

City Policeman Shot In Bizarre Incident

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer
A Greenville police officer — Charles Michael Futrell — was shot in the leg Thursday night with his own .38 caliber pistol in an incident that some officials say may have been connected with a gang initiation.

C.M. FUTRELL

said early this morning that he expected Futrell to be released from Pitt County Memorial Hospital later in the day, "if no complications develop."

Cannon, who said agents of the State Bureau of Investigation are assisting in the investigation, said Futrell was walking near the intersection of Fourth and Evans streets shortly before 9 p.m. when a car containing four men stopped and called him to the vehicle.

The chief said that, as Futrell approached the vehicle, one of the men pointed a shotgun at the officer and told him to get into the car.

Cannon said the men were armed with a .45 caliber automatic and a .38 caliber pistol as well as the shotgun. The men drove to the Town Commons near the intersection of First and Evans street, Cannon said, where they ordered Futrell out of the car and forced him to walk toward the Tar River.

Futrell was shot in the lower right leg, Cannon said, after being told by the men that "they had to shoot" a police officer with his own gun." Cannon said the men told Futrell "they would not kill him."

After Futrell was shot, Cannon said, the four men discarded his service revolver nearby and fled. Futrell, equipped with a portable radio, called the police department to report the shooting and ask for help.

Cannon said the bullet lodged in the calf of Futrell's leg after it struck and chipped the bone.

Futrell described his assailants as being between 24 and 28 years of age, with shoulder-length brown hair. He said they were wearing either military-type field jackets or waist-length "Ike" jackets.

At least three of the men wore gold-ball earrings in their left ear and had emblems on the backs of their coats depicting a pig with a knife stuck through it dripping blood from its tip.

Cannon said efforts by local police, the Highway Patrol, the Pitt County Sheriff's Department and the SBI failed Thursday night to turn up any suspects in the case.

Futrell, 25, joined the police department in February. He is married and is the father of two young children.

Before coming to Greenville, he served with the police department in New Bern from December 1978 to March 1981, and as a Bridgeton policeman from May to November 1981.

Futrell's father, Charles F. Futrell, joined the North Carolina Highway Patrol in 1956 and is now a sergeant stationed at Goldsboro, while his brother Tommy Futrell has been a police officer in Clayton for about a year.

Unemployment Rate At 10.4 Percent Over U.S.

By The Associated Press
The nation's unemployment rate rose to 10.4 percent in October from 10.1 percent a month earlier, increasing the jobless rolls to 11.6 million people, a rise of 3.7 million since the recession began in July 1981, the government reported today.

The Labor Department's report that unemployment among full-time and blue-collar workers broke post-World War II records set in September came a day after the stock market's historic rally stalled and the nation's retailers again reported sluggish sales.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics said today that unemployment among blue-collar workers rose 0.3 percentage points from September to 15.9 percent, and unemployment among full-time workers climbed to 10.5 percent from 10.1 percent a month earlier.

The unemployment report was in line with government figures released Thursday that said 4.69 million Americans drew jobless checks in mid-October, the highest number since the benefits program was enacted in the 1930s.

Investors greeted Wall Street with its busiest day in history Thursday as 149.35 million shares traded hands on the New York Stock Exchange. The previous record, 147.07 million, came last Oct. 7.

Despite the activity, stocks ran into a late selling wave and the Dow Jones average of 30 industrials tumbled to 1,050.22, down 15.27 points from the record 1,065.49 it reached the previous day.

The late selling was attributed mainly to investors cashing in to take advantage of the market's spectacular performance in recent weeks — gains that analysts said reflected investors' optimism that interest rates will keep falling.

Consumers were not as enthusiastic about spending money last month, and the poor October sales posted by the nation's major retailers extended a sluggish trend that began in June. The latest reports prompted analysts to revise downward their projections for sales in the crucial Christmas season.

Three of the top four retailers reported small sales declines last month, while industry leader Sears, Roebuck & Co. reported a small 3.8 percent gain.

The results were even worse than they appear because they were compared with the particularly weak sales of October 1981, said Monroe H. Greenstein, an analyst at the securities firm Bear, Stearns & Co.

While consumers may not be spending more money, the value of the U.S. dollar itself keeps climbing in relation to other major currencies.

The dollar reached record highs against the French franc, Italian lira and Norwegian krone in European trading Thursday. It also hit six-year peaks against the West German mark, Swiss franc and British pound, and was mostly higher as well in U.S. trading.

But the dollar's strength is helping lift the U.S. foreign trade deficit.

11-Month-Old 'Jamie' Today Receiving Liver From Brain-Dead Child

By KAREN MILLS
Associated Press Writer
MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — A team of surgeons worked today to transplant a liver from a brain-dead child into the body of 11-month-old Jamie Fiske, who doctors said would die within weeks without a new liver.

Surgery was "in progress" at 7:30 a.m., said Ralph Huessner, a spokesman for University of Minnesota

Hospitals and Clinics.

He did not say when it began. A team of doctors and nurses headed by Dr. John Najarian was expected to take 10 to 12 hours to complete the operation, he said.

Jamie's case received national attention last month when her father asked a group of pediatricians for help.

The liver was flown from Salt Lake City to Minneapolis early today after it was taken from the body of an accident victim, said Mark Sands, a spokesman for the University of Utah Medical Center in Salt Lake.

Sands said he understood the parents of the victim suggested the transplant.

"We don't have an identity, publicly at least, and may not have one," he said.

A team of doctors from the University of Minnesota Hospitals and Clinics left Salt Lake City at about 4 a.m. EST in a leased jet. The liver was removed in a three-hour operation that concluded at about 3 a.m., Sands said. It had to be transplanted within six hours of removal, he said.

To be suitable for transplant to Jamie, who suffers from liver disease, the donated organ had to be from an undiseased child who weighed 15 to 17 pounds and had the same blood type.

Jamie is the daughter of Charles and Marilyn Fiske of Bridgewater, Mass., and has waited at the Minneapolis hospital since Sept. 15 while a donor was sought. Fiske appeared before about 400 doctors at a New York meeting of the American Academy of Pediatrics late last month to describe the plight of his daughter, who suffers from biliary atresia.

He asked the doctors to "keep your eyes and ears open for the possibility of a donor for my daughter."

Fiske, reached at his home today before leaving for Minneapolis, said he knew little about the suitability of the donated liver, but called surgery "the only option Jamie has."

"One of the things we've never done is try to get involved in the medical decision-making," said Fiske, who is an administrator at the Boston University School of Medicine. "They (hospital officials) are the ones making the medical decisions."

UN Supports Negotiations On Falklands

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — Argentina won General Assembly support of its call for renewed talks on the Falkland Islands, but Britain said today it will not observe the resolution.

"There is no way in which we can go along with it," British Foreign Secretary Francis Pym, said in an interview with the British Broadcasting Corp. in Paris. "These negotiations cannot and will not take place."

He called the General Assembly resolution "a sham and a charade."

British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher, in Paris for talks with French President Francois Mitterrand, told a news conference the U.N. vote "will make no difference to our attitude."

She said of the proposed talks: "We cannot start them so soon when memories are fresh over the islands 250 miles east of the tip of South America, voted in favor of the measure in a Reagan administration bid to mend fences in Latin America.

Nineteen Latin American nations co-sponsored the measure with Argentina, including Brazil, Colombia and Costa Rica — the three countries President Reagan will visit on a five-day trip beginning Nov. 30.

Deputy U.S. Ambassador Kenneth L. Adelman said after the vote that Washington was not taking sides on the question of sovereignty over the colony that Britain reclaimed June 14. Argentina invaded the Falklands April 2 and about 1,000 fighting men were listed as killed in the ensuing conflict.

"The cost, in blood and treasure, to both Argentina and the United Kingdom dictates that force must never again be used in this dispute," Adelman told the assembly before the vote.

British Ambassador Sir John Thomson said Argentina was wrong to press for assembly action on the explosive issue "so soon" after its April 2 invasion. He said Buenos Aires was speaking of an expected "second round and ... preparing for it."

Totals Revised

Thursday's canvass by the Pitt Board of Elections of the area's general election balloting resulted in a few changes in vote totals published by The Daily Reflector, none of them affecting the outcome of any race.

The revised totals included: write-in state Senate candidate Mariem House, 927 votes rather than 921 as reported; W. Bruce Jones Jr., for county commissioner, 2,741 instead of 2,780; Betty Pearce, court of appeals, 2,799 instead of 2,568; Sam D. Bundy, state House, 10,070 instead of 10,084.

Fredrica Jacobson, state House write-in candidate, 961 instead of 958; proposed constitutional amendment regarding term of office beginning date, 4,215 against, instead of 5,217; and proposed amendment relative to tax increment bonds, 1,802 in favor, rather than 1,812, and 10,485 against, instead of 10,482.

Block Grant

WINTERVILLE — The town has received a $749,235 Community Development Block Grant from the state, according to Mayor E.C. Hines.

Hines was notified Thursday by the N.C. Division of Community Assistance that the town has been awarded the funds, which are earmarked for housing and street assistance in low-income areas.

According to town officials, the grant will be used for street paving, 3,030 feet of water mains, fire hydrants and rehabilitation, relocation and demolition of houses.

The town's target area, designated when the Board of Aldermen applied for the grant, includes Chapman, Grimes, Board, Hammond and Myrtle streets along with the west side of North Railroad Street.

Winterville applied for the grant in August. Community Development funds, formerly provided by the federal government, were administered by the state for the first time in 1982.

"Being able to fix up this much area is one of the greatest things that ever happened to Winterville," said Town Clerk Elwood Nobles.

Nobles said Talbert, Cox and Associates, engineers, will administer the projects.

Grads Must Be Skilled Writers

By MARY ANNE RHYNE
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — North Carolina high school students will have to demonstrate writing proficiency in order to graduate under a plan approved by the state Board of Education.

The board voted Thursday to include a writing examination in competency tests, although the program can't begin until the Legislature funds it.

The board also voted to make teacher pay raises a top priority for 1983-85 as it presented its $128 million budget request to the Advisory Budget Commission.

"This is North Carolina deciding what it wants to be," Gov. Jim Hunt said, urging the board to adopt the writing test. "We're ready for it, our young people need it and the future requires it."

Among the board's budget requests is almost $600,000 for the new writing test, about half of which would pay for adding the writing portion to the annual tests next year. The rest would pay for adding writing to the competency test, beginning with the graduating class of 1987.

Jim Hemby, chairman of the Competency Test Commission, said there must be training programs for teachers and remedial programs for students before the new test can be implemented.

Students in the 6th grade would be tested on expressive and explanatory writing while 9th graders would be tested on explanatory and persuasive writing.

Students could receive grades of zero, one or two, meaning below standard writing, or three or four, meaning above standard writing.

Observe Nat'l Week Of Youth Appreciation

The week of Nov. 7-13 has been declared "Youth Appreciation Week" by Optimist International and by the Optimist Club of Greenville.

In addition, Mayor Percy Cox issued a proclamation designating the youth week observance, saying, "The accomplishments and achievements of these young citizens deserve recognition and praise of their elders."

Cox said, "The vast majority of the youth are concerned, knowledgeable and responsible citizens."

He pointed out that Optimist International has promoted the youth appreciation activities since 1957.

