

More Beds For Pitt Hospital

Richardson, hospital director. The new tower will provide an additional 138 beds for the facility, making the total capacity when fully staffed 566 beds. On the first floor the new wing will house surgical sub-specialties (orthopedics, etc.), the second floor will house pediatrics, and the third floor will provide additional medical space. Cost of the project was $5.5 million funded through the ECU medical school. (Reflector Photo by Tommy Forrest)

Spending Resolution Vetoed By Reagan

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan, saying the American public wants the government "back on the road of fiscal sanity," is postponing a Thanksgiving holiday in California to continue his latest budget battle with Congress.

Reagan today issued the first veto of his administration on the stopgap spending resolution that Congress agreed to late Sunday. The measure was needed to restore spending authority for most government agencies.

Deputy White House press secretary Larry Speakes said Reagan will remain in Washington until the dispute is resolved. Reagan urged Congress "to act promptly and responsibly."

The president met with his Cabinet today, ordering officials to tell non-essential government employees to "come to work, cancel meetings, lock the safe, cut out the lights and leave," Speakes said. Eventually, 400,000 government workers could be furloughed, he said.

Reagan gave assurances that Social Security and most other benefit checks will be paid on schedule, that the national security will be protected and that government activities essential to protection of life and property will continue.

Earlier, Reagan suggested that Congress continue over the Thanksgiving holidays the spending measure that expired at midnight Friday. Without such authorization most government agencies would have to shut down.

"Nevertheless," he said today, "a far greater threat to all Americans is the sustained hardship they will suffer by continuing the budget-busting policies of big spending and big deficits."

Asked by reporters Sunday for his thoughts about the congressional budget process, which has forced the government to operate on continuing resolutions rather than formal appropriations bills since fiscal 1981 ended Sept. 30, Reagan said:

"At the beginning of the fiscal year, you should have a budget in place in which you know what the cost for each department is going to be. This continuing resolution is a process whereby the Congress can add to the spending, and the only choice left to a president is to literally close down the government by veto, unlike vetoing a budget figure.

"It's time for us to get legitimate appropriations bills passed and to have a budget," he said.

Earlier Sunday afternoon, Reagan met with Sweden's King Carl XVI Gustaf and Queen Silvia in what was described a social visit in the White House residential quarters.

Visiting Brezhnev Is Told Of Nuke Firepower Fear

By SUSANNE M. SCHAFER
Associated Press Writer

BONN, West Germany (AP) — Chancellor Helmut Schmidt told Soviet President Leonid I. Brezhnev today that West Germans fear Moscow's nuclear firepower and he urged the Kremlin chief to negotiate a European missile ban with the Reagan administration.

Government spokesman Kurt Becker said Schmidt told Brezhnev he supports the "Zero Option," President Reagan's proposal to cancel plans to deploy U.S. Cruise and Pershing 2 missiles in Western Europe if the Soviets dismantle their SS-20 missiles that ring their European border.

Schmidt, who takes credit for persuading Reagan to propose a European missile ban, told the Soviet leader Reagan wanted peace and would pursue strategic arms control talks with Moscow, Becker said after a meeting that lasted more than three hours.

The West German and Soviet delegations sat down at the chancellor's office beside the Rhine River. Later today, Schmidt and Brezhnev, accompanied by translators, will meet at Schloss Gymnich, the ancient castle where Brezhnev is staying 20 miles northwest of the capital.

Schmidt told Brezhnev that West Germany feels threatened by the Soviet missiles, and that a negotiated arrangement of the Zero Option was the only guaranteed way U.S. missiles would not be deployed on schedule starting in 1983, Becker said.

Schmidt also told Brezhnev West Germans believe the issue of British and French nuclear missiles could be discussed during future East-West arms talks. The Soviets have said these weapons should be included in any mutual reduction since they, like the U.S. missiles, could also hit the Soviet Union.

Becker said the two sides discussed other issues including the Middle East, Southeast Asia, Southern Africa and Central America. He gave no details.

Before today's talks, the Soviet leader reviewed a West German honor guard in a nationally televised ceremony welcoming him to Bonn for a four-day visit. The weather was mild and Brezhnev wore only a suit as he walked slowly but steadily along the reviewing line between rows of troops.

Brezhnev arrived at the Bonn-Cologne airport Sunday evening and Schmidt accompanied him to Schloss Gymnich.

Schmidt later told a West German television interviewer he had a 20 minute impromptu talk with Brezhnev at Gymnich that touched on "the central themes" of the visit including arms control. He gave no other details.

Tass, the official Soviet news agency, said the two leaders had a brief talk in a "friendly atmosphere."

Reagan's missile proposal, which he made in a speech last Wednesday, will be the opening U.S. offer in the Soviet-American arms reduction talks beginning next Monday in Geneva, Switzerland.

The Soviet media condemned the proposal as "propagandistic" and designed to guarantee Western military superiority in Europe.

Moscow contends its missiles in Western Russia only put it on a par with North Atlantic Treaty Organization forces in Europe.

Govm't Begins Shutting Down Non-Essential Jobs

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government began laying off non-essential workers today and went about closing down some of its operations after President Reagan told cabinet officers: "The bulk of the government should shut down immediately."

Among the first to be furloughed after Reagan vetoed a continuing resolution that would have kept the government in appropriations were many employees of the White House.

And the chauffeur for Transportation Secretary Drew Lewis.

Edwin Dale, spokesman for the White House Office of Management and Budget, said Reagan ordered "a very hard line" at the cabinet meeting. He said the furloughs would include a large number of the employees of OMB, which is critically involved in the budget debate.

White House spokesman Larry Speakes said if no acceptable spending measure makes it to Reagan's desk by late Tuesday, 400,000 of the 2.9 million federal workers could be told to stay home. He quoted Reagan as saying: "As quickly as possible people should be sent home."

The Federal Communications Commission told its top staff to identify all "essential people" by 3 p.m. and to tell others not to come in beginning Wednesday. The FCC's daily work of processing licenses, releasing public notices or making investigations ground to a halt.

"Essentially, the president told us we are going to shut the government down, and we're going to go back to our departments and start the shutdown right now," said Lewis as he left an hour-long Cabinet meeting this morning. "We don't relish doing this, but we're going about our business and we're going to do it."

Lewis said Lloyd Fletcher, the chauffeur who drove him back the half mile to his office, was a non-essential employee.

Lewis, whose jurisdiction includes mass transit, was asked how he'll get around. "I may take the bus," he said.

For the government workers who are furloughed it will mean a loss of pay. Dale estimated that a layoff of 400,000 employees would save the government about $45 million to $50 million a day in payroll costs.

"At this stage, even if you lose a week's pay, I think it would hurt most people," said Hal Parris, a spokesman for the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration whose 700 employees mostly would be considered nonessential.

The FBI's Roger Young said, "We see this happen every year and we don't take it too seriously...we're not going to stop any investigations."

But elsewhere at the Justice Department, public affairs specialist Tom Stewart did not prepare his usual morning compilation of department-related news for the attorney general and his staff.

Reagan told reporters earlier today that "we are making every effort to avoid unnecessary dislocations and personal hardship."

He said he can give assurance "that Social Security and most other benefit checks will be paid on schedule; the national security will be protected; government activities essential to the protection of life and property, such as the treatment of patients in veterans' hospitals, air traffic control and the functioning of the nation's banks will also continue."

The president urged Congress to act promptly to get an acceptable bill "in order to prevent unnecessary inconvenience and hardship as thanksgiving approaches."

Thousands Of Protestants In Northern Ireland Leave Jobs

By ED BLANCHE
Associated Press Writer

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Thousands of Protestants walked off their jobs today in support of the Rev. Ian Paisley's call for a 12-hour general strike to protest British policy in Northern Ireland.

Most of the 7,000 workers left their jobs at Harland and Wolff shipyard in Protestant East Belfast, largest employer in the British-ruled province. About 250 workers at the province's largest power station also struck.

Many schools and offices shut, and towns in the Protestant heartland of the province were choked with car and tractor caravans as Northern Ireland's Protestant majority rallied to demand a British crackdown on the mostly Roman Catholic Irish Republican Army guerrillas.

As they did so, the IRA again struck at the British mainland with a booby-trapped bomb planted outside the British Army barracks at Woolwich, southeast London.

Disguised as a toy gun, the bomb injured two soldier's wives, one of whom lost part of her right foot. The IRA claimed responsibility, as it has done for several recent bombings in England aimed primarily at military targets.

Workers at three of the province's four power plants said they would join Paisley's strike. But officials of the government electricity board said senior engineers would keep the plants running.

Police granted permits for 40 major rallies and marches province-wide, including rival meetings in Belfast by Paisley and his Protestant opponents, who urged the public to ignore Paisley's strike call.

Investigating Armed Robbery

The Pitt County Sheriff's Department is investigating a Saturday night armed robbery at the Cash and Carry No. Six store on the Pictolus Highway.

Sheriff Ralph Tyson said the store attendant, Liza Diaz Inez, told deputies a man carrying a small handgun entered the store around 10:56 p.m. and asked for change. She said that when she opened the cash register, the man reached over the counter and removed some $380 from the register.

Sheriff Tyson, who said the attendant was not injured in the incident, said the man apparently fled on foot following the robbery.

Farm-City Week Event

The observance of Farm-City Week opened this morning with a breakfast for women living in Pitt County and Greenville. Representative Ed Warren was speaker for the occasion.

Last week, the Southern-Flue Cured Tobacco Festival held here, was a good example of Farm-City Week with 70,000 people coming into the county and city. A lot of city people manned the booths with farm people coming in. In a farm-city program there is an exchange of ideas. The City-Farm program was started approximately 24 years ago and it's a year-round program," Warren said.

according to "Newsweek" we now have over 74,000 women who own or manage farms in the United States. In fact, 17 percent or over two million farm workers in the U.S.A. are female," he added.

