Federal Officials Initially Agree To District Plans

By GENE WANG

RALEIGH, N.C. (UPI) — State officials said Saturday they were pleased with the U.S. Justice Department's initial reaction to the proposed reapportionment of state House and Senate districts following an informal review.

Officials in the department's Civil Rights Division had no immediate objection to most of the two proposals, but they want to see how the General Assembly revises House districts in Cumberland and Guilford counties, said James Wallace Jr., a deputy state attorney general.

Rep. Dan Lilley, D-Lenoir, said he had been told the department was generally "favorable" to the House redistricting proposal tentatively approved by a subcommittee Thursday.

Lilley, the chairman of the House Legislative Redistricting Committee, also said the unresolved issues involve reapportionment in Cumberland and Guilford counties.

The plans were presented Friday to the Justice Department by Jerris Leonard, a Washington lawyer hired to advise the General Assembly on the revision of legislative and congressional districts.

Lilley and Wallace did not attend the meeting between Leonard and William Bradford Reynolds, head of the department's Civil Rights Division. But Wallace flew to Washington later Friday for a briefing by Leonard.

"It was a good meeting," he said. "I think they got some important answers. Those plans aren't finished and I don't think anybody represents them as finished."

The General Assembly has been forced to schedule a special session next month because the Justice Department overturned the state's legislative reapportionment plans on the grounds the use of large, multi-member districts may have diluted minority voting strength in 40 North Carolina counties covered by the federal Voting Rights Act.

Earlier, the Justice Department rejected a state constitutional amendment barring the division of counties between legislative districts, spurring legislative committees last week to give tentative approval to House and Senate plans that split counties for the first time ever.

The House plan divides 22 counties, while the Senate proposal breaks up nine counties. Legislative hearings on both proposals are scheduled Thursday in Raleigh.

The House proposal creates 14 single-member districts across the state, including two in northeastern North Carolina where blacks make up a majority of the population.

But a House subcommittee that adopted the plan put off a decision on whether to create similar districts in Cumberland and Guilford counties pending further study. Both counties fall under the Voting Rights Act.

"There was some indication further study should be made to see if a (House) district could be created in Cumberland County," Lilley said.

Leonard and legislative aides involved in the reapportionment process have said the formation of a black majority district in Cumberland County is complicated by the presence of Fort Bragg's 25,000 residents and Army regulations prohibiting state officials from determining if there are concentrations of black population on the base.

Wallace said some Justice Department officials are advocating a Cumberland County house district that would include about two census tracts in the county plus all of Fort Bragg.

The district would be about 30 percent black, but Wallace said those officials feel it would effectively have a 70 percent black majority because few military personnel are registered to vote in Cumberland County.

The Guilford County plans hinge on the question of how many House districts should be created where blacks form a majority of the population. Subcommittee leaders have agreed to create at least one, but were undecided about forming a second.

Lilley said Justice Department officials who looked at the plan suggested legislators should attempt to get a concensus from blacks in Guilford County on their preference.

Wallace said the department is still pressing for a black Senate district in Guilford County, despite arguments the creation of such a district could be considered gerrymandering.

Council Names Gail Meeks As Acting Manager

By TOM BAINES

The City Council, meeting Friday afternoon to discuss the resignation of City Manager Ed Wyatt, approved two actions aimed at avoiding any disruption of progress at city hall in the wake of Wyatt's decision to leave Greenville.

Council members, in an effort "to avoid losing momentum," gave unanimous approval to the appointment of Gail Meeks, present budget and management officer for the city, as interim city manager beginning Feb. 28, the effective date of Wyatt's resignation.

The governing board also appointed from within its ranks a three-member search committee, consisting of Louis Clark (chairman), Stuart Shinn and Janice Buck, "to find a candidate for the position of city manager."

In a statement issued at the meeting, the council stated as a body that it "is indeed sorry to lose the services" of Wyatt. "Anytime an organization loses a man the quality of Ed Wyatt, there is the potential for a disruption of its progress," the council stated. "The council feels it is imperative that this not be the case in Greenville."

According to the statement, "The council feels the timeliness of this action is very important. It assures a smooth transition from the present city manager to the interim city manager. It also allows the committee to immediately seek the most qualified candidate for the job."

Wyatt revealed Wednesday that he had resigned the job he has held here since July of 1978 to become city manager of Fairfax, Va., in his native state.

Mayor Percy Cox, who regained his seat on the city board in the November elections after a self-imposed two-year absence, told Wyatt at the Friday meeting that the departing city manager was "one of the most conscientious and hard working men I've seen in this position." Cox said he could not blame Wyatt "for trying to better yourself ... but we will certainly miss you."

Gail B. Meeks

The naming of Mrs. Meeks at this time, it was pointed out, allows her to begin working with Wyatt to become familiar with the duties and functions of the job.

A Greenville native, she joined the city staff in 1968 and has held a number of positions with the city, including assistant to the city manager for over two years. She was appointed budget and management officer in July of 1980.

A Rose High School graduate, Mrs. Meeks attended Pitt Community College and grduated from the municipal administration course at the Institute of Government in 1980. She has attended a number of schools on municipal government.

She is a member of the N. C. City and County Management Association and in November she was appointed to the N. C. State Advisory Council for Business and Office Occupations.

Mrs. Meeks serves as the ombudsperson for the Citizen Concern System and as the city's public information officer.

District Proposals Stir Hackles In Pitt, Martin

By MELVIN LANG
Reflector Staff Writer

A proposal to go before the state House Redistricting Committee on Tuesday stirred indignation in Pitt and Martin counties Saturday as residents of the adjoining counties fought to preserve their political congruity.

The proposal, approved Thursday by a House subcommittee, would slice off the northern tip of Pitt County — Bethel and Carolina townships — and mix it with a new single-member district that would stretch across eastern Martin County into Bertie and on to Ahoskie township in Hertford County. The remainder of Pitt County would join Greene for a two-seat district in the House.

Under the plan, the remainder of Martin County — Goose Nest, Hamilton and Robersville townships — would be placed in a single-member district stretching from Robersonville to the edge of Vance County, picking up portions of Halifax and Warren counties en route to its destination.

"There's no sense in the world for Bethel and Carolina townships being put into a district with Ahoskie. It just doesn't make sense," said veteran state Rep. Sam Bundy of Farmville.

"I'm of the opinion that some changes will be made," Bundy said, "or there will be court action."

"It all hit us like a flash yesterday and we've been on the telephone ever since," said Robert L. Martin of Bethel, a member of the Pitt County Board of Commissioners.

"It's an insult to the intelligence of the people in this community," said John L. House of Robersonville, chairman of the Martin County Commission. "This is terrible. I can't believe it."

Both said they were seeking alternatives to the subcommittee proposal, which will be placed before the full House committee during meetings Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

Public hearings on the House plan and a similiar redistricting effort by the state Senate are scheduled in Raleigh Thursday. The Senate plan would place Pitt in a one-member senatorial district with Martin County, which House said would present no problems to him. Halifax and Edgecombe counties, which now form a senatorial district with Pitt and Martin, would be placed in a separate one-seat district.

Martin said a public meeting has been scheduled tentatively in Greenville Monday night to discuss the redistricting proposal and to seek an alternative. He said the session probably would be held at the county office building.

Martin said he also anticipated discussion of the proposal during a "Pepsi Break" scheduled in Bethel Monday morning.

"Everybody is against it," he said. "We've been working so hard in the last few years to unify Pitt County ... and we'd feel kind of bad being cut adrift."

North Carolina's Constitution prohibits crossing of county lines in establishing legislative districts, but the Justice Department — acting under the 1965 U.S. Voting Rights Act — ruled that prohibition unconstitutional in rejecting earlier redistricting efforts. The department called for more single-member districts in the state to provide additional voting strength for minorities.

Bundy said the department's ruling has created "a mess all over the state." He expressed the belief that the state should have appealed the department's decision overriding the constitutional ban on splitting counties.

The Legislature is scheduled to meet Feb. 9 to draw up another district plan for the Justice Department's review.

Ayden Men Seek Seat On County School Board

Two Ayden men have filed as candidates for the Pitt County Board of Education.

Ivan Hill, a state employee and member of the Ayden Parent-Teacher Council, and Stephen Tripp, a 1980 University of North Carolina-Chapel Hill graduate with a degree in pharmacy, filed for the Ayden seat Friday.

Hill, a Johnston County native, received his undergraduate degree in political science from UNC-CH in 1962. He has been certified to teach by the Department of Public Instruction and works as a consultant for Cherry Hospital, O'Berry Center, the North Carolina Special Care Center, Caswell Center, the Jones Alcoholic Rehabilitation Center and the Eastern N.C. School for the Deaf.

"As a career state employee, subject to the Hatch Act, I cannot seek election to a partisan political office. Therefore, I am not seeking this position as a stepping stone to some other elective office," said Hill.

He served as Parent-Teacher Council Chairman at Ayden Elementary School in 1975 and was appointed to the Ayden-Grifton Advisory Council in 1976. He is a past chairman for both the Ayden and the Ayden-Grifton Advisory Councils.

Hill is a member of the Ayden-Grifton Kiwanis Club and is a recipient of the "Distinguished Club President's Award" for the Carolinas district. He is a member of Ayden United Methodist Church and the Ayden Golf and Country Club. He is also a member of the Coastal Plains Horse Show Association.

Hill is the current vice president of the N.C. State Employees Association, an organization of 25,000 members throughout the state. He is a past NCSEA area chairman and has served on the State Convention Committee as area resolution chairman for two terms, and as area delegate and resolutions committee member. He has also served on the board of directors of the International Personnel Management Association (North Carolina chapter) and is a former member of the Pitt Community College Advisory Committee for Human Services/Mental Health Associate Program.

Hill has two daughters, one, a freshman at UNC-CH and another who attends Ayden Middle School.

Tripp, 25, a graduate of Ayden-Grifton High School, said he wanted to increase the educational standards of the county — not only at the academic level — but also in the whole educational realm.

He works for Hollowell's Drug Store and is a member of the Ayden Christian Church, where he is a Sunday School youth teacher. In college, Tripp won Rho Chi academic recognition.

"I want to do something to serve the community," said Tripp.

Tripp said be believes that childhood is a very important time of life. "Education plays a very important part of the future. Every kid should have the opportunity to have a good future," he said.

He cited his recent college experience as his reason for running for the Board of Education.

"I can remember how it was when I was in high school. I want every kid to have the opportunity for an education," he said.

This will be Tripp's first political race. He is married to the former Susan Ange of Williamston.

BRUCE JONES

Minister Seeking Pitt Post

Walter Bruce Jones Jr. of Route 2, Ayden, an ordained Free Will Baptist minister and partner in an Ayden barbecue restaurant, has filed as a candidate for the Pitt County Board of Commissioners for the seat designated for Ayden, Grifton and Swift Creek townships.

The seat now is held by B. Alton Gardner, who has announced he will not seek re-election.

Jones, a 1969 graduate of Ayden High School, is pastor of the Kings Cross Roads Free Will Baptist Church, Farmville, and serves as Pitt County agent for the American Farm & Ranch Supply Corp. He is also a partner with his father and uncle in the "Skylight Inn" restaurant.

In an announcement of his candidacy, Jones said he was a Republican but that he "was a victim of our political structure, in that you have to be a member of a political party," explaining that he "almost always voted a split ticket."

"If Democrats and Republicans would only grasp the ideals of the founding fathers, the distinctions of

Electric Credits Will Be Coming

Greenville Utilities Commission members have approved electric rate refund credits for February, March and April.

The refund — to be given in the form of credits on customer bills — for February and March was set at $10 per 1,000 killowatt hours, while the April refund was set at $9 per 1,000 kwh. However, commission members agreed that the April refund rate might have to be adjusted up or down, depending on February and March usage and weather predictions.

The commission received a $4.7 million refund from Virginia Electric & Power Co. in November following the settlement of a rate case. Some $220,000 was refunded to Ayden, Winterville and the city of Greenville (for street light payments) in December.

Another $2.7 million has been set aside for purchase of the Vepco substation here, in conjunction with the switch from Vepco to N.C. Power Agency III as the city's supplier of electricity. GUC ownership of the substation will reduce the cost of power to the commission and ultimately to the customer.

The remaining $1.79 million, commissioners agreed, should be returned to customers. The method in which the refunds would be made was worked out at a special meeting Friday.

An estimated $310,000 will be returned to customers on bills sent this month. The $5 per 1,000 kwh credit for January was approved by the commission in December.

The $10 per 1,000 kwh credit in February is expected to refund $600,000 to customers, while the $10 refund in March is estimated to return some $500,000 to users. The $9 April credit is projected to return in the neighborhood of $387,000.

Schmidt Ailing

HANNOVER, West Germany (AP) — Chancellor Helmut Schmidt suffered a "slight faintness" during a meeting here Saturday of the ruling Social Democratic Party, a doctor said.

In Bonn, a government spokesman said the chancellor suffered a muscle cramp. He said Schmidt had spent too much time on his feet at the party meeting.

Last year, Schmidt, 63, was fitted with a heart pacemaker. A public health pysician assigned to attend the meeting said he examined the chancellor and said Schmidt was in no danger and did not need medication.

Schmidt left the meeting and returned to his home in Hamburg by helicopter.

Witnesses said the chancellor had just finished a two-hour speech and taken part in a brief discussion when he began feeling weak.

Pitt Unemployment Rate Rises Above State Level

The unemployment rate in Pitt County reached 7.2 percent in December 1981 as the result of a loss of 950 workers from the employed to the unemployed ranks. This is a full percent higher than the 6.2 percent for November, and places Pitt County in a higher unemployment rate than the state level of 6.8 percent for December.

Generally, Pitt County in recent years has placed lower than the state average unemployment rate.

"Pitt County is beginning to feel more effects from our national economy dilemma," said Jim Hannan, manager of the Greenville office of the Employment Security Commission. "The number of unemployed in Pitt County climbed from 2,790 in November to 3,220 in December."

Records maintained by ESC show that total employment in Pitt County dipped from 42,300 in November to 41,350 in December.

"Most losses," Hannan pointed out, "were attributable to job losses in nondurable goods such as tobacco, apparel and textiles."

Bob Harrington, unemployment insurance claims supervisor for the ESC, observed that "unemployment claims picked up in early December. Some employers typically use Christmas and New Year for temporary shutdowns. This year more employers (than usual) used the holiday season for temporary shutdowns."

Harrington also noted "increases from November to December in temporary layoffs from the textile and apparel industries, as well as a pickup in construction layoffs, both temporary and permanent, over the two-month (November and December) period."

Harrington said statistics available indicate "another increase in the number of unemployment claims filed for the month of January."

Hannan added, "With unemployment on the rise, the ESC needs cooperation from community employers more than ever. We hope all employers will list their oponings with the local Job Service, regardless of the length or duration of the jobs."

Judge Refuses To Block Execution

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — A federal judge refused Saturday night to stop the execution of Ernest John Dobbert, leaving to an appeals court in Atlanta the decision of whether he and Anthony Antone should go to Florida's electric chair on Tuesday.

Attorneys for Dobbert, 43, convicted of torturing and strangling his 9-year-old daughter, had anticipated the decision by U.S. District Judge Susan H. Black and filed an early appeal with the 11th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Atlanta.

Earlier Saturday, lawyers for Antone, 64, sentenced to die for the 1975 contract killing of a former Tampa, Fla., police detective, had urged the appellate judges to stop his scheduled execution. His petition was assigned to a three-judge panel and a decision was expected Sunday or Monday, according to deputy clerk Kembra Smith.

Dobbert's appeal questioned jury selection processes at the time of his trial in 1974 and a psychological examination done by Florida prison officials.

His legal team argued that prosecutors systematically excluded from juries anyone who opposed the death penalty.

Ms. Black's opinion notes Dobbert alleges that the practice violated his constitutional rights.

"The petitioner has stated that he has been analyzing (this) for three years, yet he waited until the day the governor of the state of Florida signed the death warrant before he filed that claim before the state court," she wrote.

Dobbert was convicted in 1974 of first-degree murder in the torture-strangulation of his daughter, Kelley Ann. He also is serving a life term for killing a son.

Both Dobbert and Antone have exhausted appeals in state courts.

Antone was denied a request for a delay Friday by U.S. District Judge George C. Carron. But the judge granted a temporary stay, until noon Monday, to give Antone's lawyers time to appeal.

Antone was accused of being the mastermind of the slaying of former narcotics detective Richard Cloud, who was shot in the doorway of his home in October 1975.

During the trial, he was portrayed as the person who arranged to have Cloud murdered on behalf of Victor Acosta, a convicted cocaine dealer.

Acosta, a fugitive at the time of Antone's trial, was captured in New York in 1978 and indicted in connection with the Cloud case. The day after he learned about the indictment, he was found dead in his Hillsborough County jail cell from a drug overdose. And confessed triggerman Benjamin Gilford was found hanged in his cell in Orlando while awaiting sentencing.

Ellis Marlow Haskew, driver of the getaway car, struck a deal with prosecutors and testified that Antone supplied the weapon and the cash in the contract killing. Haskew was sentenced to 35 years in prison.

Defense attorneys contend Antone's sentence was unfair in light of Haskew's sentence of 35 years with parole at any time.

Airport Rioting Quelled

FRANKFURT, West Germany (AP) — Police jailed at least 53 people Saturday during clashes with demonstrators who rioted at the Frankfurt airport and then in downtown Frankfurt to protest construction of a new runway.

Offcials said it was the worst violence in the months-long controversy and about 30 people were injured, including 15 policemen. Witnesses said some of the injured were taken by helicopters to hospitals.

Saturday night in downtown Frankfurt, police arrested six people as masked youths roamed streets smashing windows. Police used clubs and water cannons to disperse one group of 400 protesters.

The trouble started after 6,000 people defied a ban by the Darmstadt city government and massed in a wooded area where authorities plan to construct a third runway for Frankfurt's Rhein-Main International Airport.

Police said youths began hurling bottles, stones, firebombs and debris, forcing them to retreat behind barricades.

Witnesses said officers counterattacked using tear gas, which was mostly ineffective because of gusty winds. Police moved out from behind the barricades to clear the area of demonstrators and got into a number of running battles with demonstrators.

COLLISION

An estimated $1,450 damage resulted from a two-vehicle collision Friday on Memorial Drive near the West End Shopping Center. Police said a vehicle driven by Mittie Turnage Joyner of Farmville collied with a vehicle operated by Thelma Harris Nobles of Glendale Court Apartments. No charges were filed.

Actor Dies

LONDON (UPI) — Stanley Holloway, the lovable Cockney actor who became an overnight success at age 66 as Mr. Doolittle in "My Fair Lady," singing "With a Little Bit of Luck" and "Get Me to the Church on Time," died Saturday. He was 91.

Holloway, who began his show business career at the same time Charlie Chaplin was making his name in the British music halls, had been under treatment at a nursing home in Littlehampton, south of London for 10 days, a spokeswoman said. She gave no cause of death.

Before international fame came with the original Broadway and movie versions of the musical My Fair Lady, Holloway had already spent half a century on the boards as a song-and-dance man, comedian, straight actor, and reciting what became his speciality — monlogues in a dead-pan voice.

Holloway first performed on television in the 1930s when it was still experimental and in 1960 played Poo-Bah in "The Mikado" for NBC. His own ABC-TV series "Our Man Higgins," in which he played an English butler, premiered in October 1962 to good reviews for the star but criticism for the scripts.

One of his last assignments on stage was at the Royal Command Performance for Queen Elizabeth in 1980.

Holloway was twice married. His second wife was Violet Marion Lane. They had one son, Julian.

Block Defends Land Set-Aside

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (UPI) — U.S. Agriculture Secretary John Block Saturday defended his controversial grain set-aside program and warned "the door will be closed" to loan-needy farmers who do not voluntarily participate.

"Farmers must participate in the acreage reduction program in order to qualify for the loan program, to qualify for the farmer-held grain reserve and to qualify for target prices and deficiency payments, should they be necessary," said Block.

He was in his home state to address the 1982 Illinois Pork Conference and Trade Show.

Block, citing past popularity of government price support programs, said keeping price support benefits from those who do not participate in the set-aside program is a "substantial incentive" — one he vowed to uphold.

U.S. May Send Supplies

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration plans to send $55 million worth of emergency military equipment to El Salvador to help make up for helicopters and fighters destroyed in a guerrilla raid on an airbase there, congressional sources said Saturday night.

A State Department spokeswoman said, however, no "definitive decision" had been made.

The sources, who asked that their names not be used, said the administration "touched base" with key congressional figures late Friday to inform them of the decision, even though congressional approval is not required.

The transfer would come under special authority permitting the president to send foreign governments up to $75 million in U.S. military equipment in emergencies each year without congressional approval. Reagan already has sent El Salvador $20 million worth from that account. President Carter tapped the account for $5 million for El Salvador in the closing days of his administration.

The reported decision was made only one day after the administration sent Congress its certification that the military-civilian government of El Salvador was making progress in human rights. The conclusion drew immediate attack from congressional opponents of aid to El Salvador.

The certification was required by Congress in last year's foreign aid bill for continuation of $25 million in economic aid and $40 million in military aid to El Salvador scheduled for the fiscal year ending Sept. 30.

Wednesday's attack on the Ilopango air base near San Salvador was reported to have resulted in the destruction of six of the 14 U.S.-built Huey troop transport helicopters used by the Salvadoran army and six British-built Hurricane fighters.

Dozier Calls Terrorists 'Dedicated' To Business

VICENZA, Italy (AP) — Brig. Gen. James L. Dozier returned Saturday to the apartment where he was kidnapped by Red Brigades terrorists, making a brief visit to pick up clothes and "to thank my neighbors for their prayers."

The American general, speaking briefly with reporters outside the apartment building in Verona where he was abducted Dec. 17, described his captors as committed and serious.

"They are a bunch of dedicated people. They are smart. They believe in what they are doing, and they are very serious about it," Dozier said.

As he spoke, a message was found that said "the comrades" jailed for Dozier's abduction would be freed. The leaflet with the Red Brigades' symbol, a five-pointed star in a circle, was found in a wastebasket near Venice after a journalist was told by an anonymous telephone caller where to look.

Police sources initially said they thought it was authentic, but later a spokesman for the anti-terrorist police office said the message was a hoax — "somebody's joke."

Police sources said during his 42-day captivity Dozier was forced to wear headphones for hours listening to recordings of classical music, apparently to keep him from overhearing the terrorists' conversation and street noises that might have helped pinpoint their position.

Siberian Pentacostalist Ends Her Hunger Strike

MOSCOW (AP) — A nurse said Pentecostalist Lydia Vashchenko broke her month-long hunger strike Saturday by taking broth hours after U.S. Embassy officials sent her to a Soviet hospital, ending a 43-month stay in the American compound.

Miss Vashchenko, 31, is one of seven Pentecostalists who took refuge in the U.S. Embassy 3½ years ago to escape what she and her family described as religious persecution in their Siberian home of Chernogorsk. The embassy granted them humanitarian refuge and all seven had been living in one room in the embassy basement.

Miss Vashchenko and her mother, Augustina, 52, began fasting over the Christmas holidays to protest what they felt was lack of effort by the U.S. Embassy to press their case for emigration with Soviet officials.

American officials denied the claim, saying everything possible was being done. They warned the hunger strikers they would be hospitalized if it appeared their lives were endangered by the fast, and that there were no assurances they could return to the embassy once out of U.S. custody.

Lydia Vashchenko vowed upon leaving the embassy Saturday that she would continue her fast protesting the Kremlin's refusal to allow her to emigrate.

But a nurse at the intensive care ward in Moscow's Botkin hospital said Miss Vashchenko had taken broth and drank some tea.

Miss Vashchenko was admitted there with a note from U.S. Embassy physician John Schadler that read: "In my examination of Miss Lydia Vashchenko over the past several months, I have found no evidence of psychosis."

His apparent intention was to dissuade the Soviets from labeling Miss Vashchenko insane and placing her in a psychiatric ward. Other religious dissidents have suffered that fate in the Soviet Union.

"In order to avoid a life-threatening situation from developing and in view of the limited medical facilities available to the embassy, a determination was made that Lydia Vashchenko had to be transferred to better equipped medical facilities," U.S. Charge d'Affaires Warren Zimmermann said.

Zimmermann said Miss Vashchenko's weight had lost 14 pounds on the fast and now weighed 91 pounds.

Next 100 Years Count The Most For Newspaper

Last Tuesday The Daily Reflector passed its 100th anniversary. It has been a century since the little weekly Reflector was established by the brothers Julian R. and David Jordan Whichard.

No doubt it was a struggle for a number of years after David Jordan Whichard took over ownership and published the weekly until he felt the time had come to establish The Daily Reflector.

It has continued that way until today. There were constant financial struggles as the paper moved to the hands of David Julian Whichard and finally came to the present ownership.

In recent years a revolution in technology and a booming Pitt County economy have given the paper the capacity to serve our readers and advertisers better than ever. We have our largest news staff ever and computerization means that a story can be moved into type within moments after it is completed by a reporter and an editor.

This is not to dwell on our accomplishments. We know that we would be nothing without the splendid support we have received from the community from the very first day this newspaper was begun on Jan. 26, 1882. And the industriousness of our people has brought about the economic growth which has benefitted all of us, and particularly has allowed The Daily Reflector to be what it is today.

As much as the past 100 years means to us, however, it is the next 100 that is most important.

We pledge to continue to give our support to causes which we believe will most benefit all the people of Pitt and surrounding counties.

We pledge to be constantly alert to any government activities which we believe are not in the best interest of the people.

We pledge to be vigilant for dishonesty and waste in government, activities which rob the taxpayers of their hard-earned dollars.

We pledge to work for a better life for the poorest among us and to support equal opportunity for everyone.

We will publish the news without favor, and we will strive to be accurate and fair.

Watchful Eye Now Could Help Later

A Pennsylvania economic firm, Chase Econometrics of Pittsburgh, says electronics, chemicals and plastics are going to replace North Carolina's traditional industries as areas of future economic growth.

If the forecasters' crystal ball approaches any degree of reliability, we should expect the General Assembly to re-evaluate environmental protection controls at the state level. The fields of electronics, chemicals and plastics involve a host of pollutants that require close supervision ... and the price of catch-up (too little and too late) is high.

Sunday Morning Notes

One hundreth birthdays are interesting, indeed. The Daily Reflector had one on Jan. 26. It marked a hundred years of publishing the paper starting with the notebook paper-sized Reflector which was issued weekly.

There was a cake and a picture in the modern day edition of the newspaper ... And there were people who came up and jovially asked, "How does it feel to be a hundred?"

Well, actually none of us have yet reached the age of 100. The paper has, but no one living today was around when the paper was founded by brothers Julian R. and David Jordan Whichard.

Anyway, it's nice to be a part of an organization which is 100 years old. The Daily Reflector is the oldest continuous business in Pitt County and during its time have come telephones, electricity, air travel, automobiles, paved highways, radio and television, among many other modern innovations.

As for the newspaper, changes have been drastic. The first paper was but four pages. The type for the paper was assembled by hand, with printers picking up one letter at a time and assembling them in a "stick" to form lines. The lines were transferred to "chases" which were locked up and placed on hand fed presses for printing.

Later The Daily Reflector was to appear. Equipment was modernized to include the Linotype on which type was set a line at the time. Web-fed automatic presses made the scene and the newspaper's production facilities were considered modern.

The greatest changes have come in recent years, however, with the introduction of high speed offset printing. Most recently a computerized news room has been added with reporters working on terminals from which news stories are transferred to computer typesetters.

There undoubtedly will be great changes in the next hundred years. We are convinced the The Daily Reflector will be around with the news for a 200th anniversary delivered by the most modern methods available at that time.

Who's To Blame For Drunken Drivers?

RALEIGH — The Christian Action League of North Carolina has latched upon a popular topic which fits right into its own commitments in calling for a statewide crackdown on drunken drivers.

Dr. Tom Freeman, president of the League, has urged Gov. Hunt to set up a governor's commission to develop a master plan to curtail the situation which is termed a crisis.

Statistics since 1975 have shown a steady increase in the numbers of drunken driving arrests, while convictions have slid steadily to a point now below 50 percent. Experts have pointed the finger at plea bargaining and charge reductions in the courts as the chief culprit in the lenient treatment of drunken drivers.

Christian Action League leaders pull no punches in fixing the blame: "It is our judicial system that is the problem. It appears that drunk driving laws are interpreted differently from one section of the state to another," the League commented in a news release concerning the action.

Dr. Freeman noted that half the deaths in wrecks last year can be attributed directly to drunken drivers.

"We hope that a governor's commission will be named because drunk driving is one of our most serious health and safety problems facing our people. None of us is immune to this daily threat to life and limb.

"Our families can be destroyed in a matter of seconds by a drinking driver at any time. The fact is: our streets are not safe.

"This insanity is totally unacceptable and should be stopped," Freeman stated.

This is the year for North Carolina political leaders to take the national spotlight in several prestigious organizations.

State Sen. Kenneth Royall Jr., Democrat from Durham, has been installed as chairman of the Council of State Governments. This makes three Tar Heels in national leadership positions. Richmond County Board of Commissioners Chairman Richard Conder is president of the National Association of Counties. Scotland Neck Mayor Fred Harrison is president of the National League of Cities.

The group headed by Royall maintains an information exchange program among state legislators and officials, publishes regular newsletters and reports, meets often to explore state government problems and relationships with local and federal governments, promotes regional and local cooperation with state activities, conducts research on state problems, and maintains liaison with Congress and the White House in Washington.

Royall is considered one of the strongest leaders in the North Carolina General Assembly, holding posts as majority whip, chairman of the Ways and Means Committee and chairman of the Advisory Budget Commission. He has been for years the leader in legislative efforts to reform the state's mental health programs.

An Exercise In Presidential Authority

WASHINGTON — The shock wave that rolled over the White House just before noon on Jan. 20 resulted from the phenomenon of Ronald Reagan suddenly behaving as PresidentReagan and, in a virtuoso but overdue performance, laying down the law: no new sales taxes!

That the president should have stunned his highest White House aides by asserting the presidential authority he had assumed one year earlier shows how successfully his own instincts and convictions had been suppressed. The welcome change on the excise tax issue suggests that Reagan may be growing restive under the blows of black humorists asking how come Reagan won't play on the White House team.

If so, true Reaganite policy lines become viaible on many issues, not the least of which is U.S.-Soviet relations and the tougher line the president is known to espouse in handling the Polish crisis.

The pent-up explosion that spelled presidential leadership last week directly followed a half-hour meeting in the white House mess where Reagan heard anti-tax warnings from a small, blue-ribbon contingent of business leaders brought there by Richard Rahn, chief economist of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce. The warning, more philosophic than political: Increased taxes would pervert Reagan's radical assault on reducing the governmental "wedge"; the revenue gain measured against, say, a $90 billion budget deficit for 1983 would be peanuts; the cure for deficits lies in cutting entitlements, not raising taxes.

Taking his cue from the president's own panegyrics on the 1980 campaign trail and long before, Pepsico's Donald M. Kendall quietly talked about economic growth as the only path to economic recovery. He interspersed what one listener called a "brilliant" 11-minute monologue with appeals to "leadership"'. The implication: Voters who elected Reagan elected him to lead, not follow fainter hearts of advisers.

Reagan said nothing. He might have been tuning in to one of his own speeches. His only surprise came when Paul Thayer, CEO of the LTV Corp., strongly supported Kendall in attacking "waste" in Pentagon spending.

On defense spending, however, Reagan's sharply-increased new budget conforms with his ideology. He was only mildly interested. Not so with what he heard on taxes from Kendall, Thayer, Jay VanAndel, chairman of Amway, and Joseph Alibrandi, CEO of Whittaker Corp. When the session ended, Reagan promised: "This will not roll off my shoulders. It has gone right to my heart."

Moments later, he dropped his no-tax bombshell on White House chief of staff James Baker III, budget director David Stockman, and counselor Ediwn Meese III (semi-defector from the pro-tax phalanx and the aide who helped arrange the crucial session that routed it.) They and other aides were all present in the White House mess. All listened as Reagan chose the advice of outsiders over his own insiders.

Not present was Treasury Secretary Donald Regan. Regan was stuck in the White House Cabinet Room that morning discussing with Republican congressmen the president's plan to revive inner cities with "free enterprise zones." Regan had been a stalwart holdout against the Baker-Stockman taxhikers until Jan. 6, when he surrendered in an interview on NBC's "Today" show.

For Regan' the president's last-moment reversal of repeated White House leaks that he would ask Congress to raise excise taxes on gasoline, tobaoco and alcoholic beverages in his State of the Union address was particularly bitter medicine. If he had stuck with his own convictions, not easy in view of the power and depth of the pro-tax phalanx, he would now be king of the mountain, the acknowledged economic policy chief.

U.S. Turns To Television For Impact

WASHINGTON — In a forgotten old Andy Hardy movie, some lovable youngsters find themselves in trouble for defying the local authorities. Their precocious contemporaries "on the outside," played by the indefatigable team of Mickey Rooney and Judy Garland, must raise some quick cash to spring the bunch. But how to do it?

Suddenly Rooney, who plays Andy, hits on a solution: "My Dad's got a barn — we could put on a show!" The ingenious ploy works, and the story ends happily.

While Andy Hardy may not have provided the inspiration, the Reagan administration has resolved to tackle a confounding crisis by putting on a show of its own.

As many as 400 million people in this country and abroad will lend their eyes if not their hearts to Ronald Reagan, other world leaders and some big Hollywood names during an hour-long television special this Sunday, "Let Poland Be Poland."

Frustrations over Poland, no doubt, led Charles Wick, director of the International Communications Agency, to conceive the extravaganza. The former movia producer and old Reagan confidant probably shared the feeling that there ia little the U.S. can do for the 35 million Poles living under martial law, especially in light of the negligible response of our allies.

Feeling "somewhat helpless," Wick told reporters last week that the production "would be a lightning rod for all of the diffused outrage and frustration concerning this repression of liberty .... We think this will be a tremendous show. Probably the biggest show in the history of the world," he added.

To be sure, Cecil B. DeMille never imagined the audience Wick is expecting this Sunday. The Public Broadcasting System plans to carry the program nationally if Congress adopts a joint resolution this week exempting the show from a prohibition against ICA domestic broadcasts. No opposition is expected.

Meanwhile, our reporter, Michael Duffy, learned that ICA will beam "Let Poland Be Poland" simultaneously totelevision networks in about 40 countries and broadcast audio portions live over the Voice of America. Videotapes will be sent to 40 other countriee.

As television goes, Wick's lineup of stars should have no trouble evoking tears from viewers in either Spokane or Singapore. Britain's superb actress, Glenda Jackson, will cohost with actor Charlton Heston; Orson Wellea and author James Michener will read from Dante and other works; RussiAn emigre Mstislav Rostropovich will play the cello, and "Old Blue Eyes" Frank Sinatra will speak prior to the playing of his old recording of the Polish song, "Ever Homeward."

Had this cavalcade originated in Hollywood, free from the trappings of Washington and calculating politicians, there would be no question about its sincerity.

But the administration's reliance on "video diplomacy" to create a spirit of solidarity may be no more effective than its past image-oriented efforts in foreign affairs.

For example, we don't expect to hear the president explain the inconsistency of U.S. economic sanctions against the Soviet Union in light of his relucnce to risk the farm vote and slap a grain embargo on the Soviets for good measure. While a worldwide television special affords a golden opportunity to outline the president's next move, Reagan's aides surely know that complex deils — whatever they are — would spoil "the show."

Moreover, sympathetic statements by British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher and German Chancellor Helmut Schmidt aren't likely to gloss over the obvious disagreements the West has displayed recently in its response to the Polish military crackdown.

Can show business professionals of even the best intentions guarantee that their efforts won't dilute or belittle America's concern about Poland? Television has a way of doing just that: After a heartwrenching hour of "Let Poland Be Poland," no amount of footage of tank-infested Warsaw will keep most of us from switching to "Archie Bunker's Place" when it's over.

Despite his past successes with the camera, there are certain questions President Reagan can't reduce to stage and screen. So, if Sunday's broadcast seems fuzzy and unclear, the trouble may not be in your set..

Math

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan has come up with some new math to explain the soaring budget d[illegible] he once promised to end in a hurry. But there are skeptics in his economics class who prefer old-fashioned arithmetic.

Among them, ironically, are some of the Democrats Reagan accuses of fashioning federal policies that ran the debt total up to the trillion dollar level.

But they are not alone. Republicans and conservative Democrats are worried, too, at the prospect of deficits expected to far exceed the record $66.4 billion of Gerald R. Ford's last year in the White House.

They wanted federal excise taxes on tobacco, alcohol, gasoline and telephone service increased to trim the deficit. So did some of the president's own economic advisers. Reagan said no.

"Raising taxes won't balance the budget," Reagan told Congress Tuesday night. That is true, of course, if the government merely finds more ways to spend what it takes in.

"It will encourage more government spending and less private investment," Reagan said in his State of the Union message. "Raising taxes will slow economic growth, reduce production and destroy future jobs ...

"So I will not ask you to try to balance the budget on the backs of the American taxpayers," he said.

That sounds good, but one way or another, the whole problem is on their backs anyhow. They pay the bills.

Campaigning for the White House, Reagan had said he would balance the budget within the four years of his first term. He backed off that months ago. Instead of balance, the prospect now is that deficits may still be running at $80 billion or more in 1984.

Secretary of the Treasury Donald Regan says deficits will be declining by about $10 billion a year, to levels in the range of $90 billion in fiscal 1983 and $80 billion in 1984.

He said that would not necessarily drive up interest rates. But Chairman Paul A. Volcker of the Federal Reserve Board said it probably would.

And, as the president observed, high interest rates add to deficits, since the government already owes about $1 trillion. Reagan said interest cost the government about $5 billion more than was anticipated during 1981.

"Higher taxes would not mean lower deficits," Reagan said. "If they did, how would we explain that tax revenues more than doubled just since 1976, yet in the same 6-year period we ran the largest series of deficits in our history."

Economic theories and new math aside, the arithmetic explains it. Spending went up more.

Public Forum

To the editor:

For almost one year my husband and I griped and grumbled because we were not getting the gas mileage we were promised with our 1980 Chevrolet. It has a six-cylinder engine and standard transmission, so we couldn't understand why the gas needle dropped so quickly. We were constantly on empty, or so it seemed.

The salesman told my husband we'd get 18 miles per gallon in town, but when we checked it on a trip, it appeared that we got only 19 miles per gallon. Twice we took the car back to Phelps' Chevrolet where we were told there was nothing wrong.

Finally I called the dealer to get the address of someone who could do something about this problem. The secretary said there was a man there that day from Richmond, who could help me.

Sure enougyh, Mr. Lyles told me the correct way to check gas mileage. Maybe there are others who need to know this.

You get two one-gallon containers and fill them with gas. Put them in your car, along with a funnel, then drive until you run out of gas. Write down your mileage, then pour one of the gallons of gas in the tank. Drive until you run out of gas again, then subtract that mileage from the first mileage you recorded. That will give you your gas mileage.

I was happily amazed to learn that we are getting 18.7 miles per gallon. Thank you, Mr. Lyles!

To the editor:

I was born in Greenville, but my parents moved away when I was in the fourth grade. My parents were killed in an automobile accident when I was 16, and I lived in a foster home until I reached the age of 18.

I am incarcerated in prison now and have never felt more lonely in my life. I don't have anyone to write to or anyone to write to me. I believe that some of my relatives still live in or around Greenville, and I thought that if maybe you could publish my letter in your newspaper, some of my relatives or someone who knew them might write to me.

I would like to correspond with anyone as a pen-pal who lives in or around Greenville.

I am a white male, but loneliness picks no certain age, and if there is anyone who reads my letter that is lonely and wants a friend to share a smile with from time to time, please write and I will answer.

President Looks Ahead For His '82 Road Tour

WASHINGTON (AP) — His 1982 debut before Congress behind him, President Reagan is taking his show on the road.

Reagan, who opened his all-new, 1982 economic drama before Congress on Tuesday evening, will try out his script for transferring social programs to the states on the Republican Party faithful and state legislatures in the coming months.

With Congress less than certain to rush to the president's side, his aides are charting a late winter and early spring schedule that will send Reagan around the country drumming up support for the program he outlined in his State of the Union address.

They hope that a campaign from outside the nation's capital will help win approval of the program back in Washington. It was just such a series of trips that was planned for Reagan a year ago to build support for his 1981 plan of tax and spending cuts. The attempt on his life forced cancellation of the travel.

In addition to state legislatures, mayors and governors will be among Reagan's targets as he seeks to build pressure on Congress.

And scattered throughout will be appearances at party fund-raisers.

It is on the legislatures and governors that most of the burden of Reaganomics '82 will fall, as the states take over responsibility for welfare and food stamp programs.

The plan, said Senate Majority Leader Howard H. Baker Jr., R-Tenn., "has extraordinary implications for the ... improvement of federal, state, and local government relationships."

"ACTUALLY, THE WAY THE WORLD'S FALLING APART, IT PROBABLY WAS MADE IN ONLY SIX DAYS...."

In drawing up the plan, Reagan listened to his White House advisers, said to be unanimous in advocating increases in excise taxes, and heard an opposing view, according to a White House source, from "the wise men" — private economic advisers — and "the money managers" from Wall Street.

Having wound up that round of consultations with the script writers, the president will see how the show plays, if not in Peoria, well, then, in other towns around the Midwest and other sections of the nation.

Over the next two months, said deputy White House press secretary Larry Speakes, "a very thorough process of consultations" will be undertaken, while the "nuts and bolts" of the program are developed.

Under the guidance of Rich Williamson, the president's assistant for intergovernmental relations, the White House has been contacting governors — and will have reached all very soon, Speakes said — to go over the program.

In addition, said Speakes, "the president will go all out to present his program to the people and the Congress."

David R. Gergen, the White House director of communications, acknowledged, "We do think this is going to be a tough year, particularly in the early months."

"There will be cross-currents of support and opposition," said Baker.

Indeed, they began even as the president was just finishing his speech. From the states and cities, reaction followed partisan lines.

The trips will begin within a few weeks. By the end of the spring, the president, if he holds to the current plan, will have visited every section of the nation with the exception of New England.

"There'll be an opportunity to educate the people," said Speakes. "It will be a fairly extensive effort in order to educate business and specialized groups on the content of the president's program."

POLL

PRINCETON, N.J. — The American people consider the personal aspects of their lives — their family, health and self-respect, for example — to be far more important than the possession of material goods. Blacks and whites share this general assessment but blacks place more importance on status-related social goals and such material possessions as a high income, a nice home, car and other belongings.

In a recent Gallup survey eight in 10 participants (82 percent) assigned one of the top two positions on an 11-point scale to the importance of their family life. Similar proportions indicated that their physical health (81 percent), self-respect (79 percent) and personal satisfaction or happiness (77 percent were about equally important to them.

On the other hand, fewer than one-fourth the respondents (22 percent) said that social recognition was very important in their lives (choosing one of the top two positions on the scale). Other assets earning relatively low importance ratings include: having enough leisure time (36 percent), having a high income (37 percent) and having a nice home, car and other belongings (39 percent).

Between these extremes lie other social values: the freedom of choice to do what they want (73 percent), living up to their full potential (71 percent), having an interesting job (69 percent), having a sense of accomplishment and lasting contribution (63 percent) and following God's will (61 percent).

Ranking below the 57 percent average for all 19 items in the survey are: having many friends (54 percent), giving time to helping people in need (54 percent), working for the betterment of American society (51 percent), leading an exciting, stimulating life (51 percent), following a strict moral code (47 percent) and taking part in church or synagogue-related activities (40 percent).

Following is the question asked and the key findings in tabular form:

"Using this card, please tell me how important you feel each of these is to you. (Respondents were handed a card with positions ranging from 10 to zero.) If you think something is extremely important, you would call off the highest number, 10. If you think something is extremely unimportant you would mention the lowest number, zero. If you think something is neither extremely important nor extremely unimportant you would memtion some number between zero and 10 — the higher the number, the more important you think it is, the lower the number, the less important."

The results reported today are based on personal interviews with 1,483 adults, 18 and older, conducted in more than 300 scientifically-selected localities across the nation during the period Dec. 11-14.

For results based on a sample of this size, one can say with 95 percent confidence that the error attributable to sampling and other random effects could be three percentage points in either direction. For the figures representing the opinions of the 183 blacks in the sample an error margin of about 9 percent should be allowed.

The Bottom Line: Who Pays The Bill?

NEW YORK (AP) — President Reagan hasn't so decribed it, but his New Federalism is a fight against the third party syndrome.

Who is the third party? It isn't you, who receives the service; it usually isn't the specific provider of the service either. The third party is the party that pays the bill.

It need not always be government. It can, for example, be an insurance company or an employer, for example, or any organization that takes over a degree of financial or social responsibility for individuals.

The third party is always "the other guy," and the other guy always seems to get hit hard. He gets the bill for the exaggerated health care claims, for the padded automobile damage claim, for the social welfare programs the president observed were "rife with waste and fraud."

Third parties are almost always visualized as faceless institutions, and that's what makes it easy to pass the bill to them rather than pay it personally. You can do to a third party what you'd never do to a neighbor. "That's what they're there for" is the alibi for doing so.

Besides, according to the popular philosophy, nobody gets hurt. "The insurer or the government or the company pays for it." Everyone has heard the alibi "Why worry, it doesn't come out of anyone's pocket?"

