

Israeli Trap Palestinians In Tank Charge

By The Associated Press

Israeli forces trapped guerrillas in West Beirut today after a spectacular tank charge led by Defense Minister Ariel Sharon, whose troops blocked all roads into and out of the Lebanese capital and left the Palestinians completely cut off by land, sea and air.

Sharon's men took the suburb of Baabda, site of the presidential palace, and some of his troops made a command post of the local police barracks. Israel's chief of staff, Lt. Gen. Raphael Eytan, rode to the edge of Beirut and said the PLO's nerve center was "isolated, encircled and cut off."

One radical Palestinian leader vowed an epic fight to hold West Beirut if the Israelis entered. But the invaders made no immediate move on the PLO stronghold, and thousands of Lebanese welcomed the Israelis by shouting "shalom," giving them fruit, flowers, candy and exchanging souvenirs.

Meanwhile, ships of the U.S. 6th Fleet stood by off the port of Jounieh, 10 miles north of Beirut, to evacuate Americans and "anyone else wanting to leave except armed Palestinians," U.N. officials said. But they said the Israelis insisted the 6th Fleet evacuate only Americans, and thus far none had left.

Reporters confirmed the Israelis controlled all land, sea and air approaches to Beirut, and said the guerrillas were trapped in a 10-square-mile area of West Beirut.

Sharon told Israel radio the main purpose of the Israeli encirclement was to block any attempt by the Syrian army to return to the Lebanese capital, and head off the escape of Palestinian guerrilla leaders.

Sharon did not say what the fate of these leaders would be. "We have no plan at the moment to go into Beirut," he said.

but the future of the guerrilla leadership "is a problem we will have to think about."

With Israeli tanks at the presidential palace in Baabda and the Beirut airport surrounded by Israeli guns, Lebanese President Elias Sarkis formed a six-man committee to try to cope with the "grave situation" in his war-ravaged country, where nearly 10,000 people have been killed in eight days.

The Israelis seek to drive the PLO and the Syrians out of Lebanon and create a Lebanon friendly to Israel, as existed before the 1975-76 civil war.

In Baabda, Israeli paratroop Col. Amos Neeman held an impromptu news conference for correspondents who drove up from East Beirut among long columns of cars carrying cheering Lebanese shouting "shalom" — the Hebrew word for peace and welcome — to the tank crews.

He said the Israeli military operation was completed

"except for mopping up a few pockets."

He said no Israeli move toward the airport was planned. "We do not want to go into Beirut," Neeman said. "We want to avoid any street fighting because a lot of civilians would get killed."

He said he did not know how long the Israelis would remain in Lebanon, but he stressed that they had no intention of "changing the way of life in Lebanon."

"We just want to get rid of the Syrians and (Palestinian) terrorist infrastructure."

Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin told reporters in Jerusalem he was advised the guerrillas were having "difficulty holding out and they may quickly cease their fire, in which case there will be no shooting at all." But Moslems in West Beirut, where the Palestine Liberation Organization has its command center, feared a bloody assault.

Median Price Of A Home Rose To $72,000 In 1981

WASHINGTON (AP) — Americans typically spent $72,000 to buy a home last year, agreeing to overall monthly payments of $816, according to a report released today.

The high cost of housing "slammed the door on millions of would-be home buyers and cast a pall over the American dream of home ownership," said the report by the U.S. League of Savings Associations.

The study found that the median home price rose from $58,000 in 1979 to $72,000 in 1981. As a result, median monthly housing expenses, including interest payments, taxes, insurance and utilities, grew from $550 in 1979 to $816 last year.

Median is the midway point in a series of numbers; half are above it and half below it.

First-time home buyers accounted for only 13.5 percent of the home buyers in 1981, compared with 17.8 percent in 1979 and 36.3 percent in 1977, the report said.

In addition to having owned a house previously, the typical home buyer last year was older, at 34, and had a bigger annual income, at $39,196, than in 1979.

Also, the buyer was more likely than in the past to be unmarried and to buy a condominium or an older home using a variable rate mortgage to close the deal, the report said.

Officials of the league, which represents some 4,000 S&Ls, said the study underscores the difficulties Americans faced last year in buying houses, and raises the spectre that tight housing market will continue.

"Housing market conditions in 1982 show little prospect for improvement, and the future trends... promise a decade of difficulty for home buyers," the report said. Roy Green, chairman of the trade group, called for changes in money and budget policies to bring down interest rates and for incentives to boost personal savings and increase the amount of money available for home loans.

"Unless we correct some imbalances, the dismal 1981 housing performance will be repeated again and again as the affordability gap which has battered the nation's home buyers grows," he said in a prepared statement.

The report, the third in a series of bi-annual surveys the association started in 1977, is based on information taken from more than 14,000 conventional mortgage loans on single-family homes.

MOSCOW (AP) — The official news agency Tass said Sunday the rally for nuclear disarmament Saturday in New York City was the public's answer to what it called the "adventuristic policy" of the Reagan administration.

It also claimed the mass demonstration proved that the "recklessness of the Washington administration... is now obvious to the mass of the American people."

Soviet television showed several minutes of film of the rally during "International Panorama," a weekly nationally televised news program.

British Press Assault On Port Stanley

By The Associated Press

British infantry backed by artillery fire pressed a fierce three-pronged attack today on two Argentine-held ridges west of Stanley in the third British assault in as many days on the besieged Falkland Islands capital, Argentina announced.

The Buenos Aires military command said Argentine gunners returned the shellfire and infantry troops were holding their positions. The Defense Ministry in London declined comment on the report.

The Joint Chiefs of Staff said in a morning communique that "a great quantity" of British forces charged from high ground less than 10 miles west of Stanley just before midnight Sunday, after regrouping from a pre-dawn assault Saturday that punched through the outer Argentine defense perimeter.

"The fighting has become generalized for possession of Mount Tumbledown and Wireless Ridge, with intervention of infantry and artillery from both sides," the high command said in a communique at 10 a.m. local time (9 a.m. EDT).

"So far Argentine forces are containing the attack and maintain their positions," the communique said, but it gave no further details.

Earlier, the military government in Buenos Aires said Argentine artillery had blasted British troops attempting their second advance on Stanley and forced them to retreat behind a smokescreen.

Meanwhile, Argentina and Britain announced they had accepted a Red Cross proposal for a neutral zone in Stanley for the protection of civilians and wounded as concern grew for the safety of some 600 islanders believed still in the capital.

The creation of the zone is another sign that the decisive battle between Britain's estimated 9,000 troops and 7,000 Argentines is approaching. It followed by one day reports that two Falklanders had been killed and four others injured by British guns shelling Stanley. One of the dead was Susan Whitley, a 32-year-old schoolteacher who was seven months pregnant.

The zone is a one-block area around Stanley's red-brick Anglican cathedral. Its spire is a landmark and the cathedral offers better protection against shellfire than the surrounding wooden houses, sources said.

On the battlefield, Argentina said that on Sunday, "during the afternoon between 3:30 and 4 p.m. English troops tried to advance over Mount Harriet. Our own artillery repelled them, obliging them to protect themselves with smoke screens and withdraw." Harriet was one of three strategic hills grabbed by the British on Saturday.

"Later, English helicopters could be observed working intensely to evacuate their wounded from the area," the communique said. "The enemy now is trying to reorganize its lines after a high number of casualties and material damage."

The Joint Chiefs also said Argentina's air force hit British troops, vehicles and helicopters.

The British Defense Ministry released no information on fighting around Stanley on Sunday, but British Defense Minister John Nott said Harrier jets from the carrier Invincible "attacked and disabled" an unspecified Argentine patrol craft.

Nott did reveal that nine British sailors were killed when Argentine artillery fire damaged the light cruiser Glamorgan. He did not say when this occurred, but said the Glamorgan remained operational.

UPC'S OF VALUE?

I know someone who is saving the Universal Product Codes in the hopes of getting money for them. I questioned the validity of this hope, but then I saw a reference to UPC's in an article on taking advantage of refund offers in the May 18 edition of Woman's Day magazine. Is there something to it after all? Mrs. W.B.

The best Hotline can learn, there is no reason to believe that UPC's (the thick and thin lines with a number below found on most food and many other packages or labels) clipped from just any package would be of any use to anyone and, therefore, of any monetary value. The UPC's, when used in fulfilling refund offer requirements, seem merely to be means of proving that a particular product has actually been purchased, since it must be clipped from the package itself and the number and codes lines are peculiar to that product.

If anyone has more information on UPC saving and how it may be carried out for profit, please call Hotline, 752-1336.

Police Haul Away More Than 900 Demonstrators

By KILEY ARMSTRONG

Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Police arrested and dragged away more than 900 anti-nuclear demonstrators today after they attempted to "stop business as usual" at the United Nations missions of nuclear powers.

Thousands of black-helmeted, nightstick-carrying officers were queued up outside the missions. Many of the protesters, singing "We Shall Not Be Moved," were carried on stretchers to about 40 waiting police buses after they went limp in "non-violent disarmament blockades."

The arrests came two days after a giant disarmament rally that drew 750,000 people to Central Park for the largest political rally in U.S. history. There were no arrests at Saturday's rally, timed to coincide with a special U.N. session on disarmament.

Police today closed sections of the East Side around the missions, snarling rush hour traffic.

The arrested demonstrators were photographed, loaded onto buses, issued summonses en route to a booking area, and released.

Three thousand officers were mustered as the June 14 Civil Disobedience Campaign launched its blockades beginning at 8 a.m. outside the missions of the United States, Soviet Union, China, France and Britain.

In addition, police dispatched teams of approximately 300 officers each to the missions of South Africa and Israel, said Deputy Police Inspector Robert Burke. He termed the two nations "hidden nuclear powers." A group called the Direct Action Coalition announced plans to blockade those missions at noon. Their actions were not connected with the planned morning protests, organizers said.

At the U.S. mission this morning, protesters were arrested five at a time, with others stepping up to take their place as they were hauled off for booking.

Dick Myers, 33, of Philadelphia said he was not afraid the arrests would hurt the anti-nuclear weapons cause.

"In the past anyone who took action to change the status quo alienated people," he said. "Martin Luther King alienated people. Gandhi alienated people. The Kennedys alienated people."

At the British mission, dozens of protesters were arrested after they sat down on a sidewalk in front of the entrance.

"We're doing this because they don't seem to be listening any other way," said Dave Camacho, a 24-year-old Manhattan man.

Demonstrators at the Chinese mission carried flowers and sang, "We shall not be moved."

Police at the Soviet mission closed a section of Third Avenue to traffic after more than a 100 demonstrators lined up at barricades.

The civil disobedience campaign was coordinated by the War Resisters League and other peace, religious and community groups, sponsors said. A larger coalition made up the June 12 Rally Committee that organized Saturday's activities.

