

Photos Document Nicaragua Buildup

By R. GREGORY NOKES
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Intelligence experts working to build public support for U.S. policy in Central America are showing aerial photographs they say document a massive Soviet-supplied military buildup in Nicaragua.

Adm. Bobby Inman, deputy director of the Central Intelligence Agency, told reporters Tuesday that the buildup endangers all of Central America and far exceeds what Nicaragua would need for its own defense.

He said Cuba, which the United States claims also is assisting the Nicaraguans, might use bases there as a jumping off point for intervention elsewhere in the region.

Nicaragua, Inman said, may go the same way as Cuba and become a "bastion" for aggression.

But Nicaragua's ambassador to the United States, Francisco Fiallos Navarro, said today the aerial photos only "showed ... what we have always been saying."

Interviewed on ABC-TV's "Good Morning America," Navarro added:

"We don't deny that we have some tanks; there are some American tanks that belonged to Somoza's National Guard. We have received as a gift some few tanks from a country of the Third World, which is not Cuba."

As for aircraft, Navarro said, "We have never denied that ... we have two helicopters out in the open at the international airport at Managua that were a gift of the Soviet Union."

But he said "we don't have Soviet military advisers and we don't have more than a dozen Cuban military advisers ... advising us on not very sophisticated weapons."

Asked about the U.S. allegations that Nicaragua's military buildup poses a threat to other Central American governments, the ambassador said his nation has neither an Air Force nor a Navy and only "a small army, no more than 15,000 men. But what we have, and we have been saying that openly and frankly, a big militia ... because we are being pressured by the Reagan administration and by some other governments lately."

Later today, Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr. was expected to face questioning from Congress on the administration's El Salvador policy during an appearance before a Senate subcommittee.

Inman's presentation to reporters Tuesday featured reconnaissance photographs so detailed they pinpointed Nicaraguan soldiers in formation and turrets on Soviet-supplied tanks.

In Managua, the Nicaraguan government issued a sharply worded statement Tuesday night, protesting "violation of the country's air space by North American spy planes."

The foreign ministry's communique said, "These irresponsible acts serve to deepen still more the serious crisis and tension moving through the Central American area."

Meanwhile, Inman suggested to reporters Tuesday further evidence to support the administration's allegations that Cuba and Nicaragua are directing the Salvadoran insurgency will be released later in the week, probably Friday.

Navarro, however, repeated his government's denial today that it is aiding the Salvadoran guerrillas.

Asked if his government had sent any advisers, troops or equipment to aid the Salvadorans, the ambassador replied,

"Absolutely none. ... We haven't done that officially or unofficially."

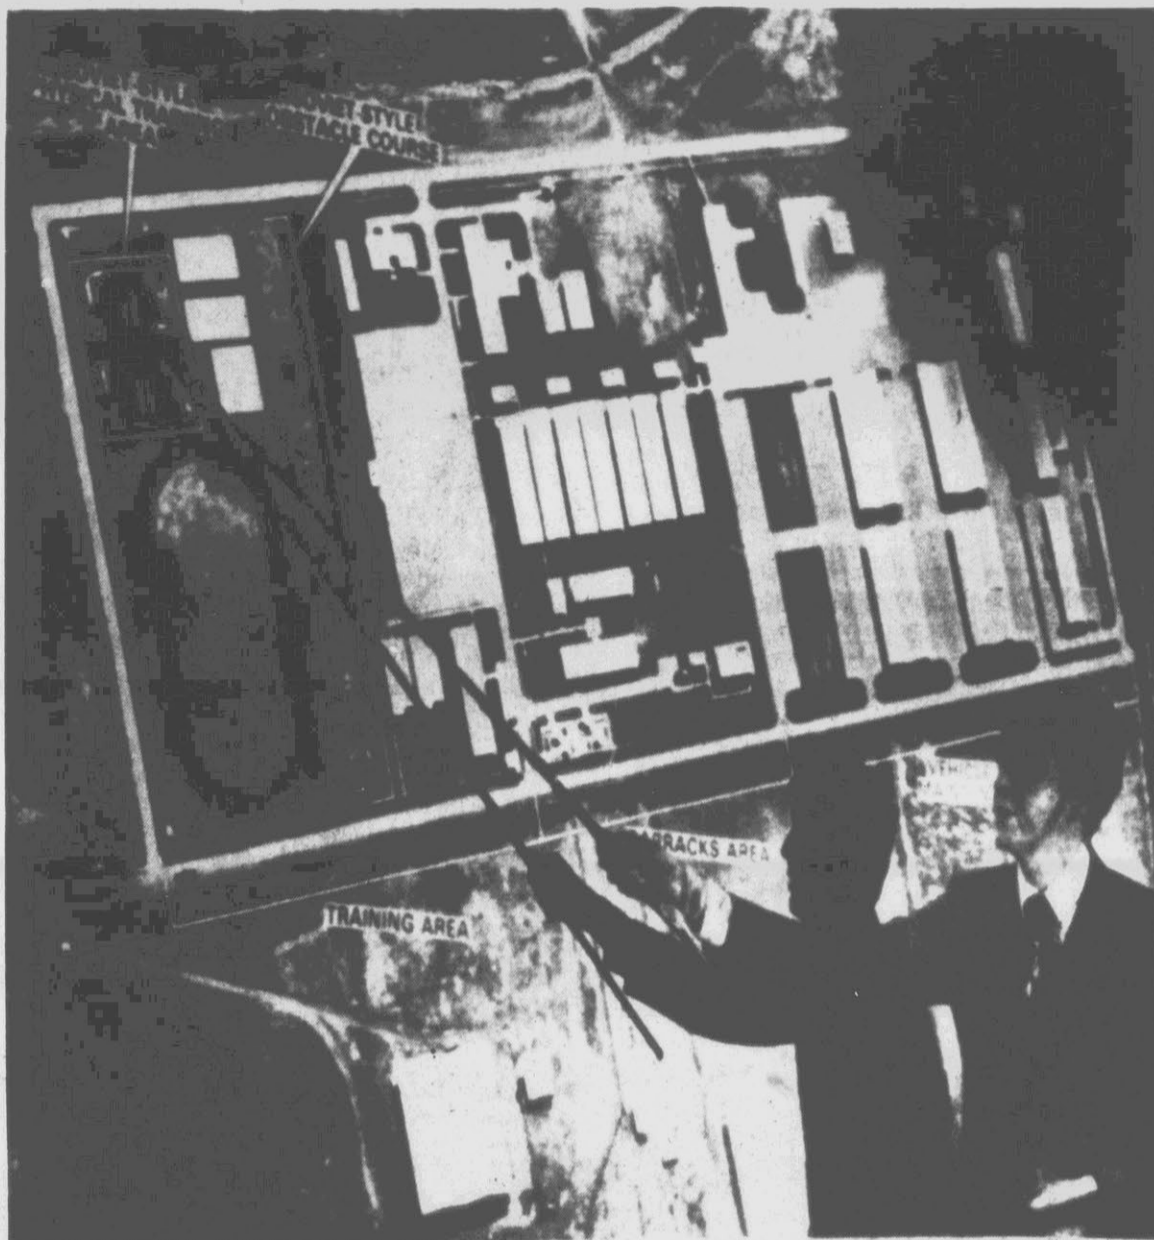

Navarro maintained the administration's release of the photographs was part of a plan to justify increased aid to the Salvadoran government.

"They (administration officials) have a plan and they know they are losing the war in El Salvador. They want to find an excuse in order to push up the military government of El Salvador."

There have been few public expressions of doubt in the United States about the administration's claims of a massive Name Hagerty Chairman Greenville Utilities Bd.

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

Harry Hagerty, former Greenville city manager, was elected chairman of the Greenville Utilities Commission board Tuesday night.

Hagerty, a member of the board since 1979, replaces Tom Shea, a member of the commission for 10 years and chairman for the past three years, who asked to be replaced.

The commission board also named John Ferren as secretary to the board, replacing Curtis Howell who will continue as assistant secretary. Margaret Wirth will continue to serve as vice chairman of the commission.

The commission also voted to delay the refunding of some $601,300 to electric customers until August and September, following a request for such action by the Pitt County Farm Bureau.

In a letter to the commission, the Farm Bureau said, "We feel that the refund should be spread over a period of time that would more equitably distribute it to farmers because of the high cost of curing tobacco during the summer when electrical bills have been astronomical."

The commission, during January and February, refunded a total of $796,360 to customers through credits of electric bills, while an estimated $430,000 will be refunded to customers this month.

The balance of the refund, part of a $4.7 million refund received from Virginia Electric and Power Co. last year from a rate settlement case, had been scheduled to be returned to customers in April.

Part of the Vepco refund was passed on to the commission's wholesale customers through a direct payment, while $2.66 million will be used to purchase the Vepco substation facilities here.

Ownership of the substation by GUC is expected to save customers $50 million to $75 million over the next 20 years.

In approving the refund delay, commission members noted that the August and September refund plan will benefit summer air-conditioning customers as well as seasonal use (bulk barn) customers.

The board also endorsed the payment of $273,800 to North Carolina Natural Gas Co. — GUC's supplier of natural gas — which under-billed the commission during the months of September, October, November and December because of an error on the part of NCNG.

Utilities Director Charles Horne said an independent meter service company has verified the error and that GUC's billings to its customers during the period indicate that more gas was billed for than was purchased. He added that the error involved some 67.6 million cubic feet of natural gas.

The commission also adopted a resolution asking the City Council to condemn land for a sewer easement across the lands of Alma Lee Paramore in the area of the White Road, south of Greenville.

The commission plans to construct a sewer outfall line on the property, adjacent to a drainage canal, but the owner has not been willing to give or sell the easement.

Nearly Halving College Student Federal Funds

By CHRISTOPHER CONNELL
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal aid to college students would be nearly cut in half by 1984 under President Reagan's budget proposals, Congress' top budget adviser said today.

Alice M. Rivlin, director of the Congressional Budget Office, said federal grants, loans, job subsidies and other aid peaked at $14.7 billion in fiscal year 1981.

Because of unrestricted loans that year "roughly 20 percent of all aid ... went to students from families with incomes over $30,000," she said.

She told a House subcommittee on post-secondary education the $14.7 billion helped finance the education of half of all college students — 5 million to 6 million — and paid "one-third of all student expenses for tuition and room and board."

She added that 75 percent of all student aid provided by governments and colleges came from Washington.

She said cuts already approved by Congress will reduce the federal aid to $14.3 billion this year and $12.7 billion in fiscal 1983.

Reagan is seeking further cuts in loans and grants that would lower the aid to $10.9 billion next year and $7.7 billion in fiscal 1984, she testified.

Education Secretary T.H. Bell, in a brief interview before he testified before a House Appropriations subcommittee, said of Ms. Rivlin's figures: "I can't imagine the total volume of loans being cut that much."

Bell said Ms. Rivlin was interpreting figures and projecting estimates from the perspective of a budget analyst for Congress rather than the Reagan administration.

"The administration is making, with respect to Guaranteed Student Loans, some quite drastic proposals which clearly would eliminate a lot of students," Ms. Rivlin said.

She suggested cutting the loan interest payments the government makes to banks as one alternative to Reagan's bid to bar graduate students from the program. "I agree that this is risky..." she said. "But as an alternative to just cutting off all graduate students in order to save money, maybe it's worth exploring this."

An estimated 600,000 to 700,000 graduate students now get Guaranteed Student Loans. Reagan wants to shift these loans to a new 14 percent loan program on which they would have to pay interest while still pursuing their studies.

THROAT CULTURES?

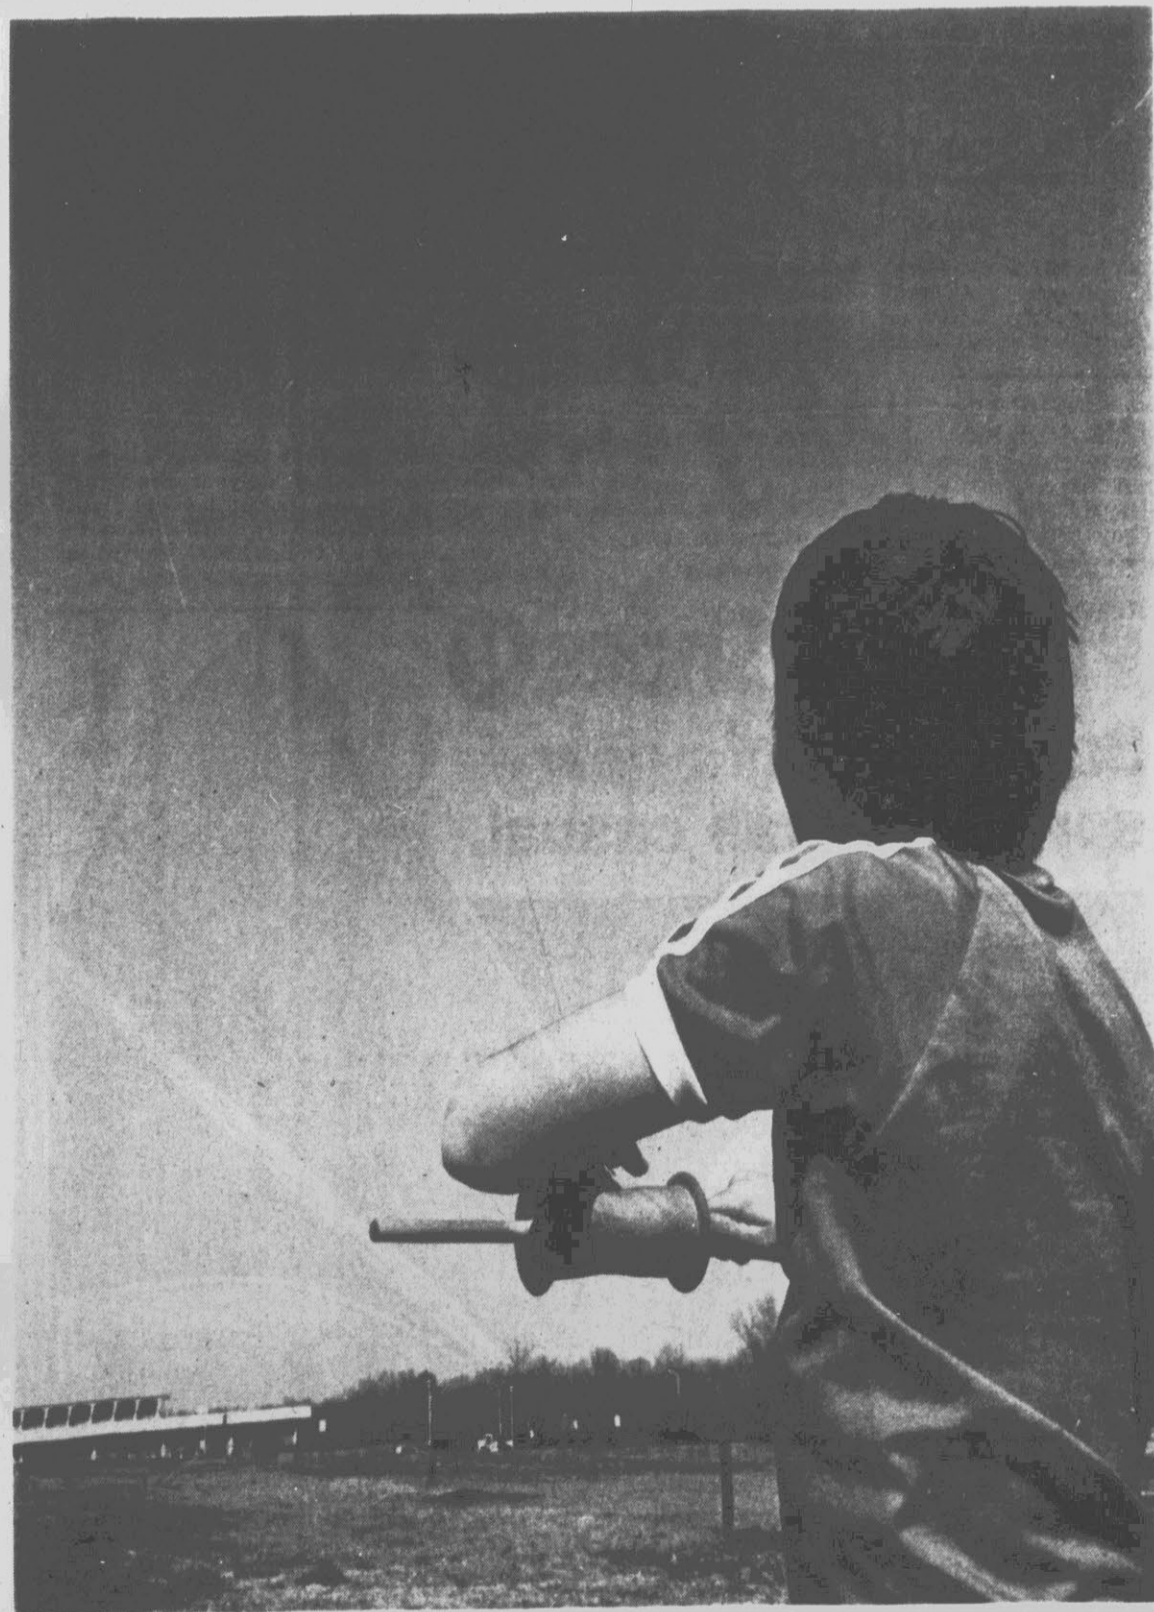

I remember a number of years ago that my family kept passing strep throat around, so our doctor suggested we go to the Pitt County Health Department and get throat cultures done. Then we all took antibiotics for a while and had another round of throat cultures done to assure us the strep siege was behind us. My daughter and her family seem to be having a similar problem now and their medical bills are piling up. I wonder if this same free or reduced fee service is still offered by the health department. F.B.

Health Department Personal Health Director Tillie Cullipher said what you describe is not a usual practice at the health department now and hasn't been during the 10 years she's been there. She can't request the culturing service from the state lab which the health department uses, except under the express request of a physician. If you want such a service given by the health department, she suggested you get your physician to request it, if he will.

Naval Base

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — The Soviet Union is building a naval base at Ream, in Southwest Cambodia on the Gulf of Thailand, the chief of Thailand's National Security Council reported today.

The security chief, Prongs Soonsiri, said the work on the base near Kompong Som, Cambodia's only deep water port, began several months ago. He claimed Soviet military aid to Vietnam, Cambodia and Laos now amounts to $6 million a day, and that Moscow has increased its military advisors in Vietnam from 5,000 to 8,000.

Freedom of Flight

IT'S KITE TIME AGAIN ... As soon as the March wind starts blasting, kids and adults alike dust off their kites, repair last year's broken strings, (and if it's an old-fashioned kite, re-tie the tattered tail) then head for open spaces away from power lines, trees and other kite-catching boogers. Mark Ross, 11, above, maneuvers his craft alongside his dad's as both kites mingle with a distant jet trail (extreme left.) Both Mark and his father, Dr. Gregory Ross, were enjoying the freedom of an empty parking lot downtown Tuesday. Although piloting an airplane is an out-of-reach experience for most people, kite-flying can give the same feeling of freedom of flight without the aerialist ever leaving the ground. Who Makes First Phone Call?

