Beirut's Massacre Dead Are Gathered For A Mass Burial

By FAROUK NASSAR
BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Red Cross workers gathered 90 bloated and blackened bodies at a mass grave today in one of two predominantly Moslem refugee camps where reports say hundreds of civilians were massacred by Christian militiamen.

slaughter. Israel's Cabinet angrily rejected as "blood libel" claims that its army was responsible directly or indirectly for the killing, which Israel and Lebanon have blamed on different Christian militias. However, two Tel Aviv newspapers claimed Israel knew about the massacre, and let it continue for 36 hours before taking action.

ident Leonid I. Brezhnev called on President Reagan "to act jointly with the Soviet Union at the Security Council with a view to bridling Israel."

Brezhnev did not name the United States in this charge, but weekend Tass reports made similar charges and did mention Washington specifically.

Falkland Request Approved Water, Sewer District Hearing OK'd

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

The Pitt County Board of Commissioners this morning approved a request by the Town of Falkland to hold a public hearing to consider the establishment of a water and sewer service district in the Falkland and Fountain areas.

Falkland town attorney Rusty Duke told commissioners that the board has the "power" to hold the hearing, and ultimately to establish and govern the proposed water and sewer service district.

He said the board of commissioners could also issue general obligation or revenue bonds, and levy taxes on the residents of the district to fund operations of a water or sewer system.

Falkland town board member Woodrow Wooten emphasized that the town and residents of the proposed service area "don't want to be any expense to Pitt County or the taxpayers," suggesting that any expense involved would be paid for by the people served by the proposed water system.

However, Wooten said "without your help we can't do it." "Let us proceed" with the hearing "and let it be ours" Wooten said.

Ron Sessoms, representing the engineering firm of Rivers and Associates told commissioners that the total estimated cost of the water system would be $1.18 million, to be funded in part by a Farmers Home Administration loan of $639,000 and an FHA grant of $545,500.

Sessoms said it is estimated that there would be 407 customers, which would require a minimum water rate of $11 per month. The average monthly water bill, he said, would be about $16.50.

In approving the request for a public hearing, commissioners instructed county attorney Bill Watson to work with Duke in setting the time and location for the hearing.

In other business today, commissioners approved the budget for Pitt County Memorial Hospital for the coming fiscal year, which begins October 1.

PCMH director Jack Richardson told the board that the budget includes $77.5 million in revenue, 42 percent of which would come from room rates, which will rise to $160 per day from the present $125 per day.

Richardson emphasized that there is no Pitt County tax subsidy included in the budget for the coming year. He noted that it will be the 11th consecutive year county tax payers have not subsidized the operation of the hospital.

Richardson noted that at present, there are some 2,250 full time employees at the medical facility.

Commissioners also approved the acceptance of a $98,109 grant from the Federal Aviation Administration to be used to install tile in a canal running near one of the Pitt-Greenville Airport's runways.

The federal grant will be matched with a $5,455 grant from the State of North Carolina and $5,455 from local funds which the Airport Authority has on hand.

Commissioners also gave their approval to the final plat of the Mission Valley Subdivision in Grimesland Township.

Condemnation Of Slaughter Grows

By The Associated Press
World governments and the international press unleashed a rising crescendo of condemnation over the weekend slaughter of Palestinian refugees in Beirut, with Israel drawing much of the blame for direct or indirect responsibility.

Egyptian President Hosni Mubarak ordered the Egyptian ambassador to Israel to return to Cairo. Prime Minister Fuad Mohieddin said Israeli troops in west Beirut left the Moslem Palestinian civilians in the camps vulnerable to reprisals by Christian militiamen by "paralyzing the activities of the Lebanese Army."

Soviet President Leonid I. Brezhnev asked President Reagan to join him in efforts to "bridle" the Israelis through the United Nations. Brezhnev said the United States, through its support of Israel, must bear responsibility for the massacre.

In Italy, millions of workers went on an hour-long strike and attended rallies denouncing the massacre. At one rally, Christian Democrat leader Flaminio Piccoli said "it appears that (Israeli Defense Minister Ariel) Sharon's troops took part in the massacre passively."

The Italian government, which had joined with France and the United States in sending a multinational force to oversee the evacuation of Palestinian fighters from west Beirut, issued a communique Sunday expressing its "most firm condemnation and the most angry reproach for the bloody actions that the Israeli army perpetrated or anyhow consented to and for the tragic slaughter of Palestinian refugees."

Palestine Liberation Organization chief Yasser Arafat vowed to "punish all those who participated in shedding Palestinian and Lebanese blood," the Palestinian news agency Wafa reported.

In an interview with the French newspaper Le Monde, Arafat was quoted as saying Israelis carried out the massacre accompanied by members of the militia of Maj. Saad Haddad, the Israeli-backed Lebanese officer who controls a section of southern Lebanon. Both the Israelis and Haddad have denied any involvement of Haddad's troops.

Reagan Weighs Options

WASHINGTON (AP) —

President Reagan, weighing his options following the massacre of Palestinians in Lebanon, met with his top foreign policy advisers today to discuss the possibility of sending U.S. Marines back to Beirut as part of a multinational force, a White House spokesman said.

But the administration might opt for a shift in the U.N. peacekeeping forces from southern Lebanon to Beirut or an increase in the number of U.N. observers, said Mort Allin, a deputy White House press secretary.

Presidential spokesman Larry Speakes said Reagan's regular national security briefing had been expanded today to include several senior administration advisers, including Secretary of State George P. Shultz. Speakes said he did not know whether a decision was likely to be made at the meeting, but he did say the administration's various options would be discussed.

Speakes also said that Reagan had read a telegram from Soviet President Leonid I. Brezhnev. Speakes refused, however, to comment on the message or on Reagan's reaction.

Train Services Seems Affected

Engineers and others of both the Seaboard Coastline and Southern railroads which operate in this county are apparently on strike today along with engineers and trainmen throughout the nation.

A spokesman for Seaboard said a minimum of personnel who arrived before picketers did this morning are working today and will make local deliveries. However, if the strike is not settled, no one will cross the picket line tomorrow and work will stop, he predicted.

The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers is on strike and related unions like the United Trainman's Union are supporting them, he said.

The 10 p.m. train to Aurora that should have moved last night, the 8:30 a.m. train to Parmele and the 10 a.m. train to Kinston that should have moved today did not, he said.

There was no answer to the telephone at the Southern office in Farmville, so no information was received about how Southern operations are affected by the nationwide strike.

The Seaboard spokesman said he believes the strike will create a national emergency and that the President will end it tomorrow if a settlement is not reached.

Rail Talks Resume Under Threats Of Intervention

By H. JOSEF HEBERT
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Under threat of government intervention, railroad and union bargainers resumed face-to-face negotiations today to end a day-old nationwide railroad strike.

The talks collapsed shortly after dawn Sunday, seven hours after thousands of locomotive engineers began walking off their jobs, bringing to a halt most of the nation's freight rail traffic and many Amtrak passenger trains in the South and West.

Throughout the day Sunday, federal mediators met with the two sides separately in hopes of finding areas of agreement, officials said. By evening, Robert Harris, chairman of the National Mediation Board, said the participants were too exhausted to engage in any productive talks.

As union officials showed up today for the talks, they speculated there was a good chance that Congress would move to force an end to the strike, but added they remained hopeful of a settlement.

William Wanke, the union's chief negotiator, said, however, the engineers remain "adamant" about their insistence that an agreement must assure their wage differential compared to other train crewmen.

Asked whether he expected government intervention to end the walkout, union president John Sytsma replied: "I think the prospects are very excellent...I would expect it at this point."

He added that if Congress acts, "we'd have to live with it."

When Charles Hopkins, the industry's top negotiator arrived, he said only, "I wish I could be optimistic but it's hard to be."

The Reagan administration warned Sunday it was prepared to ask Congress for emergency legislation to extend a mandatory cooling off period and to allow President Reagan to order an end to the strike.

"If the collective bargaining process does not produce a settlement by (Monday) morning, we are prepared to discuss the matter with the president and to propose legislation to the Congress to prevent the threat of an extended strike," Transportation Secretary Drew Lewis and Labor Secretary Raymond Donovan said in a joint statement.

During nearly 24 hours of almost continuous negotiations Saturday and early Sunday, the Brotherhood or Locomotive Engineers and the National Railway Labor Council, which bargains for 110 railroads, were unable to make progress on the key issue that has blocked a settlement.

The dispute, according to mediators, centers on whether the engineers, who traditionally have earned more than other train crew members, would be able to maintain their wage differential under all circumstances.

In earlier negotiations with the United Transportation Union, crew members won special raises in return for agreeing to work with a smaller sized crew, bringing their pay even with the engineers+ But the engineers now want comparable raises to maintain the wage differential, the officials said.

The industry is willing to consider the increases, but wants a "no strike" clause in return. The union has stood steadfastly against giving up any right to strike.

Hopkins said Sunday night the railroads "do not intend to capitulate" to the union's demands and accused union negotiators of intransigence.

"The issue is wages," he declared. Sytsma insisted that the central question is whether the union should agree to a "no strike" clause and declared: "We're striking for the right to strike."

The walkout by the 26,000-member union came after expiration at 12:01 a.m.

INTERNATIONAL TRAVEL CARD

I have an International Travel Card the application for which I picked up in an airport in Washington, D.C. It's afforded me several free second nights at hotels, some in recent months. Several of my friends would like to have such a card, but when I write to the company in Jacksonville, Fla. to get applications for them, I get no answer. R.L.

Hotline could find no listing either, so we called the management of the building in which International Travel, apparently also known as United Travel Systems Inc. was once located. We were told that the company owned and operated by a Tom Kay vacated the building July 31, 1981, and that it is their understanding that the company no longer exists.

We then talked to Jacksonville Consumer Affairs and were informed that the company has not operated since mid-1981. Your having your card honored by a hotel since that time means, of course, that the hotel management itself made the choice to take the loss or either did not know they would have no reimbursement or other benefit. Many persons have requested refunds of their $25 memberships in International Travel and have received no answers. Apparently, however, you got your money's worth before and even after the operation folded.

The Florida Attorney General has filed suit against the company, so anyone wishing to attempt to get the application fee back may send a complaint to Attorney General of Florida, State Capitol, Tallahassee, Fla. 32304.

Pat's Pointers

By Pat Trexler

Recall the delights of an old-fashioned Christmas with this cheery counted cross stitch sampler, sure to warm the hearts of all who see it.

The 9-by-12 sampler, worked on 11-count fabric, was designed exclusively for readers of this column by Virginia Ross of San Marino, Calif. If you haven't yet succumbed to the mania for counted cross stitch, this would be a great beginning project — simple and fun to do. Needlepointers can create the same effect with 10- or 12-mesh canvas.

To obtain directions for making the "Olde Tyme Sampler," send your request to Leaflet No. VR-1919 with $1 and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to: Pat Trexler ("The Daily Reflector"), P.O. Box 810, North Myrtle Beach, S.C. 29582.

Or you may order Kit No. KR-1919 by sending a check or money order for $12.50 to Pat Trexler at the same address. Each kit contains instructions, 11-count Aida cloth, embroidery floss and a self-stick mounting board. Shipping charges are also included in the price. The design is worked from a graph chart and is not stamped on the fabric.

Dear Pat: I have been hearing about counted cross stitch lately and can't help but wonder what is the difference between "counted" and plain cross stitch. I live in a remote area and have to order everything by mail and rely upon teaching myself any new skill. I do know most of the basic needlepoint and embroidery stitches, but have no instructions for the counted type — whatever that is. — Sally J.

I am glad you asked the question, Sally, as I tend to forget that this is still an unfamiliar term to many people. The stitch itself is the simple cross stitch used in any type of embroidery.

It is worked on any fabric with evenly woven vertical and horizontal threads. Counted cross stitch is always worked on blank fabric following a charted design.

CHRISTMAS SAMPLER

Each square of the graph chart represents one full cross stitch to be worked over one "square" of the fabric. For the beginner, 11-count Aida is an excellent choice because you can easily see the squares formed by the fabric weave.

On black and white charts different symbols are used to show you the color to be used for each stitch. When color charts are used, blocks of color or are shown rather than the symbols. These are much more expensive to produce, so most charts are of the black-and-white variety.