War Resisters League organizer Grace Hedemann said today was "the day business is going on in the missions. Our purpose is to stop business as usual."

At the U.N. special session on disarmament, Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko is to address the General Assembly on Tuesday and President Reagan is to speak Thursday.

Other national leaders speaking at the conference will include Prime Ministers Margaret Thatcher of Britain, Menachem Begin of Israel and Pierre Elliott Trudeau of Canada.

The men, women and children who marched Saturday came from states throughout the nation and nations throughout the world, and included a contingent from Hiroshima, Japan, the first city to be a target of nuclear weapons.

Secret Police Curb Soviet Peace Movement

By STEVEN R. HURST

Associated Press Writer

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet authorities today detained Sergei Batovrin, co-founder of Moscow's only independent peace movement, his wife said. The group's other leader could not be located for the second day.

Mrs. Batovrin told The Associated Press by telephone that her mother-in-law said Batovrin was led away in the morning by four men in plain clothes, apparently for questioning. She said she did not know where the 25-year-old artist was taken.

Earlier, a plainclothes policeman threatened two Western reporters when they attempted to enter the building housing Batovrin's apartment. Other members of the peace group said the could not reach him by telephone and that when they visited his apartment Sunday no one answered the door.

The group's other co-founder — Sergei Rosenoer, a 29-year-old mathematician — also could not be located. His wife, who returned to Moscow Sunday night, said she does not know where he is.

"I think maybe he's with Batovrin," she told The Associated Press by telephone. She said that on Sunday night plainclothes police prevented her from entering the building where Batovrin lives.

Police began a systematic crackdown against the peace movement, which calls itself "The Group for Establishing Trust between the U.S.S.R. and the U.S.A.," over the weekend. By Saturday night, police had called in and warned 10 of the group's 11 members to stop their activities.

A man wearing a black leather coat got out of an unmarked car at noon today when two American reporters approached Batovrin's apartment building.

He forbid them from approaching closer than 20 feet to the door. "Go take a walk," he said. When asked if there was a public telephone nearby, the man retorted:

"Do you want to know how much money is in my pocket? Do you want to know how many machine guns are in my unit?"

The man, who refused to identify himself, followed the reporters as they left the area.

INJURED IN COLLISION — Members of the Winterville Rescue Squad administer aid to Elias Carmon Jr. of Winterville, after the motorcycle he was driving collided with a car driven by Lloyd Strong of Route 1, Winterville, about 12:45 a.m. Sunday on the Tar Road, a mile south of the intersection of secondary road 1708. Highway Patrolman R. G. Pierce, who charged Carmon with improper passing, estimated damage to the motorcycle at $600 and set damage to the Strong car at $100. Carmon was taken to Pitt County Memorial Hospital for treatment of injuries he received in the mishap. (Reflector Photo by Tommy Forrest)

USS Intrepid Sails To Its Final Resting Place

NEW YORK (AP) — The USS Intrepid, the World War II carrier that destroyed more than 80 enemy ships and 600 aircraft, has made its final voyage to a permanent berth here.

The Intrepid — which survived three kamikaze attacks, served as the major recovery ship of the Mercury and Gemini space missions and saw three tours of duty in Vietnam — was towed Sunday into Pier 86 on the Hudson River at 46th Street.

It will become a sea, air and space museum.

New York City builder Zachary Fisher, who saved the carrier from the scrap heap by founding the Intrepid Museum Foundation in 1978, called the vessel's arrival the "culmination of a dream come true."

"I just felt that it shouldn't be scrapped. There's too much history in this ship," he said.

Built in 1943 at a cost of $44 million, in Newport News, Va., the Intrepid carried 360 officers and more than 3,000 men. The carrier destroyed the world's two largest battleships — both Japanese — during World War II, and during the Vietnam war was deployed in the Gulf of Tonkin.

About 1,300 museum supporters, navy personnel and their families braved rain Sunday to travel aboard the carrier on its last trip.

Among them was Hank Scrocca, who served on board the Intrepid during World War II. "This is the final resting place that it deserves," said Scrocca, of Levittown, Pa. "We were afraid that one day it would be made into razor blades."

Robert Luban, executive officer of the Power Squadron, a private boating organization that acted as the Intrepid's official escort, said, "New York is the only city in the world with its own aircraft carrier, as far as I know."

Alford Award Is Presented

Gloria Antoinette Hooker was presented the Ott Alford Cultural Arts Award during commencement exercises at Ayden-Grifton High School June 11.

The award, presented by Randy Alford, son of the late Ott Alford, former superintendent of Pitt County Schools, honors the county's outstanding cultural arts students each year.

At Ayden-Grifton Ms. Hooker participated in chorus, jazz ensemble, band, drama, the Curtain Players and the gospel ensemble. She was nominated to Who's Who in Music her junior year and has received personal achievement awards in jazz ensemble, chorus and band.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Hooker of Ayden. She plans to attend Shaw University.

Miss Hines Is Bride

WINTERVILLE — Brenda Lorraine Hines, daughter of Mrs. Ella White and the late Mr. Bruce White, became the bride of Melton Eric Cannon in a ceremony Saturday at 4 p.m. at Haddock's Chapel Free Will Baptist Church here. The couple was married by Bishop Stephen Jones, pastor.

The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, Aaron Hines of Ayden. Cynthia Gardner of Durham was maid of honor and Carolyn Stevenson was matron of honor. Bridesmaids included Valerie Cannon, sister of the bridegroom, Felicia Moore and Pricilla Tucker, cousins of the bride, Joyce Daniels, Phyllis Roberson, Sharon Williams and Jackie Nicholson and Angelea Modica, sister of the bridegroom.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Stoney Garfield of Ayden. David McCarter of Ayden was best man while ushers included Malcolm Moore, Cedric Hines, Lawrence Moore, Anthony Jackson, Gregory Jackson, Johnny Cannon and Sammy Tucker. Ring bearer was Mitchell Garfield, brother of the bridegroom.

Flower girls were Shenell Collins and Deanglea Whitehurst, cousins of the bride.

Roger Ingram, organist, sang "The Lord's Prayer." Elaine Barnes, cousin of the bride, sang "We've Only Just Begun."

The bride wore a formal gown of white satin over peau de soie designed with an open neckline outlined in beaded re-embroidered alencon lace. The fitted bodice was embellished with re-embroidered alencon lace beaded with pearls that continued over the shoulders and down the back to the waistline with buttoned closures. The full chiffon bishop sleeves were enhanced with satin cuffs overlaid in matching lace. The modified A-line satin skirt and train were accented with re-embroidered alencon lace. She wore a bridal hat overlaid in matching lace fashioned with fingertip length veiling.

The matron of honor wore a mint green empire waist gown of crepe. Her gown was accented with a sheer chiffon cape. The maid of honor wore an apricot gown of polyester knit.

The attendants wore yellow and white bridal satin gowns with floral design caps. The flower girls wore white eyelet gowns.

The mother of the bride selected a seaspray green formal gown. The mother of the bridegroom wore a long lavender gown of polyester. Both wore corsages of white carnations.

Honorary bridesmaids were Debra Moore and Michelle Collins.

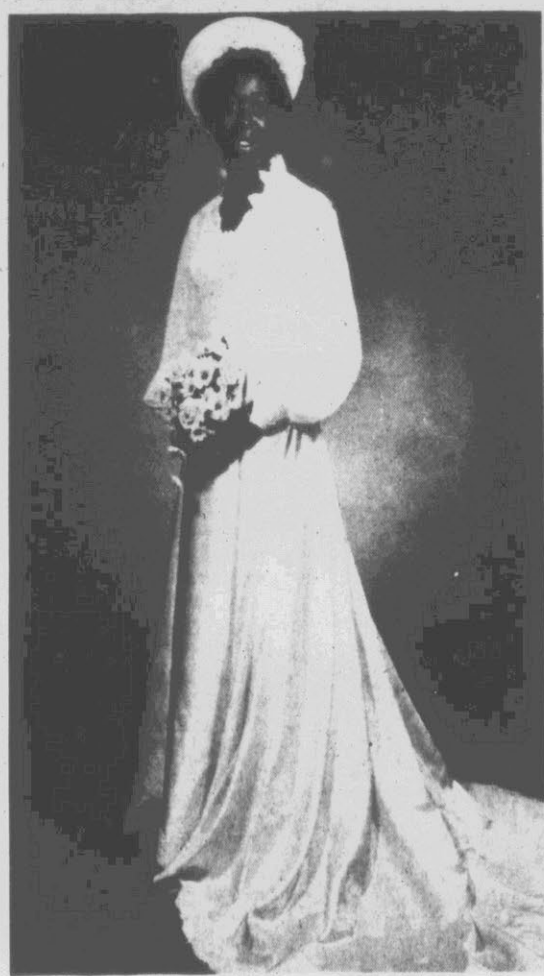

The couple was entertained at a reception in the church fellowship hall. Guests were greeted by Joan Hines of Greenville and Lucy Dawson of Richmond, Va. Mary Collins presided at the guest register and Allie Washington presided at the gift table.

Wedding cake was served by Ruby Tucker and Martha Strong.

The couple will be living in California after a wedding trip to unannounced points.

Helen Bridges of Winterville and Mable Moore of Ayden were wedding directors.

Bertha Jackson,

MRS. MELTON ERIC CANNON

grandmother of the bridegroom, and Sudie Garris, grandmother of the bride, were remembered with white corsages.

The bride is employed at Pitt Memorial Hospital and the bridegroom is serving in the U.S. Army station at Fort Ord.

Pat's Pointers

Here's proof positive that fashion is a look and not a price! Just for the clicking of your needles and a few balls of cotton yarn, you can have this smash-hit of a summer shell. The yarn is used doubled to achieve a tweedy effect on some of the stripes — and to make for quick knitting.

It is an ideal project for the beginner... quick, easy and with a minimum of shaping required. Unabbreviated directions are written for small (8-10), medium (12-14) and large (16-18).

To obtain directions for knitting this "Beginner's Delight," send your request for Leaflet No. K-6006 with $1 and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to: Pat Trexler ("The Daily Reflector"), P.O. Box 810, North Myrtle Beach, S.C. 29582.

Or you may order Kit No. K-6006, by sending a check or money order for $14.50 for small and medium sizes or $17 for the large size. Each kit contains the instructions and Knit-Cro-Seen yarn in four colors. Please specify your choice of earth tones, blue tones or pastel stripes. Shipping charges are included in the kit price.

inside out. I heard myself scream.

Suddenly I awakened; it was very quiet. A police officer was standing over me. Then I saw a doctor. My body was mangled. I was saturated with blood. Pieces of jagged glass were sticking out all over. Strange that I couldn't feel anything.

