

Council Amended Thoroughfare Plan

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer

After doing what Mayor Percy Cox termed as "soul searching" on a request by the Methodist Retirement Homes Inc. relative to the thoroughfare plan, the City Council voted Thursday night to amend the plan by deleting a segment of Brownlea Drive.

In offering a motion on the amendment, Councilman Louis Clark said, "After reviewing the thoroughfare plan and the city's long-range plans, I believe it would be in the city's best interest to delete Brownlea Drive, from 10th Street to First Street." Clark moved that the council adopt a resolution requesting the state Department of Transportation to delete the Brownlea section.

The Greenville Planning Board had recommended disapproval of a request by the Methodist Retirement Homes to amend the thoroughfare plan by deleting First Street, extending east of Warren Street, and by deleting the Brownlea connector to Fifth Street.

In making its recommendation, the planning board did suggest that the plan be amended to delete that portion of First Street from its present terminus eastward to its proposed intersection with N.C. 33 east of Rivergate Center. It also recommended deletion of a portion of Brownlea Drive (proposed) from its proposed intersection with First Street.

The council, meeting in September, approved the deletion of First Street out to N.C. 33 on the thoroughfare plan but continued action on the Brownlea Drive recommendation until last night's session.

Edith Webber, a resident of Elm Street, told the council that she was concerned with the buildup of traffic on Elm and

Poles Riot Again After Mourners Tear-Gassed

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Rioting exploded again in Nowa Huta after police tear-gassed mourners at a memorial service for a steelworker mortally wounded by police gunfire in a pro-Solidarity protest, informed sources said today.

The riots erupted as fugitive labor leaders urged Poles in Warsaw's biggest plants to strike in sympathy with other workers who risked police bullets and tear-gas to protest the new law banning the Solidarity union.

There were no immediate details of the latest rioting in Nowa Huta, a steel-producing suburb of Krakow, 160 miles southwest of Warsaw.

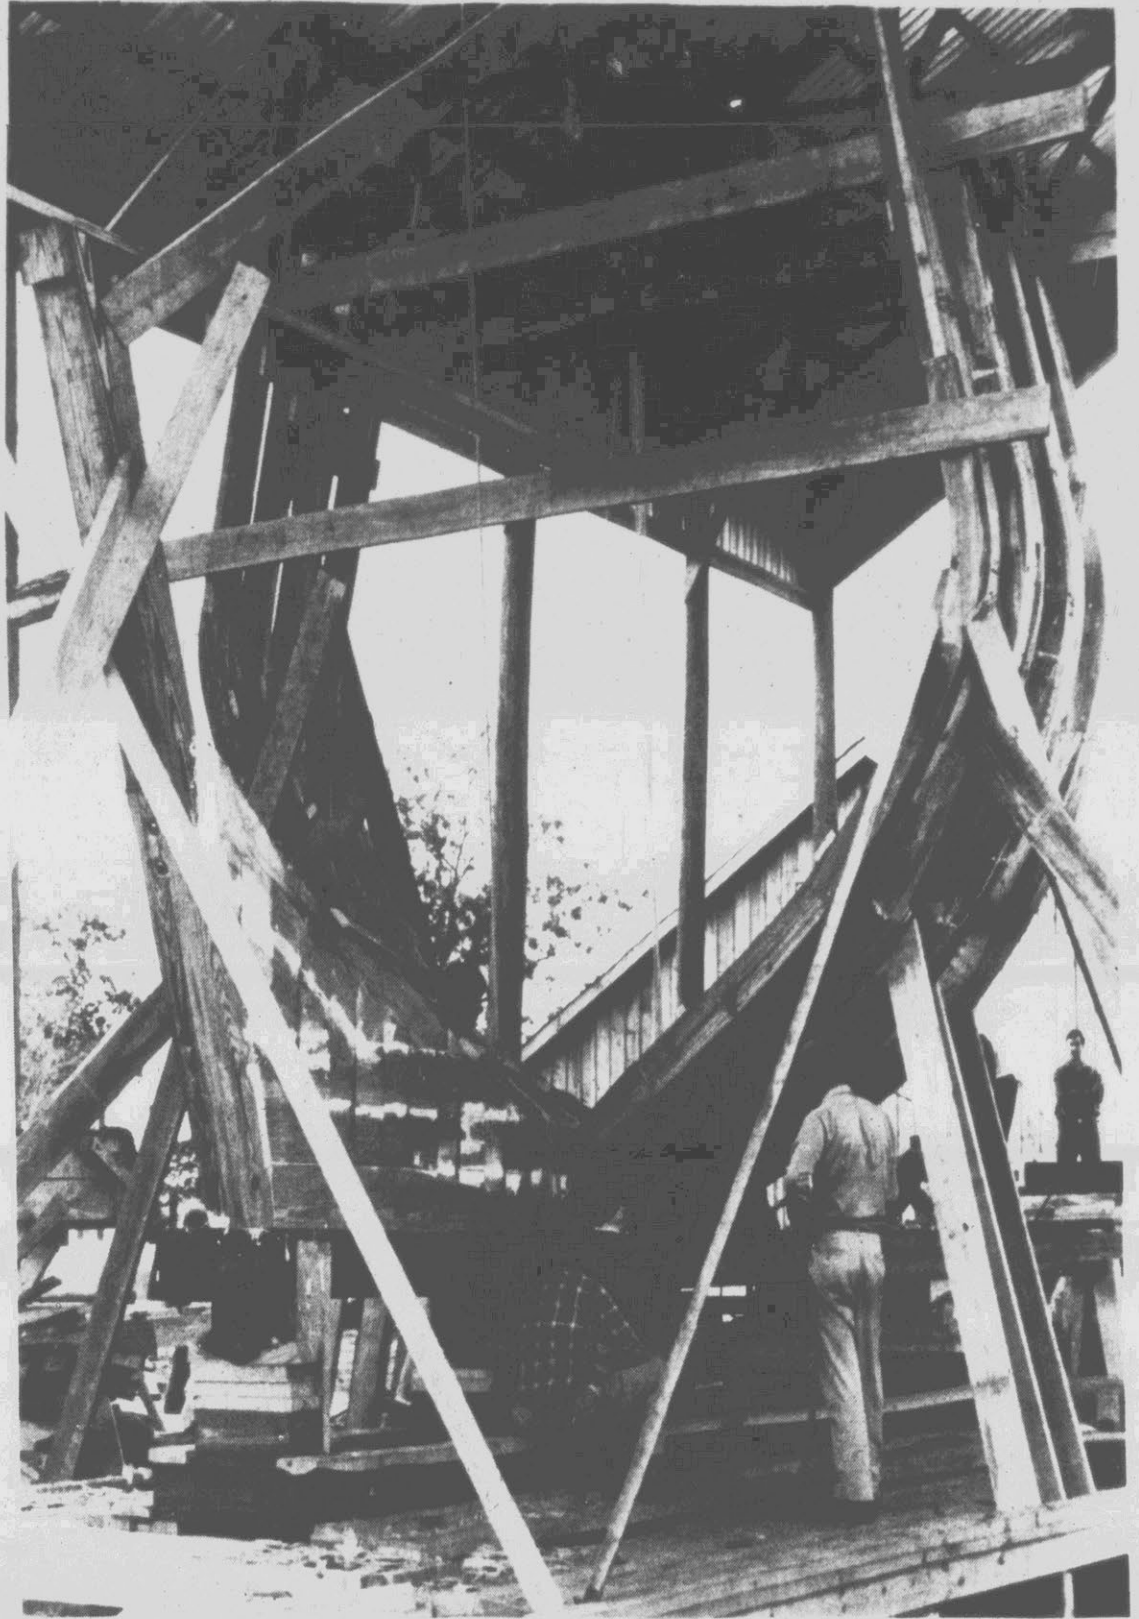

Official sources said the disturbances continued until about 2 a.m. (8 p.m. EDT Thursday).

Small groups of mourners returned today to a memorial for the slain steel mill electrician, but there were no reports of new violence as police blocked streets and clouds of eye-stinging tear gas hung in the air, the sources said.

Authorities say the 20-year-old man was killed and nearly 100 people injured in the bloodiest rioting so far, an uprising Wednesday in Nowa Huta.

Bodgan Wlosik died Thursday, one day after he was shot by a plainclothes police officer, the official PAP news agency said.

Anniversary Project

TAKING SHAPE is the Elizabeth II, a reproduction of the type of 16th century sailing craft that brought the first English colonists to Roanoke Island almost 400 years ago. The vessel is being built on the Manteo waterfront as part of America's 400th Anniversary, planned for the years 1984 to 1987. Framing of the keel, beginning at the stern, is expected to be completed within the next few weeks at which time the Elizabeth's knees and deck beams will be put in place. Bleachers have been erected on the building site to accommodate visitors interested in viewing construction progress. (C.R. Cannon Photo)

Wholesale Prices Drop; Productivity Also Down

By The Associated Press

Prices at the wholesale level fell last month at an annual rate of 1.7 percent, but industrial production was down for the 12th time in 14 months, the government reported today.

The Labor Department said the drop in wholesale prices was led by sharply falling automobile costs and lower food and energy prices. The 0.1 percent decline in the Producer Price Index for finished goods in September was the fourth monthly drop this year.

The latest figures meant that for the first nine months of the year, inflation at the wholesale level was running at an annual rate of 3.1 percent. If that rate held steady for the rest of the year, it would be the smallest increase since the 2.2 percent rise recorded for all of 1970.

But the Federal Reserve Board said industrial production fell 0.6 percent in September, the largest fall since May. The decline raised new questions about recovery from the recession.

The report said a big factor in the latest decline was a 1.6 percent decrease in production of business equipment, which includes the factory machinery that would be used for future manufacture of other goods.

September's decrease followed a 0.5 percent drop in production in August and a slight 0.1 percent gain in July. The drop in September was surpassed in the current recession only by May's 0.7 percent decrease.

The stock market rally fizzled Thursday as the Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks plunged 18.21 points to 996.87. The overall decline was not as deep, however, and continued heavy trading pushed volume over 100 million shares for a record sixth straight session.

In New York, several economists predicted that some short-term interest rates, such as the prime business loan rate, would fall further in the weeks ahead. The prime rate was reduced earlier this week by 1 percentage point to 12 percent.

The economists also forecast a slow and gradual revival of economic activity.

David Jones, an economist at the securities firm of Aubrey G. Lanston & Co., said at a bond conference that he expected the prime rate charged by commercial banks to dip to 11 percent by year's end and to fall to 7 percent by next September.

But he added that he did not expect the unemployment rate to fall below 10 percent until the second half of next year. The rate in September was 10.1 percent, up 0.3 percentage points from the previous month and the highest in 42 years.

Albert Wojnilower, chief economist at First Boston Corp., an investment house, said he expected the prime rate to fall, but he did not say how far or by when. Wojnilower said he did expect other short-term interest rates to drop this year.

Wojnilower also said he expected the economy to sustain a weak recovery next year.

Although rates on consumer loans generally have not declined as much as business loan rates, banks have been lowering those rates, too.

Major New Expedition To Monitor Site Planned

Fifty Local Workers At P&G Facing Layoff

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer

Robert Griffin, plant manager of the Procter & Gamble Co. paper products facility here, announced today that 50 local employees are being laid off "for an indefinite period of time."

Griffin said the layoff involves 10 percent of the plant's total employee roster of 500 people. The Greenville plant has produced Pampers disposable diapers since October of 1978 and Attends disposable briefs for adults since the spring of 1980.

According to Griffin, the layoff affects the last 50 people hired at the facility. He said the employees affected are from "all over the plant" and tenures of some of the workers go beyond two years.

Griffin said that Dec. 3 will be the last paid work day for the 50 employees.

The plant spokesman said that while Procter & Gamble's business remains strong, adjustments in current production volumes make the reduction in the Greenville work force unavoidable.

Griffin explained that Pampers made here since paper products operations were initiated in Greenville have been shipped to international markets. He said the production needs for those markets are being met at this time by plants located internationally.

Griffin said the curtailment of Pampers production here is not viewed as a permanent shutdown but as a move necessitated by a need to adjust inventory.

He praised local employees "for the flexibility they have shown in dealing with business changes."

According to the manager, the layoff is the first Procter & Gamble has experienced in Greenville in its seven years of operations here, first as a food products facility and then as a paper products plant. When P&G's Pringle's Potato Chips operation here was consolidated into the Jackson, Tenn., plant, the timing of the move was such that the local employee staff of some 400 made a transition to the Pampers operation.

A major new expedition to the wreck of the long-lost Civil War ironclad USS Monitor is being planned, East Carolina University underwater archaeologist Gordon P. Watts said today.

"The next expedition will take research one step or maybe several steps farther toward determining whether it is indeed feasible to recover the ship," Watts noted.

Watts said contracts for planning the new expedition have been signed with the government. In addition to a $9,995 grant by the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration to plan the major Monitor expedition, Watts and Dr. William N. Still, professor of maritime history at ECU, will receive grants of nearly $18,000 for two related Monitor projects.

One of the projects will create a USS Monitor National Marine Sanctuary Archival Collection to preserve relics and materials as well as acquire and maintain all available information

FHA RELOCATION PUBLICIZED?

Farmer's Home Administration maintained offices in the Federal Building, corner of Third and Evans street up until about 18 months ago. At such time they relocated to 115 Eastbrook Drive, neglecting to let it be known, choosing, I am told, to maintain an attitude of "If they (clients) want us, they'll find us." Alas, one and one-half years later, other government agencies are still redirecting the bewildered. Does this not bespeak poorly of a federal agency whose life-giving substance (money) is bled from those it chooses to play "hide and seek" with? J.C.

Hotline talked to Jimmy Smith, manager of the local FHA office, who said he believes that there was some notice of moving and being closed two days for moving in the newspaper at the time of the relocation, which was two years ago September. He said a sign was posted on the door of the old office "until the new occupants chose to take it down" and the new address is listed in the telephone directory. Nevertheless, he thanks you for calling the public's attention to the location of the new office.

GUITAR IS THRILL

The guitar donated in response to Hospice of East Carolina's appeal is bringing joy and diversion from pain for the man who received it, Hospice Director Beverly Burnette said. "I know he won't mind my saying he was just like a kid on Christmas morning when I presented him that guitar," she said. Several other people also donated guitars and similar leisure activity items as a result of the appeal, Ms. Burnette said. "People are truly willing to help when we let them know how they can help," she said.

Swedes Say Intruder Sub Had Enough Warnings

BERGA NAVAL BASE, Sweden (AP) — Exasperated by a 15-day hunt for alien submarines believed lurking only miles from an anti-sub warfare school and secret base, Sweden's navy says the intruders have "had enough warnings."

Capt. Sven Carlsson, the navy's chief spokesman, told a news briefing Thursday that navy patrollers would riddle the icy waters with "a field of depth charges" next time they make "sure contact" with an intruder.

"For obvious reasons we have not been able to reveal everything we know," said another navy spokesman, who requested anonymity.

Single depth charges were dropped against a "possible" submarine Thursday in a defense zone in Stockholm's southern archipelago, but the navy lost contact with the target, the morning Dagens Nyheter reported.

The hunt began when navy scouts spotted a periscope Oct. 1 in Hors Bay, near the Berga Naval Base, site of Sweden's anti-sub warfare school. It is also near the top-secret Muskö Naval Base.

Indications of a sub also have been detected several times in adjoining Mysing Bay since Oct. 7. The intruders are believed to be Soviet-bloc vessels but this has never been confirmed.

The official Soviet media has accused Sweden of concocting the whole story as an excuse to conduct war maneuvers and fan anti-Soviet hysteria.

Sweden has become increasingly upset over increased sightings of alien subs prowling its shores over the past year. A Soviet sub reportedly armed with nuclear-tipped torpedoes beached near Sweden's Karlskrona Naval Base last October and was freed after nine days. In the latest hunt, the navy has dumped depth charges, exploded mines, laid steel nets, blockaded Hors Bay and sent frogmen below to find the elusive subs without result.

Underwater television cameras found no evidence of wreckage, the navy said, and an oil slick in the area proved to be from a Swedish vessel. The source of three other oil slicks has not been traced.

The muddy oil slicks raised speculation that one of the two suspected intruders had been damaged by earlier depth charges or mine explosions.

October Christmas Festival

A COMMUNITY HAPPENING — Primitive rug hooking, needlepoint snowflakes and calico spiral Christmas candles were among craft classes taught during a two-day workshop yesterday and today at the Community Building. Class participants, left to right, are Louise Duncan, Marie Elks and Laura Haskins. Over 30 craftsmen will be here Saturday from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. for the final day when crafts will be available. The yearly event is sponsored by the Greenville Recreation and Parks Department, Pitt County College and the Pitt County Agricultural Extension Service.