It does, of course. Health care costs continue to rise against most efforts to control them. Automobile insurance claims and premiums are rising. Practically speaking, welfare costs have been out of control.

The result is higher bills for everyone, as one city after another has learned. The notion that the other guy pays for the spending has been proven false by rising tax bills, fewer services, higher costs for municipal borrowing, shrinking tax bases, and weakened business.

The need for accountability is the keystone of any attack on the third party syndrome. The argument is that people cannot give up personal responsibilities and obligations to another party without foresaking controls over their destinies. If the first and second parties foresake accountability, it is said, the third party assumes a life of its own and, in turn, becomes less accountable to them.

Reagan's New Federalism makes these assumptions. "Our citizens," he said, "feel they've lost control of even the most basic decisions made about the essential services of government, such as schools, welfare, roads and even garbage collection. And they're right.

"A maze of interlocking jurisdictions and levels of government confronts average citizens in trying to solve even the simplest of problems. They don't know where to turn for answers, who to hold accountable, who to praise, who to blame, who to vote for or against."

The way Reagan hopes to make it work is to return power to the states, back closer to the institutions who provide the services, closer to those who use them, back to a more local area where cause and effect are seen more clearly and personally.

In short, where accountability is established in providing and using services. Where the bills can be added up and identified with the services rendered. Where its a bit easier to see what your buying.

Where, so to speak, there is no "other guy" to handle the problems and pay the bills. Where the third party isn't faceless, but instead is probably identifiable as your neighbor, or maybe even yourself.

Holiday Delight

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In case you felt something was missing from your life last Saturday, but were unable to pinpoint the source of the void, National Handwriting Day, which normally coincides with the Jan. 23 celebration of John Hancock's birthday, was not observed this year.

Does this mean that legibility has improved to the point where there is no longer a need for a special day to promote better penmanship?

Or, as seems more likely, has lack of progress been so dismal as to cause the promoters of better penmanship to abandon the campaign?

Neither, it turns out.

If queried about the omission of National Handwriting Day from the 1982 calendar of special events, the Writing Instrument Manufacturers Association, chief sponsor of the observance, will reply that it simply decided to "give everyone a year off."

I greatly admire the association's attitude and would like to commend it to others in charge of setting aside certain days for specific purposes.

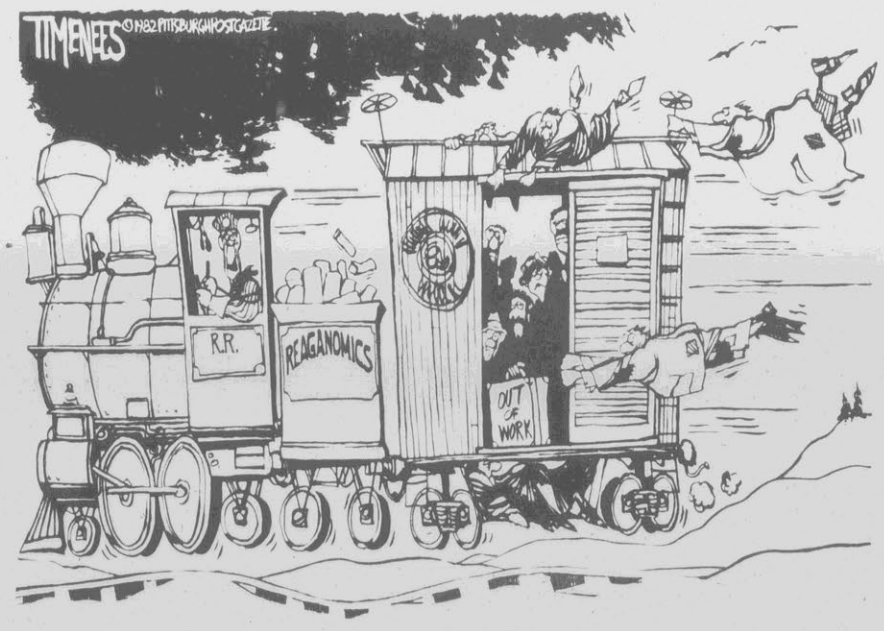

Nothing is more of a drag than being obliged to celebrate the same old holidays, year in, year out. February is a particularly vicious offender.

Coming up next month is Valentine's Day, Washington's and Lincoln's birthdays and an assortment of other commemorations.

What a boon it would be if just one year we could skip one of more of these observances, thus saving our energies for, say, National Aardvark Week in March. But no such luck.

Promoters and other interested parties tenaciously insist on going through the rituals each time they fall due.

Anyone wishing to take the year off from honoring St. Valentine surely will find himself swimming upstream without a paddle. Even such unromantic pressure groups as the American Chemical Society help keep up the momentum.

"Everyone cozy back there?!"

'Thou Shalt Take Up Serpents'

Members of Evangelist Atlbert Teester's flock reacted with awe and fright that August Sunday of 1934 when the 39-year-old minister brandished a five-foot rattlesnake from his pulpit. Some of the faithful moaned and others shouted, "Praise the Lord," as Teester calmly let the serpent sink its fangs twice into his right arm.

Teester had told members of his flock in the rugged Balsam Mountains near Sylva that he handled the snake in obedience to Christ's admonition that, "Thou shalt take up serpents." He had assured them that God would not let the snake bite him and that the faithful are immune from harm.

Some of the mountain folk said that Teester must have had "a little doubt in his mind, or he had lost a little faith, or else he had done something wrong" because the snake did bite him twice. He threw down the creature and fled screaming from the pulpit. An irate churchgoer pounded the serpent to death.

After a while, however, Teester regained his exposure. And although his arm swelled almost to bursting, his neck and back became inflamed and his tongue swelled until it filled his mouth so that he could not speak, he scorned medical treatment.

But Teester did not die from the snakebite. While members of his Holiness Church held prayer sessions during the week that followed, the swelling in his arm began to subside and he gradually recovered the power of speech. Throughout the wild, isolated country west of Sylva, word of the "miracle" spread into every mountain cove, and a steady stream of grizzled mountaineers and their families wended their way to the Teester cabin to see the man who had survived a rattler's bite.

A week after he was bitten, Teester trudged six miles over mountain roads to preach to his followers and to demonstrate his complete recovery. Amid shouts of "Praise the Lord" and "Hallelujah" Teester exorted his audience to follow the "faith." After his sermon, he led his "saints" — ranking members of the church — in a "healing service."

Kneeling in a circle around the minister, the saints — who included a 5-year-old boy — prayed and sang hymns, all the while rubbing Teester's mottled right arm. They swayed and danced, their voices merging into an unintelligible chant. Their gyrations became more frenzied, their shouting reached a crescendo, and they lapsed into what is called "the unknown tongue." The saints continued the ceremony until several, overcome by emotion or utter weariness, fell in their tracks.

"The power of the saints," Teester said, "is why I am living and preaching today after being bitten by that snake."

A couple of days later, the mountain evangelist was in Charlotte, 200 miles away from home. He spent the day in the city, being interviewd, getting his picture taken and talking to the nation by radio.

During the day, he received a number of long distance telephone calls from individuals and groups in various cities trying to persuade the mountain minister to come and hold revivals in their midst. Saying that he was a bit confused, Teester did not accept the invitations immediately. He told the callers to write or wire him at home. He explained that although his cabin was 18 miles from the nearest telephone or telegraph station, a telegram would be mailed to him from Sylva.

Teester, whose arm and hand were still swollen from the snake's venom, said he would not "let a rattler bite me again unless God told me. Unless He gave me the word, all the people in the world couldn't make me do it. God told me to do it the first time, and that's why I let the snake bite me and was not afraid." He said he had been cured because he had placed his faith in "the physician of all physicians — Jesus Christ."

Teester, who formerly worked as a lumberman, said he had turned to the ministry about 18 months before "when I got the message from on high, and I started preaching right around home, spreading the word of God. Now I'd like to go out into the world and make others see the faith."

But he refused to spend the night in Charlotte. He explained that he was anxious to get back to his wife and children. He had married the second time following the death of his first wife a few years previously in child birth. He refused to obtain medical assistance for her because of his conviction that faithful are immune from harm.

"I did not let the snake bite me for personal glory," he said. "I did it so that people all over the world who need the word of God might see the light. God told me to pick up that rattlesnake, and I had no fear. I'd do it again. I'd do anything that God told me."

Solidarity Finds Support In Rallies Across Globe

By ANDREW TULLY III
Associated Press Writer

Thousands of supporters for Poland's independent trade union raised "Solidarity" banners as they rallied in cities around the world Saturday urging an end to martial law in Poland and freedom for labor leaders jailed there.

The chief U.S. rally was in Chicago, which has the largest Polish community outside Warsaw. An estimated 10,000 people turned out to hear AFL-CIO President Lane Kirkland and Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig speak at the International Amphitheater bedecked with "Solidarnosc" banners.

Repression in Poland has "cast a long and dark shadow over East-West relations," Haig said, and he read the crowd a message from President Reagan.

"There is a spirit of solidarity abroad in the world today that no intimidation can crush," the message said. "By our actions we demonstrate our solidarity with the people of Poland. Their cause is ours."

The AFL-CIO organized Solidarity rallies in all 50 states, with major rallies in 16 cities.

Demonstrations also were held in Vienna, London, Brussels and in several cities in West Germany, as well as in Nottingham, England, and Cardiff, Wales. An estimated 2,400 Japanese union members marched in Tokyo.

Many of those arriving at the Chicago rally carried posters bearing the face of Solidarity leader Lech Walesa; others carried signs — one read, "Send Russia Our Wheat in a Nuclear Missile" — and jars were passed around to collect donations for food to be sent to Poland.

Kirkland told the rally, "The thousands assembled here are part of a worldwide movement ... of plain people who cherish, for themselves, the rights claimed by Solidarnosc ... Whatever ground we cede to the enemies of human rights, we surrender of our own freedom."

In Washington, Archbishop James Hickey celebrated a special mass at noon in St. Matthew's Cathedral, followed by a march to Lafayette Park across from the White House for a rally attended by about 1,000. Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash., and Professor Jerzy Milewski of the Polish Academy of Sciences, a member of Solidarity, spoke.

Jackson urged President Reagan to cut off all credit to the Polish government and demand payment of a "significant portion" of Poland's debt to Western lenders.

"It is time for the president to act," he said.

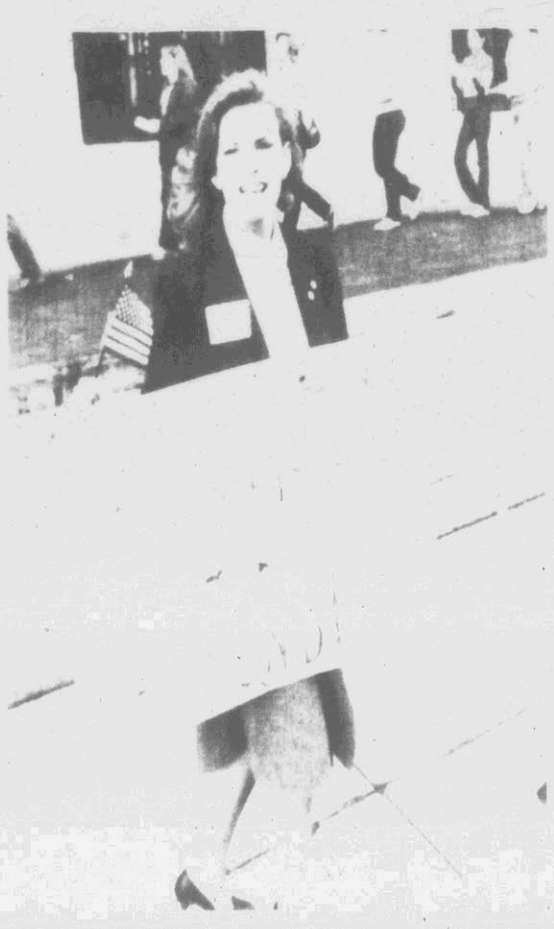

In Hamtramck, the heavily Polish enclave of Detroit, more than 1,200 people filled a high school community center decorated with large photographs of Walesa and hand-lettered signs, in English and Polish, calling for an end to martial law in Poland.

About 300 people showed up for a rally in Boston and heard speeches from Massachusetts Gov. Edward King, Sen. Edward Kennedy and Cardinal Humberto Medeiros.

Kennedy told the crowd, "What we are seeing in Poland is repression by proxy. It is the dark work of a regime and an army acting under the shadow of Soviet bayonets ... The military rulers of Poland have lost the right to call themselves Polish."

A four-piece band braved rain in Pittsburgh to play the Polish national anthem as officials of the United Steel Workers raised a red and white Solidarity banner at USW Plaza.

Poland Formally 'Detains' Walesa

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Poland's martial law regime has formally detained Solidarity leader Lech Walesa, sidetracked his offer to open talks and may close factories in Gdansk for two weeks for fear of riots over food price hikes, informed union sources said Saturday.

The sources said Walesa had been informed he was "detained," rather than sequestered as first reported when martial law was imposed and his union was suspended Dec. 13. They said he has accused the communist regime of "dishonesty and warned that people should not trust the government."

(A ham radio operator in Britain said a clandestine broadcast from Poland Friday night claimed Walesa was seriously ill in a Warsaw jail and that Solidarity was arming to battle the government. Previous reports from Poland said Walesa was well treated in a villa outside Warsaw, and that Solidarity leaders still at large were urging passive resistance.

(Demonstrations supporting Solidarity and attacking martial law were held in scores of cities in the West Saturday.

(Radio Warsaw, in a broadcast monitored in Vienna, announced a further relaxation of martial law restrictions, including the resumption Feb. 10 of nationwide telephone service and the opening of 10 regional radio stations and two regional television stations.

(The state radio said other changes would come soon, including permission for groups to conduct public meetings and for some newspapers and magazines to resume publication.

(Telephone calls will still be "subject to control," the radio said. When local telephone service was restored earlier this month, authorities said they would be "controlling" — listening in on — a selection of calls.

(Poland's official news agency PAP said in a dispatch received in Vienna that ice jams on the Vistula River near Plock in central Poland were pushing floodwaters high enough to threaten factories in the area. Floods have forced thousands from their homes in the past several weeks in the Plock area.)

The union sources, who have contacts in the Baltic port of Gdansk, said authorities may close some factories there for two weeks to let price hikes scheduled for Monday "sink in." The price of some foods will rise 400 percent, the biggest increase in more than a decade. Previous hikes in 1970 and 1976 caused bloody riots in Gdansk and Warsaw.

Solidarity sources said their union — formed in Gdansk after food price increases in August 1980 and the first labor federation in the Soviet bloc free of Communist Party control — "will stage protest actions against the price hikes as much as possible." But they said such protests should not "result in destruction of the union."

The sources said Walesa had offered to open talks with the regime last week in the company of his advisers and presidium members, but that officials had refused two of the advisers, Bronislaw Geremek and Tadeusz Mazowiecki.

Haig Briefs Reagan On Mideast Trip

By LAWRENCE L. KNUTSON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr., returning home from the Mideast, reported Saturday to President Reagan on his latest efforts to bridge the gap between Egypt and Israel on Palestinian self rule.

Fresh from last week's talks with top Egyptian and Israeli leaders in Cairo and Jerusalem, Haig also briefed Reagan on his meeting in Geneva with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko on the crisis in Poland and other East-West issues.

Haig then flew to Chicago where he told a Solidarity Day rally that U.S. demands for an end to repression in Poland and the release of political prisoners are "not foreign demands made in America or elsewhere and imposed on Poland" but a reflection of the demands of the Polish people themselves.

It was Haig's second trip to the Mideast in two weeks as the administration intensifies efforts to eliminate the roadblocks to agreement on self rule for the 1.3 million Palestinians living in the Israeli-occupied lands. In the face of the divisions between Egypt and Israel, Haig is seeking "transitional arrangements" to protect Palestinian rights while trying to keep the peace process alive.

Senior U.S. officials said Haig sought to quell suspicions and mute a growing war of words between the two countries and to reassert a serious U.S. interest in the Palestinian issue.

Haig sought also to repair damage caused by unforeseen Mideast developments — including the murder of Egyptian President Anwar Sadat and Israeli annexation of the Golan Heights — coupled with U.S. preoccupation with other issues such as the crackdown in Poland.

"This is a garden which needs regular tending, and if you don't do it the garden will soon be covered with weeds" said a U.S. official accompanying Haig to the Middle East.

He and all other U.S. officials intereviewed spoke on the condition that they not be identified by name.

During his discussions with Prime Minister Menachem Begin in Jerusalem and with Mubarak in Cairo, Haig concluded that there is no realistic chance of reaching an agreement on Palestinian self-rule before Israeli returns the final portion of the Sinai Desert to Egypt on April 25.

And one senior U.S. official said, "I don't even think of it as a practical objective" in light of the deep Israeli-Egyptian split on the issue.

As Haig's plane flew from Cairo to London — where Haig discussed his talks with Gromyko with British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher — it was made known he believes that the differences between the two sides are so great that he cannot predict with certainty that the autonomy question is even "solvable."

"I would say it's going to be a tremendously difficult task," said a senior U.S. official on the aircraft.

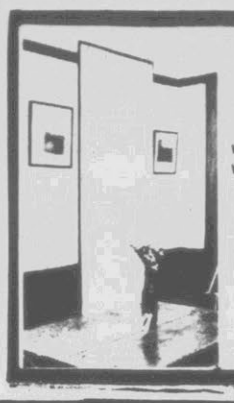

But it was also clear that with the expected appointment of Richard Fairbanks as a full time U.S. autonomy negotiator the administration intends to quicken the pace of its efforts to find solutions.

Haig himself will become personally involved if that seems necessary to produce results, the official said.

The official said an autonomy agreement has proven even more difficult to achieve that the April 1979 Camp David agreeement which produced a treaty of peace between Israel and Egypt because "it's like peeling an onion" — one layer of disagreement is stripped away to reveal another even more difficult problem.

"They've been at this for two-and-one-half years," the official said. "It is not something that some magic formula or some sudden development of good will is going to solve."

Public Favors Reagan's Plan

By TIMOTHY HARPER
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Public opinion favors the economic proposals President Reagan made in his State of the Union address, according to a new Associated Press-NBC News poll.

People who had heard or read about the speech generally supported the president's proposal to transfer federal programs to the states and agreed with his statement that raising taxes will not balance the budget.

However, the poll reported no significant change in the president's job ratings after Tuesday's speech.

In the nationwide telephone poll, 1,599 adults were contacted Wednesday and Thursday in a scientific random sampling.

Forty-seven percent said they think Reagan is doing a good or excellent job as president, compared with 46 percent in an AP-NBC News poll the week before the speech.

Thirty-seven percent said they think Reagan is doing a good or excellent job in handling the economy, compared with 35 percent in the previous poll.

Yet 53 percent said they see Reagan's handling of the economy as one of his strengths during his first year in office, while 37 percent said they see it as a weakness and 10 percent were not sure.

Among the 65 percent in the latest poll who said they had heard or read about the State of the Union address, respondents split 2-1 in saying they had a generally favorable opinion of it.

Among those respondents familiar with the speech, 52 percent said they approve of the president's proposal to shift a number of federal programs to state and local governments.

In the speech, Reagan said he wants to transfer to the states more than 40 federal programs with an annual cost of $47 billion. These would include welfare, food stamps and many transportation, education, community development and other social and health programs.

Reagan also rejected increased taxes on alcoholic beverages, cigarettes and gasoline as a means of helping reduce the projected $100 billion federal budget deficit.

In the poll, 53 percent of those familiar with the president's speech said they agree with Reagan's statement that raising taxes would not balance the federal budget but would increase government spending.

Among all respondents, 54 percent said they agree with another statement he made in the speech that the country's economic problems would be worse today if his economic program had not been adopted.

As with all sample surveys, the results of AP-NBC News polls can vary from the opinions of all Americans because of chance variations in the sample.

For a poll based on about 1,600 interviews, the results are subject to an error margin of 3 percentage points either way because of chance variations. That is, if one could have talked this past week to all Americans with telephones, there is only 1 chance in 20 that the findings would vary by more than 3 percentage points.

Of course, the results could differ from other polls for a number of reasons. Differences in the exact wording of questions, differences in when the interviews were conducted and different methods of interviewing could also cause variations.

Locally, It's Still A Case Of The Same

By SUSAN RIES
Reflector Staff Writer

With all of President Reagan's budget cuts and his State of the Union address, the little guy is still as apprehensive and the big guy is still as well insulated as they were before.

A Greenville man who refused to give his name said the budget cuts didn't worry him.

"Why should it? Not as long as I work. I'm not looking for something for nothing."

This type of conservativism seems to have hit home in the Greenville area, based on the results of a Daily Reflector sampling of opinions.

"You can't spend as freely and buy as much," said Sandy Venable of Plymouth. "You have to budget more."

"I'm a Republican and I support him wholeheartedly, and I agree with his budget cuts," said Billy Tudor of Greenville.

"I can't hardly find no job," said Greenville resident James Hopkins. "Can you let me hold a dollar?"

Other local citizens feel that a rocky economic situation may be necessary before the country can regain a solid economic footing.

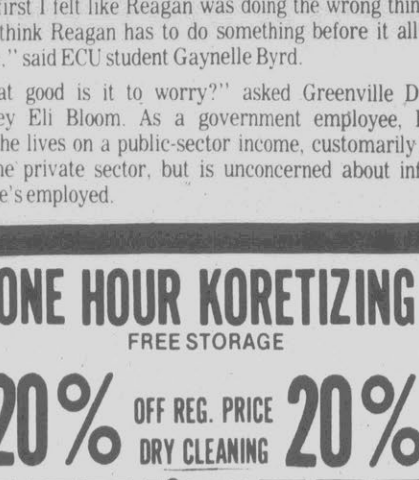

"I think if some of these liberals would shut up and let him do what he wanted, he'd do a good job," Clifford Inman of Greenville said of Reagan. "You can't feed the world and nobody work, and that's what people want to do nowadays."

"I don't think he's been in office long enough to judge him. I think in some areas it (the welfare program) needs to be strengthened," said Mike McClellan of Greenville.

Many agree that something must be done now to stop spiraling inflation and increasing unemployment.

"At first I felt like Reagan was doing the wrong thing, but now I think Reagan has to do something before it all turns drastic," said ECU student Gaynelle Byrd.

"What good is it to worry?" asked Greenville District Attorney Eli Bloom. As a government employee, Bloom noted, he lives on a public-sector income, customarily lower than the private sector, but is unconcerned about inflation since he's employed.

Attorney General Balks At Jailhouse Lawyers

By ROBERT B. CULLEN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan Administration will propose major new restrictions on the ability of convicts to file habeas corpus petitions asking federal courts to review their cases, Attorney General William French Smith said Saturday.

Smith said the proposed restrictions, which would apply to convicts who have exhausted the normal appeals process, are designed to stem the "flood" of petitions that have become "a clear problem for the justice system."

The proposals, outlined in a speech prepared for delivery to a conference on administration of justice in Williamsburg, Va., will be presented to Congress this week, Smith said.

There was no immediate reaction from Congress on how the measure would fare. "I haven't heard a thing about it," said Bill Kenyon, a spokesman for the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., the committee chairman, was in Williamsburg and could not be reached for comment.

Under present law, a convict may appeal through the state court system and seek a review from the U.S. Supreme Court, which refuses to hear most criminal cases.

When those avenues are exhausted, the convict may at any time file a petition for habeas corpus, asking a federal court to review constitutional questions arising from his trial.

Smith said state prisoners filed about 7,800 habeas corpus petitions in 1981, and almost all of them were dismissed.

"The continual availability of the possibility of release has turned many prisoners into writ-writers who never confront the fact of their guilt and get on with the process of rehabilitation," Smith said.

They "view the criminal process as an on-going game in which they are still active contestants," he said..

"The same appearance is conveyed to the public with a consequent and deserved loss of respect for the criminal process," Smith said.

Smith presented a three-pronged proposal for restricting the right to file habeas corpus petitions. The plan was based on recommendations made by his Task Force on Violent Crime last August.

One proposal would put a time limit on filing petitions after standard appeals are exhausted. "Petitions are sometimes brought many years — or even decades — after the conclusion of state proceedings. The practical difficulties of reconstructing occurrences after so great a span of time has elapsed are apparent," Smith said.

Although Smith did not specify what the time limit should be, the task force recommended three years.

The second proposal would restrict convicts' rights to file petitions alleging that their attorneys' errors or misjudgments caused their convictions.

"This question has been presented most frequently when an attorney's failure to raise a federal claim may reflect questionable judgment but does not rise to the level of constitutional ineffectiveness," Smith said.

"Under our proposals, lesser degrees of attorney error or misjudgment would not be recognized as adequate cause to raise a federal claim."

The final proposal would limit the federal courts' ability to hear arguments about issues which had already been aired in state courts.

"Where an issue — whether factual or non-factual — has been fully and fairly adjudicated in state proceedings, a federal court need not and should not undertake an independent examination of the issue," Smith said.

Wreath Service Marks FDR's 100th Anniversary

HYDE PARK, N.Y. (AP) — A presidential wreath was laid on Franklin D. Roosevelt's grave as 1,000 people gathered in the cold Saturday to commemorate the 100th anniversary of the birth of the World War II leader.

Lt. Gen. Willard Scott, superintendent of the U.S. Military Academy at West Point and representative of President Reagan, placed the wreath on the rose garden gravesite in Hyde Park. A wreath was also placed on the grave of FDR's wife Eleanor.

Meanwhile, in Los Angeles, families planted 500 trees in honor of Roosevelt's efforts to end the "Dust Bowl" of the Great Depression.

The ceremonies here came a week after an electrical fire damaged the top two floors of the Roosevelt family mansion. As a crowd stood on the steps of the mansion, Gov. Hugh Carey recalled the former New York governor who went on to serve as president during the nation's darkest days.

"Roosevelt was a man for the present," Carey said. "Crippled by polio, he might have resigned himself to the supposed limits of his disability, put his physical suffering before the tragedies of those on the bread lines and soup lines, in dust bowls and in Hoovervilles, those whose despair need never have invaded the stately quiet of Hyde Park.

"As a people, as a state and as a nation, we must rededicate ourselves to acheiving his vision, to rebuilding crumbling cities, to bringing opportunity to those who have none, to making government an instrument of compassion, not the servant of special interest."

Roosevelt was inagurated in March 1933 and served until his death in April 1945. He led the nation out of the Great Depression of the 1930s and through most of World War II, and was the only man ever to be elected to four terms.

Leaf Hearings Begin Monday

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — A series of congressional hearings on the tobacco program bgins Monday in Fairmont and a 16-page report released Friday by U.S. Agriculture Secretary John Block probably will be the focus.

In the report, Block recommended the federal tobacco price-support loan program become financially self-sufficient and that farmers partially pay for it with fees.

Block also recommended that he, as agriculture secretary, be given authority to set lower price supports for low-stalk tobacco. The proposal is designed to minimize the risk of loss caused by competition between low-stalk and foreign tobacco, the U.S. Department of Agriculture said.

The North Carolina Farm Bureau already has endorsed charging farmers a fee to help pay for the price-support loan program and allowing the agriculture secretary to set lower price supports for low-stalk tobacco.

Farm Bureau officials have said those changes would stave off some of the criticism of the tobacco program in Congress, which nearly killed the program last fall during debate over the 1981 Farm Bill.

Charles R. Pugh, extension economist at North Carolina State University, said the recommendations are topics likely to be discussed at the congressional hearings.

Five hearings are scheduled for North Carolina in February. Similar hearings are planned for other flue-cured and burley producing states. The first hearing will be led by Rep. Charles Rose, D-N.C., at 10 a.m. in the Fairmont Middle School.

Rose is chairman of the House Agriculture Committee's Tobacco and Peanut Subcommittee.

Feb. 12 another hearing will be held in Raleigh at the state fairgrounds. Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee, and Rose will lead the hearing.

Pugh predicts that the price-support system, especially the way the support levels are set, will get a lot of attention in the hearings. He said changes in the support level currently are based on the percentage of change in a national farm cost index for the three previous years.

Another issue Pugh said he expects to be discussed are marketing quotas.

"The big question here is how to make quotas available to people interested in growing tobacco while providing reasonable compensation to people having quotas assigned to their land," Pugh said.

Other changes proposed by Block and likely to be discussed in the hearings are proposals to:

— Allow producer associations, such as the Flue-Cured Tobacco Stabilization Corp. in Raleigh, to increase the amount of money they can deduct from price-support advances to farmers to cover the associations' overhead.

— Allow producer associations to withhold part or all of the profits from the resale of tobacco that normally are returned to farmers each year, creating a reserve fund to cover losses during bad years.

Since 1933, the U.S. Commodity Credit Corp. has loaned $5 billion to tobacco cooperatives.

Adopt-A-Pet

The Adopt-a-Pet of the Week is this solid black female 8-month-old kitten. She is very loving, used to being outdoors but has been indoors and could adapt easily to being a housecat. Her sister, a grey tabby female, also 8 months old, and her mother, a grey tabby female 2 years old, need homes, too. Call 756-2399 anytime Sunday and after 5 p.m. weekdays.

Also being sought homes by the Pitt County Humane Society are the following:

•Black female Labrador, 2 years old, good pet, has had all shots but is gun-shy. Free to a good home. Call 758-4089 between 12 noon and 5 p.m.

•Female 10-month brown and white part St. Bernard. Will be large dog, has a god disposition and is an excellent watchdog. Female 9-month black and brown hound dog. Call 758-4997.

•Six puppies, 6-weeks old, part terrier, shepherd and collie mix. Have been wormed. Call 752-8838.

•Female 1-year-old part doberman, tan and black, medium-sized, good with kids. Very calm dog. Also, a male long-haired beige and black part-shepherd and a female short-haired 9-week-old medium-sized tan dog. Call 524-5001.

•Five puppies, 7 weeks old, three black, one brown, one black and white, mixed lab and sheepdog. Call 746-6403 after 5 p.m.

To place an animal for free adoption through this column, published with no charge each Sunday, call Elizabeth Savage, 756-4867; Barbara Haddock, 752-9922 or Mary Schulken, 752-6166.

Lions Executive Urges Clubs To Step Up Work

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

"Lionism must do more in future years than ever before," Dr. James Fowler, vice president of Lions International, told some 500 Lions from all areas of North Carolina at the Casablanca Friday night.

Dr. Fowler of Little Rock, Ark., a dentist who over the past 30 years has received numerous awards and recognition for his work in the Lion's Club, was the guest speaker for the Lions International 1982 Mid-Winter Conference for Districts 31-G, 31-H and 31-J of eastern North Carolina. He will become the worldwide president of Lions International in 1983, succeeding the current president, Dr. Kaoru Murakami of Kyoto, Japan.

"We all know that we have learned what we do by doing, and the key factor is doing for those less fortunate than ourselves. Without this inspiration (of helping others) there is little we could do," Fowler said.

Touching on this year's international theme, "People at Peace," Fowler remarked that this theme encompasses not only "peace around the world, but peace within the family, and peace in our soul."

Citing scholarships, founding of Little League teams and other achievements realized by Lions International in its 64-year history, Dr. Fowler emphasized that much remains to be achieved. "We have yet to make an impact in the field of drug abuse. We have helped in giving sight to people, in straightening bones, but even in this we have helped less than one-fourth of those who have asked for and need help.

"Our young people today are searching for meaning in what sometimes seems to be an impersonal society. We must help them find that meaning."

Among North Carolina Lions participating in the Mid-Winter Conference were the three district governors — Jake Strother of Kinston, 31-H; Bob Marley of Fuquay-Varina, 31-G; and J. David Edwards, Pinetops, 31-J. Strother presided over the Friday night banquet meeting, and William L. Woolard of Charlotte, an international Lions director, introduced Fowler. Also present was Jack Stickley of Charlotte, a past president of Lions International.

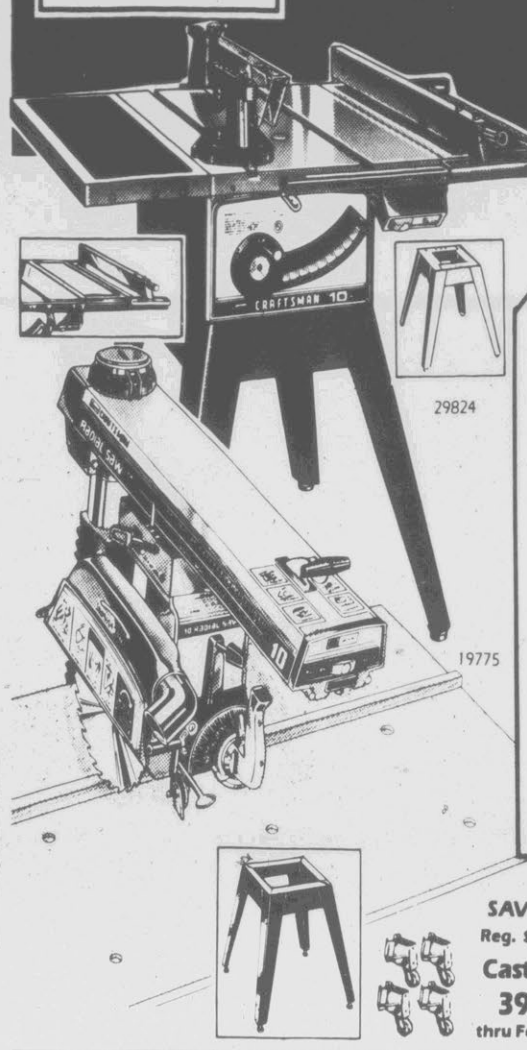

Mayor Percy Cox welcomed the Lions to Greenville. He commended Lions Clubs for their humanitarian role, especially for their work with the blind. The response to Cox's welcome was given by John W. King of the Wilmington Lions Club. A program of entertainment was provided by guitarist Dr. Will R. Wallace, minister of the First Christian Church of Greenville, and his three young violinist daughters.

The 1982 Mid-Winter Conference of Districts 31-G, 31-H and 31-J ended Saturday with district conferences at the Casablanca and various events scheuled for the Lionesses attending the conference.

Mitchell Looks Forward To Life On High Court

By WILLIAM M. WELCH
Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — After years as a prosecutor, judge, policeman and political fireman, Burley B. Mitchell Jr. says he's ready for a more monastic life.

And that's what Mitchell expects to find when he is sworn in Wednesday as the newest associate justice on the North Carolina Supreme Court, the 176th person to sit on the state's highest court since it began in 1819.

"When I was on the Court of Appeals, I often compared it to a monastary, and the Supreme Court is about like that," Mitchell said. "You're off on your own in your own compartment, and it is almost an intellectual activity.

"I look forward to it. I've reached the point in my life where I want to develop some private and personal life."

For Mitchell, 41, the move to the court is the latest in a series of dramatic changes and political appointments that have come quickly since graduating from the University of North Carolina Law School in 1969.

A rebellious youth who twice dropped out of high school to join the military, Mitchell became Wake County district attorney in 1973 and since then has seen his career rise rapidly under the patronage of Democratic Gov. Jim Hunt.

In between, there have been some charges by opponents that he was too political. But he enters the high court widely praised, and his addition completes a new, more youthful court majority of justices in their 40s.

"He's exactly what an appeals judge should be — he's got the knowledge, intellect, temperament, and he follows precedent," said Superior Court Judge Donnie Smith, a Republican. "And he's got the best sense of humor and quickest wit I've ever seen."

"Burley's certainly a political animal; he's very considerate of politics," said Superior Court Judge James H. Pou Bailey, a Democrat. "But I've never seen any politics or political motives in his court.

"I'm not sure he's a great student of the law, but on the Court of Appeals he wrote good opinions, simple to read. I think he gained a lot of repect while he was there," Bailey added.

Mitchell comes to the court after two and a half years as Hunt's secretary of Crime Control and Public Safety, the state's largest law-enforcement department that includes the Highway Patrol, the Alcohol Law Enforcement agency, the National Guard and Emergency Management, the civil defense agency.

He's been a fierce defender of the patrol, asking the Legislature repeatedly for more troopers and higher salaries for them.

Before that, he spent 18 months as a judge on the Court of Appeals, the second highest court in the state. He was appointed to the post by Hunt and won election to a six-year term in 1978.

When Crime Control lost its second secretary in less than a year, Hunt turned to Mitchell to take over a department that was troubled by infighting. Mitchell took a cut in pay and gave up what in all likelihood was a comfortable, lifetime seat on the court.

"I didn't want to leave the Court of Appeals," Mitchell said in a recent interview. "I liked the job and he intellectual stimulation. But when Governor Hunt sits down and tells you he needs you to take a job, well, I'm not made so I can turn that sort of thing down.

"I guess I did come here sort of as a fireman, but I've enjoyed it," added Mitchell, puffing the cigar that replaced his three-pack a day cigarette habit when he turned 40.

Mitchell grew up in Raleigh. Bored with high school, he ran off at 15 to join the Marines and was sent home when his age was discovered. At 17, he again quit school and spent five years in the Navy as a frogman in underwater demolition in Vietnam.

After a car accident that broke his neck and nearly killed him, Mitchell changed. He married, went through North Carolina State University in three years and then through UNC Law School.

Politics helped Mitchell, who helped Robert Morgan become state attorney general, get his first job as a state Justice Department lawyer. He was one of the lawyers who argued the state's side before the U.S. Supreme Court in the landmark Charlotte school busing case.

His next job came with the help of politics, too. Before he left office, Gov. Bob Scott appointed him Wake County district attorney.

As prosecutor in Raleigh during the first Republican administration of the century, he handled a number of controversial cases. His prosecution resulted in a prison term for an advertising executive with a state contract, and he prosecuted a top aide to the governor for drunk driving.

Often flamboyant, he filed a court action against a bank for towing his car. Mitchell won in magistrate's court but dropped the case when the bank appealed.

New Episcopal Bishop Named

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — The Rt. Rev. Robert W. Estill of Raleigh will succeed Bishop Thomas A. Fraser Jr. as head of the Episcopal Diocese of North Carolina when Fraser steps down Jan. 1, 1983.

Fraser, who has led the diocese for 22 years, announced his resigation Friday during the convention's annual banquet. Fraser served as co-adjutor between 1960 and 1965 before taking over as bishop.

Estill, co-adjutor since 1979, previously served as rector of St. Michael and All Angels Espiscopal Church in Dallas, Tex.

"To those of you who have been advising me that this is the wrong time to retire, I can only follow my advice to others which is to face reality," Fraser said.

"It has been my joy to watch and participate in the growth of the church in this diocese and to experience the growth of the great state of North Carolina. I am by no means laying down the mantle of the ministry," he said. "I hope to be called to some opportunity for service which I consider part of my stewardship to God and my fellow man."

City Council Meets Briefly, Delays Several Items

Several items on the City Council's Friday night agenda were continued until the February meeting as the city governing board met in a brief session.

The council, which postponed the regular Jan. 14 meeting due to icy weather, met in a rescheduled session Friday that turned out to be one of the shortest council gatherings in recent memory.

Following a public hearing, council members approved a petition submitted by the Doctor's Park Apartment Group to annex approximately 17.63 acres on the west side of Arlington Boulevard at the intersection of Beasley Drive. No opposition was stated during the hearing.

The council also approved, following a hearing, an application by Marvin Smith for a permit to place a single-wide mobile home at 117 Pollard St. for use as a residence for his son.

Items continued until Feb. 11 included: appointments to boards and commissions; a public hearing on a request by Thomas Taft for rezoning, from RA-20 to Highway Commercial, of some 15.61 acres at the northwest corner of Stantonsburg Road and Allen Road; a public hearing on a request by Leroy Cherry to rezone some 50 acres, located west of Memorial Drive and south of Greenville Country Club, from RA-20 to R-15 and R-6; and

A request by James H. Hudson to rezone, from RA-20 to Industrial, approximately 2.6 acres on the eastern side of Greenville Boulevard NE, approximately 716 feet from the right-of-way line of Greenville Boulevard and at the rear of the lot requested for rezoning by Eaton Corp.

Action taken by the council included:

— Approval of a request by George Brett of 409 S. Jarvis St. to establish a residential controlled parking area on the west side of Jarvis Street between Fourth and Fifth Streets;

— Approval of a request by residents of Rock Springs Road to establish a residential controlled parking area on the east side of West Rock Springs Road from 14th Street to Edgewood Circle;

— Approval of an agreement between the city and Southern Railway System relative to the installation of crossing material at the intersection of 14th and Pitt Streets;

— Approval of an application by Lil Thrift Food Marts Inc., doing business as Short Stop No. 73, 1928 E. Greenville Blvd., for an off-premise beer and wine privilege license; — Approval of a refund of one-half the price of a plumbing permit issued to Contemporary Plumbing Inc.;

— Approval of half the first plumbing permit and all of the remaining series of permits purchased in error for a project by Brown Plumbing Co. Inc.;

— Approval of audit contracts for the city and for the transit operation;

— Approval of a request by the Beautification, Clean-Up and Litter Control Committee to change its name to the Community Appearance Commission;

— Defeat of a motion to endorse the East Carolina University Regional Development Institute's application for a grant on the effects of railroad transportation on the general public;

— Acceptance of Arlington Boulevard from SR 1200 northerly some 1,900 feet and Beasley Drive from Section II of the Professional Center easterly to Section I of the center, some 530 feet, for permanent maintenance by the city;

— Adoption of an ordinance empowering the Greenville Energy Management Commission to review municipal construction or renovation plans; and — Approval of a request by O. T. Rogers to erect a crypt in Brownhill Cemetery.

Deadline For Tags

New Greenville license plates or renewal stickers must be displayed on vehicles no later than midnight Feb. 15.

The city plates are available only at City Hall, and can be purchased Monday through Friday between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. The plates are priced at $5.

Purchasers must provide a registration card for each vehicle for which a plate is to be purchased. Any vehicle owner living within the Greenville city limits is required to purchase a city plate.

State School Board Sets East Meeting

WILLIAMSTON — Members of the State Board of Education, representatives of the LEA (Local Education Agency), area legislators, educators and others will take part in a three-day meeting starting Tuesday at Williamston High School.

The event gets under way at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday for a dinner and general meeting at which school staff, educators and officials from several northeastern North Carolina couties will attend, along with members of the state board.

On Wednesday, state board members and other officials will visit various schools through the district.

In Greenville, Lt. Gov. Jimmy Green and Dr. Jerome Melton, deputy superintendent of public instruction, will tour several Greenville schools. They will visit Elmhurst from 9 to 9:15 a.m., Greenville Middle School from 10 to 10:30 a.m., Agnes Fullilove School from 10:30 to 11 a.m., and Aycock Junior High from 11 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. They will be joined for lunch at Aycock School by Rep. Ed Warren of Pitt County.

On Wednesday from 1:30 to 5 p.m. in Williamston, committee meetings will be held, to be followed by a social hour and dinner at the Holiday Inn in Williamston.

On Thursday morning, a meeting will be held to honor teachers-of-the-year in the area. This will be followed by a committee meeting between 9 a.m. and 10:45 a.m. The concluding event of the three-day meeting is to be a brief meeting of the State Board of Education to begin at 11 a.m., primarily to discuss textbooks and to announce the date of the next meeting.

Infant Safety To Be Discussed

The Tar River Civitan Club will hold a business meeting Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the fellowship hall of the First Presbyterian Church.

Details of the Feb. 16 meeting will be discussed. At that meeting, members will receive special training for instructing parents in the proper use of infant safety seats. The program will be conducted by Beverly Orr of the UNC Highway Safety Research Center.

Anyone interested in club membership or more information about the infant safety program may call Vicky Wang at 756-7181 or Diane Hankins at 758-4552.

'Careerist' Chosen

The Greenville Business and Professional Women's Club has chosen Donna Weeks of the Pitt County Health Department as its "young careerist" in local competition concluded Friday. Ms. Meeks will represent the club in district competition next spring.

The club's next monthly meeting will be held Feb. 11. For more information regarding the club and reservations call Gladys Stokes at 756-3754 or Doris Marlowe at 756-3868.

School Board To Meet Monday

The information meeting of the Greenville City Board of Education for the month of January will be held beginning at 8 p.m. Monday.

The meeting will be at Agnes Fullilove Community School.

REQUESTS APPROVED

Police Chief Glenn Cannon announced the approval of two requests for solicitation permits in Greenville.

Cannon said the requests were submitted by: Alpha Epsilon Delta Paramedical Honor Society to conduct door-to-door and sidewalk solicitations through Friday to raise funds for the annual Huntington's disease drive and national convention; and by Pi Kappa Phi Fraternity, Beta Phi Chapter, to conduct a sidewalk solicitation Feb. 20-27 to raise funds for the national fraternity philantrophy project "PUSH," to purchase play units for the severely handicapped.

EANC MEETING

Directors of the Epilepsy Association of North Carolina will hold a quarterly meeting Feb. 20 in Greenville. The association's Coastal Plains Chapter, based in Greenville, will host the meeting.

First Leader Honored

Trustees of Pitt Community College have passed a resolution honoring the late Lloyd F. Spaulding, the first president of the Pitt County Industrial Education Center.

"Spaulding's leadership and sound management in the early growth and development of the institution helped Pitt Technical Institute, now PCC, achieve recognition as a leader in the N.C. community college system," said current PCC President William Fulford at last week's meeting of the board.

Spaulding died on Jan. 11 in Columbia, S.C.

A.B. Whitley Jr., building committee chairman, presented a status report on the paved parking lot project south of the White building. He advised the board that an asphalt sealer was needed on the parking areas. Board chairman Clifton Everett requested that Whitley get cost estimates for the project.

