

PCC Asks Help In Securing More Space

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

The Board of County Commissioners, at a preliminary budget workshop session Wednesday, was asked by Pitt Community College for help in securing a site for the school's nursing education program.

Sen. Vernon White, a member of the college's board of trustees and chairman of its finance committee, told commissioners, "We have a major problem we want to place our emphasis on... space."

White told the board there is a building available for "purchase or rental," adding that "our major problem right now is in our nursing area." He noted that if something isn't done, PCC may lose accreditation for the nursing program because there are too many students for the space presently available.

Saying there are now 175 students in the nursing curriculum, White suggested that if more space is not provided, the program might have to be cut back to 75 students. He added that the school has between 500 and 600 applications for entrance into the nursing program.

"Our number one priority," White continued, is the lease, purchase, or lease-purchase of the 19,000-square-foot former Greenville Home Decorating Center building across N.C. 11 from the PCC campus.

According to White, the facility can be purchased for $550,000 or rented for $100,000 per year.

PCC President William Fulford, who said the school now has 2,700 students enrolled, told commissioners, "We have one of the finest community colleges in the state of North Carolina." He said PCC is "number two" in the state in "space utilization."

With only 800 to 900 square feet allocated for the nursing program now, Fulford said additional space is urgently needed.

PCC board Chairman Clifton Everett urged commissioners to aid the community college in acquiring the facility, which includes 70,000 square feet of land, and paved parking for 95 vehicles.

Others speaking in support of the PCC nursing program and the need for additional space included Pitt County Memorial Hospital's director, Jack Richardson, the head of nursing at the medical center, and Harry Leslie, chairman of the PCMH Board of Trustees.

Other major budget requests heard by commissioners Wednesday came from Sheppard Memorial Library, the county's data processing department and the fire marshal's office.

Library officials asked the board to fund one-third of the $402,532 in local money needed to finance a $499,206 budget for fiscal 1982-83. The $134,177 from the county would be matched with $286,355 from the city of Greenville, to provide a budget 1.2 percent more than the $493,521 allocated for the present fiscal year.

Gene Windham, manager of the county's data processing center, asked commissioners for $577,474 for 1982-83, some $65,749 more than the $511,725 budgeted to fund the current fiscal year operations.

Windham told the board that the additional funds are needed to provide new computer service to several county departments including health, social services, mental health, and the county and city school systems.

In presenting his proposed budget, Fire Marshal Bobby Joyner told the board that his requests are essentially the same as last year for both fire and rescue operations.

However, Joyner urged commissioners to support the new Eastern Pines Rescue Squad in any way possible.

Glenn Hardee, spokesman for the Eastern Pines group, told commissioners that squad members have completed an emergency medical technician course which was started last August and ordered a new $25,975 truck Tuesday, which should be delivered within four to six weeks.

Howell Said Choice For Chancellor

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

Informed sources said today that University of North Carolina President William Friday will nominate Dr. John Howell as the new chancellor of East Carolina University at a meeting of the UNC Board of Governors Friday.

Other sources said Howell's election to the post by the board is certain.

Howell, who has been acting chancellor at ECU since January, is one of three men selected as final candidates for the post by a 15-member chancellor selection committee last month. The other men included Elon College President Fred Young and University of West Florida President James Robinson.

The ECU Board of Trustees, acting on the recommendation of the selection committee, approved the list of three names and forwarded them to Friday for his consideration.

The code under which the Board of Governors operates calls for the board to "elect, on nomination of the president," the chancellor of each of the UNC member institutions. It also provides that the president's nomination shall be made from a list of no less than two names recommended by the board of trustees of the institution.

The search for a new chancellor began last year after former Chancellor Thomas Brewer resigned Sept. 9.

The list of potential candidates for the post originally contained 148 names.

Howell, 60, is a native of Five Points, Ala. He received undergraduate and master's degrees from the University of Alabama in 1948 and 1949, and a Ph.D. in political science from Duke University in 1954.

He taught at the University of Idaho, Randolph-Macon Woman's College, Duke University, Sweet Briar College and Memphis State University before coming to ECU in 1957 as an associate professor.

During his tenure at East Carolina, Howell has served as chairman of the department of political science, dean of the college of arts and sciences, dean of the graduate school, and provost and vice chancellor for academic affairs.

He gave up the vice chancellor's post in 1979 after six years to return to the classroom.

Med Facility

The city has issued a $663,000 building permit to J. H. Hudson Inc. to construct a new medical facility for Dr. Steven M. White, a local ophthalmologist.

The facility, involving approximately 12,000 square feet, will be located at 301 Bowman Gray Drive across from the new surgical unit under construction off Stantonsburg Road.

A spokesman for White said that he hopes to occupy the new one-story building by Sept. 18.

The spokesman said the physician has outgrown his present facilities in Doctors Park and building codes in the development do not allow for additions to be made to the existing structure. The availability of the surgical unit was also cited as a factor in selecting the new site.

Spotted Fever Kills Pitt Man

A Route 1, Winterville, man died in Pitt County Memorial Hospital Wednesday from Rocky Mountain Spotted Fever.

A hospital spokesman said this morning that Billy Dean Combs, 36, came to the hospital emergency room May 3 complaining of chills, headache and high fever, and was admitted for treatment. The spokesman noted that Combs told attendants that the symptoms began the day before.

Health Department Director Robert Ehinger said the case is the first incidence of spotted fever on record so far this year in Pitt County.

Emphasizing that there is "no vaccine" available, Ehinger said the best way to prevent spotted fever is to "stay away from ticks" by avoiding areas such as pine forests, weeded areas, shrubbery and tall grass, where ticks may be found.

He suggested that if you have to frequent such areas, wear clothes that fit tightly around ankles, wrists and neck.

Dr. Ehinger also suggested that persons should inspect themselves for ticks frequently and remove them when found.

It takes "two to six hours" for a tick to inject the disease, Ehinger said.

If you find a tick on you, Ehinger said it should be removed by scraping the skin with a sharp blade to remove the head. "Don't pick it off with your fingers," he cautioned. Other methods that can be used, he said, are to place acetone or nail polish remover on the tick. Some people, he noted, use lighted cigarettes to remove ticks.

"It's a bad year for ticks," Ehinger said, with a number of cases of spotted fever already reported across the state. "Five percent of dog ticks may carry the disease... they're the ones we are concerned with," he emphasized.

Rocky Mountain spotted fever is more prevalent in Piedmont North Carolina, — where 80 percent of the cases are reported — than in the east, the physician noted. However, he warned local area residents to be on the lookout for ticks.

"If you become ill, see a doctor," he emphasized.

British Report Three Argentine Jets Down

LONDON (AP) — Two Argentine Skyhawk fighters were shot down, a third fighter crashed and a British warship was damaged slightly in Wednesday's battle off the Falkland Islands, the British Defense Ministry reported today.

On Wednesday, the ministry had said two of three Argentine Skyhawks were shot down by British Sea Wolf missiles when they attacked a British warship about 30 miles west of the disputed islands.

But ministry spokesman Ian McDonald said today a third Skyhawk was "seen to crash" during the engagement in the five-week dispute.

McDonald said there were no British casualties and the Royal Navy task force was continuing its patrols in the South Atlantic to keep Argentine planes from resupplying forces on the islands.

He said a British warship sustained "comparatively minor damage" which was being repaired. He would not elaborate.

The latest British announcement came hours after a London Broadcasting Corp., an all-news radio station in the British capital, reported two Argentine Skyhawks were downed and a British destroyer torpedoed in fighting Wednesday.

"One of Britain's warships in the South Atlantic, a type 22 frigate, is believed to have been hit but not badly damaged by a torpedo during the incident yesterday in which two Argentine jets were shot down," the radio said.

Britain is known to have two type 22 frigates, the Broadsword and Brilliant, in its Falklands task force.

Earlier, the British defense ministry reported one of its Sea King helicopters ditched in the sea, but said its four crewmen were rescued. The ministry said there was no evidence Argentine forces shot the aircraft down.

Argentina's account said two British frigates shelled Stanley, the Falklands capital, late Wednesday morning and Argentine planes attacked British frigates three hours later, causing "considerable damage to them," and Argentine shore personnel shot down the helicopter.

"As a result of these actions, two Argentine airplanes were downed," the communiqué said.

Neither the British nor the Argentines said anything about the Skyhawk pilots, and it was assumed they

Would-Be Assassin Is Captured As He Lunges At Pope John Paul II

By SAMUEL KOO
Associated Press Writer
LISBON, Portugal (AP)

The man in priest's robes who tried to kill Pope John Paul II lunged at the pontiff with an 18-inch bayonet with a sharpened 12.5-inch blade, police said today. The pope blessed both the bayonet and the attacker after the episode at the Shrine of Fatima, police sources said.

Police said the assailant identified himself as a priest and a disciple of traditionalist Archbishop Marcel Lefebvre, leader of a fundamentalist group opposed to Roman Catholic Church reforms imposed by the Vatican II conference. But the movement's headquarters in Geneva said the assailant constantly disagreed with Lefebvre and left the traditionalists two years ago.

Lisbon Police Inspector Daniel Polonio identified the assailant as Juan Fernandez Krohn, 32, a native of Madrid who had been living near Paris, and said he was charged with attempted homicide. Polonio told reporters Krohn's passport identified him as a "religious," a term generally used to describe clerics as well as seminarians.

Krohn was being interrogated by anti-terrorism investigators at police headquarters in Lisbon, 110 miles southwest of Fatima, and would be arraigned Friday morning, Polonio said. If convicted, he could be imprisoned for 15 to 20 years.

The inspector said Krohn, dressed in a clerical collar and robe, attacked the pontiff with a bayonet that goes with German Mauser rifles still used by Portuguese police.

Security guards overpowered the attacker when he lunged at the pope Wednesday night from about six yards away as the pontiff was approaching an altar erected on the steps of the basilica at the shrine to the Virgin Mary.

The pope escaped unhurt from the second attempt on his life, and went ahead with rites for a million pilgrims at the Shrine of Fatima.

Camilo Cibir, the head of Vatican security and one of the men who overpowered the assailant, called Krohn "a mad man," but said the pontiff was not disturbed by the incident.

A Vatican spokesman, the Rev. Romeo Panciroli, said it was only this morning that John Paul was "given the full story" about the incident.

The pope appeared slightly pale today when he met with Portugal's bishops and urged them to fight against the rising tide of divorce and agnosticism in this predominantly Roman Catholic country.

The attack Wednesday was on the eve of the first anniversary of the assassination attempt in St. Peter's Square.

Fees Policy Set By Recreation And Parks Body

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

A general fees and charges policy and an official name for the wilderness park north of the Tar River were among agenda items acted on Wednesday night by members of the Greenville Recreation and Parks Commission.

Commission members voted unanimously to adopt recommendations presented by the Fees and Charges Committee which has spent several weeks reviewing sources of income for the Greenville Recreation and Parks Department. The four recommendations adopted are:

•To charge a participation fee of at least $2 for all programs with the exception of those designed especially for the handicapped and for senior citizens, as well as exempting a few special one-time annual events such as the Easter Egg hunt and the Ice Cream Fling Bing, both for young children.

Director of Recreation Charles Vincent noted that already 75 to 80 percent of the programs and activities offered by the department carry a standard fee. Depending on the nature of the activity and whether the activity is instructed by a staff member or through employment of a contracted instructor, the fees range from $2 in activities such as participation in softball and volleyball to $48 for seven classes in basic horsemanship.

•Institute a charge to Greenville schools as of Sept. 1 for use of facilities that would result in increased cost in maintenance, utilities, labor and supplies due solely to school use. Department director Boyd Lee explained to commissioners such a charge would apply only in specific instances of school use not directly tied in to general seasonal use of facilities. An example he cited is the cost of lining the field, providing lighting and clean-up services at Guy Smith Stadium for the period a school team uses the field prior to regular public use of the field. Any charge in such instances would be limited to actual costs.

Lee emphasized that currently there is an excellent relationship between the department and the city schools, with a policy in effect of "trade off" in facilities use. "We don't want to be rigid in a charge policy," Lee commented. "It's only in instances like use of Guy Smith where there is no trade-off possible that we need to charge an amount sufficient to cover

Miss Kornegay Weds Sunday Afternoon

KINSTON — The marriage ceremony of Glenda Susan Kornegay and Tony Dean Alcock took place Sunday at 3 p.m. in the Queen Street United Methodist Church. The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Ray K. Hodge.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Stokes Kornegay of Kinston. The bride was given in marriage by her father. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Roy Alcock of Greenville. The father of the bridegroom served as best man.

Theresa Kornegay of Kinston, sister of the bride, was maid of honor and bridesmaids included Frances Gooding of Hampton, Va., cousin of the bride, and Melissa Seamans, both of Kinston. The flower girl was Donna Head, also of Kinston.

Junior bridesmaids included Anne Marie Broadway, cousin of the bride, and Melissa Seamans, both of Kinston. The flower girl was Donna Head, also of Kinston.

Bailey Grant Tyndall of Pittsboro was ring bearer. Ushers included Mark Alcock, brother of the bridegroom, Dale Ward and James Tripp, all of Greenville.

A program of wedding music was presented by Gary Crow, organist, and George Broadway and Marilyn Tyndall, vocalists.

The bride wore a formal white gown of sheer tulle and Venise lace designed with a high neckline and a circular sheer yoke accented with lace. The full bishop sleeves closed with cuffs accented with scalloped lace. Lace encircled the waistline and the flowing A-line skirt featured appliques and a circular trellis of matching lace with scalloped Venise trim around the hemline and on the attached chapel train. Her fingertip veil of silk illusion, bordered with lace and appliques, was attached to a matching lace capulet. The bride carried a cascade of white miniature carnations, white pom poms and lavender daisies accented with baby's breath and streamers.

The attendants were each dressed in a lavender dress with a fitted empire bodice with matching cape of chiffon. They also carried a bouquet of lavender daisies, pink daisies, statice and baby's breath.

A reception was given by the bride's parents following the wedding ceremony.

The couple will live in Kinston after a wedding trip to Wrightsville Beach.

The bride is a graduate of Kinston High School and East Carolina University. She is ADAP coordinator, Lenoir County Mental Health Center.

The bridegroom is a graduate of J.H. Rose High School and Harry Lundenberg School of Seamanship. He is an A.B. Seaman, Sonar Marine.

By Erma Bombeck

If bumper stickers are any indication of the mood of this country, I think we can expect a revolution before next weekend.

Bumpers used to be reserved for messages promoting causes, sexual innuendos and cute little one-liners to make you smile. Just from reading them at a stop light, you got some idea of the person driving the car. "TAKE A CELLO PLAYER TO LUNCH." "HAVE YOU HUGGED YOUR MISTRESS TODAY?" "HONK IF YOU BELIEVE IN SEX." "COWBOYS HAVE MORE FUN."

Just within the past year or so, they've begun to turn quite ugly and antagonistic. We seem to have lost patience with one another.

"GOD BLESS AMERICA" has given way to "LOVE IT OR LEAVE IT!"

"SAVE THE WHALES" and "PROTEST NUCLEAR POWER" now comes out "NUKE THE WHALES."

"SURGICAL NURSES DO IT BETTER" is countered by "NAVY CHIEFS HAVE FUN TOO!"

Even religious stickers seem sharp and unyielding. "HONK IF YOU LOVE JESUS" has opponents who retaliate, "BLOW IT OUT YOUR EAR."

"I FOUND IT" has a counterpart, "I NEVER LOST IT!"

"GOD LOVES YOU" is out and "GOD FORGIVES YOU AND I'M TRYING" is in.

I saw one the other day from a driver who obviously took exception to the American flag with the "I AM

A NATIVE AMERICAN" sticker. He came back with "I'M NOT A NATIVE" and had a German sticker on it.

"BUY AMERICAN," which admonished buyers who bought foreign products, gave birth to a sticker I saw the other day on a Toyota which said, "I AM DRIVING A JAPANESE CADILLAC."

Right now, the unrest and the surliness are confined to little stickers on bumpers and in rear windows, but I don't know how long the American people can control their anger. When are they going to ram you from the rear?

My bumper has always been arch-conservative. No stands on anything. No cutesies. No spiritual message. Just your basic naked bumper. The other day I pasted on one of those little smiles that said, "HAVE A GOOD DAY."

At the traffic light, a guy leaned out and shouted, "Easy for you to say!"

See what I mean?

Dear Abby

Maid Of Honor Steps Down

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Gloria (made-up name) and I were best friends in college. Gloria announced her engagement at graduation and asked me to be her maid of honor. I accepted on the spot, although no date was set for the wedding.

After graduation, Gloria stayed in that college town to be near her fiance, who had another year of graduate school, and I returned to my hometown in the Midwest.

Gloria wrote in April saying she's getting married "in a few months" and she'd "understand" if I had changed my mind about being her maid of honor. I wrote back saying if she was trying to let me off the hook because of the expense of plane fare and the gown, I had already saved the money, and even arranged the time off from work for the occasion. (The wedding will be in Gloria's hometown in New Jersey.)

She called last night asking if I'd changed my mind because there was another girl she could ask, but she'd have to ask her before it gets too late. Then she added, "But you are welcome to attend the wedding anyway."

I got the message. I'm crushed, but I didn't let on how hurt I was. I told her to go ahead and ask the other girl.

Abby, I don't think I could bear to attend the wedding and see some other girl take my place as Gloria's maid of honor. Should I try to be "big" and go to the wedding feeling so hurt and rejected? Or should I stay home?

LUMP IN MY THROAT

DEAR LUMP: Feeling as you do, the wedding would be a bummer. Skip it. And use the money to treat yourself to a fun vacation when you're in the mood.

DEAR ABBY: Not long ago, "Exhausted in Plattsmouth, Neb." claimed a record for individual single births.

That's a record I certainly didn't set out to beat, and someone may be able to top mine, but so far I haven't seen anything that will beat these statistics:

Three single births in 20 months and one day. The dates are: March 21, 1959; Jan. 31, 1960; Nov. 22, 1960.

BETTY L. KILBRIDE, CAPE ELIZABETH, MAINE

DEAR BETTY: You tied "Positively Pooped in St. Petersburg, Fla." but you've both been topped by Mrs. Marilyn Ingram of Portland, Ore., who gave birth to three babies in 18 months and 18 days! Oct. 25, 1957—a boy; Aug. 24, 1958—a girl; May 7, 1959—a boy. And she signed herself... "Pooped in Portland."