Alone But Not Lonely

By THOMAS C. COTHRAN
Associated Press Writer
BOUNDARY WATERS CANOE AREA, Minn. (AP) — "Just don't say I'm the loneliest woman in America," pleads Dorothy Molter, the only person the U.S. Forest Service allows to live in this northern Minnesota wilderness.

How can she be lonely, she reasons, with more than 6,000 visitors a year? Still, on the wall of her olive drab kitchen tent is a framed copy of an old magazine article calling her the loneliest woman in the nation. If not lonely, she is certainly alone in the winter, when the steady flow of grinning, T-shirt clad, un-bathed canoe trekkers drops off sharply.

In 1981, about 7,000 visitors signed her guest book. She expects several hundred fewer to come by the end of this year, a decline she attributes to bad weather, the economy and a smaller number of permits being issued to visitors to Superior National Forest.

The Forest Service bought all private land in the Boundary Waters Canoe Area — known to Minnesotans as the BWCA — when it took over the 1.1 million acres of pristine lakes, trees and rocks in the 1950s.

A few residents were allowed to continue living there. One of them, Benny Ambrose, died recently. That left Ms. Molter, 75, as the only resident — a distinction she sees as nothing special. "I'm no different from everybody else," she said. "They come here and they like it and they'd like to stay here or they don't. I'm just used to it. I wouldn't know how to live in the city. This is the only place I've had that I could call home."

National Week Proclaimed

Greenville Mayor Percy Cox has proclaimed Oct. 17-23 as National Business Women's Week. The local Business and Professional Women's Club will join others across the United States in celebrating the event.

It was established at the 1927 national convention and first observed in 1928. The week is dedicated to publicizing the contributions of women to the business and professional world.

The 1982 theme is "The Changing World of Working Women."

Engagement Announced

REBECCA KAYE FINN...is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Finn of Jacksonville, who announce her engagement to Thomas George Ives, son of Mrs. Agnes Ives of Hubert and James Ives of Jacksonville. The wedding will take place Nov. 7.

She sells homemade root beer to passers-by. It's the only iced drink to be found in the boundary waters, where an act of Congress gives the Forest Service wide authority to bar such items as cans, bottles and motorboats.

The ice comes from Knife Lake, and she cuts it herself with a chain saw in winter. It keeps during the summer months in an ice house on one of the little islands she occupies. Ice-cutting is one of many things that keeps her busy — not lonely, she stresses — in winter. "I get outside everyday," she said. "I've got snowshoes. I can get out on them. I cut wood everyday whether I need to or not, just for the exercise. I stay in on colder days."

Dear Abby

What's The Right Tip? It's Simple

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1982 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: After six years of waitressing, I've come to the conclusion that many people don't tip 15 percent because they can't figure 15 percent of the bill, so I've prepared a "tip table" for people to clip and carry in their wallets for quick and easy reference:

Amount of check	15 percent
$15	$2.25
$16	$2.40
$17	$2.55
$18	$2.70
$19	$2.85
$20	$3.00
$25	$3.75
$30	$4.50

I'm sick of breaking my back to give excellent service and getting a measly 10 percent tip. And because most people get so flustered when the bill comes they can't figure 15 percent, I'd rather have people whip out their calculators than just take a wild guess, because they usually come up short.

ONE FOOT IN THE POORHOUSE

DEAR ONE FOOT: Don't assume that people who tip less than the customary 15 percent do so because they can't figure 15 percent of the bill. Some leave whatever they can afford. But for those who would like to leave 15 percent but can't figure it, your quick, easy chart will be appreciated.

DEAR ABBY: I've been married to the same man for nearly 30 years. We have a good relationship and see eye to eye on almost everything. He's kind and considerate and I love him dearly. Now for the problem:

He has smoked for 35 years, but only in the last few years has it been getting to me.

His lungs are now so congested that he has a chronic cough, and every time he laughs, I can hear all that phlegm rattling in his throat. It's sickening! When we make love, I actually have to turn my head the other way. I just can't kiss him, but he doesn't seem to mind not being kissed.

I've tried to tell him that his smoking is hurting our marriage, but he always has the same answer: "I can't help it. I'm hooked."

He has cut down some (doctor's orders), but he still smokes a pack and a half a day. He says he enjoys it and doesn't want to give it up. I don't want to make him miserable by nagging, but I'm beginning to resent his lack of consideration for me.

Mouthwashes don't work. I can smell the tobacco in his hair and through his pores. Is there an answer?
SMOKE HATER

DEAR SMOKE HATER: I'm often asked if I've ever had a letter I couldn't answer. My seemingly smug and simplistic reply is: "No. When something cannot be changed, the solution is learning to live with it." Your husband's habit is something you can't change.

You could nag him (for his own good), but it would only make him angry and defensive. Face it, he is addicted to nicotine. He could, if sufficiently motivated, become "clean" with professional help. But unless he wants to change, you will have to live with his addiction as long as you live with him.

DEAR ABBY: I am a high school student. My mom is divorced and she doesn't have a boyfriend at present.

One of my teachers at school is also divorced, and he and my mom have many of the same values. I would like to get them together. But how?

I would feel embarrassed going to him and saying, "Hey, I'd like you to meet my mom; you two might like each other."

I'd sure appreciate your advice.

NO NAME, PLEASE

DEAR NO NAME: Every school has parents' night, consultations and functions when parents come to school to get acquainted with the teachers. Be sure your mom doesn't miss such an occasion, and leave the rest to her. And him.

Coastal Gentry Set For Nov. 6

"Coastal North Carolina's Eighteenth Century Gentry," a day-long program on the taste, culture, amusements and lifestyles of North Carolina's colonial upper class, has been scheduled for Nov. 6.

The event is co-sponsored by the Greenville Branch of the English-Speaking Union and the Pitt County Historical Society in cooperation with the East Carolina University of Continuing Education. It will be held on the university campus.

Featured will be two illustrated presentations: "Taste, Refinement, Culture in Eighteenth Century Eastern North Carolina" by Dr. Ralph Hardee Rives of the ECU department of English and "Eighteenth Century Cookery" by Clifton C. West, assistant interior coordinator for the Tryon Palace 18th century Christmas celebration.

A musical presentation "Music for an Eighteenth Century Afternoon" will be performed by violinist Joanne Bath and pianist Dr. Charles Bath. They will play and discuss sonatas for violin and harpsicord.

An informal morning coffee hour, a luncheon at St. Paul's Episcopal Church and tea at the Greenville Museum of Art will be included in the day's activities. The lectures and musical performance will be held at the Willis Building.

The program fee is $35 and preregistration should be completed by Nov. 1. Further information is available from Eighteenth Century Gentry, Division of Continuing Education, ECU, Greenville, 27834, or telephone 757-6143.

Teen-agers in families with $38,000 or more are as likely to work part-time as are teens from low-income families.

Drop In Prime Rate Signals A Rise In Buying, Say Realtors

By The Associated Press
Realtors and mortgage lenders across the state are reporting a change in their business since the interest rate on federally backed home loans dropped again this week.

By Wednesday, the prime rate on federally backed home loans had dropped to 12½ percent — and Greensboro real estate dealer Anne Allen was happy to report that she was busy.

"We're going nuts," Ms. Allen said. "It has been wild. Optimism is here. People are calling, trying to find out if they could qualify for a loan."

A few percentage points can make a big difference in the amount of money a home buyer pays monthly. Carolyn Beasley of Century 21 Haywood Davis Realtors in Durham said a 17½ percent home loan of $50,000 would carry a monthly payment of about $704.

The same loan at Wednesday's 12½ percent would require a payment of about $513 a month, she said. Nancy Williams of Banker's Life Company of Des Moines in Durham said the low rates also are prompting calls from homebuyers wanting to refinance their home loans.

Many of those home buyers secured loans with interest rates ranging from 15 percent to 17 percent home mortgages from last year, she said. The callers want to refinance that loan with the much-cheaper 12½ percent Federal Housing Administration or Veterans Administration loan.

In refinancing, the homeowner gives the lender a lump sum for the privilege of reducing monthly payments. The reason a lender may be willing to refinance a mortgage is that the lump sum may be worth more today than at the end of the mortgage because of inflation.

But the drop in the prime was not felt so directly in larger banks. David Darnell, an assistant vice president for commercial loans for North Carolina National Bank in Greensboro, said the number of commercial loan inquiries he saw Wednesday was normal.

Mortgage lenders have certainly noticed the change.

Ms. Williams said. "We've been swamped with calls," she said. "It's incredible."

Ms. Allen agreed and said Wednesday was a good day for her. Her agents sold five homes collectively worth more than $502,500.

$150,000 Gift For Mt. Olive

MOUNT OLIVE — Mount Olive College will receive a bequest of $150,000 from the estate of the late John Thomas Boykin of Sims, his family has announced.

Boykin was a student in 1918-1919 at Ayden Seminary, the educational institution which was a forerunner of Mount Olive College. The Wilson County merchant and farmer died last March.

The money is to be used as the college desires. President W. Burkette Raper said that the gift will play "a very significant and meaningful part in helping Mount Olive attain four-year status."

said. "If they do, they'll see that there is a rising tide of confidence in America's future."

A few days later, the president proposed a new round of federal spending cuts, and the stock market dropped again. "I don't know what the reason is, but I'm sure not going to take the blame," Reagan said.

At a news conference on Oct. 1, 1981, Reagan was asked why the administration kept banging away at Wall Street. He said he said he wasn't doing that, then read a letter from the Securities Industry Association, declaring confidence in his programs.

The question persisted. "It is true that we had difficulty reconciling the stock market with the evidence that we were getting from business and industry... about their optimism, their plans for expansion and their outright support," he said. "I think that it reflected less a lack of confidence in us than it did a pessimism that we wouldn't be able to get through the Congress the things we were trying to get."

He got most of them through, but the markets still didn't respond the way the administration thought they should. Not until lately.

Reagan Announces Soviet Grain Sale Fair Opens

City Council...

she viewed the Brownlea segment as a means of possibly alleviating some of that traffic on her street.

Cox said that the council was deleting the Brownlea segment because it is doubtful the city would ever have enough money to put the street in.

Attorney Sam Underwood, appearing on behalf of the retirement home, said initial plans call for a retirement center here to contain 125 beds and hopefully the home would be enlarged in the future.

The retirement facility is proposed for construction on a 90-acre tract fronting on East Fourth Street between Warren and Hickory streets. Cox said two points of ingress and egress are proposed.

The street sections approved for deletion would have crossed a portion of the retirement home property, which was purchased from the Brown heirs.

The Rev. Jim Bailey, pastor at Jarvis Memorial United Methodist Church, said the Methodist Retirement Homes Inc. operates six other facilities in the state. He said the maximum number of residents here would be 350.

In other business, the council approved a request by Joseph L. Cherry, doing business as The Alamo Inc., for a special use permit to operate a restaurant-nightclub at 1104 N. Memorial Drive.

Ron Sewell, the city's director of engineering, said the development is located on a three-acre lot on N.C. 11-13, just south of the old Pitt County Fair site. He said a 12,160-square-foot building is involved in the project.

Sewell said there are 11 residential structures and two churches in the vicinity of the proposed facility, which is located on property zoned for highway commercial usage.

Attorney Bob Browning, representing the petitioners, said a Mexican-American food operation with a nightclub facility attached is proposed. He said five adjoining property owners have signed letters stating they have no opposition to the facility. Browning said ample off-street parking is available.

Leroy Cherry said it is hoped the new facility will be opened Nov. 24.

Council members voted to continue until the November meeting a request by Isaac Tyson for a special use permit to operate a club at 521 W. 10th St.

Despite a request by the low bidder on a disposal parcel in Southside to have the parcel readvertised for new bids, the council voted to approve the sale of the Howell Street tract to the high bidder. Tipton Builders of Greenville.

Joe Bowen, representing Evelyn Edwards Locke, said Mrs. Locke received a commitment for a subsidized FHA 235 loan for $38,000 to construct a single-family dwelling on the lot. Bowen said a contract was secured between Mrs. Locke and the Redevelopment Commission prior to Mrs. Locke submitting an application for the loan.

Bowen said, "We were misled into submitting a bid we thought would be accepted." He said Mrs. Locke cannot get another subsidized loan on another lot and he suggested that, if Mrs. Locke's bid is not approved, the bids should be thrown out and new bids taken.

Joe Laney, executive director of the Housing Authority who served as director of the Redevelopment Commission until the agency was abolished, said the commission operated in good faith with Mrs. Locke. Laney said he explained that if Mrs. Locke was the successful bidder, the property would have to be developed in a reasonable length of time. According to Laney, there was no statement made that Mrs. Locke was guaranteed of receiving the bid and she was told the bid would have to be submitted under normal procedures.

The spokesman said a conditional option was given on the lot contingent upon Mrs. Locke being the successful bidder and the contract merely dealt with her responsibility to develop the tract if she was the accepted bidder.

Tipton Builders submitted a bid of $4,000 on the tract, while Mrs. Locke offered a $3,780 bid.

Cox said the council has to look at the high bidder and would have a hard time explaining the acceptance of a low bid to the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Ed Tipton said his firm offered a bid "in good faith" and while he hated to see Mrs. Locke lose her loan, the bid process followed HUD guidelines. Tipton said plans were for construction on the tract to begin immediately.

Mrs. Locke said she was not aware that she even had to bid on the property and she said she would not have taken the risk of getting the government loan if she did not feel the purchase of the lot was "in the bag."

Rosemond Tipton suggested that Bowen should have informed Mrs. Locke that she was not assured of getting the bid.

In offering a motion to accept the high bidder, Councilwoman Janice Buck said, "I don't think we have any alternative." She said she hoped Mrs. Locke and Tipton might work something out regarding the property.

In other business, Cox said he had met with a number of Farmville Boulevard residents who are concerned about the four-laning of the boulevard and subsequent parking problems. Cox said that while details need to be worked out, the city has offered to cut double driveways or new driveways for the residents if they will pay the cost of materials. The mayor said that if the residents will deed 4.5 feet off the front of their yards, the city will put a sidewalk in using community development money.

Council members voted to approve an extension of 90 days on the schedule to remove parking from the boulevard. Cox said the city will be working with the residents to resolve the parking problems.

Clarence Biggs of 407 Raleigh Ave. said neighborhood residents are drawing up a plan for the boulevard area that they would like the council to consider. He said the residents feel the Farmville Boulevard matter was handled by the city in such a way that the property owners did not have time to adjust.

Other council action included:

- Approval of a revised solid waste container policy requiring developers and owners of multifamily dwellings, or duplexes where 10 or more units are in unified ownership, and owners and developers of mobile home parks with 10 or more mobile homes, to provide refuse containers or roll-out carts;

- Approval of a request by Drs. Wallace, Fore and Taylor to rezone 2.21 acres located west of Memorial Drive, north of O'Hagan Place, and south of Eastern Dermatology and Pitt County Anesthesia, from medical arts to office and institutional;

- Approval of a request by Matthew Lewis to rezone 63 acres in the West Meadowbrook area west of N.C. 11 from R-6MH (residential-mobile home) to R-6;

- Approval of a request by Greenville Utilities Commission to annex GUC's new water treatment plant, located just west of the Pitt-Greenville Airport property;

- Approval of four amendments to the Zoning Ordinance;

- Denial of a request by Michael S. Allison for renewal of a permit for a mobile home at the airport, used as an office and classroom;

- Approval of a request by the Pitt County Health Department for renewal of a permit for the mobile home located behind the Health Department, used for medical supply and medical record storage;

- Approval of a resolution approving the extension Greenville Utilities' rural water service area;

- Approval of a resolution declaring the intent of the council to close a portion of Powell Street, between East Gum Road and Church Street, and calling for a public hearing on Nov. 11;

- Approval of a recommendation by the Traffic Commission to endorse the request of Clara Weathers to reactivate the traffic signal at the intersection of Third and Reade streets;

- Awarding of a $24,024 low bid submitted by Barrus Construction Co. for the 1982 street resurfacing program;

- Adoption of a resolution approving the transit development plan and adoption of a resolution authorizing the filing of an application for a mass transit assistance grant under the Surface Transportation Assistance Act of 1978;

- Endorsement of an easement encroachment agreement for Greenville Utilities to encroach upon the easement of Pitt County Drainage District No. 4 located at the Mount Pleasant Canal crossing of State Road 1418 in the Belvoir Township;

- Endorsement of a utilities sanitary sewer easement in the South Evans community development project;

- Endorsement of a utilities resolution of intent to exchange real property;

- Acceptance of O'Hagan Place, from Memorial Drive westerly 835 feet to the dead end, for maintenance by the city;

By JIM DRINKARD
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan, under heavy pressure from Republican farm-state congressmen, announced today he is letting the Soviet Union buy up to 23 million tons of grain this fiscal year.