A report on the heating system of the White Building, which has recently been converted to burn used motor oil, was given at the meeting. According to Fulford, the college plans to convert the heating systems of the other buildings to used motor oil by next winter.

Fulford also reported that PCC's curriculum enrollment for winter quarter 1981-82 is 7.4 percent above the winter quarter of last year. The biggest increases, he noted, were in technical programs and in the half-time and fourth-time students.

Plans were announced for an improvement incentive program to solicit ideas and suggestions from PCC's employees concerning ways to improve the operation of the college.

Effective July 1, 1982, the college will implement a service awards program for the college's fulltime, permanent employees to recognize their years of service, the president announced.

Course Planned On FWB Church

The Rev. Harry Grubbs will teach a course entitled "The Free Will Baptist Church" on Thursdays beginning Feb. 4 from 7:30-9 p.m.

The sessions will be held at the First Free Will Baptist Church of Greenville. The course is sponsored by the Paul Palmer Institute of Mount Olive College and will end April 8.

The Paul Palmer Institute is a program of continuing education for ministers and church workers offered through Mount Olive College. Registration will be at the first class meeting.

Talks Planned On Woodlots

Dr. Leon Harkins, North Carolina State University extension forestry specialist, and Jim Kea, area forestry agent, will discuss the value of woodlots Thursday in a program at the Pitt County Agricultural Extension Office.

The discussion will be held at 2:30 p.m. and will be repeated at 7:30 p.m. Both sessions will be held in the Commissioners' Auditorium, second floor, at the County Office Building.

Interested persons are asked to pre-register by Wednesday, call 752-2934, extension 370.

ALUMNI MEETING

The Pitt County Chapter of the North Carolina A&T University Alumni Association will meet Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Whitener, 3006 Lake Ellsworth Drive, Greenville.

PROCLAMATION

Greenville Mayor Percy R. Cox Thursday has proclaimed February as Afro-American History-Blueprint for Survival month. In a written proclamation, Cox expressed the need for citizens to fully comprehend the meaning of unity in America.

SAVE WITH WINN DIXIE THE BEEF PEOPLE

the WINN DIXIE PRICE BREAKER JACKPOT

EVERY TICKET HAS ALL THE WINNING NUMBERS-PICK THE RIGHT PANELS AND YOU WIN!

YOU WIN WITH LUCK... NOT SOME ELUSIVE CONTROLLED KEY CARD... BECAUSE ALL THE ELEMENTS NEEDED TO MAKE YOU A WINNER ARE ON EVERY SWEEPSTAKES TICKET! YOU PICK IT! YOU WIN!

WINS OR SHARES $50,000

EXAMPLE

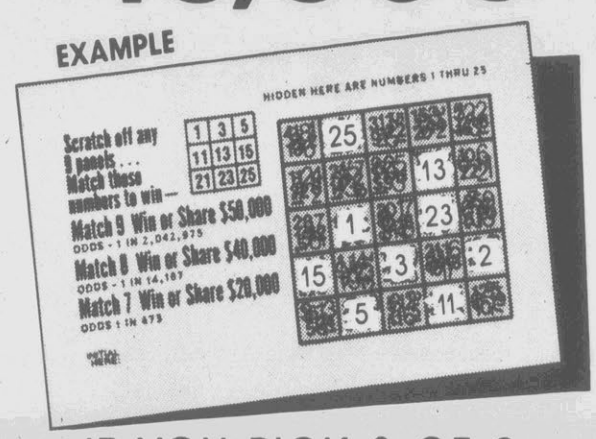

IF YOU PICK 9 OF 9 NUMBERS CORRECT!

WINS OR SHARES $40,000

EXAMPLE

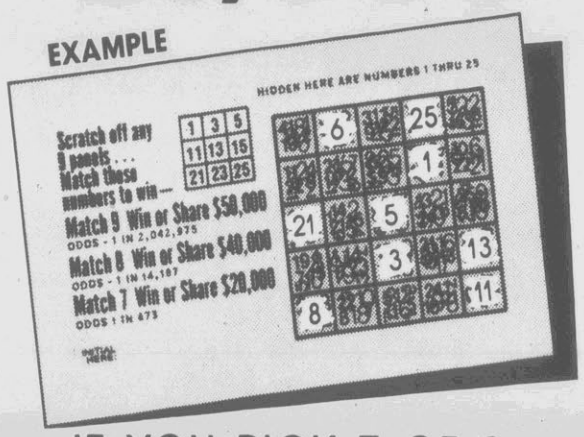

IF YOU PICK 8 OF 9 NUMBERS CORRECT!

Odds of winning — 1 in 14,187

WINS OR SHARES $20,000

EXAMPLE

IF YOU PICK 7 OF 9 NUMBERS CORRECT!

Odds of winning — 1 in 473
In 26 Store visits — 1 in 18

The Winning Numbers Are: 1, 11, 21, 3, 13, 23, 5, 15, 25!

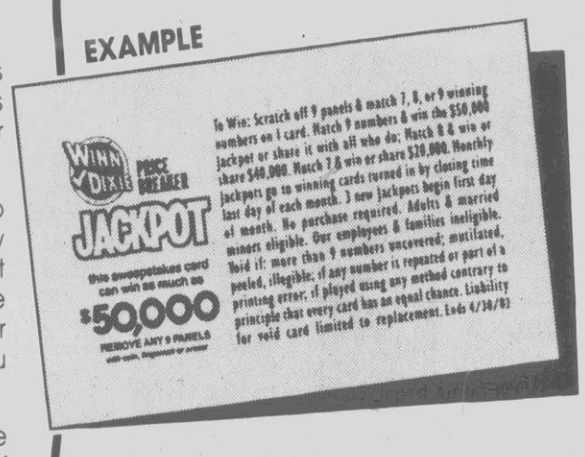

WE ARE PROUD TO ANNOUNCE:

... A new kind of sweepstakes... one where every ticket has the numbers 1 thru 25... and any contestant who scratches off the right panels can win or share $50,000... $40,000... or $20,000 in monthly Jackpots.

You win with luck... you don't need the "right" ticket to do it... because all 25 numbers are on every ticket... secretly located and covered by removable panels. You pick just nine panels... and if you pick the right ones, you win. Come in and get your first ticket... then savor the moment... for that ticket you will be holding can win up to $50,000 if you choose the right panels to remove.

If you make a winner, bring it to Winn Dixie. Your prize check will be waiting for you at that store after the tenth of the following month... and new Jackpots will be underway. We wish you GOOD LUCK... that's all it takes!

EXAMPLE

AVAILABLE AT YOUR NEIGHBORHOOD WINN DIXIE
NO PURCHASE NECESSARY!

SWEEPSTAKES RULES:

To win, you must scratch off only nine panels, and match 7, 8, or 9 winning numbers on one ticket. The winning numbers are 1, 3, 5, 11, 13, 15, 21, 23, & 25.

Every ticket has the numbers 1 thru 25. Remove only nine panels and match 7, 8, or 9 winning numbers on one ticket. If only one person matches 9 numbers, that person will win the entire $50,000 Jackpot. In the event more than one matches 9 numbers, the Jackpot will be equally divided among those who do. Match 8 numbers and win or share the $40,000 Jackpot. Match 7 numbers and win or share the $20,000 Jackpot. To win or share a monthly Jackpot, winning tickets must be turned in by closing time the last day of each month. Winning tickets can only participate in one Jackpot. Jackpots not won are added to next month's Jackpots. If not won at end of sweepstakes, this prize money will be shared equally by winners of largest Jackpot.

New Jackpots begin on the first day of each month. No purchase necessary. Only one ticket per store visit. Only adults and married minors may play. Our employees and their families ineligible as are our advertising agencies and printers. This card void if more than 9 numbers uncovered; if mutilated, peeled, forged, illegible; if any number is duplicated on the same card when all panels are removed by authenticating judges; if part of any printing error; if irregular or played using any device, chemical or other process contrary to the principle that every card has an equal chance of winning. Liability for void card is limited to replacement of the card. Sweepstakes is played in 109 stores in Eastern North Carolina and Southern Virginia and ends at closing time April 30, 1982, or until all tickets are distributed.

NEW JACKPOTS START EVERY MONTH

LISA CARRAWAY

Lisa Carraway Wins Scholarship

RALEIGH — Lisa Elaine Carraway of Falkland has been awarded the Virginia W. Jones Scholarship for the 1982-83 academic year at Peace College.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Carraway and is a senior at North Pitt High School.

Jones scholars are selected annually on the basis of outstanding academic records, SAT scores, extracurricular participation and citizenship. This award is the school's most prestigious, according to Peace officials.

At North Pitt Ms. Carraway has been president of her homeroom for four years as well as president of her freshman and sophomore classes, vice president of the Student Council, reporter for the Math Club, secretary and president of Future Business Leaders of America and president of the Monogram Club.

She is captain of the volleyball team and has participated in basketball, track and cheerleading. Her other activities include National Honor Society, chorus, Pep Club, dramatics, Math Acceleration Fanatics, Phi-Bio-Chem and Literary Club. She was also elected to the homecoming court.

Ms. Carraway served as district youth fellowship president for her church and as a counselor at Christian Cadet Conference Camp. She was a member of the General Conference Bible Bowl Championship team.

ESC Extends Benefit Plan

Some unemployment insurance claimants may be eligible for extended benefits of up to 13 additional weeks starting this week, according to Glenn R. Jernigan, chairman of the North Carolina Employment Security Commission.

Jernigan said the extended benefits program is activated when there is a period of sustained high unemployment. He said the first benefits under the new extended benefit period will be issued for the week ending next Saturday.

This extended benefits period will last 13 weeks and can be extended only if the unemployment rate maintains a level high enough to "trigger" in another extended benefits period.

Under new amendments to the law, a claimant is required to make a more diligent effort to seek work than is required ordinarily. There are no acceptable reasons for failing to seek work, and documentation is required for all job contacts. The documentation is to be prepared by the claimant, not by the employer contacted. Failure to seek work or an inadequate work search will result in an indefinite disqualification of benefits.

Farmville Board Meets Tuesday

The Farmville Board of Commissioners will meet Tuesday. Among the items on the agenda are:

The amendments to the planning ordinance shifting extraterritorial representation; preliminary proposals for the design of the community center; flood damage prevention; the confirmation of the mayor's appointment to both the Tree Board and the Library Board; the construction of a public heliport;

The clean water bond grant; utility rate increases; additional wastewater treatment plant and sludge drying beds; town property management; compensation for the Farmville Rescue Squad members; the confirmation of the fire chief election; release of taxes; and property acquisition. The last item will be discussed in executive session.

Betty C. Fields

Lecture Is Set At First Church

Betty Carson Fields of Atlanta will speak of her life experience in a free public lecture Feb. 7 at 4 p.m. at First Church of Christ, Scientist, 400 S. Meade St., here.

Her program topic is "Christian Science: What It Is and Isn't."

A native of New Zealand, Mrs. Fields has resided in Atlanta for more than 30 years and for the past 20 years has given her full time to the public healing practice of Christian Science. Recently she was named to the denomination's Board of Lectureship.

Betty Jo Harrell will introduce Mrs. Fields at the lecture.

Life As It's Lived

Life As It's Lived
By GAIL MICHAELS

Of all of the senses, hearing is the most advantageous to childrearing. A mother soon learns that a baby's cries are a language in their own right. And she learns, too, that the older the child gets, the more important her skills at auditory discrimination become. Thus, when I heard a cross between a pitiful whimper and a squeal the other morning, I knew immediately that Zachary was stuck.

Where, I wasn't sure. He could have been held captive under a bed, behind the sofa, or in the rungs of a barstool. His ample behind could have been hung in the bottom drawer of his dresser. His hand could have been caught in the eight-track tape player on the stereo, his favorite repository for his Play People, his plastic razor and my keys.

As it turned out, he wasn't stuck in any of those places. Always creative, he had found a new retreat. His head was stuck in a Pampers box.

At least he's relatively stationary during these episodes. I have more cause to worry when I hear the thud of his rocking chair as he drops it momentarily on his way from one place to another. Of course, that thud is not as upsetting as the thud of the alabaster lamp on my bedside table or the bang of the front door in the morning as the school busses are rumbling past our house. These sounds presage major disaster. The sound of the rocking chair merely forwarns me that a minor catastrophe is in progress.

I should , at this point, make it clear that Zachary doesn't use this chair for sitting. He stands in it. And he doesn't consider it a necessity. Almost anything will do when Zachary is determined to scale the heights of his imagination. We have tried to babyproof our environment by removing all overturned trashcans, by moving all chairs to the center of each room, and by keeping an abundance of babygates and other barricades in evidence. Our decor looks as if we're expecting a street fight. But Zachary is usually either one step ahead of us or above us.

The rocking chair is simply more convenient than his other climbing apparatus. It's lightweight, and its height gives him access to my makeup, Phillip's shaving cream, the typewriter, the top drawer of the secretary where lots of pencils are kept, the thermostat, Meg's chinese checkers, and the remote control unit for the television set.

"Why don't you get him interested in some conventional toys?" Phillip asked one evening after I had complained about Zachary's penchant for mischief.

"Toys!" I snorted. "The only way to interest him in his toys is to pick them all up. Sometimes I think his behavior is motivated solely by a desire to provoke me."

"That's absurd. He's just a normal, curious, adventurous, imaginative toddler who doesn't know the meaning of fear."

"That's all right. I have enourgh fear for the both of us."

Phillip hesitated. "Speaking of our normal adventurous toddler, I don't hear him."

Neither did I. We looked at each other for a split-second, then simultaneously we jumped and rushed for the door.

Silence is the most fearsome sound of all.

YOUR DAILY Horoscope

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Because of planetary influences you could run into some problems of a minor nature early in the day, but conditions return to normal later. Conserve your energies.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Try to understand the expectations of those who have power over your affairs today. Strive for more prestige.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Morning is fine for studying new interests and making plans for the future. Show more thoughtfulness for others.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Finish that work you started and then be off to the fascinating activities that appeal to you. Sidestep an opponent.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You can work out a difficult problem with the help of others early in the day. Plan the new week wisely.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Attend to routine chores early in the day so you'll have time for social activities later. Show others you have poise.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Daytime hours are best for being with good friends and relatives, and reserve personal duties for the evening.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Pay more attention to family members and have more harmony at home. Make plans to have more abundance in the future.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Take those extra steps that are needed to gain your personal aims. Sidestep one who likes to impose on you.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Try to please close ties today instead of worrying about personal affairs. Engage in favorite hobby.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Daytime hours are best for handling personal matters. Schedule social activities for the coming week.

Richmond Rallies From 10 Down To Defeat ECU

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

A new scoreboard. One of the best crowds in years. An old rivalry increased by new conference affilation.

It had all the makings of a barn-burner and that was exactly how it turned out last night in Minges Coliseum.

The only bad thing about it as far as East Carolina Univeristy was concerned was that the visiting Richmond Spiders pulled back from ten points down to capture an 81-71 victory in the ECAC-South contest.

The two teams, long rivals in the Southern Conference, found that years of independent status had done nothing to lessen the rivalry. It was a hard-fought game that saw both teams have moments of outstanding play and moments of poor performance.

East Carolina's biggest problem was missing too many inside shots. On several occasions they went for the stuff on breakaways, missing the mark — when a simply layup would have done the trick. And too often, they missed on other shots within a couple of feet of the basket.

It all led to a 45.6 percent night — and with Richmond controlling the boards at key intervals, it was more than the Pirates could take.

The Spiders, who upset nationally ranked Wake Forest in the opening game of the season, shot a fine 53.7 percent. And although the official statistics had them only with a 36-34 rebounding lead, it was when they got those rebounds that counted.

Time and time again, the Spiders were able to get second shots — and that killed the Pirates.

"I just talked to a group of very disappointed group of young men," an equally disappointed Dave Odom said afterwards. "They played their hearts out. But this was the type of game where playing hard didn't do it for you. You also had to play smart.

"Richmond played smart: they have a talented group who play well together. I can how they've beaten some good teams," he added.

Odom felt the key to the game was Richmond's overall dominance of the boards. "I've never been in a game where a team dominated the boards like this one and we were still in the game. Their rebounding came as a complete surprise to me. I knew that they were a good rebounding team, but nothing like this. Every defense we tried failed to keep them off the offensive boards. They also handled the ball expertly and shot their free throws well."

It was the free throws, where the Spiders connected on 15 of 17 after they finally took the lead, that pushed them out to the final ten point lead, as they went to ball control and forced the Pirates to foul.

Odom felt that the Pirates were somewhat tentative offensively all night. "If we didn't get the rebounds, we didn't get the breaks. We got some early, and got some breaks, but their zone proved effective."

The coach said he toyed with the idea of holding the ball after the Pirates pulled out into a big lead, but added, "My philosophy is to play, and especially with limited guard experience. We just kept thinking that we'd get the ball inside, but we didn't."

While the Pirate defense was effective at times, at others Richmond was able to get the ball open for inside shots — shots that too often fell through. "That's about the worst our defense has been handled with the exception of the Missouri game," Odom said. "I was surprised by the way they got open inside. They got the ball inside about as well as they could do it."

Odom noted that both Navy and Willliam & Mary beat Richmond by playing a zone defense, and while the Pirates did use some zone, they are basically a man-to-man team. "We don't really play the zone that well right now," he said.

With over 5,000 people cheering them on — the largest Minges crowd in eight years — the Pirates held the lead throughout most of the first half. They trailed only twice in the period, once at 4-3 after John Schweitz hit a 13-footer.

But two free throws by Morris Hargrove and a eight-footer by Bruce Peartree — who played his best game in a Pirate uniform, put ECU back up, 7-4.

The lead bounced back and forth between three and one points for some time before Bill Flye hit a 10-footer for a 16-15 lead with 10:02 left in the half. Flye, however, missed a three-point chance, and Mark McLaurin drove in for a layup to return the lead to ECU.

Thom Brown hit a jumper and Al Mack nailed two free throws to up the lead to five, the biggest of the first half, 21-16.

Richmond hung in there, however, and finally tied it up twice in the late going, 27-27 and 29-29, but a basket by Mack and a three-point play by Charles Green ran it back to five, 34-29. Still, the Spiders hung in there, and cut it back to 36-34 at intermission.

Jeff Pehl hit early in the second half to tie it up, but East Carolina then ran off ten straight points to take a 46-36 lead with 16:45 left. Mack scored four — two at the line and a basket, while Green added a three-pointer and a layup to spark the drive.

At that point, it looked like the Pirates just might be ready to blow the Spiders out.

But it was not to be. Despite the fact that all three of the Richmond big got into foul trouble and were benched from time to time with four each, Schweitz, the ECAC's leading scorer, began to bring them back.

Over the next six minutes, the Spiders chopped away at the lead, finally pulling to within one on a layup by Tom Bethea. The next time down the court, Kelvin Johnson popped through an eight-footer to give Richmond the lead, 54-53, but the Pirates, thanks to buckets by Brown and Peartree regained the lead.

Schweitz followed with another layup 30 seconds later, and after that Richmond got the ball back and spread it out, forcing the Pirates to foul — and making all but two of their 17 chances the rest of the way.

Tar Heels Whip 'Pack; Cavs Win

Worthy Keys UNC To 58-44 Triumph

By TOM FOREMAN Jr.
AP Sports Writer

CHAPEL HILL — Junior forward James Worthy drew the attention of both coaches Saturday fo his performance in second-ranked North Carolina's 58-44 Atlantic Coast Conference basketball victory over No. 17 North Carolina State.

Worthy connected on 11 of 15 field goal attempts and finished with a game-high 23 points.

Worthy and Sam Perkins were the key to a 14-4 spurt at the beginning of the second half which led the Tar Heels from a 29-27 halftime lead to a 43-31 advantage.

North Carolina coach Dean Smith credited Worthy with holding Wolfpack forward Thurl Bailey in check.

"When Sam picked up his second foul, we moved James to Bailey and he did a great job," Smith said. "James is a great defensive player when he concentrates and he was concentrating today."

"James Worthy was absolutely outstanding in the first half. Then, in the second half, he got some high-percentage shots," Valvano said.

Perkins scored 4 of his team's first 6 points to start the second half and dished off to Michael Jordan to set up the other basket.

After N.C. State got two baskets from Bailey to close to within 35-31, Worthy and Perkins scored two baskets each in the next three minutes to give North Carolina an insurmountable lead at 43-31 with 12:46 to go.

A technical foul was whistled on Valvano and Jimmy Black converted 1 of the 2 free throws. Worthy followed with a basket with 8:18 left, giving North Carolina a 48-35 advantage.

Second-Half Surge Lifts UVa By Duke

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — Ralph Sampson wasn't much of a factor in the first half of third-ranked Virginia's 77-65 triumph over Duke Saturday, but then one half of Sampson can be more than enough.

Sampson scored 17 of his 23 points in the final stanza as the Cavaliers jumped out to a 21-point second-half lead before holding off a late Duke rally.

Robinson, whose play has been sporadic, scored 6 points as the Cavaliers shot out to a 20-8 lead at the 7:20 mark and were never seriously challenged.

"I really don't think he's been slumping," Virginia coach Terry Holland said of Robinson. "I have been pleased with his play. He is playing solid basketball, but the ball does not always go in the hole for him."

It was a good thing the Cavaliers dominated the boards, because Holland was not pleased with his team's outside shooting.

"I thought Sampson and Robinson did a very good job on the inside when we weren't shooting the ball well on the perimeter," Holland said. "I thought we were able to take control of the game in the lane area."

It was a frustrating evening for Duke coach Mike Krzyzewski as his team had trouble shooting from outside, the Blue Devils' strength this year.

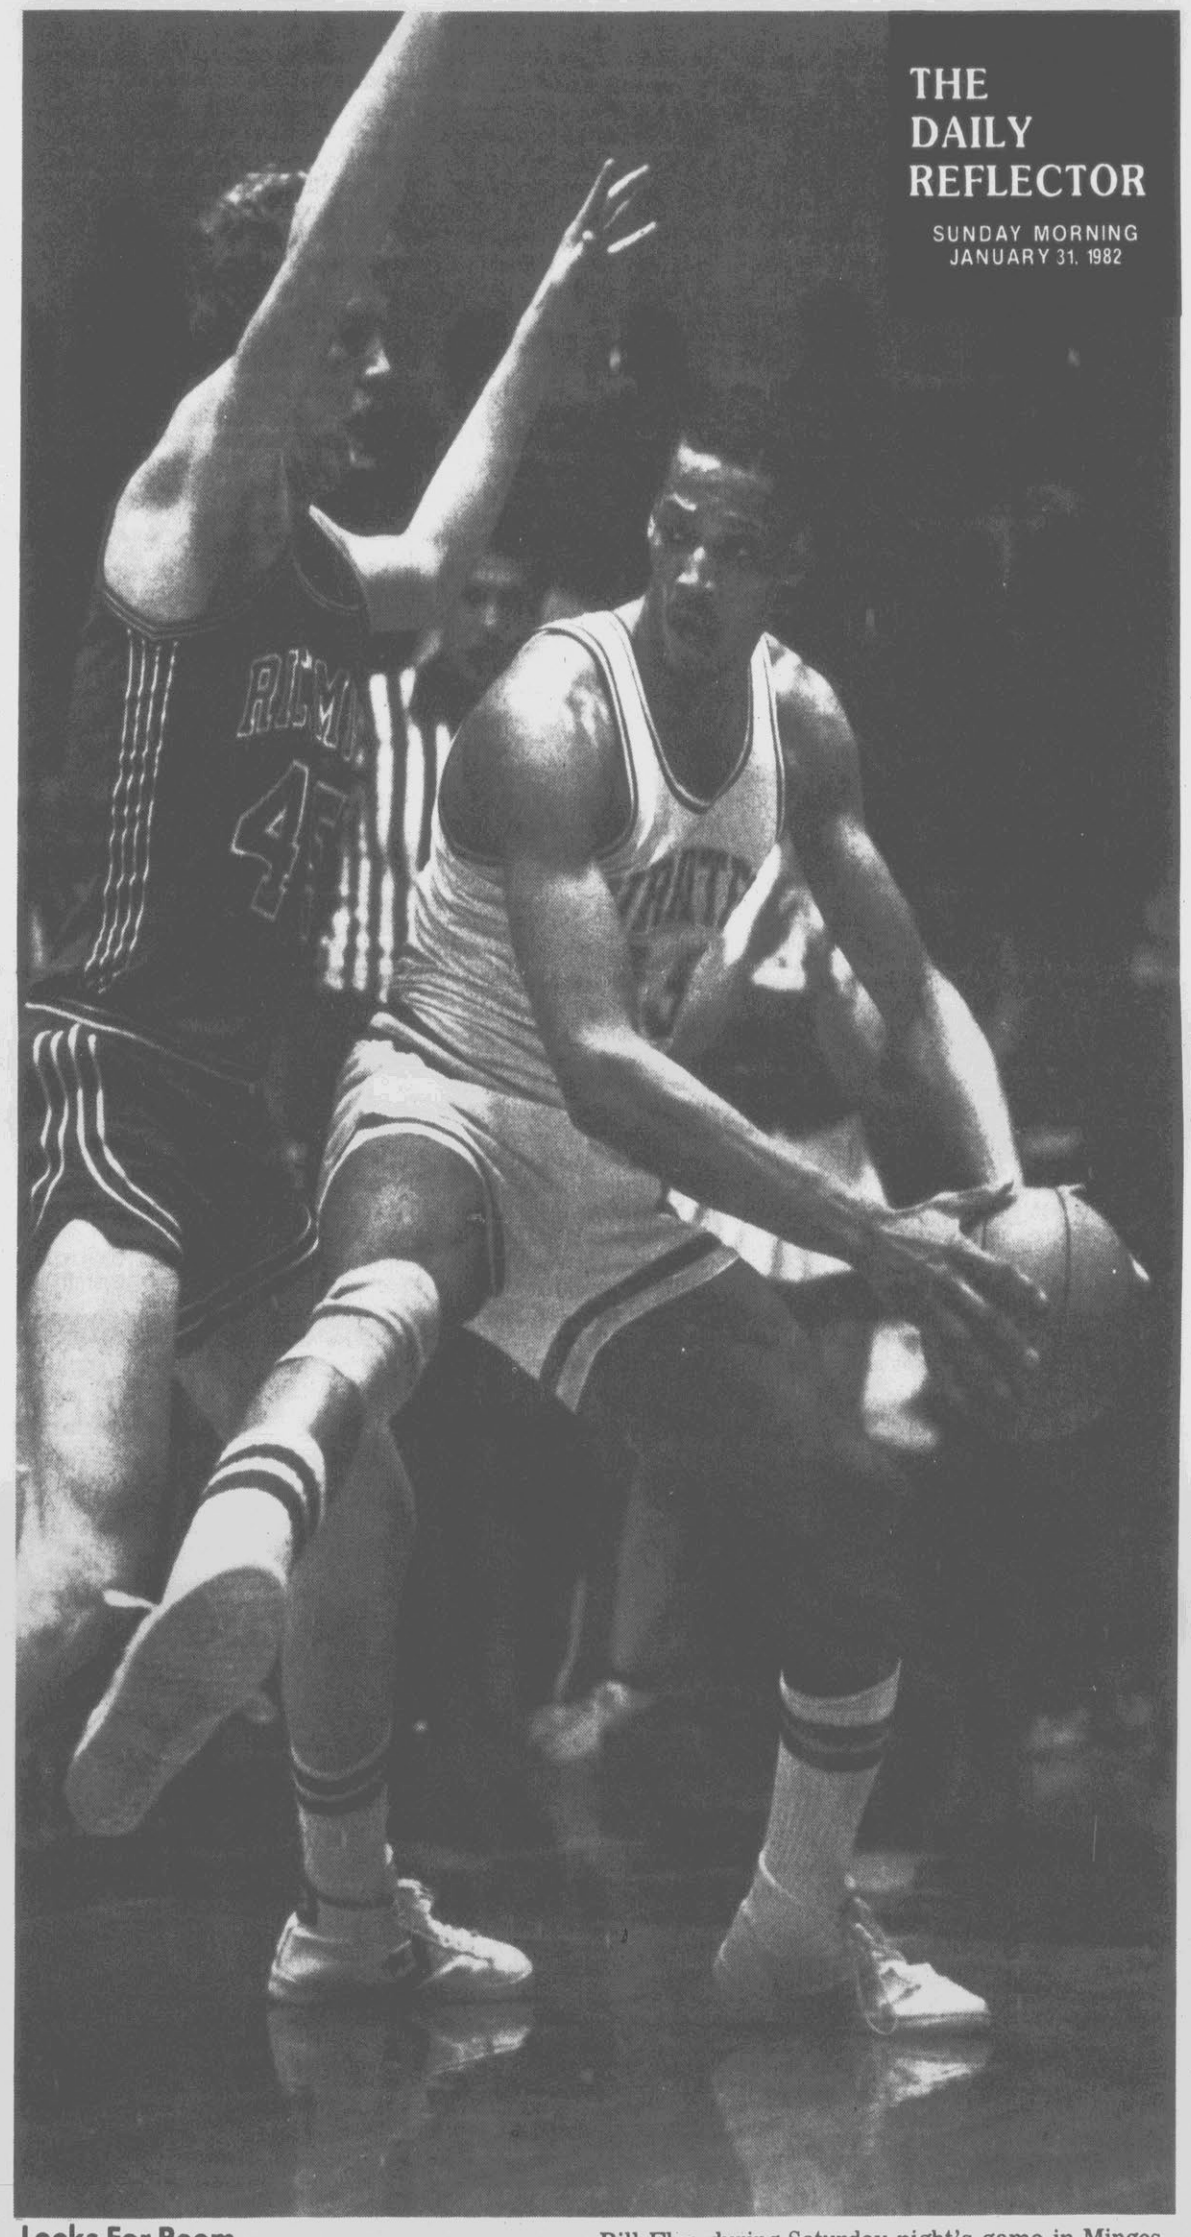

"We got off to a real bad start shooting ... and in order to even have a chance against Virginia, I think you have to establish a real good shooting game right away," he said.

Duke shot 39.6 percent from the field, including an anemic 33.3 percent the first half. The Blue Devils made only 16.7 percent of their first-half free throws.

Benitez Decisions Duran

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Wilfred Benitez, slicker, stronger and boxing with clinical precision, pounded out an unanimous 15-round decision over Roberto Duran Saturday night to retain the World Boxing Council super welterweight title.

It could have been Duran's last hurrah.

Some time ago, the 30-year-old Panamanian has said, "I am looking forward to (Sugar Ray) Leonard, and if I lose (to Benitez), it's all over."

It probably is all over now for Duran since the loss knocks out a third fight with Leonard, against whom Duran quit in the eighth round on Nov. 25, 1980. Leonard had said Duran would have to win for a rematch to be possible.

Benitez was just too much for Duran. He snapped the challenger's head back on several occasions with right hand leads and on several other occasions with left hooks. He also scored with jarring jabs and mixed his attack to the body as well as to the head.

Inside, the 23-year-old Benitez was able to tie Duran up and Duran was unable to bull him into the ropes. Benitez often went for the ropes on his own and there would outpunch Duran.

Judge Hal Miller scored it 143-142, judge Lou Tabat 145-144 and judge Dave Moretti 144-141, all for Benitez.

There were no knockdowns. but Benitez, one of only six men to win titles in three weight classes, hurt Duran in the 12th round. After Duran missed with a left hook., Benitez caught him on the jaw with a crashing right-hand counter that made Duran wobble back a few steps.

Duran fought hard, but the fire that made him famous was missing from his performance. He charged, but the quickness wasn't there and often he seemed befuddled.

Benitez, who weighed 152¼, one-half pound less than Duran, not only had the reach advantage but seemed to hit harder.

In the fifth round, Benitez scored with a big right to the head, followed with a right lead that snapped Duran's head back. He also scored with some good body shots in that round.

In the sixth, Duran scored with a good hook to the body, and a right and a good hook to the head as he applied pressure. In the seventh, during an exchange along the ropes, Benitez' elbow sliced a cut alongside Duran's left eye. The cut did not bother Duran for the remainder of the fight, however.

Benitez took the 11th round with two good rights near the bell and then, after being cut over the left eye early in the 12th, shook Duran with that smashing counter.

Benitez mixed his attack to the bodyy and head in the 13th round as Duran did little and the champion had the best of a furious exchange late in the 14th.

Most of the final round was spent in a neutral corner where the two went toe-to-toe, with Benitez holding the upper hand. On a couple of occasions, Duran backed away and Benitez waved to him to come back in. He also winked at the referee once.

The victory for Benitez was his 43rd against one loss and one draw and he said before the bout that it would be his last in the 154-pound division. He plans now to campaign in the middleweight in a bid to become the first man to win four titles.

Tigers Set School Record With 18th Straight Win

No. 1 Missouri Nips Kansas State, 59-58

MANHATTAN, Kan. (AP) — Great teams win when their greatest players have bad games.

Unbeaten, top-ranked Missouri has yet to prove itself great, but the Tigers beat No. 14 Kansas State 59-58 Saturday in Big Eight basketball while their best player, Ricky Frazier, had a poor day.

Frazier, ineffective most of the game, hit only two of eight field goal attempts and totaled only six points.

"That's the strength of this team," said Coach Norm Stewart. "Somebody can be don and somebody else will pick it up for them.

"More than ever I believe that's the strength of our team."

Missouri established a school record with its 18th straight win. But the Tigers almost blew it when their touch at the free throw line deserted them at the finish.

"That one point victory could have been eight or 10 points if we had hit our free throws," said Stewart. "That's the first time I've seen that this year. I hope it's the last time."

Six-foot-11-inch center Steve Stipanovich scored 20 points, including an uncontested stuff in the final seconds that gave Missouri a three-point lead, and guard Jon Sundvold had 14.

The Missouri bench, led by guard Michael Walker's eight points, also played a pivotal role.

"That was a whale of a game, with good, tough, hard-nosed defense," said Stewart.

Missouri led 57-52 when Ed Nealy fouled out with 1:03 remaining, but Ed Galvao and Tyrone Adams each snk two pressure free throws to make it 57-56 with 31 seconds remaining.

Then Stipanovich, on a pass from Sundvold, sank an uncontested bucket and the Tigers let Tim Jankovich have an uncontested basket at the buzzer.

The Tigers, 18-0, wore down Kansas State's bench after Wildcat starters Nealy, Randy Reed and Les Craft all picked up three fouls in the first half.

Kansas State, 14-4, mounted a 20-13 lead in the first half but a Sundvold layup, a basket by Stipanovich and two field goals by reserve guard Michael Walker helped erase the lead.

Missouri, leading 29-28 at the half, hit four of its first five shots in the second half and led by eight, 49-41, with 8:54 remaining.

Pass Defense Rule To Change

MISSION, Kan. (AP) — Defensive fouls committed away from the area of a catchable ball no longer will be construed as pass interference, according to a new rule adopted by the NCAA Football Rules Committee.

That was one of several new interpretations announced Saturday as the committee made the first significant rules changes affecting college football's passing game in 20 years.

The National Collegiate Athletic Association said the committee felt the changes were necessary because of a trend toward the passing game over the last five years and a record-breaking season in 1981 in which the average completion rate was 50.2 percent and national passing yardage soared to 329.4 yards per game, both all-time highs.

In response to the increased emphasis on passing, rules changes were approved ranging from standardizing the size and position of yard-line numbers on the field to aid receivers, defenders and officials to the definition of a catchable ball.

"The committee's prime concern this year was the reclassification of fouls away from the area where a forward pass was thrown," said David M. Nelson, athletic director at the University of Delaware and secretary-rules editor of the committee. "In the past, these fouls were either penalized as pass interference or were not called by the officials.

"The committee solved this problem by defining a catchable ball, redefining defensive and offensive pass interference and penalizing the defensive team five, 10 or 15 yards from the previous spot, plus a first down for contact fouls which are not pass interference."

In 1982, for fouls away from a catchable ball, the defense will be penalized from the previous spot, plus loss of down, rather than pass interference.

Several changes were made in the passing game penalty structure. The touchback penalty for offensive pas i0027 abe the penalty for illegally touching a forward pass in the 13:37 end zone were eliminated. The penalty for an ineligible receiver beyond the neutral zone was changed from 15 yards to five yards, plus loss of down.

The automatic safety for grounding a forward pass from the end zone was changed to provide the defensive team the option of the safety or the result of the play.

The committee also eliminated the penalty for throwing a forward pass out of bounds to conserve time. In addition, the penalty for blocking an eligible receiver below the waist as an illegal act was expanded to include plays on which a forward pass is not thrown.

Passing teams, more than rushing teams, probably will be helped by the change of the penalty enforcement which penalizes offensive teams that foul behind the neutral zone from the spot of the snap rather than the spot of the foul.

Texas A&M Stuns No. 5 Texas, 71-69

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Claude Riley tossed in a jump shot from the corner with five seconds remaining in overtime Saturday as Texas A&M squeezed past fifth-ranked Texas 71-69 in a rough Southwest Conference basketball game.

The loss in the regionally televised game before a sellout of crowd 16,231 was the second in a row for Texas and also was the first at home this season. A&M's victory pushed its record in the SWC to 5-2, the same as Texas', and enabled Arkansas at 6-2 to take over the league lead.

Texas was off to its best start in 47 years with a 14-0 record before losing Tuesday to Baylor at Waco. That loss also cost the Longhorns their No. 2 scorer and rebounder, forward Mike Wacker, who injured his left knee and had surgery.

Texas erased a seven-point A&M lead in the final 4½ minutes of regulation play to tie the game at 63-63 on a set shot by Ray Harper.

Reggie Roberts of A&M hit a basket for an apparent A&M victory, but officials ruled the buzzer had sounded, and the game went into a five-minute overtime.

Rudy Woods hit two free throws and Roberts stole a Longhorn pass for an A&M dunk to put the Aggies up by four points. LaSalle Thompson, a 6-10 junior who was the game's leading scorer with 24 points, scored on a dunk for Texas but Milton Woodley countered with two free throws for A&M for another four-point margin.

Thompson repeated with a dunk and then scored on a layup to tie the game 69-69.

Roberts brought the ball downcourt, passed to the 6-10 Riley in the corner and he scored the winning basket.

A&M never trailed after taking a 30-29 first-half lead on a tip-in by Lonniel Bluntson.

Denard Holmes supported Thompson with 17 points.

The victory raised A&M's season record to 12-5.

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Derrick Hord, Dirk Minniefield and Jim Master combined for 60 points as No.7 Kentucky rolled past Southeastern Conference rival Georgia 82-73 in a regionally televised basketball game Saturday.

The victory lifted Kentucky to 14-4 overall and 7-3 in the SEC. Georgia, losing its fifth straight game, dipped to 9-8 overall and 3-7 in league play.

Hord, who led all scorers with 21 points, tallied 14 in the first period in helping Kentucky to a 34-25 ha.

Minniefield, meanwhile, scored 14 of his 20 points in the second half, including a three-point play that gave the Wildcats a 51-36 lead with 11:20 to o.

Master finished with 19 points, including 12 in the second half. Georgia's Dominique Wilkins scored 20 points and Eric Marbury added 17.

Four straight free throws by Charles Hurt gave Kentucky its biggest lead of the game, 73-57, with 2:53 remaining.

DePaul.....92
Syracuse.....87

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — Guard Skip Dillard had 28 points and 6-foot-9 forward Terry Cummings added 22 to pace fourth-ranked DePaul to a 92-87 college basketball victory over Syracuse Saturday.

The Blue Demons, 18-1, extended their winning streak to 13 games by overcoming a 29-point performance by Syracuse's Tony Bruin and 17 points by reserve center Sean Kerins of the Orangemen. Bruin collected 22 points in the second half.

DePaul went ahead 86-85 lead in the last 37 seconds.

The announced crowd of 26,143 was the second-largest to watch a game at an on-campus site, missing the Carrier Dome record by about 100.

The game also was carried live on national television.

The technicals were called on Syracuse Coach Jim Boeheim after forward Ron Payton lost the ball underneath the Syracuse basket.

Dillard again took command after Bruin shot the Orangemen into 67-65 lead, scoring five points in 75 seconds for a 70-67 DePaul edge.

Three times in the last 2½ minutes, the Orange pulled to within one point, but were unable to go ahead.

However, Kerins, who did not enter the game until starting center Andre Hawkins picked up three fouls in three minutes, led Syracuse back to a 45-43 halftime deficit with 10 points in the last eight minutes.

Cummings scored 14 of his 22 points after intermission. Syracuse's Gene Waldron and Bernard Randolph of DePaul contributed 12 points each, and Erich Santifer rolled in 11 for the Orangemen.

Iowa.....76
Ohio St.....66

IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP) — Iowa's Mark Gannon scored 19 points and held Clark Kellogg, Ohio State's leading scorer, to just two field goals in the second half as sixth-ranked Iowa posted a 76-66 basketball victory over the Buckeyes Saturday.

The junior forward hit seven of nine from the field, connected on all five of his free throws and pulled down six rebounds as Iowa boosted its record to 15-2 overall and 7-1 in the league.

The Buckeyes fell to 13-7 and 4-4.

Iowa established the lead midway through the first half when Kenny Arnold hit three straight baskets and Kevin Boyle added another to give Iowa a 20-11 advantage. The Hawkeyes led 39-28 at intermission.

Kellogg, the conference's fourth leading scorer prior to the game, finished with 17 points but could manage just four in the second period. The Buckeyes closed to within five at 2:52, but got into foul trouble.

Tony Campbell had 16 points for the Buckeyes before fouling out with 6:18 to play. Guards Ron Stokes and Larry Huggins had 11 and 10, respectively.

Indiana.....62

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) — Darryl Mitchell scored 18 points Saturday as 10th-ranked Minnesota turned back a second-half rally and beat Indiana 69-62 in a regionaly televised Big Ten Conference basketball game.

Randy Breuer, the Gophers' 7-foot-3 center, added 15 points — all in the first half — and the three other Minnesota starters also were in double figures.

Minnesota, breaking a tie with the Hoosiers for second place in the conference, never trailed. Paced by Breuer's 15 points and eight rebounds in the first half, the Gophers opened an 11-point lead at the intermission. Minnesota widened the advantage to 17 points, 47-30, before Ted Kitchel started the Indiana rally.

Kitchel, a 6-8 junior, had eight points in a 12-4 spurt that cut the lead to 51-42. Indiana then pulled within seven points, but two free throws apiece by Mitchell and Gary Holmes brought the margin back to 11. The Gophers coasted the rest of the way, scoring their final 14 points from the foul line.

The victory lifted Minnesota to 6-2 in the Big Ten and 14-3 overall, while Indiana fell to 5-3 and 11-6.

Kitchel led the Hoosiers with 20 points, all but six of them in the second half. Randy Wittman added 13 points for the Hoosiers

Holmes scored 14 points for the Gophers. Tommy Davis had 12 and Trent Tucker added 10.

Tennessee.....72

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (AP) — Cliff Windham scored 15 points and pulled down a key rebound in the final seconds as 13th-ranked Alabama handed No. 15 Tennessee its first Southeastern Conference defeat this season, a 77-72 upset in overtime Saturday night.

The victory lifted Alabama to 16-2 overall and 8-2 in league play. Tennessee dropped to 14-4 and 9-1.

The Crimson Tide won the game at the free throw line, shooting 67.6 percent, and managed to keep the Volunteers, who were plagued by fouls, away from the foul line.

With Alabama ahead 75-72, Tennessee's Ennis Whatley missed a free throw. Windham got the rebound and flipped the ball to Eddie Phillips, who put it in for the win.

The game went into overtime when Ellis, a junior forward, tied it at 62-62 with nine seconds remaining. Alabama got the ball, took it to the basket and put it up three times. On the fourth try, the ball went in but the buzzer had already sounded, putting the game into overtime.

Florida St.....71
Louisville.....65

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Tony William scored 22 points — four of them on crucial last-minute free throws — Saturday as Florida State upset Louisville 71-65 in Metro Conference basketball.

The victory improved the Seminoles to 10-9 overall and 4-2 in the league, while Louisville's fourth consecutive loss dropped the defending conference champions to 11-7 overall and 4-3 in the Metro.

The Seminoles, leading by only two points, sank eight of eight free throws in the final 46 seconds to put the game out of reach.

Michael Johnson stepped to the foul line and made two. William picked up four points from the stripe and Oren Gilmore added two more in the remaining seconds while Louisville lost control on missed shots and turnovers.

William made nine of 12 from the floor to lead the winners with 22 points. Johnson scored 16 and Mitchell Wiggins had 12 for the Seminoles.

Jaguars Nip SWE, 61-57

FARMVILLE — Andrew Edwards scored 12 of his 20 points in the fourth period to lead a furious rally and help lift Farmville Central to a 61-57 victory over Southwest Edgecombe Saturday night in an Eastern Carolina Conference basketball game.

Earlier, in the girls' game, Southwest Edgecombe extended its undefeated string to 51 with a 66-26 win over Farmville Central.

The Jaguars, now 7-10 overall and 2-5 in the conference, trailed, 47-43, at the end of the third period and fell further behind, 51-43, before starting their rally.

Edwards' two free throws with 3½ minutes left gave the Jaguars a 53-52 lead, but Southern Nash came back to regain the lead moments later. But less than a minute later Tony Hargrove connected on two free throws to give Farmville the lead for good at 57-55 with 1:32 left.