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am from England, but I am married to an American and we live in New York. My mother-in-law is also a New Yorker, and she insists that when my mother comes to visit us it is her place to ring up and say "hello," even though my mother-in-law has been informed of her arrival.

I feel that it is the responsibility of the resident of the host country to ring up and welcome the guest. Which is the correct way?

IRATE DAUGHTER

DEAR DAUGHTER: The person with the best manners makes the first telephone call.

DEAR ABBY: In reference to a letter asking if there is a "Hookers Anonymous": There is an organization made up of former madams, call girls and streetwalkers who counsel people trying to get out of prostitution. That group, formerly known as CAT (California Authority of Trollops), counsels at the Mary Magdalene Project in Los Angeles, where up to six prostitutes can live temporarily while they make the difficult transition into legitimate employment.

"Children of the Night" is a Los Angeles organization that helps 10- to 17-year-olds who have been forced out on the street to hustle as prostitutes. (About half of all prostitutes are 18 years old or younger.) Father Ritter renders a similar service to young male prostitutes at Covenant House in New York City.

It was my research and work with prostitutes that led me to develop programs for both adult and child prostitutes, who are often disregarded by more traditional agencies that provide social services.

Our hotline for referrals to specific programs for the prostitute is (213) 550-7188.

DR. LOIS LEE

DEAR DR. LEE: Thank you for bringing attention to a widely neglected and often overlooked population of people who are entitled to social services like everyone else. If organizations such as yours do not exist in other metropolitan areas, they should.

DEAR ABBY: I'm a happily married woman, except for one problem that frustrates me. My husband and I love to go dancing. Occasionally a woman will come to our table and ask my husband to dance. He goes and leaves me sitting on the sidelines to do a slow burn. When a woman asks him to dance, he never refuses.

Do I have a right to ask other men to dance? I don't mind when we exchange dances with other couples, but I hate to be left sitting on the sidelines.

Last Saturday night I sat out three dances in a row while my husband danced with some widows. Is there a solution? If so, what?

ARCADIA, WIS.

DEAR ARCADIA: You have as much "right" to ask another man to dance as those women who ask your husband to dance. Your husband is generous to dance with unescorted widows, but if you were left sitting on the sidelines three dances in a row, I think he overdid it.

YOUR DAILY Horoscope

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The early part of the day is filled with difficulties between persons in which greed may be the primary cause. The afternoon and evening gives you a chance to achieve success.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) A conversation with financial experts in the morning can prove helpful. Attend the social tonight and make new contacts.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) A credit matter does not work out right in the morning, but be patient and you'll get the backing you need later.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Handle private matters yourself and don't rely so much on others at this time. Remember, work comes before pleasure.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Keep out of any altercation between two associates and avoid trouble. Make serious plans for the future.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Obey all rules and regulations that apply to you keeps you out of trouble now. Come to a better accord with associates.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Don't neglect your work to dash off to seek pleasure, but carry through in a steadfast and wise fashion. Express happiness.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Instead of worrying about some obligation, carry through with it in a conscientious manner and you'll get the right results.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You have to be careful in the handling of regular routines at this time. Take health treatments and improve your appearance.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Show increased cooperation with co-workers and get much accomplished. Don't be too blunt with others now.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Make sure you can afford an expensive recreation you have in mind before you indulge in it. Sidelstep an opponent.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Don't become involved in arguments with family members at this time. Strive for increased happiness.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Use good sense in the handling of money matters. Alter your budget so you can have more working capital in the future.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she must be taught to cooperate with others instead of fighting for everything that is desired, otherwise your progeny could have a difficult life. There's a marked ability to adapt to new conditions. A good education is a must. "The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

Rubber Union, Goodyear Talk

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — United Rubber Workers International President Milan Stone says he expects the plight of the auto industry to put pressure on rubber company bargainers to seek lower costs.

But he held firm Tuesday to his position that Goodyear, Goodrich and Firestone are making enough money to meet the union's demands for maintaining the cost-of-living adjustment and giving a general wage increase.

Contracts with Goodyear, Goodrich and Firestone expire April 20.

The scene of the 1982 master contract talks in the rubber industry shifted Tuesday to Dayton, Ohio, as the URW sat down with the nation's largest tire maker, the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co.

Talks began Monday in Cleveland with Firestone and in Columbus with B.F. Goodrich. Negotiations between the URW and the 12-member Goodyear team, headed by Vice President of Industrial Relations Frank Tully, got under way.

Both sides have said they expect to avoid strikes that came in 1976 and 1979, but the URW has let members know it has a $2.44 million strike fund.

Stone, who took over as president after Peter Bommarito retired last fall, said he did not present a "laundry list" of demands — although top URW bargainers put together a broad list earlier this year at a meeting in St. Louis.

Stone said maintaining the union's cost-of-living adjustment is one of the top issues. Rubber workers staged a bitter strike for the cost-of-living adjustment in 1976.

Pay for workers in the industry's Big Four companies, including Uniroyal, averages $11.50 an hour.

An Attraction To Heavenly Bodies?

Some astrological forecasters have predicted earthquakes, tidal waves and other major disasters for today. These prophets of doom fear today's unusual astronomical configuration — a planetary alignment which occurs only once every 500 years. The planets will not actually be in a straight line, but they will all be on the same side of the sun, within a 93° arc. But, most scientists are not too worried. They believe earthquakes would only be triggered by external forces if the internal pressures were at near-earthquake level. The tides are affected by the celestial bodies. But the additional pull of the aligned planets will amount to less than .0001 of the combined pull of the sun and the moon.

DO YOU KNOW — Does the sun or the moon have a tidal effect on the tides?

TUESDAY'S ANSWER — The deepest waters are in the Pacific's Marianas Trench — over 37,000 feet.

Distribution Worked

We hope you read Sunday's account of how Pitt County's Social Service office handled the big cheese giveaway. It offers an example of efficiency and austerity in any number of local government agency services.

Earlier last week, the Associated Press compiled a cost assessment for the delivery of cheese to recipients in the two Carolinas (the lion's share being in North Carolina) at something over $3 million. State taxpayers shouldered the bill.

In Pitt, volunteers — 25 of them — were called in to help cope with the planning, preparation and distribution. Pitt County spent no extra money on the distribution project's planning though it required some extra work-hours by the Social Services director and assistant director.

The volunteers collectively put in many, many hours. And even the Pitt County Extension Service contributed to the overall program.

The whole scene reflected a conscientious and capable and efficient handling of what a Social Services Department director in South Carolina described as "the worst headache of all" in her 35 years of social work and termed distribution of 5,100 blocks of cheese at a cost of several hundred dollars as a "no-win" situation.

The Pitt project is expected to run through the third week of March; but even so, a heart-felt "well done" and expressions of appreciation have already been earned by Social Services Director Ed Garrison and Assistant Director Doris Cayton.

As for the volunteers who helped make it all possible, we cannot say enough. They are a shining example of what volunteerism is all about ... and, as this newspaper has repeatedly said, there are so many fields in which this kind of public service is of inestimable value to local communities, their counties, the state and nation.

We're proud of our volunteers, and appreciative, too. It's an example of citizenship at its best.

OR IS THAT TOO MUCH TO HOPE FOR?

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON — No sooner had Sen. Bob Packwood apologized to fellow Republican senators for depicting President Reagan as a bumbling, senile racist than he made his continuation as Senate Republican campaign chairman a critical issue for the Reagan administration.

The apology behind him, Packwood informed the weekly Senate Republican luncheon meeting that his campaign committee's polls showed Reagan administration policies were losing the party any chance at blue-collar workers, minority groups and women. Since that was precisely the burden of his Associated Press interview containing the ad hominem attacks on Reagan, the sincerity of Packwood's apology was suspect. Doubt about repentance deepened after the luncheon when he issued a statement making clear he did not repent what he said about Reagan, only that he said it publicly.

Besides negating his apology, Packwood's remarks at the luncheon represented an extension of what prominent Republicans in Congress are doing to their administration. But while others have limited attacks to the budget deficit, Packwood assaulted the heart of Reagan policy and the president himself. Packwood's personalized opposition to Reagan's AWACS sale to Saudi Arabia last year now extends to social and economic questions.

Whether Packwood stays as campaign chairman will answer two questions transcending the aberration of one extraordinarily passionate senator: Are there any inhibitions on behavior of Republicans holding congressional leadership posts? Can any Republican attack the president without fear of retribution?

The latter question recalls the recent past in Washington, when any Democrat could savage president Jimmy Carter with impunity. That's why Reagan's aides have been alarmed over anti-Reagan rhetoric by congressional Republicans.

Consequently, after Rep. Denny Smith's public accusations of Reagan betraying fiscal integrity, he was called into the White House for heart-to-heart talk. Smith, a conservative freshman from Oregon, is encountering more than words in retribution. His request for Vice President Bush at a fund-raiser has not yet been granted — and never will be if presidential aides have their way.

But a firm rule on retribution is far from established, particularly for senators. Concern in the Senate Republican cloakroom over Packwood's conduct was surpassed by anger that Reagan's recent Western speeches criticized Sen. Pete Domenici (R-N.M.), chairman of the Senate Budget Committee, for his alternative budget without mentioning him by name. Senate majority leader Howard Baker complained in a telephone conversation with the president, after which Reagan altered a speech to eliminate even oblique criticism of rebellious Republican senators.

Actually, Domenici's conduct is part of the same undisciplined climate that spawned Packwood's excesses. Before delivering his speech, in which he abandoned Reagan's budget, Domenici spent the day at White House meetings attended by the president, without hinting at his plans. Such insulting behavior toward a president has become routine for senators, but for a president to implicitly criticize Pete Domenici's policies is lese majeste.

In this spirit of senatorial immunity, the immediate White House impulse to lash back at Packwood was suppressed. During the same telephone conversation with the president, Baker asked the White House to keep quiet and certainly not interrupt financial cooperation with the Senate Campaign Committee. Reagan agreed.

That means any retribution visited upon Packwood must come from the majority leader. A dozen Republican senators — including Sen. Strom Thurmond (S.C.), president pro tempore of the Senate — have told Baker that Packwood should relinquish his post.

Baker's decision will be determined by whether he believes easing Packwood out of the chairmanship or keeping him there would be less damaging to Senate Republican election prospects. Considering protests from angry campaign contributors, Baker may find purging Packwood the lesser evil. "If the Republican majority in the U.S. Senate want to keep their majority," Lyn Nofziger, Reagan's former political aide, told us, "they ought to get themselves a new

Care With Uranium Mining

Uranium in North Carolina. The possibility exists.

Two state geologists and the U.S. Bureau of Mines say uranium may exist in western North Carolina in quantities suitable for commercial mining.

It is seen as being in the Dan River Basin and in a wilderness area of the Pisgah National Forest.

It is estimated there are 53,000 tons of uranium deposits in the state. The price of uranium is down, from $40 to $23, but it is expected to be in high demand during the latter part of this century.

No doubt if the uranium is found to be there, there will be great pressures to mine it. The mining will probably be carried out, but North Carolina should build in all safeguards possible now to make certain that our wilderness areas are not destroyed for the uranium beneath them.

Back To The 'Noodle'

President Reagan has been very harsh on people who cheat on welfare, students who don't pay back their loans to the government, and those who are constantly looking for handouts from the government. He's ordered the Justice Department to go after them with a vengeance.

But to my knowledge not one person in the Pentagon, or a defense firm executive, has ever been censured for wasting the taxpayer's money on a military system that doesn't work.

There is a reason for this. Weapons have become so sophisticated now that no one ever stays around long enough to be blamed when the final product is unveiled.

This is what would happen if Congress held a hearing on the new MT Noodle, four-seater jeep that the Army claims it cannot do without.

"Will the witness identify himself and tell us his present position in the Pentagon?"

"Gen. Mark Dowdy, management director of the MT Noodle weapons program."

"General, according to our records, the Army told us that the Noodle would cost $15,000 per unit. The first one to come off the line this year is priced at $250,000. Could you explain the price differential?"

"As it was originally conceived the Noodle was going to be an armored jeep which would be used to transport mail and pay from headquarters to the front lines. But then Gen. Savage..."

"Who is Gen. Savage?"

"He was the officer originally in charge of designing and constructing the Noodle, with the aid of the Wellback Motor Company."

"When was that?"

"My records show that was in 1961. I never knew Savage, but I understand he was a very fine officer."

"Where is he now?"

"He was buried with full military honors at Arlington Cemetery, in 1979."

"Then it was his program?"

"The original Noodle was his idea, but after he left, the project was taken over by Lt.

ed the radar turret made the jeep top heavy, and every time it moved in mud it fell over on its side. So it was decided to put a torpedo underneath it to balance the weight.

"This necessitated an entire new chassis. Gen. Druthers was working on this when he decided to run for Congress, and the project was then given to Col. Mike Gilardi of the 101st Airborne Division. His team added a parachute to the front- and back bumper, and replaced the motor with a 105 howitzer gun."

"What good is a jeep without a motor?"

"Gilardi asked himself the same question after seeing a prototype. So he took the problem to the consulting firm of Riggins, Druid, who design-

Gen. Witherspoon Rolf, an anti-aircraft expert.

"Rolf and his people came up with the notion of installing two heat-seeking ground-to-air missiles on the fenders of the jeep, which could be fired from a radar-controlled turret in the back seat."

"Would you say this added to the cost of the vehicle?"

"Well, let's say it didn't lower the price."

"What happened next?"

"When Gen. Rolf retired and was made chairman of the board of Wellback Motors, Gen. Freeman Druthers took over the Noodle. I believe this was in 1971. Druthers, a former judge advocate, was going to go ahead on production, but tests show-

HOMEMADE GODS

When Moses was on the mountain receiving the Ten Commandments from God, the other Israelites waiting below got tired of waiting for him to return. So they made themselves another god by melting down their golden ornaments into the statue of a golden calf.

Nothing is more foolish than for people to worship and attribute supernatural powers to something they have made themselves. Yet worship of this kind is a very human trait, and very common also. The golden calf is an apt symbol of money, and millions of people devote themselves to the worship of money they themselves have made. Power — in politics, business, or social life — is another idol which people set up and to which they bow down.

But no merely human cause is great enough, no human god worthy of our worship. So let us not worship the golden calf in the valley when the Creator of the universe is waiting on the mountain. — Elisha Douglass

Now Quite Clear

By BILL NOBLITT
(Second of Two Articles)
RALEIGH — At last it becomes quite clear just why the North Carolina General Assembly gave the ax to the Sunset Commission.

That commission was suggesting the elimination of any number of useless, needless, expensive boards and commissions, and sweeping changes in others.

The General Assembly had established the review and funded it.

Then, the reports started coming in. Many of the changes proposed would have directly affected the pet projects of many legislators.

If Sunset had moved aggressively ahead as first outlined, there would be little need, now, for a Supreme Court ruling, opinions from the attorney general, legislative study commissions and upcoming debate, or the strongest prospect of further court actions to get legislators off the 90 boards, commissions or councils on which they now serve.

Dead
A lot of those groups would no longer be in existence. As the Sunset Commission was learning before it was shot down by legislators, numbers of those groups don't truly serve a vital function and actually cost taxpayers added money through either subsidies to the agencies, or through unnecessarily higher cost of particular goods or services.

Why should there be some 400 boards and commissions in 15 departments or agencies of state government? Why can't the professionals hired to run the programs do that?

The answer contains a mix of popular and power politics. Having a board is supposed to provide wider establish a board, get themselves named to that board and then run the program, all the while retaining the legislative seat from which power and influence and money can be directed toward the success of the program.

The boards, 90 of which have legislators on them, carry on such routine business as hiring and firing, buying and selling, making rules, imposing fines, issuing permits or licenses, setting policy and so forth.

The action of killing Sunset and of filling commission seats themselves is part of a pattern of power expansion in the North Carolina General Assembly. Attention has been called to those two particular areas, and some action appears possible down the road.

The average citizen still does not understand the broad implications of other maneuvers: legislative control over federal block grant funds, restrictions on executive agency freedom to make line item budget transfers, the strong possibility that before much longer the Legislature will be preparing its own budget as a counterpoint to the governor's proposals.

Even harder to grasp is the way by which legislators have begun to bury major policy and law in obscure passages of the budget book so that the only person or citizen representation and input. It also is supposed to somehow raise the level of decision-making above daily bureaucratic functions into the realm of policy-making. A board also provides a ready slot which governor or legislator can use to reward a loyal supporter, and lately a board has become more and more a way in which legislators can conceive a program, set up an agency,

To the editor:

Sunday's "Family Weekly" article by Rabbi Kushner implies that God had His reasons for taking the Rabbi's son. This is a belief held by most denominations. I question clergymen who teach this, for it is not substantiated by scriptures, not logical and contradicts our understanding of fatherhood. God has revealed Himself to Christians as the Father in Heaven. A father raises and instructs children to live, not die. God, calling Himself Father, must be telling us He is like that with us. My father never showed his love by breaking my arm. Why would anyone worship a God who might take his life today?

Rabbi Kushner states, "When we cried out, God answered ... by inspiring people to reach out to us so that we would know that we were not alone." How "caring" of God to kill the boy and then send people to comfort them. The Bible (KJV) — says God is light and in Him is no darkness at all. Death, sickness, fear and torment are forms of darkness. God cannot do or give what is not in His make-up. God IS love. How illogical for God to take a life because He loves them. Jesus Christ demonstrated God's love by healing, not making people sicker. God can fellowship with live people only. Some churches have fed us a bill of goods.

'Just Beginning' Apply The Voting Rights Act

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — The fact that groups other than civil rights organizations are resorting to the federal Voting Rights Act in legal battles demonstrates the versatility of the act, says a North Carolina official.

State Elections Board Chairman Alex Brock says conservative groups including one in Greensboro are using the act in legal fights against annexation.

In Guilford County he said, residents of heavily white suburbs are fighting a proposal to annex 13,000 people, and they have argued that annexation would dilute voting strength of Greensboro's blacks.

Similar moves are taking place in other areas as people realize that the 17-year-old Voting Rights Act outlaws changes in laws or other policies that would have the effect of reducing the strength of minority voters, Brock said.

In the past, he said, most of the groups using the act have been civil rights organizations which have cited its provisions outlawing literacy tests and other obstacles that have kept blacks from voting.

The act's secondary provisions haven't been used much, Brock said, because it's taken years for "the little bell (to ring) in (people's) minds."

As the Senate faces a decision on the law's future, the Voting Rights Act is now having its most visible impact on North Carolina politics.

In recent months, the 1965 federal law has been responsible for:

— Federal rejection of redistricting plans for Congress, state House and state Senate seats. New plans have been enacted and now face review under the act by the U.S. Justice Department.

— The cancellation of a 14-year-old amendment to the state Constitution saying counties couldn't be divided to form legislative districts. The ruling has led to the Legislature's division of many counties in shaping districts.

— The striking down of Guilford County's plan for electing county commissioners, also by the U.S. Justice Department.

— A pending challenge before the Justice Department against several changes made over the past six years in the way Wilson County elects its commissioners.

Forty of North Carolina's

100 counties are covered by the law, which is due to expire Aug. 6, unless Congress extends it.

