

A Second Sub On Hunt Scene

By ROLF SODERLIND
Associated Press Writer

BERGA NAVAL BASE, Sweden (AP) — Search craft dumped more depth charges into Hors Bay early today, escalating their frustrating hunt for a suspected Soviet-bloc submarine believed trapped just outside Sweden's top secret Musko Naval Base, the navy said.

Spokesman Capt. Sven Carlsson confirmed that the submerged submarine had tried to escape blockaded Hors Bay Thursday afternoon and that a second alien sub was spotted lurking outside the bay. But he denied press reports that the cornered sub's breakout attempt succeeded.

"We have had several interesting indications during the night that show the sub is still in the bay," Carlsson told reporters. He said searchers dropped more depth charges overnight but would not elaborate.

Carlsson said all Swedish search units were back in the principal target area today concentrating on the hunt for the submerged sub, which has defied their efforts to force it to surface for a week.

He emphatically denied a report in the Swedish tabloid Expressen, which quoted "well-informed sources" as saying the trapped sub outwitted search boats and slipped through Hors Bay's northern outlet into Mysing Bay.

The Swedes, who have become increasingly sensitive about alien submarines prowling their coast, say they want to interrogate the vessel's officers before allowing it to leave.

In its report today, Dagens Nyheter, Sweden's largest national newspaper, said a second foreign sub was spotted by sonar creeping toward Hors bay, prompting the navy to dump more depth charges to stop the new intruder from aiding the cornered vessel.

Prior to Carlsson's news conference, the military had slapped a news blackout on the week-old drama in Hors Bay, saying it did not want to provide any useful information to the "foreign" power that sent the submerged intruders. It was not clear why the blackout was lifted.

Defense staff officials still have not identified the presumed owners of the sub. The North Atlantic Treaty Organization has denied sending subs to the area, about 20 miles south of Stockholm. Most observers believe the submarine, or submarines, are from the Soviet bloc.

"We cannot tell whether there might be one or two subs,"

Vice Adm. Bror Steffenson, the new Swedish chief of staff, told a news conference Thursday.

He said "there is a possibility" the first submarine had eluded the searchers and the blockade. "We just don't know yet, it may have left the immediate search area," he said.

Forty warships and 10 helicopters have plopped depth charges into the bay and probed the frigid waters with listening devices since last Friday in attempts to force the first intruder sub to surface and surrender.

In a front-page report today, the newspaper Dagens Nyheter said that while the navy was busy with that effort, a second submarine was spotted off the Musko base about 9:30 p.m. (2:30 p.m. EDT) Thursday.

Two hours later, helicopters dropped four depth charges near the new submerged intruder, which was cruising at about eight knots just north of Mysing Isle outside the blockade area, the newspaper said. It did not attribute the report.

Dagens Nyheter said the first indication the new sub was lurking in the area came about 4:30 p.m., when the navy noticed buoys marking a metal anti-submarine net had moved 100 yards toward the blockaded waters.

Double Digit Unemployment

By MERRILL HARTSON
AP Labor Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Unemployment nationwide hit 10.1 percent in September, the first time the double-digit plateau has been breached since America was emerging from the Great Depression in 1940, the government reported today.

who have given up trying to find jobs.

The agency also reported that the number of Americans forced to accept part-time employment, for lack of better jobs opportunities, soared to 6.6 million, another record.

The latest jolt in the job picture, while anticipated by President Reagan, private economists and top business leaders, produced fresh howls of protest from organized labor and civil rights groups demanding a reversal of administration economic policies.

At a protest rally across from the White House, AFL-CIO President Lane Kirkland asked rhetorically, "Is there no work out there?"

His answer: "Our bridges and highways are crumbling. Our dams and sewage systems are aging. Our rail track beds and mass transit systems are deteriorating. There is plenty of work to be done — and plenty who want to work."

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., called the new unemployment figures "a national tragedy and a national disgrace. ... It is time for the country to tell the president that his administration has flunked the course."

Today's grim unemployment report was certain to fuel additional anti-Reagan rhetoric as Democrats campaign in the fall congressional elections, now less than a month away.

In Hot Springs, Va. the Business Council, composed of the heads of 200 major corporations, said in a forecast released today that recovery from double-digit unemployment, when it does come, will be painfully slow. Many of the executives said they expected unemployment would still be in the range of 8.5 percent to 9 percent at the end of 1983.

As today's unemployment report was being released, a group of protesters camped out on the front steps of the Labor Department.

The demonstrators, members of the activist, Washington-based Community for Creative Non-Violence, carried placards declaring, "Remember 'Death Valley Days'" — a reference to the television series Reagan once hosted — and "Thanks, Ron, You Brought Back the Good Old Days: 1929."

Several of the protesters chained themselves to the building's main door and security officers made no immediate attempt to dislodge them.

The 10.1 percent jobless rate was the highest since the nation registered an annual unemployment average of 14.6 percent in 1940.

With one in every 10 eligible people out of work in September, however, the jobless picture wasn't nearly as grim as in the depths of the Great Depression in 1933, when one in four was jobless. Then, the annual unemployment rate was 24.9 percent.

Bureau analysts noted that joblessness during the Depression involved almost exclusively male heads of households, and that in recent years the number of women entering the labor force has soared.

In 1947, the earliest year for which such comparisons are available, for instance, women comprised less than a third of the labor force. They now make up more than half.

Extortion Attempt In Cyanide Poisonings Seen A "Tag-Along"

CHICAGO (AP) — Authorities are investigating an attempt to extort $1 million from the makers of Tylenol, but they doubt the demand was made by the person responsible for seven cyanide deaths in the Chicago area, a law enforcement source in Washington said today.

"It's a long shot that this is the work of anything other than a kook," the source said. "Our guess is its totally unrelated to whoever did the poisoning. These tag-alongs happen all the time."

The source refused to be identified either by name or department.

The Chicago Sun-Times and Chicago Tribune both reported today that a man sent a letter to the manufacturer of Extra-Strength Tylenol threatening more poisonings like those that killed seven people if a $1 million ransom wasn't paid.

The newspapers said the FBI is taking the alleged extortion attempt seriously, and has asked a bank to turn over the records of one of its customers — a Chicago businessman and formerly successful stock broker who suffered recent financial reverses.

The newspapers and the source in Washington said the letter directed the money be put into a certain bank account in the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust Co. "We just traced the bank account number and it turned out to be closed, but registered to a formerly successful stock broker who had suffered considerable financial reverses," the source said. "Nobody has proved, however, that he wrote the letter."

The source said the letter was undergoing laboratory analysis in an effort to pin down the identity of its author.

"The killings were a very subtle and secretive crime and it's doubtful that would be topped off with the flagrant ignorance of a payoff scheme with an identity attached to it," the source said.

"Obviously this hasn't been totally eliminated but we are concentrating on other things. We have got a lot of leads going in this case and we are not at a standstill."

In other developments in the case Thursday, Chicago police said there was no apparent connection between the cyanide death of a student in Philadelphia and seven Chicago-area deaths from cyanide-laced Extra-Strength Tylenol last week.

The deaths in Chicago, which have been labeled by investigators as homicides, and a non-fatal poisoning in California have forced Tylenol capsules off store shelves across the nation.

The extortion letter was reportedly received — after apparently being misrouted — by Johnson & Johnson's subsidiary.

$580,960 Allocated For Greenville Streets Aid

State Transportation Secretary William R. Roberson announced that Greenville will receive an allocation of $580,960 in state street aid, or Powell Bill funds, this year.

Roberson said Greenville's allocation is based on the city's 1981 estimated population of 36,803 and its 134.68 miles of local streets.

He said that as a result of Gov. Jim Hunt's "Good Roads" program, passed by the 1981 General Assembly, an additional $11.8 million in Powell Bill funds is available for municipalities across the state this year.

He said checks amounting to $43,060,114 have been mailed to 462 qualifying municipalities for local street construction and maintenance. Last year, communities received $31,351,231, a sum equal to the amount produced by one cent of the state's motor fuel taxes during the preceding fiscal year.

This year, according to Roberson, the total of the Powell Bill funds was based on the amount produced by one and three-eighths cents of the state's gas tax revenues in fiscal year 1982. The three-eighths-of-a-cent increase is a portion of the three-cent gas tax increase approved under the governor's program.

Pitt County towns receiving allocations include: Ayden, $81,722, based on a population of 4,519 and 28.82 miles of local streets; Bethel, $34,155, 1,913, 11.68; Falkland, $1,675, 120, .18; Farmville, $83,766, 4,852, 26.24; Fountain, $8,789, 434, 3.88; Grifton, $39,349, 2,287, 12.21; Grimesland, $8,231, 470, 2.68; Simpson, $7,127, 419, 2.14, and Winterville, $35,314, 2,065, 10.77.

According to Roberson, Powell Bill funds are distributed according to a legislative formula based 75 percent on population and 25 percent on non-state system local street mileage.

Now Critical

A spokesman at Pitt Memorial Hospital late this morning said that Sheriff's Deputy Billy Braswell was listed in "critical" condition where he continues to receive treatment for gunshot wounds suffered on Sept. 27.

Braswell, who has been charged by the SBI with the first degree murder of his wife, Lillie, had been in the post intensive care unit at PCMH in recent days but he was in the intensive care section this morning, according to the spokesman.

The SBI served a warrant on Braswell Oct. 4, charging him with the Sept. 27 shooting death of Mrs. Braswell.

Protestors To Meet Governor

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Gov. Jim Hunt says he will meet today with protesters opposing the state's PCB landfill in Afton in Warren County and has temporarily suspended burial of the tainted soil because of the meeting.

Members of the group, who had earlier said they didn't want to meet with Hunt today, reversed their position and agreed to the meeting this morning.

Hunt, at a news conference, said he had invited leaders of the Warren County Citizens Concerned About PCB to a 4:30 p.m. meeting in the Capitol.

Hunt said he had ordered workers to suspend the burial of PCB-tainted soil in the controversial Warren County landfill today "in anticipation of this meeting."

Aides said the suspension was a symbolic show of good faith to the citizens' group.

"The purpose of this meeting is to determine where we go from here," Hunt said. "We want to talk about things that will continually assure their health and safety."

Train In Raleigh Is Cleared After Shootings

By MARY ANNE RHYNE
Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — A man on board an Amtrak passenger train "apparently went berserk," pulled a gun and began shooting shortly before the train pulled into the Raleigh Amtrak station this morning, police said.

