TRUTH IN PREFERENCE TO FICTION

AUCTION ACTIVITY ... began this morning on the Greenville Tobacco Market and John Cyrus, tobacco affairs specialist with the state Department of Agriculture (front-left), and Agriculture Commissioner Jim Graham (behind Cyrus) were

Shadows Overhang Leaf Mart Opening

By TOM BAINES

Proposed legislation to increase the tax on cigarettes and controversy over the revised price-support program appeared to cast a shadow over opening sales activity on the Greenville Tobacco Market today as early quotes lagged behind comparable 1981 figures.

Pointing to the tax situation, state Agriculture Commissioner Jim Graham said, "I can't help but believe the (buying) companies are holding back on that account."

A concern as sales developed at local warehouses centered around the amount of tobacco being taken by Flue-Cured Cooperative Stabilization Corp., which administers the support program. Where early Stabilization totals last year were very small, analysts estimated that as much as 20 to 25 percent of the local leaf might involve co-op purchases today.

Following a vintage year in 1981 when the opening average broke local records, today's leaf quotes were seen as disappointing to many. State Sen. Vernon White of Winterville said that the price-support program is placed in jeopardy when so much tobacco goes to Stabilization.

"The tobacco companies are somewhat jittery over the proposed tax," the senator observed, adding that "it is disappointing that grade for grade we are not averaging as high as last year." He said "very few companies are buying."

The opening row of tobacco at one warehouse brought purchase totals ranging from $132 per hundred for P4L primings up to $185 per hundred for some of the middle-of-the-stalk leaf. Most of the sales in the $184-$185 category went to Stabilization but the loan program also picked up its share of $132-$157 per hundred pounds tobacco.

Graham, after reviewing early sales activity at one warehouse, said "there is more going to Stabilization than I would like." The commissioner said it appeared initial purchases were bringing about one to two cents above support price but he encouraged patience on the part of growers.

"I think we'll be all right but we've got to give it time to settle down," he said. Graham said farmers had made a "lot of sacrifices and concessions, then at the last minute, we see a lot of changes. I don't like the tax situation."

John Cyrus, tobacco affairs specialist with the state Department of Agriculture, said that, in comparing with the 1981 opening day in Greenville grade prices were off today on what he termed "better than average primings."

Cyrus recalled that last year, P4L grades averaged $156 per hundred pounds on the Eastern Belt on opening day and P4F grades brought an average of $154 per hundred. This year's initial activity indicated that the two grades, which carry a support price of $131 per hundred pounds, were bringing only $1-$3 above support. "B" grades, which carry a higher support price, brought only $1 above the support figure in the early activity, he noticed.

"This is a good, ripe tobacco, a good break for opening day," Cyrus said.

He emphasized that the first few rows might not be representative of what will take place later on the market. Stabilization receipts were as high as 37 percent on the first row at one warehouse.

Where the market averaged $162.15 last year on opening day, Cyrus said the average could be in the $145 to $150 per (Please turn to Page 6)

Israeli Continue Barrage

Guerrillas Scorn Sudan Sanctuary

By The Associated Press
The Palestine Liberation Organization scorned an offer of refuge in Sudan today, and Israeli warplanes joined gunboats and artillery in a furious barrage of Yasser Arafat's besieged guerrillas in west Beirut.

A PLO communique said 84 civilians in one building were killed and 142 wounded in the massive air, sea and land attack that pounded the guerrilla redoubt for the sixth straight day.

In Jerusalem, Sen. Paul Tsongas said Prime Minister Menachem Begin told him he would never negotiate with Arafat. "No, under no conditions. Never. No contact with Arafat," the Massachusetts Democrat quoted Begin as saying.

The Israeli invaders also cut off electricity and water to western half of Lebanon's capital, where PLO fighters have been surrounded since the early days of Israel's June 6 invasion to obliterate Arafat's guerrilla army.

"Why should I go to Sudan? I am not a Sudanese," said Arafat's chief spokesman Mahmoud Labadi when asked about the offer of sanctuary by Sudanese President Gaafar Mohammed Nimeiri.

"We are willing to leave Lebanon immediately," Labadi told reporters in west Beirut. "Lebanon is not our country. But our homeland is occupied by the Israelis."

Nimeiri is the first Arab leader to publicly announce he will provide a haven for the PLO guerrillas if they are evacuated from the Israeli-ruled Moslem sector of the Lebanese capital.

There had been speculation the guerrillas would reject refuge so far from the war front with Israel, in a North African nation with close ties to the United States and Egypt, vilified in the Arab world for making peace with Israel.

Finding a country of exile for the guerrillas is a major obstacle in U.S. special envoy Philip C. Habib's protracted efforts to arrange their evacuation and ward off a final Israeli onslaught into west Beirut.

As Habib shuttled from London to Jerusalem to meet with Begin, Israeli jets screamed over west Beirut in thunderous divebombings, and gunboats, tanks and artillery poured massive barrages into PLO strongholds.

The blitz that began at midnight intensified by midday with rapid explosions shaking many west Beirut neighborhoods. Ambulances careened through streets and rescuers dug through rubble looking for bodies.

Israeli soldiers are occupying the Gazz substation in Christian-dominated east Beirut, which supplies power to the Moslem western sector, and electricity has been cut in that area since 5 p.m. Monday.

Lebanon's minister of electricity and water resources, Mahmoud Amar, was quoted in Beirut newspapers as saying water stations also were seized and drinking water could run out today in west Beirut, where 35,000 to 40,000 Israeli troops have trapped an estimated 8,000 PLO guerrillas.

The Israelis cut water and power from July 4-7 but restored the services following protests from the United States and Western Europe.

Lebanese police said 15 civilians were killed and 47 wounded in day and night air raids Monday, but did not mention any guerrilla casualties. The PLO claimed 101 casualties in the fifth day of Israeli air attacks.

The intense pounding underlined Israel's determination to drive the guerrillas from their last Lebanese stronghold and appeared to signal growing Israeli anger over the PLO's stepped-up propaganda war.

Israeli Defense Minister Ariel Sharon was quoted by Israeli news media Monday as saying his army no longer was waiting for the PLO to open fire before launching its own bombardments.

The afternoon air raid and artillery barrages Monday hit a major guerrilla ammunition dump in the seaside Ramlet al-Baida district.

Israel renewed its air strikes against west Beirut last Thursday in an apparent attempt to spur the dragging U.S.-sponsored negotiations to get the guerrillas out of Lebanon before Israel invades their stronghold.

Habib met in London Monday with Jordan's King Hussein, in the British capital on a private visit.

Hussein said their talk was "very useful" but refused to say whether he would accept any guerrillas. Hussein expelled the PLO fighters from Jordan in a bloody civil war in 1970 because they were threatening to take over his country. The guerrillas took refuge in Lebanon, where they set up a virtually autonomous state and fought on the side of the Lebanese Moslems in the 1975-76 civil war.

Israeli officials claim the PLO is using the Habib mission to stall for time, hoping a growing tide of world opinion will block an Israeli invasion of west Beirut.

U.S. and Israeli officials dismissed a written statement by Arafat accepting "all U.N. resolutions relevant to the Palestinian question."

Tobacco Prices Short Of Hopes

By JOHN FLESHER
Associated Press Writer

ROCKY MOUNT, N.C. (AP) — Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., today defended his vote favoring a bill to double the federal tax on cigarettes, saying the tax package will strengthen the economy and ultimately benefit the federal tobacco program.

"I assure you when we walked off the Senate floor after approving the tax package, we had more support for the tobacco program than we had had for a long time," Helms said in a speech prior to the opening of the Eastern Belt flue-cured tobacco market.

In Goldsboro, growers and market officials were "disappointed" with prices paid on opening-day sales. Prices ranged from $131 to $145 per hundred pounds of down-stalk tobacco and $160 to $163 for better grades, said Marshall Cox, sales supervisor.

Goldsboro had the highest average price on the Eastern Belt last year at $173.56 per hundredweight. Opening day prices in 1981 averaged $163.55, while today's prices were closer to $150, Cox said.

Markets on the South Carolina-Border North Carolina Belt opened Monday, while auctions on the Middle Belt open Aug. 3 and the Old Belt begins sales Aug. 10.

"We have the president and the secretary of agriculture who support the tobacco program publicly and privately," Helms said. "The tax bill is not what we would have wanted, but ... it

Lackluster Runoff Vote

By WILLIAM M. WELCH
Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Voter turnout appeared to be as limited as expected today as North Carolina Democrats trickled into voting booths to settle nominations for one congressional seat and two state judgeships.

State Elections Director Alex Brock said a turnout of just 15 percent of the 1.8 million registered Democrats would be reasonable given the lackluster statewide races — two seats on the state Court of Appeals. Polls opened at 6:30 a.m.

In Winston-Salem today, the Forsyth County Board of Elections office appeared quieter than a library, as board chairman James W. Armentrout said only about 4,000 of the county's 79,127 Democrats would cast ballots.

Voting was likely to be far heavier in the 11 counties of the 2nd Congressional District, where attorney H.M. "Mickey" Michaux of Durham is seeking to become the first black elected to Congress from the state in this century. He faces white attorney I.T. "Tim" Valentine of Nashville.

"It's going to be decent where they've got local races," said Brock, "and where they don't it will be pathetic."

In populous Mecklenburg County local officials said turnout was likely to be as low as 6 percent, and they decided to use paper ballots rather than voting machines.

The only statewide contests are for two Democratic nominations to the state Court of Appeals, the second highest court in the state.

In one race, Winston-Salem lawyer Eugene Phillips faces Pitt County District Judge Horton Rountree. In the other, Wayne County District Judge Paul Wright faces Raleigh lawyer Sidney Eagles.

Michaux, 51, U.S. attorney during the Carter administration, led with 44 percent of the vote in the first primary for the 2nd District nomination. Valentine, 56, was second with 33 percent and demanded the runoff since Michaux was short of a majority.

A third candidate, former state House Speaker James Ramsey, did not endorse either runoff candidate.

The seat is being given up by Democrat L.H. Fountain, a 30-year incumbent given to white linen suits and conservative votes. Valentine has inherited much of Fountain's organization and has sought to depict the race as a clear choice between a conservative and a liberal, Michaux.

The 2nd District Democratic winner will face Republican nominee Jack Marin of Durham, a former professional basketball player.

Race, an underlying issue in the Michaux-Valentine contest, became a public one during the final days with an exchange between the two campaigns.

CANCER STUDY VOLUNTEERS SOUGHT

The Pitt County Chapter of the American Cancer Society is seeking 34 research volunteers to implement the Society's Cancer Prevention Study II which starts in September.

This study will be part of a national study to address the questions: What factors are related to cancer and how can these diseases be prevented? For answers, the study will examine the American lifestyle — the food we eat, the products we use, the conditions under which we live and work — to see if these have any bearing on cancer and other diseases. With information from the study, the American Cancer Society hopes to develop programs to help people reduce their cancer risks.

Each research volunteer will be asked to select at least 10 families in accordance with study guidelines. Each family group must have one member over the age of 45, though anyone over 30 in that family can participate. Volunteers will be counted on to explain and distribute the study's four-page confidential questionnaire, retrieve the completed forms, and do necessary follow-up work for six years every other year.

