

Gaskins New Chairman Of County Board

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

Charles Gaskins of Greenville was elected chairman of the Pitt County Board of Commissioners Monday and R. L. "Bob" Martin of Bethel was chosen vice chairman during a lengthy meeting of the board that included a reception honoring outgoing Commissioner B. Alton Gardner.

Gardner, who will be 78 in February, did not seek re-election to the post he has held since 1954. His 28 years service give Gardner the honor of serving longer than any other commissioner in the history of Pitt County.

His closest rival for the honor is J. Vance Perkins, who was a member of the board for 24 years — from 1946 to 1950 and from 1954 to 1974.

Charles McLawhorn was elected in November to replace Gardner, representing Swift Creek, Ayden and Grifton townships. He, along with Kelly Barnhill and Burney Tucker, who were re-elected to their seats on the board, took the oath of office Monday.

Speaking at the reception, given by county employees, Gardner told the gathering that problems that arose when he was elected chairman of the board in 1956 resulted in the present policy of rotating the chairmanship each year. During his tenure as a commissioner, Gardner served as chairman on five different occasions.

"I've enjoyed serving with this board ... we've got a good board," Gardner said. "We usually always agree" but on the occasions when there is disagreement, he said commissioners "iron out our differences ... work things out. We can work and we can solve our differences."

"Thank everybody here ... thank all the voters who all through the years saw fit to keep me here," Gardner said.

Gaskins, who presided at the reception, said the event was being held "to pay homage to a truly great man."

Woodrow Wooten, who served with Gardner as a commissioner from 1954 to 1960, said, "I came to know, honor and respect Alton Gardner very highly" and praised Gardner for "the untiring effort and time he has put into this position."

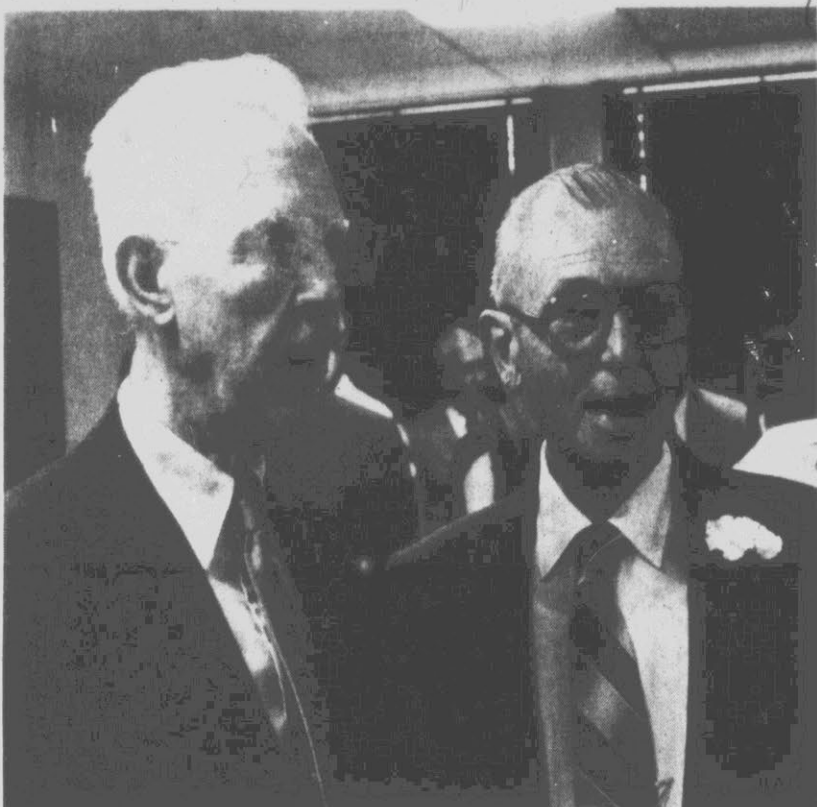

Wooten said Gardner gave his full time to the elected position and weighed the evidence on all sides of an issue because he was an "honest, trustworthy man who wanted things done right."

In other business Monday, commissioners reappointed Reginald Gray as county manager, Bill Watson as county attorney, Margaret Roberts and county finance officer, and Don Davenport as clerk to the board.

The board also: voted to reimburse the town of Ayden for meals fed to county prisoners housed in the Ayden jail when the county jail is overcrowded; approved paying $456 to the National Association of County Officials to aid the association with a cash flow problem; heard a report from Gray saying

Postal Service Surplus

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Postal Service ended fiscal 1982 with a surplus of about $700 million, Postmaster General William F. Bolger said today.

But the Postal Service Board of Governors rejected the report, which shows an unadjusted gross surplus of $1.08 billion, and questioned the accuracy of unusually low costs for workmen's compensation.

Bolger told the board that, after a final round of adjustments is made, he anticipates the surplus will be about $700 million.

The postmaster general has said a surplus of that size would allow a delay in any postal rate increase.

A rate hike had been expected next year but, if Bolger's calculations on the surplus are accurate, now seems unlikely before 1984.

Bolger predicted last month that the service would end its 1982 book-keeping year with a surplus of $688 million.

The board asked member John McKean to look into questions about the audit, including a computation for workmen's compensation that was $106 million under what had been expected. McKean told the board he feared some unreliable data had been used.

The postmaster general has cited higher volume and lower costs as reasons for the surplus. The fiscal year ended Oct. 1.

Mail volume remained strong even after the current 20-cent letter rate took effect Nov. 1, 1981.

The service was also helped by the moderation in the pace of inflation. Pay increases for postal workers are based on the inflation rate, and the moderation meant smaller pay hikes than had been expected.

In addition, lower than anticipated petroleum prices helped the service keep its gasoline and utility bills down.

The Postal Service last finished a fiscal year in the black in 1979, when it ended up $470 million to the good. That was followed by deficits of $306 million in 1980 and $588 million in 1981.

When Bolger told the Postal Forum, a group of bulk mail users, in September that a rate hike delay was likely, the surplus was estimated at $612 million.

Even with such a delay, however, the service may file for a rate increase with the Postal Rate Commission in mid-1983.

Gas Tax Approval Seen By Senators

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nursed along by administration concessions, President Reagan's call for a nickel hike in the federal gasoline tax cleared the House early today and is moving toward expected approval by the full Senate.

In addition to raising the gasoline tax to 9 cents a gallon to finance $5.5 billion worth of highway, bridge and mass transit repairs, the measure would force the owners of bigger trucks to pay more highway user taxes in exchange for liberalized restrictions on truck sizes and weights.

The measure, which has become one of the primary items in this lame duck session of Congress, passed the House on a 262-143 vote after more than 10 hours of debate that stretched past midnight.

However, the critical vote was a 236-169 tally on which 140 Democrats joined with 96 Republicans in agreeing to the tax provisions of the measure and indicated that final passage was assured. Eighty-two Democrats and 87 Republicans voted against the tax provisions.

Supporters of the gas tax increase said it was needed to repair the nation's roads and provide jobs at the same time.

But Rep. Henry Reuss, D-Wis., said the measure "takes jobs away, no doubt about it. It drains $5.5 billion from the economy, which will not be spent on food, clothing or shelter."

On the controversial increased heavy use tax for trucks, Rep. William Frenzel, R-Minn., said he was "positively aghast" at an increase of over 800 percent for the largest trucks. A rig of 80,000 pounds would pay an annual heavy use tax of $2,000 under the proposal, compared with $240 currently, he said.

But Rep. Sam Gibbons, D-Fla., said the package was balanced by benefits the truckers would receive. "In addition to the tax, they get wider trucks and bigger trucks," he said.

Senate Majority Leader Howard H. Baker Jr., R-Tenn., said the full Senate likely will consider the legislation Thursday. Passage also is expected in the Senate.

Bipartisan support from leaders in both houses of Congress along with administration agreement on adjustments in the original proposal have apparently overcome the opposition to the legislation. Those complaints came from the trucking industry and the Teamsters union — both upset over higher excise taxes on large rigs — combined with concern from legislators unhappy with raising taxes.

Administration officials began working last week to make changes in their original proposals in order to ensure victory.

"Although differences remain over certain provisions, we are pleased that the bill has successfully moved through the House," Transportation Secretary Drew Lewis said after the bill passed.

Just hours before the House began its consideration of the bill Monday, Lewis told legislators he would support a provision guaranteeing that every state gets back in federal highway money at least 85 percent of the amount its motorists pay in federal gasoline taxes.

Housing Authority OKs Funds For Kearney Park

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer

The Housing Authority has adopted a resolution designating approximately $260,000 from the agency's reserves to fund part of the modernization work in Kearney Park that was taken out of an original program application.

The authority earlier submitted a work program to the Department of Housing and Urban Development for funding to undertake modernization activities in the project. HUD notified the authority that it will receive a budget of some $1.1 million under an emergency category that will fund over 90 percent of the items projected in the initial application.

The designation of funds from the reserve account to supplement the HUD allocation generally means that the authority will be able to undertake interior and exterior refurbishing of the 160-unit project. Ken Noland, director of operations, said the local funds represent about 40 percent of the reserve account.

Noland said some $245,650 of the reserve funding will be utilized to commence purchase of a computer system and to do certain interior work at Kearney Park such as insulation, painting, kitchen refurbishing, and window shades. The items were removed from the original application due to lack of funding on HUD's part and the non-emergency nature of the items.

According to Noland, $8,960 will be designated from reserves to purchase enough roll-out garbage carts for the 160 units in Kearney Park on a trial basis. The purchase of carts is a result of a recent solid waste container ordinance passed by the City Council.

Some $6,000 will also be designated, according to the authority resolution, for the purchase of needed equipment such as a paint sprayer, trailer and floor scrubber.

Noland said the agency expects to receive word any day from HUD on the final application for the $1.1 million in emergency modernization money. Work in Kearney Park will probably get underway around the first of the year.

In other business Monday night, commissioners selected the Dick Bradford architectural firm of Atlanta to handle architectural services in Kearney Park under the modernization program. The contract with Bradford will have a $50,000 ceiling, according to Joe Laney, the authority's executive director.

Commissioners adopted a legal resolution of intent to form a corporation that would provide tax-exempt bond financing for a new 40-unit housing development here.

At a call meeting last week, representatives of the Westminster Co. of Greensboro and Highland Mortgage Co. of Raleigh discussed with the authority the possibility of the

Greenville School Bd. Allocates Supplemental Fund To Coaches

By JERRY RAYNOR

Members of the Greenville Board of Education Monday night allocated $2,000 from unappropriated capital expense funds to provide supplemental payments to athletic coaches.

Later, in executive session, the board set up a pay scale for disbursement of the supplement to the individual coaches.

In recommending the appropriation, Superintendent Delma Blinson remarked, "I am willing to say there are gross inequities in the coaching supplement that need to be corrected.

Appropriating $2,000 is a step to take care of the inequities."

Consideration of the supplement was part of a three-way package request to appropriate $13,189 from the unappropriated current expense fund balance of about $100,000. The other two requests were for a $10,110 appropriation for the athletic budget and a $3,079 request for the music program.

Action on these two requests will be considered at the January action meeting. Blinson emphasized to the board that all three requests needed to be considered together, but that the $2,000 coaches' supplement was the one phase that needed immediate action.

In the preparation of the 1982-83 budget, additional funds for both the athletic and music programs were included in the initial stages of budget preparation, but were deleted before the final budget was approved as part of the cuts needed to trim the total budget back to a level acceptable by the Pitt County Commissioners.