No injuries were reported. Police uncoupled the car and surrounded it. Two and a half hours later, four people believed trapped inside the car were released.

Officer Ken Kennedy said the incident apparently occurred in a sleeper car. He said police were called to the station to investigate reports of a shooting.

"We got a report of shots fired and it just progressed," Kennedy said.

Raleigh police officer D.W. Proffer said the standoff began when the train, bound from Miami to New York, stopped at the Raleigh station.

"A man apparently went berserk and pulled a gun. Nobody was injured. We have cleared the train."

He said the man allowed them to clear the other passengers off the train. Police detached the car and sealed off the area. Policemen lay on the ground, their rifles pointed at the car.

Kennedy said a hostage negotiation team was on the train trying to take the man out of the car.

M.L. Smith, an attendant on the train, said the shooting apparently occurred about 40 minutes before the train reached Raleigh.

He said a Spanish-speaking man, his wife and their two children were in one of the sleeping compartments on the car. He said when the train got to the station, "The people in the room next door said they had heard a sound like one or two shots."

He said the couple looked around their car and found three holes in the floor of their sleeping compartment, and a large shell.

Smith said attendants were able to remove six people from other compartments on either side of the man, but that about five people remained on board.

He said the man boarded the train in Jacksonville and the train was bound for New York. Other train officials said the train is the Silver Star, which runs between Miami and New York.

Officer T.W. Garner said police had reports that three shots had been fired when the train pulled into the station about 7 a.m.

He said police are assuming there may be hostages.

The Rev. Tommy J. Payne was replaced by the Rev. Alfred T. Ayscue of Calvary Baptist Church in Mount Airy by acclamation of the board Monday. Payne will remain on the board of the

Life As It's Lived

Boredom Cannot Exist In Life As A Housewife

By GAIL MICHAELS
I am always amazed at people who have the idea that housewives are bored. An inventory of the problems I've faced as a homemaker would easily fill this column: drudgery, diminished self-esteem, chronic borderline hysteria, a dwindling vocabulary consisting mainly of two-syllable repetitions like "boo-hoo" that have never made an appearance in the Reader's Digest "Word Power Made Easy" — the list never ends.

But boredom is not on it. I really wish it were. There are days when I've prayed for boredom. I try to strike deals with my family. Let me be bored, I beg them, and I won't even mention the lack of respect for my labors embodied in the newspapers, toys, books and shoes obscuring the den carpet.

Unfortunately, my family is incapable of granting such a wish. I don't believe that they are actively endeavoring to be perverse, but at least twice a month they manage to bring together all the elements of a good disaster film.

Last Thursday marked their latest attempt to domesticate the plot of "Earthquake." The day began typically enough. Phillip didn't have a clean shirt. I fixed four waffles for breakfast and had enough syrup for one. Meg wanted to wear bedroom slippers to school because a cursory glance around the explosion she calls her room did not result in the discovery of a more suitable pair of shoes. Zachary kept slapping at the side of his head and shouting, "You stop that hurt, ear!"

And I was scheduled to assist Meg's teacher for an hour that morning. Zachary's complaint almost kept me home. But the absence of a fever and my reluctance to back out of my first commitment to Meg's teacher helped me decide in favor of going.

My assignment was to work on phonics with a little girl who was behind in her school work. "R-r-rabbit," I'd say.

"W-w-wabbit," she'd repeat. "No r-r-rabbit. Now which word has the same sound as rabbit? Bug, wagon or r-r-rug?"

"Wagon," she'd invariably say. We parted in mutual frustration. When I got home, Zachary's forehead was warm. He was listless and pale. The receptionist at the doctor's office said that she could give me a 3:15 or a 4:20 appointment.

"But you don't understand," I whimpered. "My little girl has a dental appointment at 3, and I can't cancel it. I think that this tooth she had a root canal done on after she fractured it when she fell out of a tree — I mean tree — is infected."

Naturally the receptionist was sympathetic but not sympathetic enough. The dentist's receptionist was more accommodating. She switched Meg's appointment to 2:15. I called the doctor's office back to take the 4:20 appointment for Zachary. I called Meg's school to tell the office staff that I'd be picking her up early. Then Phillip called me to tell me he needed to work late.

Visitor From Holland Speaks To Farm Bureau

Henriett Lentferink of Arnhem, Holland, was a guest of the Pitt County Farm Bureau and Briley Brothers farm near Pactolus recently.

Miss Lentferink is a member of the Friendship Force guests from Holland now visiting in the Greenville-Washington area. She said, "The average farm in Holland contains approximately 20 hectare (or 50 acres). We grow all kinds of wheat, corn and sugar beets. We grow cattle and swine and there are some chicken farms. We eat peanuts and soybeans, and I would like to see how you grow and harvest these crops. We do not grow either crop in Holland."

She also expressed interest in tobacco growing.

Miss Lentferink's home city is Nijmegen, Holland, which is famous for its university. The American Industry of Sealed Air, a company that manufactures pressed foam used in packaging fine instruments, is located in Nijmegen. She spoke with pride about the beauty of her native country. "Everyone grows flowers in their gardens and in their homes. Windmills are becoming popular again and are being used to generate energy to help relieve the energy shortage. They are used to grind wheat and corn."

She works in the Tourist Bureau of Nijmegen. Next year she will be the exchange director for her city.

Irma Worthington, an active Farm Bureau member, is one of the 46 North Carolinians who have visited in Arnhem while the Dutch guests are here. Lois Briley and Mrs. Wilbur Worthington, members of the local Farm Bureau Women's Committee, were guides at the Briley Farm. "One of the purposes of our organization is to promote good will between urban and rural people all over the world," Mrs. Worthington said.

Dear Abby

Absent Father Concerned For Child's Welfare

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1982 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: In the summer of 1979 I met and fell in love with a boy I'll call "Joe." He was 23 and very handsome and charming. I had just turned 17. I was a virgin and had always planned to wait until I was married to have sexual relations, but Joe put a lot of pressure on me so I finally gave in because I didn't want to lose him.

I didn't use any birth control and got pregnant. Joe and I broke up and he left the state before I knew I was pregnant. I didn't know where he went or how to contact him. I never thought to ask him his last name. It just never came up.

Anyway, I had my baby alone and put "father unknown" on the baby's birth certificate. Well, last week Joe showed up. He was surprised to hear about the baby and wants to help any way he can and be a father to "little Joey." He is willing to help with my expenses like day care so I can go back to school, work part-time and get off welfare.

He also wants his name on the baby's birth certificate, but he's afraid that he will have to pay back welfare for the money I was paid for the last two years. Is that true? It amounts to about $15,000. Thank you.

NEEDS HELP IN TEXAS

DEAR NEEDS HELP: The rules and regulations of welfare departments vary in each state. Your caseworker can answer your questions. I think the welfare department would be delighted to learn that the baby's father returned and is willing to assume the responsibility of supporting his child.

***

DEAR ABBY: "Sock Fight in Winona" asked if there was a right sock and a left sock, and you said, "No. And if I'm wrong, I'm sure some sock designer will sock it to me."

Well, I'm no sock designer, but you are wrong! When one puts on a pair of socks, after putting on one sock, the other one is always "left," right?

EVAN W. PATTERSON, SEATTLE

DEAR EVAN: Right, until you put on the one that's left, after which neither is left, which follows as the night the day, they are both right, right?

DEAR ABBY: In a recent letter you apologized for your "thoughtlessness and insensitivity" to "Brown and Burning," because of your response to "Cooled Off in Coos Bay." ("Cooled Off" was having trouble responding to her husband's sexual advances, so you suggested that she fantasize that he was Robert Redford, Burt Reynolds and Paul Newman rolled into one.)

"Brown and Burning" wrote to say that the three glamour models you listed wouldn't do for her because she happened to be an Afro-American woman, and why didn't you include at least one black male?

Abby, you also failed to include a Latin-American, Chinese, Japanese, American Indian, Eskimo and several other ethnic minorities.

Since I am of Chinese, Japanese, Polynesian and American Indian origin, I would also appreciate your mentioning at least one representative of my national origins. Admittedly, by having to do this, you might somewhat dilute the point you are making, but at least you wouldn't be guilty of discrimination.

Couple Has 25th Anniversary

FARMVILLE — Mr. and Mrs. Wiley Thomas Mayo Jr. of Farmville were honored at a 25th wedding anniversary reception Sunday at Friendship Free Will Baptist Church fellowship hall. The couple's son, Tommy, was host.

Mrs. Mayo wore a formal gown in shades of lavender and purple with silver accent complemented by a corsage of lavender and white carnations and spider mums tied with silver ribbon.

The refreshment table was covered with a white cloth with lace trim accented with silver bows. The centerpiece was an arrangement of lavender pom poms, lavender statice and white spider mums. Ruth Stocks of New Bern, aunt of Mrs. Mayo, poured punch and his sister, Ruth Heath of Kinston, served the three-tiered wedding cake. Assisting in serving were Margaret and David May, Tama May and Judy Jones.

Gifts were opened and displayed by Laura Spikes, mother of Mrs. Mayo.

The reception area was decorated with palms and magnolia. The mantel was decorated with magnolia and centered with a bridal couple figurine flanked by lighted white tapers. The piano featured an arrangement of lavender flowers and mangolia.

Good-byes were said by Mr. and Mrs. Willie Moore Murphy of Maury. She is Mrs. Mayo's cousin. Kathleen Hardee of Belvoir, sister of Mayo, presided at the guest register.

Mr. and Mrs. Mayo were married on Oct. 5 in the Ormondville Free Will Baptist Church.

The first pictures of the far side of the moon were shown Oct. 18, 1959, from the Soviet satellite Lunik III. They had been taken Oct. 6 as the satellite passed behind the moon, but they were not transmitted until the satellite began its return journey.

PEAS AND RICE

It's a version of Chinese fried rice.

1/4 cup peanut oil
1/2 cup diced (1/4-inch) onion
1/2 cup diced (1/4-inch) celery
1 cup diced (1/4 to 1/2-inch) leftover roast pork
1 clove garlic, minced
3 cups cold cooked converted-style rice
1 cup frozen small peas
3 tablespoons soy sauce

Add oil to an electric wok, pouring it around the sides; set control at 325 degrees and heat oil about 2 minutes. Add onion, celery, pork and garlic; stir-fry about 2 minutes. Make a well in the center and to it add rice and peas; stir-fry until very hot — 3 to 5 minutes. Add soy sauce and stir well. Serve at once.