Warren pointed out that four-fifths of farm households have at least one food freezer whereas only one-third of the general population has a freezer, 90 percent of the farm wives have washers and two-thirds of them have clothes dryers as compared with the general population of whom 75 percent have washers and 50 percent have dryers. About 25 percent of both farm and urban wives have dishwashers.

The speaker was introduced by Mrs. Alma

Worthington. In telling the purpose of Farm-City Week, she said, "To emphasize the fact that farm people and city people depend on each other for products and services that are essential to modern business and living. One group cannot live without the other. Together they make the best food and fiber team in the world."

Mrs. Worthington introduced Farm Bureau Ladies Group members including Mrs. Lois Briley, who is chairman of the group, and guests.

The invocation was given by Mrs. Rebecca Davenport. The theme for the week is "Farm-City Links Farm People-City People for Partners in Progress."

FLASHING LIGHTS

The traffic lights at the intersection of 14th Street and Farmville Boulevard have been flashing for a long time. When will they stop blinking and begin normal operation? A.T.

The lights were installed about two months ago, according to city engineer Ron Sewell, and flashed for a week, as are most new traffic light installations. When they were set to begin normal operation, wiring problems were discovered.

The control equipment was returned to the manufacturer for repair and the city is now waiting for the manufacturer's representative to re-install the equipment, which has now been returned to Greenville.

Coastal Chemical Corp. Files $2.32 Million Suit

Coastal Chemical Corp. and its insurance carriers, Lloyds, New York, and National Union Fire Insurance Co., have filed a $2.32 million suit against a Florham Park, N.J., security systems firm in connection with a February 1979 fire that destroyed Coastal Chemical's warehouse and its contents.

The complaint, filed September 15 against Gardian Industries Inc., doing business as Dictograph Security Systems, charges that the Coastal Chemical warehouse was protected by a "Dictograph Security System Model 55-0 ... programmed to call various authorities in the event fire or smoke was detected by the various sensors of the system."

The complaint continues by saying the Dictograph Security "system failed to properly operate or to notify various authorities of the existence of the fire."

"Had the Dictograph Security system properly performed and notified the authorities of the fire," according to the complaint, "the fire could have been extinguished with significantly less damage."

Damage from the fire, the complaint said, totaled $2,325,410, which the suit seeks to recover.

Firemen and equipment from 15 departments joined to combat the blaze at the Tar Road warehouse after it was reported at 4 a.m.

Firefighting efforts were hampered by a 5 1/2 inch snowfall and dense smoke. Fearing the smoke, which at times reached an estimated 1,000 feet into the sky, might contain toxic fumes, a number of area residents were advised to evacuate their homes.

Dikes were erected in the area of the warehouse to contain the run-off of water poured onto the fire, and a lengthy clean-up operation followed.

Dear Abby

Not-So-Merry Woman Wants Some Christmas Rest
By Abigail Van Buren

© 1981 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: How do you go about putting a stop to exchanging Christmas gifts with people you hardly ever see? I don't mean relatives, I mean out-of-towners who used to be neighbors and whose children were friendly with our children (all grown now), and folks we are no longer close to. Shopping, wrapping and mailing Christmas presents have gotten to be a real chore, and I am not as young as I used to be. It's also expensive. I would like to get off a lot of people's lists and take them off mine, too. I'm sure they feel the same way about it, but don't know how to get off ours. So how do I get off this merry-go-round, Abby? I would prefer to send Christmas cards to a number of people who are still on my Christmas gift list. Thanks from ...

CUTTING CORNERS IN CHICAGO

DEAR CHICAGO: Early in December write a note to those you'd like to take off your gift list and put on your card list, saying you are "thankful" for friends with whom you can be perfectly frank. Explain that this year, along with trimming your Christmas tree, you're trimming your gift list and sending cards instead. I'll wager they'll appreciate your practical approach and will cheerfully reciprocate.

DEAR ABBY: My cousin recently lost her baby daughter. The baby died a few hours after she was born.

It's been only three weeks, and already three women have asked me whether my cousin intends to return the baby gifts she received at her baby shower!

I find it hard to believe anyone could be so small as to be concerned about whether her baby gift will be returned or not.

What do I tell these women? I certainly do not want to approach my cousin with such pettiness. She's having a hard enough time as it is.

CAN'T BELIEVE IT

DEAR CAN'T: I suggest that you tell these petty, insensitive women that you wouldn't consider approaching your cousin with such a painful question.

FOOTPRINTS IN THE SAND

One night a man had a dream. He dreamed he was walking along the beach with the Lord. Across the sky flashed scenes from his life. For each scene, he noticed two sets of footprints in the sand: one belonging to him, and the other to the Lord.

When the last scene flashed before him, he looked back at the footprints and noticed that many times along the path there was only one set of footprints in the sand. He also noticed that this happened during the lowest and saddest times in his life.

This really bothered him, so he questioned the Lord. "Lord, you said that once I decided to follow you, you would walk with me all the way, but I noticed that during the most troublesome times of my life, there was only one set of footprints. I don't understand why, when I needed you the most, you deserted me."

The Lord replied, "My precious, precious child, I love you and would never leave you. During your times of trial and suffering, when you see only one set of footprints, it was then that I carried you."

"Based on your personal experiences with your own children, what is the best advice you could give new parents about raising children?"

This question was asked 50 parents who had successfully raised their own children. Their children, all over 21, are considered successful in the sense that they are all productive adults apparently adjusting well to our society.

The most frequent responses of the parents are classified under 10 basic principles about which there seems to be general agreement. Although not new, these principles of childrearing can offer a genuine helpful guide to parents, teachers, day care workers and others who care for children. Pitt County Mental Health Center community services director Don Reeves said.

Preparing To Remove Signals

The city will put traffic signals at five downtown intersections on flash this week in preparation for removing the signals in favor of stop signs beginning next Monday, it was announced.

City Engineer Ron Sewell said traffic signals will be removed and replaced with stop signs at Second and Washington Streets on Washington, Third and Washington on Third, Evans and Third on Evans, Reade and Third on Third, and First and Reade on Reade.

Sewell, who noted that the City Council approved the signal removal at last week's meeting, said the week of flashing signals prior to removal will call attention to the designated intersections.

Falling Water Table Due To Drought

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — While periodic rains allowed North Carolina farmers to deliver healthy crops to market, a falling water table may portend trouble by the next growing cycle, officials say.

This winter, when the groundwater is naturally recharged as plants and evaporation stop consuming the rainfall, could determine the severity of the situation. "We are now in a wait-and-see mode," said Hugh Wilder, acting chief of the hydrological section of the U.S. Geological Survey in Raleigh. "We need prolonged rainfall well in excess of 25 inches to begin to reverse these groundwater levels."

A second dry winter he said, would create "a very serious situation." He said levels of the survey's groundwater monitoring well remained 1.5 feet to 5 feet below normal by mid-

November. Wilder noted that in some cases, well levels are falling 6 to 18 inches per month at a time when they should be recharging.

Over most of the state, rainfall has been substantially below normal most of this year.

In Asheville, for example, the National Weather Service said rainfall for the past 12 months is 31 percent below normal. Unless a major break in the trend develops, Asheville soon may face mandatory water use restrictions.

Rainfall is 16 percent below normal in Wilmington, 19 percent in Raleigh and 22 percent in Charlotte — all above the weather service's definition of a "meteorological drought" as a 15 percent precipitation deficit.

At one point, the deficit was as large as 37 percent in Charlotte and 36 percent in Greensboro, where it now is 6 percent below normal.

For homeowners, a receding water table can bring dry wells. Jim Ross of Ferguson's Well Drilling Co. in Asheville said the waiting list is six weeks long at some local drilling companies.

With outlying wells and spring running dry, large numbers of Buncombe County residents are requesting to tap onto Asheville city water, said Bill DeBruhl, Asheville director of water and sewer services.

DeBruhl said Asheville industries are concerned that mandatory water restrictions could force them to cut the workweek to four days or eliminate shifts. He said the city's two reservoirs collectively are down 36 feet and mandatory restrictions won't be imposed until the deficit reaches 40 or 45 feet.

Al Dietemann, a water supply expert with the North Carolina Department of Natural Resources and Community Development, said he knows of no other critical water supply emergencies.

But Don Baker, chief of inland fisheries for the state Wildlife Resources Commission, said he's concerned about the effects of dry weather on wildlife. Some fish are under severe stress, he said, because low streamflows shrink the size of their habitat. There also has been a rash of fish kills.

RALEIGH GREENSBORO GREENVILLE FAYETTEVILLE

Culminates Her Search For Son In N. C. Prison

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — A Dallas, Texas, woman's two-year search for the son she gave up for adoption in 1959 ended seven months ago when she found Riccardo Hernandez in a North Carolina prison.

Suzanne Raikes' elation was short-lived, as prison walls and her limited funds have kept the 21-year-old Hernandez from meeting his mother, his nearly blind father or his 105-year-old grandmother.

But Hernandez, who is serving a 16- to 25-year sentence for burglary and armed robbery, still savors the memory of their reunion by telephone.

"We had a conference call — my real father, my real mother and me, and my grandma, and my half brother, and my mother's husband — and it felt real good," Hernandez said in an interview last week at Odom Prison in Northampton County. "It was a feeling I'd never had, because I felt real whole."

Hernandez was a 19-year-old Fort Bragg private when he and another soldier burglarized two Fayetteville homes in 1978.

Hernandez was arrested the next day, returned the loot and pleaded guilty in 1979 to two counts each of second-degree burglary, larceny and armed robbery.

Superior Court Judge

James H. Pou Bailey gave Hernandez a sentence of 16 years to life, later reduced to 16 to 25 years, which makes him eligible for parole in 1990.

