic was found in the liver and brain.
'MEMORY PILL'
BERLIN (AP) — An East German research institute is developing a "memory pill" to help children with learning disabilities, the official East Berlin news agency ADN says.
Prosecutors are trying to prove that Mrs. Holloman poisoned her husband by putting arsenic in his iced tea and later in his intravenous fluid in the hospital.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was mixed today as the takeover battle for Marathon Oil returned to the spotlight on Wall Street.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials dropped 1.90 to 842.18 by noontime. But gainers held a slim lead over losers in the mid-day tally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Before the opening, U.S. Steel made a bid of $125 a share for 51 percent of Marathon's stock. Mobil, which previously made an $85-a-share offer that Marathon has opposed, said it was studying the situation.

U.S. Steel fell 1 1/2 to 28 1/2. Marathon had not traded by noontime.

General Motors dropped 1/4 to 34 1/2. Late Wednesday Moody's Investors Service lowered its rating of GM's debt securities from triple-A to double-A.

The NYSE's composite index rose 07 to 70.10. At the American Stock Exchange,

Green Sparks Gold Team To Victory

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

Junior college transfer Charles Green scored 14 points and pulled down 12 rebounds to lead the Gold past the Purple, 72-61 in the annual intra-squad scrimmage held last night in Minges Coliseum.

Green hit on four of eight field goal tries and all six of his free throw attempts to pace the Gold effort as his team led throughout the evening.

Senior Michael Gibson tossed in an addition 11 points and cleaned nine rebounds off the boards, while Charles Watkins had 12 points and point guards Herb Gilchrist and Bruce Peartree each dumped in ten points to help the effort.

The Gold was led by point guard Tony Byles, who scored a game-high 19 points, while another JC transfer, Al Mack, had 12 and Morris Hargrove added 10. Hargrove and Mack each pulled seven rebounds to pace the Purple in that category.

Shooting in the game was the biggest disappointment, to coach Dave Odom, who watched from the sidelines, not taking part in the on-court coaching.

"I thought before the game, and now it's confirmed that our offense is far behind our defense," Odom commented. "But the defense played well and was aggressive. They knew what they had to do."

After a disappointing 39.4 percentage in the first half, the Gold unit came back with a blazing 68.8 percent in the second for a respectable 48.9 total. The Purple, however, after a 41.7 first half percentage, dropped to a 35.6 mark in the second half and a poor 37.7 overall average.

"Two things make a great offense," Odom said. "Working together daily is one of them. We will start putting situation units together now and I think that will help smooth things out."

"The second is to execute our fundamentals: passing and catching the ball. Once we get over this, I think we'll be in relatively good shape."

But the overall aggressiveness pleased Odom. "Our rebounding has improved, and I think we have the ingredients to have a good team. It will be interesting to see how we do against the Australians."

Odom was referring to an exhibition the Pirates will play Monday at 7:30 p.m. at Minges against the Australian National Team, currently on an 11-game swing through the U.S. In their first two games, against Virginia Commonwealth and George Mason, the Australians suffered two three-point losses.

"Playing with an outside team will certainly be a better gauge for us," Odom said.

After two early ties, at 2-2 and 4-4, the Gold team began to pull away as the two teams got off to a slow start. Midway through the first half, it was only 16-8, after Green hit two jumpers, followed by layups by Gibson and Peartree. Mack and Byles helped the Purple cut it back to six, 18-12, but the Gold pulled out by 12 late in the period, 28-16, on free throws by Greg Batson and Gibson.

The Purple rallied, however, to trim it to 30-22 at intermission.

The lead ballooned back out to 12 early in the second half behind Green and Thom Brown, but Mack helped lead a rally that trimmed the lead back to four, 38-34, with 14:13 left to play.

The Gold, however, took command after that, slowly pulling out to a 15-point spread on a Gilchrist jumper with 10:50 left, making it 51-36. It dropped to as little as nine later, 53-44, but the Gold inched away again, holding as much as an 18-point spread. That came when Watkins made a three-point play at 64-46 with 5:51 to go.

"I think the story of the game was the forward play," Odom said. "The forwards for the Gold team were much more productive and consistent. But if we were to play again tomorrow night, it just might turn out to be the opposite."

The Pirates, following their exhibition Monday with the Australians, open the regular season on Saturday, November 28, hosting Ohio University.

