

Education Top Topic Of Budget Hearing

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

Seventy people attended an hour-long public hearing on the proposed county budget for the 1982-83 fiscal year Monday night, and education — increased financial support for Greenville's schools, construction of a new middle school in Ayden and maintenance of the nursing education program at Pitt Community College — was the prime topic of conversation.

Burney Tuckér, chairman of the Board of County

Commissioners, opened the session by saying, "We are here to hear citizen comment" on the proposed budget.

And 20 of the 21 persons speaking at the hearing talked exclusively about education. Thirteen of them, led by Dr. Jon Tinglestad, chairman of the city Board of Education and Dr. Delma Blinson, city school superintendent, urged increased county support for the city school system.

Tinglestad, thanking the board for its past efforts in funding educational needs in the county, said the city school board and administration made a "great effort to be prudent" in preparing the proposed budget and asked the commissioners for all help possible in funding the requests.

"I am convinced you recognize the problems and needs" of the city schools, Blinson told the board. "I have studied your record of appropriations to our schools for the last decade ... (and) you have stood by your schools."

Pointing out that the Board of Commissioners has increased appropriations for city schools from $827,300 in the 1973-74 fiscal year to $2.03 million "this school year, ... that is an increase of 145 percent, more than twice as much as the increase in the cost-of-living," Blinson continued. "This record, to me, clearly demonstrates your commitment to offer the boys and girls of Pitt County the best education we can afford."

He told commissioners, "Your record is exceptional, compared to many other counties. I feel you should be proud of it and hope the citizens of Pitt County are proud of it. Our needs are substantial and we earnestly ask your help."

Israeli And Syrians In Fresh Clash

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Israeli warplanes attacked Syrian artillery positions in Lebanon today following an intense duel between Israeli and Syrian cannons, the military command said.

It appeared to be the worst outbreak of Syrian-Israeli fighting since the two countries agreed to a cease-fire June 11.

A military communique accused the Syrians of inflicting "a heavy barrage" of artillery fire on Israeli forces from the area of Hamanna, just north of the Beirut-Damascus highway in central Lebanon.

It said the Syrians opened fire in the morning, Israeli forces shot back at the Syrian guns and then came under intensified barrages.

The communique, issued at 11:30 a.m. (5:30 a.m. EDT), said "at this time Israel Defense Forces are returning artillery fire and the air force is attacking the sources of (Syrian) fire."

It was the first time the air force had been reported in action against Syrian targets since the cease-fire.

Israeli forces clashed in a limited war with Syrian forces in Lebanon during the week following their June 6 invasion of Palestinian guerrilla strongholds.

Israel claimed to have shot down 85 Syrian warplanes and destroyed 300 tanks in four days of fighting. It said it lost no planes to Syria but gave scant data about its losses on the ground.

On Monday, the military said Israeli forces around Beirut destroyed four Syrian tanks during artillery clashes with Arab guns inside the city's Palestinian-held western enclave.

Summer Shower

Jessica and Grete Rapson of Greenville, ages 7 and 10, ushered in the summertime Monday with some wet fun under their new front-yard sprinkler. Monday was officially the first day of summer and with both the temperature and humidity soaring toward 90, spending the day drenched was as good a way as any to pass the time. (Reflector Photo By Mary Schulken)

Urges Haste On Leaf Supports

By MARK DAVIS
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The U.S. Senate must act soon on a tobacco support bill if it is to be in effect in time for the 1982 harvesting season, Rep. Charles Rose, D-N.C., said today.

Rose, who is chairman of the House subcommittee on tobacco and who guided a revised support bill through the House, said the Senate — and the bill's manager, Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C. — must be swift.

"It is absolutely imperative that this legislation pass both houses," Rose said at a news conference at the state Flue-Cured Tobacco Co-Op Stabilization Corp.

Rose, who fended off attacks on the program from critics Monday by agreeing to more tobacco hearings within a year, said he thinks the proposed revised program would ease any financial burden the program may have had on the federal government.

The bill would revise the 44-year-old tobacco support program that last year came under intense attack from legislators who saw subsidies for agricultural products from their home states vanish. A last-minute coalition of lawmakers saved the program in 1981, but Rose and other tobacco-state legislators had to agree to revise the program or watch it die.

The revised program would eliminate all federal expenses except administrative costs borne by county agricultural stabilization boards. Rose said tobacco opponents have exaggerated the costs of the program in an attempt to abolish tobacco supports altogether.

The program would require non-growers holding allotments such as utilities and universities to relinquish their holdings. Those who have not had an active part in growing the leaf or shared in the risk of planting within three years also would have to get rid of their allotments, according to the plan.

Victims Silent After Hinckley Verdict Given

By MICHAEL J. SNIFFEN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — One weary juror told her husband that she and her colleagues relied on the psychiatrists. "She said they hoped they did the right thing."

The verdict, innocent by reason of insanity, moved John W. Hinckley Jr. and his parents to tears.

His chief attorney, Vincent J. Fuller, said: "Another day, another dollar." It was said he would collect more than half-a-million for his longshot defense.

Hinckley's victims were silent to a man. President Reagan would have no comment.

James S. Brady, the press secretary, no comment.

Timothy McCarthy, the Secret Service agent, no comment.

Thomas K. Delahanty, the cop, no comment.

The prosecutors, too, kept their thoughts to themselves.

Treasury Secretary Donald T. Regan, the highest administration official to comment so far on the verdict, called it "absolutely atrocious."

"Frankly, I'm outraged at that jury decision. I think it's wrong. It's not the type of thing that society should condone," Regan, who also heads the U.S. Secret Service, said on NBC's "Today" show this morning. "I think that when a person stalks a leading citizen of this country, shoots him (and) three of the people surrounding him and then goes scot-free, I think that's absolutely atrocious."

"... Just think what we are saying to the so-called crazies of the world regarding what they can do or not do as far as public figures are concerned."

Consumer Prices Reportedly Rose 1 Percent In May

By SALLY JACOBSEN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Consumer prices, spurred by sharply higher gasoline costs, rose a full 1 percent in May, the government said today. The increase was the biggest since September and amounted, on an annual basis, to a rise of 12 percent.

But economists said the new figures do not mean the nation is losing its battle against inflation. Indeed, for the first five months of the year, inflation at the retail level was a modest 3.5 percent, calculated annually.

At the White House, deputy presidential press secretary Larry Speakes said the new figures indicate "the administration has made substantial progress in bringing inflation down."

Inflation for all of last year was 8.9 percent; for 1980, 12.4 percent. But this year, the economists predict, inflation should be from 5 percent to 7 percent.

In April, the Labor Department's Consumer Price Index rose a seasonally adjusted 0.2 percent after falling 0.3 percent in March.

This year's brightened inflation picture has been largely attributed to the sharp recession and the worldwide oil glut.

But the oil surplus is ending, a fact reflected in today's announcement. Gasoline prices rose 0.9 percent last month, reversing April's record drop of 6.7 percent.

For the 12 months ending with April, gasoline prices fell almost 15 percent. But Janet Norwood, commissioner of department's Bureau of Labor Statistics, told the congressional Joint Economic Committee today that petroleum inventories "have now been drawn down, and it appears that this 'glut' is over."

Concept Of Contractual Management Approved By City School Board

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

Members of the Greenville School Board on Monday night gave their stamp of approval for the school staff to pursue the concept of contractual management of food services in city schools.

Approval for the school staff to pursue the concept at this point entails gathering more information for the board's consideration on the project at the July 12 meeting, with no commitment implied to the company which presented a management proposal to the board Monday night.

Gene Poston and Ron Scott, two spokesmen for ARA, formerly known as Automatic Retailers of America, presented a detailed proposal of the services the company can provide to manage the school system's food service.

The annual cost would be $42,060 — $30,000 for a management fee and $12,060 for an administrative fee.

ARA, according to the spokesmen, currently operates management services nationally for small and large businesses, for hospitals, for universities and for public school systems in a number of states. Their accounts include the Pentagon, UNC-Chapel Hill and Pitt County Memorial Hospital.

Poston, for 17 years president of Gardner-Webb College, pointed out that, if Greenville contracts for the management program, it would be the first public school system in North Carolina to do so.

Among the spectrum of management services the $42,060 fee would provide the schools would be a weekly accounting and weekly inventory service, training of employees in the management system, providing personnel to initially set up the service, and recommendations to the board on menus, food prices and improvements in food service facilities.

The fee would not include payment of the system's food service supervisor or any of the food service personnel nor costs involved in rearrangement of facilities.

Following the ARA presentation, Superintendent Delma Blinson told the board that, to pursue the concept, the school staff will need to: (1) provide ARA year-end food service data in order for the company to prepare complete performance data; (2) get in touch with officials of the State Department of Public Instruction and the state director of food services to get their opinion on the proposal, and (3) scrutinize any proposed

MORNING VISITOR — Britain's Prince Charles waves to well-wishers at St. Mary's Hospital, Paddington, London, this morning when he returned to visit the Princess of Wales and their baby son born there Monday night. (AP Laserphoto)

Britons Rejoice At Royal Birth

LONDON (AP) — Church bells pealed, cannon roared and Union Jacks fluttered everywhere as Britain rejoiced today over the birth of a baby destined to be king.

Princess Diana and her blue-eyed 7-pound, 1½-ounce son born Monday night were doing "extremely well" after a comfortable night's rest at St. Mary's Hospital in west London, Buckingham Palace said.

To the cheers and applause of well-wishers standing in a drizzling rain, a succession of royalty, including the baby's father, Prince Charles, and grandmother, Queen Elizabeth II, arrived for visits with the 20-year-old princess and her child, second in line to the British throne.

Charles, the 33-year-old heir, who attended the birth, emerged after a three-hour visit with his wife and son to say, "Everything's marvelous."

He stood in the rain for almost two minutes, telling reporters the princess was recovering her strength after the 16-hour labor and the blondish baby was in "good form ... looking a bit more human this morning."

Asked by a woman reporter whether the delivery had been painful for Diana, Charles said, "Have you ever had a baby? Well, you should wait and see."

The prince skirted questions about the baby's name, saying he and Diana would decide on one "soon."

Dear Abby

Sight of Jewelry Brings Sparkle to Couple's Eyes

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1982 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: Some time ago, I found a very expensive-looking piece of jewelry in a public place. It had been trampled on by many feet — mine included. I have been watching the lost-and-found ads in the newspaper every day but have never seen any mention of this article. My wife and I are retired and on disability, and I can't afford to pay for an ad to advertise that I have found it. Besides, if I were to do so, there would probably be a lot of dishonest people claiming it was theirs, so how would I know who the real owner is? I need to know how to get this piece of jewelry appraised, and after that how to sell it to be sure I am getting the proper worth. The way things are today, this would surely be a godsend to my wife and me.

FINDERS

DEAR FINDERS: You do not give me a clue as to where you live, where you found this "expensive-looking piece of jewelry" or even what the item was, but you are to be commended for searching the lost-and-found ads in an effort to locate the person who lost it.

To be assured of an accurate appraisal, take the article to a first-class jeweler. Then take it to another reputable jeweler (or professional appraiser) and get a second opinion. When you know the value, either advertise it for sale, or make a deal with a fine jeweler to help you sell it at a reasonable profit for both of you.

DEAR ABBY: When we have overnight guests, who is supposed to suggest that it is time to retire? I can't find the answer in any etiquette book. And while I'm asking, when we have guests in for dinner and the evening, who suggests that it's time to go home? It would seem that the guests should suggest it. But what happens if they don't?

ME IN LYNNFIELD

DEAR ME: In the case of overnight guests, it doesn't matter who calls it an evening. (Let he who emits the first yawn cast the first farewell.) And when one has dinner guests, the guests should call it a night. If they don't, and the host wishes they would, the host should quit wishing and start telling his guests how much he enjoyed their company and what a lovely evening it was.

***

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I will celebrate our 50th wedding anniversary in three months, God willing. Our children are planning a celebration for us, and they have asked for a list of people we want invited to share this wonderful day with us. On this list are two couples who have not spoken to each other for several years. Both couples are good friends of ours, and we don't want to exclude them.

My husband thinks we should invite both couples and let each couple know the other has been invited. If either couple wants to decline the invitation, it's up to them. If neither couple declines, knowing their bitter enemies will be there too, they can just ignore each other. I think we should invite both couples and say nothing, unless we are asked who is on the guest list. My daughter says if we don't invite either couple, we won't have to worry about how they'll react when they see each other there. What is your opinion?

SILENCE IS GOLDEN

DEAR SILENCE: I agree with you. Invite both couples, and if they ask who is on the guest list, inform them. I think on joyous occasions, good friends should put aside their personal vendettas. Let it be their choice.

Victims Silent...

One of the defense psychiatric experts expressed surprise by the verdict. He had thought the insanity defense would fail. Another called it: "a triumph of fairness and common sense... a victory for modern scientific methods in psychiatry."

But Republican senator, Larry Pressler of South Dakota, said he was "personally outraged at the whole Hinckley trial," and predicted the passage of legislation to redefine the insanity plea.

Sen. Orrin Hatch, R-Utah, who has introduced a bill to alter the insanity defense, said on the CBS "Morning" program today, "I don't blame the Hinckley jury; they applied the law as it was. I blame the law."

Asked if he thought there will be outrage against the verdict, Hatch said: "I think there's support for the kind of change I want. I think people are tired of having psychiatrists overrun the courts and I think people know that almost every criminal has some sort of emotional imbalance and we've got to start thinking about the victims for a change."

Hatch said his bill would create a new verdict — not guilty by reason of insanity — under which a person who did not know what he was doing when he committed a crime would be found not guilty by reason of insanity and would be incarcerated for 60 days. At the end of that time the person would have to prove he would not be a danger to society or would have to serve the time he would normally serve as result of conviction.

Leaving the courtroom where Hinckley was tried for shooting Reagan and the three others, chief defense attorney Fuller said, "Another day, another dollar."

"I've been here for eight weeks and I guess we are pleased it's over," Fuller said. Asked if he was pleased with the verdict, he told The Washington Post, "That's a fair statement."

Allen Smith, Sr., whose 61-year-old wife, Virginia, served on the jury, recounted her description: "She said they relied on the psychiatrists' testimony. All the testimony showed that he was insane, not in his right mind. All the evidence showed he was mentally disturbed. She said they hoped they did the right thing."

"There was not enough evidence that he was sane," the Post quoted Mrs. Smith as saying. "The defense psychiatrists, the prosecution psychiatrists all found a mental disorder... It was the consensus of all the psychiatrists that there was a mental disorder."

One defense psychiatric expert, Dr. William T. Carpenter, director of the Maryland Psychiatric Research Center in Columbia, Md., said, "It seemed like the odds were very heavy against being able to prevail with an insanity defense."

"The commentary I had heard on the insanity defense in this trial was that most people thought it was unlikely to succeed," said Carpenter, who spent 45 hours interviewing Hinckley between May 1981 and the opening of the trial.

But Dr. David Michael Bear of Harvard Medical School, who also testified for the defense, said, "I'm deeply gratified by the thoughtful verdict of the jury... they applied a complex law concerning insanity correctly... This is a triumph of fairness and common sense. It is also a victory for modern scientific methods in psychiatry."

Deputy White House press secretary Larry Speakes said today: "We have not commented on this matter from day one, and we don't intend to comment now." Speakes said Regan was speaking for himself, not the administration.

"The White House has no comment," said assistant press secretary Mark Weinberg.

N.C. Senate Returns To Work Facing New Delay

By MARY ANNE RHYNE
Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The state Senate returned to work today facing the possibility that disagreements over an insurance plan for state workers and authority over the public schools' budget could delay adjournment.

The House returned to work Monday and immediately refused to go along with Senate changes in a bill establishing a self-insurance health plan for state employees and teachers.

A House and Senate conference committee was to be appointed today to try to resolve the differences.

Meanwhile some House members prepared to fight a Senate-passed bill transferring authority over the state Department of Public Instruction budget from the state Board of Education to the governor's office.