Whatever the status of the child, Windley says it's imperative that the state hurry and get these children out of jail. Not only is the state failing to help them while they're in jail, the children are also suffering severe psychological damage. Windley notes that the suicide rate for those put in jail is 10 times higher than for those put in detention centers.

Establish $10,000 Fund For ECU Scholarships

Church Has New Pastor

Trying Capture Injured Goose

STEVENS GIFT — Dr. David Stevens, center, and his wife, Willa Horner Stevens, have established a $10,000 endowed scholarship fund to aid and encourage highly motivated undergraduates studying in social work and correctional services at East Carolina University. Stevens is ECU's university attorney. He also has taught as an associate professor for the past nine years in the department of social work and correctional services. The scholarship program he and his wife are establishing will permit a departmental selection committee to choose recipients on the basis of academic achievement, financial need and qualities of good citizenship and dedication to the profession. Established in perpetuity, the Stevens gift provides that one or more scholarships be funded annually from the interest earned by investment of the endowment by the ECU Foundation Inc., which will administer the fund. Dr. Stevens, upon retirement after 21 years of active duty in the U. S. Air Force, joined the ECU faculty in 1970. In 1973, he was appointed equal opportunity officer for the university and later university attorney in addition to his academic appointment. Mrs. Stevens is the former Willa King Horner of Burlington. They are the parents of three children.

REV. BEN JAMES
The Rev. Ben James has recently been called as minister of the Arthur Christian Church.

A Pitt County native who graduated from Stokes High School and Atlanta Christian College in East Point, Ga., James has served churches in Georgia, Virginia and North Carolina. He and his wife, the former Helen Futrell of Pitt County, have five children, one of whom remains at home.

SHOT IN THE HEAD — Wildlife experts around Salisbury (N.C.) have tried unsuccessfully for a month to capture this black Canada goose shot in the head with an arrow. (AP Laserphoto)

SALISBURY, N.C. (AP) — The people living near a park in Salisbury say they have a mighty tough goose in their midst. For the last month they've been trying to capture a large black Canada goose that has been flying between four and five ponds in a 10-mile area. They've watched it, chased it, even tried giving it corn laced with tranquilizers. Nothing works; the goose flies free. And the arrow sticking in its head doesn't seem to bother it a bit, residents say.

Robbie Julian, a naturalist at the county-owned Dan Nichols Park, said the goose showed up about a month ago. People at first thought the big bird was carrying a stick, but realized the stick was an arrow.

But that's about all they know about the goose. On Wednesday, rescuers tried to knock the fowl out by leaving it corn filled with tranquilizers. The goose gobbled it down — and then took off. "I don't think it's going to work. I think it will take a net," Julian said Thursday. "He ate every bit of the corn, but it didn't do any good." Julian theorized that the corn probably failed because it took so long to go through the crop, gizzard and digestive tract that the drug dispersed.

Dr. Charles Steinman, a veterinarian, is watching efforts to trap the goose with some concern. He says rescuers shouldn't try snaring the goose with a net because it might slash its throat as it thrashes about in the net.

Others say whoever shot the goose should suffer a similar fate. Janice Walker, a resident who has joined her neighbors in trying to catch the goose, had a quick suggestion. "We'll tar and feather him!" she said.

Julian and others are surprised that the bird has suffered no apparent ill effects from the arrow. "It's a shame," Julian said. "Apparently the bird is doing good. It still eats, preens, does everything a normal goose does, but it has an arrow right through its head."

Will Deplete Deer Herd

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Regional Airport employees will conduct a bow-and-arrow deer hunt on the 2,200-acre complex in an effort to trim the deer population, now estimated at 35-to-40, officials said.

Airport Executive Director Roger Sekadlo said the hunt would take place before Nov. 13, the last day of the deer hunting season in Guilford County.

Most deer stay in a wooded area at the rear of the property, but a few stroll across the runways and can't be tolerated, Sekadlo said.

Several carefully selected airport employees will be authorized to shoot a limited number of the deer, Sekadlo said. No guns will be allowed and hunters will carry two-way radios so they can be warned of departing and arriving aircraft.

Sekadlo said deer are not a serious problem and only a few need to be killed. Sekadlo didn't explain how the hunters are going to pinpoint which deer are the runway trespassers.

"I've got a lot more to worry about right now than deer," said Sekadlo, who's supervising the move to a new airport terminal that will be dedicated Saturday.

GOSPEL PROGRAM
Praises of Greenville, a singing group, will render a program of gospel music Sunday at 3 p.m. at Holy Trinity United Methodist Church, Douglas Avenue. Members of the group are Brenda Jones, Eve Rogers and Linda Barrett, all members of the church. The program will benefit the church building fund.

Funds Management outrates any 7-day certificate. And, it's sale priced at $19,000 less.

Frankly, we don't understand all the hoopla being made by banks and savings institutions over 7-day Certificates of Deposit. Because our Funds Management savings transaction account pays much more interest. And Funds Management requires only a $1,000 minimum deposit while 7-day Certificates require a whopping $20,000.

Funds Management<sup>SM</sup> earns money market interest without tying up large amounts of money.

If you're looking for a high interest, high liquidity investment, take a look at North State's Funds Management account. Your balance is insured to $100,000 and you'll earn more interest than 7-day Certificates with your cash available any day. At North State Savings & Loan Corp., we considered offering a 7-day Certificate. But with Funds Management<sup>SM</sup>, who needs it?

Facts About The BIBLE BY JOHN LEHTI

THREE WISE MEN?

ANY ONE WHO EVER ATTENDED A CHRISTMAS CELEBRATION, PUT ON BY THE SUNDAY SCHOOL KIDS, KNOWS THAT THE WISE MEN WHO FOLLOWED THE STAR FROM THE EAST TO WORSHIP THE INFANT JESUS WERE THREE KINGS NAMED MELCHIOR, GASPER, AND BELTHAZAR, RIGHT?.....WRONG!

NOWHERE IN THE BIBLE DOES IT STATE HOW MANY THERE WERE WHAT THEIR RANK WAS, NOR THEIR NAMES! IN MATTHEW, THE ACCOUNT MERELY SAYS THEY WERE WISE MEN FROM THE EAST (MATT 2:1). IN LUKE, ONLY SHEPHERDS ARE MENTIONED (LUKE 2:8-15)....

...THEY WERE NOT DESCRIBED AS KINGS UNTIL THE 6TH CENTURY A.D. AND, SINCE THREE GIFTS HAD BEEN GIVEN—GOLD, FRANKINCENSE, AND MYRRH—SOMEBODY DECIDED THE "KINGS" MUST HAVE BEEN THREE IN NUMBER! BUT NOT UNTIL THE 8TH CENTURY WERE THEY NAMED MELCHIOR, GASPER, AND BELTHAZAR—BY WHOM, AND BY WHAT AUTHORITY, WE'LL NEVER KNOW!

NEXT WEEK: LAMP UNTO MY FEET!

Poultry
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) (NCDA) - The North Carolina f.o.b. dock broiler market was lower for next week. Supplies moderate. Demand moderate. Weights desirable. The dock weighted average price next week is 38.68 for small purchases of plant grade broilers picked up at processing plants. Estimated slaughter today, 1,899,000.

Hens
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) (NCDA) - The North Carolina hen market was steady with steady undertone. Supplies fully adequate. Demand moderate. Prices paid per pound for hens over seven pounds at farm for Wednesday, Thursday and Friday slaughter was 16 cents.

NEW YORK (AP) - Stock and bond prices advanced again in hectic trading today, but the wild rally of the past two days showed some signs of abating.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, which had climbed 58.78 points Wednesday and Thursday, rose another 5.88 to 971.85 by noon.

Volume on the New York Stock Exchange for the first two hours was 58.76 million shares, against 72.17 million in the comparable period Thursday.

Advances outnumbered declines by about 2 to 1 among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

In the bond and money markets, meanwhile, Treasury bills and bonds tumbled in early trading, but later retraced some of their declines.

Analysts said interest rates were falling, and stock prices climbing, primarily on the spreading belief that the Federal Reserve would follow a credit policy designed to help foster a recovery from the recession.

Brokers said the news this morning that the unemployment rate rose to 10.1 percent last month had been widely expected, and thus had relatively little impact on the market.

McDonald's rose 3/8 to 59 3/4 after a delayed opening. Trading in the stock was halted Thursday amid reports of a link between hamburger and a newly-recognized intestinal disorder.

McDonald's issued a statement saying the instances of the illness were "rare and isolated," and had been associated with meat prepared both in restaurants and at individuals' homes. It added that there was "absolutely no basis for concern about the company's future performance."

The NYSE's composite index rose 50 to 74.27. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up 2.02 at 296.49.

Honored By Associates

BOONE - Ralph Shaw of WSJS radio in Winston-Salem was the first recipient of the Ray Hardee Award for individual news contributions to The Associated Press at the fall meeting of the North Carolina Associated Press Broadcasters Association held here last weekend.

Sue Wilson, AP broadcast supervisor for North Carolina, said the N.C. AP Broadcasters wanted to honor Hardee, a Greenville resident, "for his work with the association and contributions to the AP" over the years. "They felt the best way was to name a spot news award for Hardee to honor individual efforts to cooperate with the AP."

A veteran newsman and past president of the AP Broadcasters Association, Hardee began his new career as a writer for the Greenville Daily Reflector. He also served as a writer for the Raleigh News and Observer.

Pesky Spiders Test East Carolina Next

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

Ed Emory was almost apologetic to the press Tuesday at his press conference when he got ready to talk about the University of Richmond.

"I know you guys have heard this before," Emory said, "but Richmond is one of the best 0-4 teams in the country."

Well, maybe. One thing is for sure, when the Pirates and Spiders get together on the football field, records have seldom counted for much.

One of East Carolina's top rivalries — which may now be in doubt for the future since Richmond has been relegated to the Division I-AA ranks — the series has seen some wild and woolly contests, and the last two years have been no exceptions.

Two years ago, when Ed Emory and Richmond's Dal Sheeley were both rookies at their respective schools, the Spiders went into the fourth period ahead, only to see the Pirates rally in a driving rain for a 24-22 victory. Last year, Richmond again led going into the last period — and again, the Pirates rallied for a 17-13 victory.