Quilt Symposium Opens

THE N.C. QUILT SYMPOSIUM '82 — The opening session of the symposium was held this morning followed by a presentation by Flavin Glover on "Quiltaholism." Kay Clemens of Greenville, chairman of this year's symposium to continue through Saturday, is pictured with Ruth Roberson of Durham, left. Ms. Roberson, a former resident of Martin County, teaches quilting at Duke University Craft Center and writes a monthly column on quilting for a state newspaper. She arranged an exhibit for the symposium entitled "Bits of Fabric and Scraps of Time" about the lives of eastern North Carolina women and how quilting is a part of their lives. Ms. Roberson and Ms. Clemens show a Joseph's Coat quilt made by Elizabeth Morgan of Wilson. Ms. Roberson is planning to write a book on women and their quilts with documented photographs by JoAnn DiVerdi of Worcester, Mass. The quilt exhibit is located in Mendenhall Student Center, East Carolina University.

Age Is No Limit

Only a few years ago former ECU Chancellor Leo Jenkins was faced with mandatory retirement at age 65.

Now there is a new way of thinking about compulsory retirement and the ECU Board of Trustees recently voted to raise the compulsory retirement age from 65 to 70. The change is in line with overall policy of the University of North Carolina System.

Sixty-five year olds aren't necessarily any wiser now than they were a few years back. There is, however, a recognition that many persons 65 and older can perform their career duties adequately. Many, in fact, have their best to offer as they draw on the experiences of a lifetime.

No doubt the election of a president nearing 70 years old had much to do with our new attitudes. There has also been the practical concern that allowing people to continue employment takes some of the strain off pension funds and Social Security.

As it has always been, however, it is pretty much an individual thing. Some people in their late 60s and 70s have the energy and mental agility that others far younger don't have. Certainly those who have the enthusiasm to continue working should be able to do so, even if in a new field of endeavor.

N.C. Economy Can Rebound

Recessionary times send us looking for rays of hope.

There is little in the national statistics to encourage us that the economy will turn up soon. There was some hope for North Carolina last week, however. Officials were encouraged with the drop in the unemployment rate to 4.5 percent in April. It had been 5.3 percent in March and February.

Glenn R. Jernigan, Employment Security Commission chairman, said the figure "leads us to believe that a slow improvement in the economy has begun."

We believe North Carolina's economy has the capacity to rebound ahead of the nation's. The one-month figure is not a sure indication of improvement, but it is hopeful.

'Lapsed Salaries'

By PAUL T. O'CONNOR

RALEIGH — Lumberton's Sen. Sam Noble admits to being a rather hard-headed fellow about some things. He's been railing about a state budget procedure since he came to the Senate in 1979 and he's still complaining today — even though it doesn't appear he's getting anywhere.

Noble says that when money budgeted for a state employee's salary isn't spent on the employee, it should be returned to the General Fund so the Legislature can decide how that money is spent. The governor's budget officers, who currently decide how that money is spent, counter by saying this money gives them the flexibility they need to keep the budget in balance.

Noble isn't alone on this issue. Sen. Joe Raynor's bill prohibiting any use of these "lapsed salaries" became part of this year's budget bill. But the attorney general ruled it an illegal intrusion on the governor's budget authority.

This is no small money question. Deputy State Budget Officer Marvin Dorman says "lapsed salaries" amounted to $64.7 million in the 1979-80 budget year. The money accrues because the Legislature budgets 100 percent of the money the state will need to pay salaries to employees in every approved position. When a job is left vacant, or when a new employee is hired at a salary lower than his predecessor's, budgeted money is not spent.

Noble says the governor, the university system and the bureaucracy have used the saved money for pet projects — the most famous being the $200,000 coin collection Gov. Jim Holshouser bought with lapsed salaries. He says Insurance Commissioner John Ingram has had four empty jobs in his budget since 1978. Ingram then uses the money for whatever he wishes, Noble says.

Last year, Noble led an unsuccessful move in an Appropriations subcommittee to cut the amount of money budgeted for salaries. If history shows that the state spends only 95 percent of the money set aside for salaries, then 95 percent of the money should be appropriated. That way, there won't be any "lapsed salaries" to begin with.

Dorman shudders at the thought. Any budget needs flexibility, he says. If the state budget office couldn't move money around, the state wouldn't be able to respond to unforeseen developments. In 1979-80, he says, $22.7 million was transferred out of the "lapsed salaries"

Other Editors Say Old Cars Are In

(The Raleigh Times)

For beleaguered auto dealers' sake, it's a good thing some people still feel it's cheaper to buy a new car than to keep a not-too-old one running. But with new-car prices averaging $10,000 such folk are fewer than they used to be.

The old car has finally come into its own. Driving one is, in our odd era, no longer a stigmatizing, humbling experience but a sign that one knows what's what in economics.

The size of new-car payments can draw a lot of attention to the many more miles Old Lizzie has left in her — enough to eclipse the many miles she already has showing and the high cost of repair parts and labor. People are finding that even a worn, frayed driver's seat can support what it needs to support for years, and that floor mats to cover up a little rust are cheap.

And also that a year's car payments often could cover overhauling an old car's engine and repainting its skin and still leave money in the bank. On its fleet, the City of Raleigh figures it saves $6,000 when it spends an average of $1,500 on repairs at the 65,000-mile mark instead of ordering new cars.

This will end. Even cars have "demographics." Sooner or later, the old faithfuls now being cosseted and refurbished will all reach the point where no further surgery, major or minor, will save them. They will die and be towed to the body-crunchers.

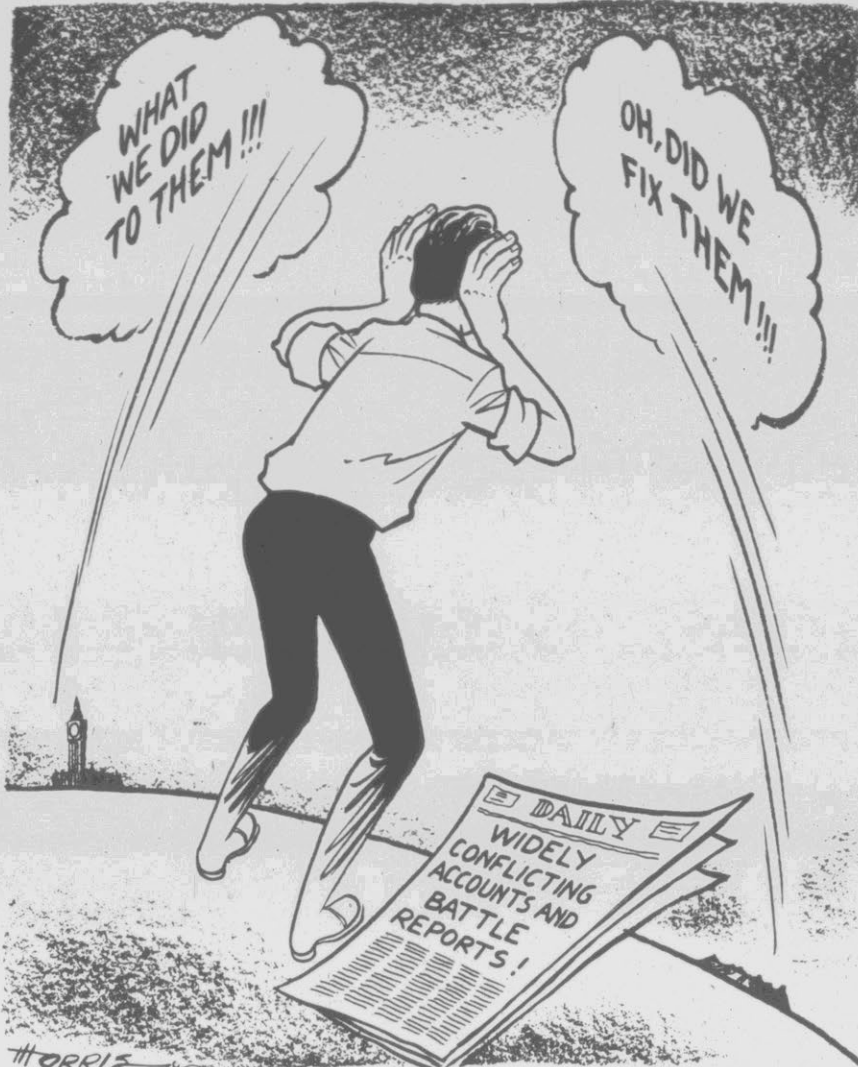

And the business of Detroit — or perhaps Osaka — will start to bloom again, though maybe never again with the must-trade-every-three-years vigor of the 1960s.

Then the old cars that are left will sink back to the byroads and garages. Driving them will again become not quite the thing — material for apologies like "I just keep this one to get the groceries in." The way it used to be.

And that oh-so-American dream, the glittering fresh-minted chariot with the new-car smell and the virginal upholstery, will once again come within financial reach of average folks and be king of the road. The way it used to be.

Only smaller.

The 1982 Bunker Hill

WASHINGTON — The story of the Battle of Bunker Hill never made much of a splash in the Eastern press. Mind you, I am not talking about the Bunker Hill in Massachusetts in 1775, but about a Bunker Hill in Idaho, 1982. The parallels are instructive.

The Revolutionary Bunker Hill pitted troops of the Massachusetts Bay Colony against forces sent by a faraway monarch. The colonials wanted their independence; the Crown was determined not to let them have it.

The 1982 Battle of Bunker Hill pitted members of Idaho's Local 7854, United Steelworkers of America, soared and the market had plummeted. Gulf was losing $40 million a year. If a buyer could not be found, the operation would be abandoned.

JAMES KILPATRICK

against the union's international office in Pittsburgh. Again, it was a question of independence.

Drop the analogies for a moment. Back in August of last year, the Gulf Chemical & Resources Co. of Houston announced that it no longer could bear the losses that were being experienced by its Bunker Hill mining and smelting operations in Kellogg. In its good years the 94-year-old Idaho complex processed 20 percent of the lead, zinc and silver marketed in this country; it employed 2,100 persons and it paid them good wages. But by 1981, operating costs had soared and the market had plummeted. Gulf was losing $40 million a year. If a buyer could not be found, the operation would be abandoned.

A group of local entrepreneurs thought it might be possible to keep the moribund plant alive. They obtained an option to buy and arranged $65 million in financing. All this took time, and by early January of this year only a few hundred workers remained on the job. Nevertheless, Bunker Hill was still a going concern.

The whole deal was contingent upon concessions from the plant's seven unions. By far the largest of these was the Steelworkers' local. The prospective buyers made it clear that their only hope for a return on their $65 million lay well in the future; if the recession ended and prices of metal picked up, eventually they might show a profit. Meanwhile, if jobs and communities were to be saved, something had to give.

As the option deadline neared, the prospective buyers offered the union a new five-year contract. No question about it, the contract called for drastic givebacks and takeaways. The basic $10-an-hour wage would be cut to $7.50; vacations and pensions and health benefits would be severely reduced; the average worker would see his income drop from $30,000 to $23,000. The contract contained a strong no-strike clause, and it gave management all sorts of prerogatives

Complicates U.S. Action

By R. GREGORY NOKES

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) —

U.S. officials believe there is virtually no chance that Poland's military government can stem Poland's steady slide into chaos if it holds to its current strategy.

It worries officials here, who see the crisis in Poland as a festering wound complicating U.S.-Soviet relations and fraying U.S. ties to its NATO allies.

"Something has got to give; the economy is in terrible shape," said one State Department Polish expert. He said the Polish leader, Gen. Wojciech Jaruzelski, is immobilized in his policy options because he is "caught between Moscow and his own people."

In the meantime, the Reagan administration has cast aside its previous position of not undertaking new negotiations with the Soviets while the Polish crisis remains unresolved.

President Reagan on Sunday proposed beginning strategic arms reduction talks with the Soviets this summer and has signaled his willingness to meet at the summit with Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev in the fall.

Waiting for conditions to improve in Poland before talking with the Soviets became an untenable position for the administration in the face of demands in this country and in Europe that the two superpowers do something to restrain the nuclear arms race.

But rioting during the first week in May in at least 13 Polish cities has underscored the seriousness of the situation in Poland. "Things are really ugly there," one official told a reporter.

U.S. officials say the government admitted to 1,372 new arrests, including 271 in Warsaw, during the latest disturbances, and 72 injured policemen, 10 of whom required hospitalization.

There already were well over 3,000 in custody, the State Department estimated.

Just a few days before the latest disturbances, Jaruzelski's military government had announced the easing of some of the martial law restrictions imposed after the initial crackdown on Dec. 13, and the release of 1,000 detained people.

U.S. officials, who did not want to be identified, told a reporter in a recent briefing that they expect more violence, especially as warm weather returns to Poland.

Officials here believe the Soviet Union gave the orders to suppress the most recent demonstrations, igniting violence which might otherwise not have occurred.

The latest rioting was a setback to the military government. Officials here say the Jaruzelski government appears to lack any workable strategy for resolving Poland's crisis, especially its severe economic problems, which worsen daily.

The Communist Party is currently a "shell" of its former self, following massive resignations, which are continuing, officials say. At the same time, they say the Solidarity labor organization is "learning to live underground" and has an effective communications network that includes an illicit radio station that broadcasts periodically.

Although Lech Walesa, the Solidarity leader, and other leaders remain in custody of authorities, Solidarity has evidently established a new cadre of leaders who operate underground.

One U.S. official said Jaruzelski had tried to ease martial law restrictions to show "the illusion of progress" to the rest of the world in hopes of having economic sanctions eased, particularly the ban on official loans by the United States and major Western European governments.

Officials agreed that Jaruzelski also wanted "to create an impression of a return to normality in advance of a conference of the International Labor Organization in Geneva beginning June 3.

Strength For Today

A DIVINE ORIGIN

Several months ago a large python escaped from a zoo and presumably slithered around in a large city for several days. At last it came back and curled up in some bushes about 300 feet from the zoo. Then strange things happened. The animals began shrieking, the elephants trumpeted, the lions roared.

How did they know that the python was in the vicinity? This question can probably be answered by only one word — instinct.

The lower animals are guided by instinct, and we think it marvelous; but we are guided by something much more marvelous yet we seldom think about it. We partake of the nature of God himself, and therefore have the capacity to choose between moral alternatives, which animals do not have.

We often reflect on our likeness to the animal world. Not often enough do we remember that we were made in the image and after the likeness of God. — Elisha Douglass

Promotion Stepping On Toes

By ANN JOB WOOLLEY

Associated Press Writer

DETROIT (AP) —

Chrysler Corp.'s effort to convince consumers its cars are well made by offering a five-year warranty on major engine parts has stepped on the toes of a company that has made money selling insurance against breakdowns.

And the president of that company doesn't like it.

Marv Cowdrey, president of United Dealer Group of Phoenix, Ariz., says the Chrysler warranty takes away one of the most profitable sources of income for dealers and will not help sell cars.

But Chrysler says its dealers haven't complained and adds that it intends to stick by the new plan to lure customers to showrooms.

"They (Chrysler) should have kept the rebates," said Cowdrey.

The Chrysler program requires dealers to honor the warranty, denying them the chance to offer similar programs from United Dealer Group and other independent warranty firms — which guarantee the dealer a profit when the warranties are written, Cowdrey said.

Chrysler's program does not offer a profit for dealers.

"I believe in free enterprise," Cowdrey said. "In today's times, a dealer should be allowed to go after any profit-making area he can get."

Cowdrey told Chrysler Chairman Lee Iacocca just that in a full-page letter printed in an April issue of the trade journal Automotive News.

Chrysler spokesman B.F. Mullins says Iacocca intends to write Cowdrey, saying "as a manufacturer, we have the right to extend the best warranty possible to our customers."

Chrysler's program, begun April 11 as a substitute for rebates which the No. 3 U.S. carmaker had been running for nearly six straight months, offers a limited warranty on the engine, transmission, transaxle, drive axle and axle shaft for five years or 50,000 miles, whichever comes first, on domestically produced autos.

It includes a warranty against perforation from rusting on outer panels for the same period and a free maintenance program.

Cowdrey says "customers want and deserve a good deal," but adds that dealers in his area, the southwest and Rocky Mountain states, have complained their showroom traffic and business have been down "better than 60 percent" since the new program began.

But Chrysler says that as far as the company knows, no dealers have complained. And Mullins added that showroom traffic has remained about the same since the rebates stopped and the warranty program began.

Chrysler sales for the first 10 days of April, the final period for the rebates, were up 2 percent from the comparable period a year earlier, but fell 12.4 percent in the second 10-day selling period when the warranty program began and were off 34 percent at month end.

Wendell Miller, in charge of the Chrysler dealer group of the National Automobile Dealers Association, said that while dealers acknowledge the loss of the warranty contract profits, "it has been made up by the additional traffic and additional sales, at least so far."

"Dealers like the five-year, 50,000-mile warranty because it establishes some credibility for the quality of the cars," he added.

United Dealer Group, No. 2 in the United States among independent warranty firms, has been selling five-year, 50,000-mile warranties and other mileage and time warranties for about four years. About 15 percent of its dealers sell Chrysler products, Cowdrey said.

Cowdrey said the cost of the warranties varies, depending on what the dealer charges, and he would not say how much profit a dealer can make except to say the warranties are "tremendously profitable."

But Jere Maudsley, president of American Warranty Corp. of Los Angeles, the nation's No. 1 independent warranty company, said his firm's warranties cost from $280 to $900, depending on the coverage.

And one Chrysler dealer reportedly made $7,000 in March just from selling the $250 optional extended warranty that Chrysler previously had, which had about $100 profit in it for dealers.

Maudsley said he, too, had heard that dealers were concerned but added he thought the Chrysler program would be "a plus."

"It brings to the attention of the customers that they have no coverage on the other parts, such as the electrical components that are just as prone to break down," he said.

To the editor:

With dismay I read of the denial of the use of Ficklen Stadium to J.H. Rose High School for commencement because of the reseeding of the playing field.

