

President May Blacklist Firm Defying An Embargo

By BARRY SCHWEID
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan plans to blacklist the French subsidiary of an American firm if it ships equipment to the Soviet Union in defiance of his pipeline embargo, informed sources say.

The action would avoid a direct confrontation with the French government, which has ordered Dresser France, a subsidiary of Dresser Industries Inc. of Dallas, to ship three compressors to the Soviet Union for use in construction of the 3,500-mile Siberian natural gas pipeline.

The Reagan administration has prohibited U.S. firms from providing equipment for the pipeline. Because of the two governments' conflicting orders, Dresser Industries says it is caught "between a rock and a hard place."

Meanwhile, dock workers at Le Havre, France, loaded three Dresser compressors destined for the Soviet pipeline aboard a French freighter. The ship was scheduled to leave for the Soviet port of Riga later in the day.

According to well-placed officials here, Reagan is ready to put Dresser France on a blacklist if it ships the equipment. That would mean the French subsidiary would be barred from importing specific items and technology from its parent firm — or from any other American suppliers of the same items.

One official, asking to remain anonymous, said this would prevent Dresser Industries from providing the banned items to its French subsidiary, but was "unlikely" to prevent the American firm from doing other business abroad.

By denying the equipment to the Soviets, Reagan hopes to bring pressure on Moscow to persuade Polish authorities to relax martial law restrictions on workers and political dissidents.

John Hughes, a State Department spokesman, said that if the Dresser shipments are made from France in defiance of the embargo, "sanctions will be enforced." But he would not specify their target.

"Obviously we regret it and we would prefer that it not happen but we are going to take actions that we consider appropriate," Hughes told reporters Wednesday.

Larry Speakes, the White House deputy press secretary who is with Reagan in California, said, "The president is looking at some recommendations (and) there may be others during the course of the next few days."

One administration official traveling with Reagan said direct action against the French government could undermine relations with a close ally, or even touch off a trade war.

But the president apparently was less reluctant to punish Dresser France.

Asked if the administration will take action to enforce the sanctions, Speakes replied: "Yes, I would anticipate it will be taken. Yes, definitely."

In Dallas, Ed Luter, a Dresser vice president, said: "We have not been informed of any intent on the part of the president."

Luter said he would be surprised if sanctions were placed against the parent company because "we have not violated the presidential order. We complied with it as long as the matter was in our control."

Dresser, which employed 57,000 people in January, had worldwide sales of $4.6 billion last year. Luter said "about a third" of Dresser's sales came from outside the United States.

The Export Administration Act of 1979 provides a range of punitive measures for violators of presidential economic sanctions, including criminal fines and prison terms and civil fines and loss of export privileges.

On Tuesday, the U.S. District Court in Washington cleared the way for the Commerce Department to penalize Dresser Industries itself.

The company had contended that if Dresser France did not ship the three compressors, worth $3 million, it would be liable to criminal and civil penalties in France.

The Soviets have ordered a total of 21 compressors from Dresser to be used to pump the gas through the pipeline. In all, more than 100 compressors will be needed.

Pile Of Unused Ballots

UNUSED BALLOTS — Margaret Register, Pitt Board of Elections supervisor, looks at some of the ballots that were left over from this summer's first and second primaries. Miss Register said approximately 180,000 ballots remained, including some 155,000 that were not used in the first primary in June. She explained that seven different ballots were distributed at the polls in June and the elections board had to order seven ballots for each of the 34,308 registered voters in the county. Only 36 percent of the registration voted in June and the figure dropped off to 8.5 percent in the second primary when only 2,375 of the 27,810 registered Pitt Democrats exercised their opportunity to vote.

Good Schools Opening

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

The opening of Greenville public schools Wednesday on a full day basis instead of the traditional half-day orientation basis worked well, according to principals and other officials of city schools.

Enrollment figures today, the second day of school, total 4,699. All principals noted they expect a limited number of additional students to be enrolling during the next few days, with the peak to be reached just after the Labor Day holiday.

Enrollment in grades kindergarten through the eighth grade is 2,747. Students enrolled at Aycock number 801, and at Rose High the figure is 1,101. Figures by individual elementary schools are:

- Eastern, 345
- Elmhurst, 356
- Middle School, 390
- Sadie Sautter, 386
- Third Street, 252
- Wahl-Coates, 451

At Agnes Fullilove, 50 students are currently enrolled. "We expect about 50 more to be coming in during the next three or four weeks," Principal Johann Bleicher stated. "Our student body will reach its peak after the end of the farm harvest season."

Three of the city schools — Aycock, Middle and Wahl-Coates — are completely air conditioned. Rose High is partially air conditioned. Spokesmen at all the other schools mentioned the high temperatures in the early days of school as being oppressive for students and teachers. Most schools attempt to alleviate the heat by the use of floor or ceiling fans.

"We're very pleased with the way things went on opening day," Dr. Delma Blinson, superintendent of the city schools, commented. "Transportation worked out well, and students are reporting in early, better this year than in previous years."

"I've been especially impressed with the way teachers have prepared for the opening. Today, in many of the classrooms I visited, actual teaching of subjects is already under way. That's quite an achievement for the second day of school."

More Peacekeepers Land In Beirut For Evacuation

By FAROUK NASSAR
Associated Press Writer

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — More French and Italian peacekeeping troops landed in war-battered Beirut today and joined U.S. Marines in overseeing the evacuation of Palestine Liberation Organization fighters from the Israeli-ruled Lebanese capital.

The Syrian army sent 61 trucks and tank carriers across Israeli lines to west Beirut to start a two-day overland evacuation to Syria Friday of 3,500 troops and officers of the Syrian-commanded Palestine Liberation Army, an Israeli army spokesman in Lebanon said.

Lebanon's state radio and the Syrian government earlier said the Hittin Brigade evacuation on the Beirut-Damascus highway would begin today despite the PLO's fear of attack from President-elect Gemayel's Lebanese Christian militia.

"There is no land evacuation today," the Israeli military spokesman told reporters in suburban Baabda, five miles east of Beirut.

A truck convoy carrying about 500 PLO guerrillas was at the U.S. Marine controlled port entrance at midday for sea evacuation to the Syrian port of Tartus.

But it was not clear whether any sea evacuation of the guerrillas was planned for today. Greek and Cypriot passenger ships took a total of 3,807 guerrillas to Jordan, Iraq, Tunisia, South Yemen, Syria and Sudan in the past five days, according to Lebanese and PLO estimates.

Both contend the total of PLO guerrillas scheduled for evacuation was between 7,100 and 7,500 according to the plan U.S. presidential envoy Philip C. Habib had drawn for the PLO dispersal in the Arab world. But Israel said 3,484 PLO already have been evacuated by boat out of a total of 8,674 slated for evacuation.

There was a sharp decrease in farewell shooting as the caravan moved out from west Beirut. The Marines and PLO met Wednesday to make sure there was no shooting once the guerrillas reached the port area.

Lebanese police said nine civilians have been killed and 27 wounded in farewell shooting fusillades staged for the departing guerrillas each day since the evacuation began Saturday.

The International Red Cross began moving 185 wounded PLO guerrillas by 28 ambulances from 17 west Beirut hospitals to the German Red Cross hospital ship, MV Flora, which was repaired in Cyprus after being shelled July 27 while it was unloading PLO-destined medical supplies in the Christian port of Jounieh, 12 miles north of here.

International Red Cross spokesman Jean-Jacques Kurz said 20 of the wounded would be taken to Cyprus and the rest to hospitals in Athens, Greece.

By mid-morning, six ambulances flying Red Cross and Red Crescent flags arrived at the port with wounded PLO guerrillas to board the Flora. American marines stood about 50 yards from where the wounded were taken onto the hospital ship.

France completed its contribution to the multinational peacekeeping force when 450 paratroopers from the Caracassonne-based 3rd Marine Infantry Regiment landed at the U.S.-controlled Beirut port at dawn. The contingent reinforced 350 Foreign Legion paratroopers at the central Museum Crossing at the "Green Line" dividing Beirut into Moslem and Christian sectors.

A contingent of 250 Italian volunteers from the sharpshooters special forces unit, sporting white helmets with black plummage, came ashore from the landing craft Caorle two hours after the French.

"We brought absolutely everything we will need, including two truckloads of pasta, and that means we will be completely self-supporting," the Italian commander, Lt. Col. Bruno Tosetti told reporters.

The Italians, who were reinforced by 280 infantrymen this afternoon, moved to the Green Line's southernmost Galeri Semaan entrance to the city's Moslem sector.

The Marines on Wednesday oversaw the departure of two PLO guerrilla contingents on board the Syria-bound Cypriot passenger ship Sol Georgios and the Sudan-bound Greek ship Nereus.

Lebanon and the PLO said the Sol Georgios carried 550 fighters, 13 women and five children to the Syrian port of Tartus, where Syrian Prime Minister Abdul Raouf Al-Kasm led a hero's welcome for the arriving evacuees today.

Five sheep were slaughtered and skinned in the traditional Arab welcome when PLO guerrillas disembarked in Tartus amid deafening applause and chants of "Victory, Victory, Palestine, Palestine."

1930 COLORS?

I am restoring an old car and want to know the colors of North Carolina auto license plates in the year 1930 — the background color and the lettering color.

According to Joyce Hockaday, manager of the Title Information Branch of the Vehicle Registration Section of the N.C. Division of Motor Vehicles, North Carolina license plates for 1930 were white numerals on a maroon background. Anyone wanting similar information may write Ms. Hockaday's office (Raleigh ZIP 27697) or call 919-733-3025.

A Dip In Pitt Jobless

Pitt County's unemployment rate dropped slightly last month, contrasting sharply with an upward trend across the state.

Jim Hannan, manager of the local Employment Security Commission, said today Pitt's unemployment rate fell to 9.1 percent in July. It stood at 9.3 percent in June.

The state ESC reported Monday that North Carolina's statewide rate for July was 9.8 percent, up from 9.2 percent the previous month. The July state total was the highest jobless rate in North Carolina since 1961, when compilation of the monthly totals began.

Hannan said Pitt's improved jobless rate resulted from increased agricultural employment in July as well as changes in the industrial and manufacturing field.

"Some companies that had laid off employees called them back," Hannan said, "while some other companies cut their work hours to 32 a week," effectively reducing production but retaining their work force.

Cigarette Tax To Hurt, Avers Hunt

By WILLIAM M. WELCH
Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Gov. Jim Hunt says higher federal cigarette taxes will "hurt us a great deal" in North Carolina, costing the state 1,800 jobs and $10 million in expected tax revenues.

Hunt, reacting to enactment of President Reagan's tax bill that doubles federal cigarette taxes to 16 cents a pack, said he believed people would see Republicans as responsible for the tax increase even though some Democrats joined in supporting it.

"I don't think there's any question that was primarily the president's bill, drafted by Senator (Robert) Dole (of Kansas) and passed in the Senate initially as you know, with the strong help of Republicans, and there's no walking away from that," Hunt said. "That clearly is the president's bill."

Hunt made the conference in a news conference, his first regularly scheduled weekly meeting with reporters in three weeks. Hunt has been on a vacation and attended meetings with other governors in Oklahoma and Oregon.

Hunt's budget office made projections this week that the higher tobacco tax would result in the loss of 1,800 jobs and $10 million in tax revenues based on an assumption that cigarette consumption would be reduced by 4 percent.

"You can use $10 million to do a lot of things to help kids in school or older people," Hunt said. "The doubling of the cigarette tax clearly is a blow to us."

On other topics, Hunt said he would meet with his cabinet members next week to begin drafting proposals for the 1983 General Assembly. Hunt said he planned to pose no new major programs but wanted to increase emphasis on math and science training in schools.

Hunt declined to say whether he would recommend pay raises for state employees and teachers but said, "We've got to be fair to state employees."

Hunt also would not say whether he thought state Rep. Ron Taylor, D-Bladen, should resign from office in the face of indictments on state burning charges and federal bribery charges. Hunt said he wanted to talk to party officials and hoped for a resolution of the cases before the November election.

"It's a tough situation, yet I want everybody to be fair to Ron," he said.

Hunt said the state would continue with plans to bury soil tainted with toxic PCB chemicals at a Warren County landfill despite local opposition and vandalism at the burial site.

"We are prepared to see the job through completely and handle any situation that might arise," he said.

Calm Polish Holy Day Is Urged By Prelate

By THOMAS W. NETTER

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Archbishop Jozef Glemp, speaking before 300,000 Poles honoring the nation's holiest icon, appealed today for calm in the streets next Tuesday on the second anniversary of Solidarity — a day the suspended union has called for nationwide protests.