Two Collisions Here Yesterday

An estimated $2,100 property damage resulted from two traffic collisions investigated by Greenville police Tuesday.

Officers said cars driven by Joyce Black Jarvis of Ayden, Linda Sue Turner of Winterville and Ruth Edwards Evans of Ayden collided about 9 a.m. on Evans Street, 46 feet south of the Greenville Boulevard intersection, causing an estimated $1,000 damage to the Jarvis car, $200 damage to the Turner vehicle and $300 damage to the Evans auto.

A car driven by Robert Earl Williams of 603 Bancroft Ave. and a truck operated by Gerald Edward Honn of Goldsboro collided about 1:26 p.m. at the intersection of Greenville Boulevard and Kirkland Drive, causing $600 damage to the Williams car.

Police said no damage resulted to the truck.

ed an armored tow truck to pull the jeep along when it had to be moved. It added $100,000 to the cost of the vehicle. But without the tow truck we would have had to scrap the entire Noodle program, and right now we have nothing to replace it with."

"As the officer now in charge of the program, can you guarantee us that you can produce the Noodle for $250,000 each?"

"I could if I was going to stay with it, sir. But I've just been reassigned to head a feasibility study to see what it would cost to launch a cruise missile from an armored tow truck."

chairman." To prove this, Novziger withdrew from helping this year's Senate-House fund-raising dinner.

But apart from dollars and cents, Packwood's fate will determine whether there are limits on a party leader's conduct. Listening to Packwood interpret his polls, one colleague later told us, "Some of us got the idea that Bob is using his chairmanship to oppose administration policy, to move the party to the left."

Several senators at that luncheon disputed Packwood's reading of his polls — including Pete Domenici. Yet Packwood is only a bizarre manifestation of the syndrome of which Domenici is part: nothing said by Republicans in Congress supporting their party's most popular figure since Eisenhower. What happens to Packwood is a minimal test of whether Senate Republicans are ready for self-government.

Mayors Urge Congress Not To Trim Urban Money

By DON McLEOD
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) —
The president of the U.S. Conference of Mayors, saying cities have already taken more than their share of budget cuts, pleaded with Congress today not to slash any more urban aid from the federal budget.

Testifying before the House Budget Committee, Mayor Helen Boosalis of Lincoln, Neb., also said cuts proposed in the fiscal 1983 budget threaten local support for President Reagan's "new federalism" program.

"The Conference of Mayors urges that this committee and the Congress not make any additional cuts in urban programs this year," she said. "We have taken more than our share of federal budget cuts already."

"Cities are still struggling to adjust to these cuts, at a time when local budgets are also hurt by high unemployment, high interest rates, growing restrictions in municipal bonds, and reductions in state assistance."

"Additionally, we ask that you look carefully at the consequences to our nation if we, again, back off of our commitment to our country's neediest citizens," the mayor added.
She also said the restructuring of federal-state-and-local relations proposed by Reagan in his State of the Union speech is complicated by the budget cuts he proposes.
Under Reagan's 1983 budget, the more than 40 programs to be turned back to the states under "new federalism" would be cut by more than $12 billion next year.

If the "new federalism" plan is adopted and the 1983 budget cuts are approved, the programs would be handed to the states at the lower funding levels in fiscal year 1984.
"These reductions in funding undermine whatever support may exist for the administration's program," Ms. Boosalis said.
She said program responsibilities already are being dumped on state and local governments without the money or tax sources to pay for them. The proposed budget would aggravate this trend, she said.

"The 1983 budget reductions and the elimination of urban programs proposed in the budget would impose substantial new burdens on cities — cities which are already reeling from the more than $28 billion in cuts enacted in 1982, as well as high unemployment and high interest rates," the mayor said.
"Once again, cities are being told to assume new responsibilities out of existing programs ... and with fewer overall resources," she said.
"Further, beneficiaries of these federal programs are being told to address their unmet needs to local and state governments, which threatens to compound the human and budget problems facing cities.

"All indications are that the result will be increases in property and other local taxes, additional layoffs, and service cuts at the local level," she said

Congressmen Move To Block Construction Billing Proposal

By JEFFREY MILLS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) —
Twenty-five congressmen are trying to block a proposal that would allow investor-owned utilities to bill consumers for new construction years before the facilities produce any new electricity.
Rep. Tom Harkin, D-Iowa, who introduced a bill Tuesday to stop the plan, said that "billions of dollars in the pocketbooks of American consumers are at stake."

"pre-billing consumers" for power plants that won't be finished for up to a dozen years.
Harkin called the plan "a dandy deal, indeed, for the utility companies," and added, "I say stop this ripoff before it gets off the ground."
Rep. Sam Gejdenson, D-Conn., one of 24 co-sponsors, said the companies "would have no incentive to hold down rates" if the billing plan is approved.

"They could buy all the generating equipment they want, without the possibility of a bank questioning the advisability of any of it," he said.
Rural electric cooperatives and municipally owned utilities, which buy their power at wholesale rates, also oppose the plan.
The House bill would allow utilities to bill customers for construction in some limited situations, including when investor-owned electric companies could demonstrate financial hardship.
"We shouldn't fiddle with the system for setting rates because some companies say they haven't had an adequate rate of return," Harkin said.
He added, "It's a false argument for them to say they can't raise the money. I want them to show that they've tried to sell bonds on the open market but been unable" before billing consumers is allowed.

The companies are seeking permission to bill consumers for construction work in progress, rather than wait until new plants are "used and useful."

Urges Employ Older Worker

Stephen Brobeck, head of the Consumer Federation of America, said if the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission approves the plan to change the traditional billing practice, it would cost consumers about $12 billion a year. The billing proposal has the endorsement of the Energy Department.
Utilities say they are having difficulty raising money for needed projects and need to get it from customers. They describe the plan as

In an age of shrinking budgets and increased emphasis on maximum productivity, the value of the older worker should not be overlooked as a means to increase efficiency. This is the message of "Employ the Older Worker Week" in North Carolina, March 14-20.
Gov. Jim Hunt proclaimed the observance to coincide with a national observance. The national observance has emphasized the importance of older workers for more than 20 years.
Doris Williford, older worker specialist in the local Job Service office, said the observance "is an annual means of focusing public attention to the importance of using this valuable employment resource ...
When you realize that more than two million North Carolinians, two-thirds of whom are in the civilian labor force of the state, are 40 years and older, you begin to see how important it is that we make good use of their experience and knowledge."

Pre-Registering At Kindergarten

Kindergarten pre-registration for the 1982-83 school year will be held at Chicod Elementary School on March 17 from 9 a.m. until noon in the media center.
All children in the Chicod attendance area who will be 5 years old on or before Oct. 16 are eligible to attend kindergarten during the next year. Parents are required to bring an updated immunization record and a birth certificate with their child.
Persons having questions concerning pre-registration should call the school at 746-6742.

Sets Dance Class For Children

The Greenville Recreation and Parks Department will offer lessons in a class of combined modern jazz, tap, ballet exercise and acrobatics to be taught by Diane Lamb.
Classes will include instruction for beginners, intermediates and advanced students aged 3 and up. The six-week session will be held Tuesday evenings beginning March 16 at Jaycee Park. Each class will be one hour long.
The schedule is: ages 3 and 4 — 5 to 6 p.m.; ages 5-9 — 6:05-7:05 p.m., and ages 10 and up — 7:10 to 8:10 p.m.
Additionally, a session for ages 13 and up of persons having a minimum of two years dance experience will be held if there is sufficient interest. This class would involve choreographing and displaying routines.
Fee for the six-weeks class is $10. A minimum of 12 persons per class is required. Students are to wear leotards and tights and to bring tap shoes or hard sole shoes if possible.
Pre-registration is a must and can be made by calling either the Greenville Recreation and Parks Department at 752-4137, extension 200 or Diane Lamb at 756-7849.

SKY LOUNGE — Chimney Rock Park's Sky Lounge atop the elevator to Chimney Rock (N.C.) burned down September 5, 1981, but the structure will soon be rebuilt as an airlift brought prefabricated sections for the new structure to the pad. The 10-hour operation began early Tuesday as St. Louis Helicopter Airways Inc. from Missouri airlifted 40-50 tons of building materials from the parking area to the lounge pad. Helicopter was the only way for the material to be brought to the cliff which is 25 feet above the parking elevator, and is serviced by an elevator. (AP Laserphoto)

'Tight Money' Budget Is Submitted For Britons

LONDON (AP) — Industrialists and newspapers today generally welcomed the Conservative government's anti-inflation budget. But opposition Labor Party and union leaders said it is timid and does nothing for Britain's unemployed.

The government's cautious package, underlining Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher's tight monetary strategy, "will strengthen the foundations of economic recovery." Chancellor of the Exchequer Sir Geoffrey Howe told Parliament as he introduced the budget Tuesday.

It will cut energy costs to Britain's recession-battered industry and seek to stimulate investment and create jobs to combat severe unemployment currently pegged at 3.1 million, the worst since the Great Depression of the 1930s.

He also announced increased welfare payments and a modest boost in Britain's standard tax exemption.

Howe said he expected inflation to fall in 1982-83 to around 9 percent from its current annual rate of 12 percent. He also proposed raising excise taxes on cigarettes, gasoline and liquor.

He said the projected deficit on the $208 billion budget for the fiscal year starting April 1982 would be $17.2 billion, $2 billion less than last year's.

"We haven't got all we wanted, but these are moves in the right direction," said Sir Terence Beckett, director-general of the Confederation of British Industry.

He said business leaders believe the budget will bring a cut in interest rates, easing the squeeze on business after two years of deep recession and tight credit.

"First Stage to Life-Off," the Daily Mail said in a banner front-page headline. "Just The Job" said Rupert Murdoch's mass-circulation Sun tabloid.

However, The Times of London in an editorial expressed "mild disappointment at the low level of expansion injected into the economy ... but strong approval of the wide range of measures proposed."

The liberal Guardian said in an editorial that "the unemployed deserve far better than this" and lamented the government's decision not to relax Mrs. Thatcher's austerity policies that the Labor Party and trade unions have blamed for much of the country's economic woes.

Labor leader Michael Foot branded it a "threats and patches" budget that showed "no understanding of the scale of the catastrophe which has befallen our country."

Group Hosts Prisoners

Jarvis Memorial United Methodist Women hosted 30 prisoners and their families at a pre-release and after-care luncheon today at Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church in downtown Greenville.

The luncheon was co-chaired by Mrs. Charles Sweat and Mrs. Rick Vaughn and was sponsored by a newly formulated sub-action group of Jarvis Memorial's UMW Christian Social Involvement.

JUDGE PAUL WRIGHT

Judge Paul Wright of Goldsboro, a district judge, was the luncheon speaker. He spoke on "A New Start" and was introduced by Mrs. Charles Kavanaugh, president of the Jarvis Memorial United Methodist Women. The Rev. Carol Goehring, Jarvis Memorial's associate minister, gave the invocation.

About 80 people attended the luncheon.

'Covert Action' Against Nicaragua Said Approved

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan has approved a CIA plan for covert operations against Nicaragua and is directing the U.S. intelligence agency to start forming a paramilitary force of Latin Americans. The Washington Post said in today's editions.

White House spokeswoman Kim Hoggard declined to comment on the article Tuesday night.

The newspaper said that according to informed administration officials, which it did not identify, Reagan has rejected the use of American military forces in direct operations against Nicaragua.

Administration officials have charged that Central American nation is serving as the military command center and supply line for guerrillas in nearby El Salvador.

But as part of the administration's strategy in the region, said the Post, the authorized covert plan directs the CIA to start recruiting and financing a paramilitary force of up to 500 Latin Americans. They are to operate from camps along the Nicaragua-Honduras border, said the newspaper.

In Managua, meanwhile, the Nicaraguan government issued a sharply worded statement Tuesday night, protesting "violation of the country's air space by North American spy planes."

The foreign ministry's communique said, "These irresponsible acts serve to deepen still more the serious crisis and tension moving through the Central American area."

The CIA-recruited commandos, said the Post, would try to destroy such targets in Nicaragua as power plants and bridges, with the aim of disrupting the nation's economy and diverting the leftist Sandinista government's attention and resources.

According to the newspaper, CIA strategists think such operations inside Nicaragua would slow the flow of arms to El Salvador, whose junta is supported by the United States against leftist insurgents.

The newspaper's sources said it would take months for the commandos to be recruited, trained and put in position.

President Reagan and other officials have refused to comment on reports of the covert action plan. The Post had said on Feb. 14 that such a plan existed, but said then that it was not known whether Reagan had approved the plan. Today's article said that according to several informed sources Reagan has formally authorized it.

The planned 500-man force would operate under a $19 million CIA budget, and could be enlarged if necessary, according to the Post.

The newspaper said that according to knowledgeable but unnamed officials, the plan was supported by Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr. and Defense Secretary Caspar

W. Weinberger.

Hours before the Post article appeared, Adm. Bobby Inman, deputy director of the CIA, dismissed Nicaraguan claims that the nation's defenses are being upgraded to combat possible intervention against the Sandinista regime by the United States or U.S.-backed groups.

Inman told reporters he knew of "no large destabilization action" under way against the Nicaraguan government.

Regarding Nicaragua's assertion that the CIA has a $19 million fund to try to topple the regime, Inman said, "I would suggest to you that $19 million and $29 million isn't going to buy you much of any kind of and certainly not of that kind of military force."

Toastmasters Meet Tonight

The Greenville Toastmaster's Club will meet tonight at Western Sizzlin' Steak House. Dinner will begin at 6:15 p.m. and the business and program will begin at 7:15 p.m.

At their last meeting Bill Sanders served as toastmaster and Whit Brown was table topics master. The awards for best table topics speaker and best evaluator were won by Paul Topper. Betty Topper won the best speaker awards.

Bill Sanders and Charlotte Flanagan recently attended an all-day workshop for new officers in New Bern. Sanders, Ms. Flanagan and Pat Flanagan also attended a multiclub meeting in New Bern.

The Greenville Toastmasters meet regularly the second and fourth Wednesday of each month at Western Sizzlin' Steak House. For more information call 756-7192.

Rev. Edwards Is Lenten Speaker

The Rev. Albert G. Edwards, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Raleigh, will be the guest preacher at the Greenville First Presbyterian Church at 8 p.m. Thursday for the second in a series of Lenten services.

Born in Scotland, Edwards came to the United States as a teen-ager. He graduated from Presbyterian College in Clinton, S.C., in 1940, then attended Union Theological Seminary in Virginia, where he graduated in 1943. Presbyterian College later awarded him the honorary degree of doctor of divinity.

Edwards served Presbyterian churches in Orange and Harrisonburg, Va., before coming to Raleigh in 1957.

The congregation invites the public to attend the service at the church, located at the intersection of Elm and 14th streets.

CHURCH MEETING
The Rev. M.E. Laws, pastor of Mount Shiloh Baptist Church, Winterville, asks all Mount Shiloh members to be present Friday at 7 p.m. for a business meeting.

Police Chief

BETHEL — Jerome Kirk Ratley of Rose Hill has been named police chief in Bethel effective April 1, Mayor Frank M. Hemingway announced Tuesday.

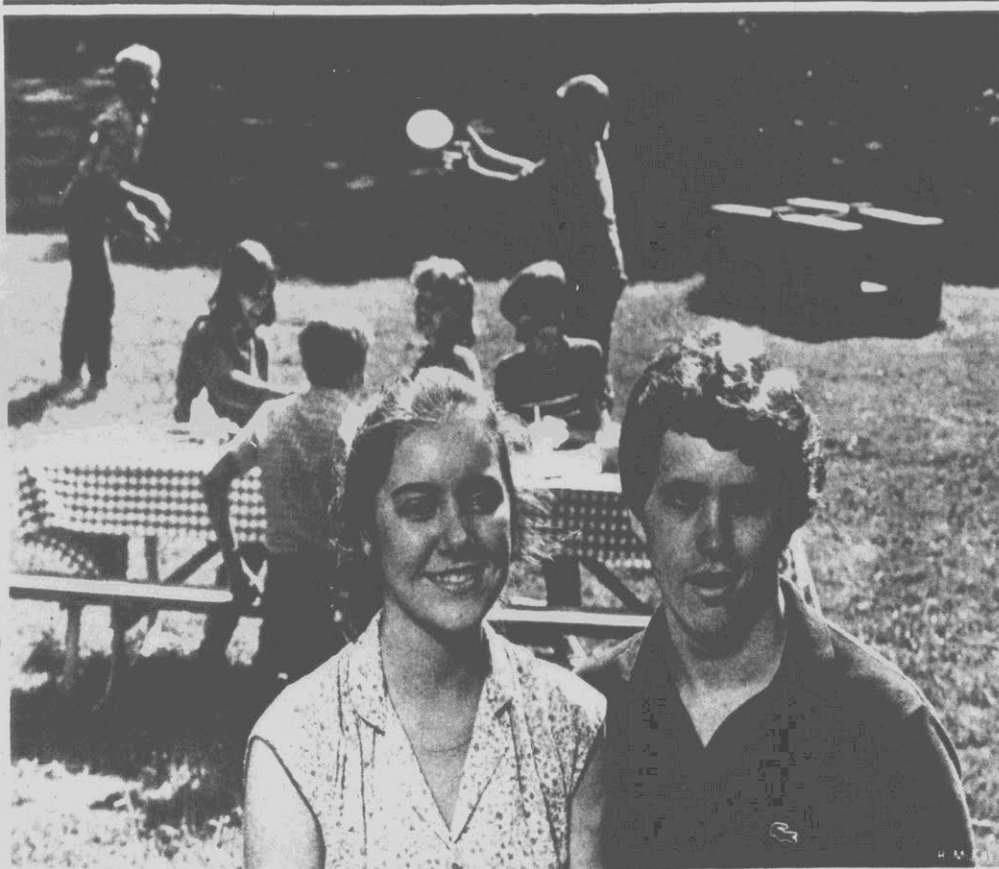

Ratley is now a lieutenant and assistant police chief in Rose Hill. He has been with the Rose Hill department for more than three years.

He has had extensive training in police activity and criminal law. He is a graduate of Smithfield-Selma High School and had three years at N.C. State, majoring in criminal justice.

He succeeds Walter Gray, who is retiring after 40 years of service with the department. Ratley's appointment was made at a special meeting earlier this week of the Bethel's Town Board.

PRECINCT MEETING
Pitt County Democratic Precinct No. 2 will hold a meeting Thursday at 8 p.m. at the precinct polling place for election of delegates to the county, district and state conventions.

"WE FOUND FRIENDS AT CHURCH."

Being a teenager these days isn't easy, but having friends helps a lot. And I found friends at our church. They are fun to be with. They care about me, and listen when I need to talk to someone.

I also discovered that Jesus Christ is real, and that he can guide us through every day. Our church is a place which helps our faith in Him to grow.

There are more than 10,000 churches in North Carolina. They come in all sizes and denominations. The one we found is Baptist. During this time hundreds of Baptist churches in North Carolina are having special HERE'S HOPE services.

This is your invitation to visit a Baptist church near you. I hope you will, that you will find friends there, and that you will discover, as I did, that Jesus Christ is real.

A 'Definite Risk' In Co-Signing For Loan view. Draw up a written agreement under which the borrower will eventually repay you, in part or full, if he or she defaults.