Mrs. Raikes, who earns $4.65 an hour working in a Dallas cafeteria, says her search cost $15,000. Now she is waging a vigorous mail-and-telephone campaign to free her son or reduce his sentence, which she considers harsh and excessive.

"He's had a raw deal since he was born," the 45-year-old woman said. "I'm not ever going to give up trying to get him out."

Sen. John G. Tower, R-Texas, and others have written Gov. Jim Hunt in her behalf. The governor has the statutory authority to pardon an inmate or commute his sentence.

Mrs. Raikes wants to see her son but she also is determined to win an audience with Hunt. Since she can afford only one journey to North Carolina, she has delayed her trip in hope that she can meet Hunt and her son.

Mrs. Raikes was 23 when she eloped with 40-year-old Daniel Zuniga. But when she learned she was pregnant she had lost touch with her husband.

Estranged from her family, she went on with her life after her baby's adoption and remarried in 1974.

Hernandez said he had wanted to find his mother, but he didn't know how to search. And although he is pessimistic about winning his release, his outlook has been brightened by the discovery.

"Even though I'm in here, I'm really happy now because I know who my mother is at last."

County Fires

During October the rural fire departments of Pitt County answered 86 alarms with 77 fires, County Fire Marshal Bobby Joyner said.

There were nine house fires, one house trailer; four buildings, seven in motor vehicles, 24 grassland and woods fires; three false alarms, 29 "others" and no mutual aids.

There were $308,340 involved in fires; $365,000 exposed; $165,200 lost; and $508,140 saved by the rural fire departments, Joyner said. The Eastern Pines and Ayden Fire Departments had the most fires, he added — nine each.

MRS. LINWOOD STANLEY FERGUSON

Wedding Vows Are Spoken

ROANOKE, Va. — Theresa Lynn Taylor and Linwood Stanley Furguson were united in marriage here Sunday at 2 p.m. The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Bill Kyle in the Windsor Hills Methodist Church.

A program of music was presented by Jeanene Lewis, organist and Mrs. William Kyle, soloist.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rodney E. Taylor of Roanoke, Va., the bride was given in marriage by her father. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. E.L. Ferguson Jr. of Greenville, N. C. and the late Mr. Ferguson.

The honor attendant was Tamara Taylor, sister of the bride of Roanoke, Va. Bridesmaids included Helen Taylor, sister of the bride, and Mary Ann McAden, both of Roanoke, Va.

The best man was Kieth Vance of Atlanta, Ga. and the ushers included Tom Morrow, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, Freddie Fuller, nephew of the bridegroom, and Tommy Morrow, nephew of the bridegroom, all of New Bern, N. C.

The bride wore a formal gown of white satin and alencon lace. The dress featured a high neckline, long fitted sleeves and empire bodice. The dress was accented with pearls and sequins and a chapel length train. She wore a three-tier fingertip veil with a Camelot cap of pearls and lace. She carried a bouquet of red and white roses, stephanotis, baby's breath and ivy.

The maid of honor wore a white blouse of sheer cotten and a skirt of burgundy moray taffeta. She carried rubrum lilies accented with ivy and baby's breath. The bridesmaids were dressed like the honor attendant.

A reception, hosted by the bride's parents, was held at Hidden Valley Country Club in Roanoke.

The mother of the bridegroom entertained at an after-rehearsal dinner at the Hidden Valley Country Club. She was assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Morrow.

After a wedding trip to the Virgin Islands, the couple will live in Elon College.

The bride, who has a bachelor's degree from Elon College, is employed by the North Carolina Fitness Center as an instructor.

The bridegroom, who has a master's degree in physical education from ECU, is a teacher and coach at Elon College.

Couple Marries Sunday

Angela Karen McLawhorn and Thompson Hollingsworth Forbes Jr. were united in marriage at the Hollywood Presbyterian Church Sunday at 3 p.m. The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. William Jennings.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Thomas McLawhorn of Greenville. The bridegroom is the son of Tom H. Forbes of Rt. 3, Washington, and Runell S. Forbes of Rt. 2, Greenville.

The honor attendant was Nancy W. Everette, cousin of the bride of Greenville. Bridesmaids included Terry Bibb, cousin of the bride of Winterville, Connie Hardee, cousin of the bridegroom of Greenville, and Melody Loughran of Lumberton.

The best man, the bridegroom's brother, was Mark Forbes of Greenville. Ushers included Tommy McLawhorn, brother of the bride of Greenville, Ted Nobles of Winterville and Jeffrey Roberts of Lumberton.

A program of wedding music was presented by Randy Buck and Carol Ann Tucker.

The bride wore a formal gown of white satin over peau de soie designed with a Queen Anne neckline with re-embroidered alencon lace beaded with seed pearls. Alencon lace also outlined the keyhole design on the back as well as on the waist, around the train and on the fitted sleeves. The veil was edged and applied with alencon lace. She carried a garden bouquet of blue iris, fuschia, flox, dogwood and pom pom carnations.

The matron of honor wore a formal gown of teal matte taffeta designed with a square neckline accented with inset Brussels lace. The dress was fashioned with with three-fourth length puff sleeves, fitted bodice and the waistline was encircled with a sash forming a bow at the side. She carried a garden bouquet with flowers similar to those of the bride.

The bridesmaids wore dresses identical to that of the matron of honor.

A reception was given following the ceremony in the fellowship hall of the church. Cake was served by Evonne Dickerson, aunt of the bride and punch was poured by Ann Bell, aunt of the bridegroom.

An after-rehearsal dinner was given by the bridegroom's mother at Three Steers Restaurant for the wedding party.

Must Help Ourselves

The routine audit of the East Carolina University athletic department budget, released by State Auditor Ed Renfrew, showed nothing surprising to those who are close to the university's athletic program.

The athletic budget has been running a deficit for three years. The audit showed the department had a surplus of $351,173 on July 1, 1978.

Then rising costs and lower revenues began to take their toll. There was a loss of $77,778 for the fiscal year which ended in June, 1979. For fiscal 1980 the loss was $394,866 and for 1981 the loss was $283,589. Currently the department has a deficit of $404,982 and a further deficit is expected this year.

It would be a mistake to assume that the deficit situation has been allowed to continue without any action. Some actions have been taken by Athletic Director Ken Kerr, including the elimination of one of the school's most popular sports, wrestling. Nor should it be conjectured that the athletic program is in a state of financial collapse.

Even with changes the total budget has grown from $1,474,348 to $2,185,818 for the current year. The deficit is made up by borrowing money from unrestricted (non-tax) institution trust funds, for which $50,000 in interest payments is budgeted. That amount is not crushing for a budget in excess of $2 million.

Neither, however, can we expect the situation to continue this way. The borrowed funds must eventually be paid off and the athletic department will have to operate within the funds available.

Once again it all comes down to alumni, friends and supporters of East Carolina University. Athletics at the university is trying to provide recreation and diversion for a large section of our state which has long been looked down upon by other areas as a wasteland. With the exception of N. C. State, ECU is getting little help from other institutions that should be concerned about total development of North Carolina. We can help ourselves to the traditional better life, which includes having a major football program in the vicinity, or we can just give up and admit our detractors are correct.

'I Could Have Told You'

I finally got sucked in by all the ads and bought a home computer. The day it arrived and I unpacked it, my wife said: "What did you buy that for?"

"Because it will solve all our household economic problems. All I have to do is feed the computer how much money we have coming in and how much money we have going out, and it will tell us if we're spending too much."

"I can tell you that," she said.

"Ah, yes, but this computer can tell it to us 100 times faster. Let me show you. We have to buy a new furnace for $3,500, or we can have the old furnace repaired for $2,000. How much will we save by having it repaired?"

"Nothing," my wife said. "You're wrong. The computer says we'll save $1,500."

"Did the computer tell you even if we have the old furnace repaired, there is no guarantee it will work, and then it will cost us $5,500?"

"How does the computer know it won't work?" "It doesn't. But the furnace man said he couldn't guarantee it."

"Well, then, we'll have to feed that in. A computer is only as good as the information it receives."

"Tell it the furnace man said if the old one fails on us after it's repaired, the house will fill up with carbon monoxide, which we won't be able to smell."

"All right." "What did it say?" "We're all going to die."

"I could have told you

ahead by $1,780."

"The computer's wrong. We will be behind by $2,560."

"How can you say that?" "Our real estate taxes came today. The city has raised them by 25 percent to make up for the tax cuts Reagan gave the people."

"Why didn't you tell me that before I fed the computer?"

"Why didn't Reagan tell us that before he gave out a tax cut?"

"I know what your problem is. You're afraid of my computer, and you are showing your hostility by pretending to know more than it does. But we programmers are used to skeptics. I shall now prove to you that this electronic marvel is worth every dollar I paid for it. Let's say we are spending roughly $30 week for groceries."

"You couldn't get roast beef for $30."

"You mean we're spending more than $30 a week for groceries?"

"Would you believe $150 a week?"

"Nobody spends $150 a week for groceries."

"Put it in the computer, buster. Now ask it where we can cut down on our food budget? ... What does it say?"

"It keeps repeating the words, 'FOOD STAMPS.'"

"I could have told you that."

"I will not be deterred. This home computer is programmed to tell you how you can make enormous cuts in your electricity bills. I will put in this disk, and type in the question, 'How can I save on electricity?'"

"What does it say?" "Turn off all the lights in the house when you aren't using them."

"Do you know how we could have really saved money this year? By not buying that stupid computer."

"Maybe you're right! I'll call the man who sold it to me and tell him we really don't need it."

I returned a few moments later.

"What did he say?" my wife asked. "He said he wouldn't take it back."

"I could have told you that."

Festival Establishes Itself

Another successful Southern Flue-Cured Tobacco Festival and Farmers Show was concluded last week with a luncheon which was attended by agricultural commissioners and their representatives.