North Pitt To Face Tarboro

BETHEL — North Pitt High School's boys' and girls' basketball teams will scrimmage Tarboro on Friday night at 7:30 p.m. The boys will hold their scrimmage at the North Pitt gymnasium, while the girls will battle in Tarboro. Admission for the scrimmages will be $1 at each site.

Flag Title On The Line

Lifegate Christian School will be hosting the State Flag Accelerated Christian Education championship at the ECU intramural field at 1 p.m. Friday.

The opening game features Trinity Christian School of Greenville against Community Christian of Bladenboro. At 3 p.m., Immanuel of Edenton faces Berean of Fayetteville.

Saturday at 10 a.m., the consolation championship will be held between Friday's losers, while the championship game will be at 1 p.m.

The state volleyball championship is also being hosted by Lifegate, and will be played at Wellcome School. At 6:45 p.m. Friday, Berean of Fayetteville will meet Covenant of Matthews, while Immanuel of Edenton meets Community Christian of Bladenboro in the second game. The two losers play following a short break for the consolation title, with the championship match set for approximately 9 p.m.

Admission is 50¢ for each event. Further information can be obtained from Carl Morgan at Lifegate School.

Southern Fights NCAA Downgrading Efforts

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — The Southern Conference will resist efforts by the NCAA to move its football program down a notch from Division I-AA to I-AA, Commissioner Kenneth Germann said Wednesday.

Germann said the key issue is television exposure he feels the nine Southern Conference teams would lose if they change divisions.

"The Southern Conference has had 12 television exposures for the last four years — that's one and a half games a year," Germann said at a special Southern Conference meeting in Charlotte Wednesday. "If we lose that, it will be an out and out disaster."

Germann said each televised game brings in about $423,000 for the conference. Television exposure, Germann said, involves one Southern Conference team playing a team from another conference.

About two dozen faculty members and athletic directors from the nine Southern Conference schools attended the meeting Wednesday to discuss 23 amendments to the conference's programs. However, Germann said no decisions were made at the meeting.

"We just discussed the issues but no decision will be made until our (NCAA) meeting in St. Louis on Dec. 4," he said.

Germann said moving the football program into the I-AA category could hurt fund raising and recruiting at conference schools.

"It's hard to say what would happen but it could affect fund raising and alumni attitude and it has been said that it would affect recruiting," he said. "Personally, I don't think it would have a drastic effect."

The issue of restructuring the NCAA isn't a new one. Reorganization talks began four years ago with the formation of the College Football Association. A move toward reorganization was made in 1977 but was defeated, according to John Geis, director of the Southern Conference Service Bureau.

"This is something that has been growing over a gradual period of time," Geis said. "With the CFA and a lot of schools wanting to control their own destiny, I think the NCAA feels it has its back to the wall and must reorganize to survive."

In July, the NCAA reached agreement with ABC and CBS on a four-year television contract for college football telecasts worth $263 million. A month later, the CFA came to terms with NBC on a four-year contract for $180 million. The NCAA has threatened to boot the CFA out of the organization, which would leave the NCAA with very few teams.

Top Rivalries Highlight ACC Week

Don McGlohon
INSURANCE

By TOM FOREMAN Jr.
Associated Press Writer
One fierce rivalry and one rejuvenated rivalry highlight the first weekend of Atlantic Coast Conference football action as second-ranked Clemson and 12th-rated North Carolina await word on where they'll be in December.

The Tigers travel to Columbia to meet South Carolina. Speculation runs high that coach Danny Ford's team will gain a berth in the Orange Bowl against Big 8 champion Nebraska. Meanwhile, the Tar Heels are said to have a Gator Bowl bid locked up against an opponent not yet determined.

Elsewhere in the conference, Virginia meets Maryland in a traditional season-ending game, while 11th-ranked Miami, Fla., meets North Carolina State.

CLEMSON AT SOUTH CAROLINA
Although Clemson faced North Carolina in what was billed as the ACC's biggest game in some time, Ford thinks the hoopla over the encounter with the Tar Heels won't hold a candle to the upcoming meeting with the Gamecocks.

"This is a running battle 365 days of the year," Ford said of the impending rumble in Williams-Brice Stadium. "It's one the fans get involved in."

Ford hopes to have defensive tackle Dan Benish involved in the game, as well as fullback Jeff McCall. The two were injured in the North Carolina game and did not play against Maryland.

South Carolina coach Jim Carlen is also missing some key personnel and says he needs them all against the Tigers.

