

New Bid To Try Unify School Districts

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

What began as a request by the Greenville City Council for the Pitt County Board of Commissioners to endorse the concept of coterminous boundaries for the Greenville School District and the city limits ended Tuesday night with council members tentatively endorsing and pledging support for efforts to unify the city and county school districts.

The apparent switch in ideas and goals occurred at a joint meeting of the council and board of commissioners held at the Greenville Golf and Country Club, at which both governing bodies also gave tentative approval to a proposal to abolish the Tar River Port Commission and divide the assets of the commission between the city and county governments.

Mayor Percy Cox began the discussion of the school issue by informing the commissioners that the council will ask for an all-elected city board of education "when the Legislature meets next January." At present, six members of the board are elected and three are appointed by the council.

Cox then began the discussion of the school district lines by saying, "We have to do what we feel like is best for the city. We feel like it's in the best interest to try to get coterminous boundaries (meaning that the city limits and the boundaries of the city school district would match, and allow the school district to grow as the city grows)."

"We've drawn up a list of reasons. We'd like for you to take this list, look at it, and we'll get together and discuss it at a later time. There are a lot of pros and cons. We'll ask you later on to endorse the coterminous boundaries," Cox said.

"We know we don't have the answers, but we know we've got a problem," he continued. "We know consolidation (of the city and county school districts) would be the best thing. But that's down the line."

For the past several years the student population in the city school district has been falling. This results in a loss of state money for the school system, as well as a drop in county support for the city schools. County funds are allocated on a pro-rata basis between the city and county schools.

School officials say that the cost of operating the system does not drop in proportion to the loss in the number of students or the loss of state aid that results.

The apparent switch from support for the agenda item of coterminous boundaries to unification came after Cox suggested that the council might seek action by the General Assembly in January to change the school district boundaries.

"It cannot be done by the Legislature," county attorney Bill Watson emphasized. Under the North Carolina Constitution, Watson said such district changes "can only be done by the County Board of Education, with the approval of the State Board of Education."

"What we really want is an endorsement," Councilman Stuart Shinn said. "At this point in time, we're not asking for anything else." An endorsement, Shinn suggested, would "give a message to those people who can change" the boundaries.

Again Watson explained, "the state board, on recommendation of the county board of education, changes boundaries."

Pitt Board Action Put Off At Meet

By STUART SAVAGE

The Pitt County Board of Commissioners delayed action on proposed flood prevention and revised subdivision ordinances following public hearings Tuesday night.

Although an estimated 30 to 40 persons attended the hearing, few objections to the proposals were voiced.

The flood prevention ordinance, associated with the federal flood insurance program, is designed to regulate construction within the 100-year flood plane in the county. Unless a flood prevention ordinance is adopted, persons seeking construction loans or any federal assistance in the unincorporated areas of the county will be unable to obtain them, and those wishing to purchase flood insurance will be unable to do so.

The 100-year flood plane — the maximum projected height of a flood anticipated during the century — was established by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, officials pointed out.

The proposed subdivision ordinance is a revision of the present ordinance to make it more current.

Commissioners agreed to hold a workshop session on the ordinance with members of the planning board and the Home Builders Association after home builders representative Bill Clark submitted a list of changes the builders group would like to see made.

One concern voiced by the Home Builders Association and by others at the meeting was a proposal in the new ordinance to set the minimum lot size at 20,000 square feet.

Clark noted that the changes wanted by the association would make the proposed county ordinance match Greenville's ordinance. As proposed, Clark said, the county regulations would be "a lot more stringent than the city ordinance."

In other business Tuesday, commissioners agreed to readvertise for bids for the paving of the Winterville, Ayden, Grifton and Wellcome solid waste transfer sites because only two bids were received. Three bids are required for an initial bid opening, while two can be accepted if the bids are readvertised.

Commissioners also agreed to pay cash for a $122,797 scraper for the county landfill site after considering bids for a lease-purchase arrangement.

The bids for financing the purchase of the scraper included interest rates from 11 percent to 14.3849 percent, which would make the cost of the equipment range from $149,340 to $158,359.

The board reappointed B. Alton Gardner to the Eastern Carolina Health Systems Agency and named Dr. Ed Monroe to replace Dr. R.W.

Wm. E. House Resigns Pitt School Bd. Seat

By MARY SCHULKEN

William Earl House, a member of the Pitt County Board of Education for 12 years, announced Tuesday he is resigning from the board effective Oct. 1.

House blamed "other responsibilities" for his decision to resign. The board member, who represents the Bethel area, nominated Ferrell L. Blount III of Bethel as his replacement, a recommendation approved by the board at its monthly meeting Tuesday.

"I have enjoyed my time on this board," said House, "but I have other responsibilities that need my attention. I regret leaving the board but feel it necessary to spend the time on other things," he said.

The board also gave its OK to a central office personnel study scheduled to begin in late September.

According to Dr. Eddie West, superintendent of Pitt County schools, Dr. George Redfern, a retired personnel administrator and a consultant with the Division of School Planning, will research the size, roles and responsibilities of the central office staff.

The study, said Dr. West, will cost the county $100 per day and will be funded by a federal grant. He estimated the study would take four months.

In other business:

•Board members approved a revised 1982-83 current expense budget totaling $6,236,912. This figure includes the $6,100,349 recently earmarked for the schools by the Pitt County Board of Commissioners as well as $136,563 dipped from the board's surplus.

The board of education requested but did not receive $6,564,596 in current expense monies for 1982-83 from the county commissioners.

•The board voted to continue a four-point rating system for the state teacher evaluation program, now in use in Pitt County. The state program, required by law, replaces the Pitt County teacher evaluation program.

•Bids for the Ayden Middle School project will be opened Sept. 30 at 3 p.m. in the third floor conference room of the county office building, reported Associate Superintendent Thomas Craft.

•Finance Office Dan Thomas reported Pitt County Schools have earned $368,686 in interest for fiscal year 1981-82 to date. An additional $23,397, he noted, has been earned on capital outlay funds held in escrow.

Israel Again Says 'No' To Reagan Palestine Plan

JERUSALEM (AP) — Foreign Minister Yitzhak Shamir charged today that President Reagan's Palestinian plan was an attempt "to bend and subjugate Israel," and strongly reaffirmed Israel's refusal to consider it.

Shamir addressed Parliament during a major debate on the Reagan plan which has divided the nation, gaining support from the opposition Labor Party but rejection from the government.

An earlier parliamentary debate on Israel's invasion of Lebanon ended in Prime Minister Menachem Begin winning a confidence vote by a 50-40 margin. An opposition motion denouncing Israel's bombing of Beirut and calling for a speedy Israeli withdrawal from Lebanon was defeated 52-38.

Shamir called the occupied West Bank and Gaza Strip "an inseparable part of Israel from which we will never be parted, not now, not ever."

Shamir gave no indication that Israel was willing to soften its hostile response to Reagan's proposals for Palestinian autonomy in the West Bank and Gaza in association with Jordan. He called them "a serious blow" to Israel's security, chances for peace and the 1978 U.S.-Israeli-Egyptian Camp David accords, the only peacemaking framework which Israel recognizes.

"The scenario one gets from the possible realization of these positions is very clear and very gloomy," said Shamir. "The Camp David accords are emptied of content. Everything that was proposed at Camp David by the Arab side and was rejected by Israel now reappears in the shape of a presidential position that comes from above to bend and subjugate Israel."

Shamir said: "Reagan's call for Jerusalem Arabs to have West Bank voting rights means 'the repartition of Jerusalem, and to this we will never agree.'"

—Washington's demand for a freeze on Jewish settlement construction in the West Bank and Gaza was

"negative and damaging. No self-respecting government would agree that the right of Jews to live in all parts of the Land of Israel be open for negotiation or even to mention" in any accord.

—Reagan's proposal that West Bank and Gaza Arabs share responsibility for their security was unacceptable, because only Israel could handle the war on Arab terrorism, he said. He referred to the West Bankers as "aliens" when he said security would never be entrusted "to an alien party. No sensible Israeli would accept the responsibility for the war on terrorism not being in Israeli hands."

Shamir said he had no doubt that Reagan was acting out of a sense of "obligation and friendship for Israel, its security and future."

"But it is our duty to say with much regret that the operative words that accompanied the president's statement contradict (this friendship) and harm Israel and its security."

More Hostages Freed From Seized Embassy

BERN, Switzerland (AP) — Swiss police, seeking a bloodless end to the Polish Embassy siege, won the release of five more hostages today and gained a 48-hour extension of the deadline set by terrorists threatening to blow up the mission.

Authorities said "extremely tough" negotiations were continuing for the release of the embassy's military attaché and four other diplomatic employees.

Police expressed optimism that the crisis would end without bloodshed, but did not rule out an assault against the band of professed Polish anti-communist revolutionaries who have been occupying the building since Monday morning.

The terrorists, demanding an end to martial law and release of all political internees in Poland, claimed to have 55 pounds of dynamite and vowed to blow up the mission with everyone inside if their demands were not met.

They initially set a deadline of 10 a.m. today (4 a.m. EDT), but Swiss authorities announced that after "intensive" bargaining, the ultimatum had been put off until the 10 a.m. (4 a.m. EDT) Friday.

Government spokesman Achille Casanova told The Associated Press negotiators were increasingly confident of "an end without bloodshed."

But, when asked at a news conference if authorities would mount a commando raid on the embassy, Bern police spokesman Daniel Eckmann said: "It is one of the possibilities."

El Salvador Massacre Story Has A Supporter

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — A civil defense commander has backed up three peasant women's claim that government troops massacred hundreds of unarmed villagers during a recent anti-guerrilla drive.

The government denied the charges. "This is misinformation," a military spokesman said when asked about the allegations. He said it was a common guerrilla tactic to claim rebels killed by the army were civilians.

But a civil defense commander at Santa Clara, 45 miles east of San Salvador and five miles south of the site of the alleged massacre, said Tuesday troops had killed 400 people, most of them unarmed civilians. The commander, who asked not to be identified, said several victims were armed rebels.

City's Housing Authority Hopeful For Funds

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer

The Greenville Housing Authority, which underwent a successful review of its application for Kearney Park modernization money, is optimistic that it will be one of four agency's in the state that will receive funding.

The authority's director of operations, Ken Noland, reported Monday night that two officials of the Department of Housing and Urban Development met here last week for a joint application review relative to the proposed modernization program. Noland said he felt the authority fared well in the review.

He told commissioners that if the authority's application for roughly $1.5 million is accepted, the Greenville agency will be required to earmark some $250,000 from its reserve account for the program.

According to Noland, the funding would cover complete interior and exterior refurbishing of 160 units in Kearney Park, the oldest of the authority's six housing areas. The work would include items such as bathroom and kitchen modernization, window replacement, installation of exterior siding, replacement of decayed exterior wood, and floor refurbishing. In addition, tenant suggestions for modernization items will be taken into account.

Executive Director Joe Laney said HUD has indicated it will choose four out of six eligible authorities in the state for modernization funding. Laney said he feels the Greenville authority, which was the first to be selected in the application review stage, is in the top four of the final six agencies.

In other business, Laney said the authority hopes to receive the go ahead from HUD around mid-September to pursue with securing sites in West Meadowbrook for 40 units of new low-rent family housing.

Laney said preliminary plans call for the placement of 25 to 30 of the units on community development sites that would be purchased from the city at fair market value. Private parcels would have to be secured for the balance of the new units, he explained.

Commissioners authorized Laney to prepare an application, with the city's endorsement, for rehabilitation funding for 20 local units under a rent rehabilitation demonstration program sponsored by the N.C. Housing Finance Agency. He said the state agency had invited the city and authority to participate in the program.

According to the director, 99 of 100 units authorized under the Section 8 existing housing program and 108 units under the moderate rehabilitation program are leased. One temporary vacancy occurred during August in the 60-unit University Towers mid-rise complex for the elderly.

Board members approved a motion to write off some $3,600 in uncollected tenant accounts for the year. Noland said the figure, which includes a carry over of $2,300 from the previous

Americans Eating More Chicken

WASHINGTON (AP) — Americans are eating less beef and switching to chicken or pork as concerns about food costs and health grow, a national consumer group says.

The Center for Science in the Public Interest, in a report drawn largely from government statistics, said Monday that annual consumption of beef fell by 19 pounds, or more than 19 percent, to 78.8 pounds per person from 1976 to 1981.

At the same time, poultry consumption jumped by 10.6 pounds, or more than 20 percent, to 62.8 pounds per person.

Rising prices and declining production were partially responsible for beef's falling out of favor, said the center, but it attributed some of the drop to concern about the health effects of eating fatty red meats.

But the group said about half the beef decline was made up by increased consumption of pork. The average American ate 65 pounds of pork in 1981, up by 10 pounds, or 19 percent, from 1976.

Poultry, especially chicken, is both leaner and cheaper than red meats and this accounts for its increasing popularity, the center said. Pork is cheaper than beef.

The report was the latest installment of an extensive examination of American eating habits since 1910. The center, a non-profit group funded by membership donations and foundation grants, first published the study in 1978. It drew most of the figures from the U.S. Agriculture Department, along with some data from other federal agencies and industry.

"Americans in 1980 consumed 34 percent more fat, 43 percent less complex carbohydrates and 45 percent more refined sweeteners than their 1910 counterparts," the center said.

Some changes were a mixed blessing, the report said. Coffee consumption dropped 18 percent since 1976, with consumption falling from 690 six-ounce cups to 567 annually. The group attributed part of this drop to uncertainty about caffeine, which has been linked to a number of adverse health conditions.

However, consumption of soft drinks, which contain lots of sugar or artificial sweeteners, shot up 25 percent in six years. Americans now drink 412 12-ounce sodas each year, or slightly more than one a day, up from 329 six years ago.

Tribute Paid Mrs. Spilman By Sorority

The Alpha Nu Chapter of Alpha Delta Kappa Sorority paid tribute to the memory of Johnetta Spilman at a meeting Thursday at the Ramada Inn.

Brenda Little quoted Mrs. Spilman as saying, "All little problems make you stronger." Evelyn Finch closed the ceremony by snuffing the candle and placing Mrs. Spilman's name as a member of the "Omega" chapter. Special guests for the dinner and ceremony were Mrs. Spilman's son and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Spilman Jr.

Members were greeted Althea Worthington, Jean Wilson and Jean Weatherington. The dining tables were decorated with a hurricane lamp flanked by mixed flowers as centerpieces. Evelyn Finch was the mistress of ceremonies.

President Shirley Moore conducted the business session. A report of the southeast regional meeting was given by Ann Byrd and Barbara Parker. New year books for 1982-83 were given each member. Mrs. Moore, Ann Byrd and Linda Whitehurst stated plans for attending the state executive board and the presidents' council meeting at Greensboro this weekend.

An announcement was made that the October meeting and Founder's Day observance will be hosted by sister chapter Alpha Iota.

Mildew Prevention in the Home

We are having numerous calls in our office about mildew problems. Following is information from a brochure we have on mildew prevention and removal. Call us at 752-2934 for a copy.

Mildew is a thin growth of fungus produced on many kinds of surfaces. It is caused by spores of molds that thrive in warm, humid weather. It commonly develops on areas that are damp, warm, poorly ventilated and dark. A musty odor often indicates mildew. It is frequently found in bathrooms, closets, basements and crawl spaces.

