Mayor Breaks Rezoning Plea Deadlock

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer

An affirmative vote by Mayor Percy Cox broke a 3-3 City Council deadlock Thursday night in favor of a rezoning request involving property on Stantonsburg Road that has been the subject of lengthy discussion for over two years.

The council's approval of Tom Taft's request to rezone 14.7 acres for commercial use took place in spite of opposition from a Stantonsburg Road property owner who said he was not in favor of speculative rezoning.

At the outset, Cox reported that the city had received a letter from Taft at 5 p.m. Thursday requesting that his request be modified by moving the proposed rezoning line back 100 feet on the northern side and leaving the 100-foot section under the present RA-20 (residential-agricultural) zone.

Cox explained that the city attorneys determined that by moving the rezoning line back 100 feet from the property of Mildred Taylor, the Taft property would no longer be considered contiguous to Mrs. Taylor's land. Therefore, a protest petition submitted by Mrs. Taylor and her son, Harold Harris, was no longer valid in view of the non-contiguous situation, the mayor said.

A valid protest petition requires that five affirmative votes be cast for approval where four votes are needed in cases not involving petitions.

Taft, who said he and his co-owners petitioned the city some two and a half years ago to rezone the property at the northwest corner of Stantonsburg Road and Allen Road, said he believes the exact location of the proposed U.S. 264 controlled access corridor is fixed now. He said he understands the highway will take some 3.5 acres on the southern boundary of his property, leaving approximately 11 acres for development.

First Time In 6 Years Wholesale Prices Decline In February

By SALLY JACOBSEN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) —

For the first time in six years, prices at the wholesale level fell last month, dropping at an annual rate of 1.7 percent, the government said today.

The slide was driven by declining car, truck and energy prices, which recorded their largest monthly decrease since January 1976.

Food prices, which analysts had expected to surge considerably, rose only 0.5 percent, well under the double-digit pace of January, the Labor Department said.

Its new Producer Price Index said energy prices fell 1.8 percent in February, double the decline in January and the largest monthly drop since the 2.9 percent of January 1976.

The overall index for finished goods fell 0.1 percent last month, the first decline since the 0.2 percent decrease of February 1976, when food prices plummeted and the effects of the 1975 recession were still being felt.

Last month's decrease reversed recent moderate upswings in the measure, including the 0.4 percent gain of January and the 0.3 percent of December.

Deputy White House press secretary Larry Speakes called today's report "good news, indeed."

"We find the February results satisfying and a clear indication that inflation is coming down," he said, adding that the administration was not claiming credit for the drop.

Murray L. Weidenbaum, chairman of the president's Council of Economic Advisers, said the figures were "just plain good news."

"It's another indication of the substantial progress we are making in reducing inflation," Weidenbaum said, adding that he expects "a lot of additional progress." He spoke to reporters after testifying at a congressional hearing.

If prices fell for 12 straight months at February's 0.1 percent, the yearly decline would be 1.7 percent after seasonal adjustment. The annual rate reported by the Labor Department is based on a more precise calculation of monthly changes than the figure the department makes public.

Inflation for all of last year rose 7 percent at the wholesale level, the smallest yearly rise in the index since 1977. The moderating rate was attributed to the recession, the worldwide oil glut and abundant food supplies.

This year's rate is expected by analysts to be in the range of 6 percent to 7 percent.

As for energy costs, today's report said, "Gasoline prices fell more sharply than in January, and home heating oil prices turned down after edging up a month earlier." Prices for natural gas, however, rose 2 percent after declining 1.3 percent in January.

Passenger car prices were down 1.3 percent after a 0.4 percent fall in January. Prices for light trucks tumbled 7.9 percent after virtually no change in the previous two months.

The decline in motor vehicle prices was attributed largely to domestic automakers' rebate programs and price concession and rebates offered on small trucks, the department said.

January's car and truck prices had been virtually unchanged from December.

Food prices were up 0.5 percent after a 1.1 percent advance in January, the report said.

Prices were down for fish, refined sugar, shortening and cooking oils, and fresh and dried vegetables. Prices for fresh fruits outpaced the January decline.

Six Barred From Road Bids

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The state Board of Transportation today suspended six companies from bidding on state projects following the companies' indictments on federal bid-rigging charges.

The board's action forced one of the companies to lose a highway resurfacing project on which it was the low bidder.

The board also voted to award highway and bridge contracts on 31 projects totaling $24.8 million dollars. Of the projects, 22 were for resurfacing 570 miles of highways and two others were for improvements in Interstate 85 near Durham and around Lexington.

State Highway Administrator Billy Rose said the contracts mean the state Department of Transportation now has begun projects to repave 2,100 miles of highway since July, reflecting the General Assembly's new emphasis on road maintenance. Only 380 miles were resurfaced in all of last year.

The board agreed to formally suspend from its list of qualified bidders the C.W. Matthews Contracting Co. Inc. of Marietta, Ga., which was indicted Feb. 24 in federal court in Raleigh on charges of violating the Sherman Antitrust Act.

The board also suspended five other companies following similar indictments in other states.

They were: Henry S. Branscome Inc. of Williamsburg, Va.; Peter Kiewit Sons' Co. of Omaha, Neb.; Ballenger Corp. of Greenville, S.C.; Williams Paving Co. Inc. of Norfolk, Va., and Moore Brothers Co. Inc. of Verona, Va.

Ballenger Corp. was the low bidder on a project to pave and improve a rural road in Columbus County, and was the only one of seven bidders who proposed to do the job at less than the state's $308,000 estimate.

The board awarded the contract to the second lowest bidder, Miller Engineering Co. of Mount Airy.

Customs Chases Dealt Big Blow To Smugglers, But No Captures

MIAMI (AP) — Customs agents who chased down two drug-laden planes within 48 hours of the nation's biggest cocaine seizure helped deliver a "heavy hit" to the South American illegal drug industry, a federal official says.

The total haul came to nearly $1.1 billion in cocaine, marijuana and methaqualone, a sedative, but U.S. Customs spokesman Jim Dingfelder in Miami said no one was arrested in any of this week's seizures.

"They are shattering records all over the place," said Con Dougherty, spokesman for the U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration, which assisted Florida-based Customs in all three actions.

"They are putting a real heavy hit on the drug industry. The people down in Colombia, Bolivia and Peru have no way to increase production to make up for these kind of losses," Dougherty said.

Customs agents making a routine inspection at Miami International Airport Tuesday uncovered nearly two tons of cocaine, worth $950 million on the street, aboard a commercial cargo jet from Colombia.

In the next 48 hours, pursuing drug-smugglers from the Atlantic to the Appalachians, agents crash-landed in rural Tennessee early Thursday to snare methaqualone and $500,000 worth of marijuana after a gunbattle, and forced down a plane in the Bahamas carrying $130 million worth of cocaine.

Officials offered no theories for the timing of the triple strike.

Officials in Vice President George Bush's office, meanwhile, backed down from an earlier claim that Tuesday's record-breaking haul was the work of Bush's newly formed task force on south Florida crime.

Bush's press spokesman, Peter Teeley, had said in Washington that the cocaine seizure was the task force's first act. Customs agents in Miami said Bush's task force had no direct role in the seizure.

Teeley said Thursday there "had been a misunderstanding" on the role of the task force, which includes officers from Customs, the DEA, the Coast Guard, and the Treasury and Defense departments.

The Tennessee action began over the Atlantic early Thursday when military radar pinpointed a suspicious blip headed north from Colombia. Two Customs planes intercepted the twin-engine Piper aircraft 75 miles south of Key West, Fla., and trailed the plane north to watch it land at a rural airport near Madisonville, Tenn.

On the ground, a pickup truck was being loaded with bales of marijuana from the plane, agents said.

The first federal plane to land crashed into a car the smugglers had pushed onto the runway.

Two agents were slightly injured, but raced from their plane and opened fire on the pickup, which the smugglers drove at the agents, Dingfelder said. Two other agents landed moments later.

Officers said the suspects tried to flee in two pickup trucks, but one got mired in mud. The other rammed through an airport gate.

On Wednesday, another Customs plane chased a would-be drug smuggler out of Colombia all the way to Florida and then to the Bahamas, where it was forced to land.

The Customs team picked up the sleek, needle-nosed Cessna 404 more than 100 miles south of Key West and trailed it to Lake Okeechobee in south-central Florida, where it began circling a landing site. Then it veered off and headed to sea, Dingfelder said.

Williams Still To Enjoy Perquisites Of Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — For the first day in 23 years, Harrison A. Williams Jr. is no longer a United States senator.

The 62-year-old New Jersey Democrat ended his protracted and emotionally draining fight against expulsion by resigning Thursday, avoiding a near-certain vote to oust him.

"I did not wish to see the Senate bring dishonor to itself by expelling me," Williams said. Later, he added: "I feel as if a burden has been lifted."

Williams said he decided to resign about 11:30 a.m. Thursday after being assured by two Democratic colleagues that they would push for a Senate investigation of the government's conduct in the Abscam case that led to his conviction on bribery and conspiracy charges.

He had argued that Abscam was an "unprecedented assault" on Congress by the executive branch.

Senate rules give Williams' staff 30 days with pay to close out business, transfer casework to the state's other senator and answer correspondence.

Williams retains his right to a pension of about $45,000 a year, as well as federal health benefits and life insurance.

He also has access to the Senate floor, and can make use of many other perquisites available to senators such as the Senate barbershop, gymnasium and federally subsidized supply and equipment stores.

The choice of a successor has been left to the son of the man Williams defeated in his first bid for the Senate in 1958. New Jersey Gov. Thomas H. Kean, a Republican, said in Trenton he has not yet decided who he will appoint to serve the remaining nine months of Williams' term.

The appointee is expected to expand the 53-member Republican majority in the Senate. And the departure of Williams, a liberal stalwart, also opens slots on Senate Rules, Banking and Labor and Human Resources committees.

The resignation capped a 6-day expulsion debate in which Williams said he was the innocent victim of zealous law enforcers.

Five Firms Applying For Low-Power TV Permits

Five companies, including The Daily Reflector, have applied for permits to build new low-power television stations in Greenville.

The Federal Communications Commission, on March 4, gave final authorization to establish low-power television service (LPTV) — to operate on a secondary non-interference basis to full-service TV stations — in an effort to provide new broadcast programming.

In approving LPTV, the FCC said the low-power license is "a license to serve the public."

In addition to The Daily Reflector, which has applied for a license to operate a translator station with low power origination features on Channel 41, other firms applying for licenses in Greenville include: Roy H. Park Broadcasting Inc. (owner of WNCT-TV) for Channel 64; Residential Entertainment, a Texas-based company for Channel 58; James and Hope Smith of Alexandria, Va., for Channel 60; and Millard V. Oakley of Livingston, Tenn., for Channel 31.

According to the FCC, the distinction between translators and low-power stations is that translators rebroadcast a full-service station's signal, while low-power stations may originate programming.

Dave Whichard, co-publisher of The Daily Reflector, said "We expect low-powered television stations to be an important part of the diversified telecommunications industry in the years ahead. They will be local community stations concentrating on service to a specific audience."

Whichard continued, "The Federal Communications Commission has just begun setting forth the guidelines under which licenses for LPTV stations will be granted, therefore we do not know when our applications will be acted on by the FCC."

