Tentative Accord In Further Budget Cut

By CLIFF HAAS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican congressional leaders and Reagan administration officials are in tentative agreement on an additional $4 billion in domestic spending cuts to meet "the major challenges of the president" and avert another budget crisis.

"I am very optimistic that we can fly this thing," said House Republican leader Robert H. Michel of Illinois.

President Reagan's "final sign-off" on the plan, to be included in a new emergency money bill to replace one that expires Dec. 15, was expected today, said a congressional source who asked to remain anonymous.

The source quoted White House budget director David A. Stockman as telling participants in a private Capitol Hill meeting Thursday night that the proposal "meets the major challenges of the president."

On Sept. 24, Reagan asked Congress for an additional $8.4 billion in domestic spending cuts — 12 percent across the board. He later indicated he was willing to accept half that amount, and White House spokesman David Gergen repeated Thursday that "what the president has asked for is something that meets him approximately halfway."

Sources said the new proposal generally calls for across-the-board cuts of 4 percent in most domestic programs, including those singled out in Reagan's September request.

Government benefit programs such as food stamps and Medicare would be exempt, as would defense, the judiciary, law enforcement operations and veterans' medical benefits.

The issue of how much to spend on foreign aid is unresolved pending action next week in the House on related legislation, the sources said.

There was optimism that the plan would be adopted by the full House and Senate. The president's acceptance would avert a confrontation like the one that occurred last month when Reagan vetoed a compromise spending measure, forcing a temporary shutdown of non-essential government services.

"I just feel real good about it at this juncture," Michel said of the proposal.

Rep. Silvio O. Conte of Massachusetts, the ranking Republican on the House Appropriations Committee, was reported to be generally pleased with the proposal, in part because it included $1.7 billion for low-income energy assistance and $400 million more for social programs than the Senate approved in the stopgap bill that Reagan vetoed last month.

That money presumably would make the plan attractive to some moderate or liberal Republicans, as well as some Democrats whose support will be needed.

Barring Appeal, Pitt Bd. Advised Certify Election

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer

A State Board of Elections official says he has recommended that the Pitt elections board certify the results of the Nov. 3 City Council race here if no further appeal action is taken in three days by unsuccessful candidate Ed Carter.

Alex Brock, the board's executive secretary-director, said that after considering in special session an appeal by Carter of the county board's decision to deny a vote recount request, the board upheld the local ruling and informed Carter and his attorney, Richard Powell, by certified letter of the action.

Brock said it was recommended that the county board wait three days after it is certain Powell has received the letter "and then issue a letter of certification to the candidates" elected in November.

The state board made its decision on the case on Nov. 30.

Clifton Everett Jr., chairman of the county board, said this morning that the board will meet "the first part of the week to discuss the matter of certifying the candidates" before the Dec. 10 swearing in date for the new council.

Carter said that, as of this morning, he has received no word from the state board. He said he had not talked with his attorney today and did not know whether Powell had received the board's letter.

Brock did not indicate that Carter would be notified of the board's decision of his appeal but said Carter's attorney would receive the letter.

"I felt I was justified in asking for a recount and I am disappointed that I haven't received one," Carter said. He added, "As soon as I have a chance to go over the situation

Protection Ordered For Reagan Aides Due To Hit-Squad Rumors

By TERENCE HUNT
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan said today

he is concerned about reports that a Libyan assassination squad has entered the country with orders to kill him and other top government officials.

The president, who ordered Secret Service protection Thursday for his three closest aides, told reporters at a White House bill-signing ceremony, "Obviously you have to be concerned about all the people that have been named in this."

Security around Reagan and other high officials has tightened in recent weeks and will increase further, knowledgeable sources said.

Reagan said the press "has carried the story pretty well, that there's a threat to them."

The president said he has not tried to contact Libyan leader Moammar Khadafy, who U.S. authorities believe sent the assassination team to the United States.

"Oh, I think he figures I am concerned," Reagan said of Khadafy.

Asked if he took the threat seriously, the president replied:

"I think you have to. I think it's safe to say that in any security case, even sometimes when security gets what they think is a crank call, they can't take that for granted."

Authoritative sources made it clear, however, that they do not regard the suspected Libyan threat as a crank call and that it is being taken very seriously.

Under orders from the president, agents were assigned Thursday to counselor Edwin Meese III, chief of staff James A. Baker III and deputy chief of staff Michael K. Deaver — the men who make up Reagan's inner command.

The new protection became apparent Thursday when a Secret Service agent accompanied Baker to a meeting with congressional leaders on Capitol Hill.

White House and Secret Service spokesmen declined comment.

Secret Service spokesman Jim Boyle said, "We never comment on whom we protect, beyond the obvious, such as the president and vice president and members of their families."

However, authoritative sources confirmed that Reagan had ordered protection for his senior aides.

New Home For Health Library

The Health Science Library at the East Carolina University School of Medicine will move into the school's Brody Medical Science Building in December.

The library will be the first unit to occupy the new $26 million facility which is scheduled for full occupancy next summer.

The staff will start packing the library's 86,000 volume collection on Dec. 16, according to Dr. Jo Ann Bell, library director. She said the new facility at the health science campus will open the week of Jan. 11.

"Many of our materials will be inaccessible once the packing begins," said Bell. "We want to emphasize, however, that we will work with our users to provide access to the collection."

The library is currently located in interim quarters in the Belk Building. Bell said the Belk location will close Dec. 18 but noted that the library's west branch at Pitt County Memorial Hospital will continue to serve users throughout the move. Temporary arrangements will be

Jobless Count Is Growing

WASHINGTON (AP) —

The nation's unemployment rate surged to a six-year high of 8.4 percent in November, as a new round of recession-triggered job layoffs darkened prospects for a bright holiday season.

The Labor Department reported today that the number of unemployed Americans jumped by 484,000 during the last month to 9 million, while the number of people holding jobs declined by 190,000.

That propelled the unemployment rate from 8 percent in October to its highest level since October 1975, when the economy was beginning to struggle back from its worst recession since the Great Depression.

The latest rise in unemployment was particularly sharp among adult men, the government said.

Their unemployment rate rose from 6.7 percent to 7.2 percent in November, just below the post-World War II high of 7.3 percent reached in May 1975.

Unemployment also remained extremely severe for teen-agers at 21.8 percent and for blacks, at a record 16.8 percent. For minority teen-agers, the jobless rate was 41.3 percent.

Seniors Hail Goals Set By Conferees

AGING CONFERENCE CONCLUDES — Rep. Claude Pepper, D-Fla., left, and participants of the White House Conference on Aging are shown as the conference ended Thursday. The group approved

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senior-citizen groups are hailing the recommendations of the White House Conference on Aging while calling for a Justice Department probe of allegations that the Reagan administration packed the event with partisans.

The accusations grew in intensity Thursday as the four-day conference ended with about 2,300 delegates and 1,200 official observers shouting overwhelming approval of nearly 600 recommendations drafted by 14 committees.

Among the proposals were maintaining current Social Security benefit levels; restoring the minimum Social Security benefit; ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment; expanding Medicaid and Medicare benefits; and instituting tax credits for home care for the elderly.

The approval is only tentative. Final results, based on a poll within a month to see how each participant feels on each recommendation, will be published in a conference report, which is due by next June.

Jack Ossosky, chairman of the Leadership Council of Aging Organizations, a 25-group coalition, hailed the recommendations: "Our nearly 600 recommendations its chairman says will shape "social policy and planning for the aged in the decade ahead." (AP Laserphoto) victory was overwhelming. ... Somehow or other the truth comes out."

The $6 million conference began Monday amid complaints — denied by officials — that the committees were rigged with Reagan supporters to ensure that they would produce recommendations in line with administration policies.

The documents, circulated by sources who asked not to be identified, purportedly listed delegate "whips" and "adversaries" and the overall number of "favorables" and "unfavorables" on each committee.

One of the documents was a Sept. 18 letter from Polly Sowell, deputy personnel director for Texas Gov. William P. Clements Jr., to Betty Heitman, co-chairman of the Republican National Committee.

The letter, which Mrs. Heitman acknowledged was authentic, contained a list of Texas delegates and the statement: "There are only four of them, marked with an asterisk, who would put loyalty to the president ahead of their commitment to the elderly and who would not take offense at the involvement of the Republican Party."

N.C. Awards Presented By Hunt To Recipients

RALEIGH — Gov. Jim Hunt presented the 18th annual N.C. Awards on Thursday night to a music educator, a leading journalist, a writer of children's books, a chemist and a veteran public servant.

The highest honors presented by the state, the awards were presented at a banquet at the Raleigh Civic Center. Final selections for the Awards in Fine Arts, Literature, Science and Public Service were made by the N.C. Awards Committee, headed by Terry Sanford of Durham, former governor and now president of Duke University.

This year's winners are:
— Fine Arts: Adeline McCall of Chapel Hill, music educator and special consultant to the N.C. Symphony.

— Literature: Glen Rounds of Southern Pines, prolific writer and illustrator best known for his books for children; Tom Wicker of New York City (recipient of a special award occasionally presented to a North Carolinian living out of state), Hamlet native, associate editor of "The New York Times" and internationally known journalist and novelist.

— Science: Dr. Vivian T. Stannett of Raleigh, vice provost and dean of the graduate school and Camille Dreyfus Distinguished Professor of Chemical Engineering at N.C. State University.

— Public Service: Ralph Henderson Scott of Haw River, former long-time state senator and active member of many civic and service organizations.

STUFFED TOY EXCHANGE PROHIBITED

I bought my grandchild a stuffed Snoopy at a local toy store and then learned that my daughter had already bought her one. So I went back to the store, not asking for my money back, but only to exchange the toy, still clean and in the bag in which it was purchased, for some other merchandise. The clerk told me that it's against the law for a store to allow the exchange of a stuffed animal. Could this be true? A lady at a store down the mall says no. This same store certainly takes no precautions with keeping the stuffed toys in the store sanitary. They're there for the handling and falling on the floor. Mrs. S.M.

Jeanne Ann Wolhair in the N.C. Attorney General's Consumer Protection Division says she knows of no such law. Law prohibits the return of bathing suits, undergarments and mattresses, she said, but not stuffed toys. Exchange and return rules concerning this type of merchandise would reflect the store's policy rather than law, she said, and should be posted prominently so customers can be aware before a purchase is made, she advised.

PITT COUNTY EXTENSION HOMEMAKERS... at their annual day paid tribute to Mrs. Sue B.

Special Tribute Paid Sue B. May Thursday

"A Tribute to Sue B. May" highlighted the annual meeting of Pitt County Extension Homemakers held Thursday at the Casablanca. Mrs. May retired in June of this year after serving as a Pitt County extension home economics agent for 28 years.

Mrs. Linda Howard, president of the Pitt County Council of Extension Homemakers, gave the welcome and the devotional was given by Mrs. Rena Manning, first vice president. Greetings were delivered by Burney Tucker, county commissioner, and Leroy James, county extension chairman.

In giving highlights of the year's work, Mrs. Howard pointed out leaders in local extension homemaker organizations presented six educational lessons to their fellow members and also made 30 educational reports at each of the local meetings. Visual aides and floor pillows were presented to the county library in support of the group's LAP reading program. They made 75 bibs for handicapped children and 175 gift pouches for patients at mental institutions.

Mrs. Howard recognized the following county work chairmen: Mrs. Nina S. Phillips, citizenship and community outreach; Mrs. Jo Ann Clayton, cultural arts and textiles and clothing; Mrs. Jean Allen, housing, energy and environment; Mrs. Deborah Cannon, family relationships and child development; Mrs. Rachael Bailey, health, foods and nutrition; Mrs. Josephine Reaves, family resource management; Mrs. Lucille Evans, international; Mrs. Bernice Clark, public relations; and Mrs. Mayo Rogers, safety and emergency preparedness.

Mrs. Howard presented the traveling gavel award to the Pactolus Club for having added 10 new members this year. Mrs. Teresa Sawyer was recognized as the extension homemaker who took the most non-extension homemaker to extension-sponsored meetings. The most outstanding club project for the year went to the club which designed and constructed an apron with 12 pockets and given to the library, the Pactolus Club. The most outstanding program of work committee was achieved through the Health, Foods and Nutrition Committee in conjunction with other homemakers.

Members having perfect attendance were also recognized by Mrs. Howard.

Club members paying tribute to Mrs. May and her husband, Milton, were: Mrs. Reaves, Ayden; Mrs. Francis Rogerson, Bethel; Mrs. E. C. Lewis, Belvoir; Mrs. Maxine Wiggins, Timothy; Mrs. Lucille Evans, Red Oak; Mrs. Lurue Castelleo, Renston Nobles; Mrs. Elsie Porter, Simpson; and Mrs. Karl Hardee, Red Banks.

Others making remarks or paying tributes were: Sam Winchester, retired county extension chairman; Mrs. Wilbur Worthington, Farm Bureau; Reginald Gray, county manager; Mrs. Jo Patterson, NE district extension chairman; Mrs. Virginia Credle, NE District Association of Extension Home Economics; Mrs. Ada Dalla Pozza, state home economics agent; and Milton May.

Mrs. Rubelle Goin, district five vice president, presented Mrs. May a gift and scrapbook.

Entertainment was provided by Mrs. Leota Tyson and Mrs. Lucy Allen.

County Council officers serving with Mrs. Howard and Mrs. Manning are Mrs. Iris Taylor, second vice president, Mrs. Charlotte McLawhorn, secretary, Mrs. Louise P. Ormond, treasurer, and Mrs. Goin, advisor.

Members having perfect attendance were also recognized by Mrs. Howard including: Mrs. Mayo Rogers, 16 years, Mrs. Brownie Russell and Mrs. W. E. Fulford, 18 years, Mrs. Bernice Clark, 19 years, Mrs. Roxie Waters, 24 years, Mrs. Howard Briley, 30 years, Mrs. Mae Briley, 31 years, Mrs. Sam Alexander, 32 years, Mrs. Karl Hardee and Mrs. Margaret Tetterton, 35 years, Mrs. La Rue Castello, 36 years and Mrs. Clarence Barnhill, 37 years.

Candlelight Wedding Performed On Thursday

Doris Ann Grimes and Charles Eugene Gooding exchanged wedding vows Thursday evening in a double ring candlelight ceremony performed at the Tabernacle of Victory Church by the Rev. Paul A. Thomas.

The bride is the daughter of the late Mrs. Gladiola Grimes of Greenville. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Minnie Gooding of Richlands and Alonza Gooding of Jacksonville.

A program of wedding music was presented by Craig Soaries of Norfolk, Va., organist. Vocalists were Ms. Sylvia Parker of Greenville and Ms. Shirley Soaries of Norfolk, Va., who sang "The Lord's Prayer," "We've Only Just Begun," and "What A Difference You've Made in My Life."

Given in marriage by her brother, George Larry Grimes, the bride wore a formal gown of sheerganza with a cathedral train. The gown featured a Victorian neckline of chantilly lace and sheer bishop sleeves enhanced by chantilly lace cuffs. The full skirt featured an apron effect outlined with chantilly lace. Her chapel-length veil of sheerganza was bordered in chantilly lace attached to a Juliet cap of lace embellished with seed pearls. She carried a Victorian bouquet of white roses, phalaenopsis orchids, baby's breath and sprays of English ivy.

The honor attendant was Mrs. Linda Faye Atkinson of Greenville, sister of the bride. She wore a formal gown of bungundy lusterlo. The gown was sleeveless and featured a cowl front and a gathered skirt. She carried an autumn bouquet of mauve, wine, burgundy and fuchsia picie carnations and gerber daisies and baby's breath tied with mauve satin.

Bridesmaids were Ms. Patricia Grimes of Greenville, sister of the bride, Ms. Toni Strayhorn of Grainger, Ms. Cheryl Clemons of Greenville and Ms. Sally Jacobs of Rich Square. Their gowns were identical to that of the honor attendant, but lavender. They each carried a bouquet similar to that of the honor attendant.