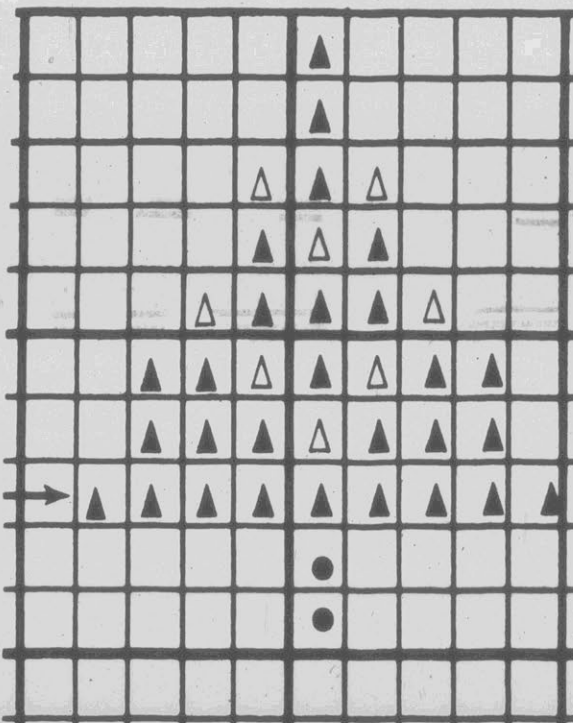

On the sample chart shown today, which is one section of the border design for the Christmas sampler, each solid triangle represents dark green, each open triangle represents lime green and each solid circle denotes a stitch to be worked in light brown.

Start by working one brown cross stitch in the bottom center of your design area; the finished size of your design. It all depends upon the thread count of the fabric you use.

For example, the Christmas sampler shown today encompasses a count of 99 fabric squares across and 123 fabric squares vertically. On the 11-count fabric used, then count up one fabric square and work another brown stitch. Count up one more fabric square and over four more fabric squares to the left and work a row of green cross stitches to correspond to the row of symbols marked with an arrow.

It is from this process of matching chart squares to fabric squares that the term "counting" comes. Continue in this manner until your little Christmas tree is complete and you will have learned how to do counted cross stitch.

One of the fascinating aspects of this stitch is that you and you alone can decide this results in a stitched area of slightly over 8 by 11 inches. A few fabric squares are left unworked around all the edges for a finished measurement of 9 by 12 inches.

If you worked the same design on 18-count fabric, the finished design area would be approximately 5 by 7 inches. Wouldn't this sampler make a memorable Christmas card in this size or smaller?

Vaccination Could End Rubella

By CHARLES S. TAYLOR
ATLANTA (UPI) — Public health officials see a real possibility of eliminating congenital rubella syndrome from this country if women of child-bearing age would take the time to get a vaccination against rubella (German measles).

Congenital rubella syndrome is the medical name for a collection of birth defects caused by the rubella virus when it is passed from the mother to her unborn child.

The defects include a host of abnormalities — deafness, blindness, heart abnormalities, mental retardation — all of which could be prevented by vaccination of the mother, says Dr. Kenneth Bart of the immunization division of the National Centers for Disease Control.

In a 1964 rubella epidemic, there were an estimated 12 million cases of the disease, which has mild clinical symptoms and usually does not cause severe illness. The nation continues to pay the price of "this totally preventable syndrome" said Bart, citing reports that the epidemic caused an economic loss of $1.5 billion. Some 8,000 children born deaf as a result of the epidemic are now reaching college age, placing a heavy burden on the nation's specialized teaching facilities for handicapped youth.

Following the 1964 epidemic, efforts to find an effective vaccine against rubella were pushed and the first one came on the market in 1969. The vaccine, which is routinely given to children at age 15 months, along with a mumps preventive, caused a dramatic decline in rubella cases — from an average of 50,000 cases per year prior to 1968 to 2,060 cases last year.

For one reason or another not all children get the vaccination, and there is a growing pool of young adults susceptible to the disease.

The vaccine, however, interrupted the rubella epidemic cycle, Bart said, and brought about much progress toward elimination of the birth defect syndrome. Confirmed cases of the syndrome dropped from a reported 23 in 1969 to a provisional total of five in 1981.

"The goal is elimination of congenital rubella syndrome," said Bart. "And this is possible only through the complete immunization of child-bearing women."

"Women of child-bearing age should be encouraged to receive the rubella vaccine and there should be specific efforts focused on colleges, the military, family planning clinics, physicians' offices — wherever women of child-bearing age interface with health care providers."

Bart said the military now routinely vaccinates against rubella and most hospital personnel also get this protection. But he said there are no school laws requiring the vaccination of college-age students.

The CDC recently reported it has additional evidence that pregnant women inoculated with the live vaccine against rubella have only a slight risk of having a child with congenital rubella syndrome. The agency continues to recommend, however, that pregnant women should not be vaccinated against rubella.

Duplicate Winners

Mrs. Beulah Eagles and Mrs. J.M. Horton were first place winners in the North-South duplicate bridge game played at Planters Bank. Their percentage was .593 percent.

Others placing were George Martin and Forest Gray, second; Mrs. J.W.H. Roberts and Mrs. B.B. Sugg Jr., third.

East-West winners included: Mrs. Clifton Toler and Mrs. John Tayloe, first with .556 percent; Mrs. Gail McClelland and Emma B. Warren, second; Mrs. C.F. Galloway and Mrs. C.D. Elks, third.

Wednesday afternoon winners were North-South: Mrs. W.R. Harris and Mrs. J.M. Horton, first with .592 percent; Mrs. Barry Powers and Mrs. Pat Conner, second; Mrs. Ray Gunderson and Mrs. Dot McKemie, third; Mrs. Lacy Harrell and Mrs. Eli Bloom, fourth.

East-West: Mrs. Gail McClelland and Forest Gray, first with .622 percent; Mrs. Effie Williams and Emma B. Warren, second; Mr. and Mrs. George Martin, third; Mrs. Robert Barnhill and Lee Hastings, fourth.

Wednesday morning winners included: Frank Sullivan and Frank Goins, first with .595 percent; Mrs. Clara Shackell and Mrs. Janice Gilliam, second; Mrs. Walter Harbin and Mrs. C.F. Galloway, third.

There are more than 90 million women who are 16 years of age and older in the United States. Nearly half of them — 43 million — are employed. They account for 43 percent of the U.S. civilian labor force.

Garden Clubs To Have District Meet

The Greenville Garden Club held its September meeting at the Greenville Country Club. Mrs. R.A. Davis, president, told of plans for the District 12 meeting of the Garden Club of North Carolina.

The meeting will be held here Oct. 13. Hostesses will be the Greenville Garden Club, Pansy Canvas, Home and Lawn and Farmville Garden Clubs from Farmville.

Mrs. Leon Robertson of Rocky Mount will speak on "Flower Legends."

Mrs. R.M. Helms gave a report on the state board meeting held in Chapel Hill. Lobelia Cardinalis, a plant which attracts hummingbirds, is the wild flower project this year. The garden therapy report was given by Mrs. H.C. Klingenschmitt. Volunteers for the October workshops with Nancy Walter's pre-vocational classes at Aycock Junior High School are Mrs. L.S. Worthington, Mrs. M.G. Martin, Maude Moore, Mrs. J.S. Rouse, Mrs. E.M. Sutton, Mrs. Ernest Holt and Mrs. R.G. Little.

Lib Steig was welcomed as a new member.

A color scheme of green and lavender was used in decorations. A lavender chrysanthemum centered the speaker's table. Meeting hostesses were Mrs. Davis, Laura Haskins and Mrs. H.F. Burns Jr.

COOKING IS FUN!

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
AP Food Editor

A year or so ago my wise doctor suggested that I would be doing cooks, including myself, a favor if I cut down on the salt in the recipes I tested and published. When I began to do so, I found that many dishes had an unnecessary amount of salt in them.

For example, for years and years cookbook recipes for hamburgers have been calling for 1 teaspoon salt per pound of beef. I discovered the salt could be lessened by at least 1/4 teaspoon and tasters rarely knew the difference.

Since then, I've experimented with good results in cutting salt and I'm always on the lookout for interesting low-sodium flavorings and seasonings to take the place of salt.

Recently the following recipe, calling for aromatic bitters (to replace salt) in carrot soup, came across my desk. When it was made in my kitchen, my tasters found it excellent. I hope, if you try the recipe, you like the soup as much as they did.

ring often, until golden. Stir in the flour until blended. Add the milk and cook over moderately low heat, stirring constantly, until thickened and boiling. Stir in the reserved carrot puree, bitters and pepper; reheat. If soup is thicker than you like, add chicken broth or milk and adjust the seasonings.

Makes 3 to 4 cups.

Note: We used homemade chicken broth; as a substitute, chicken bouillon made from low sodium chicken bouillon powder or cubes may be used. You'll need 6 ounces of carrots (minus tops and before paring) and 1 small onion to give the amounts called for; this is convenient to know if you have a kitchen scale and use a food processor for grating the carrots and chopping the onion.

LOW SODIUM CARROT SOUP

- 1 1/2 cups loosely packed grated (medium fine) pared carrot
- 1 1/2 cups clear fat-free unsalted chicken broth
- 2 tablespoons sweet butter or unsalted margarine
- 1/4 cup chopped (medium fine) onion
- 2 tablespoons flour
- 1 1/2 cups regular or low-fat milk
- 1/4 teaspoon aromatic bitters
- 3/8 teaspoon pepper

In a medium saucepan, covered, gently boil the carrot in the chicken broth until the carrot is soft. In an electric blender puree the carrot and broth; reserve.

In the medium saucepan heat the butter; add the onion and cook gently, stir-

A Misguided Fight

Two decades ago this country was embroiled in massive demonstrations of civil disobedience — disobedience that was allowed more for reasons of compassion than for legality. Most Americans were embarrassed, even ashamed, of this country's permissive attitude historically for slavery and the ensuing racial discrimination. There was cause for demonstrations and protests; there was cause for the law to be bent.

Now comes Warren County and the case of the PCB-tainted soil from several public roadways. Demonstrations at the dump site near Afton have attempted to draw on those demonstrations of the 1960s. Even the leaders are the same — the Rev. Leon White of Raleigh who, as a regional leader of the United Church of Christ's Commission for Racial Justice, spearheaded civil rights protests in Wilmington and other areas of North Carolina; the Rev. Ben Chavis, a member of the same commission who led Wilmington's bloody racial disturbance in 1971, and Floyd McKissick, a former NAACP attorney who fought for integration of the University of North Carolina and later led the old Congress of Racial Equality.

Their presence makes a mockery of the Warren County dispute. The stated reasons for White, Chavis and McKissick's involvement — especially Chavis and White — smacks of hypocrisy; of leaders of the past seeking a cause for their public revitalization. McKissick, at least, is a resident of Warren County and has been actively involved in the county's affairs for more than 10 years as the developer of the now-defunct Soul City "new city" project.

There is no reason by any stretch of the imagination to believe the selection of Warren County as a storage site for the PCB-tainted soil was racially motivated. The choice was one based on technological surveys and has been upheld by the courts — the same courts that 20 years ago allowed racial demonstrators to march.

In the 1960s the common complaint of local white leaders in a community involved in racial strife was that "outside agitators" had caused the trouble. That appears to be even more applicable in the case of Warren County.

INTO EACH LIFE SOME RAIN MUST FALL!

Thompson's Implication

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
CHICAGO — The gloom that enveloped Adlai Stevenson's Tuesday night (Sept. 14) fund-raiser at the Hyatt-Regency Hotel signaled the resurrection of Gov. James Thompson, raising implications for future presidential politics.

Mayor Jane Byrne of Chicago, most other statewide Democratic candidates and lots of party committeemen were absent. The standard liberal speech by Sen. Gary Hart of Colorado did neither Stevenson's campaign for governor nor Hart's presidential ambitions much good. Stevenson's own speech attacking Thompson sounded desperate. The consensus of the party faithful present was that former Sen. Stevenson had blown a golden opportunity to put Thompson away and would now have no easy task coming back.

