Hunt Gives Crime Fighting Program

By MARY ANNE RHYNE
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Gov. Jim Hunt presented the General Assembly with a crime-fighting package Tuesday aimed at keeping hardened criminals, both young and old, away from society.

But some legislators questioned the constitutionality of some of the measures outlined by Hunt in a 30-minute speech to a joint session of the state House and Senate.

To keep dangerous criminals behind bars, Hunt proposed that judges be allowed to deny bond for people who commit crimes while free on bail.

Under current laws, judges may deny bail only when the person is charged with first-degree murder.

"Those people don't have any business being out on the street," Hunt said, adding that judges need the power "to keep them locked up to protect the people of North Carolina."

"You can't deny anybody's bond or bail," said Sen. Cecil Jenkins, D-Cabarrus. "We still have to remember you're innocent until proven guilty."

Similar questions were raised about part of Hunt's drunken driving package, which he reviewed during much of his speech Tuesday. The controversial part of the bill would allow magistrates to revoke a driver's license for 10 days if he had a blood alcohol content higher than 10 percent.

Hunt highlighted other parts of his "Safe Roads Act," which would raise the drinking age from 18 to 19, set out guidelines for sentencing and provide a mandatory jail term for the most serious offenders.

Hunt also outlined a plan Tuesday for dealing with "young people (who) are criminals who can be reached only with a strict hand." He recommended allowing judges to send young criminals to training schools for a definite period of time.

Under current laws, judges may sentence young offenders to training school for an indefinite period of time or send them to adult jails.

He also called for keeping records of felonies committed by young people, allowing judges to review juvenile records once the young person has grown up and is tried as an adult, and ordering parents to participate in treatment programs for juvenile offenders.

Some of those recommendations were questioned by Sen. R.C. Soles, D-Columbus, a judiciary committee chairman and member of Hunt's Crime Commission that developed many of the proposals.

"This seems to be against what we've been doing for all these years," Soles said.

He noted that current laws allow 16-year-olds to petition to clear their juvenile record so they can start as adults with a clean record. Soles said changing the law might remove the incentive to keep a clean adult record.

Sen. Bob Swain, D-Buncombe, said he was not

Eaton Plans Statement

Eaton Corp. was expected to make a major announcement this afternoon regarding the future of the Greenville plant.

A plant spokesman, contacted Tuesday, said that he could not comment on the subject of the announcement other than to say Eaton would release a press statement after lunch today.

Frank Muller, plant manager, was in a staff meeting for most of this morning, a spokesman said, and could not be reached for a comment.

The company announced plans in September of 1973 to build a 310,000 square foot facility in Greenville and said the plant would be a major center for the fabrication and assembly operations in the manufacture of Yale fork lift trucks. Eaton began assembly operations for gas powered fork lifts here last fall in a new facility adjacent to the original plant.

The company's industrial truck division, which built the plant on a 70-acre site, has been recognized as the largest manufacturer of electric fork lift trucks in the world.

Depression in the industrial truck market resulted in production cutbacks at the plant and several employee layoffs have taken place here as the division attempted to maintain local operations.

The firm, headquartered in Cleveland, Ohio, is a worldwide manufacturer of automotive, truck materials handling, industrial and consumer products.

Eaton, a multinational corporation was formed as Eaton Manufacturing in 1911 and was involved primarily in the production of Eaton two-speed truck axles. The company merged with Yale and Towne Co. in 1963 to form Eaton, Yale and Towne and in April 1971, the firm's name was changed to Eaton Corp.

N.C. Suspect In Rape Detained

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — A 30-year-old man wanted in connection with the rape of an elderly North Carolina woman was arrested Tuesday on a warrant of unlawful flight to avoid prosecution, the FBI said.

The arrest of Ronnie S. Wright of Dunn culminated an intensive investigation by the FBI, the state police and eight local police departments.

The county Democratic Executive Committee will meet Thursday at 7 p.m. in the Pitt County Courthouse to select two members of a committee which will recommend a replacement for Rep. Sam Bundy, who died of a heart attack in Raleigh last week.

Executive Committee Chairman George Saleeby said this morning that persons interested in the House seat are "invited to be at the meeting." Saleeby said that, after the committee members have been selected, those interested in the House appointment will be given an opportunity to speak.

A four-member committee — two members from Greene County and two from Pitt — will recommend Bundy's successor. The appointment will be made by Gov. Jim Hunt, who is bound by law to follow the committee's recommendation.

Each county has a standing State House of Representatives Executive Committee. Lionel Moore and Richard Price serve as committee members from Greene County.

Fredrica Jacobson and Mary Williams, both of Greenville, were selected as members from Pitt last spring before Bethel and Carolina townships were moved to another House district during redistricting. Pitt's membership on the district committee has not been updated since that time.

Because of this, new members have to be named before the district committee can make a recommendation.

Saleeby said he would call Sen. Russell Walker, chairman of the state Democratic Party, as soon after the Thursday night meeting as possible in order to have Walker name a chairman for the selection committee.

"I have no idea" when the committee will meet "to decide on an individual," Saleeby said. However, he said he would "encourage them to do it Friday or Saturday."