Individuals interested in becoming research volunteers are asked to contact Ralph Hall Jr., 757-4587, no later than Aug. 8. The Rev. Graham Nahouse is co-steering the project with Hall.

Sen. East Regrets Tax Vote; But Lost Battle

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

"Of course I deeply regretted it," North Carolina Sen. John East says of his vote last Friday for a tax increase bill — the largest tax increase in history — which would double the federal sales tax on cigarettes and other tobacco products for a three-year period.

East and North Carolina's senior Sen. Jesse Helms, the New Right leader who had made no secret of his dislike for raising taxes, earlier had voted against the tax hike bill. But in the pre-dawn hours of Friday, the two Republican senators switched their votes to insure its passage in the Senate by a three-vote margin — 50 to 47.

The Republican tax package, which would produce $98.5 billion in revenues over the next three years, doubles the tax on cigarettes — from the present 8 cents a pack to 16 cents.

East said Monday, "We regret the results. We struggled against it (the tobacco tax increase) with a series of amendments ... one which would have completely eliminated it." But those attempts failed, East noted during a telephone interview from his Washington, D.C., office.

However, East said Senate tobacco supporters were successful in having the bill amended to create a "sunset to eliminate it (the 8 cents increase in the tobacco tax) in 1985."

"Again, it's not something we're happy with, but it's something we're going to have to live with," East suggested.

"The tobacco issue is always a controversial one," East emphasized. "You get into these conflicts over tobacco. There are strong emotions on both sides. It's just inherent in the nature of the thing."

"But on the positive side, we were able to maintain the tobacco program and fight off hostile amendments" which would have caused serious damage to tobacco producers.

"We try to keep a perspective ... and are pleased with the results of the tobacco program which is fundamental and critical." But "there's no question about it," East said, tobacco supporters don't like the increased taxes on tobacco products.

"So it's again an ongoing battle. We shall continue to consider it. It's a top priority item of significance to the whole tobacco industry and to the State of North Carolina."

"That's what the job is about up here ... to struggle with it the best you can and deal with it the best you can ... give it the highest priority, and try to minimize the impact of what the opponents are doing," East said.

CANDIDATE AND WIFE VOTE — Horton Rountree, a candidate for the state Court of Appeals, and his wife, Helen, cast their ballots at 7:30 a.m. today at Aycock Junior High School — the fifth and six persons to vote at the precinct today. Rountree, a former member of the N.C. House of Representatives and currently a District Court judge, faces

Eugene Phillips of Winston-Salem for the Democratic nomination to one two Court of Appeals seats in today's balloting. Paul Wright of Wayne County faces Sidney Eagles of Raleigh in the race for the nomination to the second seat. Voting in the second primary is expected to be light. (Reflector Staff Photo)

Wedding Vows Said On Sunday Afternoon

WASHINGTON — Carla Lynne Hicks and Randy Lee Bridgman were united in marriage Sunday afternoon at three o'clock in the First United Methodist Church here. The Rev. Ralph Epps officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl E. Hicks of Natchitoches, La.

Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Cecil E. Bridgman of Washington.

A program of wedding music was presented by Mrs. Blake Lewis, organist, Vanessa Parker and Robbie Southern sang "Endless Love," "The Wedding Song" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride was given in marriage by her parents and wore a gown of white organza with a chantilly lace empire bodice and a ruffled lace neckline. A lace band extended beyond the bodice seam and a satin ribbon bow and streamers adorned the gown at the back bodice. The flared skirt, which flowed into a chapel length train, was encircled with a tiered lace-edged flounce. Her lace edged fingertip veil of illusion was held in place by a chantilly lace headpiece trimmed with seed pearls. She carried a bridal Bible with a lace cover and an arrangement of yellow roses and daisies with yellow streamers.

Donna Underwood of Columbia, S.C., sister of the bride, served as matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Suzanne Woolard of Washington, Suzanne Herring of Myrtle Beach, S.C., Mary Frances Marsicano of Greensboro and Elizabeth Emory of Asheville. The attendants wore rainbow colored gowns of lilac, blue, yellow, green and peach. The lustreglow gowns were styled with spaghetti straps and an overlay of chiffon. Each carried a white lace fan with yellow daisies and white streamers.

Noel Harrison and Crystal Fraley were flower girls. They each wore a yellow dress with a fitted bodice and a sash at the waist. They carried baskets of yellow rose petals. Dwayne Harrison served as ring bearer. He carried a heart-shaped pillow with accented with white streamers and baby's breath.

The mother of the bride wore a formal plum dress styled with accordian pleats and a chiffon cap overlay. The mother of the bridegroom chose a formal length dress of rose pink chiffon with an empire waist. Both mothers wore miniature orchid corsages and were remembered with a rose.

The father of the bridegroom served as best man. Ushers were Billy Batchelor, Lawrence Tolston, Terry Ward and Jerry Boyd, all of Washington.

Mrs. Joe Tunstall served as mistress of ceremony and Mrs. Roy Catlett was in charge of the reception.

Following the ceremony, the bride's parents hosted a reception at the Holiday Inn. Wedding cake was served by Mrs. Jack Holmes of Florida, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. James Bridgman of Pennsylvania, aunt of the bridegroom. Mrs. Billy Waters of Panteo, aunt of the bridegroom, poured punch and Mrs. Bill Hicks of Florida, aunt of the bride, kept the bride's book.

An after-rehearsal buffet dinner hosted by the parents of the bridegroom was held at the Holiday Inn. After the dinner, friends and relatives were invited to the home of the parents of the bridegroom for champagne toasts.

The bride is a senior at East Carolina University and is employed at Pitt County Memorial Hospital. The bridegroom is a graduate of East Carolina University.

Following a wedding trip to Williamsburg, Va., the couple will make their home in Greenville.

Awards Given Auxiliary At Meeting

The Ladies Auxiliary of the Veterans of Foreign Wars received awards for its outstanding projects at the recent state convention held in Greensboro.

Carrie West, Alice Mosley and Dorothy Armistead gave the report at the auxiliary meeting Thursday evening. Awards were given for the group's work at O'Berry Center, scholarship funds, Cancer Aid and Research, Buddy Poppy campaign and local youth activities.

Ms. Armistead, presiding vice president, reported that 100 percent membership quota has been reached.

The Second District meeting was held in Washington Sunday. Delegates included Ms. Armistead, Mrs. West, Mrs. Mosley, Verna Mizelle, Hattie Manning and Lillian Bradshaw.

A memorial was made to the late Mrs. J.B. Spilman, a Gold Star mother, at The Memorial Baptist Church.

A covered-dish supper will be held at the Post Home Thursday evening for members of the post, auxiliary and guests.

Rosa Lee Boyd, Peggy Edwards, Glendora Brewer, Edna Hodges and Hattie Manning were meeting hostesses.

Miss Wallace Is Married

TOPSAIL ISLAND — The wedding of Janet Lynn Wallace and Paul L. Tackett Jr. took place here at Sea Haven Beach July 18.

The honor attendant was Mrs. Mark Ringrose of Fayetteville. James Whitaker of Bethel was best man.

The ceremony was conducted by the Rev. Donald Horn of Surf City Baptist Church. The ceremony took place at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Wallace. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. P.L. Tackett Sr. of Indiana.

A champagne reception was held on the lawn after the ceremony.

The couple plan a winter cruise to the Bahamas.

Birth

Parker

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Michael E. Parker, 9253 Atwood Ave., Norfolk, Va., a son, Kevin Michael, on July 23, 1982, in Norfolk General Hospital. Mrs. Parker is the former Cherylene Bowen of Greenville.

Dear Abby

'Shared Memory' Invitation

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1982 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: What is the difference between "having sex" and "making love"?

NEEDS TO KNOW

DEAR NEEDS: In "having sex," the name of the game is sexual gratification. It's a selfish exercise, a physical release in which the partner is a faceless object. (Anyone will do.)

In "making love," one is motivated by an overwhelming desire to give pleasure, express affection, communicate one's feelings of caring. It's the ultimate in sharing. In making love, the partner is a very special person. (No one else will do.)

Love is a metropolis. Sex is a whistlestop. Love is an eternal torch. Sex is a sputnik!

DEAR ABBY: I would like to make you aware of a new fraud springing up in our land. It involves dental insurance. Now that most people are getting dental insurance, it seems many dentists probe and dig as hard as they can in order to loosen patients' old fillings and crack them. That way, the filling will either fall out, or food particles and bacteria will get beneath the filling and start a new cavity.

If there is no trouble in your mouth, they will make it. The last dentist I had showed me X-rays of "my" mouth, and I noticed the teeth in the X-rays were all crisscrossed. My teeth are wide-spaced! He argued with me, insisted they were my X-rays, but I'm a nurse and I know something about reading X-rays.

Another racket is drilling too deep, damaging a nerve and then sending the patient to an oral surgeon or a root-canal specialist who gives the dentist a kickback.

My husband suffered agonizing pain, time lost from work and a lot of needless expense for root-canal work that was probably caused intentionally by his dentist.

Please print this as a warning to all people.

ON TO THEM IN ST. LOUIS

DEAR ON: If anyone suspects his dentist of unethical practices, he should report that dentist to the local county dental society. There is a dental review board that investigates every complaint thoroughly. I assure you the board will get to the root of the matter!

DEAR ABBY: We are planning a surprise 40th wedding anniversary celebration for our parents, but we do not want the guests (most of whom will be our parents' friends) to bring presents. I was told that you printed a very beautiful and tasteful invitation, suggesting that a written recollection of a "shared memory" be the gift.

Will you please run it again?

ABBY FANS

DEAR FANS: With pleasure:

"The children of Ivar and Helen Dahl invite you to celebrate with them the 50th wedding anniversary of their parents. A reception will be held May 7, at 2 p.m., at the Elmhurst Country Club.

"We request your help in compiling a book which recalls memories from our parents' first 50 years of marriage. On the enclosed sheet, we ask that you write one memory or event that you have shared with them, and return it to us by April 26. We believe that the loving memories they have shared with you, their friends, would be the most treasured gift they could receive; therefore, we request that no other gift be sent."

DEAR ABBY: Re the letter signed "Concerned Daughter," whose poor, elderly parents had been in an automobile accident, sued and collected a sizable amount of money, whereupon their "churchgoing lawyer-friend" said he needed to "borrow" it and promptly pocketed all the money: You suggested they engage an ethical lawyer to retrieve their money.

There is a faster and easier solution: The old couple should contact the ethics committee of their state bar association.

The bar association is empowered to compel the dishonest lawyer to return all the money, and also to censure him, suspend him from practice for a period, or even to disbar him completely. This service will not cost the old couple one cent!

To take money due poor, old people for their accident injuries is not, in my eyes, the act of a friend.

BEVERLY HILLS LAWYER

Upton-Smith Wedding Solemnized Saturday

On Saturday, Hilda Hudson Smith and Joseph Wayne Upton were united in marriage at the Piney Grove Free Will Baptist Church. The Rev. Charles Brooks of Plymouth performed the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of W.S. Hudson of Greenville and the late Bessie A. Hudson. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. Upton of Belhaven.