According to Charles Ross, chairman of the project for the local organization, Greenville Optimists are promoting daily themes during the week in expressing appreciation and approval for the contributions of youth.

Daily themes highlighting youth involvement include: Sunday, youth in religion; Monday, business; Tuesday, education; Wednesday, community service; Thursday, government; Friday, family, and Saturday, recreation.

Ross said that in conjunction with the youth in government observance, a number of high school students will meet with Cox

Thursday morning in the council chambers at city hall to learn about city government and conduct a "mock" council meeting.

The project chairman said that since 1954, Optimist Clubs have conducted observances that recognize the contributions and accomplishments of youth. He said the programs have recognized youth activities such as heroism, church work, tutoring of retarded children, serving as volunteers in hospitals, outstanding school achievement, and many other acts of service.

Ross said the local Optimist Club encourages area citizens to join with the organization in expressing appreciation to and for our youth.

Carrie West reported on the results at the meeting of the auxiliary held last week. The proceeds will be used for veteran rehabilitation and relief programs.

Margie Tyson said Halloween cards were sent to Gold Star parents. The charter was draped in memory of Alice Proctor, a charter member. Rosa Lee Boyd and Raye Brewer attended the state council meeting held in Winston-Salem. The local auxiliary is leading in all categories in contributions to state VFW programs.

Mrs. West gave a talk on Americanism to a senior citizens group and each was presented an inscribed pencil.

Funds received from the sale of cakes totaling $148.60 was given to the cancer aid and research project.

Verna Mizelle, Mrs. West and Mrs. Boyd visited the O'Berry Center in Goldsboro and delivered Halloween treats for the patients.

Myrtle Meeks, Helen Liles, Lee Owens, Hazel Baker and Alma Smith were meeting hostesses.

PCAIW Has Guest Speaker

The Pitt County Association of Insurance Women held its meeting last week at the Ramada Inn. The program was given by Jerry McLawhorn of the Greenville Fire Department.

His topic was "Fire Safety in the Home."

Guests present included Mrs. McLawhorn, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Earl Adams, Fire Chief Jenness Allen and Mrs. Allen, Doris Paul of Washington, Carolyn Bowen, Judy Wingate, Virginia Riggs, JoAnne White and LeeEllen Jenkins.

Adams was honored by PCAIW for being chosen Fire-Rescue Person of the Year" by his co-workers. He was given a plaque from the group by President Audrey Stillwell, CPIW, during Fire Prevention Week.

Chief Allen told of the equipment and function of the Greenville Fire-Rescue Department.

Joyce Mills, CPIW, welfare chairperson, reported on plans to provide Christmas for a resident of Caswell Center in Kinston with a party and gifts Dec. 9.

SUSPENSE WRITER

NEW YORK (AP) — There are mystery buffs who say Cornell Woolrich was the most accomplished suspense author in the 20th century and a fitting rival to Edgar Allan Poe.

When Woolrich died in 1968, he left an estate of more than $1 million. Despite an eccentric life, his work was well known from the 1930s through the early '50s — as well known as that of Dashiell Hammett and Raymond Chandler.

Films based on his plots include "Rear Window" and "The Bride Wore Black."

Dear Abby

Good Fortune For Others

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am a well-to-do widow who has been doing a lot of soul-searching lately. I am in fairly good health for a person my age, but I want to "put my affairs in order" and rebase my will.

I have 14 grandchildren and great-grandchildren who really don't deserve the windfall they would get were I to leave them a considerable fortune.

My late husband worked hard and invested wisely to accumulate a sizable estate. None of our grandchildren have evidenced any special qualities to indicate that they deserve or could judiciously handle a large inheritance. It might even reduce their incentive to work and damage their characters.

On my demise, I would like to use my estate to better humanity. What are your recommendations?

SECOND THOUGHTS

DEAR THOUGHTS: In my opinion, the most rewarding gift is in helping people to help themselves. ("Give a man a fish and he can eat for a day. Teach him to fish and he will eat for a lifetime.") Support scholarship programs and make education available to students who are eager to learn and qualify scholastically but lack the funds.

Support agencies for independent living so that physically disabled people can live independently in society without being institutionalized. Support medical research. We need to know more about lupus, diabetes, kidney disease, liver disease, arthritis, heart disease, Alzheimer's disease and cancer. The list is endless.

And please don't forget one of the most deserving and least remembered charities of all — the animal shelters.

DEAR ABBY: In connection with a funeral service, what lies in state — the body or the casket? Our local newspaper and radio station seem to favor the word casket.

E.R.P., ATCHISON, KAN.

DEAR E.R.P.: The body lies in state, but it cannot lie in state without a casket. Neither can an empty casket lie in state without a body.

Hard Budget Choices

The word is sifting down as to how mournful the state revenue picture is.

City School Superintendent DeLma Blinson told his school board this week school systems are being warned that if there is not an improvement in the economy, "It is very possible that some reductions in allocations to local school systems will have to be made to get us through the year."

Blinson said a memorandum had been received from Craig Phillips, state superintendent of public instruction, regarding the situation.

Phillips said it was hoped enough voluntary reductions could be realized to prevent a mandated cut-back.

The situation will be monitored from month-to-month by the state board.

County Superintendent Eddie West said Gov. Hunt has asked boards not to fill vacant non-teaching positions unless they are essential. While this doesn't yet affect Pitt County, it may in January.

State funds are a major part of school districts budgets.

Greenville schools receive $5,725,808 in state funds for its $10,303,050 budget.

Blinson made it clear that he might have to come to the board with recommendations for cuts.

The local school systems, like most around the state, can ill afford any cuts in their budgeted spending.

It will not be easy to get along with less when so many things are still needed for education. Yet hard choices may have to be made due to the current national and worldwide recession.

ENOUGH TO MAKE ANYONE SICK!

Lame Ducks Unreliable

WASHINGTON (AP) — But first, a final word from the 97th Congress.

Actually, there will be a lot of words, and virtually no action, before it expires and the 98th begins at noon on Jan. 3. The House and Senate reconvene in post-election session on Nov. 29, supposedly to do what they didn't get done before the campaign.

That session will have an ample cast of lame ducks. Twenty-four Republican House members and three Democrats were defeated in Tuesday's elections. Two other Republican incumbents trailed in races so close that it will take the official vote canvass to certify the outcome. Two senators were defeated and another three are retiring.

There are another 50 congressmen who won't be around next year, 10 due to primary election defeats, 40 retiring.

Lame-duck sessions of Congress are notorious for what they don't do. This one doesn't look like an exception. There's a built-in incentive for the party that gained strength in the elections to stall on anything significant. All the winners have to do is wait a few weeks and the measures involved will come up again, in a new Congress, when they have more votes.

It worked that way two years ago, when Republicans came out of the election in command of the Senate and with 33 added seats in the House. The lame-duck session that followed produced just about nothing, and adjourned on Dec. 16 after approving stopgap measures to keep the government from running out of money.

The then-Democratic Senate did approve severance pay for the aides who were losing their jobs because 18 members were leaving office and Republicans were about to take over.

The 1982 shift is not so dramatic. Party lines held in the Senate, 54 Republicans, 46 Democrats. The new House will be two dozen seats more Democratic than the current one.

But that's enough to make it worthwhile for the Democrats to wait until next year.

on anything big. President Reagan won his major economic victories on the strength of a coalition of House Republicans and conservative Democrats. That coalition is going to be far more difficult to assemble in the new Congress. Reagan's men say they can do it, but they, and the president, say it will take compromise.

Reagan set an ambitious agenda for the lame-duck session in his nationally televised economic address three weeks before the election. He said he wanted Congress back at work "as quickly as possible to continue the work of recovery," on a five-part list of "must" measures.

He said he wants action on a dozen appropriations bills, which were supposed to have been passed before Oct. 1, then threatened to veto them if they exceed his budget.

There may be action on defense appropriations, but not without a fight. Democratic leaders, and some Republicans, want increases in defense spending held below the levels the administration seeks.

But the rest of the appropriations are likely to be shelved until next year, with the government financed by resolution. That's usually the outcome. It, too, could produce a partisan fight, unless spending levels are held well within budget boundaries. It was just such a resolution Reagan vetoed to send the government into a brief, make-believe shutdown about a year ago.

Reagan also said the lame-duck session should reconsider a constitutional amendment seeking balanced budgets later in the decade. The amendment cleared the Senate but failed in the House earlier this year. Democrats are not about to call it up again.

The president asked for action, too, on regulatory reform, a Republican plan for "enterprise zone" incentives to promote economic development, and passage of an overhauled air pollution control act.

His chances of getting those measures are about as good as Democratic prospects for gaining enactment (Continued on page 5)

United Way Is Over The Top

It was a jubilant group which celebrated the Pitt County United Way victory day Wednesday afternoon.

The UW annual campaign had reached and exceeded its goal of $489,020. General Chairman Frank Grooms announced the drive had raised $515,304 in contributions and pledges.

General Chairman Grooms, Executive Director Lou Folger, President Harry Leslie and many division chairmen and individuals deserve credit for reaching the goal so promptly.

All would agree that the entire community is to be commended for supporting with its gifts the organizations which participate in United Way.

The United Way campaign is working as it should in Pitt County and we can all take pride in a job well done.

Learn From Tish

By PAUL T. O'CONNOR
RALEIGH — Maybe it was the red beret Tish Robbins wore tilted down to her left ear. Or maybe it's just that legislators on the Utility Review Commission are more accustomed to hearing from lawyers in pin-stripes than bent-over old ladies in brown pants suits. Whatever it was, when Ms. Robbins took the podium at a recent commission meeting, a feeling of patronizing tolerance spread over the room: Let her have her say and then we'll move on to important stuff.

Tish Robbins, 74, thinks she has an important story to tell about a new direction in the production of electricity — a process that can cut electricity costs, eliminate air pollution and acid rain. Some lunatic fringe suggestion? By the time she finished, the members of the commission didn't think so and they were quick to realize that this pint-sized senior citizen had something important to tell the legislators.

Fluidized Bed Combustion is Ms. Robbins' answer to America's electricity problems. FBCs are power production plants which burn a mix of pulverized low-grade coal — which is inexpensive — and limestone. Those who believe in FBCs say the mixture eliminates the need for limestone flue-stack scrubbers. Therefore, there's no messy, expensive clean-up of the limestone scrubbers.

The process allows the boilers to operate at lower temperatures — 1500 degrees instead of 3000 degrees Fahrenheit. That translates into less fuel. The FBCs are also said to burn their fuel more completely, so no air pollution is released. Since all nitrogen is burned up, there's no contribution to the acid rain problems, Mrs. Robbins said.

The benefits of this miracle process continued to roll off the lips of the Little Washington native who grew up to be a public relations writer for a Florida power company and then retired seven years ago in Asheville. Construction costs would be considerably less for FBC plants than for conventional or nuclear plants. They use less water. They fire up and cool down much faster, thus eliminating much of the need for leveling off peak load demand.

There's got to be a hitch. There is, said a representative of Duke Power. Utilities have been keeping an eye on FBCs experimental projects for years but so far all have flopped. But Utilities Commissioner Hartwell Campbell, who was in the audience, says the future of FBCs "is very promising". There are several test projects underway now, he said, and the Tennessee Valley Authority is having some success.