If Big Jim Thompson in fact overcomes his own past blunders amid Republican ruin elsewhere in the Midwest, he is back in the presidential futures book. Such a win would be all the more significant for the way Thompson would achieve it: by co-opting left-of-center elements of the old Democratic coalition in the manner of Nelson Rockefeller, not Ronald Reagan.

The swift turnaround in the governor's seemingly fallen fortunes followed weeks of Thompson on the defensive for trying to get a federal judgeship for his wife and for accepting costly gifts. That stained the former federal prosecutor. Combined with the smell of depression in the industrial towns of Illinois, it built Stevenson's early lead.

How then has Thompson become the Republican bright spot in the industrial Midwest? "It's partly me," Stevenson told us, with his usual candor. Many Democrats would amend that to "mostly me." "He is dull, and he is dreary," said one fellow statewide candidate. His aides do not disguise impatience with Stevenson's insistence on pursuing high-flown concepts of government.

In addition, Thompson's strategy of eroding Stevenson's own Democratic base is working. He is ostentatiously pro-union, as when he recently visited the International Harvester plant in Rock Island. When plans called for him to be instructed in new equipment, Thompson quickly asked for a union card. "It should be noted," he said, "that I didn't lay a finger on that machine until I became a member of the UAW."

Stevenson was not even invited to the Chicago Labor Day parade. He showed up anyway but was eclipsed by Big Jim's flash and flamboyance. Although the state AFL-CIO followed the national line and endorsed Stevenson, key leaders are with Thompson. The governor has made even larger conquests among Jewish leaders. Mayor Byrne's friendship with Thompson excites distrust among many Democratic Democrats, including Stevenson.

Stevenson's own forthrightness has proved an extra dividend for Thompson. "I'm for Israel, but I'm also for the United States," says Stevenson, a formulation that alienates Jewish leaders. Organized labor cannot forgive his Senate votes against Davis-Bacon prevailing wage standards. Although Stevenson at least has retained black elements of the Democratic coalition, black leaders cannot forgive his opposition to the old Humphrey-Hawkins bill.

Thompson has no such difficulties. Friend and foe regard him as insistently non-ideological. He rejects "conservative" or any other label. A superb campaigner, he has a taste for combat ("Jim is really not a very nice man," one adviser confides). He has argued with his campaign staff for anti-Stevenson radio commercials and is about to get one on the air.

Although Thompson's inroads in liberal Democratic ranks are reminiscent of Rockefeller and the governor himself brags about Rockefeller alumni on his staff, he says the free-spending, high-taxing days in Albany are no model for moderate Republicanism. However belatedly, Thompson has jumped aboard the anti-tax bandwagon and rides

Israel Is Risking Major War

The dangers of spreading war increase in Lebanon with Israel's troops crashing into West Beirut following the assassination of President-elect Bashir Gemayel.

The offensive included claims by the Soviets that their embassy had been occupied by Israel and a protest by the United States about an Israeli shooting at a marine guard.

In the strongest terms President

Reagan demanded that Israel pull its troops out of Beirut in accordance with the cease fire negotiation last month.

The U.S. demand is sound. Israel's move into West Beirut was justified on the grounds that it was necessary to preserve order in war-torn Lebanon. But it also carries with it grave risks of provoking all-out war in the Middle East and involving the super powers.

Has Anyone Seen Bush?

The season for guessing who the Democratic candidate for President in 1984 will be has started. But there has been little speculation as to the Republican candidate.

The reason is that until he says otherwise, Ronald Reagan has the spot. This is very tough on George Bush, who wants to be Reagan's successor.

But Bush has a problem. He has been vice president of the United States for two years, so nobody knows who he is. In fact people haven't heard from him in so long that many who supported him think he's dropped out of public life.

One of George's loyal supporters admits Bush has a recognition problem, and that it is impossible to keep his name in the public eye. "But," he told me, "he won't be the first vice president of the United States we will have to bring back from obscurity."

"Does George think Reagan will run again?" I asked.

"George doesn't know, and he would be the last person to ask the President." "Has the President indicated if he didn't run, George could go for his job?"

"To my knowledge George and Ronnie have never discussed politics. After all, they're not that close."

"I would think it's only fair to George that Ronnie give some kind of hint whether he 1984 without tipping George's hand that he has presidential ambitions."

The Bush man said, "It is a Catch-22 situation. If I try to raise money for Bush now, people will get the impression George has gotten the word that Reagan won't run again. But if I say George hasn't got the word, no one will give me any money."

"Why do you need money now?"

"To start getting Bush some name recognition. If he is going to run against a Teddy Kennedy or a John Glenn, people are going to have to know who he is. I'll tell you one thing. Being vice president of the United States doesn't do anything for a person's political image."

"Why doesn't Bush announce that he hopes Ronald Reagan runs for another term, because he feels he's the best President we've ever had. That way Bush won't look ambitious but he'll get his name in the papers."

"That's all well and good if we were sure Reagan would run again. But if he doesn't, the reason will be that things in the country are in terrible shape, and if they are, Bush doesn't want to be associated that closely with the President."

"So if Bush just remains vice president and doesn't say anything right now he's covered in case the country goes belly-up?"

"Every vice president who has run for President has been in trouble because he was too closely associated with his boss. We'd like to avoid that with Bush if we could."

THIS AFTERNOON

A Counter-Attack

By PAUL O'CONNOR
RALEIGH — Don't think that utility leaders have spent the summer idly licking the wounds they suffered in the June legislative session. Duke Power Chairman Bill Lee, for one, has been on the counter-attack with a vigorous lobbying campaign.

In June, the legislature took two goodies away from the utilities. The state Utilities Commission was given authority to deny immediate reimbursement for Construction Work In Progress (CWIP) costs. Previously utilities could recover CWIP expenditures almost immediately. The assembly also tightened the fuel adjustment clause. The utilities say the two moves are responsible for major losses in North Carolina utility stock prices and in the utilities' ability to raise money for capital projects.

Lee went on the counter-attack almost immediately after the session. In July he told a meeting of the Alternative Energy Corporation in Raleigh that future economic growth in North Carolina was seriously impaired by the legislative moves. It's a message he's delivered repeatedly this summer, most recently at his company's September rate hearings before the utilities commission. "Jobs for North Carolinians — now and in the future — are at stake," Lee told the commission. Current power rates here don't produce large enough profits to attract investors who "are free to take their money to other states."

Without new investment in new electrical plants, he argues, the state can't grow. "Without a predictable future supply of adequate electricity," Lee said, "this predicted growth cannot come about and these jobs will not be created. As we attempt to plan 10 to 12 years ahead, it has become increasingly clear to us that our ability to serve our customers in the future is linked to our financial integrity today."

Lee isn't reserving these thoughts to public hearings and energy conventions. He met with Gov. Jim Hunt recently and political sources

Other Editors Say Writing Test

(Morganton News Herald)

We agree with the recommendation from the state competency testing commission that proficiency in writing should be required of high school seniors before they get their diplomas.

Learning to write with some degree of clarity and intelligence is a vital part of education, important to almost every kind of work in which students may become involved in the future.

Repeatedly, we receive letters, little stories or just job applications from high school graduates who cannot communicate the written word in the simple form of complete sentences. We're not speaking of all recent graduates nor are they all from Burke County or North Carolina. What we detect is that not understanding and using the English language correctly is widespread.

Educators in this county and elsewhere in the state also recognize this as a problem in the system. The Burke County school system already is at work to beef up writing as a more basic part of its curriculum. Consultants have been brought in. Workshops have been held for local teachers, giving them the "how-to's" and the skills to teach writing.

And, although Burke is not a pilot county, others in North Carolina are engaging in testing writing in conjunction with the Standardized Achievement Tests.

The state's competency testing program now tests 11th grade students in reading and math. As one would expect, because these disciplines are tested, a great deal of emphasis is placed on reading and math — some suggest, to the detriment of other things.

We concur with Burke County assistant superintendent for instruction Fred Cranford, who says: "When you evaluate it, you encourage it."

One of the arguments against tests of writing competency is that they cannot be graded by machines, or computers, which spit out the "true/false" markings quickly and cheaply.

To grade writing competency tests would require hiring teachers to mark each writing sample.

We do not buy this argument because we believe it is based purely on saving money, not on providing education.

It's a sad state of affairs when we reach the point where decisions, such as the caliber of our education system, are made strictly on the basis of dollars and cents, with little consideration given to the quality and the content of what the dollars are buying. Besides, the cost to administer and grade the writing test, the commission estimates, would amount to some $300,000. That figure is part of a larger program (a total cost of $750,000) that wouldn't stop with just the writing test, but would also include diagnostic tests in the 10th grade and additional training to teach teachers how to teach writing.

Weighing the benefits such emphasis would put on writing in the state's educational system, we believe this would be money well spent.

wanted another term, so George could get some exposure," I said.

"And George has to have everyone believe he isn't."

"George is a team player. I've never known him since he's been Vice President to hint he'd ever do anything different if he was in the Oval Office."

"Maybe that's why no one ever hears from him," I said. "But that must put you in a spot. You can't very well get an organization together by

Consumer Could Reduce Crime

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer
Are you guilty of contributing to a crime?

President Reagan has urged new legislation to fight crime and make it harder for criminals to escape punishment. But many crimes could be prevented without additional laws or enforcement efforts if consumers acted to protect themselves.

A guide distributed by the Justice Department says that an estimated half of all auto thefts result from keys left in the ignition and one-fourth of all illegal entries into homes are made through unlocked doors. "We are not so much victims of crime as we are accomplices," says the guide, "How to Protect Yourself Against Crime."

Most people today are familiar with the need to protect their homes with dead-bolt locks or other security devices. But they frequently get careless when they are away from home. Here are some things you can do to make your life safer:

ON THE STREETS
—Limit your losses. Don't carry more than you can afford to lose.

—If confronted by a robber, surrender your valuables and do so quickly, but without making any sudden moves.

—If you must defend yourself — if your attacker isn't satisfied with robbery — scream for help and try to run. Robbers and muggers usually pick victims who are less able to fight than they are.

—If you are carrying a purse or briefcase, try to walk near the building side of the sidewalk, with your purse or case in the hand away from the street. A shoulder bag should be carried over one shoulder, suspended between your arm and body. Do not cross the shoulder strap over your body; many purse snatchers operate by yanking hard on the strap while pushing their victim in the opposite direction; you could risk serious injury.

—Avoid weapons like handguns or knives that can be turned against you. A whistle on a bracelet or strap around the wrist may be a better defense. Don't hang

Strength For Today

LET US READ, AND HEED

Year after year the Bible continues to be the world's best-seller. But because Bibles are sold does not necessarily mean that they are read. A lot of them are put on the top shelf of the bookcase or laid on the living room table and allowed to collect dust.

When the Bible was first translated into English, a copy of it was chained to the lecterns of English and Scottish churches, and people formed queues and were given so many minutes to stand at the lectern and read. Today, despite its huge sale, the Bible is not as widely read as its availability might indicate.

Yet there are hopeful signs that this situation is changing. Nearly all churches have Bible study classes and there are several guides to Bible study on the market which have wide circulation.

So let us hope that the time may come when the Bible is not only a best-seller but also one of the best-read books available to us. — Elisha Douglass the whistle on a chain around your neck; the robber may strangle you to keep you from sounding an alarm.

—Spread your valuables around. Try to carry money, credit cards, identification and keys in separate places or, at the very least, in separate compartments in your bag.

—If you witness a crime, call police or an ambulance. Don't try to be a hero. Do not intervene until you have called for help and don't take any action even though you are positive there is no danger to you personally.

IN YOUR CAR
—Check all sides before getting in. Look for flat tires, obstructions in front of the wheels and any signs of illegal entry. If you think your car has been broken into, call the police and wait. Don't risk disturbing fingerprints or other evidence.

—Even if everything appears normal, look through the windows before you get in. You might discover someone crouching on the floor.

—If your car won't start after you've left it in an unfamiliar area, parking garage, etc., be careful. The problem could have been caused deliberately. Scan the area. If you don't see anything suspicious, get out, lock the doors and call for help. Do not accept a stranger's offer of assistance. If he or she insists and tries to get you to unlock the door, blow the horn and keep blowing it until the stranger goes away or help arrives.

