Cabinet Resignations As British Task Force Sails

LONDON (AP) — British Foreign Secretary Lord Carrington and two deputies resigned today amid national outrage over Argentina's seizure of the Falkland Islands.

Two aircraft carriers left port, leading a British naval armada assembled to retake the South Atlantic islands.

The aircraft carriers Invincible and Hermes, heading the biggest British fleet to be put to sea since Britain tried to stop Egypt's takeover of the Suez Canal 26 years ago, steamed out of the southern naval base at Portsmouth to patriotic cheers and tearful farewells.

The 8,000-mile trip is expected to take two weeks, but there were no signs a diplomatic solution would be found in that time.

Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher accepted the resignations after three days of mounting demands from newspapers and lawmakers — including members of the ruling Conservative party — for the 62-year-old Carrington and Defense Secretary John Nott to be sacked over what critics called the Falklands debacle.

"In my view much of the criticism is unfounded but I have been responsible for the conduct of the policy," said Carrington's letter of resignation. "I think it right that I resign."

Mrs. Thatcher told Carrington in a letter that she accepted his resignation with a "heavy heart" after failing to dissuade him from his "unalterable decision." The resignation ended his three-year tenure at the Foreign Office, during which Carrington was credited with solving Britain's most intractable colonial problem when he negotiated independence for Rhodesia, now black-ruled Zimbabwe, two years ago.

Nott also tendered his resignation but Mrs. Thatcher refused it, telling him in a letter she needed him to continue "as our forces prepare for the possibility of armed action. I have the fullest confidence in your ability to carry out the crucial tasks ahead."

Two of Carrington's aides, Deputy Foreign Secretary Humphrey Atkins and Richard Luce, Foreign Office minister of state for Latin America, also tendered resignations which were accepted.

"God speed Invincible!" shouted 30,000 Britons at the Portsmouth harbor as the 19,500-ton Invincible stacked with Harrier vertical-takeoff jets and Sea King anti-submarine helicopters was put to sea, followed by the Hermes. A flotilla of destroyers and frigates prepared to follow.

Argentine President Leopoldo Galtieri said his nation would go to war with Britain to defend the islands Argentina seized Friday and Argentine Foreign Minister Nicanor Costa Mendez said today Argentina cannot comply with a U.N. Security Council resolution calling for talks as long as the British fleet was en route to the islands.

Howling Winds Created A 'Dust Bowl' In County

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer

Howling winds gusting up to at least 60 miles per hour turned the Pitt County area into a dust bowl Saturday and Sunday, creating hazardous driving situations but causing surprisingly few electrical problems.

The choking dust storm resulted in eight traffic accidents Saturday involving 19 vehicles on area highways, according to a spokesman at the Highway Patrol office. The spokesman said the wrecks caused 11 injuries, none of them serious, and damages totaled $15,925.

The majority of the accidents involved rear-end collisions, it was pointed out, and Highway 43 toward Falkland, Highway 33 toward Chocowinity, and 264 toward Washington had the worst problems, the spokesman said. He expressed appreciation to area rescue, fire department and wrecker personnel for braving the conditions to respond this weekend. Jim Turcotte at the Pitt-Greenville Airport said that his instruments measured wind gusts up to 50 miles per hour Saturday and up to 60 miles per hour Sunday.

Malcolm Green of Greenville Utilities Commission said that in spite of the extreme wind conditions, only two small transformers were damaged and one line pole was blown over in GUC's service area. He said that GUC anticipated a "lot of problems" and had called in service crews to be ready but only scattered problems resulted.

"We were very fortunate," Green said, adding that no main circuits were affected by the winds. There were minor problems with tree limbs falling but Green said that a tree trimming program that is underway full time appears to have "really paid off."

Ray Bell at Greenville Cable TV Inc. said that the high winds knocked out some 80 percent of the system Saturday evening as cable carriers blew into power lines, shorting out amplifiers. He said that a power surge burned out a 110 volt line on Pitt Street, knocking out service, and he thanked Greenville Utilities personnel for helping get the cable system back on.

Bell said that most of the system was operational by 10 p.m. Saturday but some 15 percent remained out until Sunday morning.

Mark Webb of the Forestry Service said that the fire potential situation in the area is "critical" and he said the situation will remain critical unless there is sufficient rain. Burning permits have been cancelled, Webb reported, and none will be issued "until word comes from Raleigh."

Webb said that while three small woods fires were reported in the county over the weekend, there are major forest fires underway in Bladen, Dare and Hyde Counties. He said the smoky conditions in the area today are probably the result of the Dare and Hyde County fires. Webb thanked area fire departments for their response this weekend and he urged county residents to continue to exercise extreme caution in all fire potential situations.

County extension chairman Leroy James said he had heard of scattered damages to farm buildings over the weekend and the high winds "blew some of the top soil away, there is no question about that." James said that corn, which was planted last week, is not above the ground yet and "we are fortunate in that respect."

Some tobacco has been set out and plants could have suffered damage to the extent that resetting might be necessary, he said.

In Farmville, the home of Mrs. Robert Fields on E. Pine St. sustained considerable damage when the churning winds caused a large oak tree to fall on her house. Power lines were not affected, however, and a spokesman in the town's power department said only minor problems were experienced in Farmville in spite of the weekend conditions.

Hotline gets things done for you. Call 752-1336 and tell your problem or your sound-off or mail it to Hotline, The Daily Reflector, Box 1967, Greenville, N.C. 27834.

Because of the large numbers received, Hotline can answer and publish only those items considered most pertinent to our readers. Names must be given, but only initials will be used.

ABOVE AND BEYOND

My car ran hot on Charles Street one evening recently and a young man named Gene Hawkins who works at the Etna Station at the corner of 14th Street and the 264 Bypass went far beyond the call of duty to assist me. I want him and everyone to know that he made an otherwise unpleasant happening into a heart-warming experience for me. Mrs. J.K.

LOST ADDRESS

Can Hotline help me find the address of a company that has $10.95 of my money? I ordered some coin collecting material from National Collectors Archives in January and have lost the address. J.B.

Hotline checked back issues of Family Weekly and enlisted the help of Sheppard Library, but have so far been unsuccessful in locating this address for you. Can any of our readers help? If so, call 752-1336 and leave a message.

SHELMERDINE NAME ORIGIN?

I would like information about the origin of the name of the Shelmerdine community of southern Pitt County. You can see why I'm interested. Dr. Susan C. Shelmerdine, 5507 G Tomahawk Drive, Greensboro, N.C. 27410.

Hotline called a number of people before we reached Mrs. Joyce (Gentry) Boyd, who did some research for us. Her uncle, Johnny D. Smith, who's 94 and lives in the Adamstown community near Shelmerdine, recalls when Shelmerdine was a thriving incorporated town with gas lights, a hotel, a policeman, a jail, and a bank. The town grew up around the Beaufort Lumber Company sawmill, he said, which transported lumber out via a railroad that also provided transportation for the people. The town was named, he said, for Shelmerdine Phillips, the pretty daughter of a family who came to town with the lumber company. Her name, he said, was pronounced as if it were spelled Shelmerdeen, but over the years the pronunciation evolved into Shelmerdine (long i sound).

Our call has prompted interest on Mrs. Boyd's part in trying to learn more about Shelmerdine's history. She asks that anyone who has any memories to contribute call her at 746-6836.

Spring Storms Kill 49

By ERIC KRAMER
Associated Press Writer

A wild spring weekend of snow, high winds, forest fires and tornadoes bore down on the nation, forcing 200 people to flee Sierra Nevada avalanches, engulfing Virginia homes in flames and killing 49 people in a swath of swirling destruction from Texas to Indiana.

"I bet it didn't take five minutes for that house to burn down," said Ernest Brookins, a resident of Suffolk, Va., where 17 homes were destroyed Sunday by forest fires fanned by 50 mph winds.

Snow piled 21 feet deep at Norden in northern California, threatening new avalanches today while rescue workers attempted to determine how to search for two more victims at the Alpine Meadows ski resort. An avalanche there Wednesday killed six.

Winds gusted to 81 mph Sunday in Johnstown, Pa., as the storm moved east after spawning weekend tornadoes that killed 28.

Residents of Paris, Texas, were to bury their eight dead today as relief agencies sought to help the 200 injured and the thousands left homeless Friday by two tornadoes. City Manager Bob Sokoll said 480 homes were destroyed and 397 sustained major damage, making them unfit for habitation.

In Arkansas, where 13 died in twisters, Gov. Frank White pulled a family Bible out of the debris in Conway as workers loaded the remaining possessions of Ruby Stubbs, 73, onto a pickup truck.

Her cedar chest was broken. "My husband bought that for me the first year we were married, and I thought more of that than I did all the rest of the furniture put together," she said.

The remnants of the storm pushed eastward Sunday, leaving 9 inches of snow in some areas of Michigan. About 500 motorists stranded in Grand Rapids on Saturday were able to return to the roads on Sunday. Several thousand customers were without power around the state.

Martin County Woodland Is Hit By Fire

BEAR GRASS — Approximately 350 acres of woodland burned Sunday afternoon in a fire that occurred in a triangle between the Old Bear Grass Road, the Corey's Crossroads Road and U.S. 17 in the Macedonia Baptist Church community of Martin County.

Fire fighting equipment and approximately 30 personnel from three fire stations, Bear Grass, Griffin's Township, and Williamston, were called to the scene.

In addition, equipment and personnel from the North Carolina Forestry Service and from the Georgia Pacific were put into volunteer service to help fight the blaze.

C.B. (Bue) Bailey, fire chief at Bear Grass, said that the three fire stations together had on hand three pumpers, three water tankers, a brush truck and a scout jeep.

Leon Hughes, Martin County forest ranger, noted that between his agency and the Georgia Pacific, they were able to supplement the county's fire fighting equipment with two forest service and one railroad tractor which were used to fight the fire on the flanks. Also, a scout plane was called in to assist.

Hughes said no estimate of damage was available for the 350 burned out acres. "This will be assessed within a short time," Hughes said. Hughes also reported that three other wood fires occurred in Martin County during Sunday, "but they were smaller fires, easily controlled."

"We had the blaze under control by 7 p.m.," Bailey said. "It was fortunate that the wind died down in the late afternoon, which really helped us bring the fire under control."

There were no injuries reported as a result of the Bear Grass or other woods fires.

Argentina To 'Explain' Dispute At OAS Meet

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. diplomats will listen to Argentina's foreign minister explain why his country seized the Falkland Islands, but they won't take an "out-front" position at a meeting of the Organization of American States, officials say.

The Argentines made the request for the OAS meeting after the U.N. Security Council passed a resolution Saturday demanding that Argentina withdraw its forces from the South Atlantic archipelago.

Great Britain claims sovereignty over the islands and has readied a 40-vessel flotilla to steam south and reclaim its colonial outpost.

Nicanor Costa Mendez, the Argentine foreign minister, will address the OAS meeting today, but no debate is scheduled, according to one State Department official. "The session has been called only for the purpose of hearing the statement of Costa Mendez."

The OAS, formed in 1948, is a 28-member regional agency set up to work with the United Nations in promoting peace, hemispheric solidarity and economic development. Both Argentina and the United States belong to it. J. William Middendorf II, the United States' permanent ambassador to the OAS, will be present but will not make a statement, the official said.

"We are not going to take an out-front position" at the meeting, said another official, who asked to remain anonymous.

The United States does not want to be forced at the OAS meeting to take sides between its NATO ally and a friendly nation in the Southern Hemisphere at, said the State Department officials.

But an official pointed out that the United States supported for the U.N. resolution demanding an immediate cessation of hostilities and calling on both sides to seek a diplomatic solution to the territorial dispute.

"Also, there has been a constant series of talks at the highest levels among concerned governments," the official said. "And obviously, we are concerned about this. Great Britain is an ally and Argentina is a country with whom we are increasingly friendly. We cannot be unconcerned."

Cooperation Of School Boards Said Necessary

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

Dr. John Tingelstad, chairman of the Greenville City Board of Education, told the Board of County Commissioners this morning that in light of reductions in federal funding, it's time the city and county school boards begin cooperating more fully.

Tingelstad said, "It would seem to me it is time for us and representatives of the county board to consider the possibility of beginning to look at ways to work together," to provide services for "all the children in the county."

He suggested maintenance, transportation, food services and special education, are some areas in which cooperative programs might be developed.

Responding to Tingelstad, commissioner Charles Gaskins said, "We're in accord with what you said," pointing out that four years ago, the Board of Commissioners adopted a resolution requesting the city and county school boards to look at the possibility of merging the two school systems.

Tingelstad's comments on the need for cooperation came after he endorsed a request by the city school board for funds to construct a building on the Rose High School campus to house an auto mechanics program at the school.

City school superintendent Dr. Delma Blinson told the board that the school system would be willing to use $30,000 in unappropriated current expense money to help fund the $85,000 project.

Blinson said the school system now rents a facility to house the program for $8,000 per year.

The superintendent also told commissioners that the projected capital outlay request for the city schools for the coming fiscal year will total some $335,850, a figure, he said, which is $126,000 more than was appropriated this year.

"It really bothers me what we are facing with," Blinson noted, citing federal spending cuts for education, and the reduction of the number of students attending the city school system.

Ninety percent of the money received by the system, Blinson noted, is based on student enrollment. He emphasized that the costs of operating the system does not decrease proportionately to the number of students.

In other business today, commissioners approved the participation by the Pitt County Department of Social Services in a pilot community work experience program, set to begin July 1.

Pitt is one of eight counties state-wide approved to take part in the pilot project which will require recipients of Aid for Families with Dependent Children checks to work at public service jobs 52 hours per month or face the loss of their checks.