A report on security at the schools, with focus on authorized visitors, was presented to the board by Blinson. Emphasizing that the school staff did not want to create a negative image relative to visitation at the schools, Blinson said that 99 percent of visitors to schools

Murderer Executed By Injection Early Today

HUNTSVILLE, Texas (AP) — Murder convict Charlie Brooks Jr., commending his soul to Allah and urging his girlfriend to "be strong," today became the first U.S. prisoner executed by lethal injection.

Seven minutes after the fatal dose of sodium Pentothal was administered at 12:09 a.m., the 40-year-old Brooks was pronounced dead.

Brooks' lawyers tried repeatedly Monday to delay his execution for the 1976 murder of a mechanic of a Fort Worth used-car lot.

He was only the second prisoner to be executed while still pursuing appeals since the U.S. Supreme Court allowed reinstatement of the death penalty in 1974 after a seven-year hiatus.

He was the sixth person to die since the reinstatement, and the first black Texas' last execution was in 1964.

Brooks' final plea to the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals was turned down at 11:54 p.m., and at 12:01 a.m. authorities at the Texas Department of Corrections Walls Unit got permission from Gov. William Clements to proceed.

Wearing gold pants, a brown shirt open down the front and black cloth shoes, Brooks was strapped to a medical cart with an intravenous needle in his right arm. The tubes snaked behind a curtain where an unseen prison employee was ready to start the flow of the drugs.

When asked if he had any last words, the Fort Worth man replied, "Yes, I do."

Brooks, who converted to the Islamic faith while in prison, then prayed, "There is no god but Allah. Verily do we belong and verily unto him do we return."

Possession Charge Is Filed

Greenville police Monday night arrested John Rober Lloyd of 1225 S. Washington St. on charges of possessing stolen property after officers found some $1,500 worth of insulation and tools in a garage at 504 E. 10th St.

Police Chief Glenn Cannon said the tools and insulation allegedly were taken from White's Insulation Service on Alley Street, where Lloyd was employed. Cannon said the investigation was continuing.

Charged In Accident

Greenville police charged Lee Roy Hardee III, 21, of 313 Longmeadow Road with hit-and-run and careless and reckless driving following investigation of a 3:30 a.m. collision today on 11th Street, 150 feet east of the Charles Street intersection.

Officers reported the vehicle driven by Hardee collided with a utility pole and tree, causing an estimated $1,500 damage to the truck, $300 damage to the pole, and $150 damage to a meter box at 312 East 11th St.

Investigators said Hardee walked from the scene but later surrendered to officers.

Kennedy Divorce 'Final' In One Year

BARNSTABLE, Mass. (AP) — Although Joan Kennedy said her divorce from Sen. Edward M. Kennedy was friendly, she held back tears as the couple attended a 15-minute hearing to divide money and property from their 24-year marriage.

The Kennedys appeared Monday in court, as required by Massachusetts law, to obtain an order dissolving their marriage effective Dec. 6, 1983.

The Kennedys said there had been an "irretrievable breakdown" of their union. Mrs. Kennedy, 46, appeared on the verge of tears, said Barnstable Probate Court clerk Robert D. Farrell. Then Kennedy, 50, "put his hand on her shoulder, and she seemed to regain her composure," he said.

The session was over in less than 15 minutes, he said. Under a settlement filed with Judge Shirley Lewis, the Kennedys will share custody of their youngest son, 15-year-old Patrick.

In a statement, Mrs. Kennedy said she will get half the family's tangible personal property, ownership of two homes, annual alimony and child care payments and a lump sum cash settlement.

Because she considered financial details a family matter, "it would be inappropriate to disclose the specific terms," she said.

Mrs. Kennedy said the agreement was "very generous."

Kennedy announced last Thursday he would not seek the 1984 Democratic presidential nomination because of the divorce and the wishes of his three children.

The divorce "resulted solely from personal differences between us," said Mrs. Kennedy, who has been legally separated from her millionaire husband since January 1981.

The senator issued no statement, but his spokesman in Washington, Robert Shrum, said Mrs. Kennedy's summary was accurate.

"I would say it could be described as very friendly," Shrum said of the divorce. "Joan was at the Cape for Thanksgiving. Ted was there, too. ... They're getting a divorce but they have remained friends."

All three children see both parents often, he said.

Mrs. Kennedy said in her statement that she shared "with my husband a strong sense of dedication to our children who have been the greatest joy of both our lives," she added. "Their well-being, happiness and fulfillment will be our common bond."

"Divorce cannot alter that, nor can it alter the love and affection I have had and always will have for members of the Kennedy family."

Kennedy didn't mention the divorce while speaking Monday night in Pittsburgh, but joked about his decision not to run for president.

Canadian Changes Plea To Guilty Of Espionage

By MICHAEL WEST, Associated Press Writer

LONDON (AP) — Former NATO official Hugh Hambleton, accused of passing classified documents to the Soviet Union, changed his plea from innocent to guilty today and was sentenced to 10 years in prison.

Hambleton, a Canadian, dropped his claim that he was giving "doctored" documents to the Soviet KGB secret police and that he was a double agent working for Canada and France. As the seventh day of the trial got underway, his lawyers asked that he be allowed to change his plea of innocent.

When the judge asked the 60-year-old professor how he pleaded to charges of giving classified NATO documents to the Soviets from 1956 to 1961, Hambleton replied: "Guilty, sir."

Hambleton stood silently in the docket of London's Old Bailey Central Criminal Court as Judge Sir David Croom-Johnson said he had committed a "very grave offense."

"It was a long time ago that you committed these acts, but they catch up with you in the end and the decision of this court is that you go to prison for 10 years," the judge told Hambleton.

The judge added that defense pleas for leniency rang "slightly hollow" because Hambleton admitted keeping up contact with Soviet agents around the world until 1979.

Attorney General Sir Michael Havers said the prosecution would have called top Canadian and French intelligence and justice officials to show Hambleton was never a double agent as he had claimed.

Hambleton, an economics professor at Quebec's Laval University since 1964, crumbled Monday under relentless cross-examination from Havers.

Toward the end of a three-hour grilling, Hambleton admitted he photographed and passed to Kremlin agents at rendezvous points in Paris "thousands" of NATO documents, without the knowledge of any Western official.

"I was under pressure from the Russians," he said.

Before pronouncing the sentence, the judge discharged the jury from returning a verdict on a second charge against Hambleton that he collected information "useful to an enemy" from 1956 to 1979.

agency creating a corporation to provide financing for Greentree Village off East 10th Street. A resolution of intent was adopted at the call meeting but Laney said that a legal document has been received from attorneys for Highland Mortgage that should be adopted.

Based on the resolution, authority Chairman Pat Rice appointed herself, Roscoe King (current vice chairman), and Laney, who is the agency's secretary-treasurer, to form the Greenville Housing Development Corp. The corporation will serve as the bond-issuing vehicle for the development and will incur no liability relative to the housing operation.

Laney said that negotiations with private property owners in the West Meadowbrook section for the purchase of some of the land needed for 40 units of new conventional housing have finally begun to move along. He said it is hoped the land situation will be resolved by early January.

The director said that 96 of the 100 units authorized here under the existing housing segment of the Section 8 program are currently rented, while 109 units are leased under the moderate rehabilitation program. All 60 units in the University Towers mid-rise for the elderly are under lease.

Commissioners approved the disposal by bid or straight sale of a truck and miscellaneous office machines owned by the agency.

Laney said that auditors from HUD's Greensboro area office, who were here in November, were complimentary of Sallye Streeter, director of resident affairs, and her staff, for their record-keeping. The housing board commended Mrs. Streeter and the staff members on the favorable audit results.

Mrs. Streeter said there were three temporary vacancies among the 642 units operated by the authority at the end of the November. Rent averages included: N.C. 22-1 (Meadowbrook), $104.46; N.C. 22-2 (Kearney Park), $111.98; N.C. 22-3 (Moyewood), $113.29; N.C. 22-4 (Moyewood), $125.90; N.C. 22-5 (Hopkins Park), $79.92; and N.C. 22-6 (Newtown), $66.38, for an overall average of $103.82.

Gunman Robs Domino's Pizza

Greenville police today were investigating a 3 a.m. armed robbery at Domino's Pizza on Charles Street.

Chief Glenn Cannon said a man armed with a shotgun approached a store employee when he left the building on the way to the bank to make a deposit and demanded the cash.

Cannon said the employee threw the money bag at the robber and ran.

The chief said officers later recovered the bag and at least some of the cash, taken in the holdup.

Dear Abby

Winning Season For Awhile

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1982 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: I would like to express a big "thank you" for the football strike! Wasn't it wonderful to have our men free to be with us this fall? Not to mention the money saved from the bets at the office? I certainly enjoyed it while it lasted.

MINNESOTA WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Welcome to a very large club of women whose men returned to them during the football strike. It's been said, "We never appreciate what we've lost until after it's gone." To which can be added, "Nor realize how little we needed it in the first place."

DEAR ABBY: My boyfriend, John (fake name), rents a house from his parents. They own several, and John pays rent like everyone else.

Last Sunday while I was there, John's mother dropped in. The instant John stepped outside to look at something, she started opening his closets and drawers. I couldn't believe my eyes! John is 25, independent and honest.

After she left, I told John about it and he said, "She probably thinks we're living together." (We aren't.)

Then I told John that since other tenants get a 24-hour notice of inspection, he should demand it, too. He disagreed.

Please give John some advice on how to nip this in the bud before it gets worse.

JOHN'S GIRL

DEAR GIRL: John didn't ask for any advice, but since you wrote, I assume you need some. John's mother was not making an "inspection tour" as a homeowner, so the 24-hour notice rule doesn't apply here.

I agree that John's mother was out of line to snoop in John's closets and drawers, but now that he's aware of it, if he doesn't call her on it, let it go.

DEAR ABBY: My husband is a partner in a very successful company. He runs the field work, and the other three run the office. They have a well-paid secretary-receptionist.

The problem: If someone tries to contact the office between 12 and 1 p.m., there is no one there — everyone is out to lunch! I get a lot of phone calls (we are the only ones with a listed phone) when customers can't reach the office.

I contend that a business should have someone there to answer the phone at all times during the business day. It would be different if this were an occasional occurrence, but it happens almost every day. I think that with four people in the office, lunchtime should be staggered so that someone is always there. Your comments, please.

ANNOYED

DEAR ANNOYED: I agree, lunchtime should be staggered so you wouldn't be bothered at home. However, a "very successful business" should be able to afford an answering machine to take calls 24 hours a day. You don't mention the name (or size) of the town, but it must be a very small town with no competition.

Wedding Vows Exchanged

Debra Lainte White of Farmville and Clifton Lee Newby of Wilson were united in marriage Nov. 27 at three o'clock in a double ring ceremony in the Macedonia Baptist Church. The Rev. Earl F. Jones officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Ruby Lee White of Farmville and the bridegroom is the son of Willie Leroy Newby of Bailey and Mrs. Mary Inez Newby of Newark, N.J.

Margie Ree Baker, aunt of the bride, directed the wedding. Music was presented by Denise Dupree, Nathan Cobb Jr. and Darwin Barnes. Candles were lit by Kelvin and Bryan White, brothers of the bride.

Given in marriage by her mother, the bride was escorted by her uncle, Thaddeus Baker. She wore a formal gown accented with bridal pearls on the front and at the neckline. The silk sleeves were trimmed with pearls on the cuffs which were edged in lace. She carried a bouquet of white and pink carnations and roses with matching ribbons.