"We must get our injured players — the ones that missed the Pacific game — ready to play and we must not beat ourselves Saturday," he said.

Although people like linebacker James Seawright and tight end DeWayne Chivers were hurt in the Pacific game, Carlen expects them to return.

NORTH CAROLINA AT DUKE
The Tar Heels have limped through the last six games of the season and managed an 8-2 record. But the 17-14 victory over Virginia was a costly one.

Fullback Alan Burrus and linebacker Lee Shaffer were lost for the rest of the season, but quarterback Rod Elkins and tailback Kelvin Bryant will return for the finale.

In past years, everyone but the coaches of the respective teams have written the game off. But North Carolina coach Dick Crum feels this year will present the biggest challenge in recent years.

"This is the best Duke team we've faced since I've been here," Crum said. "They have a lot of momentum, having won their last three."

Duke, currently 6-4, could finish with its best season in years with a victory over the Tar Heels. But Blue Devils coach Red Wilson says his team is facing a big challenge of its own.

"Carolina is Carolina," he said. "They have an awesome football team. It'll take everything humanly possible on our part to have a chance to win."

The starting quarterback post is up for it. Neither Ben Bennett nor Ron Solly had noteworthy performances against N.C. State. But Solly did drive the Blue Devils to two touchdowns and could get the nod.

MIAMI AT N. CAROLINA ST.
N.C. State's Monte Kiffin doesn't expect to go through a more frustrating season. But he does have to go through one more contest against another Top 20 opponent.

The Wolfpack has played admirably against its high-ranked competition in the second half of the season. But mistakes have cost them victories. Against unranked Duke, the team went flat.

"If something good had happened, we could have won," Kiffin said. Dwight Sullivan's third-quarter scoring run was the only silver lining in a cloudy day.

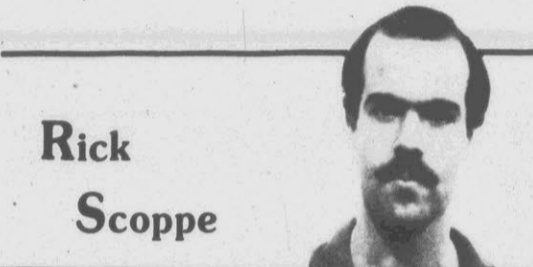

On the Hurricanes, Kiffin said his best chance against them would be to throw, if only that part of the Wolfpack attack was working.

"Miami's defense reminds you of Clemson. People who have moved the ball on them have thrown," Kiffin said. "Right now, that isn't one of our strong points. But, if we have to open it up, we will do so because I want to give our guys a chance to win."

VIRGINIA AT MARYLAND
Two teams whose seasons have been quite disappointing square off in Byrd Stadium. Virginia's loss to North Carolina has set up the possibility of the Cavaliers' first 10-loss season since 1975, Sonny Randle's second and last season at the school.

Soccer Tri-Champs
The Diplomats finished the Greenville Recreation and Parks' soccer league season as tri-champs of the Grade 7-9 division. Members of the team are, first row, left to right: George Cherry, David McKnight, Mat Coop, Russ Edwards, Mike Taylor, Bobby Hardy, Scott Davis, Tad Castellow, Garrett Dawkins, Ellen Cotter; second row, Scott Kendrick, Richard Haselrig, Philippe Aronson, Jim Carter, Clay Deanhardt, Jimmy Fitts, Mike Means, Clif Deanhardt, and coach Brian McGann.

Rick Scoppe
Ayden-Grifton coach Dixon Sauls is forever sprinkling his conversations with talk of how important enthusiasm is to a football team. To Sauls, enthusiasm is the life-blood of a football team.

Until this year, however, his talk of enthusiasm has more often than not fell on deaf ears. In past years, Sauls would more often than not offer how his team needed to play with more enthusiasm and intensity.

Not this year. Few have been the times this season that Sauls has had to tell his team it needs to play with more ardor. The reason? "We've developed a togetherness," Sauls said. "This team has learned togetherness, not only on the football field but also off it."

"Success is one factor. It's one of those intangible factors. Winning teams feel that way, that they can't be beat. We've had to learn that. We've had to overcome a lot of obstacles this season."

One of the main obstacles Sauls has had to overcome is getting his team to believe it can win. "I told you at the beginning of the year I felt we had a good football team, but they've had to learn how to win," Sauls said. "They've done that and they believe now they can't be beat."