Lonnie White of Greenville served as best man. Ushers were Terry Grimes, brother of the bride of Greenville, Calvin Ellison and Clifton Ellison, both of Grifton and Donald Tyson of Farmville.

The flower girls were Miss Tashawna Powell and Miss LaChele Atkinson, both off Greenville, nieces of the bride. Their burgundy and white formal length gowns had ruffles around the collar and sleeves trimmed in lace.

They wore matching headpieces and carried white baskets filled with pink and white carnations.

Arsel Grimes of Greenville, ringbearer, carried a white satin pillow with a spray of pink carnations.

The wedding was directed by Mrs. W. Jasper Harris of Greenville. Mrs. Inez Wooten, aunt of the bride, was seated in the mother's seat and wore a formal gown of dusty rose. The mother of the bridegroom was attired in a formal dress of seasonal colors. They both were presented with carnation corsages.

After a wedding trip, the couple will live in Greenville.

The bride is a graduate of Rose High School and Pitt Community College and is employed at Wahl-Coates School as a reading aide. The bridegroom is employed at Vermont American Inc.

An after-rehearsal refreshment hour was held in the church fellowship hall by the parents of the bridegroom. A buffet dinner was held at Cherry Court Clubhouse by the bride's aunt and sisters. Ms. Irene Davis presided at the guest register. Ms. Jasetter Grimes, niece of the bride, served cake. The receiving line was introduced by Ms. Eunice Parson, sister of the bridegroom, and punch was poured by Ms. Tiffany Grimes, niece of the bride. Mrs. Holly Garris and Mrs. Garnie Tyson assisted. Good-byes were said by the parents of the bridegroom and the aunt of the bride, Mrs. Wooten.

Dear Abby

Widow Kicks Up Heels At Husband's Funeral

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1981 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: Recently my husband attended the funeral of a fellow Legionnaire. (I was informed that my presence wasn't necessary.) Services were at 2 p.m., and afterward the relatives and members of the Legion met at the Legion Hall for a supper with the widow and her two teen-aged children, which was all well and good, but then they proceeded to dance!

I don't know how many other members of the funeral party were dancing, but I am told it looked like some kind of celebration! Well, as luck would have it, my 19-year-old daughter and her boyfriend just happened to drop by the hall at 11:30 p.m., and the first thing my daughter saw was her father dancing with the bereaved (?) widow!

Abby, is this something new, that people have so little respect for the dead that they would bury a spouse in the afternoon and dance the same evening?

I am no prude or saint, but I can't imagine anyone doing this. I am ashamed of my husband for being a party to this disgraceful scene.

Please give your deep-down "gut" feelings about this.
CONFUSED IN INDIANA

DEAR CONFUSED: On the face of it, it would seem most inappropriate for mourners to dance only hours after burying a loved one. Your husband is the only one who knows what really occurred and why. I suggest you ask him for an explanation.

DEAR ABBY: I think this women's lib thing has been carried too far. When I took my children (ages 2 and 3) to see Santa at our local department store, we found that "Santa" was a woman!

She was dressed in a regular Santa Claus outfit — only "Santa" had long dark hair hanging to her shoulders. And she wore lipstick and eye makeup, too. "Santa" spoke to the children in her normal feminine voice, making no effort whatsoever to come across as the jolly, bearded, white-haired old man the kids had expected to see.

The kids were confused and I was shocked. Abby, I'm all for employing women if they can do the job as well as men, but a lady Santa Claus! I think that was unreal. What do you think?

HORRIFIED

DEAR HORRIFIED: Traditionally, "Santa" is not a lady's bag.

DEAR ABBY: We have a beloved family member (I'll call her "Aunt Letty") who poses a rather sticky problem for us all. She's widowed, no longer young, but she's spry and good company.

Aunt Letty is adored by us all, but when she is invited to dinner, she always brings at least one other person along — and very often two or three! She never rings up to ask, or even to tell us she's bringing someone — she just appears with her "guests." This, of course, creates problems with place settings and food portions for a planned dinner.

As a result, we have omitted Aunt Letty at times, but we always feel a touch guilty because she's such a dear. How is this best handled?

THE RELATIVES

DEAR RELATIVES: Lovingly, of course. But in the future when one invites Aunt Letty, she should be given a stern warning that she is not to bring anyone along without first consulting her hostess.

Copper Penny Shortage Not Felt In Greenville

By SUSAN RIES
Reflector Staff Writer
While Charlotte businesses are busy scrounging for pennies, Greenville banks and stores see no problem getting their hands the coin. In a news story originating in Charlotte the Associated Press reported that NCNB in Morganton, a town near Charlotte, had cut off pennies to "non-corporate customers" and businesses were not able to get the pennies they need.

Because the Federal Reserve has plans for replacing the copper penny with a zinc model, some believe that the price of copper will rise when the Reserve makes the switch. This makes copper pennies a valuable item for hoarders.

"I've learned more about the penny shortage in newspapers than I have from any of our sources," said Wachovia vice-president Jerry Smith. Greenville banks seem to agree. The Federal Reserve is decreasing the supply of pennies to banks, but so far the slowdown has been minor.

"We have had a problem with people coming in trying to get more (pennies) than they need," said William Gidewell of First State Bank of area retailers. Otherwise, Gidewell sees no trouble.

Anne Guerrant of North Carolina National Bank has seen no difference in the amount of pennies coming into the bank from merchants. According to Guerrant, NCNB can't find any evidence of hoarding, because their flow of pennies remains steady.

"Certain groups will always try to hold on to something said to be in short supply," Guerrant said.

Firms and banks in the Greenville area fear reports like that could trigger hoarding. "Shortages like these are fabricated in people's minds," said William Freelove, a spokesman for McDonald's restaurants in Greenville. "We use a tremendous amount of pennies and if we have a problem getting them it does hurt."

Unit Manager Allen Ray at

Kroger Sav-On said his store has had no trouble getting the coin. The K-Mart in Greenville also has not found any signs of a shortage, but the firm's management won't discuss the possible shortage, for fear of creating one.

Due To Dams

ECU News Bureau
When two major hydroelectric dams are built on South America's second largest river, the Parana, many thousands of square miles of flood plain wetlands, including extensive marshes and swamp forests, will be inundated and destroyed.

A question being faced by scientists, including an East Carolina University biologist, concerns the ecological effect in the long term by these projects on the broad Argentine plain.

Each of the hydroelectric dams would create reservoirs 120 miles long and from 10 to 20 miles wide above the delta of the Parana. The river, which rises in Brazil and becomes the principal tributary of the Rio de Plata estuary, is 2,720 miles long. Its length and discharge is greater than the Mississippi and its annual flow is five times that of the Nile.

Dr. Mark Brinson, professor of biology at ECU, was one of three U.S. ecologists who spent last week in Argentina advising scientists on approaches to ecological studies of the vast wetlands of the Parana's floodplain.

Brinson is recognized as a leading authority on research into ecological problems and potentials of estuaries, wetlands and swamp forests. He has published research studies of North Carolina coastal and riverine swamp forests and estuaries and tropical ecosystems in Florida, Central America and South America.

He said the wetlands of the Parana floodplain, which will be largely eliminated by the hydroelectric projects, include extensive marshes, swamp forests and numerous oxbow lakes.

Freedom Starts Here

As many school boards do these days, the Pitt County Board of Education heard from a group which wanted to remove certain books from the Farmville Central school library Monday.

The book in question in this case was "Catcher In The Rye." That book, along with such classics as "Of Mice And Men" and "The Grapes of Wrath" are placed in a reserve section at the Farmville Central library to be checked out only with parental approval.

The board heard the complaints but refused to revise the guidelines for books selection which were established in 1978.

The Pitt County Board of Education has our admiration and support.

There are a thousand reasons why one group should not be able to determine what books another will have access to.

Assistant Supt. Kathryn Lewis said it well. "I would fight to the death to insure that your child does not read anything objectionable to you. But I would also fight to insure that we have a choice to read what we want."

Peggy Congleton, Farmville Central chairperson of the English Department, pointed out the books are on reserve and cannot even be seen by the pupils without the parents' permission.

Annette McRae, North Pitt English teacher, said the books are included because of their themes and what they teach about human experience.

These educators expressed it better than we can. If we value our hard-won freedom we will never allow those who would take books out of our libraries to succeed. We can't expect Washington, D. C. or far off areas of the nation to carry all the burden of protecting our freedoms. Freedom must be protected at the grass roots, and for us that means here in Pitt County.

Victim of Waters She Feared

Actress Natalie Wood was apparently the victim over the weekend of the waters she feared. The film star died apparently of accidental drowning off Santa Catalina Island.

Her death was of particular concern in North Carolina where the actress had been making a film entitled "Brainstorm." As this is written it is still not certain whether the unfinished film will ever be completed. Miss Wood's role was so critical to the plot that it may not be possible to work around it for the final two weeks of production.

We hope the film can be completed. It would be a tribute to an outstanding actress who met such an untimely end.

THIS AFTERNOON

Eyes On 2000 A.D.

By Bill Noblitt
RALEIGH — All across North Carolina in recent days, local committees are being formed to tackle the enormous job of looking at what things should be like in the year 2000.

Most of the attention, so far, has been on activities of the North Carolina 2000 project at the Raleigh level. Gov. Jim Hunt has offered detailed explanations time and again, and University of North Carolina President William Friday has agreed to take up leadership effort.

But it is at the local level that critical decisions will be made which determine what individual communities will be like some 20 years from now.

Will Tar Heels still like calling North Carolina home? Will the public money to pay for the essential schools, parks, police and fire services, roads, water and sewer plants and other public services needed to support industrial and economic growth be available? Will existing business and present residents find the cost of growth more than they are willing to pay?

Involved
Those and dozens of other questions now face the local committees. They must reach out and involve a broad spectrum of the community in order to reach the answers.

Time and again North Carolinians at all income levels and whatever social achievement have expressed in numerous ways one central thought: they think this state is one of the best places to live that there is, and one of the things which makes it that way is the clean air and water, the open spaces, the beach and mountain contact point with nature.

People want to live at

home, where they have roots and friends, where they can tend the tomato patch and still find a decent job within commuting distance. They don't want what has been popularly described as "creeping New Jersey."

Perhaps the biggest challenge to Gov. Hunt and President Friday is to convince the rank and file Tar Heel that getting involved in the 2000 project is not simply another exercise in boosterism or frustration at developing local dreams and ambitions only to see them dashed upon the rocks of Raleigh reality.

It is easy to find reasons for economic growth through new industry or expansion of existing ones. The principal payoff is jobs. Money circulates throughout the community for retail stores, supply services, professional people...

It is much harder to pin down the cost of that new prosperity. Not only expanded public services must be provided, but existing business may find themselves faced with considerably higher wage scales being paid by the newcomer, a condition which has on occasion prompted stiff resistance to growth in some places. Then, there may be costs due to cleaning up waste or pollution created by the firm.

Cost
Even more difficult to define are intangible costs to those who live in a given community: houses will cost more, cars will sell higher,

TALK ABOUT NERO FIDDLING!

BY ART BUCHWALD

Nobody Believes, But --

People keep insisting that I'm making it up, but under a tax law lobbied through last summer, companies who lost money in 1981 can sell their losses to firms who made money, so the latter will not have to pay any corporation taxes.

Whereas company losses were something no one liked to talk about in the past, they now have become a valuable commodity and are being traded on the open market.

This is how it works:
"Hello, John, Hal Lemster of International Pushbutton calling. I just read your financial report. I see you people lost $750 million this year. Congratulations."

"Thanks, Hal. I guess we were just lucky."

"Well, International Pushbutton had the best Year ever. We made one billion-two, before taxes."

"Sorry to hear that, Hal."

"Everyone has an off year. I'm calling to buy your tax losses, John. If we can deduct your losses against our profits, and own the tax credits against new equipment, the government will owe us money."

"How much are you offering, Hal?"

"We'll give you $100 million in cash, retool your plant and lease the equipment back to you at a very favorable rate."

ART BUCHWALD

Our accountants figure that with speeded-up depreciation, we'll pay less taxes this year than the kid who works in the mail room."

"Gosh, Hal, I'd like to help you out, but my accountants figure our tax losses are worth at least $200 million."

"You must be crazy. Just because you had a bad year, and we had a good year, there is no sense holding us up."

"This is strictly business, Hal. Our losses are our only assets. United Bull has offered us $150 million and I just had a call from Dimplebee Oil, which is willing to give us $170 million in preferred notes. We're sitting in the catbird seat."

"John, I'll be very honest with you. If I don't find a company with large tax losses, I'll be in serious trouble with my stockholders. I'll never be able to explain to them why we had to pay taxes to the government on our profits. They could sue me for mismanagement."

"I don't want to hear about your troubles, Hal. Who told you to make a lot of money in the first place?"

"Someday you'll have good year, John, and then you're going to need help from a losing company."

"Look, Hal, if you can't find a way of avoiding taxes don't cry on my shoulder."

"All right, John, I've got my controller here and we're ready to deal. We'll make you the same offer we made the Montezuma Automobile Company. We'll pay $175 million in cash for your tax losses and lease back to you a completely new plant in Ohio."

"Now you're making sense. That means neither you nor I will have to pay any corporate taxes for the next five years."

"It's a sweetheart deal for

Harmony At Top Broken

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON — The usual agreement between President Reagan's top two aides was broken in the Richard Allen affair when James Baker III, the White House chief of staff, recommended that the national security assistant be sacked immediately.

That ran counter to the advice given the president by presidential counselor Edwin Meese III, who is Allen's direct superior. Reagan accepted, at least temporarily, Meese's advice to await investigation of Allen's affairs before getting rid of an old and loyal supporter.

Baker had told the president that he was certain the train of events in time would lead to Allen's dismissal and that it would be better to cut him loose sooner rather than later. Even after Reagan disagreed, Baker did not change his position.

Speechwriter Reagan
Although feuding policymakers at the State and Defense Departments claim authorship of the president's bell-ringing speech on removing intermediate-range missiles from Europe, the actual speechwriter personally responsible for its opening was none other than Ronald Reagan.

Reagan felt the final draft of the speech, hammered out by national security aides in the White House situation room, did not make clear that his commitment to arms reduction preceded the recent bluster from the European pacifist movement. Consequently, he suggested that the speech reveal his personal call for arms reduction in a letter to Soviet president Leonid Brezhnev handwritten from his hospital bed after the assassination attempt last March. What's more, Reagan wrote the opening himself. Nobody at state and defense denies this. But officials at the two warring departments still argue, however, who first recommended to the president the "zero option" idea for removal of Soviet missiles from Europe.

Stockman's Finesse
Even before the copy of the Atlantic Monthly containing his disavowal of Reaganomics reached the newsstands, budget director David Stockman was shrewd enough to start covering his exposed bases — especially his Pentagon base.

Worried particularly about his crack against runaway defense spending, Stockman sent a private emissary to Deputy Defense Secretary Frank Carlucci and the three service secretaries to forewarn them. William Greider's article quotes Stockman as castigating a wasteful, spendthrift Defense Department.

Stockman's emissary explained the budget director had not really meant what he said and that his criticism had been taken out of context. In effect, Stockman was telling his Pentagon colleagues: No matter what you read in the Atlantic Monthly, I really am your friend; give me another chance.

Senate Politics
Senate Majority Leader Howard Baker has given a flat no in reply to suggestions that the Senate delay its trial and probable expulsion of Democratic senator Harrison Williams until Republican Tom Kean takes office as governor of New Jersey next Jan. 19.

Those suggestions have come from national chair-

Strength For Today

THE SPIRITUAL LIFE
The Bible teaches us that we are at one and the same time physical and spiritual beings. Within our physical bodies is an unseen thing called "the spirit". When a person dies, his body does not immediately disappear, but the thing we call "the spirit" does.

This unseen dimension of our lives is by all odds the most significant. Many of the great forces of nature are unseen — for example, electricity and gravity. Likewise, in human life, love and fidelity are unseen. But the greatest of these invisible forces is what the Bible calls "the spirit".

Whatever the spirit is, it comes from God. It is part of Him. It partakes of His nature and substance. The cultivation of that spirit is by all odds the most important duty any man or woman can have.

