

Greening Again

SECOND TIME AROUND — The long run of unseasonably warm weather in eastern North Carolina has brought about some unusual scenes in the local area. Here, in a field near the village of Lizzie in Greene County, green tobacco plants sprout from the roots of last summer's cut stalks. Most of the plants are now nearly a foot high, with a few beginning to flower. (Reflector Photo by Jerry Raynor)

Unseasonable Weather Prelude To Christmas

By MARY SCHULKEN Reflector Staff Writer

With Christmas less than three weeks away, folks are walking around in shorts and t-shirts these days bemoaning the fact that the weather, with balmy highs near 80 degrees and warm southerly winds, is more befitting the arrival of spring than the yuletide season.

Although the thermometer is expected to drop to more reasonable levels tonight, tepid temperatures have dominated local weather for the last week, coaxing people back into their summer clothes, and in some cases, out of the Christmas spirit.

"I can't seem to get in the Christmas spirit this year," said Angella Stallings, an employee at the Winterville Town Hall. "I don't know if it's the warm weather, but it (the weather) sure makes it seem less like Christmas. I just can't get in the mood to do my shopping."

"I don't think anybody's in the Christmas spirit," said Linda Pate of Ayden. "It just doesn't feel like Christmas; it's not cold enough."

Mrs. Pate said her family went Christmas shopping Saturday night but "it was so hot we got a Coke and went home."

"It doesn't seem like Christmas with it being this warm," said Ralph Ford, also of Ayden. "People expect it to be colder this time of year."

Despite the summery conditions, at least one person said her Christmas enthusiasm wasn't dampened. "I love the warm weather," said Jo-Anne Clemons, an employee at the Pitt County Extension Office. "Yes, I'm in the Christmas spirit. It doesn't make any difference."

High temperatures have reached into the upper 70's for the past several days according to Greenville Utilities' Water Plant. Sunday's high was 79 degrees Fahrenheit, said GUC, and by 8 a.m. today, the temperature had dipped only to a balmy 72 degrees.

On Saturday, the high was 78 degrees F. and the low reached a mild 58 degrees.

The temperate weather has kept electrical demands to a minimum, reported Mike Waters, substation and controls engineer for GUC.

"Loads have been running on the light end of the scale," said Waters. "They've been running 70-80 megawatts for the last week and 100 or so megawatts is expected for December."

For farmers, the unseasonably clement temperatures could mean trouble with insects and diseases that colder weather this time of year would normally decrease.

Three Are Sworn In As Members Of Pitt Board

By STUART SAVAGE Reflector Staff Writer

Burney Tucker, Kelly Barnhill and Charles McLawhorn took the oath of office this morning as members of the Pitt County Board of Commissioners.

Tucker and Barnhill were re-elected to their seats on the board in November, while Pitt voters chose McLawhorn to fill the seat of Alton Gardner, who did not seek re-election.

Gardner ended 28 years as a member of the board today. During his tenure representing Ayden, Grifton and Swift Creek Townships, he has missed only three regular meetings.

Prior to the swearing-in ceremony, the board voted to award contracts to Emergency Vehicle Services of Winterville for a new ambulance for the Pitt County Ambulance Service, and approved recommendations made by the county computer committee to expand services available to county and city agencies.

One of the expanded services approved includes providing the City of Greenville with on-line accounting and payroll, while another includes providing the City Board of Education with on-line accounting services.

Another service given the okay today includes providing pupil accounting services, bus and pupil scheduling and other services to the county and city school systems.

In connection with the pupil accounting services, commissioners approved requesting bids for an optical scanner, estimated to cost between $40,000 and $45,000, which will allow the schools and other county agencies to put typewritten material into the computer.

In other business, commissioners approved a slight increase in health department fee charges due to increases in Medicaid reimbursement rates, and accepted a $47,316 grant from federal crisis intervention funds for the Department of Social Services to be used to help meet emergency heat and utility bills for qualifying individuals.

Voting This Afternoon

House Rushing Gas Tax Action

WASHINGTON (AP) — Spurred by a steadily rising unemployment rate, the lame-duck Congress is moving ahead this week on President Reagan's recommended gasoline tax increase for highway repairs with Democrats pushing for billions more in other jobs initiatives.

Just three days after the government reported the nation's jobless rate reached a 41-year high of 10.8 percent in November, the House was voting this afternoon on raising the federal gasoline tax by a nickel to 9 cents to finance $5.5 billion worth of highway, bridge and mass transit repairs.

Administration officials estimate the program will create 170,000 jobs in construction industries and another 150,000 jobs indirectly related to the construction projects.

Also included in the legislation are provisions to force the owners of bigger trucks to pay more highway user taxes in exchange for liberalized restrictions on truck sizes and weight.

While having bipartisan support from leaders in both houses of Congress, the legislation faces what House Ways and Means Committee Chairman Dan Rostenkowski, D-Ill., said would be "lively debate."

"It's a controversial piece of legislation, as most measures to raise taxes are," said Rep. Barber B. Conable Jr. of New York, the top Republican on the tax-writing Ways and Means Committee and a supporter of the measure.

Rep. Henry Reuss, D-Wis., chairman of the congressional Joint Economic Committee, attacked the gasoline tax, saying it "would fall heavily on those who must commute to work. It would contribute to inflation. It would redistribute income unfairly across regions and erode the tax bases of the states."

Conable conceded it is "a tax on commuting to work ... but I don't know how you avoid it." The only alternative for financing the needed repairs "is to borrow money."

Some legislators have argued that their states will not receive a fair share of the money they pay into the program. Several members of the House and Senate have said they will try to amend the legislation to mandate that a state receive a certain minimum percentage of the money it pays in.

Still other legislators have opposed the increases in heavy truck taxes, saying the increases are unfair to the truckers, who will only pass on the added costs to consumers.

"I can't think of a more direct tax you could put on the consumer," said Rep. Butler Derrick, D-S.C.

Historians Say FBI Knew Pearl Harbor Spy Target

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Three months before the Japanese attacked Pearl Harbor, FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover knew that a British double agent had been instructed to gather detailed information about the base for Germany, two historians say.

But Hoover failed to warn President Franklin D. Roosevelt about the full danger because he "didn't want to stick his neck out," according to Leslie B. Rort Jr. and John F. Bratzel of Michigan State University.

On Sept. 3, 1941, Hoover sent a memo to Roosevelt saying the double agent working for the British and leading the Germans to believe he was working for them was looking for information about aircraft production rates and pilot training, the researchers say.

But Hoover did not mention that the spy, Dushko Popov — code-named "Ivan" by the Germans and "Tricycle" by the British — had specific instructions to gather information about defenses, aircraft placement, tides and currents at Pearl Harbor, they say.

On Dec. 7, 1941, the Japanese attacked the U.S. fleet anchored in the harbor, crippling or sinking 18 ships, destroying about 170 planes and causing some 3,700 casualties.

Rout, a professor of history, and Bratzel, an assistant professor in the Department of American Thought and Language, published their findings in the December issue of American Historical Review.

"It's a personal assumption on our part," Rout says, "but nobody, including J. Edgar, seemed to think the Japanese would attack."

The historians say the Germans planned to relay Popov's information to their Japanese allies, but Popov, who was loyal to his British employers, informed them before he left for the United States.

The spying instructions were contained on a microdot — a microscopic photograph — used as a period at the end of a sentence in a telegram, Rout said in a recent telephone interview. British intelligence had Popov give the microdot to Hoover.

A SLIP-UP — Three months before the Japanese attacked Pearl Harbor, FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover, left, neglected to tell President Roosevelt that an Axis agent had been instructed to gather detailed military information about the base, say two historians. (AP Laserphoto)

Study Changing Public Schools

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The legislative study committee that recommended sweeping changes in the state's public education system may come up with some compromises at a meeting later this month, officials say.

The committee announced several controversial recommendations last month — including proposals calling for consolidation of city and county school boards, increasing the number of state Board of Education members elected by the while decreasing the number appointed by the governor, and allowing the expanded state board to appoint the Superintendent of Public Instruction, a position now determined in public elections.

Under the proposals, the state would assume most of the capital costs for schools, a burden local governments now carry. More operating costs would be shifted to local governments, but the state would continue to fund teacher salaries. And a battle is expected about whether the state's taxpayers are ready to give counties the authority to levy local sales taxes at the same 3 percent rate as the state. Counties now only levy 1 percent.

But the recommendations have received criticism from powerful legislators such as state Sen. Kenneth C. Royall, and from Gov. Jim Hunt.

"It's going to be awfully hard to convince this Legislature that enough study has gone into this many changes that are so sweeping," said Royall, a Durham Democrat and the Senate majority leader.

"I don't think there has been enough groundwork laid to put through a big batch of very fundamental changes," Hunt said.

Hunt has promised no major spending initiatives in his remaining two years in office.

The study committee will hold final meetings Dec. 13-14, and the proposals may be scaled down in a compromise attempt, officials say.

"I think the committee has gone further than anyone ever envisioned," said Rep. William T. Watkins, House Appropriations Committee co-chairman.

House Speaker Liston B. Ramsey declined to speculate on what the Legislature might do with the recommendations, but said he would like to see the superintendent question addressed.

"I have long thought the superintendent should be appointed, not elected," Ramsey said.

The committee's House co-chairman, Josephus L. Mavretic, D-Edgecombe, says the Legislature has not taken a comprehensive look at public school financing for 50 years.

Mavretic draws a comparison between the committee's work for the 1983 legislative session and the issues that confronted the 1933 Legislature during the Great Depression.

"I think they (the committee's proposals) all are going to get serious consideration ... I don't think the committee has worked as long and as hard as it has just for a drill."

Turnout For Marathon

POISED TO RUN — A big line-up of runners are shown toing the starting line in Bethel Saturday morning for the annual Bethel Marathon. Despite a heavy fog and unseasonably warm weather, a substantial number of runners were on hand for the two divisions of the marathon — a 26 mile run from Bethel to Oak City and return, and a shorter six mile run. (Reflector Photo by Chris Bennett)

Kids Turn Profits In School

DEFIANCE, Ohio (AP) — Captains of industry don't know Nicole Thomas, but maybe they should. The 9-year-old heads a company that's turning a handy pre-Christmas profit, despite the recession.

Nicole is chief executive officer of the 3-M Co. — not the Minnesota conglomerate of the same name, but a ceramics manufacturer headquartered in the basement of Spencer Elementary School.

The name 3-M stands for "Magical Mold Makers." All the employees — from management to assembly line — are Spencer fourth-graders who make and market ceramic Christmas trees, angels, pencil-holders and blue models of the school's mascot, the bulldog.

Although not listed on the New York Stock Exchange, the local 3-M is a member of the Chamber of Commerce. The investors — mostly moms and dads — earned 25 cents on their $1 shares two years ago.

The company turns a profit of $600 to $1,400 annually, to be spent any way the employees choose — including field trips, T-shirts and pizza parties. After dividends are paid, that is.

Principal Phillip Furnas said the company started eight years ago through a state-funded career development program designed to introduce youngsters to the working world.

A ceramics company was formed because the operation adapted readily to assembly-line production, familiar to many of the pupils' parents who work at a General Motors Co. foundry in Defiance.

The project has proven so successful that the students have been featured in internationally shown teachers' training films and on the syndicated television program "Kids World."

Each fall, a help-wanted sign is posted in the school. Pupils fill out applications and are assigned positions by their teachers.

After that, the kids are on their own. For two months, they punch a time clock donated by a local firm and begin their assigned duties, working in two one-hour shifts daily during regular school hours from the first of November until the end of the semester.

Members of the 2:30 p.m. shift, who are pupils in Linda Brugler's class, work under the close eye and caustic tongue of Alicia Tuohy, 8, an inspector for the company. She knows which students are the clock-watchers, the goof-offs, the malcontents and the slipshod workers, and she doesn't hesitate to let them know about it.

"Some get mad at me," the inspector admits, "but my job is to make sure they're doing their jobs."

The students turn out polished pieces that are sold through a retail store for from $2 to $7. In true assembly line fashion, each worker has one task that is performed over and over.

There are some problems reported by both management and labor.

Nicole says she had to lay off one of the casters on a recent shift and eventually demoted him to custodian because his work habits didn't improve when he returned to the job three days later.

In past years employees have threatened to organize a union to resolve their grievances.

But when Elizabeth Burris, a 9-year-old finisher, had a complaint about the clay dust affecting her allergies, she took the problem to an even higher authority — her mother, Nancy.

But they decided not to seek a transfer or file a grievance for Elizabeth unless the problem worsens.

Sorority Has Recent Meet

Barbara Turcotte was speaker at the meeting of Xi Gamma Xi chapter of Beta Sigma Phi held Tuesday at the home of Joyce Sawyer. Her program topic was "Language and Lifestyles."

She discussed how language reflects and influences one's thinking, life and progress patterns.

On Friday members and their husbands will attend the Madrigal dinner at East Carolina University. A social hour will be held at Cherry Oaks Clubhouse.

The group held a hot dog sale Saturday at K Mart. Proceeds from the event will be used for various service projects throughout the year.

Beta Sigma Phi is a cultural social and service organization for women. Unaffiliated members in the area should call Tana Hill at 738-3322.

You can add excitement to your sweater wardrobe with this stunning pullover, combining a confetti-flecked yarn and a fascinating pattern stitch. The colorful yarn is bulky for quick knitting, yet light enough for indoor or outdoor wear. Another plus is the simple shaping with no need to set in sleeves.

To obtain directions for making the Calico pullover in small (8-10), medium (12-14) or large (16-18), send your request for Leaflet No. B-1292 with $1 and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to: Pat Trexler ("The Daily Reflector"), P.O. Box 810, North Myrtle Beach, S.C. 29582.

Or you may order a kit containing the instructions and the Calico Yarn by sending a check or money order to Pat Trexler at the same address. Kit prices, including shipping charges, are: $41.25 for small, $45 for medium or $48.75 for large. Please specify your choice of colors from the following: pistachio, raspberry, flagstone or peach melba.

A good example is the design featured today. The pattern stitch that sets this sweater apart is worked with a four-row repeat, with three of those rows worked in simple knit or purl. Why not try it on a sample swatch and see for yourself?

The pattern itself is worked on a multiple of 18 stitches. That is, you may work it on any number of stitches that can be evenly divided by 18. For your sample swatch, I recommend that you cast on an additional pair of stitches at each end for a border.

Cast on 22 or 40 stitches (a multiple of 18 plus 4 border stitches). For Row 1, knit 2 stitches; put a marker on the needle; knit until 2 stitches remain on the left needle; place another marker on the needle and knit the last 2 stitches. On all the following rows, knit the first and last 2 stitches and work in pattern on all the stitches between the markers.

On Row 2, purl all of the stitches between the markers, and on Row 4 knit all stitches between the markers.

Row 3 is the only one that will require some concentration. Knit to the first marker. Step 1 (knit 2 together) 3 times; Step 2 (yarnover and knit 1) 6 times; Step 3 (knit 2 together) 3 times. Notice that each step is worked over a span of 6 stitches. On a swatch of 22 stitches, you now simply knit the last 2 stitches. With a swatch of 40 stitches, repeat steps 1 through 3 once more before knitting the last 2 stitches. Repeat these 4 rows over and over for pattern.

If you are not too familiar with pattern stitchery, let me explain a couple of things. Whenever a set of instructions appear in parentheses as in the steps above, you are to repeat whatever appears within that set of parentheses the number of times specified.

Whenever you are told to make a "yarnover" and the next stitch is to be knitted, simply bring your yarn forward to the normal purling position and knit the next stitch from that position. This lays an extra strand of yarn over the needle. This extra strand is treated as a stitch on the next row.

Although it does not apply to this pattern stitch, there is a different technique used for making a yarnover when the next stitch is to be purlled. In this case, you wrap the yarn completely around the needle from the front, over the top of the needle and then under the needle until the yarn is again in the front.

DID YOU KNOW...
by Dean's Photography

Ancient Rome has a reputation for decadence today. But the truth is that in the early days, Roman law and ritual, including marriage, were taken extremely seriously.

The word "matrimony" comes from the Latin word "matrimonium." It's based on the root word "mater" meaning mother. In ancient Rome, marrying meant asking a woman to become a mother.

The marital union was sacred to the old Romans; it even extended beyond death. Not only was there no recognition of divorce, but a widow could not remarry.

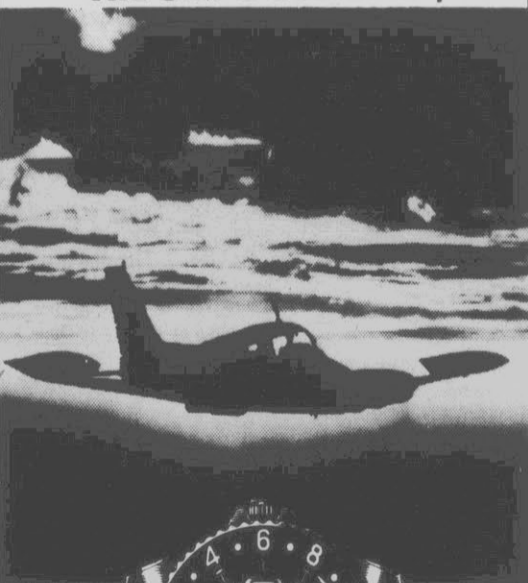

Tradition was an important part of Roman weddings. All brides wore their hair in the same way - divided into six tresses. And a special knot was used to tie the bride's belt, which was only to be untied by her husband after the wedding. Breaking any of these conditions was considered to bring extremely bad luck.

Too often the average knitter looks longingly at a sweater or other item with a complicated appearing pattern stitch with the idea that it is beyond his or her skill level. And often this is

Dear Abby

Reader Needs Support And Outside Help

By Abigail Van Buren
 © 1982 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: I would like to know if there is an organization for people who suffer from manic depression. The local mental health center can't help me.

I have had seven nervous breakdowns; psychotherapy did not help me. I am nearing my rope's end and thought perhaps by speaking to someone with the same affliction we could enlighten each other. Any help you could provide would be appreciated.

NEEDS HELP

DEAR NEEDS: Get in touch with Recovery, Inc., 116 S. Michigan Ave., Chicago, Ill. 60603. Please send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for the address of the chapter nearest you.

This organization has been enormously helpful in providing support and encouragement for people with your problem. God bless and good luck.

DEAR ABBY: Help, please! I think my beautiful 21-year-old son is gay! (I'll call him Gary.)

While looking for a notebook for one of my other children, I found three books about gay relationships in Gary's room. They were in a bottom drawer, well-covered with other things, apparently hidden. He is 300 miles away — in his senior year at college.

I am shaking like a leaf as I write this. My husband has a heart condition and I'm reluctant to discuss this with him because I'm afraid he couldn't handle it. We don't attend any church, so there isn't a clergyman I feel close to.

Gary is in the middle of a very demanding academic schedule and I don't want to jeopardize his college career by getting him into an emotional upheaval right now.

I don't know where to turn. I want to know if he is gay — and yet I don't want to know. I don't know how long I can keep this inside. Where do I turn?

SICK INSIDE

DEAR SICK: Don't jump to any conclusions. Just because you found books about "gay relationships" in Gary's drawer does not necessarily mean he is gay. And if he is, it's not the end of the world, either. For now, you need someone to talk to.

I recommend a specialist in family counseling. When Gary comes home, and the pressure of his senior year is over, discuss it with him calmly. Straight or gay, he is your son and he needs your unconditional love. (P.S. And please reconsider sharing this with your husband. Gary is his son, too.)

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a man who "playfully" pokes his pregnant wife in the abdomen even though she has told him that she doesn't like it?

He also teases her about how "fat" she's become. She can see for herself that she's lost her figure and doesn't need this kind of needling from her husband to remind her that she isn't attractive to him anymore. Don't men understand that this is a difficult time for women?

Please print this. Maybe he will see himself and wise up.

NO NAME

DEAR NO NAME: Men understand it, boys don't. Your "playful poker" sounds immature and perhaps a bit sadistic.

If you hate to write letters because you don't know what to say, send for Abby's complete booklet on letter-writing. Send $2 and a long, stamped (37 cents), self-addressed envelope to Abby, Letter Booklet, P.O. Box 38923, Hollywood, Calif. 90038.

No Fears For Winter Joggers

NEW YORK (AP) — While jogging and running have become a popular means of physical fitness for millions of Americans, winter's plummeting temperatures, gusty winds, snow and ice often cause these exercise buffs to stow away their sneakers and sweatsuits until spring.

But things don't have to be that way if a few precautions are taken, says Kathrine Switzer, the first woman to officially run in the Boston Marathon and now the director of Sports Programs for Avon Products Inc.

"Joggers should realize that the hardest part of running in the winter is opening the door and stepping outside," says Ms. Switzer, who is also considered the person most responsible for getting the women's marathon included in the 1984 Summer Olympics in Los Angeles.

According to Ms. Switzer, the key to running in the winter — and enjoying it — is proper preparation. First, she recommends that joggers dress lightly.

"Many people have the misconception that they need a lot of heavy clothing when they run in the winter, but that's not true. What they really need is layers of clothes. The layering traps warmth."

