Expects Pres. Reagan To Sound Retreat

By CLIFF HAAS

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite President Reagan's refusal to "sound retreat" on his embattled economic program, one of his key congressional allies says it "must be assumed" Reagan knows he will have to accept changes.

Hinting at one possible change, Bob Dole, R-Kan., said Sunday that "we can do a lot with the 3-year tax cut" Congress enacted last year for individuals.

For example, Dole suggested that one way to increase tax revenues would be to forgo the 10 percent rate cut scheduled for next year and instead begin "indexing," or tying personal tax rate changes to inflation. Under the current law, indexing is not scheduled to begin until 1985.

"We'd pick up $3 billion in '83 and about $15 billion in '84 just with that (indexing) change," Dole said.

Dole, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, was interviewed on CBS' "Face the Nation."

Deputy White House press secretary Larry Speakes today called Dole's idea "an interesting concept," but added that he had not spoken with Reagan about it.

"The president has very strong feelings about the tax cut and leaving it in place and not tampering with it," Speakes said. "He's said many times over we hardly have any of the program in place yet. We just can't take piecemeal ideas from the Hill."

Reagan has strongly resisted suggestions that major changes be made in the tax reductions Congress passed last year. But many legislators have argued that revenues must be raised to trim deficits, which the president's budget proposal projects at $98.6 billion this year, $91.5 billion for fiscal 1983 and $82 billion for 1984.

The Congressional Budget Office last week predicted that Reagan's proposed 1983 budget would actually carry with it a deficit of $111 billion this year, $121 billion in 1983 and $129 billion in 1984.

The president told the Conservative Political Conference Friday night, "We are standing by our program, we will not turn back, or sound retreat, just as we near victory."

But Dole, asked whether Reagan would accept changes, said, "I think that must be assumed."

Dole — who along with other GOP members of the Finance Committee was meeting with Reagan at the White House this afternoon — added: "It would seem to me ... that he (Reagan) knows that sooner or later there's going to be an arrangement or an accommodation."

Dole also predicted that Congress may reduce cost-of-living increases for some benefit programs, such as Social Security, to trim the huge deficits projected in Reagan's budget recommendations.

Opponents of Reagan's economic program got fresh ammunition over the weekend with release of a Congressional Budget Office study that concluded families with incomes below $20,000 suffer almost two-thirds of the social program cutbacks while getting only 15 percent of the tax savings under Reagan's economic plan.

Administration officials have contended their program of cutting both taxes and non-defense spending will spur investment and a sizable upturn in economic growth.

Dole acknowledged Sunday that Reagan's budget often is seen as unfair to the poor while giving breaks to the wealthy.

"I find the perception is fairly widespread and I think to some degree it's accurate because we are looking at a number of social programs" and benefit programs as targets for additional cuts in the president's budget.

In addition, Dole indicated that a bill raising the $1079 trillion limit on federal debt is a likely vehicle for carrying most of the economic program to be passed this year by Congress.

Administration officials have predicted the debt ceiling will be reached in mid-May, meaning Congress will have to raise the figure to keep the government operating.

Cheese Moving

"Today's slow," Social Services Director Ed Garrison said of the giving away of U.S. Department of Agriculture surplus cheese that began today at the Department of Social Services. "We don't expect over about 60 pickups today."

Tomorrow Garrison said he believes representatives of about 700 households will accept five-pound blocks of cheese. Some 4,500 households are expected to be served in all within the next three weeks.

About eight volunteers from the community per day are helping man the activity, he said. "These are people we really appreciate."

Blasts Rock Wall Street

By JUDIE GLAVE

Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — A Puerto Rican nationalist group claimed responsibility for setting off powerful bombs that rocked the two major stock exchanges and other buildings along Wall Street but caused no injuries, police said early today.

The four blasts — which sources said packed the power of three or four sticks of dynamite — shattered windows at the New York Stock Exchange and surrounding buildings and blew out part of a wall at the American Stock Exchange shortly before midnight Sunday, police said.

Both exchanges were open for normal trading today.

Meanwhile, a demonstration was scheduled today by another organization to commemorate the 28th anniversary of the attack on Congress, in which Puerto Rican nationalists opened fire on legislators from the visitors' gallery of the House of Representatives. Five congressmen were wounded.

The demonstrators, organized by the New Movement in Solidarity with Puerto Rican Independence and Socialism, planned to rally outside the federal prison in lower Manhattan to demand the release of two men imprisoned in Puerto Rico for refusing to cooperate with a grand jury there.

Shortly after the explosions, the FAIR took responsibility in a neatly typed five-page communique which was discovered taped to a telephone booth on Manhattan's Upper West Side, Sgt. Edward LeSchack, a police department spokesman, said early today.

"The FAIR assumes full responsibility for the bombings which have occurred in the financial section of Wall Street on Sunday, Feb. 28, 1982," the letter said. Police dusted it for fingerprints.

The communique also decried "Yankee imperialism" and "Yankee capitalism," police said. No demands were made and there were no warnings of more blasts.

It also referred to the aborted $1.6 million Brink's heist in Rockland County last Oct. 20 where a Brink's guard and two police officers were killed: "We also wish to express our solidarity with the three North Americans captured in the Brink's expropriation (sic)."

The first explosion occurred at 11:25 p.m. Sunday at the Merrill Lynch Building at 1 Liberty Plaza, LeSchack said. The second and third blasts at the New York Stock Exchange at 20 Broad Street and the Chase Manhattan bank at 1 Chase Plaza occurred at 11:35 p.m., he said. The fourth hit the American Stock Exchange at 81 Trinity Place at 11:55 p.m.

Five minutes after the final blast, a man telephoned The Associated Press and claimed to be from the FAIR.

"Listen to me closely. I'm only going to repeat this once," the caller said. "This is the FAIR. We just left a communique at 91st Street and Riverside Drive."

Portrait Unveiled Of Sheppard Memorial's Former Librarian

By JERRY RAYNOR

Reflector Staff Writer

Friends, family members, library board members and county and city officials were on hand Sunday afternoon for the unveiling of a portrait of Miss Elizabeth Copeland, librarian of Sheppard Memorial Library from September 1954 until her retirement in February 1981.

The unveiling ceremony of the portrait painted by Greenville artist Sarah Blakeslee Speight took place in the upstairs North Carolina Room at Sheppard.

Dr. Ed Clement, a former chairman of the library board, praised Miss Copeland for dedicated service and her tenacity in getting city and county support to make the library the finest public library in North Carolina. He cited the building expansion, the addition of art and music holdings for library patrons, the business reference services and other features as some of the results of her devoted, untiring efforts to give the public a rich, well-rounded library service.

Several family members — a sister from Edenton, a cousin from Burlington, nephews and nieces from Edenton, Nags Head and Wilmington, as well as friends from Ahoskie, where Miss Copeland grew up, attended the ceremony.

One of the nephews, John Richardson of Wilmington, unveiled the portrait.

James Ebron, current chairman of the library board, accepted the portrait on behalf of the library. "It is an honor to have this fine portrait to remind us of the service Miss Copeland has given the library," Ebron said.

The prayer of dedication for the portrait was given by Rev. Lawrence P. (Pat) Houston, pastor of St. Paul's Episcopal Church.

Among those instrumental in making presentation of the portrait possible were Larry Graham, Mrs. Kay Whichard, Mrs. Sara Sugg and Mrs. Chris Waldrop. Born in Tarboro, Miss Copeland grew up in Ahoskie. She did her undergraduate work at East Carolina University and completed graduate studies at Peabody College, Vanderbilt University, Nashville, Tenn. Prior to becoming librarian for the tri-county Beaufort-Hyde-Martin Library, Miss Copeland was a market research specialist for Curtis Publishing Company in Philadelphia.

During her years at Sheppard Library, she was active in state library circles, serving on committees and holding office at state level. Currently, Miss Copeland is coordinator of the project to prepare for publication a local history, "The Chronicles of Pitt County."

The portrait of Miss Copeland, which shows the subject seated at a paper and book filled table with shelves of books in the background, will be displayed in Sheppard Library at some place where it can be seen by the public.

Small Island Now Airbase

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A top Pentagon official says leftist-ruled Grenada, a tiny Caribbean island nation, "has become an airbase available to the Soviet Union."

Dr. Fred C. Ikle, undersecretary of defense for policy, made that cryptic remark to the Senate Armed Services Committee in listing what he said were Soviet gains around the world.

Although Ikle did not elaborate in his recent testimony, it was learned that a new, secret U.S. intelligence report quotes Grenada's minister of national mobilization as saying a big new airfield — being built with major Cuban help — would be used by Soviet and Cuban planes.

U.S. intelligence sources, who declined to be identified, said the statement by the government minister, identified only as "Strachan," was the first confirmation that the air base would be used for anything except the tourist trade, which is the way it was advertised when construction started in 1979.

Selwyn Strachan is Grenada's minister of mobilization. The U.S. intelligence report did not make clear when or where the remark attributed to him was made.

Grenada is strategically located on the eastern rim of the Caribbean, north of Venezuela.

Although the Reagan administration has concentrated its public statements of concern on what it says are Cuban-backed guerrilla movements in Central America, this administration and the Carter administration before it have been worried about perceived Cuban efforts to establish footholds among small and impoverished island nations in the Caribbean.

Nearly three years ago, a coup by the leftist "New Jewel Movement," headed by Maurice Bishop, took control of Grenada, which became independent in 1974 after having been a British colony.

Within months of the coup, U.S. intelligence detected the arrival of Cuban military personnel, who reports said were establishing training and security missions there.

One of the first visible signs of Cuban activity was the start of construction in January 1980 of a new airport. U.S. intelligence has been watching the progress of this airport ever since and now says that, although still under construction, it has a completed asphalt runway stretching nearly two miles and is capable of handling Soviet and Cuban transports and other large aircraft.

The United States recently concluded a deal to sell F-16 fighter planes to Venezuela and administration officials have justified the sale before Congress by saying the planes are necessary to help protect Venezuela against

Report Chancellor Selection List Is Narrowed

By STUART SAVAGE

Reflector Staff Writer

Members of East Carolina University's Board of Trustees held a relatively short public meeting here Sunday afternoon before going into executive session to discuss personnel matters — including a report from the school's chancellor selection committee which met yesterday morning.

