N.C. Primary Elections Set Tomorrow

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer

Campaigns that were interrupted by the uncertainty of district reapportionment and the prospects of delayed primary dates geared down today in preparation for Tuesday's statewide election activity.

Primary voting, which begins at 6:30 a.m. and continues until 7:30 p.m. at all polling sites, will involve eight ballots that will be distributed in the area according to district lines.

All voters will receive ballots for state Senate, district attorney and county officers, Congress (according to Democratic or Republican registration), state judicial officers (Judges for Court of Appeals), and four Constitutional amendments. Voters who live in the Greenville city school district will receive a city Board of Education ballot and those who live in the county school district will vote for Pitt Board of Education candidates. Residents of the Bethel and Carolina townships will have the opportunity to vote for a District 6, House of Representatives candidate.

Veteran First District Rep. Walter B. Jones will be opposed in his re-election bid for the Democratic Party nomination tomorrow by Thomas B. Brandon III of Robersonville. GOP candidates seeking the First District seat are James McIntyre III of Greenville and Gene Leggett of Emerald Isle.

Democratic candidates for the state's 9th Senatorial District seat will be incumbent Sen. Vernon White of Winterville and Linwood E. Mercer of Farmville. Sallie C. Keel of Greenville is unopposed as the GOP hopeful for the seat.

Sam D. Bundy of Farmville and Ed N. Warren of Greenville, incumbent members of the General Assembly, are unopposed in their re-election efforts for the two 9th House District seats.

Robert L. Shoffner Jr., a public defender, and Thomas D. Haigwood, chief assistant district attorney for this district, are seeking the Judicial District 3-A district attorney post now held by Eli Bloom, who is not running for re-election. Incumbent Sheriff Ralph L. Tyson has primary opposition from Farmville Police Chief Ronald (Ron) Cooper.

Seeking the 5th District seat on the Pitt Board of County Commissioners will be J. Elliott Dixon, Ronald H. Garris, Walter E. Gaskins, Robert A. Halstead, and Charles McLawhorn. Alton Gardner, who has occupied the District 5 seat representing Ayden, Grifton and Swift Creek townships for 27 years, is not running for another term. Incumbent Commissioners Burney Tucker (District 4) and Kelly Barnhill (District 1) are unopposed in their re-election efforts.

Running for the three four-year seats available on the city Board of Education will be Erma S. Carr (incumbent), Donovan Phillips Jr. (incumbent), Pennie J. Dunn, Wilson C. Rhodes, George E. Williams, and Mary P. Williams.

Seeking six-year terms on the Pitt County Board of Education will be: Anne McGaughey (incumbent), representing Farmville township; Ivan Hill, R. T. McCarter, and Stephen W. Tripp, all representing Ayden township; and Mark W. Owens Jr., (incumbent), representing Fountain, Falkland and Bell Arthur townships.

Candidates for the one 6th District House seat will be Democrats John B. Gillam III of Windsor (incumbent representative from the old 5th District), Jananne B. (Jan) Ocamb of Route 2, Williamston, and William D. (Bill) Harrison of Route 3, Williamston.

Sandra Gaskins, incumbent Pitt County Clerk of Superior Court, faces no primary opposition as she seeks a new four-year term.

If second primaries are necessary, the balloting will take place on July 27. The general election is scheduled for Tuesday, Nov. 2.

Arafat Seeking A Way Out

PLO Ready For Retreat

By ALY MAHMOUD
Associated Press Writer

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Despite public vows to "fight until victory or martyrdom," the leadership of the Palestine Liberation Organization has agreed in principle, during secret negotiations, to a face-saving retreat from Lebanon, official Lebanese sources said today.

The sources said, however, that it may take weeks to settle the details of a withdrawal that would spare the Moslem western half of Beirut from a threatened assault by Israel. The PLO has operated a "state within a state" in Lebanon for 12 years.

Meanwhile, the most recent cease-fire arranged by U.S. mediator Philip C. Habib was broken early today when Palestinian guerrillas fired mortars at Israeli troops in the coastal Lebanese town of Damour, 11 miles south of Beirut. Three Israelis were wounded, according to the Israeli military command in Tel Aviv.

The cease-fire appeared to be holding through a third day, however, the longest respite from violence since Israel invaded Lebanon on June 6. Israel's Cabinet said Sunday Israeli troops would adhere to the cease-fire unless fired upon.

Israeli armor, heavy artillery and motorized infantry at full division strength continued to seal off PLO-dominated west Beirut and its 600,000 residents by land while the Israeli navy maintained a tight blockade offshore.

The U.S.-led indirect negotiations focused on ways to disarm and evacuate the 8,000 guerrillas in west Beirut without accepting the alternative offered by Israel — safe passage to Syria under the eyes of Israeli troops.

That concept was rejected as "humiliating," by PLO leader Yasser Arafat.

Lebanese officials said the Israelis and the Palestinians agree in principle that a disengagement be supervised by the Lebanese army, previously resisted by the PLO as an "unacceptable interference" in its war with Israel. The Lebanese army, which has been powerless to enter PLO-controlled areas, would accept the bulk of the weapons of the PLO forces and assume authority in west Beirut, sources describing the negotiating points said.

Lebanese sources said talks involving Habib, former Lebanese Prime Minister Saeb Salam — who is acting as an intermediary — and through them Arafat and Israeli leaders, were searching for "an honorable" way for the PLO to withdraw after handing over its weapons.

One suggestion, the sources said, was for passenger ships, flying the PLO flag, to enter the Beirut harbor with an escort from the French navy, and then take the guerrillas either to Egypt or Syria.

That concept involved many details. Arafat wanted assurances that Lebanon would not expel the estimated 500,000 Palestinian civilians living in the country, most of whom were born in Lebanon or parents who fled what is now Israel, the sources said.

Shuttle Flight Routine

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The space shuttle

soared through the first full day of Mission 4 today, its astronauts plunging into a flurry of tests and exchanging coded messages about a Pentagon payload that symbolizes a marriage of the civilian and military space programs.

Columbia, launched so brilliantly Sunday, hummed along on its last test flight with no major problems.

"All the things people have said about this machine are true," commander Ken Mattingly said in praise of Columbia's performance.

There were some troubles. The booster rockets that were to have been recovered for reuse sank in the Atlantic Ocean, a $36-million loss. The spacecraft also developed a spacing jet leak and a high temperature reading on a fuel cell, but officials said these would not affect the mission.

And for the second day, Mattingly and pilot Henry Hartsfield were unable to turn on a science experiment developed by Utah college students.

Slight Rise For Pitt Unemployed

Pitt County's unemployment rate for May registered in at 8.4 percent, up half a percentage point from the 7.9 percent from the month of April.

Jim Hannan, manager of the Greenville office of the Employment Security Commission, notes the Pitt County increase in unemployment is parallel to the statewide increase, which went from 8.2 percent in April to 8.7 percent in May.

"The rise in unemployment, in both Pitt County and North Carolina," Hannan said, "was primarily due to the number of students seeking permanent or summer work." Hannan added that "fewer jobs are available in industry for youth this summer, mostly attributable to effects of the economic recession."

To help alleviate the job shortage picture for young people, Hannan and his staff are making an all-out effort to solicit job openings for youth.

A Youth Coordinator has been designated to direct job finding for area youth.

"I strongly encourage area employers and residents to phone in any job openings for the summer, regardless of the duration of the jobs," Hannan commented. (Telephone 756-2686).

Hannan noted that a brighter side to the picture results from the fact that "agricultural employment begins rising this time of year and is already responsible for offsetting some of Pitt County's unemployment. Many students have already been recruited for farm work in the summer."

Another facet of the local employment procedure, Hannan points out, is that "veterans are given preference in the job placement process, whether they're younger workers seeking summer work or older persons seeking permanent jobs."

In view of the problems brought on by the national recession, Hannan believes "Pitt County is fairing very well. The unemployment rate of 8.4 percent is well below that of the nation, which for May was 9.1 percent."

Varied Counts After Pursuit

Randall Keith Lewis, 19 of Elizabeth City, was arrested by Greenville police on burglary, rape and other charges Saturday night following a 40 mile chase which ended south of Lewiston, in Bertie County.

According to Chief Glenn Cannon, two other men are being sought for questioning in connection with the incident.

Two Greenville police cars were damaged in traffic collisions during the chase, while a third caught fire and burned.

The chief explained that Lewis and two other men allegedly entered a Higgs Street home, raped a woman, and took a quantity of items from the residence before the police arrived at the scene.

Cannon said the chase began when a neighbor reported suspicious activity at a Higgs Street dwelling about 10:30 p.m. He said responding officers saw a car speed from the scene and gave chase.

The car traveled over several streets in the area, then west on Dickinson Avenue and north on Memorial Drive, where a police car driven by William Earl Barnhill collided with a vehicle driven by Delores Payton Wooten of 135 Charles Lane.

Investigating Highway Patrolman J. B. Heath, who charged Ms. Wooten with failing to see her intended movement could be made in safety, said the Wooten car swerved into the path of the police car as Barnhill attempted to pass.

Damage was estimated at $100 to the city vehicle and $1,000 to the Wooten car.

As the chase continued toward Bethel, the Lewis car, according to Cannon, ran at least four south-bound cars off the roadway but no damage was reported, while in Bethel, a Greenville patrol car caught fire and was destroyed.

As the chase continued north of Bethel on N.C. 11, another Greenville police vehicle was wrecked and at least two other

PASSERBY MAY HAVE SAVED STORE

Cliff Taff of Taff Office Equipment Company here said he'd like for Hotline to pay tribute to Chip Dickens, a young man who he feels saved his Evans Street store from burning Friday, June 18. He said he is told that Dickens apparently spotted a blaze coming from the back of the building about 6:30 p.m. and continued directly to the Greenville Fire Department to report the fire. The dumpster behind the store had caught on fire, Taff said, and the fire had already spread inside the building and had set some cases of merchandise on fire. Firemen were able to put the fire out before it spread to the rest of the building and even to prevent serious smoke damage by use of fans to send the smoke out the back. In addition to Dickens, Taff said he also feels the fire department should be commended for the able firefighting and the Greenville Public Works Department for its quick replacement of the burned-out dumpster.

He asked that Dickens come by the store so he can personally thank him for the service rendered him.

Double Ring Vows Solemnized Sunday

The Oakmont Baptist Church here was the scene of the wedding ceremony of Gail Renee Gurnee and David Gregory Vaughn Sunday afternoon at three o'clock. E. Gordon Conklin performed the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Ruby M. Gurnee of Greenville. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Frank G. Vaughn of Greenville.

A program of wedding music was presented by organist Becky Tyndall and soloist Debra Bowen, cousin of the bridegroom.

The bride, escorted by Emmett H. Wiggins, wore a formal-length gown of white tissue taffeta over peau de soie designed with a high neckline encircled with alencon lace. The fitted bodice was enhanced with beaded brussels lace outlined in re-embroidered alencon lace beaded with seed pearls. Tissue taffeta fashioned the short puff sleeves edged in alencon lace. Self-fabric cording outlined the dropped waistline. The full skirt and attached semi-formal train were accentuated with re-embroidered alencon lace edging. She wore a fingertip veil of illusion with pencil edging held in place by a Juliet cap overlaid in re-embroidered alencon edging beaded with pearls. Appliques of alencon lace were scattered over the illusion. She carried a bouquet of white daisies, miniature white and yellow carnations with baby's breath, ivy and baker fern greens accented with white lace ribbons.

Mrs. Donna Jordan of Florence, S.C., served as her sister's matron of honor. She wore a formal-length gown of print organza in shades of blue, yellow and green designed with a portrait neckline with ruffled bertha collar and empire bodice. The flared skirt of the sleeveless gown was accented with a deep ruffled flounce at the hemline overlaid by a southern belle pick-up skirt also featuring a ruffled flounce with side swag and rolled tie bow trim. She carried a bouquet of white and yellow daisies with baby's breath, ivy and baker's fern with yellow lace ribbon.

Bridesmaids were Donna Brummitt of Oxford, Donna Keel of Edenton and Mrs. Carolyn Dickerson of Greenville. They wore dresses identical to that of the matron of honor. The each carried a bouquet of yellow daisies, miniature white carnations and baby's breath with ivy and baker's fern tied with white lace ribbon.

Serving as best man was the father of the bridegroom. Ushers were Danny Gurnee of New Jersey, brother of the bride; and Chip Cayton, Jeff Wilson and Chuck Coggins, all of Greenville.

The wedding was directed by Mrs. Rachel Watkins of Raleigh.

A reception was held in the chuch following the ceremony. The cake was served by Betty Hinnant and punch was poured by Mrs. Diane Hinnant. Presiding at the guest register was Brenda Foley. Rice bags were passed out by Kelly Beaman and Ann Ellen. Good-byes were said

MRS. DAVID GREGORY VAUGHN

by Mr. and Mrs. Henry Cayton.

A pig picking was held after the rehearsal at the home of the parents of the bridegroom. A brunch honoring the bride was held at the home of Mrs. Jarvis Beaman.

The bride is a graduate of John A. Holmes High School, Edenton, and is attending Pitt Community College. The bridegroom graduated from J.H. Rose High School and is a student at Pitt Community College. Both the bride and the bridegroom are employed by Frank G. Vaughn, contractor.

After a wedding trip to Florida, the couple will reside in Greenville.

Miss Hignite And Mr. Carter Speak Vows

In a double ring ceremony held Sunday at 3 p.m., Beth Ann Hignite and Donald Cyrus Carter were united in marriage in Memorial Baptist Church, Greenville. The wedding was conducted by the Rev. E.T. Vinson.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard E. Hignite of Greenville, was given in marriage by her parents and escorted by her father. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. J. Worth Carter Sr. of Fayetteville.

The bride wore a floor-length gown with chapel train of chiffonette and silk Venise lace over taffeta. The fitted bodice featured a Queen Anne neckline and full-length puff sleeves. Silk Venise lace motifs etched with seed pearls adorned the bodice, outlined the neckline, and were applied on the chiffonette sleeves. The full-length flared skirt extended into a chapel train. She wore a layered chapel-length mantilla bordered with lace and a fluted hand-rolled edge flowing from a lace caplet etched with seed pearls for her headpiece. She carried a cascade of white orchids, white philanopsis, stephanotis, and greenery tied with a white satin ribbon.

The matron of honor was Laurie Hignite of Washington, N.C.; the maid of honor, Charlotte Carter of Fayetteville, sister of the bridegroom. Bridesmaids were Janet Hignite of Greenville, Ellen Hignite of Raleigh, Delores Carter of Goldsboro, Susan Rhoades of Wilmington, Pat Ray of Raleigh, Coleen Lemmah of Greenville, and Laurie Chutter of Virginia Beach. The junior bridesmaid was Michelle Hignite of Greenville. The attendants wore jacketed coral voile over taffeta floor length gowns and carried nosegays of mixed flowers.

Alicia Hignite of Washington, was flower girl. She was dressed like the other attendants and carried a basket of mixed flowers.

The mother of the bride wore a lavender silesta floor length gown. The mother of the bridegroom wore a silesta a-line seafoam gown with a rhinestone trim neckline and matching long sleeved jacket. Both wore white orchid corsages. Mrs. Guy Eubanks of Maysville, grandmother of the bride, wore a floral floor-length gown and was remembered with a corsage of white orchids.

Worth Carter, brother of the bridegroom of Goldsboro, was best man. Ushers were Ron Hignite of Washington; Baron Hignite of Raleigh; Darrell and Randy Hignite of Greenville; Jimmy Smevog of Fayetteville, John Gatton of Jacksonville, Fla.; and Charles Archer and Bobby Edwards of Roanoke Rapids. Junior usher was Guy Hignite, nephew of the bride of Raleigh. Ring bearer was Keith Hignite, nephew of the bride of Greenville. Candlelighter was Cole Ray, cousin of the bride of Raleigh.

A program of organ music was provided by Joe Goodwin. Among the songs was "The Lords Prayer," presented by Ron, Baron, Darren, and Randy Hignite, brothers of the bride.

The reception was given by the parents of the bride in the church fellowship hall. Assisting were Mr. and Mrs. Ivey Collins of Jacksonville, Mrs. Alvin Back of Michigan, Mrs. Earl Hignite of Indiana, Mrs. A.C. Carter of St. Pauls, Mrs. Jack Williams of Fayetteville, Sandra Simpson, Beth Willetts, Grant Hignite of Raleigh, Brent Hignite of Washington, Worth Carter III of Goldsboro, and Mr. and Mrs. Wiley Lewis of Wilmington. The wedding was directed by Mrs. Albert D. Cox of Wilmington.

An after-rehearsal dinner was given by the mother of the bridegroom at the Holiday Inn. The bridesmaids luncheon was held Saturday at the Three Steers. The bride graduated from East Carolina University with a B.S. in English. The bridegroom graduated from East Carolina University with a B.S. in business administration. Both are employed by East Carolina University while attending graduate school. Following a wedding trip to Florida, the couple will reside in Greenville.