Ed Garrison, social services director, said the average AFDC check amounts to $166 per month.

He noted that the work experience program would enable AFDC recipients to earn part of what their public assistance check represents.

He added that the work program would involve some 250 AFDC mothers during the first year at work sites such as in the city and county schools, Pitt County Memorial Hospital, the East Carolina University School of Medicine and other public agencies.

Garrison said the program is funded on a 50-percent matching basis between the county and federal government. Pitt's share of the cost, he noted, will be about $23,000 for the coming fiscal year.

Commissioners also today approved increases in pay for Health Department nurses.

Health Director Dr. Robert Ehinger, who reported seven of 18.5 nursing positions allotted to the department are vacant, said the increase will help him be more competitive

Proclamation Accords Honor To Ott Alford

Gov. Jim Hunt proclaimed yesterday Ott Alford Appreciation Day statewide to coincide with Pitt County's celebration of the special day honoring former Superintendent of Schools Alford.

More than 2,000 persons attended a gathering at Wellcome Middle School Sunday afternoon held in honor of Alford. Larry J. Poore represented the governor and read the proclamation. Dr. A. Craig Phillips, state superintendent of public instruction, commented on Alford's 30 years of service to education in Pitt County. An engraved silver tray was presented to Alford on behalf of the Pitt County Board of Education by Bill McLawhorn, board vice chairman.

Board chairman Mark W. Owens Jr. presented Alford $12,062, money donated by various Pitt County citizens as a love gift to him.

Marian Jones, a teacher at North Pitt High School sang, "My Task." The bands of the four high schools in the county provided music and the Junior ROTC students of D.H. Conley and North Pitt high schools ushered and directed parking.

Four People Dead In N.C. Accidents

By The Associated Press
Four people were killed in weekend traffic accidents in North Carolina, the state Highway Patrol reported Sunday.

Jerome Wilson Emerson, 53, of Arden died when a vehicle hit him as he walked along Interstate 26 8 miles northwest of Hendersonville at 4:50 a.m. Saturday.

Larry Steven Dunlap, 32, of Winston-Salem, died at 3:50 a.m. Saturday when the car he was driving ran off a city street and struck a tree. Two passengers in the car were injured.

Late Saturday night, Dexter R. Freeman, 23, of Biscoe, died when the car he was driving left the road in Montgomery County at a high speed, struck a ditch and overturned several times, the patrol said. Three people were injured in that accident.

Harold Lehman Gaster, 38, of Apex died early Sunday morning when the car he was driving left an exit ramp of U.S. 64 in Wake County, struck a guard rail and overturned.

The traffic fatalities brought the total for North Carolina this year to 228, compared with 326 this time last year.

Eastern Airline On 'Tight Rope'

MIAMI (AP) — Eastern Airlines is "walking a financial tightrope," says Chairman Frank Borman. But company officials and industry analysts say Eastern, South Florida's largest corporate employer, is not on the verge of falling into the void yet.

Eastern has lost money like most other major airlines — $83.3 million in the last two years, company officials say. But that is not the only worrisome financial matter.

The airline's long-term debt and long-term lease obligations total $1.7 billion — far more than any other airline. According to David Campbell, an airline analyst, the company's total debt-to-equity ratio at the end of 1981 was 4.5 to 1. The industry average was 1.6 to 1, he said.

"We're going through some difficult times, and there's no sense in trying to underplay the seriousness of this," said Borman. "We have made the decision to be a responsible, large airline in a deregulated market because we think it's in the best interests of our employees, our passengers and our shareholders."

"But in order to do that, we're walking a financial tightrope through 1984."

Campbell said Eastern is in "relatively bad shape" because of its high debt-to-equity ratio. "But the debt they do have is relatively long-term institutional money ... and there is no (immediate) pressure to pay this debt," he added.

Borman has called on Eastern's 37,000 employees to help the company deal with its financial burdens. Employees have been asked to extend its "Variable Earnings Program" under which 3.5 percent of their pay is returned to the airline if it fails to show a profit. They have also been asked to endure a wage freeze this year and to accept work-rule changes.

Last week, Borman called for a five-year program in which employees would rebate another 5 percent of their pay in return for corporate bonds paying 12 percent interest. It could save the company at least $300 million, he said.

Borman has said he must have all the concessions to complete a $1.5 billion fleet-modernization program vital to the company's survival. But union leaders say they won't go along.

Under the revitalization program, Eastern would purchase 40 new jetliners including 27 Boeing 757s.

Machinists leader Charles Bryan and other union leaders question Borman's insistence on purchasing the new fuel-efficient aircraft.

"We do not suggest that Eastern should not have a moderate program of modernizing its fleet," Bryan said.

miles off the Argentine coast and had been under British rule 149 years.

Talks between Britain and Argentina over the Falklands have been conducted on and off without resolution for years. The latest round started in February but no progress was reported. On March 19, Argentine scrapworkers who landed on South Georgia island to dismantle whaling equipment raised their country's flag. Britain first demanded they leave but by March 30 Carrington had said they could stay under certain conditions. Friday, Argentina took the capital of Stanley by force.

In the Falklands the invaders dug in, imposed a 24-hour curfew on the 1,800 staunchly pro-British islanders, threatened jail terms for resisters to Argentine rule and decreed Spanish the official language. Most islanders are sheepherders of English and Scottish ancestry.

Argentina announced its forces also occupied South Georgia, an island dependency of the Falklands 800 miles to the east. But the garrison of 22 British marines on the island was reported to have killed three of the invaders, raising Argentina's casualties to four dead and two wounded. No British casualties have been reported.

Nott claimed the marines destroyed one of the Argentines' helicopters and damaged one of their ships before they were overwhelmed. Argentine naval sources denied this.

Meanwhile, the British governor of the Falklands, Rex Hunt, and the 82 marines captured with him on Friday were flown home. Argentina deported them to Uruguay.

Rouse-Bowen Vows Solemnized Sunday

Cathy Lynn Bowen and Ned Holden Rouse Jr. were united in marriage at 3:30 p.m. Sunday in the Black Jack Free Will Baptist Church. The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Cedric D. Pierce Jr.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mack Bowen Jr. and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ned Holden Rouse, all of Greenville.

A program of music was presented by Peggy Hardee of Greenville, organist. Vickie Dixon of Grimesland sang "Surround Me With Love," "We've Only Just Begun," "Wedding Prayer" and "You Light Up My Life," after the couple lighted the unity candle.

Given in marriage by her parents and escorted by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of white organza and chantilly lace over peau de soie designed with a Queen Anne neckline outlined in miniature silk Venise lace. The fitted bodice, overlaid in chantilly lace, featured a ruffled lace collar and the Victorian sleeves had cuffs edged in matching lace. The attached chapel train was enhanced with multi-tiers of lace trimmed flounces. She wore a cathedral length veil of illusion trimmed with matching lace attached to a caplet overlaid in lace. The bride carried a bouquet of miniature white roses, carnations, stephanotis and baby's breath accented with white satin streamers.

Serving as honor attendants were sisters of the bride, Brenda Garris, who was dressed in yellow, and Jeannette O'Mary, who wore blue. The dresses of floral poly cotton had high collars and long sleeves. The yoke and skirt ruffle were outlined with lace ruffles.

Bridesmaids were Lisa O'Mary, niece of the bride, Libby Smith, cousin of the bridegroom, Sandra Jones and Rhonda McLawhorn. They wore pink dresses identical to those of the honor attendants.

Tammy O'Mary, niece of the bride, was junior bridesmaid and wore a white gown with pink flowers. Each attendant carried a bouquet of white mums tied with satin streamers.

Arlinda Bown, cousin of the bride, was flower girl and wore a formal gown of white satin with a chiffon overlay. She carried a white wicker basket of petals with satin streamers.

The father of the bridegroom was best man and ushers included Randy Garris, brother-in-law of the bride, Wade Stokes, cousin of the bridegroom, Tommy Jones, Joey Weathington and Tony Dixon, all of Greenville. Junior usher was Brad Coward of Greenville and the ring bearer was Rowland Bowen, cousin of the bride.

The bride's mother wore a blue coral floor length gown and the mother of the bridegroom selected a floor length gown of apricot knit. Both wore corsages of white carnations. Mrs. Mack Bowen Sr., Mrs. Lottie G.

Little and Mrs. Bonnie W. Rouse, grandmothers, were given white carnation corsages.

Presiding at the guest register was Elizabeth Hines of Winterville. Jean Evans of Grimesland directed the wedding.

An after-rehearsal party was held Saturday given by the bride's parents in the Cherry Educational Building. After cake was cut by the couple, it was served by Yvonne Humphrey, Mary Ellen Rice and Doris Stokes.

After a wedding trip to unannounced points, the couple will live in Winterville.

The bridal couple each graduated from D.H. Conley High School and he works with Greenville Utilities.

The only word in the English language with three double letters in a row is "bookkeeper."

Wedding Vows Exchanged

HOOKERTON — Bernice Jones of Route 2, Snow Hill and Gregory O'Neal Fordham of Route 5, Kinston were united in marriage Sunday afternoon at three o'clock at Mt. Calvary Free Will Baptist Church here. The Rev. Jack Cox officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her parents and escorted by her father, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Carroll Jones. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil O'Neal Fordham.

The bride wore a white formal gown of polyester satulustre and silk Venise lace. The bodice was fashioned with a high neckline and a sheer English net yoke overlaid with lace and accented with pearls. It featured bishop sleeves with lace cuffs and a mini ruffle, an A-line skirt with scalloped lace and a flounce which flowed into a chapel train. Her fingertip mantilla of silk illusion, trimmed and applied in lace and accented in pearls, was attached to a Venise lace applique on a comb. She carried a silk bouquet of purple and lilac roses, white miniature carnations and gypsophila, with purple, lilac and white lace streamers.

Beth Aycock of Daleville, Ala. was matron of honor. The bridesmaids were Lisa H. Jones of Snow Hill, sister-in-law of the bride, Lisa Jones of Lizzie, Michael Wise, Hope Wise and Angie Hinnant of Snow Hill, cousins of the bride, Diane Corbin of Greenville and Becky Berger of Walstonburg. The attendants wore formal gowns of orchid embossed chantilly with a portrait neckline aedged in piping with the bows at the shoulder and a blouson bodice with short split sleeves and a flared skirt. They carried nosegays with a white mum and statice sprayed orchid with purple and white streamers.

Junior bridesmaids were Lorri Harrison of Snow Hill and Nannette Harrell of Wilson, cousins of the bride. They wore sleeveless formal gowns of orchid organza over matching taffeta with an open neckline accented by a ruffle of organza. The fitted bodice had a corded waistline and a ruffle flounce trimmed the hemline which formed a bustle at center back accented with a self-fabric rose. They carried a nosegay of white miniature carnations and statice sprayed orchid with purple and white streamers.

Christina Ann Tilgham was the flower girl and wore a dress identical to the junior bridesmaids and carried a white wicker basket of miniature carnations and statice sprayed orchid. Christopher Cox was the ring bearer and carried a white heart shaped lace pillow.

The bridegroom had his father to serve as best man. Ushers were Timothy and Rusty Fordham of Kinston, brothers of the bridegroom, Dewitt Jones of Snow Hill, brother of the bride, Ed Spence, Carnell Sloan, Tommy Tripp, all of Kinston and Chris Gray of Snow Hill. Junior ushers were Keith Sloan and Greg Williams of Kinston.

A program of wedding music was rendered by Claudia Harris, organist, Myra Hogan, pianist and G.W. Harris, soloist. Directors of the wedding were Faye Harrison and Sally Sugg.

Immediately following the ceremony, the bride's maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Harrison entertained at a reception at the church.

A rehearsal dinner was given by the parents of the bridegroom at Bethel Church in Kinston.

The bride is a graduate of Faith Christian Academy, Goldboro and attended Free Will Baptist Bible College for two years. She is now employed as an EDP secretary at Pitt County Memorial Hospital. The bridegroom is a graduate of Bethel Christian Academy, Kinston and East Carolina University with a B.S. degree in social studies. Currently he is employed as a teacher at Bethel Christian Academy.

We Hope For The Best

Something more than 70 percent of eligible voters in El Salvador went to the polls Sunday despite having their fourth-largest city invaded by guerrillas and its polling places shut down.

Attempts by the extreme left to confuse the outcome by calling for a boycott were largely ignored by the populace; nor were bombs and threats effective. All in all, El Salvador's citizenry came out of the elections looking very well indeed.

Matter of fact, their percentage of voters going to the polls made us

North Americans look almost negligent and unpatriotic.

Nobody knows how the elections are going to shape El Salvador's future because none of the parties enjoyed a majority. Still, the handwriting is on the wall: most of that country's people prefer something other than what the Communists offer.

We hope they get a government to serve the people — not a government that requires people to serve it.

A Better Day . . . So Far

Getting shot is pretty rough, and those who have ever been shot would probably just as soon forget it.

If you are president, however, you can't forget, for the event can affect the course of the nation and the world.

Last week, President Reagan and the nation saw the shooting, which temporarily felled him, many times as the anniversary of the event arrived.

Someone asked him on that day if it had been a better day. "So far," the president said with a twinkle in his eye.

The president always faces danger. We hope there will never be another day like that the president and the nation faced a year ago.

HOPE HIS LICENSE RUNS OUT SOON!

Thurmond Is Responsible

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK WASHINGTON—The decision Wednesday by the Senate Judiciary Committee in favor of bailing out companies convicted for price-fixing, a major victory in the lobbyists' superbowl, was preordained two weeks earlier when the referee — Sen. Strom Thurmond — dropped neutrality and vigorously joined the battle.