The martial law regime accused Solidarity supporters of planning a bloody uprising on the anniversary, and warned it would use force to put down any unrest.

"Anger is a bad adviser. The streets should not be territory for dialogue," said Glemp, Poland's Roman Catholic primate, in a speech from the balustrade of the Jasna Gora monastery in the southern shrine city of Czestochowa.

In one of his strongest sermons since the imposition of martial law last Dec. 13, Glemp repeated church calls for revival of Solidarity and an easing of the martial rule under which the union was suspended.

"Release Lech Walesa, or make it possible to speak as a free man," Glemp said, adding that freeing the interned union leader would have a calming effect on Poland.

"Begin preparations for an amnesty and release of interned unionists."

The crowd, thought to be the largest gathering in Poland under martial law, was assembled at the Czestochowa monastery to honor the 600th anniversary of the date in 1382 that Paulite monks brought to Poland the icon known as the Black Madonna.

Pope John Paul II, whose planned visit to attend the celebrations has been delayed by the government until at least next year, marked the religious festival at his vacation palace in Castel Gandolfo, Italy, in a special Mass that was broadcast to Poland over the Vatican Radio's live Polish-language service.

He called for Poles to "rebuild the common good" through dialogue with the government and added, "One cannot build this good through means of force and violence."

Cardinal Franciszek Macharski of Krakow said Mass in Czestochowa before a crowd that carried flags and banners and wore small pins bearing the image of the "Our Lady" icon.

"My heart is filled with sorrow because the seat prepared for the holy father is empty," he said.

The gathering was mostly religious in nature, but some Solidarity banners and flags, including one that said "Our Lady protects Solidarity," had been hung from lampposts at the monastery. Local officials appealed to the church to have them removed and they were taken down.

In a televised speech Wednesday night, Interior Minister Czeslaw Kiszczak warned against protests next week.

"The inspirers of the excesses expect bloodshed," he said. "The authorities have enough forces at their disposal to guarantee peace and safety in Polish towns. Public order will be maintained."

Dear Abby

Decision To Hold Upsets Eager Fiancee

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am 30 and John (not his real name) is 39. When we became engaged last March, I was thrilled because I'd been waiting for him to propose for two years. We agreed on an October wedding, but I went ahead and made all the arrangements — right down to having the invitations printed.

I've been paying for everything myself, but last night I asked John if he could help some. That's when he said some friends advised him to ask me to sign a statement saying everything he had before our marriage will be his alone. I told him I would sign anything and gladly. Then he said he still loves me but he wants to put our wedding on "hold" for a while!

Abby, we've lived together for nearly two years, so we're not exactly strangers. I love John and don't want to push him into anything he's not comfortable with, but our plans are made and the date is set. What should I do besides cry?

LOSING HOPE

DEAR LOSING: Be grateful that John admitted that he's not ready for marriage. (He's not.) And since he suggested that you put the wedding on "hold," don't you be left holding the bag. Let John know that he's expected to share the expenses that have already been incurred.

DEAR ABBY: What does a mother do when she suspects her son has become a drug dealer? He doesn't fit the description of what one pictures a drug dealer to be. He is educated, clean-cut, well-mannered and dresses beautifully. He's 22 and still in college.

I wonder how he is able to drive an expensive new car, live in a beautiful apartment, travel first class and buy expensive clothes and gifts without working. He tells me he has done well on some "investments," but he knows I don't believe him.

Do I let him make his own mistakes? The price could be very high. He's my son and, of course, I love him.
NO NAME OR TOWN

DEAR NO NAME: If your son has chosen not to reveal the source of his mysterious income, there is nothing you can do about it. Eventually you will learn — to your sorrow, or your relief.

DEAR ABBY: Concerning your standard (but outdated) advice on tipping barbers and beauticians — providing they do not own the shop:

It used to be customary not to tip the owners, but times have changed. We owners have the same bills and pressures as our employees. In most cases, we need the money to stay in business so that our employees can keep their jobs.

I hope this old-fashioned custom of not tipping the owner is dropped soon.
BEAUTICIAN AND OWNER

DEAR BEAUTICIAN: My advice has been, "Offer a tip." If it is refused because the operator owns the shop, rejoice — you're that much more ahead!

Leadership Is Settled

Controversy is no stranger to East Carolina University and the board of trustees appeared headed for another one last week as rumor surfaced of a move to unseat board chairman Ashley Futrell of Washington, N.C.

A survey of board members by this newspaper indicated there was some consideration being given to electing a new chairman.

No one expressed outright dissatisfaction with Futrell, who has served a one-year term as chairman, and has been on the board since 1969.

Several members, however, noted that Futrell recently had heart surgery and they questioned whether his physical condition was ideal for continuing as chairman.

Futrell, who is back at work after successful bypass surgery, said that his health was good and indicated that he would like to continue as chairman.

If Futrell had failed in a bid for re-election it is likely that C. Ralph Kinsey of Charlotte, an alumnus and vice chairman of the board, would have been elevated to the position.

On the morning of the meeting the betting was that the change would be made, but when the board met Monday afternoon there was hardly a ripple. Futrell was renominated and he and other officers of the board were unanimously re-elected.

The only hint of rebellion was Futrell's comment to the board, "If there be any petty differences among us, let us put them aside and work for the good of the young people that this university serves."

It impresses us that some of the state's outstanding leaders want the job of chairman enough to go after it. With spirited leadership East Carolina cannot fail to meet its loftiest goals. We hope, for now, the leadership question is settled and the board will, indeed, work together for the good of everyone the university serves.

Israel's War Not Yet Over

The painfully structured evacuation of Palestine Liberation Organization guerrillas from east Beirut is just a drop in the bucket when compared to PLO strength elsewhere in Lebanon.

Those departing fighters are leaving behind a host of sympathizers and supporters in east Beirut, and elsewhere in Lebanon there are many thousands of armed and trained guerrillas belonging to the several factions of the PLO ... eager for a chance to gain a measure of revenge against Israel.

In the eyes of those left behind, and their still strongly armed Syrian allies, the war is not over. They'll see to that.

It's Really Worse

By TIM SMITH
Watauga Democrat

Since my time here in this space is destined to be short-lived, I thought it would be appropriate to tell the readers, if any, just what a newspaper reporter does for a living — as opposed to, say, the boss who usually types this column.

A reporter's life, at least in Boone, is not filled with Watergates and Pulitzer Prizes, and there are no calls from the New York Times asking if we could be talked into allowing our considerable-reportorial skills to be enjoyed by a larger audience. A byline over an uncensored story on the front page is about the biggest thrill you can expect.

In return, we are expected to be on call at all times, since the news, due to a gross lack of consideration, doesn't always happen during regular working hours. And while most people don't even know who their congressman is, we have to know all the petty, local politicians intimately and attend their spectacularly boring meetings faithfully.

Then there are the obstacles that come with the job, such as the people who avoid the press like the plague, potential sources who wouldn't return a call from the president, the politician who admits he was quoted accurately but claims we didn't report what he meant to say, and the elected officials who refuse to discuss any of the public's business except in private.

There are other problems, too, such as being forced to keep the best news out of the paper because it was told to you off the record, waiting for days to get information from a source only to be told "no comment," being charged with bias from both sides on an issue, and explaining to the often abusive public just what a typo is.

If all this sounds bad, it's really a lot worse. I won't mention the number of stories I've lost when our computer system crashed, or the stories that I've written that I've wish had been lost. So what's the attraction? Why be a reporter? Perhaps it's merely the desire to know something first, or the chance to expand your

Strength For Today

THE COURAGE TO MAKE A CHOICE

John Wesley was one of the greatest saints which the Church has produced, yet he declared that all his life he felt like a man standing on a narrow isthmus between a raging sea of temptation on one side of him, and a steep ascent to heaven on the other. To the very end of his life, the Apostle Paul spoke in anxious tones about the possibility of falling from grace. He feared that after he had preached to others he might himself be overwhelmed with temptation.

Many people today are so indoctrinated with the idea of tolerance that it becomes very difficult to make definite moral choices. The expression, "It all depends on the individual," illustrates this tendency. It does, of course, depend upon the individual whether we achieve live or death, but this achievement reflects our ability and willingness to choose the good and to reject the evil. Our eternal destiny rests upon this choice. — Elisha Douglass

Congress Takes Control

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress has attached strings to its record $178 billion military authorization bill because it wants more control over how the Defense Department is spending the money.

A Senate-House conference panel that wrote the compromise bill retained the spirit — if not the exact language — of every review provision each chamber included in original versions of the measure.

Last week, the House and Senate both passed the bill obligating money for the department's arms and operations in fiscal year 1983, which starts Oct. 1. To bring the programs into reality, the appropriations committees will have to allocate the money later this year.

In one instance, the negotiating panel attached a one-year provision in the fiscal 1982 bill that requires the Pentagon to inform Congress whenever the projected cost of any of 47 weapons-procurement programs grows by more than 15 percent above its March 1981 "baseline" estimate. The programs involve those the department considers major.

The aim is to identify programs whose price tag is climbing well beyond expectations and act quickly to restructure or eliminate them.

Under that provision, written by Sen. Sam Nunn, D-Ga., the Pentagon reported earlier this year that 21 projects involving missiles, ships, aircraft and other hardware had breached the 15 percent threshold at an added projected cost of tens of billions of dollars.

Most of the overruns were caused by increases or reductions in purchases, while others were attributed to production delays, engineering changes, unanticipated production rates, underestimated costs or unanticipated inflation, the Congressional Budget Office said.

Defense advocates in Congress have expressed concern that, left unchecked, overruns will quickly erode public support for strengthening and modernizing the nation's military forces.

From now on, any project with total research and development costs of at least $200 million, or procurement costs of $1 billion or more, will have to be included in the so-called Selected Acquisition Reports to Congress.

Such reports now are filed quarterly, but the new provision reduces the paperwork load somewhat by requiring only one comprehensive report on each system annually, with the figures listed in that becoming the new baseline.

An abbreviated quarterly report must be submitted if there is a change in the following months in a program's cost, scheduling or performance.

The current system affects about half of the $86 billion in procurement programs earmarked in the 1983 bill.

While changing the reporting system, the conferees said lawmakers do not intend to take the Pentagon's word at face value. They told the congressional General Accounting Office to be prepared to make independent reviews "promptly after these reports are submitted to the Congress."

The new bill also eliminates the exemption that the Pentagon got when most other Cabinet departments and some independent agencies were directed by a 1978 law to install an inspector general, or internal watchdog, to ferret out waste, fraud and abuse.

The defense secretary could forbid the inspector general to snoop around highly sensitive military operations, intelligence programs or ongoing criminal investigations related to national security, but he would have to justify this to Congress.

The inspector general would report to the Defense secretary, but he also could share his findings with Congress.

Defense officials have contended that an inspector general is not needed because the Pentagon already has a high-level office for review and oversight and thousands of auditors and investigators.

John Glenn's Real Assets

By MAXWELL GLENN and CODY SHEARER
WASHINGTON — This November 13 million more Americans will be eligible to vote than were two years ago — double the average biennial jump in voters over the last 10 years. But this new crop of citizens at majority is no more likely to be interested in who's on the ballot than are their less numerous predecessors.

Given the lineup of potential 1984 presidential candidates, one can easily see why this attitude probably won't change. So far, with or without Ronald Reagan, 1984 has all the makings — George Bush, Edward Kennedy, Walter Mondale, among others — of a 1980 rerun. John B. Anderson, the Republican renegade who kindled the spirits of so many college students and may try to establish a new party, seems destined for an American Express card commercial.

Meanwhile, a number of Democrats have floated their names under the pretense of pulse-taking, knowing that mostly political junkies care about presidential politics at midterm.

Of these contenders, however, Sen. John Glenn, the Ohio Democrat, may all of a sudden have the "right stuff." All things being equal, the all-American hero might have the best chance of beating the all-American actor. Knowing this, some conservative commentators have already tried to blast the former astronaut back into orbit.

Nostalgia aside, the 61-year-old Glenn is by no means more remarkable than his fellow candidates. But he can list three sizeable assets — whopping name identification, little political baggage and a timely issue — that, with some work, could make him a candidate of whom younger Americans might even approve. (In 1980, while Reagan carried Ohio with 52 percent of the vote, Glenn won re-election with 69 percent.)

No one needs to tell Glenn that he's sitting atop a potential gold mine of votes. Nuclear proliferation has been one of his pet projects since he entered the senate in 1975 and could put him in a good position for capitalizing on Americans' concern about nuclear weapons. Such concern, he admits, "isn't going to go away."