In that game, several drops of rain — although nothing in comparison to 1980 — fell during the final quarter, so Sheeley might well be spending some time checking the weather forecast for Saturday — and glancing upward late in the game.

Richmond comes into Saturday game, set for a 7 p.m. kickoff in Ficklen Stadium, with an 0-4 mark, and having had very little success on the ground.

The Spiders lost their opener to in-state rival Virginia Tech, 20-9, then fell to South Carolina, 30-10, after leading early in the game. They next bowed to Mid-America Conference team Ohio, 23-14, before losing two weeks ago to powerful West Virginia, 43-10.

The Spiders were open this past weekend.

"They rolled up over 400 yards in total offense against South Carolina and had nearly that much against West Virginia," Emory pointed out. They've been averaging over 300 yards in those four games, and they have eight defensive people who started against us last year and seven or eight offensive people back this year.

"And they've had two weeks to prepare for us, and we really don't know what to expect from them."

One thing the Spiders are famous for are their wide splits in the line of scrimmage. They try to force the defense to cover the whole field, and this has helped their ground game in the past.

However, this year, the Spiders haven't been able to do much on the ground, averaging only 86.8 yards a contest this year. The top runner for the Spiders is tailback Jarvis Jennings, who's picked up 190 yards on 42 carries. He's scored the only two touchdowns the Spiders have made on the ground. Fullback Johnnie Edwards has run 22 times for 84 yards, and the team has just a total of 347 yards in their four games.

"The first two weeks, they ran out of the I formation 90 percent of the time, but the last two games, they ran from the split backs formation 75 percent of the time," Emory said.

The big gun for the Spiders is their quarterback, Napoleon DuBois. He started last year's game against the Pirates as a freshman, replacing the injured Steve Krainock. Krainock, however, was forced into action in that game as DuBois had trouble getting things going.

"(DuBois) has exceptional speed," Emory said. "They were expecting a real good team this year but it just hasn't seemed to come around."

DuBois has put the ball up 87 times this fall, completing 47 of them for 573 yards and two touchdowns. He's had five picked off.

His backup, Van McLaughlin has made good on 17 of 34 for 203 yards and one TD, but he, too, has had five picked off. The Spiders overall have hit on 66 of 127 for 809 yards and three touchdowns — with ten interceptions.

Top targets for the quarterbacks have been split end Clayton White, 17 for 191, tight end Rich Scherer with 13 for 214, and flanker Kevin Jackson, 12 catches for 172 yards and two touchdowns.

Defensively, Richmond has allowed 147 yards a game against the rush and 238.5 against the pass.

"All of that doesn't matter," Emory said. "The way we've won the last two years, and having won up there both times, is going to be all the incentive they are going to need. They'll come in really fired up."

The biggest problem the Pirates have is coming down after their 28-9 loss to the University of Missouri last week — or getting back up as the case may be.

The Pirates were lauded for their play in the game, trailing only 14-9 with less than ten minutes left to play, but at the same time, players told Emory they did not consider the game a moral victory.

"There's no place in college football for self-pity," Emory said. "When you come up short, you've still got to get ready for the next opponent. The most important game for us right now is Richmond. The least important is Missouri."

"We've got to put pressure on them and take their inside game away from them if we hope to win."

The Pirates bring a 2-2 record into the game, and will be playing their next-to-last home game of the season.

Fullback Earnest Byner leads the rushing offense for the Pirates with 202 yards on 45 carries. Right behind him is tailback Tony Baker — who did not play against Missouri — but is expected to be ready for Richmond. Baker has 191 yards on 40 carries, while backup fullback Reggie Branch has 111 yards on 22 carries.

Jimmy Walden, who played for the first time late in the Central Michigan game, carrying one time, went most of the way at tailback against Missouri. He's rushed 15 times for 57 yards, and will likely start against Richmond.

Quarterback Greg Stewart was another who missed the Missouri game, with asthma problems. He's hit on 27 of 47 passes for 441 yards, three touchdowns, and had five interceptions. Kevin Ingram, who went all the way against the Tigers, has hit on 16 of 39 for 221 yards, one touchdown, and had two interceptions.

Carlton Nelson is the top receiver with 11 for 220 yards, while Ricky Nichols has 9 catches for 174 yards.

The Pirates have rushed for an average of 185 yards, while allowing 127. They have passed for 165.5, while allowing an equal number.

Following this week, the Pirates travel to Florida State, hoping to avenge a 63-7 romp by the Seminoles two years ago.

Forsch Hurls Cardinals To 7-0 Victory

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Not even the no-hitter he pitched in 1978 could top the exultation Bob Forsch was to feel following a three-hit masterpiece.

"I think this was a lot more important than a no-hitter," the 32-year-old right-hander said after hurling the St. Louis Cardinals to a 7-0 victory Thursday night over the Atlanta Braves. "This was a start toward something we need to do."

Indeed, on the strength of Forsch's performance and an attack that featured 13 hits, St. Louis got off on the right foot in the best-of-five National League Championship Series.

While their pitcher was facing only 30 batters, the Cards were making the most of 11 singles and daring baserunn-ing. "This was kind of typical for us," said Manager Whitey Herzog.

"Embarrassing? No, I wouldn't call it embarrassing," said Atlanta Manager Joe Torre in response to a reporter's post-game query.

"I know the guys wanted it. We just didn't play well. It's just that the Cardinals, with their speed, can do a lot of things once they're ahead."

Torre said the Braves may call tonight on 43-year-old knuckleballer Phil Niekro in an attempt to get even.

"We'd like to come out of here with a split and go home and win two out of three," said the Atlanta pilot. "You never like to be 0-2. It's very important."

A decision on whether Niekro will be able to come back 48 hours after a stint of 41-3 innings in Wednesday's washed-out opener was to be made this afternoon.

"I don't want to wait until game time," said Torre. "I know Phil will be honest with me. He's ready emotionally."

Then the lanky right-hander

We just want him to have a good time out on the mound. We need it."

Against St. Louis on Thursday night, rookie Pascual Perez of the Braves was effective enough — at least until the sixth inning.

The Cards' five-run inning surrendered three straight singles with none out, the final by George Hendrick to give the Cards a 2-0 lead. That brought on Steve Bedrosian in relief, and the roof caved in as St. Louis sent 11 batters to the plate.

The Cards' five-run inning extra base hits. "That's just not their style. They don't need it. Whitey (Herzog) likes for them to run."

One St. Louis hitter who didn't run far enough was rookie Willie McGee, whose smash over the first base bag to start the third was the Cards' first hit.

McGee, his head down, fled around second base as Atlanta right fielder Claudell Washington pursued the caroming drive at the fence. Although Washington failed to come up with ball, the Cards outfielder was guilty of not looking for his coach's sign and stopped at third base.

"That's the first time in a long time I've seen a guy run a home run into a triple," Herzog was able to say afterward with a chuckle.

"I think everybody was surprised that he didn't score on the play, but you can't dwell on it," said shortstop Ozzie Smith, who picked up McGee with a sacrifice fly to put the Cards in front 1-0. "We felt that with three chances to get him home, we would score."

In the game-breaking St. Louis sixth, Darrell Porter worked a walk off Bedrosian to load the bases following Hendrick's RBI single.

McGee and Ozzie Smith then drove home two more runs with singles, and Forsch delivered a sacrifice fly. The uprising finally drew to a close after Ken Oberkell singled home the fifth run.

"It wasn't really all that easy," Oberkell said after Lonnie Smith had delivered an anticlimactic run with a sacri-ifice fly in the eighth.

"It was just a combination of things," said Braves third baseman Bob Horner. "They had everything good happen for them and everything bad happened to us."

Forsch, while delivering 104 pitches, yielded singles in the third and sixth innings to Washington and a single up the middle with two out in the fifth to Bruce Benedict.

"I hit a good pitch; Claudell hit a good pitch," said Benedict, the Atlanta catcher. "To me, it was just amazing that as close as he (Forsch) was around the plate all night, we didn't get more hits."

Torre, a former teammate of Forsch, called the St. Louis veteran a "gutter pitcher," noting that "he doesn't have the fastball he once did."

"I'm really not a strikeout pitcher," said Forsch, who fanned six and walked none. "Tonight I pitched just like I always do except that I had better control."

John Stuper, a Cards rookie who compiled a 9-7 record during the regular season, will face either Niekro, 17-4, or Tommy Boggs, 2-2, in tonight's 7:15, CDT, game.

Forsch's shutout was only the third by a National League pitcher since the league championship series were devised in 1969, and first since 1974.

"Sometimes a 1-0 defeat is more demoralizing," said Benedict in respect to the drubbing he and his Braves teammates had absorbed.

"We'll just have to forget this one and come back and play better tomorrow."

Fork Union Sprints Past ECU Junior Varsity By 32-20 Score

Quarterback Todd Heniford scored two touchdowns on identical one yard keepers and quarterback Don Majkowski completed seven passes for 107 yards to lead the Fork Union Military Academy to a 32-20 win over East Carolina University's junior varsity squad Thursday.

Heniford scored once in each of the third and fourth quarters after the Blue Devils had taken a 18-13 halftime lead. Heniford's scores, plus Majkowski's nifty passes put the game out of reach.

Fork Union opened the scoring on a 20-yard field goal by Bill West, but the Pirates went ahead on a John Williams to Stuart Rameriz 57-yard touchdown bomb to make it 7-3.

After the Blue Devils tackled tailback Mill Corsey for a safety to make it 7-5, running back John Duffel plunged over from the one to make the score 12-7.

With ECU deep in its own territory in the second, Lawrence White picked off a Williams' pass and scored more on a three yard dive by Williams with 9:54 remaining. Williams completed four passes for 137 yards on the day.

The Pirates closed the gap to 18-13 at the half as quarterback Larry Brobst hit Rameriz on a 54-yard touchdown pass, but Heniford and the slashing running of Duffel, who collected 127 yards on 20 carries, put the game out of reach.

The Pirates scored once more on a three yard dive by Williams with 9:54 remaining. Williams completed four passes for 137 yards on the day.

East Carolina is now 0-1-1, while Fork Union is 5-0.

There were continuing shakeups in our standings last week, with a little more daylight between first and last place.

