

City Council Okays Revision In Zoning

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer

The City Council breezed through a lengthy business agenda Thursday night, handling public hearings on a variety of requests and continuing several items until the next scheduled meeting.

A revised zoning classification addressing the R-6 residential section of the Zoning Ordinance gained unanimous approval, winding up over a year of work on the revised package by the city's planning staff, the Planning and Zoning Task Force, and the Greenville Planning & Zoning Commission.

According to the revised ordinance, the purposes of the R-6 district "shall be to allow for a variety of residential uses, including single-family, duplex, and multi-family residences, and such other uses that will not interfere with the development of residences in the district and which would not be detrimental to the quiet, residential nature of the areas included within the district, and to prevent the development of blight and slum conditions."

Nine permitted uses are stipulated in the ordinance, including single-family dwelling, two-family dwelling (duplex), multifamily dwellings, family care home, accessory structures and uses, church, elementary or secondary school (subject to setback, loading and buffer stipulations), temporary or identification sign, and municipal government building, use, or facility.

Special uses addressed include: cemetery, day-care facilities for children, kindergartens; care homes, not otherwise permitted; boarding house or rooming house; home occupation; fraternity or sorority; non-municipal park or recreation facility; multifamily dwellings at a land use intensity rating of 50; retirement homes and related uses; public agency, building or use; and principal use sign.

The revised ordinance was endorsed by John Anema, president of the Tar River Neighborhood Association, which is made up of some 150 families who reside north of the university. Anema said the ordinance adds "long overdue restraints" to the city's zoning classification.

The spokesman said that, at present, the goals of the existing R-6 zone are not being met.

President Is Pressing His Veto Battle

By CLIFF HAAS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan, disappointed that the House overrode his veto of a $14.2 billion spending bill, is vowing to stand firm against any congressional "attempt to bust the budget."

"I promised to curb spending and maintain the national defense and I'm going to keep my promises," Reagan said Thursday after the House handed him his first major reversal on an economic measure.

The Senate was voting today on whether to override the veto. If two-thirds reject the veto, the money bill will become law. Otherwise, Reagan's veto will be sustained and a new bill will have to be written.

"I'm hopeful with regard to the Senate tomorrow," Reagan said Thursday night while traveling in Utah. Deputy White House press secretary Larry Speakes predicted the Senate vote "will be very close."

It was expected to be so close that Sen. Orrin Hatch, on whose behalf Reagan was campaigning in Utah, was planning to return to Washington. Hatch described a conversation with Reagan in a hotel room Thursday night: "He said, 'Orrin, I'd really appreciate it if you'd go back,' and I said I'll be glad to," Hatch said.

Following the 301-117 House tally Thursday — 22 more than the necessary two-thirds — a surprised Senate Majority Leader Howard H. Baker Jr., R-Tenn., said the outcome in his chamber was "uncertain."

Baker, who spoke with the president several times during the night, sounded grimmer today. He told reporters he thought there would be a substantial GOP vote to override the veto in the Senate.

Baker said he doubted the veto can be sustained without some Democratic votes, but he refused to concede defeat. "It is by no means lost at this point," he said.

Increased Gas Rates Awaited

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Natural gas rates are expected to increase in North Carolina this winter, but the amount depends on pending actions by the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, officials say.

The Public Staff of the N.C. Utilities Commission estimates the average bill will rise about $3 a month for customers of the state's three major gas companies. The average customer uses about 8 dekatherms of gas a month.

All three gas suppliers — Public Service Co. of North Carolina, Piedmont Natural Gas and N.C. Natural Gas Corp. — receive their gas from Transcontinental Gas Pipeline Co.

Transco has requested a reduction in its Sept. 1 price increase of 52 cents a dekatherm. The increase boosted typical residential bills for Public Service customers by $4.18 a month. But the reduction would lower the increase to 18 cents a dekatherm, or $1.44 a month on the average Public Service bill.

H. Jack Knox, a spokesman for Public Service, said a decision on the request was expected this month. If the rate is lowered, state customers will get a small refund, Knox added.

In a second case, Transco has asked for a general rate increase of 42.5 cents a dekatherm, which would add $3.41 to the average residential bill. But Knox said the FERC would not be likely to grant the full amount.

He estimated that the combined effect of lowering the rates that began Sept. 1 and a partial general rate increase would push bills up by $4.50 to $5.50 a month. That would push the average bill for a Public Service residential customer from $46.51 in August to $51 or $52.

Marine Peacekeepers In Beirut Head Home Again

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — With the country song "On The Road Again" blaring through the ship's loudspeakers, the last of 900 U.S. Marines left today aboard a troopship from the port they had guarded during the PLO evacuation of this war-riddled Lebanese capital.

United States and French diplomats watched from dockside as the Marines from Fox Company marched two-by-two aboard the USS Manitowoc, their combat boots thudding on the iron ramp lowered from the ship's bow.

From a crane-like structure supporting the ramp, a huge banner declaring "Mission Accomplished — Farewell" hung between American and Lebanese flags.

The last of the Marines who had guarded the port area along with Lebanese army forces left on schedule as the Manitowoc pulled from the dock at 8 a.m. (2 a.m. EDT) Both U.S. Ambassador Robert J. Dillon and the Col. James M. Mead, said they were "very proud" of the job the troops had done. Also at dockside was French Ambassador Paul-Marc Henry.

But when Dillon was asked about the politics of the 32nd Amphibious Marine Task Force's departure, he said only, "I don't think dockside is the place to discuss that."

Mead said he felt "an awakening of hope" with the departure of the last of the Palestine Liberation Organization guerrillas on Sept. 1.

"We could see in the eyes of the Lebanese people a sense of hope," Mead said.

Private College Officials Asking For An Increase In State Funds

By WILLIAM M. WELCH
Associated Press Writer
CHAPEL HILL, N.C. —

Private college officials today asked for an increase in state aid to North Carolina private college students of $175 a year for the next two years.

If approved, the request by the North Carolina Association of Independent Colleges and Universities would raise state aid to $1,025 a year in 1983-84 for each North Carolina undergraduate enrolled in a private college in the state.

In 1984-85, the aid would be raised to $1,200 per student.

John Henley, president of the association, and Fred Bentley, president of Mars Hill College, formally presented the request to the University of North Carolina Board of Governors, which referred it to a committee without comment.

By state law, the Board of Governors recommends a level of private college aid to the Advisory Budget Commission and General Assembly, although both of those bodies may approve more than what the public university system wants the private colleges to receive.

"We think it's very realistic," said Henley, a former Democratic state senator from Cumberland County. "It's badly needed to help close the tuition gap that exists between public and private colleges."

The request amounts to a reduction in the earlier goal of the private college association to have state aid equal 50 percent of the amount it figures North Carolina taxpayers spend for each student enrolled in the University of North Carolina system.

If approved, the latest request would put aid to the private colleges at 26 percent and then 29 percent of the amount spent for each public university student.

"Given the depressed state of the economy, sluggish state revenues and the strain upon state government due to actions at the federal level, the association is reducing its request for the 1983-85 biennium, despite having made no progress toward its goal in 1981-83," Bentley said.

In the last two-year budget period, the aid to private colleges was increased $50 per year, to the current level of $850.

The aid is provided in two programs. One program earmarks $200 per student and is divided according to need. The second program provides a direct grant intended to offset the higher cost of private college tuition to each North Carolina student enrolled in one of those colleges.

The amount of money going into the program based on need has never been increased since it was established in 1971, and the latest request would continue it at that level. The private colleges have asked for the entire increase to again come in the second program, called the "Legislative Tuition Grant."

If the private colleges' request is approved, the state would spend $23.5 million in the first year and $27.5 million in the second year.

MISCOMMUNICATION ON NUMBER DUE

I am upset because my son and other members of the Babe Ruth and Prep leagues sold tumblers and were promised athletic bags and jackets last spring and have not received them yet. Part of the prize material has come in, but some of the bags are still missing. It's been a long delay and I feel that the boys are disillusioned. H.W.

Hotline talked to the local representative of NASCO Inc. and he checked back with his company and then talked to the person with whom he dealt in your group. The prize order has been filled, he and that person determined. The agreement was that the company would provide a bag for each 12 sets of tumblers sold; a jacket for each 24 sold. A boy selling 36 would receive both. Apparently you understood that a boy selling 24 would receive both. There were 2,076 sets of tumblers sold and 55 jackets and 63 bags delivered, so the agreement was kept by the company, it appears.

Dear Abby

Lawyer Can Give Answer

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1982 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: I own some rental property in a rather rundown part of town. I am always afraid that I'll be sued by some drunk who happens to fall on my property. Would I be protected against a lawsuit if I put up a sign saying, "Not Responsible for Injuries Received on My Property"?

PROPERTY OWNER

DEAR OWNER: Merely putting up a sign will not relieve you from liability. You may say one thing, and the law may say something else. Consult your lawyer and an insurance agent to be adequately protected.

DEAR ABBY: The mother of Bill, a teen-age boy, wrote that when ever a certain girl called asking for Bill, he would say, "Tell her I'm not home."

That certainly rang a bell with me. When I was a somewhat popular 16-year-old lad, a girl called, and my father answered the phone. It seems she very politely gave him her name and asked to talk to me.

I signaled my father to tell her I wasn't home, whereupon he covered the telephone so she couldn't hear, and firmly said to me, "If you don't want to talk to her, cut the conversation short, but don't ever ask me to lie for you—it's not manly!"

NOVA SCOTIA

DEAR ABBY: "Totally Frustrated" complained because her husband didn't like to kiss, fondle, caress or express any kind of affection; it was just "wham, bam, thank you, ma'am." She said she had talked to her priest, but he was no help at all.

My point is this: Priests are not qualified to give advice on marriage. I think this is the most convincing argument in favor of permitting Roman Catholic priests to marry. I hope the pope reads your column!

W.T. HEYER, ST. LOUIS, MO.

DEAR MR. HEYER: Although my column is published in the Rome Daily American, I think it's safe to assume that His Holiness is more familiar with the abbe than the Dear Abby column.

And insofar as having to experience something in order to treat it, it's not necessarily so. Future clergymen (and women) are trained today to provide expert counsel for every kind of human problem.

DEAR ABBY: I am very serious about a man and I think our relationship will lead to marriage. He likes women to be "natural," and a few years before I met him I had silicone implants in my breasts. They look very natural, and no one could tell I had anything done.

Should I tell him about it? If some one who knew me when I was flat were to tell him, he might resent the fact that I held out on him.

SOMETHING ADDED

DEAR SOMETHING: If he asks, tell him the truth, but you aren't obligated to account for any additions, subtractions or revisions that took place before he met you.

DEAR ABBY: Somebody wanted to know the difference between "having sex" and "making love." Your explanation was very good. Here's mine:

"Having sex" is stopping in the middle of a passionate moment to change the TV channel.

"Making love" is turning the TV off. Thank you very much.

Men, Too, Need Liberation

By MARCELLA S. KREITER

CHICAGO (UPI) — For every women's issue there's a men's issue and men need the protection of an Equal Rights Amendment just as much as women do, says Dan Logan.

Logan, 35, a Winnetka native, is executive director of Free Men, a Washington-based group working for equal rights. He is also a free-lance writer, photographer and former political speechwriter.

"Sexism has just as devastating an impact on men as women," Logan said in an interview. "We are hurt because women are hurt."

"If women can make only 59 percent (of what men earn in the business world), that hurts us, too. Men and women tend to pair up. There's the expectation that we should make 100 percent. That puts an unfair burden on us."

Logan, married but childless, said the impact on men of divorce and child custody, abortion and out of wedlock births never has been adequately assessed.

"Men have nothing to say about abortion," said Logan, who returned to the Chicago area because his father is ill. "I'm not saying a woman should not be able to control her body, but we should have something to say. Men should be able to choose parenthood as well."

"Then there's paternity leave. There practically is no such thing. Families have so little flexibility in child care as a result."

"Child custody — women win 95 percent of the time. That is clearly discriminatory. Judges believe women are better parents. It's a stereotype that hurts both men and women."

"Child support is enforced under the law. Visitation is not. The father becomes a visitor. He's no longer a father. Most men love their kids and it hurts."

Women who choose to give up custody of their children are treated like monsters, he added.

Logan said men have long been forced into the roles of provider and protector, while women have been forced into the position of homemakers.

"It is really a matter of stereotypes," he said. "We are limited just as women are limited. We need a full range of options."

"We are the only ones that get drafted. The majority of positions in the armed forces are desk jobs. Then there's the combat stereotype — men are strong. Many women would qualify for combat but they don't make the first cut and that first cut is arbitrary."

Logan said he worked for years for the passage of the ERA but after a while got the impression he was unwelcome at feminist gatherings.

"It's useful to have an enemy," Logan said. "But equal rights should not be a them-against-us situation. It's good for women and men for some of the same reasons."

Logan, who is working for reintroduction of the ERA in Congress, said people like Phyllis Schlafly, head of STOP ERA, orchestrated a campaign based on fear to defeat the amendment.

"I don't think she really understands it," he said. "All her talk about women should be homemakers — why doesn't she stay at home?"

"They say a dozen men defeated ERA. That's wrong. It was defeated by women."

The ratification deadline for ERA passed June 30. The last big push for the amendment, which fell three states short of ratification, was staged in Springfield, Ill.

Illinois House Speaker George Ryan refused to change the voting rules — a change that would have ensured passage by eliminating the requirement for a super-majority.

"Legislators are prone to flattery, not attacks," Logan said. "They need to be told, 'Look, it's in your interest.' What I'd like to see in the Illinois Legislature is a bunch of men go down there and bake pies for the legislators."

Logan said a coalition of men's and women's groups need to work together for passage of ERA. But before that can happen, men must abandon the notion that they don't need any protection.

"Men really have bought the radical feminist line that they have no reason to seek liberation, that they're on top," Logan said. "Women are more tuned into the issues than we are. We are taught to be strong and silent. We play that role extremely well. It is useful in the workplace. You don't want to cry when the boss bawls you out."

"The kids who are coming along are much more interested, but I don't know how long we are going to have to wait."

DINNER FARE
Pork Loin and Onions
Elbow Macaroni With Peas
Fruit Salad
PORK AND ONIONS

As served in the American Bounty Restaurant of the Culinary Institute of America, Hyde Park, N.Y.

2 to 2 1/2 pound boneless smoked pork loin (in one piece)
1 tablespoon butter
1 tablespoon cooking oil
3 cups sliced onions
2 cloves garlic, minced
12-ounce can beer
1 cup beef broth
2 tablespoons tomato paste
1 teaspoon black pepper
1 tablespoon cider vinegar
Cut pork in half crosswise.