We only play with life when we try to put anything before its spiritual demands. God is spirit — so is man. — Elisha Douglass

We read with interest your Hotline column answer to J.M.'s letter that was published in the Nov. 9 issue of your newspaper.

You are right in stating that the newer models of portable kerosene heaters are generally better than the old models.

Today's modern technologically advanced portable kerosene heaters, with their safety features and fuel efficiency, have proved to be a safe, convenient way to reduce the overall cost of home heating.

They consume 99.8 percent of their fuel and independent laboratory studies show that their CO emission levels are considerably below the standards as set by Underwriters Laboratories. In fact, they are lower than a smoker will get from smoking a cigarette, or those from a gas stove.

It is not necessary to open a window for ventilation. It is recommended that a door to an adjoining room be left open, however.

To the editor:

This week is ERA Awareness Week. Many people have not taken the time to read the Equal Rights Amendment, which is the proposed 27th Amendment to the United States Constitution. Some think it is book length, when actually it is only 52 words long. What follows is the complete text of the Equal Rights Amendment:

"Section 1. Equality of rights under the law shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or by any State on account of sex.

Section 2. The Congress shall have the power to enforce by appropriate legislation, the provisions of this Article.

Section 3. This Amendment shall take effect two years after the date of ratification."

The Amendment does not want women to be the same as men, only to have equal rights under the law. It seeks to protect homemakers, women in the work force, women in education, older women, widows, victimized women and men who are discriminated against.

To learn more about the ERA, contact the Greenville Chapter of the National Organization for Women by calling the president, Lil Simmons, at 752-4440 or by writing: Greenville NOW, P.O. Box 1307, Greenville, N.C. 27834. Thank you.

Doubts Over Competitiveness

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — A Commerce Department report now informs Congress that the financial troubles of the American automotive industry are serious, and that major doubts exist about its future competitiveness.

Coming after a year (1980) in which the industry lost more than $4 billion, that's hardly a new conclusion. Some people close to the industry, like James Harbour, a consultant, have indicated before that they are viewing a horror without parallel in U.S. industrial history.

Harbour, of Berkley, Mich., feels he knows something about automotive plants, since he and five associates in his automotive consulting firm claim 150 years experience in the industry.

Based on that experience and on studies of U.S. and Japanese plants, Harbour reaches ominous conclusions. The Japanese, he says, "are making us look like 2-year-olds in how we manage plants."

During a car industry symposium at Stanford University Nov. 21 he told other automotive analysts that "They're stomping us into the ground." The entire U.S. industrial base is "going right down the drain," he said, because American managers fail to boost productivity.

Harbour, a middle-level executive at Chrysler before he founded James Harbour and Associates, sometimes upset theoretical arguments with no-nonsense data from his own studies. It happened at Stanford, when he detailed some recent findings to academic and automotive specialists.

Japanese car makers have average unit costs $1,700 below American manufacturers on comparable models sold in the United States.

General Motors is "the worst assembler in the United States," averaging 31.5 hours to assemble a Chevette. Ford takes 28 hours for an Escort or Lynx, and Chrysler 29 hours for an Omni or Horizon. In Japan, the industry average for assembly is just over 15 hours.

Whereas U.S. auto workers average 45 minutes of work for each hour on the job, Japanese workers average 58. Machine "up-time" in the United States is only 60 percent, but in Japan it is 80 percent.

American wages and benefits average $19 an hour, compared to $12 for the Japanese. Unauthorized worker absences average 6 to 8 percent in the United States industry, and 2 percent in Japan. Authorized relief time averages 10 percent in the United States, 5 percent in Japan.

(In other words, Harbour said in an interview later, if General Motors opens a plant to employ 4,000 workers it has to hire an additional 240 men or women to make up for the anticipated unauthorized absences.)

But Harbour claims labor cost differences are still a relatively small factor in the cost gap between the Japanese and Americans. The major factor, he says, is poor U.S. productivity, "mostly bad management."

The big problem with U.S. producers isn't with automation or robotics, he says, but in failing to institute cooperative efforts with labor and suppliers to boost output, cut inventories and improve quality.

Toyota, he told the Stanford audience, keeps an inventory ranging from enough for two hours to two days of production. U.S. producers, he said, regard 10 days as a minimum inventory. As a result, he said, they have $8 billion tied up in the parts pipeline. Nearly one-third of new U.S. auto factory space is devoted to inventory and parts storage, he said, while in Japan such use of space is practically nonexistent.

Why, he asked, should an automotive company use $250 and 14 days to deliver parts to an assembly plant in Fremont, Calif., when small cars assembled in Michigan can be shipped anywhere in the country for less than $200? The U.S. industry, he suggests, must "centralize in the Midwest" to shorten lines between suppliers and manufacturers.

Harbour, who is preparing a report for the Transportation Department on a comparison of five Japanese and five American assembly plants, carries his argument beyond cars and trucks. "What's wrong with autos is symptomatic of what is wrong in our industrial base," he contended in an interview. "We're losing all our durable goods base to Japan."

Is it correctible? "It's all correctible, but it will take years," he said. The companies, he says, know the problems and know the Japanese aren't geniuses. In fact, he pointed out, corrections already has been made in revamping the old Buick Foundry in Flint, Mich.

As planned initially, he said, that plant would employ 7,200 workers producing 40,000 torque converters a day. Now it employs 3,200 people and turns out 30,000 converters a day.

Harbour attributes some of the productivity gains to advance training of managers, and elimination of foremen in favor of advisers working with small groups of workers. Absenteeism is only 2 percent, he said, and "tremendous peer pressure" helps maintain quality.

Asked to comment on Harbour's talk at Stanford, a General Motors spokesman said he would like to but could not. "We cannot because we cannot get a copy of his report," the spokesman said.

Harbour said his presentation was with slides but no text. (It was, however, taped.) He indicated he didn't need a text because all the material was so familiar to him. And, most likely, he said, to GM too.

"There were no great surprises," he said later. Perhaps not to those in the automotive industry. But certainly a few for the general public.

Accidents Cause $5,500 in Damage

An estimated $5,500 property damage resulted from two traffic collisions investigated by Greenville police Thursday.

Officers said heaviest damage resulted from a 4:45 p.m. mishap at the intersection of Greene Street and Mumford Road, involving cars driven by Lee Gordon Montford of 1105 Van Nortwick St. and Douglas Emerson Ward of 427 Aycock Dorn.

Damage was estimated at $1,500 to the Montford car and $2,000 to the Ward auto. A 10:15 a.m. mishap at the intersection of Greenville Boulevard and Red Banks Road involved a truck operated by Charles James Little of Route 1, Winterville, and a car driven by Vivian Conway Brantley of 1304 Forbes St.

Police estimated damage at $500 to the truck and $1,500 to the car.

REUNION

The Class of 1951 of Belvoir-Falkland High School held a reunion Saturday at the Western Sizzling Steak House, Greenville. Twenty-three of the 30 class members attended with their guests. Some were from as far away as Texas, a class member noted.

Evans-Novak . . .

(Continued From Page 4) man Richard Richards and other Republican political operatives who would like to give the GOP a leg up in the 1982 race to succeed Williams with an appointed Republican in the Senate. Baker's decision means that lame-duck Democratic governor Brendan Byrne probably will do the appointing to fill a vacancy.

Baker and other Senate Republican leaders are embarrassed that Williams, the only senator convicted in the Abscam bribery cases, remains in office while all convicted House members were expelled long ago. The Republicans feel any further delay of a Senate trial for Williams would be viewed as playing politics. Oddly, the only senators advocating delay are Democratic friends of Williams who want to wait until his court appeals are exhausted.

Brezhnev's Switch
President Reagan's call for removing all medium-range missiles from Europe has put Soviet president Leonid Brezhnev on the defensive, causing Moscow to order East German communist leader Erich Honecker to switch to a hard line on West Germany.

Honecker and West German chancellor Helmut Schmidt have agreed to meet in a long-delayed German "summit" to discuss ways to improve their relations. Before Reagan's missile speech, Honecker had been authorized by Moscow to offer inducements to Schmidt, such as new trade and cultural goodies, to tempt him away from the American connection by hinting at a unified Germany some time in the distant future.

But Reagan's speech, which brought the German government much closer to the U.S. position on the missile issue, changed Brezhnev's mind. Instead of offering new carrots to Schmidt, Honecker will brandish sticks in the form of threats to worsen, not improve, existing relations between the two Germanies — relations which constitute a major political factor in West German politics.

the grocery bill will increase. Quality of life begins to pay the price as well as noise, traffic congestion, or damage to the environment is increased.

Yet economic growth is critical to the future well being of the community if young people are to stay at home and raise families and existing businesses are to continue to flourish. Schools improve from the influx of new money and people; cultural and artistic assets increase; shopping improves as more people mean more competition.

The opportunity to seriously analyze all of these various factors and more as local people make some important decisions about their own lives and the lives of their children in years to come is contained in the North Carolina 2000 project.

"Sure, Hal. After all, what are friends for?"

"Great. How do you think Reagan's economic plan is going?"

"I think he's going to have to cut more fat out of the budget in order to get the deficit down. He's going to have to go after the welfare cheaters and the people who are always looking for a free lunch."

"You can say that again. When we were kids we worked for what we got. The only way Reagan is going to get this country back on its feet is to stop giving everyone with hard-luck story a handout."

Raised $65,317 In Phone Drive

ECU News Bureau
 Seventy-three members of East Carolina University's Ambassadors student service organization have raised a total of $65,317 in the campus' 1981 national alumni telefund campaign.

The total, raised in phone calls to alumni in all 50 states, includes pledges averaging $18.55 each from 3,521 alumni and exceeds the telefund goal of $65,000. The amount represents a 67 percent increase over last year's telefund total of $39,000.

Richard Robins, annual support director at ECU, noted that the success of the recent telephone fund-raising campaign is the result of "a tremendous amount of work" by the campaign coordinator, Crystal Hendrix, a senior from Hickory.

Ms. Hendrix headed the corps of Ambassador volunteers who gave nearly 1,000 hours of evening time at a special 10-telephone calling base in the ECU Alumni Center.

Proceeds from telefund campaigns are used primarily for ECU's merit scholarships of full tuition and fees for outstanding students and other academic programs.

Greenville — Beth Heeter, sophomore (no declared major) (4, $155) and Dasha Little, graduate student in home economics education (1, $20).

Ayden — Nelson Jarvis, senior industrial technology major (32, $370).

SCHEDULE
 The following activities are scheduled for the Greenville Church of the Nazarene beginning Sunday: Sunday School at 10 a.m., morning worship at 11 a.m. and evening worship at 6 p.m.; Bible study Friday at 7:30 p.m. and Mother's Resource at 10 a.m. Tues.

SCHEDULE
 Weekend activities of the Nazarene Church of Christ, 205 W. Skinner St., have been announced.

Saturday the pastor and members will attend a Church Ministry Workshop in Goldsboro. The Christian Women's Fellowship will meet at the church Saturday at 9 a.m. for a fellowship meeting. Morning worship at 11 a.m. will be led by the pastor, the Rev. E.B. Williams.

Council Hears Blackwell

Dr. Oris Blackwell of the school of allied health and social professions at East

Anniversary

Sweet Hope Free Will Baptist Church will celebrate the Rev. W.J. Best's anniversary Dec. 14-20 with nightly services at 7:30.

A schedule of weekly events include: Monday, the Rev. J.E. Suggs and Cedar Grove; Tuesday, the Rev. T. Turnage and Little Creek; Wednesday, the Rev. A. Griffin and Cornerstone; Thursday, the Rev. Ellison and St. Rest; Friday, board meeting; Saturday, the Rev. B. Phillips and Zion Hill, and Sunday, Bishop W.H. Mitchell and Good Hope. The pastor will preach at the Sunday morning service. All services are open to the public.

CRUSADE

The Tabernacle of Prayer for All People Church Fellowship with Apostle Johnnie Washington held its third annual Thanksgiving Crusade Seminar-Convention at the Hyatt Regency Hotel in Washington, D.C., recently.

Attending from Greenville were David Carr, Deborah Carr, Merrellina Blount and Pastor Nina Blount, delegates from the Greenville Tabernacle of Prayer for All People Church.

Carolina University addressed the Pitt County Safety Council at a luncheon meeting at the Greenville Golf and Country Club.

Air pollution and other environmental health issues were the topics of Dr. Blackwell's presentation Thursday. He highlighted his discussion with a slide series of newspaper cartoons. The cartoons were dated from the early 1960s to the present and illustrated both public concern about the problems as well as the tragic-comic side of issues. The effect of political and economic forces over the past two decades was depicted.

In other council business, a donation for the Salvation Army was collected from the membership for its annual Christmas contribution to that organization.

Margaret Register announced that the Pilot Club would again place the green-lighted Christmas tree at the corner of Charles Drive and 264 by-pass to alert drivers to drive safely during the holidays. A red light will be placed on the tree for each Pitt County fatality.

Lawler Chosen Firm Named To Design As Acting Dean ECU Radiation Center

ECU News Bureau
Therese G. Lawler, now an associate professor and director of extension, will become acting dean of the East Carolina University School of Nursing on Jan. 1. The appointment was announced jointly by Chancellor Thomas B. Brewer and Dr. Robert H. Maier, vice chancellor for academic affairs. In the meantime, a nationwide search will continue for a permanent dean to succeed Evelyn L. Perry whose retirement is effective Dec. 31. Dean Perry is completing nearly 20 years on the nursing faculty and has served as dean since 1969.

Maier said Professor Lawler will serve as acting dean until a permanent appointment is made. "We are pleased to be able to appoint an acting dean with the professional background of Professor Lawler," Maier said. A candidate for the doctorate in continuing professional education, with a minor in health administration, from North Carolina State University, Mrs. Lawler has been a member of the ECU School of Nursing faculty since 1969. The wife of Dr. Donald L. Lawler, professor of English at ECU, she is a native of New York City and holds degrees from Georgetown University and ECU, in addition to doctoral studies at NCSU. She was certified as a public health nurse in New York State in 1957. Her career includes professional experience in New York, Illinois and North Carolina.

THERESE G. LAWLER

A Charlotte-based architectural firm has been selected to design the East Carolina University School of Medicine's new radiation therapy center, a $5.3 million project that received final approval from the UNC Board of Governors in November.

The building committee for the ECU board and medical school representatives selected J.N. Pease Associates as the architect after examining proposed designs for the 12,000-square-foot building. The facility will be a comprehensive radiation therapy center for eastern North Carolina and will support existing therapy units in New Bern, Kinston and Goldsboro. The center's staff will work closely with the New Bern unit, which offers regional services.

"The radiation therapy center will occupy a very prominent place in our cancer program," Dr. William E. Laupus, medical school dean, said. "Its success will contribute to improved and comprehensive care for cancer patients in our region."

The ECU facility will house two medical linear accelerators, a four-million-volt unit and an 18-million-volt unit, Laupus said. Linear accelerators generate high-energy photon beams designed for the treatment of malignant tumors. This selection of radiation beams will enable radiation oncologists to deliver doses of ionizing radiation to both superficial and deep-seated tumors.

The unit will also include a radiation therapy simulator that provides the high quality radiographic images necessary for planning radiation treatment and determining the appropriate doses. About 40 percent of the budget will be used for equipment.

Laupus said a search committee composed of representatives of ECU and area hospitals will select a unit director for the facility, which will be located at the university's health science campus adjacent to the Brody Science Building and Pitt County Memorial Hospital.

Construction of the facility, scheduled to begin in late 1982, will take 18 to 24 months to complete. Laupus said the medical school expects to open the center in 1984.

The idea for a regional therapy center for ECU is not new, he added. The need for such a facility was noted in 1974-75 during the medical school's early planning stages.

Justified

LONDON (AP) — A judge on Thursday told Showaddywaddy, a top British rock band, they can keep a $9,480 fee after cutting short a show in front of a "disgraceful" hostile audience in London.