Asked if the problems could extend the session to Friday, House Speaker Liston Ramsey said, "I don't think it will, but it could. We've already wasted one day... by them (the Senate) not being here."

Li. Gov. Jimmy Green told the Senate to take Monday off, and he declined through a spokesman to comment on why he scheduled the extra day's recess or on when he expects adjournment.

The medical insurance bill would take the state's 10-year-old policy with Blue Cross-Blue Shield and replace it with a plan under which the state provides the insurance and assumes the risks itself.

The House and Senate appear to agree on the plan's terms, but not on who is to process the claims.

As approved by the House, the bill would turn over administration of the group insurance benefits to Electronic Data Systems Inc., a Texas-based computer firm that now administers claims under the state Medicaid program.

The Senate approved an amendment dropping the reference to EDS and leaving the contract up to an administrator and board of trustees of the insurance plan.

The House voted 81-25 not to concur with that change after Rep. William Watkins, D-Granville, said EDS submitted a bid $6 million lower than Blue Cross-Blue Shield for a three-year period.

"I can't conceive of anyone saying we ought to spend $6 million more than we need to for this service," said Rep. Allen Barbee, D-Nash.

But Rep. George Miller, D-Durham, whose district includes the Blue Cross-Blue Shield state headquarters, argued that it would be unconstitutional for the legislature to begin awarding contracts, a duty of executive rather than legislative branch.

Meanwhile, opponents of a bill transferring control of the public schools' budget Monday produced a legislative staff opinion that the move was unconstitutional and drew criticism from state Treasurer Harlan Boyles.

"To take away elements of financial control in effect guts the responsibility of the state Board of Education and renders the board totally ineffective," said Boyles, by law a member of the board.

The bill would transfer the education controller, or fiscal officer, away from the state Board of Education and make his office a part of the Office of State Budget and Management. That office is directly under the control of the governor.

The legislation was sponsored by Senate Appropriations Chairman Harold Hardison, D-Lenoir, and other Senate leaders.

In a memorandum issued Monday, Gerry Cohen, director of the General Assembly's bill drafting staff, said he believes the transfer would violate the state Constitution.

Cohen noted that the Constitution says the state Board of Education shall administer the public school system "and the educational funds provided for its support."

Cohen issued his memo to Rep. David Diamond, D-Surry, a high school teacher and opponent of the bill.

The bill was introduced last June, near the end of the regular session, and had been resting unnoticed in Hardison's appropriations committee. It emerged Friday among a list of special appropriations bills, although it carries no appropriation, and was approved 27-7 without debate by the Senate.

Budget Hearing...

Other speakers on behalf of the Greenville school system voiced support for funding which would maintain the present level of services provided by the schools, including cultural arts programs, and money to make needed repairs and renovations to buildings.

Six of the speakers — led by Ayden Mayor Ross Persinger and Pitt County Board of Education member Bill McLawhorn — urged funding for construction of a new middle school in Ayden.

The mayor, saying "I believe we are starting to fall behind" because of the condition of the present middle school building, read a resolution adopted by the Ayden Council of the Pitt-Greenville Chamber of Commerce which endorsed the construction of a new school facility.

McLawhorn, who said he had served on the Ayden school advisory committee and the board of education for a combined total of 27 years, said, "I really do plead... come up with some funds to fund this project."

David Duffus, representing the Pitt-Greenville Chamber of Commerce, read a resolution adopted by the board of directors of the chamber voicing support for a request by Pitt Community College for funds which would maintain the nursing program at the school at least at its present level. (School officials told commissioners in earlier budget sessions that the number of students in the nursing program might have to be cut if additional space to house the program is not found.)

Rhea Markello, president of the Greenville-Pitt County League of Women Voters, was the only speaker who voiced support for things other than education. "Because the league has had a history of support for juvenile justice, quality education, service for human needs and the conservation of resources, we would like to address these issues," she said.

"We commend the county manager, Mr. (Reginald) Gray for recommending that the county investigate the possibility of renovating the Tucker Building as a juvenile justice facility," she said, adding, "We urge the commissioners to act on this recommendation as soon as possible."

In the area of education, Ms. Markello said, "Given what is happening to the shift in population both in numbers and geographical locations within the city and county, it is evident that this shift is creating financial problems of a kind that did not exist five to 10 years ago. While we do not have an immediate solution, we do believe that this problem needs to be studied with great intensity concluding with concrete recommendations."

She suggested that "the budgeting process would be enhanced" if a representative from the Board of Commissioners would attend meetings of the two boards of education "as you have been attending other boards and commissions."

The phased withdrawal of state funds from the Health Department "obviously means that more and more funding has to come from the local level," Ms. Markello noted. "We strongly urge you to consider the public health needs of Pitt County and fund accordingly."

In the area of conservation of resources, Ms. Markello said, "In looking at the amount of $838,000 budgeted for solid waste disposal and in the interest of conservation of money and other resources, we would urge you to consider other ways of dealing with this problem that might save both money and resources, for example, some type of recycling process."

"We think that the proposed budget is a minimum budget and recommend its adoption at the proposed funding level, at the least, especially in the areas of education and health, if more is not available."

Following the hearing, Tucker expressed the board's pleasure at the number of persons who attending the session and said "it was one of the most orderly and meaningful" budget hearings the board has held.

Dear Pat: Since I have an album of pattern stitches collected from your columns over the years, I decided to send you two easy ones that are really done basically the same way. I discovered them while I was trying to crochet a simple flat pattern that would show up the pattern in ombre yarns. It's all single crochet and very easy for beginners.

For either version, start with a basic chain of the desired length. Work an even number of chains — which will give you an odd number of stitches — for version one; or work an odd number of chains — which will give you an even number of stitches — for version two.

For version one, single crochet through both loops of the second chain from the hook for the first stitch. (Then single crochet in the back loop of the chain for the second stitch and in the front loop of the next chain for the third stitch.) Keep repeating the steps listed in parentheses over and over all across the row until you reach the last chain. Single crochet through both loops of this last chain.

The next and all following rows are worked by single crocheting in both loops of the first and last stitches of the previous row and alternating a single crochet in the back loop of one stitch and in the front loop of the next across to within one stitch from the end.

Version two is worked in the same way, except that you single crochet in the front loop of the second stitch and in the back loop of the next to the last stitch. The first version creates a raised effect of small squares. The second version looks especially good when used with the rows running vertically. They are perfect for laprobes where warmth is needed but weight isn't. I can do a laprobe in a little more than an evening. It's easy to work your way out of yarn in a very short time.

I almost forgot to say that there is no need to work a turning chain at the end of each row. Simply pull the last stitch up a little.

Thank you for one of the best needlework columns I have ever read. — Esther H., Brockway, Pa. And thank you, Esther, for such a nice compliment and for sharing your stitch pattern with us. I tried a swatch of each with a Size K hook and worsted weight yarn and did like the effect. I think I will try it next with some macrame cord and a very large hook for placemats — maybe some of you would like to do the same. Another good use would be for scarves as the wrong side looks just as good as the right side. You might want to use a smaller hook for a tighter weave if you want a snugly warm scarf.

A Health Insurance Association of America analysis of government health-care data through 1980 indicates the average American family will pay three times more for its health care by the end of this decade. It says health-care costs currently averaging about $1,000 a person a year will be up to about $2,000 a year by 1985, and to more than $3,000 annually by 1990.

Burtheys To Be Honored

A reception honoring Mr. and Mrs. Grover C. Burthey Jr., who were married May 7, will be held Saturday, July 3, at 4 p.m. at the Holiday Inn, Greenville. Mrs. Burthey, the former Wanda Pamela Monk, and her husband were married at Beulah Retreat and Conference Center, Siler City. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gaston Monk of Bell Arthur. She attended Farmville Central High School and received the B.A. degree cum laude from Spelman College in Atlanta, Ga. She is a field claims representative for State Farm Insurance. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Grover C. Burthey of Durham. He attended Howard University, graduated from Cincinnati College of Mortuary Science, received a B.S. degree cum laude from Duke University and a J.D. degree from the University of North Carolina School of Law. He is funeral director and embalmer at Burthey Funeral Service, Durham.

West Bypass Needed

If there is one thing that was made clear at a public hearing on a U.S. 264 Greenville bypass last week, it was that local leaders feel the project is urgently needed.

Leaders from the Chamber of Commerce, Pitt County Memorial Hospital, City Council, East Carolina University, Washington Chamber of Commerce and local industries appeared to speak for the project and they were in agreement on a new route rather than an upgrading of the present U.S. 13-N.C. 11.

The northwestern bypass would tie in with the new U.S. 264 which has been approved. However, there are no funds available yet for construction of the bypass. Given the reported dismal state of highway funds it will take quite an effort to obtain the allocation that will make the bypass possible.

The need is clear, however, and regardless of declining traffic generally, it is certain there will be increases in traffic in the area of Pitt County Memorial Hospital and in the industrial area north of Greenville.

The bypass is a necessary thing and we will have to fight until we get it.

Good Tobacco Crop Still Vital

The first tobacco harvest might not be the event it once was, but it is still of great importance to Pitt County and the area.

The first barning was reported near Grifton last week from a field that was planted in late March.

From now on the principal crop of the area will be coming out of the fields quickly and placed in curing barns where the green leaves will be transformed into the golden ones that are so familiar in tobacco advertisements.

This year, as is perennially true, a cloud hangs over the tobacco industry. The product is constantly under attack and the price support program is about to undergo severe changes which will have an unknown effect.

Nevertheless tobacco is still the money crop for Pitt County. If tobacco growers don't have a good year it reflects up and down the line in the area economy. A good tobacco crop and good sales are still vitally important economically to all of us.

Common Sense Appears

WASHINGTON — Over the years the federal bureaucracy has gained a reputation for imposing needless, costly and excessive regulations upon the private sector of our economy. The reputation is richly deserved. But something came in the other day from the Federal Trade Commission so sound, so lucid, and — dare it be said? — so sensible, that a full-dress salute is in order.

This was a formal statement from Timothy J. Muris, director of the FTC's Bureau of Consumer Protection, recommending that a proposed rule on certain food advertising be junked. After 10 years of proposals, comments, amended proposals, hearings, exhibits and expert witnesses — a whole decade of expensive fiddle-faddling — nothing had been adduced to justify the rule. Hang it up, urged Muris. He is exactly right.

The proposed rule has nothing to do with food labeling. That is a joint responsibility of the Department of Agriculture and the Food and Drug Administration. This three-part rule would deal with advertising only. The general idea is to regulate advertising claims having to do with "natural" foods, with "energy" foods, and with the cholesterol content of such products as margarine.

In none of the three areas, Muris concluded, have the proceedings developed sufficient convincing evidence. For one thing, no one seems to be able to define what precisely is meant by "natural" food. Under the rule, "natural" would be defined to cover food products that (1) contain no artificial additives and that (2) had been prepared with only "minimal" processing. The word "minimal" would be interpreted as "traditional," by which is meant processes capable of being performed in a typical home kitchen.

But is this what consumers believe is meant by "natural"? The record contains no evidence to support such universal understanding. Inconclusive surveys indicate that some consumers lean toward requirement (1), others toward requirement

(2), but this is the more important point: No evidence has been developed to prove that any substantial number of consumers have been deceived, defrauded, misled or injured by advertising of "natural" foods. And the same thing is true of advertising having to do with "energy" foods and with cholesterol content.

After a meticulous review of the record, Muris emerged with a question: Why regulate such advertising at all? Why, indeed?

The FTC should promulgate industry-wide rules, said Muris, only if convincing evidence establishes, first, that there is a need for the rule; second, that the rule likely will remedy the identified problem; and, third, that benefits will exceed the cost. The FTC should not rely upon mere theories or conjectures. Neither should great weight be given to merely anecdotal evidence.

The cost to consumers and to advertisers is important, Muris emphasized. "We cannot merely assume that costs are small, or smaller than expected benefits; we must have evidence to demonstrate that proposition." By way of example, the proposed requirement for broadcast disclosures on cholesterol would require three to five expensive seconds — not long, perhaps, but equal to 10 to 17 percent of a typical 30-second TV commercial. Anyhow, would anything of net benefit be gained by enforcing a rule

Forbodings Grip Cairo

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
CAIRO, Egypt — Doubts do not exist here that the U.S. gave Israel a "wink and a nod" to invade Lebanon, destroying tattered remnants of "the spirit of Camp David" and confirming Arab warnings that Egypt had tricked itself into signing a "separate peace."

Despite the muted quality of official protest, the shock of what is seen as U.S. impotence or unwillingness to thwart Israel's use of American-supplied military power is compounded by the Egyptian government's forboding for the future. If accurate, that strategic assessment raises a threat to U.S. interests in the Middle East that should be sounding alarm bells in Washington.

The threat is three-fold: first, an agreement between Israel and Major Haddad, the Israeli Christian puppet, to open up Southern Lebanon to Israeli settlements; second, Soviet agreement to send forces into Syria to counterbalance U.S. forces in Lebanon demanded by Israel; third, destabilization of King Hussein by a new influx into Jordan of refugees uprooted by Israel's conquest of Lebanon.

"This won't happen overnight," one of Egyptian President Mubarak's top officials told us. "Like the Nile, it will move slowly and mudily but it will move implacably."

Information reaching here indicates that Syrian President Hafez Assad has sent an "official" request to Moscow for direct Soviet participation in Syria's defense. The presumable reason: Israel's military power, evidenced by its easy annexation of the Golan Heights and its bloody romp to Beirut, requires compensating safeguards for Syria.

The "separate-peace" theorists, once only a large minority, who opposed Camp David from the outset have now been confirmed as correct in their 1978 appraisal of Israel's aims. This became clearer after Anwar Sadat's assassination. It has been embellished by Israel's foot-dragging during final stages of the Sinai withdrawal last April, culminating in the bulldozing of the Israeli Sinai settlement at Yamit. That was described to us as the "graceless, wanton act of an adversary, not a peace partner."

But less expected was the absence of serious efforts by the new Reagan administration to pressure Israel to fulfill its pledge for "full autonomy" for West Bank-Gaza Palestinians. Private bitterness has now overflowed and Secretary of State Alexander Haig is a target. "Arik Sharon is (prime minister) Begin's strong man" a confidant of Mubarak told us, "but Haig is the indispensable member of his Cabinet."

However unfairly, that bitter lament about Al Haig is buttressed by several exhibits: the long policy vacuum during 1981, the switch in Washington on the legality of West Bank Jewish settlements, viewed here as overt encouragement, the short-lived wrist-slaps for Israel's destruction of Baghdad's nuclear reactor and annexation of the Golan, the U.S. veto in the U.N. Security Council of sanctions against Israel two weeks ago following several days of slow-motion cease-fire efforts.

The "wink-and-a-nod" theorists cannot prove their case and Haig has repeatedly denied it. It is a significant part of a broader appraisal here of changing U.S. policy made by Mubarak's high command, now naked to attack by the original Camp David skeptics.

The question being asked is this: Is Haig, despite protestations, moving toward a modified U.S.-Israeli condominium to safeguard Western interests in the Middle East, with Israel in the role of the American vicar and the moderate Arab states in the role of acolytes?

A Defensive Role

By PAUL T. O'CONNOR
RALEIGH — In an election year that promises to be good for Democrats on the national scene, North Carolina Democrats are primarily on the defensive in congressional races. The Republican Party already holds four of the state's 11 congressional seats and promises to wage strong well-financed campaigns against Democratic incumbents in the third, fourth and fifth districts.

Out west, in the 17 counties that comprise the 11th congressional district, Democrats see themselves as being on the offensive, however. They think they can unseat first-term Republican Rep. Billy Hendon.

