

Leaf Quota Cut: Less Dollars For Pitt

By MARY SCHULKEN
Reflector Staff Writer

The 10 percent reduction in 1983 tobacco quotas announced Monday by U.S. Secretary of Agriculture John Block will mean less dollars in Pitt County's economy next year, said local agribusinessmen and representatives of the tobacco growing industry.

Initially, the reduction will make prices for leased tobacco in Pitt County "more competitive," said Roger Cobb, agricultural extension agent for Pitt County. "The situation is compounded by a lot of carryover (extra leaf poundage) from last year," said Cobb. "This, combined with the (quota) reduction, effectively cuts our acreage quite a bit.

"The reduction will make it harder to get pounds," said Cobb, "and consequently make leasing prices more competitive."

Cobb said he felt the reduction would have an equal effect on both large and small farmers, although he noted it "may push the small farmer more."

North Carolina farm leaders predicted Block's move would have long-reaching effects on the state's economy and, locally, farmers and other businessmen agree.

The cut, said Charles Davenport of Pactolus, a tobacco producer and co-owner of a farm supply business, is not the answer to tobacco's financial woes.

"Our tobacco is not competitive on the world market because the price is too high," said Davenport. "To be more competitive we need to bring the price down and to do this we need to overproduce, not cut production."

"The cut is not necessarily the answer," he added. "There are other things they can do ... it (the quota cut) is a short term answer."

Davenport said he felt the reduction will expand tobacco's non-competitiveness by driving tobacco rentals, which are "already too high," up even further.

"To lower rent prices we should have more tobacco so the demand will decrease," said Davenport. "A reduction in the amount of tobacco will skyrocket rent prices."

Davenport said he heard of tobacco being rented locally for 1983 for 71-85 cents per pound. The average rent for the 1982 growing season was around 60 cents per pound.

The reduction "will cause us to have to look closer at cash flow in loans," said Arnold Parris, president of Pitt-Greene Production Credit Association.

"I think we're going to see fewer farmers farming tobacco because some of them are not going to be able to get the tobacco they want due to price of rent going up," he noted.

"Some may give up what they have because it's too expensive and let other farmers take it," said Parris.

The reduction will directly affect the amount of cash PCA and other local lending institutions loan for tobacco, said the PCA president.

"It will also affect the amount of fertilizer sales, equipment sales and all other agribusinesses in the area," he said, "simply because of a reduction in income for farmers."

Charles Waller of Waller Tractor Co. said his business expects some slackening in sales due to the reduction.

"I think we'll definitely see some slowdown on equipment purchases because when you see farmers missing 10 cents out of the dollar, we (agribusinesses) are going to miss some cents from that dollar, too."

"It's going to affect everybody," he added, "Not just the agribusinesses."

See, Touch And Experiment

The Discovery Place traveling exhibit of modern technology was displayed to students in the Greenville school system Wednesday in an all-day program at the Willis Building.

The Charlotte-based program allowed school children to see, touch and experiment with the items included in the traveling exhibit.

Jo Duckett, a graduate of East Carolina and education coordinator of Discovery Place, explained the projects to students and teachers.

Discovery Place is an innovative departure from more conventional concepts of museums in that visitors are urged to touch, handle, push, pull, smell, listen, look, ride, turn and move on the items. It is designed to actively involve visitors — to show them how applied science and technology touches the daily lives of people.

The museum was opened in early 1979.

CAT MAN HERE AGAIN

The Pitt County Humane Society says it has, again, heard of activity of a man picking up cats in Pitt County. He was reported to be soliciting near Falkland recently. Except for two licensed agents in the state, such procurement is illegal and anyone who chooses to give cats to someone soliciting should ask to see identification and should be requested to sign a release. Cats procured in this fashion are usually destined to be used for research, Humane Society officer Barbara Haddock said. She added that the Humane Society discourages cooperation with these agents and asks, instead, that cat owners consider spaying as a way to reduce the number of cats they have. The Humane Society encourages use of the Adopt-A-Pet column of this newspaper and the Pitt County and Greenville animal shelters as a more humane method of disposal of unwanted cats and kittens.

The local Comprehensive Planning Committee and members of the City Council received food for thought Wednesday from a man well versed in the field of central city revitalization and urban development.

Dennis Rash, president of NCNB Community Development Corp., shared with the group his experiences and general background involving urban revitalization projects in Charlotte and Greensboro as well as programs in the planning stages in other cities.

The planning committee was formed here recently to implement the city's comprehensive plan for urban development and a key goal is to formulate specific plans for the revitalization of Greenville's downtown area.

A central theme of the discussions Wednesday involved the concept of providing attractive residential facilities in the inner-city area.

Mayor Percy Cox said that while Greenville has accomplished a lot in the area of renovation and new construction in the downtown and fringe areas, the city "missed the boat" in not putting people back in the downtown section. He said cities that have accomplished that do not have empty stores in their central business districts.

Rash, after showing slides of redevelopment programs undertaken by NCNB Community Development Corp. in Charlotte's third and fourth wards, said the company's first major project was the purchase of a 54-unit apartment building near the downtown section and the construction of new townhouses on adjoining tracts.

He said Charlotte had been organized in such a way that all of the urban functions required an "enormous amount of driving" as opposed to a centralized system. He said the company began to realize that a neighborhood had existed at the edge of the downtown section and planning began, with assistance from the city. A year and a half after planning was initiated, development plans were approved for the fourth ward.

Rash told the local group that federal funding was not available and development required a local funding mechanism. He said the fund flow started with a consortium of seven banks, lending money to the city and the city in turn lending funds to people who agreed to become owner occupants in the area. A below-market-rate loan program was initiated as an incentive and in the end the city of Charlotte was freed from having to divert its federal funds away more populous areas, he said.

The second project undertaken by the corporation involved the development of a 40-unit condominium project in the third ward.

In both developments, the initial programs have stimulated additional capital investments by private developers, Rash said. He pointed out that an old grain mill in Greensboro near Greensboro College is being converted by his firm now for apartment use and townhouses are under construction there.

NCNB Community Development Corp. has been working with Fayetteville city officials on a program of urban revitalization, Rash said. He said the planned demolition of the 500 block of Hay Street, which is considered the city's den of iniquity, and subsequent revitalization, has gained a (Please turn to Page 26)

BRASILIA, Brazil (AP) —

President Reagan, in a two-pronged message to Brazilian business leaders, today denounced what he called counterfeit revolutionaries in Central America and decried restriction of free trade as "an ugly specter stalking the world."

Reagan sounded a call for economic cooperation between the United States and Brazil — one day after moving to ease the impact of U.S. sugar quotas here and provide a $1.2 billion loan to help Brazil restore its earlier economic growth.

But the president's trip to Latin America is focusing as much on East-West themes and troubled Central America as it is on the special problems of financially ailing Brazil.

In today's address, Reagan turned to a theme he used Wednesday night when he told a dinner audience, "Just as threatening as conventional armies or nuclear weapons are counterfeit revolutionaries who undermine legitimate governments and destroy sources of economic progress."

In remarks prepared for delivery to U.S. and Brazilian business leaders in Sao Paulo, Reagan said:

"There is in the world today, a counterfeit revolution, a revolution of territorial conquests, a revolution of coercion and thought control where states rule behind the barrel of a gun and erect barbed wire walls not to keep enemies out, but to keep their own people in."

A White House official said this was a reference to the Soviet Union and Cuba.

Reagan expanded on that Wednesday night, saying insurgents were armed at great expense, by a faraway power aimed at disrupting other governments and economies.

"This is aggression pure and simple," he said.

"We stand firmly with the other responsible nations of the Americas in opposing those who with violence and force of arms, try to undermine economic progress and political stability," he said.

The president, on a four-nation, five-day Latin American tour, had some trouble remembering where he was and where he is going Wednesday evening when he asked his dinner companions to join him in a toast to President Joao Baptista Figueiredo "and to the people of Bolivia — that is where I am going. To the people of Brazil..."

The president, however, is not going to Bolivia, one of the poorest nations on the South American continent. His next stop, on Friday, is Bogota, Colombia.

Although the president's use of the word Bolivia could clearly be heard, the official White House transcript of his remarks substituted the word Bogota. When this was noted to White House press aides, they refused to correct the transcript, saying the president was "thinking of Bogota not Bolivia.

Before flying approximately 500 miles for the speech in Sao Paulo, Reagan visited the U.S. Embassy in Brasilia, where he praised the staff for its devotion to duty and called for its help in "strengthening our relations with Brazil."

"The relations between our two countries are now entering a period where the need for cooperation is perhaps greater than ever before," Reagan said, noting that Brazil is "a key political and economic force in the region and an increasingly important actor on the world political stage."

He warned against making a bad situation worse by damaging "those powerful engines of growth, the world's trading and financial systems."

Mechanical Heart Is Implanted By Surgeons

By GEORGE TIBBITS
Associated Press Writer

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Surgeons removed the failing heart of a 61-year-old man today and implanted a polyurethane device in the first operation to replace a human heart with a permanent mechanical substitute. Doctors called the operation a success.

Barney B. Clark "is being sustained entirely by his new heart," said University of Utah Medical Center spokesman Mark Sands shortly before the operation was completed at 6:35 a.m. MST.

Another spokesman, John Dwan, said he had talked with the head of the surgical team by telephone from the operating room, and the doctor "sounded very tired but very pleased."

And the man who developed the heart said he didn't "think it could have gone much better."

Once he recovers, Clark will spend the rest of his life connected by 6-foot-long hoses to an air compressor that sits on a wheeled cart about the size of a shopping cart.

Dr. Chase Peterson described the attitude of the surgical staff as "cautiously optimistic."

The critical period will come over the next two to three days. "We want to be sure we're not developing pneumonia and that the pump is able to work well," he said.

"Mechanically, it's entirely a success now. This thing is doing what it is supposed to. Beyond that, we have no right to say more."

Surgeons had experienced complications in the later hours of the operation while they were weaning Clark from a heart-lung machine and placing him entirely on the new device, powered by air, said Peterson.

He said Clark suffered swelling from the lungs due to an earlier heart failure and there was bleeding in the chest cavity which Peterson attributed to earlier cortisone treatments. He did not say how the swelling and bleeding complicated the operation.

Clark, a former dentist, was taken off the heart-lung machine at 4:09 a.m. The artificial heart sustaining his life makes a soft clicking sound that is audible through his chest wall.

A hospital official who asked not to be identified said surgeons experienced problems with one of the ventricles of the mechanical heart after it was implanted. He said something — possibly tissue — impeded the flow of blood, so the ventricle was replaced.

The pioneering operation was originally planned for this morning, but doctors rushed the patient to the operating table Wednesday night when his condition deteriorated rapidly, officials said.

Clark, who suffers from incurable heart disease, was having serious irregular heart rhythms, said Peterson, university vice president of health sciences. He said doctors decided to operate while Clark's heart was still pumping adequate amounts of blood.

Kidney Transplant For Woman; Is 'Doing Well'

By CAROL TYER
Reflector Staff Writer

An eastern North Carolina woman had a kidney implanted here Wednesday that was designated for donation by a 17-year-old Florida girl when she received her driver's license.

East Carolina University School of Medicine officials say the recipient is doing well today. They declined to identify her or give any facts about her situation.

The donor, Susan Gail Neal of Fort Pierce, Fla., was killed in an unusual accident Friday afternoon in her hometown, according to information supplied by the Fort Pierce Tribune. She was clinically dead at the scene of an accident in which she was struck in the head by a flying object from the trunk of a car which had been involved in a collision and then struck Miss Neal's car. No one else was injured in the accident, which occurred at an intersection near her high school.

Miss Neal, who had marked on her driver's license that she wished all usable organs donated, was declared brain-dead after the accident but her organs were kept alive artificially through the first of this week. An organ procurement team from Jackson Memorial Hospital in Miami arranged the donations.

Her other kidney has been given to a Boston, Mass., resident. Her spleen and lymph nodes were used to type match the kidneys. The matching was done by a national computer which lists all kidney transplant candidates and the North Carolina woman and the Boston patient's systems were deemed the most likely to accept the kidneys and do well.

Les Olson, director of organ retrieval at Jackson Memorial Hospital, said, "These kidneys have definitely saved these people's lives. That's something few people do in a lifetime — save two lives. Susan's family and friends can be very proud of her."

Sight probably has been restored to two different Florida men also as a result of her opting to donate her corneas. The corneas were implanted in recipients based on matching by the Florida Lions Club Eye Bank. Eye bank administrator Pearl Goldberg said both men, operated on Tuesday, are doing well but won't know for a few days whether the transplants have taken.