There are periods during the year in North Carolina when mildew is a greater problem. During warm weather when the relative humidity is 60 percent or more for several days you should take special precautions to prevent mildew growth. Moisture trapped in areas of the house will stimulate mildew growth during any period of the year.

Mildew is best prevented by dryness, cleanliness and good ventilation. Here are some ways of preventing excess moisture and mildew inside the house:

*Turn on air conditioners when relative humidity is 60 percent or above. Humidity is given in the weather forecast daily. Air conditioning helps reduce excess moisture in the air.

*Install sheets of polyethylene in crawl spaces. Vents in foundation walls should be open for cross ventilation. Cover 80 percent of the ground under the house with four-six mil plastic. Make it secure at foundation walls by stapling or weighting down.

*Ventilate the attic. Provide continuous eave vents, ridge vents or gable vents.

Attic fans may be used to aid in air circulation.

*Use ventilating fans (which are vented to outside of house) in the kitchen and bathrooms. Run the fans when cooking and bathing.

*Vent gas heaters to the outside using an approved flue.

*Vent clothes dryers to the outside of the house.

*Do not let clothes and linens lie around damp or wet.

*Clean or wash clothes before storing. Mildews begins on spots.

*Stretch out a wet shower curtain after every shower.

*Use chemicals to control humidity by absorbing moisture. Silica gel, activated alumina and calcium chloride can be purchased in drug stores and department stores. Put in an open box and place in the closet.

*Keep closet lights on. This aids in keeping these areas dry. A low wattage bulb (40-60 W) uses a very small amount of electricity.

*Use a dehumidifier. Dehumidifiers take excessive moisture out of the air. They are especially useful in basements and other naturally cool areas of the house before summer months of high humidity. Any plug-in dehumidifier should bear the Underwriters Laboratories (UL) Seal. During the time of the year when humidity is high, you may need to run the dehumidifier continuously.

*When the humidity is very high, close the house and turn on the heating system to dry it out. Or you may turn on the furnace fan without the heat to circulate air.

*Wax leather goods. Wax will protect leather from mildew. Spray-on fungicides are available for leathers and fabrics.

*Trim shrubs that grow close to the house. These often prevent good air circulation and hold dampness.

*Sterilize any mildewed area of the house before repainting. If this is not done the mildew will reappear. A mixture of three ounces of trisodium phosphate, one ounce of detergent, one quart of chlorine bleach and three quarts of warm water can be used for this.

Perfect SAT Score A Challenge For Student

By DENNIS ANDERSON
SPRINGFIELD, Va. (UPI)

For 17-year-old Eric Engels, being perfect is almost as much work as trying to be normal.

Engels spent the summer swimming and working on merit badges toward an Eagle Scout rank while he pondered what a perfect 1,600 score on his Scholastic Aptitude Test will mean for his future.

Engels is one of four in 1 million students who achieved a perfect score on the 1982 SAT test. School administrators said he was the first Fairfax County student to do so.

"I'm enjoying the attention," Engels said. "With a good score you can get into a good school. I could have gotten a 1,500. It would have done the same thing but the media wouldn't have noticed."

The SAT, compiled by the Educational Testing Service of Princeton, N.J., is used by colleges and universities to test students entering their senior high school year.

The test has sections for math and verbal skills. Engels scored a perfect 800 in each. The average Fairfax County student scored 457 on the verbal and 507 on the math in 1981, school statistics showed.

"I consider myself an average kid who happens to do well in school," he said, trying to suppress a grin.

Engels says he has to work at being considered a "normal" kid.

While the others are plunking quarters into video games, Engels sits at his father's basement computer terminal, developing an interest in "pure physics, particle physics and the ul-imate constituents of matter."

He thinks solving the problem of creating energy by fusion would be interesting.

He likes puzzles, too, and sometimes peeks in the back of the book if he can't solve one.

The perfect English score might have been inspired by his mother, Rosalind. A former English teacher, she says her son gets his drive from her and his brain from his father, Eugene, an engineer.

He enjoys reading Aldous Huxley and George Orwell, but mathematics is his real love.

"I got interested in math in the 7th or 8th grade, but I didn't see the implications behind it then. Career-wise, I got serious about it the last couple of years," he said.

Engels said some kids at West Springfield High School made remarks behind his back about his high score. But most are his friends, he said, even though he has a 4.0 grade average.

"I work hard for those grades. I'm happy to get them," he said.

If Engels doesn't get too much razzing about his scholarship, it's probably because his high school is going through a speedup in computer courses.

"Our high school is expanding its computer program dramatically. I don't know what the effect will be but, in the future, I think some students may attain computer literacy before they attain literacy," he said.

His summer has included a lot of favorite teenage pastimes, the swimming pool and a part-time job. When classes start, he plans to be on the school paper and lead the math team.

It will be several months before he faces the agonizing choice of a university, such as Princeton, MIT or a state school. Even the high score won't guarantee a place at a high-tuition school.

Without some form of financial aid, "If it's $12,000 or something, I'll have to forget it," he said.

Until then, there are lots of interesting things to do, like hiking, puzzles and wondering at the ultimate constituents of matter.

"I just want to grow and get out of this kid stage," he said.

Claim Of Fraud Draws Rebuttal

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1982 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: This is in response to "On to Him in St. Louis," who accused the dental profession of fraud due to the advent of dental insurance. Perhaps this uninformed reader, as well as a large segment of the population, will be enlightened by the following:

No dentist in the course of an examination can willfully crack, break or dislodge a good filling unless he uses tools designed for archeological expeditions!

It is necessary for the dentist to check all fillings carefully to be sure there is no unsealed or cracked surface through which bacteria could enter and cause decay under the fillings, leading to toothaches, lost fillings and the need for root canal work or extraction of the tooth. Unfortunately, even the best of fillings may eventually require replacement due to the stresses of chewing, poor oral hygiene, improper diet, a bad bite or grinding one's teeth.

About dental insurance: It benefits the patient — not the dentist. I cannot keep track of the number of patients who have suggested that I "pad" the bill and falsify dates of services in order for them to obtain greater financial benefits than deserved. People who have neglected their teeth for years suddenly want "everything" done if their dental insurance covers it.

Also, I have never known a dentist who would participate in a "kickback" arrangement with a root canal (or any other kind of dental specialist).

The overwhelming majority of dentists are hard-working, ethical, conscientious individuals who are interested in providing the best possible treatment for their patients — and only that treatment which is necessary, regardless of insurance coverage or not!

A DENTIST FROM THE ETHICAL MAJORITY, WEST ISLIP, N.Y.

DEAR ETHICAL: I heard from hundreds of irate dentists chewing me out for printing a letter from an obviously uninformed reader. They said that by giving that "nut" space in my column, I validated her paranoid accusations. Not so! Be assured that dentists are the last group of professionals I would intentionally alienate. I need them often to remove my foot from my mouth.

DEAR ABBY: I have a friend who is a very good Catholic. I'm a Catholic, too, but Theresa knows more about Catholicism than I do. Theresa says that if a Catholic gets divorced he is automatically excommunicated from the church. Is that true?

KATHY

DEAR KATHY: No, Theresa needs to update her information. At one time the divorced Catholic who remarried was automatically excommunicated. (That applied only in the U.S.) However, that ruling was changed in 1977, and it no longer applies.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get them off your chest. Write to Abby, P.O. Box 38923, Hollywood, Calif. 90038. For a personal reply, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Greater Marvels Ahead

After having transplanted hair, skin, and a goodly number of essential organs (not to mention blood transfusions and the implanting of manmade joints and the wondrous tampering with genes), it was to be expected medical science would someday get around to the brain.

The recently described goal of research is said to be just trying to repair or replace a nick in the brain. Not a total transplant. (It's a one-step-at-a-time process when dealing with something as complex as the human body.)

Who can surmise what lies ahead when the next "step" or "steps" are decided upon?

The scope of human knowledge has been expanding in all directions as though propelled by divinely inspired destiny. We are sure the visionaries who "tamed" fire, devised a wheel, and then split the atom daydreamed of the changes in living their work would inspire.

In every direction there is evidence of mankind's improving on nature...in the pasturelands, croplands and even the forests. Flight is routine, and not even the moon is immune from close-up study.

Each time we poor humans attain a new plateau of understanding the wonders of our universe there is cause first to marvel at its perfection, and then to reach ever higher.

Humility is difficult under such circumstances; but pride bows to the awareness that grows with knowledge. No matter how far mankind progresses in this world there will always be greater marvels just waiting to be grasped.

Let's Anticipate Major Work

The city found itself with a near disaster on its hands July 13 when a part of First Street east of Reade washed away.

The reconstruction turned into a major project with extensive excavation carried out and new drainage pipe to be installed.

The work has progressed to the point now where traffic has been let through, although the $90,000 job is far from complete. The fill will be allowed to settle before the final paving is done.

The major project came as a shock to the city and we hope that in the future culverts and fills will be watched carefully so that such projects can be anticipated before the need is upon us.

THIS AFTERNOON

Running At Hunt

By PAUL T. O'CONNOR
RALEIGH — Back when Alan Page was terrorizing ball carriers and passers in the NFL, opposing coaches decided to confront the defensive tackle straight on. If they couldn't run around him, they'd try to run right at him.

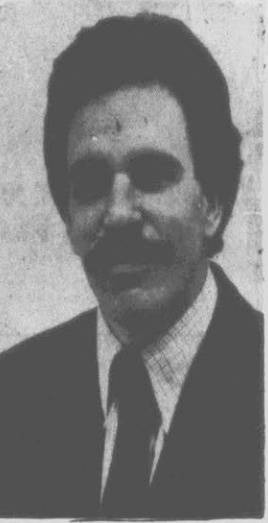

North Carolina Republicans appear to have a similar strategy planned for this coming election season. In legislative races, they plan to run right at what is considered the biggest strength of the Democratic quarterback. They're going to take on Gov. Jim Hunt's record in education.

P.H. Craig, a Chapel Hill real estate man and a GOP Senate candidate, recently told the Asheville Courier-Tribune that Hunt has favored horse arenas and his political organization over teachers and the public schools. Shortly after Hunt criticized President Reagan's education policy this summer, Wake County's five GOP House candidates held a press conference to blast Hunt's record on education. And several Republican legislators plan to remind the voters that in this year's scoring by the N.C. Association of Educators, they got better grades than Hunt.

Republicans are being encouraged to pursue this strategy by their state party. GOP chairman Dave Flaherty said in an interview, Hunt's "the biggest fake in education that there is. Jim Hunt is supposed to be the best friend of education and he's got 80 percent of the legislature with him. So, if teachers have any problems, Jim Hunt's the reason."

Teachers are upset that

Hunt eliminated scheduled step increases this year and because he's provided only a 5 percent pay raise since winning reelection in 1980. Last week's $11 million retreat on their health plan is also getting blamed on Hunt. "They're very vulnerable on education," Flaherty said.

PAUL O'CONNOR

The party has provided its legislative candidates with a GOP position paper on education. Brochures that make the party's argument on education are scheduled for distribution later this month. The current issue of the party newspaper contains a column by an unidentified Eastern principal who criticizes Hunt for politicizing an education conference and for failing to properly fund teacher raises and vocational education programs.

Told of the GOP strategy, spokesmen for Hunt and the Democratic Party were honestly astonished. "That is fascinating," Democratic Unity Campaign spokesman June Milby said. "That is really incredible." Hunt has always fashioned himself "the education governor" and has parlayed this reputation into an appointment this year as chairman of the Education Commission of the States. In his three statewide campaigns, Hunt has enjoyed strong support from educators. "The governor has an excellent record on education," Miss Milby said. "We

Other Editors Say Time Of Paradox

(The Wilson Times)

The Wilson Police Department had a busy morning Wednesday, rounding up suspects in the city's largest drug raid in history. The 45 suspects face more than 100 criminal charges; eight vehicles have been confiscated; and police plan complaints against five downtown taverns where drug deals allegedly took place.

This is a time of paradox for Wilson residents, who are torn between a feeling of appreciative support for the police and a feeling of concern that drug abuse was allegedly so widespread in our city.

The raid came about when police decided it was time to concentrate on the street dealers in drugs rather than working long-term undercover operations to try to get at the rulers of the drug empire. Generally, it is preferable to cut off the supply of drugs at the source, but street dealings of drugs had become so common in Wilson that the police had to react to the street sales. The police acted correctly in going after lower-rung dealers.

Police admit Wednesday's raid will not permanently end drug dealings in Wilson. So long as there is a consumer, there will be a supplier; but the raid makes it more difficult for dealers to operate, and that reduces Wilson's drug problem. It puts dealers on notice that Wilson is no haven for drug trafficking.

The illegal drug problem goes beyond the physical effects of the drugs themselves. The high cost of drugs takes capital way from the legitimate economy, and the desire for drugs drives addicts to commit crimes to feed their drug habit.

Illegal drugs hurt the community as well as individuals, and the community has an interest in halting drug traffic.

What does this action mean to downtown Wilson? The police dubbed the raid "Operation Downtown", and many of the suspects were arrested in the downtown area or the alleged drug sales took place downtown.

It would be wrong to allow the illegal actions of a few people to give a bad name to the entire downtown. The downtown, as we have said before, has a lot going for it. With proper leadership and prudent investment, downtown Wilson has a good future.

Wilson police will ask the city and the state ABC board to review the existence of taverns in the downtown area. Tavern operators have a responsibility to oversee their business and their clientele to ensure that no illegal activity takes place. Those who have not been sufficiently vigilant in the opinion of the City Council and the ABC board will have to pay a penalty for their mistakes.

Generous With Loans

Bankers have been receiving a tarnished image lately, mainly because they have been making a lot of bad loans. I think they're getting a bad rap.

I was in the bank the other day where my nephew was applying for a loan to buy a car. The bank demanded a co-signer for the note and I was happy to oblige.

The flinty eyed vice-president took out a form consisting of 20 legal-sized pages and said to me, "You have to fill this all out. We want to know everything about both of you; where you were born, the names of your relatives, your education, how many times you have been arrested, and a complete list of all your assets and liabilities."

"You're very thorough for a $5,000 loan."

"We have to be," Flinty

Eyes said. "This bank's reputation is on the line every time someone borrows money from it."

My nephew and I started filling out the blanks when a well-dressed man came up to the desk.

"I'm from Dryup Securities," the man said, as he shook Flinty Eyes' hand vigorously. "I'd like to borrow $500 million in government securities for three months at 16 percent."

Flinty Eyes brightened up and he pulled open his top drawer and started piling bonds on his desk. "Help yourself," he said.

The man stuffed them in a suitcase. "Do you want me to sign for them?"

"Your word is good enough for me," Flinty Eyes said. "Just see they don't get lost."

The man walked away and I said, "You didn't even ask his name."

"Dryup Securities is a solid institution. I'm not going to embarrass a man with questions when he deals in government securities. You forgot to fill out your wife's church affiliation."

I went back to the application and a diplomat with a walrus mustache came up. "Senor, I am from the government of Mexico, and I wish to borrow a billion dollars, because the peso has just gone to hell."