Ms. Robbins says she's surprised that so few people in the electrical industry know about FBCs. In fact, Bob Fischbach, director of the state's Public Staff, confessed to the commission that he didn't know anything about them. Another industry spokesman said the utilities would run out and buy FBC equipment tomorrow if they could get it.

The design of FBC plants will allow the utilities to undertake a completely different strategy in the production of electricity. Instead of building ever-larger plants, FBCs could be very small. The smaller the plant, the closer it can be to its customers which would reduce the need for long and (Continued on page 5)

Other Editors Say Jolting Decision

(Greensboro Daily News)

Consumers in North Carolina are getting a real charge out of the news coming from the N.C. Utilities Commission. But utilities are getting a jolt.

First it was Carolina Power & Light Co., which last summer sought a $174 million rate increase and wound up with less than $9 million. Now it's Duke Power Co.'s turn. The commission announced this week it was chopping Duke's $197 million rate increase proposal by more than two-thirds to $61.7 million.

That still means power rates are going up, of course; but not by nearly so much as before. And that's good news. Duke's customers in North Carolina would have been paying nearly 14 percent more, but the commission's order means average residential rates will go up about 4.4 percent, or about $2.64 per month.

The commission's decision on Duke Power's request differed sharply from the CP&L order in at least one respect. In the CP&L case, the commission found the company had operated inefficiently and punished it for "imprudent management"; in the Duke case, it found the company to be well-run, but cut the firm's rate request anyway.

Consumers can take heart from several specific items in the order: The commission ruled that Duke's customers shouldn't have to pay more than half the salaries of Duke executives earning more than $150,000 a year. The remainder will be borne by stockholders.

The commission also said Duke tried to pay itself too much money when it bought coal from a subsidiary and thus cannot charge customers $6.7 million in excessive costs for coal purchases.

And what the commission granted Duke Power permission to recover about $131 million worth of construction work in progress, it denied another $41 million worth of CWIP costs.

But what about Duke Power's investors? The company has consistently argued that a fair rate of return on stockholders' investment is essential to the firm's long-term health. But here again the utilities commission balked. In a 1981 rate case, the commission had authorized Duke Power to earn 16.5 percent on stockholder's investment. But in this week's order the company was authorized to earn 15.5 percent. Initial Wall Street reaction to the order was negative, although most analysts agree there won't be much change in the stock's position.

End The Poormouthing

If there is anything that upsets me, it's when the leaders of the two major superpowers start poormouthing their own nuclear weapons capabilities.

We saw a disgusting example of this last week when Leonid Brezhnev stood up in front of 500 of his marshals and generals and told them that the United States was ahead in the arms race. He promised his military leaders he would do everything to rectify the situation by spending more money on new weapons.

The Brezhnev revelations came as a surprise to most Americans, who had been told by President Reagan and Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger that the Soviets were ahead of the United States when it came to weaponry, and we were the ones who had to spend the money to keep up with them.

I was so angry at the Brezhnev speech that I went to see my disarmament expert, Prof. Heinrich Applebaum of the Armageddon Institute for Limited Peace.

"Didn't you think that was a lousy thing Brezhnev told his generals the other day? Can you imagine the leader of a superpower claiming his country was No. 2 when it came to wreaking nuclear havoc?"

Applebaum said, "Brezhnev was only trying to save his own skin. If he told the Soviet military they were No. 1, then that meant he wasn't going to give them more money for new weapons. He had to placate them by saying they were way behind us."

I said, "Okay, but why did Weinberger come right back and say Brezhnev was lying and we were a weak No. 2 in the arms race?"

"Weinberger had to say it

ART BUCHWALD

or Congress would cut his next defense budget to ribbons. If Weinberger said we were No. 1, he wouldn't have a military leg to stand on when it came to building an MX missile system."

"So you think they were both giving us a snow job?"

"Not necessarily. The fact of the matter is that neither superpower has any idea who is No. 1 or No. 2. When both have the capability of blowing up the world, the question becomes academic anyway."

"Then why would Brezhnev go to all the trouble of saying his weapons were technologically inferior?"

"Because when you're in an arms race, you always have to say the other guy is ahead. Otherwise Brezhnev would have a hard time persuading the Soviet people he still had to buy more guns before they got any butter."

"So you think it was wise of Reagan and Weinberger to call Brezhnev's bluff by saying we were the ones who were playing catch-up?"

"They had no choice. Our nuclear arsenal is second to none, but just because we can pulverize them and they can pulverize us isn't enough of a deterrent any more. You have to develop a third generation of weapons to wipe out the other guy's stuff before he can hit you."

"If we do that first, will we be No. 1?"

"No, because the Soviets will probably come up with their own system to blow up our stuff before it hits them. Then we'll both have to start on the fourth generation of weapons which can penetrate the other fellow's new defenses. The thing you have to understand about an arms race is that there is no finish line."

"Then how can you stop it?"

"There is only one way. One side has to declare its nuclear superiority over the other, which it will never do, because it will be too much of a threat to the other."

"So what you're saying is that as long as both sides think they don't have the right mix to wage a nuclear war, there is less chance of one of them starting one?"

"That seems to be the case. For the moment I have no objection to the superpowers poormouthing their defense capabilities. I'll start worrying when the generals on either side say to their leaders, 'We think we've got enough stuff.'"

Strength For Today

HEAVEN AND HELL

What is heaven like?

Strange as it may seem, the Bible satisfies our curiosity very little as regards this question. It tells us that there is neither marriage nor giving in marriage in heaven. It tells us that the heavenly state is one of light, peace and rejoicing. It describes heaven as a beautiful city, and rivers of pure water flow out from the throne of God.

The Bible is very clear in its assurance that we will enter into this heavenly state if we meet the divine requirement. And this requirement consists in learning how to live the heavenly life while we are here on earth. What we usually call heaven is the cosmic consummation of a loving, sacrificial, believing and joyful type of living which people begin here on earth. And hell is the eternal consummation of the evil we choose when confronted with the opportunity to make a more moral choice. — Elisha Douglass

Spotlight On Other Concerns

By JOHN CUNIFF

AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — With the elections out of the way, speculation will return to more permanent considerations, such as the economy, stocks and bonds, the money supply, Federal Reserve policy and the weather.

Paine Webber Mitchell Hutchins Inc., which normally worries about stocks and related investments, already has been caught up in weather worries and has announced the possibility of a severely cold "double-dip" winter and spring.

What that has to do with investments might not be immediately obvious until you realize that most brokers these days handle commodities trading also, and it pays to know which way the wind will be blowing over the wheat fields.

Of more immediate concern is which way the Federal Reserve will bend. A feeling exists in credit markets that the Fed wanted to lower the discount rate just before the elections but feared being accused of aiding the Republicans.

That fear was real, since earlier decreases in the discount rate — the rate the central bank charges on overnight loans to commercial bank members — would give a further boost to stocks and bonds. And it is well known, of course, that when securities prices rise, so does a sense of well being among millions.

Nobody is certain that is why the Fed declined to drop the rate, but now a large segment of the marketplace believes a one-half point reduction to 9 percent is about to be announced, if not tomorrow, then certainly next week.

Pleasant expectations these days, however, almost always are accompanied by foreboding. The Fed, everyone knows, is supposed to be above partisan politics, but nobody is certain of this. What, if instead, it clamps down on the economy?

That dilemma makes forecasters squirm, as in this example from Wright Investors' Service, a well-known analyst of investment markets.

"Except for the specter of recurrent FRB (Federal Reserve Board) intransigence, the recent stock market advance is solidly established and broadly based," said Wright, which has a reputation for straight talk.

But, it adds this time, as most forecasters do, a reference to Fed policy. The hope, expectation and forecast is off, said Wright, "if the FRB reverts to doctrinaire monetarism and 'stabilizes' rates at close to the present level."

The safest speculation is that nothing economic is likely to be stabilized, since nearly everything economic has been in a state of extreme flux for more than a decade, or at least since President Nixon froze prices.

As many people remember, even that didn't produce real stability. Prices continued to rise and have been rising ever since. And now even the way we measure those prices is about to change, producing even more instability.

Beginning in January, mortgage interest rates won't be directly included in the consumer price index, unless politics or another impediment interfere. The results conceivably could produce some pain for Republicans.

A bit of explanation: Consumer prices rose only 5 percent during the past 12 months, and as Jack Lavery, Merrill Lynch economist points out, declining mortgage rates were heavily involved in that performance.

But wait 'til next year. Under the techniques to be used in 1983 that 5 percent inflation rate, in which President Reagan has taken great pride, would have been 5.5 percent. Not much you say? But that's 10 percent. That's a lot.

Bad enough that prices are unstable. Now the measurement is changing too.

Remedial Action Over DUI Plague Discussed

By BILL OUTLAW
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Automobile insurance premiums increase significantly after a person is convicted of drunken driving, but insurance industry officials say further rate hikes won't help reverse the DUI problem.

Lamar Gunter of the North Carolina Insurance News Service says a drunken-driving conviction would likely cost a North Carolina driver with a good driving record from $1,000 to $3,000 for full coverage in automobile insurance premiums.

However, Gunter says trying to increase insurance premiums as a way to deter drunken driving is more likely to prompt people to drive without insurance because the fines for that would cost less than the increased premiums for insurance coverage.

"The (DUI) problem really needs to be addressed on a statutory basis (by the Legislature)," Gunter said.

Insurance premiums are one of the biggest reasons many people arrested for drunken driving often try to get charges reduced to reckless driving as part of the plea-bargaining process.

Plea bargaining in drunken driving cases is one area that citizens groups such as Mothers Against Drunken Driving (MADD) are watching. MADD has been monitoring some state district attorneys and judges to determine how often they allow plea bargaining in drunken-driving cases.

Gunter said plea bargaining was one area addressed at 10 regional conference meetings on Thursday dealing with the drunken-driving problem. The meetings, sponsored by the Insurance News Service, were attended by an estimated 400 people statewide.

He said one proposal before the Governor's Task Force on Drunken Drivers calls for the mandatory monitoring of all judges and district attorneys to determine how much plea bargaining is allowed in drunken-driving cases.

Gunter says a driver's actual cost on insurance premiums varies according to past driving records, the type car driven and whether the person is placed in the reinsurance facility.

As an example, Gunter said a driver with a good driving record who owned a 1982 Ford Futura would pay about $303 for full automobile insurance coverage, including liability, collision and comprehensive with the minimum limits.

He said that same person with a drunken driving conviction would have to pay $667.40 for liability insurance for a drunken-driving conviction, provided that driver was placed in the reinsurance facility.

The rates for collision and comprehensive coverage for that same driver could go as high as $2,250 for DUI. He said the combined coverage (liability, collision and comprehensive) would probably run a minimum of $1,367.14, for the same driver who had been paying the $303 premium.

"(A driver) could find it for less, but it's not too likely," Gunter said.

Although she is a member of the N.C. Conservation Council, Ms. Robbins spoke for no group or alliance — just as an ordinary citizen. She asked the commission to look at the feasibility of FBCs and to think about a requirement that all new power plant construction in the state be of this nature. She's already been to the Alternative Energy Corporation asking them to help develop FBCs as an alternative to current generating processes.

of job-creation programs outlined by Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr. while he was campaigning. O'Neill said the postscript session of Congress should act to create jobs, stimulate the housing industry and rebuild the nation's industrial base.