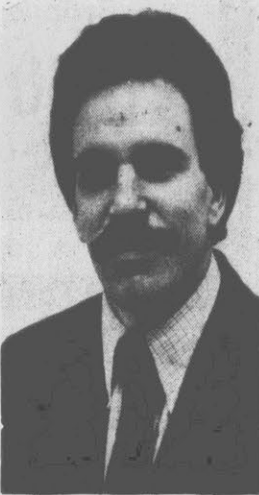

Hendon ousted Rep. Lamar Gudger in 1980 with 54 percent of the vote, a better showing than the statewide votes for President Reagan and Sen. John East. But Democrats say he is vulnerable because of his voting record and his close ties to Reagan's economic policies.

The 11th has some of the worst unemployment in the state. The state's April unemployment rate was 8.2 percent — a rate bettered in only four counties of the district. Swain's 26.1 percent unemployment is the highest percent in the state and seven other counties in the district have rates above 12 percent. Democrats are blaming Reagan's economic policies for the joblessness and they say Hendon should be laid off by the voters because he's backed Reagan's economic proposals 100 percent.

Hendon has also supported the phasing out of the Appalachian Regional Commission which brought social programs to the district and he's supported "multiple use" for federal lands in the district. Democrats charge that means mining and oil drilling to the mountains. "He's not voting our interests, he's representing the big oil companies of Texas and Oklahoma," says Madison County Democratic mogul Zeno Ponder.

Opposing Hendon is moderate Democratic state Sen. Jamie McClure Clarke of Fairview whose family is very well-known throughout the west for its philanthropy and community leadership. Family members established the region's co-op farming system and Lord's Acre tithing program for area churches during the Depression. The McClure Foundation, in which Clarke is very active, has provided college scholarships for thousands of youngsters. Clarke is far from the perfect candidate, Democrats concede. He's low-key and adverse to confrontational politics.

Republican State Chairman Dave Flaherty said Democrats are deluding themselves if they expect Clarke to beat Hendon. Clarke is too liberal for mountain people, Flaherty says. And how can Clarke beat Hendon when an established incumbent couldn't do it two years ago, he asks.

Democrats say there are many differences between Clarke and Gudger. Gudger wouldn't take campaign advice from state Democratic leaders. Clarke is much more receptive. Gudger was criticized for getting a slow start. Clarke is already working very hard. The party itself was asleep during the 1980 campaign, some say. The district hadn't had a Republican congressman in 50 years and no one believed they'd win in 1980. So this year, Democrats have started working early, they've bought a small computer and researched Hendon's voting record.

Other Editors Say Misses Boat

(Washington Daily News)

The North Carolina Association of Educators (NCAE) is one of the strongest and best organized groups in our state. NCAE publishes a magazine, "North Carolina Education." The magazine contains worthwhile material for both information and study. It does seek to put the educational issues squarely before its membership through written articles.

John I. Wilson of Raleigh is president of the NCAE and in a recent article in the magazine which we take to be the official position of the organization as he sees it, Mr. Wilson clearly and without hesitation pronounces the NCAE program for our state.

As we read what he has to say, and let us be very fair — his article is written for teachers and those in the field of education and not for consumption by the general public.

In his account, apparently given at the NCAE convention, Mr. Wilson breaks down his presentation into several fields of interest. They are Funding of Public Education, Economic Security, Political Action, Protection of Rights of Educators, and Human and Civil Rights.

The organization is out fighting for its beliefs and its program. It is clearly in the political arena and it will seek to elect friendly legislative candidates and defeat unfriendly candidates. And the fight for or against will be all over North Carolina.

The NCAE has a right to fight for its program and with this right we find no fault. But looking over the entire scope of operations as outlined in this article, we find one big area relatively untouched.

We see no suggestion that the very people NCAE needs as allies are not there. We speak of the John and Jane Does back home. The program will never reach its sought-for goals until a lot of people — far more than teachers and other educators — get involved. We are not speaking merely of parents of students. We are speaking about efforts to convince the general public to become better friends of education in every town and hamlet of our state. We are talking about those who have no children now in school.

Public support on the local level, it seems to us, is all-important and very dynamic. It is very needed and very worthwhile.

It is a case of realizing completely and without exception that there is no substitute for getting involved.

The NCAE, in our opinion, ought to try to get more people involved on the local level.

A Demand For Inflation Seen

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — Yes, there is a demand for inflation, and those who see disinflation encroaching on their territory may soon begin to raise a hullabaloo.

To some degree they already have. A major beneficiary of inflation has been the Congress, members of which have for years assured themselves of reelection by spending lavishly for their constituents.

Now, with spending cuts being "in" with the general public, some of them feel helpless. If they cannot spend your money lavishly and freely, they ask, how in the world can they possibly be of help to you?

It is very much the same story with every federal sponsored program, says J. Richard Zecher, chief economist of Chase Bank's Economic Observer. Inflation, so to speak, is just another federal bureaucracy.

Says Zecher, "U.S. inflation began modestly in response to a perceived demand, grew beyond all expectations, and developed a strong constituency that can be counted on to resist its demise."

One of these might be the federal government itself, because inflation pushes dollar incomes higher (though not purchasing power). Higher incomes mean higher tax brackets. Higher brackets mean more revenue.

What caused the rebellion against the federal spending spiral, which seemed to benefit so many families that it looked like the wheel of fortune, isn't fully analyzed yet, but two things appear certain:

First, more and more Americans came to realize that those inflation dollars bought less and less. Then they realized those dollars that bought less and less were taxed more and more. No great insight was needed to reach a conclusion: No longer where they beneficiaries, taking from others, but victims instead, taking from themselves.

But the federal treasury did benefit. Zecher says that on average a 1 percent gain in individual income has meant a 1.7 percent rise in tax receipts from this source. Taxpayers were transferring their purchasing power to the federal government, a notoriously poor money manager.

Some foreign governments benefited too. If their inflation rates moved more or less in tandem with U.S. inflation, Zecher observes, they could overstimulate their economies without their currencies depreciating against the dollar. More conservative governments lost, of course.

Perhaps more familiar, but sometimes only in bitter retrospection, was the beneficiary who got out of paper and into hard assets. If they didn't do it themselves, most people recall somebody who did, and who profited handsomely from doing so. From, for example, borrowing at low interest rates the hard-earned money of savers in order to buy a house.

The house, of course, rose in value — even with inflation wrung out of the calculations. The savings account, paying only a bit more than 5 percent, shrank in buying power. Inflation made that a certainty.

Many unfortunate people — people who trusted in government and who had confidence in financial institutions, people of basically admirable habits, salt-of-the-earth people, if you will — lost their assets.

Nobody had backed a truck up to the bank, but this multibillion dollar transfer of assets over a period of more than a decade must be counted the greatest heist of all time, though the winners did nothing illegal.

In effect, savers and others who held financial assets rather than so-called real assets, financed the rise in government spending and in the prices of gold, housing and collectibles.

And now that the situation is turning about — with savers able to earn at least double what they were offered in the 1970s, with inflation taking less of cut of the profits, with the price of gold depressed — the inflators, a still powerful force, will be howling.

Whether they will win is still not determined. Inflation might be only on the sidelines, waiting for an opportunity to reassert its "rights" when the economy tries to move ahead again.

But if it does, some of those innocents of the 1970s won't take it like lambs again. They too will raise a hullabaloo, and thereby stand as a potent counterforce.

Letters submitted for Public Forum should be limited to 300 words. The editor reserves the right to edit longer letters.

To the editor:

Congratulations to the North Carolina Legislature for ending the last major instance of sex discrimination in North Carolina law. Under the law, land or property held jointly by a husband and wife was controlled by the husband. This was clearly discriminatory.

What the Legislature has done shows that we do not need the Equal Rights Amendment to eliminate sex discrimination. If the people who are so adamantly for ERA would show their elected officials examples of discrimination, then it could be taken care of in the way our Legislature has done.

Passing ERA to end sex discrimination would be like draining a swimming pool to save a person who was drowning. Both would be unnecessary.

Panel Studies Reform Social Security Rules

By CHRISTOPHER CONNELL
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Two federal health experts, testifying before a panel looking into Social Security reform, say that Americans are living longer but disease and disability rates are also on the rise among older workers.

The comments of the two prompted Rep. Claude Pepper, D-Fla., the oldest member of Congress, to tell the National Commission on Social Security Reform they might consider lowering the retirement age for Social Security instead of raising it, Pepper is 81.

Dr. Robert N. Butler, director of the National Institute on Aging, told the panel the elderly today are more likely to be in good health but he added, "It is also true, however, that vulnerability to disease rises with age."

Dr. Jacob J. Feldman, associate director of the National Center for Health Statistics, said that even while death rates for men ages 50-69 plummeted during the 1970s, disability rates were rising.

He said 63 percent of men, age 65 to 67, report they are fully able to work, 24 percent cannot work and 13 percent can do only limited work.

"You tell us of facts which might even justify lowering the age 62 (for early retirement) and the age 65 rather than going up to 68 or some other figure," Pepper said.

"If they don't have 62 or 65 as a goal to which to look forward for retirement, they don't have much to hope for, do they?" he asked.

that required a TV spot to include, "Such-and-such a product contains fat, some of which is saturated. See the label?" Muris thinks it unlikely.

What, then, should be done? To reopen the record for additional hard evidence would drain staff resources and probably would not provide "significantly greater support" for the proposal. Indeed, additional evidence is more likely to strengthen the case against adopting the rule. It would be exceedingly difficult to establish a degree of "injury" among consumers sufficient to justify so drastic a regulation of advertising content.

It's not often, to return to the point of beginning, that we hear this kind of common sense from the regulatory bureaucracy. On the contrary, the record of recent years is filled with frivolous regulations, burdensome paperwork and endless legalistic skirmishes between lawyers. It all adds up to nonsense. We truly have no need for a regulation demanding that advertisers of "energy" foods disclose that high-energy and high-calorie are synonymous. Any consumer who doesn't know that deserves to get fat.

Argentine Junta Still Quarrels

By BRUCE HANDLER
Associated Press Writer
BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — Argentina's generals are still quarreling over who will be the country's next president in a dispute that threatens to shatter the ruling military junta in the wake of the nation's defeat in the Falklands war.

A sharply divided junta of army, navy and air force commanders failed Monday for the fourth straight day to reach agreement on who should succeed ex-President Leopoldo Galtieri. The three officers said they would meet again today.

Galtieri, an army general, was forced by his fellow generals to resign last week because of Argentina's humiliating loss in the undeclared 74-day South Atlantic war.

British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher meets with President Reagan in Washington on Wednesday and is expected to renew her request that the United States take part in an international peacekeeping force to maintain the security of the Falkland Islands.

Britain retook the Falklands on June 14, 10 weeks after Argentine troops invaded the British colony 250 miles east of Argentina's southern tip.

The air force threatened to withdraw from Argentina's six-year-old military regime if the army, traditionally the most powerful military branch here, insists on replacing Galtieri with another army general, a high military source told The Associated Press.

"The air force does not want to be part of another dictatorship," said the source, who asked not to be identified.

Argentine news media, apparently getting "leaks" from the secret junta sessions, said the air force and navy favor a civilian to head a government of transition to civilian rule.

The army is said to want another of its own to succeed Galtieri until its proposed "democratic, institutional, negotiated solution" to Argentina's domestic political situation, "starting in 1984."

This coincided with information from military sources that all three service branches agree on March 29, 1984 — the date on which Galtieri would have stepped down voluntarily — as the time for ending exclusive military rule and permitting the participation of political parties.

A group called "Multipartidaria" met Monday to discuss politics and relations with the junta. It comprises the five most important Argentine political parties, whose activities have been suspended since a 1976 coup against civilian President Isabel Peron.

But the Justicialista Party, the nation's largest, did not participate, apparently because Deolindo Bittel, a top party official, was in the interior of the country. The Justicialista Party follows the doctrines of the late dictator Juan Peron.

More than 1,000 additional Argentine prisoners of war from the Falklands fighting arrived Monday in the southern coastal town of Puerto Madryn aboard the requisitioned British North Sea ferry Norland.

Argentine military authorities, anxious to minimize the spectacle of the return of defeated troops, kept relatives, the press and the public away from the dock and whisked the men to a staging area 40 miles away to send them to their home units. The government did the same with 4,200 troops who arrived over the weekend.

Britain says it will hold about 1,000 officers of the nearly 11,000 Argentine prisoners it took on the Falklands until Argentina formally declares an end to hostilities.

Meanwhile, the Permanent Association for Human Rights pressed Interior Minister Gen. Alfredo Saint Jean — acting chief executive since Galtieri's ouster — to free 244 political prisoners the government had promised to release on June 8.

The government promised the amnesty as a goodwill gesture prior to the visit here of Pope John Paul II to pray for an end to the Falklands fighting.

Warn Nuclear Ship Ban Could Damage Alliance

By PETER O'LOUGHLIN
Associated Press Writer
CANBERRA, Australia (AP) — Deputy Secretary of State Walter J. Stoessel Jr. said today that a ban on nuclear-powered or armed U.S. warships from Australian ports could harm the defense treaty between Australia, New Zealand and the United States known as ANZUS.

"It would certainly make it much more difficult for us to carry out the responsibilities (of the treaty)," he said.

Stoessel spoke at a news conference following the 31st annual meeting of alliance members at Canberra's Lakeside Hotel. An alliance communicate reaffirmed that U.S. nuclear ships will be permitted to visit ports of Australia and New Zealand.

The U.S. envoy faced repeated questioning from Australian reporters on U.S. nuclear ships. This has become a raging political issue in Australia because of recent statements by the opposition Labor Party urging a ban on visits by such vessels on grounds they are dangerous.

Australian Prime Minister Malcolm Fraser, leader of the Liberal Party, has accused the Laborites of endangering the alliance and Australia's relations with the United States.

Stoessel said the United States did not want to become involved in domestic Australian political issues but "the subject of port visits is an important one."

The ANZUS communique endorsed the "high priority each partner placed on a regular and comprehensive program of naval visits to each others ports, as well as to friendly ports in the Asia-Pacific region generally."

The communique said the partners "recognize the importance of access by United States naval ships to the ports of its treaty partners as a critical factor in its efforts to maintain strategic deterrents and in order to carry out its responsibilities under the terms of the treaty.

"In this regard the Australian and New Zealand members declared their continued willingness to accept visits to their ports by United States naval vessels whether conventional or nuclear-powered."

The next alliance meeting will be held in Washington next year.

Two Collisions Here Monday

An estimated $2,250 property damage resulted from two traffic collisions investigated by Greenville police Monday.

Heaviest damage, according to officers, resulted from a 5:34 p.m. collision on Pitt Street, 142 feet north of the Howell Street intersection, involving vehicles driven by Ruth Streeter Cummings of 1813 McClellan St. and Larry James Early Sr. of 1719 S. Greene St.

Damage from the mishap was estimated at $1,600 to the Cummings car and $150 to the Early truck.

Cars driven by Jacqueline Gray Colbert of 119 N. Elm St. and Angela Faulkner Langley of 902 W. Arlington Blvd. collided about 12:40 p.m. at the intersection of Jarvis and Second streets, causing an estimated $300 damage to the Colbert car and $200 damage to the Langley car.

Florida Senate's Vote All But Sinks ERA Hopes

By KEN KLEIN
Associated Press Writer

Florida's rejection of the Equal Rights Amendment has all but sunk chances for national ratification by the June 30 deadline, but supporters say they won't abandon their goal and will seek revenge at the polls in November.

"It looks like we're just going to have to start all over again," said Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., one of the original cosponsors of the ERA a decade ago. "We'll reintroduce the amendment, and next time I predict the ERA will be ratified."

Pro-ERA voters say they'll seek try to beat lawmakers who blocked ratification. After the Florida Senate vote, crowds of angry women, some in tears, chanted "Vote them out!" and "We'll remember in November."

The Florida Senate voted 22-16 against the proposed constitutional change on Monday, keeping the state aligned with 14 others whose lawmakers have blocked adoption of the amendment that would prohibit discrimination based on sex.

Thirty-five states have approved the amendment. National ratification requires approval by three more states this month.