Her own winter running gear generally consists of ballet tights (men can substitute knee socks or long underwear), sweatpants, a long-sleeved cotton turtleneck, a sweatsuit jacket, a light nylon windbreaker, gloves, a hat and rubber-treaded running shoes.

"The hat and gloves are the most important elements of the outfit," Ms. Switzer says. "The hat is essential because more than 30 percent of your body heat is lost through your head, while the gloves are critical since your fingers are particularly susceptible to frostbite."

Ms. Switzer advises all runners to "winterize" their skin with moisturizers that protect the eyes, lips and face. She also suggests that women use a lipstick and foundation with built-in moisturizers and sunscreens which provide additional protection against harsh winter sun, wind and chapping. Hair, she says, must be conditioned regularly because, like skin, it tends to dry and break in freezing temperatures.

Ms. Switzer advises all runners to prepare their bodies for the cold by performing indoor warm-up calisthenics for about 15 minutes before a workout. These exercises should include stretching to loosen muscles and tendons, sit-ups with knees bent and jumping jacks.

"It's important to get the blood flowing to all your extremities," she explains. "Once you feel that you are sufficiently warmed up, then put on your layers of clothing and begin your run very slowly."

"Don't be afraid to adjust your workout to the fluctuations in temperature and to the predicted amounts of precipitation," Ms. Switzer says. "On extremely cold

Couple Has Anniversary

The 50th wedding anniversary of Thelma and A.J. Smith of Grimesland was celebrated at a reception held Sunday afternoon at Trinity Free Will Baptist Church fellowship hall here.

Hosts and hostesses were their children, Mr. and Mrs. Dilton Earl Haddock of Greenville, Mr. and Mrs. Gorman Andrew Smith of Grifton, Mr. and Mrs. James Vernon Smith of Vanceboro, Mr. and Mrs. Allen Vann Smith of New Bern, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Dean Smith of New Bern and Mr. and Mrs. Gary Flowers of Wake Forest.

The honorees have 13 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Smith wore a formal gown of knit fabric. It was complemented by a sheer capelet of cocoa chiffon. She wore a corsage of yellow roses tied with yellow ribbons.

Judy and Travis Elks presided at the guest register where a picture of the couple was displayed.

Guests were greeted by the honorees and their children.

Gifts were received by Ann and Verla Smith, daughters-in-law, and displayed by Patricia Haddock and Donna Akin.

Punch was served by Tammie Hardee and Debbie Smith, granddaughters. Cake was served by Alice and Diane Smith, daughters-in-law.

The refreshment table was covered with a white cloth accented with yellow bows and centered with a gold candelabra of yellow carnations and chrysanthemums. Arrangements of mangolia and yellow candles were

 DINNER FOR TWO
 Steak & French Potatoes

Green Pea Puree
 Pears in Red Wine
 FRENCH POTATOES

We adapted this from a French chef's recipe for Pommes de terre Boulangere.

- 2 very large or 3 medium (1 pound) baking potatoes
- 1 large (6 ounces) Spanish onion
- 1/2 cup parsley sprigs minus stems
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- Freshly ground white pepper
- 3/4 cup water
- 2 tablespoons butter

Pare potatoes and slice very thin (1/8-inch). Peel onion and slice paper-thin; separate into rings. Mince parsley. In a buttered 10 by 6 by 2-inch baking dish arrange 1/2 of the potatoes; layer with onion and parsley; cover with remaining potatoes; sprinkle each layer with salt and pepper. Heat together the water and butter until water boils and butter melts and pour over the potatoes. Bake in a preheated 450-degree oven until potatoes are tender — 40 minutes; top layer of potatoes will be dry. Serve hot. Makes 2 very large or 4 small servings.

and windy days, don't run too far. And look for wind-shielded places to run, such as shopping areas, business sections and residential streets. These places are much safer than parks or country roads in case you get caught in a storm."

On days when it is only moderately cold, however, Ms. Switzer urges runners to go farther than usual — and enjoy it.

"What most runners don't realize," she says, "is that they are stronger in cold air than hot. The reason is that they save energy by not having to dissipate excess heat."

Beyond the wind and temperature, Ms. Switzer cites other conditions of the season which must be taken into account.

"In the winter, a lot of drivers have ice on their windows and cannot see very far," warns Ms. Switzer. "For this reason, runners must wear a lot of reflective gear and make sure they get out of the way as quickly as possible when they see an oncoming car."

Kennedy Out Of Race

Sen. Edward Kennedy quickly changed the picture for presidential politics with his announcement last week that he would not be a candidate for the 1984 Democratic nomination.

While acknowledging that he would like to be the president, Kennedy cited family considerations as the reason for his decision. He referred to his pending divorce which he said "has been painful for our children as well as ourselves."

"Were the decision to be made solely on political grounds, I would have made a different announcement today."

The decision probably came as a surprise, even to seasoned Democrats who watched Kennedy try mightily to wrestle the nomination from President Carter in 1980. Some believe the grinding struggle and the embarrassing attempts to resolve the differences contributed to Carter's defeat by President Reagan.

At that time Kennedy had patched up his marriage presumably to last through the campaign and a presidential term. Now the marriage is apparently ended. That in itself might not keep him out of the White House, but added to his other liabilities it was clearly a drag on his candidacy.

Of course, Kennedy is aware, as are the political experts in both parties, that he still will have adequate time to seek the presidency in the future. Nor could a Democratic draft in 1984 be ruled out even though he says his decision is final. If conditions were to bring that about Kennedy could have the nomination and still avoid the gruelling primary campaigning with its potential dangers.

For now, however, we have to take at face value the Kennedy announcement that he is out of the presidential race. It considerably brightens the prospects of other potential candidates.

Their Names Tell All

You may have noted that the new name for the MX missile is "The Peacekeeper." As much thought went into what to call the missile as to where to put it. You can say what you want about our military planners, but when it comes to naming mega-death weapons they know their business.

An entire military establishment is involved in thinking up new names for weapons. It is one of the most important divisions in the Pentagon, because when Defense is acquiring new hardware it doesn't want to tip off the taxpayer that it is buying a weapon that can obliterate millions of people.

Digby Trident, who is in charge of market research at Defense' told me: "We spend a lot of time and money thinking up names for our new weapons. The more innocent the name, the better chance we have of the public accepting it."

"How do you work?" "Let's take the 'Cruise Missile.' The name was selected over others after a great deal of market research in on-the-street interviews. The pollsters asked people first how they felt about a new, improved 'Hiroshima Plus Missile' and received an overwhelmingly negative reaction. Then they were questioned how they'd like one called 'Sudden Death.' The male respondents said the name appealed to them because it reminded them of professional football. But most females said the first thing that came to their minds was a lot of families being wasted."

"Women always tend to be more squeamish when it comes to war," I agreed.

"Finally we asked what came to mind when they saw the words 'Cruise Missile.' The majority of those questioned said it made them think of a nice boat on a smooth sea. Eighty percent said they would buy a ticket on a cruise missile, even if they didn't know where it was going."

"How did you come up with the name 'Trident' for the new nuclear submarine?" "We had originally named it 'Killer Shark.' But it turned out that several dovish senators on the Armed Services Committee had seen the film 'Jaws' and decided to withhold appropriations for it. Since we didn't have another name ready for it and were fighting a deadline, the Admirals said, 'We don't care what you call it, Trident. We've got to have it.'"

"The Admiral who was scheduled to testify on the submarine in front of the committee is hard of hearing, and thought we had named it 'Trident.' So that's what he called it when he made his case before the senators, and they loved it. There are a lot of people around here who thought I fixed it so I could have a class of submarine named after me, but I'm completely innocent."

"Where did you find the name 'Peacekeeper' for an MX missile?"

"A couple of months ago we got a call from the White House saying the President planned to make a decision on the MX basing system, and go public with it on television. He was leaning toward the Air Force theory that if you packed 100 missiles in a 20-mile strip, and the Soviets attacked them, the explosion of the first Soviet missile would destroy the other

Big Problem In Realities

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON — "They will not let me run a campaign on the issues," Sen. Edward M. Kennedy told a stricken supporter in an early warning Tuesday of his imminent withdrawal, signaling that he has lifted a burden from himself and the Democratic Party but also pointing to a deeper problem.

By "they," Kennedy meant political realities that guaranteed any 1984 campaign, like his humiliation in 1980, would end up as an inquest on his character. That is why party leaders, acknowledging the probability that he would be nominated but not elected, welcomed the senator's departure.

Yet the "issues" Kennedy wanted to run on are based on liberal dogma considered inappropriate by Democratic strategists but indispensable by his faithful supporters. Thus, the dilemma of how both to win the nomination and defeat Ronald Reagan survives Kennedy's departure.

None of this seriously troubled Kennedy's inner circle until after Thanksgiving. His staff unanimously recommended that he run and proffered similar advice from politicians not in the Kennedy orbit. Private polls handed Kennedy revealed no sag in his fortunes against Walter F. Mondale, who was shown slipping rather than rising in New Hampshire's vital first primary. More campaign staffers were being hired, and negotiations were underway for downtown Washington campaign office space.

However, Kennedy's unprecedented 1982 television commercials attesting to his good character (ostensibly his reaction in Massachusetts, actually targeted to neighboring New Hampshire) may have backfired. Pollster Patrick Caddell's still-secret findings showed good voter reaction in New Hampshire. But screening these TV spots for the press (to Caddell's rage) only revived the character issue.

That was the background for Kennedy's Thanksgiving Day conversations with his three children. As the senator later described it to aides, son Patrick noted that with his parents' divorce imminent and his father out on a non-stop campaign trail, "I'll be left all alone."

Yet, in some early-warning telephone calls to key supporters this week, Kennedy dwelled less on parental duties (where he has been exemplary) than on distaste for another national debate over what kind of a man he is or is not. He opened one such call by saying he wants to be president some day and hinted he would be trying for 1984 if "they" would let him campaign on the issues.

What issues? He told one supporter he would rejoice if the 1984 campaign could be a referendum on national health insurance. But that theme would bring groans from party strategists desperately seeking new campaign themes and party offerings different from standard Kennedy liberalism at a time when the economy may well have revived for the 1984 election.

The widespread relief of prominent Democrats in response to Kennedy's withdrawal, consequently, derived not only from finessing yet another dissection of the senator's character but from the hope of developing new issues. Washington-based Democratic power brokers who had acquiesced in the inevitability of Kennedy's nomination now feel emancipated.

Dec. 7, 1941, A Dark Day

Lest we forget. Tomorrow is Dec. 7.

It was on that date in 1941 that the attack by the Japanese on Pearl Harbor in Hawaii took place, hurling the United States into World War II and eventually the age of nuclear weapons.

For many living today the event is one which took place years prior to their births, something they have only read about. There are many, however, who vividly recall that day and what they were doing when the news of the shocking attack came. There are some who were there and are still around to recall the feelings they had when the reality dawned that they were under attack.

The war lasted until 1945 and the United States has since established strong friendships with its former enemies, Japan, West Germany and Italy.

The date of the attack is recalled more with a prayer that it may never happen again than anger.

There has never been a darker day for the United States than Dec. 7, 1941.

A Licensing Role

By PAUL T. O'CONNOR
RALEIGH — Almost everybody would agree that state licensing should be required for doctors and lawyers and dentists. The complexities of law and medicine mean that the public must put a great deal of trust in the training and judgment of these professionals. It would be hard to argue that the state doesn't have a legitimate interest in making sure to put that trust in them.

How far does that state responsibility to license professionals extend beyond doctors and lawyers? Should social workers, occupational counsellors and x-ray technologists be licensed? At what point does licensing cease to be protection for the public and begin to be a blockade to people who want to enter a profession? Remember, shortages in a profession drive up the cost of that profession's services.

Licensing debates come up in practically every legislative session as one group after another seeks either to be required to be licensed or to resist mandatory licensing. Legislators complain that they are spending increasing amounts of time on these questions and that their decisions don't necessarily make any sense. As Sen. Garry Hancock of Durham says, a group's political prowess — and not the merits of whether a profession should or should not be licensed — often determines which professions must be licensed.

PAUL T. O'CONNOR

The Legislative Study Commission on New Health Licensing Boards, chaired by Rep. Martin Lancaster of Goldsboro, was created last year to look at licensing. The committee proposes legislation establishing criteria for the new licensing of any profession and Hancock's Committee on Agency Review, which would implement the law, supports it.

The proposal would establish an intermediary step in the legislative process. Before a bill requiring licensing of a profession could come to the floor, it would have to go before agency review. That committee would not have the power to kill the bill — only to comment on whether it met certain criteria.

The primary criterion, says Lancaster, is whether the unregulated practice of this profession would harm the public health and welfare. (For example, the unregulated practice of medicine might mean the proliferation of medical quacks.) If so, then other questions are asked. Does the job require qualifications which distinguish it from ordinary labor? Does it require specialized skills or training? Does the public have enough knowledge and experience in this subject matter to judge the competence of the practitioners? Is the public not protected by other means?

Lancaster's committee put these criteria to work on five professions. Legislation in

To the editor:

This has been National Home Health Week, as designated by President Ronald Reagan.

Home care, the provision of nursing and supportive services to a sick or disabled person in his residence, is one segment of the broad spectrum of patient care. When a patient no longer needs the constant care and supervision provided by a hospital or extended care facility, home health services can provide intermittent nursing and rehabilitative care to the patient in his own home. Home care can work for the short-term convalescent who is recovering from an acute illness, the homebound patient who is chronically ill and the patient who is terminally ill. When the patient recuperates at home and medically-required services are available, the family has an opportunity to share in his care — a meaningful task to many families. Many times the home environment hastens recovery.

Through home health services, a diabetic can be shown how to adapt his diet restrictions to family eating habits. Similarly, a stroke victim can work toward rehabilitation in his own home with the assistance of a trained health worker. Whenever needed, the nurse and therapist work as a team.

All patients receiving home health care must be under a doctor's plan of treatment, which is reviewed periodically by the attending physician. Homebound patients are visited regularly by registered nurses and licensed therapists to receive treatment as outlined by the physician. Eastern Carolina Home Health Services Inc., a non-profit agency, has served patients in Pitt and Beaufort counties since 1971. The services this agency provides are skilled nursing, physical therapy, speech pathology, occupational therapy and home health aide services.

Patients or families of patients who feel they are in need of home health care should ask their physicians about ordering the needed services or contact their local home health agency for details.

Household Assets Not Fading

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — If you believe that the economy's household sector has fallen deeper into debt and frittered away its wealth in recent years you have been beguiled by a myth.

It is a well established one, but not difficult to understand in view of the mountains of debt accumulated by some families, the sharp rise in personal bankruptcies, and the nearly constant, wearying grind of the marketplace.

But this is the fact, according to government statisticians: at the end of 1981 — and in all probability now as well — household assets exceeded debts by nearly 7-1, a condition many a business would envy.

Federal Reserve figures show net worth of the household sector rose to $9.1 trillion in 1981 from just $665 billion in 1945, a seemingly stupendous rise but one that in itself is more mythical than real.

Mythical because it is stated in current dollars, or the dollars that existed in those years. Buying power of the 1945 dollar, for example, was nearly five times that of 1981 dollar. But divide $9.1 trillion by 5 and you still have net worth nearly tripling in the span of those years. No myth in that.

"No one reasonably contends that household wealth has recently been declining," says Thomas Durkin, director of research for the National Consumer Finance Association. Any deterioration, he says, "hardly appears alarming."

The false impression, he suggests, comes from mistaken news reports and undue attention given in them to increases in household debt. True, he says, debts have increased, but so have assets, and at almost the same rate.

The Balance Sheets of the U.S. Economy, a publication of the Federal Reserve Board, gives these 1981 estimates for the largest components of household assets.

—Tangible assets, such as houses, furniture, cars and land: $4 trillion.
—Liquid assets, including currency, bank deposits and money market mutual fund shares: $2 trillion.
—Business equities, including shares in corporations and full or partial ownership in non-corporate businesses: $3 trillion.

The major components of liabilities, which totaled $1.6 trillion in 1981 compared with $34 billion in 1945, were home mortgages and consumer installment credit, amounting to $1 trillion and $333 billion respectively in 1981.

But there has been deterioration, although minor, in one respect. The ratio of debts to assets did rise in the past 20 years or so, from 12.3 percent in 1962 to 15.6 percent at the worst in 1979 and to just a bit over 15 percent in 1981.

The long-term increase shown by those figures, however, is really not a trend, according to Durkin, a former Federal Reserve Board economist. It isn't of sufficient magnitude to constitute one, he said. "That's the real point."

But in spite of all the statistical evidence, there are other considerations: Aggregate figures, which these are, often disguise what might be happening to households in some geographical areas, among those that depend on certain occupations for their livelihood, and, of course, among individual families.

Boosting the tangible assets category, for example, are big increases in the market value of California homes and New York cooperative apartments. Many thousands of Midwest and Northeast homeowners failed to experience big gains.

In addition, over the past couple of years many workers in heavy industry dropped out of the trend to greater net worth. Being unemployed generally diminishes or eliminates savings. And, since unemployment may be geographically concentrated, it generally if perhaps temporarily lowers real estate values.

During some of the time span in the Fed study, there seems also to have been a big transference of wealth from savers to borrowers.

For several years in the 1970s, for example, many savers actually lost money, since the return they received was less than the rate of inflation, a situation now corrected.

Borrowers, meanwhile, paid less than the inflation rate for the use of savers' money, which many borrowers then used to acquire durables that rose in value. In some respects it has been called one of the great heists of all time.

Those who acquired such assets, and in fact all those who hold much of their wealth in durables, now might have a liquidity problem. Translated, that means while they might have lots of assets they can hardly spend a dime.

Once it used to be called the problem of the farmer, who might have a million dollars in land, house, barns, livestock and equipment, but who couldn't touch it without forgoing his means of support.

Illiquidity now is quite commonplace, and probably has as much as anything else to do with the misconception about American households growing poorer.

If you doubt it, sell your house for money, and then see what it costs to ref.

Customs Seize Guns Shipment

NEW YORK (AP) — Customs agents confiscated more than 60 weapons, including two submachine guns, from 14 members of the United Arab Emirates armed services leaving Kennedy International Airport for Switzerland, authorities said today.

Port Authority police stopped the 14 Arabs for questioning Sunday night after the barrel of a semiautomatic rifle protruded from a suitcase that had popped open, according to Sgt. Edward Garrett of the central police desk.

A government permit is required to take a gun out of the United States. The Arabs did not have the proper permits, but were not arrested because they carried "A-2" visas, giving them special status as members of a foreign government's military, Garrett said.

Customs agents, searching 48 pieces of luggage, found more than 60 weapons and 10,000 rounds of ammunition, including two Uzi submachine guns, an M-1 carbine, several rifles and more than 50 handguns.

The Arabs had bills of sale for the weapons. They allegedly were bought for personal use. "But I don't think there's a deer season in the Arab Republic," Garrett said.

The Arabs had arrived at Kennedy on a flight from Los Angeles. They were booked on a Swiss Air flight to Zurich, but missed it when they were detained by police about 8 p.m.

They said they had been attending a private helicopter training school in Long Beach, Calif.

Garrett said he did not know the total value of the guns. He said, however, that bills of sale showed there were three or four AR-15 semiautomatic rifles valued at more than $500 apiece and one 9mm Beretta pistol worth $455.

quantities Russian missiles. Then we could fire our MX missiles at the U.S.S.R. with impunity.

"We first thought of calling the MX the 'Fratricide' missile, but when we test marketed that name we found people thought it meant killing your brother. Then the white House called back and said the President wanted to use the MX missiles as a chip in disarmament talks in Geneva, and he would like a name that would not only alleviate the fears of American Catholic Bishops, but also give a message to the Soviets that we were serious about wanting to cut down on the arms race. So we came up with 'Peacekeeper' which is probably the greatest brand name for a nuclear weapon that we ever thought of."

roduced in 1981 — but not acted upon — would have required licensing for all five: athletic trainers, occupational therapists, counsellors, social workers and x-ray technologists. The committee is recommending licensing one for the x-ray operators.

The other professions, Lancaster says, should seek to establish certification procedures. Under certification, a license isn't required to perform a job but a study program is established to develop and advanced level of expertise similar to that which the profession would require if licensing was involved. An athletic trainer could become certified and thereby present himself to prospective employers as such. It would increase his chance of getting a job and the salary he's likely to command. But, for athletic trainers who don't want to be certified, the field would still be open. They just couldn't call themselves certified.

Mondale, the new frontrunner, must decide whether to continue his present course of drifting gingerly toward the middle at the risk of sacrificing Kennedy's grief-stricken liberals. But even if Mondale keeps to the left to secure the Kennedy strength, neither he nor his party need now fear a character inquest.

Another Is Accused In Attack On Pope

ROME (AP) — A third Bulgarian has been accused of complicity in the attempted assassination of Pope John Paul II, adding momentum to speculation that the pontiff was shot in a Kremlin-inspired conspiracy. The Italian news agency ANSA reported Sunday that Teodoro Ayzavov was the third Bulgarian linked to the May 13, 1981 assassination attempt carried out by Turkish terrorist Mehmet Ali Agca.