Yet, on the basis of his response to nuclear freeze proposals and comments during a recent interview, Glenn seems a bit out of touch with the political dimensions of his own issue. Having dismissed the Kennedy-Hatfield freeze proposal as too idealistic, he later introduced a five-point plan that — in pie-in-the-sky fashion — even called for conventional disarmament.

Meanwhile, when asked to give his best advice to the freeze movement, Glenn suggested a campaign of letters and personal visits to citizens in the U.S.S.R. He recalls telling students, "If the freeze (is) going to be your campus fad of 1982, and it's going to be swallowing goldfish next year, forget it as far as any support goes."

Clearly, the perfectionist who helped kill the SALT II treaty may need to drop the piety if he's to catch up with Kennedy on disarmament ferment.

But the freeze isn't the only challenge facing Glenn's advisers. Although the economy looms as a Kennedy issue, it remains up for grabs for anyone with fewer links to the legacies that killed Democrats in 1980. At this point, however, Glenn's admirable interest in high technology hasn't brought him notice as an economic answer-man.

Finally there is what to do about Glenn's image. He was the embodiment of the American dream 20 years ago. He was wholesome, God-fearing — a celebrity among celebrities. He was the freckle-faced model for a generation.

But one-quarter of today's voting-age population was still in nursery school or diapers in 1962, when Glenn circled the globe and later moved a joint session of Congress to tears. By the time 1984 is upon us, younger voters may have already had their fill of all-American, niceguy presidents.

To the editor:

The expressed concern of Charles P. Adams and Frank H. Longino over the state of the trash bags that cover some of our traffic lights must give us all pause.

"Do men light a candle and put it under a bushel?" (Mark v 15) Or under a bag?

Why are the bags placed over the lights? Is it for the purpose of hiding the lights? If so, why so? A light unlit is anyway not a light but only the simulacrum of a light, which usually goes unnoticed, bags or no.

In the dark of night, the simulacra, covered with funereal black plastic, swing ghoulishly in the wind that ululates down First Streets and sighs mournfully on past the intersections down to the inkblack Tar. In such gloom, one can almost hear, echoing up and down the windy places, up and down the turgid Tar, the anguished cry of Othello: "Put out the light and then put out the light! Put out the light and then put out the light!"

So sombre, all this. But it need not be. Suppose we removed the trash bags and covered the simulacra with grass skirts, to which were attached tiny tinkling bells; so that, as the wind souged softly through the intersections, the skirts would gyre and gimble in the wabe? O happy sight! O joyful noise!

Some majority or minority might object: "Those swinging skirts are too suggestive. Children might peek." But I think that Charles P. Adams and Frank H. Longino would enjoy, enjoy!

I would, I know.

As Aug. 26 is the 62nd anniversary of the day women won the right to vote and is celebrated as Equality Day by many, I would like to urge everyone to be sure they are registered to vote in the November elections.

The NOW organization of Greenville is celebrating this anniversary by participating in a statewide Walkathon to raise money in support of women running for elective office. Women make the difference in North Carolina and will be walking from Boone to Beaufort Saturday, Aug. 28. Interested people for this area will be walking across Lenoir County on Highway 70, starting at the Kinston courthouse at 8:30 a.m. and returning there for a rally at 10:30 a.m.

Patience Advised By Builders

By JOHN CUNNIFF
NEW YORK (AP) — Falling interest rates are breathing life into the hopes of would-be homebuyers, but the word from the industry is patience.

Both builders and lenders have been badly burned by instability of interest rates, and they have a decided lack of enthusiasm about jumping back into the marketplace. Both need to get their houses in order, so to speak.

Savings and loan associations and savings banks, traditional home mortgage lenders, remain burdened with old, below-market loans, and won't be inclined to lower their rates until they are certain better times will be around awhile.

"S&Ls are going to be very cautious," said James Kendall, a spokesman for the U.S. League of Savings Associations. "They got badly burned in 1980, and this time they're going to wait to see if rates stay down."

Kendall's reference was to a sudden interest rate drop in August 1980 that induced many S&Ls to offer reduced-rate mortgages. Within a couple of months rates resumed rising, trapping lenders who had made loans at the lower rates.

Many housing lenders are also experiencing a continuation of higher costs, a consequence of offering depositors 13 percent savings certificates, some of which will remain on their books for another 30 months.

Builders are said to have a "show me" attitude. They too recall 1980, when the brief rate decline induced many to resume construction — then trapped them with unsold houses when a return of higher interest scared off buyers.

"They want stability," said Bill Young, an economist with the National Association of Home Builders. "Stability or gently falling rates from now to the beginning of next year so they can plan for a good building season."

Even if they get their wishes, however, many builders will be faced with the task of rebuilding crews. The Home Builders believe that only one-half their membership is active during what many term a housing depression.

True, building activity picked up in July by almost a third, reaching an annual rate of 1.21 million units, but the great bulk of that activity was in multifamily structures, and much of it was confined to the Southeast.

Activity during July was much slower among builders of single-family homes, and many of these are now expected to remain at reduced operating levels while planning for the spring building and selling season.

By then, said Young, rates might be around 14 percent, a level that would bring carrying costs into the affordability level of millions more families.

A study released a year ago by the Home Builders indicated that at 18 percent interest, only 8.4 million families, less than 14 percent of the total number of families, had income sufficient to carry a $60,000, 30-year loan, while maintaining payments for insurance, taxes and utilities.

At 14 percent interest, the same study estimated that 13.1 million families, 21.8 percent of the total, were financially able to handle the $60,000 mortgage and the other payments.

A rise since then in unemployment, new-home prices, and takehome pay might have skewed the numbers somewhat, but the message remains essentially the same. That is, as interest rates fall the number of eligible families rises swiftly.

And rising also, it would seem, would be the number of families getting ideas of living in a home of their own. To which the industry replies: Patience.

Ruled Guilty Of Lying To Grand Jury

By ESTES THOMPSON
Associated Press Writer
ROANOKE, Va. (AP) — Linley Vernon Tate Jr., 20, of Eden, N.C., has been convicted on two charges of lying to a federal grand jury that was probing drug dealings in North Carolina and southwest Virginia.

After deliberating Wednesday evening for three hours and 15 minutes, the U.S. District Court jury in Roanoke said Tate was guilty of lying when he said he wasn't aware of his father's drug dealings.

The jury also convicted Tate of lying when he told the grand jury he didn't know what was in a drug package
he had handled for his father.
The package contained five pounds of marijuana which was sold for $1,650 to undercover agents.

The jury acquitted Tate of three other charges of not telling the truth to the grand jury.

Although the charges involved the grand jury probe, no evidence came out at the trial about the alleged drug smuggling that authorities said involved flights of illegal drugs from Colombia to Eden and Wise County, Va.

Tate had been charged with nine counts of failing to tell the truth during the Sept.
10, 1981, grand jury appearance. But four counts, including two dealing with alleged drug running in Wise County, were dropped as the trial began.

Tate and his father, Linley
Vernon Tate Sr., were convicted last year in Rockingham County, N.C., Superior Court on multiple counts of dealing in marijuana and methaqualone.
Tate Sr. was sentenced to six years in prison and Tate Jr.
was given a suspended sentence on the condition he testify truthfully in other drug investigations.

Tate Jr. faces a maximum sentence of five years in prison. U.S. District Judge
James Turk delayed sentencing 10 days to give lawyers time to file motions in the case.

Tate Jr.'s mother, Linda S.
Tate of Eden, said the trial was aimed at forcing her husband to cooperate with an investigation of the alleged drug smuggling. Mrs. Tate has maintained that her family is being harassed by authorities.

Mrs. Tate has pleaded guilty to a charge of impeding the federal probe by threatening a grand jury witness. She said she pleaded guilty in an attempt to placate authorities.

Throughout the two-day trial, attorneys battled over the credibility of the key prosecution witness, Special Agent Terry S. Johnson of the North Carolina State
Bureau of Investigation.
Johnson said Tate Jr. told him before the grand jury meeting that he had heard his father talking about drug dealings.

Two Eden police officers testified Johnson wasn't truthful.

Steelmakers Charge Lenience

By SALLY JACOBSEN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's two largest steelmakers say the Commerce Department bowed to foreign pressure and was too lenient in its findings of unfair trade by European steel producers.

Spokesmen for United States Steel Corp. and Bethlehem Steel Corp. said Wednesday's Commerce Department decision that six European nations illegally subsidized steel shipped to the United States underestimated the level of aid from foreign governments.

The department responded by saying that in-depth field investigations in the last two months have shown that foreign steel subsidies are lower than previously believed.

"This disparity reflects the pressures that are undoubtedly being brought to bear" on the Reagan administration by the European Community, U.S. Steel Chairman David Roderick said in a statement.

"The results of the Commerce Department findings appear to be an effort to bail the European steel industry out of the difficulty that it created by its unfair trade practices in this country," he said.

A spokesman for Bethlehem Steel Corp. said the subsidy findings were at odds with evidence the company presented to the department. "Bethlehem provided the Commerce Department with well-documented information that clearly supported higher subsidy valuations," said the spokesman, who asked to remain unidentified.

"We are, therefore disappointed that the final determinations... are substantially lower than the preliminary determinations announced June 11," the spokesman said.

In its final ruling, the department said steel products shipped here by 13 European steelmakers were subsidized by their governments through a variety of means, including low-cost loans.

It said the subsidies ranged up to 26 percent of the value of the imports. But the department's preliminary decision in June said the subsidies reached a high of 40 percent.

Roderick said some of the findings may be appealed to the Court of International Trade to redress "what we perceive to be an unjust, unjustifiable and inequitable determination."

Gary Horlick, deputy assistant commerce secretary for import administration, said at a news conference earlier that in the preliminary phase of the investigations, "you assume the worst so you don't let someone off the hook."

He said the main reason the rates differ is that "since June we've had an opportunity to gather more information, to go into the field and check it out." Overall, the subsidy levels were generally lower, he said.

Officials from the Commerce Department and the European Community agreed earlier this month to a tentative arrangement limiting steel imports from Europe. But the domestic steel industry, which had filed unfair trading charges early this year, rejected the plan.

"To date, several U.S. producers have indicated a preference to see the cases to conclusion," Commerce Secretary Malcolm Baldrige said Wednesday. "While I disagree with their assessment, it is up to the producers themselves to evaluate what method of relief from unfair trade is in their best interest."

The new ruling is a further step toward imposition of penalty duties aimed at offsetting the subsidies.

Before those countervailing duties can be imposed, the U.S. International Trade Commission must determine that the imports injure or threaten to injure the domestic industry. That ruling is not due until Oct. 12.

The commission has already issued a preliminary finding that the imports might be injuring the domestic steel industry.

Countries cited in the ruling are West Germany, France, Italy, Great Britain, Belgium and Luxembourg, all members of the European Economic Community.

The Netherlands had also been included in the preliminary finding, as had Brazil and South Africa.

The investigation against Brazil was suspended Tuesday after that nation agreed to impose an export tax offsetting the subsidy on plate exports to the United States, the department said.

It said the Netherlands and South Africa were found not to be subsidizing steel exports to this country. In addition to U.S. Steel, steelmakers who brought the original complaints are Bethlehem Steel Corp., Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp., National Steel Corp., Republic Steel Corp., Inland Steel Corp. and Cyclops Steel Corp.

Trial Set For Four Deputies

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Jury selection is scheduled to begin Sept. 7 for the trial of four Gaston County sheriff's deputies charged with firing into the car of a Gastonia woman last May.

The case will be tried in Gaston County Superior Court, but presiding Judge Charles Lamm has ordered that the jury be selected from Mecklenburg County because of pretrial publicity in Gaston County.

A Gaston County grand jury in June indicted Sgt. Ralph Miller and deputies Vernon Hill, Jim Neff and Paul Scalf on charges stemming from an early morning chase May 27. The officers had chased and fired at a car driven by Suzanne Starnes, 24.

Ms. Starnes said she tried to escape from the unmarked police car because it was after midnight and she did not know the men following here were law-enforcement officers.

64th Birthday For Bernstein

NEW YORK (AP) — Conductor Leonard Bernstein observed his 64th birthday, still recovering from a case of the flu that forced him to cancel an appearance at the Salzberg music festival.

Bernstein was to appear with the Vienna Philharmonic at the festival on Aug. 29, but sent a telegram to festival director Otto Serle to express "apologies and unhappiness" at having to cancel.

A spokeswoman for Bernstein, Margaret Carson, said he had been in confined to his home for a few weeks with bronchial flu and a fever.

He was recovering on his birthday Wednesday, she said, but doctors told him not to travel until Aug. 30, when he will leave to join the Vienna Philharmonic for concerts in Vienna, Munich and Berlin.