Bone tissue donated by Miss Neal has been freeze-dried and could help up to 50 people with grafts, spinal fusions and other procedures, Olson said. He said the bank could not find a match for her pancreas before it was too late for it to be effectively used. However, the pancreatic tissue is being used in experiments to combat juvenile diabetes, he said.

"I have had a hard time with Susan's death," Olson said, "even though I see so much tragedy in this business. This accident seemed to have no rhyme or reason. (Please turn to Page 26)

Dear Abby

Abby Agrees With Family Against Mary

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1982 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: I come from a family with five grown children. Recently four of us decided to have a family portrait painted to give to our parents for Christmas.

The problem is our oldest sister, Mary. She will not agree to be in the picture unless her husband is in it too! She said it is rude and selfish to leave out our husbands, wives and children!

Abby, if we had everyone in the picture, it would never be complete! For example, if our unmarried sister got married, we'd have to add her husband. And if one of us has another child, we'd have to add the child, right? Our parents have only five children, and that is what we want this portrait to be. No husbands, no wives and no kids.

The five of us will probably never be together again to have this portrait made. (The artist takes photographs of the group and paints from them.)

We are all in agreement except Mary. Who do you think is right?

ANITA

DEAR ANITA: Everyone except Mary.

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I have been happily married for eight years. Just recently she informed me that when she was 16, she was gang-raped by four guys who lived in her neighborhood. She was too frightened at the time to report it to the police and too ashamed to tell her family.

She never would have told me about it, but last year we moved back to her old neighborhood and she kept running into these four guys. She said seeing them again brought back all those terrible memories, so she broke down and told me the whole story.

I was shocked because I know these four guys and see them on a regular basis. Even though it's been 12 years since this happened, is it too late now to bring charges against these guys?

ANGRY IN CALIFORNIA

DEAR ANGRY: Unfortunately, the statute of limitations has run out. In California, Penal Code 800 provides that the felony must be charged within three years after its commission — except for murder, manslaughter and embezzlement of public funds.

Your letter points up the importance of reporting a crime immediately after it has taken place.

You're never too old (or too young) to learn how to make friends and be popular. For Abby's booklet on Popularity, send $1, plus a long, self-addressed, stamped (37 cents) envelope to Abby, Popularity, P.O. Box 38923, Hollywood, Calif. 90038.

Outlook Not Heartening

"In my heart I'm optimistic, but there's nothing in these figures that causes me to be optimistic," said Mark Lynch, state revenue secretary.

He was referring to the report on general tax collections which showed a 5.1 percent growth for October.

Lynch said such an increase was no indication that the economic recovery had gotten under way.

The collections for October were $242.2 million and for the first four months of the fiscal year collections were $1.01 billion, which is a 5.42 percent increase over the previous year.

Unfortunately, however, a growth rate of 9 percent was projected.

The rate of tax collections is being anxiously watched as planning goes on for the 1983-85 biennial budget. State employees raises, capital improvements, new programs and perhaps even continuing present programs hinges on some growth in collections.

While there is hope, Secretary Lynch still says the tax picture "continues to look not very encouraging."

Missile Call A Good Try

That offer by the NATO session in Brussels, standing behind a call for the Soviet Union to dismantle its intermediate range missiles (focused on targets in the West) in exchange for a NATO decision to forego deployment of nuclear-armed Pershing 2 and cruise missiles (of which we have neither), is a gesture to disarmament factions throughout the alliance.

We hope they were listening.

Neither the NATO leadership, nor rank and file citizens of the free world, seriously believe the Soviet Union would (or could) trade something for nothing.

The call for "real disarmament" was prompted out of genuine concern for the world. But again, the practical side of "effective and verifiable" arms control agreements had to be attached....and once the word "verifiable" is used, the Kremlin does not want to play ball.

Well, it was a good try.

Pollution, Crops

By PAUL T. O'CONNOR
RALEIGH — Tobacco farmers beware. The air pollution you're breathing every day may not be doing you much harm but it may be taking a big chunk out of your profits. Scientists at the Department of Natural Resources and Community Development, and at universities across the country, are beginning to find that air pollution can cut the size of your crop yields.

affected areas where the plume has impacted. You can see stressed trees which may be lighter in color and dead or withering crops. Wilms said in an interview. The pollution may not kill the plant but it can do enough damage that the plant won't be able to survive dry or excessively hot periods.

When he has a bad tobacco crop, "the farmer will question other things. If he used the right herbicide or if he used the wrong fertilizer. Probably the last thing he'll ask about is some outside insult" — in this case, a

But in North Carolina much research is under way on the effect pollution has on crop yields. At N.C. # A Think-Tank Fumbled

WASHINGTON (AP) — As an exercise in public relations, political timing, and coping with a more Democratic Congress, the White House suggestion that unemployment benefits be taxed was the pits.

That's where it wound up. The idea surfaced on Thanksgiving Day, began sinking the next day, and was buried the day after that. Nobody is saying who produced it, and Reagan's spokesman says the president never saw it. Not until he saw it on television, shortly after which he killed it.

The proposition turned up on the Thanksgiving menu at Santa Barbara, Calif., after Reagan aides told reporters on Air Force One that the president was considering new options to deal with unemployment, the highest in 42 years.

Deputy press secretary Larry Speakes gave no details, but he said the administration was at work on proposals to be sent to the new Congress.

Reagan considered a six-month stepup in the withholding tax reductions due next July 1, but dropped that idea on Tuesday. The proposal would have faced heavy going in a Congress short on time and wary of adding to the record deficit already in prospect.

The president, spurred by Congress, is proposing a 5-cent increase in the gasoline tax for highway and transit improvements, and that would create jobs, although Reagan said it was not intended as a jobs program. It really doesn't fit Reagan's style, for it harks back to the kind of government-financed job programs the president always has criticized.

Under the circumstances, the president's men had reason to promote the idea of a new Reagan initiative, a package of measures to help curb joblessness. And the time was right. It is White House habit to leave for any vacation with a bit of news to be disclosed while the president is on holiday.

That didn't begin with the Reagan administration. It has been standard procedure for years. An announcement or two at the press center gives the impression that the president has his hand in business even while vacationing. It doesn't take big things to make the point. John F. Kennedy's spokesman once held an extended Cape Cod briefing to disclose that the administration was changing the import duty on cotton scraps.

In this case, there was an administration option paper on unemployment proposals, prepared by a Cabinet-White House task force for a meeting that was to have been held before Reagan headed west. The meeting was postponed. The jobless pay tax was among the options.

In Santa Barbara, Speakes told reporters that Reagan was considering a tax on unemployment benefits "to make it less attractive" for people to be out of work and collecting them. He said there were studies showing that unemployment benefits discourage people from seeking work.

Democrats and organized labor began protesting within hours. According to his aides, Reagan learned of the idea, and the controversy, when it turned up on television newscasts.

By Friday, Reagan's traveling aides were saying — anonymously — that the idea was going nowhere. Counselor Edwin Meese III said the president himself never had considered it.

Labor Eyes Major Role

By DONALD M. ROTHBERG

AP Political Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Although many union leaders are disappointed by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's withdrawal from the 1984 campaign, the move could boost organized labor's ambition to play a major role in determining who wins the Democratic presidential nomination.

With Kennedy out of the race, Democratic aspirants are certain to step up their effort to win labor support.

AFL-CIO president Lane Kirkland has scheduled a December 1983 meeting of the leaders of some 100 unions to consider endorsing someone for the Democratic nomination.

An endorsement would require a two-thirds majority. But many Democratic politicians and labor leaders thought there was little chance anyone could get that approval so long as Kennedy and former Vice President Walter F. Mondale were in the race, both commanding significant labor support.

It may be a signal of trouble ahead for Mondale that the initial reaction of labor leaders to Kennedy's withdrawal fell far short of a strong tide toward the former vice president.

Many of the union presidents who will take part in the December 1983 meeting sounded more interested in looking at the rest of the field than in jumping on board a Mondale bandwagon.

"This certainly will be a boost for Mondale, but it's kind of early to speculate," said John Joyce, president of the bricklayers union and co-chairman of the Democratic Party's labor council.

"We're disappointed," said Joyce, an ardent Kennedy supporter.

Glenn Watts, president of the Communications Workers of America and co-chairman with Joyce of the party labor council, said, "Everyone is going to look at each one of the candidates very carefully."

Gerald F. McEntee, president of the million-member American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, said Kennedy's decision "helps not just Mondale, but helps others as well. How these potential candidates comport themselves over the next 10 months will be critically important."

Some labor leaders, who asked not to be identified, expressed interest in Ohio Sen. John Glenn as an alternative to Mondale.

But with a more conservative record on domestic issues than Mondale, Glenn could have problems with labor unless he can convince union leaders that he is the Democrats' best bet to defeat Ronald Reagan in 1984. In 1978 Glenn voted against legislation sought by labor which would have allowed a single striking union to shut down a construction project, by making it legal for other unions to honor its picket lines.

Also being mentioned is California Sen. Alan Cranston, who has strong liberal credentials.

Long before Kennedy's withdrawal, Mondale was courting labor support by telling union audiences that it was time for the United States to toughen its stand in trade negotiations with other nations, particularly Japan.

"I believe in international competition, but I'm not a sucker," Mondale told a steelworkers convention.

He jumped ahead of the rest of the Democratic field in declaring his support of so-called domestic content legislation that would require substantial fractions of imported cars to be built in the United States.

William Wimpisinger, head of the machinists union and a leader of the left-wing of the labor movement, said he feared Kennedy's withdrawal would allow other union leaders "to drift to the right because there's no one like Kennedy to keep them honest."

Strength For Today

"ONE OF THE LEAST OF THESE"

John Wesley, founder of Methodism, was not only a great revivalist preacher but a man of great erudition. Throughout the whole of his life he was a fellow of Oxford University.

Yet this man gave his life for the poor and the outcast. His contemporary, the noted literary figure Dr. Samuel Johnson, regarded Wesley as one of the best of conversationalists. But very often, when the two were involved in a stimulating conversation, Wesley would jump up and hurry away "because", said Johnson, "he had to go and pray with some old woman."

Wesley was said to have made nearly half a million dollars out of his writings. But before his death he gave it all away to the poor and needy. After a life of such devotion we might imagine that on his deathbed he heard a voice saying, "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto me." — Elisha Douglass

Public Works Needs Are Eyed

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Public construction spending last year amounted to $53.6 billion for all levels of government, perhaps a significant sum by your estimates but a piddling amount in the view of contractors.

The Associated General Contractors of America are talking real money, at least $909.9 billion by 1990 to meet documented public works needs ... urban water supplies, dams, sewage plants, highways, bridges, railroads...

High as that figure is, it can be made to look small. "We're looking at the here-and-now, nothing blue-sky" said John Berard, AGC public affairs director. Some estimates, he claims, are up to $3 trillion by the year 2000.

Such vast numbers put the contractors in a position in which the question becomes one of who benefits most, they or the public. For effect, they must stress the public good. For credibility, they cannot deny the private gain.

Recognizing the terrible state of budgets at every level of government, Berard said, the contractors concentrated only on those projects that should not or cannot be postponed. And after doing so, it came up with this list:

Urban water supply and distribution, $110 billion; dams, $119.4 billion; sewage, $119 billion. Everything is in billions: public buildings, including post offices, $9.4; highways, $315.2; bridges, $47.6; airports, $13.5; mass transit $36.6; railroads, $94; waterways, $32; and ports $3.5.

Credibility enters the picture at this point because AGC members perform 80 percent of all domestic construction. The association, therefore, has carefully culled its figures mainly from official or semi-official sources.

New York City, for example, says it has had to pay $61 million over the past seven years to plaintiffs injured in potholes and on bad sidewalks, and Boston claims it loses as much as 25 percent of its water supply en route.

The General Accounting Office says the country needs deeper ports to remain competitive. The Federal Highway Administration says that at the rate the nation repairs bridges it might take 287 years to deal with existing problems.

Commenting on a recent AGC publication, "Our Fractured Framework," which contains the documentation and arguments, Berard attempts to show the multiplication of problems when society's physical structure collapses.

In York, South Carolina, he relates, a water main break quickly disrupted civic administration, education, and public health and safety. "The whole town was without water part of a week and part of the town the whole week. Public places had to be closed, including the schools. And they had to boil water."

But of course the AGC isn't forgetting itself. Construction has been depressed. In 1980 it accounted for $240 billion of the nation's gross national product; in 1981, $236 billion; and in 1982, only $225 billion. Unemployment in construction is close to twice the 10.4 percent national average, with about 1.3 million workers idle. And bankruptcy is higher than in other industries.

"It would be foolish for me to tell you our members won't do this work when it comes on line," said Berard. But he insists that money spent on the so-called "infrastructure" would convey employment benefits far beyond his own.