—If you must carry valuables, consider an alarm system, but weigh the pros and cons carefully. Any such system is subject to false alarms and may be circumvented by an experienced thief. An alarm system also can simply tip off a thief to the fact that there is something worth stealing.

—Don't stop in a remote location, even if it looks like there is an accident or someone in need of help. Drive off and call for help. If someone tries to enter your car at a stop sign or stop light, pull away. Sound your horn to attract attention and head for a service station or other source of assistance.

Traffic Accidents Hurt Pedestrians

Two pedestrians were injured in separate incidents, and an estimated $3,450 property damage resulted from three other traffic collisions investigated by Greenville police Saturday. Officers said Sandra Louise Harris of Edgewood Traller Park received minor injuries after she walked into the path of a car driven by Lisa Anne Moye of River Bluff Apartments about 2:03 a.m. on Fourth Street, 50 feet west of the Cotanche Street intersection.

Another pedestrian, William Alan Bondurant of 500 West Fourth St., was reported hurt after he jumped onto the hood of a car driven by Robbin Brinkley Bryan of 213 Terrace Court, then fell off the car.

Officers said that incident occurred about 2:25 a.m. on Fourth Street, 700 feet west of the Pitt Street intersection.

William Irvin Harrell of 2605 Crockett Drive was charged with driving under the influence following investigation of a 12:05 a.m. mishap on West Ragsdale Road, 219 feet east of the East Wright Road intersection.

Officers reported the Harrell car collided with a street sign and fence at 1503 West Ragsdale Road, causing $1,500 damage to the car and $400 damage to the sign and fence.

James Lennon Hardee of 1201A Myrtle Ave., was charged with operating left of center after the car he was driving collided with a utility pole about 1:45 a.m. on Charles Street, 110 feet north of the Berkshire Road intersection.

Damage was estimated at $1,000 to the car and $750 to the pole.

Cars driven by James William Byrd Jr. of 225 York Road and Paula A. Whaley of Route 5, Kinston, collided about 10:55 p.m. on Tenth Street, 240 feet east of the Anderson Street intersection. Investigators estimated report that he has set a goal of talking with every member of the legislature before the January 14, 1983 session opens.

In early September, he met with a small group of legislators in Salisbury. Sens. Bill Redman of Salisbury and Paul Smith of Statesville report that Lee didn't mention CWIP but he did make it quite clear that "we can't have jobs if we don't have utilities," Smith says. The two reported that Lee mentioned a large 1,000-job industrial plant that considered locating near Salisbury. It located in another state because it couldn't count on an adequate electrical supply, the two said they were told.

Alex Coffin, Duke's spokesman, said Lee isn't looking for any commitments from legislators. "He wants them to understand how difficult it is to meet energy needs in the Carolinas and the problems we face in raising capital." He said Lee also hasn't made any specific proposals to legislators.

But Redman said Lee laid out three course the legislature can take: The problem can be ignored and the utilities won't be able to meet new electrical demand in the mid-1990s. That'll mean slower economic growth. The legislature can study the problems the utilities face and try to address them either through repeal of the new CWIP law or through other measures, like tax breaks. Or, the state can take over the utilities.

Lee is a highly regarded communicator and the forces who fought utilities in 1982 say they fear he could turn the tide back in 1983 — especially if the public's anti-utility sentiment fades. Told of Lee's lobbying, House Speaker Liston Ramsey didn't sound very concerned, however. "Good luck," he said with a laugh.

Arrest Made In Local Store

Tony Michael Harris, 23 of 904 West Third St., was arrested by Greenville police about 5:30 a.m. today on breaking and entering charges after officers found him inside Hollowell's Drug Store at 911 Dickinson Ave.

Chief Glenn Cannon said officers responding to a burglar alarm found a window at the building broken. Further investigation led to the discovery of Harris inside the store, the chief said.

Ironically, this campaign was designed to launch Stevenson toward the high office his father never reached. Although he says that is "totally false," one old friend told us: "Adlai would be out on the farm if he thought governor was the highest office he would ever get."

The bleak mood prevailing at the Hyatt-Regency suggested that, to the contrary, it is Jim Thompson's dormat hopes for national office that may well be revived. Republican Party leaders grumble that late-October fund-raising is intended not for Thompson's well-financed campaign but what lies beyond it: a struggle to succeed Reagan as the legate of Rockefeller Republicanism. Lasagna For 2,000 Folks PEEKSKILL, N.Y. (AP) — What culinary challenge is left after a 10,000-egg omelet and a 12,000-slice loaf of bread?

A 200-square-foot serving of lasagna, according to the Peekskill Area Health Center.

The center prepared the huge Italian entree to feed almost 2,000 people at a culinary festival Sunday at the Peekskill Riverfront Green.

Pat Belth, an executive officer of the health center, says the batch of lasagna raised about $10,000 for the northern Westchester County health center.

"We have 240 pounds of ricotta cheese, 160 pounds of mozzarella cheese, 40 pounds of grated cheese, 600 pounds of flour, 36 gallons of plain tomato sauce, 60 gallons of meat sauce and 100 dozen eggs," Ms. Belth said.

The ingredients were assembled in a 5-foot by 48-foot pan and placed in a 7-foot by 48-foot oven by more than 25 cooks, she said.

Ms. Belth said the center made the Guinness Book of World Records in 1979, when it baked a loaf of bread nearly 1,059 feet long, used to make 6,000 sandwiches.

The center's omelet record has been surpassed. "Some people in Canada used 2,000 more (eggs) and beat us out," Ms. Belth said.

Hog Show Set

A Market Hog Show will be held Sept. 28 at the Pitt County Livestock Building on the Pitt County Fairgrounds beginning at 7 p.m.

The show is scheduled in conjunction with the Pitt County Fair. Other events include a Dairy Goat Show on Sept. 29 and a 4-H Beef Heifer Showmanship Contest on Oct. 1. There will also be a Dairy Goat Milking Contest Oct. 1.

A petting zoo will be open Sept. 30 and Oct. 1 from 9:30-11:30 a.m. for handicapped persons and pre-schoolers.

The Pitt County Livestock Development Association will sponsor these events.

NOW To Continue Political Efforts

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP) — The new president of North Carolina's chapter of the National Organization of Women says she will work to elect more men and women who are supportive of women's rights to state and federal office.

Johanna Ettin of Winston-Salem was elected state president as the group's two-day statewide conference wound down in Wilmington Sunday.

Ms. Ettin said the group will continue to work for passage of the Equal Rights Amendment and will be "very involved in political campaigning," making voters aware of which legislators voted against the ERA in the 1982 General Assembly.

Also elected to state NOW offices Sunday were Roberta Waddle of Fayetteville, vice-president for legislative action; Judy McNeil of Durham, vice-president for membership, East; Marilyn Smith of Boone, vice-president for membership, West; Sandra Harris of Sand Hills, secretary and Jan Allen of Chapel Hill, treasurer.

Turning over the presidency, Terry Schooley of Fayetteville told the members to "Stand tall, stand together. Be proud of what we've done together and of what we'll do in the future."

Judy Goldsmith, national NOW executive vice-president ended the convention by leading the group in such songs as "Helms, Hatch and East" to the tune of "Three Blind Mice" and "Vote Them Out" to the tune of "Row Your Boat."

The organization also adopted five resolutions, including two to establish education task forces on lesbian rights and reproductive rights.

Insurance Deadline Near

September 30 is the last day that wheat producers can purchase all-risk crop insurance protection on their 1983 crops, according to a spokesman from the local Federal Crop Insurance office.

Crop insurance offers protection against all natural hazards. Policy holders can elect to insure up to 75 percent of the average yield for each insured crop. They can also select from one of three price elections for each crop to determine the amount they will be paid for any loss incurred.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture subsidizes premium costs up to 30 percent, depending on the level of insurance selected.

For complete information on tailoring a crop insurance policy to fit farming operations, interested persons can contact their local crop insurance agent.

Perdue Broiler Houses...

An Investment That Pays You While It Pays For Itself.

Most crops, like tobacco for instance, require a large annual capital outlay followed by a long wait for a possible profit. A Perdue broiler house on the other hand is a crop that doesn't require a large annual capital outlay, or a four to five month wait to maybe turn a profit. Perdue broilers pay after every eight/nine week flock, starting with the first one. And those checks are guaranteed.

Also, a Perdue broiler house is one of the few agricultural operations that can pay its own way. Many others can't even generate enough income to pay for themselves much less provide a profit. And when a Perdue house is paid for, it won't be worn out like most row-crop equipment — compare that to other farm investments. And at market time, Perdue even absorbs poultry market fluctuations. That makes a Perdue broiler house a virtually risk-free sound investment.

Perdue pays a guaranteed paycheck every eight/nine weeks. These checks add up to over $20,000 a year gross income on a 500' house. And with better performance comes even better pay. So if you've been depending on row crops alone, you may want to consider Perdue. A broiler operation is compatible with your other farming responsibilities. But as an investment it stands alone. There's never been a better time to talk chicken with Perdue.

Several Cars Are Damaged

An estimated $3,500 property damage resulted from an 11:05 p.m. collision Friday on McKinley Avenue, 100 feet south of the Sixth Street intersection, Greenville police reported.

Officers said a car driven by Marvin Earl Williams of 1807 Norcott Circle collided with a parked car owned by Otis Lee Tucker of 613 McKinley Ave. That collision set off a chain reaction involving two other cars owned by Tucker and a parked car owned by Alton Gray Daughtry of 615 McKinley Ave.

Investigators, who charged Williams with hit and run driving and no operators license, estimated damage at $2,000 to the Williams car, $600, $200 and $300 to the three Tucker cars, and $400 to the Daughtry vehicle.

Farm Scene

By ROGER COBB
 Agricultural Extension Agent

Corn harvest is progressing quickly in Pitt County. Most farmers are harvesting while some have already finished. The yields are quite high across the county. We had adequate rainfall this growing season to produce a high corn yield. Even with this high yield farmers need to review their production practices at this time.

A weedy corn field indicates problems with the control practice used. These weedy fields should be remembered so that good weed control may be obtained in the following crop. A weed map may be helpful in keeping up with your weed problems. Often it's hard for a farmer to keep up with all of his weeds.

If you used a chemical dependent on rainfall for incorporation and did not get control ask yourself if you obtained the needed rainfall in seven-14 days. Was the herbicide you used supposed to control the weeds you have? Did you need to use a layby herbicide to control tough grasses or broadleaves such as signalgrass, cocklebur or morningglories. All these are questions you need to consider.

If you used a soil-incorporated herbicide and did not get good control you need to ask yourself some of the same questions. Also you need to determine if the herbicide was put down correctly, incorporated correctly or incorporated soon enough.

It's also a good time to review your problems with corn insects if you had any. Weedy corn fields planted in corn year after year traditionally have been problem fields with early season insects. Clean fields rotated with other crops usually are not problem fields. Remember that traditionally problem fields probably need to be treated regardless of rotation and weeds.

Corn varieties are another area farmers should be interested in this time of year. Take note of varieties that do well for you. Yield, standability, ear height and stalk height all need to be considered when selecting a hybrid. Extension test plots, neighbors and personal experiences are valuable tools in selecting corn varieties.

Review your fertility program also. Many dollars are wasted on over-fertilizing corn. Some farmers guess on fertility when they could take a soil test to determine exactly what nutrients their crop needs.

Bradshaw, Harris Spark Steelers By Bengals In OT

By The Associated Press
When you hold Franco Harris to just three yards rushing, there's no way the Pittsburgh Steelers can win, right? Wrong.

Six times Harris pounded into the line, and six times the Cincinnati Bengals stopped him. So Harris grabbed a career-high 11 passes to help lead the Steelers to a 26-20 overtime victory Sunday.

"We never know who is going to catch the ball or run it," said Steelers Coach Chuck Noll. "This week, Franco was a big contributor as a receiver even though our running game wasn't doing very well."

Harris has made his mark in his 10 seasons of National Football League action as a rusher. Sunday, he saw something and the Steeler quarterback Terry Bradshaw took advantage of it.

"I came over to the sidelines and told Terry I was open," Harris said. "He just got me the ball."