Informed sources close to the committee reported that the selection group has narrowed the field of 148 applicants for the post to a list of "less than 10" names. Preliminary interviews will cut the list to three, four or five finalists, and the hope is that by May 1, two names will be submitted to University of North Carolina president William Friday for consideration as the new chancellor.

In other business yesterday, trustee Mrs. Robert (Katie) Morgan was named to the university's Endowment Board and board member James Maynard was re-elected to his endowment board post.

The board also approved the construction of a bus shelter on the north side of the Education and Psychology Building.

Vice-chancellor Dr. William Laupus reported that the medical school's Brody Building should be completed by mid-May. He also reported that the dedication of the medical science building is tentatively scheduled for October 29.

Laupus said too, that planning for the medical school's radiation therapy center is well under way. Tentative plans, he reported, call for the center to contain some 18,000 square feet and be large enough to hold three linear accelerators, although only two such units will be installed initially.

Dr. Elmer E. Meyer, vice-chancellor for student life, reported that changes in financial aid programs should have little effect on students entering school in the Fall of this year. However, he expressed concern over the effect of proposed cuts in aid programs for students in school in the Fall of 1983.

Acting chancellor Dr. Robert Howell told members of the board the planning commission report has been received and said a site visit by representatives of the Southern Association of Schools and Colleges has been scheduled for March 14-17.

Williams Fears Effect Of 'Closing The Books'

By DAVID PACE

Associated Press Writer

ATLANTA (AP) — Wayne B. Williams fears he could lose his chance to be cleared of his two murder convictions if the books are closed on most of the slayings of young blacks that horrified Atlanta for nearly two years, his lawyer says.

Alvin Binder, the Mississippi lawyer who headed Williams' defense during a sensational nine-week trial, said Sunday that Williams was upset over reports that authorities now plan to close the books on 27 slayings. Binder said Williams hoped the investigation would continue so he would be exonerated.

A Superior Court jury deliberated 12 hours

Friday and Saturday before finding the 23-year-old free-lance photographer and aspiring talent scout guilty of murder in the deaths of Nathaniel Cater, 27, and Jimmy Ray Payne, 21.

Judge Clarence Cooper sentenced Williams to two consecutive life terms in prison. Under Georgia law, Williams would be eligible for a parole review in seven years.

Cater and Payne were among 28 young blacks whose deaths during a 22-month period were investigated by a special police task force.

A source close to that investigation said Sunday that authorities have evidence linking Williams to as many as 24 slayings on the task force list, in addition to the two he was convicted of committing.

And the Atlanta Journal reported Sunday police also intend to close the books on the slaying of John Howard Porter, whose death was investigated by the task force but was not added to its official list.

Prosecutors at Williams' trial introduced evidence in the slaying of Porter and nine youths on the task force list in an effort to show a pattern of killings that included Cater and Payne.

District Attorney Lewis Slaton denied Sunday police have linked Williams to 27 killings, saying that number is "too high." He refused to say how many cases would be closed due to the convictions.

De Kalb County District Attorney Bob Wilson said Sunday he believed authorities in DeKalb and Rockdale counties will attribute six of their unsolved murders to Williams, four of which were linked to the defendant during his trial.

But Wilson said he did not expect to seek additional charges against Williams. He said he would meet with Slaton today to take a look at the evidence.

Robbie Hamrick, who headed the Georgia Bureau of Investigation's role in the task force, said Sunday officials from seven police jurisdictions would meet this week to decide the status of the remaining cases on the task force list.

Farm Scene

Questions arise each spring concerning lawns and lawn care, especially as the weather begins to improve. As weather gets better, increasing soil and air temperature causes weeds to become much more visible. The month of March is the worst month of the year as far as warm-season grasses are concerned.

During March, the warm-season grasses such as Bermudagrass, centipedegrass, St. Augustine and zoysia are still sleeping through their dormant period. Winter weeds, however, such as dandelion, chickweed, henbit, wild garlic (also known as wild onion) and annual lespedeza are reaching maturity and are in full clumpy glory.

The cool-season grasses, notably tall fescue, (Kentucky 31) annual ryegrass and fire fescues are growing well during March and compete better against springtime weeds. However, during the summer, the cool-season grasses will be overshadowed by summer annual weeds.

But for the time at hand, the weeds visible in the lawn now can be controlled with proper use of the appropriate herbicide or weed killer. There are no grassy weeds at present except for annual bluegrass or poa annua. Most of the weeds are broadleaved plants and can be controlled with one or more applications or a broadleaf weed killer. Many of the weeds can be controlled by using a "chickweed killer." Herbicides are sold under a variety of names and labels and they contain various amounts of one, two or three chemicals.

Some weeds can be controlled with one chemical but other weeds are immune and require another chemical. Still other weeds require a third chemical because the first two do not give effective results. An example of this situation is that dandelion and wild onion are easily controlled with 2,4-D. Chickweed is not affected by 2,4-D but will be killed by dicamba, another herbicide. Often the third herbicide, MCPP or mecoprop, is added to 2,4-D and dicamba to give broad spectrum control.

In using any lawn weed killer, the user must be sure to read the label on the pesticide and know that the herbicide will or will not control the particular weed. It is equally important that the weed be properly identified before purchasing the chemical. If questions of weed identification or choice of herbicide come up, contact your local agricultural extension office.

Trumpeter Charlie Spivak Dies In S.C.

GREENVILLE, S.C. (AP) — Charlie Spivak, Russian-born trumpeter who was a band leader during the "Big Band" era, died today. He was 75.

Spivak, who had been suffering from cancer, died at his home near Caesar's Head near the North Carolina border.

Born in Kiev, Russia, on Feb. 17, 1907, Spivak came to the United States when he was 3 years old. Raised in New Haven, Conn., he began playing the trumpet when he was 16.

In the 1920s, he played with Ben Pollack's band. In 1935, he joined with the Dorsey Band, which led to a job with the Ray Noble U.S. Band.

Spivak's dream of starting his own band was realized in 1941, with the aid of a man he called his "guardian angel," fellow band leader Glenn Miller.

After 17 successful years on the road, the 27-member Charlie Spivak band based in Miami, Fla. But in 1967, Spivak gave his first performance at Ye Olde Fireplace in Greenville. The next year, the band leader started a two-week engagement that lasted 11½ years.

"I love the town. I think the people are super," he told the Greenville Piedmont in an interview in 1978.

The only member of his original band to accompany Spivak on his move to Greenville was saxophone player Charlie Russo. Russo was killed in May 1975 during a robbery at the restaurant.

Late last year, Spivak was hospitalized for removal of a malignant tumor near his ribs. During his 5-week hospital stay, doctors discovered cancer in Spivak's spine and he was given radiation treatment.

"I'm going to lick this thing," Spivak said earlier this year.

Survivors include his wife, Wilma H. "Dubby" Spivak, two daughters, two sons, a stepson, two sisters and nine grandchildren.

Funeral arrangements have not been announced.

Are you overweight or a cigarette smoker? Have you tried to lose weight or stop smoking, only to fail time and time again? If you find yourself answering "yes" to either of these questions then the Techniques for Living Seminar, under the direction of Wade M. Genthner F.A.I.H. at the Holiday Inn Memorial Drive will be the place for you to be on Saturday, March 6. Techniques For Living will be conducting their famous Lose Weight - Stop Smoking Seminar which has helped thousands of people throughout the United States. Techniques For Living is a national organization dedicated to helping Americans solve these and other problems that have kept them from enjoying their lives to the fullest.

The subject of numerous newspaper and magazine articles as well as television appearances, Mr. Genthner and his staff have been conducting these seminars throughout the country. In a comprehensive and fascinating three hour program, those who attend the seminar experience the relaxing and beneficial effects of clinical hypnosis

NOTED HYPNOTISTS IN GREENVILLE TO HELP SMOKERS & THE OVERWEIGHT

Not only do people permanently lose weight and stop smoking as a result of the seminar, they also report that they sleep better, feel more energetic, and generally enjoy life more than they had previously.

Mr. Genthner's skill in clinical hypnosis was noted by Dan Rather of CBS' "60 Minutes", who referred to him in a nationally televised report as a well-trained and highly experienced hypnotist.

"Clinical hypnosis is the easiest way there is to solve these problems", Genthner says. "Simply put, it helps to eliminate these types of problems permanently."

Genthner says that the reason clinical hypnosis is so successful is that "it removes the causes of problems, not just the symptoms." For example, he explains: "People who are overweight go on diets. A diet is only good for as long as you can follow it. Once you stop the diet you re-gain the weight. Hypnosis is permanent because it eliminates the causes of overeating, not just the symptoms." The same holds true for smokers where the need to prevent cravings for cigarettes or weight gain is just as important. Both problems are covered at the seminar, and each seminar leader is personally trained by Mr. Genthner. Further information can be obtained by calling, toll free 1-800-645-5454.

Charge Man With Brother's Murder In Sunday's Violence

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

Two persons are in Pitt Memorial Hospital in satisfactory condition today — one under police guard — following a cutting and shooting incident, at 711 North Greene Street Sunday afternoon that resulted in the death of a third man.

Chief Glenn Cannon said Steve Higson, 39, of 711 North Greene St., has been charged with murder in the death of his brother, James Earl Higson, 42, of Route 5, Greenville. He has also been charged with assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill after allegedly cutting his sister-in-law, Patricia Stocks Higson, 38, with a knife.

The chief said Higson allegedly stabbed his brother in the chest about 3:55 p.m. shortly after his brother, his brother's wife and their son drove up to his Greene Street home.

Cannon said as the Higson brothers struggled — James Earl Higson still the car — Patricia Higson attempted to separate the two men, finally striking Steve Higson with a bottle.

The Higsons' 15-year-old son then jumped from the car, ran into Higson's apartment and returned with a .20 gauge shotgun.

After firing a warning shot into the air, the youth shot Higson in the left side as he allegedly advanced on him with the knife, Cannon said.

The chief said no charges have been brought against the boy and Higson is under police guard at the hospital.

Investigation is continuing in the case, Cannon noted.

Collisions Investigated By Police

An estimated $12,350 property damage resulted from three traffic collisions investigated by Greenville police Sunday.