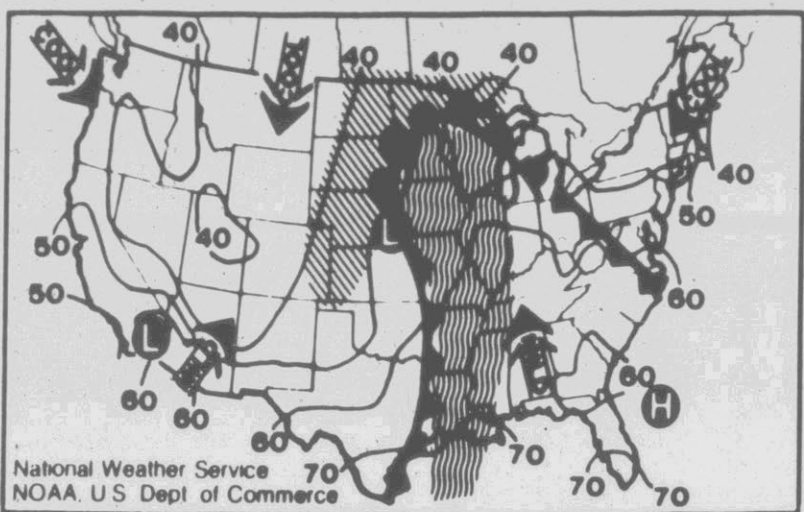

The Rose seniors deserve the seating capacity for guests which Ficklen Stadium can provide. If commencement exercises are moved to the Rose Gym, each student can only have two guests. This restriction is a disappointment and diminishes the scope and enjoyment of this milestone ceremony. It is an event of great importance for many of Greenville's citizens and ECU, as a leading member of this community, should be willing to participate fully.

As a member of the ECU faculty, I have just completed an annual report for the past academic year. One of the categories on the report is concerned with community services. This indicates to me that the ECU administration wishes to encourage the faculty to participate in useful community activities because it will reflect well on the university.

If J.H. Rose High School is denied permission to use Ficklen Stadium for its commencement, then the good will engendered by individual services will be negated by this corporate act. If ECU will not act in the best interest of the youth of Greenville, perhaps it will consider that providing the stadium facilities for commencement ceremonies will be in its best interest.

WEATHER FORECAST — The National Weather Service forecasts showers for Friday from the central Gulf to the upper Great Lakes with rain from the southern Plains to the Dakotas. Cool weather is forecast from the Pacific Northwest to New England. Other areas will be mild. (AP Laserphoto)

By The Associated Press
Mostly sunny skies will prevail east of the mountains today and again over interior sections Friday, according to the National Weather Service forecast.

Scattered thunderstorms will develop over the mountains in the afternoon and evenings today and Friday.

A weak low pressure and cold front moving down from Virginia will bring partly cloudy weather over eastern sections tonight and Friday. There is a chance of showers along with this system in the northeast tonight.

High temperatures this afternoon and Friday will reach the upper 80s except for upper 70s along the Outer Banks and near 80 in the northern mountains.

A little cooler temperatures will move down into eastern sections with the cold front and low pressure tonight and Friday.

Winds will be southwest across most of the state at around 10 mph by afternoon then become light tonight.

Coastal winds will be westerly 10 to 15 knots today and continue about the same over the south tonight and Friday. In the north, winds will shift to the northeast at 10 to 20 knots tonight and Friday.

Skies were clear over most of the state during the night with light winds. Warm temperatures and a slight increase in moisture caused scattered showers to develop over the mountains yesterday afternoon. The showers had dissipated by midnight but some cloudiness lingered on in the morning hours.

It remained rather warm during the night. Temperatures were still in the 50s and low 60 in most areas around daybreak.

Despite their concern, officials here say there is little the United States can do to influence events in Poland other than to maintain its present course. It has already imposed nearly all of the available sanctions, other than a formal declaration of default against the government for not paying its debts to the U.S. government.

Both government and commercial bank credits from the West have virtually dried up, the officials say, making it impossible for Poland to purchase the machinery and raw materials it needs to keep its already depressed industrial sector operating.

Officials admit that the United States is reluctant to declare default because the European allies, who have extended most of Poland's $26 billion in foreign debts, are opposed. "There is concern that the Western banking system would be hurt by it (default)," said one of the officials.

But the latest violence reinforce Western resolve against easing sanctions already applied, according to officials here.

"I'm certain this will stiffen spines everywhere in not going back on the sanctions," said one.

over work assignments, days off and the like. Strong medicine.

But on Jan. 17, by a vote of 695 to 506, members of the Bunker Hill local agreed to swallow it. For a couple of days it looked as if the operation would survive. Then the union's international office abruptly stifled the cries of jubilation. Emissaries from Pittsburgh arrived to say the vote was merely "advisory." The wishes of the local workers had to yield to the international's superior authority. The deal collapsed; the smelter closed; a $55 million payroll was lost; the economies of Kellogg, Coeur d'Alene and Wallace are suffering; and the human hardship is intense. Let us hear it from the union bosses.

In the wake of the January bitterness, the Idaho legislature took up a right-to-work bill. The Idaho Statesman of Boise reported on Jan. 31 that "Governor John Evans, waving a plastic sack containing an estimated $6,000 in contributions from unionmembers, pledged Saturday night to veto a right-to-work bill if it reaches his desk."

fund and into other areas. (The rest of the $64.7 million reverted to the General Fund.)

Gasoline prices jumped that year and school buses needed an extra $10 million. State hospitals and prisons needed an additional $3.2 million for heat, and another $1 million for food. Other money went to unexpected legal costs for indigent defendants, to hire guest lecturers at universities and for dozens of other unexpected state needs.

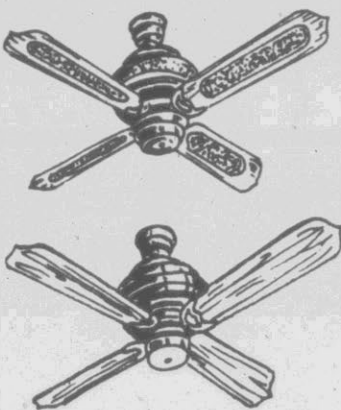

This year, Gov. Jim Hunt is relying heavily on the "lapsed salary" fund to help make up for the shortfall in revenues and provide the money needed to keep state salaries where they are. Legislative aides warn that in economic hard times states which don't fully fund budgeted salaries often find themselves laying off employees.

Noble and Dorman have talked about the question repeatedly. But Noble still thinks there ought to be legislative input before appropriated money is moved around.

One possible solution, a legislative aide suggested at a recent committee meeting, is to restrict how the money can be spent: Give Dorman the flexibility to pay for food and gasoline but rule out money for purchasing coin collections.

Open House

Pope Air Force Base and Fort Bragg will co-sponsor for the third consecutive year an open house on May 22, highlighted by an air show featuring C-130 "Hercules" aircraft and the Army's new "Blackhawk" helicopter.

Aircraft, including the Air Force's "Eagle" fighter and C-5 "Galaxy," the world's largest aircraft, will be on display, while other aircraft tentatively scheduled are the F-14 "Tomcat," F-16 "Fighting Falcon" and A-10 "Thunderbolt."

Exhibits, displays and demonstrations by Army and Air Force personnel will emphasize joint mission capabilities to deploy worldwide.

Armed, And 'Dangerous'

LUMBERTON, N.C. (AP) — Federal authorities have offered $5,000 for information on the whereabouts of a man who allegedly fired armor-piercing bullets at four law enforcement agents Friday.

The FBI says it is looking for Huel Locklear, 37, indicted in connection with a January bank robbery in Hollywood, S.C.

Over 100 law enforcement officers searched Wednesday for Locklear in Robeson County. FBI Special Agent Robert Pence described Locklear as "armed and extremely dangerous."

The search began when Locklear was located at a relative's home between Pembroke and Rowland, Pence said, adding that the surprised Locklear fled on foot across a field while officers followed in an automobile.

Pence said the chase ended momentarily when Locklear fired on the car, disabling it, and escaped into a wooded area.

A federal grand jury in Raleigh indicted Locklear Monday on three counts of assaulting FBI agents.

Locklear was convicted in February 1970 of robbing two Scotland County banks a year earlier and received concurrent 15-year sentences on each count.

Big Penalty In Fish Kill

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — A total of $36,072 in penalties and damage assessments has been levied against Carolina Power and Light Co. for five water quality standard violations and a fish kill on Hyco Lake in Person County.

The penalties were announced Wednesday by Robert F. Helms, director of the N.C. Division of Environmental Management.

The utility was assessed $5,000 each for five violations after water samples taken from Hyco Lake in September 1980 showed concentrations of selenium that were above the state minimum level allowed.

Selenium is a non-metallic element found in coal and collected by the plant's precipitators, which are devices that remove air contaminants from the units' smoke stacks.

A spokesman for the N.C. Department of Natural Resources & Community Development said 41,729 dead fish were collected in partial pickups on two occasions in September 1980. The dead fish showed elevated concentrations of selenium in their bodies.

The cost of the fish kill, including fish replacement and salaries and expenses for the Division of Environmental management and Wildlife Resources Commission personnel, was $11,702.70.

Rusting Tanker Possible Source

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP) — U.S. Coast Guard officials say a rusting tanker is one of five ships it is investigating in connection with a May 5 oil spill on the Cape Fear River.

The Point Julie, which was at Wilmington's State Port last week, has since been found to be leaking oil in Salem, Mass., according to Capt. Stephen J. Masse, captain of the Boston port.

Masse said Wednesday his office is working with officials in Wilmington to determine if it is the ship responsible for the spill.

A seven-mile stretch of the Cape Fear and Northeast Cape Fear rivers was blackened by the oil slick which Coast Guard officials describe as "medium" or "moderate."

That description notwithstanding, officials say it is the worst such incident anyone at the local Coast Guard office can remember with at least 10,000 gallons of No. 6 oil are thought to have been spilled.

The Coast Guard and its independent contractors have worked daily to clean up the oil that has marred marshlands along the river's banks.

Coast Guard investigators have narrowed the number of suspect ships to five and are analyzing cargo samples from each.

Masse said the Point Julie is owned by Point Shipping Co., but said he did not know where the company is located.

"We understand she loaded in Wilmington," Masse said, adding that he did not know how much cargo the vessel was carrying when it left North Carolina.

He said the ship headed north, arriving early Tuesday morning at an oil terminal in Salem. Crewmen placed booms around the vessel to contain any possible leaks, a procedure the captain said is routine when vessels are loading or unloading.

About 5:15 a.m. Tuesday, crew members noticed oil bubbling to the surface of the water around the ship. Divers sent to inspect the vessel's underside discovered oil trapped in a recess in its flat bottom, the captain said. The ship was then tilted over so the oil could be cleaned up, he said.

A hole was found in one of the ship's three cargo tanks. It was plugged Wednesday and the tanker was sent to a shipyard for repairs before reloading, Masse said.

Coast Guard Commander Thomas R. Dickey said the cleanup has been mostly completed, although the work has been hampered by petroleum which solidified on ships and shipwrecks.

Stop Rate Roulette.

Lately, when you invest in a Short-Term Certificate, it's a little like buying a ticket on a roller coaster.

Maybe the rates will be going down; maybe they'll be going up. Nobody seems to be sure of anything.

15.00% Guaranteed To 1985.

*Yield based on 13.79% annual rate, compounded daily. Substantial penalty for early withdrawal. All depositors insured up to $100,000 by Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation. Rates and yields on new certificates are subject to market conditions and may change periodically without notice.

But, starting now, there is a way to be sure of the rate you'll get for the next 3 1/2 years.

It's NCNB's new 3 1/2 Year Certificate. And, as you can see, it now offers you a very nice rate.

What's more, you don't need a lot of money to get it. Start with as little as $500. Then, unlike other CDs, you can add to your investment during the first 12 months, earn the rate we're paying then, without changing the maturity date.

So, with all those things going for you, why gamble?

For all the details on the new 3 1/2 Year Certificates, the new NCNB Individual Retirement Account, Tax Saver Certificates, and other smart ways to invest, just stop in at any NCNB office and talk it over. # Parks, Recreation...

•Install, by July 1, coin-operated timers for lights to be installed on tennis courts. The timer recommended for installation will require players to insert 25 cents for 15 minutes of play (or $1 per hour) to help defray the cost of the lights. Each timer will cover a two-court area, with eight timers needed to cover all courts. The price of the timer is $55 per unit, or $440 for all courts. Lee noted this will not be a money-making proposition, but will serve to control lights on at the courts when people are not playing. Park rangers will remove the coin trays each evening at the close of play time and reinstall them the next evening.

•Recommended no increase in the current non-resident fees. The current fee for non-resident use of a facility or for participation in activities is $50 for a family group and $25 for an individual. Under the current policy, non-residents also pay the standard fee for any program or activity.

•The 368-acre environmental-wilderness park located north of the Tar River has received an official name. Commission members approved naming the park River Park North. Lee reminded commissioners that giving this name to the park does not preclude giving names to buildings, wildlife sites or other areas that might be included within the park in the future.

•Also adopted at last night's meeting was a proposal to complete work to formalize a brochure on gift giving to the department by individuals, groups or firms. Staff member Nancy Evans showed a sample proposed brochure, which covers a wide range of ideas for possible donations including time and effort, trees and shrubs for park areas, athletic equipment, estate trusts and deeds for property. When printed, the brochure will be distributed to civic groups and other organizations for distribution. Also, a letter will be sent to such groups offering to have a member of the department go before them to explain the concept and procedures of gift giving to the Recreation and Parks Department.

•In response to a wish expressed by the City Council for compilation of estimates of the economic impact created from revenues provided by activities offered by the Recreation and Parks Department, staff member Ben James gave a report on a study made by the department with assistance from commission members.

James' report, which he stressed was on the conservative side, reveals that during calendar year 1981, for every tax dollar appropriated by the City Council, "there is over a three dollar return to the community."

Summary figures prepared by James covers only athletic activities. The tabulation shows $89,290 in entry and participation fees in recreation programs; $94,463 in parent-participant cost; $7,600 in sponsor cost (for teams); $27,939 in volunteer cost; and $100,000 in the department's athletic budget figure.

The $94,463 figure is an estimate of what parents and participants spent on the local economy for items such as sports equipment, clothing and travel costs to attend athletic events. The $27,939 figure in volunteer cost represents the value placed on volunteer services such as coaching which was carried out during the year at no cost to the department.

Figures in the report do not include funds involved in school use, free play time, baseball and softball tournaments, and money spent by spectators on the local economy in connection with athletic events.

James said this was the first attempt to pin down the economic impact that the activities and programs of the department have on the local economy. "These figures, conservative as they are, clearly shows a good return by the Recreation and Parks Department on the tax dollar," James said.

Safety Awards Slated Tuesday

The N.C. Department of Labor will honor 43 area businesses, governmental units and service establishments with the department's annual award for safety achievement.

The award presentations by Charles Jeffress, assistant state labor commissioner, will take place Tuesday at a dinner scheduled for 7 p.m. at the Ramada Inn.

The program, the 18th in a series of 30 labor department safety awards presentations scheduled across the state this spring, is co-sponsored for the eighth year with the Pitt-Greenville Chamber of Commerce Inc.

A special award will be presented to the Singer Furniture Co. of Chocowinity in recognition of 2,278,000 safe employee hours from Nov. 20, 1979, through Dec. 6, 1981.

The safety award recipients from Greenville include: Union Carbide Corp., 17 consecutive years; Morgan Printers Inc. and Procter & Gamble Paper Products Co., eight; H. A. Haynie Co. Inc., Brody's and East Carolina University, seven; Eaton Corp. and Fieldcrest Mills Inc. Karastan Worsted Mill, six; Boyd Associates Inc., Burroughs Wellcome Co., Melvin Hoke Construction Co. mining operations and WNCT-TV, four; The Daily Reflector Inc. and Melvin Hoke Construction Co. construction division, three;

Blount Fertilizer Co., Eastern Omni Constructors Inc., City of Greenville administrative offices, Holt Oldsmobile-Datsun, McGraw-Edison Co., and Wickes Lumber Co., two; and Empire Brushes Inc., Ernest & Knott Glass Co., and Fieldcrest Mills Inc. Karastan Spinning, first year.

Other recipients include: Collins & Aikman Corp. of Farmville, nine years; Evans Seafood Co. of Washington, the Washington Daily News, and Berce Inc. of Ayden, seven; Wickes Lumber Co. of Farmville and Paul Auto Supply Co. of Washington, six; F & D Motor Co. of Bethel and Pitt & Greene Electric Membership Corp., Farmville, five;

Free Will Baptist Press Foundation Inc. of Ayden, four; WITN-TV, Washington, Stanadyne/Washington Division, Singer Furniture Co. of Chocowinity, Samson Manufacturing Corp., Washington, Powell Manufacturing Co., Farmville, and E. R. Lewis Construction Co. of Bethel, two; and Tidewater Equipment Co. of N.C., Washington, Rose's Stores Inc. No. 93 of Belhaven, Pungo District Hospital Corp. of Belhaven, FCX Distribution Center, Washington, and Ajax Magnethermic Corp., Winterville, first year.

Presiding at the dinner will be James A. Hicks, safety awards banquet chairman. Pat M. Burnette, administrative assistant at the chamber, is in charge of local arrangements. J.

Larkin Little, chairman of the chamber board, will welcome guests.

Sitting South was one of the world's great players, George Raapee of New York. Although he did not hold much in the way of high cards, he did have distributional values, so he refused to let West buy the hand with his preempt.

Against four spades, West led the king of hearts and continued with the jack, ruffed by declarer. West's preempt made it likely that at least one of the black suits would break badly. When declarer led the ace of spades and West produced the nine, a 4-1 trump distribution became likely.

It was tempting to enter dummy with a club to take the trump finesse, but Raapee realized that, even if the finesse won, the contract would be defeated, for there would be no way to draw the fourth trump and then run clubs. So Raapee decided that his best shot was to give East the opportunity to go wrong. He continued with the eight of spades from hand!

East could not resist grabbing the queen, and contract was safe. Declarer ruffed the heart return with his king, crossed to dummy with a high club to draw the remaining trumps with the jack-ten, and now declarer had nothing left but good clubs; making five-odd!