As chairman of the Judiciary Committee, Thurmond was responsible for an abrupt change of position by two of the nation's most important business organizations: the U.S. Chamber of Commerce and the Business Roundtable. What probably mobilized the 79-year-old president pro tempore of the Senate was no super-lobbyist but a famous conservative tycoon back home in South Carolina.

Thurmond's role is part of perhaps the most expensive battle between lobbyists Washington has ever seen. Largely ignored by the news media, here is the real Washington and how it works. Not the battle of the budget, not the Caribbean crisis, not even the deep recession can compete in the real Washington with this intense struggle for behind-the-scene bucks.

The commotion has been caused by five companies who owe more than $2 billion in court-imposed treble damages for price-fixing. They are pleading for relief by way of a retroactive amendment to a bill intended to restrict liability for damages in future cases.

Their struggle, running up against both precedent and the efforts of dozens of companies suing the price-fixers, enlisted the big names that turned the fight into what we last October called the lobbyists' superbowl. Still, as the struggle droned on through mindless months of Senate Judiciary Committee meetings and unrelenting pressure on senators, the retroactive amendment was stalled. It seemed likely to remain so for one basic reason: Chairman Thurmond had promised his neutrality.

Then, with a rush hard on the heels of March, the stalemate broke. In open session of the Judiciary Committee March 17, Thurmond announced support for a modified retroactivity amendment (which at least would put the burden of proof for reduced payments on the price-fixers rather than the plaintiffs). The Business Roundtable changed its position the next day to support Thurmond, with the U.S. Chamber quickly following suit.

Precisely what happened is obscured in the mists of how Washington really works. But insiders report the hand of a red-haired, multi-millionaire textile tycoon and conservative Republican activist from South Carolina named Roger Milliken. Milliken Co. was the least liable of the five convicted price-fixers (losing only a $22 million treble-damage antitrust suit to Burlington Industries). But Milliken, a generous and energetic force in national Republican politics for over 20 years, pushed hard on his old friend Strom (who denies that Milliken was a factor in his decision).

The swift reversal of position by the two business organizations, without formally consulting their policymaking bodies, resulted from senators lobbying the lobbyists. Sen. Paul Laxalt, President Reagan's closest Senate friend, had been demanding a change in the big business position but failed until joined by chairman Thurmond.

As reported privately by staffers of both the Business Roundtable and the U.S. Chamber, Thurmond put this word to both organizations: If you have any hopes for the bill to restrict future liability (strongly supported by all business) you better swing in line behind the Thurmond amendment. They did so — swiftly and without apparent regret.

Still, there were not enough votes on the Judiciary Committee. Sen. Howell Heflin, a former Alabama Supreme Court justice, steadfastly refused to take a stand, creating a deadlock.

Two weeks of frantic activity followed, in an attempt to resolve the issue before the Easter congressional recess.

THIS AFTERNOON

Pay Hike Unlikely

By P.T. O'CONNOR

RALEIGH — The leader of one of the major state employee associations says Governor Jim Hunt and his budget officer have done a good job of scaring state employees into not asking for a raise this year.

Arch Laney, executive director of the N.C. State Government Employees Association (NCSGEA) says Hunt and John A. Williams Jr., state budget officer, devised a "game plan" in December: They want state employees to be happy just to keep their current salaries after the upcoming June short session of the General Assembly.

The "game plan" has worked so well, Laney said, that his own association changed its legislative priorities. NCSGEA's legislative committee voted last month to make pay raise their number two priority for the session. Top priority for the 12,000-member group is retention of current salaries and benefits. Laney says he can't remember the last time the group had something other than a raise as its top priority.

NCSGEA is the smallest of the three major associations representing workers on the state payroll. It represents workers in the departments of Correction and Transportation.

A spokesman for the N.C. Association of Educators says his group, which represents public school teachers, won't change their stand: They want a 10 percent, or a cost-of-living, raise. The director of the 24,000-member N.C. State Employees Association says his group's top priority is still a raise. But, he adds, that may change before the short session.

Williams shakes his head when he hears about hopes for a raise for July 1. He says just keeping the five percent raise that state employees and teachers got on January 1 will be a big accomplishment.

That five percent raise, granted only for the last six months of this fiscal year, cost the state $69.2 million. Money to keep that raise in the 1982-83 budget has not been appropriated and in the short session the legislature will have to find $138.4 million and maybe a little more.

Tax collections, however, are running behind projections. The state budgeted on the assumption that revenues would grow by 10.3 percent this fiscal year. So far, they've only grown by 9.46 percent and Williams says he doesn't expect the final growth rate to be even that high.

So where does the state find the money to keep the current salaries? Williams says the state has $80 million left over from last year. A 4 percent cutback in spending this year should save another $170 million. But, before adding up the surplus, the revenue shortfall must be figured in. For every percentage point difference between the projection and the actual, there's $30 million less than the legislature counted on.

Williams is too shrewd a politician to guess on the final revenue increase for the year. But he'll tell a reporter that there may not be any increase for the final four months of the year. "You figure it out," he says. Figured out, it means a $100-120 million shortfall.

Hunt plays off Williams' pessimism. He says he's optimistic there won't be a wage cut.

As Laney said, "The game plan is to psychologically posture state employees to be so happy to keep what they've got that they won't ask for another quarter to go to the movies."

Today In History

By The Associated Press

Today is Monday, April 5, the 95th day of 1982. There are 270 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On April 5, 1975, Nationalist China's President, Chiang Kai-Shek, died at the age of 89.

On this date: In 1939, all German children between the ages of 10 and 13 were ordered to serve in the Hitler Youth Organization.

In 1958, Fidel Castro began what he called his "total war" against the Batista government in Cuba.

In 1969, a four-man British expedition reached the North Pole after a 14-month, 13-hundred-mile trek by dog sled.

And in 1980, Iran's President Abolhassan Bani-Sadr called on the Egyptians to overthrow President Anwar Sadat for granting asylum to the deposed Shah of Iran.

Ten years ago: North Vietnamese forces in South Vietnam opened a new offensive and drove within 80 miles of Saigon.

Five years ago: Egyptian President Anwar Sadat, in Washington, asked the United States to start supplying Egypt with arms, including fighter planes.

One year ago: Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev flew to Czechoslovakia.

The Rats Pass Or Else

A lab assistant came up and showed Dr. Applebaum a rat that seemed to be expiring.

"What do you think, Doctor?"

Despite the overwhelming evidence that smoking can cause cancer, heart disease and other fatal illnesses, there are still some physicians in the United States who maintain that all the facts are not in, and the medical profession is overreacting. Most of these doctors are employed by the tobacco interests, and some people are skeptical about their research.

I don't happen to be one of them. I believe that just because a doctor is on the tobacco industry's payroll, doesn't mean he is not as objective about smoking as someone who isn't.

Take my friend Dr. Heinrich Applebaum, who gets $100,000 a year to defend the cigarette manufacturers' interests. He took me through his lab the other day.

There were hundreds of white rats in cages, jumping about and playing and munching on tobacco leaves.

"Have you ever seen happier rats in your life?" he asked me.

"Never," I admitted. "Do they all smoke?"

"A pack a day," he said proudly. "They don't get anything to eat unless they smoke first."

"And none of them contract cancer or heart disease?"

"They better not. If one of our rats get sick, we throw it out of the program."

"But how do you know if smoking was not the cause of its illness if you throw it away?"

"It's a question of priorities. When you're looking for scientific answers to medical problems, you don't waste your time on sick rats."

ART BUCHWALD

"Get it out of here. It could have yellow fever." "It doesn't appear to have yellow fever." "Then maybe it's typhus." "Should I do an autopsy on it?"

"Who do you think you are, Dr. Noguchi? We're running a laboratory here, not a coroner's office."

The lab assistant disappeared.

Dr. Applebaum seemed upset. "I run into that all day long. Every time a rat comes down with something, some smart aleck tries to find out if it was caused by cigarettes. Nobody ever wants to leave well enough alone."

"Maybe they're just being thorough?" I suggested. "Haven't you ever found a rat that died from a smoking-related disease?"

"Not since I've been working for the tobacco industry. When I took this job, they gave me carte blanche to find out all the facts, plus a bonus of $25 for every rat I could prove died of natural causes. I also get $1,000 every time I go on television to attack the Surgeon General's Report on smoking. So I call them as I see them, because my scientific reputation is at stake."

"Then why is the entire medical establishment against you?"

"It's simple. If they blame smoking for somebody's heart attack they won't be sued for malpractice."

"Doctor, will you come over to cage 230? None of the rats seem to be moving," a lab assistant said.

We walked over. Dr. Applebaum said, "What have you been feeding them?"

"Milk and cheese," the assistant replied. "Just as I suspected. Look for calcium kidney stones."

"Suppose I don't find any?"

"Then you can get yourself another job."

Strength For Today

NATURE OF GROWTH

Growth consists in the progressive development of one's ability to relate himself to his environment, to others, and to God. We are first of all to relate ourselves to the circumstances by which we are surrounded. Some are annoying, others painful and restrictive, still others sorrowful. We must also get along with the people with whom we come in contact. Many are ignorant and unreasonable; a few are vicious; quite a number are thoughtless.

Most important, we must relate ourselves to God, and this is the most difficult challenge of all. We cannot see God. We speak to Him and He answers us, but not in audible words.

Love brings us into complete and satisfying relationships with persons; faith brings us into satisfying relationship with God. We have made spiritual achievement when we look up to God in faith and reach out in loving service to our fellow men. — Elisha Douglass

To the editor:

There is no use any more of talking about Our Side and Their Side. There is really now only One Side, and that is the side of the Sitting Ducks. The American people are sitting ducks. So are the Soviet people. (The leaders are also Sitting Ducks, but they don't want to believe it.)

The leaders talk calmly about tactical nuclear warfare, limited nuclear warfare, strategic nuclear warfare, B-1's, B-6's, MX's, F-25's and so on. The Sitting Duck doesn't clearly understand what they are talking about, but he sometimes has the uneasy feeling that they are talking about incinerating Sitting Ducks. And that, indeed, is what they are talking about. They're talking about no more babies — ever, ever, ever.

Soviets and Americans have enough nuclear power to kill every man, woman and child in this world. And, in the name of defense, they are going to kill every man, woman and child in this world, unless the Sitting Ducks stay the day.

If you hope that this old earth of ours will serve as safe harbor for your children, grandchildren and further progeny, write to Sen. Albert Gore Jr. of Tennessee. He's interested.

To the editor:

President Reagan told his audience of reactors at the Washington Hilton that the three non-negotiable areas of his budget are defense funding, tax cuts and spending reductions. The White House keeps telling the press that the President is ready to compromise, but I can think of no other areas for compromise with the Congress. He is, in effect, telling the Congress and the people that Congress can have no other choice than to accept his huge deficit budget.

For Some, Credit Available

By LOUISE COOK

Associated Press Writer
Some consumers are finding credit is easier to get again these days, but the cost is high and the lenders are picky.

"We're all going after the upscale customer," said Jim Matthews of Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust Co. in Chicago.

The flood of credit that persisted through much of the 1970s dried up in March 1980 when the government imposed restrictions to discourage borrowing.

The restrictions were lifted after a few months, but credit remained tight. Lenders had to pay steadily rising interest rates to attract deposits; state usury ceilings limited the amount they could charge borrowers; credit cards and loans often were unprofitable.

Slowly, however, the picture is changing. Usury ceilings have been lifted. Fees and service charges have been imposed. The crunch has not ended, but it has eased.

The Federal Reserve Board says that outstanding consumer installment debt, not counting mortgages, increased last year at an annual rate of 6½ percent. That compares with a 1980 growth rate of half a percent.

Joe Powell, director of research for MasterCard International, said the number of cardholders is down, but 1981 sales were up 15 percent from the previous year. "What is happening is that people are consolidating their credit cards," he said; because of new fees, people who used to hold two or more cards have switched to one.

Powell said that only half of the banks responding to a MasterCard survey last fall reported that they were looking for new credit accounts. Those banks which are looking for new accounts, he said, are being selective. "Banks are showing more sophistication in terms of segmenting their market," Powell said.

Sandra J. McLaughlin, senior vice president of the Mellon Bank of Pittsburgh, said the credit situation is "opening up a little bit."

Ms. McLaughlin said, however, that Pennsylvania-based lenders like Mellon are still cautious. The state's 15 percent usury ceiling is expected to rise to 18 percent, she said, but that is "not enough to make the (credit-card) service profitable."

She also said that unemployment in the area is high — and consumers are just as cautious as lenders. "We have fairly responsible people who use credit responsibly," she said.

Pat Coate of Chase Manhattan Bank in New York City said the lifting of the state's usury ceiling early in 1981 helped increase the flow of credit. "We are actively looking for ways to offer people credit," she said.

The old limit on credit card interest in New York was 18 percent a year on the first $500 outstanding balance and 12 percent a year on anything above that level. The new limit is 25 percent a year and Chase charges a flat 18 percent on the entire outstanding balance.

The usury ceiling on credit-card interest in Illinois was eliminated last October. Matthews said Continental and most other lenders now charge an annual rate of 19.8 percent on Visa and MasterCard balances which are not paid in full each month. "You can make money at that level today," said Matthews, as long as you are not paying more than an average of 12 percent on deposits.

Matthews said the number of purchases per active credit-card account at Continental during the first two months of 1982 was 9 percent higher than in the same period a year earlier; the size of the average purchase was up 8 percent. When you adjust the figures for inflation, "it's not an exciting increase," he said.