High Court Judge Sir Hugh Mais said the group, which specializes in 1950s-style rock music, "was entirely justified" in refusing to go back on stage after lead singer David Bartram was struck by a full beer can thrown from the audience of 4,500.

SPARTANBURG, S.C. — Lynn Pollard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Randy Pollard of Contentnea Street in Farmville, recently competed with over 150 other high school students for the Justine V.R. Milliken scholarship at Converse College. She is a student at Farmville Central High School.

BOLSTER SECURITY

ANTWERP, Belgium (AP) — City officials said Thursday that security has been increased in Antwerp's predominantly Jewish diamond trading district, where a car-bomb explosion killed three people and injured more than 100 on Oct. 20.

DUI Fine For Vickery

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — Attorney Barry T. Winston says the media treated unfairly his client, State Sen. Charles E. Vickery, who pleaded guilty Thursday to driving after drinking.

"The media attacked Sen. Vickery," Winston said in Orange County District Court. "It tried and convicted him without knowing many of the facts in the case."

After the hearing, Winston said, "Every article I read started with the assumption that the senator was guilty and was trying to get out of it," though he said he could not recall specific factual errors.

Vickery was given a six-month suspended sentence and fined $100 and court costs by Judge William K. Hunter after pleading guilty, saying he had done a "terrible thing."

Hunter also gave Vickery limited driving privileges, barring him from driving after drinking or having an odor of alcohol while drinking.

Vickery still may lose his license under a ruling Wednesday by the state Department of Motor Vehicles that he refused to take a Breathalyzer test when stopped Oct. 3. The infraction carries a six-month license revocation.

Vickery pleaded guilty to driving with a blood alcohol level of .10 percent. He had been charged with driving under the influence but the charge was reduced under the plea bargain.

In the Motor Vehicles Division ruling, Vickery's license was revoked for six months effective Dec. 12, said J.T. Baker Jr., assistant director of the driver's license division.

Vickery has said Chapel Hill police tested him on a faulty Breathalyzer. The police have said Vickery didn't blow hard enough to make the machine work.

Winston said Vickery may appeal the division's order to Superior Court.

Human Resources Class To Start

An open meeting for persons interested in the human resources development program at Pitt Community College will be held Wednesday at 7 p.m. in room 209 of the Humber Building on the PCC campus.

According to Charles M. Dickens, HRD coordinator, the purpose of the session is to explain in detail the fundamentals of the HRD program. Dickens said applications by prospective participants must be completed by Dec. 18. He said enrollment would be restricted.

The course is open to citizens of the Greenville-Pitt County area who are unemployed or school dropouts 18 years of age or older. Sponsors especially encourage unemployed individuals who are actively seeking work and persons who receive public assistance to attend Wednesday's meeting.

The HRD will assist students who complete the course in finding jobs.

Board To Meet

The Pitt County Board of Commissioners will meet at 10 a.m. Monday at the county office building at 1717 W. Fifth St. Included on the agenda is the annual reorganization of the board, including the election of a new chairman, the appointment of county officials (manager, attorney, finance officer and clerk to the board), and the approval of county officials' bonds.

Other items on the agenda include the consideration of resolutions approving industrial revenue bonds for A&F Realty and Leasing Corp. for Hexagon Corp., and approving an application for industrial revenue bonds for an Eaton Corp. expansion; a discussion of county-wide toll free telephone service for Fountain, Grifton and Ayden, and other matters.

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, DEC. 5, 1981

YOUR DAILY Horoscope

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A day when increased activity is like to occur. It's wise not to act too hastily. Consider all phases of a new plan before making a decision. Think along more constructive lines.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Instead of going off on a worthless fun spree, concentrate on your personal aims. Strive for greater rapport with friends.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Allow time for analyzing your position and what should be done to improve it. Taking risks now could be dangerous.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) A day to study the data that can help you get ahead in career activities. Steer clear of one who wants to waste your time.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Make sure you understand new business methods introduced in your line of endeavor. Improve your environment.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Ideal day to meet with congenials and exchange ideas. Study a new outlet that could be profitable in the future.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Look over your surroundings and make plans for improvements. Take a new treatment to improve your health.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Handle chores early in the day and then join friends at the amusements that are mutually enjoyable. Think logically.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You are in a mood to argue and could easily annoy others, so do something constructive instead. Sidestep a troublemaker.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Much care in motion is important now or you could get into trouble easily. Shop with care and count the cost.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Make a point to study new ways and means of increasing your income. A business expert can be helpful with suggestions.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Try not to be too forceful with others in order to gain your aims. Use your charm in entertaining others for best results.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) It is wise to handle your obligations efficiently now instead of trying to get out of them. Pay more attention to details.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will have unusual ideas and a strong desire to put them in operation. Be sure to give as fine an education as you can afford and the good in this chart will manifest itself early and properly.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

Awards Program

The pre-4-H Annual Awards Program will be held Monday at 7:30 p.m. at the American Legion Building in Greenville.

Bee Mayo, community development specialist for the program development branch of the Department of Human Resources, will be the speaker for the evening. Ms. Mayo will address the topic, "Partners In Learning."

Following Ms. Mayo's talk, the pre-4-H clubs will each present a short presentation to the group. Afterwards the pre-4-H'ers will receive certificates for their individual project work.

APPOINTED

SWARTHMORE, Pa. — Janet Elizabeth Vultee, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. M.R. Schweisthal of Tulsa, Okla., formerly of Greenville, has been appointed a member of the Student Housing Committee at Swarthmore College.

Bus Driver Charged In N.C. Accident

MORGANTON, N.C. (AP) — Two people remained in critical condition early today after being injured in a collision between a bus and a car that killed a baby girl Thursday.

Meanwhile, a probable cause hearing for the driver of the Continental Trailways bus was scheduled for today, said state Highway Patrol Trooper L.B. Rector.

Wesley Irvin Jones, 54, of Kernersville, was charged with manslaughter, drunk driving, transporting an open bottle of liquor, speeding and failing to stop at a stop sign, said Rector.

Killed was 4-month-old Jody Page Jordan. Her mother, Sherrie Page Jordan, 26, of Valdese, was listed in critical condition at Glenn R. Frye Hospital in Hickory, said nursing supervisor Wanda White.

Mrs. Jordan, the driver of the car, suffered head and other multiple injuries, including internal bleeding, hospital officials said.

Jody's stepsister, Gabriel Godfrey, 7, was in critical condition at Winston-Salem's Baptist Hospital and was undergoing heart surgery, Mrs. White said.

Also injured in the wreck were bus passengers Dolly Thomas, 65, of Asheville, who was treated and released from Grace Hospital in Morganton. Erma Edwards, 35, of Burnsville, and Janice Loree Wike, 30, of Hickory, were in stable condition at the hospital, said nursing supervisor Frances Bumgarner.

Rector said Jones refused the breathalyzer test on the advice of Trailways attorneys. Rector said he was able to smell alcohol on Jones when he investigated the 3:05 p.m. accident.

The bus, which contained 11 passengers, had just left the Morganton bus station and was traveling on Bethel Road allegedly above the posted 30 mph speed limit toward Interstate 40, Rector said.

Jones allegedly failed to stop at a stop sign at the intersection and hit Mrs.

Jordan's 1975 Chevrolet Monte Carlo broadside, Rector said.

The two vehicles traveled about 81 feet and came to rest in a yard a few feet away from a house, Rector said.

Reapportionment Up To Legislators

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Gov. Jim Hunt says he is leaving to the General Assembly a decision on what action to take toward settling the legislative redistricting issue.

At a news conference, Hunt said Thursday that reapportionment "is a matter for the legislature to consider." He also declined to say whether he supported a move toward more single-member districts instead of the current reliance on large, multi-member districts as a way of apportioning legislative seats.

Hunt also said he didn't know whether the state should appeal a U.S. Justice Department decision knocking down a state constitutional provision affecting redistricting.

The Justice Department decision this week under the 1965 voting rights act rendered "legally unenforceable" a provision of the Constitution that prevented counties from being divided in shaping state House and Senate districts.

Officials in the state attorney general's office said they would consult with legislative leaders and other state officials before deciding whether to appeal the constitutional issue in federal court in Washington.

"That's not a matter I have really had a chance to form an opinion on," Hunt said. "It is one I will be looking at and discussing with legislators."

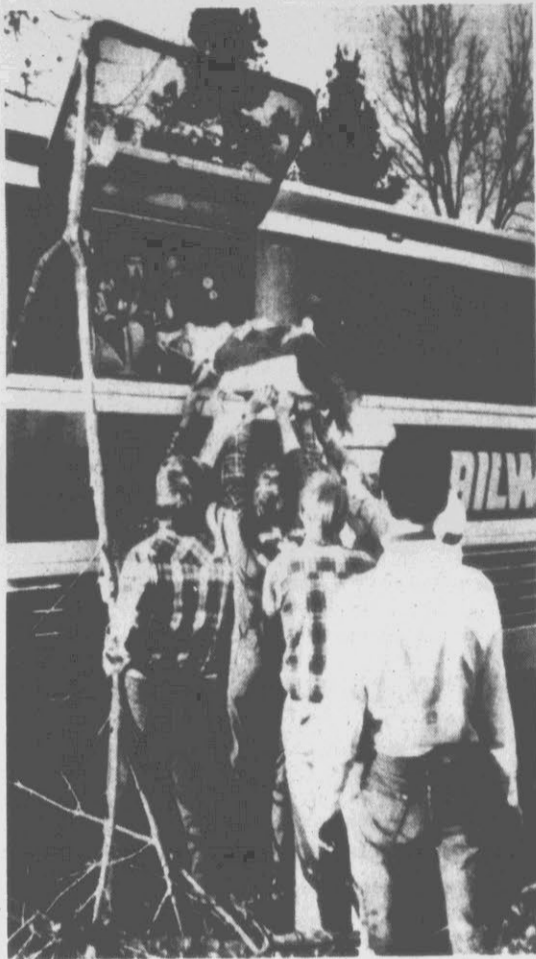

SERVED AS PAGES

RALEIGH — Two J.H. Rose students served as pages in the offices of Gov. Jim Hunt during the week of Nov. 30-Dec. 4.

BOARD MEETING

The Board of Commissioners of the Greenville Utilities Commission will meet in regular session at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the board room of the Utilities Building.

REMOVING THE INJURED — An unidentified woman is removed by Burke County Rescue Squad workers from the wreckage of a Continental Trailways bus that slammed into a passenger vehicle near Morganton, N.C. Thursday afternoon. A six-month old girl was killed and her step-sister and mother seriously injured when the bus apparently went through a stop sign near Interstate 40 and struck a car. Three people on the bus were seriously injured, also. (AP Laserphoto)

Facts About The BIBLE BY JOHN LEHTI

AND AGAIN I SAY UNTO YOU, IT IS EASIER FOR A CAMEL TO GO THROUGH THE EYE OF A NEEDLE, THAN FOR A RICH MAN TO ENTER INTO THE KINGDOM OF GOD. MATT. 19:24

ROPE OR CAMEL—WHICH DID JESUS REALLY SAY ?

IF YOU HEARD SOMEBODY SAY, "I TORE A LEAF..." YOU COULDN'T BE TOO SURE WHAT WAS MEANT UNTIL THEY FINISHED THE SENTENCE. "I TORE A LEAF...OFF THE TREE!" NOW YOU'D KNOW WHAT WAS MEANT! "I TORE A LEAF...OUT OF THE BOOK!" AGAIN YOU'D KNOW EXACTLY WHAT WAS MEANT—THE SAME WORD BUT WITH TWO ENTIRELY DIFFERENT MEANINGS: ONE, THE FOLIAGE THAT GROWS ON A TREE; TWO, A PIECE OF PAPER THAT'S BOUND IN A BOOK.

IN JUST THE SAME MANNER DOES THE ARAMAIC WORD "GAMLA" MEAN CAMEL; OR A ROPE; OR A BEAM. WHEN JESUS, SPEAKING IN THE ONLY LANGUAGE HE KNEW, ARAMAIC, SAID, "DADLIL LGAMLA LMEAL BAKHRORA DAMGATA AU ATIRA ONEAOL LMACOOTH DALAHA," HE ACTUALLY SAID "IT IS EASIER FOR A ROPE TO GO THROUGH THE EYE OF A NEEDLE THAN FOR A RICH MAN TO ENTER INTO THE KINGDOM OF GOD." IN FACT, HE WAS ONLY USING A VERY POPULAR EXPRESSION OF THE DAY. EASTERN WOMEN, WHEN SHOPPING FOR THREAD WOULD OFTEN SAY, IF THE THREAD WAS TOO THICK, "IT IS A ROPE, IT WILL NOT GO THROUGH THE EYE OF MY NEEDLE!"

BUT WHEN THE EARLY GREEKS TRANSLATED THE NEW TESTAMENT BOOKS, FROM ARAMAIC INTO GREEK, THEY DIDN'T REALIZE THAT, IN ARAMAIC CUSTOM, NEEDLE AND ROPE HAD ANY CONNECTION. ONE OF THEM, OBVIOUSLY, DID KNOW THAT "GAMLA" MEANT CAMEL AND SO TRANSLATED IT THAT WAY—AND, FROM THAT DAY ON, THOUSANDS UPON THOUSANDS OF PRIESTS, MINISTERS, AND PREACHERS HAVE MISQUOTED JESUS WITHOUT KNOWING THEY WERE DOING SO! THIS DISCREPANCY WAS FINALLY BROUGHT TO LIGHT IN THE 1920'S, IN A SERIES OF LECTURES BY PROF. GEORGE M. LAMSA, EMINENT ETHNOLOGIST AND ARAMAIC LANGUAGE EXPERT—WHICH HAPPENED TO BE HIS OWN MOTHER-TONGUE!

If You Have a Habit Of Following The Crowd, We Suggest, The Best Crowd to Follow is the Crowd Going To Church

Resurgence Of Church In China

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — As one of the first class of seminary students training for the Christian ministry in communist China in 1979, the young woman, Bao Juan, said, "We feel we are the most blessed of people, given this glorious opportunity. God is working everywhere."

The scene, at the recently opened Theological Seminary and College in Nanking, was described by a visiting delegation of American church leaders who returned this week from two weeks in China.

They report a growing, vigorous resurgence of church life there after past years of suppression, with more than 200 churches reopened in major cities since 1979 and the printing and distribution in 1980-1981 of about 400,000 Chinese Bibles.

The 18-member delegation of U.S. church leaders, the first to visit China at the official invitation of the recently formed China Christian Council, worshipped in numerous Chinese churches, met with pastors, professors, government officials and participants in once under-ground "house churches."

Claire Randall, general secretary of the U.S. National Council of Churches, a cooperative organization of most major Protestant and Eastern Orthodox denominations that arranged the trip, says:

"One of the most touching and impressive things was to hear people, both young and old, telling how they kept their faith alive in their homes, behind closed doors, in the dark period of the Cultural Revolution."

That was the harsh 1966-1976 interval when religion was ruthlessly crushed in China and public manifestations of it stamped out, with countless believers and pastors slain or imprisoned.

Participants in the secret "house churches" in that period told U.S. visitors how lights would be turned low and hymns and prayers almost whispered in the forbidden worship services.

Thousands of these "house churches" — an estimated 20,000 of them — still function — but no longer clandestinely, along with the growing number of publicly opened churches.

"Chinese Christians feel they need both because the house church provides a more intimate setting for exploring their faith," says a report of the trip by council information executive Warren Day.

The visitors met both with Catholic and Protestant leaders, and describe attending crowded church services in Canton, Shanghai, Peking, Xi'an and Nanking.

"We have an independent church, not a dependent church," the Rev. K. H. Ting told the visitors. A one-time Anglican, he is chairman of the China Christian Council, recently formed to include all Protestant churches in a non-denominational Christianity.

Presenting the Chinese church representatives with a handmade silver chalice, the head of the U.S. council's China office, the Rev. Franklin J. Woo, called it "a sign of Jesus' broken body which, in our broken world, is what holds us together."

There were about 1 million Protestants and 3 million Catholics in China before the communist takeover in 1949, and Christian leaders there say the total has increased, growing even through the periods of repression.