That belief will be put to another test Friday evening when the Chargers play host to Warren County in the quarterfinals of the Division I State High School Playoffs.

The Chargers, 9-2-0 this season, passed their first test two weeks ago by shutting out Southwest Edgecombe, 14-0, to earn a share of the Eastern Carolina Conference title.

Next came the Chargers' first post-season examination in eight seasons. Led by a superb defensive effort, Ayden-Grifton held White Oak to 42 yards total offense and defeated White Oak, 8-0.

The victory was only the latest attempt by the Chargers to gain the respect they feel is warranted them. "I feel like we gained some more confidence with that win," Sauls said. "The first round is always the most difficult."

"We've had to earn respect every week we go out there," Sauls said. "But I think the players have proved to themselves that they're winners."

As of yet, however, neither the state high school pollsters nor the fans have been convinced. The Chargers have yet to be ranked in either the Associated Press state-wide poll or the News & Observer's east poll.

That, despite the fact the Chargers have lost just twice — to Roanoke, 21-20, in their opening game of the season and to Charles B. Aycock, 29-6, four weeks later.

Since losing to the Falcons, who are now 10-1-0 after defeating West Carteret Friday night in the opening-round of the Division II playoffs, the Chargers have won six straight. Much of the credit for those victories must go to the A-G defense.

In those six games, the Chargers have given up 41 points. And, when it counted most in the last two weeks, the defense came through. Against the Cougars, the Charger defense held Wayne Mayo, the ECC's second-leading rusher with nearly 1,000 yards at the time, to just eight yards in six carries.

Against the Vikings, the Charger defense held Ivery Meadows to 51 yards in 18 carries, the worse game of the season for the 5-6, 204-pound senior tailback. Even more impressive, however, was the fact the Chargers held White Oak to 42 yards total offense.

"That was our best defensive game of the season," Sauls said. "We were able to shut down the sweep, which was their bread-and-butter. Once again, we got excellent pursuit and when they cut it back up inside we were there."

Ayden-Grifton is now in its 17th week of football. The Chargers are one of only 16 3-A teams still playing and one of only eight left in the Division I playoffs.

A loss now and the season is over. Sauls, however, insists he and his team does not worry about that. Said Sauls: "We don't look at it as if this could be the last week of the season. We want to win. This is something very important to our team."

We put our foot down about apartments being within walking distance.

Wedgewood Arms apartments are within walking distance of three shopping centers, a nursery school, a junior high school, doctors' and dentists' offices and an athletic center. As if that wasn't enough, three major traffic arteries, 264 Bypass, Arlington Blvd., and Charles St. are close enough to be seen and not heard.

Fact is, no apartments in town can legitimately claim to be more convenient to more things than Wedgewood Arms. And, that's not all. Because Wedgewood Arms is not only convenient, it's different in other ways, too.

Take the floorplans: they're different from anything you've ever seen. And when you add in high energy efficiency, tennis courts, swimming pool, and the neighborhood "feeling" that these apartments will give you — well, you'll just have to see for yourself.

To The Editor:

As a graduate of UNC-Chapel Hill who is not in the Rams Club but a Plank member of the Pirate Club, I would like to comment on the "I WOULD PULL FOR HITLER AGAINST CAROLINA CLUB." If this club could be organized it would be the biggest in town. The loudest cheer at the William & Mary game came when the PA announced: Virginia 14, Carolina 7.

Do not take this commentary too seriously; I love my friends who hate Carolina. They are entitled to one mis-judgement. Sports talk should always be fun and the on-going battle I have with the HITLER CLUB is fun! But, I want to make a few points:

1. Of the 1,500 members of the Pirate Club, probably less than half are ECU alumni. Of the 91 Plank members, probably one-fourth are ECU alumni. Where would the ECU program be without those of us from other schools to support it?
2. I am well aware that UNC through the years has attempted to maintain its superiority, in academics as well as sports, by squelching other State institutions. But you can rest assured that ECU would do the same thing if we were in their position. If we the big dogs would we want some up-start school from Chapel Hill trying to horn in on our position?
3. I think hating Carolina is a way of expressing a complex about being connected with East Carolina. ECU people should be proud to be ECU people and cast this hate aside.

P.S. My position on the current array of articles on the ECU football program is that we should rally behind Ed Emory and support him. Considering our opposition, the season has not been too bad. Fair-weather friends are not too valuable.