He cites government estimates that $1 billion spent on highway projects creates 13,000 on-site, or direct, construction jobs, and another 50,000 indirect and "induced" jobs, mainly servicing or supplying the projects.

In preparing a $5.5 billion highway repair bill, however, Transportation Secretary Drew Lewis used a different figure, "175,000 direct jobs in construction." Terminology, however, could account for the difference.

Whatever jobs would be created and construction activity would be revived and contractors would profit.

And inevitably, that means accusations of political pressure, especially in view of the $750,000 the contractors' political action committee contributed to candidates in the recent elections. That's up from $58,000 in 1978.

But Meese said in a CBS interview that "we do know that when unemployment benefits end, most people find jobs very quickly after that point."

Democratic critics called the whole business callous and cynical, saying that the administration made it sound as though the unemployed were shirkers who could find jobs if they wanted.

Actually, there are circumstances in which unemployment pays better than working. Jobless pay is exempt from taxation unless it is going to a family with an income of $18,000 or more. In a family with one of two wage earners out of work, tax-free unemployment benefits can be worth more than the second job until the total hits $18,000.

According to the government, about 60 percent of the 11.6 million jobless Americans live in households which normally have two or more wage earners.

But as the Democrats quickly pointed out, unemployment compensation is barely subsistence income for most of the people who can't find work.

On Saturday, Reagan, speaking through Speakes, called a halt to the whole business. "It's just not the way he prefers to deal with unemployment," Speakes said. "The man said: 'I've seen the news reports. This is not what I want to do.'"

Speakes said Reagan hadn't backed off anything because he'd never considered the idea. But administration critics aren't about to forget that it got far enough to be disclosed by his chief spokesman.

must prove what scientists now only suspect. "Sometimes, we'll see a damaged crop, we'll be able to see a smoke stack from that farm and we know that stack is producing something that can damage this crop," Wilms says. But there's still not enough proof that that smoke is killing the crop.

At the legislative hearing, Wilms' report caught the ear of several doubting rural legislators. Yields were great this year, they said. To which Wilms responded that this was a good weather year. Maybe next year, the weather won't be so good and pollution-weakened crops won't yield as well.

Board Asks Moratorium On Landfills

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The state Waste Management Board is seeking a moratorium on hazardous waste landfills in North Carolina that could delay plans for a hazardous waste landfill and treatment facility in Anson County.

The board, acting at the urging of state Department of Human Resources officials who say they are concerned that the state may need to draw up regulations that are tougher than federal ones, voted Wednesday to ask Gov. Jim Hunt to declare the moratorium.

Lucy Bode, deputy secretary of Human Resources, said the department was concerned about the types of wastes that federal law would allow in landfills and the weakness of regulations on landfill liners and monitoring systems.

Bryant Haskins, director of public affairs for the department, said experts feared federal regulations allowed too much liquid wastes in the landfills.

Mrs. Bode said the recommendation was backed by Human Resources Secretary Sarah Morrow and came after a review by Dr. Ron Levine, state Health Director, and O.W. Strickland, head of the solid and hazardous waste management branch.

"They have advised Dr. Morrow that they are very concerned that these regulations may not be tough enough to adequately guarantee the protection of public health," she said.

The board's resolution said the state now is considering whether to adopt the federal regulations as its own. It said the board believes the federal regulations "may not be sufficiently stringent to protect the public health and would like time to more thoroughly review them."

If state officials decide they want regulations that are stricter than the federal ones, Mrs. Bode said the department would seek approval from the General Assembly. The existing law says state regulations in most cases cannot be stricter than federal regulations.

She said the department wants to hold public hearings across the state next year to seek suggestions on improvements or changes in the regulations.

The moratorium could delay plans for the Anson County facility. Human Resources officials say it is the only proposed hazardous waste landfill for which they have an application.

"The state will not consider that permit application until we've had a chance to review the federal regulations and adopt our state regulations," said Haskins said.

"Then we would review the permit on basis of our state regulations," he said. "We're saying we won't look at those applications for the next several months."

No specific time limit was placed on the proposed moratorium.

Hunt's deputy press secretary, Brent Hackney, said the governor had not yet received the recommendation but would give it "favorable consideration."

"It's going to carry a lot of weight," he said. "It's his board and he has confidence in it."

Novel Alibis By Boaters

PORTSMOUTH, Va. (AP) — Some excuses that boaters use to explain away their accidents are a little hard to fathom, the Coast Guard says.

In the wake of scores of maritime mishaps, officials with the 5th Coast Guard District have set aside some of the choicest alibis from accident reports.

For example, there's The Case of the Wiggly Wake.

"The guy was all over the lake," one guileless skipper wrote on his official form. "I had to swerve a number of times before I ran over him."

Then there was The Case of The Obviously Miffed Skipper.

"The indirect cause of this accident was a little guy in a small boat with a big mouth."

Some of the propwash runs from the formal — "The other boat attempted to cut in front of me, so I, with my bow, removed his engine" — to the simplistic — "In my attempt to kill a bee, I ran into a buoy."

But Coast Guard boating safety spokesman Tony McCartney said the best of the collection may be this matter-of-fact assessment from a sorry skipper who learned about his property rights the hard way.

"Coming home," the boater said, "I docked in the wrong slip and collided with a boat I don't have."

Survey Says Lunch Program Beneficial To Some Students

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — Children of low-income families and teen-aged girls with high risks of nutritional deficiencies benefit the most from the school lunch and breakfast program, concludes a study at the University of North Carolina.

"Specifically, our study shows that children between the ages of 6 and 11 who participate in the National School Lunch Program consume 6 percent more of the Recommended Dietary Allowances for energy and about 20 percent more of the RDAs for calcium, iron and vitamin B-6 than do children who eat other types of lunches," says Barry M. Popkin of the UNC's School of Public Health.

Popkins says the school lunch and breakfast program is greatly improving the diets of more than 23 million school children.

Popkin presented results of a three-year evaluation of the program Wednesday at the U.S. Department of Agriculture's 1983 Agricultural Outlook Conference in Washington.

The USDA sponsored the study, which analyzed information gathered between 1977 and 1980 in the department's Nationwide Food Consumption Surveys.

Popkin's study shows that the benefits of the lunch and breakfast program extend to children regardless of race, sex, age or family income.

But the study showed that those who benefit most are children of low-income families and teen-age girls who have a relatively high risk of nutritional deficiencies.

He said they get about 25 percent more of the RDAs for vitamin C and riboflavin and 67 percent more vitamin A.

Deficiencies in three of the nutrients — energy, vitamin A and vitamin B-6 — are common sources of nutritional problems in younger children.

Teen-age participants consume 7 percent more niacin, 15 percent more calcium and vitamin B-6 and 24 percent to 44 percent more riboflavin and vitamin A than do nonparticipants.

Popkin said teen-age girls benefit from the lunches at a critical time when they are more susceptible to nutritional deficiencies than boys. He explained that's because of menstruation, rapid growth, pregnancies and unusual eating habits brought on by peer pressures.

The school lunch program began in 1946 and has grown to serve 22.3 million. The breakfast program was adopted in 1975 after several years as a pilot project. It now serves 3.4 million students.

Study Beachfront Development

By MARY ANNE RHYNE
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Booming oceanfront development could spoil the thing that makes North Carolina's coast so attractive to visitors — its beautiful, clean environment, say state officials.

But that doesn't have to happen. Officials in the Department of Natural Resources and Community Development will hold a conference today in Wilmington to show the alternatives to local leaders, builders and residents.

"Our interest is to see that more and more people understand what is really going on on the coast and see what the patterns are," said Todd Llewellyn of the Office of Coastal Management.

"We want to help local governments see how they can have growth and keep the beauty," he said. "You can have growth if you plan for it and site it carefully." Llewellyn said there is a dynamic increase in construction of high-density housing — apartments and condominiums.

He pointed to Atlantic Beach, where there are about two multi-family units for each year-round resident. He said a September survey showed there were 1,397 units completed and 346 under construction in the resort town.

Llewellyn said another North Carolina coastal town, which he refused to identify, has grown in population from 14 in 1960 to 865 in 1980. He said the town now has no multi-family housing units but 327 are under construction and permits have been obtained to build 417 others.

There have been cottages and individual homes along the coast for many years, Llewellyn said, but multi-family housing has put new stresses on the environment and local governments. Llewellyn said it has accelerated discussion of waste disposal, transportation and public safety.

"Other states have seen a lot more intense coastal development," he said. "We're trying to say that we don't have to make mistakes they made elsewhere."

At the conference, Porter Goss, mayor of Sanibel, Fla., will discuss innovative planning and Thomas Norton, mayor of Gulf Shores, Ala., will discuss rebuilding after coastal storms. Gulf Shores was devastated by hurricane Frederick in 1979.

Nags Head Mayor Don Bryan will talk about development trends and George Eichler, a planning consultant from Atlanta, will discuss financial impacts of high-density construction.

North Carolina demonstrated its awareness of the need to plan ahead for beach development in 1974, when the Coastal Area Management Act was enacted.

The act, which applies to 20 eastern counties, requires permits be obtained for development of coastal and tidewater property and limits development in environmentally fragile areas.

Other speakers at the conference will include Gov. Jim Hunt, Coastal Resources

Commission Chairman Parker Chesson, NRCD Secretary Joe Grimsley and National Hurricane Center Director Neil Frank.

Marathon Set For Saturday

BETHEL — The annual Bethel Marathon, a Heart Association benefit road race organized by Clem Williams, assistant principal of Farmville Middle School, will be held Saturday.

The event, sponsored jointly by the North Carolina Heart Association, the Coca Cola Bottling Co. and Coastal Carolina Running Club, supports exercise and fitness programs designed to improve cardiovascular conditioning and cut down on heart disease.

The marathon, sanctioned by the North Carolina State Championship Marathon for runners in the Masters and Seniors divisions this year, will start at 9:30 a.m. Saturday.

The race will be composed of two divisions. The first will be a full 26-mile marathon beginning in Bethel, going north to Oak City along N.C. 11, and returning south to Bethel. The second race will be a 10 kilometer (10,000 meter or six-mile race) also beginning in Bethel.

Starting point for the race will be the corner of Hammond Street and N.C. 11 in the north section of Bethel. Registration will be from 7 to 9 a.m. Saturday morning on Hammond Road. Registration will also be taken from 7 to 9 p.m. Friday night in Greenville by the pool at Holiday Inn.

Runners in the full 26-mile marathon will start at 9:30 a.m. Runners in the 10K race will start at 9:45 a.m. First finishers for the 10K race will probably reach the finish line about 10:15 a.m., while marathoners will probably finish beginning about noon.

Entry fee is $6. Every racer will be provided a memento of the race, courtesy of Coca Cola Co. Awards will be given to the top three male and female finishers in each race. The top three male and female finishers in each of seven age groups will also receive awards.

Additionally, the race will determine the state champions in the Masters and Seniors divisions.

Persons wanting more information on the marathon may contact Maureen Fox at 757-2620 (day hours) or 756-9517 (evening hours.) Information may also be obtained by contacting Rick Athey, at 757-2775 or 756-8793.

His Neck Is Out For Hobby

HAGERSTOWN, Md. (AP) — When Todd Lippy gets involved in a hobby, he really sticks his neck out.

The 20-year-old has more than 500 neckties hanging from the walls of his bedroom since beginning his collection about six months ago.

Lippy became tied to his hobby innocently enough.

"My father gave me a little over 30 of them, and I just hung them up," he said. From there, the collection grew.

"I like to go to yard sales and everything," Lippy said. "I just started running into a lot of ties ... and just started picking them up."

Sisters Die In Heatless Home Amid Cash, Gold

PITTSFIELD, Mass. (AP) — Surrounded by dusty boxes stuffed with cash and gold, two old and reclusive sisters who refused to buy heating oil died of malnutrition and exposure.

The two women had "a long history of eccentric behavior," the Berkshire County medical examiner, Dr. Jeffrey Ross, said Wednesday. "Despite their quite substantial assets" they had refused to buy oil to heat the two-story home, whose windows and doors had been shuttered and boarded up for years, he said.

After autopsies Wednesday afternoon, Ross ruled out foul play in the deaths.

The bodies were found Tuesday afternoon by Pittsfield police, alerted by a social worker who noticed that meals left on the front porch by a social agency had been untouched for two days.

Charlotte Robenstein, 83, died about 6 a.m. Sunday of a combination of exposure to cold, pneumonia, and a serious heart condition, which she had repeatedly refused to have treated, Ross said.

Her older sister, Marion Seelig, whose exact age was not available, died a day later of exposure to cold, pneumonia and malnutrition, Ross said.