The news agency did not specify what role Ayzavov allegedly played in the attempted assassination, and there was no immediate comment by Italian officials.

ANSA said police have not issued an arrest warrant for Ayzavov because the Bulgarian Embassy cashier has diplomatic immunity. Quoting sources close to the investigation, ANSA said Ayzavov probably returned home last week.

Italian press reports also said efforts to arrest Ayzavov had been blocked by his diplomatic status. ANSA said state prosecutor Ilario Martella, chief of the government investigation, has asked the Italian Foreign Ministry to revoke Ayzavov's diplomatic immunity so an arrest warrant can be issued.

The other Bulgarians named in connection with the shooting are Sergei Ivanov Antonov, the local head of the Bulgarian state Balkan Airline, who was arrested in Rome Nov. 25, and Vassiliev Juelio Kolev, a former secretary to the Bulgarian Embassy's military attache, who is still being sought by police.

Kolev, who left Italy six months ago, lost his diplomatic immunity when he went back to Bulgaria, press reports said.

The Bulgarian Embassy has said Antonov is innocent and that Kolev returned to Bulgaria six months ago and Ayzavov is on vacation in Sofia.

In addition to Agca, who was sentenced to life imprisonment for shooting the pope, and the Bulgarians, police have issued arrest warrants against five Turks.

Agca spent nearly two months in Bulgaria after he escaped from a prison in Turkey while on trial for murdering a newspaper editor. He was later sentenced in absentia to death by a Turkish court.

American and Turkish press reports have speculated that the shooting of the pope was orchestrated by Communist Bulgaria's secret service with support from the Soviet KGB, the Kremlin secret police organization that has close ties with its Bulgarian counterpart.

According to the press reports, the Soviets wanted the pontiff slain because of his outspoken support for the now-outlawed independent Solidarity labor movement in his native Poland.

State Prosecutor Martella has said there is no proof of an international plot to murder the pontiff.

Il Messaggero, Rome's largest newspaper, said Agca fingered two of the Bulgarians, Antonov and Kolev, and claimed they helped him plan the attack on the pope.

The paper said Agca did not know their real names, but identified them from photographs and provided a detailed description of Antonov's apartment where the attack was planned.

Il Messaggero said Agca told police that Antonov and two Turks were with him in St. Peter's Square when he shot the pope. They were supposed to help Agca escape, the paper said. It did not name the Turks.

Italian authorities have refused to publicly confirm most press accounts.

Preparing End Record Flight

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet cosmonauts Anatoly Berezovoy and Valentin Lebedev are wrapping up the longest space flight in history after nearly seven months orbiting the earth, Radio Moscow said Sunday.

The two pilots "are soon to complete" their mission, the radio said. "The two spacemen have been aboard the Salyut-7 orbital station for more than 200 days."

The radio did not specify when the flight would end, but normally such announcements by the Soviet media indicate events will occur in one or two days.

Berezovoy and Lebedev were launched on their mission May 13.

On Nov. 14, Berezovoy and Lebedev exceeded the 185-day space endurance record set by their countrymen Leonid Popov and Valery Ryumin, who returned to Earth on Oct. 11, 1982.

The longest U.S. space flight lasted 84 days in 1974, when astronauts Gerald Carr, Edward Gibson and William Pogue piloted the Skylab space station.

In the course of the current Soviet flight, Berezovoy and Lebedev have been visited twice by other crews.

The first visit took place June 24, when Frenchman Jean-Loup Chretien, a test pilot, and two veteran Soviet cosmonauts flew up to the Salyut-7. Chretien was the first non-American Westerner to fly in space.

On Aug. 19, the Soviets launched a second crew to visit the station, including Svetlana Savitskaya, 34, the second woman to fly in space.

Views On Dental Health

Kenneth T. Perkins, D.D.S. P.A.

AFTER TOOTH EXTRACTION

Following the extraction of a tooth, the wound in the jaw usually heals within a few days without complications. If some swelling develops in the face, this is usually nothing to worry about and it can be minimized by the application of an ice bag to the affected region.

Actual bleeding should stop shortly after tooth removal. Nature's way of stopping the bleeding is the formation of the blood clot in socket. Let nature do its job and do not disturb the formation of the clot. How?

Do not suck on the hole for starters. Do not take hot food or drinks for five hours, by which time the clot should be firm. If you get hungry, drink a cold drink or eat a soft, cold food. Avoid eating hard foods, and don't smoke.

If delayed bleeding occurs, fold a piece of gauze and bite on it for a half hour. A moistened tea bag will also do the job. If bleeding persists, by all means, call your dentist. Free bleeders, especially people with hemophilia, should tell their dentist BEFORE extraction so that he can take special precautions.

Royalty May Visit N.C. For 400th Anniversary

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — The Queen of England or a member of the British royal family may visit North Carolina in 1984 as part of the 400th anniversary of the first English attempts to settle North America, state officials say.

The British delegation is expected to visit Roanoke Island on July 13, 1984 to commemorate the anniversary of the three 16th century expeditions to the island, sponsored by Sir Walter Raleigh, that led to the settlement of the Lost Colony.

"We expect a visit from the Queen of England, or a member of the royal family," said Caroline Harmon of the state Division of Travel and Tourism.

The celebration will end on August 18, 1987, the anniversary of Virginia Dare's birthday. Virginia Dare's parents were members of the Lost Colony and she was the first English child born in America.

The colonists were dropped off on Roanoke Island in 1587. By 1590, they had vanished.

A committee overseeing the celebration met Saturday in Winston-Salem to check the progress of the events, which will begin in Plymouth, England, on April 27, 1984 — the 400th anniversary of the departure of Raleigh's first expedition. A delegation of citizens from North Carolina will visit England for the ceremony and place a marker in Plymouth Harbor.

At the same time, an exhibition of Elizabethan artifacts and drawings will open at London's British Library and British Museum. The exhibition will be moved in March 1985 to the North Carolina Museum of History in Raleigh.

The committee members discussed the progress of a 50-ton merchant vessel, Elizabeth II, which is being built in Manteo harbor and will be commissioned during the ceremonies in July 1984.

The ship, a replica of the ship Elizabeth that landed on Roanoke Island in 1585, will have three 70-foot masts and a 30-foot keel.

Also planned for the celebration are seminars and exhibits on English and American history and culture, the issuing of commemorative stamps, coins and medals, special dramas and films, art and folklore festivals and a television series on the Roanoke voyages.

The committee learned last week that the National Endowment for the Humanities has approved a grant for the three-part series scheduled for 1984 on public television.

Robin Mew, director of the series, flew from Washington to Winston-Salem to discuss the project, which is expected to cost about $4 million.

Opposition On Ecology Basis

GLENVIEW, Ill. (AP) — Some local residents oppose plans to build a $3 million Mormon temple here, saying it may disturb the ecological balance of an adjacent nature preserve called the Grove.

Gloria Buzard, a leader of the 1,000-member Grove Heritage Foundation, said the 43-foot tall temple with six free-standing spires more than 100 feet tall may disrupt bird migration routes and its illumination at night will disturb animals' feeding habits.

Speaking of Your Health...

Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

New Test to Determine Alcoholism

I have been told that there is a test for alcoholism. I have not been able to find it. Is there any way that you could help me locate it? — Mr. N.C.R., Mass.
Dear Mr. R.:

Only recently did I come across the information you seek. It was published in The Family Practice News, an excellent publication that is published for family physicians.

Dr. Ralph Ryback presented interesting material at the annual meeting of the Alcohol and Drug Problems Association. Dr. Ryback suggested that a biochemical technique was now available for the detection of alcoholism. "It is not one test, but 25 commonly performed blood tests which combine to establish a pattern that falls within a particular statistical range in alcoholics and a different range in non-alcoholics."

Dr. Ryback said, "Like one line of a fingerprint, one of the tests alone is meaningless for the diagnosis of alcoholism. It is the interrelationship of the 25 tests that separates alcoholics from non-alcoholics."

These tests are particularly significant in establishing an alcoholic tendency. For in the past, doctors had to depend on signs and symptoms of the late stages of alcoholism. Ulcers of the stomach and duodenum, liver disease, and other physiological changes were necessary for the diagnosis of alcoholism. The blood studies will make earlier detection possible and will allow more rapid establishment of a regime to counteract the possibility of chronic alcoholism.

For years I have been told that I have appendicitis but never needed an operation. After an attack of pain, I recently was told that I don't have appendicitis but that I have ileitis. Are they both different names for the same thing? — Mr. M.M.D., Ohio.
Dear Mr. D.:

They are not the same condition. Ileitis is an irritation or infection of the lower part of the small intestine where it joins up with the large intestine. It is for this reason that it is sometimes called "terminal ileitis." It is in this area that the appendix is located. Attacks of pain in the lower abdominal area may be characteristic of both appendicitis and ileitis. They are totally different diseases.

In the early stages it is often very difficult to differentiate between these two conditions. Careful study and followup is the only way that the definite diagnosis can be made. Detailed barium enema X-ray studies are essential.

There is no better illustration of why a homemade diagnosis of an abdominal condition is dangerous. The symptoms of appendicitis, ovarian disorders, ileitis, and a host of other conditions may all produce identical symptoms.

Almost always the homemade diagnosis is associated with a homemade, over-the-counter purchase of medication. This is always hazardous and must be avoided.

Dr. Coleman welcomes questions from readers. Please write to him in care of this newspaper.

Shot To Death During Scuffle

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Wendell truck driver Marshall R. Ferrell, 40, and a truck refrigeration repairman were shot to death in Houston Saturday after being attacked by a group of men, police said.

The repairman, James W. Prokop, 25, of Houston, was shot in the back.

Ferrell got out of the truck and began scuffling with some men before the shots were heard, Houston Police Det. J.L. Waltmon said. No money was taken from either man, although police said they thought robbery might be a motive.

CALL FOR RELEASE

LONDON (AP) — Amnesty International has appealed to Gabon President Omar Bongo to release 23 people sentenced to as much as 20 years' hard labor for criticizing the government and calling for a multiparty political system.

Two Wrecks Reported Fri.

An estimated 2,125 damage resulted from two traffic collisions investigated by Greenville police Friday.

Officers reported heaviest damage resulted from a 12:25 p.m. collision on Riverbluff Road, two-tenths of a mile north of the Tenth Street intersection, involving cars driven by Donald Lester Lawler of 109 Cheshire Drive and Franklin Leroy Irving Jr. of 209 Riverbluff Road.

Damage from the mishap was set at $600 to the Lawler car and $1,000 to the Irving vehicle.

Cars driven by Virginia Irene Penniston of Havelock, and Beth Carol Boone of 1300 Charles St., collided about 12:25 p.m. on Charles Street, 300 feet north of the Greenville Boulevard intersection, causing an estimated $500 damage to the Penniston car and $25 damage to the Boone vehicle.

Republicans To Meet

The Pitt County Republican Party will meet Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the basement of Planters National Bank at the intersection of Third and Washington Streets.

North State Agreement Signed

William D. Reagan, president of North State Savings & Loan Corp. of Greenville, and Ernest D. Hackney, president of Wilson Savings & Loan Corp. of Wilson, jointly announced the signing of a definitive agreement by their respective boards of directors to merge Wilson Savings with North State.

They said the agreement is subject to the approval of both groups of stockholders and the various regulatory bodies. The Wilson firm is a stockholder-owned savings institution with assets over $27 million. North State is also a stockholder-owned institution with assets over $60 million. The firm has offices in Greenville and Windsor.

Reagan and Hackney said they expect the merger to be finalized in early 1983.

City Radio Guests Announced

City Manager Gail Meeks announced that the guests on the city's radio program, "City Hall Notes," this week will be Sgt. Doug Jackson, police crime prevention officer, and Capt. Jerry McLawhorn, city fire marshal.

Jackson will talk about the importance of revitalizing existing community watch programs, and McLawhorn will discuss fire prevention tips for the holidays.

The program is aired each Tuesday and Thursday at 6:30 p.m. on WOOW Radio.

Break-In Is Investigated

Greenville police are continuing their investigation into a break-in at Pollard's Grocery at 1200 Broad St. Saturday morning.

Chief Glenn Cannon, who said officers discovered the break-in about 2:41 a.m., reported entry to the building was gained by breaking a padlock from the front door.

An estimated $312 worth of merchandise, including bologna, hot dogs, ham, 30 cartons of cigarettes, 20 cans of snuff, 11 pouches of chewing tobacco, 20 plugs of chewing tobacco and a television set, was reported taken.

Traffic Takes 7 N.C. Lives

By The Associated Press
Traffic accidents claimed seven lives in North Carolina over the weekend, including three Burlington teen-agers killed in a head-on collision and an Asheville man whose motorcycle smashed into a tree.

The fatalities bring the North Carolina traffic death toll for the year to 1,188 compared to 1,385 last year at this time.

Jeffrey Patterson Murray, 17, John Oliver Lucas, 19, and Kevin Stanley Pike, 17, died when a car crossed the center line of a rural road less than a mile south of Burlington and struck their car head-on, the highway patrol reported.

Murray drove the car. One person was injured in the other vehicle. The accident happened Friday at about 8:15 p.m.

Ricardo Eugene Blankenship, 22, of Asheville, died Saturday at about 2 a.m. when his motorcycle ran off a rural road 2.3 miles west of Asheville and hit a tree.

Seth McDonald Smith III, 18, of Charlotte was killed at about 2:35 a.m. Saturday when his car ran off a rural road 10 miles north of Monroe and struck several trees, throwing Smith from the vehicle.

Ralph Nathaniel Fleetwood, 25, died at 3 a.m. Sunday when he was struck by a car while lying in the roadway, police said. The accident occurred on state road 1311 eight miles north of Murfreesboro.

Dora Scott Soles, 58, of Jacksonville tied on U.S. 17 one mile north of Jacksonville when she made a left turn into the path of a vehicle, which struck hers, knocking it into another stopped at a stop sign, police said.

City School Board To Meet Tonight

'Underdog' Charlotte Mayor Addresses A Rally

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Charlotte Mayor Eddie Knox acknowledges that he would be an underdog in the 1984 Democratic gubernatorial race, but he is working to generate some "esprit de corps" to offset that.

Knox's name was familiar enough to attract about 3,000 Democrats and a few Republicans who paid $50 each attend a Knox dinner at the Charlotte Civic Center Saturday night.

Knox aides said the party Saturday was partly to demonstrate his fund-raising ability, unquestioned in local political circles after he raised $140,000 for the 1979 mayor's race.

The take before expenses was at least $150,000, which Knox hopes will be enough to finance the campaign through early 1983.

Another aim was to generate what Knox called "esprit de corps." The Democratic primary is still a year and a half away and strategists wanted the party to be the equivalent of a locker room pep talk.

At one point, Knox almost declared his candidacy: "Well, I'd like to tell you that I'm running."

After the applause died down, Knox added, "I said I'd like to tell you."

Knox says he doesn't have the statewide name recognition of potential opponents such as Lt. Gov. Jimmy Green, Attorney General Rufus Edmisten and Insurance Commissioner John Ingram.

"I've been portrayed as the underdog," Knox told the audience. "Tonight, I don't feel like an underdog."

His official announcement is likely to come early in 1983, Knox strategists said, adding for now that the dinner was a success.

The hometown heavyweights at the affair included NCNB Corp. president Hugh McColl, the party's master of ceremonies; Independence Center developer Henry Faison, a Republican; former Mecklenburg County commissioners chairman Liz Hair; Charlotte Motor Speedway Board Chairman Bruton Smith; lawyer and former school board Chairman William Poe; Bo-jangle's of America Inc. executive Jack Fulk and former city council member Jim Whittington.

Late Opening For Horse Arena

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — A controversial $2.5 million arena for horses at the state fairgrounds should open in January — four months later than planned, Raleigh architect Angshuman De says.

Construction time was lost because of rain and debris in an area intended for the foundation.

Backers wanted a $4.3 million state allocation for the 80,000-square-foot arena, which is intended to replace nearly 60-year-old facilities.

Critics said the cost was too great with only a small group of breeders and enthusiasts benefitting.

N.C. Universities See Black Studies Decline

By The Associated Press
Courses dealing in black studies flourished on college campuses during the late 1960s but are no longer "in" today because students are now concentrating on courses that will help them get a job, educators say.

McMurry, who teaches a two-semester course in Afro-American history at North Carolina State University in Raleigh. "The students are not demanding it... There is a genuine feeling that it is not an 'in' topic. I think it's primarily related to the job market. But there is a growing tendency to push race relations as a whole to the back burner. It's just not a hot issue," she said. Predominantly black Shaw University in Raleigh has abolished its major in African and Afro-American history, said Dr. Wilmoth Carter, vice president for academic affairs and research. "We had very few takers," she said. "We got to the place that we had very few students who would take the courses. We became somewhat disinterested in it ourselves. We put very little emphasis on it." She said black studies programs were "almost like a fad that lasted for a short period of time and is gone." At Duke University, where students occupied campus buildings to demand new courses, there is only one student with a major in Afro-American studies among 9,800 on the campus. On the 16 campuses in the University of North Carolina system, enrollment in black studies "is not much and it never has been," said Arthur H. Padilla, the system's associate vice president for academic affairs. In recent years, the number of juniors and seniors majoring in these programs has ranged from 10 to 20 across the state, he said. Only four schools in the UNC system have full-fledged black studies programs — Fayetteville State University, North Carolina Central University in Durham, UNC-Chapel Hill and UNC-Charlotte. UNC-Chapel Hill is an exception to the trend away

Lined Up For Condo Bargains

LAGUNA NIGUEL, Calif. (AP) — More than 1,500 people lined up for a chance to buy 286 beachfront condominiums at interest rates from black studies. Students in black studies courses has increased 40 percent since last year.

as low as 8 1/2 percent a year — even though buyers will be selected in a lottery. Although buyers will be picked by lottery, some of the hopefuls even camped out overnight to be ready when the sales office opened Saturday. The condos were selling for as little as $65,000 because Orange County requires developers to price 25 percent of their projects for low- and middle-income families.

WEATHER FORECAST — The National southern tier but most areas will be colder. Weather Service forecasts snow for Tuesday (AP Laserphoto Map) in the West. Temperatures will be mild in the

By The Associated Press
 The record-breaking warm weather in North Carolina comes to an end today.
 A cold front moved through central North Carolina early this morning and across eastern North Carolina today and off the coast this afternoon. Showers and thunderstorms will be ahead of it. In the west partly cloudy skies will be the rule.
 The mild temperatures Sunday either set new records or tied old ones at a few Tar Heel locations Sunday. At Greensboro, a high of 72 broke the old record of 69 set in 1960.
 At Raleigh-Durham, a high of 76 broke the old record of 75 set in 1973. And a high of 77 at Wilmington tied the record for the date set back in 1880. A high of 73 degrees at Charlotte broke the record of 71 degrees set in 1956.
 The warmest area in the state was across the coastal plain, however as Rocky Mount-Wilson and Goldsboro had highs of 80 degrees.

 Skies in most of the state will be partly cloudy today with a chance of a shower or thunderstorm in the east. Highs will be from the mid 50s in the northern mountains to the mid 70s coast.
 Mostly clear tonight with lows in the 40s except 30s mountains. Mostly sunny Tuesday with highs from the low 50s to the low 60s.
 Along the coast small craft advisories are in effect for strong southwesterly winds. Winds will be shifting to the west and northwest later today and tonight. Tuesday winds will be northeast at 10 to 20 knots.
 High pressure over west Texas this morning will be moving rapidly northeastward during the next 24 to 48 hours. And by late Tuesday will be centered over northern Virginia. This area of high pressure will bring clearing skies and cooler temperatures to the Tar Heel state.

 However some rather warm temperatures will still be occurring across the state, especially the eastern sections today. The full effects of the cooler weather will be felt tonight and Tuesday across the state, as daytime highs will be some ten to fifteen degrees cooler by Tuesday.
 Across the state Sunday, partly cloudy to cloudy skies: temperatures warmed into the 60s and 70s across most of North Carolina again. Showers occurred mainly across the western part of the state. The showers produced some heavy rain across the mountains. Rainfall in excess of 2 inches pushed the french broad river to just above flood stage at rosmar.
 Rainfall during the past 24 hours ranged from one to two inches in the mountains and from around a tenth to over half an inch east of the mountains.

Farm Equipment Hopes Rising

By DON KENDALL
 AP Farm Writer
 WASHINGTON (AP) — Financially strapped farmers who have been passing up that new tractor or combine may start returning to implement company showrooms in the next few months, says an industry executive.

 Emmett Barker, president of the Farm and Industrial Institute, Chicago, reports that manufacturers "believe a slow but firming trend in levels of equipment purchasing will take place over the next several months, with a much stronger response in late 1983 and 1984."

 Barker, who made his report at last week's Agriculture Department outlook conference, said further reductions in interest rates and continued low levels of inflation will help.
 Also, he said, many farmers "have pushed their equipment to the limit" and badly need replacements. Thus, if there is any "positive movement" in commodity prices, equipment sales could start regaining their lost ground.