In a heavy Dutch oven or pot that has an oven-proof cover, melt butter with oil; add pork and over medium heat brown on all sides — do not scorch. Remove meat. Add onion and garlic to pot and cook, stirring constantly, until soft. Add beer, broth, tomato paste, pepper and vinegar. Bring to a boil; simmer for 5 to 10 minutes. Add pork. Cover and braise in a preheated 350-degree oven, basting every 15 minutes, until pork is tender — about 1 1/2 hours. Slice pork 1/4-inch thick and serve with the sauce. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Daughter Fights Cancer And Parents Fight The Neighbors

By JAMES SIMON
Associated Press Writer
CARVER, Mass. (AP) —

The parents of a 22-year-old woman battling cancer thought they'd found the ideal hideaway for her: a 60-foot mobile home nestled in pine woods on their property.

But irate neighbors, saying the white trailer with red trim is an eyesore and would hurt property values, want to keep mobile homes in mobile home parks.

So Johnnie Whitaker and her 2-year-old daughter are still living with her parents and the mobile home is still empty, the focus of a battle in this rustic southeastern Massachusetts community that calls itself "Cranberry Land USA."

Jerry and Kathryn Whitaker wanted their daughter to live nearby after she underwent a cancer operation and radiation treatment. Doctors say she has a 50-50 chance of survival.

At first, officials approved the installation of the trailer on a two-acre lot in a sparsely settled section of Main Street, about a mile from the family house. The Whitakers spent $12,000 for the trailer and an equal amount on the land and preparation.

But after neighbors complained, officials reversed themselves in July and refused to allow Miss Whitaker and her child to move in.

"We were just two weeks away from occupancy — just two weeks away — when all this happened," Mrs. Whitaker said Wednesday, shaking her head in anger. "We cleared the land, built a foundation, had all the permits.

"Now we don't know what will happen," she said. "I really don't know my true feelings. I'm really bewildered by it all, by the reaction."

Several neighbors were concerned about property values in the area of cedar-shingled $60,000 homes about 15 miles north of Cape Cod.

"If I wanted to live in a mobile park I would have moved to one," George Cook said after the initial zoning board hearing Aug. 26. The town already contains 600 mobile homes in three large parks.

Irene Daniel, who owns a house next door, said the trailer "looks unsightly" compared to the other homes in the area.

"Our houses will be harder to sell," said Jean McGillicuddy, whose blue ranch-style home is within sight of the trailer.

But Mrs. McGillicuddy refused to comment further, saying some village residents have "threatened and harassed" her in the hope that she would stop complaining and allow the woman to stay.

"All they want is to provide a place for their daughter and grandchild, while the daughter was recuperating from a severe illness, and have her relatively conveniently nearby," said attorney Daniel Murray, who represents the Whitakers. "The emotional aspect of the case can be exploited, but we are not trying to do that."

"... I think there's an obvious bias against mobile homes in this area," he said. In 1980, Carver revised its zoning bylaws and does not restrict mobile homes to trailer parks, Murray said. While some village oficials disagreed, saying such a restriction was still in the bylaws, Timothy M. McGillicuddy, chairman of the town Planning Board and brother-in-law of Mrs. McGillicuddy, said in August the trailer was legal.

In an attempt to clarify the law, residents voted 175-9 at an Aug. 30 town meeting to prevent any new mobile homes being located outside of trailer parks.

Murray said the Whitakers would appeal to a Superior Court judge if the Zoning Commission rules against them.

David Boucher, chairman of the three-member zoning board, said that besides the 600 trailers in the village, hundreds of mobile homes are installed temporarily during the summer tourist season.

"There are a lot of people who feel we are already doing our part on mobile homes, that enough's enough," he said.

Convention Plans Set

Plans for the state meeting of the International Order of the King's Daughters and Sons were announced at the meeting of the Patient Circle Wednesday.

Mrs. Clara Shackell said the 92nd convention will be held Sept. 24-25 at the Sheraton-Crabtree Inn in Raleigh. Planning to attend from here are Mrs. Shackell, Annie Turner, Dr. Lois Stator, Polly Dail and Mrs. Ben Weaver.

Miss Turner, chairman of the Indian department, reported that a box of clothing had been mailed to the Morrow Indian School in Oklahoma. Mrs. Weaver said 142 pairs of used eyeglasses had been sent to New Eyes for the Needy.

Plans were discussed for the upcoming charity bazaar and several handmade items were shown.

Mrs. Tom Bartik was welcomed as a new member.

The meeting was conducted by Mrs. Shackell, president, and was held at the home of Miss Turner.

- 1 medium (about 4 ounces) onion, quartered and cut in thin strips
- 1 pound (4 six-inch long) zucchini, thinly sliced
- 1 medium or large green pepper, seeded and cut in thin strips
- 1 large rib celery, thinly sliced

Salt and pepper to taste
In a 10-inch skillet melt butter; add onion, zucchini, green pepper and celery; mix well. Cover and cook gently, stirring a few times, just until wilted — about 5 minutes. Add salt and pepper to taste. Makes 4 servings.

Buying Peppers

Some like them sweet, some like them hot. But no matter what your preference, peppers are popular.

Sweet peppers are usually bell-shaped and usually shipped to market while still green in color. They change from deep green to bronze red or bright red as they continue to mature.

The pungent or hot varieties of peppers are sold in either the green or red stage of maturity and vary in size from the small chili peppers to sizes nearly as large as the sweet bell pepper.

Whether you like them sweet or hot, select peppers that are fresh, firm, bright in appearance and thick fleshed. Immature peppers are usually soft, pliable and thin fleshed. A firm pepper may yield to slight pressure but it should not be shriveled, limp or pliable.

Crooked or deformed peppers may not be a wide choice either — because of possible waste or because the shape may be unsuited to a particular use. This is especially important if you are planning to stuff the peppers.

When buying peppers, check them for possible decay — which may show up as a water-soaked, bleached or blackened area.

Then follow the example of Peter Piper. Pick a pepper.

Center Proves Its Worth

The Eastern Carolina Vocational Center, Inc. has received its three-year accreditation from the Commission of Accreditation of Rehabilitation Facilities, and that is a matter of great pride to the community.

Director Daneel LeRoux said the accreditation is gratifying since it is the maximum time for which a center can be accredited.

The center budget is now nearing $4 million. Some 82 percent of that amount is generated by the center, itself and Le Roux says it is his goal to make the center 100 percent self-financed.

The center works with the mentally and physically handicapped, providing training for outside jobs. It also conducts work programs for individuals whose handicaps prevent them from working elsewhere.

Clearly the vocational center is providing a much-needed service to Eastern North Carolina. It is now in the final phase of a drive to raise funds for completion of its physical facilities.

This accreditation shows us that the center is well regarded by other professionals in the field. It obviously deserves the full support of the community.

We Must Set The Examples

Vandalism always strikes us as senseless, and cemetery vandalism seems to be an affront to civilized society.

In an Ayden cemetery last week some 111 headstones were overturned, 389 vases broken, 70 more vases defaced and eight headstones were broken. It was estimated by authorities that some $10,394 in damages were done.

Ayden Police Chief Tommy Burney said action had been taken against two juveniles, ages 8 and 9, in connection with the case.

If they are shown to be guilty, what can be done with two of such young age?

Once again it tells us that our society should examine its values. If older people throw out cans, papers and beer bottles all along our streets and highways, an 8-year-old might wonder why the uproar over a little destruction in a cemetery. All of us who care must set examples for those who don't.

Counseling By Phone

Good news from Moscow! The Soviet Telephone Company, according to news reports, now has a 24-hour working number where you can call for counseling and psychiatric advice. The phones are manned by professional personnel from the "National Center for the Study and Prevention of Extreme Conditions."

What kind of calls are coming through? Here's my best guess:

"This is the Moscow Confidential Telephone. I am listening."

"I want to leave the Soviet Union. The police say I'm crazy."

"Why do you want to leave the motherland?"

"Because my father went to California, and he said it was a much better place to live, and he wants me to join him."

"Do you always do what your father tells you?"

"Not always. But this time I think he has a pretty good idea."

"You shouldn't make big decisions when you're depressed."

"I'm only depressed because they won't give me an exit visa to go to California. I don't want to spend another winter in Moscow."

"You can't solve your personal problems by moving some place else. You will only take them with you."

"That's what you think boykitch. Just get me on a plane to California and I won't have a problem in the to eat?"

"No, sometimes I do a dance and sing the 'Volga Boatman.' Why shouldn't I get angry when I don't have enough to eat?"

"Anger is dangerous if you don't know how to channel it. Who are you angry at?"

"The stupid officials in the government who don't know how to feed the people."

"You shouldn't get angry at them."

"Then who should I get angry at?"

"You can get angry at me."

"Why should I get angry at you. You don't have anything to do with collective farm planning do you?"

"No. But on the other hand I don't have the authority to send you away to Siberia for 20 years either."

"This is your Confidential Telephone. Do you have a problem?"

"No, I'm happy as can be. I have a two-room apartment I share with four other families, my son was captured in Afghanistan, I work two shifts at the steel factory, but only get paid for one, and my daughter has just been thrown out of the university for reading a book by Boris Pasternak, I've never been more content in my life."

"So why did you call?"

"Don't I sound nuts to you?"

"No. You sound like you're going through a mid-life crisis. It happens when anyone thinks he's achieved the Soviet dream."

world."

"You're not in any condition to talk about getting on a plane. Come to the institute tomorrow and we'll talk about it some more."

"That's what the police told me."

"Listen to them. They know more than your father."

"Hello, is this the Confidential Telephone?"

"You sound angry."

"I am angry. How come the people in the U.S.S.R. don't have enough to eat?"

"You think we don't have enough to eat?"

"I know we don't have enough to eat. Have you been to the market this week?"

Tarzan Just 'Went Ape'

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN
AP Special Correspondent

RIDGEFIELD, Conn. (AP) — The citizens of Tarzana, Calif., if the town founded by Edgar Rice Burroughs still exists, should good naturedly tar and feather Bo Derek in righteous civic revenge for the worst Tarzan movie ever perpetrated on the American public.

The beautiful Bo, who is listed as producer of the latest version of "Tarzan the Ape Man," probably wouldn't mind the application of a little plumage. It would become her more than the white paint job which some aborigines, resembling a war party of skin headed Mohawks left over on the set from an old John Ford flick, daubed on her curvaceous facade in the dying moments of a movie that already was deadlier than the elephant graveyard the heroine and her father set out to find.

It must be boring and frustrating being a kid these days. Imagine sitting through 48 minutes of a Tarzan movie before the Ape Man even makes his chest thumping appearance and lets out with that first high soprano hog call. And not a crocodile in sight throughout the rest of this two-hour jungle snore-in. In every Tarzan movie I ever saw, from age 6 on, which goes back to Johnny Weissmuller and Maureen O'Sullivan, there is always a crocodile menacing the heroine and just the right size stick floating by for the Ape Man to jam into its gaping jaws.

There is a rogue elephant in this elephantine remake, but it doesn't make as much noise bellowing through the jungle as Richard Harris, who is supposed to play Bo's (alias Jane's) father but spends the whole picture as an exiled King Lear in a broad brimmed woman's hat, shouting out lines that have nothing to do with the plot.

Since nothing else in the film has anything to do with the plot either, no noticeable harm is done. At one point there, they are all climbing up a cliff, known in the script as "the escarpment," when the rope breaks and someone falls into a crevasse. We never find out who, because the next scene shows the entire tusk hunting expedition tenting down in what appears to be a state park campsite.

The action is supposed to take place in East Africa somewhere, because that's where the animals are. Except for the tigers, who had to be imported. But, according to the blurb for this remake on cable TV, "shooting was done on location in the Seychelles and Sri Lanka in an effort to bring an authentic quality evocative of a natural jungle setting."

Perhaps the state park campsite sequence was shot in Alabama, which according to the late Groucho Marx is "the best elephant hunting country in the world because in Alabama Tuscaloosa."

Moan not. There are worse lines in this script, and Bo Derek's delivery of them, like her physique, is statuesque. With facial expressions that register only pucker and pout, she here effects a reversal of the Pygmalion legend, a living, very obviously breathing goddess who turns into a statue whenever she opens her mouth to cope with the inanely dialogue.

Her best line is "me Virgin," which she throws away like her entire wardrobe toward the end of the picture, when cost overruns probably caught up with the costume department.

As played by Miles O'Keefe, Tarzan is a splendid muscle-bound hunk of beefcake who looks like the anchor chain of the QE2 turned to flesh. He is not given a single line of dialogue, not even the sacrosanct, "Me Tarzan, you Jane," which in previous versions distinguished his acting style from the chimps'.

Visually, the new "Tarzan the Ape Man" achieves special photographic effects known only to first time home movie hobbyists: scenes shot out of focus, directly into the sun, at the wrong speed so that action is blurred or slowed down when it should be speeded up by at least 40 minutes.

John Derek was both the director and photographer of the only Tarzan film that cannot possibly have a sequel, for fear of the whole industry regressing to the nickelodeon era. His wife, the producer, tries to make a secret of his and everyone else's involvement by staging the movie's only genuinely funny scene in the very last moments as the credits roll.

Bo in the demibuff is being wildly wooed by Tarzan and a switched-on gorilla in the mangiest menage a trois ever filmed. Even Fay Wray in the arms of King Kong up there on the Empire State Building never got so man-handled or ape-handled by a furry suitor.

No wonder the Ape Man went ape.

Perhaps, in a way, this is the most authentic Tarzan of them all. They say Edgar Rice Burroughs had never been in Africa either when he wrote the original monkey business in 1914.

If Bo's jungle rot ever plays Tarzana, the town he founded, don't fail to miss it.

The Predictable News Stories

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — To a great degree, the news from the International Monetary Fund meeting in Toronto is predictable. You may be certain of this:

—The have-not nations will be almost unanimous in urging a greater pool of funds be made available for borrowing.

The haves, especially the United States, will warn about the need for lenders and borrowers to be more cautious.

—The have-not nations will insist to their needs.

—Delegates from almost all nations — developed, underdeveloped and almost undeveloped — will express public assurances that the world monetary system is still resilient and not likely to collapse.

Privately, U.S. bankers and business people often talk quite differently.

Here is a sampling of views made repeatedly in discussions with lenders and business people over the past year:

—The international monetary system is resilient, but it is also vulnerable. To say that it isn't so is to hide from the facts of life. Defaults cannot be postponed forever by refinancing.

—Much of the money that is being lent has not gone for productive purposes. Instead, it has been poured into industries that do not respond with greater production. And into social programs that fail to improve the human condition.

—Ironically, the United States, Europe and Japan have provided models of the successful industrial nation that might worsen the problem of the havenots, who seek to emulate them without having the equipment with which to do so.

That is, the have-nots may not have the raw materials, the skills, or the ability to create capital through savings. Such basic building blocks took many years to be developed in the successfully industrialized nations.

—The have-not nations seek a quicker route to what is viewed as the good life — which, because of trade and improved communications, has been broadcast far and wide.