Hey, don't pull that sheet over my head. I can't be dead. I'm only 17. I've got a date tonight. I am supposed to grow up and have a wonderful life. I haven't lived yet. I can't be dead.

Later I was placed in a drawer. My folks had to identify me. Why did they have to see me like this? Why did I have to look at Mom's eyes when she faced the most terrible ordeal of her life? Dad suddenly looked like an old man. He told the man in charge, "Yes, he is my son."

The funeral was a weird experience. I saw all my relatives and friends walk toward the casket. They passed by, one by one, and looked at me with the saddest eyes I've ever seen. Some of my buddies were crying. A few of the girls touched my hand and sobbed as they walked away.

Please... somebody... wake me up! Get me out of here! I can't bear to see my mom and dad so broken up. My grandparents are so racked with grief they can hardly walk. My brother and sisters are like zombies. They move like robots. In a daze, everybody! No one can believe this. And I can't believe it, either. Please don't bury me! I'm not dead! I have a lot of living to do! I want to laugh and run again. I want to sing and dance. Please don't put me in the ground. I promise if you give me just one more chance, God, I'll be the most careful driver in the whole world. All I want is one more chance.

Dear Abby

Careless Driving Causes Grief

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1982 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: With all the kids out of school, I wish you would rerun the letter, "Please, God, I'm Only 17." I am 19 now, but when I was 16 I read it for the first time, and it made such a tremendous impression on me I have not exceeded the speed limit since, and I know I never will.
HAROLD IN NORFOLK, VA.

DEAR HAROLD: With pleasure:

PLEASE, GOD, I'M ONLY 17

The day I died was an ordinary school day. How I wish I had taken the bus! But I was too cool for the bus. I remember how I wheedled the car out of Mom. "Special favor," I pleaded. "All the kids drive." When the 2:50 bell rang, I threw all my books in the locker. I was free until 8:40 tomorrow morning! I ran to the parking lot, excited at the thought of driving a car and being my own boss. Free!

It doesn't matter how the accident happened. I was goofing off — going too fast. Taking crazy chances. But I was enjoying my freedom and having fun. The last thing I remember was passing an old lady who seemed to be going awfully slow. I heard a deafening crash and felt a terrific jolt. Glass and steel flew everywhere. My whole body seemed to be turning problem, Carla, with a couple of good solutions. I would recommend the first for the beginner and the second for the more accomplished knitter.

Unless it is a garment with simplified shaping, you bind off the shoulders in stages, which often leaves a "stair-step" edge.

It is this jagged edge that causes the problem, as many knitters attempt to make the seam along the edges. Instead, hold the two pieces together with wrong sides facing out and back stitch a seam, working inside the stair-step line on a straight line. This one simple step will give you a smooth shoulder line.

Better yet, weave the shoulder sections together. To do this, however, you have to do a little advance planning and shaping. The reason for the gradual bind-offs in most garments is to give you a shoulder section that slopes down from the neckline.

If you plan to weave the

DON'T START ANOTHER DIET TILL YOU CHECK WITH DIET CENTER!

Their Program WORKS And It's TOTALLY NATURAL!

At 5'4" and 195 pounds, I was about ready to throw in the towel. I had tried to lose weight but nothing seemed to work. Then I checked with Diet Center. In that first introductory consultation, I knew I had found the answer! The diet was great and I was never hungry or moody as I had been before. But the real difference was the daily support from a counselor who really cares and understands.

I LOST 75 POUNDS IN JUST 24 WEEKS!

Now I can't pass a mirror or a store window without stopping to look at myself... and I like what I see, a whole new me! My family and friends are so proud of my success and my entire outlook on life is great! I agreed to tell my story in advertising because I know what it is like to try to lose weight, to fail and to blame myself for it. Now I know that on the right program anybody can lose weight, and Diet Center has the right program!

Making The Best Of It

Make no mistake about it — the proposed budget with the $99.3 billion deficit approved by the House last week is a Republican budget.

The $765.2 billion spending bill was approved by Republicans with conservative Democrat support at the strong urging of President Reagan. We grant that Democrat votes — as well as some Republican — were gathered in due to the sheer frustration of grappling with a near hopeless situation. Nevertheless the budget, if its specifics are ever worked out, will clearly be a Reagan budget.

Actually the House plan still has to be compromised with a Senate version. Then the real fun begins.

Committees of the House and Senate must work on specific programs and cut billions of dollars out of social programs. Many observers think that even staunch presidential supporters won't have the heart for this.

We feel as most members of the House apparently did, that a budget had to be approved and it had to be done immediately if there was to be any faith in U.S. fiscal responsibility. In this case there was no way out of a bad situation. The ground work for a disastrous deficit was prepared last year when congressmen fell all over themselves supporting ill thought out tax cuts that a naive administration proposed.

Headed In Right Direction

The fate of the Equal Rights Amendment may be in doubt, but it is a sure thing that opportunities for women have changed in the last couple of decades.

Last week a Strategic Air Command KC-135 tanker took off from Castle Air Force Base to refuel a B-52 bomber.

All five of the tanker's crew were women. All three ground support crew members were women and two schedulers who ordered the flight were women.

This incident was unique in that personnel involved was so overwhelmingly female, but it is indicative of the fact that women in large numbers are in professions today that were previously reserved for men.

Our society is not perfect and never will be, but clearly we are headed in the right direction.

THIS AFTERNOON

A Changing South

By PAUL T. O'CONNOR

RALEIGH — Southerners have always felt their region was different from the rest of the country. Statistics on southern economic and population growth released this month by the Southern Growth Policies Board (SGPB) prove the point. The 17 states recognized as southern by the U.S. Census Bureau had a total population of 79.6 million people, according to the 1980 census. That represented an increase of 13 million since 1970 and 20 million since 1960. The southern growth rate, which had been only slightly ahead of the national rate in the 1960s, far outstripped the national rate in the 1970s. Southern growth was 19.0 percent and national growth only 11.4 percent from 1970 to 1980.

almost half (49.2 percent) of North Carolina's growth. Twelve southern states had 5.6 million people move in during the 1970s. The other 38 states had only 3.6 million newcomers.

Max Williams, University of Mississippi demographer, says there are several significant points in that migratory growth. For the first half of the 20th Century, the South had more people move out than move in. Among whites, that trend shifted in the 1950s. In the 1970s, it also changed for blacks with 200,000 more blacks moving to the South than leaving. The other portion of the South in 1980, an increase of 29.8 percent over 1970. Outside of the South, the growth rate was only 20.3 percent. North Carolina's 21.2 percent growth rate for jobs actually lagged behind the national average of 22.4 percent.

While total personal income grew by 161.5 percent in the non-South, it grew by 203.2 percent in the South and by 180.4 percent in North Carolina. Per capita income southern population growth comes from fertility rates a bit higher than the national average. This is normal. But, with the end of mass migrations from the South, the higher fertility rates should contribute to further southern growth, Williams said.

Total employment in the South grew faster than in the non-South. Almost 25 million people were working in the

BY ART BUCHWALD

It's A Television Show

When heads of state get together these days, they become nothing more than players in a television show.

What you see on TV is directed by frantic men in television trucks parked next to buildings out of camera range, who scream at other men and women, pushing buttons and drinking black coffee.

"I want a shot of Reagan pulling out Thatcher's chair as they sit down at the dinner. Why is Mitterrand pulling out Thatcher's chair? The script here says Reagan is supposed to pull out the Brit's chair.

Okay stay on Mitterrand until Thatcher is seated. Then we go to Ronnie-baby. Charlie, get the shot of Schmidt whispering in Ronnie's ear.

ART BUCHWALD

Charlie, what are you doing on Trudeau? I told you we only go to Trudeau if he spills soup on himself.

"Who's sitting next to the Japanese guy? The Italian premier? Anybody know his name? Anybody know the Japanese guy's name. Never mind, it's too late to super their names in. Harry, get the waiter pouring wine in Ronnie's glass. Ralph, I want a closeup of the guy passing Mitterrand a note. Camera one, that isn't Mitterrand, that's the German. I thought we went over their photos in rehearsal.

"Camera four, let's get a shot of the chandeliers. Camera number two, are you picking up Thatcher drinking her soup? Slurp, slurp. Okay, that's enough. Gimme a shot of the Japanese guy putting butter on his bread. Anybody find out his name yet? Harry, pan to the paintings on the wall. Ralph, stay on Reagan. He looks like he's going to tell a joke. When he finishes, I want a tight shot of Schmidt, to see if he laughs. After the joke we go back to Mitterrand. Who put that camera on Trudeau? If you don't know what to do shoot the violinists.

"No one is talking to the Japanese guy. Give me a long shot of everyone ignoring him. Damn it, the Italian guy is now talking to him. No, I don't want the Italian guy talking to him. Camera one, I think Thatcher is scolding Ronnie. When she finishes, let's get Ronnie's reaction, and then swing over to the kitchen door. It says here the fish course is next and the waiters are supposed to march out and show it to Mitterrand before they serve it. I love show business!

"Let's get the outside of Versailles. No, Tommy, the fireworks don't start until after the toasts. You have at least an hour and a half. Just give me some wide stuff of the building. Okay, now go to the police guarding the palace. Are there any crowds at the gates? Ten people? I'll take them. Close in so it looks like a mob.

"Camera number one, stay on Schmidt. And, camera number two, stay on the Italian. Anybody find out his name yet? Well, have New York call the Italian Embassy in Washington. Okay, number three, we might as well go to Trudeau. Trudeau, dummy, not Mitterrand. I know they both don't have much hair, but Mitterrand is the heavy-set guy, and Trudeau is the thin one. You've got it. Beautiful. Wait a minute. Forget Trudeau. No one is talking to the Japanese guy again. Camera number one, you've got him. He doesn't seem to be eating his fish. Beautiful. Give me a shot of the plate. Now go back to his face. Slowly, slowly. Pan to everyone ignoring him. I like it. I like it.

"What's that, Harry? Ronnie's telling another joke. No, forget it. We have enough of Ronnie telling jokes. Stay on him just in case he says something serious. Thatcher

Women And The Protest

By MAXWELL GLEN and CODY SHEARER

SALT LAKE CITY — Last Sunday, six days before the enormous disarmament rally in Manhattan's Central Park, the New York Times offered its readers a "sampler" of philosophical tracts "underpinning the movement against nuclear weapons."

Intrigued, we turned to page 46. There, for the umpteenth time, were excerpts from articles by former Moscow envoy George F. Kennan, onetime national security adviser McGeorge Bundy, and The New Yorker magazine's Jonathan "Fate Of The Earth" Schell.

While there's no denying the weight and credibility these men have lent to the long-fledgling disarmament movement, the Times' minanthology was notably lacking in one key area: It overlooked the sizeable contribution of women to the anti-nuclear ground swell.