There's also Social Security. A reform commission, created at Reagan's call, is to draft its recommendations for change next week. That will be a topic for lots of conversation in the lame-duck session.

But, like most everything else, it is likely to be all talk, no action.

John Paul II Familiar With 'Anti-Pope' Of Spain

By DENNIS REDMONT
Associated Press Writer
SEVILLE, Spain (AP)—
Roman Catholic officials
welcoming Pope John Paul II to this southern city anticipate no problems from Gregory XVII, the blind
ex-seminarian who proclaimed himself "pope" and named Christopher Columbus a saint.

Clemente Dominguez
Gomez, a 36-year-old former accountant and one-time
student of theology, proclaimed himself pope in 1978
as the cardinals of the church were meeting at the Vatican to elect a successor to Pope Paul VI.
Dominguez said an apparition—the most recent of some 50 he claimed to have seen—told him to declare himself "chief of the Catholic Church and the only vicar of Christ on earth."

He followed his proclamation by issuing a long list of new saints including Columbus and the late Spanish
dictator Gen. Francisco Franco.

Dominguez's "elevation"
would likely have been dismissed by the Vatican as the act of an eccentric—except that the would-be pontiff, who is fond of being carried on a portable throne like the popes of old, had been consecrated a bishop in 1975 by an actual bishop of the church.

Dominguez started attracting attention in 1969,
when he began reporting
visions of the Virgin Mary and various saints.

On Aug. 15, 1970, over 40,000 pilgrims—most of them blind or paralyzed—
converged on the dusty Seville suburb of Palmar de Troya to hear his tales at an open-air Mass.

Five years later, Ngo Dinh Thuc, a Roman Catholic
bishop from Hue, Vietnam,
and brother of former South
Vietnamese President Ngo Dinh Diem, formally ordained Dominguez as a priest. Not long afterward, he proclaimed Dominguez a bishop.

Dominguez, in turn, began ordaining "cardinals"—30
of them, including a 17-year-old—and organizing

"dioceses" in France,
Argentina and the United States.

Financial support—some of it from aging Spanish
aristocrats—was plentiful.
Dominguez even started
building a multi-million dollar cathedral near Seville.
Angered by his boldness,
the Vatican's envoy to Spain
excommunicated
Dominguez, five of his followers and Bishop Thuc, saying the ordinations were illegal under church law.

Pope Paul VI later lifted Thuc's excommunication and the bishop went to Rome to do penance in a monastery.

But Dominguez—called the "anti-pope" by Vatican
officials—remained defiant,
naming himself pope, continuing to celebrate the Mass and rejecting the authority of the Vatican.

"We don't take Clemente Dominguez seriously here,"
says the Bishop of Seville, Carlos Amigo Vallejo, a

48-year-old Franciscan. "He is an anecdote, and his following is nearly nil."

"Sevillians would not tolerate any insult to Pope John Paul from this individual who proclaims himself the anti-pope," the bishop said.

Nevertheless, more than 100 people still work and live
with Gregory XVII at "La Alcaparrosa," a farm 22 miles south of Seville. They refused to talk to visiting reporters and have not announced any plans in connection with John Paul's visit.

"Most of the visitors (to La Alcaparrosa) are curious tourists from the United States," says the Rev. Jose

Maria Javierre, a Seville priest and theologian who has occasionally met Dominguez.

"He's a bit of a fanatic, a bit exalted, a bit crazy. But my impression is he now doesn't believe in his own

role any more," the priest said.

"Pope John Paul used to ask visitors from Seville about Dominguez at first, but he now seems to have understood this is a phenomenon which cannot damage
the church."

Police Investigate 6 Traffic Mishaps

An estimated $9,150 property damage resulted from a series of six traffic collisions investigated by Greenville police Thursday.

Officers said heaviest damage resulted from a 4:30 p.m. incident on Evans Street, 2 miles south of the Greenville Boulevard intersection, involving cars
driven by Keith Sherman
Whitney of 23B Stratford
Arms and Joy Pollock
Gaskins of Route 1,
Greenville.

Investigators, who charged Whitney with failing to see his intended movement could be made in safety, said the Whitney car pulled from a driveway into the path of the Gaskins car, causing the Gaskins car to run into a roadside ditch to avoid a collision.

Damage to the Gaskins vehicle was set at $4,500
while no damage resulted to the Whitney car.

Police noted that both Ms.
Gaskins and a passenger in her car were injured.

Cars driven by Jerry

Wayne Allen of 206 N. Summit St. and Vernie Otis Brantley of Roanoke Rapids collided about 4:50 p.m. at the intersection of 10th and Cotanche streets, causing an estimated $500 damage to the Allen car and $1,000 damage to the Brantley vehicle.

A car driven by Alisa
Deneen Manning of 209
Sumrell St. overturned on Greenville Boulevard, 50 feet
east of the Brimley Drive intersection about 8:40 p.m.
when the car skidded into the curve after the driver applied breaks to keep from colliding with a vehicle that pulled from a driveway in front of her.

Damage to the Manning
car was estimated at $1,200.

Vehicles driven by Roger Wayne Benton of Highland Trailer Park and David Russell Clayman of Goldsboro collided about 4:12
p.m. on 10th Street, 75 feet
west of the Rocksprings Road intersection, causing $650 damage to the Benton vehicle and $200 damage to the Clayman car.

Police reported cars driven by Reginald Andre Anderson of 304 White St. and Mary Susan Woolard of 229
Wedgewood Arms collided about 4:35 p.m. at the intersection of Red Banks Road and Camellia Lane.

Damage was set at $500 to the Anderson car and $200 to the Woolard car.

A 7:10 p.m. collision at the intersection of Elm and 14th streets involved cars driven by Robbin Causey Clark of 2006 Fairview Way and Emma Stanton Brake of Rocky Mount.

Police estimated damage
at $250 to the Clark vehicle and $150 to the Brake car.

Life As It's Lived

Battery-Operated Toys Pose A Parental Risk

By GAIL MICHAELS
As the advertisements for batteries with interminable lives whirl into sight with ever increasing frequency at the beginning of this holiday season, I find myself compelled to request equal time. Someone has got to warn the first-time parent about the pitfalls of buying battery-operated toys.

Personally, I avoid them with an assiduity I usually reserve for Jerry Lewis movies. Phillip and I have even made a pact. He doesn't bring home anything that generates its own noise and I try not to purchase large cartons marked "un-assembled," especially if the instructions are in Japanese.

Now I'll be the first to admit that battery-operated toys are cute. That's their fatal lure. They're incredibly nifty. They're so nifty that small children can't resist tearing them apart. Either a parent has to forbid the kid to come within 10 feet of these so-called playthings or the parent can count on total destruction of the toy within a week at the outside.

We know this, and our children's grandparents know this. But grandparents are even weaker than parents when confronted with the insidiously adorable. One grandmother couldn't resist a Walt Disney train on a circular track in an amusement park. The ferris wheel was the first thing to pop off. Several cars carrying dwarves around a merry-go-round were the next to go. Mickey, Donald, and Goofy, each in a separate train car, have headed back to Florida or California for all I know.

About the only part that didn't disappear almost immediately was the noise. The engine kept getting stuck at the junctions and would bump and grind with the persistence of a dentist's drill. The free-moving circus train that appealed to the other grandmother was just as irritating. It kept attempting unsuccessfully to tunnel through my living room walls.

But Phillip's father found a battery-operated jeep with blinking headlights and four wheel drive that ostensibly solved this problem. When it hit the wall, it flipped over and kept going. It was one of the cleverest toys I had ever seen, and Zachary was thrilled with it. He immediately removed the steering wheel and the windshield with its antenna. He broke off one of the wheels and was so remorseful that Phillip glued it back on for him three times. He waited until the next day to pull one of the headlights out of its socket, leaving it to dangle like Meg's favorite monster's eyeball.

The jeep might have survived in spite of this rough treatment had Zachary been content to sit back once he turned it on and let it rip. But no 2-year-old can resist the urge to push. So it wasn't long before he stripped the gears. The car would lurch forward a few inches, then halt. It was like having a lawnmower as a house guest.

Naturally, Zachary and I had several discussions about turning the jeep off. "No," he would wail. "Let me hear it!" Even the promise of his favorite story couldn't sway him. I felt as if I had bees in my ears. After several hours I had all the emotional attributes of a civilian caught without warning in an air raid. I finally cracked.

When Phillip came home that evening he was met at the door by a sobbing toddler and an unrepentant mom. "Turn it on," Zachary begged, holding up the jeep.

Phillip flipped the switch several times without success. "I don't think it works anymore. Did you break it?"

Zachary shook his head vigorously. "No! Mommy took the batteries out!"

Phillip grinned. "Grated on your nerves, huh?"

"Just don't," I growled, "ever mention the word Dura-Cell in this house again."

Facts About The BIBLE BY JOHN LEHTI

MARK'S GOSPEL—OR IS IT?

ST. MARK, AUTHOR OF THE SECOND GOSPEL, BELONGED TO A GRECIAN FAMILY FROM CYPRUS, COUSIN OF THE EVANGELIST BARNABAS, HIS SURNAME WAS MARK—GIVEN NAME, JOHN. HIS MOTHER, MARY, WAS A WOMAN OF WEALTH, IN WHOSE HOME IN JERUSALEM, MARK MET ST. PETER WHO WAS A CONSTANT VISITOR. MARK ACCOMPANIED HIS COUSIN BARNABAS AND ST. PAUL ON MISSIONARY TRIPS AS AN ASSISTANT. AFTER THEIR DEATHS, HE ATTACHED HIMSELF TO PETER, FOR WHOM HE WORKED AS A LETTER WRITER AND INTERPRETER DUE TO GALILEAN-BORN PETER'S LACK OF PROFICIENCY IN GREEK AND ROMAN SPEECH.

BECAUSE MARK WROTE HIS GOSPEL WHILE AT ROME WITH PETER, MANY AUTHORITIES FELT IT WAS DONE WHOLLY UNDER PETER'S GUIDANCE—THE ANCIENT CLEMENT OF ALEXANDRIA THOUGHT SO, AS DID PAPIAS, BUT....

...WHETHER THIS IS SO OR NOT, HE WROTE WITH GREAT INDEPENDENCE! MANY THINGS CAN BE LEARNED FROM MARK THAT ARE NOT FOUND IN THE OTHER GOSPELS—FIRST, HE DID NOT WRITE HIS GOSPEL FOR THE JEWS BUT FOR THE GENTILE CONVERTS TO CHRISTIANITY....

THIS IS EVIDENT IN HIS MANNER OF TAKING TIME TO EXPLAIN CERTAIN THINGS WHICH NEEDED NO EXPLAINING TO JEWS—SUCH AS THE FACT THE "JORDAN IS A RIVER," THE PHARISEES "USED TO FAST," THE MOUNT OF OLIVES IS "OVER AGAINST THE TEMPLE," AT PASSOVER MEN "EAT UNLEAVENED BREAD"—MARK ALSO TOOK THE TROUBLE TO POINT OUT THAT MATTHEW WAS "LEVI, SON OF ALPHEUS, PETER WAS A NAME GIVEN TO SIMON BY JESUS, THAT JESUS WAS A "CARPENTER!" ALL THESE THINGS WERE COMMON KNOWLEDGE TO JEWS OF THAT DAY BUT NOT TO GENTILES. WHENEVER MARK USED ARAMAIC WORDS, HE STOPPED TO TRANSLATE THEM FOR THE GENTILE READER. IN ALL, MARK TOOK GREAT CARE TO SHOW THE HUMAN SIDE OF JESUS—HE COULD BE TIRED (IV:36), VERY ANGRY (III:5), HE COULD SIGH (VII:34, VIII:12), AND BE "GREATLY AMAZED" AND "SORE TROUBLED" (XY:37). ABOVE ALL, MARK PRESENTED JESUS AS THE MAN ON EARTH, WORKING AS GOD'S SERVANT!