And he said the United States will guarantee delivery for any grain purchased by the Soviets during the month of November and delivered within 180 days, even if an embargo is imposed for foreign policy reasons.

Reagan announced the decision in a radio address to the farm belt that was delayed 15 minutes by technical problems with a telephone line.

The 23 million tons would be 15 million tons above the current maximum level the Soviets could import without additional U.S. approval.

But an administration official, requesting anonymity, said there was no certainty the Soviets would seek the higher amount, which would mean that the United States would be supplying more than 55 percent of the Soviet imports.

Agriculture Secretary John R. Block told reporters he would stick by an earlier prediction that the Soviets would buy 18 to 20 million tons of grain.

"Things haven't been very good down on the farm," the president told his radio audience. "You are carrying tremendous burdens, sometimes impossible burdens."

He called the grain embargo imposed by the Carter administration in January 1980 after the Soviets occupied Afghanistan "mistaken," and said it eroded confidence in the United States as a grain supplier.

"We will honor our word," he said, announcing that Agriculture Department officials were being authorized to make available the 23 million tons in U.S.-Soviet meetings to begin in Vienna, Austria, in two weeks.

"We can't guarantee the Soviets will make these purchases, but we know they're shopping," Reagan said. Earlier this week, the Soviet made a major wheat purchase from Canada and talks on similar buys are going on in France.

Sources said the grain announcement was certain to irritate European allies because the administration has penalized Europeans for selling gas pipeline equipment to the Soviet Union while America tries to increase grain exports.

The announcement, less than three weeks before election day, also was being labeled by some as a blatant political move. "It's a political thing because of the election," one Republican congressional source conceded. "The (farm-state GOP) congressmen called them (the administration) down on the carpet, so by definition it's political."

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — This morning, for the 115th time, the N.C. State Fair opened its gates for its annual exposition of agriculture, technology, food and fun.

June M. Brotherton, the fair's publicity director and public-affairs director for the N.C. Department of Agriculture, said this year's fair looks backwards and forwards.

"I think of the state fair as a living museum," she said Thursday as crews made final adjustments to rides, workers put final coats of paint on booths and state Highway Patrol troopers readied themselves for the traffic. "We see a lot of our past, some of our present and some of our future there."

It all began in October 1853, about 10 blocks from the Capitol with about 4,000 to 6,000 people attending.

This year, more than 650,000 people are expected to attend the nine-day event, which is being held at the N.C. State Fairgrounds in West Raleigh.

Though the fair is over a century old, Ms. Brotherton said, it still sparkles. "It hasn't lost any of its excitement," she said.

According to recent attendance figures, the opposite must be true. Ten years ago, 581,715 people attended the fair. By last year, 643,457 made the trip.

The fair blends the old with the new — and offers a lot in between. Ms. Brotherton said. The fair this year features traditional goodies such as cotton candy, hotdogs and candy apples, plus Southern delicacies such as barbecue and country ham. There also will be high-speed rides and fireworks — both hallmarks of the fair.

There's also a beauty contest in which participants wear fur coats instead of evening gowns or bathing suits. Entertainers, including North Carolinian Ronnie Milsap and Ernest Tubb will provide music.

The Forecast For Saturday, October 16
 ● Low Temperatures

Rain  Snow
 Showers  Flurries

Fronts: Cold  Warm  Occluded  Stationary

WEATHER FORECAST — The National Weather Service forecasts sunny skies for most of the nation on Saturday. Cool weather is due in the Northwest and colder weather for the Northeast. Snow flurries are expected for the Great Lakes and northern New England. (AP Laserphoto Map)

By The Associated Press
 It ought to be pleasant today — and chilly tonight. A high-pressure center along the Louisiana-Texas Gulf coastal region extended northeast to the Carolinas today, creating delightful autumn weather with sunny skies and mild temperatures. Sunny days and clear cool nights should make it ideal for falltime outdoor activities the next three days. But the nights will be brisk. High pressure in central Canada is plunging south across the Great Lakes and into the Ohio River Valley region today. The air accompanying the high-pressure system is coming out of northern Canada near the Arctic Circle. Leading the surge is a dry cold front that will be pushing through North Carolina late tonight and Saturday morning. Saturday may be a good time to bring in any house plants. Temperatures near freezing Saturday night and Sunday morning may damage some plants left outdoors. Along the coast, expect clear weather this weekend, but northerly winds will increase over the weekend with chilly temperatures by Sunday. A small-craft advisory may have to be raised sometime over the weekend due to the increasing winds.

PCB Landfill Foe Avers Federal Rules Not Met

RESEARCH TRIANGLE PARK, N.C. (AP) — One of the leaders of a citizens' group opposed to the state's PCB landfill in Warren County says federal regulations were not followed when Warren County was chosen as the site for the landfill. In a two-hour meeting with federal Environmental Protection Agency officials Thursday, Ken Ferruccio of Warren County Citizens Concerned about PCBs said EPA officials had waived regulations on toxic landfills. "They approved a major site on marginal soil," he said. The group met with the EPA's chief research official, Dr. Thomas Hauser;

Al Hanke of Atlanta, project officer for the landfill, and Gordon Kenna of Atlanta, a public-information officer. Ferruccio and others also told the officials that they were told the EPA required the state to move PCB-tainted soil to a landfill. The EPA officials replied that they suggested that a landfill was the best solution, but did not require one. The group, which left Warren County last Saturday, had dwindled to about 30 people when it reached the park in the rain. Before beginning the march last week, the leaders had met with Gov. Jim Hunt to express their opposition to the landfill, which is now almost full and ready to be capped and covered.

The Rev. Leon White of the United Church of Christ's Commission for Racial Justice said the group probably would return to Raleigh Monday to talk to Hunt again. Protesters have accused the state of racism for putting the dump in Warren County, a rural county with a large black population. White said earlier this week that state officials decided on the Warren County site so they could monitor the long-term effects of the suspected carcinogen on humans. The state denies that racism had any part in Warren County's selection as the final site for the soil. That soil was contaminated in 1978 when PCB was illegally dumped on over 200 miles of North Carolina roadways.

Cars Collided At Intersection

An estimated $2,800 damage resulted from a 6:20 a.m. collision today at the intersection of Fifth Street and Memorial Drive. Police identified the drivers of the cars involved as Ruth Hazel Powell of Route 5, Greenville, and Herlena Applewhite Hagans of 605 Contentnea St. Officers, who said both drivers received minor injuries in the mishap, estimated damage at $1,000 to the Powell car and $1,800 to the Hagans vehicle. Ms. Hagans was charged with failing to stop for a stop light following investigation of the collision.

SATURDAY SERVICE
 The Rev. Nathan Darden and the congregation of Live Oak Free Will Baptist Church will render services at Cherry Lane FWB Church at 7:30 p.m. Saturday. The service is to raise funds for the church's building fund.

ANNIVERSARY
 The Rev. Wright and the congregation of Cedar Grove Church will be at Sycamore Hill Church Sunday at 3 p.m. in honor of the Rev. Hue Walston's anniversary.

Hunt Two Men For Break-In

Greenville police were looking today for two men who allegedly broke into Home and Auto Supply Co. at 718 Dickinson Ave. Thursday night and took four kerosene heaters from the store. Chief Glenn Cannon said a city park ranger saw two men running from the rear of the building about 10:39 p.m. and reported the incident to police. The chief, who said the two dropped two heaters valued at $278 as they fled, said entry to the building was gained by forcing open a rear door. Two heaters valued at $258 are still missing, Cannon noted.

Dedicating Gallery In Tarboro

HISTORIC HOUSE/MUSEUM
The historic Blount-Bridgers House in Tarboro has been fully restored and is being dedicated at a public open house from 2 to 5 p.m. Sunday. A collection of the art of Edgecombe native artist Hobson Pittman is being housed 175-year old house, which was home to several prominent North Carolinians.

TARBORO — After four years of planning, raising funds and acquiring appropriate furnishings and works of art, the Tarboro Arts Commission will dedicate the restored Blount-Bridgers House/Hobson Pittman Memorial Gallery at 2 p.m. Sunday with an open house of the facility from 2 to 5 p.m.

Art work and belongings of the late Hobson Pittman (1889-1972), a native of Edgecombe County who rose to prominence as an American Impressionist painter and teacher of art in Philadelphia, is being exhibited in the restored Blount-Bridgers House.

Pittman's work is in many private collections and dozens of museum collections including the Metropolitan Museum of Art, the Cleveland Museum, the Corcoran Art Gallery, Washington, D.C., the North Carolina Museum of Art and the Greenville Museum of Art.

Rooms on the first floor of the museum will contain furniture and objects that belonged to Pittman, and rooms on the second will house a retrospective cross section of his work.

The basis for the Hobson Pittman collection is a gift to the town of Tarboro from the artist's niece, Alyce Weeks Gordon Patrick.

The Blount-Bridgers House, built circa 1808 by Gen. Thomas Blount (1759-1812), for whom Blount Street in Raleigh is named, has been called one of the finest examples of Federal-style architecture in North Carolina. Now listed in the National Register of Historic Places, the two story house — with attic and basement, has two facades of five bays each, with nine-over-nine sash windows.

In 1831 the Blount house was sold to Louis D. Wilson (1785-1847), for whom the town and county of Wilson are named. Wilson was a prominent North Carolina politician, and served in the Mexican War as a colonel of the Edgecombe Guard. He died of fever in Vera Cruz, Mexico.

In 1849 the Blount house was bought by John L. Bridgers, who owned it until 1881. An attorney, planter and politician, Bridgers commanded the Edgecombe Guards at the Civil War Battle of Bethel on June 10, 1861, the first land engagement of that war.

The town of Tarboro acquired the house in 1933 and has used it as a public library, a community center and as the offices of the superintendent of the city schools.

The Blount-Bridgers House/Pittman Memorial Gallery will be open weekdays from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Admission is free.

Panel Seeks Advice To Stem Tide Of Jobless

By MERRILL HARTSON
AP Labor Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The congressional Joint Economic Committee, acting at the behest of House and Senate Democratic leaders, is seeking advice on ways to stem the nation's mounting joblessness.

Rep. Henry S. Reuss, D-Wis., chairman of the committee, said the panel's findings on unemployment and subsequent recommendations to Congress, resulting from hearings that were to commence today, could make the next session of Congress "the lame duck that roared."

House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., D-Mass., and Senate Minority Leader Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., asked Reuss to schedule the hearings following release of figures showing the nation's jobless rate jumped to 10.1 percent of the labor force in September — the highest level in 42 years.

Among the witnesses scheduled to appear today were Walter Heller, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers during the Kennedy administration; Willard Wirtz, secretary of labor during the Kennedy years; and Ray Marshall, former Carter administration labor secretary.

BOARD MEETING

The board and members of Sweet Hope Free Will Baptist Church at Galloway's Cross Roads will meet at 7:30 p.m. Friday.

Sunday school will begin at 9:30 a.m. Sunday. The Rev. W.J. Best, accompanied by the Senior Choir with Pleasant Worthington as organist, will conduct the 11 a.m. worship service.

Reagan has acknowledged that unemployment is intolerably high, but has refused to shoulder the blame.

Reagan said "there's plenty of blame to go around."

Meanwhile, newly released figures show that 695,000 more Americans filed first-time claims for unemployment benefits in the week ending Oct. 2. It was the second highest filing since the current recession began.

The insured unemployment rate — the percentage of the American labor force covered by benefit payments — reached 5.1 percent, the highest since the 7 percent peak of the 1975 recession, officials said.

The latest figures on the insured unemployment rates across the country show that workers in 15 states will no longer be eligible for 13 weeks of extended unemployment benefits on top of the basic 26-week pay period.

The loss of these extra benefits results from legislation passed last year that tightened the criteria a state must meet to make the payments.

Under the federal-extended jobless benefits program, such additional unemployment compensation payments are paid for on a 50-50 basis by the states and the federal government.

The legislation raised from 4 percent to 5 percent the insured unemployment rate threshold necessary in a state to trigger the extended benefits program.

The complex formula requires a state to meet two criteria for making the additional benefits available.

Vaccine For Herpes Is Said Nearly Achieved

By WARREN E. LEARY
AP Science Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Researchers say they have moved closer to developing a vaccine against herpes infections, including genital herpes, by using a virus protein to trigger natural defenses against them.

In a report published today in Science magazine, scientists say they used genetic manipulation to isolate and produce a herpes virus protein that they say could lead to a vaccine.

Researchers with Molecular Genetics Inc. in Minneapolis said the protein stimulates production of antibodies against itself that also attack viruses containing the same protein.

While the scientists caution that much more testing is needed before they know if a vaccine is feasible, they termed their work "promising." However, any potential human use is years away, they added.

Initial tests with rabbits infected with two types of herpes viruses show the protein stimulates neutralizing antibodies to both, said the report.

But it is not yet known if this antibody reaction can be made powerful enough to kill virus in animals as it does in test tubes, the researchers noted.

A vaccine that could prevent or treat herpes infections is the goal of numerous research groups because there are few effective treatments for the family of herpes infections.

Genital herpes, primarily caused by type-2 herpes simplex viruses (HSV-2), is an incurable venereal disease afflicting millions of Americans. Type-1 infections cause cold sores and a range of other problems.

Dr. Roger J. Watson, a research scientist with the firm, said numerous animal tests must be conducted before the development reaches the vaccine stage. Even if all is successful, human testing probably could not begin for at least three years, he estimated.

The Minneapolis firm has signed an agreement with Lederle Laboratories, a division of American Cyanamid Co., to jointly develop a vaccine, Watson said in a telephone interview.

"We are thinking in terms of a prophylactic (preventive) treatment to vaccinate people against getting herpes diseases," Watson said. "We don't know what would happen if we tried to treat those already infected, but it could possibly be effective that way also."

Watson and his colleagues, Drs. John H. Weis, John S. Salstrom and Lynn W. Enquist, determined the location and molecular structure of a gene in the type-1 virus that contains the genetic code for production of the protein.

The researchers removed this gene, inserted it into bacteria and coaxed the microorganisms to produce pure quantities of the protein.

Both type-1 and type-2 herpes viruses contain this essential protein, which is required for them to reproduce themselves. Destruction of this protein by antibodies would neutralize both viruses by preventing reproduction, Watson said.

City Counts 2 Accidents

An estimated $2,525 property damage resulted from two traffic collisions investigated by Greenville police on Memorial Drive Thursday.

Officers said the first collision occurred about 7:40 a.m. 150 feet north of the Glenwood Drive intersection and involved cars driven by Katherine Ann Wells of Winterville and Murlon Fredrick Rigsbee Jr. of Kinston.

Damage from the mishap was set at $25 to the Wells car and $1,200 to the Rigsbee vehicle.

The second mishap occurred about 7:42 a.m. 145 feet north of the Glenwood Drive intersection.

That incident involved cars driven by Claudette Grant Wilkins of 405A Eastbrook Drive and Susan Dickerson Phillips of Greenway Apartments. Investigators set damage from that collision at $1,000 to the Wilkins car and $300 to the Phillips vehicle.

Retirees Hear Cancer Review

Members of the Greenville chapter of the American Association of Retired Persons recently heard two discussions about cancer.

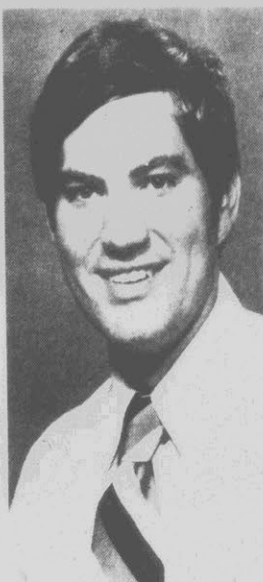

Josephine Hookway, nurse practitioner at the Pitt County Health Department, told the members how to help halt cancer by early detection and treatment. Dr. Hans Karlsson, a surgeon in the East Carolina School of Medicine, spoke on the symptoms and treatment of colon and rectal cancer.

Eva Cain, president, welcomed two new members, Ethel Allen and Lucy Hannaford, and a visitor, Edward Hardy.

Lee Williams, chairman of the nominating committee, presented the slate of officers to be voted on at the November meeting.