Currently, this writer is in first place, having a 43-16 record. Last week's leader, Tom Baines, has fallen into a tie with Rick Scoppe for second, at 42-17. Vickie Spivey and our guests are fourth at 41-18, while Joe Jenkins is in his accustomed last spot at 38-21.

Guest Jack Edwards turned in an 8-4 record on the week, not surpassing the 9-3 held by both Mel Lang and Margaret Register.

This week's guest is Larry Beckish, offensive coordinator at East Carolina University, while we'll bring in Norm Parker, the defensive coordinator, next week.

Jenkins, however, isn't happy with his position at the bottom this year, and has vowed to finish ahead of us before the season is over.

While we have some testy games this week, everyone appears cautious and there are not a great deal of differences in the selections.

First, a look at the area high school games. Last week, we turned in a 5-1 week, which brings us to 32-6-4 on the season.

There are several cross-area games between the high school teams, including Farmville Central at North Pitt and Ayden-Grifton at Greene Central.

Farmville Central did surprisingly well, despite losing to SouthWest Edgecombe, 12-7, last week. North Pitt won its third of the season with a 28-14 win over Greene Central. The question now becomes, can the Panthers handle the pressure? Maybe, but we're going to have to pick Farmville Central in a close contest, 21-14.

Greene Central, a very banged up team is looking for its first win, while Ayden-Grifton continues to roll along unbeaten. An upset is possible — but highly unlikely. We like the Chargers, 42-0.

Rounding out our county games, D.H. Conley travels to West Carteret for its first Coastal Conference game of the year. The Vikes have had a week to rest up following a close loss to Ayden-Grifton, while West Carteret is coming off a lopsided loss to Clinton. But — we'll still go with the Patriots, say 18-6.

In other area games, it'll be Bertie over Roanoke and Jamesville over Mattamuskeet.

Turning to the panel, we find Rose at Wilson Beddingfield, and East Carolina hosting Richmond.

The Rampants have been off and on throughout the early season and hope to get their offense on track this time out. Beddingfield is young but gaining experience rapidly. This one, however, should be a Rose win. Our choice is Rose, 24-7, and the panel is unanimous for the Rampants.

The Pirates always have trouble with Richmond — despite records — and this year should be no different. The Spiders have a potent passing game, and that's been the biggest defensive problem the Pirates have. ECU hasn't given up a touchdown at home, however, and wants to keep it that way.

The panel goes down the line with the Pirates, 6-0, and our own prediction is ECU by 24-14.

Our other consensus picks: Clemson over Virginia, Tulane over Georgia Tech, North Carolina over Wake Forest, Texas over Oklahoma, Notre Dame over Miami of Florida, Duke over Virginia Tech, Maryland over Indiana State, Alabama over Penn State, West Virginia over Boston College, and Navy over Air Force.

Kuenn Won't Have Any Alibis If Angels Oust Brewers Tonight

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Milwaukee Manager Harvey Kuenn emphasized that he would have no alibis if the California Angels eliminated his Brewers from the American League playoffs.

But Kuenn said Thursday that the Angels had a significant advantage because the Brewers had to play their previous nine games on the road — all under intense pressure.

The Angels, behind the combined 12-hit pitching of Tommy John and Bruce Kison, won the first two games of the best-of-five series in Anaheim Tuesday and Wednesday. They could clinch the series by winning Game Three here today (2:15 p.m. CDT).

Games Four and Five, if needed, were scheduled here Saturday and Sunday.

The Brewers closed their regular season with three games in Boston and four in Baltimore and won the East Division title by defeating the Orioles 10-2 in the final game Sunday. They flew from Baltimore to Anaheim on Monday.

"Coming from Baltimore to California can be very tough because we lost three hours in the flight," Kuenn said. "You can't be 100 percent when you lose that kind of time with your body. We had just clinched the East Division, and there's no question that takes something out of you."

"The Angels got excellent pitching from John and Kison, but we weren't hitting the ball very well," he said. "There's no question they had an advantage because they had their pitchers rested and we didn't, and they had their pitchers rested and we didn't."

"If we had clinched last Friday, our pitchers would have been ready and it might have been a different story in California," he said.

Kuenn said he had toyed with a lineup change that would have moved Cecil Cooper and Gorman Thomas from third and sixth, respectively, in the batting order to first and second, and Paul Molitor and Robin Yount from first and second to third and fourth.

"I said that to myself because somebody told me our 3, 4 and 5 hitters were 0-for-18," Kuenn said. "But what the hell good would changing the lineup do because there would be no body for Molitor or Yount to get on base for?"

"I've had the same lineup for left-handers and right-handers, and we won 95 games," he said. "I'm not about to change."

Don Sutton, scheduled to pitch for the Brewers today against California's Geoff Zahn, agreed that the rest and home field had worked to the Angels' advantage.

"If you're at home, seeing friendly faces and in more comfortable surroundings, it's easier than living in a hotel and busing to the park," Sutton said. "I honestly feel that if the first two games had been here, the outcome would have been different. I think they would have pitched as well, but we would have felt more comfortable."

But Sutton gave full credit to the Angels.

"On a scale of 10, they've played at about a 9.9," he said. "They haven't made too many mistakes."

"You have to give credit," he said. "John and Kison pitched as well as you can to our lineup. There were not too many 2-0 or 3-1 pitches, and when there were they made good pitches."

Much of the credit for the Angels' pitching should go to catcher Bob Boone, Sutton said. Both Sutton, who joined the Brewers Aug. 30 from Houston, and Boone have spent most of their major league careers in the National League.

"Bob Boone has been overlooked," Sutton said. "He has done a heck of a job calling pitches. Reggie Jackson is more visible, but what has solidified their pitching and made it better than maybe it should be is Bob Boone."

Boone said the Angels, a veteran team, have a professional approach that has helped them.

"Everybody here is geared to doing a professional job," he said. "There's no secret to playing well in a playoff. You just have to do your job inning by inning."

Jackson pointed to the Angels' talent as well as their experience.

"This is the type of ball club where you can look around the clubhouse — see the Don Bayers, the Bob Boones, the Bobby Griches, the Doug DeCinces — and you know you're going to play well," he said.

NFL Situation: Talk Site Can't Even Be Agreed On

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Football League players' strike has deteriorated to where the negotiators cannot even find a common meeting ground to resume contract talks.

The Management Council, which bargains for the club owners, Thursday rejected the union's proposals both for private mediation and for a round of non-economic negotiations aimed at ending the 18-day players' strike.

Jack Donlan, the council's executive director, officially turned down the union's request for renewed discussions Thursday night in a brief phone conversation with Ed Garvey, the association's executive director.

Jim Miller, spokesman for the management council, said Donlan again told Garvey there could be no further talks until players' withdraw their demand for a wage scale.

The wage scale, the cornerstone of the union's $1.6 billion, four-year financial demand, was rejected on Sept. 17.

"We sincerely believe that the wage scale is the impediment," Miller said. "None of the other issues are holding up the strike. Settle the wage scale and the other issues can be settled in a very short time."

Earlier Thursday, union president Gene Upshaw vowed the association's allegiance to the wage scale.

"The main reason we are out there (on strike) is for a wage scale. We are not out there because we like it. We are there because we want more money," he said.

Thursday morning, Garvey released a list of nine candidates he said would be acceptable to mediate the dispute.

Before the list, which included the names of former Supreme Court Justice Arthur Goldberg, former Watergate investigator Archibald Cox and three former U.S. secretaries of Labor, was two hours old, the management council had said "no."

Miller said the idea of trying to choose a private mediator when the two sides had not reached agreement on a single item in nine months of negotiations was just another issue to be added to the already stalled talks.

The management negotiators continue to press for intervention by the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service. The union, feeling it was burned in the past with a federal mediator at the table, is reluctant to go that route again.

"In 1970, management broke off the talks after a mediator entered the dispute. In 1974, management asked for a federal mediator and then after he entered, the NFL tried to break the union," Garvey said. "It took us three years to get a contract after we went to federal mediation in 1974."

Also, Garvey is thought to feel that Donlan has some friends in the service where he worked in the 1960s.

On Wednesday, the management council first told Garvey there could be no further discussions until the players lifted their demand for a wage scale. On Thursday, Garvey urged resumption of talks at least on non-economic issues.

"We went down that road last week," said Miller of the last round of stalemated discussions held here last weekend. "We think we made some movement toward their proposals in our counterproposals, but they didn't move off square one ... so we're going to through that again, we'd just be knocking heads."

While there was little movement on the negotiation front, NFL lawyers were busy picking up their battle with the union in court.

Alabama, Penn State Collide Par Routed In LaJet; But Some Don't Do It

By The Associated Press
In between college football's battles on the field, there's a separate war of words.
Don James, coach of the top-ranked Washington Huskies, says his team is having troubles following not-so-easy victories over lightly regarded Oregon and San Diego State.

"You believe what you want to believe," countered California Coach Joe Kapp, whose Bears travel to face Washington Saturday. "For them to cry poor is ridiculous."

Says James about being top-ranked: "I'd rather be playing like we're No. 1."
In Alabama, the fourth-ranked Crimson Tide with Coach Paul "Bear" Bryant are waiting to entertain No. 3 Penn State and Coach Joe Paterno this weekend.

Bryant isn't taking Penn State too lightly.
The Nittany Lions are "probably the greatest team in the country and maybe the greatest team of all time," he said.

While the top-rated try to move up this weekend, little Pacific University will try to get into the win column.
The 750-student school, located in Forest Grove, Ore., hasn't won or tied on the field in 30 games. Their official losing streak is 27, however, since the Boxers won the third game of the 1979 by forfeit because Eastern Oregon used an ineligible player.

Paterno, who grew up in Brooklyn, appreciates the compliments from Bryant, who was raised in rural Arkansas, but ...
"That's what I said about Nebraska two weeks ago," said Paterno, whose team knocked off the then-No. 2 Cornhuskers. "Paul's been around the block a few times."
"Sometimes you'll make some statements that are out of the ballpark to dramatize a big game."
Both teams are 4-0 and Alabama is a four-point favorite.

ABILENE, Texas (AP) — Some ideal conditions — warm, sunny weather and the rare absence of west Texas wind that stripped the Fairway Oaks Golf and Racquet Club course of its natural defenses — helped Wayne Levi, Craig Stadler and Jay Haas lead the massive assault on par in the first round of the $350,000 LaJet Classic.