"Of course, sir," Flinty Eyes rang a buzzer for a guard and said to him, "Take this Mexican official down to the safe and give him a billion dollars."

"Thank you, senor. You are a good neighbor."

I was impressed. "You really make quick decisions."

"If I had said no he would have gone to Chase Manhattan for the loan, and my bosses would have been furious."

"Do you really want six references for a lousy $5,000 loan?" I asked.

"Those are the rules," Flinty Eyes said. "We have to have ironclad safeguards when someone wants to buy a car."

The Finance Minister of Poland came up and gave the vice president a $10 bill. "That should take care of the August interest on our $2 billion loan."

Flinty Eyes smiled. "Thanks a lot. We didn't expect this until September."

"Poland always pays its debts."

A Test Ban Is In Reach

By MAXWELL GLEN and CODY SHEARER
WASHINGTON — when President Reagan recently decided to forgo further negotiations on the elusive Comprehensive Test Ban Treaty (CTBT), the administration feared that it could never determine exactly whether the Soviets were playing fairly. And, it reasoned, an untested weapons stockpile would deteriorate under such an agreement.

But the official excuses fail to explain the administration's prevailing hangup with a test ban treaty: the curb that a CTBT would put on U.S. rearmament plans.

Though the most controversial of disarmament issues, test ban verification has been relatively moot since 1979. During the last CTBT talks in Geneva, U.S. and British negotiators won agreement to place 10 untamperable seismic recording stations on Soviet soil. (Britain's refusal to match the Soviet concession was a primary reason for the breakdown of the talks in late 1980.)

Contrary to administration assertions, illegal tests under a CTBT are increasingly verifiable to the nearest kiloton. While small "low-yield" tests have produced tremors comparable to earthquakes, University of California research seismologist Robert Uhrhammer says, "There are several ways to distinguish between the two."

Meanwhile, fears that a test ban would leave U.S. military planners unsure about the nuclear stockpile's potency clearly ignore the purpose of such a moratorium. If button-pushers worry that some of the nation's nuclear weapons are duds, the argument goes, they'll be less inclined to attempt a first strike.

Perhaps the administration's true anxieties are betrayed in its regard for the unratified Threshold Test Ban Treaty (TTBT) which, since 1974, has unofficially limited underground tests to 150 kilotons (about 10 times the Hiroshima blast). Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger has charged that the Soviets have not been complying with the letter of the treaty since 1980.

Yet Preston Truman, a 31-year-old Utah native, accuses the U.S. of similar malfeasance. With assistance from seismic stations abroad, his Salt Lake City-based testing group, Downwinders, alleges that the U.S. has exceeded the threshold at least five times between January 1980 and January 1982. Truman's data, which has been seen by our associate, Michael Duffy, measures the U.S. tests to the nearest kiloton (it also shows that the Russians have exceeded the threshold 15 times in the same period).

Since, as Weinberger should know, the Threshold Treaty explicitly allows for fluctuations above the 150-kiloton limit, whether Truman's allegation can be officially corroborated may matter little. But the administration evidently sees a need to test at higher-than-threshold yields.

As it devotes more money to rearmament, the Reagan administration will undoubtedly reward the creative energies of the weapons labs where new warheads are developed. For example, Air Force officials already hope to replace the Minuteman's Mark 12A warhead with a successor that has twice the explosive power. In support of a "dense pack" deployment scheme for the MX, weapons architects also talk of bringing back the outlawed antiballistic missile. Before deployment, both systems would require testing at full yield — anywhere from 100 to 600 kilotons.

Unfortunately, this administration shows little interest in alternate courses. Reagan has requested $425 million for nuclear weapons testing for fiscal 1983, a 15 percent increase over the 1982 authorization.

As Eugene Rostow, director of the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency (ACDA) told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee last May: "There is a feeling in many parts of the government that, given the need for new weapons and modernization, we're going to need testing, and perhaps even

To the editor:

Facet Enterprises, which has plants in Henderson and Murfreesboro, recently reached a fair and equitable settlement of a dispute with the Pension Benefit Guaranty Corporation, a federal government entity. This settlement means that Facet will remain a viable company, employing some 2,400 people throughout the country.

I would like to commend four elected officials from North Carolina who played a major role in bringing about this settlement. Without the support and dedication of Representative Walter Jones and L.H. Fountain and Senator Jesse Helms and Senator John East, this settlement would not have come about. To a large extent, Facet Enterprises and its employees owe their future to these concerned legislators.

Needy Countries Dislike IMF

By OWEN ULLMANN
Associated Press Writer

TORONTO (AP) — To the cold-eyed financiers assembled here, the International Monetary Fund is a savior of Third World nations considered financial basket cases, too deep in debt to get more help from private banks.

But the needy nations themselves often view the IMF as an economic tyrant intent on imposing its economic will on sovereign states.

That dichotomy is a bitter source of conflict among the 146 rich and poor nations attending the IMF's 37th annual conference here this week.

The IMF is controlled by the United States and a small group of other rich countries that provide most of the emergency lending funds. It is little-known to people of the industrialized nations; that rarely need its help these days.

But to people of the poor, financially troubled countries, the IMF is well known as a U.S.-dominated bank of last resort that can impose stringent terms on borrowers.

Formed after World War II to help prevent the kind of depression the industrial countries endured in the 1930s, the IMF now is trying to stop Mexico's enormous debt problems from expanding into an international financial crisis.

When it makes loans, the Fund demands that countries make economic "adjustments" — a euphemism for severe belt-tightening measures that usually include cuts in food subsidies, other budget cuts and adherence to a strict schedule for climbing out of debt.

Countries in severe financial distress usually have no choice but to go along — even at the cost of protest riots and political upheaval in some cases — if they want the money badly enough.

In 1980, a fight between the IMF and former socialist Prime Minister Michael Manley of Jamaica became a major issue in that year's election, in which Manley was defeated by conservative Edward Seaga.

This week, 450,000 workers staged a general strike in Bolivia to protest price increases and other restrictive economic policies of the military government, which has a borrowing arrangement with the IMF.

President Julius Nyerere of Tanzania, an impoverished East African nation and an IMF borrower, has complained about the "irresponsible and arrogant way in which it (the IMF) is being wielded against the poor."

"The IMF is all-pervasive," Tanzanian Finance Minister Amir Jamal said Tuesday night at a conference sponsored by critics of the lending agency. "It's creating despair and despondency instead of hope."

Fund officials contend that many of the borrowing countries brought their financial woes on themselves by spending far more than they could afford.

"We shouldn't encourage any nation to be extravagant or a spendthrift and think it could get away with it by being bailed out by the IMF," says U.S. Treasury Secretary Donald T. Regan.

Regan leads the forces who want to maintain the strictest conditions for help from the fund to prevent it from becoming an easy touch.

That is one reason why the United States, alone, opposes a substantial increase in member contributions to the fund to handle a growing list of Mexico-type crises.

Spokesmen for the developing nations here say their main complaint against the IMF is that its loan conditions are too harsh and do not recognize that the big industrial countries are at least partly responsible for the plight of the poor.

The rich nations' battle against inflation, they note, has produced a worldwide recession that has devastated the Third World's trade and sent their export prices plummeting.

Oil-rich Mexico's severe cash crisis, for instance, stems in part from an unexpected drop in oil prices due to the reduced demand in the rich countries.

Even Jamaica's Seaga, economic conservative that he is, contends that the IMF has been too harsh on some of the smaller Caribbean islands, which fall into economic depressions when the United States has a mild recession.

have seen (test) scores of school children rise and there are indications that children are getting better educations because of the policies Jim Hunt has put into effect."

Hunt's deputy press aid, Brent Hackney, said he welcomes a challenge of Hunt's education record. "If they're planning to mount an attack on Jim Hunt's record in education, they're getting ready to commit political suicide because we will chew them up and spit them out. They don't have a chance. They get down there in the legislature — name me one Republican who got up on the floor and defended education — and all they do is stand up and say cut, cut, cut and they don't care who gets hurt. I'll make one exception. (Rep.) Maggie Keese (of Greensboro) is the only Republican who gives a damn about the public schools."

testing above the 150 kiloton limit for some time to come." Yet the greater tragedy may be that, if it so desired, the administration could secure a comprehensive test ban within a month. With tests already completed for MX, Trident and cruise missiles, a total ban would do little to jeopardize U.S. security.

It may be up to the nuclear-freeze movement to expose Reagan's test ban frets for what they represent. Freeze supporters in the House and Senate have already introduced a resolution calling for a return to CTBT negotiation; they hope to bring the issue to a vote in both houses before the November election. Legislative victory could send a strong signal to Reagan that he can't bluff his way out of arms control. Copyright 1982 Field Enterprises, Inc.

"That long," I laughed. "Consumer credit is not something we treat lightly. If you don't hear from us, you'll know we decided you're a rotten risk."

We got up to leave. Flinty Eyes' secretary came over. "Braniff Airlines wants to renew their loan."

"Then renew it. Why are you always bothering me with details?"

Pay Raise Voted For Farmville Police

By CAROL TYER
Reflector Staff Writer
FARMVILLE — Farmville Commissioners Tuesday night approved a 10 percent pay increase for police officers, to become effective Thursday.

During the same executive session, it was decided that three vacancies now existing on the police force will not be filled.

A resolution of support for a soil and water conservation project to clear and snag Contentnea Creek and Middle Swamp was adopted. Expected participation by the town will be approximately $121,500, to be paid over several years.

Approval was given for 7 1/2 percent of the town's revenue from sales tax to be used to promote the town of Farmville as a good place to shop and live. This money will be channeled through the chamber of commerce, which has a contract with Creative Productions of Rocky Mount to plan a "We Roll Out the Red Carpet for You" promotion.

Approval was given for the use of the town's abandoned waste water treatment plant by the fire department and rescue squad as a training facility. Also approved was the fire department's request for a small air compressor to keep one of the fire truck's air brakes always ready for immediate use. This will either be found among town property already owned or bought at a cost of approximately $250.

A request by Russell and Rosalind Britt for the town to reimburse them for two double tap on fees for water service was tabled. The Britts, who live north of Farmville near one of the town's wells, says their deep well was depleted because of the town's well being dug into the same water source.

Alex Allen invited the commissioners to go with him to Middle Swamp and view the condition of the town's electric lines through the swamp. He says there are big problems caused by flooding.

Consideration was given to purchasing basketball goals for courts at Sam D. Bundy School. Quotes ranged from $931.30 to $945.20. These were deemed too high and the commissioners asked Town Administrator Robert Morgan to find out how much locally fabricated goals would cost.

The commissioners asked for letters stating whether use of the town's Hospitality Hut for a child day care center would interfere with its use as a senior citizens center. The Southside Senior Citizens have asked the town for "full control and management of the Hospitality Hut for one year."

A resolution of intent for the town to exchange properties with the Rev. Charlie Parker was approved. Appraised values were $1,665 for a lot at 301 Wallace Street owned by the town and $1,500 for a lot behind 305 Wallace Street owned by Parker.

Consideration of redesign of the town administrative office was postponed.

Approval was given for the painting of the town gymnasium roof. Hampton's Home Improvement Company Inc.'s low bid of $1200 was approved. Also approved was Linwood Dickens' low bid of $920 for painting the library.

Electric refund checks of $76,645.71 and $17,623 were acknowledged, along with some question concerning the refund relative to the documentation provided along with them. The board agreed to wait until these and other legal questions are settled before deciding what to do with the refund.

It was voted to set the fuel charge at .00665 per kilowatt-hour for the utility billings of Oct 1-Dec. 1.

Approval was given for the purchase of water meters from PYCO Supply, the low bidder, for $3,625.34. Rockwell Supply Company was approved as the low bidder and supplier of two meter test kits at a cost of $1,738.54.

The town administrator was authorized to sign a contract for removal from the town of 27 PCB-contaminated capacitors to a hazardous waste disposal site near Little Rock, Ark. The capacitors will be picked up when there is a sufficient number from member cities of Electricities to warrant the trip to Arkansas.

The purchase of a concrete saw and diamond blade for the public works department was authorized. The low bidder was Interstate Equipment Co. with $1,661.60.

The mayor and fire chief were authorized to sign the Pitt County Selective Mutual Emergency Fire Aid Pact.

The town has participated in this pact for several years. This is an update.

A resolution was enacted approving the town's agreement with the N.C. Department of Transportation on street and highway system responsibilities.

A letter was acknowledged from Farmville Implement Co. requesting that its new facility on the outskirts of town not be annexed.

The planning board's request for a joint meeting with the commissioners was turned down, with the promise of such a meeting in October.

Approval was given for street construction and resurfacing by L.A. Reynolds Co., the low bidder, for $98,433 for construction and $39,473 for resurfacing. Whether to go ahead with Perry Street work will depend on whether all signatures on encroachment agreements are received. Officials said $14,000 of the cost will be transferred from a 1980 contingency account and $12,000 from 1980 rehabilitation account of the 1980 Community Development Block Grant budget.

Eczema Linked To Food Allergies

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — Having disproven the long-standing belief that food allergies don't cause the skin condition eczema, a Duke University pediatric allergist is trying to learn why only some people are affected.

Dr. Hugh Sampson, working on a $217,000 grant from the National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Disease, released a study Tuesday saying food allergies contribute to the red, dry, itchy rash — contrary to findings by the American Academy of Pediatrics in 1965.

Uninterested In Ohio Symphony

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Gerhardt Zimmerman, named conductor of the North Carolina Symphony in May, says he isn't interested in a job as conductor of the Columbus, Ohio, Symphony.

Zimmerman is one of nine candidates for the post, but he says he applied before being named to his current position.

In addition to his present post, he is continuing as conductor of the 10-week Canton, Ohio, symphony season.

Claim Cairo Fostering 'Slavery'

By DALIA BALIGH
Associated Press Writer
CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — Cairo's donkey-driven garbage collection system has been called the best recycling process in the Middle East, but some social workers say it perpetuates "a sort of slavery."

In one of the world's largest and most crowded capitals, Cairo's 14 million inhabitants produce 7,000 tons of garbage daily. From sunset to a few hours beyond sunrise, an estimated 25,000 zebaleen (garbage collectors), clothed in filthy ragged robes, comb the streets of the city collecting garbage in rickety wooden donkey-drawn carts.

About 80 percent of the zebaleen are members of Egypt's Coptic Christian minority. The zebaleen migrated from southern Egypt about 30 years ago and now live as social outcasts in 11 dumps around the city, with little hope of breaking out of a vicious circle of poverty and ignorance.

Many workshops and small industries depend on the zebaleen for paper, tin, glass, plastic and bones. Paper, glass and plastic are reprocessed. Tin is fashioned into children's toys. Bones are used to make glue and paint.

The Christian zebaleen feed organic waste to pigs, which they breed, raise, eat and sell. However, Egypt's Moslem majority is prohibited from eating pork.

"This is the most effective system Egypt could have," said Rene Willems, chairman of a group from the All Saints Episcopal Church that is concerned about the welfare of the zebaleen.

Willems says several Western organizations are attempting to improve the health and education conditions of the zebaleen.

"It's a sort of slavery now," he said of the life of the zebaleen.