One way in which they seek to do this is through borrowing. But at the high interest rates that have existed in recent years, not even highly developed nations and industries can show profits. How, then, can underdeveloped nations do so? And if not, how can they repay their debts?

—In the United States, the high level of interest rates is in part a consequence of this demand for U.S. capital.

U.S. companies, no less than foreign borrowers, must compete for a limited supply of capital. They too must pay high rates. So too must U.S. consumers.

These are some of the concerns that bother American business people when the discussion turns to the issue of the haves and the havenots, as it frequently does. Often the discussion arises spontaneously and emotionally.

Frequently heard, for example, is the comment that lending abroad sometimes subsidizes poorly administered social programs there at the expense of domestic programs.

Less often commented upon is the solution. More often, that subject simply produces more questions.

In a world so interrelated — with the haves often dependent on the raw materials of the have-nots, and the have-nots dependent on the haves for financial aid — there may be no real answers. Only more questions.

THIS AFTERNOON

Single Issue Year

By PAUL O'CONNOR

RALEIGH — Peter Hart, the pollster who worked in Gov. Jim Hunt's 1980 re-election campaign, has some advice for Democratic congressional candidates this year. If ever there was a single-issue year, it will be 1982, Hart says. That issue will be the economy.

But before Democrats start salivating in anticipation of voter backlash to Republican economic policies, Democrats better make sure they don't end up getting the blame for today's economic miseries, Hart says.

Hart's comments come in the introduction to a Democratic National Party campaign publication prepared for candidates and party workers. The 380-page document details the Reagan record as Democrats see it.

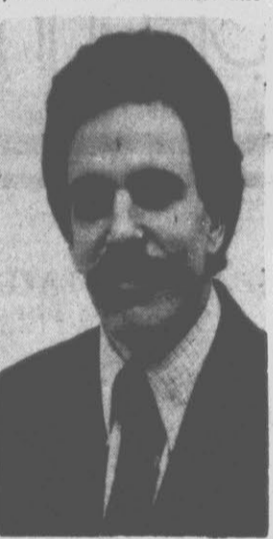

Hart says that Republicans can't hide the problems with the economy. Instead, they'll try to blame the Carter administration and previously Democratic controlled Congresses for the mess. Democrats must get the public focused on the present and the future. They must show Reagan's policies to be at fault and that they have something better to offer. "The more this election revolves around the past, the stronger the Republicans will be. The more the election deals with the present and the future, the stronger the Democrats will be."

Hart lays out several themes he thinks Democrats should stress as they try to keep the public focused on the present and future. Some of these things are evident in North Carolina congressional campaigns already.

While each campaign and contest will have its own issues and game plan, the ultimate goal should be to link individual strategies to four major themes ... which work largely because they reinforce long-standing impressions of the Democratic Party and because they reflect voter concerns about the direction the Reagan administration has taken.

In a poll for the party, Hart found that two-thirds of those polled felt the Democratic

PAUL O'CONNOR

Party cared more about the working man. "Democrats must continually reinforce the notion that the people the Republicans listen to and understand best are the privileged few and that the Republicans are badly out of touch with the hopes and needs of the middle-class, working Americans." In North Carolina, the state party has been hitting on this theme with regards to campaign contributions to GOP candidates. They charge the Republicans are the tools of big oil and other wealthy special interest groups closely aligned to the National Congressional Club.

A second theme is the concept of fairness and balance. Hunt has often criticized the Reagan program for being unfair to the poor, elderly and to the public schools. Wayne McDevitt, chairman of the Democrats' Unity Campaign, said recently that the fairness issue will share center stage with "big oil" this fall.

On this theme, Hart says voters think of Democrats as better prepared to support programs like Social Security which must be protected and that issue is certainly getting mention here in North Carolina.

State Democrats are less vocal on another issue Hart is mentioning — nuclear weapons. In a conservative state, the nuclear freeze issue and the Reagan administration's policies about the sale of nuclear fuel aren't the safe political issues they may be elsewhere.

Other Editors Say Twice Betrayed

(The Robersonian, Lumberton)

State Representative Ron Taylor shocked his supporters and antagonists alike by pleading guilty to charges he conspired to burn three warehouses owned by another legislator.

Many of those supporters reacted with a deep sense of betrayal.

That betrayal was two-fold. Taylor betrayed all his constituents by involving himself in the burnings in the first place, but the second betrayal, the one that hurt the most, came after his arrest on the conspiracy charges.

Many residents of Bladen, Sampson and Pender counties accepted Taylor's denials of wrongdoing. A corps of adamant supporters campaigned diligently for several weeks, convincing others that Taylor, indeed, had been caught in a web net of his making.

Those who were convinced of his innocence, and there were a number of them, went to the polls in the June primary and cast their ballot for Taylor. They were showing personal support for him during a time of trouble, even more than voting for his political candidacy.

With his subsequent admission of guilt, Taylor betrayed his friends and neighbors who had tried to support him when they thought he was innocent.

In accepting Taylor's guilty plea, Judge George Fountain said Taylor, under the law, could not continue to hold his seat in the state house. He also told Taylor's lawyers he expected him to resign his candidacy for another term.

While that penalty, along with a possible sentence of up to 40 years in prison, may be difficult for Taylor to face, we suggest he will have an even more difficult time living with a penalty no judge could impose — facing each day people who gave him their confidence and were betrayed.

Strength For Today

—OF TOLERANCE AND CONVICTION

We read in the Book of Revelation that the Holy City which descended out of heaven had twelve gates — three on the east, three on the west, three on the south and three on the north.

Of course, these twelve gates represent the twelve tribes of Israel, but they indicate also that there are different roads leading to heaven. To say this is not to intimate that one religion is the same as another. The differences between religions are very important. Doubtless all of us are sure that the door bearing the name of the particular type of religion to which each of us subscribes is the best door of all.

But we should expect everyone else to feel the same way about their religions. All we should require is that we leave one another alone in the exercise of religious choice. Let us continue to have complete confidence in our own faith, but let us remember that others feel the same way about their faith. — Elisha Douglass

Opinions Differ In Surveying Results

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — A state official says he doesn't believe a new requirement that state school bus drivers have at least six months driving experience before being hired is working to lower the number of school bus accidents in the state. A report issued by the state

Division of Motor Vehicles indicates that school bus accidents rose 4.2 percent in 1981-82 from the previous year. "I don't personally believe (the new requirement) has helped," said Mark Fountain, a spokesman for the division.

The 1,137 accidents last year did reflect a decrease of 7 percent from three years ago, although the state has 12,622 buses traveling more than 500,000 miles a day, DMV data showed. However, the figure was higher than the 1,091 school bus accidents in 1980-81.

Last year was the first school year that bus drivers were required to have six months of experience. Accidents involving 16-year-old drivers decreased by 60 percent when compared to 1979-80, when no driving experience was required. Fountain also said he does not believe there is evidence that there is evidence that 16-year-olds are better drivers even though a news release compiled by the state Department of Public Instruction interpreted data to show that 16-year-old bus drivers had proved their ability to handle school buses better than any other age group last year. Fountain said the department "misread the reasons for that drop." "They're no better," Fountain said. "The decline was almost entirely due to the drop in numbers." O'Connor Col. . . . (Continued From Page 4) Hart also suggests that Democrats come up with new strategies to deal with the problems of drunk driving and controlling crime. Neither is a new issue, but both "are re-emerging after a period of dormancy in terms of voter interest and ... there is a growing movement toward a common-sense approach that favors doing something to make our society a little safer."

Bethel Eyes Candidacy For Award

BETHEL — A presentation to place Bethel as a candidate community for the Governor's Excellence Award was made Wednesday by Raymond Latham, chairman of the Economic and Industrial Development Committee of the Bethel Council of the Pitt-Greenville Chamber of Commerce.

A report of the presentation was made to members of the Bethel Council meeting Thursday night in the conference room of Wachovia Bank.

Latham told those attending that notification will be received at a later date of the state's reviewing committee decision on the status of Bethel's candidacy for the honor.

In another report given to council members, board chairman Bob Bowers reported that the organization and membership committee will sponsor a Pepsi Break at 5 p.m. Sept. 20, to be held at the Bethel Rotary Club building. Guest speaker for the event will be state Rep. John B. Gilliam III.

The Bethel Council voted at Thursday's meeting to support the town of Bethel in its clean-up week scheduled for Sept. 11-17. Civic groups, Boy Scouts, and others in the Bethel community will join in the clean-up effort.

Sickle Cell Month Set

RALEIGH — Gov. Jim Hunt has proclaimed September as Sickle Cell Month in North Carolina. During the month efforts will be made to inform the public about sickle cell anemia, its symptoms, and methods of detection and treatment.

Sickle cell anemia is a genetic disease that affects one in every 625 black children born in North Carolina. There is no known cure, but treatment is available to help its victims live more productive lives. About one person in 10 in the black population is a genetic carrier of the sickle cell trait, but this carrier state does not in itself often result in health problems.

Sickle cell disease is characterized by anemia; episodes of severe pain occurring in bones, abdomen, chest, and other parts of the body, damage to many organs including the brain, heart, liver and kidney; and frequent and severe infections, particularly in childhood.

There will be a special blood drive for sickle cell anemia Tuesday at the Moose Lodge on the Farmville highway next to West End Shopping center between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. For more information call Mildred A. Council, Sickle Cell Educator-Counselor for the N.C. Genetic Health Care Unit, 404 St. Andrews Street, Greenville, or phone 756-1343.

Univ. Club Sets A Coffee-Hour

ECU News Bureau
An informal coffee hour Sept. 18 at the East Carolina University chancellor's residence on Fifth Street will begin 1982-83 activities of the East Carolina University Club.

The coffee hour will begin at 10 a.m. and will feature presentations about club activities planned for the academic year.

The University Club, formerly known as the ECU Women's Club, sponsors a variety of fund-raising and social activities. Dues are $5 per person. Its chief project is raising funds for the Lillian Jenkins Scholarship program at ECU.

Pitt NAACP Bd. Meets Sunday

WINTERVILLE — The Pitt County Branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People will meet Sunday at 7 p.m. at Mount Shiloh Missionary Baptist Church.

The speaker will be Mildred A. Council, sickle cell counselor for the North Carolina Genetic Health Care Unit. There will also be a discussion on the adoption of black children.

44th ANNIVERSARY SALE

NEW JOB — John D. Gloyer has been appointed assistant director of the inspection division of the FBI in Washington, A 16-year FBI veteran, Gloyer most recently served as chief of the bureau's office in Atlanta. (AP/Laserphoto)

Kills Suspect In Robbery

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — An off-duty Winston-Salem policeman, wounded from a shotgun blast, shot and killed a suspected robber Thursday night at a shopping center, police said.

The suspect was identified by a Forsyth Memorial Hospital spokesman as Gilbert W. Timmons, 20, of Winston-Salem.

Police said the suspect had wounded Officer Ken H. Blevins in the left hand with a sawed-off shotgun. Blevins then shot the suspect, police said.

Several people chased the man, who then died in a vacant lot more than 200 yards from where he was shot, witnesses said.

The shootout occurred at 8:40 p.m. outside a branch of First Citizens Bank & Trust Co. at the Parkview Shopping Center. Blevins, who was working in street clothes as a security guard, had driven a manager of a nearby grocery store to the bank to make a night deposit.

A man confronted Blevins and grocery store manager Jasper Marshall and took a deposit bag from Marshall, police said, adding that he apparently aimed the shotgun at Blevins and fired.

Blevins, a detective assigned to the Juvenile Division, told police he was shot in the hand as he pushed the shotgun away from his face, police said.

Toastmasters Offer Course

City Council...

Charles Cavanaugh, president of the Greenville Area Preservation Association, also supported adoption of the revised package, saying he was in favor of measures that "tighten up the zone."

Cavanaugh said there is a need to establish a historical commission to look at some of the older areas of the city. He said that if the city waits, many of the old homes that should be preserved "may be too far down the road to be brought back."

The council voted to continue action until October on a proposed amendment, as submitted by the Tar River association, that would create a new "R-6 (N) Neighborhood Revitalization District." The district is aimed at promoting the revitalization of older neighborhoods within the planning area.

A recommendation by the planning commission relative to an amendment to the thoroughfare plan was approved by the council but a public hearing on a request by the Methodist Retirement Homes Inc. to amend another segment of the plan was continued until next month.

The planning board, meeting in August, recommended that the corridor plan be amended "to delete that portion of First Street from its present terminus eastward to its proposed intersection with N.C. 33 east of Rivergate Center." In addition, it recommended the deletion of "that portion of Brownlea Drive (proposed) from its proposed intersection with Third Street northward to its proposed intersection with First Street. Council members approved the amendment to the plan.

Planning board members also recommended that the council deny a request by Methodist Retirement Homes to amend the plan by deleting First Street extending east of Warren Street and by deleting the Brownlea connector to Fifth Street. The matter will be discussed at the October council meeting.

Other action following public hearings included:

- Approval of a request by Blount Fertilizer to rezone 609 acres north of Metalwood Co. on 13th Street from R-6 to unoffensive industry;

- Approval of four amendments to sections of the Zoning Ordinance relative to playground equipment, the CBD sign review committee, and signs in the downtown mall district;

- Approval of an amendment to the Zoning Ordinance regarding non-conforming structures, stipulating that, "physical alteration of a structure shall not be deemed an enlargement of the nonconformity if the proposed alteration is in full compliance with all development standards ... and if the proposed alteration does not enclose a previously unenclosed area which does not conform to all development standards of the applicable zoning district;"

- Approval of a request by J. T. Manning and Nathan Smith to rezone, from RA-20 (residential-agricultural) to R6-Mobile Home, 20 acres on the northern side of U.S. 264 Bypass, on the southern side of Hardee's Mill Run, easterly on the Nesa Page Worthington property, and westerly of the Mary B. Kerr property; and,

- Approval of an application by Thomas Mobile Home Sales for a permit to place a mobile home at 1318 N. Memorial Drive for use as residential quarters for a resident manager.

Action on a request by Greenville Cable TV Inc. for a revised bulk rate schedule and the establishment of a motel bulk rate was tabled.

An application by The Unlimited Touch, located at 1311 W. Fifth St., for renewal of a special use permit to operate a private club, was approved, subject to the business correcting electrical deficiencies identified in an inspection and subject to the imposition of normal special use restrictions.

Board members voted to approve recommendations by the Traffic Commission to deny requests to prohibit school buses from loading and unloading students on the south side of Howell Street from Ames Street to Skinner Street, and to reduce the speed limit from 35 to 25 miles per hour on Meadowbrook Drive from Moore Street to Mumford Road. Councilman Stuart Shinn voted against the motion to disapprove the school bus loading request.

In other business, the Council:

- Approved a request by the Southern Flue-Cured Tobacco Festival Inc. for a privilege license to have a warehouse dance at New Greenville Warehouse on Nov. 13.

