TRUTH IN PREFERENCE TO FICTION

Pitt's Response
Incumbents Got Votes

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer
You have the feeling that area people who made the effort to vote Tuesday slipped quietly into the polling sites, yawned as they marked their ballots, and then left feeling assured they knew the outcome of every contested race.

In one of the quietest general elections in years, Greenville and Pitt County voters chose incumbents by substantial margins in every situation and indicated a clear opinion on two proposed constitutional amendments. Democrats were the clear winners in local balloting that provided few surprises as election day came and went with little fanfare. U.S. Rep. Walter B. Jones of Farmville easily gathered enough support to gain his 10th term in Congress representing the sprawling 21-county 1st District. Pitt County voters gave Jones, who will become the dean of the Democratic North Carolina delegation, an unofficial 10,814-to-2,827 vote margin over Jim McIntyre III of Greenville. Libertarian candidate Bobby Yates Emory trailed with 195 votes. District-wide, with all 302 precincts reporting, the Associated Press tally gave Jones 79,949 votes to only 17,458 for his GOP challenger. Emory received 928 votes. Incumbent state Sen. Vernon White of Winterville turned back the bid of Sallie C. Keel of Greenville and write-in candidate Mariem House, also of Greenville, to Contradictory 'Mandates'

Demos Gain House Seats

DONALD M. ROTHBERG
AP Political Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) - Democratic and Republican leaders claimed contradictory mandates on Reaganomics today after midterm elections in which the Democrats strengthened their House majority but failed to shake the GOP hold on the Senate.

edged that the election of more House Democrats indicates "we may have to compromise some more" when the 98th Congress takes office in January, but he predicted the conservative coalition that enabled Reagan to cut spending and taxes would remain intact. Baker held out hope that at least some of the new Democrats will "be the same kind of boll-weevil Democrats that we've been able to attract in the past. ... It's gonna be tougher to pull that coalition together in the House, but we've by no means lost that coalition."

Democratic House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr. called the election "a disastrous defeat for the president." He said it "showed that America doesn't agree with the unfairness policy of the president."

"I think what the American people said was, 'Stay the course,'" said Republican Party chairman Richard Richards.

However, Senate Republican leader Howard H. Baker Jr. worried aloud that the new Democrats in the House could give O'Neill the power to bottle up Reagan administration proposals.

"Unless we can agree in a general way on what's gonna be on the legislative agenda this year, it might be difficult to get to conference committee" where House and Senate differences normally are ironed out, the Senate's Baker said.

But the official White House line was confidence. "The president's ability to govern and lead is still there, intact," said presidential spokesman Larry Speakes.

Disatisfaction with Reagan economic policies appeared to be a factor in several races but not enough of one to produce a Democratic landslide. The 10.1 percent unemployment rate and Social Security were the big issues in Democratic campaigns. Republican campaigners countered by citing lower interest and inflation rates and blaming Democratic policies for the economic problems.

Interviews with voters as they left polling places found a mix of displeasure with the results of the Reagan economic program - but also a reservoir of patience.

The impact of Reagan's personal campaigning also was mixed. Republicans won in Utah, Wyoming and Virginia and were leading in California - all states where the president appeared. Reagan also campaigned in Nevada, but it was a split decision there with Democrats capturing the governor's office and Republicans winning a Senate seat.

In New Jersey, Montana, Nebraska, Texas, New Mexico, and North Carolina, where he also campaigned, the Republican candidates lost.

The biggest political name among the losers was Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr., twice a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, who was beaten by San Diego Mayor Pete Wilson in the California Senate race.

Democrats won 255 House seats and were leading in 11 others; Republicans won 158 and were leading in 9. If that trend continues the Democrats would pick up 23 seats.

Two Georgia House seats, now held by Democrats, will be decided in balloting Nov. 30.

In the Senate, it appeared the Republicans would hold their 54-46 majority. Only two incumbent senators lost, Democrat Howard Cannon of Nevada and Republican Harrison Schmitt of New Mexico.

The only undecided race was in Rhode Island where Republican Sen. John Chafee was leading.

The strongest Democratic showing was in statehouses, where they captured eight governorships held by Republicans and were leading in Alaska.

The only Republican pickups were in California and New Hampshire.

After a night of trading the lead back and forth, Republican Attorney General George Deukmejian defeated Democratic Mayor Tom Bradley of Los Angeles in their race to succeed Brown.

And in New Hampshire, college professor John Sununu upset Democratic Gov. Hugh Gallen, who may have been a victim of his refusal to pledge not to raise taxes.

By daybreak, Republican Gov. James Thompson of Illinois had taken a sizable

N.C. Demos Win Assembly Seats

By JOHN FLESHER
Associated Press Writer
Republican dreams of overcoming a 4-to-1 General Assembly deficit went up in smoke as North Carolinians overwhelmingly elected a Democratic state House and Senate.

Democrats picked up five Senate seats and three House seats, including Paul S. Smith and Harold A. Baker and Repr. Melvin L. Stamey and Frank E. Rhodes. About the only pleasant surprise for Republicans was the reelection of Sen. Cary Allred, the Alamance County freshman

Killed By Car

AYDEN - A Route 2, Ayden, woman was killed instantly Tuesday about 5:45 p.m. when she stepped into the path of an oncoming car driven by a Pitt County sheriff's deputy, the Highway Patrol reported.

Trooper Wayne Taylor said the victim, Victoria Whitaker, got out of the car she was driving, walked around the vehicle and attempted to cross N.C. 102 about .9 of a mile east of Ayden. She was struck by a westbound car driven by Howard Wayne Nobles of Route 1, Winterville.

The trooper said Nobles was traveling at a normal rate of speed when the accident occurred. No charges were made in the accident.

Regional Medical Examiner Stan Harris said he was following Nobles in another car and was on the scene 30 seconds after it happened. He said Ms. Whitaker died instantly of internal injuries caused by the impact of the vehicle.

Vote In Martin

WILLIAMSTON - Martin County voters turned out in substantial numbers for Tuesday's voting, with 44.88 percent of the county's 11,484 voters going to the polls.

Incumbent state Rep. John Gillam III of Windsor swept the ballot count with 2,414 votes. His opponent, Frank Ballance, received 902 votes.

In two other contested races, voters also gave the incumbent an overwhelming lead.

Incumbent Martin County Sheriff Willie Rogers received 3,709 votes with his opponent, Curtis Taylor, getting only 324 votes. In the contested county commissioner slot, incumbent Russell Griffin racked up 3,084 votes against opponent Robert Godard's 825 votes.

Decorative Arts Symposium Set

ECU News Bureau
NEW BERN - Aspects of the decorative arts of the colonial area will be discussed by experts at the 15th annual Tryon Palace Symposium here March 13-15.

The event, for lay and professional persons interested in the decorative arts and lifestyles of colonial America, is sponsored by the Tryon Palace Commission and Restoration and the East Carolina University Division of Continuing Education, in cooperation with the N.C. Division of Archives and History.

Speakers and their topics are: "New England Interiors, 1770-1825," Richard Nylander of the Society for the Preservation of New England Antiquities, Boston, Mass.; "The 18th Century Upholsterer and His Trade," Broke Jobe, chief curator for the society, Boston; "The Restoration of Tryon Palace," Donald Taylor, Tryon Palace Restoration administrator;

"Antiques and Fine Arts: Insurance and the Real World," Emyl Jenkins, Raleigh appraiser and author; "Ceramics and Glass of American Interest," Jean Taylor Federico, curator of the Daughters of the American Revolution Museum, Washington, D.C.; "Classical Influences in Eastern Virginia Society and Furniture," Sumpter Priddy III of the Colonial Williamsburg Foundation.

In addition to the illustrated lectures, the symposium includes tours of the Tryon Palace Complex, several social gatherings and meals at the nearby Christ Episcopal Church Parish House and a buffet dinner on the palace complex premises.

Tryon Palace, a colonial capitol and the first state capitol of North Carolina, was the home of the state's early governors. The complex includes the palace, its outbuildings and formal gardens and several early dwellings. Among these are the 1780 home of John Wright Stanly and the 1805 Stevenson House.

Further information about the symposium is available from Tryon Palace Symposium, Division of Continuing Education, East Carolina University, Greenville.

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
 AP Food Editor

If you are interested in offering a new first course when guests are coming to dinner, you may want to consider serving Zucchini Sticks.

The trick in making these is to choose zucchini of a particular size, paring and cutting each into a precise length and thickness. This way the Zucchini Sticks look most attractive and professional.

To make good use of the generous amount of zucchini trimmings left after the preparation, we graded them coarsely in our food processor. Then we skillet-cooked them briefly in butter. A delicious dish for another meal.

ZUCCHINISTICKS

- Corn oil
- 4 medium zucchini (about 1 1/4 pounds), each about 6 inches long
- 1-3rd cup milk
- 1/2 cup all-purpose flour
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 to 1 cup fine dry bread crumbs

Pour oil into a 10- or 12-inch electric skillet, filling no more than 1-3rd full.

With a swivel blade peeler, pare one zucchini. Trim ends so it is 5 inches long. Shape it into a "rectangle" by slicing off enough of the rounded outer part so that it has 4 straight sides and is 1 inch thick. (Save trimmings and use in some other dish.) Lay the zucchini on a cutting board and slice it into 4 sticks - each 5 inches long and 1/4-inch thick. Treat the remaining zucchini the same way.

Pour milk into a pie plate. In a second pie plate stir together flour and salt. Into a third plate turn the crumbs. Dip a zucchini stick in milk, then in flour mixture; shake off excess. Dip again in milk, then in bread crumbs; place on wax paper. Coat remaining zucchini sticks the same way.

Meanwhile, heat oil to 375 degrees. Fry zucchini sticks in 2 or 3 batches, turning once, until crisp and browned - 1 to 2 minutes. Drain on paper towels; keep hot in a low oven. Serve at once - in a basket lined with paper napkins, if you like.

Makes 16.
 Note: For a lighter offering, cut each zucchini "rectangle" into 8 sticks; the amounts of coating ingredients will not have to be increased.

'Mid-Life' Help Offered

By VALERIE STRAUSS
 MIAMI (UPI) - Americans are an unhappy lot, even if they have chickens in every pot and two cars in the garage. And the most miserable are those aged 35 to 55.

So says Sol Landau, a rabbi who left his congregation, went back to school and founded the Mid-Life Services Foundation to counsel people suffering from "mid-life crisis."

"America is not a happy country, although it should be," says Landau, 60. "We haven't learned what to do with our resources. We emphasize what we don't have. We don't like change and life is change."

"We have made of life a problem."

Although the years of adolescence traditionally are considered to be the most troublesome in the course of a lifetime, Landau says middle age - 35 to 55 - is worse.

"We may have asked 'Who am I?' when we were young and never answered the question, thinking we had all the time in the world. But when you discover you are no longer young, which in itself is a reassessment, you go through a crisis," he said.

Pressures of the Atomic Age have contributed to the "mid-life crisis" epidemic.

Landau says the fear that the world could be blown up with the flip of a few buttons has resulted in deep psychological trauma for people of all ages but especially middle-aged people who have lived through the birth and growth of the Nuclear Age.

The women's liberation movement, with millions of women entering the work force and demanding economic and social equality, has created havoc with the way men and women perceive their roles.

A year ago, Landau founded the Mid-Life Services Foundation, a "think-tank" where he and a small staff counsel middle-aged men and women who come "to get mid-life checkups."

He says his experience, with the foundation has led him to believe that Americans must "lower their expectations" if they want to avoid a lifetime of unhappiness.

"If we make serious attempts to take a look at ourselves - at the real reasons for our unhappiness

- we will be a lot happier. We must lower our expectations. It is the only way," he says.

National Cosmetic Firm President To Visit Greenville

Ruvka Seltzer, a former nurse in her native Israel, is president and founder of Aloe Charm, a firm based in King of Prussia, Pennsylvania, that specializes in skin care products derived from the aloe plant.

Aloe Charm, now in its seventh year, markets about 120 make-up and skin care items throughout eastern United States.

Mrs. Seltzer's firm has a sales goal of $12,000,000 for this fiscal year. The company offers a good opportunity for persons who want to work for themselves and like meeting people.

Mrs. Seltzer will be conducting an opportunity-opening house, offer her own success story, philosophies, and make-up and skin care techniques.

The skin care seminar will be held Saturday, Nov. 6, from 1 to 5 at Greenville Country Club.

Tell Couple To Limit Slide Show

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I are friendly with a couple who live 75 miles from us. Since their retirement, they have traveled a great deal and have taken colored slides of their travels. We have traveled and taken pictures, too, but we never force our slides on our friends as they do.

When these friends come to see us (or when we go to see them), there is never any conversation - the whole time is taken up with their pictures.

They came last Sunday, and we had just finished new landscaping around our home and hurriedly completed the job before they arrived so we could show them what we'd done, but there was no time because they started right in on their slides. We served a nice lunch, then they had to rush away to another engagement.

Next month they want to come and bring the pictures they took of their six-week vacation in Hawaii. We know we will be in for another three hours of viewing. What do we tell them? We hate to hurt their feelings, but enough is enough.

SICK OF SLIDES

DEAR SICK: Tell them in advance that if they will limit their slide show to one hour to please come. If they agree, fine. If they don't, what have you lost? The "friendship" of a very selfish, insensitive couple who couldn't care less about your feelings.

DEAR ABBY: The letter from "Crushed," whose 16-year-old daughter became pregnant by her 15-year-old adopted son, made a point that too few people are willing to acknowledge. All human beings are sexual beings - like it or not. We are born with the instinct to function sexually, so why all the denial?

How can people in this society be so technically advanced and so socially primitive? Why don't we teach our children the truth about sex?

Sex between siblings is taboo. It usually (but not always) occurs when the older person exploits the younger one out of curiosity or in search of sexual gratification. When children are sufficiently mature physically to reproduce - and the sperm meets the fertile egg - pregnancy occurs. The egg doesn't know (or care) if the sperm is a relative.

Incest is far more common than most think. I know. It happened in our family. I was a 15-year-old boy (young man, actually) when my 9-year-old precocious sister came into my bed one night while we were home alone.

Our parents were respectable, churchgoing, middle-class people. They never told us anything about sex. All we knew is what we'd picked up from the other kids.

What went on between my sister and me didn't last long, fortunately. But it did happen. The guilt and shame lasted a lifetime, although we never talked about it. I am 72, and my kid sister died last year at 66.

Why am I writing this? Because I hope some "respectable" parents who are too shy to tell their kids about sex will see this.

Most parents assume that their kids will "naturally" abstain from having sex with a sister or brother because they will "know" it's wrong. Not true. Kids will naturally explore and experiment unless they are taught not to. And even then, the opportunities for it should be minimized and all temptations removed.

I know this is much too long for your column, so go ahead and cut it to suit yourself, but please get the message across.

ANONYMOUS IN MINNESOTA

DEAR ANONYMOUS: It's long, but I'll not cut a word. It's well worth the space. Thanks for writing.

DEAR ABBY: I'll get right to the point. Our beautiful, intelligent, grown daughter is shacking up with a creep. If you have any suggestions to make this parental cross more bearable, we'd like to hear them.

SAN DIEGO

DEAR SAN: You can thank your lucky stars she's not married to him. Or consider this: He may be a creep in your eyes, but in hers, he's the cream of the crop.

Altruism Not Involved

Frequent news reports on the extent of Political Action Committee campaign contributions should elicit public dismay.

Sums allocated to candidates vary, but in Utah it is said Sen. Orrin Hatch is approaching the $1 million mark in PAC contributions. That's a lot.

Altruism is not involved. Simply put, contributors want "their" kind of office-holder, voting or acting as "they" wish.

Even if public antipathy to the PAC system reaches unacceptable levels, office-holders who owe their election to PACs are going to be reluctant to scrap the system unless another source of campaign funds is available.

There is; and it has been suggested off and on for years. That would be the British system of governmental funding for campaigns.

The ingenuous might suggest PACs and private contributors give their electioneering money to the agency handling its equitable disbursement; but you could count on it — the interest would die with the loss of potential returns.

Still, it is an alternative that should be considered despite an aversion to piling ever-more expenditures on the federal government. The taxpayer would have to pay (nothing is free), but conceivably the electorate would think it was getting its money's worth.

Can that be said today?

Fountain Builds A Library

Gov. Jim Hunt and a representative from the president were on hand last week as Fountain dedicated a new "bootstrap" library and held Community Day activities to celebrate its community accomplishments.

The attention was well deserved. Spurred by financial assistance from Martin Marietta, which has a quarry at Fountain, the citizens did something about their woeful library. The situation was made worse by the fact that there is no longer a school and a library it would include.

The George and Emma Harden Jefferson family offered a building and Martin Marietta contributed $25,000 for the library project. Through a community effort an adequate library was developed.

There is great pride in Fountain, as well there should be.

Poland Is Not Bankrupt?

One of the biggest deadbeats, as far as international loans are concerned, is Poland. The myth that Poland is not bankrupt is being kept alive by every Western bank, because no one wants to foreclose on it at this time.

How did Poland and the U.S. banks get into such a mess? It now turns out that the highest ranking Polish banker in the United States was also a Polish spy.

The banker's name is Andrzej Treumann and he has just defected to our side, and is now somewhere in the U.S. as a guest of the CIA. Mr. Treumann was ostensibly in charge of renegotiating the Polish debt with the banks in the West. My source at CIA's headquarters in Langley filled me in on a few intelligence details concerning Treumann's defection.

ART BUCHWALD

"The Polish government's biggest mistake," he said, "was sending a top banker to the U.S. to spy for them. Our people knew that there was no chance of Poland paying back its debt to the Western banks, so the man had to be sent to the United States for another reason. You don't need a top banker to renegotiate a Polish loan with the Chase Manhattan Bank or Citibank. If you sent a teller from Gdansk Savings and Loan, Chase and Citibank would have to talk to him. We figured Treumann would have a lot of free time on his hands and he was probably up to no good."

"That was good reasoning, but you must have had more to go on than a hunch." "We did. Every time Treumann went to see an executive of a bank to renegotiate a Polish loan he kept producing Pollard's liabilities on microfilm. He once tried to open up a new account at the Bank of America and instead of a pressure cooker he asked if he could have an MX missile. Once he offered to pay back interest on the Polish debt to the Continental Bank of Chicago if the vice president would give him a model kit of the Stealth bomber. But what really piqued our interest was when three checks he wrote against the Los Alamos Employees Credit Union bounced."

"The man really sounds inept at keeping his cover," I said. "When Treumann finally came over to our side he said it wasn't his fault. The Polish Minister of Finance kept bugging him to get Irving Trust off his back, and the Warsaw Pact commander kept badgering him on how many nuclear submarines were stationed in New London. The poor man never could keep his cables straight."

"Is that why he defected?" "No, strangely enough it was a little thing that got him angry. The Bowers Savings Bank held an outstanding loan to Poland of $2 billion. When Treumann informed them he couldn't make the monthly payment, Bowers repossessed his car. Treumann sent a message to the Minister of Finance asking him to settle up Poland's debt with Bowers Savings so he could get his car back. But the Minister cabled back, 'Impossible to do. From now on take the subway.'"

The CIA man continued, "Now, Treumann is no dummy and he lived in Queens long enough to know that riding the New York subway

Red Face In Inner Circle

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK WASHINGTON — Among the very red faces in the Oval Office after Nobel Prize economist George P. Stigler used the White House itself as a platform for saying that the U.S. is in a "depression" — just six days before the election — the redder belonged to Dr. Martin Feldstein, the new chairman of President Reagan's Council of Economic Advisers (CEA).