Bernetta Collins was matron of honor. Carolyn, Sharon and Angela White, sisters of the bride, were bridesmaids.

Donnie Ray Newby of Wilson was best man and is cousin of the bridegroom. Ushers included Willie, Kelvin, Kenneth, Ricky, Bryan and Jeffrey White, brothers of the bride.

Vickie Baker, cousin of the bride, was flower girl. The ring bearer was Daytric White, nephew of the bride.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the church fellowship hall. Punch was poured by Mattie Baker, aunt of the bride. Bernetta Collins served cake. Assisting were Marie Baker, Gloria Barnes, Anita Harris, Wendy Baker and Jean Ellis, all relatives of the bride.

Josephine Cobb presided at the guest register.

Mr. and Mrs. Thaddeus Baker, aunt and uncle of the bride, entertained at a party at their home honoring the bridal couple after the reception.

Mrs. Clifton Lee Newby

Mrs. Collins entertained at a shower honoring the couple.

The couple live in Wilson.

Reception Honors Couple

The 50th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Nicholas Tripp of Winterville was celebrated at a reception held Friday evening at the Grace Free Will Baptist Church fellowship hall.

Hosts and hostesses were their children, Mr. and Mrs. Dennis W. Tripp of Greenville, Mr. and Mrs. Freddy G. Tripp of Elm City, Mr. and Mrs. Mark F. Tripp of Ayden and Mr. and Mrs. Patrick M. Tripp of Greenville.

Guests were greeted by Mr. and Mrs. Dennis W. Tripp and Mr. and Mrs. Mark F. Tripp. Gifts were displayed by Mr. and Mrs. Freddy G. Tripp. Presiding at the guest register were the couple's granddaughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Garrett Phipps.

Mrs. Tripp was wearing a rose colored formal gown complemented by a corsage of white carnations and baby's breath.

The refreshment table was covered with a white lace trimmed cloth and centered with a floral candelabra arrangement. Red poinsettias and lighted tapers were used throughout the reception area. Faye Rouse poured punch and Jeanette Arnold served coffee. Ann Bailey served the five-tiered wedding cake.

Good-byes were said by Mr. and Mrs. Patrick W. Tripp.

The couple was married Dec. 3, 1932.

Political Scrambling

The announcement by Sen. Edward Kennedy that he is out of the 1984 presidential race sets up a good deal of scrambling for the Democratic nomination.

Former Vice President Walter F. Mondale has to be considered the front runner, but there is also Sen. John Glenn and Sen. Alan Cranston who are in the running. With Kennedy out, no doubt other potential candidates will emerge in the months ahead.

There will be a spirited fight for the nomination which could bruise feelings in the party. However there could have been a fight between Kennedy and Mondale and other candidates if Kennedy had chosen to stay in the race.

The Kennedy influence will still likely be felt prior to the 1984

Democratic convention since he left open the possibility that he might endorse a candidate for the nomination. Certainly Kennedy will want to be influential in choosing the candidate to represent the party.

The Republicans took the Kennedy announcement in stride with President Reagan saying it was "a problem for the Democratic Party." We can be sure, though, that the GOP will use the Kennedy withdrawal to its best advantage. It will be hinted that Kennedy found he could not defeat Reagan in 1984.

Of course, at this point it is not even certain that President Reagan will seek re-election. There will be a world of maneuvering in presidential politics during the months ahead.

A Complicated First Step

Barney B. Clark, 61 and a retired dentist, is alive today because an artificial heart has been implanted to take the place of his hopelessly diseased natural heart.

Since the implant is highly experimental no one knows how long it will keep Clark alive, but the medical team which performed the surgery says it is sure he would soon have been dead if the operation had not been performed.

As he improves, life will be far from normal for the patient. An exterior air pump will have to be with him as long as he lives and since there is no experience with an artificial heart in a human he will never know when some mechanical failure could quickly end his life.

The cost of this implant is astronomical, but it may set the course for development of an artificial heart which will be more practical for patients with hopeless heart damage.

It is a very complicated first step into the area of permanent artificial hearts for humans.

Study Is A Fizzler

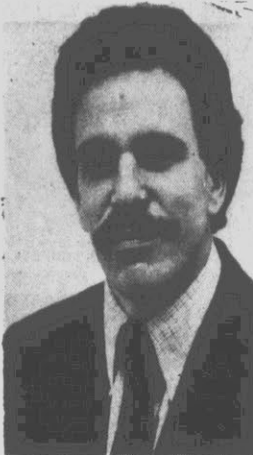

By PAUL T. O'CONNOR
RALEIGH — This year, the Legislative Research Commission has spent about $300,000 conducting 35 legislative studies. Most center on very serious matters that will be coming before the 1983 or subsequent sessions of the General Assembly. LRC studies have been done on the future of state-owned railroad property, the state's evidence and tax laws, and insurance regulation, to name just a few. On December 15 the committees which have conducted these studies will make their final reports.

If you attend enough of these study committee meetings, however, you're sure to find one or two that should never have been established. Some serious questions were raised, for example, about the sanity of whoever proposed that study on the possibility of discontinuing the 12th grade.

Probably the best example, this year, of an unneeded study came in late November. The study committee on the Environmental Management Commission met in the Legislative Building but none of the committee members knew why the committee had been formed. Rep. Allen Barbee of Sring Hope called the meeting to order and immediately confessed he didn't know what it was about the EMC that the committee was supposed to study.

Several speakers from the Department of Natural Resources and Community Development defended EMC as committee members scratched their brains looking for a question to ask. Finally Rep. Howard Chapin of Washington asked the question on everybody's minds:

PAUL T. O'CONNOR

"Is it broke?" The answer was "No".

Sen. Joe Johnston of Raleigh reported that another committee had reviewed EMC this year. So "what are we doing here?" Chapin asked.

Barbee said he wouldn't have come, but House Speaker Liston Ramsey insisted. Did Ramsey know why the meeting had been called? Asked that question later, he said he didn't "have the slightest idea".

Word among the committee members and staff was that Rep. Billy Watkins of Oxford had sponsored the bill that created the committee. Contacted later, Watkins echoed Ramsey. No, he hadn't sponsored the study committee, Watkins said, and he didn't have any idea of why it had been formed.

After a 15-minute presentation by the DNRCD officials, including Secretary Joe Grimsey, the committee decided they'd had enough. "Looks like this ground's

MAKING HABITS

In a recent article in this column the statement was made, "We must therefore repent the sin." When the article as originally written came back from the typist the statement read, "We must therefore repeat the sin."

The original statement was theology as contained in the Word of God; the "repeat" reflects a pervasive tendency in the human condition. The tendency of the sinner is not to repent but to repeat.

Of course, repetition in many ways leads to creative achievement. It is repetition in the form of practice, for example that enables the pianist to become an artist. There is an ease about achievement which is more marvelous than the achievement itself. But the secret of this ease is repetition, repetition — hour upon hour of doing the same thing over again.

Repeat a thought and you have a conviction. But repeat sin and you have nothing but more sin and the possible loss of eternal life. — Elisha Douglass

Reconstruction To Take Time

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — Maybe the old economy just can't get around any more.

Slowly, the message from aching bones is sinking into consciousness. This, it says, isn't just one of those complaints that money cures. No, the old zip is gone. Be happy now for small things, like being able to get around at all.

Recovery? There's a lot of talk about it. But when you sit down and read between the lines you begin to recognize that the word is being used a bit loosely. Maybe "improvement" better describes what the future holds.

But improvement, even a little, is slow to develop. In spite of year-long forecasts that the economy has turned the corner the latest reports on retail sales, the job markets, factory orders and more fail to provide confirmation.

Without confirmation it's hard to remain a believer. The president's political opponents can be expected, therefore, to stress the point harder. Promises don't buy groceries, jobs do. And there are now more people without jobs or working shortened hours than there are AFL-CIO members.

Though pervasive, the unemployment is also concentrated. Michigan's latest rate is 17.2 percent, Ohio's 14.2. Recalling the dust bowls of the farm belt in the depression of the 1930s, much of the Midwest is now called the rust bowl.

The description is apt. Foundries, forges and plants that produced the metal might of America in the post-World War II boom might not reopen. Steel furnaces have been toppled, and automotive plants worn beyond rehabilitation.

Blue collar jobs are now in the minority. White collar workers, according to the American Productivity Center in Houston account for 53 percent of the adult workforce and are paid 70 percent of industry's annual payroll.

The trend is only beginning. The Bureau of Labor Statistics estimates that the white-collar workforce will grow to 65 percent by 1985, and climb to 90 percent of the total wage-earner group by the turn of the century.

The newer jobs are in information, communications, services.

Of the 10 largest industrial states, only Massachusetts and Texas had lower jobless rates in November, with figures of 7.2 percent and 7.7 percent, respectively. Both have concentrations of the newer jobs, mainly in electronic computing.

The switch to these newer industries is not accomplished in a year or two, which is about as long as it takes an ordinary recession to become a recovery. It can take decades, as New England learned when the textile mills moved south.

Workers need to be retrained, bankruptcies must be cleared away, public programs must be organized to encourage entrepreneurs, capital has to be found, real estate must be converted, markets must be found. It could take a decade.

Walter D. Fackler, a University of Chicago economist, began his forecast for 1983 with the words "The United States economy is probably in a recovery of sorts."

Calling his outlook a "bit more optimistic than the standard forecast," with the economy improving at a 3.8 percent rate in the first quarter and 6 percent by the fourth, Fackler nevertheless added this reminder:

"Because the second half of this year has been so depressed, even a recovery of this magnitude will produce an annual real GNP (gross national product minus inflation) only 3.5 percent higher in 1983 than in 1982."

To which he added this observation: "This performance will not restore prosperity but it will put us back on the track. Unemployment will remain high, but will start to come down." It might average 9.5 percent, he said.

This old economy just can't get along like it used to. Even "improvement" rather than "recovery" might not properly describe what may be ahead. What is needed, it seems, is renewal or reconstruction.

And that might take a while.

To the editor:
Local Baha'is recently received word that their religious brethren in Iran are continuing to be persecuted. During November, 40 more Baha'is were arrested and imprisoned in Shiraz, and two Baha'is of that city were executed for their religious beliefs. Habibullah Awji was hanged Nov. 16, and Ziyaollah Ahrari was killed by firing squad Nov. 21.

This latest wave of persecution fuels American Baha'i concern that scores of others may face execution soon. Only a few of the hundreds of Baha'is imprisoned have been released.

The two executions and the arrests come after a two-month lull in the officially sanctioned killings. More than 130 Baha'is have been killed, while thousands are homeless and hundreds are forbidden employment. All Baha'i properties, cemeteries and holy places have been seized or destroyed by the government since the fundamentalist regime took power.

The Iranian government's actions against the 300,000-member Baha'i community have drawn the protest of numerous national and international governmental bodies, including the United States Congress. The House and Senate recently passed a joint resolution condemning Iran's "conscious effort to destroy the Baha'i community."

A letter to President Reagan, made public Nov. 22, from three of the resolution's staunchest supporters in the House, calls upon the president to express, through American representatives to the United Nations and other international bodies, the "moral outrage of the people of this country over the persecution of the Baha'is in Iran." The letter from Reps. Don Bonker (Washington), Edward Derwinski (Illinois) and James Leach (Iowa), was sent to the president Nov. 12.