- Approved the appointment of Greenville Banks to the Public Transportation Commission.

- Awarded the bid for fall-winter police uniforms to American Uniform Sales Inc. of Fayetteville, which submitted the low offer of $14,993.55 among four firms.

- Adopted a schedule of fees for 1982-83 extraterritorial fire protection.

- Adopted a resolution authorizing the Pitt-Greenville Airport to apply for a grant of approximately $100,000 from the Federal Aviation Administration for airport improvements.

New Complex Campus Priority

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Construction of a $12.1 million Physical Activity Complex continues to be the No. 1 priority in capital improvements at the University of North Carolina at Greensboro, a school official said Thursday.

Chancellor Dr. William K. Moran told the school's Board of Trustees that the project will remain the top priority "until his void is filled."

Moran said the current facilities were built to serve 3,000 students back in the 1930s and that the school's enrollment is now 10,120.

return to his professional commitment of teaching and research. He will continue as a professor in the university's instructional program.

A native of Providence, R.I., Brunelle has been director of library services at ECU since 1976, administering the J.Y. Joyner Library and ECU Music Library.

"Under Dr. Brunelle's administration, Joyner

Library has seen many advancements, including the physical rearrangement of the library's service facilities and the establishment of the Friends of the Library. His administration has been responsible for organizing a council of department heads to help shape library policies and for introducing an equitable plan for allocating books and journals to the academic units," Maier said.

Dr. Bell has been director of the Health Services Library of the ECU School of Medicine. A native of Wilmington, she holds degrees from Duke University and the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. She was the first recipient of the Ph.D. in library science awarded by UNC-CH in 1980. She came to ECU in 1979 in the school of allied health and social professions.

Orbit 12th

PEKING (AP) — China launched a satellite into orbit Thursday to carry out scientific experiments, the official Xinhua news agency reported.

China's 12th satellite in as many years "was accurately orbited and is in fine performance", Xinhua said in a brief report that did not specify what type of experiments the satellite was designed to carry out.

Dreams Of Competing In California

By CAROL TYER
Reflector Staff Writer
Curtis Sendek is an arm wrestler with a dream. His dream is competing in the world arm wrestling championships to be held in Petaluma, Calif., Oct. 9. But he's poor, not in spirit, but in finances, and he needs a sponsor, some person or persons to help him raise the money for the bus trip to Raleigh, the flight to San Francisco, and the bus trip to Petaluma, plus modest accommodations for the Thursday through Sunday he must spend in Petaluma.

CURTIS SENDEK

He's confident he can win. He won the intramural arm-wrestling tournament at East Carolina University. And, during an area tournament which drew competitors from beyond North Carolina's border, he won — not only in his own weight class, but for the entire event — by beating Bart Collins, long acknowledged as a champion in this area.

When he competes in a weight class, it's the 151-175 class, Sendek says. He's worked as a moving company employee and as a carpenter. Both jobs can develop one's back, shoulder and arm strength. Beyond strength, though, skill at arm wrestling depends on quickness and technique, he says.

"If you are quick, you can often catch your opponent off-guard immediately and bring him down," he said. "Technique, I can't explain, except to say that when you get it you know you've got it."

Sendek, who graduated from high school in Virginia, was on the wrestling team at ECU for two years "before the program was scratched." He calls himself a retired athlete and devotes most of his time to studying to complete the five-year program of education he's charted for himself. He is an industrial technology major with a geology minor.

Sendek estimates he can make it to the world championship and back with no more than $1,050. Anyone who has ideas for helping raise this amount may call him at 752-9601.

Winterville Bd. Meets Monday

Life As It's Lived

The Double Standard Is Still Alive And Well

By GAIL MICHAELS

Women's movement or no women's movement, the double standard is still at work in many American homes. I know it's at work in mine. If Phillip asks me when I'm going to do something he wants done, he calls it a reminder. But when I ask him when he's going to do something I want done, it's called nagging.

According to him, for instance, an inquiry concerning any plans I might have to wash his socks in the near future is a legitimate question. But if I ask him if he's planning to remove said socks from the carpet anytime within the next year, he accuses me of trying to organize his free time.

And, believe me, he's very jealous of his free time. True, he has worked out a compromise to balance his needs for leisure with my demands for home maintenance. He told me that he'd complete one task a week. Unfortunately, all tasks rank equal. Hanging a curtain rod counts as much as mowing a lawn.

Of course, with his knack for scheduling, he gets around to the latter duty only once every third or fourth week — if I'm lucky. Our yard invariably wins the unofficial vote of the neighborhood children for the neatest spot ever for a game of cowboys and Indians. They pretend its the prairie.

Meanwhile, the list of chores keeps growing. Right after he told me in the heat of anger (kindled by one of my efforts to have an input into his schedule) that men had no monopoly on power tools, he hid the drill, so he still has to hang most of the curtain rods in the house. At a rate of one a week, he should be through sometime in 1984.

He hasn't balanced my washing machine yet. It does the rumba every time it hits the spin cycle. And he has got to put more vents in the attic so we can turn on the attic fan that he labored so hard to install several months ago. He also has to repair that part of the ceiling that he put his knee through during the installation process.

With all these items and more accumulating on my list, I find it almost impossible to refrain from my nasty habit of mentioning them. On Monday afternoon after I had observed no tangible activity during the three-day weekend, I mustered my courage, waded through the newspapers, took my stand in front of a Jerry Lewis movie, and confronted him.

"And just what have you done to contribute to the welfare of our home this weekend?" I asked.

"I unpacked a box in the garage. I found my binoculars and Zachary's potty chair. If you haven't been looking for that, you should have been."

And he wonders why I don't feel settled yet.

Advise Update Immunizations

September has been proclaimed "Preschool Immunization Month" by Gov. Jim Hunt.

Dr. Robert Ehinger, Pitt County health director, urges parents of children under 5 to be certain their children's shots are up to date.

"During September we will review our immunization tracking system to be sure parents will be notified if children are overdue for a vaccine," Ehinger said. "We want to be sure that infants stay on the recommended immunization schedule."

Immunizations for diphtheria, tetanus, whooping cough and polio are given at 2, 4 and 6 months of age followed by combined measles, rubella and mumps vaccine at 15 months of age.

"If parents have any questions about their child's immunizations, they should contact their physician, clinic or local health department," said Ehinger.

U.S. Officials Push Ahead On Pipeline 'Sanctions'

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. officials, insisting they want no trade war with Europe, are pressing ahead anyway with sanctions against a fourth European company for helping in construction of the Soviet Union's Siberian gas pipeline.

Despite complaints from Europe, the sanctions will continue as long as the Reagan administration sees "Soviet complicity" in the martial law clamped down on Poland, Commerce Secretary Malcolm Baldrige said Thursday.

He spoke with reporters shortly after announcing the Commerce Department would bar U.S. exports of oil and gas equipment to the British firm John Brown Engineering Ltd.

John Brown, which shipped six huge turbines to the Soviet Union earlier in the day, became the fourth European company to feel the embargo sting since President Reagan announced a ban on all exports of oil and gas equipment to the Soviet Union by U.S. firms, their subsidiaries and licensees.

The British firm was afected because the turbines rely on rotors made by General Electric.

In London, Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher was said by a spokesman to be "displeased" by the U.S. action but undecided about what response the British government will make.

Baldrige said he knew many European officials were not happy about the sanctions, but he also said U.S. officials were "trying to do what's fair and right in a difficult situation."

Asked about possible European retaliation, he said

'Junk Foods'

GLENDALE, Calif. (AP) — An American Baptist minister says the modern wave of youth crime is partly triggered by "junk-food diets" which result in hypoglycemia or low blood sugar.

The Rev. Bernard Mason says spurts of irrational violence exhibited by many youths are typical of sufferers of hypoglycemia.

he had heard no official word of any such plans.

"Neither our allies nor the United States want to see a trade war," he said.

Thursday's action "fully maintains the goals laid out by the president ... without unduly harming our allies and friends," Baldrige said.

He acknowledged the government has seen no easing in the Polish situation. However, he added, "the effect of the sanctions has not been felt yet."

John Brown spokesman Jeremy Wyatt indicated in London that the export ban would not affect the rest of his company's $179 million order from the Soviets for 21 of the turbines.

"We've got to fulfill the rest of our contract," he said. "We're under (British) government orders to do so."

In the past two weeks, the U.S. government has imposed similar sanctions against two French companies and an Italian firm.

Sanctions imposed against the French companies — Dresser-France, a subsidiary of Dresser Industries Inc. of Dallas, and Creusot-Loire — originally were much broader, covering exports of all U.S. goods and services.

The third company, Nuovo Pignone of Italy, was black-listed for oil and gas items.

The penalty against Dresser-France has been reduced so that it also covers just oil and gas items, and a similar reduction is pending for Creusot-Loire.

One reason the sanctions were narrowed, Baldrige said, was that the broad export ban "literally would have had the effect of forcing some of those companies into bankruptcy — or could have."

He would not elaborate. But attorneys for Dresser-France said in court Thursday that its business was being hurt badly.

Sales losses to the companies because of the U.S. action could range from $75 million for one to $600 million for another over a three-year period, Baldrige said. Again, he would not elaborate or name names.

Baldrige was asked whether the sanctions might be eased if the Europeans come up with anti-pipeline alternatives to renegotiating contracts.

"That's always possible, but we haven't seen them come up with any," he said.

Other European companies may also be penalized if they go ahead with planned shipments, he said.

Besides its Polish protest, the Reagan administration opposes the 3,500-mile pipeline on grounds that it will make Europe dependent on Soviet gas and will give the Soviets access to Western currency through payment for the gas.

However, Baldrige said the export bans would be lifted if the situation in Poland improved.

"We'd still be concerned (about the pipeline) but we would not put sanctions on to express that concern," he said.

Also in Washington on Thursday, a federal judge denied a request by Dresser Industries to temporarily bar the sanctions.

U.S. District Judge Joyce Hens Green said Dresser's challenge should be considered instead by the Commerce Department in an administrative hearing by mid-December.

Dresser attorney John Vanderstar told the judge that the company could not receive a fair hearing from the department and that in the meantime "our business is being destroyed."

Opening lead: Nine of ♠.

One of Holland's most prestigious pair championships was recently won by 17-year-old Taco Wirschell, partnered by his father, Wim. They outclassed a field that included many of their country's finest players.

On this hand from the event, the senior Wirschell displayed impressive technique. However, don't ask us to explain the auction, because we don't know what North's two-club opening was. Obviously, four no trump was Blackwood, a highly doubtful maneuver with a void and, as might be expected, East's unusual no trump helped declarer in the play.

Against seven spades West led his top club. Declarer won the ace, ruffed a diamond and re-entered dummy with the jack of spades for another diamond ruff. Now declarer started to run trumps, coming down to this position:

On his penultimate trump declarer discarded the four of hearts from the table, and East could not withstand the pressure. He had to hold all his diamonds and the king of clubs to guard against dummy's minor-suit holdings, so he too sluffed a heart. Now a heart to the ace felled the king. Two hearts were pitched on dummy's high diamonds, and declarer took the last two tricks with his trump and the queen of hearts.

It might seem that such fine play should have been worth a top score, but no. A number of pairs reached seven no trump from the North seat. Twelve tricks quickly became thirteen because East was end played at trick one—no matter what he led, he had to present declarer with an extra trick.

Probing High Pacemaker Cost

By MARGARET SCHERF
 Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Medicare will spend about $1 billion too much on heart pacemakers this year because of unnecessary implants, inflated costs and outright fraud, according to a report by the Senate Special Committee on Aging.

The committee scheduled a hearing today on the problem.

The report, made public Thursday, said Medicare pays for 80 to 90 percent of all pacemaker procedures in the United States. It estimated that costs associated with pacemaker implantation, follow-up and monitoring total $10,000 to $18,000 per patient.

About 150,000 Americans will receive pacemakers this year, it said.

"When the costs associated with these anticipated implants are added to the costs of following and monitoring the 500,000 existing pacemaker patients in this country, total Medicare costs will exceed $2 billion in 1982," the report said.

"The necessity or appropriateness of as much as half that total cost can be questioned," it added.

It listed among the reasons:

- Unreasonable cost.
- Pacemakers costing $600 to $900 to manufacture are being billed to hospitals for $2,000 to $5,000. Hospitals, without any correlating expense, increase the cost by 50 to 150 percent and pass the total on to Medicare and other third-party payers.
- Overutilization.

"Estimates from physicians associated with medical centers across the country estimate 30 to 50 percent of all pacemaker implants are unnecessary,"

Favor Priority On 4 Bypasses

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP) — Four-lane bypasses of Wilmington, Shallotte, Supply and Jacksonville are among the first improvements that should be made to U.S. 17, a new state study recommends.

The N.C. Department of Transportation released a report prepared by a consulting firm Thursday that says the bypasses are needed as vital links to a statewide four-lane project envisioned for the early 21st Century.

That study says improving U.S. 17 — the major north-south artery for North Carolina's coastal region — would cost more than $450 million.

The study was prepared by the firm Kimley-Horn Associates Inc. Consultants with the firm drew their conclusions based on public hearings conducted at municipalities lining U.S. 17.

Another suggested change is a two-lane bypass of New Bern.

Set Conference For Partnership

WASHINGTON (AP) — About 300 black and white church leaders meet at the International Hotel here Sept. 14-17 with the aim of building a "partnership for change" to improve conditions among the poor and minorities.

The gathering, sponsored by a unit of the National Council of Churches, has scheduled speakers including Atlanta's Mayor Andrew Young and the Rev. Philip Potter, general secretary of the World Council of Churches.

State Defense Tests New ECU Offense

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

East Carolina officially unveils its new I-formation offense on Saturday when the Pirates clash in Raleigh's Carter-Finley Stadium against the home-standing N.C. State Wolfpack. Kickoff is set for 7 p.m.

The use of the I is a departure from the wishbone offense the Pirates have used for the past eight seasons — six of them under former coach Pat Dye, now at Auburn.

"We went to the I because of our play against Division I-A teams," Coach Ed Emory said earlier this week. "If you are equal or better than your opponent, you can run the wishbone. If we were still in the Southern Conference, we would probably continue to use it because it has been productive over Southern Conference teams.

"But it hasn't been effective against Division I-A teams, so we had to go with something else," Emory added.

"We had to have some way for our kids to have a chance to win against the people we are playing now. I think our decision has been good for us. We probably should have made the switch sooner."

Emory said he is uncertain what the pass-run percentage against State will be. "We will do what the opposition will allow us to do — in each of our games. I would estimate that on the season, it will probably be about 60 percent run and 40 percent pass."

Emory said he feels the Pirates have a chance to be a good offensive football team. "Playing State is tough, however. They are a good defensive team with probably one of the quickest secondaries in the country. They allowed Furman only an average of two yards a carry. They are potentially a great team."