However, Whichard said he hopes the Reflector station will be "on the air within a year after the license is granted," and said the station will broadcast "news and other kinds of programming."

More than 5,000 LPTV applications have been received by the FCC, which has placed a freeze on applications until the application backlog has been reduced.

The FCC estimates that over the next few years, as many as 1,000 LPTV stations could be authorized.

Low power stations, generally restricted to 10 watts VHF and 1,000 watts UHF, may operate on any available VHF or UHF channel, provided they do not cause objectionable interference to full service stations.

The low-power stations, with a range of between 12 to 20 miles, will be subject to a minimum of program content regulation by the FCC, and may provide subscription (pay) programming.

In handling the backlog of LPTV applications, the FCC will first process applications for cities at least 55 miles away from the largest 200 cities in the U.S. — a criteria that includes applications for stations in Greenville.

The second tier of applications to be processed will be for service in cities that are at least 55 miles away from the largest 100 cities in the nation, while the third phase will include applications from the rest of the country.

The first LPTV application granted by the FCC was in May 1981, for a station in Minnesota, which is now the only LPTV station on the air.

CHILDREN ON STREET

I was in the Park Theater Saturday afternoon and was dismayed when one feature ended and another did not begin. The two persons in charge asked everyone out. They were very polite, saying they'd let any member of the audience who wished back in for the 7:15 p.m. show free of charge. The problem was that I saw three youngsters put out on the street, knowing that their parents had left them in the movies thinking they'd be safe there. I don't think they should have been put out. Someone could have harmed them or they could have been blamed for some vandalism downtown, since they were seen out and around for about an hour, or would have been if I had not called their parents. C.A.

Park Manager Roy Griffin said closing the theater Saturday afternoon was a mistake. The feature film was extremely short, he said, and the "dead time" between the 4:45 and the 7:15 showing was so long that he decided to let the two persons in charge of the theater take a break. From now on, he said, they'll have to take turns. The theater will be kept open.

He said, though, that parents should be aware of what their children are seeing (the Saturday feature was R-rated) and doing and not leave them past the ending time of the movie they come in to see. Ending times of each feature are not posted, but may be obtained by asking the person in the box office, he indicated.

Jaycette History Reviewed At Meet

Two state officers were guests at the Greenville Jaycettes meeting held yesterday at Abram's Barbecue.

Doris Gosnell from Lexington, president of the North Carolina Jaycettes, and Betty Lee of Asheboro, regional director of the state organization, were welcomed by Diane Myers. Kim Caraway was welcomed as a new member.

Mrs. Gosnell spoke about various activities of the state organization. These included projects for community service, Jaycee assistance and individual development. She welcomed the Greenville club to state organization.

Ross Walls shared plans for a cross-stitch quilt for the fall bazaar and members volunteered to make squares. The bazaar will be chaired by Linda James, Mary Jane Sisk and Linda Asbell. Plans were made to hold a yard sale Saturday, April 3 at the Jaycee Building with all proceeds going to Pitt Memorial Hospital.

Vicki Hudson delivered gifts for the club to the Pre-natal Clinic at the Helath Department and Nan Garrett delivered birthday cakes to children at REAP in March. A personal gift packet was purchased for an incoming resident of the pre-release program.

Betty Cox and Laura Jackson will co-chair a beautiful baby contest to benefit the March of Dimes May 7-8.

Mrs. Cox, a past president of the local group, presented a brief history of the organization. Including: the Greenville Jaycettes were chartered in January, 1953 with Mrs. Kay Wichard as the first president.

For 23 consecutive years on a once-per-month basis, members served milk (or juice) and cookies to the children at the Health Department's Crippled Children Clinic. This project ended in 1977 when the Health Department moved into its new annex. In 1973, the club was the fourth largest in the state and the eighth oldest.

In 1976, the organization donated $2,000 to furnish the pediatric playroom at Pitt Memorial Hospital, and gave $1,000 to the Pitt County Boys Club in 1978.

The club held an annual candy sale their money-making project for 24 years, from 1956-1979.

The club's Aid-to-the-Handicapped fund has been expanded to assist those who are handicapped physically, mentally or by their environment.

Through the years, the club has helped purchase shoes, braces, wheelchairs and medical supplies for Pitt County's handicapped people.

Synthetics and Energy Crisis Change — Laundry Routine

For the past 30 years, we have been enjoying the wonders of automatic washing and drying. Gone is the time when everyone set aside a day each week for a "wash day." We know we can wash and dry every day, since it is a simple push-button operation and not dependent on good weather.

But change is in the air. We now realize the value of managing both energy resources and personal time wisely; it makes good sense to put more planning into the laundry routine.

Remember the 30-Minute Rule

Today's synthetics and blends need different handling than cottons do. Pick out those which need pretreatment or soaking and get this procedure started. Store a bottle of pretreatment spray near the washer and use it on obvious stains and 'ring round the collar.' Allow 30 minutes setting time if you are spot treating with a liquid detergent or detergent paste so it will have time to work on the soil.

Use Hot Water When Needed.

Heating household water is the second largest energy use in the home (space heating is first). Because of this, many consumers have lowered water heater temperatures to keep their fuel bills more manageable.

However, lowering household water temperature involves trade-offs that consumers need to know. Some of these trade-offs include less effective clothes washing.

While many of today's synthetics are harmed by water that is too hot, the low phosphate detergents work best in water that is between 100°-120°F. In addition, warm water dissolves granular detergent better and allows it to attack stains more effectively than cold water.

Many consumers are finding that they need to wash clothes twice because they don't look clean. This not only uses more energy, it also uses valuable time and personal effort.

Use Cold Water to Rinse

A cold water rinse works as well as warm water in getting rid of detergent and it kills the suds better, so saving energy there is a good idea.

Don't Skimp on Water Level

Whenever possible, use your washer to its full capacity, even if this means waiting a few days to make up a full load. Don't, however, pack clothes in tightly; they need room to slosh around the tub. Light streaks on the creases of blue jeans are often an indication that abrasion has occurred from too little water for the number of clothes being washed. This abrasion takes its toll on all the pieces being laundered — causing linting, pilling and fabric wear.

Don't Suggest Gift Ideas

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My parents' 25th wedding anniversary is coming up this year and I'm planning an open-house party for them. I would also like to treat them to a trip to Hawaii, but I can't afford it.

Would it be all right to ask those I invite to the open house to please contribute some money toward a trip to Hawaii instead of bringing a gift?

LOVING DAUGHTER

DEAR DAUGHTER: Unless you're asked, don't volunteer any suggestions.

DEAR ABBY: In your letter to "Pennsylvania Mom" you said, "Same-sex marriages are not legal anywhere."

This is to inform you that on March 28, 1975, the Omaha World Herald reported that a marriage license for persons of the same sex was issued by Boulder, Colo., County Clerk Clela Rorex. She issued the license to two gentlemen who had lived together for over four years and wanted to be legally married. They were married in a religious ceremony on Oct. 28, 1973.

County Clerk Rorex said that she had been informed by the district attorney's office that the state legislature apparently had never contemplated the legality of issuing marriage licenses to persons of the same sex, since no government statute exists dealing with that specific practice.

Proof that this was a legal marriage was established two years later when they were divorced. In reporting the news, Paul Harvey, nationally syndicated radio personality, said, "If the marriage wasn't legal in the first place, a divorce would not have been necessary."

DEAR ABBY: After 30 years of marriage, I happened to go into my husband's shop and discovered to my amazement that he's been spending his time there in a fantasy world with young women through a collection of nude girlie magazines!

We have raised three daughters the ages of the nudes in these magazines. I certainly cannot compete with these beautiful young things. All I have thought about since seeing those pictures is taking my life. If he spends so much time dreaming about young women, surely he will soon start buying the real thing — if he hasn't already.

Our youngest child is 20, so she certainly doesn't need me any longer. You probably hear this kind of thing every day, but I find the pain unbearable. If you have an answer that can stop the pain, I would love to hear it. Sign me.

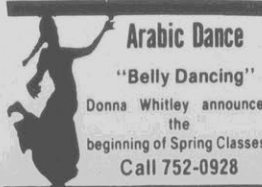

FINISHED AT 50

DEAR FINISHED: Looking at nude magazines is a harmless outlet that many men (young and old) indulge in. Your husband's collection does not indicate that he has been — or intends to be — unfaithful to you. Neither does it mean he is comparing you to these "paper dolls."

Perhaps you are overreacting to your discovery because it occurred at a critical time in your life — when your last child is preparing to leave the nest. Please seek counseling to enable you to deal more comfortably with your husband's fantasy world and to explore ways to make your middle years more rewarding and fulfilling. You have much to live for. God bless, and let me hear from you again. I care.

Restaurant Serves Snake, Ostrich

By ROBERT WIELAARD
Associated Press Writer
ANTWERP, Belgium (AP) — Slipping a coiled, skinless rattlesnake into a hot frying pan, James Forsyth opined that Belgians are culinary adventurers.

"They'll try damn near anything," he said through the steam and sizzle rising from the pan.

For that matter, so will Forsyth, 36, a former machinist from Buffalo, N.Y. His restaurant here serves South African ostrich, Texas rattlesnake and alligator, Arizona antelope and other curious dishes.

Forsyth's, a cozy corner eatery off a busy shopping street in Antwerp's south end, opened in 1975, offering common Belgian favorites such as steak and fries (french fries).

Three years later, said Forsyth, he was watching a show on television about a rattlesnake hunt in Arizona.

It then took another two years to find U.S. suppliers who could deliver 110 pounds of snake at a time, he said.

"Rattlesnake," said Forsyth's Belgian wife, Simone, "tastes, well, like snake. It doesn't have a strong flavor. You give it character in the preparation. Love it!"

So do customers at Forsyth's who munch through 110 pounds of rattlesnake in about a fortnight.

"I always have at least two different things," said Forsyth, opening a refrigerator revealing the week's specialties: several rattlesnakes and an entire Texas alligator.

"Tastes like pork and smells like fish," he said, lifting the gator somewhat.

Forsyth's serves ostrich and rattlesnake lightly sauteed. "I always have ostrich," he said.

And what does it taste like?

"Well, if you didn't know what you were eating, you'd say it was the best beefsteak you'd ever had."

Ostrich meat is red. Forsyth serves it several ways, including smothered in barbecue sauce and accompanied by either hearts of palm, apple fritters, salad, vegetables or corn bread.

His restaurant serves alligator roasted, while medallions of antelope are flambéed.

Prices range from about $9 for ostrich steak to double that for harder-to-get alligator.

Forsyth's wife tests all dishes. "Snake is very good," she said. "You can still see it is a snake, of course. You know, the ribs, backbone and all that. It's difficult to eat unless you use your hands. If you're in a hurry, don't eat snake."

Forsyth gets his snakes

headless and without the venom glands and serves them whole.

"I've been cooking since I was a kid," said Forsyth, who retains his clipped upstate New York accent. He plans to extend his menu soon with such delicacies as monkey, crocodile and boa constrictor, all from South America, and bear and buffalo from North Dakota.

"Boa is supposed to be between red and white meat," said Forsyth over a cup of coffee in his turn-of-the-century-style restaurant.