Feldstein had "briefed" the 71-year-old Chicago economist, recent winner of the Nobel Prize, to guard against what actually occurred. No one tells Dr. Stigler what to say or not to say. But after his briefing, Feldstein was satisfied that the famous economist would say nothing to the White House press corps that could hurt Reagan or the Republicans.

Other White House aides had hoped to cash in on Stigler's visit to receive Reagan's congratulations for the Nobel Prize. They remembered his remarks over network television a week earlier when he gave Reagan an "A" for his performance as president. They were counting on a repeat performance, but instead Stigler handed the Democrats explosive ammunition to be fired at Republican candidates across the country trying to fend off the unemployment issue.

Why Reagan Skipped California President Reagan stayed out of his home state of California the last week of the mid-term election campaign because of recommendations from a New York-based Democratic pollster, over-riding pleas for help from the Republican candidate for governor.

Pollster Richard Dresner, working in San Diego Mayor Pete Wilson's Republican campaign for the Senate against Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr., cautioned that a late Reagan visit would energize Democrats. The Wilson campaign, accordingly, asked the president not to come.

White House political aide Ed Rollins argued that a final-week Reagan visit would get Southern California Republicans in Orange and San Diego Counties behind State Attorney General George Deukmejian's late charge to catch Los Angeles Mayor Tom Bradley for governor. But beating Jerry Brown is the top White House political priority, and the president heeded Wilson's wishes.

Chicago Loves Glenn The hearts of Chicago's regular Democratic organization may still be with Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, but their heads are inclining toward Sen. John Glenn for the 1984 presidential nomination.

The Chicagoans never have recovered from the way President Jimmy Carter wiped Kennedy out in the 1980 Illinois primary. Democratic leaders there have doubts about Glenn's charisma but, as of now, consider him the best bet to beat Ronald Reagan.

A footnote: The Chicago drift to Glenn may include Mayor Jane Byrne, Kennedy's Illinois leader in 1980. For now, however, she is concentrating on closing the gap between her and state's attorney Richard Daley Jr. in the mayoral primary next March.

The Navy And Politics National Republican operatives have been steaming over the year-long stream of press releases by Rep. Phillip Burton, the most prestigious Democratic House member endangered for reelection, announcing the arrival of U.S. Navy warships for refitting and berthing in Burton's San Francisco Bay District.

The aircraft carrier Coral Sea is being refitted at Alameda, and the new carrier Carl Vinson will be based in San Francisco, where the ammunition ship Flint is also being refitted. However, Burton failed to get Bay Area refitting for the battleships Missouri and New Jersey, which ended up in Long Beach.

The Navy contends it can hardly shape its operations to defeat Burton, who recently pulled ahead of the strong challenge from Republican state Sen. Milton Marks. Nevertheless, national Republican strategists feel extraordinary efforts were justified against Burton, the architect of the California gerrymander likely to cost the Republicans six seats in Congress.

Udall In '84 The long list of Democratic presidential hopefuls is likely to have a surprise addition: Rep. Morris Udall of Arizona.

Friends who have talked to Udall have no doubt that despite his disappointing performance in seeking the 1976 nomination, he is determined to embark on a 1984 last hurrah. Less clear is how he figures to get nominated if, as he hints, he will enter no presidential primary elections. In 1976, Udall lost to Jimmy Carter in seven straight primaries.

A footnote: If he does seek the presidency again, the witty Udall will have to temporarily drop one staple from his after-dinner speaking patter. Noting Sen. Barry Goldwater's debacle as 19 Republican presidential nominee as well as his own 1976 experience, Udall has been getting laughs with this line: Mothers in Arizona, unlike other mothers, cannot tell a son that someday he can be elected president.

THIS AFTERNOON

Experience Helps

By PAUL T. O'CONNOR RALEIGH — Knowing the past, it's said, is the best way to plan for the future. When the state Department of Administration began planning for the automation state offices will need in the coming decade, it took this axiom to heart. Who better to plan for that office than people who've been bringing major changes to business offices for the past 40 years?

Under the state's Retired Senior Executives Volunteer Program, several retired business officials spent the equivalent of three work-weeks talking with state planners. They know the problems the state will encounter as it modernizes its operations and they wanted to warn the state of the pitfalls that lie ahead.

The components of the future office are no secret. It's two major elements are automation and information. In the future, automation will be more extensive and more complex. Information will come faster and in greater quantities. Those two components, the retired executives say, can create major problems with office personnel.

Office modernization begins when state government realizes that an office is receiving more information than it can handle with its current system. The time has come to buy a computer or expand the one you've already got. James Jacobs of Whispering Pines spent 35 years with Bell Telephone and saw this process get out of control. Different departments would buy different kinds of equipment and offices that were supposed to work together found themselves with technology that could not be integrated. Once you've decided on the equipment with which you'll automate, you have to schedule its arrival — and probably the departure of retraining of some of your employees. "First of all, the whole office has to be automated as a whole," Edward Baker of Morehead City, a retired shipping executive, said. "You go in and automate one part and you'll foul up all the others." But, Baker warned state officials, "you can't outrun your blockers" on automation. People are afraid of computers and if you try to bring automation too fast, you'll have problems with your employees. Automation creates roadblocks to advancement, retired Western Electric Vice President William Opdyke of Greensboro said. Workers could move up the ladder in their old jobs as they gained experience. In the automated office, they need complex computer training to do the better paying jobs. Any businessman knows the problems created when his employees feel they're at a dead end.

Other Editors Say High Tech Lag

(Wilson Daily Times)

The country that surges ahead in high technology will have the dominant economy in the world for the foreseeable future. That statement comes from James Botkin, a consultant and writer on technology, management and education. He is co-author of "Global Stakes: The Future of High Technology in America."

High technology — electronics, computers, microprocessors, semiconductors — is perhaps the fastest growing economic sector and the most pervasive. But in spite of the importance of high technology, the government has no economic policy relevant to the high-tech industry. Because of this we run the risk of falling behind the Japanese, who are already making inroads into the next-generation computer-chip market. In fact, we are perhaps already a good way behind them.

A former Foreign Minister of Japan told Botkin that they have three times the scientists and engineers that the U.S. has. The Japanese says it will take the U.S. 10 years to catch up with Japan if it starts now.

But the problem isn't the lack of interest. More freshmen want to go into the high-tech field than schools can handle. But the schools are lacking in faculty and equipment and graduate-level pay incentives are too small to keep people in school to get the advanced degrees necessary to prepare them for teaching. There's a big difference in working for a doctorate at a research assistant's salary of $900 or so a month when private industry pays $2,700 to $3,000 a month. So the problem is a faculty shortage. This has been emphasized over and over throughout the educational system. There's a shortage of qualified teachers in math and science in high schools, and it extends on to the college level. Higher pay scales for teachers in fields considered crucial to the economic world of tomorrow have been suggested but teachers and educators apparently feel this isn't the answer to the problem and two pay schedules for teachers are apparently opposed. So the problem remains unresolved as we move forward daily in the high-technology field.

The educational system is going to have to face the facts or we may reach the stage of technological illiteracy. We can't afford to fail to prepare the people for their place in the high-tech field; for every segment of the economy will be involved in this field in the future.

Strength For Today

STREAM OF LIFE
An elderly minister tells the story of being called on one occasion to go to the home where a husband and wife had about decided to end their marriage. When the minister asked the husband to state as plainly as possible the facts of the case, the young man replied, "Pastor, there's not enough Jesus in this house."

The newspapers make us constantly aware of the mounting divorce and juvenile delinquency rate. Often the squabbles between husbands and wives become the spiciest copy with which the sensational newspapers deal. There are acts of cruelty, infidelity, neglect, self-indulgence.

Jesus Christ came into the world to teach people the divine way of love. The Bible tells us that God is love, which means that love is the substance of His being. We are in the stream of life when we love; we are washed up as corpses on the shore when for any reason we do not live the life of love. — Elisha Douglass

Did Housing Costs Really Fall?

By JOHN CUNIFF AP Business Analyst NEW YORK (AP) — With housing markets likely to revive by spring, assuming no additional problems from interest rates, potential buyers are asking: Have housing prices really fallen into the bargain basement area?

That contention has been spread widely by authors, some stock analysts, and certain members of the housing industry. But fact isn't clear as contention, and the latter cannot be relied upon as a guide to individual prices.

Moreover, only time can tell whether depressed prices, where they exist, will return to former levels. Even then comparisons may be inexact because, among other things, the concept of a house is changing. But there are clues.

Over the past year nominal prices of existing homes rose about 1.5 percent, according to the National Association of Realtors. But, says Realtor economist Kenneth Kerin, that means prices actually declined, probably by 6 percent to 8 percent, because of inflation and the costs of below-market seller financing.

By some estimates, the need for sellers to include financing in the sale package reduced actual prices by as much as 25 percent. The amount financed varied greatly, but many sellers in effect lent $10,000 or $20,000 to buyers at rates several points below existing interest rates.

Apartment house owners who converted to cooperatives and condominiums often "bought down" rates, frequently by three to five percentage points for three years, the assumption being that economic conditions would improve by then. On a $40,000, 30-year mortgage such a buy down amounts to at least $3,468.

In the past year the median price of new, single-family homes remained almost stationary at $72,000, according to the National Association of Home Builders. But, says Robert Sheehan, director of economic research, as the economy recovers prices should slightly exceed the inflation rate.

The lack of price appreciation in the past, however, doesn't by itself mean that current prices are relatively low. The product itself has changed; as with so many other items, the size if not the quality has shrunk.

In 1978, according to the Realtors, the median size of new single-family homes was 1,655 square feet. In 1981 it was 1,550 feet, and the number of homes with one bath and fewer bedrooms was on the rise. Newer houses, therefore, cost more on a square footage basis even if price tags remain the same.

The type of housing also has changed. Less than a decade ago the standard single-family house had a private backyard. But, because of high land prices and the need to keep housing prices in an area affordable to the market, many builders have gone in for cluster housing, in which individual houses share common green areas. And in some instances, the houses also share common walls.

As always, where you live has a great deal to say about how much you can ask for your house. Some people maintain that over the past few years the old maxim of "location, location, location" as the most important factors in assessing a house gave way to "financing, financing, financing." But location, on both a local and national basis, still seems to be a big factor.

A Realtor survey of prices showed the average for existing homes sold this fall was $147,000 in San Francisco and only $54,600 in Detroit. Washington, D.C. averaged $104,200, but 130 miles away in Philadelphia the average was $65,100.

If anything, the evidence suggests once again that real estate is not just a local rather than a national market, but that it is a market of houses separately and independently priced. Averages are a guide. But they do not set the price of houses.

Election Gains For Blacks, Hispanics

By BETTY ANNE WILLIAMS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Blacks increased their numbers in the House of Representatives as incumbents held on to their seats in the midterm elections and newcomers won in New York, Indiana and Missouri.

It appeared likely that the number of black congressmen would jump from 18 to 21.

In addition, Hispanics seemed almost certain to increase their representation in Congress from six to eight by adding members from California and Texas.

New Mexico also elected the nation's only Hispanic governor, Democrat Toney Anaya, who once was the state's attorney general.

In California, Los Angeles Mayor Tom Bradley was locked in a tight contest to become the nation's first black governor in modern times. With 80 percent of the vote counted, Bradley was leading state Attorney General George Deukmejian, the Republican.

The 17 black incumbents who sought re-election to the House had either won their races or were leading early today. The tightest contest involved Rep. Ronald V. Dellums, D-Calif., who was seeking his seventh term.

Reps. Julian Dixon, D-Calif., Augustus Hawkins, D-Calif., and Gus Savage, D-Ill., all held commanding leads over their challengers.

Four black newcomers were elected to Congress. One of them, Major R. Owens, will replace Rep. Shirley Chisholm, D-N.Y., who did not seek re-election.

The others are Edolphus Towns, also a New York Democrat, who will succeed Frederick Richmond. Richmond resigned his seat in September after he was indicted on criminal charges.

Alan Wheat, a 32-year-old Democratic state legislator from Missouri, will replace Rep. Richard Bolling, a Democrat who is retiring.

And, Indiana state Sen. Katie Hall claimed victory in a race to fill the seat left vacant on the death last

Arrest Two For Break-In

Two Route 1, Selma, residents have been arrested by Johnston County authorities and charged in connection with the Oct. 7 break-in and safe robbery at the Kash & Karry Store on N.C. 43 at Bell's Fork.

Sheriff Ralph Tyson said that George Vinson Hancock, 19, and Shirley Dixon Roberts, 24, both of Route 1, Box 941A, Selma, were arrested in Selma and charged with breaking and entering and safecracking.

Bond was set at $10,000 each, according to the sheriff, who said that Miss Roberts was also charged with passing a $15 worthless check. Tyson said she was formerly employed at the Kash & Karry Store on the Pictolus Highway.

Three Ayden residents were arrested earlier on charges stemming from the incident in which a safe, containing approximately $2,000, money orders, deposit bags and assorted papers, was removed from the store.

The safe was found near Ayden, he said, adding that it had been cut open, apparently with a blow torch. Only a few melted coins were found inside, said Tyson.

month of Rep. Adam Benjamin, D-Ind.

But Robert Clark, a black candidate who was viewed as the frontrunner in a newly redrawn district in Mississippi, lost to Republican Webb Franklin, a former circuit judge. Clark is a Democratic state representative.

The district's population is about 53 percent black, but only about 35 percent of its registered voters are black, according to one study.

The six Hispanic incumbents in Congress won or were leading in their districts. In addition, the House will have two new Hispanic members.

In Texas, Democrat

Solomon Ortiz, the sheriff of Nueces County, beat former Corpus Christi Mayor Jason Luby in a bid to represent a new district.

Esteban Torres, a Democratic businessman from La Puente, won against Republican Paul Jackson, a superior court referee, in a contest for an open seat in California.

In a match where two incumbents were pitted against one another, Rep. Matthew Martinez, D-Calif., was ahead of Rep. John Rousselot, R-Calif., with about 54 percent of the vote.

Reps. Edward Roybal, D-Calif., Robert Garcia, D-N.Y., Eligio de la Garza, D-Texas and Henry B. Gonzalez, D-Texas, won reelection by overwhelming margins. Rep. Manuel Lujan Jr., R-N.M., had a slightly more difficult time but also was re-elected with about 53 percent of the vote.

The black incumbents who were re-elected are Walter Fauntroy, the non-voting delegate from District of off of me." During Baker's 35 years in shipping, he'd fought the office automation battle several times.

But what did the retirees get from their voluntary work? Several said they wanted to repay North Carolina for all it had given them. Many worked in other states and just recently retired here. Others said they wanted to keep busy without taking a full-time job.

Baker, at 74, may have said the best, however. "I was just delighted that somebody thought I could still do something useful."

Store Is Robbed Tuesday Evening

A reported $133 in cash was taken from Harper's Store at 208 Grand Ave. in a 7:15 p.m. robbery Tuesday, Chief Glenn Cannon said this morning.

Cannon said Clarence Harper told investigators a man entered his store and demanded money. He said the intruder then pushed Harper to the floor and threatened to kill him with a stick before taking the money from the cash drawer.

Investigation of the incident is continuing, Cannon said.

First Black On Alabama Court

WASHINGTON (AP) — Oscar Adams is the first black man in Alabama's history to win election to a statewide office. He was elected as a member of the state's Supreme Court. Adams, who has been serving on the state high court since appointed by Gov. Fob James to fill a vacancy, ran unopposed Tuesday because his opponent, Tom Hayden, was disqualified and barred from the ballot. Adams' Birmingham law firm on occasion represented the late Rev. Martin Luther King in his famed scraps with the Alabama authorities.

Shot Alleged Killer, Is On Trial

LUEBECK, West Germany (AP) - Headlines, television and strangers on the street call her "Anna's mother."

Her story has fascinated a nation unaccustomed to crimes of passion and has stirred public debate about how the final chapter should end.

In March 1981, Marianne Bachmeier walked into a courtroom in Luebeck, pulled a pistol from her pocketbook and pumped eight bullets into the man accused of molesting and strangling her 7-year-old daughter, Anna.

Klaus Grabowski, a 35-year-old butcher voluntarily castrated after a previous conviction for child molesting, died on the courtroom floor.

Now, Marianne Bachmeier is standing trial for murder.

Judge Peter Bassenge closed the opening session Tuesday after eight minutes as more than 300 reporters, photographers and spectators vied for 200 seats. The trial, expected to last about six weeks, is being heard in a state building to avoid holding it in the courtroom where Grabowski was shot.

The 32-year-old defendant is being tried by three male judges and two lay assistants - a salesman and a male teacher.

Because of strict firearms control, gun violence is rare in West Germany, and Ms. Bachmeier has become something of a national figure.

Since mid-August, the weekly magazine Stern has run a series based on weekly interviews with Ms. Bachmeier during the 545 days she spent in jail awaiting trial.

The tale of her "ruined life" tells of rape, an alcoholic father, and a strict stepfather who kicked out the 17-year-old when she had the first of three illegitimate children.

By the time Anna was born, the young mother had already given her first two children to authorities for care.

Ms. Bachmeier rejected Anna's father, married a Pakistani so he could stay in West Germany, and lived with a third man.

Tabloids and even national television have pondered whether "Anna's mother" should have killed Grabowski.

State prosecutors and the three defense lawyers expect testimony from psychiatrists to play the largest role in determining what sentence will be handed Ms. Bachmeier.

A urologist also plays a crucial role since he gave Grabowski hormone injections thought to have restored his sexual drive.

Some writers beg mercy - a pardon, perhaps - for the avenging mother. Others insist she serve all or most of the maximum life term for murder.

"Opinions, presentations and clearly stated demands to the court have piled up in a way never experienced before," this week's Der Spiegel magazine said.

On a TV program titled "I'd Have Shot Him, Too," parents were interviewed about the case.

"I wouldn't have just shot him. I would have cut him up into little bits," an elderly man declared.

Grabowski allegedly lured Anna to his apartment on May 5, 1980, strangled her with a nylon stocking and dumped her body in nearby woods.

This week's Stern recounted how Ms. Bachmeier, posing as a reporter, went to the apartment. She saw a rocking chair and thought how much Anna liked rockers. She saw sunshine streaming into the room and took comfort in it.

"When Anna died, she saw the sun," the mother was quoted as saying.

Careers Day On Campus

ECU NEWS BUREAU
 Representatives from hospitals and other health and human service agencies will visit East Carolina University Nov. 5 and Nov. 8 to interview students preparing for careers in the health professions.

About 70 prospective employers from the Carolinas, Virginia, Maryland, Florida, Illinois and Washington, D.C., will send representatives to the annual Health Careers Days, sponsored by the ECU School of Allied Health and Social Professions.

ECU students and alumni may meet with the representatives to discuss employment opportunities in their respective areas.

The visiting representatives are interested in interviewing students in medical technology, occupational and physical therapy, nursing, rehabilitation counseling, child development, psychology, social work, medical record science, dietetics, speech, language and auditory pathology, special education, recreation therapy, community health and environmental health.

Representatives will conduct interviews from 9:45 a.m. until 1 p.m. in the ECU Nursing Building Nov. 5 and from 1:30 to 4:30 p.m. in the Carol Belk Allied Health Building Nov. 8.