The Greenville Baha'i community is providing speakers to various organizations who would like more details on the situation in Iran, and interested individuals are also invited to attend ongoing meetings on general topics concerning the faith. Meetings are held every Sunday at 7 p.m. in our home, 1728 W. Fifth St. Anyone who would like more information is invited to call us at 752-4483.

The Enigma And Guilt

RIDGEFIELD, Conn. (AP) — Almost everyone who lived through them seems to have total recall of what he or she was doing on two crucial days in the history of our republic:

Nov. 22, 1963 — the assassination of President Kennedy

Dec. 7, 1941 — the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor.

I remember that on the day Kennedy was shot to death in Dallas, I was having lunch with two AP colleagues at Le Relais, a long vanished restaurant on West 48th Street in Manhattan. The dishwasher came running out of the kitchen and said he had just heard the incredible news on the radio. Within the hour I was on the shuttle to Washington, D.C., and that night I was among a group of reporters and photographers waiting for the president's body to arrive at Andrews Air Force Base.

On Dec. 7, 1941 — "A date which will live in infamy," as President Roosevelt put it in his memorable war message to Congress — I was on a Sunday hike with the other seven members of my Boy Scout patrol in the woods of Alpine, N.J., just across the George Washington Bridge from New York. We had just begun building the fire to roast some hot dogs and Mickey's (potatoes wrapped in mud and buried in the coals), when a man on horseback came galloping down the trail into the clearing of our campsite. In an excited voice he told us Japanese planes were dropping bombs on Pearl Harbor. None of us in the Owl Patrol had a clue where Pearl Harbor was, but we banked the fire, put the cooking gear back in our knapsacks and hiked to a diner in Fort Lee, N.J. The short order cook set his Atwater-Kent radio on the counter to share the sparse details of the attack with his customers.

"This means war," I recall him pointedly telling us, "and before it's over you kids will be wearing different uniforms."

How sadly right he was. One of the boys with us that day, Robert Brooker, came home from the South Pacific in a body bag.

The irony of the keen remembrances that most of us who experienced these two days share is that no other events in our history have evoked such controversy, such skepticism, such lingering a suspicion that the whole story still has not been told to the American public.

There are people today who still doubt that Lee Harvey Oswald alone was responsible for killing John F. Kennedy. They are convinced that other shots were fired, possibly from the railroad embankment. Because of Oswald's Moscow and Cuban connections, some doubters of the Warren Report continue to suspect Russian involvement, while others believe future investigations will one day unearth a vast right-wing plot.

Pearl Harbor has been officially probed no fewer than nine times, but the mystery and the culpability seems to grow and change with the years. Now comes my Connecticut neighbor, that excellent historian John Toland, with "Infamy," a disturbing book on Pearl Harbor and its aftermath that shifts the blame from Adm. Husband Kimmel and Gen. Walter C. Short, the commanders in Hawaii on the fateful day, and places it starkly in the highest corridors of power in Washington: the White House, the War Department, the Navy building.

Were it not for the author's impeccable credentials — Toland is a Pulitzer Prize winner whose books on World War II include "The Last Hundred Days," "The Bulge," "Adolf Hitler," "The Rising Sun" — "Infamy" might be dismissed as another voyage of fantasy down history's demon-filled river of conspiracy theories, but the compelling facts he

To the editor:
At long last Governor Hunt and some others who hold influential positions have recognized that the lowered legal drinking age of 18 has resulted in increased drinking and more drunken driving among teenagers. Permissive, misguided, and/or drinking "adults?" and politicians are to blame: their liberal laws have made our state's youth more vulnerable to the DRUG alcohol.

These young people need our support and love; they need the influence of laws that discipline and protect them, not laws that victimize and demoralize them.

There is no pressure as heavy as peer pressure among students. Older students are admired and imitated by their younger friends. Consequently, many teenagers are exposed to alcohol at an early age simply because they socialize with these 18-year-olds and those older who can legally buy alcoholic beverages. These young students begin drinking socially before they have acquired the maturity to form a responsible attitude toward drinking. Being accepted among their peers is the issue with them; seldom are the consequences of bodily abuse and influential harm considered among those who choose to drink.

Other states have raised the legal drinking age, and proof has followed that such action does indeed decrease alcoholic consumption and drunken driving among young people. I urge all who are concerned and burdened for our young people to let our own publicly elected lawmakers know that we would have our state follow suit. Our House representatives are Ed Warren and Sam Bundy. Our state senator is Vernon White. The address for each is The Legislative Building, Jones Street, Raleigh, N.C. 27611.

To the editor:
To the motorist who abandoned the eight-week-old puppy on the highway:

You must not be allowed to rationalize that dumping such a helpless creature in the country was preferable to taking it to the city or county shelter. You are not only committing one of the most inhumane and cruel acts that we humans can do to animals but you are also committing a crime punishable by a $200 fine. In 1981, according to the N.C. Veterinary Board of Public Health, 500,000 dogs and cats were abandoned. Those that are not maimed or mutilated by cars or trucks on our streets embark upon a lifestyle of foraging through garbage for their next morsel of food. Provided they ward off starvation, they are constantly in danger of contracting diseases such as rabies or distemper that, if allowed to go untreated, result in a slow and painful death. Still others have been found gnawing off their own limbs to free themselves from steel traps set for other animals.

By the time a warden finds them they are sick, starved, crippled and fearful of human contact. Therefore, they are no longer considered adoptable animals and are killed.

Before you abandon an animal, please give it a chance. Call the Pitt County Humane Society, use the Adopt-a-Pet column, or call the city or county shelter. Give them a chance to be adopted while they will still make a good family pet.

And if you share the concerns that some of us do over our defenseless animals and want to donate time or money, the Pitt County Humane Society meets the first Monday of every month at Holy Trinity Methodist Church on Red Banks Road at 7:30 p.m.

When I picked up the Sunday Reflector I had to pinch myself to see if I was really awake or dreaming. EVERY story on the front page was local with a big headline!

Was your regular make-up editor on vacation? I have always been critical of the Reflector because you tend to put Poland on page one and Greenville in small headlines on page 18. If Sunday's paper represents a change, I think it is wonderful.

If your make-up editor comes back from vacation give him his walking papers!

been plowed before," Johnson said. So they adjourned, deferring to the report of the Agency Review Committee. But that left one matter unresolved: What to do with the $5,000 budget that had been established for the EMC study. "Can we have a party with it?" Johnson asked.

A little politics:

With Insurance Commissioner John Ingram apparently on the trail of the 1984 Democratic gubernatorial nomination, several people are looking to take his current job.

Jim Long of Burlington, runner-up to Ingram in the 1980 Democratic primary, says he'll run again in 1984. Long is now Ramsey's counsel and he served as Ingram's chief deputy commissioner for 15 months until he was fired in 1976.

Lumberton Sen. Sam Noble, an insurance agent and real estate developer, also says he's looking at the job, although he wouldn't run against Ingram. Nobel says he might also run for Labor Commissioner. John Brooks is expected to seek reelection to that post. Noble lost his bid for renomination this spring. He said after that defeat that he might also think about running for Congress from the 7th district if incumbent Charlie Rose runs for governor in 1984.

has accumulated won't go away. Toland offers strong evidence that the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor was no surprise: intelligence reports from a variety of sources informed Washington that Kido Butai, the formidable Japanese striking force of six carriers, two heavy cruisers, several fast battleships, a light cruiser and a train of oilers, ammo ships and a supply freighter, was steaming toward Hawaii at 14 knots.

A few days before the attack, the Matson liner Lurline, outbound to Honolulu, began picking up heavy signal traffic in Japanese from "a northeast by west area." The same radio signals were also intercepted in the headquarters of the 12th naval district in downtown San Francisco, where officers on duty immediately notified the chief of naval intelligence. On Java, Dutch intelligence officers who already had broken the Japanese consular code, picked up another message telling of imminent attacks on Hawaii and the Philippines. Gen. Heim Ter Poorten, commander of the Dutch East Indies army, took the messages next door to this friend, the American military observer, who relayed them to Washington over four different circuits. Dusko Popov, a British double agent ostensibly spying for the Nazi's on Hawaii's defenses, was astounded to learn the Japanese had successfully pulled off the raid despite all his revelations. In this time of acute national remembrance, Toland finds it hard to believe that on the eve of the attack neither Chief of Staff George Marshall nor Navy boss Adm. Harold "Betty" Stark could be located. Marshall could not even recall what he was doing that night. Next day, Pearl Harbor Sunday, he later testified he had been out horseback riding and got to his office about 11:25 a.m., although several aides reported seeing him earlier. He then made the decision to bypass the Navy's rapid transmission facilities and alert the Hawaiian commanders to these code warnings via a Western Union telegram. By that time Japanese Zeroes were screaming down and Adm. Chuichi Nagumo was messaging "Tora, Tora, Tora" — the tiger has struck. Two recent otherwise favorable biographies find Marshall heavily responsible for the Pearl Harbor fiasco. Toland also rates high among the culprits a president he says was anxious for any excuse to enter the war under persistent urging from Secretary of War Henry Stimson, Interior Secretary Harold Ickes "and other Japano-phobes." He cites the testimony of James Stahman, who in 1973 disclosed that Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox, his close friend, told him that he (Knox), Stimson, Marshall, Stark and Harry Hopkins all spent most of the night of Dec. 6 with Roosevelt at the White House. "All," accuses historian Toland, "were waiting for what they knew was coming' an attack on Pearl Harbor."

Resigns On Policy Issue

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Christopher S. Moore, deputy state treasurer, has resigned in protest of a new office policy allowing Treasurer Harlan E. Boyles to check up on employees' social contacts with business friends. Moore said he had resigned Dec. 1. He declined to discuss his decision but released a memo he wrote last month to explain his departure to friends and colleagues. Moore's memo said Boyles "feels it necessary for me to be under the surveillance of a chaperone during business social events in Raleigh." The memo said Boyles' new policy also would require Moore to obtain the treasurer's permission before visiting old friends from Wall Street. Moore worked for Morgan Stanley & Co., a New York investment firm, before coming to Raleigh in 1975. "I cannot accept such conditions ... and retain my self-respect," Moore said in his memo. Boyles said Monday the new policy was designed to avoid any appearance of conflict of interest and was not aimed directly at Moore.

The Real Santa Claus

Yes, Virginia, there really was a Saint Nicholas, though not much is known about his life. This patron saint of children was the Bishop of Myra of Asia Minor in the 4th century, and many miracles were attributed to him during his lifetime. Legend has it that he was exceedingly generous and that, on one occasion, he gave gold to each of three girls who did not have dowries and so could not be married. Much of Europe celebrates December 6 as Saint Nicholas Day, when men dressed in bishops' robes visit children and give them gifts. The Dutch imported the annual visit of Saint Nicholas to America where he is still known by his Dutch name, Sinterklaas — Santa Claus.

DO YOU KNOW — What do British children call Santa Claus?

FRIDAY'S ANSWER — The OAS is the Organization of American States.