MONTICELLO, N.Y. (AP) — Trout fishing in the Catskill Mountains is escalating and one of the big reasons is the New York State Fish Hatchery in De-Bruce, N.Y. The hatchery is responsible for stocking Catskill lakes and streams with more than a half-million trout each year.

Williams Takes Over Padres

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Disciplinarian Dick Williams, the new manager of the doormat San Diego Padres, says baseball's youngest team is closer to respectability than many think.

"The situation here is very similar to the one I faced when I went to Montreal. But this club is in much better shape as far as front-line players," Williams, 52, said Wednesday after signing a multi-year contract.

Terms were not disclosed, but Padres' President Ballard Smith said Williams' contract, believed to be for three years at $150,000 annually, "puts him in a category with other top managers in baseball."

The fourth winningest active manager in the game, Williams became San Diego's seventh manager since 1977. He succeeds Frank Howard, who was dismissed after one season.

At Montreal, after taking over a struggling club that lost 107 games in 1976, Williams quickly lifted the Expos into pennant contention. Starting with 75 victories in 1977, Montreal jumped to 95 in 1979 and 90 in 1980 to finish second in the National League East both years.

A conflict with Expos' owner John McHale led to his firing Sept. 8, three weeks before Montreal captured its first division title.

His dismissal fueled speculation that Williams was being pursued by New York Yankees' owner George Steinbrenner. However, Williams said this week that Steinbrenner did not approach him about the job.

Smith said Williams was the most qualified manager available.

"We were looking for two basic qualities: previous major league managing experience and a proven track record," said Smith. "We feel Williams more than qualifies on both counts."

Asked to specify the length of Williams' contract, Smith hedged, saying, "I hope he's here for 20 years."

Williams, a three-time major league manager of the year, is the ninth Padre pilot in the club's 14-year existence. He began his managerial career by guiding the Boston Red Sox to the American League pennant in 1967 and managed the Oakland A's to World Series crowns in 1972 and 1973.

At San Diego, he takes over a club that finished last in the NL West for the seventh time. The Padres, 41-69 during the strike-shortened season, lost 36 of 54 games in the second half. Only once has San Diego finished above .500, in 1978 with an 84-78 mark.

"He provides us with the direction we need," said Jack McKeon, vice president and director of baseball operations.

The light-hitting Padres had the fewest home runs in the majority this year (32) and their basestealing plunged from a major league-leading 238 in 162 games to 83 in 110 games.

"Our speed will be utilized a lot more," said Williams, who trails only Gene Mauch, Ralph Houk and Earl Weaver in victories among active managers.

In winning the 1981 U.S. Open, David Graham hit all 18 greens on his final round in regulation fashion.

Buckminster Fuller Sees Housing Technology Lag

By CHAD BUFFKIN
Reflector Staff Writer
Architect-inventor
Buckminster Fuller, who delivered a lecture at East Carolina University this week, says the housing industry is way behind in technology when compared to other industries.
"Housing still comes from the great fortress and protection idea," he stated in a news conference held after his lecture.

"No scientist has ever been asked to look at plumbing and there's only been one change in plumbing since the 1400s," added Fuller, whose creations have ranged from apartment houses made of weight alloys to waterless toilets.

"The present government cut-backs in scientific research are a great error," he continued, calling the cut-backs "organized selfishness."
Philosopher, engineer and poet, Fuller has a reputation as being one of the most original thinkers of the second half of the 20th century. In 1927 he made what he called a "blind date with principle." He resolved to devote his remaining years to a nonprofit search for design patterns that could maximize the social uses of the world's energy resources.

In 1927 he invented a factory-assembled, air-deliverable house, later to be called the Dymaxion house. In 1933 he manufactured the Dymaxion car, an automobile that could cross open fields like a jeep, make a 180-degree turn in its own length, accelerate to 120 mph, carry 12 passengers and average 28 miles per gallon. In 1943 at the request of Henry Kaiser, he made design changes to the car and increased the gas mileage to 40-50 mile per gallon. All the wheels on the car were steerable, allowing it to move sideways. Possibly because of resistance of the automotive industry, the car was never put into commercial use.

and developments, Fuller does not regard himself as an inventor or an architect, but professes to be an average, healthy, human being.
"I seem to be a verb," said the 86-year-old Fuller. He also added that one of his books is entitled "I Seem To Be A Verb".
Born in Milton, Mass., July 12, 1895, Fuller descended from a long line of New England nonconformists, the most famous of whom was his great-aunt, Margaret Fuller, friend of Emerson and Thoreau and co-founder of "The Dial," the organ of the Transcendentalist movement. Fuller never completed his formal education and was twice expelled from Harvard University. He served in the Navy in World War I and was awarded an appointment to the U.S. Naval Academy.