Eight days before the deadline, the ERA's prospects were dim in the states where supporters have lobbied most actively this year:

—The North Carolina Senate tabled the ERA June 8, despite a Lou Harris poll showing most voters there favored the amendment. The parliamentary move was a serious setback, ERA strategists said, because victory in North Carolina would have sparked momentum in other non-ratification states.

—Oklahoma lawmakers dumped the ERA earlier this year, and chances for reconsideration seem slim.

—In Illinois, ERA advocates want to change legislative rules requiring three-fifths majority approval and replace that with a simple-majority requirement. The House Rules Committee is scheduled to meet this week, and may consider the change.

Two of seven women who have been on a hunger strike for the ERA for more than a month were treated Monday at a hospital in Springfield, Ill. One of the fasters, Sonia Johnson, said the seven would consider today whether to abandon their fast.

"We want to make certain our usefulness is over. If it is, that's it and we'll end it," she said.

Florida was one of a handful of states where ERA supporters thought they could win. The amendment was approved 60-58 in the Florida House on Monday, but lost a few hours later in the more conservative Senate.

Two Florida state senators who opposed the amendment face challenges from pro-ERA women, said Eleanor Smeal, leader of the National Organization for Women.

"We will pass ERA," said Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., after the Florida vote. "The equality of women under the law is an issue that can't be denied."

"I am disappointed," said Florida Gov. Bob Graham, an ERA supporter. "In today's debate, both sides emphasized their commitment to equality — fair treatment for all people. Our efforts to achieve these goals cannot stop."

The national debate over ratification began March 22, 1972, when Congress sent the proposed amendment to the states on a vote of 354-24 in the House and 84-8 in the Senate.

In 1977, Congress extended the deadline for ratification from March 22, 1979, to June 30, 1982. No state has voted to ratify the amendment since the extension.

Of the 35 states that have voted to ratify, five — Idaho, Kentucky, Nebraska, Tennessee and South Dakota — have since voted to rescind their ratification, an action upheld by a federal judge in a decision under appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Kentucky's rescission bill was vetoed by the state's lieutenant governor, acting in place of the governor, who was out of state at the time.

The first seven states to ratify did so in the first week after Congress approved the ERA. The next seven came within a month.

Here are the states which have voted to ratify, in order of their actions: Hawaii, Delaware, New Hampshire, Idaho, Iowa, Kansas, Nebraska, Texas, Tennessee, Alaska, Rhode Island, New Jersey, Colorado, West Virginia; Wisconsin, New York, Michigan, Maryland, Massachusetts, Kentucky, Pennsylvania, California, Wyoming, South Dakota, Oregon, Minnesota, New Mexico, Vermont, Connecticut, Washington, Maine, Montana, Ohio, North Dakota and Indiana.

The 15 states which have not voted to ratify are: Alabama, Arkansas, Arizona, Florida, Illinois, Louisiana, Mississippi, Missouri, Nevada, North Carolina, Oklahoma, South Carolina, Utah, Virginia and Georgia.

The Supreme Court is considering appeals to rulings by U.S. District Judge Marion Callister in Boise, Idaho, that the five states to rescind their approvals of the ERA acted legally and that Congress acted improperly when it extended the ratification deadline.

"VOTE THEM OUT!" — ERA supporters voice their disapproval of the 22-16 vote against ERA in the Florida Senate as they streamed out of the capitol for a demonstration and shouted "vote them out!" in response to the vote. (AP Laserphoto)

Five Constitution Amendments Facing N.C. Voters Next Week

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — North Carolina voters will do more than nominate party candidates in next week's primary, five proposed constitutional amendments also are on the ballot for consideration.

Each amendment must be approved by a majority of voters in order to be added to the state's constitution.

AMENDMENT ONE — Four-year terms. This amendment would expand the terms of members of the General Assembly from two to four years, beginning with members elected this year.

This amendment has been the subject of considerable debate thus far. It has been vigorously opposed by the Keep the Two-Year Term Committee, a coalition of groups and individuals who are contending that longer terms for lawmakers will only lead to a full-time, professional Legislature.

Proponents of the extended legislative terms have said longer terms would make it easier for average citizens to serve in the General Assembly because it would cut the cost of legislative campaigns.

AMENDMENT TWO — Temporary recall of judges. This amendment would authorize the General Assembly to provide for temporary recall of retired Supreme Court justices or court of Appeals judges to serve temporarily on either of the appellate courts.

The amendment is backed by the N.C. Courts Commission. It would expand a constitutional provision that allows retired judges to temporarily fill vacancies on the court from which they retired.

AMENDMENT THREE — Utilities appeals. This amendment would give the Supreme Court the authority to review, when authorized by law, direct appeals from the state Utilities Commission.

Under present law, such decisions must first be heard by the N.C. Court of Appeals.

AMENDMENT FOUR — Airport and seaport financing. This amendment, proposed by the N.C. Department of Commerce, would allow the General Assembly to grant public bodies more powers to develop new and existing seaports and airports.

It would also give such public agencies the power to finance and refinance for public and private parties such improvements using revenue bonds that are exempt from state and federal taxes.

The types of construction authorized by the amendment would include airports; seaport; and related commercial, industrial, manufacturing, processing, mining, transportation, distribution, storage, marine, aviation and environmental facilities and improvements.

State Treasurer Harlay E. Boyles has endorsed the amendment, saying he believes it would help in further development of commerce through the state's seaports and major airports.

AMENDMENT FIVE —

Private College Financing. This amendment would allow the General Assembly to enact laws to give the state's 38 private colleges and universities the right to issue tax-exempt bonds to finance construction and renovation.

The amendment authorizes the state or any state entity to issue revenue bonds to finance or refinance the cost of acquiring, constructing and financing higher education facilities for any non-profit corporation, regardless of a school's religious affiliation.

The constitution now allows the use of such bonds only for financing public or non-profit, privately-owned hospitals and for private industrial plants.

The amendment has been endorsed by Boyles and has drawn no oppositions from William C. Friday, the president of the 16-campus University of North Carolina system. The UNC Board of Governors has passed a resolution supporting the amendment.

SA Lines Increasing

By The Associated Press

Many people who used to support the Salvation Army are now among the ranks receiving handouts at outposts in North Carolina and South Carolina, Salvation Army officers say.

"It hurts to ask," and "I don't have anyplace to go," are words that Salvation Army caseworkers say they often hear now from people who find the idea of taking something for nothing loathsome.

The people come with empty hands, and Salvation Army officers say they leave with food, clothing, wood for fuel, kerosene, bus tickets and money for rent, utilities, medicine and doctors bills.

Corps commanders describe the needy as people who've never asked for a dime in their lives. They're described as middle class, blue collar workers who cope admirably with their bills when they are drawing a full weekly paycheck.

But many factories are furloughing workers, or cutting back to three and four-day workweeks. And that slice off their income has sent many families reeling.

"This exceeds our projections," development director Ruth Jackson said Monday from divisional Corps headquarters in Charlotte.

"I think you'll find it's family types getting to the point of desperation. These are community people."

In the first four months of 1982, they've kept the Salvation Army under siege.

"It's the worst I've seen in 16 years," said Al Smith, commander of the Florence, S.C. office. That includes the 1974 recession when he was posted in Greenville, N.C.

Police Probing Reported Rape

Greenville police were continuing their investigation of an alleged rape that was reported about 2:15 a.m. this morning.

Chief Glenn Cannon said a 22-year-old woman told investigators she was forced into a pickup truck by a man about 1:15 a.m. as she walked along Fifth Street, between Cotanche and Reade streets.

The chief said the woman reported the man drove to a corn field off N.C. 33 east of Greenville, assaulted her, then drove back into town. She said she jumped from the vehicle on Fifth Street as it slowed down in front of the university.

Costa Rica Will Ask U.S. Funds

By GEORGE GEDDA
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — With his country near bankruptcy, Costa Rican President Luis Alberto Monge is on a three-day visit here intent on obtaining financial backing from the United States and the international banking community.

After meeting with the House Foreign Affairs Committee today, Monge planned an hour-long session with President Reagan followed by a luncheon with Vice President George Bush.

In recognition of Costa Rica's economic plight, the Reagan administration has proposed that the country receive $70 million of the $350 million in emergency aid recommended under its Caribbean Basin development program in which more than 20 other countries would participate.

The administration has earmarked a high percentage of the proposed money for Costa Rica because of concern that a worsening economic situation could provoke political instability. Costa Rica has been a pro-Western democratic oasis in an area where authoritarian rule has been the norm.

But living standards in Costa Rica have declined sharply in recent years because of falling coffee prices, high government spending and high U.S. interest rates.

With a population of about 2 million, Costa Rica has a foreign debt of some $2.7 billion which, on a per capita basis, is one of the highest rates of foreign indebtedness in the world.

In his morning meeting with House members, Monge planned to ask for their support for the Caribbean Basin initiative, which has been received coolly in the Congress since Reagan proposed it four months ago.

Discussing the plan before a gathering of business executives Monday at the State Department, Rodrigo Madrigal Nieto, former president of the Costa Rican legislative assembly, said, "We really need it urgently. What I'm afraid of is that the crisis won't wait."

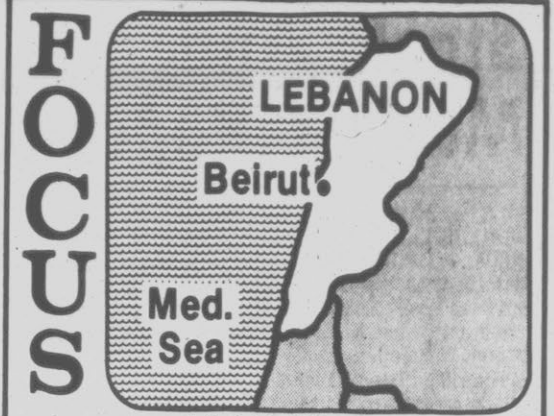

Monge will host a dinner for members of Congress tonight and will meet with the Senate Foreign Relations Committee on Wednesday.

His schedule also includes meetings with officials of the Inter-American Development Bank, the World Bank and the International Monetary Fund.

The Caribbean Basin plan, in addition to providing short-term balance of payments assistance, calls for the creation of a duty-free trade zone in the area and incentives for U.S. business investment.

The principal congressional objection is that the plan will lead to the export of jobs from the United States to the Caribbean.

Administration officials do not dispute that some U.S. jobs will be lost but maintain the program is essential to head off additional political turmoil in the region and to stem the tide of illegal emigration to the United States.

Since the time of the Phoenicians, 4,000 years ago, Lebanon has been a financial hub of the Middle East. For years the tiny nation, smaller than Connecticut, was known as the Switzerland of the Mideast. Beirut, its capital city, bustled with business in dozens of languages. But in the past decade, Lebanon has been one of the world's most troubled nations. Its most serious problems began after Jordan's King Hussein forced the Palestine Liberation Organization, which has vowed to destroy Israel, to leave his country. In 1971 PLO leaders and nearly 300,000 Palestinians set up new homes in Lebanon. Since then, PLO terrorist raids on Israel have drawn Lebanon into repeated conflicts.

Newsprint Makers Defer Price Hike

NEW YORK (AP) — In the face of reduced demand and publishers' stockpiles, major newsprint producers in the United States and Canada have canceled a 5 percent price increase to their U.S. customers.

The decision to abandon the price hike came less than three weeks after it went into effect for customers of eastern Canada newsprint producers. The western Canada producers imposed the increase April 1, but major U.S. producers still had not put the increase into effect.

"It's a combination of excess capacity and poor economic conditions that doesn't require so much newsprint," said William Metzfield, president of Gannett Supply Corp., which buys newsprint from 26 suppliers for the Gannett Co. newspaper group. Metzfield said all his suppliers had canceled plans to raise prices.

Newsprint producers first tried to increase prices to their U.S. customers on March 1, bringing the price to $525 a metric ton from $500. A metric ton is equal to 2,204 pounds.

The increase was deferred, however, first until April 1 and then, by most eastern Canada and U.S. producers until June 1 because of what the producers called "market conditions." The eastern Canada producer raised prices June 1.

Since his hand was entryless, it was essential for him to preserve communications with his partner in the heart suit. Observe that, if he had gone up with the king of hearts, declarer might have made his contract.

Declarer won the jack of hearts, cashed out three rounds of diamonds, ending in dummy, and then led a spade to the king and ace. West continued with a heart to the ace. Declarer now turned his attention to clubs. But when the king of clubs lost to the ace, West still had a heart to lead to his partner's king. Svarc could take three heart tricks to defeat the contract one trick.

Youth Arrested In Breaking, Entering

FARMVILLE - Michael Jerome Worsley, 17, of 406 Wallace St. was arrested by Farmville police about 4 a.m. today while bicycling near the scene of a break-in in the Pine Grove subdivision - one of four break-ins during the early morning.

Police Chief Ron Cooper said Worsley was charged with four counts of first degree burglary and one count of breaking and entering and larceny from a vehicle.

Police accused Worsley of cutting a bedroom window screen at 117 Baker Boulevard and entering an occupied room. The occupants screamed, they reported to police, and the intruder went back through the window and mounted a bicycle. Police were called at 3:40 a.m.

Police said that, before the house was entered, a window was broken out of a car parked at the same residence and stamps were removed from the vehicle's glove compartment. Police said the stamps were recovered from Worsley.

Police also charged Worsley in three other incidents early today. Officers said that, at 3:01 a.m., an intruder cut the window screen of a bedroom at 311 S. Wallace St. and was partially inside when the occupant, a young boy, screamed. He ran.

At 2:17 a.m., police said, a residence at 118 Baker Blvd. was entered through a window that apparently had been broken out. The residents shouted and the intruder left.

At 3:21 a.m. an intruder apparently cut a window screen and entered an occupied bedroom at 133 Baker Blvd. The resident screamed and he went out a window.

Worsley also was charged with stealing a car last Friday about 10 a.m. from the driveway of 307 E. Church St. The car was recovered Saturday at Twigg's Store on the Stantonsburg Road east of Farmville and part of its contents was found near Fountain.

Worsley was treated at the time of his arrest for a severe cut to his right hand, police said, and received additional treatment today as an outpatient at Pitt County Memorial Hospital.

Worsley, a Farmville Central pupil, was held under $20,000 bond.

School Bd....

 contract with Phil Dixon, the school board attorney.

At this time, the city school system does not have a food service supervisor. The former supervisor, Linda Tingle, resigned at the end of the this school year.

Approval was given to the second reading on two policy papers - professionalism and grouping for instruction policy. The instruction policy is a conceptual one applicable to both elementary and secondary levels. In both instances, approval given Monday night covers only the general policy, with procedures applicable to each of the policies to be approved at a later board meeting. A draft of procedures for the instruction policy has been drawn up by a committee composed of school administrators, teachers, and parents.

Some concern was expressed about the application in various schools of the grouping policy. Blinson said that the procedures for grouping in grades K-6 would be the same systemwide. The question arose on whether or not a principal would have the option of using self-contained or teaming arrangements. Another concern voiced is whether a single or multiple criteria for pupil placement would be used. Director of Instruction Charles Ross said the multiple criteria concept would apply.

The Vocational Education Plan for the coming 1982-83 school year was approved and will be submitted to state officials.

Also approved Monday night was a service contract with Gibbens Unemployment Insurance Co. The fee for the contract is $650 and provides a variety of services such as scrutinizing policies to insure all school employees get rightful benefits, and training accounting people in procedures applicable to the unemployment compensation act.

Director of Maintenance Bob Stewart presented to the board his department's proposal for the summer paint projects. The project has an estimated cost of $3,000 and primarily includes touch up and repainting toilets in all schools, as well as paint work on overhang of roof eaves and kitchen walls. Blinson commented, "This by no means represents all the painting that needs to be done in the school, but these are all the dollars we have available in the budget."