Officers said heaviest damage resulted from a 2:40 p.m. collision at the intersection of Greenville Boulevard and Charles Street, involving cars driven by James Warren Allgood Jr. of Beaufort, and Andrew Paul Wilson of 109D Cherry Court.

Police, who charged Allgood with failing to see his intended movement could be made in safety, estimated damage at $5,000 to the Allgood car and $1,200 to the Wilson vehicle.

Cars driven by Alice Ruth Brown of Stratford Arms Apartments and John Charles Sherrill Jr. of 315C Scott Dorm, collided about 1:20 a.m., on Charles Street, 150 feet south of the Stratford Road intersection, causing $3,000 damage to the Brown car, $2,000 damage to the Sherrill car and $50 damage to a utility pole.

Police charged Sherrill with failing to reduce his speed enough to avoid an accident following investigation of the mishap.

Kenneth Ray Harris of 208 West Gum Road was charged with failing to see his intended movement could be made in safety following investigation of a 2:05 p.m. collision on James Street, 150 feet north of the Ninth Street intersection.

Investigators reported the Harris car collided with a car driven by Vivian Evelyn Snyder of Route 4, High Point, causing an estimated $400 damage to the Harris car and $700 damage to the Snyder vehicle.

OVERWEIGHT?

Do you want shots administered to you, when they haven't been approved by the F.D.A.? Are you tired of struggling to lose weight only to gain it back?

Before you take another shot, buy another pill, before you clip another magazine diet, before you skip one more meal - stop... ask yourself if this is the way you want to spend the rest of your life. Look beyond your desire to lose a few pounds and consider the fact that there is only one way to lose weight and keep it off. You have to change your eating habits - not just while you are dieting, but permanently. No shot, no pill, no miracle formula, and no fad diet is going to do that for you... You have to do that for yourself. And the best way to lose weight is through education.

At Diet Center you will receive private, daily support from a counselor who cares and understands. She knows what it takes to make those permanent changes because she has done it herself. You will learn how your body functions and just how satisfying a nutritionally balanced diet really is. You will lose weight quickly and safely without hunger or loss of energy.

In just 10 years Diet Center has grown to over 1,100 locations all across the United States and Canada. We've grown this big, this fast for one basic reason... OUR PROGRAM WORKS!

At Diet Center you'll lose 17 to 25 pounds in 6 weeks. If necessary, that rate of reduction can be sustained until you have lost 50, 75 or even 100 pounds and more. And all this is accomplished without shots, drugs, stimulants or prepackaged foods. No wonder more and more doctors are prescribing Diet Center for their patients who need to lose weight.

When you decide to lose weight, call Diet Center for a free introductory consultation. We think you'll decide to try Diet Center, and when you do you'll find that this is the last weight loss program you'll ever need.

SPRING BASKETS

Pat's Pointers

By Pat Trexler

Even if it's still wintry outside, you'll have a touch of spring in your heart while making these charming Spring Baskets with pastel plastic canvas and brightly colored yarns.

Easter eggs and baby chicks will delight your favorite little one, while the floral motif baskets are eye-catching center pieces for a special party meal. Use them later as flower containers or "clutter catchers" wherever you want a cheery touch of color.

These are quick-and-easy spring projects, using only simple tent stitch or cross stitch for the design areas. No background stitches are needed on the pastel canvas. Fancy stitches can be used for borders, but are not necessary.

To obtain beginner-easy directions for making the Spring Baskets, send your request for Leaflet No. N-2282 with $1 and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to: Pat Trexler ("The Daily Reflector"), P.O. Box 810, North Myrtle Beach, S.C. 29582.

Or you may order Kit No. KN-2282 by sending a check or money order for $11 to Pat Trexler at the same address. The kit price includes shipping charges and contains full instructions and sufficient materials for making three baskets. Dear Readers: A few weeks ago, I used a letter in this column from Norma Lancaster of Bangor, Maine. Norma had lost the use of her left hand and wondered if any of my readers had overcome such a handicap and were still able to enjoy needlework. I heard from some of you and forwarded your information to her. More of you responded directly to Norma — so many of you, in fact, that she had to write a form letter of thanks. She was kind enough to send me a copy and it is something that I feel I must share with all of my readers.

"Dear Friends: When Pat Trexler published my letter in her column, I could not believe your response. Each day the postman arrived was like Christmas. After all of the shocking news we read, it was a great satisfaction to learn that there are so many who really care about others. Never have I seen such kindness, thoughtfulness and sincerity.

"Each of you wrote a personal letter. Some were sad, but all were full of hope. Over all, each one was a pleasure to read. I shall keep them and reread them many times ... especially on the 'blue days' they will be an inspiration to me.

"The various types of handwork suggested were limitless. There were suggestions and aids for familiar ones as well as ideas for some I have never tried. No handicapped person need ever sit back and wish for something to do. There were so many original and creative ideas that I can hardly wait to get these fingers going. Never did I realize how many people live with their handicaps and how many articles there are for them to use.

"The ages of all of you were as varied as your suggestions, ranging from 27 to 88. Both genders were represented as men, too, have found satisfaction in needlework, knitting and crocheting. Professional people working as librarians or therapists, as well as volunteers, sent ideas and lists of books available.

"A form letter is not the most adequate way to express my thanks. However, I hope that you will forgive me. My writing is more laborious since my stroke and it would take at least a year to answer so many of you — then I would not have time for crafts!

"From your clippings and ideas for frames, our local needlepoint expert designed one especially suited to my needs. A local carpenter constructed a standing frame that I have already used. It's wonderful.

"Thank you. Thank you. Thank you. You have opened new avenues of endeavor for me. Never shall my right hand be idle again. Pat Trexler was right! She said that craft people were exceptionally kind. She really knew her readers. God bless you, everyone. In all sincerity, Norma Lancaster."

And thank you, Norma, for sharing the warmth and beauty of your soul with us.

Was Gift Check Ever Cashed?

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1982 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: I want to ask "Unenlightened Uncle," who didn't know whether his nephew had received his gift of a $100 check until he asked the boy's father six months later, a question:

Was the check ever cashed? Did you look at the endorsement?

I, too, sent a check to my nephew as a gift, and on the back it was endorsed: "Dear Uncle, thank you, with love" ... then the boy's signature.

UNCLE LOU IN PETALUMA, CALIF.

DEAR ABBY: I am a middle-aged, married professional woman with a problem that is beginning to affect my sanity. Three years ago I foolishly started an affair with a man of a different race. He's attractive, intelligent and very talented, but he can't hold a job because he's an alcoholic. When he's sober, he's a decent, gentle man who wouldn't harm a fly, but when he's drunk he is unpredictable! He gets mean and violent, and he's even threatened to kill me if I stop seeing him. I've paid his rent, bought him clothes, given him money and begged him to leave me alone, but I can't get rid of him.

I've been wanting to drop him for two years, but I'm terrified that he may expose me, or maybe kill me!

Lately when he gets drunk he's started calling me at home. Every time my phone rings, I tremble. I am a total wreck. I can't go on giving him money to keep him quiet. I have a fine husband and nearly grown children who would die if they knew about this.

Please help me. I am desperate. I trust you to ...

KEEP ME ANONYMOUS

DEAR KEEP: You must tell your husband that three years ago you foolishly became involved with another man (his race is irrelevant), and you are now being blackmailed. Then tell your former friend that if he ever comes near you, or phones you, drunk or sober, you will have the police pick him up and he will be charged with harassment, blackmail and threat of bodily harm.

As difficult as this may seem, it is the only way to free yourself from this terrible nightmare.

DEAR ABBY: I don't care for dirty jokes, especially in mixed company, but I never know how to act when I hear one. (I'm a young married woman.)

Should I keep my face straight and pretend I don't understand? (That would seem rather foolish.) Or should I politely laugh along with everyone else?

I'm afraid if I make an issue of it and bluntly say I don't care for dirty jokes, people will think I'm a poor sport or a prude.

SUZIE

DEAR SUZIE: Don't allow anything that offends you to be said in your presence without challenging

it. (Silence implies approval.) Respectable people will respect you, and you needn't worry about the others.

DEAR ABBY: Here are the facts: A friend of mine plans to marry a Korean woman with the understanding that they will not live together — it will just be a marriage of convenience. The Korean woman wants to come to this country and set up a business, and for the opportunity to do this, she is willing to pay my friend (an American citizen) $2,500 to marry her.

The woman has agreed to divorce my friend after she accomplishes her objective. What is your opinion of such a marriage?

WONDERING IN ARIZONA

DEAR WONDERING: Never mind my opinion, your friend should consult a lawyer. I am advised that the law frowns on such marriages.

DEAR ABBY: I'm a nice-looking guy, 6-2, 190 pounds, athletic build and have no trouble getting dates. My problem is every girl I take out wants to get serious. I'm 30, like my independence and have no intention of giving it up for a long time.

I don't want to lie or lead a girl on, but if I'm too truthful about how I feel — that's the end of the romance.

So what does a guy do when all he wants is a few laughs and no commitments?

HARVEY

DEAR HARVEY: Take a hyena to lunch.

...

DEAR ABBY: Although my wife can't balance her checkbook, she came up with an excellent suggestion for checkbook users in the new year.

Write the numbers "82" on all checks to be used in January so as to avoid absentmindedly writing "1981" on those checks, making them invalid.

After a year of check writing, last year's date has become a habit that is sometimes difficult to break.

FELIX

DEAR FELIX: Thanks. But January alone won't do it for me. I'm writing "1982" until March.

Gold Star Banquet Set

Plans for the Gold Star Banquet were made at the meeting of the Veterans of Foreign Wars Auxiliary held Thursday evening. Chairman Myrtle Meeks reported the banquet will be held March 26.

Carrie West and Alice Moseley reported on the council meeting held in Greensboro. The local auxiliary participated in Operation Sunshine, which were items made for veterans who were confined to hospitals. A donation was given to the Political Action Committee.

The DAV presented a coffee maker to the auxiliary and Post No. 703.

Cancer Aide and Research Chairman Raye Brewer said $159.95 had been received during the month of February.

Genes Boyd and Ruth Evans were meeting hostesses.