Single free throws by Melvin Sutton, Hargrove and Edwards stretched the lead to 60-55 with 16 seconds left. A bucket by LeMonte Johnson cut the deficit to 60-57 and Hilton Cobb then stole a pass and was fouled with 10 seconds remaining.

Cobb, however, missed the front end of the one-and-one, and Edwards was fouled on the rebound. He made the first free throw but missed the second for the final margin.

Farmville trailed, 16-10, at the end of the first quarter but managed to cut the Cougars' lead to 32-29 at the half. Southwest then increased its lead to four (47-43) at the end of the fourth period before the Jaguars rallied for the victory.

Southwest Edgecombe, now 5-15 overall and 5-4 in the ECC, was led by Johnson's 20 points. Darryl Best added 15 for the Cougars.

In the girls' game, Southwest Edgecombe raced to an 18-4 lead at the end of the first period and stretched its advantage to 35-10 at the half. The Lady Cougars then outscored Farmville, 22-4, in the third period before coasting home with the win.

Southwest, now 19-0 overall and 9-0 in the conference, was led by Janice Draughn with 16, Melody Jenkins with 15 and Bridget Jenkins with 14. The Lady Jaguars were paced by Rose Lang's 12 points.

Vikings Sweep Rams

HOLLYWOOD — D.H. Conley's Vikings won their second game in as many nights last night, downing Havelock, 65-56. Conley's girls also came away with a victory, 53-50, to hold onto a share of first place in the Coastal Conference.

Conley's boys inched ahead in the first period, 18-13, only to see Havelock take command in the second quarter. The Rams came back with a 17-11 margin in the second frame, gaining a 30-29 halftime lead.

Conley regained control in the third quarter, outscoring Havelock, 19-12. That pushed the Vikings into a 48-42 lead. They polished off the Rams, 17-14, in the final period.

Keith Gatlin led the Viking scoring with 24 points, while Leon Cox added 18, Sammy Tyson had 11 and Donald Wilson, 10. James Frazier led Havelock with 16.

In the girls' contest, Conley jumped out into a 15-8 lead, but like the boys, saw the Lady Rams put on a rally. Ironically, it was the same 17-11 margin, but it wasn't enought to take away the lead. Conley still held that, 26-25, at the horn.

Conley's third period, like that of the boys, opened the margin, 18-12, and the Valkyries led, 44-37. Havelock rallied again in the final period, 13-9, but fell short.

Mechio Kornegay led Conley with 15 points, while Helena Barnhill had 14, Darlene Cannon had 11 and Irish Barnhill had 10. Jenny Bell led Havelock with 17 and Donna Carter added 10.

Nebraska Runner Breaks Record

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — University of Nebraska sprint star Merlene Ottey broke her own 300-meter indoor world record Saturday in a dual track and field meet with Kansas State.

Ottey's time of 33.10 seconds was one-hundredth of a second faster than her previous best own world record of the world's 10 fastest times in the 300, Ottey now has nine of them.

Miller Retains Lead At Open With 68

SAN DIEGO (AP) - Johnny Miller shot a front-running, 4-under-par 68 and retained a solid, 3-stroke lead Saturday in the third round of the $300,000 Wickes-Andy Williams-San Diego Open Golf Tournament.

Miller, who has led or shared the lead all the way, had a 54-hole total of 200, 16 shots under par on Torrey Pines' South course, stretching 7,002 yards along the cliffs and crags overlooking the Pacific Ocean.

Tom Watson and Jack Nicklaus failed to make a decisive move on Miller, but the ever-present Tom Kite was there.

Kite, who led th 1981 tour in money-earnings and stroke average, vaulted into sole possession of second with the best round of the mild, sunny day, a 6-under-par 66. It was the 30th consecutive round at par or better for the amazingly consistent Kite and gave him a 203 total.

"That's the best I've putted for a long, long time," said Kite, who had an outstanding record of 21 finishes in the top 10 in 26 tournaments last year. He lost in a playoff at the Bob Hope Classic in his first start this season.

"And," he said, "I've been putting pretty well for quite a while. But this was something special. It was a lot of fun.

"But I'll have to play another good round tomorrow. The way Johnny's playing, I'll have to shoot another 66 or 67 to have a chance."

Veteran Tom Weiskopf was next at 204 after a wildly erratic round of 68 that included eight birdies, a pair of bogeys and a double bogey. "A lot of birdies, a lot of mistakes," Weiskopf said.

Watson, the Masters champion who is seeking to regain his position as the game's dominant player, and Fuzzy Zoeller were next at 205, five strokes back. Watson scrambled to a 69 and Zoeller shot 70 in the mild, sunny weather that lured hang-gliders into soaring, silent performances over the cliffs bordering the course.

But they may be too far back.

Yellow Jackets Hold Off Terps

ATLANTA (AP) — Coach Bobby Cremins of Georgia Tech questioned his decision to go to a delay game with a 15-point lead Saturday, but the Jackets held on for a 64-63 Atlantic Coast Conference victory over Maryland.

"I might have made a mistake with the delay game," Cremins said after Tech recorded only its third ACC victory in 37 games since entering the league for the 1979-80 campaign.

"If we had lost today, it would have been par for the course, but we played good enough to win," added Cremins, in his first season at Tech. "I got a little excited and a little crazy."

Brian Howard, a freshman from Rockville, Md., provided the spark for the Jackets, who beat Maryland for the second time this season.

"We probably played the worst first half that we've played all year and one of the best second halves," said Coach Lefty Driesell of Maryland.

"It was a great win for Tech this year and let them celebrate because we'll get them again," Driesell added. "Yes, I'm embarrassed again because of their 1-6 league record. I'm embarrassed any time that we lose."

Howard, who put Tech in control with eight points during a first-half flurry, hit an eight-footer with 2:35 remaining to give Tech a 64-61 advantage.

Charles Pittman, who led the Terps with a game-high 20 points, chopped the margin to one with 2:01 left, and Maryland regained possession 32 seconds later when Tech's Maurice Bradford was called for an offensive foul.

Maryland held the ball the rest of the way, with Jeff Adkins missing a 15-footer in the closing seconds and Brook Steppe claiming the rebound to secure Tech's victory.

Clemson 88
Citadel 56

CHARLESTON, S.C. (AP) — Forward Horace Wyatt led a Clemson attack with 16 points and 12 rebounds to swamp a cold-shooting Citadel team, 88-56, in a non-conference basketball game here Saturday night.

The Southern Conference Bulldogs managed to connect on only 34.6 percent of their field goals, while the Atlantic Coast Conference Tigers hit on 58.5 percent of their field goal attempts.

The Bulldogs never led in the contest, drawing even at 4-4 in the early minutes of the first half when guard Felipe de las Pozas hit from the baseline.

But, Clemson's Fred Gilliam scored with 16:33 left in the half, and the Tigers pulled ahead for keeps. At halftime, Clemson led The Citadel, 39-22.

The closest The Citadel ever came in the second half was 15 points, when forward Louie Gilbert opened the scoring with a field goal to bring the Bulldogs to 39-24.

Other Tigers scoring in double figures were guard Vincent Hamilton with 15 points and Gilliam with 13. The Citadel, which suffered its fourth straight loss, was led by forwards John Sterling and Gerald Toney with eight points each.

The win lifted Clemson to 10-7 overall and dropped The Citadel to 10-7.

Iona 66
Army 43

WEST POINT, N.Y. (AP) — Steve Burtt scored four of his game-high 22 points as Iona surged from behind by outscoring Army 12-0 over the final 7½ minutes of the first half Saturday night and rolled to a 66-43 Metro Atlantic Conference basketball victory.

The Gaels boosted their overall record to 14-6 and held onto first place with a 4-1 conference record. Fordham and St. Peter's are 3-1. Army, which suffered its seventh consecutive setback, is 3-14 overall and has dropped all six league games.

Army led 22-18 with 7½ minutes to go in the first half on a pair of basket by Randy Cozzens, who topped the Cadets with 16 points. Burtt then keyed Iona's 12-0 burst and also scored the first three points of the second half.

Illinois 79
Michigan 61

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP) — Craig Tucker broke out of a four-game shooting slump by scoring 21 points Saturday to lead Illinois to a 79-61 Big Ten basketball victory over Michigan.

Tucker's total was his highest this season in conference play as Illinois rolled to its third straight Big Ten victory. Illinois now is 5-3 in the conference and 12-5 overall. Michigan dropped to 1-7 and 2-13 overall.

Except for an early 7-6 Michigan lead, the Illini were ahead throughout the game, at several points by as much as 19 points.

James Griffin, who has been hot for Illinois in recent games, scored 12 points and grabbed 9 rebounds while Perry Range whipped in 16 points for the Illini.

GCA Wins On Late Hoop

RALEIGH — Troy Hudson's jumper with one second left lifted Greenville Christian Academy to a 65-64 victory over Wake Christian Saturday night in a high school basketball game.

The Knights, now 10-1 this season, trailed, 64-63, with a minute left and went into their stall looking for the last shot. After a timeout with 10 seconds left, Hudson drove the lane and put up a short jumper that fell through the net just before the buzzer sounded.

David Hollingsworth led the Knights in scoring with 16 points. Hudson added 15, John Parnell 14 and Jerry Butts 11. Wake Christian, considered one of the finest Christian teams in the state, was led by John Jordan and Jeff Yeargin, both of whom scored 14 poitns. Dale Wall and Chuck Powell each added 13 points.

Greenville trailed by nine at the end of the first period, 22-13, but got itself together in the second quarter, outscoring Wake, 22-14, and trailing by only one, 36-35, at the half.

The Knights then took the lead (54-49) with a 19-13 third quarter only to see Wake rally back to go up by one with a minute to go.

In the girls' game, Wake surged to a 14-8 first-quarter lead and stretched its advantage to 31-11 at the half. Wake then outscored the Lady Knights, 11-8 and 17-8, the final two periods to win easily.

Wake was led by Susan Bowden with 18 points and Pam Wilder and Dorinda Pla with 10 each. Greenville was led by Kathy Vernelson with 18 points.

VMI Ends 23-Game Losing Skid

LEXINGTON, Va. (AP) — Freshman Darren Sawyer hit four straight free throws in the last minute of overtime to pad a three-point lead as Virginia Military's Keydets broke a 23-game losing streak Saturday night with a 67-62 Southern Conference basketball victory over Appalachian State's Mountaineers.

It was the first triumph in 17 starts this season for VMI, the last NCAA Division I team this year to break nto the victory column, and the Keydets' first in eight conference games.

"This is really gonna take the moneky off our backs," said VMI Coach Charlie Schmaus. "It will give us the confidence we need. We have felt all along that we have some good players, and now they know how to win."

VMI led all the way in the extra period, Cedric Wins hitting a layup and Vest a free throw to make it 58-55.

Jones Paces Women To 7th In Row

BOONE — East Carolina's Lady Pirates, led by the all-around play of senior wing Sam Jones, crushed Appalachian State University, 76-45, Friday night, for their seventh straight victory.

Jones scored a season-high 24 points, pulled down seven rebounds, handed out five assists, stole the ball four times and had two blocked shots. It marked the sixth game in a row that Jones has turned in stellar performances, averaging around 21 points, nine rebound, seven assists and five steals over the span.

East Carolina, for the second time this year, placed five players in double figures, too, as freshman center Darlene Chaney hit 13, Lillion Barnes added 11, and both Loletha Harrison and Mary Denkler had 10 each.

"We've been putting in 40 minutes of tough defense every game," Coach Cathy Andruzzi said. And the 20 forced turnovers — including 15 steals showed it.

"Defense is what makes this team go. It creates for our offense and it fires our people up. Tonight we showed a lot of offensive poise with only seven turnovers. We played our game all the way."

The Lady Pirates trailed only at 2-0 after Muriel Higginbotham's inside layup after just 18 seconds of play. But the Pirates came back to score the next five points as Jones hit a jumper and Loraine Foster added a free throw and a basket.

After that, it was all East Carolina. The Lady Pirates steadily pulled away, building a 41-26 halftime lead. The 15-point spread at that point was the largest lead of the half. Lillion Barnes' shot with 1:05 left closed out the scoring for that period.

In the second half, Appalachian State put on an initial rally, closing to within 11 by outscoring the Lady Pirates, 6-2. Barnes' field goal in the first 4:30 accounted for the only ECU points in that phase of the game.

But then, Jones pushed through 12 of ECU's next 16 points and put the Lady Pirates into a 59-39 lead.

From there, to the end, it was a steady pull-away for the Pirates. In the final ten minutes of the game, ASU was held to only six points, while ECU rattled off 17.

The game marked the first time the Lady Pirates had held an opponent to under 20 points in the second half, and was the lowest output by an ECU foe this year.

The victory pushed the ECU record to 11-7, while Appalachian falls to 3-14. East Carolina had managed only a 61-58 win in the initial meeting of the two in Greenville in late November.

The two teams battled evenly on the boards, each pulling down 37 rebounds. Jones and Chaney led East Carolina with seven each, while Higginbotham, the state's leading rebounder, pulled off 11.

Higginbotham also led the ASU scoring with 15 points while Besty McClelland added 10.

"Sam played an outstanding game," Andruzzi said. "She and Lillion held their girls to two points each (starters Kay Hampton and Angelita Horton) against them. Both are usually double figure scorers.

"This was the best all-around performance by the team this year," she continued. "Our offensive production came from inside and outside. The inside and outside games complimented each other and we want that. That's the third time in five games that we've held our opponents to less than 50 points."

East Carolina returns home on Wednesday to face East Tennessee State, which earlier this month lost to nationally ranked South Carolina by only one point in Columbia. "We'll be glad to be home," Andruzzi said. "East Tennessee is a very talented and very tough opponent. I scouted the South Carolina game and they've got some strong people inside. Marsha Cowart is a great shooter and their point guard, Lori Hines, was a girl we wanted badly. We'll have to be prepared to face them."

The contest is the first of several toughies for the Pirates, who host N.C. State next Sunday evening, then travel to Norfolk, Va., to face Old Dominion, a team which snapped top-ranked Louisiana Tech's 54-game winning streak Friday night with a 61-58 victory.

NBA All-Star Game Set Today

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) — The National Basketball Association's East and West All-Stars conducted light practices in front of a crowd of about 10,000 Saturday, with Seattle's Lonnie Shelon of the West the only no-show.

The crowd took advantage of free admission to the Meadowlands Arena to see each team practice an hour before the Continentabl Basketball Association held its All-Star game. Sunday's NBA All-Star clash, with tickets priced at up to $35, has not been sold out.

Shelton, a starting forward for the West, missed a bus from New York eight miles away to the arena here, but West Coach Pat Riley of Los Angeles scoffed at the significance of his absence. He said the practice "was a far cry from two or three years ago when about three players practiced."

Riley said the West worked on "one basic offensive setup. We'll run plays off that, trying to isolate shooters and get the big men free underneath. We also have one baseline play and one sideline play to keep them honest."

The West is stacked with six of the seven leading scorers in the league, including four starters in George Gervin of San Antonio, Adrian Dantley of Utah, Kareem Abdul-Jabbar of Los Angeles, and Gus Williams of Seattle, who are ranked first, second, sixth and seventh, respectively. The West also has the top rebounder and No.3 scorer in Moses Malone of Houston and the No.2 rebounder in Jack Sikma of Seattle.

"If you put it on paper, it looks like the West has a big advantage," said East forward Larry Bird of the Boston Celtics, acknowledged as probably the NBA's best all-around player. "But our club can hang in there. We should play together well, and I know we can play team basketball."

The East has all three rookies in the game on its team — Detroit's Isiah Thomas and Kelly Tripucka, and New Jersey's Buck Williams.

Thomas, the only rookie starter, said, "The last few years I've watched the All-Star Game. Now, I can't believe I'm playing in it."

Bird and Thomas will be joined in the East starting lineup by Julius Erving of Philadelphia, Artis Gilmore of Chicago and Tiny Archibald of Boston.

But East Coach Bill Fitch said the Celtics' guard would be replaced almost immediately by 6-4 Sidney Moncrief of Milwaukee because Thomas and Archibald are both 6-1 playmakers.

Archibald praised Thomas, saying, "In not too many years, I believe he'll be the premier guard in basketball. I don't have too many years left, and I'm glad I don't have to play against him too much longer."

Nehemiah Sets Hurdle Mark

DALLAS (AP) - Renaldo Nehemiah established a world record in the 60-yard indoor hurdles and Olympian Jeanette Bolden shattered the women's world indoor record in the 60-yard dash Saturday night at the Dallas Times Herald Invitational Track Meet.

It was Nehemiahs second record in as many nights. He broke the world record in the 50 yard hurdles at Toronto Friday night.

"I hit it perfect," said Nehemiah, who ran the record although his top foe, Greg Foster, withdrew.

"I really didn't anticipate a record because I was tired from Toronto," he said. "Foster had made the comment that I couldn't set a world record without him in the race. It was nice to show him that I could. The time speaks for itself."

Bolden, who has the women's American indoor record over 60 meters at 7.21, ran the 60 yards in 6.60 seconds to break the old record of 6.62 set by Alice Brown in Dallas last year.

The 5-8, 135-pound Bolden, a sociology major attending UCLA, beat favored Evelyn Ashford, who ran a time of 6.65.

"I got an especially good start," said Bolden. "It felt like a record."

Candy Young of Fairleigh Dickinson University tied the women's 60-yard hurdles world record with a time of 7.47. The mark was originally set by Stephanie Hightower of Ohio State in New York in 1980.

There was an upset in the men's 60-yard dash as Baylor's Bruce Davis, a wide receiver in football, won the event in 6.11 seconds. World record holder Stanley Floyd of the University of Houston, who ran a 6.13 in the qualifying trials, did not run because of a back problem.

Mississippi St.....33
Vanderbilt.....31

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Reserve forward Terry Lewis' tap-in with 20 seconds to play climaxed a Mississippi State slowdown that beat Vanderbilt, 33-31, in a Southeastern Conference college basketball game Saturday night.

The Bulldogs, in their second major upset of the week, shut out the Commodores for the final 13:35 of the game.

On Wednesday, Mississippi State, now 6-12 on the season and 2-8 in the SEC, defeated seventh-ranked Kentucky, 56-51.

Lewis' tip-in came off a missed shot by Mississippi State forward Jeff Malone, who led all scorers with 16 points.

Vanderbilt had one last chance to win the game with 18 seconds to play, but Bulldog center Kalpatrick Wells intercepted an errant Commodore pass to preservethe victory.

Wells was intentionally fouled with 3 seconds to play and the 6-foot-9 junior made 1 of 2 foul shots to end all scoring.

ECU Falls, 81-71...

Schweitz ended up with 16 points, while Johnson had 14, Bethea had 13, Flye had 12 and Andy Heher and Pehl each had ten — six Spiders in double figures.

East Carolina was led by Pantego freshman Peartree with 20 points — his best. Mack added 16, while Hargrove had 14.

Hargrove led all rebounders with 10, while Flye, Pehl and Schweitz each had seven to pace the Spiders.

"I'm very disappointed for the crowd," Odom said. "They provided everything we've been trying to build here for our program. The atmosphere was terrific.

"I did see some good things though. We played hard, and we didn't lose our composure. We need a day of rest now, and then back to practice on Monday. We'll be all right."

East Carolina returns to action on Thursday, hosting Baptist College of Charleston in 7:30 p.m. in Minges.

Denkler Still Pts. Leader

East Carolina's Mary Denkler continues to lead North Carolina's Division I women's basketball players in scoring with a 20.5 average. Teammate Sam Jones is still holding onto the number three spot according to latest statistics through games of January 25.

Jones has upped her average to 15.9 prior to Friday night's game with Appalachian State, in which she scored 24 points.

Both also appear elsewhere in the statistics. Jones leads the state in assists with a 5.8 average, and is second to N.C. State's Angie Armstrong in steals. Jones has a 2.4 average as compared to 2.6 for Armstrong. Jones also is 11th in free throw percentage at 71.2 and 11th in rebounding with a 6.3 average.

Denkler is fifth in free throw percentage at 78.1, and third in rebounding with an 8.4 average.

Loletha Harrison stands ninth in rebounding at 6.6, while Lillion Barnes is sixth in assists at 2.9 per game.

As a team, the Lady Pirates are third in field goal percentage, 43.1, fourth in free throw percentage at 64.0; third in scoring at 69.4; fifth in rebounding at 39.5; and second in defense at 63.0.

Aycock Wins

Nash Central's girls whipped Aycock, 45-19.

EBA's boys are now 4-4 and the girls are 2-6.

Rams Slow Panthers' Title Waltz, 48-45

By RICK SCOPPE
Reflector Sports Writer

BETHEL — It looked for a time as if North Pitt's relentless march toward the Eastern Carolina Conference title might go unimpeded. Look again.

Led by Roderick Lane's 16 points and 10 rebounds and an active and aggressive zone defense, Greene Central derailed the Panthers' drive to an ECC title with a 48-45 win Friday night.

Earlier, in the girls' game, Greene Central edged North Pitt, 36-35.

"I think we got outplayed all over the floor," North Pitt coach Cobbie Deans said. "I think they handled the pressure a little better than we did. We had several chances to make it a different ballgame and didn't."

The next-to-last chance came with nine seconds left and North Pitt guard Greg Hines on the free throw line with the Panthers down, 46-44. Hines, going to the line for the first time in the game, swished the first free throw but missed the second off the front rim.

The final chance came four seconds later with Greene Central Boneree Johnson at the foul line for a one-and-one. Johnson missed the first free throw, but a lane violation gave the Ram guard another shot.

Granted a reprieve, and despite the screaming of the crowd which at times made it impossible for the officials to hear the horn, Johnson canned both free to give the Rams a 48-45 lead and the victory. The win leaves Greene Central at 9-8 overall and, more importantly, 6-1 in the conference.

The Panthers, who saw a six-game winning streak end with the loss, fall to 12-5 overall and 8-1 in the conference. A win would have left the Panthers needing only one win in their last three ECC games to clinch a tie for the conference crown.

The win never came, however, as Greene Central used a 2-3 zone in which the middle man, usually center Cepado Albritton, went from the baseline to the foul line, clogging the inside and stiffling North Pitt's usually potent patterned offensive attack.

"I thought our guys played real well on defense," Greene Central coach Lewis Godwin said. "It's got to be a big win for us. We won on the road and we beat the #1 team in the conference."

The Rams, who have now won seven of their last nine games, led nearly the entire 32 minutes. Only three times did the Panthers manage to go ahead — at 2-0 early in the first period and at 40-39 and 42-41 late in the final quarter.

North Pitt trailed by six (32-26) at the end of the third quarter, but used a three-point play by Parker to pull within one, 37-36, with 4:52 left. After two free throws by forward John Ray put the Rams up, 39-36, Toby Crandol canned a jumper and Parker swished two free throws to give North Pitt a 40-39 lead.

Ray took a pass from Lane — the Ram forward had six assists — inside for a hoop and then Lane stole the ball and guard James Thompson converted it into a bucket for a 45-42 lead.

"I thought we were able to answer everything they had at the end," Godwin said. "But we really shouldn't have been in that situation. But they fought back. When you lose a lead like we had for such a long time and then get it back.... Well, I'm just proud of our guys."

Joining Lane in double figures for Greene Central was fellow forward John Ray, who finished with 13 points and six rebounds.

North Pitt, which hit 42.5% (20 of 47) from the field, was led in scoring by Vince Parker with 17 points. Parker also had five rebounds. Hines added 13 points and four rebounds.

Greene Central outrebounded the Panthers, 23-19, and hit 47% (16 of 34) of its shots. The Rams took 14 less shots, but hit 16 of 23 free throws. North Pitt was five of nine at the foul line.

The game started slowly. With score tied at 6-6, the Rams put together an 8-2 surge to go up, 14-8, at tne end of the quarter. Lane hit a pair of free throws and a jumper from the left corner and threaded a pass inside to Albritton to key the surge.

The Rams built their lead to eight in the second quarter at 22-14 on a bucket by Albritton. Greene Central led at the half, 22-16.

Greene Central had a chance to go up by 10 early in the third period, but Lane missed two free throws that would have given the Rams a 30-20 lead with 3:48 left.

A pair of buckets by Parker and a jumper by Richard Heller pulled the Panthers within four (30-26) with 1:53 left and North Pitt went out of the quarter down, 32-26.

In the girls' game, Greene Central senior guard Leatha Taylor canned two free throws with 31 seconds remaining as the Lady Rams defeated foul-plagued North Pitt.

Greene Central, now 10-7 overall and 3-4 in the league, trailed by six at the end of the first quarter but outscored North Pitt, 12-1, in the second period to take an 18-13 lead at the half.

The lead soon evaporated in the third period, however, as the Pant-HERS, now 7-8 overall and 5-4 in the ECC, rallied to tie it up, 29-29, going into the final eight minutes.

Then, with Greene Central ahead, 34-33, Sharpe grabbed her ninth and final rebound of the night and tossed it through the bucket to give North Pitt a 35-34 lead with 1:33 left.

Taylor then missed the front end of a one-and-one, but the Pant-HERS turned the ball over and Taylor was fouled again. This time Taylor hit both free throws to lift the Lady Rams to a 36-35 lead.

Greene Central had a chance to seal the victory with nine seconds left, but Sylvia Swinson missed a free throw. Linda Harrell pulled off the rebound and raced down court,

Northern Rally Tops Rose

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

RED OAK — Northern Nash, down by as many as five points, took control of the ball game in the second half Friday night and went on to record a 53-44 win over the Rampants of Rose High School.

Northern, led by the scoring of Clifton Lynch, who had 23 points, thus stayed in the race for the Big East Conference championship, raising the Knight record to 6-2 in the league and 14-3 overall.

Rose, which seemed to be in control for a while, drops to 2-5 in conference play and 8-7 overall.

Earlier in the evening, Northern's girls won their first Big East game of the year, topping the Rampettes, 47-42, behind a 26 point effort by Rhomda Lamms.

Rose was icy cold throughout the evening, never hitting a good percentage. The Rampants finished by canning only 16 of 45 shots, a poor 35.6%. Northern, in the meanwhile, dropped in 21 of 40, for 52.5 percent. Rose managed a slim 29-26 rebounding edge, and had an edge in turnovers, too, committing only 16 to Northern's 20.

But it was the poor shooting that did them in, along with the defensive job done on Lynch.

"I think we played 'em a little better than we did last time," Coach Jim Brewington said. "But in the second half, we couldn't keep it going. We didn't shoot well, and we missed some key stuff early that could have iced it for us.

"Northern has a good team, but we're coming along. It was a hard-fought, physical game."

Brewington offered no excuses for Lynch's ability to get the open shot. "We geared the defense to stop (Thomas Mabry) and (Lynch) got all the points.

Mabry, who scored ten, most of them in the final period when he took the ball to the basket, had been the Knight team leader.

Northern, which hit on seven of nine shots — all seven coming after the two misses — in the third period, took the lead midway through the frame and never lost it again.

After Derrick Battle put Northern ahead at the start, Rose came back to score seven straight points, three by Barry Smith and four by William Battle, to take a 7-2 lead. Lynch then canned three straight baskets to return Northern to the lead, 8-6, before a three-point play by Alan Dickens put Rose back ahead, 10-8.

But two baskets, both by Mabry, put Northern back out again, 12-10, before Donnell Lee tied it up on two free throws.

After an early 14-14 tie, Northern moved back out to an 18-14 lead, but scored only one more field goal and two free throws the rest of the half. Rose took advantage of that to score ten of its own, taking a 24-22 halftime lead. Russell Perkins got the string going with a three-pointer, and Battle followed with two free throws and a jumper from the top of the key. Smith got the remaining points, all from the foul line. Lynch, however, came up with two free throws with ten seconds left to pull the Knights back within two.

The score was tied three times before Northern took the lead for good on a fast-break basket by Battle with 4:03 left, 30-28. Rose never caught up again.

Battle hit again, running the lead to four, and Northern took that at the end of the period, 36-32.

In the final period, Rose, which fell back to by as many as seven, was forced to abandon its 2-1-2 zone and switch to a man-to-man defense, and Northern took advantage of that to hold them off, using ball control and the foul line to good ability. Northern hit nine of 12 free throws during the period as it held off any hopes of a Rampant rally.

Battle, who scored only four points in the second half, ended up with 14 for the night, leading the Rose effort. He was the only Rampant in double figures.

Rose's girls were also plagued by poor shooting, but were hurt even more at the foul line. There, the Rampettes hit 10 of 18 shots, while Northern put through 17 of 26 and that made the difference.

Both teams got away to a horribly slow start. Northern scored two baskets in the first two minutes, but didn't score again in the period. Rose didn't score until the 2:08 mark, and added a tieing basket by Frances Barnhill with five seconds left.

A free throw by Doris Richardson, followed by a jumper by Linda Winstead, pushed Rose out by three, 7-4, and that was steadily increased out to six, 11-5. Northern cut it back to two on several occasions, but Rose led, 21-15, at halftime.

A three-point play by Winstead ran the lead out to nine, 24-15, early in the third period, but Rose fell apart after that. As Lamms continued to toss in points for the Lady Knights, the margin began to disappear.

Helped along by six points by Lamms, Northern hit eight straight before Rose could score again. Still, Rose held them off until Lamms hit a three-pointer with eight seconds left in the quarter to tie it at 31-31.

Rose went back ahead on several more occasions before Lamms hit two more, the last with 1:24 left to put the Lady Knights ahead, 42-40 — a lead they never lost.

Rose, in fact, scored only once more the rest of the way, while Northern pushed through five free throws.

Winstead, playing one of her better games for the Rampettes, led Rose with 13, while Barnhill added ten. No one other than Lamms had double figures for Northern.

Northern's girls are now 1-7 in the conference and 2-14 overall. Rose drops to 2-5 in the league and 5-8 overall.

"This hurt us probably as bad as any loss we've had," Coach Dennis Gibson said. "Things just wouldn't go right for us."

• •

Everyone's Talking About Universal Life

The Wall Street Journal, May 4, 1981

The Wall Street Journal, May 4, 1981

". . . pays interest rates on the policy's cash value that are up to three times the rates paid on traditional whole life insurance."
The News and Observer, August 9, 1981

ADAPTABLE LIFE is American Defender Life's universal life product. ADAPTABLE LIFE combines the best of protection and savings into a single permanent life insurance policy . . . low cost insurance protection and savings accumulation at interest rates competitive with other savings media. According to a private letter ruling from the I.R.S. on a similar policy, this new policy will contain all the tax advantages of traditional life insurance . . . income tax-free death benefits and tax-free accumulation during the savings years. With this high degree of flexibility, it is easy to see why ADAPTABLE LIFE is really the only life insurance plan you will ever need to own.

Conley Takes Pair From Patriots; Valkyries Tie For League Lead

HOLLYWOOD — D.H. Conley's Vikings kept themselves in the race for the Coastal Conference championships last night with a pair of victories over West Carteret. The Vikings dumped the Patriots, 63-59, while the Valkyries downed the Lady Pats, 44-43.

Conley's girls, with the win, effectively tied for first place in the Coastal with a 4-1 record. The Valkyries are 14-2 overall. West Carteret falls to 4-2 in the league and 14-3 overall.

Both teams scored seven points in the first period and Conley managed a two-point edge in the second, 15-13, for a 22-20 halftime lead. They held on during the third period and took a 34-31 lead into the final period.

West Carteret rallied in that, however, and finally took the lead at 43-42 with about a minute left. After Conley missed a shot, the Lady Pats rebounded, but Darlene Cannon forced a five-second count, turning the ball over to the Valkyries.

Following a time out, Cannon drove the baseline, and was fouled. She made both free throws to put Conley back ahead, 44-43, with 17 seconds to go.

Then, after another time out, West Cartreret's Mindy Ballou fired off a shot and missed. Another shot was also missed and Helena Barnhill tied up a Patriot rebounder with eight seconds left. On the tap, the ball was batted around, with neither team getting possession before time ran out.

Cannon led the Conley scoring with 16 points, while Ballou had 18 and Sherri Helms had 13 for West Carteret.

In the boys' game, Conley, now 3-2 in the league and 8-8 overall, jumped out to a 12-9 first period lead. The Vikings increased that in the second quarter, outscoring the Patriots, 15-8, for a 27-17 halftime lead.

Both teams pushed through 16 points in the third period, and Conley took a 43-33 lead into the last quarter. In that, West Carteret tried to rally, 26-20, but fell short.

Sammy Tyson led Conley with 20 points, while Keith Gatlin added 17. Travis Adams led West Carteret, now 3-3 and 9-8, with 20 points while Donald Johnson added 13 and Rodney Collins had 12.

"We did exactly what we wanted at the end," North Pitt coach Randy Avery said. "We had the shot but it just didn't go in. This is a tough one to lose."

Greene Central coach Brenda Dail was obviously pleased with the win. "I was very worried about their height," Dail said. "I didn't know if we'd be able to handle it.

"I think we were a little intimidated at first, but once the girls realized they could play with them we were all right."

Much of the Pant-HERS' height was forced to sit on the bench rather than compete on the court because of foul problems. Sharpe picked up her third foul with 1:59 left in the first period and sat out the second quarter.

Two other starters — Harrell and Gladys Roberson — picked up their third fouls in the second period.

The Pant-HERS jumped out to a 6-0 lead in the first three minutes. Then, ahead 6-5, the Pant-HERS used a bucket by Sharpe and two free throws and a follow shot by Bradley to take a 12-6 lead at the end of the quarter.

The lead was short-lived, however, as the Lady Rams scored 12 straight points — six by Taylor and four by Swinson — in the second quarter to take a six-point lead at intermission.

North Pitt used back-to-back jumpers by Harrell and Bradley early in the third period to close to within three, 22-19. The Pant-HERS then tied it twice in the final 1:45 of the period, the final time at 29-29 as the quarter ended.

UCLA Gains Upset Win Over No. 8 Beavers

By The Associated Press

You've got to hand it to UCLA.

Oregon State Coach Ralph Miller said that's just what his Beavers did Friday night.

"The Bruins were better this evening," said Miller after his eighth-ranked basketball team was upset 74-68 at Pauley Pavilion. "I haven't seen a team this season that we can't beat on any given night. But it was our poorest rebounding job of the year — we just gave it to them."

The Bruins not only beat Oregon State on the boards, 29-24, but at the foul line, making 16 free throws in 24 attempts to the Beavers' six foul shots in just seven tries.

"Up until the last four minutes we played as well as we could," said UCLA Coach Larry Farmer. "It was a good feeling to hear the final buzzer go off. They came back like gangbusters. They never quit."

UCLA's senior forward Mike Sanders erupted for a career-high 29 points, 19 of them in the second half when the Bruins needed them to hold off the charging Beavers. Kenny Fields added 25 points and grabbed a game-high eight rebounds for the Bruins, who rolled to their fifth straight victory and at the same time stopped Oregon State's eight-game winning streak.

Sanders, who has had recent scoring problems, didn't consider his performance against the Beavers the end of a drought.

"I don't think it was a situation where I've been in a slump," he said. "Teams have been double and triple-teaming me since conference play began and that left Kenny Fields open. They mostly played me one-on-one tonight. I can work to get open easier against one person than two or three."

The Top Twenty

Arkansas relied on the scoring of Darrell Walker and Scott Hastings for a come-from-behind victory over Rice in a Southwest Conference game. Walker, a junior guard, scored only four field goals but hurt the Owls at the free throw line when he hit 9 of 11 shots. Hastings, a senior center, was 7-of-10 from the floor and hit two of his four free throws.

The Arkansas victory overshadowed a 22-point performance by Rice senior forward Ricky Pierce. Junior forward Kenny Austin was the only other Rice player in double figures with 10 points.

Unranked Teams

Elsewhere, Greg Jones' two technical foul shots with 14 seconds left gave West Virginia a school-record 15th straight victory, 48-45 over Pitt after a controversial call disallowed a potential tying foul shot by Steve Beatty; Tony Hafley scored 18 points as South Alabama overpowered Georgia State 75-50, and Greg Dennis' two foul shots with 49 seconds remaining led Western Carolina over The Citadel 58-53.

Roanoke Romps Past Williamston, 53-36

ROBERSONVILLE — Ronnie Broadie scored 15 points and unbeaten Roanoke outscored Williamston, 18-8, in the fourth quarter en route to a 53-36 win Friday night in a Northeastern Conference basketball game.

The win leaves the Redskins at 12-0 in the conference and 15-0 overall. The Tigers fall to 1-11 and 1-12.

Earlier, in the girls' game, Roanoke whipped Williamston, 40-30.

Roanoke, which got 10 points from guard Mike Wilson and eight points from Ricky Highsmith and Michael Neal, jumped out to a 12-6, at the close of the first quarter.

Williamston, however, fought back in the second period to trail by only three (23-20) at intermission.

But Roanoke outscored the Tigers, 12-8, in the third period for a 35-28 lead and then scored 18 points to the Tigers' eight in the final eight minutes for the 17-point win.

Reggie Horne led Williamston in scoring with 10 points. Woody Sadler added eight for the Tigers.

Parker scored 14 points and Jones 10 to lead the Lady Redskins to their 12th win in 15 outings. Roanoke is 8-3 in the league. Williamston falls to 8-4 overall and 8-3 in the league.

Roanoke slipped out to an 8-6 lead at the end of the first period and then outscored Williamston, 12-8, in the second quarter for a 20-14 halftime advantage.

Williamston closed to within two (24-22) going into the final quarter, but the Lady Redskins outscored the Lady Tigers, 16-8, over the final eight minutes to capture the win.

Williamston was led by Gail Smith with 10 points. No one else was in double figures.

Conley Clinches CC Mat Crown

MOREHEAD CITY — D.H. Conley won seven of the last eight weight classes to defeat West Carteret, 43-20, and clinch the Coastal Conference regular season wrestling title here Friday night.

D.H. Conley, which has now won 28 straight dual matches, is now 12-0 overall and 7-0 in the league with one regular season match remaining at White Oak Tuesday night.

The Vikings lost three of the first five matches — one by forfeit — and trailed, 17-12, after defending state champion Roy Heverely pinned Shawn Hardy at 3:30 in the 128 pound weight class.

D.H. Conley rallied, however, to win all but one of the final eight matches. Among those seven wins was Andy Majette's 8-6 decision over Ricky Gentry in the 134 pound class. The loss was Gentry's first of the season.

Summary:

Lady Bucs Improving

BLACKSBURG, Va. — The East Carolina women's track team continued to improve Friday at the Moving Comfort Invitational, but still failed to get anyone out of the preliminary heats.

"We're coming along," ECU women's track coach Pat McGuigan said. "We're gaining experience indoors, something these kids have not had. We're looking more experienced and that's important."

The Lady Pirates' best showing came in the 300-meter run where Arnetta Kelly and Liz Graham both finished third in their respective heats. ECU also had two fourth-place finishes — in the 4 X 150 relay and in the 60-yard dash.

Kelly ran a 7.3 to finish fourth in the 60 and the team of Kelly, Graham, Davenna Cherry and Carolyn Moore ran a 1:23.4 in the relay.

Cherry also finished sixth in her heat in the 60. Eve Brennan was sixth in the 1,500-meters (5:08.65) and Lisa Whitley was sixth in the 1,000-meters (3:16.10).

Warriors Top Jags

FARMVILLE — Eastern Wayne, helped along by forfeits in three weight classes, gained a 41-30 victory over Farmville Central's wrestlers Friday night.

Of the actual matches held, Farmville won six and Eastern Wayne picked up four, but having to give up the points in the forfeits made the difference.

The loss dropped Farmville to 1-6 on the season.

The Jaguars close out the season this week, wrestling at Williamston on Tuesday, at home against Camp Lejeune on Wednesday and in the Cape Hatteras Tournament on Saturday.

Summary:

100: Tim Massengill (EW) won by forfeit.

Bear Grass Downs Hatteras

BEAR GRASS — Ray Biggs, Phil Peele and Lawrence Watson combined for 39 points to lead Bear Grass to a 46-37 victory over Cape Hatteras Friday evening in a nonconference basketball game.

Earlier, in the girls' game, Angie Mizelle scored 23 points to lift Bear Grass to an easy 46-10 win over Cape Hatteras.

Bear Grass slipped out to an 11-10 lead at the end of the first quarter, but Cape Hatteras tied the game at 22-22 at the half. The game was still tied at the end of the third quarter, 26-26, as both teams scored but four points in the third period.

However, a 20-11 surge by the Bears in the final quarter sent them to their third win in 11 outings this season.

Biggs led the Bears with 16 points followed by Peele with 12 and Watson with 11. Cape Hatteras was led by Victor Ballance and Kendell Gray, both of whom scored 12 ponts. Lonnie Woods added 10 points.

In the girls' game, Bear Grass led, 8-0, at the end of the first quarter and stretches its lead to 18-2 at the half before coasting home with the win in the last two periods.

Joining Mizell in double figures for Bear Grass, now 9-5 overall, was Sharon Cratt, who scored 10 points. Cape Hatteras had no one with more than four points.

Bear Grass travels to Belhaven Tuesday.

Rampants Top Northern Nash

Greenville Rose won the final five weight classes — four by pins — to rally and defeat Northern Nash, 48-26, Friday night in a Big East Conference wrestling match.

The Rampants, now 8-5 overall and 8-2 in the league, trailed, 18-6, after the first four matches before tying it up on pins by Tommy Michaelson and Tony Haddock.

Northern Nash, however, won the next two weight classes by decisions to go up, 26-18. From there, it was all Rose. The Rampants used pins by John Maye, James Richardson, Mike Spell and Marvin Fleming and a win by forfeit by Robert Brown to rally for the win.

Firebirds Nip Ayden-Grifton, 53-50

STANHOPE — Ricky Battle scored 15 points and Frankie Toney tapped in a shot late in the game to lift Southern Nash by Ayden-Grifton, 53-50, Friday night in an Eastern Carolina Conference basketball game.

Earlier, in the girls' game, Ayden-Grifton rallied to defeat Southern Nash, 57-50.

Ahead 51-50 with less than 30 seconds remaining, Southern Nash misfired on a field goal attempt. However, Toney went up to put the shot in and give the Firebirds a 53-50 lead and, moments later, the victory.

The win leaves Southern Nash 10-7 overall and 5-2 in the league. The Chargers fall to 5-13 overall and 2-7 in the ECC.

"I thought we played well for most of the game," Ayden-Grifton coach Bob Murphrey said. "We showed some patience and discipline for a change. We had a chance to win the ballgame, but we just couldn't do it."

Ayden-Grifton slipped out to a 13-11 lead in the first period only to see the Firebirds use a 17-11 second-quarter advantage for a 28-24 halftime lead. The Firebirds increased their lead to five (46-41) at the end of the third period before holding the Chargers off in the final eight minutes for the win.

Joining Battle in double figures for Southern Nash was Jeff Lucas, who finished with 12 points. Ayden-Grifton was led by Thomas Anderson with 16 points. Both Jesse Anderson and Tyrone Gay had 12 points.

In the girls' game, Ayden-Grifton trailed by two at the half, but outscored the Lady Firebirds, 30-22, in the final two periods for the win.

Ayden-Grifton, now 7-11 overall and 4-5 in the ECC, trailed, 15-14, at the end of the first quarter and 29-27 at the half. But the Chargers outscored Southern Nash, 14-10, in the third period to take a 41-37 lead they never lost.

Ayden-Grifton outscored the Lady Firebirds, 16-11, in the final eight minutes to clinch the win.

The Chargers were led by Cora Faison with 25 points. Linda Brown added 11. Southern Nash was led by Melissa Morgan, who scored a game-high 30 points. No one else was in double figures.

Winter Fishing Hotspot — does the thought of battling a 20 to 30 pound fish which fights like a tarpon excite you? Would you drive to the mountains of North Carolina to find out? If the answer to both questions is "yes," then read on.

The northern muskie, a ferocious game fish that reaches weights of 70 pounds, is generally associated with the waters of the northern United States and Canada. However, these fish are also native of North Carolina mountain rivers that flow to the Mississippi. Siltation and water pollution eliminated most Tar Heel muskies early i this century, but water-pollution control laws passed in the 1960's helped clean up these rivers and the N.C. Wildlife Resources Commission began stocking muskies in selected waters in 1970. Today some of the best muskie fishing in the United States is found in the mountains of North Carolina.

The success of the muskie program has surprised even the most optimistic fisheries biologists involved with the restoration project. Fifteen to twenty pound muskies have been landed regularly for the past several years in the French Broad River and the Little Tennessee, Nolichucky, Toe and New rivers have also been productive. Lake Adger was originally stocked to provide a local source of eggs and fry, and offers productive fishing. The state record muskie was caught in Fontana Lake, and weighted 26 pounds, 10 ounces.

For reasons known only to themsevles, large muskies seem to strike best during the cold months — November through April — and, like ducks, they seem to be most active during bad weather. Drizzling rain — or better yet, a light snow flurry — are prime ingredients for successful muskie fishing.

Aspiring muskie fishermen also need tackle that's a tad heavier that a standard, ultralight trout fishing outfit. A heavy bass rig loaded with 20-pound test line works well, and some experienced fishermen feel that steel leaders are needed to thwart needle-sharp teeth. Other fishermen feel that wire leaders are unnecessary.

Muskies generally feed on soft-ray fishes like carp, chubs and suckers, and large plugs, sppons and other lures that imitate these fish are usually productive. A six-inch silver-and-black Rebel is the favorite for many successful mountain muskie fishermen.