Students and alumni who wish to meet with the representatives need not register in advance.

Returned From China Visit

Two Greenville physicians, Dr. Richard H. Williams and his wife, Dr. Henrietta V. Williams, have just returned from a visit to the People's Republic of China as part of a people-to-people delegation in the field of rehabilitation medicine.

They visited several facilities in five Chinese cities, and made numerous professional exchanges.

The delegation, sponsored by the China Association of Science and Technology, according to the two local doctors, was well received, with the experience proving to be a very rewarding one.

Dr. Richard H. Williams, who is retired, is currently an active consultant to the National Institute of Mental Health. Dr. Henrietta Williams is a clinical psychologist with a private practice with the Nelson Clinic. She is also on the staff of the department of psychiatry, ECU School of Medicine.

By The Associated Press
 Stores pulled candy from shelves in Detroit and halted sales of some soda in New Hampshire after more reports of product tampering, including the cyanide poisoning of a 15-year-old boy. But some incidents turned out to be hoaxes.

The cyanide victim, a teen-ager in the Detroit area, apparently ate an adulterated candy bar and was hospitalized in fair condition, authorities said.

"Our department took him to the hospital... and it was confirmed this afternoon by a private testing laboratory that he had cyanide in his blood," Redford Township police Sgt. Ronald Harding said Tuesday.

Police said the grape-flavored "Now or Later" candy eaten by the youth was purchased Saturday at a Lawson's Party Foods store, and the teen-ager, whose name was not released, ate it about an hour later.

Detroit-area Lawson's stores removed the candy from their shelves pending tests by the Michigan State Police crime laboratory, Harding said.

"He ingested it, lay down for about an hour and a half and, when he woke up, he became nauseous and began vomiting," said Harding.

Since seven people died in the Chicago area after taking cyanide-laced Extra-Strength Tylenol capsules in late September, reports of contaminated products have cropped up around the nation.

In New Hampshire, a grocery store chain pulled bottles of soda from its shelves after a customer, Mary Bergeron of Seabrook, called police Monday evening to report a strong bleach odor in her Staff brand cola bottle. No one drank from the bottle, police said.

Donald Dilg, a vice president of Hannaford Bros. Co. of Portland, Maine, said all two-liter bottles of Staff soda were removed from shelves in its 100-plus stores.

Meanwhile, a second person admitted lying about finding metal objects in a Hygrade Ballpark frankfurter, a company spokesman in Livonia, Mich., said.

Michael McDaniel, 21, of Ypsilanti, called Hygrade Food Products Corp. on Tuesday to admit he had not found a nail in a hot dog as he claimed last week, the company said. Contacted by telephone, McDaniel said he was "extremely sorry."

A woman admitted earlier that she had lied about finding a razor blade in a Ballpark frank, and two other similar reports are suspect, according to Charles Ledgerwood, Hygrade vice president of operations.

Another false alarm was the report of a piece of wire in a Tootsie Roll being eaten by a child in Grand Island, Neb. Police Capt. Gene Watson said the tiny piece of wire was actually from the 12-year-old's braces.

Police in California arrested a man who allegedly claimed to have put LSD in foods at two Vons supermarkets, saying he would reveal the location of the tainted food only if Tom Hayden, a state Assembly candidate and the husband of actress Jane Fonda, publicly apologized for having opposed the Vietnam war.

Fruit and vegetables at the stores were removed for testing.

Police said Thomas Blankenship, 29, was arrested in Santa Monica shortly before midnight Monday, in a phone booth about three blocks from a market where he allegedly said products were contaminated.

In Morgantown, W.Va., stores were pulling Vicks Headway cold capsules from shelves after a woman said she was made ill by a tainted capsule, experiencing chest pains and vomiting.

The woman took the medicine about a week ago, said Dr. Bette Hinton, director of the Monongalia County Health Department. Tests indicated the capsule contained a strong hydroxide chemical, she said.

A 21-year-old man who swallowed a needle while eating some of his son's Halloween candy was hospitalized in good condition in Tulsa, Okla., authorities said.

Police said they were trying to learn who gave out the candy, one of nine cases on sabotaged treats in the area.

In Minneapolis, deputy police chief of investigation Bernard Jablonski said a tube of Crest toothpaste was turned over to federal officials for testing after a 56-year-old woman reported a burning sensation in her mouth after brushing her teeth.

The toothpaste was bought at a Dayton's store, and a spokesman said the store had removed Crest from its area stores.

In Florida, a state lab on Tuesday began testing milk that sickened a Dade City baby on Sunday. Eleven-month-old Tara Briscoe was hospitalized after she spit out the milk and it smelled funny to her mother, authorities said. The baby was released Monday.

Authorities said the milk might have been contaminated by paint thinner, bug spray or some other chemical.

Avers Haig A Bad Guess

TACOMA, Wash. (AP) — Alexander Haig wasn't close enough to the White House in the early 1970s to be the "Deep Throat" tipster in the Watergate scandal, says a former administration official, William Ruckelshaus.

Ruckelshaus said Tuesday that Haig "still was working for" then-Secretary of State Henry Kissinger as No. 2 guy in the Security Council at the time "Deep Throat" was talking to Post reporters Bob Woodward and Carl Bernstein.

"I don't think he was close enough to the White House to have the information," said Ruckelshaus, now a senior vice president at Weyerhaeuser.

Ruckelshaus was Deputy Attorney General under Elliot Richardson until both quit in protest over President Nixon's firing of special prosecutor Archibald Cox.

Former White House Counsel John Dean, in a new book, said Haig has to be the "Deep Throat" who leaked information to the Washington Post because he was among the few people who knew enough about the mer workings of the Nixon administration.

On Monday, Haig discussed the Dean conclusion as "absurd," Bob Woodward the Post chuckled and said he couldn't comment.

Police List 3 Collisions

An estimated $11,510 damage resulted from three collisions investigated by Greenville police Tuesday. Officers said heaviest damage resulted when cars driven by Pamela Cheryl Sanders of 1202 E. 14th St. and Anna Brabble Adams of Route 6, Greenville, collided about noon on Greenville Boulevard, 450 feet west of the Red Banks Road intersection. Police, who charged Ms. Adams with failing to see her intended movement could be made in safety, said both drivers were injured in the collision. Damage was estimated at $4,500 to the Sanders car and $1,500 to the Adams auto. Cars driven by Mildred Green Brown of 316 Rutledge Road, Bobby Ray Boyd of 117 Greenway Drive and Beverly Yvonne Person of 426 W. Fifth St. collided about 4 p.m. at the intersection of Farmville Boulevard and Line Avenue. Investigators, who reported a passenger in the Person car was injured, estimated damage at $1,500 each to the Brown and Boyd cars and $2,000 to the Person vehicle. Vehicles driven by Shirley Harris Taft of 1211B S. Pitt St. and George Delton Mills of 316 Springhill Road collided about 7:40 a.m. on Fifth Street, 30 feet west of the Nash Street intersection, causing $10 damage to the Taft vehicle and $500 damage to the Mills car.

Placed Second In Photo Contest

BURLINGTON — Pitt County Deputy Sheriff Billy Tripp placed second in the photography competition at the annual meeting of the North Carolina Division of the International Association of Identification held here over the weekend. Tripp, a veteran of six years as an identification officer with the sheriff's department, won the award for a display of crime scene photographs which included detailed pictures of tennis shoe tracks. An identification officer with the state medical examiner's office, Bill Brickhouse of Chapel Hill, took first place in the competition. A former employee of The Daily Reflector, Tripp served with the Greenville Police Department as an identification officer for 12 years before becoming a deputy sheriff. An estimated 75 law enforcement identification officers attended the conference.

Coal-Burning Ships Are Finally Enjoying A Comeback

By GRAHAM HEATHCOTE
Associated Press Writer
LONDON (AP) — The first coal-fired ship to enter sea-going service for nearly 30 years, the River Boyne, tied up recently with a full cargo at an Australian east coast wharf after its maiden voyage from Japan.

"The journey marks the rebirth of coal as fuel in world shipping because of the high price of oil," said Paul Holbrook, a senior surveyor with Lloyd's Register of Shipping in London.

Lloyd's, which has been inspecting and classifying ships since 1760, kept close watch on the design and building of the new vessel at the Mitsubishi yard in Nagasaki, Japan, and has published guidelines for the industry on how to use coal in safety at sea.

"Fuel is the largest single item in the overall operating costs of a ship, so it's not surprising that shipowners are looking for new ways to achieve savings in this area," Holbrook said in an interview.

Although coal-burning may revive memories of stokers moving coal to furnaces by wheelbarrow and shovel and sweating in the tropics, Holbrook said: "Who could you get to do that now? The modern stokehold is entirely automated."

So far, only shipowners in Australia, the United States and Spain have committed themselves to ordering the new generation of coal-fired vessels, with six ships abuilding.

Lloyd's is confident that coal-burners will increasingly be sliding down the slipways. Shipyards in Italy, Japan, South Korea, Spain and the United States are entering the business and some of the technical experts engaged will address a conference in London this month on coal-fired ships, the third in three years.

The American order to a Quincy, Mass., shipyard is from the New England Power Co., which wants several coal-carriers able to burn the same coal which they transport for power stations.

The 74,500-ton River Boyne, owned by the Australian National Line, was designed to carry bauxite from Weipa on the Queensland northeast coast, 1,250 miles to Gladstone, where Queensland Alumina Ltd. operates a smelter. Three similar vessels are on order for the route, one from Nagasaki and two from Trieste, Italy. The oil burners will be phased out.

Lloyd's reported that Chris Beggs, the Australian National Line engineer in charge of new construction, said the River Boyne's voyage from Japan to Weipa and Gladstone, "went like a whisper." The vessel arrived in Australia Oct. 19.

He said all the plant worked perfectly and there was little to indicate that coal was being used.

The vessel's fuel bunkers hold 3,000 tons of coal for 4,500 nautical miles, more than enough to cover the voyage from Japan. The ship refuels at Gladstone from Queensland-mined coal while discharging its cargo.

"The capital cost of building a coal-burner is 20 percent more than a conventional ship, but the price of fuel oil is around $180 a ton against a price for the Australian coal of $30 to $37," said Holbrook.

"The Australians were first into the business. They operated the last coal-fired ship and they have no indigenous oil," he said.

"Coal has only two-thirds the heating value of oil and three times as much coal in weight is needed for the same power output," Holbrook said.

"To carry that amount of coal a ship has to lose about 10 percent of its cargo capacity — you can't put coal in little tanks at the bottom of the hold. So ships will be made larger.

"Even with all that, coal is only half as expensive as oil. The world has enough coal for several hundred years, while oil is expected to run out in the next century."

An Australian National Line advertisement seen in London says the River Boyne cost $50 million to build and could save up to $12 million in its first 15 years at sea.

In other developments, a shipyard at El Ferrol, Spain, is converting two big tankers for coal burning and a South Korean yard is preparing to convert two coal-fired bulk carriers from tankers originally designed to transport liquefied natural gas.

Oppose Naming Watts Protege

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Sierra Club says it opposes the expected nomination of Donald Hodel, a protege of Interior Secretary James Watt, for the post of energy secretary.

In a letter to President Reagan, Sierra Club president Denny Shaffer said Monday that Hodel would be a poor choice because of his record from 1972 to 1977 as head of the Bonneville Power Administration in Portland, Ore.

Since 1981, Hodel has been Interior Secretary James Watt's No. 1 deputy at the interior department.

Nuke Freeze, And Death Penalty Win Referenda

By SCOTT KRAFT
Associated Press Writer
The District of Columbia voted itself a new constitution — a step closer to statehood. Massachusetts restored the death penalty. And Americans in at least six states called for a worldwide nuclear weapons freeze in the most crowded proposition ballot the country has seen since the Depression.

In the country's most expensive proposition campaign, an attempt to regulate California's five million handguns failed in balloting Tuesday, by a 2-to-1 margin. Spending on the issue totaled more than $7 million.

A bottle-deposit law was affirmed in Massachusetts, but the idea of plunking down a nickel for returnable bottles and cans didn't win enough converts out West — voters in California, Arizona, Colorado and Washington state defeated bottle bills.

The nuclear arms freeze referendums, like one passed by Wisconsin in September, gathered solid backing in Massachusetts, Rhode Island, New Jersey, Oregon, North Dakota and Montana. Similar measures were leading in Michigan and California, and trailing in Arizona.

Nebraska's "save the family farm" constitutional amendment, which would keep non-family corporations from buying or operating farms in the state, held a narrow lead early today. With a third of the precincts reporting, 79,082, or 51 percent, favored the proposal and 74,309 opposed it. Many rural votes remained to be counted.

In adopting a constitution, Washington, D.C., citizens "affirmed their determination to leave colonial subjugation behind," said Charles I. Cassell, president of the convention that drafted the document approved Tuesday. "New Columbia," it would be called, but the Congress — meeting in Washington, of course — would have to allow the 51st state to join the union.

The vote had been close because of the constitution's Utopian provisions. Among other things, it calls for a guaranteed job or income for every district resident, allows police officers to strike and would ban any restriction on a woman's right to have an abortion. A city business group says it will cost Washington $54 to comply with the jobs provision.

Massachusetts' constitutional amendment to allow a death penalty was approved by 688,472 voters, or 59 percent, compared to 471,273, or 41 percent, with 62 percent of the ballots counted. The amendment cleared the way for the Legislature to determine which crimes will be punishable by death. No one has been executed in Massachusetts since 1947.

Several states adopted a hard line against crime. By a 4-to-1 margin, Colorado passed a measure that denies bail to people accused of capital crimes.

And in Florida voters approved a state amendment to loosen the standard for what constitutes an illegal police search and a second amendment that would let judges hold more crime suspects without bail before trial.

Meanwhile, an amendment to New Hampshire's constitution, carrying more than 70 percent of the vote Tuesday, reaffirms for its citizens the right to bear arms.

In Maine, voters rejected by a 55-45 percent margin a referendum to close the Maine Yankee nuclear power plant. A similar proposal lost in 1980.

Washington state voters defeated a measure that would have put a legal cap of 12 percent, or 1 percent percent higher than the federal discount rate, whichever is higher, on the interest rates banks, credit companies and retail stores can charge state consumers.

Gambling measures were losing in Montana and South Dakota, where voters were rejecting proposals to permit gambling on cards and other games of chance. But Minnesotans passed a ballot measure to allow parimutuel betting on horseracing. And North Dakota dealt themselves another round of blackjack, voting down an effort to curb its year-old law allowing charitable gambling.

Ohio voters derailed a proposal to raise the state sales tax a penny — and pay for a "bullet train," which would shoot between the state's largest cities at 150 mph. With more than three-fourths of the vote counted, the proposal trailed 77 percent to 23 percent.

In Alaska, a controversial proposal to spend up to $2.8 billion to move Alaska's capital from Juneau to Willow — 580 miles and two time zones west — was trailing in early returns. With 138 of 437 precincts reporting, 29,474 opposed moving the capital and 18,332 favored the move.

A $170 million prison bond issue designed to alleviate overcrowding in New Jersey's state and county jails was approved overwhelmingly, and officials immediately stepped up negotiations with officials in cities considered likely candidates for new 500-bed medium security prisons.

Missourians voted to hike their state sales tax by a penny, generating about $300 million — half to be distributed to local school districts and the rest to be used to lower property taxes. But the state defeated a proposal to raise the gasoline tax by 4 cents a gallon, to 11 cents.

In local voting, Portland, Ore., overwhelmingly approved a resolution asking the U.S. government to end its military aid to El Salvador's rightist government.

And followers of an Indian guru swept control of Antelope, Ore., from older residents who once tried to vote the community out of existence rather than be taken over. Disciples of Bhagwan Shree Rajneesh elected follower Ma Prem Karuna as mayor and nailed down three of the six city council seats.

"They've got a captive town, that's for sure," said defeated Councilman Don Smith. "It's too dang bad."

Special Interests' Millions Missed Most Targets

By OWEN ULLMANN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Conservative Political Action Committee, which gained notoriety in 1980 for shooting down Senate liberals, missed nearly all its targeted incumbents for 1982 despite a multimillion dollar campaign of negative advertising.

Another well-financed conservative group organized by Republican Sen. Jesse Helms of North Carolina fared as poorly despite its equally impressive campaign chest, as 16 of 18 endorsed House and Senate candidates went down to defeat and a 17th trailed in a tight race.

NCPAC — known as "Nickpack" — spent an estimated $4 million to repeat the controversial campaign technique it pioneered so successfully in 1980 — tough political attacks on 34 Senate and House members targeted for defeat.

But the play seemed to backfire this time, and even some of the challengers who stood to benefit from NCPAC's independent campaign said their cause was hurt.

Fifteen of the 17 senators on NCPAC's hit list were re-elected Tuesday night and one other clung to a narrow lead. Only one target lost — Democrat Howard Cannon of Nevada.

The story was the same in the House, where all 17 targets won re-election.

Surviving the NCPAC attacks, easily in most cases, were 13 Democrats: Edward Kennedy of Massachusetts, Paul Sarbanes of Maryland, Robert Byrd of West Virginia, Lloyd Bentsen of Texas, Howard Metzenbaum of Ohio, Daniel Patrick Moynihan of New York and George Mitchell of Maine. Jim Sasser of Tennessee, Donald Riegle of Michigan, Dennis DeConcini of Arizona, Quentin Burdick of North Dakota, John Melcher of Montana and Spark Matsunaga of Hawaii.

Republican targets Lowell Weicker of Connecticut and Robert Stafford of Vermont also were victorious in their re-election bids, while fellow Republican John Chafee of Rhode Island held a narrow lead.

Among the House Democratic leaders to best NCPAC attacks were Majority Leader Jim Wright of Texas, Majority Whip Thomas Foley of Washington, Appropriations Committee Chairman Jamie Whitten of Mississippi, Ways and Means Committee Chairman Dan Rostenkowski of Illinois and Budget Committee Chairman James Jones of Oklahoma. NCPAC had spent more than $200,000 against Wright and more than $100,000 against Jones.

NCPAC, one of the most effective political fundraising organizations in the country, spent more than $650,000 to defeat Sarbanes and more than $500,000 to oust Kennedy, but each won handily.

In fact, NCPAC's campaign against Sarbanes became a major issue in that race. Sarbanes repeatedly assailed the questionable tactics of an outside political force, while GOP opponent Lawrence Hogan disowned the conservative group, which had endorsed him.

"We were victims of an unprecedented assault by extremist forces which came into this state trying to manipulate the voters," Sarbanes said in his victory speech Tuesday night.

In 1980, NCPAC spent more than $1 million in its then novel negative campaigns against six Senate liberal Democrats and later claimed credit for the defeat of four of them: Birch Bayh of Indiana, John Culver of Iowa, George McGovern of South Dakota and Frank Church of Idaho. Targets Thomas Eagleton of Missouri and Alan Cranston of California were re-elected.

Flush from its victory and extensive media attention, NCPAC announced an expanded list of Senate and House targets for 1982.

NCPAC also ran a more traditional positive campaign on behalf of 62 House and Senate candidates. It fared better in this campaign, seeing the election of two of the five Senate candidates it endorsed and 28 of 57 House candidates it backed.

Helms' conservative group, the National Congressional Club, saw all four of its Senate candidates go down in defeat. Only one of its 14 endorsed House candidates was victorious, Republican Rep. James Hansen of Utah. Another Helms-backed GOP incumbent, Bill Hendon of North Carolina, was behind in his race by a very slim margin.