One could almost state, without fear of contention, that the leaders of the American disarmament movement are, by and large, women. In fact, we can credit women with:

*Conceiving the notion of a freeze on weapons production, research and deployment (Dr. Randall Forsberg).

*Reviving the oncedormant Physicians For Social Responsibility for a vigorous campaign against the bomb (Dr. Helen Caldicott).

*Organizing the successful citizens' movement against the "shell game" basing mode for the MX missile in Utah (State Sen. Frances Farley).

Beginning Sunday, June 13, Forsberg, Caldicott, Farley and more than 300 other highly-placed women will be meeting in Washington to discuss how more women from all walks of life might be brought into the debate on national defense. As it stands now, the vast majority of American women, including those who are politically active, tend to keep their distance from military matters. Organizers of the four-day "Women's Leadership Conference on National Security" say that's a problem worth solving.

"Women have always felt that defense was a man's area," admitted Farley, a 54-year-old Salt Lake City grandmother who doubles as a state legislator. "Traditionally, women haven't been very interested in it."

In an interview with our reporter Michael Duffy last week, Farley confessed that the MX idiom had taught her to look skeptically upon any Pentagon proposals. With the help of leaked Air Force maps, Farley disclosed more than a year ago that the 4,600-hole basing mode would require reinforced highways or concrete launching pads on virtually every flat acre in western Utah and eastern Nevada. "Only the mountains would have been unscathed," she said.

The Pentagon's ideas, Farley continued, "are just not rational. Once you become acquainted with how the military thinks, you know you had better get involved. You learn that you can't leave it in their hands."

If the polls are accurate, however, American women are far less than "acquainted" with U.S. military practices. According to one recent survey, most women, regardless of education or background, don't know that the "S" in SALT stands for "strategic," or long-range, nuclear weapons.

Of course, if women don't have a working knowledge of weapons systems, they're hardly to blame. The government has for years done its best to cloak security issues under the cover of jargon and obfuscation. For most of this century, women's organizations have concentrated primarily on topics closer to home: civil rights, religion, education and, more recently, workplace issues and reproductive rights.

Nevertheless, pollsters concluded early on that women — more than men — thought nuclear conflict possible, if not imminent. In this light, conference organizers are anxious to match women's interest with up-to-date nuts-and-bolts: the history of U.S. nuclear doctrine, East-west tensions, military procurement, technology and non-proliferation.

Theoretically, participants will be able to return, like missionaries, to their constituents and communities.

"The point of all this is that we have to ask questions," said Farley. "You have to ask questions and you have to get answers."

Clearly, these women realize that the arms-freeze movement won't mature unless its proponents equip themselves to debate the issues involved. More informed public discussion of our national security strategy would be an unprecedented — but badly needed — change in the weather.

To date, women have received too little credit for their role in challenging the best and the brightest at the Pentagon. Perhaps their increased impact will change all that.

Today In History

Today in History By The Associated Press Today is Monday, June 14, the 165th day of 1982. There are 200 days left in the year. Today's highlight in history:

On June 14, 1940, German forces occupied Paris in World War II.

On this date: In 1800, Napoleon Bonaparte defeated the Austrians at the Battle of Marengo and reconquered Italy.

In 1949, the state of Vietnam was established at Saigon under Bao Dai.

In 1967, a U.S. Mariner spacecraft was launched toward Venus to try to learn if that planet could support life.

And in 1975, the Soviet Union launched its second spacecraft in six days toward Venus for an October rendezvous designed to land one or two capsules on that planet.

Ten years ago: A Japanese airliner crashed as it was about to land in New Delhi, India, killing 84 people.

Other Editors Say Feel The Bite

(The Wilson Times)

Congress set the stage five years ago for cuts in Social Security benefits, and the bite is being felt for the first time this year for those retiring at age 65. They are receiving almost 10 percent less than workers in similar circumstances who retired last year.

The reason for the reduction is that an earlier formula for figuring worker retirement benefits made too large an adjustment for the impact of inflation. This raised the possibility of an excessive drain of cash from the Social Security system in years to come.

Congress had a new formula phased in, starting with people who reached 62 in 1979 or 65 in 1982-and-later. People who began early retirement in 1979 and later have already been affected. But the impact is more noticeable this year when benefits of persons 65 years old are computed under the new provisions for the first time.

Here is how the benefits have changed for a single worker who retired at the start of the year with maximum benefits, based on Social Security data.

A person retiring in 1978 received $459.80 at the time of retirement. As of July, this year, the amount will be $734.

A 1979 retiree received $504.30 at the time of retirement. As of July 1, the amount will be $755.

A person retiring in 1980 received $572. This year the retiree will receive $780.

The person who retired in 1981 received $677 at the time of retirement. On July 1 the amount will be $808.

For a person retiring at the beginning of 1982, the amount received was $679.30. As of July 1 the amount will be $729. This reflects the almost 10-percent reduction in the amount received for this year's retiree as compared to last year's.

July checks for those retiring this year (at age 62) will total $513 at most, compared with a peak of $515 for those who retired early last year and $583 for those who quit work in 1979.

Year-to-year differences will be smaller after the program is fully phased in, but benefits will be permanently smaller than they would have been before the 1977 changes took effect.

Social Security officials say word of the cut is gradually getting around and complaints are coming in from across the country. There is little chance that any changes will be made in this particular part of the Social Security system.

Strength For Today

DO WE EVER LEARN?

Why do we behave as we do? Sometimes if we have made a big mistake, we look back and wonder how we could have been so lacking in intelligence and good judgment.

All about us we see nations making the same mistakes over and over again. While history never repeats itself in detail, it does repeat itself in general patterns. Almost every mistake being made in the 20th century can be discerned in some form in the 19th and 18th centuries. We win a war at the cost of hundreds of thousands of lives, and then within a few months fall back into the same old mistakes which brought on the war just concluded.

It is amazing the extent to which we can be fooled, both as nations and as individuals. We appear to have learned nothing from our former pain and discomfort.

George Bernard Shaw once remarked that there must be people on other planets because somebody is using our planet as an insane asylum. — Elisha Douglass

Odd Twists In Air Fare War

By LOUISE COOK

Associated Press Writer A straight line isn't always the cheapest distance between two points in today's crowded, competitive and frequently confusing skies.

A 2,800-mile flight can cost less than one half the distance. It may be cheaper to go from A to B to C than it is to go from A to B alone.

"You really do have to check all the airlines," said Sally McElwreath of Trans World Airlines. "You can have different prices on the same route."

You can sometimes wind up paying more for less. Here's an example:

Delta Airlines flies to London via the gateway city of Atlanta. A round-trip, excursion-fare ticket on a Delta flight from Tampa, Fla., to London with a stop in Atlanta en route will cost you $743. If you get on in Atlanta, your round-trip ticket will cost $852. The Atlanta passenger pays $109 more to fly about 800 fewer miles.

Competition is the cause of the confusion. Since 1978, the airlines have been allowed increasing freedom in choosing the routes they will fly and the prices they will charge. It's all part of the effort to deregulate the aviation industry.

Delta spokesmen said competition is the reason for the surface inequity in the Tampa and Atlanta fares. Pan American World Airways flies from Tampa to London via Miami; the current round-trip excursion fare to London from either Tampa or Miami is $730.

Delta did not want to lose Tampa passengers so it offered them a competitive fare. "There are hundreds of discount fares," said Delta spokesman Bill Berry. "They come and go." Berry admitted, however, that it is sometimes "hard to explain to a customer" why he or she is paying more for less.

The Southeast isn't the only part of the country where the fares may seem topsy-turvy. Airline fares never were based directly on the distance traveled; there was no fixed rate per mile. Today, however, distance is even less important than it used to be; popularity is the key to low price.

You can fly the 983 miles from Dallas to Orlando, Fla., on American Airlines at a one-way coach fare of $169; the 989 miles from Dallas to Salt Lake City will cost you $233.

"The key to all of this is the kind of competitive activity that exists under deregulation," said American's Al Becker. Fares are not necessarily determined "by costs or even by sound business practices," he said.

Coast-to-coast flights offer some of the biggest bargains. The distance between New York and Los Angeles is just under 2,800 miles. The cheapest, currently available fare is $139 one-way.

If you don't want to go the whole distance, however, you probably will have to pay more. The cheapest United Airlines ticket from New York to Des Moines, Iowa — less than half the distance from New York to Los Angeles — will cost $358 round-trip.

"There are a lot of bargains out there," said United's Marty Leaver, "but there are some inconsistencies."

Cameras Put City's Ruin Into Home

By VICTOR L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Writer
TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — In what one TV critic called "Israel Television's finest hour," the state network is bringing frontline coverage of the Israeli invasion and the horrors of war in Lebanon into the homes of Israelis.

"Seldom has any country, involved in a critical war, shown such films of the anguish it was inflicting on innocent old men, women and children," wrote Jerusalem Post TV critic Phillip Gillon.

"During the Vietnam war, American television crews did cover the horrors suffered there by civilians, but that war was far from the shores of the U.S. and the destiny of the country was not threatened," wrote Gillon, whose English-language daily has been expressing doubts about the scope of Israel's thrust into Lebanon.

Unlike American television's Vietnam war coverage, the Israeli reporting does not seem to be spurring a backlash against the war, which most Israelis see as necessary to protect Israel's civilian population.

Since the government began what it calls "Operation Peace for Galilee" on June 6 in a bid to stamp out Palestinian guerrilla attacks on northern Israel from bases in Lebanon, Israel Television has stepped up its coverage of news and special reports to more than two hours daily.

At first, coverage, which is subject to the same military censorship governing all domestic and foreign media reports, was limited to bland shots of convoys of tanks, armored personnel carriers and troops moving north to the front.

But as the war progressed, Israel Television began broadcasting scenes of planes streaking in over Lebanese cities, civilians running for cover and the destruction left by bombing raids on the southern Lebanese cities of Tyre and Sidon.

Some of the film comes from American TV crews in Beirut, which has been pounded for eight days by planes and naval gun batteries.

A program Saturday night included a discussion of soldiers gathered around a tank expressing their feelings about the war.

"We've received a lot of compliments, including from politicians from all parties," he told The Associated Press in an interview.

Freak Twister Kills A Man In Zebulon, N.C.

By JOHN FLESHER
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — A tornado that killed a man, destroyed his car and yanked the roof off a building in eastern Wake County was a freak storm that caught forecasters by surprise, officials said.

Jesse Vick, 38, died Sunday when the surprise twister dipped out of the sky, picked up his car in downtown Zebulon, and hurled it against a fence adjoining American Electrical and Plumbing Supply.