"When farmers do start returning to their local dealerships in significant numbers, they will be much more selective in their purchases and will, no doubt, do considerable shopping around to take maximum advantage of price discounts and interest-payment waivers," he said.
 Another reason for optimism is that "fully informed bankers will soon be advising their farm clients to make purchases" in order to get price discounts available until dealer and manufacturer inventories are sold off.

 "Contributing to potential increased equipment purchases includes the recognition that a number of farmers currently are enjoying more financial success than they want their neighbors to know about," Barker said. "This is especially true where 1982 production was booked at prices far more favorable than current cash positions and where bumper yields are prevailing."
 The industry reported tractor sales in the first 10 months of the year to be down nearly 25 percent from the same period in 1981, combines down 43 percent, and similar declines for other major pieces of machinery.

Maneuvers Held Behind Thick Veil

MANAMA, Bahrain — Operating behind an official veil of secrecy, units of the U.S. Rapid Deployment Force are engaged in war games to test America's ability to aid the oil-rich Persian Gulf nations in times of crisis.
 The five-day operation, code-named Jade Tiger, involves U.S. air, naval and ground forces and is scheduled to end Tuesday, Arab diplomats said Sunday.
 Pentagon officials have privately confirmed the exercises, but said no formal announcement was made because Oman wants to play down its links with the United States to avoid a backlash from other Arab countries critical of U.S. Middle East policies.

Saudi Arabian-based Airborne Warning and Control System (AWACS) planes are also taking part, the diplomats said.
 The troops involved are part of the U.S. Rapid Deployment Force, a quick-strike battle group set up in 1980 to help the pro-Western Persian Gulf states should they have to fend off Soviet or other foreign attacks.

Another reason for optimism is that "fully informed bankers will soon be advising their farm clients to make purchases" in order to get price discounts available until dealer and manufacturer inventories are sold off.

Another effect may be that there will be far less equipment in stock at dealerships and that some equipment, particularly major items, will not be manufactured until ordered by customers.
 Barker also said the trend to fewer and larger dealerships through consolidations is continuing.

Gov. Hunt To Address Democratic Gathering

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Gov. Jim Hunt is expected to drop hints about a possible 1984 race against U.S. Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., during a Democratic fund-raiser this week, according to a Raleigh newspaper.
 The News and Observer quoted an unidentified top Hunt aide Sunday as saying Hunt would not formally announce his candidacy in the speech. But the aide said, "You might have trouble telling the difference."
 Hunt is scheduled to address a fund-raiser Saturday that is being co-sponsored by Hunt's state political action committee, the Jim Hunt Committee, and the N.C. Campaign Fund. The fund has been established by Democrats with close ties to Hunt to conduct a national direct-mail fund-raising appeal targeted against Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C.

 L. Richardson Preyer, the former Democrat congressman and chairman of the N.C. Campaign Fund, has scheduled a news conference today to discuss its plans.
 The state Democratic Party plans another fund-raiser for Jan. 17 that officials hope will draw up to 1,000 people, said Russell Walker, party chairman and a state senator.
 The event is designed to keep party activists interested and to raise money for the party's operations next year, Walker said.
 Democrats also are filling key positions in anticipation of the 1984 campaign.
 June E. Milby, 34, former deputy secretary to state Human Resources Secretary Sarah T. Morrow, has officially left that job. Last week, she was hired as the Democratic Party's communications director after holding a similar post for the party's Unity Campaign for the 1982 congressional race.

 R. Wayne McDevitt, former Unity Campaign director, has been named N.C. Campaign Fund director.
 Next summer, Duke University political science professor David E. Price is expected to become the party's full-time chairman. Price said Saturday he was trying to get Duke to give him a leave of absence through the 1984 election.

Recreation Body Meets Wednesday

The December meeting of the Greenville Recreation and Parks Commission will be held at 8 p.m. Wednesday at the administrative office building, 2000 Cedar Lane.
 Agenda items include a report on a proposal from the Greenville Foundation and two new business items — appointment of a committee to study an East Carolina Vocational Center proposal; and an athletic report by Ben James, athletic director.

Bethel Center Ceremony Held

BETHEL — Groundbreaking ceremonies for the Bethel Tender Loving Day Care Center were held here Sunday.
 The new facility will be built on Highway 11 beside E.R. Lewis Construction Co. Inc.
 The owners of the center are Steve and Faye Little and Bobby and Patsy Manning, all of Greenville. They said the center will offer services for children six weeks old up to kindergarten age and will have an after-school program for youngsters up to 12 years old. A summer program is also planned for children up to 12 years of age.
 The expected opening date for the facility is next April.
 Taking part in the groundbreaking, in addition to the owners, were Bethel Mayor Frank Hemingway; Bob Bowers, representing the Chamber of Commerce in Bethel; and R.C. Waters, contractor.

Stock And Market Reports

Hogs
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) (NCDA) — The trend on the North Carolina hog market today was steady to 50 cents lower. Kinston 54.50, Clinton, Elizabethtown, Fayetteville, Dunn, Pink Hill, Chadburn, Ayden, Pine Level, Laurinburg and Benson 54.75, Wilson 54.50, Salisbury 54.00, Rowland unreported. Sows: all weights 500 pounds up; Wilson 47.00, Fayetteville 47.00, Whiteville 48.00, Wallace 47.00, Spivey's Corner 47.00, Rowland 48.00, Durham 49.00.

Poultry
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) (NCDA) — The North Carolina f.o.b. dock quoted price on broilers for this week's trading was 39.25 cents, based on full truck load lots of ice pack USDA Grade A sized 2 1/2 to 3 pound birds. 89 percent of the loads offered have been confirmed, with a final weighted average of 38.35 cents f.o.b. dock or equivalent. The market is steady to firm and the live supply is moderate to a moderate to good demand. Weights mostly desirable. Estimated slaughter of broilers and fryers in North Carolina Monday was 1,788,000, compared to 1,653,000 last Monday.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market retreated today amid new doubts about prospects for an economic recovery.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials stood at 1,025.94, down 5.42 from Friday's close.

Liners held a moderate lead over gainers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Occidental Petroleum led the active list, up 1/4 at 18 3/4. Trading in the issue included several large blocks.

Most other energy stocks were weak, however, on a petroleum research group's bearish evaluation of the oil-price outlook. Standard Oil of Indiana dropped 7/8 to 36 1/2; Union Oil of California 3/8 to 25 1/2, and Exxon 1/4 to 27 1/2.

The NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stocks dropped .31 to 79.74. On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index lost 2.98 to 331.83.

Volume on the Big Board came to 29.50 million shares at noontime, against 31.54 million at the same point Friday.

Fastest Wheels In Town

GARY LEE of Greenville keeps his eye on the starter while waiting for the signal to roll at a wheelchair race held during a special olympics day for the physically handicapped recently. Gary swept both the chair race and the obstacle course competition, out-wheeling and out-manuevering his opponents by several seconds. (Reflector Photo By Mary Schulken) stroy, said Pitt Agricultural Extension Agent Sam Uzzell. "Warm weather this late in the year allows continued buildup of insect and nematode populations that would have been reduced by now by cold weather," said Uzzell. "Whether or not they (insect and disease populations) will carry over is anybody's guess," he added. "But they could." Uzzell said fruit trees such as peach and cherry need some cold weather now to make them flower on schedule next spring. "They need a certain amount of chilling to flower at the proper time," he noted. Filled grain bins need to be checked and aerated more frequently during warm spells like the past week, said Uzzell, to keep "insect pressure, aflatoxin potential

'Some Light' For Vet Hiring

Don Anders, veterans employment representative of the Greenville Job Service (Employment Security Commission), says "there is a little light on the horizon for veterans now," despite the job toll the recession is taking nationally. Previously, veterans were not eligible for unemployment compensation if they chose not to re-enlist. Anders says that Secretary of Labor Raymond J. Donovan has announced that most unemployed veterans who were honorably discharged on or since July 1, 1981 will be eligible for up to 13 weeks of unemployment insurance benefits. Veterans can obtain more information on their eligibility for benefits by contacting the claims department at ESC, telephone 756-2686. ESC has an ongoing program to place veterans in jobs. Anders said "veterans receive priority in referral to jobs," and added that area employers are also encouraged to give veterans priority when hiring.

President Is Installed

GOLDSBORO — The new president of the North Carolina Home Builders Association, Nelson Callahan of Goldsboro, will be installed Tuesday at Walnut Creek Country Club here. Callahan, who succeeds J. Watts Roberson of Gastonia, will be installed by John Bell of Goldsboro, the 1975 NCHBA president. The activities will begin with a social hour at 6:30 p.m., followed by a banquet at 7 p.m., and dancing following the installation of new NCHBA officers.

Gay
FOUNTAIN — Mrs. Lela Owens Gay, 92, of Rt. 1, Fountain, died Monday. Funeral arrangements are incomplete at Farmville Funeral Home.

Hinton
BETHEL — Mrs. Susie Hinton died Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Moore on Lincoln Street here. She was the mother of Mrs. Lena Worthington of Greenville. Funeral arrangements will be announced later by Flanagan Funeral Home.

Oakes
WARSAW — Mrs. Louise Drew Oakes, the widow of Francis W. Oakes, died Sunday in Pitt Memorial Hospital. The funeral service will be conducted at 3 p.m. Tuesday in the Wallace Methodist Church.

Mrs. Oakes was a past resident of Greenville for a period of 30 years. She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Kathryn Oakes Edwards of Winston-Salem and Mrs. Louise Oakes Smith of Wallace; a son, Francis W. Oakes, Jr. of Tampa, Florida; 11 grandchildren.

Tebeau
 Mr. Lewis C. Tebeau, 69, of 119 Longmeadow Road, died Sunday in Pitt County Memorial Hospital. A memorial service will be held at St. Paul's Episcopal Church Wednesday at 12 noon by the Rev. Patrick W. Houston and the Rev. Dana Pecheles.

Mr. Tebeau, a native of Hendersonville, had resided in Greenville since 1944. He was a retired employee of Carolina Sales Corporation and a veteran of the U.S. Air Force and fought in World War II. He was a member of St. Paul's Episcopal Church. He is survived by his mother, Ruth W. Tebeau of the home; and one sister, Mrs. Marion W. Baxter of Greenville. In lieu of flowers contributions may be made to a favorite charity.

Allen Keys Raiders; Dallas Beats 'Skins

Up & Over
Dallas Cowboys running back Tony Dorsett (33) goes over the top for short yardage near the end of the first half of Sunday's NFL game against

Washington at RFK Stadium. The Cowboys handed the Redskins their first loss of the season, 24-10. (AP Laserphoto)

In just five games as a professional, Marcus Allen has become the man the opposition has to stop if it wants to beat the Los Angeles Raiders.

The 1981 Heisman Trophy winner was unstoppable Sunday, scoring two touchdowns and rushing for 156 yards on 24 carries as the Raiders defeated the Seattle Seahawks 28-23 in National Football League action.

Allen has gained 415 yards, averaged 5.4 per carry and scored seven touchdowns in the four Raiders victories this season. In their only loss, a 31-17 defeat by Cincinnati last week, he had eight carries for no yards and no TDs.

"He's a great back," Seattle defensive end Manu Tuaiasopo said. "He doesn't look that fast, but he is. And he's strong, too. You can't arm-tackle him. You have to hit him straight up. He's hard to bring down one-on-one. He looks like he's just gliding."

Sunday's action left seven teams with 4-1 records, with four games left in the strike-shortened season.

Cincinnati, the Raiders, Miami and Pittsburgh have only one loss in the American Conference, while Dallas, Washington and Green Bay are 4-1 in the National. Eight teams from each conference qualify for the playoffs.

Despite Allen's heroics, the Raiders, who trailed 24-0 before coming back for a 28-24 win over San Diego two weeks ago, were nearly the victims of a rally by Seattle, which trailed 28-0 after 23 minutes.

Allen had 121 yards on 12 carries in the first half and scored on runs of 2 and 3 yards as the Raiders threatened to turn the game into a rout with four touchdowns in a span of 11:14.

"We just got too complacent," said Allen, who had a 53-yard run to set up his second TD. "They just seemed to get the big plays more in the second half. Their defense adjusted to our offense."

Jim Zorn threw two touchdown passes to lead the Seahawks' rally, but he completed only 16 of 45 attempts for the game. Burgess Owens intercepted a pass at the 3-yard line for Los Angeles to thwart Seattle's last threat.

Cowboys 24, Redskins 10
Washington, the last unbeaten team in the NFL, was victimized by Danny White and a Dallas defense that sacked quarterback Joe Theismann seven times and intercepted three of his passes.

Ron Springs scored two touchdowns for the Cowboys, who won their 200th regular-season game for Coach Tom Landry.

White threw 8 yards to Springs for a second-quarter touchdown and Springs clinched the triumph with a 46-yard TD sprint with 1:52 to play.

Before the final touchdown, White pulled Dallas out of trouble with a 20-yard run for a first down on a fake punt after Washington cut a 17-0 deficit to 17-10.

Steelers 35, Chiefs 14

Terry Bradshaw missed three quarters of Pittsburgh's shutout loss to Seattle last week because of a shoulder injury, but he brought the Steelers back to health with three first-half touchdown passes against Kansas City.

Bradshaw completed 15 of 20 passes for 231 yards, including a 74-yard TD bomb and a 3-yard scoring toss to John Stallworth.

The Steelers' defense showed the same form it did in the team's four Super Bowl championship seasons, sacking Chiefs quarterback Steve Fuller eight times for 70 yards in losses.

Bengals 20, Colts 17
Baltimore scored its first points since the players strike ended and came close to winning its first game of the season before Ken Anderson rallied Cincinnati with his passing.

Anderson had a pair of short touchdown passes to M.L. Harris in the second half to erase a 10-6 halftime deficit.

The Bengals' quarterback hit Harris with a 1-yard scoring pass in the third quarter and a 2-yarder early in the fourth, which gave Cincinnati enough cushion to withstand a 4-yard touchdown pass from Mike Pagel to Pat Beach for the Colts, who were shut out in their last two games.

Packers 33, Bills 21
Jan Stenerud didn't let rain and mud in Milwaukee affect his kicking as he booted four field goals for Green Bay against Buffalo, which turned the ball over five times.

Del Rodgers recovered a fumble in the end zone for a touchdown, Lynn Dickey threw a scoring pass to John Thompson and Eddie Lee Ivey ran 1 yard for another score for the Packers.

"The field was murderous," Buffalo Coach Chuck Knox said. "You shouldn't have to play a game under conditions like that."

Dolphins 22, Vikings 14
Andra Franklin rushed 28 times for 129 yards and a touchdown to lead Miami's ball-hogging attack against Minnesota.

Heels Overcome 'Embarrassment'

By The Associated Press
Coach Dean Smith called it the worst first half ever by a North Carolina basketball team under his leadership. Fortunately for him, the Tar Heels made up for it in the second half, rebounding to defeat Louisiana State 47-43.

"I can't remember being that embarrassed in the 21 years I've been here," Smith said, referring to the opening period in which the Tar Heels hit just four of 16 shots and fell behind 21-9.

Smith said poor shooting and a tenacious LSU defense that forced numerous turnovers were behind the Tar Heels' shoddy first-half play. But he said his team, playing on nationwide television for the third straight week, still hadn't loosened up.

"We've been experimenting in practice and that always causes insecurity among players," he added. Sophomore guard Buzz Peterson led the Tar Heel resurgence, hitting his first nine second-half shots and finishing with 18 points. Michael Jordan had 13 points and Sam Perkins added 10 for North Carolina, 2-2.

In other weekend games involving Atlantic Coast Conference teams, top-ranked Virginia whalloped VMI 86-41, Wake Forest defeated North Carolina-Asheville 72-54, Maryland got by Canisius 67-66, Clemson lost to Southern Mississippi 60-58, California topped Duke 76-71 and N.C. State beat North Carolina A&T, 100-70.

Virginia, 4-0, won for the 34th straight time at home, a school record. The Cavaliers led 47-22 at halftime and led by as many as 47 points in the second period.

Jimmy Miller scored 15 points for the Cavaliers, while Tim Mullen hit 12 and Ralph Sampson and Rick Carlisle had 10 apiece.

Maryland defeated stubborn Canisius behind Adrian Branch's 23 points. The Terrapins, 2-1, got 14 points from Mark Fothergill and 13 from Ben Coleman as they shot 55.9 percent from the field.

Alvis Rogers, red-shirted last year with an injured knee, celebrated his return to the starting lineup with 16 points and 10 rebounds to lead unbeaten Wake Forest to its second win.

"I really don't care that much about starting," the fifth-year senior said. "I want to give the leadership expected of me."

Four N.C. State guards scored in double figures, led by Sidney Lowe with 16. Dereck Whittenburg had 14, while freshmen George McClain and Ernie Myers had 12 and 11 respectively. Forward Thurl Bailey had 14 for the Wolfpack, 2-0.

Rough Weekend For Top 10 Teams

By The Associated Press
Being a member of the Top Ten doesn't mean you're in for an easy time as Georgetown, Villanova, Louisville and UCLA learned.

Villanova, ranked fourth in the nation, had an excuse Saturday as the Wildcats bowed to another set of Wildcats, third-ranked Kentucky, 93-79. But Georgetown, led by sophomore center Patrick Ewing's 30 points and tested in its first game against a Division I team, edging Western Kentucky 70-66 in overtime to win the Wendy's Classic. No. 6 UCLA needed Ralph Jackson's driving layup with three seconds left to nip Notre Dame 65-64. And seventh-rated Louisville wasn't as lucky, losing at home to Purdue 69-63.

Top-ranked Virginia had little trouble with Virginia Military, romping to an 86-41 verdict. No. 5 Memphis State downed Ball State 104-81, No. 8 Indiana took Texas-El Paso 65-54 and No. 10 Iowa beat Hawaii 99-67.

Also, No. 11 Houston topped Biscayne (Fla.) 78-59, No. 12 St. John's nipped Providence

61-60, No. 13 Alabama beat Texas Tech 75-53, No. 15 North Carolina upended Louisiana State 47-43, No. 16 Arkansas posted a 79-51 decision over Centenary, No. 17 Marquette beat Texas A&M 73-58 and No. 19 Oregon State was upset by Fresno State 43-42.

Georgetown's young lineup did not panic in overtime and, led by sophomore center Patrick Ewing's 30 points and 10 rebounds, outlasted Western Kentucky. Ewing rebounded a missed free throw with eight seconds left in overtime and stuffed the ball back in for the deciding points.

"I was pleased with the play of our young players," said Georgetown Coach John Thompson. "It's important for the freshmen to get into a game like this and make mistakes. When they did, they didn't drop their heads. We kept our poise in the overtime."

"I was pleased with the reaction of our kids, especially because it was a vocal crowd, the most vocal we've played in front of this year."

"It hurts to lose," said Hilltoppers Coach Clem Haskins. "But I feel hurt for our players more."

Louisville was really hurting because Steve Reid came off the Purdue bench to score 24 points. The 5-foot-10 Reid continually drove around and through the Cardinals and also hit eight free throws in the final three minutes. Reid also had five assists and three steals for unbeaten (4-0) Purdue.

Rosettes Capture 1st Meet

WILMINGTON — The Rosettes, the Greenville gymnastics team, outdistanced 14 teams to capture their initial first place finish as a squad at a Class I & II Sectional gymnastics meet here this past weekend.

The Rosettes finished with 180.75 points to edge the Triangle Gymnastics Club of Durham, which had 180.55 points. The Charlotte YWCA finished in third place with 180.40 points.

The top three all-around scores from each team determined the team scores. In all, the Rosettes won three first places at the meet, held at the Wilmington YMCA.

The Rosettes' best performer was Debbie Sigler, who finished first all-around with 61.55 points.

Sigler, competing in the Class II 12-14 age group, was first on the uneven bars with a combined compulsory and optional score of 15.70 and sixth on the floor exercise (15.90).

Morrison New USC Coach

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — Moving swiftly in the wake of the second dismissal of a football coach in a year, the University of South Carolina has hired Joe R. Morrison from the University of New Mexico.

Morrison replaces Richard Bell, who was fired as head coach last week after disagreeing with Athletic Director Bob Marcum over how to improve his first-season 4-7 record. Bell had been elevated from defensive coordinator last year after Jim Carlen was fired.

Marcum told a news conference Sunday that Morrison had proven in three seasons at New Mexico that he could build winning teams under tough conditions.

The former New York Giants star labored in his first two seasons at New Mexico under the stigma of a 1978 basketball recruiting and grade scandal that hurt morale and recruiting in all athletic programs.

His first team finished 4-7-1, and he was 4-7 again in 1981. But he ended the 1982 season with a 10-1 record, losing only to Western Athletic Conference champion Brigham Young.

"The job that Joe Morrison accomplished at the University of New Mexico this year is recognized by football people all over the country as truly outstanding," Marcum said.

"This year's New Mexico team ranked among national leaders in four NCAA Division IA categories — fourth in scoring offense, fifth in total offense, eighth in rushing offense and 13th in rushing defense," Marcum added.