Emory said that State's having played has given the Wolfpack a lot of confidence in its game. "You could see their confidence growing throughout the game."

Despite a number of injuries which have struck the Pirates on both sides of the line — mainly at four positions — Emory feels the Bucs are ready. The injuries have come at tailback, where freshman Tony Baker is set to start, at center, where regular starter John Floyd, just off an injury, could return by Saturday, at nose guard, where Buddy Colson is the likely starter, and inside linebackers where P.J. Jordan and Ronald Reid are to be the starters.

"We had a great loss in (sophomore tailback) Jimmy Walden, and another in (offensive tackle) Greg Quick. But I feel that we can match up well with State in every position except maybe for tailback. They have a great one in (Joe) McIntosh."

Defensively, Emory believes that the Pirates can have one of their best ever units. "And I think we stack up well with State here too, with the possibly exception of the secondary because of their quickness."

The kicking game is questionable because it appears that two newcomers will be handling the duties. Jeff Heath, a freshman, will open as the kicker for placements and kickoffs. Sophomore John Williams, who has not played any collegiate ball, will be the punter.

"We have a chance to play a heck of a ballgame. It depends on how our young players respond. We've got to swim upstream and run against the wind in playing a team that's already played and has the potential State has."

State will open with Tol Avery, their much-maligned quarterback, leading the way. Avery completed 13 of 25 attempts for 174 yards and two touchdowns against Furman. He did not have an interception. His top target was split end Ricky Wall, who caught six for 99 yards and one score. Tight end Tim Foster and fullback Andre Marks each caught two passes.

McIntosh, last year's ACC Rookie of the Year, and the conference's leading rusher, carried the ball 24 times for 130 yards, scoring twice.

State did have some ballhandling problems in the game, fumbling three times and losing one, but the State defense forced five fumbles by Furman, recovering four of them.

A crowd in excess of 45,000 is expected for the contest, which has been one of the top attractions in the State since its inception.

Pitt Gains Shaky Victory Over Heels

PITTSBURGH (AP) — It appeared that Pitt's number was up — at least its number one college football ranking.

Instead, North Carolina's days of being a national title contender apparently were numbered.

And while he didn't put together the kind of numbers he's accustomed to, senior quarterback Dan Marino directed a third-quarter touchdown drive that gave the top-rated Panthers a nationally televised 7-6 victory over the fifth-ranked Tar Heels Thursday night.

"We played on national TV and we won," said Marino, who threw an uncharacteristic four interceptions. "I didn't play well, but I'm not down at all. I'm happy we won."

Marino's 4-yard touchdown pass to running back Bryan Thomas midway through the quarter ended a 69-yard drive — the Panthers' only sustained drive of the night. Included were Marino completions of 19 yards to Dwight Collins and 15 yards to Thomas.

But Marino, despite completing 15 of 28 attempts, threw for just 125 yards. It was the first time that Marino, who passed for nearly 2,900 yards last season, has thrown for less than 200 yards since the final game of his sophomore season.

"It wasn't very pretty, was it?" said rookie Pitt Coach Foge Fazio, who replaced Jackie Sherrill. "It was a game of field position, and I didn't want it to happen that way. We wanted to get the lead early."

The Panthers didn't. The Tar Heels took a 3-0 halftime lead on Brooks Barwick's 39-yard, second-quarter field goal.

It looked like Pitt might be the next victim of the jinx that has plagued No. 1 ranked teams since last season. Six teams were beaten almost immediately after being top-ranked a season ago — including Pitt, which was unbeaten and top rated until being stomped by Penn State 48-14 in its final regular season game.

Pittsburgh held North Carolina's own Heisman Trophy candidate, running back Kelvin Bryant to 58 yards on 16 carries. And he was on the sidelines with a twisted ankle late in the game when North Carolina drove to the Pitt 21-yard line before stalling and settling for a 48-yard field goal by Rob Rogers.

"I'm disappointed, but we're not down," Bryant said. "We'll just have to come back next week and do better."

North Carolina Coach Dick Crum said his Tar Heels "had a chance to win," but were consistently crippled by penalties.

North Carolina was whistled for 15 penalties for 133 yards and Pitt drew 13 penalties for 97 yards.

"You have to take advantage of all opportunities against a team the calibre of Pittsburgh," Crum said. "Their defense played well and our defense played as well. And when you can hold a team of Pitt's explosiveness to seven points, you've done a good night's job."

Three intriguing matchups on Saturday have No. 3 Nebraska playing host to Iowa, No. 4 Alabama at Georgia Tech and No. 12 Michigan entertaining Wisconsin. Those three ranked teams all lost their openers last season — to the same unranked squads they open with this year.

"We felt our camp was a little too easy last year, so this camp has been tougher," Michigan Coach Bo Schembechler said. "The practices have been very hard and very tough, but we're hanging in there."

Georgia, which opened with a 13-7 victory over 1981 national champion Clemson on Labor Day, has another tough challenge Saturday against Brigham Young. The high-powered Cougars blanked Nevada-Las Vegas 27-0 in their opener.

No. 2 Washington begins play against Texas-El Paso, a perennial tailender in the Western Athletic Conference. UTEP did win its opener last year, though, 20-17 over New Mexico State.

No. 7 Penn State, fresh off a 31-14 whipping of Temple, is at home against Maryland, with its new head coach, Bobby Ross. Eighth-ranked Southern Methodist and its new head man, Bobby Collins, is at home against Tulane, which was beaten 30-21 by Mississippi State last Saturday. No. 9 Oklahoma entertains West Virginia and 10th-rated Southern California debuts at No. 11 Florida. The Gators come off an exciting 17-14 victory over archrival Miami, Fla.

No. 13 Arkansas plays Tulsa, which beat Air Force 35-17 in its opener; No. 14 Ohio State challenges Baylor, a 21-17 winner against North Texas State last weekend; Arizona State, rated 15th and 1-0 after blasting Oregon 34-3, plays Utah; No. 18 UCLA gets Long Beach State, and No. 19 Miami opposes Houston.

In an interesting game between non-ranked teams, Virginia and new coach George Welsh, entertains Navy, and new coach Gary Tranquil replaced Welsh at Navy this season.

Pitt Defense Does Job, Stops Running Of UNC's Kelvin Bryant

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Top-ranked Pitt's offense gets most of the headlines, but the Panthers' defense never lets up.

The Panthers didn't rest against Georgia star Herschel Walker in Pitt's 24-20 Sugar Bowl victory last season, and they kept up the pressure against star North Carolina tailback Kelvin Bryant in a nationally televised 7-6 Pitt victory Thursday night.

Bryant, who rushed for over 1,000 yards in a little over a half season in 1981, gained just 58 yards on 16 carries against a Pitt defense that has been top-ranked statistically the last two seasons.

"We held Kelvin Bryant the way we held Herschel Walker," said Pitt safety Tom Flynn.

"I think we have a lot of confidence against teams that run the ball. I think we defend the run very well."

Pitt defensive tackle Bill Maas, who consistently pressured Bryant and Tar Heels quarterback Rod Elkins, said the Panthers were worried before the game about North Carolina's big defensive line.

"We were afraid they would open a lot of holes for Bryant," Maas said. "But he didn't get the holes and that forced him to run down the sidelines."

two seasons. Marino was able to complete 15 of 28 passing attempts for just 125 yards and suffered four interceptions in his first sub-200 yard passing game since his sophomore season.

"I kept the pressure on our defense all night," Marino said, trying to smile. "But I'm not upset and I'm not disappointed. We won the game. I tried to force the ball too much and the next time I'll try to do better."

Marino was asked if his performance would jeopardize his chances of winning the Heisman Trophy.

"The exposure ... playing on national TV was great," he said. "I didn't play well ... but on the other hand, we won. I'm not down at all."

Pitt Coach Foge Fazio wasn't about to criticize Marino despite his senior star's inconsistent passing.

"He had the ball there to the receivers all night," Fazio said. "We dropped a couple of balls, I'm sure he felt the pressure a little bit."

Fazio, in his debut as successor to Coach Jackie Sherrill, said his team began "pressing" in the first half when it didn't consistently move the ball.

"We were too fired up ... too keyed up," he said. "We did better in the third quarter. In the fourth quarter, we were out of character again."

North Carolina Coach Dick Crum said he thought the Tar Heels "had the opportunity to win. I was disappointed in our penalties (15 for 133 yards). You have to take advantage of all opportunities against a team the calibre of Pittsburgh."

Mickey Mantle of the New York Yankees hit a record 18 home runs in World Series play.

Woody Peele

The first week of football season is over, and really, not a lot was decided as far as our panel of experts is concerned. Things are pretty close from top to bottom with no one really getting out to a big lead.

By the time the dust cleared last last night, we had ended up with a five-way tie for first place. Everyone turned in a 9-3 record with the exception of last year's co-winner Vickie Spivey. She slipped to a 7-5 mark, giving the rest of the pack a two-game lead on her. Our guest of the week, Mel Lang of the news staff, hung in there as the leader until early this morning when Carolina finally lost to Pittsburgh.

This week, our guest will be Greenville City Schools superintendent Dr. Delma Blinson, who is hoping to do as well as Lang did last week.

Turning to our high school pickings, we find a 5-1-1 mark last week which brings our total for the young season to 9-2-2. Greene Central, as it did week before last, played to a scoreless tie this past week. We wonder when the last time a team opened with two straight scoreless ties.

Maybe this week they can push the ball across the goal line.

The week highlights a couple of cross-county games in Pitt, with Farmville Central visiting Ayden-Grifton and North Pitt dropping in on Conley.

Farmville has gotten off to a very slow start, losing its first two games, while the Chargers got away to a slow first three quarters, then exploded in the final period to rip Roanoke last week.

The game, however, is a traditional one that usually has the record book going out the window. We like Ayden-Grifton in this one, however, and we'll give them a 24-7 vote of confidence.

North Pitt has had a strangle hold over Conley's Vikings for the past few years, but the Vikes are showing signs of finally putting things together. Mitchell Cox was the key man for the Panthers last year, but he's wearing the blue and gold of Conley this year. This should be a hard-fought game, and we're going with Conley to pull it out, 19-12.

In the other area games, we see Washington topping Roanoke, Williamston beating Plymouth, Greene Central finally scoring to beat North Lenoir and Jamesville beating Chocowinity.

Turning now to our panel, we have two local area games.

Friday night, Rose rounds out the high school games traveling to New Bern. While the Bears were expected to be one of the tougher Mideast teams, they've lost their first two. Rose, playing well for the final three quarters, still lost to Jacksonville, so one team will finally be a winner. Our own personal choice is for Rose to win, say 20-7.

The panel, too, backs the Rampants, going down the line, 6-0.

Saturday, East Carolina's Pirates take the field for the first time, against N.C. State. The Wolfpack finally got their game in gear last Saturday in the fourth quarter against Furman, winning handily. East Carolina might be more of a test, however, but has the disadvantage of not having played yet.

Our choice is East Carolina, by a 28-24 score. The panel however, is picking State by a 4-2 margin.

Our other consensus picks for the weekend: Alabama over Georgia Tech; Navy over Virginia; California and Colorado, a toss-up; Georgia over Brigham Young; Oklahoma over West Virginia; Penn State over Maryland; Auburn over Wake Forest; Florida over Southern California; Michigan State over Illinois; and Southern Mississippi over Mississippi.

Detroit All Smiles Now That Billy Sims Is Back In Town

By The Associated Press
The fate of the Detroit Lions, New York Giants and Buffalo Bills — three teams considered prime National Football League playoff contenders — may hinge on their star running backs. At least the Lions know where theirs is.

As the NFL regular season opens Sunday — barring a players' strike over the lack of a collective bargaining contract with the league — the Giants and Bills — both wild-card playoff teams last year — will be without the men their running attack are built around. New York's Rob Carpenter and Buffalo's Joe Cribbs are holding out for renegotiated contracts.

While the Giants will try to make do against Atlanta with rookies Butch Woolfolk and Joe Morris in place of Carpenter and the Bills search for a replacement for Cribbs against Kansas City, the Lions are all smiles now that Billy Sims is back in town.

Sims also was holding out but, after missing the entire preseason, he reported to the team earlier this week and is expected to start Sunday against the Chicago Bears.

"Sunday should be OK," said Sims. "I know the running game fairly well. I don't know all the pass plays yet."

Sims returned following a private meeting Tuesday with club owner William Clay Ford. Sims said Ford assured him the Lions would negotiate the fourth, or option, year of his contract as soon as possible.

"I think I achieved something (with the holdout)," Sims said. "I was well pleased with my conversation with Mr. Ford."

"It took a lot on Billy's part to come back," said Lions Coach Monte Clark. "I think it took a lot of loyalty. It shows what kind of man Billy is."

The Lions will be operating with a new set of kickers.

After punter Tom Skladany and placekicker Eddie Murray walked out of camp, Detroit signed punter John James and placekicker Bob Thomas, then suspended Skladany and Murray.

Elsewhere Sunday, it will be Houston at Cincinnati; St. Louis at New Orleans; Tampa Bay at Minnesota; Washington at Philadelphia; the Los Angeles Rams vs. Green Bay at Milwaukee; New England at Baltimore; Miami at the New York Jets; Cleveland at Seattle; San Diego at Denver, and the Los Angeles Raiders at San Francisco.

On Monday, Pittsburgh is at Dallas.

Of course, the weekend schedule could be disrupted if the Colts and Seahawks go through with their walkouts to protest the release of their player representatives — Baltimore's Herb Orvis and Seattle's Sam McCullum.

One of the more interesting matchups Sunday involves the Raiders and 49ers. The defending Super Bowl champion 49ers have added even more pass-catching power to their already potent array with tight end Russ Francis and wide receiver Renaldo Nehemiah, the world-record high hurdler. Their opponents are their former Bay Area rivals, the Raiders, who moved to Los Angeles this season after a protracted court battle with the NFL.

The NFL's two worst teams last season, the Patriots and Colts, square off in Baltimore. The Colts only two victories last year came in the opening and closing games of the season — both against New England. Frank Kush will make his debut as Colts head coach and Ron Meyer does likewise for New England.

The only other new head coach will be the Bears' Mike Ditka.

The Bengals, who lost the Super Bowl to San Francisco, face the Oilers, who promise a more balanced attack. In other words, Earl Campbell won't carry the ball on every down.

The Browns are hoping to unveil a new, stronger defense led by linebacker Tom Cousineau. After being selected first in the 1979 draft and spurning the Buffalo Bills to play in the Canadian Football League, Cousineau joined Cleveland as a free agent for this season.

Rampants Second In Opening Race

NEW BERN — Rose High School's boys' cross country team, after losing two of the best distance runners in the state through graduation last year, opened the 1982 season yesterday in a six-team match in New Bern and finished a strong second.