They live among garbage and pigs. The stench nearly overwhelms visitors from outside. Their children have a 40 percent mortality rate and nearly all of them are infected with disease, according to a World Bank report.

"It has been said if we go live there to help them, we would die within a week," Willems said.

The largest zebaleen village is the Mokattam dump, less than three miles east of the city center in the limestone hills that provided the stones for the great pyramids.

The only access to this village of 8,000 people is a steep, narrow dirt trail. Every morning, donkeys can be seen arduously dragging the heavy carts up the ascent.

The door to Attiya Khalil's fenced-in mud-brick and tin-sheet home opens into a yard which is the center of most family activity, cooking, washing and sorting the garbage. A small fence separates the 17-member family's living quarters from the pigsty.

After sorting the day's haul, the Khalil women and children carry the meager remains of the garbage to the outskirts of the village to be burned.

Less than a dozen buildings in the village, including a Coptic church, have water and electricity. The women trudge down the trail to buy water for 25 piasters (30 cents) a bucket.

Mokattam's Coptic priest, Saman Ibrahim Moussa, considered the leader of the zebaleen community, cannot live with them because of the health risk.

year, is down substantially from $6,000 written off in 1981. He explained that while the accounts are written off from an administrative standpoint to clear up end-of-year paperwork, efforts continue to collect the accounts and some are turned over to a collection agency.

Four temporary vacancies occurred during the month in the housing units operated by the authority, according to Sallye Streeter, director of resident affairs. Mrs. Streeter said that average rents included: N.C. 22-1 (Meadowbrook), $80.15; N.C. 22-2 (Kearney Park), $89.18; N.C. 22-3, (Moyewood), $81.79; N.C. 22-4 (Moyewood), $98.28; N.C. 22-5 (Hopkins Park), $78.64; and N.C. 22-6 (Newtown). She said the overall average for the six areas was $84.74.

Bethel Permitted To Operate Lagoon

BETHEL - Bethel has been given permission to continue to operate its sewage lagoon under sanitary stipulations set forth by state officials. Notification of authority to keep the lagoon operative was given to the Bethel Town Board at its September meeting Tuesday night by Mark Garner, a member of Rivers and Associates of Greenville.

Approval was given to a resolution designating the period Sept. 11-17 as Clean Up Litter Week in Bethel. Town employees are to assist private citizens in the cleanup campaign during the one week period.

On the problem of drainage at Pinelawn Cemetery, Commissioner John Watson recommended that a canal be dug at the back of the cemetery to improve drainage of the area.

Reports to commissioners included one by John C. Robertson of the Mid-East Commission. Robertson told the board that rehabilitation of houses in the community development project was proceeding according to schedule.

Major Frank Hemingway gave a report on plans by Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Manning to open a day care center outside the town limits. The Mannings have requested extension of water and sewage facilities to the site. The plan for the center and the request for facilities will be considered at the October meeting.

Also discussed and to be considered at the October meeting is the possibility of extending the town's sewage line to Watson Trailer Park No. 2, outside the town limits west of Bethel on N.C. 11.

Plans Suit For Wrongful Death

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) - The mother of a Raleigh man shot and killed by police two years ago plans to file a wrongful death suit against the city within a week, her attorney said Tuesday.

Attorney Ralph L. Stephens said he has uncovered new information in the Oct. 19, 1980, death of Willie Raymond Frazier, 31. Stephens said he will file suit on behalf of Emily

Frazier, the victim's mother. Frazier was shot and killed by Raleigh Police Officer

Robert S. Wortham, whom Frazier allegedly attacked with a knife, police said.

Police List

4 Collisions

An estimated $12,250 property damage resulted from four traffic collisions investigated by Greenville police Tuesday.

Officers reported heaviest damage resulted from a 4:25 p.m. collision at the intersection of Fourth and Cotanche streets, involving cars driven by Ray Congleton of 104A Cherry Court and Monroe Johnson Hagood III of Route 1, Emerald Isle.

Police, who said Congleton was injured in the collision, estimated damage at $9,000 to the Congleton car and $1,000 to the Hagood auto.

Hagood was charged with failing to stop for a stop light in connection with the mishap.

Cars driven by Steve Rea Lassiter of Sunbury and Julene Faye Fisher of Kittrell collided about 5:15 p.m. on Cotanche Street, 50 feet north of the 10th Street intersection, causing an estimated $250 damage to the Lassiter car and $700 damage to the Fisher vehicle.

An estimated $600 damage resulted to a parked car owned by Alston Haddock of 1304 Battle Drive from an 8 a.m. collision on Mill Street, 50 feet north of the Church Street intersection.

Investigators said a car driven by Doris Ward Blount of 709A Mill St. collided with the Haddock car. No damage resulted to the Blount vehicle.

Cars driven by Phyllis Ann Swinson of Route 2, Jamesville, and Malinda Kay Wheeler of Severn, collided about 12:13 p.m. on Maple Street, 20 feet north of the Fourth Street intersection, causing an estimated $400 damage to the Swinson car and $300 damage to the Wheeler auto.

Two Injured In Mishap

Two persons were injured Tuesday morning when the motorcycle they were riding collided with a car east of Greenville on N.C. 33.

According to Trooper Douglas Britton, the motorcycle collided with the left front of a car driven by Celestine Johnson of 305 Circle Drive, Greenville. The Johnson vehicle was preparing to make a left turn off N.C. 33 into Hardee Acres when the collision occurred as the motorcycle attempted to pass the car. Both vehicles were headed west.

Britton identified the motorcycle driver as Gilbert Louis MacDonald of Route 1, Grimesland. The trooper said a passenger on the motorcycle, identified as Mary White of Route 1, Grimesland, was seriously injured in the accident. Britton also said MacDonald was injured.

No charges were made pending an investigation of the accident.

Resumes Meetings

Cosmetologist Chapter No. 24 will resume monthly meetings Sept. 13 at the home of Maudie Williams, 309 Line Avenue, at 2 p.m. Thereafter, members will meet the first Monday of each month at homes of various members.

Club officers are: Brenda Weatherington, president; Ann Early, vice president; Rachel Short, secretary; Maudie Williams, assistant secretary; Lillie Shiver, treasurer; Theresa Ward, recording secretary; Lucy Mae Barnhill, reporter; Bessie Simpson, sick committee, and Annie Pugh, adviser.

The Eastern Regional chapter will meet at 2 p.m. Sunday at Mount Olive Baptist Church, Highway 308, Lewiston. Theresa Ward is regional chapter president.

Nine Public Hearings On Agenda

A lengthy agenda, highlighted by nine public hearings, has been scheduled for consideration by the City Council at Thursday's 7:30 p.m. meeting at city hall.

The public hearings will be conducted on: a request by Greenville Cable TV Inc. for a revised bulk rate schedule and the establishment of a motel bulk rate; a request by Blount Fertilizer to rezone, from R-6 to unoffensive industry, 609 acres north of Metalwood Co. on 13th Street; amendments to the Zoning Ordinance regarding the R-6 zoning classification; An amendment to the Zoning Ordinance regarding non-conforming uses; a request by J. T. Manning and Nathan Smith to rezone, from RA-20 to R6-Mobile Home, 20 acres on the northern side of U.S. 264 Bypass, west of the Mary B. Kerr property; a request by the Methodist Retirement Homes Inc. to amend the thoroughfare plan by deleting First Street extending east of Warren Street and by deleting the Brownlea Street connector to Fifth Street; four additional amendments to the Zoning Ordinance; a proposed amendment for the creation of a new R-6N zoning district, and an application for a mobile home permit.

Other items on the agenda include: appointments to boards and commissions; four applications for renewal of mobile home permits; an application by The Unlimited Touch at 1311 W. Fifth St. for renewal of a special use permit for the operation of a private club;

Consideration of a request by the Southern Flue-Cured Tobacco Festival Inc. for a privilege license to conduct a warehouse dance on Nov. 13 at the New Greenville Warehouse; consideration of a revised solid waste container policy; two Traffic Commission recommendations; consideration of three community development items relative to the budget, contracts, and bids; tax releases; consideration of bids for fall-winter police uniforms, and consideration of the establishment of the 1982-83 extraterritorial fire protection fee.

Charged In Theft Plan

CHICAGO (AP) — Two executives of financially troubled International Harvester Co. have been charged with conspiring to transport $1 million worth of stolen company vehicles to Mexico, the FBI says.

Stanley P. Ryczek, 40, a senior operations analyst in the company's construction equipment group, was arrested Friday in Chicago and charged with conspiracy to commit interstate transportation of stolen vehicles, FBI spokesman Anthony DeLorenzo said Tuesday.

Ryczek, of suburban Arlington Heights, was arraigned before U.S. Magistrate Carl B. Sussman and released on $50,000 bond, the FBI said. Sussman also ordered Ryczek to surrender his passport to discourage any attempts to leave the country, the FBI said. A hearing was scheduled Sept. 15.

George J. Jozaitis, 42, was arrested Friday in Tyler, Texas, and turned over to the U.S. marshal there in lieu of $20,000 bond, the FBI said. Jozaitis' position with Harvester was not immediately learned. He was described as a resident of the Chicago area.

DeLorenzo said Ryczek also was wanted on a warrant issued by a federal magistrate in Tyler.

Ryczek had worked for Harvester for 20 years but was fired Friday, said a company spokesman.

Ryczek said his attorney had advised him not to comment on the charges and Harvester officials declined further comment.

A Backpacking Trip Offered

The Greenville Recreation and Parks Department will offer a backpacking trip on the Appalachian Trail and French Broad River at a point near Hot Springs Oct. 16-19.

The cost of the trip, including transportation from Greenville and meals, and all equipment except shoes, clothing and toiletries, is $65 per person. An additional $10-15 should cover other expenses. Minimum age for participation is 18.

The trip is geared to beginning and novice backpackers, and will include presentations on camping skills, equipment selection and packing, ecological awareness and rafting skills. The schedule calls for setting out on the trail on Saturday Oct. 16, with hiking and camping on the trail Saturday and Sunday, rafting on the French Broad on Monday, and return to Greenville on Tuesday.

Anyone interested in the trip who wants additional information may call Bill Twine, 752-4137, extension 201.

Few Complain Of Bus-Driving

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — The telephone hotline for reporting poor driving by Charlotte-Mecklenburg school-bus drivers hasn't been used as much as school officials expected.

During the first school week, the number for reporting poor driving averaged about 10 calls a day with at least half about something other than the bus drivers.

The number was placed on buses in a campaign to involve the public in school-bus safety. Of the system's 215 bus accidents last year, 126 were caused by drivers.

RADIO GUEST
City Manager Gail Meeks announced that the guest on the city's radio program, "City Hall Notes," this week will be Charles Vincent of the Recreation and Parks Department. Vincent will discuss the fall recreation program.

"City Hall Notes" is aired each Tuesday and Thursday at 6:30 p.m. on WOOW Radio.

'Cruising' Is Part Of Goshen, Indiana Tradition

By DEBORAH ZABARENKO
Associated Press Writer

GOSHEN, Ind. (AP) — As the late summer sun sets in this quiet Midwestern town, a surge of adolescent energy steals over Main Street. The grown-ups take off, the teen-agers come out and engines start revving to the beat of punk, disco and country swing.

It's cruising season in Goshen, a town of 19,000 which has played reluctant host to "hundreds, maybe thousands" of cruising teen-agers each summer weekend for the last four decades, according to the city's police chief DeVoe Stoner.

"I think you get cruising in most any town, but we get 'em from at least a 100-mile radius," said Stoner, a Goshen native and 20-year police veteran. "Kids think it's neat here, that's all ... It's the American's love affair with the car."

Neat is a good description of Goshen's Main Street, which is also Indiana 15 and U.S. 33 for the five-block stretch that turns into a parking lot every Friday and Saturday night. The picture-perfect facades of Snyder's Men's Store, Noble's Shoestore, Olympia Candy Co. and the county courthouse typify a town proud of its prosperity and safety.

"The stores used to stay open on Saturday night," Stoner said. "Now people won't go down there to shop. A lot of local people are afraid of those kids, hooting and hollering and yelling obscenities. It's like they had just taken over the street."

Lori Ralston, 18, has made the 10-mile drive from her home in Elkhart almost every weekend for the last year.

"It's really fun," she said. "We've met so many new people. You don't have to worry about anything, except maybe the price of gas."

"It keeps me out of trouble," said Greg Jones, 20, of Goshen. "The mall over here closes at 9, and after that I just drive around and meet new friends."

There's no obvious draw for teen-agers to come to Goshen now, but Mayor Max Chiddister said that good burgers and cheap Cokes were the original lure that brought cruising to Goshen just after World War II.

"Many of the kids who are cruising today, their parents did it or their grandparents," Chiddister said. "We had a drive-in, Bowers' Drive-In, and that little restaurant just turned out nickel Cokes and the best hamburgers and shakes."

Bowers' popularity clogged its keyhole-shaped parking lot, and those who wanted to sample Bowers' treats usually drove out of the parking lot and made a few loops down Main Street and behind the courthouse while they munched.

The old drive-in is now a fast-food franchise with a drive-thru window and space to sit and eat inside, but the pattern is set and the cruising continues.

"We try to deal with it every year, usually unsuccessfully," Chiddister said. This year, the Goshen Board of Works instituted a parking ban on weekend nights to keep teen-agers from loitering in their cars near the sidewalks.

The ban has kept parked cars to a minimum, but local merchants still complain about litter, abusive language, urination around storefronts and vandalism to shop signs.

The police chief admits that, as urban problems go, Goshen's cruising isn't much of a threat.

"We have crime, but knock wood, we haven't had an armed robbery in over a year. There's drugs, it's like anywhere else, we're not perfect by far," Stoner said. "It's a quiet town."

Why would kids come from miles around, from Illinois,

"They always used to say 'there's nothing to do here,'" Mullett said. "Cruising was just something to do."

Local merchants loathe the cruisers, but other adults figure adults figure it's a harmless enough way for young people to let off steam.

Flame-painted vans and pickup trucks roll through town, windows down and tape decks blaring. Standard equipment on the pickups appears to include two or more halter-clad girls standing in the truck bed, holding on to the roll-bar and waving like Rose Bowl queens.

Jaguars, Lincolns and Cadillacs make the five-block circuit without attracting a glance. Envious eyes follow a well-preserved '58 Chevy with a blue-and-white paint job and checked fur interior. The air is ripe with catcalls and liquid cheer.

"The stores used to stay open on Saturday night," Stoner said. "Now people won't go down there to shop. A lot of local people are afraid of those kids, hooting and hollering and yelling obscenities. It's like they had just taken over the street."

Has Way To 'Sell' Prunes

NEW YORK (UPI) — One school food service supervisor has found a way to sell prunes to students. She puts them on the salad bar and calls them Texas raisins.

Dan Thornton, marketing director for the California Prune Advisory Board, told the story in a speech to food reporters in New York City recently.

Thornton said he'd heard the story from the supervisor at the annual meeting in Denver of the American School Foodservice Association.

Prune consumption has grown about 10 percent a year for the past two years, after five years of declining sales, he said.

For a while prunes were the forgotten fruit.

Thornton said a focus group of 18 women ages 25-49 told the board they hadn't thought about or bought prunes for years.