BAKED PORK CHOPS

The coating often helps to tenderize the meat.
Six 3/4-inch-thick loin pork chops
1/4 cup all-purpose flour
1/4 cup yellow cornmeal
1 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1 large egg
2 tablespoons milk
Oil

Sliced mozzarella cheese
Medium tomato, cored and cut into 6 slices

1/4 teaspoon dried crushed oregano

Trim excess fat from around chops; coat with a mixture of the flour, cornmeal, salt and pepper. Beat the egg and milk enough to combine; dip chops, one at a time, in the egg mixture; coat again with the flour mixture. In a large skillet in a little hot oil brown the chops on both sides. Arrange in a 12 by 8 by 2-inch broiler-proof baking dish; cover dish tightly with foil. Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven for 1 hour. Uncover; place a cheese slice (cut to fit) over each chop; top each with a tomato slice; sprinkle with oregano. Broil several inches from high heat until cheese melts — a minute or two. Makes 6 servings.

After 48 years, Eli Bloom finally found a good reason not to run for District Attorney: Tom Haigwood.

Tom Haigwood is the kind of hardworking man that Eli Bloom thinks would make a good replacement for him in the job he loves.

And Eli Bloom ought to know: Tom's been Assistant District Attorney for over nine years.

But hard work and good character isn't all it takes. There's staying power too. As a Pitt County native, Tom views election to District Attorney as a career move. Not a stepping stone to other offices.

Couple Speaks Vows Sunday In Farmville

FARMVILLE — Frankie Lynn Taylor of Farmville and Howard Jackson Tucker of Greenville were married in a Sunday ceremony in the United Methodist Church of Farmville. The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Wilbur I. Jackson.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Carl Driscoll Lineberger of Farmville and the late Frank Earl Taylor. The bridegroom is the son of Dr. and Mrs. James Houston Tucker Sr. of Greenville.

A program of wedding music was performed by organist Kelly Hobgood and Julie Tucker, soloist.

The bride, given in marriage by her parents and escorted by her father, wore a formal gown of white organza over peau do soie designed with a v-neckline outlined in re-embroidered alencon lace beaded with pearls. The fitted bodice was embellished with beaded alencon lace which encircled the waistline. The back bodice also formed a v-outlined in matching lace. Appliques of re-embroidered alencon lace enhanced the sheer bishop sleeves and trim fitted cuffs. The modified A-line skirt and attached chapel train were edged in re-embroidered alencon lace. Motifs of the matching lace were scattered over the skirt and train. She wore a waltz-length veil of illusion edged in re-embroidered alencon lace held in place by a caplet overlaid in lace beaded with pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of white French roses and stephanotis.

Doris Bryan Simonowich of Greenville was matron of honor. She wore a formal gown of pink dotted swiss over taffeta designed with an open squared neckline, satin miniature shoulder straps and fitted bodice. The waistline was encircled with a satin ribbon and bow from which fell the full circular skirt. The sleeveless gown was enhanced with a matching caplet. She carried a nosegay of mixed daisies and multicolored French ribbons.

Bridesmaids were Julie Harris Tucker of Greenville, Pamela-Jane Cole of Wilmington and Donna Worthington Williams of Greenville. Cathy Denise Taylor of Farmville was a junior attendant. They each wore dresses and carried flowers identical to that of the honor attendant.

Tori Lee Gray of Farmville served as the flower girl and was dressed similar to the honor attendant and carried a white wicker basket of mixed daisies and French multicolored ribbon. The ringbearer was Joseph Michael Simonowich of Greenville.

The mother of the bride wore a formal length gown of white chiffon with a multi-colored floral print over taffeta. The mother of the bridegroom chose a formal gown of peach georgette. They wore corsages of cymbidium orchids. The grandmothers of the bride were remembered with corsages of white glamelias.

The father of the bride-

MRS. HOWARD JACKSON TUCKER

groom was best man. Ushers were James Houston Tucker Jr. of Morehead City and Richard Lee Tucker of Greenville, brothers of the bridegroom, Michael Bryan Taylor of Farmville, brother of the bride, Herbert William Whitesell of Pinehurst and Jeffrey Clark Bundy of Farmville.

The wedding was directed by Jean Beamon of Farmville.

A reception given by the bride's parents was held in the fellowship hall. Assisting were Kay Taylor, Mae Tucker, Lillie Parks, Jane Allen, Lou Ann Mozingo, Pam Harrell, Ginny Chase, Mary Daniel of Oxford, Sally Mozingo, Mrs. Peggy Brann, Laura Catherine and Evelyn Buck, Valane Allen and Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Mack Smith.

An after-rehearsal dinner was given by the parents of the bridegroom at the Colonial Inn, Farmville.

A bridesmaids luncheon was held Saturday at noon in the home of Patti Worthington of Greenville. Hostesses were Donna Worthington Williams, Jean Beamon, Pam Harrell, Elanor Evans and Cammie Bryan.

A lingerie shower was given at the home of Doris Simonowich of Greenville. Hostesses were Julie Tucker of Greenville, Kay Taylor, Linda Gray and Lou Ann Mozingo.

The bride and bridegroom are recent graduates of East Carolina University. The bridegroom is employed by the CPA firm of Deloitte, Haskins & Sells in Raleigh.

After a wedding trip to Hatteras Island, the couple will reside in Raleigh.

Vows Exchanged On Sunday

The 5:00 p.m. wedding of Barbara Ann Parks and Elder Linwood Mooring Sr. was conducted Sunday at Selvia Chapel Free Will Baptist Church, Greenville, by the Rev. Clifton Gardner.

The bride is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Emmitt Williams Sr.; the bridegroom, the son of Mrs. Carrie E. Mooring and the late George Mooring. The bride's brother, Sylvester Williams, gave her in marriage during the double-ring ceremony directed by Mrs. Annie Teel of Greenville.

The bride wore a formal gown of white lace over silk with an open neckline outlined in beaded re-embroidered alencon lace with white pearls. She carried a bouquet of blue and white mums, white daisies and miniature carnations tied with blue and white streamers.

The matron of honor was Mrs. Shirley Gray of Winterville. She wore a formal gown of orange polyester and crepe over laced bodice and sleeves. A white mum was worn in her hair and she carried a single mum with blue and white streamers.

Bridesmaids were Miss Cynthia Phillips, daughter of the bride, of Winterville; Mrs. Dollie May, sister of the bride, of Greenville; Mrs. Katherine Ruffin, daughter of the bridegroom, of Greenville; and Mrs. Carrie Battle of Rocky Mount. They wore formal gowns of baby blue polyester and crepe over laced bodices and sleeves and wore blue mums in their hair. Each carried a single mum with blue and white streamers.

The flower girl was Miss Bianca Murchinson of Greenville, niece of the bridegroom. She wore a formal gown of orange polyester and a white mum in her hair and carried a white wicker basket of white roses.

A reception for the couple was held in the church dining hall. Cake was served by Mrs. Floria Little and Mrs. Juanita Anderson. PUNCH was poured by Mrs. Ann Mason and Mrs. Louise

MRS. LINWOOD MOORING SR.

The ring bearer was Calvin Parks, son of the bride, of Winterville.

Ushers were Ricky Phillips, son of the bride, of Fort Bragg; Dennis Phillips, son of the bride, of Winterville; Ronald Redmond, nephew of the bridegroom, of Fort Bragg; and Mike Smith of Fort Bragg.

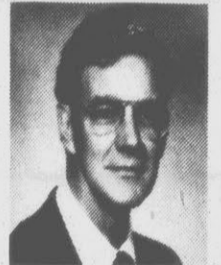

Music was provided by Michael Johnson, organist, and Mrs. Mary Carmon and Mrs. Bessie Edwards, vocalists.

After a wedding trip to unannounced points, the couple will live in Greenville. Elder Mooring is assistant pastor of Selvia Chapel Church and is employed by Eastern Construction Company of Greenville and also as a licensed barber. His bride is employed by Empire Brushes of Greenville. He is a graduate of Christian Baptist School in Baltimore, Md. and of Vocational High Training School, also in Baltimore.

A reception for the couple was held in the church dining hall. Cake was served by Mrs. Floria Little and Mrs. Juanita Anderson. PUNCH was poured by Mrs. Ann Mason and Mrs. Louise Atkinson. The register was attended by Mrs. Jessie Mooring Jones, who also passed out rice bags. Mrs. Mary Maye and Mrs. Lela Hines presided at the gift table.

Pat's Pointers

By Pat Trexler

Here's a brand new stitchery idea — molded plastic frames with 10-mesh plastic canvas permanently attached to the frames. Stitch a small design on each of several of these inexpensive "Stitch-a-Frames" (they retail for approximately 50 cents apiece) and hang them in a small grouping, use them for place cards or small favors — or use them as shown here as neat little lids for needlepoint boxes. The frames are approximately 3 inches by 4 inches.

The boxes are made from sheets of 10-mesh plastic canvas in colors to match the lids. Five of the boxes are shown with the sides worked in a beginner-easy pattern stitch with the sixth box left plain, with only the colored canvas showing. Either way, these neat little boxes will be much appreciated gifts, useful for holding any number of small items.

The instruction leaflet includes charts for six charming flower designs, all of them just as suitable for counted cross-stitch or traditional needlepoint canvas as well as for the Stitch-a-

Frames. Or try them on 7-mesh plastic canvas as large single designs for totes, tissue box covers, phone book covers or any of a variety of other uses.

To obtain the Flower Charts and directions for making the Trinket Boxes, send your request for Leaflet No. N627L with 12 and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to: Pat Trexler ("The Daily Reflector"), P. O. Box 810, North Myrtle Beach, S.C. 29582.

Or you can order Kit No. N-627K, by sending a check or money order for $12.50 to Pat Trexler at the same address. Each kit included the leaflet, needle, six Stitch-a-Frames, matching sheets of 10-mesh canvas, and sufficient yarn for working the flower designs and boxes. The frames are available in sky blue, pastel pink, sunny yellow, white, Christmas red or holly green. You may order all of one color or an assortment of any three of the above. Suitable yarn colors will be included for the flower designs.

If you are not already a collector of charted designs, now is a great time to start. Perhaps you don't realize how many different ways you can use such charts.

Many of them are planned for use in specific needlepoint or counted cross-stitch patterns, but any can be adapted to knit, crochet, latch-hook and even macrame.

When designs are charted on graph paper, each square of the chart will represent one stitch unless you are advised differently. As a rule, all blank squares are worked in the background color while symbols representing the various other colors are drawn in other squares to denote where those colors are used.

An important consideration when you using the chart is the finished size of the design. This is easy to determine by counting the number of squares at the widest point in each direction and dividing those numbers by your stitch count or gauge.

For example, the pansy design, shown in the lower left corner of the accompanying photograph, covers 25 squares from top to bottom and 32 squares across. On 10-mesh canvas, this design will be 2 1/2 inches high and a little over 3 inches wide.

The same design on 7-mesh canvas would be approximately 3 1/2 inches high and 4 1/2 inches wide. With 3-mesh rug canvas, your approximate design area would be 8 1/3 inches by almost 11 inches.

The same principle would be used in figuring the design for knitting or crochet. If you are getting a stitch gauge of four stitches per inch, the design would be 6 1/4 by 8 inches.

To use a chart for knitting, you can either knit the design in, using the Fair Isle technique or you can embroider the design in duplicate stitch or cross stitch. For crocheting, you can work in the Tapestry Crochet technique or embroider in cross stitch.

While I have discussed Fair Isle knitting and tapestry crochet in previous columns, I will include this information again in future columns for those of you who may not have saved the earlier ones. I'll also discuss the use of color designs in macrame in more detail at a future date.

PITT COUNTY NEEDS A REAL CHANGE!

Vote for the only candidate with 11 years experience in the criminal courts of Pitt County.

VOTE

ROBERT L. (BOB) SHOFFNER, JR.

FOR DISTRICT ATTORNEY

Paid for by friends and supporters of Robert L. Shoffner, Jr.

Voting Is Important

Tomorrow voters will have the opportunity to go to the polls and participate in Democratic and Republican primaries, school board elections and to determine the fate of several state Constitutional amendments.

Voters will find ballots for U.S. Congress, State Senate and House races, Pitt sheriff and district attorney races, N.C. Court of Appeals and four Constitutional amendments.

All these items are important. Both Democrats and Republicans will be choosing their candidates for U.S. Congress for the general election of next November.

Candidates in various other races will be determined by tomorrow's voting. In addition new city and county Board of Education members will be elected in the Tuesday balloting. Changes in the N.C. Constitution could be made which will affect all of us.

It is clear that voting is important tomorrow. One vote might not seem important but the cumulative total of the votes will determine our leaders for several years.

Registered voters should make every effort to go to the polls tomorrow and participate in determining our future.

The Haig Bombshell Drops

The bombshell last week was the resignation of Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr.

There was a terse announcement by President Reagan, the announcement of Haig's successor and then... no questions.

The world was left to ponder the abrupt departure of the man responsible for the United States foreign affairs policies, particularly at a time when sensitive policy issues such as the Falkland Islands conflict and the Middle East war are hanging.

Does this mean that forces opposed to Haig's policies have gained the upper hand? Did Haig feel he did not have the full backing of the Reagan administration?

This is an incredible change in the Reagan cabinet, particularly coming at this time. Both our friends and enemies around the world are watching and wondering.

AND A BIG FIGURE IN THE CAMPAIGN---

BY ART BUCHWALD

The 'Brand X' Approach

Sometime back the Republican Party decided to launch a $1.7 million TV campaign to sell the GOP. They sought out an advertising agency and told them, "We've got to convince the American people that the only way to stop bad breath is by using Reaganomics. We want to show them that the best cure for the 'recession blahs' is a strong dose of supply-side economics. And we have to persuade the viewer that the President doesn't have ring around the collar."

The advertising agency boss told them, "You came to the right place. Belch, our creative vice president, has been working on just such a campaign. Show them way you've come up with."

Belch went over to a large easel. "Gentlemen, we must treat the Republican Party just like another consumer product. We have to convince the TV viewer that if he has hemorrhoids it's the Democrats' fault. Now our art department has sketched out a sample commercial. The first one shows actors that look like Jimmy Carter and Tip O'Neill. We will have a lawyer holding a will in which he reads what the Democrats have bequeathed Ronald Reagan, including a recession, unemployment and the highest interest rates in the history of the nation. As he's reading, Tip O'Neill is laughing like hell, and Jimmy Carter has that dumb grin on his face."

The Republican campaign managers studied it. Finally one of them said, "It's the old Brank X dirty trick gimmick. We're being negative, unfair, and some people would even say unscrupulous. I like it."

Another Republican nodded his head. "It's got the scary message we've been looking for, without the overkill. It will get the people thinking they're using the wrong deodorant."

ART BUCHWALD

Belch said, "We've tested it in Palm Springs, Calif., and 80 percent of the people who saw it said it convinced them to vote Republican."

"That's good enough for us," the head Republican honcho said. "If the Democrats yell foul, we'll know we're on the right track."

Belch said, "If the campaign proves as effective as I think it is, we have some other great ones in the can. We plan to show Carter and Tip O'Neill driving by an unemployment office in a long limousine, and when they see the lines outside they start laughing their heads off. And we will have the two of the walking through a school lunchroom watching the kids eating catsup and chucking to each other."

The Republicans started slapping their thighs. The chief said, "Gentlemen, we've come to the right agency. You people can have our account. New let's run it up the flag pole and see how it plays in Peoria."

The first commercial was made. CBS and NBC refused to air it, but ABC decided it needed the money. Also, the independent stations put it on.

To everyone's surprise it wasn't selling Reaganomics. The head Republican honcho called up Belch in anger. "Our warehouse is full of supply-side economics. Our sales are just a trickle. What's wrong?"

"It takes time for a negative message to sink in," Belch told him defensively. "You have to play it over and over again."

"Baloney," the Republican said. "Everyone thinks we're doing a commercial for probate lawyers. We keep get-

A No-Sale Policy

RALEIGH—When the state Museum of Art opens its new building next April 5, aspiring North Carolina artists will find there's a lot more space for the display of their work. But the museum will no longer help sell their paintings for them.

The Collector's Gallery, now housed in a small first floor room in the old museum, will not re-open in the new building. The gallery, which is operated by the N.C. Art Society, sells and rents the works of North Carolina artists to the public.

The gallery is a good place to buy art work. Prices are fair and payment can be stretched out over 10 months. Artists obviously like the arrangement which has meant hundreds of sales during the eight years the gallery's been open.

With one gallery dedicated to North Carolina artists and another dedicated to contemporary artists, there should be two or three times more space to display the work of Tar Heel artists in the new building, says Edgar Peters Brown, museum director. If artists wish to sell these pieces, the museum will help interested buyers get in touch with them.

But there won't be a stock of 200 paintings taken on consignment and sitting on racks waiting to be sold, as is the case currently with The Collector's Gallery. Bowron says he wants a "steady and interesting diet of what's new in the state." If there's enough interest, some kind of artwork sale or rental function may be set up through the museum store after the new building opens, he says.

The short session of the General Assembly saw the filing of an important proce-goes to the teacher who asked Sen. Gilbert Boger of Mocksville to support teacher pay raises. During the meeting in his office, Boger refused to commit himself. He also mentioned in discussion that he had not gone to college.

Outside his office, the teacher asked her colleagues, "What are we doing talking to uneducated people like that?"

