

British Force Dealt Blow By Argentines

By The Associated Press

Argentine planes inflicted heavy casualties on British forces southwest of Stanley, raising speculation that the assault on the Falklands capital might be delayed further, and Argentina claimed its troops also repelled a frontal attack on their main defense line.

"This is obviously some setback. But until we have assessed the situation, we do not know how much this will change our plans," the commander of the 5th Infantry Brigade, Brig. Tony Wilson, told a reporter after Argentine air strikes set two big landing ships crowded with troops afire and damaged the frigate Plymouth and a small landing craft.

The Times of London said some British sources believed the final assault on Stanley, anticipated since last weekend, might have to be delayed "such is the extent of the disaster."

The Argentine planes set the 412-foot landing ships Sir Galahad and Sir Tristram afire with bombs, rockets and cannon fire as they were putting 5th Brigade troops ashore Tuesday in a narrow estuary at Fitzroy Sound, 15 miles southwest of Stanley.

British defense officials said casualties were "substantial," but no official figures were available yet. A correspondent with the task force reported in a dispatch passed by censorship that 39 of the Sir Galahad's crewmen were missing — the heaviest British loss reported in the war so far — and many others were burned or wounded.

There was no estimate of casualties among the troops being landed by the two ships or aboard the Sir Tristram. Each ship had a crdtry said the each could carry 500 troops.

The Defense Ministry said there were only five wounded aboard the Plymouth, but a correspondent with the task force said a number of troops were feared killed aboard the small landing craft that was damaged.

The Defense Ministry claimed British fighter pilots and naval gunners shot down seven of the Argentine Skyhawk and Mirage raiders.

British communiques and correspondents' reports made no mention of any ground action around Stanley. But the Argentine Joint Chiefs of Staff reported "intense combat" in the center of the Stanley defenses Wednesday, an eight-hour artillery duel, damage to two British Harrier jets attacking Stanley and the downing of "enemy helicopters and personnel operating in the Mount Kent area," 15 miles west of Stanley.

"Enemy troops coming from Mount Kent tried to infiltrate in the center of our defensive positions," an Argentine communique said. "They were repulsed after intense combat with units of the Argentine army."

The communique also claimed British commandos were driven off when they tried to land at Port Harriet, three miles south of Stanley.

British correspondent Michael Nicholson of Independent Television News in an eyewitness account of the air attack at Fitzroy Sound said a formation of Argentine planes swooped down, taking the British by surprise.

One dropped a bomb that "hit Sir Galahad aft through the engine room and the accommodation section. ... Boxes of ammunition aboard exploded, shaking the ground beneath us. Soldiers and we crouched as bullets from the ship whistled past us."

Oil from the damaged ship's fuel tank caught fire, and the flames were pushed across the surface of the icy water by the wind.

Israeli Warn Lebanon Assault On Beirut Ready

By The Associated Press

Israel blasted PLO targets in Beirut from the sea and air today and dropped leaflets warning that Israeli forces were about the storm the Lebanese capital. President Reagan urgently messaged Israel demanding a cease-fire in Lebanon.

New clashes flared between Israeli and Syrian forces. Israel said it shot down eight more Syrian MiGs and an assault helicopter in eastern Lebanon, where Syria reported its artillery was dueling with Israeli ground forces.

The Israeli leaflets dropped on Beirut told Syrian troops to leave the city "within a few hours" because "we do not intend to fight the Syrian army." There was no sign the Syrians were leaving.

The Syrian state radio, meanwhile, claimed Israeli jets today strafed convoys of travelers at a checkpoint on Lebanon's northern border with Syria, killing 57 travelers of various nationalities and wounding 75.

There was no immediate Israeli comment. If true, it would be the northernmost Israeli attack in the five-day-old invasion, which was launched Sunday with the stated goal of pushing Palestinian forces back from the Israeli border.

Israeli jets and warships struck at the heart of the PLO in Lebanon, pounding PLO chief Yasser Arafat's military headquarters in southern Beirut in a four-hour bombardment.

Communiques from the PLO said several residential neighborhoods in southern Beirut were hammered by unabating air assaults that its forces as around the airport and its highway. The PLO said its forces turned back repeated Israeli attempts to land troops at Beirut airport.

"We shall fight from house to house, from room to room!" the official PLO radio declared.

"The enemy is bombing our camps, our women, our children. But we shall fight, fight, fight!" screamed the newscaster of the Voice of Palestine radio.

He also said Arafat had just received an "important message" from Soviet President Leonid I. Brezhnev. He did not elaborate, but Arafat appealed to Brezhnev Monday to intervene and curb the Israeli invasion.

The U.S. State Department reported that Reagan, at a NATO summit in West Germany, had sent a message to Prime Minister Menachem Begin demanding an immediate cease-fire in Lebanon.

"We want a cease-fire. We want an Israeli withdrawal," Reagan spokesman Larry Speakes said in Bonn.

State Department spokesman Christopher Ross said in Washington that Reagan was not in direct contact with Brezhnev before sending the message to Israel, but "we remain, as always, in contact with the Soviets on a wide range of issues."

Israeli Cabinet Secretary Dan Meridor in Jerusalem said Begin had replied to the Reagan message, but he did not disclose the contents of the response.

Israel Radio said U.S. Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr. would travel to the Middle East on Friday and shuttle between Jerusalem and Damascus seeking a cease-fire. American officials in Bonn said there were no firm plans for such a trip.

Reagan's special Mideast envoy, Philip Habib, is already shuttling between the Israeli and Syrian capitals.

Saudi Arabia's foreign minister, Prince Saud al-

Faisal, flew to Bonn, meanwhile, for hastily arranged talks with Reagan and other Western leaders about the Mideast crisis. The Saudi news agency said that Arab kingdom had pledged "all our material, military and diplomatic resources" to back Lebanon and the PLO.

Utilities To Fight Curbs

By MARY ANNE RHYNE
Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Electric utilities have vowed to fight a bill they say would be the most restrictive fuel-adjustment legislation in the country, but Gov. Jim Hunt today said the measure "is fair to the utilities."

The bill cleared the joint House-Senate Utilities Review Committee and was introduced in both House and Senate on Wednesday. Utility committees in both chambers now are looking at the bill.

Hunt, at a news conference, said the bill meets his request for a change that would improve the efficiency of the electric utilities' management and operations, particularly to examine the performance of their nuclear generating plants.

"Enacting this bill is the most important step this General Assembly can take to help the people of North Carolina make ends meet during these tough economic times," Hunt said.

Hunt has called for reform of the existing law which allows utilities to seek rate changes three times a year on the basis of changing fuel costs. The proposal would allow one fuel-adjustment hearing a year.

"It is the most restrictive legislation I know of in the country with respect to the fuel clause except in the eight states where there is no fuel clause," said Steve Griffiths, senior vice president and general counsel to Duke Power Co.

"Good," responded Gary Pearce, Hunt's press secretary. Utility representatives wanted a more frequent, automatic adjustment of rates to help them recover all fuel expenses. Griffiths said Duke Power has failed to collect $97 million in fuel costs since the current law took effect in 1975.

"This bill will lengthen the lag," he said. Hunt told reporters he didn't agree with utility company claims the change would endanger their financial condition.

Foxes

The Senate Wildlife Committee approved and sent to the Senate a statewide bill for regulating hunting and trapping of foxes — a regulation sought since 1977.

Currently, hunters or trappers must ask their legislator to study their local fox population. Then the commission recommends regulations for hunting or trapping foxes there.

Under the proposal, local residents could petition the commission to conduct a study of their fox population and issue regulations. The petition would have to be signed by 12 percent of the licensed farmers and trappers in a county.

Telephones

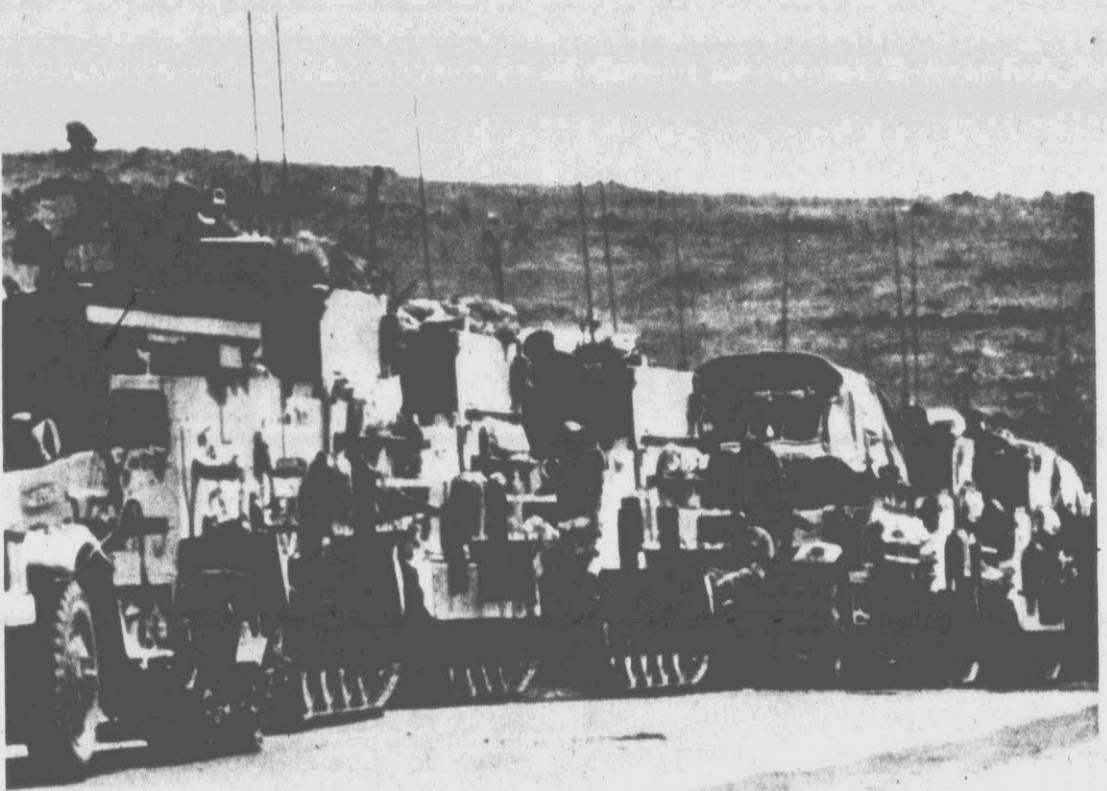

The Senate Utilities Committee unanimously amended a bill dealing with interruption of electric service to allow hotels and motels to charge customers more than the actual price of a telephone call.

