Midwest Coated In Snow For Yuletide

By The Associated Press

A Midwest storm dumped 7 inches of traffic-snarling snow on cities in Illinois and Michigan today, while "black ice" made driving hazardous in parts of New England.

At least three people have been killed in weather-related accidents in the Midwest since Tuesday and three school buses have skidded off the highway, injuring several students.

Forecasters said "weird" weather conditions spawned a storm system in the Midwest that produced the threat of a tornado as well as snow. Tornadoes generally occur during spring and summer.

In the West, authorities warned of avalanches after up to 5 feet of new snow buried parts of the Rocky Mountains on Tuesday.

Driving snow coming down at the rate of 2 inches an hour left 5 inches in Detroit and across southeastern Michigan early today.

Officials in Grayling, Mich., blamed slippery driving conditions for a school bus accident that hospitalized seven 5-year-olds and the bus driver.

The latest fatality occurred in Illinois, where up to 7 inches of new snow was on the ground and temperatures had dropped into the teens. Jerry McKay, 24, of Danville was killed this morning when a Jeep in which he was riding hit an icy spot on Interstate 24. McKay was struck by a snowplow blade mounted on the Jeep when he and another passenger were thrown out of the vehicle.

Freezing rain caused hazardous driving conditions in western and central Massachusetts today, forcing a number of schools to close. Mark King, a spokesman for the state Department of Public Works, described the conditions as "black ice," clear ice on the asphalt highways which motorists don't notice until they put on their brakes.

Meanwhile, a mix of rain and snow chilled the mid-Atlantic coast.

The road from Salt Lake City to the Alta and Snowbird ski resorts 20 miles away was closed Tuesday by natural avalanches and by the man-made kind, set off to prevent bigger snowslides.

"I'm sure a few people had planes to catch," said Barbara Altum of Alta, which reported 56 inches of new snow in 24 hours. "But I don't think they minded. I saw a lot of smiles today."

Utah's Salt Lake Valley got up to 18 inches of snow as the frigid Wasatch Mountains wrung moisture from air that had passed over the Great Salt Lake. More snow was predicted for today.

An avalanche warning was issued for the northern Utah mountains and snowpacked road surfaces melted and refroze in some areas of the valley.

Begin Wins Test Vote On U.S. Policy

JERUSALEM (AP) — Prime Minister Menachem Begin's government defeated a no-confidence motion in Parliament today over its handling of deteriorating U.S.-Israeli relations.

The vote was 57-47. Begin's coalition plus the three-member, right-wing Tehiya (Renaissance) Party and the two-member, right-of-center TELEM faction opposed the motion.

Supporting it were the Labor Party, the four-member Communist faction and the centrist Shinui (Change) Party, which introduced the motion before the Israeli Parliament. Sixteen deputies did not vote.

Begin, still recuperating from a broken bone in his hip joint, came to Parliament in a wheelchair to vote against the motion.

Foreign Minister Yitzhak Shamir, defended the government against the motion, vowed that Israel would "guard its freedom of action at all costs" and called U.S. punitive measures for Israel's annexation of the Golan Heights "intolerable."

The two-man Shinui (Change) Party called for the vote, questioning Begin's verbal attack on the United States. The Reagan administration suspended its recently signed strategic cooperation agreement with Israel to protest the Jewish state's annexation last week of the Syrian Golan Heights.

Shinui's Amnon Rubenstein, introducing the no-confidence motion today, accused Begin of sweeping Israel between "the heights of eternal ecstasy and the abyss of despondency" in its relationship with the United States.

Begin controls 61 seats in the 120-member Knesset, Israel's Parliament.

Labor introduced the last no-confidence motion, which criticized Begin's signing of the strategic cooperation agreement as apparently sharpening Israel's differences with the Soviet Union into outright confrontation.

Begin narrowly defeated that motion 57-53 on Dec. 2.

Begin lashed out at the United States on Sunday, accusing it of trying to make Israel a "vassal state" or a "banana republic." He said the United States, in suspending the strategic cooperation agreement, had virtually killed it. Israel, he said, had no need for the treaty.

"Israel has lived 3,700 years without it, and it will continue to live another 3,700 years without it," he said of the alliance.

Shinui said Begin's remarks could cause "immeasurable political and economic damage" to Israel.

Suspension of the agreement was the latest in what Begin considered a series of slights dealt the Israelis by Washington.

He protested the alleged anti-Semitism that accompanied the Reagan administration's fight for congressional approval of the sale of sophisticated radar planes to Saudi Arabia. Israel opposed the sale.

Begin also objected to America's withholding several warplanes last summer following Israel's bombings of Iraq's nuclear reactor in Baghdad and a Palestine Liberation Organization headquarters in Beirut. It was the first time the United States had stopped shipment to Israel of planes already in the pipeline for delivery.

Israel Radio quoted Begin's office as saying the prime minister had received hundreds of cables supporting the Golan annexation, including some from "Christian organizations representing millions of people." Those organizations were not named.

Israel captured the Golan in the 1967 Arab-Israeli War, along with East Jerusalem, the West Bank of the Jordan River, the Gaza Strip and the Sinai.

Reagan Studies Measures For Poland, USSR

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan, preparing to address the nation tonight on the situation in Poland, is weighing "an array of political, diplomatic, security and economic measures" the United States might take against the Warsaw government and the Soviet Union.

Reagan planned to confer with his national security advisers today — the third meeting in three days — before making an address from the Oval Office at 9 p.m. EST. The speech is to be broadcast by the three major television networks.

White House counselor Edwin Meese III indicated that options being considered included steps against the Soviet Union.

"I would say we are looking at every possible step that needs to be taken either in relation to the Polish regime or in relation to the Soviet Union to prevent the situation from getting worse, and hopefully to work for improvements as far as the Polish people are concerned," Meese said Tuesday.

Meese and other administration officials would not discuss the options or say whether Reagan actually would announce any U.S. action. "It may just be a toughening of the rhetoric," one official said privately.

Meese said the administration was "looking at an array of political, diplomatic, security and economic measures that might be taken" in connection with the events in Poland. "We will consider anything at any time that may be necessary."

Asked whether the United States is considering suspending talks with the Soviet Union on limiting medium range missiles in Europe, Meese said the administration was proceeding with the negotiations because they are in the best interest of world peace.

"If at any time we find that the conduct of the Soviets is such that it is not in our interests to go forward with those talks ... then we would make that decision," Meese said.

Officials noted that provisions of the farm bill signed by Reagan on Tuesday make it virtually impossible to impose a grain embargo against the Soviet Union unless all trade is blocked.

Fear Up To 70,000 People In Poland Arrested And Detained

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) — A Polish-born American professor visiting Poland when martial law was declared was quoted today as saying that up to 70,000 people have been arrested and that some may be held in former Nazi concentration camps.

Professor Jan Kott was quoted by the conservative Neue Zürcher Zeitung newspaper of Zurich as saying that friends also told him that the prisoners were kept under "catastrophic conditions" in windowless shacks and tents in subzero temperatures. Treatment by guards was described as brutal, according to the newspaper's Berlin-based East European correspondent.

Kott was quoted as saying that the largest camps were near Olsztyn in northern Poland, on the Baltic peninsula of Hel and near Szczecin, also a former German town. Two of the detention centers were believed to be former Nazi concentration camps, Kott was reported to have said.

Kott, who returned from Warsaw last Sunday, also was quoted as saying that the worst cases of ill treatment were blamed on specially trained internal security forces, named Zomo. Slogans painted on the walls of Warsaw likened the Zomo to the Nazi Gestapo secret police, he was quoted as saying.

Zomo members, according to the report, were seen by Kott as pulling "wounded workers out of ambulances despite protests by doctors and nurses and then beat the defenseless men with long wooden sticks and kicked them."

Several hospitals were stormed by Zomo members seeking blood plasma for the treatment of police injured in street battles, Kott was quoted as saying.

The newspaper said Kott left Poland in 1968 and was now teaching dramatics at an unidentified American university. It said he had been invited as a guest of honor to a congress in Warsaw. Twenty Poles attending the congress were arrested since martial law was declared Dec. 13, according to the newspaper.

Kott also was quoted as saying that Polish combat divisions kept a low profile and that the army's street patrols were "young farmers who have no idea what is going on ... who suffer from the cold and are underfed. The population feels pity for them and gives them food and cigarettes."

Suspect 'Hoax' In Dozier Call

ROME (AP) — Italian police said a telephone call claiming kidnapped U.S. Brig. Gen. James L. Dozier's body would be found was probably a hoax, possibly an attempt by the Red Brigades to heighten tension over his disappearance.

On Tuesday, the Beirut office of the Italian news agency ANSA received an anonymous phone call from someone who said Dozier's body would be found in an Italian village Tuesday night.

Italian police, who have reported no clues in Dozier's disappearance, said they took the call seriously at first, but as the night passed, they began to suspect it was a hoax.

"We don't believe the call," said an Italian police official who asked not to be identified. "It's probable that they're doing this to distract the police."

Police said they arrested a man they described as insane who they believe called the Trento office of ANSA and dictated a message in German about the kidnapping. Police said they didn't take the message seriously, and the man apparently had no connection with the Beirut call.

In Verona, local church officials celebrated a special Mass on Tuesday to pray for Dozier. His wife and two children attended, as did several NATO officials.

Dozier, 50, the highest-ranking American at NATO headquarters in the northern Italian city of Verona, was kidnapped from his home on Thursday by armed men posing as plumbers. His wife, Judith, was bound and gagged.

The kidnapers have listed no demands, but have said he will be tried by the Red Brigades.

Italian and American officials said they would not negotiate with the terrorists if demands were made.

"The Red Brigades claim the responsibility for the sentencing to death and the execution of the American general James Dozier, found guilty by a people's tribunal," the Beirut caller, speaking in Arabic, told ANSA. He said he was speaking on behalf of the "Red Brigades of Baader-Meinhof."

Baader-Meinhof is a West German guerrilla group that some prosecutors suspect has ties to the Red Brigades.

"There is no need to call the American CIA for help in trying to liberate the imperialist American pig," the caller said. "The body of the American pig will be found in a village in the countryside and the police will find it soon after 2000 hours (8 p.m.) Italian time."

ANSA said the caller did not make clear whether Dozier already had been killed.

The Red Brigades in the past have issued statements saying a kidnap victim was killed, and then retracted them and said the victim was still alive.

TRIBUTE TO AMBULANCE PERSONNEL

Due to recent illness, my mother has required a series of treatments at the Radiation Therapy Department of Craven County Memorial Hospital, New Bern. The first two trips, made by private auto, were quite painful and exhausting for her. Because of this, further transportation was provided by the Pitt County Ambulance Service. These trips were far less uncomfortable for her. My mother, my family and I would like to praise the Pitt County Ambulance Service for the services they have provided and for the courtesy, compassion and cheerfulness of their personnel, especially Nancy Bell and Rose Wilkinson. By ROBERT BURNS
AP Business Writer

American workers' spendable income rose modestly in November, while inflation as measured by the Consumer Price Index held to a moderate pace, the government said.

The government also issued a mildly encouraging report Tuesday on orders for new durable goods from U.S. factories, although economists warned such orders often are unreliable as a monthly measure of economic activity.

The Labor Department said spendable earnings rose 0.3 percent in November after adjusting for inflation and taxes. That compared with a gain of 0.5 percent in October and a drop of 1.6 percent in September.

The Commerce Department said new orders for durable goods from U.S. factories rose 1.1 percent last month. That compared with a drop of 9.8 percent in October.

Economists said the most significant measure within the durable goods figures was a 10.5 percent increase in new orders for non-defense capital goods, such as farm and industrial machinery. Those orders tumbled 8.8 percent in October.

"It does reflect a fairly optimistic view by businessmen that there will be a turnaround in the economy," said Ben E. Laden, chief economist at the investment firm of T. Rowe Price Associates Inc. in Baltimore.

Donald Maude, a financial economist at Merrill Lynch & Co. in New York, went a step further, saying the durable goods report "does indicate that the worst of the recession is behind us." But he cautioned that such monthly reports are imprecise and often revised.

At the same time, the Commerce Department provided a dose of good news for consumers in reporting its Consumer Price Index rose only 0.5 percent in November, a pace that would equal 6.2 percent if repeated for a full year.

"It's not just a blip; inflation has moderated," said Robert Ortner, chief economist at the Commerce Department.

The CPI showed food costs almost unchanged from October, while clothing prices slipped 0.2 percent. Housing costs rose 0.4 percent, transportation costs gained 0.8 percent, and entertainment prices rose 0.7 percent. The figures are adjusted for seasonal variations in prices.

With the relatively low November inflation figure, inflation for 1981 is almost certain to be less than 10 percent and the lowest in at least three years.

Laden said he expected inflation to run at 5 percent to 6 percent in the first quarter of 1982 before increasing at a faster pace later in the year.

The financial markets shrugged off the economic reports. Stock prices were narrowly mixed in active trading, with the Dow Jones average of 30 industrials off 1.14 points to 871.96. In the bond market, prices were slightly lower and interest rates rose moderately in relatively quiet activity

Holiday Buffet

If you're planning to serve cold cuts at a holiday buffet — make sure they're fresh and chilled. And don't allow them to stand at room temperature too long.

In fact, you may wish to prepare several trays of food — so that some food may be left in the refrigerator until the first tray of meats is used. Then bring on a fresh supply. This way, meats will stay cold and bacteria won't have a chance to grow.

If you're serving salads — shrimp, chicken or something similar — remember they are highly perishable. So pack the serving dish in cracked ice — or use small serving dishes and refill often from the refrigerator. You'll want to use the same precautions with deviled eggs, cheese and sour cream dip.

On holidays — or anytime large groups get together — it isn't unusual to run out of refrigerator space and perhaps become a bit careless in the way you handle food. But, if you keep in mind that bacteria can cause food poisoning, you can prevent errors in handling, preparation and serving.

It adds up to this. All perishable foods, such as cream pies, seafoods and dishes made with eggs, fish, meat and poultry should be kept cold, that is, below forty degrees. And you should never let them stand at room temperature for more than two hours.