He has tried cobra, "but it tastes like horsemeat." It is hard to sell to Belgians, who love horsemeat and can get it for less money than cobra, he added.

At Our Back Door

In a propaganda battle, U.S. intelligence agents this week released aerial photos which are purported to show a Soviet military build-up in Nicaragua.

A Central Intelligence Agency official says the build-up is far more than Nicaragua needs for its own defense and is a danger to Central America.

The contention brought a response from Nicaraguan ambassador Francisco Fiallos Navarro who said the photos showed only what had been admitted.

He said there were some tanks ... some American and some a gift from a Third World country. He said there were no Soviet military advisers and only a dozen Cuban military advisers.

How big the military build-up in Nicaragua may well be open to dispute. How involved the Soviets are could also be a question. There is no doubt, however, that the Communist tactics of the past in taking over nations are at work in Central America. There is no doubt that Cuban military forces have been involved in other nations in the past. There is every reason to believe that this Soviet puppet nation will be involved again.

There is clearly a danger of Communist activity in Central America, and despite the comparisons to Vietnam, there is a difference. This situation is at our back door and it should be of real concern to the United States if we value our security.

Libyan Move Well Timed

A total ban has been ordered on Libyan oil imports by President Reagan.

It is well timed. A few months back such a ban would have hurt the United States more than Moammar Khadafy. Now, however, the situation is vastly changed.

Some 5 percent of the United States' oil imports come from Libya, an amount we can easily replace in today's market. Libya, on the other hand, might have difficulty finding markets from the oil sales it will be losing.

It could create economic problems for Libya. No doubt the Soviet Union will come to its aid but that, too, will put a further drain on the Soviet economy at a time when the Russians are having economic difficulties of their own.

No Rush To Leave

By BILL NOBLITT
 RALEIGH — There's been no rush to resign those seats of dual power held by dozens of North Carolina General Assembly members who occupy policy and decision-making positions on 90 of the state's 400 boards, councils and commissions.

Attorney General Rufus Edmiston took a firm stance in favor of legislators' relinquishing such dual, exercise of power. It violates the State Constitution relative to separation of powers between judicial-legislative-executive branches of government.

The Legislature's number one strongman — Sen. Kenneth Royall of Durham — made it plain what is to be done with Edmiston, his opinion, and the practice of assigning power seats on the boards to legislators: Edmiston is crazy, Royall snorted.

Crazy to have rendered such an opinion in the hope that legislators would voluntarily comply with what seems the clear intent of the Constitution, perhaps. Not crazy to have seen the dividing line clearly.

Raw Play
 The stage was set for this showdown last year when a legislative proposal was introduced by State Rep. Graham Bell of Gaston County barring service on those boards and commissions by legislators.

Early returns showed a lot of support. Then the committee mulling that measure scheduled a meeting. Powerful legislative leaders from both chambers took the unprecedented step of lining up in the corridor outside that committee room and putting a personal arm-twisting on committee members.

Usually such power displays are kept private. Subtle pressure is generally sufficient and almost never do the leaders take a personal hand in pushing the outcome of a proposal. Typically they send underlings ... and make tradeoffs. In this instance the power was bluntly exposed — kill that proposal. The commissions.

BILL NOBLITT

measure has never been seen again.

Says Bell of the situation now: "What has to happen is a class action suit against the state and the General Assembly by a consortium of people who care about the separation of powers."

He isn't the only one who figures it will take such a court action. The present argument started when the Supreme Court recently held that dual office-holding by legislators on the Environmental Management Commission is unconstitutional, and hinted that other legislative power options in executive functions might be, also.

Actually, legislators cross over into positions of power in judicial functions as well as executive, but so far that has not been challenged of-

Our Allies Stand Firm...

There is an old French proverb which says: "When David Stockman sneezes, the world catches pneumonia."

Nothing could substantiate this more than when the Europeans hit the ceiling last month over President Reagan's budget.

"This is outrageous," Hans Hefner, a German banker, told me at Washington's International Club. "West Germany cannot live with a $100 billion American deficit for 1983."

"Why not?" I said. "President Reagan says we can."

"But," said Francois de Noisette, the French economist, "this will mean continuing high interest rates which will drive capital out of my country. Without capital investment, France will not be able to modernize its plant to compete with the Japanese for business in the United States."

Sako Sato, president of Sako Watches, said, "My people believe that President Reagan is much too optimistic about revenues and an early upturn in the U.S. economy. Tokyo does not share this optimism, and until we see an upswing in the U.S. Gross National Product, we are all going to be faced with a lackluster U.S. recovery."

"But one of the reasons for the spot we're in," I said, "is that the Europeans and Asians have been over-producing and underselling us in the world markets."

ART BUCHWALD

"Don't try to change the subject," the West German banker said. "Our economy is dependent on a strong and healthy American market for our goods. If your people are not working, they can't buy our superior products. That's why we're not happy with Reagan's budget."

"Nobody's happy with Reagan's budget," I said. "But one of the reasons we're not producing more is that you people won't let us sell anything we make in your countries."

"If you're going to insult us," said Monsieur De Noisette, "please sit at another table. The reason we have to be careful about what we allow to be imported into France is that we must keep our own people working."

Mr. Sato nodded his head. "The first duty of a government is to protect its own industries."

"But gentlemen," I said, "our problem is no different from yours. We have to keep our people employed, too. We can't do it if you keep flooding the United States with your goods."

Hefner became red in the face. "We are not flooding the United States with goods. The Japanese are."

Mr. Sato became blue in the face. "That's because we can produce better products more cheaply than you can."

Monsieur de Noisette said, "You're both wrong. The Third World, led by Hong Kong, Taiwan and South Korea, is flooding the markets with the same things we make."

"So why blame Reagan's budget for your troubles?" I asked.

"Because our political parties cannot stay in power if we don't say the United States is responsible for our recession," De Noisette said.

"All right. If you don't like Reagan's budget, where do you think he ought to cut it?"

"That's not for us to say," said Mr. Sato.

"What about cutting back (Please turn to Page 5)

While we depend on volunteers — parents, educators, professionals in the field of MR work and friends who care about the plight of the retarded — working on education and part-support committees, helping in fund-raising events, speaking out in behalf of mental retardation to mention a few, and last but certainly not least, helping to publicize ARC/PC events.

Strength For Today

GETTING RID OF BARNACLES

Back before the Civil War the town of Hudson, New York, located on the Hudson River about 125 miles from the Atlantic Ocean, was a famous whaling port. How could a town so far from the sea become so notable for a maritime enterprise?

The reason was barnacles — or rather, how to get rid of them. Barnacles collect on the bottoms of ships in salt water, and while they can be scraped off, the easiest and most satisfactory way to get rid of them is to take the ship into fresh water where they drop off of their own accord. Hence whaling ships, thickly encrusted with barnacles, would be taken up the Hudson River so that their barnacles would drop off because of the fresh water.

It is thus with our souls. We can get many of the barnacles off by scrubbing, but the best way — the way God desires — is to put our soul in the fresh water of Christ and let hate, lust, jealousy, and bitterness drop off of their own accord. — Elisha Douglass.

Control Data Looking Ahead

By JOHN CUNNIFF
 AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — After 20 years of research and development, and $900 million of cash, Control Data Corp. has yet to make any significant profits on Plato, its computer-based educational system.

"On the other hand," says Tom Miller, vice president for education, "history tells us that 200 years went by after books were introduced before they were used by teachers."

Miller, and William Norris, who founded Control Data and remains the force behind its push into education, believe computer-based instruction will have an impact at least equal to that of books.

They expect big money from it too, beginning by 1984 and accounting for more than half the giant company's profits in 10 to 15 years. That's big money. Last year Control Data earned $170 million.

Plato, named for the great philosopher and teacher of ancient Greece, has grown to a 96-site network around the country, not counting various customer locations, such as at the American Airlines Flight Academy.

At the CDC Learning Centers, individuals can enroll in management, finance, computer programming, accounting and scores of other courses. Responding to material appearing on a touch-sensitive, television-like screen, they work at their own pace. Plato refuses to let them proceed until they demonstrate mastery of the material. It stores scores and other data about the student. It doesn't forget. It can't be tricked.

One of the great advantages, says Miller, is that the instruction is one-on-one, "personalized student instruction," in the vernacular, a superior method but one that is impractical for a human lecturer.

With Plato, Miller claims, the instructor becomes almost infinitely more productive, because it tutors, motivates, interacts with, tests and records student performance. The instructor, meanwhile, can spend his or her time updating the course work, or consulting with students.

Miller, who recognizes that he must first educate the public to Plato's skills if the public is to accept it, doesn't need any cue to begin his pitch.

"It has infinite patience," he says. That's only one quality. Miller boasts it has

Lines Drawn On 'Freeze'

By DONALD M. ROTHBERG
 AP Political Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The move to promote a superpower freeze on production, testing and deployment of nuclear weapons may be emerging as a major political issue.

The lines were drawn this week when a bipartisan group of members of Congress introduced a resolution calling on the Reagan administration and the Soviet government to try to negotiate a halt to the manufacture, testing and deployment of nuclear weapons.

"It's not only bad defense and security policy, it's bad arms control policy as well," said Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr., responding for the administration.

But it was clear there are politicians in both major parties who sense an escalation in the concern among Americans that the world is dangerously close to nuclear confrontation.

"I wholeheartedly endorse the nuclear freeze initiative," former Vice President Walter F. Mondale told the National Press Club on Tuesday.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., was one of the lead sponsors of the nuclear freeze resolution.

And two other potential Democratic presidential candidates — Sens. John Glenn of Ohio and Alan Cranston of California — are among the most outspoken congressional critics of the Reagan administration's policies on nuclear proliferation.

In January, 70 percent of the people responding to an Associated Press-NBC News poll said they thought it likely the United States will become involved in a war during the next few years. The figure in August was 57 percent. Neither question mentioned nuclear war.

But there is little question how Americans feel about the outcome of an all-out nuclear war: A survey in October found 78 percent of the people felt neither side would win.

A slight majority in a survey in December said they felt President Reagan and his administration were talking too much about the possibility of using nuclear weapons.

For politicians, an even clearer signal of the public mood may have come from the Vermont town meetings last week where a nuclear freeze proposal carried in 83 percent of the 191 sessions that considered it. In New Hampshire, 29 of the 36 towns that have considered the matter approved a freeze.

"The grass roots out there makes it very difficult for them to ignore this issue," Rep. Edward Markey, D-Mass., said Tuesday of his fellow congressmen.

Whatever its origins, the movement is being embraced by high-profile establishment politicians.

"The Reagan administration has shown disdain for the nuclear peril," said Mondale. "They show little interest in our nation's non-proliferation policies. Arms control is a moral and security imperative of our age and not an instrument of propaganda."

Glenn has not yet taken a position on the nuclear freeze but he defined the proliferation issue this way in a recent interview: "What we're talking about is whether we some day blow up the world ... you're talking about whether your kids and mine or your grandchildren are going to get incinerated."

Cranston said in a speech this week that "the worst aspect of the Reagan presidency is its failure to come to grips with the danger or nuclear war."