Several members of the panel questioned the legality of adding the amendment to the bill but chairman Sen. Joe Johnson, D-Wake, ruled that the amendment was eligible.

The original bill, which also was approved, would allow utilities to interrupt electric service to neighborhoods when a house was being moved.

Gene Hafer, lobbyist for the N.C. Hotel and Motel Association, said telephone companies have been paying hotels and motels a 15 percent commission as incentive for providing phone service.

The 35-year-old commission expires Dec. 31 and Hafer said the bill could raise per-call telephone rates enough to replace the commission.

Boat Ramp Concept Endorsed By Recreation, Parks Board

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

Endorsement of the concept of constructing a boat ramp and paving the parking lot at the eastern end of the Town Common was approved by members of the Greenville Recreation and Parks Commission at its meeting Wednesday night at River Park North.

In endorsing the concept for presentation to the Greenville City Council, the commission stipulated that four major points be made to the council: (1) that endorsement is contingent on the Pitt-Greenville Chamber of commerce taking on the responsibility to raise funds for the project; (2) that the council agree to provide necessary funds for the recreation department's maintenance of the site once constructed; (3) that it be taken into consideration that a ramp and parking lot would provide a higher degree of public safety and would make maintenance easier; and (4) that the council consider whether or not the boat ramp at Port Terminal might be placed under city ownership and thus become the recreation department's responsibility.

Prior to endorsing the Town Common boat ramp and parking lot concept, commissioners were presented reports by Parker Overton, a member of the Tar River Task, and Ed Walker, president of the Pitt-Greenville Chamber of Commerce.

The recreation commission's endorsement is applicable to what Overton termed as Stage 2 of a series of stepped proposals. The Stage 2 proposal calls for

Legislators Say Salary Freeze Is Key To Budget

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Legislative budget leaders are ready to press for action today on a proposed state salary freeze, calling it the key to passage of the supplemental budget package pending before the General Assembly.

The House and Senate appropriations committees planned to resume meeting this afternoon after taking a one-day break, which budget leaders used to push for the freeze.

In the Senate, Democrats held a closed-door caucus on the budget Wednesday afternoon. Senate Appropriations Chairman Harold Hardison, D-Lenoir, also warned the full Senate that the only alternatives to a salary freeze were layoffs or higher taxes.

"We are caught in a situation that the economy dictates what we can or cannot do," Hardison said.

The freeze was proposed by Gov. Jim Hunt and budget leaders to make up for a more than $100 million shortfall in the 1982-1983 budget, passed last year. The shortfall has been attributed to lower tax revenues caused by the recession.

The freeze, applying to teachers and state employees, would cancel merit raises and upgraded pay steps scheduled to take effect July 1.

Meanwhile, another budget leader said he was considering adding a provision to the budget package that would allow a one-time bonus for teachers and workers next January, if there is an increase in revenue collections above projections.

Rep. Billy Watkins, D-Granville, declined to give a size of the planned bonus. But legislative analysts said the state would have to receive $38 million in additional tax collections to provide a $200 per worker bonus.

The appropriations committees voted on Tuesday to delay consideration of the one-year freeze in hopes the Senate Finance Committee, which considers tax levies, would find another way to pay for the salary increases — which would cost $90 million to continue.

Another proposal was offered by Rep. Al Adams, D-Wake, providing a one-time $90 million windfall — to cover the salary increases — by a speed up in payment of corporate income taxes.

CHILDREN'S PLANTINGS STOLEN!

I was angered and dismayed when I rode by the dumpster site on the Stantonsburg Road recently and noticed that all the bushes and the tree that the Candlewick Flames 4-H Club planted there are gone. A check with Lynn Shine, one of the parent advisers of the club, revealed that the plants were stolen a few at a time until all were gone — several legustrum shrubs and a good-sized sycamore tree. What kind of person would so defile the handiwork of children who did a lot of planning and a lot of hard work to plant those bushes and trees for the good of us all? Whoever knows should contact the Pitt County Sheriff's Department, which is investigating the theft, I understand from Mrs. Shine. C.T.

BONN, West Germany (AP) — As more than 100,000 protesters took to the streets, President Reagan and NATO leaders mixed alliance summitry with Middle East peacemaking efforts today in an attempt to halt Israel's drive into Lebanon and prevent a widening war in the Middle East.

In an unexpected development, Saudi Arabia's foreign minister, Prince Saud al-Faisal, flew here for hastily arranged talks with Reagan, British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher and officials of France and West Germany who met with other leaders for the one-day meeting of North Atlantic Treaty Organization countries.

Reagan sent a message to Prime Minister

Menachem Begin urging an immediate cease-fire in Lebanon, according to State Department spokesman Christopher Ross in Washington. He also said Reagan had been in touch with Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev before sending the message.

Israel Radio said Reagan's message urgently demanded a cease-fire.

The summit was expected to produce a statement on Lebanon, according to a member of the U.S. delegation, Richard Burt, assistant secretary of state designate for European affairs. "It's a logical suggestion" that was made by Mrs. Thatcher, Burt said.

Deputy White House press secretary Larry Speakes, accompanying the president, refused to reveal details of the message. "I won't go into the content, except that it is consistent with our previous position. We want a cease-fire. We want an Israeli withdrawal," said Speakes.

Administration sources in Washington said there was a possibility that Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr. might fly to the Middle East following the summit. David R. Gergen, another White House spokesman in Bonn, said there were "no firm plans" for such a trip.

Speakes said United States had asked "all parties with any influence to bear to help bring calm to the situation. We remain in contact with the Soviets on a wide range of issues."

Meanwhile, tens of thousands of people streamed into Bonn, painting the town red with bright "Reagan Go Home" stickers in protest of his Pentagon buildup and NATO plans to deploy new U.S. missiles in Europe. Huge crowds poured across a bridge named after the late President John F. Kennedy to a rallying point on the east bank of the Rhine River.

A police spokesman said one of the five columns of marchers conservatively numbered 60,000. Rally organizers claimed another 70,000 already were assembled at a large park.

Bare-chested demonstrators painted their bodies with slogans, and many marchers wore the bright red "Reagan Go Home" stickers that had been distributed with this month's edition of the leftist magazine Konkret.

Witnesses said one young man at the rallying point tried to immolate himself and slit his throat. He was evacuated by helicopter with what police said were third-degree burns.

Brewer-Jones Vows Solemnized Sunday

Donna Ellen Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bobby M. Jones of Route 1, Hookerton, and Lindsey Wayne Brewer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Linwood Earl Brewer of Greenville, were married Sunday afternoon at three o'clock.

The double ring ceremony was performed at the home of the bride's parents by Robert Randalls.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a formal gown of polyester organza and chantilly lace. The gown featured an empire waist and see-through neckline accented with lace and seed pearls. The gown had full bishop sleeves with flounce bordered lace cuffs. Front lace panels and applique floral adorned the front of the A-line skirt that flowed into a chapel length train. Her fingertip veil of silk illusion, bordered in lace, was attached to a capulet of matching chantilly lace. She carried a cascade bouquet of blue roses, white and yellow carnations, baby's breath with blue and white streamers.

Kathy Merritt of Greenville was honor attendant and wore a light blue floral gown accented with spaghetti straps and a ruffle around the bodice and hemline. She had a blue and white mum corsage with blue and white streamers. The couple will be living at Route 2, Winterville, after a wedding trip to Atlantic Beach.

The bridal couple was honored at a reception after the ceremony given by Mr. and Mrs. Jones.

The bride attended Greene

Central High School and is employed at Greenville Eye Clinic. The bridegroom attended North Pitt High School and works at Oakwood Mobile Homes.

Cindy Sugg presided at the guest register and Kim Smith of Farmville directed the wedding.

Dear Abby

Include A Good Luck Penny

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1982 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: I just about cracked up when I read the letter in the Dodge City Daily Globe from the person who received the wedding invitation with the note: "Because the bride and groom have everything, the ideal gift would be something that can be put into a pocket or purse."

I can't wait to get a wedding invitation with a similar message. I will simply put together a collection of the following items that "can be put into a pocket or purse": a small comb, mirror, toothpick, dental floss, handkerchief, money clip, key ring, etc.

I'm sure my gift would cost considerably less than the usual $40 or $50.

DORIS IN DODGE CITY

DEAR DORIS: And don't forget a "lucky" penny for good luck!

DEAR ABBY: About that woman who was constantly using a breath-freshener spray publicly and in mid-sentence: I worked with two women who did that. I later learned that both were pantry drinkers.

GRETTA IN ILLINOIS

DEAR GRETTA: If they were, they deserve more compassion than criticism. Stay tuned for some informative input from a dentist:

DEAR ABBY: Concerning the woman who uses a breath-freshener spray constantly: As a result of disease, medication, radiation therapy or simply aging, there are a number of people who suffer from "xerostomia" (dry mouth). This can result in acute discomfort, tooth decay, inability to eat, swallow or talk, as well as difficulty in wearing dentures.

Mouthwashes containing various saliva substitutes are being used by increasing numbers of these people. While this should be done in private, it is obviously not always possible.

A little understanding and a private talk may be more instructive than the anonymous mailing of a newspaper column.

LAWRENCE WEISS, D.D.S., BELLEROSE, N.Y.

DEAR DOCTOR: Thanks for your professional and "weiss" comments.

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I have three sons and one daughter. Their birthdays are: Nov. 11, 1960; Oct. 1, 1961; Oct. 9, 1962; Sept. 17, 1963.

That is four children in two years, 10 months and six days. This may not be a record, but I think my wife deserves at least a B-plus, don't you?

Did you read the story a few weeks ago about the man who picked up $1.2 million that had fallen off an armored truck? Six days later, he had spent $196,000 of it and was on his way to Acapulco. When he was caught and hauled into court, he pleaded not guilty by reasons of "insanity."

If a million or two wouldn't make you crazy, what would? I tried that plea once with my husband and it didn't wash. He said I had a choice. I could either take the Ultrasuede skirt back or be committed in it.

I tried "I blacked out" when I bought my food processor. That didn't work either.

About three years ago I used "When I opened my purse my credit card fell into that little machine and charged a silk dress to me before I knew what was happening." He said it was the closest I ever got to an insanity plea.

Actually, there's not a woman in the world who would be surprised or impressed by someone spending $32,666 a day. Shopping is our life. It's what we do best and no one is more aware of the selling traps than we are... Beginning at the front door of a shop or store, the bright lights hypnotize you into a relaxed euphoria. As you walk down the aisles, handbags, boxes of cookies and nightgowns are placed near the edge of the counter so that when you brush by them you knock them off and experience the pleasure of holding them in your hand.