By the same token, you should keep hot foods hot, that is, at least 140 degrees. No doubt about it. A holiday buffet is fun, but careful planning is important, too.

Fear Missing Surfer Killed By Great Shark

MONTEREY, Calif. (AP) — A great white shark up to 20 feet long and weighing as much as two tons may have killed a missing surfer, say marine experts who examined a bloodstained surfboard that had an 18-inch chunk bitten off. Toothmarks in the board indicated the attack was definitely the work of an enormous great white, Dan Miller of the state Department of Fish and Game said Tuesday. The creature might be the largest great white ever recorded on the West Coast, he said.

Surfer Lewis Boren, 25, was listed as missing while blood on his board was analyzed to determine whether it's his, the Monterey County Sheriff's Department said. Last seen Saturday while surfing just north of Pebble Beach, Boren was reported missing when he failed to show up for work Monday. His board and the fragment washed ashore Sunday.

The size of the bite taken out of the surfboard was "very impressive," Miller said. "It's the largest I've ever seen."

He estimated the shark was at least 18½ feet, and possibly 20 feet, long. The longest great white shark noted in West Coast waters was an 18½-foot creature caught off Santa Barbara. In other parts of the world, great whites up to 40 feet long have been reported.

Wary surfers stayed out of the water on the south end of Monterey Bay on Monday and Tuesday.

"It is certainly not surprising that a great white shark would bite a surfboard, especially when the sharks are increasing in abundance on the California coastline," said John McCosker, director of San Francisco's Steinhart Aquarium.

Seven previous shark attacks in local waters have been reported since record-keeping began in 1926. Only one was fatal. Miller has documented 49 unprovoked attacks since 1926 in California and Oregon, including four fatalities.

Holmes Charged In Four Slayings

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Pornographic film star John C. Holmes has pleaded innocent to charges of murdering four people whose bodies were found bludgeoned to death July 1 in a Laurel Canyon house.

At his arraignment Tuesday, Holmes, 37, also got a new lawyer when Municipal Judge Nancy Brown substituted Earl Hanson for Holmes' previous attorney, Howard W. Gillingham.

Holmes at first objected to the switch, but later concurred after Ms. Brown explained the decision to remove Gillingham from the defense by citing Hanson's extensive experience in multiple murder cases.

"This court recognizes the fact that Mr. Gillingham is a competent attorney," Ms. Brown said, "but it is the court's belief that Mr. Hanson, based on his past experience in this kind of case, can give this particular defendant the kind of representation which he must have."

Deputy District Attorney Ronald S. Coen has said he will seek the death penalty against Holmes on the four murder counts.

Ms. Brown set a preliminary hearing Jan. 26, and ordered that Holmes continue to be held without bail.

Ms. Brown, sitting in for Municipal Judge Samuel Mayerson, had ignored protests by Gillingham earlier as she substituted Hanson.

Mayerson had appointed Gillingham as Holmes' counsel on Dec. 9, postponing arraignment to give the lawyer time to study the case.

Hanson said he was "absolutely dumbfounded" at the switch, adding, "I've never met the man before today."

After the arraignment, Hanson was asked why Holmes initially had objected to his appointment. Hanson suggested Holmes was caught off guard by Ms. Brown's decision.

"When things were explained to him, he elected to go along with the court's plans," Hanson said.

Holmes was arrested Nov. 30 in North Miami, Fla., on a warrant for failing to appear in Santa Monica on grand theft and stolen property charges. He was rearrested for investigation of the murders Dec. 5 and returned to Los Angeles.

Police have speculated the murders may be connected with a robbery two days earlier at the home of Adel "Eddie Nash" Nasrallah, a Hollywood nightclub owner arrested last month on charges of possessing cocaine for sale.

Nasrallah's live-in bodyguard, Gregory Diles, 33, had been booked for investigation of murder in the Laurel Canyon case, but the district attorney declined to file charges, citing a lack of evidence.

The Laurel Canyon victims were Joy Miller, 46, who rented the $175,000 house; William Deverel, 44, who lived with Mrs. Miller; Barbara Lee Richardson, 22, of Sacramento and Ronald Launius, 37, of Tujunga.

Launius' 29-year-old wife, Susan, survived a torn neck and head wounds from the attack in which one of her fingertips was cut off.

Holmes' estranged wife, Sharon, seeking a divorce after 17 years of marriage, has said Holmes, in debt because of drug use, had admitted being in the Laurel Canyon house on the day of the killings.

Collision

Vehicles driven by Syble Bullock Rawls of Robersonville, and Lewis Henry Griffin of Route 2, Trenton, collided about 5:35 p.m. Tuesday at the intersection of Memorial Drive and Dickinson Avenue.

Police Department investigators estimated damage to the Rawls car at $700, and set damage to the truck driven by Griffin at $25.

Head Start Should Stay

There's talk in Washington the Head Start program is among the endangered species. We hope not.

Health and Human Services Secretary Richard Schweiker is concerned over possibility Head Start funds will be relegated to the community services block grant, meaning individual states will be responsible for the degree of priority (and sums) given to Head Start.

Schweiker is obviously worried the states will not be as concerned as he is over the Head Start program. So maybe it's time for a voice from the "grass roots" to let legislators and educators know Head Start is widely regarded as one of the good things to come out of Washington.

Granted, there are many families with children who do not need the shaping of lives the Head Start provides; but for those who do need it, and there are many, the program is a godsend.

Our society includes a large proportion of parents and future parents not-too-well equipped to give their children the kind of early guidance they need to participate in the "equal opportunity" they should be entitled to as adults.

The pre-school training of Head Start is not a cure-all in that direction, but it is a step toward implanting a desire to learn and developing abilities to learn.

If Head Start money is allocated to a "block grant," we trust responsible Tar Heels will see fit to at least keep the program going at its present level or even broaden it.

Head Start is a modestly shining hope to break the cycle of poverty: not merely in the pocketbook sector, but poverty of the spirit, of the mind and in the art of living.

Construction Slack Here, Too

We wish it were so, a recent Time magazine article which showed Greenville, N. C. as an area where construction jobs were going begging.

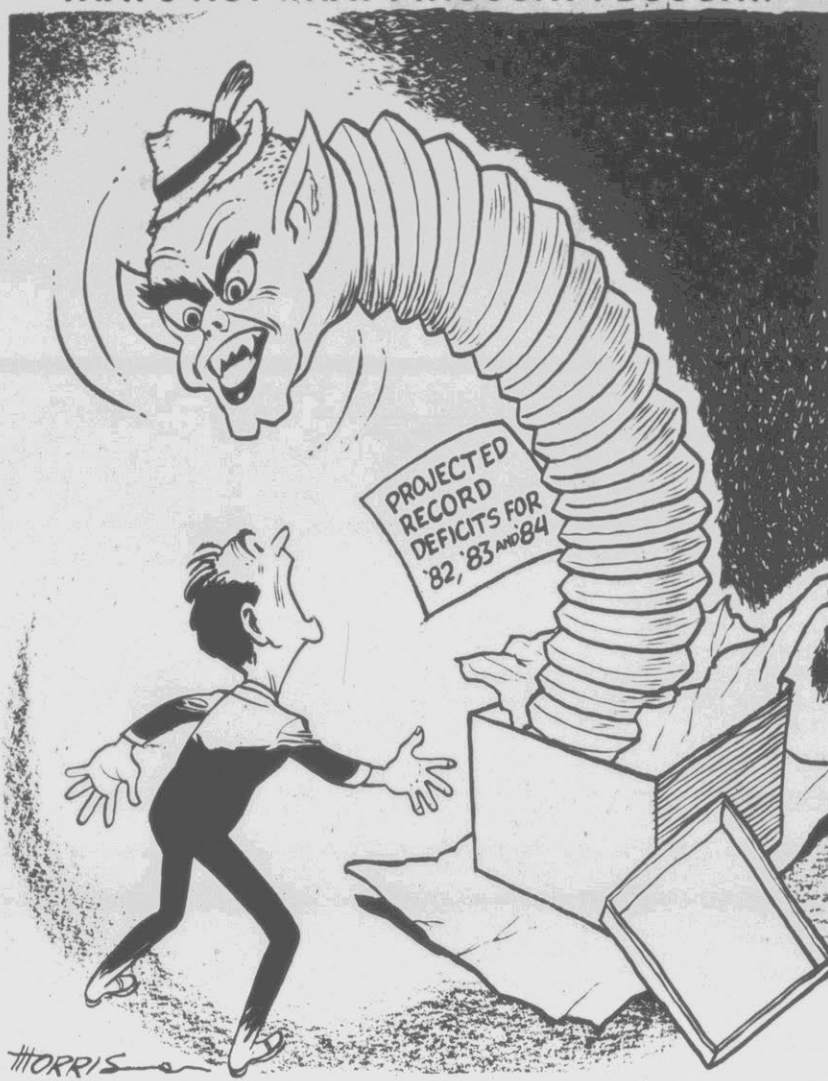

There might have been such a demand a few months back but not now, according to authorities.

Jim Hannon, manager of the Employment Security Commission, says construction workers are looking for jobs here.

On the whole Pitt County is faring better than many areas, but it would be a shame to lead persons looking for construction work here when the jobs are not available.

The Alligator Is Dead

The alligator, once the symbol of good breeding, status, and Affluence, is dead. It has been laughed away in recent "preppie" satire, by young people who have no respect for tradition or the establishment which has made this country what it is today.

When I was a boy, the one thing I always dreamed of was wearing an alligator on my tennis shirt. In those days you couldn't just go into a store and buy one — you had to be born to it.

The best and brightest wore alligators. It was an unspoken badge of honor reserved for the finest families in America.

The shirts, imported from France, could only be found in the most exclusive stores in the United States, and you had to produce references from three people who owned alligators on their shirts before the salesman was permitted to sell you one.

When you saw a man with an alligator on the left side of his chest (women were forbidden to wear them before World War II), you knew he was somebody. He walked with assurance, ignoring the stares of lesser mortals. On the tennis court he always got his first serve in; his backhand was impeccable. He hit his forehand with the confidence of a person who knew who he was, and what his class stood for.

He was considered by parents as the most eligible catch for their daughter. A young man entitled to wear an alligator would be a winner all his life — and if he wasn't, he would always have a trust fund from his grandfather to get him through the tough times.

Only those educated in our finest prep schools and private colleges dared wear the revered animal.

Those of us who came from the other side of the tracks knew no matter how much wealth we accumulated, or how much fame we achieved, the alligator would never be ours.

This never stopped me from having fantasies about it. I dreamed someday that I would be walking across the campus at the University of Southern California, and some tanned fraternity man, whose father had made it in real estate, would tap me on the shoulder, hand me a green alligator and whisper, "You are now one of us."

It never happened, of course, because in those days people had standards.

No one knows exactly when the symbol of the alligator went downhill. Some blame the French who got greedy and started making more alligator shirts than there were people worthy of wearing them. Others say it came about when the Izod company decided to make them for women.

Still others maintain it happened when the better country clubs rexed the rules and allowed people to play tennis and golf without wearing an alligator on their shirts.

But one cannot ignore the anti-vietnam war protests when the affluent youths turned against their parents, and replaced the alligator with a clenched fist.

When the elite found out that anyone could buy an alligator tennis shirt, they wanted nothing more to do with the symbol.

Whatever the reason, the alligator is now being sold not only on tennis shirts, but nightgowns, baby blankets, underwear and T-shirts. It is being worn by students who go to community colleges, and even kids who didn't finish high school.

The final blow for the alligator came this year, when anyone at an Ivy League college wearing one was hooted with derision and treated with scorn by his peers.

It's the end of an era for America. So far, the people who were able to prove who they were by their reason d'être.

For those of us who dreamed that someday we would play tennis in an alligator shirt, the fantasy has turned to ashes. And with good reason. Sears Roebuck is holding a sale on Alligator Jockey shorts next week.

A Time For Brzezinski

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON — Secretary of State Alexander Haig conferred with Zbigniew Brzezinski on the Polish crisis for one hour in the State Department Dec. 16, the first time he has sought advice in a foreign crisis from Jimmy Carter's national security adviser.

Polish-born Brzezinski, who was under continuous attack by soft-line liberals in his own Democratic party as an anti-Soviet hardliner during his White House duties, has strong views on how the U.S. should deal with the imposition of martial law in Poland. Brzezinski believes that the martial law powers ordered into force by Gen. Wojciech Jaruzelski are as harsh as those imposed by the German Nazis when Hitler occupied Poland in 1939.

Brzezinski's advice to Haig is not known. The fact that Haig invited him in for their long talk, however, indicates that Haig is moving toward a harder U.S. line against the Polish strongman and his Soviet backers.

Richards Survives

A senior staff meeting at the White House the evening of Dec. 11 decided that Richard Richards will stay on as Republican national chairman at least for the next several months and probably through the 1982 elections.

Michael K. Deaver, White House deputy chief of staff, agreed with the president's political aides that Richards had put his foot in his mouth so frequently that he should be replaced at once, before pining for the 1983 campaign is too far advanced. But mes Baker III, the chief of staff, decided that amidst so much apparent disarray in the administration, Richards should stay.

Baker's decision may have been determined by reluctance to fire Richards' a longtime Reaganite, while hiring Rich Bond as deputy national chairman. Bond was a key political operative in candidate George Bush's 1980 campaign against Reagan. Earlier, on Dec. 11, Richards had protested to Baker that Bond was being installed as the White House man at national party headquarters.

Allen's Party

The large turnout for that Dec. 16 luncheon honoring Richard V. Allen, who is on "administrative leave" from his White House post, did not help his cause inside the White House, but it bolstered the spirits of the witty national security assistant.

The fault was not Allen's, but some White House aides — particularly those close to Chief of Staff James Baker III — resented cracks by Allen's conservative friends aimed directly at Baker. White House staffers also told us that if President Reagan viewed the luncheon as a pressure move to get Allen reinstated, it would hurt — not help — his longtime friend.