He said bank promotions in general today are aimed at upper-income customers through things like the American Express gold card and premium cards issued by MasterCard and Visa. He said these customers are profitable — even if they pay their bills promptly and do not incur interest charges — because lenders do not have to worry about late payments and defaults, and because annual fees can be a money-maker if the volume of business is large enough.

Matthews said Continental has been promoting credit on a limited basis only — increasing the amount of credit available to existing customers with good credit records.

Bethel Board Meets Tuesday

BETHEL - Opening of bids on several projects is among the agenda items for the April meeting of the Bethel town board to be held at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the town hall.

Bids will be considered on a vacant lot owned by the town, on the 1982-83 fiscal year audit, on painting the town water tower, and discussions will be held on bids for insurance for the town.

Other agenda items include discussion of a joint project by the Bethel Recreation Department and the Pitt County schools on construction of a concession stand; and discussion of the requirements for the Governor's award.

Bethel's new police chief, Jerome Ratley, will be recognized at the April meeting.

DR. F.M. SIMMONS PATTERSON — Greenville physician has been awarded a Distinguished Service Award from the School of Medicine of the University of North Carolina. Dr. Patterson, originally from New Bern and a UNC-CH graduate, retired at the end of 1981 as executive director of the Eastern Area Health Education Center here and as assistant dean for continuing medical education of the ECU School of Medicine, posts he had held since the beginning of 1975. He previously headed the Cancer Control Program of Duke University and was in the private practice of surgery. The award cites Dr. Patterson as "one of the prime builders of North Carolina's nationally recognized Area Health Education Centers program."

REVIVAL WEEK

A week of revival begins tonight at Rock Spring Free Will Baptist Church, with services to be held at 7:30 p.m. through Friday.

The Rev. W.E. Bowser of Wilson will be the speaker for the week. Music will be rendered Monday by Holy Trinity Young Adult Choir; Tuesday by Warren Chapel Gospel Choir; Wednesday by the Walston Traveling Choir; Thursday by the W.L. Jones Traveling Choir of Mount Calvary and Friday by the Rouse Chapel Choir.

See Divorce Links To Ailing Economy

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — The rising divorce rate in many North Carolina cities is related to economic conditions, experts say.

The state averages only 80 divorced people per 1,000 married people, compared with 100 per 1,000 at the national level. But in Winston-Salem, the proportion nearly tripled in the 1970s to 153 per 1,000. Raleigh had 143 divorcees per 1,000 married people, followed by Charlotte with 130 and Greensboro with 129.

"People are concerned with relationships in much the same way they are concerned with material things," said Philip J. Pericone, chairman of the sociology department at Wake Forest University. "If it doesn't work, throw it away. We seek a new relationship just as we would get a new car if it doesn't work."

Urban couples are more likely than rural couples to hold that viewpoint, he said. And cities also contain more two-career families — which are more likely to end in divorce than more traditional families.

Working women sometimes put more strain on their marriages than they relieve by assuming part of the economic burden, said Rodney C. Brown, director of pastoral counseling at R.J. Reynolds Industries Inc.

"He (the husband) may appreciate the extra income, but he may have a difficult time sharing that new-found power that she's got," Brown said. "And the housework may go a little bit, and more tension necessarily comes into the relationship."

But bad economic conditions may eventually lead to a leveling off in breakups, said Sarah Austin, director of family services at Family Services Inc.

"If the economic situation continues bad over a period of time, it will curtail divorce," she said. "I'm not saying families will be any happier. But I do know you have more freedom when you have more money. It costs a lot of money to keep up two houses."

Already the inflation that created the need for two-income marriages is forcing couples to postpone weddings, Miss Austin said.

Lobbyists scanned campaign contribution lists for pressure points on senators. Rainmakers back home were solicited. Each day, the Judiciary Committee hearing room filled with famous faces — former Cabinet members,

ON HONOR ROLE

Robert P. Albanese of Greenville, student at East Carolina University, earned a place on ECU's Honor Roll last semester.

White House aides, senators and judges — all handsomely paid for handsome lobbying.

Thurmond himself met individually with his own committee members in quest of the decisive vote. Under particularly intense pressure was Sen. Charles Grassley, a conservative freshman from Iowa (who incidentally was beneficiary of a personal $1,000 contribution in 1980 from Roger Milliken in far-off South Carolina). Finally, on March 31, Grassley joined his chairman, and the Thurmond amendment was adopted.

The issue itself — whether Congress should change laws retroactively to bail out antitrust transgressors — is all but lost amid high-powered lobbying. When a lobbyist opposing retroactivity tried to argue the higher principles involved, an aide to Senate majority leader Robert Byrd shot back that businessmen on both sides were "pigs at the trough," pushing and shoving to get the most slop. That vividly describes the real world in Washington.

Ailing Henry Fonda Never 'Impatient'

By The Associated Press
NEW YORK (AP) — Oscar winner Henry Fonda has been virtually bed-ridden for more than a year and sometimes "he kind of fades," according to his wife, Shirlee.

"People hear that he's up and walking again, but when we're talking about walking, we're talking about a man who hasn't been out of bed for nearly a year," Mrs. Fonda said in an interview with People magazine.

The 76-year-old actor, who has suffered from heart ailments since 1974, won the Academy Award for best actor last week for his performance in "On Golden Pond." In the movie, Fonda portrays Norman Thayer, a man whose failing heart forces him and others to face his own mortality.

"When he takes two steps, that's walking," Mrs. Fonda,

50, said of her husband. "Some days he seems fine. On others, he kind of fades. I just have to play it by ear, hour by hour."

During his convalescence, Fonda has a five-day-a-week nurse. But Mrs. Fonda said she also keeps a cot by his bed.

"It's our special time and it belongs only to us," she said. "Even as sick as he's been, he's never said an impatient word. If he wants something, he asks for it graciously, and he always has a word of thanks."

"If anyone can will himself to be better, Henry can," she said. "I heard him telling someone the other day how much he wants to get better so we can travel again and stay in our apartment in New York. 'I want to be able to walk to the Dover Delicatessen,' he said. 'I'm hoping he will.'"

Lung Group Raises Funds

Two participants in the American Lung Association Bowlathon have broken all previous records for funds raised by an individual for the Eastern Region.

Mrs. Pamela S. Smith of Ayden raised $960 contributed by 111 sponsors. The second highest amount was raised by Susan Puryear. Her total of $907 from 235 sponsors also exceeded all former individual funds raised.

These two participants alone were responsible for nearly two thirds of the total $ 2,600 raised, Regional Director Deborah Bryan said.

Ms. Bryan gave special credit to members of the Delta Sigma Phi Fraternity of East Carolina University, which helped in lining up the participants and collecting the money.

"It is through such generosity that we are able to offer educational services to our schools, our April Family Asthma Program, the monthly Better Breathing Club for victims of chronic lung diseases, and to further research into the cause and cure of lung diseases," Ms. Bryan added.

Patty Honored For ERA Role

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actress Patty Duke Astin has been presented the Eleanor Roosevelt Award for humanitarian service for her efforts to help pass the Equal Rights Amendment.

The presentation Saturday night by the Southern California Americans for Democratic Action Foundation goes to the person in Southern California who best exemplifies Mrs. Roosevelt's philosophy and principles. Mrs. Astin's co-recipient was trade union leader Justin Ostro.

Actor Sidney Poitier was guest of honor at the presentation and former Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., was keynote speaker.

FINALLY! — After some rough weather it looks like spring may really have arrived in the North Carolina mountains. Several nights of below-freezing temperatures last weekend might have destroyed most of the mountain apple crop but tulips are still OK. Ben Liddy, of Drexel, can attest that tulips are alive and well as he checks out fragrance of one in his front yard. (AP Laserphoto)

The Biggest Chicken In New York City Is Moving To Your Area.

This is your opportunity to grow with Perdue, the best-selling broiler in the Northeast. 1400 farmers from Dover, Delaware to Ahoskie, North Carolina now grow with Perdue Farms, Inc. For some, Perdue provides a good steady second income. Others depend on Perdue for their livelihood. But all agree that raising Perdue chickens is a good investment. And now, because of the increasing demand for Perdue products in the busy markets of Baltimore, Philadelphia, New York, Boston, and points in between, we need more broiler producers. And this is your chance to join 1400 other smart agribusinessmen and women in the profitable Perdue program.

As a Perdue producer, you can earn over $20,000 annually. Our newest broiler houses are producing larger, healthier flocks than ever before. And since feeding, watering and ventilation are all semi-automated, you can grow profitable flocks by spending only a few hours each day. And by doing your job conscientiously and utilizing the services of your Perdue route supervisor, you can earn a gross annual income of over $20,000. And since it only requires a few hours, you can use the rest of the day to tend to your other farming operations. Or you might want to make Perdue your primary operation, by owning two or more broiler houses. You can do this because each house has the same high potential income.

People know a good chicken when they eat one. That's why Perdue Farms has been growing for 62 years. In fact, the amount of Perdue chickens sold in the last four years has more than doubled. It is this increasing demand for our high quality products that make growing with Perdue a very smart investment.

Let's Talk Chicken.

PROJECTS SCHEDULED

The Make America Better committee of the Greenville-Pitt County Board of Realtors announced plans for upcoming educational and community projects.

Blanche Forbes, chairman, said the trash and treasure committee will have a sale at Elm Street Park April 24 to raise funds for the Eastern Carolina Vocational Center. Other projects include continuation of events at Greenville Villa and University nursing homes, beautification work in Ayden, a voter awareness educational and poll transportation program, an educational program to combat vandalism, a homebuyer's seminar, and an energy awareness program which includes an energy conservation demonstration project. Flag day will be observed in July at "Sunday in the Park."

A new project will be the donation and installation of smoke detectors in the homes of the handicapped and needy. She said the committee will help with the board's Private Property Week celebration April 19-25 at Carolina East Mall.

CPP DESIGNATION

Chuck Vollertsen, owner and photographer, Images-Creative Photography Inc. here, has been named a certified professional photographer by the Professional Photographers of North Carolina in conjunction with the Professional Photographers of America Inc.

Vollertsen, who opened his studio here in 1975, has been a member of the state association since that time. He is currently serving as chairman of the association's traveling loan collection. Prior to coming to Greenville, he was a staff news photographer for the Atlanta Journal-Constitution.

ELECTED PRESIDENT

Hugh L. McColl Jr. was elected president of NCB Corp. by the board of directors, according to Thomas I. Storrs, chairman.

Storrs said that McColl assumed the title on April 1 in addition to his position as president of North Carolina National Bank. He continues as chief operating officer.

FINANCING ARRANGED

TARBORO — Construction of eastern North Carolina's first life-care retirement community — The Albemarle — was assured recently with the arrangement of financing for $10 million from First Colony Savings & Loan Association.

The Albemarle, to be built on a six-acre tract adjacent to the central business district here by Retirement Properties of Tarboro, will have 150 residential apartments, plus dining, social, recreational and other facilities and will include a 40 bed health care center.

The facility will have a total cost of some $14.4 million, it was announced, and construction, expected to take 15 months, will begin immediately.

Presbyterian Retirement Corp. will lease the facility from Retirement Properties and will be managed by Retirement Living, a division of Forum Group Inc. of Wilmington, Dela.

WITN-TV POSITIONS

W.R. Roberson Jr., chairman of WITN-TV Inc., announced that Frank Brady has been named regional sales manager for the station, while Frank Drake has been named local sales manager.

A New York native, Brady was associated with WCBS-TV in New York prior to joining WITN-TV as local sales manager in 1979.

Drake, a Portsmouth, Va. native, has had 27 years of experience in the industry, including service with WAVY-TV in Norfolk.

NATIONAL HONORS

DataFlow Inc., a Durham based firm with a branch office here, received two national awards recently from Cado Systems Corp. at Cado's annual conference.

David Dickson, president of Dataflow, received the "Winners Circle Award" as Cado's largest distributor in the southeast, while Frank Chamberlain, senior vice president, was presented an award as Cado's top sales achiever in 1981.

Dataflow designs and installs business computer and word processing systems.

CT&T POST

Thomas A. Morrow has been promoted to the new position of division public affairs manager by Carolina Telephone, according to T. P. Williamson, vice president-administration.

Morrow will direct and coordinate interdepartmental involvement in public affairs activities in all districts throughout the New Bern Division, which includes district offices in Greenville, New Bern, Jacksonville, Kinston, Morehead City, Washington and Williamston.

He is a Washington native.

Randal Keith Sutton, assistant manager of Rose's at Pitt Plaza, has been recognized as the outstanding assistant manager in competition among personnel at 234 Rose's facilities, the company announced.

Rose's said that Sutton, who has been associated with the company for two years, was cited for his performance, professionalism and attitude. He received an engraved plaque from L. H. Harvin III, president, during a recent recognition banquet in Raleigh. He will also receive an expense paid trip to the Bahamas as part of the award.

The assistant manager, who resides in Greenville with his wife, Tina, joined the company in Wilson and has worked here for the past eight months. He is a graduate of East Carolina University.

tains to the 60s in the southeast corner of the state.

A storm traveling eastward from Oklahoma this morning will move across the Virginia border late tonight, plunge into the ocean and intensify early Tuesday. Rain and possible thunderstorms tonight will taper off from west to east across the state.

As the storm gains strength over the ocean Tuesday, howling northwest winds will bring cool and much drier air into the state. The northern mountains will even see some snow flurries.

Winds will subside Tuesday night, heralding another frosty spring night.

Weather service officials said temperatures late Tuesday night and early Wednesday morning probably will be at or below the freezing mark in much of North Carolina, and suggested preparations for protecting vulnerable vegetation.