It concluded a week of entertainment and activities which brought interested people from far away to Pitt County.

A highlight was the farm equipment show at which some of the most sophisticated equipment in the world was displayed.

This was the fourth year of the Tobacco Festival. The event grows each year and it seems to have established itself as a permanent celebration. It benefits the tobacco industry and it certainly has positive benefits for Pitt County.

THIS AFTERNOON

Looking To 1984

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH — The power brokers in both Republican and Democratic parties are anxiously casting about for their 1984 Knight in Shining Armor.

The outcome of that year's gubernatorial race in North Carolina hinges on one, simple thing — the success or failure of President Ronald Reagan's economic program.

Gov. Jim Hunt, the incumbent who can't run again but has under his wing the power and the people who will be critical to making the governor's mansion safe for Democrats for another term, has taken care to make the point clear: Reagan has managed to get practically anything he asked. The burden, therefore, rests on his shoulders alone. Hunt doesn't need to add that should failure result, Republicans nationally and in this state would suffer.

Should the economic reforms succeed, Republicans will stand on a solid political foundation.

Possible Added to that prospect of success, Republican strategists see two added ingredients which make brighter their chances in 1984:

— Money is no problem. Besides the party itself, the muscle and money-making power of the Jesse Helms-John East Congressional Club and of the essentially conservative fundamentalist Christian political action.

BILL NOBLITT

The major problem is to avoid the in-fighting which turned the last state election into a running battle over who was in control.

— Democrats have problems. Lt. Gov. Jimmy Green has spent years building up his support. His candidacy is now a liability because of his involvement in the kickback scheme. The other front-runner is Attorney General Rufus Edmiston who has trouble winning acceptance from the Democratic establishment. Insurance Commissioner John Ingram is a maverick who seems unable to retain loyalty and support from those around him.

So, on both sides of the political dividing line in North Carolina, the search is on for new faces in 1984.

Jim Broyhill, a Republican experienced in the U.S. Congress and well known statewide by his furniture enterprises, is considered by some GOP planners as the best hope. The question is whether Broyhill would give up a sure seat in the U.S. Congress. There is growing talk of bringing former Gov. Jim Holshouser back. Those two have the best statewide recognition. Others such as Cass Ballenger and Bill Redmon and Jim Martin would run into problems.

Trouble Talk of Beverly Lake Jr. trying again leave most Republican insiders cold. Lake was not a colorful and aggressive campaigner, and his race for governor as a turncoat Democrat still leaves many Republicans with a bitter taste.

Bill Colby, who made an

Other Editors Say Pay Dropouts?

(Mt. Airy News)

With all the recent talk (and action) about budget talks, those who fondly recall the fiscal abuses of yesteryear should be overjoyed at a recent disclosure from Raleigh. To wit: the state now has to pay some suspended students and dropouts money to encourage them to stay in school.

The policy of paying dropouts — to the tune of up to $30 per week — is brought to us by our old bureaucratic friend, the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA): the same organization that has literally paid some unemployed to dig holes and then refill them.

All shortcomings of CETA aside, paying dropouts for "encouragement" is simply ridiculous. Anyone who is not encouraged either by their own desire to succeed, or their own pride, should not place yet another burden on taxpayers.

The "good guys" in the issue are North Carolina state officials who have for years refused to make the payments, even though they have been a required CETA policy for years. The state, citing "philosophical differences," did not pay dropouts, and recently applied to the U.S. Labor Department for an exemption from the program.

What did our federal big brother do? As if the answer is really that vague, they, of course, ordered North Carolina to start paying the money.

Even if it means seceding from the union, North Carolina should refuse the federal order.

If paying students to stay in school were not enough, eligible recipients of the money must also be recipients of the Aid to Families With Dependent Children (AFDC) program.

It seems the liberal residue that threatened to wreck the economy in the 1960s is still around. Paying people to go to school is much like paying some welfare recipients money to encourage them to stay home and not find work.

Although money often talks, the government simply cannot bribe people to do what they normally would not do themselves.

We are not against helping some needy students make ends meet, especially if they are earnest about going to school, and hard-working. We know of many cases where 16-year-olds have taken jobs to help support their big families, especially in cases where the family lacks a primary bread winner.

GOP Holds High Cards

By WILLIAM M. WELCH
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — North Carolina Democrats, a year after suffering some stunning election losses, may be in for more bad news if the new analysis of a southern political expert is correct.

Despite the Democrat lock on the General Assembly and Gov. Jim Hunt's landslide re-election, the study of presidential voting trends concludes that the high cards lie with the GOP in North Carolina and in most of the rest of the South. That is, unless President Reagan's economic program backfires on the Republicans.

The study by Earl Black, political science professor at the University of South Carolina, describes a trend toward GOP voting in presidential elections in North Carolina and other southern states since the New Deal era. There is, he said in a recent interview, an "underlying pattern that suggests collapse" of the traditional Democratic base in presidential voting.

The result, he says, poses a "fantastic opportunity" for local Republican candidates.

"Unless Republican presidents blunder in grossly provocative and disastrous ways, presidential Republicanism in the South is now so advanced that it should be assumed that the Republican Party will carry the region in presidential politics for the foreseeable future," his study says.

Black's study hasn't been published yet, but it has already gained some attention in political circles. It is a draft of a chapter for a book he is writing with his brother Merle Black, a University of North Carolina political science professor.

It has found favor, understandably, among Republicans. North Carolina GOP Chairman Dave Flaherty keeps a copy, provided by White House political aide Lee Atwater, on his desk.

Janice Faulkner, executive director of the state Democratic Party, said she hadn't read it and didn't want to comment.

Black's analysis looks at presidential elections in groups of years — from 1920 to 1948, 1952 to 1964, and 1968 to 1980. It classifies counties as being Republican or Democratic if they were carried by the same party in at least three-fourths of the elections during the given period.

By that measure, 76 of North Carolina's counties were Democratic and only seven were Republican from 1920 to 1948. The rest, 17, were mixed, with the mountains the main area hostile to Democrats.

In the period through 1964, 60 counties were Democratic in presidential elections and 29 were Republican, but the Republican counties controlled larger percentage of voters.

In the post-Great Society period — ending with Reagan's 1980 election, which included North Carolina in his sweep — only 10 counties were counted as Democratic; 40 were GOP and 50 were mixed. Those he counted as remaining solidly Democratic were Orange and Durham counties, generally considered liberal, and a handful of counties in the southeastern and northeastern areas.

Taking the South as a whole the pattern was similar — firmly Democratic counties in presidential races amounted to 89 percent up to 1948, but were only 14 percent in the most recent period.

"I think the pattern in North Carolina is really very similar to that in a number of other southern states," Black said. "The areas lost (by Democrats) after the Great Society are really areas Democrats held onto for a century."

Republicans held onto their mountain base, grew strong in the Piedmont cities and finally scored dramatic reversals in eastern North Carolina.

If his analysis is valid, the major question it poses is, can the GOP make that advantage on national issues spill over into races for governor and the Legislature. Already the GOP has both Senate seats, but the party fell far short in the governor's race last year and holds only 20 percent of the legislative seats.

Democrats frequently have survived locally by distancing themselves from the national party and its liberal image, says Black. Also, he notes, internal disputes between conservative and moderate factions of the North Carolina GOP may have hurt.

Moreover, he said, partisanship may be as in-

Strength For Today

AN ISSUE OF LIFE OR DEATH

Today there are nearly 300,000 local congregations in the United States presided over by about 185,000 clergymen. Over 50 percent of the people are members of some church or synagogue.

There is hope to be found in these statistics. In 1800 only 6 percent of the people were church members. By 1850 the figure had risen to 16 percent, and in 1900 it reached 36 percent. Today there are nearly a quarter of a million Sunday Schools in the nation;

150 years ago there were none.

Yet these statistics should be no cause for complacency. Nearly half of our people have no connection with religious faith whatsoever. If we look to social effects, public morality is higher than it was only a few generations ago, yet private morality has in some respects reached new lows.

Let us not be too late with too little. The issues are life and death — eternal life and eternal death. — Elisha Douglass

Govm't Spending Still Rising

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer
Federal spending and taxes have been in the spotlight for most of this year, but recently published reports show there also have been sharp increases in finances closer to home.

The Tax Foundation, Inc., a non-profit group in Washington, D.C., says, for example, that its research shows:

—State tax collections nearly tripled from 1970 to 1980, rising from $48 billion to $137.1 billion. During the same period, federal tax collections rose by about 2 1/2 times.

—The number of workers employed by state and local governments increased 29 percent in the past decade; the payroll for those workers jumped 149 percent.

—Per-capita expenditures at all levels of government have been rising. Per-capita federal spending went up fastest, increasing 172 percent between 1970 and 1980. Per-capita state spending was close behind, however, with a jump of 165 percent during the decade. Per-capita local spending rose the least — 108 percent.

—Tax action by lawmakers in 30 states this year will raise state tax revenues by $2.5 billion, the highest annual statutory increase in state levies in 10 years. More than one-third of the money will come from higher sales taxes.

The foundation, a non-partisan research organization set up in 1937 to monitor the fiscal aspects of government, said state tax collections in 1980 totaled $607 for every man, woman and child in the country. Ten years ago, per-capita collections were only $237.

Growth in income eased some of the pain of higher taxes, however. When the researchers compared taxes and personal income, they found that state taxes claimed $71 for every $1,000 in personal income in 1980, up only about 9 percent from the $65 claimed in 1970.

General sales taxes are the single biggest source of tax money for the states. In 1980, such levies brought in $43.2 billion — almost one-third of the total. Selective sales taxes — on things like alcoholic beverages and motor vehicles — accounted for a little less than one-fifth of state tax revenues.

The take from the sales taxes will get even bigger as a result of 1981 legislative action. The foundation said there were statewide sales tax increases approved this year in four states — West Virginia, Ohio, Minnesota and Nevada.