Polly Dail announced a workshop, "Healthy Lifestyles for Seniors", sponsored by the Mid-East Commission to be held Oct. 27 from 9 a.m. to 12 p.m. at the Research Development Institute of the East Carolina University.

Squeeze On Poland: Soviet Not Helping Economy

By CHARLES J. HANLEY
Associated Press Writer
Poland's disaster-prone economy is staggering with one-two punches from an unlikely team — the Reagan administration and the Kremlin, a leading economic study institute reports.

In his latest jab at Warsaw's military government, President Reagan ordered steps taken to further restrict U.S. trade with the Poles a day after the martial-law regime outlawed the Solidarity union Oct. 8.

It was one of a series of U.S. economic sanctions designed to punish Poland's leaders for suppressing the independent labor federation.

But at the same time, the Soviet Union, rather than boosting aid to its beleaguered ally, actually has trimmed the amount of goods and loans extended to Poland, reports Wharton Econometric Forecasting Associates. The Washington, D.C.-based firm is considered one of the best U.S. sources for information about Soviet-bloc economies.

Continuing bad economic news from Poland comes at a time when fresh labor unrest, sparked by the ban on Solidarity, threatens to undercut industrial production further.

The Wharton group says that in the first six months of 1982, Soviet exports to Poland declined by about 10 percent compared with the same period a year ago. The Poles, meanwhile, were increasing exports to the Soviets by a similar amount.

This is significant because it reduces Poland's huge trade deficit with the Soviets — the preponderance of imports from the Soviet Union over Polish exports to the Soviets. In effect, this deficit — $2.1 billion last year by the official dollar-Soviet ruble exchange rate — is a massive Soviet subsidy of the Polish economy.

Poland depends heavily, for example, on cheap crude oil bought from the Soviet Union. Polish industry also has relied on the Soviets for iron ore, paper and cellulose, cotton and other raw materials.

Now, the Wharton group says in a recent report, "Poland's crucial needs are for extra raw materials which the Soviets are not supplying."

At the same time, as the Poles struggle with an estimated $22 billion debt to Western banks and governments, the Soviets appear to have turned off their loans to Warsaw.

Last year Poland obtained more than $500 million in Western-currency loans from Moscow, but this year none has been reported, Wharton says.

"I think the reduction in assistance is a very conscious, very careful and calculated move by the Soviets," Wharton group economist Jan Vanous said in an interview.

He said he believes the Soviets, burdened with economic problems at home, are capitalizing on U.S. and other Western sanctions against Poland by slashing their own aid and blaming Poland's economic distress on the West.

As if to bear out this theory, Moscow radio said of Reagan's latest trade sanctions, "The head of the U.S. administration made no secret of his intention to have the new sanctions worsen the situation in the Polish economy."

Reagan called for removal of "most-favored-nation" trade status from Poland, which means sharply higher tariffs on Polish imports and consequently a drop in Polish sales to the United States.

But U.S.-Polish trade already has plunged because of previous sanctions.

Withdrawal of "most-favored-nation status" is "another inconvenience for the Polish government, another signal ... but it will have very little effect in the short run," said Zbigniew Fallenbuchl, a specialist in the Polish economy at Canada's University of Windsor, Ontario.

Two years after the founding of Solidarity and 10 months after the military crackdown, Poland remains in its economic slide.

More than 40 percent of its industrial capacity is reported idle. "Produced national income" — comparable to the gross national product — is projected to decline 4 percent this year after falling 13 percent in 1981. The cash-short military government reportedly has scrapped $2 billion in investment projects.

Shoemaking, an important industry, provides an example of the severity of the Polish depression: production fell from 72.8 million pairs in 1979 to a projected 35 million this year.

"Even under relatively optimistic economic assumptions, it will take the Polish economy until 1990 to reach the peak level of 1979," Vanous said. "That sort of gives you a flavor of the depth of the Polish economic crisis, deeper than in the Great Depression."

Med School Offers Lectures To Public

ECU News Bureau
"Perspectives," a new series of general-interest lectures open to the public, is being sponsored by the East Carolina University School of Medicine.

The series, coordinated by the medical humanities program, is funded in part by a grant from the Charles E. Cuipeper Foundation of New York.

Dr. Walter J. Pories, chairman of the department of surgery, began the lecture Wednesday when he presented "The Deaths of Three Presidents," a discussion of the medical problems surrounding the deaths of Presidents Garfield, McKinley and Cleveland.

Other lectures scheduled for the fall series are "Medicine and Slavery: The Health of Blacks in the Old South" on Oct. 27 by Dr. Todd L. Savitt of the medical humanities program; "The Anatomy Lesson" on Nov. 10, a video performance by the Royal Copenhagen Ballet Company moderated by Dr. Loretta Kopelman of the medical humanities program; and "The Fall and Rise of the American Medical Profession" on Nov. 22 by Dr. Ronald L. Numbers of the department of history of medicine at the University of Wisconsin.

The lectures are being held from 12:30-1:30 p.m. in room 391 of the West Teaching Addition at Pitt County Memorial Hospital. For more information call the medical humanities program, 757-2618.

Church Dinner Chairman
MOUNT OLIVE — Dot Dail of Winterville will serve as chairman of the 1982 Pitt County Dinner for Mount Olive College. The dinner will be held at 7 p.m. Nov. 9 at D.H. Conley High School.

Serving with Ms. Dail on the steering committee are Tim Tyndall, Faye Adams, Floyd P. Harris and the Rev. Ray Williamson, all of Greenville, Willis Wilson of Winterville and Gerald Whitehurst of Robersonville.

Each year the Free Will Baptist churches of Pitt County hold a dinner meeting to raise funds for the educational budget of Mount Olive College.

The miracle on Jarvis Street.

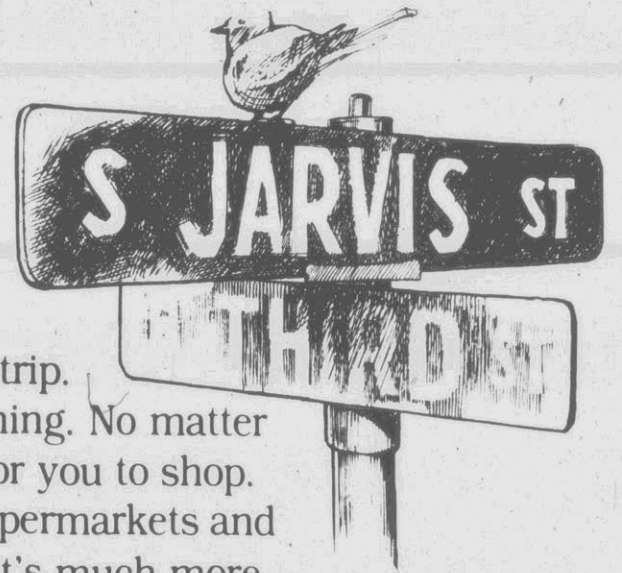

Once, before the advent of pre-packaged cheese slices and fancy french bottled sparkling water, patrons of local markets rightly expected to be able to fill their entire grocery list with a single shopping trip. The old supermarkets had everything. No matter which day was more convenient for you to shop.

But then came the "modern" supermarkets and special "stocking days". You see, it's much more efficient for these big modern markets to let their stocks dwindle until the days they decide to restock. If they are out of bread, then you may eat cake.

People forgot. They forgot that truly super supermarkets are supposed to have what you need, when you need it.

But, at Overton's, we didn't forget. We still stock our shelves every single night. So if you want Del Monte stewed tomatoes, you get Del Monte stewed tomatoes. If you want Ivory soap, we'll have all you need. And, if you prefer bread, ours just arrived. All at low "super" market prices.

Some big grocery people say it's a miracle that we can still stock our shelves every day and stay in business. It's no miracle. It's just the way we've stayed in business here on Jarvis Street for the past 35 years. Come see us.

Facts About The BIBLE BY JOHN LEHTI

LAMP UNTO MY FEET!

"THY WORD IS A LAMP UNTO MY FEET AND A LIGHT UNTO MY PATH." (PSALM 119:105)

THE LONGEST PSALM IN THE BOOK OF PSALMS IS THE ONE HUNDRED AND NINETEENTH, WITH 176 VERSES! IN A NUMBER OF WAYS, IT IS PROBABLY THE MOST INTERESTING AND CLEVERLY ARRANGED, EACH OF ITS TWENTY STANZAS IS HEADED BY ONE OF THE HEBREW ALPHABETS TWENTY TWO LETTERS, FORMING AN ACROSTIC PATTERN.

WHEN THE ANCIENT JEWS TRAVELED BY NIGHT THERE WERE NO STREET LIGHTS, NO AUTO LIGHTS, TO DISPEL THE DARKNESS—THE ROCKY ROADS AND RITTED FOOTPATHS THEY USED WERE PERILOUS PITFALLS TO THE NIGHT TRAVELER AND SO ALLEGORICAL DESCRIPTION OF GOD'S LAW AS A LAMP TO LIGHT THEIR WAY WAS READILY UNDERSTANDABLE—THIS PSALM IS A POWERFUL TRIBUTE TO THE MOSAIC LAWS. ALL PIOUS JEWS BELIEVED THESE LAWS TO BE BOTH TEACHER AND GUIDE, LIGHTING THEIR WAY THROUGH LIFE'S PRECARIOUS JOURNEY FOR ONLY BY A STRICT ADHERENCE TO THE LAWS COULD THEY BE SURE OF LIVING A LIFE FREE FROM SLOTH AND SIN!

LAST SUNDAY MORNING AT 9:15 ANDY ROOK LEFT HOME!

It wasn't the first time. It happens almost every week. You see, Andy spends Sunday morning with about 15 other kids his age at the First Pentecostal Holiness Church. His parents don't let Andy go off by himself. They take him. Andy loves every minute of it. And his mom and dad love it too. Not just because of the way Andy is growing. But because of the way the church helps the whole family stay closer together. Maybe you should think about leaving home next Sunday morning! If you do, bring the whole family.

Stock And Market Reports

Hogs
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) - The trend on the North Carolina hog market today was mostly 25-50 higher. Kingston, 55.50; Clinton, Elizabethtown, Fayetteville, Dunn, Pink Hill, Chadbourn, Ayden, Pine Level, Laurinburg and Benson, 56.00; Salisbury, 55.00; Wilson, 56.25; Rowland, 55.50. Sows: all weights 500 pounds up; Wilson, 55.00; Spivey's Corner, 55.50; Fayetteville, 55.00; Durham, 53.00; Whiteville, 56.00; Wallace, 56.00; Rowland, 55.00.

Poultry
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) - The North Carolina f.o.b. dock broiler market was higher. Supplies light to moderate. Demand good. Weights desirable. The dock weighted average price for next week is 41.71 for small purchases of plant grade broilers picked up at processing plants. Estimated slaughter today, 1,783,000.

Hens
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) - The North Carolina hen market was steady with a firm undertone. Supplies light. Demand good. Prices paid per pound for hens over seven pounds at farm for Wednesday, Thursday and Friday slaughter was 16 cents.

NEW YORK (AP) - The stock market opened sharply lower today, but then recovered much of the lost ground as another trading record was shattered.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, which plunged 18.21 points Thursday in its biggest daily decline in more than eight months, was off 37 point at 996.50 in the first two hours. The blue-chip average had been down more than 8 points after the first 30 minutes of trading.

Nine stocks fell in price for every five that rose in the midday tally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues. Earlier, declines outnumbered advances 10-3.

Analysts attributed selling to investors cashing in on the gains in blue-chip and technology issues that have fueled the market's explosive rally. Prior to its reversal, the Dow Jones industrials average had climbed 238.16 points since Aug. 12, reaching a 17-month high of 1,015.08 on Wednesday.

Meanwhile signs of a weak economy and moderation in inflation continued to emerge.

The Federal Reserve Board reported industrial production fell 0.6 percent in September, its 12th decline in the past 14 months. The Labor Department said wholesale prices fell at an annual rate of 1.7 percent in September, the fourth monthly decline this year.

The NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stocks fell 19 to 77.04. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was off 1.08 at 313.31.

Big Board volume reached 39.48 million shares a third of the way through the session, well below the 51.48 million in the same period Thursday. But the morning session pushed volume for the week to 551.65 million shares, surpassing the record 549.90 million in the week ended Aug. 27.

Exxon topped the active list on the NYSE, down 1/2 at 31.

Westinghouse Electric fell 1/2 to 35, in trading that included a block of 1,023,000 shares changing hands at 35 a share. Monsanto rose 3/4 to 78 1/2 in trading that included a block of 988,000 shares crossing at 78 1/2.

ERUPTS AGAIN
JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) - The Mt. Galunggung volcano erupted again Thursday, spewing ash that darkened skies and forced the town of Tasikmalaya 12 miles away to close schools and turn on streetlights, officials said.

RESUME RELATIONS
LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP) - Bolivia's new civilian government has re-established diplomatic relations with Nicaragua, the Foreign Ministry says.

TRAFFIC MEETING
 The Greenville Traffic Commission will meet at 4:30 p.m. Tuesday in the third floor conference room of the community building at the intersection of Fourth and Greene streets.

QUARTERLY MEETING
 Bells Chapel Holy Church will observe its quarterly meeting service Sunday. The 11 a.m. worship will be led by District Elder Thoman D. Dixon. Afternoon services will begin at 3 p.m. and will be rendered by Elder Nathan Darden and his congregation of Live Oak Church, Grifton.

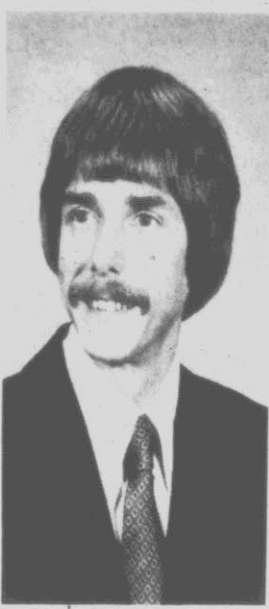

ANNIVERSARY
 The Senior Usher Board of Warren Chapel Free Will Baptist Church, Winterville, will celebrate its annual anniversary Sunday at 7:30 p.m. Elder A. L. Miller, Pastor, will deliver the sermon. Music will be provided by the Warren Chapel Senior Choir. Ushers Boards from surrounding churches will participate.

New President Of Nat'l Ass'n Reagan N.C. Visit Slated

DR. STEPHEN THOMAS

ECU NEWS BUREAU
 Dr. Stephen W. Thomas of the East Carolina University Department of Rehabilitation Studies has assumed the responsibilities of national president of the Vocational Evaluation and Work Adjustment Association, the second largest professional division of the National Rehabilitation Association.

Thomas accepted the gavel at the recent annual NRA conference in Anaheim, Calif. During the conference he was also elected secretary-treasurer of the N.R.A. Council of Division Presidents.

Thomas was also recently appointed to the 1982-83 advisory board of the Materials Development Center at the University of Wisconsin's Stout Vocational Rehabilitation Institute. The facility is an international development center and clearing house for printed and audiovisual materials in the rehabilitation field.

In addition, he received a $29,485 grant from the U.S. Rehabilitation Services Administration to support a training program for ECU graduate students in rehabilitation studies. Only five other similar grants were awarded to university programs this year.

Thomas is the contributor of a chapter in a newly published rehabilitation textbook and the recipient of the first annual Outstanding Service Award given by the N.C. Rehabilitation and the N.C. Vocational Evaluation and Work Adjustment Association's eastern region.

about the vessel and its history.

The other project will be the publication of semiannual activities reports of the USS Monitor National Marine Sanctuary.

"We believe that these contracts will be the beginning of what will be an emphasis on Monitor research in the years to come," Still said. "And we hope that ECU and its program in maritime history and underwater research will assume a leadership role in that research."

Watts and Still are co-directors of ECU's maritime history and underwater research program which has investigated sunken vessels in harbors and offshore waters of several historic coastal towns.

The barnacle-encrusted wreck of the Monitor was found in 1973 lying upside down 230 feet deep in the Atlantic about 16 miles southeast of Cape Hatteras. The site is the first to be designated a National Marine Sanctuary by the government.

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) - President Ronald Reagan has agreed to visit North Carolina on behalf of the state's Republican congressional candidates, says state GOP Chairman David Flaherty.

Sandy Sidey, a White House spokesman, said no visit had been announced but that did not mean that no trip was planned.

No date or place for the trip was announced but Flaherty said he believed it would be the last week in October.

"I was told by the White House today he would be in North Carolina within the next two weeks," Flaherty said. "They told me they would be getting back in touch with me and firming up his schedule in the next couple days."