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, DEC. 8 1982

YOUR DAILY Horoscope

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: This is your day to take a good look at your surroundings and then decide whether or not any improvements should be made. Consider the cost involved before making any changes.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Come to a better accord with allies. Do not turn a sensitive person against you by some thoughtless word or act.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Make sure you keep the promises made to others. Do something about improving your health and appearance.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Put a particular talent you have to work now and impress higher-ups. Teamwork is the key to greater success.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Take time to cement better relations with family members and make the future brighter. Be poised.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Plan how to make your possessions more attractive, but don't seek the assistance of others. Think constructively.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) A good day to plan how to have greater abundance in the future. Consult business expert for advice you need.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) If you cooperate more with allies, you can easily gain your main objective. Take time to improve your appearance.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You have good judgment early in the day, so make important decisions at this time. Use extreme caution in motion.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Ideal day to do something thoughtful for your friends and gain their goodwill. Express happiness.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Engage in activities that are more profitable and then show that you are true to your beliefs. Avoid a temptation to splurge.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Making new contacts now can help you advance in your line of endeavor. Avoid one who has an eye on your assets.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Make a new plan with a partner and then follow through in a sensible way and gain your aims. Attend the social tonight.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will know how to communicate sensibly with others and upon reaching maturity will do well in civic matters where new ideas are encouraged. Engineering would be a good field here, whether male or female.

Hunt Disavows Any Tip On Bid-Rigging

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Gov. Jim Hunt has denied knowing highway bid rigging was widespread in North Carolina years before it became public, saying he was "the governor who cleaned up bid rigging."

Hunt commented Monday after the National Congressional Club, the political organization of Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., accused the Raleigh newspaper The News and Observer of covering up a report in 1981 that Hunt had been told of the scandal in 1974 when he was lieutenant governor.

The Greensboro Daily News reported in June 1981 that former Fayetteville paving executive Wilbur Dees said another construction executive, Tom Avent of Lumberton, told Hunt at a breakfast meeting in 1974 about the bidding conspiracy.

"That's absolutely untrue," Hunt said. He said he could recall only one meeting with Avent while he was lieutenant governor, and he said they discussed another matter.

The Associated Press distributed the 1981 Daily News story statewide. In today's editions, The News and Observer said it decided against using the story because Avent would not corroborate Dees' claim that Avent had discussed bid rigging with Hunt.

The National Congressional Club ad accused the newspaper of covering up the story to avoid hurting Hunt.

"I'm the governor who cleaned up bid rigging — which apparently had been going on for years and years . . ." Hunt said.

Russia Turning To Leaf Imports

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviet Union not only is a big importer of foreign grain, it is turning more heavily to other countries for tobacco and cigarettes, according to the Agriculture Department.

Officials said that in 1981 — the most recent figures available — the Soviets imported 104,735 metric tons of leaf tobacco, up 25 percent from 1980 and 57 percent more than in 1979.

Bulgaria continued as the largest supplier. Others included Turkey, Greece, India, North Korea and Yugoslavia.

Cigarette imports rose 26 percent last year, with Bulgaria also the major supplier.

Law Assures Emission Devices Are Working

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — A Mecklenburg County program enacted last week requiring mechanics to examine carefully every car to make sure anti-pollution equipment is attached and working appears to be doing the job, officials say.
To cut down on air pollution, the week-old program requires mechanics to inspect and test each Mecklenburg car to make sure the anti-pollution equipment is being used.

Motorists who have removed the equipment in an attempt to burn cheaper leaded gas or to improve performance can't get a combined exhaust-safety sticker until they put new gear on their cars.

In addition, a 1971 state law makes it illegal for motorists to drive a car if any anti-pollution equipment is missing. Mechanics at North Carolina's 7,055 safety inspection stations are supposed to see if the factory-installed equipment is attached before they approve each car.

Officials in Charlotte and Mecklenburg County say their exhaust inspection program may mean the state anti-tampering law is being enforced more strictly there than in the rest of the state.

State officials deny that a double standard exists, but they do say the week-old inspection program in Mecklenburg County has provided mechanics specialized training and tools to spot tampered cars.

"There's probably two levels of inspection," said J. G. Wilson, director of the Division of Motor Vehicles.
Motor vehicle division figures show that of 3,614,000 cars inspected in the first nine months of 1982, just 2,084 failed because of tampered or missing pollution equipment. That's one car in every 1,734, compared to one in every 6 that failed for improper lights.

Wilson said he has no indication that the amount of tampering is higher than the 2,084 violators or that safety-inspection stations across the state aren't enforcing the law.

Poultry
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) (NCDA) — The North Carolina f.o.b. dock quoted price on broilers for this week's trading was 39.25 cents, based on full truck load lots of ice pack USDA Grade A sized 2½ to 3 pound birds. The final weighted average of 38.35 cents f.o.b. dock or equivalent. The market is firm and the live supply is moderate for a good demand. Weights desirable. Estimated slaughter of broilers and fryers in North Carolina Tuesday was 1,774,000, compared to 1,756,000 last Tuesday.

Hens
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) (NCDA) — The North Carolina hen market was 2 cents lower. Supplies moderate. Demand moderate. Prices paid per pound for hens over seven pounds at farm for Monday and Tuesday slaughter was 23 cents.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was mostly higher in active trading today in the aftermath of Monday's late rally.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, up 24.29 on Monday, slipped back 83 to 1,054.82 by noontime today. But advancing issues outnumbered declines by more than 2 to 1 among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Analysts said hopes for further declines in interest rates were playing a large role in the rally. Henry Kaufman, economist at Salomon Brothers Inc., predicted late Monday that rates would drift lower through at least the early stages of 1983.

Another important plus was the rise of International Business Machines stock, a leading glamor issue, to a record high in heavy trading Monday. IBM shares, which were up 4½ to 92¾ Monday, gained another 1¼ to 94 today.

RCA led the active list, up ¾ at 24½ in trading that included a 1.08 million-share block at 24. An offering of 6 million RCA shares was brought to market today.

The NYSE's composite index rose 41 to 82.02. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up 2.91 at 338.89.

Volume on the Big Board reached 53.15 million shares by noontime, against 29.50 million at the same point Monday.

National Guard Joins Drug War

ATLANTA (AP) — State and local police have a new ally in their war against marijuana growers: the Georgia National Guard. The guard will use infrared scanners and airborne cameras that can spot a man standing in a grove of trees from an altitude of 8,000 feet, said Phil Peters, director of the Georgia Bureau of Investigation. Information gathered by guard members will be turned over to the bureau for police action, Peters said Monday. The program also involves ground radar units and 100 aircraft.

Demolition Is Finally Done

WALPOLE, N.H. (AP) — It took two days and four dynamite blasts, but demolition crews finally toppled a 78-year-old bridge considered too weak for safe use. The steel Arch Bridge between Walpole and Bellows Falls, Vt., fell into the Connecticut River on Monday after crews weakened one end with cutting torches.

"It just went when it got ready," said engineer Thomas Currier.

Wilson Seeks An Early Vote

WILSON, N.C. (AP) — Voting for four seats on the Wilson County Board of Commissioners could come early next year under a schedule proposed Monday by the current county commissioners.

The county board Monday authorized county officials to seek legislation in the January session of the General Assembly to permit special primary and general elections. The date would be set after the U.S. Justice Department approves the voting plan.

Voting for the four seats has been delayed since June because of protests over changes in county elections laws. Some black residents have charged that changes establishing an at-large system for electing county commissioners discriminates against black candidates.

The Justice Department has approved the change to an at-large system, but election officials said that special legislation would be needed to hold the elections. Federal review of the special elections could take 120 days.

Under the plan proposed Monday, the county would issue a public notice of the election 10 days after receiving federal approval for the special elections. The primary could then be held on the first Tuesday after a 30-day waiting period.

Four commissioners on the seven-member board are seeking reelection, and had remained in office because of the delay in holding the elections. Eleven Democrats and one Republican have filed for the four seats.

County Manager Garry C. Mercer said Monday the proposal calls for the terms of the newly elected commissioners to expire on their

Cleaning Up Storm Damage

KITTY HAWK, N.C. (AP) — Outer Banks officials are in the process of cleaning damages to 22 cottages caused by a storm with hurricane-force winds that hit the area two months ago. But there isn't much left to clean up.

"About the only thing we can do now is to clean up what's down there so it will pose no danger to the public," said Nags Head town councilman Harvey Hess Jr. "There ain't a lot of hope for rebuilding any of it."

"As it stands now the only thing moving down there is the Atlantic Ocean," said Harvey K. Hess, a Kitty Hawk building inspector and zoning enforcement officer. "What will happen to the property — what's left of it — is anyone's guess."

Ten cottages, valued at more than $500,000, were destroyed in the October storm, and a dozen others were severely damaged.

Pirates Face 18th Ranked Wolfpack

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

To say that N.C. State University's Wolfpack will be the biggest challenge yet for East Carolina's young Pirates would probably be an understatement. The 18th ranked Wolfpack is loaded, to put it mildly.

One thing that won't be seen, however, is the Atlantic Coast Conference shot clock and three-point line. East Carolina Coach Charlie Harrison said that he isn't interested in playing the ACC rules in the 8 p.m. Wednesday game set for Reynolds Coliseum in Raleigh.

"It was in the contract before I came here," Harrison said, "and I attend to abide by the contract."

There have been reports that State has attempted to pressure the Pirates into accepting the league rules for the game, which are optional in inter-league contests.

"I'm not going to play ACC rules," Harrison said. "We've got 260-some odd schools in the NCAA. The NCAA opted to play by the regular rules in its tournament, and we're not going to let the ACC dictate rules to us. I've got nothing against the ACC, but what good is it going to do for us to play those rules. If we had the same rule in our conference, okay. But we don't and it would be the only time we play 'em. So we won't."

Harrison said that he has no different approach to the game with State. "It's just another game. We don't approach any game any differently. We don't over emphasize any games. They're all important at this point of the season. We're just trying to get better with each game we play."

The ECU coach said that the unbeaten Wolfpack, 2-0, is loaded with talent. "They have a talented backcourt that's been together for years. They have good size and they have good athletes," Harrison said.

"They've got a front court of 6-11, 6-8, 6-11 that we can't possibly match up against in size, and their back court is very quick and fast. Besides that, they have a great bench, too."

"We want to do some things we do well and have a chance to be in there at the end," he added.

"We're going to have to play awfully smart. We've got to stop their quick break and keep them off the boards.

Even their big guys can run." Harrison said that depth is always a concern when one goes up against a team with as many talented players as State has.

The Pirates, 2-1, come into the game following an 87-81 victory over Samford University in Birmingham, Ala., on Saturday night.

"That was one hell of a college basketball game," Harrison said. "We did some things well at times, but at times we played poorly too. We used bad judgement at times."

"But there were two positive things that came out of the game. We won on the road, and we came from behind on the road to win. And they (Samford) weren't chopped liver either. They were a pretty darn good basketball team."

The Pirates will probably start their usual lineup of 6-6 freshman Johnny Edwards at center, 6-7 Charles Green and 6-5 Barry Wright at forwards, and 6-0 Bruce Peartree and 6-1 Tony Robinson at the guards.

Edwards is the team's leading scorer and rebounder with 20.0 and 7.7 averages, respectively. Peartree is scoring at a 17.0 clip, while Wright has a 14.3 average. Green is scoring 12.7 and pulling 6.7 rebounds a game. Robinson has a 7.3 average.

The Pirates are shooting 57.4 percent from the floor and 73.8 percent from the line.

In contrast, State is expected to start 6-11 Cozell McQueen at center, 6-11 Thurl Bailey and 6-7 Lorenzo Charles at forwards, and 6-1 Dereck Whittenburg and 6-0 Sidney Lowe at guards. State's scoring is led by Whittenburg with a 21.0 average, while Bailey is hitting 20.5 per outing. Low has an 11.0 average. Bailey paces the rebounders with a 9.0 average.