Solar Fraction

The solar fraction for Sunday was 93. The fraction, calculated by the physics department at East Carolina University, means that a solar heater would have supplied 93 percent of the energy required for hot water.

Sunday's gusty winds died quickly Sunday evening. Temperatures dropped into the 40s in most of the state Sunday night as clouds began rolling in from the west.

All members of Phoenix and interested persons are invited to attend.

Girl Scouts Event Is Held

Approximately 150 fathers and daughters attended the Girl Scouts' annual Father-Daughter Square Dance held recently at the Carolina Country Day gymnasium.

Caller for the event was Ms. Jo Saunders, of the ECU

ONE THING'S FOR SURE. WITH AN IRA FROM BB&T, YOU'LL AGE WELL.

Your age is going to increase with time, of course. There's no getting around that. But, with an IRA, so is your fortune.

You could retire a millionaire.

If you start your IRA (Individual Retirement Account) when you're in your early thirties and interest rates stay about the same as they are now, a $2,000-a-year investment will make you a millionaire by the time you retire! And even if you can't start that early, you can still build a whopping retirement fund.

You'll pay lower income taxes.

As long as you're a wage earner, whether or not you have a retirement plan where you work, you're eligible for BB&T's IRA. And you can open your account right now.

You're allowed to sock away up to $2,000 each year ($2,250 if you're married and only one of you is a wage earner, $4,000 if both of you are). And whatever your annual investment is, you can deduct every penny of it from that year's gross income. Which means real tax savings.

Your interest is tax-deferred.

The interest you earn, which is tied to money market rates, is compounded daily at BB&T, not monthly or annually as may be the case at some banks and savings and loans. This can add up to a difference of thousands and thousands of dollars by the time you reach retirement age.

And all your interest is tax-deferred. You pay no tax on it until you begin withdrawing funds at retirement, when you'll almost certainly be in a lower tax bracket and, therefore, required to pay less.

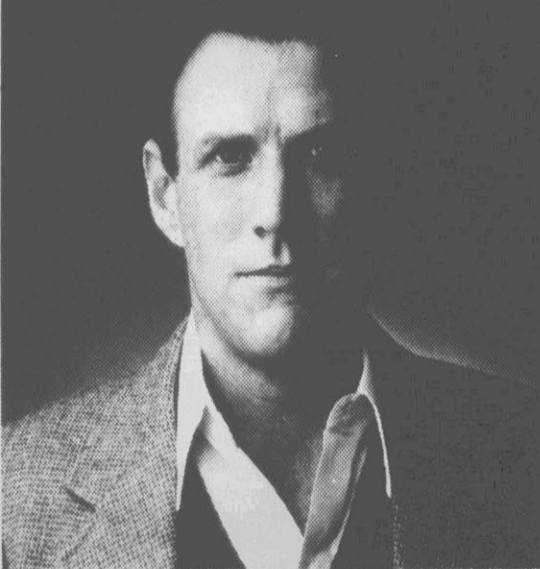

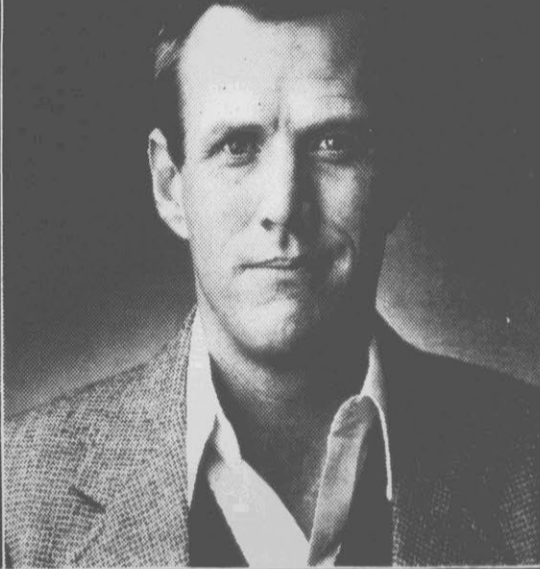

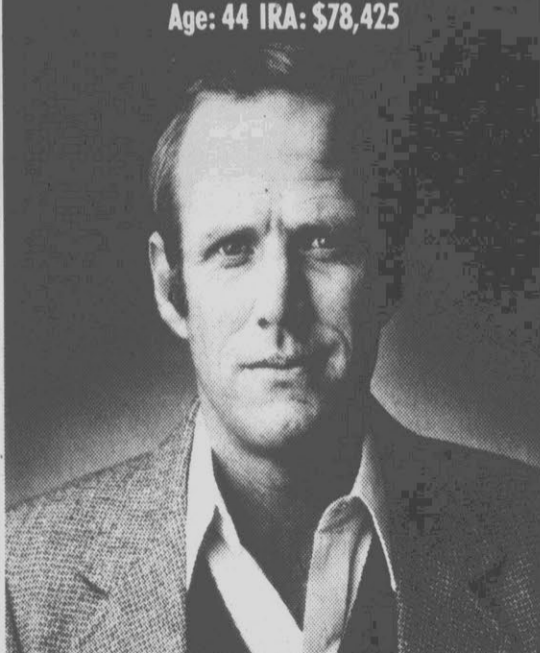

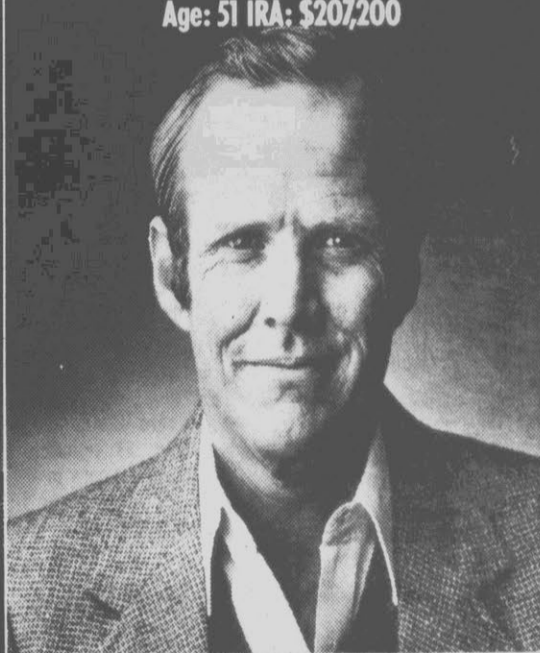

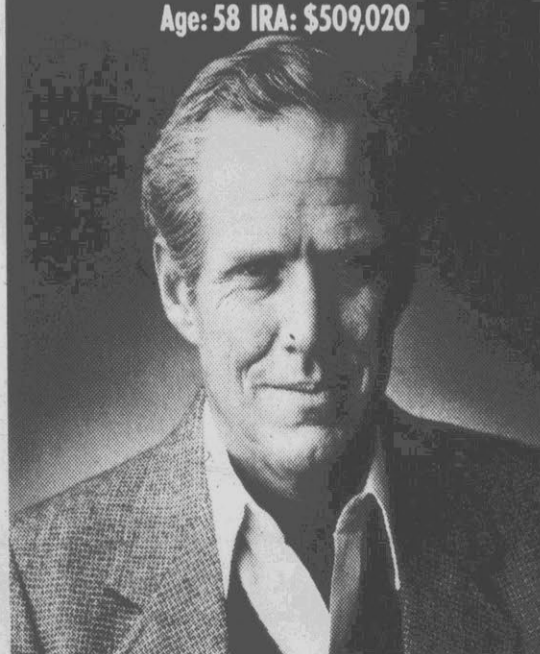

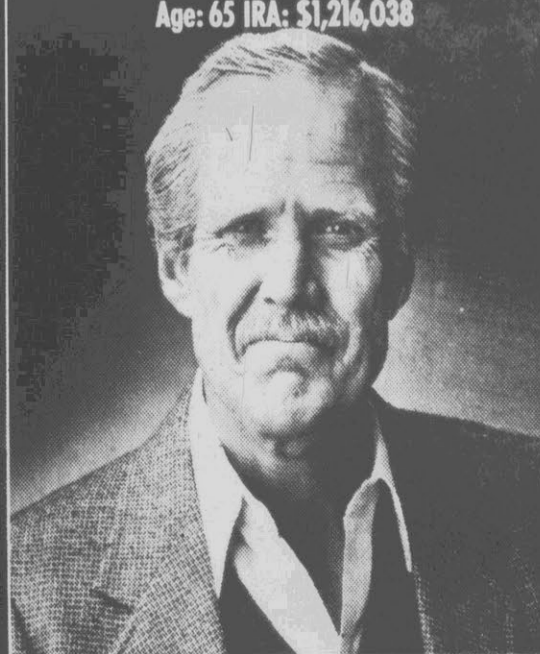

Your money piles up until you're 59½.

If you withdraw any money from your IRA before you reach the age of 59½, Federal regulations require you to pay a 10% IRS penalty on that money and perhaps a substantial interest penalty as well.

But once you hit 59½, nothing can stop you. You may take your money in a lump sum, receive it in monthly, quarterly or annual installments, or even wait until you're 70½—but no later—to begin withdrawing funds.

Call or visit any BB&T office today and ask us about this extraordinary opportunity to save for your future. Then open your IRA and get started along the road to prosperity.

When you're ready to retire, you won't look old. You'll look like a million bucks.

Age: 30 IRA: $2,000 	Age: 37 IRA: $23,454
Age: 44 IRA: $78,425 	Age: 51 IRA: $207,200
Age: 58 IRA: $509,020 	Age: 65 IRA: $1,216,038

Nobody works harder for your money.

Projected growth shown is based on 12% interest compounded daily on an annual contribution of $2,000 deposited on the first day of each year for 35 years.

Hunt Host To Gov. Of Mich.

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) - Michigan Gov. William G. Milliken made a brief tour of North Carolina's Research Triangle Park today and said it was a model for a similar facility he hopes to see started in Michigan.

Milliken, a Republican, said he was interested in seeing Michigan build a center like the Research Triangle, with its cooperation between industry, education and government. But Milliken said the Michigan facility would concentrate on robotics - the robot-like machines used in manufacturing.

"The model you provide is of extreme interest to me, with the close ties to the universities and strong relationship with state government," he said.

Milliken met with Research Triangle officials at breakfast, then took a quick tour by car of some of the nearly 40 companies that have research facilities at the park.

He later met briefly with North Carolina Gov. Jim Hunt, a Democrat, before returning to Michigan by airplane. Milliken cut short his visit to attend the funeral of one his cabinet members, but some of the governor's staff remained in North Carolina for a closer look.

"I was extremely impressed with it. This is a model for the whole country to see," Milliken said. "I've traveled the country and have seldom seen anything to equal what you have here."

Hunt said later that he offered Milliken full cooperation on establishing a similar facility. Hunt said he did not see the Michigan facility as competing with the North Carolina facility.

"No, the people of North Carolina ought to be proud they see as one of, if not the best, models in terms of business and industry and government working together," Hunt said.

White House Fence-Jumper

WASHINGTON (AP) - A man carrying a suitcase jumped over the White House fence today and was immediately taken into custody and questioned by White House guards.

The man, identified as Robert C. Burns, 33, jumped over the fence on the South Lawn, according to a Secret Service spokeswoman, Mary Ann Gordon.

She did not know what was inside the suitcase and no other details were available immediately.

Band Concert On Tuesday

A concert of contemporary band music will be presented by the Symphonic Band of the East Carolina University School of Music at 8:15 p.m. Tuesday in Memorial Gymnasium on campus. There is no admission charge and the public is invited to attend.

The band is directed by Tom Goolsby of the ECU music faculty and includes 62 members.

The spring program will include Percy Grainger's "Spoon River, An American Folk Dance," the Vincent Persichetti "Symphony No. 6 for Band," "Three Japanese Dances" by Bernard Rogers, and John Philip Sousa's "El Capitan" march.

Award Given To Bethel Pair

Robert Bowers and Frank Hemingway, both of Bethel, have been awarded the Syntex Practitioner-Instructor of the Year Award by the North Carolina Pharmaceutical Association.

The award was presented during the awards session of the 102nd annual convention of the association held yesterday afternoon. It is given to the pharmacist(s) who has contributed most to fifth-year extern program of the UNC School of Pharmacy. Bowers and Hemingway, co-owners of Bethel Pharmacy, have, for about the past 10 years, supervised the practical education of six externs each year.

Weekend Theft Investigated

Greenville police are investigating at break-in at Cox Armature Works at 2255 Memorial Drive that occurred Friday night or early Saturday morning.

Chief Glenn Cannon said thieves gained entrance to the building through a skylight and took 29 tires, two batteries, a kerosene heater and a 1978 model car, valued at some $5,100. The intruders also made an unsuccessful attempt to open the company safe.

Cannon noted the car, owned by an employee of the firm, was recovered about a block away from the scene of the break-in.

The chief said an estimated $1,100 damage was caused by the robbers inside the building.

Caswell Choir Will Perform

The Caswell Center Choir will perform at Jenkins Auditorium Tuesday at 7:30 p.m.

The free performance will be followed by a free film festival, one of many presentations during Handicap Awareness Week's "Focus on Ability." The public is invited to all events throughout the week.

The dates for the special week were incorrectly given. Dates are Monday through Friday of this week.

Ehinger noted that the increase would set the base pay for health department nurses at $15,792 a year.

Nurses at Pitt Memorial Hospital, he said, start with a base pay, not including overtime, at $15,766.