The contract would have failed if East had refused to take his queen of spades. East simply ruffs the third club and returns a heart. If declarer still holds the king of spades, he cannot afford to ruff this trick, so the defenders eventually emerge with two heart tricks, the ace of diamonds and a club ruff — down one.

Two Collisions 'Positive Step' Seen In Housing

An estimated $3,500 damage resulted from two traffic collisions investigated by Greenville police Wednesday. The accidents reportedly injured three people.

Officers said cars driven by Evelyn Marie Holton of 207 E. Gum Road and Lillian Houston Edwards of Route 2, Washington, collided about 4:15 p.m. at the intersection of Gum Road and Washington Street, causing $500 damage to the Holton car, $1,200 damage to the Edwards vehicle, and $1,000 to a house at 400 E. Gum Road.

Investigators, who charged Ms. Edwards with failing to see her intended movement could be made in safety, said Ms. Edwards and a passenger in the Holton car received minor injuries in the mishap.

Gregory Edward Nowak of 300G Eastbrook Apartments was injured when the moped he was driving collided with a car operated by Michael Corey Garris of 208 Oak St., about 7:14 p.m. at the intersection of Fourth and Meade streets.

Damage from the collision was set at $500 to the Garris car and $300 to the Nowak vehicle.

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Officials say programs like the one approved Tuesday by the U.S. House of Representatives will help the sluggish housing industry regain momentum.

Under the proposal, which now goes to the Senate, the federal government would pay between 4 and 6 percent points on new-home mortgage interest rates.

For some new-home buyers, it means they could pay interest rates as low as 9.5 percent.

"We certainly can't continue in the housing industry the way we have in the past few years," said Watts Roberson, a Gastonia builder and president of the North Carolina Home Builders Association.

"My reaction is very positive," said Roberson, who added that the measure should help decrease the construction industry's estimated 19.4 percent unemployment rate.

"I think this very definitely is a positive step," said A.C. Robbins, a Chapel Hill realtor and president of the North Carolina Association of Realtors.

Both were pleased with the 349-55 House vote supporting a $1-billion emergency plan supporters say would help an estimated 74,000 people buy new homes and cut into the unemployment rate in the housing industry.

The bill is the first piece of recession-fighting legislation to win tentative approval this year from the budget-conscious Congress.

Roberson said he thinks newspaper advertisements in the past few weeks pleading with the state's congressmen to "save the American Dream" influenced North Carolina's representatives to vote for the package Tuesday.

Nine state congressmen voted for the measure while Republicans Eugene Johnson of Greensboro and James Broyhill of Lenoir voted against it.

Braniff Suspends Operations Pending Bankruptcy Petition

By JOE STROOP
Associated Press Writer
DALLAS (AP) — Thousands of Braniff International passengers scrambled for standby seats on other flights as the deeply indebted airline suspended all its operations, in some cases ordering passengers off planes.

Braniff executives met into the night, and a source who requested anonymity said the airline would file a bankruptcy petition in Fort Worth today, seeking reorganization under Chapter 11 of the federal bankruptcy laws.

The airline urged passengers holding Braniff reservations to make other arrangements. The company's 8,500 employees, down from 11,500 before layoffs began last summer, were told not to report to work today without specific instructions.

"I just can't believe this," said Jim Skyles, one of the passengers ordered off Flight 494 before it left Dallas-Fort Worth Regional Airport for Houston Wednesday. "It's terrible. And I feel sorry for the people, the employees. One of the stewardesses was crying. It's a shame."

Other carriers, acting as if Braniff had already gone under, prepared to honor its tickets under a default protection plan aimed at guaranteeing passengers standby seats on other carriers. Eastern Airlines moved quickly to take over some of Braniff's foreign routes and the Civil Aeronautics Board scheduled an emergency meeting today.

Flying standby means there are no reservations. A passenger shows up at the airport and flies as space is available.

The bankruptcy plan could protect Braniff from its creditors while possibly allowing the airline to keep flying. Company officials refused to confirm the report.

A Braniff failure would be the first by a major airline since the industry emerged in the 1930s from the barnstorming era.

Braniff, now burdened with a $732 million debt, began to suffer after new competition from deregulation in 1978 and soaring fuel costs combined to erode profits. Losses totaled $336.4 million the past three years, including $160.1 million in 1981 and $41.4 million in the first three months of this year. The airline, once noted for its brightly painted planes, has laid off 3,000 employees since last summer. Employees also agreed in 1980 to a 10 percent, six-month pay cut.

Braniff's 39 major creditors — 26 banks, 11 insurance companies and two aircraft suppliers — agreed earlier this year to defer all payments on the airline's $591 million long-term debt until Oct. 1.

Braniff Vice President Sam Coats announced the suspension of all foreign and domestic flights after a directors meeting that convened at 4:05 p.m. EDT, five minutes after the New York Stock Exchange closed. Braniff stock fell 1/8 Wednesday to 2 1/2.

"We don't know anything," said a Braniff flight attendant who lives in San Antonio but was stranded in Dallas by the shutdown.

"We still don't know if we have jobs," said the attendant, requesting anonymity. "We just don't know. We're not supposed to be talking to you (reporters), but what are they going to do, fire us?"

Long ticket lines were reported at airports at Dallas-Fort Worth, which is Braniff's home base, Kansas City and Minneapolis-St. Paul as passengers sought alternate flights.

Angered By Congressional Tax Break

By JIM LUTHER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — "Parasites," "thieves," "highway robbers" and "hogs" — those are some of the terms taxpayers are using to criticize Congress for voting itself a tailor-made tax deduction in the midst of a deep recession.

Why should the working class of America carry all the burden for the national debt while our congressmen live high on the hog? Mr. and Mrs. Charles Boehmer of Highland Heights, Ky., said in a letter to the Internal Revenue Service.

An anonymous writer added: "I never wrote a letter like this before in my life but I think the time has come for politicians in this country to start cleaning up their act. Don't they ever get enough?"

IRS has received more than 6,000 letters — an unprecedented number — since December when Congress liberalized its members' official tax deduction for Washington living expenses while calling on the nation to sacrifice for the benefit of the economy.

IRS, which held a public hearing on the deduction Tuesday, has authority to cut the amount below the basic $75 per day. More than 200 members of Congress, many of them embarrassed by such a big tax break during an election year, have signed bills to repeal or reduce the deduction, but none has passed.

Ironically, Congress voted the one-of-a-kind tax deduction because members hoped to avoid the adverse publicity that might accompany any vote to raise their pay. But the size of the deduction, nearly $20,000 compared with the old $3,000, and the way it was enacted — tucked away in a bill raising taxes on coal — probably have generated as much controversy as any straight pay raise would.

In wiping out the $3,000 ceiling last December, Congress ordered IRS to set a figure that members could deduct without proving anything. The IRS then allowed members the options of deducting $75 a day to cover all Washington expenses, or taking a $50-per-day deduction plus interest costs on their Washington homes, or deducting any amount they could substantiate.

Many taxpayers who wrote IRS assumed wrongly that the new deduction would exempt most members of Congress from taxes. In fact, for a typical lawmaker with little income other than the $60,662.50 congressional salary, the deduction is worth a tax saving of about $7,000 a year.

Here are some of the letters to IRS:

—Anne K. McAlister, Pittsburgh: "Get this repealed or, so help me, I will refuse to pay my income tax this year."

—Esther Glanzspigel of Brooklyn: "Talk about free lunches and welfare programs — Congress takes the cake!"

—John H. Matteson of Sacramento wrote: "If those SOB's can't find ways to reduce expenditures for some of the vote-buying schemes that have been legislated in the past 50 years then let them share the expense right along with the rest of us."

—"Far more dishonorable than anything Richard Nixon ever thought of," said Jerry Sanders of Pittsburgh.

—"We were a lot better off years ago. When they were caught stealing they took them to the nearest tree and hung them," wrote "J.R." and "L.R."

—"They are no less guilty of a crime than an armed bandit. Damn them. Damn them. Damn them. If the IRS doesn't help, I'm justified in 'beating' IRS in every possible way." That one was signed "a poor but pretty honest taxpayer."

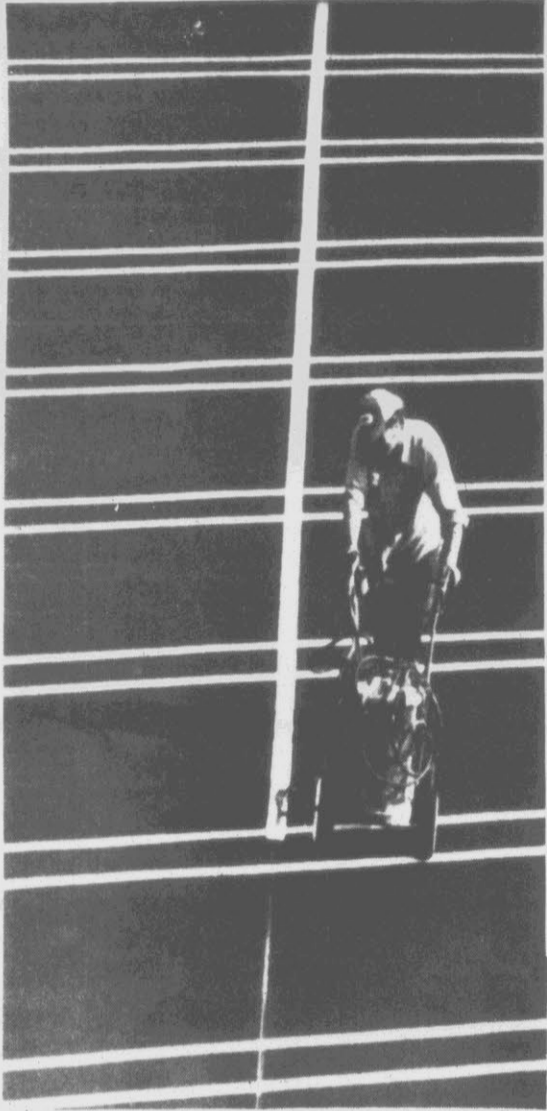

—Jane Schuler of Cincinnati wrote: "We have families to feed and educate too and I resent depriving my children of these things in order that some (expletive deleted) in Congress can live like a king at my expense."

—"Please do something about the stealing from the people by the Washington so-called representatives," pleaded K.C. Blankenship of Rockwood, Tenn.

—"I must prove every deduction that I take. Why not congressmen?" asked Edward B. Krekelor of Cincinnati.

—"I am an 82-year-old widow and a mad taxpayer," wrote Evelyn Ewing of Holiday, Fla. "Income-tax time will sure be bright for members of Congress, but not for we little taxpayers who will have to pay for those freeloaders. Believe me, I'm doing everything I can to expose those parasites."

—Emil and Ernestine Weis of Winter Haven, Fla., wrote, "They are only interested in feathering their own nests and lining their own pockets. ... While we are at it, we would like to protest the news reporting of Dan Rather and associates."

THE STRAIGHT AND NARROW — Tim Johnson, an employee of the Westminster Mall in Westminster, California, literally has a lot of work in store for him as he spends the afternoon hours Wednesday following the straight and narrow while lining the mall's parking lot. (AP Laserphoto)

Find Scottish Descent Linked To Good Income

By RANDOLPH E. SCHMID
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Americans of Scottish descent tend to be better educated and have higher incomes than other European-based ethnic groups, according to a new Census Bureau study.

Based on a survey taken in late 1979, the study said Americans who traced their ancestry to Scotland had median family incomes of $20,018, highest of eight single-ancestry groups studied.

Second in family income were those of German background, at $17,531, while those of Spanish background had the lowest median income at $10,607.

The Scots were the only group to record no illiteracy in the survey, had the lowest unemployment rate at 2.1 percent and the highest ratio of high school graduates, 81.2 percent.

The study looked at characteristics of Americans of English, French, German, Irish, Italian, Polish, Scottish and Spanish descent.

Among them, those of Spanish descent, 30.3 percent, were most likely to have been born outside the United States. The Italians were a distant second at 13.1 percent, while only 2.7 percent of the Irish were born outside the United States.

Scots recorded the highest proportion of married men, at 79.6 percent, followed by 75.5 percent for those of French extraction. The lowest male marriage rate was 62.8 percent among the Spanish. Among women, the French were most likely to be wed, at 68.6 percent, with the Germans second at 64.3 percent. Polish women were least likely to be married, at 60.6 percent.

The highest divorce rates were 4.8 percent among Irish men and 6.6 percent for Spanish women. At 3.5 percent, Polish men had the fewest divorces, as did Polish women at 4.3 percent.

Here are how the various groups fared statistically in some other social characteristics:

—Male high school graduates: Scottish, 81.2 percent; English, 74.6 percent; German, 72.4 percent; Irish, 68.8 percent; French, 67 percent; Polish, 64.4 percent; Italian, 62.7 percent; Spanish, 42.5 percent.

—Female high school graduates: Scottish, 78.1 percent; English, 76.7 percent; German, 72 percent; Irish, 70 percent; French, 65.7 percent; Italian, 60.4 percent; Polish, 59.1 percent; Spanish, 40.5 percent.

—Unemployment: Scottish, 2.1 percent; German, 3.1 percent; English, 3.6 percent; Italian, 4.7 percent; Irish, 5 percent; Polish, 5.4 percent; French, 5.6 percent; Spanish, 9 percent.

—Median family income: Scottish, $20,018; German, $17,531; Italian, $16,993; Polish, $16,977; English, $16,891; Irish, $16,092; French, $15,571; Spanish, $10,607.

Jodie's Words Hurt Hinckley

By LARRY MARGASAK
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) —
John W. Hinckley Jr. hardly stirred while his father wept in the witness stand, but sprang to life and stalked out of the courtroom during videotaped testimony of actress Jodie Foster recounting how she rejected his advances.
Jurors at Hinckley's trial were to hear Miss Foster again today, although not via television sets as they did Wednesday.
Instead, they'll be listening to two recorded telephone calls with Hinckley. In one, the actress reacts, "Oh no, not you again."
Following the telephone recordings, the defense was to begin calling psychiatrists in its effort to show that Hinckley was insane when he shot President Reagan, White House Press Secretary James Brady and two law enforcement officers on March 30, 1981.
Hinckley's lawyers contend the defendant's attack on the president was an attempt to impress Miss Foster.
The blonde actress, appearing confident on the videotape, said Hinckley began leaving love notes and poems under her dormitory door at Yale University after she enrolled there in the fall of 1980.

When he got no response, she said, he telephoned her twice. His tape recordings of those calls, seized from his Washington hotel room after the shootings, will be available to the jury. Portions of the calls were heard on the videotape.
When Miss Foster's testimony began, Hinckley put on his glasses and leaned forward toward the television monitor. But he abruptly left 25 minutes later, after Miss Foster said, "I didn't have any relationship with John Hinckley."
The half-dozen U.S. marshals who walked out with him led him back to the defense table almost the instant the videotape ended.
Hinckley's sudden exit followed by several hours the dramatic testimony of his father, who in a confessional tone told jurors, "I am the cause of John's tragedy."
The father, John W. Hinckley Sr., then buried his face in a handkerchief and wept. His sobbing wife, JoAnn, was led from the courtroom seconds later. Young Hinckley sat through it all without any outward show of emotion.
The elder Hinckley told the jury that the "greatest mistake" of his life came when he forced her son out of family home in Evergreen, Colo., three weeks before the president was shot.

"We forced him out at a time when he just couldn't cope," the senior Hinckley said.
According to earlier testimony, Hinckley's parents were following the advice of the psychiatrist treating their son when they refused to let him return home. The idea, according to witnesses, was to prod the young Hinckley to be more responsible for taking care of himself.
Miss Foster, who said she would be out of the country during the trial, was videotaped March 29 and the next day. The defendant was present for the taping, but the courtroom was closed to the public and the camera never once captured his reaction.

"Do you know him at all?" the actress was asked.
A. No.
Q. Do you have mutual friends?
A. No.
Q. Have you ever been introduced to him?
A. No.
Q. Or him to you?
A. No.
Miss Foster said from March 4 to March 6 of 1981, Hinckley left additional messages under her door.
One read, "Jodie Foster love. Just wait. I'll rescue you very soon. Please cooperate. J.W.H."
The actress said a similar note was sent to the prostitute she portrayed in the movie "Taxi Driver," a movie the defendant saw 15 times.

On March 6, Hinckley wrote another note: "Jodie, goodbye! I love you six trillion times. Don't you maybe like me just a little bit? You must admit I am different. It would make all this worthwhile. John Hinckley. Of course."
In an unmailed letter found in his hotel room the day of the shooting, Hinckley had written Miss Foster: "The reason I'm going ahead with this attempt now is because I just cannot wait any longer to impress you... I am doing all this for your sake."
Hinckley is charged in a 13-count indictment with attempting to kill the president and assaulting all four of his victims with intent to kill. He could receive a life prison term if convicted.

Four Public Hearings In City Council Agenda

Four public hearings are among the items scheduled for consideration by the City Council at tonight's 7:30 meeting at city hall.

The hearings involve: a request by J. T. Manning to rezone, from RA-20 to R-9, 4.51 acres adjacent to the Tucker Farm development and Shenandoah Subdivision; a request by Tucker Farms Inc. to rezone, from highway commercial to R-6 (residential), 10.42 acres south of Shenandoah Subdivision, east of Baker Heights Subdivision, and north of U.S. 264 Bypass;

A request by Greenville Cable TV Inc. for a revised bulk rate schedule and the establishment of a motel bulk rate; and an application by Charles Pearson for a permit to place a mobile home on S.R. 1202 250 feet south of N.C. 43.

Other agenda items include: appointments to boards and commissions; three applications for mobile home permit renewals; consideration of an ordinance regulating sexually-oriented businesses; consideration of a request by Warren B. Cade, owner of The Wiz on the U.S. 264 Bypass north of the fairgrounds, for renewal of the special use permit to operate a nightclub;

Consideration of revised fee schedules; a request by the engineering and inspections department to reactivate the traffic signal at

Washington and Third streets; a recommendation by the Traffic Commission to prohibit parking on Farmville Boulevard from Raleigh Avenue to Memorial Drive;

Street and right-of-way acceptances; scheduling of a public hearing on an annexation request; adoption of a resolution authorizing the community development director and city manager to exercise administrative powers for community development; privilege license ordinance; consideration of the Pitt County Disaster Relief and Assistance Fund;

Adoption of a resolution designating Mayo Allen as the city official authorized to represent the city in matters connected with the state in mosquito control; amendments to the city budget; and adoption of a resolution authorizing the sale of surplus city equipment.