Would Deny Tax Break If Biased

WASHINGTON (AP) — A special advocate, named by the Supreme Court to argue against federal tax breaks for racially biased private schools, says the Internal Revenue Service is correct in denying such tax relief.

William T. Coleman Jr., a Washington attorney who is a former secretary of transportation and the first black to serve as a Supreme Court clerk, made the statement in a "friend of the court" legal brief filed Wednesday for the court's October term. The court appointed Coleman to the advocate role last April.

His brief concludes that the commissioner of the Internal Revenue Service "is fully supported by the statutory language and by overwhelming evidence of congressional intent, and is in the fulfillment of his constitutional duty to ensure that the federal government in no way supports the maintenance of racially segregated or discriminatory schools."

Coleman contended that the First Amendment does not require that racially discriminatory religious schools be given tax breaks. He said the Fifth Amendment bars granting tax benefits to schools that discriminate on the basis of race.

The court last October agreed to hear a challenge to the IRS ban filed by two Christian schools charged with racially discriminatory policies. They are Bob Jones University in Greenville, S.C., and the Goldsboro Christian Schools in Goldsboro, N.C.

On Jan. 8, the Reagan administration announced it intended to lift the 12-year-old IRS ban on tax relief for racially biased schools and asked the high court to drop the appeal. The action raised a storm of protest among blacks, civil rights groups and others.

Later, in a reversal, the Justice Department asked the court on Feb. 25 to go ahead and decide, after all, the legality of the ban. The Justice Department also said the court should appoint a special advocate to argue in favor of the prohibition, because the government is sticking to its Jan. 8 position that IRS officials had no congressional authority to impose the ban in 1970.

The court has not set a date for oral arguments.

Bob Jones bars interracial dating and interracial marriages among its students, while Goldsboro refuses to enroll black students. Fewer than a dozen of the 6,300 students at Bob Jones are black.

Both schools defend their racially discriminatory policies on religious grounds, but lost their challenge to the tax-exemption denial in the 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

The IRS has revoked the tax exemptions of more than 100 private schools since 1970, and has denied exemptions to an unspecified number of other learning institutions because of discriminatory practices. Of those schools, only Bob Jones and Goldsboro cited religious grounds.

District YDC Meet Saturday

Security Guards Hired To Watch PCB Landfill

By JOHN FLESHER
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Recent vandalism at the Warren County landfill where soil contaminated with toxic PCBs will be stored has caused the state to place armed security guards at the site.

Authorities discovered Saturday night that someone had repeatedly slashed the plastic sheet lining the sides of the hole in which the soil is to be placed. Officials said repairs would cost $8,000.

Russ Edmonston, public information officer with the state Department of Crime Control and Public Safety, said security officers were scheduled to begin patrolling the landfill site Wednesday night. They'll be on duty whenever work is not going on at the landfill, Edmonston said.

"We felt that the best way to avoid further damage to the landfill and further delays in construction would be to hire security guards," he said. "We're already behind because of all the rain we've had and we can't afford more problems like this."

The decision to hire guards was made by representatives of the state, the contractor and the design engineer, Edmonston said.

"We've got no reason to believe that this will happen again, but once it's done you have to prepare for it," he said.

Repairs should be completed by Friday if needed materials being flown in from out of state arrive in time, Edmonston said. The plastic sheet will be patched with poly-vinyl chloride the same way a punctured tire is fixed, he said.

Once the repairs are finished, workers will continue preparing the landfill for its contents — soil containing toxic PCBs which were dumped illegally along 210 miles of North Carolina roadsides several years ago.

Edmonston said state officials met with people living near the landfill Wednesday while inspecting the site. He said they appeared to appreciate officials' promises to keep an eye on the landfill but remained opposed to it.

Warren County sheriff's deputies and the State Bureau of Investigation are still investigating the vandalism. No arrests have been made.

Grand Jury In Colcor Probe To Be Convened Again Next Month

By The Associated Press
FAYETTEVILLE, N.C. (AP) — Assistant U.S. Attorney Doug McCullough says the special federal grand jury in the Colcor probe will meet as scheduled next month, and that prosecutors will seek two new indictments.

Six Colcor defendants are scheduled to be arraigned in a federal court in Wilmington today, including state District Court Judge J. Wilton Hunt Sr. and Kenneth Coleman.

McCullough's announcement Wednesday that the grand jury would meet as originally scheduled on Sept. 21 comes after he had said Tuesday that the U.S. Attorney's office had received a notice from the U.S. Justice Department postponing the session because of a temporary cut in providing funds for the grand jury.

The Raleigh office received a clarification Wednesday, however, stating that sufficient funds would be made available to pay for the grand jury, he said.

McCullough said Wednesday that prosecutors will present evidence implicating several people not previously charged in the FBI's undercover probe of crime in eastern North Carolina. The U.S. Attorney's office also will seek additional charges against some of the 21 defendants already indicted as a result of the 21-month undercover investigation, McCullough said.

But McCullough refused to specify how many people will be charged in the new indictments.

When 21 people, including four public officials, were arrested July 29, federal prosecutors said as many as two dozen more people could be charged as a result of the investigation, which uncovered crimes ranging from racketeering and drug dealing to counterfeiting and interstate theft.

Although he would not rule out the possibility that two dozen more people might eventually be charged, McCullough said, "Two dozen people are not going to be indicted on Sept. 21."

Asked who will be charged at the next grand jury session, he said, "I can't comment on who is under investigation or for what."

Last week, nine Colcor defendants pleaded innocent to the crimes with which they have been charged.

The six Colcor defendants scheduled to be arraigned today in Wilmington before U.S. Magistrate Franklin Block are:

— Thirteenth District Court Judge J. Wilton Hunt Sr. of Whiteville. Hunt is charged with accepting bribes totaling $7,500 to use his influence to protect alleged drug-smuggling and gambling operations run by two undercover agents posing as organized crime figures.

— Kenneth Coleman and his wife Mary Lee of Cherry

Grove. The Colemans are charged with selling cocaine to undercover agents and of conspiring to smuggle drugs into the United States from South America.

— James E. Carroll of Whiteville. Federal prosecutors say Carroll is the common link between the Colcor defendants. He has been charged in five separate indictments. Carroll is charged in three of the four major areas of criminal activity uncovered by the FBI: bribery, drug-dealing and interstate theft. — Carroll's brother, Roland Jr. of Chadbourne. He is charged with conspiring to sell between 2,000 and 25,000 pounds of marijuana to undercover agents.

— Lake Waccamaw Police Chief L. Harold Lowery, who is charged with accepting bribes totaling $1,650 to protect and promote an illegal gambling operation run by the federal agents at a lakeside cottage in Lake Waccamaw.

Hail Arrival Of PLO Guerrillas

By PHILIP DOPOULOS
 Associated Press Writer
TARTUS, Syria (AP) — Thunderous applause and chants in Arabic of "Victory, Victory, Palestine, Palestine," greeted the first PLO evacuees from west Beirut to Syria today when they arrived at this Mediterranean port.

Thousands of Palestinians from throughout Syria joined Prime Minister Raouf Khassam and Defense Minister Mustafa Tlass in welcoming the Palestine Liberation Organization guerrillas evacuated from the Israeli-ringed stronghold in the Lebanese capital.

Before the chartered Cypriot ferry Sol Georgios docked, Palestinians slaughtered and skinned five sheep in front of the crowd to honor "the warriors."

When the PLO fighters disembarked, they stepped on the sheep skins before walking through a human gauntlet to stop briefly before a reviewing stand and hear speeches by Syrian and Palestinian officials.

Many of the evacuees have relatives in Syria, the home of more than 280,000 Palestinians.

Mothers embraced sons and friends broke through lines of Syrian troops to kiss the weary-eyed evacuees as they left the ship.

Pandemonium broke out when the pressing crowd refused to move back from the quay to permit the ship to dock. But the Syrian troops moved in quickly swinging their automatic rifles to restore order.

The first group of fighters to leave the ship were members of Al Fatah, the PLO's main guerrilla force, followed by members of the Patriotic Front for the Liberation of Palestine.

The fighters waved their automatic weapons in the air and raised their hands in the victory sign. But in sharp contrast to their departure from Beirut, not a shot was fired in the air by them or by the crowd greeting them.

More than 30,000 people, including school children, had gathered at the port hours before the originally scheduled arrival at 9 p.m. Wednesday, 7 p.m. EDT. But the ship was late and PLO sources estimated the crowd had thinned to about 8,000 when the guerrillas finally stepped ashore. No reason for the delay was announced.

Many Al Fatah guerrillas were scheduled to go to an Al Fatah camp 51 miles southeast of Damascus. The remainder were destined for temporary camps set up by the government in desert areas outside the capital.

Despite scores of buses on hand to collect the evacuees and their belongings, many of them left the port area in private cars.

Shot In Back

The Pitt County Sheriff's Department was investigating an early morning shooting today at Hollywood Crossroads on N.C. 43 that left a 20-year-old woman in the intensive care unit at Pitt County Memorial Hospital.

Sheriff Ralph Tyson said that Jasper Whitaker, 16, of Route 1, Ayden, was being sought in the shooting of his sister, Rowena Whitaker.

Tyson said the incident, reported at 1:09 a.m., followed an argument at Ms. Whitaker's residence. He said Ms. Whitaker was shot in the back with a .22 caliber rifle.

Caught With Marijuana

A Route 3, Greenville, man has been arrested by Pitt County deputies and charged with manufacturing marijuana and possession of marijuana with intent to sell, according to Sheriff Ralph Tyson.

The sheriff said that Kirby Stanley Dixon, 42, was arrested after deputies stopped his car and searched the vehicle. Deputies confiscated approximately 30 marijuana plants ranging from three to eight feet tall, Tyson said, with a street value of $15,000. The vehicle Dixon was driving and another vehicle at his residence were confiscated, he said.

Bond for Dixon was set at $1,000.

over losers. Oil, steel, auto, retail and technology stocks were among the advancing groups.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, up 9.99 points Wednesday after suffering a 16.27-point setback on Tuesday, surged another 10.85 points to 895.74 by noon EDT today. The transportation and utility measures also rose.

NYSE volume at noon soared to 59.31 million shares, compared with 36.29 million at that hour in the previous session. Total Big Board volume on Wednesday was 106.20 million shares, the fourth highest in history and the third straight session that turnover exceeded 100 million shares.

The gain in the Dow Jones industrial average came despite the NYSE's halting of trading in one of the average's members, Manville Corp., which announced today it filed for protection from creditors under Chapter 11 of federal bankruptcy laws. Manville closed Wednesday at 7 1/2.

More declines in short-term interest rates also helped stocks. The rate on three-month Treasury bills, for example, tumbled to 7.15 percent from 7.39 percent late Wednesday.

In the technology group, gainers included Computervision 1 1/2 to 26 1/4, Data General 1 1/2 to 28 1/2 and Datapoint 1 to 16 1/2.

The NYSE composite index rose 1.10 to 68.49. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index climbed 6.55 to 278.18.

Dodgers Climb Back Into Lead

By The Associated Press
Fernando Valenzuela, the pitcher, and Fernando Valenzuela, the slugger, teamed up to put the Los Angeles Dodgers on top again in the National League West.

"I was very surprised," said Valenzuela, who became the major leagues' first 17-game winner and belted his first career league home run Wednesday night, lifting the Dodgers to an 11-3 triumph over the St. Louis Cardinals.

In other NL action, Philadelphia outlasted Atlanta, 11-9 in 10 innings, Chicago beat San Francisco 4-2, Houston held on to defeat New York 5-4, Cincinnati nipped Montreal 1-0, and Pittsburgh rallied to beat San Diego 7-6.

"I'd never hit one, not even in the minor leagues," said Valenzuela of his solo shot in the fourth inning off loser Steve Mura, 11-8, which followed a homer by Bill Russell. "I hit two one time in the Central League in Mexico."

Valenzuela improved his record to 17-9 as he fired a six-hitter.

"I've been telling everybody what an outstanding pitcher he is; it's no surprise," said Dodger Manager Tom Lasorda. "He's a great athlete. He gets tougher as he goes along."

Ken Landreaux aided Valenzuela by knocking in two runs with three hits. The Dodgers put the game away with a six-run ninth inning highlighted by two-run doubles by Steve Garvey and Bill Russell.

Los Angeles opened up a one-game lead in the NL West over Atlanta, which lost to Philadelphia. The Dodgers had trailed the Braves by a percentage point for the previous two days.

Phillies 11, Braves 9
Gary Matthews tied the game in the eighth inning with a three-run homer, then ripped a single in the 10th to drive home the game-winning run as the Phils snapped the Braves' six-game winning streak.

"We'll remember this one for quite a while," said Phillies Manager Pat Corrales, whose club squandered a 6-0 first-inning lead before coming back. "What a nightmare."