Morrison signed a five-year, $60,000-a-year contract. He had two years remaining at New Mexico but said the school had released him. Bell had three years left on his $50,000-a-year pact.

But Marcum said last week that Bell had refused his orders to fire four assistant coaches, which he said voided Bell's contract.

Morrison, 45, is a Lima, Ohio, native and played as a running back for the University of Cincinnati before signing on with the New York Giants in 1959. He played 14 seasons before retiring to become head coach at the University of Tennessee-Chattanooga in 1973.

Morrison built that school's team from a 4-7 finisher in his first season to winners of three consecutive Southern Conference championships in his last three years before joining New Mexico for the 1980 season.

NFLPA Postpones Vote Once Again

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Football League Players Association has again postponed announcement of the vote by the 28 team representatives on the tentative contract agreement with management.

Union spokesman Jay Benoit said Sunday that the association has been unable to reach all of the player representatives, so the results of the non-binding vote will not be released until today at the earliest.

"We tried to get the guys in their hotel rooms last night and couldn't," Benoit said, "and this morning they are on their way out to the stadiums. So we're going to try to reach them after their games."

Benoit said he did not know how many player representatives the union had actually contacted.

Player representatives are being polled to determine whether they will recommend ratification of the tentative settlement reached Nov. 16, that ended the 57-day players' strike. All 1,500 union members are scheduled to vote Wednesday on the proposed settlement, which the league says provides $1.6 billion in total player costs over five years.

Polling had begun Friday, but the association had trouble contacting the player representatives who were on the road for Sunday's games.

Lions Face Jets Tonight

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — It has been a tough, punishing week of practice for the Detroit Lions and tonight Coach Monte Clark will find out if it was worth it.

The Lions, who drew Clark's wrath by coming back from the National Football League players' strike fat and out of shape — host the New York Jets in this week's Monday night football game.

"There wasn't much grumbling," Clark said. "They realized that they've had a lot of time off and that they need this and that this is the only way we're going to solve the problem."

"Right now, if we took a popularity vote, however, I'm sure I wouldn't win any more votes than the collective bargaining agreement."

After watching his club slip to 2-2 with only five games left to play, Clark benched quarterback Eric Hipple — who started the first four games — and gave the controls back to veteran Gary

Clark Hopes Practice Pays Off

Danielson. Clark also had tight end Ulysses North, instead of David Hill, running with the first unit in practice.

"I do like things smooth," Clark said. "But, when things aren't right, the only way to make them right is to work on what's the matter. I think everybody received it that way."

Jets' Coach Walt Michaels experienced no such problem with his club, which has run off three straight victories since losing on opening day to Miami.

New York running back Freeman McNeil has rushed for 100 or more yards in three games and comes into tonight's contest with 430 yards on 70 carries — which was good enough to lead the NFL after four games.

Jets' quarterback Richard Todd is third in the AFC passing ratings at 85.1. Todd has completed 68 of 120 passes

Kings 106, Sonics 103

Kansas City handed Seattle its first road loss of the season after eight victories as Larry Drew scored 24 points and hit a crucial layup with 40 seconds to go.

Drew's basket gave the Kings a 103-102 lead and they never trailed again. Gus Williams led the Sonics, 15-3, with 21 points.

Nets 108, Bucks 103
Mickey Johnson scored 20 points, including four free throws in the final 32 seconds, to lead New Jersey to its fourth straight victory.

The Nets scored the final six points of the game, all on free throws, after trailing 103-102. Darwin Cook, who scored 18

"We're beginning to get in shape the way I wanted," Michaels said. "You know, we had a little 'rust' after that eight-week layoff."

The two clubs have met only twice. The Lions won the first meeting at Tiger Stadium on Thanksgiving Day in 1972 and the Jets won at Shea Stadium in the third game of the 1979 season.

East Carolina University's men's basketball team is off to a 2-1 start on the 1982-83 season and came very close to being 3-0 on the year.

For many that comes as a surprise. Most people felt that last year's team was far more talented than this year's, but the mixture of newcomers, veterans and coach Charlie Harrison has worked out very well.

Harrison is a firm coach. He preaches discipline on and off the court and he means it. The players respect him and his leadership.

Those who have seen the games so far have to admit that this year's version of the Pirates is a welcome sight. The players hustle more, they play a better brand of defense, and they are taking good shots.

A look at the statistics would tend to show that the latter is true. In each of the three games thus far, East Carolina has shot better than 50 percent.

The last two games, their free throw shooting has shown much improvement too. Free throw shooting was probably the reason the Pirates lost at Duke, but it was just the opposite in the games against Christopher Newport and Samford — in the latter, in fact, it was the direct means of victory.

"This is what we need," one player told us recently. "We need the discipline Coach Harrison is giving us. If we'd had it last year, we'd have won a lot more games."

And while that may seem like an indictment of former coach Dave Odom, one must not forget that it was Odom who brought in the people who are playing. Freshman Johnny Edwards already has the look of a person who came to play and who will be a definite force in the years to come at ECU. Tony Robinson has brought leadership to the backcourt that has been missed for some years, too.

Only two players on the team, Charlie Green and Thom Brown, are seniors, so all but those two will return next year. Those, plus the recruits Harrison hopes to bring in could bring ECU one of its brightest seasons in some time.

This doesn't mean that we expect the Pirates to win the ECAC title this year. That prospect seems still to be ahead of the team at this time. It could happen, but it will take a supreme effort by the players.

But too, we don't expect the Pirates to be in last place this year either. A break here and there could put ECU in fine shape for the conference race, which gets underway on December 30 when they travel to George Mason.

Meanwhile, ECU has three very tough games ahead of it prior to the holidays. This Wednesday, the Pirates visit nationally-ranked N.C. State, which has been scoring at a rapid pace this year. By far, this will be the toughest test Harrison's charges have had to date.

Then, East Carolina goes to Lafayette, La., for the Cajun Classic. That comes a little over a week after the State game. ECU will face hosting Southwest Louisiana in the opening game — another team that went to the NCAA tournament last year.

As has been pointed out before, ECU has never won an in-season tournament since becoming an NCAA member back in the early 60's. In fact, you have to go back to the 1979-80 season to find a tournament win for the Pirates. They beat West Virginia Tech in the consolation round of the Spider Classic that year, and later were awarded a forfeit win over Kent State in the Wolfpack Classic.

You must go another year back to find a tournament in which the Pirates reached the championship game. During the 1978-79 year they downed Manhattan in the first round of the U-Conn Classic before falling to the hosting Huskies in the title game.

This year's tournament task is no less easy.

opportunities," said Louisville Coach Denny Crum. "They did a super job spreading us out."

Boilermakers Coach Gene Keady conceded that Reid probably deserved to start but "he is playing so well off the bench, I hate to change it."

Lancaster Gordon led Louisville with 22 points. Derrick Hord's 26 points led Kentucky over Villanova in a nationally televised game. Charles Hurt was perfect on all seven of his shots from the field to help out Kentucky, which shot 64 percent from the field.

Said Villanova Coach Rollie Massimino, "We knew everything Kentucky would do, but we couldn't handle them. There aren't many clubs in the United States that can handle this club, especially here in Lexington. We played 13 different defenses. I think Kentucky is a great team."

UCLA's Kenny Fields had 19 points, while Darren Daye added 16 points and Jackson finished with 14.

"In the huddle, Coach (Larry Farmer) said for me to penetrate if the offense breaks down," said Jackson of his winning shot. "He told us,

"Whatever you do, make sure we get off a good shot on the last play."

"I got a good pass. No. 11 (Notre Dame's Joe Buchanan) came running at me. I just kind of faked him and went to the basket, it was wide open."

Ralph Sampson managed only 10 points for Virginia, which probably didn't need his presence at all in overwhelming VMI. Jimmy Miller had 15 points as the Cavaliers won their 34th in a row at home, a school record.

Bobby Parks scored 20 points and Phillip Haynes had 18 to lead Memphis State over Ball State.

Indiana overcame a poor-shooting first half as Ted Kitchel scored 23 points for the unbeaten Hoosiers.

Greg Stokes scored 22 points and sparked a quick getaway that carried Iowa past Hawaii in the title game of the first Amana-Hawkeye Class tournament. Hawkeyes had 12 points in the first 5½ minutes as Iowa bolted to a 23-4 lead and never was in danger.

Houston's high-powered offense was guided by Larry Mischeaux with 24 points and Clyde Drexler with 20 as Houston beat Biscayne.

trolled the ball for nearly 13 minutes in the third quarter and extended their 9-7 halftime lead to 12-7 on the second of three field goals by Uwe von Schamann.

Then Franklin boosted Miami's edge to 19-7 with a 9-yard scoring run in the first minute of the fourth period.

Chargers 30, Browns 13
Dan Fouts completed 13 of his first 16 passes, guiding San Diego to a quick 27-3 lead over Cleveland.

Chuck Muncie and James Brooks each scored a pair of touchdowns for the Chargers, while Fouts completed 18 of 23 passes for 252 yards.

In an effort to rally the Browns, Brian Sipe hit 33 of 48 passes, including a team-record 14 in a row.

"We knew we were going to have to score a lot more than 13 points," Sipe said. "That's no criticism to our defense, but a compliment to their offense. They're just a treat to watch."

Falcons 34, Broncos 27
Fullback William Andrews scored three touchdowns, including one on an 86-yard pass-and-run play, and Mick Luckhurst booted two 51-yard field goals to rally Atlanta past Denver.

The Falcons trailed 20-14 in the third quarter and faced a third-and-16 from their own 14 when Andrews took a pass from Steve Bartkowski in the left flat, ran over cornerback Steve Wilson and raced down the sideline to score.

"I'm just a runner," Andrews said. "I have high knee action and sometimes a guy can get jolted."

Andrews also scored TDs on 8 and 2-yard runs.

Cardinals 23, Eagles 20
Stump Mitchell filled in admirably for injured star Ottis Anderson, rushing for 145 yards and a 32-yard touchdown for St. Louis over Philadelphia.

With Anderson absent for the first time in 52 games, Mitchell, who had just 9 yards on six previous carries this season, helped the Cardinals build a 16-point halftime lead.

Buccaneers 13, Saints 10
Tampa Bay throttled New Orleans' running game and safety Neal Colzie recovered two fumbles deep in Buccaneer territory, while Doug Williams threw a 34-yard touchdown pass to Kevin House.

The Saints were held to 69 rushing yards on 27 carries, while last year's top NFL ground gainer, George Rogers, was held to 32 yards on 13 attempts.

Bears 26, Patriots 13
Rookie quarterback Jim McMahon passed for two touchdowns and ran for another score for Chicago against New England.

McMahon hit Ken Margerum with a 17-yard scoring pass and Emery Moorehead with a 2-yard toss in the first quarter, then ran 6 yards for another TD in the second period.

The only bright spot for the Patriots was a 99-yard interception return by Rick Sanford.

Giants 17, Oilers 14
Rookie halfback Butch

Woolfolk scored the first two touchdowns of his career in the fourth quarter as New York rallied from a 14-3 deficit to beat Houston.

Woolfolk caught a 40-yard touchdown pass and scored on a 2-yard run after the Oilers took the lead on scoring passes by quarterbacks Gifford Nielsen and Archie Manning.

Woolfolk caught few passes in his college career at Michigan, but he said, "Just because a running back doesn't catch a pass, doesn't mean he can't catch the ball."

NCCU Women Win With Just Three Players

GREENSBORO (AP) — North Carolina Central women's basketball coach Yvonne Edwards has come up with a new defense — a box-and-one without the one.

Edwards was forced to go to that alignment when five of her eight players fouled out during Saturday's 85-83 double overtime victory over Bennett College.

Three players fouled out in regulation, a fourth fouled out in the first overtime and another was disqualified in the second extra period. Two other team members could not play because of injuries and two more were ineligible.

"We played a box-and-one without the one in the first overtime," she said. "Then we played a triangle with two up top and one down low."

"This is the first time I've ever heard of this," she added. "I've never had a game go down like that. I'm very proud of my girls. If we can win with three, we know we can win with eight or nine."

Duke In Soccer Finals

DURHAM (AP) — Duke goalkeeper Pat Johnston saved his best for last, but it came in time to end Connecticut's dreams of a second straight NCAA Division I soccer championship.

Johnston turned back Connecticut's scoring attempts in the closing seconds Sunday to give his top-ranked Blue Devils a 2-1 victory and a berth in Saturday's championship game against Indiana University at Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

Second-ranked Indiana, 20-3-1 with a 20-game victory streak, advanced with a 1-0 victory at home Sunday over Southern Illinois University-Edwardsville.

"Their goalie played better than he was capable of playing," said UConn coach John Morrone, whose team was ranked fourth. "Finally, when we get a good shot, the guy pulls it out of his ear. I don't know if he's made a save all year like that."

"You absolutely have to have a great goalkeeper if you're going to be in the national championship game," Duke coach John Rennie said.

David McDaniel scored on a pass from Tom Kain at 6:42 in the second half to give Duke a 2-0 lead and offset a goal at the 51-second mark by UConn's James D'Orsaneo.

Connecticut, which finished at 15-3-7, tried desperately to score in the closing moments, but each time was denied by Johnston.

Duke, which has never won a national title in any sport, took a 1-0 lead at 18:08 of the first half on Charlie Guevara's goal with an assist by Garziano Giglio.

Duke, 22-0-2, played the final 40 minutes at a one-man disadvantage after forward Bob Jenkins was ejected for striking an opposing player.

"It (Duke's game plan) was based on what the other team would do," Rennie said. "It was just to spread them out. I thought we did that, but it's hard to tire them out because they substitute so much and keep fresh players in the game."

Walker, Sampson Dynamite Duo

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

Herschel Walker finally got his Heisman, but 40 years from now, when he's relaxing among his trophies in the family den, his greatest pride will be centered not on the old bronze statuette but on a simple framed parchment on the wall.

That, if he pursues his avowed aim, will be his degree from the University of Georgia where he is majoring in criminology with the idea of becoming an FBI agent, a career that would have to await a fling in professional football.

The parchment will be a proclamation that Herschel Walker, BA, onetime TB, had chosen to stay the course, as did his basketball counterpart, skyscraper Ralph Sampson of Virginia. They paid for their scholarships — they finished college.

These are two of the most remarkable young men of our time — Walker, the bullet-headed ball carrier of the Georgia Bulldogs, and Sampson, the 7-foot-4 hardwood phenomenon now in the midst of his final season.

Both were sports prodigies who became outstanding stars in their freshman years, record-breakers both, who proceeded to lead their respective teams to national honors. As such, they immediately attracted the covetous eyes of the pros and agents, who saw in each a talent capable of saving a franchise.

abandoned its old hardship rule and there is no deterrent for an underclassman. Magic Johnson left a national championship team at Michigan State to join the Los Angeles Lakers.

In addition to the advice to challenge the NFL rule, which he would be bound to win, Walker heard offers from the Canadian Football League for immediate placement.

After being named Heisman winner, the Georgia running back repeated his intention to stay where he is.

"I want to finish college and try out for the 1984 Olympics," insists the 6-foot-1, 222-pound thunderbolt who, despite his size, possesses near world class sprint speed. He runs track in the winter.

Sampson acknowledged that temptations were great, since he always hoped to play with the Lakers who reportedly had offered to pay San Diego $6 million for the No. 1 pick, but he chose to finish college.

Walker, who has rushed for more than 5,000 yards so far in his career with three 1,500-yard or better seasons, led the Bulldogs to the national crown his freshman year. The Bulldogs are unbeaten and No. 1 this fall going against Penn State in the Sugar Bowl.

The powerful runner finished third in the Heisman voting as a freshman and second last year as runnerup to Marcus Allen. Most observers felt he suffered because of normal preference for seniors. Young Walker never expressed resentment. "I can live in a world where I'm going to try to succeed whether I get a reward or not," he said.

Winter Meetings Begin

HONOLULU (AP) — The impending decisions of free agents Steve Garvey, Floyd Bannister and Steve Kemp, and the usual trade rumors were the chief topics as major league baseball's winter meetings began.

The San Diego Padres and Chicago Cubs appear to be one-two in efforts to sign Garvey, the first baseman who became a free agent after 12 years with the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Bannister, the former Seattle Mariners' left-hander, is pondering the offers of six teams. He reportedly is deciding among the Philadelphia Phillies, St. Louis Cardinals, Chicago White Sox, Kansas City Royals, New York Yankees and Houston Astros.

Kemp, an outfielder who gained free agent status from the White Sox, is said to be leaning toward the Baltimore Orioles.

Garvey, who is seeking a $1.5 million, five-year contract, and his agent, Jerry Kapstein, were supposed to review the options today in Los Angeles.

Bannister's agent, Tom Reich, said he expects the pitcher to decide in the next day or so.

"The thing on Floyd's mind and mine is where does he want to play. We know he is going to get a good contract so we're not going to run an auction," said Reich who is attending the winter meetings.

"I went to Phoenix and told him (Bannister) it was decision time."

Dallas Green, the Cubs' executive vice president, tried to light a torch under the Garvey-Kapstein combination.

Green talked with Kapstein by telephone and told the agent, "it behooves everybody concerned to know where they stand as soon as possible. It's come down to the point to let us know what we have to know."

The decisions by these three outstanding free agents probably will start a lively trading week.

The pressures were tremendous. The Boston Celtics reportedly offered to pay Sampson $650,000 to turn pro after his freshman year.

Walker, who did more in football than any college player had ever done in three years, was told he could get $1 million easily a year if he chose to quit school and challenge the National Football League rule barring his participation until his class graduates. Additional millions were in the offing from endorsements.

Both have said, "No, thanks."

There was no problem for Sampson. The National Basketball Association has

Sec. Shultz Starts European Fence-Mending Trip

By R. GREGORY NOKES
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State George P. Shultz leaves today on a two-week trip to Europe aimed at mending fences with allies and exploring ways of improving relations with the new Soviet government of Yuri Andropov.

In addition, Shultz will consult on an allied response in case the Polish government decides to lift martial law, as expected. Dec. 13 marks the first anniversary of the imposition of military government and Warsaw officials have released Solidarity leader Lech Walesa.

Shultz will go to Bonn first, arriving Tuesday. He will be in Brussels Dec. 8-11 for a NATO foreign ministers meeting, after which he will go to The Hague, Rome, Paris, Madrid and London, in that order.

It will be Shultz's first extended trip to Europe since replacing Alexander M. Haig Jr. as secretary of state in July.

Besides the topics of the Soviet Union and Poland, Shultz has a crowded agenda that includes U.S.-European economic issues, East-West trade, discussions of the arms control talks in Geneva and plans for deployment of U.S. missiles in Europe, scheduled to begin next year.

Shultz also will keep a close eye on developments in the Middle East and will discuss with allied leaders U.S. plans to bring about a lasting Mideast peace. He will consult with France and Italy on increasing troop contributions to the peacekeeping force in Lebanon, and other nations may be asked to join.

But a great deal of attention, especially at the NATO foreign ministers meeting in Brussels, will focus on developing an allied stance toward the Andropov government in Moscow.

Shultz is expected to take the position that the West must continue to strengthen its defenses against possible Soviet aggression, while emphasizing a willingness to respond positively to any meaningful Soviet steps to improve relations.

A senior U.S. official, who asked not to be identified, told reporters there would be a "sharing of views on how the West should conduct its affairs with the East, looking forward to a new period of leadership in the Soviet Union."

Shultz met with Andropov in Moscow following the funeral of President Leonid I. Brezhnev in Moscow last month and both Washington and Moscow have issued statements calling for better relations.

However, Shultz has said that Washington insists on good deeds from Moscow rather than just "mood music" before improved relations are possible.

Shultz said Moscow must take the first steps because most of the problems that led to the current low state of relations were caused by Moscow, such as the intervention in Afghanistan, financing for the Vietnamese invasion of Cambodia and support for the crackdown in Poland.

Andropov has said he would not make the first move. However, during a meeting in Copenhagen over the weekend, leaders of 10 European countries urged the Soviet leader to respond to the need for improved relations.

"We are sending a signal of firmness and a plea for a dialogue," said Belgian Foreign Minister Leo Tindemans. "We want the Soviet Union to contribute to efforts to improve relations."

Regarding Poland, one decision before the allies is how far restrictions must be relaxed by Polish authorities before NATO lifts the trade and other economic sanctions it imposed last January.

The military government has outlawed the Solidarity movement, but NATO has insisted that the government have a dialogue with Solidarity as a condition for lifting restrictions.

"We are not prepared to welcome cosmetic changes," said the senior official.

The official also told reporters Friday that Shultz will try to resolve outstanding problems between Washington and its allies, although he claimed "real progress" already has been made.

One problem is France's refusal to go along with a U.S.-arranged accord on a new Western strategy for economic relations with the Soviet Union. Reagan cited the accord in lifting the controversial Soviet pipeline sanctions, which had angered the allies.

Also, there is suspicion in Europe that the Reagan administration is not yet serious about trying to negotiate an arms control agreement with Moscow that would eliminate the need to deploy new U.S. nuclear missiles in Europe.