Boger heard the remark and walked out to the group. "You'd have been better off not having her down here," he recalls saying to the group's leader. "I didn't say I was uneducated, I just said I got no further than high school." He paused for a minute and decided to interject one more dig. "By the way, how much money did you make last week?" he asked. "I made $20,000."

Boger, a real estate developer, had just finished selling a large piece of land.

Other Editors Say Lagging Revenue

(Rocky Mount Telegram) Reports out of Raleigh indicate that North Carolina's general tax collections in May grew by less than 6 percent over the same month last year, signaling a continuation of the economic recession.

Revenue Secretary Mark Lynch says tax collections are many months behind the current economy, but they do indicate a continued recessionary period.

"In these figures I don't see any bottoming out, but I hope it's there," Lynch said in his monthly revenue report.

May general tax collections totaled $249.4 million, and collections for the 11 months of the fiscal year amounted to $2.8 billion, an increase of 8.3 percent over the same period of last year.

The monthly figure was somewhat distorted because of fluctuations in quarterly withholding payments. When adjusted, the growth figure was 7.5 percent — still below the 10 percent growth rate legislators had budgeted for the current year.

"It is of particular concern to me that even though the increase for the first six months showed an increase of 10.7 percent over the same six months of the previous year, the increase for January through May is only 5.7 percent," Lynch said.

Sales taxes, an indication of consumer spending, increased 5.2 percent for the 11 month period but only 1.3 percent for May. Sales taxes on new cars decreased 5.9 percent, compared to May 1981.

Gasoline taxes were up 41.6 percent for the month and 30 percent for the 11 month period, reflecting a hike in the gasoline tax that took effect last year and an increase in consumption.

Largely because of the new staggered system of issuing license tags, total highway fund revenues were up 57 percent for the month and 24 percent for the 11 months.

So, the state government continues to experience the kind of financial difficulties that the private sector — both individual and corporate — has been encountering. That is why it is imperative that the state's leaders seek every means available to cut unnecessary spending and make every dollar count.

Looking To Planned Tax Cut

By FLOYD NORRIS
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Taxes go down and Social Security benefits go up this week. What Americans do with the extra money may determine whether the worst recession since World War II ends soon.

A year ago the Reagan administration and its supply-side supporters fought for income tax cuts by arguing they would increase incentives to save and invest. But now the administration is counting on people to spend instead of save.

Administration officials, and many private economists, think the stimulus of all that money — nearly $1 billion a week in extra funds — will produce an economic recovery that will stem the rise in unemployment and stop the slide in corporate profits.

But other economists disagree. They predict interest rates will go even higher, thanks in part to the government's need to finance the tax cut by borrowing billions, and that the high interest rates will choke off any recovery. Some even see the recession growing much worse.

The stakes are high, both politically and economically. Many businesses are in trouble — factories are operating at their lowest level in seven years — and a new round of layoffs and bankruptcies could follow if the economy does not rebound. Politicians of both parties fear what voters will do in November if the recession worsens.

There are some tentative signs that consumers are leading the way to recovery. Retail sales rose in April and May, and car sales in May were up from last year's depressed levels, although they have since fallen. The Commerce Department estimates the economy has grown slightly in the quarter now ending, after shrinking for two quarters.

The 10 percent cut in tax rates will put an additional $800 million a week into consumers' pockets, and the 7.4 percent raise in Social Security benefits will add $150 million a week, calculates Lacy Hunt, the chief economist of Philadelphia's Fidelity Bank.

If most of that is spent, as Hunt and many other economists expect, the result could be an end to the recession. If consumers flock to stores, the decision will shift to wholesalers and manufacturers.

If they see the sales as a sign of recovery, and place new orders and rehire workers, economic growth could spread. The increased profits could ease the strain businesses are feeling and reduce the pressure on inter-

Proven No Fabrication

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
OCCUPIED LEBANON — Israel's accusation against the PLO as a rogue elephant whose arms and swagger created resentment and fear in Lebanon's largest cities was no fabrication.

That becomes clearer as the initial shock of the Israeli invasion dissipates and the Lebanese, picking up the threads of life, start talking.

The PLO was born out of Israel's statehood in Palestine and its later occupation of the West Bank and Gaza, creating generations of refugees. Once incorruptible, its extraordinary success in accumulating arms and money despite political failure to retrieve part of its land has made the PLO itself an occupying power — a power without responsibility.

The ambition of the PLO — Palestinian self-determination on the West Bank — remains an exemplary cause that President Reagan may soon decide needs redemption. But the PLO's methods of attaining it in Lebanon's cities we visited up to Beirut tend to support Israel's claim that the PLO has become permeated by thugs and adventurers.

"The worst elements in the PLO took over from the best," a Christian Lebanese surgeon told us in Sidon. A whiff of decaying flesh was in the air from bodies rotting under tons of debris bulldozed off the main streets.

We encountered the surgeon by chance. We asked him how the people of Sidon like the Israeli invaders. His answer: "If you want to know, come to my farm and see."

The farm, on a strategic hilltop overlooking the harbor, had been taken over without negotiation, compensation or advance notice by local PLO commanders in 1974. The house was littered with the refuse of six years — filthy uniforms, broken chairs, slogans on the walls. That was the least of it. Two small barns were packed with munitions, guns, dynamite, detonators, even made-in-America helmets still in their crates.

Hidden in the orchards were two heavy-artillery pieces. In a shed in the pig pen were dozens of unopened cartons of hand grenades. The wreckage of 12 automobiles, said by the surgeon-farmer to have been "requisitioned" by the PLO down in the city, littered the front yard.

"You ask how do we like the Israelis," the doctor. "Now you can see. Compared to the hell we have had in Lebanon, the Israelis are brothers."

While the PLO occupied and ravaged his farm, the surgeon-farmer lived in small downtown apartment. But for the 60,000 Lebanese in Sidon (a population that had swelled with 240,000 Palestinian refugees by the time the Israeli army arrived), surviving the PLO was another kind of hell.

A young teacher told us about it. A Shi'ite Moslem, she had lost an uncle killed in the Israeli invasion. Her brother was being held by the Israelis. That would seem to be reason for anger, but there was none. "We have not been able to keep our schools open," she told us. The PLO toughs made classrooms too dangerous. Girls were molested. Schools shut down.

With her were three other young Lebanese: a Maronite Christian, a Shi'ite Moslem and a Sunni Moslem. Each in turn told a similar story: an apartment taken over by the PLO, cars stolen, thievery in town up by a record 5,000 percent, vineyards and orchards ruined.

Israeli soldiers were conspicuous everywhere in Tyre and Sidon on our June 22 visit. They represented a totality of military power inconceivable to the only people contiguous to the Jewish state never — until June 6 — invaded by the might of Israel.

Strength For Today

VICTORY OVER FEAR

A man who had seen much military service told that his superior officer sent men into battle with the words, "You are dead already, so you have nothing to fear."

There is a basic truth wrapped up in these grim and heartless words uttered under these circumstances. When people utterly and without bitterness accept the inevitable, they find that they have nothing to fear. It may be death that they face; when they learn not to fear it, it has no power over them.

More often it is not death confronting them but some stirring challenge in everyday living. There are circumstances which they have to accept, trials they must endure, pains they must try to forget, loss upon which they must shut the door of memory.

When they can face this reality without bitterness against God or man, they find themselves in the pathway which leads upwards to the Heavenly City. — Elisha Douglass

Liston Ramsey Looks To Having A Permanent Job

By WILLIAM M. WELCH
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Liston B. Ramsey, finishing his first term as speaker of the state House and assured of another, is looking ahead to an unprecedented third term that could, in effect, make his job permanent.

historical limitation of two terms in the top House leadership position.

But he has quietly gained commitments for re-election as speaker not only in the next session but in 1985 as well.

Ramsey says he has commitments from 71 of the 96 current House members to support him for that third term. That doesn't lock the job for him, since there are two elections before then, but it comes close to it.

"Three-fourths of the Democratic House members have come by and told me if I was interested in running, they'd support me (for a third term), if they were here" Ramsey said in an interview.

Ramsey has no opposition to repeat as speaker in 1983, when Democrats are virtually certain to keep a majority. He says he hasn't solicited commitments beyond that.

He is accepting them, though.

"Yes, I write them down," he said. "A man would be a chump not to."

The speakership is a position of great influence derived from the power to appoint committees and assign bills. It traditionally was passed on after every two-year term amid intense, high-stakes campaigning among the majority House Democrats.

The tradition changed when Carl Stewart became speaker in 1977 and kept the job for an unheard of second term. And when Ramsey succeeded him last year, many legislators expected him to hang onto the post indefinitely.

Although he's a highly partisan Democrat, Ramsey drew high marks from throughout the House for the way he ran the recent session — a Republican sponsored a House resolution praising Ramsey last week.

But there are other ambitious legislators, too, and some lawmakers say Ramsey's inclination to keep the post has major implications.

"Now that you have a speaker with the capacity to succeed himself indefinitely, the opportunity to campaign against him is very limited," said Rep. Parks Helms, D-Mecklenburg. "It has fundamentally changed the process by which this legislature operates."

Helms unsuccessfully sought the speakership after Stewart, and while he has conceded the 1983 race to Ramsey, he still entertains a notion to seek the post in 1985. But Helms also recognizes the long odds against him, and he has put his plans on hold while he considers running for attorney general in 1984 instead.

Helms held influential committee positions when Stewart was speaker, but with Ramsey's rise Helms found himself without a committee chairmanship. Helms remained influential but had no leadership role in the 1981-82 sessions.

Ramsey, like any speaker, gave the plums to his supporters. And with Ramsey likely to try to keep his position permanently, Helms says that makes it difficult for anyone to try to mount an opposing campaign.

"You go back to past sessions — every two years somebody would be mounting a campaign for speaker, and people would be getting on the bandwagon," said

Helms. "Now, you can't get on the bandwagon until somebody else falls off."

The effect is compounded by other changes in government. With the governor and lieutenant governor serving second terms for the first time ever, those leadership positions have been frozen. In the Senate, most of the top committee jobs have remained in the same hands with Lt. Gov. Jimmy Green's two terms.

Should the proposed constitutional amendment giving lawmakers four-year terms pass in Tuesday's primary, the game would be changed further.

"I think Liston has been a good speaker in the sense he's been fair, willing to let every side of issues be debated," says Helms. "I guess my real philosophic difference is what it's done to the dynamics of this legislature."

To keep his position, of course, Ramsey must keep getting elected to his legislative seat and Democrats must hold the House majority. But he's unopposed back home this time and hardly seems in danger, and the Democrats' majority is so overwhelming — 80 percent — it doesn't appear to be in immediate danger either.

Perhaps with that in mind, Ramsey bid farewell last week to the dozen or so House Democrats that aren't seeking re-election, and to others whose voters haven't yet told them they won't be re-elected.

"Just bide your time and come on back," Ramsey said. "I'll still be here."

Queen Beatrix Winds Up Tour

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Queen Beatrix and Prince Claus of the Netherlands finish their 18-day, 12-city American tour tonight at a lavish dinner for some 600 people who have paid $75 each for the chance to dine with royalty.

The dinner, accompanied by music from the Albany Symphony, will be held in the billion-dollar marble plaza that Queen Beatrix is said to have inspired on her last visit to Albany, 23 years ago.

According to local legend, the late Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller was embarrassed by the sight of rundown neighborhoods surrounding the capitol when he was showing then-Princess Beatrix around the city in 1959. That supposedly prompted the governor to build the 98-acre state office complex that now dominates the city's skyline.

The 44-year-old Dutch monarch toured the Empire State Plaza on Sunday during a brief motorcade before a sparse crowd.

The American tour by the Dutch royal couple commemorates 200 years of uninterrupted diplomatic and trade relations between the two countries.

N.C. Weekend Traffic Claimed Lives Of Nine

By The Associated Press
Nine people died in traffic accidents in North Carolina over the weekend, including one death in which law enforcement officials suspect foul play.

The deaths bring the year's traffic toll in the state to 531, compared to 654 a year ago.

A spokesman for the state Highway Patrol said Ricky Lee Mills, 21, of Mocksville, was run over by an oncoming vehicle in a hit-and-run incident about 3½ miles south of Mocksville about 12:05 a.m. Saturday.

Mills had been lying in the roadway, the spokesman said. A Davie County Sheriff's Department spokesman says investigators are probing the possibility that Mills had been beaten and dumped onto the roadway before the accident.

A Highway Patrol spokesman said the death was being treated as a highway fatality until the investigation proves other factors were involved.

In other weekend traffic accidents, Curtis Lee Williams, 17, of Scotland Neck died Friday night in another hit-and-run accident. The patrol said a vehicle ran over Williams as he was lying on State Road 1804, about 1.5 miles northwest of Walnut Cove.

On Saturday, Steven Charles Carter, 28, of Reidsville, died when the vehicle he was driving left the highway 10 miles north of Greensboro and overturned.

James Steven Tesh, 23, of Winston-Salem died Saturday night when the motorcycle he was riding ran off State Road 1208 about 4.6 miles west of Lexington and struck a wire.

James Morris Curfman, 32, of Snow Hill, died Saturday night when the car he was driving veered off State Road 1312, went back across the road and threw him out. The accident occurred about 3.6 miles south of Walnutburg.

Sue Hoops Hopkins, 40, of Walnut Cove died about 5:20 p.m. Friday when her car crossed the centerline and struck another vehicle head-on, about five miles northwest of Walnut Cove.

Two people died late Friday when their car swerved to miss a truck, crossed the median on I-40 in Winston-Salem and ran head-on into a tractor-trailer outfit, police said.

The victims, both of Kernersville, were identified as Nellie Wilson McKaughan, 45, and Terry Hendrix Osborne, 23, police said.

A 24-year-old Newton man died about 3:25 a.m. Saturday when the motorcycle he was riding at high speed left the road and struck a tree, police said.

Police identified the victim as Steven Allen Coulter. The accident took place on rural paved road 1776 west of Conover City in Catawba County.

"You guys couldn't sell a Chrysler car to Lee Iacocca."

"Look," said Belch desperately, "maybe the commercial isn't doing everything we hoped it would. We'll change the campaign by being more positive. We could show the President eating jellybeans in the Oval Office, and then looking into the camera and saying 'The question you have to ask yourselves is, "Are you better off today than you were four years ago?"'"

"Don't bother," the Republican shouted. "Your agency is fired."

"But why?"

"Because, thanks to your stupid commercial, everyone in Peoria is going to vote for the Democrats."

Yet, in the two cities of Tyre and Sidon, there is reason to believe the Israeli casualty count: a total 250 killed and less than 1,000 wounded.

Perhaps those low casualties had some impact on the Lebanese when the shooting stopped. Perhaps the final outcome in Beirut will change opinions even here. But that seemed unlikely.

More probable in the aftermath of the Lebanese invasion is this: The PLO is justly accused of a grave disservice to the people who took them in here and to the people they represent. To themselves, the disservice is greatest of all.

Views On Dental Health

Kenneth T. Perkins, D.D.S. P.A.

CHILD'S FIRST DENTAL VISIT

A child going to the dentist for the first time is often a handful of anxieties. Any dentist using the right techniques can transform the most terrified child into a cooperative patient who is no longer afraid—a child who will leave the office with a smile on his face.

The first thing a dentist must do is convince the child of his honesty. Children are smart. They are not easily fooled. If a youngster is promised that a particular thing will be done, the dentist had better be sure he does it.

Usually, the dentist begins with something easy. He says, "Today I am going to count your teeth." And, after that, come what may, he must count the teeth, using whatever means necessary. Remember this: The child often cries before anything is done to him (even a first haircut). He is not hurt, and the dentist has to prove that he can be trusted to do exactly what he says he is going to do—no more, no less. The noise and hysterics generally disappear after the first visit. If the dentist establishes his reliability and that he is trustworthy, there will rarely be any more trouble.

Thousands Of Unwed Mothers Turn To Crittendon

By ELISSA McCRARY
Associated Press Writer
CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Thousands of unwed teenage mothers with no place to go in North Carolina have been taken in by Florence Crittendon Services in Charlotte, a unique maternity center that caters to the needs of unwed young mothers.

Since its founding in 1903, 18,000 young women have resided at the home. The center provides everything on its three-acre campus from a place to live to a state-approved school where students can continue their high school educations. Its programs help patients cope with their situations and plan for the future.

"Without the home (Crittendon), I'd be devastated, dead," says Jane Smith (not her real name), who at 19 is three years older than the average Crittendon resident. Ms. Smith still cries when she talks about the day last March when she found she was pregnant.

Unmarried and unable to face her family living in a small eastern North Carolina town, she ran away from college, then tried to kill herself with an overdose of sleeping pills. She failed in her suicide attempt and ended up in a hospital alone and afraid.

Statistics show that 8,000 unmarried teenagers in North Carolina and more than 300,000 nationwide have babies each year. North Carolina ranks fifth highest in the nation for babies born out of wedlock to teenage mothers.

According to studies, teenage mothers have special problems, such as a lack of knowledge about nutrition and prenatal care. Their babies tend to be premature, underweight and undernourished. Studies also show that pregnant teenage mothers are seven times more likely to attempt suicide than the average teenager.

Florence Crittendon Services, located near downtown Charlotte in a rambling, two-story building, operates the largest and most comprehensive residential maternity home in the country. At capacity, it can serve 65 residents at a time. Because of federal budget cuts, only about 30 women currently are living at the home.