This escalation of the discussion of whether the world is moving toward the brink of nuclear war coincides with the debate generated by President Reagan's call for an 18 percent increase in defense spending in a federal budget that also contains another round of cuts in domestic programs.

It is a clash of opposing views of what the world needs and the American people want.

The president sees a demand for sweeping increases in military strength and argues that U.S. weakness is far more likely to lead to conflict with the Soviet Union.

The opposing view is that while the Soviet military buildup can't be ignored, a more careful program is required and that it should be coupled with an effort to put a lid on the nuclear weaponry of both superpowers.

NCAE Blasts School Pay Proposal

By MARY ANNE RHYNE
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The state teachers' association has sharply criticized a proposal to adjust public school salaries and upgrade several management positions, saying the changes would be unfair and destroy morale.

At a news conference Thursday, the North Carolina Association of Educators lambasted the suggestions by private-industry representatives and offered their own, including pay increases and benefit improvements for teachers.

The Personnel Administration Commission for Public School Employees, a panel appointed by Gov. Jim Hunt, suggested the salary changes. The General Assembly asked the group to recommend how to implement a salary plan outlined more than a year ago by the Arthur Young Co.

The commission recently sent its 25-page proposal to school-employee groups for comment.

"They don't understand that the public school business is quite different from the business of furniture companies or tobacco," NCAE president John I. Wilson said of the Arthur Young Co. "I assume they had very little knowledge about the public school system and how it works."

The Atlanta-based company, hired by the Legislature to study public school employees' pay, recommended salary levels based on job responsibilities and difficulties.

The commission recommended that:

— The rule guaranteeing a superintendent 1 percent higher state salary than any employee in his district be eliminated and superintendents be given a salary step beyond that of any school employee in the district.

— The position of associate superintendent be upgraded and an average daily attendance of at least 12,000 be required for school systems to qualify for a state-paid associate superintendent.

— The position of assistant superintendent be upgraded and that a system average at least 2,000 students a day to receive its first state-allotted assistant superintendent.

— Secondary principals be given a salary step over elementary principals.

— The state Board of Education strengthen middle management by funding positions for directors, supervisors and coordinators. Currently the only state-funded position is that of supervisor.

— An additional salary step be added to the scale for assistant principals in schools with 50 or more state-allotted teachers and with students in grades 7-12.

The recommendation would have to be approved by the state Board of Education and be funded by the Legislature.

The NCAE countered with proposals for a built-in cost-of-living salary adjustment for all school employees, a pay increase for teachers with Master's degrees in guidance counseling, pay scales be based on improved educational background, a reduction in class size, elimination of salary deductions for personal and professional leave, institution of accumulated annual leave for teachers, pay for teachers' vacation days, pay for teachers' extra-curricular duties and creation of tuition grants for continued professional development.

The group said the creation of an associate principal's position and expanding middle management is not in keeping with cutbacks, reductions in force and salary limits.

MILLS CHAPEL

A worship service will be held at Mills Chapel Free Will Baptist Church in Black Jack Sunday at 11 a.m. Pastor J.L. Swinson invites the public to attend.

"We do not need more bureaucracy; we need more direct services to children," the NCAE said.

tried, convicted and punished for violations.

Gov. Jim Hunt from the start of the present debate has stood a pace back. Asked time and again of his view of this growing enhancement of legislative power at the expense of the executive, he has deferred judgment to the courts or the attorney general. It is certain that if he were just entering his first term as governor, his stance would be different. As it is, it is being left to others to push for change.

on the defense?"

"My country will not approve of that," said Hefner.

"Neither would mine," said Sato.

"I'll check with Paris, but I'm sure the answer is no."

"If we don't cut military spending the only other place to cut is human resources. Do you want us to cut back even more on human resources than we have already?"

Hefner said "Could we talk about it among ourselves?"

I left the table. When I returned, De Noisette said,

"We've discussed it and have decided it's all right with us for the President to cut back on your human resources, if it will bring down interest rates."

"Good," I said. "At least Mr. Reagan has something to work with now. You gentlemen have been very helpful."

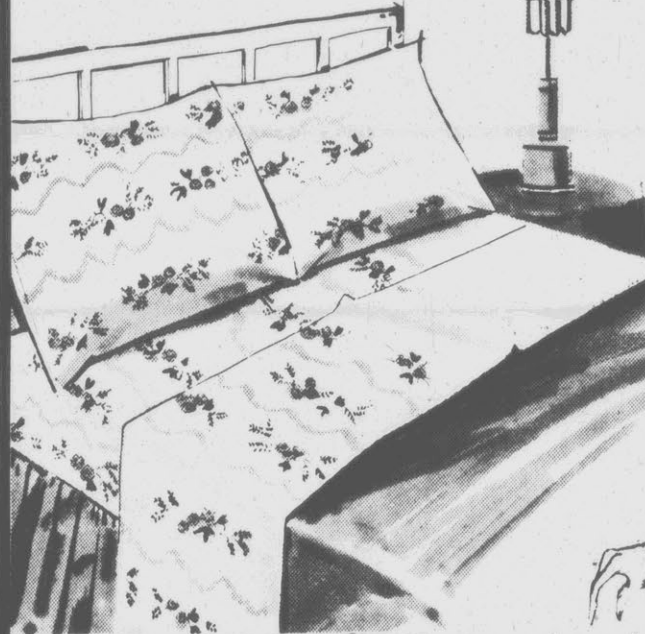

"That!" said Hefner, "is what allies are for."

Bethel Council Hears Martin

BETHEL — County Commissioner Bob Martin briefed governors of the Bethel Council of the Pitt-Greenville Chamber of Commerce Thursday night on efforts to halt legislative redistricting that would split the Bethel area from the rest of Pitt County in its representation in the state House.

Martin told the council an alternative to the proposed redistricting, which would place Bethel and Carolina townships in House District 6 rather than District 9, is being researched and a plan of action will be recommended soon.

Larkin Little, president of the Pitt-Greenville Chamber, also attended the meeting.

Danny Norris, community development chairman, reported to the council that the H. & H. Furniture Building downtown has been donated for use by senior citizens for games, TV and hot meals. Plans are under way for funding the refurbishing of the building, which also will house an office for Bethel Recreation Director Doug Warren, Norris said.

Norris announced that the construction of the $10,000 field house at Bethel Middle School will begin in the next few weeks. Completion is expected by June 1.

Plans for the July 4 celebration were discussed and tentative activities include fireworks, craft displays, contests and a live patriotic band concert.

City Council...

Taft said access to the property is off Allen Road, not Stantonburg Road. He asked the council to rezone the property to highway commercial "in the interest of good planning."

The property owner said he is ready to seek annexation of the tract and he said he was asking to be able to use the land for its "highest and best purposes." Taft said the owners intend to develop the property in a way the city will be proud of.

Harris said he was caught off guard by Taft's move to adjust the zoning line and he said it "might be legal but it doesn't seem quite right." Harris contended that Taft already has commercial property available that he is not utilizing and he said Taft will probably come back later and seek to have the remaining 100 feet rezoned.

Bobby Roberson, city planning director, said the staff earlier expressed concern relative to the amount of commercial property at the site where the new highway would connect with Stantonburg Road. He said that if the situation is viewed on a long range basis, the commercial uses "could be there." However, the demand for highway commercial around the medical school is not there at this time, he added.

In voting on the matter, council members Stuart Shinn, William Hadden and George Pugh favored the request while Judy Greene, Louis Clark and Janice Buck were in opposition. Cox, in breaking the tie vote, said that he felt "a man has a right to develop his property" and he felt the Taft property should be commercial.

In another rezoning matter, the council voted to continue until the April 8 meeting a public hearing on a request by J. T. Manning to rezone, from RA-20 to R-9, 4.51 acres adjacent to the Tucker Farm development and Shenandoah Sub-division. The hearing had been continued at the Feb. 11 meeting.

Cox said that a protest petition had been received from adjoining property owners and Joe Laney, one of the owners, said he spoke for four of the six adjacent owners in opposing the request. He said the property owners requested that they be protected from further multifamily development with a single-family buffer.

Laney asked that the council follow the recommendation of the Planning and Zoning Commission and deny the request.

Fred Mattox, attorney representing Manning, said his client has owned the property for over 17 years and it can not be used for RA-20 purposes. Mattox said Manning feels his property is more closely related to the existing duplex development than to the single family homes across the mill run.

Hadden said he had "real feelings about this" and he suggested that "both sides are right, perhaps." Hadden said there should be some way to protect the home owners but, "on the other hand," he felt R-9 might be the proper zone for the tract.

The board voted four to two to continue the matter until next month.

A third public hearing, involving a request by James H. Hudson to rezone 0.6 of an acre at the corner of Luci Drive and Eastbrook from shopping center to institutional, was less complicated as the council quickly gave its approval. No opposition was voiced during the hearing.

The council adopted a resolution setting a public hearing for April 8 on a request by the attorney for Sunshine Leisure Ventures Inc. for an amendment to the City Code to allow the sale of flowers and related gardening items on Sunday.

Other action taken by the council included:

— Approval of a request by Greenville Utilities Commission for the adoption of a sewer capital reserve fund.

— Approval of the low bid of $9,648.96 for police spring-summer uniforms submitted by Franks Uniform Co. of Savannah, Ga.

— Appointment of Mabel Godette to the Human Relations Council for a term expiring September of 1984.

— Reappointment of Dr. Sam White and Lois Worthington to the Firemen's Relief Fund Committee.

— Reappointment of Sam Arnett to the Greenville Energy Commission.

— Appointment of Rufus Keel, an alternate on the Planning and Zoning Commission, to full membership on the board.

— Denial of a request by Jim Veeder of 212 Greenwood Drive to reduce the speed limit from 35 to 25 miles per hour on Belvedere Drive, Club Pines Drive, Crestline Boulevard, and Greenwood Drive (Hadden voted against denial).

— Appointment of Judy Greene to the Traffic Commission as an ex officio member and agreement to appoint a sixth regular member to the board in April.

— Approval of the placement of stop signs on Arlington Boulevard at the intersection with Beasley Drive in the medical school area.

— Scheduling for April 8 public hearings of two Zoning Ordinance amendments and a rezoning request involving property on the western side of N.C. 11-903 and U.S. 13.

— Adoption of a resolution declaring certain equipment surplus to the city's needs and authorizing the sale of the items.

— Tabling of a request by the Greenville Foundation for funding assistance.

— Adoption of a revised transit route schedule.

Suspension Is Facing Coroner

By BRIAN BLAND
Associated Press Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — The medical examiner who told the nation that drugs killed John Belushi and drink killed William Holden will be suspended for sloppiness and bad management unless he can rebut the charges within a week, his supervisors say.

But Los Angeles County Coroner Thomas Noguchi, a Japanese-born physician who was once accused of praying for an airline crash, quickly demanded a review by other big-city medical examiners to avoid "racial overtones."

The county Board of Supervisors voted Thursday to suspend Noguchi for 30 days beginning March 19, asked the district attorney's office to consider a criminal investigation into Noguchi's conduct, and gave him until 5 p.m. March 17 to answer the charges made in an audit by county Chief Administrative Officer Harry Hufford. One of the five supervisors was on the elected board during an attempt to fire Noguchi 13 years ago.