Despite their poor performance in defeating or electing members of Congress, NCPAC and the Congressional Club proved to be the top fund-raisers in the country.

Through June 30, according to the Federal Election Commission, the Helms group raised $7.7 million for the 1982 campaign and NCPAC raised $7.3 million. Each group was expected to raise $10 million by the end of the campaign.

Other special interest groups had mixed success in their campaigns to elect friends or defeat enemies. Their level of success generally rose with the number of incumbents they endorsed, a trend resulting from the fact that only two senators and 20 House members lost re-election bids.

Here is a brief rundown on how some other interest groups fared:

— Organized Labor: The AFL-CIO's political arm, the Committee on Political Education (COPE), saw 19 of 29 endorsed Senate candidates and 235 of 368 House candidates elected or ahead in their races. Virtually all of the candidates were Democrats. Including unions that are not affiliated with the AFL-CIO, organized labor spent a record $17 million on this year's Senate, House and gubernatorial races.

— Big Business: The U.S.

Chamber of Commerce saw five of eight endorsed Senate candidates but only 37 of 90 House candidates winning or leading their races. The Business-Industry Political Action Committee saw only six of 15 Senate candidates and 44 of 106 House candidates winning or leading their races. Government records show that business-oriented groups spent more than $45 million on the election, almost all of it on Republicans.

— Women's Rights: The National Organization of Women, which hoped to raise

$2 million to $3 million on state, local and national elections, saw six of 14 endorsed Senate candidates and 60 of 94 House candidates winning or leading their races. The National Women's Political Caucus saw 13 of 22 endorsed House candidates on the losing side along with both of its women Senate candidates — Democrat Harriett Woods of Missouri and Republican Millicent Fenwick of New Jersey.

— Abortion Rights: The National Abortion Rights Action League, which planned to spend $400,000 to help elect members of Congress who support legalized abortions, saw three of six endorsed Senate candidates and 49 of 70 endorsed House candidates winning or leading their races.

— Nuclear Freeze: A coalition of groups supporting a Soviet-American agreement to halt additions to each nation's nuclear stockpile planned to raise more than $2 million to elect friends and defeat enemies of their cause. Of 30 House enemies targeted for defeat, 11 incumbents either lost or were trailing in their races.

Prizes Offered In Blue Books

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — America's college students can now use their traditional "blue books" for something more than answering essay questions.

They can win prizes and internships by filling a booklet's pages with convincing predictions of what the world will be like in 2000 A.D. Sponsored by a manufacturer headquartered here, the Honeywell Futuristic Awards competition asks college men and women to predict the most significant technological developments by the year 2000 and to describe how they will affect our world's society, economy and environment.

A panel of science and technology experts will select 10 winners for the $2,000 cash prizes and summer internships offered to those with declared majors in electrical, mechanical and computer engineering, or computer science.

TUNIS, Tunisia (AP) — More than 60 people are dead and dozens more missing after two days of torrential rains and flash floods in western and central Tunisia, the government says.

Limitations Are Extended

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan has extended for one year limitations on financial dealings with Iran that resulted from the hostage crisis.

The limitations, termed a government emergency, were set to expire Nov. 14.

Pitt's Vote...

win re-election to his eighth term in the Senate from the realigned 9th District.

White received 9,511 votes unofficially in Pitt County, 2,347 votes in seven Martin County townships, and 824 in Chocowinity Township in Beaufort County. Ms. Keel received 2,766 Pitt votes, 311 in Martin County, and 213 in the Beaufort County precinct that is a part of the district. Ms. House trailed in her write-in effort with 921 Pitt votes, three in Martin County and three in Beaufort County. She received her largest vote totals in Greenville's 5th (105), 7th (113), 8th (163), 9th (98) and 10th (102) precincts.

While incumbent 9th District state Reps. Sam Bundy of Farmville and Ed N. Warren of Greenville had no official ballot opposition, an unsuccessful write-in campaign was waged by Fredrica Jacobson of Greenville.

Unofficially, Pitt County voters gave Bundy 10,084 votes and Warren 9,906, while Ms. Jacobson finished with 958 votes. In Greene County, which completes the 9th House District, Bundy and Warren polled 2,644 and 2,460 votes, respectively. Ms. Jacobson had only four write-in votes in Greene, according to a county elections board spokesman. She received her greatest support in Greenville precincts 5 (121), 7 (163), 8 (163), 9 (106) and 10 (118).

In the race for the 5th District seat on the Pitt Board of County Commissioners, Charles McLawhorn won election with 10,405 votes, unofficially, to 2,780 votes for W. Bruce Jones Jr. Incumbent commissioner B. Alton Gardner did not seek re-election to the board seat representing Ayden, Grifton and Swift Creek.

Area voters joined their counterparts across the state in supporting a constitutional amendment that will provide for the term of office of General Assembly members to begin on the first day of January following their elections. The affirmative margin in Pitt County was 8,473 to 4,217 votes, while statewide, with 85 percent of the precinct totals in, the issue was approved 596,009 to 240,050.

A proposed amendment to permit the General Assembly to enact general laws permitting the issuance of tax increment bonds, without voter approval, was another matter as county results mirrored the overwhelming statewide assessment opposing the change. Pitt voted to defeat the amendment by 10,482 to 1,812 and in North Carolina, the margin was almost as decisive, 697,720 negative votes to 145,141. The state figures reflected 85 percent of the precincts.

Several candidates swept to victory Tuesday without opposition, including: incumbent Pitt Sheriff Ralph Tyson; Thomas D. Haigwood, district attorney for the 3-A Prosecutorial District; Sandra E. Gaskins, clerk of Superior Court; Burner L. Tucker and R. Kelly Barnhill as county commissioners representing Districts 4 and 1, respectively; John B. Gillam III, representative from the state's 6th House District (includes Bethel and Carolina precincts); and incumbents Ralph C. Tucker and Robert G. Little to the Pitt Soil and Water Conservation District Board of Supervisors.

With 34,558 registered voters on the books in Pitt County, Tuesday's turnout total apparently fell somewhere in the neighborhood of 40 percent, based on nearly 14,000 votes that were cast in Pitt in the congressional race.

The official canvass of county elections results will be conducted Thursday by the Pitt County Board of Elections.

Gov. Jim Hunt has asked boards of education across the state not to fill vacant non-teaching positions unless they are essential and, although this suggestion doesn't affect Pitt County now, it may in January, Pitt School Superintendent Eddie West told the county Board of Education Tuesday.

West, at the board's monthly meeting, discussed memos from Hunt to the State Board of Education and from state Superintendent of Public Instruction Craig Phillips in which both officials urged freezes on positions, travel and equipment in schools.

"Although this doesn't directly affect us (Pitt County) presently, I'm sharing this with you because we may be facing some cutbacks in January," West said. "I want you to have this information and keep it in mind."

The memo from Phillips stated that the State Board of Education reviewed Hunt's memo, which urged that boards to "take whatever steps it can to reduce general fund appropriations expenditures by all schools under its jurisdiction."

Phillips' memo told local school boards that "if the economy does not improve, it is very possible that some reductions in allocations to local school systems will have to be made to get us through the year."

According to West, a freeze on filling vacant non-teaching positions might affect the number of aides in Pitt County's classrooms.

In other business: School Finance Officer Dan Thomas told board members in a financial update that funds received by the schools in October from fines and forfeitures were "above the average for the month."

The county received $18,341, said Thomas, $2,508 more than the average and the most since July. According to Thomas, the system needs an average of $15,833 in fines and forfeitures each month to satisfy budgeted income in that area.

House Seats...

lead over former Sen. Adlai E. Stevenson III after trailing in the count through most of the night.

The states where the Democrats took over the governorship were Arkansas, Ohio, Minnesota, Michigan, Nebraska, Nevada, Texas and Wisconsin.

It was a big night for comebacks staged by ex-governors: George Wallace won a fourth term in Alabama, Bill Clinton a second in Arkansas, Mike Dukakis returned to the statehouse in Massachusetts as did Rudy Perpich in Minnesota. All are Democrats.

Schmitt, a former astronaut bidding for a second six-year term, was beaten by Jeff Bingaman, the state attorney general, in a contest in which personality was as much a factor as any other issue.

Cannon, bloodied in a hard primary fight, was upset by businessman Chic Hecht.

Seventeen Republican House members were beaten, including 10 who were elected in the 1980 Reagan landslide in which the GOP picked up 33 seats. Three Democrats also lost their seats.

House Republican Leader Robert Michel of Illinois, whose district was particularly hard-hit economically, got the scare of his political life from Democrat Doug Stephens. Michel claimed victory early today, but Stephens refused to concede.

The Michel race drew campaign appearances by President Reagan and several Democrat who hope to succeed him in 1984, including Sen. Edward M. Kennedy and former Vice President Walter F. Mondale.

Rep. Eugene Atkinson of Pennsylvania, who switched from Kennedy-Democrat to Reagan-Republican last year, was beaten by Democrat Joseph Kolter.

Six House races pitted incumbents against each other — a once a decade phenomenon caused by congressional redistricting.

In New York, which lost five House seats, Republican Rep. Guy Molinari defeated Rep. Leo Zefereetti and GOP Rep. Ben Gilman ousted Rep. Peter Peysner.

In Massachusetts, Rep. Barney Frank, a liberal Democrat, beat Rep. Margaret Heckler, in one of the most closely watched contests. Democrats also won in Missouri where Rep. Ike Skelton defeated Rep. Wendell Bailey and in South Dakota where Rep. Tom Daschle beat Rep. Clint Roberts.

In California, Republican

Rep. John Rousselot was ousted by Rep. Matthew Martinez, the Democrat.

Kennedy easily won re-election in Massachusetts.

The two biggest spenders of the midterm campaign turned up losers.

Republican Gov. William Clements of Texas spent an estimated $14 million but lost his re-election bid to Democrat Mark White.

Lewis Lehrman, a Republican businessman, spent $13.5 million and did better than many expected but still lost the New York governor's race to Democrat Mario Cuomo.

N.C. Demos...

who in 1980 had confidently predicted massive GOP gains this year.

Republicans suffered a double defeat in the 23rd Senate District with Smith and Boger failing to win second terms. Jack Childers, thwarted in his 1980 bid for re-election in the 23rd District, won back his seat while fellow Democrat Robert M. Davis also won.

Democratic Sen. R.C. Soles won another term by a two-to-one margin, despite his connection with the FBI's corruption probe in southeastern North Carolina. Undercover agents spearheading the Colcor operation said they gave Soles a $500 bracelet, but he has not been charged.

Elsewhere in the Senate, Democrat Robert Jordan won re-election. Jordan is often mentioned as a candidate for lieutenant governor. Finance committee chairman Conrad R. Duncan Jr., a Democrat, won again.

Sen. T. Cass Ballenger, considered a likely GOP gubernatorial contender in 1984, won re-election, as did Senate Minority Leader Donald R. Kincaid.

Democrats swept the 21st House District, which includes Raleigh and Wake County. Six Democrats, including five incumbents, defeated five Republicans and five Libertarians.

The populous 36th House District also disappointed Republicans. Their only winner was incumbent L.P. Spoon, while six GOP challengers lost. Four Democratic incumbents won re-election, while James F. Richardson replaced fellow Democrat Gus Economos in the district that includes Charlotte and Mecklenburg County.

Republicans bumped from their House seats included Melvin L. Stamey, Frank E. Rhodes and William S. Hiatt. J.E. Lambeth and John W. Varner, Democrats who lost 37th District House seats two years ago, rebounded with victories. J. Worth Gentry came back from a 1980 defeat in the 40th District.

One bright spot for the GOP was the 27th House District, which because of redistricting had three seats and four incumbents. Republicans J. Howard Coble and Margaret P. Keese were re-elected along with Democrat Mary P. Seymour, while Democrat Ralph Edwards was not re-elected.

Races for 80 state House seats and 39 Senate positions were contested.

Rules Homicide And Suicide

Medical Examiner Stan Harris said today he has ruled homicide-suicide in the deaths of Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Gene Anderson in and near Farmville Monday afternoon.

Dr. Harris said witnesses in the Family Dollar Store recognized Bobby Gene Anderson, 21, husband of Linda Denise Moore Anderson, 18, as the man who walked into the store about 4:50 p.m. and killed Mrs. Anderson with a gunshot wound to the head. Anderson's body was found within the hour near his car between Farmville and Fountain. Harris said he died of a shot from the same gun to the mouth.

Set Up Shop In A Castle

ALLIANCE, Ohio (AP) — When it comes to surroundings, the people who run the Alliance City School system are in a class by themselves — they've set up shop in a castle.

A printing operation now occupies the castle ballroom; a drained swimming pool is used for storage and the superintendent of schools has his office in the dining room.

Glamorgan castle, acquired by the school district in 1973 for administrative offices, is a solid place to do business, says Superintendent Richard Tormasi.

"This place will last for 1,000 years if it's taken care of," Tormasi said of the 48-room castle, which was completed in 1905 for $400,000 and has walls of Vermont marble up to three feet thick.

The castle, on the National Register of Historic Places, is heated by steam from a gas-fired boiler system, Tormasi said. "Once it's heated up, it holds the heat very well," he said.

The castle was built by William Henry Morgan, whose father left Glamorgan, Wales, in 1865 and founded the Morgan Engineering Co. in Alliance.

The Morgan family owned the castle until 1939, then sold it to an Elks Lodge until it was purchased by Alliance Machine in 1964. The company donated half the $774,350 purchase price to the district and a federal grant covered the rest.

Higher than highest!

North State's Investor Certificates.

We've outdone ourselves. Our new 3-month and 6-month Investor Certificates pay an even higher rate than our "highest rate" three and six month C.D.'s.

Now, we're offering higher-than-money-market interest on our new $1,000 minimum Investor Certificates. So you can lock in a high return on a medium or short term investment.

We think Investor's Certificates make a great deal of sense in today's changing financial environment.

10.00%*

*This is an effective annual yield based on daily compounding of a nominal rate of 9.53%.

The 6-month Investor Certificate.

With a $1,000 deposit, you receive a six-month yield that is substantially higher than any six-month certificate offered by any other financial institution in North Carolina. This means that whatever interest rates are during the next six months, your savings are earning a safe, high yield.

10.125%*

*This is an effective annual yield based on daily compounding of a nominal rate of 9.65%.

The 3-month Investor Certificate.

For the short term investment, our 3-month Investor Certificate pays a much higher rate of interest than comparable 3-month certificates. In fact, with a $1,000 minimum deposit, you can lock in a rate that is substantially higher than most 6-month certificates. If you demand liquidity, invest in a 3-month Investor.

A smart investment in today's financial environment.

At North State, we feel a short to medium term investment with higher-than-money-market interest is a safe, secure method of riding out today's interest rate fluctuations. So in response to the dramatic growth and support our investors have shown North State over the past year, we're offering these "higher than highest" certificates.

Your deposits in North State's Investor Certificates are, of course, insured to $100,000. Plus, they offer you the highest return on your savings. So drop by any of our locations and ask about an Investor's Certificate.

Higher than highest is a good investment.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices gained ground today, resuming their rally of the past two sessions.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, up more than 30 points Monday and Tuesday, climbed 9.93 to 1,032.01 in the first half hour.

Advances held a small edge on declines in the early tally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Analysts found no decisive response either way to the results of Tuesday's elections, in which the Democrats gained about two dozen House seats while the Republicans maintained their majority in the Senate.

Brokers said investors were still focusing their at-ention on falling interest rates.

There has been widespread speculation that the Federal Reserve will soon announce a new cut in its discount rate. The charge the Fed imposes on loans to private financial institutions has been lowered from 12 to 9 1/2 percent since mid-summer.

Bond prices, which move in the opposite direction from interest rates, added to their recent gains this morning.

Today's early volume leaders included American Telephone & Telegraph, up 1/4 at 60 3/4; Westinghouse Electric, up 1/8 at 38 1/8; and Amax, down 1/8 at 24 1/4.

On Tuesday the Dow Jones industrial average rose 16.38 to 1,022.08.

Gainers outnumbered losers by more than 4 to 1 on the NYSE.

Big Board volume swelled to 104.77 million shares from 73.53 million in the previous session.

The NYSE's composite index rose 1.20 to 79.12. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up 6.89 at 328.62.

Truck Terminal Action Delayed

By CAROL TYLER
Reflector Staff Writer
FARMVILLE — Farmville commissioners accepted a planing board recommendation Tuesday night that the Old Monk Plant on Horne Avenue here be approved for use as a truck terminal, but adjourned the meeting until Thursday night to give themselves more time before making a decision.

Lee Miles of Bell Arthur has bought the building with plans to renovate it for use as a terminal for the Mason-Dixon Truck Lines, he told the board. He asked for a quick decision as the trucking firm is waiting for him to begin work on the renovation. One of the considerations is whether a portion of Ryon Drive can be used for trucks to back into the terminal.

Former Mayor Linwood Mercer was approved as a representative to the Mid-East Commission Board.

An affirmative action plan was approved as part of the town personnel policy.

Repairs to the town's No. 6 well were approved, including the transfer of $8,000 to pay for the repairs.

Consideration of whether to purchase an insurance package on town fire and rescue vehicles from Tadlock Insurance Agency, Greenville, was tabled. Commissioners Oliver Murphrey expressed his belief that the local insurance agencies' being given 10 days to put together a comparable package was not sufficient. Bernice Turnage, secretary-treasurer of the rural fire department, expressed his dismay that the new package will eliminate coverage on the rural truck. This is a $778 expense that will have to be incurred by the rural department, he said, in that this much will be deducted from county input for rural fire protection in the Farmville area. The commissioners agreed to refer the matter to the public safety committee for further scrutiny.

The low bid of Messer Chevrolet for a police car was accepted. A decision was made to sell a 1975 Dodge owned by the town and to transfer a 1979 Ford worth $975 to the Community Development division.

A public hearing was set for the first Tuesday in December to look at including alternate members on the board of adjustments.

Local Builders Present Awards

The Greenville Home Builders Association presented awards to the Parade of Homes winners at a meeting Tuesday night.

Award plaques went to: Stanley Peaden, for a home in Greenwood Forest in the under-$60,000 category; Bill Clark for a home in Pineridge Subdivision in the $60,000 to $90,000 category; and Tom Chapin for a home in Treetops in the over $90,000 category.

The winners were from a group of 11 homes entered in the competition. Some 900 people toured the homes during the two-day "parade."

Solar Fraction
The solar fraction for this area Tuesday, as computed by the East Carolina University Department of Physics, was 41. This means that a solar water heater could have provided 41 percent of your hot water needs.

Ladies' Night At Shrine Club
The annual Pitt County Shrine Club Ladies Night will be held Friday at 7 p.m. at the Greenville Masonic Temple.

The club will present its check to the potestate of Sudan Temple for the fund-raising activities to support the Crippled and Burn Children's Hospitals.

Utility billing is handled by the Greenville Utilities Commission. For information on your bill, call 752-7166.

Honor Moseley At Conference

Mike Moseley, director of community services at Caswell Center in Kinston, was honored recently at the annual Community Living Association conference in Hickory.

Susan White, past president of the association, which represents staff in community programs for developmentally disabled people, said in making the award, "Mike has demonstrated his commitment to community living in both his professional position and in his personal life. As the major linking pin in the Eastern Region between the institution and the community, Mike has creatively marshalled available resources to problem-solve community living difficulties."