Eastern Wayne ended up on top with 51 points, while Rose was second with 65, just edging out Jacksonville, which had 65.

Goldsboro was a distant fourth with 91, followed by the hosting Bears with 99 and Northeastern with 118.

Eastern Wayne's Robbie Merritt took first place in the event just nosing out Rose's John Ormond. Merritt finished in 17:47 while Ormond was a second later. Third place went to Jacksonville's Myklos Sywanzk in 18:00, followed by Eastern Wayne's Warren Childers in 18:04. New Bern's Paul Bourgeou was fifth in 18:08.

The second five consisted of Richard Avery of New Bern in 18:15; John Byrd of Rose in 18:25; Greg Gehson of Jacksonville in 18:36; Rodney White of Goldsboro in 18:43; and Gary Robinson of Jacksonville in 18:45.

Other Rose finishers included Paul Bowen, 14th in 19:29; Jeremiah Brown, 18th in 19:48; Frank Rabe, 22nd in 20:02; Todd Crouch, 24th in 20:18; Will Hester, 30th in 20:45; Alan Dickens, 32nd in 20:48; Chris Baggett, 39th, and Jimmy Bryant, 50th. Times were unavailable for the final two runners for Rose.

"This was our first loss in a couple of years, but we're young," Coach Ron Hochmuth said. "We found out who we are and what we've got to work on. Eastern Wayne has a fine team and beat us man-to-man. It was a good meet for us."

Rose travels to participate in the Campbell Invitational on Saturday.

Rose Girls Take Meet

NEW BERN — Rose High School's girls came away with a victory in their first cross-country match of the season yesterday, downing New Bern and Eastern Wayne.

Rose finished the day with 37 points, while Eastern Wayne was second with 38. New Bern finished with 59 points. Goldsboro also participated, but did not have enough runners to field a team.

Pam Hill of New Bern finished first in the race, covering the three-mile distance in 20:10. Second went to Beanna Singleton of Eastern Wayne in 22:25, followed by Cindy Hudgins of Eastern in 22:28. Fourth went to Angie Michel of Rose in 22:29, with Shirley Wiley of Goldsboro in 22:46.

The second five were Juanita Hostyn of New Bern in 24:02; Carol Moore of Rose in 24:07; Krissi Velstrom of Eastern in 24:08; Gloria Adams of Rose in 24:24; and Amy Moore of Rose in 25:15.

Other Rose finishers were Layne King, 11th in 26:34; Bridgett Branch, 14th in 26:54; and Marsha Berryman, 22nd in 34:58.

Rose, now 1-0, will participate in the Campbell Invitational on Saturday.

Rose, Greene Divide Opener

SNOW HILL — Rose High School opened its 1982 volleyball season yesterday in a split with Greene Central. Rose won the opening match 15-11, 0-15, and 15-11.

Hosting Greene Central, also opening its season, came back to win the second match, 10-15, 15-8 and 18-16.

In the opening match, Cindy Wallace served up four straight points, while Frances Barnhill had five in game one.

In the third game, Sonya Williams had four straight, while Linda Winstead had three.

The second match's first game saw Winstead serve up five straight, while Jackie Green had three in a row in the second game. Winstead came back with five straight in the third game.

"I thought the girls did a super job," first year coach Kelly Fleming said. "We really didn't know that there was going to be a second match, but we played well throughout."

Next for Rose is at North Pitt on Tuesday. Greene Central travels to West Craven on Tuesday.

Conley . . . . . 2

SW Edgecombe . . . . . 1

HOLLYWOOD — D.H. Conley swept a pair of volleyball matches from SouthWest Edgecombe Thursday afternoon in its season opener.

The Valkyries lost the first game of the first match, 16-14, but came back to blitz the Lady Cougars 15-1 and 15-10 to win.

In the second match, Conley swept the first two games, 15-2 and 15-12.

Leading the Valkyries' attack was Darlene Cannon, DHC's top server in the two matches. Karen Barrett, Jackie Daniels and Lisa Mills aided Cannon with their hitting attacks.

The Valkyries travel to Ayden-Grifton Tuesday.

Reflector Sports Editor
East Carolina University opens its 1982 soccer season Sunday at 2 p.m., hosting Christopher Newport.

The Pirates will be starting the year with a new coach as Robbie Church has replaced Brad Smith as the kicker's leader.

"I'm really looking for a good season," Church said optimistically. "Our practices have gone well so far. We've put in a new system this year, a short passing game with support to get everyone in-involved in the offense and we feel this will help us."

Church said he had around 40 candidates for the team out at the start of the season, but he is now down to the 24 he will carry for the season.

Of that group, seven are returning starters, and another seven are veterans of play for the Pirates. "We have some freshmen who will help us a lot, too," Church said.

The returning seven include four members of the defensive backfield, Dennis Ellwell, a sweeper; outside fullbacks Steve Brody and Dwayne Degaetano and fullback Tom Lawrence. Joining them are midfielder Bill Merwin and forwards Mark Hardy and Brian Winchell.

All seven are expected to hold down starting positions this year.

"We expect to get a lot of support from several other players," Church said. He singled out Mike Swain, who was a part-time starter last year, freshman goalie Tony Rechner, freshmen Jay Bergen and Jamie Reibel, and two former players who did not play last year, Chip Baker and Steve Griff.

With the graduation of all-star goalie Steve Brown, the Pirates are left with no one with experience in that important position. "Rechner is the only goalie we have on campus. It's a tough job for a freshman, a mental job as well as a physical one. But he's played well in the scrimmages we've had," the coach said.

Church said that the Pirate schedule is a tough one. "It's as tough as I've seen anyone have. We play seven who were nationally ranked at one time or another last year. It's more than competitive."

The most wins for any ECU soccer team is seven in a season, and Church has set surpassing that as his team goal for this year. "I think we have the potential to do that, and to have a .500 season or better."

"But we have to be mentally and physically ready to play. Everyone we play has the potential to beat us, also."

The Pirate schedule:
Sept. 12 Christopher Newport, Sept. 19 William & Mary, Sept. 22 at N.C. State, Sept. 25 at Elon, Sept. 29 Virginia Wesleyan, Oct. 2 Guilford, Oct. 6 Campbell, Oct. 10 Virginia Commonwealth, Oct. 13 UNC Charlotte, Oct. 15 Richmond, Oct. 24 at UNC Greensboro, Oct. 27 at Old Dominion, Oct. 30 at Central Florida, Nov. 1 at South Florida, Nov. 7 UNC Wilmington.

Benedict Rewards Torre For His Confidence

By The Associated Press
Since losing his first-string catcher's job to Matt Sinatro, Bruce Benedict has been an uneasy rider on the Atlanta Braves' bench.

But Thursday night made up for a lot of frustration.

Given the start against Los Angeles on a "hunch" by Manager Joe Torre, Benedict blasted a grand slam home run to help the first-place Braves take a big 10-3 decision and move 1½ games over the Dodgers in the National League West race.

"He gave us the offense tonight that got us over the hump," Torre said of Benedict. "Starting him) was a gut feeling. Bruce has had pretty good success against Fernando (Valenzuela)."

The contest was one of only three in the NL. In the others, San Francisco beat Houston

5-1 and San Diego stopped Cincinnati 4-1.

Benedict's homer keyed an Atlanta power burst that also included homers by Bob Horner and Glenn Hubbard off Valenzuela, 17-12. Benedict's second grand slam of his career and his third homer this season came in the sixth, when Atlanta jumped ahead 8-2.

Horner's first-inning homer, his 30th, came with Claudell Washington on first via a single. Hubbard hit his ninth homer leading off the second.

"It's a great feeling when you can come in a game and make a contribution," Benedict said. "Sure, it's disappointing not to be playing all the time, but you've got to be ready when you get a chance."

"Besides, this is not a time to pout or be disappointed.

Something like this is even more gratifying when you haven't been playing."

Giants 5, Astros 1

Dave Bergman cracked four hits, including a solo homer in the seventh, and scored three times as San Francisco beat Houston.

Padres 4, Reds 1

Tim Lollar and Luis DeLeon combined on a five-hitter and Joe Lefebvre drove in two runs as San Diego handed Cincinnati its sixth straight defeat.

Lollar, 14-8, allowed five hits and walked none while striking out four in seven innings.

Rampettes Win Second Straight

ELIZABETH CITY — Rose High School's girls' tennis team rolled up a 6-3 victory over Northeastern in a Big East match yesterday.

The victory was the second straight for the Rampettes, both of them coming against conference competition.

Northeastern managed only one win in the singles competition, that going three sets. They then took two of the three singles, but the match had already been decided by then.

Rose travels to Northern Nash on Tuesday.

Mumphrey's Day Ends Well

NEW YORK (AP) — Jerry Mumphrey of the New York Yankees felt he had salvaged what had started out as a pretty poor 30th birthday, and even Milwaukee Brewers Manager Harvey Kuenn found some cause for consolation.

Mumphrey had hit into two close double plays — so close they helped prompt an angry postgame outburst from Yankees owner George Steinbrenner. Then, he came to the plate with one out in the 10th inning and the Yankees tied 4-4 with the Brewers.

Season's Future Still Up In Air On Opening Eve

NEW YORK (AP) — Though the league's chief negotiator says "the handwriting is on the wall" for a players' strike, and two teams are threatening walkouts, National Football League club owners are standing by their pledge not to implement a lockout.

With the start of the NFL season just two days away and the Baltimore Colts and Seattle Seahawks players saying they are prepared to stage job actions over the release of their union representatives, the executive committee of the NFL Management Council Thursday reaffirmed its previous decision not to lock out the players.

Jack Donlan, the executive director of the Management Council, said that the owners were chagrined that union boss Ed Garvey and the NFL Players Association had rejected their latest offer on a new collective bargaining contract.

"They (the owners) were very disappointed at the arrogance of the union leadership," said Donlan of the six members of the executive committee. "The owners are very disappointed at the reaction of the players. They thought they had given a very significant and expensive proposal, over $600 million in new money and there was discussion that they might have made a mistake in maybe withdrawing their opportunity to have a lockout.

"Garvey said two years ago we would have a strike. He has not responded to any offer that we have made, he didn't show up even to take a look at the (new) proposal. He said he's going to have a strike and then he rejects mediation. I think the handwriting is on the wall."

Players Association leadership was not taking a hard line regarding the possibility of a strike this Sunday, when all NFL teams except Pittsburgh and Dallas — who play Monday Night — get started. In fact, they were not pushing for any strike action this weekend.

"Our executive committee last night (Wednesday), in a conference call, decided they were not going to call selective strikes, that there was not going to be any action taken during the first weekend," Frank Woschitz, press spokesman for the union, said from Washington. "We are trying to hold off the teams (Seattle and Baltimore). We've told them, 'When we strike, if we strike, we'll do it together.'"

The waiving of the teams' player representatives, Sam McCullum of the Seahawks and Herb Orvis of the Colts, triggered strike threats.

The union filed an unfair labor practice charge with the National Labor Relations Board over the cutting of Orvis and McCullum and was awaiting a decision, which was expected today.

McCullum was one of Seattle's final cuts when the Seahawks pared their roster to the mandatory 49-player limit on Monday. He was claimed by the Minnesota Vikings, but instead of joining them, McCullum declared himself a free agent.

Orvis was cut the first day of training camp. The Seahawks and Colts teams have maintained the players' union activities had no bearing on the decision to cut them. But 54 of Seattle's players, including those on injured reserve, weren't buying that and signed a petition calling for McCullum's "immediate reinstatement." They said that if McCullum isn't restored to the roster, "a strike is an option." The players added they would decide on a course of action either tonight or Saturday.

Seattle opens at home against the Cleveland Browns. The Colts played Baltimore players would not initiate a strike Sunday, but he added the players monitor the Seattle situation closely.

The Colts "will play Sunday unless there is a league-wide strike," Baltimore player rep Mike Ozdowski said of Sunday's game against New England. "They will support any action taken on behalf of the player representatives who were released. I'm not going to assure you of a game this Sunday, but probably."

Ozdowski added a strike by the Seahawks could trigger a job action in the opener against the Patriots.

"The Seattle thing could trigger a lot of things. It's a volatile situation and if it's mishandled it could blow up."

Should Seattle take a job action, "I will tell the players that Seattle is going out and since they already know the reasons why, they will decide what to do about it," Ozdowski said.

Other player representatives were cut: Buffalo's Mike Kadish and New Orleans' Benny Ricardo.

"We're not going to let the union representatives hang one by one," said Ozdowski.

League East. The Orioles lost 3-0 to Cleveland.

"We like to win as many as we can, but it's nice that Baltimore lost," said Kuenn, who watched his team come back from a 4-0 deficit to tie the score with four runs in the eighth inning, including three on Ben Oglivie's 28th homer.

"You have to give our guys a lot of credit," Kuenn said. "They came back, and we'll be back tomorrow, battling again."

After the game, Steinbrenner issued a statement blasting Bremigan for his two double play calls and berating home plate umpire Dave Phillips for what the Yankees owner thought was a bad call at home plate in the seventh inning. Phillips had called Butch Wynegar out as he tried to score from third on a fly ball by Ken Griffey to Milwaukee right fielder Charlie Moore. Brewers catcher Ted Simmons made the tag, and instead of having one restored to the roster, "a strike is an option." The players added they would decide on a course of action either tonight or Saturday.

bothered much of the season by shoulder ailments, held the Orioles to two hits over five innings, striking out three and walking three. Anderson, 3-1, checked the Orioles without a hit, handing Baltimore only its third loss in the last 20 games.

Mike Hargrove doubled off Dennis Martinez, 14-11, leading off the Cleveland seventh. Von Hayes then bunted and reached first safely with Hargrove beating catcher Joe Nolan's throw to third.

After Rick Manning lined to short, Hassey doubled to score both runners. Hassey scored when Alan Bannister singled with two out.

Facts About The BIBLE BY JOHN LEHTI

MONEY IS THE ROOT OF ALL EVIL—WRONG!

HOW MANY TIMES HAVE WE HEARD THIS SAID AND ACCEPTED IT WITH NO FURTHER THOUGHT? HOW MANY TIMES HAVE WE SEEN IT HANGING AS A MOTTO ON A WALL OR OVERHEARD A GRANDFATHER INTONE IT SAGELY TO SOME YOUNGSTER? HUNDREDS UPON HUNDREDS OF TIMES—AFTER ALL, IT'S STRAIGHT OUT OF THE BIBLE, RIGHT? BUT FEW OF US HAVE EVER REALIZED IT'S A BLATANT MISQUOTE!

IN OTHER WORDS, PAUL WAS ADVISING YOUNG TIMOTHY THAT NOT MONEY ITSELF, BUT MAN'S INNATE GREED OR DESIRE FOR IT, WAS THE REAL TROUBLE-MAKER, THE REAL "ROOT OF ALL EVIL"—HIS FURTHER ADVICE WAS TO FOREGO THE PURSUIT OF GREAT WEALTH AND LUXURY AND RATHER BEND ALL EFFORTS TOWARDS A SEARCH FOR WISDOM AND A PURER LIFE DEDICATED TO GOD.