Twenty-four states and the District of Columbia approved increases in motor fuel tax rates, which are expected to bring in $750 million a year, according to foundation researchers. The money will go for highway funds, which have been pinched by inflation combined with declining gasoline usages.

Rising labor costs are another reason for the need to raise taxes. The monthly payroll for state and local employees totaled $14.7 billion in 1980, the foundation said, up from $5.9 billion in 1970.

The 149 percent increase in the payroll compared with a 165 percent increase in the Gross National Product and a 94 percent rise in inflation, the foundation said.

The ratio of state and local employees to the public they serve rose 16 percent from October 1970 to October 1980, going from 420 workers per 10,000 members of the general population to 488 per 10,000, according to foundation statistics.

The foundation said the growth trend in public employment appears to be slowing. During 1980, the number of state and local workers rose nine-tenths of 1 percent; the population grew by 1.1 percent. It was the first time since World War II that the increase in state and local employment was smaller than the rise in the population, the foundation said.

Considering 4 For Motor Vehicles Job

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — State officials are considering four people for the post of Commissioner of Motor Vehicles, a Raleigh newspaper reported Monday.

The job has been vacant since Elbert L. Peters Jr. resigned Sept. 16 to become executive vice president of the North Carolina Motor Carriers Association. Peters earned $43,269 a year as commissioner.

The News and Observer of Raleigh said the possible successors include:

— R.W. Wilkins Jr., vice president of the United Carolina Bank in Lumberton and a longtime supporter of Gov. Jim Hunt.

— Col. Edwin C. Guy Jr.,

director of the Governor's Highway Safety Program and commander of the Highway Patrol from 1969 to 1973.

— Rep. David W. Bumgardner Jr., D-Gaston, chairman of the House Transportation Committee.

— Nancy R. Roberts, administrative aide and legislative liaison for the tense in North Carolina as anywhere in the South, which tends to rally traditional Democrats into action.

The analysis of course is based on history. Whether it will hold true in coming elections is another matter, and a big factor may be the success or failure of Reagan's economic program.

"If it should prove successful, I think you'll see campaigns where Reagan comes down and wraps his arm around local candidates," Black said.

"Other things being equal, Republicans have an enormous advantage," he added. "But it may well be that economic problems are as intractable for Reagan as they were for Carter."

Department of Transportation, a longtime Democratic Party activist and a past executive director of Common Cause of North Carolina. Wilkins and Ms. Roberts told the News and Observer that they were interested in the post.

As for Democrats, the jockeying remains intense with no clear leader now in sight. The impression remains, however, that party leadership would like to find a new face not among those already in state government and displaying tarnished armor.

How's The Weather?

WEATHER FORECAST — Showers and rain are expected in the forecast period until Tuesday morning for the Pacific coast states. Snow is due for the southern Rockies, northern Plains and Great Lakes. Rain is forecast for the mid-Atlantic and showers for Florida. Northern states will be cold, southern states mild. (AP Laserphoto Map)

By The Associated Press
High pressure centered over North Carolina will move off shore today, letting a weak area of low pressure move from the Mississippi Valley and into the state by early Tuesday, the National Weather Service reported.

The low pressure is likely to grow stronger as it moves over the Gulf Stream late Tuesday.

Skies were mostly sunny across the state Sunday. Afternoon temperatures warmed into the 40s for the most part. There were some readings in the 50s along the south coast where Jacksonville had a high of 54. Skies were fair Sunday night and temperatures were in the 20s and low 30s.

The recreational weather outlook called for cloudiness increasing across the state today. There is a chance of some light snow across the northern mountains late today and tonight. A travelers advisory may be needed across the northern mountains later today. Across the rest of the mountains there is a chance of light rain late today. The possibility of some light rain will spread from the mountains to the Piedmont and sandhills through Tuesday morning.

Skies will become partly cloudy across western and central sections Tuesday afternoon, with cloudiness lingering in the east.

High temperatures today will be in the 40s and low 50s. Lows tonight will be in the 30s with some low 40s along the coast. Highs Tuesday will range from the 40s in the north to the 50s in the south.

Bulgarian Birthday

What's a fitting way to celebrate a 1300th birthday? Bulgaria's answer is a series of celebrations beginning this year and lasting until 1994 — a 13 year party. In 681, the Bulgar tribe under Asparukh Khan subjugated twelve Slavic tribes and founded Bulgaria, the beautiful mountainous country on the shores of the Black Sea. Today Bulgaria, which has been a Soviet satellite since shortly after WWII, celebrates one of the healthiest economies in Eastern Europe and a rich cultural tradition — including seven opera houses for a population smaller than New York City. Bulgaria's most important cultural contribution to the world, however, may be Lactobacillus bulgaricus, the bacterial culture that gives us yogurt.

DO YOU KNOW — What is the capital of Bulgaria?
FRIDAY'S ANSWER — 180° longitude is called the international dateline.

Silent Auction Set By A Garden Club

The Lynndale Garden Club will have a silent auction at 9:30 a.m. Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Shirley Holec of 305 Stanwood. Handmade items, many suitable for holiday gifts and decorations will be available with proceeds going toward the club's landscape project.

Any member who will be unable to attend but would like to be a part of the auction should call Mrs. Wanza Broom. Others should bring their items to the Holec residence Monday afternoon.

Mrs. Marguerite Wilson and Mrs. Gail Blanton will co-host the auction.

The club welcomes 10 new members: Mrs. Elizabeth Dunn, Mrs. Hilda O'Bryant, Mrs. Holly Pegram, Mrs. Janet Soroka, Mrs. Nancy Danoff, Mrs. Pauline Bell Roberson, Mrs. Peggy Pryor, Mrs. Claudette Lynch, Mrs. Marchia May and Mrs. Blanch Harris.

The yard of the month was awarded to Mr. and Mrs. Bob Brown, 30 Stanwood Drive. Instead of the yard of the month award for December, three ribbons will be presented: a gold ribbon for the best religious theme, red for the best traditional theme and green for the best novelty theme. Yards will be judged around Dec. 14th.

The club's annual Christmas party will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Satterfield on Dec. 10. Members planning to attend should call Mrs. Connie Jones before Dec. 7.

Holidays

The Pitt County Schools will observe Thursday and Friday, Nov. 26 and 27, as Thanksgiving holidays and Monday, Nov. 30, as a student holiday-teacher workday.

All schools, offices, transportation and maintenance will be closed Thursday and Friday, but all will be open Monday for teacher work. Students will return on Tuesday.

Our Book Week activities at South Greenville School were greatly enhanced by donations we received from the groups listed below. We take this opportunity to give them our sincere thanks.

Poster Winners Are Announced

In celebration of Children's Book Week, Sheppard Memorial Library sponsored a poster contest for school children in grades K-6. Posters submitted to the library illustrated the Book Week theme — "any place, any time, any book."

A blue ribbon and a book prize were awarded for the best poster in each of the grades K-6. Winners in the contest were:

- Kindergarten — Lindsey Long, Elmhurst School.
- First grade — Shelia Carmen, Third Street School.
- Second grade — Jake Woods, Sadie Sautler.
- Third grade — Terrence Harris, Third Street School.
- Fourth grade — Blake Stallings, Wahl-Coates School.

Solar Fraction

Greenville's solar fraction calculated by the Department of Physics of East Carolina University was 5.8 yesterday, which means that a solar water heater could have provided 5.8 percent of your hot water yesterday.

School.
- Fifth grade — Susan Ambert, Wahl-Coates School.
- Sixth grade — Brenda Farley, Wahl-Coates.
Winning posters will be displayed at Sheppard Library and its branches during the next three weeks.

AT THE TROPICANA, THE DEAL ISN'T ONLY AT THE TABLES.

There's one hotel in Atlantic City where you don't have to be lucky to get a good deal. We offer two plans where the odds are way in your favor. And the entire experience at The Tropicana is in your favor, too. Because the feeling is very reminiscent of Monte Carlo. The lobby, the casino, the lounges, all feel more like the South of France than the Coast of Jersey. That's why we call our special accommodations The Monte Carlo Plan. Call your travel agent or The Tropicana at 609-340-4200. And stay at the one hotel where nothing is left to chance.

IT'S LIKE MONTE CARLO IN ATLANTIC CITY.

Saturday's Cryptoquip — PRUDENT POLICEMAN PURSUED THE IMPOLITE PURSE SNATCHER.

Today's Cryptoquip clue: V equals C

The Cryptoquip is a simple substitution cipher in which each letter used stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words, and words using an apostrophe can give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is accomplished by trial and error.

SIDES WITH PEKING
 PEKING (AP) — After meeting with China's top leader Deng Xiaoping, former Vice President Walter Mondale says the U.S. "should not be selling advanced fighters" to the rival Nationalist regime on Taiwan.

NEW YORK (AP) — Takeover news and rumors dominated activity as the stock market recorded a modest gain today. The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, up 8.18 on Friday, rose 2.85 to 855.78 by noon. Gainers held a small lead over losers in the mid-day tally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues. Analysts said they weren't looking for any dramatic move by the market in either direction this week, with the Thanksgiving holiday on Thursday helping to curtail activity. Penzoil was delayed in opening amid unconfirmed reports that Gulf Oil might be considering a bid for the company. Host International jumped 5 1/4 to 27 1/4. Marriott Corp. offered $29 a share for the company. Richardson Co., which agreed to a $27.50-a-share takeover by Witco Chemical, gained 1 1/2 to 27 1/2. The NYSE's composite index rose .16 to 71.16. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up 1.06 at 319.17. Volume on the Big Board totaled 19.13 million shares at noon, against 20.14 million at the same point Friday.