Bradshaw didn't desert his other receivers. John Stallworth grabbed two touchdown passes, including a game-winning 2-yard catch with just 1:08 gone in the overtime period as Bradshaw completed 29 of 42 passes for 298 yards.

In the final game of the weekend and possibly the final game of the season, the Green Bay Packers traveled to East Rutherford, N.J., tonight to take on the New York Giants. The NFL Players Association has scheduled a strike vote for Tuesday, so the Packers-Giants game could be the last NFL contest this season.

In other games Sunday, the New York Jets crushed New England 31-7, New Orleans blanked Chicago 10-0, the Los Angeles Raider defeated Atlanta 38-14, Philadelphia edged Cleveland 24-21, Kansas City topped San Diego 19-12 and Dallas trampled St. Louis 24-7.

Detroit downed the Los Angeles Rams 19-14, Denver nipped San Francisco 24-21, Houston slipped by Seattle 23-21, Washington defeated Tampa Bay 21-13 and Miami stopped Baltimore 24-20.

At several cities, fans booed when the players demonstrated solidarity by shaking hands prior to the game. And at Chicago and Atlanta, when the home teams were losing, the fans chanted, "Strike, strike, strike."

"You saw two of the premier quarterbacks in the game," said Cincinnati wide receiver Chris Collinsworth, referring to Bradshaw and Bengals quarterback Ken Anderson, who completed 27 of 38 attempts for 323 yards. "You put these two on the field and there are going to be a lot of footballs in the air."

Pittsburgh Coach Chuck Noll, delighted with the Steelers' 2-0 record, also had praise for rookie kicker Gary Anderson. Anderson, picked up by the Steelers from the Buffalo Bills the week before the season started, sent the game into overtime with a 42-yard field goal with 35 seconds remaining. He earlier kicked a 25-yarder and two extra points.

"After last week, obviously, we have great confidence in him," Noll said of Anderson, who kicked three field goals against Dallas. "He's done nothing but bolster that confidence with his performance today. He's been a very big contributor."

Redskins 21, Bucs 13
Washington capitalized on numerous Tampa Bay miscues, including four fumbled center snaps, to top Tampa Bay as heavy rain drenched the field.

Mark Moseley booted field goals of 35 and 21 yards, set up by the fumbles of Bucs quarterback Doug Williams, and added a 19-yarder following a holding penalty against Tampa Bay late in the game.

Joe Theismann threw eight yards to Charlie Brown for a Washington TD, while Williams connected with Kevin House for a 62-yard scoring play.

Oilers 23, Seahawks 21
Earl Campbell rushed for 142 yards on 30 carries, including a 12-yard TD burst with 53 seconds left to play to lift Houston past Seattle.

Houston also scored when safety Mike Reinfeldt recovered a Seattle fumble in the end zone.

Lions 19, Rams 14
Bob Thomas booted four field goals and Billy Sims rushed for 119 yards and caught five passes for 103 yards to lead Detroit over the winless Rams. Thomas was cut by the Chicago Bears two weeks ago and signed by the Lions. It was Sims' first start of the year following his pre-season holdout.

Vince Ferragamo came off the bench for Los Angeles to replace the injured Bert Jones and led the Rams to two fourth-quarter TDs.

Raiders 38, Falcons 14
Marcus Allen scored on a 4-yard run and Jim Plunkett lofted a 30-yard touchdown pass to Cliff Branch 43 seconds later as the Raiders stopped Atlanta.

The Raiders' final TD came in the last six minutes when Archie Reese scooped up a fumble and raced 75 yards.

Eagles 24, Browns 21
Ron Jaworski rallied Philadelphia for three fourth-period touchdowns, the last one a 3-yard run by Leroy Harris with 22 seconds remaining, as the Eagles nipped

No. 14 W&M Defeats ECU In Soccer, 4-2

William & Mary, ranked 14th in the nation in the latest college soccer poll, used three first-half goals to hand East Carolina University its first defeat of the season, 4-2, Sunday afternoon.

"We played really well early," East Carolina first-year head coach Robbie Church said. "I think their experience hurt us. We played with them but we didn't have the experience to get us over the hump."

William & Mary, now 3-0-1 this season, used corner kicks by Andy Smolin and Glenn Livingstone to take a 2-0 midway through the first half.

The Pirates, now 2-1 this year, cut the deficit to 2-1 on a penalty shot by Bill Merwin, but the Indians countered with a goal by Rich Definger go up, 3-1.

ECU cut the gap to 3-2 on a goal by Mark Hardy as the Pirates went into the half down, 3-2.

William & Mary, which tied No. 1-ranked Connecticut, 1-1, earlier this year, sealed the win in the second half on a

Packers, Giants To Meet Tonight

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) — While the New York Giants and Green Bay Packers are playing here tonight, the rest of the National Football League will be bracing for a strike by the players.

The NFL Players Association has said the first midseason strike in the league's 63-year history would take effect at the conclusion of the Giants-Packers game if a new collective bargaining agreement was not reached with team owners.

Contract talks between the players' union and the league broke off Friday.

The first game affected by a strike would be the Atlanta Falcons at Kansas City Chiefs Thursday night.

Giants and Packers coaches, meanwhile, have urged their players to forget the labor dispute during tonight's game.

"We don't have time to think of it," said Packers Coach Bart Starr. "We're certainly making the best attempt we can (to forget). The less said about it the better, and the less thought about it, the better."

"I talked to the players, and I know they're thinking about the strike," said Giants Coach Ray Perkins. "I told them, 'Let's keep our priorities straight.' There are some things we can do. Some things we can't. We can do something about the game."

There was little strike talk in the dressing rooms as both teams, hampered by injuries to key players, prepared for the first nationally televised night game at Giants Stadium.

"On Monday night you know everybody is watching," said Giants safety Bill Currier, "so it's easy to get pumped up."

"It's an honor to be featured on Monday night television," Starr said. "You get a chance to put your wares on display. This is going to be a tough, hard-fought game, and I think it will be what professional football on a Monday night is all about."

The Packers may be without four starters, who were recovering from injuries and had not practiced much last week.

ECU's Stewart, Hamilton Gain Weekly Honors

East Carolina University quarterback Greg Stewart and defensive tackle Steve Hamilton were named offensive and defensive Players of the Week for their efforts in ECU's 30-0 win over East Tennessee State Saturday night.

The ECU coaching staff made the selections after reviewing Sunday films of Saturday's win.

Stewart, a 5-10, 175-pound junior from Middlebrook, Va., connected on 15 of 21 passes for 209 yards and one touchdown. It was the first time since 1972 that a Pirate passer has thrown for over 200 yards.

Former ECU quarterback Carl Summerell was the last Pirate player to throw for over 200 yards. Summerell, who was inducted into the ECU Hall Of Fame Saturday, threw for 201 yards in a game against Furman in 1972.

John Casazza holds the all-time ECU record with 270 yards, set in 1970 against Richmond.

Hamilton, a 6-5, 252-pound junior from Williamsville, N.Y., was credited with four "big plays" Saturday night, including a fumble recovering and blocked pass.

It is the second straight week Hamilton has been named defensive Player of the Week. Hamilton had 10 hits and four "big plays" in ECU's season-opening 33-26 loss to N.C. State.

Little Hope Given To Avoiding Shutdown

Players Poised To Strike

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Football League players' union stands poised to deliver a strike vote that could shut down the 1982 season as early as this week.

The nine-member executive committee of the NFL Players Association, meeting in New York today, must decide whether to call a strike that could begin as early as Tuesday or after the third week of the season, Oct. 3-4.

If the group votes to initiate a walkout at the end of Monday night's Green Bay-New York Giants game in East Rutherford, N.J., the first game to be affected would be Thursday when Atlanta visits Kansas City.

Union officials contend that at least 90 percent of the league's 1,500 players will support the walkout.

"A decision has not been made at this time whether to play the (Thursday's) game," said Jack Donlan, the owners' chief negotiator. "The decision to go ahead with the game will be made by the (league's) competition and executive committees."

A strike would be the first mid-season work stoppage in the league's 63-year history.

The owners' last financial offer, which they estimate is worth $600 million this year and $1.6 billion over the next five years, was rejected by the union's executive committee on Sept. 8.

An informal poll of the committee, conducted this weekend by The Associated Press, found near-unanimous support for initiating the strike this week.

"The longer you wait the harder it is on the players, the more pressure they are under," said Mark Murphy, the Washington Redskins' player representative and a member of the union's executive committee.

A second member of the committee, who requested that his name not be used, accused the league of forcing a player walkout.

"What else can we do? They have pushed us to the wall," he said.

Joining Murphy on the executive committee are union president Gene Upshaw of the Los Angeles Raiders; Jeff Van Note of the Atlanta Falcons; Dan Jiggetts of the Chicago Bears; Stan White of the Detroit Lions; Elvin Bethea of the Houston Oilers; Tom Condon of the Kansas Chiefs; James Lofton of the Green Bay Packers and John Bunting of the Philadelphia Eagles.

California, Kansas City Set For Battle Of AL West

By The Associated Press

Now the battle of the American League West begins. The California Angels, who won Sunday, and the Kansas City Royals, who lost, are tied for first place. Each team has just 13 games left. And tonight, the Royals and Angels open a three-game series in California.

Who's going to win?

"I feel that we are exactly where we wanted to be at this point of the race," said Kansas City Manager Dick Howser after Minnesota completed a three-game sweep of the Royals with a 9-4 victory. "We're going into California and we've got our three best pitchers going for us."

California Manager Gene Mauch is taking a different approach.

"I don't look at Kansas City as a series," said Mauch, whose Angels topped the Toronto Blue Jays 5-1. "I think of it as one game at a time. If we go in hoping to take two of three and don't, what are we supposed to do, slash our wrists?"

"It's pitching that is going to decide this division," said

Howser, whose hurlers had trouble in Minnesota. "The starting pitching only gave us 10 innings in this series. We need better than that."

Gary Gaetti's grand slam keyed Minnesota's victory Sunday and prompted a few Twins to comment on the pennant race.

"Maybe the pressure is getting to them," said winning pitcher Jack O' Connor, 8-8.

"It's not the pressure," Ward said. "We just went out and beat them. They're just looking for some kind of excuses. When you're No. 1, you can't do that."

And Twins Manager Billy Gardner was more direct. If Kansas City doesn't win tonight in California, he says the Royals "are in deep trouble."

Angels 5, Blue Jays 1

While the Royals hope for strong pitching, the Angels got it Sunday as Bruce Kison tossed a four-hitter in defeating Toronto.

Two wild pitches, a fly ball that got lost in the sun and fell for a triple and a two-run throwing error hurt Toronto.

Brewers 14, Yankees 1

Paul Molitor drilled a three-run homer and Gorman Thomas added a two-run shot as Milwaukee tied a team record by scoring nine runs in the eighth inning, and sent New York to its eighth straight defeat, the team's longest losing streak since 1973. The victory, Milwaukee's fifth in a row, kept the Brewers two games ahead of Baltimore in the AL East.

Orioles 4, Indians 2

Rich Dauer's two-out homer in the bottom of the 10th inning capped "Thanks Earl Day" in Baltimore.

The pregame festivities honored Orioles Manager Earl Weaver, who will retire at the end of this season. Weaver's No. 4 uniform was retired and the feisty manager even got a gift from AL President Lee MacPhail on behalf of AL umpires.

White Sox 8, A's 3

Greg Luzinski drove in five runs and Steve Kemp knocked in three to highlight Chicago's victory. Luzinski's big blow was a three-run double while Kemp had a two-run homer.

Jerry Kosman, the 38-year-old left-hander, upped his record to 10-6 with his fourth straight triumph.

Red Sox 6, Tigers 4

Carney Lansford's first career grand slam and Reid Nichols' two-run homer paced Boston.

The Tigers took a 1-0 on Lance Parrish's 29th homer in the fourth and held it until Nichols' homer in the seventh and Lansford's slam in the eighth.

Boston starter John Tudor, 12-10, struck out a career-high 11 in 7 2/3 innings.

Mariners 9, Rangers 7

Seattle's rookie battery proved to be too much for the Rangers. Orlando Mercado's first major-league hit was a grand slam, while 19-year-old pitcher Edwin Nunez — the youngest player in the majors — earned his first victory. Nunez, 1-1, allowed only three hits and one run in five innings before leaving with a blister on his pitching hand.