Fishing is best when the water is relatively clear and at normal levels. If the water is clouded, you're wasting your time. Jon boats equipped with small trolling motors are the best craft for muskie fishing.

At best, muskie fishing is not as frenzied as bass fishing, or any other type of fishing found in North Carolina. In northern muskie waters, anglers say that one strike for every 10,000 casts is good fishing. The catch rate in North Carolina is much higher, but it's still no disgrace to get skunked after a full day of fishing. If this should happen to you, take heart in knowing that when you finally do hook a muskie you will have a fish story that will keep your friends on the edges of their chairs for months.

Did you know this? — How many fish do American anglers catch in a year? How does 2.7 billion sound? This estimate comes from the Sport Fishing Institute, and is based on the number of anglers, trips, and success rates for various species.

The freshwater catch accounted for almost 2.4 billion fish while the saltwater harvest by recreational fishermen was about 326 million fish.

Trinity In 72-65 Win

Trinity Christian School gained a pair of victories over Wilson Christian School Friday. Trinity's boys rolled to a 72-65 win in their game, while the girls took a 26-20 win.

In the boys' contest, Trinity built up a 10-5 lead in the first period and followed that up with a 20-12 margin in the second frame for a 30-17 halftime lead.

Trinity continued to pull away in the third quarter, outhitting Wilson, 20-18, for a 50-35 lead. Wilson was allowed a 30-22 rally in the final period.

John Moran led Trinity with 20 points, while Darryle Wells had 14 and Greg Jones and David Caspar each had 12. David Whitley led Wilson with 32 points, while John Whitley added 18.

OD Women Stun Tech

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — Old Dominion jammed up things around the basket and got its outside players in position for enough good shots to write an end to Louisiana Tech's 54-game winning streak, the longest in women's college basketball history.

And the seventh-ranked Lady Monarchs' 61-58 victory Friday night over the previously unbeaten top-ranked Lady Techsters at the ODU Fieldhouse was revenge of the sweetest kind.

Besides ending a three-game losing streak at the hands of the defending national champions and the Lady Techster's two-year unbeaten streak, ODU ended Louisiana Tech's 105-game record of holding opponents to a field goal average of less than 50 percent.

Louisiana Tech last lost to South Carolina 77-59 in the consolation game of the AIAW nationals in March 1980.

It was a crucial game — with crisis after crisis.

"We had every opportunity to win, and we didn't," said Louisiana Tech Coach Sonja Hogg.

Tere were at least 47 opportunities. The Techsters, 20-1, shot 23 of 70 from the floor for 33 percent to ODU's 57 percent.

"We wanted to force the perimeter game," said ODU Coach Marianne Stanley. "We said, 'If they beat us, let's make them beat us from the outside.'"

ODU, 15-4, was down 37-29 at the half, having trouble with its own guards getting the ball in to shoot and committing 19 turnovers.

"Our guards weren't getting in. Their (the Lady Techsters') defense was like a vice and we couldn't pass," Stanley said.

"And they kept getting the ball back. We were getting five people jammed in (under the basket), so if it was coming off long, they got it," Stanley said.

But in the second half, Stanley explained, "we spread our offense out a little and isolated our post players. I told the three outside, 'Don't pass it, go inside.'"

When the game started, "it was 0-0, a whole new game," said ODU junior guard Helen Malone, who sparked the Lady Monarchs' opening second-half blitz and ended up high scorer with 17 points.

The Lady Monarchs scored six unanswered points and outscored the Lady Techsters 14-4 — with 8 points from Malone — in 8½ minutes for a 43-41 lead, their first since the 7:15 mark of the first half.

ODU never trailed after a three-point play from Malone put the Lady Monarchs up 46-45 with 10:21 remaining, although Louisiana Tech did tie the score.

A follow on a rebound by Anne Donovan broke the last tie with 2:58 left. The Techsters had brought it to 54-54 with a seven-point streak — five of them from center Janice Lawrence, who had a game-high 18 points.

The Techsters got within one at 1:11 at 59-58 but missed the next shots, and in the rebound scramble guard Angela Turner fouled Donovan, who made both ends of a one-and-one for the last two points.

PLAN YOUR HOME

The Wrencote

Breezeway Links Garage, Family Room

By Jerry Bishop

Open planning predominates in the Wrencote, a two-story traditional where family room and kitchen form an airy space that extends outward via the breezeway. Four bedrooms and two full baths are outlined, as well as a roomy living/dining area and expansive concrete terrace.

Shutters and small paned windows add to the traditional warmth of the exterior, while the interior floor plan puts an up-to-date emphasis on space and zoning.

Entry is into a gracious foyer, where stairs ahead lead to the upper level. At right is the impressive living and dining room. Extending the entire width of the home, this area allots ample space for entertaining and features sliding glass doors to the terrace.

For family activities, the sizable island kitchen and family room are merged, with laundry niche, pantry, and storage closet shown. Sliding glass doors lead to the terrace, and another door opens to the breezeway, a natural spot for playroom or added dining space.

Upstairs, plans call for two 22-ft. bedrooms, a full bath, and a smaller central bedroom. The long storage area under the eaves can be reached from two of the bedrooms, and the basement promises additional storage space.

Foundation Seeks New Products

By BARBARA MAYER
AP Newsfeatures

Safety pins and zippers are staples of life, but if they were invented today, would anybody be willing to manufacture and market them?

Maybe, says Bonnie Cashin. But, she adds, other inventions, perhaps as relevant to present and future lives, are stillborn for want of commercial receptivity to creative concepts.

Out of the designer's belief that today's commercial climate discourages creative minds and works against the design and manufacture of the useful, practical and beautiful, a new foundation has been formed.

The Innovative Design Fund — Ms. Cashin's baby which has been adopted by other creative individuals in the fashion, home furnishings and design fields — has been formed to seek out innovative products.

"We hope to begin making grants by the end of the year," said Ms. Cashin at her New York studio. "We are interested in creative ideas from uncommonly creative persons in all fields, including what we wear and use and what we live in and with."

The idea for a foundation to encourage creativity came to her, some years ago. "I used to call it my impossible dream," she said. But she began working to establish such a group only about two years ago when a relative urged her to set up the foundation if she believed in it.

The designer and her board of advisors, which includes others in the design field, representatives of museums, foundations, business and the media, have a sense of urgency about their goals.

"We feel an intensive but-will-it-sell attitude is eclipsing valid design. We believe some of today's consumers are more adventurous than manufacturers.

"If business is bad, nd it is bad, it's because the available products do not answer consumer needs. The creative and innovative person is, furthermore, a member of an endangered species," she said.

The fund, which received a grant from the National Endowment for the Arts, is presently raising funds so that an awards program can be implemented. The fund plans to make available small grants as well as its expertise to individuals with a creative idea. The grants will finance building of a prototype product. Anyone with a good idea will be eligible for consideration.

"We are not going to put anybody in business, but we will offer some money and the advice and aid of established individuals who care," explained the designer.

As the winner of virtually every major fashion award over more than 30 years, Cashin has been called "one of the most inventive master craftsmen in the world of fashion," "a fashion original," and "an inventive master of form."

Her concept of layered dressing for comfort and warmth has entered the history books, and the designer has prospered in spite of the absence of any foundation to support her work. But, she said, the role of a creative loner in the world of commerce is difficult. For every individual who succeeds, retaining her ideals and genius, many are discouraged, turned back and ultimately lost to the society which needs them.

"Buckminster Fuller, the honorary director of the Innovative Design Fund, told me once it takes about 20 years for an idea to reach the public. We want to shorten that span of time for some creative ideas that can contribute to our surroundings."

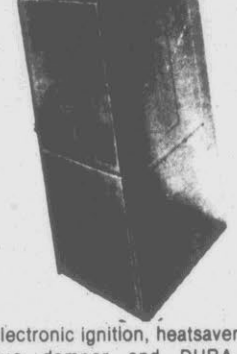

What sort of products could she imagine future award winners might create? Off the top of her head, she offered a few suggestions: "Objects as ordinary as the safety pin or as glamorous as a solar chip, fabric, gossamer light yet warm ... or shoes with a new construction that would enable women to walk comfortably.

"Everyone agrees good design can make economic sense, but they forget someone is needed to spearhead good design. It doesn't come out of a committee, it comes from one human being, working solo."

AP Newsfeatuers

In reading about the use of wood finishing materials, you have often seen the admonition to test them first on scrp wood. Not too many persons heed that advice, because it's seemingly a kind of "throw away" counsel that really isn't very important.

But it is.

In no other field of do-it-yourself endeavor is it more important. Manufacturers' formulas for the different types of wood finishing products are not identical. The addition or absence of a single ingredient can alter the result, not usually to any great extent, but just enough so the user wonders why the finish did not come out precisely the way it did the last time — the "last time" often being a few years ago when the makeup of the material was different or when the brand was not the same.

Also, even when the same product is used, a different undercoating can alter the result. Some newer final finishes are not compatible with some old-line undercoats or sealers, especially when a synthetic is used.

It can never be emphasized enough that a purchaser should read the label before he or she puts up any money.

We really all know that. But haven't you ever walked into a hardware store and picked out a can of varnish or some other finishing material without reading the label? Sometimes this occurs after you have spent a lot of time and considerable labor in making sure a piece of furniture or other wooden item is exactly right.

You can't always find scrap wood of the same type and species as the object to be finished. If you can, so much the better, since then you can make a perfect or almost perfect test of the product and the method of application. If you can't, then using some other kind will at least give you a reasonable idea of how the finished piece will look.

Many finishing materials are very flammable, volatile, toxic or caustic. Know what you are using — another reason for label-reading. Don't think the warnings are for extra-cautious persons and not really for you. No matter how familiar you are with a product, no matter how many times you have used it, a single careless moment can bring tragedy.

It's an excellent practice, therefore, never to use a finishing material — whether it be varnish, lacquer, shellac, stain, bleach, remover or anything else — without being certain there is plenty of ventilation.

(The techniques of using these materials are detailed in Andy Lang's booklet, "Wood Finishing in the Home," available by sending 50 cents and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Know-How, P.O. Box 477, Huntington, NY 11743.)

In testing finishes on scrap wood, you can get a better idea of the possible different results from the same items by experimenting a little. On a single piece of wood, try three mixtures in which the amount of the ingredients is changed each time.

Mark the test areas 1, 2 and 3. Then, write down the mixtures for each number. When everything has dried, see which result you like best and you will be able to duplicate it on your actual project by referring to the written data. Never trust your memory, since something may interrupt your experiment and you may find it impossible to recall the details a day or a week later.

This is an especially excellent procedure when you are testing stains to see which color suits you best. Since the wipe-off process affects the intensity of the color, it is important to write down how many seconds or minutes elapsed between the application and the wipe-off in each test.

PRICELESS CEILING

NEW YORK (AP) — More viewers have seen Michelangelo's painting of the Sistine Chapel here in New York in one day than pilgrims to the Vatican see in a week.

More than 352,000 visitors and commuters, who pass daily through the world's largest railroad terminal, got a chance to see a large transparency of Michelangelo's fresco which Eastman Kodak Co. used as its traditional Christmas Colorama. It took photographer Taskachi Okamura six months to make the picture.

CRYPTOQUIP 1-30

XJKL NFHAJCF JOOJLIKUZIX WFH-SJC NZHH VUJAV JU AHJWFS SJJLW

Yesterday's Cryptoquip — DELIGHTED SHAMUS UNTANGLES DIFFICULT CLUES TO FOUR CRIMES.

Today's Cryptoquip clue: A equals C

The Cryptoquip is a simple substitution cipher in which each letter used stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words, and words using an apostrophe can give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is accomplished by trial and error.

GOREN BRIDGE

DEAR MR. GOREN

Q.—The only Rule of Eleven I know is how many men are permitted on the football field for a play—you have twelve, you get a penalty and loss of down! So I was surprised to find a reference to the Rule of Eleven in your column a while ago. Are you trying to pull my leg, or what?—J. J. Taylor, Palm Beach, Fla.

(This question has been awarded the weekly prize.)

A.—How shrewd of you to appeal to one of the world's great football fans so that you could win a book! The Rule of Eleven is perhaps just as important to bridge as it is to a ball game.

Actually, the Rule of Eleven is a slight misnomer—it is not really a rule at all. It is simply an easy method to calculate, when your partner has made a fourth-best lead against a contract, how many cards higher than the one led are held by the other three hands combined. Since you know how many you hold, and can count how many dummy has, you can work out how many are in the other concealed hand. Here's a simple example:

Dummy
Q 9 2

You
K 10 7

Suppose that partner leads the six of this suit, and as a result of the bidding you can determine that this has to be a fourth-best lead. Your function is to determine how many cards higher than the six are held by declarer.

The formula is simple. Subtract the card led from 11, and the answer is the number of cards higher than the six that are distributed in the other three hands. You don't have to be a mathematical genius to work out that 11—6=5. Now you know that the three hands combined have five cards higher than the six, and in your hand and dummy you can see all five. Ergo, declarer has no card higher than the six.

That's comforting to know. All you have to do is simply cover whichever card is played from dummy and you know that declarer cannot win the trick.

The Rule of Eleven is available to declarer as well. Consider this case:

Dummy
A Q 2

Declarer
10 8 3

Your opponent leads the seven, which again you believe to be a fourth-best lead. Using your new-found arithmetical skills, you work out that the other three hands have four cards higher than the seven. In your hand and dummy you see those four cards, so East has no card higher than the seven. Your left-hand opponent has led from K-J-9-7, and you can play low from dummy confident that your eight is going to win the trick.

Why does the Rule of Eleven work? In effect, each suit consists of thirteen cards numbered 2 to 14 (the ace). Since the leader automatically has three cards higher than the one led, those do not count in the calculation. So deducting 3 from 14 gives you eleven.

Oil Prices and Chill Boost Return Of Long Johns

By MIKE HENDRICKS
Associated Press Writer

MOHAWK, N.Y. (AP) — Before the first oil embargo, the future of long johns was anything but secure. But Americans have learned to live with lower thermostats, and long underwear producers are thriving again.

Among the companies revived by the high energy prices brought on by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries is the Duofold Co., which has tripled sales over the last five years and added hundreds of new jobs in this little village on the Mohawk River.

Duofold has been making long underwear since 1906, when it came out with a two-layer garment designed to take the itch out of wool long johns.

The company grew into one of the industry's leaders, but with the booming economy and cheap energy of the 1950s and 1960s Americans warded off winter chills by keeping their furnances blazing. That sent sales of long underwear on a long, downhill slide.

"There was a time when the very acceptability of our basic product was in question," says Douglas Pirnie, president of Duofold. "There was a feeling that long underwear would go the way of the buggy whip and people were asking how much longer long underwear would be used."

But Pirnie says the declining demand for its long underwear did not discourage Duofold executives.

"The board of directors made a decision that if there was going to be only one long underwear company, by God, it was going to be Duofold," he says.

Duofold diversified its line, coming out with turtlenecks, sweatsuits, nightgowns and sport shirts. It also tinkered with its bread and butter product, the famous "union suit," by offering designs and colors in an attempt to win a broader market.

None of those efforts worked as well as high energy prices, though.

"A lot of lifestyles changed around then, and our products are appropriate to that change," Pirnie says. "Old values like wood-burning stoves are coming back. Duofold fits in there rather nicely."

The revived market for long underwear made Duofold attractive in the corporate world. After 73 years as an independent company, Duofold became a division of apparel conglomerate Cluett Peabody & Co. in 1979.

Long underwear producers also have been helped by the severe cold of recent winters — such as the widespread frigid spell that has spread over much of the nation this year.

Damart Co. of Portsmouth, N.H., reports it has been swamped by phone orders since Christmas, with many orders coming from as far away as California, Texas and Florida.

"They are freezing, they are just freezing, and they will try anything to stay warm," says Pat Graham, a telephone supervisor at Damart.

Damart says its phone-order operation normally has 16 operators during the peak pre-Christmas period then drops to about six. But this winter, Ms. Graham says, callers have kept 14 operators busy all day.

Lane Gauthier, a Damart vice president, says the company has run out of some items and has about 61,000 items on back order.

"It is the nicest problem we could possibly have," he says.

Pirnie says long underwear has even become fashionable, and Duofold long underwear can be found on display in Macy's in New York City, Jordan Marsh in Boston and Fields in Chicago, as well as the traditional sporting goods stores.

"The last five years have seen functional dress become fashionable," Pirnie says. "Down vests, hiking boots are worn in social circumstances."

Duofold underwear, with its double layer of wool and cotton always had a strong following among outdoorsmen. Sir Edmund Hillary climbed Mount Everest wearing Duofold underwear and the product is popular with winter athletes.

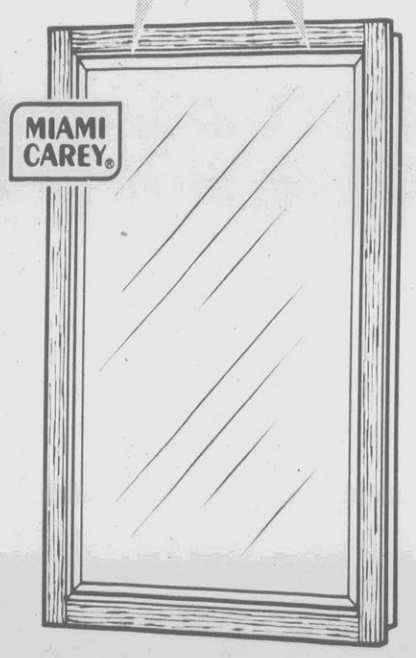

Now that the company has extended its market beyond mountaineers and hockey players, the biggest challenge facing the company is managing its growth, says Pirnie, who succeeded his father, retired U.S. Rep. Alexander Pirnie, as company president two years ago.

Duofold has tripled its revenues in the last five years and expects to double sales over the next four years, Pirnie says. Employment at the Duofold plants in Mohawk has doubled in the last five years as well, with 500 workers on the Duofold payroll, Pirnie says.

Many items in this ad carry a reference retail price. This reference is intended to provide a guide to the range of retail selling prices in our selling area and may be useful in identifying different units of the same manufacturer. An item's reference retail price is either the manufacturer's suggested retail price or our determination of its full retail price based on prices at which it or similar merchandise is offered by principal retailers (department stores, specialty shops, and other non-discount sellers) in our selling area. While we believe our reference retails do not appreciably exceed the highest retail prices at which sales are made in our selling area, we cannot assure you that our reference retail prices, as described above, represent the prices in every community on any given day. Some items in this ad are listed as "regular" selling price. The merchandise is offered at this price except during a special sale. The purpose of showing a reference retail price (or a regular price) is to assist you, our customer, in making a knowledgeable and better informed buying decision. Winter Storms Help Push Pork Futures Up

By PAULINE JELINEK
Ap Business Writer

Pork futures prices rose sharply for the second straight day Friday as a winter storm threatened to slow transportation of animals to market.

On the Chicago Mercantile Exchange, hogs gained 1.15 cents in the February contract to settle at 50.85 cents a pound, and pork bellies for the second day rose the 2-cent daily permissible limit set by the exchange. February-delivery bellies settled at 71.80 cents a pound.

Analysts said advances Thursday had lifted prices to a strong position on price charts. Reports that winer storm dropped snow in Iowa producing areas and would be moving through the Midwest also raised the prospects that nearterm meat supplies would tighten, said Tom O'Hare, analyst in New York with Smith Barney, Harris Upham & Co.

Analysts predicted another rise in prices Monday because of Friday's strong close and a bullishly construed government cattle report released after the close of trading.

The report, the U.S. Agriculture Department's semiannual cattle inventory, showed the number of calves on the nation's farms as of Jan. 1 was 1 percent lower than a year ago and all cattle and calves was only 1 percent higher than a year ago.

Analysts had been expecting the calf population to be 1 percent lower and all cattle about 2 percent higher; so the report shows there will be fewer animals than expected in production in the coming months.

Grain and soybean futures prices rose in what analysts said was partly because of continuing talk of drought damage in Brazilian soybean fields.

Good performances in the bond and the stock markets Friday also encouraged grains traders to be more optimistic about the economy, anaylsts said. But George Van Horn, analyst in Chicago with Cargill Investor Services noted the economy is something the markets will "be guessing on for the next couple of months and it is going to be hard to equate it to demand for grains."

Also supportive were market expectations that Agriculture Secretary John Block would announce details of this year's farm support programs.

Clayton Officer Dies In Shooting

CLAYTON, N.C. (AP) — A 25-year-old Clayton police officer was shot in the face and killed early Saturday while trying to clear the area near a rundown house used as a local nightspot, authorities said.

William Rayvon Gilmore Jr., 25, of Smithfield, was dead upon arrival at Wake County Medical Center in Raleigh shortly after midnight, nursing supervisor Karen Casey said.

Clayton Police Chief P.W. Keen issued a statement Saturday saying that Gilmore was shot in the face at close range with a .38-caliber pistol. The statement said the officer was in his patrol car calling for assistance when the shooting occurred.

About 8:30 a.m., police said they arrested Bobby Earl Smith, 32, of Clayton, and charged him with murder. Smith was being held Saturday in the Johnston County Jail in Smithfield without bond.

Keen said 20 to 35 people had congregated at a house on Washington Street. He said Gilmore and Smith were called about midnight to try to clear the street of a crowd of people and improperly parked vehicles.

Keen said the house had been raided two months ago and several people were charged with selling alcohol and narcotics.

When the officers arrived, Keen said they apparently felt the crowd "was so large and unruly" that they needed help and returned to their two patrol cars to radio for assistance. That's when Gilmore was shot.

"This whole thing is like a nightmare," said Gilmore's aunt, Peggy B. Gower. She said she last saw Gilmore when he dropped in about 10 p.m. to see his grandmother, Neta Broadwell.

OFFICE LOST TO FLAMES — Members of the Red Oak and Bell Arthur fire departments battle a blaze that destroyed the offices of Joyce Foods on highway U.S. 264 west of Greenville Friday afternoon. A spokesman for the Lewisville-based company, Ricky Sutton, said he and another worker had been gone about 30 minutes when the fire started. The interior of the mobile-home office was destroyed, with damages estimated at about $6,000. Two firemen recived minor cuts while fighting the blaze. Investigation into the fire was continuing. The White children, Aerial, 2 (left) and Lauren, 15 months, like sprouts of all kinds. They munched lentil sprouts while their parents were being interviewed.

Three-Year-Old Sprout Business Is Growing

By CAROL TYER
Reflector Staff Writer

Earl and Jodi White farm in jars.

And they sell sprouts freshly harvested from those jars to restaurants and stores throughout eastern North Carolina, as far west as Chapel Hill and as far south as Fayetteville.

Their business, begun three years ago after they read an article in "Mother Earth News" magazine, outgrew first their kitchen, then a backyard workshop. Now they're operating in the back room of the store building at 710 Dickinson Ave., with plans to open a cooperative grocery business in the front of the building early next month.

Now selling sprouts only wholesale, they will sell retail once the store is open. They are also available for speaking engagements about the benefits of including sprouts in one's diet on a regular basis. They would especially like, they say, to see more day care centers, hospitals and nursing homes start using sprouts for the nutritional good of the children, the elderly and the disabled these institutions serve.

Their equipment consists of homebuilt racks that hold gallon glass jars set upside down, counter space, a sink and a hose for rinsing, and scales. By far their biggest seller is alfalfa sprouts. A typical harvest is between 400 and 500 pounds.

To grow alfalfa they place four ounces of organically grown seeds in a gallon jar and soak them for several hours. Then every 12 hours, they rinse them by half-filling each jar with water and then pouring it off.

"Keeping the temperature right around 70 degrees is important," White said, "and it's important to rinse, so as to keep them moist and to lower the temperature in the center of the jar. It's amazing how it builds — up to 80 degrees sometimes — but it's also important not to rinse too much, because that makes the spouts longer but not as nourishing.

"A less-than-conscientious commercial grower can add weight by using more water and letting sprouts grow longer, but they're cutting down on nutritional value and on keeping time. I think it's important to arrest growth early and produce the best and longest-keeping sprouts possible. They're going to grow some even after they're refrigerated, but not much."

The Whites say they'd like, when they can, to borrow money and purchase more sophisticated equipment, but in the meantime, the jars work very well. In addition to alfalfa, they grow lentil, mung (much used in Chinese cookery) and adzuki sprouts and they're planning others, including buckwheat grass for a natural foods supermarket in Durham.

Mrs. White is a nurse in the neonatal unit of Pitt County Memorial Hospital. White's Sprout Farm is her husband's full-time job. Their work is often carried out with the help or hindrance, as the case may be, of their two children under 3, Aeriel and Lauren. White is a former member of the Green Grass Cloggers dance team which originated here. He grew up in New Jersey, but spent most of his childhood summers in Pitt County with relatives. Mrs. White is the daughter of Presbyterian medical missionaries now serving in Malaysia.

Fighting Establishment

DENTAL DISSIDENT — Susan Edwards, a dental hygienist, is involved in a battle with dental establishments, believing she should be allowed to practice independently instead of having to work under a dentist's supervision. (AP Laserphoto)

By JILL LAWRENCE
Associated Press Writer

KINGSTON, Pa. (AP) — A purple, plant-filled house in northeastern Pennsylvania has become headquarters for a one-woman battle against the state and national dental establishments.

The rebel is Susan Edwards, a dental hygienist who believes she should be allowed to practice independently instead of having to work under a dentist's supervision.

"What I'm doing here is pure hygiene. There's no dentistry involved," says Ms. Edwards, 36, sitting amid a clutter of antiques and Oriental rugs in what serves as her waiting room.

Although her license was revoked last year by the state Dental Council and Examining Board, Ms. Edwards continues to clean teeth and perform other tasks in a small office in her home.

When the board took away her license, she taped a red "X" through the "R" that stands for "Registered" on the sign outside her door — and conducted business as usual.

"When they pulled my license, it really increased business," says the woman, whose clients include a dozen doctors but no dentists.

For Ms. Edwards, freedom from dental supervision means a chance to earn more than $55 a day, her highest salary under a dentist; and, she says, to use time-consuming preventive techniques that avoid drilling and tooth pulling.

For her clients, she said, it means cheaper and more intensive treatment.

"I'm a public health educator," said Ms. Edwards, who received an associate degree in dental hygiene from Temple University 16 years ago. "What I know can help anybody."

But Dr. Arthur McFeaters Jr., president of the Pennsylvania Dental Association, insists on the need for supervision.

"These girls are trained to work with us. Independent practice, where they're off making their own decisions, could be detrimental or disastrous to those seeking their help," he said.

According to the American Dental Association, no states allow the independent practice of dental hygiene. Hygienists have challenged this policy in Michigan and Georgia, and lost both times.

Ms. Edwards is appealing her license revocation to the state's Commonwealth Court. Criminal charges against her have been dropped pending the court's decision.

Joseph Castellino, Ms. Edward's attorney, says dental hygienists must take certain courses and examinations to qualify for licenses, and the state then considers them competent in their field.

"The additional requirement of dental supervision does nothing to advance or insure the competency of dental hygienists...It has no rational or logical relationship to the patient's needs or the competency of the hygienist," Castellino said in a brief filed with the court. He asked that the requirement be found unconstitutional.

John Flynn, an attorney for the state dental board, said he will argue that "it is within the state's police powers" to regulate hygienists.

Ms. Edwards' grandfather, a dentist, saw patients in the same office she now uses. He tried to set up an independent practice for her mother, a dental hygienist, in that office — but ran into trouble with the authorities.

The tall, black-haired woman accuses dentists of ignoring new techniques, such as topical flouride application.

"One dentist I worked for went to play tennis every afternoon, then came back and took the money," said Ms. Edwards.

"I had another job for seven years and never got a raise, even though he kept raising the fees for my services. I got $50 a day and generated $300. He made a $250-a-day profit on me."

Her own work includes scaling teeth, cleaning them, polishing them, hardening tooth surfaces with flouride, and doing diet and vitamin counseling.

"I should be associated with a nutritionist, not a dentist," she says.

McFeaters said hygienists perform valuable education, screening and referral by examining for potential cavities and gum disease, taking X-rays, cleaning teeth and offering oral hygiene advice.

Nevertheless, he said, an independent hygienist would be "in a decision-making position in an area of disease she's not trained to manage." Salaries are not the issue, he said; public health is.

He added, "Just as a registered nurse works closely with a physician as a team, that's the way our profession works. I would hate to see that team broken up."

"I don't like what they do," she said. "Dentistry is based on the principle that your teeth are going to continually deteriorate. My business is totally to prevent the need for dental work."

Sprouts Seem 'More Perfect'

Milk is touted by some to be "Nature's Most Perfect Food." But many now believe that billing more nearly fits the germinated seeds of various plants known as sprouts.

For several reasons, sprouts seem "more perfect":

•They concentrate — even multiply — the nutritional value of one's diet.

•They're one of the most direct uses of food, coming right off the bottom of the food chain, with little energy spent growing them; the far end of the chain from beef, pork and even poultry which provide about the same amount of protein in one's diet.

Their flavors are varied, as varied as the number of seeds that can be sprouted.

•They can be grown in one's kitchen cabinet with no sunshine, no soil, only by watering all year round in only a few days per crop (The shorter the growing time, the more nutritious they are and the longer their refrigerated shelf life.

•Nutritional value is astounding: as much Vitamin C as a tomato; as much Vitamin B as whole wheat flour; as much protein as meat — all for a few cents per serving. And those who wish can grow their own seed outdoors and cut the cost even more.

Charts for sprouting are available in local health food stores and at the public libraries in books on the subject. Just soak them an hour or so, then keep them moist, but not standing in water and keep them in the dark. Let them grow the number of days the chart suggests. They're great for munching, in salads, on sandwiches and in stir-fried dishes.

Runs Program In Japan For Cancer Victims

By DEBORAH SMITH
Associated Press Writer

TOKYO (AP) — Takako Watt, the Japanese wife of a British businessman and mother of two, believes she would be dead today had he followed Japanese practice and taken her first doctor's advice.

He told her to "wait and see" about the lump she discovered in her breast. She sought a second opinion — a rare initiative in a country where doctors are seldom questioned.

The second physician said he was 90 percent certain the tumor was benign, but Mrs. Watt requested a biopsy "to be 100 percent sure."

Twenty minutes after the biopsy, she was told she had cancer. Her breast was removed immediately. That was almost five years ago.

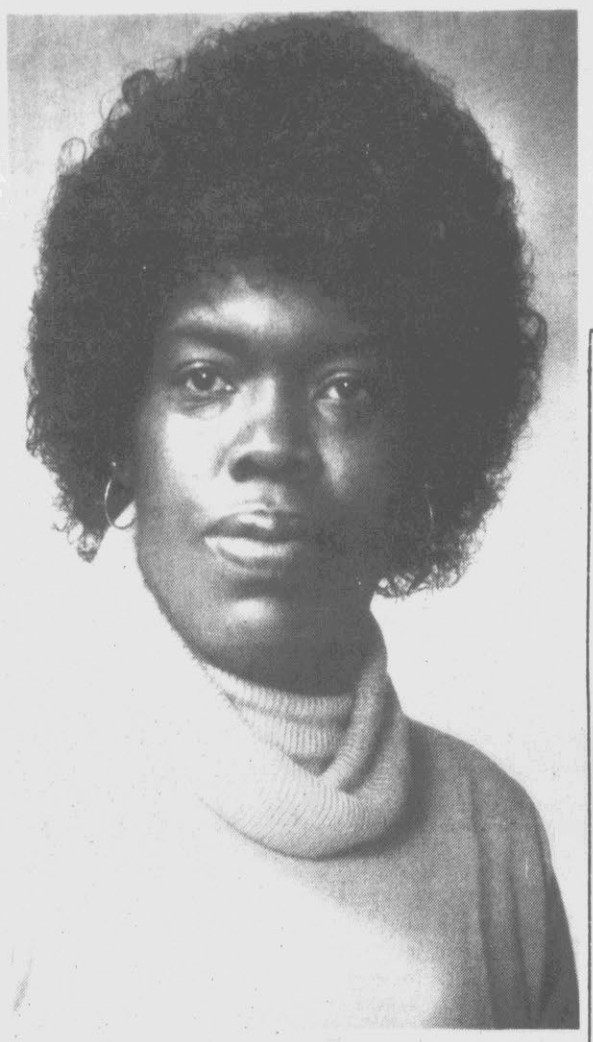

The experience and her frustration at finding no one who could answer her questions led her to found Akebono-kai (Dawn) for breast cancer victims, patterned after the Reach for Recovery program of the American Cancer Society.

"I thought I needed one person, not necessarily a doctor, but someone who'd had the same experience," she said. Her doctors were unprepared to deal with her fears and depression, because they had never been asked. Japanese — taught by tradition to endure — consider it a virtue to control their emotions, she said. However, she found others who shared her anxiety, even years after surgery.

Akebono-kai has grown to 1,400 members (including two men) since it was founded in October 1978. Because of a lack of office space and official funding, she continues to run the organization from her living room.

"It became my whole life," she said, adding that her husband, Andrew, and 11-year-old daughter and 9-year-old son have supported her.

Health and Welfare Ministry statistics show breast cancer is increasing in Japan, although it is less common than in many other countries. In 1980, 4,140 women and 44 men died from breast cancer, up 262 cases. Between 1970 and 1978 the number of cases per 100,000 population rose from 4.7 to 6.5.

PHYLLIS LAVONNE GRAY...is the daughter of Mrs. Beatrice Gray of Greenville and Theodore Gray Sr. of Baltimore, Md., who announce her engagement to Amos K. Briley, son of Mrs. Ella Briley of Greenville and the late Mr. Charlie Briley. An April wedding is planned.

If your family is planning a trip abroad and you will be carrying medicines, keep them in their original containers, with the name of the drug, doctor and pharmacy on each. Customs officers, says the Health Insurance Association of America, are trained to be on the lookout for illegal drugs and unless your medicine is clearly marked, you may be delayed.

Aid Available In Support Problems

About 40 percent of all marriages end in divorce. But someone must still support the children of those marriages.

The father's obligation to support his children is not negated by the divorce of the parents," says Dr. Justine Rozier, extension family resourse management specialist at North Carolina State University.

Although support payment amounts are decided in the couple's separation agreement or by the court, there is no guarantee that the father will meet the payments, Dr. Rozier says. This despite the fact that it is a felony crime for him not to pay his child support if so ordered.

The problem with trying to enforce this law, Dr. Rozier says, is that remedies of fining or imprisoning a father who won't pay have the negative effect of reducing his home income available for child support.

"The federal government has developed a locator plan for finding fathers who move out of the community to avoid paying child support," Dr. Rozier says. Help for North Carolina women with child support problems is available from the N.C. Division of Human Resources in Raleigh.

MRS. THOMAS FLEMING TAFT

Wedding Vows Solemnized

Kathy Arnold Pressly and Thomas Fleming Taft were united in marriage Saturday at 2 p.m. in St. Pauls Episcopal Church. The Rev. Dana Pecheles performed the single ring ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride is the daughter of Dr. J.H. Arnold of Fort Lauderdale, Fla. and Mrs. E.G. Arnold of Kinston. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. Hoover Taft Jr. of Greenville.

The best man was the bridegroom's father and ushers included Dr. William J. Simons of Asheville, E. Hoover Taft III and Dr. Richard C. Taft, both of Greenville and Jesse Hout Arnold III of Oriental.

The honor attendant was Mrs. Clinton R. Wilson, sister of the bride of Wilson. She chose a mauve skirt and candlelight blouse and carried a bouquet of silk flowers.

The parents of the bridegroom entertained at a reception after the ceremony at the Greenville Country Club.

A cocktail party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. V.C. Fleming Jr. Friday. Assisting hosts and hostesses were Mr. and Mrs. W.W. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Fleming, Mr. and Mrs. Van Fleming III, Mr. and Mrs. W.S. Brown and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Brown. A rehearsal dinner was held at the Greenville Country Club. Hosts and hostesses were Mr. and Mrs. Joseph M. Taft, Mr. and Mrs. W.H. Taft, Mr. and Mrs. Joe taft Jr. and Mrs. M.B. Massey.

On Friday evening the bridal couple was honored at a dance held at the Greenville Country Club and it was given by friends of the couple.

The bride graduated from Wayne Community College School of Dental Hygiene, Goldsboro, and East Carolina University. She is now working as a dental hygienist at the Pitt County Health Department and is attending graduate school and teaching at ECU. The bridegroom graduated from Duke University and the University of North Carolina Law School. He is presently a private practicing attorney in Greenville.

After a wedding trip to St. Thomas, U.S. Virgin Islands, the couple will live in Greenville.

Cooking Is Fun

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
AP Food Editor

If you are a woman who is cooking dinner for a meat-and-potatoes man, you might just be interested in trying this meat and bean dish on him. It's hearty and, if you buy the ribs when they are priced reasonably, it's also thrifty. A tossed salad of crisp greens with an oil and vinegar dressing would be a fine accompaniment for this dish.

RIBS AND BEANS

Water
2¼ pounds (about) fresh pork spareribs, cut in single lengths
Salt
2 medium onions, chopped medium-fine
2 cloves garlic, minced
Freshly ground pepper
Dried crushed rosemary

Cover the beans with 4 to 6 cups cold water; let stand overnight at room temperature; drain and discard the soaking water. In a saucepan (about 3½ quarts) bring the beans and 4 cups fresh cold water to a boil; cover and boil gently until very tender — about 1 hour or longer.

In a 12-inch skillet arrange the spareribs in a single layer. Add 2 cups water and 1 teaspoon salt. Bring to a boil; simmer, covered, until tender and water has evaporated — about 1 hour. Brown the ribs in the fat in the skillet; remove and keep warm in a low oven.

If there is not enough fat in the skillet to make ¼ cup, add butter. Add the onion and garlic to the skillet; cook gently, stirring often, until wilted. Drain any excess liquid from the beans; add the beans to the onion-garlic mixture; mix gently but well, adding salt, pepper and rosemary to taste. Reheat; top with the spareribs. Makes 4 servings.

Note: To add flavor and color to the spareribs before serving them with the beans, you may want to follow this suggestion. Arrange the spareribs, meaty side up, on a foil-lined cookie sheet and spread them with chili sauce; broil them close to high heat for a few minutes.

On The Young Side

By Lisa Wang

Students from various geographical, cultural, socio-economic and religious backgrounds all sharing a common interest in government met yesterday in Washington, D.C. to attend the Presidential Classroom for Young Americans.

The one-week program provides a concentrated study of U.S. government through direct exposure and personal contact with the institutions and leaders of the nation. Attending from Rose High are seniors Gordon Douglas and Keith Stocks.

Selection of students was left to the discretion of participating schools. On the average, 96 percent of participants have a "B" or above average; half are in the top 10 percent of their class; and the majority are student leaders and active in community and civic affairs.

The program will conduct a total of seven consecutive week-long classes plus a a summer session for this year. Each class offers an intensive curriculum which includes 15 formal seminars focusing on the three branches of the federal government, the major independent agencies, the media, diplomatic community, labor and private sector. Several of these are on-site briefings, including visits to Capitol Hill, State Department and the Central Intelligence Agency.

Similar to press conferences, formal seminars allow extended question and answer periods to stimulate dialogue between the speakers and students so that new insights may be explored through a lively exchange of ideas. Among recent speakers are Vice President George Bush, Senator Strom Thurmon, R-S.C., Representative Shirley Chisholm, D-N.Y. and Ann Compton, correspondent for ABC news. In addition to seminars, students are scheduled to visit the offices of the senators and representatives from their state district.

The total cost per student, $375, covers all expenses except transportation to and from the nation's capital. Included are accommodations, meals, curriculum materials, instructional staff, transportation within the city, health and accident insurance and out-of-classroom special activities.

Founded in 1968, Presidential Classroom is a nonpartisan, nonprofit educational program open only to juniors and seniors. Interested students or parents may contact David Barnhill, guidance department, at Rose.

After rigorous practice sessions and much deliberation, Quiz Bowl advisors have made a final decision concerning the eight Quiz Bowl participants. Elizabeth Ellen, Alayna Keller, Jeffrey Prescott and Shannon Stanforth will serve as team members. Derek Dickens, Vince Hankins, Teresa McLawhorn and Suzanne Wille are alternates. The team's first match will be Feb. 20 at East Branch Library.

"South Pacific" by Rodgers and Hammerstein has been selected by the Drama Club Executive Board and Mrs. Betty Topper as this year's spring musical to be be presented April 23-25.

From a cold start, approximately $1.00 is spent driving four miles to pick up a quart of milk.

GOING TO EXTREMES

KOTZEBUE, Alaska (AP) — Eskimos of the far North have a more intense blood flow to their hands and feet than do most other humans.

A widening of the blood vessels, called vasodilation, permits abundant blood flow to the extremities. As a result, Eskimos have warm hands even in cold weather.

Their basal metabolic rate is 20 to 40 percent higher than that of people in more southerly regions, it was reported by Natural History magazine.

Dear Abby

Quit Nagging About Telephone

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1982 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: I'm a 16-year-old girl who loves to talk on the phone. Unfortunately, we have only one phone in our house and it's in the kitchen. Out of consideration to other members of my family, I limit my calls to only an hour, but I'm constantly being told to get off the phone.

Abby, I want a phone of my own. I can earn enough money to have one installed and pay the monthly bills, but my parents won't hear of it.

I promised I wouldn't talk at unreasonable hours or neglect my studies, but they still won't hear of it. I've begged and begged, but it hasn't done any good. Why do you think they refuse to let me have my own phone, and how can I convince my parents to change their minds?

MOTOR MOUTH

DEAR MOTOR MOUTH: Quit nagging; it's immature. Your parents probably fear that if you have your own phone you will be spending too much time on it. (Anyone who thinks "only an hour" isn't much could easily talk for two hours, given the chance.)

When you can prove that you aren't addicted to the phone, your folks may let you have your own. And not until.

DEAR ABBY: When I was 16 the man I loved was killed in a boating accident. He was 21, and we were going to be married on my 17th birthday. Six months later I married his 29-year-old brother. I was his fourth wife! I had the marriage annulled when I discovered he was only interested in weird and kinky sex. (I think he was crazy.)

I'm now going to a junior college. The very first day one of my professors asked me to stay after class. Then he told me he wanted to go to bed with me. At least he was up-front about it, but I was hurt and disappointed. Even though I'm no virgin, I don't want to go to bed with a guy unless he knows me and likes me as a person. This man didn't even know me. He just liked what he saw. (I'm 38-25-36.)

I had coffee with him a few times, and he's still trying to talk me into going to bed with him. He's a very persuasive talker. I can't come up with a really good reason why I don't want to give in, and I'm afraid I'll weaken. Can you help me? He calls me . . .

DOLLY NO. 2

DEAR DOLLY: Your judgment is sound. Use the same words with him that you used in your letter to me. Decline the coffee dates and tell him if he doesn't quit hassling you, you will report him to the college dean. That should cool him off.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: Besides having a great personality, my 24-year-old daughter is exceptionally beautiful and has always had a figure like a beauty contest winner.

She has dated many men, but now she is engaged to marry a great guy. He's a big man, 6 foot 6, and weighs 240. He loves to eat. The problem is that he is constantly encouraging my daughter to eat. He always brings her chocolates, which she rarely ate before, and together they can consume a 2-pound box in one evening!

Needless to say, my daughter is losing her beautiful figure fast. She has gained 31 pounds since her engagement three months ago! For a girl who has always been proud of her figure, it doesn't seem to bother her much, but it's upsetting me. I hate to see her let herself go and get really fat now that she's got her man. I'm desperate for some advice on what I should say or do.

N.Y. MOM

DEAR MOM: You shouldn't say or do anything. She's a big girl now, and if she chooses to let herself go, much as you hate to see it, Mom, hold your tongue.

Couple Speaks Vows Saturday Afternoon

Hooker Memorial Christian Church here was the setting for the wedding ceremony of Susan Lynn Harris and Ervin Ray Boyd Saturday afternoon at three o'clock. The Rev. Ralph Messick performed the double ring ceremony.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Durward M. Harris. Mr. and Mrs. Otha D. Boyd are parents of the bridegroom. All are from Greenville.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Her honor attendant was her sister, Jane Moore of Greenville. Bridesmaids included Wendy Harris, cousin of the bride, Delores Harris, sister-in-law of the bride, Gina Williams, cousin of the bridegroom, and Cathy Hardee, all of Greenville. The junior bridesmaid was Lara Moore of Greenville, niece of the bride. Catherine Moore, niece of the bride of Greehville, was flower girl.

The father of the bridegroom served as best man while ushers included Randy Boyd of Richmond, Va., brother of the bridegroom, Duff Harris, brother of the bride, John Moore, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, and Tommy Eastwood, all of Greenville.

Mrs. Rosemary Fischer played the organ and Billy and Sandra Stinson sang "Longer Than," "Seven Daffodils" and "Wedding Prayer."

The bride chose a formal gown of ivory bridal satin and re-embroidered alencon lace. The fitted bodice, colonial neckline, long fitted sleeves and sheer yoke of imported English net were adorned with re-embroidered alencon lace and bridal pearls. Traditional bridal buttons closed the sleeves and bodice. A panel of lace encircled the A-line skirt and chapel length train. Her waltz length mantilla of silkened bridal illusion, encircled with re-embroidered alencon lace and pearls with scattered motifs of lace, was attached to a Juliet cap adorned with pearls. She carried a Victorian cascade bouquet of butterfly ivory roses, phalaenopsis and royal bouquet orchids, white French lilac showered with white freesia with ivory satin.