The audit, previously made public, charged that Noguchi's work procedures were sloppy and that he was often absent from work while he took outside paid consulting jobs. It also charged a lack of effective evidence-control procedures and said his delegation of authority and scientific responsibilities was inappropriate.

In their closed session, the supervisors heard additional charges that weren't made public. Supervisor Mike Antonovich, who oversees the coroner's office, said allegations outlined in the management audit and others have been referred to the district attorney's office.

District Attorney John Van de Kamp told the Los Angeles Times that his office has received about 250 pages of documents and will "determine whether there is a basis for a criminal investigation."

The board's formal allegations remain confidential, but Supervisor Kenneth Hahn said, "There are literally page after page of charges."

The audit recommended Noguchi be fired and the coroner's office, the model for the television show "Quincy," be absorbed into the sheriff's department. It was based on an inquiry begun last December after published reports of missing evidence, errors on body samples and thefts from bodies. Hufford's audit did not mention those allegations.

A Screen Actors Guild resolution accusing him of "sensationalizing and editorializing" after the deaths last year of Holden, an actor who died after a drunken fall, and actress Natalie Wood, who drowned after falling off her yacht, probably had an effect on the supervisors, said Noguchi's lawyer, Godfrey Isaac.

"The supervisors are political animals" and use celebrities to raise funds and to campaign, Isaac said. In suspending Noguchi, Hahn said the supervisors also were reacting to many negative letters and telegrams that supported Noguchi's dismissal.

One such letter came from singer Frank Sinatra, who urged the board to dismiss Noguchi because of the coroner's "constant seeking of headlines and publicity for himself in investigations often involving entertainers or other well-known individuals."

In Belushi's case he released no information until tests were completed, five days after the comedian's death March 5, saying he was under a "gag order" from the supervisors.

"There is no question in my mind that his being born in Japan and that he has traits of an upper class Japanese" have made Noguchi some enemies, said Isaac, who appeared at Noguchi's news conference.

"He was accused of smirking when talking about Belushi's death," Isaac said, "and in 1969 it was charged that he smiled at a disaster. But as someone said, 'What was he supposed to do — cry?'"

"He is a consummate professional," Isaac said, and is respected everywhere "except apparently in Los Angeles by this board."

Within two hours of the supervisors' decision to suspend him, Noguchi read a prepared statement in heavily accented English:

"Either they will evaluate my answers and be fair or they will utilize this procedure to give the appearance of fairness and due process with present intent to fire me," he said.

Dogs Apparently On Marijuana

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — A Winston-Salem veterinarian has been treating an increasing number of dogs that apparently have been eating marijuana plants, which cause the dogs to have symptoms ranging from convulsions to hallucinations.

"For some reason we don't understand, they like the taste of it, and they will eat it if they find some," said Dr. James W. Eubanks, who has treated six to eight dogs for marijuana ingestion since 1963. Two of those cases came last week, however.

One of the dogs ate a marijuana plant and the other ate a bag of marijuana.

The symptoms begin right after the dog eats the marijuana. The animal staggers and later develops muscle tremors, Eubanks said.

Unless the dog vomits, it may have convulsions, respiratory problems and may hallucinate, snapping at things that are not there, he added. If the dog is not treated, it may die.

Eubanks said one of the dogs he saw this week, a schnauzer, had been to the animal hospital twice before with the baffling symptoms but was treated and sent home.

When the schnauzer returned from a colleague who had treated another dog for the malady, he recognized the problem.

Eubanks said he recently heard from a colleague who has also treated some dogs for symptoms that could have been induced by marijuana.

"WE GOT MARRIED HERE!"

The church is where we started our married life. It was a wonderful beginning. There have been good times and there have been difficult times. We're so thankful for the help of our church and for a personal relationship with Jesus Christ through the years.

There are many fine churches in North Carolina. The one that means a lot to us is a Baptist church. Baptist churches all over North Carolina are conducting special HERE'S HOPE services during this time. They invite you to attend and get acquainted.

You will see a HERE'S HOPE sign in front of many churches. That is your special invitation. We hope you'll find a church which will mean as much to you as this one does to us!

The people of this church have meant so much to us. And when we have faced sickness and even death, church friends have been right there to help.

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices declined broadly today, despite some encouraging economic news from Washington.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was down 6.57 at 798.99.

Losers were outpacing advancers by about 2-1 on the New York Stock Exchange.

While the government reported the first decline in wholesale inflation, the producer price index, since 1976, investors seemed less buoyed by that than an anticipated upswing, later in the day, in the nation's money supply, and recurring concerns about government deficits.

And leaders of the Business Roundtable told President Reagan at the White House that deficit projections are understated and they are concerned about elements of his economic program.

International Business Machines led the most active list, down 3/8 at 57 3/8, in trading that included a block of 109,000 that changed hands earlier at 58.

The NYSE's composite index of more than 1,500 common stocks fell 0.52 to 62.46. On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index fell 2.68 to 245.50.

Volume on the Big Board in the first two hours reached 22.03 million shares, down from 23.86 million at noon on Thursday.

Gulf Oil was down 1/4 at 29 3/4. Holiday Inns fell 1 1/2 to 24 1/2. BankAmerica dropped 1 1/2 to 16 1/2, and Exxon was down 3/4 at 28 1/2.

Dismiss Case Against Firm

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The North Carolina Environmental Management Commission Thursday dismissed its case against C.F. Industries, a suspected polluter of the Chowan River.

The commission said the state failed to provide adequate evidence to force the fertilizer manufacturer to reduce its nitrogen discharges.

With a vote of 8-0, the commission decided to continue studies for up to two more years.

The Chowan River has suffered from algal blooms during the summer, caused by excessive amounts of nitrogen and phosphorus seeping into the river from various sources. C.F. Industries has been considered one of the contributors.

Though more than three-quarters of the Chowan drainage basin lies in Virginia, conclusive evidence has not been presented to support any tougher regulations of dischargers of nitrogen and phosphorus in Virginia.

James Wallace, a member of the commission, said he was concerned about the Chowan problem, but did not believe the state's scientific information about C.F. Industries was sufficient to require the firm to act.

State evidence showed that over the years, the company and its predecessor, Farmers Chemical, pumped nitrogen waste into lagoons that leaked, overflowing into a swamp between the company and river.

But C.F. Industries said its pollution monitors show "no apparently significant difference in the amount of nitrogen at its upstream and downstream sample stations."

That shows that it is producing no significant nitrogen pollution, the firm said.

Add Security At Courthouse

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Guilford County is cracking down on security in the county courthouse in the wake of two shootings — one fatal — in courthouses during recent months.

People entering Guilford County courthouses may soon be searched for weapons and subjected to random scans with hand-held metal detectors, officials said Thursday.

A courtroom security committee recommended Thursday that people entering Guilford County courthouses be searched and subjected to random scans with hand-held metal detectors.

Guilford County's senior resident Superior Court judge, Charles T. Kivett, who set up and chaired the committee, said he plans to enter an order calling for the changes, which could go into effect next week.

State laws give presiding judges authority to order searches and take security measures they feel are necessary, court officials said.

Kivett formed the committee after Ralph Edward Thomas, 37, killed himself Feb. 19 with a .22 caliber pistol he had smuggled into one courtroom. The shooting came seconds after Thomas had been sentenced to a life prison term for raping an 11-year-old girl.

On Dec. 10, Horace Wilkerson, 21, wounded himself with a homemade gun during a hearing in a domestic case.

GI Bill Revival Said Too Costly
 WASHINGTON (AP) — Saying the money can be put to better use, the Pentagon has rejected proposals to revive the GI Bill as a means of attracting better recruits through education benefits.

Lawrence Korb, the defense manpower chief, told a joint meeting of the House Armed Services and Veterans committees Thursday that "we cannot afford to spend one unnecessary dollar" because of the state of the economy.

He said a military manpower task force concluded that educational benefits "are not the most efficient incentive for recruiting high-quality personnel." Other incentives, such as bonuses, are more effective, Korb added.

von Bulow...
 the courthouse at 9:30 a.m. and went straight to their deliberating room to continue discussion of two attempted murder charges. They deliberated for five hours on Thursday.

Judge Thomas H. Needham said he would not bring jurors into the courtroom except to dismiss them for the day or for a verdict.

After the jury was excused Thursday, sheriffs had to clear a path through a pressing crowd of photographers and spectators so they could board a bus to a local motel. From noon to 5 p.m. they reviewed five weeks of testimony on the comas suffered by Martha "Sunny" von Bulow during Christmas visits to the couple's Newport mansion in 1979 and 1980.

"You have at least scratched the surface as to how each of you feels and to know your job is a difficult one," Needham said before excusing the panel for the day. "This has been a shakedown cruise on how you think."

Outside the courtroom, hawkers quickly sold out two dozen T-shirts and five handbags emblazoned with von Bulow's face and the inscription, "Innocent, March 1982, Newport, R.I."

From a second-floor window of the courthouse, von Bulow watched a throng gather around a woman wearing one of the shirts. Spotting the inscription, von Bulow waved and smiled and his lawyer gave the thumbs-up sign.

His 50-year-old wife, heir to a utilities fortune, is in a New York City hospital in a coma, which the prosecution contends was brought on by an insulin injection von Bulow administered during a Christmas visit to the couple's Newport mansion in 1980. Prosecutors allege a brief coma Mrs. von Bulow suffered in late 1979 also was the result of a murder attempt.

"You do not have to solve any mystery," Needham instructed the jury before deliberations began.

"You do not have to decide, really, anything except whether this defendant did what he's accused of," the judge said, standing with his arms crossed at the Superior Court bench.

Rose Romps In Season Opener, 13-5

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor
WHEAT SWAMP — Bill Kittrell climaxed a six-run first inning with a three-run homer and Rose High School went on to record a 13-5 victory over North Lenoir in the Rampants baseball opener for 1982 yesterday. Kittrell, who later drove in another run, slammed the ball out of the park in deep centerfield, staking Rose to a 6-0 lead that expanded to 13-0 before several late errors help the Hawks come up with their five runs. North Lenoir got only one hit, however, that off the third pitcher of the day for Rose, Gordon Douglas, in the seventh inning. Kenny Kirkland started the contest for Rose, going two innings without allowing a hit. He walked two and hit one, all in the second inning, but a double play and a fine throw by catcher Crowell Pope to catch a stealing Hawk helped quell that threat. Roger Williams went the middle three, fanning six and walking one. That one, however, came around to score. Douglas was then tagged for four runs, three of them unearned in the final frame after a perfect sixth inning.

"I was pleased with our pitching," Coach Ronald Vincent said afterwards — despite the runs scored late. "I thought our defense played well overall; better than I anticipated."

"We came out swinging the ball well early too, and that pleased me," he added. By the time the first inning was over it was clear what the outcome would be. Tom Buie led off with a bad-hop single to left and Mont Carter hit behind the breaking runner, with a single to right. Sammy Hodges then hit a sacrifice fly to center, scoring Buie.

With two away, Douglas walked as did Pope. Randy Warren then singled to center, scoring Carter and Douglas, and Kittrell finished things off with his round-trip blast to center.