A program of wedding music was presented by pianist Iris Caldwell and soloist, Susan Jones, sang "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring" and "One Hand, One Heart." The altar featured a semicircle of candelabra, areca palms and flowers.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of sky blue organza over satin. The neckline of the fitted bodice was enhanced by a ruffle. The skirt was accented with a ruffle at the hemline. She wore a crown of blue and white daisies. The bride carried a formal cascade bouquet of blue baby's breath, lilies, alstromerias and blue delphiniums tied with sky blue satin.

MRS. JOSEPH WAYNE UPTON

The matron of honor was Judy Wood of Greenville, who wore a formal gown of yellow qiana with a matching lace jacket. She carried a nosegay of yellow lilies, pixie carnations and baby's breath tied yellow satin.

The mother of the bridegroom wore a floor length gown of yellow and beige chiffon print over yellow organza. Sophia Boyd, fiancée of the bride's father, chose a floor length gown of blue polyester accented with lace. Both were remembered with white daisy corsages. The grandmothers wore white carnation corsages.

The father of the bridegroom was best man and ushers included Aaron Smith, son of the bride, and Jack Thomas of Goldsboro.

Gwen Snyder of Belhaven directed the wedding.

After the ceremony a reception was given by the bride couple. A rehearsal dinner was given by the bridegroom's parents Friday evening.

Here's a test of your analytical ability. Would you choose to play five diamonds, three no trump or neither on this hand from a recent team match?

The auction is reasonable. North might have tried three no trump rather than four diamonds, but declarer has his problems at either contract. However, move to the top of the class if you decided that it makes no difference whether you play game at no trump or diamonds, since both can be made with careful handling after a spade lead.

Assume that you are declaring at five diamonds. Win the ace of spades and finesse the queen of hearts. West wins and returns a spade, as good as any. Ruff and cash the ace of diamonds, noting the fall of the jack.

The Order of the Eastern Star, Susanna Chapter 161, will meet Sunday at 7 p.m. at Cherry Lane Free Will Baptist Church, Route 5, Greenville. Music will be performed by the Rock Island Singers of Fountain.

If that card is honest, you will need some luck. Cash the ace of hearts and ruff a heart. Ruff a spade and ruff your last heart in dummy, and you are delighted when East discards on this trick. Now cash the ace-king of clubs and exit with a club. West is down to nothing but trumps, so he has to ruff his partner's winner and return a trump from his Q-6 into declarer's K-8 tenace. Declarer loses only a heart and the club ruff.

At three no trump, declarer's problem is different. He must hope that East started with six spades and that he can be kept off lead. Win the third spade and lead the ten of diamonds, capturing the jack with the king. Now lead a low club: if West plays the queen, allow him to hold the trick; if he plays low, go up with the king.

Assume West follows low and you win the club in the North hand. Run the nine of diamonds to West's queen. West might as well return a diamond. Win and lead another club. When West produces the queen, simply duck the trick. When East follows to this trick, you can claim the rest of the tricks to just make your contract.

Canadian Model Wins
Miss Universe Crown

By KERNAN TURNER
Associated Press Writer
LIMA, Peru (AP) — Miss Canada, a statuesque, auburn-haired model from Toronto, beat out 76 beauties from around the world to claim the crown as Miss Universe 1982.

"Tell me this is a dream," Karen Dianne Baldwin, a smiling, but tearful 18-year-old, said as she was being led off stage Monday night to a gala ball in her honor. "I can't believe it. I'm nervous...I'm very nervous."

Master of ceremonies Bob Barker assured Miss Baldwin that she had indeed been named Miss Universe as she received the crown from last year's winner, Irene Saez of Venezuela in a ceremony capping the annual pageant held this year in the Peruvian capital.

The five runners-up were in order, Miss Guam, Patty Chong Kerkos, 18, of Tamuning; Miss Italy, Cinzia Flordeponi, 21, of Rome; Miss Greece, Tina Rossou, 19, of Athens and Miss

U.S.A., Terri Utley, 20, Cabot, Ark.

A panel of 12 judges, including American actress Cicely Tyson, Broadway producer David Merrick, and magician David Copperfield, narrowed the field and made the final decision.

The contestants were judged in swimsuit and evening gown competition and personal interviews. Early in the evening, the field was narrowed to 12 semi-finalists, including contestants from Brazil, South Africa, Finland, Peru, Germany, England and Uruguay.

Miss Baldwin, the green-eyed, 5-foot, 10-inch first prize winner, said before the contest that she wanted to study at the Fashion Institute of Technology in New York for a career in the beauty, fashion and modeling industry.

Along with the title, she gets $150,000 in cash and prizes and a one-year personal appearance contract.

Thatcher Said Furious
Over Falklands Service

By MICHAEL WEST
Associated Press writer
LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher's husband Denis says she was infuriated by the peace theme of a national church service for those who died in the Falklands conflict, British newspapers reported today.

The service Monday in St. Paul's Cathedral was attended by 2,500 people including the royal family, political and military leaders and relatives of some of the 255 British troops killed in the fighting. It stressed reconciliation and made no mention of British victory.

The tabloid Sun newspaper quoted Thatcher as telling some members of Parliament after the service that his wife was "spitting blood."

The conservative Daily Telegraph quoted him as saying "the boss was livid" while the independent London Times said Thatcher told the legislators the prime minister was "angry." Other newspapers carried similar reports.

Conservative Party politicians issued statements lambasting Archbishop of Canterbury Robert Runcie and other religious leaders who took part in the service for not paying due honor to the British forces who recaptured the islands six weeks ago.

"It was revolting for cringing clergy to misuse St. Paul's to throw doubt upon the sacrifices of our fighting men," Conservative legislator Sir John Biggs-Davison said.

"It is right to pray for the dead and for one's enemies. But it is wrong to fail to give thanks for the deliverance of our Falkland Islands people through the victory of our forces in a campaign which, according to Christian theology, could not have been more just."

Another Conservative lawmaker, Edward du Cann, said he intended to write to Runcie to complain.

"I was sad and disappointed that there was no mention during the service that the Falklands crisis was an example of Britain standing alone for international law, freedom and democracy," he said.

Runcie is a former World War II tank commander who won the Military Cross for pulling a man from a blazing tank under fire. He said in his sermon: "War is a sign of human failure and everything we say and do in this service must be in that context."

The Anglican primate also asked Britons to pray for "those who are bereaved in our own country and the relations of the young Argentinian soldiers who were killed."

The Dean of St Paul's, the Very Rev. Alan Webster said he was "surprised" but not upset by the outcry.

"My impression was that the mourners for those lost in the Falklands were moved and greatly helped," he said.

'Stabilizes' After A
Liver Transplant

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The condition of 5-year-old Khara Davis has stabilized after a liver transplant operation, and the child's mother expressed hope Khara's tiny body will not reject the healthy organ.

Khara, of Riverton, Wyo., was in critical but stable condition at Childrens Hospital after the 9½-hour surgery that ended early Sunday. She received a liver originally intended for another child.

"She's doing fine. She's talking and everything seems OK," Donna Davis, Khara's mother, said Monday. "We're optimistic. We're not going to lose hope until there's signs of rejection."

The 38-pound girl received the new liver in an operation conducted by a team of surgeons led by Dr. Thomas Starzl, who performed the world's first successful liver transplant in 1963.

Khara, who suffered from familial intrephepatic cholestasis, a genetic disease that poisons the liver through retained bile, arrived in Pittsburgh Friday. The operation began Saturday night.

Khara's 1-year-old brother suffers from the same disease.

Searching For Parents

In Memphis a new twist to the old ploy of advertising delinquent taxes has been tried.

Authorities have purchased a two-page newspaper ad to list the names of some 3,000 persons who are delinquent in child support payments.

As of Wednesday the ads had brought in around 40 parents to make back payments. There was also an appeal to citizens for help in locating the delinquent parents and that, too, has brought response.

Of course, there have also been protests. Some parents, delinquent in payments but out of work, say the ads picture them as criminals. (There is a warning that failing to pay and leaving the state is punishable by three years in jail.)

One complainer commented, "I'm not saying I don't want to pay, but jobs are tight."

In many cases the children of parents listed are living with the other parent who is receiving aid to dependent children. Often this suits the parent who is no longer around just fine. He or she has no financial obligation but knows that the children are receiving at least basic needs. That leaves the free parent with no obligations and free to lead a carefree life.

The only problem is that it is taxpayers who have assumed the financial obligations of the delinquent parent and it should not be that way.

No doubt there are parents who have a legitimate complaint about their names being listed in the newspaper when they have done the best they could.

All, however, took on responsibilities when they had children. They should willingly pay for the care of their children and, if they won't, then the courts and Social Services should do all possible to see that they do.

Economic Advisor Quits

The resignation of Murray Weidenbaum as President Reagan's economic adviser is being called a friendly one by the White House.

A spokesman told reporters, "I defy you to read into this a policy dispute of any kind. It just does not exist."

That may be correct but lots of people will surely be looking around, including the press, and the opposition party.

The president's economic policies have gone anything but smoothly since he assumed office. Maybe it is the fault of the adviser, or maybe he just doesn't want to be around to take the ultimate blame. At any rate, Mr. Weidenbaum will be returning to the academic world, and someone else will become the president's chief economic adviser.

THIS AFTERNOON

Watching Judges

By PAUL T. O'CONNOR

RALEIGH — Judges holding court in the city of Albemarle may feel they're being watched these days. Judges in Rockingham will soon know the same feeling. And if the organizers of Mothers Against Drunk Driving (MADD) have their way, a great many judges across North Carolina soon will be the subject of considerable attention.

Of the flock of anti-drunk driving organizations that have sprung up around the country in the past two years, MADD is about the best known. North Carolina's first two MADD chapters are just getting to work and their leaders promise a vigorous campaign of public pressure to get tougher drunken driving laws on the books, to get those laws better enforced and to have those convicted of drunken driving pay a higher price.

In Albemarle, the MADD chapter organized on April 15 and now has 57 members. Following procedures established by the national MADD office, these volunteers are sitting in local courts taking information on what transpires. Marlyn Sugg, Stanly County MADD chairman, says the volunteers log the amount of time courts are in recess and the amount actually spent on trials. They log the number of driving under the influence cases and the number of continuances allowed. They're also keeping track of the number of guilty pleas, plea bargains and reduced charges. They're counting the number of cases involving personal injuries and deaths and noting the blood alcohol levels of the drivers involved.

Mrs. Sugg said that after six months of monitoring their courts, her group will give their findings to Gov. Jim Hunt, who has a task force readying the legislative alternatives he'll have for 1983.

A MADD chapter in up-state New York monitored courts last year. When they found a judge particularly soft on drunk drivers, they held a series of press conferences to detail his record. The judge did not get re-she said. "Now we're getting convictions at 10."

In Rockingham, Delette Sibley reports that there are almost 100 members of the Richmond County MADD chapter. The chapter is just beginning its court monitoring efforts.