However, the pastor of the Urn and Tile Market Church in Peking was quoted as observing, "You Americans are concerned with numbers. We are much more concerned with the joy of being together as Christians."

In the town of Xi'an, as elsewhere, the visitors report the church revealed a pattern that Chinese Christians say is typical — a greater participation than ever.

That church had 1,800 members before the Cultural Revolution, and now has 4,400 members. Many stood outside in cold rain, peering through the windows to a packed congregation inside, when the Rev. William Howard, the U.S. council president, spoke there.

"We are all one body," he emphasized as his theme in another service, in Canton.

At the Nanking seminary, opened this year and where 51 students, 22 of them women, are enrolled, the Very Rev. Elton O. Smith, dean of St. Paul's Episcopal Cathedral in Buffalo, N.Y., says:

"These young seminarians are on fire with their faith."

What hit me so hard was the fervor of their commitment, the deep excitement as the church comes alive after a period of repression."

The Rev. Robert W. Neff, general secretary of the Church of the Brethren and a former seminary professor, says he had never encountered so "much enthusiasm and vitality" as among the Nanking seminarians.

"I found the joy of these students overwhelming."

The woman student, Bao Juan, in greeting the group at a chapel service, was quoted as saying:

"To preach the Gospel among our people, we must identify with our people. Let the Gospel take root in Chinese culture so that it might take root in the heart of the Chinese people."

EARL WILLIAMS
MONDAY, DECEMBER 7, 1981

HOLIDAY INN Memorial Drive

DINNER — 7:00 p.m.
MEETING — 7:30 p.m.

Earl Williams was born and raised in Tabor City, N.C. area. During a tour of duty in the U.S. Army, he attended the University of Louisville, Louisville, Kentucky. After service in the army, Earl was employed as a sales engineer for seven years by Air Reduction Company of New York (Aircro), calling on accounts in North Carolina and Virginia. He next worked for the Pyramid Chemical Company of Wilmington as sales manager, eventually becoming manager of the business.

Earl left Pyramid to found his own company, Hy Speed Products Company, a janitorial chemical manufacturing business which serves North and South Carolina.

For four years Earl served as President of the Wilmington Chapter of the Full Gospel Business Men's Fellowship. He is now President of the Southeastern N.C. FGBMFI Association of Chapters which consists of 22 chapters. He is also an active FGBMFI field representative for Southeastern N.C., and has been involved in helping to establish chapters in Southeastern N.C., as well as some in South Carolina and Virginia.

Earl and his wife Lynda, live in Wilmington, N.C., and have three children, ages 16, 15, and 12.

Earl believes that true spiritual understanding of God's Word can totally bring man back to the image and likeness he was created in from the very beginning.

MEN, WOMEN AND CHILDREN OF ALL AGES INVITED.

NEW YORK (AP) — New hope that interest rates will continue declining pushed the stock market into a broad advance in heavy midday trading today. Leading the surge were energy, electronic, chemical, financial and forest products stocks.

Prices rose from the opening bell and after two hours of trading three stocks had gained for every one losing ground on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, which recovered late Thursday to post a 1.24-point gain, climbed another 7.70 to 891.55. It had jumped more than 8 points early in the session.

Big Board volume was 25.47 million shares at noon EDT, compared with 19.14 million in the same period Thursday.

Hopes that interest rates would tumble further came after trading ended Thursday when the Federal Reserve Board cut its discount rate to 12 percent from 13 percent. The rate, charged on Fed loans to financial institutions, makes banks' cost of obtaining funds less expensive, which could allow them to lower their prime lending rates. That in turn could lower corporate borrowing costs.

Analysts said the market appeared to give expectations of lower rates more weight than today's Labor Department announcement that unemployment rose to 8.4 percent in November. The current recession helped push the rate to its highest level in six years and up nearly a full percentage point since September.

Among the NYSE most-active gainers were Marathon Oil 1 3/4 to 104 1/4, Eastman Kodak 7/8 to 71 1/4 and Ammax 1 1/2 to 50.

Among the rising financial stocks were Citicorp 3/8 to 26 3/8 and Chase Manhattan 7/8 to 55 3/8.

The NYSE's composite index rose 0.56 to 73.21. At the American Stock Exchange the market value index gained 2.24 to 329.99.

Carrier Mishap Kills 2 Crewmen

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — An arresting cable as thick as a man's wrist snapped as a jet landed on the aircraft carrier USS John F. Kennedy, and two crewmen struck by the cable were killed, the Navy says.

Three other crewmen were injured and the A-7E Corsair II jet fighter and three planes on deck were damaged Thursday morning in the Caribbean, where the carrier is taking part in exercises.

Planes landing on carriers snag a cable stretched across the deck to slow them down. The pilot apparently wasn't injured and the damage to his plane was minor, officials said. Killed were Airman Apprentice Anthony W. Davis of Oxon Hill, Md., and Petty Officer 3rd Class Robert A. Baughman of Virginia Beach, Va. Their ages weren't released.

Lady Pirates Facing Villanova In Tourney

East Carolina University's Lady Pirates, coming off a 62-56 loss to ninth ranked N.C. State, go up against another toughie Saturday in the opening round of the Dial Classic at Montclair State. The Pirates take on Villanova, while New Hampshire takes on Montclair.

The tournament is one of 13 being sponsored across the country by Dial soap.

The trip also gives the Lady Pirates a chance to continue their success in the New York City area — Coach Cathy Andruzzi's home stomping grounds. Last year on two trips north, the Lady Pirates won two non-tournament games early in the season, then finished second to Virginia in the strong Queens Holiday Tournament at Queens College.

"We're pleased to have an opportunity to participate in the Dial Classic," Andruzzi said. "It has some strong competitors in it."

Villanova, East Carolina's opening round opponent, beat West Chester State, 105-72, in its opening game. "They have a great deal of talent and they are coming off a very good season," Andruzzi said. "We've got to stop (center) Lisa Ortlip. Our tallest girl is 6-2 and she's 6-4. They are strong offensive and have good perimeter shooters, too."

The meeting will be the first between the two schools.

Expected to start against the Pirates are Stephanie Vanderslice, a 5-11 senior and Kathie Beisel, a 5-9 junior, at the forwards, with Ortlip at center. Andrea Burton, a 5-7 sophomore, and Nancy Barnhardt, a 5-9 sophomore, will be at the guards.

Against West Chester, Beisel scored 17 points and had six rebounds, while Ortlip had 15 points and four rebounds. Vanderslice scored 12 points and pulled away seven rebounds. Barnhardt scored 10 points.

Montclair State comes into the tournament with a 1-0 record, while New Hampshire was 2-0 prior to a game earlier this week with Boston College.

Thus, ECU's 1-1 mark will be the worst among the teams in the field.

East Carolina won its opening game, over Appalachian State, 61-58.

Mary Denker leads the ECU scoring with a 15.0 average, while Loraine Foster is next at 14.5. Sam Jones rounds out those in double figures with a 10.5 average. Denker is the leading rebounder with a 7.0 average.

Following the tournament, which concludes Sunday, the Lady Pirates return home next Saturday to host UNC-Wilmington in a 7:30 p.m. game at Minges Coliseum. It will be the final home game for December.

Tar Heels Hold Off Tulsa, 78-70

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — Fans of top-ranked North Carolina, their appetite for a blowout seemingly satisfied when the Tar Heels opened a 24-point lead against No. 9 Tulsa, were forced to settle for less in the end.

Plagued by poor ballhandling in the second half, the Tar Heels watched the lead evaporate into a 7-point advantage before closing out the Hurricane, 78-70.

"We're better ballhandlers than we showed," North Carolina Coach Dean Smith said of his team, which committed 24 turnovers. "Of course, you must give Tulsa's defense some credit for that."

North Carolina's defense also deserves credit for setting up the potential rout. Freshman Michael Jordan scored the first six Tar Heel points enroute to an early 13-2 lead. The Hurricane was befuddled by the series of defenses thrown at it and appeared ready to fold early.

But the defending National Invitation Tournament champions made a 16-5 run to tie the game at 18 with 7:06 left in the first half. Jordan and James Worthy countered with a second Tar Heel rally that set up a 34-22 halftime lead.

While limiting Tulsa to one basket a minute in the second half, the Tar Heels cruised to a 60-36 lead with 11:02 left. Once again, the Hurricane came up with another gust of offense.

Led by the shooting of Phil Spradling, David Brown and Paul Pressey, the gap narrowed to 68-61. But a pair of Worthy free throws ended the comeback and the teams traded baskets until the end.

"I'm happy that we didn't completely fold," Tulsa Coach Nolan Richardson said of his squad, which shot 68 percent in the second half to get back into the game. "This game was a good experience and we'll be all right down the road."

The Carmichael Auditorium crowd was treated to a game-high 22 points by Jordan, mostly on dunks and jumpers. "I just had the open shots," Jordan said. "James, Matt (Doherty) and Sam (Perkins) gave me the passes."

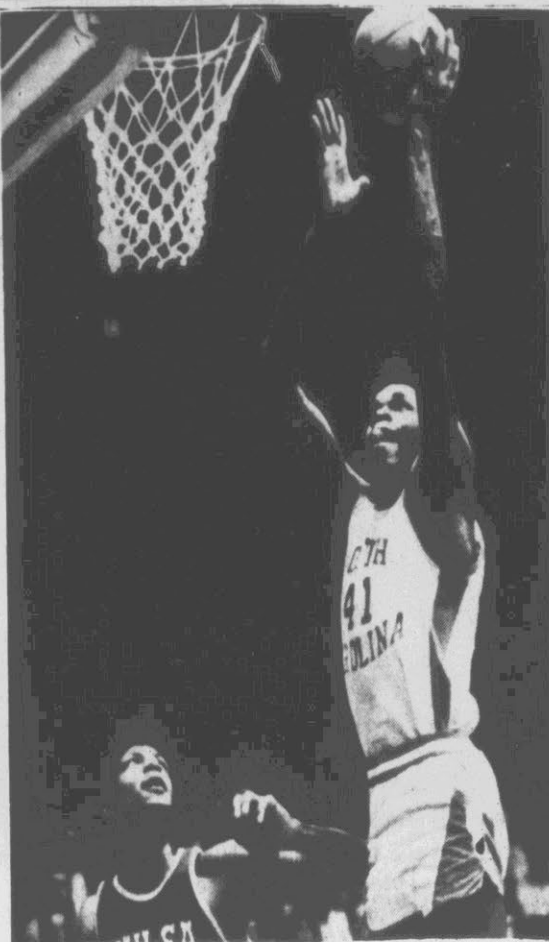

Doherty had 18 points, Worthy added 17 and Perkins chipped in 13 to keep the Tar Heel record unblemished in three games. Spradling led Tulsa, now 1-1, with 17.

Jordan said he understood Smith's system of basketball because his high school coach in Wilmington, N.C., implemented the same system. Smith thinks Jordan still needs some time.

"He'll get some attention because of his points, but he's coming on in other areas, too," he said.

McIntosh Is ACC's Top Newcomer

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Freshman tailback Joe McIntosh, one of the few bright spots in a disappointing season for N.C. State, has been named Atlantic Coast Conference Rookie of the Year.

McIntosh, named North Carolina's high school player of the year in 1980, was named on 104 of 117 ballots cast by members of the Atlantic Coast Sports Writers Association.

Also receiving votes were running back Robert Lavette of Georgia Tech, middle guard William Perry of Clemson, and Tiger punter Dale Hatcher.

The Lexington, N.C. native averaged 119.7 yards per game and finished the season with 1,197 yards. He began the season as a second-team player but became a starter after picking up 220 yards on 25 carries against Wake Forest.

He rushed for 137 yards in the Wolfpack's loss to Penn State, which exceeded the Nittany Lions' yardage total for the entire game.

"Joe is an exceptionally gifted runner," said N.C. State head coach Monte Kiffin. "He has good speed and quickness, plus the ability to break tackles. More than that, he has tremendous balance, which you can't teach."

"Joe's going to get better because he's going to get stronger. Running for almost 1,200 yards is a tremendous accomplishment for anyone, but even more so for a freshman."

Charges Subterfuge To Gain Cable TV Rights

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The president of McNeese State University says that attempts to reduce the membership in the NCAA's Division I-A are nothing more than a "subterfuge" so the major football powers can gain control of valuable cable television rights in the future.

"It looks like some of the super powers are more interested in cable TV than Division I-A or I-AA," Jack Doland told The Associated Press late Thursday night.

Doland, the head football coach at McNeese until he became president of the Lake Charles, La., university several years ago, said he would speak during today's business session of the special NCAA Convention against proposed legislation which would chop 40 or more members from the 137 currently in Division I-A.

Doland pointed out that a proposed resolution concerning football television would not affect the number of TV appearances by smaller leagues such as the Southland — of which McNeese is a member — or Southern Conferences or the Ivy League, all of which would drop from Division I-A to I-AA under the reorganization plan.

"The 1982-85 TV plan guarantees us the same number of appearances which were projected in 1977 — a minimum of two appearances in each two years of the TV contract," Doland said. "We haven't been getting any more than that, just taken appearances, so they can't be too worried about us."

"Forcing us into Division I-AA isn't going to change a thing concerning our TV appearances. I think they're just doing this to get cable TV rights and become sole owners of their TV rights. Reorganization is just something to center on."

"The Southern Conference has done nothing to hurt the Atlantic Coast Conference. The Missouri Valley has done nothing to hurt the Big Eight. The Southland Conference has had no effect on the Southwest Conference. The Mid-American hasn't brought the Big Ten down. The Pacific Coast Athletic Association hasn't hurt the Pac-10. We've done nothing except help college football."

The special convention was arranged after the College Football Association, consisting of 61 major football schools with the exception of the Big Ten and Pacific-10 conferences, ignored the NCAA's new $263.5 million TV pact with ABC and CBS and signed a $180 million contract of its own with NBC.

Three CFA members — Georgia, Oklahoma and Texas — have court cases pending against the NCAA in an attempt to wrest control of what they consider their property rights away from the national organization.

"Start off on the East Coast with Penn State," Doland said. "Michigan, Ohio State, Notre Dame, Nebraska, Oklahoma and Texas would dominate cable TV in their areas. In the South, you'd have Alabama and Georgia, and maybe LSU and Arkansas. On the West Coast, Southern Cal would almost cover the entire area. They'd sweep over the Oregon, Arizonas and Washingtons if they had a chance to cut a cable TV deal without any restrictions."

Doland said the restructuring legislation "doesn't benefit the majority of people in I-A or I-AA; it just benefits a few teams. And the fewer schools are involved, the more the super powers can run the show."

"All they're doing is hurting our status. With the prestige of being in Division I-A, we were able to draw 20,000 against Southern Illinois the same night the Alabama-LSU game was on national TV. We're just beginning to develop some status, beginning to be recognized, getting to where we can compete."

"Why was this meeting called at all if not for a few people trying to get cable TV rights? Schools like Texas, Arlington, East Carolina, Arkansas State and Eastern Michigan, which are near major football institutions, profit by being in Division I-A and would have a horrible time without it. When you're handed second-division status, it's really going to hurt."

"The ones who can't compete are voluntarily dropping down to I-AA anyway. Why force the ones who have to be I-A to compete out of it? (Penn State Coach) Joe Paterno says he wants all I-A teams to be guaranteed TV appearances. I guess he figures Colorado State (0-12) and Northwestern (0-11) are more deserving just because they're there. There's no reason all I-A teams should be guaranteed appearances just because they're in I-A."

A number of CFA schools are sponsoring an amendment which would give schools con-

Kupec, Others Quit State Jobs

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Three of North Carolina State's four offensive assistant football coaches have resigned, the Raleigh Times reports.

The newspaper said Thursday that none of the coaches cited pressure from head coach Monte Kiffin, whose second N.C. State team finished 4-7 after an unproductive experience with an I-formation.

But the Wolfpack's offense will be under completely revamped leadership in 1982. The coaches quitting are:

— Offensive coordinator Dick Kupec, who is considered one of the best option-system coaches in the country.