A graduate of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and East Carolina University, Moseley is a Kinston native and is married to the former Cassandra Lane.

A-G Goes For Perfect Season, ECC Title Vs. SWE

By RICK SCOPPE
Reflector Sports Writer

Ayden-Grifton was the hunter a year ago and it was open season on Cougar. A year later, the seasons have changed and the roles reversed. Ayden-Grifton, undefeated in nine games, is the prey and the Cougars — the SouthWest Edgecombe Cougars — are the hunters.

Come Friday evening Ayden-Grifton travels to Pinetops to face SouthWest, hoping to clinch the Eastern Carolina Conference championship and put the last touches on a 10-0 season.

Ayden-Grifton coach Dixon Sauls recalls last season when the Chargers beat the Cougars, 14-0, to earn a share of the ECC title. In a drawing the next day, the Chargers gained the Division I playoff berth that goes to the top team in the league and C.B. Aycock received the Division II berth.

SouthWest Edgecombe stayed home in Pinetops — a victim of Ayden-Grifton, and a blind draw.

"Last year," Sauls said earlier this week, "we were the challenger and they had the undefeated conference record. This year, they are the challenger and we have the undefeated conference record."

Ayden-Grifton is 9-0 overall and 5-0 in the conference, one game ahead of both SouthWest and North Pitt. A loss by A-G and a win by North Pitt over Charles B. Aycock would leave the league in a three-way tie — the same as last year — and, like last year, force a drawing.

"We hope that doesn't happen," Sauls said. "We hope to win the conference championship on the field Friday night."

The task is a tough one. The Cougars, who are 7-2 overall, feature a team that includes no less than six players over 200 pounds, among them defensive lineman J.R. Jenkins (6-2, 249) and James Umstead (6-2, 230) and linebackers Wayne Mayo (5-11, 200) and James Joyner (5-11, 224).

"They have tremendous size," Sauls said.

It is that size — plus a heavy reliance on blitzing — that makes the Cougars a tough team to prepare for. "We have never played anyone at Ayden-Grifton that has the blitzing tendencies SouthWest has," Sauls said. "Without a doubt they are the best defensive team we've played this year."

Offensively, the Cougars are a power running team. They do not pass the ball often, content instead to drive straight at a foe.

SouthWest, which uses a wishbone and split backs, is led by a trio of backs: Jerome Staton, Nolan Corpening and Mayo. Both Staton and Corpening have rushed for over 500 yards; Mayo has run for over 400.

"We take a great deal of pride in our defense," Sauls said,

"and it's going to be a challenge. I feel like we're going to have to go after them. The key to the ballgame may be how aggressive we play on defense."

The Chargers lead the league in defense, giving up an average of just over 110 yards per game.

Offensively, the Chargers present a more varied attack than SWE. And, as Sauls said, "We feel like we will again have the advantage in quickness."

Quarterback Joey Kennedy could well be the focal point of the contest. Kennedy leads the ECC in passing, completing about 50 percent of his passes for over 700 yards and 12 TDs.

Kennedy threw for three scores and over 200 yards last week in A-G's 35-21 win over Southern Nash.

Kennedy, who also threw his first interception of the year last week in over 120 attempts, will try to get the ball to one of three receivers: Doug Coley, Tryone Gay or Malcolm Worthington.

On the ground, the Chargers will rely on fullback Jarvis Koonce, who led the league in rushing prior to last week with 768 yards, and tailback Worthington, who has rushed for over 600 yards.

"We're going to try to play our game, but it's going to be tough to establish an inside running game against them," Sauls said.

But, added Sauls: "We have confidence in our players, especially our seniors, and we feel we'll make the plays in order to win. It should be a hard-fought contest. It's going to be an excellent test for us as we attempt to cap off an undefeated season."

In other games last week, West Craven whipped D.H. Conley, 34-8, Farmville Central edged Greene Central, 21-12, Roanoke Rapids defeated Roanoke, 20-6, Washington rolled by Williamston, 46-6, and Creswell slipped by Jamesville, 8-0.

North Pitt had the week off.

In games this week, Conley (1-7-1, 1-3) plays host to Havelock (9-0-0, 4-0), Greene Central (0-7-2, 0-5-0) entertains Southern Nash (1-8-0, 1-4) trying to avoid a winless season, North Pitt (5-2-2, 4-1) travels to Charles B. Aycock (2-7-0, 1-4), Williamston (2-7-0, 1-6) entertains Edenton (4-5-0, 2-5) and Jamesville (4-5-0, 4-4) powerful Bath (9-0-0, 7-0).

Farmville Central (4-6-0, 3-3) and Roanoke (4-6-0, 3-5) ended their seasons last week.

North Pitt

North Pitt can lose this Friday and still gain its first post-season playoff berth — if Ayden-Grifton defeats SouthWest. But, Coach B.T. Chappell does not want to take any

Vuckovich Takes Cy Young Award

NEW YORK (AP) — Right-hander Pete Vuckovich, a model of consistency on Milwaukee's American League championship team, today was named winner of the AL's 1982 Cy Young Award.

The mustachioed pitcher, who had two eight-game winning streaks as he carved out a nifty 18-6 record, became the second successive Milwaukee hurler to win the award. Reliever Rollie Fingers was last year's AL winner.

The 30-year-old Vuckovich beat out Baltimore's Jim Palmer for the prize, recording 87 points to 59 for the Orioles' right-hander. Kansas City relief ace Dan Quisenberry was third with 40 points, followed by Toronto's Dave Stieb with 36.

With two writers voting in each AL city, Vuckovich had 14 out of a possible 28 first-place votes. Vuckovich also received four votes for second and five for third. Palmer had four firsts, 12 seconds and three thirds.

Under the voting system conducted by the Baseball Writers Association of America, a first-place vote is worth five points, second place three and third place one.

Vuckovich, a 6-foot-4, 220-pounder who was obtained in a multi-player trade with the St. Louis Cardinals in 1980, rattled off eight straight victories early in the season and then eight more from July 24 to Sept. 20 to help the Brewers' run for the East Division title.

Vuckovich pitched 2232-3 innings, compiling a 3.34 earned run average and hurling nine complete games. In the past two seasons, Vuckovich has piled up a 32-10 record for the best percentage in major league baseball.

A native of Johnstown, Pa., who currently lives in Conemaugh, Pa., with his wife, Anna, and their two sons, Vuckovich completed his sixth major league season in 1982. Before coming to Milwaukee, he played for the Chicago White Sox, Toronto Blue Jays and the Cardinals, where he won 39 games in three seasons. For the Brewers last year, he was 14-4.

Palmer, a three-time winner of the Cy Young Award, had a 15-5 record for the Orioles in 1982 and a 3.13 ERA. Quisenberry, accorded four first-place votes, had a league-leading 35 saves for Kansas City while Stieb, who received five votes for first, posted a 17-14 record with Toronto.

Rose-N'eastern Game Moved Up

The starting time for Greenville Rose's football game with Northeastern this Friday night has been moved up a half-hour, from 8 p.m. to 7:30, because of Homecoming festivities.

The Rampants are 5-4 overall and 4-2 in Division I play going into the game, the team's season finale.

Emory Worried About Early-Game Troubles

By RICK SCOPPE
Reflector Sports Writer

East Carolina University coach Ed Emory is trying to solve a puzzle — a puzzle that continues to plague the Pirates as they enter their ninth game of the 1982 season.

Call it a first-period puzzler or an early-game gag but, whatever it is called, the Pirates have not fared well in the first quarter this season and Emory is understandably concerned.

"We have talked about why we have, in the last five or six weeks, played good teams and come out of the dressing room and not played with great intensity the first five or six minutes of a ballgame," Emory said at his weekly press lunch Tuesday.

"We didn't do it against Richmond, we didn't do it against Illinois State," Emory added.

And, ECU didn't do it against 18th-ranked West Virginia. The Mountaineers, who were without starting quarterback Jeff Hostetler, scored 21 points in the first 9:12 en route to a 30-3 win.

"Basically all year long we have not been a good football team the first five or six minutes of a game," Emory said. "That's got me concerned about what we do in the locker room, what we do in warmups, or what we leave in the locker room or what our minds are doing to us once we get on the field."

Against West Virginia, it was the Pirates' own mistakes that helped lead to the lopsided defeat.

"We were concerned that we got off to a slow start," he said. "We felt like we were ready to play."

A controversial pass interference call against defensive back Sam Norris on a second and 33 from the ECU 33 all but gave the Mountaineers their second score for a 14-0 lead.

"It was not even close to pass interference," Emory said. "Sam touched the football before the West Virginia guy came into him."

Emory said ECU had film of the play, from the ground and from the air. "There's no place anybody can say there was pass interference on East Carolina. That's a big play for us."

It got worse as ECU fullback Reggie Branch fumbled a handoff at the Pirate 11 to set up WVU's third TD of the game. Thus, with 5:48 still to go in the first period, WVU led, 21-0.

"We've got 51 minutes left in the game (at that point) and we played over 50 minutes and never gave up another

Kuhn Takes Firing By Owners Like A Man

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

You can take the man out of baseball but you can't take baseball out of the man.

Love him or hate him — as club owners did Monday in Chicago on an 8-18 minority ratio in refusing to renew Bowie Kuhn's contract — but no one can help admiring the moxie of the guy.

Through certainly what must have been the most trying ordeal of his life, the patrician one-time Wall Street attorney took it like a man. He didn't whine. He didn't whimper. He didn't strike back at the hard core handful who orchestrated his overthrow.

He refused also to run away and hide, a move which would have been perfectly understandable under the circumstances.

He faced the music, tight-lipped and without vengeance.

He was back at his Manhattan skyscraper office at 5 a.m. Tuesday after a stormy airplane flight from O'Hare Airport, submitting to TV and radio interviews, answering ceaseless phone calls, accepting a parade of intruders, some offering regrets and others probing for hidden animosities.

"You must be very bitter — coming the way it did," said a visitor, noting a swing of two votes would have saved him.

Kuhn lowered his head and lapsed into deep thought. He sat beside a wide desk inundated with autographed baseball memorabilia, bats, books, Norman Rockwell paintings and layers of photographs, many with presidents and other distinguished personalities.

"Bitterness is a foreign word to me," he said. "Rancor and hatred — they're not in my vocabulary. Hurt? Yes. Disappointed? Very."

As an acting commissioner, Kuhn was inclined to be a bit stiff and aloof, at times seemingly unapproachable. It may have been the result of his upbringing — fashionable Washington, D.C., suburbs, Franklin and Marshall College, Ivy League Princeton and University of Virginia Law.

Some of the heaviest criticism hurled at him by the press was that he was often tentative, failing to make strong spontaneous decisions. He weighed every issue and seemed determined never to go off half-cocked and shoot from the hip.

Now, fired by small minority of his bosses, he acts as if some invisible bonds have snapped and he is free at last to communicate and speak his mind. The lame duck Bowie Kuhn, whom close associates always knew as a friendly and sensitive man, is showing a different face to the public.

One wonders if Bowie's baseball fate would have been altered if he had chosen to show this facade throughout his 14 years on the job.

Did his austere authoritarian veneer alienate such men as Atlanta's Ted Turner, New York Mets' Nelson Doubleday, St. Louis' Augie Busch, Houston's John McMullen and Cincinnati's William Williams, the guys who "done him in?"

Perhaps. Certainly some of the press corps found the commissioner an amusing target in such now celebrated episodes as the freezing Sunday night World Series game in Cincinnati in 1976 and the rain-interrupted sixth game in the World Series this year which went well into the morning.

The first has been dubbed the "thermal underwear" game. It was shivering cold. Everybody was complaining — umpires, press, players and perhaps fans. And the commissioner took his box near the dugout without a topcoat, without earmuffs, but apparently wearing thermal underwear.

At St. Louis this year, after a mid-game cloudburst, he waited 2½ hours to allow the game to be finished after midnight. In both instances, he invited heavy criticism.

The 1976 game had been scheduled for nighttime prime showing well in advance — meeting baseball demands for better commercial promotion — and Kuhn couldn't control the weather. In this year's game, the commissioner was governed by the tradition that never in history had a World Series game been called before its conclusion.

In 14 years, Bowie Kuhn made hundreds of decisions — good, bad and indifferent. We have been among his severest critics. Yet, in retrospect, we wonder what were the alternatives.

After all, Bowie has deep baseball roots — first as a kid working for $1 a day as scorekeeper at Washington's old Griffith Stadium, later as a rabid disciple, 19 years as the National League attorney and finally in 1969 as commissioner.

There's no doubt he knows and treasures the game — far more than some of the guys who gave him the gate.

Lillis Picked To Take Over Astros

HOUSTON (AP) — Bob Lillis, armed with a one-year contract to manage the Houston Astros, says the club needs to make some changes, but he gave no indication of plans for a major overhaul.

"The real challenge is going to be to put together a team that will jell and have the right chemistry," Lillis said Tuesday after he became the eighth manager in the club's 21-year history. "But when all is said and done, it comes down to wins and losses."

The Astros had more wins than losses under Lillis last season. The 21-year Astros employee took over as interim manager on Aug. 10 after Bill Virdon was fired. He led the Astros to a 28-23 record from there to the end of the season.

Lillis said he had learned a lot about baseball from his association with Virdon and other managers including Walt Alston, Grady Hatton, Leo Durocher and Harry Walker.

"I'll try to manage like Bob Lillis but I hope some of all of those managers will rub off on me," Lillis said.

Lillis said he didn't mind a one-year contract either.

"Walt Alston (who managed the Los Angeles Dodgers for 23 years) always did very well on a one-year contract," Lillis said. "I feel if I do well, I won't have to worry about it. If I don't, no one will have to tell me."

"I've been with this organization so long, I don't want to stand in the way of it's success. Actually, I'm looking forward to several years as manager."

Lillis has been with the Astros since the National League expanded in 1961. He was chosen in the expansion draft and played for Houston, then called the Colt 45s, until he retired as a player in 1967 with a lifetime batting average of .236.

Lillis served five seasons in the minor leagues as a scout and then as a special instructor before being named to the Astros staff in 1973.

Personal and team goals will be a priority next season, Lillis said.

"When I took over last year, we asked the players to set goals and we'll take that same approach in 1983," Lillis said.

Lillis said he hoped to finalize his coaching staff before the winter baseball meetings next month.

To Replace Mauch As Manager Angels Hire McNamara

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — The California Angels didn't waste much time in finding a replacement for Gene Mauch as their manager. John McNamara, like Mauch a veteran when it comes to the profession, will be running the club in 1983.

McNamara, who was fired last summer as the manager of the Cincinnati Reds, was named as the skipper of the American League West champion Angels on Tuesday. Mauch announced his resignation on Oct. 22.

"I'm very elated that I can come back to California with such a talented team," said the 50-year-old McNamara by telephone from Cincinnati. "I've had a number of jobs offered, but I'd hoped this (with the Angels) would be where I'd wind up."

The Angels said that club Vice President Buzze Bavasi and McNamara reached agreement by telephone last weekend, while Bavasi was in Chicago for the baseball meetings.

The managerial job is the fourth for McNamara on the big league level. He also managed at Oakland and San Diego before taking over the job in Cincinnati at the beginning of the 1979 season.

Terms of the contract, believed to be for one year, were not announced. McNamara, who served as a coach for the Angels in 1978, is scheduled to travel West next week to sign the contract.

Mauch resigned after slightly more than 1½ seasons at the California helm. He guided the Angels to their best record ever, 93-69, this past season, but was criticized when the club lost the AL Championship Series to Milwaukee, dropping three straight games after winning the first two.

In the wake of the criticism, he was offered a new contract by the Angels. However, he turned it down.

McNamara, who never advanced beyond the minor leagues in his playing days, is a native of Sacramento, Calif., and still makes his permanent home there.

McNamara first became a big league manager when he replaced Hank Bauer at Oakland on Sept. 19, 1969. The following year his club placed second in the AL West, yet he still was dismissed.

Joining San Diego in 1974, he stayed with that National League club for four seasons, with two fourth-place finishes the best his clubs could manage.

After serving as coach of the Angels, McNamara was hired at Cincinnati to replace the fired Sparky Anderson.

McNamara never has taken a club to the World Series. Ironically, in 1981, his team posted the best overall record in the season which was split because of the players' strike.

The Reds finished second, to two different teams, in the two parts of the campaign. They had won the NL West Division title in McNamara's first season with them.

His Cincinnati teams posted a 245-186 record in 1979-81, the best in the majors during that period.

This year, the revamped Reds fell apart. McNamara was fired in midseason, with Russ Nixon taking over. Eventually, the club finished with a 61-101 record, the worst in the NL.

Known as a pitcher's manager, McNamara will have his work cut out for him. Although possessing such outstanding hitters as Reggie Jackson, Rod Carew, Fred Lynn, Don Baylor, Doug DeCinces, Brian Downing and Bobby Grich, the Angels did not have a particularly strong pitching staff.

Rose Signs One-Year Contract

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Pete Rose, who will be 42 shortly after the 1983 baseball season opens, signed a one-year contract with the Philadelphia Phillies today and predicted that he would break Ty Cobb's major league career hit record after the 1984 All-Star Game.

Most of the conversation at a news conference in which Phillies President Bill Giles announced that Rose would return centered on the first baseman taking some days off during the 1983 season.

"If it's up to me, I would play every game," Rose said. "But I would go through hell in a gasoline suit if it would help the team."

Rose's new contract reportedly is worth $1.2 million with a bonus of more than $100,000 if Rose plays in more than 130 games.

Rose based his estimate on when he would eclipse Cobb's record on his continued good physical condition and on his playing in the majority of games of the 162-game season.

But Giles and Manager Pat Corrales feel that Rose needs occasional rest during the season to maintain his batting strength.

"We would like Pete to rest at times during the hot summer months," Giles said. "We would like him not to play in second games of doubleheaders."

Rose has played in 622 straight games, the 16th longest streak in baseball history. The present longest streak is 1,107 by Steve Garvey of the Los Angeles Dodgers.

In his 20-year career Rose has missed just 80 games. He has played in every game since signing with the Phillies prior to the 1979 season.

Rose's contract is based upon an agreement reached in April and lasting through 1986 which gives the Phillies the option of signing Rose on a year-to-year basis.

Rose said he now has what amounts to a career contract, and pointed out that it was good for the Phillies since it locked him in for the year in which he calculated he would break Cobb's record.

"My salary is determined each year through 1986. The Phillies have to decide by Nov. 15 of each year if they want me back. If the Phillies let me know they don't want to renew, I either retire or go somewhere else," Rose said.

Atlanta Inks Niekro To Contract

ATLANTA (AP) — Phil Niekro, the 43-year-old knuckleball pitcher who had the winningest percentage in the major leagues in 1982, has agreed to a one-year contract with the Atlanta Braves. Niekro and Braves owner Ted Turner have confirmed.

Niekro's three-year, contract expired at the end of the 1982 season, during which he compiled a 17-4 record.

Although he was the only member of the National League West championship club eligible to become a free agent, Niekro, a Brave his entire career, never considered going elsewhere.

"Yeah, we've agreed. We haven't signed the contract, but I think we're going to do that next Monday. Phil will be a Brave next year; he'll always be a Brave," Turner said.

Turner refused to disclose terms of the agreement, but the Atlanta Constitution quoted informed parties as placing the agreed-upon salary at $800,000. The newspaper also said the new contract was not thought to include any deferred payments.