He said other market research indicated large numbers of young consumers had never tasted the dried fruit.

The 1982 harvest, which ends about mid-September, is expected to yield about 135 million tons, but the total crop available will be 220,000 tons, he said because of a carryover from 1981.

CRUISERS — In the quiet town of Goshen in northeast Indiana, when the sun sets, hundreds of cruisers fill the five blocks of Main Street with every type of transportation possible. For several generations cruising has been popular in the city of 19,000. (AP Laserphoto)

Big Frustration In Supermarket

NEW YORK (UPI) — A new survey on working women indicates their major frustration in shopping occurs in supermarkets.

They dislike it because checking out can take as long or longer than product selection. At the end of a day's or a week's work, such unproductive waiting is infuriating, they told researchers for The Langer Report.

They also get angry because they must shop at busy times when extra check-out lines are not open and "the good, fresh produce" has been picked over.

The fifth such qualitative report by Judith Langer Associates, Inc., of New York City, looked at working women's priorities. The findings are based on East Coast focus groups and individual, in-depth telephone interviews with women in the Midwest, the South and the West Coast. Respondents ranged in age from 21-66, worked full-time and earned $8,000-$100,000 annually.

ASSETS ABROAD
JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — U.S. assets abroad increased from $50 billion in 1952 to more than $600 billion in 1980, J. Tylee Wilson, president of R.J. Reynolds Industries, recently told businessmen here.

Larger Crop For Grape Industry

FRESNO, Calif. (UPI) — The California table grape industry is forecasting an even larger crop this year than originally projected.

The estimated 39 million lugs of table grapes, 10 percent more than the 1981 crop, are starting to move to markets now, says Virgil Rasmussen, chairman of the California Table Grape Commission.

Rasmussen says the increase is due largely to more summer varieties — Thompson and Flame Seedless varieties. He says the quality is superior, high in sugar and with large bunches.

City-County...

However, he said there are three methods to bring about a consolidation of school districts — "a vote of the people... the Legislature... or the two boards of education (agreeing to a plan of merger)."

Commissioner Charles Gaskins then suggested that the "City (Council) could request the county board (of education) to consolidate."

"The city would surely endorse a merger," Shinn responded. He also said, "We've got a pretty good city school board and they are ready to do business."

County Manager Reginald Gray outlined for council members the efforts made by commissioners since 1952 to improve the school situation in the county and to bring about a unification of the two school systems.

Gray noted that the board of commissioners over the years has succeeded in moving from 15 school tax districts to one county-wide tax levy for current expense and capital outlay needs.

He also cited efforts by the county on several occasions to have the two boards of education develop a plan of unification.

Gray noted that when the first attempts toward consolidation were made, the county school board was in favor of merger, while the city board was opposed. Latest efforts, he said, have found the city board receptive and the county board unwilling.

"We were doing the only thing we can do," Cox said, "asking for coterminous boundaries. It's the only way we knew to go."

"You've got to convince the county board (of education)," Burney Tucker, chairman of the board of commissioners, replied.

Members of the council then suggested that they would adopt a resolution endorsing unification of the two school districts.

Commissioners and council members agreed to meet with members of the Tar River Port Commission to inform them of their plans to do away with the port group and to hold a public hearing on the matter before asking the General Assembly to repeal the act establishing the commission.

The two governing boards also tentatively agreed to divide the cash equally between the city and county, and to divide the jointly owned property on Port Terminal road — the site of the old port — between the two governments.

If given final approval, the county would become the sole owner of the eastern end of the property, which includes the site of the new solid waste container site, while the city would become sole owner of the western portion of the property, which includes the site of the N.C. Wildlife Commission boat ramp and the Pitt County Law Enforcement Association club house.

It was noted that the long-term leases for the boat ramp and the law enforcement group's club house will be honored if the property is divided.

Will Press Suit Despite Opinion

WILSON, N.C. (AP) — Eight local black residents say they're proceeding with a lawsuit against Wilson County's system for electing county commissioners even though the federal government has upheld the system.

County Manager Garry Mercer and County Attorney George Weaver said Tuesday the U.S. Justice Department had approved three changes in the election policy. Wilson is one of 40 North Carolina counties covered by the 1965 Voting Rights Act that must have changes in election procedures approved by the department.

But commissioners, without the required approval, implemented the changes in 1965, 1967 and 1976 that moved the county from a district election system to an at-large system.

In April a group of eight Wilson County black men, represented by Wilson attorney G.K. Butterfield and Charlotte attorney Leslie J. Winner, filed a lawsuit in federal court seeking an injunction to stop any commissioner election until the Justice Department made a ruling.

The plaintiffs claimed the current elections system in Wilson County discriminates against minority voters and candidates by diluting minority voting strength.

A statement released by the group Tuesday said the plaintiffs were disappointed by approval of the changes.

"Our attorneys met with officials from the Justice Department on Sept. 1 and they were optimistic that at least one of the changes would be objected to," the statement said.

"It is our sincere hope that Wilson County will avoid this expensive litigation and voluntarily change the method of election so as to give minorities and others who are denied representation on the board of county commissioners a fair chance to get elected," the statement said.

Butterfield said the lawsuit would proceed, but he was unsure whether the injunction would be included.

Butterfield noted that no black has been elected to the commissioners' board in Wilson County "in modern history" although 36.4 percent of its population is black. He wants the county to revert to its system of electing commissioners by districts rather than at large.

"That's by far the fairest means of electing candidates to public office," said Butterfield. "At-large elections, in most instances, have the effect of denying to minorities full participation."

In late February, Butterfield discovered the 1976 change had never received the required federal approval. Then county attorney Weaver found that the 1965 and 1967 changes were never approved.

State Elections Director Alex Brock said he would ask the N.C. Board of Elections to set in motion an emergency plan so Wilson County could hold a primary for commissioners in the November general election. A general election for commissioners would be held Feb. 13.

Brock said he didn't expect any problems with those dates.

Eleven Democrats — four incumbents and seven challengers — would vie for four seats on the board in the primary.

Wallace Faces Runoff In Ala. Primary

By MIKE SILVERMAN
Associated Press Writer
Alabama Democrats forced former Gov. George C. Wallace into a runoff with the lieutenant governor in his bid for a record fourth term, but the one-time segregationist said he was ready for a tough fight and pledged to serve "the average citizen of both races."

congressman L.A. "Skip" Bafalis, who drew campaign support from Vice President George Bush, to face Democratic Gov. Bob Graham in November.

In the Republican contest to oppose Florida's Democratic Sen. Lawton Chiles — targeted as vulnerable by the Republican National Committee — state Sen. Van Poole was forced into an Oct. 5 runoff against Palm Beach County Prosecutor David Budworth.

denied party backing because she is Jewish, lost to Julie Tashjian.

In Alabama, with 74 percent of 4,114 precincts counted, Wallace had 316,138 votes or 41.2 percent; Lt. Gov. George McMillan had 232,716 votes or 30.3 percent; House Speaker Joe McCorquodale had 197,299 votes or 25.7 percent, and former Gov. James E. "Big Jim" Folsom and retired attorney Reuben McKinley divided the remainder.

made a midnight appearance at a Montgomery motel.

Wallace, first elected in 1962 as a violent foe of integration, told his supporters that "When I was governor, I was governor of the average citizen of both races," and said he would play the same role again.

"We're going to have to fight to win the runoff and we're going to have to fight to win in November," said Wallace, who is paralyzed below the waist from a 1972 assassination attempt and who has seemed to most observers to lack the fire he brought to previous campaigns.

Homestead businessman, had 86,626 votes or 10 percent; and Bob Kunst, self-styled spokesman for Florida homosexuals, had 57,138 votes or 6 percent.

Bafalis drew 236,710 votes or 86 percent, to 46,395 votes or 14 percent for lawyer Vernon Davids.

In the Republican Senate race, Poole had 142,035 votes or 42 percent; Budworth had 106,482 votes or 31 percent, and George Snyder, a Sarasota businessman and former Maryland state senate president had 90,778 votes or 27 percent.

104,428 votes or 85 percent, but Steve Jancek, who died last month, drew 17,839 votes or 14 percent.

Corbet took the GOP primary with 72,023 votes or 62 percent to 43,390 votes or 37 percent for Glendale auto dealer Evan Mecham.

Connecticut's gubernatorial and senate candidates were decided in party conventions. Democrat William O'Neill, who took office on the death of Ella Grasso and is seeking his first full term, will face Republican Lewis Rome, a former state senator, in November.

Beaches Are Reopened

By The Associated Press
Beaches on North Carolina's Outer Banks opened Tuesday, after dangerous conditions forced their closings over the Labor Day weekend.

"Nags Head and Southern Shores have their open today," said Mary Moore, spokeswoman for the Kill Devil Hills Police Department. "Kill Devil Hills' beaches are open if you want to use them."

Arizona Republicans nominated state Rep. Pete Dunn to oppose Democratic Sen. Dennis DeConcini, and state Senate President Leo Corbett to take on Gov. Bruce Babbitt. DeConcini had token opposition, and Babbitt's only rival was a dead man whose name stayed on the ballot — and who still managed to poll 14 percent of the vote.

Although the 63-year-old Wallace failed to get the majority that would have avoided a runoff, he drew surprising support among blacks, who make up 25 percent of Alabama's population. Wallace led McMillan, a 38-year-old moderate who had key black endorsements, in Macon and Lowndes counties, both of which have predominantly black populations.

The winner of the runoff will compete in November against Montgomery Mayor Emory Folmar, a hard-line conservative who seeks to be Alabama's first Republican governor this century. The incumbent governor, Democrat Fob James, did not run for a second term.

In Florida, Graham easily overcame two rivals in the Democratic primary. With 96 percent of the vote in, the incumbent had 765,681 votes or 84 percent; Fred Kuhn, a Republican, will be opposed by Democratic Rep. Toby Moffett.

However, Moore said Kill Devil Hills' lifeguard service ended Monday and that people using those waters should be extremely careful.

Connecticut's only statewide primary was an unprecedented Democratic battle for the secretary of state nomination. Patricia Hendel, who claimed she was

"I've never won an easy campaign in my life ... because I have stood against special moneyed interests of this state," Wallace told 300 cheering campaign workers as he and his wife, Lisa,

Dunn, a moderate backed by most party regulars, had 65,770 votes or 56 percent of the total, to defeat Dean Sellers, a conservative Mesa real estate developer, with 49,392 votes or 43 percent.

In the gubernatorial primaries, Babbitt had

Rescue workers in North Carolina, for the second time in two days, flew a victim of a near-drowning to a Tidewater hospital for treatment.

FOCUS

International Literacy Day

Approximately half the world's people cannot read or write a simple sentence in any language. Even in the U.S., about 20 million adults cannot read or write well enough to fill out a simple form. These frightening statistics led the U.N. to declare September 8 International Literacy Day, a day to recognize the value of reading and writing and the dangers of illiteracy. In recent years the illiteracy rate has dropped in most nations. In some developing countries like Bhutan less than 2% of the population can read and write. But in others, like Egypt and Nigeria, literacy has doubled since 1960. Since 1965, when the U.N. held its first Congress on Illiteracy, worldwide spending for education has risen 286%.

DO YOU KNOW — Which nation has the smallest percentage of illiterate citizens?

TUESDAY'S ANSWER — Rocky Marciano was the only heavyweight champion to retire undefeated.

NEW YORK (AP) - The stock market declined slightly in active trading today, continuing the pullback that began on Tuesday.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, off 10.85 on Tuesday, slipped another 2.03 to 912.25 in the first half hour today.

Losers took a 5-3 lead over gainers in the early tally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Analysts said there didn't appear to be any specific news behind the market's downturn.

They said a spell of selling was to be expected after the runaway rally of late August and early September that produced a gain of 148 points in the Dow Jones industrial average on record trading volume.

Brokers generally believed the next important test for the market would be the amount of support it could attract on any new attempt to advance.

Today's early prices included Warner Communications, up 3/4 at 38 3/4; Citicorp, up 3/4 at 24 1/2; Exxon, down 1/4 at 28 3/4; and Beacore Foods, down 1/4 at 20 1/2.

On Tuesday, the over-all tally on the NYSE showed five declines for every three stocks that rose.

Big Board volume totaled 68.96 million shares, about half the 130.91 million traded Friday.

The NYSE's composite index fell 70 to 69.56. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was off 3.59 at 281.49.

Woman Credited With Foiling Arsonists' Plot

LEWISTON, N.C. (AP) - Police say they were able to solve the case of state Sen. J.J. "Monk" Harrington's torched warehouses with the help of a woman who didn't mind her own business.

The woman, who asked not to be identified, reported the license number of a pickup truck she saw in the vicinity of the warehouses shortly before they went up in flames.

Rep. Ron Taylor, D-Bladen, Franklin Bridgers of Clarkton and Sandy White Jr., also of Clarkton, were charged with conspiracy to burn and burning in connection with the fires.

Taylor pleaded guilty Aug. 30 and Bridgers pleaded guilty in June. White has not been tried. A fourth defendant, Howard Watts Sr. of Clarkton, was indicted Aug. 30.

Law enforcement officials say information learned in the Harrington investigation may help solve other warehouse fires, including fires at warehouses owned by Lt. Gov. Jimmy Green.

The woman said she was walking her dog on the evening of April 23.

"I walked behind the business (Harrington Manufacturing Co.) and down the railroad track beside the warehouses and a bit on the highway," she said.

The woman, a school-teacher, saw the truck and thought it looked suspicious. As it circled the buildings, she memorized the license plate number.

"It seemed to me they were awfully nosy. I thought they could be security guards. They went slowly past the gates, but they didn't get out to check the lock. I checked the lock as I went by."

Once home, she said she told her husband and wrote down the license plate number. Several hours later the warehouses were ablaze.

The couple gave the tag number to a company official, who passed the information along to Bertie County Sheriff Edward Daniels.

Highway patrol troopers stopped the truck and its occupants near Elizabethtown, about 150 miles southwest of Lewiston. In the back of the truck, authorities said, were wire cutters, dirty clothes and the scent of gasoline. On the front seat were papers from a lawsuit Taylor's family business had lost to Harrington Manufacturing.

Officers questioned and released the occupants, but kept the items in the truck. Indictments followed on May 3.

"It's tough," the woman said. "They came to the wrong community. Other people could have seen them, particularly in broad daylight. The town is very protective."

See Full Operation After Plant's Fire

WASHINGTON - National Spinning Co., which lost four of its employees in a fire at the plant Tuesday, moved toward resuming full operations today as investigators sought clues to the cause of the early morning blaze.

Henry H. (Buster) Humphreys, vice president of manufacturing at the plant, said that most of the clean-up operations were handled in the 24 hours following the fire and a full production schedule at the plant should be achieved by tonight.

Terry Woolard, an employee in the dyed craft yarn winding section who was injured, remained in the intensive care unit at Pitt Memorial Hospital in Greenville today. Four of his co-workers died when they were overcome by smoke while attempting to extinguish the fire.

Humphreys said that National Spinning will "leave no stone unturned" in its efforts to find the cause of the fire, which was contained to a 40-foot by 70-foot area of the yarn crafts section. He said that the fire department and insurance authorities will investigate and the plant will also bring in investigators.