LARGEST CONTRIBUTION TOWARDS RESTORATION OF NEW CHAMBER HEAD-QUARTERS ... Proctor and Gamble Corporation presented a check for $20,000 to the Greenville Foundation and the Pitt-Greenville Chamber of Commerce for restoration of the Fleming House, the new headquarters of the chamber. The $20,000 represents the largest single contribution to date. Accepting the check in front of the house, above, left to right, are Richard Cox, executive director of the Greenville Foundation; Greenville Mayor Don McGlohan; Dr. Herb Hadley, chairman of the Greenville Foundation and Bob Griffin, chairman of the board of directors, Pitt-Greenville Chamber of Commerce. Tommy Edwards, chairman of the Restoration and Renovation Task Force of the chamber, said the architectural firm of Dudley & Shoe has been selected to prepare the specifications for the restoration. Bids have been accepted and Bill Clark Construction is low bidder, he reported. Work on the building should be no later than February of 1982. Designer for the restoration will be Jane Flanagan of A.B. Whitley, Inc.

Philadelphia Falls; Jets Nip Dolphins

By The Associated Press
Dallas didn't exactly bend, fold, spindle or mutilate the Washington Redskins, but computer cards did come into play as the Cowboys helped forge one of three division ties created this weekend in the National Football League.

The Cowboys' computer, a well-known tool of Coach Tom Landry, apparently spotted a flaw or two in the 'Skins offense during the week, and Landry used the information to beat the Redskins 24-10 on Sunday. The victory, coupled with the New York Giants' 20-10 upset of Philadelphia, left the Cowboys and Eagles tied for the National Conference Eastern Division lead with 9-3 records.

The New York Jets also figured in a division tie, beating Miami 16-15 and moving into a deadlock with the Dolphins in the American Conference East. Each team has a record of 7-4-1.

The third tie was formed when the Cincinnati Bengals powered past Denver 38-21 and Kansas City blasted Seattle 40-13. That left the Broncos and Chiefs each at 8-4 atop the AFC West.

Dallas quarterback Danny White threw for a pair of touchdowns, including a 10-yarder to tight end Doug Cosbie late in the third quarter that broke a 10-10 tie. Drew Pearson set up the final Dallas score when he ran 25 yards on a double reverse to the Washington 1, and Ron Springs scored with 52 second left.

The Redskins' game was weakened when running back Joe Washington left the game late in the second quarter. Washington, who had rushed for 84 yards, sustained torn cartilage in his rib cage and did not return to the game.

With four weeks left in the season, only one division title

Runager shanked a punt on a broken play.

Runager's punt went 9 yards to the Philadelphia 32, and six plays later, Danelo kicked his winning field goal. Terry Jackson put the game away when he intercepted a Ron Jaworski pass on the Eagles' next possession and returned it 32 yards for a touchdown.

Andruzzi: Experience Lacking

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor
With only two starters returning from last year's nationally ranked Lady Pirates, one might expect East Carolina coach Cathy Andruzzi to be downhearted as the 1981-82 season approaches.

Gone are such stars as Kathy Riley, Marcia Girven, Lydia Rountree and Laurie Sikes.

But no, Andruzzi looks to the coming year with just as much enthusiasm, and a team chock full of raw, yet talented newcomers.

The 1981-82 Lady Pirate team has more height than ever before, with 6-2 freshman Darlene Chaney of Richmond, Va., and 6-0 Laura Regal of Granger, Ind., headlining a talented freshman crew. Joining them are two other 6-0 players returning from last year, including Mary Denkler, one of the two starters back, and Darlene Hedges, who became eligible at mid-year after transferring.

Add to that the return of the other starter, 5-8 Sam Jones, and several outstanding newcomers such as 5-7 Loraine Foster, a freshman, and Loletha Harrison, a 5-8 transfer, and 5-9 Ginger Noce, another transfer.

With all that, plus some less experienced but veterans like 5-6 Lillion Barnes, 5-8 Fran Hooks and 5-6 Caren Truske, gives Andruzzi hopes for the future.

How quickly that future arrives will be the question.

"I really don't know what to expect," Andruzzi said as she looks toward Sunday's 3 p.m. opening against Appalachian State in Minges Coliseum.

"They've been working hard, but our experience on the court will be lacking. The group is just getting to know each other on the court, and knowing how to react to each other."

One of the things that pleases the fourth-year coach the most is the cooperation and hard work the players have shown.

"The thing that has been the most frustrating is that we can only teach so much in one day, but these kids haven't complained at all."

The Druz expects all five of the newcomers, Chaney, Regal, Foster, Harrison and Noce to contribute a great deal and play a great deal this fall. "They have to learn a lot. They have to know what to do in tight situations, and what their teammates will do. The big kids, who have been used to being the only big ones on the court, have to learn offensive and defensive moves since another transfer.

they're going to be facing people their own size for a change."

Andruzzi said that the Lady Pirates are ahead in their game plan as of now, and she credits that to a couple of things. They have been scrimmaging a great deal against male opponents and have used officials in most of these scrimmages. "Against the guys, they're learning to be a great deal more physical than they would against themselves," Andruzzi said. "They have to be or they'd be beaten to death." It appears to be paying off.

"We want a structured offense and defense, and working with the guys has helped in this area too. I can see that it's working because of things I saw in our scrimmage against Old Dominion."

With another tough schedule, Andruzzi isn't going to worry about W's and L's. "We'll let them take care of themselves," she said. "We want to teach our fundamentals and get them executing to the best of their ability. And once they get these fundamentals, we want them to progress. We want to do the best we can with the people we have."

Andruzzi, as of late last week, still hadn't decided who would be playing where come Sunday. But she does note that she's been able to move some people around and see them at other spots. For instance, she could switch Jones from the big guard to the point, and move Foster away from the point guard spot. She could move Denkler outside more depending on how the bigger girls come around. "I think we're going to be a lot more flexible than we were last year," Andruzzi said.

There have been two big surprises so far. One of them has been the play of Regal.

"She has a lot of potential. She is a very strong woman physically and has good body balance. She's strong and powerful and not afraid. But she hasn't sustained intensity through a ballgame yet. Once she does this, she's going to be really good."

In contrast, Andruzzi feels Chaney has more finesse and

Red Wilson To Speak

Red Wilson

Duke coach Red Wilson will be the featured speaker at the Greenville Sports Club's biweekly luncheon Tuesday at noon at the Ramada Inn.

Wilson, who has been at Duke for three years, led the Blue Devils to a 6-5 season this year. His coaching record is 83-53-3.

Prior to becoming head coach at Duke he was an assistant athletic director in 1977-78. Before that, he was AD and head coach at Elon College between for 10 years (1967-77). During that time, his teams won six conference championships and won the NAAIA title in 1973.

Visitors and new members are invited to the meeting.

Annual dues are $30, but at this stage of the year they have been reduced to $25.

Andruzzi...

that Foster is a super athlete who is a natural talent. "She wants it," Andruzzi noted.

The other surprise has been the play of senior co-captain Barnes. "She's going to help us a lot on defense and she has a lot more confidence in her offense now. She's giving us a lot of leadership."

While she's not set on the starting lineup, Andruzzi said it might come down to Hedges, Denker, Barnes, Jones and Foster, but that everyone is going to play a lot to see how they respond under fire. "The key is going to be which of them is willing to put it on the court and play defense," Druz said.

"This group has worked harder than any group I've had. There are no superstars. Sam's good and Mary's good, but they're not big shots. The veterans have all worked hard at being leaders, and I think that's one reason that the newcomers have worked as hard as they have.

"I just hope the people will give them a lot of support this year, 'cause it's going to be a tough one."

Atlanta Out To Keep Hopes Alive

ATLANTA (AP) — The year that was supposed to have produced a strong run at the Super Bowl has turned into one of frustration for the Atlanta Falcons, leaving only fading hopes of squeezing into the National Football League playoffs as the final wild-card team.

Atlanta, which has lost six of its last eight outings in plunging to a 5-6 record, tangles with the NFC Central Division-leading Minnesota Vikings tonight in the NFL's weekly prime time nationally televised contest.

Quarterback Steve Bartkowski probably feels the frustration more than any other Atlanta player. He is having one of his best seasons statistically, but has seen late game comeback attempts foiled by crucial mistakes — some of his own and others by teammates.

"We're a better team than our record indicates," Bartkowski says. "There's still a lot of football left to be played, and if we put together a winning streak we can be there at the end."

With only five games remaining, Atlanta was one of seven NFL clubs with a 5-6 mark in the chase for a wild card spot going into 12th weekend of the season.

And despite the Falcons' play of recent weeks, Atlanta was a four-point favorite to down the Vikings, who own a 7-4 record in their quest for a 12th divisional title in 14 years. The Vikings enjoy a 1½-game lead and Atlanta trails NFC West leader San Francisco by 3½ games.

"I know you guys get tired of hearing the same thing, but I'm not trying to convince anyone of anything," said Bartkowski. "I'm not running for office. I believe it."

"My first three years here I would look around the league and see where we had nowhere near the talent as other teams," Bartkowski said. "Now, we've got the talent and there isn't the despair there used to be. There's a light at the end of the tunnel now."

Bartkowski has passed for 2,726 yards and 24 touchdowns this season. His Minnesota counterpart has similar statistics, having thrown for 2,598 yards and 18 scores. A high-scoring passing battle is expected in the 9 p.m. EST clash.

"Atlanta is a tough team to begin with, but they're going to be even tougher at home on a Monday night, especially since they're bound to be steamed up after losing their last two games," said Coach Bud Grant of the Vikings.

Waltrip Wins Points Standings

Woody Peele

During the past few weeks, we've been soliciting the names of collegiate football teams that some of you fans out there would like to see come into Ficklen Stadium to face the Pirates.

This, naturally doesn't mean that athletic director Ken Karr will be able to wave some sort of magic wand and those teams will appear on the schedule in home and home meetings.

However, even Karr said that he would welcome such information.