The meeting was conducted by President Rosa Lee Boyd.

Blue Ribbons Are Awarded Local Club

WASHINGTON — The NCFWC District 15 Arts Festival was held here Saturday. The judges awarded seven blue ribbons to members of the Greenville Woman's Club.

Mrs. Ellis Hall, arts department chairman, announced the following winners: Mrs. Edwin Danis, oil painting; Mrs. Hall, wood craft, country carving; Mrs. Francis Eddings, needlepoint picture and crocheted ski sweater; and Mrs. Oliver Gilliam, bead craft flowers, needlepoint background, "Unicorn" and creative needlepoint, "Illustrated Lesson."

Mrs. Eddings also won a red ribbon in basic embroidery for a cross stitch quilt.

All first place articles will be entered in the NCFWC State Arts Festival March 20 in Winston-Salem.

Mrs. Emil Cyzy, education department chairman, accompanied Susan Spell, Rose High School senior and winner of the Greenville club's Sallie Southall Cotton Scholarship. She competed with 10 other contestants.

Attending from the local club were Mrs. W.E. Roseveare, Mrs. Richard Turner, Mrs. Gilliam, Mrs. Frank Tate, Mrs. Eddings, Mrs. Cyzy, Mrs. Hall, Mrs. James Harrigan and Mrs. Ernest Holt, NCFWC second vice president.

Engagement Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Jonh Wichmann of West Babylon, N.Y. announce the engagement of their daughter, Victoria Elaine Schumacher, to Samuel N. Pearce Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Pearce Sr. of Greenville. A March 13 wedding is planned.

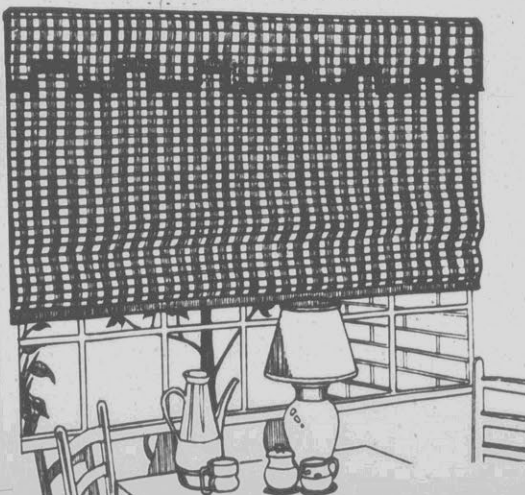

Program On Choking Held

The Westhaven Garden Club heard a program on choking and the Heimlich maneuver Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Carolyn Croston.

The program was presented by Greenville Fire and Rescue Officers Adam Corbett and Norman Casey. The presenters said that choking is the sixth leading cause of accidental death in adults and that the Heimlich maneuver is 100 percent effective in preventing death, when administered correctly. They told how to determine if the obstruction is partial or total and what steps to take the victim.

Club members made preliminary plans for the neighborhood Easter party. Alice Daugherty was welcomed as a new resident and member. The next meeting will be held Tuesday, Mar. 30, at the Greenville Athletic Club.

"MY CHURCH HELPED WHEN I NEEDED IT."

I need church. I need the friends I have found there. Going to church with my family is just a part of life. My faith in Jesus Christ is very important to me. I need this experience in order to be the kind of father and husband I want to be. I need it to be my best on the job.

There are many fine churches I could have joined. The one I chose is a Baptist church. I am very proud to have this opportunity to invite you and your family and friends to visit a Baptist church. Hundreds of Baptist churches are having what they call HERE'S HOPE services.

I believe you will find friendly people there ... people who care about you and want to be of help when you need it.

Balanced Policy Needed

There's one thing about economic news — what would be good news at a given time is not necessarily all that positive at another time.

We are a nation that has been wracked by inflation for several years. In a spiral started by the big increases in oil prices we became almost accustomed to living with double digit figures.

Now, however, along comes the January Consumer Price Index and we find consumer prices have increased only 0.3 percent. If that rate were to hold for the entire year — something most experts think unlikely — we would have an inflation rate of only 3.5 percent for the entire year.

One would like to think our economic problems are solved. Unfortunately we have a whole new set of problems since our number one worry was inflation.

We are in a recession that most experts didn't foresee and we are facing a deplorable unemployment rate. The problems of the auto manufacturing industry and construction are woeful and those problems are spilling over into other areas of the economy. The federal budget is virtually hopelessly out of balance.

Even non-experts have known that if things get bad enough inflation would cease to be a problem. It is a question of the cure being worse than the disease.

We need economic policies which strike a balance between sound prosperity for our people and the insidious damage inflation can do to family budgets.

Assignment Is Important

A ten-member ad hoc Committee on Public Safety has been formed by the City Council to make recommendations on the formation of a permanent Public Safety Committee.

The ad hoc committee, under the chairmanship of Dr. Wallace Wooles, will be studying the possibility of a committee which would be responsible for the Police and Fire-Rescue Departments.

The work of the ad hoc committee will be important. Dr. Wooles says it will look at the advantages and disadvantages of the proposed committee to determine its need. The approach of other cities will also be considered.

No one would want another committee established solely for the sake of having it. There may be major advantages, however, to a Public Safety Committee. It will be the duty of the ad hoc committee to find out.

THIS AFTERNOON

N.C. Opportunity

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH — There is tremendous opportunity for the future within the suggestion for a New Federalism broached by President Ronald Reagan.

North Carolina, just as the other states, would be challenged to become the very best of what it wants to be; not simply another weak sister among 50 states all just alike.

The push of a strong central government putting down rules and regulations on every topic from roadside bathrooms to classroom decor has moved America in the direction of a bland sameness where different communities are identifiable only from their names printed in uniform block letters on green interstate highway signs.

If the federal government would get out of all those things which government does except national defense and the critical financial support programs for the poor and elderly, local desires and local and regional flavors could again become apparent.

Growth

Gov. Jim Hunt recognizes this challenge within President Reagan's proposal, even though his immediate reaction has been one of quarrelling with the immediacy and the fine tuning of individual components of the approach.

Hunt's biggest concern is that the federal government would eliminate those many things like research efforts, water and sewer grants and job training programs which mean so much to North Carolina's effort to recruit new industrial and economic growth.

There is another side to that concern, however.

Federal government programs in economic development are available to all the states. All, then, are put on nearly an equal footing in building the foundations for growth. But there are those states which don't really want to develop.

Would it work well to North Carolina's advantage in future years if it were left to the states to do their own things in this area, as well as many others?

North Carolina has funded a multi-million dollar research program in microelectronics, built a good university system, underwritten the highly successful Research Triangle Institute and Research Triangle Park, floated a previous water and sewer bond with another pending, paid for an aggressive industrial recruitment program, provided industrial revenue bonds to help finance new businesses, hiked gas taxes to keep the highways in shape, taken the lead nationally in hazardous waste disposal which is critical to industrial research and expansion.

Different

Doesn't it follow that a change in federal aid to economic growth will not hamper North Carolina's effort? To the contrary, isn't it probable that many other states which aren't willing to make such a commitment as this state has will let their efforts lag when federal aid is no longer available, and so North Carolina will be several steps ahead because of the commitment already made and the obvious desire to continue in the direction of growth?

As with that one particular subject, others will be similarly resolved in years to come. When the people of a particular area want their schools to provide more and better vocational training rather than spending the money required by the federal rules for other things — why not?

May be that one day Americans will be able to look about the nation and see excellence, of varying sorts, in different communities instead of the Washington-franchised sameness of

The Effect Of Winter

WASHINGTON — There is something about winter that brings out the worst in all of us. I realized this when I was watching the "Today" show, and Willard Scott was standing in front of his map of the United States.

Willard started off by telling me that the northwest part of the United States was experiencing heavy rain and sleet from Seattle to Billings, Montana.

"Good for them," I said to myself. "They deserve it." I have no explanation for this type of reaction as I have nothing personal against anyone in Seattle or anywhere between it and Billings, but for some reason it didn't bother me that the people in that area were going to have a bad day.

Willard continued his report: "A large arctic front coming down from nada should drop a foot of snow on Nebraska."

"Better than us," I said to the TV set. "Besides, Canada must have a good reason for dropping a foot of snow on Nebraska."

"Chicago can expect wind-chill factors of minus 20," Willard continued, "with winds up to 35 miles an hour."

"If people are dumb enough to live in Chicago," I told Willard, "then they can't complain about wind-chill factors."

The map showed a dark line coming up from the Gulf of Mexico. Willard said, "Down here a storm is developing that could hit Galveston and Houston by noon. It is not yet a hurricane, but the National Weather Service is watching it carefully."

My wife came into the bedroom at that moment. "What's going on?" she asked.

"Willard says there could be a hurricane in Houston."

"Will it hit us?"

"No way," I laughed gleefully. "It will blow itself out before it gets to Oklahoma."

"I'm glad we don't live in Albuquerque," Willard said.

"Now I know why I hate Los Angeles, Phoenix and Albuquerque," I told my wife.

"As for the East Coast, cold air from the North and warm air coming up from Georgia could cause snow and frost from Virginia to Boston."

"What's so funny about that?" I shouted at Willard.

"And now for a forecast from your local station," Willard said.

A voice-over intoned, "Washington can expect an inch of snow by late this morning. Travel advisories are out as driving conditions could be very hazardous."

"Wouldn't you know it?" I said to my wife. "We always get the worst weather in the country."

Just then the phone rang. It was my friend, Ira Harris, calling from Palm Beach, where he owns a condominium.

"I see you people are going

Strength For Today

THE LAST LAP

If you are an average adult, you will probably live to be seventy or older. One of the contributions of modern medicine and public health planning is a gradually increasing life expectancy. On the average, we will live longer than our parents, and much longer than our remote ancestors. Quite a large group of us will live into our eighties and nineties.

It is pleasant to contemplate the possibility of a long, full life. But the thought raises some questions too.

What will seem important, enjoyable, worthwhile during the last quarter of our lives? What are we going to make of those extra years which our ancestors did not have?