We don't have a chance. The advertising industry spends billions of dollars a year trying to figure out how they can get us to open our purses. I'm a cheap shot.

Meet a compulsive buyer. I buy in haste and repent at leisure. I can rationalize everything I buy from slacks that don't fit to polo scorecards.

Following the birth of one of the children, I was given a check by my mother to spend any way I saw fit. I ran through the department store for three days getting near to a purchase, then rejecting it for something else. Eventually, I paid the phone bill with it, but it got the color back in my cheeks again.

My friend, Mayva, read the story about the man who carried around $1.2 million and said, "How could any rational human being spend $32,666 a day?" Mayva hasn't priced lettuce lately.

The Best Is 'Barbecue'

In eastern North Carolina one is dabbling in an explosive field when any hint of federal standards, regulations or whatnot is suggested for barbecue.

It's tantamount to a call-to-arms. Your traditionalist, who stays up all night slow-cooking a carefully chosen pig over a pit, basting, turning, stirring the coals ... is perfectly content with his art and supremely indifferent whether or not there are written guidelines as to what constitutes "real" barbecue. To define barbecue may be likened to defining water. It either is, or it isn't.

Integrity of the product? Not to worry!
The proof is in the eating. There is no better guideline; no regulatory agency or environmentalist can match it.

Let others worry ... like the Floridian who wrote "Certain foods designated barbecue by restaurateurs and merchants in some areas are clearly attempts to distort a heritage or bend a tradition in order to wring economic gain out of the local population's identification with its past."

It's the product that counts, and the best will be "barbecue"; the rest will fall by the wayside or remain parochial and wither before the dish that invites unabashed gluttony.

To the rest of the world: caveat emptor. But trust eastern Carolina's pride and joy

A States' Common Market?

Florida Gov. Robert Graham called for a common market of Southern states at the annual meeting of the Southern Growth Policies Board at Research Triangle Park last week.

The governor said Southern states could pool their resources and develop common regulation, economic development, education and human resources.
He said states have erected barriers such as separate licensing and taxation of motor carriers.

Certainly the suggestion deserves study. American states, unlike European countries, don't have national barriers to impede commerce. There are, however, differences in regulations that could have such an effect. There may be many ways the states could cooperate to encourage trade and commerce. We won't know what they are until the matter is studied. We should proceed with that.

THIS AFTERNOON

Urge To Merge?

By PAUL T. O'CONNOR
RALEIGH - Former Gov. Jim Holshouser thinks the coming changes in federal-state government relationships may necessitate merging of some of North Carolina's smaller counties.

Holshouser, speaking in an interview, said the new load of work which local governments will face under President Reagan's New Federalism will be too big and too costly for some of the state's smaller counties. He suggests that some of these counties merge so they can take advantage of more efficient methods of administration. New Federalism is a state-federal swap of responsibility for programs.

"If the New Federalism is really to take hold, it's going to obviously place some new demands on state and local governments. We've got to recognize that we're going to have to do some things that would have been almost unthinkable 10 to 20 years ago," he said.

"We should try to improve the efficiency of local government through joint ventures and, in some cases, taking a hard look at whether taxpayers wouldn't be better off by merging units of local government."

Holshouser's argument is that small counties, on their own, can't afford to modernize their operations and take advantage of computerization. "I suspect that most counties under 30,000 population still operate virtually totally manually on their tax records, on recording by the register of deeds. If you add up the number of people involved in a three-county area, you may well find that you could get by with the same number of people you have in one county right now," if you computerize.

North Carolina will grow considerably in the near future which means there'll be increased demand for services. When responsibility

Holshouser doesn't expect this to be extremely popular. He says it may never get off the ground. He remembers that during his last term in the Legislature (1971-72) four counties considered building for programs currently run by the federal government is transferred to the state and counties, there'll be even greater local strain.

"This is a trade-off in order to bring government back from Washington," he said. "I think people would prefer moving government 10 miles farther down the road than leaving it in Washington."

Tourists And Goo-Gos

LONDON (AP) - In going to and fro, up and down like Job on this terrestrial ball, the suffering pilgrim sometimes encounters a foreign currency so worthless that even the country of origin will not accept it in payment for drinks on its national airline.

"Green dollars or British sterling," the hostess will insist, enunciating a government policy that also requires her to give you change in her otherwise unacceptable national currency.

In most such cases, of course, the airline has only one jet plane in its entire fleet, and there is a duty-free shop on arrival in the nation's capital to gobble up more hard cash from abroad.

Veteran globetrotters have a nickname for this species of useless specie and paper money. They are known as "goo-gos."

The term is believed to have originated with British travelers to Germany in the days of the Weimar Republic just before World War II when the mark was so battered by inflation it literally wasn't worth the paper it was printed on. As John Toland relates in his biography of Hitler, people needed bushel baskets of marks to pay their rent, and someone hurrying to a bank would find his paycheck was worth half as much if the trolley car was delayed as much as 15 minutes.

In the months before Saigon fell, the Vietnamese piaster sank to the level of a goo-goo. One could join the Saigon yacht club, initiation fees and annual dues payable at the official piaster exchange rate, for the price of a carton of American cigarettes on the black market. A drink at the bar, however, might be the price of last year's yacht.

The extinct Biafran pound probably was a goo-goo in the final hours of that tragic breakaway republic, although among collectors it probably now is as valuable as a genuine Confederate dollar.

Genuine goo-gos rarely make that sort of a comeback. Upon leaving the country, it is usually impossible to change them at the airport into any other currency, even the equally worthless goo-goo of a neighboring country.

One country (which shall be nameless in case, God forbid, I should ever have to return there) even had a cardboard box in the airport departure lounge for passengers to deposit their leftover goo-gos. It was located just below the No Smoking sign to discourage departing visitors from lighting up cigarettes with excess million goo-goo notes, in case the Diamond Jim Brady urge should overtake them in a fit of pique.

As a guide to travelers in far-off lands with fragile monetary systems I have over the years collated the "Immutable Laws of Goo-Gonomics" and offer them here, free of charge, as a public service.

1. A goo-goo saved is a mistake.
2. If you can keep your goo-gos when all about you are shedding theirs, you've obviously never been here before.
3. Bad goo-gos do not drive out good goo-gos, since there is no such thing as a good goo-goo. Gresham was ripped off here too.
4. Since division by zero is not allowed, there is no international exchange rate for the goo-goo.
5. There is no black market in goo-gos. Nor any legal rate either.
6. Being worthless, the goo-goo is safe from government devaluation.
7. A torn goo-goo is less than the sum of its parts.
8. If at first you don't succeed, try more goo-gos.
9. It takes a heap of goo-gos to do just about anything.
10. Show me your goo-gos

Grand Tour A Strain

By JAMES GERSTENZANG
Associated Press Writer

BONN, West Germany (AP) - On President Reagan's first day in Europe, one of his closest aides, Michael K. Deaver, said his boss thrived on a busy schedule "and there are a good many highs in each of these days to keep one going." He was wrong.

By the midpoint of his 10-day journey Monday, there were reports that the president's eyes were barely open and his head seemed to nod during his meeting at the Vatican with Pope John Paul II.

Even deputy White House press secretary Larry Speakes acknowledged that Reagan was tired. "We all are," the spokesman added.

Reagan's weariness showed up publicly on what was the most hectic day of his fast-paced tour. He began in Versailles, France, where a seven-nation economic summit had concluded, flew to Rome for a seven-hour visit with the pope and Italian officials, and then jetted north to Britain in time for dinner with Queen Elizabeth II at Windsor Castle.

And it followed two nights in which he was up past midnight attending social events and receiving reports on Israel's invasion of Palestinian strongholds in southern Lebanon.

Two things seemed to help rejuvenate him: a good night's sleep in the world's largest inhabited castle and a leisurely horseback ride with the queen on Tuesday morning.

Reagan himself is fond of saying, "There is nothing better for the inside of a man than the outside of a horse." And his ride atop one of the queen's favorite stallions seemed to prove that.

"Yesterday was a strenuous day for all of us," said Deaver, deputy White House chief of staff, as the president had lunch on Tuesday with Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher at 10 Downing St.

In his seven-room suite at the castle, Reagan slept despite the midnight crowing of ravens. The noise from jets at nearby Heathrow Airport did not begin until 7:30 a.m. with the takeoff of two 747 jumbo jets, and the queen's own piper didn't amble by with his whining tunes until 9 a.m.

For 55 minutes, Reagan rode Centennial, the queen's back-up horse, around the Windsor grounds and later said he had found it "quite a ride."

Nancy Reagan, meanwhile, was driven about the grounds by Prince Philip, the queen's husband, in a carriage drawn by four horses. She "thought it was marvelous," an aide said.

Mrs. Reagan, who entertained Prince Charles at the White House last year, was said to have spent "a long time" talking to him during the first of two dinner royal parties at the castle.

Deaver said Reagan showed the queen a gadget that he has carried with him for some time. It is a pen-like device that dispenses

To the editor:

Wednesday, June 2, the Greenville fire marshal ordered the Morocco Room of the Casablanca Restaurant closed just minutes before the regularly scheduled opening of the biggest business day of the week. No grace period; no compromise. The issues of alleged building and/or fire code violations can be argued later. What the people of Greenville should understand now is the impact this action will have.

This shutdown not only affects Casablanca, but other businesses, industries and events in the banquet facilities. The 80-some employees that may be out of work. The local motels and restaurants whose businesses profited from the influx of sales people and others from as far away as Jacksonville, Edenton and Raleigh - as a direct reward of Wednesday afternoons at Casablanca.

One would hope that an issue involving the possible shutdown of a business the size and magnitude of Casablanca would be handled with compassion, forethought of consequence, and with a sense of cooperation by responsible people capable of making decisions with some business savvy; not by overzealous, short-sighted administrators.

With so much "big business" these days and large corporate chains squeezing out the independent businessman in America, the people of Greenville and the surrounding area had what may be a last chance to support a private enterprise of which we could all be proud. Casablanca's Morocco Room offered a convention and meeting room unsurpassed by any in the state, being larger in size than Charlotte Radisson Plaza or Chapel Hill's new Europa. Few private businesses would have the financial wherewithal to survive the months of rebuilding a clientele that one hurried action can cause. We have some expert business minds readily available in city administrators in the City Council. Too bad they were not consulted first. I am confident this action would have been handled differently.