— Runningback coach Guy Ingles, who has a 14-year association with Kiffin.

— Wide receiver and quarterback coach Dave Buckley, who was the finest in a long line of N.C. State option quarterbacks during his Wolfpack playing career from 1972 to 1975.

Kiffin's secretary said he was out of town recruiting and could not be reached for comment.

"It was a matter of philosophic differences between Monte and myself," Kupec said. "I'm not leaving on bad terms. I still have great respect for Monte and what he's trying to accomplish, but I felt it would be the best for both parties if I leave now."

Kupec, 38, admitted the offensive results may have affected his decision. After winning four of its first five games, the Wolfpack lost six straight, scoring only 57 points. The I-formation continually failed, despite the presence of 1,000-yard freshman runner Joe McIntosh.

Kupec is a former East Carolina assistant coach.

Ingles, 32, said his decision to quit had little to do with the team's record. He said he planned to return to Nebraska.

"Actually, my move is one more for my family and my future," he said. "I don't plan to stay in coaching."

Buckley, 28, could not be reached for comment.

Conley Boys Are Off To Flying Start

By RICK SCOPE
Reflector Sports Writer
HOLLYWOOD — D.H. Conley coach Shelley Marsh wants his team pushed, not pampered, by its early-season schedule. Toward that end, Marsh searches for foes that will help ready the Vikings for the long season ahead.

"I make an effort to play good nonconference teams," Marsh said. "It helps the team find out what they're really made of and I feel like it helps us over the long haul."

So far, Marsh likes what he sees. Three games into the 1981 season Conley has yet to lose.

The Vikings opened the season with a 48-38 win over Washington, followed that with a 73-57 victory over Greenville Rose and then held off Ayden-Grifton, 46-45, this past Tuesday evening.

Last year at this time the Vikings were 2-1, but Marsh was bemoaning his team's poor rebounding and aggressiveness. A year later, Marsh could not be more pleased.

"The reason I might sound more optimistic right now," Marsh said, "is that there is no doubt in my mind that we will get better because of our youth and inexperience."

The Vikings lost a number of players to graduation last year, including forwards Sammy Tucker, the team's leading scorer last season, and Anthony Burney. But five players return off last year's team, two of whom were starters — junior Keith Gatlin, a 6-4 guard, and senior

Sammy Tyson, a 6-7 center. The other starters are guard Leon Cox, a 5-10 junior, and forwards Dixon Page, a 5-11 senior, and Tommy Joyner, a 6-0 senior.

Leading the Vikes thus far this year has been Gatlin. The pencil-thin guard, who was named to first-team all-ECC and second-team all-state as a sophomore, has scored over 20 points in DHC's first three games.

Gatlin is considered one of the best 20 players and was named as one of the top 20 players at a Bill Cronauer basketball camp this past summer. Cronauer is a leading high school recruiting analyst.

Marsh said will not rely only on Gatlin for their scoring punch. "We're going to try to take some of the scoring burden off Keith this year," Marsh said. "Dixon, Leon and Sammy can all score."

"I figure my first five starters can stay with any 3-A team in the state," Marsh added. "But it's our lack of depth that concerns me right now. That will have to come along."

The Vikings' reserves could not be much more inexperienced. Not one of Marsh's seven reserves were with the team last year. Which is not to say they are not without talent, only that it may take time for them to gain the experience necessary to use their talent effectively.

Leading the roster of reserves is Donald Wilson, a 5-7 sophomore guard. "He's a good, quick little guard," Marsh said. "He has what it takes to be a good player, both mentally and physically."

Other reserves include guard Mark Dixon (5-10, sophomore), center Reggie Smith (6-4, freshman) and forwards Otis Payton (6-2, junior), Jesse May (6-1, senior) and Willie Anderson (6-2, junior).

Graduation hurt the Vikings, particularly up front with the loss of Burney and Tucker. Both were outstanding defensive players and will be missed. "When we lost Anthony and Sammy we lost to outstanding defensive players," Marsh said. "That's what we're trying to compensate for right now. We're working hard on becoming a good defensive team."

Another area worrying Marsh during the preseason was rebounding. The Vikings lost two of their best rebounders in Tucker and Burney. Thus far, however, Tyson has taken up much of the slack.

"Right now, Sammy's playing like a big man is supposed to play," Marsh said. "It's not his average that I'm so pleased with — he had seven rebounds against Washington, nine against Rose and four against Ayden-Grifton — it's the way he's rebounding. He's much more aggressive and he's putting more emphasis on rebounding this year."

The Vikings enter the Coastal Conference this season after years in the ECC and will be counting heavily on Tyson and Gatlin once they begin play in their new league on Jan. 12.

"I think it's an advantage to us being in a new conference," Marsh said. "They don't know that much about us and we're probably being underrated. They're not mentioning us when they talk about the conference contenders."

The teams that are mentioned start and end with two: West Craven and West Carteret. Of West Craven, Marsh said: "They are comparable to the Washington teams of Dominique Wilkins and Alvis Rogers. They really have some talent and they're deep."

"I said before this conference is stronger than the Eastern Carolina," Marsh added. "But I don't know if it's so much stronger as it has more college prospects."

Because of the league's talent, Marsh said the Vikings may be forced into becoming a more pattern-oriented team. "To win in this league we've got to make things count every time we have the ball," he said. "We won't be looking to run as much as we have."

"We are going to have to look to get off the good shots. I think you'll see our shot selection will be better this year."

This is a momentous week in the annals of the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

Sometime this weekend, the future of the organization may be decided. But it won't be without symbolic bloodshed throughout the group.

At stake is the television future of the NCAA. Last year, the collegiate governing body signed new contracts with ABC, and also extended a package to CBS for the coverage of NCAA football. Meanwhile, however, the 61-member Collegiate Football Association negotiated another contract with NBC for the broadcast of its games. The NCAA threatened suspension or expulsion of the CFA members should they go through with the contract.

The CFA is composed of all of the major conferences, less the Big Ten and Pac-10, and the major independents.

East Carolina is not a member of the CFA at this time, but aspires to it. The Atlantic Coast Conference is a member of the group.

Currently, the NCAA's Division I football schools number some 130 schools, a number felt too large by the CFA members. They'd like to drop it down to no more than 95. The other schools would fall into the Division I-AA.

Several years ago, the NCAA attempted to lead the smaller football powers into such a group, but few accepted. It was felt that such leagues as the Ivy League and the Southern Conference would fit into this mold.

Charges...

Council, also would delete the 12-sport clause and replace it with two exception provisions related to home and away (20,000 average over four years) or overall conference attendance, plus a waiver opportunity.

"At McNeese, we averaged 20,000," Doland said. "Our problem would be complying with the strength-of-schedule bylaw which says a Division I-A member must play at least 60 percent of its games against other Division I-A teams."

"Last season, we played 11 Division I-A teams. Under the new legislation, only two or three of them would remain in I-A. If I have to get seven new I-A teams to play, I'd have to work out cross-country arrangements with teams like Temple, Wichita State, East Carolina. With travel costs the way they are, you can't make a living doing that."

proposal sponsored by members of the Big Eight Conference would require an average of 17,000 a game in home football attendance over the past four years and a stadium with at least 30,000 permanent seats for Division I-A membership. It also would kill a current rule which opens Division I-A to schools sponsoring 12 or more varsity sports, such as the Ivy League.

A second plan, sponsored by the policy-making NCAA

Now, the gunfight is starting again, and it would appear that the NCAA will have to be more forceful with these less-powerful teams and conferences.

The most widely talked criteria for the new Division I-A schools (the big boys) is one that uses only attendance averages and stadium size to determine things. A 17,000 average attendance figure, and a 30,000-seat stadium would be the minimum requirement for the new top division membership. Where certain individual conference members do not qualify, exceptions would be made if at least half of the league meets the full requirements.

According to the NCAA, this would lower the size of the top division to no more than about 90-95 schools.

There will be battles from such schools are Richmond, William & Mary and the Southern Conference schools, none of which meet these requirements. There are, of course, other leagues, such as the Mid-American and the Ivy, who do not meet these, either.

None of the schools which would be dropped are expected to go down without a fight. Obviously, the NCAA is going to have to find some way to sweeten the pot for them.

Television money is the whole thing at stake, for without it, college football would find it hard to survive. So, with all three major networks telecasting games, it would seem that an expanded Division I-AA program could be worked out.

Nevertheless, it will be a battle. How it will come out, no one can say for sure now. It may not even be settled when the smoke clears from this weekend.

Locally, however, we can only hope that whatever criteria is set up, East Carolina will be able to stay in the upper division. Under the proposed attendance-seating criteria, ECU does qualify.

We noted with sadness this week the passing of Mrs. W.C. James and Bill Clifton.

Mrs. James was the widow of "Nealy" James, who was Greenville's first Little League commissioner. Mrs. James was, with her husband, quite active with the baseball programs, and many of the former players of this town remember her, as they came up through the Little League and other baseball programs in Greenville, which they led for so many years.

Her son, Ben, is following in the footsteps of his parents, working with the recreation programs of the city.

Clifton, meanwhile, was another that many of the men in this town know because of his coaching. For years, Clifton coached in the Little League, Babe Ruth and Senior Babe Ruth Leagues, and was a sponsor for many teams.

Both of these fine supporters will be missed.

Nielsen Off The Bench To Lead Houston To Win

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston football fans may have witnessed a changing of the guard when quarterback Gifford Nielsen came off the bench to rescue the Oilers in a come-from-behind victory over the Cleveland Browns.

Nielsen, relegated to backup status when starter Ken Stabler retired during the exhibition season after first announcing he would quit the game, completed five of his first six passes after entering the game in the third quarter. He directed an 80-yard drive that resulted in a 30-yard touchdown pass to tight end Dave Casper.

It was enough to spark Houston to a 17-13 victory in a National Football League game Thursday night.

The scoring pass put the Oilers ahead for the first time, erasing Cleveland's 6-3 halftime lead built on field goals of 18 and 19 yards by Matt Bahr. Toni Fritsch's 32-yard, first-quarter field goal provided Houston's only first-half points.

Houston rookie Avon Riley provided the game's turning point when he blocked a punt at the Cleveland 11 later in the third quarter. Adger Armstrong returned it to the Browns' 3 to set up Earl Campbell's 1-yard touchdown run that boosted the Houston lead to 17-6.

Campbell, long the Houston workhorse, carried the ball just 15 times for 31 yards. That did little to allay fears of some Oilers fans that he may be traded.

"Bud, please don't fire Earl Campbell," a sign in the stands implored of Oiler owner Bud Adams, who last season fired popular Coach Bum Phillips, now at New Orleans.

"There is no truth to that rumor, it is something that hasn't been discussed,"

Houston Coach Ed Biles said in response to questions about the 5-foot-11, 230-pound running back's future with the Oilers.

"That's the farthest thing from my mind, but I just can't stop the rumors."

Campbell, the National Football League's leading rusher the past three seasons, played a secondary role to Nielsen, who completed seven of 11 passes for 86 yards and no interceptions after replacing Stabler.

Asked about Campbell's reduced workload, Biles said, "I didn't think we needed to (run Campbell more) since it was a short week and he hadn't had much rest. He had other things on his mind."

Biles declined, however, to elaborate on the "other things."

Campbell, who scored the final Houston touchdown on a

1-yard dive, professed no knowledge of a possible trade.

"I have nothing to say about that," he said. "If they trade me they trade me and if they don't they don't. I would hate to leave because I love Texas and this team and I have been through a whole lot together. But whatever happens I can deal with it."

Blame Wooden For UCLA's Latest Loss

By The Associated Press
Down through the years, UCLA's basketball team owed most of its success to John Wooden.

Thursday night, the Bruins could partly blame him for a defeat. The newly-instituted alternate-possession rule in college basketball this season, long advocated by the one-time UCLA coach, helped send the eighth-ranked Bruins down to a 57-54 defeat by Rutgers.

"John Wooden helped us win tonight because he advocated the rule change," said Rutgers Coach Tom Young after the upset at the Meadowlands

Arena in East Rutherford, N.J. "I hate it myself, but I loved it tonight."

Here's what happened: UCLA's Michael Holton had hit two free throws with 15 seconds left to cut the Rutgers lead to 55-54. Rutgers then inbounded under the UCLA basket with six seconds to play. Mike Sanders stole the pass and the Bruins worked the ball around to Holton, who threw up an errant 12-foot shot.

UCLA's Mike Sanders and Rutgers' Chris Nieberlein tied up under the basket and under the old rule, a jump ball would have been called. But Rutgers got possession under the revised rule that teams alternate inbounding instead of throwing the ball up after a tieup. The Scarlet Knights' Brian Ellerbee then dribbled the length of the court and put in a layup for the final margin.

In other games involving the nation's ranked teams, No. 1 North Carolina turned back Tulsa 78-70; 13th-ranked Arkansas walloped San Diego State 85-68 and 18th-ranked Nevada-Las Vegas beat Arizona 69-49.

Down 33-21, Rutgers opened the second half by outscoring UCLA 16-2. Sanders, who finished with 18 points, scored six of the Bruins' next eight points to help UCLA regain the lead at 42-41.

With 1:28 remaining, Rich Brunson tied the game for Rutgers with a field goal and Kevin Black followed with a layup at 1:09 to provide the Scarlet Knights with a 54-52 lead. Ellerbee then hit one of two free throws before Holton came back with his free throws in the final, frantic seconds.

"They have to realize that talent alone won't win ballgames," said UCLA Coach Larry Farmer. "Execution wins ballgames and we didn't have one sustained drive in the second half. Rutgers got themselves up to play us, especially in the second half. That's what I've got to make this team understand, that it doesn't matter who we're playing, that they're going to be ready for us."

Freshman Michael Jordan scored 22 points to lead North Carolina to a 78-70 victory over Tulsa. Rutgers' Mike Sanders scored 18 points to lead UCLA to a 57-54 victory over Rutgers. Arkansas' Mike Anderson scored 25 points to lead Arkansas to a 69-49 victory over San Diego State. Nevada-Las Vegas' Steve Nisely scored 22 points to lead Nevada to a 69-49 victory over Arizona.

Carolina's conquest of Tulsa. Jordan scored North Carolina's first six points and finished with 10 in the first half. Along with James Worthy, he led the Tar Heels out of two first-period droughts to give them a comfortable halftime cushion, 34-22. North Carolina later broke away from Tulsa in the second half and held a 24-point lead, 60-36, at one time. The fat cushion was enough to withstand a late Tulsa rally.

"I just had the open shots," Jordan said. "James (Worthy), Matt (Doherty) and Sam (Perkins) gave me the passes."

North Carolina Coach Dean Smith called the victory a "learning experience" but was disappointed with his team's ballhandling, which almost proved costly.

"We're better ballhandlers than we showed," said Smith. "Of course, you must give Tulsa's defense some credit for that."

The usually sure-handed Tar Heels had 24 turnovers.

Scott Hastings scored 25 points and Arkansas played a near-flawless first half en route to a relatively easy victory over San Diego State. Hastings had 11 points in the first half and finished with 10 of 15 from the field and five of six from the foul line. But it was the Razorbacks' quick defense that led to a 34-15 halftime advantage over the Aztecs, who had averaged 100 points in winning their first two games of the season.

Nevada-Las Vegas raced past Arizona as forward Larry Anderson scored 16 points. The Rebels, who led 38-33 at halftime, saw their lead dwindle to one point in the opening minutes of the second half. But sophomore guard Jeff Collins, Arizona's leading scorer with 16 points, went to the bench with his fourth foul and Las Vegas immediately ran off seven straight points. Arizona never got any closer.

In other action, LaSalle Thompson scored a game-high 29 points to lead Texas past Colorado 76-64; Kevin Greany's 27 points powered Holy Cross over Navy 78-66; a 20-point performance by Devi Parks led Drake to an 89-65 decision over Chicago State; Claude Riley's 19 points and a pressing Texas A&M defense triggered the Aggies past Sam Houston State 81-53; Boston University tripped Massachusetts 91-65 behind Jay Twyman's 21 points and Ricky Pierce scored 21 as Rice crushed Southwest Texas State 79-53.