Madison Rallies Past Buckeyes; Deacons Roll By Old Dominion

By TOM FOREMAN Jr.
AP Sports Writer
CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — An invisible force met an immovable object in the first round of the NCAA East Regional in Charlotte and Ohio State found itself eliminated from the title chase. The tangible object that the Buckeyes met was James Madison, which rallied for a 55-48 victory in the first of two games in the Charlotte Coliseum. The Dukes have a Saturday afternoon date with top-ranked North Carolina, the

No. 1-seeded team in the tournament. Wake Forest got a career-high 18 points from Anthony Teachey and Mike Helms duplicated the feat to lead the 18th-ranked Demon Deacons to a 74-57 victory over Old Dominion. Wake Forest faces Memphis State in the nightcap of the afternoon doubleheader.

James Madison Coach Lou Campanelli said he didn't think his Dukes could match up with the heftier Buckeyes, so he decided to rely on that invisible force.

James Madison Coach Lou Campanelli said he didn't think his Dukes could match up with the heftier Buckeyes, so he decided to rely on that invisible force.

"The only way we can play with Ohio State defensively is with all the intangibles," Campanelli said. "We started to take control. The kids did not lose their poise and they did not give up on their offense."

The Dukes had every reason to doubt their attack after shooting 36 percent in the first half. But they shot 65 percent in the second period, and outscored Ohio State 21-6 in the final 11 minutes.

"It's simple, not complicated, gentlemen," Ohio State Coach Eldon Miller said. "We have no alibis. They beat us offensively and defensively."

Dan Ruland scored 18 points for the Dukes, now 24-5. Linton Townes added 12 points, 10 in the second half and most during the spree which led to the victory.

Clark Kellogg and Tony Campbell scored 14 points apiece for the Buckeyes, who fall out of the national championship chase at 21-10.

In the second game, Wake Forest pulled away from the Monarchs with some hot shooting by Teachey and Helms. From a 41-37 lead at the 13:54 mark, the Demon Deacons raced to a 49-39 edge almost 3 minutes later. The Monarchs never recovered.

"Coming out in the second half, we were not aggressive," said Old Dominion Coach Paul Webb. "Unfortunately we picked an inopportune time to play a poor game."

Wake Forest Coach Carl Tacy said his ballclub utilized its advantage on the boards and its ability to keep things in line.

"When we got a workable lead, we showed patience," Tacy said. "I think that our confidence and experience really made the difference." Ronnie McAdoo led Old Dominion with 17 points.

Both winning coaches had words of praise for their upcoming opponents. Campanelli said North Carolina has "two of the truly top players in the country in James Worthy and Sam Perkins."

Tacy said Memphis State's Keith Lee is the man that makes the team go and "We'll have to come up with a tremendous defensive effort to stay in the game with them."

Second Chance At S.C. Good To Barnes, Jones

For two members of the East Carolina Lady Pirates squad, getting a bid to the first-ever NCAA women's tournament was like getting new life. For them, their careers as collegiate players were over otherwise.

Sam Jones and Lillian Barnes are the only two seniors on the ECU team that will face South Carolina in the first round of the Mid-West Regionals at Columbia, S.C., on Sunday at 3 p.m.

"I'm just glad to be in the tournament," Barnes, a Wilson native said. "I really didn't care who we would be playing."

Jones echoed Barnes' sentiments. "I'm very excited about it. I just can't wait."

The latter player, a Mount Olive native, paced the Pirates through many of the games down the stretch when the Pirates won 13 of their last 15. She scored in double figures in every game this season, with a low of ten against three different foes, and a high of 28 against North Carolina in the final game of the regular season. In ten of the final 15 games, she scored 20 or more points, making her second in team scoring with a 17.7 average. Mary Denkler led the team with 20.3 points.

Barnes feels that having lost to South Carolina will be somewhat of an advantage for the Lady Pirates. "We've had an opportunity to see what we did wrong," she said, "to see why we lost. If we had won, we probably would have overlooked some things that we are working on now."

Barnes, too, really isn't surprised that the team, which opened with a 4-7 record, finished up 17-9 and won an NCAA bid.

"I told Coach (Cathy) Andruzzi several times during the season that I thought there was something special about this team. Even when we were 4-7, I still felt it. I just hoped that the record wouldn't get us down and we'd do what I thought we could do all along."

With Barnes and Jones as co-captains and showing the leadership needed, Barnes' dream came true.

During her previous three years at East Carolina, Barnes played little, amassing only three starts prior to this year. But this season, she's started every game, scoring a high of 18 points against Miami of Ohio, ten better than her previous best.

"This has been a big finish for my career," she said. "I had no idea that my final year would be like this. It was just a dream, but because of the year we've had, I've had a chance to live my dream."

Jones, meanwhile, is looking

Kentucky 'Avoids' Louisville

By The Associated Press
The University of Kentucky, avoiding a meeting with Louisville for the first time in 23 years, made sure the rivalry will go unrenowned for at least another season.

The 15th-ranked Wildcats blew an early lead Thursday night and lost, 50-44, to Middle Tennessee in the first round of the NCAA basketball tournament's Midwest Regional at Nashville, Tenn.

The upset, instead, put Middle Tennessee into the second round against Louisville on Saturday.

"It's hard to believe they were looking beyond us," Blue Raiders Coach Stan Simpson said. "They are a good tournament team...they've been to the big house too many times."

Kentucky and Louisville, seemingly natural cross-state rivals, have not met on a basketball court since the 1959 NCAA tournament when the Cardinals defeated the Wildcats 76-61 in the Midwest Regional. Louisville has tried on numerous occasions to renew the rivalry since then, and several bills to force a meeting have died in the Kentucky legislature, the most recent during this session. "Certain things happen that cause you to lose heart," Kentucky Coach Joe B. Hall said of the game. "Shots weren't falling well, your defense is soft, pretty soon you lose concentration—lose heart."

Rick Campbell scored 19 points for the Blue Raiders, 22-7 and champions of the Ohio Valley Conference. A three-point play by Jerry Beck gave the Raiders a 28-26 lead with three minutes left in the first half, and Kentucky never led again.

The Wildcats, who lost to Alabama in the finale of the Southeastern Conference tournament, saw their record drop to 22-8. Middle Tennessee used a slow, deliberate offense to hold the Wildcats scoreless during one 7:44 stretch that ended with 5:22 to play. Dirk Minniefield, Jim Master, Melvin Turpin and Charles Hurt shared scoring honors for Kentucky with eight points apiece.

In the other first-round game at Nashville, Indiana began defense of its NCAA crown with a 94-62 drubbing of Robert Morris, setting up a second-round meeting with Alabama-Birmingham.

In the rest of the first-round games, No. 16 Wake Forest downed Old Dominion 74-57 and James Madison beat Ohio State 55-48 in the East Region; Marquette shaded Evansville 67-62 and Houston beat Alcorn State 94-84 in the Midwest, and No. 14 West Virginia clobbered North Carolina A&T 102-72 and Wyoming edged Southern Cal 61-58 in the West. The winners continue tournament play on Saturday.

Randy Wittman scored 16 points, and Ted Kitchel and Steve Bouchie helped Indiana get off to a fast start with six straight points each on the early going. Wittman got eight of his 16 points in the first four minutes of the second half as the Hoosiers, 19-9, built a 58-26 lead.

"I can't say I'm pleased with our team's play, but then again, I'm hard to please," said Indiana Coach Bobby Knight.

Midwest at Tulsa
Dean Marquardt scored 21 points, and center Brian Nyenhuis hit a pair of crucial free throws with 30 seconds left as Marquette ended Evansville's season. The Warriors, 22-8, are scheduled to play fifth-ranked Missouri in the next round.

Evansville, led by the 23-point performance of Brad Leaf, had closed within 61-59 with 46 seconds left before Nyenhuis hit his foul shots.

Rob Williams scored 25 points to boost Houston over Alcorn State and set up a second-round confrontation with 10th-ranked Tulsa on the Hurricane's homecourt. The Cougars, 22-7, broke open a close game with 10 straight points early in the second half by center Akeem Olajuwon. Houston also got 18 points from Michael Young and 17 from Clyde Drexler.

West at Logan, Utah
Russell Todd led six West Virginia players in double figures with 20 points, and the Mountaineers earned a second-round meeting with No. 11 Fresno State by routing North Carolina A&T 102-72. West Virginia, 27-3, built a 44-32 halftime lead. Joe Binion had 17 points for A&T, now 19-10.

Wyoming, 22-7, got its last nine points from forward Mark Wrapp, including a pair of foul shots that gave the Cowboys a 59-58 lead with 39 seconds left. Dwight Anderson missed a foul shot with six seconds left that could have given Southern Cal the lead again, and Wrapp was fouled on the rebound for his final two points.

Wyoming meets No. 6 Georgetown in the second round in a rematch of the 1943 NCAA title game in which Wyoming beat Georgetown 46-34.

Cougars Rally Past Rams, 7-6

GOLDSBORO — Goldsboro High School pushed over an unearned run in the bottom of the seventh inning to preserve its unbeaten streak with a 7-6 victory over Greene Central High School yesterday.

The loss was the first in two starts for the Rams, while Goldsboro was running its record to 3-0 on the young season. The Rams took the early lead, scoring single runs in the first two innings. In the first, Chris Suggs singled and moved all the way to third on an error on the play. He scored when Tommy Goff grounded out.

In the second, Dana Harrell walked and Marlow Gilmore singled. Suggs then added another hit, driving in courtesy runner Donald Warren for a 2-0 lead.

Goldsboro rallied for three runs in the fourth to take the lead, then added three more in the fifth to run out to a 6-2 lead. The Rams came back, however, scoring two each in the sixth and seventh, tying it up at 6-6.

But in the bottom of the seventh, with one away, Walt Edwards was hit by a pitch. Mike Forbis then reached on an error, and after a second out, Randy Pickwell singled, driving in Edwards with the game-winning run.

Rams Win Net Match

STANTONSBURG — Greene Central's tennis team recorded its third victory in four outings yesterday, downing Beddingfield High School for the second time this week, 7-2.

The two losses came in the second and third doubles after the Rams had the match sewed up.

The Rams return to action on Tuesday, traveling to East Carteret.

North Pitt Challenges So. Durham's Ranking

North Pitt, a decided underdog, goes after Southern Durham and its lofty No. 1 ranking tonight with a bigger prize in mind — a berth in the Eastern 3-A Regional finals.

The Panthers, 21-7 on the season and riding a seven-game winning streak, will meet the Spartans at 8:30 p.m. at Wilson Beddingfield High School in the second game of the regionals.

Bartlett-Yancey meets Warren County in the first game and the winner will play the survivor of the North Pitt-Southern Durham game Saturday night (8:30) for the regional title and a berth in the state finals.

Tonight's game will be broadcast by WRQR (FM 94) in Farmville starting at 8:15 p.m. If the Panthers win, Saturday night's regional championship will also be broadcast.

Southern Durham comes into the game with a 25-1 record and has won 18 straight games since suffering an 85-79 overtime loss to 4-A Kinston in a Christmas Tournament.

The Spartans, who are hitting 55% from the floor as a team, are led by 6-4 center Curtis Hunter, who is averaging 22 points a game and is hitting 64% of his shots.