In 1968 on recommendation of the Royal Institute of British Architects, Queen Elizabeth II awarded Fuller the Royal Gold Medal for Architecture. He holds 26 patents in the United States, 44 honorary degrees and 26 award appointments, and 26 museums have collected his works.

director of the surgical pathology section.

Larkin received his post-graduate residency training and his medical degree from the Medical College of Virginia.

CORRECTION

The congressional roll call report published Wednesday in "The Daily Reflector" erroneously listed an amendment rejected by the House concerning operating licenses for nuclear power plants as HR 4255. The correct number for the bill is HR 2330.

In the same report, members of the House voting "Nay", instead of "Yea", as the report stated, wanted new nuclear plants to be able to operate with temporary permits pending completion of public hearings.

MAGAZINE ARTICLE

An article on the city's fire-rescue team building workshop appeared in the October issue of "Southern Cities" magazine published by the N.C. League of Municipalities.

Written by Jerry Cox, city personnel director, the article described the purpose of the workshop which was held in May for the fire-rescue chief and assistant chiefs.

The article also described the structural process of the team building program.

In spite of his inventions and developments, Fuller does not regard himself as an inventor or an architect, but professes to be an average, healthy, human being. "I seem to be a verb," said the 86-year-old Fuller. He also added that one of his books is entitled "I Seem To Be A Verb".

Opening lead: Ten of ♠.

The cry most often heard at the bridge table is an anguished: "Why didn't you return my suit, partner?" But blindly continuing partner's suit can be as bad as not returning it at all!

An orthodox auction led to a reasonable three no trump contract. West led the ten of spades, and declarer was pleased with his dummy. Even if he had to lose two diamond tricks, it seemed that nine tricks would not be a major problem.

Declarer won the opening lead in hand and ran the eight of diamonds to East's queen. The spade return was won by dummy's jack and the king of diamonds forced the ace. East shifted to a heart. Declarer played low, West won the ace and declarer claimed the rest for an over-trick.

East should have realized that it was futile to return a spade at trick three. He could hope for no more than four or five points in the West hand, so West could not have the two entries necessary to establish and run the spades. Careful analysis would show that only the heart suit offered any chance of defeating the contract.

Specifically, West must hold A-10-x-x of hearts to beat the hand. East must shift to a heart at trick three, but not just any heart. Only one card will do the trick—the nine! That unblocks the suit, as you will see later.

If South plays low, so does West, and dummy's jack wins the trick. When East gets in with the ace of diamonds, he continues with the queen of hearts. Whether or not declarer covers, the defenders must come to three tricks in the suit. With the two diamond tricks already in the bank, that means down one.

Note that it does not help South to play the king of hearts on the nine. West can counter that by allowing the king to win, and again the defenders must come to three heart tricks.

Recover One Dead Airman

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — Navy officials say they have recovered the body of only one of four crewmen killed in a crash of a submarine hunting plane based on the USS Nimitz.

The men died when their S-3A Viking plunged into the Mediterranean Sea 70 miles northwest of Sicily and just one mile from the nuclear aircraft carrier Tuesday.

The subsonic jet aircraft had not been trying to land when it crashed, the Navy said Wednesday. The cause was under investigation.

The Navy identified the dead Wednesday as Cmdr. Phillip L. Reed, 38, of Orange Park, Fla., pilot and commanding officer of the plane's squadron; Lt. Douglas C. Deem, 27, of New Kensington, Pa., the co-pilot; Lt. j.g. Carey A. Arthur, 24, of Wayne, N.J., and Petty Officer 3rd Class Charles M. Wade, 20, of Clinton, Miss., whose body was recovered.

It was the second fatal accident associated with the Nimitz this year. On May 26, 14 men were killed and 48 injured when a Marine EA-6B crashed while attempting to land on the carrier, which was off the Florida coast.

The Nimitz had sailed from Norfolk for a six-month Mediterranean deployment on Aug. 3.

Willie Nelms, Helen Parks, James Hicks, Dr. Lawrence Brewster and Jane Maier.

Rhonda Pierce was re-elected as secretary-treasurer.