Other Editors Say Restraint Is Due

(Henderson Dispatch)

Regardless of the merits of the cause, a recent court case that has committed the State of North Carolina to spending millions of dollars treating violent, emotionally disturbed children has set a dangerous and potentially budget-busting precedent.

The case is known in government and legal circles as the "Willie M." case, in which the state settled a suit in federal court in 1980 by agreeing to treat children considered violent and dangerous.

As a result of that agreement, the General Assembly has had to earmark $23.3 million in appropriations for such treatments in the budget approved last year and a supplemental budget proposed this year. "...And it's getting worse," said N.C. Senate Appropriations Chairman Harold Hardison.

Almost no one would object to efforts to provide treatment for the so-called Willie M. children. However, permitting state departments and agencies to commit North Carolina to expensive settlements in lawsuits could prove to be fiscally disastrous.

It now appears that the General Assembly may make it tougher for agencies and departments to make such commitments. A bill giving the legislature more control over consent judgments has been proposed by the Government Operations Commission and was to be filed following convening of the General Assembly for the June off-year "short session" of legislators.

It is said the bill would not affect the money devoted to treatment of the "Willie M." youngsters. It has been estimated that the state will have about 950 of them by next year, with treatment costing some $20,000 each.

The proposed statute would say that in future agreements, the Council of State may commit the state through consent agreements to spend only money already appropriated in the budget or available through existing contingency and emergency funds.

For agreements requiring more money, or money in future budget years, approval of the legislature would be required.

The bill is certainly one the General Assembly should approve during the June session. Failure to have restraints on such "open ended" settlements in future lawsuits could play havoc with North Carolina budgets, especially in view of the fact that courts and judges today are mandating larger and larger sums in legal proceedings.

Strength For Today

AFTER DEFEAT

Think of the defeats which stand out as the great turning points in the history of nations. The Battle of Bunker Hill, the initial clash of the American Revolution, was a defeat and was for a long time looked upon with chagrin and disappointment. And yet that defeat ultimately had far-reaching and glorious results. Our nation was prostrated as a result of the attack on Pearl Harbor, yet out of it came preparation and determination which eventuated in victory.

If we look back over our lives, we find that perhaps our greatest lessons have been learned from our defeats. There are times in the lives of all of us when there must be readjustment and reappraisal.

We can never develop courage unless we have an opportunity to exercise it. We can never build up faith unless we are compelled to hope and believe in the possibility of something the reality of which is beyond our sight. - Elisha Douglass

Concept Of Exchange Privilege

By CHET CURRIER
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) - You can't do much homework on the subject of mutual-fund investing these days without hearing a lot about the "exchange privilege."

The idea sounds simple enough. A fund group like Dreyfus or Fidelity or Lord Abbett - to name just a few examples - offers shareholders the right to switch from one of its funds to another with a letter or telephone call.

Depending on their needs and wishes, investors can transfer part or all of their money back and forth from, say, a money-market fund to one that concentrates on stocks, or bonds, or some even more specialized approach.

By all the evidence, it is a popular feature. According to the Investment Company Institute, a trade group, some $680 million worth of fund shares were acquired through exchanges in April. That activity accounted for almost 40 percent of all fund shares bought during the month.

The industry has been pushing the exchange privilege hard in its advertising and promotion. In a recent press release on the use of mutual funds for Individual Retirement Accounts, David Silver, president of the institute, declared that funds offer "an unmatched range of choice and the ability to shift from one investment approach to another to take maximum advantage of any change in economic conditions."

Most experts agree the fundamental principle makes sense. But they caution against getting carried away with it.

A young couple with no immediate financial obligations, for example, might opt for a relatively high-risk fund in the hope of realizing large capital gains. As their children approach college age, the same couple might switch to a money fund to conserve their capital for tuition bills.

Some financial advisers have taken the concept a step further, advocating aggressive strategies that might call for switching as often as every few months. In its current edition, one market letter argues that the recent decline of the stock market has presented "an excellent opportunity to start a telephone switch program."

The aim is to "time" swings in the markets so that you own common-stock funds while stock prices are rising, bond funds when bonds are hot, and money funds in times when other investments are faring poorly.

But anyone who sets out on this path should be aware that market timing has proved to be a challenging assignment even for the pros of Wall Street.

About a year ago, both the nation's largest brokerage house, Merrill Lynch, and the biggest investment advisory service, Value Line, issued strong recommendations to buy bonds.

Since then according to figures tabulated by Salomon Brothers, the investment banking firm, long-term bond prices have fallen by 2.5 percent to 3.5 percent. Even when their interest payments are taken into account, bonds over the past year have averaged a total return well below what was available in a money fund.

Another large brokerage house, Dean Witter Reynolds, took out large ads this spring proclaiming its bullishness on the stock market. To date, research director Lee Idleman conceded recently, "the stock market is not acting like it has been reading our advertisements."

Sooner or later, the recommendations of these firms could prove to have been right after all - just a bit premature.

But if you decide to play the market-timing game, through mutual funds or any other types of investments, you'll probably have to do better than "sooner or later" to come out ahead.

artificial sweetener. Elizabeth "was fascinated by it," the aide said.
The accommodations in the guest quarters — two bedrooms, two dressing rooms, two bathrooms, and a sitting room — were "very homey," according to Deaver.

In fact, White House aides couldn't seem to say enough nice things about their royal hosts.

"They're wonderful," said David R. Gergen, White House director of communications. "I'm terribly impressed by how gracious they've been."

Just as the White House staff was clearly charmed by its encounter with the queen and prince, a Swiss Guard at the Vatican, pacing and shifting from foot to foot, was anxious about his encounter with the White House staff.

Cpl. Roman Fringeli, a nine-year veteran of the ceremonial force, spent most of the hour before Reagan arrived making sure that no one placed any camera gear near a telephone installed by the White House communications agency.

Fringeli, wearing the traditional orange-and-blue uniform of pantaloons and loose short — a design that dates to the reign of the Medicis — was on duty in the Saint Ambrose room of the papal apartments. There, under an ornate painted ceiling, sat a single black phone, several rooms away from the papal library where the pope and the president were about to converse.

The telephone was installed to allow the president to have instant communications with Washington, if it should become necessary.

As soon as any of the several waiting photographers put their gear on the table on which the telephone sat, Fringeli motioned to them to move the equipment.

"Very important telephone," he said in a thick accent.

As it turned out, the telephone went unused by the president a regional jail. "It was fine as long as the jail was going to be in your county, as long as your people were going to be OK." The jail never got built.

But times may be changing, he says. "People are more mobile now and less tied to their roots." The thought of merging counties would be less repugnant in the 1980s. Especially if it is done properly.

Counties with common make-ups and heritage would merge. You wouldn't join urban Wake with rural Harnett. But, you might put Harnett and Lee together. Even though you'd be making larger counties, you wouldn't want to make them as large as the multicounty-planning regions which are now served by councils of government.

Holshouser says the best argument for merging counties will be the inevitable local tax increases that lie ahead: "To provide public service, they're going to need money and, to minimize the tax increases of the future, I think the taxpayer will insist on maximizing efficiency. . . . There will come a point where local pride will be overcome by the demand to cut government costs."

That's when counties will begin to merge, he said.

Completed The Costs Program

Pitt County Memorial Hospital is among 73 hospitals reported to have successfully completed the 1981-82 North Carolina Voluntary Effort cost containment program.

The NCVE Steering Committee's chairman, Dr. Edward L. Walls Jr., said, "We are pleased that this program has been so well-received by the hospitals of North Carolina. It remains among the few state-level activities firmly committed to reducing health care costs."

NCVE this year introduced a complex budget analysis program which would permit each participating hospital to compare its performance with other institutions in its peer group. The hospitals were required to operate cost awareness programs that called for multi-disciplinary cost containment committees, the sending of patients' hospital bills to their physicians and to hospital boards of trustees, and the posting of hospital charges for members of medical staffs.

This year computer analyses will identify any budget values exceeding the 70th percentile of each hospital's peer group. The hospital then may be required to justify such higher values.

Walls also said that VE will seek more involvement from the business community this year, trying to obtain the help of businesses in examining benefit policies to decrease unnecessary utilization. He said he hopes to see local community-based coalitions develop among businesses, hospitals and area physicians.

The 73 hospitals participating in VE represent about 80 percent of the acute care beds in the state, Walls said.

"The Hand That Held The Dagger ..."

"On this tenth day of June, 1940, the hand that held the dagger has stuck it in the back of its neighbor." So said President Franklin Roosevelt hours after hearing that Mussolini had declared war on France and England. France had already been invaded by Hitler's armies, and Roosevelt was stunned that Italy would take part in destroying its neighbor. It was a momentous speech — one that helped shatter the illusion of American neutrality and drew the U.S. closer toward entering the war. Today, on this tenth day of June, 1982, France, Italy, West Germany, England, and the U.S. will all participate in the NATO summit meeting in Bonn as allies whose strength lies in their unity.

DO YOU KNOW — Under what U.S. President was NATO formed?

Staton Appointed Smuggling Juvenile Officer Guilty Plea

Greenville Police Chief Glenn Cannon said today that officer Nelson Staton has been promoted to police juvenile officer, effective immediately.

Staton, a native of Martin County, graduated from Bethel Union High School and worked as a security guard at Weyerhaeuser Co. in Plymouth before joining the Plymouth Police Department in 1971. In 1973 Staton joined the Williamston Police Department and became a Greenville policeman in August 1981.

The new juvenile officer holds a two-year degree in police science from Martin Community College, has attended courses at the N.C. Justice Academy, is a certified Police Information Network operator, and has a number of other training programs to his credit, including courses in motor vehicle investigations, criminal investigation, firearms, laws of evidence, crime scene search, polygraph, and police bomb technician school. Staton is also a certified emergency medical technician.

As juvenile officer, Cannon said Staton will remain a member of the department's uniformed division, under the direct supervision of Capt. J. A. Briley.

Advises Neighbors Help Fight Crime

Greenville Police Chief Glenn Cannon, commenting on an increasing number of home break-ins in Greenville, said this morning that cooperation from neighbors can help combat thefts from homes.

The chief said neighbors should report suspicious activity around a house — especially a home where the occupants are away — to police.

He suggested that homeowners should ask neighbors to keep an eye on their house when they are away, and said people should make sure that all windows are locked and doors closed and locked before they leave home — whether to go to work or go off on vacation. Cannon said unlocked doors, and to a lesser extent open or unlocked windows, serve as an invitation to would-be thieves.