The tornado battered the building, leaving part of its roof two blocks away, and touched down briefly at a nearby farm before leaving as quickly as it appeared, eyewitnesses said.

"This was definitely a freak thing, but nothing's impossible with the weather," said Bruce Cheatham, a National Weather Service forecaster.

"There was nothing particularly strong on the radar, but apparently there was enough of a disturbance to trigger a tornado."

Cheatham said specialists from the weather service would investigate the scene of the tornado today, hoping to gather information on the nature of the storm by examining trees it might have mauled. But witnesses said, the twister was so short-lived that it didn't appear to touch any trees.

"It came and went pretty fast," said Loy Welch, a dispatcher with the Zebulon Police Department. "I'm not sure if it ever hit the ground. It just grabbed the car and slung it right into the side of the building."

Vick, a Zebulon resident, had just driven away from a Piggly Wiggly grocery store when the twister struck, store manager George Carlisle said.

"It picked his car up and carried it across the road," Carlisle said. The large sedan bounced about haphazardly in midair — about 14 feet off the ground — bumping power lines before being slammed into the fence. Vick was thrown from the car shortly before it fell to the earth, witnesses said.

The tornado made "just a little whistling sound," Carlisle said. "It came over the top of the store and hit right where he (Vick) was at." Three other funnels passed overhead but didn't touch down, Carlisle said.

"I have seen tornadoes in the air, but I have never seen one come to the ground," he said. "It all happened in 30 seconds. You couldn't believe it. It was all over in 30 seems to be scolding Mitterand. Give me a two-shot of her lips moving, and the Frenchie tugging on his collar.

"Here comes the meat. Everyone on their toes in case somebody dumps a platter on a head of state. Don't get tired, guys. We still have salad, cheese and dessert to go. Give me some long shots of the hall again. Camera number one, I'd like to see candles. I said candles, number one — you're giving me Trudeau.

"Okay, guys, here comes the champagne. We're going to pick up the sound for the toasts... Hello, New York, New York, this is Gus in the truck at Versailles. Yeh, I got the whole dinner and I'll have the toasts and fireworks wrapped up in a half-hour. It should be good for one minute and 40 seconds on the evening news. I can't cut it to one minute and 15 seconds. It will mean losing every chandelier shot I've got."

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, JUNE 15, 1982

YOUR DAILY Horoscope

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Conditions do not seem to be breaking as you would like and you are inclined to be in an argumentative mood. Strive for more harmony with co-workers to gain your objectives.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) A higher-up is looking for someone to blame so be sure to stay out of this person's way. Strive for increased happiness.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Leaving present duties for something new is not wise at this time. Make the evening with congenials a happy one.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) A good day to check your credit and to take care of important bills. Follow the good advice of a financial expert.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Make sure you keep your end of an agreement you've made with a friend. Making changes now is unwise.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Although you may be in a bad mood at this time with duties ahead of you, attend to them cheerfully for best results.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) It is best to attend to regular routines first before engaging in worthwhile recreation. Use common sense.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) The situation improves at home but you still have to use more tact to gain your objectives. Don't neglect your health.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Don't be resentful if an associate wants you to do more work than you had expected. Sidestep any arguments.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Your ideas may not be as good as you think, so be careful in all your dealings. Relax at home tonight.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Do not involve yourself in a civic matter at this time. Show more cooperation with associates and increase harmony.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You could feel hemmed in by circumstances beyond your control so do only those things that are within your power.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Look within yourself for answers you need to puzzling situations instead of relying so much on the ideas of others.

May See 'Draft' Of Billy Graham

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — This week's meeting of the Southern Baptist Convention in New Orleans may include a move to draft evangelist Billy Graham as the convention's president.

Graham, who was scheduled to address a crowd at the Superdome Sunday night, has been mentioned by the national Baptist media as a possibility to become the convention's president.

Around 1,500 registered messengers (delegates) from North Carolina left for New Orleans over the weekend on chartered flights from Raleigh, Greensboro and Charlotte. The convention begins Tuesday and ends Thursday.

Members of the North Carolina's convention delegation say they expect a battle between conservatives and moderates to take place.

The convention president has the power to appoint other church leaders. Those leaders will influence the convention's theological stances for the next year on such issues as Biblical inerrancy and just how strict Baptist institutions need to be when interpreting the Bible.

Before he left for the convention, the Rev. Alton McEachern, pastor of Greensboro's First Baptist Church, said this year's meeting is shaping up to be "another shootout at O.K. Corral."

McEachern said moderates like himself will try to elect a less conservative convention president than the departing Bailey Smith of Del City, Okla.

"We've had three years of hyper-conservative leadership," McEachern said. "It troubles me — the political influence of the Moral Majority — among Southern Baptists."

The leading presidential contender for the moderates appears to be the Rev. Duke K. McCall, retired president and current chancellor of Southern Baptist Theological Seminary in Louisville, Ky. and president of the Baptist World Alliance, an international association representing 30 million Baptists.

Other moderates mentioned as presidential hopefuls include the Rev. John Sullivan of Shreveport, La., and the Rev. Perry Sanders of Lafayette, La.

The Rev. Jimmy Draper, pastor of First Baptist Church in Euless, Texas, is a leading presidential contender for the convention's more conservative faction. The Rev. Edwin Young, pastor of Second Baptist Church in Houston, Texas, has been identified as another potential candidate.

There are no cure-all disinfectants for hog houses to be found. Several work well provided proper cleaning is done beforehand. Disinfectants are never a replacement for cleaning. Before using a disinfectant remove all debris, using a high-pressure sprayer. A steam cleaner can increase effectiveness. Disassemble and clean equipment and feeders where filth has built up. The area around feeders harbors the most bugs from saliva and waste concentration.

An ideal disinfectant is effective on a large variety of bugs, readily available, soluble in hard water, not harmful to man or hogs, has no residues in meat, has a low cost per unit of disinfectant, is not destructive to equipment and is stable around organic material.

Success of cleaning and disinfecting goes beyond the actual processes. Do remember not to put dirty hogs in clean buildings. Wash sows for dirt and external parasites before putting them into the hog house.

Disinfectants must be selected for type of surface or flooring, amount of organic material, season, organisms and building construction.

Eleven Die In N.C. Weekend Traffic

By The Associated Press
Eleven people were killed in traffic accidents on North Carolina's highways this weekend, including a head-on collision in Raleigh which took the lives of three people.

The triple fatality took place Saturday morning after a car driven by Lee Demory struck another car with two people in it. Police identified the dead as Demory, 34, Hazel Pearson Jr., 36, of Raleigh, and Jewel D. Stone, 36, of Holly Springs. Police said the car Demory was driving turned the wrong way on a one-way street and struck the second car head-on.

In other fatal accidents, Juliet G. Parlee, 68, of Cleveland, Ohio, died after the car in which she was riding was struck Sunday night by another vehicle in Currituck County at the intersection of N.C. 168 and U.S. 158.

Ollie Jane Campbell, 55, of Lillington, was the victim of a hit-and-run accident about seven miles west of the Harnett County town late Friday night.

Herbert Baker, 59, of Windsor, died late Saturday night in Bertie County when he was struck while lying on the pavement of U.S. 13.

Jimmy Wayne McLeod, 21, of Dunn, died about about 6:40 a.m. Saturday when his car ran off a rural road about a mile northwest of Dunn, striking a tree and throwing McLeod from the vehicle. McLeod was fleeing from a trooper when the accident occurred, troopers said.

In Yadkin County, Roberto O. Hernandez, 29, of Yadkinville died early Saturday morning when the car in which he was a passenger left the road west of town.

In Whiteville, Maude Brown Freeman, 65, of Bolton, died about 9 a.m. Saturday on old U.S. 74 when a log fell from the rear of a truck, striking her car in the windshield.

Emma Bailey Cooper, 37, and James Albert Cooper, 37, of Morganton, died Saturday afternoon in Rutherford County in a head-on collision outside Rutherfordton.

The deaths bring this year's total to 474, compared with 611 fatalities this time last year.

where told to purl in the previous paragraph and purl when told to knit. The back shoulders would be worked in the same way, of course.

Now you are ready to weave the seams, using the Kitchener Stitch. Place the stitches for one shoulder front on one needle and the shoulder back stitches on another. Hold the two needles close together, with the wrong side of each piece facing each other.

Thread the yarn that comes from the first stitch of the back needle into a tapestry needle.

Now, insert the tapestry needle into the first stitch of the front needle as if to knit. Pull the yarn through and drop the stitch off of the front needle. Then pass the tapestry needle and yarn through the next stitch on the front needle as if to purl. Leave this stitch on the front needle.

Insert the tapestry needle into the first stitch on the back needle as if to purl; pull the yarn through and drop stitch from the back needle. Pass the tapestry needle and yarn through the next stitch on the back needle as if to knit and leave this stitch on the back needle.

Keep repeating the steps given in the last two paragraphs until all the stitches are joined, being careful to keep the weaving stitches at the same tension as your knitted stitches.

Eight Make Deans List

DURHAM — Eight residents of Greenville and Pitt County, students at Duke University, have been named to the deans list for academic honors for the spring of 1982.

The eight who have earned inclusion on the deans list are:

Ayden: Patricia Lynn Tenpenny.

Greenville: Mark Earl Grossnickle; Frederick Melvin Parham, Jr.; Christopher Paul Tardif; Michael Arden Tucker; Susan Leigh Tucker; Dorothy Joan Wang.

Grimesland: Christopher Paramore.

Mailing Costs Hit Non-Profit-Groups

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Many North Carolina religious and non-profit groups are seeking new ways to cut costs and raise money to offset a huge increase in postage fees.

"It's been a real problem for us," said Jim Everest, executive director of United Cerebral Palsy of North Carolina. "We have a limited pot of money."

"We're concerned about it," said Ellen Henson, executive director of the state chapter of the Rocky Mountain-based American Diabetes Association.

Postal costs for non-profit organizations began skyrocketing in January, when the government sharply reduced a long-standing postage subsidy for them. The mailing rates for one organization leaped 160 percent that month.

The rate increase has affected the groups primarily in direct mail solicitations and communication with supporters via newsletters.

Health-related groups raise much of their money by sending thousands of letters to members and friends asking for contributions. Because of the higher rates for second- and third-class mail, this fund-raising method is becoming expensive.

"It costs us twice as much to raise the same amount of money as last year," said Jack McGee, North Carolina field director for the March of Dimes, which raises about 42 percent of its money by mail.

A Computing Dinosaur

UNIVAC, the world's first commercial computer, was unveiled 31 years ago today. It was designed for the U.S. Census Bureau and retired in 1963 after more than 73,000 hours of use. Though UNIVAC and other early computers were marvels in their day, they seem very primitive now. In UNIVAC's time a computer with the same number of functions as the human brain would have had to be the size of New York City. Today it would be the size of a TV. In fact, if the car industry had advanced as rapidly as computer technology in the last two decades, a Rolls Royce would now cost $3.00 and be getting 3 million miles to the gallon.