Fulford Named To Bank Board

JERRY FULFORD

Jerry P. Fulford has been elected a city board member of the Greenville office of Branch Banking & Trust Co., according to Carl E. Brown Jr., vice president and city executive.

Fulford has been regional general agent for Integon Life Insurance Co. since 1977.

A graduate of Beaufort High School and East Carolina University, he has completed the chartered life underwriters program through the American College.

Fulford has been president, campaign chairman and member of the executive board of the Pitt County United Way. He was president of the Boys' Club and serves on the board, and is lieutenant governor elect of the University City Kiwanis Club where he was named Kiwanian of the Year. He is a member of several areas of the Shrine Club and professional underwriters organizations.

The new board member is married to the former Linda Thompson of Goldsboro and they have two children. He is

Break-Ins Investigated

FARMVILLE — Farmville police today were investigating larcenies early Tuesday at Williams Jewelers and Spotlight Records, both in the 100 block of South Main Street.

Police Capt. W.G. Barber said entrance to both stores was gained through the roofs. A crowbar was used to pry boards loose and make an opening in the jewelry store roof and doors from the roof of the record store were pried open. A quantity of watches and other jewelry were taken from the jewelry store while change was taken from the cash register of the record store, Barber said.

Mixed Reaction To Billy Graham's Visit In Soviet

By GEORGE W. CORNELL

AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Some church leaders are disappointed in evangelist Billy Graham's visit to the Soviet Union, saying he was a "poor witness" and soft-pedaled religious persecution there. Others, however, applauded his efforts in difficult circumstances.

"He did a great disservice to the cause of religious liberty," said the Rev. Blahoslav Hruby, a United Presbyterian and editor of the documentary journal, Religion in Communist Dominated Areas.

"He definitely should have spoken out strongly, but he said nothing about religious persecution there," he added. "A very poor witness."

Graham, in his major Moscow address, urged all nations to "respect the rights of religious believers" and "the freedom of the individual to profess and practice" his faith, but without referring specifically to the Soviet Union.

In news conferences, the Southern Baptist evangelist said he had seen no direct evidence of religious repression in the Soviet Union, that church services "are allowed to go on freely," and that he had "experienced total liberty in what I say."

The Rev. Edmund W. Robb, chairman of the Institute of Religion and Democracy in Washington, said Graham was "manipulated to give legitimacy to a conference controlled by the Soviet government."

"There is no question about his integrity and good intentions, but he is apparently so anxious to be an apostle of peace that he's blinded to some of the realities of the world, one being Soviet oppression of the church," said Robb, a United Methodist.

But the Rev. Keith Bridston, a Lutheran who heads the U.S. Conference of the World Council of Churches, said such a visit was bound to be misunderstood, but "basically I applaud him for it."

"Perhaps he could have been more candid and critical, but you can't stand off-afar and judge someone in a difficult situation," he said.

Graham apparently chose "private representations" with Soviet officials to try to enhance religious rights there rather than "public outcry," Bridston said, calling both "viable options."

He said he believed private efforts are probably most helpful, but "as for strategies and particulars, these are matters of debate. Only time will tell if his were effective."

James Wall, editor of Christian Century, an ecumenical weekly, said for Graham to say he had seen no evidence of depression "suggests there isn't any, and there's a lot, a lot of people struggling under pressure for their faith."

"I don't blame Billy for being gracious to his hosts, but I'm sorry about the language he used," Wall said. "To imply an absence of oppression is just not so. He better stick to preaching the gospel, which is what he says he went to do."

Graham "seemed responsible, reasonable and entirely Christian," said Russell Shaw, public affairs director for the U.S. Catholic Conference. "It's very easy to second-guess somebody in a difficult situation. Someone else might have done it differently, but I don't see any good in second-guessing Dr. Graham on it. He's no babe in the woods."

"He went with his eyes wide open, knowing the conference was taking place under questionable auspices and probably rigged as a propaganda exercise," Shaw said. "But it was one more opportunity to try to break down walls of fears and suspicions that divide people. Any opportunity is worth making the effort."

However, Robb said "the vast majority of evangelicals are very concerned at Billy's new peace emphasis, and particularly his trip to the Soviet Union. He was quoted in ways that seemed almost apologetic for Soviet policy on religion."

"I agree that in the circumstances, he should not have openly lambasted the authorities, but neither should he have made a statement that can be construed as apologetic for them," Robb said.

Bridston said he admired Graham's "determination and courage."

"I also applaud him for putting the issue of nuclear disarmament high on his agenda as a part of his basic Christian witness at this particular moment," Bridston added.

But Hruby said Graham has been used by the Soviets "as others have been used before."

He said the evangelist should have sent flowers to the wife of exiled dissident Andrei Sakharov, "instead of being sent to put a wreath on the tomb of the unknown Soviet soldier ..."

Nurse, Missionary To Address Women

Jarvis Memorial United Methodist Women will host a spring buffet luncheon at noon Monday in Jarvis Memorial's Fellowship Hall. Reservations are being made with Mrs. E. Hoover Taft Jr., or Mrs. W.C. Taylor Jr., luncheon chairpersons.

Luncheon speaker will be Elizabeth Berryhill, a registered nurse and former missionary for 16 years in Latin America. She will be introduced by Mrs. Dick Douglas, program chairperson. Mrs. Charles Kavanaugh, UMW president, will preside. The invocation will be said by Rev. Carol Goehring, Jarvis' associate minister.

Miss Berryhill received a specialty education in nurse midwifery from Western University and a Master's degree in public health from Chapel Hill. While in Latin America she studied Spanish language and customs, political science and cross-cultural health care.

She has also served in Colombia, in pediatrics, labor and delivery at the Spanish-American Clinic hospital. At the same time, she taught part-time at the Bucaramanga National U.S. Information Center.

Following Miss Berryhill's talk, 25 missions certificates will be awarded to high school graduates, newborn babies and other honorees. Making the awards presentation will be Mrs. Charles Alford and Mrs. Howard Satterfield.

The Rev. Adrian Brown, Jarvis' visitation minister, will give the benediction. A nursery will be provided for pre-school children. Cost of the meal is $4.25.

Break-Ins Investigated

FARMVILLE — Farmville police today were investigating larcenies early Tuesday at Williams Jewellers and Spotlight Records, both in the 100 block of South Main Street.

Police Capt. W.G. Barber said entrance to both stores was gained through the roofs. A crowbar was used to pry boards loose and make an opening in the jewelry store roof and doors from the roof of the record store were pried open. A quantity of watches and other jewelry were taken from the jewelry store while change was taken from the cash register of the record store, Barber said.

"I'm Linwood Mercer and I need your support for N.C. State Senate."

Linwood Mercer has the background, management ability and civic awareness we need representing us in the N.C. Senate. Here's why we should elect Linwood Mercer our next State Senator...

Eastern North Carolina background.

The son of the late Judge and Mrs. L.E. Mercer of Washington, Linwood Mercer graduated from Washington High School and attended the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. He married Alice Williams, the daughter of the late Dr. and Mrs. Sam Williams of Washington, and they soon after moved to Farmville where they still live.

As a native of Eastern North Carolina, Linwood understands the problems and expectations of our people. Both those who live on farms, and those who live in our cities and towns. With three young daughters and a family to provide for, he shares the same concerns and sees the same opportunities for the future that we do.

Proven management ability.

When Linwood Mercer moved to Farmville over eight years ago, he founded two businesses. One, Factory Storage Corporation, is a public warehousing firm which stores and ships manufactured goods. The second, Personnel Services, provides transportation labor to private and contract trucking firms and has over 200 employees in two states.

The initiative to start his own businesses and the management to maintain these businesses over the years proves that Linwood Mercer has the abilities we need to bring efficiency to state government.

As far as Linwood Mercer is concerned, "There is no reason that state government should not be run like the big business it actually is."

An effective civic leader.

As a native of Farmville, Linwood has served the town in many ways. He has been Vice-Chairman of the Farmville Housing Authority, President of the Farmville Economic Council, Treasurer of the Farmville Arts Council, and mayor of the town.

Linwood Mercer is also on the Boards of Directors of Farmville Industries, Morgan Carolina Corporation and Branch Bank & Trust Company. He is Vice-Chairman of the Pitt County Health Board, Vice-Chairman of the Farmville Democratic Executive Committee, member of the Pitt County Democratic Executive Committee, and one of six Pitt County members of the State Democratic Executive Committee.

As an active member of the Farmville United Methodist Church, Linwood is on the Administrative Board, the Finance Committee and the Parsonage Building Committee.

All this points to the fact that Linwood is an active participant in the community. He's a man who gets involved and stays in touch with the people in our counties.

An active voice in the State Senate.

As more and more government responsibilities are handed to state government from the federal level, we need a young, active representative in the N.C. Senate. We need a man like Linwood Mercer who will get involved and make sure we are fairly represented.

We need a man who can relate to the needs of our people, who has the management abilities to increase efficiency in state government and who will pitch in to help bring new jobs to our area.

The old ways of running state government aren't good enough for the changing times of today. We need Linwood Mercer in the State Senate, and Linwood Mercer needs your support.

Jones Paces 76ers; Series Tied

BOSTON (AP) — If there was a single player who symbolized the Philadelphia 76ers' turnaround from a 40-point loss to an eight-point victory over the Boston Celtics, it was Caldwell Jones.

The 7-foot center was scoreless in a 12-minute stint on Sunday as the 76ers looked nothing like the team that had the second-best record in the National Basketball Association this season. Boston won that opener of their best-of-7 semifinal playoff series 121-81.

On Wednesday night, Philadelphia won 121-113 as Jones scored 10 of his season-high 22 points in the fourth quarter, when he displayed a jump-shooting ability that belied his 7.9-point season scoring average.

The third game is Saturday in Philadelphia.

"I felt I earned my pay tonight, unlike the other day," said Jones, who settled for No. 2 scoring honors on the 76ers behind Andrew Toney's 30 points. "I only shot when I was open. I didn't try to create anything."

Jones moved outside in the fourth quarter to avoid the intimidating presence of Boston center Robert Parish. The 7-foot Parish was scoreless in the first half, when he played only 12 minutes because of foul trouble, but he scored 19 in the second half.

Boston Coach Bill Fitch said, however, that it wasn't Parish's job to follow Jones away from the basket.

"It looked like it was Robert's fault, but three straight times there was supposed to be a switch," said Fitch. "The man didn't switch who was supposed to, and Caldwell shot very well. Robert stayed in to clog the lane like he should have; he just didn't get the help."

"I dream of days when I can stand out there and take uncontested shots," said Jones. "They were leaving me open to concentrate on Andrew."

"Caldwell is a fine perimeter shooter," said 76ers Coach Billy Cunningham. "We have to get him to know we need his offense. The way to do that is give him the ball."

In contrast to the opener, when the Celtics took a 17-point halftime lead and pulled away during the entire second half, Game 2 had 24 lead changes and 14 ties, including 15 lead changes and 11 ties in the wild third period.

Neither team led by more than two points from the 11:18 mark of the third quarter until the 76ers scored six consecutive points for a 105-100 lead with 5:49 remaining in the game.

From that point, Jones kept the 76ers ahead with his outside shooting. He scored eight straight Philadelphia points in the next three minutes to counter four points apiece by Parish and Nate Archibald, who led the Celtics with 24 points.

Then Toney hit three straight baskets for the 76ers for an insurmountable 119-111 margin with 22 seconds remaining.

Seven 76ers scored in double figures, including Toney and Jones. Julius Erving had 20, Maurice Cheeks 18, Darryl Dawkins 11 and Bobby Jones and Clint Richardson 10 each.

For the Celtics, Kevin McHale scored 20 and Larry Bird 18, but only six of his came after a brilliant first period.

Bird had 12 points and eight rebounds in the quarter, including six in a row to start a 12-2 Boston spurt that turned an 18-13 deficit into a 25-20 lead with 3:51 left in the period. But that was as far ahead as the Celtics got in the game.

The Doctor Returns

Rose's Holloman Is Only Advancing Area Netter

WILSON — Rose High School's Steve Holloman was the lone area player to advance through the first day of the sectional tennis tournament which winds up today.

Holloman defeated Northeastern's Billy Warren, 6-0, 6-2, then beat Chad Porter of Bedfordfield, 6-1, 6-2, and wound up the day with a 6-1, 6-1 win over Tarboro's Clay Maynor.

A victory in the first match of the day today would qualify him for the regionals, to be held next week.

Holloman's effort helped Rose to a fourth place tie in the standings after the first day. Roanoke Rapids led the field with 18 points, while Rocky Mount and Goldsboro were tied with 15. Rose, with 13, was tied with Fike and Tarboro for the fourth spot.

Other Rose results saw Paul

Farley down Steve Harrison of Eastern Wayne, 6-0, 6-0, before losing to Terry Gratz, 6-0, 6-3. Lance Searl and Rogers Warner downed Newbold-Bynum of Murfreesboro, 6-0, 6-0, before losing to Rose-Eddeland of Tarboro, 6-4, 6-4. Jon McGee and Ed Schwidde beat Marshall and Foster of Eastern Wayne, 6-2, 6-1, before falling to Campbell-Mayo of Washington, 4-6, 6-4, 6-3.

Among Greene Central's netters, there was only one win recorded as David Nance beat Charles B. Aycock's Curt Hinton, 6-4, 6-0, but was then beaten by Edenton's James Wrighton, 7-6, 6-2.

Greene's David Harrison and Jack Griffin lost to third-seeded Nethercutt and Wrenn of Roanoke Rapids, 6-2, 6-1, while Myron Warren and Wally Pridden lost to Hilliard-Block of Tarboro, 6-2, 6-3. Danny Hill bowed to number two seeded Mike Lee of Edenton, 6-0, 6-4.

The Rams ended up with only one point.

Farmville Central collected four points as Paul Bassett downed Paul Roeloff of Plymouth, 7-5, 6-1, before losing to Tom Maynor of Tarboro, 6-1, 6-0.

Bobby Evans lost to Clay Maynor of Tarboro, 6-1, 6-2, and Rapaport-Wainwright won by default in their first match before losing in the second.

Roanoke failed to score as David Yates lost to John Gaskins of Roanoke Rapids, 6-0, 6-0. Bud Davis fell to Manteo's Keith Johnson, 7-6, 6-1. Nelson-Riggs fell to Rose-Eddeland of Tarboro, 6-3, 6-1; and Best-Keel fell before Lewis-Smith of Northeastern, 6-0, 6-0.

Williamston and Bear Grass did not compete.

Trainer Doesn't Seek Attention

BALTIMORE (AP) — Henry Clark is a quiet man who doesn't seek the kind of attention being thrust on him this week as the trainer of Linkage, who is favored to win Saturday's Preakness at Pimlico.

"I'd like to have the horse talk," the 77-year-old Clark said with a smile Wednesday. "He'd do a better job that I do."

Clark caused consternation in some circles when he skipped the 14-mile Kentucky Derby after Linkage won the 1 1/2-mile Blue Grass at Keeneland April 22, just two days after Derby favorite Timely Writer underwent surgery for an abdominal problem.

Injury and illness to several top Derby hopefuls and Clark's decision to skip the race led to a 19-horse field for the Derby.

Linkage is expected to have seven rivals in the $200,000-added Preakness. Five of them raced in the Derby — Laser Light, who was second; Reinvested, third; Water Bank, fourth; the filly Cupecoy's Joy, 10th, and Bold Style, 16th.

Two others who were not in the Derby, are Aloma's Ruler, winner of last Saturday's one-mile Withers at Aqueduct last Saturday, and Cut Away, winner of a 11-16-mile allowance race at Churchill Downs on Derby Day.

"I hated to pass up the Derby, really," Clark said Wednesday, adding that he did simply because it didn't fit into his plans for Linkage.

Now Clark, who admits he doesn't care for the hubbaloosurround the Derby, finds himself the center of attention at Pimlico, not only because Linkage is favored to win the 13-16-mile Preakness, but because Gato Del Sol, the Derby winner is not here.

Gato Del Sol, beaten by 5 1/2 lengths by Linkage in the Blue Grass, is at Belmont Park preparing for the 1 1/2-mile Belmont Stakes June 5. Trainer Ed Gregson says the Preakness didn't fit his plans.

Chick Lang, Pimlico's general manager, is unhappy about the decision of Gregson and Arthur B. Hancock III and Leone Peters, owners of Gato Del Sol, but he has kept his sense of humor.

"Lenny Goodman (agent for jockey Jeff Bell) told me he talked to Gato Del Sol yesterday and the horse is very upset he is not coming," Lang said.

The last Derby winner to skip the Preakness was Tomy Lee in 1959.

In his own way, Linkage has been telling observers he's ready for a big effort Saturday.

Linkage, who will be ridden by 50-year-old Bill Shoemaker, trying for his third Preakness victory, worked six furlongs in 1:13.2.5 May 7 and a mile in 1:39 Tuesday.

Spurs' Coach Says His Team Can Still Win

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Coach Stan Albeck maintains that his San Antonio Spurs can beat the Los Angeles Lakers when the National Basketball Association Western Conference championship series shifts to HemisFair Arena Friday night.

But Albeck admits the Spurs have had their hands full so far trying to contain the Lakers' stellar lineup while falling behind 2-0 in back-to-back losses at Los Angeles.

"LA has a tremendous team," Albeck said. "Four All-Stars and Superman. Who could ask for more?"

Albeck referred to the Lakers' bespectacled forward, Kurt Rambis, who snared 15 rebounds — most of them at the right time — as the Lakers won the second game Tuesday night 110-101 after taking the series opener 128-117.

The all-stars are Kareem Abdul-Jabbar who had 16 points, 10 rebounds and five blocked shots; Jamaal Wilkes, 22 points; Norm Nixon, 22 points and nine assists; and Earvin "Magic" Johnson, 19 points, 11 rebounds and nine assists in the latest Laker win.