Commissioners also awarded a contract for 10 solid waste containers this morning to Godwin Manufacturing Co. of Dunn, for a low-bid price of $27,684.90.

Other bids received for the containers included $29,800 from SANCO Corp., and $29,750 from Carolina Waste Equipment Co.

The board also set Board of Equalization and Review meetings for 2 p.m. on April 19, May 3 and May 17.

City Of Cincinnati Rolls Out Red Carpet For NL Opener

CINCINNATI (AP) — The only city that's sūing its major league baseball team rolls out the red carpet today for the start of a new season.

The city plans its usual good measure of festivities on banner decked downtown streets as a prelude to the 2 p.m., EST, opener between the Chicago Cubs and the Cincinnati Reds, two new-look teams.

"I don't know that my feelings are different than in any other year," said Mayor David Mann, who originated a lawsuit against the Reds over strike-related revenue losses last summer. "Opening day is very special for Cincinnati. It always has been."

The ballclub and the city haven't yet settled the lawsuit, which seeks $1.1 million from the Reds. Neither have baseball fans forgotten that the Reds failed to make the split-season playoff format last year despite compiling the best overall record in baseball.

"I hope it's the beginning of a great season. I hope the team with the best record ends up where it ought to be — in the World Series," Mann said.

But the lingering bitter memories of the players' strike will be put aside when two astronauts christen another season with a baseball flown around the world.

Astronauts Joe Engle and Richard Truly will make the ceremonial first pitch with a ball that accompanied them on their space shuttle Columbia flight last November.

Then Chicago's Doug Bird, 4-5 last year, will square off against Cincinnati's Mario Soto, 12-9, in a game matching two revamped teams.

The Cubs are looking to shake their losing ways and "build a new tradition" with an infusion of leadership and players from the Philadelphia Phillies organization. Only three starters remain from the Cubs' opening day lineup of a year ago.

"After last year, I never thought I'd be back with the Cubs and I never thought I'd want to be," said veteran pitcher Dick

Orioles vs. Royals

Perennial AL Contenders Officially Open '82 Season

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Baltimore Orioles and Kansas City Royals, perennial contenders in their divisions, had the honor of officially opening the American League season today.

Commissioner Bowie Kuhn was scheduled to attend the 2:05 p.m., EST, contest, and his well-known aversion to overcoats was to get an early test.

The forecast called for temperatures in the 40s, with a 50 percent chance of rain or wet snow by late afternoon.

A record opening day crowd in excess of 50,000 was expected, provided the weather didn't force too many no-shows. The remaining teams in the league play their first games on Tuesday.

Dennis Martinez was tabbed by Baltimore Manager Earl Weaver for his first opening day start, while Kansas City's Dennis Leonard was to make his fourth such appearance.

Martinez tied for the major league lead for most victories when he posted a 14-5 record during the strike-shortened 1981 season. The Nicaraguan right-hander, whose wife is expecting a child, did not attend a Sunday workout conducted in 45-degree weather with wind gusts up to 38 miles an hour.

Leonard, with 120 victories, is the winningest right-hander in the major leagues since he became a Kansas City starter in 1975. He was 13-11 last season.

"Leonard has been tough on us," Weaver said. "We may have to scramble and steal a run. We might even have to bunt."

Weaver named a starting lineup which included three players who weren't in the starting lineup last season.

They were young Cal Ripken Jr. at third base and Lenn Sakata at shortstop, replacing the departed veterans Doug DeCinces and Mark Belanger. Dan Ford, acquired from the California Angels in the deal for DeCinces, was in right field.

Catcher Rick Dempsey, who experimented in spring training to become a switch hitter, was to get his first test as a left-hander against Leonard.

Lady Pirates Blast UNCC For Crown

CHARLOTTE — Shirley Brown drove in four runs and Cynthia Shepard two to lead East Carolina to a 10-3 victory over UNC-Charlotte in the title game of the UNCC Invitational this past weekend.

The score was tied, 3-3, at the end of three innings, but the Lady Pirates erupted for five runs in the fifth inning and before adding two more runs in the sixth to win.

"Our confidence in our hitting improved all day," ECU first-year coach Sue Manahan said. "Our hitting and defense really came together in the last game (against UNCC)."

Shepard, Brown, Jo Landa Clayton and Mitzi Davis were all three for four for ECU in the title game. Davis and Clayton each had one run batted in.

The win leaves the Lady Pirates at 22-4 this season. UNCC finished second in the tournament and N.C. State was third.

ECU's Yvonne Williams was named the tournament's most valuable player and was one of three ECU players on the all-tournament team. Also on the all-tournament team were Brown and Shepard.

The Lady Pirates opened play in the tournament with a 3-0 win over Appalachian State. ECU scored single runs in the first, third and fourth en route to the triumph.

Shepard, Brown and Mitzi Davis were all two for three to lead the Lady Pirates in hitting.

That victory was followed by ECU's only loss of the day, a 5-2 decision to UNCC in nine innings. The game was scoreless through four innings, but UNCC scored twice in the fifth to take the lead.

ECU cut the lead to one with a run in the bottom of the sixth and then tied the game with a run in the seventh to send the game into extra innings. UNCC scored three runs in the top of the ninth to win.

Williams was two for two with two RBI and a home run for the Lady Pirates. Maureen Buck was two for three and Davis two for four for ECU.

ECU, one game away from elimination, whipped N.C. State, (Please turn to page 11)

GGO Win Gains Edwards Invitation To The Masters

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Danny Edwards, who hadn't expected to make it, is in the Masters.

And Bobby Clampett, who fully expected to make it, who planned on the trip to Augusta, Ga., to the extent he'd made housing and plane reservations, is out. He will be among the missing this week when the game's outstanding players gather for the first of the year's four major tests of golfing greatness.

Moments after Edwards had holed a 3-foot bogey putt on the final hole for a one-shot victory over Clampett in the Greater Greensboro Open, Danny received a telephone call from Col. David Davis of the Augusta National Golf Club with the formal invitation, the one reserved for the winner of this event if he hadn't previously qualified.

It was the telephone call the 22-year-old Clampett wanted so desperately to receive.

"I've been thinking about Augusta since December. And I was thinking about it all day today," said Clampett, who needed a victory here to qualify for the Masters field.

"My family already had made housing arrangements and their plane reservations, so they share in my disappointment," he said. "I'd worked very hard to try to peak right now."

"Now I have a two-week vacation. We won't be going to Augusta."

Edwards, who had planned on a two-week vacation, also has to make some adjustments. He's in the Masters and also became eligible for the following week's Tournament of Champions — when he'd expected to be participating in the other half of his two-sport career as a race car driver.

"I'd planned on a little vacation and then had a race scheduled," Edwards said.

While Clampett was obviously bitterly disappointed, Edwards took a rather casual approach to his last-minute qualification for the two important tournaments.

"It's nice," he said. "It'll be nice to go to the Masters. It's a major tournament, a major championship."

Edwards, whose two previous tour victories had come in the 1977 Greensboro tournament and the 1980 National Team Championship with his brother Danny, won this one with a front-running, wind-blown final round of 75 — 3-over-par on the Forest Oaks Country Club course that was scoured with winds gusting up to 40 miles an hour.

Edwards, winner of only $4,547 earlier this season, picked up $54,000 from the total purse of $300,000 with his winning total of 285 — 3-under par. Clampett, who chased but never caught Edwards throughout the day, had a closing 73 and a 286 total.

He was followed by Jack Renner, one of three men able to break par on the final day. Renner was alone at 287, one under, after a 70. Woody Blackburn, 73-288, was next, with British Open champion Bill Rogers and Ben Crenshaw tied at 289. Crenshaw had a 69, Rogers 72.

Edwards started the day with a three-shot lead and retained sole control of the top spot all the way, despite a double bogey on the seventh. Clampett, who also had some troubles in the wind and missed 11 greens, closed to within one shot with a birdie on the 16th, but dropped two shots back when he bogeyed the 17th from a bunker.

That sent Edwards to the final hole with a two-shot lead. He needed it. He drove into a fairway bunker, hit the lip coming out, reached the green in three and had to make a 3-foot second putt for the bogey that won it.

"I just couldn't catch him," Clampett said. "It was all there. I seemed to have position all day. But I just couldn't catch him."

Edwards said a new, more casual approach to the game was a key for him.

"In my desire to improve and do well, I've made it difficult for myself," he said. "I tried to take a more happy-go-lucky, couldn't-care-less attitude, just go out and play and not be concerned with how many over or how many under I was."

"I'm a good player. I have a good record. I've worked hard on my game. I can do well in every part of the game — if I let my ability come out. In the past I've made it difficult for myself."

Earnhardt Captures Rebel 500

DARLINGTON, S.C. (AP) — Stock car driver Cale Yarborough says that sometimes a 500-mile race just isn't long enough, but Dale Earnhardt wouldn't have wanted it to be any longer.

According to the Yarborough, things might have been different in Sunday's Rebel 500 NAS-CAR Grand National race at Darlington International Raceway if he'd just had "another few yards."

For the last 36 laps of the 367-lap event, Yarborough waged a bumper-to-bumper battle with Earnhardt. But despite Yarborough's final charge at the finish line, Earnhardt, of Kannapolis, N.C., said he knew he had won when, "I couldn't see him out my left window."

"Dale was tough," Yarborough said. "He drove a real good race and deserved to win."

It was Earnhardt's first Grand National victory in 40 outings dating back to the (Please turn to page 10)

Baseball Vets Out To Attain Lifetime Marks

By The Associated Press
The 1982 baseball season is underway, with games scheduled in Baltimore and Cincinnati, and for a number of veterans, it marks the resumption of the chase toward impressive career goals.

Before the last out is recorded sometime in October, Pete Rose, Gaylord Perry, Nolan Ryan, Carl Yastrzemski and a host of others could attain significant lifetime achievements.

Philadelphia's Rose, who will celebrate his 41st birthday on April 14, goes into the season with 3,697 career hits. He is 74 away from Hank Aaron's total of 3,771, second on the all-time list behind the legendary Ty Cobb. A year ago, Rose opened the season 74 hits short of Stan Musial's National League record, a mark he tied in June and burst past in August. He is now 495 hits away from Cobb's career total of 4,191 and is determined to reach that mark before he leaves baseball.

Rose can make progress in three other categories as well. With 11,910 at bats, he needs 454 to tie Aaron's all-time record of 12,364. He has averaged 640 at bats a year throughout his career, so the mark seems entirely within reach. He also needs 55 games to tie Willie Mays for fifth place on the all-time games played list at 2,992, and 34 runs scored to tie Musial's fifth-place total of 1,949.

Perry, who's 43 now, signed a free-agent contract with the Seattle Mariners and gets a chance to reach the 300-victory plateau, a milestone last accomplished in 1963 by Hall of Famer Early Wynn.

The veteran right-hander, who could be called the ancient Mariner, needs three victories for 300 and can also move closer to Walter Johnson's all-time strikeout record of 3,508. Perry goes into 1982 with 3,336 strikeouts, second on the all-time list and 172 short of Johnson's record. But other pitchers could get there first.

The main threat would seem to be Ryan, who needs 259 strikeouts to reach Johnson. That is a total the flame-throwing Houston pitcher has surpassed in six different seasons in his brilliant career.

Ferguson Jenkins, signed to a free agent contract by the Chicago Cubs, needs just 38 strikeouts to become the seventh pitcher in history to reach 3,000 for his career. Two of those who got there before him, Steve Carlton of Philadelphia and Cincinnati's Tom Seaver, will seek to add to their totals as they continue their own pursuit of Johnson's record. Carlton enters the season with 3,148 strikeouts and Seaver with 3,075.

Jenkins (264), Carlton (262), Seaver (259) and Baltimore's Jim Palmer (248) are bunched in career wins, and all could make inroads on the journey to 300. Perry is almost certain to get there first, though.

When St. Louis opens its season Tuesday night in Houston, it will mark the 24th opening day for Cardinal pitcher Jim Kaat. No other hurler has lasted that long in the majors. Kaat, who's also 43, has 278 victories, second most for any active pitcher.

Perry and Kaat share the senior citizen role with Boston's Carl Yastrzemski, who's also 43. Yaz is starting his 22nd season with the Red Sox, one short of Brooks Robinson's record for years spent with one club. His next home run will be the 427th of his career, breaking a 16th-place tie with Billy Williams. With 600 doubles, he is three away from Paul Waner's ninth-place total of 603 and 24 short of Aaron's eighth-place total of 624.

Yaz needs 15 runs scored to match Honus Wagner's 15th-place total of 1,740 and 16 runs batted in to reach Wagner's 12th-place total of 1,732. With 3,192 hits, Yastrzemski is 59 away from Nap Lajoie's ninth-place total of 3,251 and 91 short of Mays' eighth-place total of 3,283. He needs 63 singles to tie Frankie Frisch for 15th place on that list with 2,171 and 280 at-bats to reach Cobb's third-place total of 11,429.

For the vets with milestones on their minds, the winter's wait is over and now they can resume their chase against the record book and the legends of their sport — America's summer game.

Kaat To Break Longevity Mark Tuesday Night

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

Baseball season opens should be old hat to 43-year-old Jim Kaat of the St. Louis Cardinals — Tuesday marks his 24th — but they're not. For him, it's like another Christmas to a kid, a new package to open.

"I don't remember anything sensational or traumatic especially," says the big, persevering left-hander. "But they're all different and it's always exciting for me to start a new season."

When the Cardinals take the field against Houston in a night game in the Astrodome, Jim Kaat's name automatically will go into the record books — the pitcher with the most years of service in the major leagues.