At least nine other cities — Salisbury, Boone, Concord, Monroe, Laurinburg, Fayetteville, Wilmington, Elizabeth City and Charlotte — have chapters forming. Mrs. Sibley hopes to organize a statewide MADD meeting this year where statewide strategies could be coordinated.

"We want to see a mandatory (sentencing) law," Mrs. Sibley said. "We'd like to see a system set up to provide the judges with bet-elected. Mrs. Sugg doesn't say if her chapter has the same thing in mind. But she claims that judges in Stanly County have taken note of the monitoring. "We were getting charges reduced with a blood alcohol level of .20,"

SORT OF AN ADMINISTRATION CLUSTER BOMB!

MORRIS

BY JAMES KILPATRICK

And Now, Heather Is 12

EDITOR'S NOTE: Mr. Kilpatrick's column takes the form of his annual birthday letter to his granddaughter Heather, now attending a summer camp in Pennsylvania.

Dear Heather,

Your letters from camp have been arriving in veritable torrents — to me, to your mother and father, to brother Douglas, to Cousin Alina — and we have passed them around. From these letters we gather that (1) you once got homesick and cried, (2) you are making a bracelet, (3) you are in a play, (4) you are taking some tennis lessons and (5) you are getting a tan. All this is to be expected, but if your camp is any decent sort of camp at all, you also are (6) scratching chigger bites and (7) peeling your sunburned nose.

In your spare time, if I am not mistaken, you are sitting on your cot in Bunk Four grousing about the food and hungering for mail. "Please, please, please," you said to Alina, "please write or I won't eat and I will die." To your father you voiced a threat even more ominous:

"If you don't write I will elope with Alex." Your message to brother Douglas was direct and to the point: "If you don't write I will beat you up when I get home."

As for the camp food, you

have now eloquently advised all of us that the food is horrid, dreadful, uneatable and, as you spelled it, "grose," which is close.

All this strikes me as par for the summer-camp course. All camp food is horrid (though some is more horrid than others), and no 12-year-old ever has been known to get enough letters. You will find this hard to believe, but your grandfather was once 12 years old, and he went to a YMCA summer camp in Oklahoma, and he complained of terrible food and no mail — and that was 50 years ago. Some things, among them summer camps, never change.

You asked me, "What's going on?" Let me see. The five baby wrens that were nesting in the hanging basket by the kitchen grew up and flew away. The baby swallows have done the same thing, and now they are putting on a flying circus by the red barn. We have a groundhog whose hole is not 50 feet from the house. He bustles up when he thinks no one is looking, and eats the birdfeed that has fallen from the feeder in the oak tree. Half a dozen quail have discovered the same free lunch.

Out in the garden the tomatoes are finally beginning to ripen. The zucchini is coming in, as it always does, in quantities sufficient to feed your entire camp for the rest of the summer. We are picking a dozen cucumbers every morning; they are turning into pickles by night. I think we have licked the rabbit problem, though the barbed-wire barricades and machine-gun emplacements strike some visitors as just a little odd.

What's going on? Here at home you haven't missed a thing. The summer days are like all summer days — hot and humid most of the time, but in the late afternoon the thunderheads roll up over Turkey Mountain all black and purple, and we run around closing windows. Then, crash, bang! It pours for 15 minutes. This doesn't help the fresh-cut hay, but it makes the zucchini grow.

Beyond the borders of Rappahannock County, a lot is going on. I have lost track of the wars and would rather not tell you about them anyhow. You have better things to

A Coalition Unraveling

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON — Blue-collar conservatives who helped Ronald Reagan make inroads in industrial labor unions are bailing out because of White House neglect, a threat made clear in angry complaints behind closed doors here July 18 — reflecting a general unraveling of the Reagan coalition.

Disillusion with President Reagan came from 45 skilled craftsmen, rebels against liberal leadership in the auto, steel and rubber workers unions. They bought their own tickets to Washington to complain. At the same time, one of the few pro-Reagan labor leaders running a major union — teamster president Roy Williams — sent a confidential letter to the white House complaining about "the cold shoulder" of the national Republican Party.

Powerful senior aides who run the White House seem unaware of this threat to Republican success in 1982 and 1984. Their rhetoric shows insensitivity to rallying the conservative movement. "Ronald Reagan isn't right-wing," deputy chief of staff Michael K. Deaver was quoted in the July 5 San Francisco Chronicle as saying. "I like to think of him as more of a moderate man." Conservative aides in the White House were astounded, but Deaver had no apologies.

The 45 skilled workers from AFL-CIO industrial unions are not afraid of calling themselves conservatives. They met July 18 at the Fairfax, Va., suburban home of Paul Weyrich, a New Right strategist and persistent Reaganite hairshirt. In attendance was White House aide Morton Blackwell, a New Rightist himself, who is the president's link to conservative social-issue groups.

Their surface complaint was that the administration has ignored their struggle for a horizontal union of skilled workers cutting across the big vertically-integrated labor unions — the International Society of Skilled Trades (ISST). To get it, they need administration pressure on the National Labor Relations Board and the Labor Department. These highly-paid workers think they earned such help in the 1980 campaign by proselytizing their fellow workers for Reagan, particularly in Michigan where the regular Republican organization was cool toward the presidential nominee.

"Ronald Reagan pledged his help," Thomas B. Hall, an ISST leader who belongs to the AFL-CIO rubber workers in Danville, Va., exploded. "We're getting tired of a kissing the Republican Party."

But grievances with the administration sounded at Weyrich's home transcended union business and went to the New Right agenda. The skilled craftsmen heaped blame on the administration — using Blackwell as the target but not sparing Reagan — for short-cutting social issues: school prayer, anti-gun control, anti-abortion, "pro-family."

The consensus: Neither the president nor his White House handlers has a strategy, in the apt words of a blue-collar conservative, "to cement the 1980 coalition together and make it grow." There has been neglect of the pro-Reagan skilled workers who call themselves conservative populists but whose views nevertheless often get more respect on the workshop floor than the liberalism preached by union leaders.

The grievance of Teamster president Williams was separate but similar in its indictment of Republican indifference. His June 22 letter to a White House staffer expressed horror that Republican finance chairman Richard DeVos would "denounce the role that organized labor can play in an election."

DeVos insulted organized labor in a speech to the June session of the Republican National Committee by saying the GOP should ignore the unions and concentrate on non-union labor. "If they (union labor) want to be represented by somebody else," he said, "good for them"; but they are not "our responsibility."

This is the Republican deathwish at work. DeVos writes off union members while Deaver thumbs his nose at conservatives.

Strength For Today

BECOMING RESPONSIBLE

Many of us have often noticed with considerable frustration that the more we do for some people, the less they seem to like us. It has often been said that the way to make an enemy of a man is to lend him money. As a borrower, he begins to work up all sorts of resentment against the person to whom he is under obligation. We see this also in the case of children who have been pampered by their parents.

Sometimes, when people are under obligation it becomes necessary for them to assume responsibility and be resourceful. The byproduct of their efforts are satisfaction and peace. On the other hand, when some people receive things, they become carping and critical, and constantly demand more. They are never content.

It's good for all of us to toe the mark. The word "discipline" comes from a Latin word meaning "learner." — ELISHA DOUGLASS

Price Changes Create Illusion

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — As measured by the federal government, consumer price inflation has been falling persistently — from 12.4 percent in 1980 to 8.9 percent last year to 5.1 percent in the first six months of 1982.

Good news, yes, but troubling too. If price increases really have been tapering off, why haven't retail sales picked up and why haven't interest rates fallen, as you might expect from a decline in inflation?

Before you answer, please realize that several dozen explanations have been offered in congressional testimony, academic papers, political polemics and business analyses, and at least 100 times that number in tavern arguments and other forums were such matters are considered.

Rarely, however, is an analysis as clearly stated as it is by Albert Sindinger, consumer researcher and economic forecaster. Sales lack zip and interest rates stay high, he says, because inflation persists.

No matter what the numbers say, "inflation lives," said Sindinger, whose firm, based in Media, Pa., keeps in almost constant touch with Americans by telephone, sounding out their views, the state of their finances, the prices they pay, the things they buy — and do not buy.

Sindinger claims the CPI shows a low overall inflation rate because prices of discretionary items have indeed dropped. But, he said, many of these items aren't being sold — and so, aren't cost-of-living items.

Such as automobiles, he said. There was no way cars could be sold in great numbers without offering rebates, said Sindinger. And for a brief time, those temporary rebates helped lower the index.

"Most households aren't lucky enough to have expenses concentrated in discretionary categories," he said. "Utility bills, services, medical care, housing expenses are running double-digit or close to it."

Add in taxes, "which remain a burden even with the income tax cut," and you find that the things people must pay for, that they cannot avoid buying or using, are running far above the CPI, said Sindinger.

The key to understanding, said Sindinger, is that people aren't buying the discretionary items, which causes their prices to drop, but they are buying the high-cost items because they have no other choice.

Sindinger, who sells his data and opinions to blue-chip corporations and financial institutions, is especially explicit in explaining the so-called gap between current inflation rates and interest rates.

Historically, the spread between inflation and interest rates has been about 3 percent to 5 percent. That is, if inflation is at 5, then prime might be around 8 or so, making the "true" interest rate about 3 percent.

Lately, however, prime interest rates have been around 10 percent, higher than current inflation rates, as measured by the CPI, confounding many otherwise astute individuals, including at least one former member of the President's council of economic advisers.

"There can't possibly be that big a spread in a free market," said Sindinger, who has been observing the economic scene since the 1930s. "The market isn't that dumb that it can go a year without that spread."

But, it was suggested to him, some economists say the huge spread exists because lenders fear inflation could heat up again. Therefore, it is argued, they add on an inflation premium for protection.

Close, but not correct, said Sindinger. The truth, he said, is that lenders know their costs already are inflated. They fear not only future inflation but current inflation. They know right now, he said, that the real cost of living is much higher than the CPI indicates.

"People with money to lend don't believe the figures," he said. "They know from their own experience what their costs are."

He contends that those who believe the CPI is a true reflection of inflation are looking at a rainbow. From a distance the rainbow looks real, said Sindinger. But lenders get up close and take a hard look. "They know it's an illusion," he said.

"Do you think any lender would be dumb enough to maintain a 10-point spread just to be ornery?" he asked.

FOCUS

Jupiter's Deadly Weapon

The ancient Romans considered lightning a weapon of the god Jupiter. But modern scientists know it is really a flow of electricity formed high above Earth. Recently they confirmed that cosmic rays from space passing through thunderheads provide the extra electrical potential that triggers a lightning stroke. A single lightning flash one mile long could turn on a million light bulbs. And radar photos show that some lightning strokes between clouds can be 100 miles long. Since 1936 lightning has killed more people in the U.S. than either hurricanes or tornadoes. In the past decade about 1,000 persons died in lightning-related accidents. July is the most dangerous month for lightning.

DO YOU KNOW — Which state reported the most lightning-related deaths in the past decade?

MONDAY'S ANSWER — The capital of Liberia is Monrovia.

Drunk driving laws are seen as being too lax. The courts are seen as being too soft. And MADD intends to work on both legislators and judges to get that changed.