"It didn't take five minutes for us to agree," Turner said. "I mentioned one figure to Phil and Phil's agent, Bruce Church, mentioned a slightly higher figure. I said, 'Ah, OK.'"

"I liked my figure better, but Phil had such a fabulous year and he's such a fabulous man. He'll probably be pitching until he's 50," Turner said.

Niekro said he only sought a one-year contract and does not intend to sign any more multiyear agreements.

"I'll be 44 in spring training," he said. "And I don't want to put myself in the position where if, for some reason, I don't want to pitch in two or three years I'd have to walk out on a contract. And I wouldn't want the ballclub to be in the position of being stuck with me longer than they felt I could pitch."

Pair Shoot Hole-In-Ones

RALEIGH (AP) — College freshmen Leslie Johnson and Jennifer Creps scored hole-in-ones while playing in the same threesome on the same hole during Tuesday's Lady Wolfpack Invitational.

Johnson's ace was the second of her career and gave her a 1-over-par round of 74 while Creps' perfect shot was her first. She shot a 1-under-par 72.

The pair scored their aces on the 140-yard, par-3 No. 8 hole on the MacGregor Downs Country Club course.

"I was using a sweet 6-iron," Johnson said. "I could tell it was right on the stick and then two guys on our men's golf team starting yelling, 'It went in, it went in.'"

NFL Strike Talks Resume Today

NEW YORK (AP) — Negotiations aimed at ending the 44-day-old National Football League strike resumed today and Ted Turner, who is willing to back a players' league, arrived at the bargaining site.

Turner, whose cable television network bankrolled the short-lived Players' All-Star Season last month, has said he is still interested in supporting the players if they attempt to establish a league of their own.

The players say they will consider going in that direction next year if they are unable to reach a bargaining agreement with the NFL.

Turner said he didn't want to set up a new league but that "we (Turner Broadcasting System) stand ready to televise the new league's games, the players' games, if they are able to play. It's just that simple."

The union tried last month to launch a 20-game all-star series. But a number of NFL teams filed legal challenges, citing the players' individual contracts which bind them exclusively to NFL-sanctioned games.

Turner, who paid the union $500,000 for each of the two games it managed to stage, said he was not adverse to continuing his financial arrangements with the players' association.

The union, on Tuesday night sent out signals to both sides in the strike.

To the Management Council, representing the owners: We've made some big concessions. Now it's your turn.

To the striking players: We've made some big promises to you. We can't keep them all.

The union, in its latest package of proposals, excludes previous demands for a percentage of television revenues and a central fund.

They had been major parts of the union's promise to its 1,500 players to dramatically restructure control of the game.

Other changes, though, are being negotiated and could become an integral part of the agreement: severance pay for all vested players and collectively bargained incentive and performance bonuses.

The league, which the past few weeks had been calling off weekend games on Tuesdays, held off this time because Commissioner Pete Rozelle "is determined not to influence the talks by cancelling the games too early," said Don Weiss, the league's executive director.

Rozelle had a busy Tuesday. He met with groups of players who asked that he take an active role in the negotiations (he said no) and asked whether the date of the Super Bowl could be changed (he said no). And he met during the afternoon with mediator Sam Kagel. The substance of that meeting was not known.

Kagel also met with the owners' executive committee and, later, with union chief Ed Garvey and union president Gene Upshaw.

The New York Daily News reported in today's editions that a change in the date of the college draft from late April to Feb. 1 (right about the same time the United States Football League holds its draft) and a major upgrading of postseason pay are also being discussed.

The Super Bowl winners' paychecks would go from $18,000 to $36,000; the Super Bowl losers' from $9,000 to $18,000; division playoff winners' from $5,000 to $10,000 and wild-card winners' from $3,000 to $6,000.

The union, when it opened negotiations with the league last Feb. 16, demanded 55 percent of all NFL gross revenues. That, Upshaw said, was "etched in stone." The owners flatly rejected the concept.

On Sept. 17, four days before the strike began, the union modified its demand to 50 percent of the NFL's television revenues. The owners were equally opposed to that.

Now that idea, too, has been set aside by the union.

touchdown to West Virginia, one of the best teams in the country," Emory said.

"We gave 'em two (touchdowns). Officials gave 'em one, our offense gave them one and the defense gave them the first one."

The Pirate offense, meanwhile, drove to the one twice but came up short both times. "Offensively, we never played with the energy or the vigor you've got to play with on Saturday afternoon in front of 50,000 folks on somebody else's field."

"We played hard but you've got to play with more enthusiasm, more vigor, and this is a concern of ours."

Part of the Pirates' problem was the Mountaineer defense. "West Virginia is a fine defensive football team," Emory said. "They might be the best defensive football team we've faced."

"They're not the best football team. I think Florida State is definitely the best."

One of the Pirates' main problems against West Virginia was the play of their linebackers — Amos Twitty and Kevin Banks. The Pirates went into the game with 11 linebackers on the injured list.

"Our linebacker play was poor all day," Emory said, "extremely poor for a Division I football team. We had very, very poor linebacker (play). We didn't have but two able to go."

Emory was also disappointed in the play of quarterback Greg Stewart and said junior Kevin Ingram will start Saturday evening against Texas-Arlington — the second start of the season for Villanova transfer.

Ingram, who started against Missouri when Stewart suffered an asthma attack, has connected on 18 of 49 passes (36.7%) for 250 yards. He has rushed for 123 yards in 66 carries.

Ingram could not play against WVU because of a bruised sternum. Said Emory:

"We have made the decision we're going with Kevin Ingram this week and Greg Stewart will come in as a reliever."

"The way we were playing at the end, I wish the game could have continued," Wilkins said. "It got to be a lot more interesting late in the game when we opened things up. But we still have some more work to do."

Wilkins and the Hawks got scoring support from Dan Roundfield with 23 points and Wes Matthews with 16, while Spencer Haywood led Washington with 21.

Nets 110, Clippers 100
San Diego's Randy Smith tied the league record for consecutive games played with his 844th straight appearance, but New Jersey's balanced scoring, led by Darryl Dawkins, overcame the Clippers.

Wilkins' 30 Points Keys Hawks By Washington

By The Associated Press
Rookie Dominique Wilkins is considered a potential offensive superstar in the National Basketball Association. Few, however, expect him to shine on defense.

Wilkins, known as the "Human Highlight Film" for his spectacular dunks at the University of Georgia, was brilliant in the Atlanta Hawks' 105-88 victory over the Washington Bullets Tuesday night, scoring 30 points and hitting his last nine shots from the field. He also held veteran forward Greg Ballard, an 18.8 points-per-game scorer last season, to six points.

"I was very pleased with the defensive effort that Dominique put out against a great player like Ballard," Hawks Coach Kevin Loughery said. "He also was hitting his jumper. He played a super pro-type game."

"Dominique had a sensational game," Bullets Coach Gene Shue said. "He played about as well as it's possible for a player to play. He did some spectacular things and he did well on defense, too."

Wilkins hit his last five shots in the third period and all four he took in the final quarter, when the Bullets never got closer than eight points. Things were going so well for him that he was sorry to see the game end.

"The way we were playing at the end, I wish the game could have continued," Wilkins said. "It got to be a lot more interesting late in the game when we opened things up. But we still have some more work to do."

Wilkins and the Hawks got scoring support from Dan Roundfield with 23 points and Wes Matthews with 16, while Spencer Haywood led Washington with 21.

Nets 110, Clippers 100
San Diego's Randy Smith tied the league record for consecutive games played with his 844th straight appearance, but New Jersey's balanced scoring, led by Darryl Dawkins, overcame the Clippers.

Dawkins, with 20 points before he fouled out, was one of six Nets in double figures. Pistons 128, Cavaliers 119
Detroit handed Cleveland its 22nd straight loss over two seasons, an NBA record, as Isiah Thomas scored 30 points and John Long added 29.

The Pistons, unbeaten after three games this season, had lost their final 14 games of 1979-80 and their first seven in 1980-81 to hold the previous longest losing streak. The Cavaliers lost 19 in a row to end last season and are now 0-3 this season.

Kings 119, Bucks 112

Kansas City handed Milwaukee its first loss and stayed unbeaten after two games as Eddie Johnson scored a career-high 34 points and pulled down 15 rebounds.

Johnson, a second-year player from Illinois, had 13 points in the third quarter and five in the final 1½ minutes of the game to keep the Kings ahead after the Bucks had cut a 14-point deficit to three.

Sidney Moncrief scored 37 points and Marques Johnson 25 for Milwaukee, and Mike Woodson added 21 for the Kings.

Sonics 120, Jazz 92
Jack Sikma scored 24 points and Seattle never trailed, building leads of 20 points in the first quarter, 26 in the second and 34 in the third against Utah.

Suns 92, Blazers 87
Phoenix blew an 18-point halftime lead before outlasting Portland in the closing minutes.

The Suns led 52-34 at intermission, but fell behind 75-74 midway through the final quarter. But a 14-8 spurt gave Phoenix an 88-83 cushion with 1:33 left, and the Trail Blazers didn't get closer than three the rest of the way.

Walter Davis scored 20 points to pace the Suns. Mavericks 113, Rockets 103
Jay Vincent and Rolando Blackman scored 19 points each to lead Dallas over Houston.

The two teams were tied 52-52 at halftime and they traded leads until the Mavericks went ahead to stay at 68-67 on a jumper by Blackman with 5:18 left in the third quarter.

Caldwell Jones had 21 points to lead the Rockets.

Chargers Go For ECC Crown...

chances against C.B. Aycock. "I think the feeling here is that SouthWest has a real good chance," said Chappell, who has led the Panthers to only their second winning season in the school's history. "We're going down there with the feeling that we've got to win," Chappell said. "It's not like we can go down there feeling we don't have to win this one."

In C.B. Aycock the Panthers face a team that has had its problems this year, having won just twice in nine outings. The Falcons will use a single wing on offense and a multiple eight-man front on defense.

"It is the single wing that has Chappell most worried. They began the year with split backs but moved to the single wing and the last two weeks they've run that totally."

Chappell said it is not a pure single wing but one that relies on straight dives and sweeps and passing — Aycock has more yards through the air than on the ground this year.

"They have two or three good receivers and one of our big problems could be if they hit two or three big plays," Chappell said.

The Falcons are led by Steve Hicks, who had caught 18 passes for 342 yards and four TDs going into last week. Jonathan Rowe had caught 10 passes for 129 yards and two TDs prior to last week.

John Thomas is the No.2-ranked quarterback in the ECC, having completed nearly 50% of his passes for almost 400 yards.

Defensively, the Falcons are strong inside the tackles but have are weak on the outside.

"Their defense is not that bad inside," Chappell said. "They've been hurt with speed outside. With the type of defense they play, if we don't throw the ball I know they'll have nine people on the line of scrimmage."

Chappell is also concerned about his team comparing scores. SouthWest whipped Aycock 41-0 last week, and North Pitt defeated the Cougars 20-14 two weeks ago.

"I hope we don't go down there thinking it's going to be an easy game," he said. "It's not going to be easy."

D.H. Conley coach Gerald Garner describes his team's battle with Havelock this week as his team's "Super Bowl."

The Vikings would like nothing more than to upset the undefeated Rams, a great way to end a not-so-great season. The Rams, who clinched the Coastal Conference crown a week ago, have other ideas.

Undoubtedly, Havelock and coach Wilbur Sasser have been waiting for Conley since last season. A year ago the Rams downed DHC, 34-14, on the field but lost off the field when they were forced to forfeit the game — and a playoff berth — because of ineligible players.

"It's a dead issue for us now," Garner said. Not so for the Rams. Reports out of Havelock have the Rams out for revenge — and more.

Garner declined comment on the reports. "There's no personal grudge," Garner said. "There's no vendetta on our part."

There may be one on the Rams' part, however, and Garner is trying to downplay that angle.

"The incident last year certainly created a rivalry," Garner said. "I feel Coach Sasser will use it in trying to get his team ready."

"I'm excited about the game and the kids are excited about the game," Garner said. "This is our Super Bowl. It's an

Unbeaten Chargers Fall To 14th In AP Prep Poll

EDITOR'S NOTE — The Reflector high school football poll will not be run this week but resume next week.

From Staff, Wire Reports

After two straight weeks at No. 12, undefeated Ayden-Grifton dropped to 14th in latest Associated Press North Carolina high school football poll that was released today.

East Forsyth, Statesville and Whiteville, meanwhile, retained their leads in the polls for classifications 4-A, 3-A and 2-A & 1-A.

Ayden-Grifton, which whipped Southern Nash, 35-21, last week, is 9-0 overall this season and goes for the Eastern Carolina Conference championship Friday night when the Chargers face SouthWest Edgecombe.

While Ayden-Grifton fell two places, the top four spots remained the same in Class 3A. Burlington Williams received 11 first-place votes to Statesville's seven. Two of the 22 voters did not rank Williams.

Ragsdale, with a 9-0 record, moved into the top 10 for the first time this season in this, the seventh poll. Lexington dropped from No.9 to No.10.

Crest and Brevard remained No.3 and No.4. Mt. Airy moved up a spot to fifth, and Clinton dropped one to sixth. North Rowan took seventh from Kannapolis Brown, which moved to No.8.

Kinston was ranked No.10 in the 4A poll, its first appearance in the top 10 this year. Kinston defeated last week's ninth-ranked team, Rocky Mount, 20-0 Friday. Rocky Mount was not ranked this week.

Henderson Vance jumped two places in the 4A poll, replacing Gastonia Ashbrook in third. Vance is 9-0 and has allowed 9 points this season.

Charlotte Independence moved to No.9 after a four-week hiatus from the top 10. Ashbrook and Jacksonville moved down one spot each, to fourth and fifth. Greensboro Page held onto sixth. Fayetteville Douglas Byrd and Asheville swapped seventh and eighth place.

Here is how a statewide panel of sportswriters voted this week in the Associated Press poll of North Carolina high school football teams. First-place votes are in parentheses, followed by points — which are awarded on a basis of 10 for first place, 9 for second, then 8, 7, etc.

UNC Looks To Take Sting Out Of Loss

CHAPEL HILL (AP) — North Carolina football coach Dick Crum says his team can help take the sting out of its disappointing loss to Maryland last week by defeating Clemson Saturday — but he knows that won't be easy.

"It should be a good football game," Crum said. "We have to be ready for everything and be able to adapt on the run if we get something we haven't seen before."

Crum acknowledges that his team's chances of winning the Atlantic Coast Conference crown are not very promising after last Saturday's 31-24 loss to Maryland.

"First, we have to beat Clemson down there, which is no small task. Second, Clemson would have to come back from a loss and beat Maryland. Their track record in College Park is not that good."

Crum also noted that Clemson has had the week off to prepare for the game. He said the Tiger offense features a strong running attack, and that it makes no difference to him whether Clemson starts Mike Eppley or Homer Jordan at quarterback.

Clemson's defense "is no different than it was last year. They fly around a lot and are a lot more aggressive."

As for his own club, Crum says the Tar Heels, who feel from 10th to 18th in the national rankings, just didn't tackle well in its loss to the Terrapins.

He said the loss was disappointing, but that it was only "minor" compared to some of the problems they will face on down the road.

"I can't fault their effort," Crum said. "They played hard up until the end of the game. We have four games left to play and the opportunity for an extra game if we play well into those."

The Question: To Work Inside Or Outside Govm't

By ROBERT WELLER
Associated Press Writer
CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) — The white-minority government's offer of parliamentary seats for "coloreds" has posed one of the most difficult political questions for nonwhites in South Africa: Whether to work within the system, or outside it, to dismantle apartheid?

The country's 2.7 million coloreds, as people of mixed race are called here, are divided over the offer, which was adopted as official policy of the ruling National Party at a recent provincial party congress.

David Curry, national chairman of the biggest colored political party, says those who refuse to consider the proposals are either naive or "choosing to use a different strategy than working within the system, which is their right."

But he adds, "It is unthinkable politically to say we are going to chuck this structure the government is offering into the dirt without examining it."

His Labor Party, which won 31 of 40 seats on the country's advisory Colored Persons Representative Council before the government dissolved it in 1979, will decide at a Jan. 3 meeting whether to take part in the eventual elections.

The Nationalists are expected to push through parliament early next year legislation to give the coloreds and South Africa's 800,000 Indians seats in parliament. A date for elections would be fixed after that.

Under apartheid — race-separation — laws, the coloreds have not had the right to parliamentary representation since 1969, and the Indians since 1948.

R.E. Van der Ross, rector of the University of the Western Cape and founder of the Labor Party, predicts the party will participate in the elections "and this will insure a reasonable degree of participation at the polls."

But he said radical colored leaders will issue widespread calls to boycott the elections.

Even among moderates, Van der Ross said in an interview, "You're not talking to people who are going to come to you cap in hand in the sense that we appreciate every little thing that you do in order that we may prove our worth as citizens and prove our worth as human beings."

The colored people, close both by blood and language to the Dutch-descended Afrikaans speakers who dominate white politics, were hurt when their "full political rights were lost through political expediency," he said.

The Nationalists, elected with less than a majority of the popular vote in 1948, removed coloreds from the voting rolls in 1956 because they tended to vote for other parties. After that, three parliamentary seats were set aside for white candidates who were to represent the coloreds' interests, but in 1969, the coloreds lost that representation too.

Anti-apartheid groups claim the new proposals also are politically expedient — that the nation's 5 million whites want the coloreds and Indians to side with them against the 21 million blacks.

Student leaders at the university, set up for coloreds under racial separation laws, are campaigning for total rejection of the plans for creating a new parliament with separate chambers for whites, coloreds and Asians.

Members of the student council, interviewed in their campus office on condition that they not be identified by name, said they rejected the plan because whites would retain the final say on important matters and because it made no provision for the black majority.

"It is a step backward because it seeks to divide oppressed people by giving elite status to certain people," said one student.

The Rev. Allan Boesak, a leader of the colored branch of the South African Dutch Reformed Church, like many radical colored leaders considers himself to be black. He says colored people will never accept a system denying blacks political rights.

Van der Ross says most colored people have little contact with blacks and some even fear that black rule would lower living standards.

"My students wouldn't like you to say so but it is true that colored people in the Western Cape have had a lot of privileges that blacks have not had, including the right of unions, freedom of movement, better education and better attention paid to their needs. This is not to say that there are not poor colored people, but there are black people who are a lot poorer."

Curry also found serious flaws in the proposals because issues affecting more than one group would be referred to a multi-racial President's Council, appointed by a state president. The state president would be elected by parliament where whites would have more votes than coloreds and Indians.

Aware of the criticism his party already has received for not denouncing the offer, Curry said that if the party chose to participate it would use "this new platform to push for one-man, one-vote."

"What choice do we have? When are boycotts and violence going to bring change?" he asked.

The proposals for change resulted in the most serious split in the National Party since it took power in 1948, but Prime Minister P.W. Botha still has 112 of 165 elected seats, more than the two-thirds majority needed to change the constitution.

Speaking Oct. 4 at a Nationalist congress in his home province of the Cape, where most coloreds live, Botha said, "After this congress gives its approval, you will see movement as you have never seen before."

Relocations Are Reimbursed

NEW YORK (AP) — Two-thirds of U.S. companies offer their new college graduate hires some or all of the same relocation benefits as current employees being transferred, according to a recent study by Merrill Lynch Relocation Management Inc.