In reference to a request from City Manager Gail Meeks for a school board recommendation on reopening the portion of Watauga Avenue between Chestnut Street and Myrtle Avenue that crosses the Agnes Fullilove School property, the board agreed with Dr. Blinson's suggestion that no recommendation be made at this time. He contends that a recommendation should come following a decision on continued use of the property, and that if sold, the new owners should have the right to make a recommendation for the decision on whether to reopen the closed street portion. A request to reopen the street has been made to the city by Grace Free Will Baptist Church.

In executive session, the board approved the resignation of three teachers and the retirement request of one teacher, Effie Thompson, a teacher at Elmhurst Elementary

N.C. Revenues Continuing Lag

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) - North Carolina's general tax collections in May grew by less than 6 percent over the same month last year, signaling a continuation of the economic recession, Revenue Secretary Mark Lynch said today.

"I remind you that our state tax collections are many months behind our current economy, but they do indicate a continued recessionary period," Lynch said in releasing his monthly revenue report.

"In these figures I don't see any bottoming out, but I hope it's there," he added. May general tax collections totaled $249.4 million, and collections for the 11 months of the fiscal year amounted to $2.8 billion, an increase of 8.3 percent over the same period of last year.

Lynch said the monthly figure was somewhat distorted because of fluctuations in quarterly withholding payments. When adjusted, he said, the growth figure was 7.5 percent - still below the 10 percent growth rate legislators had budgeted for the current year.

"It is of particular concern to me that even though the increase for the first six months of this fiscal year showed an increase of 10.7 percent over the same six months of the previous year, the increase for January through May is only 5.7 percent," Lynch said.

Sales taxes, an indication of consumer spending, increased 5.2 percent for the 11-month period but only 1.3 percent for May. Sales taxes on new cars decreased 5.9 percent compared to May 1981.

Gasoline taxes were up 41.6 percent for the month and 30 percent for the 11-month period, reflecting an increase in the gasoline tax that took effect last year and an increase in consumption.

Largely because of the new staggered system of issuing license tags, total highway fund revenues were up 57 percent for the month and 24 percent for the 11 months.

Scholarships To Two Employees

ROCKY MOUNT - Two Pitt County students have received Hardee's employee scholarships, Hardee's Food Systems Inc. announced today.

Sherrill Ann Worthington of Ayden and Ala Cameron Stanforth of Greenville have been awarded the $250 scholarship, established by Hardee's to distinguish employees who are high school seniors or college students and have exhibited high scholastic standards and leadership qualities.

The scholarship is given by Mrs. Beatrice C. Maye and her children - John Walter, Jeanette and Mamie Ellene Maye - in memory of their husband and father, who was the principal of the Robinson Union School in Winterville for 27 years.

Ms. Maye presented the $100 dollar scholarship, which will be used toward Ms. Sugg's tuition expenses at North Carolina A&T State University in Greensboro.

Ms. Suggs was also the recipient of a scholarship from Cornerstone Missionary Baptist Church and the Robinson Union Alumni Association. Willie Lee Henderson, an alumnus, presented the Robinson Union scholarship.

Ms. Howell is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Howell of 106 Fox Hollow Road and the granddaughter of Rena Howell of Greenville.

She graduated with honors and plans to continue her education in biological research at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

CONCERT
 The Brothers of Faith of St. Augustine College in Raleigh will be in concert at Christ Temple Church, located on the Bethel Highway, on Saturday at 7 p.m.

DeCinces Moving Up In The Order

By The Associated Press
Doug DeCinces is moving up in a very tough world.
In a batting order packed with sluggers and superstars, the California Angels third baseman has 23 RBI in his past 20 games, and Manager Gene Mauch has moved him from No. 7 to No. 3.
"I love any RBI situation," DeCinces said Monday night after his four RBI gave him 40 on the season and paced the Angels to a 10-2 victory over the Texas Rangers. "That's what you play the game for."
He added, tongue-in-cheek, "Actually, the secret to my success was that I was using Rod Carew's bat."

A single by Carew touched off California's seven-run eighth inning and extended his hitting streak to 25 games, the longest in the major leagues this year. DeCinces capped the burst with a two-run single in his second trip to the plate in the inning.
DeCinces doubled home two runs in the third inning off knuckleballer Charlie Hough to wipe out a 2-0 Texas lead, then scored on a single by Reggie Jackson, who was credited with his fourth game-winning RBI of the season.

Steve Renko handcuffed Texas on seven hits, striking out three and walking only one for his seventh victory in eight decisions. After failing to complete a game last year, the 37-year-old right-hander went the distance for the fourth time.
DeCinces said he and his teammates had trouble with Hough's knuckleball early in the game. "It was dancing all over," he said. "The first couple of times I swung the ball just wasn't there."
Orioles 7, Indians 0
Baltimore right-hander Dennis Martinez pitched his second shutout of the season, blanking Cleveland on three hits. Martinez struck out five, walked none and received big support from Cal Ripken Jr.

Ripken drove in four runs with a homer and a double, adding a single later in the game.
Martinez, 7-4, allowed just one runner past first. Alan Bannister singled and stole second in the Cleveland third but was stranded by Martinez, who also allowed singles to Von Hayes and Rick Manning.
Brewers 6, Yankees 2
Ben Oglivie, who had three home runs Sunday, continued his hot hitting with a home run, and Paul Molitor added a homer to pace Milwaukee over the Yankees. Cecil Cooper's RBI double off Dave Righetti snapped a 1-1 tie in the fifth inning.

Molitor also scored three runs and went 4-for-4.
Bob McClure, 5-2, scattered six hits over six innings for the victory, leaving in favor of Dwight Bernard after walking two men in the seventh.
Red Sox 5, Tigers 1
Carl Yastrzemski reached another career milestone with his 3,253rd major league hit, helping Boston extend Detroit's losing streak to eight games. Yaz's hit moved him past Nap Lajoie into ninth place on the all-time hit list.
Dave Stapleton drove in two runs with a single and a sacrifice fly, backing left-hander John Tudor to his sixth victory in 11 decisions. Tudor worked 72-3 innings, scattering six hits.
Carney Lansford also had three hits for Boston.
White Sox 5, Twins 4
Tom Paciorek tripled and scored the winning run in the eighth inning on a double by Harold Baines as the White Sox edged Minnesota. After Baines' hit, the game was delayed 53 minutes by rain at Chicago.
Reliever Salome Barojas yielded a two-run homer to Tom Brunasky in the seventh, tying the score 4-4, then settled down for his fifth victory in six decisions.
Bill Almon and Baines also homered for Chicago, and Paciorek had a two-run double in the fifth.
A's 4, Royals 3
Mike Heath's unusual fielder's choice drove in the winning run in the eighth inning as Oakland snapped a six-game losing streak. With the bases loaded, Heath hit a bloop that dropped in front of Royals center fielder Amos Otis.

Dwayne Murphy, who had homered earlier, scored from third on the play, but Otis got the force at third.
Vida Blue, 4-5, was the loser in his first appearance at the Oakland Coliseum since 1977, when he played with the A's.
Oakland tied the score 3-3 with two out in the seventh on Jeff Burroughs' two-run, pinch homer. All three of Burroughs' homers this year have been as his first victory since May 29. Bruce Bochte and Al Cowens also homered for Seattle.

Tonto scored a pair of runs in the ninth. Barry Bonnell's RBI double chased Henderson, and Bill Caudill yielded an RBI hit to Dick Davis.

Henderson also threw out two runners from center field to help rookie Mike Moore, 3-6, to his first victory since May 29. Bruce Bochte and Al Cowens also homered for Seattle.
Tonto scored a pair of runs in the ninth. Barry Bonnell's RBI double chased Henderson, and Bill Caudill yielded an RBI hit to Dick Davis.

Rose Pulls Even With Hank's Hits

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Pete Rose stands tied with Hank Aaron for second place on baseball's all-time hit list and feels he should be ahead of the Hall of Fame slugger.
"If I get the bunt down, they can't field it," the 41-year-old Philadelphia first baseman said Monday night of his ninth-inning attempt to surpass Aaron. "Oh well, there's always tomorrow."
Three innings earlier, a Busch Stadium crowd of 19,141 rose to its feet to cheer Rose's 3,771st career hit, a single.
"I've always appreciated the crowds here," Rose said later. "They have a great tradition with Stan Musial and the Gas House Gang. They know their baseball."
Rose, needing only two hits to tie Aaron, wasted little time in zeroing in on the target posed by the game's greatest home run hitter.
He singled sharply into right field on an 0-1 pitch in the first inning. He grounded out in the fourth and singled again on a 3-1 count in the sixth.
Both singles came off St. Louis rookie Dave LaPoint, as did an RBI fielder's choice grounder in the seventh.
Rose grounded to shortstop in the ninth after bunting foul on the first strike off relief pitcher Bruce Sutter, who picked up the victory in a 7-5 triumph by the Cardinals.
"I'm hitting pretty well," said Rose, who in Philadelphia's last 11 games has been batting at a .369 pace. "I was glad that it was a good game."
Rose's accomplishment in reaching the hitting milestone left him trailing only the 4,191 hits compiled more than half a century ago by Ty Cobb.
"I'm not really aware of records as such," said Rose, who over the weekend played in his 3,000th game. "If you can hit a baseball at a .300 clip, everything else is going to fall into place."
Rose said his two singles came off a slider and a fastball.
"I hadn't faced LaPoint that much. He was throwing a lot more palm balls tonight than I'd seen him throw before," he said. "The ball I really should have got a basehit off was the ball I hit to third. I popped it real well. He just got in on me a little bit."

Pitt County Scores Twice In 9th To Pull Out Win Over Snow Hill

SNOW HILL — Greg Briley's ninth inning single drove in the go-ahead run, and he later came around to add some insurance as Pitt County's American Legion baseball team pulled out a 5-3 victory over Snow Hill last night.
The win boosted the Post 39 record to 5-3 on the season, while Snow Hill dropped to 1-8.
Roger Williams went the first seven and two-thirds inning, striking out 12 batters. However, he was rocked for eight hits and all three of the Snow Hill runs, while he walked seven.
Tyronne Gay, however, coming in relief in the eighth, struck out the first batter he faced to retire the side with runners at second and third, and then struck out the side, one-two-three, in the ninth, to snuff out the Snow Hill hopes of a victory.

Loser Bobby Avery gave up only six hits to Post 39, walking eight and striking out seven.
Pitt County struck first, getting a run in the second inning after being retired in order in the first. Emmett Walsh led off the second with a double and he advanced to third on a passed ball. After one out, Gordon Douglas doubled to drive in Walsh for the 1-0 lead.
Pitt left a man on third in the fourth, but failed to score again until the fifth, when Post 39 picked up two more runs. After two were away, Bill Kittrell reached on an error. Tom Buie followed with a triple, scoring Kittrell, and Mont Carter added a single, scoring Buie for the 3-0 lead.

Snow Hill finally got on the board in the bottom of the fifth, scoring once. Snow Hill had left runners at third in the first and fourth innings prior to that.
In the fifth, after striking out the first batter, Williams walked Chris Newsome, who then advanced on a ground out. Newsome advanced on a wild pitch and Greg Hardison walked, then stole second. Lewis Yelverton reached on an error, which allowed Newsome to score.
After leaving a man at second in the sixth, Snow Hill got a second run in the seventh. Steve Sides led off with a single and Yelverton also got a hit. Robbie Pelletier added a third single in the inning, loading the bases. Wade Corbett then walked, forcing over Sides.
The tying run came over in the eighth. Williams retired the first two batters, then gave up a double to Sides. Hardison came back with a single to drive in Sides, knotting the score. Yelverton followed with a single, and that brought on Gay, who hit the next four men in succession to end the Snow Hill chances.
Pitt, meanwhile, which had missed out on a couple of chances between the fifth and ninth, finally struck in the latter frame for the winning runs.

Kittrell led off the inning with a walk and was sacrificed up by Buie. Briley followed with a single, scoring Kittrell with the go-ahead run. Briley advanced on the throw to the plate and took third on a wild pitch. A second wild pitch allowed him to score with the added insurance that proved unnecessary.
Pitt had no one with more than one hit, while Sides, Hardison and Yelverton each had two hits to pace the Snow Hill attack.
Pitt returns to action tonight, hosting Wilson in a doubleheader at Harrington Field, set to begin at 6 p.m.

Posey Is Top Player

RALEIGH (AP) — Campbell outfielder Bob Posey, who had three home runs as the Camels won five of six games last week, has been named North State League baseball player of the week.
Posey, a 6-foot, 200-pound freshman from Ashley Falls, Mass., collected nine hits in 19 at-bats for a .474 average and had seven RBIs. His three homers gave him the league lead with four for the season. His batting average is .500.
Posey helped the Camels move to within two games of league-leading North Carolina State. Campbell began the week at 2-5 but now is 7-6 after winning five of six, with two victories coming against the Wolfpack.
Other contenders for player-of-the-week honors included Mike Pesavento and Tracy Black of N.C. State and East Carolina's David Wells. Pesavento pitched the Wolfpack to two wins last week, while Black batted over .400 with eight RBIs. Wells well enough to take the league batting lead at .529.

Oakland May Use Law To Keep Raiders Home

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The city of Oakland may be able to use a California Supreme Court decision to keep the Raiders professional football franchise from moving to Los Angeles.
On Monday, the high court voted 6-1 to overturn a Monterey Superior Court decision dismissing a city lawsuit to acquire the National Football League team under the city's power of eminent domain.
"The city and Raiders should be afforded a full opportunity to present the facts and circumstances of their respective sides during a trial on the merits," said the decision written by Justice Frank Richardson.
The Supreme Court's decision means that the city of Oakland has the authority to pursue acquisition of the Raiders through the same municipal authority it has to acquire other properties necessary for the public benefit.
"The acquisition and, indeed, the operation of a sports franchise may well be an appropriate municipal function. That being so, the statutes discussed herein afford the city the power to acquire by eminent domain any property necessary to carry out that function," the decision said.

Chief Justice Rose Bird, in a concurring and dissenting opinion, said she was troubled because the "potential for abuse of such great power is boundless."
She said she was forced by the law to agree with the result reached by the majority, but she did not sign the opinion because it endorses unprecedented application of the eminent domain law "without even pausing to consider the ultimate consequences of their expansive decision."
Oakland's eminent domain lawsuit is separate from one involving antitrust allegations against the NFL, which had attempted to block plans to move the team to Los Angeles. In that case, a federal jury ruled in May that Managing General Partner Al Davis could move the team to Southern California.
Davis was traveling Monday and team officials said he would not be available for comment.

David Self, who represented Oakland in the case, said the decision would prevent the Raiders from moving to Los Angeles. However, if the lower court decided for the city, the team would have to move back, he said.
The power of eminent domain permits a local government to acquire, possibly for transfer to other private parties, all the rights associated with or related to a property — in this case the NFL franchise held by a partnership, which includes Davis.

Pena Makes Play, Has Injury As Proof

By The Associated Press
Pittsburgh catcher Tony Pena was nursing a sore foot and Chicago Manager Lee Elia a bruised ego as the result of a bang-bang play at home plate that helped the Pirates beat the Cubs.

"We haven't gotten a close call in a month," Elia lamented after Cub shortstop Larry Bowa was called out at home in the eighth inning of Monday night's game in Pittsburgh, depriving the Cubs of an important run.

Elia was ejected from the game by umpire Lee Weyer after storming from the dugout in protest of the call and the Pirates went on to a 4-3 victory.

"He (Weyer) said the plate was blocked and that Bowa never got his foot on the plate," Elia said. "But that was not true."

Pena suffered a foot injury as a result of the home-plate crash, although it was not believed serious.

"The umpire (Weyer) made the right call. I had the plate blocked," he said. "He (Bowa) slid with both feet, but I had the plate blocked and he hit my foot. He never touched the plate."

The Pirates led 4-2 going into the Chicago eighth with the aid of a solo homer and an RBI triple by Johnny Ray.