Poultry
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) (NCDA) — The North Carolina f.o.b. dock broiler market was steady. Supplies moderate. Demand good. Weights desirable. The dock weighted average price for this week is 41.29 for small purchases of plant grade broilers picked up at processing plants. Estimated slaughter today, 1,833,000.

Hens
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) (NCDA) — The North Carolina hen market was two cents higher. Supplies adequate. Demand moderate. Prices paid per pound for hens over seven pounds at farm for Monday and Tuesday slaughter was 11 cents.

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices turned lower today amid uncertainty over the course of interest rates and the economy.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, which shed 7.99 points over the past four sessions, dipped another 29 point to 825.15 after two hours of trading.

More than six stocks fell in price for every five that rose in the midday tally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

The Treasury is scheduled to unveil its August borrowing plans on Wednesday. Alice Rivlin, director of the Congressional Budget Office, told the Senate Budget Committee today that the federal deficit could soar as high as $160 billion in each of the next three fiscal years.

Big Board volume reached 20.60 million shares by noon, up from 18.62 million in the comparable period Monday, which was the slowest trading day since March 29.

Boeing topped the active list, down 1/4 at 16 1/4, in trading that included a block of 325,000 shares changing hands at 16 1/4 a share.

The NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stock lost 15 to 63.20. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was off 02 at 255.24.

VEPCO Workers To Vote On Union

By The Associated Press
Virginia Electric & Power Co.'s salaried office workers will vote Wednesday and Thursday on a bid by the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers to oust the in-house Utility Employees Association as their bargaining representative.

Some 5,200 Vepco office workers in Virginia, North Carolina and West Virginia will decide whether they want the IBEW, the UEA — or neither.

The IBEW, with more than 1 million members, already represents 4,300 Vepco hourly workers — linemen, repairmen and generating plant personnel — who make up about 45 percent of Vepco's non-management work force.

Now the IBEW would like to expand and represent the other 55 percent — the 5,200 office workers.

Vepco's total work force is 11,000 management and non-management workers.

The UEA, the office workers' in-house union for the last 40 years, is trying to protect its right to represent its present 3,400 office workers and gain another 1,800 members.

In approving this week's vote, the federal government ruled an additional 1,800 Vepco personnel were eligible to vote.

While three groups are fighting to win the election, union organizers say the battle is really between two choices: whether employees want union representation or no representation at all. Vepco management sees the election as an opportunity to deal with its employees in a harmonious, "union-free" environment, Vepco President William Berry said.

"It's been 40 years since they have had a chance to make this choice," said Berry. "It may be 40 years before they get a chance to do it again."

Chesapeake Bay 'Dying'

SHADY SIDE, Md. (AP) — Five years ago, marine researchers thought the Chesapeake Bay was healthy. Today, they say it is dying because of pollution.

"This is a portrait of a body of water on a decline," said Kent S. Price of the University of Delaware. "Just to hold things as they are now we will have to do something."

Price and other marine biologists researching the bay said the rate of decline is accelerating, and called for more controls on what chemicals are allowed to find their way into the bay.

Pollution by chemicals and metals was blamed for providing food for minute plant and animal life near the surface, which in turn block sunlight and deprive the depths of oxygen necessary to aquatic life.

Florida Losing Citrus Trees

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Florida may suffer its heaviest loss of citrus trees in a decade because of frost damage, disease and old age.

Jim Todd of the U.S. Crop and Livestock Reporting Service said a survey of trees conducted every two years is near its end and indicates a loss that could approach or exceed the 83,000 dead or seriously damaged trees removed by growers in 1972.

At the same time, a limb-count survey began Monday that will provide the foundation for forecasting the current season's crop. The limb-count survey is used in estimating the number of fruit per tree.

Appoints J. Lewis As Judge

RALEIGH — Gov. Jim Hunt on Monday appointed Farmville attorney John B. Lewis Jr. as a special Superior Court judge.

A Pitt County native, Lewis replaces Herbert O. Phillips of Morehead City, who was named resident Superior Court judge of the 3rd Judicial District last Friday.

Phillips' appointment as resident judge came shortly after he took the oath of office as a special Superior Court judge. Former chief district judge of the 3rd District, Phillips was appointed special Superior Court judge by Hunt on June 28, and took the oath of office Friday.

The district includes Pitt, Craven, Carteret and Pamlico counties.

In naming Lewis a special judge, Hunt said "his experience as a trial lawyer and his commitment to worthwhile community and state civic affairs give him an excellent background for judicial office. He will be an excellent judge."

Lewis was one of five attorneys nominated in May by a judicial nominating committee. His term will expire June 30, 1983.

Phillips, who replaces retiring resident Judge Robert Rouse of Farmville, served on the District Court bench since 1968.

Special Superior Court judges are assigned by the Administrative Office of the Courts to serve the entire state, while resident judges generally preside over Superior Court terms within their districts.

Murder After Insanity Alibi

CAMARILLO, Calif. (AP) — A man found innocent by reason of insanity in the attempted murder of his first wife in 1976 has admitted strangling his second wife, authorities said.

Jesse Skinner, 28, was jailed after the Saturday death of Marian Skinner, 40, whose body was found in the parking lot of a hospital where she had visited her husband of 4 1/2 months.

Skinner was released from a state psychiatric outpatient program in January, but signed himself into a mental health center in the Los Angeles area on June 15. The Saturday visit with his wife was the first contact visit he had been allowed, officials said.

hundred pounds range today. He suggested that beltwide, the average will gradually go up as the season progresses due to support prices that were added on higher grades of tobacco this year.

Cyrus said that in view of recent developments affecting tobacco, "We are lucky to have the tobacco program and price support. I don't know what the Border (Belt) would have done without it yesterday."

He added, "When you follow a vintage year, it's hard to get back to normal."

Donnie Lee of the Bear Grass area said he sold 2,400 pounds of tobacco this morning and he viewed the results of his first visit to the Greenville Market as "pretty good." Lee said that Stabilization bought most of his tobacco in the $184 to $185 per hundred pounds range but he said he would "like to see the (company) buyers buy it. They are not buying much."

Prices at another warehouse having sales this morning were comparable, with tags reflecting numerous $145-$146 per hundred markings and a lot of $166 per hundred quotes. Warehouse purchases also appeared to be high.

Greenville was one of 13 Eastern Belt markets beginning sales today.

GMC Again Sees Profit

DETROIT (AP) — Despite car sales that continue to lag behind year-ago levels, the U.S. auto industry is making a comeback into black ink, led by giant General Motors Corp.'s best quarterly showing in three years.

The No. 1 U.S. carmaker on Monday said the $560 million second-quarter profit amounted to $1.82 per share and compared with a $514.6 million profit, or $1.72 per share, in the same period in 1981, an increase of 8.8 percent.

Chrysler Corp. reported last week it earned $106.9 million in the second quarter of this year, its largest quarterly profit in 5 1/2 years.

Ford Motor Co. earnings are due out later this week, but analysts estimate the No. 2 U.S. carmaker will show a profit of up to $120 million.

Only American Motors Corp. has reported a second-quarter loss. On Monday, AMC said it lost $68.7 million, or $1.24 per share. That compares with a loss of $19.9 million, or 35 cents per share, in the second quarter of last year.

Volkswagen of America Inc., a subsidiary of Volkswagenwerk A.G. of West Germany, does not release earnings.

Combined with first-quarter earnings and excluding Ford's yet-to-be-released second-quarter report, the recent reports show the industry has earned $470 million in the first half of this year. That compares with a $25.2 million loss in the first half last year.

Yet, car sales for the first six months of this year were down 11.3 percent from 1981, from 3,308,469 to 2,934,833.

Analysts say that while second-quarter earnings traditionally are the industry's strongest, this year's profits indicate the companies' rigorous cost cutting has begun to bear fruit.

will significantly reduce the huge federal deficits endangering our economy."

Helms lashed out at critics who have accused him of abandoning tobacco interests by supporting the Republican-backed tax increase. He said his critics were dividing pro-tobacco forces and were themselves endangering the program.

"There's no room for partisan politics where the tobacco program is concerned, for those sincerely interested in preserving it," Helms said.

Helms said the program is in good shape despite "constant, incessant attacks" by congressional critics. The program will remain strong if tobacco-state legislators of both political parties work together, he added.

In a brief interview after his speech, Helms said tobacco farmers would understand why he voted to increase the cigarette levy and said he anticipated no political backlash.

Lower-than-expected tobacco prices in opening-day sales on the border belt were partly due to the proposals to increase cigarette taxes, state Agriculture Secretary Jim Graham said Monday.

Graham called Monday's prices "very disappointing," saying they were 10 to 15 cents less than on opening day last year.

"While the quality of this year's crop may not equal last year's due to the unusually wet weather, I feel that the tax legislation in Congress has something to do with the low prices," Graham said in a prepared statement.

The North Carolina-U.S. Department of Agriculture Federal-State Tobacco Market News Service estimated prices Monday averaged in the $147 to $157 per hundred pounds range, with selected offerings bringing $194 per hundredweight.

The lower prices came despite Gov. Jim Hunt's pre-sale urgings for buyers to be generous. Overall prices Monday at the Star Tobacco Warehouse No. 2

Walsh's Slam Paces Pitt To 3-0 Lead

By RICK SCOPPE
Reflector Sports Writer

Pitt County catcher Emmett Walsh said it, but there is little doubt everybody on the Post 39 bench felt the same.

"Definitely. We don't want to go back to Garner," Walsh said.

Pitt County drove that point home last night as it used a grand slam by Walsh to bulldoze its way to within one win of the Area 1 American Legion title with a 9-2 victory over Garner at Guy Smith Stadium.

The triumph gives Pitt County a 3-0 lead in the best-of-seven series. Post 39 can clinch the title with a victory tonight. Game time at Guy Smith Stadium is 7:30 p.m.

Pitt County will start one of two left-handers tonight, either Tyrone Gay or Mike Kinley. Gay went four innings Saturday night before leaving with a back injury. Kinley has not pitched in the series.

Garner is expected to counter with right-hander Ron Jones.

"I think this was the pivot point in the series," Post 39 coach Billy Davis said. "They've got to win four in a row now to win it. Had we lost that would not have been (the case)."

"I'm not saying they're out of it," Davis added. "I still don't think you've seen the real Garner team."

Garner, however, has seen its share — and then some — of the real Pitt County team.

Post 39, which has won 17 straight games, took a 1-0 lead in the third inning when Roger Williams singled with the bases full to score Mont Carter. Post 39 upped its lead to 5-0 in the fifth — thanks to an error, two wild pitches and two passed balls.

Pitt County sealed the victory one inning later when Terry Locust was walked intentionally to load the bases and set up a force at any base with Walsh at the plate.

Walsh, the clean-up hitter for Pitt County, hit a 1-1 curve ball and sent it over the left-centerfield fence to make it 8-0.

"It was a high curve," Walsh said. "He just left it up there. I hadn't hit the ball well the past two nights. I just got lucky that the pitch was up and I was able to make contact."

The grand slam backed the six-hit pitching of right-hander Gordon Douglas, who went the distance for his fifth win in seven decisions. Douglas, who had early contact problems, struck out 10 and walked eight.