Reagan may be coming to North Carolina because GOP candidates have strengthened their position against Democratic opponents in some of the state's congressional races, Flaherty said.

He said the Reagan visit has prompted the party to cancel its dinner in Greensboro on Saturday night to award Republican "Hall of Fame" awards to prominent state GOP activists. The dinner will be rescheduled after the Nov. 2 general election.

Delay Hearing For Braswell

A hearing for Pitt County Deputy Sheriff Billy Braswell on a charge of murder has been postponed until Nov. 19.

Braswell, charged with killing his wife, Lillie Stancil Braswell, on Sept. 27, is a patient in Pitt County Memorial Hospital where he was admitted with gunshot wounds.

A hearing had been scheduled for Thursday to comply with the law that such hearings be held within 15 working days of an arrest, Assistant District Attorney Tom Haigwood said.

Obituaries

Carmon
 Mr. Elmer Carmon Jr. of 808 High St., Ayden, died this morning in Pitt County Memorial Hospital.

He was the son of Mr. Elmer and Mrs. Lillie Ellis Carmon of the home. Funeral arrangements are incomplete at Norcott and Company Funeral Home, Ayden.

Cox
 Funeral services for Mr. Joseph F. Cox, 59, who died Thursday in Pitt County Memorial Hospital, will be conducted at 2 p.m. Sunday in the Wilkerson Funeral Chapel by the Rev. Raymond Gaskins and the Rev. Gary Webber. Burial will follow in the Ayden Cemetery.

Mr. Cox spent most of his life in and around Ayden and was a retired employee of the town of Ayden. He was a member of the Liberty Free Will Baptist Church and the Ayden Red Men Tribe.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Delzora Mills Cox; one son, Gary F. Cox of Greenville; two daughters, Mrs. Leonard James of Fayetteville and Mrs. Frederick Pender of Grimesland; two brothers, Paul Cox and Delano Cox, both of Ayden; a sister, Mrs. Alton Smithwick of Ayden, and four grandchildren.

The family will receive friends at Wilkerson Funeral Home from 7:30-9 p.m. Saturday.

Mullen
 Mr. James H. (Moon) Mullen Jr., 67, of 1903 E. Eighth St. died Thursday in Pitt County Memorial Hospital. His funeral service will be conducted Saturday at 3 p.m. in the Wilkerson Funeral Chapel by the Rev. Hugh Burlington. Burial will be in Greenwood Cemetery.

Mr. Mullen, a native of Franklin County, attended school in Bunn. He was employed by Morton Salt Co. for 32 years, retiring in 1976, and was a member of Immanuel Baptist Church, Crown Point Masonic Lodge and the Sudan Temple of New Bern.

Surviving him are his wife, Mrs. Sallie Moore Mullen; a son, Jim Mullen of Greenville, and a sister, Mrs. J.W. Robbins of Macclesfield.

The family will receive friends at the funeral home tonight from 7:30 to 9 p.m. In lieu of flowers, memorials may be sent to the Golden Age Fellowship of Immanuel Baptist Church or the Baptist Children's Homes.

Strickland
 Phillip Andrew Strickland, 2-month old son of William R. and Patsy Strickland, died Thursday in Duke Hospital, Durham. A graveside service will be conducted at 3 p.m. Sunday in the Quinn Family Cemetery near Kenansville by the Rev. Bobby Thomas.

Surviving are the parents; two brothers, Gary and Jeff Strickland of the home; a sister, Tracy Michelle Strickland of the home; and the grandmothers, Mrs. Cora Lee Strickland of Seven Springs and Mrs. Jackie Houston of Kenansville.

The family will receive friends at Wilkerson Funeral Home from 7-9 p.m. Saturday and at other times at the home, 12 W. Gum Road, Greenville.

Wooten
 Funeral services for Mrs. Snodie Perry Wooten of 1313 S. Green St., who died Thursday, will be conducted Sunday at 2:30 p.m. at Cornerstone Missionary Baptist Church by the Rev. Arlee Griffin Jr. Burial will be in Brown Hill Cemetery.

Mrs. Wooten was born and reared in the Grimesland community and had made her home in Greenville for a number of years. She was a member of Cornerstone Missionary Baptist Church, which she served in the Deaconsess Board and the Willing Workers Club.

Surviving her are her husband, Henry V. Wooten of the home; a son, James H. Wooten of Greenville; a daughter, Mrs. Eloise Brister of Queens, N.Y.; a sister, Mrs. Willie P. Perkins of Greenville; 11 grandchildren and three great grandchildren.

The family will receive friends Saturday from 7 to 8 p.m. at Cornerstone Baptist Church. Funeral arrangements are being handled by Flanagan Funeral Home, Greenville.

Pirates Seek Respect From Seminoles

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

It looms there like some spectre, haunting the memory of East Carolina Coach Ed Emory, his staff and a good deal of his upper class players. They remember their last trip to Tallahassee, Fla., and the whipping that the Florida State Seminoles handed them.

It was the worst non-shutout loss in the history of East Carolina.

Saturday at 7 p.m. in Doak S. Campbell Stadium in Tallahassee, the Pirates get their chance at revenge — no, not revenge — respect.

For instance, last Tuesday at his press conference, Emory showed around a news clipping from a Florida newspaper, which said that the Seminoles were "on vacation" the next two weeks, referring to last week's game against Southern Illinois, and this week's meeting with the Pirates.

Even Coach Bobby Bowden admits trouble at getting his players up for the Pirates. "I'm more worried this week about our motivation than I was last week. Now that we've won the Southern Illinois game decisively, I've got to make sure they don't look a game ahead."

Bowden was referring to FSU's game in two weeks with arch-rival Miami. The Seminoles have an open date next weekend.

Defensive end John McLean echoed his coach. "It's not going to be easy to get ready for a team like East Carolina, but I think we will be able anyways." Noseguard David Ponder added, "Everybody asks if we can get fired up for East Carolina. Ya dang right we can. We're not good enough to take anyone lightly."

But whether the talk becomes action is another thing. How much respect the Seminoles have for the Pirates becomes the chief question.

"We're excited about playing them," Emory said, but he wouldn't go so far as to say the game has special meaning to him. "They are a great offensive team and they're scoring a lot of points."

But Emory does remember, bitterly, that 63-7 licking in which the only bright spot was a 100-yard kickoff return by Tony Collins. He even kept his sidelines pass as a constant memorial to that game.

"We're going down there with much better personnel this time," Emory said. "I think we are a stronger force. And I'm going to be very, very disappointed if we aren't competitive. We're not going down there to try and keep the score close, but to win. We won't be conservative on offense and defense."

Emory compared the nationally ranked Seminoles to Missouri, a team that beat ECU 28-9 two weeks ago — when quarterback Greg Stewart was sidelined with an asthma attack. "They are a lot like them, but they are more superior in the skill positions. They can beat you and score quicker than Missouri. I think their defense compares favorably with Missouri's."

The FSU offense is led by a pair of quarterbacks, Kelly Lowrey and Blair Williams. Lowrey has connected on 51 of 93 attempts for 667 yards and five touchdowns. He's had five picked off. Williams has hit on 34 of 53 for 462 yards and four scores. Three of his attempts have been intercepted.

Overall, through the air, the Seminoles are 86 of 149 for 1,140 yards with nine interceptions.

Defensively, through the air, they have allowed 878 yards on 71 of 140 attempts, while intercepting 11.

On the ground, the Seminoles have rushed for 2,210 yards, 424 a game, while holding their foes to 1,645 yards, 329 per game.

Leading the rushing attack are tailback Ricky Williams and his backup Greg Allen. Williams has raced for 394 yards on 74 carries, while Allen has 71 lugs for 325 yards. Fullback Ken Burnett is the only other runner over 100 yards with 109 in 27 trips.

Top receivers include split end Tony Johnson with 16 for 285, Burnett with 14 for 135, tight end Zeke Mowatt with 13 for 122.

The Seminoles, 4-1, losing only to Pittsburgh, 37-17, have a good kick return game too. Allen is returning kickoffs for a 29.4 average, while Cedric Jones brings back punts over six yards a trip. Punter Brian Harlowe is hitting at a 39.8 average.

"This game will show us how far we've come" Emory said. "We have nothing to settle, or anything like that, from our 1980 games. But I know we have made great progress since then."

Too, Emory feels that FSU is "by far," the best team the Pirates have played to date.

Now, if they could only get some respect.

Ormond Wins Title, But Rampants Finish Third

WILSON — Greenville Rose's John Ormond took first place but the Rampants saw their streak of three consecutive Big East Conference cross-country titles come to an end here Thursday.

Rose finished a distant third to Fike, which won the Big East Conference meet with a score of 34. Northern Nash was second with 63 followed by the Rampants, who ended up with 71.

Hunt was fourth with 78 followed by Northeastern with 130, Rocky Mount with 174 and Beddingfield with 187.

"Fike had a tremendous team," Rose coach Ron Hochmuth said.

Ormond, a senior, took individual honors with a time of 16:56. Ormond is the fourth straight Rose runner to win the conference meet.

Greg Battle of Northern Nash was second at 17:27 followed by Arthur Braswell of Fike at 17:27. Hunt's Henry Hudson was fourth with a time of 17:36. Derrick Battle rounded out the top five with a time of 17:39.

The top 14 finishers make the all-conference team. Joining Ormond on the all-conference team was Rose's Jeremiah Brown, who finished ninth with a time of 17:59.

Brown, like Ormond, is a senior.

The Rampants' John Byrd finished 16th with a time of 18:23 while Todd Crouch finished 22nd with a clocking of 20:02.

Other Rose results: (23) Paul Bolen, 20:03; (26) Alan Dickens, 20:55; (30) Frank Raby, 22:21.

The Rampants return to action Oct. 29 when they travel to Smithfield for the sectionals. The top two teams from the sectionals advance to the state meet.

Michel First; Rose Is Second

STANTONSBURG — Rose High School's Angie Michel captured the individual champion but Fike High School nipped the Rampettes for the team title in the Big East Conference's girls' cross-country championships yesterday.

Fike finished the meet with 33 points, while Rose was just behind with 35. Rocky Mount was a distant third with 76, followed by Hunt with 87, and Northern Nash with 108. Kinston, Beddingfield, and Northeastern do not field girls' teams.

Michel took an easy victory in the individual championship, finishing in 21:31 over 30 seconds ahead of Fike's Kim Porter, who was timed at 22:06. Rocky Mount's Sandy Ess was third in 22:24, followed by Gloria Adams of Rose in 22:46 and Jackie Battle of Fike in 23:00.

The second five consisted of Bridgett Branch of Rose in 23:09, Caren England of Fike in 23:10, Annette Jones of Roke in 23:44, Amy Moore of Rose in 23:57 and Carol Edwards of Northern Nash in 24:09.

The only other Rose runner was Layne King, who finished 15th in 25:07.

The Rampettes will return to action on October 29 in the sectionals at Smithfield-Selma.

Lady Pirates To Hold Clinics

East Carolina University's women's basketball coach Cathy Andruzzi, along with Converse, will be conducting four free mini-teaching clinics and intrasquad scrimmages this fall.

The two-hour mini-clinics will include an ECU practice session of fundamental drills and will be followed by an intrasquad scrimmage.

The Converse-Lady Pirate Clinics will be held Wednesday, Oct. 20, at Terry Sanford High School in Fayetteville, from 6-8 p.m.; Saturday, Oct. 23, at W.T. Woodson High School in Fairfax, Va., from 2-4 p.m.; Wednesday, Oct. 27, at Williamston High School in Williamston, from 6-8 p.m., and Tuesday, Nov. 2, at Wake Forest-Rolesville High School in Wake Forest, from 6-8 p.m.

The clinics are open to high school, junior high, elementary and private school teams and other individuals who may wish to attend.

For further information contact Coach Andruzzi at ECU, Minges Coliseum, Greenville, N.C. or call 919-757-6384.

Andujar Trade Aided Drive

MILWAUKEE (AP) — It was one of Whitey Herzog's less-heralded trades, occurring on the eve of last summer's baseball strike and more or less shrouded in secrecy.

But the acquisition of pitcher Joaquin Andujar has been a major factor in the construction of the St. Louis Cardinals' National League Championship.

And so tonight, Herzog will hand the baseball to Andujar for Game 3 of the World Series against Milwaukee.

The Brewers will counter with Pete Vuckovich, an ex-Cardinal traded by Herzog in a seven-player deal with Milwaukee at the 1980 winter baseball meetings.

It was six months later, a week before the strike in June 1981, that Herzog went after Andujar, who had been buried on the Houston pitching staff.

"I needed a pitcher," he said. "We had three doubleheaders on the West Coast. They needed a center fielder when Cesar Cedeño got hurt. Tony Scott was playing out his option. They couldn't sign Andujar either."

One and one makes two, and the trade was made. Almost immediately, Andujar began paying dividends for the Cardinals.

"He likes to pitch," Herzog said. "He's a tough guy, a competitor. The guy wants the baseball. Houston had signed (Nolan) Ryan and (Don) Sutton. He had become a number there."

At St. Louis, Andujar got work from Herzog. He won six of seven decisions for the Cardinals and finished the season at 8-4. This year, he was the Cardinals' most dependable pitcher with a 15-10 record and 2.47 earned run average. He was the National League's Pitcher of the Month in September when he won five games and posted a 0.62 ERA.

"What turned it around for him was the opportunity to pitch," Herzog said. "He throws 90-some miles per hour, has good control, keeps it down, throws a hard slider and he's not afraid to come inside with it."

In Houston, Andujar had some problems with management. But he's been fine with the Cardinals.

"I guess when you pitch good, it's easy for the front office to get along with you," cracked Herzog.

Seven of Andujar's 10 losses came in games in which the Cardinals scored two or less runs. "That's pretty good," said Herzog. "He was 8-10 at one point and he could have been 15-3 if we scored more runs. That's how well he pitched."

Andujar's last loss was Aug. 6 against Montreal, the first time he had lost to the Expos after beating them 11 times. Herzog thinks that could mean good things for the Cardinals tonight.

"Their lineup is as good as Milwaukee's if not better," Herzog said.

Concerned with his own lineup, Herzog said he would start the same unit that delivered a 5-4 victory in Game Two, to tie the Series. "That's if I can remember it," he said.

Herzog said that considering the fact that he has not had a hit from three of St. Louis' most important bats — Keith Hernandez, Lonnie Smith and George Hendrick — he was satisfied with a split of the first two Series games.

Herzog held a voluntary workout when the team arrived in Milwaukee Thursday afternoon. Hernandez, Lonnie and Ozzie Smith, Mike Ramsey and Willie McGee all showed up to get some extra swings.

Brewer Manager Harvey Kuenn gave his club the day off.

Now the St. Louis hitters get to go against one of their ex-teammates. Vuckovich has a .762 winning percentage, best in baseball for the last two seasons with 32 victories, 18 of them this year.

From the All-Star Game until mid-September, he won eight straight games and was 13-1 at night and 22-2 under the lights in his two years with the Brewers.

He never won fewer than 12 games in three years with the Cardinals and it was the Brewers' interest in the strong-armed right-hander that planted the seed for the big trade.

Yanks Could Open At Dome

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The man who runs the Louisiana Superdome says a new carpet is worth $1.4 million if it lands a major league baseball franchise for the world's largest indoor sports arena.

"It (the new turf) will let us showcase to the baseball world," Cliff Wallace, the Superdome general manager, said Thursday. "When baseball gets interested in New Orleans, there are commitments we will have to make, and this is one of them."

Wallace was excited over the possibility that the New York Yankees, as they said earlier, might open their 1983 regular season in New Orleans because of renovations to Yankee Stadium and other factors.

The Yankees played exhibition games in the Superdome late in spring training in each of the past three years, drawing around 40,000 to the games. And one of the players' major gripes concerned seams in the Superdome carpet.

Cedric Tallis, executive vice president of the American League team, said nothing is certain yet.

"There are a number of options that would have to be worked out," he said Thursday from his New York office. "No. 1 is whether our stadium would be ready." Yankee Stadium is undergoing renovation.

"The others would be economic, I guess you would say — whether it would be a break-even process," he said. "It would be expensive for the visiting team — the team that would normally be opening at our stadium."

Wallace said the stadium's football turf is badly worn in spots and must be replaced. Although the seldom-used baseball turf is in pretty good shape, it has to be replaced at the same time, he told the Superdome Commission at its meeting Wednesday.

"I'd like to point out that the $1.4 million includes not only replacement of the football turf, but replacement of the baseball turf and includes modification of the infield turf that eliminates the infield seam for which the Superdome has received so much criticism, particularly in the national press," he said.