Will that last part be painful anti-climax, or a rich, useful period when our lifetime of experience and mental and spiritual development can be made to bring happiness to ourselves and others? We can plan for it now by concentrating on the right values. — Elisha Douglass

VOA Stirs Up 'Anguish'

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON — An internal Voice of America memo comparing Gen. Wojciech Jaruzelski, Poland's top communist and Soviet-backed dictator under martial law, with Marshal Jozef Pilsudski, the epitome of anti-Russian Polish nationalism in the 1920s, is stirring anger and anguish inside the Reagan administration.

"There are more similarities than the Soviet and Polish communists would care to admit between the Jaruzelski putsch and the takeover by Marshal Pilsudski in the early '20s," said the memorandum to a high official of the Voice. The difference between the two, it said, is only that "Pilsudski was and still is reasonably popular."

Reaganites in the International Communication Agency, which controls the Voice of America, were flabbergasted. Pilsudski's hero status as an anti-Russian patriot has increased since Jaruzelski decreed martial law under orders from Moscow, while Jaruzelski is regarded as a Soviet stooge. The memo has raised new questions within the administration about the Voice of America.

targeted against NATO. Those demonstrations had strong backing and some financial support from the Soviet Union and such communist-front organizations as the World Peace Council.

The new demonstrations, U.S. officials have been warned, will be kicked off sometime this spring against Weinberger's prudent decision not to sit idly by any longer while the Soviets perfect new chemical and biological warfare weapons. Weinberger hinted to Congress that the administration may charge Moscow with breaking a treaty against the manufacture and use of these dread weapons.

Jim Baker's Anger

Although the angry demand by Iowa senator Roger Jepsen for the firing of top White House political aide Ed Rollins has been resolved, the incident angered White House chief of staff James Baker III.

While President Reagan was defending his new budget last week on a tour through Iowa, with Baker at his side, Jepsen's press secretary, Jim Lafferty, put Baker on the spot. Lafferty said, "Ask Jim Baker" when Iowa reporters questioned him about whether Rollins would get the axe for allegedly making a derogatory remark about Jepsen.

After returning to the White House, Baker and Jepsen smoothed out the dispute over Rollins. Rollins apologized to Jepsen for using boxing-ring language to describe Jepsen's last-minute decision to change his vote and support Reagan in last fall's AWACS vote. But Baker told the senator he did not appreciate the way his aide had put him on the spot.

Supply-Siders Feud

Long-simmering animosity between two leaders of supply-side economics, Rep. Jack Kemp and millionaire businessman Lewis Lehrman, exploded when Kemp endorsed State Controller Ned Regan against Lehrman for the Republican nomination for governor of New York.

Lehrman was stunned, learning of Kemp's decision only the night before. Lehrman's friends contend he had been assured by Kemp scarcely a month earlier that the influential congressman would stay neutral in the race for the governor's nomination. Kemp's advisers deny that, claiming he had no choice but to endorse Regan, his fellow Buffalo Republican.

Whatever the truth, poisoned personal relations between the two supply-siders made Kemp's endorsement of Regan easy. Whereas other New York Republicans gave Kemp first refusal rights on running for governor before unequivocally throwing in their hats, Lehrman announced his first try for public office with the affirmation that he could not wait for Jack Kemp to make up his mind.

Anti-American Again

Secretary of Defense Caspar Weinberger has been warned to expect a new round of anti-American demonstrations in western Europe over his decision to match Soviet chemical warfare production with new U.S. chemical weapons.

An earlier round of hostile demonstrations against the Reagan administration last fall was keyed to the NATO plan to modernize aging missiles in Western Europe, essential to meet the challenge of the Soviet SS-20s

Reagan Vs. Human Events

Human Events, the right-wing weekly that long has been a bible for Ronald Reagan, is admittedly less pleasant reading for him since he became president.

Two Human Events editors, Tom Winter and Alan Ryskind, were present at a stormy session of conservative movement leaders with the president and senior aides. The conservatives aired a long list of complaints, headed by failure of true Reaganites to get key posts in the administration, that have filled the pages of Human Events in the last few months.

At one point during the meeting, Reagan was asked whether he still read Human Events. The president smiled, then used the old John F. Kennedy quote: "You might say I'm reading it more but enjoying it less."

Other Editors Say Oil Decontrol

Gasoline prices have been dropping in recent weeks. This has occurred despite the decontrol of oil prices last year.

Decontrol came amid widely voiced concerns that the public would be severely gouged by sky-rocketing oil prices.

A year later we have witnessed some refreshing and encouraging signs.

Charles J. DiBona, president of the American Petroleum Institute, reviewed some of the developments in a recent issue of The Oil Daily.

Oil production in the lower 48 states, declining for a decade, increased last year. And Alaskan oil production which had been stable, also started rising.

The oil industry increased its exploration to the highest levels in history during 1981 — spending $50 billion in exploration, drilling, production and leasing.

Gas prices dropped five to six cents per gallon.

Meanwhile, faced with a reduction in oil consumption by Americans and with increased U.S. production, OPEC found itself with a glut. The result, cuts in OPEC oil prices and reductions in production.

But, DiBona notes that although the U.S. has reduced its oil imports by half a million barrels below the figures for 1973 — the year the oil embargo began, we still rely on foreign sources for one-third of our fuel.

This represented an $80 billion drain on the U.S. economy last year.

He suggests that removal of federal price controls on natural gas would further improve our position, resulting in major expansion of exploration and production.

To that, this newspaper would add that our position toward energy independence would be further enhanced by expansion of nuclear power production. It has been proved the safest and, by far, the cheapest source of energy available to us today.

Credit Rating Worth Guarding

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

A healthy credit rating can be as valuable to you as your good name, and it's up to you to protect it and make sure the record of your bill and loan payments is accurate.

Information on your financial habits is gathered by companies known as credit bureaus, which, in turn, pass the facts and figures to potential lenders, employers and even insurers.

There are nearly 2,000 credit bureaus across the country. The largest of them use computer networks to collect, store and report information on millions of Americans. TRW's Credit Data, for example, keeps files on 86 million consumers — more than one-third of the U.S. population — and serves nearly 25,000 subscribers.

The credit bureaus themselves do not decide whether you will get a loan, job or insurance policy. They simply relay information on how you have handled credit in the past.

To help make sure credit reports are accurate, Congress passed the Fair Credit Reporting Act of 1971. The law gives you the right to see your credit record and sets up a mechanism for correcting mistakes.

It is a good idea to check your credit record on a regular basis, even if you have no particular reason to suspect a problem. TRW says about 500,000 consumers ask to see their files each year.

First, you'll have to find out which credit bureau has your file. Start with the Yellow Pages, looking under credit bureaus or credit-reporting agencies. Call each company until you find the right one. (If the credit bureaus are not listed in the directory, ask local credit granters like banks and merchants for the names of the major bureaus in your area.)

Once you know where to go, call or write the credit bureau to find out the procedure for obtaining your file. You will have to provide identification since it is illegal for the credit bureau to let an unauthorized person look at your file.

Some credit bureaus will give you a copy of your record to take home. Others only let you look at it. If you have been turned down for credit within the past 30 days because of a report from a credit bureau, you can see your report for free. If you have NOT been turned down for credit, there may be a small charge — usually under $10. In either case, the credit bureau must, by law, provide someone to help you interpret the information on your record.

If there is a mistake in your file, notify the credit bureau. The bureau must investigate your complaint and correct any erroneous information. Copies of the correction must be sent to anyone who requested your file for the purpose of a credit check within the last six months. If you are not satisfied with the results of the credit bureau investigation, you may enter a statement of up to 100 words in your file, giving your side of the story. That statement must be included with all future credit reports about you.

The information in your credit record varies according to the credit bureau. At a minimum, however, your record will include your name, address, Social Security number, birth date and place of employment. Some credit bureaus also keep track of your job, your earnings and, if applicable, your spouse's earnings.

There is a separate section for your credit history — the type of account or loan, the amount, the terms and the repayment record. Some of the information may be entered in code: An "A," for example, may indicate that you paid promptly; a "B" may indicate a payment that is more than 30 days overdue.

Most of the information in your file comes from credit granters and is provided by you when you apply for or you credit. Some information — like tax liens or bankruptcy actions — may come from court records, however.

Individual items of information generally cannot remain in your file for more than seven years, although notice of a bankruptcy may be kept on the record for up to 10 years.

Culprit or Victim?

Fifty years ago today, Charles "Lucky" Lindbergh's first child was kidnapped and later found murdered. Lindbergh was an international hero, honored for his solo transatlantic flight from New York to Paris. Bruno Richard Hauptmann, who was electrocuted for the crime, professed his innocence to the end. Now after five decades new questions have been raised about Hauptmann's conviction. Recently opened files show that police eavesdropped on Hauptmann's conversations with his wife and were kept informed of secret jury deliberations. Such disclosures of official misconduct have led Hauptmann's widow to file a $100 million wrongful death suit, now pending in federal court.

DO YOU KNOW — What was the name of Lindbergh's famous plane?

What do you bid now?

A.—Your plethora of tens and nines made your hand a trifle too strong for a one no trump opening bid. Now, you can express the full value of your hand by simply rebidding one no trump. In this type of sequence, that shows a hand that was too strong to open one no trump originally.

Q.4—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♦AK6 ♥95 ♦KQ7 ♠AQJ54
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♦ Pass 3 ♦ Pass
3 ♦ Pass ?
What do you bid now?

A.—Your main concern is the heart suit—partner can have a sound opening bid without either of the two top heart honors. Bid four diamonds. If partner does not bid four hearts in response, you can show your excellent spades and concern about hearts by bidding five spades next. That should clear up any doubts about what you need for slam.

Q.5—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♦KJ754 ♥KQJ7 ♦A5 ♠Q9
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♦ Pass 2 ♦ Pass
2 ♥ Pass 3 ♦ Pass
What do you bid now?

A.—For your auction to this point, you have a slightly better hand than you have announced, but that does not mean that you should now commit the hand to slam. However, you should advise partner of that possibility. The simplest way to do so is to tell partner of your diamond value—cue-bid four diamonds.

Q.6—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:

♦KJ763 ♥J8 ♦KJ954 ♠5
The bidding has proceeded:
West North East South
1 ♥ 2 ♦ Pass ?
What action do you take?
A.—It is true that, in all probability, you have a better spot in either diamonds or spades, but there is no safe way to explore the possibilities. When it looks as if your side has a potential misfit, get out of the auction as quickly as possible—pass.