Their pet cat, also suffering from pneumonia, refused to touch its decaying food after its mistress's deaths and starved to death, he said.

Berkshire County District Attorney Anthony Ruberto said both cash and gold were found in the home, but neither he nor Ross would reveal the amount. Police sources told the Berkshire Eagle newspaper that it was more than $20,000 and other reports placed it at $50,000.

"There was cash found, but we are not releasing the exact amount because we don't want to attract scavengers to the house," Ruberto said.

The house is almost hidden in a thicket of brush and small trees, with a 60-foot pine shielding the front yard and garbage littering the grounds. It sits in a residential neighborhood of neatly maintained one- and two-family houses in this Berkshire Hills city of 50,000 people.

"It looked inside like it hadn't been cleaned in decades," Ross said.

Ross said the sisters seldom ventured out and would wait until no one was outside the door to pick up meal trays provided by a local "Meals on Wheels" agency. They "refused many attempts by social workers, visiting nurses, and police to intervene on their behalf," he said.

"It would have taken a court order just to get them to come to the door," he said. "With no family coming forth, they just went on in this unappealing lifestyle, hidden from the world, living literally in filth."

One of their few contacts with the outside world had been with Pittsfield police, who attempted to keep a quiet eye on the pair they called "their ladies," officers said.

At times the women would call police to complain about their neighbors and talk about their fears, including their terror of being put in a nursing home.

When police didn't hear from them for a few days, an officer would go to the home, walk around the house and shout; the sisters would shout back.

Honored On Retirement

WILLIAMSTON — A large contingent of state Highway Patrol troopers, ex-troopers and officials, along with friends and family members, were on hand in Williamston Tuesday night for the retirement ceremony of patrol Sgt. B.W. Parker.

The ceremony was held in Cobb's Corner in the Holiday Inn.

Parker, a native of Duplin County, retired after 35 years service in the Highway Patrol. With the exception of 15 months spent in Washington during the mid-1970s, Parker spent his entire patrol career in Martin County.

Parker attended the Institute of Government Highway Patrol School in 1947, and was promoted to the rank of sergeant in 1974.

Among officials attending the retirement ceremony were Capt. Carl Gilchrist, Troop A Headquarters in Greenville, and Lt. Col. J.F. Cardwell of Raleigh. Many of the younger troopers attending the ceremony were trained by Parker.

Parker was awarded a plaque for his service to the patrol.

He is married to the former Ruth Taylor of Williamston. They are the parents of three children: Jan, who is employed in the governor's office in Raleigh; Bobby, who lives in Wilmington, and Elliott, a resident of Martin County.

Police List 2 Collisions

An estimated $3,200 damage resulted from two traffic collisions investigated by Greenville police Wednesday.

Officers said heaviest damage resulted from an 8 a.m. collision on Greenville Boulevard, 300 feet west of the Evans Street intersection involving cars driven by Sarah Robson Terry of 102D Concord Drive and Joseph Edward Downing of 102 Adams Blvd.

Police, who charged Ms. Terry with exceeding a safe speed, said an estimated $1,000 damage resulted to each of the two vehicles.

A car driven by Stephen Millard Craven of University Condominiums collided with a parked vehicle owned by Ivan Day Meekins of 107 Alexander Circle about 1:20 p.m. on Fifth Street, 100 feet east of the Sycamore Street intersection, investigators reported.

Damage from the collision was set at $700 to the Craven car and $500 to the Meekins auto.

May Be Required Absorb Cost

SOUTHPORT, N.C. (AP) — Carolina Power & Light Co. may be required to absorb the costs of higher fuel bills this winter caused by the shutdown for 6 1/2 months of one reactor at CP&L's Brunswick Nuclear Plant, state officials say. Dennis J. Nightingale, director of the electric division of the Public Staff of the N.C. Utilities Commission, said the shutdown will result in higher fuel costs for CP&L which could eventually be reflected in consumers bills.

However, Nightingale said the commission would determine whether the company could pass along the costs to customers.

"It may be that the company has to eat" the fuel bill, he said. The Public Staff has not estimated how much the shutdown could affect electric bills, he said.

The shutdown during the peak of the winter heating season means CP&L will have to make up for the lost power by burning coal — a more expensive fuel — and by buying power from other utilities.

CP&L plans numerous repairs during the six-month Brunswick shutdown, including replacement of tubes in the unit's condenser, which cools steam that drives the reactor turbine, officials said.

The company said the repairs are part safety-related and partly aimed at upgrading performance at the plant, which has been plagued by poor performance in recent years. The project has been planned since early this year.

Company spokesman Mac Harris declined to disclose the expected cost of the repairs.

The company has made a four-year projection of nuclear repair costs in a filing this year with the federal Securities and Exchange Commission. In the filing, CP&L said it expected to spend $371 million on nuclear modifications from 1982-85.

Harris said Brunswick Unit 1 would be shut down when Brunswick Unit 2 returns to service. Unit 2 has been down since late October, primarily for repairs to the main steam isolation valves that are designed to shut off the flow of steam from the nuclear reactor to the turbine.

Brunswick suffered through major shutdowns this summer for the third straight year. According to Utilities Commission documents, CP&L's three nuclear units operated at 12 percent of their capacity for the four-month period from June through September.

Declining power production at Brunswick, located near Southport, was a major factor in the Utilities Commission's decision in September to deny nearly all of the company's $160.5 million rate increase request.

In addition to the two Brunswick units, CP&L operates a nuclear reactor at its H.B. Robinson plant near Hartsville, S.C.

'Capping' PCB Nearly Finished

WARRENTON, N.C. (AP) — The capping of the PCB landfill in Warren County should be completed this week, according to the state Department of Crime Control and Public Safety.

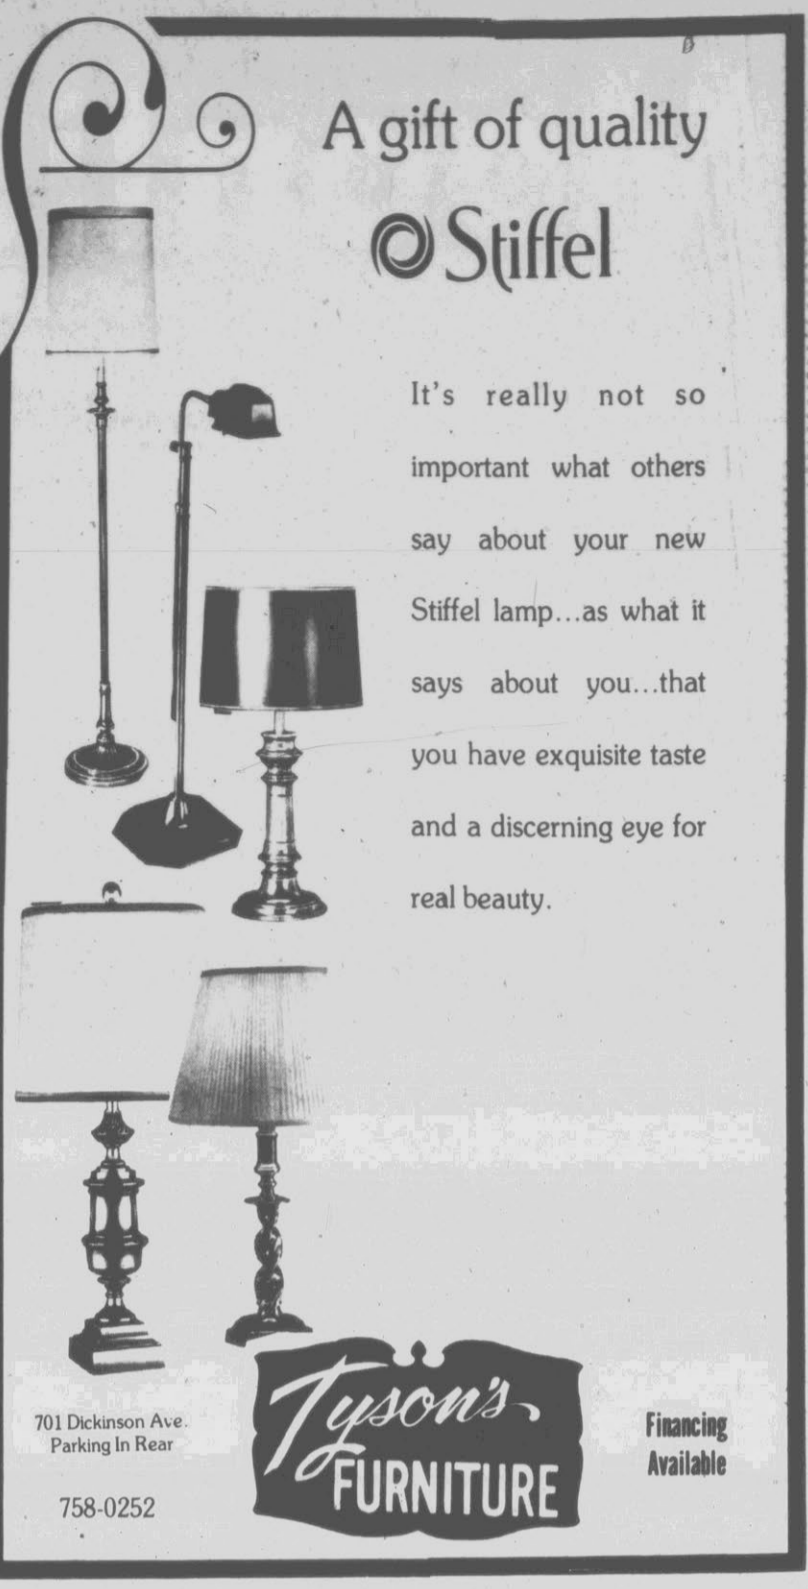

Assistant Secretary Russ Edmonston said the plastic liner has been placed on top of the landfill and workers are now putting in fill material and a layer of clay. If the weather permits capping to be finished this week, the landfill will be seeded.

Edmonston also said there were some positive things to come out of the PCB protests.

"People have become very educated about this," he said. "North Carolina faces a tremendous problem with hazardous waste. We've got to come up with some way to handle it."

Tide Of Storms On The Move

By BETSY BROWN KRAFT
Associated Press Writer

A storm that dumped 4 feet of snow in the Rockies, closing roads and schools, took aim on the northern Plains today while tornadoes and thunderstorms toppled barns in Missouri and Kansas and heavy rain caused floods in Alabama.

At least 15 people were dead or missing in this week's outbreak of violent weather.

In Southern California, 46,700 people were still without power today after heavy wind and rain cut off power to 1.5 million electric customers Tuesday. Crews worked around the clock to clean up thousands of downed trees and secure seaside homes from additional damage from this morning's high tides.

Workers sandbagged levees in Northern California, where a broken dam resulted in $6.5 million damage to the 3,000-acre Venice Tract. More than 8,000 Northern Californians were without power Wednesday night.

In Birmingham, Ala., more than 7 inches of rain flooded streets and forced dozens of families to evacuate. The water was receding late Wednesday, prompting flood warnings for nearby rivers.

The storm had swept in from the Pacific, ripped across California and the northern Southwest, blasted the Colorado Rockies and aimed northeast. Ahead of the storm, warm, moist air caused thunderstorms and tornadoes in the southern Plains, said Hugh Crowther of the National Weather Service in Kansas City, Mo.

In western Missouri and southeastern Kansas, out-of-season tornadoes Wednesday night toppled mobile homes, knocked down barns and killed animals. At least six people were injured. In Barton County, Kan., trees and power lines also were knocked down.

In Liberal, Mo., a house was blown into the road by a tornado, and a woman and three children were injured near Nevada, Mo., when a tornado overturned their mobile home.

Severe thunderstorms also swept across Oklahoma, flooding streets and knocking out power lines. Eastern Oklahoma City reported 1½ inches of rain in 30 minutes and police said "a hard peppery rain that comes down in spurts" hit the town of Waurika.

Cars stalled in flooded streets in Norman, Okla., where 1.73 inches fell Wednesday, most of it in two hours.

As the snowstorm began heading north and east, winter-storm warnings were issued today for the northern Rockies and parts of South Dakota, Montana and Wyoming. Storm watches were posted for parts of North and South Dakota and northwestern Nebraska.

Eleven people had died in the storms since Tuesday — seven in California, two in Arizona, one in Utah and one in Alabama. Four people were missing in California, and at least 14 were injured in storm-related traffic accidents in Utah.

Up to 4 feet of snow fell on Colorado's mountains Wednesday, closing several roads by avalanches, and some areas were expected to get up to 6 inches more early today.

Ski resorts were rolling in snow — with 50 new inches at Purgatory and 31 new inches at Mesa Lake. Red Mountain, Coal Bank and Molas passes in southern and western Colorado were closed by snowslides.