Board members whose three-year terms are expiring include Betty Brewer, Morris Brody, Edward Carter, Mrs. Nelson Crisp, Nancy Middleton Jenkins, who is the immediate past president, Dr. Hugh Patterson, John Farley, Ovid Pierce, Dr. David Stevens and Dr. McKay Sundwall.

Friends of Joyner Library functions to enhance the materials, services and facilities which the library offers to students, faculty and the local community.

Dr. Eugene Brunelle, library director, reviewed accomplishments of the past year and presented a number of library staff presentations on "What's New in the Library." These included: Dorothy Brockmann (Circulation), Ralph Scott will be considering in the coming year include assistance in developing a law collection and a Friends exhibit area.

(Reference), Don Lennon (Manuscripts), Anne Briley (Serials), Elizabeth Smith (Cataloging), Sallie Mann (Acquisitions), and Nancy Shires (Music Library) and a report on documents prepared by Michael Cotter. Projects which the Friends

On behalf of the Friends and Joyner Library, Brunelle expressed particular thanks to Mrs. Brewer for her loyal support of the Friends, and to Chancellor Tom Brewer for his support of the library. The group also expressed appreciation for support of Vice Chancellor Robert Maier and his efforts to obtain staff for the university archives.

Sale Of Government Property Eyed To Apply On Nat'l Debt

By JIM DRINKARD
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Surplus federal property, ranging from an old naval machine shop on Ocracoke Island, N.C., to a luxury beachfront hotel in Hawaii, should be sold off to reduce the national debt, two lawmakers say.

"We may have $30 or $40 billion in government property that could be sold or auctioned off," said Rep. Larry Winn Jr., R-Kan., who is sponsoring a resolution that would do just that. "In four or five years, this could be a tremendous program."

The General Services Administration has a partial list of $1.3 billion in unneeded or obsolete holdings by the nation's biggest property owner. But that figure is based on original prices and likely is far short of current value, Winn said.

The list spans the nation — a job corps center in the New York City borough of Queens, the main post office in Olathe, Kan., the Makapuu lighthouse on Oahu, Hawaii. Thirty "under-utilized" acres on Nantucket Island, Mass., are valued on the books at $1,000 — or $33 an acre for prime resort property.

Winn's resolution and one introduced in the Senate by Illinois Republican Charles Percy would require the president to inventory all property not needed, excluding parks, monuments and historic sites. A procedure would then be drawn up for selling the property — at actual market prices — with the proceeds used to reduce the national debt.

Percy says the government's holdings include a luxury hotel on prime beachfront property at Waikiki in Hawaii. The hotel was used during the Vietnam War for military personnel on leave. The property now is worth an estimated $40 million to $50 million.

"Whether we can afford to hang onto that while we're cutting food stamps is a big question," said Alan Mertz, a Percy aide. "What we have here is a big business — the federal government — which basically cannot liquidate its assets."

The government occasionally sells property, with the proceeds going into a Land and Water Conservation Fund. Last year $84 million went into the fund, which is used primarily to buy new land. More often, the federal government gives property to local governments or leases it for a nominal fee.

"It goes through the long, drawn-out process of seeing who in the local community can get their hands on it," Winn said. "There are all kinds of parochial interests in the property, and in most cases the government doesn't come out very well."

Mertz said it is too soon to tell how much support there is in Congress for the idea. Percy plans to hold hearings on the resolution in December or January, but no House hearings have been scheduled.

'Jessica Novak' Risks Losing Her Job

ACTOR TO MARRY — Actor Frank Bonner, who plays Herb Tariak in the CBS television series "WKRP in Cincinnati," will be married to Catherine Sherwood November 24 at the Naval Training Center in San Diego, Calif. The pair met when Bonner visited San Diego on a promotional tour, where Sherwood worked as a secretary to the general manager of radio station KFMB there. (AP Laserphoto)

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Some nights there's nothing worth watching on TV, and you have a good opportunity to be energy-conscious. Then there are the relatively few occasions when you need three television sets.

Thursday nights at 10 p.m. EST could be one of those good nights with NBC's "Hill Street Blues," ABC's "20-20," and CBS' "Jessica Novak," although one CBS executive thinks the viewing dilemma might be lessened because "I'm less than optimistic about 'Jessica Novak's' long-range chances."

It's unusual for a CBS official to knock a CBS property, but Arnold Becker, vice president for national TV research, is not a programmer; he's a numbers man. And after two weeks of intrepid reporter Jessica Novak trying to beat the competition, the numbers don't look good.