Man Charged In Hit, Run

Greenville police investigated a collision Friday afternoon resulting in approximately $2825 damage.

Reports said a car driven by Julianne Rose Miller of 1502 Cedar Lane was traveling east on Reade Street when it and a truck driven by Richard Luther Petway of 300 E. Dudley St. collided.

Officers said Petway jumped from the vehicle and fled after the collision. He was apprehended a short time later.

The Petway truck also struck a parked car owned by James Lee Hatley of Valdeese, police reports showed.

Damage was placed at $1,500 to the Miller auto, $1,200 to the Petway truck and $125 to the parked auto.

Investigators charged Petway with driving under the influence and hit-and-run driving.

Black Assembly Meeting Set

The Pitt County Black Assembly will meet on Tuesday, March 2 at 7:30 p.m. at the Cornerstone Missionary Baptist Church.

The agenda will include a report by the nominating committee for officers for the coming fiscal year, a summary of the Clarence Gray testimonial and a progress report on dialog with Pitt County Memorial Hospital. The public is invited to attend.

Citizens Nab Purse Snatcher In Chase

WASHINGTON (AP) — Purse snatchings rarely attract much attention these days, but when Kathy Tollerton's purse was grabbed, five motorists, one bicyclist and a church provost took after the suspect and caught him.

Mrs. Tollerton said she and her husband were walking home from church services at the Washington Cathedral in fashionable northwest Washington when someone ran past her and grabbed her shoulder bag Sunday.

"I was yelling, 'He's got my purse,' and my husband ran after him," she said in a telephone interview.

The commotion attracted the attention of bicyclist Lewis Regenstein, several other citizens and the Rev. Charles A. Perry, provost of the Washington Cathedral, who was stuck in traffic nearby.

Regenstein shifted his 10-speed bicycle into high gear and took off after the purse snatcher while the Rev. Perry picked up Mrs. Tollerton and her husband in his brown Mercedes and followed in hot pursuit.

Four other drivers joined in the chase, honking their horns and flashing their lights to draw attention to the thief, Mrs. Tollerton said.

As the group began to close in, the man jettisoned the stolen purse, but the caravan of cars and the bicyclist maintained pursuit and cornered the man. One of the motorists managed to flag down a policeman and the man was taken into custody, Mrs. Tollerton said.

"He wasn't in very good shape, he kept getting winded," said Regenstein. "His second problem was that he stayed (running) on the sidewalk the whole time we were chasing him," instead of ducking into alleys or wooded areas.

"The community is very concerned about crime and we have a crime watch in the cathedral community," said the Rev. Perry. "I think the purse snatcher was scared. He probably didn't expect all of this to happen."

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was mixed today in the face of new evidence of weakness in the economy.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down 2.05 at 821.54.

But gainers held an 8-7 lead over losers in the over-all tally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Trading opened on schedule at both the New York and American exchanges despite bomb blasts during the night that broke windows and caused some other damage at the two trading centers.

Police said the Puerto Rican nationalist group FALN claimed responsibility for four explosions in all that took place in the Wall Street area between 11 p.m. and midnight Sunday. No injuries were reported.

Northern Indiana Public Service led the active list, unchanged at 11. A 500,000-share block changed hands at that price.

M-A-Com, which projected a modest earnings gain for the quarter ending April 3, fell 2 1/2 to 17 1/2.

The NYSE's composite index lost .25 to 65.08. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was off .87 at 265.26.

Volume on the Big Board totaled 22.63 million shares at noontime, against 18.40 million at the same point Friday.

 the possible threat from Soviet built MiG-23 planes in the Cuban air force.

Supporting the belief that the new airfield is likely to be used by Soviet and Cuban aircraft is a report received by U.S. intelligence that a Soviet air defense system will be installed in the vicinity of that field.

The number of Cuban military and civilian advisers in Grenada is in the hundreds, according to U.S. sources. With the total population of Grenada numbering only about 107,000, U.S. officials consider even a few hundred Cubans as representing a major presence and influence.

Last year, Grenada's Finance Minister, Bernard Coard, accused the U.S. of "bully-boy tactics" in opposing the runway, which he said was needed to accommodate jumbo jets.

Along with keeping tabs on progress of the new airport, U.S. intelligence has turned up so far-unconfirmed reports that the Cubans may be building a new base for submarines or other naval vessels.

The intelligence sources said there is extensive dredging of ship channels but that the evidence is inconclusive as to whether the channels will be used by naval craft or other types of ships.

Robin Kent, a Central Intelligence Agency analyst, testified before a House foreign affairs committee in 1980 that "Cuban influence in Grenada has rapidly increased since the coup there in March 1979."

The new, secret report on Grenada carries that theme further, speaking of "overwhelming Cuban involvement" in affairs of the island.

Concert

Postponed

The concert scheduled by soprano Elly Ameling for 8 p.m. Tuesday, March 2 at Hendrix Theater has again been postponed due to Miss Ameling's illness.

Miss Ameling was originally scheduled to perform on Feb. 23 but was unable to appear due to illness.

A spokesman at Mendenhall Center said that details on a third rescheduling of her concert or the substitution of another performer would be announced at an early date.

Wyatt Honored

Former City Manager Ed Wyatt has been appointed a "Lifetime Honorary Member" of the North Carolina Council of Code Officials, a confederation of organizations representing building, plumbing, mechanical and electrical inspectors.

Wyatt, who resigned effective Feb. 28 to accept the city manager's post in Fairfax, Va., also received a certificate of appreciation from the council for his "outstanding support of COCO from 1978-82."

The council said that Wyatt "has continuously promoted the idea of close cooperation between all code officials, related governmental agencies, the construction industry and the general public. With his professional ability and 'will do' attitude, he has been an inspiration to all inspectors throughout the state."

Wyatt has served as a member of the North Carolina Code Officials Qualification Board, which regulates building codes throughout the state, since 1978. He has served as chairman of the state board.

Radio Course

To Be Offered

A radio broadcasting and communication course for youth ages 13-19 will begin March 4 at 7:30 p.m. at the 4-H office (2nd floor of old hospital).

The instructor will be Ron Horne, assistant farm director for WNCN radio. Classes will meet for six consecutive weeks, then continue bi-monthly throughout the year.

The course will cover fundamentals of radio broadcasting, voice, diction, running commercials and other phases of the radio broadcasting field. Participants must have access to a cassette tape recorder and must pre-register by calling the 4-H office at 752-2934, ext. 362 by March 3.

There is no charge for the course and participants do not have to be 4-H members, according to Jean Kivette, 4-H program assistant.

Missionary Mamie Gorham; and Friday — General Mother Elizabeth Little.

The public is invited by the pastor, Bishop Raymond Griswold.

DISTRICT II

Panthers In Finals
For 2nd Season...By RICK SCOPPE
Reflector Sports Writer

It was nearly a year ago to the day that North Pitt found itself on the wrong end of a 63-52 score in the District I title game. The Panthers will be out to right that wrong Tuesday night.

With memories of its district loss to Roanoke not entirely forgotten, North Pitt will take the court tomorrow against D.H. Conley looking to not only win the district title that eluded it a year ago but to also gain a berth in the Eastern Regionals.

Last year teams from the Eastern Carolina Conference and the Northeastern Conference vied for the District I title. This year the ECC moved into the District II tournament with the Coastal Conference.

Game time for the championship game is 8:30 p.m. at Ayden-Gritton. SouthWest Edgecombe will face C.B. Aycock at 7 p.m. for the girls' title.

The Panthers, 20-7, advanced to the championship game with a 47-31 overtime win over West Craven Friday. The Vikings, 18-8, rolled past Greene Central, 71-53, in the other semifinal game.

The victories left the district finals an all-Pitt County affair. Asked if that gives Tuesday's game additional meaning, North Pitt coach Cobby Deans replied: "You'd better believe it."

"Personally, I'm glad it worked out this way," D.H. Conley coach Shelley Marsh said. "I wanted this (an all-Pitt County final)."

The game pits two teams that split during the regular season, the Panthers winning the first, 40-36, on Dec. 18 and the Vikings taking the second game, 51-40, on Feb. 6.

The Panthers go into the game having won six straight. The Vikings, who early in the season lost seven straight, have won their last 11 games.

"It's gonna be a good ballgame," Deans said. "I think we're both pretty schooled — if that's the word — about each other's team. We know each other pretty well. He (Marsh) could coach my guys."

"I think you have the two best teams in the district playing," he added. "If we win, we'll have beaten a good team. If we lose, we'll have lost to a good team."

When the Panthers have been good this year they have been very good. When bad, however, the Panthers have been very bad.

Seven long years have passed since D.H. Conley last made it to the district finals. The drought ended Friday night.

With its two main guns — 6-4 guard Keith Gatlin and 6-7 center Sammy Tyson — doing most of the shooting, D.H. Conley rolled past Greene Central and into the championship game of the District II tournament.

The Vikings, who beat the Rams, 71-53, will face county-rival North Pitt for the district crown Tuesday evening at 8:30 at Ayden-Gritton. Unbeaten (26-0) and defending state champion SouthWest Edgecombe will meet C.B. Aycock at 7 p.m. to decide the girls' championship.

Ironically, when in 1975 the Vikings were last in the district finals they defeated North Pitt, 58-57. Conley went on to the state semifinals that year before losing to West Brunswick, 64-63.

D.H. Conley, 18-8, comes into the 1982 district finals having won 11 straight games. The Panthers, 20-7, have won six straight, including a 47-31 victory over West Craven in the district semifinals.

The two Pitt County teams split during the regular season. North Pitt downed Conley, 40-36, on Dec. 18 and the Vikings whipped the Panthers, 51-40, on Feb. 6.

"The key to playing North Pitt is being patient on defense," D.H. Conley coach

Rampants Face SSS In State Playoff Opener

A Staff Report

Rose High School's Rampants, after finishing second in the Big East Tournament Friday night, enter the 4-A State Playoffs tomorrow night at 7:30 p.m. at Smithfield-Selma High School.

Rose, 14-11, finished in a three-way tie for third place in the Big East regular season standings, but then won its way into the finals of the tournament, grabbing one of the league's two berths for the state playoffs.