Will Allen be invited back? The odds are strongly, but not yet definitively, against it. Leading contenders are U.N. Ambassador Jeane Kirkpatrick and Deputy Secretary of State William Clark, but no quick decision is expected.

A Lance Comeback

Bert Lance, whose forced resignation as budget director in 1977 began the Carter administration's long string of troubles, will be the man to beat if he enters next year's race for governor of Georgia.

Insiders have felt that Lance's decision to build a mansion in his hometown of Calhoun, Ga. suggests little interest in the governorship. But Lance became a statewide hero in winning acquittal on charges of federal banking violations, and therefore needs no big preliminary buildup. He has told friends he will wait until the last minute before deciding whether to run.

A footnote: Jack Watson, the last chief of staff in the Carter White House, has been running hard for governor of Georgia. But he still has lots of ground to make up and must overcome his liberal image, no asset in Georgia.

To the editor:

As a former student at the Greenville Middle School, I was disturbed to see that the school board had recommended the enclosure of the walls in that institution. When I attended the Middle School, I found the four-classroom pods to be quite refreshing (unlike the drab, lifeless rooms present in junior and senior high school). The board's apparent motive was because of the noise level due to open classrooms. But, I found that concentration was interrupted rarely. The open rooms, in fact, helped me because teachers and students within the same pod often shared ideas together. This situation also allowed separate classrooms to work on group projects together, making the students' attitudes toward long-term projects more positive. I strongly feel that the factors previously presented have helped my term in junior and senior high school immensely.

Mrs. Shank is to be commended for her courage and perception.

Little To Ho, Ho, Ho About

By JOHN CUNIFF

AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — Hope is the mood that fits Christmas this year. It should, as they say, be the season for jolliness too, but it's hard to laugh as your own misfortune. But hope — you can depend on it.

You need it too, because the economic news is depressing. Unemployment is rising, businesses are failing, inflation hangs on like a boarder who won't pay the rent, and the federal budget deficit is on a rampage.

Shocks come regularly. Three months ago almost all the big economic thinkers, including those in the White House and the Federal Reserve Board, would have thought you mad to forecast a Christmas recession.

But the recession is here, despite the assurances of the Fed and the White House, and the independent economists and Wall Street seers who make fortunes these days by revising their forecasts every other week.

The jobless rate seems headed to 9 percent in 1982, and if it stays in that area for a year — with around 9.5 million unemployed — you'll be hearing and seeing comparisons made with the Great Depression of the 1930s. Not that matters will be as bad; simply that little worse will be found in the records since that late and unlamented decade.

At the same time, Americans remain confronted with housing problems and relatively high interest rates and inflation that won't let go and federal budget deficits that might double the roughly $50 billion level President Reagan inherited and about which he made such a do.

What Americans at Christmas time have to wonder about is whether the great economic experiment, one that never was or could have been tested in a laboratory environment, will work out as promised.

That it hasn't produced great results to date isn't the whole story, of course. Reagan didn't promise heaven in a year or even in four, and his program is only weeks old. But there have been unsettling signs.

Can, for example, the transfer of economic power from the federal to local and state governments and to the private sector be accomplished? Is the Fed's pursuit of a restrictive monetary policy at odds with the Reagan administration's industrial expansion goals?

That said and done, hope enters the picture. If the administration can fulfill its promises, and if outside events such as war remain out of the picture, it could indeed be an economically successful decade.

The control of inflation, high as any other of the president's goals, would mean control also of the erosion of faith in the dollar, which is, if you think about it, an erosion of faith in the country itself.

It would mean that a dollar earned bought a dollar's worth of goods. In all likelihood it would mean that a dollar could be saved with some assurance that in the future it would be able to deliver equivalent value.

such as a secure retirement or the education of children.

If the experiment succeeds it almost certainly would provide more stability, and stability has been almost absent from the economy in recent years. Without it, contracts of any sort are difficult to make. Plans can be made — by businesses, banks, individuals — only with the unsettling feeling that they constitute a gamble rather than a program.

Over the past decade those graph lines that depict the ups and downs of the economy have drawn closer together, depicting vividly in peaks and valleys the inconsistencies that upset plans and projections.

What a great feeling to have an economic roadmap that lets you see around the next turn, that lets you plan, that lets you invest with some degree of confidence that you won't be a sucker for having faith.

It's something to hope for, and not even the economy can steal that from you.

responsibly balanced budget and moderate money growth than in liberal deficit spending and easy monetary policy.

"The real promise of cheaper money, sustainable prosperity, social progress, national security and personal liberty for the future lies in a balanced mixture of both fiscal and monetary restraint for a sufficient time to break the back of inflation," Medlin pointed out. In sum, he explained, it took many years to create the free money supply growth and wild borrowing in both the private and governmental sectors to create the imbalance and the wild printing of unbacked greenbacks. It will take time and pain to bring out a cure.

Opposition

Just the thing which Medlin warns against is taking place in the halls of Congress, in governor's offices, and in state legislatures. Efforts to trim federal spending, balance the budget, cut the deficit and restore fiscal balance are slamming into harsh denunciation from Reagan opponents, with most of the criticism couched in terms of the harm which will befall

Other Editors Say Final Measure

(Goldsboro News-Argus)

School officials may well be justified in their criticism of an N.C. Center for Public Research report on teachers instructing out of their fields.

Local school officials point out that there may be a difference between "out-of-field" and "unqualified". A teacher may be well backgrounded in a specific subject but still not be formally certified in that field.

They argue that the Center for Public Research report could cause undue alarm among citizens of the state and that it was based on interpretations reflecting a lack of understanding.

The final measure of a teacher, of course, should not be what appears on the certificate but what is imparted to the minds of those in his or her classroom.

Degrees and certificates are essential criteria in considering people for teaching positions. They provide disclosure of background and formal exposure to the subject matter. But some people may have a wall papered with PhD's and be totally ineffective in the classroom.

The Center of Public Research report is worth attention; but it should be regarded more as a question than as a conclusive answer. The answer must be based on assessments of individual teachers. This can best be done by principals, parents and by students. The public presumes that this is a continuing process. If it isn't, it should be.

Strength For Today

LONELINESS NOT INSURMOUNTABLE

Loneliness is one of the tragic realities of life. Perhaps a loved one whose companionship can never be replaced died years ago. Perhaps one has to live in an out-of-the-way place. Undoubtedly the most poignant suffering from loneliness is experienced by those who know that their personalities are not particularly attractive. So they go through life wishing they had friends and knowing they have very few.

Yet there are many lonely people who are radiantly happy. These are the folks who take hold of an unpleasant situation and make it work for their benefit. They may read widely and become well-versed in some important subject. Or they may acquire some new skills. More important, they may join organizations and participate in their activities, particularly those designed to meet the needs of the unfortunate.

Under these circumstances the emptiness and alienation of loneliness is replaced by a full and meaningful life. — Elisha Douglass and human nature eventually prevail and do the job for us in disorderly, dispassionate and painful ways if we do not initiate it ourselves in a deliberate, realistic and socially responsible manner," Medlin said.

Reagan's program represents a fundamental change in direction which should produce beneficial results — given time.

"The catch is that the completion...may require more time and involve more unpleasantness than the American people or political leaders are ready or willing to endure." But no turnback now to easy money and big spending for temporary relief would only delay the final "economic desert and an even more painful experience," Medlin said.

ty in fielding questions over CBS's "Face the Nation" Dec. 6 has rekindled interest in dumping him as Senate Democratic leader for the new Congress convening in January 1983.

Byrd could not articulate his party's position substantiating complaints by fellow Democratic senators that he has proved a poor spokesman for the Senate minority. Before facing any purge effort, however, Byrd will encounter in 1982 the first serious Republican challenge against him in west Virginia since his first election to the Senate in 1958.

The most obvious alternative to Byrd would be the Senate's No. 2 Democrat: Sen. Alan Cranston of California, the Senate minority whip. But some Democratic senators prefer a relatively fresher face — such as Sen. Dale Bumpers of Arkansas.

Seeks Fill Energy Need

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Sen. John East, R-N.C., has introduced legislation designed to expedite "nationally significant energy projects" through the federal regulatory process, thus helping to reduce American dependence on foreign oil.

The "Energy Mobilization Act" would create a Council on Energy Mobilization to set deadlines for federal agency action on priority energy projects, and allow the president to suspend, for up to 10 years, the application of new federal regulations to priority projects.

East, a member of the Senate Energy Committee, said, "Until now, there has been no effort to coordinate the many different licensing procedures required by different federal agencies for energy projects. The resulting procedural delays have only contributed to our prolonged dependence on foreign oil. We need an effective means to cut through a lot of the regulatory red tape without violating the applicable laws."

East's bill does not grant authority to override state and local laws. "Nor does this bill ignore environmental protections. It merely requires that environmental concerns be addressed expeditiously," East said.

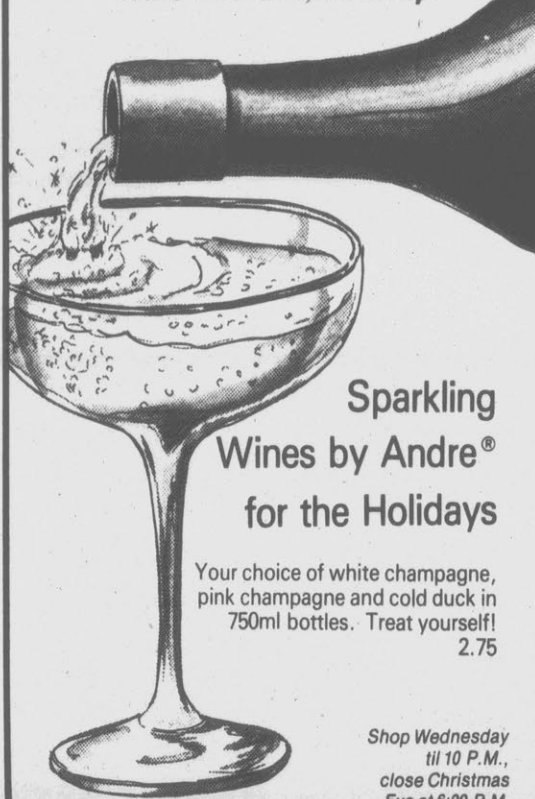

The "fast-track" provisions, designed to increase energy production and hopefully lower costs for consumers, do not apply to nuclear energy.

More Turning To The Soup Kitchens

By MARY ANNE RHYNE
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — With unemployment levels rivaling those of the Depression era and federal aid shrinking, jobless workers and families cut from welfare rolls are turning to soup kitchens and missions throughout North Carolina.

"People who have a lot of pride about coming for help are now coming more than they would," said Capt. Howard Bratcher, commanding officer of the Salvation Army in Raleigh.

He said 1,000 people in Raleigh have applied so far this year for emergency help, compared to 700 people last year. Bratcher says he hasn't seen so many people seeking aid since the recession in the mid-1970s.

"It scares us right now," said Maj. Herbert Bergen, commanding officer of the Salvation Army in Charlotte. "We hope some of these folks we've seen in November and December will somehow be able to take care of themselves by the time warmer weather sets in."

Bergen says there have been so many requests for emergency aid — money for utility bills and rent, food and clothing — that the money has run out.

"We got as many calls for emergency assistance during November and December as we did during the previous 10 months," he said. "We got a special allocation and had spent it all by last Friday."

And he said the number of people lining up for free food and shelter has doubled.

The Labor Department reported Dec. 4 that the jobless rolls in November increased by 484,000, driving the unemployment rate to 8.4 percent, the highest since the recession of 1975.

The 9 million unemployed in November has prompted the Salvation Army to consider setting up massive, nationwide food-and-shelter programs like those it ran in the 1930s.

Capt. Carl Tilley, commanding officer for Fayetteville's Salvation Army, says he sees people who used to make ends meet with welfare money but have since been cut from the rolls. He also sees more unemployed than in the past.

"In general, over the last year or two we've been getting more young people and families," he said. "I think it's due to the job situation. In the jobs where there's a lot of turnover, work just isn't available like it used to be. We're getting people (now) who say they've always been able to find a job doing something."

Darlene Thompson, a social worker at the Asheville Salvation Army, said she's seeing more people who used to be on welfare rolls too but she speculated that it's because the social workers are referring the people to the Salvation Army.

I DO, I DO, ETC. — William S. Milligan, left, who has been diagnosed as having as many as 24 personalities, was married to Tandra Kaye Bartley, right, Tuesday at the Central Ohio Psychiatric Hospital where he is confined. Bartley said she has met his different personalities and has been accepted by them. Milligan's conviction of rape, robbery and kidnapping was overturned by reason of insanity. (AP Laserphoto)

Disclaim Sales Of Cheap Milk

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — A spokesman for IGA grocery stores in Eastern North Carolina denied the stores are selling milk below cost, which is prohibited by North Carolina law.

"The (state) milk commission stipulates that you cannot sell below your costs," said Charles L. Sutton, assistant sales manager for Quinn Wholesale and Supplies in Warsaw, which supplies all IGA stores in the eastern part of North Carolina. "We are complying with the (regulation)."

Neill B. Sinclair, assistant secretary of the milk commission, confirmed Tuesday that the commission was investigating complaints about IGA stores' low milk prices. Sinclair would not say who made the complaints.

For the last two months, IGA stores have sold milk at $1.79 a gallon. That's around 54 cents a gallon less than major supermarket chains offer.

IGA — or formally, Independent Grocery Alliance — is an affiliation of independently-owned grocery stores. Based in Chicago with regional offices in Warsaw, IGA supplies local stores and suggests prices.

IGA milk is processed by Flav-O-Rich Dairies in Durham, which sells the milk to Quinn. If the commission found Flav-O-Rich or Quinn in violation of the below-cost rule, it could suspend their operating licenses or levy fines.

"We had a question come up about (IGA milk prices) ... and we are looking into it," Sinclair said Tuesday. "Other stores had questioned whether it is a below-cost sale."

Sutton, who said the commission had notified him about the investigation, said milk prices were about the same at all IGA stores in the state.

"We at IGA feel like milk is a basic life item," he said. "We just feel like they ought to be able to get it at a reasonable price."