Replies To Ecumenism Critics

By GEORGE W. CORNELL, AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) - A top ecumenical leader says the movement for Christian unity and the mainline churches that participate in it are facing a "rising crescendo of charges" and criticisms.

United Methodist Bishop James Armstrong, president of the National Council of Churches of Christ, says it and other ecumenical bodies are targets of an increasing barrage of distortions and misleading innuendos. Usually the attacks "tend to be political rather than religious," he says, adding that such tactics are not new, having precedents in the "Cold War" 1950's when some church groups and leaders were smeared as pro-communist.

Repudiating such insinuations, he says "quite the opposite is true. A free church in a free society stands as the mightiest bulwark against atheistic materialism." In a 3,500-word pastoral letter to United Methodists in the Indiana area where he presides, Armstrong strongly defended the work of ecumenical organizations and hit at their detractors. The letter was issued shortly before a meeting in FARMVILLE - Beacon Free Will Baptist Church will hold a series of evangelistic services Nov. 15-21 led by Dr. Joe Ange of Nashville, Tenn. Music will be presented by guests, including Mrs. Pat Hill of Tarboro, the Grifton Free Will Baptist Choir, the Lighthouse Singers and the Beacon Church Choir, a ladies' ensemble from Tabernacle Free Will Baptist Church, Kingston; the Teen Singers from Ruth's Chapel F.W.B. Church, and the Christian School of New Bern. Dr. Ange has served in Durham on two occasions and at Roy Oak, Mich. Before entering evangelistic service, he was campus pastor at Free Will Baptist College for 10 years.

New York this week of the National Council's governing board, made up of about 250 representatives of the various member denominations.

Besides criticisms of that council, composed of 32 U.S. Protestant, Anglican and Eastern Orthodox bodies totalling about 40 million members, he says another main target is the World Council of Churches.

That international cooperative body, made up of 301 denominations of virtually every type except Roman Catholicism and totalling 400 million Christians, around the earth, is preparing for a one-in-seven-years event. Its sixth general assembly is next August in Canada's western city of Vancouver.

As an example of assertedly unfair criticism, Armstrong cited a recent Reader's Digest article about the World Council entitled "Karl Marx or Jesus Christ?" It quotes the late German church leader Martin Niemoller as once asking in regard to the Russian Orthodox Church: "Is the Russian Church a servant of Stalin first or of Christ first?"

However, Armstrong says, the article failed to add that Niemoller went on to say: "I have found in Moscow a church, of which I am convinced that in its parishes and its ministries, it seeks to be the church of Jesus Christ."

Armstrong said such criticism, based on "distorted information, innuendo and transparent political bias does a disservice to the ecumenical movement and the church of Jesus Christ."

democracy, and he said indications are of more criticism on a forthcoming CBS-TV "60 Minutes" show. Critics generally have maintained their points are valid, and some have said they want firmer upholding of Western freedom by the ecumenical groups.

Armstrong, asking "why the attacks?" suggested the reasons were summed up in a letter by a woman to a newspaper charging the World Council does not believe "in the blood of Christ" and the "American way of life."

"Her first objection was dead wrong," he said, adding that both the WCC and NCCC churches are orthodox and evangelical in their theology and "do believe in the atonement" through Christ's death and resurrection. But he said "her second charge is quite correct."

"It is not the function of the church of Jesus Christ to champion any national flag, any political or economic system. The church does not belong in the pocket of either Adam Smith or Karl Marx. It belongs to Jesus Christ. "For us to put any loyalty, any cause, any movement, any political system above our primary loyalty to the Body of Christ is itself an act of treason. We dare have no lesser gods."

"As long as there are those who expect the church to be an extension of the ideologies of the left or right, apologists for the policies of any particular president or government, they will be sadly disappointed."

However, he listed nine instances in which the National Council has protested human rights violations in communist areas, and the "massive aid" sent to Poland's people "suffering under military oppression."

"In the name of Jesus Christ the NCCC seeks to rise above political ideologies and national labels to respond to human need," he said, noting that 75 percent of its budget goes for relief work through Church World Service.

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) (NCDA) - The North Carolina f.o.b. dock broiler market was higher. Supply moderate, instance of shortage. Demand. The dock weighted average price is 39.53 per pound for next week for small purchases of sized plant-grade broilers picked up at processing plants. Estimated slaughter of broilers and fryers in North Carolina today was 2,014,000 including Saturday kill.

Hens
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) (NCDA) - The North Carolina hen market was steady with a firm undertone. Supplies short. Demand very good. Prices paid per pound for hens over seven pounds at farm for Monday and Tuesday slaughter was 19 cents.

NEW YORK (AP) - Stock prices showed a small gain today, rebounding from Thursday's decline in another busy session on Wall Street. The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, which reached a new peak of 1,065.49 Wednesday but dropped back 15.27 on Thursday, rose 2.39 to 1,052.61 by noontime today.

Gainers held a 3-2 lead over losers in the broad tally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues. Trading volume for the first two hours on the Big Board totaled 45.70 million shares, well off Thursday's record pace. But the ticker tape reporting trades in NYSE issues still ran as much as 18 minutes late. Before the market opened the Labor Department reported that the unemployment rate rose to 10.4 percent, its highest level in more than 40 years, in October.

Analysts said the news did not have much effect on the market, however, because traders had widely expected a rise to about that level.

With some investors intent on cashing in their recent gains, and others scrambling to climb aboard the rally, analysts said the market was likely to remain volatile in the days ahead.

Among today's early volume leaders, International Business Machines rose 1/2 to 84 1/2 and Boeing was up 1 1/4 to 29 1/4, but Exxon lost 3/8 to 30 3/8.

The NYSE's composite index climbed 20 to 81.79. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up .55 at 337.13.

Pitt's Close-Up Programs Ends

Students from the four Pitt County High Schools completed a two-day inspection of Pitt County's government and the way it works today as the third Pitt County Close Up program came to a close. Initiated in 1980, Pitt County Close Up gives interested students first-hand experience with local government. The first county

Close Up program in the United States, Pitt's two-day event has been used as a model by schools across the nation for government studies on the local level. Close Up began Thursday with a keynote address by Kenneth Vidato, community coordinator of the Close Up Foundation of Washington, D.C.

Additional meetings were conducted by County Commissioners Kelly Barnhill, Bob Martin, Charis Gaskins and Burney Tucker. A luncheon meeting with Thomas W. Lambeth of the Z. Smith Reynolds Foundation as the featured speaker

Two Bogus Bills Are Reported

Greenville police said this morning that two counterfeit $20 bills were found by Wachovia Bank and Truist Co. employees in deposits made by one of the bank's customers. Chief Glenn Cannon said bank tellers discovered the counterfeit bills in deposits made by Kroger Sav-On Food and Drugs at 600 E. Greenville Blvd. over a two-day period.

The bills, he said, are imitations of 1981 Series E Federal Reserve notes with the serial number E9069086A. Cannon said the notes are printed on "poor quality" paper, and had been "crumpled" to appear old. He added that the green ink used on the counterfeits appears too "yellowish," and said the notes have no "back plate" number. The chief said anyone having one of the counterfeit bills or having information about them should contact the police department.

Annual BARBECUE DINNER

Afterwards, students attended sessions in the court house with Keith Knox of the sheriff's department; Ray Joyner, state parole and probation officer; Larry Parker, deputy sheriff at the Pitt County Jail, and Thomas Haigwood of the district attorney's office. Students then had a question-and-answer session with Robert Dunn, director of the Economic Development Commission, and Ed Walker of the Pitt-Greenville Chamber of Commerce. Today, sessions were held at D.H. Conley High School with Mark Owens of the Pitt County School Board; Jimmy Hardee, county tax supervisor; John Jablonski, supervisor at the Social Services Department, and Donald Davenport, administrative assistant to the Pitt County manager. A panel discussion was led by Ayden Mayor Ross Persinger, Bethel Mayor Frank Hemingway, Farmville Mayor Rusty Duke, Grifton Mayor Ralph Thaxton, Grimesland Mayor Thurman Clark and Earl Dean, town adviser for Winterville and Fountain.

Pirate Seeking First Victory On Road

A Staff Report
 Maybe the eyes of Texas aren't going to be on East Carolina this weekend, but for sure, the eyes of the Pirates will be on Texas.

The Pirates travel to the Lone Star State to take on the Movin' Mavs of Texas-Arlington in an 8:30 p.m. (EST) game at Maverick Stadium in Arlington, just outside Dallas.

And despite the fact that UT-A brings in only a 2-6 record on the season, the contest has Coach Ed Emory worried.

In the opening game of the season, the Mavs ripped Sam Houston State, 63-10, behind the quarterbacking of Kraig Hopkins, who was then injured in a 61-22 loss to Texas A&M the following week. Since then, he's been sidelined, but is scheduled to return to action against the Pirates. While he is not listed in the starting role, he is expected to play.

"It's going to be a tough challenge for us," Emory said. "It's a long trip, and we're only taking 56 players with us. It's tough leaving two-thirds of your family home when you're going to a place where you going to find few friendly faces. That's the biggest disadvantage I see to the game."

While the Mavs had had little success this year, they have generated a lot of offense, and have shown that they can pull off an upset. After losing to Northeast Louisiana, 33-16, Louisiana Tech, 17-14, and North Texas

State, 17-3, they pulled off their biggest upset of the year in stopping highly favored Southwestern Louisiana, 30-29. "At the time, Southwestern was 4-1 on the season," Emory pointed out.

However, since then, the Mavs have bowed to Wichita State, 30-13 and to McNeese State, 38-12.

The game with the Pirates is the final home contest of the season for the Mavs, too, giving them added incentive for the game.

"Arlington is the biggest team we play this year, physically," Emory said. The UT-A offensive line averages 252 pounds, the same as the Pirates, while their backs are a pound heavier, 191-190. The defensive line outweighs the Pirates, 244-238, while their linebackers and defensive backs are a little lighter, 215-213, and 189-183, respectively.

"They have a great running back in (Scotty) Caldwell, who's rushed for over 100 yards a game. He's also caught the ball for over 300 yards.

While the Mavs have had problems on defense, they have proved tough at times. They carried Wichita State into the fourth quarter before finally breaking down, and that worries Emory too, since the Wichita State offense is very similar to that of the Pirates. ECU defensive coordinator Larry Beckish having devised both school's offense.

"They play a 4-3 defense, something we have not face this year," Emory said. "And that concerns us also."

Caldwell, who turned in his best-ever performance against McNeese, rushing for 162 yards on 25 carries, is averaging 108.4 yards a game with a total of 867 yards in eight games. Two other members of the Mav lineup have also rushed for over 100 yards. They are fullback Robert Johnson with 55 carries for 284 yards, and backup tailback Randy Johnson, with 43 carries for 131 yards.