DO YOU KNOW — What does the word UNIVAC stand for?

FRIDAY'S ANSWER — Vanilla is the most popular ice cream flavor in America.

Driverless Truck Rolls

A driverless truck caused an estimated $800 damage to a parked car about 2:45 p.m. Friday on Cotanche Street, 75 feet east of the Second Street intersection. Greenville police investigators reported.

Officers said a truck owned by Coastal Refrigeration on Hooker Road was left parked in a parking lot with its motor running. The vehicle backed from the lot, backed across Cotanche Street, and collided with a parked car owned by Mike Brocato of Ayden, causing an estimated $800 damage to the Brocato vehicle.

Officers said no damage resulted to the truck.

RADIO GUESTS

The city announced that the guests on its radio program, "City Hall Notes," this week will be Al Averette, finance officer, and Mrs. Mae Lynn Morrissey, a project manager for the Housing Authority.

Averette will discuss revenues for the new city budget and Mrs. Morrissey will talk about the Section 8 housing program.

The radio program is aired each Tuesday and Thursday at 6:30 p.m. on WOOW.

Q.1—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♦1095 ♠AJ10943 ♦K63 ♣6
The bidding has proceeded:
East South West North
3 ♦ Pass Pass 4 ♦
Pass ?
What action do you take?
A.—Since partner has shown a strong hand, we won't fault you if you leaped straight to six spades. But we would be inclined to allow for the fact that partner has already bid some of your values. At this level it is difficult to be exact, so a prudent raise to five spades would suggest to partner that you have more than he might have thought.

Q.2—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♦763 ♠AQJ1063 ♦K73 ♣A
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♥ 1 ♦ 2 ♦ Pass ?
What do you bid now?
A.—Our preference is for two hearts. To be sure, that is somewhat of an underbid, but when partner has bid freely at the two-level he surely intends bidding again. A jump to three hearts would be too aggressive in view of the potential misfit.

Q.3—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♦AQ5 ♥KQ8 ♦AQ985 ♣93
The bidding has proceeded:
West North East South
Pass Pass 1 ♦ Dble
1 NT Pass Pass ?
What action do you take?
A.—Even though partner could not act freely over West's no trump bid, your hand is too good to throw in the towel. Double again. Of course, this double is still primarily for takeout, but if partner elects to pass, you will be happy to defend. Repress the urge to bid two diamonds. You should have a much better suit for this action — without such impressive support for the major suits.

Q.4—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♦AJ98 ♦AK82 ♦AK763
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♣ 1 ♥ Pass 2 ♥ ?
What action do you take?
A.—Your hand was not quite good enough for an opening two-bid, but now that the opponents have shown length and strength in hearts, your chances of finding a fit with partner have increased and your hand has improved significantly as a result. Bid three hearts. The cue-bid is absolutely forcing and is preferable to a double, which runs the risk of having partner convert to penalties on a hand where you would rather declare.

Q.5—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♦873 ♥Q85 ♦KQ10 ♣J652
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
Pass Pass Pass 1 ♦
Pass 1 ♦ Pass Pass
Dble Pass ?
What action do you take?
A.—Partner is reluctant to let the opponents buy the hand too cheaply and is competing for the partscore. Since his double is for takeout, you must bid. Despite the lack of a spade stopper, we would bid one no trump to describe our shape. The hand might play better in one of the red suits, but we don't know which one to choose. Besides, it's highly likely that the opponents will compete further.

Q.6—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♦A93 ♥A76 ♦AK94 ♠A107
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♦ 2 ♦ 2 ♦ Pass ?
What do you bid now?
A.—With all your points in prime controls, you certainly don't want to stop short of game after partner's free raise. However, a leap to three no trump is too precipitous since it virtually compels partner to pass. The way to keep all your options open is to cue-bid three clubs. When you then follow with three no trump, partner won't feel obliged to pass with a distributional hand.

Burt To Join In Manatee Effort

WINTER PARK, Fla. (AP) — Actor Burt Reynolds has enlisted in a nature group's fund-raising drive to help save Florida's dwindling manatee population. Reynolds, who owns a home in Jupiter, Fla., has joined The Nature Conservancy's effort to raise $425,000 to acquire 14 islands in King's Bay, Crystal River, as a sanctuary for manatees, which mariners of old often mistook for mermaids. Reynolds will tape public-service announcements to raise funds for what would be the largest nature sanctuary in the state for the endangered marine mammals, a spokesman for the

Line Of Reality Blurred On TV

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — On any night, we're bombarded by reality in all sizes, shapes and degrees of purity. TV viewers move from local news to network news to "PM Magazine" to "That's Incredible" to reality-based movies.
As the line between news and entertainment blurs, TV news broadcasts — not entertainment shows — are potentially damaged. Programmers may not worry if viewers question the credibility of "That's Incredible." But it's serious business if doubt touches the news report.

contribute to the line-blurring between truth and fiction. Some local news programs are re-creating crimes at the actual scene, with replicas of the weapons and dialogue. WABC in New York did a series on "Five Unsolved Murders" last February.
"TV needs visual support to keep the attention of viewers," says Cliff Abromats, WABC's news director. "We're looking for ways to produce pieces when we're lacking first-hand visual material."
"Our reports were not dramas," adds Abromats. "They were as precise as possible, according to police records, witnesses and the families involved."
Walter Cronkite, the most believable man in America, is the bastion of non-nonsense news. He's upset by the re-creation of news.
"Crossing the line between reality and fiction is not a good idea at all," he says. "It becomes all the more difficult for people to say: 'Is this news?' Is this true? Did this happen? Or did somebody sit in Hollywood and write this?"

Gregory Peck In CBS Thriller

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Gregory Peck will make his dramatic television debut starring in "The Scarlet and the Black," a CBS-TV three-hour movie thriller set in World War II. Peck will portray a real-life hero, Monsignor Hugh O'Flaherty, a Roman Catholic priest stationed at the Vatican in 1944 who found himself caught in a dilemma between Pope Pius XII and the Nazi Gestapo commander in Rome. O'Flaherty was credited with saving the lives of thousands of escaped Allied prisoners of war and refugees through his clandestine organization.

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) (NCDA) — The North Carolina f.o.b. dock broiler market was trending steady. Supplies moderate. Demand moderate to good. Weights desirable. The dock weighted average price for this week is 47.03 for small purchases of plant grade broilers picked up at processing plants. Estimated slaughter today 1,607,000.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market declined broadly today, depressed by interest-rate worries.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, which had climbed 11.03 on Friday, dropped back 5.23 to 804.51 by noon.

Losers held a 2-1 lead over gainers in the over-all tally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Among actively traded blue chips, International Business Machines dropped 1/4 to 59 3/4; General Motors 1/4 to 45 1/4, and U.S. Steel 1/2 to 19 3/4.

The NYSE's composite index lost 41 to 63.53. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was off 1.82 at 257.96.

Volume on the Big Board totaled 17.43 million shares at noon, down from 36.86 million at the same point Friday.

Doctors Fight Insurance Cost

By DAN SEWELL
Associated Press Writer
HOLLYWOOD, Fla. (AP) — Today's operating room schedules were the last for hundreds of doctors in two counties, who will boycott non-emergency surgery to protest soaring malpractice insurance premiums, says a leader of a physicians' group.

Dr. Arnold Tanis, chief of pediatrics at Hollywood Memorial Hospital, said Sunday that one-third of the 2,000 members in the Florida Physicians United for Health Cost Reform had agreed to halt elective surgery on Tuesday.

Physicians in the two counties say they have been victimized by aggressive lawyers and the tendency of patients to file suit if anything goes wrong with their health care.

As a result, malpractice rates have skyrocketed, and a special compensation fund has been depleted.

Tanis said hospitals in south and west Broward and north Dade counties would be affected by the boycott, to last indefinitely, although he did not know how many. Officials at major hospitals contacted Sunday night said no one was available to comment on effects of the planned boycott.

"We will attend to the patients who need it," said Tanis. "But if someone is having a routine surgery, something that had been waiting for 'one of those days' — well, unfortunately, it's not going to be one of those days."

Last week, Gov. Bob Graham and state Insurance Commissioner Bill Gunter said proposed legislation to limit medical costs could be considered, along with a proposal to ratify the Equal Rights Amendment, during a special legislative session set for June 21.

July 1 is the effective date for new insurance rates and a state law making physicians liable for a 200 percent surcharge to cover shortfalls in a statewide compensation fund, which pays for malpractice claims above $100,000.

Some doctors also say they will boycott payments to the fund unless a ceiling for malpractice awards by juries can be established by July 1 and premiums can be rolled back to 1981 levels.

State insurance commission statistics show the number of malpractice suits filed in Florida has more than doubled in the past six years with 1,972 suits filed in 1981.

Tanis said specialists, such as neurosurgeons and anesthesiologists have been particularly hard-hit — not because of marred records but because of the sensitivity of their jobs.

Three Attend Conference

Stephen Joyner of Ayden, and Trudie Blessing and Dennis Blessing of Greenville were among 2,500 physician assistants and related professionals who attended the Tenth Annual Physician Assistant Conference in Washington, D.C. recently.

Physicians' assistants are skilled health practitioners qualified by academic and clinical experience to provide patient care under the supervision and direction of a licensed physician.

Joyner and Dennis Blessing are associated with the East Carolina University School of Medicine — Joyner as transplant coordinator for the Department of Surgery, Blessing as assistant coordinator of emergency medical care. Trudie Blessing is associated with Quadrangle Internal Medicine here.

THE WHOLE KIT AND KABOODLE.
The kit.
 If you're in the market for a new copier, only one company can give you the whole kit and kaboodle: EOS.
 The "kit" is our "No Surprises" Copy Service Plan. A plan that takes the element of surprise out of owning and operating a copier.
 It includes an unlimited number of service calls (with no extra charges for time, travel and labor), all normal replacement parts (even parts many competitors don't cover: photo-conductor drums, heater rollers and lamps), and all the supplies (except paper) you need to accomplish an agreed-upon volume of copies.
 Our "No Surprises" Copy Service Plan not only saves you headaches, it also saves you money. Because you know in advance exactly what your copier's operating costs will be. And you only pay for the supplies and service you actually use to achieve a given volume of copies.

The kaboodle.
 The "kaboodle" is a complete line of dependable Sharp copiers. With sophisticated and proven features that give you flexibility in office planning.
 Copiers that can give you higher-quality copies faster and more efficiently. Copiers that can make reduction copies to save you filing space and paper costs. Copiers that can copy on all kinds of paper.
 Copiers that have provisions for adding automatic feeders and collators. From the Sharp line, we can offer your organization a copier that precisely meets your needs and your budget. And a "No Surprises" Copy Service Plan to go with it.
 So, why settle for just a copier from someone else, when you can get the whole kit and kaboodle from us?