But the storm was losing its punch and moving on to Nebraska, a weather forecaster in Denver said.

Snowfall was expected to continue through mid-morning across Utah, where snow fell hard and fast Wednesday, with 23 inches piling up in the resort community of Alta, 11 inches in Farmington and 16 inches fell in the Salt Lake City suburb of Bountiful.

Snow fell faster than an inch an hour in Salt Lake City.

"It's snowing so hard that the plowers and sanders can't keep up with it," said Rogers Thomas, a weather service spokesman in Utah.

State workers went home early and schools and colleges sent students home and canceled night classes. Traffic was snarled, with one fatality and at least 14 people reported injured. Mountain roads were closed due to snowslides and Interstate 15 also was snow-clogged.

About 6 inches of snow fell within three hours in southwestern Wyoming on Wednesday.

In Southern California, cleanup efforts were hampered by strong winds, rough ocean and long hours.

"Many of our crews have been working for 40 hours," said Becky Sordelet, a spokeswoman for Southern California Edison Co. who said 40,000 people were still blacked out.

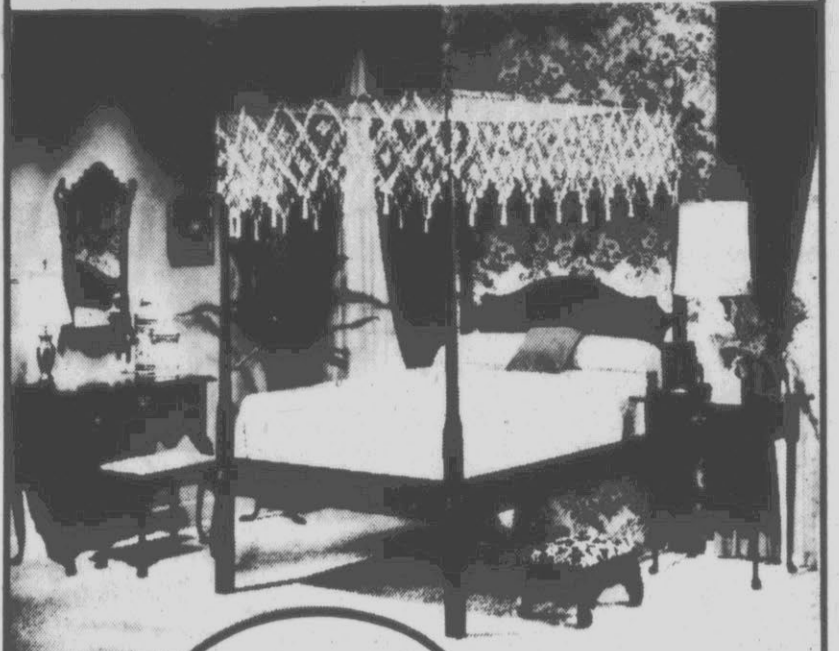

"The problem is fatigue. That's why it's taking longer for our last customers" to get power restored, she said.

Workers propped up sandbags to ward off damage from today's high tide. On Wednesday, huge ocean waves smashed into the La Jolla Beach and Tennis Club, flooding it with water 4 feet deep.

In Los Angeles, 6,700 people were without power Wednesday, said a spokeswoman for the city Department of Water and Power.

To the north in Monterey, workers reinforced a sagging seawall as one of the highest tides in 25 years was due late this morning.

Award Made For Work

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Americans for International Aid (AIA), has been awarded the Bishop Charles de Forbin-Janson Award by the Holy Childhood Association, an association of children helping children, operated under the auspices of the Catholic Church.

AIA was honored for work with Amerasian children born of American and Asian parents, particularly during the Korean and Vietnamese conflicts when large numbers of American military men were stationed in these countries. The group has worked closely with Rev. Alfred Keane, a Maryknoll Priest from Milton, Mass. who on Christmas Eve 1970 began his mission to help Korean Amerasians called "Honyana" or mixed blood.

AIA has been a leading force, along with Senator Jeremiah A. Denton, R-Alabama, behind the Amerasian bill passed by the House of Representatives and the Senate on Oct. 1, 1982 and signed into law by President Reagan on Oct. 22, 1982. The law permits children from Korea, Thailand, Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia, fathered by Americans, to immigrate to the United States under sponsorship.

Emission Tests Are Instituted

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Mecklenburg County officials have put into effect an auto emission testing program, although they are not sure whether a federal judge plans to halt the plan.

Under the program, car dealers are required to have vehicles tested before they are sold. About 230,000 gasoline-powered trucks and cars registered in Mecklenburg County are affected.

Stock And Market Reports

Poultry
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The North Carolina f.o.b. dock quoted price on broilers for this week's trading was 39.25 cents, based on full truck load lots of ice pack USDA Grade A sized 2 1/2 to 3 pound birds. Too few sales to report. The market is steady and the live supply is moderate for a moderate to good demand. Weights mostly desirable. Estimated slaughter of broilers and fryers in North Carolina Monday was 1,622,000. There were no sales Thursday or Friday, which were holidays.

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices rose today following Wednesday's mixed showing amid lingering uncertainty over the outlook for the economy and interest rates. The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks, which fell 8.19 points in volatile trading Wednesday, rose 6.90 to 1,037.99 in the first two hours.

Seven stocks rose in price for every six that fell in the midday tally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Economists say hopes for an economic recovery depend on stepped up consumer spending and further declines in interest rates.

Interest rates have turned higher in recent weeks after steep declines during the previous four months. But hopes for further declines were raised today as several European central banks cut key interest rates.

Leading retailers today reported November sales that for the most part were a slight improvement over recent months, including a 4.9 percent gain at Sears, Roebuck and Co., a 2.9 percent rise at J.C. Penney and a 4.3 percent gain at F.W. Woolworth. But K mart said it had a 3.8 percent decline from a year ago.

Concern about high unemployment has reduced consumer confidence.

The Labor Department said first-time claims for unemployment benefits rose to 654,000 in the week ended Nov. 20 from a revised 598,000 the previous week. National unemployment figures for November will be released Friday.

The NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stocks rose 22 to 80.35. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up .40 at 337.76.

Big Board volume reached 35.49 million shares a third of the way through today's session, down from 52.46 million in the same period Wednesday.

Dear Mr. White,

9/20/82

You know what? You have two rather crazy people who watch THE SOUTHERN SPORTSMAN. Today we were just loafing (we are retired) and talking about how much we enjoy the show, and next thing we knew we were on our way to Farmville — 264 miles away — because we were so impressed by your advertisement of your restaurant.

Tonight we are in a Farmville motel, but we will be at the restaurant when it opens tomorrow morning.

Seriously, thank you for brightening our day each Sunday when we see you on T.V. Channel 12 (Richmond).

Sincerely,
 K. and G. H.
 Verona, Va.

P.S.

We did it! We went to the SOUTHERN SPORTSMAN RESTAURANT and had the best meal we have ever had at any restaurant.

The staff were so cordial and amused by two senior citizens driving a total of 528 miles to eat there.

We viewed the portrait of Fracas — beautiful — bought a copy of your magazine, and now we shall subscribe to it.

Thanks for a great time.
 K. and G. H.

P.P.S.

We "snitched" 4 packs of matches — we want to show off with them!!

ECU's 2nd Half Floors Captains, 96-62

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

East Carolina University's Pirates came out of the dressing room with their ears burning and promptly transferred the heat to Christopher Newport in the second half last night in Minges Coliseum. The result was a 96-62 thrashing of the Captains at the hands of the Pirates, playing their first official game before the home standing fans.

The Pirates had opened up a quick nine point lead against the small but scrappy Captains, who saw their record drop to 1-3. Up 9-2 after just a few minutes of play, the Bucs apparently began to take it for granted that a rout was on the way. It cost them not only the lead, but nearly turned into an embarrassment as Christopher Newport pushed ahead by as much as three points late in the half. East Carolina regained the lead, however, thanks mainly to the first half play of Johnny Edwards, and took a 42-36 lead into intermission.

Once inside the dressing room, Coach Charlie Harrison explained just exactly what he wanted from the Pirates.

"I talked to 'em a little bit about how you can turn on and off emotion and effort. You have to be ready when you walk on the floor. We walked out and the first two or three times, we got what we wanted. But then we were forced to have to work for what we got."

The Captains began to use their quickness to catch up with the Pirates on offense, pulling back into the game.

"They isolated the ball where we couldn't get help. We started standing up and then a few things didn't go for us. Maybe they thought it would be easy, but you have to work for what you want."

"I hate to rant and rave at the guys," Harrison said. "I like 'em. But you have to realize that others are hungry and you have to be hungry, too."

At any rate, the Pirates came out of the dressing room with that hungry look in their eyes and it was all over for the Captains.

During the first six minutes of the second half, East Carolina outscored Christopher Newport, 19-2, running the lead out to 23 points, 61-38. From then on, there was no question as to the outcome as the Pirates continued to pull away, steadily building up their lead to as much as the final 34-point margin, despite playing the reserves for about the final five minutes of the game.

In that second half, East Carolina shot 63.3 percent, as compared to only 46.7 percent in the first half. The Captains, in contrast, hit only 34.5 percent in that second half, after a 68 percent performance in the opening period.

"They threw up a bunch of running one-handers and we were a step and a half behind," Harrison said of the first half effort by ECU. "Sometimes your offense is going to be sluggish, but there is no excuse for being sluggish on defense."

"When we play defense, we're capable of playing very, very, very good defense (as in the second half), but after the first ten minutes of the first half, we played very, very, very poor defense."

After ECU had pushed out into its early lead, CNC came back to pull within two at 9-7, only to see ECU open up a seven point lead again, 14-7. But again, the Captains chewed the lead away, finally knotting it at 18-18 with 9:41 left on a layup by Bobby Griffin.

Edwards put the Pirates back into the lead, but again Newport tied it, then took the lead for the first time on a 12-footer by Mark Clark. After another Edwards basket tied it up, CNC regained the lead on a Clark basket, then pushed out by as many as three on four occasions, the last time at 3:42, when Clark hit from underneath.

Bruce Peartree made a three-point play to tie it up, and after one more CNC lead, the Pirates took the lead on a jumper by Edwards after Charles Green had hit the one of two free throws. East Carolina inched it out to six, 42-36, before the half ended.

Edwards put on a show in the first half, hitting on eight of nine shots, scoring 25 points and pulling off 11 rebounds.

"Johnny was the only guy on the boards (in the half)," Harrison said. "He got most everything off the glass. We found, too, that if we executed, we could get the ball inside, but we didn't really take advantage of it."

"Too many times, we had four watching and one working. We can't have that," Harrison said.

Following his chat with the team at the half, however, things turned around, and the Pirates played like he expected them to.

Edwards, who didn't play as much in the second half, finished with 25 points on ten of 11 from the floor and five of five at the line. He ended with 11 boards.

Peartree, with 16 second half points, also had 25, hitting eight of 11 from the field and nine of nine at the line.

Green, shut out on the boards in the first half, finished with eight rebounds, and made 13 points.

"Charlie had eight rebounds in the second half, and he's got to rebound for us. Barry (Wright), Bruce, anybody with the ability has got to rebound for us," Harrison said.

East Carolina smothered CNC on the boards, 40-26, including a 23-13 advantage in the second half.

Newport's scoring was led by Jimmy Dean and Clark, each with 15, while Tim Strayhorn had 13.

"I'm not pleased at all about a lot of things tonight," Harrison said. "We played about ten minutes of the kind of ball we're capable of. I got a lot of congratulations on what we did at Duke. But we lost at Duke and that's gone. This was tonight, and Saturday is something different. These next three games are of a great, great degree of difficulty. They're all on the road against good teams, too. We'd better come ready to play."

It wasn't all bad, however. "The only positive thing was that we shot some three throws and made 'em," Harrison said. ECU made 30 of 37 at the line — best of the

Chaney Has Left Team

East Carolina University head women's basketball coach Cathy Andruzzi announced today that sophomore Darlene Chaney has left the Lady Pirate team indefinitely.

The 6-2 forward-center was averaging 6.6 points and 6.0 rebounds per game in three contests while being hampered by a knee injury. She had only played 38 minutes.

"Darlene would not fulfill her responsibility and obligation as a student-athlete in our program," Andruzzi said.

COACHES' CORNER

(Editor's Note: This is the first of a weekly column to be written by East Carolina University coaches.)

By Charlie Harrison

ECU Men's Basketball Coach

I am pleased and proud to be the new Men's Basketball Coach at ECU and I thank the people of Greenville and ECU for making me feel welcome and at home again.

ECU basketball has been in a revolving door process for the past decade - no fault of anyone - but this syndrome must end and those (coaches and players) who enter the front door must leave through the front door with something besides memories - good and bad.