"The Lakers don't scare us," Albeck said after the second loss. "Why should they scare us? We missed some shots at the end that we usually make. That was the difference."

Albeck contends San Antonio can even the series with back-to-back victories before expected capacity crowds here Friday and Saturday nights. But only four times in NBA history has a team come from two games down to win a best-of-seven series.

"The last two games we've been missing the little things. People that we don't expect to hurt us have killed us," San Antonio forward Mike Mitchell said.

Mitchell was speaking of Bob McAdoo, who came off the bench to hit 21 points in the first loss, and then Rambis, who dominated the backboards in the second game.

"We came out and concentrated on McAdoo, and Rambis got loose on us," Mitchell said.

The teams exchanged differing opinions about on whom the pressure rests coming into the two San Antonio games.

"Look, the pressure is all on them," Los Angeles' Nixon said. "All we have to do is go down there and try to steal one. Believe me, they are aware of that. I don't mind playing at their place. I like it when people are booing you and getting on you. That brings the best in me."

"The jury is still out. There's no verdict yet on this series," countered Spurs center George Johnson.

The Lakers have an extra incentive to win Friday night — keeping an unbeaten streak alive in the playoffs after retiring Phoenix 4-0 in the semi-final round.

Only four other teams in NBA playoff history have won six straight.

Cogan Making Presence Felt At Indy

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) - It hasn't taken Kevin Cogan long to make his presence felt on the Penske Racing Team, an organization accustomed to being up front.

Cogan, a handsome 26-year-old, in his first full season of Indy car racing, outdid teammate Rick Mears Wednesday, establishing an unofficial Indianapolis Motor Speedway one-lap record of 206.3 mph in practice for the May 30 Indianapolis 500.

Mears raised his own unofficial Indy record of 205, established Monday, to 205.8 mph earlier Wednesday.

Then Cogan, whose main claim to fame is a fourth-place finish in his rookie appearance at Indy a year ago, went out and stole Mears' thunder.

"Nobody was in front of me and I was able to just put my foot into it," said Cogan, adding that he was moving at 210 mph in the straightaways of the 2.5-mile oval.

Last year Cogan, from Redondo Beach, Calif., drove a Cosworth-powered Phoenix entered by Jerry O'Connell and started in the No.12 position. His move to fourth place led to his ride with Roger Penske's team when three-time Indy winner Bobby Unser decided to leave.

"This is such a change from last year when I never knew from one race to another if we'd have a car," said Cogan, who launched his racing career in go-karts 10 years ago. "Jerry would say 'This is our last race' every time. I couldn't blame him for that. We were very good friends and he put out a lot of money. He was looking for a sponsor all the time and at the same time paying for a very expensive racing team."

Cogan has no financial problems with his ride in 1982 and he appears a rising star with a bright future on a team which spares no expense and has won more than 60 percent of the Indy-car races since 1979.

"I'm as optimistic as can be about our car," said Cogan, who has had at least a half dozen laps in excess of 200 since the Speedway opened for practice Saturday. "I'd like to run all day long but it wouldn't be smart to do that."

Asked how it feels to be going faster than he's ever gone before in a race car, Cogan smiled and replied: "It's kind of frightening out there. You don't ever feel comfortable moving at that type of speed. You've always got to be looking for something that could be dangerous."

A bachelor who might easily be mistaken for a movie star with his blond hair, blue eyes and big smile, Cogan has appeared in television commercials and magazine ads. He also says he is aware of the impact victory here could produce.

"Sure, there are a lot of things like movies that could go with winning this race. But it's such a long month and I can't anticipate that now. I try not to think about it," he said.

Cogan is one of six drivers to top 200 mph in the first five days of practice leading to Saturday's start of qualifications for the 66th Indy race.

Don Whittington joined his younger brother, Bill, in the elite group Wednesday with a lap at 201.5 in a March. The other drivers who have hit 200

Tarboro Nips Tigers

TARBORO - Tarboro High School scored four times in the third inning and gained a 5-2 baseball victory over Williamston last night in the Northeastern Conference.

Tarboro took the lead in the first inning on Greg Steele's solo homer, but Williamston came back with one in the top of the second to tie it up.

Tim Hines led off the second with a double and Ed Pippen singled. Keith Perry sacrificed Hines over with the tying run.

However, Tarboro broke the game open with four in the third. Steele was walked and Robert Andrews singled. Curtis Bryant got a hit, driving in both runners. William Dunn singled and stole up, and both he and Bryant scored on Ken Lewis' single for a 5-1 lead.

Williamston managed to come up with one more in the fourth, but could come no closer.

Bryant led the Tarboro hitting with two, while Hines had two, both doubles and Pippen had two singled for Williamston.

The loss dropped the Tigers to 7-5 in the league and 10-7 overall. They return home on Friday to host Washington.

Sr. Ruth Tryouts

Senior Babe Ruth tryouts will be held Saturday at 3 p.m. in Guy Smith Stadium, league officials have announced.

The tryout will last about an hour and prospective players should bring a glove to the tryout.

Players trying out for Senior Babe Ruth must have been born prior to Aug. 1, 1966 or after Aug. 1, 1963.

Players will be drafted for the teams immediately following the tryouts.

SouthWest Nips Panthers

BETHEL - SouthWest Edgecombe scored in every inning along the way to an 8-4 softball victory over North Pitt yesterday.

SouthWest grabbed the lead with two runs in the first, then added single runs in each of the remaining six innings. North Pitt scored once in the first, added one in the fourth and scored twice in the fifth.

Theresa Mayo put SouthWest ahead in the first with a two-run homer. J. Horne led the Lady Cougar hitting with three.

Wanda Hines led North Pitt's attack with two hits, while Linda Harrell added a triple.

North Pitt is now 3-8 in the Eastern Carolina Conference and 3-12 overall. SouthWest climbs to 7-4 in the conference.

North Pitt travels to Ayden-Grifton on Friday.

JAMESVILLE - Jamesville High School's girls romped to a 20-3 victory over Hatteras yesterday in a non-conference softball game.

Details of the game were unavailable.

Jamesville closes out the regular season on Monday hosting Bear Grass.

WINDSOR - Bertie High School rolled to an 11-1 Northeastern Conference softball game yesterday.

Roanoke's only run came on a solo homer by Mary Morning.

Further details were unavailable.

Roanoke Finally Downs Bertie In 21-19 Game

WINDSOR - Roanoke High School outlasted Bertie in an eight-inning slugfest that finally saw the Redskins pull out a 21-19 victory last night in the Northeastern Conference baseball game.

The Redskins made nine pitching changes along the way as they continually fought back and forth with the Falcons.

Bertie added one in the sixth, only to see Roanoke rally for six in the sixth for a 19-16 lead. Bertie, however, tied it up one more time with three in the bottom of the seventh.

Roanoke finally pushed over two in the eighth, then held Bertie scoreless to win it. In the eighth Darius Hudgins walked and Joey Ross singled.

With one out, Greg Casper grounded out, scoring Hudgins. Tony Hines then singled in Ross with the insurance run.

Ross led Roanoke's hitting with four, including a homer, while Casper had four with a double. Tony Hines had three, while Rick Hines added a homer.

Bertie was led by John Jernigan with two hits, one of them a homer.

Now 6-11 overall and 5-8 in conference play, the Redskins travel to Roanoke Rapids on Friday.

Holliday Hurls Bullet 1-Hitter

JAMESVILLE - Rusty Holliday tossed a one-hitter at Hatteras High School for Jamesville yesterday as the Bullets romped to a 12-0 victory in the non-conference baseball action.

Holliday struck out six and walked four along the way in the game called after five innings because of the ten-run lead rule.

Jamesville got all it needed in the second, scoring eight times. With one away, Rex Bell singled and Holliday got a hit. An error on the relay brought in Bell. Marty Swinson walked as did Matthew Moore. Thyrn Williams reached on an error, scoring two, and with two away, Carl Ange cracked a three-run homer to make it 6-0.

Keith Waters kept it going with a walk, and courtesy runner Greg Hardison stole second, scoring on Jeff Rogers' hit. Bell then singled to score Rogers.

Jamesville added one in the third and three more in the fourth for its 12-run total.

The Bullet attack was led by Ange with three hits, while Bell and Holliday each had two.

Jamesville, now 16-3 overall and 13-2 in the Tobacco Belt Conference, has clinched one of the two playoff spots the league has. The Bullets close out their regular season on Monday, hosting Bear Grass.

Hooks Is Top Putter

Rodney Hooks spotted Robbie Ehrmann and David Beacham six strokes in the first round before coming back to win the Wednesday Night Tournament last night at the Greenville Putt-Putt. Hooks finished with a 17-under 91.

Ehrmann and Beacham carded first round 29's before finishing second and third respectively with 97 and 99.

Hooks caught Ehrmann after two rounds as both tied at 61 while Beacham dropped to third with a 65. Ehrmann struggled in with a 36 on the last round while Hooks kept his momentum with a 30 for his 91 total score.

Johnny Carrow finished fourth with a 100 while Bobby Beacham came in fifth with a 101.

Tonight's Amateur Tournament will begin at 8 p.m.

The Lions scored early then held off the Kiwanis to gain a 5-3 victory in the North State Little League yesterday.

The Lions pushed over two runs in the first, while the Kiwanis came up with one in the second, that on a solo homer by Robbie McDonald.

The Lions, however, added two in the third to wrap it up. Carlos Harris reached on an error and moed to third on two passed balls. Tom Moye reached on an error, scoring Harris. He scored on Jarvis Groom's single.

The Lions added one in the fourth, while the Kiwanis came up with two in the bottom of the fourth.

Groom led the Lion hitting with three, while McDonald's homer was the lone Kiwanis hit off the combined pitching of Groom and Moye.

15-4 victory over the Exchange yesterday in the Tar Heel Little League.

First Federal scored once in the first, only to see Exchange tie it up with one in the top of the second.

But in the bottom of the inning, First Federal wrapped it up with seven runs. Billy Anderson led off with a walk and Lee Watson was hit by a pitch. Keith Corbett also walked, loading the bases. A wild pitch scored the first run, and Maurice Dyer reached on an error, scoring Watson. Corbett also scored on a wild pitch with Dyer moving up and then stealing third. John Bolen walked and a wild pitch scored Dyer. Mark Holloman reached on an error, scoring Bolen, but was thrown out advancing. Stacy Best was hit by a pitch, stole second and moved up when Frankie Pugh reached on an error. Best scored on a wild pitch and a balk let Pugh come in later.

First Federal added three in the third, with Dyer having a two-run homer, and four in the fifth. Exchange added two in the fifth and one in the sixth.

Dyer led the FF hitting with three, while Best added two. Britt Erwin and Duain Williams each had two for Exchange.

Phillies Got More Than They Asked

By The Associated Press
Ron Reed was making his first pitching start in five years, so Philadelphia Phillies Manager Pat Corrales asked him to give him just "five or six good innings" against the Los Angeles Dodgers. He got more than that from the right-hander, and some offense to boot, as the Phillies routed the Dodgers 11-3 Wednesday night. The 39-year-old Reed, a relief pitcher since 1977, allowed just six hits in seven innings to record his first victory of the season. In addition, Reed knocked in two runs with a sacrifice fly and a single.

"I felt my arm tighten up between the sixth and seventh inning," said Reed, who survived rain delays of 45 minutes and one hour and 33 minutes.

Corrales turned to Reed as a starter to formulate a five-man rotation, and Corrales said Reed would start again Monday against the Houston Astros.

"He was the most likely guy I had, especially against Los Angeles with its righthanded power," said Corrales of Reed. "I couldn't see starting a left-hander against those guys."

The start was Reed's first since he pitched three innings in a 6-5 loss to the Montreal Expos on Oct. 1, 1977.

Murphy's Homer

Atlanta Braves' Dale Murphy is greeted by teammates Claudell Washington, center, and Randy Johnson after Murphy belted a two-run homer with two outs in the ninth inning to put the finishing touches on the Braves' 6-3 win over the Chicago Cubs Wednesday. Cubs' catcher, Jody Davis, in the background, shows less enthusiasm. (AP Laserphoto)

Elsewhere in the National League, Atlanta beat Chicago 6-3 and San Francisco nipped Montreal 3-2. Rain washed out the San Diego-New York game.

The Phillies took a 2-0 lead in the first off loser Bob Welch, 4-2, on George Vukovich's bases-loaded single. The Dodgers got a run in the second on Mike Scioia's sacrifice fly.

The Phillies boosted their lead to 4-1 in the bottom of the inning on a sacrifice fly by Reed and an RBI single by Gary Matthews, then made it 6-1 in the fourth on Pete Rose's run-scoring single.

The Phillies put the game away with five runs in the eighth, with Vukovich's RBI double keying the rally.

Porfi Altamirano relieved Reed in the eighth and finished up.

Braves 6, Cubs 3
Ken Smith drove home the tie-breaking run with a pinch single and Dale Murphy knocked in three runs, two of them with a ninth-inning homer, to lead Atlanta over Chicago.

Bob Walk, 4-2, picked up the victory for Atlanta with relief help from Gene Garber, who gained his seventh save. Randy Martz, 3-3, took the loss for the Cubs, ending a four-game Chicago winning streak.

Murphy's ninth home run of the year cushioned the Braves' lead in the ninth after Smith's pinch hit had snapped a 3-3 tie in the sixth.

"They've been doing it for us all year," Atlanta Manager Joe Torre said of his pitching staff. "We had one bad siege in St. Louis, but beyond that they've hit off Expos starter Steve Rogers, 4-3, who had a no-hitter until Darrell Evans doubled with two out in the sixth.

Montreal third baseman Tim Wallach committed a throwing error on Jim Wohlford's grounder and then bobbled Johnnie LeMaster's bouncer. Two outs later, Joe Morgan walked to load the bases and Tom O'Malley hit a grounder that handcuffed Montreal first baseman Al Oliver for an error, enabling two runs to score.

The Expos cut the margin to 2-1 in the sixth on Gary Carter's seventh home run. A two-out RBI double by Chili Davis in the seventh gave the Giants a 3-1 margin and their eventual winning run.

Laskey, 2-2, whose two victories have come against

Montreal, worked the first 62-3 innings before Dan Schatzeder and Greg Minton followed. Minton gained his sixth save after giving up the Expos' last run on a wild pitch in the eighth.

"I don't think we've played this bad at home since the lean years, 1975 and 1976, when we were going with a youth movement," said Carter after the Expos lost for the seventh time in eight games.

"There's no reason to panic," he added. "This team has the desire and maturity to turn it around."

Ol' A.J.'s Back At The Brickyard For His Silver Anniversary Race

By STEVE HERMAN
AP Sports Writer

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Neither time nor unparalleled success can dim A.J. Foyt's memory of his first Indianapolis 500. It was almost enough to keep him from ever driving again in the race he has come to dominate.

It was 1958. A 15-car crash on the first lap killed veteran driver Pat O'Connor — "one of the worst feelings I ever had," Foyt says.

"They tell you everything to look for, and then they had the bad wreck," he recalls. "And Pat O'Connor, who helped me a lot, I seen him upside down there, with the car on fire. I didn't know if I really wanted to race or not."

"That was probably one of the biggest things that stuck in my mind. I was only 23 years old, and I had never really seen anything like that or experienced anything like that. And it just kind of shocked me pretty much."

He did come back, of course. The next year, he improved his 16th-place finish to 10th. Two years later, in 1961, he won Indy for the first of an unprecedented four times.

Now, at age 47, Foyt is the veteran, preparing for his silver anniversary race at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway on May 30 and coming off his own potentially career-ending crash.

He suffered a compound fracture of his right arm in last July's Michigan 500 when his car veered into the wall and slid on its side. Foyt says he was lucky not to lose the arm, and he still can't straighten it.

"I haven't been back in a championship car since I had the wreck," said Foyt, often grumpy and reticent to talk about himself. "That's one reason I went to Daytona (for a stock car race in February) to test, to see if I really wanted to race again."

He does. "I still would like to run another year or two, until I lose the desire," he says.

Yet the desire is tinged with the memory of Michigan. "A lot of people say, you know, wrecks don't bother you, and I've heard a lot of race drivers stand up and say that. But I can't ever say that. I don't care if I go out there today and run 10 laps. Out of the 10 laps, I've probably thrilled myself pretty good two or three times.

"You hear some of these guys say they never get scared. Why, I scare the hell out of myself a lot. I'm not going to lie about it."

Foyt is the last link between two racing generations. He started racing before many of the younger drivers were even born. He admits he doesn't even know who some of them are. He's a throwback to the generation of grease-covered, lead-footed drivers who did everything themselves. Yet he has bridged the generation gap with extraordinary success.

Foyt has won 67 U.S. Auto Club races for Indy-type cars, 32 more than his nearest competitor, Al Unser. He has driven more than 9,000 miles in race competition at Indianapolis, more than 2,500 miles more than second-place Bobby Unser. He holds the record for most Indy starts (24), most races leading the field (12) and most winnings ($1.4 million).

These days, Foyt doesn't do everything himself, although he remains in complete charge of his operation. He's as comfortable in a Texas leisure suit as he is in overalls. And despite his reputation as a curmudgeon, he can even be a bit modest.

"A lot of people have said I'm probably one of the best," says the stocky Houston driver. "But I don't feel I'm better than anybody else. That's my personal opinion."

"I'm just out there to do a job. I feel like this here: You've got about 10 drivers that any given time can win a race and run awful good. If you wanted to narrow it down, you can get down to maybe five. And it really would be unfair for me to sit here and pick (one)."

The list would include six other drivers who have dominated in racing over the past decade and a half. Three of them, the Unser brothers and Johnny Rutherford, have won three times each since 1968. Mario Andretti, Gordon Johncock and Rick Mears have won once each.

Except for Mears, who is 30, all are in their 40s. Defending champion Bobby Unser, who first came to Indy in 1963, is the oldest at 48. Johncock is 45, Rutherford 44, Andretti and Al Unser 42.

"The older drivers had to build a lot, come up with their own designs and go out and test everything themselves," Foyt says. "In automobile racing today, you have so many computers, you have wind tunnels you go to."

"When I first started, you never even heard of wind tunnels, or anything like that — or computers. So you took your hacksaw and a welding torch and you welded up something and tried to go out and win a race."