Quarterback Danny Jackson has passed for over 1,200 yards on the season, but is not listed as the starter for the Mavs this week. Jackson's stats show he's hit on 79 of 174 passes for 1,249 yards, nine touchdowns and 11 interceptions.

Listed as the likely starter, however, is 6-2, 195-pound freshman Doyle Hightower. He's only thrown 21 passes, hitting eight for 80 yards.

Hopkins, in the opener, hit on five of ten passes for 62 yards and one score.

Top receivers include Byron Williams, the flanker, with 22 catches for 377 yards and four score, Caldwell, with 21 grabs for 298 yards and one score; tight end Darryl Lewis, 17 for 222, 2 TDs; and split end Andre Gray, 10 for 152 yards.

Caldwell is the team's leading scorer with 50 points.

As a unit, UT-A has rushed for 181 yards a game, allowing 203.1. The Mavs have passed for 180.0 a game, giving up 195.4.

The meeting is only the second between the two teams. UT-Arlington visited Greenville back in 1978, losing to the Pirates, 23-17. The trip is only the second ever for the Pirates to Texas. Their last visit was in 1970, when the Pirates lost to West Texas State, 42-30.

The Pirates, 4-4, feel they still can have a winning season, and Emory listed that as one of the goals for the team. "Our number one goal is to win our first road game of the season. Our number two goal is to win these next three."

The Pirates will probably be making some changes in their plans too. Jimmy Walden, who played only in two games earlier in the season, may be pulled off the redshirt list to play in the last three. He's listed as the number two tailback for the game, behind Tony Baker. Earnest Byner, who had run some at tailback, has been shifted back to starting fullback, backed up by Reggie Branch.

Emory also plans to start

Kevin Ingram at quarterback against the Mavs. Ingram did not play against West Virginia because of a bruised sternum. Usual starter Greg Stewart will serve in a backup role.

On defense, Emory said the Pirates would likely move Gerry Rogers to nose guard in an effort to shore up that position. "Not that we can afford to lose a linebacker, but we feel that Gerry doesn't have the quickness we really need at linebacker, and can help us more at linebacker."

Because of that move, the Pirates may pull freshman Larry Berry off the redshirt list to play at linebacker.

At defensive end, Curtis Wyatt will move into the spot left vacant by the suspension of Jeff Pegues, dropped off the team for the rest of the season after being involved in the accidental shooting of redshirted Steve Sellars on Sunday night.

Sellars, wounded in the stomach, has been removed from the intensive care unit at Pitt Memorial Hospital, and appears to be making a normal recovery.

Following the UT-Arlington game, the Pirates travel to William & Mary next Saturday, then close out the season at Temple on November 20.

HAMPTON, Ga. (AP) — Morgan Shepherd has won the pole position for Sunday's Atlanta 500 NASCAR auto race with a qualifying speed of 166.779 miles per hour at Atlanta International Raceway.

Shepherd was more than one mile per hour faster than the second-place qualifier, Harry Gant, who was clocked in 165.555 mph over the 1.522-mile banked oval Thursday.

Buicks got the top four positions as Terry Labonte qualified third with a time of 165.500 mph, followed by Darrell Waltrip at 165.475 mph. The fifth spot went to Geoff Bodine, who raced his Pontiac to a 165.430 mph clocking.

Defending champion Neil Bonnett was the seventh fastest qualifier in his Ford with a time of 164.977 mph.

Brew Inks USFL Pact

Mike Brewington, former Rose High School and East Carolina University linebacker, has been signed by the Boston Breakers of the United States Football League.

Brewington, who was an all-State selection at Rose High School when he helped lead the team to the 1975 4-A State football championship, was an all-South selection while at East Carolina, where he starred at linebacker too.

He played briefly with the Kansas City Chiefs and the New York Jets of the National Football League.

Currently residing in Atlanta, Ga., Brewington is the first Rose High School player to sign with the new league, which will play its ball in the spring.

ELIZABETH CITY — Northeastern High School's unbeaten junior varsity rolled to a 24-6 victory over Rose High School's cubs yesterday, completing a 10-0-0 season.

Northeastern took the lead with a touchdown in the first period, adding two in the second and another in the third. The lone Rose touchdown came in the final quarter on an 8-yard pass from Todd Martin to Tom Moore.

Cited for their offensive play in the game were Michael Walsh, Charles Vines and Scott Rush. Defensive leaders were Tyrone Vines, Ronnie Moore, Brett Langley and William Ward.

The Rampant Cubs finish the season with a 5-4-1 record.

Two Leave Lady Bucs

Enice Hargett and Bridget Jenkins, freshman recruits on East Carolina University's women's basketball team, have elected to leave the team, head basketball coach Cathy Andruzzi announced Thursday.

Hargett, a 5-9 forward from Vanceboro's West Craven High School, and Jenkins, a 5-7 guard-forward from Coneto (SouthWest Edgecombe High) were in their first season with the Lady Pirates.

"We don't want to see athletes leave our program," said Andruzzi, "but if there is any time in which they no longer want to participate, then they will be given the opportunity to pursue what is in their best interest."

Hargett listed no particular reason for leaving, while Jenkins expressed an interest in attending school with her sister, Alphaia, now a sophomore at Old Dominion University.

Area Conservationists Raise Bucks For Ducks

By TOM BAINES
 Reflector Staff Writer

Area sportsmen and others who support the international efforts of Ducks Unlimited gathered here Thursday night for another successful fund raising session on behalf of waterfowl conservation.

The Pitt County area chapter of Ducks Unlimited, which held the first DU dinner meeting in the state, continued to set an enviable example for other North Carolina chapters to follow.

Approximately 230 outdoor lovers were on hand for the annual activities, which were highlighted again this year by the active work of auctioneer Jimmy Hudson, who sold some 20 items for nearly $10,000. A "silent" auction of several more items netted almost $1,700 for the DU pot.

Dr. Ray Minges, chairman of the chapter's sponsor program, said the local list of DU members who annually contribute $200 or more now stands at 147. The sponsor program here, generally recognized as the backbone of the overall DU effort, has been a leader nationally for several years in the number of participants.

Overall, the auction, sponsor program, general membership and other fund raising activities generated approximately $50,000 this year for the DU coffers.

Among the auction items sold by Hudson were the 1982 DU Print of the Year, "Hunters of the Marsh" by Chet Reneson; a 20-gauge version of the 1982 gun of the year; the "Greenwing shotgun, a 20-gauge single shot for junior members; a custom crafted knife made and donated by a Greenville supporter; original watercolors and paintings by local artists; a new boat and

As predicted, last week's picks resulted in a little bit of a shake-up in the standings, although some of us were more shaken than others.

Tom Baines continues to lead the pack, but he's got company now. Rick Scoppe pulled up into a tie with Baines for the lead. Both now have 76-30 records.

This writer is right behind in third place with a 75-31 mark. Joe Jenkins and Vickie Spivey are currently tied for fourth place, both with 72-34 records.

Our guests are now falling further and further behind, currently 68-38. Last week's guest, Tom Foreman, who should know better, turned in a 6-6 record, tying for the worst of the year.

Our guest this week is Gail Meeks, Greenville City Manager. She claims that she knows next to nothing about football, but we assured her that that is the primary requirement for membership on the panel.

Turning to the final week of the high school regular season, we find that our last week's record of 6-0 brings us to 52-8-4 on the year. This is our last chance for this season, so we'll try to do it right.

Ayden-Grifton travels to SouthWest Edgecombe for a key battle in the Eastern Carolina Conference. The Chargers are after a perfect season and undisputed possession of first in the league. SouthWest must win to have any chance of a playoff berth — in any division. It boils down to quite a fight, but we're going to stick with the Chargers in a close one, 14-8.

North Pitt travels to C.B. Aycock seeking to wrap up no worse than a second place finish — and should the gods frown on Ayden-Grifton, a tie for the title and a possible playoff berth. The Falcons could be ripe for an upset, but this should be a very important game for North Pitt — giving it the best season ever for the team. We go with the Panthers, 21-6.

Finally, Conley plays host to Havelock. The Vikings lost to Havelock last year, only to get the game back a couple of days later because the Rams dressed ineligible players for the contest, resulting in a forfeit. That's stuck in the craw of the Rams since then, and they are out after revenge. That sometimes backfires, but we look for Havelock to be as mean as it can — 35-6.

Elsewhere, it'll be Bath of Jamesville, Southern Nash over Greene Central, and Edenton over Williamston.

Rose High School's Rampants go up against Northeastern, a team that has only beaten 2-A Camden. That doesn't mean that Rose might not be looking past the Eagles — although since this is the final game, we have to wonder what they'd be looking toward. No, the panel goes with the Rampants right down the line, 6-0, and we predict at 24-0 victory.

Finally, East Carolina visits Texas-Arlington in a game that is a key contest if ECU is to have a winning season. It promises to be a great deal tougher than a lot of people might think. Still, the panel goes with the Pirates, but by only a 5-1 margin, Joe Jenkins picking the Movin' Mavs. Our choice is a 21-20 victory for ECU.

Our other consensus picks: Clemson over North Carolina; Georgia Tech over Virginia; Penn State over N.C. State; Texas Tech and Texas Christian, a toss-up; Alabama over Louisiana State; Duke over Wake Forest; Maryland over Miami, Fla.; Stanford over Arizona; UCLA over Washington; and Navy over Syracuse.

Dislocated Finger Doesn't Stop Macy From Gunning Down Jazz

By The Associated Press
A dislocated finger on his left hand didn't keep Kyle Macy from shooting down the Utah Jazz with his right.

Macy scored 14 of his 16 points in the second half Thursday night to keep the Jazz at bay and help the Phoenix Suns capture a 119-104 victory in a National Basketball Association game.

"It only hurts when I dribble," Macy said of his injury, which he suffered Tuesday night in a Suns' victory over Portland. "My shooting all comes off my right hand and things felt really smooth out there."

The Suns led 53-43 at halftime, but Adrian Dantley, who led all scorers with 31 points for Utah, cut the deficit to 64-63 with a basket with 5:18 left in the third quarter.

A slam dunk by Alvan Adams, who led Phoenix with 24 points, and consecutive jumpers by Macy in a 38-second span padded Phoenix's lead back to 70-63, and the Suns led 81-73 heading into the fourth quarter.

Again the Jazz came back, as Dantley cut Utah's deficit to 83-79 on two free throws with 9:51 to go. But again Macy stifled the rally with two jumpers in a row, and Jeff Cook capped the 6-0 string with a layup to put Phoenix ahead 89-79.

Macy then rattled off five points in a 1:05 span to give the Suns a 98-86 bulge with 5:53 remaining and they coasted from there.

Seven Suns reached double figures, with Maurice Lucas scoring 18, Walter Davis 15, Larry Nance 13, Cook 12 and Johnny High 11.

"I thought we had a good, solid effort with good balance," said Suns Coach John MacLeod. "We ran into a little trouble in that third quarter, but we continued to take Utah down low and try to create some fouls — which is what we originally set out to do."

Jazz Coach Frank Layden said his club "could have won the game, but we had a lapse. We're still a young team. We don't know how to play. You have to earn credibility in this league."

Lakers 131, Nuggets 108
Los Angeles defeated Denver for the second time in two nights as Norm Nixon scored 21 points and rookie James Worthy added 20.