The chief also said when a family is away from home for an extended period of time — such as on vacation — neighbors should be asked to collect the mail and to turn lights on and off in the house, to make the dwelling look as though it is occupied.

Cannon said, too, that persons away from home for a period of time can request the police department's crime prevention unit to keep check on the dwelling by calling 752-3342.

Herring Catch Near Doubled

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The 1982 harvest of herring in North Carolina waters was almost double the amount caught in 1981, state figures show.

Reports compiled by the N.C. Division of Fisheries in Morehead City show that 9.4 million pounds of herring were caught this year. In 1981, considered one of the worst herring seasons in recent history, 4.7 million pounds were harvested.

The catch this year is worth about $700,000 to the fishermen and is the best since 1972, when 11.2 million pounds were caught, figures show.

Water Skeeters Ready For Public Operation

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer
They're great outdoors fun and if all goes well, they might become Greenville's most exciting public recreational attraction by October this year.

Two foot-powered Water Skeeters are now on hand in one of the ponds at River Park North. Water Skeeters, commonly called paddle boats, are two-seated water transportation devices operated with pedal foot-power that turns two circular paddle wheels, in a manner somewhat similar to the combination of a bicycle and the old paddle-wheeled riverboats. Directional guidance is provided by a gear-type rick. Paddle boats can be operated in forward or reverse positions.

The two boats on hand were tried out by members of the Greenville Recreation and Parks Commission at its June meeting at the Park Wednesday evening. All who gave them a try called it great fun.

"We're really excited about the prospect of getting into operation with these boats, everybody of all ages will love them," said Boyd Lee, Greenville Recreation and Parks director.

"We would really like to have enough paddlers to go into public operation by October, the date we plan for the official dedication of the park," Lee commented. "However, that will depend on whether or not we can manage to have 10 or 12 of them on hand."

Lee said individual Water Skeeters cost $900, and if ordered in numbers, can be purchased for about $750 each. "What we'd really like to have happen is for civic clubs, businesses or anyone else donate a boat to the city. Anyone who does, we'll put their name on the boat."

Currently, the built-up dirt approach to a ramp site for the water boats has been completed. "There's still lots to be done before we can offer this attraction to the public," Lee said. "Our plans are to construct a fence alongside the ramp approach, and to install a control hut at the entrance. This is necessary as I'm sure there will be a big demand to use the boats."

A floating ramp is to be constructed at water's edge. This will permit patrons to use the boats without having to wade ashore.

At this time, River Park North offers a number of attractions to the public, including hiking, nature observations and fishing.

"The ponds in the park are open to the public for fishing," Lee said. "Anybody can come here to fish. However, fishing here is restricted to non-motorized boats and natural bait is the only bait permitted."

Arrest Suspect On Rape Count

Thomas Lee Tyson, 28, of Lot 36, Matthews Trailer Park near Farmville, was arrested by Pitt County deputies early today and charged with first degree burglary and the rape of a 23-year-old woman, according to Sheriff Ralph Tyson.

Sheriff Tyson said Tyson, who is being held in Pitt County Jail without privilege of bond, was arrested at 4:30 a.m. at his home.

The sheriff said the assault took place around midnight Wednesday at the victim's mobile home located on Stantonsburg Road. He said

entrance to the dwelling was gained through a window

after a screen was broken out.

The incident was reported at 1:36 a.m.

GIVING IT A TRY ... Greenville Recreation and Parks Commission members Lib Proctor and Dr. Robert G. Deyton, Jr., seated on a Water Skeeter recreational boat, are given instructions on the craft's operation. Explaining the proper operation procedures are Parks Director Walter Stasovich (left) and Recreation and Parks Director Boyd Lee. Lee hopes it will be possible to have sufficient paddlers to offer use of them to the public by October.

Tuesday Fire

PACTOLUS - The David Hartley home on State Road 1558 near Pactolus sustained extensive damage in a fire Tuesday afternoon.

According to the Pitt County fire marshal's office, approximately $40,000 worth of damage was done. The Pactolus Fire Department answered the call at 4:38 p.m. and the Stokes and Clark's Neck fire departments assisted.

Poultry.
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — (NCDA) — The North Carolina f.o.b. dock broiler market was trending higher for next week. Supplies light to moderate. Demand good. Weights desirable. The dock weighted average price for this week is 45.89 for small purchases of plant grade broilers picked up at processing plants. Estimated slaughter today 1,743,000.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market declined slightly today as prices hovered around their lowest levels of the year.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, which closed Wednesday barely above its March 8 low of 795.47, slipped 67 to 794.90 by noon.

Losers held a narrow lead over gainers in the mid-day tally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Brokers said the market had begun a potentially important test at around the 795 level in the Dow Jones industrial average.

They said that a decisive decline below that point might well serve to deepen the pessimism already gripping the market.

The economic news background offered little encouragement. Analysts said nothing had taken place in the last few days to increase traders' hopes for any significant relief from high interest rates and the recession.

Among recently depressed issues, Schlumberger rose 1/2 to 38 3/4; American Telephone & Telegraph 1/4 to 51 1/4, and International Business Machines 1/4 to 58 1/4.

Boise Cascade dropped 7/8 to 21 1/2 on top of a 1 1/4-point drop Wednesday, when the company said it was likely to post a loss for the second quarter, and possibly the first half as well.

The NYSE's composite index rose .04 to 62.72. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was off .89 at 253.73.

Volume on the Big Board totaled 22.16 million shares at noon, against 20.35 million at the same point Wednesday.

construction of a boat ramp at an estimated $3,000 and an estimated cost of $27,500 for paving the parking lot. The proposed boat ramp would be one designed to service small powered boats and canoes, with a paved parking adjacent to the ramp of sufficient scope to serve the normal parking needs of the fishing and water sport public.

Overton explained that a survey made by task force members reveals that as a general rule the depth of the Tar River is shallow, with debris and snags making the river one to be navigated with caution in the Greenville area. This problem, he opined, can conceivably be lessened in the future by snagging operations that could be conducted by the Corps of Engineer.

He emphasized there is great potential for increased use of the Tar River as a sport and recreation facility. Walker told the recreation commission that the chamber is interested in the project, and believes that monetary support can be secured by the chamber through the Greenville Foundation and through other area sources including civic clubs.

He also read a letter from Ed Martin, chairman of the architect and drafting department at Pitt Community College, offering to have students in that department provide, without charge, detailed architectural plans for development of the boat ramp-parking lot project.

He concluded by noting that if the idea of a boat ramp and parking lot is acceptable to the recreation department and the City Council, chamber members feel the project can be accomplished.

Director of Parks Walter Stasavich and department Director Boyd Lee expressed the opinion that a boat ramp and parking lot would greatly enhance the safety factor and provide for more effective maintenance. Stasavich said that as it is now, the dirt road leading to the water's edge is subject to constant erosion. This, in turn, entails continuous efforts, both by the recreation department and the city's public works department, to rework the area. Stasavich estimated that maintenance of a boat ramp and parking area would likely be about $1,500 yearly.

Another consideration expressed is that, in its present condition, the area constitutes an eyesore in contrast to the appearance of the rest of the Town Common.

 Those who did not know wondered why senior Heather Leigh Jenkins, far down the line alphabetically, was the first in line to receive her high school diploma at the Tuesday night Rose High graduation ceremony in Minges Coliseum.

Heather's mother, Mrs. Sudie S. Jenkins, like all mothers, wanted to see her child graduate. But for Mrs. Jenkins, attending was an occasion of courage and determination.

For the past two years, Mrs. Jenkins has suffered from the illness commonly known as Lou Gehrig's disease. For the past nine months, she has been constantly on a respirator. It has been several months since she was able to leave her home for any reason. Despite her condition, Mrs. Jenkins was on hand to see Leigh receive her diploma.

A friend of the family, Edgar Warren, made arrangements for a special van and a wheel chair of the type to accommodate the respirator. Shortly before the seniors marched into the Coliseum, Mrs. Jenkins was unobtrusively wheeled into place from a back entrance, and placed at a vantage point where she would be able to see her daughter when her name was called and she mounted the stage.

In addition to Warren and Mrs. Jenkins' nurse, Paula Toler, all of Heather's family were on hand to see her graduate. Family members attending were Heather's sister, Sudie Hatcher, her husband and two young children; her brother Drury and his wife, Catherine; and her brother, Carroll.

Moseby's Triple Sparks Blue Jay Rally

By The Associated Press
It was decidedly against accepted baseball strategy — but Toronto Manager Bobby Cox did it anyway.
With the Blue Jays trailing the California Angels 4-3, Barry Bonnell led off the bottom of the ninth inning with a single. Lloyd Moseby came to the plate and just about everyone in Toronto's Exhibition Stadium expected him to try to bunt Bonnell into scoring position.

But he didn't.

Moseby instead swung away at the first pitch from reliever Doug Corbett, 1-6, and lashed a triple to right center that tied the game. The Blue Jays later won it 5-4 on Al Woods' bases-loaded groundout.

"I told Lloyd to go up there and take his cuts," said Cox. "But I told him to take a hard look at the signs in case I switched off."

"But, I don't know — I was 99 percent sure I'd have him swinging the whole way. He's been swinging a pretty hot bat lately..."

Moseby said he knew the Angels would be looking for the bunt.

"I'm sure he (Corbett) thought I was in a bunt situation for sure. He threw me a low fastball and that's right in my zone. When I hit the ball I thought triple all the way. I wasn't going to stop at second — I was going for third all the way," he said.

Before the Blue Jays won the game for reliever Joey McLaughlin, 3-3, the Angels had taken a 4-3 lead in the eighth with the help of a throwing error by Toronto catcher Ernie Whitt. Rod Carew doubled with one out and moved to third on Bob Boone's single. When the relay throw came home, Whitt tried to get Boone, who was racing to second, but his throw sailed into center field, allowing Carew to score easily.

Earlier, Don Baylor and Reggie Jackson hit homers for the Angels, Jackson's a two-run shot. The Blue Jays got solo homers from Whitt and Damaso Garcia.

In other American League action, Boston edged New York 4-3, Seattle nipped Texas 4-3 in 11 innings, Kansas City whipped Minnesota 8-5, Oakland turned back Chicago 5-4, Baltimore defeated Milwaukee 8-3 and Detroit beat Cleveland 2-1 in the opener of a doubleheader before the nightcap was suspended in a 3-3 tie after 14 innings.

Red Sox 4, Yankees 3
Tony Perez belted his 360th major-league home run and Bruce Hurst and Bob Stanley combined on an eight-hitter as Boston beat New York for its fifth straight victory.