Of 611 major firms surveyed, nearly all (95 percent) reimbursed employees in this group for the shipment of household goods.

Morale Problem In Red Army

By DAVID MINTHORN
Associated Press Writer
MOSCOW (AP) - Soviet military authorities are fighting a stiff battle against troop morale problems that could hamper the effectiveness of its armed forces.

Instances of fighting between soldiers of different ethnic backgrounds, alcohol abuse, poor physical conditioning among 18-year-old draftees and even cases of pacifism are some of the disciplinary problems discussed recently in the state-run media.

Some Western analysts have pointed to the Soviet military intervention in Afghanistan as a possible cause for some of the tensions in the ranks of the 5.8 million-member military machine.

The Soviet media make only vague references to "a limited military contingent" battling Moslem "bandits" in Afghanistan and have never given casualty figures. But Western analysts estimate that 10,000 to 15,000 Soviet troops have been killed or wounded in nearly three years of warfare and that 300,000 Soviet troops have done six-month stints of duty there.

Western experts say Soviet troops are a very formidable force in Europe - highly patriotic, accustomed to a rugged existence and armed with excellent weapons.

However, active duty in a "no frills" army is harsh even by the Spartan standards of Soviet society. For most draftees - two years in the army and three in the navy - food is poor and scarce and physical and mental abuse are commonplace.

Privates earn only 4 rubles (about $6) a month and get only 10 days leave annually. There's no changing into civilian clothes after duty hours for a night on the town. Troops are marched around in uniform during "free" time under the watchful eyes of officers and non-commissioned officers.

Harassment of troops is evidently a matter of some concern. Col. P. Goroshko, the assistant chief military prosecutor, warned this year against the practice in a military journal.

Some commanders assign subordinates "to jobs unrelated to military service or illegally release them from meeting certain obligations, assign officers and enlisted men to barracks duty under various pretexts and institute evening roll calls for them, deny leave to servicemen during holidays and restrict their right to social visits," said Goroshko in the June issue of "Communist of the Military."

As in other sectors of Soviet society, heavy alcohol consumption prompted by boredom is said to be widespread in military life. Racial discrimination appears to be the norm in service life, according to former Soviet servicemen who have described their experiences after emigrating or defecting to the West.

"Instances of drunkenness, attitudes toward fellow servicemen not condoned by regulations and negligence in performance of duties," were singled out by Gen. A.A. Yepishev, the military's chief political officer in a major speech last May.

Russians and Ukrainians in uniform are known to feel racially superior to Uzbeks and other ethnic groups of Soviet Central Asia, referring to them as "churka" - literally a wood chip or "dimwit" - and other contemptuous terms.

Ethnic disputes sometime break out into open fighting, Red Star, the armed forces daily, disclosed last month that a fistfight disrupted a soccer match between two Soviet military teams at a tournament in Lvov.

Reports of disturbances among servicemen are practically unheard of in the Soviet media, and the fact that the article was published at all suggested that ethnic problems among soldiers are widespread.

Soviet President Leonid I. Brezhnev alluded to the need for improving troop morale and combat training in a major address Oct. 27 to top officers at the Kremlin.

"The Soviet army should be up to the mark in all respects - equipment, structure and methods of training," Brezhnev said, adding that the need for "high morale" is greater today than ever before.

One reason Soviet authorities are concerned about discipline is the changing ethnic mix of the country whereby Russians and other Slavs will become outnumbered. This will be reflected in time in the armed forces, especially in the combat units.

Red Star frequently publishes pictures showing troops of different ethnic groups - there are 100 different nationalities among the 270 million population - smiling in harmony.

However, authorities acknowledge that many Red Army recruits can't speak Russian or lack fluency in the only language used by Soviet armed forces.

The "sacred duty" of military service is drummed into Soviets from childhood in school history lessons, Communist Party propaganda and the state media.

All young men and women are supposed to get 140 hours of basic military instruction from the 10th grade on and are also encouraged to join military-sponsored sports clubs to learn flying, radio operation, parachuting and other paramilitary skills.

However, Soviet officers have recently lamented the physical condition of many recruits, saying that many are inducted without being able to swim, shoot a rifle or meet basic physical fitness requirements.

Soviet press reports indicate that soldiers are bombarded with atheism lectures by political officers from the moment they join the military. But Marshal Nikolai Ogarkov, the chief of staff, and other high-ranking commanders acknowledged this year that pacifism and "religious humanism" still persisted among some troops and had to be stamped out.

Pessimism On Oyster Season

By The Associated Press
Oyster-breeding conditions this year could be better than last year - but that does not assure there will be enough tasty mollusks to satisfy everyone, marine biologists say.

Fentress H. Munden, an oyster biologist and shellfish program coordinator for the N.C. Division of Marine Fisheries, says the oyster harvest this year likely will be comparable to the harvest reported last year.

"At this point, we have no real indication that the oyster season is off," he said. "Oyster quality is good, and fishermen are getting a good price."

But not all oystermen agree with that evaluation. "I've been into it 40 years, and this is awful, this is the worst," said James R. Robinson, owner of Robinson's Seafood at Holden Beach. "They look real small, and there are none of them."

Manteo oyster fisherman Mashall Sanderlin says the season - now a month old - does not look promising. "To me it looks bad," he said. Sanderlin has been fishing the waters of the Pamlico and Roanoke sounds this year.

But early figures do not bare out all the dim predictions. A total of 8,256 bushels of oysters were landed in the state during October at an average price of $7.50 to $8.01. At this time last year, oystermen had harvested 5,074 bushels at an average price of $7.53 to $8.

To consumers, that cost is higher. Customers who buy their oysters from the rear of pickup trucks are paying $9 to $16 a bushel.

Wanchese oyster fisherman and dealer Ward W. Daniels said that conditions this year - despite early figures - tell him this year could be a lean one for oystermen.

"They're as scarce as I've ever seen them," he said. "Most of the oysters are dead. I don't really know why."

Bad Taste? Or News, To Ask Prince About Andrew

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) - Is it bad taste or good journalism to ask Prince Charles about the amorous adventures of his brother, Prince Andrew? Last week, Diane Sawyer of the "CBS Morning News," Jane Pauley of NBC's "Today" and Joan Lunden of ABC's "Good Morning America" interviewed Charles, who was in the United States for the dedication of the United World College of the American West, one of his favorite causes.

During their separate 10-minute interviews, only Miss Sawyer broached the subject of Andrew, who has been involved in much-publicized trysts with American actress-soft-porn star Koo Stark.

Within the boundaries of good taste, were questions probing his reactions appropriate?

There are newspaper editors who would go crazy if their reporters didn't ask Charles questions that many Americans wanted to know about.

And you just know that ABC's Barbara Walters or CBS' Mike Wallace would have found ways to turn the discussion toward Andrew and the reports that Charles' wife, Diana, is buying gowns galore, and their marriage is undergoing the inevitable stress any marriage goes through.

Who knows? Maybe

Charles would welcome the opportunity to offer his perspective, and defend his wife.

Miss Pauley made a "conscious decision" not to risk turning the prince off. Miss Lunden felt it wasn't her place to ask.

Miss Sawyer asked, very delicately. After Charles commented on Andrew's character test during the Falklands war, she asked: "Would you think me altogether unredemable if I asked you if there's anything else you'd like to say about your brother?"

"No, I mean, what else can I say, except that he's a jolly good chap."

It was a gentle foray, not at all scandalous, into the realm of princely behavior. Andrew's activities had been widely reported here, and Miss Sawyer did not bluntly request gossip. She sought a brotherly reaction about the behavior of a member of the royal family.

The question also was framed so Charles could run as far as he wanted with it. He chose not to run.

It also enabled Miss Sawyer to follow with a question about who's to blame for media attention on Andrew and reports of "a conflict in your marriage."

Said Charles: "You blame the readers who buy the newspapers or watch the programs."

Should Miss Lunden and Miss Pauley also have raised a subject that many Americans clearly wanted to know about?

Miss Lunden said she wasn't tempted to ask about Andrew, but said her interpretation of the interview ground rules restricted it anyway. And she was influenced by what she saw as Charles' irritated reaction during the interview with Miss Sawyer.

As the guard changed from CBS to ABC, Miss Lunden was ushered into the interview by Charles' press secretary, Vic Chapman. "He said that Diane's question wasn't proper. He told me: 'Whatever you do, stick to the school questions.'"

"I felt it incumbent upon me to win this guy over," Miss Lunden added. "I wasn't interested in Randy Andy and Koo Stark, anyway. I didn't think it was in good taste. That's not what I pick up the papers to read."

It was clear that Charles was making himself available to American TV to talk about the school. In these situations, the journalistic practice is to honor that subject, then go on to other areas.

The three women met separately with Charles' press secretary the night before the interview. They were given similar initial instructions, but CBS later apparently pushed harder for a clarification that enabled Miss Sawyer to feel she had a free hand with Charles.

Dan Rather Prepared As For A Marathon On Election Night

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) - Dan Rather prepared for his first election night anchor assignment like it was the New York City Marathon. In some ways it was.

"I loaded up on carbohydrates," Rather said Tuesday before beginning his 7½-hour stint, quarterbacking CBS election night coverage. "At one meal I ate spaghetti. Another meal, I ate macaroni. He also adapted his sleeping schedule, getting up later than usual the past four days. On Tuesday, his activities included voting and going to church.

This was the first time in 30 years that Walter Cronkite wasn't at the CBS controls election night. Nearly two years after stepping down as anchor on the "CBS Evening News," Cronkite was conducting political interviews in Washington for CBS.

"Walter was the best at what he did," said CBS' Mike Wallace. "But, if anybody said that this guy (Rather) could come in two years later and do as well or better, I would have laughed. It's crazy. He's up there telling stories."

About 45 minutes before the broadcast began at 6:30 p.m. EST, Rather entered CBS' cavernous studio. He didn't leave the anchor area until 2 a.m.

"This is tougher than space shots," he said. "There's a lot more to know. If you don't understand the intricacies of a space shot, the public is going to forgive you. They expect you to know politics."

He said his goals for the night were to have a "fluid broadcast and a good time." He seemed to have both.

He was the calm general waiting for the battle to begin. As the countdown went under three minutes, he joked: "I haven't been nervous for days. But I know it's a big night now. (Stage manager) Jimmy Wall brought a tie."

Then he laughed about commentator Bill Moyers' late arrival: "Where's Moyers? I guess he couldn't take the pressure and decided not to show up."

Wallace, who was assigned to follow the impact of campaign spending on the election results, also was nicked by Rather's playful needle. During a commercial break, Wallace took his seat on the set. "Mike, you look nice. Momma must have dressed you today."

Of course, there was a serious side, as Rather deftly worked his studio colleagues Bob Schieffer, Morton Dean, Lesley Stahl, Moyers and Wallace into the coverage. He was best at being a reporter, sitting back in his swivel chair - his jacket open, legs crossed - talking to his colleagues as if they were in his living room.

"He makes everybody feel welcome," said Wallace. "That's why people want to help him."

Rather's relaxed, casual manner has been nurtured by CBS News President Van Gordon Sauter, one of the few network executives not wearing a dark suit Tuesday night.

An hour into the broadcast, Sauter walked over to Rather and said: "It looks like this is the third time you've done this. Your pace is perfect. You're embracing the people around you."

Rather's warmth was apparent, even without his trademark pullover sweater. "He's a sharing anchor. He likes to chat with people," said Sauter.

This was a far cry from the nervous, rigid Rather who made viewers uncomfortable when he first replaced Cronkite on the "Evening News."

"It's like he suddenly realizes that he's known how to drive a car, and he's doing it," said Ed Joyce, CBS News' executive vice president. "He's the conductor of our symphony."

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) - Philip Abbott, best remembered for his role as FBI director Arthur Ward for nine years with Efram Zimbalist Jr. in "The F.B.I.," has written, produced and directed five new educational films.

Abbott's films for school children are the most recent of some 40 such movies he has made for the National Education Institute, which financed the projects with a grant from the Justice Department.

Subject matter of the five 15-minute films includes drugs, television, teacher abuse, stolen property and child abuse.

THE GREENVILLE Police Department Crime Prevention Section will work with any interested group in establishing a Community Watch Team in its neighborhood. Call Sgt. D. A. Jackson at 752-3342 for details.

Using NBC's projections for the next seven years, Tinker predicted that cable TV, scrambled over-the-air pay TV, direct broadcast satellite and home entertainment video technology would cut severely into network viewing.

He said cable TV is expected to have about 60 percent market penetration, up from its current 34 percent. The result will be a drop in network viewing from its current 73 percent share to 60 percent by 1990.

Yesterday's Cryptiquip — TIMID MATADOR USES NEW AUTO WITHOUT A HORN.
Today's Cryptiquip clue: O equals W.

The Cryptiquip is a simple substitution cipher in which each letter used stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words, and words using an apostrophe can give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is accomplished by trial and error.

The bidding:
North East South West
1 ♠ 1 ♥ 1 ♣ Pass
2 ♥ Pass 3 ♣ Pass
6 ♠ Pass Pass Pass
Opening lead: Ten of ♣.

Some people like the sound of their voices. But bidding simply because it is your turn can have upward repercussions in the play.

East's decision to overcall one heart ranks among the worst overcalls we have seen this year. As it was, it propelled North-South into a slam they might not have gotten to under their own steam, and tipped declarer off to the winning line to make it doubly expensive.

Declarer won the heart in dummy and ran off five rounds of trumps. This reduced the hand to the following position:

♥ K J 2
♦ A 9
♠ A 6

♦ — ♦ —
♥ 5 ♥ Q 9 8
♦ J 5 4 ♦ K 6
♠ J 10 8 ♠ K 9

Declarer simply led a diamond to the ace and returned a diamond. East won the king, but was end played. A club would allow declarer to score the queen, while the heart would be into dummy's tenace, permitting declarer to sluff a losing club and leaving his hand high.

Note that it makes no difference how East discards—declarer can always make the slam by relying on East to hold the missing kings because of his overall. Had there been no overall, South could still come to twelve tricks by guessing everything right, but we wouldn't want to bet on that.

The Father of Fast Food

Every day at lunchtime, millions of Americans pay gustatory tribute to an 18th-century nobleman — John Montagu, the Fourth Earl of Sandwich, who created the delicacy that bears his name. While his invention might not rate with the wheel and the electric lightbulb, it is hard to imagine a world without sandwiches. In 18th-century England, the Earl was better known for his personal vices and political corruption. Supposedly, he invented the sandwich for his gambling sprees so he could place bets with one hand and eat with the other. Today is Sandwich Day, in honor of Montagu — a self-serving scoundrel and the world's first junk food junkie.

DO YOU KNOW — What is the modern name for the Sandwich Islands?

Best, Worst In Eating Reviewed

By ANGELO NATALE
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Under the shade of an American tank in Paris, during the waning days of World War II, young Christian Millau feasted on packages of dry meats and other U.S. Army K-rations.

It was perhaps the most enjoyable meal of his life, the celebrated food critic says. And Millau has dined on gourmet delights in the world's best restaurants.

The controversial epicure and his colleague, Henri Gault, have written a series of volumes on the top dining establishments in France, London and New York.

The Gault-Millau critics are witty, sometimes barbed, sometimes lavish in their praise and always very readable, and they are written by two men who are former journalists. "The Best of New York" contains about 1,500 ratings — described on the book's cover as "candid, opinionated and refreshingly irreverent."

The book also looks at hotels, nightspots, shops, galleries and tourist attractions in what Millau and Gault call the "most electrifying city in the world."

Of one revered New York establishment, the guide describes a dinner "executed with all the brio of a John McEnroe tennis match."

Of another very elite spot, the devastating duo say: "Two dining rooms make up the most pompous restaurant imaginable. A maitre d'hotel greets you with utter contempt, doubtless thinking to appear distinguished. And the food? It's a feeble imitation of real French."

Born on New Year's Day in 1929, Millau was not yet a teen-ager at the start of World War II. His mother, half-French, half-Russian, was "a good cook by instinct," he says.

"She couldn't read recipes, she mixed everything up, but what came out was beautiful," Millau said. "My mother had a talent to make something good out of nothing. The war made things hard to find. But she worked with what she found, and we had things like carrot cake — and a lot of people coming to dinner."

Does the critic of epicurean eateries cook? "Well, sometimes I do," he says. "I don't say I'm a good cook. I know how to prepare a few dishes."

Still, he is firm in his belief that he knows what is good and can write about it in the guides — "The Best of France," "The Best of London," "The Best of Paris" and "The Best of New York."

After all, Millau says, a film critic is not necessarily capable of creating a good film.

The series evolved from Millau's journalism days as feature editor of the Paris Presse when he got the idea for a weekly leisure page.

"This was something new for France," Millau says. "We were ready to start with food and gastronomy. Gault worked for me at that time. The first review was of a Paris restaurant. The impact was tremendous; the place was instantly packed. Then I had the idea to publish a guide to Paris."

The first guide came out in time for Christmas shoppers in 1969, and "it sold thousands," Millau says.

Millau says there is no food that he dislikes.

"I love fish," he says. "I am not a great beef eater. I like vegetables. I suppose that is because I am aging. The more I go on, the more I like genuine foods like salads, green peas, carrots."

"As a professional, I really must like everything," he says. "As a private person I am not so impressed with the haute cuisine. I am reaching a point where I like simple foods. But as a professional, a critic, I must recognize what is involved."

"For example, I am not a great fan of the painter Rubens. But if I were an art critic, I would say he was a great. You have to divide your life when you are a professional."

Millau is married, has twins in their 20's and another son who is 18. He spends a large part of his life traveling — and dining — but keeps in trim shape because he does not have to eat sizable portions to know whether a dish is excellent, routine or bad.

In-House Terms For Hotel Men

CHICAGO (AP) — "Walking" is a hotel industry term for relocating guests who hold reservations which cannot be honored at the selected hotel.

When a hotel is overbooked and a reservation is worthless, the industry attributes the problem to "underparting." That refers to guests who did not leave when they said they would.

Breeding Endangered Animals

By LAURA RICHARDSON
Associated Press Writer
DALLAS (AP) — Dr. Bonnie L. Raphael's smallest patient weighs two-thirds of an ounce. Her largest weighs 2½ tons.

She deals in life and death in extraordinary forms, in odd couplings and unnatural acts aimed at keeping the world's exotic animals alive and kicking, crawling, climbing, flying, swimming or slithering.

She hopes to help a giraffe give birth to an okapi.

The cross-genus breeding experiment is perhaps Ms. Raphael's most startling task as the veterinarian at the Dallas Zoo, where she takes care of 2,000 animals. But almost all of her job is odd.

"I don't like to see animals used solely for man's benefit. That's one thing that drew me to zoos and wild animal medicine. What we're doing with our breeding programs is trying to save animals from extinction, although sometimes the public doesn't see that," she said.

The small blunt hands of the short, slight, 32-year-old woman have performed delicate fiberoptic surgery on tiny flame-faced tanagers, South American birds that are the smallest creatures in the zoo.

Those hands also have pounded the leathery hide of the zoo's biggest beast to prepare the 5,000-pound asthmatic Nile hippotamus for an injection.

Ms. Raphael has treated deadly poisonous snakes, given shots to hostile apes, and performed a Caesarian section on an iguana.

One of only about 40 full-time zoo veterinarians in the United States, she spends about half her time practicing preventive medicine — performing tuberculosis tests, controlling parasites, trying to isolate sick animals, taking blood samples.