Another problem is that Spain's new socialist prime minister, Felipe Gonzalez, is rethinking Spain's plans to join NATO, and Britain is unhappy over a U.S. vote in the United Nations in favor of a negotiated settlement of its dispute with Argentina over the Falkland Islands.

Shultz, who is a former

Treasury secretary, also will discuss an array of trade and economic issues, including U.S. demands that Europeans end their subsidies of agricultural goods that serve to keep out U.S. farm exports. For their part, many Europeans believe Reagan's economic policies have made the world-wide recession worse.

Report Sharp Drop In Mental Patients

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The number of mental patients at the four state-run psychiatric hospitals in North Carolina has fallen from 10,267 to 2,826 since 1956, thanks in part to recent breakthroughs in drug development.

The number of patients housed in the facilities became an important issue after state officials announced they wanted to close Dorothea Dix's psychiatric wards and transfer chronically ill patients to the remaining hospitals. Less seriously ill patients would be placed in local programs.

State officials say they want to close Dix's psychiatric wards and transfer chronically ill patients to the remaining hospitals. Less seriously ill patients would be placed in local programs.

Commission members said the plan was intended to reduce the number of "revolving-door" patients who are repeatedly admitted to state hospitals. It will be presented to the Legislature, which convenes Jan. 12.

Dr. Roy J. Blackley, director of medical services for the state Division of Mental Health, said in a telephone interview last week that under the proposal, a patient who failed to take the medicine could be taken to court, where a judge could commit him to an outpatient program.

As long as the patient took the medicine and showed up for therapy sessions, there would be no commitment to an institution.

Report Yuri Implacable

PARIS (AP) — Former CIA chief William Colby says Soviet leader Yuri Andropov "is an implacable being who can at times be brutal," a French newspaper reported today.

Colby, who headed the Central Intelligence Agency during the Nixon and Ford Administrations, said he expected no significant change in Soviet policy with Andropov in charge. Le Quotidien de Paris reported.

He described Andropov, who succeeded Brezhnev as party leader last month, as a tough person who believes in discipline and has unshakable faith in what he is doing, the daily said.

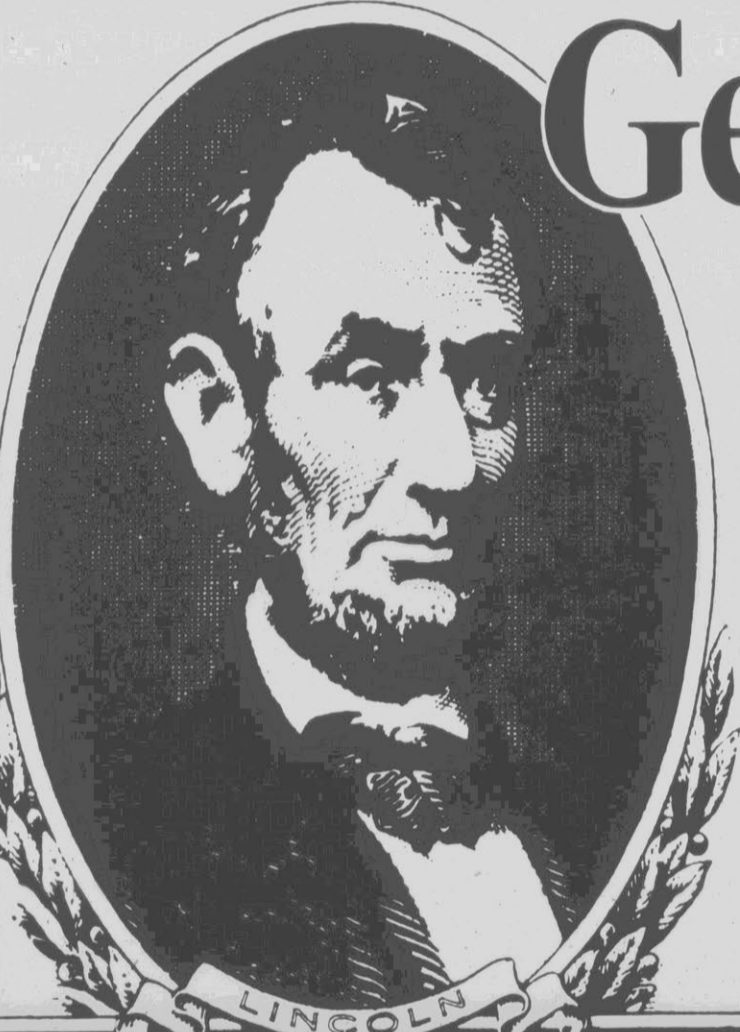

Colby was quoted as saying it was too soon to say if Andropov will remain the boss. "Let's wait a few years for that, when the real leader of the U.S.S.R. emerges from the struggle among all the pretenders."

The newspaper said Colby speculated that Andropov might consolidate his power, "but if I were you I'd pay more attention to local chiefs, (Viktor) Grishin in Moscow, (Gregory) Romanov in Leningrad."

Colby also was quoted as saying "The real threat from the Soviet Union is not its nuclear arsenal. Subversion is more dangerous. It's not with missiles that you stop the spread of communism in the Third World, Latin America and Africa."

Sunday Wrecks Damage Cars

An estimated $5,300 damage resulted from two traffic collisions in Greenville Sunday.

Police department investigators said heaviest damage resulted from a 2:47 p.m. mishap at the intersection of Memorial Drive and N.C. 33, involving cars driven by Elizabeth Kay Manning of 509 Rawl Blvd., George Edward Hicks of Route 3, Greenville, and Nelda Virginia Malasky of Geneva, Ohio.

Officers, who charged Ms. Manning with having improper brakes, estimated damage at $1,500 to the Manning car, $400 to the Hicks vehicle and $1,200 to the Malasky car.

Raymond Earl Daniels of Greenville, was charged with driving under the influence following investigation of an 8:15 p.m. collision on Fleming Street, 27 feet east of the Bancroft Avenue intersection.

Police said the Daniels car collided with a vehicle driven by Charlie Evans of 601 Ford St., resulting in an estimated $1,000 damage to the Daniels car and $1,200 damage to the Evans auto.

Remove Deadly Tylenol Poison

CHICAGO (AP) — Because potassium cyanide caused the death of seven people who took contaminated Extra-Strength Tylenol capsules, the deadly chemical is being removed from the laboratories of many high schools and colleges.

At least one Chicago school and more than a dozen in the suburbs have eliminated the use of cyanide in chemistry classes and are attempting to dispose of all supplies of it, according to a survey by the Chicago Tribune.

It cost one district $600 to dispose of supplies of cyanide and arsenic. Another school was quoted a price of $3,000 to remove seven vials of cyanide and other poisonous chemicals.

Sgt. Michael E. Jackson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Cogdell Jr. of Greenville, was promoted to his present rank while serving with the 2nd Force Service Support Group, Camp Lejeune.

MOVE TO THE MUSIC

Every morning I keep my figure in shape and my mind in gear. How? By listening to the news on this FM portable radio when I bike. I got it at a low saver's price when I moved my checking account to First American.

In retailing we often have busy seasons and cash in the account. So I moved out to First American's $10,000 short term certificate. Now we're earning at money market rates and I pick up on some beautiful music.

I had a good corn crop this year so I put my money into a retirement program. And I picked a tape player as my choice of one of 13 Soundesign items free* or at low saver's prices. First American and Soundesign — two sound reasons for saving.

See this little radio? I got it free with a qualifying deposit from First American. Now I can go shopping and never miss a chapter of my favorite soap. Who says you gotta move with the music? It's drama that sends me.

Hope Is Difficult Over A 'Protectionist Fever'

By OWEN ULLMANN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The latest international stab at preserving free world trade produced scant progress. But in today's depressing economic climate, any effort to forestall a devastating global trade war is a hopeful sign.

Those who attended or observed the 88-nation trade conference in Geneva, Switzerland, a week ago agree the session produced disappointingly little in the way of halting the spread of trade barriers around the world.

However, there are those who see the talks as at least modestly helpful, those who believe nothing was gained and those who fear the conference only may have stirred up trade-war fires.

It is difficult to be positive about the situation. Recession and rising unemployment have struck countries around the world, and governments are responding by trying to protect their industries and workers from foreign competition.

The trend is reminiscent of the protectionist fever that broke out during the global depression that preceded World War II. The result then was a collapse of international trade, falling economic activity and a net loss of jobs.

The Geneva talks on GATT — the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade — failed to produce substantive action on such thorny issues as Japan's restrictive import policies; Western European subsidies for farm exports, which undercut prices charged by farmers elsewhere; the expansion of secret trade deals and barriers outside of GATT; the restrictions placed on trade of financial and other services, and mounting pressures in the U.S. Congress to protect domestic industry from overseas competitors.

Nevertheless, American officials, who called for the talks, seem optimistic about the outcome. U.S. officials said they brought a very modest agenda and only got about half of that. Yet, they claim some success if only because the participants renewed their commitment to free trade and agreed to study several contentious trade disputes with an eye toward resolving them within the next one to three years.

"Despite almost overwhelming economic and political pressures, 88 nations have met and moved forward more than a few inches," U.S. Trade Representative William Brock said at the end of the conference. "In these times it would have been easy to fall back — to regress from prior achievement. We did not make this mistake."

Another U.S. trade official, who did not want his name used, said it would have been "a disaster" had the talks unleashed new trade-war pressures. He said the conference was a success if it did nothing more than prevent a worsening of trade relations.

But some observers say the talks were a failure because they did not stem the momentum toward protectionism. Negotiators lent only lip service to the idea of free trade, departed with all their bitter disputes unsettled and managed to postpone any meaningful steps to dismantle trade barriers under the guise of commissioning further studies.

Thibaut de Saint Phalle, a trade expert at Georgetown University's Center for Strategic and International Studies, said the conference was hastily arranged by U.S. officials and reflected a lack of preparation that ruled out any accomplishments from the outset. He said it was "a mistake to have something as delicate as these negotiations" with so little planning and under current economic conditions.

"I think the conference was more negative than anything," he said. "I don't know why it was called unless Brock thought he could give Congress the impression that the administration is on top of it and there is no need for protectionist measures."

"But I think it would be terribly counterproductive in the long run because its failure will give further fuel to Congress to pass protectionist legislation."

The middle view is that the talks laid the groundwork for dealing with some old and new trade issues, but that anything meaningful will not occur until at least 1985, when an improved economic climate may make it possible for an agreement to dismantle restrictions.

"Clearly the talks were disappointing in their failure to take stronger steps to halt the deterioration of trade," said Fred Bergsten, an assistant Treasury secretary in the Carter administration and now director of the Institute for International Economics. "But at the same time, there were some positive things."

Bergsten notes that the negotiators agreed to take new actions against policies inconsistent with the spirit of GATT, even though they could not agree on what actions to take. "At least it's something people can point to."

"You could argue the cup is half full or half empty, but it's not an empty cup," he said. "If the cup continues to drain, then this meeting could have been a tragically missed opportunity."

Here is a rundown on the major issues discussed at the meeting and what was accomplished:

Farm Subsidies

This was the most contentious issue, pitting the United States against European insistence on continuing government subsidies to promote agricultural exports. U.S. concern about European undercutting of American prices is heightened by the depressed state of the farm economy in the United States.

The declaration issued after the meeting called for a study of farm export subsidies with the intention of moving against them by 1984. U.S. officials say the language is a major U.S. victory because GATT specifically mentions "agricultural subsidies" for the first time.

However, the European Community negotiators later emphasized that their agreement to conduct a study in no way suggests they intend to give up their subsidy system. That prompted angry U.S. threats of retaliating by flooding world markets with U.S.-subsidized dairy products.

Raymond Waldmann, an assistant Commerce secretary who attended the conference, said of the accord adopted on farm subsidies: "You could say this is merely a stalling tactic that shoves it into a committee so that maybe it will go away. But you also could say, in a positive way, this is a recognition by the ministers that trade in agriculture is not now sufficiently liberal and it ought to be liberalized and this committee has a mandate to look at ways to do that."

Protectionist Actions

The United States was unable to win adoption of a code it had proposed for limiting unwarranted protectionist actions — or "safeguards" — and for bringing all legitimate protectionist moves within GATT guidelines. The proposal was made in response to the number of secret or unmonitored actions countries are now taking outside of GATT.

Instead, the conference agreed to study the problem with plans to approve a code next summer.

Services Trade

U.S. officials are pressing for dismantling of severe restrictions most foreign countries impose on trade involving banking, insurance, telecommunications and other services, fields in which the United States is a world leader.

Toward that end, the Americans won approval of a modest proposal for a thorough study of current restrictions so that the conference could consider the need for removing barriers in 1984. However, the U.S. delegation got less of a commitment than it had wanted on amending GATT to include services upon completion of the study.

Investment Barriers

The United States was unable to persuade the conference to discuss investment restrictions, such as requirements that foreign-owned factories must export a percentage of their output.

"I think that was a failure on our part. There was very little interest on that in the other countries," said Waldmann.

High Technology

The Americans won a weak promise for a study on the recent expansion of government subsidies for "high-tech" industries. "This is not as strong a commitment as we got on the services, but it's better than nothing," said Waldmann.

Settlement of Disputes

The United States obtained improved language to make it easier for GATT officials to settle trade disputes. The change adopted would discourage countries involved in a dispute from unilaterally blocking GATT officials from issuing a decision.

Guns-For-Drugs Case For Court

ATLANTA (AP) — Five people accused of participating in a guns-for-drugs smuggling scheme take their case to the 11th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals today.

The five were among 13 defendants originally indicted in the case, in which federal prosecutors contended illegal weapons and explosives were traded for large amounts of drugs.

Today's appellants included Anthony T. Mulherin Jr., Harvey Eugene Hornsby and Robert A. "Sandy"

Holliday, all of Augusta, Henry Mulherin of Lithonia and Elizabeth M. Moore of Beech Island, S.C.

Henry Mulherin was convicted of conspiring to possess and transfer illegal weapons and Ms. Moore was convicted of conspiring to possess and distribute illegal drugs after a U.S. District Court trial at Augusta last year.

Anthony Mulherin, Hornsby and Holliday were acquitted on some of the charges against them, but a mistrial was declared on other counts, including weapons conspiracy. A retrial has been delayed pending the outcome of their appeals.

Of the eight others charged in the case, five were acquitted, one pleaded guilty and charges against two were dismissed during the trial.

The 13 were indicted in Jacksonville, Fla., but the trial was moved to Augusta because most of the defendants and defense attorneys lived in the Augusta area.

The case grew out of an undercover operation code-named "Operation Flying Circus," in which federal agents posed as drug smugglers interested in swapping drugs for guns.

The undercover operation ended in April 1981 when Anthony Mulherin and Hornsby were arrested at a Jacksonville airstrip. Federal agents said they found 16 machine guns and 501 homemade silencers aboard the men's airplane.

MX Foes Unite For Campaign

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (AP) — Anti-MX missile groups from eight Western states have joined forces in a campaign to oppose the missile system as ineffective and environmentally unsound.

The coalition, Western Solidarity, consists of groups in Wyoming, Colorado, Nebraska, Montana, Nevada, Utah, New Mexico and Idaho.

Sister Frances Russell of the Tri-State MX Coalition of Wyoming, Colorado and Nebraska, said Sunday the MX not only won't work, but also will have a bad effect on land and water.

President Reagan has proposed putting 100 MX missiles in underground silos in southeastern Wyoming near Cheyenne.

British Lawmakers Enraged By Invitation To IRA

By ANDREW WARSHAW
Associated Press Writer
LONDON (AP) — With the bloody imprint of IRA terror bombings fresh in their minds, pro-government lawmakers in Britain and Ulster are enraged by a weekend invitation that will bring two leading Irish Catholic nationalists to London later this month.

The two leaders of Sinn Fein, the legal political front for the outlawed Irish Republican Army, were invited to the British capital by left-wing, opposition Labor Party members of the Greater London Council — the governing body for London and its suburbs.

Sinn Fein Vice President Gerry Adams and Danny Morrison, editor of its hardline Republican News, are expected to press their organization's demands for an end to British rule in Northern Ireland. The IRA also wants union of the predominantly Protestant province with the Irish Republic, which is 97 percent Roman Catholic.

The two men will explain their position to their GLC hosts, address a rally in North London, and meet with Labor Party legislators during the Dec. 14-15 visit.

News of the invitation and opposition to it made the front pages of almost every British national newspaper today.

Members of Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher's ruling Conservative party condemned the invitation, sent by Ken Livingstone, radical leader the the GLC, and 25 other Labor councilmen.

Harvey Proctor, Conservative legislator for Basildon in Essex, described the visit as "an outrage and a disgrace."

Another Conservative, John Stokes, a bitter critic of the IRA, said, "This is absolutely deplorable. It's a dangerous decision that will offend many people here and in Northern Ireland."

Michael Brotherton, Conservative member of Parliament for Louth, in Lincolnshire, said Livingstone's "lack of sensitivity towards all those who have suffered at the hands of the IRA is beyond credulity."

Opponents of the invitation repeatedly cited the last major IRA bombings on the English mainland last July 20 that killed 11 people and wounded 50 in London's Hyde and Regent's Parks.

"My reaction (to the invitation) is one of total revulsion. To give succor to Sinn Fein members is dreadful," said Richard Brew, leader of the Conservative minority on the London council.

"If people are not directly involved in violence, then one should be prepared to talk to them, especially if they are elected," argued Clive Soley, the Labor Party junior spokesman on Northern Ireland.

"Many people in this country don't have enough understanding of what is happening in Ulster. We want to try and contribute to a solution," added, GLC councillor Steve Bundred, one of the organizers of the visit.

Both Adams and Morrison were elected to Northern Ireland's new Provincial Assembly Oct. 20 in a major political breakthrough for the Irish nationalist movement. But they and three other Sinn Fein leaders elected to the 78-member assembly refuse to take their seats to protest the British presence in the province.

"We're going to tell the English what is going on in the Six Counties (of Northern Ireland) and tell them that the Republican movement has support," Morrison told reporters in Belfast.

At least 2,250 people have been killed in Northern Ireland's sectarian and political bloodshed since 1969.

British Home Office sources said the visit could not be blocked unless a member of the delegation could be proved to be facing arrest for terrorist offenses.

But in Northern Ireland, leading pro-British Protestant politicians urged London to ban it.

"It's monstrous to invite for cosy chats people who support violence and plot what amounts to the dismemberment of the United Kingdom by force," said James Molyneux, leader of the Protestant Official Unionist Party.

Thomas Passmore, leader of the influential Protestant Orange Order, said: "These men are spokesmen for murderers ... If the Labor councillors have forgotten the terrible atrocities, the people brutally murdered on the streets of London, I'm sure the people of London have not."

Escapes In 'Torching'

NEW YORK (AP) — A 26-year-old man escaped injury after the newspapers on which he had been sleeping were set afire by laughing teen-agers at the Port Authority Bus Terminal, police said today.

The victim, identified as Patrick Erish, of Brooklyn, managed to tear off his clothes and beat out the flames, according to Port Authority police.

Erish was sleeping on papers behind an escalator in the north terminal annex near 42nd Street about 8 a.m.

Sunday when a youth set the papers on fire with a match, according to Sgt. William Corrigan.

Three bus passengers grabbed one suspect, 18-year-old Tirson Alvarado of Brooklyn, and held him until officers arrived. He was charged with attempted murder, attempted assault and reckless endangerment, Corrigan said.

The other suspect, an unidentified 14-year-old, was arrested shortly after the incident. He was to be charged as a juvenile.

Job Crisis Also Affects Key European Decisions

By HENRY GOTTLIEB
Associated Press Writer
COPENHAGEN, Denmark (AP) — European leaders, shaken by the worst employment crisis since the 1930s, are basing more and more key foreign policy decisions on how jobs will be affected.

From poverty pockets in southern Italy to now-silent steel mills in Scotland, unemployment in the 10 European Common Market countries has hit a record 10.3 percent. "It's a savage economic climate," an aide to British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher said.

The job issue has added importance to next week's scheduled consultations between Common Market foreign ministers and Secretary of State George P.

Shultz, who is making his first visit to Europe since taking office this summer. The trip has been billed as an attempt to still the voices calling for international trade protectionism at a time when exporting industries like steel are collapsing on both sides of the Atlantic.

The importance given by European leaders to solving their unemployment problems became evident last week at a Brussels meeting of Western defense ministers and at a weekend summit of Mrs. Thatcher, French President Francois Mitterrand and eight other European heads of state in Copenhagen.

Burying ideological arguments between conservative and socialist governments, the summit endorsed a three-part job creation strategy the Common Market secretariat had been trying to push through for months.

The new plan quadrupled to $3.6 billion a job-creating loan fund, ordered a speedup in plans to create jobs for young people and to improve the European high technology industry.

The meeting set a three-month deadline for work on the proposals, a drastic deadline by standards of the Common Market, whose fiercely independent members often take years to reach agreements on minor issues.

Despite Reagan administration calls for new rules to expand the world's free market system, the summit decided that European workers must be better protected against the loss of jobs caused by foreign imports.