The honor attendant and bridesmaids were each dressed in a formal gown of berry lustreglo designed with an asymmetrical neckline featuring miniature rolled shoulder straps at one shoulder. The gown featured an empire bodice and full accordian skirt. A sheer organza drape with a frost rose silk Venise flowr complemented the gown. The honor attendant carried a classic bouquet in shades of pink and burgundy pixie carnations, heather, sweetheart roses and baby's breath showered with freesia tied with berry satin with long streamers.

The junior bridesmaid and flower girl were each dressed in a formal gown of berry chiffon designed with a ruffled square neckline, empire waistline and short puff sleeves. A full skirt and ruffled flounce accented the gown. The flower girl carried a white woven basket filled with pink flowers with showers of baby's breath tied with berry satin bow.

The mother of the bride wore a formal dusty rose knit dress with a matching chiffon jacket. The mother of the bridegroom selected a formal powder blue knit dress with an attached chiffon cape. Both mothers wore cattleya orchids.

The reception was held after the ceremony in the church fellowship hall. Guests were greeted by Mr. and Mrs. Ed Harris, aunt and uncle of the bride. Stephanie Hall and Sandra Garrison presided at the guest register. Friends and aunts of the bridal couple served at the reception tables. Mr. and Mrs. Adrian Williams, aunt and uncle of the bridegroom, said goodbyes.

The refreshment table was centered with an arrangement in shades of pink and burgundy snapdragons, carnations and roses flanked by silver candelabra.

After a wedding trip to Killington, Vt. and Atlantic City, N.J., the couple will live in Greenville.

The bride attends ECU and is employed at Harris Supermarket here. The bridegroom is employed at Taylor Oil Co. They are both graduates of Rose High School.

CALCIUM DEFICIENCY

Calcium is important for building and maintaining strong bones and teeth. but many older Americans do not get enough calcium in their diets says Isabelle Buckley, extension aging specialist at NCSU.

Foods rich in calcium include not only the milk and cheese we are all familiar with, but a number of others as well, Miss Buckley says. To supplement calcium in your diet, if necessary, eat dark leafy greens such as kale, collard, turnip and mustard green and seeds, legumes and nuts, such as sesame seeds, beans and almonds.

An electric clock, running constantly, costs only about a nickel per month to run.

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

There's a special place in heaven for women who clip coupons where there is no expiration date on their premium, the redemption store is next door to wherever they arend there is no one in line behind them parked in a fire lane.

For years, the woman who has clipped coupons has been much-maligned. Lord knows, I've had a few impure thoughts about them as I've stood behind them while they bring forth clippings from the linings of their handbags and suffer anxiety attacks while the cashier checks their eligibility.

I've seen them all. The woman who took so long to find the coupon that saved her ten cents on a No. 2 can of whole tomatoes that the toddler in her basket ate $3 worth of candy and breath mints.

The woman who put her groceries aside and drove three miles home and back to get the coupon that saved 12 cents on her next bottle of aspirin.

And the woman who bought three cans of cat food at savings of 45 cents . . . and didn't own a cat.

Now, I'm one of those women, and I'm here to tell you saving money through coupons and limited offers is not exactly a day at the beach. You have to work for it. But the money I saved is worth it.

In one month alone, I saved $200 by clipping a rebate coupon for a used car from a dealer who was red-faced because he was overstocked.

Then I squirreled away $125 by buying six national magazines for five years at the publisher's price just by placing a special stamp over my order.

I pocketed $48 on a set of llama-farming encyclopedias at the supermarket by presenting an ad each week. By sawing through coffee cans, puncturing cereal boxes and soaking labels off various cans, I was able to save $150 from the original price of the product by sending in my proof of purchase.

I saved $5 on a haircut, $1.50 on a car wash, $60 on a health-spa membership and got a discount from a travel bureau of $200 by vacationing in Montana in the winter.

I was so filthy rich from coupons, I opened an account at the bank which gave me a free calculator for giving them my money for a year.

My husband figured out my assets and subtracted the cost of postage, gas and my analyst. He said I'll have to win the Reader's Digest Sweepstakes to break even.

It makes you wonder why manufacturers don't just lower the price of the item in the first place. If I send a coupon, I'm sure they'll send back an answer.

Blackjack Gets Spot In North Dakota

By PHYLLIS MENSING
Associated Press Writer

FARGO, N.D. (AP) — Swearing is discouraged, the music is likely to be a local band, and the drinking is controlled, but on most nights, the blackjack tables are crowded in North Dakota bars and motels.

The betting limit is $2 a hand. If you lose, the money goes to charity.

Since the state put blackjack on its charitable gambling list in July, more than 300 playing sites have been opened across the state by service groups ranging from a community theater to the state's public television network to the Multiple Sclerosis Society.

Fargo, a city of 62,000 on the Minnesota border, is suddenly seeing tourists from neighboring Minneapolis and Winnipeg, Manitoba come to play blackjack. "It's cheaper than Las Vegas," said one customer.

Bar sales are climbing and at least one motel has built a new addition just for blackjack tables.

"We were looking for a way to allow people to do legally what they will do anyway — gamble — and for a way to help out the charities," said state Rep. Pat Conmy, a co-sponsor of the blackjack law. "We didn't think blackjack would be so popular. We were awfully naive."

The bars and motels lease sections of their establishments to the service groups. Larger motels have from six to 15 tables in the bar area, where players trade names and make small talk as the cards fall. Profanity is frowned upon, and pit bosses firmly escort those who have had too much to drink away from the table.

"You can maybe win $100 or $200, but with a $2 betting limit you have to play quite awhile," said Duane Hoppe, who drops into a local tavern three or four times a week to play blackjack.

"I just play for the heck of it, not to win a bunch of money," said the tall bar manager from Moorhead, Minn.

He says bars in Moorhead, across the Red River from Fargo, have lost business because of blackjack, although they still get the college crowd because Minnesota's drinking age is 19 and North Dakota's is 21.

"It's still too early to tell how much it's increased our business. But we are seeing a number of people staying longer," one Fargo motel manager said.

Bob Myers, general manager of the Fargo-Moorhead Community Theater, said the theater's decision to sponsor gambling at a motel was based on economics.

"We realized federal cutbacks were on the way and that our public sources were drying up," he said. "We felt our ability to deliver services would be severely hampered — especially our children's theater — and that we might be forced to raise ticket prices to the point where they would not be affordable."

With only a month's experience, the theater can't say yet how successful its gambling operation has been, Myers said, but "the trend is good."

Dave Drenth, who manages the theater's tables at the Doublewood Inn, said even casino operators from Las Vegas were curious.

"I think they expected wooden floors and spittoons," Drenth said. "They said it looked nice, but they didn't seem worried about too much competition from us."

Roxanna Clower, who runs a dealers school in Fargo, estimates 350 people have taken the 32-hour course since it started in May. She's taught many college students, a few lawyers and several grandmothers.

"People need jobs and the hours are flexible," she said. Starting salaries vary, but dealers can make $8 or $9 an hour including tips. They work an average of 30 hours a week.

Atlantic City Isn't The Same

By LOUIS TOSCANO

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (UPI) — A few years ago, the makers of the popular board game Monopoly, which was based on the streets of Atlantic City, were horrified to learn the city wanted to change the names of Baltic and Mediterranean avenues.

Shocked officials at Parker Brothers contended the city was tampering with tradition by toying with revered names that "must be included in the category (of) such thoroughfares as Broadway, Trafalgar Square and the Champs Elysees."

"Would you like to be the man to tell a Monopoly fanatic from California that the streets he came to see no longer exist?" company president Edward Parker asked city leaders, who finally bowed to public pressure and dropped the idea.

But Atlantic City itself has been changed drastically since 1935 when Charles Darrow invented the game — first by decades of decline and recently by legalized casino gambling. Monopoly fans might be surprised, and in some cases, saddened.

Take Connecticut Avenue, for example. On the game board, the street sells for $120, and some self-proclaimed Monopoly strategists say ownership of the "light blue" property block is the way to start on the road to riches.

The real Connecticut Avenue stretches from the Boardwalk, itself a garish amalgam of glitzy casinos, fire-prone souvenir shops, pinball arcades and fast-food restaurants, to the Farley Marina, where a crumbling "tall ship" is mired in mud.

In between, Connecticut Avenue, a glaring reminder of the largely unfulfilled promise of city redevelopment, runs through the heart of the uptown Inlet ghetto. A handful of apartment houses and private homes sit amid rows of abandoned buildings and vacant lots — monuments to the feverish land speculation that accompanied the legalization of casino gaming.

Nobody builds houses, let alone hotels, on Connecticut Avenue and the city's apparent lack of interest in new housing, coupled with a lack of political clout among the area's black and Hispanic residents, probably means no one will any time soon.

Things aren't much better on impoverished Virginia and Vermont avenues, or downtown where Illinois, Indiana and Kentucky avenues cross over Atlantic Avenue, the city's decaying business strip and the site of the only movie theater in town — a porno house. Mediterannean and Baltic avenues, two disintegrating "roads to nowhere," are also nearby.

Park Place, a $350 property that can sometimes turn the game around, is actually a block-long stretch of pavement next to Bally's Park Place casino-hotel. But it is also unfortunately sandwiched between the Boardwalk and Pacific Avenue.

ESTĒE LAUDER

ESTÉE LAUDER invites you to sail away on the brilliance of the

GREAT REGATTA COLORS

Poster Contest For School Children

February is the month for Greenville children in grades four, five and six to try their talent at making a bicycle poster.

The Greenville Recreation and Parks Department is sponsoring the annual competition for posters depicting bicycling.

The posters are to illustrate some aspect of bicycling and also is to feature some familiar North Carolina scene, such as a tobacco field, the Wright brothers, golfing, Jockey's Ridge, historic Bath, etc.

Crayons, colored pencil, and colored making pens may be used. Cut and paste collages will also be accepted. Students submitting posters are to print their name, address, telephone number (if applicable), grade, and name of school on the back of their poster.

All posters become the property of the Bicycle Program and cannot be returned.

Students in each grade will be judged separately on most original, best drawing, and best theme interpretation. Judging will be by an artist, a cyclist, and an educator, with winners to receive a prize. Local winner posters will advance to the state competition; and winners at state level will receive a bycicle and an award signed by the Secretary of Transportation.

All entries must be turned into the Administrative office at Jaycee Park, 2000 Cedar Lane no later than 5 p.m. on February 26. For more information, call 752-4137, extension 200.

Gray Gallery Tours

Beginning Thursday, Feb. 4 and continuing until the end of May, the East Carolina Museum of Art in Jenkins Fine Arts Center will be giving tours of its exhibitions twice monthly — on the first Sunday and the first Thursday of each month.

The Thursday tours will be from noon until 12:45, and the Sunday tours will be from 2 to 2:45 p.m.

Gail Perry, a senior in the B.F.A. Communication Arts Program at East Carolina University, will be leading the tours. She will share her own knowledge of the artist, technique, history and culture behind each work of art discussed, and she will also encourage those taking the tour to interact and express their own responses to the art works.

- Thursday, Feb. 4 and Sunday, Feb. 7 — 1982 ECU Faculty Show.
- Thursday, March 4 — Clay and Fiber Show (the gallery will be closed Sunday, March 7 due to the spring break).
- Thursday, April 1 — M.F.A. Graduate Thesis Show.
- Sunday, April 4 — Art of the Carolinas.
- Sunday, May 2 — Undergraduate Show.
- Thursday, May 6 — African Art Show.

The public is also reminded that Gray Gallery is open for viewing of exhibitions during the following hours — from 10 to 5 Mondays through Fridays and from 1 to 4 on Sundays.

Rebel Art Winners On View This Week At GMA

Nearly two dozen pieces of art by young artists, winners in the Annual Rebel Art Competition are currently being exhibited in the North Gallery of the Greenville Museum of Art, 802 South Evans Street.

This show is up for a brief time only, through Friday, Feb. 5, so those wishing to see the winning works have only this week to do so.

Each year, Rebel, the arts/literary publication of East Carolina University, features art, poetry and short stories. In the art division, an annual competition is sponsored by the Attic night club and Jeffreys Beer and Wine Company.

In a recent ceremony, Tom Haines and Janet Gano, representing the sponsors, presented prizes to seven artists who were chosen by a jury as first place winners in as many categories.

The best in show award of $100 went to sculptor Kris Gunderson, who also placed first in the sculpture category. A prize of $50 was given to each artist placing first in the seven categories. These were: (Names given are for first, second and third place in each category respectively).

Lecture Set At Chrysler

NORFOLK, VA. — Dr. Miles Chappell, Chairman of the Fine Arts Department at the College of William and Mary, will present a lecture entitled "An Early Collection of Baroque Drawings: A Problem of the Identification of the Collector and the Collected" in the Chrysler Museum Confernce Room on Wednesday, Feb. 3 at 4 p.m.

The presentation will focus on Dr. Chappell's recent discoveries concerning a previously unknown 16th-century connoisseur's collection of drawings.

Dr. Chappell received his doctorate at the University of North Carolina in 1971. The lecture is free and open to the public. The Chrysler Museum is located at Olney Road and Mowbray Arch.

Tom Grubb Sculpture In SECCA Exhibition

WINSTON—SALEM—The Southeastern Center for Contemporary Art (SECCA) will open two new exhibitions to the public on Feb. 6, including one featuring work by a Greenville artist.

Tom Grubb, a graduate student in East Carolina University's School of Art, will be featured in a solo exhibition of sculpture. Grubb works solely with found and natural materials, primarily bamboo and various types of string, in creating his small and large sculptures.

Painter Robert Gordy is also exhibiting work in the SECCA show opening Feb. 6. Gordy is a Louisana artist and will be showing paintings done over the last 20 years. His paintings and drawings are included in the permanent collection of the National Museum of American Art.

Both exhibitions will be on view until March 21.

SECCA is located at 750 Marguerity Drive and is open to the public, free of charge. The hours are Tuesdays through Saturdays, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Sundays 2-5 p.m.

Bowran To Lecture

RALEIGH — Dr. Edgar Peters Bowran, director of the N.C. Museum of Art, will give a lecture at 3 p.m. Wednesday, Feb. 3 in Room 115 of the Ackland Art Center, Chapel Hill.

The topic of his lecture will be "Pompeo Batoni (1708-87): The Best Portrait Painter in the World."

Batoni was noted as the leading painter in Rome by the 1740s, and by 1754 most connoisseurs considered him the finest painter in Italy.

NCSA Events

WINSTON-SALEM — Two events are scheduled at the N.C. School of the Arts during the coming week. These are:

- Feb. 3, 8 p.m. — Margaret Johnston, musician-in-residence, in a Music Department Artists Series in the Student Center Ballroom. No admission charged.
- Feb. 4, 5, 6, 7:30 p.m. — "A Bulldozer in Frog Pond," Thompson Theater's Children's Series, Thompson Theater. Admission Charged.

Robert Weirich In Free Recital Monday

ROBERT WEIRICH . . . a young prize-winning pianist, will perform in a free recital at 8:15 p.m. Monday, Feb. 1 in the A.J. Fletcher Recital Hall. The public is invited, with admission on a first-come, first-seated basis. Weirich's recital will include compositions by little known composers of 19th century New Orleans salon music.

Robert Weirich, a young prize-winning pianist popular with audiences of all ages, is performing in a free recital at 8:15 p.m., Monday, Feb. 1 in the A.J. Fletcher Recital Hall. The public is invited to attend and seating is on a first-come, first-admitted basis.

An avant-garde work by Northwestern alumnus C. Curtis-Smith, "Rhapsodies," is one of the compositions to be performed. Described as visually impressive as well as aurally fascinating, Weirich is called upon to execute many sonic effects on the piano's interior — including bowing the piano strings with loose fishing-line bows, to create a sustained shimmery sound.

Weirich will also perform several rarely heard examples of New Orleans salon music from the 19th century. Composers represented in this selection of music include Paul Emile Johns, Guiseppe Ferrata, Eugene Baylor, and Louis Moreau Gottschalk.

Gottschalk, born in New Orleans in 1829 of a German father and a Creole mother, was the first U.S. pianist to win international plaudits. At the early age of 13 he became a favorite in Parisian aristocratic circles. He was also the first U.S. composer to use Latin-American and Creole rhythms in his compositions — almost half a century before other composers made use of these sources. For a number of years in the mid-19th century, Gottschalk captured the imagination of music lovers worldwide as the steamboat age idol with his performing and composing. At the height of his fame he abandoned the spotlight for several years to become a Caribbean vagabond before returning to concert work.

Other selections on Weirich's recital include Elliott Carter's "Piano Sonata" of 1946; and the concluding piece, "The Dream Rags" by Michigan composer William Albright.

"The Dream Rag" pieces are written in the ragtime style of Scott Joplin, but go beyond the harmonic and formal possibilities of that era. The set includes "The Nightmare Fantasy Rag," which critics say may well be the "Mephisto Waltz" of Ragtime.

In addition to his Monday recital, Weirich will present a masterclass from 10 a.m. to noon Tuesday, Feb. 2 in the A.J. Fletcher Recital Hall. Interested persons are invited to attend.

Dinner Theater

There are only 100 places available for each of three public performances, and tickets are selling quickly. The event is the Mendenhall Dinner Theater's presentation of Neil Simon's comedy, "Chapter Two."

The public performances are being given on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Feb. 11, 12 and 13 in Mendenhall Student Center.

Serving of dinner begins at 6:30 p.m. and curtain time for the play is 8 p.m. each evening. Tickets are priced at $10 and must be paid for at least 72 hours in advance. For ticket information and reservation, call 757-6611, extension 266.

This production of "Chapter Two" is being presented by the Alpha-Omega Players, a nationally known troupe of talented actors and actresses. The comedy is Simon's 16th Broadway hit, the story of a writer trying to adjust to life after the death of his wife. He meets another woman, falls in love, marries again, and is caught in a guilt struggle between the past, the present and the future.

Randall D. Meade has the role of the guilt ridden author, George Schneider. Actress Jennie Malone portrays the second woman in the author's life. Supporting cast members are Kerry Phillips as Leo, George's well-meaning brother, and Valerie Tullons as Faye, Jennie's best girl-friend.

Melody Outlaw Senior Recital

The senior recital of soprano Melody D. Outlaw of Goldsboro will be given at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Feb. 4 at the A.J. Fletcher Recital Hall. There is no admission charged and the public is invited to attend.

Ms. Outlaw will be accompanied by Patricia A. Foltz, pianist, and assisted by Joli B. Jones on violin for the Holst piece.

For her program she has chosen Brahms' "Der Tod, das ist die kuhle Nacht;" Wolfe's "Mausfallen Spruchlein;" Donaudy's "Ah, mai non cessate," an aria from Massenet's "Manon," a song by Head, two songs for voice and violin by Gustav Holst; and "The Lion, The Tiger and The Microbe," from Martino's "The Bad Child's Book of Beasts."

Ms. Outlaw will perform two duets with Ellen Heidenreich, "In der Nacht" by Schumann and Purcell's "What Can We Poor Females Do?"

The first woman president candidate of the United States was Victoria Claflin Woodhull. She was nominated May 10, 1872, at a convention held in New York City.

'Il Trovatore' On Texaco Broadcast

WASHINGTON — Verdi's opera 'Il Trovatore" is the opera being broadcast over WITN Radio, 930 on the radio dial, beginning at 2 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 6. The broadcast of operas live from the Metropolitan Opera in New York City, sponsored by Texaco is now in its 42d year.

The cast for this production features Leontyne Price as Leonora, Guiseppe Giacomini as her love, the troubador Manrico, Viorica Cortez as the Gypsy Azucena, Louis Quilico as Count de Luna and John Cheek as Ferrando, Captain of the Guard. James Conlons conducts the Metropolitan Opera Orchestra.

Carolina Today

Examples of the faculty art show at ECU and a discussion of the new 1982 tax laws are two of the topics being aired on "Carolina Today," the WNCT-TV, Channel 9 early morning show, hosted by Slim Short and Susan Roberts. "Carolina Today" is on the air each weekday morning beginning at 6:40 a.m.

Hospitality House

WASHINGTON — Three guests are being featured on Kay Currie's "Hospitality," being aired from noon until 12:30 p.m. today over WITN-TV, Channel 7, Washington.

Kay's first guest will be a husband-wife team, Jag and Nims Jagannath from Hyderabad, India, now living in Washington. Jag will talk about his new book, "Calculator Programs for Hydro-Carbon Industries," accepted for publication by McGraw Hill publishers. Nims Jagannath will also talk about her role in the progress of the project and the book.

The show's second guest is Ed Brown, chairman of the Art Department, Atlantic Christian College, Wilson. Brown will comment about the current 1982 National Scholastic Art Awards show on view at ACC's Case Gallery. The show, co-sponsored by WITN-TV, is the regional one for school children in eastern North Carolina counties, and will be on view through Feb. 28. Works chosen as gold key selections will be sent to New York in mid-Februry for the national scholastic art competition show.

Big WOOW Classics

"Three terrific works" is the description hostess Karen Hause has given the three compositions she will air tonight on the weeky Big WOOW Classics from 10 p.m. until midnight.

The opening selection, Beethoven's famed "Ninth Symphony," is a taped recording made by the East Carolina Symphony under the direction of Robert Hause, with soloists Antonia Dalapas, Virginia Linn, Charles Moore and Clyde Hiss and the ECU Choral Union.

This will be followed by the fifth "Brandenberg Concerto," conducted by Pablo Casals and the Marlboro Festival Orchestra with Rudolph Serkin, performing the solo passages on piano, a role usually assigned to the harp.

Receives Second Guggenheim

NEW YORK — Laura Dean has been awarded a second John Simon Guggenheim Memorial Foundation Fellowship in Choroegrphy for 1982. Support from the presetigious award will be used toward the creation of a new work with choreography and music by Laura Dean, scheduled to premiere at the Spoleto Festival USA in June 1982. Her first Guggenheim was awarded in 1977.

Henri Christophe, the second black emperor of Haiti, shot himself with a silver bullet, and the country become a republic in 1820.

All-State Band Clinic

Workshops and two concerts are being offered in the two-day long All-State High School Band Clinic, Eastern Division, being held Friday and Saturday, Feb. 5 and 6 in the A.J. Fletcher Music Center on campus.

Herbert L. Carter, Director of Bands, the School of Music, East Carolina University, is coordinator for the Clinic.

More than 200 students from high schools in eastern North Carolina will attend. These are students who have been selected on the basis of auditions conducted earlier in the year.

The two concerts scheduled in conjunction with the Clinic will both be held in the Memorial Gym on campus, on East 10th Street. Both concerts are open to the public without charge.

• The first concert will be at 8:15 p.m. Friday. This will be presented by the ECU Symphonic Wind Ensemble and the ECU University Jazz Ensemble, with the Ensemble to be directed by Herbert L. Carter and the Jazz Ensemble to be directed by George Broussard.

The Wind Ensemble will be assisted by the Phi Mu Alpha Men's Choir in one selection on the program, Clifton Williams' "The Sinfonians." Phil Brown will conduct the Men's Choir.

Other compositions to be performed by the Wind Ensemble are Dmitri Shostakovich's "Festive Overture, Opus 96;" "Do Not Go Gentle Into That Midnight" by Elliott Del Borgo; and Percy Grainger settings of two songs, "Ye Banks and Braes O'Bonnie Doon" and "Shepherd's Hey."

The Jazz Ensemble will choose for their part of the program from the following pieces — "Residual Fire Dance" and "Perpetual Commotion" by Les Hooper; Hoagy Carmichael's "Skylark," arranged by Bob Brookmeyer; Rich Moncure's "Child's Play;" and Bernie Miller's "Bernie's Tune," arranged by Frank Comstock.

• The second concert will be presented at 7:30 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 6 and will feature high school musicians in two Eastern All-State Band — the Concert Band and the Symphonic Band.

Dr. Andrew Preston of Atlantic Christian College, Wilson, will direct the Concert Band. Kenneth Bloomquist of Michigan State University will direct the Symphonic Band.

We put our foot down about apartments being within walking distance.
Wedgewood Arms apartments are within walking distance of three shopping centers, a nursery school, a junior high school, doctors' and dentists' offices and an athletic center.
As if that wasn't enough, three major traffic arteries, 264 Bypass, Arlington Blvd., and Charles St. are close enough to be seen and not heard.
Fact is, no apartments in town can legitimately claim to be more convenient to more things than Wedgewood Arms.
And, that's not all. Because Wedgewood Arms is not only convenient, it's different in other ways, too.
Take the floorplans: they're different from anything you've ever seen. And when you add in high energy efficiency, tennis courts, swimming pool, and the neighborhood "feeling" that these apartments will give you — well, you'll just have to see for yourself.

DAWN FEEDING — It may be poetic in literature or film, but dawn feeding of livestock on cold winter mornings is a chilly, nose, fingers and toes biting reality. Here, Bruce Turner is shown at his rural home between Fayetteville and Raeford feeding his hungry calves on a recent morning when the area received two inches of snow. (AP Laserphoto)

FIRST DAY COMMEMORATIVE CARD — A new stamp for the post card rate of thirteen cents was issued on January 15 , honoring the legendary 19th century Sioux Indian leader Crazy Horse, Indian name Ta-Sunko-Wiko. The official first day commemorative card issued at Crazy Horse, S.D., carries a portrait of the sculptor Korczak Ziolkawski, who is devoting his life to carving an immense 5 63 feet high sculpture of Crazy Horse on horseback in the Black Hills of South Dakota.

A Review

An Appealing Book On Company Shops

Company Shops: The Town Built By A Railroad. By Durwood T. Stokes. Winston-Salem. John F. Blair, Publisher, 169 pages, illustrated, $14.95.

This book by native North Carolinian, Durwood Stokes, offers another very important contribution to the history of North Carolina. It is not only the story of how a railroad built the town of Company Shops, but also the story of the connecting of the East and West by the building of the North Carolina Railroad.

North Carolina sorely needed an east-west transportation artery, a need recognized by leaders such as Joseph Caldwell, William Ashe, and John Motley Morehead. In 1852 the legislature provided the funds to build the road from Goldsboro to Raleigh, on through Hillsborough, Mebane, Greensboro, Salisbury, Concord, to Charlotte.

It was soon evident that repair and maintenance shops were needed, and the company decided to locate the shops at a point equidistant from each end of the 223 mile railroad. This point fell in Alamance County near Graham and Mebane. The company bought 631 acres and proceeded to build the shops, brick homes for officers, a commissary, office, station, post office, hotel and civic center. These buildings formed the nucleus of the town of Company Shops, which later became the city of Burlington.

The completion of the railroad in 1856 was heralded by The Alamance Gleaner newspaper as "the greatest public blessing ever conferred on the county," and it did indeed bring growth and prosperity. By 1857 the railroad had 442 employees and owned 23 locomotives and 253 box cars. It is interesting to note that one of the first engines purchased was the "Pactolus," a name familiar in the Pitt County area.

Durwood Stokes relates the harrowing experiences of the Civil War, including the burying of gold beside the railroad tracks by fleeing Confederates and the finding of the gold by the 10th Ohio Calvary. The author also tells of the critical role played by the railroad during the war and its desperate attempt to remain in service in the face of shortages and enemy attack.

This history of Company Shops is, by necessity, also a history of Alamance County. Stokes records the political strife of Reconstruction; in fact, for a period of ten months, Alamance County was declared by Governor Holden to be in a state of insurrection. With the end of Reconstruction, peace descended on Company Shops, and the town grew and prospered.

The author sprinkles the story with delightful quotes and anecdotes from local newspapers of the period. Of the assassination of President Garfield, the North Carolina National newspaper noted, "Charles Guiteau (the assassin) was undoubtedly hung by the neck until dead, and that's all there is of it." And this ad: "Tan bark. Gant and Company wants lots of tan bark. They pay you a good price for it, and thus you will make money. Don't you see?" In 1882 the Recorder newspaper reported, "The town authorities have built a calaboose, not much larger than a well-regulated chicken coop." However, the calaboose served for 34 years.

In 1887 irrevocable changes came to Company Shops. The railroad was leased to the Richmond and Danville Railroad and the maintenance operation was moved away. Citizens of the town decided to change the name, which no longer applied, from Company Shops to Burlington.

Durwood Stokes concludes his story with a brief history of the first years of Burlington, noting that most of the shops and the hotel burned. The depot remained, and as Burlington grew, the depot "sat smack in the middle of Main Street." This problem was mysteriously solved one October night in 1919, when two explosions blew the depot apart. Today, only a marker and the name of a mall are left of Company Shops, the town built by a railroad.

Author Stokes grew up in Burlington and remembers many tales of the railroad. This personal knowledge and his meticulous research has resulted in a well-documented, appealing, readable book.

Agitation Over Sphinx's Beard

By GREGORY JENSEN

LONDON (UPI) — T.G.H. James is in charge of the Sphinx's beard, and he doesn't know quite what to do about it.

"It's no use to anyone very much as it is," he said.

Certainly it's no use to the Great Sphinx of Giza. Not lying in a British Museum store room, it isn't.

That would make a change. For untold centuries the man-headed beast 189 feet long, carved from a natural rock, has thrust his chin beardless into the Egyptian sun.

For the last 165 of those years, a curious cross-hatched chunk of stone has reposed in the British Museum. This is the actual beard of the Sphinx.

"It's a rather non-descript piece of stone, actually," said James, keeper of Egyptian antiquities, in an interview.

"It's about 3 feet tall, weighs perhaps half a ton. The Sphinx itself is limestone, but this looks rather denser than that. Oddly enough we've never had it tested to find out what kind of stone it is.

Two pieces? The case of the Sphinx's beard begins to look complicated, and sure enough it is. Whisk back to 1816.

There between the Sphinx's giant paws is a Genoese sea captain named Giovanni Caviglia, and he is digging in the sand. A shovel clangs on stone, and slowly are revealed two hunks of carved rock which obviously once dangled from that monumental chin directly overhead. The erosion of centuries had acted as barber, but now the Sphinx's beard had been found.

Caviglia, James said, was working for the British consul general of the day, and off to London went the smaller part of the beard.

"We acquired this in a perfectly legitimate manner," James said with alacrity, "with the full permission of the authorities in Egypt at the time.

"The other piece was left at Giza and was not rediscovered until the Sphinx was cleaned in the 1920s. Then it was taken away and is now in the Cairo museum.

"Our piece is now in our reserve collection, not any longer on regular display. But we show it to anyone who asks. We're not at all ashamed of having it."

Recently there has been much talk about returning ancient works of art to their country of origin, as the United States returned the crown of St. Stephen to Hungary. The Sphinx's beard is the latest subject of such speculation. Which puts James in a quandry.

"We've had no direct request from the Egyptians for its return," he said, and the British Museum is certainly not going to take the initiative.

"Of course if such an official request were made, we would consider it very seriously," James said. But "we would like to know distinctly what they propose. We would not ship it off just to be placed in another museum, for instance.

"If they wanted to reconstruct the Sphinx in its original form, that would be a different case.

"Whether it could be reattached is another problem. The actual chin and surface of the head is in very poor condition," like the whole monument. "An American expedition is working on the Sphinx at the moment," mainly studying damage, and "there is going to be a certain amount of reconstruction just to keep it from deteriorating further," James said.

As a scholar, James could not resist adding:

"There is, of course, no actual certainty that this beard is original. It may have been added later."

How much later? "Perhaps as much as 1,000 years."

But a millenium is nothing to the Sphinx, and the 165 years his beard has been here is like a wink from one of his great stone eyes. Even if the beard were added 1,000 years after the Sphinx himself was carved, James said, that would still make it about 3,500 years old.

Jason Seley To Lecture

A RECENT JASON SELEY WORK . . . This statue, made in 1980-81, is titled "Farnese Hercules II." It stands over ten foot high and is made of chromiun plated steel, steel and black paint.

Jason Seley, dean and professor of art in the college of architecture, art and planning of Cornell University, will visit East Carolina University this week as a guest lecturer.

He will lecture at 8 p.m. Thursday in Jenkins Auditorium, Jenkins Fine Arts Center, on East Fifth Street.

There is no admission charged, and the public is invited to attend. The lecture is sponsored by the ECU Sculpture Committee.

Seley, a sculptor well-known nationally and internationally, has shown his work at numerous exhibitions in the U.S., Canada and in European countries ranging from England to Romania.

Examples of his work are in many prestigious collections, including those of the Museum of Modern Art, the Whitney Museum, the Hirshhorn Museum of Sculpture Garden of the Smithsonian Institution, the Nelson Rockefeller Collection, and the Ontario, Canada, Museum of Art, among others.

Winner of a Fulbright Scholarship to France to study sculpture in 1949-50, Seley also received two travel grants to Haiti from 1947 to 1949. Recipient of many awards and commissions, Seley has served as artist-in-residence at several colleges in the United States and in the Berliner Kunstlerprogramm in Berlin, Germany.

An active participant in various phases of American art, Seley has lectured extensively over the past few years, and has served on panels and juries for universities and museums.

Details On Play Competition Given

FAYETTEVILLE — 1983 is Fayetteville's bicentennial and to celebrate the event, the Fayetteville Little Theater is sponsoring a playwriting competition.

The best play written about Lafayette, for whom the city of Fayetteville is named, will be awarded a prize of $1,000. A prize of $200 will be awarded for the best play submitted by a student.

Marie-Joseph-Paul-Yves Roch-Gilbert du Motier, the marquis de Lafayette, the French noble who fought with the American colonists against British forces in the American Revolution, born in 1757, was also one of the most powerful men of the early stages of the French Revolution.

An immensely wealthy French nobleman, Lafayette came to the U.S. in July, 1777 and was appointed a major general by George Washington, Commander-in-Chief of the Continental Army. He returned to France in early 1779 and persuaded the government of Louis XI to supply a 6,000-man expeditionary force to help the American colonies. When he came back to the U.S. in April of 1780, he was given command of an army in Virginia. Lafayette was instrumental in the surrender of Lord Charles Cornwallis at Yorktown, and became a hero both in the U.S. and France.

Later, when Lafayette lost much of his wealth in the 1789 French Revolution, a grateful America granted him money and lands.

Fayetteville, a town combining the earlier villages of Cambelltown and Cross Creek, was named in honor of Lafayette in 1783. The citizens of the town rushed to become the first American town to be named in honor of the Revolution hero. It was not until more than 40 years later, in 1825, that the Marquis de Lafayette visited his namesake town.

Applicable details on the play competiton are:

• The main focus of the full-length drama should be on the life and times of Lafayette and his 1825 visit to Fayetteville. However, the visit need not dominate the drama. (Materials on Lafayette and his well-documented visit are are available from the sponsors, the Little Theater).

• The Fayetteville Little Theater will produce the prize-winning drama in April, 1983, either in the Little Theater building or in the Cumberland County Auditorium, for a period of three to four weeks.

• Fictional characters may be included with historical people and events. Music may be used to set a mood but a musical or pageant is not being sought. The play is to be structured to run from 90 to 120 minutes.

• It is to be historically accurate in the major details, incorporating period flavor, however the best use of historical data as the basis of an entertaining drama is the prime criteria, not the best historical research.

• Entry blanks and the prospectus are available from: The Fayetteville Little Theater, P.O. Box 53723, Fayetteville, N.C., 28305.

• Deadline for submission of a play script is September 1, 1982. A mailing cost of $2 is charged to cover mailing materials to applicants. There are no entry or other fees charged.

Seeks Indian Art

RALEIGH — Persons who are artists and who are American Indians living in North Carolina are invited to an art competition.

The art contest, open to any Native (Indian) American living in North Carolina older than six years old, is planned as a feature of the Seventh Annual North Carolina Indian Unity Conference to be held in Raleigh during March.

Categories in the competition are original drawing, painting and etching. Cash prizes and certificates will be awarded.

Entries are to be submitted no later than Feb. 16 to the N.C. Commission of Indian Affairs, P.O. Box 27228, 227 E. Edenton St., Raleigh, N.C., 27611, or to one of the commission's local offices.

Entries will be judged March 5 and will be on display at the commission-sponsored Indian Unity Conference, March 4-6 at the Royal Villa Hotel and Convention Center, 6339 Glenwood Ave., Raleigh.

$30,000 Grant To ADF

DURHAM — The American Dance Festival (ADF) has received a $30,000 challenge grant from the Liggett Group, headquartered in Montvale, New Jersey. Jonathon W. Olds Jr., executive vice president of Liggett Inc., says "we feel that the American Dance Festival is one of our nation's most important art institutions and a valuabel asst to Durham and North Carolina. We hope others will follow our lead and meet our challenge by increasing their support to help compensate for reductions t the Federal level."

The challgne requirements are that $5,000 be matched by $5,000 in new money from Durham County residents and that the remaining $25,000 be matched by $50,000 in new funds from companies doing business in North Carolina.

Charles L. Reinhart, president of the ADF, said "We are really pleased that Liggett has given us this grant. We hope their spirit is contagious."

FROM SHEPPARD MEMORIAL LIBRARY

By HANSY JONES

Laughter knows no bounds — it spans the generations. Among the new books in The Children's Room are several that are bound to leave you laughing, regardless of age.

In "Light in the Attic," Shel Silverstein has raised some nonsense verse to the level of fine art. Published as a children's book, his latest volume of irrepressible verse has enjoyed first place on the adult best-seller list for the past twelve weeks (and rightly so!). Mr. Silverstein has long taken honors in laughing in the hearts of children, and "Light in the Attic" is certain to lighten and warm the hearts of all ages. With his acute sense of the ridiculous and talent for seeing the humor in some life's most threatening circumstances, the author has produced a worthy successor to his earlier best-selling collection "Where the Sidewalk Ends." To sample his lovable nonsense, consider the plight of "Memorizin' Mo": "Mo memorized the dictionary/ But just can't seem to find a job/, Or anyone who wants to marry/ Someone who memorized the dictionary." Or what about the dilemma of "Overdues": "What do I do?/ What do I do?/ This library book is 42/ Years overdue./ I admit that it's mine/ But I can't pay the fine-/ Should I turn it in/ Or hide it again?/ What do I do? What do I do?" (TURN IT IN!) The poems and drawings in "Light in the Attic" are not to be missed. As always, Shel Silverstein has the world laughing with him, or at least that part of it who reads his books.

"Growing Up Laughing in America" is the latest in a long line of humorous collections for children compiled by folklorist Charles Keller. This volume is an anthology of the hilarious views of some notable American humorists on all aspects of childhood and adolesence. From Mark Twain to Bill Cosby, they all share the ability to see the funny side of growing-up--which isn't usually apparent to those going through the process. As Mr. Keller points out to young readers in his introduction, "Once you see the humor, the load gets lighter, the worries melt away, and you can feel the joy and fun of living as well as the hurt." All parents will want to remember with their children these very special humorous stories that are part of our American heritage of laughter. Some of the favorites included are Mark Twain's "Showing Off in Sunday School," Owen Johnson's "The Great Pancake Record," Booth Tarkenton's "The Party," and James Thurber's "The Car We Had to Push." This is a perfect book for a family read-aloud session.

Here are a few other new titles calculated to keep you laughing: "Poem Stew"--a feast of funny poems about food, from the thirst quenching taste of watermelon to the unappetizing look of hot cocoa left too long to cool. "Dinosaurs and Beasts of Yore"--a merry collection of verse about some extinct beasts who are brought back to life in some very funny poems (A touch of humor for a science class). "Over the Moon"--a brief and simple text along with imaginative drawings clarify some well-known but difficult to explain metaphors, such as "bull in a china shop." "News Break"--a collection of one-liners that will delight children (and their parents) with all of the stories that we don't see on the six o'clock news. A sample: The price of duck feathers is going up. Even down is going up. (Groan!)

North Carolina To Celebrate Black History Month

At ECU, A Week Of Events In The Annual Black Arts Festival

Plans for the Annual Black Arts Festival at East Carolina University have been announced. The festival, under the sponsorship of the Student Union Minority Arts Committee, begins today and continues through Saturday, Feb. 6.

• The first event in the festival week will take place at 5 p.m. today. It is a gospel concert featuring the E.C.U. Gospel Ensemble and the North Carolina State University Gospel Choir. The NCSU Gospel Choir has toured extensively throughout North Carolina and in Southeastern states. Their selections will range from traditional spirituals to contemporary gospel sound.

This opening program will be held in Hendrix Theater, Mendenhall Student center. It is free, and the public is invited to attend.

Other programs and events scheduled by the Student Union Minority Arts Committee at East Carolina University in conjunction with February as Black History Month are:

• Monday, Feb. 1, 6:30 p.m. — A "Soul Food" dinner is to be served in the Multi-Purpose Room at Mendenhall Student Center. The dinner, a catered one, will feature such well known Southern soul food delicacies as chitterlings, ham hocks, collards, candied yams, cornbread, and sweet potato pie. Tickets are priced at $4 per person.

• Tuesday, Feb. 2, 8 p.m. — A talent competition is slated to take place in Hendrix Theater and will feature competitors in the fields of music, drama and dance. Tickets are priced at $1 and will be on sale at the door.

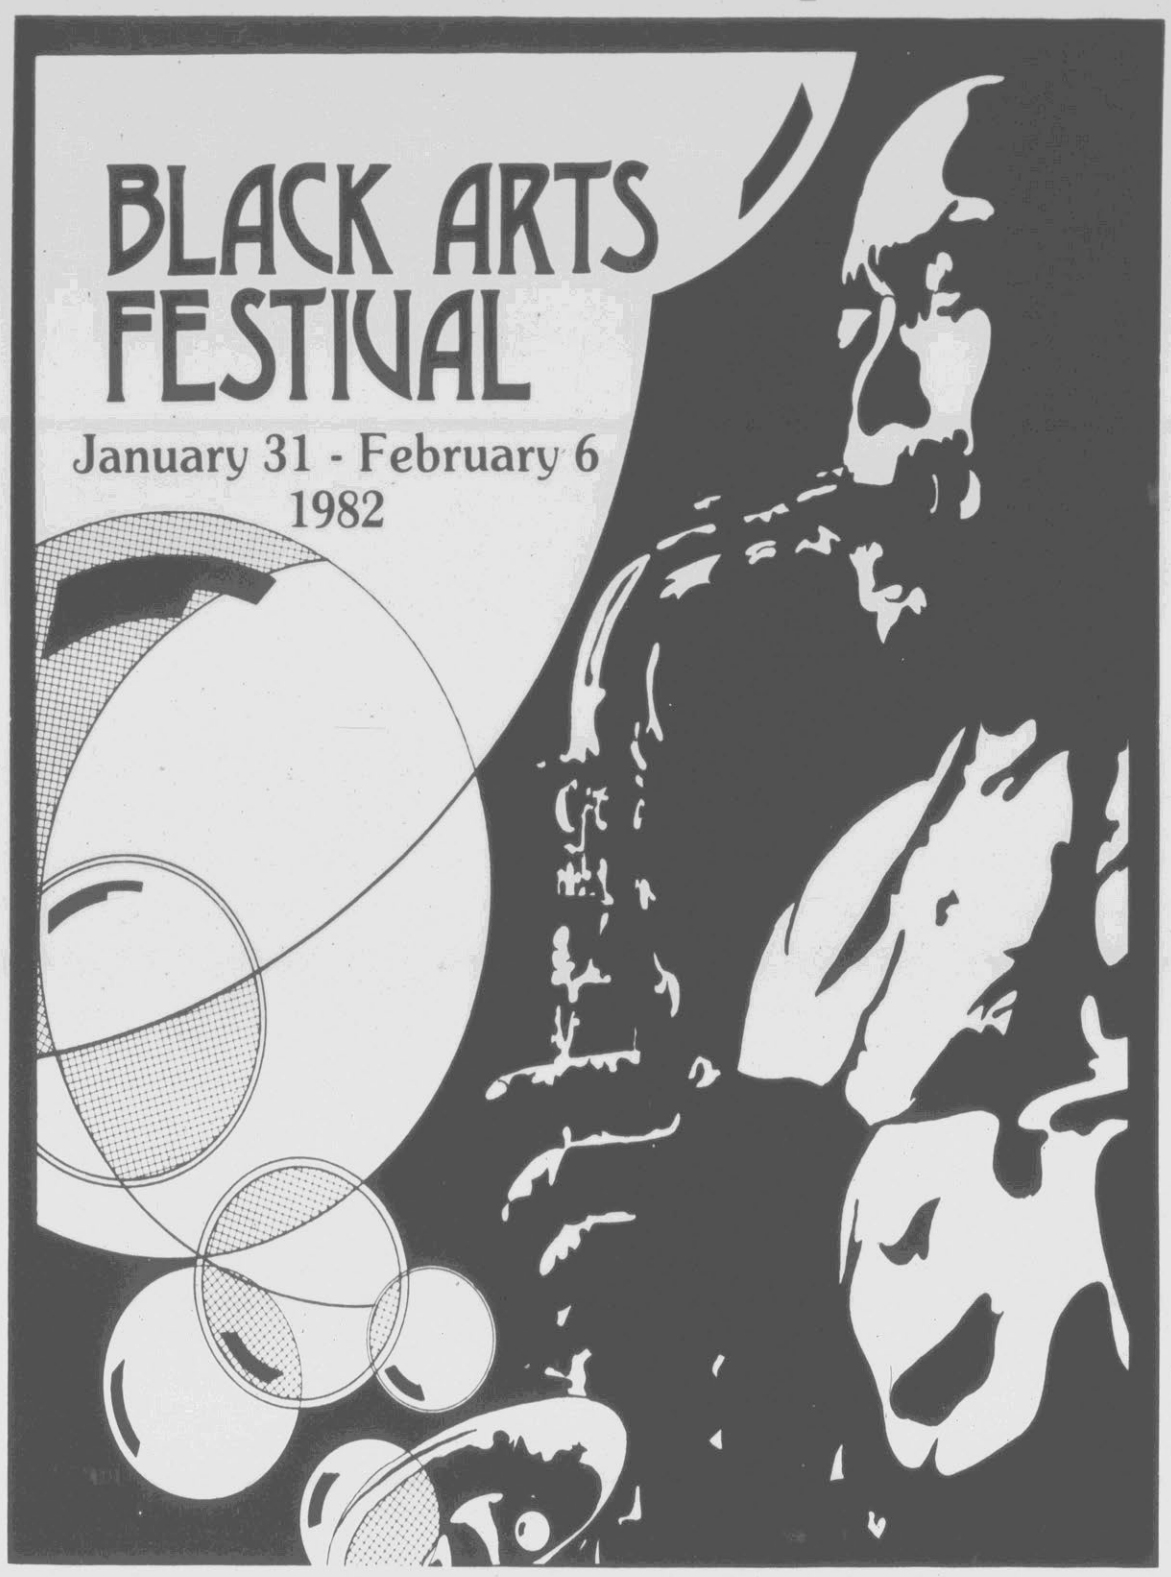

• Wednesday, Feb. 3, 8 p.m. — At Hendrix Theater, the Wednesday night mid-week event will be the showing of a movie, "Norman . . . Is That You?" The film, a comedy, stars Redd Foxx as a man who loses his wife to his brother and also discovers that his son is having an interracial gay relationship. Others starring in the film are Pearl Bailey, Dennis Dugan, Tamara Dobson and Jayne Meadows. Admission for this screening is by ECU ID and Activity cards or by Mendenhall Membership cards.