About 30 percent of her work is treating the sick, and 20 percent is breeding — "what it's all about" in changing American zoos.

The goal of zoos like Dallas' that participate in the national Species Survival

Plan of the American Association of Zoological Parks and Aquariums is to breed endangered species in captivity to "keep some around for future generations to see, and — we hope — one day reintroduce them to their natural environments."

Dallas had a record number of animal births in 1981, Ms. Raphael's first year on the job. This year, several rare and endangered animals — a lowland gorilla, klipspringer antelope, lesser panda, and an okapi — have been born, and a young pygmy hippo, which is vanishing in the wild, is pregnant.

The okapi birth was something of a coup: the only one in the country this year. The Dallas Zoo prides itself on being a "forerunner in a world effort" to maintain the strange, chocolate-colored animal with a pin-striped rump and legs, whose survival in its native Zaire is doubtful.

That's where a crippled, cow-hocked okapi named Miracle comes in.

Miracle was born in the Dallas Zoo, but she is not on display because a hip problem makes her ugly. She has trouble walking now, and spends much of her time lying in her hay-filled stall in a back-lot stable, calmly turning her huge, long-lashed brown eyes on the occasional stranger.

The Daily Reflector, Greenville, N.C. — Wednesday, November 3, 1982 — 33

"She is not strong enough to carry a pregnancy, she's not an attractive animal, and basically she's just wasting her life," Ms. Raphael said. "But she's still valuable in terms of potential offspring."

The Dallas Zoo, working with Texas A&M University and the Oklahoma City and San Diego zoos, hopes to use Miracle as an okapi embryo factory.

Embryo transplantation is common today in the cattle industry, where it is used to get large numbers of valuable pure-bred animals from one mother.

The mother is given hormones that stimulate her to produce dozens of eggs. She is artificially inseminated, and the fertilized eggs are flushed out before they can attach to the uterine wall. The embryos are then implanted in a less valuable animal, a surrogate mother that carries the pregnancy to term.

Basically the same techniques are to be tried on Miracle, but there's a hitch: All okapi are rare, none are "less valuable," and the beast that looks a little like a zebra and a lot like an antelope has only one relative — the giraffe.

Cross-genus embryo transplants have not been tried before.

Small Steel Mill Bucks Down-Trend

By STRAT DOUTHAT
Associated Press Writer
HUNTINGTON, W. Va.
(AP) - In an age when the U.S. steel industry is in full retreat, Bob Bunting and Carl Calloway are going in the opposite direction - running a "mini-mill" they say is about to show a profit after only 10 weeks of operation.

The men are the principal operating officers of Steel of West Virginia, Inc., a 235-employee mill that converts scrap into specialty items for a select but lucrative market.

Six months ago Calloway was a recently retired accountant who had no idea he would be trying to help run a steel mill.

"I had never been in the mill before," he said last week. "And I only had a slight acquaintance with Bob."

Back then, Bunting was the local plant manager for Connors Steel, a division of the Pittsburgh-based H.K. Porter Co. As the man who ran the day-to-day operations of the Huntington facility, he sensed H.K. Porter was about to close the mill.

"Bob called me one day last April and I thought he wanted to set up a golf game," Calloway said. "But it wasn't about golf; he wanted to have lunch. And when we got together he said, 'I want you to help me buy the Connors Steel plant.'"

After some thought, Calloway said yes.

"I'm sure that we'll show a profit for October," said Bunting, the president of the operation. Calloway, the vice president and the man who's good with figures, doesn't disagree.

Neither was willing to say how much money they would make. They did say, however, that the business is on schedule and they are confident Steel of West Virginia and its employees has a secure future.

How can a small mill in southern West Virginia make money when much of the steel industry is in trouble?

"There are several reasons," said Bunting, who grew up in a Pennsylvania steel town. "For one thing, we're very competitive in tooling costs, and we also have an experienced work force that knows how to produce."

For another, he said, the company concentrates on specialty items - such as lightweight I-beams for the trucking and mobile home industries, and track rail for coal mines - that haven't particularly interested the steel giants in the past.

"There are two kinds of mills," Bunting said. "There are integrated mills, which make steel from iron ore, and mini-mills that use scrap. Well, we're one of some 50 mini-mills operating in this country today. And, for the market we specialize in, we have relatively few competitors, either here or abroad."

That's a major reason why Bunting was willing to mortgage his home to help back the venture, and why Calloway was willing to plow tens of thousand of his own dollars into the plant.

They, and 15 other local investors, with the help of eight Huntington bankers and the governor's office, put together the $3 million purchase package.

"There are 17 or 18 investors who own 15 shares," Calloway said. "Bob and I each own one of these 15 shares."

Both men play down the concept of ownership and don't like to talk about labor and management.

"We don't view it in those terms," Bunting said. "This is a cooperative effort that stresses teamwork."

He said the plant is being run much differently than when it shut down at the end of July, with more than 600 people on the payroll. When it reopened in mid-August, there were some 400 fewer workers, and many of those in Steelworkers Local 37 were making far less than they had a few weeks earlier.

However, as union officials pointed out, some of the men did have jobs, and the mill was still open.

"It's no secret that we wanted to reopen as a non-union operation," Bunting said. "That wasn't in the cards, however."

Molly Rush Awaiting A Prison Date

Associated Press Writer PITTSBURGH (AP) — Molly Rush, a "traditional family type," is devoted to her husband, six children and modest home. But there is tension in the Rush household because the other Molly Rush, the political activist, may have to leave it all for prison.

Mrs. Rush, 47, accustomed to arrests in past protests, now faces up to five years in jail for a 1980 protest against nuclear weapons. "I just look at the sky and the flowers and the trees differently now," she said. "Just the routine of everyday life is appreciated for itself."

Her husband, Bill, agrees with his wife's politics, but opposes the action that led her into trouble. "I do get into a lot of arguments with her," he said. "But I am proud of her."

Two years ago, Mrs. Rush warned her family that her activism would disrupt their lives with publicity, arrests, trials, prison and separation. At dawn on Sept. 8, 1980 with the Berrigan brothers and five others, she marched into a General Electric Co. plant at King of Prussia, Pa., hammered nosecones of Mark 12A missiles and poured her blood on documents, causing an estimated $40,000 in damages.

Calling themselves the Plowshares 8 after the Bible's admonition to turn swords into plowshares, the group sang and prayed while waiting for police.

Mrs. Rush spent 11 weeks in prison awaiting trial and was convicted of burglary, criminead, she was sentenced to two to five years in jail. The Superior Court is expected to rule on her appeal later this year.

"I tried to stop her," Rush said. "I talked to her, had her brothers and sisters talk to her. I don't see going to extremes. I don't feel comfortable throwing blood."

Others also criticized her tactics. Bruce Eckle, who prosecuted the Plowshares 8, said the group was wrong to try to use their trial as a political forum.

"I don't think going into a building and destroying property can be excused," he said.

Mrs. Rush forfeited a college scholarship to help support her family, married at 19 and quickly had four children. Her husband, now 49, joined the Marines at 17, later finished high school, became a mechanical draftsman and a volunteer softball league manager.

"When we first got married, we were in the pursuit of happiness," Rush said wistfully. "We wanted to have a home, good job and fun over the weekends."

"It wasn't until the civil rights movement . . ." Mrs. Rush said, "when I began to do things after the xzk's went to bed or when I was able to get a baby sitter so I could leaflet churches on Sundays."

That led to other protests — against the Vietnam War, racial discrimination and the policies of Rockwell International Corp. Since 1973, she has directed a Pittsburgh peace and justice center, working to integrate yb8zrV is motivated by a mother's love. In prison 11 weeks awaiting trial on the GE charges, she wrote her son Greg, then 12:

"I did what I did because I want you to grow up to live a full life and to have children of your own without having to fear for their lives, as I fear for yours."

Mrs. Rush worries about her children, but said, "I hope what I've given my kids is something that's equally important to them as my being there to do the laundry. I hope that I've given them a sense of life as something that's challenging and important."

In their two-story brick home, two dozen thick notebooks line a dining room wall, filled with clips, flyers and photographs Rush has collected to document his wife's life since the GE protest.

But he feels it's possible his wife would not have become politically active had he not devoted so much time to softball teams.

"She went her way, and I went mine," he said. "I saw how far apart we were. I was having fun while she was saving the world."

Navy Recruiting Team Signed Up One Of Family

By NORM CLARKE
Associated Press Writer

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Larry and Vie Lee Walter, one of the Navy's top recruiting teams, have persuaded a host of young men to don sailor's uniforms. But none pleased them more than one recent enlistee — their own 18-year-old son.

David Kent Walter joined the Navy this fall, continuing his family's long tradition of military service and filling his parents with red-white-and-Navy-blue pride.

"I was tickled to death," his mother, daughter of a World War II Army flyer, said Sunday. "It was probably our best recruiting effort."

"I was shocked," said his stepfather, Larry, chief recruiter for the San Diego recruiting office, the Navy's No. 1 recruiting district in the nation for 1980 and 1981.

Mrs. Walter joined the Army reserve in Utah eight years ago at age 31 "as a part-time job to some get extra money for my son's braces." After two years as an Army recruiter, which included the recruitment of her younger brother, several cousins and a sister-in-law, she switched to the Navy.

In 1979, she was named "Recruiter of the Year" for Alameda Air Station near

San Francisco.

Her other younger brother also did a hitch in the Navy.

"My mother is the only adult member of our family who wasn't in the military — and she said that was because she had to work as Rosie the Riveter during the war," said Mrs. Walter, a supervisor at the San Diego recruiting office.

Her husband's military family tree has even longer branches.

"My brother and all my uncles were in the service, and I've both sets of my great-great-grandfathers' discharge papers from the Civil War. They were in Ohio Volunteer Infantry," said Walter, who grew up on a farm near Lithopolis, Ohio.

He and his wife were married two years ago after working together in the recruiting office. Walter, 44, a 28-year Navy veteran, legally adopted her son from a previous marriage.

"Kent always told me he wouldn't go in. I had him set up to be an air traffic controller, but he surprised us," said his mother, a native of Ogden, Utah.

"I was shocked because he had just been talking about buying a car. I thought he might have to run the usual gamut that a lot of kids do — run around a couple years before getting serious," said Walter, master chief in command of the San Diego district.

They believe their son is part of a trend recruiters have noticed in the past year. "With the economy the way it is, kids today are looking at the military as a job they can count on," Mrs. Walter said.

Her son, who plans to follow his stepfather's footsteps and become a submarine crew member, agrees.

"A lot of my friends are taking a second look at the military because of things like a free education and special training," he said. "The nicest thing right now is that we're all together and everyone's got a paycheck coming in," Mrs. Walter said. "But by next spring we could be scattered all over the world."

But Kent, who started boot camp three weeks ago, already has found the military life has its drawbacks. "He said the boot camp food was terrible," said Mrs. Walter. "And he begged me to bring him a pizza."

Administration Assails Report

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration says reports that Midwestern power plants are principal contributors to acid rain in the East are incorrect and irresponsible.

The administration attacked a report in Science Trends, a trade newsletter, on a draft study by 50 outside scientists that suggest that pollution from coal-burning utilities, primarily in the Midwest, is killing fish, destroying lakes, and damaging structures in the United States and Canada.

Kathleen Bennett, assistant administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency, said that nowhere in the 1,200-page document were there any conclusions linking acid rain with Midwestern power plants.

The California Connection: Drugs And Big Money

By KATHY HORAK
Associated Press Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — An FM radio station relayed the dedication just after midnight: From a listener in Simi Valley to John De Lorean, the rock single "Cocaine" — guitarist Eric Clapton's drug hymn that features thousands of concert-goers shouting that on-e-word refrain.

De Lorean, a former General Motors vice president, was indicted Friday by a federal grand jury on charges of drug trafficking and racketeering in a $24 million cocaine smuggling scheme.

His arrest and indictment focused attention on the growing Southern California traffic in cocaine, a market that has gradually moved west from South Florida.

"Two years ago (a single seizure of) 35 pounds was a large amount for this area," says federal Drug Enforcement Administration Agent Pat Stewart, "but amounts of 100 kilograms (220 pounds) are occurring regularly now."

With the federal government's anti-drug task force squeezing the geographically favorable Colombia-to-Florida route, dealers increasingly are importing cocaine direct to Southern California via any transport available.

"It used to be a cross-country Greyhound from Miami was one of the easiest ways to get it here," says one former dealer who requested anonymity. "You're just another passenger — no chance of speeding arrests or traffic accidents and your carry-on bag stayed air-conditioned."

Every statistic shows an increase in Southern California cocaine seizures.

Los Angeles-based DEA agents stopped 509 pounds in the year ended Sept. 30 — 39 percent more than in fiscal 1981. U.S. Customs grabbed 270 pounds in fiscal 1982, compared with 180 pounds the previous year.

Still, the DEA's Stewart says, "It's a losing war. There's a lot of money in L.A. and between the demand and the profits to be made, more people are willing to take the chance. Doctors, lawyers, businessmen..."

Cocaine's potential profits are uniformly cited as the motivation for involvement. Customs special investigative agent Alan Walls says the biggest money is made by the smuggler, typically a Colombian national, rather than local dealers "who rarely have more than a few grams on hand and keep a lot of it for their habit."

A single pound of cocaine in Colombia, where most processing laboratories operate, can be had for $5,000. The pound costs the coca plantation owner financing the lab only $2,800, the former dealer says.

If the pound — 454 grams — were sold pure at the going rate of $120 a gram, that's $54,480 on a $5,000 investment. Diluting the cocaine to 30 percent purity, which some dealers do, expands the supply and increases the profit.

Authorities consistently estimate they catch only 10 percent of the total shipments, and even with the biggest dealers, "there's always someone to fill the void," says DEA Agent Charles Bullock.

Bob Davis, director of the Customs Patrol division, says his 40 officers — spread along 150 miles of coastline from Santa Barbara south to San Clemente — catch little at the area's ports.

This summer, customs agents did tap an upswing in internal "body carries" with some 30 arrests at Los Angeles International Airport, where one night flight from Bogota is tagged the "cocaine express," agent Jerome Hollander says.

The smugglers can earn from $1,500 to $5,000 for swallowing surgical gloves or condoms stuffed with cocaine and sealed with insoluble dental floss or fishing line.

Other smugglers still rely on the false-bottom suitcase, like the 74-year-old Costa Mesa, Calif., grandmother who received a five-year prison term for trying to slip 2½ pounds through airport customs.

Private planes are favored for evading customs, although Bullock notes smugglers don't have the advantage of short distances. But if a shipment can be forwarded as far north as Mexico, it's a quick hop to a desert landing strip or as busy a facility as Orange County's John Wayne Airport.

Los Angeles police narcotics Lt. Ken Welty describes the small-time dealer as "an individual user who has friends that want to buy, so they become a subcontractor for grams or ounces. They get a better price break because dealing increases their volume. Usually they don't have a criminal record. "Who knows who's selling?" Welty adds. "It's a cross section of society. Who knows who's using drugs? Everybody and anybody."

Since large transactions seldom involve hand-to-hand cash, dealers' credit records can prove their downfall.

The Los Angeles DEA's record 114-pound seizure in September 1981 netted coded names of 40 smaller distributors. Welty, whose department assisted in the case, said dealers operated out of five apartments in a sprawling complex in the Los Angeles suburb of Sherman Oaks and handled $43 million in transactions over nine months.

The DEA relies on a combination of undercover work and tips from informants. Stewart says the average field operation takes at least a year. De Lorean's supposed procurer, William Morgan Hetrick, had been watched at least two years. "Dope dealers get greedy," says Stewart. "They make $500,000 and say the next time it'll be a million — but eventually someone's going to burn you. Most of our informants are working off a charge, but we'd rather get the head of the octopus. If you cut off the tentacles, you won't kill it."

Speaking of Your Health... Lester L. Coleman, M.D. High Cost of a Hospital Stay

I know that hospitals are expensive. But not until I was discharged from one after 20 days did I realize how much they can cost. When will it stop? — Mr. M.T., Conn.
Dear Mr. T.:

I must confess that I, as a physician, am so concerned about the medical health of my patients that I, too, have overlooked inquiring about the cost of hospitalization. I was shocked only a few weeks ago when I learned that a one-day stay in my hospital cost more than $1,200.

This included a private room, standard floor nursing, routine X-ray of the chest, electrocardiogram, blood studies, the use of the operating room and the recovery room.

It is true that being sick and hospitalized for even a short period of time is a great "luxury" that few people can afford.

For this very reason, preventive medicine is one of the major approaches to the problem. It is hoped that early detection and early treatment of disease will at least relieve the cost of long hospitalization.

Fortunately, national and state health programs ease the burden for the elderly and for the indigent. One of the great social advances of this era is the fact that everyone past the age of 65 becomes the beneficiary of Medicare. Although this project is enormously costly to the government, it spells the difference between financial survival and destruction for people who are ill.

Every state in the union has some form of the Medicaid program which defrays the expenses of people whose income is markedly limited and those who are totally dependent on the welfare program.

Private insurance, although expensive, helps to relieve the impact of the staggering medical bills. One would think that hospitals would benefit from such enormous costs that are collected from the patients. They do not.

The voluntary hospital is a gigantic complex that could not possibly exist without the generosity of those who maintain it and balance the deficits. For even with the tremendous expense to the individual patient, the charges do not cover the full cost of a hospital stay.

It is difficult for patients to realize that in addition to nurses, orderlies, and laboratory technicians, there are also vast teams of maintenance workers, engineers, dietitians, laundry workers, cooks, elevator operators, firemen, security guards, secretaries, accountants, and a vast array of administrative personnel.

The list is almost endless. It is estimated that for every patient who is admitted to the hospital, there are more than 30 people involved in some form of hospital relationship with him.

I can't even speculate when the escalation of hospital costs will reach a plateau and stop.

Dr. Coleman welcomes questions from readers. Please write to him in care of this newspaper.

Loan Program's Interest Drops

WASHINGTON (AP) — The interest rate on a government-backed loan program for college students has fallen from 14 percent to 12 percent, because interest rates on Treasury Bills have remained below 14 percent for a full year.

Students are charged 9 percent interest on regular Guaranteed Student Loans they can obtain themselves from banks. Students from families with incomes above $30,000 must demonstrate need to get those loans.

There is no family income ceiling on the 12 percent ALAS loans, but unlike the Guaranteed Student Loans, parents must begin repaying them in 90 days.

Time to clean your dirty carpets for the holidays?
Now, get professional looking results with HR and save $5.

HR's special offer makes right now the right time to get your carpets clean and fresh for all your holiday celebrations. Present this coupon at a participating supermarket near you and you'll receive a $5 refund on HR's regular low rental price. HR's quality products and twenty years experience make it the right machine for cleaning the carpets in your home. HR steams dual detergents into carpets — then vacuums up deep-down dirt. You get professional looking results for lots less money. So this holiday season, make sure you clean your carpets the Right The HR way.

The Right Way.
The HR Way.

Clean-up for the holidays and save $5 on the HR steam machine at Big Star.

Mr. Grocer: After refund payment to customer by you, HR will redeem this coupon directly via our representative for $5.00 if received on the rental of the HR steam machine during this holiday offer. Limit one per rental. Void where prohibited, taxed, or restricted by law. Offer expires: Nov. 15, 1982.