"People's situations go up and down," Ms. Wiegand says. "Even if someone does default ... sometime in the future they will likely be in a situation when they can repay."

In some cases, you may be tempted to lend someone money yourself rather than co-signing a loan from a financial institution. Again, Ms. Wiegand says, it is essential to put the terms in writing.

A promissory note should be part of the loan arrangement. The note should include the amount of money involved, when and how it will be paid back and what the interest charge — if any — will be. Any security or collateral that is put up in exchange for the loan should be described, along with what will happen in the event of a default.

The note should be signed by both the borrower and the lender and should be notarized. Ask a bank or other lending institution for a blank promissory note form to use as your guide.

Even the most casual loans should be documented for future reference, Ms. Wiegand says. Parents, for example, may lend money to a child without expecting repayment during their lifetime. Brothers and sisters may assume that the amount of the loan will be subtracted from the borrower's share of the estate. A dispute could arise unless you state the conditions clearly — on paper.

If a parent is giving a child an outright gift, he or she should make it plain. "Not knowing if or when a loan must be repaid could severely strain family relationships and cause resentment," Ms. Wiegand says.

Tight credit has forced a growing number of people to turn to friends and relatives for help in borrowing money, but a Cornell University financial specialist warns that generosity can be dangerous if you're not careful.

Co-signing a loan, for example, may not seem to be a very serious step. But you could wind up heavily in debt if the original borrower defaults. Your signature makes you legally responsible.

Elizabeth Wiegand, a specialist in family financial management for the extension service of Cornell University in Ithaca, N.Y., says studies have shown that as many as 50 percent of all the people who co-sign loans are asked to take some degree of responsibility for the unpaid debt.

"When an institution asks for a loan to be co-signed," she says, "it is a last resort. It means the borrower has no acceptable security to offer against the loan. When individuals co-sign, they are taking a definite risk that the lending institution won't take."

Never co-sign a loan for more than you could afford to pay off — just in case. "Don't jeopardize your own financial security," Ms. Wiegand says.

To protect yourself, you should get everything in writing — from the person you are co-signing the loan for and from the institution lending the money.

Ask the lending institution for copies of all papers relevant to the loan, including any warranties on an item purchased with credit. Get the lender to agree, in writing, to notify you immediately if the borrower misses a payment. The notification will make it easier for you to avoid late fees if you do have to make a payment.

The notification also means that you will find out about any problems before the case ends up in court.

Try to work out an arrangement with the lender to limit your liability so you do not wind up penalty charges, attorney's bills or court costs in addition to the principal.

Find out if the borrower has something of value which might be acceptable to you as collateral, even if it doesn't qualify as security from the lender's point of

Complain 'Maple' Syrup Has No Sap

BOSTON (AP) — It takes about 35 gallons of sap to make a gallon of pure maple syrup — except in some parts of Mississippi, where it doesn't take a drop.

And New Englanders who take pride in the real maple syrup aren't feeling too sweet toward the Southern moonshiners, according to the Boston Sunday Globe.

Thousands of gallons of syrup made of corn and cane but containing no maple are being sold under the label "pure maple" in violation of federal regulations, Robert Fish, director of regulatory compliance for the Nashville office of the U.S. Food and Drug Administration, told the Boston Sunday Globe.

New England maple syrup makers say the "maple moonshiners" are spoiling their product's image and hurting profits.

"A bunch of renegades way out in the Mississippi boondocks are breaking the law, and the government seems unable to do anything about it," said Roger Ames, executive vice president of the American Maple Products Corp., Newport, Vt.

"This junk is hurting the maple industry financially and hurting the image of our maple products," said David Marvin, who produces 3,000 gallons of maple syrup at Buttnut Mountain Farm, Johnson, Vt.

Vermont produced 545,000 gallons of the 1.4 million gallons made in the United States in 1981, according to U.S. Department of Agriculture figures. New York produced 331,000 gallons, New Hampshire 104,000 gallons, Massachusetts 40,000 gallons and Maine 12,000 gallons.

A gallon of pure syrup retails for $20 to $27 a gallon, while the Southern variety sells for about $16 a gallon.

Honor Society To Induct 19

By ECU News Bureau

Nineteen graduate and undergraduate students in the East Carolina University Department of English will be inducted into the ECU chapter of Sigma Tau Delta honor society on March 23.

The society's purpose is to award distinction to students, scholars and professional writers who have realized high accomplishments in the English language. Membership for students is based upon achievement in English studies.

Dr. Douglas McMillan, professor of English at ECU, is adviser to the campus Sigma Tau Delta chapter.

SHP Officials Mull Pushing Drug Investigation

By The Associated Press
State Highway Patrol officials were to decide today whether to investigate claims that a state trooper accused a district court judge and two prominent Columbus County citizens of involvement with illegal drugs.

Meanwhile a Superior Court judge has strongly criticized District Court Judge J. Wilton Hunt for "stepping on" the U.S. Constitution by closing a Whiteville court proceeding after his name was linked to drug activity.

Maj. Glenn Russel, director of patrol internal affairs, said Tuesday a decision on investigating the claims would be made after a meeting today between him and Maj. D.L. Matthews, director of patrol field operations for Eastern North Carolina.

A defendant in a traffic-court case, Edward Murray Inman of Cary, said March 2 that trooper J.H. Lee asked him whether he knew of drug dealings by Judge J. Wilton Hunt, Whiteville attorney Marvin Tedder and Ed Walton Williamson, a Columbus County commissioner.

The allegations were made behind closed doors during a Columbus County District Court session. Hunt, who was presiding over Inman's trial on driving under the influence charges, had sentenced Inman on a conviction of careless and reckless driving when Inman brought up the trooper's alleged claims. At that point, Hunt cleared the courtroom and questioned Inman, along with Tedder and other officials. Tedder, who requested a transcript of the closed session, was ordered Monday by Superior Court Judge Edwin S. Preston Jr. to make the transcript public. The court order was signed on the motion by a Raleigh newspaper, The News and Observer.

According to the transcript, Inman told Hunt and Tedder that Lee asked him about drug dealings and said he wanted to bring in the State Bureau of Investigation to "clean up this mess down here."

Hunt, according to the transcript, asked Inman if Lee claimed to know whether he, Tedder and Williamson were "involved in drugs."

Inman replied that Lee led him to believe the trooper knew but "just couldn't prove it and he was looking for a way to prove it." Inman said Lee told him "he wanted to get y'all pretty bad."

Preston, in an interview Tuesday, said he could think of no instance when a courtroom should be closed, except for certain aspects of a rape trial or when a matter would jeopardize national security.

"Court business is public business and everything that occurs in a courtroom is subject to the First Amendment's provision of openness," Preston said. "When something occurs in a public courtroom and is not open to the public, the provisions of the (U.S.) Constitution are stepped on and the people are denied their access to public business."

Preston declined to comment on whether he thinks action against Hunt is warranted.

Deepest Potholes In Memory

By ELISSA McCRARY
Associated Press Writer

ASHEVILLE, N.C. (AP) — Motorists driving through western North Carolina may find themselves dodging the deepest potholes area highway officials say they can remember.

"The potholes are definitely the worst this year that I've ever seen and I've been here a long time," said Jimmy Dugger, district engineer with the state Department of Transportation in Boone. "I don't know exactly what's caused it but it's bad trying to drive around here."

"There are a lot of signs of deterioration," added Daniel Martin, assistant division engineer with the transportation department in Asheville. "Some roads are coming out in chunks, six or eight feet and even up to 20 or 30 feet. They are just coming apart."

Officials say the conditions of paved roads from the Piedmont through the northwestern mountain counties are pitted with potholes and littered with broken pieces of asphalt.

Dugger said road work in the mountains gets behind schedule because area asphalt plants close down for the winter.

"By the time they open and we let the contracts, we're way behind before we start," Dugger said. "And winter lasts a long time up here, so it's early summer so we can really get anything done."

Meanwhile, the General Assembly has appropriated about $80 million for resurfacing of roads in the state — the largest amount ever earmarked for such projects.

State highway administrator Billy Rose said last year the state resurfaced 387 miles of roads. This year, 2,900 miles are scheduled for resurfacing.

"The state's 3-cent increase in the gasoline tax will bring in about $120 million this fiscal year and $80 million of that will go for resurfacing," Rose said. "We hope that will take care of most of the damaged areas."

Martin said he's optimistic that increased road maintenance funds will put mountain roads back in good shape.

"Until now, our maintenance money has been strained to the limit," he said. "We're hoping this money will give us the means to do what needs to be done to make our highways smoother and safer."

Most Believe Trial Was Fair

ATLANTA (AP) — A majority of Atlanta residents contacted in a telephone survey think Wayne B. Williams got a fair trial on charges that he killed two young blacks, a pollster reports. But he says blacks have a "lingering distrust of the judicial system."

Harry Ross, president of black-owned Management International Inc., said Tuesday a poll conducted the week after Williams was convicted found that 61 percent of the 155 telephone respondents believed Williams was guilty and got a fair trial.

But 58.8 percent of the same sample thought the trial was "politically influenced," Ross said.

A higher proportion of whites than blacks — 69 percent compared to 53.2 percent — believed Williams was guilty.

Ross, whose firm correctly predicted the outcomes of the general election and the runoff in last fall's mayoral race, said the poll shows that "poor communication" between the police and public has caused doubts about the investigation into the deaths of 29 young blacks.

He said the lack of communication prompted criticism of Public Safety Commissioner Lee Brown's decision to disband the child slayings task force after 23 of

Philo Junior High Students Are Staging An Opera

By JANET FOX
Sentinel Staff Writer
WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — Ha ha ha ha ha ha. Me me me me me.

Put that to music, and you've got the sound of Philo Junior High School two weeks before the curtain goes up on a bold venture — a school production of Donizetti's opera "Don Pasquale".

This is no ordinary school play. The director of the opera is John Stephens, a professional bass-baritone and voice professor at the University of Kansas. Stephens and a professional soprano, Susan Torella, have the leading roles in the production.

Singing along will be the school principal, Robert Clemmer, in the major role of Dr. Malatesta, and a chorus made up of half a dozen Philo teachers.

The musical director is Norman Johnson, director of the Piedmont Opera Theater and head of the opera department at the North Carolina School of the Arts.

The unusual collaboration of opera professionals and school people had its beginnings in the last two years, when the Winston-Salem-Forsyth County school system began using a federal grant to bring opera singers into the junior high schools to do demonstrations and educational programs.

Stephens was a big hit with the kids, Johnson said, partly because he always told the story of how he had started out as a football player, and probably would have continued on that path if a teacher had not heard him singing in the shower.

When Stephens sang some "heavy stuff" from "The Tales of Hoffman" last year at Philo, the children gave him a standing ovation. "They spontaneously rose to their feet," said Jane Pfefferkorn, coordinator of the junior high arts program for the school system.

"Philo is unique," Mrs. Pfefferkorn said. With 150 voices, Philo has the largest chorus of any of the system's schools. "I credit Reanza Murray (the chorus director). She is a model of exquisite teaching. When she can field a chorus of that size, while at other schools you can't get a dozen kids interested to save your soul, you know there is some magic there."

So, when Piedmont Opera Theater was wondering how to follow last year's act and settled on doing a major opera production at a few selected schools, Philo was an obvious choice.

"The kids in this part of town don't have many cultural opportunities," Clemmer said. In his first year at Philo last year, Clemmer was surprised at how receptive the children were to the opera activities. And at the beginning of this year, when he explained that a full-scale production would be almost a year-long project for the school, and asked how many students would like to be involved, "they all raised their hands."

Participation has taken many forms. In the fall, each class elected one or two representatives to attend a performance of "The Bartered Bride." Each class came up with the money to buy tickets for their delegates, and each representative was asked to observe one aspect — makeup, sets, costumes, etc. — particularly closely and report back to the school. Back at school, Ray Bell, the shop teacher, asked for volunteers to build the sets. "I had 75 volunteers," he said. "I picked eight of them. Everything seems to be falling in place real well. We've made the flats and now we're making filagree trim."

Another group of students and teachers have been working after school sewing costumes under the direction of JoAnn Miller, the home economics teacher.

"All we had to buy was the muslin for the aprons and elastic for the shirts," Mrs.

Miller said. "We've made at least 110 garments, mostly in after-school hours." Students in the photography club have been snapping and developing pictures for a scrapbook of the project, boys and girls in a physical education class are rehearsing a dance number, arts students took care of the formal invitations, the drama club is handling publicity and another group of students is planning a reception for about 500 people for after the two performances which will be at 6 and 8 p.m. March 15.

At least 200 students — almost half the enrollment — have some active part in the opera and virtually all the teachers are involved. "Dr. Stephens wanted a faculty chorus, and we have one," Clemmer said. "I signed up for a minor role. I'd had some experience singing in church choirs and I was in a little rock band in high school but I never thought I could sing opera." Stephens thought Clemmer could, however, and now he's even taking private music lessons.

At this stage of preparation, Clemmer gets to wondering if it's too much. "It's a lot of pressure on the kids and the teachers," he said. "When you start adding up all the hours, it's got to take away from something else. It's just mind boggling." But everyone connected with the project notices a change in the atmosphere. "It gives everybody a common goal," said Reanza Murray. "Teachers and kids have been able to try something they would never have tried otherwise. We're seeing each other in a little different light. There's a closer feeling. "And it has held down discipline problems. Mr. Clemmer's role is that you can't represent the school if you get in trouble. You've got to go straight if you want to go with the group." The project has helped students understand how everything they learn and all the academic disciplines fit together, Miller said. "Being creatively involved means so much to them," he said. "Teachers feel enthusiastic, not pressured. It's a good way to be involved with students."

Bloodmobile At School

SCHOOL BLOOD DRIVE ... A large contingent of D. H. Conley High School students, including the four above, participated in Tuesday's collection effort that resulted in the donation of 191 units of blood. (Photo by Barry Gaskins)

D. H. Conley High School hosted a successful Bloodmobile visit Tuesday as students as well as faculty and staff members turned out to donate, according to Ruth Taylor of the Pitt County Red Cross.

Mrs. Taylor said the school drive resulted in the collection of 191 pints of blood but an unusually high number of deferrals, 47, were recorded for various health reasons.

The next school visit will be March 18 at Farmville Central High School.

Money Orders Being Altered

Nine altered American Express money orders, passed at local businesses and savings and loans, have been picked up by Greenville police in the past two days, Chief Glenn Cannon reported this morning.

Cannon said the money orders, purchased at Fast Fare convenience stores in Kinston and Goldsboro by a person giving the names of Willie Sutton, Ronnie Sutton and Willie Smith, with addresses in LaGrange, Kinston and Goldsboro, were purchased in the amounts of $20 and $25.

They were altered to $120 and $125 by the addition of an "1" or "1" in red ink in front of the check-writer imprinted 20 or 25.

All of the altered money orders received so far, Cannon said, were made payable to "Jeffrey Lofton."

The chief says anyone receiving one of the altered money orders or having information about them should contact the Police Department's Detective Division, which is investigating the cases.

City Council's Agenda Is Set

Three public hearings on rezoning requests are among a variety of agenda items

Little Leeway For Candidate

Raleigh attorney Bert M. Montague, who is seeking Democratic nomination for the North Carolina Court of Appeals, notes that judicial candidates have limitations on their campaigns.

"The people running for the Legislature can promise to deliver things, but a judge can only promise to be a good judge," the 58-year-old lawyer said during a visit to Greenville for a speaking engagement Tuesday night.

Montague, former head of the North Carolina Administrative Office of the Courts, is seeking the seat to be vacated by the retirement of Chief Judge Naomi Morris.

Two other appellate judges also have announced plans to retire this year. Court of Appeals judges serve eight-year terms.

DENOUNCE EXERCISE PANMUNJOM, Korea (AP) — North Korea has denounced the U.S.- South Korean military exercise under way in South Korea as a step toward "all-out war".

scheduled for consideration by the City Council at Thursday's 8 p.m. meeting at city hall.

The hearings are scheduled on requests by: Thomas Taft for rezoning, from RA-20 to highway commercial, of 15.61 acres at the northwest corner of Stan-tonsbury Road and Allen Road; J. T. Manning to rezone, from RA-20 to R-9, 4.51 acres adjacent to the Tucker Farm development and Shenandoah Subdivision; and by James H. Hudson to rezone, from shopping center to office and institutional, 0.6 of an acre at the corner of Luci Drive and Eastbrook Drive.

Other business on the agenda includes: appointments to boards and commissions; consideration of a resolution calling for a public hearing on a request by the attorney representing Sunshine Leisure Ventures Inc. for an amendment to the City Code to allow the sale of flowers and related gardening items on Sunday; three Traffic Commission recommendations;

Scheduling of public hearings for April on two Zoning Ordinance amendments and on a request for rezoning 6.508 acres on the western side of N.C. 11-903 and U.S. 13 from highway commercial to R-6; city tax items; consideration of three privilege license applications;

Consideration of a resolution authorizing the execution of an agreement with the Department of Transportation covering the installation of metal poles in lieu of wooden poles at the intersection of Evans and 14th streets; request by Greenville Utilities for the adoption of a sewer capital reserve fund;

Consideration of bids for police spring-summer uniforms; adoption of a resolution declaring certain equipment surplus to the city's needs and authorizing sale of the equipment; an amendment to the city budget; acceptance of streets for permanent maintenance; consideration of an ordinance amending the City Code relative to street cut permits; and consideration of a revised transit route schedule.

Kite Contest

The Greenville Recreation and Parks Department will sponsor a kite-flying contest with registration to begin at 9:30 a.m. Saturday at Jaycee Park, 2000 Cedar Lane, next to Eastern Elementary School.

All kites must be registered and ready to be flown by 10 a.m. Contestants compete according to ages — all 5-year olds together, all 6-year olds together, etc., up through 12-year olds.

Prizes will be given to the highest and best flown kites and to the best built and most attractive homemade kite. All kites must be flown to be eligible for a prize. No fishing poles will be allowed.

Brightest Star Now Visible

Anyone who wants to see Canopus, the brightest star after Sirius, this season must hurry, amateur astronomer Carroll Webber said today.

Canopus will be two degrees above the south horizon at about 7:18 tonight and culminates four minutes earlier each day. To see the star one must be in a place that affords an unobstructed southward view to the horizon.

Nicaragua.....

Nicaraguan military buildup. Most skepticism has focused on the administration's claims that the Salvadoran insurgency is controlled by Nicaragua and Cuba. The skeptics include some members of Congress.

The Reagan administration is supporting El Salvador's civilian-military junta which is fighting against leftist guerrillas in the war-torn nation.

At Tuesday's briefing, Inman speculated that one reason the Nicaraguans have forcibly moved the Miskito Indians from the Nicaraguan side of the Rio Coco River might be to clear the area for possible use by Cubans. The river separates Nicaragua from Honduras.

Although he acknowledged he has no information to support this theory, Inman said: "If they have got any plans for movement of Cuban troops, Cuban support, supply or even simply additional support forces for involvement outside Nicaragua over into that area, that clearly is the staging area that they would want to use."

John Hughes, deputy director of the Defense Intelligence Agency, gave a detailed explanation of the photographs, which were declassified by the CIA.