Bowa led off with his third hit, a double, and pinch-hitter Steve Henderson drew a walk. With Bump Wills at bat, Pirate reliever Rod Scurry unleashed a wild pitch that bounced away from Pena and rolled to the lid of the Pirate dugout.

Bowa raced around third and headed home as Scurry retrieved the ball and threw to Pena, who applied the tag. Weyer signaled the out.

Bowa didn't want to discuss the matter with the press, instead launching into a tirade about what he felt was unfair treatment by the Chicago press.

Pittsburgh's Paul Moskau, 1-3, got his first victory as a starting pitcher since Aug. 28, 1980. Chicago's Lee Smith dropped to 1-2 as the Cubs lost their fourth game in a row. Moskau allowed six hits in five innings and Kent Tekulve finished up to register his eighth save.

Phillies 7, Cardinals 5

Darrell Porter and George Hendrick cracked run-scoring hits in the eighth as St. Louis beat Philadelphia and overshadowed Pete Rose's climb into a tie for second place on baseball's all-time hit list. Rose had two singles to give him 3,771 hits for his career and tie him with Hank Aaron. Ty Cobb is the leader with 4,191 career hits.

Willie McGee opened the eighth with a single off Ron Reed, 2-2, and took third on Keith Hernandez's single. Porter greeted reliever Tug McGraw, making his first appearance of the season, with a double for the winning run. Hendrick followed with a single to drive home an insurance run.

"I've always appreciated the crowds here," Rose said after the game in St. Louis. "They have a great tradition with Stan Musial and the Gas House Gang. They know their baseball."

A Busch Stadium crowd of 19,141 rose to its feet to cheer Rose's hit, a single in the sixth inning.

Padres 7, Astros 4

Terry Kennedy's two-run double keyed a six-run rally in the eighth inning to lead San Diego over Houston.

Trailing 4-1, the Padres loaded the bases and Tim Flannery scored the first run of the inning on a passed ball. Sixto Lezcano then singled off reliever Mike LaCoss, 2-2, for another run and Kennedy followed with his double to give the Padres a 5-4 lead.

Luis Salazar then sacrificed and LaCoss threw wildly down the right-field line as Kennedy scored. Broderick Perkins then singled in the final run of the inning.

Eric Show, 4-2, the fourth Padre pitcher, worked the final three innings for the victory. Reds 10, Dodgers 2

Eddie Milner hit a three-run homer and drove in four runs while scoring three to help Cincinnati's Mario Soto win his fourth straight game. The victory snapped the Dodgers' six-game winning streak.

Milner's third homer of the season, off Bob Welch, 7-6, put the Reds ahead to stay in the second inning. Soto, 7-4, handcuffed the Dodgers on five hits and struck out 10, raising his National League-leading strikeout total to 125.

"I'm definitely gaining more confidence," said Milner, a rookie. "I'm more comfortable. At first, I was getting some pitches that I wasn't expecting in some situations. Chambliss singled with the bases loaded and two out in the ninth inning to cap a three-run rally and lead Atlanta over San Francisco and a run-scoring single to Biff Poceroba prior to Chambliss' game-winning hit.

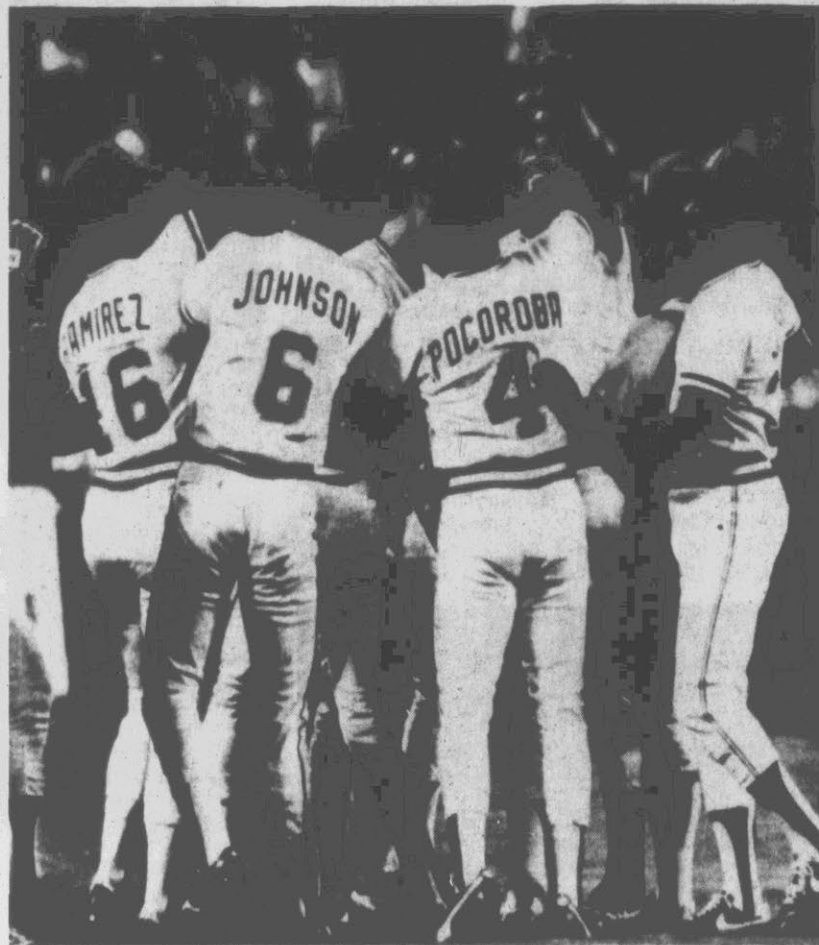

The victory went to Rick Camp, 5-3, and Minton, 3-4, was the loser.

The Giants had gone ahead 6-4 with single runs in the seventh and ninth.

Expos 5, Mets 1

Gary Carter blasted two home runs and knocked in three runs to lead Montreal over New York. The Expos scored four runs in the fourth inning with the help of two doubles and a two-run homer by Carter en route to their fourth straight victory.

Montreal starter Charlie Lea, 6-2, worked six innings, allowing four hits and struck out six while walking three. Ray Burris replaced Lea in the seventh inning and was credited with his first save of the season. Pete Falcone, 4-3, was the loser.

President's Call Sparks Honduran Soccer Team

MADRID (AP) — National pride is an important ingredient in the 24-team World Cup soccer tournament. And to newcomers such as Honduras and Kuwait, every match is a national cause.

Honduras President Roberto Suazo Cordova telephoned the team's coach in Zaragoza before Monday night's match against Northern Ireland. Then, while the poverty-ridden Central American nation came to a standstill, the Hondurans fought back to earn a 1-1 tie on second-half substitute Tony Laing's 60th-minute header.

The goal, equalizing one 30 minutes earlier by Irish striker Gerry Armstrong, set off a barrage of car horns, sirens and gunfire in Tegucigalpa, the capital city.

"I don't believe any country is enjoying the World Cup as much as mine," Coach Jose de la Paz Herrera said after a second straight upset draw put Honduras closer to the 12-team second round.

"The Kuwaitis, striving under a 200,000-per-player incentive to reach round two, staged the first mass incident of the month-long competition by halting their game in Valladolid against France to protest the validity of a goal by Alain Giresse.

After seven minutes of tense jostling and gesticulating among players, Spanish police, the French coach and the Kuwaiti soccer federation president in Arab headdress, Soviet referee Miroslav Stupar ruled out the goal. But France won 4-1.

Kuwait Coach Carlos Alberto Parreira conceded his players had virtually lost their chance to join England as qualifiers from Group Four — along with the bonus offered by private interests in their oil-rich kingdom.

Algeria, which looked like the strongest of the tournament's five first-timers after upsetting West Germany, fell 2-0 in Oviedo to an Austrian team sparked by Walter Schachner's second goal in as many games.

No team advanced to the 12-team second round from Monday's matches, but Austria improved its odds with a second straight victory in Group Two, as did France with its first victory in Group Four.

The draw in Zaragoza left Spain with the best chance of qualifying from Group Five and Honduras in need of a victory over Yugoslavia to advance with the host nation.

Two Hurlers In Two-Hitters

Little League

Kiwanis . . . . . 6
Lions . . . . . 2

Robbie McDonald hurled a two-hitter and scored the go-ahead run on a wild pitch as Kiwanis defeated the Lions, 6-2, Monday in a North State Little League baseball game.

Kiwanis scored two runs in the bottom of the first after Jarvis Groome staked the Lions to a 1-0 lead in the first on a home run. The Lions' only other hit off McDonald was a second-inning double by David Tripp.

McDonald struck out 12 and walked three.

The Lions tied it up in the third when Carlos Harris scored on a passed ball. But, Kiwanis regained the lead in the home half of the inning when McDonald singled with two gone and a series of wild pitches brought him around to score and give Kiwanis a 3-2 lead.

Kiwanis added three more runs in the fifth when the Lions walked four and made one error.

No one for either side had more than one hit.

Planters led, 1-0, at the top first only to have Pepsi come back with nine runs in the second to take a lead it never lost.

Mitch Phillips singled home the first run and Nover later singled home two more runs. Then, with two gone, Les Turner, Sterling Edwards and Lane Odum all singled home a run, before Vines singled to drive in two more.

Planters cut the deficit to 9-3 in the top of the third but Pepsi came back with three runs in the third, one a solo home run by Edwards. Pepsi scored its final run in the fourth.

Planters rallied for three runs in the fifth and a run in the sixth, but it was not enough.

Jordy Smith had two hits for Planters. Nover had three hits to lead Pepsi. Vines, Odum, Edwards and Pat Rand all had two hits for Pepsi.

Bird Tops NBA All-Star Voting, Malone Is Third

CORONADO, Calif. (AP) — Moses Malone, the Most Valuable Player in the National Basketball Association last season, was only the third-leading vote-getter in balloting for the all-league team.

Larry Bird, who led the Boston Celtics to a 63-19 record in the regular season, best in the NBA, was a unanimous choice on the team that was announced Monday at the NBA meetings here.

Bird collected 138 points in the balloting, which meant that all 69 media members on the voting panel, three from each franchise city, selected the Celtics forward for the first team. A player got two points for being on a voter's first team and one point for being on the second team.

Malone, the Houston Rockets center, got 130 points, one less than forward Julius Erving of the Philadelphia 76ers. The all-NBA guards were leading scorer George Gervin of San Antonio and Gus Williams of Seattle.

The second team consists of forwards Alex English of Denver and Bernard King of Golden State, center Robert Parish of Boston and guards Earvin "Magic" Johnson of Los Angeles and Sidney Moncrief of Milwaukee.

Gervin had 114 points, Williams 94, Johnson 80, Moncrief 79, Parish 42, English 37 and King 34.

Bird, an all-NBA performer in each of his three NBA seasons, was 10th in the league in scoring with a 22.9 average and seventh in rebounding at 10.9.

Famous Subs

Brown & Wood . . . . 3

Evan Hause hurled a two-hitter to lead Famous Subs to an 8-3 victory over Brown & Wood Monday in a Babe Ruth baseball game.

Hause struck out four and walked nine. He did not give up a hit until Darryl Perkins singled with one gone in the sixth. William Smith doubled to lead off the seventh for B&W's only other hit.

Famous Subs jumped out to a 1-0 lead in the first and upped its lead to 5-0 in the second.

The second-inning uprising was keyed by two walks, a ground out by Kevin Lang that scored one run and an error that allowed another to score.

B&W scored two runs in the fifth without getting a hit as Hause walked four and Doyle Kirkland grounded out to score a run.

Famous Subs got the two run back in the sixth and both teams scored a run in the seventh for the final total.

Fletcher Phillips had two hits for Famous Subs. Ervin Best had a triple for Famous Subs.

First Federal Exchange

Stacey Best's three-run home run — his second of the game — helped key a four-run third that erased a three-run deficit and carried First Federal to an 11-6 victory over Exchange Monday in a Tar Heel Little League game.

Exchange led, 4-0, going into the bottom of the second. First Federal got one run back in the home half of the second on Best's solo home run. First Federal then erupted for four runs in the third and five in the fourth to rally and put the game away.

Maurice Dyer reached on an error and scored when John Bolen singled him home. Mark Holloman then singled and Best followed with his home run to give First Federal a 5-4 lead.

First Federal scored five more runs in the fourth, sparked by Lee Watson's three-run home run, to up its lead to 10-4.

Both teams scored a run in the fifth and Exchange got its final run in the sixth.

No one for Exchange had more than one hit. Best led First Federal with three hits and five RBI. Holloman and Watson had two hits for First Federal.

Babe Ruth

Pepsi-Cola . . . . . 13
Planters Bank . . . . 7

Pepsi-Cola, sparked by singles by Marc Nover and Russell Vines, scored nine runs in the second inning to whip Planters Bank, 13-7, Monday in a Babe Ruth baseball game.

Inflation is making it harder and harder to hold the line. But with classified you have a defense that's a sure-fire way to make some extra cash. Just call your home team into a huddle, give them each a room to cover and don't let them come back without an unneeded item. After that play is completed, call classified and place an ad to sell your goods. Sound simple? It is. Now, play ball.

McEnroe Breezes To Opening Victory

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — In the formal manner of the All England Lawn Tennis Club, the schedule for the day listed Mrs. J.M. Lloyd of the United States among those who would play on its hallowed courts.

To the rest of the world, Chris Evert Lloyd took Center Court to begin the defense of her Wimbledon title against fellow American Barbara Sue Gerken.

It was the day for the women to make their 1982 debut at this prestigious tournament, along with five ranked men who did not get on the courts during the rain-shortened opening day program.

Defending men's champion John McEnroe was among those who did play and breezed through opening day unscathed.

"I hit the ball pretty well today," John McEnroe said as he blasted through fellow American Van Winitsky, 6-2, 6-2, 6-1 Monday. "Winitsky's serve is not too strong and he tends to stay back. He is the kind of player I can get in (to net) on."

Both because of the speed of the grass courts and their unpredictability, the 22-year-old left-hander made charge after charge into the net, forcing Winitsky to pass him or suffer the consequences.

McEnroe provided his own covering fire with six aces and followed a consistently strong service into net, from where he made quick work of short returns with sharply angled volleys.

There was very little of the antics that last year resulted in $10,000 in fines that were quashed on appeal.

His behavior was — for him — exemplary as a packed Center Court crowd looked on. McEnroe several times had words with the officials, but always in quiet tones, and often punctuated the conversations with a smile, even in those instances when he received questionable calls.

"There were no problems today," he said. "I hope it continues."

Advancing to the second round with McEnroe were all of the seeded players who saw action Monday, with the exception of No.9 Andres Gomez, the reigning Italian Open champion, who was ousted by former Wimbledon titleholder Stan Smith.

Connors, the No.2 seed, overpowered South African Mike Myburg, 6-0, 6-2, 6-2; third-seeded Vitas Gerulaitis handily dispatched Brent Pirow of South Africa, 6-4, 6-1, 6-1; No.4 seed Sandy Mayer dined Haroon Ismail of Zimbabwe, 7-5, 6-2, 6-3; fifth-seeded Johan Kriek of South Africa outlasted a tiebreaker loss and American Craig Wittus, 6-7, 6-3, 6-1, 6-0; and No.7 Mats Wilander, the 17-year-old French Open winner who has become the teen idol in the absence of fellow Swede Bjorn Borg, defeated Heinz Gunhardt of Switzerland, 6-4, 6-2, 3-6, 6-3.

Thirteenth-seeded Brian Gottfried of the U.S. outlasted France's Giles Moreton, 7-6, 7-6, 6-2; hard-serving Roscoe Tanner, seeded No.14, traded bullets with France's Henri Leconte before winning a 6-4, 7-5, 6-4 shootout, and No.16 Steve Denton won a marathon outing against fellow American John Sadri, 6-7, 7-6, 6-4, 3-6, 6-3.