THIS SAYING IS FOUND IN ONE PLACE, AND IN ONE PLACE ONLY, IN THE ENTIRE BIBLE! PAUL THE APOSTLE WROTE IT IN HIS FIRST LETTER TO TIMOTHY THE YOUNG EVANGELIST WHO WAS A DEVOTED FOLLOWER OF PAUL. IT CAN BE FOUND IN I TIMOTHY, CHAPTER 6, VERSE 10. PAUL WROTE, FROM LAODICEA, THE FOLLOWING "...THE LOVE OF MONEY IS THE ROOT OF ALL EVIL..."

Rare Licensing To Ministry

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer
Women ministers are rare and recent among Southern

Service Of Appreciation

JOSEPHINE RAWL

A special service and open house will be held at Oakmont Baptist Church Sunday in appreciation of Mrs. E.E. Rawl and her son and daughter-in-law, the late Mr. and Mrs. Ed Rawl Jr.

Mrs. Rawl will be special guest at an open house at the church from 3 p.m. until 5 p.m. Sunday.

Shutters in the sanctuary and fellowship hall will be dedicated to the memory of Ed and Josie "Barnie" White Rawl. The church parlor will be dedicated as the Josephine Rawl Parlor.

The Rawls were charter members of Oakmont and were instrumental in establishing the church in 1964. Mrs. Rawl has been a long-time trustee of the church and has been the senior active member of the congregation for a number of years. Prior to their deaths in an airplane crash in 1978, Ed Rawl was chairman of the building committee that constructed the present church building and his wife served as president of the WMU.

Baptists, but even rarer — and perhaps unique — was a Florida church's simultaneously licensing of two of them, a mother and daughter, to the ministry.

The congregation of the 18,529 member University Baptist Church in Coral Gables voted to authorize the new status for Lynn Phillips, 41, and her daughter, Merry Lee Phillips, 17.

"I don't feel like a radical although I realize this is unusual," says Mrs. Phillips, wife of a wholesale food broker.

Her daughter says she took the step "for God, not for women."

Baptist Press service says the two are believed to be the first mother-daughter pair ever licensed together in the 13.8 million-member denomination, the nation's largest Protestant body.

While most major Protestant denominations have officially modified their churchwide policies to ordain women, their entry to the ministry among Southern Baptists has been a gradual, sporadic and spontaneous process.

The reason it has come in only a scattered, piecemeal way is that the denomination, as a cooperating body of autonomous congregations, sets no blanket rules on the matter, as do most denominations.

Each congregation is free to choose its own course about it, and ordain whomever it feels fit.

At least 175 women now have been ordained in the denomination of 56,200 clergy, says sociologist Sarah Frances Anders of Louisiana College, who has kept tabs on the trend.

She says she has confirmed that number, scattered about the country, "and there may be as many as 225. I am convinced there are at least 200."

"But not more than a dozen of those women are in pastorates and half of those are co-pastoring with their husbands," she adds.

Most of the Southern Baptist women ministers are in the chaplaincy or some sort of insitutional service, she says, while others are ministers of education, music or to youth.

As for Mrs. Phillips and her daughter, their licensing to the ministry was a little-used Southern Baptist first step toward ordination, and they both say they may seek ordination after completing seminary training.

"I'm just maximizing myself for God's best use," says Mrs. Phillips, a former school teacher who holds an education degree from the University of Florida and who has served four years on the church staff as minister to children.

She says she hopes the double licensing will encourage more women to pursue church careers.

Her daughter, who enters Baylor University in Waco,

Texas, this fall as a religion major, says "I felt God wanted me to use my talents in some kind of ministry."

A cheer-leader, chorus member, distance runner on the track team and "senior of distinction" at Gables High School, she also sings with a church group called Proclamation and participated in mission tours to the Bahamas and Massachusetts.

Being licensed to the ministry "is just an added blessing for willing to be obedient," she says. "Mom and I are a lot alike in the way we think and what we want to do."

Ministers Will Meet

The Greater Greenville Area Ministerial Association will meet Monday at Hooker Memorial Christian Church, 1111 Greenville Blvd.

Fellowship will be from 9:30-10 a.m., with the general business meeting starting at 10 a.m.

A program of "Ministerial Sharing" will be facilitated by the programs chairman, Steward L. Neave. Chairpersons of the standing committees for the coming year will be appointed and upcoming projects will be discussed.

Officers for the 1982-83 year are: President Richard Miller, pastor of Gloria Dei Lutheran Church; Vice President Frank Gentry, pastor of First Pentecostal Holiness Church; Treasurer Joanne Verborg, associate pastor of First Christian Church; and Secretary Jerry Sherba, pastor of Saint Gabriel Catholic Church, all of Greenville.

HOME COMING

Piney Grove Free Will Baptist Church will hold homecoming services Sunday at 11 a.m. The Gloryland Quartet will sing at the morning services and at 2 p.m.

GOSPELING

SHELMERDINE - A gospeling will be held at the Sheldermine Pentecostal Holiness Church Saturday at 7:30 p.m. Guest singers are Betty Gurganus and the Son Lighters, Donnie Harris and the Sheldermine Singers. A bake sale will follow and proceeds will go to the Falcon Children's Home.

DEDICATION

A special dedication will be held at Red Oak Christian Church Sunday at 11 a.m. New choir robes, choir chairs and padded pews will be dedicated.

TIME CHANGE

Gloria Dei Lutheran Church has moved its Sunday morning service time to 10:15 a.m. The Sunday school hour will remain at 9 a.m. Gloria Dei is temporarily meeting at the Greenville Woman's Club.

USHERS MEETING

Greenville City Union Ushers will meet Monday at 7:30 p.m. at Mount Calvary Free Will Baptist Church.

SPEAKER

Services will be held at Best Chapel FNB Church Sunday at 11 a.m. Evangelist Mary Moore will be the speaker. The program will also include the senior choir and ushers.

SWIMSUIT WINNER — Elizabeth Williams, Miss North Carolina, is the swimsuit winner for the 2nd night of the Miss America Pageant preliminaries. (AP Laserphoto)

Swimsuit Win For Miss N.C.

By TOM ROSENTHAL
Associated Press Writer
ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Although Miss North Carolina, Elizabeth Gray Williams, fought back tears and Miss Mississippi, Dianne Evans, sang the blues, both were winners in the second round of preliminary Miss America competition.

"I always have a feeling of being overweight, but I guess the judges didn't see it that way," Miss Williams said Thursday night after winning the swimsuit competition in a green knit outfit.

"It's like a dream come true. I feel so honored," said the 1982 graduate of Converse College in Spartanburg, S.C., who plans to sing professionally.

"I ran for six weeks. My father made me get out and run. I toned up 100 percent," added the 5-foot-7, 112-pound resident of Shelby, N.C., whose measurements are 36-24-36.

Miss Evans' sultry rendition of the song "Stormy Weather" brought her prolonged applause and the gold statue for the talent event.

After the names were called, the 22-year-old from Taylorsville, Miss., calmly strolled down the brightly lit runway with Miss Williams and the reigning Miss America, Elizabeth Ward, who relinquishes her crown during the nationally televised finals Saturday night.

"I'm just overwhelmed," said Miss Evans, who wore a purple, one-shoulder gown with a shimmering sheath.

"It's like a dream come true. I'm always very self-confident. I love to perform and entertain," said the blue-eyed brunette, who graduated from William Carey College and hopes to enter the entertainment field.

"I was going for the emotion that song portrayed, of losing a love," said Miss Evans, who competed against nine singers, two pianists, two dancers, a baton twirler, a harpist and a ventriloquist.

The seven-judge panel also saw 17 contestants compete in the evening gown event, but their first choice in that category is kept a secret to heighten the suspense building for Saturday night's selection of the new queen.

After the awards Thursday, the two winners posed for photographers with Wednesday's winners, Miss California, Debra Sue Maffett, for swimsuit, and Miss Kentucky, Gwendolyn Suzann Witten, for talent.

'Books Under Fire' Is On PBS Tonight

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — They're not going to like "Books Under Fire" in Gardner, Kan., Fairfax County, Va., or Anderson, Calif. These towns, respectively — but not respectfully — banned "Jaws," "Huckleberry Finn," and "Catch 22" from impressionable young minds.

Tonight's public television broadcast won't be on the best-watcher's list, either, in Burlington, Iowa, where Car and Driver magazine was banned, Rockville, Md., where Sport magazine was banned, nor Nashua, N.H., where Ms. magazine was banned.

Barbara Jordan's "Crisis to Crisis" series focuses on censorship tonight, and it doesn't take long to realize that this episode has a viewpoint, a strong one, making for a powerful and provocative hour of television.

In her introduction, Ms. Jordan's sneer registers contempt for the elements in our society that dictate reading lists for others. Later, in two separate segments, a list of publications banned and burned throughout America crawls effectively across the screen.

Producers Grady Watts Jr. and Arnold Bennett force us to ponder the possibility that some ideas and opinions might wind up on the endangered species list because of self-appointed guardians of American values. Journalist Nat Hentoff says the pressure has "intensified" since the election of President Reagan.

The other side of the issue — described by one as "parents' rights" to censor what their children read — is not cast in a favorable light. The way comments from censorship crusaders Mel and Norma Gabler are quickly alternated seems to diminish them and their cause.

Norma says they've given speeches in Billings, Bozeman, Missoula, Hamilton and Kalispell. Then Mel comes on the screen, criticizing a literature textbook because, he says, it has a cover picture of two gazelles mating. "This is known as subliminal perception," he says.

Two battlegrounds in Texas and Maine receive prominent attention.

At the Texas school system's textbook adoption hearing, a recommendation is made to ban the Webster New Collegiate Dictionary because it includes common-usage profanity.

"We need to understand how to love, and these books are not telling us anything about love," says one dictionary opponent. "They're telling us about problems, and as long as we keep dwelling on problems, we will never have solutions."

The documentary also focuses on a lawsuit in Woodland, Maine, where Dr. Ronald Glasser's book about his medical experiences in Vietnam was banned because of foul language.

"These words that the troopers used were because the common language failed," says Glasser. "You wake up and your leg is cut off and you just don't say, 'Golly gee.'"

Vietnam veterans support Glasser. "You can't tell war stories with ... poetry," says one. "You have to tell it the way it is. We owe it to the young people today. Especially in the high schools. They're going to be the cannon fodder of the next war, and we want to make sure they ... get the true story of what happened."

Woodland is a Norman Rockwell town. While the high school band plays "Stars and Stripes Forever," pictures show Woodland in repose. Out front of the white, houses and tailored lawns, kids are playing football; out back, laundry is fluttering in the breeze.

This portrait contrasts an attitude in Woodland that this production clearly considers dangerous. And harmful to its children.

Students in Woodland are asked who fought in Vietnam. "One answers 'United States,' South Vietnam, North Vietnam, Russia."

How many people died? "Fifteen hundred to two thousand."

Theater For Young People Returning

ECU News Bureau
Theater for young people returns to East Carolina University this season, with a contemporary play, "Step on a Crack" scheduled for later this fall.

Auditions for the play will be held Sept. 16-17 at 7:30 p.m. in Room 206 of ECU's Messick Theater Arts Center.

With the establishment of the East Carolina Youth Playhouse, East Carolina's drama program resumes its production of children's plays, which were a popular attraction throughout eastern North Carolina several decades ago.

Purpose of the youth theater, according to director Douglas Ray, is to produce plays for young people. "We see a tremendous need for youth theater in this area of the state," he said. "We want our young people to experience the joy and magic of watching actors bring a story to life on the stage before them."

A play about a modern child, her fantasies and new stepmother, "Step on a Crack" has 16 characters — two young girls about 10 years old, a young man and woman about 20 and a mother and father in their mid-30s. All characters in the play are called upon to sing.

ALBEE DIRECTING
CHICAGO (UPI) — Edward Albee will direct his new play, "The Man Who Had Three Arms," to open the Goodman Theater Mainstage's fall season October 4.

Robert Drivas, who played the title role in the play's world premiere, will again play the title role.

"Step on a Crack" is scheduled for production in the Messick Center's Studio Theater at 9:30 a.m. Nov. 11-12 and again at 2:15 p.m. Nov. 13-14.

Copies of the script are on reserve at the Joyner Library on ECU's main campus. Interested persons in the campus and local communities may audition for a role. Further information is available by telephoning the ECU Department of Drama and Speech at 757-6390.

Alexander Will Be Radio Guest

ECU News Bureau
Rudolph Alexander, director of university unions and the associate dean for student activities at East Carolina University, will be this week's guest on "ECU Concepts" Sunday at 8 a.m. on radio station WOOV.

Alexander will discuss some of the netertainment programs offered throughout the year by ECU. "ECU Concepts" is a 15-minute program produced weekly by ECU. It is hosted by James Rees of the department of drama and speech.

Judge Pat Priest of 187th District Court signed the order Wednesday making the uncontestable divorce final for the San Antonio couple who were married on Jan. 10, 1980. The settlement includes the monthly cat-support provision, Stone said.

"I thought Judge Priest was going to fall out of his chair" when he saw the cat-support provision, Stone said.

School Day Secrets

First graders at W.H. Robinson School in Winterville share secrets and make friends while trying to put the summer behind them. School is in its second week for Pitt County youngsters, and while it may not be ideal for the kids compared to carefree summer days, school officials say it's been a smooth opening.

Gov. Hunt And Officials Laud New Central Prison Security

By WILLIAM M. WELCH
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Security is the code word at the new Central Prison, which will soon replace the state's ancient maximum-custody lockup.

"Down to screws in light fixtures, everything is designed with security in mind," architect John Duncan told a gathering for dedication ceremonies Thursday that included Gov. Jim Hunt, prison officials, top state judges and legislators who helped secure money for the prison.

"We are confident this institution will serve North Carolina for the next 100 years," he said.

The new prison is located just south of the red-brick old Central Prison, just outside its massive granite walls near downtown Raleigh.

Although this was the official dedication ceremony, the building isn't ready for prisoners yet. It is still officially in the hands of the contractors; state officials expect to take control of it in a month.

Hunt called the new prison the keystone to North Carolina's efforts to strengthen its penal system, a project that has received $100 million for renovations and new construction in 5½ years. "That's a tremendous record," Hunt said.

"When this administration too office in 1977 our prisons were simply inadequate," he said. "Some judges were refusing to send convicted criminals to prison because of the status of these places. That meant the system was not protecting the people."

The new prison contains virtually no bars and will house the state's toughest criminals in individual cells. Crowded old Central houses many inmates in two-man and four-man cells as well as in open dormitories.