Haas Turns Back Adams In Playoff

PINEHURST (AP) — Jay Haas scored an unexpected victory in the Hall of Fame Classic, but faces the longest wait in the history of golf to defend his title — 22 years.

Haas, 28, turned back stubborn John Adams with a routine par on the second hole of a sudden-death playoff for the title — the fourth of his career — in the Hall of Fame Classic Sunday.

The lame-duck tournament drops off the PGA Tour next year. It will be replaced on the schedule by a $1 million event in Las Vegas. And the Hall of Fame and Pinehurst will host, in lieu of a regular tour event, a seniors' tournament. Haas won't be eligible for play on the over-50 circuit until the year 2004.

The victory, however, came as a pleasant surprise to Haas, a nephew of former Masters champion Bob Goaly, and will serve to brighten up his off-season.

"I hadn't played much in the last couple of months, and what I had played, I hadn't played very well," said Haas, who came out of the pack with a no-bogey, 5-under-par 66 in the final round.

"This was quite unexpected; a great thrill and a great surprise."

"I was just hoping to make some cuts (in the last few tournaments of the season) and make a few dollars and then go home and try to not

Saturday night in Ficklen Stadium, we liked what we saw, but at the same time, we didn't like it either.

East Carolina's 30-0 victory over East Tennessee State simply wasn't satisfying enough. We feel that the fans wanted more.

As we said Sunday, perhaps it came too easily. East Carolina took the opening kickoff and marched right down the field and appeared ready to score when a fumble cost it the ball. But they came right back after that and scored twice in the quarter and early in the second period scored again to hold a 21-0 lead.

At that point in the game, the Pirate offense was simply ripping East Tennessee apart and the defense was overwhelming the Buccaneers.

To East Tennessee's credit, the Buccaneers didn't fall apart at the seams and let the Pirates simply tromp all over them. They stayed in the game, and while they never had a chance, kept it much closer than it should have been.

And instead of making it a total rout, the Pirates bogged down in their own mistakes, drawing penalties when they didn't need them, dropping passes and the like.

After rolling up over 300 yards in total offense in the first half, they got just over 100 in the second half, showing the drop off in intensity.

There were bright spots, of course. Carlton Nelson showed that the transition from quarterback to wide receiver has been a good one for him. He got open and he made the catch. Greg Stewart showed great work behind the line as a passing quarterback.

And the fans were certainly appreciative of the more wide-open offense the new formation brought to the Pirates.

Still, as the game dragged through what seemed like an eternally long third period, they got restless. By the start of the final period, they were already headed for the gates.

It just didn't really satisfy them. They came looking for a rout, got the hint of one, but it just didn't turn out that way.

Disappointing too, was the turnout at the game. The way tickets had been going during the week, ECU officials were expecting 28,000 to 30,000 for the contest, but it was not to be. Official attendance was just over 22,000, quite poor for what should have been better.

Next week, the Pirates will face a much tougher opponent in Central Michigan. The Chippawas come into the game with a 1-1 record, same as the Pirates. While they are not widely known in this part of the country, they are considered one of the upper division teams in the tough Mid-American Conference.

This past week, they were involved in an offensive struggle with Bowling Green, losing 34-30, and they will certainly be a test to the Pirate defense Saturday.

Coach Ed Emory has expressed the feeling that the Pirate players, coaches and fans really don't know much about them but that they are a quality opponent.

Perhaps this would be the chance for the home folks to get a look at the Pirates against probably the best competition coming to Ficklen this year.

Cleveland. The Browns had taken a 21-17 lead when tight end Ozzie Newsome grabbed a 34-yard touchdown pass with 57 seconds to go.

Jaworski finished the game with 25 completions in 41 attempts for 341 yards.

Cowboys 24, Cardinals 7
Quarterback Danny White tossed touchdown passes of 29 yards to Doug Cosbie and 24 yards to Drew Pearson, leading Dallas over St. Louis. It was the eighth time in their last nine meetings that the Cowboys have beaten the Cards.

Dallas snapped a 7-7 tie late in the third period when Billy Joe Dupree scampered six yards on an end-around.

Chiefs 19, Chargers 12

Four field goals by Nick Lowery and Gary Green's blocked punt that was recovered in the end zone for a touchdown paced Kansas City over San Diego.

Green, a cornerback, burst in from the left side and leaped high to block Maury Buford's punt on the 25-yard line. Dave Klug finally fell on the ball in the end zone.

Lowery now has seven field goals in the Chiefs' first two games.

Saints 10, Bears 0
Veteran quarterback Ken Stabler found Larry Hardy with a 10-yard touchdown pass Strike Is Near...

tive director, said Sunday he will make no recommendation.

"The players will decide," he said. "It is their jobs they are putting on the line."

The NFLPA, which represents the league's 1,500 players, struck for six weeks in the summer of 1974, but the contract dispute was resolved during the exhibition season.

The collective bargaining agreement that resulted from that 1974 strike expired July 15.

Negotiations on a new contract started last February. On Friday, when the talks broke off, Upshaw said the recent round of negotiations reminded him of the February sessions.

"It is the same old thing over and over. If I closed my eyes I could dream I was sitting in the hotel in Miami hearing them give the same old arguments, the same old positions," Upshaw said.

Although the union has dropped its most controversial demand — a fixed 55 percent of each team's gross revenue — both sides still are far apart.

The union now is seeking $1.6 billion over a four-year period to include 50 percent of all current and future television monies, a wage scale and creation of a central fund from which player salaries would be dispersed.

"The major stumbling blocks remain the wage scale and central fund," Donlan reiterated Sunday.

"We are not going to abandon a system of individually negotiated contracts, a system that works, for the union's proposal," he said.

Cardinals Up Lead To 4 1/2

By The Associated Press
With 33 saves, Bruce Sutter has been just about doing it all for the St. Louis Cardinals this year.

But he hasn't been doing everything, as witness the work of Doug Bair, a lower-profile reliever who has saved eight games for St. Louis this season.

On Sunday, Bair's standout work clinched the Cardinals' 3-1 decision over the New York Mets.

"My job is to keep the team close if we're ahead or tied," said Bair, who retired all eight Mets he faced.

"I've been in the same situation Bruce is in now," added Bair, who earned the save in relief of starter John Stuper. "A lot of my saves have come on three-inning stints. Bruce has to have someone to get him into the late innings. That job has to be done right, or you're not going to win many games."

The streaking Cardinals, who have won seven in a row, now lead the National League East by 4 1/2 games over second-place Philadelphia, which dropped an 8-1 decision to Pittsburgh.

Stuper, 8-6, shut out New York on four hits over the first six innings. After the Mets scored in the seventh, Bair came on to shut the door.

The Cardinals scored all they needed with two runs off Pat Zachry, 6-8, in the fourth inning. Willie McGee singled home the first run and the second scored when Dave Green grounded into a double play.

The victor gave the Cardinals a five-game sweep of the Mets.

"I'm glad we're coming off the sweep," said Cardinals

Manager Whitey Herzog, "but if they (the Phillies) beat us in the next two, we're right back where we started."

St. Louis hosts Philadelphia tonight and Tuesday night.

Pirates 8, Phillies 1
Manny Sarmiento pitched a six-hitter and drove in two runs as Pittsburgh beat Philadelphia. Sarmiento, 8-4, struck out five and walked one en route to his fourth complete game.

Mike Easler led the Pirate offense with a two-run homer, his 15th, off loser Mike Krukow, 12-11.

Phillies Manager Pat Corales was outwardly calm after the Phillies' fourth loss in six games, although he had the look of a man seething inside.

"I told them (the Phillies), 'If you want to come in third, just keep playing like you've been playing. If you want to finish first, play like you can.'"

Dodgers 5, Astros 4
Pedro Guerrero's two-run double with two out in the bottom of the 10th lifted Los Angeles over Houston.

The Astros had broken a 3-3 tie with a run in the top of 10th before the Dodgers came back. They loaded the bases against Frank LaCorte, 1-5, before Bert Roberge took over and gave up Guerrero's two-base hit.

Fernando Valenzuela, 19-12, was the winner despite yielding 12 hits over 10 innings. He struck out eight and walked one in pitching his league-leading 18th complete game.

"We all saw on the scoreboard that Atlanta had won and that just gets us more excited," said Guerrero. "In a situation like that, you've got to enjoy yourself. We needed the win, we knew Atlanta had won, but I didn't feel any pressure. None of us feel any pressure, really."

Braves 6, Reds 1

Rafael Ramirez, Claudell Washington and Jerry Royster drove in two runs apiece to pace Atlanta over Cincinnati. Ramirez singled to drive in the go-ahead run in the second inning, when the Braves scored four times off Bruce Berenyi, 8-18. Washington's two-run double capped the inning.

Pascual Perez, 2-4, relieved Rick Mahler in the third inning and finished up, surrendering two hits over the last 62-3 innings.

Royster said the Braves made a special effort to take up the slack for slugger Bob Horner and hot-hitting catcher Bruce Benedict, who are injured.

"We know we're going to have to go a little harder without Bob and Bruce," said Royster. "As long as we keep ourselves together, I think we'll be OK."

Cubs 7, Expos 5

Pinch-hitter Leon Durham slammed a two-run homer with one out in the eighth to boost Chicago over Montreal for a sweep of their three-game series.

Jody Davis led off the eighth with a single off reliever Bryn Smith, 2-2. One out later, Durham, batting for reliever Dick Tidrow, 8-3, connected for his 22nd homer.

Tidrow worked two scoreless innings for his second victory in as many days before Lee Smith came in to record his 15th save by pitching the final two innings.

Giants 4, Padres 3

Tom O'Malley's run-scoring single with one out in the bottom of the 11th inning lifted San Francisco over San Diego.

Jack Clark started the winning rally with a one-out walk off loser Luis DeLeon, 7-5. Clark advanced on Darrell Evans' single and scored on O'Malley's base hit.

Reliever Al Holland, 6-3, was the winner.

The Most Efficient Gas Furnace in the World

96% Efficiency!

It's So Efficient, You Can Vent
it with Regular PVC Plastic Pipe.

The Lennox Pulse gas furnace is the most significant breakthrough in furnace design in over 40 years. It produces heat unlike any other furnace with greater efficiency than ever before possible. Operating on a principle of pulse combustion, small quantities of gas and air are electrically ignited at a rate of 60 to 70 times per second. A condensing heat exchanger extracts 200 to 350 degrees more heat from your fuel than is currently possible with conventional gas furnaces.

Unprecedented Heating Efficiency

If your present gas furnace is over five years old, it is probably in the range of 55 to 60% efficient, compared to the Pulse's 91 to 96%. This difference can mean drastic reductions in your monthly heating bills — enough to justify replacing your present unit today, even if it still operates. The Pulse furnace is that efficient. Even if your system is a newer "high efficiency" model, you can still save big with the Lennox Pulse.

*Annual Fuel Utilization Efficiency (AFUE) as determined by Department of Energy Standards. The higher the percentage, the greater the efficiency and your energy savings.