Tenth-seeded Yannick Noah of France was forced to withdraw before hitting a ball because of a pulled thigh muscle, but since the tournament was underway, Wimbledon officials did not disrupt the order of the rankings.

Connors admitted working on a serve that would let him get to net on those few occasions when he needed to abandon the baseline, but played largely from the back of the court against Myburg.

"It's difficult to get to net when you're retreating sideways," Connors said of his old service.

Wilander looked surprisingly at ease adapting to the serve-and-volley game, which was the reason he gained the second round while Gomez did not. Both were schooled as clay court players.

Number Qualify For Regionals

RALEIGH — A number of area athletes qualified this past weekend for the Regionals of the TAC Junior Olympics at the annual State Junior Olympic meet here.

Kelvin Knight, Lisa Lang and Edward Frazier led the way with two victories each. Knight set state records in both his wins and Lang also took a second place.

Knight, competing in the 10-11 age group, won both the long jump (17 feet) and the triple jump (33 feet).

Lang, in the 13-14 age group, won the triple jump (32 feet, 10 inches) and was a member of the 4 X 100 and 400-meter relay team, both of which won. Lang was second in the 200 meters with a time of 26.02.

The 400-meter relay Farmville Middle School team of Christy Smith, Lang, Beverly Vines and Kimmy Payton won with a time of 51.1.

Frazier, from Greenville, was first in the 100-meter dash with a time of 10.5 and first in the 200-meter run with a clocking of 21.4. He also ran a leg on the 4 X 400 relay team, which finished with a time of 3:18.2. No place was given.

David Williams placed first in the 800-meter run with a clocking of 3:16 and Alexander Daniels cleared 4-10 to tie for first in the high jump. Both were competing in the sub-bantam division.

In another first place finish, Roanoke's Donnie Wallace won the shot put with a throw of 36-2.

In other results: Rose's Harry Williams was second in the 1,500-meter run with a time of 4:03 and Farmville Central's Wesley Carmon was second in the 200-meters with a time of 21.5.

Donnell Sheppard of Rose was third in the long jump with a 22-11. Tyrone Forbes, also of Rose, competed in the 4 X 800 relay and the 800 meters. No times were given.

Brandon Terrell, in the six to seven age group, was second in the 800 meters with a time of 3:22.

Cheryl Hopkins, in the 10-11 age group, was third in the long jump with a leap of 14 feet, eight inches.

The team of Mary Jo Harris, Vines, Angel Baptist and Carol Shelley from Farmville Middle School was third in the mile relay with a time of 4:38.

Tyrone Forbes of Rose competed in the 4 X 800 relay and the 800 meters. He did not place in either event.

Allen Taking Chicago Job

CHICAGO (AP) — George Allen learned football from a pioneer, George Halas, who helped organize the National Football League and watched it grow from a game of leather helmets and broken noses to a billion-dollar business.

Allen took a page from the Halas book Monday, announcing that he will become coach and chairman of the board of one of the 12 entries in the fledgling United States Football League and vowing that it would soon compete with the NFL.

And he chose to do it in Chicago, the city where Halas and the Chicago Bears have been synonymous with football for a half century. But Allen was quick to point out he has roots in Chicago as well.

"The eight happiest years of my life were spent here with the Bears," said Allen, 60, who spent eight seasons as a defensive assistant to Halas.

Allen said he had no misgivings about plunging into the same market with his former mentor.

"We're not competing against George Halas," Allen said. Earlier, he joked that, "We need a tight end and I have a call in to Mike Ditka," the Bears new head coach and a star on Chicago's 1963 NFL championship team.

Allen said he will have a "substantial" financial interest in the team along with co-owners Bill Harris, a real estate developer from Irvine, Calif., and Dr. Ted Diethrich, a Phoenix, Ariz., surgeon.

Harris said the three had formed a partnership, but terms of the deal were not disclosed. The franchise has yet to be named.

Allen said the fledgling league would not repeat the mistakes that scuttled the World Football League. He said his team and the new league would forgo bidding wars for high-priced NFL talent, instead emphasizing strong marketing, experienced

Putt Team In Lead

The Greenville Putt Putt team shot a 455 to outdistance two foes and take the lead after the first day of the Eastern Regionals being played at the local Putt Putt course.

Greenville led Goldsboro by 22 strokes and Rocky Mount by 27. Goldsboro shot a 477 and Rocky Mount a 482.

Greenville led by three strokes at the end of the first round and then moved to a 15-stroke bulge after the second round. The lead went to 22-strokes at the end of the third round.

Greenville was paced by Chris Fitzsimon with an 89 and Robbie Ehrmann and Jake Loftin with 90s. Johnny Carrow shot a 92 and Bob Ippock a 94.

Goldsboro was led by Perry Carter, who shot an 88 — low score for the opening round. Kevin Best was at 90 followed by Jeff Pope at 97, Hank Elston and Ronnie James, both at 101.

Mike Quisenberry led Rocky Mount with a 91. Phil Davis was at 94 followed by Ricky Ruffin at 98, Joel Pridgen at 99 and Allan Arrington at 100.

Eastern Regional action moves to the Goldsboro Putt Putt course next Monday beginning at 8 p.m.

State In 2-1 Victory

RALEIGH (AP) — North Carolina State's Dave Peterson hurled a seven-hitter as the first-place Wolfpack defeated second-place North Carolina-Wilmington 2-1 Monday in North State League baseball.

Peterson struck out five and walked none in outdueling the Seahawks' Kenny Smith, who allowed six hits while fanning seven and walking one. Peterson evened his record to 2-2, while Smith suffered his first loss and is 4-1.

N.C. State picked up an unearned run in the first inning. Shane Gagahan led off with a single, moved to second on a passed ball and scored on a two-out hit by Tracy Woodson.

In the third, the Wolfpack scored what proved to be the winning run, bunching singles by Woodson, Jim Toman and Tim Barbour.

UNC-Wilmington got its run in the fifth when catcher Bobby Bryant hit a 390-foot home run. The victory improved N.C. State's record to 10-4 and gave the Wolfpack a 1 1/2-game lead over the Seahawks, who fell to 9-7.

Landon Filling Role Of Modern Disney

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — In commercials, he calls Kodak "America's Storyteller." Actually, the label fits him. Michael Landon is the modern Walt Disney, spinning tales of Americana for the entire family.

Everything Landon touches, it seems, turns to apple pie.

For nearly 25 years, Landon has been starring in the kinds of shows they're not supposed to make any more. He was Little Joe Cartwright in "Bonanza" and then Pa Ingalls in the continuing "Little House on the Prairie," NBC's second-rated show this past season.

And tonight, you can see that famous Kodak smile in America's Junior Miss Pageant on CBS. Once again, Landon is host for the live competition, another program in keeping with his outlook on life and TV.

The Junior Miss Pageant, which was won by "CBS Morning News" anchor Diane Sawyer in 1963, has the girls next door competing for $2.5 million in college scholarships. It's a pin-up contest without any posters. Without swimsuits or gowns, contestants actually are judged on brains, physical fitness and talent.

Landon's programs ooze wholesomeness. When NBC once asked for heavier action in "Little House," Landon didn't turn the other cheek. "It was obvious I wasn't going to do that kind of show," he says. "Our characters are warm, feeling and non-violent toward each other."

Landon is executive producer of both "Little House" and its spin-off "Father Murphy." These shows are designed to bring families together. "Families just don't talk to each other enough any more," Landon says.

Landon, 44, who is separated from his wife, has seven children, and he's vigilant about their TV viewing.

"Unless there's something very worthwhile, I won't let them watch during the week. But they do have to watch 'Little House.'"

He doesn't recommend "Dallas," today's in show. "I don't watch it enough, to know why people watch it. All I know is that they're making a hero out of an evil guy."

But that doesn't mean Landon has jumped on the Coalition for Better Television's bandwagon, either. "I don't think anything should be done by threatening people," Landon says. (Incidentally, the coalition has singled out NBC and is boycotting the network's programs.)

This fall, Landon won't be playing Charles Ingalls, although the actor will remain as "Little House's" producer and frequent writer-director.

"After 14 years on one series and eight on another, I've had a nice run. It's time to move on to other things. I like my work. But it's when I don't feel like doing it 100 percent that it's time to get out."

How can "Little House" exist without a father figure? "I don't think I'm the only guy they want to see. Much of our audience is children, anyway. So we'll let some of the younger characters take over."

Six new characters will be added, including one played by Landon's 19-year-old daughter, Leslie.

This summer, Landon will film a movie for NBC in Thailand. "Comeback" is billed as an adventure story, with Landon playing a journalist in Vietnam before the withdrawal of American troops.

Landon says this proves he isn't typecast into forever playing 19th century westerners roaming the range in dirty boots on dirt floors.

"I'm lucky. I'm bankable. People grew up with me and will tune in to see what I'm up to."

"Bonanza," one of TV's most popular series, is still seen in some cities; "Father Murphy" has been renewed, and "Little House" is already in syndication and a hit in Europe. "During vacations in France, they play it two or three times a day," Landon says.

Even "a la mode," everybody loves apple pie.

RETURNS TO ACTING — Actor Rock Hudson has returned to acting after undergoing bypass surgery to correct a problem in his heart valve last November, with resuming work on the new television series "The Devlin Connection". The series is being filmed at CBS Studio Center in Hollywood, but has yet to be scheduled on any of the major networks. (AP Laserphoto)

A New Musical Finds Outlet Off Broadway; Misses Mark

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Drama Critic
NEW YORK (AP) — Off-Broadway has a new musical, "A Drifter, The Grifter and Heather McBride." It's not so hot, though. I won't say its book and score are inept, but this is no show for fans of ept.

You learn that right away as things start with the sound of a plane roaring overhead, then the hero, clad in leather flying togs, materializing and singing about getting "away from realitee..."

This is the prelude to a tale of love, unbridled ambition and small-town sin, the last provoked by a genial pizza-shop owner in the show's locale, tiny Greenville, Ind., "coin capital of the world."

Armed with a game cast, three musicians and little else, the show, bowing Sunday, has as its resident hero and drifter a dreamer named Sky, a tall, handsome former advertising whiz from Chicago.

He's fled success to find himself by flying his biplane and doing odd jobs. He currently works as a janitor and sign-painter for Bernie, the show's grifter, a glib, brash, bumbling young entrepreneur.

The show's Heather is Bernie's sweet young secretary, whom Bernie promises to marry "soon." But of course Sky is secretly sweet on her. You immediately suspect who will run off with whom at the finale.

However, problems must occur first, starting with the six months' back rent Bernie owes for his basement office. His creditor is an elderly, straw-hatted rustic who spells most every word he says.

With eviction looming, Bernie sells a wild advertising scheme to tout the pizza shop owned by one Luigi O'Hara. Lo, the rent's paid and Bernie's back in business, planning rampant expansion.

Unbeknownst to him, genial, rotund Luigi is of mob persuasion. He starts using the unsuspecting Bernie as a front for such mob-run wickedness as drugs, gambling and prostitution.

The last is represented by a blond floozy name of Goudon Plenty. She says she used to be in show business, starring on "The Dating Game," "The $1.98 Beauty Show" and "The Gong Show." OK.

She's the kind of sophisticate who calls Greenville "Leave-It-To-Beaversville." But she and Luigi are no match for the old rustic, who discovers they've brought sin to his small town.

Sky and Heather are, well, shocked. They can't believe that suddenly-prosperous Bernie is involved in all this. Yes, the ancient tells them, and what's more, he's going to tell the cops.

He musically warns these two innocents, "Ye better skedaddle, this old boy's gonna tattle."

Most of the players — it wouldn't be kind to identify any of them as involved in this — often look as if they wish they could skedaddle. But they bravely press on to the happy ending.

That, thank heavens, comes after a tussle between Heather and Goudon Plenty in the latter's sex-for-sale emporium, cleverly disguised as an "exercise" salon (its neon sign adds an "s" when sin is in progress, making the sign read "sexercise." I'm not kidding.)

For the record, the sets, panels that turn into a basement office, a skyscraper office, and the pizza and sexercise parlors are by Michael Sharp, who also created the costumes.

The show's creators are identified as John Gallagher and Bruce Petsche, with the hapless choreography and aimless direction respectively attributed to George Bunt and Dick Sasso.

Concerts Greet A New Summer

PARIS (AP) — Thousands of French musicians responded to an invitation from Socialist Culture Minister Jack Lang and played on the streets of Paris and several provincial cities Monday night to celebrate the first day of summer.

In Paris, there were more than 200 concerts, with groups ranging from rock and jazz musicians to the French National Orchestra — all replying to Lang's invitation to "make music yourselves."

There was no firm figure on how many musicians took part.

Statistics show 5 million people in France play musical instruments, and it was to them that Lang addressed his invitation a month ago. The newspaper Le Matin said it was clear that not all responded. There were, for example, no concerts in Nice and Cannes on the Riviera.

The 39-year-old minister, with the backing of President Francois Mitterrand's wife, Danielle, has made a major effort to revitalize French culture since taking office 13 months ago.

He and Mrs. Mitterrand inaugurated the festival at the Palais Royal in Paris where 12 ensembles from the French National Orchestra and the Paris Symphony played classical music in the gardens for 2,000 people.

A group specializing in ancient dances performed in front of Notre Dame Cathedral. The Left Bank was tied up by traffic jams, and it was often difficult to hear the rock and jazz groups playing in the streets, which took on an air that reminded many residents of May 1968 when a student revolution nearly toppled the government.

In the Normandy cities of Le Harve and Rouen, the festival was modestly successful with folkore troupes, choral groups, music students and jazz musicians playing before small crowds under stormy skies.

At the cathedral in Dijon in central France there was a bell concert. In Toulouse, in southwest France, a truck filled with rock musicians criss-crossed the city. A symphony orchestra play in the eastern city of Strasbourg.

Police throughout the country said they received few complaints from citizens for noise during the festival, which ended at 11 p.m.

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The little guy from outer space and the big boxer from Philadelphia are pulling in top weekend box office receipts, but an orphan girl and a bunch of high school kids aren't faring as well.

As expected, Universal's "E.T. The Extra-Terrestrial" shaped up as the winner with a three-day total of $12,626,905 on 1,116 screens in its second weekend in release. The movie increased its gross by 6 percent, compared with its opening weekend.

"Rocky III," the second sequel to the boxing saga of Rocky Balboa, brought in a weekend total of $6,313,576 in 1,232 houses. The 24-day tally to date was $54,994,478, which MGM-UA reported was well ahead of the pace set by the first two "Rocky" films.

But Columbia Pictures' expensive "Annie," based on the Broadway play about the comic strip orphan, was showing poorly, and Universal's "Grease II," a sequel about the goings-on at Rydell High, was a disappointment. "Grease II" was bringing in a weak $2,261,750 at 1,250 screens for a 10-day gross of $9,035,874.

With incomplete figures from last week, Universal projected the 10-day gross for "E.T." at $34,810,211, which the studio said would establish a 10-day industry record. The previous mark was the $34,744,461, 10-day opening of "Superman II," Universal said.

Columbia Pictures had been pinning its summer hopes on last weekend's widened release of the $40 million musical, "Annie," but the film collected a dismal $5,312,062 in 1,102 theaters. For the first four weeks of release, "Annie" had been playing in 14 theaters in four cities. The total receipts to date are $5,312,062.

Warner Bros. said the opening of "Firefox" was the best opening of a Clint Eastwood movie in history. The film had a weekend total of $8,152,948 on 881 screens.

The new Al Pacino film "Author! Author!" collected $2,279,260 on its opening weekend in 504 houses for a respectable $4,522 per screen, according to 20th Century-Fox.

Universal's "Poltergeist" remained strong with $4,709,044 at 911 theaters last weekend for a 17-day total of $24,296,134.

Other movies faring poorly were Universal's "Dead Men Don't Wear Plaid," with $399,254 from 289 out of 461 theaters reporting for a 31-day total of $17,359,165, and "Conan, the Barbarian" with $650,575 at 362 out of 649 theaters for $36,888,292 in 38 days.