"My control early...I don't know what was wrong," Douglas said. "But, I got into my rhythm (in the middle innings). My curve was as good as I've (thrown it) all year."

Garner right-hander Tony Lee gave up only one run until the fifth, when Post 32 fell apart. Lee, now 3-1, gave up two hits and struck out five and walked six before leaving with one gone in the fifth.

Pitt County banged out 11 hits off Lee and three other Garner hurlers, led by Williams, who was three for five. Carter had two hits in five at bats. No one else had more than one hit.

Garner was the first to threaten in the game. In the third, Mitch White walked and Roy Hill singled with two gone. Don Jones followed with a single to center. Pitt County centerfielder Randy Warren drilled a perfect throw to Walsh who tagged White out for the final out.

Pitt County, hitless through two innings, loaded the bases with two out in the third on a single by Carter and walks to Locust and Walsh. Williams singled to right to drive in Carter.

Post 39 upped its lead to 4-0 in the fifth — thanks to five miscues by Garner. Warren walked, stole second and went to third when catcher Doug Phillips let the ball go to the backstop.

Warren scored on a ground out by Carter. Locust followed with a walk and went to third when a pickoff play at first went awry. He scored on a wild pitch by Mike Deaver, who relieved Lee.

With two gone, Williams singled, stole second and went to third on Deaver's second wild pitch of the inning. Williams scored on Greg Briley's single to left.

Post 39 put the game away one inning later on Walsh's grand slam. Sammy Hodges singled and Bill Kittrell walked. Hodges was forced at third on Warren's bunt and Kittrell was thrown out at the plate on a Carter's single.

Locust then was walked intentionally by Mark Young, who came on earlier in the inning for Deaver, to load the bases. Walsh then hit his grand slam for an 8-0 lead.

Pitt County's final run came in the seventh. Pinch-hitter Tom Buie reached on an infield single, stole second and scored on Warren's single.

Garner avoided a shutout in the eighth. Ron Jones doubled and scored on a wild pitch. Don Jones walked, went to second on David Proctor's single and scored on Dorsett Clement's single.

Nine Swim Records Fall At Festival

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — This is a time of records for the National Sports Festival; of bigger crowds watching faster and stronger athletes.

Swimming proved to be no exception when it opened its Festival run Monday night.

An enthusiastic crowd of 4,450 fans, described by some of the competitors as the largest they had ever seen in the United States, cheered as nine meet records were broken in 11 races in the new Indiana University Natatorium.

"I never had such a good crowd," said Michele Richardson, 13, of Memphis, Tenn., who set a women's 800-meter freestyle mark of 8 minutes, 40.24 seconds in the night's very first race. "When I saw the crowd, I almost died...It was very embarrassing."

"It's a fast pool, really nice," added Jacqueline Komenij, a record-setter in the 100-meter breaststroke at 1:12.99. "I could tell as soon as I got in it was fast. I think it's the fastest in the country."

At Market Square Arena, meanwhile, Lee Ann Miller and William Fauver won the pairs figure skating gold medal. The performance was good enough for the judges but left the winners themselves a little empty.

"There were some minor things that went wrong," said Fauver, who skates with Miller out of the Wilmington (Del.) Skate Club. "It was the kind of thing that happens when you're not 100-percent relaxed. The easiest performances are the best performances. Tonight was not easy."

Leonard Harvey Nitz also had a performance Monday that was not easy, but for a dramatically different reason. Nitz, a cyclist from New York, won a pair of gold medals — less than three days after his mother was killed and his father injured in an automobile wreck in Utah.

He would talk only of his racing, not of his family tragedy. But in discussing his victory over Dan Casebeer in the point race, Nitz provided a clue to how he was able to overcome the death he had learned of in a phone call Sunday.

"It's all mental," he said, referring to cyclists. "That's what puts him over everybody else, the mental part. For myself, the stronger rider hardly never wins. It's the guy who wants it the baddest, as you saw in the points race here."

Nitz, 22, also led his bike group to victory in team pursuit.

"I think he wants to pretend it didn't happen," Nitz's wife, Leslie, said of her husband and his way of dealing with the death. "He hasn't said anything about it yet today, so don't ask him about his mother."

"He went to pieces for a while. Then, he pulled himself together and said, 'They were coming to see me win and that's what I wanted to do.'"

The couple, from Sacramento, Calif., was headed for Kenosha, Wis., and next week's National Cycling Championships when the fatal crash occurred.

News of the death of Nitz's mother was a somber note on a day in which Festival officials glowed about record ticket sales, and added 11 meet marks, bringing the total for the first six days of the fourth edition of America's Olympics to 38.

Local organizers said that ticket sales through Sunday totaled $738,000, far more than the old mark of $450,000 for an entire Festival set last year in Syracuse, N.Y. This year's runs through Saturday.

"We should go over the $1-million mark easily," said

Jack Berger, a spokesman for the organizers.

At the Natatorium, other meet records included Robert Lager of Mission Viejo, Calif., 1:04.21 in the men's 100 breaststroke; Geoff Gaberino of North Chattanooga, Tenn., 1:53.28 in the men's 200 freestyle; Laurie Lehner of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., 1:01.09 in the women's 200 butterfly; Robert Palcak of San Rafael, Calif., 55.23 in the men's 100 butterfly, and Roger Von Jouanne of Renton, Wash., 2:05.64 in the men's 200 individual medley. Marks also fell in both 800-meter freestyle relays, the East men's team of Stuart MacDonald, Matt Cellinski, David Larson and John Hillencamp doing 7:37.63 and the women's West team of Andrea Cross, Martha Jahn, Carol Peterson and Carolyn Goodley going 8:23.36.

America's best swimmers have skipped the Festival to prepare for the World Aquatic Championships, opening Thursday in Ecuador.

Ice hockey opened. Mike Krensing and Gregg Moore scored two goals apiece in the North's 6-5 decision over the East, and a goal by Rich Costello with nine seconds left provided the South with a 4-4 tie with the West.

Paul Koscielski, the No. 1 men's tennis seed from South Bend, Ind., was upset by Mike Velasquez of Albuquerque, N.M., 7-5, 7-6 and then Koscielski and doubles partner Steve Bickham of Edmond, Okla., fell to Charles Short of Tacoma, Wash., and Jim McNamee of Edmonds, Wash., 6-2, 4-6, 6-3, also in the semifinals. Velasquez played for the singles title today against Pat Harrison of Shreveport, La., who beat Richard Matuszewski of Hopewell Junction, N.Y., 6-1, 6-0.

And Kathy Arendsen, the famed pitcher for softball's Raybestos Brakettes, representing the East, uncorked two wild pitches for both runs in a 2-0 loss to the West, the Sun City, Ariz., Saint.

The 6-foot-2 right-hander took only her second loss in 26 games this season. She is 124-10 in her five-year career.

North State Stars Down Tar Heels In Area Play

Babe Ruth
Winterville 4
Greene Co. 3

MAURY — Kevin Vines singled home Arthur Anderson with the winning run in the bottom of the seventh inning as Winterville slipped by Greene County, 4-3, Monday night here to advance into the finals of the 11-12-year-old Babe Ruth tournament.

The championship game is set for Wednesday at 6 p.m. Winterville's foe has not yet been decided.

Anderson singled and stole second and third in the seventh. Vines then singled to score Anderson with the winning run.

Vines had two hits for Winterville. No one else had more than one hit.

Sherwood Wilder hurled the first six innings, yielding three hits and striking out 11 and walking two. Scott Bond came on in the final inning, striking out the side in the seventh.

Sr. Babe Ruth
Co. Plains South ... 17
Albemarle 7

KINSTON — The Coastal Plains South team stayed alive in the 16-year-old Senior Babe Ruth League state tournament yesterday with a 17-7 romp over Albemarle.

Coastal Plains South will now face Central Carolina South at 6 p.m. tonight as play continues in the losers' bracket of the double elimination event. A victory would send them into a second game against either Central Carolina North or Wayne County at 8:30 p.m. A loss, of course, will eliminate the team.

After scoring three in the first inning, Coastal blew the game open in the third, scoring six times. The third was highlighted by a bases-loaded triple by Benny Godley, driving in half the inning's total. Coastal added three more in the fourth, two in the fifth and three in the sixth.

Doug Coley and Eric Woodworth each had three hits, both with doubles, and both drove in three runs. Galen Braddy had two hits, also playing three runners. Godley drove in four runs.

Albemarle's hitting was led by Mark Sawyer with two.

Kevin Cutler got the win on the mound.

Little League
North State 3
Tar Heel 1

RICH SQUARE — Greenville's North State Little League All-Stars gained a 3-1 victory over Greenville's Tar Heel League in the first round of the District IV, Area II tournament yesterday.

The North State team will now face Northampton County today at 5 p.m. in the second round of play. Northampton had a bye in the first round, along with Tarboro and Roanoke Rapids, who meet at 3 p.m. today. The two winners today meet Wednesday at 5 p.m. for the Area II title.

In Area I play, Havelock romped to a 20-5 win over Beaufort, and now meets Newport. Morehead City and Southern of New Bern meet in the other game today, with the finals again on Wednesday. That tournament is being played at Morehead City.

The two Area winners meet Friday at 5 p.m. at Morehead City for the District IV title and a berth in the state tournament, to be played at Boone, August 2-7.

The North Staters jumped into the lead in the top of the first, scoring once, as Morris Johnson opened with a triple and scored on Tony Evans' sacrifice fly.

What proved the difference came in the third. Robbie McDonald reached on a fielder's choice that left two out, and Tom Moye followed with a home run, giving the North State a 3-0 lead.

The lone Tar Heel run came in the bottom of the inning, as Mark Holloman walked and came around on three wild pitches.

A second inning double by Dallas McPherson was the lone hit allowed to the Tar Heels by Moye, who fanned 14 and walked seven.

No one had more than one hit for the North State.

PINEHURST (AP) — Unless there's a phenomenal freshman waiting to show Clemson's Danny Ford what he can do, the Tiger football coach says he won't have any first-year players in his starting lineup — at least not through the Sept. 6 opener at Georgia.

"It's hard to see how freshmen can come in and really help you," Ford said. "It's better if you don't have to depend on them. This year, we may have to have a little help from the freshmen."

During Clemson's rise to the national collegiate championship, very few freshmen broke into the lineup due in part to the lack of injuries suffered by front-line players.

Nonetheless, 22 high school seniors chose to play at Clemson, including five tailbacks who Ford said might get some time in 1982.

He noted that incumbents Chuck McSwain and Cliff Austin are the leading candidates for the tailback slot, although he also said he wouldn't mind seeing one of the freshmen make an immediate contribution.

"We've never had the real great I back," he said. "We recruited five of them and figured our odds would be a little bit better."

Ford was one of the eight

Atlantic Coast Conference football coaches who appeared at the league's annual pre-season rouser Monday.

Besides keeping freshman playing time to a minimum, Ford said a minimum of injuries played a key role in the march to last January's Orange Bowl triumph over Nebraska.

"Injuries are one of the greatest single factors to worry about that you can't control," Ford said. "It takes a little bit of luck."