Five other Lakers also scored in double figures, while the Nuggets got 22 points from Alex English.

The Lakers led only 25-22 midway through the first period, but they reeled off 16 straight points to lead 41-22 with two minutes left in the quarter.

Los Angeles led 78-60 at halftime and never led by less than 14 points in the second half.

Bucks 104, Hawks 100
Reserve guard Armond Hill scored all 10 of his points in the fourth period helped Milwaukee defeat Atlanta.

The Hawks led 79-75 going into the final period although the Bucks had 7-0 and 11-0 spurts in the first half. Milwaukee scored the first six points of the fourth quarter and went ahead to stay at 87-85 on Mickey Johnson's basket with 6:55 remaining.

Dan Roundfield led all scorers with 30 points for Atlanta, while Marques Johnson paced Milwaukee with 20.

Bulls 118, Cavaliers 111
Reggie Theus scored 40 points as Chicago defeated Cleveland in a battle of winless teams.

Theus scored 14 points in the fourth quarter, including a crucial three-point play with 2:44 left after the Cavaliers had overcome an 18-point deficit to take the lead.

Cleveland, loser of a record 23 games in a row, including four this season, scored 12 points in a row to go ahead 105-104 on a layup by Cliff Robinson, who led the Cavs with 26 points. Theus' three-point play put the Bulls ahead 109-107 and Cleveland never caught up.

Spurs 108, Blazers 107
Mike Dunleavy's three-point goal with seven seconds left in overtime boosted San Antonio past winless Portland.

Mychal Thompson, who led the Trail Blazers with 22 points, scored on a tip-in with 18 seconds left to send the game into overtime.

Mike Mitchell led all scorers with 27 points for San Antonio, while George Gervin added 24 for the Spurs.

Four Head-To-Head Battles This Weekend Among Top 20 Teams

By The Associated Press
Now that Election Day is out of the way, the college football folks can get down to the business of deciding some races of their own.

And this is the weekend for which most everyone has been waiting with no less than four head-to-head battles between members of The Associated Press Top Twenty — Georgia-Florida, LSU-Alabama, UCLA-Washington and North Carolina-Clemson — plus some other interesting contests as well.

As expected, Georgia is sitting atop the Southeastern Conference, but Alabama, which was supposed to make it a race to the wire — and perhaps end up in a tie because they don't play each other — stumbled against Tennessee.

Meanwhile, LSU has emerged as a bona fide contender and the Tigers will go to the Sugar Bowl if they beat Alabama and Mississippi State and either Florida or Auburn knocks off Georgia. Florida nipped Auburn with one second to play last week and prevented the War Eagles from moving into a first-place tie.

For the 1982 renewal of the world's largest outdoor cocktail party at Jacksonville's Gator Bowl, third-ranked Georgia is a four-point favorite over No. 20 Florida. The last two meetings of this heated rivalry have both ended 26-21. Georgia. Time for a change... Florida 26-21.

Last week's score was 35 right and 14 wrong for a percentage of 714. On the year, it's 315-100-11 for a percentage of .759. Against the spread, the count was only 15 right and 16 wrong last week for a 484 percentage. For the season, it's 117-119 — 496.

Aycock Completes Unbeaten Season

E.B. Aycock Junior High School completed an unbeaten season yesterday with a 22-0 victory over Northeastern Junior High of Elizabeth City.

Ervin Best tossed a 22-yard pass to Tyrone Jones in the first period to get the scoring started. Best then ran over the PAT for an 8-0 lead.

Later in the period, Best again tossed a 30-yard aerial, this time to Dwight Smith, with Anthony Cobb running over the PAT.

The other score came in the final period, when Devin Gatlin recovered a blocked punt in the end zone. Sterlin Edwards had broken through to block the kick. The run for the conversion was halted short of the goal line.

The win gives Aycock 6-0-1 on the year, giving the Jaguars the Big East Junior-High School league title for the second straight season. Last year they shared the title with Northeastern.

Singled out for their play were Darryl Perkins, Skip Pascasio, James Matthews, Todd Morris, Devin Gatlin, Tyrone Barrett (two interceptions) on offense, and Sterlin Edwards, Anthony Cobb (115 yards rushing), Ervin Best (two TD passes), Tyrone Jones, Dwight Smith, Lee Miller, Mark Elmore and Greg Vacek on offense.

'Poltergeist' Actress Dies Of Injuries From An Attack

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The boyfriend of actress Dominique Dunne, in custody on an attempted murder charge, was booked for investigation of murder when the dark-haired performer died six days after being choked.

Miss Dunne, 22, who made her film debut this year as the older daughter in the Steven Spielberg film production, "Poltergeist," died Thursday in the intensive-care unit at Cedars-Sinai Medical Center, hospital spokesman Larry Baum said.

Within an hour, her former live-in boyfriend, John Sweeney, 26, was re-booked on a murder charge in the Los Angeles County Jail, where he has been held since Saturday on an attempted murder charge.

Miss Dunne died without regaining consciousness after the attack last Saturday.

She was still on life-support systems when her heart stopped about 11 a.m., said a hospital official who asked not to be identified.

"The loss of Dominique is tragic and incomprehensible," Spielberg said in a statement released with "Poltergeist" co-producer Frank Marshall. "She was a treasure of natural ability.

Our hearts and prayers go out to her family."

An autopsy was scheduled today.

Sweeney, a chef at the exclusive Ma Maison restaurant in Beverly Hills, allegedly told sheriff's deputies, "I killed my girlfriend," when they found him with the unconscious Miss Dunne outside her West Hollywood home.

He had pleaded innocent to charges of attempted murder and felonious assault, but Deputy District Attorney Phil Wynn said Sweeney would be re-arrested today on a charge of murder.

Wynn said the district attorney's office also would ask that Sweeney's bail be raised from $75,000 to $500,000.

Miss Dunne had argued with Sweeney on Saturday night when he wanted to move back into her house after the pair separated, said sheriff's Deputy Ralph Martin.

The actress co-starred as Dana, the eldest of the Freeling children, in "Poltergeist," a chilling movie about a home stalked by a ghost-like creature.

Miss Dunne's brother, Griffin Dunne, starred in "An American Werewolf in London." She was the niece of author-screenwriter John Gregory Dunne, husband of

Movie Revives Saturday Night

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Saturday night came too fast. I had nowhere to go, nothing to do and nobody to do nothing with.

It had been like this as long as I cared to remember. So I decided to take a chance. Why not? Life's too short for a reason.

I poured some slow scotch and juiced up the TV. It'd been a long time since this thing was making music on a Saturday night.

I turned on "One Shoe Makes Murder." There must have been something about the movie that spoke to me.

I didn't just stumble onto CBS that night. I knew the score. That black kid, Arnold, was on one channel.

That midget and his boss were on another. PBS had the guys in leotards.

"One Shoe" was my kind of company. I knew it right away. With Robert Mitchum, old stoneface, it had to be right. He'd never been in a TV movie before. He was too good for that trash.

It seemed as if I'd known his character all my life. He'd been my companion with every glass I'd emptied.

His name was Schill, a good cop gone bad by booze and a wife who dropped him for some garbage.

He walked in on them. The next thing he knew, his gun was staring them down. He couldn't decide which one was worth the bullet, so he turned the barrel around. "I tried to kill myself, but I missed" was the way he put it.

Poor Schill. Hard luck. Harder drinks. Hardest on himself. "Failed cop, failed suicide, failed drunk," he said.

Some chain-spangled mobster named Carl pitied Schill. Mel Ferrer played the casino owner. Ferrer also produced the movie. The owner hired Schill to find his wife. She was missing along with some casino cash.

A real cop would have to follow leads everywhere. An ex-cop could be paid to stop sniffing when the job's done.

Schill agreed. Who'd pass up easy money?

And who'd pass up a night with a doll like Angie Dickinson? Schill did. Sort of. He said things didn't stir for him anymore.

Angie played the golden floozy named Fay. Good local talent, she came with the bar. Life hadn't tossed her any aces either. She didn't like being a solo act, so they shared his sheets anyway. She wore her emotions on her sleeveless nightgown. His emotions were in storage. You just knew they'd be magic together.

The next day, Schill found Carl's wife in San Francisco. After he left, the wife flew out the balcony window. Splat. One shoe was on the body. One shoe was still on her posh carpet.

"Two shoes, suicide. One shoe, murder," said inspector Carmona. Jose Perez played that part. This character was dealt a bad hand, like the rest of them. Little man, big shoulder chip. Why a Cuban in San Francisco? "I didn't like Miami."

Schill was no help, so Carmona got pushy. He told him to start thinking like a cop again. Ask questions. Who could kill his client's wife?

The thrill hadn't been lost forever. The cop in Schill started coming out. He knew how to get results. Kick the kidney. Squeeze the throat.

Schill was alive again.

So was Saturday night TV.

'Muppet Man' Plans Magazine

NEW YORK (AP) — Jim Henson, the Muppet man who gave the world Miss Piggy and Kermit the Frog, has come up with a new magazine for readers who have outgrown Sesame Street.

The first issue of Muppet Magazine, starring the Henson characters who appeared in "The Muppet Show" on television, was launched Thursday at a party in Manhattan.

The glossy quarterly publication sells for $1.50, and is billed as a humor magazine aimed primarily at children ages 8 to 12. About 500,000 copies will be distributed for newsstand sale and subscription, according to publisher Donald Welsh.

In the premiere issue, Kermit interviews comedian Robin Williams and Miss Piggy writes an advice column.

TWO OF A KIND — Robert Mitchum plays a down-on-his-luck former cop and Angie Dickinson plays a woman who's seen the seamier side of life in "One Shoe Makes it Murder", a two-hour murder-mystery airing Saturday at 9:00 p.m. on CBS. The contemporary drama which marks Mitchum's TV movie debut, also stars Howard Hesseman, Mel Ferrer, Jose Perez, John Harkins and Asher Braunner in the Lorimar Production.

Fronts: Cold Warm Occluded Stationary

WEATHER FORECAST — The National Weather Service forecasts clear skies and cooler temperatures for most of the nation on Saturday. Snow flurries are expected in the Great Lakes area and Midwest. Showers are predicted in the Northwest. The Southwest will be mild. (AP Laserphoto Map)

By The Associated Press
Colder weather blusters its way into the Tar Heel state today. The cold front that brought rain to North Carolina Thursday moved off the coast early today. Coming behind the front was cold, dry air that spread across the state. As a result, it will be much colder over North Carolina today. Under partly cloudy skies, highs will range from the 30s and 40s in the mountains to the 50s in the east. Scattered snow flurries will occur over the higher mountains this morning. A freeze warning has been issued for the foothills, Piedmont, coastal plain and sandhills of North Carolina for tonight. Under clear skies tonight, lows will be in the 20s with 30s and low 40s along the coast. It will be sunny Saturday with highs in the 50s with 40s over the northern mountains. Along the coast, small-craft advisories are in effect for the North Carolina coastal waters and sounds for northwest winds at 20 to 30 knots. Some soundside flooding is possible along the Outer Banks around time of high tide.