Following the State game, the Pirates have just over a week off before traveling to Lafayette, La., for the Cajun Classic, which begins on Friday, Dec. 17.

"We've got exams, but we'll keep practicing," Harrison said. "We'll also be trying to get some recruiting done."

"I don't know if (the layoff) is good or not. I've never been through it with these guys. Each group responds differently."

The Pirates face Southwestern Louisiana in the opening game of the tournament.

Schulz Third Team; Two Others HM

From Staff, Wire Reports

East Carolina University defensive end Jody Schulz was named to the third-team Associated Press All-American and two other Pirate players were selected to the honorable mention team, the AP announced this morning.

Named honorable mention were ECU junior offensive guard Terry Long and junior safety Clint Harris.

Schulz, a 6-4, 235-pound senior from Chester, Md., led the Pirates in tackles this season with 105. Schulz, who transferred to ECU from Chowan College, also had 10 quarterback sacks for minus 84 yards and had seven more tackles for minus 25.

Schulz was honorable mention All-American last year.

Long, a 6-0, 279-pounder from Columbia, S.C., helped cement the ECU offensive line this season. Long, the strongest player on the ECU team, began his career at the school as a middle guard but was switched to offensive line two years ago.

Harris, a 6-0, 200-pounder from Chesapeake, Va., picked off five passes this year for 131 return yards and was in on 73 tackles — third highest on the team.

ECU finished 7-4 this season. Since 1974, ECU has had seven All-Americans. ECU has never had a first-team All-American. The Pirates have had two second-team All-Americans, Jim Bolding in 1975 and Tootie Robbins in 1981.

Herschel Walker, Georgia's Heisman Trophy-winning running back, and Anthony Carter, Michigan's game-breaking wide receiver, were named to the AP team for the third year in a row.

Four other players, including Nebraska center Dave Rimington, two-time winner of the Outland Trophy as the nation's top lineman, made the elite All-American team for the second year in a row. The other repeaters are defensive end Billy Ray Smith of Arkansas and defensive backs Terry Kinard of Clemson and Mike Richardson of Arizona State.

The AP All-American team will be featured Monday, Dec. 20, on "The Merriest of the Merry — Bob Hope's Christmas Show — A Bagful of Comedy" (NBC-TV, 8-9 p.m., EST).

Two players moved up from the second team last year to the first team in 1982 — Southern Methodist running back Eric Dickerson and Southern California middle guard George Achica.

Joining Walker and Dickerson in the backfield is Stanford quarterback John Elway. The rest of the offensive unit consists of tight end Gordon Hudson of Brigham Young, wide receiver Kenny Jackson of Penn State, tackles Bill Fralic of Pitt and Don Mosebar of Southern Cal, guards Steve Korte of Arkansas and Bruce Matthews of Southern Cal and placekicker Chuck Nelson of Washington.

Also named to the defensive unit were outside linebacker Wilber Marshall of Florida, tackles Gary Lewis of Oklahoma State and Gabriel Rivera of Texas Tech, linebackers Ricky Hunley of Arizona, Mark Stewart of Washington and Darryl Talley of West Virginia, back Terry Hoage of Georgia and punter Jim Arnold of Vanderbilt.

Fralic, a 6-foot-5, 270-pounder, is the only sophomore on the All-America first

Jets Capture Fourth Straight

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — The high-flying New York Jets are looking forward to the National Football League playoffs while Detroit Coach Monte Clark looks for the team he knew before the player strike.

The Jets, behind the deadly passing of Richard Todd to Wesley Walker, beat the Lions 28-13 Monday night. It was their fourth straight victory since an opening-day defeat to the Miami Dolphins.

Todd, taking advantage of Detroit's attempt to cover Walker man-on-man with defensive back Wayne Smith, completed 23 of 32 passes for 384 yards.

Walker caught five for 164 yards and the fleet, shifty wide receiver turned three of them into touchdowns of 56, 41 and 19 yards — all against the hapless Smith.

"We were just trying to take advantage of what Detroit was giving us and that was the short pass," said Jets Coach Walt Michaels. "In this league, you take what the other team gives you."

The Jets held Detroit to 274 total yards while Todd & Co. were rolling up 429.

"Our defense played as well in the first half as we can play," Michaels said. "The whole team picked each other up the rest of the game."

The Jets led 21-3 at halftime, but the Lions came back with a 48-yard bomb from Gary Danielson to Mark Nichols in the third-quarter to pull to within 21-10. Detroit then had a chance to make a game of it when Todd fumbled after being sacked and the Lions Stan White fell on the ball at the Jets 1 yard line.

team. Hoage, Hudson, Hunley, Jackson, Marshall and Walker are juniors.

Walker, a 6-1, 220-pounder, has rushed for 5,259 yards in three seasons and ranks third on the all-time NCAA rushing list. He needs 724 yards to pass

But Billy Sims fumbled trying to dive over a pile on second down and Ken Schroy recovered for the Jets.

"That's the most disappointed I've felt and the most embarrassed I've been," Clark said. "I don't know how to start on a night like this, but the defensive secondary is not a bad place."

"We didn't execute the basics. The very things we've emphasized since Thanksgiving. We can't catch balls and we can't cover."

"We never had more walk-throughs over the goal line in short-yardage situations in our life. But, we fumble when we get in a game."

After spotting Detroit a 3-0 lead on a 31-yard first-period Eddie Murray field goal, the Jets took the lead for keeps at 12:51 of the opening quarter on a 1-yard run by Dwight Crutchfield that capped a 63-yard, seven-play drive.

Todd and Walker teamed up for two TDs in the second quarter and the 19-yarder in the fourth.

"We weren't picking on anyone in particular," Walker said. "We just called the right plays at the right time. Give the coaches credit for that."

Murray added a 22-yard field goal in the fourth quarter for the fading Lions who won their first two games but have dropped all three — playing poorly — since the end of the 57-day strike.

Pitt's Tony Dorsett, the leader with 6,082 yards.

Elway finished the season with 262 pass completions in 405 attempts for 3,242 yards and a nation-leading 24 touchdowns. His 774 career completions are tops in major college history and he also ranks among the all-time leaders in passing yards, total offense and scoring passes.

SMU's Dickerson alternated at tailback for much of his career but still set a Southwest Conference career rushing mark of 4,450 yards, breaking Earl Campbell's record of 4,443.

After a slow start, partially due to nagging ailments, Carter caught 28 passes this season for a whopping 628 yards and seven touchdowns. He is Michigan's all-time scoring leader and holds the NCAA record for highest average recorded per play for all-purpose yardage. He also holds the Big Ten record for career touchdown receptions.

Jackson was Penn State's big-play receiver as the Nittany Lions switched to a passing offense in 1982 and finished the regular season ranked No. 2 nationally in The AP poll. Jackson caught 41 passes for 697 yards and seven touchdowns. Hudson was the nation's fourth leading receiver — and second among tight ends — with 67 receptions for 928 yards.

Georgia's Hoage, who missed one game with an injury, led the nation in interceptions, swiping 12 in 10 contests. Nelson of Washington was successful on 25 of 26 field goal tries — he set an NCAA mark of 30 in a row — while Vanderbilt's Arnold had a 45.8-yard punting average and his booming kicks helped the Commodores lead the nation with a 42.1 net average.

ECU Runners Tabbed As AA

East Carolina freshmen Chris Brooks and Natham McCorkle have been picked as high school All-Americans in track as chosen by the High School Federation checklist and the Track and Field News.

Brooks is a 6-3, 170-pound long and triple jumper from Broughton High School. Brooks long jumped 25-9 in high school, a half-inch off the world high school record held by Carl Lewis.

Brooks' 50-2½ triple jump in the National High School track meet last summer was only a quarter-inch off the national high school record. Brooks also had a jump of 50-6½ in the Regional Junior Olympics, which would have given him the national record but the meet was unofficial.

Brooks also holds the North Carolina state record of 47.3 in the 400-meters and was a member of the national record holding mile relay team, anchoring it in 3:12.0.

McCorkle, a Newton-Conover product, received All-American status by the Federation for his 21.3 clocking in the 200 meters, one of the top five times in the nation.

The 5-7, 160-pounder won the North Carolina state 100- and 200-meter races and received several football scholarship offers from, among others, Wake Forest, Clemson and West Virginia.

The East Carolina men's indoor track season opens Saturday at the Patriot Invitational in Fairfax, Pa.

Weitzel Is Most Valuable

Stacey Weitzel has been named Most Valuable Player for the second year in a row by the East Carolina University volleyball team.

A 5-8 senior hitter, Weitzel is from Severna Park, Md.

The Coach's Award was presented to Diane Lloyd, a 5-5 senior setter from Chapel Hill.

The Most Improved Award for the team went to Lita Lamas, a 5-9 junior hitter from Miami, Fla., and Miami Dade Community College.

The Lady Pirates experienced their best season ever this past year, going 26-15. It was their first winning season in five years. Lynn Davidson completed her second year as head coach of the team this season.

Panthers Expect To Challenge Again

By RICK SCOPPE
Reflector Sports Writer
BETHEL — North Pitt, which advanced to the Eastern Regionals last year, should again challenge for the Eastern Carolina Conference championship in 1982-83. So what else is new?

North Pitt is coming off a year in which it was 21-8 and shared the ECC title. Two starters — senior forwards Greg Hines and Dennis Bradley — return. The pair form the nucleus from which Coach Cobby Deans will build. "I think we're right on the verge of (being as good as we were a year ago)," Deans said. "I really do. I wouldn't trade this club for any of the ones we've had the last several years."

The Panthers, who are 1-1 and meet Rose tonight on the road, lost four players — all of whom started at some point last season. Lost to graduation are Richard Heller, Vince Parker and Toby Crandol. A fourth player — guard Mitchell Cox — transferred to D.H. Conley for his last season.

Deans feels the Panthers are already on their way to filling the voids left by graduation. "We're young and it's going to take us a while to jell. Defensively, I'm real pleased. Offensively, we've been spotty," Deans said. "But, I think time will solve that."

The Panthers start only two players over 6-0 and have no one on the squad over 6-3, which has had a definite effect on Deans' strategy as he looks towards the coming season.

"We're getting good defensive play at the point guard and because of our size we're going to have to have pressure at that point. We have got to put a lot of pressure on the ball.

"We're going to have a good defensive ballclub," Deans said. "And for us to be the type of ballclub we want, we're going to have to keep up the pressure on defense."

Deans also knows what his team most do offensively to win. "We're not getting the ball inside like we should," he said. "We've got to try to get it inside so we can have some decent outside shots."

Deans will start either three or four seniors this year. Besides Bradley (6-1, 190) and Hines (6-0, 165), Deans will start Greg Briley (5-8, 160) at the point guard and Charles Harris (6-0, 160) or junior Keith Clark (5-8, 160) at the off guard.

Harris (6-0, 155). All three are juniors.

Deans said he was particularly pleased with both Keel and Briley, who replaced Cox at guard.

"Dennis and Daniel should be a good twosome. Dennis is strong, of course, but Daniel does a lot of things only coaches and students of the game appreciate," Deans said.