The photos, said to be taken as recently as last month by U.S. aircraft, depicted Nicaraguan military barracks and airfields with runways long enough to accommodate sophisticated Soviet MiG-17 and MiG-21 jets that Inman said will be supplied to Nicaragua.

"They are clearly building in the barracks, and particularly the airfields, the capability to have a larger military force than all of their neighbors in Central America combined. They don't need that for defensive purposes," Inman said.

Nicaraguan officials have denied their army is any larger than the 14,000-member army maintained by Anastasio Somoza, who was ousted by the Sandinistas two years ago. Inman and Hughes ridiculed those denials, made as recently as last week by Wheelock, who has been visiting the United States.

Claiming Nicaragua is developing a regular army of between 25,000 and 30,000, backed by a militia of between 100,000 and 150,000, Inman said Wheelock "lied directly." Hughes said the Nicaraguan buildup "has already upset the military balance in Central America."

Among the photographs displayed to reporters was one which Hughes said showed a special forces training camp. Inman said, "We saw that they were training at that facility personnel in conducting attacks on airfields. They are clearly not looking to do that to defend inside Nicaragua."

Inman also said he was "angry" because many people, including some government officials, have been skeptical about information presented so far on the situation in Central America.

He dismissed virtually without comment Nicaraguan claims that the defenses are being prepared to combat possible intervention against the leftist Sandinista regime by the United States or U.S.-backed groups.

Inman said he knew of "no large destabilization action" underway against the government in Managua.

The Biggest Chicken In New York City Is Moving To Your Area.

This is your opportunity to grow with Perdue, the best-selling broiler in the Northeast. 1400 farmers from Dover, Delaware to Ahoskie, North Carolina now grow with Perdue Farms, Inc. For some, Perdue provides a good steady second income. Others depend on Perdue for their livelihood. But all agree that raising Perdue chickens is a good investment. And now, because of the increasing demand for Perdue products in the busy markets of Baltimore, Philadelphia, New York, Boston, and points in between, we need more broiler producers. And this is your chance to join 1400 other smart agribusinessmen and women in the profitable Perdue program. As a Perdue producer, you can earn over $20,000 annually. Our newest broiler houses are producing larger, healthier flocks than ever before. And since feeding, watering and ventilation are all semi-automated, you can grow profitable flocks by spending only a few hours each day. And by doing your job conscientiously and utilizing the services of your Perdue route supervisor, you can earn a gross annual income of over $20,000. And since it only requires a few hours, you can use the rest of the day to tend to your other farming operations. Or you might want to make Perdue your primary operation, by owning two or more broiler houses. You can do this because each house has the same high potential income. People know a good chicken when they eat one. That's why Perdue Farms has been growing for 62 years. In fact, the amount of Perdue chickens sold in the last four years has more than doubled. It is this increasing demand for our high quality products that make growing with Perdue a very smart investment.

Hope Land Of Sheba To Bloom

By EARLEEN F. TATRO
Associated Press Writer
MARIB, North Yemen (AP) — The government of this rugged Arabian Peninsula nation hopes to make its desert bloom as it once did after the construction of a great earth and stone dam more than 2,500 years ago in what was then the Land of Sheba.

While there has been no extensive excavation in this primitive area, historians generally agree that the great Marib dam was built around the 6th century B.C., about three centuries after the reign of the biblical Queen of Sheba. Yemeni legends, however, associate them with Balkis, the Queen of Sheba who journeyed to Jerusalem to test the wisdom of King Solomon.

Scholars say there are indications an earlier dam existed on the site during the reign of Queen Balkis, possibly accounting for the agricultural output of the Land of Sheba during her time.

Marib was the capital of the Kingdom of Saba (Sheba). Judging from the Bible as well as from Assyrian inscriptions found in present-day Iraq, Queen Balkis' Sheba was a lush and wealthy land.

"She came to Jerusalem with a very great train, with camels that bore spices, and very much gold, and precious stones... There came no more such abundance of spices as these which the Queen of Sheba gave to King Solomon," the Old Testament says in the Book of First Kings.

Today Marib is a dusty village with barely a score of intact houses, 78 miles east of the capital of Sana. The others still show the bomb damage of the 1962-70 Yemeni civil war when Egyptian warplanes attacked Marib in an effort to aid the republicans who eventually succeeded in ousting the Saudi-backed royalist government of Imam Mohammed al-Bakr.

In a few small fields around Marib farmers still winnow crops in the manner of biblical times, using long-handled pitchforks to toss wheat into the air and let the hot breezes separate the chaff from the grain.

A few tall stone columns rising out of the sand dunes are all that remain of the palace and temples of Queen Balkis.

The destruction of the great dam is recorded in the Koran, holy book of the Islamic religion, which blames the fall of the once-great Land of Sheba on its people's failure to remain faithful to the one true God.

"They turned aside, so we sent upon them a violent torrent, and in place of their two gardens we gave them two gardens yielding bitter fruit and tamarisk and a few lote-trees. With this we requited them because they were ungrateful," the Koran says in its chapter on Saba (Sheba) which is devoted to warnings against decadence and apostasy. Tamarisk and lote-trees are shrub-like growths.

The Arab scholar, however, offered this explanation of the Land of Sheba's decline: "Silt built up behind the dam, and silt will eventually break a dam if it isn't cleaned out, and it can't be cleaned out without a strong central government. So we saw here a weak central government which coincided with the silt which coincided with a drought. That was the end of Sheba."

Today flash floods run off unchecked down shallow, rocky wadis (ravines) instead of being stored for irrigation.

The chief occupation of the few thousand inhabitants of Marib and nearby villages is to smuggle Japanese-made trucks, television sets and other 20th century gadgets into North Yemen from neighboring Saudi Arabia across an undefined border.

"This is still real tribal country — very primitive — and the livelihood is smuggling," said an Arab scholar who did not want to be identified.

President Ali Abdullah Saleh's financially strapped government would like to change that, however, by turning this desert green with crops.

Saleh's oil-less nation, dependent upon handouts from wealthy fellow Arabs and other foreign donors to maintain this year's $1.9 billion budget, recently got an assist for the Marib dam from the Persian Gulf sheikhdom of Abu Dhabi on the opposite side of the peninsula.

The Abu Dhabi Fund has granted North Yemen an undisclosed amount of money to start the $2 billion project to rebuild the dam about two miles upstream from the site of the ancient dam on Wadi Danna. At least seven contractors have submitted bids for the project, according to the Middle East Economic Digest, a London-based weekly financial magazine. The names of the firms were not given.

The proposed new dam would store enough water from desert rainstorms to irrigate about 25 square miles, an area about half the size of the city of Boston, Mass.

In ancient times, Sheba's dam irrigated a far greater area, according to the Arab scholar who recently led visitors on a tour of the structure's remaining walls.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market advanced slightly today, adding to Tuesday's gains. The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks rose .76 to 804.60 in the first half hour. Gainers held a 4-3 lead over losers in the early rally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues. Analysts said the rally was due in large part to technical forces within the market, rather than any particular news development. A selloff on Monday pushed the Dow Jones industrial average below 800 for the first time in almost two years.

Some buying late in Tuesday's session was attributed to rumors that an influential Wall Street economist and a stock-market forecaster were about to issue bullish predictions.

The rumors apparently were unfounded, however. RCA led the active list in early trading, up 1/2 at 20%. Bendix Corp. said Monday it had bought more than 5 percent of RCA's stock.

Other gainers among the volume leaders included American Telephone & Telegraph, up 1/4 at 56%, and Exxon, up 1/4 at 28%.

On Tuesday the Dow Jones industrial average rose 8.37 to 803.84. Gainers led losers about 6 to 5 on the NYSE.

Big Board volume totaled 76.06 million shares, the fourth largest total on record, against 67.33 million in the previous session.

The NYSE's composite index rose 0.68 to 62.71. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up 0.74 at 245.40.

TUESDAY ACCIDENT — Rescuers give emergency aid to Connie Lynn Hudson following a collision on N.C. 43 south of Greenville Tuesday afternoon. According to Patrol Sgt. S. M. Compton, a car driven by Bernice Mills of Route 3, Greenville, collided head-on with a car driven by Ms. Hudson, also of Route 3, Greenville. Compton said Mills' vehicle was preparing for a left turn on to Oakmont Drive and turned into the path of the Hudson car. Damage was placed at $1,200 to the Hudson car and $1,700 to the Mills auto. Sgt. Compton said Ms. Mills was charged with an unsafe movement violation. Both drivers received injuries and were transported to Pitt County Memorial Hospital for treatment. Rampants Hope For Banner Year

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor
Coach Ronald Vincent, preparing for what could be his final season as head baseball coach at Rose High School, is hopeful of making this year a banner one for the Rampants.

It just so happens that Vincent may have the best one-two pitching punch in the state in righthanders Roger Williams and Gordon Douglas — and that gives him reason to feel that his chances of returning to the state playoffs this year are good.

Vincent, who served as interim football coach last fall, could end up with that job should head grid coach Dave Bumgarner decide to call it quits this spring. He has not as yet announced what his decision will be. Should Vincent take over football, it would be unlikely that he would continue as head baseball coach.

"I feel good about the pitching situation," Vincent said as the Rampants prepared for their season opener on Thursday against North Lenoir. "They both threw the ball well last year, and I look for them to do it again this year. In fact, I would expect them to be improved over last year."

That, should it occur, would almost stagger opponents.

Williams posted a 12-0 record last year and is 20-2 in his high school career. Douglas was 8-2 last year, his first year pitching for the varsity. Both had earned run averages under 0.60.

"If we can score a few runs," Vincent said, "I think we'll be in every game they start." And, Vincent acknowledged, that would be just about every game.

"Right now, we're really searching for a third pitcher," he noted. "Kenny Kirkland (junior-righthander) and Bill Owen (junior-righthander) both pitched well on the junior varsity last year, and we'll probably work with them a lot in the early non-conference games. Then, we'll look for them to come along in relief roles once the conference games begin."

With two berths in the state playoffs for the Big East Conference this year, things do look good for the Rampants, who return about half of the regulars from last year's playoff team.

However, that isn't the picture it could paint, since a number of players will be in new positions.

For instance, Crowell Pope, who was a sometime starter at (Please turn to page 20)

Clemson Whips Wilder, Pirates

CLEMSON — Clemson University pushed over four runs in the fourth inning and later held off an East Carolina rally to cap a sweep of a two-game series with the Pirates yesterday, 6-3.

The loss was the second in four games for the Pirates, both at the hands of the sixth-ranked Tigers, who boosted their record to 13-1 on the year.

For Bill Wilder, it was a nightmare come true. Last year, Wilder was bombed by the Tigers after posting a season-opening two-hitter against N.C. State. Last week, Wilder again opened the year with a two-hitter, against ECAC-South rival James Madison, and again was stung by the Tigers in his second outing.

But it wasn't all his fault. Errors behind him helped contribute to the loss.

East Carolina grabbed the initial lead in the first inning, scoring a single run. Mike Sorrell led off with a single to right and was sacrificed to second. He took third on the second out of the inning, then scored when Todd Evans' grounder to third was bobbed.

It stayed that way until the fourth, when the Tigers exploded for four. Craig Roberson led off with a walk and stole second. He moved on to third when Mark Davidson singled to left, and Davidson then stole second. Jim McCollum then walked to load the bases.

Brian Smith reached on an error, scoring Roberson with two away. Mitch Wilson then singled into left field, scoring Davidson, and when the ball got past David Wells, both McCollum and Smith came around to score, too.

Then, in the fifth, two more Tiger runs helped chase Wilder.

After one out, Jimmy Kee walked and stole second. Then, after a second out, Davidson also walked. McCollum singled to left, where the ball was again misplayed by Wells, allowing both Kee and Davidson to score for a 6-1 lead.

East Carolina fought back with a run in the eighth. Robert Wells reached on a two-base error and took third on an out. David Wells grounded out, but it allowed Robert to score.

In the ninth, the Pirates again had a threat, but couldn't pull it off, getting only one run out of it. Todd Hendley walked and Chuck Bishop singled. Kelly Robinette grounded to short, and Bishop was put out sliding into second. The relay to first, however, was thrown away, and Hendley scored on the play.

Walks followed to Jay Carraway and Sorrell, loading the bases, but Lynn Martin came on to hurl the final out, leaving the Pirates with the tying runs on base.

No one on either team had more than one hit during the afternoon.

The Pirates travel on to Charleston to face Baptist College in a 1 p.m. doubleheader today. They return home on Friday, hosting the University of Connecticut in a 1 p.m. doubleheader at Harrington Field.

S. Durham: Hunter And More

By RICK SCOPPE
Reflector Sports Writer.

When the high school basketball season began in late November, Southern Durham head coach Larry Parrish was not certain just how good his Spartans would be.

Nearly four months and 26 basketball games and countless practices later, Parrish remains uncertain.

"I really didn't stop and think about what our record would be," Parrish said. "I didn't know how good we were and I still don't."

Parrish has no more than three games — and perhaps as few as one — to find out. Game #1 comes Friday night (8:30) when the Spartans, who have won 18 straight games, square off against North Pitt (21-7) in the opening round of the Eastern Regional.

The winner will meet the survivor of the Bartlett-Yancey vs. Warren County game Saturday night (8:30) for the regional title and a berth in the state title game.

Southern Durham, the Triangle 3-A Conference champ with a 16-0 record, brings an impressive list of statistics into Friday evening's battle. The Spartans are 25-1 and are ranked #1 in the state according to the final AP poll.

Moreover, the Spartans, whose only loss was an 85-79 overtime decision to 4-A Kinston in a holiday tournament, are shooting 55% from the field for the year and have all but one starter hitting over 50%.

Southern Durham is led by highly-recruited Curtis Hunter, a 6-4 180-pound senior. Hunter, who has reportedly narrowed his choice of colleges to DePaul, Duke, Georgetown, N.C. State and UNC, leads the

UNCC Leads ECU Tourney

Greg Cox shot two-under-par 70 Tuesday to help lead UNC-Charlotte to the first round lead at the first-ever East Carolina University Invitational being played at Brook Valley.

UNCC leads the three-day tournament with a team score of 303. Campbell is in second with a 304 while East Carolina and William & Mary are tied for third with 305.

Clemson and Temple are both knotted at 307 followed by UNC-Wilmington at 308, N.C. State at 312, Duke at 315, Old Dominion at 321 and American University at 322.

Georgia Southern's Jody Mudd and NCSU's Eric Moekling are tied for second at 72. Mudd was a member of the Walker Cup Team and has been invited to play in the Masters.

ECU's Chris Czaja is fourth at 73. Four players are tied for fifth with 74s — Campbell's Howard Hobgood, Temple's Gary Deetzecreek and Duke's Chuck Taylor and W&M's Bill Musto.

Rounding out the top 10 are Mike Herndon of Campbell and Mitch Ralston of Clemson, both of whom are tied at 75.

Other ECU scores include Don Sweeting and Don Gafner at 76 and Jerry Lee at 80.

The second round is slated for today and the final round tomorrow.

Sampson First-Team A-A, Worthy On 2nd Team

NEW YORK (AP) — Ralph Sampson of Virginia and Kevin Magee of California-Irvine today were named for the second straight year to The Associated Press first-team All-America squad.

Sampson, college basketball's Player of the Year last season, led the Cavaliers to a 29-3 season and the No. 3 ranking in the final AP poll of the season.

In his three seasons at Virginia, the 7-foot-4 junior has led Virginia to 82 victories, the most in history by an Atlantic Coast Conference team over a three-year period.

Last season, Magee, a 6-8 senior, became the first player to finish in the top four in scoring, rebounding and field-goal percentage. This year, his statistics are equally impressive. He's scoring 26.3 points per game on a shooting percentage of 64.1 percent, and his rebounding average is 12.5 per game.

The rest of the first team includes Terry Cummings of DePaul, 6-9 junior forward; Eric "Sleepy" Floyd of Georgetown, 6-3 senior guard, and Quintin Dailey of San Francisco, 6-3 junior guard.

The second team is comprised of 6-10 forward Keith Lee of Memphis State, the only freshman on the first three teams; Dale Ellis of Tennessee, 6-7 junior forward; James Worthy of North Carolina, 6-9 junior forward; Lester Conner of Oregon State, 6-4 senior guard, and Terry Teagle of Baylor, 6-5 senior swingman.

Making up the third team are Dominique Wilkins of Georgia, 6-7 junior forward; Paul Pressey of Tulsa, 6-5 senior swingman; Ricky Frazier of Missouri, 6-6 senior forward; Ricky Pierce of Rice, 6-5 senior forward, and Dan Callandillo of Seton Hall, 6-2 senior guard.

Sampson is considered by all but a few to be potentially the most dominating player in the game — certainly at a college level, at least. He led Virginia to the No. 3 seeding in this year's NCAA tournament despite the loss of three key Cavalier players — Jeff Lamp, Lee Raker and Terry Gates, all of whom graduated.

First Team

Five players were named Wednesday to the Associated Press first team All-America basketball squad. They are, from left, Ralph Sampson of Virginia, Terry Cummings of DePaul, Kevin

With his 172 career dunks and 354 blocked shots, Sampson can be awesome and entertaining. On other occasions, he can go practically unnoticed on the court.

"This year, we not only needed his offense and defense, but his leadership," says Virginia Coach Terry Holland. "Like Bill Russell did for the Celtics, Ralph has made

Magee of California-Irvine; Eric "Sleepy" Floyd of Georgetown, and Quintin Dailey of San Francisco. It was the second straight year for Sampson and Magee. (AP Laserphoto)

everybody around him better." Magee, likewise, is a dominating player, not just a gunner. His field-goal percentage attests to that. He also has been an ironman for Cal-

Irvine, which earned a National Invitation Tournament berth with its 22-6 record. He played 1,025 minutes this season for an average of 36½ per game.

DePaul's Cummings, an ordained minister, was needed to replace Mark Aguirre this season. He has surpassed all expectations. Aguirre, a first-team All-American last year, averaged 23.0 points before he bolted for the pros; Cummings has averaged 22.4. Aguirre averaged 8.6 rebounds; Cummings is averaging 11.7. And the second-ranked Blue Demons finished with a 26-1 season.

Floyd, the Most Valuable Player of the Big East tournament, is well known as a scorer, but the Boston Celtics' Red Auerbach says he will be drafted into the National Basketball Association for his defensive ability.

"It's his hand speed on defense," Auerbach says. Floyd had 57 steals and averaged 16.8 points per game this season as sixth-ranked Georgetown compiled a 26-6 record. He also is a fine rebounding guard, averaging 3.5 a game.

Dailey's fine season was marred when he was charged with five felonies, including attempted rape, earlier this month. He pleaded innocent to all charges and remained with the Dons, who have thrived on his 25.1 points and 5.3 rebounds per game. San Francisco enters the NCAA tournament with a 25-5 record.

The freshman Lee was the surprise of the season. Recruited from across the river in West Memphis, Ark., the slender forward was named the Metro Conference player of the year after compiling averages of 18.5 in scoring and 11.4 in rebounding for Memphis State.