"We must reconquer the Common Market," Mitterrand said.

Danish-Foreign Minister Uffe Ellemann Jensen, referring to the U.S. calls for new measures to expand free trade, said that "I will tell George Shultz that both parties will best be served by existing rules and agreements, not new ones."

Even Mrs. Thatcher, one of President Reagan's closest allies in Europe, has taken up the call. "We have a vested interest in an open trading system, but when you see examples of whole industries being wiped out you have to find a way through," said an aide to

Mrs. Thatcher, who asked he not be identified.

The European leaders said they were especially concerned about current patterns of trade with Japan, whose exports of televisions and automobiles are being seen here as undercutting local industries.

Europe needs a breathing space against Japanese imports or it will fall even further behind in the race to put new technologies to work creating jobs, Mitterrand argued.

The job situation is also clouding the defense debate. Despite general agreement among the Western allies that the Soviet Union has an advantage of at least two-to-one in most conventional forms of military power, British Defense Minister John Nott said he doubted European governments would increase defense spending.

Nott said that most countries will try first to balance their budgets and thereby create a financial climate conducive to recovery, and only then increase their military spending.

European leaders at the summit were favorable to Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger's idea to introduce weapons enhanced by high technology. But West German Defense Minister Manfred Woerner, reflecting a view shared by most of his European counterparts, said the idea was good as long as the weapons are made by European workers.

The defense ministers issued another call for a limit on equipment sales to the Soviet Union, to prevent a potential enemy from getting technology useful for military purposes.

Singers Invited Not To Sing

POWELL, Wyo. (AP) — A college singing group has been invited not to sing in China because the communist government says their tunes are too noisy.

China is going through a "music purification movement" and asked a Northwest Wyoming Community College singing group not to perform there.

The Northwest Singers pop group was to sing in China this spring, but director Mike Masterson said last week the Chinese government told him some of the music submitted on audition tapes would be "too noisy" for the purification movement.

But all is not lost. The 24 members of the Northwest Singers will go to the Philippines March 19-26 to perform in a music festival in Manila, Masterson said.

Masterson said the students are excited about the new plans, which mean more exposure to the public. He said the group still gets three days to visit Peking, the Great Wall of China and the Forbidden City. But strictly as tourists.

FBI Faces Lawsuits In Stings That Go Haywire

By RICHARD T. PIENCIAK
Associated Press Writer

The FBI, whose undercover sting operations have scored several widely publicized successes, is being sued for more than $500 million by dozens of people who claim they were unintended victims of the operations.

The victims include:
—A real estate broker who bought a bar in Glendale, Colo., so the FBI could use it as a front for a bribery investigation called Operation Speakeasy. He says the agency left him with broken promises, a rundown bar and a bunch of bills. He's suing for more than $40 million.

—A used car dealer in Dixon, Ill., whose customers unknowingly got mixed up in Operation Recoupe, an FBI attempt to break stolen car rings. He sued for $6.25 million, accusing the government of participating in a racketeering conspiracy.

—New Hampshire Insurance Co. gave a salesman's job to an FBI operative to help in the agency's Operation Frontload probe of construction trade corruption. The operative set up office in Chicago and issued phony performance bonds leading to more than a dozen lawsuits. The government has agreed to defend the insurance company and has paid more than $1 million in settlements.

Despite the suits, the FBI says undercover operations have been very successful, and it plans to continue them.

The House subcommittee on civil and constitutional rights is scheduled to release a report on undercover FBI operations this week after 2½ years of hearings. A similar Senate committee report is expected next week.

The FBI, which discussed the cases generally with The Associated Press but declined to answer questions about specific operations, has settled six suits and one administrative claim, paying more than $1 million. Several suits have been dismissed, often on technicalities. The agency is waging lengthy and expensive legal battles in others.

Several plaintiffs have won suits against the con men involved, but the settlements often covered only legal costs. Many have won large damage suits by former customers and business associates.

Those suing the FBI generally charge violation of their civil rights and invasion of privacy. They include real estate investors, a movie producer, an interior designer, the would-be owner of a professional soccer team, a former Internal Revenue Service fraud expert and two Cleveland municipal court judges. None was ever charged in connection with the undercover operations.

Floyd I. Clarke, deputy assistant FBI director and head of the agency's undercover review committee, said the agency will continue to use undercover operations "on the appropriate cases."

"They have proven to be extremely successful," he said. "I don't want to represent that we aren't going to make some mistakes," FBI Director William Webster said recently before a congressional committee. "It's a little like the loan business; if we don't make some mistakes, we are really not in business."

Rep. Don Edwards, the California Democrat who directed the House subcommittee hearings, said in an interview that "stings and scams have to be handled with great care and there has to be either law or strict regulations that accompany them to protect the rights of people."

Middlemen, whether unsuspecting dupes or undercover operatives, "are energy set loose by the federal police, by the federal government," according to Edwards. "Unless they are monitored and controlled by the FBI they can do a great deal of damage."

Earlier this year Edwards' subcommittee heard people testify about what happened when sting operations went awry. Several wept openly, recounting suicide attempts, near nervous breakdowns, bankruptcies, repossession and divorces brought about by their involvement in the stings.

Richard Stanczyk, a former Internal Revenue Service fraud expert from Colorado, told the subcommittee he lost his tax and accounting practice because of his dealings with an FBI operative.

"I have lost friends. I have lost my own reputation and clients who have invested ($150,000) at my advice," Stanczyk testified. "Lastly, but most importantly, I have lost my marriage of 15 years. It had emotional effects on my son, which almost resulted in his nervous breakdown, and myself. I almost committed suicide in November of 1979."

J.R. Buderus, a real estate developer from Soquel, Calif., said: "My life became what to many people would be a living nightmare. Little did I know that not only myself but my family and many other innocent citizens would fall victims of one of the greatest wrongdoings by a government agency."

Clarke of the FBI said there have been 1,496 undercover operations since 1977, when the agency shifted emphasis from street crime to investigation of sophisticated white-collar criminals. He said those operations have led to more than 3,000 convictions, including six congressmen and a senator in the Abscam case, and the recovery of millions of dollars in stolen goods.

The lawsuits tell the other side. Based on the lawsuits, testimony before the House subcommittee and the Senate Select Committee to Study Law Enforcement Undercover Operations, the Senate committee's counsel report, FBI and Justice Department statements, General Accounting Office data, court documents and interviews conducted by the AP, here are summaries of three sting operations now involving law suits:

Operation Recoupe
John T. Lightner, a Dixon, Ill., used car dealer, says he unwittingly became a victim in the FBI's investigation into stolen car rings in the Midwest. In 1980, the FBI opened up LeBlanc Motors in Scott County, Mo. It bought titles and matching vehicle identification numbers for wrecked cars, which were put on stolen cars. But many of the cars were sold to legitimate customers.

Lightner says state and federal agents knew certain cars he bought at auction were stolen. In one case, he alleged, agents insisted the car was not stolen even after local police told him it was.

Months later federal agents across the Midwest seized about 300 cars, including eight from Lightner's customers. The customers sued him for their lost cars.

Lightner says he went to 13 attorneys before finding one willing to take on the FBI. He is suing for $6.25 million.

"I wasn't a target. The people who bought the cars weren't targets. The people who sold the cars to me weren't targets," says Lightner. "If they pulled a boo-boo why don't they face the music?"

Operation Speakeasy
Real estate broker Robert G. Phelps said he purchased Cyrano's bar in Glendale, Colo., for $140,000 in 1978 so it could be used as an FBI front. "He was doing his part as an American citizen," according to lawyer Craig Wagner, who said Phelps was impressed with several agents who bought houses through his agency.

Phelps contributed $13,333, one-third of the downpayment, in return for assurances the government would cover any possible losses and that retired FBI agents would operate the tavern once the undercover operation was completed, according to two lawsuits.

The bar, renamed Scotland Yard, was operated for a year solely by undercover FBI agents, according to Phelps. He contends he was not allowed to see financial statements or visit the bar.

Phelps alleges in his $40-million lawsuits that when he asked about mounting losses or who would buy the bar once the sting operation ended, agents told him he "need not worry."

In March 1979, Phelps said agents suggested he find a buyer. With the bar losing $6,000 a month, and the promised retired FBI agents nowhere in sight, Scotland Yard was sold in 1979 for $78,000, just over half its original price.

Phelps says he lost $45,000 in cash and income, had his $60,000 aircraft repossessed and that his financial reputation was "irreparably damaged."

"He honestly believed he was fighting corruption," said Wagner.

Operation Frontload
In 1978, Norman Howard offered to serve as the sting man for an investigation of payoffs and insurance corruption in the construction trade. Howard, a former Chicago police officer, was seeking a way to avoid a prison term for his conviction in a $1.3 million bank swindle.

Needing a cover for their operative, the FBI convinced the New Hampshire Insurance Co. to hire him as a salesman. The firm was not told of Howard's criminal record.

Howard, posing as Norman Reed, obtained power of attorney forms and began selling phony New Hampshire Insurance performance bonds to guarantee that construction projects would be completed on time at the agreed price.

"Norman Howard and the FBI totally destroyed us," said George Foundos, president of the now-bankrupt Charter House Brokers Ltd. of Chicago, one of the firms issued a phony bond. The Charter House lawsuit has been dismissed on a technicality.

No one has been arrested in connection with Operation Frontload. Authorities are seeking Howard, who skipped bail on an unrelated theft charge in Georgia. They estimate he made off with between $300,000 and several million dollars.

Fewer People Visit Dentists

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — The number of people making annual visits to dentists is declining at a time when there is an increasing number of dentists setting up practice in North Carolina, dentists say.

"We're overproducing. We seem to have a habit in society of letting the pendulum swing too far," says Dr. Christopher Fordham III, chancellor of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, site of the state's only dental school.

Dentists blame the lack of patients on an increased use of fluoridation, which drastically has reduced tooth cavities in children; competition with people choosing to spend their money on entertainment; cost; fear of dentists and a lack of understanding of what dental care can do.

"Fifty percent of the folks just don't go to see a dentist, and we're trying to reverse the reasons for that," said Greensboro dentist Dr. Stuart Fountain, a state dental society's board trustee and former University of North Carolina School of Dentistry professor.

"We have two treatment rooms now used strictly for storage," Fountain said. "We set up a satellite practice in High Point because we cannot find enough patient load in Greensboro."

"Overall, business of dental practices is probably down at least 30 percent at this point based on what total dental manpower in North Carolina can produce," said Dr. Charles Horton of High Point, chairman of the dental manpower concerns committee of the N.C. Dental Society.

"I think there's a problem with all the health care professions except nursing," Fordham said.

Few dentists are advertising because, although it is permitted, many believe it adds an uncomplimentary commercialism to the profession.

"We can expect demand for dental care to increase very slowly in North Carolina," Horton said. "I don't believe we'll be able to make significant inroads into the 50 percent who don't seek care for a long time. There are large socioeconomic strata it's just not that important to. They usually only go to the dentist when severe pain occurs."

Motorcycle In Collision

One person was reported injured and an estimated $2,200 damage caused in two collisions investigated by Greenville police Saturday.

Officers said a passenger on a motorcycle driven by Doren Gary Owens of Riverview Estates was injured when the vehicle collided with a car driven by Larry Darnell Greene of 1212 North Pitt St., about 3 p.m. on Memorial Drive, a mile north of the N.C. 33 intersection.

Damage from the mishap was set at $300 to the motorcycle and $600 to the Greene car.

Cars driven by Charles William Harrison of Route 5, Greenville, and Kathy Lee Pierce of Raleigh, collided about 8:49 p.m. on Greenville Boulevard, 102 feet east of the Charles Street intersection, causing an estimated $1,100 damage to the Harrison car and $200 damage to the Pierce vehicle.

Hail Reduced Cotton Crop

DALLAS (AP) — Spring hailstorms gave Texas its worst cotton crop since 1975, meaning a loss of $2.2 billion to the state's economy and bankruptcy for some farmers, agriculture officials say.

Production in 1982 was down to 2.5 million bales, 56 percent less than last year, making Texas No. 2 in cotton production behind California. Texas had been the nation's leading producer.

"We'll have a blue Christmas," Cotton Fanning of Plains Cotton Growers Inc., a state growers' association, told The Dallas Morning News. "It'll drive a lot of cotton farmers into bankruptcy, there's no doubt about that. Some just won't be back next year."

Imbalance Said Due Availability

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — City officials admit there is racial imbalance in the Raleigh Police Department, but say it isn't the result of racial discrimination.

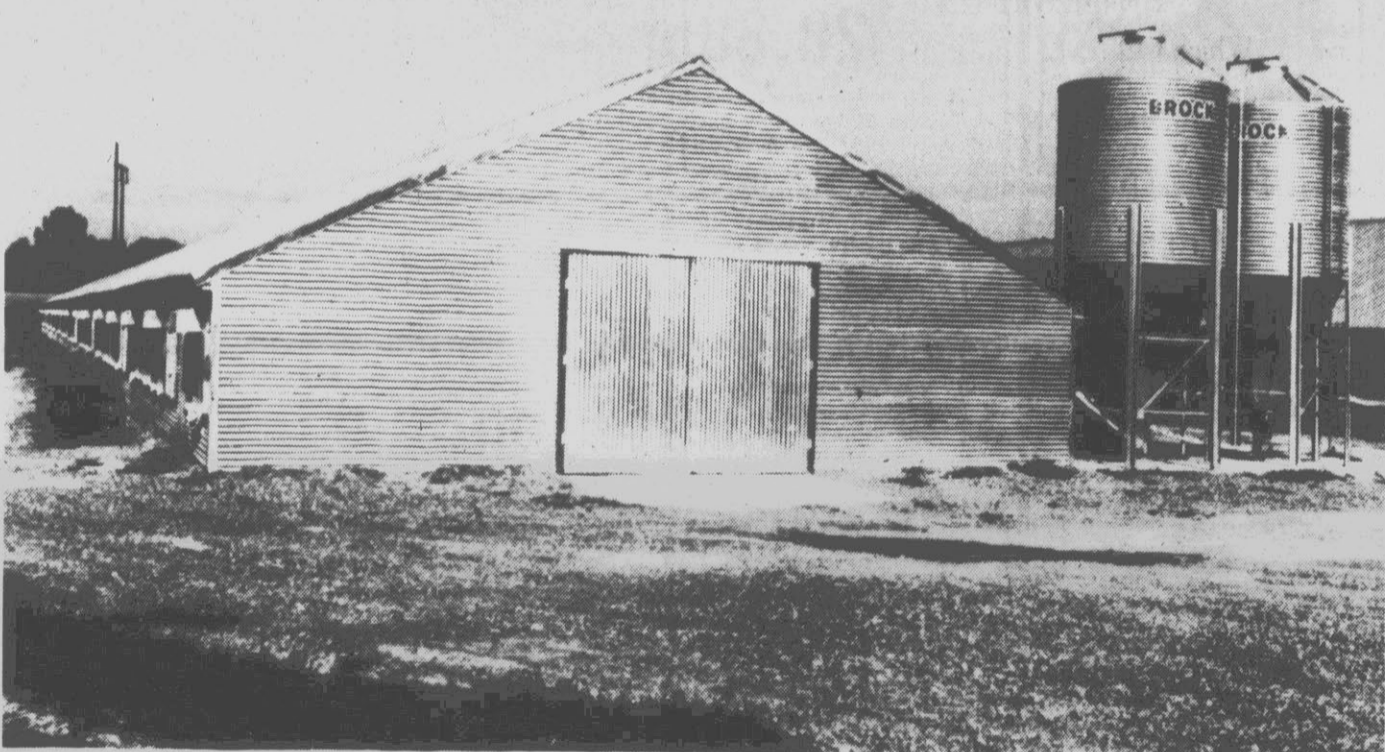

Officials blame the low number of blacks on the force to low availability of qualified applicants, few promotional opportunities within the department and laws that do not allow the department to use "reverse discrimination" to promote blacks over whites.

The department has 53 black officers, representing 16.3 percent of the force, officials said.

Perdue Broiler Houses...

An Investment That Pays You While It Pays For Itself.

Most crops, like tobacco for instance, require a large annual capital outlay followed by a long wait for a possible profit. A Perdue broiler house on the other hand is a crop that doesn't require a large annual capital outlay, or a four to five month wait to maybe turn a profit. Perdue broilers pay after every eight/nine week flock, starting with the first one. And those checks are guaranteed.

Also, a Perdue broiler house is one of the few agricultural operations that can pay its own way. Many others can't even generate enough income to pay for themselves much less provide a profit. And when a Perdue house is paid for, it won't be worn out like most row-crop equipment — compare that to other farm investments. And at market time, Perdue even absorbs poultry market fluctuations. That makes a Perdue broiler house a virtually risk-free sound investment.

Perdue pays a guaranteed paycheck every eight/nine weeks. These checks add up to over $20,000 a year gross income on a 500' house. And with better performance comes even better pay. So if you've been depending on row crops alone, you may want to consider Perdue. A broiler operation is compatible with your other farming responsibilities. But as an investment it stands alone. There's never been a better time to talk chicken with Perdue.

Some people think an IRA won't help until retirement. Nonsense. A BB&T IRA helps every April 15.

An IRA, you see, is more than a fast-growing retirement fund. It's a tax shelter.

Now, the tax-wise have been taking advantage of tax shelters for years, contributing money to charity, for example, so they can take big deductions and pay smaller income taxes.

Well, we think it's about time working people got a piece of the action. And they can with BB&T's Individual Retirement Account, a tax shelter that's yours when you make a contribution to the charity closest to your heart: you and your family.

YOU CAN DEDUCT AS MUCH AS $2,000 A YEAR FROM YOUR GROSS INCOME.

You're allowed to invest as much as $2,000 a year in your IRA ($2,250 if you're married and only one of you is a wage earner, $4,000 if you both are). And every penny is deductible. Which means big tax savings. If you're in the 25% tax bracket, for example, and you and your working spouse put $4,000 into an IRA, your refund check from Uncle Sam will be $1,000 fatter than it would be otherwise.

YOU DON'T EVEN PAY TAX ON THE INTEREST YOU EARN UNTIL YOU RETIRE.

Which is nice, because at BB&T, you'll be earning at a rate that's tied to money market rates, with a guaranteed minimum of 8%. What's more, we don't compound that interest annually or quarterly as some banks do. We compound daily, which can make a difference of thousands of dollars in interest over the years.

And all your interest is tax-deferred. You pay no tax on it until you begin withdrawing funds between 59½ and 70½ years of age, when you'll probably be in a lower tax bracket and, therefore, required to pay less.

YOU CAN BUILD UP ENOUGH IN YOUR IRA OVER THE YEARS TO RETIRE RICH.

If you start an IRA in your early thirties, a $2,000-a-year investment, with all the interest it earns, will turn into a really tidy sum by the time you're sixty-five. And even if you were born too soon to start that early or can't afford an investment that large, you'll still pile up a sizeable fund.

Call or visit any BB&T office and get your IRA started before another day goes by. After all, how can you pass up a retirement plan that gives you big bucks in the September of your life and a bigger refund check every April?

Five Honored At Kennedy Center Performance

By MARY CAMPBELL
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Lillian Gish, Benny Goodman, Gene Kelly, Eugene Ormandy and George Abbott, recipients of this year's Kennedy Center Honors, were in a rather unaccustomed seat Sunday night — the audience — listening while stars from Broadway to grand opera honored them.

Betty Buckley, star of "Cats" on Broadway, sang "Memory" from that show, to honor them all and start a two-hour program in Kennedy Center's Opera House.

President and Mrs. Reagan attended. Seats, at $300, had been sold out for months, benefitting the Kennedy Center by $500,000, said Claudette Colbert.

The show was taped by CBS-TV for showing on Christmas night.

The five honorees had been presented their medallions Saturday night at a banquet in their honor at the State Department. Cary Grant, who was an honoree last year, read their official citations and Roger L. Stevens, Kennedy Center chairman, placed the medallions on broad ribbons around the necks of the recipients.

Miss Buckley was introduced by master of ceremonies Walter Cronkite, who said, "A grateful nation honors five Americans whose career contributions to the performing arts have enriched our lives."

The audience also heard a recorded speech by Reagan, a briefer version of the one he gave at 6 p.m. in the East Room of the White House at a reception honoring the five. He called them "dreamers who made their dreams come true for the rest of us." He went on, "The years they devoted to their crafts lifted our lives from the commonplace to share the sublime."

As pictures from George Abbott's past were shown, director Harold Prince said, "Producer, director, actor, author, play doctor — Mr. Abbott is 95 with only 120 shows to his name."

Then a quartet of actors who worked for Abbott on Broadway before their hair turned gray — Eddie Albert, Van Johnson, Tom Bosley and Hal Linden — came on. They were soon joined by Jean Stapleton, in the uniform and cap she wore in "Damn Yankees," and the men's "You Gotta Have Heart" became a five-part

"You Gotta Have George." Bosley pointed out at the White House reception that this fifth year of the Kennedy Center Honors is the first in which one honoree made another a star—Abbott gave Gene Kelly his first starring role, in "Pal Joey."