Sutton said the stores don't make much profit on the milk but said the prices help attract more customers. "You might say that ours is just merchandising strategy," he said.

A spokesman for Winn-Dixie said his chain uses the same strategy on other items.

"They're just using (milk) as a loss leader, just as we're using sugar," said Ivan Hardesty Jr., advertising director for Winn-Dixie in Raleigh. "Evidently, IGA is just choosing to do milk."

Union And Carolina Tel Ratify 3-Year Accord

Communications Workers of America employees of Carolina Telephone & Telegraph Co. have ratified a new three-year contract worth $18.2 million in wages and benefits, CWA and CT&T officials announced.

In addition to the wage increase, calling for 10 percent the first year, 9 percent the second year and 8 percent the third year, terms of the new contract include one additional holiday, increased company contributions to premiums for life, health and dental insurance, increased job-related travel expense allowance, and a supplemental income protection plan to be made available to certain employees in areas where an employee surplus exists, they reported.

Delbert Gordon, CWA representative who chaired the union's bargaining committee that reached agreement with company negotiators on Nov. 28, said the ballots were counted Monday. The union represents some 3,200 of CT&T's 5,400 employees.

Wayne Peterson, CT&T president, said, "I am pleased with the ratification. While there has been some public comment on the size of the increase, I am confident that our continuing increases in productivity will demonstrate to our customers that the wage increase is warranted."

CT&T, a subsidiary of United Telecommunications Inc., serves 560,000 customers in 50 of the state's 100 counties.

Saudi Prince

Defers Visit

RIYADH, Saudi Arabia (AP) — Crown Prince Fahd of Saudi Arabia has decided to postpone his scheduled visit to the United States, the official Saudi press agency reported today.

It said that Fahd had communicated his decision to President Reagan and that the two leaders would reschedule the visit.

The visit, scheduled for Jan. 19, was put off indefinitely because of what Fahd described as the "current circumstances in the Middle East in particular and the world in general," the agency quoted Fahd as saying.

These circumstances, it quoted Fahd as telling Reagan, necessitated the presence of Fahd in the kingdom at this stage. It did not elaborate.

The postponement announcement came less than two hours after Syrian President Hafez Assad left Saudi Arabia for Kuwait. Assad had held talks with King Khalid and Fahd on ways of dealing with the Israeli annexation of the Golan Heights.

Sources said that Assad was trying to get the Saudis to talk to the U.S. leadership about putting pressure on Israel to rescind the annexation of the Syrian territory captured during the 1967 Middle East war.

Knowledgeable observers in Saudi Arabia cautioned against misinterpreting Fahd's decision, stressing that U.S.-Saudi relations were not strained. They said Fahd and Reagan have been on excellent terms since the American government agreed to sell the Saudis advanced radar planes.

Wilmington Port To Honor Boycott

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP) — Longshoremen at the state port at Wilmington say they will honor a union boycott of most Polish cargo, but their actions are not expected to greatly affect Polish shipments, officials said.

Willie Sloan, president of the International Longshoremen's Association Wilmington local, said he received formal word Tuesday that the boycott had been approved and that the 350 longshoremen at Wilmington would honor it.

He said the longshoremen would not load onto ships cargo that was bound for Poland, with the exception of food and medical supplies. "We will not unload anything from Poland," Sloan said.

Bill Edwards, manager of the port at Wilmington, said he did not expect the boycott to have a major effect at the state port. He said the Polish Ocean Lines cargo amounts to less than 5 percent of the port's business.

"I don't think it's going to have very much effect at all. Most of the cargo is not going to Poland even on the Polish vessels," he said.

Terry Edwards, manager of Harrington and Co., Wilmington agents for Polish Ocean Lines, said he also did not expect the boycott to pose serious difficulty. He said most of the cargo on Polish ships through Wilmington is to or from northern European and Scandinavian ports.

Sources Say Head Start Is Unchanged

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan, keeping a promise to protect Project Head Start under his so-called "safety net", is rejecting a proposal that supporters of the popular pre-school program said was aimed at killing it, administration sources say.

Budget director David Stockman, according to reports leaked several weeks ago, had proposed putting the widely supported program into one of the "block grants" to the states over the next four years and cutting its fiscal 1983 funds to $780 million.

Reagan spent the last two weeks hearing Cabinet secretaries appeal Stockman's proposals for another round of budget cuts. White House deputy press secretary Larry Speakes said the president would complete decisions on most cuts by today.

But a source familiar with the decision said Tuesday that Reagan already has decided to keep Head Start intact and that it will get "about" the same next year as in fiscal 1982 — about $912 million.

The administration sources, who asked not to be identified, said the president also is sparing the government's chief urban development programs from Stockman's budget ax, following protests from state and local officials who feared the loss of nearly $4 billion a year in federal aid.

Among those opposing Stockman's proposed changes for Head Start was Richard S. Schweiker, secretary of Health and Human Services.

"We have developed alternative proposals which we believe are sounder ... and more likely to succeed in Congress," Schweiker said in a Dec. 4 letter to Stockman. "I believe the president appropriately placed Head Start as one of the 'safety net' programs," he added.

Opposition to Stockman's plan also surfaced in congressional offices. One House human resources subcommittee staff member, who asked not to be identified, said last week, "My guess is this subcommittee and the full committee (Education and Labor) will probably be very strongly opposed to it.

"The idea of basically phasing the program out and killing it is not only surprising but raises questions about whether you can trust the safety net," the staff member said.

The General Accounting Office gave Head Start a positive review last summer, and the program's effectiveness has been demonstrated in several studies of children who have participated since it began during the Johnson administration.

According to the administration sources, Reagan also has decided to keep Community Development Block Grants program and Urban Development Action Grants — known as UDAG — operating at an annual budget of $3.8 billion for 1983 and 1984.

Stockman wanted to slash the HUD programs to $2.6 billion in the current fiscal year, $1.3 billion for 1983 and zero in 1984.

Havana Radio Beams At U.S.

NEW YORK (AP) — Radio Havana has begun transmitting English-language programs on an AM radio frequency that a federal official says is "ideal" for reaching into the United States.

Cuba is broadcasting at 1160 kilohertz for the first time, and in the hours after midnight in the eastern United States it is possible to hear the station's programs from Radio Moscow, followed by Radio Havana's own material.

Cuba has been broadcasting in English to the United States for the last two years, but using two frequencies, 550 and 600, that are crowded with local and regional stations in the United States, making reception difficult.

Federal Communications Commission officials say that Cuba's broadcasts on the 600 kilohertz frequency had abruptly ceased about 10 days ago and a new station started up at 1160.

The only other stations on 1160 at night in the United States and Canada are KSL in Salt Lake City and WJJD in Chicago, which are weak or inaudible in the East, leaving the Cuban station in the clear.

The FCC said that the abrupt shift appeared to have been made without complying with international rules.

Richard Smith, chief of the FCC's field operations bureau, said "this is an ideal frequency for the Cubans if they want to broadcast into the United States and that's obviously what they want to do."

He said the FCC is monitoring the station.

During a broadcast around 4 a.m. Tuesday, news of the world was given on the hour, followed by a commentary on the efforts of revolutionaries to topple the Guatemalan government. There was also a contest with listeners invited to write in on the topic, "The United States and its relations with Latin America over the years." The station said the winner will get a free trip to Cuba.

The frequency switch comes amid Cuban-American disputes over radio interference. Southeastern broadcasters have complained to the U.S. government that Cuban stations are disrupting their reception, and Cuba has protested the Reagan administration's plan to beam Cuban news into Cuba from an American station.

During the mid-1960s, at the height of the civil rights movement in the United States, the Cubans operated "Radio Free Dixie," which was aimed at blacks in the South and included reports of alleged abuse against minority groups.

The English broadcasts were discontinued in the late 1960s.

Park Sheep Going Blind

YELLOWSTONE NATIONAL PARK, Wyo. (AP) — Nearly a third of the bighorn sheep at the northern end of Yellowstone National Park have gone blind in the past two weeks and some have walked off cliffs, National Park Service officials say.

Chemical contamination has been ruled out as a cause of the blindness, park officials at Mammoth said Tuesday. A bacteria similar to the one that causes pink-eye in livestock is suspected, they say.

Sandi Fowler, a Park Service technician, said several of the blind sheep have walked over cliffs between Mammoth and Gardiner, Mont., and been killed.

A count by federal biologists last week showed that 30 percent of the 90 sheep north of Mammoth were affected by some degree of blindness, Ms. Fowler said. The results of a field survey completed Tuesday were not yet available.

The problem was reported Dec. 12 by wildlife photographers who could see that the sheep's eyes were opaque and irritated, said Linda Miller of the park's information office.

Carburetor cleaner and other petroleum products spilled by employees at a Mammoth auto shop were originally suspected, but an autopsy ruled that out, Ms. Miller said.

BRITISH RECORD
LONDON (AP) — The largest personal injury award ever made in Britain ($775,232) has been given to a former model and dancing teacher confined to a wheelchair for life by a hospital blunder during the birth of her son in 1979.

Social Security Still Trying Learn If 1300 Dead

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Social Security Administration is still trying to find out whether 1,300 people listed on Medicare records as having died are really dead. Meanwhile, it is sending each of them a check every month.

Social Security Commissioner John A. Svahn said he is certain the agency paid benefits to "hundreds" of dead people this month. He just doesn't know yet who they were.

The inspector general of Svahn's parent agency, the Department of Health and Human Services, revealed three months ago that some people listed as dead on Medicare records had continued to get Social Security checks for as long as 15 years.

Although the Medicare records are handled by Social Security, no one had bothered to tell the benefit side about the deaths reported to the Medicare branch.

Svahn, who frequently has said Social Security's computers are in serious disrepair, said in an interview, "The trouble with data processing is once you get something as big and cumbersome as we've got here, you can't put in fixes like that, so you generate all those cases and you end up doing it manually."

"I feel certain that in the December check, we sent out a number of checks to people who are deceased," said Svahn. He added that the number was "hundreds."

A spokesman said later a review initially showed that 8,000 people listed as dead on Medicare records were receiving benefits. Some 5,000 deaths have been confirmed and benefits stopped since the review started a couple of months ago, 1,700 people were found to be still alive and 1,300 are still getting checks "pending further investigation," said John Trolinger.

He said the agency has confirmed overpayments of $28 million to the dead since 1966, and suspects the overpayments will reach $35 million when the remaining cases are cleared up. Three months ago, the agency said it suspected the loss could run as high as $60 million.

It has already gotten some uncashed checks back from survivors who said they tried to tell Social Security their relative had died, but were ignored. In some other cases, relatives are suspected of fraudulently cashing the checks.

Svahn said the agency YOU CAN SAVE money by shopping for bargains in the Classified Ads.

could not cut off benefits to anyone without verifying that they were dead. Some of the Medicare records were wrong, he said, because hospital administrators put a patient's release date in a space for date of death.

Fuel Cell Problems Won't Delay Third Flight Of Space Shuttle

By HARRY F. ROSENTHAL
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The space agency is awaiting a thorough examination of the space shuttle Columbia's electricity-producing fuel cells before setting a date for its next launch. But officials say the still-unresolved cell failure on the second flight will not delay the third. The shuttle's three fuel cells — one a replacement for the unit that failed — were removed at Cape Canaveral, Fla., and flown to the manufacturer's plant in Connecticut for a complete dismantling.

Engineers are looking for corrosion similar to that found in the cell that went bad and caused the shuttle to return home after only two days in orbit instead of the planned five.

"Inspection of the failed cell disclosed a buildup of aluminum hydroxide in the aspirator of the hydrogen-water separator pump," said Maj. Gen. James Abrahamson, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's administrator for the first reusable space-craft program.

The aspirator is a small suction tube that pulls water out of the area where oxygen and hydrogen react to create electricity. The water — a byproduct of the electrical process — flooded the fuel cell and caused its shutdown.

"We don't know the source of the material, where it came from, or what caused it," said Percy Baynes, acting director of the shuttle orbiter program.

At United Technologies Corp.'s Power Systems Division in Connecticut, spokesman David M. Long said engineers consider the corrosion "symptomatic — a problem, but not the cause." He said the analysis will take several more weeks.

Engineers feel the problem was unique to the cell that failed and not likely to repeat in other units. "It could have been a small piece of aluminum or some contaminant in the cell that plugged the aspirator hole," said one spokesman.

Abrahamson said last month that he hoped to announce this week the exact date of Columbia's next flight. Instead, he said Tuesday that it will be mid-January before the decision is made. But he said the cell inspections won't affect the launch schedule because they are being carried out at the same time as other service work.

"He wants to wait until everything is cleared up before committing himself," said Jim Kukowski, a NASA spokesman. "He feels it's useless to give a date and then keep slipping it."

No firm date for the next launch had been set, but crews have been aiming for the week of March 21. Marine Col. Jack Lousma and Air Force Col. Gordon Fullerton, are scheduled to take Columbia aloft for seven days.

Plan Available For Reviewing

The Division of Mental Health, Mental Retardation and Substance Abuse Services has prepared a Strategic Plan 1983-89, which is available for review and comment by interested persons.

The plan provides an overview of service system developments which are being considered, according to Dr. Stephen K. Creech, area director of the Pitt County Mental Health Center.

Volume I provides a statewide perspective of the total service system and Volume V deals with the Eastern Region. Copies may be seen at the Eastern Regional Office of the Department of Human Resources, 404 St. Andrews Drive, Greenville, or the Pitt County Mental Health Center. Written comments may be submitted to the Division of Mental Health, Mental Retardation and Substance Abuse Services, Quality Assurance Section, Planning Branch, 325 N. Salisbury St., Raleigh, N.C. 27611.

If assistance in locating a copy of the plan is needed, call either the planning office or any of the regional offices at the numbers given above.

Fire Report

During November the rural fire departments of Pitt County answered 163 alarms with 139 fires, County Fire Marshal Bobby Joyner said.

There were 15 house fires, nine in house trailers; eight in buildings, 16 in motor vehicles, 47 grasslands and woods fires; no false alarm, 44 "others" and 24 mutual aids.