Richmond Slips By Labonte To Win First Race

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (AP) — Tim Richmond of Charlotte, N.C., won his first NASCAR Grand National Championship race Sunday, capturing the $217,400 Budweiser 400 at the Riverside International Raceway.

Richmond, 27, who previously had led on only four laps, passed pole-sitter Terry Labonte on the 90th of the 95 laps and drove on to victory in his Buick. He collected $19,680, plus contingency awards.

"I was trying to conserve my fuel, because if I'd run out, I'd really have been in big trouble," Richmond said. "I made a mistake in one of the last few laps when I missed a shift and could have destroyed the motor, but it held up."

Labonte, the leader in the Winston Cup stock car series crossbar with an inventive free kick as Argentina struggled to equalize Erwin vanDenBerg's 63rd minute goal, but it was a rare moment of danger for the Belgians, runners-up in the last European championship.

"I have always considered (Maradona) a great player, but soccer is a collective game and I am opposed to the star cult," Belgian coach Guy Thys said.

Maradona did hit the difficult cross from Frankie Vercauteren and steered it past the advancing Fillol with his right foot.

Fillol said vanDenBerg was "offside by the width of a house," but the play looked legitimate on slow motion television reruns.

The goal was a rare treat for the crowd, which frequently jeered the poor standard of play.

It gave Belgium only its second victory in six appearances in a World Cup tournament and left it almost certain to qualify for the second phase of the 24-team competition, the largest soccer championship ever.

Argentina must win its games against Hungary and El Salvador, the other teams in its group, to retain a realistic chance of avoiding early elimination. Two teams advance from each of six groups after 36 first round matches in 14 Spanish cities.

Another surprise was the third-place finish of Geoff Bodine of Pleasant Garden, N.C., driving a Pontiac.

The average speed for the 400-kilometer race was 103.816 mph, and Richmond's margin over Labonte was 3.82 seconds.

Although he was Rookie of the Year at Indianapolis three years ago, Richmond's best previous finish in a NASCAR race was a second last week at Pocono, Pa.

The lead changed hands 11 times, with Labonte holding it on five different occasions. Most of the favorites went out with engine trouble — Richard Petty after 17 laps, Darrell Waltrip after 28, Bobby Allison after 46 and Benny Parsons after 80.

Five of the 36 original entries were on the final lap at the conclusion of the race, and 21 were still running.

Labonte's second place finish boosted his lead in the series to 144 points over his nearest competitor, Allison.

Richmond said: "Last year I decided I really wanted to stay on the NASCAR tour." He drives for J.D. Stacy Enterprises, the same group that sponsored Labonte.

After the first three finishers came Dale Earnhardt in a Thunderbird, Neil Bonnett in a Ford (completing those on the final lap), Roy Smith in a Buick, Jody Ridley in a Ford (each a lap back) and Mark Martin and Ron Bouchard, both in Buicks on their 93rd lap when the race ended.

The track reportedly was slippery, but there were only two yellow-flag slowdowns, one early in the race and the other when Dave Marcis of Skyland, N.C., hit a wall.

Marcis was shaken up, but after observation at a hospital was reported not seriously hurt.

B&W Rolls To 11-2 Win

Brown & Wood, the two-run home run keyed a seven-run seventh inning as Brown & Wood whipped Planters Bank, 11-2, Sunday in a Babe Ruth game.

Planters took a 1-0 lead in the first only to have B&W come back with three runs in the fourth to take a lead it never lost.

Martin singled and came around to score on an error. Tony Taylor then reached on an error and scored on Mike Hathaway's single. Hathaway later scored on a single.

Planters cut the gap to 3-2 in the bottom of the inning, but could get no closer as B&W scored once run in the sixth and seven in the seventh for its 11-run total.

Taylor had a solo home run and Kelly Barnhill and Rob Deyton had RBI singles in the inning.

Martin had three hits to lead B&W while Barnhill, Hathaway and Doyle Kirkland all had two hits. Gary Scott and Chris Stokes had two hits for Planters. Stokes had a triple.

Pepsi-Cola.....5

Coca-Cola.....4

Brent Langley singled home two runs in the fourth inning to erase a one-run deficit and lift Pepsi-Cola to a 5-4 victory over Coca-Cola Sunday in a Babe Ruth game.

Coke took a 3-0 lead in the first, sparked by Traye Fugua's two-run home run, but a Pepsi came back with two runs in the bottom of the inning to make it 3-2. Both teams score a run in the third.

Pepsi then took the lead in the fourth — its first lead of the game. With one gone, Russell Vines and Tim Mosley singled and moved up a base on an error. Then, with two out, Langley followed with a single to score both runners and give Pepsi a 5-4 lead.

Neither team scored again.

Pat Rand had two hits for Pepsi. Fuqua and Curtis Perkins had two hits for Coke.

GTC Beats Roxobel, 4-0

The Greenville Tennis Club defeated Roxobel, 4-0, in a rain-shortened Roanoke Tennis League match Sunday at the River Birch Tennis Center.

Greenville, now 2-1, will play host to Rocky Mount on June 20.

Also Sunday, Tom Moore defeated Wayne Smith 6-3, 6-0 to win the men's title in the Greenville Tennis Club's novice tournament.

All team members interested in competing in a novice doubles tournament, set tentatively for July 10, should contact Ed Rhem by June 30.

Death Overshadows Piquet's Win In Canadian Grand Prix

MONTREAL (AP) — There was no joy in Nelson Piquet as he went through the victory ritual after the tragic Canadian Grand Prix.

The 29-year-old Brazilian stood on the victor's platform, sipped the winner's champagne and smiled at the compliments from race officials. But there was no elation at gaining his first official victory of the Formula One season, a feat clouded by the death of Italian driver Riccardo Paletti.

Paletti, who would have been 24 on Tuesday, drove his Osella racer into the rear of the stalled Ferrari of polesitter Didier Pironi of France at the start of Sunday's race on the circuit named for Canadian driver Gilles Villeneuve, who was killed in May while attempting to qualify for the Belgian Grand Prix.

Paletti, from Milan and starting only his second Grand Prix, died about two hours later at a Montreal hospital of massive internal bleeding.

Three other cars also were involved in the crash at the start that brought out a red

Buie then walked and both he and Carter scored on Warren's triple.

Pitt County added another run to its lead in the fifth when Williams scored on Briley's sacrifice fly.

Post 39 closed out its scoring with five runs in the seventh. The inning was highlighted by Carter's two-run double and Williams' RBI single as Pitt County extended its lead to 19-4.

Wayne County scored its final run in the ninth.

Wayne County was led in hitting by Britt, who was three for four with an RBI. He was the only Wayne County hitter with more than one hit.

Pitt County returns to action tonight when it travels to Rocky Mount.

Maybe it's his desire to do the job and do it right.

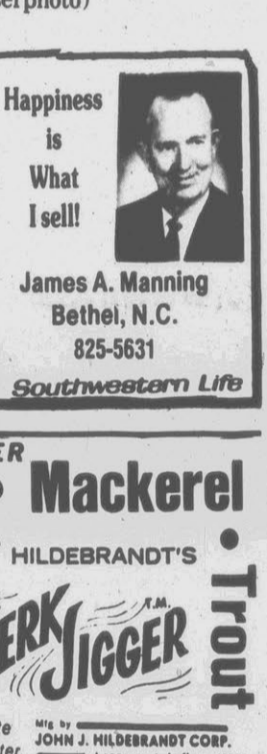

Tom's a career prosecutor, who's spent a lot of time and work in the shadow of Eli Bloom, learning the nature of the job of District Attorney.

Without any question, he's the more experienced candidate for the sometimes difficult but always important job of District Attorney.

Brewers Wallop Detroit By 13-5

By The Associated Press
The Milwaukee Brewers have put the hop back in their hitting.

"It was just like the 'Wallbangers' from the West Coast," said Manager Harvey Kuenn Sunday after the Brewers walloped 18 hits, five of them home runs, to bury the Detroit Tigers 13-5.

Kuenn's club was nicknamed "Harvey's Wallbangers," after the popular drink, following an explosive offensive show against the Oakland A's on the West Coast.

The Brewers fell into a slump after returning home last week. But they've scored 33 runs in the last four games while winning three of them. Sunday's power display included two homers by Gorman Thomas and one each by Don Money, Robin Yount and Ben Oglivie.

"You're going to have good days and bad days, but I think the better days are ahead of us," Oglivie said.

The Brewers are actually playing their best ball of the season under Kuenn's management. Since taking over from Buck Rodgers June 2, Kuenn had led Milwaukee to a 7-4 record.

"You can't do anything about falling eight games back," Thomas said. "We were floundering for a while and we needed some changes: a change in leadership, attitude, atmosphere, outlook and strategy. We've had a complete change. Ever since Harvey's become our manager, we've been a different team. I know we're on the right track."

Thomas hit his 11th homer of the year with Yount on base in the first inning and Oglivie followed with his 12th, giving the Brewers a 3-0 lead.

Money followed Yount's single in the third with his ninth homer, chasing Detroit starter Pat Underwood, 3-4. Thomas then greeted reliever Aurelio Lopez with a homer to give the Brewers a 6-0 lead. Yount's homer in the seventh, a three-run shot, capped the Brewers' scoring.

Randy Lerch, 4-5, was the winner, pitching 62-3 innings before getting relief help from Jim Slaton, who earned his third save.

A's 7, Blue Jays 5

Tony Armas' two-run homer keyed a three-run seventh-inning rally and flashy Rickey Henderson stole four bases to pace Oakland over Toronto. He has a league-leading 62 steals in 61 games.

Losing 4-3, the A's broke through for their winning runs in the seventh following a rain delay of one hour, 29 minutes.

Henderson singled in the seventh, stole second and third, and then scored on a sacrifice fly by Dan Meyer. Armas then hit his seventh homer, off reliever Roy Lee Jackson, 2-5.

Tom Underwood, 3-4, was the winner with 32-3 innings of one-hit relief pitching. Dave Beard pitched the final three innings to gain his fourth save.

Angels 7, White Sox 4

Don Baylor's two-run double keyed a four-run eighth inning and Geoff Zahn hurled a six-hitter as California beat Chicago.

Trailing 3-2 after seven innings, the Angels scored four times in the eighth to sew up the game. Baylor's double off reliever Salome Barojas gave the California a 4-3 lead. Baylor scored from second on a single by Bobby Grich after an intentional walk to Reggie Jackson and Jackson then scored on Doug DeCinces' single off Jerry Koonsman.