Becker says it's too early in the ratings game for definitive judgments, but "my personal gut instinct is that it's unlikely that 'Jessica Novak' will turn into a popular program. But it's not my gut that really counts; it's programming's gut that counts. I'm not supposed to have a gut."

"Jessica Novak" finished in a dismal 59th place in its first two weeks with 24 percent of the hour's audience. "Hill Street Blues" ranked 27th and 28th, with 34 percent and "20-20" was 48th and 52nd, averaging 28 percent. A share of 28 is considered the minimum for a successful show.

The pilot episode of "Jessica Novak" suggested the show's potential. Star Helen Shavers was believable as the TV newswoman, the plot had substance, and the dialogue was credible. With the right scripts and issues, it could become an electronic "Lou Grant."

But last week, the show went in the wrong direction. The danger that "Jessica Novak" would degenerate into a one-woman show became real. She turned into superwoman, saving lives, solving cases and beating deadlines in the nick of time. No other characters were given a chance to develop, and the plot line was a mixture of bad soap opera and cheap detective story.

Tonight's episode was not available for prescreening, but if people like Becker are getting edgy, "Jessica Novak" is in danger of losing her job.

Of course, when CBS — ratings leader the past two years — announced its prime-time schedule, great things were expected from "Jessica Novak."

"We thought we were putting a good new program against weak competition," said Becker. "Hill Street Blues" ratings record was not impressive. '20-20' only got occasional good numbers. By putting 'Jessica Novak' in at 10 on Thursdays, we thought we were maximizing its chances."

Especially since its lead-ins, "Magnum, P.I." and "Knots Landing," were expected to do well and turn their high female audience over to "Jessica Novak." It's a programming fact that many viewers are lazy and would rather sink further into the sofa than change the channel.

"We thought 'Jessica Novak' was reasonably well-protected, that it was getting a break," said Becker. "But people don't seem interested in a show about a woman reporter. It's had enough advertising. People know it's on; they're not eager to see it."

Since the new schedules were announced, the innovative "Hill Street" received eight Emmys and the most intense promotion since "Gone With The Wind." Even its theme song is scaling the record charts.

People are switching to NBC at 10 on Thursdays. None of NBC's four earlier comedies finished higher than 50th last week, while ABC's four comedy lead-ins all did better and "Magnum" and "Knots Landing" were in the top 30.

IN VIOLATION?

ROME (AP) — An investigation is underway to determine if the Vatican Bank and leading Roman Catholic charities broke foreign exchange laws requiring all money brought into Italy to be converted into lire, the magistrate in charge of the inquiry says.

Deborah Harry In Thriller Film
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Deborah Harry of the Blondie punk rock group will star in "Videodrome," a science-fiction thriller for Universal Pictures with James Woods as her leading man.

The movie marks Harry's third feature motion picture. She previously appeared in "Roadie" and "Union City." "Videodrome," to be filmed on locations in Canada, deals with "the influence of television that comes into the home and how communication technology alters the nervous system," according to producer Claude Heroux.

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, NOV. 20, 1981

YOUR DAILY
Horoscope
from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You will be able to make rapid strides in gaining your objectives today. Make a point to express your talents instead of keeping them hidden. There are few adverse aspects today.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) A personal aim can be easily attained at this time. Consult an expert for advice on a business deal. Take it easy tonight.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Figure out a way to make conditions more harmonious at home. A new business plan needs additional study now.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Talk over with associates how production can be increased and costs cut down. Avoid one who wastes your time.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Study a new way to advance quickly in your career. Go to the right source for the information you need.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You can meet with greater success today if you do the things that really interest you. Show others that you are contented.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Know what your true aims are and then set a course that will see you attaining them. Safeguard your good reputation.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Strive for more harmony with close ties. Don't neglect to pay a pressing bill. Relax and have fun tonight.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Contact those persons who can help you advance in your line of endeavor. Show others that you have exceptional ability.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Obtain the data you need to get ahead in career activities. Be more cheerful when dealing with allies.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) A different approach in your business affairs can bring fine results now. Show increased devotion to the one you love.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Come to a better accord with an associate who has been opposed to your ideas. Take needed health treatments.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Making your environment more comfortable improves the quality of your life. Make practical plans for the future.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will be able to make great strides in the business world. Be sure to give the finest education and your progeny will be well equipped for a successful career. Taking the lead in civic affairs is evident in this chart.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!