• Thursday, Feb. 4, 8 p.m. — U.S. Congresswoman Shirley Chisholm will speak in Hendrix Theater. She will be speaking on the subject "America's Impoverished Spirit." Tickets, priced at $5, are on sale at the Central Ticket office or can be purchased at the door.

• Friday, Feb. 5, 8 p.m. — The Auditorium, Room 244 at Mendenhall Student Center, is the site of "An Ebony Revue" to be performed by the Neo-Black Society drama group from the University of North Carolina at Greensboro. Tickets for the revue are priced at $1 and will be on sale at the door.

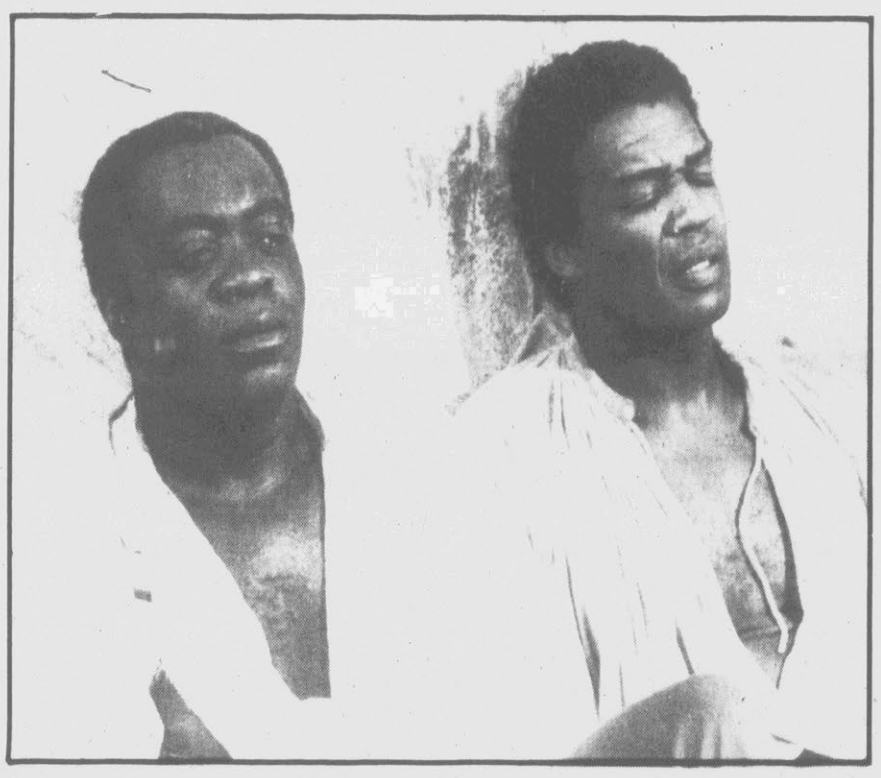

• Saturday, Feb. 6, 10 p.m. — The concluding event of the week-long ECU Blacks Arts Festival is to be a dance in Mendenhall's Auditorium, Room 244. Music for the dance will be provided by the Mellow Madness Band. Tickets are priced at $2 and will be on sale at the door.

People interested in more details on any of the festival events are to contact the Program Office at Mendenhall Student Center, 757-6611, extension 213.

THE POSTER . . . for the 1982 Black Arts Festival at East Carolina University was designed by Ed Collovechio. The Festival, sponsored by the Student Union Minority Arts Committee, opens today with events scheduled each night through Saturday, Feb. 6.

Highlights Of Black History, Talent Being Televised On UNC-TV

February is Black History Month, and the UNC Center for Public Television has scheduled a host of programs focusing on the history and culture of black Americans. A brief look at programs scheduled during the month shows:

• Tuesday, Feb. 2, 7:30 p.m. — "Palmer Memorial Institute: The Mission and the Legacy." This half-hour TV film covers the story of the first black preparatory school in the country and the woman who founded it in Sedalia, N.C. Charlotte Eugenia Hawkins, later Charlotte Brown, was only 18 and newly graduated from Wellesley College when she returned to North Carolina to open Palmer Memorial Institute for young blacks at the turn of the century. Her first schoolhouse was a crumbling, slab-sided church in the pine woods near Sedalia. By 1908, there were three buildings on 220 acres of ground, five teachers and a thriving farm with livestock. An entire community grew up around the school, with students coming in from all over the southeast. The Institute flourished for 70 years, but closed in 1971 after a fire destroyed the school's main building.

• Tuesday, Feb. 2, 10:30 p.m. — The rampant raucousness of Kansas City in the 30s that fostered the creation of a new jazz is long gone but not forgotten. "Goin' to Kansas City" brings the Kansas City Sound back to life through songs, sounds and memories of Count Basie, Mary Lou Williams, Jay "Hootie" McShann and other noted performers of the jazz art of the 30s. Greenville's Billy Taylor hosts the program, tying it together with his commentary. Taylor will also perform some of his own jazz piano music.

• Tuesday, Feb. 9, 7:30 p.m. — Black journalist Tony Brown returns to the public television line-up following four years on national commercial television. "Tony Brown's Journal," the national weekly black public affairs series premiering at this time, will feature a variety of people and events prominent in black history in America. These include "Malcolm and Elijah," a look at the historic confrontation of two of America's most powerful men, Malxolm X and Elijah Muhammed; "The Black Cowboys," a profile of some of America's greatest unknown heroes; "Blacks: Immigrants or Captives?" an up-front discussion with economist/author Dr. Thomas Sowell; and "Crisis: Blacks Killing Each Other."

TV tributes to black Americans include cowboys, musicians, writers and a Tar Heel Educator

• Wednesday, Feb. 17, 9 p.m. — Highlighting the Center's celebration of Black History Month is a 90 minute docudrama, "Denmark Vesey's Rebellion." Yaphet Kotto stars in the title role of Denmark Vessey, born in 1767 and kidnapped into slavery as a teenager. In 1800 Vesey purchased his freedom with $600 won in a street lottery in Charleston, S.C. As a freedman he worked in carpentry, became a leader of his church, and read antislavery literature. Determined to strike a blow at the institution that had victimized him, he devised an intricate conspiracy for an uprising in Charleston during the summer of 1822. Informers divulged the plot, however, and 35 blacks, including Vesey, were executed. The cast also includes Cleavon Little, Ned Beatty, Antonio Fargas, Bernie Casey and William Windom.

• Wednesday, Feb. 17, 10:30 p.m. — The life and work of Ntozake Shange is examined in "A Colored Girl: Ntozake Shange." The broadcast follows a typically hectic day in her life during the production of her Broadway play, "Spell No. 7." Ms. Shange's playwright career was launched in 1976 when Joseph Papp of New York's Public Theater produced her play, "For Colored Girls." Ms. Shange has also published a novella, "Sassafras, Cypress, and Indigo;" two collections of poetry and a collection of three of her theater works.

• Saturday, Feb. 20, 10:30 p.m. — "Paul Draper on Tap" pays a tribute to legendary dancer Paul Draper, now 71, seen performing one of his elegant tap routines. He also rehearses his new work, "Tap in Three Movement," with young dancers from the American Dance Machine, a group founded to preserve and perform the best work of American choreographers in the Broadway musical theater.

• Tuesday, Feb. 23, 9 p.m. — The American Playhouse presents a choreopoem by Ntozake Shange, "For Colored Girls Who Have Considered Sucide/When the Rainbow is Enuf." In this play, seven young black women celebrate their blackness and their womanhood. The seven come from disparate socio-economic backgrounds, and represent geographically the cities of Detroit, Houston, Charleston, Harlem, San Francisco and St. Louis. The cast includes Ms. Shange and Trazana Beverley, 1976 Tony Award winner as Best Featured Actress in a play.

• Saturday, Feb. 27, 10:30 p.m. — "Fats Waller: An American Original," is a profile of the Tin Pan Alley composer, whose life in music has recently been the subject of Broadway and teleivison revivals. The program includes discussion of the Harlem Renaissance, the phenomenon of "race" records, and rarely seen newsreel footage of Waller himself.

Geneaology Workshop

RALEIGH — Applications are still being acceptd for the second annual "Black Geneology Workshop for Beginners," scheduled for Saturday, Feb. 13 at the Archives and History/State Library Building, Raleigh.

The day-long workshop is designed to examine the types of records and the methods involved in searching for black roots.

Topics to be covered include "Introduction to the Archives," "Our Afro-American Past," "How to Trace Your Family," and "Oral History." Other topics are "Land Grants and Deeds," "Wills, Estates and Bonds," "Court Minutes, Census Records and Tax Lists, and "Church and Cemetery Records."

Admission is open to the public. Tution is $5 per person. For details and registration write: Minnie P. Bridges, Archives and Records Section, 109 E. Jones St., Raleigh, N.C., 27611, or telephone 733-3952.

. . . when you control a man's thinking, you do not need to worry about his actions

Dr. Carter Woodson, Founder Of Afro-American History Month

By Mark Leuchtenberger
UNC Center for Public TV

CHAPEL HILL — To Milan Kundera, an author and dissident exiled from his native Czechoslovakia, the real war against tyranny is a private one, with the human mind as battleground. Confronted by forces that seek to subjugate him, each man must preserve the memory of his own freedom and dignity. To forget means accepting the diminished world planned for him by his opporssors: the world of the slave.

Kundera's view of tyranny is not new. It was forcefully articulated at the beginning of this century by a black American, Dr. Carter Woodson. Woodson is the founder of Afro-American (Black) History Month, which America observes for the 56th time this February.

Carter Woodson believed that the most complete form of enslavement was mind control. "When you control a man's thinking," he wrote, "you do not have to worry about his actions. You do not have to tell him not to stand here or go yonder. He will find his 'proper place' and will stay in it. You do not need to send him to the back door. He will go without being told. In fact, if there is no back door he will cut one for his special benefit. His education makes it necessary."

The son of slave people, Woodson believed that though emancipation had been officially proclaimed generations earlier, the minds of black Americans — and whites as well — were still enslaved by the dogma of white superiority. Not only were such notions accepted as commonplace truths; they were part of the humanities education given at the nation's colleges, where their presence, according to Woodson, fostered an "educational process which inspires and stimulates the oppressor with the thought that he is everything and has accomplished everything worthwhile. . ."

The Harvard-trained Woodson knew the facts of American history told otherwise, and he saw education, particularly in Afro-American history and culture, as the key to ending the mental enslavement of black and white Americans. He reasoned that if people could be shown the significance of black culture in America's history, if the achievements of Afro-Americans could be brought to light, then the attitudes of blacks towards themselves, and the attitudes of whites toward blacks, would change.

Woodson believed that though emancipation had been officially proclaimed generations earlier, the minds of black Americans — and whites as well — were still enslaved by the dogma of white superiority .

In 1915 Woodson took the first steps to promote this goal when he and several colleagues founded the Association for the Study of Negro Life and History, an organization whose purposes were "the collection of sociological and historical data on the Negro, the study of peoples of African blood, the publishing of books in this field, and the promotion of harmony between the races by acquainting the one with the other."

In 1916, he founded the "Journal of Negro History." Eleven years late, he and the Association founded Black History Month, then called the Negro History Week Celebration.

It was a national success in its first year, and since then the annual celebration has provided a time for Americans to reflect upon the achievements of blacks in American history, and has given educators like Woodson an opportunity to dispel the racial myths that he knew to be so crippling.

Book On Black Town

RALEIGH — It is 1862 — the Union Army is occupying New Bern and thousands of suddenly-liberated slaves are finding themselves crowding into a freedman's camp on the Trent River. What is their future?

A new booklet published by the Department of Cultural Resources outlines the unique problems and perspectives of the camp which became James City.

Joe A. Mobley, reseacher with the archaeology and historic preservation section, chronicles the settlement on the Trent River, pointing out the struggles and triumphs of society in an all-black community in the volume entitled "James City: A Black Community in North Carolina 1863-1900."

The social, economic and political developments of this stronghold of black self-determination, according to Mobley, offer insight into the adversities of blacks since the Civil War. Struggling to secure an economic and political foothold, their primary goal was to own permanently the land on which they resided as tenants.

James City began in March, 1862, following the capture of New Bern by Union forces. The community grew as North Carolina slaves sought freedom and safety within Union lines. U.S. Army chaplain Horace James established the camp for freedmen, which became Trent River Camp and later James City, honoring its founder. James had a significant impact upon the settlement and his career in North Carolina is part of the James City narrative.

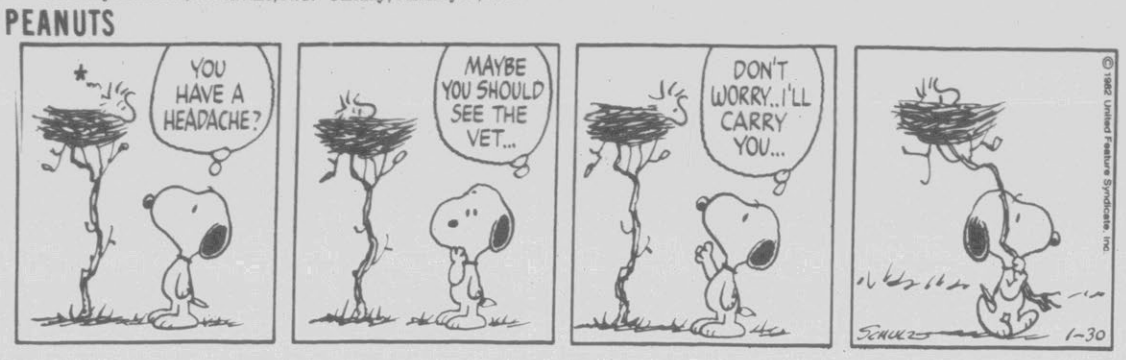

Because blacks have steadfastly remained in this cohesive black community, James City provides a good model for the study of Afro-American history on the local level, according to Mobley.

The 113-page booklet is available at $3 per copy plus $1 postage. It can be ordered from: Department of Cultural Resources Publications Section, 109 E. Jones Street, Raleigh, N.C., 27611.

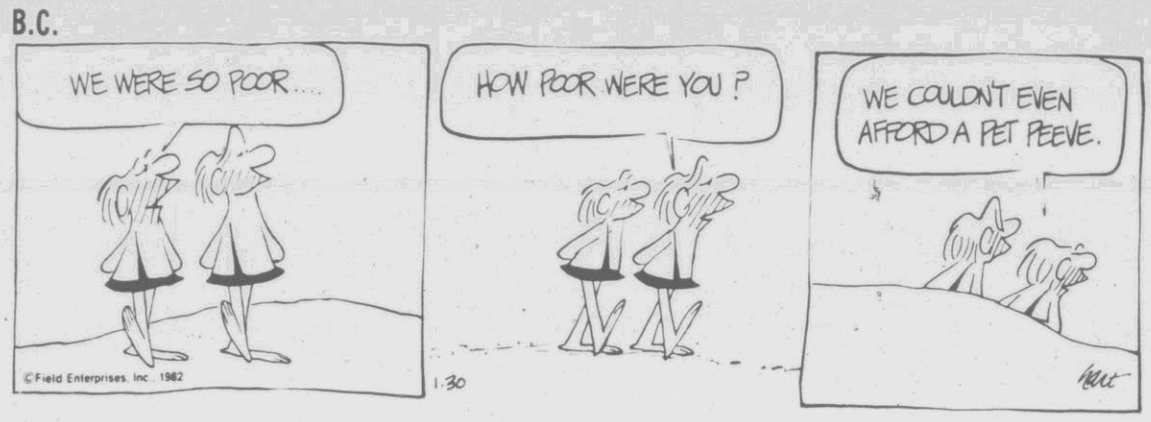

SINGER MARY LOU WILLIAMS . . . is one of the entertainers to be featured on a exploration of Kansas City music of the 1930s in a program being aired at 10:30 p.m. Tuesdasy, Feb. 2. This is one of several TV programs being broadcast by UNC Center for Television honoring achievements of black Americans.

We're Out To Convince You That Escort Is The Best Small Car Sold In America

Lease A 1982 Ford Escort For As Little As $138.24 Per Month

"No Other Small Car Can Match Our Escort Fordcare Offer!"

And With Your New Escort You Get:

1. COST-FREE MAINTENANCE
For the life of your warranty Ford will provide free scheduled maintenance. That means you won't have to pay for things like oil changes, fan belts, filters — even wiper blades. You won't have to pay a cent — parts or labor. It's an offer without equal on any small car in the country.

2. WORKMANSHIP COVERAGE
Now! Two years or 24,000 miles — whichever comes first. Protection virtually any problem that might come up. The only things not covered are fluids, tires, abuse and accidents. Legally, we have to call it a limited warranty. But compare it to any other small car warranty.

3. 5% CASH BONUS FROM FORD
Take delivery of a new '82 Escort by March 13 and you'll get a bonus of 5% off the base vehicle sticker price directly from Ford. That's a 5% savings that you can keep or apply to your down payment. Limit one per customer.

If You Have A Trade, We Will Pay Cash For Your Car
The Ford Lease Program Is Available On All Ford Cars And Trucks

EXCEPTIONAL GAS MILEAGE.
44 EST HWY 28 EPA EST MPG†
†Estimates for comparison. Your mileage may differ depending on speed, distance and weather. Actual highway mileage will probably be lower.

A Sad Tale Of Beauty And The Beast

Anthony Hopkins stars in the title role of Quasimodo, the deformed bell ringer of Paris' Notre Dame Cathedral, in "The Hunchback of Notre Dame," airing on the Hallmark Hall of Fame, Thursday, Feb. 4 (9-11 p.m.) on CBS.

The gripping story, set in 15th-century Paris, has lived for a century and a half as a testament to the beauty of the human spirit, powerful enough to transcend the confines of evil and superficial ugliness. It revolves around the hideously misshapen Quasimodo, who had been abandoned at the gates of Notre Dame as an infant. In a self-serving public gesture of charity, Quasimodo is taken in by the sanctimonious Dom Claude Frollo (Derek Jacobi).

As the drama unfolds, Quasimodo's slavish loyalty to Frollo deteriorates as the priest becomes the archdeacon. Frollo has designs on the beautiful Esmeralda, a gypsy dancer with whom the grotesque and deaf hunchback has fallen unrequitedly in love.

Also starring are Robert Powell as Phoebus, the handsome flirtatious soldier who wins the love of Esmeralda; Sir John Gielgud as Charmolue, the official torturer of the courts; David Suchet as Trouillefou, the King of the Thieves; and Gerry Sundquist as Pierre, the penniless poet and playwright.

Living for 12 hours a day inside the shell of the character of Quasimodo allowed Hopkins to view life as the hunchback would have seen it through his one good eye.

"There is a feeling of isolation and loneliness," he noted. "I can't eat, because of the make-up, which curtails my socializing. In case I forget for a moment that I am different looking, I am reminded by the reactions of people new to the set or who suddenly see me in some unexpected place."

Hopkins never before had worn such distorting make-up. "The closest I came was in the Hitler role (for which he won the Emmy Award last year)," Hopkins said. "The shape of my face had to be the same as his. But I had to do more of the work myself, the speech and the mannerisms."

Despite being uncomfortable and restricted by the heavy make-up for the part, Hopkins said, "When the film is finished, I think I shall miss Quasimodo."

QUASIMODO (Anthony Hopkins), the deformed bell ringer at Paris' Notre Dame Cathedral, is befriended by the gypsy dancer Esmeralda (Lesley-Anne Down) in the "Hallmark Hall of Fame" presentation of "The Hunchback of Notre Dame," Thursday, Feb. 4 (9-11 p.m.) on CBS-TV.

The War To End All Wars

An insurgent military unit from the Soviet Union invades Alaska to seize the pipeline in retaliation for a United States grain embargo — increasing tension between Moscow and Washington to the breaking point, leading the world to the brink of nuclear holocaust — in "World War III," a four-hour miniseries. The drama will be telecast in two parts on NBC's Sunday Night at the Movies, Jan. 31, and NBC's Monday Night at the Movies, Feb. 1 (9-11 p.m. both nights).

It is almost Christmas, 1987. In Washington, President Thomas McKenna (Rock Hudson) is being pressed by his advisors to seek the Presidency in next year's election. McKenna's foreign policy problems include his grain embargo against the Soviet Union.

In Moscow, Secretary General Gorny (Brian Keith) is facing riots in the streets by starving Russians. Unknown to him, an insurgent military group led by Col. Alexander Vorashin has landed in Alaska, their mission is to seize the pipeline at any cost and cut off the Americans' oil supply unless they agree to cancel their grain embargo.

In Alaska, Lt. Col. Jake Caffey (David Soul) has been assigned as deputy brigade commander at Ft. Wainwright, where the chief intelligence officer is Maj. Kate Breckenridge (Cathy Lee Crosby), with whom he had an affair five years ago. When a National Guard unit fails to return to its post, Caffey and Breckenridge lead a search team to find them.

Caffey discovers the invaders and is forced to retreat to a valve station, the Soviet objective. With the Russians five minutes away, Caffey sets up a defense to protect the station and save the lives of members of his unit. And then the Soviet soldiers arrive...

Hudson was a truck driver named Roy Fitzgerald when he was "discovered" by agent Henry Willson. It was Willson who came up with the name Rock Hudson, and Fitzgerald hated it, but was too grateful to voice any objection. Willson knew what he was doing though — he had also come up with the names Rory Calhoun and Tab Hunter.

Hudson was soon cast in his first big picture, "Fighter Squadron," and since he has appeared in over 60 films and the television series "McMillan & Wife."

THE Rook Look AT GARMENT CARE

DICKIE ROOK

Make Clothes-Buying Cheaper

In these years of high inflation, you wonder what value you're getting for your money. It would help to know, as you pay rising prices for clothes, how long a garment can be expected to last.

The international Fabricare Institute, a worldwide association of drycleaners and launderers, has published with the Better Business Bureau a list of textile life expectancies. These standards take into account changes in fashion, fabric characteristics and normal amount of wear and tear.

5 Years: formal wear, leather coats, tablecloths
4 Years: jackets, sport coats, wool slacks
3 Years: sweaters, robes, raincoats, sport shirts, dresses
2 Years: cotton or synthetic suits, dress shirts, childrens wear

Older garments are still useful, but the fabrics are not as sturdy or the colors sharp, and they will soil more easily.

Taking good care of your clothes will add years to their service. Regular cleaning will prevent a build-up of soil, which weakens fabrics. Drycleaning is gentler on fabric finishes and colors than washing. Steam pressing helps fabrics retain their luster and feel. Stop in at A CLEANER WORLD GARMENT CARE CENTER and make buying clothes a little cheaper!

Pat Sajak, who recently became the new host of "Wheel of Fortune" game show, also doubles as the weathercaster for KNBC-TV in Los Angeles, where he is known for his quick-witted sense of humor.

"I don't like funny weathermen," said Sajak. "Once I get into the body of the weather, I'm pretty straight. There's so much death and destruction in the news, though, you have to break it up a bit. I'd like to think I'm not a zany weatherman, just a clever guy."

BOB CONSTANZO portrays an accountant who can't handle his finances, in "Million Dollar Infield," to be broadcast as the CBS Tuesday Night Movies, Feb. 2 (9-11).

Michele Will Tell

Q: Who is the girl who plays Pam on "Greatest American Hero"? Isn't she married to Tom Selleck of "Magnum, P.I."? Didn't they have a baby not long ago? Also where do I write to get a color picture of Tom Selleck? KAREN TYSINGER, LEXINGTON, N.C.

A: Actress Connie Sellecca portrays Pam on "Greatest American Hero." She's married to the former star of "Buck Rogers," Gil Gerard, and they are the proud parents of a baby boy. Write Tom Selleck in c/o "Magnum, P.I.," CBS-TV, 51 W. 52nd St., New York, N.Y. 10019.

Q: I would like for you to settle this bet for me. What is the little girl's name and true-life age on "The Two of Us"? T.B., LEXINGTON, N.C.

A: The 'little' girl who stars as Gabby Gallagher in CBS-TV's "The Two of Us," is portrayed by seventeen-year-old Dana Hill. Dana, who spends her free time participating in athletics, attends Cal Prep School in Encino, California.

Q: Was Catherine Bach of "Dukes of Hazzard" ever married to Ringo Starr? When was Marianne and Kenny Rogers' baby born and was it a boy or a girl, and what is its name? BEA PNETT, MORGANTON, N.C.

A: You have Catherine confused with actress Barbara Bach, the present Mrs. Ringo Starr. Kenny and Marianne Rogers became the proud parents of a baby boy in early December. They named him Christopher Cody.

Q: What's the address of Donna Dixon of "Bosom Buddies"? Also, whatever happened to Doris Day? A FAN IN CHAPEL HILL, N.C.

A: Contact Donna Dixon in c/o "Bosom Buddies," ABC-TV, 1330 Avenue of the Americas, New York, N.Y. 10019. Doris is planning to make her return to the silver screen in a vehicle reminiscent of the light sex comedies of the '60s. A true lover of animals, she is actively involved in SAVE-A-PET. "All my life I have never felt lonely with a dog I loved by my side," she says.

Q: Is it true that Leon and Jayne Kennedy are getting a divorce? JANET WILLIAMS, FAYETTEVILLE, N.C.

A: Sad, but true — Leon and Jayne Kennedy are divorcing.

Q: Could you give me some information about Robin Williams? A BIG FAN IN MORGANTON, N.C.

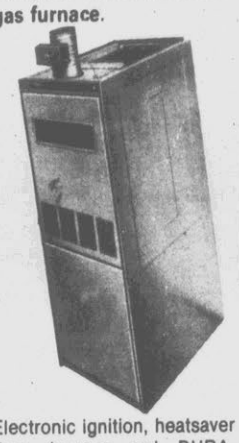

A: "Mork & Mindy's" Emmy nominee, Robin Williams, was raised in Detroit and Chicago, and moved with his family to the San Francisco area his last year of high school. Under a full scholarship to New York's Julliard, Robin studied drama under John Houseman for three years. His first TV exposure came via the latest, short-lived version of "Laugh In" and "The Richard Pryor Show." It was through a guest starring role on "Happy Days" that Mork was transported to us from Ork. Robin's interests include cross-country running, yoga and roller skating. Write to him c/o the series, ABC-TV, 1330 Avenue of the Americas, New York, N.Y. 10019.

Reversing Old Problems

The stigmas placed upon the elderly, as reflected by a 73-year-old widow, are explored in "A Piano for Mrs. Cimino," airing on The CBS Wednesday Night Movies, Feb. 3 (9-11 p.m.).

In the story, Bette Davis stars as Mrs. Esther Cimino, who is despondent over the death of her husband and has withdrawn from the world. Diagnosed as senile by her doctor and deemed incompetent to handle her financial affairs by the court, she is placed by her son, George (George Hearn), in the care of St. Hild's Convalescent Hospital. Meanwhile, without her knowledge, her banker, Edward Leach (Graham Jarvis), is appointed trustee of her estate.

With the help and encouragement of Mrs. Polanski (Penny Fuller), the director of St. Hild's, and the loving support of her granddaughter, Karen (Alexa Kenin), Mrs. Cimino makes excellent progress and recovers from her depression. Once she learns that her home has been sold and her music store placed under new management, she decides to fight for the right to control her own life and regain her integrity.

Appointing a young lawyer, Philip Ryan (Christopher Guest), to represent her, Mrs. Cimino takes her case to the court. But her determination may jeopardize her new-found love for an old friend, Barney (Keenan Wynn).

"This film has great value because this kind of thing happens all the time," Miss Davis said. "It's a huge problem which is happening more and more. I'm very fortunate I have a career. My children are all grown and I miss them fiercely. I don't think anyone likes to grow old. I laugh like mad at the phrase 'life begins at 40!'"

Miss Davis describes herself as "Too enthusiastic. Too energetic." She says she exhausts people because of her obsession to be a perfectionist. "Why can't she ever relax, people wonder?" Miss Davis added. "It's because things matter to me. I'm my own worst enemy, from the standard of perfection. I still care about things."

Police Woman Is Back

In her first series since "Police Woman," Angie Dickinson sticks close to the law as Cassie Holland, a private detective in "Cassie and Co.," airing on Fridays (10-11 p.m.) on NBC.

Cassie has recently divorced her husband, an assistant district attorney, because she couldn't be the social butterfly he wanted for a wife. Cassie then takes over a detective agency and utilizes her skills as a criminologist and plain-clothes officer.

The show will deal with a variety of cases and at times Cassie will develop emotional ties with the people involved. "These are people you really care about," Cassie observed in one of the early shows.

Running characters — friends Cassie will call upon from time to time to help her do things she is not able to — include her ex-husband, Mike Holland (Alex Cord); Shack (John Ireland), a retired detective who lends his expertise when needed; Benny (A. Martinez), a street-wise fellow who runs a gym; and Meryl (Dori Brenner), a 30-year-old ex-convict who works as Cassie's secretary.

Miss Dickinson is a native of North Dakota, but grew up in Burbank, Calif. Her first taste of show business came when she was selected a winner in a television beauty contest. As a result, she made TV appearances with Jimmy Durante and Frank Sinatra. She soon enrolled in the Batami Schneider Acting Workshop in Hollywood.

Miss Dickinson's most notable early movie was Howard Hawk's "Rio Bravo," which starred John Wayne. Her other film work includes "Bramble Bush," with Richard Burton; "Captain Newman, M.D.," with Gregory Peck; "The Killers," with Ronald Reagan and Lee Marvin; and "The Case," with Marlon Brando.

In addition to "Police Woman," for which Miss Dickinson earned a Golden Globe Award and two Emmy nominations, she has starred on television in "Overboard," "A Sensitive, Passionate Man" and "Dial 'M' For Murder."

ANGIE DICKINSON stars as Cassie Holland, head of a private investigation agency, in "Cassie and Co." which airs Fridays (10-11 p.m.) on NBC-TV.

He's Just Like J.R.

Lorenzo Lamas describes his role of Lance Cumson on "Falcon Crest" (Fridays, 10-11 p.m. on CBS) as a "junior J.R.," referring to the ruthless Larry Hagman role on "Dallas."

The 23-year-old Lamas, the son of Fernando Lamas and Arlene Dahl, admits that Cumson creates a lot of trouble in the show. His grandmother Angie (portrayed by Jane Wyman), who has total control of the huge family vineyard, has taught him to be a cutthroat in business and in personal affairs.

"Lance's torn between being ruthless like Angie and doing the right thing for his mom, who is an alcoholic," Lamas said. "I'm a young man grown up searching for his own answers."

Although Angie is played up to be the heavy of the series, Lance is easily swayed in the wrong direction because he is determined to inherit Falcon Crest, the estate and vineyards.

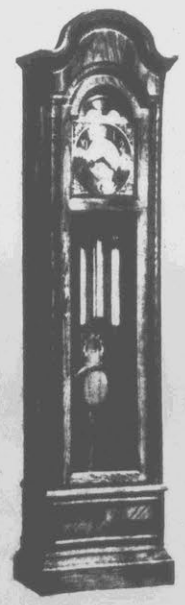

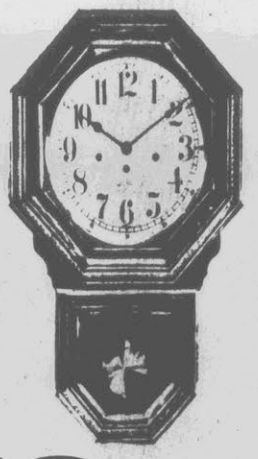

This is Lamas' third series on CBS. His first two — "California Fever" and "Secrets of Midland Heights" — were unsuccessful, which, Lamas said, makes it that much more important that "Falcon Crest" be readily accepted by television audiences.

Bette Davis Socks

A young production assistant was ill-prepared for the harsh weather conditions encountered in Vancouver, B.C., during the filming of "A Piano for Mrs. Cimino," starring Bette Davis. While standing outside, on a cold, wet day, wearing only sheer stockings and open-toed shoes — she was approached by Miss Davis who commanded her to "follow me."

Miss Davis walked to a nearby chair, sat down, and proceeded to take off her boots and remove her socks. Handing them to the astonished girl she said, "Here. Wear these. They're wool. They'll keep your feet warm."

Wages Of Sin

The wages of sin in the NBA can amount to $100 for the first technical foul and $150 if a second is called against the same person in the same game. Utah's coach Frank Layden plans to match all his fines with a donation to the Special Olympics. "I don't try to get technicals, but this will add a new dimension to them," he explained.

Bird's The Word

Earlier this month when Larry Bird dismantled the Detroit Pistons with his extraordinary season-high performance of 40 points, 16 rebounds and seven assists — moving the Boston Celtics into first place in the NBA's Atlantic Division — he proved once again that he is one of the most complete basketball players in the league. This may be the year that Bird edges out Philadelphia's Julius Erving for Most Valuable Player.

Bird's tee-to-green versatility will be on display when the 32nd All-Star game is broadcast on "NBA on CBS." This meeting of the top stars of East versus the stars of the West will be presented on Sunday, Jan. 31 (1-3:30 p.m.). Dick Stockton and Bill Russell will provide the commentary from the Brendan Byrne Arena in East Rutherford, N.J.

Bird helped turn the Celtics into the World Champions last year, only two seasons after he joined the team. In 1978-1979, when Bird was flying high at Indiana State — averaging 28.6 points and 14.9 rebounds — the Celtics had a firm grip on last place in the Atlantic Division.

The year Bird suited up in green, the Celtics had the NBA's best record and went to the Eastern Conference playoff finals. Bird was voted Rookie of the Year, and the Celtics went from cold to hot — the correlation was obvious.

Boston won its 14th NBA Championship in Bird's second season, when he averaged 21.2 points and almost 11 rebounds per game. This year, it's more of the same. Bird has upped all of his statistics and, consequently, the Celtics are rolling.

Pike's Peek

HOLLYWOOD — The on-again off-again romance between BEVERLY SASSOON and ERIK ESTRADA is off again. Together through Christmas and New Year's they have now decided to go their separate ways. "Everything is a matter of timing," says BEVERLY, "and it's time to move on." Professionally she is launching a TV deal with Metromedia; is involved with a beauty product, "Body Contour," for Slim Line, and is writing a book, "Beauty Without Guilt." The parting is "a mutual thing," she says.

DESI ARNAZ is feeling fine after his surgery and is playing golf again. In March he's to be King of the "Carnival Miami." And his new album of hits from the sound track of the "I Love Lucy" series will be released this month. Included in the album is "Babalu," an all-time favorite.

It's not generally known that RICK HILL, currently co-starring with MIKE CONNORS in "Today's FBI," was a star running back at Georgia Tech, but CURT GOWDY didn't forget. RICK has been asked to host a series of sports events highlights, which CURT is producing for syndication.

GOLDIE HAWN is turning a cold shoulder to ex-hubby's (BILL HUDSON) overtures for a reconciliation — his timing must be off.

Tennis champ, JOHN McENROE, has become a member of the Screen Actors Guild — could there be an acting deal in his future?

JOHN SCHNEIDER is giving up his hiatus-time, from filming "Dukes of Hazzard," this year to star in his first feature film, "Eddie Macon's Run," JOHN couldn't be happier, especially since he has resumed dating MELINDA NAUD, his former live-in love. In fact he was so happy, he treated her to a dazzling $10,000 clothes-buying spree.

ASK THEM YOURSELF

Send the question, on a postcard, to "Ask," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N.Y. 10022. We'll pay $5 for published questions. Sorry, we can't answer others.

Wide World

FOR DONALD T. REGAN, Secretary of the Treasury

Will interest rates ever come down below the 10-percent level? What is the present national debt, and what does the yearly interest on it cost the taxpayer? —L.O.B., Santa Fe, N.M.

● It is simply impossible to predict the exact interest-rate level that will be reached. However, interest rates have fallen rapidly since Oct. 1 and I expect them to decline even further in the months ahead. As of Sept. 30, 1981, the public debt outstanding was $997.9 billion. The interest on the public debt totaled $95.6 billion. Using a Census Bureau population estimate of 230 million people in the U.S., the per-capita interest cost on the public debt was $416 during fiscal year 1981.

What makes your book special? —M.G., Little Rock, Ark.

● Of all the fitness books published during the last decade, few have demonstrated thorough research into female physiology. Even fewer have been written by people who know about fitness through decades of pro experience. I wrote this book with the care of a coach preparing her inexperienced team.

FOR OLEG CASSINI, fashion designer

Did you launch anything that flopped? How does a new fashion trend leak out when the designers try to keep it a secret? —S.A., Albany, N.Y.

● I was into men's denim suits in 1965, and there was not much response because the public wasn't ready. Then other people got into it (Ralph Lauren for one) and it became more acceptable. Trends start by gossip in designing room and fashion circles.

FOR JODI THELEN, star of Four Friends

In the film you have three men friends. In real life do you prefer the company of men to women? — J.H., Flint, Mich.

● Yes. I have five older brothers, so from the start I felt more at home with boys. In fact, I've always had an entourage of men, and just one close girl friend whom I've known for 15 years. I prefer men because they're less sensitive.

FROM THE "ASK" EDITOR

Middle age is bad news according to John Chancellor. He calls it "the time you do more and more things for the last time — and less and less things for the first time." His solution? "Instead of calling myself 54, I'll use the Celsius scale, which makes me 12." . . . Meanwhile, Dan Rather has investigated the problem of identifying anchor men at large gatherings: "They're the ones with the dazed looks every time the conversation wanders away from themselves." . . .

Dudley Moore denies the gorgeous sable he gave to Susan Anton was an engagement present ("I'm staying single," he declares). . . . Princess Diana is trying hard to cure her addiction to bubble gum . . . . When Alice Faye and Don Ameche rub shoulders on the Feb. 14 Night of the 100 Stars spectacular, aired from Radio City Music Hall, it will be the first time they've worked together since 1940 when they made the movie Lillian Russell . . . . Paul Newman, currently starring in Absence of Malice, will direct a revival of A Streetcar Named Desire, starring his better half, Joanne Woodward . . . . Word comes that actress Terry Moore has brought a $35-million suit against Howard Hughes's estate because she claims she was married to him at the time of his death. She's also coming out with a book (Howard Be Thy Name) in which she'll tell all about her "late spouse's" sexual antics and power plays . . . . Sean Connery's 18-year-old son, Jason, is treading in Dad's footsteps — he's given himself the green light on an acting career . . . . How does a starlet react to meeting a superstar for the first time? Ragtime's Debbie Allen was a bundle of nerves waiting to get her first glimpse of Jimmy Cagney. Recalls Debbie, "Mr. Cagney was in his short terry bathrobe when we were introduced and I thought, 'He has the prettiest legs I have ever seen.'" . . . With three major illnesses behind him, Sir Laurence Olivier, 74, has no intentions of retiring: "I'll keep working because I like it, and I need the money. I'm a dreadful spender and don't know the meaning of the word 'save.'" . . . Alexander Andreadis, 40, dumped by Christina Onassis for Russia's Sergei Kauzov, closed that chapter of his life by marrying another heiress: Marella Oppenheim, daughter of a London financier.

PRO AND CON

Should Drivers Be Re-tested Periodically?

PRO Charles Livingston, associate administrator for Traffic Safety Programs, National Highway Traffic Safety Administration

The basic premise of driver licensing is that individuals must possess certain minimum knowledge and skills in order to drive safely. When they first apply for a license, they are tested to determine their knowledge. However, laws and road signs change over time and the physical abilities of most people are reduced with age. Thus, re-examinations are designed to assure that motorists retain the level of competence upon which their initial licenses were based.

Send questions of national significance, on a postcard, to "Pro & Con," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N.Y. 10022. We'll pay $10 for those published.

CON Delegate V. Lanny Harchenhorn (R.-Md.), member, Judiciary Committee

It is unnecessary and administering such a program would be prohibitively costly. I also am concerned that senior citizens could be unnecessarily deprived of their only means of transportation, especially in rural and suburban areas, if they were subjected to an overly stringent test. I believe the major cause of people becoming unfit to drive is failing eyesight. Maryland already requires vision tests upon renewal of one's license every four years.

How Strom Thurmond Exercises Power

At 79, and with his G.O.P. controlling the Senate, Thurmond no longer wrestles nor wrangles his colleagues into submission. He's learned that politics is, indeed, the fine art of persuasion.

By Allan Dodds Frank

At 79, Senator Strom Thurmond has done what few men his age have been able to do: He has changed his ways. After 28 years in the Senate, the South Carolina Republican finally has power, rather than mere influence, over his colleagues and the country. And his whole style of doing things seems different.

No longer does Thurmond wrestle a fellow senator to the floor as he did in 1964 when he pinned then-Senator Ralph Yarborough of Texas in a public hallway rather than yield to a plea to attend a committee meeting on a civil-rights bill. No longer does Thurmond oppose a bill by talking continuously on the Senate floor for 24 hours, 18 minutes, a record for filibusters that still stands.

These days, Thurmond works behind the scenes, meeting senators in the cloakroom, smoothing out potential disputes and scheduling legislation with the Republican leaders. If a committee fight is about to erupt, Thurmond temporarily adjourns the meeting, takes the quarrelsome senators aside and explains in his courtly fashion that some other, more polite way can be found to settle the issue.

Why the new man?

It is due in part to President Reagan's victory in 1980, which swept a Republican majority into the Senate for the first time since 1954. Before the election, Thurmond was thinking of retiring, of spending more time with his 35-year-old wife and their four young children. But because of the change in majority, Thurmond replaced Senator Edward Kennedy, a Democrat, as chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee, generally regarded as more important than any other committee except Rules and Appropriations. With his new power, Thurmond finally has begun exercising his will and slyly utilizing all the subtle (and not-so-subtle) lessons he learned while losing hundreds of legislative battles. Now he's even contemplating running for re-election in 1984.

"There are lots of things to do," says Thurmond. "You can't undo everything the Democrats have done in 28 years in just one or two years. But we're turning this thing [the country] around."

Thurmond, as the senior member of the Judiciary Committee, also enjoys the privilege of serving as President Pro Tempore of the Senate. In addition, he is a ranking member of the fourth-ranking committee, Armed Services, and gains clout from his spot in the Senate leadership. Among Republicans, Thurmond has served the longest.

And he has the ear of the President: He meets with Reagan two or three times a week, and calls him when the need arises.

Thurmond has surprised some Senate observers with his flexibility, his recently found moderate stance (once widely viewed as an ardent segregationist, he is now regarded by some as a moderate pragmatist) and his even-handed treatment of Democrats and junior senators in committee. Says Senator Paul Laxalt, the Nevada Republican powerhouse who is the President's best friend in the Senate: "He has been very responsible and it was a great surprise to a lot of us, but he hasn't been the least bit arbitrary."

An example of the Senator's effectiveness: When Sandra Day O'Connor was confirmed by the Senate as a Supreme Court Justice, no one voted against her, thanks largely to Thurmond. By permitting Senator Jeremiah Denton, a freshman Republican from Alabama, to voice his concerns before television cameras in committee about O'Connor's stand on abortion, Thurmond secured Denton's promise that he would not blemish the committee's record by voting "nay." Instead, Denton voted "present" in committee and, after another dose of Thurmond's Southern persuasion, voted "ay" on the Senate floor.

Thurmond says he listened extensively to Denton and talked softly to him. "I explained to him that the people of the country wanted a lady," says Thurmond, "and that the President had nominated this particular lady because she is well qualified. If you talk to people in the right tone and the right way, they see you're not trying to pressure them, to impose your will. In other words, you persuade them."

This wasn't always Thurmond's approach, however. During his nearly three decades on the political sidelines, he most frequently made his mark either as a cantankerous maverick (he switched from Democrat to Republican in midcareer to support his friend Barry Goldwater for President in 1964) or as an unyielding symbol of the Old South.