Warranted Heat Exchanger

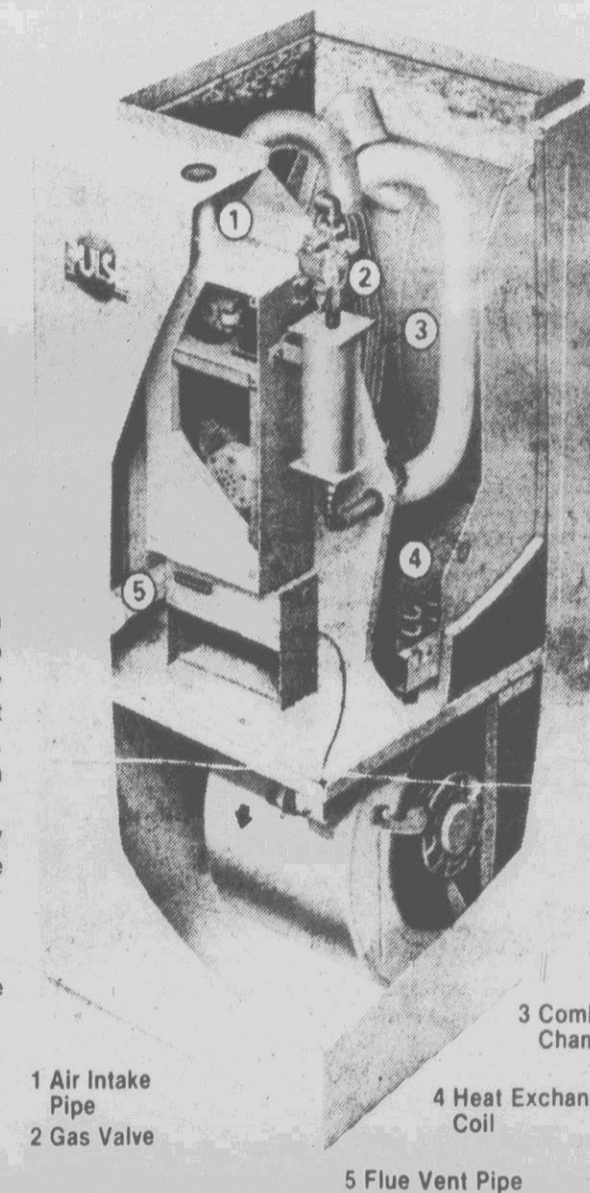

The heat exchanger assembly is designed for long service life and carries a 20-year limited warranty against defects and failure.

When will the Pulse be available and in what sizes?

Pulse furnaces are available in three input sizes: 40,000, 60,000 and 80,000 Btuh, 100,000 and 130,000 Btuh models will be available in late 1982. Several blower sizes will be available on some sizes making a total of eight up-flow models.

Will horizontal and down-flow units be available?

Lennox is presently working on both horizontal and down-flow furnaces but production dates have not yet been established. The Pulse heat exchanger will also be applied to our commercial rooftop units and gas/electric packaged units.

For LP & Natural Gas

Wille Wins GCC Crown

Carlie Wille came from behind to defend her Greenville Country Club Women's "A" singles championship with a 3-6, 6-1, 6-2 victory over Nancy Powell this weekend.

The victory marks the eighth time Wille has won the women's title.

Jim Bailey, a six-time club champion, whipped Andy Warren 6-1, 6-0 to capture the Men's "A" division title.

In the Women's "B" final, Rae Daniel defeated Barbara Moye 6-1, 6-2 while in the Men's "B" final Larry Land downed Will Hickman 6-2, 6-4.

Kay Crawford defeated Suzie Williams 6-2, 6-2 to win the Women's "A" consolation and Linda Muller edged Lynda Wilms 4-6, 6-4, 6-3 to take the Women's "B" consolation.

The GCC doubles championships begin Thursday.

Running back Tommy Vigorito raced 33 yards for a touchdown and Uwe von Schamann booted a 29-yard field goal to lead Miami over Baltimore. Placekicker Mike Wood led the Colts as he booted two field goals and passed for a touchdown after picking up a fumbled snap from center.

The triumph was the Dolphins' ninth in their last 10 meetings with the Colts.

'Hill Street' Dominates Emmys For A Second Year

By JERRY BUCK
AP Television Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) —
NBC's "Hill Street Blues" dominated the Emmys for a second year, Ingrid Bergman won an award for her final performance, and many of television's top honors went to shows that were canceled or had close calls.

Miss Bergman, who died of cancer Aug. 29, was named best lead actress in a limited series or special at the 34th

Television Academy awards Sunday night for her portrayal of Israeli Prime Minister Golda Meir in "A Woman Called Golda." The syndicated miniseries was also named best drama special.

"Hill Street Blues," the realistic police drama that combines violence and comedy, won six Emmys, two short of last year's record number. The win gave a much-needed lift to NBC, long stuck in the ratings cellar, and boosted the network to the top with 20 Emmys.

ABC was next with 18 awards, CBS got 12, PBS won five, and three went to syndicated shows.

A disappointment for NBC was "Fame," the critically acclaimed but low-rated show about aspiring performers that the network hoped would gain attention the way "Hill Street Blues" did last year. The show won only one award Sunday night — to Harry Harris for directing — to add to the four awards it picked up in the earlier-announced technical and craft categories.

"Barney Miller," axed by ABC after eight years, was named best comedy series.

Michael Learned won as best lead actress in a drama series for her portrayal of Mary Benjamin in "Nurse," canceled by CBS.

Nancy Marchand, the aristocratic publisher Mrs. Pyncheon on "Lou Grant," was named best supporting actress in a drama series for the fourth time. That show also was dropped by CBS amid sagging ratings and controversy over the politics of star Ed Asner.

"I was told that the theme of this show is one big happy family," Miss Marchand said, "but I represent either the prodigal son or an abandoned child."

"Taxi," winner of two acting Emmys, was canceled by ABC after last season — but NBC snatched it up and the offbeat comedy will continue. Awards went to Carol Kane, best lead actress in a comedy series for a one-shot appearance as Latka's immigrant bride, and Christopher Lloyd, best supporting actor as the spaced-out Rev. Jim Ignatowski.

"M-A-S-H" wasn't canceled but it will leave the air after 10 years this fall on CBS — the producers have decided to quit while ahead.

Star Alan Alda won his third Emmy for outstanding comedy actor as Hawkeye Pierce, and Loretta Swit won her second best supporting actress award as Maj. Margaret Houlihan.

Miss Bergman's award was accepted by one of her daughters, television newswoman Pia Lindstrom, who said, "I really do feel she deserves this award, although the competition was strong. I think she also deserves the award for her performance off-camera. She displayed the same dignity and courage that Golda did."

The three-hour award show at the Pasadena Civic Auditorium ended with an emotional tribute to Kate Smith, one of TV's earliest variety stars. She was pushed onto stage in a wheelchair by Bob Hope, joining the audience in singing "God Bless America," a song she made famous, and wiping a tear from her eye at the end.

"Hill Street Blues" was named best drama series for the second year, and repeat Emmys went to Daniel J. Travanti as best lead actor in a series for his role as Frank Furillo, the patient precinct captain, and to Michael Conrad as best supporting actor, for his portrayal of Sgt. Phil Esterhaus, a man with an eye for the ladies. The show also won awards for writing, film editing and sound mixing.

"This means more to me than last year's," said Travanti. "I don't believe in 'good,' 'better,' or 'best.' I do believe in magic ... This is almost too much but I'll take it."

NBC's "Marco Polo," the opulent eight-hour miniseries that retraced the route of the 13th Century Venetian merchant from Europe to China, was selected best limited series.

"Night of 100 Stars," a dazzling spectacular staged at Radio City Music Hall for ABC, was best variety, music or comedy program.

Mickey Rooney was named best lead actor in a limited series or special for his performance in CBS' "Bill" as a spunky retarded man fighting for a normal life.

Penny Fuller's role as the British actress who befriended the deformed "Elephant Man" on ABC was named best supporting actress in a limited series or special. Sir Laurence Olivier won his fourth Emmy as the aristocratic Lord Marchmain in "Brideshead Revisited" on PBS.

A special Governors Award was given to "The Hallmark Hall of Fame" for its outstanding list of prestigious programs.

NANCY MARCHAND, who portrays the publisher Mrs. Pyncheon in "Lou Grant," was named outstanding supporting actress in a drama series at the annual Emmy Award presentations. (AP Laserphoto)

Home Break-In Investigated

Greenville police are investigating the theft of $1,279 worth of property from a 1208 Cotanche St. home early Sunday morning.

Chief Glenn Cannon said Elizabeth Ann Georgeou reported at 2:35 p.m. Sunday that someone had entered her home and taken a quantity of property.

Cannon said entrance to the dwelling was gained through a rear window. Missing were a television, stereo, cassette player, a quantity of jewelry and other items.

The chief noted that the television and stereo were later recovered from the yard of the dwelling.

Marooned On A Traffic Island

LYNNWOOD, Wash. (AP) — A purebred dog has been marooned for more than two months on a narrow island of grass and brambles in the middle of an interstate highway, but help is on the way — or trying hard, anyway.

Workers from the Lynnwood Progressive Animal Welfare Society (PAWS) have been leaving food for the shaggy Belgian Bouvier des Flandres, but they've been unable to get close enough to catch him on the island near the intersection of Interstates 5 and 405 north of Seattle.

"He's unhappy and I'm sure his nerves are frazzled by the traffic," PAWS spokesman Michael Fox said Sunday. The dog, which from a distance resembles a small black bear, roams around on the traffic island, 30 yards wide and 200 yards long, and warily eyes the cars whizzing by.

Hoping To Keep Freights Running In North Carolina

By The Associated Press
Railroad officials say they hope to keep freight trains running in North Carolina despite a national engineers strike Sunday that halted all of Amtrak's passenger service south of Washington. The nationwide strike by 26,000 railroad engineers began at 12:01 a.m. Sunday when the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers walked out after no contract was reached. Picket lines were set up at many stations in North Carolina Sunday, but no incidents were reported. Larry Baker, chairman of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers local in Raleigh, led five picketing engineers at the Amtrak and Seaboard Coast Lines terminal in Raleigh. He said the union planned to keep 10 people on the picket line 24 hours a day until the strike is resolved.

Baker said picket lines also had been organized at SCL terminals in Fayetteville, Wilmington, Henderson and Hamlet. A lone picket was spotted outside a railroad depot in Charlotte. Wilmington BLE members picketed the Seaboard Coast Line's Davis Yard at Navassa, although very little rail traffic moves through the yard on Sundays.

The strikers are a majority of the SCL's 52 engineers in the Wilmington area. The others, members of a non-striking union, are honoring picket lines. W.F. Ingold, chairman of the Wilmington division of the BLE, said the union has "about 32 active locomotive engineers in our zone."

"That includes the SCL tracks as far west as Pembroke and as far north as Rocky Mount and New Bern. It includes Acme, Lumberton and Goldsboro. Pickets will also be assigned to SCL facilities at Lumberton and Goldsboro, Ingold said.

"All the other railroad crafts, United Transportation Union, the clerks organization and the carmen and machinist organizations are all honoring our picket line," he said. The United Transportation Union represents firemen, switchmen, brakemen and some engineers. In Charlotte, police reported that small groups of pickets were at three locations along Tryon Street, including one picket in front of the Southern Railway station.

The Seaboard Coast Lines and Amtrak terminal in Raleigh was closed Sunday because clerks and other personnel were honoring the strike, Baker said. Amtrak, which doesn't employ any engineers, wasn't directly involved in the negotiations. Three Amtrak trains made stops in North Carolina Sunday. One stopped in Raleigh; a second stopped in Rocky Mount, Wilson and Fayetteville and the third made stops at Rocky Mount, Wilson and Fayetteville.

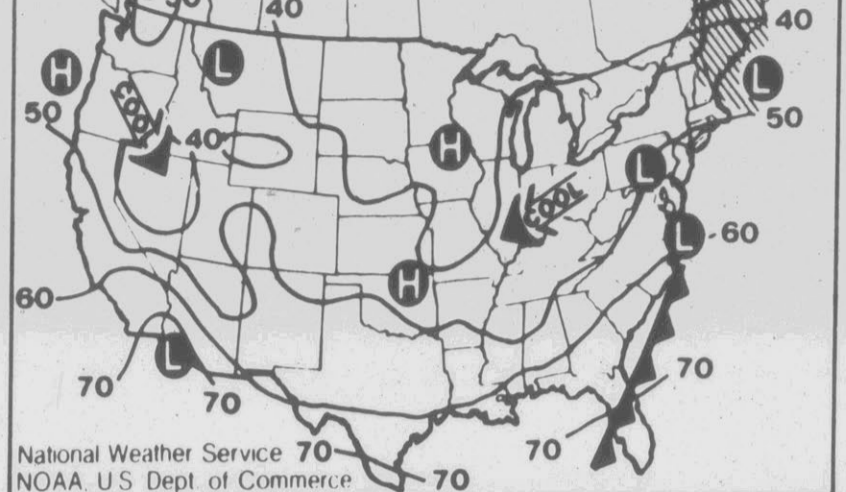

The Amtrak trains did not make the round-trips, however, and passengers had to find alternate ways to get home. At the Norfolk Southern terminal in Raleigh, an employee who asked not to be identified said: "We're just letting things swing in the breeze at this point. It's hard to tell how this is going to affect things."