What we (my staff and I) are trying to establish is a system of basketball that we can recruit to and a system in which these players can receive not only a chance to play Division I basketball against quality Division I universities, but also receive some structured aid from the university academic support systems that are available to athletes.

In order to attract athletes to this campus and make them happy here, they must feel appreciated by their peers (the students, those that they see each day, and the whole community). This appreciation is the greatest recruiter a university can have and one of the single most important things that will keep players from leaving once they've come here to school.

I have always taken pride in the schools that I've attended and in the universities that I've worked for. I'm proud of ECU, where it has been, and more excited about where it's going. I ask you, the people and students, to take pride and support our basketball team by giving our athletes some people in the stands that want to have fun, be entertained, enjoy and expect hard play. The best sixth man on a basketball team is the home crowd. I want our sixth man to have an influence on our new basketball program and when opposing teams visit, they have respect for us but dread playing in front of our fans in Minges. I ask not for me, but for you and our players, that you give them your support by being here for any or all games in Minges.

And speaking of our games, in December the Pirates will play five of their first seven games on the road - in other unfriendly environments. Four of the teams we venture to play were in post-season tournaments last year. A scheduled difficulty for sure, but one that hopefully will make us into a better team when we return to our friendly and the opponents unfriendly greetings of the Minges Coliseum fans - our important sixth man that is needed and has been lacking in the past. With your help, the Pirates' Sixth Man can begin to make immediate contributions to a new era in Pirate basketball.

Pirates Land Six On All-South Team

ATLANTA (AP) - Six members of the East Carolina University football team were selected to the Associated Press All-South Independent football team for 1982.

Reggie Collier and Sam DeJarnette, Southern Mississippi's instant yardage producers, led the selections, announced today.

Collier, a repeater from last year's team and a unanimous choice as the quarterback, passed for 1,265 yards and rushed for 803, accounting for 15 touchdowns, and DeJarnette, a transfer from Auburn, had 1,545 yards rushing and 1,982 all-purpose yards. He scored 14 touchdowns.

Bobby Bowden, who turned what was supposed to be an off year into an 8-2 season for Florida State with one game remaining, was a unanimous selection as Coach of the Year in balloting by the 10-member panel that also participates in The AP's Top Twenty poll.

Named to the team from East Carolina were: offensive lineman Terry Long, defensive end Jody Schulz and safety Clint Harris on the first team, and offensive lineman John Robertson, kicker Jeff Heath and defensive tackle Steve Hamilton on the second unit.

Besides Collier, Southern

had two other repeaters - three-time All-South defensive end George "Too Tall" Tillman and middle guard Jerald Baylis.

Other repeaters from last year were offensive tackle Wally Browne of Virginia Tech, center Tom McCormick of Florida State and defensive tackle Andrew Provenge of South Carolina.

FSU's Greg Allen, the nation's scoring leader with 20 touchdowns, claimed the other running back spot beside DeJarnette. Allen, a sophomore, rushed for 695 yards, caught passes for another 216 and returned 20 kickoffs 515 yards.

The remainder of the offensive unit consisted of wide receivers Robert Griffin of Tulane and Mark Clayton of Louisville, tight end Glenn Dennison of Miami, tackle Glen Howe of Southern Mississippi, guards Jim Boyle of Tulane and Long of East Carolina and place kicker Mark Fleetwood of South Carolina.

Clayton caught 51 passes for 1,012 yards, Griffin had 45 receptions for 612 yards and Dennison 23 for 231. Fleetwood converted 17 of his 18 field goal attempts, missing only a 56-yard attempt against Georgia only minutes before kicking a school record 58-yarder against the Bulldogs.

Joining Tillman, Provenge and Baylis on the defensive front were Schulz of East Carolina and tackles Tony Chickillo of Miami and FSU's Alphonso Carreker, who tied Provenge.

The linebacking corps consisted of Tommy Young of FSU, Jay Brophy of Miami and Mike Johnson of Virginia Tech. Named to the secondary were Jamie Boone of Miami, Harvey Clayton of FSU and Harris of East Carolina.

Tulane's Vince Manalla, who averaged 42 yards per kick, was named the punter on the team.

Rose Opens Year Against Conley

Don McGlohon
INSURANCE
Hines Agency, Inc.
758-1177

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor
When Jim Brewington looks out on the court this winter, he might be excused if he starts searching for a familiar face. Rose, which opens the 1982-83 basketball season Friday night at D.H. Conley, returns no starters, and because of that, the other coaches in the Big East Conference, picked the Rampants to dwell in the cellar this year. Rose's girls, meanwhile, are — for the first time — considered contenders for the Big East title, as they return four starters off last season's 8-12 team.

"We won't be last," Brewington promised on the eve of the season. "They predicted us to be last, but we could easily be in the top four. In fact, I'll be tickled if we finish fourth."
While there are no returning starters from last year's 14-12 team that finished tied for fourth in regular season, five lettermen return, giving Rose some experience. Rose went on last year to finish second in the league's post-season tournament, then lost in a heart-breaking controversial finish against Smithfield-Selma in the first round of the State Playoffs.

Back for Rose in lettering positions are 5-8 senior guard Donnell Lee, 5-9 senior guard Tony Clemons, 6-8 senior center Allen Dickens, 6-3 senior forward Jay Mahoney and 5-11 senior guard Albert

Brown.
Joining them are nine newcomers, senior Bernie Carraway, 6-0 guard; juniors Jeff Hopkins, 6-7 center; Mack Walston, 6-2 forward; Roswell Streeter, 6-0 guard; Roderick Best, 6-3 forward; Hunter Bost, 6-0 guard; and sophomores Carlton Wilson, 6-4 forward and Tyrone Smith, 6-0 guard.
Brewington expects to start Hopkins at center, Dickens and Walston at forwards and Lee and Clemons at guards.
"Our overall experience is pretty week," Brewington admits. "We're going to start slow, like we usually do. But I feel we have better talent than we've had in a while. We just have to learn to play together."
While the Rampants might not be as quick as in the past, Brewington feels they'll be stronger inside. Dickens, who went to the Five-Star camp this summer, has already attracted looks from some college scouts. "He's a real sleeper," Brewington said. "He moves better around the boards than anyone we've had for a while."
Clemons will probably be the best outside threat, but Lee is the clutch player, the coach thinks.
Height is improved for the Rampants, and Brewington feels that rebounding will be improved. Shooting is "not where I want it to be," but Brewington feels it will improve, too.
"Defense leaves a lot to be desired right now. And we're continuing to put a lot of effort into it. I think we'll be better, but it'll take time."

In the conference race, Brewington feels that "you have to beat Rocky Mount, despite the fact that the coaches voted for Hunt. Rocky Mount just has that tradition."
Experience is in pretty good shape for the Rampettes, despite having eight newcomers on the team.
Returning starters include Doris Richardson, 5-11 junior center; Alma Atkinson, 5-8 senior guard; Frances Barnhill, 5-6 senior guard; and Linda Winstead, 5-5 senior forward. Joining them are two letter winners, 5-9 senior forward Tammy Sparkman, and 5-10 junior forward/center Louise Evans.
New to the team are three juniors, 5-10 center Sheila Carmon, 5-8 forward Niansa Outlaw, and 5-8 center Tarsha Williams, along with five sophomores, 5-6 guard Lisa Trevathan, 5-7 forward Hope Smith, 5-8 forward Pamela Byrd, 5-6 guard Cheryl Clark and 5-8 forward Lori Woolard.
The returning four, along with either Evans or Carmon will hold down the starting spots against Conley on Friday. "Louise knows the system better, but Sheila may be the better rebounder," Coach Dennis Gibson said.
"I definitely feel that we'll finish above .500 this year. That would be the first winning team that Rose has fielded. We've been .500, but never over that," Gibson said.
Rocky Mount is picked to win the conference title, because of the return of Kim Taylor, but Kinston and Rose are seen as the top contenders if the Lady Gryphons stumble.
And that trip may have already come. Taylor is recovering from a pre-season injury and her status is uncertain.
"We'll get a good test from Conley," Gibson said. "They return four starters from their championship team of last year."
Gibson looks for the shooting to be improved this year, while the rebounding should be a little stronger. "We're not as timid as we were a year ago, but we're going to depend on our juniors a lot too."
Defense could be the problem — as in the past. "If we can make the transition from offense to defense and get back like we should, I think we can get the job done. But I think it'll be a while before it jells, hopefully by the time conference play starts."

The girls are helped this year by having a holiday tournament to play in. They will compete in the Conley Christmas Tournament. "That'll help us get through the long layoff with some play so we shouldn't be as rusty come January," Gibson said.

Kiffin Quits At State; Cites Lack Of Support

RALEIGH (AP) — North Carolina State football coach Monte Kiffin, citing a lack of support from the school's athletic director, announced his resignation Wednesday in the "best interest" of the school.
"Quite honestly, I do not feel that the support I have received from the Athletic Department was sufficient to my needs and the needs of the football program," Kiffin said. "And further I cannot find the assurance from the Athletic Director (Willis Casey) that such support will be forthcoming in the future."

Kiffin had coached the Wolfpack for three years, but the team's inability to get beyond the 6-5 won-loss barrier placed his job in jeopardy. The 42-year-old Nebraska graduate gave up his quest for an extension of his contract after two weeks of speculation.
The end came at 2:30 p.m. Wednesday after Kiffin had met with N.C. State Chancellor Bruce R. Poulton from noon until 12:25 p.m. Poulton and Casey met for about 30 minutes, then Kiffin called a news conference to make the announcement.
Poulton said Kiffin's resignation had not been requested, but a Raleigh newspaper quoted a top official in the Wolfpack Club as saying had Kiffin been rehired, there would have been substantial reductions in the amount of money contributed to the school.

"It (the football program) would have lost support very fast," said Clifton L. Benson of Raleigh, the club's secretary-treasurer.
"I thought the football program was going down and it was definitely the football coach's fault," he said. "The team was not any better at the end of the season than the first day he came here."
Wednesday's meetings and subsequent resignation capped two weeks of speculation about Kiffin's fate. When the Wolfpack defeated Duke late in the season, it was thought to have been a turning point for Kiffin's future. Those prospects dimmed, however, when the Wolfpack dropped a 41-3 decision to Miami in its last game of the season.
While at N.C. State, Kiffin compiled a 16-17 record, including a 6-5 records in his first and third seasons.
Before he came to Raleigh, he was an assistant coach at Arkansas from 1977 to 1979. Kiffin also was assistant coach at Nebraska, where he played college football, from 1969 to 1976 and was assistant freshman coach from 1967 to 1968.
Kiffin played two years of professional football in the Canadian Football League.

Bell Fired At S.C.

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — Richard Bell, who coached the University of South Carolina football team to a lackluster 4-7 record in his first year on the job, was fired late Wednesday, the school announced.
Athletic Director Bob Marcum, in a statement issued shortly before midnight Wednesday, said he decided to fire Bell because the two did not see eye-to-eye on what steps to take to put the team on a winning course.
The State newspaper of Columbia reported that Marcum was dissatisfied with the coaching performances of several assistants and wanted them removed.

Eastern Wayne Nips Farmville

FARMVILLE — Eastern Wayne scored three free throws in the final 15 seconds of play and pulled out a 45-41 victory over Farmville Central last night in the opening basketball game of the year for both teams.
Earlier the Eastern Wayne girls rolled to a 63-43 win over the Lady Jaguars.
The boys game was tight throughout. Both teams scored six first period points and both added 11 in the second quarter for a 17-17 deadlock at the half.
Early in the third period, Eastern Wayne inched out to a 25-20 lead, but Clarence Pettaway hit two baskets to close the gap. Eastern Wayne then scored seven straight for a 32-25 lead, but the Jaguars were able to hit twice late in the period to pull back to 32-28.
In the final period, after Eastern Wayne moved out 34-30, Farmville scored seven straight points, five of them by Andrew Edwards, to take a three-point lead. After the teams exchanged the lead, Pettaway missed on a try for a dunk and Tony Davis scored twice for Eastern to put them up for good, 42-39. Farmville cut it back to one, but Greg Myrick hit the first of a one-and-one with 15 seconds left. Farmville got the rebound, but missed its shot and a jump ball was called on the rebound. That went out of bounds and Eastern got the ball, with Myrick scoring twice more at the line with four seconds left to knot the win.

Myrick led Eastern with 17 points, while Davis had 15. Farmville was led by Edwards with 13 and Pettaway with 12.
In the girls' game, Eastern zoomed out to a 19-6 lead in the first period and was never headed. The Lady Warriors upped their lead to 34-18 at the half and to 54-36 at the end of the third period. They outhit Farmville, 10-7 in the last quarter.
Dawn Johnson led Eastern with 15, while Robin Grant had 14. Rhoda Harris led Farmville with 13, while Stephanie Newton added 12.
Farmville Central travels to Wilson Beddingfield on Friday.