His special combination of wildness and political savvy shone through, particularly in his personal life. In 1947, while beginning his term as Governor of South Carolina, the 45-year-old Thurmond shocked his constituents by marrying Jean Elko, a 21-year-old bobby-soxer who at the time was president of the senior class at Winthrop College in Rock Hill, S.C. The marriage took, and the first Mrs. Thurmond proved to be an adept campaigner who became immensely popular before dying of a brain tumor in 1960.

Again, in 1969, Thurmond left many people stunned — and brought tears to the eyes of old men everywhere — when, against the advice of his political advisers, he married Nancy Moore, a 22-year-old former Miss South Carolina. "Some of my advisers said it would be politically damaging for me to marry this young beauty queen," recalls Thurmond. "There were headlines all over the country about the Senator marrying a bathing beauty."

But again, Thurmond had chosen well. "Politically, I think people just trusted me," the Senator remarks. "They took a wait-and-see attitude. As time went by, Nancy began to win them over fast. Now she is extremely popular in South Carolina and Washington." So popular has the smart and pretty Mrs. Thurmond become that many people believe she, not her husband, will be the 1984 Senate Republican candidate in South Carolina.

Regardless of whose name will actually be on the ballot, Nancy Thurmond is her husband's biggest supporter. "After Strom had been here 28 years, to suddenly have the Republicans in the majority was a great renaissance, a new beginning," she explains. "He is very enthusiastic. He sees many of the things he's been preaching all these years — like the limited use of power at the Federal level — being implemented."

Not everyone is impressed. To Thurmond's critics, all this new power simply means the Senator is more of a menace than ever. As chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee, he presides over the most wide-ranging forum for the politics of the "New

Observations

We asked for it! And we got it—an outpouring of your frank opinions, suggestions for "Observations," even a sculptor's offer of his life-size bust of a favorite from Mobil's "Masterpiece Theatre." Rose the maid on Upstairs, Downstairs. Mostly, last November's invitation to tell us what was on your minds brought hundreds of questions—some easy, like "How many gallons in a barrel?" (42 if you mean oil, but 31 for fermented beverages). Some hard: "I dare you to tell the whole story of petroleum economics." We'll try, bit by bit, in future "Observations." OK?

You asked: Since the gasoline lines of 1973-1974, "has the USA done one single thing to make us less vulnerable?" Sure: Americans are conserving more, government is filling the Strategic Petroleum Reserve, and record numbers of new oil wells are being drilled in the U.S. as a result of the lifting of price controls. What about "making gasoline from coal?" Well, our scientists have invented a way to convert wood alcohol made from coal (or natural gas, or biomass) directly into high-octane, lead-free gasoline (though making gasoline from crude oil is still significantly more economical). But shouldn't America "explore all possible alternatives?" another reader asks. Of course. That's why we're working on things that might make a significant contribution to America's energy supplies—from shale to solar power.

"Charles, how come we never talk anymore?"

Cries and whiskers. We don't think it's a good idea, however, to generate power by having dogs chase a cat on a treadmill hooked to a generator, as our mid-November cartoon suggested: not only are felines and their letter-writing friends due our apology, but also reassurance that the two resident cats you see here will keep an eye on future columns. And thanks to careful readers who pointed out that Columbus couldn't have navigated to the New World with a sextant (as we suggested in October) since that instrument wasn't invented until the 1700s. Sorry.

Real catcalls. As for the 20-odd out-and-out boos we got, well, we'll just keep trying to set out the facts. Really, though: "monopolistic" hardly describes an industry in which more than 40,000 companies (not counting service stations) seek, produce, refine, distribute and sell oil and its products. Take just the major oil companies and you still have an industry much less concentrated than autos, or steel, or aluminum, or even cereal makers...or TV networks. Thanks, of course, for the much more numerous compliments. One from the Rev. Charles R. Threewit really caught our eye since he was trained as a petroleum engineer and now is an Episcopal priest: "Hang in there," he wrote. "I will always believe that we need to challenge politicians and others who make irresponsible statements." Amen.

It's a fact: How much does Mobil make on every gallon of petroleum products it sells around the world? Just 6.4 cents in the 12 months through last Sept. 30, down from 6.7 cents in 1980.

"From a civil rights and civil liberties point of view, he remains a substantial threat," says John Shattuck, national legislative director of the American Civil Liberties Union. "I'm afraid I can't give Senator Thurmond even quietly good marks, but he's fair. He knows to be open with people, then vote them down."

There are many who work for the Democratic minority on the Judiciary Committee who believe Thurmond is changing things drastically. They argue that he's not really a new man, but that, being powerful, he can afford to appear gracious and above the fray.

Thurmond's committee is indeed an important one. The power to examine the constitutionality of almost any bill gives Judiciary a broad hold on legislation. Thurmond referees the battleground for some of the most extreme senators of both the political left and right. He could make the committee his soapbox, but has refrained from much grandstanding so far. He has been content to sit in the middle, controlling the docket and carefully monitoring the political drift of the Senate and the country.

When the former iconoclast directs his committee, he focuses on diminishing the power of the Federal Government, which he regards as dangerously out of control. "The Federal Government has gotten into every facet of people's lives and is going into areas where it doesn't really have the authority," he says. "Government is best when it is closest to the people. It now takes a 20-percent toll to get the [tax] money up here and send it back to help them."

But as long as the Federal Government is handing out money and he can't stop it, Thurmond makes certain that his constituents get their share of the pork barrel.

As a chairman, Thurmond tries "to avoid the necessity" of getting in a public tussle with gadfly members who behave as he once did. He understands their motives, though, because "when you're not a chairman, you do more freelance." He claims he would still filibuster if necessary but smiles broadly to indicate that having power enables one to work more quietly. "Probably now," he says, "I would be able to get others to cooperate."

Though he cut the Judiciary Committee staff considerably when he took over, Thurmond still has more than 50 staff members in his Senate and committee offices. He runs a loyal, hard-working team that pays attention to details, like sending personal letters from the Senator to every couple in South Carolina whose 25th wedding anniversary is mentioned in a hometown newspaper. Thurmond also attends to details at home, where he frequently discusses politics with his wife after they have put the children (Nancy Moore, 10; Strom II, 9; Julie, 7, and Paul, 6) to bed.

"Strom has a lot of energy," says Nancy Thurmond. "Even when he was a solo vote, a 'naysayer' so to speak, it didn't dampen his spirits or his joie de vivre. He's committed."

Thurmond and his wife skillfully work the Washington social whirl, where many decisions are made away from public view. Comments Mrs. Thurmond, "We're not a part of the jet-set social scene, but there is a great deal of communication that goes on, not only between the legislators themselves but between the legislators and Administration members and diplomatic members. Debate and decision are influenced by friendships, and I guess debate and decision would affect the outcome, which is power."

The nearly year-round schedule of the Senate and the high cost of airfare mean that the Thurmonds spend most of their time at their McLean, Va., home rather than at Thurmond's voting residence in Aiken, S.C. The Senator jogs every morning and the children follow him on their bikes.

Thurmond says his secret for a long, happy life is simple: Once he's dealt with a problem, he simply puts it aside. "I just do the best I can and don't worry about it," he says. "When it's time to go to bed, I go right to sleep." FW

MONEY

Investment Tips From Paul Samuelson

By Merrie Spaeth

Every family wants a safe way to inflation-proof its hard-earned nest egg. But because there are so many investment options available today, it can be difficult to tell which one best suits your needs. For some concrete guidelines, FAMILY WEEKLY spoke to

Samuelson: Take stock and diversify.

Dr. Paul A. Samuelson, professor of economics at M.I.T. Dr. Samuelson received the Nobel Memorial Prize in Economic Science in 1970 and has been awarded dozens of other major prizes, fellowships and honorary degrees. His experience as a professor, researcher, writer and consultant to almost every President since World War II has provided him with an excellent perspective on investing.

Q: Dr. Samuelson, if a family has a few thousand dollars saved, but its members are not financial experts, what's the sensible way for it to invest? (Assuming that the money is for future use — downpayment on a house, college, retirement.)

A: My advice is to diversify. Don't put all your eggs in one basket, however good it may be. Do three things:

One, hold a nest egg on deposit at your local savings and loan bank, but get a NOW account: one that pays you interest and still lets you write checks to pay your bills. What funds you don't need for monthly transactions, invest in certificates of deposit [the most popular varieties range from six months to two-and-a-half years]. The minimum investment is about $500, although it varies. The return now is about double the interest rate for a passbook savings account.

Two, buy common stocks through mutual funds. [These are large funds, set up by brokerage houses, which are invested in the common stock of many companies. By buying shares in a mutual fund, you can hold a greater variety of stocks than you could probably hold individually and there is less risk of loss because your investment is diversified.]

Three, get top interest rates from one of the several large money market funds. Your investment is 100 percent liquid — cashable on demand — and you can draw on it overnight if you need it for an emergency.

A: No one can dictate the magic proportions. It depends on the family's tolerance for risk and reward. Personally, my nightmare is inflation. So for me, the prudent mix is this: 50 percent in no-load [no sales commission] common stock mutual funds; 30 percent in large money market funds, and 20 percent in an insured bank deposit. (If you don't sleep well at night, you might put a third in each of these areas.) This recipe won't make you rich overnight, but it should be recession-proof.

Q: What about the new "All Savers" certificates?

A: Forget the "All Savers" certificates if you're single, unless your income is over $20,000. For a couple, even if each partner is earning that much, they haven't much to gain. [The interest on "All Savers" certificates is tax-free but unless you're in a high enough tax bracket you may be better off with an investment that is taxed but pays a higher yield.]

Q: What are some common investment mistakes to avoid?

A: The most tempting one is putting all of your nest egg in a passbook account at your local bank. These have been a rotten deal for 15 years. Why take 5 to 6 percent interest annually when prices are rising at 8 to 10 percent a year, and you can get 10 percent or more with safety?

Q: How about savings bonds? Should a family be patriotic?

A: These have long been the second worst investment. Now the Government admits that and is making plans to improve the interest rates paid. Until it does, common sense says to pass them up.

Q: Finally, how about investing in gold? Or stamps? Or antiques?

A: Only the few smartest and quickest end up ahead in those investments. Why risk your nest egg? FW

The World Wildlife Fund announces . . .

Baby Animals of the World

THIMBLE COLLECTION

February 28, 1982.

Wildlife brings a special beauty into our world – and among the most appealing of all wild creatures are baby animals. At play, they seem as high-spirited as children . . . with a grace and gentleness that has delighted artists since time began.

Now, this charm has been captured in the fascinating form of miniature portraits in a new collection issued by the World Wildlife Fund – the Baby Animals of the World Thimble Collection. To create the art for this collection, one of the world's finest wildlife artists, Peter Barrett, has been commissioned. Each thimble portrays a different baby animal, shown in its natural surroundings. And Barrett's talent makes every animal portrait come alive.

Look at the thimble portraying the baby koalas perched in a eucalyptus tree. Barrett has deftly captured the softness of their fur . . . and even the quizzical expressions on their faces. Or examine the three frisky fox cubs with their fluffy tails and alertly pointed ears. Every one of the animals in these original designs is just as appealing.

Peter Barrett's art is especially captivating in miniature. For when you hold one of these thimbles . . . turn it to admire it from every angle . . . you'll be continually fascinated by the fine detail. And you'll be intrigued by the special features that give each animal its own personality.

The thimbles will be crafted for the World Wildlife Fund by Franklin Porcelain in fine bone china . . . the "aristocrat of porcelains." And each thimble will be encircled top and bottom with a hand-painted border of pure 24 karat gold. Yet the price for each thimble is just $12.50 – exceptionally reasonable for a collection of this quality and beauty.

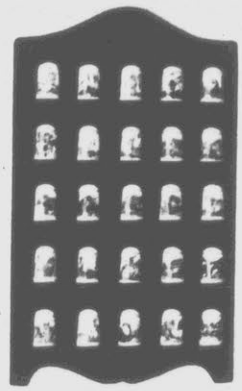

Issued in limited edition

To show these delightful thimbles to best advantage, you will receive a hardwood display shelf at no extra charge. In any room of your home, collection will add a special touch of beaut certain to be admired and enjoyed.

Baby Animals of the World will be issue limited edition, available only until the en 1982. And the accompanying application is only if postmarked by February 28, 1982 – please be sure to mail it to the World Wil Fund, c/o Franklin Porcelain, Franklin Cente 19091 by that date.

FOOD

Let's Spill the Beans Into the Soup Kettle

These hearty bean soups might be just what you're looking for to please your palate and pocketbook.

By Marilyn Hansen

HUNGARIAN BEAN SOUP

1 pound dry navy beans
6 cups water
1½ lbs. smoked, boneless pork butt
2 large onions, chopped
3 cloves garlic, minced
6 cups water
¼ cup paprika
2 teaspoons caraway seeds
1½ teaspoons salt
1 cup sour cream
Fresh parsley sprigs

1. Place beans in large saucepan with 6 cups water; bring to boiling; boil 2 minutes; remove from heat; allow to stand for 1 hour.
2. Add remaining ingredients to beans and cooking liquid except for sour cream and parsley. Bring to boiling; cover and simmer 3 hours or until beans are cooked.
3. Remove pork; cut into small pieces. Skim fat off soup. Stir in sour cream; return pork to soup. Cook over low heat until heated through but do not boil. Garnish with parsley. Makes 3 quarts

GREAT LAKES MINESTRONE SOUP

2 cups (1 lb.) dry navy beans
3 qts. water
4 tablespoons vegetable oil
¾ cup finely chopped carrots
½ cup finely chopped onion
½ cup finely chopped celery
1 clove garlic, minced
2½ cups diced zucchini
1 pkg. (10 ozs.) frozen cut green beans, thawed
1 (¾-lb.) smoked ham hock or slab bacon
2 beef bouillon cubes
1 teaspoon basil leaves
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon oregano leaves
½ teaspoon ground black pepper
1 can (28 ozs.) whole tomatoes, drained
½ cup uncooked pastina macaroni
Grated Parmesan cheese

1. Place navy beans in large soup pot with water. Bring to boiling; boil 2 minutes; remove from heat and let stand 1 hour.
2. Meanwhile, heat oil in large soup pot. Add carrots, onion, celery and garlic. Sauté until vegetables are tender, about 5 minutes. Stir in zucchini and green beans. Cook, stirring occasionally, for 5 minutes.
3. Stir in navy beans and their soaking liquid, ham hock, bouillon, basil, salt, oregano and pepper. Cover, bring to boiling; reduce heat and simmer until beans are tender, about 1 hour.
4. Stir in tomatoes and pastina. Continue to simmer 30 minutes or until macaroni is tender. Stir occasionally. Remove ham hock, dice meat and return meat to soup. Serve with grated Parmesan cheese.

Makes 4 quarts

BLACK BEAN SOUP

2 qts. water
2 ozs. pork, diced
2 ozs. veal, diced
½ small onion
½ bay leaf
1 clove garlic
¼ teaspoon basil leaves
1 rib celery, finely chopped
1 qt. consommé
Salt
Few twists freshly ground black pepper
½ cup finely chopped, fully cooked smoked ham

1. Soak beans overnight in 1 quart water.
2. Next day, turn beans and water into Dutch oven or 3-quart saucepan. Bring to boiling, reduce heat and simmer covered 1½ to 2 hours or until tender.
3. In separate saucepan, place pork, veal, onion, bay leaf, garlic, basil, celery and remaining 1 quart water. Heat to boiling, reduce heat and simmer covered until meat is very tender, about 1 hour. Meat should stay covered with water. If it boils away, add more water.
4. When beans are tender, strain. Reserve cooking liquid. Place beans in food processor or blender with ¼ cup cooking liquid and process until puréed.
5. Turn puréed beans into 3-quart saucepan. Add consommé, and salt and pepper to taste. Bring to boiling, reduce heat and simmer, uncovered, for about 1 hour. Strain; return to saucepan.
6. Drain cooked meats and seasonings. Remove bay leaf; discard. Turn meat, seasonings and ¼ cup of cooking liquid into food processor and process until puréed; add to bean mixture.
7. Heat soup to boiling, stirring. Taste, adding salt and pepper if you wish.
8. Serve with chopped ham on top.

Makes 1 quart

That's right! 4–6 inches starting the very first day! Science has known about this principle for years. In fact, right now, professional and amateur athletes the world over are using it in their training programs. And many famous entertainers who have to trim down fast rely on this method. Now, you can melt away inches from your waist, your hips—anywhere!

Don't Hold Fat In . . . Lose It!

Plastics and elastics are merely flimsy imitations. Girdles just squeeze it in. But the Shrink Wrap System takes it off fast! The belt is adjustable, so you can put isometrics to work toning loose muscle tissue whenever you want. And, our easy exercise program helps you shed unsightly inches even more rapidly.

If you want to go even further, your waistline, hips and other problem areas will continue to shrink when you use the Shrink Wrap System lo-cal eating plans that won't leave you hungry. You can use it as often as you need it to keep those inches off. It's working right now for thousands of satisfied buyers and it can be working for you, if you order now!

Here are the impressive stories (all sworn and notarized) of a few outstanding users. Everyone may not do as well, but if they can do this well, just think how many pounds and inches you will lose quickly with the Shrink Wrap System!

"I lost 6 inches in 16 days!"
Doug Fink of Asheville, North Carolina

"I've lost 5" from my waist and 6" from my hips over a 12 day period. My weight loss was 18 lbs."
Dr. J. Lee Briers of New Castle, Delaware

"I lost 5 inches off my waist & 5 inches off my hips! I am amazed at the way the Shrink Wrap System works. I'll recommend it to everyone!" Helena Smith of Vandalia, Mich.

"The Shrink Wrap System worked miracles! 18½" off my waist, 16" off my hips, all in only 8 months. Shrink Wrap even helped me to stop overeating and stop snacking. I lost 124 pounds! I'm a new woman!"
Ms. Loretta Dene Fair, Pontiac, Mich.

"I lost 9 pounds & 4 inches off my waist in 2 weeks! It's just unbelievable that it took so little time and effort to produce such amazing results!"
Robert N. Nilsen of Mechanicsburg, Pennsylvania

"I went from a size 20½ dress down to a 12! With Shrink Wrap, the exercise program and a sensible diet, I lost 52 pounds! I lost 8 inches from my waist and 11 inches from my hips! Now, I tell all my friends about the Shrink Wrap System!" Mrs. Mildred C. Cable, Land O'Lakes, Fla.

Announcing The 'TRIPLE GOLD' Limited Edition (special release honoring the 250th anniversary of his birth)

GEORGE WASHINGTON 250-YEAR COMMEMORATIVE

complete commemorative set electroplated with GENUINE 24-KARAT GOLD!

GOLDEN PRESIDENTIAL MEDAL

plus

GOLDEN WASHINGTON 'CROSSING THE DELAWARE' INGOT

plus

GOLDEN MINT-STRUCK, DOUBLE-DATED GEORGE WASHINGTON COIN

"The FATHER of His Country"
CAPTURED FOREVER IN THE PRICELESS BEAUTY OF GOLD!

To commemorate the 250th anniversary of his birth, the National Collectors Archives, one of America's foremost private coin repositories, has made arrangements to obtain a limited run of the first, uncirculated 1982 George Washington coins scheduled for public release by the U.S. Mint . . . will have them die-struck and double-dated, (1732–1982) in honor of this 250-year-old milestone event PLUS, our matching die-struck, mint-condition George Washington Presidential Commemorative Medal—and will have them plated in GENUINE 24-KARAT GOLD, mounted and accompanied by a serially-numbered Certificate of Authenticity, (also stamped in genuine 14-karat gold)—certifying to the provenance of each coin as an original mint-struck, uncirculated, U.S. Govt. issue—designed by the Chief Engraver of the United States Mint in honor of our country's greatest leader!

SERIALLY NUMBERED CERTIFICATE OF AUTHENTICITY STAMPED IN GENUINE GOLD!

Immediately after the first day of release by the Govt. each of these original, mint-struck coins—plus our Presidential Medals and Ingots honoring this beloved national hero will be electroplated with the enduring gleaming beauty of real 24-KARAT gold ". . . which truly makes this unique offering a most cherished collectible every American family will be proud to own . . . to display . . . and to pass along to the heirs and inheritors of the future America to which George Washington dedicated his life. Also, the entire 'Triple-Gold' Commemorative is presented in a special die-cut collectors presentation case, along with a serially numbered, stamped in genuine, 14-Karat-Gold Certificate of Authenticity. Truly a collectible for every home . . . a treasured and inspiring keepsake for generations to come.

'TRIPLE-GOLD' 250-YEAR COMMEMORATIVE —THE FIRST OF ITS KIND IN U.S. HISTORY!

To further enhance the lasting value of this Commemorative Set, we have also had commissioned and included a raised-relief, a die-struck, mint-state Commemorative Ingot . . . plated in Genuine 24-Karat Gold . . . depicting the magnificent etching and engraving in the famous 'Washington Crossing the Delaware' postage stamp; this is perhaps the most unique piece of the 'Triple-Gold' 250-Year Commemorative, since this special postal commemorative from which it is conceived is no longer issued by the Govt. and is only available through dealers, collectors or at auctions to the trade.

OVER 6 SQUARE INCHES OF PURE GOLD COVERAGE!

Considering that this is the first time ever that a 250-Year 'Triple-Gold Commemorative of our most popular and inspiring leader has ever been made available . . . we feel this Limited Edition is destined to become one of the most treasured collectibles you've ever acquired . . . certainly one of the richest-looking commemoratives you could possibly display.

FIRST TIME AVAILABLE! BUT ORDER QUICKLY— PRICE GUARANTEED FOR ONLY 30 DAYS!

However, the National Collectors Archives can only guarantee to fill your order for this Golden Edition at this offering price of only $9.95 per set for a period of no longer than 30 days following the date of this publication. Orders will be filled on a first-come, first-served basis after release of the George Washington coin by the U.S. Mint. And if for any reason you are not completely satisfied with your 'Triple-Gold' Centennial Commemorative Set you may return it within 14 days to the National Collectors Archives for a full refund, (less postage and handling, of course). However, no orders can possibly be accepted after the end of the 250th anniversary year at which time the entire 'Triple-Gold' Limited Edition will no longer be available except of course through dealers, collectors or at auctions . . . at whatever price the market will bear. To make sure you do not miss out, send the Priority Advance Reservation form below immediately.

RESERVATION PROCEDURE

Reservations are now being accepted for this historic 24-Karat Gold Plated 'Triple-Gold' 250-Year Commemorative Set. While every effort will be made to meet demand, all reservations can be filled on the priority system described above, based on date received.

IMPORTANT NOTE: Many people like yourself desire lower serial numbers. The serial number you receive will be determined by the date we receive your order. And of course, lowest assigned serial numbers are always shipped first. This is especially important if you intend to order several sets to pass on to your friends or loved ones as gifts and as treasured family heirlooms.

CRAFTS

Easy Tube Knitting

By Rosalyn Abrevaya

Knit a dozen items with one simple technique. Tube knitting is not only unusual, but also easy, requiring only that you know the basic knit and purl stitches. You can make hats, scarves, purses, eyeglass cases, slipper socks, mittens and gloves in a jiffy. And when completed, tube knitting is just as pretty on the wrong side as the right side.

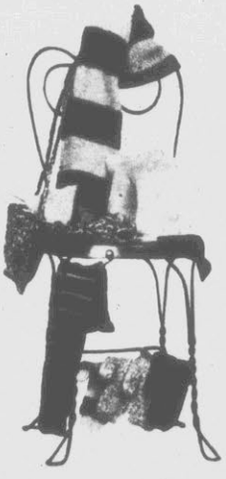

Scarves have always been easy to make, but the tube-knit scarf is special because it will lay flat, something that most handknit scarves refuse to do.

You can tube-knit a long scarf-hat, a twin-peaked cap or a hat that's reversible — with each side a different color or solid reversing to stripes. You can also delight a child by turning a twin-peaked cap into a "cat hat": Embroider eyes and some whiskers on one side and then turn the twin peaks sideways so that they resemble little ears.

Complete instructions for all of the items mentioned, with photographs and illustrations, are available in the "Tube Knitting" booklet, #352. For your copy send $1.25 plus 25¢ postage and handling to:

Family Weekly Magazine, P.O. Box 438, Dept. C, Midtown Station, New York, N.Y. 10018

Be sure to include leaflet number, your name, address and ZIP code. (New York State residents, please add sales tax.)

QUIPS & QUOTES

ARMOUR'S ARMOURY

ONE OF EACH

What makes a happy married life,
What makes a perfect pair?
Well, there are many things a wife
And husband have to share.

But if I had to choose just one,
Their talking it would be,
If both were talkers, I'd say none
Of that, as they'd soon see.

Both listeners? That I aver
Brings dullness and frustration.

A talker and a listener?
The perfect combination.

—Robert Orben

The eyes have it: A man walked into the office of the registrar to declare the birth of a son. "The child's Christian name?" the clerk inquired.

"Xrtrdcjkz," replied the father.

THE BODY

Bald Can Be Beautiful

By Susan Gordon

On a Tonight Show appearance last year, Burt Reynolds took plenty of people by surprise. Though self-assured and sexy as ever, there was one big difference in his looks: Reynolds had a receding hairline. He candidly admitted that he had worn a toupee for years, but a director had encouraged him to remove it for a movie they were working on.

Wide World

By taking it all off, Reynolds demonstrated three things: One, baldness can be sexy. Two, it's not unmasculine to wear a wig. Three, although medical science has accomplished many miracles, it has gone nowhere in its attempt to cure baldness.

About half the male population can expect to go bald to some extent. Male-pattern baldness (alopecia), the typical male hair loss, begins with a thinning of hair and eventually results in a "fringe of Caesar," a ring of hair above the ears and around the back of the head.

Male-pattern baldness is an inherited trait that can be passed on by either parent, but because it is sex-limited — the male hormone testosterone must be present for it to take effect — it afflicts men, not women. (Women who inherit the trait will experience an all-over thinning of hair but will not go bald.) Certain conditions such as stress or chemotherapy can cause hair loss, but this loss can be reversed. Male-pattern baldness cannot.

Balding takes place as the hair follicles miniaturize, producing hair that's much finer and shorter than before. It begins any time from the late teens until the age of 40. "If a man hasn't started to go bald by 40, he doesn't have the gene for baldness," says Dr. Vera H. Price, associate clinical professor of dermatology at the University of California, San Francisco, and a pioneer in the study of hair loss.

Susan Gordon is a freelance writer specializing in health issues.

If a man does have the gene, what can he do? First, the bad news: According to the Food and Drug Administration (F.D.A.), no product on the market that claims to reverse balding is effective. Amino acids, essential oils, protein and vitamins are all useless.

In 1979 the F.D.A. closed down all businesses that performed synthetic hair implants — the implantation of colored fibers into the scalp — after investigating many complaints from consumers. The synthetic fibers were invariably rejected as foreign objects by the scalp, which in many cases became seriously infected.

Implants, however, should not be confused with hair transplants (here's the good news), which are a safe, surgical method of permanently replacing hair. Hair transplants were first performed 20 years ago by Dr. Norman Orentreich, a New York City dermatologist, and the technique is now a routine office procedure performed by dermatologists or plastic surgeons on patients under a local anesthetic. Small pieces of scalp, called punch grafts or plugs, about four millimeters in diameter, are taken from the back of the head where hair still grows and are then transplanted to the top of the head.

The procedure may involve several sittings of an hour or more. Within five to seven days the patient can shampoo. But it will take six months to a year before hair is long enough to style, cautions Dr. Carlton L. Carpenter Jr., clinical professor of dermatology at Louisiana State University School of Medicine. At about $15 a plug transplants are expensive.

A similar procedure, a flap operation, performed by some plastic surgeons, involves transplanting wide strips of hair, but this surgery requires hospitalization. A hair piece is a satisfactory option for many men and when made of human hair, it can look very natural. Hair weaving is another temporary approach. Human hair is anchored with tiny knots to the hair that remains on the scalp. The process must be repeated every two months though, as the hair grows out.

Hair-growth research is currently being conducted in the United States and Europe, and two drugs being developed hold some hope for slowing down baldness. FW

Sadat Peace Coin

January 1982, Philadelphia. IMM announced today the release for sale of one of the rarest and most important silver coins to have been minted in recent history. The Sadat Peace Coin—struck in .720 fine silver and measuring a large crown size 35mm —was issued as legal tender in 1980 by the Egyptian Government. Struck for peace, in commemoration of the Camp David Accord, where the Peace Treaty between Egypt and Israel was signed on March 29, 1979. Moreover, the coin honors Egypt's Nobel Prize winning president, Anwar Sadat, with a magnificently detailed portrait. Only 100,000 of the Sadat Peace Coins were struck, making it a mintage that is quite literally hundreds of times rarer than U.S. Silver Dollars of the past. International Monetary Mint is offering these large brilliant uncirculated Sadat crowns at the Special Investor Opportunity price of only $25 each. You may never have a better opportunity to own this highly sought after coin. Investors who respond from this publication may purchase from 1 to 10 individual Sadat coins at this price. Because of the extremely limited number available, orders will be filled on a first-come, first-served basis with a strict limit of 10 coins per customer. All Sadat Peace Treaty Commemorative Crowns are accompanied by a certificate of authenticity and are fully guaranteed. Coins classified "Brilliant Uncirculated" have never been placed in general circulation and are still in mint state condition.

To qualify for this offering call Lee Collins toll free at 1-800-345-8502 (in Pennsylvania call our Special Operator at 1-800-662-5180), Dept. SC-1547 for credit card orders, or send check or money order to: International Monetary Mint, Dept. SC-1547, 390 Pike Road, Huntingdon Valley, PA 19006. An additional $2.75 is requested to cover insurance, postage, and special handling. If not satisfied, you may return your Sadat Peace Coins in their original condition within 14 days for a full refund. This offer expires February 15, 1982. ©1982 IMM, Inc.

MUSIC

Hall and Oates Doing It Their Way

By Ken Paulson

Their friendship was born in an elevator going down, but Daryl Hall and John Oates now find themselves soaring to the top.

The hottest rock duo of the 80's, Hall and Oates are riding a streak of hits including "Kiss On My List," "Private Eyes" and "I Can't Go For That." Their Voices album sold two million copies last year and their latest, Private Eyes, is selling just as briskly.

It's hard to believe now, but during the late 70's, the duo hit a three-year dry spell and not one of their singles dented the Top 40. Hall, 31, says the slump gave them a chance to reevaluate their music. "It's very hard when you have people breathing down your neck saying, 'If you don't sell as many copies of this one as you sold of the last one, you're slipping.'"

Barbra Walz

Oates & Hall: Soulful and successful.

During their "down period," Hall and Oates worked on developing a rougher edge to their music, eliminating the outside producers and slick California studio musicians who were molding their sound. They began producing their own records, working out of their New York City apartments. "That was the best thing that ever happened," says Oates, 30. "It's like we started our career all over again."

The two have been friends for 15 years. Both grew up in Pennsylvania: Hall in Pottstown and Oates in North Wales. They met in 1966 at a sock hop in Philadelphia where their respective neighborhood bands were to appear. While the performers waited backstage, two gunshots rang out and a free-for-all erupted on the dance floor. "Everybody split," recalls Oates. "We all ran out the back and Daryl and I met in a service elevator going down. We became friends at that point."

By 1971 that chance meeting had evolved into a musical partnership. After experimenting with electric folk, Philadelphia soul and futuristic rock, the duo broke through in 1976 with the single "Sara Smile."

Hall wrote the song for Sara Allen, his sometime co-writer and companion now for eight years. Although he laughingly concedes that "she was distinctly underwhelmed," a disc jockey in Ohio was considerably more enthusiastic. He began playing the tune off a year-old album. Soon the station was swamped with calls, and the duo's record company was similarly flooded with requests.

That fluke ignited Hall and Oates's career. "She's Gone" and "Rich Girl" soon made their distinctive brand of rock/rhythm and blues a staple of AM radio.

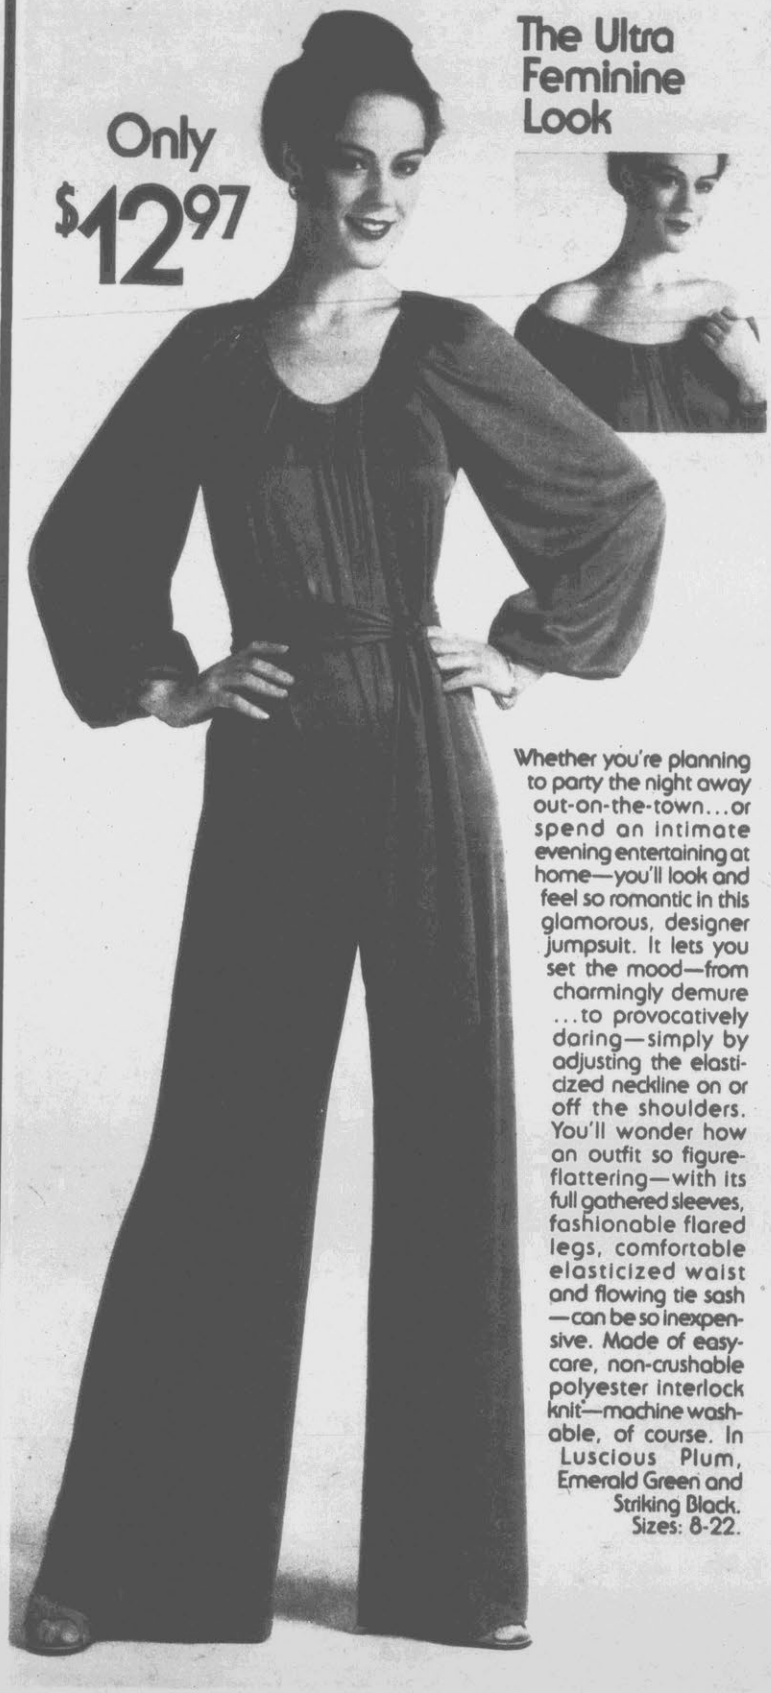

With their newfound success, though, came a label that irked them: "blue-eyed soul," a phrase long used to describe white rhythm and blues artists. "I think it's a racist term," Hall says. "It's something that white people dreamed up because they can't relate to soul coming from themselves." In time, Hall and Oates learned to laugh at the image, even recording a new version of "You've Lost That Lovin' Feelin'," a 1964 hit for the original "blue-eyed soul" pair, the Righteous Brothers.

The pair's personal lives revolve around their music, but Hall is a voracious reader with a love of history and collects antique armor. He's also the proud owner of two macaws, Ralph and Alice, named after the lead characters on The Honeymooners. ("One of them doesn't shut up and the other one never talks," he explains.)

Oates enjoys skiing, playing racquetball and watching auto races. "I like to do things that take my mind and grab it so completely that I have no time to think about music," he says.

Although Hall has recorded a solo album, Sacred Songs, and Oates has plans for one, they see no end in sight for their partnership. "We have a distinctive sound developed and you don't want to screw around with that," says Oates. "The door has been opened for us and it doesn't stay open long. Let's face it — AM success is such a fickle thing." FW

Whether you're planning to party the night away out-on-the-town...or spend an intimate evening entertaining at home—you'll look and feel so romantic in this glamorous, designer jumpsuit. It lets you set the mood—from charmingly demure ...to provocatively daring—simply by adjusting the elasticized neckline on or off the shoulders. You'll wonder how an outfit so figure-flattering—with its full gathered sleeves, fashionable flared legs, comfortable elasticized waist and flowing tie sash—can be so inexpensive. Made of easy-care, non-crushable polyester interlock knit—machine washable, of course. In Luscious Plum, Emerald Green and Striking Black. Sizes: 8-22.

WHAT IN THE WORLD

By Eliot Kaplan

He wasn't lying, by George.

THE TRUTH ABOUT LYING

For centuries we've looked for easy ways to spot the liars amongst us, from the ancient Chinese practice of forcing a suspect to chew dry rice powder and see if he could salivate, to the modern-day polygraph.

And we've wondered: Can you unmask a liar just by looking at and listening to him? According to one expert, the answer is yes — and no. While an assistant professor at Cornell, Robert Kraut found that certain signals can provide slight tip-offs that someone is fibbing. "They might increase your chances of guessing right from 50-50 to 60-40," he notes. Kraut says your best bet is listening to someone on the phone because such clues as pauses and incorrect words are better predictors than nonverbal cues like blinking, fidgeting or lack of eye contact.

As to who can best spot a liar, "The old adage about kids having a special instinct is not true," says Kraut. "Adults are better at both lying and detecting it, if not thanks to practice then because they are better communicators in general."

DRINKING BY THINKING

When it comes to the effects of alcohol, what's in your mind may be more important than what's in your glass. According to new research, people will act in certain stereotypical ways when they think they're drinking alcohol, even if they're consuming nothing stronger than tonic water. And, conversely, when people are actually drinking vodka but think it's tonic, they'll act relatively sober.

As reported recently in Psychology Today, psychologists G. Alan Marlatt and Damaris J. Rohsenow found that men become more aggressive, more sexually aroused and less anxious in social situations when they believe they're drinking booze, even if it's really just tonic. Similarly deceived women reported feeling more sexually aroused, although physiological monitoring actually found them to be less so. These women also became more nervous socially, which researchers attribute to the lack of confidence many women have in controlling alcohol's effects.

Furthermore, in testing alcoholics, it was found that those expecting alcohol but getting tonic began acting intoxicated and stumbling around the room — one man even tried to make a date with a female researcher. Meanwhile, alcoholics expecting tonic but getting vodka still had the "shakes" and craved liquor, even after consuming the equivalent of double vodkas.

SELF-EXAM HINTS

It's been proven that breast self-examination can detect potential problems early and save countless lives. Now research at the University of Florida suggests that early evening is the best time for women to examine their breasts. Women's fingers seem to be slightly more sensitive between 3 P.M. and 9 P.M. reports U.F. grad student Priya Neelakatan. But Neelakatan could find no specific time during a woman's monthly cycle when her breasts are more sensitive. A woman may be very sensitive one day but not the next during the same menstrual phase, she reports.

CUBE STAKES

For that sadistic fellow who invented Rubik's Cube, one good turn deserves another. It seems Hungarian professor Erno Rubik recently dropped in on the International Othello Championships in Brussels and, since Othello is his favorite game, decided to challenge the world's top players. Here, he takes on American champ Brian Rose, a 17-year-old New Yorker who finished second overall. We are pleased to announce that when it came to Othello, Brian, who can solve the Cube in a most respectable 2½ minutes, thoroughly trounced Professor Rubik, who was then heard to mutter that famous Hungarian retort (by way of Brooklyn), "Wait till next year!"

BENEFITS OF RADIATION?

Contrary to popular belief, very low levels of radiation may actually be good for you, asserts a professor of biochemistry at the University of Missouri.

After reviewing thousands of experiments, Dr. T.D. Luckey found that once exposed to low levels of radiation, insects and laboratory mice grew faster and lived longer, silkworms produced 20 percent more silk and monkeys learned faster. He also found that radiation could increase fertility and help organisms ward off infection.

Luckey concedes that too much radiation can be harmful but says other scientists have been studying radiation levels 100 times those he is talking about. Conversely, low levels of radiation trigger the body's defenses, he believes, "putting it on the alert." He theorizes that each organism has an optimum level of radiation below which it doesn't get enough and above which is dangerous. In man this point may be 10 times the normal radiation we receive from the air, sun, water and minerals around us — an added dosage equal to a few chest X-rays each year, he says.

ARE YOU UNDER STRESS? Fight Tension Without Drugs!

"STRESS FIGHTERS" tablets have been specially formulated to replenish nutritional losses due to stress

You may not know it, but right now at this very moment your body may be coping with a stressful situation. Sometimes we do not even realize it until we snap at those we love!

Your body is under stress when you are overworking, very worried or have emotional strain within your family or on your job. When stress reaches an excessive level it tends to rob the body of certain essential nutrients which are vitally involved in the healthful performance of virtually every part of the body. These nutrients are not stored in the body and must be replaced daily.

"STRESS FIGHTERS" tablets have been specifically designed to help restore depleted supplies of the nutritional factors lost due to emotional and environmental stress. Stress isn't limited to executives—your entire family may benefit from "STRESS FIGHTERS" tablets.

Check the box in the order blank and return it with an order for any of the products in this ad and we will include a month's supply of "STRESS FIGHTERS" tablets FREE.

VERY SPECIAL — 100 FT. RED TWIG

DOGWOOD HEDGE

Only 20 for $2.98

Some shrubs give beautiful spring flowers, others give nice summer foliage, and most seem to wither away unattractively each winter. But these hardy Red Twig Dogwood (Cornus Stolonifera) have beautiful clusters of white flowers in the spring, loads of lush green leaves in the summer, and in the winter, when you expect a drab yard, they put on a fiery show of color with their bright red stems contrasting against the snow — an outstanding year around hedge! You get nice 1 to 2 foot well rooted nursery grown shrubs. Grow to 6 feet, but can be trimmed for a beautiful hedge.
Stock No. 726.

● SUM BUNCH! Several members of the pesky Jones family lament that their mother pays them for being good while their older brother is GOO DFOR NOT HING. Rearrange cap-letter spacing for sense.

● Tree Hunt! Name a tree with each change: 1. Change the first letter of YAK. 2. Change the last letter of PINK. 3. Change the middle letter of BENCH. 4. Change first and last letters of CINDER.

1. Oak 2. Pine 3. Beech 4. Linden

● Simple Math! Find a number such that when 12 is added to its double, the result will be 28. Answer in 30 seconds, if you can.

The answer is eight!

● Low-Q Test! Which Dutch city is named for an animal? Hamsterdam. Which vegetable is named for a bird? Asparrowgus. Which animal is named for a source of energy? The oiliphant.

Prince Valiant

CREATED BY HAL FOSTER

Our Story: BELISARIUS NEEDS WATER. PRINCE VALIANT AND SIR GAWAIN NEED TO KEEP HIM FROM IT, DELAYING HIM UNTIL THEY LEARN THE PURPOSE OF THE IMPERIAL ARMY HE HAS QUIETLY GATHERED. THEY HAVE BEAT HIM TO THE ANCIENT CISTERN AT JAWA. AND THEY HAVE FOUND THE PLUG.

"IT WAS WORKED FROM THE OUTSIDE," VAL EXPLAINS. BUT TIME HAS SEALED THE BOULDER TO THE GREAT MOUND OF JAWA.

BELISARIUS IS NO MORE THAN A DAY AWAY. DESPERATION HONES VAL'S MEMORY. HE REMEMBERS THE QUARRIES. QUICKLY HE GATHERS DEAD SCRUB AS GAWAIN SHARPENS THE WOOD INTO PEGS AND SOAKS THEM IN WATER. THEY DRIVE THE PEGS INTO CRACKS.

BELISARIUS IS THREE LEAGUES AWAY WHEN HE SEES THE BRACKEN RIVULETS COURSING THROUGH THE WADIS. THE WATER COULD COME FROM ONLY ONE PLACE, AND HE CURSES THE GODS. NOW HE MUST COME OUT OF HIDING, RACE TO DAMASCUS FOR WATER. AND HE ENTERTAINS A RARE THOUGHT: "I HAVE MET AN EQUAL."

TWO DAYS LATER, WHEN THE ARMY HAS PASSED, THE BLACK DESERT BURSTS INTO FLOWER, TRICKED INTO THINKING IT HAS RAINED.