In the first round of the tournament, Rose upset third seeded Northern Nash, 52-50, then outlasted seventh-seeded Wilson Pike, 54-53. Pike had upset second-ranked Kinston two nights earlier.

Then, on Friday night, Rose fell to regular season champion Rocky Mount in the tournament finals, 70-53, to take second place. Rocky Mount, as the league's champ, will have a home berth for the first round game, hosting the Mid-South Conference runner-up.

Smithfield-Selma, more widely known as "Triple S" (SSS), finished the regular season Cap-Eight season tied with Raleigh Enloe for the title. Both teams finished 13-1 in the league, each winning on the other's home court. The SSS loss to Enloe was its worst defeat of the year, coming by ten points.

SSS later avenged that with a two-point win over Enloe at the Eagle gym, and then beat Enloe again in the tournament finals on Friday night at SSS, 44-43.

That win came when reserve Orlando Haley hit both ends of a one-and-one with six seconds left, sending SSS into the state tourney.

The victory boosted the overall record of SSS to 22-4. Their four losses included three by a total of four points, including two in the Durham Sun Tournament.

The leading scorer for Smithfield-Selma is 6-4 center Anthony Dublin, a good leaper who averages around 16 points a game. Other starters include guards Alan Williams and Doug Howard, and forwards Clifton King and Wallace Godwin. Duplin is the tallest member of the team.

Top reserves include Haley and Carlos Duplin, the younger brother of Anthony, and a starter earlier in the year prior to being injured.

Coach Carl Spragins, who came to SSS this year from Norlina, plays a number of players in each game normally. Spragins, ironically, replaced former Rose High School player Billy Taylor when the latter resigned to pursue his doctorate degree at the end of last season.

Smithfield-Selma is regarded as a very consistent team, making few mistakes in a fairly slow-paced contest. Their average score has been in the 50's.

Meanwhile, Rose, which is up and down, comes into the game with one scorer in double figures, forward William Battle. Battle, through the tournament, is averaging 11.8 points a game.

Next is reserve Freddy Cherry with an 8.7 average. Starting guard Russell Perkins is hitting 7.9, while his backcourt partner, Barry Smith has a 7.7 average. Donnell Lee, the top backcourt reserve, has an 8.6 average.

Tim Harris, who has come on strong in recent games at his center position, has upped his average to 7.2 points.

Cherry has been in double figures in each of the last eight games, while Harris has hit in double digits in four of the last five.

Pirates Seeded 7th In Tourney

A Staff Report

East Carolina's Pirates, after bowing in their last five games of the regular season, have been seeded seventh in the ECAC-South's post-season tournament, which starts Thursday in Norfolk, Va.'s Scope.

The Pirates will meet second-seeded Richmond, a team they lost to only last Wednesday, 89-63. The contest will open the tournament at 5 p.m. on Thursday.

Seedings were set Sunday in a meeting held by league officials and member athletic directors at Williamsburg, Va.

James Madison's Dukes, the defending champion, were seeded first in the standings after finishing the year with a 10-1 league mark and a 22-4 overall record — the best ever for the Dukes. They wound up regular season play on Saturday with a 43-41 win over Old Dominion in the Scope.

Richmond, which took over second seeding after the ODU loss, ended the regular season with a 6-4 league mark and a 17-8 overall record.

Third seeded will be the Monarchs of hosting Old Dominion University. The Monarchs wound up 5-4 in the league and 15-11 overall.

William & Mary, which beat East Carolina Saturday night, 70-53, took fourth seeding with a 6-5 mark. The Indians concluded their season with a 15-11 overall record.

Navy, 2-4, 11-13, took fifth place, while George Mason, 2-7, 12-13, wound up sixth.

The second game on Thursday will send Old Dominion against George Mason at 7 p.m., while William & Mary collides with Navy at 9 p.m.

The winner of the final game of the evening will then face James Madison at 7 p.m. Friday, while the other two survivors meet at 9 p.m.

The championship will be decided on Saturday at 7:30 p.m. with the winner receiving an automatic berth in the NCAA tournament.

Coach Dave Odom was philosophical about the pairings, noting that it came out about like he expected it to going into the weekend's games.

"I'm was probably the least worried of the coaches about who we would be playing," he said. "Who we play is the least I care about. How we play is what I do care about."

Recently, the Pirates haven't been playing up to what Odom considers their best. "We have two days to get back to where we were for two months on defense," he noted after Saturday night's game. "It isn't going to be easy."

The Pirates who played six games over a 12-day period, won only the first of those, against Eastern Illinois. In that contest, they looked as if they could have beaten the world, but did not approach that level in the remaining five games — all league contests.

Since that 78-54 victory over Eastern, they dropped consecutive games to James Madison, 61-43; Navy, 88-76; George Mason, 70-57; Richmond and William & Mary.

In each of those instances, there was always the next game.

But in the tournament, there is no next game. A loss will end the season. A victory keeps them playing.

UNC Draws Top Seeding

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Virginia's upset at the hands of Maryland set the stage for another upsetting experience Sunday as the top-ranked Cavalier's lost a drawing for top seed in the Atlantic Coast Conference tournament to second-ranked North Carolina.

Virginia, which dropped a 47-46 decision to Maryland, was tied for first place in the ACC when No. 2 North Carolina smashed Duke 84-66 last week.

"Having to share the championship with North Carolina hurts more than losing this game," Wilson said, his weekend in shambles.

Sunday's drawing, held in the commissioner's office in Greensboro, awarded the top seed to North Carolina, meaning the Tar Heels will face Georgia Tech at noon Friday in the Greensboro Coliseum. Virginia plays Clemson at 7 p.m.

MIAMI (AP) — The question of a possible penalty — which could have deprived him of the title in the Doral-Eastern Open golf tournament — had been resolved in his favor and Andy Bean obviously was growing testy under intense press questioning about the incident.

"If there was any doubt among the players, any doubt among the officials, I'd rather have the penalty," Bean said Sunday of the incident which involved the possibility he had improved his lie on the 14th hole.

There was no penalty. There was no doubt on the part of officials. And there were no questions from the other players.

The victory stands. And that resolved another lingering doubt.

Rain Postpones Carolina 500

ROCKINGHAM, N.C. (AP) — The track at North Carolina Motor Speedway is treacherous enough under normal circumstances. There's no way anybody would want to drive on it when the asphalt is wet.

"I keep looking at the sky and can't make up my mind if I want it to clear or not," said Cale Yarborough. "I'd like it to clear for those people up in the stands, but the first few laps are going to be something if we get it started."

Jake Elder, the crew chief for Terry Labonte, agreed, saying, "The track is slick as it is. All this mess, the snow and ice and rain the last couple of days, has washed off what little rubber had worn into the asphalt. The first few laps would be real tricky until some more wears in and gets the cars sticking better."

Rain and freezing drizzle fell steadily through the night and Sunday's early morning hours, finally prompting NASCAR and track officials to postpone the Warner W. Hodgdon Carolina 500 Grand National stock car race at 11:15 a.m. EST, about 50 minutes before the scheduled start of the event.

"It just doesn't look like this is going to stop at all," said Bill Gazaway, director of racing operations for NASCAR. "It just wasn't fair to anybody to wait any longer."

The race was rescheduled for next Sunday, with practice sessions set for Saturday on the 1.017-mile, high-banked track.

Nobody is happy about a postponement because of the inconvenience and added expense it imposes on virtually everyone. But Richard Petty, the all-time NASCAR victory leader with 195, could at least see a silver lining in the dark clouds that hung over the North Carolina sandhills.

"Well," said Petty, "at least it gives my foot another week to heal a little bit."

Petty has been hobbled since a crash during the Daytona 500 two weeks ago in which he suffered a fracture and pulled ligaments in his right foot.

The man who has won 10 races at Rockingham had planned to use veteran late model sportsman driver Sam Ard as a relief driver Sunday, giving up the driver's seat in his Pontiac Grand Prix after maybe 100 or so of the 500 laps around the demanding oval.

But Ard was unable to get any laps in the car because all of Saturday's scheduled practice sessions were washed away. According to NASCAR rules, that meant he could not have driven the car during the race if it was run Sunday.

"I guess we'd have had to see who dropped out during the early part of the race and ask who'd like to drive our car," Petty explained. "This way, Sam should be available to us (next week)."

Benny Parsons, the local favorite from Ellerbe, N.C., will head the 36-car field when the race gets underway next Sunday at 12:05 p.m. EST. Parsons won the pole position with a top lap of 141.577 mph, giving him his first real success ever at what he considers his home track.

ECU Golfers Tumble To 16th

TALLAHASSEE — East Carolina, continuing its downward plunge, fell to 16th place here Sunday afternoon in the final round of the Seminole Intercollegiate Classic.

The Pirates, who were eighth after the first day and 12th after the second round, shot a third-round 307 to finish with a three-day total of 908, far behind tournament winner Florida State.

The Seminoles, the tournament hosts, finished with a three-day score of 859 to outdistance second place North Carolina, which ended up with an 863. Florida was third at 869.

Twenty-four teams competed in the three-day tournament.

Jody Mudd of Georgia Southern took individual honors with a 209. UNC's Bill Plyler was second with a 212. There was a four-way tie for third.

ECU's Mike Moye and Chris Czaya both shot final-round 73s. But, it was Don Gafner who was low man for the Pirates. Gafner, who had a 77 Sunday, finished with a 227.

Moye was next at 229. Jerry Lee, who shot an opening-round 70 and was only one stroke off first, had an 85 Sunday and ended up tied with Czaya. Both had 231 totals.

Don Sweeting shot an 84 Sunday and ended up with a 237 score.

DePaul Goals Not Lofty As Tournament Nears

By The Associated Press

In view of what befell him in the first round of the NCAA basketball tournament the last two years — and perhaps after digesting the results of an upset-filled weekend — the DePaul Blue Demons aren't setting any lofty goals.

"Our ambition is to get by the first round of the NCAA Tournament, not to win the national championship," Coach Ray Meyer said Sunday after third-ranked DePaul trimmed Notre Dame 61-69.

Looking too far ahead has resulted in the Blue Demons being eliminated in the opening round of the last two NCAA tournaments. This time, Meyer says his "biggest concern heading into the tournament is to get our boys to blend together and play as a team."