"We had to score that many runs to win," said Corrales. "Our pitchers couldn't hold them. But you're going to give up a lot of runs in this ball park, and don't forget, they gave up a lot, too."

The Phillies' triumph negated a two-homer performance by Atlanta's Bob Horner, Ron Reed, 4-4, hurled four shutout innings of relief for the victory as the second-place Phillies moved to within two games of pace-setting St. Louis in the NL East.

The paid crowd of 23,555 brought the Braves' season attendance total to 1,541,275, the highest one-year total in their Atlanta history. It surpassed the previous mark of 1,539,801 set in 1966, the first year the Braves played in Atlanta after moving from Milwaukee.

at the plate amazes me," said Cubs Manager Lee Elia. "I've never seen him not hit."

Jim Barr, 3-3, took the loss.

Astros 5, Mets 4
Art Howe hit a three-run inside-the-park homer and winner Don Sutton, 13-8, hurled eight strong innings to send extend the Mets' losing streak to ten straight games.

In the sixth, with Phil Garner and Alan Ashby on base, Howe hit a sinking liner to right field. Ellis Valentine charged the ball, but it got by him and rolled to the wall.

"I try to be as aggressive as possible in the field," Valentine said. "I just kept coming and the ball kept sinking, and it just got by me."

The Mets rallied for four runs in the ninth, but Bert Roberge came on to pick up the save.

many still thought we'd be in it this late. If we can be where we are now when we start playing the other teams in the division next month, we'll be all right."

The Pirates trailed 6-5 entering the eighth inning, but rallied to win with solo runs in both the eighth and ninth.

Kent Tekulve, 10-6, worked the final two innings for the victory. Padre reliever Floyd Chiffer, 4-2, took the loss.

State Recovering From Its Flu Bout

By The Associated Press
While North Carolina State continues to recover from a virus which knocked almost 30 players out of action, Wake Forest is suffering from bumps and bruises which may require some changes in their lineup.

In Raleigh, quarterback Tol Avery's 8-yard touchdown pass to fullback Vince Evans highlighted the Wolfpack's second full-contact scrimmage of the fall. Sophomore tailback Joe McIntosh also scored on a two-yard run.

"We started slowly on offense and the defense played very well early," said N.C. State coach Monte Kiffin. "But our offense played better as the scrimmage went along."

Kiffin praised freshman linebacker Maurice Barnes for making "a lot of big hits." He also said he'd have to wait for the films to make any other evaluations.

The third-year coach said missing offensive linemen and the lack of time the rest of the offensive line has spent working together made any evaluation of N.C. State's quarterback situation difficult.

N.C. State's next scrimmage is scheduled for Friday and will be closed to the public.

At Winston-Salem, Coach Al Groh finds quarterback Gary Schofield the lone bright spot in an otherwise dismal fall practice.

"Our team would be of great delight to the program sellers because, due to injuries, we have so many unfamiliar faces that people wouldn't know their number," he said.

Groh said Schofield continues to execute well on a daily basis.

"Gary Schofield is playing with the proficiency that we expect from him yet cannot take for granted," he added.

N.C. State opens against Furman and Wake Forest is at home to Western Carolina on Sept. 4.

Cubs 4, Giants 2
Bill Buckner had two hits — giving him 10 in his last four games — while Randy Martz and Lee Smith held San Francisco to four hits and sent the Giants to their fifth straight loss.

"I usually have one or two streaks during the season, but this is the best month I can remember," said Buckner, who entered the game hitting .429 for August. "You're always working on your hitting, but when you're going well you don't worry as much."

"Nothing Bill Buckner does

Reds 1, Expos 0
Alex Trevino drove in the game's only run with an eighth-inning RBI single, while Bob Shirley and Brad Lesley combined to shut out the Expos on seven hits.

"I get so pumped up I don't know what I can say," said Lesley, who earned his third save. "We are still going to figure in the pennant race. We will hurt some people and you can take that to the bank."

Losing pitcher Steve Rogers, 14-7, fired a four-hitter and lowered his National League-leading earned run average to 2.33.

Pirates 7, Padres 6
Jim Morrison's RBI single in the ninth gave the Pirates a comeback victory, and moved them into third place in the NL East, 5½ games behind the first-place Cardinals.

"These games make you gray, but they're still fun," said Pirate skipper Chuck Tanner. "These guys like being in a pennant race ... not

Johnson Is Injured

COLORADO SPRINGS, Col. — Former D.H. Conley wrestler James Johnson, ranked second in his 198-pound wrestling class in tryouts for the World Games, suffered a hip injury in his match this week to determine the top four places, and is out of the competition.

Wrestling against Mike Houck of the Minnesota Wrestling Club, Johnson suffered a recurrence of a hip pointer while leading in the match, 4-3. Despite this, he continued to the finish, eventually losing, 12-8.

He did not compete in the wrestle backs because of the injury.

The loss and injury combined to knock him out of a chance to compete in the World Games later this year.

Johnson's injury forced a six-to-eight week layoff for recovery.

Fine Field Set For High Point's Henredon

HIGH POINT, N.C. (AP) — New Hall of Famer and leading money winner JoAnne Carner joins Beth Daniel, Nancy Lopez and Sandra Haynie and a field of 115 professionals in today's opening round of the $165,000 LPGA Henredon Classic.

Carner is coming off a victory in last weekend's World Championship of Women's Golf in Cleveland. The triumph was Carner's 35th career title, qualifying her as the 10th entrant into the LPGA Hall of Fame and first since Carol Mann in 1977.

Her $50,000 in prize money for capturing the title pushed her 1982 earnings to $248,109. That figure breaks the single-season record previously held by Daniel. Daniel, who tied Janet Alex for fourth in last year's Henredon, finished 11th this past weekend, but the $2,000 prize money was enough to push her season's earnings above $200,000.

Daniel, a five-time winner this year, is leading the battle for both the player of the year and Mazda-Japan series while Carner currently tops the money list and the race for the Vare Trophy with a 71.59 average.

Carner and Daniel join Haynie and Sally Little to give the Ladies Professional Golf Association a first — four $200,000 winners in one season.

Haynie took the $24,750 first prize last year by firing a 72-hole total of 281, 7-under-par. She came from behind by firing two straight 68s to finish one stroke ahead of Judy Clark and two ahead of Fayetteville, N.C., native Marlene Floyd.

In all, 18 of the top 20 money winners will be on hand to form what LPGA spokeswoman Clare Sheils called "a very strong field."

"We're getting down to brass tacks where we only have a few money events left," Sheils said. "The tournament has a great bearing on the young players as far as qualifying for the Mazda-Japan Classic and the Mary Kay Classic in Dallas."

The top 45 money winners earn a berth in the Mazda-Japan Classic Nov. 5-7.

Another reason for the strong turnout is the fact that the races for player of the year, rookie of the year, Vare Trophy (low stroke average) and money list are still up for grabs, Sheils said.

But several big names won't be there, including Jan Stephenson, who withdrew from this year's event late Tuesday because of a flu-like ailment, LPGA officials said.

Injuries forced Debbie Raso and Murie Breer to withdraw, but tournament officials were boosted by the fact Lopez is on hand after missing last year's tournament with tendinitis of the elbow.

Floyd, since married and now known as Floyd-DeArman, is not entered because her husband is hospitalized, tournament officials said.

Perry Threatens Suit Over Suspension

SEATTLE (AP) — Dave Phillips did something no other major league umpire has done to Gaylord Perry in the venerable right-hander's fabulous big league pitching career.

Phillips banished the 43-year-old "Ancient Mariner" from a Monday night game for allegedly throwing an illegal pitch against the Boston Red Sox.

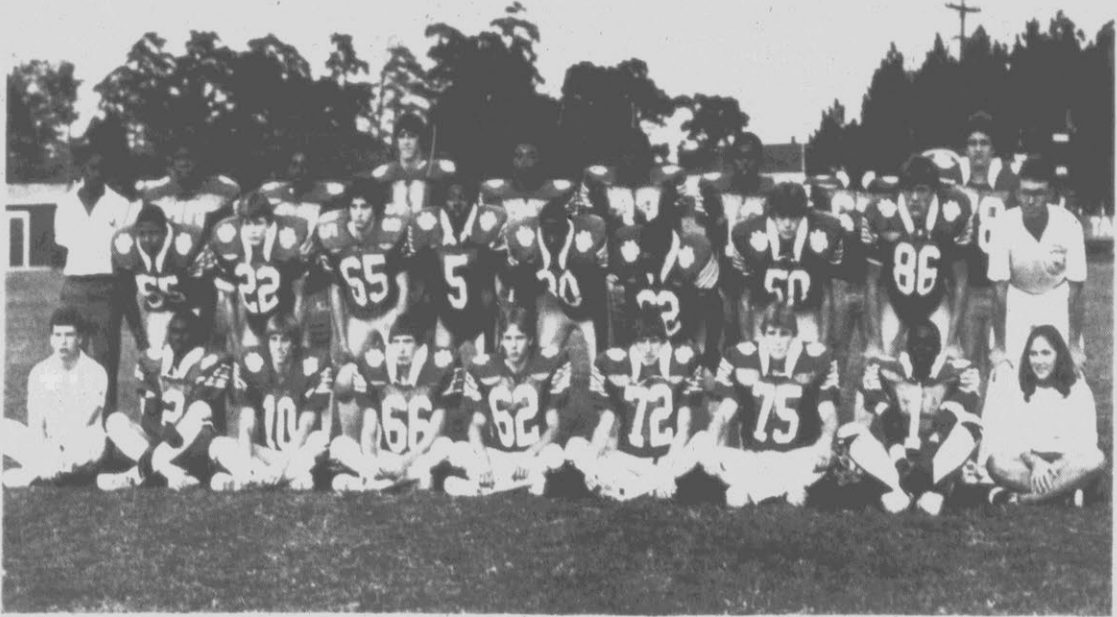

League President Lee MacPhail announced he was suspending Perry for 10 days. Perry, who also was fined $250, immediately appealed, staying the suspension.

On Wednesday, MacPhail said Phillips had proof that Perry had put something on the ball. "He (Phillips) did find a substance on the ball," MacPhail said. "He saw it on the first pitch (when Perry was warned), and then found it on the second ball after Perry was ejected."

season with Seattle and the first five days of the 1981 season with Texas after the Mariners traded him to the Boston Manager Ralph Houk accused Perry with making "a farce" out of the game. In Monday night's game,

Williamston Tigers

A hearing date on the suspension has not yet been set. "They won't have a hearing," Perry said, "until some day when we can all get together. We'll just wait and see how that turns out. Depending on how it goes, I might file a lawsuit against Phillips and the American League."

"We're not being intimidated," MacPhail said when told of the threat by the only man in history to win the Cy Young Award in both the American and National leagues. Perry, with a 7-11 record and a 4.51 earned run average, is scheduled to pitch Sunday night against Detroit in the finale of a nine-game homestand.

In threatening to file suit, Perry followed the lead of Houston's Don Sutton, who was ejected from a 1978 game while pitching for Los Angeles. Sutton threatened to sue, claiming he was being deprived of his right to make a living. But the National League never suspended him.

In 1968, the Chicago Cubs' Phil Reagan was ejected for allegedly throwing a "spitter." Reagan threatened a defamation of character suit if suspended but he was not.

On Sept. 30, 1980, Rick Honeycutt was caught using a thumbtack to cut baseballs in a game in Kansas City. Honeycutt had to sit out the final five days of the 1980

Tigers To Run Wishbone Offense With More Backs Available

One of a Series
By RICK SCOPPE
Reflector Sports Writer
WILLIAMSTON — Williamston coach Harold Robinson looked at his personnel for the upcoming 1982 football season and threw his Tigers a bone — a wishbone, that is.

The wishbone is nothing new for Robinson. Until two years ago Robinson used little else. But, a lack of running backs forced Robinson to go to the "I" two years ago.

Now, however, with an increase in both ability and numbers in the backfield Robinson has returned to the wishbone. The wishbone will receive its initial test Friday night when the Tigers play host to Currituck.

"We felt like we had three good backs this year," Robinson said when asked about the change. "Before, we went to the 'I' because we had only one good back."

The Tigers will start either Quinton Hudgins, a 6-1, 191-pound senior, or Al Willingham, a 5-10, 205-pound junior, at fullback. Both played last year and have good speed, running the 40-yard dash in about 4.7.

Roosevelt Everett, a 5-11, 165-pound senior will be at one halfback and Tony Speller, a 5-10, 160-pound senior, will fill the other halfback slot. Everett suffered a deep thigh bruise three games into last season and was out for the remainder of the season. Speller started at wide receiver last year.