Beddingfield Gains Tie With Rose Cubs, 19-19

Rose High School and Wilson Beddingfield battled to a 19-19 tie in junior varsity play yesterday.
Beddingfield jumped out into a 13-0 lead in the first period of the game, but Rose battled back to score with about 30 seconds left in the half. Brian Bridges went over from the one to cap a 75-yard drive, and also kicked the PAT to cut it to 13-7.

In the third quarter, Tom Moore scored on the first Rampant possession of the second half to tie the game up. He also scored in the fourth period on a five yard run to give Rose a 19-13 lead.

Beddingfield came back to score midway through the period to tie it up.
The tie gives Rose a 3-2-1 record on the season.
Defensive standouts included Ronnie Moore, Jerry Howard, Bill Zadeits and Churchill Thomas. Offensively, Robert Joyner, Moore, Todd Martin and Michael Walsh were singled out for their play.

Rose plays host to Kinston on Thursday.
Conley . . . . . 46
W. Carteret . . . . . 0
D.H. Conley's Baby Vikings romped to a 46-0 victory over West Carteret Coastal, as they opened Coastal Conference play.

The victory boosted the Conley record to 4-1 overall and 1-0 in the league.
Conley was led by Derrick Parker, who scored two touchdowns, while Steve Mills, Leonard Johnson, Joel Cox, Shane Adams and Ricky Ziemba each scored once.

Farmville C. . . . . 44
North Pitt . . . . . 0
FARMVILLE — Ed Davis scored three touchdowns and Wesley Harris picked up two more in sparking Farmville Central's junior varsity to a 44-0 victory over North Pitt yesterday.
Farmville scored two touchdowns in each quarter except for the second when it got only one. The scoring started when Bobby Evans passed 22 yards to Dennis Tripp. Later in the first period, Davis scored his first TD, a 16-yard run. In the second period, Harris scored on a 49-yard run to raise it to 18-0 at the half.

In the third period, Davis scored on a 5-yard run and Harris broke away on a 62-yard scamper. Farmville made its only conversion after that score, a two point pass from Toronto Moyer to Tripp.
The final period saw Davis score again from 16 yards out and Tim Joyer go in from four yards away.
Farmville is now 2-2 overall and 2-0 in Eastern Carolina Conference play.

Visually Stunning 'Cats' Sees Opening

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Drama Critic
NEW YORK (AP) — "Cats" will decorate your mind, all right. Spectacular staging and dance. An incredible junkyard set. Bits of sci-fi. Rock-concert flash and smoke. A magical litter of 26 cat-costumed performers, all excellent dancers, singers and actors.

Quite a show, this feline festival, based on T.S. Eliot's cat poems, its score by Andrew Lloyd Webber of "Evita" fame, and directed by Trevor Nunn, acclaimed for last year's "Nicholas Nickleby."

Employing Eliot's poetry as the lyrics, "Cats" is a visually stunning piece, deficient only in one key respect — a score that while ambitious and beautifully orchestrated is none too memorable.

A London hit, this $4 million, hot-ticket Yank edition bounded onto Broadway Thursday, charged with restlessness energy. It begins in darkness that suddenly gives way to hundreds of glowing cat eyes.

Then, out they come, human tabbies of all kinds, fat ones, lean ones, the proud and the pathetic, a living rainbow of cat colors — calico, snow-white, dingy gray, shiny black, assorted stripes.

They prowl the aisles, inspect the audience, climb about on John Napier's superb, king-sized junkyard set, a circular rubbish heap extending from the stage to box seats and the front of balcony.

Then, under a full moon, they start their annual Jellicle Ball, a night-long bash — briefly halted by a massive brogan crashing down — filled with remarkable sights, sounds and performances.

"Cats" has no dialogue, no traditional book, only a fragile outline — a series of vignettes at a party that ends with one cat chosen to ascend to "the heaviside layer," cat heaven, then be reborn.

But it's a fantastic night, full of leaps and bounds, tales of evil and virtue, failure and success. And, like "Nickleby," it tries to immerse you in the show, not merely witness it.

Its prowl-the-aisles device is over-used, but you do find yourself caught up in this strange new world, the inmates of which are clad in Napier's colorful, furry-legged leotards.

You meet Rum Tum Tugger (Terence V. Mann), a flashy, swaggering Mick Jagger-like rocker. And obese, funny Bustopher Jones (Stephen Hanan). And white, tiny Victoria (Cynthia Onrubia).

There's also Mistoffelees (Timothy Scott), sleek master of magic. And the fiendish Macavity (Kenneth Ard), "the monster of depravity." And a train cat (Reed Jones), who builds an amazing, smoke-puffing, steam-spouting locomotives out of junkyard scraps.

And let's not ignore one of the show's most memorable characters — the raggedy, wistful old Theatre Cat (Hanan again, and brilliantly). He relives his glory days of derring-do roles in a lavish, whimsical pirate opera that brings on Siamese bandits in armor festooned with cat's eyes that light up.

All this, plus a sly satire of dogs, is presided over by wise, shaggy, sad-faced Old Deuteronomy (Ken Page, just great here).

He rules from atop a huge, worn tire that eventually becomes a fog-shrouded setting for a moment right out of "Close Encounters of the Third Kind," a moment sure to amaze even the most jaded patron.

It's fascinating, this "Cats," both in its lively, highly imaginative staging and Gillian Lynne's exhausting, at times over-long choreography that encompasses all dance forms, from tap to classical.

One only wishes Webber's score lived up to the production (true, the show has one hit on the charts, "Memory," but for my dough it's the sort of soggy lament you'd find on an old Jerry Vale album).

Normally a fine composer who employs a variety of musical forms, Webber seems to strain in a variety of musical forms here, save for his catchy "Jellicle Cats."

But this is the kind of show where spectacle triumphs even when the score doesn't. And on that basis, "Cats" is a spectacular winner.

What other critics said:

Under the headline "Not Quite Purr-fect," Douglas Watt wrote in the Daily News that "Cats" glitters "like a few hundred Christmas trees" but there is "too much of everything" in the musical. Although it "may be enough to keep you in your seat for 2½ hours, if not exactly on the edge of it .... it makes for a strained and eventually wearing evening."

New York Times critic Frank Rich said "Cats" is "a musical which transports the audience into a complete fantasy world that could only exist in the theater and yet, these days, only rarely does. Whatever the other failings and excesses, even banalities, of "Cats," it believes in purely theatrical magic, and on that faith it unquestionably delivers."

Film Strike Is Averted

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Producers and seven unions representing 27,000 film and television technicians have reached a tentative agreement on a new contract that calls for a 26.2 percent wage hike over the next three years, averting a threatened strike.

"This industry did not need a third strike," said Universal Pictures President Ned Tanen, referring to the actors' and writers' strikes in 1980 and 1981.

He called the new pact between the unions and the Alliance of Motion Picture and Television Producers, reached Thursday, "equitable for both sides," and added, "I think it's a very, very constructive and good move for the industry."

Don Haggerty, business representative for Film and Video Technicians Local 683, said, "I think it's very reasonable under the circumstances of not only the nation but the world, which is in a semi-depression. When you compare it with other contracts, it's far above the average."

Haggerty predicted it would be ratified in a mail ballot next week.

According to Haggerty, U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics figures showed that in the first half of 1982, unions with more than 1,000 workers negotiated pay hikes averaging only 3 percent.

On Wednesday, the 20,000-member International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employees had authorized a strike — just hours before a final 10-hour bargaining session with producers and a federal mediator.

'Nitecap' Back On Air Waves

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Herb Jepko is back on the air, after dropping a word from the title of his radio talk show but keeping its homey chit-chat for overnight listeners.

Jepko, host of "The Herb Jepko Nitecap Show" from 1964 to 1979, has brought back a reprise. Its return to six stations this week was marked only by the dropping of the word "Nitecap" and drew a warm reception from fans.

"I never gave up hope that we'd get back," said Jepko, 51, who began his all-night program on KSL radio here in 1964 and built a coast-to-coast following.

Jepko, who says his was network radio's first talk show, left the air in August 1979, a year after his show was dropped by Mutual Radio, partly because of its upbeat, non-controversial tone.

Tabloids Say Andrew Ordered Home

By MICHAEL WEST
Associated Press Writer
LONDON (AP) — British tabloid accounts today claimed an embarrassed Queen Elizabeth II has ordered Prince Andrew home from his Caribbean beach fling with American blue-movie star Koo Stark and banned him from hosting "overnight guests" at Buckingham Palace without permission.

The palace strongly denied the reports, which came as a London girlie magazine announced plans to publish full-color nude photographs of the 22-year-old prince's latest sweetheart.

In Los Angeles, Miss Stark's father, movie producer Wilbur Stark, said Thursday he was "nauseated" by the treatment his 25-year-old daughter has received from the British press.

She appeared nude in the 1975 film "Emily," which features Miss Stark as a teenager who indulges in a torrid lesbian affair and frolics in the nude with male lovers.

"I resent the fact they call it soft porn," Stark said. "She is not a sex goddess."

Stark, producer of "Cat People" and "The Thing," said he characterizes "Emily" as a romantic drama.

Since their flight Tuesday to the Caribbean hideaway island of Mustique, British tabloids have plastered stories of the trip complete with blaring front-page headlines and nude photographs of the actress.

In a report attributed to palace staff, the Sun tabloid said: "In a message to the prince on the island of Mustique in the Caribbean, the Queen has told her second son to cut his visit short and get back to London."

The Sun also said it learned that the queen banned Andrew from entertaining "overnight guests" at the palace after learning he and Miss Stark had an "all-night date" there last weekend.

The tabloid said the palace staff believes the prince, dubbed "Randy Andy" because of his many girlfriends, "is so entranced by the...actress that he might well disobey the order" to come home early. Andrew, a Royal Navy helicopter pilot who served in the Falklands war, is on leave.

The queen and her husband Prince Philip are in Australia and the tabloid claimed the instructions were sent to "her most senior advisers." The report said the ban also applied to Prince Edward, 18, who has been in New Zealand since last month, teaching at Wanganui Collegiate School.

A palace spokesman reached for comment said, "No such instruction has been issued in the palace, and certainly Prince Andrew has not been asked to return."