Zahn, 7-2, had a no-hitter and a 2-0 lead through 52-3 innings but the White Sox tied it then on an RBI triple by Bill Almon and a wild throw by catcher Bob Boone on a pickoff play.

Chicago went ahead 3-2 in the seventh on Tom Paciorek's RBI single.

"Geoff moved the ball all around the plate," said Boone. "He kept it down and he had great control."

"You can't pitch any better," agreed Angels Manager Gene Mauch.

Mariners 7, Royals 1
Dave Henderson, Al Cowens and Jim Maler drove in two runs each and Floyd Bannister recovered from a line drive beaning to pitch seven strong innings as Seattle beat Kansas City.

Bannister, 6-4, was struck in the head by Willie Wilson's line drive in the first inning but recovered to throw him out and held Kansas City to five hits before giving way to reliever Larry Andersen in the eighth.

"It hit me in the side of the neck and dropped straight down," Bannister said. "It was just like college. A guy hit a line drive back at me, and it broke my wrist, but I picked the ball up and threw the guy out, even though I had broken my arm."

After Bannister was hit, he left the field for a brief examination, but he said there was no doubt in his mind he would continue.

"I was going to give it a try, let's put it that way. I would have had to pass out on the mound before they could take me out of there."

Rangers 10, Twins 4

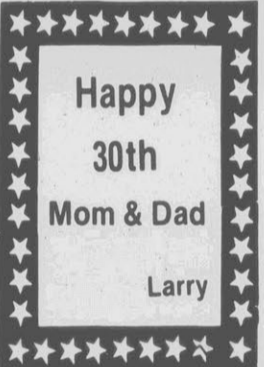

Rookie Dave Hostetler's two-run homer ignited a seven-run outburst for Texas in the first inning and the Rangers coasted over Minnesota with their biggest run production of the season.

The eight-hit inning was the biggest offensive show this season for the Rangers as they provided Doc Medich, 4-5, with a hefty cushion. Medich lasted 62-3 innings and yielded nine hits and four runs before relievers Paul Mirabella and Steve Comer mopped up.

The loser was Jack O'Connor, 0-2, who lasted only two-thirds of an inning.

The loss was Minnesota's 21st in 23 games.

Willie McCovey and Ted Williams each connected for 521 home runs during their big-league careers.

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Gerry Cooney goes back to the gym, a lot richer and a little smarter, after his gallant bid for Larry Holmes' World Boxing Council heavyweight championship.

"I learned such a lesson I couldn't learn anywhere else," said Cooney, who lost in the 13th round when trainer Victor Valle jumped into the ring Friday night to halt Holmes' pummeling of his man.

"Critics said I couldn't go the distance," Cooney continued. "In my mind, I held back so that I could go the distance. I learned I don't have to hold back anymore. I learned I could put more pressure on."

"I'm happy I learned so many things. I'll go back to the gym and get back to work harder than ever and look for the opportunity to fight for the heavyweight championship again."

"As Muhammad Ali said, 'I shall return!'" Cooney and Holmes earned $10 million apiece in the record $50-million promotion held in a 32,000-seat stadium erected in the parking lot at Caesars Palace. It was the richest fight in boxing history.

Despite his loss, Cooney certainly remains prominent in the heavyweight picture, especially after previously-unbeaten Greg Page lost a unanimous 10-round decision to Trevor Berbick on the undercard. Page reportedly suffered a broken right thumb in losing for the first time after 18 victories.

Cooney also lost for the first time, after 25 victories including 22 knockouts. Despite his impressive record, he had been criticized for inactivity, having fought only six rounds in the last 30 months. Over that same period, Holmes had defended the heavyweight crown seven times.

"I'd like to get more experience in and regroup now," Cooney said.

Valle said the Holmes fight had helped his man.

"It was a good lesson for him because I'm going to make Gerry Cooney champion of the world someday. We're going back to the gym and work harder. I'm going to treat him rougher and he's going to be the next heavyweight champion of the world."

At 32, it is uncertain how much longer Holmes will continue to fight. Trainer Eddie Futch said he'd like the champion to retire after one more year. But it could be difficult to find suitable opponents.

There seem to be no more challenges left for Holmes. He has beaten virtually every other ranking heavyweight except for Page and Michael Dokes, both — like the champion — in promoter Don King's stable.

He has not fought James "Quick" Tillis, who beat Earnie Shavers on the Cooney undercard, but Tillis was unimpressive in a shot at World Boxing Association champ Mike Weaver and that match would not generate much excitement. A WBC-WBA title unification bout might have more appeal had Holmes not already stopped Weaver.

If Holmes retires, a tournament would be arranged to crown a successor and Cooney certainly would be a part of that. So would Berbick, Dokes and probably Page and Tillis as well.

For Cooney, It's Back To Gym

Stephenson Posts 2-Stroke Victory

MASON, Ohio (AP) — Jan Stephenson became a recluse during the $200,000 Ladies Professional Golf Association championship — a self-imposed exile to shelter herself from legal problems and let her mind concentrate on golf.

"After everything that's gone on, my concentration has left me," Stephenson said after posting a two-stroke victory Sunday in one of the year's major events for women golfers. She is embroiled in a messy divorce-annulment case and last month was fined $3,000 by the LPGA for refusing to play in a tournament in Atlanta.

"This win means so much to me. It meant so much that I could stick it to 'em and go win. But I hate to think where this money's going to go."

Stephenson's former husband has tried to tie up all her assets pending an August trial. He contends he and Stephenson are still married while she contends the marriage was not legal, and that she is legally married to someone else.

"The victory meant a $30,000 first-place check, a new car — which Stephenson gave to her father, who caddied for her — and endorsement bonuses worth more than $100,000."

"Nobody knew where I was all week. I refused to talk to my lawyer," Stephenson said. "I spent hours on my putting. I didn't even go out — my mother cooked vegetables for me in my room at night. I spent every spare moment working on my game."

The work paid off, as Stephenson put together rounds of 69-69-70-71 for 9-under-par 279 to lead all the way and beat runnerup JoAnne Carner by two strokes.

Carner and Janet Alex did make late charges, but they ran out of time.

Carner had a 3-under-par 69 to finish at 281, seven strokes under par, and she left this major tournament still needing one victory for automatic qualification to the LPGA Hall of Fame. Alex had a 67 — the best round of the tournament — to go with three even par rounds and finished at 5-under-par 283, tied for third with Pam Gietzen, who had four steady rounds but never challenged for the lead.

Beth Daniel, who shared the first-round lead, lost a stroke to Stephenson each of the next two days and went into Sunday's final round trailing by two.

Playing in a threesome with Stephenson, she maintained that margin through the front nine, but then had four consecutive bogeys to drop out of contention. She finished with a 75, 3-under-par and 285 for the tournament.

The tournament was played over the par-72, 6,298-yard Grizzly Course at the Jack Nicklaus Sports Center near Cincinnati.

Hank Aaron and Babe Ruth both scored 2,174 runs during their major-league careers.

Stadler, Others, Look To Open

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Craig Stadler has destroyed a popular myth in golf.

For several seasons now, television commentators and nationally circulated columnists repeated that pro golf is losing its appeal through the emergence of an unidentifiable and interchangeable band of look-alike young men, all tall, skinny and blond.

Then Stadler came along. He's not tall. He's not blond. And he's definitely — very definitely — not skinny.

He tends to be on the chunky side. He has powerful, sloping shoulders with the hint of a paunch struggling against his belt. His face is round and pink, and graced by a drooping mustache that helps provide him with his less-than-glorious nickname, "The Walrus."

And he's also — at least this season — the best player in the game, a fact that establishes him as a major factor in any consideration of the 82nd U.S. Open Golf Championship, beginning Thursday on perhaps the most spectacular course in the United States, the Pebble Beach Golf Links.

It is the American national championship, probably the most important title the game offers, the second of golf's Big Four.

None of which seems to make a great impression on Stadler, even though he counts the Masters among his three victories this season and is the only man with a shot at the Grand Slam, the unaccomplished one-year sweep of the Masters, the U.S. and British Opens and the PGA.

"I'm not what you'd call a majors-oriented person," said Stadler, the season's only three-time winner with victory in the Kemper Open. He also holds the money-winning lead with more than $312,000.

"Oh, you know some tournaments are more important than others, but, really, they're all pretty much the same to me."

That, of course, directly contradicts the importance placed on the event by Stadler's two main challengers in the 153-player field, Jack Nicklaus and Tom Watson.

"Winning the Open is my No. 1 career goal," said Watson, whose four-year reign as golf's outstanding performer was interrupted last season.

"With one exception, Sam Snead, there's never been a truly great player who didn't win the Open," said Watson, who has collected three British Open crowns and a couple of Masters titles. "At the start of every season, winning the Open is my major goal. And it will continue to be my major goal until I do win it."

Watson, twice a winner this year, will be making the attempt this time on one of his favorite spots, the Pebble Beach Links that stretch 6,802 yards along the cliffs and crags above Carmel Bay.

"It's been one of my favorite courses ever since I used to sneak away from school (at Stanford) and come down here and play," said Watson, who had won two Bing Crosby titles on this course.

Connors Whips Gimpy McEnroe

LONDON (AP) — John McEnroe's ankle and his tennis game are not 100 percent, although Jimmy Connors may have something to do with the latter.

Connors whipped McEnroe 7-5, 6-3 Sunday to collect the $24,000 first prize in the Stella Artois Grand Prix championship, marking the first time in four years that McEnroe has failed to win the grass court event.

"He (McEnroe) can play better," said Connors about the match at London's Queen's Club. "He missed a few shots that he normally would not have missed."

An injured left ankle may have had something to do with those misses, but McEnroe would not use the injury as an excuse.

"It is still not 100 percent, but it had nothing to do with the way I played today," said McEnroe.

The New Yorker said his serve hurt him more than the ankle. "I have served well some days, and not so well on others," said McEnroe. "I am just sorry I did not play better in the final."

Connors won the 11th and 12th games to win first set after losing his service while ahead 5-4. The Belleville, Ill. left-hander broke McEnroe with the score tied 2-2 in the second set and closed out the match by breaking McEnroe again in the ninth game.

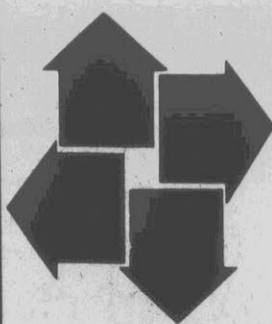

McEnroe, who slammed eight aces but had four double faults, will have improve his play if he hopes to defend his title at Wimbledon, which opens June 21.

He and Connors are expected to be named the top seeds at the famed tournament, which has been hit by a number of defections in the men's ranks.