The seam runs just inside the first-base line, where the baseball carpet attaches to a part of the football rug that remains in place when the stadium is converted from a football field to a baseball diamond.

Players fear the seam could cause physical injury, at worst, and some erratic hops, at least. There have been no injuries attributed to the seam in major league exhibition games, a season of Class AAA ball played there, or in college games played by Tulane and the University of New Orleans.

But Wallace said he would want the seam eliminated, even if it is proven harmless.

ECU Golfers In 15th Place

DURHAM — East Carolina's golfers are in 15th place following the first day of the John Ryan Memorial Golf Tournament (formerly the Iron Duke Classic) at Durham.

The field consists of 18 teams, and Duke's White team leads the field after the first day of play.

The tournament concludes on Saturday.

The collegiate season is about half-way through right now, and the standings on our panel continue to look like a log-jam.

Tom Baines picked one up on us this past week, and the two of us are deadlocked for first place with 51-20 records. And there's going to be no change this week between us, as each independently picked the same winners.

In third place is Rick Scoppe with a 50-21 mark, followed closely by Vickie Spivey at 48-23, and our guests and Joe Jenkins at 47-24. Jenkins picked up one on the pack last week.

Our guest of last week, ECU offensive coordinator Larry Beckish turned in a 6-6 slate, and this week we give defensive coordinator Norm Parker a shot at it. Maybe he has a tougher row to hoe, however, since Florida State is a little better than Richmond, and he's bound to pick the Pirates.

Our high school picks last week showed a 4-1 mark, which brings us to 36-7-4 on the season.

The North Pitt—Ayden-Grifton game dominates the local scene, and we'll look at that first. The Chargers are unbeaten on the season and share the Eastern Carolina Conference lead with North Pitt — the biggest surprise of the year. The Panthers come in with only one loss, in the opening game, with a couple of ties thrown in, too. North Pitt has won by once in the series with Ayden-Grifton, and this could be the night that #2 comes around.

We blew it last week in picking Farmville Central over the Panthers, but we're still going to have to go with Ayden-Grifton this time — by 21-13.

Farmville Central travels to C.B. Aycock, and the Jaguars will be looking to work out some of their frustrations. Both teams have only one win each going in, and the loser is the most likely to finish in last place in the conference. Our choice of victor is Farmville, and we think it will be about 24-0.

White Oak visits frustrated Conley in a Coastal Conference game. The Vikings came close last week, nearly topping West Carteret. How much that took out of them remains to be seen. White Oak, meanwhile, lost to North Lenoir. Could this be Conley's week. It's probably their best chance of a league win — and we'll give them a 12-7 chance at it.

Elsewhere, we like Midway over Jamesville, Tarboro over Roanoke, and Roanoke Rapids over Williamston.

Our panel's picks feature the two area games, Rose at Kinston in the high school ranks and East Carolina at Florida State on the collegiate level.

The Rampants face a must-win situation if they are to have a shot at a post-season berth this year. Kinston, the surprise of the Big East with a 3-0 conference record, figures to keep its streak alive. The panel is going with the Vikings, 4-2, with Spivey and Parker holding out for Rose. Our personal feeling is 21-14 for the Vikes.

East Carolina travels to Florida State, where the Pirates were totally embarrassed two years ago. Could it happen again? We don't really think so, but we do give the Seminoles the edge, 35-7. The panel goes down the line with the FSU team, excepting for Parker.

Our other concensus picks: Clemson over Duke; Maryland over Wake Forest; Wisconsin over Michigan State; Miami over Mississippi State; Baylor over Texas A&M; Auburn over Georgia Tech; North Carolina over N.C. State; Southern California over Stanford; Missouri over Iowa State; and Minnesota over Indiana.

Jordan, Tar Heels Wake Up As New Year Of Cage Wars Begins

By TOM FOREMAN Jr.
AP Sports Writer

CHAPEL HILL — Michael Jordan lived out this fantasy last March and led North Carolina to the NCAA basketball championship, but he says the thrill of New Orleans ends this afternoon.

The Wilmington, N.C., native, told reporters that he dreamed he would hit a game-winning shot in the championship, then canned an 18-footer to lead the Tar Heels to a 63-62 victory over Georgetown.

"Everyone accepts everything as reality," Jordan said during Tar Heel picture day Thursday. "Today is the last day we can live off last year's national championship."

The defending collegiate kings headed to Carmichael Auditorium today, intent on regaining the crown but aware that they can't rest on their laurels.

"Friday is the first day we can start our new goals," Jordan added. "We just have to go out and accomplish our goals so we can have the same pleasure we had last spring and last summer."

Jordan joins juniors Matt Doherty and Sam Perkins as returning starters from last year's championship team. James Worthy, the catalyst for Dean Smith's first title in 22 years of coaching at North Carolina, declared himself eligible for the National Basketball Association draft.

Worthy was the first player chosen in the NBA draft by the Los Angeles Lakers.

Jimmy Black also graduated from that team, and Smith is in the process of finding replacements for both of them. One of the candidates is senior guard Jim Braddock, whose free-throw shooting led the Tar Heels to a victory over Virginia early last season.

Freshman Brad Daugherty is considered a prime candidate to replace Worthy, while freshman Steve Hale and sophomore Buzz Peterson are candidates for a guard position.

"I thought we had a good bench last year. This year, I think they will contribute," he said.

Smith joked that Jordan, Doherty and Perkins might be starters in 1983, but Jordan isn't taking anything for granted.

"I think I have to improve on the basic fundamentals of basketball. I think I can get better in each and every one of them if I work hard," Jordan said.

Doherty, fully recovered from a sprained back suffered this summer, said he'll always remember the Louisiana Superdome, but adds that he and his teammates will have to forget the celebrations.

"Once we step on the court, we know that was last year's team and we'll have to work for our own team," said Doherty.

Perkins said he didn't think either Smith or his teammates would suffer a letdown.

"We're good players. Just because we won last year doesn't mean we can relax," he said. "We have incoming freshmen who would like to win a championship, so we're gonna do the same things and try a little harder."

Without Worthy, Perkins will have to patrol the baseline without experienced help, but noted that "we lost Al Wood and it didn't make any difference last year."

Cubs Ease By Kinston; Jags, Vikes Take Wins

Rose High School's junior varsity gained a 6-0 victory over Kinston yesterday in a Big East football game.

The victory came late, as Rose got the game's lone score in the final quarter. That came on a 17-yard run by Tom Moore.

Cited for offensive play were Charles Vines and Brian Bridges for their running the ball, and Butch Haskins for his blocking. Defensively, Jerry Howard, Ronnie Moore, William Ward, Tyrone Vines and Amos Edwards gained praises by the coaching staff.

Rose is now 4-2-1 overall and 3-1-1 in Big East play. The Rampant Cubs travel to Wilson Fike on Wednesday.

Rose 0 0 0 6-6

quarter, as Moyer scored from three yards out. That made it 14-0 at the half.

The Baby Jaguars scored twice in the third period, once on a 22-yard reverse by Tim Joyner, and again on a 22-yard pass from Bobby Evans to Joyner. Two point conversions were good after both scores. Fred Dixon then closed out the scoring in the final period on a 4-yard run.

Aycock's lone score came in the final period after Farmville had reached a 36-0 lead. It came on a long pass that was deflected into the hands of an Aycock receiver.

Farmville is now 3-2 overall and 3-0 in league play. The Jags travel to Southern Nash next Thursday.

Conley 22

White Oak 6

JACKSONVILLE — The D.H. Conley junior varsity assured itself of its first winning season ever Thursday night with a 22-6 win over White Oak in a Coastal Conference JV football game.

The Vikings, now 5-1 overall and 2-0 in the conference, become the first football team — varsity or JV — at DHC to have a winning season.

Martin Anderson's touchdown run and James Carmon's PAT gave the Vikings a 7-0 lead in the first period. White Oak came back to cut the deficit to 7-6 after recovering a fumble in the DHC end zone.

DHC countered, however, when Steve Mills pass to Carmon for a TD. The kick was no good, but DHC led, 13-6, in the second period. A safety later in the period gave DHC a 15-6 lead at the half.

The Vikings' final score of the game came on a Joel Cox run. Carmon kicked the PAT.

The Viking defense was led in tackles by defensive tackle Larry Thomas and linebacker Lee Hardee. Leonard Johnson intercepted two passes and Hardee one. Mills and Billy Crawford each recovered fumbles.

DHC plays host to North Lenoir Thursday at 7 p.m.

A-Grifton 56

North Pitt 0

BETHLE — Ayden-Grifton's junior varsity walloped North Pitt, 56-0, Thursday in an Eastern Carolina Conference JV game.

The loss drops North Pitt to 0-4. North Pitt returns to action Thursday when it travels to South West Edgecombe.

ATTENTION TOBACCO FARMERS

The Tobacco Growers Association of North Carolina, Inc., plans to make a recommendation to the Secretary of Agriculture as to the size of our tobacco quota for 1983. To help us better represent you, we need your answers to the following questions:

- What do you think the Secretary of Agriculture should do in regard to the flue-cured tobacco quota for 1983?
 - Decrease it by 10% or more
 - Decrease it by 5% to 10%
 - Maintain it at the 1982 level
 - Increase it by 5%
- Under the new law, the Secretary of Agriculture can limit the increases in price supports for 1983 to 65% of the amount called for under the formula. If it came down to a choice between a cut in the quota for 1983 or further reducing the amount of increase allowed for price supports for 1983 which would you prefer?
 - Cut the quota
 - Hold down the increases in price supports
- Specifically, it has been proposed that growers accept a freeze on 1983 price supports at the 1982 level for one year in return for either no reduction in quota or an increase in quota. Would you be willing to accept such a freeze?
 - Yes, if we get no reduction in quota
 - Yes, if we get an increase in quota
 - No
- If you answered yes to question 3, would you be willing to accept the freeze for the 1984 crop also?
 - Yes
 - No

To have your voice heard by the Secretary of Agriculture at the quota hearing in Raleigh on October 21, 1982 answer the questions above and mail them to:

Old Dominion Set To Try Again As Waltrip Seeks To Ice Title

MARTINSVILLE, Va. (AP) — Only four races remain on the Winston Cup Grand National stock car circuit, and Darrell Waltrip thinks he has the advantage in a bid for a second straight point championship.

Waltrip trails Bobby Allison by only 37 points going into Sunday's $202,700 Old Dominion 500 at Martinsville Speedway, the final short-track event of the season.

Last year, Waltrip trailed Allison by 341 points at one time but finished fast to beat him by 53 points for the title. In 1979, Waltrip lost the championship in the last race of the year by 19 points to Richard Petty.

With Sunday's 31-car field having been determined Sept. 23-24 before rain washed out the race Sept. 26, Waltrip will start third and Allison sixth.

"Coming into this race here, we felt we might have an advantage, if you look strictly at past performance," said Waltrip. "We should do well here, and Bobby has never won."

"I think we'll have the advantage here and at Rockingham (Oct. 24). It's a tossup at Atlanta (Nov. 7) and at Riverside (Nov. 21)."

Waltrip has four career victories on the local 525-mile track and is the defending champion for the Old Dominion 500. Despite his brilliant career, Allison never has won a Grand National race at Martinsville Speedway although he did take a 100-lap Modified event in 1967.

So far this season, Waltrip has won 10 races and $590,400, while Allison has seven victories and $504,270.

But Allison doesn't agree with Waltrip's assessment.

"What's happened here is in the past," Allison says. "It's another one of those deals where the next race is the most important. So we are thinking that right now, Martinsville is our most important race. Next week, Rockingham will be our most important race."

Ricky Rudd will start on the pole with a speed of 89.132 mph with Harry Gant, winner of last Sunday's National 500 at Charlotte, on the outside pole with a speed of 88.787 mph.

Rounding out the top 10 are Waltrip, Terry Labonte, Geoff

Bodine, Allison, Buddy Baker, Morgan Shepherd, Neil Bonnett and Dave Marcis.

The winner of the race, which starts Sunday at 12:30 p.m., EDT, will earn $18,5550 and there will be $7,000 in lap money.

Drivers will check back into the track at 10 a.m. Saturday with practice runs scheduled between 1 and 4 p.m.

McAdoo Signs New Contract

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Bob McAdoo, a star off the bench for Los Angeles in the National Basketball playoffs and championship series last season, has agreed to new contract terms with the Lakers.

"We have reached an agreement and it is in the hands of the attorneys. We anticipate no problems," said Jerry Buss, owner of the defending NBA champions.

Terms of the agreement were not revealed, but it had been reported that the 31-year-old McAdoo would sign a four-year pact valued at some $2 million.

McAdoo, the NBA's fifth-leading active scorer, joined the Lakers last Dec. 24 when he was acquired from the New Jersey Nets in exchange for a second-round selection in the 1983 college draft and an undisclosed amount of cash.

Used at center and forward, the 6-foot-11 McAdoo appeared in 41 regular-season games for the Lakers, averaging 9.6 points. In the playoffs, he averaged more than 16 points and some seven rebounds as Los Angeles won 12 of 14 games to take the NBA title.

Kagel Pushes Negotiators Closer

COCKEYSVILLE, Md. (AP) — Money, the hardest nut to crack in the National Football League players' strike, is on the bargaining table today. And Sam Kagel just may be the nutcracker.

The feisty 73-year-old San Francisco lawyer had negotiators for the owners and players meeting for nearly 21 hours before calling a four-hour recess this morning. And one source monitoring the talks said Kagel was "knocking heads, twisting arms, pushing them together" in his effort to end the strike which today entered its 25th day and has knocked out four of the 16 regular-season weekends.

Kagel denied Thursday a rumor that a settlement is near, and appeared as fresh as he did when he arrived in this Baltimore suburb Tuesday night, vowing to "tire them out before they tire me out."

As Thursday became Friday, he called a halt to negotiations on peripheral issues, more than 15 hours after the day's bargaining had begun.

He commanded both sides — union chief Ed Garvey, owners' top negotiator Jack Donlan and their aides — to address the union's demand for a wage scale and a central salary fund, the two issues which have kept the owners' hackles raised ever since they were first proposed. The owners have insisted all along on maintaining the existing system — individually negotiated contracts.

Upon his arrival Tuesday night, Kagel brought the sides together for 2½ hours. Then he began his war of attrition with 19 hours of bargaining on Wednesday. On Thursday he got them started again at 9 a.m. and recessed shortly before 6 a.m. today and ordered both sides back at 10 a.m.

"That's what's amazing about Kagel," said Jim Miller, the Management Council's public relations director. "He just keeps going and going with the same kind of enthusiasm. If he keeps this up for a couple of days he's really exceptional."

Kagel maintained his virtually airtight news blackout Thursday, appearing only once for a news briefing that lasted less than a minute.

He repeated — verbatim — his single-sentence statement of Wednesday that both sides were examining proposals and counter-proposals and continuing their negotiating.

Then, with one more sentence, he emphatically knocked down a cable television network report that a settlement was imminent.

And, finally, as he strolled down the corridor toward the sealed-off negotiating room, he commented off-handedly: "It takes nine months to have a baby. It'll take a few more days to work out a thing like this."

But there apparently was significant progress toward resolving the non-economic issues during Thursday's morning and afternoon sessions. "There has been a good deal of give-and-take by both sides," a source at the talks told The Associated Press. "There has definitely been some movement."

"He is building momentum," another source privy to the negotiations said of Kagel's orchestration of the talks. "He is getting agreements on a phrase here and a paragraph there, building in them the confidence they can come together on a number of issues."

"There has been some progress," the second source continued. But he cautioned: "There are still too many issues here and on the outside that could upset things."

The magic number in the wage talks is $1.6 billion. The union wants it in four years, tied to incentive and performance bonuses, a minimum wage scale and the creation of a central fund from which all salaries would be paid. The owners have offered it in a five-year package, but without the fixed scale and the independently administered fund.

These Brewery Series Teams Have A Great Deal In Common

By D. BYRON YAKE
AP Sports Editor

MILWAUKEE (AP) — As this World Series hops from brewery town to brewery town it's slowly finding its own refreshing flavor. The two participating teams are neither stuffy nor arrogant. Their managers are forthright and a tad crusty.

A thread of similarities runs through the two cities. St. Louis and Milwaukee, and the two teams, the Cardinals and the Brewers.

Anheuser Busch owns the Cardinals and makes Budweiser, Busch and Michelob. Miller and Pabst Blue Ribbon have breweries in Milwaukee.

The teams are almost incestuous.