For this mark, he doesn't have to start, as he won't. All that's necessary is that he be on the roster — as he is — to pass Early Wynn as the all-time longevity king of baseball's major league pitchers. He was tied at 23 seasons after 1981.

Kaat's definition of excitement and trauma must be different than that of most people.

He certainly was skirting the fringe of those sensations in his first opener in Washington 22 years ago when President Eisenhower shared the limelight with Ted Williams and a vicious wind. And then there was five years later when, because of a Minnesota flood, he had to be helicoptered to the stadium to face the New York Yankees.

"Actually, I had been brought up to the Senators from Chattanooga in 1959, but my first opener was in 1960," he recalled.

"The game was played in the old Griffith Stadium. The wind was blowing a gale from the outfield toward home plate. I remember some of the guys remarking, 'Well, there won't be any home runs today.'

"Then, the first time up, Williams catches a pitch on the nose and sends it over dead center field — 421 feet — for a three-run homer."

There was something else remembered about the game, a treasured ritual that has been lost to the national pastime since the franchise was moved out of the nation's capital.

"President Eisenhower was sitting in a field side box," the veteran pitcher recalled. "He threw out the first ball. There was always something magnetic about having the President at a ball game. It made the game feel like a command performance."

"The Presidents, in those days, were almost always at the openers. It was a longtime tradition. Maybe it was a politic thing to do. But President Nixon came because he loved baseball. He was a real fan."

From Washington, Kaat went to Minnesota where he played 13 years before doing a cook's tour — the Chicago White Sox, Philadelphia Phillies, New York Yankees and finally the Cardinals, who bought his contract from the Yankees in April 1980.

What Kaat remembers most about his years with Minnesota were the chilling temperatures when the season began.

"Sometimes we played in the snow," he said. "I remember we had to postpone games — not because of rain, but because of snow and ice."

This wasn't the problem when Kaat was designated to open the 1965 season in Minnesota's Metropolitan Stadium against the Yankees.

SEC Downs ACC In Shootout, 95-84

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — When Vanderbilt coach C.M. Newton took the helm of the Southeastern Conference team in the Southern Shootout college basketball competition, he told the squad one thing, "I don't want to be 0-2 in coaching for this game."

And he's not. The SEC team down the Atlantic Coast Conference squad 95-84 Sunday.

Akers Team Wins Title

GRIFTON — Jim and Karen Akers defeated Larry Walker and Jean Coleman 6-3, 7-5 to win the Mized Doubles Championship at the second annual Grifton Shad Festival tennis tournament this past weekend.

In consolation finals results, Marsha Tart and Pauline Bearden defeated Cora Darrah and Ginger Watkins 7-6, 6-3 in the women's open division and Tom Sayetta and Al King downed Mike Smith and Eddie Gwaltney 6-3, 6-3 in the men's 35 and over division.

Other winners: Men's open — Steve and Larry Walker; Men's open consolation — Brian Ross and Page Davis; Men's 35 & over — Eric Kelder and Sam Fulmer; Women's Open — Joan Smith and Cathy Helmer; Mixed doubles consolation — Steve and Terry Walker.

"I had told our players that I didn't want to be 0-2 in coaching for this game," said Newton, who coached the first Shootout five years ago.

"I was very pleased with the way our team played. A lot of times in these all-star games the players tend to be selfish, but this group played very well together."

While Wake Forest's Mike Helms led all scorers with 26 points, his effort wasn't enough against the sharp shooting of Vanderbilt's Willie "Hutch" Jones with 21 and Alabama's Eddie Phillips' 20 points.

"I thought we played hard," said Jones, a 6-foot-8 senior center who grappled seven rebounds. "The ACC team was a good reflection of their conference — strong and powerful."

ACC coach Carl Tacy of Wake Forest credited the SEC's quickness for the win.

"They were just a little too much for us today," Tacy said.

"Their quickness hurt us." Alabama's Phillip Lockett grabbed a game-high nine rebounds and chipped in 11 points for the SEC.

Umps, League Near Agreement

NEW YORK (AP) — Major League baseball, hit by an umpires' strike three years ago, apparently will not undergo such upheaval in 1982.

The Major League Umpires Association and presidents Lee MacPhail of the American League and Chub Feeney of the National League were meeting in the predawn hours today, trying to agree on a new contract.

Richie Phillips, counsel to the umpires, said the meeting began at 6 p.m. Sunday. "We're still fighting over some basic concepts," he said during a midnight break in the negotiations. But he said both sides were close to an agreement and it seemed unlikely that there would be any disruption to the start of the 1982 season.

Phillips also had scheduled a news conference today "to announce the situation" in terms of the negotiations.

Salaries, improved pensions and the policy of rotating assignments for the playoffs and World Series were the basic issues. Some owners feel baseball should assign its best umpires to the most important games, rather than deciding the assignments by rotation.

The agreement expired at the end of the strike-marred 1981 season. Umpires were paid for the time the players were out.

The umpires staged a seven-week strike of their own in 1979. The leagues hired substitute umpires that year, promoting some from the minors and filling in with college and semipro umpires.

That strike ended May 18 with a three-year contract that provided significant gains in salaries, expense allowances and permitted umpires to take in-season vacations.

The umpires worked exhibition games during the just-concluded spring training. In 1979, umpires sat out spring training and picketed ballparks on opening day.

Atlanta Journal 500 in 1980. It was his first ever in the Rebel 500 and earned him $31,450. His average speed was 123.554 mph.

"Everybody kept saying it was a matter of time," Earnhardt said afterward. "But this one was a long time in coming."

Finishing behind Earnhardt and Yarborough in the lead lap were Bill Elliott and Benny Parsons.

One lap back, Tim Richmond finished in fifth and Terry Labonte was sixth.

Earnhardt, the lap leader of the six-race-old season, repeated that performance Sunday by holding down the front position ten times for a total of 182 passes around the track.

"The traffic was pretty hard today," Earnhardt said. "I think that made the big difference — I didn't run into too much traffic."

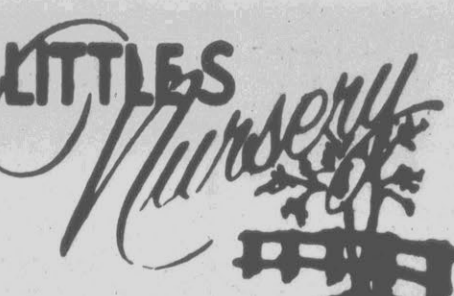

The latest Rebel 500 winner reflected that because of the tough competition. "It's never easy to win a Grand National race."

Perhaps no one driving Sunday could have agreed more than Buddy Baker and Darrell Waltrip.

Baker started first in the race from the pole position, but ended up finishing last when a broken flywheel forced him out of the race on the third lap.

Celtics Three Victories From Best Record In NBA

By The Associated Press
For the Boston Celtics, good things come in threes. They're on a three-game winning streak and three more victories will guarantee them the best record in the National Basketball Association this season.

They squeezed past Chicago 114-112 Sunday, leaving the Bulls one loss away from playoff elimination.

And despite the closeness of the score, Larry Bird said there was no doubt in his mind that the Celtics had a lock on the game — especially after grabbing the rebound with three seconds remaining that sealed the victory.

"They still have to get that last shot to beat you. We had control of the game the whole way," he said. Bird had 29 points, including eight of Boston's final 16 points. When Ricky Sobers intentionally missed a free throw, hoping the Bulls would get the rebound and put in the tying basket, Bird got it instead.

"They had many opportunities to tie the score but they never had the opportunity to go ahead," said Bird, "and that's the big deal out there."

"It's just a matter of professional pride for us," said Artis Gilmore of the Bulls. "We wanted to go out there and show that pride, and we did."

Rockets 95, Spurs 93
Houston pulled within a game of the first-place Spurs in the Midwest Division as Mike Dunleavy sank a pair of three-point baskets in the closing minutes to help the Rockets wipe out a 14-point deficit.

His second one, with 41 seconds remaining, tied it 93-93, then Robert Reid sank a jumper from the corner with eight seconds to play. Mark Olberding's three-point shot at the buzzer hit the rim and bounced away. Houston scored 18 of the game's final 24 points.

Sonics 140, Nuggets 116
The Nuggets, who had an opportunity to slip past San Antonio and into first place, remained instead one-half game off the pace as they had their 12-game winning streak snapped.

"We were due for one like this," said Denver Coach Doug

Moe. "We are not big and physical and you cannot expect us to be emotionally up for every game."

Lakers 129, Blazers 111
Los Angeles retained its 2½-game lead over Seattle in the Pacific Division as Jamaal Wilkes scored 32 points for the Lakers. "He was awesome, in the first half especially (when he scored 22 points)," said Lakers Coach Pat Riley. "We design a lot of plays around him."

Portland, falling to .500, pulled within three points midway in the third period, then LA outscored the Trail Blazers 13-3 in the next four minutes to put the game away.

Bucks 129, Pacers 115
Marques Johnson, who had played subpar ball much of the season until putting it all together five games ago — the Bucks have won all five — hit 10 of their first 11 shots and wound up with 28 points against Indiana.

"Yeah, I'd have to say I'm finally back," Johnson said. "This week, anyway ... Basketball finally is fun again after a couple of months of it being hard work."

Nets 119, Cavaliers 109
Ray Williams had 29 points and Buck Williams 21 as the Nets strengthened their grip on a playoff berth with their fourth consecutive victory. The Cavaliers have lost 11 in a row.

New Jersey used a 13-point burst to put things away, breaking away from an 81-81 tie late in the third period. Scott Wedman had 29 points for the Cavaliers.

Suns 104, Kings 95
Phoenix put together a 10-point string midway in the second period en route to a 58-47 halftime lead. And after the Kings cut the margin to four points in the third quarter, the Suns outscored them 15-6 to go up 81-68 starting the final period.

76ers 127, Knicks 106
New York stayed close to the 76ers until the early stages of the third period, when Philadelphia ran off 13 consecutive points for an 86-69 lead. The setback extended the Knicks' losing streak on the road to 10 games.

7-3, and followed that with a 4-2 come-from-behind victory over UNCC to set up the final battle for the title.

In the win over the Lady Wolfpack, ECU scored three runs in the first to take a lead it never lost. NCSU closed to within one, 3-2, with two runs in the top of the third, but the Lady Pirates countered with three runs in the bottom of the inning to all but seal the win.

Williams, Shepard and Davis were all two for three for ECU. Shepard had a home run and Williams a triple.

The win set up the second of three games against UNCC. The Lady Forty Nines jumped out to a 2-0 lead in the first inning, but ECU tied the game with two runs in the bottom of the inning and then took the lead for good with two runs in the third.

Neither team scored again. The win left both teams with one loss and forced the final game.

Shepard, Brown and Jolanda Clayton were all two for three for ECU. Shepard and Brown both had doubles and Brown had two RBI.

ECU travels to Campbell Tuesday.

Tidrow. "But I'm impressed with what (General Manager) Dallas Green has done in a short time. It's unbelievable."

"The front office here before, their priorities were all wrong. But now, the people upstairs know what they're doing. And more importantly, the people downstairs (the players) know it."

The Reds feature a new outfield, a new catcher and Johnny Bench at third base in their 1982 starting lineup. Soto, a hard-throwing right hander, will start in place of Tom Seaver, who was hindered during the spring by a pulled thigh muscle and a respiratory infection.

"You have to be excited about the first game," Soto said. "I hope to pitch seven strong innings."

An unchanging feature will be the fickle opening day weather. The National Weather Service predicted a windy and cold day, with rain or snow and temperatures in the mid-to upper 30s at game time.

"The weather will be not unlike past opening days," said weather specialist Jerry Lindsey. "That's what we're calling for."

O's Battle Royals...

Kansas City, which won the second half of the 1981 split season and then lost in the Western Division playoffs to Oakland, started eight players who started the opener of the 1980 World Series.

The only newcomer for the Royals was right fielder Jerry Martin, who was acquired in an off-season trade with the Philadelphia Phillies.

Baltimore has won 13 of their last 16 opening day games, home or away, and are 12-3 in home openers since 1967.

"Every opening day is special. This one is no different than any other year," said Weaver, who has announced his intentions to retire at the end of the 1982 season.

"You're always anxious on opening day to see what you've got," Weaver said, "to make a good impression on the people and to get one in the 'win' column."

South African Gets $45,000 Payday

Little Rallies To Win Dinah Shore

RANCHO MIRAGE, Calif. (AP) — Sally Little, a native of South Africa, says she wants to become an American citizen "because I make my living here and I feel I should be part of it."

Little has indeed made quite a living in her 11 years on the Ladies Professional Golf Association tour since coming to the United States from Capetown.

On Sunday, she collected $45,000 for four days of work in the richest women's tournament as she rallied to win the $310,000 Nabisco-Dinah Shore.

Afterward, an elated Little spoke of her desire to become a U.S. citizen. She said she had filed all the necessary papers and was awaiting word on her application.

"I don't ever see myself going back to South Africa to live," she said.

The 30-year-old Little shot a tournament record-tying 8-under-par 64 Sunday to make up a five-shot deficit and win the Dinah Shore by three strokes over third-round leader Hollis Stacy and Sandra Haynie.

Little finished the 72-hole event at 10-under-par 278 with rounds of 76-67-71-64 over the 6,255-yard, par 36-36-72 Mission Hills Country Club course.

She began the final day in a fourth-place tie, five shots behind Stacy and one behind Jan Stephenson and JoAnne Carner. Stacy had an unusual closing round, paring every hole for a 72. Haynie, in her 22nd year on the LPGA circuit, fired a 65 to tie for second.