"We want to know" what caused the fire, Humphreys said.

The spokesman said that it "will take some time" to establish a figure on actual damages but he said that, from a structural standpoint, only about 3,000 square feet of ceiling will have to be replaced. No damage resulted to equipment in the plant, which is one of three in the National Spinning Co. complex on West Third Street here, he said.

The fire was spotted by employees shortly after midnight and most of the 150 workers in the section were evacuated. Humphreys said the victims, all residents of the Washington area, were overcome by a "sudden burst" of smoke.

TIME CHANGED

The Greenville Recreation and Parks Department has announced a time change for the initial class of the American Red Cross course in basic canoeing. The first class, at the Memorial Gym Pool, will meet from 8 to 9 p.m. instead of from 6 to 7:30 p.m. as originally announced.

EXTENDED WEATHER OUTLOOK FOR N.C.

Emory: Don't Judge Pirates On One Game

By WOODY PEELE Reflector Sports Editor The biggest worry East Carolina football coach Ed Emory has about Saturday night's game against N.C. State isn't actually related to the play of his Pirates. "I know that this football team will be a good one. But so many people are going to judge us on our first game. I don't think the Clemson fans judged them on the results of the Georgia game, but it concerns me that so many of our people are going to judge us by how we do against State," Emory said. The Pirates and Wolfpack collide on Saturday at 7 p.m. in Raleigh's Carter-Finley Stadium. For the Pirates it will be the opening game of the season. For State it will be the second game. They opened against Furman last Saturday, taking a 27-0 victory. Emory said that he feels no "special pressures" on him as he begins his third season as coach of the Pirates — a tenure that has had some fans crying for his head. "I'm going to do my best. That's all I can do." Emory said that in addition to being worried about how the fans judge the Pirates, he's also concerned about having to travel seven times this year. "I want our kids to have an equal chance to win, and having to do so much traveling isn't going to help us. It's a disadvantage. "I might give out, but I won't give up," he promised. "And I expect that of my kids. They are getting ready for a season, not just one game. We've made progress over the past three years and I can see that. "Job security is the worst thing in the world. The tenure rule is the worst thing that's happened to high school football, for instance. There are a lot of burned out coaches holding down teaching jobs while a lot of good, young coaches are still hunting for jobs. I'm sure that (job security is) not worrying Monte (Kiffin, State's coach) or me. I think we're doing the things that get the job done.

"The only thing bad about it is that you may be able to see the corner to be turned just ahead, and you might not be around when that corner is turned. It's frustrating not to be able to see the job finished." Right now, however, the job is to get the 1982 season off on Saturday night, and Emory feels that the Pirates are ready, despite a rash of injuries that his hit the club up the middle. He's missing a number of tailbacks, centers, nose guards and linebackers. "But the situation is much better than the past two seasons," Emory said. "We have a more positive approach to the season. "The last two years, I probably made some terrible mistakes. I knew we didn't have the talent to win in 1980 and I tried to make it successful with morale. In 1981, I think we had the material to win six games, and we only won five of them. We tried to steal a win here and there, but it's hard to steal a win and still be consistent." This year, the Pirate coaching staff made some tough decisions, Emory said. "We decided to do it one way and that's the way we're going to do it. Winning is not always winning and losing is not always losing. You have to get better as you go along." Emory said that East Carolina probably has the best people it's ever had, with the most character "of any team I've been associated with." "These people care, they are committed. They are people we can trust to do the things that we want them to do. I've been very disappointed if we do not compete in all 11 games this year." Emory said that there have been some players who have dropped by the wayside because they were unwilling to commit themselves and follow the rules set up by the team. "Some of them had great potential, but you don't win on potential. The 66 we carry to Raleigh are committed to what we believe it takes to win."

A-G Opens ECC Schedule; Vikes Face Panthers

By RICK SCOPPE Reflector Sports Writer Ayden-Grifton, displaying a more versatile offensive attack than it had a year ago when it tied for the ECC championship, embarks on its 1982 Eastern Carolina Conference schedule this week. The Chargers, who rang up 338 yards total offense — 249 running and 89 passing — en route to a 27-7 win over Roanoke last week, entertain Farmville Central in its ECC opener Friday night. "This is a very important game, very important," A-G coach Dixon Sauls said. "Farmville is not only a conference game but is a county rival. We should have every reason to be highly motivated to play." The Chargers (1-0) enter their ECC opener off an impressive victory over the Redskins. Sophomore tailback Kelvin Harris sparked the offense, rushing for 132 yards and two touchdowns in his first varsity game. Fullback Jarvis Koonce, a senior, added 79 yards rushing and one score. Senior Joey Kennedy, in his first start at quarterback, hit eight of 15 passes for 89 yards and one TD. "I was surprised that we played so well on both offense and defense," Sauls said. "I was very pleased with the effort we got." Defensively, the Chargers held Roanoke to 133 yards total offense, led by the linebacker duo of Chuck Smithwick and Koonce. It is a performance Sauls would like repeated this week. "I expect a very physical game," Sauls said. "Farmville is a very difficult team to play because of the variety of things they can do." Ayden-Grifton beat its three county rivals last season, and the Chargers would like little more than to sweep the trio again in '82 — beginning with Farmville Central. "There's a sense of pride you get beating your county rivals," Sauls said. "You like to be the best in your neighborhood. "But we need to make sure we play it one game at a time," he added. "It is an important game, but not critical to our season. No one game is critical at this point in the season." In another game featuring two county teams facing off, North Pitt (1-1-0) goes to D.H. Conley (0-2-0) in a non-conference battle. Also Friday, Greene Central (0-0-2) plays host to North Lenoir (0-1-0). Roanoke (1-1-0) is at Washington (1-0-0) to open its Northeastern Conference schedule while Williamston (1-1-0) does likewise when it travels to Plymouth (1-0-1). Jamesville (1-0, 1-1-0) travels to Chocowinity for its second Tobacco Belt Conference game. In games last week, SouthWest Edgecombe outscored D.H. Conley, 39-22, Clinton defeated Farmville Central, 25-6, Greene Central tied Wilson Beddingfield, 0-0, and North Pitt defeated North Edgecombe, 29-6. Also last week, West Northampton edged Williamston, 20-12, and Jamesville beat Columbia, 20-6. North Pitt A year ago Mitchell Cox rushed for 102 yards and two

Loss To Shriver Ruins Dream Of Grand Slam

NEW YORK (AP) — Martina Navratilova's dream of a tennis Grand Slam lies in ruins, smashed to bits by her doubles partner, Pam Shriver, and an ailment called toxoplasmosis. Navratilova, playing the hottest hand in tennis with victories in 68 of 69 matches, came up short against Shriver in the U.S. Open, losing 1-6, 7-6 (7-5), 6-2 in an emotional, pulsating quarterfinal. Then the two women turned the center court at the National Tennis Center over to a pair of old adversaries, Jimmy Connors and Ilie Nastase. Connors prevailed 6-3, 6-3, 6-4 and Nastase wound up with a $1,000 fine for his night's work. In the quarters, Connors goes against Rodney Harmon, a 6-4, 4-6, 6-3, 3-6, 7-6 (7-1) upset winner over eighth-seeded Eliot Teltscher. The other men's quarterfinal matches Argentina's Guillermo Vilas against Tom Gullikson. Both advanced Tuesday, Vilas recovering

Philadelphia Signs Ex-Pirate Valentine

A Staff Report Former East Carolina defensive star Zack Valentine signed this morning with the Philadelphia Eagles for the 1982 NFL football season. Valentine, drafted four seasons ago by the Pittsburgh Steelers, saw part-time action on the Steelers as a linebacker, but was traded last Tuesday to the Baltimore Colts. However, when he reported Wednesday afternoon, he was told by the Colts that he had been placed on waivers for not reporting on time. Valentine later said he had been given no specific time to report. "They told him he had been cut, but it was a couple of days before they put him on the waiver line," Ken Hutcherson, Valentine's agent said. "He became a free agent, and had offers from Philadelphia, Buffalo and New England, along with several Canadian League teams before signing with the Eagles." Hutcherson said that the Eagles had been trying to work a trade for Valentine with the Steelers before the sudden trade to Baltimore last week. "They were surprised by the trade, but

Crum To Utilize Bryant In Many Ways Vs. Pitt

By The Associated Press

North Carolina will get the most mileage it can out of senior tailback Kelvin Bryant when the Tar Heels face Pittsburgh Thursday night, according to Coach Dick Crum.

"We're not going up there just to run the ball," Crum said Tuesday. "I don't know that there's a team in the country good enough to do that."

Crum told reporters he expects Bryant to become an all-purpose back.

"We're going to try to involve Kelvin in all aspects of the game and utilize him as more than just a runner," he said.

The figures that Pittsburgh's defense posted in 1981, apparently are enough to make Crum figure that the best way to attack is to diversify. The Panthers were first against the rush, allowing 62.4 yards per game, and were the stingiest defense overall, giving opponents almost 225 yards per game.

"They are a team that, if they can, will intimidate you," Crum added.

Bryant has been held out of contact drills for the past several days because of a foot injury sustained in practice. Crum said Bryant hasn't shown any signs of favoring the injury and should be ready for the 9:09 p.m. kickoff.

Of utmost concern to the fifth-year head coach is the Pitt offense, led by quarterback Dan Marino, the school's candidate for the Heisman Trophy. But Crum is also worried about Pitt's running attack, which features Bryan Thomas.

"A lot of people fail to pay attention to the fact that Bryan Thomas is a 1,000-yard rusher. He did not start every ballgame and he did not have 100 yards in every game that he started," he said.

For his part, new Pittsburgh coach Foge Fazio is hoping history won't repeat itself Thursday night.

If Fazio's Panthers are to keep their No. 1 ranking, he'll have to improve on the first-game records of Jackie Sherrill and Johnny Majors, who are among the most successful football coaches in the university's history.

Sherrill, who left Pitt earlier this year after three successive 11-1 seasons to become coach of Texas A&M, lost his first game in 1977, when Pitt was beaten by Notre Dame 19-9.

Majors coached Pitt to the national championship in 1976, but in his first game as coach in 1973, the Panthers were tied by Georgia 7-7.

That 1977 Notre Dame-Pitt game was on national television — as will be the Panthers' opener against fifth-ranked North Carolina Thursday night at Three Rivers Stadium.

The 43-year-old Fazio, who was Sherrill's defensive coordinator, acknowledged that playing the Tar Heels, including their star running back Kelvin Bryant, "scares me to death."

But while there is always extra pressure on the top-ranked college team in the nation, Fazio said it's not necessarily a bad feeling to be considered the best at what you do.

"I'm even acting like a No. 1 coach," he said. "I may even wear a yellow jacket on the sidelines." Sherrill's trademark at Pitt was the yellow sport coat he wore during games.

The Panthers are as deserving of the No. 1 status as any other team, because the pre-season rankings are more a reflection of the previous season than anything else, Fazio said.

Pitt was 11-1 and ranked fourth last season after defeating Georgia 24-20 in the Sugar Bowl on a last-minute touchdown pass from star quarterback Dan Marino to tight end John Brown.

Eighteen starters will return, including Marino, star receivers Julius Dawkins and Dwight Collins, safety Tom Flynn and offensive tackles Jimbo Covert and Bill Fralic.

Probably the most interesting aspect of Thursday's 9 p.m. game will be the duel between Pitt's defense and Bryant, who scored 15 touchdowns in his first three games in 1981 before suffering a knee injury.

The Panthers had the nation's top-ranked defense in 1981, while Carolina had the 11th best offense and was ranked eighth in rushing.

"They are outstanding on offense," said Pitt assistant coach Bob Davie.

Pitt practiced Monday and Tuesday at Pitt Stadium and were to hold a light workout today. The Tar Heels were scheduled to arrive today, but do not plan a workout before the game.

match went on." Navratilova said. "I couldn't run for the ball, or if I could, I couldn't do anything when I got there. It got worse as the match went on."

When Shriver forced the second set to a tie-breaker and then won it 7-5, Navratilova knew she was in trouble.

"My strength was just seeping away from me in the second set," she said. "I was thinking that if this match goes three sets, I am in trouble."

Navratilova has had only 13 three-set matches all year and has lost only 14 sets of tennis since December. That's why Shriver had to be a longshot. But the 20-year-old from Lutherville, Md., believed she could do well against her doubles partner.

"I had a feeling even after getting blown out in the first set," she said. "I kept saying to myself, 'Today's my day.'"

Navratilova's Grand Slam bid began last December in Australia and continued through impressive victories in the French Open and then Wimbledon. She had won 12 of 13 tournaments this year and was working on a 41-match winning streak when Shriver pulled her surprise. A victory in the Open would have earned her an additional $500,000 as part of a $1 million purse offered by Playtex for four victories on four different surfaces.

"The money was the last thing to enter my mind," she said. "This is the U.S. Open (a tournament she has never won) and it will hang over my head for another year."

The match between Connors and Nastase started off on a raucous note when the Romanian was warned for verbal abuse of umpire Don Wiley of Redobursts.

When Wiley tried to suspend play in the first set because of a shower, Nastase threw a towel at the umpire and defiantly took the court, virtually forcing play to continue.

Orioles Capture 10th Straight

By The Associated Press

As the Baltimore Orioles charge towards the top of the American League East, they may find an unexpected obstacle in their way: Don Sutton.

Sutton, who won 254 games in the National League during 15 years with the Dodgers and just less than two with Houston, joined the Milwaukee Brewers last week. The trade began to pay dividends for the East leaders Tuesday night as Sutton threw a seven-hitter and struck out nine in shutting out Detroit 4-0.

The victory kept the Brewers three games in front of streaking Baltimore in the AL East. The Orioles won their 10th straight game and 17th in 18 with a 7-2 decision over the New York Yankees.

"I wasn't as nervous tonight as I was the other night against Cleveland," said the 37-year-old Sutton, who was obtained for three minor leaguers on Aug. 30. "The fact that it was cool and I had a couple of fast innings helped. I only threw 110 or 112 pitches. When you can stay out of 20 or 25-pitch innings, it helps."

So did a three-run homer by Cecil Cooper in the eighth, and having Ted Simmons behind the plate, calling pitches for him.

"I've read the box scores long enough to know that the Brewers score runs," Sutton said. "My job was just to keep them close to give them a chance to do what they do best: score runs."

Simmons aided greatly in that chore.

"I think I have the advantage over the hitters over here because I have Ted Simmons as a catcher," Sutton said. "Ted has seen me in the National League a long time, and he knows how I pitch and what I do. I have all the confidence in the world in him and pretty much follow what he calls."

"The curve ball has been my third or fourth pitch the last few years, but tonight it was my first or second," he said. "Ted forced me to use it more than I may have wanted, but he was one step ahead of the hitters."

The victory enabled the Brewers to stay a few steps in front of the opposition, most notably Baltimore, which hasn't lost since Aug. 27. The only other East challenger, the Boston Red Sox, lost 5-4 in 10 innings to Cleveland.

Orioles 7, Yankees 2
Mike Flanagan won his fifth straight game and John Lowenstein hit his 22nd homer to pace the Orioles.