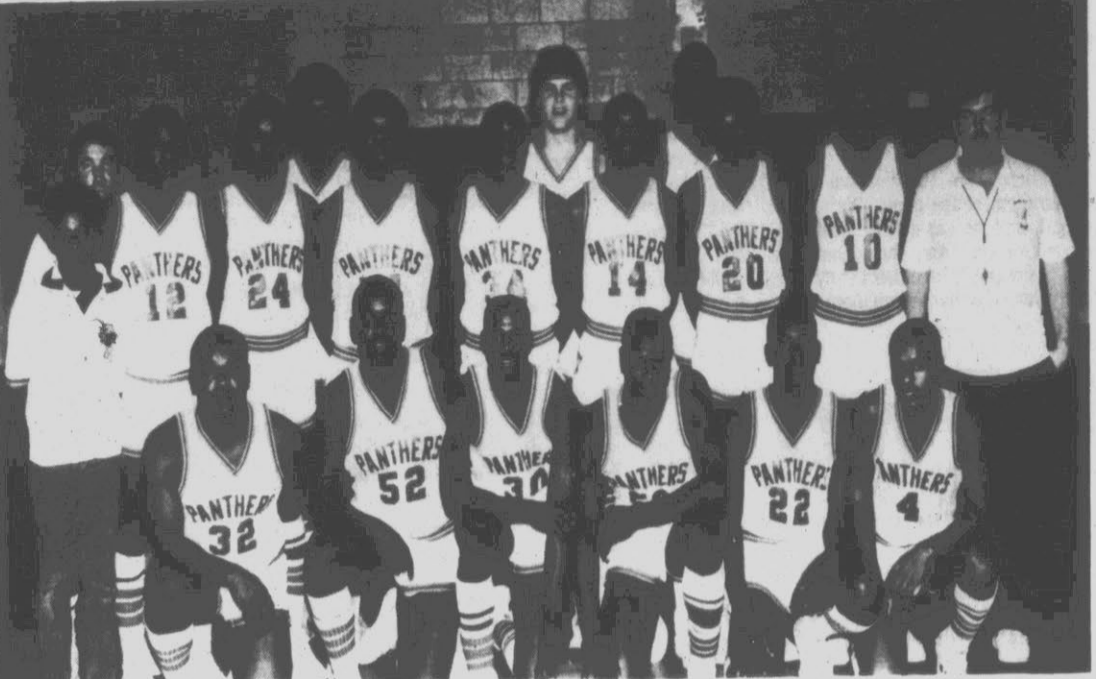

As for Briley, Deans said:

"He's just taken over for Mitch. He's doing a lot of positive things."

Others on the team are: center Harold Northern (6-0, 210 senior), guards Troy Parker (5-9, 155 junior), Quinton Yarell (5-9, 150 junior) and David Langley (5-9, 200 senior) and forwards Ronnie Ebron (6-2, 170), Raymond Little (6-0, 165 junior) and Ronnie Perkins (6-0, 200 junior).

As for the ECC race, Deans figures four teams have a shot at first: Farmville Central, SouthWest Edgecombe, Ayden-Grifton and North Pitt. "Farmville should be the team to beat," Deans said. "They've got experience and fairly good size."

And North Pitt? "We're going to plan to be in there somewhere," Deans said. "We've got a little work to do, but that's part of it."

North Pitt Panthers

Pant-HERS Have Confidence; Seek To Challenge For Title

By RICK SCOPPE
Reflector Sports Writer
BETHEL — North Pitt head coach Randy Avery said his Pant-HERS have found the confidence they lacked a year ago, and he hopes the discovery will help carry his team to the districts.

"Last year, we went into ballgames, let's say, 10 to 15 points behind. But, but we've got confidence this year," Avery said. "Last year we had problems winning close games. This year we hope to win some close games."

Avery attributed the newfound confidence to a banner volleyball year — many of the same girls play both sports — and a season of maturity. North Pitt has four returning starters, but only one is a senior.

"I have a lot of confidence in this team," Avery said. "We have a lot of potential."

No one has more potential than 6-1 sophomore center Studie Sharpe, who pulled down 16 rebounds and scored 16 points Friday in the Pant-HERS' 33-31 win over Roanoke.

Sharpe leads a front line considered one of the best in the Eastern Carolina Conference. Joining Sharpe up front are forwards Sherri Bradley (5-8, junior) and Delores Pittman (5-11, junior).

Pittman had 18 rebounds against Roanoke. "Delores has been awesome," Avery said. "I've nicknamed her the 'Exterminator.'"

At one guard is Linda Harrell (5-8, senior). The other guard slot will go to either Peggy Latham (5-3, junior), Patricia Daniels (5-7, senior) or Joycelene Brown (5-5, sophomore).

Few Changes On Grid Poll

By The Associated Press
Georgia and Penn State are 1-2 in the final regular-season Associated Press poll and their meeting in the Sugar Bowl Jan. 1 should decide the national college football champion. So where does that leave Southern Methodist, whose record is blemished only by a tie?

"If Penn State beats Georgia and we win, we should be No. 1," SMU running back Eric Dickerson said Monday. "Every team would have a loss but us."

which rallied from a 16-7 deficit in the final period to defeat Hawaii 37-16. SMU had 869 points and UCLA held fifth place with 782 points.

Pitt, which began the season No. 1, jumped from seventh to sixth with 719 points and defending national champion Clemson climbed from eighth to seventh with 635.

Then came Texas with 622 points, Washington with 564 and West Virginia, with 511.

The Second Ten consists of Arizona State, Oklahoma, LSU, Arkansas, Southern Cal, Maryland, Ohio State, Auburn, Michigan and Tulsa.

Last week, it was Arizona State, Texas, LSU, Oklahoma, Florida State, USC, Maryland, Ohio State, Auburn and Michigan. Tulsa, 10-1, replaced Florida State in the Top Twenty.

Forward Regina Cox (5-9, freshman) is the top reserve. Avery had over 25 girls tryout for the team — the most ever — and he kept 15 players, five of whom are freshman. Only three are seniors.

Filling out the Pant-HER lineup are: guards Peggy Purvis (5-6, junior), Peggy Jenkins (5-0, freshman) and Oliva Whitfield (5-3, senior), center Penny Corey (6-0, freshman) and forwards Kim Farmer (5-7, freshman), Bernistine Wilkins (5-9, sophomore) and Tina Wiggins (5-6, freshman).

"Inside is where our power is going to be. And rebounding will be one of our strong points, of course," Avery said. Offensively, Avery said: "We're going to do our best to play under control. If we can become more consistent on offense — that's what I'm looking for."

"I don't expect us to score a lot of points, but I don't expect anyone to score a lot on us, either. Defense has been one of our strong points the past few years."

The Pant-HERS, 2-0 going into tonight's game against Greenville Rose, figure to be among the teams to challenge for the ECC title after finishing tied for third a year ago. But, Avery still picked SouthWest Edgecombe, the defending state champion, as the team to beat.

"I guess tradition says you have to say SouthWest," Avery said. "But, C.B. Aycock is going to be strong. Really, I can't think of any team that won't be improved."

"We're hoping to make it to the districts, and anything after that would be great."

Georgia, 11-0 and Penn State 10-1, both idle last weekend, held their positions and so did third-ranked Nebraska, 11-1, and No. 4 SMU, 10-0-1.

In fact, there were only three changes in the poll. Texas whopped Arkansas and moved from 12th to eighth while the Razorbacks fell from sixth to 14th. Florida State, No. 15 last week, lost to Florida 13-10 and fell out of the Top Twenty, to be replaced by Tulsa, 10-1, which moved in at No. 20.

If Georgia, 11-0, wins the Sugar Bowl, they should have clear title to the national championship in the poll to be released at 6:30 a.m. EST Monday, Jan. 3, 1983. If 10-1 Penn State wins, it should have the inside track, having knocked off top-ranked Georgia and handing Nebraska its only regular-season loss. But where does that leave SMU, 10-0-1 if the Mustangs beat Pitt in the Cotton Bowl?

Nebraska, which plays Louisiana State in the Orange Bowl, has one slight hope.

"The only thing you can really do is hope for a tie between Georgia and Penn State," says Cornhusker center Dave Rimington. "Then if we win impressively, maybe we can sneak in there."

Georgia received 46 of 50 first-place ballots and 995 of a possible 1,000 votes from the nationwide panel of sports writers and sportscasters. Penn State had two first-place votes and 952 points.

The other two first-place ballots went to 11-1 Nebraska,

NCAA Accuses Arizona Of Improper Practices

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — The NCAA has accused the University of Arizona of improper conduct in 18 areas of athletic policies and practices between 1971 and the spring of 1980.

President Henry Koffler said the university has been asked to reply to the allegations to the National Collegiate Athletic Association's committee on infractions by April 1, and that, "We will begin immediately to develop procedures for preparation of that response."

Included among the charges were allegations that student-athletes were paid for work not performed and received financial assistance beyond commonly accepted educational expenses; that members of the football coaching staff and university boosters gave extra benefits and improper financial aid to student athletes and that student athletes received financial aid not administered by the university nor permitted by NCAA legislation.

The allegations of wrongdoing, if upheld and approved by the NCAA, could result in sanctions against the university ranging from reprimand and censure to probation, ineligibility for championships and postseason events, ineligibility for television appearances and reduction of athletic grants-in-aid.

At a news conference, Koffler said he would "develop appropriate review mechanisms" in the next few days to investigate the allegations and respond to them. He declined to reveal specifics of the letter he received Saturday night. But he provided a 1½-page summary of the 18 categories of charges it included.

Athletic Director Cedric Dempsey said, "The NCAA has rules and regulations and as a member we're obligated to follow them."

Koffler and Dempsey, who both assumed their posts on July 1, said the university will cooperate fully. Koffler said he "was not shocked," noting he "inherited hundreds of thousands of wonderful things, also inherited troublesome things."

SHOPLIFTING
makes you a criminal!

And criminals do get caught!
Now the stores are wise to shoplifters, and sophisticated equipment to prove it. Closed circuit cameras, undercover people, specially treated tagging systems... are all used to successfully catch shoplifters. And the stores are taking legal actions! Shoplifters face even stiffer fines... even jail when they're caught. The humiliation of getting arrested, and a criminal record that could affect future schooling, jobs, credit rating, and the respect and trust of family and friends. Shoplifting... like any other crime... just doesn't pay!

Sho'wdown Set For Top Cage Teams

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (AP) — Virginia Coach Terry Holland says he has more on his mind than the fact the Cavaliers' game Saturday night with Georgetown will match the top-ranked college basketball team in the country against the third-ranked Hoyas.

"It's going to be a heckuva week for us," Holland said Monday after his Cavaliers once again were given the No. 1 ranking by The Associated Press in a nationwide poll of sports writers and broadcasters.

Virginia received 49 first-place votes and 1,149 points to 1,069 points and six first-place votes for Kentucky, which moved up to second at the expense of Georgetown. The Hoyas, extended into overtime to beat Western Kentucky 70-66, got three first-place votes and 1,018 points.

Not only do the Cavaliers play Wednesday night at Duke in the first Atlantic Coast Conference game under its new rules — a 30-second shot clock and a three-point basket — but they have exams this week and leave after the Georgetown game for a trip to Japan.

"I'm sure our players are finding it very difficult because of exams," Holland said.

But he added that "our players have always shown the ability to concentrate on the game at hand. The Georgetown game has attracted so much attention, but I think our players — as much as humanly possible — are concentrating on playing Duke."

How important is the Georgetown game? "I just don't think it has any overwhelming importance except that you have two very fine basketball teams who certainly could wind up in Albuquerque (for the NCAA Final Four)," Holland said. "We should enjoy it as a great spectacle and treat it as such."

Holland said the Cavaliers will treat the game as any other — "we'll try to establish a game plan and try to follow it, and Georgetown will do the same. Any adjustments will have to be made during the game."