"Electric Radiator Heaters: Questions and Answers"

Oil-Filled Electric Radiator

Q. What is an Oil Filled Electric Radiator Heater?
A. This is an electric radiant heater made of high grade steel that automatically maintains the desired room temperature similar to the old time steam radiators.

Q. How does the Electric Radiator heat?
A. There are 8 vertical "fins" filled with a special "diathermic" oil, permanently sealed within the heater. An electrically controlled heating element heats the oil from the inside, which heats the 8 "fins", resulting in the heater giving off a large amount of comfortable radiant heat.

Q. How, then, is room temperature automatically controlled?
A. A heat sensitive thermostat is built in with easy to operate controls. As soon as room temperature gets below the desired level, the thermostat senses this, and automatically turns the radiator back on.

Q. Does the Radiator Heater need any special installation?
A. No. There is no special plumbing or wiring needed. Simply plug in the PRESTO Model 08102 into a normal 2 prong wall outlet. The outer dimensions of the PRESTO Model is 17 1/8" x 7 3/4" x 24 3/4". Weight is 40 pounds. Unit by PRESTO comes with multi-direction casters making it easy to move around, even on carpet. Heat proof hand space makes it easy to move while hot.

Q. Is it necessary to add oil to the radiator heater?
A. No. The Oil Filled Electric Radiator Heater is permanently filled and sealed and never needs refilling. It is a very convenient and clean heater to operate.

Q. Will Electric Radiator Heaters consume oxygen like Kerosene Heaters?
A. No. Also Electric Radiators produce no odor, and will not produce any carbon monoxide, which is lethal if inhaled. It is not necessary to leave a window open while operating. Electric Radiator Heaters do not involve any combustion of oil.

Q. Is the Electric Radiator Heater safe?
A. Yes. The PRESTO model 08102 is approved by UL (Underwriters Laboratories). Close scrutiny is given to all safety points and PRESTO, who is the world's leading manufacturer of Quartz Heaters and other styles of Electric Heaters, passed all safety points with flying colors. It is even safe around children and pets.

Q. Does the Electric Radiator heat the same as the steam radiator heaters of the old days?
A. Yes. The way the radiator heats is natural convection, non-directional heat.

Q. How long does it take to heat a room?
A. Of course this depends on the size of room, degree of outside temperature on a given day, quality of insulation in your home, etc. However, under average conditions, let it run about an hour and personal comfort should be achieved. After the heater is turned off, residual heat comes from the heater for a good while. Try it in up to a 20 square room.

Q. How much does it cost to operate the Electric Radiator Heater?
A. It costs approximately 10 cents per hour to operate in Greenville, N.C.

Q. Which brand should I buy?
A. PRESTO offers a top quality 8 fin 1500 watt, 5120 BTU unit that is backed by a well known national network of authorized service centers. PRESTO's guarantee gives free parts and labor for one year. This is the same PRESTO Cooker for 76 continuous years. Since the Electric Radiator is designed to last for many years, length of service that PRESTO can offer on any of their products becomes a major factor when deciding on a brand to buy.

Q. Where can I buy a PRESTO Electric Radiator Heater?
A. J.D. Dawson Company has a special price of $76.95 right now.

Open Drive On Drinking

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Holiday party-givers should limit their guests to one mixed drink per hour and serve food with alcoholic beverages in an effort to curtail alcohol abuse over the holiday season, a state brochure says.

Those are among the suggestions which are being made as part of a publicity campaign aimed at deterring alcohol-related problems during the holiday season. The campaign was just launched by the state Department of Human Resources.

"We will be trying to educate people about ways to give parties that will not contribute to alcohol abuse, how to cope with holiday stress, the dangers of mixing alcohol with certain medication, and ... the serious health hazards and lost lives caused by drinking and driving," says Jesse Gibson, head of the alcohol abuse prevention program for the department.

Gibson says the department will coordinate the program with local mental health centers, county agricultural extension agents, and the National Institute on Alcohol and Alcoholism, Gibson said. The campaign will continue through Jan. 2.

Posters will be placed in the various agencies, while pamphlets and brochures will be available, he said.

The campaign is getting under way now because last December, alcoholic beverage sales in North Carolina totaled $36 million — the highest of any month in 1981.

Yesterday's Cryptoquip - TEENY-WEENY TOT WAS REALLY TERRIFIED OF OLD TEETER-TOTTERS.
 Today's Cryptoquip clue: J equals O.

The Cryptoquip is a simple substitution cipher in which each letter used stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words, and words using an apostrophe can give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is accomplished by trial and error.

DANIELS, W.Va. (AP) — He said more than 64,000 people — "groups, professors, doctors, lawyers, all kinds" — wrote to ask for entry blanks, but he would not say how many entries came back.

Campbell made millions selling used mining equipment in the mid-1970s and then fell upon hard times. Had he raised $1.25 million through the $250 entry fee, he could have paid his debt to Flat Top National Bank of Mercer County, which holds the mansion's mortgage, he said.

Alexander D. "Zan" Campbell of nearby Beckley announced in September that his mansion would be given to the winner of the contest if he received 5,000 entries. But Campbell said Wednesday that too few people entered, and the escrow agent began returning hundreds of thousands of dollars in entry fees.

"The last five or six days we were deluged with entries, but we knew we were still short, so we didn't even deposit those checks," said Bill Ellis, president of the Jamon Corp., which promoted the contest.

Ellis said each entrant will get a refund "along with a copy of the correct answers to the puzzle."

Ask Study Of Regional Centers

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — A state legislator who led an attempt to abolish the state Department of Public Instruction's eight regional education office centers says teachers have no use for the centers and they should be eliminated. The legislature's Study Committee on Regional State Offices issued a mildly worded recommendation to the state Board of Education on Wednesday calling for a study on the need for the centers. However, state Sen. Sam Noble, D-Robeson, co-chairman of the study panel who led an effort this summer to abolish the offices, says that the centers cost the state $5.5 million a year and contended that teachers saw little use for them.

He said he does not expect the Board of Education to take any action as a result of the committee's vote requesting a study. "You can't do anything with them," Noble said. "It's part of the bureaucracy that's growing and growing in education."

Rep. Margaret Tennille, D-Forsyth, the other co-chairman of the study committee, also says she has had numerous complaints about the educational centers expressed to her in private. But she said the critics weren't willing to appear in public before the committee.

Noble, who was defeated in his reelection bid, won a vote to abolish the centers in the joint Appropriations Committee, but money for the centers was restored the following day at the urging of Public Instruction Superintendent Craig Phillips who agreed to cut in spending for textbooks in order to continue the centers. The centers were established by state law in an effort to decentralize the state education agency and place state services close to local school systems. Supporters say they provide technical assistance to local school systems, assist in developing education programs and interpret state policy for local school administrators. The study was created by the General Assembly earlier this year after some legislators began criticizing them.

Scramble For Kennedy Support

By W. DALE NELSON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) —
Sen. Edward M. Kennedy had hardly finished announcing he wouldn't run for president
before Alan Cranston was on the telephone. The scramble among Democratic presidential hopefuls for support from the Kennedy camp was on.

Cranston, the Senate Democratic whip from California who is expected to announce his candidacy in January, said he called a number of Kennedy backers and "some of them said they were ready to go."

In the hours after Kennedy, D-Mass., announced Wednesday that he would not seek the Democratic presidential nomination, potential candidates reacted with praise for Kennedy and hope for themselves.

Rep. Morris K. Udall, D-Ariz., who ran unsuccessfully in 1976, said Kennedy's decision "forces everyone, including myself, to re-evaluate what role I might play." He said he would consider over the next few weeks whether to become an active candidate.

Former Vice President
Walter F. Mondale said,
"Sen. Kennedy has made a difficult and courageous decision. Every Democrat is indebted to him for the responsibility he has shown in making his intentions public at this early date."

Sen. John Glenn, D-Ohio, said: "Any time someone ahead of you in the polls drops out, that's a plus. We'll look at it and see how it affects us. Who knows?"

Sen. Gary Hart, D-Colo., said Kennedy's announcement "will have no effect on my decision whether to run for president. My decision will continue to be based on what I can offer the nation as a candidate, not on who my competition would be."

Sen. Ernest F. Hollings,
D-S.C., who has a presidential exploratory committee in the field, said Kennedy's decision "shows that the process is extremely open."

Rep. Tom Harkin, D-Iowa, said the Massachusetts
senator's withdrawal
"creates quite a vacuum" in Iowa, which holds the first presidential nominating caucuses. He said it put Mondale "in a favored position" to win Iowa's delegates.

Cranston said the race is "wide open", with Mondale the front-runner, followed by Glenn. Behind them, he said, the "principal contest" is between himself and Hart.

Both Mondale, who recently campaigned for Kennedy's re-election in Massachusetts, and Sen.
Paul Tsongas, D-Mass., who told reporters he talked about the presidential race with Kennedy just a few days ago, said the decision came as a surprise.

"I would have bet my bottom dollar he would have run in 1984," said Tsongas.

Senate Majority Leader
Howard H. Baker Jr., R-
Tenn., also said he was taken by surprise.

Senators generally accepted Kennedy's statement that his decision was based on concern for his family and not on doubt that he could win.

"No Kennedy ever shrank from a tough fight," said Cranston.

"We misunderstood or undervalued the personal pressures," said Tsongas.

Tsongas said Mondale was "at least the immediate beneficiary since they compete for the same constituency."

A Cranston aide, however, said the California senator is the "logical inheritor" of Kennedy support because of his liberal credentials.

Cranston, asked if he saw himself as a logical
alternative to Kennedy, said,
"Perhaps so. On many of the issues, yes."

Udall, at a National League of Cities meeting in Los Angeles, tempered his remarks about possible candidacy with some customary touches of humor.

"I wanted to announce today that I am forming an exploratory committee to investigate whether I should think about running in the event that I am drafted," he told the city officials. "To put it another way, I am resolutely committed to a state of flexible indecision and no force is powerful enough to shake my incoherence. That's exactly where I stand on this issue."

Cows Love Sweet Stuff

WESTBROOK, Maine
(AP) — At Smiling Hill Farm, the milk cows are pigging out on doughnuts, pies and eclairs.

"After you feed the cows
some of this sweet stuff, you'll see them standing around and licking their chops just like little kids," says dairyman David Knight.

Knight buys bakery goods that are too old even for thrift stores, loads them into a truck and hauls them to his farm. He removes the stale wrappers and feeds the stale munchies to his dairy cattle.

He can't be bothered unwrapping individually packaged items "like Twinkies and such," so those go into a separate barrel for use by a neighboring pig farmer. The wrappers don't seem to bother porkers.

Knight figures that his bovines consume as much as three tons of baked goods
each month. But he has no beef about the nutritional value of the unusual fodder.

"Hey, what's bread made of? It's made of wheat and so on, right? I can buy it a lot cheaper than I can wheat.
So I'll feed the milking cows
maybe three loaves a day with their regular food; it's good for them," he said.

Reminisce On Favored Alibis

CEDAR RAPIDS, Iowa (AP) — Rotten potatoes or an urgent need to get to a bathroom probably won't make it as excuses for speeding through Cedar Rapids, but a chicken costume just might work.

Police, reminiscing about their favorite tall tales, say they've heard just about every reason that drivers can dream up for speeding.

For example, one woman said she had been holding a cup of tea between her legs. The tea spilled, making her accelerate.

In another case, a man claimed his wooden leg had fallen off, jamming the accelerator.

A Warrant For Patient

A warrant charging Glenn McClendon, 22, of Soperton, Ga., with first degree burglary, armed robbery and kidnapping has been issued following investigation of an incident Tuesday night at a rural residence.

Sheriff Ralph Tyson said that McClendon is a patient at Pitt County Memorial Hospital, undergoing treatment for a gunshot wound. McClendon was transferred to Greenville from Martin General Hospital in Williamston where he sought treatment.

Tyson said that medical authorities had been alerted to be on the watch for a man wounded in a robbery at the home of H.C. Wynne on rural paved road 1517. Wynne and his nephew, Timmy, told deputies that the incident involved three men, one of them armed, who held them up.

Timmy Wynne told officers that the men began removing items from the house and while they were outside, he got a weapon and shot one of the men who was armed. All three men fled from the house, he said.

Tyson said that the kidnapping charge involved the alleged restraint of the Wynnes in their home by the intruders. He said investigation of the incident was continuing.