Oakland Bullpen Shuts Down Orioles

By The Associated Press
Yes, the Oakland A's do have a bullpen. Not only that, they have some effective pitchers in it.

The Oakland quartet of Dennis Kinney, Bo McLaughlin, Bob Owhinko and Dave Beard outpitched Baltimore's Jim Palmer, Tim Stoddard and Tippy Martinez Wednesday as the A's rallied for four runs in the eighth inning and a 5-4 victory over the Orioles.

"Their bullpen shut us down," Baltimore Manager Earl Weaver said. "I was expecting one of those guys from our bullpen to come in and close it down for us, but no one did."

In other American League action, Chicago ripped Toronto 9-2. New York edged California 6-5. Kansas City downed Milwaukee 9-7. Boston defeated Minnesota 4-1 and Cleveland beat Seattle 8-5. The Detroit-Texas game was rained out.

Palmer, making his second relief appearance of the year for the Orioles and trying for his first save since 1975, came on in the seventh after starter Mike Flanagan held the A's to one run and two hits before a groin pull flared up. Palmer got through his first inning easily enough, but ran into problems in the eighth when a single by Tony Phillips and a pair of walks loaded the bases.

Weaver summoned Stoddard, who was greeted by Cliff Johnson's two-run single and gave way to Martinez. A walk to Wayne Gross loaded the bases again and, after a double play via the plate left runners at second and third, Dan Meyer singled them home with a grounder through the right side.

Meanwhile, Kinney replaced Oakland starter Mike Norris with one out in the fourth and pitched one scoreless inning. McLaughlin followed with two shutout innings. Owhinko contributed one and Beard worked the last 12-3 — scoreless, of course — to boost his record to 4-0. The four Oakland relievers allowed a total of three hits.

Weaver, whose relievers are 3-8 this season, said the Orioles may make a deal to help their arson squad.

"We're looking for help," he said. "Our ears are not closed and our eyes are not closed. When you're in the cellar, you look for a way out."

And Weaver could only wonder what might have happened had Flanagan not been ailing.

"He was hurting," Weaver said. "He didn't ask to come out, but he said it was bothering him. It hurt him even when he threw that three-hitter a few weeks ago, and it was bothering him too much. He was in too much pain to leave him in all the way."

White Sox 9, Blue Jays 2
Greg Luzinski and Bill Almon drove in three runs apiece to back the six-hit pitching of Dennis Lamp. RBI singles by Luzinski and Harold Baines gave the White Sox a 2-0 lead in the first inning against Mark Bombardier and Almon hit a solo home run in the fourth.

Chicago got its runs in the seventh on a sacrifice fly by Carlton Fisk, a single by Jim Morrison and doubles by Luzinski and Almon. Lamp had a shutout until the ninth when Dave Revere hit a two-run, two-out homer.

Yankees 6, Angels 5
Dave Collins keyed a four-run New York rally in the fourth inning with a two-run single as the Yankees wiped out a 2-1 California lead on Reggie Jackson's two-run first-inning homer. Lou Piniella began the comeback by drawing a one-out walk off Angel Moreno. Roy Smalley and Butch Hobson singled to tie the score and Barry Foote doubled to give New York a 3-2 lead. After Luis Sanchez loaded the bases with two out by walking Willie Randolph, Collins singled for two more runs.

The Yankees made it 6-2 in the fifth when Bobby Murcer's bases-loaded grounder drove in what proved to be the winning run. The Angels chased Mike Morgan in the fifth and Shane Rawley blanked them until they scored twice in the eighth. Rich Gossage retired Jackson on a grounder with runners at second and third to end the inning.

Royals 9, Brewers 7
Hal McRae and Greg Pryor drove in three runs apiece for Kansas City, offsetting three solo home runs by Milwaukee's Paul Molitor and leading the Royals to a sweep of their three-game series. Pryor tagged Randy Lerch for a two-run double in the fourth inning that put the Royals on top 4-2 and he scored on John Wathan's single. McRae's two-run double in the sixth gave the Royals an 8-4 lead.

Molitor, who had only one previous home run, hit solo shots in the first and fifth off Dennis Leonard and in the ninth off Dan Quisenberry. He also singled home a run in the seventh.

"I'm not a home run hitter," Molitor said. "I just happened to hit the ball where the wind was blowing. I've never had three in a game, not in sandlot, high school, minor leagues or anywhere. And I've never done well against Leonard. The first one was a fast ball up. In the fifth, I hit a pretty good pitch, a slider down. The last one was a knuckleball up."

Red Sox 4, Twins 1
Jim Rice drove in three runs with a pair of homers and Dennis Eckersley struck out 11 batters in eight innings before needing help from Mark Clear in the ninth. Eckersley was scored on when Kent Hrbek homered in the fourth inning and extended his hitting streak to 22 games, five short of the major league record for a rookie.

The Red Sox broke a 1-1 tie against reliever Ron Davis when Carney Lansford singled with one out in the eighth, stole second, moved to third on Dave Stapleton's fly ball and scored on a single by Glenn Hoffman. With two out in the ninth, Dwight Evans singled and Rice, who hit a solo homer in the fourth, homered again.

Indians 8, Mariners 5
Joe Charboneau collected three hits and drove in three runs for Cleveland. Charboneau delivered RBI singles in the first and second innings when Cleveland built a 5-0 lead against Floyd Banister. He added his second homer of the season — both in the three games in Seattle — in the fifth to put the Indians ahead 6-4.

Graham's Trip Hurt Him More Than Helped

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — David Graham took a little trip last year after winning the U.S. Open.

It produced "a very substantial amount of money," said the Australian native who now lives in Dallas.

It also had a very adverse effect on his golf game.

"I played for 13 consecutive weeks," Graham said, and reeled off a list of stops he made on the around-the-world jaunt — England, France, Hong Kong, Japan, New Zealand, Australia and Panama.

It left him exhausted, drained. He's paid the price this season.

"I didn't really get over it until about a month ago," Graham said before teeing off today in the first round of the $350,000 Colonial National Invitation tournament.

"I didn't play well at all until the Tournament of Champions," he said.

But he defended his decision to make the late-season, globe-trotting trip.

"I was in demand because I won the U.S. Open," he said. "I'm not Jack Nicklaus or Tom Watson. I'm not in that category. You have to make it when you can."

"When someone comes to you with $25,000 to play one golf tournament, what are you going to do, say, 'No, I don't want your money'?"

"You can't do that. You have to make it when you have the opportunity."

"The same thing happened to (British Open champ) Bill Rogers and the same thing will happen to (new Masters champion Craig) Stadler."

Rogers played an extensive foreign schedule late last year, compiling a record that included seven international victories. But he hasn't won this season, hasn't played anywhere near the level he achieved last season.

And Stadler has just returned from a two-week tour of Japan.

"It can take its toll," Graham said, then repeated: "but it's very, very hard for someone in my position to say no to $25,000 for a week's work."

While he got away to a slow start, Graham has played very well in the last month, winning more than $50,000. He was second at the Tournament of Champions, third in Dallas and ranks high among the list of favorites for this title.

Stadler and Rogers also are included in the elite, 102 man field.

How Tar Heel Representatives And Senators Voted

Roll Call Report Service
WASHINGTON — Here's how area members of Congress were recorded on major roll call votes between April 29 and May 5.

House
REPAIRING DAMS — By a vote of 212 for and 140 against, the House adopted an amendment requiring those who benefit directly from federally built irrigation dams, such as agricultural interests, to share the cost of repairs. Historically, the U.S. Treasury has paid the entire cost. The amendment, favored by the administration, was attached to a bill (HR 3208) authorizing up to $650 million for repairing 56 federally built dams, most of them in the West. The bill was later passed and sent to the Senate.

Sponsor Gerald Solomon, R-N.Y., said that "economic efficiency as well as fundamental fairness will be sacrificed if we continue to subsidize the users of water and power from federal dams."

Opponent Don Clausen, R-Calif., said that "when the government has designed or built an unsafe structure... it should be required to make safe that dam which everyone concerned had a right to presume was safe to begin with..."

Members voting "yea" wanted direct beneficiaries of federally built irrigation dams to share the cost of repairs.

Reps. L.H. Fountain, D-2, Eugene Johnston, R-6, James Martin, R-9, and James Broyhill, R-10, voted "yea."

Reps. Stephen Neal, D-5, and Charles Rose, D-7, voted "nay."

Reps. Walter Jones, D-1, Charles Whitley, D-3, Ike Andrews, D-4, Hefner, D-8, and William Hendon, R-11, did not vote.

Senate
NUCLEAR WASTE — By a vote of 52 for and 40 against, the Senate killed an amendment making it easier for a state to block the location of a nuclear waste repository within its boundaries; a state's objection would stand unless both houses of Congress voted to nullify it. Later, the Senate approved softer language that allows a state's veto to stand if either house votes in favor of the veto.

The vote occurred during debate on a bill (S 1662) providing for permanent storage of radioactive waste from nuclear utilities and weapons factories. By 1984, the government would pick three potential sites, with Washington, Nevada, Utah, Louisiana, Texas and Mississippi leading candidates because of their rock or salt formations. By 1986, the first repository would be selected, and by the mid-1990s it would be in operation. The bill was passed and sent to the House. Nuclear waste currently is stored temporarily near the utilities or weapons plant.

Sen. Pete Domenici, R-N.M., who supported killing the amendment, said that when it comes to solving the nuclear waste storage problem, "Everyone wants to proceed but they want the other fellow to take the waste. It's sort of like, 'Don't tax me. Tax the fellow behind the tree.'"

Sen. Howard Cannon, D-Nev., who sponsored the amendment, called it "the most equitable balance between state and federal rights in the resolution of a truly national problem of intensely local concern."

Senators voting "yea" wanted states to have less power to reject a federal nuclear waste repository.

Sens. John East, R, and Jesse Helms, R, voted "yea."

DELAY — The Senate killed, 63 for and 27 against, an amendment to delay for three years the 1984 target date for selecting three locations for the permanent storage of nuclear waste (see preceding vote). A survey of suitable geological formations throughout the nation is due to be completed in 1986, supporters of the delay noted. The vote occurred during debate on S 1662.

Sen. Alan Simpson, R-Wyo., who favored killing the amendment, said the measure "would substantially delay the repository program. That is the bottom line."

Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., who sponsored the amendment, noted that nuclear waste remains radioactive for a long time, and he asked: "After all, what is a delay of three years as compared to a program here for 10,000 years?"

Senators voting "nay" wanted to delay selection of waste sites until more geological study of the entire nation has been undertaken.

East and Helms voted "yea."

INTERIM STORAGE — By a vote of 47 for and 43 against, the Senate retained a section of the nuclear waste bill providing for interim storage of radioactive material at federally-built sites until the geologic repositories are operational. The provision was advocated by the utility industry, for it would enable utilities whose storage pools are overloaded to send their waste elsewhere. South Carolina, New York and Illinois are among states that could provide temporary storage. The vote occurred during consideration of S 1662 (see preceding votes).

Supporter James McClure, R-Idaho, said that in the event utilities cannot solve their storage problems through advanced technology it is necessary to have "a last-resort, away-from-reactor storage capability..."

Opponent Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., said the lure of temporary, short-term storage could not be provided "when we should be focusing on a permanent solution to nuclear waste storage."

Senators voting "yea" wanted to provide the away-from-reactor storage that the utility industry had asked for.

East and Helms voted "yea."

Closer Syrian Ties To Iran Since Rebellion

By NICOLAS B. TATRO
Associated Press Writer
HAMA, Syria (AP) — Bulldozers scrape bare the earth where whole neighborhoods once stood. Gaping shell holes and bullet scars mark scores of remaining buildings and the once-bustling streets are nearly deserted.

In February, Syrian troops used artillery and tanks to crash a rebellion in this ancient city of 260,000 which has long been a power base for the Islamic-fundamentalist Moslem Brotherhood opposed to President Hafez Assad's government.

The cost was high. At least 3,000 people were killed, by unofficial Syrian estimates, and thousands more wounded, arrested or forced to flee. But the Syrian army was able to prevent the uprising from spreading to other cities and thus quashed the most serious challenge to the regime since Assad came to power in 1970 via a military coup.

A recent tour of the stricken city revealed that the destruction was far greater than originally reported at the time of the fighting when nearly all reporters were unable to visit Hama.

Western diplomats say the legacy of bitterness may provide fertile ground for the recruiting of Islamic-fundamentalist guerrillas in the future but that the army's object lesson has dealt a crippling blow to the underground movement.

At the same time, the Hama rebellion has prompted the Syrian government to risk alienation in much of the Arab world by forging strong new ties with the Islamic revolutionary regime in Iran, a predominantly non-Arab nation that is at war with Iraq.

Hama, on the Orontes River 125 miles north of Damascus, the Syrian capital, has yet to recover from the trauma.

In the market along Hamadiyyeh Street, an elderly merchant told a reporter that 85 of his relatives and close friends died in the fighting.

"Before the fighting this street was full of people until midnight," said the merchant. Now, he shrugged, there is no nightlife and very little business.

The merchant and two friends said Syrian government commands rounded up all the men after the fighting.

"My son is still in jail, but I don't know where," the merchant said, adding that most of his friends and relatives who were killed died when shellfire collapsed their houses.

A tour of the city indicated about 20 percent of Hama was destroyed and an equal portion was damaged but repairable. A Syrian source said a government study indicated it would cost the equivalent in Syrian lira of about $550 million to rebuild.

Explaining the harsh measures against the Moslem Brotherhood in Hama, one senior official who declined use of his name, said: "When you have killers who are armed, what are you supposed to do, shake hands? No. Government troops tried as best they could to avoid killing innocents. Some got caught in the middle."

The Hama uprising climaxed a two-year-long campaign of bombings and assassinations that the brotherhood carried out against Assad supporters. In the past six months, car bombs exploded in Damascus outside the air force headquarters, the Prime Ministry building, the Information Ministry and in a residential neighborhood. More than 100 people, nearly all civilians, were killed.

Syrian officials accused the Iraqi government of arming the Moslem Brotherhood and closed its borders with Iraq in late March, shutting off the oil through a pipeline that stretches to the Mediterranean from Baghdad, the Iraqi capital.

"Closing the borders with Iraq was a measure we were obliged to take," Information Minister Ahmed Iskandar Ahmed said in an interview. "We closed the door to any criminal who would try infiltrating into Syria or anybody trying to smuggle in a booby-trapped car."

Iraq was Syria's main source of oil, about 35 million barrels in 1981, and severing all ties with Baghdad over the Hama rebellion forced a major realignment in Syria's foreign policy.

In the wake of Hama, Foreign Minister Abdel Halim Khaddam of Syria traveled to Iraq and signed a trade protocol insuring Syria of about 60 million barrels of oil annually.

Despite official denials, Western diplomats say Syria is sending ammunition to Iran and one diplomat said Syria was a conduit for Soviet-made 130mm artillery and mortars en route to Iran's military forces.

"We have improved our economic and trade relations but we have no military relations," said Farouk Al Shara, Syria's minister of state for foreign affairs.

A Western diplomat, who declined to be identified, described Syria's diplomatic moves as "risky" since they would likely alienate Arab states on the Persian Gulf, such as Saudi Arabia, which backs Iraq in the war with Iran and also provided more than $1 billion in financial aid to Syria last year.

American College In Athens Plays A Unique Role

By KERIN HOPE
Associated Press Writer
ATHENS, Greece (AP) — The American College of Greece has carved out a unique place in Greek education by providing courses that are not always available at local universities.

Both Greek and foreign students here apply to the college in increasing numbers, seeking marketable business skills or a degree that can help them move on to graduate school abroad.

Several of Greece's seven universities are strong in mathematics, architecture and medicine, but there is only one psychology department in the country. Courses in business, social sciences and fine arts are hard to find.

An Education Ministry official says limited government funds for higher education are channeled to developing the new universities in Thrace, Crete and Epirus and providing improved science facilities.

"These priorities come first," said the official who asked not to be identified. "In addition, entrenched conservatism among university teachers has meant the inexact sciences are left out in the cold."

Many of the American College's 1,400 students, up from 850 five years ago, say they prefer the institution's close faculty supervision to a Greek university where several hundred students may try to attend a single lecture.

"At a Greek university, I would hardly ever get a chance of contact with a professor," said Lucia Papadakis, a junior. "Here I can discuss my academic ideas or my personal problems with several faculty members."

The president of American College, John S. Bailey, says, "We're trying here to complement what the Greek universities offer and add another dimension to the academic process in Greece."

He said a recent accreditation by the New England Association of Schools and Colleges now means international recognition for the college's degrees.

"Our students are going to find it much easier to transfer to or win graduate places at American schools, and we should attract more international students," Bailey added.

The institution was originally founded as Pierce College for girls at high-school level, in 1878 in Smyrna, Turkey, by the American Board for Foreign Missions of Boston, Mass.

It moved to Greece in 1923 after Smyrna was razed by the Turkish army, and started offering college-level courses after World War II. It moved to its present campus in Athens in 1968.

Ninety percent of its funding comes from tuition fees, which are about $3,000 a year.

The college hopes to introduce a computer science program in the next three years as well as expanding liberal-arts courses.

The coeducational college overlooks Athens from a modern campus on the forested slopes of Mount Hymettus.

A large percentage of Greek students prefer to study abroad. An estimated 55,000 are at colleges and universities in Western Europe and about 12,000 in the United States.

"One of our aims is to provide an alternative to going abroad," Bailey said.

"I didn't make it to Greek university so I came here instead, but I've gained much, especially from the communication you have with the faculty," said Jim Loizos, a history senior who plans to do his graduate studies in the United States.

Business studies are a focus of interest at the American College. Graduates are snapped up by Greece's manufacturing and services sectors, which are chronically short of trained executives.

Nearly 85 percent of American College's students are Greeks.

About 200 students from 26 countries, many from Cyprus and the Middle East, add an international flavor to the college, but the atmosphere is recognizably Greek.

"It's interesting, this combination of finding out about Greek culture at the same time you're getting an American education," said Cindy Blain, a freshman from Hartford, Conn., and the daughter of a U.S. Foreign Service family.

Tidy Profit In Pac-Man

MORGANTOWN, W.Va. (AP) — If students at West Virginia University write the folks for more money, it may not be for pizza and beer. It could go to feed Pac-Man.