Reid Nichols had a double and a single, scoring Boston's second run and driving in the third in helping to send the Yankees to their fifth straight loss.

Perez's third homer of the season against Tommy John, 4-6, leading off the Boston second inning moved the 40-year-old veteran past Johnny Mize into 29th place among baseball's all-time home run hitters. He trails Hall of Famer Joe DiMaggio by one.

Hurst, 2-1, gave way to Stanley in the sixth.

Mariners 4, Rangers 3
Richie Zisk's RBI single in the 11th lifted Seattle over Texas.

Manny Castillo opened with a single, moved to second on Bruce Bochte's sacrifice and scored when Zisk singled off reliever Steve Comer, 0-3, the fourth Texas pitcher.

Ed VandeBerg, 4-1, pitched the final 12-3 innings for the victory.

The Mariners sent the game into extra innings when they tied it in the eighth on Bochte's RBI groundout.

"I had a chance to put us ahead in the eighth inning and Steve Comer got me to ground out on a good pitch," Zisk said. "So I had fire in my eyes the next time up."

Royals 8, Twins 5
Kansas City's Amos Otis hit a three-run homer in the third inning, sparking the Royals to their eighth straight victory. The struggling Twins lost for the fifth straight time and 19th in the last 20 games.

Winner Paul Splittorff, 5-4, left in the midst of a three-run rally in the eighth. Reliever Dan Quisenberry came on to quiet the rally and post his 15th save.

"There's no lead safe in this yard," Quisenberry said of the homer-happy Metrodome in Minneapolis. "There's no failsafe zone here. It's condition red all the time."

A's 5, White Sox 4

Tony Armas hit a three-run homer in the eighth to lead Oakland over Chicago and snap a five-game losing streak for the A's.

With two outs, Dwayne Murphy and Dan Meyer both singled before Armas belted his sixth homer to break a 2-2 tie and saddle LaMarr Hoyt, 9-3, with his first career Comiskey Park defeat. Hoyt was 16-0 at home in three seasons.

Matt Keough, 5-7, survived a two-run blast by Greg Luzinski in the bottom of the eighth to post his first complete game since May 3 and fourth of the season. Keough scattered seven hits.

Orioles 8, Brewers 3
Joe Nolan singled and homered to drive in three runs and Mike Flanagan pitched a six-hitter as Baltimore beat Milwaukee for its fifth straight victory. Flanagan, 5-4, recorded his fourth complete game and allowed only one earned run.

Leading 3-2, the Orioles chased Milwaukee starter Moose Haas, 3-3, with five runs in the sixth, all with two out.

Tigers 2-3, Indians 1-3
Jerry Turner hit a two-run homer and Jack Morris scattered seven hits to lead Detroit's first-game victory over Cleveland.

The Indians had taken a 1-0 lead in the second on Jerry Dyzinski's RBI single. The score remained that way until the Detroit seventh as Morris, 8-5, and Cleveland's Len Barker, 7-3, duelled masterfully. Then Kirk Gibson led off with a single and came home on Turner's third homer of the season.

The second game was suspended by the American League curfew law which prohibits any inning from starting after 1 a.m.

Cooney Rated No Pushover

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Eddie Futch and Ray Arcel, the two elder statesmen who are preparing Larry Holmes for Friday night's defense of his World Boxing Council heavyweight championship, don't expect challenger Gerry Cooney to be any pushover.

"Gerry Cooney is young, strong and ambitious," said Futch, who, at 70, is the junior member of this training tandem. "He's got power in his left and he's learned how to use his right."

Arcel, who is 82 years old and has been in the business of boxing for most of that time, echoed Futch.

"We're in with a strong, young bull who wants to be champ," he said. "We're not underrating him."

Victor Valle, responsible for preparing Cooney for this richest bout in boxing history, thinks Holmes' braintrust is approaching this thing sensibly.

"Gerry changes from a human being to a beast in the ring," he said. "You can see it in his eyes. I can tell when I give him his last instructions."

Friday's fight comes almost two months after it was originally scheduled. The March 15 date was postponed when Cooney hurt his left shoulder in training. But Valle says his man is 100 percent now.

He said he thought Cooney's injury may actually have helped the challenger's preparation for the biggest fight of his life.

"It helped him develop his right hand more. Now he can hurt you with either hand," Valle said.

Holmes' people are aware that Cooney packs a punch. But they're convinced their man can handle it.

"Larry has the tools, the knowledge and the experience," said Futch. "He knows what he has to do. Larry is a disciplined fighter. He will do what he has to do to win. I'm looking for a good fight and a successful conclusion."

Valle has the proper respect for Holmes' abilities, evidenced by 10 knockouts in 11 defenses since he won the championship from Ken Norton four years ago.

"He moves well. He's got good jabs and he punches good. But Gerry fights better against better fighters," the trainer said.

Holmes took Wednesday off while Cooney went through a final workout before today's weigh-in. The challenger seemed relaxed afterwards.

Cooney said he weighed 224 pounds after Wednesday's training session and that he would come into the fight at 227 or 228.

As he talked with reporters, he toyed with a hand puppet which he said two children had given to him. Occasionally he would answer questions in a high-pitched voice, gesturing with the puppet.

Cooney was asked when he would finish Holmes.

"The first chance I get," he said.

different mold," said Philadelphia Manager Pat Corrales. "They threw that mold away."

"It's amazing that a man that age (37) can throw that hard. But he's always in good physical condition. He's just a great athlete. He works at it. That's why he's stuck around being great this long."

The 16 strikeouts were a one-game major league high for this season. Gaylord Perry had whiffed 13 for Seattle against California in April.

In other NL games Wednesday, Houston stopped San Francisco 6-1, Montreal defeated St. Louis 5-1, the New York Mets nipped Pittsburgh 3-2, Cincinnati edged San Diego 4-3 and Atlanta crushed Los Angeles 11-5.

Catcher Bo Diaz and third baseman Mike Schmidt slammed home runs to power the Phillies' offense.

Diaz said Carlton, 7-6, had command of all of his pitches. "Most of the time, though, he went to his breaking pitches. He also had great success with his fastball," Diaz said. "He was so sharp that nobody could beat him tonight. I've caught him 12 or 13 times, and this was the best stuff he's had."

Coke got all the runs it needed in the first inning, scoring four times. Curtis Perkins led off with a single and Tyrone Barrett got a hit. Perkins stole third and an error let him score with Barrett taking second. Paul Hill singled him in and Traye Fuqua walked. Another error let Hill score and Fuqua scored on Michel's first hit of the evening.

Coke added four more in the second, got one in the third, and four in the fourth. Coke finished off its scoring with six in the fifth inning.

Both of the Planters runs came in the third inning.

Famous Subs 3

Mo Matthews had three hits and Duane Roser had a homer to lead Wachovia Bank to a lopsided 15-3 Babe Ruth League victory over Famous Sub yesterday.

Wachovia opened the scoring in the first inning scoring three times, but what proved the difference came in the second as two more runs came across.

Jeff Howard reached on an error with one away and stole second. He took third on an out and Dwight Smith walked. Smith stole up and an error let Howard score. After Rick Outlaw walked, William Ward singled to score Smith for a 5-0 lead.

Wachovia added one in the third, three in the fifth on a three-run homer by Roser, two in the sixth, and four more in the seventh to wrap up the win.

Famous Sub got two runs in the third and one in the fourth. Matthews three hits included a triple, and Roser added a second hit to his total for Coke.

NFL Proves Contention: Says Charge Overblown

By The Associated Press

The first reactions are bearing out at least one of Don Reese's contentions: that it would be said he had exaggerated the extent of a cocaine problem in the National Football League.

At the end of his magazine article about alleged widespread cocaine use by NFL players, Reese said, "Rather than reform, what is more likely to happen is that the NFL will say I've exaggerated everything here."

In a copyright story in the June 14 issue of Sports Illustrated, Reese said that "Cocaine can be found in quantity throughout" the NFL.

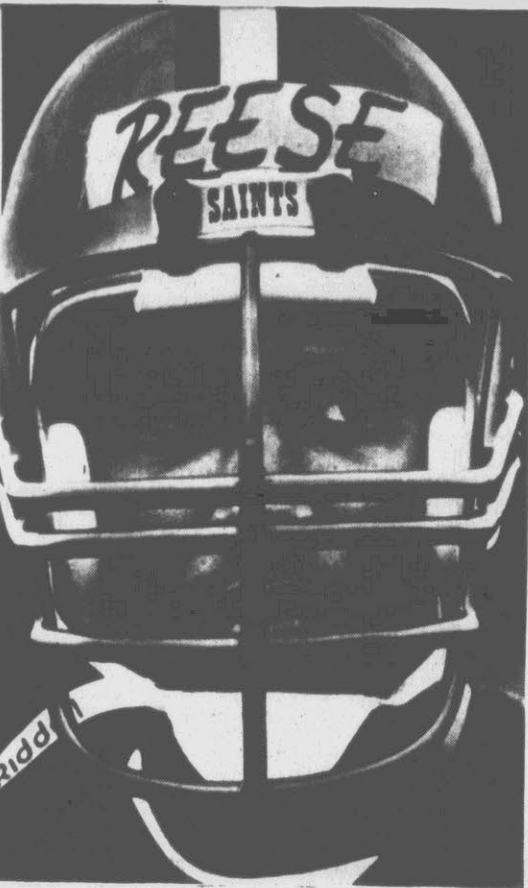

Reese, 30, played for Miami (1974-76), New Orleans (1978-80) and San Diego (1981) as a defensive end. He and former Dolphins' teammate Randy Crowder, a defensive tackle, spent a year in jail during 1977-78 after pleading guilty to selling cocaine to undercover agents.

In the article, Reese wrote that there were drug problems on all three teams he played for, and named several NFL players with whom he played as cocaine users.

San Diego owner Gene Klein dismissed Reese's allegation that the Chargers have "a big drug problem" as "ludicrous ... total nonsense."

"We're not claiming we're lily-white," Klein told The Associated Press in a telephone interview Wednesday. "There's no question in my mind that pro athletes are using narcotics and chemicals, just as other parts of our society are. Our policy has been to help anyone who comes forward. But we can't be their keepers."

Klein said he feels "sympathy for Mr. Reese. He's obviously down at the bottom, the dregs of humanity. I understand Sports Illustrated picked up his drug rehabilitation bills and paid him $10,000 for the story. That's checkbook journalism and I don't agree with it."