BIBLE CLASSES

Elder Ceaser Crandal will conduct Bible classes each Thursday from 7 to 8 p.m. at St. Matthew's Free Will Baptist Church. Prayer services will follow.

Eldress Hattie Cobb will preach Sunday at 11 a.m. and Eldress Peggy Evans will preach Sunday at 7:30 p.m.

"The most common, is 'I was speeding because I have to go to the bathroom,'" said Capt. Louis Stepanek of the Cedar Rapids Police Department traffic division.

Food seems to make cars go faster: "I was trying to get the pizza home before it got cold" is typical, he said.

A few other cases described Tuesday by Stepanek: —An auxiliary firefighter from a nearby town said he was speeding to Mercy Hospital to see how long it would take, just in case he ever had to drive a patient there.

—Another man said he had just bought a bag of potatoes. He was hurrying to get them home because some were rotten and he wanted to get the rotten ones out so the others wouldn't spoil.

None of those stories worked, Stepanek said. All ended with tickets.

But then there was the "chicken."

One Halloween night, officers pursued a speeding car that failed to pull over. Suddenly, the lights and motor died and the car rolled to the shoulder of the road. Stepanek said the officers found a man in a chicken costume sitting behind the wheel.

"He was on his way to a Halloween party and told the officers he'd gotten his chicken foot wedged in between the brake and accelerator. The only way he could stop the car was to turn off the key and let it roll to a stop," Stepanek explained. "It took both officers pulling to get the chicken foot unwedged."

Transplant . . .

All I can think is that at least one of these recipients is going to do something great someday."

The funeral for Miss Neal, daughter of Bob and Billie Neal of Fort Pierce, was held Wednesday. Students at Westwood High School, where she was a senior specializing in journalism, have set up a journalism scholarship in her memory. She also was co-captain of the band flag corps and vice president of Sigma Lambda Chi service organization.

Her sister, Diane, who also has donated her organs, said, "Susan was very healthy; therefore, her organs were well worth donating. She made the commitment at a time when it certainly didn't look like they'd be used so soon. None of us know for sure. Our family is pleased that the meaning of Susan's life has been added to this way. We're just hoping that more people will sign up for organ donation as she did."

Revitalization . . .

great deal of support. The spokesman said there are "lots of things that are bonuses" in Greenville with respect to central city revitalization. He cited the proximity of the river and East Carolina University to the downtown and he noted that vacant areas offer "great possibilities" as far as in-filling with development for residents.

Rash said he is convinced that there is enormous appeal in proximity of the university to the inner-city "if it is handled right." He suggested that most cities would "love to have a university the size of ECU on the fringe of their downtowns."

He said the land along First Street near the river is "dynamite" for development.

Rash said that downtown areas have generally lost their capacities to function as regional shopping centers and he suggested that downtowns need to be restored to their places as being a "part of the neighborhood." Rash told the gathering here that for a revitalization plan to work, it needs the spark of spontaneity. He said the city should not sell away its birthright in terms of public policy.

Rash said the city should arrive at a consensus as to what it wants for its inner-city. He said that developers should be given some flexibility but if the city wants the development to be pedestrian oriented, "you ought to articulate that." Rash said that land owned by the city should be looked at first for development potential.

Cox said that the city does not have money but it does have a substantial amount of land.

Rash said his company, a non-profit organization, is looking for an in-state development possibility after work in Fayetteville is completed. Greenville, he told the group, is "very much in line for that." He said he was interested in participating in some way but he emphasized that the city should make its own decisions as to what it wants. Local policy should not be dictated by an outside firm, he suggested.

Rash said that while Charlotte and Greenville are obviously very different, there are principles that ought to guide any downtown revitalization. Council member Janice Buck said, "I feel you don't find a city with more potential." She said Greenville has growing pains and needs guidance to grow in the right direction.

Dick McKee, co-chairman of the local planning committee, said "there are a lot of things in place for us" and there is a lot to learn. He said the city owns property in the right places and there is interest in government being in partnership with the private sector.

Rash said he feels capital will be "less of a problem than you think." He said that if the city develops a good plan, "There are any number of us out there who can figure out a way to get it financed."

In addition to revitalization of the central area of Greenville, the planning committee is also concerned with economic growth and

One Injured In Morning Wreck

An early morning accident on Evans Street Extension left one person injured, according to Highway Patrol reports.

Trooper Spencer Padgett said a car driven by Bobby Ray Miller of Tarboro was headed south on Evans Street when it rounded a curve and went out of control, leaving the road and striking a utility pole. Padgett said a passenger identified as Lynn Moret of Winterville was reported injured. She was taken to Pitt County Memorial Hospital. The trooper estimated damage to the small sports car at $10,000 while damage to the utility pole was estimated at $800.

Miller, according to Padgett, was charged with careless and reckless driving.

Some people think an IRA won't help until retirement. Nonsense. A BB&T IRA helps every April 15.

An IRA, you see, is more than a fast-growing retirement fund. It's a tax shelter.

Now, the tax-wise have been taking advantage of tax shelters for years, contributing money to charity, for example, so they can take big deductions and pay smaller income taxes.

Well, we think it's about time working people got a piece of the action. And they can with BB&T's Individual Retirement Account, a tax shelter that's yours when you make a contribution to the charity closest to your heart: you and your family.

YOU CAN DEDUCT AS MUCH AS $2,000 A YEAR FROM YOUR GROSS INCOME.

You're allowed to invest as much as $2,000 a year in your IRA ($2,250 if you're married and only one of you is a wage earner, $4,000 if you both are). And every penny is deductible. Which means big tax savings. If you're in the 25% tax bracket, for example, and you and your working spouse put $4,000 into an IRA, your refund check from Uncle Sam will be $1,000 fatter than it would be otherwise.

YOU DON'T EVEN PAY TAX ON THE INTEREST YOU EARN UNTIL YOU RETIRE.

Which is nice, because at BB&T, you'll be earning at a rate that's tied to money market rates, with a guaranteed minimum of 8%. What's more, we don't compound that interest annually or quarterly as some banks

COMPARISON OF INTEREST COMPOUNDING METHODS

do. We compound daily, which can make a difference of thousands of dollars in interest over the years.

And all your interest is tax-deferred. You pay no tax on it until you begin withdrawing funds between 59½ and 70½ years of age, when you'll probably be in a lower tax bracket and, therefore, required to pay less.

YOU CAN BUILD UP ENOUGH IN YOUR IRA OVER THE YEARS TO RETIRE RICH.

If you start an IRA in your early thirties, a $2,000-a-year investment, with all the interest it earns, will turn into a really tidy sum by the time you're sixty-five. And even if you were born too soon to start that early or can't afford an investment that large, you'll still pile up a sizeable fund.

Call or visit any BB&T office and get your IRA started before another day goes by. After all, how can you pass up a retirement plan that gives you big bucks in the September of your life and a bigger refund check every April?

Tinker Hopes Quality Television Will Be Accepted

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — "Cheers," the best new comedy of the season, was the lowest rated show last week. Is high-caliber programming working at NBC? Grant Tinker isn't sure. "It's just my fond hope that quality programming will be accepted," said NBC's chief executive. "The anxiety you have is that the audience will continue to disappoint you. It may not be enough to put on a good show and think the audience will find you."

While most network TV is pabulum for the masses, third-rated NBC made Thursday night an elite experiment, stringing together one award-winner after another: "Fame,"

"Cheers" (the night's only newcomer), "Taxi" and "Hill Street Blues."
"The best night of television on television" went the promotional announcements.

But, except for "Hill Street," viewers didn't notice. They were watching CBS and ABC. Six weeks into the season, CBS' "Magnum, P.I." was the No. 5 show, unloaded the downtrodden "Quest" and "Greatest American Hero."

Next week, NBC is expected to announce the cancellation of some shows, none of which will be confused with "Hill Street Blues."

According to industry sources, "The Devil Connection," with Rock Hudson, is a goner. "Gavilan," with Robert Ulrich, seems a lost cause.

NBC will have to fold at least one more hour, since it announced its 1983 schedule will include half-hour comedies "Mama's Family" and "For Teachers Only," an action-adventure show ("The A Team" starring George Peppard and Mr. T of "Rocky III" fame), and the returning "NBC Magazine."
Tinker suggested that NBC might have made a mistake in putting all its egghead programs in one basket. "The Thursday night lineup may not have been particularly well thought out," he said.

ABC Got An Edge In Football, Boxing

LOS ANGELES (AP) — ABC won its first weekly ratings in the fall season, knocking CBS down to No. 2 for the first time in five weeks but not far enough to keep CBS from winning the important November ratings sweeps.

ABC benefited from the return of professional football on Monday night and the Friday night fight between Larry Holmes and Randy "Tex" Cobb during the week ended Nov. 28.

ABC's rating averaged 17.6, the A.C. Nielsen Co. said Tuesday. The networks say this means in an average prime-time minute, 17.6 percent of the nation's homes with TV were tuned to ABC.

Monroe's Doctrine

James Monroe's message to Congress 169 years ago today has become one of the most famous of U.S. foreign policy statements. The Monroe Doctrine, which guaranteed all independent nations of the Western Hemisphere protection from Europe, reflected the U.S. belief that Europe, and its balance of power system, was corrupt. Ironically, it was that system that kept the European powers from interfering in Latin America. During the 1800s, it was the strength of the British navy, not the Doctrine, that kept Europe at bay. But the Doctrine's influence, as illustrated by this 1940 cartoon, has been far-reaching. This week, when President Reagan visits Latin America, experts will be watching to see how he uses the Doctrine.

DO YOU KNOW — Name Monroe's Secretary of State, who actually wrote the Monroe Doctrine.

WEDNESDAY'S ANSWER — The U.S. consumes more coffee than any other nation.

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, DEC. 3, 1982

YOUR DAILY Horoscope
from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Dramatic changes are likely to occur today so make sure you go along with them for best results. You would be wise to use diplomacy in dealing with others at this time.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Much care in money matters is required at this time. A family tie could prove difficult but pay little heed and all will be fine.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Quietly do what will change the attitude of close ties so there is increased harmony. Don't be forceful with anyone.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Handle routine duties tactfully and get excellent results. Not a good day to engage in civic affairs.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) A time to be thankful for your blessings instead of feeling sorry for yourself. Cut down on false stimulants.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Listen more carefully to what friends have to say and increase harmony. Wait until late in the day before making important decisions.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Avoid getting into any arguments with associates today or there could be unpleasant consequences. Sidestep a troublemaker.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Make sure you complete your work today instead of putting it off for another day. The evening can be a happy one.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Keep calm if a troublesome situation flares up at home and it will soon blow over. Exercise your talents.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Know what your true aims are and the best and easiest way to gain them. Use extreme care in motion.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Getting your work organized in such a way that it can become more profitable in the future is wise.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Study your finances well and know where to put in economy measures wisely. Obey rules and regulations that apply to you.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Anything of a personal nature could have delays, so be patient and good results will follow. Strive for happiness.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will likely encounter more problems than others during lifetime, so teach to make right decisions. Be sure to give good spiritual and ethical training early in life. Sports are a must in this chart.

duplicate player, won the ace of clubs and led a diamond to the jack preparatory to trying the trump finesse. He never did get to take it. East ruffed the diamond and returned a low club. Fortunately for the defenders, West held the nine of clubs. That served as an entry to give his partner a second diamond ruff, and to rub salt in to the wound. West was able to overruff the third round of clubs with the king of trumps and give partner another diamond ruff for down two. Very unfortunate, but only if you are playing duplicate.

The rubber bridge aficionado has no problem with the hand. He wins the ace of clubs and immediately bashes out ace of hearts and another. The defenders can take a club trick and one diamond ruff in addition to the king of trumps, but that is all for the defense. Declarer will get to discard his losing spade on the fourth diamond.

At duplicate, obviously, declarer cannot afford the safe line. He would look very silly if he made ten or eleven tricks when twelve were available by simply crossing to dummy and picking up the king of trumps via a finesse. Since that is what the rest of the field would be doing, any declarer who played safe would get a terrible score.

Nat'l Award To ECU Senior

ECU NEWS BUREAU
Cathy Ann Masten Sprouse of Mocksville, an East Carolina University senior majoring in criminal justice, has won the national scholarship award presented by the Association of Federal Investigators.

The award, which carries a $500 cash stipend, was presented at the association's annual awards dinner last week in Arlington, Va., by Dr. John R. Ball, chairman of the department of social work and correctional services at ECU.

Ball said Ms. Sprouse, a corrections major, is completing her internship with the police department in Winston-Salem. She is scheduled to graduate at the end of the fall semester with a grade point average of at least 3.9. Her cumulative GPA in her major, criminal justice, at the time of her nomination was a perfect 4.0.