At Hamlet, one of the state's busiest railroad exchanges, a man who identified himself as "an office worker" said pickets were posted at every entrance to the rail yard. Ingold said the central issue in the strike is a proposal that disputes between railroads and the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers "would be settled by final and binding arbitration. This is what we cannot agree to at this time."

The engineers have said they expect to be back on the job relatively soon. If the strike drags on, they expect President Reagan to declare a national emergency to halt it, as he did a year and a half ago.

The Forecast For Tuesday, September 21

Low Temperatures

WEATHER FORECAST — Rain is due for the northern part of the nation and warm fronts in the southern half. (AP Laserphoto) Service. Cool temperatures are expected for

By The Associated Press
Unsettled weather will hit North Carolina today, followed by cooler temperatures during mid-week.

Mostly cloudy skies will be the rule across the Tar Heel state today and tonight. Scattered showers and a few thunderstorms will be most numerous in the east. Highs will be in the 70s with some 80s in the southeast and 60s in the northern mountains. Cooler air edging into the mountains tonight will allow temperatures there to dip into the 50s with some 40s in the northern mountains.

Elsewhere, lows will be in the 60s with 70s near the coast. On Tuesday there will be some sunshine breaking through the clouds in the west, but there may still be a few showers lingering in that part of the state. Mostly cloudy conditions along with showers and thunderstorms are going to persist in the east. Highs will range from the 50s and 60s in the mountains to near 80 in the southeast.

Along the coast, winds will be generally from the southwest at 10 to 15 knots today and tonight. Southerly winds at 10 to 20 knots Tuesday will become westerly by late in the day. A thick blanket of clouds covered North Carolina early this morning. There were also some showers and thunderstorms mainly in the eastern part of the state. Some of the thunderstorms produced brief periods of heavy rain. During the six-hour period ending at 2 a.m. Cherry Point measured more than one half inch 0.64.

Temperatures were generally in the 60s across the western half of the state while low to mid 70s were the rule in the east. A nearly stationary front that stretched from the Gulf of Mexico northeast across eastern North Carolina was the main feature causing our cloudy weather. A weak low pressure system moving through South Carolina along the front triggered the showers and thunderstorms in the east. Mostly cloudy skies along with scattered showers and thunderstorms will continue today as the stationary front persists and the weak low drifts through eastern North Carolina.

Adding to the unsettled conditions will be the approach of a cold front from the midwest. Showers and possibly a few thunderstorms will accompany the front as it moves across the mountains tonight and into eastern North Carolina by late Tuesday. Yet another weak low pressure system is expected to move from the Gulf of Mexico to the North Carolina coast on Tuesday.

Cooler air will begin filtering into the mountains late tonight and Tuesday as a large high pressure system moves our way from the northern Great Plains. The cold front will be slow to move offshore — so the trend toward cooler temperatures will not reach the coast until mid-week.

Princess Grace Waits In The Family Chapel

By GREG MACARTHUR
Associated Press Writer
MONTE CARLO, Monaco (AP) — The body of Princess Grace today lay in a small family chapel adjoining the cathedral where she will be entombed in a royal crypt under the altar, a palace spokeswoman said.

An interment service had been scheduled Saturday evening following a Roman Catholic funeral Mass attended by 800 invited guests and another service for Monaco's residents.

There were unconfirmed reports that Grace's husband, Prince Rainier III, delayed the interment to make room for another grave in the royal crypt beneath the 19th century cathedral where he was married 26 years ago so he could join his princess upon his own death.

No definite time for the interment was announced, but palace spokeswoman Nadia LaCoste said it would probably be sometime today. Mrs. LaCoste denied a sensational French tabloid's report that Grace's death so upset Rainier that he planned to abdicate in favor of Albert, 24.

"That rumor began a couple of years ago when Prince Rainier gave an interview. He never said he would abdicate but that he would gradually give him (Albert) more responsibility," she said. "One day, he may decide to let Albert take over little by little."

The royal family is in mourning for three months, wearing black and declining social invitations. Government bureaucrats in the tiny principality will wear black armbands for one month. Officers said Melvin Lee Hall of 88 Wilson Acres, and three passengers in his car were injured when the vehicle collided with a parked car owned by Evelyn Debra Locke of 113 Ridge Place, about 2:15 a.m. on McClellan Street, 300 feet South of the Howell Street intersection. Damage from the mishap was estimated at $900 to the Hall car and $4,000 to the Locke vehicle. Cars driven by Alton Ray

Her youngest child, 17-year-old Stephanie, suffered a hairline spinal fracture in the accident, but was reported in good condition Saturday when the last medical bulletin was issued. The palace said there were no updates.

The funeral, broadcast live by European and American television, was attended by a cross-section of European nobility, Hollywood notables and government representatives, including America's first lady, Nancy Reagan.

Television cameras showed Rainier fighting back tears, daughter Caroline dabbing at her eyes with a handkerchief, and Crown Prince Albert stoically reciting responses to the prayers. Stephanie could not attend.

'Smurf' Roots 25 Years Old

NEW YORK (AP) — Inspiration strikes different people different ways. For Peyo Culliford of Belgium, creator of the cuddly characters known in the United States as the Smurfs, inspiration struck in the form of table salt 25 years ago.

The author of children's books was at the dinner table and found himself at loss for the right word for what he wanted to shake on his food. "Pass the uh... schtroumpf (Flemish for whatchamacallit)," he said, according to the Sept. 27 issue of People magazine.

The nonsense word rooted in his memory and was the starting point for the flock of four-fingered blue trolls in white bonnets that have been featured in 25 books by Culliford.

The Saturday morning NBC program, "The Smurfs" — English for schtroumpfs — is the top-rated children's show in the United States. Smurf specials at Christmas and Valentine's Day are also planned. Culliford, coming up with the right words, says he's "the most surprised of all" by their popularity.

Four Injured In Collisions

Four persons were injured and an estimated $5,000 property damage resulted from two traffic collisions investigated by Greenville police Sunday.

Officers said Melvin Lee Hall of 88 Wilson Acres, and three passengers in his car were injured when the vehicle collided with a parked car owned by Evelyn Debra Locke of 113 Ridge Place, about 2:15 a.m. on McClellan Street, 300 feet South of the Howell Street intersection. VW Diesel Cracks 50-Miles-Per-Gallon Barrier

By MARTIN CRUTSINGER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Volkswagen, with an innovative diesel engine that will start and stop dozens of times during a typical trip, has cracked the 50-miles-per-gallon barrier to take No. 1 in the government's annual fuel economy rankings.

While Volkswagen was repeating its first place finish for the sixth straight year, U.S. automakers lost the foothold they had established in the economy race last year, when a domestic car cracked the top 10 for the first time.

fuel savings in stop-and-go city driving. Because the car will start far more often than others, VW is equipping it with a long-life starter motor.

cars dominated the top 10 list. The top-rated Rabbit and seven other cars in the top 10 are diesel powered. Last year seven of the top-rated cars were diesels.

Isuzu, posted the best mileage for a U.S. automaker at 42 mpg. The same car was No. 1 domestically last year and seventh overall at 40 mpg.

ranking, the lowest of the three. Automakers can still use the other figures in their advertising, however.

The EPA said copies of its auto guide will be distributed in October. By law, dealers are required to make the guides available to customers.

For the second straight year the Maserati Quattroporte got the lowest rating, 8 mpg. The EPA said a Maserati owner driving 15,000 miles would pay $3,094 for gasoline compared to $450 for the owner of the highest-rated diesel Rabbit.

The EPA's estimate assumes a cost of $1.65 per gallon for gasoline and $1.50 for diesel.

STOKES — The Stokes Elementary School will have its first PTA meeting for the 1982-83 school year Tuesday at 7:30 p.m.

Dr. Eddie West, superintendent of Pitt County Schools, will be the guest speaker.

Best, Worst In Auto Fuel Use

WASHINGTON (AP) — Here are the best — and worst — fuel economy performers as rated by the Environmental Protection Agency for the 1983 model year.

The make and model is followed by the miles per gallon, the transmission type, whether the car is gasoline or diesel-powered and the amount of money EPA estimates you would spend on fuel each year if you drive 15,000 miles and pay $1.65 per gallon for gasoline and $1.50 for diesel.

These figures do not apply to cars sold in California, which has stricter emission standards.

The Best

Volkswagen Rabbit, 50 mpg, semi-automatic four-speed, diesel, $450.

Nissan Sentra, 48 mpg, manual four-speed, diesel, $468.

Volkswagen Rabbit, 48 mpg, manual four-speed, diesel, $468.

Honda Civic, 46 mpg, manual five-speed, gasoline, $537.

Isuzu I-Mark, 44 mpg, manual four-speed, diesel, $511.

Toyota Starlet, 44 mpg, manual five-speed, gasoline, $562.

Nissan Sentra, 44 mpg, manual five-speed, diesel, $511.

Volkswagen Jetta, 43 mpg, manual five-speed, diesel, $524.

Volkswagen Rabbit, 43 mpg, manual five-speed, turbo diesel, $524.

Ferrari Mondial, 11 mpg, five-speed manual, gasoline, $2,250.

Drug Arrest Made By Police

Lori Ann Dickens, 20 of Washington, was arrested by Greenville police Sunday night on sale of counterfeit controlled substance charges.

Chief Glenn Cannon said officers arrested Miss Dickens after she agreed to sell 90 tablets, which she represented to be quaaludes, to officers at the intersection of Fourth and Evans Streets, about 11:30 p.m.

In addition to the tablets, officers confiscated $860 in cash Miss Dickens had concealed in her sock, Cannon said.

Red Cross CPR Course Offered

The Pitt County chapter of the American Red Cross is offering a three-night course in CPR, to be held from 6 to 10 p.m. on Tuesday, Thursday and Tuesday, Sept. 28. The course will be held in Room 102 of the ECU Memorial Gymnasium.

This is a basic life support course and will be taught by Red Cross instructor Jane Pollack. There is no charge for taking the course.

BREAK-IN INVESTIGATED

Police are investigating a break-in reported at Autry's Body Shop at 1801 Dickinson Ave. about 7 a.m. Saturday.

Chief Glenn Cannon said thieves broke open the front door to gain entrance and took a television set and camera, valued at $250 from the business.

PCC Classes Announced

Pitt Community College will offer the following classes beginning this week at the Stutch'n Post.

The best Detroit could do in the 1983-model-year rankings released Sunday by the Environmental Protection Agency was No. 11 for two General Motors cars equipped with Japanese-built engines — a Chevrolet Chevette and its sister car, a Pontiac 1000.

Volkswagen is likely to cause quite a bit of talk in dealer showrooms this fall with its top-ranked diesel Rabbit, which bettered last year's rating of 45 mpg by five mpg.

To do that, Volkswagen equipped this version of the Rabbit with an engine that shuts itself off every time the driver takes his foot off the accelerator for more than 1.5 seconds. The engine automatically starts again once the accelerator is touched.

Volkswagen says this new feature should result in great fuel savings in stop-and-go city driving. Because the car will start far more often than others, VW is equipping it with a long-life starter motor.

On cold mornings, the automatic stopping feature will not kick in until the motor reaches operating temperature. The device can also be overridden by flicking a switch.

VW also returned to an old idea with this special Rabbit. Even though it has a four-speed manual transmission, it doesn't have a floor clutch. Instead, the clutch is electrically operated every time the driver touches the gear-shift lever.

This year, as last, diesel

The Nissan Sentra and a VW Rabbit without the stop-and-start feature tied for No. 2 at 48 mpg. Nissan, Japan's second largest automaker, has sold its cars in this country for years under the Datsun label.

The highest-ranked gasoline-powered car, a Honda Civic, took fourth place with a 46 mpg rating. The only other gasoline-powered car in the top 10, a Toyota Starlet, tied for fifth at 44 mpg with an Isuzu I-Mark and another Nissan Sentra.

A Volkswagen Jetta and two more VW Rabbits rounded at the top 10 with 43 mpg ratings. All the top-rated cars have manual transmissions and are classified by the EPA as either subcompacts or minicompacts.

The Chevrolet Chevette and the Pontiac 1000, both with diesel engines made by