Also, Tom Haywood's 23 points paced Weber State to a 78-29 decision over Wisconsin-Superior; Swan Smith had a game-high 20 as West Texas State drubbed Pan American 104-76; Ed Perry's 18-foot jumper with three seconds left in overtime led Middle Tennessee over South Alabama 71-69; Doug Selvig scored 15 points and handed out seven assists as Montana stopped Utah State 61-46; and Jose Slaughter scored 18 points and collected eight rebounds to pace Portland over Montana State 75-58.

Beddingfield Proves Too Much For Greene Central Rams, 68-53

STANTONSBURG — Wilson Beddingfield, a 4-A team, proved too tough a nut for the 3-A Greene Central Rams last night as the Bruins ran off victories over both the boys and girls teams.

Beddingfield took the boys' game, 68-53, and won the girls' contest, 56-32.

The boys' game was a close affair until the third period, when the Bruins broke it open.

Beddingfield inched ahead, 13-12, after the first period, and clung to a 25-22 halftime advantage.

But in the third quarter, the Bruins raced away from the Rams, outscoring Greene Central, 26-11, for a 51-33 lead. The Rams outthrew the Bruins, 20-17, in the final period, but were too far back to catch up.

Thomas Loftin led Beddingfield with 23 points, while Baron Burks added 16. Cepado Albritton led the Rams with 18.

"We really should not have lost," Ram coach Lewis Godwin said. "I think we were just scared of them because they're 4-A." The loss dropped the Rams to 1-2.

Meanwhile, the Lady Rams, who were suffering their first loss in three starts, fell behind early and were never in the game. Beddingfield powered out to a 13-8 lead in the first period and expanded that to 29-16 at the half. The Lady

Knights Bow In Second Round

DAYTON, Tenn. — Greenville Christian Academy fell to defeat at the hands of Mid-American Christian Academy of Huntington, W. Va., 47-44, last night. The game was the semifinals of the National Association of Christian Athletics.

The Knights, who won their opening game in the tournament handily, eased out into a 129 lead after one period of play, but couldn't shake Mid-American, which hung on to trail, 26-23, at intermission.

In the third period, however, Mid-American took command, outscoring the Knights, 14-8, to take a 37-34 lead into the final period. Mid-American then matched Greenville's production, 10-10, in the fourth quarter to hold on for the win.

"Both teams played a man-to-man defense all the way," Coach Dale Thatcher said. "We don't often run up against a team that goes man with us, and our offense didn't quite work like we expected it to. Then, we lost Jerry Simpson on fouls, and that hurt our rebounding. It was a good game, though."

Robert Woomer led Mid-American with 19 points, while Tim Carrico had 14. David Hollingsworth led Greenville with 15 and Troy Hudson added ten.

The Knights play Calvary Christian of Chattanooga, Tenn., tonight for third place in the tournament.

Greenville Christian: Parnell 2 4-4 8, Butts 1 0-0 2, Simpson 3 1-3 7, Hollingsworth 7 1-2 15, Griner 0 0-0 0, Harris 1 0-0 2, Hudson 5 0-0 10. Totals 19 6-24.

Frazier Gains Draw In Comeback Fight

CHICAGO (AP) — He had to settle for a draw in the verdict, but in his mind Joe Frazier was a winner ... and his comeback will continue.

"From what I did tonight after a five-year layoff, I didn't see too much missing," said the 37-year-old former heavyweight champion who draw with Floyd "Jumbo" Cummings Thursday night. It was his first fight since he retired after being stopped in the fifth round by George Foreman June 15, 1976.

Referee Nate Moran scored the 10-round bout at the International Amphitheatre 46-45 for Cummings, but the fight was declared a draw because judges Harold Maravitz scored it 47-47 and Collins Brown 46-46. A fighter must have at least two of the three officials vote for him in order to win.

A majority of boxing writers at ringside favored Cummings. "I don't even think the fight was close," said the 30-year-old Cummings, who turned pro in 1979 after serving 12 years of a 50-75-year prison term for a murder conviction in connection with a killing during an armed robbery.

"We got shafted in our home town," said Blackie Pesoli, Cummings' manager. "It was Frazier's reputation and sympathy for him that kept Cummings from winning the fight." The bout was bathed in nostalgia. Most of the estimated crowd of 6,500 fans in the 10,000-seat arena rooted for the man who had as Smokin' Joe won the heavyweight championship and engaged in three classic fights with Muhammad Ali. But this Frazier had a role of fat around his middle — he weighed 229 pounds — and he showed his age and the effects of his long absence from the ring. He landed several of his famed left hooks, but he missed more and he never had Cummings in serious trouble. He also seemed unable to put a series of punches together and he was nearly knocked down on two occasions.

Yet after the fight, Frazier, who will be 38 Jan. 12, said "I don't see no reason to stop." He said he hoped to fight again in three or four months, then changed it to five or six months.

Asked if he would fight Ali again if his old adversary, who will be 40 Jan. 17, beats Trevor Berbick next week, Frazier said, "It's got to be up to the public."

"I proved to myself I can go 10 rounds," said Frazier. But in the eighth round it looked as if might not reach the end.

Cummings, who weighed 223 1-2, caught Frazier with a right to the jaw along the ropes, then followed with several head punches. Frazier started to fall, but grabbed Cummings, who then forced Frazier into a corner with another barrage of head blows. But Frazier lasted out the round.

Frazier also almost went down in the third from a 1-2 to the jaw that put him back on his heels.

The former champion's best round seemed to be the fifth. He caught Cummings with a good left hook. Cummings mugged, indicating he wasn't hurt. But then Frazier nailed with two more hooks and a good right to the head that shook Cummings.

"Joe Frazier can punch, but he never hurt me," said Cummings. Frazier did punch harder, but Cummings landed many more punches. He also backed up Frazier with his strength and dictated the temp of the fight.

Frazier talked to Ali, who is in the Bahamas, by telephone Thursday afternoon and each told the other to win.

"I'm going to keep my part up," Frazier told Ali.

But Smokin' Joe had to settle for a non-loss worth $85,000, a fraction of his paychecks during his glory days. Also missing was the television exposure he got when he gave a major fighter.

who will be 31 Christmas Day, made his record 17-1-1 for $10,000.

On Wednesday at an unofficial weigh-in called to hype the fight, Cummings told Frazier, "It's over Joe Frazier. It's over." Apparently, not yet.

LONDON (AP) — "The outlook for the West is bleak", unless the United States and its allies control escalating costs of new weapons because the Soviet Union is so far ahead in the arms race, a new Jane's military manual says.

Christopher F. Foss, editor of "Jane's Armor and Artillery 1981-82", made the statement in his foreword to the 826-page conventional weapons annual, one of a series of Jane's authoritative military reference works. Excerpts of the foreword were made available today.

Life As It's Lived

This Kitchen Promises No Olfactory Memory

By GAIL MICHAELS

I have heard that olfactory memory can be as strong as visual memory and that the fondest childhood recollection of many adults is the delicious aroma of cookies baking in Mother's oven. My children, on the other hand, will remember, if anything, the smell of Jello congealing in the refrigerator.

I have had to face the fact in recent years that I am not the baking type. Actually, I haven't found my type yet; I may need a lifetime to discover it. But I keep stumbling across the types that I am not; sewing, cooking cleaning, plant doctoring, bed-making — you name it, it's probably not up my alley.

Unfortunately, no one seems to be able to conceive of a housewife who is not the baking type, not to mention the other types I've mentioned. Most non-bakers evidently join the work force in order to hide their gross deficiency. A career woman can always say that she doesn't have the time to bake. I am not allowed that excuse, even though, at any attempt on my part to bake during the business hours of 8-to-5, Zachary can be found climbing up the kitchen drawers to the counter, dropping Play People into the mixing bowl and pitching pacifiers into the preheated oven.

If I manage to avoid Zachary, I still have Meg. Meg insists on being included in all of my rare baking projects. When her teacher asked me to make cupcakes for the kindergarten's Thanksgiving party, Meg promised me that she would keep her room clean for a week if only I would let her help me. I would have been a fool to refuse such an offer.

But that doesn't mean I was reconciled to the situation. "I think I'll get a job," I told Phillip who was snickering in the background. "Then I could send potato chips."

Searching for the right townhouse? Watch Classified every day.

Don't Miss Greenville's New Townhomes This Weekend!

Meg patted my arm. "It'll be all right. You'll see."

That was a big part of my problem; I did see. I saw cake batter spun all over appliances, walls and windows. The counter was swimming in it. And Meg managed to make quite a mess, too. She was the one who, poured the amount of water indicated on the back of the cake mix box (we chickens never start from scratch) into the cake flour. She could at least have waited until the flour was in the mixing bowl.

After we had scraped it out of the box and into the bowl and had the beaters going at high speed, I told her that it was time to put in the eggs. She did.

I managed to smile weakly. "Meg dear, you're supposed to take them out of the shell first."

Finally, we were ready to put the mixture into the muffin tins. Meg managed to drown the first 12 cupcake papers before I got impatient and took the spoon away from her.

"I think you're putting too much in each cup, Mommy." "I know what I'm doing. The box says it makes 24 cupcakes, and that's how many I'm going to make — no more, no less."

The sight which greeted us after 15 minutes had elapsed was not pretty. Whether or not the mountains ever came to Mohammed, they had certainly come to us. Some we managed to salvage whole. I used frosting to fill in the gaps where the others stuck to the pan. I was not entirely successful.

"Well, how did they like the cupcakes?" I asked Meg when she came home from school.

She looked glum. "Tyronne said they looked like toadstools."

"Well, that wasn't nice. What did your teacher say to him?"

"She said that for the Christmas party you could send potato chips."

Barry Gibb Plans For Debut As Actor

LONDON (AP) — It's a long way from the disco beat of "Staying Alive" to the iambic pentameter of Lord Byron's "Don Juan," but Barry Gibb of the Bee Gees is ready to make the leap.

Gibb, at 35 the oldest member of the pop-music group, is to make his acting debut as Lord Byron in a new movie, producers Mikola and Elizabeth Shevchek announced Thursday.

They said Gibb had already been signed for the film about the life and loves of the 19th-century English poet, who helped the Greeks in their struggle for independence against the Turkish empire.

In a statement issued through the producers, Gibb said he had turned down numerous scripts over the past few years because he was waiting for the right challenge.

Real-Life Stories Captured By Two Network Weekend Movies

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — This is the season for inspirational stories, and two weekend television movies — "The Children Nobody Wanted" and "A Long Way Home" — are lifted beautifully and poignantly from newspaper pages.

In fact, in Sunday night's GE Theater presentation of "A Long Way Home" on ABC, scriptwriter Dennis Nemecek ignored several real-life occurrences for fear that audiences would dismiss them as Hollywood fantasies.

"A Long Way Home" traces the relentless struggle of Donald, the eldest of three abandoned children, to reunite his family after he and his brother and sister were all adopted by different parents.

Incredibly, at one point during Donald's search, his brother, David, was living on the same Florida street. Another time, Donald attended a funeral and didn't learn until much later that the funeral director — with whom he had actually spoken — was his sister's adoptive father.

Nemecek left these facts for Ripley, concentrating instead on a powerful drama of feelings and obsession. It begins with the Branch children living a back-seat existence with their itinerant parents throughout Florida.

Finally, they're abandoned in a rundown shack and 8-year-old Donald becomes surrogate father to his siblings.

After Donald is caught stealing milk from a neighbor's porch, the children are taken to a family services agency and surreptitiously split up because nobody will take on three kids, particularly when Donald has so much parental-type authority. In their last scene as youngsters, Donald runs after a car, beseeching the driver to stop and let his brother and sister out.

Nine years later, Timothy Hutton, the Academy Award-winner from "Ordinary People," is the haunted Donald. His adopted 'arents are loving, but he can't love them back. "He gives, gives and gives, but he never takes," says his father, played warmly by George Dzundza of ABC's new comedy, "Open All Night."

The movie then follows Donald's passionate pursuit of his blood family, focusing on how much they meant to each other — and still do. "They're ghosts," his wife, Rose, (Rosanna Arquette) says to him.

It turns out that all three had difficulty with parental authority. Donald left his adopted family, as did his brother and sister, making Donald's search more difficult. At one point, Donald says he knows his siblings won't return to their parents. He maintains he still understands them, even after a dozen years of separation. "They're my brother and sister," he says firmly.

Alan Landsburg Productions, which bombed with futuristic shows last summer, has constructed a wonderfully moving film. It's more psychological than this weekend's other tearjerker, "The Children Nobody Wanted" on CBS Saturday night, but equally engrossing.

"The Children Nobody Wanted" is also about homeless children, but the solution is a little different, dramatizing the true-life efforts of Tom Butterfield to provide love and family to abandoned and orphaned kids. Butterfield, associate producer, suggested the idea to TV.

Fred Lehne gives a purposeful, sincere performance as Butterfield, a college student who, at the age of 21, became the first bachelor and the youngest single adult to gain foster parent status in Missouri. Tom's interest begins when he sees Joey, a ward of the court forced to live in a mental hospital, scrubbing the feet of patients in the shower.

Joey becomes the first of nine children Tom takes under his wing, including a tough 16-year-old and a young black, despite constant battles to make ends meet and overcome bureaucratic red tape and town rednecks. He wins those wars and, today, there are four Butterfield Youth Ranches.

Two touching tales this weekend; truth is indeed stronger than fiction.

Share Most Of Natalie's Estate

By KATHY HORAK
Associated Press Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actress Natalie Wood, who drowned during the weekend after falling from her yacht near Santa Catalina Island, divided most of her multimillion-dollar estate between her husband and her two daughters.

Her husband, actor Robert Wagner, was named trustee and executor of Miss Wood's will, which was filed Thursday in Superior Court. He will receive most of her personal belongings, including cars and furnishings, although the will said she asked him to distribute some of her personal mementos and jewelry to friends. They were not identified.

"Obviously, she's worth millions," said a secretary for tax-probate attorney William Stinehart Jr., who asked not to be identified.

"Mr. Wagner gets half the estate outright and will hold the other half in trust for the two children," said the actress' attorney, Paul Ziffren.

"It's impossible to make an estimate of the value of the estate until the inventory is filed," he said, "and it won't be done for several weeks." Ziffren said he would become executor and trustee should anything happen to Wagner, 51.

Miss Wood, 43, left an 11-year-old daughter, Natasha, from her marriage to Richard Gregson. She and Wagner had another daughter, Courtney Brooke, now 7.

Wagner's daughter by a previous marriage, Katharine, 17, was given one-tenth of the assets.

Miss Wood, whose body was found Sunday, set aside a maximum $12,000 per year for her mother, Maria Gurdin of Los Angeles, gave her sister Olga Viripaef $15,000 and another sister, Lana Wood, her furs and clothing.

She also asked that if Wagner died before her daughters had grown, they would live together in the couple's Beverly Hills home under the guardianship of her housekeeper, Willie Mae Worthen.

However, Miss Wood requested that Gregson be given custody of Natasha if he requested it.

"The best interests of my daughter Natasha would be served if (Wagner) were appointed guardian," the will said. "My husband has assured me ... he would cooperate with Natasha's father in the same manner that I would cooperate with him."

Laughter, Tears For Albertson

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — There was laughter amid the tears at Jack Albertson's memorial service, as Milton Berle retold some of the actor's favorite jokes.

"He would only want it this way, with humor and laughter," Berle said.

The service Thursday at the Directors Guild Theater was attended by several hundred people and lasted nearly two hours. It included speeches, songs and film and video clips from some of the veteran actor's greatest performances.

Albertson died at his Hollywood Hills home Nov. 25 at the age of 74, three years after being diagnosed as having cancer. His body was cremated.

"M-A-S-H" star Mike Farrell remembered Albertson as "the man who lived across the street from me when I was a teen-ager who (had) lost his father."

Expert Specializes In Explaining 'Black Holes'

By MADELEINE JACOB
Smithsonian News Service
The physicist couldn't help but be pleased. Tonight, a sudden thunderstorm had swept through the nation's capital, quickly flooding low-lying areas, snarling traffic and sending home-bound commuters running for cover.