There were $1,004,275 involved in fires; $1,264,500 exposed; $138,055 lost; and $2,130,720 saved by the rural fire departments, Joyner said. The Ayden Fire Department had the most fires — 19.

Lifesaving Had Scary Effect

SANFORD, N.C. (AP) — A Sanford rescue worker says he feared an explosion as he and colleagues removed four men from an underground gasoline tank.

One man was killed and 10 others injured as they inhaled gasoline fumes while trying to rescue the first man to need help inside the tank Monday night.

O.B. Stokes, Sanford city manager, identified the dead man as Glenn A. Powell, 31, of Florence, S.C. Stokes said Powell died when he climbed into the tank to try to rescue David Marshall.

Stokes said Marshall was inside the 10,000-gallon service station tank when water leaked through a small hole, splattering his air mask.

When he took the mask off to clean it, he was overcome by fumes. Powell went in without a mask to try to assist Marshall, and also was overcome, Stokes said.

Two other men working at the site then attempted to rescue the two men, and they also were overcome.

James Gamble, a supervisor for Palmetto Coatings Co. of Florence, said he sent worker Robert Melhouse down first to rescue the two men, but he was overcome and pulled back. John Fannel then went down and tied a rope around Marshall, but as he was being pulled to safety, he was dragged across Fannel, his mask was pulled off and he too had to be pulled to safety.

A fire department spokesman said rescue workers and firefighters finally pulled the remaining two men out of the tank.

Four rescue workers and three firefighters who assisted in the rescue effort also inhaled the fumes and had to be treated at local hospitals.

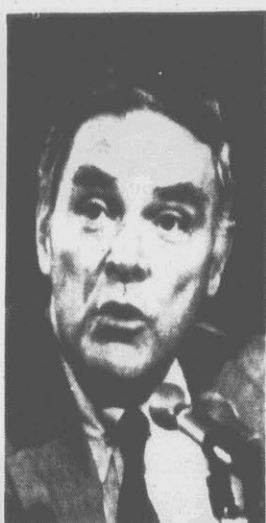

Jerry Lemmond, one of the hospitalized rescue workers, said the lifesaving effort was "scary."

"God, you just don't know how much," he said. "I was worried about an explosion. And just the thought of someone walking by or riding by and lighting a cigarette."

Holiday Schedule

GRIFTON — The town hall will be closed for Christmas on Dec. 24-25, according to Town Clerk Nan Smith.

Only emergency personnel will work these two holidays. Garbage pickup will not be made, but will resume as usual next week.

See Early Hypertension Start

By JANET McCONNAUGHEY
Associated Press Writer
BOGALUSA, La. (AP) — Hypertension or high blood pressure doesn't just happen suddenly to adults. A painstaking series of studies, which began 10 years ago in the piney woods region of Louisiana, indicates that it can begin in kindergarten or before.

Dr. G.S. BERENSON

"We learned several years ago that arteriosclerosis begins in childhood, we think from our research that essential hypertension does, too," said Dr. Gerald S. Berenson of Louisiana State University.

"If we're going to try to prevent these diseases in adults, we're going to have to start with kids," said Berenson, in charge of the Specialized Center of Research in Arteriosclerosis, located about 70 miles north of New Orleans.

At the American Heart Association's November convention in Dallas, Berenson presented some of his most recent findings — showing that diet, exercise and some drugs can lower high blood pressure in children prone to develop heart disease.

He indicated it will take another 40 years to finish the Bogalusa project, which has recently received a five-year grant of $7.5 million from the National Institutes of Health.

Among his findings so far: — Children can show some of the "type A" or high blood pressure behavior that often goes along with heart attacks in older people.

— Adolescent changes indicate that white boys may be identified as susceptible to earlier heart attacks than white girls or blacks of either sex.

— And schoolchildren can suffer from hypertension — and show dramatic improvement when given the same treatments used on adults.

"There's a lot of controversy about diet, using drugs, what levels are abnormal in children. Our mission is to ... get reliable information," Berenson said.

In one of his studies, Berenson worked backward from the fact that high-pressure up-and-at-'em types — the kind of people known as "Type A" — are more likely to develop heart disease than their slower-paced counterparts.

Psychologists gave schoolchildren 8 years old or older a list of 23 questions, including "Do you eat fast?" "Do you walk fast?" and concluded that "Type A" symptoms can be found in children.

In another study, the group checked infants for cholesterol levels.

Berenson and his colleagues — 11 nurses in Bogalusa, a nurse in nearby Franklinton, and 35 psychologists, statisticians, physicians, chemists, technicians, nutritionists — checked 470 babies over several years.

They checked them when first born, at six months, then yearly.

They found that the cholesterol levels were at almost an adult level by 6 months to a year of age, and related the levels to the sort of food the babies were getting.

Other studies were prompted by the knowledge that blacks are more prone to hypertension than are whites, and that white men are more likely to have heart attacks than are white women or blacks of either sex.

The heart attack rate has been tied to cholesterol levels. And recently, it was found that one sort of cholesterol, called high-density lipoproteins — HDL for short — actually helps to protect against heart attacks.

Berenson said all children's cholesterol levels tend to drop at puberty. But he said blacks tend to have higher levels of the protective HDL — and the different types of cholesterol tend to drop in proportion to each other.

"In white boys, there's a tremendous drop of high-density lipoproteins. And the low-density lipoproteins tend to go up earlier in white boys."

"If you look at these patterns, it suggests that they're patterned for earlier heart attacks. It's as if white boys are targeted for early heart attacks."

The presentation for the American Heart Association showed the effects of his program to control high blood pressure in children by diet, exercise and some drugs.

When they started that program two years ago, Berenson's team checked the blood pressure of 1,600 children in Franklinton, population about 3,500. They chose 100 children whose blood pressures were consistently higher and treated half of them as they would treat adults — with diet, exercise, and small doses of the safest known drugs. The other 50 were left untreated, as a comparison group.

The team worked hard to get the whole town involved. Nine local restaurants agreed to serve low-sodium, low-cholesterol dishes. Similar products were stocked by local groceries. And the children's parents came in for checkups.

If the parents had high blood pressure and were too poor to go to a doctor, Berenson's group treated them.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was mixed today, continuing the neutral pattern that has prevailed since the start of the week.

Lose's took a 4-3 lead over gainers in the early rally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials rose .19 to 872.15 in the first half hour.

Analysts noted that every time the beginnings of a year-end rally have appeared in recent days, the advance has stalled amid interest-rate worries.

Interest rates in the bond market have risen for the past four days as traders looked ahead uneasily to a heavy schedule of borrowing by the federal government.

Brokers also said investors were wary of making any large commitments today before President Reagan's televised speech tonight.

Sony led the active list in early trading, unchanged at 18 1/4. A 133,000-share block traded at that price.

On Tuesday the Dow Jones industrial average dropped 1.14 to 871.96.

Declines held a 3-2 edge on advances at the NYSE.

Big Board volume totaled 48.32 million shares, compared with 41.29 million in the previous session.

The NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stocks lost .26 to 71.27.

At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was down .81 at 318.49.

Town Holiday

AYDEN — The town hall will be closed Dec. 24-25 to observe the Christmas holidays. No town employees, with the exception of emergency personnel, will work these two days.

No garbage will be picked up on Thursday and Friday, but sanitation workers will be back on the job Monday. Two trucks with extra workers will be utilized to catch up on routes.

Widebody Is Still Banned

WASHINGTON (AP) — Eastern Airlines has been told it may not fly its wide-body A-300 jets to National Airport in Washington.

Eastern has 25 of the twin-engine jets made by Airbus Industrie, a French manufacturer. The airline wanted to use them at National to increase capacity on its New York-Washington shuttle and its Florida flights.

Charles Murchison, spokesman for the Federal Aviation Administration, said Thursday FAA Administrator Lynn Helms had determined that "complete flight safety could not be guaranteed" if the A-300 used National, which has shorter runways than most airports.

Helms flew the A-300 into National himself several times before making the decision.

Eastern Airlines President Frank Borman said he believed Helms was "basically worried about loss of an engine on a very hot day."

Borman said Eastern eastern was convinced the plane was safe for National and after reviewing Helms' finding would try to "convince him that the airplane is acceptable."

No other airline proposes to use wide-body jets at National, officials said.

Treatment For Fetus Hopeful

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A thin, plastic tube was inserted through a mother's belly into the head of a 28-week-old fetus in an effort to drain excess fluid pressing against the brain.

Results of the experimental procedure, performed Friday, look promising, said Dr. Ronald Wapner, director of maternal-fetal medicine at Thomas Jefferson University Hospital. The mother, Nancy Rowe, was released from the hospital Monday.

The technique is so new that Wapner and his colleagues practiced with a water-filled latex glove floating in an aquarium to simulate a fetus floating in amniotic fluid, he said.

Town Manager For Chapel Hill

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — David R. Taylor, town manager of Tarboro for 16 years, will become town manager of Chapel Hill on Feb. 1, Chapel Hill Mayor Joseph Nassif said Tuesday.

Ron Secrest, who has served as acting town manager since July, will return to his old job of recreation director eb. 1, according to Nassif.

In the interim, Nassif said, Taylor will visit Chapel Hill one or two days a week to begin working with Secrest.

Nassif said Taylor accepted the job Sunday night after negotiations were concluded on salary and benefits.

The salary agreed upon was $52,000.

More than 130 persons applied for the position, which became vacant in June when Town Manager Gene Shipman left Chapel Hill to become assistant city manager of Kansas City, Mo.

Reagan Effigy Is Burned By Libyans

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Thousands of Libyan demonstrators chanted anti-American slogans and burned President Reagan in effigy in Libya's Mediterranean port city of Benghazi today, Libya's state radio reported.

The broadcast, monitored in Beirut, said the marchers brandished posters that denounced Reagan for alleged "terroristic provocations" against Col. Moammar Khadafi, leader of the North African Arab nation.

The demonstration was staged at the request of Benghazi's municipality to "manifest Libya's anger and condemnation of the conspiracies hatched by American imperialism against the Libyan nation and its leadership," the broadcast said.

The United States has said it had reports Khadafi sent an assassination squad to kill the American president. Khadafi denied the charge and accused Reagan of plotting to kill him. Relations between the two countries deteriorated sharply in the past several weeks and the United States ordered all American residents of Libya to leave the country.

"Reagan, you cowboy! You will die before reaching Moammar!" chanted the crowds as they set Reagan's effigy on fire at Benghazi's main square, according to the radio which carried what it said were tape-recorded excerpts of the demonstration.

Freed Due Her Prison Conduct

NEW YORK (AP) — A judge has freed the Weather Underground member convicted for her part in a deadly explosion in Greenwich Village because of her "exemplary" prison conduct.

Catherine Wilkerson was placed on no more than five years probation Tuesday by state Supreme Court Judge Harold Rothwax.

Lawyer Margaret Ratner said the judge's decision was a "big surprise." Miss Wilkerson had served 11 months in the Bedford Hills Correctional Facility for the March 6, 1970 blast in which three people were killed. She was a fugitive for 10 years.

Duke Free Throws Sink Pirates, 70-57

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor
DURHAM — "You can't defend free throws," East Carolina Coach Dave Odom said. "I guess if we were all 6-8 and weighed 240 pounds, we'd have all fouled out in the first half," he added.

It may have seemed that way. Last night, East Carolina's Pirates topped the Duke Blue Devils, 50-42, from the floor, but the foul line made the difference as the home-standing Atlantic Coast Conference team came away with a 70-57 victory.

East Carolina went to the foul line just 14 times, hitting seven of those — as the Pirates' woes at the stripe continued.

But it was Duke's 28 of 34 at the free throw line that made the big difference in the game, allowing the Blue Devils to more than overcome the eight-point deficit from the floor.

Down the stretch, after East Carolina had closed to within two points of the Devils, Duke kicked in 15 of 17 free throws. ECU went to the line just three times in the same period, hitting two.

Trailing by as many as 12 points in the early going, the Pirates struggled back, inching closer and closer. Finally, with 10:23 left, Al Mack hit a baseline jumper to pull ECU within two, 45-43.

But fate then took over. Over the next 7:45, the Pirates failed to put a point on the scoreboard. Duke at the same time, scored 11 — seven of them at the foul line.

It wasn't that the Pirates were't trying. After Duke went back up by four, ECU came back down the court and Michael Gibson slammed one through — only to see his basket wiped out by a charging call. Then, after two more points by Duke, Tony Byles saw another Pirate two-pointer erased on a travel call.

"Byles and Gibson both made inside shots and they took them away," Odom said, when asked to cite reasons for the sudden demise of the Pirates. "We had a couple of other things, like the (no-call) goaltending on the final basket of the half." On that play, ECU had the chance to cut the lead to five — for the first time since the opening minutes of the game — but there was no call as Charles Green's shot was slapped off the rim.

"I think our players had a lot of composure out there tonight," Odom continued. "They hung in there pretty well."

"I thought we did a pretty good job on (Tom) Emma, (Chip) Engelland and (Vince) Taylor, but at times were were a little over zealous in trying to guard Taylor. I felt we had to try and keep the ball away from him."

That proved an accurate assessment. Taylor pushed through eight of eight field goals, made seven of ten at the line, led Duke in rebounding with five, and had a game high 23 points.

"That's the second time in three games that a starting player has been perfect from the floor against us," Odom commented.

Odom felt that the turnover difference was another key in the game. Duke had only five in the contest, while East Carolina suffered 16. Close to half of those came on fouls called against the Pirates when they had the ball. "It's difficult to win with that much difference in turnovers," Odom said.

For the first ten minutes of the game, the Pirates couldn't get their offense on track. Duke at the same time used the play of Taylor, who hit ten of Duke's first 18 points, to shoot out by 12, 18-6.

The time clock showed just under nine minutes left in the half when the Pirates first put together a pair of baskets. Green hit from underneath with 9:08 left, and Bill McNair hit a jumper with 8:46 left for the first combination of the evening.

Tony Byles followed less than a minute later with a third ECU basket before Duke got back on the scoreboard.