The two catchers, Milwaukee's Ted Simmons and St. Louis' Darrell Porter, who are both having marvelous postseason performances, once played for the opposing team.

So did Brewers' pitchers Pete Vukovich and Moose Haas and the Cardinals' Dave LaPoint.

Milwaukee pitcher Mike Caldwell spent a winter on the Cardinal roster in 1977 before he was traded to Cincinnati. Ailing Brewer relief ace Rollie Fingers was a Cardinal for the brief period at the 1981 winter meetings, although he never wore the uniform.

LaPoint and Haas, who will oppose each other in Game Four Saturday, are close friends.

Harry Dalton, Milwaukee's general manager, hired Whitey Herzog, now the Cardinals manager, as a coach for the California Angels in 1974. Dalton was the assistant farm director with Baltimore when Herzog was an Oriole player.

You have the recipe for an excellent series, but something important is missing — Fingers, the 1981 Cy Young Award winner and American League Most Valuable Player.

The Cardinals have Bruce Sutter. The Brewers have Fingers, but he is only on the 25-man roster at this point and it is questionable what, if any, use he will be in the remaining games.

Fingers tore a muscle in his right forearm on Sept. 2 and has seen no bullpen action since.

For the Cardinals, it's a break of major proportions.

"I certainly hope he gets better by Halloween," said indefatigable Herzog.

Fingers' loss is incalculable to the Brewers, for he is to the Brewers exactly what Sutter is to the Cards — a near-invincible stopper.

Brewer Manager Harvey Kuenn says Fingers is ready and could pitch an inning if needed, but he didn't use his ace reliever in Game Two when the game was tied in late innings.

The message was clear, and Kuenn acknowledged it:

Fingers is not ready to pitch when the game is on the line.

Sutter was a key to the Cards' victory in that game, shutting the door on the Brewers after the Cards tied the game.

The Cards kept creeping up on the Brewers, down 3-0 then 3-2, then 4-2, then 4-4.

"When we stayed that close, I think the players realized that we had Sutter out there and they knew I was going to use him in the eighth inning," said Herzog. "I think that was a big factor."

Fingers relies on a sinker, he keeps the ball low and has no trick pitches.

Sutter has the split fingered fastball, a most difficult pitch to throw, but he throws it better than anybody.

"The first time I saw him pitch, I just stood there and watched. It was amazing," said Herzog.

Sutter somehow gets the ball between his index and middle finger and upon delivery pushes the ball out with his thumb.

"You have to have big fingers and a strong thumb," says Herzog, comparing it to the way the thumb is used in shooting marbles.

Herzog doesn't use Sutter when it's unnecessary. He called on him only one time this year when the Cardinals were behind.

"Sutter doesn't like to pitch unless the game is on the line," the manager explained.

Herzog will use the ace reliever three days in succession, never four. And he knows that Sutter, when he's going well, will get the job done, six or seven outs, on an average of 24 pitches.

Olympic Coins To Be Minted

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government is about to begin minting and selling gold coins to raise money for U.S. participation in the 1984 Olympic Games in Los Angeles.

In a news conference detailing the program Thursday,

Cobb Leads EBA Victory

KINSTON — E.B. Aycock, led by Anthony Cobb's 129 yards rushing and one touchdown, defeated Kinston, 16-6, here Thursday afternoon in a junior high football game.

Kinston took a 6-0 lead in the first period on a six-yard run, but Aycock came back to tie the game in the second period on an eight-yard run Cobb. Eryn Best ran for the two points to give EBA the lead, 8-6.

The Jaguars, now 3-0-1, upped their lead to 16-6 later in the period. Tyrone Jones hit Best with a 28-yard pass and Best then ran for the two points for a 10-point halftime lead.

Neither team scored again. "Our defense played well," EBA assistant coach Randy Phillips said.

The defense was led by Jimmy Best, who had one interception, Darryl Perkins, James Matthews, Skip Pascasio and Todd Morris. Offensively, the Jaguars were led by Sterling Edwards, Walt Pollard, Hutton Cobb, Dwight Smith, Anthony Cobb and Jones.

Aycock plays host to Wilson Fike Wednesday.

U.S. Treasurer Angela Buchanan said she hoped as many as two million gold coins and 50 million silver ones can be sold — the number authorized by Congress.

A complete sellout, she said, would raise about $600 million to be split between the U.S. Olympic Committee and the Los Angeles Olympic Organizing Committee. However, Bob Kane, USOC past president, said he would be happy if the eventual revenue is half that much.

Both Olympic committees had favored an earlier version of the plan that would have had private companies market many more commemorative coins. But they were firm Thursday in their support of the final version, which was pushed through the House by Rep. Frank Annunzio, D-Ill.

Earlier disagreements are "just history at this point," said Lawrence Hough, a former Olympic athlete who is a board member of the Los Angeles group and treasurer of the USOC.

The proof coins — $1 silver ones as well as $10 gold coins — will be legal tender. But they will cost about 25 times their face value so it's unlikely that many will be used for buying groceries.

Nor will the value of their gold and silver content measure up to their selling prices — about $24 to $25 each for the silver coins and more than $300 for the gold ones. They won't be tax deductible, as many contributions to the Olympics are.

The government is to be reimbursed for its work in minting the coins as well as for the contents — mainly the silver and gold.

Bama Says It Fears The Vols

By The Associated Press
The Alabama Crimson Tide, fresh from a rousing victory last week over highly ranked Penn State, believes it has plenty of reasons to fear Tennessee Saturday although the Volunteers are two-touchdown underdogs.

Tennessee Week has always been and always will be something special for Alabama. Tide Coach Bear Bryant says. "It was when I was playing and it is now while I'm coaching. There's a lot going on in Knoxville, with the World's Fair and all, and we're looking forward to going up there."

Bryant said second-ranked Alabama has had to face a "good or great passer every week, and this one is no exception."

Tennessee's quarterback against the Tide will be Alan Cockrell, who has hit 84 of 137 passes for 968 yards and eight touchdowns in leading the Vols to a 2-2-1 record, including a tie against unbeaten LSU. Cockrell's favorite receiver is speedster Willie Gault, who has 25 receptions this year.

"Gault can kill you with his speed," Bryant says. Alabama assistant coach Louis Campbell says he fears a letdown against Tennessee one week after the Tide's 42-21 triumph over Penn State.

"We have to be concerned with how we play and how we react against the hostile situation in Knoxville before 98,000 folks," Campbell said.

"It will be a big challenge for us because we are coming off a big win against Penn State. If we go up there and are not physically and mentally ready to play, then it will be a long, long afternoon."

Alabama hopes quarterback Walter Lewis can perform as well as he did against Penn State. The elusive junior is the leading rusher for Alabama this season and he has hit 68 percent of his passes, although he has thrown only 57 times. In other games involving Top 20 teams, No. 1 Washington is at Oregon State, Temple at No. 3 Pitt, Vanderbilt at No. 4 Georgia, Kansas State at No. 6 Nebraska, Syracuse at No. 8 Penn State, Arizona at No. 9 Notre Dame, Texas-El Paso at No. 10 Arizona State, North Carolina State at No. 11 North Carolina, Washington State at No. 12 UCLA, No. 13 West Virginia at Virginia Tech, No. 14 Southern Cal at Stanford, Ohio State at No. 15 Illinois, Mississippi State at No. 17 Miami, Fla., East Carolina at No. 19 Florida State and Duke at No. 20 Clemson.

At night, Houston is at No. 5 Southern Methodist and No. 16 LSU is at Kentucky.

With most of the ranked teams favored by 10 or more points, the Southern California-Stanford game on national television stacks up as one of the best of the weekend.

The Southern Cal defense ranks 14th in the nation in fewest yards allowed (239.8 per game) and has given up only one touchdown in the last 14 quarters. The Trojans also are 12th in pass defense with a 137.5-yard average.

But they will be facing rifle-armed John Elway of Stanford, who is the third-ranked passer in the nation with 129 completions in 197 attempts for 1,712 yards and 14 touchdowns. Elway also is second in total offense with 333.8 yards per game.

Southern Cal, 3-1, still runs the ball 65 percent of the time, but Stanford Coach Paul Wiggin says he fears the Trojans unpredictable offense, which will run on third-and-long and pass on second-and-short.

"They've got a new wrinkle with the quarterback passing in any situation," Wiggin said. "They'll also run in any situation."

Top Teams Expect No Upsets

By The Associated Press
The schedule-makers have conveniently provided just what the doctor ordered for college football prognosticators — a midseason breather after last week's disaster.

Of the top 12 teams in the Associated Press ratings, seventh-ranked Arkansas is idle, there is no line on third-ranked Pitt vs. Temple or No. 10 Arizona State vs. Texas-El Paso and the only member of the group which is less than a 12-point favorite is fifth-ranked Southern Methodist.

Last week's score was 29 right, 15 wrong and five ties for a percentage of .659. For the season, it's 206-64-8 — .769. Against the spread, last week was a dismal 13-18 — .419, dropping the count for the year to 76-68 — .528.

No. 1 Washington (favored by 30) at Oregon State: The Beavers snapped a 14-game losing streak by tying Washington State last week, but their next four opponents include Southern Cal, Arizona State and ... Washington 42-10.

No. 2 Alabama (13½) at Tennessee: Even though Gen. Neyland is no longer around there's no team Bear Bryant likes to beat more than the Vols... Alabama 38-14.

Temple at No. 3 Pitt (no line): The Panthers have had a week off to contemplate their narrow escape against West Virginia... Pitt 31-14.

Vanderbilt at No. 4 Georgia (18½): Vandy can score, but the Commodores can't stop anyone, least of all Herschel Walker... Georgia 35-14. Houston at No. 5 Southern Methodist (7½): Eric Dickerson and Craig James are ready to roll again after their close call against Baylor... SMU 27-13.

Kansas State at No. 6 Nebraska (28): K-State is much improved, but not this much... Nebraska 28-10.

Syracuse at No. 8 Penn State (26½): Syracuse is 1-4 and still has to play Pitt, West Virginia, Boston College and ... Penn State 45-13.

Arizona at No. 9 Notre Dame (12): The Wildcats have had a penchant for pulling upsets since Larry Smith took over as coach and they tied UCLA last week. Upset Special of the Week... Arizona 21-20.

Texas-El Paso at No. 10 Arizona State (no line): At 6-0, the Sun Devils are more than halfway home... Arizona State 41-7.

North Carolina State at No. 11 North Carolina (17½): If tailback Joe McIntosh is healthy, the Wolfpack could make it interesting... North Carolina 24-14.

Washington State at No. 12 UCLA (23): After last year's excitement, the Cougars are finding life in the fast lane a bit too fast... UCLA 34-14.

No. 13 West Virginia (6½) at Virginia Tech: The Mountaineers were fortunate to beat Boston College and could be looking ahead to Penn State. Second Upset Special... Virginia Tech 20-17.

No. 14 Southern California (5½) at Stanford: A national television audience will find out if a week off helped the Trojans figure out how to stop John Elway... Southern Cal 28-21.

Ohio State at No. 15 Illinois (5½): The Illini favored over the Buckeyes? How the mighty have fallen... Illinois 24-17.

No. 16 LSU (10½) at Kentucky: Jerry Claiborne is finding it rougher than he expected at Kentucky; there's no cinch victory on the schedule... LSU 21-14.

Mississippi State at No. 17 Miami (5½): A three-game skid has negated MSU's 3-0 start... Miami 20-14.

East Carolina at No. 19 Florida State (no line): The Seminoles celebrate their return to the Top twenty... Florida State 30-14.

Duke at No. 20 Clemson (13): The Tigers have remembered how they did it last year... Clemson 27-13.

State's Kay Yow To Aid Olympics

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — North Carolina State's Kay Yow has been nominated by the Women's Games Committee to be the assistant women's basketball coach for the 1984 Olympic team in Los Angeles.

The announcement was made Thursday by the Amateur Basketball Association of the United States of America. Her nomination is pending approval by the United States Olympic Committee at its December meeting.

Tennessee's Pat Head-Summitt was chosen as head coach July 31.

Yow served as the assistant coach for the gold-medal winning U.S. team at the World University Games in Mexico in 1979 and has a 29-2 record in international competition.

Only three horses racing in the "mutual field" in the betting have won the Kentucky Derby — Flying Ebony in 1925, Count Turf in 1951, and Canonero II in 1971.

Players All-Star Game Set Sunday

WASHINGTON (AP) — Linebacker Harry Carson of the New York Giants says he would prefer to be in New York this week rather than in the nation's capital.

"Bease and Mark and I would rather be back at Giants Stadium with a new agreed-to contract getting ready for the Super Bowl track," Carson said Thursday. "Since we can't be there, we are here."

Teammates Beasley Reece, a safety, and Mark Haynes, a cornerback, said they agreed totally with Carson.

The trio made their comments after the second day of workouts by the NFL Players Association NFC East all-star team, which will play Sunday against a team of AFC East all-stars.

The contest, originally scheduled for 4 p.m. EDT in RFK Stadium, has been changed to 1 p.m. to avoid conflict with the World Series on television.

Still, there hasn't been much fan response to both the game in Washington and the one in Los Angeles the following night, both of which are union-sponsored. Promoters of the Washington game say they've only sold 4,000 to 5,000 tickets for the 55,000-seat RFK Stadium — about 10,000 below the financial break-even point. In Los Angeles, a spokesman at the Memorial Coliseum box office said 40 tickets had been sold for the Monday night game in the 100,000-seat stadium.

NFC East Coach Chris Hanburger, a former Washington Redskins linebacker, said he was not worried by the light turnout for the practice. Only 27 players showed up for the workout, although 39 were present for the afternoon session by the AFC East.

Quarterback Bob Avellini of the Chicago Bears, running back John Riggins and punter Mark Moseley of the Washington Redskins attended

Wednesday's NFC session but were not there Thursday.

"I'm not worried about it," said Hanburger. "Too many people are concerned about people not being here. We will have enough people for the game. I don't foresee any problems."

"If they get the strike settled, one of the concessions will probably be to drop the all-star game," he continued. "But if they have to play, they will play 100 percent. Realistically, though, they would prefer not to play."

Despite the lack of players, quarterback Gary Danielson of the Detroit Lions said the practice went very well. "It would take us three weeks in a regular camp to do what we have done in three days. Of course, we don't have a lot of rookies and the veterans can grasp what we're doing right away." Hanburger also praised the players for the workout they had.

"We've had very few errors," he said. "And you've got to remember, Carson is fitting in as an outside linebacker and after seven years in the middle, you've got to expect a misplay every once in a while."

Comiskey Park Sold To Group

CHICAGO (AP) — Comiskey Park, the oldest major league stadium still in use, has been sold to a group of investors for $12.5 million, the Chicago White Sox have revealed.

Sox chairman Jerry Reinsdorf, who confirmed reports of the sale Thursday, said it occurred last month and had been planned for more than a year. Under its terms, Reinsdorf said, the White Sox will lease the stadium from the new owners, who are known as Comiskey Park Associates.

"We planned on doing this since the time we bought the club," Reinsdorf said. "The strike got in the way last year. We didn't want money invested in brick and mortar."

He said the money from the sale will be used for team operations.

Comiskey Park Associates paid the White Sox $2.7 million of the purchase price in cash, Reinsdorf said, and agreed to pay the remainder over a 10-year period. The Sox, in turn, will lease the park for 12 years, with an option to renew. Their rent will be on an escalating scale — $900,000 the first year, increasing to about $3 million the final year.

Under the agreement, Reinsdorf said, the White Sox can terminate the lease if a new stadium is built before it expires, but cannot cancel it in order to move to another city.

Comiskey Park, which opened July 1, 1910, occupies 10 acres on the South Side.

Reinsdorf said the sale also involved another 20 acres formerly owned by the White Sox, most of which is taken up by parking lots.

Enforcers Welcome Reagan's War On Drugs

Pizza Inn

DELIVERS
Call 758-6266

By RICHARD T. PIENIAK
Associated Press Writer
President Reagan's national narcotics task force is an idea long overdue, law enforcement agents say, especially since a federal crackdown in southern Florida has encouraged drug traffickers to take their business elsewhere.

"It's really welcomed," said Lt. Joseph Newman, head of the Baltimore Police Department's narcotics task force. "It appears to me this is a little more than a finger in the dike solution. It's been needed for some time."

On Thursday, Reagan announced in Washington that federal officials would blanket the nation with 12 regional task forces. The $200 million effort would add up to 1,200 federal agents and investigators in Boston, New York, Baltimore, Atlanta, Houston, St. Louis, Chicago, Detroit, Denver, Los Angeles, San Francisco and San Diego.