Crittendon is a private, non-profit social-services agency. Its campus features a maternity home, a chapel and a school. The center also operates a two-story house off campus where six mothers and their infants live in a parenting-preparation program, a day-care program for the residents and a residential service for mothers who release their children for adoption.

The maternity home is located across the street from Charlotte Memorial Hospital, where most of the home's infants are delivered. After delivery, the mothers go back to the center where they are cared for by a nursing staff.

Crittendon's prenatal programs, self-esteem classes and parenting sessions are aimed at teenage mothers.

"We realize we're dealing with people who in some cases are still children themselves," said director Kenneth Sipes. "We have to meet their special needs, from what they eat to what they think of themselves. We have to help them learn to cope with a situation they shouldn't be having to deal with in the first place."

The center accepts single and divorced parents age 11 to 40. Women coming to the home for help are given a pre-admission tour and counseling. When a resident is accepted, a social-services worker is assigned to her for the duration of her stay for private counseling and support.

Each resident is required to sign a contract pledging to continue her high-school education if she is 16 or younger or to participate in the center's living-learning program 15 to 20 hours a week.

"We have rules here that we think will prepare our residents to pick up their lives more easily when they've had their babies," Sipes said. "Working, learning and helping others is required at Crittendon. It doesn't happen very often, but if we get someone who won't keep her promises, then we have to let her go."

While some of the stigma attached to being an unwed mother has softened over the past few years, Sipes said, many of Crittendon's residents don't want family or friends to know they're there. The service respects its residents' privacy by displaying only the street address on the front of its building, not its name. The front door is always locked and entry can be gained only by ringing the bell and stating the reason for the visit.

Although Crittendon is self-contained, with its own cafeteria, library and laundry, the residents are allowed to go on shopping trips around town and visit overnight with friends and relatives on weekends.

Sipes believes Crittendon's programs help keep down the repeat pregnancy rate among teenagers. The center's repeat-pregnancy rate is 60 percent lower than the national average. He also points to Crittendon's 50 percent adoption rate compared to 6 percent nationally.

"Over the years, the situation with pregnant teenagers has changed in that many times parents put pressure on the girls to keep their babies, whereas they used to want to get rid of the child," Sipes said. "While we don't encourage the girls to release their babies for adoption, we do counsel them on all their choices. In many cases, where a girl is 14 or 15, from a broken home and virtually on her own, it would be almost impossible for her to support herself and a child.

"Obviously, the effect of having a child on a teenager is traumatic," he said. "But we're not only trying to help the young mother deal with her situation, we're trying to keep the situation from happening again. We feel that the information we provide here helps her pick up her life and go on from here."

Ms. Smith, on her way home five days after her baby was born, said she plans to go back to college in the fall. She said her friends and most of her family don't know she had a baby.

"They would never understand and I would be considered such a bad person I would never be able to live there again," she said. "But the people at Florence Crittendon treated me like a normal person. My social worker is the best friend I ever had."

"These people showed me I could live through this and go on with my life," she said. "Without them, I don't know what people like me would do."

Tears fall from Ms. Smith's eyes again as she talks about the baby boy she gave birth to last week and the fact that she has given him up for adoption.

"You can't put into words what a traumatic experience all of it is," she said. "I felt like it was the end of the world. It's probably the hardest thing I'll ever go through in my life."

Decides Quit Ocean Swims

ISLE OF PALMS, S.C. (AP) — A 20-year-old man who survived a shark attack off a South Carolina beach says he'll probably go swimming again, but "not in the ocean."

Petty Officer 2nd Class Murray Branson of Centralia, Mo., was listed in good condition at the Naval Regional Medical Center this morning following the attack Saturday.

The beach was closed to swimmers Saturday after the 4:30 p.m. incident. It was reopened Sunday after authorities checked area waters for sharks.

Lt. Bobby Jernigan of the Isle of Palms Police Department said Sunday that lifeguards and the state Department of Wildlife and Marine Resources checked "real carefully," using boats and a helicopter. No sign of a shark was found.

Branson, who suffered a nine-inch bite on his left arm, will be in the hospital for several days under antibiotic treatment, a hospital spokesman said. He will be on convalescent leave for several weeks before returning to duty aboard the submarine Ben Franklin.

"I was swimming off the shore about waist-deep when I felt something tugging at my arm," Branson said Sunday. He said he called for help after he pulled his arm out of the water and found it was bleeding.

He was taken to shore by two men on a nearby sailboat, who put a tourniquet on his arm, according to Petty Officer 2nd Class Andrew Hoberek, a shipmate who was swimming with Branson. The injured man was then taken to the hospital.

Cars Involved In Collision

Naresh Chhaganlal Patel of 2725 South Memorial Dr. was charged with following too close after investigation of a 3 p.m. collision Friday on Greene Street, 75 feet north of the Fifth Street intersection.

Officers, who identified the drivers of the other cars involved as Lemuel Allen Barwick of Ayden, and Mark Kelly Smith of Route 6, Greenville, estimated damage from the mishap at $150 to the Barwick car, $700 to the Smith car and $1,500 to the Patel auto.

"There was no question it was a shark because of its action, the type of bite and width," Isle of Palms Mayor L. Clay Cable said Sunday. Cable said state wildlife workers said the bite indicated the shark was about five feet long.

Police said Saturday they believed a fishing boat dragging a fish net may have drawn the shark into shallow water.

Isle of Palms Police Chief Fred Thompson said there had not been a shark attack at the beach in 7½ years. He said there have been sightings in the past, but no attacks.

Dixon Means Business

To the Voters of Pitt County:

Elliott Dixon has proven that he is the best qualified candidate to become a member of the Pitt County Board of Commissioners.

I truly believe that Elliott Dixon will strive to secure and sustain strong, broadly based citizen involvement and commitment to preventing and solving problems facing our county. Elliott recognizes that the more voluntarism exercised by citizens, the more pressure that is put on government to do a better job.

I support Elliott Dixon because he believes that the community should encourage all levels, classes and groups of citizens to become involved in local government.

Elliott Dixon will be a representative of all people and as such, will seek to get input and feedback from all citizens in regard to the issues facing our county.

I plan to vote for Elliott Dixon on June 29, I hope you will.

Unprepared For Beauty Pageant

SHE'S A WINNER — Elizabeth Williams, a 22-year-old Shelby, N.C. native, reacts with joy after she was named Miss North Carolina for 1982 during ceremonies Saturday night at Memorial Auditorium in Raleigh. (AP Laserphoto)

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Elizabeth Gray Williams, the newly crowned Miss North Carolina 1982, says she wasn't as prepared for the pageant as she should have been.

"I wasn't as physically fit as I should have been," she told reporters Sunday afternoon. She won the title at Raleigh's Memorial Auditorium Saturday night.

Miss Williams, who is 5-foot-7 and weighs 112 pounds, says she plans to lose a few pounds before Miss America pageant in September by running and working out at a health spa.

The Shelby native, representing Greater Greensboro, used her singing talent to help capture the judges votes.

"I enjoy promoting my singing," Miss Williams said. She won Wednesday's preliminary talent competition with her rendition of "Climb Every Mountain" from Rodgers and Hammerstein's "The Sound of Music."

The green-eyed brunette is a 1982 graduate of Converse College in Spartanburg, S.C., where she majored in vocal performance. She plans to earn a masters degree at the Julliard School of Music in New York City enroute to what she hopes will be a professional singing career. For capturing the state title, Miss Williams won a $3,500 scholarship, a $2,000 cash award, several wardrobes, a fur coat and other prizes.

Miss Williams says she plans to brush up on her politics in preparation for her interview with the Miss America judges.

And if anyone should ask her why the state didn't ratify the Equal Rights Amendment, she says she'd tell them it isn't necessary.

"I already feel equal to men," Miss Williams said, adding that current laws offer equal opportunity to women.

In preparing for the Miss America pageant, she says she plans to take the advice given to her by the North Carolina Jaycees, sponsors of the state pageant.

"They said, 'Always be yourself and you'll be a winner,'" she said.

She says she is looking forward to the national contest so that she can promote her talent and her state.

"I want to promote North Carolina — the friendliness, warmth and graciousness," she said.

Prosecutor Finds Insufficient Donovan Evidence

WASHINGTON (AP) — Special Prosecutor Leon Silverman said today "there was insufficient credible evidence" to warrant prosecution of Labor Secretary Raymond J. Donovan on any of a variety of allegations of criminal activity made against him by FBI informants. "The special prosecutor concludes that no prosecution of the secretary on any of the allegations investigated is warranted or could successfully be maintained," wrote Silverman, concluding a six-month investigation.

On June 18 and June 22, the Brooklyn federal grand jury that was looking into the Silverman.

Donovan, who has retained President Reagan's confidence throughout the controversy, planned to make a statement later today, according to Labor Department sources. There was no immediate comment from White House officials.

The allegations focused on Donovan's activities as executive vice president of Schiavone Construction Co. of Secaucus, N.J., in late 1960s and 1970s before he joined Reagan's cabinet.

Silverman's investigation was triggered under the Ethics in Government Act by an allegation that Donovan in 1977 was present at a Long Island City luncheon at which Schiavone executives passed an envelope containing $2,000 in cash to the president of Local 29 of the Laborers International Union.

Silverman concluded there was insufficient evidence which to base a prosecution in that matter as well.

The prosecutor said that Mario Montuoro, a former secretary-treasurer of a local who made the allegations, "presented no implicating the secretary

But Silverman went on to say that the investigation revealed evidence one of the Montuoro allegations — that there so-called "no-show employees on one Schiavone Construct Company's New York City construction projects."

Silverman added there was evidence that perjury was committed before the grand jury with regard to the "no-show" employees.

"However, because that perjury was not committed by Secretary Donovan and because it did not involve or implicate the Secretary or any other person covered by the Ethics in Government Act, the special prosecutor determined to refer that matter to Department of Justice for further action."

RAYMOND DONOVAN

allegations unanimously decided not to indict Donovan "with respect to all organized crime allegations put before it."

The report said no evidence was found of ties between Donovan and organized figures:

"Extensive investigation produced insufficient credible evidence upon which to base any prosecution that the Secretary was untruthful in his denials (on organized crime ties) either before the Senate Labor Committee or the grand jury of any and all such associations."

The three-volume report by Silverman, consisting of over 1,000 pages, was released by the special panel of the U.S. Court of Appeals in Washington that appointed

Helms Sees Self Still In Senate's Minority

By The Associated Press Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., one of the Republican Senate leaders who was in office before the GOP became the majority party, says he and other Senate conservatives are still in the minority.

"Jesse Helms does not see himself as part of the majority," said Norman Ornstein, a political science professor at Catholic University and the American Enterprise Institute. "His role, as he sees it, has not changed. He's still trying to keep everybody honest on the right."

During the recent debate on the proposed extension of the 1965 Voting Rights Act, Helms delayed Senate Judiciary Committee meeting on it and then mounted a seven-day filibuster — even though the extension was co-sponsored by about 70 senators of both political parties and endorsed by Reagan.

"It wouldn't be the first time I've worked like a dog for nothing," Helms said shortly before beginning his filibuster, acknowledging his chances of success were slim.

But although he lost, Helms agreed to abandon his filibuster only after winning a promise from Senate leaders to consider issues he champions, such as returning prayer to schools and banning abortions.

Some senators say the drawback to Helms' tactics is that he might alienate key senators whose support he needs when issues like the tobacco program arise.

The week after the voting rights debate, Helms was unable to win unanimous consent to get a bill revising the federal tobacco program to the floor, meaning the changes may not be approved in time for the 1982 marketing season. Helms insisted his filibuster didn't affect the tobacco vote but other senators disagreed.

Last year, when the tobacco program narrowly escaped extinction, "a lot of people voted against tobacco because they wanted to stick it to Jesse," one senator told The Charlotte Observer.

A tobacco-state senator told The Observer that Helms was "the single largest negative" tobacco supporters had in dealing with the Senate.

Helms also held up several Reagan appointments to State Department posts in 1981, using one of his Senate prerogatives to question their loyalties and intentions. Helms won some minor concessions but the Senate Foreign Relations Committee eventually approved the appointments.

Helms and two other conservative Republican senators made skillful use of parliamentary procedure this year to scuttle revisions of the federal criminal code which they saw as too liberal — even though it was co-sponsored by conservative Sen. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina.

And recently Helms threatened to filibuster against a Senate resolution supporting Great Britain in the Falkland Islands war. Helms, who supported the Argentines' claim of sovereignty over the islands, managed to soften the language of the resolution which finally was approved by a 79-1 vote. Helms was the lone dissenter.

"Every conservative (in the Senate) is in the minority," Helms said in an interview in Washington last week.

Dentist Killed

WALSTONBURG — A Snow Hill dentist was killed Saturday at 9:40 p.m. in a one-car accident 3.6 miles south of Walstonburg on Rural Paved Road 1312.

Regional Medical Examiner Dr. Stan Harris said James Morris Curfman, 31, died of a broken neck. Investigating N.C. Highway Patrol officer C.W. Oakley said it appeared that Curfman's car ran off the right side of the road in a curve and he, the sole occupant of the vehicle, lost control while attempting to bring it back onto the pavement. The car ran into a ditch on the opposite side of the road and Curfman, who was thrown from the vehicle, apparently was killed instantly. Harris said the family reports that the dentist was nearing home after having visited his mother in Matthews, Va.

Pair Is Hunted

Greenville police are continuing their hunt for a man and woman, and the car they stole at gunpoint about 1 a.m. Sunday. Chief Glenn Cannon said this morning.

According to the chief, a man and woman, armed with a pistol, forced their way into a car driven by Clinton Leo Wilkes, 18 of Bell Arthur, which was stopped at a convenience store on Memorial Drive near the Fifth Street intersection.

The couple forced Wilkes to drive them to a point on secondary road 1509, near N.C. 11 a mile south of Bethel. There, they allegedly forced Wilkes from the car, shot at him three times, then drove off with his car.

Cannon noted that the incident was reported about 2:30 a.m. Sunday.

south-bound cars were run off the roadway by the Lewis vehicle.

A police car driven by Kenneth Ray Evans collided with Lewis car when it suddenly "slammed on brakes," Highway Patrolman J. W. Warren reported. Damage from that collision, at 11:05 p.m. two miles north of Oak City, was set at $800 to the police car and $10 to the car driven by Lewis.

The Lewis car finally stopped about four miles from the scene of the collision north of the Roanoke River in Bertie County.

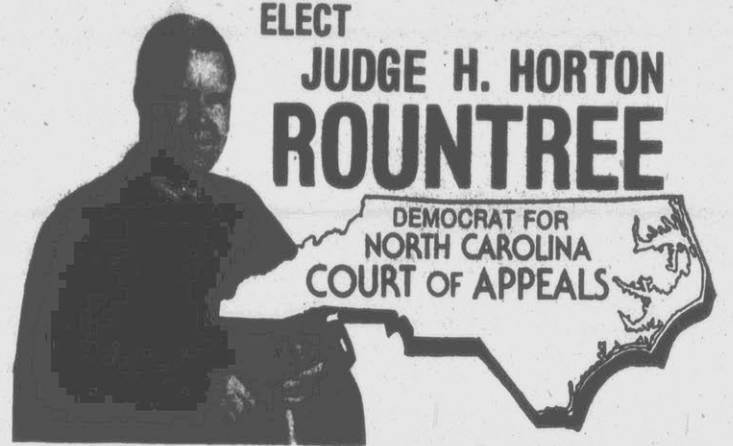

Lewis was charged by Trooper Warren with speeding 95 miles an hour, careless and reckless driving and driving while his license was suspended.

Cannon said that in addition to the burglary and rape charges, Lewis has been charged with larceny, injury to personal property, and assault with a deadly weapon (the vehicle, in connection with the wreck involving Evans).

Recovered from Lewis' car by officers following the chase were a quantity of clothing, china, several clocks, a stereo and a television set.

Cannon noted that in addition to local officers, at least three Highway Patrolmen from Pitt County, as well as troopers from Martin, Edgecombe and Hertford counties; police from Bethel, Lewiston and Woodville; and deputy sheriffs from Pitt, Martin and Bertie Counties assisted in the chase and apprehension of Lewis.

Across the state Sunday, skies were cloudy in the west and sunny along the coast. Some showers and thunderstorms developed in the western and southern portions of the state during the late afternoon and continued well into the evening.

Afternoon readings ranged in the 80s except for 70s in the mountains and low 90s in the sandhills. The warmest area was Fayetteville with 91 degrees, while Mount Mitchell only reached a high of 61.

Precipitation amounts from our regular reporting stations have all been under one-half inch with the exception of Greensboro, which had .59 of an inch.

Last night the cloudy skies continued, however, the precipitation dissipated.

Farm Scene

The tobacco crop in Pitt County looks good now. Adequate rainfall has helped to even up fields and promote growth. Early season cold spells and early dry weather held the crop back for some time.

With this flurry of growth comes disease problems. Many fields have begun to show symptoms. For most diseases nothing can be done this year but plans for the future years should be started now.

Many early season problems were chemical related. Chemical drift and misapplication seemed to cause growers the most problems. Growers need to take notice of why these problems occurred and be prepared to correct them in the future.