Another British tabloid, the Daily Express, said Andrew first introduced Miss Stark to his mother at a recent "intimate dinner party" at Balmoral Castle in Scotland. It said the queen then "had no idea of the girl's background as a nude star of a soft porn movie."

The respected Daily Telegraph carried a smaller account today on inside pages focusing on the British Broadcasting Corp. being criticized by some viewers for airing a film clip Wednesday night from "Emily." It showed Miss Stark nude, asking a man to make love to her. A BBC spokesman said "a number" of angry viewers complained.

Paul Raymond, publisher of the monthly British magazine Club International, said Thursday night he plans to publish nude pictures of Miss Stark in the next edition later this month. He refused to say where the magazine acquired the photographs.

"I don't think I will be doing any harm to Prince Andrew by publishing the pictures," he said. "Koo was obviously prepared to be photographed in the nude. So I don't see why my readers should not have the pleasure of seeing all her obvious charms."

"Emily" is still shown in British theaters and by coincidence is aired this month on an American cable television network. Miss Stark, whose real name is Kathleen, also bared all in a British television movie, "Blue Film."

In the Caribbean, a well-informed source said the prince and Miss Stark were staying with three friends and her mother at the house where Princess Margaret used to vacation with Roddy Llewellyn.

A hotel operator on the tiny island told a caller from Barbados no rooms were available and reservations were not being accepted. An air service that usually flies to Mustique from St. Vincent said all flights had been canceled. Charter pilots said they doubted they could get permission to land there.

The source said that Andrew and Miss Stark would spend a week on the island of lush green, flower-splashed hills and secluded white sand beaches. The island is only two square miles in area, with a population of about 600, but has running water, electricity, telephones, a small air strip, a hotel, a supermarket, a boutique and a disco.

DEPORTED — Romanian Orthodox Archbishop Valerian Trifa, 68, is shown leaving the U.S. Federal Building and Courthouse Thursday after an abrupt end to his deportation trial. Trifa, accused of being an ardent Nazi supporter who incited riots that killed 300 people during World War II, will be deported, the Justice Department announced. Trifa was accused of concealing his activities in the Iron Guard, a pre-World War II anti-Semitic group. (AP Laserphoto)

Develop Tests For Depression

By WARREN E. LEARY
AP Science Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Doctors have developed several promising biological tests aimed at taking the guesswork out of diagnosing severe depression. Now it is the patients' turn to see if they really work.

The National Institute of Mental Health announced Thursday that it would assemble a battery of these tests and evaluate them with psychiatric patients heading for treatment.

Because of the growing number of these tests, some of which are expensive, government researchers want to find out which ones are most useful in diagnosis and in monitoring the effectiveness of treatment.

"Despite the attractiveness of biological tests for depression, we are not sure how successful they ultimately will be," said Dr. David Pickar, a psychiatrist coordinating the program.

Pickar estimated that 10 percent of the nation's psychiatrists already are using some of the tests and that their popularity is increasing.

The institute, part of the Alcohol, Drug Abuse and Mental Health Administration, is sending letters to psychiatrists around the country asking them to volunteer patients for the tests.

Patients would receive, free of charge, a comprehensive diagnostic workup using the most advanced technology. The information obtained would help their doctors design an optimal treatment program and help researchers evaluate the tests.

"A major aim of the experimental program will be to determine the extent to which any of these biological changes are specific to depression," Pickar told a news briefing.

Biological tests for psychiatric problems stem from findings that physical changes accompany many mental conditions.

For example, changes in the levels of hormones or other chemicals that help nerve cells communicate, called neurotransmitters, are evident in some mental disease.

Sometimes, there are fluctuations in the number or nature of certain molecules, or receptors, on brain cell surfaces. These receptors are triggers, activated by brain chemicals, that spur cells to carry out certain functions.

One test looks at blood levels of a hormone called cortisol that, studies indicate, increases in about half of patients during major depression and drops to normal after clinical recovery.

Another examines a byproduct of a neurotransmitter called serotonin. Patients with lower than normal levels of this chemical appear to have a high suicide potential.

"We will be systematically evaluating the clinical usefulness of eight or more biological tests for hormonal, neurotransmitter or receptor alterations associated with major affective disorders," Pickar said.

Patients accepted for the study will be admitted to the Clinical Center at the National Institutes of Health and will stay for up to two weeks. All fees and transportation costs for participants will be paid by the program.

Pickar, who eventually hopes to enroll hundreds of patients in the trial, said total costs of the test are hard to estimate because

Two Accidents Here Thursday

An estimated $1,850 property damage resulted from two collisions investigated by Greenville police Thursday.

Heaviest damage, officers said, resulted from a 1:15 p.m. collision at the intersection of Charles Boulevard and Ficklen Drive, involving cars driven by Angelia Denise Smallwood of Route 1, Windsor, and Helen Holt Urquhart of Lewiston.

Damage from the mishap was set at $500 to the Smallwood car and $750 to the Urquhart vehicle.

Cars driven by Stephen Winslow Lewis of 113 Williamsburg Drive and Lisa Annette Carroll of 203 N. Library St. collided about 8:32 a.m. on Elm Street, 400 feet south of the 10th Street intersection, causing $400 damage to the Lewis car and $250 damage to the Carroll auto.

many services used will come from existing programs.

But two weeks of testing and care in a regular hospital would cost about $4,000, he estimated for comparison purposes.

Despite Crash Building Program, Prisons Crowded

LOOKING TO THE FUTURE - Inmates walk around the courtyard at Craggy Prison, where state's crash prison-building program then under way, he said, North Carolina might have nearly enough prisons to hold its prisoners by the early 1980s.

Hunt covered his statement well with qualifiers, saying it depended on the still more prisons and stemming the tide with increased paroles.

Five years later, paroles have doubled and new prisons are opening. But North Carolina's prisons are still nearly bursting, and there's some revised thinking among both conservatives and liberals about whether building more and more prisons is the answer.

"Everybody in this is pretty much struck by the fact that we're filling them as fast as we're building them," said one budget analyst, who asked not to be named. "The discussion hinges now on what is the most effective way to deal with inmates."

The change in thinking is borne of the economic consequences of building prisons.

More than $100 million has been spent on new prison construction in less than seven years in North Carolina. The new prisons have done little more than keep the state from falling farther behind, however, as the

Suspension For A Policeman

BETHEL - Patrolman Henry Williams has been temporarily suspended from his duties on the Bethel Police Department.

Mayor Frank Hemingway said the suspension is effective until Monday morning at which time Williams is expected to be back at work. Police Chief Jermome Ratley said the suspension was for "infractions of police department personnel policy" and refused to disclose the nature of the infraction.

Williams, in a letter received by the mayor Wednesday, filed a grievance protesting the suspension. A hearing is planned, but a date has not been set, Hemingway said.

Williams has been a Bethel policeman since September 1978.

Quarterly Meeting

The following quarterly meeting services will be held at Mills Chapel this weekend:

*Saturday, 7:30 p.m., holy communion will be conducted by Eldress Cora Cox and her congregation from Ayden.

*Sunday, 11 a.m., morning worship with the pastor, the Rev. J.L. Swinson preaching; 2 p.m., dinner served; 3 p.m. services conducted by Jasper Tyson and Poplar Hill Choir.

ELDER TO SPEAK

Elder Ray Joyner will speak at Mayo Chapel Missionary Baptist Church Saturday at 7 p.m.

The service is sponsored by the usher board.

number of inmates increases.

Just to bring North Carolina's prison capacity up to the number of prisoners projected five years from now would cost $351 million, estimates the North Carolina Prison and Jails Project, an independent group created with foundation grants.

The prospect of those staggering costs has registered with elected officials. The state Senate passed a resolution last year urging the Department of Correction to study ways of reducing its number of inmates.

And there is no guarantee the projections of 20,000 inmates by 1986 won't be exceeded. Prison officials aren't sure what North Carolina's new presumptive sentencing law - which does away with parole in most cases and establishes uniform sentences to be imposed for each crime under normal circumstances - will do to the inmate population as criminals are sentenced under it.

The law took effect July 1, 1981, and a study of the impact is being made by the Institute of Government at Chapel Hill.

"The experience in other states is not promising," said Glenn Williams, director of research for the Correction Department. "In other states that have fooled around with sentencing, the inmate populations have gone up."

In addition, North Carolina has followed other states in establishing mandatory prison terms, such as for armed robbery. And recent law changes mean a person sentenced to life must serve a minimum 20 years before being eligible for parole, twice the previous minimum.

There have been other law changes that have made release easier, too. But combined with a get-tough attitude among the public, says Williams, the result is still that more people are being sent to prison for longer terms.

Longer sentences may be understandable in some cases. A recent Institute of Government report found the proportion of people sentenced for felonies involving violence rose 48 percent during the 1970s, and it concluded the state's prison population has "shifted toward the serious end of the crime spectrum."

ter a fixed time rather than at the discrete release will come after a fixed time rather than at the discretion of the Paroles Commission.

That was the idea behind the law pushed by Hunt - definite sentences and reduced disparity.

But prison officials are concerned that will also take away one method - parole - of reducing the inmate population. What will they do when that flexibility is gone?

"Exactly," says Rae McNamara, prisons director. "It scares me to death."

Some suggest a new form of limited "safety valve" will be needed to replace paroles.

Care Urged On Driving In Fog

Officials of the North Carolina Highway Patrol today urged local area drivers to use extra caution when driving in early-morning fog that has blanketed the area several mornings this week.

Sgt. R.B. Miller suggested that motorists "drive slowly and burn low-beam headlights" rather than parking lights.

He also said drivers should be "extra careful when entering main highways from secondary roads or drive-ways, and allow plenty of distance between your car and the car ahead."

"The main thing is use your headlights and don't drive fast enough to outrun the distance you can see," Miller said.

Winter Colors Approach Peak By ELISSA MCCRARY Associated Press Writer Fall color in North Carolina's highest mountain elevations will be at its peak this weekend, Blue Ridge Parkway rangers say.

Rangers originally predicted that the peak would come next weekend, but spokesmen in the Boone-Blowing Rock area say the colors will be at their brightest within two days.

"Any areas above 3,000 feet are pretty well at the peak now," said Howard Parr of the National Park Service's Asheville office. "In the really high elevations, like Roanoke (Va.), the colors are actually declining now."

Parr said the color peak for lower elevations, such as Asheville, Pisgah Forest and Spruce Pine, should be about Oct. 20. He said color in those areas will be at the halfway point this weekend.