Columbia's "Hanky Panky" also was running out of steam with $1,057,415 for the weekend in 776 theaters. The total in 17 days was $8,976,469.

Public Hearings Slated On Tobacco Supports Bill

By BOB FICK
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Tobacco-state congressmen have given in to demands for a full public debate on the government's tobacco price-support program in return for House approval of a bill to restructure the program.

They have agreed, an American Heart Association spokesman says, "for the first time to hold balanced hearings on the issue ... It gives us the opportunity in the public eye to analyze and take apart the program to expose what's wrong with it and what's good about it."

Their pledge for the hearings came Monday in return for easy House approval of legislation requiring farmers to cover any future direct losses caused by tobacco price supports and forcing non-farm institutions to give up valuable, federally issued production rights.

Those changes were promised last fall to stall a drive toward effectively abolishing the 50-year-old program that has been blasted for spending tax money to maintain tobacco prices while other government agencies pump funds into anti-smoking campaigns.

While the bill is meant to answer the program's critics, many claimed it doesn't go far enough and could have used it to launch another major attack on the program.

"This is an election year and members are nervous about voting on a tobacco program in an election year," said Rep. Charlie Rose, D-N.C., chairman of the House Agriculture subcommittee and the bill's architect.

In addition to hearings over the next 15 months, Rose promised full Agriculture Committee consideration of legislation proposed by the program's chief critics, Reps. Bob Shamansky, D-Ohio, and Thomas Petri, R-Wis.

"I'm willing to endure the time that it takes to listen to those concerns," Rose said. "I've told them I cannot support their legislation to abolish the program, and I'm not committed to see that it passes the Agriculture Committee."

Shamansky's attempt to end the tobacco program was only narrowly turned back last year, and critics now hope the upcoming public debate will put a majority of the House on their side.

In addition to the health complaints, the tobacco program has been criticized as feudalistic because its strict production restraints keep control of the two-billion-pound U.S. tobacco crop in the hands of those holding 500,000 federally issued acreage allotments. Many of them are not farmers. Price support costs over the past five decades have been placed at more than $600 million.

"Frankly, I read so many bad things about tobacco, I have decided to give up reading," said Rep. Larry Hopkins, R-Ky. Hopkins said the bill means tax money will never be used again to maintain prices for tobacco, a crop crucial to the financial well-being of many small farmers in the South.

The bill requires farmers of burley and flue-cured tobacco, accounting for the bulk of the nation's production, to earmark a few pennies from each pound of tobacco put under price support loan. The money would be used to cover any future losses under the program.

The government will continue bearing administrative costs, estimated at about $15 million this year. Those expenses have become the new target for program critics, who say they perpetuate the taxpayer subsidy for the crop.

At the same time, the agriculture secretary would have authority to curtail planned increases in price supports for flue-cured tobacco, which has rolled up a 400 million pound surplus because of stiff competition from cheaper imports.

The bill also forces non-farm institutions like corporations or public utilities to sell their flue-cured tobacco allotments by the end of next year or forfeit them for redistribution by local officials to actual tobacco producers. The same goes for individuals who have allotments but no tillable land on which to grow tobacco.

A congressional study earlier this year found that only 26 percent of the persons holding allotments actually produce tobacco. The rest lease or rent their allotments to others to grow tobacco.

The bill will only force a fraction of non-producers to give up their allotments, but those affected have been the ones most often cited by program critics.

Cabarrus Flood Losses Could Reach $2 Million

By The Associated Press
Cabarrus County officials say damages may run as high as $2 million as a result of last week's storms, which caused flooding described as the area's worst in 50 to 75 years.

"We're still in the process of assessing (the damage)," said Ben Mabrey, county Emergency Services director. "There's a lot of crop damage that will have to be looked at when the water's all gone."

Some parts of the county received 8.5 inches of rainfall in a six-hour period, causing Rocky River, Wolf Meadow Branch and Irish Buffalo, Coddle and Cold Water creeks to overflow.

Mabrey says small-grain crops such as wheat, oats and barley have sustained the most damage. He says the floods seriously damaged about 30 homes, 35 vehicles, four airplanes and at least three state-maintained bridges.

Mabrey, County Commissioner Harold Nash and state emergency officials Tom Pugh and Ed Harris toured the county Saturday for nearly four hours.

"I think we're looking at $2 million in damages," Mabrey said. "It's not official. It's a windshield check."

Only one flood-related injury was reported, officials said. Bertie Hurlocker, a 2-year-old girl, suffered burns when a fire broke out at the Kannapolis mobile home where she was staying, they said.

Authorities also said an unidentified man, who was estimating construction equipment damage, went to the hospital Friday after a copperhead snake bit him. His boot had stopped the snake's fangs and he was not injured, the hospital spokeswoman said.

Nearly 60 people had to be evacuated from the Rainbow Valley Rest Home in Kannapolis and at least three motorists had to be removed from trees where they had sought refuge when the cars were swept away.

Burr Swaringen, 47, was one of the men who literally went out on a limb to escape the floodwaters.

"I didn't have time to pray until I got in the tree, but then I did," he said.

"We're classifying this as a once-in-100-years flood," Mabrey said. "I've talked with a number of people who have lived here 40 to 50 years and they've said they've never seen anything like this. It's probably the worst flood we've had in 50 to 75 years."

Countdown For Space Shuttle

By HOWARD BENEDICT
AP Aerospace Writer

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The five-day countdown starts today for space shuttle Columbia's fourth and final test flight and the first in which the reusable spacecraft is carrying a top secret military payload.

Work crews on launch pad 39A were closing up the spacecraft and removing service platforms, preparing to start the countdown clock at 5 p.m. EDT for its scheduled liftoff at 11 a.m. Sunday.

During their seven days in orbit, astronauts Ken Mattingly and Henry Hartsfield will conduct the final tests to qualify Columbia for satellite-carrying missions that begin with Flight 5 in November.

Besides conducting several student and commercial experiments, they will be the first U.S. astronauts to perform military experiments in orbit, operating a Defense Department payload testing sensors for future surveillance satellites.

The mission, which is scheduled to end on Independence Day at Edwards Air Force Base in California, is so sensitive that the Air Force announced in advance it would permit no pictures of the military payload to be released.

"Even if the pictures are hazy we don't want to give any indication as to its size or shape," said a spokeswoman, Capt. Peg Bowman.

Starting next year, the shuttle will play a rapidly increasing role in Pentagon defense plans, and the Air Force underscored this Monday by creating a new Space Command to consolidate orbital military activities.

Launch director Al O'Hara's "call to stations" will summon about 200 specialists to their consoles and computers at Launch Control Center to start the count at T minus 90 hours. Several hold periods totaling 24 hours are built as a cushion if there is a problem.

A major early task is loading liquid hydrogen and liquid oxygen into Columbia's three power-producing fuel cells. It was the failure of one of the cells that caused the second test flight to be ordered back to Earth early.

O'Hara replaces George Page, who directed the liftoffs of Columbia's missions in April 1981, November 1981 and March 1982. Page, who had heart surgery in April, on Monday was appointed deputy director of the Kennedy Space Center.

Work was interrupted briefly on the pad Monday evening when a thunderstorm swept across the cape. Earlier in the day, technicians turned on the shuttle's electric power, inspected the main engines and installed a backup computer.

Michigan Workers To Fight Big Job Layoffs

By CYNTHIA KYLE
Associated Press Writer

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Michigan's largest state employees union may be returning to court to try to win back the jobs of 1,200 of its members laid off after the breakdown of contract concession talks.

"We'll probably do it next week," said Michael Cavanaugh, a Lansing lawyer representing the Michigan State Employees Association.

The layoffs took effect Monday after talks Sunday failed to produce $5.2 million in wage concessions demanded by the governor to help close a budget gap that has been blamed on the state's dismal economy and the slump in the auto industry.

The talks, the first since May 8, collapsed over the issue of job security, with both sides accusing the other of inflexibility. No new talks have been scheduled.

Ingham County Circuit Judge James Kallman last week rejected the union's plea that he block the furloughs.

But Cavanaugh said he may still be able to persuade the judge to block the indefinite layoffs that took effect Monday. "We'll see what new information we can gather," he said.

Of the layoffs, 900 were of state Department of Social Services workers while 300 were state Department of Mental Health employees.

Affected union members worked in a variety of jobs, ranging from clerks to psychologists and doctors in state-run mental hospitals.

"We're not pleased at all that this came to be," said Robert Little, director of Wayne County social services offices, which were losing some of their staff. "The basic impact is that we're losing some of our newer, more enthusiastic staff."

"The net effect is we're going to have to go through massive redistribution of the work," he said.

Milliken ordered the layoffs when the union reused to go along with his March demand for $80 million in wage concessions from all 62,100 of Michigan's state workers, including about 45,000 unionized.

Under his concession plan, workers were to take off six days without pay and give up a 5 percent raise and optical benefits.

The layoff plan calls for 1,600 MSEA workers to be laid off indefinitely, 642 to be furloughed for 11 days and 13,758 to be off work for three days.

The 400 other indefinite layoffs are to be scheduled within the next week. The one-day layoffs are tentatively set for July 23, Aug. 6 and Sept. 24.

Milliken said the wage concessions were needed under a plan to erase a $615 million budget gap. He also cut government spending and raised taxes.

Three unions, representing about 11,000 workers, have agreed to concessions. Informal negotiations are still underway between the state and three other employee organizations.

With 29,400 members, MSEA is the largest of the seven state workers' unions.

Arrest Man In Moose Building

Greenville police today arrested Cannis Edward Tilghman, 30, of 402 Lewis St. on charges of concealing himself in a building with the intent to commit larceny and possession of burglary tools after finding him inside the Moose Lodge at the intersection of Dickinson Avenue and Maxwell Street about 1:30 a.m.

Chief Glenn Cannon said an official of the lodge saw Tilghman hiding as he was closing the building for the night, and reported the incident to police.

One group of officers began a search of the building while another group surrounded the facility in case Tilghman attempted to flee.

Tilghman was placed under a $15,000 bond pending a court hearing.

Labor Sec. Donovan Vows He Won't Be Driven Out

WASHINGTON (AP) — An angry, combative Raymond J. Donovan says he will not be driven from his job as labor secretary by a "wonderland school of justice" that wants to convict him on charges of having ties to organized crime before a trial.

Donovan, hoping for vindication from a pending report by a special federal prosecutor, said Monday that when the report is out, "I will have a great deal to say about the many vicious attacks that have been made."

Without identifying his accusers, Donovan said he has been victimized by unsubstantiated news leaks "by an alliance of individuals who have a total disregard for the truth."

Donovan said he expected the report of court-appointed special prosecutor Leon Silverman to be completed within a few days.

But Silverman, reached at his New York law office, said, "I don't know where he got that from." Silverman declined to say when the report will be finished.

Some of President Reagan's principal advisers reportedly favor an immediate leave of absence for Donovan.

But Deputy White House press secretary Larry Speakes said Monday that Reagan feels there is no reason for the labor secretary to resign or step aside since all the facts in the case are not known.

And a White House official, who asked for anonymity, said Donovan had been hurt by the allegations but that his fate was uncertain.

"He's lost some blood," said the official. But he cautioned against underestimating Reagan's support for Donovan, and said the president "doesn't like to see people chased out of town."

Senate Democratic Leader Robert C. Byrd of West Virginia has called for Donovan to take a leave until the special prosecutor's report is done. Last week, the 46 Democrats in the Senate endorsed Byrd's suggestion.

And Sen. Orrin Hatch, R-Utah, who heads the Senate Labor Committee, said he did not see how Donovan could stay on in the face of that united opposition.

But Donovan said Monday, "Quite obviously, some of our elected officials are not content to allow facts to be determined in an orderly manner."

"They seem more interested in the wonderland school of justice that stands for judgment now, trial later."

Donovan said he intends to withstand "this presumption of guilt," and added he would be "less than honest — and human — if I did not state publicly my disgust with the relentless and cowardly attacks that have been made on me and my company."

The charges against Donovan include bid-rigging and mob-influenced labor contracts involving his former company, Schiavone Construction of Secaucus, N.J.

After reading his statement, Donovan strode briskly from the stage of the Labor Department auditorium, ignoring shouted questions from reporters.

Donovan said he originally intended to remain silent until Silverman's report was complete. But upon returning last weekend from a European trip, he said he could no longer ignore "the cavalier manner in which raw and unsubstantiated data have been leaked in total disregard for the rights of individual American citizens."

Departing from the text of his statement, Donovan declared, "I have every intention of completing the job I was asked to do."

The written statement said, "I have every intention of serving as Secretary of Labor as long as I can be of service to President Reagan."

In the latest round of allegations, Time magazine, quoting an FBI memo, said a purported "bagman" for organized crime who was found shot to death in Manhattan eight days ago allegedly "socialized on a regular basis" with Donovan years ago.

The report said Fred Furino, 52, the victim of the gangland-style slaying, disappeared after repeatedly flunking a polygraph test given by the special prosecutor's office which quizzed him about Donovan.

Also, The Washington Post reported that the FBI deleted information from documents that were turned over to the Senate Labor Committee last year. The newspaper said the FBI eliminated an allegation that an executive at Schiavone Construction was "closely aligned with the Vito Genovese family of the Mafia."

The internal FBI memo prepared by Anthony Adamski Jr., who was in charge of checking

Donovan's background, said:

"Two independent sources (of the New York FBI office) have advised that SCC (Schiavone Construction Co.) is 'mobbed up.' One source indicates the upper management of SCC is closely aligned with the Vito Genovese family of the LCN (La Cosa Nostra) through Schiavone vice president Albert Magrini and its contacts with Jopel Construction headed by William Masselli, who is an alleged self-admitted 'soldier' in the Genovese family."

A congressional source who asked that his name not be used confirmed the contents of the memo.

Last week, it was disclosed that the FBI notified Reagan counsel Fred Fielding on Jan. 12, 1981 — the first day of Donovan's confirmation hearing in the Senate — that Donovan had "close personal and business ties with known La Cosa Nostra figures."

But the four-paragraph memo was not forwarded to the Senate Labor Committee until this month.

Starkey New Chicago

IRS Director

CHICAGO — The Internal Revenue Service announced the appointment of James R. Starkey as director of the Chicago IRS District. He succeeds Donald E. Bergherm, who was appointed associate commissioner for operations in Washington.

The Chicago District is responsible for federal tax matters in northern Illinois, where in fiscal year 1981 individual, corporate and other taxpayers filed 6.2 million returns and paid $35.2 billion in federal taxes.

JAMES R. STARKEY

Starkey joined the IRS in 1961 as a revenue officer in Raleigh, N.C. He then held positions in Washington, D.C.; Macon, Ga.; Philadelphia, Pa.; and Wilmington, Del. In 1973, he was selected for IRS executive development program, which offers specialized training for those with executive potential.

Upon completing the program, Starkey became assistant to the director in Nashville, Tenn., and in 1974, he became assistant director in St. Louis. In January 1979, he was named assistant director of the collection division in the IRS National Office in Washington, becoming director in December of that year.

Starkey was born in Greenville and holds a bachelor's degree in English and social studies and a master's degree in education from East Carolina University.

Pitt 4-H'ers Attend Meet

Thirteen Pitt County 4-H members participated in the Northeast District 4-H Activity Day Wednesday at Perquimans County High in Hertford. Forty-five Pitt County youth and adults were among the 654 persons in attendance.

Amber Harris, from the Greenfield Terrence Superstars 4-H Club, was declared winner in the Peanut Foods junior division for her demonstration on "Peanut Clusters." Ms. Harris also competed in state competition Sunday at the Jane S. McKimmon Center in Raleigh.

Heather Garris from the Shad Pioneers 4-H Club was presented a blue ribbon for her gymnastics performance in the "Share the Fun Talent Show."

The Northeast District is composed of 17 counties. Each county may enter contestants in any of the 34 demonstration and activity categories.