Over the remaining minutes of the half, the Pirates continued to try and chip away at the lead, but could never get closer than six points, finally trailing 32-25 at the half after the no-call on what Odom felt was goaltending.

Duke continued to hold its edge through the first five minutes before Gibson hit and Byles made a three-point play to cut it to five, 42-37. The Pirates had two chances after that to cut it to three before Duke finally moved back out by eight again.

During this period, Taylor committed his fourth personal foul and went to the bench.

Following three Duke free throws — 18 of the final 28 were free throws over the final 15 minutes — East Carolina got a jumper from the lane by Bruce Peartree and a driving layup by Byles. Mack then hit with 10:23 left to cut the lead to two, 45-43.

But that was as close as they were allowed to come. As the two calls took away two baskets from the Pirates over the next few minutes, Duke got a jumper from Engelland, a free throw from Emma and a basket by Allen Williams to up the lead to seven. Two more free throws by Emma, a layup by him, and two free throws by Taylor ran the lead out to 56-43 before the Pirates could score again.

Duke, after getting the ball back with a four-point edge went into a stall game, shooting only when it had an open shot.

"Duke has fine ballhandlers and excellent free throw shooters," Odom commented. "They are going to be tough to (Please Turn To Page 15)

Moore, Menichelli Win Bull Durham Mat Titles

DURHAM — D.H. Conley's Reginald Moore and Paul Menichelli both won championships as the Vikings finished third in the strong Bull Durham wrestling tournament held at Durham Jordan High School Monday and Tuesday.

Northwest Guilford took the team title with 154½ points, while Plymouth edged past Conley for second. The Vikings of Plymouth ended up with 124½ points, while Conley finished with 123.

Hillsborough Orange finished fourth with 120½, followed by High Point Andrews, 78; Jordan, 75; Hickory St. Stephens, 69; and Southern Durham, 49½.

Moore, who raised his record to 8-0 on the season, won the 105-pound class, while Menichelli, also 8-0, took the championship at heavyweight.

Conley also had three seconds, as Lorenzo Strong took that place at 145, William Bridgett was second at 155, and Mike Long was second at 185.

William Green finished third at 112 pounds, while Andy Majette (138) and Willie Greene (167) finished fourth.

Green, Strong, Greene, Long and Bridgett all suffered their first losses in the tournament.

Coach Milt Sherman wasn't quite pleased with the third place finish, however. "We wrestled in a very tough tournament," he said. "But there were several points in the tournament when we didn't wrestle with enough intensity against that level of competition."

Conley returns to action on December 31, participating in the Plymouth Invitational Tournament, a one-day event.

Rampants Earn 49-39 Win Over Conley

By RICK SCOPPE
Reflector Sports Writer

The opening round of the Pitt County Holiday Basketball Tournament proved anything but a holiday for D.H. Conley. A poor showing by the talented Vikings plus an improving Greenville Rose team made sure of that.

The Rampants used a well-balanced offensive attack and the sloppy play of D.H. Conley to come away with a 49-39 victory Tuesday night and advance to tonight's tournament championship game.

Rose, now 4-3, will face North Pitt at 8:30 for the tournament title. The Panthers, now 6-3, defeated Farmville Central in overtime, 49-44. D.H. Conley won the tournament last year.

Farmville (2-7) will meet Conley (5-4) in the consolation game at 7 p.m., a game in which both teams will be looking to end losing streaks. The Jaguars have now lost seven straight, the Vikings four straight.

Loss #4 was a particularly discouraging one for D.H. Conley coach Shelley Marsh. "I can say it in one word: I am embarrassed," Marsh said. "We didn't come to play tonight. It's particularly embarrassing considering some of the talent we have."

Most of that talent was sitting on the row of chairs beside Marsh much of the second half. After seeing his starting five stumble behind by 15 midway through the third period, Marsh sent in a fresh five.

"It was a conscious act," Marsh said. "I felt obligated to put some of the players in who have not played so much this season."

Marsh, however, was not planning to keep his starters beside him the rest of the way —it just worked out that way.

"I took 'em out and the subs were doing so well I just left them in," Marsh said. "We didn't lose any ground, and in fact we gained some because (Rose coach Jim) Brewington didn't have all his subs in until later."

So there the starting five sat: star guard Keith Gatlin, who finished with just six points — his lowest total this year, 6-7 center Sammy Tyson, who had only four points but managed to pull down 11 rebounds before taking a seat, and Leon Cox, Dixon Page and Tommy Joyner, who between them finished with five points.

The Rampants, meanwhile, were on the court playing one of their better games of the season. Rose hit 21 of 40 (52.5%) from the field. D.H. Conley hit just 17 of 47 (36.1%) and committed 19 turnovers to 15 for Rose. Surprisingly, the Vikings out rebounded the Rampants, 30 to 18.

William Battle led Rose with 12 points and a team-high eight rebounds. Tim Harris added 10 points and pulled down five rebounds. D.H. Conley did not have anyone in double figures.

While Marsh was embarrassed, Rose coach Jim Brewington was pleased after seeing his Rampants win their fourth game in the last five outings. "The big thing tonight was that we played good team basketball," Brewington said. "All of 'em played well."

"We spread the scoring out and we played with good intensity in the first half," he said. "We didn't play as well in the third quarter, but we came back when we had to."

Rose took advantage of seven turnovers by the Vikings to pull ahead, 18-6, at the end of the first period. The Vikings, who never led in the game, never got closer than five the rest of the game.

With the score 4-4, Battle hit three jumpers and Harris added a hook and a dunk to give the Rampants a 14-6 lead with 1:38 left in the quarter. Barry Smith added a layup and Russell Perkins a jumper to make it 18-6.

After a jumper by Smith made it 20-6 early in the second period, the Vikings made their only run of the night at the Rampants. Sparked by Willie Anderson, who worked inside for three buckets, the Vikings scored nine straight points over the next four minutes to cut the Rose lead to 20-15.

After a timeout, however, the Rampants — scoreless the last 4½ minutes — scored six straight points to take a 26-15 lead at intermission. The Rampants decided the outcome not long into the second half.

With Harris hitting two jumpers and a dunk, Rose rolled out to a 32-19 lead that it stretched to 36-21 moments later. Marsh had seen enough. Out came the Vikings starting five and in came the reserves.

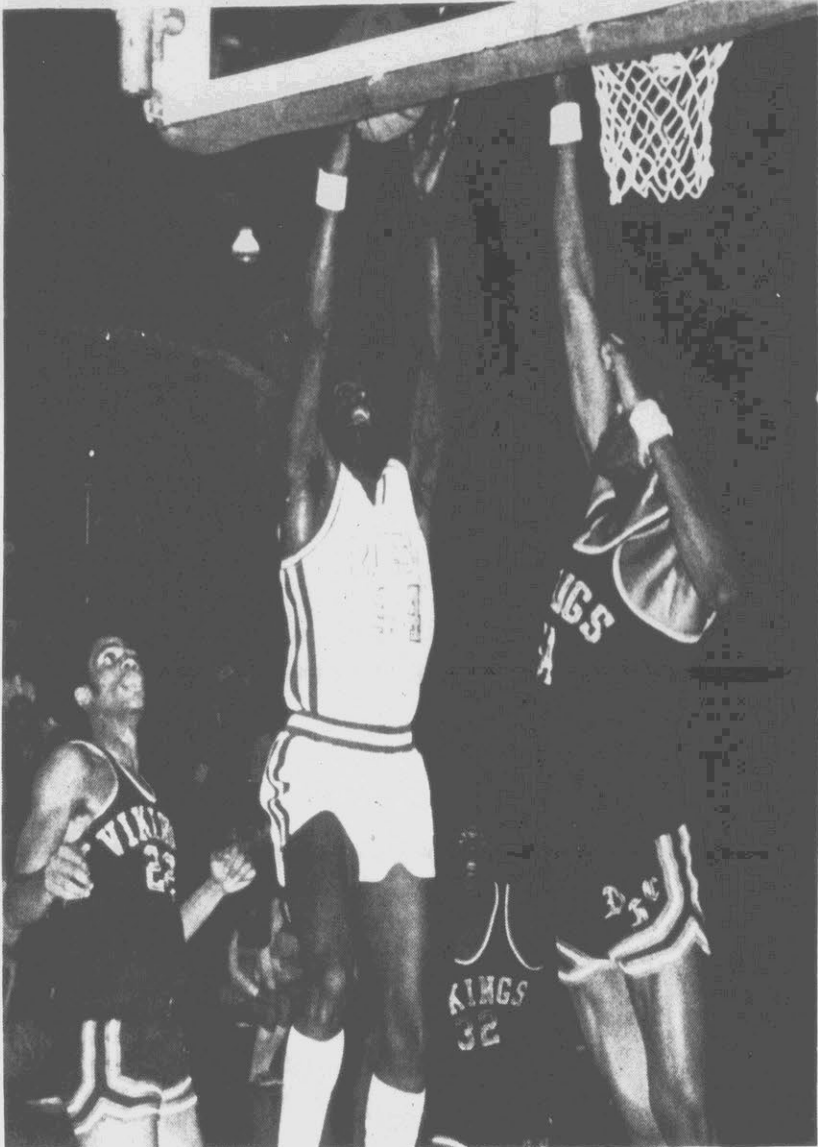

It was all but over. Rose led at the end of the third period, 36-23. Conley closed to within 10 in the final period, but got no closer as the Rampants coasted to the victory.

Afterwards, Marsh stood beside his team's locker room door wondering out loud about the Vikings problems of late. "There's just no team work," he said. "We're not playing as a team. We're going down and making one or two passes and the throwing it up."

"I'm embarrassed tonight," Marsh added. "But we'll continue to try to work it out."

'Husker Back Sees Bowl As Once In Life Chance

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — Nebraska I-back Roger Craig is looking at the Orange Bowl showdown with No. 1 Clemson as a once-in-a-lifetime football game.

"It's not every day you win the Big Eight, get to the Orange Bowl and have a shot at the national championship," said the 6-1, 210-pound junior. "We'll try to make the most of it."

Craig and Mike Rozier this season became the best I-back combination the University of Nebraska may ever have had, according to Coach Tom Osborne.

Osborne had said before the 1981 football season that Craig, a Davenport, Iowa, native, had the potential to be the best Cornhusker I-back ever. It wasn't long into fall practice that a sophomore transfer from New Jersey — Rozier — proved he deserved to share that honor.

"I think they are probably the best twosome we've ever had," Osborne had said. He noted that the two do most things very well and it will be nice to have them around in the New Year's Orange Bowl battle with 11-0 Clemson.

The NU head coach said at the end of Nebraska's 9-2 regular season that he might toy with the idea of using both standout runners in the backfield at the same time next season.

Craig led the nation's second best rushing team with 1,060 yards on 173 carries. Rozier wasn't far behind with 942 yards on 151 carries. Both also had long touchdown runs during the 1981 season. Rozier's went for 93 yards and Craig's 94 to tie a school record. And each of the standout backs seem to enjoy having the other around.

"I don't have any negative attitude about splitting time with him," Craig said about Rozier. "He's too good to sit on the bench. Actually, splitting time has probably helped us more than anything. This way we can stay fresh and avoid more injuries. You don't get burned out."

Rozier agreed, saying he was pleased to be considered on the same level as Craig. He added that Craig did much to help him learn the system and he also had no qualms about sharing time at the I-back position.

"There's a lot of good backs around the country but there aren't too many teams around who have two good backs who can carry the load like we can," Craig said.

"We're really pretty even. He's been clocked at 4.5 in the 40 (yard dash) and I run a 4.5. He's a little quicker off the ball but I get my speed up pretty soon after he does," said Craig. "I don't think it matters much which one of us is in there."

Craig said the team is anxious for the Orange Bowl opportunity. "It's not going to be just a fun trip, although we'll try to have some fun. We're going to be working hard. We've got to execute well and do our jobs and we'll come out on top."

The Huskers, ranked fourth, believe the bowl game will give them a shot at a national championship if No. 2 Georgia should fall to Pittsburgh in the Sugar Bowl and No. 3 Alabama falters against Texas in the Cotton Bowl.

"If everything falls into place, we could be the national champion," Craig said. "It's not going to be an easy game to win for us. Clemson looks pretty tough. They're aggressive. We'll have to run right at them like we have against the other good defenses we've played. I think having played Florida State, Penn State and teams like Iowa helped us out. They've matured us. We've been there and we know what it will take to win against a good defense."

"I don't think there will be anybody over-confident. We know they're undefeated so they have to be pretty good, but everybody on the team has a positive attitude about this game. We're going down there with the idea of winning ... maybe a national championship."

It was not an easy decision. It was not an easy game. "It was tough," Terrell said. "Emotionally, it was very hard. We talked about it before we left the school tonight. But you know, when you have a death like that you can't shake it."

"I thought we played extremely well under the circumstances," Terrell added. "We easily could have come out and played like a bunch of zombies, but we didn't."

The most impressive Jaguar on this night was Terrence Pettaway. The 6-2 junior center scored a game-high 20 points, pulled down eight rebounds and blocked three shots.

Pettaway almost single-handedly kept the Jaguars from falling too far behind. Farmville trailed, 27-22, at intermission and cut the deficit to, 36-34, at the end of the third period.

North Pitt went up by six, 42-36, early in the final period, but the Jaguars battled back with a jumper by Gary Hobgood and a jumper, two free throws and a tap in by Pettaway to go up, 44-42, with 2:39 left.

Farmville Central put together a courageous performance in a game that was almost called off and on an evening when the thoughts of the Jaguars were elsewhere.

It was not enough, however. North Pitt combined 16 points by Vince Parker — including four in overtime — with a superior effort on the boards to overcome Farmville Central, 49-44, in overtime Tuesday night in the first game of the Pitt County Holiday Basketball Tournament.

The Panthers, now 6-3, will play Greenville Rose tonight at 8:30 for the tournament title. Rose, now 4-3, defeated D.H. Conley, 49-39, in the tournament's second game last night.