Backups include Donnell Griffin, a 5-11, 185-pound senior and Kevin Leigh, a 5-9, 170-pound junior.

Gray Thomas, a 5-10, 160-pound senior, returns at quarterback. Thomas is expected to start, though he is getting a tough fight from James Ward, a 6-3, 175-pound junior.

Up front on the offensive line the Tigers will be young. But, Robinson said, "We've got some young linemen but they really seem to want to pick it (the changes) up."

"We're not there yet," Robinson added, "but you can look at them and tell they've got the makings of a good offensive line."

Robinson pointed out that the blocking schemes for the wishbone is different than for the "I."

"There's a whole lot more rule blocking (in the wishbone)," Robinson said. "In the 'I' you just block the man in front of you. There's more teaching in the wishbone but there's less technique."

The offensive line is led by right tackle Mervin Perkins, a 6-0, 190-pound senior. Perkins, in his fourth year on the varsity, was honorable mention all-Northeastern Conference last season.

Greg Pearsall (5-11, 190 junior) will be at right guard. Brent Moore (5-10, 150-pound senior) is at center. Moore is a first-year player.

Egbert Clemmons (5-11, 180 junior) is at left guard and Freddie Martin (5-10, 165 senior) is at left tackle. Rodney Conners (6-0, 170 junior) is back at tight end.

Kent Moore (5-11, 160 senior), Bob Godard (5-11, 170 junior) and Mike Ange (5-10, 185 sophomore) are the main backups along the line. Dwight Brooks (6-1, 160 senior) will back up Conners.

Maurice Cutler (5-11, 170 senior) or Chauncey Brooks (6-0, 160 senior) both return at split end.

On defense — year in and year out Williamston's strong suit — Robinson will again go with a 4-4.

"Our kids just love to play defense," Robinson said. "When I was defensive coordinator I loved that, but now that I'm head coach I tell them we've got to have some kids on offense to score some points."

The defense, less than impressive last season, will be led by Dwight Brooks and Moore at the ends. Perkins and either Ange, David Little (5-10, 180 junior) or Brinson Greene (5-11, 180 sophomore) at the tackles.

Griffin and either Clemmons or Donnell Lawrence (5-9, 175 junior) will be at inside linebacker. Lawrence is one of the strongest players on the team, having benched over 300 pounds.

Leigh and Michael Peele (5-9, 170 junior) are slated to start at outside linebacker.

The secondary will feature Thomas at one cornerback and Kermit Brown (5-10, 155 sophomore) at the other cornerback. Brown is one of the fastest players on the team, running the 40 around 4.7.

Everett or Chauncey Brooks will start at safety.

Conners will do the punting for Robinson and either Speller or Brown will do the PATs and kickoffs.

After finishing 8-2 the past three seasons, Williamston fell to 4-6 last year, a victim of a lackluster offense and a defense that gave up 47 and 32 points in two games last season.

Robinson said this year would be different. "We're going to be good, but that doesn't mean we're going to be 8-2 or 9-1. But we're going to be competitive — we're always going to be competitive."

Robinson is placing particular emphasis on the Tigers' first two games, versus nonconference foes Currituck and Gaston.

"We've got to win the first game of the year," Robinson insisted. "We can't lose it. There's always something about winning that first game. It makes a difference."

"They're both important games," he said. "If we can win those two games that success could snowball."

Williamston, which carries a six-game losing streak into the 1982 season, will open its conference schedule Sept. 10 at Plymouth. Asked about the conference race, Robinson said:

"Bertie High School ought to win it. Roanoke Rapids is loaded, too. And Washington is going to be much improved." As for Williamston, Robinson said: "We're going to be competitive, damn competitive."

Williamston Schedule
Aug. 27 — Currituck; Sept. 3 — at Gaston; Sept. 10 — at Plymouth; Sept. 17 — Ahsokie; Sept. 24 — at Bertie; Oct. 1 — Tarboro; Oct. 8 — OPEN; Oct. 15 — at Roanoke Rapids; Oct. 22 — Roanoke; Oct. 29 — at Washington; Nov. 5 — Edenton.

Royals Are Closing In On Angels Lead

By The Associated Press
The contestant is Cleveland pitcher Len Barker and here is today's baseball quiz:
"Len, how do you pitch a three-hitter, strike out nine and lose 5-1?"
"I guess by walking four guys in one inning, that's how you lose a three-hitter."
Right on, Len. Care to try for the next plateau?
"The next time I throw one, I'm sure not going to lose."

While the Chicago White Sox were making the most of their limited offense and defeating Barker and the Indians, the Kansas City Royals pulled within one-half game of the idle California Angels in the American League West by edging the Texas Rangers 4-3. In other AL games, the Baltimore Orioles trimmed the Toronto Blue Jays 8-3 and the New York Yankees drubbed the Minnesota Twins 8-1. Also idle besides the Angels were Boston, Detroit, Milwaukee, Oakland and Seattle.

Chicago parlayed the four walks off Barker, an error by Cleveland shortstop Larry Milbourne and Steve Kemp's two-run double into a four-run fourth inning. Winner Richard Dotson and Sparky Lyle combined on a six-hitter. Lyle allowed one hit over the final 31-3 innings to notch his first save since being signed by the White Sox last Saturday after the Philadelphia Phillies released him.

The Indians were impressed by Lyle's stuff. "Sparky was Sparky — the sliders and a few fast balls. Just another save among his 200-plus," said Rick Manning.

Rudy Law led off the Chicago fourth with a walk and one out later Harold Baines and Greg Luzinski also walked to load the bases.

Kemp then got Chicago's first hit, a two-run double to left-center. After a walk reloaded the bases, Milbourne booted Mike Squires' grounder for an error, allowing Luzinski to score, and Vance Law capped the inning with a suicide squeeze bunt.

Royals 4, Rangers 3
Singles by Willie Wilson, George Brett and Amos Otis produced the tie-breaking run in the eighth inning and Dan Quisenberry preserved Dennis Leonard's victory with two innings of scoreless relief. The Royals took a 1-0 lead in the third inning on doubles by John Wathan and U.L.

Washington. Wathan hit a two-run homer in the fifth.
"I kind of ran out of gas in the 100-degree heat," said Leonard, who was making his fourth start since missing almost three months with two fractured fingers. "I'm still building up my stamina after being off 11 weeks."
Leonard didn't strike out a batter and said, "I think that's the first time I've gone seven innings without striking anybody out. I'm not throwing the ball great, but I'm getting better every game."

Orioles 8, Blue Jays 3
Rookie Glenn Gulliver's two-run double, his first major league RBIs in 21 games, drove in the tying and go-ahead runs in a six-run seventh inning that rallied Baltimore over Toronto. Rick Dempsey started the winning rally with a single and also singled home the final run.

After Gulliver's double, Ken Singleton, who homered in the sixth inning, singled and Eddie Murray followed with an RBI double. After John Lowenstein was walked intentionally, Cal Ripken Jr. rapped a two-run single and Dempsey followed with his RBI hit. Toronto had four of its eight hits off Mike Flanagan in the second inning when Anthony Johnson hit a three-run homer.

Yankees 8, Twins 1
Graig Nettles hit a pair of two-run homers, giving him 1,002 runs batted in for his career, and Ken Griffey added a two-run blast as the Yankees romped behind the five-hit pitching of Shane Rawley and Rudy May. Nettles connected in the first and second innings.

After the game, Nettles finally answered Yankee owner George Steinbrenner, who said last month that the 38-year-old third baseman was in the "twilight of his career."
"I'm just trying to make it through the twilight," said Nettles. "I never thought I was through. In fact, it's hard to comment on such a silly statement. Unfortunately, he has to make everything public rather than keep things like that to himself. He keeps getting on everybody rather than leaving us alone. He just talks to hear himself talk. If it was somebody I respected as a baseball person, I wouldn't mind. But I don't."

"He would never say it to my face. He's been trying to bury me for years. One day he'll be right."

Brewers Plan Celebration If A's Henderson Breaks Steal Record

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The Milwaukee Brewers plan to make a fuss if the A's Rickey Henderson breaks the major-league record for stolen bases, and expect it will be much more cheerful than the scene he left in Oakland.

With Henderson just 90 feet short of matching Lou Brock's 1974 major-league record of 118 stolen bases in a season, the A's open a four-game series in Milwaukee County Stadium tonight.

The Brewers are understandably more interested in preserving their East Division lead in pursuing an American League pennant than in Henderson's thievery.

Nevertheless, the hosts, against whom Henderson has stolen eight times this year, have been making plans since Tuesday to fete him if and when he sets a record.

The game is to be interrupted for a presentation of the stolen bag itself, and Brock was invited to town to participate. Brewer spokesman Tom Skibosh said.

Despite the anticipation, however, the A's were talking little about the matter Wednesday, declaring that Henderson would not be available for interviews prior to a news conference this afternoon.

The club was steaming Tuesday night over what it called some maneuvering that interfered with Henderson's effort to tie the record before the home fans during a game with the Detroit Tigers.

A's manager Billy Martin accused the Tigers of intentionally walking Oakland's Fred Stanley in the eighth inning so that the bases would be filled ahead of Henderson.

Sure enough, Henderson singled, but was stuck on first with Stanley 90 feet away on second.

Then Stanley got far enough off second to get caught in a rundown. Detroit manager Sparky Anderson suggested Martin rigged the pickoff to clear the road for Henderson.

It was Henderson's turn to rage when he was thrown out on a close call in his subsequent steal attempt. Umpire Durwood Merrill, who made the call, had been covering both second and third bases because umpire Larry Barnett left in the second inning because of stomach cramps.

Martin, coach Charlie Metro and outfielder Dwayne Murphy were thrown out of the game during the argument.

The incident produced another record: It was the 39th time this year that Henderson was thrown out on a steal attempt, topping Ty Cobb's 1915 record of 38.

Cobb stole 96 times that year, the major-league record until Maury Wills stole 104 in 1962.

Brock, who was with the St. Louis Cardinals when he set his season record, holds the major-league career record: 938 steals in 19 years. He was thrown out 33 times in his record year.

Golf Series Sets Start

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Leading money-winner and PGA champion Ray Floyd says there is no question who currently ranks as golf's Player of the Year.

"If I had to vote now, I'd have to vote for Tom Watson," said Floyd before teeing off in the first round today of the $400,000 World Series of Golf.

But Floyd says a $100,000 Series victory by him might change his opinion.

"If I do win this week, I might have to vote for myself," he said.

Floyd, 39, includes the Memorial, Danny Thomas Memphis Classic and PGA crowns in his No. 1 yearly earnings of $331,809 and calls this his greatest year.

"I'm playing better than I've ever played," said the winner of 18 titles in two decades. "This is my best year by far. I didn't win a major last year and this season I've done it in the heat of summer."

Watson, of course, will merit heavy consideration for his fifth Player of the Year title in the last six seasons, even if he doesn't win over the 7,137-yard Firestone South layout.

He's already won two majors this year, the U.S. and British Opens, and two other championships on great courses, Riviera, Harbour Town, Pebble Beach and Troon.

This elite international field of 27 golfers also has Masters champion Craig Stadler, Jack Nicklaus, the winner of the Series an unprecedented five times and of more than $522,000 at Firestone, and Lanny Wadkins, last week's Buick Open winner.

Watson is bidding for his fifth 1982 victory while Floyd, Stadler and Wadkins all are after their fourth titles this season in the battle for the largest purse on the PGA Tour.

Floyd has taken the last two weeks off, which could be a danger signal for his fellow contenders. He skipped the two prior tournaments before the PGA. He missed the previous week to his Memorial triumph, too.

"I'm refreshed. I have a lot of enthusiasm," said the winner of $331,809 this year.

"But I don't neglect my game when I go home like some players. I hit balls every day. It's easier taking an hour out of each day then taking a chance on losing it. It might never come back."

SIDs Running As Hard Contract Talks Break Off Again

As Heisman Candidates

By TOM FOREMAN Jr.
AP Sports Writer

The only people who may outrun Kelvin Bryant and Herschel Walker are the sports information directors at their schools trying to sell them as Heisman Trophy candidates.

Rick Brewer, sports publicist at North Carolina and Claude Felton, publicity director at Georgia, have sent brochures, flyers and other pertinent facts to media outlets throughout the country, focusing efforts on those people who actually cast ballots.

Bryant, a senior, and Walker, a junior, are two of at least six candidates in the trophy chase. Quarterbacks John Elway of Stanford and Dan Marino of Pittsburgh are being touted, as is Nebraska center Dave Rimington.

Neither the Tar Heels nor the Atlantic Coast Conference have ever had a Heisman Trophy winner, although names like Mike Voight and Amos Lawrence have been mentioned in recent years. Charlie "Choo-Choo" Justice came the closest, finishing second in 1948 and 1949.