Nor does Holland view the matchup of Virginia's 7-foot-4 Ralph Sampson and the Hoyas' 7-foot Patrick Ewing as the end of the world. "Maybe one of them will have to make an adjustment," he said.

Kentucky climbed into the No. 2 spot at least in part because of a 93-79 victory over Villanova, which fell from the No. 4 spot to No. 10.

Memphis State moved up one spot to fourth, followed by UCLA, Indiana, Iowa, Missouri, Houston and Villanova.

Making up the Second Ten are Alabama, St. John's, N.Y., Louisville, Tennessee, Arkansas, Marquette, North Carolina, North Carolina State, Nevada-Las Vegas and newcomer Purdue, which slipped into Top Twenty with an upset 69-63 victory over Louisville and a 50-39 decision over Fresno State.

Dropping out was No. 19 Oregon State, which beat Portland but lost to Fresno State.

Seventeen of the Top Twenty are unbeaten. The only losers have been Villanova, Louisville and defending national champion North Carolina.

Campbell Sparks Tigers To Win Over Citadel

CLEMSON, S.C. (AP) — Junior guard Marc Campbell came off the bench and scored 15 points as Clemson came from behind to beat The Citadel 63-56 in a non-conference basketball game Monday.

The Tigers, who trailed by as many as 9 points in the first half before coming back to knot the score at 25-all at intermission, evened their record at 3-3 with the win. The Citadel is 2-2 on the year.

The cadets followed the hot shooting of Louie Gilbert, who had 19 points on the night, and Felipe de las Pozas, who had 12, in a first half surge that saw them score 9 of the first 11 points of the game.

Clemson came back behind Campbell and David Shaffer, who finished with 11, to take the lead at 20-19 with 6:44 left in the half. But The Citadel fought back to a 25-all tie.

Clemson regained the advantage at the start of the second half with an 8-2 scoring burst, then allowed the visitors to close to within 2 late in the half before Shaffer and Campbell combined down the stretch to put it out of reach.

The play of Campbell, who had appeared in only two games for a total of eight minutes this season, came as something of a surprise as he played 30 minutes against The Citadel and turned in five assists and a blocked shot in addition to his scoring effort.

"The main reason Campbell played was that he had a good practice yesterday," Clemson coach Bill Foster said. "Also, Chris Michael (a freshman) was still suffering from a leg injury."

As for the game itself, Foster wasn't surprised with the difficulty his team had in winning.

"We just couldn't put the game away," he said. "But any kind of win looks good now. The Citadel is an experienced team. They played an excellent game."

The Citadel coach Les Robinson agreed.

"We felt like we should have won and I'm very sorry we didn't," Robinson said. "The main thing I want the kids to know is that they should have and possibly could have won the game."

GCA Juniors Defeat Chicod

CHICOD — Greenville Christian Academy's junior high school basketball teams split a pair of basketball games with Chicod Junior High School yesterday.

GCA won the boys' game, 34-27. Greenville was led by Thomas Taylor with 22 points, while Mike Mills led Chicod with nine.

In the girls' game, Chicod took a 17-11 win. Theresa Stanley led Chicod with seven points, while Paige Bragg has four to lead GCA.

Opening lead: Nine of ♠.
Card lore has given the name of the "Curse of Scotland" to the nine of diamonds, possibly because of its connection with the Massacre of Glencoe. It meant different things to our declarers in a team of four match.

At both tables four hearts was reached in quick time. Note that neither West felt it obligatory to enter the auction with such a shabby club suit. That sort of overall courts a penalty double for a set of titanic proportions.

At both tables West led the nine of diamonds. At one table declarer covered with the ten and captured the queen with the ace. He drew trumps in three rounds and led a diamond to the seven and East's eight. Back came the jack of spades, and declarer finessed the queen only to see West produce the king. Declarer still had to lose a diamond trick and the ace of clubs for down one.

The other declarer looked more deeply into the hand. If East, a passed hand, had the K-Q-8 of diamonds and the ace of clubs, the contract was doomed to fail. Declarer would be forced to take a losing spade finesse before he could set the diamonds up for a discard. But if West held the ace of clubs, the contract was almost unstoppable, provided East, the danger hand, could be kept off lead for the moment.

The solution was brilliant—declarer ducked the nine of diamonds in dummy! East could not afford to put up an honor without sacrificing a trick in the suit, so he too played low. And declarer allowed the nine of diamonds to win! He was quite prepared to lose two diamond tricks and a club—he wanted to avoid taking the spade finesse if possible.

West could do no better than exit with a trump. Declarer drew the outstanding trumps, cashed the ace of diamonds and gave East a diamond trick. East duly shifted to a spade, but it was too late. Declarer rose with the ace of spades, entered dummy with a diamond and sluffed the queen of spades on the 13th diamond. Making four-odd.

Lite Pizza To Go With A Diet Drink

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP)—Weight-watchers who feel guilty eating calorie-laced foods with their diet drinks and light beers now have something they can sink their teeth into—"Lite Pizza."

Pizza Transit Authority Inc., the Chapel Hill-based fast food franchising company, has introduced Lite Pizza—which has a fraction of the sodium and 20 percent fewer calories than standard pizza fare.

The new product already has debuted in the Durham-Chapel Hill area and probably will arrive in Charlotte's three PTA outlets this month, local franchise owners say.

The product already has been swiftly accepted in Durham and Chapel Hill, says PTA President James R. Cherney. He says sales at one store increased 30 percent after Lite Pizza's introduction.

Although there is no perceptible difference between standard PTA pizza and Lite Pizza, Cherney said, a reformulated sauce and dough extract some of the calories and most of the salt. PTA worked with Duke University Hospital to perfect the recipes, he said.

One-third of a 12-inch Lite Pizza has 414 calories and 480 milligrams of sodium. That's fewer calories and less sodium than a McDonald's Big Mac, Hardee's Deluxe hamburger or Kentucky Fried Chicken dinner, Cherney said.

And don't think that just because you're eating Lite Pizza, you won't get any goodies on it. A PTA Lite Pizza comes with crust, sauce, mushrooms, onions, peppers, black olives, beef sausage and cheese.

Cherney says the country's preoccupation with sleek physiques and good health resulted in the new product.

He says he expects Lite Pizza to appeal to the over-35 market. The product will do better in residential cities such as Charlotte than college towns like Durham and Chapel Hill, he predicts.

"I think it definitely will expand the pizza market," he said.

Study Of Gray Whales On 'Nova' Illustrates Big Advance By TV

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—

Science has come a long way on television since "Mr. Wizard" wowed us with his studio experiments. Tonight, "Nova" examines gray whales up close and intimately. Next Tuesday, the science program hitches a ride on the world's high-speed trains.

Compared to ABC's competition of "Happy Days" and "Laverne and Shirley," public television's "Nova" is a worthwhile alternative. But it doesn't get an unqualified recommendation—its programs this week and next are spotty.

Devoting a full hour to one subject seems too large an undertaking for "Nova," which has less money to spend than the networks do for hour-long documentaries. Walter Cronkite's "Universe," a 30-minute program, did better, tackling several current science developments on each broadcast.

But CBS gave "Universe" only a summer showcase, so PBS deserves credit for bringing science to viewers year-round. This is the 10th season of "Nova," which has a funding commitment from Johnson & Johnson to continue the series next season.

One wonders why the gray whale—not the most interesting or photogenic whale—is the only star tonight.

The photography of the gray whale in motion is disappointing, not the attractive spectacle offered on other animal programs. In fact, at times it's difficult to see which end of the whale is up.

In repose, however, the docile mammals allow humans to get close enough to touch. The animals have no instinctive fear of man. In Southern California, people pay $10 to spend three hours with the grays. You can even spend $1,000 for a long-term excursion to their homes.

"Nova" notes that these whales, protected by 1937 legislation that prohibits their hunting, are worth more alive than dead because of their popularity with tourists.

Old footage shows the dismantling of the animals by the whaling industry, which once stripped the huge beasts and processed their blubber into oil and used the bones for such things as corsets.

The gray whale, which is 35 feet long and weighs 45 tons, is also seen in a mating scene, a courtship that begins on its annual migration from Alaska to California.

"Nova" is more interesting next week when it returns to land and investigates the high-speed trains of Europe and Japan. But the show bogs down late in the broadcast with cocktail party hand-shaking, when businessmen in Japan and the United States consider deals to bring the supertrains here.

Since 1964, when the Japanese introduced its 130 mph Shinkansen, dubbed The Bullet, it has serviced 2 billion riders without accident or passenger injury. Tracks must be scrupulously maintained, and the program shows night workers enthusiastically scrubbing the equipment for the next day.

America's fastest train, The Metroliner between New York and Washington, averages 80 mph. A Metroliner official maintains that it could go 130 mph if it didn't share the rails with heavier and slower freight trains.

Although French trains hold the rail record of 236 mph, Japan and Germany are racing to build the first passenger service using magnetically levitated vehicles. These trains travel inches above the rails at speeds up to 500 mph.

Scientists at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology actually perfected small-scale models of these mag-lev trains 10 years ago, but the program's federal financing was cut. As the narrator of the broadcast says, the MIT experimenters "were much better scientists than salesmen."

Five Traffic Collisions In Greenville Yesterday

An estimated $7,300 property damage resulted from five traffic collisions investigated by Greenville police Monday.

Officers said heaviest damage resulted from a 12:55 p.m. collision at the intersection of Rountree Drive and Howard Circle involving cars driven by William Charles Shiver of 614 Clark St. and Dennis Ray Baker of 1806A W. Third St.

Damage was estimated at $2,000 to the Baker car and $50 to the Shiver vehicle.

Cars driven by Barbara Diane Hinsley of Route 1, Greenville, and Brenda Bost

Evans of 403 S. Eastern St. collided about 7:43 a.m. at the intersection of 14th Street and Red Banks Road, causing an estimated $1,000 damage to the Hinsley car and $800 damage to the Evans auto.

An estimated $800 damage resulted to each of two cars involved in an 11:37 a.m. mishap at the intersection of Evans and Reade streets.

Police identified the drivers of the cars involved as George Richard Campbell of Route 7, Chapel Hill, and Fentress Hughes Chappell Jr. of 118 Manning Drive.

A 12:10 p.m. collision at the intersection of 10th and Evans streets involved cars driven by Bernard Wayne Dixon Jr. of 210A Scott Dorm and Lori Ann Tillman of 426 Tyler Dorm.

Investigators estimated damage at $450 to the Dixon car and $500 to the Tillman auto.

Cars driven by Carolyn Jean Faison of Ayden, and Teresa Dean Nelson of Route 4, Greenville, collided about 8:50 a.m. on Memorial Drive, near the Maxwell Street intersection, resulting in an estimated $200 damage to the Faison vehicle and $700 damage to the Nelson car.

Gunman Dies Of Wounds

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The second gunman in the apparent attempted robbery of a Raleigh attorney died Monday of gunshot wounds received during the incident.

Mark Cleeland Italiano, 34, of Virginia Beach, Va., a former Newport News, Va., policeman, died at Wake Medical Center, a hospital spokesman said. He had been shot once in the head.

Italiano had been in critical condition since Nov. 24, when two men apparently tried to rob Karl E. Knudsen of $8,000 in diamonds and jewelry.

Another Virginia Beach man, Roy C. Coley III, died at Knudsen's house the night of the incident.

Knudsen shot both men with a .38-caliber pistol, police said.