The Vikings, who lost their fourth straight and are now 5-4, will meet the Jaguars, now 2-7, in the consolation game at 7:00 p.m. Farmville Central has lost seven straight after opening the season with two victories.

It was with mixed emotions tearing at them that the Jaguars decided to play the Panthers. Less than 24 hours before the game the team learned of the death of one of their players, Reggie Fields.

Fields, a 5-8 senior reserve, was playing in a pickup game Monday afternoon when he collapsed and died, reportedly of a viral infection of the heart. After a talk with Coach Mike Terrell, the Jaguars decided to play.

For North Pitt, the win was its fourth straight after a 2-2 start. "I guess we played well when we needed to," North Pitt coach Cobbie Deans said. "We're not too consistent, but we did a good job when we got behind."

Like Terrell, Deans felt the impact of Fields' death. "I didn't mention it to the team, but I felt the same way Coach Terrell did," Deans said. "I couldn't get enthused about (the game)."

Farmville hit 20 of 28 (71.7%) from the field, but committed 18 turnovers, many coming against the Panthers' press and leading to easy baskets. North Pitt hit 22 of 43 (51.1%) from the floor and had 11 turnovers — seven of which came in the second half.

The game started slowly. North Pitt, employing a variety of full-court presses, moved out to an 8-2 lead behind Dennis Bradley, who finished with 12 points and a game-high nine rebounds.

The Jaguars tied it up at 8-8 thanks in part to a jumper and a dunk by Pettaway, but North Pitt led at the end of the period, 12-8. The Panthers maintained that four-point advantage for the first three minutes of the second quarter before exploding to a 13-point advantage.

Up 14-12, the Panthers outscored Farmville 11-0 over a two minute span to take a 25-12 lead. A layup and a jumper by Toby Crandol, who finished with 10 points, and a three-point play by Bradley sparked the 11-point surge.

The North Pitt lead hovered between 10 and 13 much of the rest of the second quarter before Tony Hargrove hit two free throws and a jumper in the lane to pull the Jaguars within five (27-22) at halftime.

Farmville got to within two midway early in the third period, but could not get closer and trailed at the end of the period, 36-34, following a driving layup at the buzzer by Jaguar guard Bobby Carraway.

North Pitt went up by six (42-36) early in the fourth quarter only to have the Jaguars battle back to tie it late and send the game into overtime, where the Panthers finally put the Jaguars away.

Jaguars Haven't Played As Expected

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor
FARMVILLE — For Farmville Central Coach Mike Terrell, problems on the court suddenly seem minor in comparison.

The Jaguars, expected to be one of the stronger teams in the Eastern Carolina Conference, got off to a 2-0 beginning, but then lost six straight games going into last night's Pitt County Holiday Tournament against North Pitt.

Then, Monday afternoon, Reggie Fields, a 5-7 senior guard, collapsed and died while playing a pickup basketball game at the Farmville Recreation Center. It stunned Terrell and Fields' teammates — but with the tournament starting them in the face, they elected to go ahead and play.

"It was a hard decision to make," Terrell said prior to the game. "I talked with the players about what we should do, and they felt that Reggie would have wanted us to play. We did have the obligation to play, but if the players had not felt up to it and didn't want to play, we wouldn't have.

"I know my mind won't be on the game, and I doubt the players' minds will."

Last season, the Jaguars finished the year 5-16, in seventh place in the Eastern Carolina Conference. "But we finished strong, winning four of our last six games," Terrell pointed out. "For that reason, I thought that we'd be stronger this year."

The Jaguars returned four starters from last year's squad, and some observers were picking them to be one of the co-favorites for the 1982 championship. "Well, North Pitt went to the district finals last year and returned three starters off that team," Terrell pointed out. "I would consider them the team to beat. If they think we're a co-favorite after finishing seventh, I guess that would be on the basis of our finish last year."

While he does have four back from last year's starting lineup, only three of those are starting now. They are 6-2 junior center Terrence Pettaway, 6-1 swing man Melvin Sutton, and 6-2 junior forward, Andrew Edwards.

Joining them in the starting lineup are 6-0 junior guard Bobby Carraway and 6-0 junior Gary Hobgood.

Stuart Gordon, a 6-2 senior guard, started last year, and has started on occasion this year, but is not currently in the starting lineup.

There are only three others on the team — a total of nine following Fields' death. They are 5-8 senior guard Tony Barnes, "our sixth man now," 6-0 junior forward Tony Hargrove, and 6-1 senior forward Johnny Neal.

"After we got started (in the season), I soon realized that we were not experienced as I thought we would be. Some of the players, too, didn't improve as much in the off-season as I thought they would."

"We are playing much better than we did last year, and we've played a tough schedule. There are two 4-A schools on the schedule and 3-A's like Conley. Really, I think we've only been beaten once (by Wilson Hunt). The rest of the games could have gone either way. We could just as easily be 6-2 with a little luck," Terrell said.

While the Jaguars are not tall, Terrell feels that they have done a respectable job on the boards. "What's been hurting us is our passing and catching the basketball and our free throw shooting."

He noted that against Southwest Edgecombe last week, the Cougars made good on 24 of 32 shots, while Farmville made just six of 13. "And we lost in overtime after outshooting them from the floor."

"We seem to be making sophomore and junior mistakes, especially when it's critical, and in the fourth quarter. We can't make these mistakes and hope to win."

Offensively, Terrell has been pretty well satisfied. "I felt that we'd be a good shooting team, and I think we will be. We're coming around more all the time."

Defensively, Terrell also is fairly well pleased. "It's not been that bad. The last few games, the other teams have just been playing better."

Terrell feels that the Jaguars need to mature and find the way to play under pressure to be successful in the ECC race this year. "I think we are going to come around and have a good team before the season is over. I hope we end up near the top. I think we have a chance."

Collins May Be Joining Yanks

NEW YORK (AP) — Dave Collins might be a New York Yankee very soon. What position he plays might depend on another free-agent outfielder: Reggie Jackson.

Collins, who played out his contract with the Cincinnati Reds last season, has been the object of Yankee owner George Steinbrenner's interest. Steinbrenner indicated Tuesday that he expects to sign Collins.

"We're very hopeful because he fits right in to certain things we're trying to do with the ball club," said Steinbrenner. "The first five men in our lineup will be speedballs."

Presumably, Steinbrenner figures that Collins, who stole 79 bases in 1980 and 26 last season, will be one of those five players.

"We're not going to be the old, put-one-out-of-the-park, big-inning team," added Steinbrenner. "It's not just the long ball that puts them in the seats anymore. A running team is the toughest thing on an opposing pitcher and it's exciting."

Collins, drafted by the Yankees in the re-entry draft last month, has said he feels he could make his biggest contribution to the Yankees as a first baseman. If the Yankees re-sign Jackson, it would not leave much playing time for Collins in the outfield, where he is considered only adequate.

Steinbrenner has not given any indications whether he expects to convince Jackson to stay in New York — nor whether he wants to re-sign the controversial slugger.

"Jackson's re-signing would temper my feelings about Dave's situation," said Richie Bry, Collins' agent.

beat if they get a lead in the late stages of the game."

As has been the case in Duke's first five games — the Blue Devils are now 2-4 — the outside people did the job for them in the scoring department. Besides Taylor's 23, Engelland had 17 and Emma had 15. Duke shot 56.7 percent for the game.

East Carolina had only one player, Byles with 17, in double figures. ECU shot 55.5 percent.

The Pirates also held a 25-21 rebounding edge over the Blue Devils.

But it all meant nothing thanks to the turnover margin and the free throw margin.

East Carolina, now 2-5 — all five losses coming on the road — returns to action on December 30, traveling to George Mason for its first ECAC-South game.

Fights Mar Hoya-Hilltopper Contest

By The Associated Press

The Georgetown Hoyas and Western Kentucky Hilltoppers gave it their best shots — and some shots were harder than others.

"It was more like a pro game than a college affair," said Western Kentucky Coach Clem Haskins after Tuesday night's fight-punctuated, 64-45 loss to 17th-ranked Georgetown. "I was very disappointed in the officiating. If the officials want to call a National Basketball Association game, let them get an NBA license."

The rough game was halted in the second half when the Hilltoppers' Percy White threw a punch after Georgetown's Fred Brown had wrapped his arms around White's head. At the final buzzer, Western Kentucky's Bobby Jones was knocked to the floor by a punch after he had grabbed Georgetown's Pat Ewing.

Eric Floyd led the Hoyas with 22 points, including 14 in the second half as Georgetown won its seventh straight game and eighth in 10 outings. But the victory generally left a bad taste for Georgetown Coach John Thompson.

"It was extremely physical and I spoke to the officials at halftime," he said. "The officials told me that as long as it was incidental contact, they would let it continue. But there was an awful lot of contact being allowed by the officials."

Floyd, a 6-foot-3 senior guard, scored seven points and assisted on two other baskets as Georgetown ran off 11 straight points to take a solid 49-36 lead with 10:29 left.

In other college basketball games involving the nation's ranked teams, No. 6 Arkansas defeated Southern Mississippi 63-54; No. 7 San Francisco edged New Orleans 86-83 in overtime; 13th-ranked DePaul stopped Maine 90-67; No. 14 Tulsa trimmed Florida Southern 94-88; No. 19 Alabama-Birmingham whipped California State-Chico 80-60 and No. 20 Villanova hammered Pace 121-64.

Top Ten Scott Hastings scored 21 points to pace Arkansas' conquest of Southern Mississippi. The victory was the seventh straight for the undefeated Razorbacks.

Darrell Walker was Arkansas' only other double-figure scorer with 10 points. Joe Dawson led the Golden Eagles with 18 points, while Curtis Green had 12 for the losers.

Quintin Dailey's 12-foot jump shot with 2½ minutes remaining in overtime sent San Francisco ahead to stay over New Orleans. Dailey, the Dons' star guard who finished the game with 28 points, made two straight baskets as USF came back to gain a 72-72 tie before the end of regulation time.

Dailey then broke a 77-77 tie with his shot from the baseline midway in the overtime, and he made two free throws to stretch the San Francisco lead to 81-77. Forward John Hegwood, who led USF with 29 points, put in two more free throws to boost the unbeaten Dons into a six-point lead and sew up their eighth victory of the season.

Second Ten

Terry Cummings scored a season-high 27 points and Bernard Randolph added 15 to lead DePaul over Maine. Cummings, who left the floor with 6:50 left, also was a standout on defense as he and Randolph held Maine's high-scoring Clay Pickering to eight points. Pickering had been averaging 18 points a game for the Black Bears.

"When the score was tied 24-24 in the first half, I knew that was the moment to get these guys going," said Cummings. "We lost our cool against UCLA and I made up my mind that it would never happen again. I'm supposed to be the leader, and for the first time in my career I put it into practice."

Cummings referred to last Saturday night's loss to the Bruins at Pauley Pavilion.

Center Greg Stewart and guard Mike Anderson each scored 18 points as Tulsa out-paced Florida Southern. The defense-minded Golden Hurricane, now 7-1, set a team record with 20 steals from the Moccasins, who managed only 15 shots from the field in the first half.

Florida Southern's John Ebeling started the contest with a per-game average of 31 points, but managed only 23, making 15 of them on free throws. The defending NCAA Division II champions are now 3-3.

Oliver Robinson scored a game-high 18 points to lead Alabama-Birmingham over Cal State-Chico. The Blazers pulled ahead early and never trailed, cruising to a 48-34 halftime lead.

Stewart Granger and Ed Pinckney triggered a first-half surge as Villanova trounced Pace. Pace took a 10-8 lead three minutes into the game before Granger and Pinckney sparked a 45-6 barrage that buried the Setters. Villanova led 61-29 at halftime.

Elsewhere, Jacques Tuft scored 21 points and Colorado hit seven of eight free throws in the last 1:49 as the Buffaloes took a 65-59 victory over Nevada-Las Vegas to win the sixth annual Rebel Roundup Tournament. Ken Green scored 29 points and grabbed 10 rebounds to lead Nevada-Reno to the championship of their own Wolf Pack Classic with a 91-76 win over St. Mary's.

Also, Tim Cain scored a career-high 28 points and John Leonard added 20 to lead Manhattan to an 82-77 victory over Harvard; Kenny Stancell had a career-high 20 rebounds to go with 27 points as he led Virginia Commonwealth to a 61-55 victory over Old Dominion; Vince Taylor, Chip Engelland and Tom Emma combined for 55 points to pace Duke to a 70-57 victory over East Carolina; Derek Harper scored 15 points and Craig Tucker added 14 to lead Illinois to a 90-61 win over North Dakota State and Roosevelt Chapman scored 27 points and Mike Kaneski hit for 20 as Dayton outscored Iona 83-78.

Gordie Bryan came off the bench to score 10 of his 16 points in the first half as Virginia Tech took a 21-point lead and went on to a 75-53 victory over Mississippi State and Mitchell Wiggins scored 37 points to spark a second-half comeback that gave Florida State an 82-77 victory over South Carolina.

Coaching Staff May Not Be All That Goes In House-Cleaning

FOXBORO, Mass. (AP) — Ron Erhardt and his assistant coaches were the first to go. But they probably won't be the last as the New England Patriots try to regroup after a disastrous National Football League season.

Erhardt and his eight-man staff were fired Tuesday in the wake of the team's 2-14 record, the worst in its history. New England shared the poorest record in the NFL with Baltimore, to whom the Pats lost twice.

Patriots' owner Billy Sullivan cited the team's poor record and the loss of fans and fan enthusiasm as key factors in his decision to oust Erhardt, whose contract was to expire in April. Assistants Jim Ringo, Fritz Shurmur, Raymond Berry, Rick Lantz, Bobby Griener, Babe Parilli, Gino Cappelletti and Dick Roach also were dismissed.

And Sullivan, who hired Erhardt after Chuck Fairbanks went to the University of Colorado, said there will be more departures.

A new coach is "absolutely not" enough to bring back the crowds, Sullivan said. "We've got to make some trades, dramatic trades, not trades for cosmetic purposes but trades that will perceptibly help us," Sullivan said. "We've got to draft very aggressively and, if necessary, make trades to get additional draft choices."