Granville wilt has started a little earlier this year. Several fields have been affected. Nothing can be done for wilt fields at this time but plans can be made for the future.

Rotation is the key for Granville wilt control. Many farmers with a wilt problem have found this to be the key. Multipurpose chemicals and resistant varieties are much more effective in dealing with wilt if rotation is used.

Nematodes are again a problem. A nematode sample along with a root examination can help determine the extent of this problem. Nematodes rob the roots of needed nutrients and water, causing stunting of plants. There are several nematocides that can effectively take care of nematodes. Early root destruction after harvest is complete can help with nematodes. Rotation can help but chemicals are much more effective against nematodes than Granville wilt.

Black shank is a problem we encounter every year. Again, rotation plays a big role in controlling this disease. Multipurpose chemicals and Ridomil are very effective in controlling this disease.

Mosaic is again a big

Two Wrecks Are Reported

An estimated $3,575 damage resulted from two collisions investigated by Greenville police Saturday. Heaviest damage, officers said, resulted from an 8:40 p.m. collision at the intersection of Pitt and Deck Streets, involving cars driven by James Howard Smith of Grimesland, and Willie Lee Smith of 1903B Kennedy Circle.

Investigators, who charged Willie Lee Smith with careless and reckless driving, no liability insurance and improper registration, estimated damage at $975 to his car and $1,900 to the James H. Smith vehicle.

Cars driven by Donna Dawn Cahoon, of 402B East Second St., and Mary Sue Cummings of Courtney Square Apartments collided about 11:50 p.m. at the intersection of Charles Street and Red Banks Road, causing an estimated $200 damage to the Cahoon car and $500 damage to the Cummings car.

Why Should I Vote For John Gillam?

"...a dedicated young leader who wants to serve you!"

John Gillam's Legislative Council And Precinct Advisors Have Assisted Him In Casting All Votes Before The North Carolina House. In All Instances John Gillam Has Voted The Way His People In The Old 5th District Wanted Him To. John Gillam Is A Person Who Votes The Will Of The People.

John Gillam Proposes:

Legislative Council

Two members chosen from each township. These people will be kept up to date with the issues before the 1983 General Assembly.

Precinct Advisers

These advisers, two from each precinct, will tell John what the people of the 6th District want and need.

Township/Area Meetings

John Gillam wants to involve the people of the new 6th District. Instead of you having to come to him, he will come to you. During the summer of 1982 John will hold township/area meetings. Vote for John so he can come to you.

John Gillam's record in the North Carolina House of Representatives is one of competent, untiring service. His background in agriculture, education, and business has given him a solid foundation on which to build his service to the needs of all the people. Check John's record of service. You will see that he is the person to represent you in the North Carolina House.

Workshop Is Sponsored

Learning Together Inc. and the Department of Human Resources of Raleigh sponsored a workshop Thursday on the campus of Pitt Community College.

"Together Activities" stressed techniques used to provide special opportunities for pre-school children to work together and learn the meaning of interdependency.

The sessions were divided into eight groups which covered subjects such as how to develop the skill of working side-by-side and how to encourage appropriate socialization within a structure.

Mrs. Bee Mayo, a community development specialist with the Department of Human Resources and one of the workshop leaders, explained that this program was part of an overall program to encourage pre-school children in day care activities.

The participants of this workshop were day care operators from throughout eastern North Carolina.

A Record of Proven Performance

Elect
Robert A. Halstead
Pitt County
Commissioner
June 29th

Elect Robert Halstead Pitt County Commissioner and talk with him about Pitt County's future in industrial growth, and health needs.

This county has attracted some top flight industry over the years. Industrial growth must continue if the county is to progress. Only if careful planning is done can the county keep a proper balance. Let Robert Halstead speak for you on industrial growth.

Some of the best services and facilities in the state are available here for meeting the health needs of Pitt County citizens. Already though, many people are seeing that too rapid growth may result in services and facilities being opened to large areas to the exclusion of Pitt County citizens. Proper planning can solve that. Let Robert Halstead speak for you on health needs.

Go with a record of Performance.

Poultry

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The North Carolina f.o.b. dock broiler market was steady. Supplies light to moderate. Demand good. Weights desirable. The dock weighted average price for this week is 45.46 for small purchases of plant grade broilers picked up at processing plants. Estimated slaughter today 1,833,000.

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices gained ground in quiet trading today as traders tried to gauge the outlook for Federal Reserve credit policy and interest rates.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials rose 5.14 to 808.22 by noon.

Gainers held a 3-2 edge on losers in the mid-day tally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Analysts noted some favorable reaction to the unexpected $2.3 billion decline in the money supply reported late Friday by the Fed.

But they said concern persisted that a new bulge in monetary growth would show up next month.

They also said investors were still sorting out the potential implications of Alexander Haig's resignation last week as secretary of state.

Gainers in the ranks of the leading glamor issues included Eastman Kodak, up 1/2 at 74 1/2; Teledyne, up 2 1/2 at 101; Texas Instruments, up 1 at 86 1/4; In International Business Machines, up 3/4 at 61, and McDonald's, up 1 at 71 1/2.

The NYSE's composite index rose .38 to 63.10. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up .47 at 252.90.

Volume on the Big Board came to 16.07 million shares at noon, against 17.32 million at the same point Friday.

Snow Hill Gains Three Straight

SNOW HILL — Snow Hill got two-hit and one-hit pitching from Ron Pelletier and Joey Rouse respectively to sweep a doubleheader from Rocky Mount Sunday, 1-0 and 6-0. Those wins, combined with a 14-8 romp over Wilson Saturday night, gave Snow Hill four straight victories and six wins in the last seven games.

Snow Hill lost 10 of its first 11, but has now seemingly turned things around as the regular season nears its end, and the playoffs, their beginning.

Saturday night, Snow Hill bullied its way past league leading Wilson, 14-8.

Wilson scored first in the contest, gaining a run in the top of the first. But Snow Hill quickly let its guest know that it was in for trouble, scoring six times before Wilson got to bat again.

With one away, Greg Hardison singled and Steve Sides followed with a double. Pelletier walked and Wade Corbett also drew four balls, forcing in Hardison. Bobby Avery's infield grounder was relayed to home in time to force Sides, but an overthrow on the relay on to first allowed Pelletier to score. Richie Chase followed with a run-scoring double and Butch Brown's hit brought in Avery. Bobby Caraway then singled in both Chase and Brown for the 6-1 lead.

Wilson never overcame that lead, scoring once in the second, while Snow Hill got two on a homer by Avery. Wilson scored four times in the fourth to cut it to 8-6, but Snow Hill got one in the bottom of the fourth, then added two in the fifth on solo homers by Hardison and Chris Newsome. Three more scored in the sixth, while Wilson got two in the eighth.

Suggs, Hardison, Sides, Avery, Chase and Brown each had two hits, while Newsome had three for Snow Hill. Scott Barnes had two for Wilson.

In Sunday's opening game, Pelletier tossed a two-hitter at Rocky Mount, walking three and striking out six along the way.

Snow Hill got only three hits of Rocky Mount pitching, but made them count, getting two in the fourth when the lone run of the game was scored.

In the fourth, Sides opened with a single and was sacrificed up. He then scored on Newsome's single.

Sides led the hitting in the game for Snow Hill, getting two of the three hits.

Then, in the nightcap, Rouse followed with a one-hit shutout, walking two and striking out ten. The lone hit came in the fourth inning when Eddie Coates singled.

Snow Hill got all it needed in the first inning, scoring twice. Newsome doubled and Hardison reached on a bunt single. He stole up a base, and when the ball was overthrown at second, Newsome scored. Jeff Ginn then doubled in Hardison.

Snow Hill added single runs in the second and third and finished it off with two in the fourth.

Newsome, Hardison and Corbett each had two hits, both of Corbett's doubles. Snow Hill had a total of ten hits in the game, six of them doubles.

Now 7-11, Snow Hill travels to Wilson on Tuesday, then closes out on Wednesday, hosting Edenton.

Pitt Romps To Two Victories

Pitt County's American Legion baseball team wore out a few baseballs Saturday night and Sunday, ripping out a total of 39 hits in two ball games as they swept the two and moved into second place in the area standings, just one game behind league leading Wilson.

Saturday night, Pitt romped to a 14-3 win over Edenton, sparked by an 18-strikeout performance by pitcher Tyrone Gay. Then, on Saturday, Pitt outslugged Wayne County, 13-9, to complete the weekend sweep.

Gay, who allowed four hits and walked seven, struck out eight in a row at one point in the game, retiring the final two batters in the first inning, and all three in the next two frames before a ground out broke the string at the start of the fourth.

Pitt jumped into the early lead in the Saturday night game with a run in the first. Randy Warren did the honors with a full-count home run to right center.

But Edenton came back to score twice in the bottom of the frame to take the lead. Robbie Lee walked and so did Tony Lee. Both scored when Ed Pippin followed with a double for the 2-1 edge.

It stayed that way until the fourth, when Pitt ripped pitcher Al Bunch for six runs. Roger Williams got the rally started by reaching on an error, and Mont Carter also arrived via a misplay which allowed Williams to score. Bill Kittrell singled in Carter, and Scott Galloway singled. Gay got a hit to plate Kittrell, and Warren walked. Gordon Douglas also walked, forcing over Galloway, and a walk to Williams brought in Tay. Carter also walked, scoring Warren with the final run of the inning.

Two more Pitt runs crossed in the fifth. Galloway opened with a double and Gay singled. Briley singled in the first run, and Emmett Walsh singled to bring in Gay.

Edenton got its final run in the sixth. Robbie Lee walked and moved up on an error on Craig Dawson's attempted sacrifice. He scored on Calvin Holley's bunt single.

Pitt added two more runs in the seventh. Briley walked and Douglas singled. An error on the play let Briley score and moved Douglas to second. He then scored on Williams' hit.

Run number 11 came over in the eighth. Gay reached on a fielder's choice and Warren singled. Briley then hit a sacrifice fly, scoring Gay.

The last two scored in the ninth. Carter singled and Mike Kinley walked. They were sacrificed up, and an error let both Carter and Kinley come around.

Galloway and Gay each had three hits in the game to spark Pitt, while Warren, Briley, Douglas and Kittrell each had two. Calvin Holley had two of the four Edenton hits off Gay.

Sunday, against Wayne County, the tempo changed only slightly, as Pitt banged out 22 hits along the way to the 13-9 win. The struggle was a little more difficult thanks to 20 hits by Wayne County, however.

Wayne struck first, getting two first inning runs. Greg Neal started it with a one-out home run. Scott Edwards kept the rally going with a single, moving up on an out. He scored on Do Yol Lim's double.

Wayne added a third run in the second. Nichy Burroughs singled to open the frame and Louis Dreyfus got a hit. Stan Mozingo singled, filling the bases, and a ground-out by Neal brought in Burroughs.

Pitt finally broke the ice in the third, scoring once. Kevin Tyree walked after one was away, and Tom Buie singled, as did Carter, loading the bases. Terry Locust followed with another hit, scoring Tyree.

Wayne countered with a run of its own in the bottom of the frame. Lim opened with a single, moved up on an out and took third on a hit by Burroughs. Dreyfus hit a sacrifice fly to bring him in.

Pitt picked up its second run in the fourth, cutting the lead to 4-2. Galloway led off with a double and scored on Kittrell's two-bagger.

Then, in the fifth, Pitt struck for five runs and a 7-4 lead. With one down, Locust singled and Walsh also got a hit. Williams singled, loading the bases. Galloway got a hit, bringing in two runs, and Sammy Hodges singled to load the bases again. With two away, Greg Briley doubled in all three runners, giving Pitt the lead.

It proved short-lived, however, as Wayne rallied for five of its own in the bottom of the frame, moving back out 9-7. Ralph Britt singled and Burroughs walked. Dreyfus got a hit, loading the bases. Don Pate followed with a walk, forcing over Britt. Kevin Hucks singled, scoring both Burroughs and Dreyfus, and an error on the play let Pate score, moving Hucks to second.

Record Eludes Gilder, But He Achieves His No. 1 Objective

HARRISON, N.Y. (AP) — The record eluded him, but Bob Gilder achieved his No. 1 objective — a second victory of the season.

"I felt I could win again. And this was a fun way to win, leading every round," Gilder said Sunday after he'd conquered the 6,329 yards of hills and vales that make up the Westchester Country Club course with a 261 total, the lowest score on the PGA Tour in seven years.

"I'm just fortunate that I was playing this well, that I was able to score as well as I did. I just got hot. I made a lot of putts. I hit the ball as well as I can."

"That's as good as I can play."

It was good enough to produce a five-stroke victory in the Manufacturers Hanover-Westchester Classic — he led by 7-9 shots most of the last round — a 19-under-par total and the lowest score on the Tour since Johnny Miller won the 1975 Phoenix Open with a 260 total.

And, for a brief period, it seemed Gilder may have a shot at the Tour's all-time scoring record, 257 set by Mike Souchak in the 1955 Texas Open.

Gilder had played the first three rounds in 64, 63 and 65, the last one highlighted by a dramatic, double eagle on the 18th hole of Saturday's round.

"That's a hard act to follow," he said. But, when he birdied three in a row, starting on the fifth, in Sunday's final round, he got to 21 under par and was within sight of the Tour's all-time scoring record. He needed to shave two more shots off par to tie the mark, three to break it.

But he missed a six-foot birdie putt on the ninth and, realistically, his chances at the record were gone.

"That back nine is tough. It gives me a lot of trouble. After I missed that putt on the ninth, I was just trying to survive," Gilder said. To tie the record, he needed to play the back in 33. But he required 37 and finished with a 69.

"I was trying as hard as I could," Gilder said. "But to get the record, you have to make some putts and the putts just didn't fall."

"It just didn't happen."

But he found more than adequate consolation in the $72,000 first prize and, as a two-time winner this season, a spot in the World Series of Golf. Gilder won the Byron Nelson Classic earlier this season and joined Tom Watson, Craig Stadler, Lanny Wadkins and Ray Floyd as the Tour's only multiple winners this year.

Gilder had a six-shot lead when the day's play started and, after the three early birdies, had it won. Only the quest for the record, and a fight for second place, remained.

The record stood, and Tom Kite and Peter Jacobsen tied for the No. 2 spot. Kite gaining a share of it with a last-hole birdie.

"We weren't even thinking about Bob," said Jacobsen, who had a closing 66 and a 266 total.

"It was like there were two golf tournaments out there, the one Bob was playing in and the one the rest of us were playing in," said Kite, who had a last-round 68.

Wayne Levi, with a 68, and Don Pooley, with a 67, tied for fourth at 270.

Bosox Score Well; Brewers Do Better

By The Associated Press
With a total of 18 runs in the last three games, the Boston

Red Sox have been hitting the ball at a pretty good clip lately. And they'd be doing all right — except that the Milwaukee Brewers have been hitting even better.

"We're just on a little roll and playing right now the way we're capable of," Gorman Thomas said after slugging two home runs in Sunday's 7-5 victory over the Red Sox. Ben Oglivie, red-hot with seven homers in seven games, also slugged one as the Brewers won their third straight game from their rivals in the American League East race. The Brewers have scored 27 runs on 41 hits so far in their series in Boston.

cord for back-to-back homers is 16 by Boston in 1977. The National League record is 12 by Cincinnati in 1956.

Thomas added his 17th homer against Boston reliever Tom Burgmeier in the eighth inning for Milwaukee's seventh run. It was the Brewers' 20th homer in their last nine games and 99th of the season.

Southpaw Bob McClure, who sat out most of last season with a shoulder injury, allowed only four hits and one run through seven innings. McClure, 6-2, gave up four hits and a walk to the first five batters in the eighth before he was replaced by Dwight Bernard, who got his third save.

In other AL games, it was California 9, Kansas City 1; Baltimore 13, Detroit 1; Toronto 3, Minnesota 2; Cleveland 4, New York 3; Texas 10, Oakland 4, and Seattle 6, Chicago 5.

Angels 9, Royals 1
Juan Beniquez hit a two-run homer, Doug DeCinces, Don Baylor and Brian Downing added solo shots and Dave Goltz earned a victory in his first AL start since 1979 as California beat Kansas City.

Goltz, 1-1, following five relief appearances since he was picked up by California in May after his release by the Los Angeles Dodgers, held the Royals to three hits in seven innings.

Orioles 13, Tigers 1
Cal Ripken Jr. and Eddie Murray drove in three runs apiece and Jim Palmer won the 254th game of his career as Baltimore dealt Detroit its 13th loss in 14 games.

Ripken and Joe Nolan had two-run doubles in the first inning and Murray hit a two-run homer in the third, his 10th, when the Orioles chased Jack Morris, 8-9. Morris has lost his last four starts, yielding 27 hits and 22 runs in 111-3 innings.

Blue Jays 3, Twins 2
Damaso Garcia belted a leadoff homer in the bottom of the ninth inning to give boost Toronto over Minnesota. Along with his fourth homer of the season, Garcia had three other hits and scored all of the Blue Jays' runs.

Reliever Joey McLaughlin, 7-3, pitched the final 12-3 innings for the victory, while winless Terry Felton lost for the eighth straight time.