The weekend disaster list began at the top with No.1-ranked Virginia bowing to Maryland 47-46 in overtime. It also included sixth-ranked West Virginia, whose 23-game winning streak, longest in the nation, was snapped by Rutgers 74-64.

Other casualties among The Associated Press Top Twenty included No.7 Kentucky, No.8 Tulsa, No.11 Iowa, No.16 San Francisco, No.17 Alabama and No.19 Tennessee.

Iowa was the only one to lose to another ranked team — the Hawkeyes dropped a 57-55 three-overtime thriller to No.13 Minnesota — but the pressure may be starting to build for all concerned with the numerous conference postseason tournaments — the qualifying rounds for the NCAA event — coming up this week.

Three teams qualified over the weekend for the NCAA Tournament as fourth-ranked Oregon State clinched its third consecutive Pacific-10 crown by defeating Southern Cal 45-36. Pepperdine won the West Coast Athletic Conference title with a 106-100 triumph over San Francisco and Alabama-Birmingham defeated Virginia Commonwealth 94-83 Sunday behind Oliver Robinson's 24 points to capture the Sun Belt Conference playoffs.

"I don't think we ever played as a team," said Coach Gene Bartow, who inaugurated UAB's basketball program just four seasons ago and took the Blazers to the NCAA tourney last year.

With West Virginia falling to Rutgers, DePaul owns the longest winning streak at 21 games. Sunday's victory over Notre Dame enabled the Blue Demons to wind up the regular season with a 26-1 record. They are certain of a bid when the NCAA invitations go out next Sunday.

Terry Cummings had 28 points for the Blue Demons, who broke the game open with a 10-2 burst early in the second half after leading 36-30 at the intermission.

"Obviously, DePaul has a very good basketball team," said Notre Dame Coach Digger Phelps, whose Irish are suffering through a dismal 8-16 campaign. "They played as well as they had to do to beat us, and showed a lot of confidence. They did not take us lightly, and it showed by the way they played. I can't see them losing their first game in the tournament this season."

The Top 10

Freshman Adrian Branch scored the last of his 29 points on a jumper from the foul line with one second remaining in overtime as Maryland ended Virginia's 15-game winning streak. The Terrapins, who lost to Virginia in overtime earlier in the season, forced the extra session when Herman Veal sank a field goal as regulation time expired. Virginia star Ralph Sampson was held to one field goal and eight points.

The loss left the Cavaliers in a first-place tie with second-ranked North Carolina in the Atlantic Coast Conference. The Tar Heels trounced Duke 84-66

A O R D A K Y I X R R Y A X R Y Q A

Saturday's Cryptoquip - CITY POPULARITY POLL GIVES CUTE MISS VERY NICE MARGIN.

Today's Cryptoquip clue: Q equals T

The Cryptoquip is a simple substitution cipher in which each letter used stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words, and words using an apostrophe can give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is accomplished by trial and error.

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, MAR. 2, 1982

YOUR DAILY Horoscope

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A good day and evening to tune into the new modes of expression which you have decided you want to be allied with in the days ahead. Seek the most practical way to gain your goals.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Wait for a better time to make changes you have planned. Be patient in the face of conditions you can do nothing about.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Put those new ideas across to higher-ups that will help you advance in your line of endeavor. Think constructively.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Make sure you carry through with promises you have made. Not a good day for probing an associate about a puzzling problem.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Use a spirit of cooperation when dealing with an associate today. Concentrate more on a public matter.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Handle those duties ahead of you quietly and efficiently and don't expect too much from a co-worker. Control your temper.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Although having fun is on your mind, it would be best for you to show more kindness to an ally who is in trouble now.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Being more objective at home is wise. Try not to criticize anyone or there could be arguments. Show that you have wisdom.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You have to exercise much care in motion to avoid accident now. Be more understanding of a friend's problem.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Try not to spend beyond you means for something you don't really need. Save your money for more important things.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Don't upset present security until you are sure that you can improve your position. Steer clear of any arguments.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Think of ways to get ahead faster in your line of endeavor. Show others that you are a humanitarian. Be happy.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Listen to what well-informed individuals have to suggest and be grateful of their advice. Strive to gain personal aims.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... He or she will be capable of solving almost any kind of problem. Direct the education along lines that will help humanity. Give good spiritual training early in life and be sure to encourage where sports are concerned.

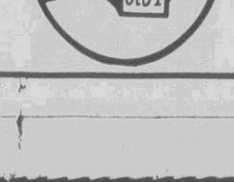

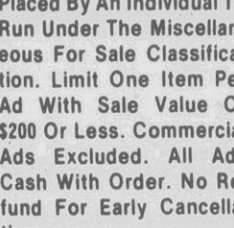

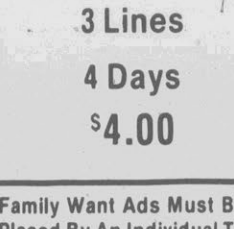

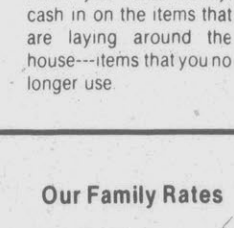

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

Burton Rebuffs Speculation By Press On Remarriage With Liz

By MICHAEL WEST
Associated Press Writer
LONDON (AP) — "Elizabeth and I will never remarry," Richard Burton said today, squelching a roar of romantic rumors reverberating since his weekend reunion with Elizabeth Taylor, their first meeting in five years.

Burton and Taylor spent much of the weekend together, holding hands, dancing and talking, but only a few hours of it were in private. And three of her children were reported on hand then.

The reunion was a bonanza for most of the British press, which speculated on the possibility that they would marry for the third time.

"We haven't discussed it (marriage). It's not going to happen," Burton was quoted as saying today in an exclusive interview with the Press Association, Britain's domestic news agency.

"We love each other with a passion so furious that we burn one another out," Burton was quoted as saying in the interview at his suite in London's fashionable Dorchester Hotel.

"I've got two certificates which prove that I was married to Elizabeth at one time or another — and we don't need another one," he was quoted as saying.

Earlier, William Hickey, the gossip columnist of the Daily Express, suggested there might be a connection with Miss Taylor's coming British stage debut in "The Little Foxes."

"When I asked Burton if his well-timed meeting with Liz...was love rekindled or merely the most outrageous plug London had seen in years, he could only reply wearily, 'God knows,'" wrote Hickey.

"I still love Elizabeth," the 56-year-old Burton told reporters Saturday night. And the 50-year-old actress said "we've always loved each other" as they drove off together to a party Sunday night.

When they left the party, and reporters asked whether they were thinking of remarrying, he snapped, "We are," but she shouted, "He's married, and I'm married." His aide Jo Lustig said angrily afterward that Burton meant both were already married.

Miss Taylor recently announced that she and her sixth husband, U.S. Sen. John Warner, were separated. Burton and his third wife, 33-year-old Susan Hunt, split up last August.

The Sun said Burton told its reporter: "Of course, I love Elizabeth — and I love Susan. I love them both, damn it....And what I'd have them do is for them to come into this room and fight it out between them."

The Taylor-Burton reunion was in four parts Saturday and Sunday.

Frist, he went to the party her producer gave for her 50th birthday Saturday night. They held hands, danced together, then went back to her apartment and talked until dawn with their adopted daughter, Maria, and two of her children by previous marriages, Liza Todd and Christopher Wiling.

Sunday night she appeared on stage with him after a benefit performance he gave of Dylan Thomas' "Under Milk Wood." Wearing blue denim jeans and a sweater, she kissed him and held his hand, and the audience responded with loud cheers and applause.

Afterward they went together to a private party at the Garrick Club.

Lynda Lee-Potter of the Daily Mail said when she interviewed Burton Sunday morning at his hotel suite, he told her: "Baby, I'm so tired. Let me lie on the sofa and put my feet on your lap."

She said he "stretched his powerful, muscular body" on the sofa and with "his brown boots heavy across my knees" fell asleep as a waiter wheeled in scrambled eggs.

When he woke up half an hour later, she said Burton told her: "Elizabeth belongs in my heart...I wish I didn't love her. It makes me so dependent....Seeing her again was like having my stomach ripped out."

Recall Drive Continues Against Guild's Prexy

By JACKIE HYMAN
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A drive to recall Ed Asner as president of the Screen Actors Guild because of his statements on El Salvador will continue without the support of influential guild members, including Charlton Heston and Robert Conrad, the drive's founder says.

Independent stuntman Tony Cecere, who launched a petition drive against Asner, said Sunday the recall effort has not been stopped by Asner's admission that he should have made it clear he was speaking as a private citizen when he announced he and several other actors were sending $25,000 to leftist guerrillas in El Salvador.

On Thursday, Asner said he would make it known from now on when he is not representing the guild.

According to Cecere, Asner's statement "invalidated a small portion of the recall petition. However, the main issue of wanting to lead the guild into the national political arena, namely endorsing political candidates or legislation that does not deal directly with the guild, is still valid."

Cecere met privately Friday night with a small group of guild members who have criticized Asner for his handling of the El Salvador matter and for his proposal to merge the Screen Actors Guild with the Screen Extras Guild.

Present at the meeting were Heston, Conrad, Anthony Caruso and SAG board members Renee Wedel, Morgan Paul and Marie Windsor. Heston is a former president and lifetime member of the guild.

The group declined to back the recall. "President Asner's apology for his unfortunate handling of his recent statements on El Salvador cancels one of the major charges of the recall petition now circulating," the group said in a statement.

In admitting he made "a slight goof" in speaking out, Asner had said, "I now have a button identifying me as a private citizen that I will wear on such occasions. I will make an attempt to minimize such controversial appearances."

Asner, the star of CBS-TV's "Lou Grant," also has stirred bitter controversy over the proposal to merge the two guilds. Backers of the merger say it would increase the power of the union. Opponents contend it would prevent union actors from working in non-union productions and would result in prohibitive labor costs for low-budget producers.

Cecere said Sunday he has gathered more than 800 signatures "in a very short amount of time with virtually no funds and very little organized backing."

The campaign needs the signatures of 10 percent of the guild's 50,000 members