Sullivan said some "rather radical changes" are needed in the 45-man staff if the team hopes to improve its fan appeal.

New England's home attendance this season was 414,561, the lowest since 1976, two years before NFL teams switched from seven to eight home games a season.

Sullivan said he expects the team to break even financially, although revenues will be about $1 million below projections.

"The fan support not only eroded here" but on the road as well, Sullivan said. "It wasn't merely the dwindling crowds here but the lack of enthusiasm."

No successor to the 49-year-old Erhardt was named, although several possible candidates have been mentioned in newspaper reports.

They include college coaches Johnny Majors of Tennessee, Don James of Washington, Joe Paterno of Penn State, Johnny Robinson of Southern California, Darryl Rogers of Arizona State and Ron Meyer of Southern Methodist; NFL assistants Marion Campbell and Fred Bruney of Philadelphia and Dan Henning of Washington, and Hugh Yesterday's Cryptiquip — GARLIC AND ONIONS ARE OUR STRONG-SCENTED BULBS.

Today's Cryptiquip clue: V equals T

The Cryptiquip is a simple substitution cipher in which each letter used stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words, and words using an apostrophe can give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is accomplished by trial and error.

FOCUS

The Price For Peace

For his work in developing Russia's first hydrogen bomb, he became at 32 the youngest full member of the Russian Academy of Sciences. The Soviet government honored him with the Order of Lenin, the Stalin Prize, and the designation "Hero of Socialist Labor." But Andrei Sakharov forfeited all this. A gentle scientist, he gradually became the most outspoken critic of human rights violations in the Soviet Union. His opposition to nuclear arms and militarism won him the Nobel Peace Prize of $143,000 in 1975 which he donated to cancer research. Now, stripped of his titles and privileges, he lives in exile under constant KGB surveillance. But he continues his fearless battle for "an open society, both democratic and just."

DO YOU KNOW — Who won the 1980 Nobel Peace Prize?

TUESDAY'S ANSWER — Mattel, the world's largest toymaker, had sales of $915 million in 1980.

Roll Call Report Service House

Allocation — By a vote of 244 for and 136 against, the House passed and sent to conference with the Senate a bill (HR 4700) equipping the president to deal with another cutoff of Arab oil. The bill gives the president standby authority to control prices, allocate crude oil and oil products among various sectors of the economy, and to draw from the Strategic Petroleum Reserve in the event of an Arab oil embargo. The bill restores to the president standby authority that was enacted during the 1973 embargo and expired last Sept. 30.

Supporter Richard Ottinger, D-N.Y., said it would be "just foolish" to leave it up to the marketplace to allocate supplies during a time of severe oil shortages.

Opponents noted that the U.S. imports only a third of its oil, compared to nearly half during the 1973 embargo, and they said the bill could strangle the energy free market in red tape and limit the president's options for dealing with another oil cutoff.

Members voting "yea" wanted emergency allocation and price control authority to be in place well in advance of another foreign-caused energy crisis.

Reps. Walter Jones, D-1, L.H. Fountain, D-3, Charles Whitley, D-3, Ike Andrews, D-4, Stephen Neal, D-5, and W.G. Hefner, D-8, voted "yea."

Reps. Eugene Johnston, R-6, James Martin, R-9, James Broyhill, R-10, and William Hendon, R-11, voted "nay."

Rep. Charles Rose, D-7, did not vote.

Foreign aid — By a vote of 217 for and 201 against, the House approved and sent to the president a bill appropriating $11.5 billion in foreign aid for FY 1982. Among other outlays, the bill provides economic aid to poor countries, military aid to allies, funding of the Peace Corps and Export-Import Bank, the U.S. payments to international lending banks. This marked the first time since 1979 the Congress has enacted other than a stopgap foreign aid bill.

Supporter Jack Kemp, R-N.Y., said colleagues voting against the bill "are making a big mistake if they think we can hide our heads in the sand at this critical juncture in the history of our country and the West."

Opponent John Ashbrook, R-Ohio, said, "I oppose this bill as I have always opposed foreign giveaway programs."

Members voting "yea" supported the foreign aid bill, which was advocated by President Reagan.

Johnston voted "yea." Jones, Fountain, Whitley, Andrews, Neal, Rose, Hefner, Martin, Broyhill and Hendon voted "nay."

The resolution (HJ Res 370) was the sequel to a more expensive stopgap plan that President Reagan vetoed Nov. 23. It cuts FY 1982 spending by $4 billion and provide pay hikes for top bureaucrats. Also, it removes for the 1981 tax year the $3,000 ceiling on what congressmen can deduct for Washington living expenses; that tax break had been scheduled to take effect in 1982.

Supporter Silvio Conte, R-Mass., said the House should go along with the president's austerity requests because he has "a sense of determination that this town has not seen since the early days of the Johnson Administration."

Opponent Jamie Whitten, D-Miss., said Congress is "the people's branch" and that it "should not become subservient to the executive branch, whoever is president." Members voting "yea" favored the stopgap budget plan that contained spending cuts recommended by the president.

Fountain, Whitley, Andrews, Neal, Rose, Hefner, Martin, Broyhill and Hendon voted "yea."

Jones and Johnston voted "nay."

Senate

Budget — The senate passed, 60 for and 35 against, and sent to the president a bill to fund the government on a stopgap basis until regular appropriations measures are enacted for the current fiscal year. The measure (H J Res 370) was identical to the version passed by the House (see preceding vote).

Supporter Mark Hatfield, R-Ore., said that with its $4 billion in additional cuts the bill was satisfactory to the president.

Opponent Claiborne Pell, D-R.I., objected that the measure inflicted further domestic cuts but "leaves unscathed a huge increase in military spending that cannot be justified by the real defense needs of the nation."

Senators voting "yea" favored the bill funding the government on a stopgap basis.

Sens. John East, R, and Jesse Helms, R, voted "yea."

Mine safety — By a vote of 38 for and 54 against, the Senate rejected an amendment exempting the Mine Safety and Health Administration from across-the-board cuts mandated by the stopgap budget resolution (see preceding votes). The agency's chief mission is to inspect coal mines and to keep them safe for workers.

Sponsor Robert Byrd, D-W.Va., noted that mine accidents had claimed 27 miners in the previous eight days and that 143 had died in 1981. He called it "tragic, indeed shameful" that the president wanted no further cut funding for mining inspections.

Opponent Harrison Schmitt, R-N.M., said: "What we have to do with the Mine Safety and Health Administration is pick them up by the scruff of their neck ... and make them work on the real problems. Just a whole bunch of ... inspections has not solved the problems of the miners that were killed in these accidents."

Senators voting "yea" wanted to block additional cuts in mine safety expenditures.

East and Helms voted "nay."

Members' taxes — The Senate adopted, 46 for and 44 against, an amendment that will enable members of Congress to deduct Washington living expenses on a per diem basis. This perfects a new law allowing congressmen to claim all Washington expenses associated with official business as tax deductions. In the past, a $3,000 ceiling had been placed on such deductions, which are classified by the IRS as "away from home" expenses.

Under the amendment, the IRS will set a per diem figure, freeing members of having to document Washington expenses for such times as housing and official entertainment. If the per diem figure is set at $75 for each day that Congress meets, members in the 50 percent tax bracket, for example, will be able to lower their income tax liability by an estimated $6,000 annually.

The amendment was at-

Yuletide Top Candy Season

NEW YORK (UPI) — Christmas is the biggest selling season for candy and other confections — but what we know as candy today could only be bought from a physician before the 14th century, says Grace Ulbricht.

The consumer advisor for F.W. Woolworth says one of candy's earliest functions was disguising unpleasant medicine. Medieval physicians often used a sweet called sugarplate, a paste of sugar, rosewater and gum dragon — known today as gum tragacanth, made from the sap of tragacanth trees.

Ulbricht said her company's perennial best-seller among Christmas confections is a one-pound box of chocolates. She said other popular seasonal sweets, according to national sales figures, are chocolate-covered cherries and chocolate turtles.

tached to a black lung bill (HR 5159) that was approved by the House and sent to the president.

Sponsor Robert Dole, R-Kans., said that if congressmen have a per diem deduction they will be freed of the burden of IRS "audits and appeals" that could result from trying to determine their own which Washington expenses are deductible and which are not.

Opponent William Proxmire, D-Wis., asked: "Does that not give the member of Congress an extraordinary advantage compared to the average business taxpayer who has to substantiate everything?"

Senators voting "yea" wanted the IRS to set a per diem figure for Washington expenses, in part to relieve them of substantiating all official expenses incurred while in Washington.

East voted "yea." Helms did not vote.

Toughest Smoker Tests Ever!

Landmark smoker study provides new evidence supporting MERIT as proven taste alternative to higher tar smoking.

Just released—results of rigorous new smoker research conducted by MERIT.

The conclusion: In extensive tests comparing taste and tar combined, MERIT is the clear choice over leading higher tar brands.

MERIT Remains Unbeaten.

In impartial new tests where brand identity was concealed, the overwhelming majority of smokers reported MERIT taste equal to—or better than—leading higher tar brands.

Moreover, when tar levels were revealed, 2 out of 3 chose the MERIT combination of low tar and good taste.

MERIT Taste Sparks Switch.

In the second part of this extensive new study, former higher tar smokers report MERIT is an easy switch, that they didn't give up taste in switching, and that MERIT is the best-tasting low tar they've ever tried.

Year after year, in study after study, MERIT remains unbeaten. The proven taste alternative to higher tar smoking—is MERIT.

PBS Stations Are In A Lot Of Financial Troubles

By TOM JORY
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Don't be fooled by what you see on public TV in the next several weeks. Glamorous productions like "Playhouse," "Life on Earth" and "Bridgeshead Revisited" notwithstanding, Public Broadcasting Service stations are in a peck of financial trouble.

It's so bad, in fact, that some are even thinking about — gulp — commercials.

It's neither as daring, nor as reprehensible, as it sounds. There's a Temporary Commission on Alternative Financing for Public Telecommunications, created by Congress, to study proposals from public radio and TV stations for new ways to raise money.

And most people in public broadcasting aren't even using the dreaded word. John Jay Iselin, president of New York's WNET-TV, calls the commercials his station would offer "enhanced underwriting credits."

The problem, in a nutshell, is that the government wants out of financing public radio and television. Congress appropriated $172 million for the Corporation for Public Broadcasting for 1982, $137 million for '83, and is contemplating slightly more than $105 million for 1984.

Roughly half of each year's appropriation goes to television, and that's divided among the 200-plus stations.

There are those in the system — Iselin among them — who maintain the trend in Washington may ultimately benefit public broadcasting. "Some of us have recognized for some time that federal support will not be coming forever, and that it's possibly — probably — a good thing. We have to look toward a time we can be self-sufficient."

Public TV's first foray into big-time advertising was with The Dial, the slick program guide introduced in September 1980 by the stations in New York, Los Angeles, Chicago and Washington. Seven others — in Detroit, Rochester, N.Y., Salt Lake City, Miami, St. Louis, Seattle and Milwaukee — have since joined the project, and an eighth, Boston, comes aboard in March.

There was, predictably, opposition to The Dial, from within the system and without, and there are stations already resisting the on-air advertising, even though the program at this stage is clearly experimental.

"Some opposition is psychological," Iselin says. "It's impossible for some people to contemplate experimentation with what they consider an art form."

Iselin says he doesn't see his "enhanced underwriting credits" as tampering with the quality of public TV.

"We have to think about ways to be popular," he says, "but that doesn't mean changing what we do to appeal to prospective advertisers. I think we would be editorially nutty to ham up a show like 'Rigoletto.' What we do to make ourselves appealing is try to start with the most popular operas first."

There are other problems — notably with unions, the phone company, news services and government regulatory agencies — which traditionally have allowed public broadcasters special consideration for their non-profit status.

Indeed, there are rather specific conditions laid down by the commission on alternative financing for commercials — no more than two minutes of advertising each half-hour, between programs, with no political or controversial opinions accepted.

Iselin says he isn't sure what form the "enhanced underwriting credits" will take — PBS only recently has allowed corporate underwriters to display their logos on the air — and he concedes he doesn't really know if prospective advertisers will embrace the approach.

The commission has accepted proposals from 16 television and 13 radio stations, and will select — by Jan. 11 — 10 of each, presumably including WNET, in the system's largest market, to participate. The experimental project will run from Jan. 1 through June 30, 1983, and the commission will report to Congress by Oct. 1 of that year.

What happens next is the question.

Carney Enjoys This Yuletide

BEST CHRISTMAS — Bill Carney will be spending Christmas with his two sons Eddie, 10, left, and Willie, 12. The story of his court battle will air on television tonight. (AP Laserphoto)

By ROBERT MACY
Associated Press Writer
LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Bill Carney is spending this Christmas with his sons — a victory for the crippled Army veteran who convinced the courts he was a fit father even if he couldn't throw a football.

And he has a message for other handicapped parents so challenged:

"If you love 'em, if you really care, don't give up."

His story, "The Ordeal of Bill Carney," will be broadcast in a television special tonight on CBS at 9 o'clock EST.

Carney says he has mixed emotions about the program. He says it portrays him as embittered by his injury, and he doesn't think that's true. He says the show also failed to mention his daughter, Jacqueline, who lives with his ex-wife, despite his request that she be mentioned.

Carney's ex-wife, Ellen Farnham of Buffalo, N.Y., reached by telephone Tuesday morning, refused comment on the court case or the program.

This holiday will be very different from the last one Willie, 12, and Eddie, 10, spent with their father in 1979. At that time, they faced a court-imposed return to their mother. Carney said he refused to see the boys off at the airport because he couldn't bear it.

Carney took custody of the boys informally after separating from his wife in 1971. He says their mother didn't want them.

He was injured Aug. 15, 1976 when a jeep overturned while he was on Army Reserve maneuvers at Camp Parks, Calif., near Oakland. His sons were staying with his parents in Phoenix, Ariz., during his 45-day Army stint.

While recovering at a Long Beach Naval hospital, he initiated divorce action. Then, their mother asked for legal custody and it was granted.