Indians 4, Yankees 3
Andre Thornton opened the eighth with a double and scored the tie-breaking run on Rick Manning's single and Jerry Dyzinski singled home the eventual winning run as Cleveland defeated New York.

Rick Sutcliffe bailed starter Lary Sorensen, 7-6, out of a jam in the bottom of the eighth to earn his first AL save.
Rangers 10, A's 4
Rookie Dave Hostetler knocked in four runs and had four hits, including a club record 11th homer for the month of June, to power Texas over Oakland.

Hostetler, brought up from the Rangers' Class-AAA farm team in Denver on May 28, singled across runs in the first and third innings, homered in a three-run fifth and hit a sacrifice fly in the eighth. He also doubled in the seventh to go 4-for-4 and then scored on a single by Mike Richard.

Mariners 6, White Sox 5
Chicago second baseman Tony Bernazard's bobble of Manny Castillo's fifth-inning grounder gave Seattle two runs and, moments later, Al Cowens gave the Mariners two more with a triple to highlight a five-run outburst that beat the White Sox.

Greg Luzinski had RBI singles in the first and fifth innings and a two-run triple in the seventh for Chicago.

Club Champions

Mann Takes Greenville Title

Jack Mann rolled in 12 birdies over 36 holes of play this past weekend and gained a five-shot victory in the Greenville Country Club's annual men's club championship.

Mann finished the two rounds with a total of 140, four under par. Greg House finished second in the championship flight with a one-over 145.

Bill Clark took the first flight, while Charles Bridgers was the runner-up. In the second flight, Don Patrick took first, followed by Wally Howard.

Kelly Barnhill won the third flight, beating out L.D. Thomas. In the fourth flight, Ted Ellis took the title, followed by John Wooten.

Toby Fisher and Rudy Stalls each collected a pair of hits as Pugh's Firestone rolled to a 12-4 victory over Winterville Saturday night in the Coastal

He scored on a single by Chad Yatka.

That was to be it for the Wayne club, however, as Galloway, who had come on in relief of Tyree at the start of the inning, settled down and held Wayne in check the rest of the way.

Pitt, meanwhile, pulled within one with a run in the sixth. Locust doubled with one down, scoring on Walsh's single that followed.

Then, in the eighth, Pitt struck for two and the lead, 10-9. Locust reached on a one-out error, and with two away, Williams doubled him in to tie it up. Galloway singled, and an error allowed Williams to score with the go-ahead run.

The final three came in the ninth. Briley singled and was sacrificed up. Carter doubled him in, and took third on a passed ball. Walsh reached on an error, scoring Carter. Williams singled, as did Galloway, loading the bases. A walk to Hodges brought in Walsh with the final run of the game.

Wayne's hitting was led by Lim and Dreyfus with three each, while Mozingo, Hucks, Edwards, Britt, Burroughs and Janson Evans each had two.

Pitt was paced by Galloway, who had four to bring him to 10-for-15 in recent appearances. Briley, Williams, Carter and Walsh each had three, while Locust and Hodges each had two.

Pitt (11-5) will try to pull even with Wilson (13-5) in the standing tonight as it entertains Edenton in a pair starting at 6 p.m. at Harrington Field.

Plains Senior Babe Ruth League

Winterville gained an early lead, scoring twice in the top of the first, but Pugh's put the game out of reach with six in the second.

With one away in the second, Keith Phillips reached on an error and after two were away, Eric Woodworth walked. Terry Smith singled in Phillips, and Fisher singled to score Woodworth. Billy Godley doubled in two runs, and Ed Frazier walked. Stalls singled in two runs, giving Pugh's all it needed.

Pugh's added five more in the fifth, and one in the sixth for the 12-run total.

Prep League

1st State Bank 4 Shop-eze Foodland . . . 1

Eric Jarman hit a two-run double in the third inning to lift First State Bank to a 4-1 victory over Shop-eze Foodland in the winners' bracket of the Prep League's post-season tournament Sunday.

First State Bank, the last unbeaten, moves into the finals, while Shop-eze drops into the losers' bracket where it will face Hendrix & Dail in the tournament semifinals.

The Bankers got the lead in the first inning, scoring once, but it was in the third that they struck for the lead for good.

With one out, Tim Ricks walked and stole second. Tracy Johnson also walked and after two were away, Jarman doubled, driving in both runners for a 3-0 lead.

Shop-eze came back with one in the fourth, while the Bankers got one in the fifth to round out the scoring.

No one for First State had more than one hit, while Terry Warren had two for Shop-eze.

Hendrix & Dail 12 Auto Specialty 8

Hendrix & Dail scored five times in the first inning and added five more in the second and went on to take a 12-8 win over regular season champion Auto Specialty in the losers' bracket of the Prep League tournament Sunday.

The loss eliminated the champions and moved runner-up H&D into the losers' bracket finals against Shop-eze Foodland. The winner goes on to face First State Bank for the championship.

Auto Specialty grabbed the initial lead in the first inning, scoring twice, but Hendrix & Dail came back with five in the bottom of the inning. Auto Specialty scored once more in the second, but H&D then blew it open with five in the bottom of the frame.

Jarrett Wynne led off with a walk and was sacrificed up. Jason Galloway reached on an error, and Anthony Cobb singled in Wynne. Clay Young singled to score Galloway, and Tim Clark walked, loading them up. Greg Jones walked, scoring Cobb, and a hit by Hunter Clark finished off the scoring.

H&D added two in the sixth, while Auto Specialty scored four more in the third and one in the sixth.

Frederick Hurt and Cobb each had three hits for H&D while Galloway, Pickle Garris and Clark each had two. Chris Meeks had two for Auto Specialty.

Babe Ruth League

Wachovia Bank . . . 13 Coca-Cola 12

Ricky Outlaw's sacrifice fly drove over what became the winning run as Wachovia Bank outscored Coca-Cola, 13-12, Sunday in the Babe Ruth League.

Coke grabbed the early lead with four runs in the first inning, while Wachovia came back with three in its half of the frame. Wachovia then took the lead with two more in the second, only to see Coke rally for two in the third to take a 6-5 lead.

Wachovia struck for five runs in the third, and added another in the fourth before Coke came up with two in the sixth to cut the lead back to 11-8.

In the bottom of the sixth, Wachovia got what proved to be the difference. Dwight Smith doubled and scored on a single by Mo Matthews. Matthews moved up on a stolen base and later scored on Outlaw's sacrifice fly for a 13-8 lead.

Coke then rallied for four in the top of the seventh before Wachovia finally got them out still a run shy of catching up.

Tom Moore, Smith, Outlaw and William Wade each had two hits for Wachovia, while Billy Michel had two for Coke.

Pepsi-Cola 1 Famous Subs 0

Pepsi-Cola failed to get a hit off Famous Subs' pitchers Steve Wall and Kevin Lang, but still pushed over a run while Sterling Edwards tossed a shutout at the Sub team for a 1-0 victory.

Edwards scattered four hits, while walking four and striking out six in getting the win.

No one got more than one of the hits.

Pepsi, meanwhile, got the game's lone run in the fourth inning. Pat Rand led off the fourth by reaching on an error and he stole second. Les Turner walked, and Edwards reached on an error, scoring Rand.

The victory, combined with Coke's loss to Wachovia Bank, clinched the Babe Ruth League championship for Pepsi-Cola.

American Record Setters Pleased By Their Efforts

By TOM FOREMAN Jr.
AP Sports Writer

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — The three athletes who took home American records in this weekend's Lite Summer Games international track and field meet, were pleased with their accomplishments in light of varying problems they encountered coming into the meet.

Dave Volz topped the pole vault mark at 18-9 1-2 and came within an eyelash of claiming a world record. Coleen Sommer cleared 6-6 to take home the high jump record in the first day of the two-day meet at Duke University's Wallace Wade Stadium.

Dave McKenzie closed out the weekend with a hammer throw mark of 243-11, beating his own previous record by more than six feet.

For the record, the American swept the international meet, beating the West Germans 123-99 in men's competition and 90-56 in women's events. The U.S. men also recorded a 137-67 defeat over the Pan African squad.

Americans Dan Ripley and Billy Olson had held the old pole vault mark for just one week before Volz, a rising junior at the University of Arkansas, knocked them out of the record book on his first attempt. Volz had three tries at 19-1, but was really never close.

"I came in here kinda tired. I had a little injury earlier (this week)," Volz said. "All in all, I didn't feel real good, so I'm kinda pleased with it."

Sommer's effort led a surprisingly strong women's team which, like the men's squad, lacked the top stars due to a meet in Oslo, Norway, as well as the upcoming USA-USSR meet next weekend in Indianapolis. The former Arizona State student and California took a rather subdued approach.

Since she, too, had been injured prior to competition.

"I had my foot in a cast for three weeks, so I couldn't do anything," Sommer said. "I came back stronger and faster. But my only problem is my timing."

Sommer described her performance as inconsistent, adding that she had to change her technique in order to get the effort she wanted.

"I still really haven't found the perfect mark yet. But it felt pretty good," she added.

McKenzie's toss was only good for a third-place finish, but he was nonetheless pleased with it, adding that he knew such a performance was in the cards.

"I knew when I woke up (Sunday) morning I had it in me," he said. "The heat really helped me a lot to get loosened up and to stay loose."

Long jumper Jason Grimes almost added his name to the list of American record-holders, and almost placed himself in a unique group of track and field performers. But his 28-1 1-2 effort was literally blown away.

"I don't think Beamon's record is unapproachable any more," he said. "Larry Myricks, Carl Lewis, Mike Conley and myself all seem capable of jumping that far on any given day."

Grimes' jump made him the fourth performer to jump 28 feet or better under any condition. But the wind gusting above legal limits and nullified his chance to pull in behind Bob Beamon and Carl Lewis.

"I passed my final jump because I was numbed by the 28-1 1-2," Grimes said later. "I wasn't used to that feeling so I passed the final jump."

Grimes said he hopes to compete against the Soviet Union in Indianapolis, but added, "I don't think they will want me there."

With the records falling and Grimes managing a near-miss, the Knoxville, Tenn., resident, said the long jump record of 29-2 1-2 is no longer out of reach.

"I don't think Beamon's record is unapproachable any more," he said. "Larry Myricks, Carl Lewis, Mike Conley and myself all seem capable of jumping that far on any given day."

Goose-Egged Reds Bow To Atlanta

By The Associated Press
Fourteen zeros on the scoreboard had Cincinnati Reds Manager John McNamara ready to tear down the walls.

"It's disgusting. I'm exasperated," McNamara said after the Reds fell 2-0 to the Atlanta Braves Sunday. "It's a frustrating thing to have the opportunities and not take advantage of one through the whole game."

The Reds hit into a recording seven double plays in the game...and still managed to leave 11 runners stranded on the bases. And one of the double plays should have been a triple play.

Chris Chambliss and Bob Horner finally singled in the game's only runs off Cincinnati reliever Tom Hume in the 14th to help the Braves stay 2½ games in front of San Diego in the National League West.

In other NL games, Philadelphia belted New York 8-3, Montreal tripped Pittsburgh 5-2, Chicago beat St. Louis 4-2, San Diego stopped San Francisco 4-2 and Los Angeles defeated Houston 7-3.

"It's a sign of a winner to win the close games," said Chambliss, who drove in Claudell Washington to break a scoreless deadlock.

"It was a long, hard-fought game — like putting on your battle gear and going to war," Horner said. "It was hot and sticky...just a good game to get over and get out of here."

Cincinnati starter Mario Soto struck out 10 and held the Braves to three hits in the first 10 innings, and reliever Jim Kern allowed only one Braves hit in the next three. But as the Atlanta defense kept getting the Braves out of jams, Manager Joe Torre got more confident.

"We kept getting out of trouble, doing the things we had to do," Torre said. "The big guys were going three-up, three-down. But when they kept on coming up, I knew something was going to happen."

When Hume, 1-3, came into the game in the 14th, Washington, Rafael Ramirez and Chambliss pounded successive singles, and one out later, Horner gave the Braves an insurance run.

Atlanta's seven twinnings tied a major league record shared by the 1942 New York Yankees and the 1969 Houston Astros. Ironically, both of those games were the regulation nine innings.

The Braves blew their chance for a triple play in the ninth inning. Pitcher Steve Bedrosian fielded a pop bunt by Duane Walker and doubled off Dan Driessen at second. Ramirez, with plenty of time to go Johnny Bench at first base, threw wide of the bag.

Gene Garber, 6-3, got credit for the victory with three innings of relief pitching, and Al Hrabosky worked the 14th for a save.

Expos 5, Pirates 2
David Palmer continued his winning ways at Montreal's Olympic Stadium, improving his career record there to 12-0 by tossing a three-hitter against Pittsburgh.

Palmer, 3-1 this season, also pitched his first complete game since Oct. 3, 1980. He got home run support from Tim Wallach and Dan Norman, who connected on consecutive pitches to account for three runs during the Expos' four-run fourth inning.

"I had my father and two brothers here today, and my wife is usually here," Palmer said in trying to account for his success at home. "I get a boost out of having my family and friends here."

Phillies 8, Mets 3
Philadelphia, which fell as far as nine games behind in April, pulled to within one game of first place in the East with its seventh straight victory and fifth in a row in the series against New York.

Bo Diaz and George Vukovich both hit three-run homers to pace the Phillies attack, while Mike Krukow registered his third straight triumph by limiting the Mets to six hits and one run in seven innings.

Diaz, an all-star last season although he was only a part-time starter for Cleveland, now has 13 homers and 49 runs batted in with more than half of the season to go.

Cubs 4, Cardinals 2
Leon Durham went 4-for-4, including a run-scoring double, and Larry Bowa continued his hot hitting with a two-run single to lead last-place Chicago over first-place St. Louis.

Durham gave the Cubs a 1-0 lead in the first inning with the first of his two doubles, and Bowa's single made it 3-0 in the sixth after Jay Johnstone walked, Keith Moreland singled and Jody Davis reached first on an error by Ken Oberkfell.

Bowa, hitting .186 three weeks ago, now has 18 hits in his last 31 at-bats.

Padres 4, Giants 2
Tim Lollar continued to help San Diego with both his pitching and his batting, hurling a two-hitter for eight innings and knocking in a run with a triple against San Francisco.

Lollar, 7-2, now hitting .310, struck out 10 and allowed only a single by Tom O'Malley and a solo homer by Darrell Evans in the first eight innings. In the ninth, Lollar was replaced after giving up a walk and a double to Chili Davis, but Floyd Chiffer came in to get the last three outs although Jack Clark got a run in for the Giants with a grounder.

Terry Kennedy hit a two-run homer in the sixth for the Padres.

Dodgers 7, Astros 3
Steve Sax hit two triples and knocked in three runs to pace Los Angeles over Houston.

Ken Landreaux also had a run-scoring triple for the Dodgers. He also singled in a run.

McEnroe Begins Tough Week At Wimbledon With Suspect Ankle

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — John McEnroe has begun what could be one of the toughest weeks of his tennis career as he bids to retain two Wimbledon crowns, facing a crowded schedule and the uncertainty of a suspect ankle.

After a first week disrupted by rain, tournament officials prepared to call players into non-stop action to try to finish by next Sunday as scheduled.

McEnroe is the defending singles champion, and he and his partner Peter Fleming are defending their doubles crown. To win both, McEnroe has to play five singles matches and six doubles — all the best of five sets — in a maximum of seven days.

Weather experts predicted more rain today but better weather beginning Tuesday.

A sprained ankle forced McEnroe out of the Italian and French Opens. Newsmen asked him about it throughout the last week and he admitted the trouble is still there.

"I'm trying not to think about it," McEnroe said. "The less I think about it, the better I play."

All players agree that Wimbledon is one of the most demanding tournaments in the world. Normally, in the second week, the players get a day's rest between each singles match. This time, because of the heavy backlog of matches, they must play every day if they are to reach the final stages.

McEnroe was scheduled to play Lloyd Bourne, a 23-year-old Californian, today for a place in the final 16. He and Fleming had to meet American Broderick Dyke and Australian Peter Johnston in the first round of the doubles.

McEnroe is seeded to meet Jimmy Connors in the finals. Connors faced American Drew Gitlin today in a third-round match.

A few others, including third-seeded Vitas Gerulaitis, were at the same stage as McEnroe and Connors. But they were a round ahead of 36 players who still had to complete the second round.

Today's schedule sent Chris Evert Lloyd, the defending women's champion, against Kate Latham in a third-round match. Lloyd was aiming to join her top rival, top-seeded Martina Navratilova, in the final 16.

Tracy Austin, seeded third, was paired against Kathy Jordan. Andrea Jaeger, the French Open runner-up and No. 4 seed, faced Ros Fairbank of South Africa.

David Manning and Robbie Erhmann came in second with a 75 that would have won most bestball events.

Harris and Ipock shot a sizzling 14-under-par 22 in their first round but only led Manning and Erhmann by two strokes. Both teams carded 10-under 26's in the second round to remain two strokes apart. In the third round, both teams were four under after nine holes, and in the final nine, Manning and Erhmann were able to cut only one of the two strokes off the Harris-Ipock lead.

Third place went to Henry Beacham and Whit Whitford who defeated Danny and Diane Pollard in a sudden-death playoff. Both teams shot 25-under-par 83's to force the playoff.

Jake Loftin and Mike Shane finished fifth with an 81.