Yet before Alan Lightman was a standing-room-only crowd of eager faces — people aged 8 to 80 who had braved the elements to hear his lecture on the most difficult, baffling and intriguing concepts in modern science: black holes.

"Black holes," Lightman began, "tempt us with their secrets of time and space behind a cloak of darkness." Men, women and children flock to Lightman's lectures to be tempted and enlightened.

It's a challenge he relishes and a job he performs extremely well. Explaining the seemingly unexplainable is all in a day's work for this soft-spoken, 33-year-old Tennessee native.

Lightman's work often takes him into areas beyond the known and observable natural world. Lightman is one of the few thousand theoretical physicists in the United States.

Theoretical scientists think in terms of mathematical models, formulas, equations and concepts that are beyond the comprehension of most of us. Their work is crucial to the progress of science, for it is they who give meaning to the countless observations and results obtained by their colleagues.

Albert Einstein put it neatly: "It is theory that determines what can be measured."

Lightman views his own role at the Harvard-Smithsonian Center for Astrophysics in Cambridge, Mass., in more modest terms: His job is providing the theoretical framework that helps make sense of observations in astronomy and providing the predictions that help astronomers decide what observations they should be making. He also teaches astronomy and physics at Harvard University.

Unlike his colleagues working in "big science," Lightman doesn't need million-dollar computers to do his job. Pads of paper and a blackboard are the essential tools for working out problems in high energy astrophysics.

And that's where black holes, as well as strange phenomena such as quasars, pulsars and cosmic bursters, come in. For these celestial objects can only reveal their presence to astronomers through the emission of characteristic radiation, be it visible light, ultra-violet, X-rays or even cosmic rays.

Black holes are considerably more secretive than their heavenly siblings and therein lies their appeal to theoreticians who have been, as Lightman says, "forced to think up clever ways to detect black holes."

Black holes were born out of theory in 1939. Physicists working with Einstein's equations of relativity calculated that certain large stars would begin to collapse in their old age.

Once a star began this process, it would continue to collapse under the force of gravity until it was so dense not even light could escape from its gravitational field. Nearly 25 years later, in the early '50s, physicist John Wheeler termed this final result of collapse a "black hole."

"For many years people regarded black holes as the playthings of physicists. By their very nature, no radiation could escape from them and therefore they could not be detected directly. In short, black holes were disconnected from the rest of the universe — they couldn't communicate," Lightman said.

Jarvis Swells Fla. Tax Revolt

By DAN SEWELL
Associated Press Writer
FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — County commission meetings, usually sedate sessions attended by a handful of special interests and reporters, have been packed recently with thousands of Florida residents equipped with placards, petitions and vitriol.

"I'm fed up with all of you!" Anthony Podsobinski shouted at Palm Beach County commissioners during one such meeting on Florida's Gold Coast. "You don't have to be smart to get in office and raise taxes."

"We're sick and dadgum tired of supporting everything in this city and county," John Fain told Leon County commissioners in northern Florida.

"Hell hath no fury like an abused and overtaxed group of property owners," said Abe Azar in Pinellas County on the Gulf Coast.

Florida's diverse citizenry — the north Florida farmers, the Old Southerners, the Latins, the retirees from the Midwest and the transplanted New Yorkers — has been united by the spirit of the American Revolution.

"You drive us to the threshold of another Boston Tea Party," Azar said.

From Miami's Dade County, where some 4,000 taxpayers pressured commissioners into reducing a proposed tax hike, to quiet, sparsely populated Manatee County, where 1,000 protesters helped force a one-third cut in taxes, citizen pressure has forced local governments to order layoffs, cutbacks in social programs and scrapping of building projects.

"I don't think there is a county in this state that's not having the largest budget hearings they've ever had," said John Thomas, executive director of the State Association of County Commissioners.

Tax protest groups have been organized in neighborhoods as well as statewide, and petition drives are working to give Florida its own Proposition 13 next year.

Howard Jarvis, the tax-cut apostle behind California's 1978 passage of a 50 percent slash in property taxes, has been in Florida giving advice and holding rallies.

The reasons for the growing tax revolt are many: inflation and a booming population have driven up the cost of providing the most basic services, a skyrocketing real estate market has driven up property values in many parts of the state, tax reforms enacted by the Legislature have taken effect, and Floridians are accustomed to some of the nation's lowest taxes.

The combination of larger assessments and higher tax rates this year has driven up homeowner property taxes by as much as 60 percent.

Politicians are doing a lot of finger-pointing. Administrators and department heads complain that county officials have caved in to taxpayer pressure and left them with impossible tasks.

In Volusia County, for example, County Manager Thomas Kelly noted that while slashing the budget by $4.1 million, the county commission left many services and plans intact.

"You're asking me to find $4 million," he told them.

In Broward County, administrator Graham Watt called himself a scapegoat when he was suspended because of a mixup on reporting the percentage of the tax hike. His suspension with pay came following two heated public hearings packed with thousands of protesters.

Many of Florida's Republicans, the state's minority party, since Reconstruction, see the tax rebellion as a chance to make big gains in what they expect to be "throw-the-bums-out" 1982 elections.

"There could be a tremendous backlash against anyone with a 'D' after his name," said state Sen. Van Poole, a Fort Lauderdale Republican.

Gov. Bob Graham, a Democrat, says another part of the problem is that Reagan administration cuts on the federal level are putting the onus on local government to provide services that no longer come from Washington.

"When the federal government is retrenching in many program areas and asking state and local governments to assume responsibilities it once had, we all have some very tough-minded decisions to make."

Graham said next year he will again recommend that the Legislature approve local-option sales taxes and other tax alternatives. But other state politicians aren't eager to buck the no-taxes tide.

The state may also have to review recent tax reforms.

When Graham took office in 1978, he found that tax appraisers in Florida's 67 counties had highly variable assessment standards, causing inequities in state education funding formulas.

The result was a mandate that appraisers follow state constitution guidelines calling for assessments at 100 percent of the properties' market value.

"That kind of assessment is a fundamental principle of state tax policy to ensure that everyone is treated fairly," Graham said.

The university team found that the straw residue from oats — produced the highest quality alkalage, but tests showed that wheat straw and the residue from other crops also could be used.

During the recent drought which hit large sections of Australia, top grade hay sold for about $368 a ton, and even the lowest quality hay sold for $80. A Department of Animal Husbandry spokesman estimated the costs of producing a ton of alkalage at about $57.50.

After harvesting, most Australian farmers burn the straw residue, as it is considered useless. The university of Sydney statistics show that about 30 million tons of straw is produced — and destroyed — every year.

The Australian system uses two tanks on a tractor-pulled trailer that sprays the straw in the field at the same time it is being harvested. The team spokesman said the addition of urea and minerals simultaneously with the caustic soda solution upgraded the nutritional value of the alkalage.

Dr. Kellaway said the main, long-term economic advantage of alkalage was its ability to fill the gap in feed supplies on farms from late summer and autumn through to the start of spring.

Assessors resisted the 100 percent market value assessment until this year, causing even greater jumps than would have experienced three years ago.

Also aggravating the tax problem, was a 1978 statewide referendum in which residents approved a $25,000 homestead exemption. It has produced

Scientists Turn Straw Into Hay

By ROBERT C. MILLER SYDNEY, Australia (UPI) — By converting straw into hay, scientists at the University of Sydney have come mighty close to making something out of nothing.

A new cheap feed for cattle and sheep, called alkalage, is produced by treating straw with caustic soda and adding urea and mineral solutions.

The university has given a West Australian commercial company, Bruce Rock Farm Supplies, the franchise for marketing the process.

Dr. Roy Kellaway, who headed the university team which perfected the process, said the alkalage feed can be produced for less than half the cost of hay and has all the nutrition values of top quality hay.

"Because alkalage can be used as a complete livestock food or as a supplement, we believe it has a great potential both in Australia and overseas," Kellaway said.

The scientists said the system has been designed so that one man can operate both the urea-mineral and caustic soda containers from a tractor.

"The system has been designed to produce about two tons of alkalage every 15 minutes," Kellaway said.

The university team found thousands of tax-free properties, especially in the northern part of the state.

Contributing to the jammed budget hearings this year was the Truth in Millage Bill, which established new tax notice forms showing in dollars and cents — not confusing millage rates — exactly how much tax the homeowners

School Session

DURHAM — A representative of the North Carolina School of Science and Mathematics will visit Rose High School Dec. 17 to answer questions from students about the school.

The school encourages tenth graders to attend the information session if they might be considering applying to attend the school next year. The school also invites parents to attend.

Spokesman Dennis Boyanich of Bruce Rock Farm Supplies estimates a farmer would get back his investment in three years as a result of the savings in feed costs.

Opening lead: King of ♣.

Although they lost to the United States in the finals of the World Team Championship in Port Chester, N.Y., the Pakistan team impressed observers with their skillful play of the cards. Here's an example.

Both West and North were surprisingly conservative at their first turns—the Far Eastern players showed throughout the championships that they had come to bid, not to pass. North wasn't sure whose hand it was, so he allowed himself to be "pushed" into four spades. We are not surprised that East chose to double.

Four spades doubled was a popular contract, as was the opening heart lead. Those declarers who won the ace of hearts, ruffed a heart and then led a diamond to the king and ace received a nasty surprise. East shifted to ace, king and another trump, and declarer usually ended up down two.

Masood, the Pakistan declarer, found a more elegant line. He won the ace of hearts and immediately led a low diamond. When the jack won, declarer switched to a trump. Here, too, East played three rounds of trumps, and West thought that he had discarding problems. He let go two clubs, but to hold onto his diamonds he sluffed a heart on the third trump.

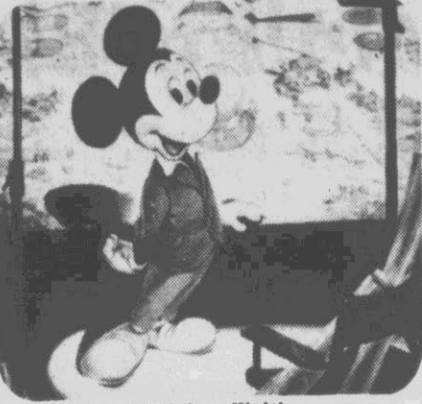

Declarer read the hand perfectly. He won the third trump in his hand and led a diamond. He called for the seven from dummy, forcing the ace! The rest was simply a mop-up operation.

East returned the queen of clubs, ruffed on the table. There followed a heart ruff, establishing dummy's ten of hearts. Thus declarer made the last three tricks with the king-queen of diamonds and ten of hearts to land his contract.

This is only the second time that Pakistan has appeared in top-level international competition. If they have more players like Masood at home, they will be looked on with respect in future world championships.

Rubber bridge clubs throughout the country use the four-deal bridge format. Do they know something you don't? Charles Goren's "Four-Deal Bridge" will teach you the strategies and tactics of this fast-paced action game that provides the cure for unending rubbers. For a copy and a scorepad, send $1.75 to "Goren-Four Deal," care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 259, Norwood, N.J. 07648. Make checks payable to Newspaperbooks.

FOCUS

'Happy Birthday, Walt!'

The creator and voice of Mickey Mouse, Walt Disney, was born 80 years ago tomorrow. An artist, film producer and entrepreneur, Disney was above all an innovator. His "firsts" include the first talking cartoon, first feature length color and sound cartoon and first 3-D color cartoon. Disney actually did very little drawing, but he closely supervised all aspects of production. For Snow White alone he used 600 artists and more than 2,000,000 drawings. His restless imagination led him on to new worlds—nature films, television, and his ultimate dream—Disneyland. When Walt Disney died in 1966, his giant empire had won 45 Academy Awards, and was earning $100 million a year.

DO YOU KNOW—What was the name of the first full-length animated movie?

THURSDAY'S ANSWER—Sen. Robert LaFollette faced expulsion proceedings for his anti-war views.

Annual Doll Tea

The Ladies Auxiliary of the Salvation Arm has scheduled its annual Doll Tea for Sunday from 2-5 p.m. at the Salvation Army, Farmville highway.

Over 200 dolls have been dressed by the following groups: Eastern Star, University Church of Christ, First Christian Church, Oak Star Baptist Church, Reedy Branch Baptist Church, Our Redeemer Lutheran Church, Winterville Baptist Church, Selvia Chapel Baptist Church, Hooker Memorial Christian Church, St. James United Methodist Church, Phillippi Baptist Church, Winterville Christian Church and Mount Pleasant Christian Church.

There will be ribbons awarded to first, second and third best-dressed dolls.

Some dolls will be offered for sale in order to defray the rising costs of the undressed dolls. A silver offering will be taken.

The other dolls will be given away at the Toy Shop for needy children on Dec. 21-22. Mrs. Rebina Smith is chairman of the Doll Show for 1981.

Tug-of-War Over Control Of N.C. Block Grants

By WILLIAM M. WELCH
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Gov. Jim Hunt says he has not decided whether the General Assembly's demand for control over spending of federal aid money was an encroachment on his powers.

The Hunt administration sidestepped a constitutional confrontation over separation of powers Thursday when it agreed to cooperate — at least for now — with the Legislature's position.

But John A. Williams, state budget officer and senior adviser to Gov. Jim Hunt, said the administration was reserving its right to take the Legislature to court if it decides the panel is an intrusion on the executive branch.

Hunt, at a news conference, said he had formed no opinion on whether the Legislature's action was an intrusion into his powers but was receiving advice from the attorney general.

"We're still concerned and we're still studying it," Hunt said.

Hunt sought to downplay the dimensions of their differences, saying he didn't regard the issue as a "confrontational matter." But Hunt said he would not discuss the question with legislative leaders until the administration decides its position in the dispute.

At issue are the nine federal block grants that consolidated money that previously came to the state in categories for each specific program. The broader grants cover programs ranging from education to low-income energy aid.

Although the Reagan administration has already established the grants, legislative staff analysts said the state does not know how much money is involved. Congress has not yet enacted a budget for the current federal fiscal year, so the amounts are subject to change, analysts said.

The administration told a newly formed legislative committee Thursday it would comply with a law passed by the General Assembly in October giving the panel prior approval power over any changes state agencies make in spending money from federal block grants.

At Williams' request the Joint Legislative Committee to Review Federal Block Grant Funds approved a resolution acknowledging that the administration's agreement "will in no way constitute a waiver" of its rights to challenge the committee later on constitutional grounds.

"Certainly the executive branch will attempt to comply with the requirements you've established — they are the law of the land," Williams said. But he added that "honest differences of opinion" remained to be resolved.

"There are some very real concerns about whether this might be an intrusion," Williams said in an interview. "But we're not ready to say we will not comply with these provisions. We really are studying them."

The Legislature gave the panel power to approve or disapprove changes in rules involved in the new block grants and transfers of money within the grants. The grants were set up by the Reagan administration to cover many federally financed state programs.

Hunt voiced concern when the committee was formed that it had been given powers that could be viewed as intruding on the executive branch's authority to administer the budget.

Discussion Of Mental Health

"Building Psychological Health — A Partnership between the Schools and the Community Mental Health Center" will be aired Sunday at 11 a.m. on WNCT radio.

The program features Ott Alford, Pitt County school superintendent; Dr. Delma Blinson, Greenville school superintendent; Dr. Tim Swann, coordinator of children's services at the Pitt County Mental Health Center, and Mrs. Irene Prewett, social worker at Pitt County Mental Health Center.

The discussion will focus on the roles of education and of mental health in producing productive adult citizens. The objective of and ways these two forces can cooperatively enhance the developmental growth of the individual will be explored.

SUPERSTARS

The Superstars of the Greenfield Terrace 4-H Club held its club meeting recently with 11 members attending. A new member, Monique Best, was admitted to the club during the meeting.

Members voted to retain the same slate of officers for 1982. They are: John Ward, president; Sonya Austin, vice president; Jacqueline Gray, secretary; Stanley Austin, treasurer; Sharon Glast, reporter, and Gabel Barnes, parliamentarian.