Parr says this should be one of the most colorful autumns in years in the mountains because of abundant rainfall earlier in the summer and drier conditions in recent weeks. Last year, fall colors in the mountains were disappointing because of heavy rains that knocked the leaves off the trees before they changed colors.

Black Jack Free Will Baptist Church will hold its fall revival Oct. 10-15. Guest speakers will be the Rev. C. F. Brown, pastor of Pleasant Hill Church in Ayden and Dr. James G. Knox III of Raleigh. On Oct. 17 Homecoming will be observed with lunch served. Sunday school will be at 10 a.m., morning worship at 11. During the morning worship there will be a special presentation of 14 former pastors' portraits. Lunch, a special singing and a short devotional will follow the presentation.

HOMECOMING The Salem United Methodist Church in Simpson will hold homecoming Sunday, Pastor Tom Hoogerland will preach the 11 a.m. service. Dinner will follow with former members and friends invited.

Gospel Concert FALKLAND - Gospel singer Rosa Love Harris of Greenville will be presented in concert at St. John Baptist Church Sunday at 5 p.m. The concert is sponsored by the Pastor's Aid Club of the church. Mrs. Harris will be accompanied by Roger Ingram.

GOREN BRIDGE

BY CHARLES GOREN AND OMAR SHARIF Both vulnerable. South deals. NORTH ♦ K 7 6 ♠ 8 3 ♣ A K J 10 7 2 ♠ 9 4 WEST ♦ J 4 2 ♠ A J 7 6 2 ♣ 9 8 3 ♠ J EAST ♦ Q 10 9 5 ♠ Q 10 4 ♣ 5 ♠ K 10 6 5 3 SOUTH ♦ A 8 3 ♠ K 9 5 ♠ 6 4 ♠ A Q 8 7 2

The bidding: South West North East 1 ♦ Pass 1 ♦ Pass 1 NT Pass 3 NT Pass Pass Pass Opening lead: Six of ♣.

South, declarer at three no trump, made a slight technical error. His punishment was, perhaps, unduly harsh. The auction was routine. After his partner's no trump rebid, showing a balanced minimum, North correctly decided that his side's best chance for game was three no trump, so he got there without further ado.

West led his fourth-best heart, and declarer captured East's queen with the king. Unless hearts were going to split evenly, it was obvious that declarer would need tricks in a hurry. It was equally obvious that the diamond suit would have to provide those tricks, and that declarer could not afford to lose a trick in the suit. So at trick two declarer led a diamond to the king. He came back to hand with the ace of spades and led a diamond to dummy's ten. The finesse succeeded - the contract did not. When East failed to follow to the second diamond, declarer could make no more than eight tricks.

Declarer's technique was reasonable, but inaccurate. To lead a diamond to the king before taking the finesse gains only in the event that East has a singleton and it is precisely the queen. However, even if you knew that East held a lone diamond, the odds are 4-1 against it being the queen.

Obviously, declarer was going to take a diamond finesse. If the suit broke 3-2 and the queen was beside, any line would work. But against a 4-1 break declarer would need to finesse twice! Therefore, the winning play at trick two is to take an immediate diamond finesse. When that succeeds, declarer can return to hand with the ace of spades and repeat the finesse. That lands six diamond tricks. Now declarer can afford to cash the king of spades to bring his trick total to nine, and then take the club finesse for another over-trick. As a result, he scores eleven tricks instead of eight.

World's Fair Near Break-Even Target

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) - With just four weekends left before the World's Fair shuts down, fair officials say reaching an 11 million break-even attendance figure is "going to be close."

There will be at least two visitors this weekend - former President Jimmy Carter and his wife, Rosalynn. They will participate in formal ceremonies at the energy theme fair's Court of Flags, as well as tour the fair site this afternoon.

On Thursday, fair officials reported a daily average of 59,598 visitors was needed to hit 11 million by Sunday, Oct. 31 when the fair closes.

Fair officials say 9,510,061 people have visited the fair. But that figure is based on a formula that includes free entry by visiting performers, celebrities and reporters, as well as daily turnstile clicks.

In the past seven days, attendance has ranged from 45,611 on Monday to 86,193 on Saturday.

Fair spokesman Sam Roberts said the 1962 Seattle World's Fair drew 9,609,969 visitors in six months.

"We need approximately 100,000 to beat that, so it will be Friday (today) or Saturday," Roberts said.

Attendance already has surpassed the 1974 Spokane, Wash., fair, where 5.7 million visitors were recorded. The 1939 World's Fair in New York drew almost 45 million visitors.

Caustic Water Burns Woman

FAYETTEVILLE, N.C. (AP) - Mary Jean Tindell started Wednesday morning with a simple, every-day ritual: washing her face.

But the water did more than cleanse her face. It also burned her skin and caused her temporary vision problems in what Fayetteville water officials call a freak accident in which a caustic chemical was pumped into her home.

It began late Wednesday morning. As Mrs. Tindell splashed her face with cold water from the faucet in her bathroom, her skin began to sting. She splashed on a second handful and the stinging grew more intense.

Frightened, she opened her eyes to find a towel to wipe away the water - and realized she couldn't see well. She touched her skin and it felt slimy, like it was coated in baby oil.

She ran to the kitchen and splashed a pot of cold water on her face. That didn't help and the burning sensation grew greater. But she remained calm enough to call her husband and Lafayette Water Corp., which supplies water to the Tindells' home.

Pearl Faircloth, the water company's president, said an investigation showed a pump near the Tindells' home apparently malfunctioned, allowing high levels of liquid caustic soda into the water.

The caustic soda is put in water to maintain a proper balance of acidity and alkalinity in water. An investigation revealed that a pump nearby overloaded the water going to the Tindell home with caustic soda, Mrs. Faircloth said.

Mrs. Tindell's husband, Master Sgt. Henry Lee Tindell, said he couldn't believe what he saw when he came home at his wife's request.

"She looked like she had been lying in the sun. Her eyes and her face were cherry red," he said. "I couldn't believe that could come from a water faucet. It shocked me."

A physician said Mrs. Tindell suffered no permanent damage, but noted she suffered a slight abrasion of the cornea of her left eye.

Despite that, the Tindells say they find it hard to believe such an incident could happen - or would not happen again.

"I can't believe this could happen to me or to anybody," Mrs. Tindell said. "All I can think of is, what if a baby had drunk this water or taken a bath in it?"

HOMEcoming

WINTERVILLE - Homecoming will be held Sunday at the Winterville Free Will Baptist Church. The Rev. E.C. Taylor, pastor, will speak. A picnic lunch will be served in the new church facility on Cooper Street and a cornerstone-laying ceremony is scheduled for 1:30 p.m. A gospel singing featuring the Gospel Chargers and other local groups will follow.

CONCERT

The Vines Sisters of Farmville will be in concert Friday at 7:30 p.m. at Holly Hill Church. This program is to support the church's scholarship fund.

FOCUS

Christopher Who?

Everyone knows that Christopher Columbus discovered America in 1492 - right? Wrong! Columbus was really a late-comer in the race to the New World. Viking explorer Leif Ericson landed in what is now Newfoundland, Canada in about 1000 A.D. - almost 500 years before it even occurred to Columbus that the world might be round. Unfortunately, the Vikings didn't stay in Canada for long. Historians believe they preferred the drier weather in Greenland. After they departed, Columbus got all the credit. But what if the Vikings had decided to make their homes here? Sunday - Leif Ericson Day - might be a national holiday with celebrations across the country, even in Washington, D.E. (District of Ericson).

DO YOU KNOW - In Norse mythology, where did the gods live?

THURSDAY'S ANSWER - Photosynthesis is the manufacture of food in green leaves.

Fed-Up Mother On Protest-Strike

NATICK, Mass. (AP) - A suburban wife and mother of two is on strike against her husband and daughters to protest what she calls unfair labor practices.

"The dishes can pile up to the ceiling, and the laundry too," Roberta Wilson says. "I'm not going to do anything and let them see for themselves how much I really do."

Mrs. Wilson, who works three 12-hour shifts each week as a nurse's aide at a local nursing home, set up picket signs on the front lawn of the family home on Monday to dramatize her complaint that her family doesn't help enough with the chores.

The signs read, "Wife and Mother on Strike Until Further Notice."

"You tell them to do (housework) and then you kill yourself screaming," she said Wednesday. "Then you look at it (the house), and it's the same way."

"The last couple of years I started working so the kids could have riding and music lessons," she said. "It's not fair ... I work and do stuff so the kids can do extra. I think it's about time they all start working."

Mrs. Wilson acknowledged her husband also works full time and her daughters attend school. But she feels her daughters and husband can do more.

"I think it's wrong to think when a man comes home from working he can do nothing," she said.

Her husband, Robert, said he did not want to comment on the strike.

Prayer And Praise

A prayer and praise service will be held Friday at 7:30 p.m. at Holy Mission Holy Church. The speaker will be Missionary Sandra Clark of Saint Rest Church.

Evangelist Helen Webb and the Green Singers will render services at the church Sunday at 11 a.m. Eldress Roundtree of Wilson will be the speaker Sunday night at 7:30.

AFTERNOON SERVICE

The Rev. Billie Anderson and the Haddock's Chapel Junior Choir will conduct the afternoon service Sunday at Mount Shiloh Missionary Baptist Church, Winterville.

Rules Rights Not Violated

NEW BERN, N.C. (AP) - A federal judge has denied motions filed by the attorney of a man arrested in a federal undercover probe, claiming the federal agents who arrested the man acted within the realm of the law.

U.S. Magistrate Charles K. McCotter Jr. ruled Wednesday that agents did not violate the rights of Roscoe Forest Hall III when they failed to read him a Miranda warning of his rights before making a videotape, a phone tape and interviewing Hall during the investigation.

Raleigh defense attorney David Long said Hall - arrested in connection with the FBI's Color probe of corruption in southeastern North Carolina - was not read his rights at the proper time.

FBI special agent Terry Peters said Hall was informed of his rights on June 14, about two months after the federal probe began. Peters said Hall claimed to understand his rights when they were read to him, but had no record of Hall agreeing that he understood.

Hall is charged with possession of 1,500 cartons of women's tennis shoes that reportedly were stolen. They claim Hall sold them the shoes - worth an estimated $250,000 - for $5,000.