Heels, Hawks Divide Pair
CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — Chip Gibson scored on an error in the bottom of the seventh inning in the nightcap to give North Carolina a split of its North State Summer Baseball League double-header with UNC-Wilmington Sunday.

The Seahawks took the opener, 6-4, while Gibson's run enabled the Tar Heels to take a 2-1 victory.

Gibson, pinch-running for Stuart Jump who had led the seventh off with a walk, moved to second on a fielder's choice and scored when Luke Rasnake's grounder went through the legs of second baseman Gary Hall.

Wilmington scored two runs in the third inning of the opener to snap a 4-4 deadlock. Johnny Slaughter scored on a wild pitch and Hudson crossed the plate on Bobby Bryant's base hit.

The Seahawks are now 12-11 while the Tar Heels stand 7-13.

Pearson Nips Dale Earnhardt

ROCKINGHAM, N.C. (AP) — Veteran driver David Pearson wrestled the lead away from Dale Earnhardt with 68 laps to go and then held on to edge Earnhardt by 26-thousandths of a second to win the NASCAR Coca Cola 200 Late Model Sportsman race Sunday at North Carolina Motor Speedway.

Pearson led by four car lengths going into the final circuit of the 197-lap $46,770 event. With both lead cars moving through traffic in the rain-plagued race, Earnhardt worked his Pontiac up the outside but ran out of time as they reached the checkered flag.

Afterward, Earnhardt refused to blame the traffic for his inability to catch the 47-year-old Pearson.

"We both had problems with traffic, but that all evens out," Earnhardt said. "Old Sam Ard was running pretty good, too. I'm not sure he was holding anybody up. He was racing right there at the end."

Pearson, who posted his first superspeedway victory since winning the Sportsman 300 at Daytona International Speedway last year, averaged 99.074 mph on the 1.017-mile tri-oval and pocketed $7,850 for his effort.

"My car was set up nearly perfect, and it was a real pleasure to race after the rain delay," Pearson said. "I didn't push too much at first, because I knew what we could do. When the time came to run for the victory I think the crowd saw one of the best shows they've ever seen and we're happy that our hard work paid off."

Earnhardt had taken the lead on the 82nd lap and was leader of the pack when rains caused a three hour and 22-minute delay.

"Man, it wouldn't have bothered me a bit if the rain had stopped me when I was out front," Earnhardt said. "But I want to tell you one thing: That was one fine race after the restart. You could really do some racing, and that's what I was doing. I just ran out of time."

"I know I could have run David down ... but I'm not saying what would have happened after that," he said. "It looked to me like both cars were pretty even."

Phil Parsons took third place in front of Jack Ingram and Ard as they were the only other drivers to finish on the lead lap. Parsons and Ingram drove Pontiacs, Ard piloted an Oldsmobile.

Pete Silva, Satch Worley, Dale Jarrett, Harry Lee Hill and Steve Jarvis rounded out the top 10. All drove Pontiacs, except Worley, who drove a Dodge.

There were nine caution flags covering 53 laps, the most serious coming when Morgan Shepherd hit the fourth-turn wall on the 32nd lap, spinning in oil left from an earlier blown engine.

"I just got down into the turn too hard for those conditions," he said. "Man, this track's slick when it's clean. A little oil in the groove and it can be tricky."

GREENVILLE AND Baywood Win
TARBORO — The Greenville Tennis Club moved into a tie for first place in the Roanoke Tennis League with a 7-0 victory over Tarboro Sunday.

Greenville, now 4-1, will face Roanoke Rapids in its next match on July 11.

Maybe the best reason to vote for Tom Haigwood isn't his nine years experience as Assistant D.A.

Maybe it's his desire to do the job and do it right.

Tom's a career prosecutor, who's spent a lot of time and work in the shadow of Eli Bloom, learning the nature of the job of District Attorney.

Without any question, he's the more experienced candidate for the sometimes difficult but always important job of District Attorney.

Vote for Thomas D. Haigwood for District Attorney.

He's got what it takes.

Paid for by the Committee to Elect Thomas D. Haigwood, Eli Bloom, Treasurer.

Thomas D. Haigwood, Pitt County native.

Blood Tests Of Genes Might Detect Future Disease Risks

ROUGEMONT, N.C. (AP)

— A University of North Carolina professor is leading a team of researchers who say that cancer, birth defects, heart disease and mental retardation eventually may be reduced through blood tests.

"I think it's going to mean you could go in and give a blood sample and be told which genes you carry predispose you to common diseases and then be advised what to do," says Dr. Michael R. Swift, a professor of medicine at UNC-Chapel Hill.

Swift says the research group has discovered that people carrying only half the genes needed to trigger hereditary disorders still may be at higher risk for cancer and other more common diseases.

Locating the genes in human cells could result in laboratory tests to warn of the risk in time to take preventative action, Swift said at a recent medical writers' conference in Rougemont.

The result could be the eradication of 10 percent to 20 percent of cancers, he said. Parents also would be able to discover whether future babies would be likely to develop the full-fledged hereditary disorders.

Heredity is controlled by genes — one set from each parent. Some genes are dominant and some are recessive. For example, a person with blue eyes must have two genes coded for blue eyes, which is a recessive trait. But if only one gene is coded for brown eyes — a dominant trait — the person will have brown eyes.

Swift's research group is studying dominant-recessive combinations that produce hereditary disorders called autosomal recessive syndromes when identical recessive genes are paired.

Victims of one AR syndrome, called ataxia-telangiectasia, develop neurological problems, plus prematurely aging skin and a high risk of death from leukemia and other cancers.

Victims of another AR syndrome, xeroderma pigmentosum, contract skin cancer when exposed to the sun and also may suffer from mental retardation.

People with only one set of AR genes are called "carriers," meaning they are free from obvious signs of the disorder but are capable of passing it on to offspring who could inherit a double set.

Swift's group has found evidence that patients carrying only one of the ataxia genes also have at least five times the usual risk of dying from cancer before the age of 45.

Xeroderma carriers also may be predisposed to cancers, mental retardation and abnormally small heads.

Since the AR genes cannot be identified through lab tests, the Chapel Hill team made its deductions by studying the medical histories of relatives of ataxia and xeroderma victims, Swift said.

The team is also studying the effect of other AR syndrome genes on carriers, including their roles in heart disease, kidney disease and diabetes.

"There are literally hundreds of AR syndromes, (although) the ones associated with cancer are relatively few in number," Swift said.

Swift estimates that each person carries three to seven different AR syndrome genes in single doses, only some of which would increase the risk of disease.

RALEIGH — John H. Furr, M.D. of Norfolk, Virginia was installed as the president of the Seaboard Medical Association at the 1982 Annual Session held at the Holiday Inn in Kill Devil Hills. He succeeds Ira M. Hardy, II, M.D. of Greenville in this position.

William V. Tynes, III, M.D. of Norfolk, Va. was elected as the fourth vice president for the 1982-83 year.

Each year, the new president and the new fourth vice-president are elected from the same state, alternating between North Carolina and Virginia. The dates of the 1983 annual session will be June 16-19.

The recent meeting consisted of around 300 persons. The scientific program was accredited for 7 1/2 hours of Category I credit by the East Carolina School of Medicine. Next year, accreditation will be granted by the Eastern Virginia School of Medicine in Norfolk.

Drug Arrests Are Made

Greenville police arrested two Stanford, Conn., residents at the Econo Travel Motel on Memorial Drive Sunday night on drug law violation charges.

Chief Glenn Cannon said Tommy Lee Wilkes, 42 and Maggie Dell Young, 25, were jailed under $15,000 bond each on charges of possession of a controlled substance.

Cannon said some 50 grams of white power — believed to be cocaine — and more than $900 in cash, were confiscated.

The arrests took place about 9:15 p.m.

Racial Imbalance Poses A Dilemma For Military

WASHINGTON (AP) —

The military has become racially imbalanced, meaning blacks could die in "grossly disproportionate numbers" during the early stages of a war, a study says.

The study released Sunday by the Brookings Institution proposed a presidential commission be appointed to study alternate concepts of service.

The 190-page study said the prospect that blacks would suffer as many as half of the total U.S. combat casualties early in a war "impales the nation on the horns" of this particularly difficult question:

"Does the fact that blacks will probably die in grossly disproportionate numbers, at least initially, in defense of national interests outweigh the fact that the armed forces provide many blacks with their only bridge from the 'permanent underclass' to a better life?"

The study by the avowedly independent and nonpartisan research institution recalled that critics of the decision to abolish the draft nine years ago warned that an all-volunteer force "would become increasingly unrepresentative of... society."

Last year, according to the study, blacks accounted more than 33 percent of the Army's enlisted soldiers and 22 percent of the Marines. This compares with about 12 percent blacks in the nation's total military age population — a figure roughly in line with the black content of U.S. ground forces just before the draft ended, the report said.

The Navy's black enlisted representation was about equal to the black proportion of the military-age population, while the Air Force proportion was slightly higher.

At the same time, the report noted that blacks are underrepresented in the officer corps. Only a little over 5 percent of those holding commissions are black, it said. There are 2.1 million men and women in the armed services.

Since blacks make up more than half the strength of some combat battalions, the report said there is concern that black soldiers and Marines would suffer a high proportion of battle losses early in a war. Later, as a wartime draft began drawing on the entire male population, the casualties would tend to level out as whites enter the services in larger numbers.

In addition to the moral question of disproportionate casualties, some people believe a racially imbalanced military poses risks to U.S. national security interests, the report said.

"Those who gauge the caliber of recruits by the scores they attain on standardized entry tests point out that four of every 10 black volunteers who have entered the armed services since the end of the draft have been in the lowest acceptable mental category," which raises the possibility that higher entrance standards are needed to decrease training and disciplinary problems, the study said.

The Reagan administration maintains the all-volunteer system is working well now, citing successes in meeting recruiting goals. It rejects a return to the draft and Pentagon officials prefer to avoid any public debate about the politically-explosive issue of the racial makeup of the forces.

Delegates Attend Meet

W.R. Nichols, spokesman for Jehovah's Witnesses, said today that 190 delegates representing Greenville will travel to Hampton, Va. this weekend to attend a four-day district convention.

This convention is one of 104 being held across the United States during July and August. More than 7,000 delegates are expected to attend the session to be held in the Hampton Coliseum.

Approximately 1,000,000 people will attend the series of conventions, entitled "Kingdom of Truth." The conventions will be held in 68 cities including Roanoke, Va. and Greensboro.

The public is invited to attend the session.

All meetings for Jehovah's Witnesses in Greenville this weekend are cancelled.

Wants To Jail 6 ERA Backers

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)

— A state attorney wants six women jailed immediately for splattering animal blood in the Illinois Capitol after the state Senate defeated the Equal Rights Amendment.

They were among nine women charged Friday with felony vandalism after they smeared the blood outside House and Senate chambers and on the office windows of Gov. James R. Thompson.

The women, who said they belong to the Champaign-based Grass Roots Group of Second Class Citizens, acted after the state Senate rejected the ERA on Friday.

Steven Nardulli, an attorney for Secretary of State Jim Edgar, said Sunday he would ask Sangamon County Circuit Judge Simon Friedman today to jail six of the women, already found in contempt for disobeying a previous anti-demonstration order, until lawmakers recess for the summer. Scheduled adjournment is midnight Wednesday, but recent sessions have extended into early July.

Meanwhile, one of seven women who fasted in vain for 37 days to inspire passage of the ERA in Illinois, left a hospital Sunday where she had spent nine days for treatment of a collapsed lung.

Mary Ann Beall, 39, a mother of two teen-agers, departed for her Falls Church, Va., home.

The amendment, which would ban discrimination on the basis of sex, needs ratification from three more states by Wednesday to become part of the U.S. Constitution. Last week, however, the National Association for Women conceded defeat in the 10-year drive to approve it. Thirty five states have ratified the ERA, although five have rescinded their approval in actions under review by the U.S. Supreme Court.

The nine demonstrators, if convicted, could face up to three years in prison. One of the nine also was charged with obstructing justice. A hearing on the charges has been set for July 9.

Six of the women were among 14 found in contempt last Wednesday by Friedman for disobeying his order to end their statehouse demonstrations.

At various times since June 3, the women had chained themselves together and blocked legislative chambers or Thompson's office. Three times they were evicted from the Capitol by armed guards.

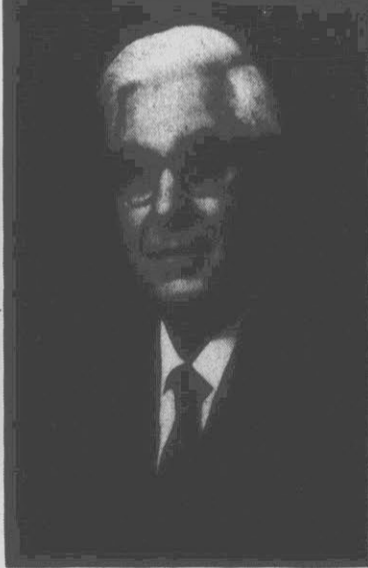

Group Makes Endorsement

The Pitt County Law Enforcement Officers Association, at a meeting June 23, elected officers for the coming year and adopted a resolution endorsing Chief Assistant District Attorney Thomas D. Haigwood for election as district attorney for Pitt County.

Association officers selected for the coming year include: president Lt. Arthur S. Butler of the State Highway Patrol, vice president Sgt. Randy Edwards of the Greenville Police Department, secretary Francis Eddings of the East Carolina University police department, and treasurer, inspector Garland Beddard of the Department of Motor Vehicles.

The Pitt County Law Enforcement Officers' Association, composed of local, county, state and federal law enforcement officers in Pitt County, cited Haigwood's more than nine years service as an assistant district attorney in endorsing his election as district attorney in Tuesday's primary.

Salute By Jazz Festival

By MARY CAMPBELL
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — A cheerful concert tribute to the late Alec Wilder, who composed concert music, pop and jazz, was held at Carnegie Hall as part of the Kool Jazz Festival.

It was full of stars and three hours long, but compactly organized, with no feeling of rush. It was done with good taste, unforced sentiments, some information and fine music.

The Sunday concert began with pianist Marian McPartland playing "I'll Be Around." Then Wilder's voice was heard saying, "I like to write for friends." Wilder died Christmas eve 1980 but comments he had tape recorded were heard frequently through the concert.

Miss McPartland also played the first of many tunes Wilder composed for her. "Jazz Waltz for a Friend."

Mitch Miller commissioned Wilder's first piece of music. He said he was playing lots of Bach in 1936 and suggested that Wilder write something for harpsichord and woodwinds. "In three days he had four octet pieces written and we recorded them." Miller played oboe then. Sunday he conducted two of them. "Tender Night" and the spirit-lifting "Kindergarten Flower Pageant." Mabel Mercer sang, with exquisite vocal timbre, "Did You Ever Cross Over to Sneaden's?" and "Is It Always Like This When You Fall in Love?" Marlene VerPlanck, who used her rich voice in understated style, sang "Who Can I Turn to Now?" Lonnis McGlohon, who wrote more than 100 songs with Wilder, accompanied her on the last Wilder song for which he wrote lyrics, "To a Warmer Place."

Wilder's voice was heard calling the tuba "a glorious solo instrument." Harvey Phillips played two movements from one tuba suite Wilder wrote for him, with French hornist Paul Ingraham.

Gunther Schuller conducted three movements of a hauntingly melodic suite for four French horns, harpsichord, guitar, bass and drums. Gerry Mulligan played from a suite for baritone saxophone and quintet that "this dear man, with highly developed reverence" composed for him.

Eileen Farrell sang "While We're Young" very nicely and two other songs too girlishly. Pianist Ellis Larkins played "Who Can I Turn to Now?" Jackie Cain and Roy Kral were clear voiced and appealingly gentle on "Mimosa and Me" and "It's So Peaceful in the Country."

Trombonist Bob Brookmeyer, who said, "I never left Alec without the resolve to be better, somehow. That was a nice thing," played "The Wrong Blues." Tenor saxophonist Stan Getz hit a high point of beautiful tone with "A Long Night," Wilder's last song, which Frank Sinatra has recorded, and "Where Do You Go When It Starts to Rain?" which Getz recorded 25 years ago.

Trumpeter Joe Wilder accompanied Mary Mayo's singing "Blackberry Winter" and he took an inventive solo playing with Brookmeyer and Getz on "Baggage Room Blues."

In the afternoon the Duke Ellington Society presented a "Piano in the Foreground" concert and later in the evening Carnegie heard a Buddy Rich retrospective concert.

NANCY WILSON AT FESTIVAL — Vocalist Nancy Wilson performed Saturday night at Carnegie Hall in New York, joining jazz greats Clark Terry, Eddie "Lockjaw" Davis and others at the Kool Jazz Festival. Earlier, Benny Goodman, Lionel Hampton and Teddy Wilson reunited for a program of 1930s swing numbers, missing drummer Gene Krupa (a member of the old quartet) who died in 1973. (AP Laserphoto)

Ronnie Milsap Has Strong N.C. Roots

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Ronnie Milsap's highly successful career has carried him far from the small town where he was born. But Milsap says he's determined to not to forget his heritage.