Walker finished third in the Heisman balloting as a freshman and second as a sophomore. Frank Sinkwich brought the trophy to Athens in 1942.

For Brewer, the idea of a Heisman in Chapel Hill began as Bryant was rushing for 15 touchdowns in three games in 1981. The Tarboro, N.C., native appears alone on the cover of the Tar Heel media guide. The cover folds out to show three pages of history, comments, statistics and, of course, Bryant on and off the field.

"After he got off to that great start last year, that's when I realized that we had something special," Brewer says. "During the off-season, I realized we would have to do something for him, different than we did for anybody else."

Brewer says he knows some schools have had great success with color flyers, but he says his office has shied away from them.

"Personally, I don't believe in the hard sell," he says. "What we do is incorporate some of the things you see in a flyer."

Translated, Brewer's office mailed out an additional 300 brochures to the normal mailing list of 850.

He says he knows competing against Walker will not be easy, although a thumb injury will cost Georgia's tailback at least two games - including a national television appearance.

"Kelvin and I have talked about it," says Brewer. "I've told Kelvin that (Walker) does have a tremendous lead, but that if he has a great season, he can win. Kelvin says he's not worrying about it and I hope that is the case."

"Our major objective is to make sure people know who he is and make sure they know he's somebody special," he adds.

Felton's work almost parallels Brewer's. Walker appears on the cover of the Georgia brochure with a faint image of the Heisman Trophy reflecting off his helmet. Flyers with Walker's achievements are also being mailed. In all, about 2,000 people have been reached, he says.

"We're a little bit different because we're not fighting any name recognition problem. Mainly, our philosophy is to make sure everybody's got the facts," he says.

Felton says he is also opposed to the hard sell. "We're not going to have a Madison Avenue sales campaign or life-size posters."

WASHINGTON (AP) - National Football League players and owners appear headed on a collision course that could force cancellation of the final week of the exhibition schedule or delay the start of regular season.

Representatives for both sides, meeting for the first time in more than a month in an effort to reach a new collective bargaining agreement and avert a threatened walkout, broke off negotiations Wednesday after just four hours of talks.

About the only thing the negotiators could agree upon was the lack of progress at the meeting.

"The session was best described as futile," said Jack Donlan, the owners chief negotiator.

"It is apparent the bargaining process is not working at this point," echoed Ed Garvey, executive director of the National Football League Players Association.

The failure to get the talks moving led Garvey to call a halt to the session and order an emergency meeting of the union's executive committee for Sunday in Chicago.

The committee, which includes union president Gene Upshaw of the Oakland Raiders and player representatives John Bunting (Philadelphia Eagles), Tom Condon (Kansas City Chiefs), Mark Murphy (Washington Redskins), and Stan White (Detroit Lions), has the power to call the players out on strike.

"We will discuss what action we will take. A decision will be made on strike at that time," Garvey said.

In light of the latest setback at the negotiating table, the owners will also reassess their strategy, Donlan said.

"We will have to re-evaluate our options for beginning the season," Donlan said.

Donlan noted that many owners have expressed reservations about starting the regular season - slated to begin on Sept. 12 - without reaching an accord with the players.

"Our concern is the scenario where the players would play an X-number of games then strike," Donlan said. "Some owners feel they would be doing what the baseball players did last year in financing a strike."

Donlan also raised the possibility of inviting a third party to intervene in the stalled negotiations.

"We will have to look at our position regarding the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service," he said.

Donlan and Garvey are both scheduled to testify before a congressional committee next week investigating the federal mediation service's lack of involvement in the dispute to this point.

The NFLPA's collective bargaining agreement with the league expired July 15. Prior to Wednesday, the two sides had not sat down together since July 23.

The main stumbling block to an agreement remains the players' demand for a fixed percentage of gross revenues.

The players' union says that without the fixed percentage the owners will continue to cut costs by releasing older, higher salaried players.

At stake in the NFLPA proposal is a slice of the $168 million in revenues to be generated by the league from its lucrative television and radio contracts this year.

WEATHER FORECAST - The National Weather Service forecasts showers for Friday in the Southwest, northern Plains, upper Mississippi to the Great Lakes and for southern Florida. Cool weather is forecast from the northern Plains to the Northeast. Most areas will be warm. (AP Laserphoto for Map)

By The Associated Press
Sunny skies will be the rule over most of the state today.

Temperatures will be in the 80s for the most part. Fair skies will cover the state tonight.

Clouds will increase over the west Friday with fair skies continuing in the east. There is a chance of thunderstorms in the mountains. Temperatures will range in the 80s and low 90s due to a southwest wind flow which will develop over the state.

Along the coast winds will be northeast at 10 to 20 knots today. Winds will shift to the southeast tonight and Friday. Skies will be fair with temperatures mostly in the 80s.

The cold front which brought scattered showers to the Tar Heel state Wednesday has now moved to the southeast portion of the state. High pressure centered over Ohio is building into the state from the north.

This high pressure system will usher in cooler drier conditions for the state for today and tonight due to its northeast flow. As the system continues east winds will shift to a southerly direction by Friday, which means we will be right back to hot and humid conditions.

Wednesday across the state skies were partly cloudy with scattered thunderstorms east of the mountains. Rainfall totals from these storms have all been under one half inch with the exception of Wilmington.

Afternoon readings ranged mostly in the 80s and low 90s with the exception of the sandhills, where Fayetteville reached 101 degrees.

Last night and this morning skies cleared and winds diminished with the exception of the Outer Banks. Lows this morning are in the 60s and 70s with 50s in the mountains.

Westmoreland To Convention

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) - Former Army Gen. William Westmoreland, who led U.S. troops in Vietnam from 1964 through 1968, will be featured as a guest speaker at the Soldiers of Fortune convention in October.

The convention will feature worldwide mercenary warfare seminars, military weapons displays, a shooting match with a $5,000 prize and parachute training.

Bill Brooks, convention director, said he expects about 1,000 people from all over the country to attend the convention Oct. 12 through Oct. 17.

The Charlotte convention will be third sponsored by Soldier of Fortune magazine, which has 218,000 subscribers. Magazine officials said the previous two conventions, held in Columbia, Mo., and Scottsdale, Ariz., were peaceful.

Cites Poor

Financial Aid

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) - The dean at North Carolina Central University Law School blames lack of student financial aid for a poor showing by graduates on the state bar exam.

Charles E. Daye said more than half of the NCCU law students have to work to help put themselves through school, which reduces the amount of time they have for study.

Only 13 of the 31 graduates of the predominantly black school passed the bar exam on their first try. Their passing rate of 42 percent lagged behind the overall rate of 74.4 percent for the state's five law schools.

Daye said a 1981 study of students who scored 550 and above out of a possible 800 on the bar exam showed that 100 percent of those that received financial aid passed, while only 50 percent of those not receiving financial aid passed the exam.

William C. Friday, UNC president, says he is receptive to a proposal for more financial aid for the school, but said the amount appropriated is up to the Legislature.

Claims Son Given Inadequate Defense

ATLANTA (AP) - Convicted murderer Wayne Williams did not receive an adequate defense during his nine-week murder trial, and that will be part of his appeals, Williams' father said on Wednesday.

Homer Williams also said he thought Mississippi attorney Alvin Binder resigned from Williams' defense team Monday because he no longer wanted to represent Williams, not because of health reasons as Binder claimed.

The elder Williams said Wednesday his son felt Binder erred during the trial's final days in his instructions to Wayne Williams when he took the stand in his own defense.

When questioned by defense attorneys, Wayne Williams appeared placid and collected. Under three days of cross-examination, however, the defendant became antagonistic, a reaction that prosecutors later used to argue that Wayne Williams had a killer's "Jekyll-Hyde" mentality.

Homer Williams said the change in character was a purposeful one encouraged by Binder. "He did as he was told," the elder Williams said. "He was at the mercy of his attorneys."

Williams did not say whether his 24-year-old son was dissatisfied with just Binder or with former counsel Mary Welcome, whom Wayne Williams fired after his conviction Feb. 27.

He was convicted of murder and sentenced to life in prison for the slayings of Nathaniel Cater, 27, and Jimmy Ray Payne, 21, two of 29 young blacks whose slayings and disappearances over a 22-month period were investigated by a special police task force.

How Tar Heel Representatives And Senators Voted

By ROLL CALL REPORT
WASHINGTON — Here's how area members of Congress were recorded on major roll call votes Aug. 12-19:

WILDERNESS — By a vote of 340 for and 58 against, the House passed and sent to the Senate a bill (HR 6542) to insure that federal wilderness areas in the lower 48 states are not leased for oil and natural gas exploration and other commercial ventures. The bill protects some 33 million acres through 1984, at which time a permanent ban already part of the Wilderness Act is scheduled to take effect. Most directly affected are about 1,000 lease applications covering 3 million acres.

Interior Secretary James G. Watt has declared a moratorium on wilderness leasing until the end of the century, but sponsors said it was better to have an iron-clad legislative protection to cover the interim period before the permanent ban takes effect.

Sponsor John Seiberling, D-Ohio, said "the American public is deeply concerned about the possible impacts of mineral development in wilderness ... areas and has come to its elected representatives for help."

Opponent Don Young, R-Alaska, said the bill "reflects a very narrow, myopic view of what is in the public interest — a view that considers only wilderness preservation without regard to other, equally legitimate needs."

Members voting "yea" wanted to strengthen safeguards against the government leasing wilderness lands to commercial parties such as energy explorers.

Reps. L. H. Fountain, D-2, Charles Whitley, D-3, Ike Andrews, D-4, Stephen Neal, D-5, Eugene Johnson, R-6, Charles Rose, D-7, W. G. Hefner, D-8, James Martin, R-9, James Broyhill, R-10, and William Hendon, R-11, voted "yea." Rep. Walter

Jones, D-1, did not vote.

SPENDING CUT — The House approved, 243 for and 176 against, the conference report on a bill (HR 6955) to cut spending by $13.3 billion in fiscal years 1983 through 1985. Most of the reductions are in farm subsidies, food stamp outlays, Federal Housing Administration home loans and retirement benefits for federal workers. This was another in the series of "reconciliation" bills the Congress is using to achieve the $280 billion in mostly domestic spending cuts it called for when it approved the overall federal budget blueprint earlier in the year. The Senate also approved the conference report and the bill was sent to the White House.

Supporter Delbert Latta, R-Ohio, said that while he favored deeper cuts, the savings in the bill are "not chicken feed — we are happy to save as much as we can."

Opponent James Jeffords, R-Vt., said he disliked the curtailed spending for dairy price supports, saying they created "an incredible situation for a farmer" trying to make sound production decisions.

Members voting "yea" favored the package of spending cuts.

Jones, Fountain, Whitley, Andrews, Johnston, Hefner, Martin, Broyhill and Hendon voted "yea." Rose voted "nay." Neal did not vote.

TAX HIKE — By a vote of 226 for and 207 against, the House gave President Reagan a major fiscal victory by approving the conference report on a bill (HR 4961) to increase revenues by $98.3 billion over three years. The president said about 80 percent of the revenue would come not from raising taxes but from closing loopholes and better collection of existing taxes. For example, tax evaders on interest and dividend income will be thwarted by automatic withholding of 10 percent of their liability, many corporate tax advantages would be ended, and restaurant owners would have to report waiters' tips to the IRS.

Also, the bill raises taxes on corporations, wealthy individuals, airline tickets, freight and fuel, cigarettes and telephone users. And it raises additional revenue by such changes as requiring federal employees to pay for their Medicare coverage and lessening deduction for medical expenses and certain pension write-offs. The bill also inflicts $17.5 billion in domestic spending cuts over three years, and it expands the number of weeks for jobless benefits in all states at a cost of $1.9 billion.

The bill was sent to the Senate.

Supporters agreed with Reagan that enactment of the bill is necessary to lower the federal deficit, create a climate for lower interest rates, and bring the economy out of the current recession.

Opponents were mostly conservatives who accused the president of abandoning his commitment to supply-side economic policies and who argued a massive tax increase would only worsen the recession and ease the pressure for more spending cuts.

Broyhill voted "yea." Jones, Fountain, Whitley, Andrews, Neal, Johnston, Rose, Hefner, Martin and Hendon voted "nay."

SENATE

TAX BILL — By a vote of 52 for and 47 against, the Senate approved the $98.3 billion revenue bill and sent the measure to the White House.