Eva Marie Saint narrated film clips from Lillian Gish's career including harrowing shots of her on an ice floe where she had refused a stand-in. She said, "Lillian Gish was there at the very beginning of motion pictures. She has been a star from the first time she made films with D. W. Griffith in 1912. Her dreams are lofty, her spirit intact." Metropolitan Opera soprano Leona Mitchell sang Mimi's act one aria from "La Boheme."

Miss Gish starred as Mimi in the silent film "La Boheme." Andre Previn spoke of Benny Goodman's famous 1938 first jazz concert in Carnegie Hall and Lionel Hampton spoke of his being the first person in jazz to integrate his group. The Benny Goodman Quartet, from 1936 when he hired Hampton and pianist Teddy Wilson, was himself, those two and the late drummer Gene Krupa.

Peggy Lee, who said Goodman wouldn't let her resign when both she and the critics thought she should, sang "Where or When" and "Do Right," proving that Goodman had been right.

"Simply one of the greatest conductors of this century" was what Eugene Istomin called Eugene Ormandy. Istomin made his debut as a concert pianist under Ormandy's baton, during Ormandy's 44 years leading the Philadelphia Orchestra. Violinist Isaac Stern, one of Ormandy's most frequently engaged guest soloists in Philadelphia, played the slow movement from Mozart's "Violin Concerto No. 3, in G Major," for the maestro.

Yves Montand said of Gene Kelly, "He will always be our American in Paris, and much more. He is in people's hearts everywhere, an American for the whole world." Brief film clips showed Kelly dancing with Frank Sinatra and Leslie Caron, singing with Judy Garland and rollerskating down a street. Then he was seen under an umbrella and the audience applauded — even before they saw his complete "Singin' in the Rain" song and dance.

After that, Gregory Hines sang and danced to "I Got Rhythm," calling out once, "Here's one I stole from Gene." Donald O'Connor, Cyd Charisse, Betty Comden and Adolph Green got the finale spot, a song and dance with lyrics about Kelly to the "Singin' in the Rain" melody.

Cronkite had a final word about Abbott, 95, Miss Gish, 86, Goodman, 73, Ormandy, 83, and Kelly, 70. "The show will always go on for them. That's the way it is. And it has been that way for most of our century. They've graced our stages, graced our lives and graced our history. It's time for them to take another bow." So they did.

One Brief Approach To Reality In Tonight's NBC-TV Movie

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The closest thing to reality in "Remembrance of Love" comes when Pam Dawber, playing a journalist, says to Robert Clary, playing himself: "Oh, I recognize you from television. 'Hogan's Heroes,' right?"

The relationships and plot in tonight's low-class hokum on NBC are so contrived that they take all the feeling and believability out of what could have been a moving story about the World Gathering of Holocaust Survivors.

It's also an incredibly amateurish production. In one flashback, phony-looking blood stains a boy's shirt seemingly before the bullets can even reach him. Another scene falls back on the conventional TV charade for rage: the slap in the face.

"Remembrance of Love" stars Kirk Douglas as Joe Rabin, a concentration camp victim who attends a reunion of survivors to find the girl he loved 40 years before. NBC says the movie is fictitious, although its inspiration comes from a magazine article about the real survivors gathering in Israel in 1981.

Various elements in the movie obviously were assembled to have something for everybody, but dippy dialogue, flimsy script and clumsy direction means "Remembrance of Love" won't please anybody.

Douglas is supposed to attract older viewers. Miss Dawber, the earthly half in "Mork and Mindy," is here for the younger generation. Clary, who plays himself because he did spend 2½ years in Nazi concentration camps, is around for his comic presence and enthusiasm.

The French-born actor, who played Louis Lebeau in "Hogan's Heroes" and now is in NBC's soap opera, "Days of Our Lives," gets to jump up and down in the bus and say such classic lines as: "Look everybody, it's Jerusalem."

Miss Dawber plays Joe Rabin's daughter, Marcy, who attends the reunion as a journalist. That's evident because she has a notebook and says: "What a marvelous angle." She was better off when she was screeching "Oh, Mork!"

But, really, Miss Dawber is around to fall in love. Will it be Woody (Michael Goodwin), the earnest-looking reporter from Newsweek, or the wooden-soldier Israeli, who frisks her at the airport? The lucky fellow gets to see Marcy in about a dozen different outfits in five days.

Marcy's far-fetched love affair, and the one between her father and his old flame, can't be taken seriously. They could only happen on "The Love Boat."

Marty Robbins Clings To Life

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Country music singer Marty Robbins was clinging to life in extremely critical condition after open-heart surgery, hospital officials say.

Robbins, who underwent 8½ hours of coronary bypass surgery on Thursday, is expected to remain in critical condition at least through the middle of this week, officials at St. Thomas Hospital here said Sunday.

"His condition is extremely critical," hospital spokesman Lamar Jackson said Sunday night. "The doctors want people to understand that when Mr. Robbins went into surgery, his chance for survival was very slim.

Dr. Larry Thomas, a cardiac surgeon at the hospital, reported "it's required a constant effort — a manipulation of drugs and equipment — to keep him alive," Jackson said.

Doctors believe the 57-year-old Grand Ole Opry star's activities will be severely limited if he does survive, Jackson said.

There was extensive damage to the heart muscle.

The second, a single brief scene after the well-rehearsed curtainless calls, and which although carefully orchestrated by Kipper Hair, was itself spontaneous and moving: After Mrs. Topper was presented with the ubiquitous bouquet, Hair gave a signal, and a large Christmas-wrapped box was carried in. The gift, "a filing cabinet for drama!," exclaimed an astonished Mrs. Topper, displayed a shiny engraved rectangle: "Thanks Ma, for your never ending accomplishments and understanding. Love, Drama Troupe 894"

As the audience left the Wahl-Coates Elementary room, several mysteries remained. When they are grandparents, what will Drama Troupe 894 recall of Rose High? Bet on a triple-ghosted play and a large grey metal box.

And this mysterious box: why would an adoring student drama troupe present their director with a filing cabinet, as mundane and necessary to a script-collecting drama teacher, as

Answer to Saturday's puzzle.

CRYPTOQUIP 12-6

IPF TS-CTU'V CFIJJS: PTES VFHH
BJE WZSV' VJBI SEZUW

Saturday's Cryptoquip — CITRUS GROWER WAS BRAGGING, BUT CUTE AUTOMOBILE WAS A LEMON.

Today's Cryptoquip clue: T equals A.

The Cryptoquip is a simple substitution cipher in which each letter used stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words, and words using an apostrophe can give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is accomplished by trial and error.

Q.1—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠AQ876 ♥KJ8 ♦954 ♣64

The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♥ 2 ♦ ?

What action do you take?
A.—Only rarely do we feel the constraints of a relatively simple system, but this is one of those times. We don't think that the hand is good enough to bid two spades, because that would surely be forcing to game. The same reasoning applies to a jump to three hearts. We will have to content ourselves with a raise to two hearts, knowing that it is a distinct underbid.

Q.2—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠1092 ♥108432 ♦AQ7 ♣95

The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♣ Pass 1 NT Pass
3 ♣ Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A.—We are not thrilled with the one no trump response — our choice would have been two spades, which would have eliminated the present problem. Because of our three trumps to the ten and ruffing value in clubs, we would continue to four spades, even though we do not have any more than the 6 HCP we promised with our original response.

Q.3—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠K95 ♥J102 ♦1095 ♣Q863

The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♥ Pass 1 NT Pass
2 ♣ Pass ?

What action do you take?
A.—You have a dead minimum and scant game prospects, but that does not mean that you can shirk your duty now. Partner's reverse bid has guaranteed longer hearts than spades, and it is your responsibility to see that you play in the right strain. Correct to three hearts — that promises no additional values.

Q.4—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠Q865 ♥9832 ♦72 ♣KQ5

The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
2 ♣ Pass 3 ♣ Pass
4 ♣ Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A.—Partner has launched a cue-bidding sequence with his ace-showing bid of four clubs. Since you have no ace to show, we would not blame you if you chose to sign off in four spades and let partner make the next move. But we feel that you need not be ashamed of your raise, so we would take this opportunity to show the king of clubs. Bid five clubs.

Q.5—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠AQ983 ♥K7 ♦AJ6 ♣987

The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♣ Pass 2 ♥ 2 NT ?

What action do you take?
A.—You have a minimum balanced hand, and not enough support to raise partner's suit. You should be grateful that East's interference has removed your obligation to bid again. A timely pass now will convey a perfect description of your hand. Let partner decide what action to take after West bids.

Q.6—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠Q10872 ♥73 ♦9652 ♣Q7

The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♦ 2 ♥ Pass 3 ♥ Dble Pass ?

(*) preemptive
What action do you take?
A.—We are sure that all our readers know that North's double is for takeout, not penalties — South has not yet bid. Since North must have a fairly strong hand for this action, South is close to a jump to four spades. However, we lean to the slightly conservative bid of three spades because North may have been competing under pressure. Had one of our queens been a king, we would have been prepared to jump to game.

YOUR DAILY Horoscope

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A day when you would be wise to concentrate your attention upon details and make long-range plans for the future. Strive to have increased harmony with family members.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Be most careful in handling regular routines and try to be more cooperative with co-workers. Take needed health treatments.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) If you have a trip in mind, plan it now and count the cost well. Take some time to entertain congenials tonight.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Do whatever you can to make conditions at home more as you would like them to be. Try to please the one you love.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Good day for doing outside chores but keep an eye on your possessions. Be charming with close ties.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Be exact in handling money matters and improve your financial status. An adviser may not be in a good mood, so await a better time.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Don't let unpaid bills depress you, but do something constructive about them. Seek the support of a close tie.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Forget fun for the time being and start on the work that is awaiting your attention. Don't confide in one who is envious of you.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Get busy at work you have to do and forget about going out for a good time now. Be sure not to be forceful with others.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Be more willing to go along with the ideas of associates. Stop wasting time with one who is a deterrent to your progress.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Not a good day for new beginnings but fine for studying new outlets that could prove profitable in the future.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Find a better way to express a fine talent you have. Your intuition could lead you in the wrong direction, so don't follow it.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Situations arise that are not to your liking, but rise above limitations for your best interests. Avoid one who wastes your time.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will develop an interesting personality that others will be drawn to, and bound to be successful in life. Give the best education you can afford. Religious training is important. There is musical talent in this chart.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

Tabulating Town's Eating Of Hotdogs

LIVONIA, Mich. (AP) — A giant cardboard thermometer is keeping track of how many hotdogs residents of this Detroit suburb are eating.

City officials want residents to help eat part of the losses suffered by a hot dog manufacturer that was victimized by a contamination hoax.

Between Tuesday and Dec. 14, each of the city's 104,000 residents has been asked to eat at least one Ball Park Frank, manufactured by Hygrade Food Products Corp. in Livonia. Hygrade's sales plummeted last month after nails and razor blades were reported to have been found in their hot dogs.

The reports turned out to be false, but not before Hygrade recalled 700,000 hot dogs, installed permanent metal detectors at the plant and lost an estimated $300,000, company officials said.

To help the company, the city has established a "hot dog hot line" so residents can report how many frankfurters they've eaten, and city workers built an oversized thermometer outside City Hall — near the flag flying the Hygrade logo — to record the progress.

"We want people to call in and tell us how many hot dogs they've eaten so we can mark it on our hot dog barometer," said Councilman Fernon Feenstra.

Newsman In Afghanistan Watches Mortar Attack

By RICHARD BILL
Associated Press Writer
HILL OF LEJA,
Afghanistan (AP) — From a distance it's not much to look at. Just a collection of mud houses within a walled compound. A tank at the main gate looks strangely out of place.

"We attack at three o'clock," the guerrilla leader said. Minutes later our group was still perched in a machine gun nest waiting for something to happen.

"They're late," snapped commander Sameer Gul, checking his watch. "They must be working on Afghanistan time. Pakistan is 30 minutes ahead, if you didn't know."

It turned out to be neither one nor the other. At 3:15 p.m. on Nov. 24, the tranquility of the countryside was shattered by a loud noise followed by billowing white smoke.

The first mortar round, fired from guerrillas' positions further down the hillside, had fallen short of its target. Seconds later, angles corrected and sights adjusted, a second mortar shell was fired and this time its aim was true.

Under attack was Dragey, one of a dozen Afghan military outposts strung out around Khost, a garrison town for 1,000 Afghan soldiers and 300 Soviet advisers and dependants, 30 miles west of the Pakistan border in Afghanistan's rugged Paktia province.

According to Western estimates, the Soviets are part of a 100,000-troop contingent leading the fight against Moslem Afghan guerrillas opposed to the Marxist regime headed by Babrak Karmal. The troops were sent into the country in December 1979, at the same time that Karmal came to power in what was believed to be a Kremlin-backed coup.

Afghan militia at Dragey wasted no time retaliating, but directed their artillery fire in the wrong direction in the mistaken belief their attackers were much closer.

As black smoke rose from the compound, pro-government villagers sought safety beside the tank — only to draw fire from guerrillas scattered on hilltops who were using captured Soviet-made Dashaka machine guns.

As darkness fell, the attack was still in progress although shots were spaced at one-minute intervals to conserve ammunition.

"We've only got 10 days supply," said Gul, from his observation post. "We want to save it for the final assault in two weeks time."

The exchange of gunfire continued into the night, ending when an Afghan army rocket exploded in an empty farmhouse a few hundred yards from the cantonment.

"We'll stop now," the commander said. "It's better they think they've defeated us rather than risk them finding out our true location."

We then marched back base camp, a 2½-hour walk through steep mountain passes, where Gul explained his strategy for capturing Khost, the second largest town in Paktia after Gardez, the provincial capital.

Three weeks ago another military outpost at nearby Leja was overrun after a battle that lasted 14 weeks. Gul said 150 Afghan troops were killed and 80 injured. Guerrilla losses totaled 27 dead with 72 others wounded, he said.

"One by one we are hoping to knock out the outposts," the commander said. "Once that's done, we'll go for Khost. We're already managing to launch hit-and-run attacks at night."

Taking Khost will not be easy. It is located on a stretch of plain that is devoid of cover.

But the only highway linking Khost to Gardez is in guerrilla control. Food and ammunition are flown in daily from Kabul, the Afghan capital.

The surrounding hills also are held by Moslem insurgents belonging to the fundamentalist Yunis Khalis sect, which claims to have 30,000 armed fighting men in Paktia.

Gul said he has 500 men in his command and that he is confident he can capture Khost next year if he obtains a dozen 75mm artillery pieces and ammunition for a sustained offensive.

The day after the mortar attack, two Afghan soldiers turned up at the camp, handed over their Kalashnikov automatic rifles and asked for help returning to their families in Takhar province in northern Afghanistan.

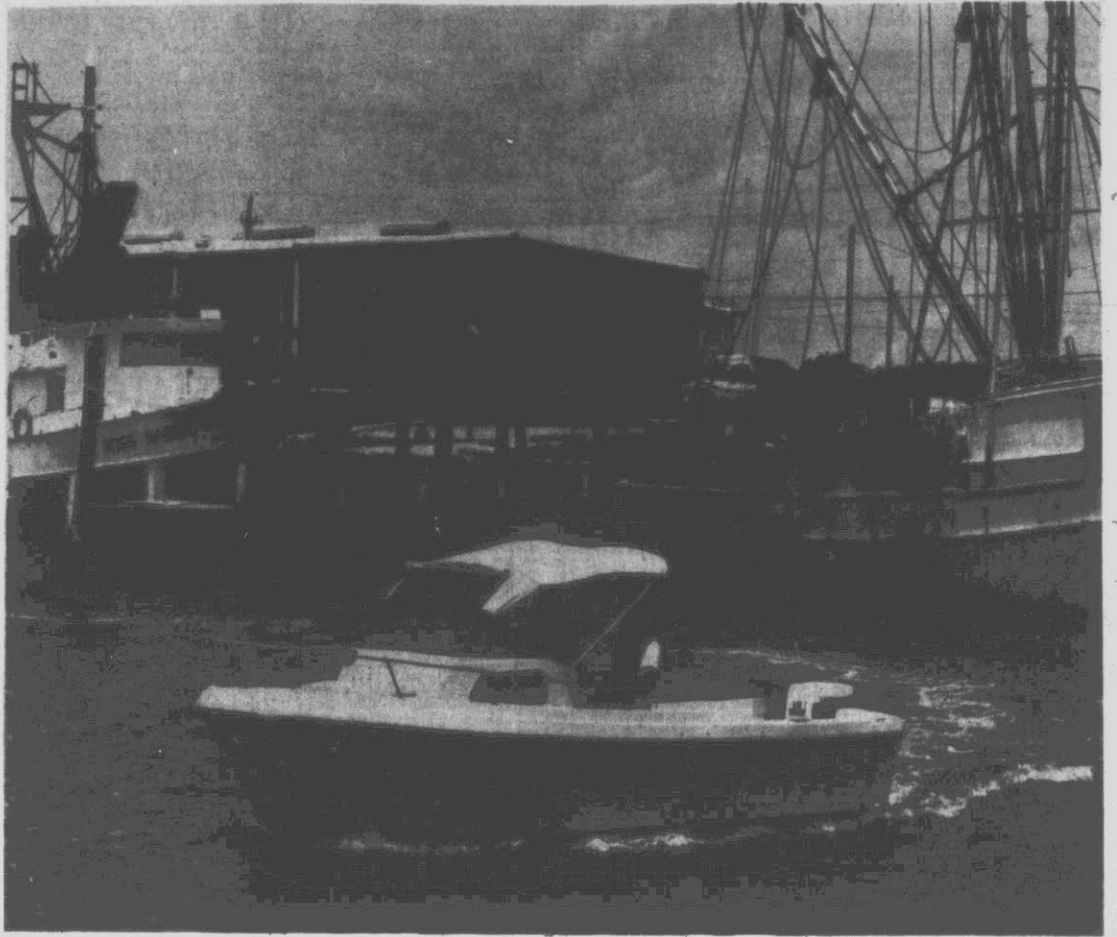

The defectors said they were from the 25th Brigade at Dragey and decided to escape since their outpost had come under assault.

Abdul Mohammad, 23, a Tadjik tribesman and Peram Gul, 30, an Uzbek, also brought nine crates of ammunition with them. They were rewarded with the equivalent of $300 each and told they first would have to be interrogated on the Pakistan side of the border before being sent home.

Mohammad said several houses were destroyed in the Nov. 24 mortar attack but that he didn't know if anyone had been killed. "But about five people were injured," he said.

"The soldiers and commanders ran immediately to a security area," said Mohammad of the attack. "There was total panic. Everybody, including civilians, was looking for cover."

"We radioed Khost advising them of the situation, but they didn't respond," he said. "That was when I thought it is better to die while escaping than stay behind and be killed."

BUYING LOCAL PRODUCT — Graham Flanagan, president of North American Fiberglass Corp. in Greenville, announced that the U.S. Coast Guard is purchasing the firm's Sea Ox cuddy cabin and center console models for patrol and rescue operations. Flanagan said a number of the new Sea Ox boats are now patrolling coastal waters in several states along the Atlantic coast.

Kluxers Blame 'Minorities'

JACKSONVILLE, N.C. (AP) — Amid shouts of "White Power," and extended open-hand salutes, speakers at a Ku Klux Klan rally on Sunday blamed the country's problems on Jews, blacks and all minorities.

Armed Klansmen roamed the woods around the private property where the rally was held, checking for weapons and forbidding photographs that might reveal automobile license plates or the identities of non-uniformed participants.

Glen Miller, the Grand Dragon of the Carolina Knights of the Ku Klux Klan also said his group would march on Jacksonville if harassment of Marines sympathetic to the Klan did not stop.

"I assure that we'll march down the main street of Jacksonville in their support," Miller said to the cheers of several closely groomed young men among the 200 people in attendance.

Klan Chaplain, Steve Miller, referred to the Bible as "The book of the white people" which he said casts blacks as "beasts of the field," and likened the mixing of races to ice cream and axle grease.

Leroy Gibson, Jacksonville, leader of a group called Rights for W People, spoke of the "e blacks who beat a white in Wilson to death sticks."

Wilson Police Chief J Younce said Sunday there were four people rested in that case and that, "there were no ra implications involv whatsoever."

Another rally speaker John W. Gooding, of Kins attacked the media, say they were controlled by J who print what suits them.

"Here at rallies like thi the only place you get unadulterated truth," Go ing said.

About 50 people stood small groups on the peri ery listening to the speake just beyond the border dozens of Confederate fla The heavily-armed parti pants wore a mixture camouflaged dunagree i iforms and the traditio white robe and head pie most without face covering

The one-hour rally end as a circle of robed Kl members put torches to cross while recorded strai of "The Old Rugged Cros were played.

TIGERS FORMALLY DISPLAYED — Chip and White, rare white tigers on loan from the Cincinnati Zoo, made the first public appearance Saturday in Miami, Florida. The pair are one-and-a-half years old and are half-brothers. According to Metrozoo officials, there are only 50 of the white cats in the world today. (AP Laserphoto)