"A month ago we weren't sure of ourselves," said Flanagan, who combined with reliever Tippy Martinez to subdue the Yankees. "Now things are finally coming together. Now we're steamrolling."

"Our pitchers are finally doing what we felt they were capable of doing and we can't run them out there fast enough," Manager Earl Weaver said. "All of them are doing well. That's what we missed the early part of the year."

"We always seem to come around at this time. We can't explain why we play so poorly in April and it's hard to explain why we play so well in September. Winning is contagious, though. When you're winning, you get the bloop hits, you get the bounces."

Indians 5, Red Sox 4

Alan Bannister's bases-loaded single with two outs in the 10th won it for Cleveland, which tied the game with two outs in the ninth on Toby Harrah's RBI single. The Indians rally came off Red Sox relief ace Mark Clear.

With one out in the 10th, Miguel Dilone doubled. Rick Manning was walked intentionally and pinch-hitter Mike Hargrove walked to load the bases. Bill Naborodny hit a check-swing grounder to third baseman Carney Lansford who forced Dilone at the plate for the second out. But Bannister followed with his single down the left-field line.

Jim Rice and Dwight Evans homered for Boston. Carl Yastrzemski doubled following Rice's homer in the seventh, tying him with Jimmy Foxx and Ted Williams for ninth place on the all-time list for extra-base hits with 1,117.

Mariners 5, Royals 2

Bruce Bochte and Richie Zisk clouted two-run homers, Mike Moore threw a six-hitter for eight innings and Bill Caudill fanned the side in the ninth to earn his 24th save.

White Sox 7, Angels 4

Chicago edged within 4 1/2 games of the Royals in the West as Tony Bernazard had three hits — including a homer. Left-hander Tommy John made his first start in Anaheim since being acquired from the Yankees but was knocked out by a pair of drives off his right leg in the third inning. Chicago lefty Britt Burns made his third start since being disabled with a sore shoulder but had to leave after a recurrence of the injury in the fifth.

Blue Jays 2, A's 1

Lloyd Moseby's run-scoring single with one out in the eighth provided the decisive run. Jim Clancy, 3-0 against the A's this season, scattered six hits before yielding to Dale Murray with one out in the ninth. Murray registered his seventh save.

Twins 8, Rangers 1

Randy Bush and Kent Hrbek homered to spark a five-run fifth and Gary Ward had four hits for Minnesota. Hrbek homered for the third time in three games against Texas this week, while Bush got his second homer in as many games.

A. Christian Captures P-P

Arthur Christian came from six strokes behind after one round to edge Salem Methodist by two strokes in the opening match of the Fall Church League last night at the Greenville Putt-Putt.

Wesleyan, which came in third, was topped by Phil Martin with a 70.

Boyer Recalled As A Battler

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Ken Boyer, recognized as one of the best third basemen in St. Louis Cardinals history, had an ability to make baseball look easy although teammates and friends prefer to remember him as a battler.

Boyer continued to battle through the last eleven months, when he knew he had lung cancer and was probably not going to beat it.

Boyer gave in to the disease Tuesday and died at the age of 51.

"On the field everything came so easily for him that he appeared to be a casual player," said Bing Devine, Cardinal general manager during Boyer's playing days. "He was quite unassuming...he was a somber, sober player and, because of that, he didn't get much attention."

"He was a real battler, not a showman like some players today," said former Cardinal manager Red Schoendienst. "Kenny said yesterday (Monday) that he believed he could come back from this. He went down fighting."

Boyer, who managed the Cardinals for more than two seasons, played more than 2,000 games in his 15-year playing career, which included stints with three other teams.

He was a lifetime .287 hitter, a seven-time All-Star, and five times the Gold Glove Winner for third basemen.

August A. Busch Jr., president of the Cardinals, said Tuesday: "Ken Boyer gave the Cardinals and the baseball fans of St. Louis many great moments to remember, and we will remember him with admiration and respect."

Schoendienst called Boyer a "hard-nosed player who made 'em look easy in the field."

"He didn't get the recognition he deserved until 1964," said Schoendienst, who regularly visited Boyer in his last weeks of life.

they are happy to have him now." Hutcherson said that Valentine had been awarded the number he wore at Pittsburgh, 54.

The trade leaves the Pirates with five former players active in the NFL ranks. Rookie Tootie Robbins has made great progress with the St. Louis Cardinals and is expected to be a starter this weekend as the regular season opens. Another rookie George Crump, with the Patriots, is expected to see a lot of playing time and has been pushing for a starting job.

Two other veterans, Tony Collins, who started last season for the Patriots as a rookie, appears solid as one of that team's running backs, while Sam Harrell, a three-year veteran with Minnesota, will see reserve duty with the Vikings.

Reggie Pinkney, a veteran of several NFL clubs over the past few years, was cut Monday by the Colts.

Palmer, Smith Receive Honors

NEW YORK (AP) — The American League's "Pitcher of the Month" for August, Jim Palmer, of the Baltimore Orioles, pitched two complete game shutouts last week and was named "Player of the Week" in the American League.

Lonnie Smith of the St. Louis Cardinals has been named National League Player of the Week.

touchdowns as North Pitt beat D.H. Conley, 13-6. A year later Cox has changed uniforms and that worries North Pitt coach B.T. Chappell.
"I think he has the advantage," Chappell said. "He'll know who he can run over and who he can run around. To me, it's to their (the Vikings) advantage. He knows all of us and we only know one of them."
Cox, who gained over 100 yards in his first four games last year before being injured, transferred to Conley in the off-season, giving the North Pitt-Conley game added significance.

"I think with the added aspect of Mitchell it's a big game for us," Chappell said. "The big thing is the rivalry between the two schools. I think it's the highlight of the season so far."
The Panthers come into the game off a 29-6 win over North Edgecombe before SouthWest poured it on in the fourth quarter.

North Pitt ran up 284 yards total offense — 211 rushing. Running back Dennis Bradley led the attack with 110 yards and three TDs.
"Dennis is just such an outstanding back," Chappell said, "that he sort of makes his own blocking."
Chappell was pleased with his team's overall effort last week, but pointed out a number of areas it must work on — starting with penalties. The Panthers have been penalized 225 yards in two games — 155 of those yards coming last week against North Edgecombe.

"That's a big problem," Chappell said. "We're averaging over 100 yards in penalties and you can't win doing that. About three people are making the majority of those penalties, and two of them are new people."
Chappell is also concerned with the play of his defensive backs. "We did an excellent job up front (on defense) but we're not getting the kind of support on the corners we need."

D.H. Conley
D.H. Conley coach Gerald Garner is looking for a few good men — 11 men to be exact.
After seeing his defense surrender 304 yards rushing to SouthWest Edgecombe, Garner decided changes were needed on defense.
"We are completely re-vamping our defense," Garner said. "Right now we have eight defensive positions open. We just had a total lack of effort on defense Friday night."
"It was just a matter of us not hitting people. It was a very hard thing to take. We're looking for 11 aggressive people who want to play football and who want to hit."

"We're going to have some new faces on defense," Garner said. "Who they'll be, though, I can't say right now."
The changes come as the Vikings prepare to meet county rival North Pitt. The Vikings have not beaten North Pitt in four years.
"We enter what everybody likes to call the 'Pitt County Championship,'" he said. "It's not a must game but it is important."
The game takes on added interest because DHC tailback Mitchell Cox will be playing his old teammates. Cox, one of the top runners in the ECC a year ago before being injured, transferred from North Pitt to D.H. Conley in the off-season.

Asked if he agreed with North Pitt coach B.T. Chappell that Cox gives Conley an advantage, Garner said: "No way. I know this game means a lot to Mitchell but it's not a grudge match."
The Panthers come into the game off a victory, which, Garner said, gives them an advantage. "They've got a lot of momentum, and they always like to beat Conley anyway."
Garner said to win the Vikings must first stop tailback Dennis Bradley, who rushed for 110 yards and three TDs last week.
"There's no question that we have to contain Bradley," Garner said. "Our defense is totaled but we've got to get a maximum effort from our line (on defense). We've got some holes that needed to be plugged."

Farmville Central
His Jaguars winless after two games, Farmville Central coach Gilbert Carroll feels Friday's game against Ayden-Grifton is critical.
"We've got to win," Carroll said about his team's opening conference game. "I feel like a fighter backed into a corner who's either got to fight his way out...or have his lights put out."
"I don't like losing," Carroll said. "I feel like I'm backed into a corner and I hope the kids kind of feel that way, too."
In the Chargers, the Jaguars face the second straight foe that is considered among the best in the East. Clinton, year-in and year-out among the top teams in the East, defeated Farmville, 25-6, last week.
"Any team that was the Eastern runner-up last year and (returns most of its players), you know they're loaded," Carroll said. "I wish they had to play Clinton last week, though."
"Their schedule is a patsy compared to mine. They've got an easy road to hoe after this week," Carroll said. "We hope to give them a good ballgame. (If we don't beat them) they shouldn't lose another game until they play SouthWest (in the season finale)."

The Jaguars go into the game having held their own against Clinton for three quarters before giving up two fourth-period scores. "They just wore us down," Carroll said. "I'm encouraged by our kid's effort but I'm a little discouraged about the situation with our personnel."
Carroll said he has lost four starters since practice began to either sickness or injury, transfer or discipline. Another two or three players may miss this week's game. He would not name the players.
Asked what a victory over the Chargers would mean, Carroll said: "I would mean I would sleep eight hours without tossing and turning. My wife would be very happy."
"Really, though, I know it would be a great thing to the kids."

Baker Leads Dodgers By Reds, Into First In West

By The Associated Press
As Dusty Baker goes, so go the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Baker drilled a two-run homer and two-run double Tuesday night as the Dodgers downed the Cincinnati Reds 8-4 and reclaimed first place in the National League West.

The Los Angeles victory, coupled with Atlanta's 3-2 loss to the San Francisco Giants, put the Dodgers one-half game ahead of the Braves.

"When I hit, it makes things easier," Baker said. "We hadn't scored many runs in the last 15 games, but things work right when I hit. I'm not solely responsible, but I am for a big part of it."

Baker's double keyed a five-run third inning as the Dodgers erased a 3-0 Cincinnati lead. A short time later, Baker and his Los Angeles teammates saw the Atlanta loss posted on the scoreboard.

"I glance up at the scoreboard once in awhile," Baker said. "Tonight, I was rooting for San Francisco."

"They call the game hardball in Atlanta, and that's what we will be playing," Baker said.

The Dodgers, who beaten Atlanta nine times in a row this season, plan to throw Bob Welch and Fernando Valenzuela against the Braves, who will go with veteran Phil Niekro tonight.

"We got things set up going into Atlanta with the lead," said Los Angeles Manager Tom Lasorda. "That makes a big difference. It's nice to pick up three games in three days."

Giants 3, Braves 2
San Francisco won its fifth in a row and pulled within 5½ games of the NL West lead as Chili Davis opened the game with a homer and Reggie Smith added a two-run blast in the fourth.

It was the Giants' seventh straight victory over Atlanta in little over a month. Jim Barr, 4-3, got eighth-inning help from Greg Minton, who recorded his 26th save.

Dale Murphy cracked his 33rd homer for Atlanta, tying him with New York's Dave Kingman for the league lead. The homer boosted Murphy's league-leading RBI total to 100.

Expos 7, Cardinals 4
Montreal had only six hits, but those included two-run homers by Tim Wallach and Andre Dawson.

The loss reduced St. Louis lead in the NL East to one-half game over Philadelphia and 3½ games over both Montreal and Pittsburgh.

Montreal snapped a 3-3 tie in the fifth by scoring two runs without a hit. Three walks loaded the bases and one run scored on a wild pitch by Jim Kaat, while the other scored on Al Oliver's groundout.

Phillies 7, Cubs 5
Garry Maddox singled in two runs with two outs in the ninth inning for the Phillies.

Maddox had doubled and scored on a run-scoring single by pinch-hitter Greg Gross to give Philadelphia a 5-4 lead in the eighth. But Leon Durham's 20th homer of the season tied it for Chicago in the bottom of the inning.

Mike Schmidt cracked his 31st homer for the Phillies and Tug McGraw, 3-3, pitched the final two innings for the victory.

Pirates 9, Mets 5
Jason Thompson, who became a father earlier in the day, became only the eighth player to hit 30 home runs in a season in both leagues.

Thompson, who hit 31 homers for Detroit in 1977, hammered his 30th homer in the first inning, a two-run blow, and had an RBI single in the eighth.

Mike Easler and Richie Hebner also homered for the Pirates.

Mookie Wilson had four hits for the Mets.

Astros 4, Padres 3
Frank DiPino, acquired by Houston from Milwaukee in the Don Sutton deal last week, made an impressive major league debut by striking out 10 in five innings while getting the win.

He struck out the first four hitters he faced, and allowed seven hits and no walks. Dan Boone pitched four innings of one-hit relief for his second save.

Dickie Thon knocked in two Houston runs with a double and single.

Rose Opens Net Season With Victory

The Greenville Rose girl's tennis team opened the 1982 season yesterday with a 7-2 win over Wilson Hunt in a Big East Conference match.

The match was tied at 2-2 after the first four singles matches, but Rose came on to win the final two singles matches and all three doubles matches to win the match.

Rose travels to Northeastern Thursday.

Summary:

Pauline Bearden (R) d. Suzanne Stott 6-3, 6-4.

TARBORO — Tarboro High School gained an 8-1 tennis victory over the Roanoke High School girls yesterday.

It was the second straight loss for the Squaws, who opened with a 9-0 loss to Washington last week.

The lone Roanoke victory came in the number two singles where Janet Clark recorded a split-set win.

Roanoke plays host to Plymouth on Thursday.

Summary:

Sharon Dawson (T) d. Mary Bland, 6-4, 6-1.

DeBrito NASL Rookie Of Year

NEW YORK (AP) — Forward Pedro DeBrito of the Tampa Bay Rowdies, a named North American Soccer League Rookie of the Year for 1982.

DeBrito, 23, played in 28 of Tampa Bay's 32 league games during the season, finishing with two goals and four assists for eight points. One of his assists was on a game-winning goal over Fort Lauderdale on May 5.

DeBrito, an American citizen born in the Cape Verdean Islands, is the second player in two years to win rookie honors as a graduate of the University of Connecticut. Last year, Connecticut graduate Joe Morrone Jr., now of the San Jose Earthquakes, was the NASL rookie.

CRYPTOQUIP 9-8

JLV OATRKO OGWLVC'W WKXV OAWL:
 OATRXVWW OVGJLVC

Yesterday's Cryptoquip — CAN COLORBLIND LOVER-BOY BE GREEN WITH ANGER, RED WITH ENVY?

Today's Cryptoquip clue: O equals W.

The Cryptoquip is a simple substitution cipher in which each letter used stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words, and words using an apostrophe can give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is accomplished by trial and error.

Big Advantage In Mess Halls

WASHINGTON (AP) — In at least one important military area — the mess hall — the U.S. Army has an undisputed advantage over the Soviet Union, Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., says.

Aspin released a statement Monday that referred to articles in the Soviet Military Medical Journal, which blame cooks' dirty hands for spreading hepatitis and dysentery among the Soviet troops.