Ellis, Southeastern Conference player of the year, averaged 21.3 points and 6.2 rebounds for Tennessee. Worthy, MVP of the ACC tournament, led top-ranked North Carolina to a 27-2 season with his 15.3 points and 6.6 rebounds a game, along with 71 assists, 46 steals and 31 blocked shots.

Conner averages 14.6 points for No. 4 Oregon State, and he had an amazing 141 assists.

G. Central Girls Nip Beddingfield

STANTONSBURG — Greene Central scored three runs in the top of the seventh inning and pulled out a 6-5 softball victory over Wilson Beddingfield High School yesterday.

The Lady Rams pushed over two first inning runs to take the initial lead, then added a third in the second on a solo homer by Andre Dixon. Beddingfield countered in the bottom of the inning with an Angie Steinbeck homer, making it 3-1.

Then, in the fourth, the Lady Bruins added four more runs, taking a 5-3 lead. That held until the seventh, when the Lady Rams picked up the three it took to win it.

Jackie Holmes led the Greene Central hitting with two in three trips, while Cindy Hicks was 2-4. Tonya Hooker was 2-4 for Beddingfield.

The Lady Rams, now 1-0, travel to Greenville Rose today.

4 USC Women Ruled Ineligible

SPORT LINE

To The Editor:

I wish to express my disbelief at the way the basketball game on Tuesday night, March 2, was officiated at Smithfield, between the Greenville Rose "Rampants" and the Smithfield-Selma "Spartans."

The "crucial call" that the official, Howard Sellars, made was atrocious — in calling a "basket good" when it was obvious to all that the time on the clock was gone and the buzzer had been heard!

The "two technical fouls" called by the official, J.M. Merrill, for two Rampants' players expressing emotions; as was the case, in the "Rose-Fike" game in the BIG-EAST SEMIFINALS, when the called "two technical fouls" on the Rampants!

As in all sports, there is tension and the showing of emotions is expected — but not in the games J.M. Merrill officiates; and whenever there is a "crucial victory" for the Rampants — J.M. Merrill is always "on the spot" officiating! It was difficult to control all the emotions felt in an "upset" like the "Smithfield-Selma" game and the "Rose-Fike" game, but the Rampants and their fans held their "composure" — showing all the qualities of being good sportsman.

I wish to express my "PRAISE" to Coach Jim Brewington and the Rampants, for they are truly "WINNERS" in all respects; even though, they were "cheated-out" of their reward of true "VICTORY" — and a true "VICTORY" indeed, is well-deserving for Coach Brewington and his Rampants!

From Wire and Local Reports

Four of the 10 players on the University of South Carolina women's basketball team will be ineligible to play in the NCAA playoffs, says Lady Gamecocks coach Terry Kelly.

"It caught me totally by surprise," Kelly said of learning that the four players, who joined the team after defections reduced the roster to six, would not be able to play in post-season games.

The Lady Gamecocks will be without Pat Dufficy, Cindy Rawl, Candi Rawl and Liz Holland when it faces East Carolina Sunday and in any other playoff contests.

Kelly said he got the bad word Tuesday.

"Even though this is the NCAA playoffs, all the AIAW rules are in effect through this season, and evidently there is a rule that says a player has to have been on a team's roster for over half the season to be eligible for the playoffs," Kelly said.

Five players quit the Lady Gamecocks after Pam Parsons resigned as coach. The team played two games with just six players, losing by six points to Tennessee and beating Florida

State by one.

However, Kelly pointed out that he did not use any of the four walk-ons in the last two outings against East Carolina and 10th-ranked North Carolina State, both of which ended in victory.

But not having the players will affect the way his team plays Sunday, he warned.

"It cuts badly into our depth and fouls will definitely be a problem for us," he said. "Obviously, it limits your strategy. I wouldn't expect us to be able to go out and full-court press anybody with just six players."

"We'll have to be conservative."

Kelly said morale will be another factor to consider.

"It's tough for the players on the court to look over at the bench and see only one player sitting there," he said. East Carolina's coach Cathy Andruzzi might be excused if she does not sympathize with Kelly. Andruzzi started the season with 11 players, and played the majority of it with eight, only seven of which played the majority of the time.

One player, freshman Laura

Regal, was dismissed from the team early in the season, and another, junior Darlene Hedges, left the team due to health reasons.

Then, just after East Carolina finished its long road trip which left the Lady Pirates with a 4-7 record on the season, transfer Ginger Noce' left the team.

That left the women with just eight — and they, dubbed by Andruzzi as the "Iron Eight" went on to fashion a 15-2 record over the final two months of the season, losing only to nationally ranked Old Dominion and South Carolina in close games. Along the way, they beat such teams as N.C. State and North Carolina, the latter by 20 points in the final game of the regular season.

That helped to gain the Lady Pirates their berth in the first-ever NCAA women's tournament.

"These kids turned in a gutty, gutty performance," Andruzzi said of the eight following their win over North Carolina. "If this was to be their final game, then they finished with a great deal of class."

Beckish To Implement Own Version Of The 'I'

By RICK SCOPPE
Reflector Sports Writer

The last of his three years at Wichita State left new East Carolina offensive coordinator Larry Beckish armed with a record-setting array of statistics. He hopes now it will be the Pirates, not the Shockers, who produce the impressive numbers come 1982.

"We had problems when we first took over at Wichita State but last year we were ninth in the nation in total offense and our quarterback was 12th in the nation," Beckish told the Greenville Sports Club at its bi-weekly luncheon Tuesday.

Beckish, hired to become ECU's offensive coordinator in early February, then listed a number of school records set this past season by the Shockers. They included:

- Most plays in a game (104) and most plays in a season (862).
- Most yards in a game (684) and most yards in a season (4,574).

•Most first downs in a game (36) and most first downs in a season (237).

(ECU, in comparison, ran 737 plays, had 179 first downs and 3,500 yards last season and had a single-game best of 79 plays against N.C. State and 25 first downs and 499 total yards against Western Carolina.)

It will be Beckish's hope — and task — to produce similar results in '82 with the Pirates using an I-formation that is unlike the normally tailback-oriented I setup.

"My offensive philosophy is different than what most people do," Beckish said. "We will be a perimeter-oriented team. We'll take the ball to the corners — that's where the most things happen."

"We'll also be a possession-type team. Our passing game is going to be the same type thing San Francisco does: make a first down, make a first down," Beckish said. "We'll throw anywhere from 15 to 40 times a game."

Beckish will also introduce a shotgun formation, though not quite the normal shotgun setup.

"We have a very unusual shotgun package," Beckish said. "Most teams use it to pass. We'll use it to run. It's similar to the old single-wing concept. You can run and pass from it."

Beckish said in his variation of the I the fullback will be the team's best ballcarrier. He will carry the ball anywhere from 20 to 25 times, unlike in most I formation teams (e.g. Southern Cal, Michigan) where the tailback is the main ballcarrier.

But, Beckish added, "the tailback and the fullback will be closely balanced. We're trying to divide the load between the quarterback, the fullback and the tailback and that should create more problems for the defense."

Until this year, THE offense formation for ECU was the wishbone. But, after a mediocre season a year ago, head coach Ed Emory opted to go to the I. Asked if the Pirates could absorb the changes and be ready for their Sept. 18 opener at N.C. State, Beckish said:

"The thing is so simple even I understand it. There won't be any problems getting ready for (N.C. State). Before I came here I looked at the personnel and it blends in ideally with the offense."

The main trouble spot for Beckish is at quarterback. Three players — Kevin Ingram, Larry Brobst and Carlton Nelson — will be vying for the starting QB slot come March 20 when spring practice begins.

Beckish said none of the three is #1 at this point and plans to make that perfectly clear when spring drills begin — in his own unusual way.

"It's a little unorthodox," Beckish said, "but as soon as spring practice begins I'll call the three quarterbacks into the office and flip a coin." The winner will get first shot at quarterbacking.

From there, Beckish said: "The cream will then rise to the top like it always does in college football and by the end (of spring drills) we'll have a good quarterback."

Hisle: Hitting On Schedule

By The Associated Press
Things are looking up for Larry Hisle.

"Everything right now is on schedule," says the Milwaukee outfielder. "I'm excited, but I know I have a long way to go."

The reason for Hisle's happiness was a home run in exhibition play that helped the Brewers beat the Seattle Mariners 5-2 Tuesday.

Long ball hitting is something Hisle hasn't done much of lately. In 1977 he led the American League in RBI with 119 and also hit 28 home runs that year. In 1978, he hit 34 homers and knocked in 115 runs. But he has missed most of the last three seasons with a shoulder injury and has collected just 13 home runs in that period.

Hisle hit a 400-foot shot to center field off Mariners starter Floyd Bannister for the Brewers' first run. The Brewers broke a 1-1 tie with two fifth-inning runs against losing pitcher Ken Clay. Don Money singled home one run and Charlie Moore got the eventual game-winner in for Milwaukee with a sacrifice fly.

Meanwhile, the Atlanta

Rams Game Postponed

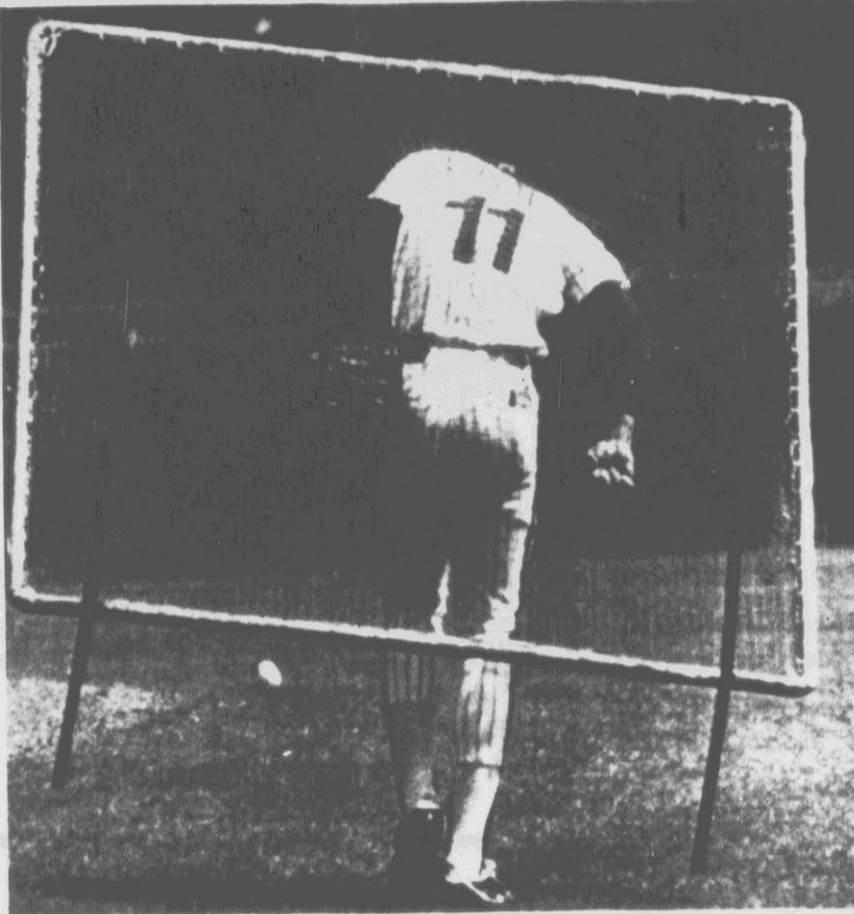

WILSON — Greene Central's baseball opener against Wilson Beddingfield was postponed Tuesday afternoon because of a wet field and has been rescheduled for today.

Braves continued to show some of the strongest pitching in spring training en route to a 1-0 victory over the Baltimore Orioles. Three Atlanta pitchers — Phil Niekro, Larry McWilliams and Rick Matula — extended the Braves' string of scoreless pitching to 34 innings. The Braves' pitching staff, incidentally, has not given up an earned run in 36 innings.

Niekro, McWilliams and Matula combined on a nine-hitter as the Braves edged Baltimore on an unearned run in the ninth inning. The Braves scored after center fielder John Selby dropped Larry Whisenton's routine fly ball. Whisenton reached third on Dale Murphy's single and, one out later, scored on Brook Jacoby's sacrifice fly off Paul Moskau. Scott McGregor and Allan Ramirez each pitched three shutout innings for the Orioles.

Elsewhere, the Pittsburgh Pirates and Kansas City Royals used 49 players and struggled into the 15th inning before Trench Davis' single gave the Pirates a 5-4 victory in the exhibition opener for each team. Len Barker pitched three perfect innings and combined with three other pitchers for a one-hitter as Cleveland beat San Francisco 5-0.

Shortstop Garry Templeton, in his debut with San Diego, had two hits, one a run-scoring single, and the Padres edged California 2-1. Mike Richardt's seventh-inning, two-out, grand-slam homer powered Texas to a 4-3 victory over the New York Yankees. Montreal's Chris Speier and Brad Mills hit

RBI singles in a three-run fourth as the Expos beat Los Angeles 4-2. Carney Lansford's two-run single and Glenn Hoffman's homer keyed a six-run fourth inning as the Boston Red Sox beat Detroit 9-1. Myron White's RBI single with two outs in the ninth gave Oakland a 5-4 victory over Chicago in the managerial debut of the Cubs' Lee Elia. Jay Loviglio had two singles and a pair of runs batted as the Chicago White Sox beat Toronto 4-2.

Southern Durham...

Spartans in both scoring (22 points per game) and shooting percentage (64%).

"Curtis is extremely quick — I don't know really how quick," Parrish said. "Almost every time we play he does something I haven't seen him do before. He is a very complete player and he takes pride in that."

Perhaps even more impressive than his statistics is his bearing off the court. "He's an outstanding young man on and off the court," Parrish said. "That's what makes him so special."

"He is very genuine. He doesn't put on a mask," Parrish added. "I know I have been very blessed with some talent and that there will never be another one like Curtis, but I'll keep looking."

The heavy recruiting of Hunter by, among others, DePaul's Ray Meyer, UNC's Dean Smith, Georgetown's John Thompson and Wake Forest's Carl Tacy, has not strained the relationship among the players, Parrish said.

"That's what's made this an extra-special team," Parrish said. "There's a lot of harmony among the players. I've been asked how the other players handle the publicity Hunter gets. We (the team) talk about it, but he doesn't get any special privileges."

Hunter, while the hub of the team, is but one of five players who have helped contribute to the Spartans success this season.

Southern Durham's second best player is 5-9 senior point guard Greg Webb, an all-conference selection the last two seasons. Webb averages 12 points a game and is the Spartans leader on the floor. He calls the offensive and defensive signals.

"When I evaluate Greg Webb," Parrish said, "I can't understand why more people aren't interested in him. He's not a Division I-type player but he's a very complete ballplayer."

"He's a gutsy player and he works hard," Parrish added. "He leads our fast break and he's the guy I want with the ball when things get tight."

Joining Webb at guard is Nate Fuller, a 5-10, 150-pounder. Fuller is the only junior among the starting five. "He's a super passer," Parrish said. "That's his greatest strength."

At the forwards are seniors Derek Newkirk (6-0, 160 pounds) and Harold Green (6-0, 165 pounds). Green is averaging 10 points a game and Newkirk eight per outing.

"Derek is our best defensive player. He's a real good leaper. The thing that sets him apart is his is a good offensive rebounder," Parrish said. "Harold is a great deal the same. But he's real good shooter — he's hitting 60 percent of his shots."

"When Derek and Harold play well we're pretty hard to beat," Parrish added. "They're not excellent players, but they work hard."

Southern Durham also have three players who come off the bench to contribute, led by forward George Durham, a 6-0 junior who is averaging eight points per game.

Marty Garner, a 5-6 junior, spells Webb and Fuller at the guard slot while Mark Noell, a 6-4 senior, backs up Hunter at center.

Southern Durham is a quick, run-oriented team that looks to get the ball to Webb on the fast break. "That's one of our strengths: the transition game," Parrish said. "We like to move the ball up court, but we're not a run-and-gun type team."

Defensively, the Spartans will probably open in a man-to-man against North Pitt, but will vary their defenses throughout the night. Parrish said he will also use a 2-1-2 and a 1-3-1 zone and a half-court trap and a full-court press.

"I think we play good defense and that's probably the strongest part of our game," he said. "We play pressure defense and change defenses a lot."

Chargers Roll Past West Craven, 14-1

LITTLEFIELD — Ayden-Grifton jumped on West Craven for six first inning runs and went on to record a 14-1 victory over the Eagles yesterday in the second baseball game of the season for the Chargers.

Tyrone Gay, the Charger ace of last year, went the first three innings and held the Eagles scoreless in picking up the win.

The Chargers jumped out quickly. Kelvin Harrison walked and stole second, as Chris Strickland followed with a second walk. Bernard Ricciarelli then slapped a double, driving in Harrison with the first run. Gay walked and Roger Moya also walked, forcing in Strickland with the second run. Doug Coley's single brought in Ricciarelli and Gay, and Jackie Conway reached on a fielder's choice, scoring Moya. Terry Locust then hit a sacrifice fly scoring Coley with the sixth run of the inning.

Ayden-Grifton then added five more in the second, four of them on a grand slam homer by Locust.

The Chargers picked up single runs in the third, fourth and fifth. West Craven's only run came across in the fifth.

Strickland, Ricciarelli and Coley each had two hits to pace Ayden-Grifton.

The victory left Ayden-Grifton with a 1-1 record. The Chargers travel to Kinston on Friday, seeking revenge for their lone loss of the year so far.

Jamesville Slips Past Manteo, 2-1

MANTEO — Rusty Holliday's fourth-inning single drove in two runs and lifted Jamesville to a 2-1 victory over Manteo Tuesday afternoon in the nonconference baseball game.

The game was the opener for both teams. Manteo led, 1-0, after the first inning and it was not until the fourth that the Bullets were able to score.

Jeff Rogers reached on an error to open the fourth and went to second on Keith Waters' single. Kevin Waters then sacrificed both runners up a base before Holliday singled to give the Bullets a 2-1 lead. Jamesville pitcher Carl Ange did the rest. He allowed only four hits in going the distance for the victory. Ange struck out nine.

R. Powell was the loser. He struck out four. Kenny Midgette relieved Powell in the fifth and struck out five. Manteo made three errors, the Bullets none. No one had more than one hit for Jamesville. R. Beasley had two hits for Manteo and M. Gore had a double. Gore's double drove in Manteo's only run. Jamesville travels to Bath Monday.

Valvano: Mocs Balanced Team

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — North Carolina State's Jim Valvano is beginning to sound more like a weather forecaster in the midwest than a basketball coach in the southeast.

While discussing his club's NCAA Mid-East Regional first-round game with University of Tennessee-Chattanooga, Valvano said with tongue in cheek: "It could a run and gun affair, with scores in the high 30s or low 40s."

While Valvano offered no forecast on atmospheric conditions, he knows there could be a storm brewing in the Moccasins lockerroom.

"The thing that impresses you most is their balance," he said. "They seem to beat you at any position."

North Carolina State will carry a 22-9 mark into Friday's battle at Indianapolis' Market Square Arena while UTC sports a 26-3 ledger.

While Valvano's "weather forecast" is said with humor, it may also prove to be quite accurate.