"Our commitment to this program is unshakable. We intend to do what is necessary to end the drug menace and cripple organized crime," Reagan said.

Across the country, news of the federal plan was received with open arms, especially in the South, where officials have been calling for help since March when Vice President George Bush was appointed head of a Cabinet-level task force to fight drug trafficking in southern Florida.

The Florida effort has pushed drug smuggling operations to other coastal states like Louisiana and Georgia, officials say.

"It's like squeezing a balloon," said Jimmy Davis, a Georgia state investigator. "You squeeze one area and it pops out in another."

Ray Vinsik, head of the DEA office in Atlanta, said recently that the Bush task force probably increased smuggling in Georgia. "It's put an awful lot of pressure on drug smugglers to try to find other ways to get drugs into the United States."

Jean Phillips of the Louisiana state police said, "We not only appreciate but we expect assistance from the federal government." Because drugs come from outside the country, she said, "This is not a state problem. This is an international problem."

The federal task force will "make a tremendous difference in our ability to investigate and prosecute" drug cases, said Assistant U.S. Attorney Steven Nelson in San Diego, considered one of the nation's chief narcotics smuggling points.

"San Diego always has had a tremendous problem with narcotics traffic," said Nelson. "We're the first port of the United States on the West Coast so, geographically speaking, drugs are going to touch this area in major quantities."

"We're elated. We'll finally have the manpower and equipment," said Rudolfo Ramirez, a federal Drug Enforcement Administration spokesman in Baltimore.

Commander Lawrence Forberg, of the Chicago Police Department's narcotics division, said: "Like everybody else, we need the resources. We need the manpower. We need the judges to stand up and be counted."

Michael Hurley, DEA chief in Little Rock, Ark., has a staff of four, including one agent who returned last week from the Florida task force. He said air smuggling is "more than we can handle." The DEA, he added, has a "tough" time finding these airplanes when you have four people.

Baltimore's Newman said the problem in his city, where a $75 million heroin ring was broken up earlier this year, is awesome. The Baltimore task force has accounted for about 11,000 narcotics arrests since its formation one year ago.

"You take one of those guys off and you have two or three more who jump in. The profits are so good," Newman said.

"Obviously, the people at the state level cannot deal with the problem by themselves," he said.

Angered Over License Check

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Democratic officials Thursday were angered and surprised to learn that a National Congressional Club aide had run a license-plate check on cars parked outside a home that was the site of an event for U.S. Rep. Ike Andrews, D-N.C., last month.

Congressional Club intern Thomas P. DeWitt paid for computer printouts of registration information on the 74 vehicles of people who attended an event at the home of Clifton Benson of Raleigh. A student at N.C. State University, DeWitt copied the tag numbers and left them with the state Division of Motor Vehicles. A telephone number he left where he could be reached was the number of the Coalition for Freedom, an affiliate of the National Congressional Club.

When contacted, DeWitt picked up the computer printouts Oct. 8 and paid $74 for the information. When told of the incident, Gov. Jim Hunt wondered why DeWitt had sought the information.

"I don't think North Carolinians like that kind of thing," said Hunt. "What are they spending money for to get that kind of information?"

Loretta Martin, president of the N.C. Association of Educators and one of those attending the event, was angry when she learned of the license check.

"We have reached a sorry state in the political process if supporters of a candidate can't meet openly and honestly without having some dirty trickster slipping along the sidewalk secretly taking down license plate numbers in an attempt to intimidate," she said.

"I'd have been happy to let them in so they could have seen who was in there," Benson added, who said he was amused by the incident.

Andrews said he was "not surprised at anything the Congressional Club does," while his campaign coordinator, Randolph Cloud, termed the license checks "high schoolish."

But Carter Wrenn, the Congressional Club's executive director, said DeWitt was acting on his own when he copied the license numbers. He said DeWitt was researching the involvement of state employees in Democratic political campaigns this year.

"He sort of took it upon himself," he said. "It wasn't anything clandestine. I don't think it's any big deal."

Republican Bill Cobey Jr. is challenging Andrews in his bid for re-election to the 4th Congressional District. Cobey has the National Congressional Club's support.

Holding Forum For Secretaries

Greenville area secretaries are participating in the state Department of Human Resources' fifth annual Eastern Regional Secretarial Forum being held in Wilmington this week.

Coordinators of the forum are Jo Ann Stokes of the state Division of Mental Health, Mental Retardation and Substance Abuse Services, Greenville, and Linda Asbell of the Division of Health Services office here.

Performed Thursday

Kevin Bagby of Chesapeake, Va., a senior clarinet student in the school of music, East Carolina University, was in recital at the A.J. Fletcher Recital Hall Thursday evening.

For his program, Bagby played the Mozart "Divertimento No. 1, K443b;" Debussy's "Premiere Rhapsody" and the Brahms "Sonata No. 2, Opus 120."

He was accompanied by pianist Patricia Foltz and assisted by his teacher, clarinetist Deborah Chodacki, and by student bassoonist Matthew Morris.

Bagby has been featured as a singer and instrumentalist for several years at the annual ECU Christmas Madrigal Dinners.

NEW YORK (AP) — For movies, it's a lost weekend. It starts with a two-hour movie patterned after "Love American Style," moves to the former Wonder Woman taking on a killer who scalps his victims, then winds up with Erik Estrada doing a cheap imitation of "Rocky."

With the high cost of theatrical films and heavy competition from cable, the networks are cranking out more TV movies. But, for this weekend's flimsy film festival, they're not making them any better.

Tonight it's "For Lovers Only" on ABC. Saturday's fare is "Hotline," starring Lynda Carter on CBS. Sunday, Estrada teams with another TV star, Morgan

Fairchild, in "Honeyboy" on NBC.

"For Lovers Only" gets the simperton award. Set in a honeymoon haven, this movie gets to spend much of the time in bed or in heart-shaped tubs, treating sex, frigidity and mate-swapping like knock-knock jokes.

This romantic comedy is neither romantic nor funny.

Frankie and Margie are from Brooklyn. Frankie, played by Robert Hegyes from "Welcome Back Kotter," is allergic to something in bed. He runs around squealing her name like Vern Farrell did on "My Little Margie."

Sally Kellerman, who has been to the resort with three other husbands, has never "heard the bells" in bed. She hopes Gordon Jump will be the one, and they try sensitivity experiments to build to the right moment.

Deborah Raffin and Gary Sandy ("WKRP in Cincinnati") aren't newlyweds at all. They're divorcing. They stop at the haven only to inform her father (Andy Griffith), who owns the place.

Whether you've been married or not, this one should insult you.

"Hotline," which is a bit grisly to be following "Walt Disney" on CBS, is produced by Ron Samuels, Miss Carter's husband when this project was launched. They're now separated.

Miss Carter plays Brianne O'Neil, a struggling artist who moonlights as a bartender moonlighting as an adviser at a phone-in crisis center. Before long, she's terrorized by a breathless caller who claims to have killed several women, then hacked their hair off.

"Hotline," billed as a suspense thriller, has the shadowy photography and chilling music down pat, but the script offers no support.

It's filled with improbabilities, holes and contrived relationships, all of which will have you shaking your head in disbelief. After somebody breaks into Brianne's house, the police take a superficial snoop around, can't find anybody and leave. A seemingly unconcerned Brianne goes right to sleep.

Another major problem is Miss Carter's acting. She treats every ordeal with the bare minimum of emotional range.

Which brings us to Estrada in his first TV movie, "Honeyboy." The swarthy "CHiPs" star alternates — unconvincingly — between toothy smiles and blind rage, and he is given numerous chances to strut in his bikini underwear.

He plays Rico "Honeyboy" Ramirez, whose rise to the middleweight title is littered with a sleazy, double-dealing promoter and his lustful wife, plus a pushy press agent (Miss Fairchild), who happens to be a pushover in bed.

"It was fabulous, but it was a mistake," she tells Rico.

Rico's good influences are his mother, his dedicated trainer and, eventually, the father who abandoned the family but returns to become a trusted cornerman. There's also a cast of thousands from the barrio who shout from the cheap seats and play in several poverty scenes.

The boxing sequences are fairly good, until the concluding championship fight. Then the choreography looks as phony as this dive of a movie's ending.

Actor Suffered Cuts, Bruises

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actor Richard Dreyfuss is out of the hospital but he still faces legal problems from his auto accident last weekend.

Dreyfuss, 34, was released Thursday from Cedars-Sinai Medical Center, said Tess Griffin, spokeswoman at the hospital. "We conducted tests for internal injuries, but found none. He suffered only cuts and bruises," she said.

Dreyfuss was driving alone through Benedict Canyon when his car apparently went out of control, swerved, skidded into a palm tree and flipped over, police Lt. Russ Olson said.

Dreyfuss, who appeared in such films as "Jaws" and "Close Encounters of the Third Kind," was booked "in absentia" for investigation of driving under the influence of alcohol and possession of a controlled substance, police said.

Olson said Thursday that because of a work backlog, it could take about two weeks for the department's laboratory to analyze a white powder confiscated from the actor to determine whether it is cocaine.

Registration for Recreation & Parks Department winter programs will be beginning soon. For information on available programs, call 752-4137.

Liberace Facing 'Palimony' Suit

By LINDA DEUTSCH
Associated Press Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Liberace says the chauffeur-bodyguard seeking $113 million from him in a "palimony" suit is a "disgruntled former employee" trying to "assassinate my character."

Scott Thorson, 23, said in his suit filed Thursday that he had been the entertainer's live-in lover since 1976. The affair ended in April when Liberace's aides assaulted him and threw him out of the penthouse he thought Liberace had given him, the suit said.

Thorson, wearing a brocade dinner jacket and ruffled shirt, and his lawyer, Michael B. Rosenthal, refused to elaborate on the allegations when they arrived at Los Angeles County Courthouse.

The suit includes a detailed chronology of an alleged love affair which began in Las Vegas and ended in Los Angeles after Liberace began "dating other gentlemen."

The lawsuit said Liberace promised him lifetime support, including a salary of $7,000 a month and between $20,000 and $30,000 a year to tend the entertainer's animals. The different salaries were not explained. The suit also said Liberace had planned to adopt Thorson.

Liberace, 63, who was performing in Westbury, N.Y., when he heard of the suit, later said, "He is a disgruntled former employee who was fired in early 1982 because of excessive use of alcohol, drugs and carrying of firearms, among other reasons. This is an outrageous, ambitious attempt to assassinate my character."

Liberace's lawyer, Joel Strote, also named as a defendant in the suit, said, "There's absolutely no truth to it."

The entertainer, known for his purring voice, expensive clothes and pompadour hairstyle, often has denied that he is homosexual. In 1959 he won a $22,400 libel judgment against a London newspaper when a columnist implied he was homosexual.

FOCUS

"From the Halls of Montezuma..."

When President Reagan ordered U.S. troops to join multinational peacekeeping forces in Lebanon, he was following a long tradition. In 1805, Thomas Jefferson ordered the Marines into the land that is now Libya. The Barbary States of Algiers, Tunis, Morocco, and Tripoli were using an elaborate extortion scheme to blackmail the nations that sailed the Mediterranean. If a country refused to pay tribute, Barbary pirates attacked its ships. But young America could not afford the bribes. So Jefferson used the Marines to end piracy on the Barbary Coast. The unknown composer who wrote "The Marines' Hymn" in the 1850s commemorated that early struggle on "the shores of Tripoli."

DO YOU KNOW — What U.S. President sent marines to Lebanon in 1958?

THURSDAY'S ANSWER — Jimmy Carter's mother, Lillian, was a Peace Corps volunteer.

South to make six no trump against any defense.

A few weeks ago we published this hand as a double dummy problem. Readers were invited to decide whether South could make twelve tricks at no trump, and to submit either the winning line or successful defense.

Obviously West cannot lead a diamond, so assume that he starts a low heart, after which he plays no part in the defense. It is the East hand that is crucial. Declarer wins the opening lead in dummy with the eight and runs five rounds of clubs, ending on the table. East must find three discards, and so far he has no problem—he can let go of three spades. Now South leads a heart from dummy, and East is in trouble. He must make a deadly discard from one of his holdings.

1) Suppose East sluffs a spade. Declarer wins in hand with the ace of hearts and leads a spade to the king. He cashes the ace of spades and concedes a spade trick to East, pitching two diamonds from hand. He wins East's forced diamond return with the ace, crosses to the king of

Life As It's Lived

Creativity In Hallmark Of Young Style Tastes

By GAIL MICHAELS
Neither Cheryl Teigs nor Brooke Shields could possibly be as persnickety about clothes as my kids are.

Meg has always had very definite ideas about the contents of her wardrobe. She regards her clothing as an essential expression of her personality. This does not mean that she has good taste. Her choice of clothing would make the blacklist at a Salvation Army Thrift Shop.

I just pray that tacky is less a congenial defect than the laundry mark of immaturity which will eventually fade under the guidance of an agitated mother. In the meantime, we both keep struggling to assert our preferences.

I keep extolling the virtues of coordinated outfits like dresses and pinafores. But the very idea of coordinates is an anathema to Meg unless they have been worn by two or three beloved relatives and look like it. Otherwise, she prefers to mix and match. Mix and match allows for far more creative expression. She follows only a few simple rules in putting together her creations. For instance, if two pieces of clothing share the same color somewhere among the prints, plaids and stripes, they match.

Notice that I did not say the same shade. Meg is oblivious to shades. Last Sunday she wanted to wear a blue jacket sporting red and white sailboats because the royal blue "matched" the pale blue dress she was wearing. She couldn't be bothered with minor details like the pink and green smocking on the dress.

Needless to say, Meg's decided preferences make shopping with her almost impossible. Jumpers look dumb. Appliques bear too close a resemblance to patches. What she really wishes she could have is that $35 pair of black velvet knickers.

She has shed many a tear on a school morning because I've refused to let her waltz off in a favorite outfit like her brown and white knit shirt and size 5 red corduroy overalls with yellow patches on the knees (she wears size 7). Those outfits are reserved for Saturday, if and when she decides to take off her preferred uniform, the Georgia Bulldog pajamas and the red robe that her Aunt Marty slept in throughout high school.

My only consolation in grappling with Meg's sartorial peculiarities has been that my second child was a boy. Boys aren't supposed to care about clothes. They'll wear anything, right?

Wrong. Suddenly, Zachary is just a vehement about what he puts on his back as Meg ever was. He absolutely refuses to wear the pink flannel bathrobe I unearthed from one of Meg's drawers during a long overdue reorganization. He started to back up the minute he saw it.

"I do not wear the pink robe," he shouted as he scrambled for cover under the couch. "I do not!"

Let it appear that the femininity of the robe formed the basis for his objections, I must add that the same day he rejected the robe, he found an old pair of black patent Mary Janes and has been wearing them ever since. To top them off, he found an old Mickey Mouse sweatshirt in the discard pile from Meg's drawer. He found it so fetching that he cried that night when I undressed him.

"Let me wear Mickey to bed!"

"No. I have to wash him," I explained, "so that you can wear it again."

"Tomorrow," he said decidedly.

Still miffed by his appropriation of a choice piece of clothing, Meg sniffed. "Well, at least it's not my smurf shirt."

I moaned. I'm sure that will come soon enough.

Natalie Said Overworked

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Natalie Cole is unable to care for herself due to fatigue from overwork, so her mother is trying to take charge of the singer's affairs, according to an attorney.

Attorney Mary Burrell, representing Maria Cole, filed a conservatorship petition Oct. 4, saying the singer is "unable to properly provide for her personal needs for physical health, food, clothing or shelter" and seeking to give control to Mrs. Cole.

"There's nothing dramatically wrong with her. The (conservatorship) petition wasn't meant to convey that. She's suffering from stress and fatigue from overwork," Ms. Burrell said.

"She needs her mom right now. She's divorced and her closest living relative is her mother, and they are very close," the attorney said.

Miss Cole, the daughter of the late singer Nat King Cole, signed the petition, which puts her assets at about $300,000.

A hearing on the petition is set for Nov. 12 in Superior Court.

Epic Records, Miss Cole's recording company, said her new album will be released on schedule in February.

Youth Attends Science Program

BOONE — Kim Lainhart of Route 2, Winterville, was one of 400 gifted and talented high school students who participated in the summer science program at Appalachian State University.

The program, which is designed to encourage student insight and creativity in several areas of science, gives the students opportunity to gain valuable field and laboratory experience. Students were nominated by their high school principals.

To be eligible to apply for the program, a student must possess special talent and a high level of interest and creativity in the area of science offered.