The sad part of it all was that we got lists from only seven people/groups. One list contained some thirty or more teams, however, and was a group-effort. So maybe we have something of an idea from it. The rest who sent in letters, all of them reproduced in our Sportline column, were more in the way of complaints about the stadium, ticket sales, cost, etc.

We also had a couple of calls from people who didn't want to take the time to write, but they complained about things like people continually wandering around in the stands and the lack of leg room for tall people. There were complaints about the mud and dust under the stands — how long has that area been paved? — the lack of a winning team, but probably what it all boils down to is that what we call the ACC syndrome is still with us. That syndrome is simple: if it ain't ACC, then it ain't nothin'. ECU lives in the shadow of that conference, and for better or worse, has to compete with them for the athletic dollar.

And recent revelations have shown that ECU is not winning that battle either.

What it comes to is this: for East Carolina to have the program people of this area want, then the pocketbook must be opened first. You don't build winning programs on deficit spending — at least not for long. You have to spend money to make money — any business man will tell you that, and athletics is no different.

Now to our results.

The most popular teams on the ballots might draw some surprised looks. The most popular team was Virginia Tech, which was named five times. Drawing support from four of those who wrote in were West Virginia (on the upcoming schedules), Miami, Fla. (just here), Florida State (coming in), Memphis State and Navy.

Drawing support from as many as three writers were Army, Vanderbilt, South Carolina, Southern Mississippi (a former visitor), Rutgers, Cincinnati, Temple, Richmond (on the schedule), Louisville, William & Mary (on the schedule), Boston College, N.C. State and Syracuse.

Named on two letters were Tulane, Mississippi, Kentucky, Texas Tech, Louisiana State, Virginia, Wake Forest, Duke, Auburn, Miami of Ohio, and VMI.

Others listed were Yale, Indiana, Colorado, Oregon, California, San Diego State, Georgia Tech, Clemson, Texas Christian, Tennessee, Southern Methodist, Air Force, Houston, Maryland, Mississippi State, Pennsylvania, Rice, Boston University, Connecticut, Massachusetts, Delaware, Colgate, Ohio, Appalachian State, Western Carolina, Georgia and North Texas State.

Most surprisingly, not one person mentioned North Carolina.

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (AP) — Bobby Allison won a duel with Joe Ruttman to capture the Western 500 stock car race Sunday, but lost his duel with Darrell Waltrip for the 1981 Winston Cup points championship.

Waltrip, who won the pole position with a Riverside International Raceway track record speed of 114.981 mph, ran the race conservatively and finished sixth. With an 83-point lead on Allison going into the event, he needed only to finish 20th or better.

The final Winston Cup points standings after the 31-race series was 4,880 for Waltrip, 4,827 for Allison. In a tight finish in Sunday's 500 kilometer (311.78 miles) over Riverside's nine-turn, 2.62-mile road course, Allison was 24 seconds ahead of Ruttman for the checkered flag. Terry Labonte was a close third.

The race had been a scramble early, with eight drivers holding the lead at one time or another. After 102 of the 119 laps, however, it settled down to an Allison-Ruttman battle.

Allison, who opened from the No. 5 spot on the grid driving a Buick, took the lead for good on 110th lap. He stayed just in front of Ruttman, who was seeking his first Winston Cup victory, the rest of the way.

Ruttman, trying unsuccessfully to pass, actually hit Allison's rear bumper late in the race.

Averaging 95.288 mph in the race, which was slowed by seven caution flags, Allison completed the event in 3 hours, 27 minutes and 19.44 seconds.

Dale Earnhardt finished fourth, Joe Millikan fifth, with Richard Petty seventh behind Waltrip, and Harry Gant eighth.

The points championship was the first for Waltrip, who joined the Junior Johnson racing team for this year. To do so, he had to buy off his contract with the Digard team, a move that cost Waltrip $350,000.

He was runnerup in the 1979 points standings to Richard Petty. Ironically, Waltrip entered the final race of that year with a two-point lead over Petty, but drove a conservative race and finished behind Petty.

Waltrip, 35, won 12 and finished second six times in the 31 races this season. At one juncture, near midseason, he trailed Allison by a whopping 341 points. But he went on to finish ahead of Allison in 16 consecutive races.

The victory Sunday was the fifth of the year for Allison, who has now finished second in the points standings three times in his long racing career. He was runnerup to Petty in 1972 and Cale Yarborough in 1978.

Jets 16, Dolphins 15
Jets quarterback Richard Todd, playing despite a fractured rib, tossed an 11-yard scoring pass to Jerome Barkum with 16 seconds to play, capping a 10-play winning drive.

New York got the ball with 3:10 left, after Uwe von Schamann had given Miami a 15-9 lead with a 23-yard field goal.

The victory was the Jets' fourth straight. The Jets' first game with Miami this year ended in a 28-28 tie, giving New York the edge in head-to-head competition should the AFC East end deadlocked.

Bengals 38, Broncos 21
Quarterback Ken Anderson passed for 396 yards, the second best single-game total of his 11-year career, as Cincinnati downed Denver. Anderson threw three touchdown passes and ran for another score against the top-rated defensive team in the NFL.

The victory was the fourth in a row for Cincinnati, which rolled up the biggest point total of the season against the Broncos.

Chiefs 40, Seahawks 13
Bill Kenney threw for a pair of touchdowns, and rookie Billy Jackson scored twice on short runs for Kansas City. The Chiefs scored two touchdowns in a 36-second span in the second quarter to take a 20-6 lead.

Kennedy hit J.T. Smith with a 14-yard scoring pass, capping a 73-yard drive, with 1:07 left in the half, and on Seattle's next possession, Lloyd Burruss intercepted a Jim Zorn pass and returned it 46 yards for a touchdown.

49ers 33, Rams 31
Ray Werschling kicked his fourth field goal of the game, as time expired, to boost the 49ers over Los Angeles.

Wendell Tyler's 1-yard touchdown run with 1:51 to play gave the Rams a 31-30 lead, but San Francisco quarterback Joe Montana then went to work. He passed for 54 yards in the winning drive.

The loss eliminated the Rams since even if they won the rest of their games and the 49ers lost all theirs, San Francisco would win on the basis of the best head-to-head mark.

Chargers 55, Raiders 21
Dan Fouts set a club record with six touchdown passes, and Kellen Winslow tied an NFL mark by catching five of them for San Diego. Winslow tied a single-game mark set in 1950 by Bob Shaw of the Chicago Cardinals.

The victory snapped a two-game losing streak with the second-highest point total in the history of the Chargers, while the defending Super Bowl champion Raiders were virtually eliminated from playoff contention with a 5-7 record.

Steelers 32, Browns 10
Cleveland quarterback Brian Sipe was intercepted six times, and Steelers quarterback Terry Bradshaw threw a pair of short touchdown passes as Pittsburgh kept alive in the AFC Central.

Franco Harris also scored a touchdown on a short run, tying him with Jim Taylor for career rushing touchdowns with 83.

Lions 23, Bears 7
Eric Hipple ran for a touchdown, and Ed Murray kicked three field goals as Detroit manhandled the Bears, who were held to 24 net yards, the lowest in their history.

Hipple set up his own 5-yard scoring run with a 46-yard pass to Fred Scott.

Bucs 37, Packers 3
Tampa Bay scored 24 points in the second quarter, sparked by Cedrick Brown's 81-yard scoring run with an interception, as the Buccaneers evened their record. James Owens, an Olympic hurdler, ran for 112 yards and caught four passes for 44 yards.

Bill Capece also kicked three field goals for the Bucs.

Saints 27, Oilers 24
New Orleans Coach Bum Phillips returned made his return to Houston a triumphant one as Jack Holmes ran for 142 yards and two touchdowns to beat the Oilers.

The game was the first for Phillips in Houston since the Oilers fired him after last season. Phillips was greeted by a standing ovation when he entered the stadium.

Cardinals 35, Colts 24
Otis Anderson ran for 130 yards, going over the 1,000-yard mark for the third straight season, and scored two touchdowns as St. Louis handed Baltimore its 11th straight loss.

St. Louis broke a 7-7 tie in the first quarter when Dave Andrews intercepted a Bert Jones pass and ran 14 yards for a touchdown.

Bills 20, Patriots 17
Bills quarterback Joe Ferguson tossed a 36-yard touchdown pass to Roland Hooks with five seconds left to hand the Patriots their 10th loss of the season.

The winning pass was deflected into Hooks' hands in a crowd in the end zone. New England had taken a 17-13 lead with less than two minutes left on a 5-yard scoring pass from Matt Cavanaugh to Don Hasselbeck.

Moreno Scores

9.0 In Match

RALEIGH — Kerrie Moreno scored a 9.0 in floor exercise to help her finish first in the all-around title this past weekend at a Class 3 Eastern Sectional at the Raleigh School of Gymnastics.

Moreno, a member of the Greenville Rosettes gymnastics team, scored 32.80 to win the compulsory all-around title. Her 9.0 was the highest score in the 12-14 age group.

In the compulsory and optional competition, Moreno was third on the balance beam and fourth on the floor exercise.

Alabama A&M Stops Clemson In OT

CLEMSON, S.C. (AP) — Alabama A&M has taken the NCAA South soccer playoff championship, broken Clemson's 12-game winning streak and finished off the Tigers' regular season, all with an overtime goal kicked by Solomon Shiferaw Sunday for a 2-1 win.

"We played the best game we played all year," said

Clemson Coach I.M. Ibrahim. "We had a million chances but we didn't finish them off. It was heartbreaking to lose that way."

"We really had a good team."

The teams went into overtime after the regulation game ended in a 1-1 tie. Shiferaw's goal came in the third of four 15-minute sudden death periods as he beat the Clemson defense and booted a shot past Tiger goalie Sean Burke.