Hunter is one of the most heavily recruited players in the state and is said to have narrowed his list of colleges to DePaul, Georgetown, N.C. State, Duke and UNC.

Point guard Greg Webb, a 5-9 senior, runs the team's fast break attack and is averaging 12 points a game. Joining Webb at guard is Nate Fuller, a 5-10 junior.

At the forwards are Harold Green, a 6-0 senior, and Derek Newkirk, a 6-0 senior. Green is averaging 10 points a game and Newkirk eight points per contest.

North Pitt will counter with Greg Hines, a 6-0 junior, and Mitch Cox, a 5-10 junior, at the guards. Hines is the team's second-leading scorer with an 11.0 average. Cox leads the team in assists with a 4.5 average.

Dennis Bradley, a 6-2 junior, and Toby Crandol, a 6-0 senior, will man the forward slots. Bradley leads the team in scoring with a 12.0 average and is also the team's leading rebounder with a 9.5 average.

Vince Parker, the tallest of the starting five at 6-3, will be at center. Parker is pulling down 7.5 rebounds a contest.

Rampettes In First Victory

WHEAT SWAMP — Rose High School's Rampettes got homers from three different girls and rolled to a 15-8 softball victory over North Lenoir yesterday.

The win was the first in two starts for the Rampettes. Rose grabbed the lead in the first inning with a single run, but North Lenoir came back with two in the bottom of the inning.

Frances Barnhill then cracked a homer to get a six-run rally started for Rose in the second inning, as the Rampettes took a 7-2 lead.

Rose then added four in the third, including a solo homer by Nyanza Outlaw, two in the fourth and two in the sixth, as Linda Winstead had a solo homer.

North Lenoir got two in the fifth, including a solo homer by Gray, and four in the seventh.

Janet Mizelle, who hurled the win, had three hits for Rose as did Winstead. Laura Vincent, Wendy Jones, Margaret Barnes and Barnhill each added two hits.

North Lenoir's hitting was led by Chapman, Dawson and Newsome, each with two.

Rose returns to action on Tuesday, traveling to Greene Central.

Rose Thinclads Win Opener

NEW BERN — Rose High School opened the boys' track season yesterday, downing both Fike of Wilson and New Bern High School in a tri-meet.

The Rampants finished the afternoon with 88 points, well ahead of second place Fike which had 48. New Bern finished with 42.

The Rampants, who won 11 of the events, had only one double winner, as Marty Barnes took both of the hurdle events. His time of 41.8 seconds in the 300-meter intermediate hurdles automatically sets a new school record since it is a new event this year, replacing the low hurdles.

Chris McLawhorn also set a new school mark in the 400-meter dash, finishing second in 49.3 seconds, just a tenth of a second off the pace of Fike's Jenkins.

Rose returns to action on Thursday, hosting Northern Nash.

for retribution against South Carolina. "That was probably one of our worst games of the year," she said of the 86-81 loss by the Lady Pirates two weeks ago in Greenville to the Lady Gamecocks. "They embarrassed us. We knew what they were going to do and we couldn't do anything about it. It was like our minds weren't clicking."

That, "Action" feels can be erased with a victory.

Looking back on the early part of the season, Jones feels that the 4-7 record developed while the team was trying to find itself. "We had a lot of new players who had to get used to the rest of us. The new people had to get used to playing in college. They had to make that adjustment. Now, the experience helps us. We've improved game by game, and I think we've been fairly consistent for the last 15 games."

Except — that is — for the South Carolina game.

"I thought that we could be a good team (at the start of the year) with hard work. And with Coach Andruzzi, you know you are going to have a lot of hard work. But I really didn't think we'd get this far," Jones admitted.

Both players look for a tough game on Sunday afternoon. "I think it will be a very physical, rough game," Barnes said. "They'll want it just as much as we do (a victory)."

Jones says that she's superstitious, and doesn't like to talk before a game. "But we'll be ready for them. I look for us to have one of our best games of the year. I can remember last year, when (North) Carolina came in here and embarrassed us. This year, we got revenge."

"South Carolina embarrassed us. Now, we have a chance to get revenge again."

Lady Pirates Drop Opener

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. — The University of Florida took advantage of five East Carolina errors in the third inning to score four runs en route to a 5-2 win Thursday afternoon in a women's softball game.

The game was the season opener for the Lady Pirates and was their first game under new head coach Sue Menahan. Menahan replaced former ECU coach Alita Dillon this season.

ECU led, 1-0, after the first inning and held that lead until its defense collapsed in the third inning. Florida used the five ECU errors to take a 4-1 lead and never trailed again.

Florida added a single run in the fourth to push its lead to 5-1. ECU's only other run came in the top of the seventh.

More Evidence Of Networks' Losses

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — February has come and gone, without any memorable television programming, and with more evidence that network audiences are declining. About 2 million fewer viewers watched ABC, CBS and NBC last month, compared to the same period in 1981.

February is one of the four sweep months each year used to measure local stations' ratings. From those figures, the stations' advertising rates are determined for the next few months.

The networks try to boost the ratings for their affiliated stations during sweeps by scheduling splashy movies and extravaganzas. Last month's fare included first-run theatrical films — "Superman," "Rocky II" and "The Jerk" — along with specials from Suzanne Somers and Olivia Newton-John.

So it seems significant that viewers didn't flock to the networks in February. If anything, they moved away.

Ratings for February show that the average prime-time audience for ABC, CBS and NBC is down 7 percent from February 1981.

In the Nielsen survey, the ratings went from 56.3 to 52.6. According to NBC's research department, that means 45 million TV households watched an average minute of prime time in February 1981, while 42.9 million watched last month.

Gerald Jaffe, vice president of special projects for NBC, isn't worried by the February falloff. "It's the full season that counts, and that decline is about half of February's. With better programs and promotion, we could see improvement for the May sweeps."

One reason for the ratings decline is that the networks' program inventories were limited. Last February, ABC created a stir — and drew large audiences — with its "East of Eden" miniseries. There was nothing of that magnitude last month, but NBC has scheduled its 10-hour "Marco Polo" epic for May.

Another reason for the turnoff is that many viewers have already seen the blockbuster films on cable. "Superman," for example, had a much better rating in Chicago, where cable penetration is low, than in high-cable areas of New York and Los Angeles.

The Feb. 7 broadcast on ABC drew a 54 share in Chicago, meaning 54 percent of the TV households on were tuned to "Superman." The share of the audience was 39 percent in New York and 40 percent in Los Angeles. Nationally, "Superman" had a 42 percent share of the audience.

Network viewing for the entire 1981-82 season is down by 1 million. CBS and ABC are at the same level as a year ago, while NBC's audience is down 13 percent.

Joel Segal of the Ted Bates advertising agency said NBC's defecting viewers went "to the independents, to cable originating networks, to pay television operations and to superstations. ABC and CBS gained nothing from NBC's loss."

The Ogilvy & Mather ad agency, noting the increased penetration of cable TV, estimates the percentage of the audience watching the three commercial networks will decline to 59 percent by 1990. But the networks say there will be more homes with television by then, so the impact would be less severe. Ogilvy & Mather, calling its forecast "trouble in network paradise," points out that in San Francisco, where 40 percent of the TV homes are wired for cable, the average network share is 70. In Omaha, Neb., just 12 percent of the homes are wired for cable, and the networks' share is 93.

Audience Entranced By Sidewinder Dynamism

AT THE ATTIC ... Cathy Kilburn of Sidewinder entertains a large crowd, which is enchanted by her performance.

Sidewinder, with only three and a half years of experience under their belts, held the audience in a trance Sunday night at the Attic. Although non-original rock-and-roll songs dominated, the crowd cheered each song as if they'd never heard it before. Each of the band's seven members showed a lot of onstage dynamism, although there was intent concentration on lead singer Cathy Kilburn, who was the band's real focal nerve. She knocked out the audience singing some Pat Benatar selections, while Paul McCoy's tireless bass gnashed at the beat underneath.

Sidewinder, a band from Raleigh (originally from Wilmington), consists of Kilburn, lead female vocalist; Rex Bost, lead guitar; Ronnie Brothers, guitar; Jim Sheppard, drums; Bland Sawyer, keyboard; McCoy, bass; and Chuck Dowless, lead male vocalist.

Although about one-third of Sidewinder's material is original, Chuck Dowless says, "We don't have any albums out — yet, but we hope to very soon."

Sidewinder tours a number of Southeastern states. When asked if they enjoy playing in Greenville, they replied with, "We love it!" According to Dowless, "We love the Attic and ECU. Both have definitely contributed a lot to our success."

When various people in the audience, selected at random, were asked of their opinion of Sidewinder, none of the responses were negative. Here is what some of these people had to say:

"One of the best bands you'll ever see here," said Dale Burns of Greenville.

"I'm Sidewinder's number one fan. I've never missed a Greenville performance. Fantastic rock-and-roll!" said Jimmy Lamb of Greenville.

Billy Coltrain said, "I come to the Attic every night and Sidewinder always has the best performance of any band that plays here. They make the crowd rowdy and put everybody in a good mood!"

Raleigh Bland also agrees that "Sidewinder is the best band that ever comes to the Attic. They really get into their music!"

J.P. Tugwell of Greenville thinks "they play a good selection of rock-and-roll."

Neil Dennis of Ayden thinks Sidewinder doesn't play enough heavy metal, but "they're great!"

"Really good!" said April Caudill, a student at Pitt Community College.

As for myself, I think Sidewinder shows great potential. They put on the best rock-and-roll show that I have ever seen at the Attic. Very impressive!

NAACP Vows Challenge Remap Plan

By WILLIAM M. WELCH
Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — North Carolina's congressional redistricting plan cleared a major legal hurdle Thursday with approval of the U.S. Justice Department, but a new obstacle immediately emerged.

An attorney for the NAACP Legal and Education Defense Fund said the group would renew its federal suit against the congressional plan, even though its original objections were largely met by the revised reapportionment plan.

"It's a lot better, but it's not good enough," said Leslie Winner of Charlotte, attorney for the NAACP group whose suit is pending in federal court in Raleigh.

She made the comments after Assistant Attorney General William Bradford Reynolds advised state attorneys that the new redistricting plan, enacted by the General Assembly on Feb. 11, did not violate the 1965 federal Voting Rights Act.

The plan replaced a 1981 map that was rejected by the department late last year on grounds it diluted black voting strength in Durham County and the 2nd Congressional District.

The Justice Department's ruling came just a little over two weeks after the state submitted the new plan for review under the federal act. But Justice made no ruling on two other plans for state House and state Senate districts.

"That's one down and two to go," said James Wallace, senior deputy state attorney general.

Those two plans must also win approval before the state can go ahead with its statewide primary election — set by the legislature to be held sometime between May 4 and Aug. 3, depending on when approval is obtained.

Justice officials by law have until late April to rule on the North Carolina plans.

"We've always pushed for an expedited determination," said Wallace. "I can see they were able to rule early on congressional redistricting, simply because it is not as complex as the other two plans."

Ms. Winner said the NAACP group would file supplemental arguments renewing its federal suit against the new congressional map as well as its challenge of legislative reapportionment plans. The original suit was filed against the earlier plans, since rejected by the Justice Department.