Luck — and talent — will help the Tigers in 1982, especially since graduation cost them some key performers.

Wide receiver Perry Tuttle, Clemson's all-time leading receiver, is now a member of the Buffalo Bills. Jerry Gaillard, another top 10 Tiger receiver, also has graduated. Graduation left holes in the offensive line as well, with tackle James Farr the only returning starter. Bob Mayberry has been moved from guard to right tackle, while other lettermen are expected to fill the gaps.

With the loss of the speedy Tuttle as a deep threat, Ford may have to call on freshman help to loosen up opposing secondaries.

"I hope we've got somebody that can run fast enough to give us that deep threat," he said. "They don't have to catch it, just run and scare the guy to death."

Senior quarterback Homer Jordan, along with running backs McCall, Austin and Kevin Mack solidify the backfield.

The defense was also hit by graduation in several spots, but the front line is anchored by 6-foot-3, 300-pound middle guard William Perry and senior defensive tackle Dan Benish.

Perry is a sophomore and Ford said he doesn't want to see the second-year jinx hover over his big man's head.

"You see a lot of guys do well as freshmen and have a bad sophomore year," he said. "His sophomore year is a critical year for him, but I think (backup William) Devane played a little bit better than he did in the Orange Bowl. We feel pretty good about our middle guard situation."

Lettermen return at most defensive backfield positions, although Ford won't have any veterans at the cornerback spot. Tim Childers and pre-season all-conference selection Terry Kinard are at the safeties.

With or without freshmen, Ford said the Tigers are ready to begin their title defense.

Rose Physicals Set Thursday

Physicals for all prospective Greenville Rose football players will be held Thursday at 6 p.m. at the Rose High field house.

Practice begins August 2 at 6 p.m.

Players may pick up their helmets Thursday, Friday or Monday.

Vida Gives Indians The Royal 'Blues'

By The Associated Press

It was Blue Monday for the Cleveland Indians, but a terrific night for a couple of veterans with the Kansas City Royals.

"I'm not throwing as hard as I did 10 years ago on a consistent basis — but I still can get good pop on my fastball when I need a strike-out," said Kansas City's Vida Blue after overpowering the Indians Monday night.

Blue gave up only four hits, struck out four and walked four in seven innings to lead the Royals to an 8-1 decision and improve his record to 8-7.

"He's struggled a little this season," said Kansas City Manager Dick Howser. "It's not that he hasn't had good stuff, but his control has been off a little. That's the best he's been recently."

Blue, who turns 33 on Wednesday, took the spotlight with another veteran who was in good form. Hal McRae, the 36-year-old resurrected slugger, singled twice, doubled and homered to drive in three runs and boost his American League-leading RBI total to 88.

He credits his stunning run production this season to the Royals' lineup.

"To knock in runs, you've got to have somebody set the stage for you and somebody behind you, protecting you," McRae said.

Willie Wilson added two triples as the Royals collected 15 hits and made ground in the hot AL West race on the California Angels, who lost 11-8 to the Oakland A's. The Royals are now one game behind the division leaders.

Blue pitched no-hit ball through five innings before running into trouble in the sixth, when the Indians scored their only run on Andre Thornton's RBI single. Blue, however, settled down to retire the next three hitters without further damage. Dan Quisenberry finished up with two scoreless innings of relief.

The Royals took a 3-0 lead against Tom Brennan, 0-2, with the help of two Cleveland errors in the third inning, and it proved to be all the runs they needed.

A's 11, Angels 8
Rickey Henderson, who earlier hit a home run, blasted an eighth-inning double and stole home as Oakland came back to beat California in a wild game after blowing a 7-0 lead.

Henderson's double drove in the go-ahead run as the A's scored four times to wipe out an 8-7 California advantage.

Dave Beard, the third in Oakland pitcher, pitched the final 32-3 innings to gain his sixth win in 13 decisions.

Reggie Jackson's two-run homer in the sixth and RBI double in the seventh had brought the Angels into the lead from the seven-run deficit.

Red Sox 3, Blue Jays 2
Dwight Evans scored the tie-breaking run on a double-play grounder in the eighth inning as Boston rallied to beat Toronto. The victory, combined with Milwaukee's loss to Texas, moved Boston into the AL East lead, one-half game ahead of the Brewers.

Dennis Eckersley, 11-8, going the distance for the 11th time in 21 starts, pitched a seven-hitter. Eckersley outdueled rookie right-hander Jim Gott, 1-6.

Toronto took a 1-0 lead in the second on an RBI single by Al Woods and made it 2-0 in the fifth on Alfredo Griffin's home run. Boston tied the score in the fifth on Glenn Hoffman's two-run homer.

"We're winning because our pitchers are keeping the game close," said Hoffman. "We can come from behind and we've shown it by winning a lot of ballgames this year."

The Red Sox rallied to come from behind to win for the 29th time this year.

Rangers 3, Brewers 1
Charlie Hough pitched a four-hitter to lead Texas over Milwaukee. Hough, 9-8, walked one and struck out four in hurling his seventh complete game of the year.

No Milwaukee runner got as far as second base until the seventh inning when Cecil Cooper singled and Ted Simmons doubled him home.

Mike Caldwell, 7-10, took the loss.

The Rangers got a run in the fourth on Lamar Johnson's RBI single and scored their eventual winning run in the fifth on Doug Flynn's two-strike suicide squeeze bunt.

Tigers 5, Yankees 3
Lance Parrish knocked in three runs with a homer, single and a triple and Tom Brookins hit a tie-breaking, two-run double in the fifth as Detroit defeated New York.

Winner Jerry Ujdur, 4-5, gave up five hits, walked two and struck out two before needing relief help. Dave Rucker gave up an RBI single to Lou Piniella in the eighth inning before Dave Gumpert came on in the ninth to get the last two outs for his first save.

Orioles 6, White Sox 2
Gary Roenicke homered and drove in four runs, leading Baltimore over Chicago. It was the fifth straight triumph for the Orioles, who posted a 5-1 record while Manager Earl Weaver sat out a seven-day suspension for striking umpire Terry Cooney. Weaver returns tonight.

Roenicke, homerless in his 19 previous games, hit his 16th with two runners aboard in the third inning. He also doubled home a run in the second and scored on a single by Rick Dempsey.

Twins 10, Mariners 4
Gary Gaetti's first-inning grand slam triggered Minnesota's home-run barrage as the Twins buried Seattle. Gaetti's 16th Seattle left-hander Floyd Bannister, 9-6, staked Jack O'Connor, 4-3, to an early 4-0 lead.

Gaetti's homer was one of four for the Twins, who also got round-trippers from Lenny Faedo, Gary Ward and Tom Brunansky.

Bench Warms Up, Helps Reds Power Past Cubs

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds' No. 5 is looking more like the Johnny Bench of old than just an old Johnny Bench these days.

The man who has hit more home runs than any catcher in baseball history showed during a four-game series with the Chicago Cubs that he hasn't lost his touch.

Bench blasted a solo homer Monday night and drove in a pair of runs to help the Reds beat the Cubs 4-2. It gave him eight homers for the season, three of them in the four-game

Team Wins Tourney

NEW BERN — The Greenville Softball Club went undefeated this past weekend in a USSA world qualifying tournament.

In the championship game Sunday, the GSC defeated Wilbur's B-B-Q of Goldsboro, 22-14.

The club defeated USMC All-Stars, 12-11, Bill's B-B-Q of Wilson, 12-10, and Athletic World of New Bern, 14-9, Saturday while Sunday it beat P & G Grain of Morehead City, 18-9.

Greg Ashorn was named the tournament's Most Valuable Player.

Other team members are Chuc. Humphrey, Robbie Cox, Linwood Brown, Mike Conger, Bill Kuykendall, Fred Hill, Burton Robinson, Charles Rice, Gene Rackley, Joe Roenker, Jason Mizelle, Charles Meeks and Ted Jordan.

The team will now participate in the State Championships Aug. 5-8 in Wilson and will then play in the World Class "B" tournament on Labor Day weekend in Columbia, S.C.

series.
"Now, for one little series, it's felt awfully good," said Bench, who came into the game batting just .229.

The Reds had counted on the 34-year-old former catcher to supply power and run production when he moved to third base this season. Things haven't worked

Yesterday's Cryptquip — THE CUTE TRAINED PORPOISE DESIRED AN IMMENSE CUT OF THE PROFITS.

Today's Cryptquip clue: Y equals U.

The Cryptquip is a simple substitution cipher in which each letter used stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words, and words using an apostrophe can give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is accomplished by trial and error.

New Faces Joining Ranks Of CHIPS

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Production for the sixth season of NBC's "CHIPS" is starting, and Erik Estrada, who stars as officer Frank "Ponch" Poncherello, will be joined by two new motorcycle partners.

Tom Reilly replaces the departed Larry Wilcox and Tina Gayle becomes the show's first regular female motorcycle officer. Both are newcomers with little professional experience.

Estrada pinned CHP badges on them in ceremonies staged for photographers Monday. Shooting begins today.

Reilly, 22, of Bergenfield, N.J., stars as Bobby "Hot Dog" Nelson, a young California Highway Patrol probation officer who thinks nothing of stunting on the freeway when superiors look the other way.

Miss Gayle, 23, a former Dallas Cowboys cheerleader, plays Kathy Lineham, one of the highway patrol's new female motorcycle officers.

"It's great having the new people in the show," said Estrada, who said he had a hand in selecting Wilcox's replacement.

"I certainly wanted to be involved," he said. "Fifteen actors had screen tests and I worked with all of them. I wanted to work with him in person so I could look him in the eye and see how we did together. But the final decision was up to NBC and MGM."

Estrada said he expects no major changes in the show this year, although Ponch, the original "hot dog," now finds himself in the odd position of having to keep another "hot dog" in line.

"Hot Dog Nelson likes to pop wheelies on the freeway," he said. "I'm his probation officer and I have to keep him in line. But the way I see Ponch, he's still going to have all his charm and his habit of doing things his own way, not the book way."

MEETING CANCELED The 20th Century Club will not meet Sunday as scheduled. The next meeting will be announced.

A Review

'She Loves Me' Charms Audience

If you want to hear a lovely young lady with a voice admirably suited to operetta; if you enjoy watching a love story unfold to its happy conclusion; if you relish the idea of a happy, melody-filled, old-fashioned musical in a jewel box setting; and if you want to see more of Mavis Ray's great dances, then get yourself a ticket to "She Loves Me," the final of a quartet of musicals in the ECU 1982 Summer Theater Season.

The most apt single word to describe "She Loves Me" is "charming." Set in a perfume shop (with other cosmetic goodies also on sale) in what appears to be a street in Budapest, set designer Gregory Buch and lighting designer David F. Downing have again created sets and luminous lights that contribute substantially to the play's success, particularly the primary set of the perfume shop that opens and closes like the music boxes figuring prominently in the story.

Patricia Preston in the role of Amalia Balash is a continuing joy to see and hear. Hers is a lyrical voice rich and true in every register. She's stunning in the "Ice Cream" aria, a delicate spoof on the sometimes absurdities of grand opera; she projects little-girl appeal in "Will He Like Me?" and is all scatterbrain woman in an entertaining ditty with the unlikely title "Where's My Shoe?"