The loss was the first home defeat for the Atlantic Coast Conference champion Tigers.

'Fire On The Mountain' Uses Proven Theme

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Stories about old-timers rebelling against modern civilization by refusing to sell out to progress and high-rise apartments are in vogue now. Newscasters occasionally wrap up their broadcasts with pieces on these pioneers protecting their homesteads.

The story is told in a minute or two, and the viewer smiles about the good old days and heads out to the local shopping center. Tonight's NBC movie, "Fire on the Mountain," starring Ron Howard and Buddy Ebsen, is such a story. Only it's so dreary and long-winded that it's impossible to hold much compassion for Don Quixote.

The windmill battler is John Vogelien, played by Ebsen, who was able to slip into Jed Clampett's wardrobe and twang for the role. Vogelien, proudly stubborn, refuses government requests — and court orders — that he vacate his New Mexico ranch to make way for a missile base.

The conflict is simple to Vogelien: "My earth, soil, sweat and home," vs. "the government's papers and laws."

Vogelien likes to rock on his porch and watch the sun set.

and he boasts that he's a man of few words. His eulogy after shooting his grandson's lame horse was typical: "I ain't much with words... He was a good horse... Goodbye old horse."

The story is equally sparse and fails to build any dramatic tension. The subject — a man protecting his home against government intrusion — just isn't done in a compelling way.

The villain starts out being the government in the person of Col. Desalio, played with smothering politeness by Michael Conrad, the Emmy Award winner from "Hill Street Blues." But, oddly enough, Vogelien's obstinance in the face of government concessions and the fact that the government actually owns the land, causes sympathies to move toward Big Brother.

Howard is not believable as Lee Mackie, the land speculator trying to milk the government for his land. Although Howard's mercenary bent mellowed under the stoic influence of Vogelien, this really isn't a fitting role for the boyishly innocent actor who is best known as Opie on the "Andy Griffith Show" and Richie Cunningham on "Happy Days."

In one bizarre scene, Mackie offers to help Vogelien chop a huge tree and takes off his shirt. If this is supposed to be beefcake, it's sliced pretty lean. Who are they trying to kid? And it's comical when Mackie attempts an awkward embrace with his love interest on the show. You can't help wondering when the Fonz will barge in and show him how to do it right.

There are two other characters who are supposed to add warmth, but this two-hour movie doesn't work on any level. No heartstrings are ever pulled.

Vogelien's grandson, Billy (Rossie Harris), is learning the values of the West: respect for animals, the land and conversation.

"Rub-a-dub-dub, thanks for the grub," is the grace he offers on Christmas Eve.

REPLACEMENT — NBC sportscaster Bryant Gumbel is expected to become host of the "Today" show replacing Tom Brokaw who is going to the "NBC Nightly News". In a Sunday interview, Gumbel said he would begin his new assignment the first Monday of the new year. (AP Laserphoto)

Favored By The Film Fanciers

By DAVID TOMLIN
Associated Press Writer
COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — It's an aging, featureless storefront with no glittering marquee and only 70 seats inside, but 2,000 South Carolinians say this is the best place in the state to see a movie.

Most of these dedicated film fanciers are from Columbia, but many come from Charleston, Aiken, Greenville and beyond to sip French coffee or fruit juice, munch imported pastry and watch movies that will never make it to the shopping malls.

The place is Nickelodeon, just off the Statehouse square. Years ago it was a little bank, and the safe-deposit box is still taking up precious space behind the concession stand.

A small group of cinema buffs formed the Columbia Film Society in 1979, signed up 200 members and leased the place, installing a tiny lobby, seats and a rickety portable movie machine.

Today there's a big Eastman projector in the booth and the membership has multiplied tenfold. But managers James Wilson and Dale Campbell are still deliberately thinking small.

"Watching a film at Nickelodeon is really an intimate experience," says Campbell. "It's like a home away from home. There are people who are down here three nights a week with a cup of coffee and a pastry."

There's evidently something special about smuggling into a small room with a crowd of high-minded film aficionados to watch the flicker of images that not just anybody would pay to see.

"Our volunteer workers tell us this is one reason they keep coming back," Campbell says. "These are the kind of people they like to meet."

Nickelodeon fare is a mixed bag. There is the occasional revival of a commercial success, like "A Man for All Seasons." There are hardy perennials like the Marx Brothers and Humphrey Bogart, and such relatively obscure offerings as "Dersu Uzala" or "Wiseblood."

Wilson and Campbell try to balance domestic and import, classic and experiment, sublime and ridiculous.

"There's a lot of hit and miss," Wilson says. "You don't always know what will sell and what won't."

Generally Nickelodeon sells. Many times it sells out, thanks to Wilson's and Campbell's avid attention to big city reviews and trade publications.

They say professionalism, from film selection to box office to projection room, is the key to their success. Commercial theaters, they claim, are too often run by absentee mass marketers with young, untrained help.

"The only way to run a theater is to have people working there who are really interested in the medium of film," Campbell says.

Nickelodeon customers must either be annual members for $10 a year plus $2 per film, or pay an extra buck at the box office for a temporary membership. With a $25 annual membership, you can bring two guests inside for the $2 admission.

Non-profit status and no advertising gives Nickelodeon access to low rentals from distributors who deal with the so-called "non-theatrical" circuit.

The formula is working so well that Wilson and Campbell are scouting around for a slightly larger house, although their lease will keep them at their current address for another couple of years.

But they don't want to lose the amiable blend of serious cinema buffing and amusement which seems to be making the theater a modest cultural landmark in the state.

"Our reputation is an interesting phenomenon," Campbell says. "There are films which haven't done well here in commercial theaters. But when they appear on our calendar, it's some kind of mark of worth, and people figure it might be worth seeing."

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, NOV. 24, 1981

YOUR DAILY Horoscope

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Frustrations at not being able to do the things you wish are in effect today, but don't be upset, for disappointments could change later to your advantage. Your intuition is accurate now.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Keep active at something constructive for best results today. Good tidings could come from friends now. Think constructively.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) If you get the aid of a higher-up, you can be successful in a new plan you have in mind. Your judgment is not good today.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Take time for listening to ideas of new contacts. Use your intuitive faculties at this time. Avoid the frivolous tonight.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You have a worry that can be alleviated if you go to an expert for advice. Try to be more courteous to others.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) A close tie can be helpful in dealing with friends who are not acting as usual toward you now. Avoid lavish spending.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Any risks you take with your good name now could prove expensive in the future. Sidestep a fair-weather friend.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Discuss a new idea with associates before making any definite plans for the future. Look for bargains now and save money.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Come to better terms with your creditors and forget worry. Avoid any temptations that could be costly in the long run.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Forget worries at home and put more energy in career activities. Your hunches are accurate at this time.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Use more progressive methods and advance in career activities. A business expert can help you solve a financial worry.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) If you adopt a more cheerful attitude, you can solve a difficult problem. Keep poised at all times today.
PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Your intuitive perceptions are not accurate now, so use only your best judgment to solve problems. Stick to facts.
IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she must be taught not worry in order to handle problems intelligently. Teach early in life to mingle more with others and not to hide any talents. Any profession connected with the humanities is fine here.
 "The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

Q.1—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
 ♠AKQ3 ♥A8762 ♦Q107 ♣J
 Partner opens the bidding with one spade. What do you respond?

A.—The hand is a trifle too strong for a jump raise to three spades, but not good enough and the wrong texture for a jump shift. We suggest that you temporize with a bid of two hearts, then support spades vigorously at your next turn. If you jump raised instead, you wouldn't know what to do should partner simply bid four spades.

Q.2—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
 ♠QJ732 ♥74 ♦K84 ♣A95
 Partner opens the bidding with one spade. What do you respond?

A.—Not an easy hand to bid. It is a whit too weak for a jump raise, but far too strong for a simple raise or a leap to four spades. The solution is a temporizing bid of two clubs, to be followed by a spade raise on the next round.

Q.3—North-South vulnerable, as South you hold:
 ♠AKJ87542 ♥A ♦QJ98
 Partner opens the bidding with one club. What do you respond?

A.—While we do not usually like to make a jump shift with a void in partner's suit, this hand is the exception. Your spade suit is self-sustaining, and you can play in the suit even if partner is void. The important thing is to let partner know immediately that you are interested in slam—if you don't, you might never be able to catch up. Bid two spades.

Q.4—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
 ♠K105 ♥83 ♦J72 ♣Q10952
 The bidding has proceeded: West North East South
 1 ♣ Dble Pass 2 ♣ Pass 3 ♣ Pass ?
 What do you bid now?

A.—Partner must have a pretty good hand to raise you to the three-level in a non-competitive auction when you might have a bust. In fact, you have a fairly good five-card suit and a solid stopper in the enemy suit. Bid three no trump. If partner's raise was based on distribution more than high cards, he can always run to four clubs.

Q.5—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
 ♠Q10962 ♥K873 ♦853 ♣8
 Partner opens the bidding with one no trump. What do you respond?

A.—The way we play Stayman, your hand is not strong enough to employ the convention, for it is forcing to two no trump or three of a major. Therefore, we would simply bid two spades. However, if you play the non-forcing variation of Stayman, by all means bid two clubs and then, if partner denies a major by bidding two diamonds, sign off in two spades. Naturally, you intend passing two hearts or two spades.

Q.6—Neither vulnerable, as

SOMETIMES THE SELLER'S MORTGAGE CAN HELP YOU BUY A HOME.

Most VA and FHA loans are assumable at the original interest rate. Other types of mortgages also may be assumable at interest rates which are lower than current market rates.
Some lenders are now offering preferred or discount rate plans that allow you to assume an existing mortgage at an interest rate higher than the original rate but still lower than the current market rate.
These are some of the homes that are available on a loan assumption. The information indicated is approximate and can change at any time. With a loan assumption, now may be the best time to buy a home!