ABORTION AND PRAYER — The Senate defeated, 38 for and 59 against, a motion backed by senators who are anti-abortion and pro-school prayer. The vote occurred during debate on proposals by Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., that, in part, seek to soften or reverse U.S. Supreme Court decisions that Helms and other conservatives say are too liberal on the abortion and prayer issues. On this vote, the Senate refused to table an amendment that reaffirms the authority of the federal courts under the separation-of-powers doctrine of the Constitution. Because of the wide margin, it was interpreted by many as a serious setback for senators who this year want to put a conservative stamp on the nation's abortion and school prayer policies.

Senators voting "nay" were opposed to weakening the authority of federal courts to rule on abortion, prayer and other issues.

Sens. John East, R, and Jesse Helms, R, voted "yea."

SPENDING CUT — By a vote of 67 for and 32 against, the Senate passed and sent to the president a bill (HR 6955) cutting federal spending by $13.3 billion over three years beginning in fiscal 1983.

Supporter Pete Domenici, R-N.M., called the legislation "a substantial step in re-establishing congressional control over federal expenditures."

Opponent John Melcher, D-Mont., objected to the bill's deep cuts in farm programs at a time when the Administration seems "to be in love with sending American tax dollars abroad for foreign aid."

Senators voting "yea" supported the spending cuts. Helms and East voted "yea."

ILLEGAL ALIENS — The Senate rejected, 46 for and 53 against, an amendment requiring federal immigration officials to obtain search warrants before entering a farm or ranch in search of illegal aliens. Existing law permits searches without warrants. The vote occurred during debate on S2222, which is the first major reform of U.S. immigration laws in three decades. The bill was sent to the House.

The bill grants permanent-resident status to illegal aliens who entered the U.S. before Jan. 1, 1977, and gives aliens who entered during 1977, '78 and '79 a chance to become permanent residents after three more years in the United States. The number of new legal aliens except for political refugees would be limited to 425,000 annually. Also the bill sets fines and possible imprisonment for employers who knowingly hire illegal aliens, and it expands the "guest worker" program allowing foreigners to stay temporarily in the United States to work seasonally on farms.

Sen. S.I. Hayakawa, R-Calif., who sponsored the amendment requiring search warrants, said "this seems to me to be a simple matter of the application of the Fourth Amendment, and that is,

protection from unreasonable search and seizure."

Opponent Alan Simpson, R-Wyo., said the amendment went beyond what the U.S. Supreme Court has required and "would very effectively end all Immigration and Naturalization Service farm and ranch check enforcement programs."

Senators voting "yea" wanted immigration officials to be required to get search warrants before entering a farm or ranch.

Helms voted "yea." East voted "nay."

More Turning To Mobile Homes Life

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Mobile homes are gaining increased acceptance by prospective home buyers who are finding it increasingly difficult to pay for a conventional home, industry officials say.

The increasing popularity of the mobile home is due to growing acceptance by the middle class, along with "evolution of the home itself," said Patrick DiChiro, spokesman for the Manufactured Housing Institute in Washington, D.C.

The institute says mobile homes accounted for 36 percent of all new single-family homes in 1981, up from 29 percent in 1980.

Ten percent of North Carolina's population live in mobile homes, according to the 1980 census. There were 11,454 mobile homes registered in the state at the end of 1981.

"There are people buying manufactured housing who just a few years ago would have bought a conventional site-built house," said Alton Austin, president of Oakwood Mobile Homes Inc. of Greensboro.

The reason, he said, can be summed up in one word: "affordability."

Oakwood's business has been "fantastic" lately, Austin said. The company, which operates in five southeastern states and Texas, has seen sales increase by 15-20 percent this year, he said.

The institute prefers to call the homes "manufactured houses" instead of "mobile homes," since the latter conjures up images of what most people thought called "trailers" or "tin cans" a few years ago, DiChiro said.

Quality of the homes has increased since 1976, when federal law established a nationwide building code for housing built in one place and moved to another for occupancy, he said.

Many cities have changed zoning ordinances and adopted regulations of mobile-home parks. As a result, many parks are hardly distinguishable from typical residential neighborhoods, manufacturers say.

But the biggest attraction to mobile homes for buyers remains the comparatively low price, they add.

Five Years For Her Shoplifting

MONROE, N.C. (AP) — A South Carolina woman was sentenced Tuesday to five years in jail for her part in a shoplifting spree that netted more than $3,300 in merchandise from 16 stores in Pageland, S.C., and Monroe.

District Court Judge Bobby Huffman sentenced Johnnie Mae Price, 19, of Bishopville, S.C., to jail on 15 counts of larceny and possession of stolen goods. She is being held under $10,000 bond in the Union County jail.

Lt. Reid Helms of the Monroe Police Department said he arrested Ms. Price and Mary Price Nelson, 32, also of Bishopville, outside the Monroe Mall on Aug. 11. He said he found four large garbage bags full of stolen merchandise in the car and another three bags in the trunk.

Ms. Nelson's trial is scheduled next week.

COUNTING ON SUCCESS - The NBC television series "Fame" opened to critical acclaim but less than splashy viewer ratings; but both executive producer Bill Blinn, right, and producer Mel Swope feel that a combination of a supportive attitude from the network and a highly talented cast and crew will make the series a strong success. (AP Laserphoto)

Made-For-TV Movie Offers Lots Of Action

By TOM JORY
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) - Even before the opening credits, Massarati whips two black-clad martial artists with a tennis racket and his bare hands. It's a good sign that there will be plenty of action in "Massarati and the Brain," a made-for-TV movie that ABC will broadcast tonight.

Indeed, it's James Bond-style, good-guys-always-win adventure, and the really entertaining part is that barely a drop of blood is shed. Joe, the helicopter pilot, takes a slug in the shoulder toward the end of the two-hour film, but he's OK.

"It'll go with the hole I've got in the other one," he assures Massarati.

There is lots of shooting, a good car chase or two, a bear-like butler named Anatole and plenty of pretty girls with pouting lips and plunging necklines.

Massarati, played by Daniel Pilon, is the hero, but the real star is Christopher, his 10-year-old nephew whose bedroom is decorated with a picture of Einstein. Christopher, left with Massarati while his parents write a book, is The Brain.

Christopher, who's been warned by his uncle never to leave home without permission, senses Mas is in trouble. He takes off for the marina on his tiny bike.

There's plenty of trouble ahead, especially when Christopher is caught hiding on Leopold's yacht. Only Massarati's exploding cufflinks, and a pretty but sinister-looking West Christopher Lee, malevolent in black leather trenchcoat, matching hat and round, steel-rimmed specs, is perfect as Leopold.

Mas and Diana trace the $20 million treasure to an uninhabited island that's inhabited by a latter-day Swiss Family Robinson. They join in the search, with Leopold's gunmen not far behind.

Meantime, back at the mansion, Anatole (Christopher Hewett) is making osso buco for dinner.

German agent, can save the day.

Captions For Deaf Dropped By NBC

WASHINGTON (AP) - The NBC television network has withdrawn from a captioning service generally considered the best available for helping deaf viewers watch television.

Saying it was disappointed with the amount of demand for the service, the network withdrew this week from the National Captioning Institute, two years after becoming a charter subscriber.

The decision leaves NCI with only two major customers. One of them - the Public Broadcasting Service (PBS) - is expected to reduce its purchase of captioning services next year because of federal budget cutbacks. The other major customer, ABC, is maintaining its current commitment to the service.

"There is no question that this hurts," John E.D. Ball, the president of the NCI, said Wednesday. "This was a major revenue source for NCI. I think the next six months or so are going to be crucial for us."

NCI is the largest organization in the country providing television broadcasters a service called closed captioning. The non-profit institute was established in 1980 with federal seed money for the purpose of taking TV programs or commercials and for a fee, adding captions for the benefit of the deaf and hearing-impaired.

Closed captioning allows written translations or subtitles to be embedded within a TV signal. The system is considered "closed" because the captions cannot be viewed without the use of a special decoder.

The technique contrasts with open captioning, in which all viewers can see the captions flash on the TV screen.

Development By Redford

PROVO, Utah (AP) - Actor-director Robert Redford, who owns large amounts of land in Utah, wants to develop the area near his Sundance Resort, says Redford's properties manager, John Lear.

The actor has applied for permits to develop 40 to 50 lots near the small ski resort, and has asked Lear to draw up a master plan for the resort. Redford's horse ranch in Spanish Fork, Utah, and other holdings in the state, Lear said.

"Economics is playing a big role in everyone's life," Lear said. "We are looking at Sundance and asking if we want to ski, if we want to develop, is it time for a change and we are asking similar questions about other pieces of land. The population in Provo has drastically increased and we are at our limits in some areas of the resort."

Development at the resort has been minor since 1970. The actor, who is active in environmental causes, has said he wanted to keep it as small and quiet as possible.

Redford wants to set the trend for future development in Provo Canyon, but "There haven't been any decisions yet on what will happen," Lear said Tuesday.

Opening lead: Queen of ♣.

"Avoidance" is a highfalutin term for a simple play. All it means is keeping the danger hand off lead.

The auction was noteworthy for its brevity and its accuracy. Unfortunately, the play met only one of these criteria. It was brief, but hardly accurate.

Declarer won the opening lead with the king, cashed the king of diamonds and ran the nine. East took the queen and reverted to hearts, and the defenders raked in four heart tricks for a one-trick set.

South maintained that he could not afford to duck the first heart because he would then be exposed to a heart lead through the king. What South neglected to explain was how East was supposed to gain the lead to perform this bit of legerdemain!

Correct technique is for declarer to allow West's queen of hearts to hold the first trick. Whether West continues with a heart or shifts suit, declarer's problem is one of avoidance.

Assume that West continues with the jack of hearts. Declarer wins and now he must keep West off lead. He cashes the king of diamonds and runs the nine. East wins, but if he can return a heart, the suit is breaking and declarer won't lose more than three heart tricks and a diamond. As the cards lie, however, East is out of hearts and declarer makes an overtrick.

What if West shifts at trick two? Now East is the danger hand, and an avoidance play must be used to keep him off lead. Declarer wins the probable club shift, enters dummy with the jack of spades and runs the eight of diamonds. If West wins, the contract is safe because the king of hearts can't be attacked. And if East has the queen of diamonds, the eight of diamonds holds the trick. Declarer repeats the finesse and emerges with ten tricks via three spades, five diamonds and two clubs.

Caffeine No Problem For 'Crammers'

By WARRENE LEARY
AP Science Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Students cramming for tests, balancing a little sleep with a lot of coffee, apparently don't have to worry about the caffeine affecting their overtaxed memories, say researchers.

Suspecting that caffeine might affect recall, psychologists at the University of Minnesota in Morris tested 80 college students to see if coffee was defeating the purpose of their cram-all-night ritual.

Joseph P. Blount and W. Miles Cox said Wednesday that the stimulant seems to have little or no effect on remembering recently learned material.

"We expected to find some difference in memory, but we found none," Blount told a news briefing at the annual meeting of the American Psychological Association.

"Caffeine's effects on memory are different from the effects of depressants and different from common beliefs about caffeine," said the researchers.

The study involved the volunteers learning standard classroom material in an hour-long session and being tested on it 48 hours later.

The students, divided into four groups, drank two cups of regular or decaffeinated coffee during each session but didn't know which type they were getting.

One group drank decaffeinated coffee on both occasions; a second had regular coffee on both; a third got decaffeinated during learning and regular brew at test time; and the final group had regular coffee first and decaffeinated later.

"No significant effects were found for the recognition of concepts, recall of pictures, recall of parenthetical case studies, or recall of interest catching anecdotes," the researchers said.

However, an effect was noted in the recognition of the exact wording of sentences, but it depended on personality type.

For unknown reasons,

None of the men, all of whom regularly consumed coffee, got irritable or tense when they took doses of pure caffeine equal to moderate amounts of the beverage, up to five cups.

In fact, Cherek said, as the amount of caffeine increased, irritability decreased in habitual coffee consumers.

"Pure caffeine administered to someone who was not a regular consumer of these beverages would have different results," he told a briefing at the meeting.

Cherek said his study, which he admitted was small and needs to be expanded, indicates regular coffee consumers are more relaxed when they have their brew and more intense when deprived.

"If someone reduces their intake of coffee, I think they must do it gradually," he said.

Meanwhile, another researcher said preliminary results of a study she worked on showed babies born to mothers who consume even moderate amounts of caffeine are slightly premature, and have poorer muscular reflexes than other infants. Previously, studies have noted similar effects from heavy consumption of caffeine, such as more than five cups of coffee a day. Moderate consumption would be around two to five cups.

Sandra W. Jacobson, a psychologist at Wayne State University in Detroit, said the study also shows that the offspring of cigarette smokers are smaller at birth and are less irritable than others.

But she said the effects of nicotine and caffeine on children in the study were generally small.