In one such article, the Wisconsin congressman said, Soviet military commanders are warned: "It is impermissible to allow dipping of hands in disinfectant solution to substitute for handwashing' before kitchen duties in mess halls."

"Staphylococcus infections are also apparently common," Aspin said, because in the articles "... commanders are warned against assigning soldiers with infections of the skin and subcutaneous cysts to kitchen chores."

reasons for hepatitis and dysentery epidemics "show just how grim life in the Soviet army can be," said Aspin, a close follower of military affairs.

ENERGY USE UP
 NEW YORK (AP) — Industrial energy consumption in Alaska has increased 121 percent since the 1973 oil embargo.

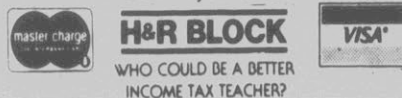

This is the highest percentage increase in the nation, according to Honeywell's Energy Management Information Center.

South Dakota follows Alaska with an 84 percent increase in industrial energy use, and Oklahoma shows a 60 percent increase over the same period.

YOUR DAILY
 Horoscope
 from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: State your views in a precise manner for best results at this time. A day to organize your activities well so you can make a great deal of progress in the days ahead.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Avoid an argument with one who thinks differently from you. Go to influential persons for the backing you need.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You can see clearly now how to put your current affairs in order. Avoid one who is a troublemaker. Be more optimistic.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) An associate could be difficult if you antagonize this person. Cement better relations instead. Think along constructive lines.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Try to be more objective and you can advance in career activities. Come to a better understanding with an opponent.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) A talent you have can be best expressed in the afternoon. Study the work ahead of you and clear up your thinking.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You could be confused in the morning, so wait until later in the day before coming to any important decisions. Use your wisdom.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Obtain the true facts and figures before going ahead with a plan you have in mind. Take no risks with your reputation.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Don't part with your money in the daytime or there could be deception of some kind. Avoid one who brags too much.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) The planets are favorable for making progress now in career activities. Know what higherups expect of you.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You may want to make some changes now, but study them well first, otherwise you could regret it later.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Go over any statements carefully, since there are likely to be some mistakes at this time. Make precise plans.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Sidestep a co-worker who is out of sorts in the morning. Make new contacts or worth to add to present roster.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will be one with many talents, and the ability to formulate a plan and then execute it to a successful conclusion. Give as comprehensive an education as you can in order to achieve the greatest results.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

The bidding:
 West North East South
 1 ♠ Pass Pass 3 ♥
 3 ♣ 4 ♥ Pass Pass
 Pass
 Opening lead: King of ♠.

The rarest of all squeezes is the "squeeze in one suit." This example, which appeared in the 1969 Italian Championship, is credited to Pietro Forquet, regarded by many as the greatest bridge player of his time.

The bidding is self-explanatory. However, North's decision to bid four hearts can be attributed only to the faith he had in his partner's dummy play.

West led the king of clubs and continued with the ace. Declarer ruffed and drew three rounds of trumps. His first problem was what to discard from the table. Most players would sluff a black card just in case they could score North's fourth diamond, and then they would have to concede defeat. But Forquet discarded the seven of diamonds. He used dummy's ace and queen of diamonds to ruff two clubs, reducing the hand to this position:

NORTH

Declarer now cashed the king of diamonds, and West found that he was squeezed in spades. If he discarded a low spade, declarer would lead a low spade. West would be forced to win the jack, and then he would have to concede the fulfilling trick to declarer's spade king. So West parted with his jack of spades.

Forquet had a brilliant rejoinder—he exited with the king of spades! West could win the ace and queen, but then was forced to concede the tenth trick to the seven of spades that declarer had preserved so carefully in dummy with his discard at trick four!

How do you choose the best opening lead? Charles Goren has the answer. For a copy of "Winning Opening Leads," send $1.85 to "Goren-Leads," care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 259, Norwood, N.J. 07648. Make checks payable to Newspaperbooks.

Book About Victims Is Paying Off

By VERN ANDERSON
Associated Press Writer
SUN VALLEY, Idaho (AP)
— In the seven years it took Gary Kinder to complete his first book, he courted poverty in this haven of the wealthy while his more prosperous friends acquired luxury cars.

But Kinder's long labor to produce a portrait of a Utah family scarred by torture and killing finally has ended with publication of "Victim: The Other Side of Murder."

At an end, too, is Kinder's life as an impoverished writer. The film rights alone went for six figures, although he won't name the numbers.

"For a long time people who knew me said I was taking too long to write this book," said Kinder, 35, who came here after graduation from a Florida law school. He worked nights as a busboy, bartender and bellman, anything to keep his days free to write.

"You have to understand that during that seven years I watched all of my friends become prosperous attorneys who literally were driving Mercedes' in downtown Miami," said Kinder, a Fort Lauderdale native. Still, he never seriously considered abandoning the book.

"A lot of the reason it took so long was that I was a novice," Kinder said. Another reason was a somewhat belated decision to focus his book on a survivor of the grisly Hi-Fi Shop murders rather than on the convicted killers.

Cortney Naisbitt was a 16-year-old high school sophomore in 1974 when he, his mother and three others were herded into the basement of the Hi-Fi Shop in Ogden, Utah, forced to drink a caustic drain cleaner and shot in the head.

Three of the victims — including Naisbitt's mother and an 18-year-old girl who was raped — died of their wounds.

One of the survivors had a ballpoint pen kicked in his ear as he played dead on the basement floor. The other, Naisbitt, hovered near death for months and had to have his ruined esophagus replaced with a section of his bowel.

Pierre Dale Selby and William Andrews, airmen at Hill Air Force Base, were convicted and sentenced to death but have received several stays of execution.

"Over the years I decided the real story was with the victims," said Kinder, who nevertheless exchanged more than 200 letters with Selby and interviewed him numerous times at Utah State Prison.

They had a falling out in 1980 when Kinder — who traveled twice to Selby's native Trinidad to research his background — refused to sign over 10 percent of the proceeds from the book.

But long before that, Dr. Byron H. Naisbitt, Cortney's father, had become upset at hearing Kinder was writing a book about Selby. He summoned the writer to a face-to-face meeting, where Kinder convinced him of the need for victims of crime to tell their story. The obstetrician finally consented.

"Any writer would assume the victims would not want to talk about it," Kinder said. But he hadn't reckoned on Dr. Naisbitt, who ultimately emerged as the book's central figure.

"He's a very charismatic man," Kinder said. "He is a hero. Intelligent people swore that he actually willed his son to live."

Last January, after the elder Naisbitt had read the finished manuscript, he and the author sat together in the doctor's office. The moment was charged with emotion.

"I told him I wanted to set up a trust fund for Cortney," based on a percentage of the book and film rights, Kinder recalls. "It was the most touching moment of my life, I think. He said, 'I really honestly, sincerely appreciate that,' and he accented every word."

Cortney Naisbitt, now 24, works with computers at Hill Air Force Base and considers his father his best friend. He retained no memory of the night of mayhem and learned the details only this year when he pored over Kinder's manuscript.

The author's efforts to market his book rivaled those at his typewriter.

Colonizers Welcomed By Angola

By BARRY SHLACHTER
Associated Press Writer
LUANDA, Angola (AP) —
The Portuguese are being welcomed back to Angola as bitter memories of nearly 500 years of colonial rule fade.

Portugal's 1975 decree granting independence to Angola — in the midst of a civil war — took the 500,000 colonists here at the time by surprise.

Most Portuguese packed up their movable belongings and left. Cars, taxis, trucks and buses were shipped out or driven to neighboring countries.

Some, reacting in frenzied anger, wrecked whatever they couldn't take — from telephone exchanges to bathroom fixtures. Factory machinery was tossed into the sea.

By far the most valuable asset the Portuguese departed with was their skills. They left behind 6.5 million Angolans, 90 percent of them illiterate, and pitifully little development.

After seven years of self-rule, one of the biggest problems still facing this resource-rich but troubled southwest African country is the critical shortage of technically competent manpower.

For a variety of reasons, Portuguese are now being recruited by Angola's Marxist regime to help fill the gap.

Portuguese Embassy officials said they could give no figure of Portuguese employed in Angola because many arrive for brief periods or work on rotation, returning home every few weeks. About 11,000 are registered with the embassy but the figure might not reflect the community's actual size, they said.

However, other observers said hundreds are believed coming each month.

Portuguese specialists have been imported to un-snarl port congestion, straighten out accounts at government ministries, manage nationalized hotels and prospect for diamonds. About 650 work in the diamond fields in northern Angola near the border with Zaire.

"We are the best for Angola because we have been here for centuries, understand the people and know the country," said Rogério Rolao, 50, chief of operations at an oil drilling site in Soyo, 220 miles north of Luanda, the capital.

"The people have forgotten whether our colonization was good or bad," he added. "It's a new country with no really trained staff. It will take time to train them but things have to be done now."

The Marxist Popular Movement for the Liberation of Angola secured its control of the government in 1975 after independence with the help of Soviet and East German military advisers and an estimated 20,000 Cuban troops.

Defeated was Holden Roberto's National Front for the Liberation of Angola. Another group, Dr. Jonas Savimbi's National Union for the Total Liberation, continues to fight on.

The advisers and troops are still here, and Luanda has turned to the Soviet bloc for assistance in the farm and fishery sectors.

But the Angolans now are looking to the West for other expertise, either because they are already deeply in debt to the Soviet bloc or because Eastern Europe can't provide what is needed, Western diplomats say.

The Portuguese, they say, not only have access to Western technology but their language is spoken here and they are willing to work for salaries about half what Americans would demand.

Resentment against Portugal is disappearing fast, one Portuguese official said.

"But we have to take into consideration that there are people who for personal reasons still harbor a grudge," he added. "It's quite natural."

He said that claims on millions of dollars' worth of property left behind by departing Portuguese have been shelved for the time being.

"Relations with this country are too important to wrangle about things of the past," said the official, who declined to be identified.

A Star Vehicle In 'Happy Days'

BROADWAY DEBUT — Peggy Lee, having done everything else in a singing career laden with honors, has announced she will make her debut in a Broadway musical called "Peg". The show, a production of Zev Bufman and Irv Cowan, will be fully staged with a cast of 22 and a multimillion-dollar budget. (AP Laserphoto)

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Arthur Fonzarelli, one of the most eligible skirt-chasers on television, will have his wings clipped on "Happy Days" this season. Ironically, the same actress who played little Richie Cunningham's girl friend eight years ago will become the Toast of Milwaukee as Fonzie's steady lady.

Love won't bloom immediately Sept. 28, when the ABC hit begins its 10th season. "She'll turn off to him at first," says casting director Bobby Hoffman.

What happens is that Fonzie (Henry Winkler) is smitten by a divorced mother and follows her home. "Mom, there's a hood out here to meet you," is the way the daughter puts it. Mom is Linda Purl, who made an impression in ABC's forgettable "Manions of America" miniseries last season. Daughter is Heather O'Rourke, the little girl in "Poltergeist."

Miss Purl, who was on the stage in Ibsen's "Doll House" recently, won the coveted role over some 400 actresses.

"We also strongly considered Mary Crosby (the woman who shot J.R.)," says Hoffman. "But she was tied up."

If the sultry Miss Crosby were selected, the role would have been played differently than with the tiny Miss Purl. "We were looking for the qualities of strength and femininity combined," says Hoffman.

Miss Purl will definitely not play a greaser. Hoffman says oil and oil didn't mix in 1976, when Pinky Tuscardoro (Roz Kelly), the sexy motorcycle queen, didn't offer enough contrast to Fonzie. "They were competing with each other. The chemistry didn't work," he says.

For the daughter's role, Hoffman considered another Steven Spielberg sensation, Drew Barrymore, the spunky sister in "E.T." "Her agent said Miss Barrymore doesn't do episodic television," says Hoffman.

There are those in Hollywood who are surprised that the respected Miss Purl chose to get involved with weekly situation comedy. But peer recognition isn't everything. It's not easy to pass up national popularity, and "Happy Days" is one of the best stardom vehicles around.

Winkler himself was a tapped-out actor from the Yale School of Drama when he got the Fonzie role, a supporting part that he turned into cult hero with solid acting, comic timing and some classic idiosyncrasies.

Other famous "Happy Days" alumni include Robin Williams of "Mork and Mindy," Penny Marshall and Cindy Williams of "Laverne and Shirley," Cheryl Ladd of "Charlie's Angels," Jeff Conaway of "Taxi" and Morgan Fairchild of "Flamingo Road."

David Keith ("Officer and a Gentleman") once beat out Timothy Hutton ("Ordinary People") for a "Happy Days" part. "Hutton was too cute," remembers Hoffman.

Finding talent is a talent, but it takes a little luck, too. When Hoffman was searching for "a hot number," there was Miss Fairchild sitting in the studio audience. Another actor was lined up for Mork's guest spot on "Happy Days," but he pulled out, saying the role was too silly. Somebody then remembered a quirky comedian named Robin Williams from The Comedy Store.

Acting or comedic talent aren't necessarily prerequisites, though.

Before long, he was laughing about his inability to pronounce the last name of tennis star Martina Navratilova. Then he got into a coarse exchange with a black sportscaster about "Uncle Tom."

There also were a lot of chuckles, fast talking and muffed lines.

After the final story, a "That's Incredible"-type piece on a man who pulls weights with his teeth, Snyder grinned and said: "You've got to be kidding."

Then he closed the broadcast by beginning to call his new employer NBC.

"I almost said the other letters," he said.

All in all, it was not the best way to convince skeptics that Snyder is a serious journalist, perhaps on the road back to a network news job.

Tom Snyder Didn't Benefit Anchor Role

NEW YORK (AP) — If Tom Snyder hopes to re-establish his news credentials, it doesn't look as if he's come to the right place.

Snyder, a former NBC newsman and host for eight years on the late-night "Tomorrow" show, began his tenure Tuesday night as sole anchor on New York television station WABC's 11 p.m. newscast.

However, "Eyewitness News" degenerated into a series of cheap jokes, guffaws and some local news stories Tuesday night. National and international news was virtually ignored.

With a straight face and a serious tone, Snyder introduced the program's lead story about an abandoned pet store that contained dead mice, gerbils and snakes.

Sale ends Sept. 18

*In accordance with U.S. Dept. of Energy Test Procedures, the operating cost was calculated on the basis of 64.3 gallons per day of hot water usage by a family of 4 with 90° F. temp. rise, with gas rate of 47.6¢ per therm and electricity rate of 5.6¢ per kilowatt hour (U.S. government 1981 national average cost figures). Savings were calculated by subtracting the operating cost of our 40-gal. Power Miser 5 gas and 52-gal. electric models from the cost of operating our standard 40-gal. gas and 52-gal. electric water heaters. Savings may be more or less depending on your hot water usage and local utility rates.

Hardee's BACON CHEESEBURGER

THE BURGER WITH THE SIZZLE IN THE MIDDLE.™

Hardee's Bacon Cheeseburger is as good as a burger gets! A whole quarter pound* of pure, juicy beef, melting mellow cheese, fresh tomato, crisp lettuce, creamy mayonnaise, and, smack in the middle of it all, sizzling, hickory-flavored bacon.

Now just imagine all that on a big, fresh-toasted bun. That has to be the tastiest burger in town!