Graduation

Twenty-four clients of the Greenville Pre-Release and Aftercare Center graduated Wednesday. The East Carolina University Baptist Student Center provided a graduation luncheon for the graduates and their guests. The Rev. Bob Clyde, chaplain of the Baptist Student Center, and Sharon Harris, an ECU undergraduate student, presented the graduation program. Their messages encouraged the graduates to utilize their prison experience to provide the insight and inner strengths needed for them to achieve happiness and success in their lives. Also present were PRAC staff members and community volunteers who provide the four-week training program designed to help inmates learn the skills needed and plan for re-entering the community as productive and responsible citizens. Matt Brewington, training coordinator of PRAC, noted that since 1978 the Greenville center has provided 34 PRT sessions and re-entry parole programs for approximately 870 inmates.

Clark Official Winner In N.C. 11th District

By WILLIAM M. WELCH Associated Press Writer RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — U.S. Rep. William Hendon, the Republican congressman for the 11th Congressional District, says he is not sure yet whether to admit that he was defeated Tuesday by a Democratic challenger. A one-term congressman, Hendon said he and some supporters are looking into allegations of voting irregularities in the race Tuesday in which state Sen. James McClure "Jamie" Clarke defeated him. Hendon also contended Thursday that new voting procedures in some counties confused voters. "We're investigating the reports about the illegalities that were said to have gone on, going over our various options, looking at things that happened with voting cards and with the new computer tabulations that had people confused," he said. According to official returns from the county boards of elections in the 17-county district Thursday, Clarke defeated Hendon by 1,324 votes, meaning another GOP incumbent lost his seat Tuesday. In the 6th District, Rep. Eugene Johnston, also a one-term Republican, was defeated by Democrat Robin Britt. Now, the Democrats control nine of the state's 11 congressional seats. According to vote returns in the district, a tabulation of their results by The Associated Press showed Clarke increased the less than 1,100-vote margin he had in unofficial returns Wednesday. The latest count showed Clarke with 85,408 votes, or 49.9 percent, and Hendon with 84,084 votes.

Bone Marrow Saves Brother

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — A bone marrow transplant from a 2½-year-old girl to her 1-year-old brother has cured the boy of a rare, often fatal disease, Duke Medical Center officials say. Thanks to a transplant from his sister Nicole, Donald Martin Jr., son of Connie and Donald Martin of Goose Creek, S.C., has been cured of severe combined immunodeficiency disease (SCID), a genetic defect that leaves children with no germ-fighting cells. The child had been receiving medical care at Duke since Aug. 8 and became only the second child at the center who successfully recovered from SCID with a transplant from a donor who was a sibling of the opposite sex. The operation was performed by Drs. Rebecca Buckley and Phillip Devoe. Ms. Buckley is a professor of pediatrics and immunology at Duke and Devoe is a medical fellow in pediatric allegory and immunology at Duke.

Ms. Buckley was contacted by a doctor in Charleston, S.C., who diagnosed Donald as having SCID when he was 8 months old. The Martins took him to physicians in Charleston after their son developed a mouth fungus and high fever. Doctors also said the child had tuberculosis on his lungs and liver.

The physicians told the Martins that their son would have to have a bone marrow transplant or die.

One doctor contacted Ms. Buckley because he knew of her work in SCID. Six weeks later the Martins brought their son to Duke, where doctors decided that young Nicole's marrow would be a perfect match for her ailing brother.

The girl did not really understand what was involved in the operation, Mrs. Martin said, but added her daughter agreed to be a donor when "we told her that she would be helping her brother."

Mondales Rest In Virgin Isles

CHARLOTTE AMALIE, St. Thomas (AP) — Former Vice President Walter Mondale and his wife, Joan, have arrived in the U.S. Virgin Islands for a week's vacation. During an interview Thursday at Harry S. Truman Airport, Mondale said he was in the Caribbean to "sit down for a week" at Caneel Bay in St. John, part of the Virgin Islands group. Following the Democratic Party's success in picking up more than two-dozen House seats in Tuesday's election, Mondale said he was "obviously thinking about running for president" in 1984. As he has on other occasions, however, the Minnesota Democrat said the decision was not definite.

Today's Cryptoquip clue: J equals R.

South had the choice of one of two finesses for his contract. He made his slam because he took neither!

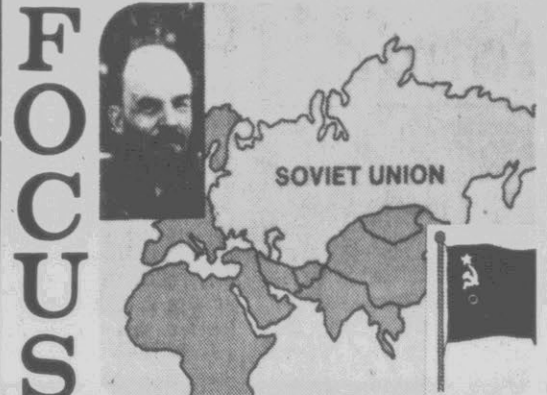

North-South conducted an orderly auction to reach their slam. Note that South did not resort to Blackwood to check on aces. Once it was clear that North's four diamond bid was a cue-bid in support of spades, South knew that his side was missing the ace of clubs.

The defenders lost no time in completing their book when East won the first trick with the ace of clubs and returned the suit. Declarer won and drew trumps in three rounds. All that was left to do was avoid a loser in hearts.

It might seem that declarer simply has to guess which way to take the heart finesse. He should lead a low heart to the jack if he thinks West has the queen, or else run the jack from dummy if he feels that the lady is with East.

However, there is another option—declarer can take the diamond finesse and then discard his heart loser on the ace of diamonds. Which finesse should South rely on?

The answer is neither—yet. Declarer can combine his chances to give himself considerably better odds than

A Day That Changed The World

On November 7, 1917, the course of world history changed dramatically. On that day, Russian Bolsheviks—a Marxist group under the leadership of Nikolai Lenin—stormed the Winter Palace, seat of the nation's government. It was the second sweeping revolution in Russia that year. In March, peasants, workers, and disgruntled soldiers had ended the 1,000-year reign of the Russian Czars by imprisoning Nicholas II and his family. A provisional democratic government took over. But in November—or October according to the old Russian calendar—a new revolution began which brought Lenin to power. This "October Revolution"—65 years ago—marked the creation of the world's first communist state.

DO YOU KNOW — Who was Lenin's second-in-command?

THURSDAY'S ANSWER — The Sunni Moslem sect is in the majority in the Middle East.

Cold Winter Is Indicated

By FRANCEINE PERRY
ECU News Bureau

A rough winter ahead?

Scientists say volcanic debris in the atmosphere will mean colder temperatures this year, and climatologists point to weather phenomena that indicate an unusually cold trend.

According to weather prediction lore of eastern North Carolina — not exactly scientific, but certainly based on generations of observations from people who lived close to the land — it's likely that 1982-83 may be a record-breaking cold winter.

A good many of the time-hallowed beliefs regarding weather signs are preserved in East Carolina University's Folklore Archive. Some of the signs believed to be associated with long, cold winters are immediately apparent on the ECU campus, in the heart of eastern North Carolina.

Squirrels' tails do appear bushier than usual, and the numerous campus squirrels seem more active in their acorn and nut gathering than in previous autumns. If the bushy-tailed creatures are building their nests lower in the trees this year, a cold winter may be on its way.

Other beliefs focus on the acorns; if there are a few or none on the ground, it will be a bad winter, and if the acorns have very thick shells, get out the heavy winter coats before an early frost catches you unprepared.

Nature looks out for its creatures, say weather-lore believers. A cold winter is indicated when holly and mistletoe are full of berries, when grapevines and persimmon trees are burdened with heavy loads of fruit and hickory nuts are abundant. If sweet potato and onion skins are thicker and tougher than usual and corn shucks and silks are especially thick, get ready for a long, cold winter.

The Folklore Archive, housed in ECU's Department of English, has a rich variety of folk beliefs, on weather and other matters, primarily collected from elderly eastern North Carolinians.

According to one source, you can predict a winter by how long the leaves stay on the trees; the longer they cling, the harder the winter to come. Others rely on insects — if hornets and wasps build nests close to the ground, and crickets seek refuge in chimneys, the winter will be a bad one.

A hard frost will come about two months after the locusts start to "holler," said one observer.

Fires are also said to be indicators of winter weather. When a fire pops, sputters and crackles, it's "calling snow," and snow will fall in three days. If smoke from the chimney drifts toward the ground, look for snow to follow.

One of the most popular bits of snow-prediction lore, found by archive surveyors in several eastern areas, maintains that lingering snow — snow that lies on the ground for several days — means more snow to come. It's lying there "waiting for more." But, says one believer, don't eat snow from the season's first snowfall — it will make you ill.

Look at domestic animals and wild birds for other weather signs. If a mule's mane and a dog's hair grow thick — cold winter. If blackbirds, crows or robins settle thickly in a field or fly close together, and if screech owls' cries sound like women weeping, very cold weather is coming. But in the spring or late winter, the sight of wild geese flying north means all cold weather is over. A turtle dove mourning means the weather will change soon, for better or for worse.

Weather signs themselves are used to predict weather trends in some rural paces. How many fogs in August or October determine the number of winter snows to expect, and some seasoned observers say a hazy ring around a winter moon portends snow.

Another popular belief is that a winter thunderstorm means snow will fall anywhere from three to 10 days later. Interestingly, two items in the ECU Folklore Archive, both from coastal locations, say the opposite — if it thunders in winter, the worst of the cold weather is over.

Wintertime, for some old-timers, brings a regular prognosticator of future weather. The first 12 days of January, or the 12 days between Christmas and Old Christmas, foretell weather conditions for the next year, each day representing a month, dry or wet.

If folklore and science are correct, and bad weather arrives this winter, there is a positive aspect to offset high fuel bills and icy travel conditions; abundant growth is likely after next spring. Says one item in the archive: "A year of snow, a year of plenty."

Higher than highest!

North State's Investor Certificates.

We've outdone ourselves. Our new 3-month and 6-month Investor Certificates pay an even higher rate than our "highest rate" three and six month C.D.'s.

Now, we're offering higher-than-money-market interest on our new $1,000 minimum Investor Certificates. So you can lock in a high return on a medium or short term investment.

We think Investor's Certificates make a great deal of sense in today's changing financial environment.

10.125%*

*This is an effective annual yield based on daily compounding of a nominal rate of 9.65%.

The 6-month Investor Certificate.

With a $1,000 deposit, you receive a six-month yield that is substantially higher than any six-month certificate offered by any other financial institution in North Carolina. This means that whatever interest rates are during the next six months, your savings are earning a safe, high yield.

10.00%*

*This is an effective annual yield based on daily compounding of a nominal rate of 9.53%.

The 3-month Investor Certificate.

For the short term investment, our 3-month Investor Certificate pays a much higher rate of interest than comparable 3-month certificates. In fact, with a $1,000 minimum deposit, you can lock in a rate that is substantially higher than most 6-month certificates. If you demand liquidity, invest in a 3-month Investor.

A smart investment in today's financial environment.

At North State, we feel a short to medium term investment with higher-than-money-market interest is a safe, secure method of riding out today's interest rate fluctuations. So in response to the dramatic growth and support our investors have shown North State over the past year, we're offering these "higher than highest" certificates.

Your deposits in North State's Investor Certificates are, of course, insured to $100,000. Plus, they offer you the highest return on your savings. So drop by any of our locations and ask about an Investor's Certificate.

Higher than highest is a good investment.