The prison is designed with guards in control booths who can control doors electronically and can seal off cellblocks and corridors in the event of trouble.

State officials plan to put the first inmates into the new prison by the end of the year. They plan to begin with honor-grade prisoners as a preliminary test.

"We'll shake it down with them," said Stuart Shadbolt, spokesman for the Correction Department. "If we find some bugs, it'll be better with them than with some lifers."

The new prison will actually contain fewer prisoners than the existing Central, which now houses close to 1,300 men.

The portion dedicated Thursday, built at a cost of $28.8 million, contains 388 single cells. Portions of the old Central that will remain — the more modern hospital, mental health wings and a dormitory — will house 404 prisoners.

SUMMER SHADOWS — As Labor Day becomes a memory, summer begins to fade into silhouettes and shadows. While most adults trade warm-weather fun for more serious activities the hearts of youngsters will savor every chance to balance on a surfboard or just get wet on a hot day...and there are a few more summer days left with autumn officially arriving September 23. ## YOUR DAILY Horoscope from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A good day to make plans to have greater abundance in the days ahead. Not a time for emotional arguments. Look for modern methods to increase your productivity.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Bringing your finest talents to those who can help you commercialize on them is wise. Go after personal desires later.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Make those changes at home that are necessary for greater comfort. Discuss future plans with congenials.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Put new ideas to work that will help you become more productive in your line of endeavor. Express happiness.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You can now formulate a plan that will improve your financial status. Take no chances with a trickster.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You have to be more objective in your thinking to gain your aims. Make plans to have more security and prosperity in the future.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Don't try to limit yourself where your activities are concerned or you could lose out where it counts the most.

College Free To Jobless Grads

BELMONT, N.C. (AP) — Unemployed high school graduates in Gaston County are getting a free semester of college, and they owe their free ride to Erma Bombeck and President Reagan and the nuns at Sacred Heart Convent.

"We think someone has to help the unemployed," says Elizabeth Boulus, director of student services for Sacred Heart College.

"In their frame of mind, they need some guidance and something to make their lives look up a bit. We just put our trust in the Lord and hope he will bless our work with some money."

The private, coeducational college of about 400 students is run by the Sisters of Mercy of North Carolina. The 170 members of the Roman Catholic order also administer two state hospitals, a Charlotte high school and several elementary schools. Their headquarters, founded in the early 1890s, is the convent, located near the Benedictine monastery of Belmont Abbey.

Any high school graduate aged 21 or older without a four-year college degree is eligible for the night classes at Sacred Heart. The first two courses, both mandatory, are "Introduction to Business" and "Career and Life Planning."

In the second eight-week session, students will be able to pick any other two courses they choose.

The first semester's tuition — the equivalent of about $1,200 or $100 per credit hour — is free. After that, students must pay their own way, and one of the skills they will learn early is how to apply for various grants and loans.

Meanwhile, the college's private donors are picking up the tab, Ms. Boulus said.

She said the college probably will get far more than the 50 applicants it originally sought.

"There is no maximum, but if we get a hundred, we'll take a hundred. We'll see what the response is first," she said. "We're looking for serious students who want to do something to better their lives."

The Daily Reflector, Greenville, N.C.—Friday, September 10, 1982—19

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Discuss new ideas with good friends and gain their cooperation. Forget past mistakes, but don't make them again.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Be determined in the handling of important business affairs and get excellent results. Obtain the data you need.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Studying the new and unexplored fields of your career is a step toward advancement now. Think constructively.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Find new ways of handling your responsibilities and get good results. Stop being so thoughtless in your routines.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Be more enthused about a new activity and get the results you want. Make long-range plans for the future.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You have to use modern methods now if you wish to gain your aims. Take a new kind of treatment for your health.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will realize that changes must be made to improve conditions and bring out the fine potential in this chart. Make sure you give the right ethical training early in life. There is a great deal of musical talent in this chart.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

Yesterday's Cryptoquip — POOR CHESS CHAMP MENTIONED HIS PAWNED WRISTWATCH.

Today's Cryptoquip clue: L equals S.

The Cryptoquip is a simple substitution cipher in which each letter used stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words, and words using an apostrophe can give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is accomplished by trial and error.

Asylum Denied 2 Salvadorans

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — An immigration judge has denied political asylum to two Salvadoran refugees who fear they will be killed or politically persecuted if they are forced to return to El Salvador.

Judge Brian Simpson of the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Court issued the decision Wednesday in the cases of Luis Escobar, 22, and Luis Sanchez, 30.

The decision will be appealed within 10 days to the Board of Immigration and Appeals in Washington D.C., according to Patty Blum, an attorney for the men.

Simpson said in his ruling that Escobar and Sanchez had not proven they were the "individual" targets of social, religious or racial persecution.

He said "the fact an alien is a single male means little or nothing unless... it can be established that his sex or marital status has a bearing on the likelihood of persecution."

Although the judge acknowledged the Salvadoran army and right-wing security forces have been responsible for thousands of civilian deaths, he said there is no reason to believe the men would be singled out as targets.

He said the two men were not political activists in El Salvador or in direct conflict with the military before they fled their homeland late in 1979. They have been living in the San Francisco area with the help of church and other support groups.

Ms. Blum and attorney Marc Van Der Hout had attempted to prove that young Salvadoran males are routinely killed by government security forces on mere suspicion of being leftist guerrillas or guerrilla sympathizers.

Van Der Hout said at a news conference Thursday that only 26 of 12,000 Salvadoran requests for asylum have been granted by the United States.

He said the number is small because to approve numerous requests would be to "acknowledge that human rights violations in El Salvador continue on a massive and barbarous level, despite President Reagan's assertions to the contrary."

Suspect Ill Dealer Swallowed Heroin

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — A Winston-Salem man was in serious condition at Moses Cone Hospital Thursday after he allegedly swallowed heroin to prevent officers from seizing it as evidence.

David McCoy Bishop, 37, was in "serious, guarded and improving" condition in the hospital's intensive care unit, a Moses Cone spokeswoman said. She would not say for what Bishop was being treated.

Charles J. Overton III, supervisor of a State Bureau of Investigation special emphasis unit on drugs, said Bishop was charged with felonious trafficking in heroin, assault on a law enforcement officer and disorderly conduct.

Overton said a scuffle broke out when an agent tried to arrest Bishop, who arrived at the Regional Airport Tuesday night. Bishop apparently swallowed some of the contents of a plastic bag to keep it from being seized as evidence, Overton said. But some of the contents were recovered by the agent and will be analyzed, he added.

He said Bishop is accused of attempting to smuggle eight grams of heroin, which would have a street value of about $1,600. He said he was not sure how much of the contents of the bag was recovered or how much was swallowed.

Bishop, who was sentenced in U.S. Middle District Court to 14 years in prison for the 1977 robbery of a High Point bank, had been released on parole.

Notice Of A Public Hearing On Proposed Four Laning Of US 264 Between Greenville And Washington

PROJECT 8.1184801 R-216 PITT-BEAUFORT COUNTIES

The above public hearing will be held on October 12, 1982 at 7:30 PM in the Pactolus School Gymnasium located on US 264 at Pactolus, N.C.

The hearing will consist of an explanation of the proposed design, right of way requirements and procedures, relocation advisory assistance and State-Federal relationship. The hearing will be open for statements, questions, comments and/or submittal of material pertaining to the proposed project. Additional material may be submitted for a period of ten days from the date of the hearing to Mr. George E. Wells, P.E., Manager of Highway Design, P.O. Box 25201, Raleigh, N.C. 27611.

The proposed design is to add a 24' roadway and a 36' median to the existing roadway. The new lanes will be on the north side from SR 1538 to NC 30, on the south side from NC 30 to SR 1565 and on the north side from SR 1565 to SR 1427. From SR 1427 to the 5 lane curb and gutter section, the existing road will be widened to five lanes. The right of way will be variable to contain the construction.

A map setting forth the proposed design and copies of the Environmental Assessment are available for public review at the North Carolina Department of Transportation - Division Office in Greenville, N.C.

Anyone desiring additional information on the hearing should contact W.A. Garrett, Jr., P.E., Public Hearing Officer, Post Office Box 25201, Raleigh, N.C. 27611; Telephone 919-733-3244.

TRAINS DISRUPTED
 TOKYO — Train service to Tokyo's Narita Airport was disrupted today when old tires were set on fire in a railway tunnel, apparently by radicals opposed to expansion of the airport, police said.

BILL CLARK CONSTRUCTION CO.
 This contemporary design model solar home is owned by Bill Clark Construction Company. Solar heat enters the house through large south-facing windows and through skylights in the cathedral ceiling. This heat is stored in the tile floor and concrete slab. Wall and ceiling insulation are better than required by state building codes and air infiltration has been reduced by installation of a continuous plastic vapor barrier. The home also features an active solar system to heat household water.

PITT COMMUNITY COLLEGE
 This uniquely designed passive solar house was constructed by building trades students at Pitt Community College, and will be sold at public auction following the Governor's Showcase open house. Solar heat is collected through a large expanse of south-facing glass. In the bedrooms, trombe walls store this heat. In the central living area, solar radiation enters the space directly and is absorbed by the brick floors and walls. Insulating shades can be lowered over the glass in front of the trombe walls. In summer, the wide roof overhang, whole-house fan, and pre-conditioning earth tubes help prevent overheating. Household water is heated with an active solar system.

Japanese Hotel Bomb Shelter Is For Its Patrons

By JIM ABRAMS
Associated Press Writer
KYOTO, Japan (AP) — The 245-room Kyoto Century Hotel, which opened last year to cater mainly to tourists, has an added service for its guests and several thousand others — a nuclear bomb shelter.

The only large-scale nuclear bomb shelter in Japan, it is a two-story underground chamber that could house 3,000 people for several weeks if Kyoto came under a nuclear attack.

The 56,000-square-foot shelter is used now for more peaceful purposes, primarily as an underground parking lot. What would be the "strategy room" in the event of a nuclear attack is a wedding chapel, and space that would become a hospital ward now serves as a kimono-changing room for wedding parties.

The shelter is the idea of Koichi Uemura, a Tokyo civil engineer and former Construction Ministry employee, who believes Japan should have more of them. He is planning an even bigger project, a sprawling locker room under a golf course near Tokyo that, in the event of nuclear war, will shelter

5,000 people for a month. The hotel's guarantee of patron comfort, even in nuclear war, has gained widespread attention in Japan, which has no civil defense program despite being the only nation ever to suffer atomic attack.

"We don't believe war is about to break out," said Kazuo Kutami, planning manager at the hotel. "But a hotel is built to last at least 100 years, and who knows what will happen in the distant future."

Already in place are lead and asbestos doors, thick concrete walls designed to withstand radiation and poisonous gasses, and air conditioners that can cool air that gets as hot as 392 degrees Fahrenheit.

Kutami said it would take several months to make the shelter fully operable — sealing entrances, supplementing air filter systems and bringing in beds, food and medicine.

He said no decision has been made on who would use the shelter, but top priority might go to guests, hotel employees and their families, and local government leaders. The Kyoto Century shelter and Japan's few other fallout shelters are part of a one-man crusade by Uemura, president of the Uemura Technical Research Laboratory whose main business is designing underground passageways.

He said it was a "message from God" which revealed to him the need to protect Japan from nuclear threat.

"If Buddha or Christ were alive today, I believe they would consider nuclear proliferation, and how to protect mankind from it, as the most urgent problem," he said.

Uemura, Japan's only fallout shelter designer, said about 20 shelters have been built or are now under construction, with 30 more in the planning stage. Almost all, he said, were bought by private individuals or companies, many by people who have lived abroad and realize the dangers of nuclear war.

A home model shelter accommodating up to 25 people costs $58,000 to $96,000; a shelter for 100 people costs $135,000 to $192,000.

"Japan is in a very dangerous situation," Uemura maintained, pointing to a wall chart showing the placement and range of Soviet missiles and bombers.

Despite the U.S. atomic bomb attacks on Hiroshima and Nagasaki in World War II, he said, the Japanese "tend to look backward rather than forward... War is not imminent, so the danger does not hit home."

Uemura claimed the Japanese government has dragged its heels on civil defense, and a parliamentary group formed several years ago to promote civil defense was disbanded after two of its leaders died.

Checks by The Associated Press with government agencies established that there is no official plan for underground refuge in case of natural disaster or war.

Spokesmen for the office of Prime Minister Zenko Suzuki, the Home Affairs Ministry and the Health and Welfare Ministry said none of them has responsibility for civil defense. The Defense Ministry said it was developing plans to protect its own facilities from nuclear war, but has no overall civil defense preparedness role.

Uemura said Japan's strong aversion to things nuclear — known as the "nuclear allergy" — has actually worked against protective measures.

"The government is so squeamish about mention of the word 'nuclear' that it has asked us to advertise our products as fire, rather than nuclear, shelters," he said.

President Reagan has proposed an ambitious $4.2 billion spending program over seven years to make Americans less vulnerable to nuclear attack.

Uemura, who has studied at the Civil Defense Preparation Agency in Battle Creek, Mich., and inspected facilities throughout the United States and Europe, said 48 percent of Americans, 72 percent of Soviets and every Israeli has access to shelters. In Japan, the figure is still close to zero.

Uemura insists, though, that the Japanese will eventually realize the need for protection. In June the first portable home shelters, from West Germany, arrived in Tokyo — globes with accommodations in each for 10 people and selling for $58,000 to $65,000 apiece.

Hospitality House

WASHINGTON — Kay Currie's show, "Hospitality House," this week is going from its former Sunday hour to a Saturday spot over WITN-TV, Channel 7. Beginning Saturday, the show will be aired each Saturday from 1 to 1:30 p.m.

This week, Ms. Currie is featuring three segments on her program — crime, calligraphy and "Camelot."

The first guest is M.C. Teague of Raleigh, who will discuss the extent of violent crimes against women in North Carolina, including the fact a rape occurs on the average of every three hours in the state. He will also give details on four upcoming crime seminars to be held at various locales in the state during September.

Carol Pattillo of Rocky Mount will demonstrate the art of calligraphy. Ms. Pattillo is the author of a book, "Crafts With Calligraphy" in which she outlines styles she uses as a calligrapher.

Members of the cast of the Nags Head-based Troubadour Productions will be on hand to sing several selections from "Camelot," which opens on Sept. 30 and will run until mid-October. Cast members will be in costume and will perform against the backdrop of a castle.

OLD AND NEW — The world's largest windmill and another that is considerably smaller are shown in the picture taken on the windy plains five miles south of historic Medicine Bow, Wyoming. The 400-foot tall Hamilton Standard Corp. wind turbine at right was dedicated over the weekend by federal Bureau of Reclamation Commissioner Robert Broadbent and Hamilton Standard President Richard Gamble. It is part of a federally funded project to determine the feasibility of large "wind farms" of windmills to generate electricity. (AP Laserphoto)