N.C. State is averaging 57.7 points per game, holding opponents to 48.7 points per game and in one Atlantic Coast Conference game last week, defeated Maryland 40-28.

Coach Murray Arnold's Mocs are averaging 73.8 points per game, nearly nine points above the total any one team scored against the Wolfpack.

"We'll have to adjust to their tempo, no question about that," Arnold said. UTC has five players averaging between 13 and 16 points per game, but has not drawn a lot of media attention.

Rose Out For Banner Year...

(Continued from page 17) third base, moves behind the plate to replace Emmett Walsh at catcher. While Pope, one of the smaller team members, doesn't have the size Walsh had, Vincent feels he can do the job adequately. "He's been catching them since Little League, so I certainly think he can do the job."

Pope, despite his size, led the team in homers last year. Backing him up will be junior Curtis Evans.

Bill Kittrell, still another senior, returns to first base. "He's very solid, and his hitting has improved." Many times last year, Kittrell gave way to a designated hitter, but Vincent expects him to take his swings this year.

Mont Carter, who saw some starting duty last year, splitting time with Tom Bue, will take over the fulltime duties at second. "We look for good things from him, and he's been swinging the bat well so far."

At shortstop, another veteran who played elsewhere will take over, as Sammy Hodges steps in. He played at times in the outfield last year. "All he needs is experience," Vincent said. "He played second base for the Legion last year and did a good job, and we feel that he can make the transition to shortstop. He's a good hitter, too."

When he's not on the mound, Douglas will hold down the third-base slot, as he did last year. Keith Phillips and Kirkland could also see duty here, as well as another backup player in the infield.

"I feel confident about the infield," Vincent said. "Right now, we just need some game experience."

Tom Bue, who worked with Carter at second, moves into the left field spot this year as a regular, while Randy Warren, who played some in the outfield last year, will be in center. Williams will be in right when not pitching, when he'll give way to either Terry Smith or

Rudy Stalls or Jeff Wilson. "We'll just have to see who has the hot bat," Vincent said. "Our defense could be very solid. We have good speed in the outfield and good arms in the infield. If our pitchers stay in the strike zone, we should be hard to handle."

Offensively, however, Vincent isn't expecting the power hitting of last year. "We but do have a lot of good batters, and people who could be good if they hit like they are capable."

In the Big East, Vincent expects Northern Nash to be strong. "Rocky Mount is always hard to beat, and Fike and Hunt should be very strong, too. Kinston could be the dark horse of the conference."

Nevertheless, the Rampants, with Williams and Douglas on the mound, will probably be the league favorites.

And if, indeed, this is Vincent's final year with baseball, a state championship would be as nice a way as any to finish.

'Little' More Than Enough For ORU

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Sometimes, Oral Roberts University basketball coach Ken Hayes has discovered, a Little is enough — especially if it's the Oklahoma Sooners' scoring machine David Little.

The lanky, 6-foot-7 junior forward bombed ORU with 33 points to lead Oklahoma to a stirring, 81-73 comeback victory over the Titans in the first round of the National Invitation Tournament Tuesday night.

After Little scored 13 points in the Titan-controlled first half, Hayes asked his team to apply more pressure to Little in the second.

"He just backed up a little farther," Hayes said. "The guy shoots a set shot from out of range and it goes in."

Hayes said the Titans, who scored the first 11 points of the contest and led 17-3 after eight minutes, may have been "too high" for the game.

Meanwhile, Sooner Coach Billy Tubbs said he "was afraid we weren't ready for the game and that was sure evident in the early going."

Oklahoma, now 20-10, lost to Missouri in the finals of the Big Eight tournament Saturday night.

The Sooners learned of their NIT bid Sunday night and had to get ready in a hurry to meet Oral Roberts in the inaugural game of the 1982 NIT. The two schools had not met since 1977.

"It's a great tribute to our players the way they came back the way they did," Tubbs said.

Tubbs said Oklahoma's Chucky Barnett "wasn't in the flow of the game" until midway through the second half.

Barnett hit 18 of his 24 points in the last 10 minutes of the contest while Oklahoma was preserving leads of up to 10 points.

Oral Roberts, led by Cat Johnson's 20 points and Chris Cantrell's 18, appeared to be in charge with 14 minutes left and a 53-39 lead.

But five jumpers by Little — the Big Eight newcomer of the year with an 18 point average — and the Sooner press allowed Oklahoma to pull even at 55-55 with 9:17 left.

Then Barnett hit his hot streak. The 6-foot-4 junior sparked Oklahoma to a 75-65 lead with 3:23 left and the Titans could get no closer than six points thereafter.

The Sooners will host the winner of the Friday night's game between California Irvine and San Diego State in the second round of the NIT.

Tonight, 10 other teams begin their quest for the NIT title. Western Kentucky, 19-9, is at Purdue, 14-13; Connecticut, 17-10, travels to Dayton, 19-8; Long Island University, 20-9, is at Illinois, 17-10; Lamar, 22-6, plays at Texas A&M, 18-10, and Washington, 18-9, is at Brigham Young, 17-12.

The Western Kentucky-Purdue clash pits Boilermaker Coach Gene Keady against his former players and recruits. Keady resigned as the Hilltoppers' basketball coach in 1980 for the Purdue job.

"I'm not really happy to be playing against Western ... against the players I recruited and former assistant coaches," Keady said. "It's an unusual situation."

Rose Netters Win Opener

Greenville Rose opened its 1982 tennis season with an easy 8-1 victory over New Bern Tuesday afternoon.

The Rampants lost the first match of the day but then won the final eight to record the victory.

Rose travels to New Bern (0-1) Friday.

Mexico Hotels Cutting Rates

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — Mexican hotels are cutting rates by as much as 50 percent to combat one of the worst tourism industry crises in years, the Mexican Travel Agents Association said recently.

Association spokesman Armando Bojorquez said many hotels are charging off-season rates even though winter is Mexico's high tourist season. He said some hotels have lowered rates by as much as 50 percent while others offer free nights.

"In places like Acapulco, Puerto Vallarta, Mazatlan and Ixtapa-Zihuatanejo, hotel owners have been giving tourists extra free nights," Bojorquez said.

Arthritis Not Old Age Disease

ATLANTA (AP) — Although often regarded as a disease of old age, arthritis occurs in every age group, including infancy, according to the Arthritis Foundation.

The foundation reports that over a quarter million children have juvenile arthritis.

Most cases of rheumatoid, scleroderma, and lupus — three potentially severe forms of arthritis — begin before age 40.

Of the 31 million Americans with some form of arthritis, one-half are under 60.

Inventor Joins Hall Of Fame

NEW YORK (AP) — Otmar Mergenthaler, whose invention of the linotype revolutionized the printing industry, has joined the ranks of such as Edison, Marconi, Morse and the Wright Brothers as an inductee into the National Inventors Hall of Fame.

Before the typesetting machine, it took long hours and many men to print a newspaper, the largest of which was barely eight pages. After Mergenthaler's invention, which Edison called the "Eighth Wonder of the World," newspapers multiplied in size and sold for less.

Allied Corp., which has taken over the original Mergenthaler company, now produces a modern, electronic device that quickly generates characters through digital computerization using laser beams.

IDEALIZE ZANY HONEYMOON MISHAPS.
Today's Cryptoquip clue: O equals U

The Cryptoquip is a simple substitution cipher in which each letter used stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words, and words using an apostrophe can give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is accomplished by trial and error.

Even the correct technical play in diamonds would have given South his contract. If he cashes one diamond honor before leading to the jack, East will have to return a major suit when he wins the queen of diamonds - right into the jaws of dummy's tenaces.

Fair To 'Star'
Six Characters

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) - Six whimsical characters indigenous to the Tennessee Smoky Mountains area will have the run of the 1982 World Fair here when it opens in May.

The costumed characters - a large brown bear, a sleepy-eyed hound, a spunky bobcat, a pair of romantic raccoons, and a flickering flame - will be featured in two daily parades and will be available for picture-taking throughout the fairgrounds.

The characters, created by the fair, are sponsored by Eastman Kodak Co.

Some days nothing seems to go right. But don't rail against the fates - it might be you, and not Lady Luck, who's to blame.

South opened one no trump despite his weak doubleton spade because he felt that he would have too many problems describing his hand if he elected to open one of a minor suit. North decided that he would not make a slam try with his 15 points because his hand was flat and lacked intermediate cards.

Declarer was so dazzled by the array of high cards that appeared in dummy that he hardly gave the play any thought. He won the club lead in hand and led toward the diamond jack. East won the queen and returned the suit. Declarer tested the diamonds and discovered that the suit was not breaking. Next he tried the heart finesse. East won the heart and exited with a queen. Declarer won the ace and tried the spade finesse, but that, too, failed.

Declarer was still not done. If clubs were 3-2, he would still have nine tricks. Since that was not the case, declarer ended up down one.

Ratings Race Is Taken By ABC

Tonight: Retrospective On Old Marx Classics

NEW YORK (AP) — CBS' "60 Minutes" was the highest-rated program for the sixth time in the TV season that began Oct. 5, but ABC — with only three shows in the Top 10 — won the networks' ratings race, figures from the A.C. Nielsen Co. showed.

It was the first time in the 14 weeks since Nov. 23 that a network other than CBS was the unopposed winner in the three-way competition. ABC and CBS tied for first for the week ending Feb. 14. Though ABC had only one show from a continuing series among the 10 highest-rated programs for the week ending March 7, the network listed only three among the 13 lowest-rated.

ABC's rating for the period was 18.4 to 18 for CBS and 15.2 for NBC. The networks say that means in an average minute of prime time during the week, 18.4 percent of the nation's TV-equipped homes were watching ABC.

CBS has been first in the ratings 16 times this season, and ABC five. NBC has finished last in the weekly competition nine straight weeks.

The rating for "60 Minutes" was 29.6. Nielsen says that means in an average minute during the broadcast, 29.6 percent of the nation's homes with television were tuned to the CBS newsmagazine. "Dallas" has been first nine times in the current TV year.

ABC's top-rated program, "Three's Company," was fourth in the ratings. The two other ABC shows in the Top 10 were movies, "Alligator" in a tie for fifth place, and "Divorce Wars: A Love Story," in seventh.

CBS had seven programs in the week's Top 10, and all were from continuing series. "Fall Guy" on ABC was the highest-rated of the season's new shows, in 18th place, with "Father Murphy" on NBC 23rd, and the premiere program in an ABC tryout series, "Police Squad," 26th.

Three of the week's lowest-rated shows were on NBC — No. 66 "NBC Magazine," No. 68 "Here's Boomer," and No. 69 "The Flintstones." ABC's "Open All Night" was 65th, and a special from the same network, "Success: It Can Be Yours," was 67th.

Here are the week's 10 highest-rated programs: "60 Minutes," with a rating of 29.6 representing 24.2 million homes, "Dallas," 28.4 or 23.3 million, and "The Jeffersons," 24 or 19.7 million, all CBS; "Three's Company," 23.9 or 19.6 million, ABC; Movie: "Alligator," ABC, and "Alice," CBS, both 23 or 18.8 million; Movie: "Divorce Wars," 22.8 or 18.7 million, ABC, and "Archie Bunker's Place," 22.4 or 18.3 million, "Magnum, P.I.," 22.3 or 18.2 million, and "One Day at a Time," 22 or 18 million, all CBS.

The next 11 shows: "Love Boat" and "Too Close for Comfort," both ABC, tie; "Dukes of Hazzard," CBS, and "Dynasty," ABC, tie; "Happy Days" and "Hart to Hart," both ABC; "Little House on the Prairie," NBC; "Fall Guy," ABC; "Real People," NBC, and "Trapper John, M.D.," and "M-A-S-H," both CBS, tie.

NO NORMALCY
MADRID, Spain (AP) — The 35-nation European Security Conference has adjourned until the fall after Western delegates refused to do "business as usual" with the Soviet Union during martial law in Poland.

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Fifty years from now, will PBS have a retrospective on those comedy classics, "Three's Company" and "Mork and Mindy"?

Unlikely. But tonight PBS offers comedy that has remained fresh and classic: "The Marx Brothers in a Nutshell," the best of their movies, television appearances and publicity films.

It's the inspiration of 22-year-old Robert Wide, a fledgling filmmaker who began gathering interviews and Marx Brothers clips — many of which have never been on TV before — four years ago. Weide is a Marx Brothers fanatic, and anybody who can put two hours of their zaniness on the screen deserves credit.

But he isn't a journalist, and key episodes in the Marx Brothers' career are raised and left hanging. Louis B. Mayer disliked them and helped end their film career, but why? Zeppo quit the team to become an agent, but why? And why weren't the off-screen lives of the brothers explored more fully?

There are some interviews with friends and family members about the Marx Brothers away from the set, but not enough to explain how or why they were such diverse personalities.

Groucho's son, Arthur, said Groucho had fits of depression and was an insomniac since the Stock Market Crash. The writer, Nat Perrin, said Chico had "nothing but bad habits." He was a ladies man, which made Groucho, whose three marriages ended in divorce, envious. Harpo was the family man, described by his son as growing younger as he grew older.

Although a more rounded documentary would have been more satisfying, "Nutshell" calls itself a "cinematic salute" and, in this form, it is full of fun, while entertaining in the manner of sports highlight shows.

The salute, moving chronologically through the brothers' vaudeville, Broadway, Hollywood and post-movie careers, is interspersed with interviews from their contemporary writers and actors and current comedians, including David Steinberg and Dick Cavett.

The Marx Brothers made films that made people forget their troubles during the Depression, yet their 1933 classic, "Duck Soup" was considered too daffy. It was their first box-office bomb, and the brothers were dropped by Paramount.

They then signed with MGM to work with prestigious producer Irving Thalberg. He stressed that comedy needed a foundation of story line and real villains for the Marx Brothers to harpoon. You can't build insanity on insanity, he said.

Of all their producers and directors, Thalberg was the only one who could control them. One previous director had them locked in cages between takes. But they listened to Thalberg. When he died at the age of 37, it's said the boys had lost their father. Their movie career quickly went into decline.

But nobody else in movie comedy had left such a legacy, and the Marx Brothers' greatest moments are the essence of "Nutshell": the overpopulated stateroom in "Night at the Opera," the broken-mirror scene with Harpo imitating Groucho in "Duck Soup," and the eating orgy in "Room Service." "They were all children," said Bob Marx, Gummo's son. "That's why their humor goes on and on."

Home Box Office, once just a movie channel, is producing more of its own programming, particularly now that it's a 24-hour service. Tonight's "Flashback: The Great Plague" examines the 1918 influenza epidemic that killed 20 million worldwide.

It's a noble effort, combining historical footage with dramatic re-creations, which are authentic-looking in photography and texture. But the mixture takes some getting used to, and this first "Flashback" has limited impact because the re-creations are not historical enough and the history is not dramatic enough.

Contenders At Luncheon

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — Each of this year's 104 Academy Award nominees was a winner at a luncheon designed to recognize everyone recommended for the film industry's highest honor, but 59 of them failed to show up.

The only acting nominees present at the Motion Picture Academy gathering Tuesday were Warren Beatty, for "Reds," and Joan Hackett and James Coco, supporting nominees for "Only When I Laugh."

Also in attendance were special award winners: comedian Danny Kaye, Albert R. Broccoli, producer of the "James Bond" films, and cinematographer Joseph B. Walker.

Barbara Stanwyck, who will be honored for her long acting career, was not present. She was said to be recovering from pneumonia and saving her strength for the March 29 awards program in the Los Angeles Music Center.

Academy President Kay Fahn explained to the 250 guests that many nominees were at work on films, living outside Southern California, "skiing in Aspen, surfing in Hawaii, or just sleeping it off somewhere, and that's important too."

The Oscar contenders received certificates of nomination at the first-of-its-kind luncheon, which Miss Fahn said would become a tradition.

Spring Tour Is Backed By Firm

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Metropolitan Opera's annual spring tour will be partly underwritten this year by a grant of $300,000 from Merrill Lynch Pierce Fenner & Smith, the financial services firm. This is the first time in its 99-year history that the tour has received major corporate support. The spring tour beginning April 19 will cover 5,400 miles and take the company to Atlanta, Boston, Cleveland, Dallas, Detroit, Memphis, Minneapolis and Washington, D.C. The tour will necessitate the use of two chartered planes and about 30 trailer trucks. The tour repertory will include "The Tales of Hoffmann," "Il Trovatore," "Norma," "The Barber of Seville," "Rigoletto," "Parsifal," "Madama Butterfly" and "The Magic Flute."

Paintings Deteriorate

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — North Carolina Museum of Art's collection of paintings has deteriorated to the point many could be damaged when moved to the new museum if they're not repaired, museum chief conservator David C. Goist says.

"Right now, 75 percent of the collection has paint which is in danger of being lost (if moved)," he said.

Goist said he hoped the paintings would be repaired before removal, but added the problem was indicative of the deterioration of the collection.

Goist has been on the museum staff since December and has been inspecting the $50 million art collection.

The museum staff moved into a new facility last month, but the Blue Ridge Road building is not expected to be open to the public until Spring 1983.

Goist said the museum's 1,000 paintings must be moved into special storage facilities at the new building by October to avoid subjecting them to another winter in the downtown museum.

Record Giving By Corporations

NEW YORK (UPI) — The non-profit National Corporate Fund for Dance, Inc., raised a record $505,600 from 206 corporations during 1981. The money was distributed to seven major American dance companies: American Ballet Theater, the San Francisco Ballet, The Joffrey Ballet, Alvin Ailey Dance Theater, The Feld Ballet, Merce Cunningham Dance Company, and The Paul Taylor Dance Company. The Fund has raised more than $3 million since its first campaign in 1974.

NATIONAL FLOOD INSURANCE PROGRAM
Proposed Flood Elevation Determinations
AGENCY: Federal Emergency Management Agency.
ACTION: Proposed Rule.