The 70 video games at the Mountainair student center and Towers dormitories turned a tidy $150,000 profit for the school this term.

"We have been told that WVU has the highest income per machine of any campus location in the nation," said Dan Adams, associate director of the Mountainair.

Proceeds from the games — which took in more than a million quarters — were split between the vendor that supplied and serviced the video games and the university, Adams said. Profits help pay expenses at the student center.

Two years ago, WVU replaced pingpong and pool tables at a game room with 49 video games. Another 21 were placed in the Towers.

The results were so impressive, he says, that other universities have made inquiries. Last week, Adams talked to officials at Virginia Tech and Texas A&M about WVU's video operations.

Before Pac-Man and his video relatives took the campus by storm, the other games produced only about $10,000 a year, Adams said.

The university is also a test market for new games, which helped maintain interest and spending.

"We were among the first in the nation to receive the prototype 'Defender' machine and 'Frogger,'" Adams said.

Sore Throat and Glands

Whenever my 7-year-old daughter gets a sore throat, the glands under her chin begin to swell. After that the glands in her neck become large. Does this mean that she has a particularly low resistance? — Mrs. G.T.Q., Ala.

Dear Mrs. Q.:

Lymph glands are normal structures that are found in the neck and all other parts of the body. They belong to an interlocking complex network that is involved in protecting the body from the spread of infection.

Contrary to your speculation that your daughter's resistance may be low, the swollen lymph glands actually indicate that her body's resistance is high. The enlarged glands indicate that the body's defense mechanisms are working to defend the body against the invasion, and particularly the extension, of bacterial infection.

You have noticed that the swelling almost invariably disappears once the infection is controlled. Sometimes large glands persist for a long time. These should not be a source of concern especially if there is no associated fever or evidence of infection by blood studies.

There are a number of other types of persistent swollen glands that are not associated with acute infection. Blood counts and other blood studies, and even biopsies, are made whenever there is any suspicion that the glands may be of a troublesome variety.

In your daughter's case, the infections that cause the swollen glands can probably be traced to diseased tonsils and adenoids. When the tonsils and adenoids (these, too, are lymphoid tissue) no longer act as protective barriers, bacteria may seep through them. They are the first line of defense and when that line of defense is inadequate, the glands of the neck become the second line of defense.

If your concern persists about the glands, a white blood count study and a sedimentation rate test will quickly rule out the persistent presence of infection.

Can any harm be done by taking a sauna bath every day? I take one at the club in the afternoon and I was thinking of getting one for my home. — Mr. C.C.S., R.I.

Dear Mr. S.:

It is generally accepted that a sauna bath can be exceedingly relaxing and soothing. Originally they were used in the bathhouses of Finland—where water was poured over heated stones or hot coals to create steam.

Unless there is some medical reason that would forbid its use, I can't think of any disadvantage to it. It must be remembered, however, that concentrated steam can be dehydrating and fatiguing if one overexposes oneself. This diminishes the beneficial value of the sauna.

Here, too, moderation is the key to comfort without exhaustion.

Tobacco Tax Revenues Dip

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Taxes paid on packages of cigarettes sold in North Carolina in March totaled $1,529,995, according to statistics compiled by the Tobacco Tax Council.

The council released figures for all 50 states that show North Carolina's per-package tax rate of 2 cents — the lowest in the nation — accounted for less money in March 1982 than in March 1981. Figures show 76,500 packages were taxed in March of this year. In March 1981, 77,933 packages were taxed. Those figures mark a 1.8 percent decline.

Women's Day services will be held at Saint Rest Holiness Church Sunday.

For the morning service, the Rev. Ollie Harris of New Covenant Holy Church, Grifton, will be the speaker, the Saint Rest Senior Choir will render music and the Gardner Pearl Tent No. 543 will be guests for the morning.

The Rev. Marcy of Faison will be the afternoon speaker. Music will be rendered by the Rock Spring Choir of Greenville.

Carburetor Has Fewer Parts

TULARE, Calif. (AP) — The design of a new carburetor uses one-third fewer parts than conventional models and even eliminates "essentials" such as the jets and accelerator pump, according to the manufacturer, Pollution Controls Industries.

A plastic was used instead of metal for key parts, said Vern Mullican, president.

Next Season: Comedy Replaces Cops-And-Robbers

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Growing conservatism didn't mean Americans wanted to watch cops chase robbers every night on television. So, that lesson learned, the networks' fall schedules will lean heavily on comedy and action-adventure.

By nearly any measure, the 1981-82 season was a failure. Most new shows were canceled and the networks lost 1 million viewers. Additionally, no new program was successful enough to be copied.

In fact, the only entertainment vehicle flattered by imitations next fall will be "Raiders of the Lost Ark," a big box-office adventure movie.

What happened? "Magnum" was the most successful show in the previous season, and we thought people wanted more of it," says Harvey Shepard, CBS' chief programmer.

So what the networks offered were law-and-order shows with old stars like James Arness, Robert Stack and Mike Connors.

"The government was more conservative, and we thought the public was in the mood for it," Shepard adds.

"Obviously it was a mistake."

Magnum, played by pin-up boy Tom Selleck, is a private investigator who doesn't take himself too seriously. But what the programmers learned was that if the public, primarily women, likes Selleck, it didn't mean audiences would appreciate tired beefcake like Arness, Stack and Connors.

So now the networks are trying something new. For fall, ABC, NBC and CBS have opted for escape rather than capture with 10 new comedies and several light-hearted dramatic series, three of which resemble "Raiders" — ABC's "Brass Monkey," NBC's "Knight Rider" and CBS' "Bring 'Em Back Alive."

"Nobody says CPAs (certified public accountants) are in, so next year, let's have more CPAs," says Bud Grant, president of CBS Entertainment. "One year, 'Dallas' became a big hit, and a trend was established. So we had 'Dynasty,' 'Flamingo Road' and some others. It's the hits that really establish the trends."

There will be a trend-maker of sorts from this season's TV fare. By both critical and ratings measurements, NBC's "Hill Street Blues" became a bona fide hit in its second year. Next season, NBC will offer St. Elsewhere, a realistic hospital drama that resembles "Hill Street" in its ensemble cast and expected style and realism.

What elevates "Hill Street" is clever writing and full-bodied characters, who ooze humanity, flaws and feelings. The audience likes some, hates others, but can't be indifferent to any.

"Hill Street," which has its final original episode of the season tonight, was the result of a rare TV deal: Then-NBC President Fred Silverman gave producers Steven Bochco and Michael Kozoll a free hand to develop their program.

"Hill Street Blues" is as good as it is because we built it from the inside out, and NBC doesn't meddle with us," says Bochco. "The networks would be better off telling creative people to do exactly what they want to do."

Of the three networks, NBC seems to be moving the most in that direction. Grant Tinker, the new NBC chairman, was head of MTM Productions when it helped create "Hill Street Blues." He has attracted some of Hollywood's top writers to NBC.

So, while ABC has canceled "Taxi," NBC has "Taxi's" production team for the comedy "Cheers" this fall. And, while CBS has canceled "Lou Grant," NBC has one of its original producers to do another comedy, "Family Ties."

Neither show is about cops.

Production Of 'Yentl' Begun

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The long-awaited production start of "Yentl," starring Barbra Streisand, is finally under way at London's Lee International Studios with location filming to be done in Czechoslovakia.

Based on the short story "Yentl the Yeshiva Boy" by Nobel Prize winner Isaac Bashevis Singer, the screenplay was written by Streisand and Jack Rosenthal.

"Yentl" is the story of a young woman's struggle within a repressive society and the love story that evolves from her search for identity.

BUVAVZ WYBSOG

Yesterday's Cryptokuip - DELICIOUS ANTIPASTO COURSE CAN DEplete OUR APPETITE.
Today's Cryptokuip clue: W equals D

The Cryptokuip is a simple substitution cipher in which each letter used stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words, and words using an apostrophe can give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is accomplished by trial and error.

Ex-Candidate Is Still On Ballot

CONCORD, N.C. (AP) - Harold A. Batiste, a state employee who filed to run for a seat on the Cabarrus County Board of Commissioners but then withdrew because a federal law forbids him from running, will still have his name on the June 29 ballot.

Batiste, an employee of the Jackson Training School and counselor of a partially federally funded program, cannot take his name off the ballot because the N.C. attorney general has issued a ruling that a person who has filed for an office cannot withdraw from the election after the filing period has closed.

Officials said Batiste may violate the Hatch Act if elected. The Hatch Act forbids state and local government employees from seeking positions in partisan elections.

If Batiste is the top vote-getter, the "commissioner's position would go to the person with the second-highest number of votes.

A Film Fan's Paradise

The glittering Festival International du Film begins today in Cannes, France. And festival it is. Located on the Mediterranean Cote d'Azur - the azure coast which we call the French Riviera, Cannes' beautiful beaches are full of beautiful people. Stars, directors and critics come from around the world to see and be seen. For two weeks, gala rounds of parties, receptions and lavish dinners alternate with screenings of more than 600 new films. But beneath the festive glamour, lie solid business considerations. A prize from the world's most prestigious film festival is not only an honor, but can lead directly to lucrative contracts from international distributors, who are busy shopping at the festival for new releases.

DO YOU KNOW - What Polish film about "Solidarity" won the top prize at Cannes last year.

WEDNESDAY'S ANSWER - "Netherlands" means "low countries" since much of it is below sea level.

YOUR DAILY Horoscope

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A good day to put in motion a new plan of action that can provide a greater amount of personal advancement. Take time to visit close ties and discuss the future.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) A time to engage in those activities that you especially enjoy and to put your personal life on a more ideal level.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Talk with an expert before handling a financial matter. You can be especially happy now with the one you love.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Ideal day to engage in worthwhile conversation with an interesting person. Be wary of strangers at this time.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) If you talk with higher-ups now, you can gain the backing you need in a new project you have in mind.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) A new plan you have proposed should be put in operation with enthusiasm to gain best results. Associates can be helpful.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You are able to gain the support of a close tie for an important plan you have in mind. Be sure to keep your promises.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Contacting those who can help you get ahead faster is wise now. Be alert to situations that could lead to greater success.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You are able to get much work done now by putting away anything of a frivolous nature. Strive to be more efficient.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Take time to plan for the recreation that pleases you most. Doing something for loved one brings fine results now.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Be alert to new opportunities through which you can become more successful in the future. Think constructively.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Give your associates the loyalty and support they deserve and there will be greater mutual success.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Study your monetary situation and be sure every detail is looked into and worked out accurately. Make needed changes.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she could be very successful because of the many fine ideas and the ability to put them across. Be sure to equip with the finest education possible which could lead to a most successful life. Don't neglect religion early in life.

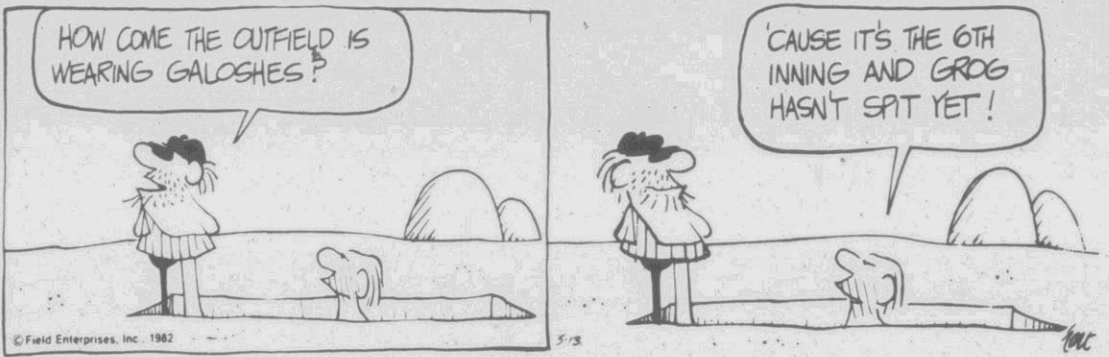

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

We put our foot down about apartments being within walking distance.

Wedgewood Arms apartments are within walking distance of three shopping centers, a nursery school, a junior high school, doctors' and dentists' offices and an athletic center.

As if that wasn't enough, three major traffic arteries, 264 Bypass, Arlington Blvd. and Charles St. are close enough to be seen and not heard.

Fact is, no apartments in town can legitimately claim to be more convenient to more things than Wedgewood Arms.

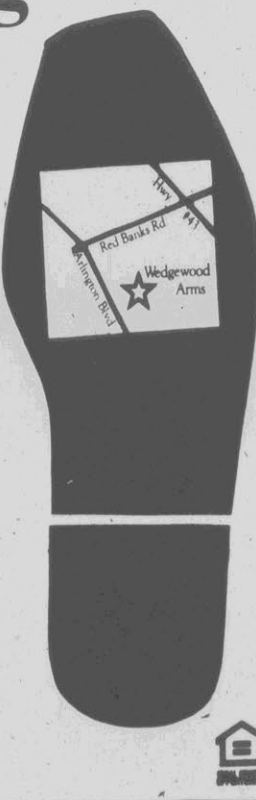

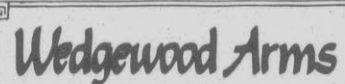

And that's not all. Because Wedgewood Arms is not only convenient, it's different in other ways, too.

Take the floorplans: they're different from anything you've ever seen. And when you add in high energy efficiency, tennis courts, swimming pool, and the neighborhood "feeling" that these apartments will give you - well, you'll just have to see for yourself.

Educators Set Targets

By STEVEN K. PAULSON
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) - Saying they disagree with Gov. Jim Hunt's assessment of state economic conditions, members of the North Carolina Association of Educators have prepared a list of proposals for legislative consideration.

Officials say the list includes 11 requests for consideration in the upcoming General Assembly, including:

- An across-the-board living increase based on the Consumer Price Index since last July 1, when the current fiscal year started.

- Funding of medical insurance at the rate it was funded last summer, before cuts made in October.

- A proposal to add two more steps to the salary schedules for all personnel, including teachers, superintendents and maintenance workers.

- A change in rules on moving to a different pay grade when educators earn a masters degree. Teachers presently move up one grade and formerly got two. The NCAE wants to go back to two grades.

- A reduction in class size for grades 4-6, from 33 pupils to 26.

- A reduction in class size in grades 7-12, from 150 pupils per day to 140.

- A cost-of-living adjustment for all former school employees who have retired. The change would affect about 10,000 teachers and other retired state employees.

- An increase in the retirement formula for people who retire in the future.

- A revision in state laws to allow deferral of state and federal taxes on employee retirement contributions. Presently 6 percent of the taxes are taken out of the contributions, but federal laws allow taxes to be deferred if the General Assembly agrees to change several tax laws.

- Ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment.

- No tampering with the Fair Employment and Dismissal Act, sometimes called the tenure law. Several changes to the law were proposed last year.

NCAE spokesman Chuck Mooney says the group disagrees with Hunt statements that state budget cuts are necessary, and to statements by Hunt aides that options include a merit pay raises freezes for teachers and state employees.

"The governor says there's no money, and we're not sure that that's true yet," Mooney said. "We don't think times are as bad as the governor is saying. If schools are important, they are important, they are important in bad times as well as good."

"We are in a severe budget pinch," said Hunt spokesman Brent Hackney. "Anyone who looks at the figures can see that. We'd love to do a lot of those things but we are in a recession and it will be difficult."

"It's not as though the governor is walking away and forgetting public schools," Hackney said. "He's never done that and never will. But we are in a tough budget crunch now and options on things like salary increases are very limited."

Confusion In Insanity Plea

By RICHARD CARELLI
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) - Confusion over a key federal appeals court decision means no one is sure whether John W. Hinckley Jr. would go free or be sent to a mental hospital if a jury finds he was insane when he shot President Reagan.

Hinckley, 26, has admitted shooting Reagan and three other men on March 30, 1981. But he has pleaded innocent by reason of insanity.

If Hinckley is convicted of the crimes, he will go to prison - perhaps for the rest of his life.

But questions about a federal appeals court decision, announced in an unrelated case last March 5, leave Hinckley's fate uncertain if the jury hearing the case against him find he is innocent because he was insane at the time of the assault.

If Hinckley is judged innocent, that confusion could lead to a second legal round in the already-protracted case.

In its March 5 ruling, a three-judge federal appellate panel here ruled that criminal defendants found innocent by reason of insanity in the District of Columbia cannot automatically be confined in a mental hospital.

The decision said the automatic confinement requirement, imposed by Congress and applicable only to the nation's capital city, was unconstitutional.

The ruling said such criminal defendants must be freed unless government lawyers can offer extra-strong proof that the defendants are mentally ill and dangerous.

If applied to Hinckley, that could mean freedom soon after being found innocent by reason of insanity.

But the March 5 ruling involved a man charged with federal crimes only, and did not affect the automatic commitment law in cases in which violations of only local, District of Columbia crimes were charged.

Thus, the decision did not say whether automatic confinement is proper for someone like Hinckley, charged with federal and District of Columbia crimes.

To add to the confusion, all 11 judges of the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Washington recently said they will review the March 5 ruling. That move makes the three-judge panel's ruling ineffective until the full appeals court studies and decides the issue.

A time-consuming appeal to the Supreme Court, adding further uncertainty to Hinckley's fate, is also a possibility.

Some legal experts also have suggested that even if Hinckley is found innocent by reason of insanity, presiding U.S. District Judge Barrington Parker might be swayed by the infamy of the crime to accept some legal rationale for not releasing the defendant.

The Hinckley case has renewed public attention on the long-standing debate over the insanity defense.

Even though the insanity plea is rarely used and rarely successful, it historically has been a target of criticism and a subject of political debate.

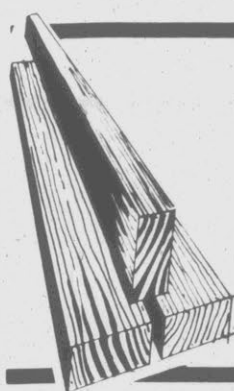

For example, the state of Idaho will ban insanity as a defense in criminal trials starting July 1.

Legislation calling for abolition or severe limitation of the insanity defense in federal criminal cases has been proposed in Congress, and is pending before the Senate Judiciary Committee.