Carner, who turned 43 Sunday but didn't get the birthday victory she wanted, shot a 74 to finish nine strokes behind Little. Stephenson had a 75.

Little's 64, which included four birdies on each nine and no bogeys, tied the tournament record set by Lopez-Melton in the 1981 event.

Little caught Stacy with a birdie on the 10th hole, then took command with another

FIRE SCENE — Firemen battle a blaze at the Filene Center of the Wolf Trap Farm Park last night in Vienna, Va. The 11-year-old wood building

Fire At Wolf Trap Destroys Big Pavilion; $6 million In Damages

VIENNA, Va. (AP) — A four-alarm fire, whipped by high winds, destroyed the Filene Center at Wolf Trap Farm Park near here Sunday night, causing more than $6 million damage, authorities said.

The blaze, which was spotted by a U.S. Park Police officer on patrol, broke out about 9:45 p.m. in the 11-year-old building and raged out of control for more than two hours before it was contained.

Winds gusting up to 32 mph spread the fire to parts of a seven-acre wooded area, prompting officials to advise nearby residents to hose down their lawns.

At the height of the blaze, more than 150 firefighters were on the scene as a Park Police helicopter surveyed the area from overhead.

One firefighter suffered a knee injury, but no one else was hurt, authorities said. The cause of the fire is under investigation.

Wolf Trap, the only national park for the performing arts, is located in northern Virginia about 15 miles from Washington, D.C. It is owned by the U.S. Park Service.

Glenn Gaines, a Fairfax County fire chief, said the blaze started in the stage area of the Filene Center, an outdoor theater open mostly in the summer months.

Some of the world's best-known performers, symphonies and opera companies have appeared at the center, a popular entertainment facility for Washington area residents.

"We were able to save the rear orchestra seats and the deck, but the stage and two-thirds of the roof were destroyed," Gaines said.

Damage to the theater, a three-sided steel frame structure laminated in cedar has housed symphony orchestras, opera companies and local events. The property is run by the U.S. Park Service. (AP Laserphoto)

Actor Warren Oates Is Dead

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Warren Oates, who played a boozing, brawling bad guy in scores of television and film roles, has died of an apparent heart attack at the age of 52.

Oates, whose most recent appearance was in "The Border" with Jack Nicholson, died Saturday afternoon after attempts to revive him failed, said Phillip Schwartzberg of the Los Angeles County Coroner's office.

Oates was at his Hollywood Hills home with his wife, Judith, when the attack occurred. His wife told authorities he had complained recently of chest pains and breathing difficulties.

Oates' first role was in the television series "Have Gun, Will Travel." Other major appearances included a slovenly police officer who was a Peeping Tom in the 1967 movie "In the Heat of the Night."

He was in "The Wild Punch" in 1969, "Two Lane Blacktop" and "The Hired Hand" in 1971, "Badlands" in 1973 and "The Border" this year.

He often was cast as the villain, rather than the lead, but that didn't bother him, he once said.

"I'm not angry not being a leading man," he told an interviewer. "Whatever they give me to do, I can do."

"When I came out here from New York, I played Westerns because that's what was going on. There were 40 series, and I went from one to the other ... I started out playing the third bad guy on a horse and worked my way up to No. 1 bad guy," he said.

Oates said his evil characters retained separate identities.

"Even when I did the heavies I stayed away from stereotypes," he said in a 1980 interview.

Oates was a rodeo rider in the television series "Stoney Burke," made in the early 1960s. In 1980, he appeared with Kristy McNichol and Eileen Brennan in the television movie "My Old Man."

He made several television pilots, including "True Grit" and "The African Queen," in which he starred with Mariette Hartley. Neither sold, but a movie pilot, "And Baby Makes Six," won high ratings.

Oates was born in a poor coal mining area in Depoy, Ky., and moved with his family to Louisville when he was 13. Five years later, he joined the Marines to "stay out of jail" and served there as an airplane mechanic for two years.

He attended the University of Louisville, where he enrolled in a drama class.

WARREN OATES

"They put me in a play and it opened a new world for me," he said. "After that, I didn't care about much else."

Later he went to New York City to study acting and landed roles in "The Kraft Theater," "Studio One" and the "Philco Playhouse" while staying financially afloat with jobs as a dishwasher, short-order cook and hat check boy at the "21" club. He moved to Hollywood in the 1950s.

Oates had some personal problems along the way. A bout with liquor continued until an episode of hepatitis ended his drinking.

He and his first wife, Terry Farmer, were divorced in 1969.

Three New Shows Make Debut On TV Tonight

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — ABC unveils tonight what may be television's most mindless program. NBC offers Gary Coleman as an angel in a movie lighter than air. And CBS has the first episodes of two situation comedies worth second looks.

In "We Dare You" on ABC, Jon Bauman (Bowser from "Sha Na Na") and Terry McGovern ("Sesame Street") dare people to play practical jokes on friends, relatives and strangers.

A musical conductor is dared to lure his singers into a trap of water sprinklers. "They dared me to do it, and I did it," he says with an air of accomplishment. But what was the big dare? He stayed dry.

The show is an example of television's reality craze gone crazy, taking the worst elements of " Candid Camera" and "The Gong Show" and proving that one of the powers of TV is its ability to inspire people to do almost anything for a moment of fame.

The biggest dare might be watching this.

On a higher plane is CBS' "Report to Murphy" and "Making the Grade." During their six-week runs, CBS will decide whether to include the programs in the network's fall schedule.

"Report to Murphy," the stronger of the two, has an agreeable charm, largely on the strength of Michael Keaton, who plays the compassionate, easy-going parole officer. Murphy is a soft touch, which gets him into some funny situations and causes friction with the by-the-book boys.

"Psychology is for human beings. These guys are meat," says the old-school parole officer who carries a gun and lampoons Murphy for his sentimentality and high regard for lowlifes.

Beyond the job, Murphy has a self-deprecating manner and is just nice to be around. He's one of those guys who doesn't seem to have a first name, sort of like Pele, Charo or Secretariat. Even his girl friend, on their first date, calls him Murphy.

"Making the Grade" is another back-to-school comedy. It's a little more serious than "Welcome Back Kotter," but not as earnest as "Room 222."

James Naughton plays Harry Barnes, a sympathetic dean of boys in a tough St. Louis school. Barnes' easy manner and wry wit better enable him to handle students in the space age. It's not an easy job. "Teaching has become a job of very few, very small victories," he says, explaining why he works so hard with the kids who can be helped.

There's nothing distinctive about the rest of the cast, which includes the usual combination of teachers who are cynical and altruistic, lazy and dedicated, female and female-chasing.

"The Kid With the Broken Halo" on NBC stars Coleman as a wayward angel who gets a chance to bring happiness to three families on Earth. Kids like Coleman, and this is strictly for kids, even though the cast also includes June Allyson, Ray Walston, Robert Guillaume, Mason Adams and Georg Stanford Brown.

It's a terminally sweet story designed to teach youngsters that life should be fun, people need other people, and adults have to grow up some time. The trouble is humans don't learn these lessons for themselves. The extra-terrestrial Coleman makes it all happen.

Two Collisions Are Reported

An estimated $5,500 property damage resulted from two traffic collisions investigated by Greenville police Saturday.

Heaviest damage, according to officers, resulted from a 5:04 p.m. mishap at the intersection of Albemarle Avenue and South Alley Street, involving cars driven by Joe Frank Sparkman and Charlie Ray Edwards, both of Greenville.

Damage from the mishap was listed at $1,500 to the Sparkman car and $2,000 to the Edwards vehicle.

Timmie Ray Pittman of Route 1, Winterville, was charged with driving under the influence following investigation of a 10 p.m. collision at the intersection of the Stantonsburg Road and Moye Boulevard.

Police said the Pittman car collided with a utility pole, causing $1,500 damage to the car and $500 damage to the pole.

FOCUS

Play Ball!

The Cincinnati Reds are hosting the Chicago Cubs today in the 1982 season opener at Riverfront Stadium. The oldest professional team in baseball, Cincinnati began paying its players back in 1869. Ironically, the Reds will be starting this season without last year's entire starting outfield — because the club couldn't pay them enough. George Foster, Ken Griffey and Dave Collins have all headed East where they are getting higher salaries. With options and bonuses, the trio could earn up to $27 million collectively. Collins and Griffey will be in Yankee pinstripes this season, while Foster — a member of the elite $2 million a year club — will be across town at Shea Stadium, giving the Mets a needed boost.

DO YOU KNOW — What team is former Cincinnati Reds star, Pete Rose, now playing for?

FRIDAY'S ANSWER — Jesse James' brother was Frank James.

The bidding has proceeded:
North East South
1 ♠ 2 ♣ ?
What action do you take?
A.—You could easily have a game; however, the hand could just as well be a total misfit. What you do know is that you are looking at three sure defensive tricks and a singleton in partner's suit. A penalty double could bring in a bonanza if partner has the right hand, but if partner's hand is unsuitable for defending a low-level contract, you should have no difficulty finding your best spot.

Q2.—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠72 ♥KQ1065 ♦A83 ♣762
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
Pass Pass 1 ♠ Pass
1 ♥ Pass 1 NT Pass ?
What action do you take?
A.—Partner has a minimum opening bid and you have a balanced 9 points. You have no reason to suppose that you have a better contract than one no trump. A bid of two hearts tends to show a six-card suit and an unbalanced hand. Pass.

Q3.—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠A872 ♥AK652 ♦J5 ♣83
The bidding has proceeded:
West North East South
1 ♠ Pass 2 ♣ ?
What action do you take?
A.—There is nothing you can do with any degree of safety. Neither East nor West has limited his hand, so it is quite possible that your partner has a bust, in which case you might be soundly thrashed at an eight-trick contract. Yet you have sufficient defensive values to suggest that your opponents might have difficulty in fulfilling any game contract. Take the prudent course. Pass.

The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♠ Pass 1 ♠ Pass
2 ♣ Pass 2 NT Pass ?
What do you bid now?
A.—Naturally, you intend getting to game, but because of your singleton spade, you should not bid three no trump. Partner has not yet denied holding three hearts, and you should give him the chance of playing in a suit contract in case his spade stopper is not all that secure. Bid three diamonds. That leaves all the options open.

Q5.—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠6 ♥KJ97 ♦KQ10 ♣AKJ83
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♠ Pass 1 ♥ Pass ?
What do you bid now?
A.—Even if partner's response was shaded, you want to be in game — your hand is worth 20 points in support of hearts. Bid four hearts. Bear in mind that a jump to three hearts, while highly encouraging, would not be forcing, and partner might pass with many hands that would easily produce

Democratic Delegates Assail Reagan Policies

By The Associated Press

Democrats in the 6th Congressional District rallied around an economic challenge to the Reagan administration while Democrats at conventions in Wake and Orange counties urged the president to freeze the nuclear arms race.

Former Guilford County Democratic Party chairman Robin Britt announced Saturday that he would challenge U.S. Rep. Eugene Johnston this fall in the newly drawn 6th District.

Britt, a Greensboro tax lawyer, told Democrats from Guilford, Alamance and Davidson counties that Republicans in Washington had abandoned the balanced budget goal while cutting social programs and boosting the defense budget.

The federal deficit could reach $183 billion in 1983 and the nation's unemployment rate has already reached 9 percent, Britt said, attacking Johnston for supporting Reagan's economic program.

Britt called for a "reasonable, moderate approach" to solving the country's economic problems.

"It's the difference between a meat cleaver and a scalpel as a tool to get the federal government back on the road to fiscal responsibility," he said.

"What the administration and the Republican incumbent must realize is that we must have the same vision and make the same capital investments in our society to insure our future," he said.

Meanwhile, Wake County Democrats resolved Saturday to urge Congress and the president to stop "development, testing and manufacture" of nuclear weapons and to enter into "good faith" negotiations with the Soviet Union.

"Let's move toward sanity — let's don't destroy ourselves," said Sandra P. Babb, a delegate from Raleigh's 16th precinct.

Opponents to the freeze were outvoted by a 3 to 1 margin, but they argued strongly against the measure.

"You are asking the United States to relegate itself to a second-class position," said Tonia L. Young of Holly Springs precinct.

Delegates to the Orange County convention adopted a similar resolution and both county conventions backed an end to military aid to El Salvador.

Orange County delegates also called for the abandonment of the planned Shearon Harris nuclear plant, citing Carolina Power & Light Co.'s "dismal record of operation of nuclear power plants."

The adopted resolutions probably will be presented at the party's district and state conventions, party officials said. Charles R. Poole, chairman of the Wake Dem-

Pedestrian Hurt In Car Accident

A pedestrian was injured and an estimated 1,750 property damage reported in two traffic collisions investigated by Greenville police Sunday.

Officers said cars driven by Laurie Lucas of 138 East Longmeadow Road and Jess Peck Miller of Hampton, Va., collided about 2:45 a.m. at the intersection of Evans and Tenth Streets, causing $250 damage to the Lucas car and $1,500 damage to the Miller vehicle.

Police said Lent Carr, 38 of 1611 Hopkins Drive was injured when he walked into the side of a car driven by Willie Ray Jones of Syracuse, N.Y., about 4:40 p.m. on Hopkins Drive, 275 feet south of the 16th Street intersection.

No damage resulted to the vehicle, investigators noted.

Wake and Orange county delegates also adopted resolutions opposing the extension of North Carolina General Assembly terms from two years to four years.

Democrats in both counties passed resolutions favoring state funding of abortions for the poor and seeking an extension of the 1965 Voting Right Act.

Orange County delegates also voted to support the Internal Revenue Service's policy of denying tax-exempt status to schools and colleges that practice racial discrimination.