SUMMARY:
Technical information or comments are solicited on the proposed base (100-year) flood elevations listed below for selected locations in the nation. These base (100-year) flood elevations are the basis for the flood plain management measures that the community is required to either adopt or show evidence of being already in effect in order to qualify or remain qualified for participation in the National Flood Insurance Program (NFIP).
DATES:
The period for comment will be ninety (90) days following the second publication of this proposed rule in a newspaper of local circulation in each community.
ADDRESSES:
See table below.
FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT:
Mr. Robert G. Chappell
National Flood Insurance Program
(202) 287-0230
Federal Emergency Management Agency
Washington, D.C. 20472
SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:
The Federal Emergency Management Agency gives notice of the proposed determinations of base (100-year) flood elevations for selected locations in the nation, in accordance with section 110 of the Flood Disaster Protection Act of 1973 (Pub. L. 93-234), 87 Stat. 980, which added section 1363 to the National Flood Insurance Act of 1968 (Title XIII of the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1968 (Pub. L. 90-448), 42 U.S.C. 4001-4128, and 44 CFR 67.4 (a).
These elevations, together with the flood plain management measures required by Section 60.3 of the program regulations, are the minimum that are required. They should not be construed to mean the community must change any existing ordinances that are more stringent in their flood plain management requirements. The community may at any time enact stricter requirements on its own, or pursuant to policies established by other Federal, State, or Regional entities. These proposed elevations will also be used to calculate the appropriate flood insurance premium rates for new buildings and their contents and for the second layer of insurance on existing buildings and their contents.
Pursuant to the provisions of 5 USC 605(b), the Associate Director, to whom authority has been delegated by the Director, Federal Emergency Management Agency, hereby certifies that the proposed flood elevation determinations, if promulgated, will not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities. A flood elevation determination under section 1363 forms the basis for new local ordinances, which, if adopted by a local community, will govern future construction within the floodplain area. The elevation determinations, however, impose no restriction unless and until the local community voluntarily adopts floodplain ordinances in accord with these elevations. Even if ordinances are adopted in compliance with Federal standards, the elevations prescribed how high to build in the floodplain and do not proscribe development. Thus, this action only forms the basis for future local actions. It imposes no new requirement; of itself it has no economic impact.
The proposed base (100-year) flood elevations for selected locations are:

NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC COLIFORM BACTERIA FOUND IN DRINKING WATER
During February, 1982 coliform bacteria was found in drinking water samples from the Woodland Hills Mobile Home Estates water system above the limit as it appears in the "Rules Governing Public Water Supplies."
Coliform bacteria is an environmental bacteria which is found in the soil and intestinal tract of warm blooded animals. The presence of coliform bacteria in drinking water indicates that some contamination has occurred.
In an attempt to correct the cause of the contamination we have done the following:
(Check the appropriate examples)
X We have disinfected the water system.
X We have flushed the water lines.
X We are in the process of installing a continuous disinfection equipment.
X Check samples submitted on March 1, 1982 show the water to be free of coliform bacteria.

Rally Behind Rand Ideas

A LEGACY — Author Ayn Rand became a tireless advocate of rational selfishness, godlessness and pure capitalism. Her followers vow to keep her philosophy alive. (AP Laserphoto)

By SCOTT KRAFT
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — She was a small woman with an iron spine and a keen mind, a Russian immigrant who became an exultant and tireless advocate of rational selfishness, godlessness and pure capitalism.

Now Ayn Rand is dead at age 77. But her controversial heroes are immortal — fictional characters such as Howard Roark in "The Fountainhead" and Dagny Taggart in "Atlas Shrugged." And her followers vow to keep her philosophy alive.

"She challenged the philosophic tradition of over 2,000 years on all its essential points and provided an alternative," Leonard Peikoff, her long-time associate, said Monday. Her alternative included "reason as opposed to any kind of mysticism, including religion, and selfishness as opposed to any form of altruism or self-sacrifice."

One day, he predicted, her ideas "will change the direction of the world and create a new renaissance. In what period of time, I don't know." Peikoff, 48, also said that he had assured Miss Rand that he would continue her work.

Before her death Saturday, she made two requests: that her favorite music — gay, turn-of-the-century tunes — be played when friends gather at the funeral home, and that the poem "If" by Rudyard Kipling be read at her burial today.

Miss Rand labeled her philosophy "objectivism." Its thesis was that only individual ability and effort account for real achievement and that laissez-faire capitalism provides the optimal environment for talent.

She despised altruism as personal weakness and believed it responsible for much of the world's misery. Selfishness was a virtue, she believed.

Her views spilled from the mouths of her characters — always a stubborn, proud, talented, atheistic man or woman whose "own happiness was the moral purpose of his life, with productive achievement as his noblest activity and reason as his only absolute."

There was Howard Roark, the architect in "The Fountainhead" who destroyed his own construction project because others had altered its design. "The Fountainhead" was rejected by 12 publishers, some of whom told Miss Rand it was too intellectual, too controversial and had no audience — a fact Miss Rand noted in her introduction to a 25th anniversary printing of the book.

After the book was published in 1943, Miss Rand wrote the screenplay and Hollywood agreed to cast her choice for the lead — Gary Cooper, who friends say bore a striking resemblance to her husband, Frank O'Connor.

In 1957, in the middle of her career, she wrote "Atlas Shrugged," a brilliant and bitter tale of how men and women of selfish integrity escape a world falling to pieces. Her haunting phrase — "Who is John Galt?" — represented the hopelessness of the masses and the vision of a few.

She once said that "The Fountainhead" was an overture to "Atlas Shrugged," and she concentrated on nonfiction from then on. When she died, she was writing a television mini-series based on "Atlas Shrugged," which Peikoff hopes to finish.

The purpose of her writing, she once said, was "the projection of an ideal man. The portrayal of a moral ideal, as my ultimate literary goal, as an end in itself."

From the mouth of Howard Roark came this version of her philosophy:

"I do not recognize anyone's right to one minute of my life. Nor to any part of my energy. Nor to any achievement of mine. I am a man who does not exist for others. I recognize no obligations toward men except one: to respect their freedom..."

In her own life, Miss Rand was most like Dagny Taggart, the heroine in "Atlas Shrugged." She wrote in longhand on a blue pad in her East Side luxury apartment, and spent many hours with her stamp collection. She liked Agatha Christie mysteries, reading them over and over.

She was an admirer of television because she considered it potentially an intellectual medium. However, she made sure she had absolute control over the mini-series she was writing.

Yet she was a fan of "Charlie's Angels" in its first few years; "she thought the girls had a nice spirit," Peikoff says. And whenever one of the original Perry Mason shows came on late at night, she stayed up for it.

Looks for Return Of 'Steam Age'

By BARRY RENFREW
Associated Press Writer
RIPLEY, W.Va. (AP) —
J.D. Anderson says America just isn't going anywhere until it gets back to the steam engine.

"Steam is the greatest thing we ever had in the U.S. It's just like lightning when you turn up the speed," says the man who spends his days keeping the romance of steam alive.

In a rambling backyard filled with rusting machinery, scores of old bicycles and a junked truck or two, sits Anderson's steam engine.

With a smile, the 80-year-old Anderson tenderly pats the maze of wheels, boilers and gauges. Checking valves and flicking levers, he recalls the days of the steam age.

"When the steam engine came along when I was a boy, they thought it was wonderful," he says. "Went faster than a mule."

Steam, Anderson says, was used to power everything from trains and boats to merry-go-rounds. Before electricity or gasoline, steam ran everything that couldn't walk, he says.

"This one here was used for a merry-go-round," he says, nudging his engine. "I found it in a junkyard. Fellow wanted $25 for it, but I done give it to him, just like that."

"You know, it's over a 100 years old. But in the 18 years I've run it, I've never had to repair it."

Anderson's romance with steam began as a child, during the long hours he would spend watching the steam tractors used by construction gangs. Effortlessly, the chugging monsters would lift a boulder or scoop up a load of dirt.

"There's nothing can stop steam. You put one of them internal combustion engines up against steam and it'll give up," he says.

A former farmer, school teacher and soil conservation officer, Anderson set out a few years back to make his fortune by building steam engines to cook sorghum. He constructed an engine that could prepare 10 gallons of the syrup in an hour — just in time to see the nation switch to sugar.

Looking into the distance, Anderson says maybe there'll be a big market for sorghum and another chance for his engine one day. Then he shrugs, smiles quickly and gets back to checking over the engine.

"Steam has always fascinated me," he says. "Steam is the most dependable power."

These days, Anderson scours junkyards for old steam engine parts. Sometimes he'll find an old flywheel or a piston, but Anderson says the parts are getting harder to come by.

He also takes the engine to country fairs. Most people have never seen a steam engine and are fascinated by the whirling wheels and the hissing valves.

Six steam whistles from old steamboats and trains are attached to the engine, and their shrill hoots bring spectators milling around.

"They crowd around so much you got to elbow your way around to get things done," says the proud owner. "But it's the kids who like it the best. You can't get them away from here."

And standing in the middle is J.D. Anderson, showing how it works.

"Only problem is the engine splutters sometimes and people with white shirts don't get too happy."

Epilepsy

Among Dogs Is Common

NEW YORK (AP) — Epilepsy is more common in dogs than in humans, according to the Epilepsy Institute.

Epileptic dogs are often purebred and have a family history of the illness. Epilepsy has been reported to be inherited among certain breeds including Irish setters, German shepherds, beagles and poodles.

As with humans, epilepsy in dogs is generally treatable and seizures can be kept under control through use of drugs.

One Man In Singapore's Opposition

By KENNETH L. WHITING
Associated Press Writer
SINGAPORE (AP) — It's not easy to be an opposition legislator in Singapore. So says J.B. Jeyaratnam, and he's the only one who would know.

Jeyaratnam became the first dissenting voice in the Singapore Parliament in 13 years by winning a by-election in the Anson constituency last Oct. 31.

After the votes were counted, the 55-year-old lawyer said his upset victory marked the beginning of the end for Prime Minister Lee Kuan Yew's People's Action Party.

There is no sign that the entrenched PAP is withering away, however. Its leaders were stunned by the defeat in Anson but have since gone on the attack to make life as difficult as possible for Jeyaratnam.

"I didn't think they would react in this manner," he told a recent news conference.

"I thought in their sober moments they would wake up to the fact that opposition was good for their own image."

Formed in 1954, the PAP won power five years later when Lee Kuan Yew was 35 and his city-state a self-governing British territory. The PAP was re-elected in 1963, which was the last time one of its candidates was defeated at the polls.

After Singapore gained full independence in 1965, the PAP swept general elections in 1968, 1972, 1976 and 1980 and all by-elections in between. Jeyaratnam campaigned in five earlier elections before winning Anson by 653 votes of the 13,503 cast.

How significant is his victory?

Western diplomats and other analysts do not view Jeyaratnam as the harbinger of basic political change. He was helped by voter discontent peculiar to the working-class Anson district and ran against a political neophyte nominated by the PAP.

They say Lee's administration boasts a record of solid achievement and a reputation for honesty, efficiency and a high sense of direction. The organized opposition, including Jeyaratnam's Workers' Party, is small, relatively inexperienced and has not yet offered credible alternatives to PAP policies, they say.

Lee and other party leaders analyzed Jeyaratnam's victory at private conferences and vowed to win back the lost seat. The next general election is not required until 1985, but the prime minister usually seeks a fresh mandate one year early.

"In three to four years a younger generation in Anson, and I hope in the rest of Singapore, will learn what their parents and elders already know — that there is a vast difference between the benefits of good government and the amusement of parliamentary theater," Lee told one PAP gathering.

Meantime, Jeyaratnam is discovering how tough things can be for a lone opposition member both in and out of the 75-seat chamber.

In British-style legislatures, opposition benches face members of the governing party. Jeyaratnam asked to be seated alone opposite the PAP members. This was refused and he was placed at one end, near political opponents.

Only one session of the unicameral Parliament has been held since the by-election. Most observers agree Jeyaratnam was bested by Lee in a verbal duel before the packed house Dec. 22. The prime minister challenged the newcomer to provide evidence of his allegations of improper use of police personnel and vehicles during the 1980 election campaign and questions about the PAP's use of state land for its headquarters.

The day after the skirmish in Parliament, the prime minister's office announced that Jeyaratnam would not be allowed to act as adviser to six community organizations in his constituency, a position that usually goes to the legislator representing the area.

Plan Expanding Of 'Senior Olympics'

MOSCOW, Tenn. (AP) — The folks who ranked the Russians by spoofing the 1980 Olympics with athletes who tossed skillets and spit tobacco are expanding to include some serious competition in their annual light-hearted event. Senior Olympics, for people 55 years old and older, will be held the third weekend in May, Kermit Hancock, chairman of the Moscow Summer Games Program, announced Monday. "We envision this year's Moscow Senior Olympics as the first step toward what could become a major annual event for older athletes all over the country," Hancock said. When former President Jimmy Carter ordered a U.S. boycott of the Summer Olympics to retaliate for the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan, Moscow, Tenn., businessmen suggested, tongue-in-cheek, that the Olympics be moved to their small community of 500 people. The International Olympic Committee ignored the suggestion. So a tourism group composed of most of Moscow's businessmen decided to sponsor its own games, substituting horseshoe-pitching and skillet-throwing for the shot put, and tobacco-spitting for the long jump. The local spoof didn't go unnoticed by the Soviet Union, which lambasted the games as "Tennessee tomfoolery." But the first Moscow Summer Games drew more than 20,000 people. Last year's games were even more successful. This year, sponsors hope the separate senior games will be a bigger lure for participants and tourists in this western Tennessee town.

Thousands Swept Up In Crime Blitz

By PETER EISNER
Associated Press Writer
CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — Frequent police blitzes are sweeping up tens of thousands of people every month in a government crackdown on street crime in the cities of Venezuela.

Officials statistics show, however, that less than 5 percent of those hauled in to station houses as criminal suspects or for security checks are found guilty of any crime at all.

Officials acknowledge the crackdown focuses on poor neighborhoods.

Government security officials say the program is helping fight an alarming urban safety problem in Caracas and other Venezuelan cities, where crime has become a prime concern of the public.

"Decent people have nothing to worry about," said one police commander taking part in the crackdown.

The tough tactics draw little criticism in the nation of 15 million people.

Citizens apparently feel more threatened by roving gangs of thugs, many using cars and motorcycles to roam the streets in search of solitary victims.

Public-service announcements on radio and television warn against driving with car windows open or doors unlocked in Caracas, the capital. Special caution is advised to avoid motorcycle muggers, who swarm upon pedestrians and motorists, only to escape by winding their way through endlessly clogged Caracas traffic.

"We have been facing (the problem) courageously and we will continue to do so," said Interior Minister Rafael Montes de Oca in a recent television interview. "We are going to continue our repressive phase ... and turn to measures that get to the bottom of the battle against crime."

The government has officially announced an increase on its war on crime, which began a year ago under the code name "Plan Union."

Since then, officials said 174,000 persons have been picked up and brought to police stations to be checked for identification — and their possible involvement in crimes. The program netted 7,047 convictions between February 1981, and last Jan. 31, according to statistics.

Montes de Oca, whose Ministry of Internal Relations coordinates domestic security, said he will propose measures to drop the age of legal responsibility in criminal cases from 18 to 16. He added that many crimes are committed by minors who then escape punishment in courts. Other measures being suggested include a ban on motorcycles from 10 p.m. to 6 a.m.

There is widespread support for the government war on crime, which involves local police, the national guard, federal agents and special assault teams. Montes de Oca, a probable candidate for president in 1983 elections, has been criticized by political opponents for not dealing harshly enough with the crime problem.

"The citizenry feels terrorized with the escalating assaults and murders that have occurred in recent weeks," said an editorial in the Diario de Caracas newspaper. The anti-crime operation "had produced a certain control of delinquent activity, but apparently has lost effectiveness," the editorial added. "As a result (there is) a substantial increase in the amount of crime, which prevents people from feeling safe at any time, at any place."

Another newspaper published a primer on ways to avoid likely crime situations. Watch out for muggings that could occur while filling up at the gas station, while stopped at a traffic light or while jogging, the newspaper warned.

One foreign resident of Caracas said he and his girlfriend were walking recently several blocks from home to the movies when a car pulled up in front of them, went swiftly into reverse and the occupants tried to sweep the woman into the car.

"I screamed for her to run and nothing happened (to her), but it shows that you're not safe anywhere," he said.

Sinai Peace
Force Needs
9 Kitchens

By LISETTE BALOUNY
Associated Press Writer
EITAM AIRBASE,
Israeli-Occupied Sinai (AP)
— A mess hall is being built here in the Sinai Desert with nine separate kitchens to satisfy the distinctive culinary tastes of an international peacekeeping force soon to take up station in the area.

The nine different kitchens — in addition to one that already exists in a separate mess hall — illustrate the complex groundwork going into arrangements to keep peace on the Sinai Peninsula when Israel finally turns it all back to Egypt.

The 2,400-member multinational peacekeeping force — with units from the United States, Britain, France, the Netherlands, Italy, Australia, New Zealand, Colombia, Uruguay and Fiji — will make its headquarters here after the Israeli withdrawal, scheduled for April 25.

"Each nationality has its own food style and all 10 must be kept happy," Col. Yehuda Porat of the Israeli army told visiting reporters recently.

While the mess hall is being built, bulldozers nearby are destroying shelters which had been used by the Israelis when this became their frontline base after they seized the Sinai Peninsula from Egypt in the 1967 Middle East war.

"We are demolishing shelters because this will be a civilian airport," Porat said.

Here and elsewhere in the last strip of the Sinai still occupied by Israel the purely military traces of the last 15 years are being eliminated.

This strip — because it borders on Israel — is the most sensitive area of the Sinai. Under the Egyptian-Israeli peace agreement, the Egyptian military will be barred from the 30-mile-wide zone. Otherwise, Egypt will have sovereignty over the area for the first time since 1967.

The peace force is still being organized, but current plans call for:

- Australians and New Zealanders to fly in section patrols.
- Italians to patrol the Strait of Tiran off the tip of the Sinai Peninsula where Egypt and Israel have navigation rights in the Gulf of Aqaba.
- The United States to provide civilian observers, handle some communications and logistics, as well as generally keep the units fed and fit.

The peace agreement, signed in 1979 as the Camp David accord, calls for the peninsula to be split in three zones running north to south, with a fourth on the Israeli side of the border.

In Zone A, next to the Suez Canal, Egypt is entitled to one mechanized infantry division of up to 22,000 men, armed with field and anti-aircraft weapons, 230 tanks, 480 armored personnel vehicles and individual surface-to-air missiles.

In Zone B, down the middle of the Sinai, the Egyptians can place four battalions totalling 4,000 armed men with short-range, low-power equipment and light arms.

The international force will be based in Zone C, separating the forces of both sides. Egyptian civilian police, however, will be responsible for law and order in the area.

Israel is allowed four infantry battalions, or up to 4,000 men, in Zone D on its own side of the border. The forces may be armed with individual surface-to-air missiles, but cannot have tanks or any types of artillery.

"So far, we thank God and ourselves, there have been no violations in the interim buffer zone," Porat said. "Israel's withdrawal is the final phase in the pullout. But April 25 is one more date from which we can only go forward. We are in an ongoing process for peace."

Bringing the force together was the result of more than a year of negotiations under the aegis of the Carter administration at Camp David in Maryland.

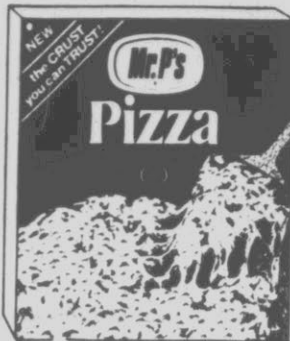

After the international force moves into place, Eitam Base will become known by its Arabic name, El-Ghora.

Brake Job for Disc or Drum Brake Systems

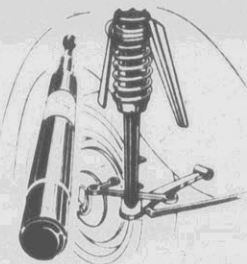

Two-Wheel
Sears Price

69⁹⁹

4-Wheels, Complete 119.99

Our trained specialists will inspect brake system, install new disc pads or brake shoes, rebuild calipers or wheel cylinders, turn drums or rotors, install new front grease seals, clean and repack front wheel bearings, flush brake lines and replace with heavy-duty brake fluid. Sears may decline to perform partial brake jobs if it appears, in Sears judgment, that additional work is needed for your brake system to function properly. Replacement of master cylinder, power booster, drum/rotor are extra if needed.