Sports Illustrated publicity director Jane Gilchrist said that the magazine had been approached by Reese, who offered to do the story. "We may pick up the tab for the detoxification program he has undergone, or maybe part of it," said Gilchrist. "Anyone who is not on the staff and does a first-person story, as he did, gets paid for it, and the pay may take that form. As far as I know, Reese has been paid only $100 to $200 for expenses so far."

In the article, Reese said that Chargers' Pro Bowl running back Chuck Muncie introduced him to free-basing cocaine, a procedure where the drug is heated and the fumes inhaled.

Reese said Muncie "has to be a superman to do what he does on the field and use coke the way he does off it."

Klein said he has seen "no shred of evidence" that Muncie has been involved in drugs. Repeated attempts to locate Muncie were unsuccessful the last two days.

The Chargers' office said his whereabouts was unknown, and several calls to Muncie's attorney also went unanswered.

KINSTON — Kinston Country Club gained a 4-3 tennis victory over the Baywood Racquet Club of Greenville yesterday.

Loftin finished the three round tournament with a 90, 18 strokes under par.

David Beacham and Rodney Hooks were tied for fourth place at 14 under, 94, four shots off the pace.

bases-loaded grounder to short to cap a two-run ninth inning and give New York its victory over Pittsburgh.

The Pirates helped the Mets' winning rally with two errors on one play. Catcher Tony Pena was not charged with an error when he dropped shortstop Dale Berra's high throw as Tillman slid across the plate with the winning run.

Dave Kingman slammed his 15th homer of the season in the sixth for New York, giving him the all-time Met lead with 119, one more than Ed Kranepool.

Consecutive home runs by Cesar Cedeno and Johnny Bench powered Cincinnati past San Diego and gave Tom Seaver his eighth straight victory over the Padres, although he needed ninth-inning relief help.

In the Reds' fourth, Dan Driessen walked and rode home on Cedeno's third homer of the season. Bench then cleared the fence in left-center on the next pitch for his fifth homer.

five runs with a double and four singles to lead an 18-hit Atlanta attack as the Braves crushed Los Angeles. The victory completed a three-game sweep of the Dodgers as Atlanta improved its lead in the National League West to 2½ games over San Diego.

Poceroba, who came into the game with only six runs batted in all season, singled home two runs in the fourth and knocked in three more in the fifth with a bases-loaded double.

Hank Aaron played in more major-league baseball games than any other player, a total of 3,298.

Diplomas will be issued to 675 Pitt County high school seniors Friday at four commencement ceremonies. D.H. Conley, Ayden-Grifton, North Pitt and Farmville Central high schools will hand out diplomas during graduation exercises scheduled at the four schools for 8 p.m., according to county school officials. Speakers from each senior class will deliver commencement messages. At D.H. Conley, speakers will include Rob Ehinger, Kelly Moore, Pam Joyner and Greg Mobley. At Ayden-Grifton, James

Nobles and Rhonda Hall will speak to the 150 graduating seniors. North Pitt's orators include Lisa Carraway and Amanda Holliman. At Farmville Central, graduating seniors Jeff Joyner and Lynn Pollard will present the commencement message. Acting Superintendent Thomas Craft will attend ceremonies at Ayden-Grifton, while Assistant Superintendent Leck Keeter will attend D.H. Conley's graduation. Assistant Superintendent Bernard Haseirig will be at North Pitt and John McKnight will be at Farmville Central. Bet Alford, wife of the late Ott Alford, former superintendent of Pitt County schools, and her three sons—Gary, Randy and Scott—will each attend one Pitt County high school to present the "Ott Alford Cultural Award," Craft said.

Says Arrest Is Effort To Stop March

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The Rev. James E. Orange, one of the leaders of an Alabama to Washington voting rights pilgrimage, says his arrest last week was an attempt to discourage the marchers from completing their 2,000-mile journey.

Orange was arrested Friday night on a fugitive warrant in a 1973 conviction in Edenton for "failing to disperse" when directed to do so by a policeman. At the time, Orange was taking part in a demonstration to protest the firing of a black band leader in Edenton. He is now serving a six-month sentence on the misdemeanor charge.

Speaking at a news conference Wednesday at the Triangle Correction Center in Raleigh, Orange said he innocently returned to the Chowan County scene of his crime "to see old friends, not bring up old charges." He said he had been in North Carolina since May 18 as part of the group that is sponsoring the pilgrimage to press for an extension of the 1965 Voting Rights Act.

However, he says he was not arrested until June 4 because, he said, a prayer vigil in front of the office of U.S. Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., and voter registration efforts had "ruffled some collars and raised a few nerves."

Orange, who has been on a fast since his arrest, says he's been passing the time in jail by reading the Bible and counseling other inmates. He says "the Spirit" had told him not to eat and that he was taking only fluids.

Supporters Of ERA Raising A Stink

By MARY ANNE RHYNE
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—
Some ruffled supporters of the Equal Rights Amendment are literally raising a stink about the state Senate vote that killed the ERA last Friday.

To prove their point, they've mailed small bags of chicken manure to 27 of the 50 lawmakers who helped bring the ERA's defeat in North Carolina and dim the amendment's chances nationwide.

In addition, the 27 senators received white gloves Wednesday from the Daughters of the Amendment Ratification, a group who said it represents "women who have taken off our white gloves."

ERA opponent Sen. Ollie Harris, D-Gaston, said he has received more than 200 out-of-state letters and telegrams after appearing on national television after last week's battle.

One letter from a California woman called him a "yellow bellie" for putting an end to the ERA, which she called the second Civil War.

Jo Ann Norris, president of North Carolinians United for ERA, refused to comment on the gifts and letters.

"I'm not going to make moral judgments about how people vent their frustrations," she said, adding that she did not know who was involved in mailing the manure.

The plastic bags of chicken manure were sealed in letter-sized envelopes with Raleigh postmarks. They bore no return address but contained a brief poem which read in part:

"This fragrant memento
reminds me
Of the vote you made yesterday
That reflects your contempt for women.
By temporarily scuttling
the ERA,
The Daughters of the Amendment Ratification also left a poem as a calling card:
"You hid in the chapel to say
You'd vow not to pass
ERA.
Speed, under a pew,
Hinds his chances are few.
You'll see, ERA's here to stay.
The poem referred to a meeting of ERA opponents in the chapel last week. After the meeting, ERA supporters said they found Sen. James Speed, D-Franklin, hiding

under a pew.

Most of the senators laughed at the deliveries.
Sen. Harold Baker, R-Wilkes, said he got three packages of manure and reasoned it was because,
"I've been triple bad" for introducing the bill under which ERA was tabled.

Sen. Paul Smith, R-Rowan, said he had returned his package to the sender.

"The only person I know in Raleigh for the ERA is the governor," Smith said, adding that he'd passed his package to the governor's lobbyist.

"It stinks," said Sen.
Donald Kincaid, R-Caldwell.
"I know this was not a Wilkes County chicken. I could tell by the way it smells."
Kincaid jokingly said that

Bldg. Activity Still Declines

State Labor Commissioner John Brooks reported that building permits valued at $849,889 were issued in Greenville during February.

For the first two months of 1982, building permits with a total value of $1,601,708 were issued here, Brooks reported.

In Pitt County, construction authorized during February amounted to $906,710, including $62,000 for two single-family units, $313,683
for nine non-residential units and $531,027 for 45 additions and alterations.

The commissioner said double-digit declines were recorded in February, compared with the same month in 1981, in all four categories of building activity compiled monthly by his department's research and statistics division for the state's 44 cities of more than 10,000 population.

He said authorized
multifamily-dwelling units dropped 59.9 percent; permits for single-family homes fell 27.2 percent; additions and alterations were off 18.2 percent; and non-residential construction declined 10.6 percent.

Over the year, Brooks said,
the average construction cost for a single-family home decreased 12.9 percent, to $40,398 from $46,392. The average was down 9.3 percent from January's $44,544.

Building values for February and for the first two months in several neighboring cities included: Elizabeth
City, $614,650, $725,650;
Goldsboro, $238,500,
$1,948,875; Jacksonville,
$2,332,131, $3,654,647;
Kinston, $235,016, $290,874;
New Bern, $483,600,
$673,191; Roanoke Rapids, $389,996, $589,866; Rocky Mount, $1,137,501, $2,376,150;
Tarboro, $388,800, $647,165;
and Wilson, $1,627,448,
$3,867,840.

Charlotte led individual cities in value reported with $11,984,998, followed by Raleigh with $10,368,312, Winston-Salem with $5,431,124, and Eden with $3,700,846, Brooks said.

Two Collisions Wednesday

An estimated $2,400 property damage resulted from two traffic collisions investigated by Greenville
police Wednesday.

Officers said heaviest damage resulted from a 6:35 p.m. mishap at the intersection of Memorial Drive and Third Street.

Investigators reported a truck driven by Johnnie
Willie Wilkes of 1009 Melody
Lane collided with a utility pole, then swerved and collided with a tractor-trailer truck which did not stop.

Damage was estimated at $1,200 to the Wilkes truck and $500 to the pole.

A 6:45 p.m. mishap on Charles Boulevard, 150 feet south of the Charles Street intersection, involved cars driven by Kenneth Lee Smith of 2923 Rose St. and Judy Lynn Parker of 225 Green Mill Run Apartments.

Damage from the collision was set at $200 to the Smith car and $500 to the Parker vehicle.

Arrest Two On Lottery Counts

Pitt County deputies arrested two Kinston men Tuesday and charged them with the possession and sale of numbers resulting in a lottery, according to Sheriff Ralph Tyson.

The sheriff said Robert Earl Huggins, 35, was arrested at Stokestown in the Coxville area of Pitt County, while Douglas Quinn, 46, was apprehended in Greenville. Each listed his address as Lot A-19, Holiday Plaza

Mobile Home Park in Kinston.

Tyson said deputies confiscated $2,647.45 in cash and seven envelopes containing numbers and receipts.

He pointed out that the alleged numbers operation was suspected in Pitt, Craven and Beaufort counties.

Huggins and Quinn were released on $200 bond each pending first appearance hearings on June 21 in District Court here.

Tyson said investigation is continuing and other arrests are possible.

Opening lead: King of ♠.

How would you play the trump suit in today's hand? Strange as it might seem, the answer to that lies elsewhere in the hand.

The auction was routine. North used the Stayman Convention to locate a 4-4 spade fit, and then made the value raise to game.

West led the king of hearts, and when dummy appeared, declarer saw that there was no way to avoid losing a trick in each red suit — the duplication of values in the minor suits was unfortunate. So declarer had to hold his trump losers to one if he was to fulfill his contract.