Ms. Winner declined to say what the new objections would be, but she acknowledged the new plan corrected the plaintiffs' earlier objection by placing Durham County into the 2nd District held by incumbent Democratic Rep. L. H. Fountain.

"The purpose that was present in the previous plan — the purpose of protecting Fountain — seems to have been eliminated," Ms. Winner said. "We are not saying we think the plan is legal or constitutional."

Durham County, with its large and active black population, had not been previously a part of the 2nd District, and allies of Fountain fought to keep urban Durham out of the largely rural district.

But faced with federal rejection of the first plan, legislators voted to move Durham into the 2nd, thus giving it a 40 percent black population — the same black percentage in the district under the 1970 reapportionment but more than under the 1981 plan.

The change also forced revisions of several other districts.

particularly the 4th and 6th. In addition, the new plan divides four counties — Avery, Moore, Yadkin and Johnston — for the first time ever.

Connie Welcomed By Ft. Lauderdale

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Some of the college kids trekking to Fort Lauderdale this spring weren't born when singer Connie Francis made the beach famous back in 1960, but the star of the movie "Where the Boys Are" still draws a crowd here.

When Miss Francis stopped by the beachside Elbo Room bar, the sun-burned students meekly took pictures and asked for her autograph on napkins, coasters, driver's licenses and shirt collars.

"Connie, I love you," Dan Szilagyi of Dallas said. "You're gorgeous. You're the greatest." The juke box blared her hits: "Where the Boys Are," "Lipstick on Your Collar" and "Who's Sorry Now," and one young woman screamed when she saw the singer.

"I always expected to see you on this corner, Annette Funicello," the woman said. Miss Francis laughed and identified herself.

On Thursday, Miss Francis finally viewed the movie that made Fort Lauderdale the nation's spring-break mecca in a special showing at the Gateway Theater, where it premiered in December 1960.

The movie is about college kids traveling to Florida to seek out sun and the opposite sex.

"I've never seen any of my movies," said the 42-year-old entertainer, who is performing this weekend at a suburban theater as she continues a comeback tour.

"I was really hoping the picture would fade into oblivion at the time because I thought I was so bad in it," she said.

Miss Francis went into seclusion in 1974 after she was raped at knifepoint in a hotel room in Westbury, N.Y. Her assailant was never caught, but she won a $1.45 million settlement from Howard Johnson's for the security breach.

Stewart Among Guests

WINSTON-SALEM — Marshall Stewart, 18, was among the student officers of the Future Farmers of America to visit R.J. Reynolds Industries Inc. as part of a goodwill tour of business and industry.

Stewart was elected North Carolina FFA president in June 1981 and represents the organization throughout the state. He is a freshman at East Carolina University.

The trip was part of a U.S. tour by national FFA officers to learn more about the nation's economic system. Other stops on the tour included businesses in Wilkesboro, Greensboro, the Research Triangle Park, Raleigh and Rocky Mount.

Polish Scholar To Be Speaker

A visiting Polish scholar will discuss the crisis in his homeland during a lecture and a seminar at East Carolina University Wednesday.

Dr. Krystyna Kraczk, an associate professor in the Research Institute of Contemporary Capitalism in Warsaw, will lecture at 11 a.m. in Brewster C-103, and be featured at a 2 p.m. seminar in Brewster C-105.

Dr. Kraczk is a visiting Fulbright Scholar at Duke University. Her ECU visit is sponsored by the ECU Department of Sociology and Anthropology and the ECU Department of Political Science.

Both sessions will be open to the public.

Girl Scout Gala

Three million Americans are celebrating their 70th birthday today — although most of them aren't old enough to vote. The Girl Scouts of the U.S.A. was founded on this date in 1912. Juliette Low, who had helped Lord Baden-Powell build the Girl Guides in Britain, started the first American group in Savannah. Since then over 40 million people have been Girl Scouts, and today it has become the largest voluntary organization for girls in the world. Scouting has brought happiness to girls of all races and ages. And to many other Americans who will gladly celebrate the occasion by raising a glass of milk — and reaching for another cookie.

DO YOU KOW — What are the youngest Girl Scouts called?

THURSDAY'S ANSWER — A harp seal can remain underwater for up to 30 minutes.

Soya Central Is Being Acquired

Perdue Farms Inc. announced that it has signed an agreement with Central Soya Co. Inc. under which Perdue will purchase the Central Soya facilities in Robersonville.

Perdue, the largest employer in the Roanoke-Chowan area, said the purchase will include Central Soya's broiler processing plant and a hatchery in Kenly.

The 62-year-old Maryland based company said the Central Soya purchase is expected to be completed on April 2.

Perdue, which operates a processing plant in Lewiston employing some 1,200 people, said its expanded area now includes the counties of Pitt, Nash, Edgecombe, Martin, Greene, Wayne and Wilson.

Perdue moved into eastern North Carolina in 1973 and contract producers built their first chicken houses that year. Perdue said presently there are 606 broiler houses producing over 1.2 million broilers per week for the company.

The Lewiston plant is being expanded to handle the processing of an additional 600,000 broilers weekly, the company said, and a feed mill, constructed at Cofield in 1975, is being expanded to handle grain drying and soybean processing. A Perdue hatchery in Murfreesboro, completed in 1976, now has a hatching capacity of over one million chicks per week. Expansion plans call for construction to begin this month on a multimillion dollar broiler chick hatchery in Halifax, Perdue said.

In these days of spiralling inflation, insurance costs have soared—except at the bridge table, where the price of insuring the contract is still about one trick!

North-South bid well to reach their best contract. The double fit made North's hand very powerful. He bypassed three no trump to show his excellent club support and, when South cue-bid the one suit in which he had no control, North jumped to slam in his partner's suit. That still left South with the option of preferring the major-suit slam if he so desired, but he saw no reason to change the contract. That was just as well, as the cards lie.

West led his top diamond, and declarer was delighted with his dummy. There were no losers in any suit except spades, and to make his slam he needed only to hold his losers in that suit to one. If the suit broke 3-2, there was no problem, so declarer geared his efforts to protecting against a 4-1 division.

Declarer won the king of diamonds, crossed to the ace of hearts and ruffed a heart. He drew trumps in two rounds, ending in dummy, then ruffed the table's last heart. Next, he cashed the ace of diamonds to eliminate the red suits from both his hand and dummy.

With the groundwork laid, declarer led a spade to the jack. When that won, declarer could claim his contract. He did not cash the ace of spades in an effort to make an overtrick—that would have led to the loss of two spade tricks as the cards lie. Instead, he made the safety play of a low spade from dummy. His foresight was rewarded when East failed to follow to the second spade. Declarer simply ducked, allowing West to win the trick with the nine.

West was well and truly end played. If he exited with a red suit, he would present declarer with a ruff-and-sluft. If he returned a spade, it would be away from the king into declarer's combined ace-queen tenace. Either way, the slam was home.

Life As It's Lived

Family Reunions Make Enriching Experiences

By GAIL MICHAELS
Family reunions which are held solely for the purpose of fun and fellowship can be enriching experiences. Last year the Michaels family held its first reunion.

Fewer than 100 people who all met at least once at a wedding or a funeral convened under a picnic shelter during a downpour and grilled hamburgers. The most elaborate dish there was a layered salad. By mealtime each one of the children had managed to slide down a nearby mud-bank, and they all looked as if they were auditioning for a spot in "The Swamp Thing." In other words, children and adults alike enjoyed themselves thoroughly.

This kind of get-together, however, is a far cry from the typical family reunion. The typical reunion is supposed to promote a sense of family heritage. Few under the age of 80 are more closely related than sixth cousin twice removed, everyone has to wear name tags and Sunday clothes, and the most entertaining part of the whole affair is the fierce competition over who brought the most and best food.

My grandfather's family holds one of these reunions each year in a cemetery where those alive and well can commune with those dear and departed. Those in attendance sit on the headstones and eat fried chicken, deviled eggs, lima beans, and 134 different varieties of desserts, all blessed by Great Uncle Dillard.

Great Uncle Dillard is the family's only born-again preacher. He is one of those hardy souls who manages to greet each family member personally with a sloppy Southern-style kiss planted firmly on the recipient's mouth. Each year my Oklahoma-born aunt huddles behind a mausoleum in the hope that Great Uncle Dillard will miss her. He rarely does.

By family standards Uncle Dillard is small. His brothers, all robust six-footers in their 70s and 80s, tower above him, as does his wife, Matilda, and his surviving children, George, Lucius and Mattie Louise, who are all built like their mother in more ways than height.

To her credit Great Aunt Matilda is the only woman over 40 who never lets herself be dragged into the cooking competition. Each year as her and her children's and her grandfather's contribution, she brings one dish, a can of fruit cocktail.

People tend to avoid Matilda because, after she manages to stagger under the weight of her plate to one of the more comfortable graves, she loves nothing better than to regale her neighbors with her memories of her dead son, Dillard Jr.

Little Dillard's funeral is one of my family's most cherished memories. As the organ played "Sing Low, Sweet Chariot," a black curtain behind the altar was slowly raised to reveal the casket astride which sat a portrait on velvet of the deceased.

Phillip's mother's family is not nearly as colorful as mine, but its reunions differ little in character. Masses of people come in deference to their forebearers, then scurry away as fast as they can get their emptied plates into the trash. Unfortunately, they didn't scurry away last year until they had elected Phillip an officer for this year's reunion.

A few nights ago he put the phone back on the hook after a 40-minute conversation during which he said uh-huh three times.

"That was cousin Rene."

he sighed. "She thinks that the reunion needs to be lived up."

"To say the least. What did she propose?"

"She's thinking of a family talent show."

I think I'll invite Aunt Matilda.

Court Rules Out Use Of Hypnosis

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — An important police tool in solving criminal cases has suffered a major blow in California with the state Supreme Court's decision to ban testimony of witnesses who have been hypnotized about a crime.

"Any person who has been hypnotized for investigative purposes will not be allowed to testify as a witness to the events of the crime," the court ruled Thursday in a 6-1 decision written by Justice Stanley Mosk.

Deputy Attorney General Jack Carney, who represented the state, said the decision could affect about a dozen other cases on appeal as well as police investigations in the future.

Hypnotism "did get a very wide use in the law enforcement community," Carney said. Los Angeles Police spokesman Dan Cooke said his agency alone has 12 people trained in hypnotism techniques.

"We've had a great many cases where it was successfully used and where we actually had no other way to go," Cooke said.

The decision says law enforcement agencies can continue to use hypnotism "for purely investigative purposes," such as determining a license plate number that could be used as a lead.

The high court threw out the Orange County rape conviction of Donald Lee Shirley because testimony against him by the victim, identified as Catherine C., had been "contaminated" by having her hypnotized to help recall the incident.

The court said the record was replete with instances in which Catherine's testimony was vague, changeable, self-contradictory or prone to unexplained lapses of memory.

Cox urged employers in Greenville to "carefully consider the qualifications of persons aged 40 and over when they seek new employees." He also asked that public officials with job-placement responsibility to intensify their efforts throughout the year to help older workers find suitable jobs.

Therapists Will Observe Week

Harper said physical therapy is a rapidly developing branch of medical care that provides treatment for patients who have disabilities resulting from accidents, congenital defects or illnesses.