Mitch Nathan (Georg Nowack), faithful second-in-command of the perfume shop, is superbly cast as the other half of the lead romantic team. On the surface a loyal young man becoming a work horse, underneath he is secretly a sensitive romantic. Nathan carries us along in the discovery of something wonderful, that somebody else can care for us — "She Loves Me."

Michael W. Hill as the conservative, dependable family man Mr. Sipos; Babs Winn as Miss Ritter, a lady who becomes sensibly aware she's no longer quite so young; and Rodney Freeze in the role of a primping narcissistic lady's man, (and the only villain in the piece), each give solid performances. Hill has one of the solo gems in the show, "Perspective," and Freeze reveals a comic falsetto flair in "Grand Knowing You."

Veteran of "Showboat" and "Cabaret" Dick St. George adds luster as the mature shop owner, Mr. Maracek, aloof, dignified, but altogether human and touching in his nostalgic recollections of "Days Gone By."

Charles Serio makes capital of his one big scene as the waiter determined to impress on all and sundry the elegance of his cafe in "A Romantic Atmosphere." This number, and the one immediately following it, the delectable "Tango Tragique" with violinist Lanier Williams as the madly emotional gypsy, are where the touch of Ms. Ray's choreographic genius comes through strongly.

One more time Edward Limoncelli and Aubrey Barnes have been teamed, in this show as red-jacketed busboys who are highly effective in a typical accident prone clown situation.

Last but not least of the fine cast is John Gibson as the youth Arpad growing into manhood. Gibson is a very talented young actor. He comes pretty close to stealing the show — and that's saying a lot considering the acting and musical abilities of all the others in the cast. A dozen other capable performers are cast in the roles of window shoppers, customers and dancers.

One of the more entertaining things about "She Loves Me" is the variety in the musical score. There's a whole candy-box of musical treats to be sampled, from love tunes to patter songs to soulful gypsy airs and even a bolero. Joe Distefano's conducting captures each flavor, with kudos due to the musician handling the music box music.

"She Loves Me" was an unknown factor to me, a musical I had only vaguely heard of. Discovering what it's all about was definitely a pleasure, an entertainment with much of the enchantment of a beloved fairy tale where the prince in disguise wins the hand of the girl at first unrecognized as the princess. For many local patrons, the fact that there's not one single foul word or explicit sexual episode will be welcome news.

"She Loves Me" plays nightly at McGinnis through Saturday. For tickets, call 757-6390.

Burt And Dolly Drawing Crowds

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "The Best Little Whorehouse in Texas" and movie-goers' continuing love affair with "E.T., The Extra-Terrestrial" combined to make Universal Studios the winner in the weekend box office stakes.

The Dolly Parton-Burt Reynolds musical roped in $11.9 million during its weekend debut to top the list of three-day money-makers. Steven Spielberg's science fantasy ran a close second at $11.1 million.

"The World According to Garp," with Robin Williams playing author John Irving's protagonist, captured a distant third place at $2.9 million, but Warner Bros. noted that it opened Friday in only 357 theaters.

"E.T." has earned Universal $151,022,925 since it opened seven weeks ago, studio spokesman Ron Pennington said Monday. It's now playing in 1,493 U.S. and Canadian movie houses.

"Raiders of the Lost Ark," Spielberg's blockbuster of last summer distributed by Paramount, grossed $2.8 million at 1,330 theaters during the weekend. Its total take to date is $219.1 million. $9.4 million of that from rerelease since July 16.

"Young Doctors In Love" earned ABC Motion Pictures $3.1 million at 777 theaters last weekend for a 10-day gross of $6.8 million.

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, JULY 28, 1982

YOUR DAILY Horoscope

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Wait until later in the day to patch up strained relationships with certain family members. A good time to organize your life so you can make rapid progress in the future.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You are able to relieve yourself of pressures that have been annoying you earlier in the day. Be more optimistic.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You may find it difficult to communicate properly with others during the daytime, but the evening is fine for such.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Get busy with details of finance, but big investments are not wise now, since there are unusual forces at work.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Make plans to have more abundance in the future. The planets are most favorable for getting ahead in career matters.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Be sure to complete any work left undone before taking on new work. Discuss important business matters with financial experts.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Plan early for whatever you want to do, then carry through intelligently. This can be a particularly fine day for you.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Take time to put your business affairs in better order. Await a better time for looking into new outlets. Use care in motion.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Support persons who have been loyal to you in the past. Show increased devotion to loved one. Plan for the future.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Study your money situation and make plans to have more financial security. Strive to be more efficient in your work.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Have conferences with higher-ups early and gain their support and goodwill. Take time to improve your appearance.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Obtain the information you need from the right sources. A financial expert can give advice for a plan you have in mind.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Keep busy at tasks that can bring you added income in the days ahead. Handle important business matters wisely.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one who can solve difficult problems, so direct education along lines of investigations for best results. Give as fine a religious training as you can in order to maintain an optimistic manner. Sports are a must.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

Allies United Against U.S. Sanctions For Russia

— BONN, West Germany (AP) — The West German and British governments have joined France and Italy in a united front opposing President Reagan's ban on exports of U.S.-licensed equipment for the Siberian gas pipeline.

Manufacturers in the four nations hold the bulk of the $11 billion in European contracts for the pipeline, and their defiance represents a major setback to Reagan's effort to promote a European economic war against the Soviet Union.

West Germany's state secretary of economics, Otto Schlecht, said Monday that his government cannot order companies to honor their contracts for the pipeline, as the French and Italian governments did last week. But he said it will support any German businesses that violate the U.S. embargo and will protect them against American retaliation.

"The West German government welcomes any decisions by the firms that help fulfill the gas pipeline deal," he said in an interview with the newspaper Bild.

AEG-Telefunken, a giant electronics firm, has announced it will defy the U.S. sanctions imposed June 18 because of continuing martial law in Poland, which the Reagan administration blames on the Soviet Union.

AEG-Telefunken has a $225 million order for 47 turbines to power compressor stations along the pipeline. Heinz Duerr, the head of the company, said the loss of this business could put 2,000 people out of work. It would also hurt the company, which 10 days ago got a $250 million credit from the government to guarantee export contracts and persuade private banks to help restore the firm's financial health.

In London, Trade Secretary Lord Cockfield issued Britain's strongest denunciation of the embargo yet, saying it "is an attempt to interfere with existing contracts and represents an unacceptable extension of American extra-territorial sovereignty."

He told the House of Lords the government hopes the dispute can be solved in a "mutually acceptable way. ... But if this proves impossible, I do wish to make clear that we are determined to defend our national interests."

In Washington, State Department spokesman Dean Fischer said Monday the U.S. government regretted Italy's decision to ignore the sanctions, but added the United States wished "to remain in regular contact with the government of Italy and other governments involved."

The U.S. government has said it is studying the legal issues involved in rejection of the pipeline sanctions.

Reagan's action last month extended a ban on export of U.S. equipment to the Soviet Union to include goods manufactured by foreign firms using U.S. technology under American license.

In addition to the Polish situation, the U.S. government says it does not want Western Europe to become dependent on Soviet gas. It has said it also fears the Soviet military budget will benefit from the $10 billion a year natural gas sales are expected to bring in after the pipeline begins operating in 1984.

U.S. officials also see the pipeline project as a big help to the Soviet economy, which they believe is in deep trouble.

But Britain, France, Italy and West Germany consider the ban an illegal extension of American sovereignty. The contracts were signed before the imposition of martial law in Poland last Dec. 13.

They also argue that the United States has not come up with a practical alternative for them to Soviet gas supplies. "that the pipeline means jobs and trade for Europeans during the worst economic crisis since the Great Depression of the 1930s, and that Reagan is in no position to ask Europe for sanctions as long as he lets U.S. farmers sell $1.8 billion or more worth of grain a year to the Soviet Union.

N.C. Port Profits Again Set Record

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — State officials say revenues and profits at North Carolina's two state ports have set records for the fourth year in a row.

Combined revenues for the ports at Wilmington and Morehead City were $14,589,931 for the year ending June 30, up 15 percent from the previous period, said D.M. Faircloth, secretary of commerce.

Revenues have more than doubled from the $7.2 million reported during the 1976-77 year, he said.

Combined profits at the ports totaled $2,262,040 for the fiscal year, up 58 percent from the previous period and nearly 12 times the profits reported in 1976-77, he said.

Port officials said the record revenues were due to the coal business at Morehead City, a 20 percent increase in containerized tonnage, a 48 percent increase in military movements at Wilmington and an increase in tariffs.

Revenues at Wilmington were $10,245,521, up 15 percent from 1980-81. Profits were $1,901,769, up 42 percent, Faircloth said.

Revenues at Morehead City were up 14 percent at $4,329,410. Profits were up 228 percent at $370,579.

Faircloth said the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers' recent approval of his request to widen the turning basin at the Wilmington port would help attract additional business.

"North Carolina's ports have played a key part in this state becoming a major international business center," Faircloth said. "These revenues and profits will help build even stronger ports for the future."

CAMPS SEIZED
BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Government troops seized three camps operated by the outlawed Communist Party of Malaya in southern Thailand, authorities said today.

Area Scouts Visit Philmont

A group of 41 area scouts from local Troops 340, 826 and 30, sponsored by the East Carolina Council, arrived at Philmont Scout Ranch near Cimarron, N.M., recently for a 12-day stay.

The scouts are among some 14,500 young men and women expected to hike Philmont's mountainous trails this summer.

During the stay at Philmont, participants backpack between 50 and 109 miles, visiting several of the ranch's 23 mountain camps. At the camps, they are instructed in such things as rock-climbing, rifle safety, western lore, conservation, and other programs. All scouts are accompanied for their first two days by a Philmont ranger, who instructs them in the basics of backpacking and survival.

The local group, which arrives back in Greenville on July 31, is under the adult leadership of Tom Parsons, Wayne Bryant, Richard Britt, Emmitt Walston and Jackie Dickson.

Philmont, which is operated by the Boy Scouts of America, is the world's largest camping facility, covering 214 square miles. Over 400,000 people have hiked the trails of Philmont since 1938, when the ranch was given to the Boy Scouts of America by oilman Waite Phillips.

EMT Course Planned At PCC

A 30-hour recertification course for Emergency Medical Technicians will begin at 7 p.m. on Aug. 4 in room 113 at Pitt Community College.

The course is designed to assist in preparing EMTs for the Emergency Medical Services recertification exam in September.

Classes will meet Monday and Wednesday from 1-10 p.m. for ten weeks. Registration will be held at the first session.

For further information contact the Continuing Education Division, 756-3130, ext. 238 or 266.

Pitt Students At Session

RALEIGH — Three students from Pitt County were among 100 who attended the final session in a series of four week-long workshops conducted by North Carolina State University's School of Engineering.

Maya K. Ajmera and Charles "Derek" Dickens of Rose High, along with Emma L. Forbes of D.H. Conley attended the session.

Engineering fields covered in the program include mechanical, aerospace, electrical, civil, industrial, materials and chemical.