If you take the trump suit in isolation, the percentage play would be to finesse East for the jack of spades. But you have to consider the hand as a whole. The key to success here is not who holds the jack of spades, but who holds the ace of diamonds!

Declarer won the king of hearts with the ace and immediately led a diamond. West won the ace, cashed the queen of hearts and continued with the suit. Declarer ruffed, crossed to the queen of diamonds and led a spade to the king. When that held, he continued with a low spade, which he ducked in dummy. East won the ace, and declarer was home.

Why did South adopt such an anti-percentage line in his play of the trump suit? West had already shown up with the king-queen of hearts and ace of diamonds. If he had the ace of spades as well, he would have opened the bidding. Therefore, East is marked with the ace and he is more likely to hold A-x or A-x-x in trumps than specifically A-J-x.

What if East has the ace of diamonds? Now either defender could hold the ace of trumps, so declarer should take the percentage play of finessing the ten of spades in the hope that East has the jack.

Spielberg Buys A Sled

NEW YORK (AP) — Filmmaker Steven Spielberg, who says he was influenced greatly by the classic "Citizen Kane" telephoned in a bid of $55,000 to buy the balsa sled "Rosebud" used in the movie, an auction house says.

Spielberg bid by phone from the West Coast on Wednesday, beating out bidders from Chicago and Texas for the famous prop, according to Colby Kelly, spokeswoman for the auctioneer, Sotheby Parke Bernet.

"When I heard that the sled was going on auction, I was very hungry to have it," said Spielberg, director of "Jaws." "Close Encounters of the Third Kind" and "E.T."

Gene Autry In 'Great Shape'

ORANGE, Calif. (AP) — Former cowboy singing star Gene Autry has been sent home from the hospital in "100 percent great shape" after recovering from the flu, a hospital official said.

Autry, 74, owner of the California Angels baseball team and chairman of Golden West Broadcasters, was released Wednesday from St. Joseph's Hospital, said hospital spokeswoman Valerie Orleans.

Auto Industry Documentary Tonight

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — We drive them; in turn they motor our lifestyle, power the national economy and fuel-inject the American dream. The "Beach Boys" sing tributes to them: A galaxy of golden arches follow their every move.

The Almighty American Automobile, the AAA. Next to family and home, the baby in the garage is man's prize possession. And some may even put it in the front seat.

But foreign imports from Japan and the U.S. recession have put the American auto industry skidding toward disaster. Domestic cars are not an endangered species, but they are in danger. That's a message from "U.S. Autos: Gearing Up For Survival," which gets the award for the most straightforward, full-speed-ahead TV documentary this year.

The program, syndicated by Capital Cities Television Productions, will be broadcast on 150 stations over the next two weeks. Narrated and co-written by Tom Wicker of the New York Times, this pithy documentary proves how much more information TV can offer when it throws glitz and glitter out the window.

"U.S. Autos: Gearing Up For Survival" is nonsense, well-communicated, nuts-and-bolts journalism.

Wicker is not your typical blow-dried host. With tie askew, he does his first stand-up in front of Floyd Rice's New And Used Cars. "This is not just Detroit's crisis," he says. "One of six Americans are employed in an auto industry that also produces 18 percent of the U.S.'s goods and services."

Through interviews with the most knowledgeable talking heads in the car business, Wicker examines how "the once-complacent auto companies are facing stiff challenges from overseas." They're doing it with science and engineers, which Wicker calls "America's best assets."

America needs to improve car quality. According to the Consumer Reports dot charts, where red is good and black is bad, Japanese cars columns are blood red, meaning they rarely break down. GM cars register a black sea of ink.

Ford, which lost $1 billion in 1981, renegotiated a contract with its workers, cut management salaries and redesigned cars to compete with small imports. Ford, which invented the assembly line, has turned to statistical analyses to bolster quality control.

That's the approach of Dr.

Edwards Demming, an American who's been working for Ford for 18 months. He's been consulting Japanese car manufacturers since 1950.

The dire state of the American auto industry, which has seen layoffs and plant closings, has produced a closer alliance between labor and management. Both need the other to succeed. For now, workers and companies are on equal footing. Workers are involved in plant problem-solving, duplicating the Japanese way.

With support from the United Auto Workers, computer-operated robots are creeping into the assembly line. GM has 500 robots, with plans for 5,000 by 1985. The UAW says the robots, which look like they belong in a Woody Allen movie, can replace workers through attrition.

Robots will do the jobs humans don't want. They won't grouse and won't organize. They're just one of the documentary's peeks into the future.

Then, OPEC note, there's the electric car, which GM is targeting for the 1980s. This could change the way America travels. Recharge the charging stations, and be equipped with batteries.

Another option is for American car companies to go into partnership with foreign manufacturers. It's already happening. Mitsubishi and the Colt for Dodge, and another joint venture, American Motors is supplying manpower and France Renault is providing knowhow.

Says Wicker: "The auto industry is looking to the future, not the past. Good show."

Baby-Face-At-30 Sole Returnee To Grease 2

ALL GREASED UP — Actress New York Wednesday night. Luft Liza Minnelli, left, and her half-sister Lorna Luft arrive for the premier of the film "Grease 2" in HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Didi Conn, who played the beauty parlor high school dropout in "Grease," is the sole member of the original cast of would-be adolescents returning for "Grease 2."

Faculty members Eve Arden, Sid Caesar and secretary Dody Goodman will be back for a few laughs, but the kids have matured past the age of credibility as members of the Pink Ladies and the T Birds.

All but Didi, who once again plays Frenchy, who has quit her beautician pursuits to return to good old Rydell High for a diploma.

Frenchy is supposed to be 18. Didi is 12 years older than that.

But at 30 Didi doesn't need makeup to look younger. Nor is it necessary for her to alter her high-pitched voice. Didi's willowy, youthful figure adds to the illusion of a school-ager.

Her quick smile, large, innocent brown eyes, long dark hair and apparent naivete complete the picture. She looks delightfully like a kid and behaves like a kid. Didi, moreover, is as pleased as a kid about the whole thing.

"We're talking luck," she said, giggling. "I have a young face and skin and I still like to play. I guess I've still gotta lotta kid in me."

Didi is more sophisticated than a superficial glance would indicate. She has been married and divorced and currently lives with composer David Shire in the San Fernando Valley.

They might easily be mistaken for father and daughter. David is tall, lean and gray haired and Didi looks as if she might skip instead of walk beside him.

However, Didi is no newcomer. She is a veteran who co-stars each week as the secretary in the "Benson" TV series. She's worked in Canada and Italy and has appeared in commercials, movies and TV shows playing comedy and drama.

One is tempted to pat Didi on the head and ask what her plans are when she leaves school, especially when she dresses in her favorite togs, T-shirt, blue jeans and cowboy boots.

"Playing kids is no problem for me," she said. "I enjoy it. For six years I've been playing teenagers with braces on my teeth, a dumb voice and wearing boyish clothes."

Prisoner Suspected To Be Professional Hit-Man

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — A man linked by police to 100 contract murders around the nation was seized along with the deadly tools of a hit man's trade — automatic pistols, silencers, brass knuckles and handcuffs.

"I think that a realistic figure — from the paperwork we've got, the Hfestyle Hunwick was living, and what's been said by Chafin and other informants — is about 100," Adams added. During the arrest, detectives seized a 9-mm automatic pistol and two "hit kits" containing four more automatic pistols, two silencers, a pair of handcuffs, a set of brass knuckles and a glove, said sheriff's spokeswoman Judi Maffei.

Also seized were three more handguns, a high-powered rifle and a pipe bomb containing plastic explosives, she said. Statements from Chafin and other informants and letters found in Hunwick's home and car when he was arrested linked him to 100 were not identified. Hunwick was arrested Tuesday night at his $250,000 home. A warrant was issued on the same charges for Reid.

Robert Hawley, one of four men believed to have worked as hit men for Hunwick, race drivers Bill, Don and Dale Whittington. The Fort Lauderdale News and Sun-Sentinel reported last week and the Whittingtons — Don, that undercover agents in 36, Bill, 32, and Dale, 22 — Indiana were assigned to said they had no idea why guard the brothers during drug dealers would want the Indianapolis 500 last them killed.

BARTON HUNWICK

Bernard Barton Hunwick, being held without bond Wednesday in Broward County jail on charges of attempted murder, kidnaping and armed robbery, may be responsible for "about 100" murders nationwide, said Broward County sheriff's Sgt. Dale Adams.

"We have information that Hunwick is one of the biggest hit men in the nation today," Adams said at a news conference Wednesday.

Police said Hunwick, 37, of Plantation, was the leader of a small hit squad responsible for 100 to 300 slayings nationwide. He was believed to be linked to 14 slayings in Florida in the last five years, as well as slayings in Boston, New Jersey and Lafayette, Ind.

Hunwick was jailed after the shooting of Alan Chafin, 34. The victim was abducted, shot five times May 19 and left for dead on a roadside. He recovered from his wounds. Police believe the shooting was over a drug debt.

Hunwick appeared before a county judge Wednesday, was advised of the charges against him and then returned to the jail, said sheriff's Lt. Robert Carlesco. No arraignment date was set.

No charges were filed in other cases, but police in suburban Wilton Manors said Hunwick and his colleagues were suspected in the murder of Richard Diego Messina, 45, a convicted cocaine smuggler whose body was found May 15 in the trunk of a stolen car.

Wilton Manors police Sgt. Ken Kreulen said the hit squad members work as freelancers, and "that's what makes them so dangerous."

Chafin told police that "he personally knows since 1978, (Hunwick) and his crew are responsible for more than 300 homicides nationwide," Adams said.

Silver Theft

Greenville police were continuing their investigation today into the reported theft of $85,363 worth of silver from the home of Benjamin Harrison at 1717 Circle Drive Wednesday afternoon.

Chief Glenn Cannon said the alleged theft occurred between noon and about 3 p.m. The incident was reported at 3:27 p.m., he added.

The thief apparently gained entrance to the home through an unlocked front door and took a quantity of sterling silver flatware and a seven-piece sterling silver coffee service.

Most of the silver, Cannon said, was engraved E.P., E.B.P., E.P.W., or with the name Pender, or Pippen.

The chief said the theft was reported by Mrs. Harrison when she returned to the residence after being away from the home.

Restaurant's Food Is Stolen

An estimated $200 worth of meat and other food stuffs was taken from Tom's Restaurant on Maxwell Street in a break-in discovered by police Wednesday.

Chief Glenn Cannon said the thief gained entrance to the building through a side window and left through a door. Investigation of the incident was continuing today.