Milsap, 39 and blind since birth, was born in the mountain town of Robbinsville, N.C. but at age 6 was enrolled in the state school for the blind in Raleigh. On Oct. 22, he'll return to the North Carolina capital to perform at the state fair.

"Man, I can't tell you how much I look forward to coming back; it just knocks me out," Milsap said in a telephone interview from a Nashville, Tenn., studio.

"I think Mel Tillis said it in a song somewhere — you spend most of your life trying to go back to where you were. I love that period when I was in Raleigh. I've got so much affection for that time in my life, I can't tell you." Abandoned by his parents and enrolled by his grandparents in the school for the blind — now the Governor Morehead School — Milsap there joined Walter Lackey and Larry Atwell in calling themselves the "three fat boys." They and other friends formed a rock band called The Apparitions that performed in the Raleigh-Durham-Chapel Hill area.

"It was the first time anybody at the school said, 'It's OK, you guys, if you play some of the music of the day' — whatever contemporary music was in 1961," Milsap said.

Lackey now is a teacher at Northwestern University. Atwell died at age 21, but Milsap still keeps in touch with Atwell's parents in Charlotte. Milsap says he keeps close ties with other North Carolina friends as well.

"Sometimes I call, not to hear them say I like your record or whatever, but to be a part of what I was then," he said. "Just one of the boys. I just want to be one of the boys."

That 'Chips' Casting Couch Has A Swarm Of Big-Smiling Clones

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — This must be the place. You walk into an office and see a couch full of blond, muscle-bound clones dressed in tight T-shirts, dungarees and sneakers.

And they all have one more thing. Big smiles. If you're going to share motorcycle duty with swarthy Erik Estrada, you need good choppers.

This was the scene last week. Not a meeting of the UCLA water polo team, but a steady stream of dreamers, all hopeful of winning a starring role in NBC's beef-cakey hit, "CHIPS," about California motorcycle cops.

Larry Wilcox has left the show for wider thoroughfares, so the casting call went out for a new salt shaker to star with Estrada's pepper. "We're looking for somebody with sex appeal and a strong image," says Al Onorato, casting consultant for "CHIPS."

Intellectual types and Wilcox lookalikes need not apply.

"We're stressing that this is not a replacement but a new character," says Onorato. "It's not an advantage to look too much like Larry."

"The guy has to be young and fairly cocky," adds Onorato. "He's on the police force because there's a moral fiber about him. But he'll take on the establishment when he has to, and bend it his way."

"It's preferable that he's blond. And preferable that he ride a motorcycle." But the most essential quality is that he must make women swoon.

"There are different kinds of sex appeal," says Onorato. "I like to compare it to ice cream. Vanilla, chocolate and strawberry are all best-sellers. But what we want here is a man's man, like Tom Selleck. He's not a threat to men, and women love him. We're not looking for an Anthony Geary ('General Hospital'). That's too esoteric and ethereal."

Greg Wongler, 20, is one of the hundreds of hopefuls who's been auditioning in Miami, Dallas, Atlanta, New York and Los Angeles. The first three cities grow them strong and tan. The last two are actors' havens.

Wongler, from Croton, N.Y., attends C.W. Post College, where he plays lacrosse. He's blond and can ride a motorcycle. He's done recent commercials for the Army, Three Musketeers and Zest Soap. He broke into the business by doing a Minolta camera commercial with Bruce Jenner, a "CHIPS" alumnus.

"This is surely harder than commercials," Wongler said after reading a scene with Onorato. "You have to come across in a realistic way."

Wongler made it past the interview-and-reading stage. The next step is an audition tape that will be screened by executives at NBC and MGM, the production company behind "CHIPS." Then could come an audition with Ponch (Estrada) to see how they mix on camera. Filming for "CHIPS" begins July 26.

"Greg's loose and looks like he can handle himself on a motorcycle," says Onorato. "He's beefy enough to be on the police force and be a match for Eric. He also has a certain vulnerability and sexuality. He actually blushed."

Others didn't have what Onorato wanted. Steve was too much the actor. "He had a little street quality that wasn't necessary. We're looking for innocent and he was too polished. He's also losing his hair."

Dave had dark hair and was listed at 5-foot-9. "He's probably 5-8, but if he were right, he could wear boots. Eric is only 5-11."

Jim was tall, thin and non-athletic. "Definitely the business and professional type."

Although this talent hunt isn't as big as the search for Scarlet O'Hara, it has attracted some crazies.

"One guy came off the street, never having acted or ridden a motorcycle before," says Onorato. "He must have been 40."

And he wasn't sexy.

Donohue Took Beating In N.Y.

NEW YORK (AP) — A planned appearance by talk show host Phil Donohue, whose syndicated program enjoys high local ratings, got a cool reception from "blase" New Yorkers.

Donohue agreed to cancel a lecture scheduled over the weekend at the Beacon Theater after only 250 tickets were sold by last Wednesday. The theater holds about 2,700 people.

"We took something of a beating, but it's not that Donohue isn't popular," said John Scher, president of Monarch Entertainment Bureau, which promoted several dates on Donohue's annual speaking tour.

"Apparently a lot of people don't want to pay for someone they're used to hearing for free," Scher said.

"I also think that New Yorkers are a bit more blase about things like this," he added.

RADIO GUESTS

The city announced that the guests on its radio program, "City Hall Notes," this week will be Ms. Verona Ellis, pesticide control officer, and Ms. Hansey Jones of Sheppard Memorial Library.

Ms. Ellis will discuss the city's malaria control program and Ms. Jones will talk about the summer program for the children's library.

The radio program is aired each Tuesday and Thursday at 6:30 p.m. on WOOW.

Green Bust To Be Unveiled

MANTEO — The late Paul Green, Pulitzer Prize-winning playwright and author of "The Lost Colony" will be honored Sunday, July 4, at Waterside Theater with the unveiling of the Paul Green bust.

The dedication will take place at 3:30 p.m., the 45th anniversary of the opening of "The Lost Colony," which took place on July 4, 1937 to celebrate the 350th anniversary of the birthday of Virginia Dare.

The bust of Green was made by sculptor William E. Hipp III, a native of Charlotte now living in Chapel Hill. Other busts created by Hipps include ones of Thomas Wolfe and President James K. Polk.

Harnett County native Green wrote for the movies as well as writing plays and other literary material. He died May 4, 1981, at the age of 87.

This year's 42nd season production by Joe Layton plays nightly except Sundays through August 28.

Saturday's Cryptoquip — DREAMS OF FABULOUS SUMMER FUN BEMUSE DULL STUDENTS.

Today's Cryptoquip clue: R equals A
The Cryptoquip is a simple substitution cipher in which each letter used stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words, and words using an apostrophe can give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is accomplished by trial and error.

FOCUS

International City

Tomorrow in Geneva, Switzerland, U.S. and Soviet diplomats begin talks about reducing strategic weapons. Switzerland's neutrality, never broken since 1815, has made it a favored site for such meetings. In 1920 Geneva, the nation's third largest city, became the home of the League of Nations. Many world organizations such as the International Red Cross and the World Health Organization are headquartered there. Under the Geneva Accords, reached there in 1954, France withdrew from Indochina. In 1955 the city hosted a major East-West conference. Since November, U.S. and Soviet negotiators have been meeting there to discuss controls on intermediate-range nuclear weapons.

'No-Lose-Case' Proved A Loser

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Tex Norman thought he was in a "no-lose" situation. He lost anyway.

Norman, of Wewoka, Okla., was the only person nominated to be media coordinator for the state Libertarian Party. The previous coordinator had resigned after a dispute with the party's executive committee.

But at the party's annual convention this weekend, the six-man executive committee voted instead for "none of the above," meaning the post will be vacant during the coming year. Party spokesman Robert Murphy said officials in each of the party's district offices will handle the duties.

"Oh — that's really rotten," said Norman, when reached by telephone at his home Sunday and informed of the vote. He had left the convention the previous day. Murphy said 55 people attended the convention.

Hunt Illegal Aliens In Fla. And Calif.

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The federal government is cracking down on Mexicans who cross the border illegally to search for work in fields in Florida and California.

So far this year, more than 1,000 Mexicans have been rounded up and sent back to their homeland, authorities say.

With a lighter-than-usual workload since the wave of Cuban and Haitian refugees the past two years has subsided, U.S. Border Patrol agents have started concentrating on rounding up Mexicans for the long bus ride back to the border.

Texas-trained agents are routinely raiding fields and groves, setting up roadblocks to check labor buses and searching farm camps.

Some 630 undocumented Mexicans were deported in May, and 480 in April. In February and March, about 100 each month were sent home. But so far in June, only 50 Mexicans have been deported. Agents fear the aliens are wary of the crackdown.

"The aliens are not quite as easy to catch," said Dan Gibson, chief of the Border Patrol's office in West Palm Beach. "They're definitely keeping a low profile."

Federal officials believe deporting illegal aliens from Florida and California farm fields will frustrate the illegal workers more effectively than trying to stop them at the Texas border.

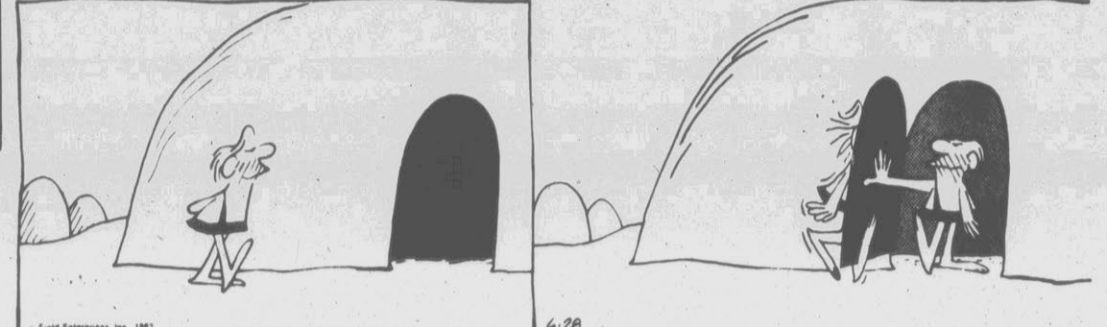

The government is supporting its policy with money and agents.

Last year, the Border Patrol had 24 agents in Florida. Now, 39 are scattered statewide.

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, JUNE 29, 1982

YOUR DAILY Horoscope

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: An unusually good day and evening to obtain information you require that can lead to advancement in your line of endeavor. Take time to plan the future wisely.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Extend your interests so you can gain more profits in the future. Be less demanding of family members. Express happiness.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Conditions in the business world may appear strange now, but later can turn to your benefit. Be more self-assured.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You can gain your aims now if you schedule your time and activities well. Relax and be contented in the evening.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Take no risks where your health is concerned at this time. Put a special talent you have to work.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Study new interests that could prove profitable for you in the future. Take treatments to improve your appearance.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Set up a better system so you can make more progress in the future. Be sure to spend your money wisely at all times today.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Study every phase of your monetary affairs and find a better way of handling your finances. Express happiness.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Be more enthused in regular routines and make more progress. Take no risks with your reputation at this time.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Contact a trusted adviser who can give you good ideas so that you can advance in career activities.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) A good day to concentrate on getting ahead in your line of endeavor. Strive for increased happiness.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Keep busy and accomplish a great deal. Delve into civic work and gain more prestige. Be wary of newcomers.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Go to the right sources for important data you need. A new project needs more study before going ahead with it.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those delightful young persons who will profit from discipline early in life. The talents here will start to express themselves gradually. Teach to be objective and give the benefit of ethical training.

Giant Sailing Ships End 5-Day Philadelphia Celebration Visit

By MITCHELL ZUCKOFF
Associated Press Writer
NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — More than 100,000 people watched from shore as 35 giant sailing vessels unfurled their canvas, caught the wind and sailed down Narragansett Bay to cap a "Tall Ships" celebration.

Leading the formation was the Coast Guard's 295-foot Eagle, followed by the 353-foot Esmeralda from Chile, the Gloria from Colombia, the Sagres from Portugal and the 270-foot Simon Bolivar from Venezuela, with 30 smaller ships riding in their wake. After the morning festivities, which also attracted about 2,000 pleasure boats, the Sagres left for its home port with seven other ships in a 2,850-mile trans-Atlantic race.

The vessels assembled underneath the Newport Bridge for the 11.5-mile parade route, then sailed north to Gould Island to wind up their five-day visit to Rhode Island.

The vessels came to Newport last Wednesday after spending five days in Philadelphia for that city's 300th birthday. "The ships looked stupendous," said a spectator, Edward P. O'Connell of Newport. "They were really amazing when they got all those sails up in the air."

O'Connell said he enjoyed the festival more than a previous visit by the ships to Newport in 1976 because the crowds were smaller this year. "But," he said, "it wasn't as emotional an event because it wasn't the Bicentennial."

Richard DiMaria of Thomaston, Conn., called the parade "just incredible. The ships are so magnificent, it really is a beautiful sight, but I thought it would be larger than it was."

Aboard one of the smaller ships, the Providence, sailors dressed in Revolutionary War regalia. The lone American ship which had entered the trans-Atlantic race, the 125-foot sloop Lingo, could not make the trip because of lack of funds.

The owners and crew of the 54-year-old former Swedish cargo vessel tried to raise $75,000, but fell far short.

"We don't have the money, so we don't race," said Greg Birra, skipper of the Lingo. "There was an offer made to turn her into a restaurant. I'd rather take her out and sink her."

During the parade, some of the pleasure boats crowding the bay drew dangerously close to the tall ships and

Says Nuclear War Threat Bothersome

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — A psychiatry professor at the Bowman Gray School of Medicine says the threat of nuclear war is causing more emotional problems than most people think — despite efforts to deny the existence of such a threat.

"Most threats we can turn off for the moment, but they're still there," said Dr. David Goode. "It comes out in a variety of ways — increased tension, psychosomatic problems, drug abuse or alcoholism, depending on the person's personality."

"Other subtle factors come out," Goode said. "I've heard many people say, particularly young people, that they feel they're not going to make it or they're not sure." Goode says he agrees with articles published by Dr. John E. Mack, professor of psychiatry at Harvard University, who was recently quoted in Newsweek magazine as saying that the majority of Americans may not talk about their concern because it isn't easy "to talk about the fact you don't think your kids are going to grow up because of nuclear war."

The nuclear threat has also been disruptive to people's moral and spiritual development, Goode said, adding that he thinks the peace movement is a healthy reaction to the threat. "It's healthy to say, 'Look, I've got this threat. I should do something about it,'" he said. "If you have a cancer you get to your doctor to see what can be done about it. To deny that it doesn't exist is not in your long-term interest.... It's a little nutty."

Goode says the nuclear threat bothers people in complex ways. He says it shows up in people's concerns and in their other problems, making them worse. Dr. David Jackson, director of the residency training program in the Department of Family and Community Medicine at Bowman Gray, has a different outlook based on the belief that most Americans don't know what nuclear war involvement means.

"The majority of people have no idea of how absolutely horrible it would be," he said. "I think the average American doesn't spend two minutes out of a day thinking about it.... People just don't want to hear about it."

Rejects Bid Of $1 Million

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — Colombian author Gabriel Garcia Marquez says he has rejected a $1 million offer from actor Anthony Quinn for movie rights to his worldwide best seller, "One Hundred Years of Solitude."

"Anthony Quinn, with his million dollars and everything, will never be... Col. Aureliano Buendia (the hero of the novel)," Garcia Marquez wrote Sunday in an article for the Buenos Aires newspaper Clarin. "My reticence to make movies out of 'One Hundred Years of Solitude' and, in general, all my published works... is due to my desire for direct communication with my readers, so that by means of the letters I write they can imagine the characters to be as they wish, and not as the borrowed face of an actor on the screen," Garcia Marquez said. "Besides, I have seen many good movies made from very bad novels, but I never have seen a good movie made from a good novel."

The novelist said that in general, he has an aversion to film producers. "They are grandiloquent, insecure and unpredictable," he said. "My wife Mercedes is afraid of them because they show up for the first meeting with outer space-like projects, clean out your bar and pantry, make calls all over the world from your phone without asking how much they owe, and then you never hear from them again."

TORRENTIAL RAIN
LONDON (AP) — Three boys apparently drowned and two other people were killed by lightning as a torrential rainstorm pummeled Britain over the weekend, police said Sunday.

Had 30,000 At Their Reception

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Tony and Maria Castellano wanted a large crowd for their wedding reception — so they held it at Summerfest, an annual music festival that draws thousands of people to the Lake Michigan shore.

The happy husband is a lighting designer for Sweet Cheeks, a band playing at Summerfest's Pabst Festival Stage, so "it seemed natural that we come down here," he said Saturday, about two hours after the wedding ceremony.

"This is us; we're very impulsive," added his new wife. "Besides, where can you have 30,000 people at your wedding reception?"

For clinic services, patients will be charged based on their ability to pay as determined by "declaration." No proof of income will be required unless there is reason to question the information supplied. The gross income and family size "declared" by the patient will be applied to a sliding fee scale to determine the rates for specific procedures. The sliding fee scale is not used to determine rates for specific procedures. Although no one is denied services because of inability to pay, the Health Department staff will make a concerted effort to collect at the time of each visit. In addition, patients with unpaid accounts will be billed for three consecutive months after each visit unless the accounts are paid in full.