Local Democratic sources indicate that speculation for a successor includes former Farmville Mayor Linwood Mercer; Walter

Jones Jr. of Farmville, son of the veteran congressman; Farmville's present Mayor Rusty Duke; Greenville real estate broker Mark Tipton; Mark Owens of Fountain, an attorney and chairman of the Pitt County Board of Education; former East Carolina University Chancellor Leo Jenkins; and Kenneth Dews of Winterville, farmer, businessman and chairman of the board of directors of Home Federal Savings and Loan Assn.

Several party leaders, who asked not to be identified, said Rep. Jones has contacted a number of executive committee members asking that they support his son.

Two ZIPs For Greenville

By MARY SCHULKEN
Reflector Staff Writer

If you get your mail at Greenville's main post office, you have a new ZIP code to memorize.

Greenville's Main Post Office at 300 W. Second St. now bears the ZIP code 27835 — a change that gives the city dual ZIP codes.

"Practically all of the large cities in North Carolina have multiple ZIP code listings," said H. Lloyd Mills, Greenville's postmaster, "and this points us in that direction."

Mills said only the main office ZIP has changed. Persons having post office boxes there should immediately begin using the new numbers along with persons mailing to the main post office.

The rest of the city, he added, including the East Carolina University Station and the rural routes, will keep the 27834 ZIP code.

Mills said areas with "substantial growth" across the country were designated for new ZIP codes and that the Greenville Post Office fell into this category.

"We are on the go," he said. "Greenville is growing so large we need to be a multiple ZIP code service and this is the first step."

Customers with boxes at the main post office who have preprinted stationery with the old ZIP code shouldn't worry, though, said Mills. The stationery will be accepted and shouldn't cause any delay in delivery.

"It should be no problem for us or them," he said.

In addition to the multiple ZIP code listings, postal customers will soon have the ZIP-plus-four codes to master, noted Mills. "ZIP plus four officially starts in October of this year," he said. "Each block is assigned a four-digit code that accompanies the regular ZIP."

The ZIP-plus-four code for the main post office is 27835-1135, he noted.

The reason for the changes, said the postmaster, is postal automation. "Within the next year, new equipment will be installed in processing centers," explained Mills. "This equipment will read the address and the ZIP-plus-four codes and print a bar code in the lower right-hand corner of the envelope. The bar code will then be read by a bar code reader for distribution."

This system, said Mills, is "ten times more efficient than manual handling and five times more efficient than our present letter-sorting machines."

The Proposals In Brief

WASHINGTON (AP) — Here, at a glance, is a look at proposals in President Reagan's State of the Union address.

BUDGET PLAN

—Reagan's budget plan for fiscal year 1984 is based on a spending freeze on selected government programs that would keep the fiscal year 1984 budget from growing more than the 1983 budget after inflation.

STANDBY TAXES

—Reagan proposed a standby 1 percent income tax surcharge and a $5-a-barrel oil tax, taking effect Oct. 1, 1985, only if the administration's fiscal year 1986 deficit forecast exceeds 2½ percent of gross national product; the nation's economy is growing; and Congress agrees to spending restraints, including Reagan's proposed budget freeze.

EMPLOYMENT

—Reagan proposed an employment bill to extend unemployment compensation benefits for six months; give tax credits to employers who hire the long-term unemployed; provide extra money for programs that help displaced workers; and provide a summer youth wage differential that is lower than the minimum wage.

EDUCATION

—The president said he will propose legislation that would exempt interest and dividends earned on contributions to an education saving account from taxation, these accounts would help families save for their child's higher education; would provide tuition tax credits, up to a maximum of $300 in 1985, to parents who send their children to private elementary and secondary schools, with the full credit being available only to families with adjusted gross incomes of under $40,000; and would increase the number of teachers proficient in math and science at the secondary school level.

DISCRIMINATION

—Reagan said he would submit legislation to remedy inequities based on sex discrimination in employer pension systems. He also said he would promote enforcement of state child support laws to insure that the children of single parents don't suffer financial hardship.

HEALTH CARE

—Reagan said he will propose legislation that would give Medicare beneficiaries the option of enrolling in a private health plan through use of a voucher; provide catastrophic illness insurance coverage for hospitalization under Medicare; and change to a fixed payment to hospitals for particular services to discourage unnecessary costs.

Sen. East Avers Reagan Showed Great Strength In His Address

From Staff And AP Reports

Sen. John East said today President Reagan showed "great strength of mind, body and spirit" in his State of the Union address Tuesday night, but the Greenville Republican said he disagreed with several of Reagan's proposals.

East said he would prefer reductions in federal spending on social programs rather than Reagan's proposals for a freeze on federal spending, cutbacks in military buildup and a standby tax increase.

But East praised Reagan's speech for its overall qualities.

"I think the address did what a State of the Union speech should do. It set a tone and direction," East said.

And of Reagan, East said: "In spite of an unrelenting drum beat of opposition here and in some respects, from the national media, he shows the vigor to lead."

Rep. Walter Jones, a Farmville Democrat, said that, "by reading between the lines," he had detected a new note of compromise in Reagan's tone, a note that he welcomed.

"One of the problems in the first two years of this administration has been a lack of being conciliatory on the part of the White House ... I detected last night, by reading between the lines, he is in a much more conciliatory, compromising position than he was in last year. If so, maybe we can do some compromising on needed legislation," Jones said today.

"As to his specifics, such as freezing funds and what not, it remains to be seen as to how he spells it out. Again, it will be up to the Congress to accept it or reject it."

"But I think he is well aware the economy is shambled, and he has to give a little here and there. With the spirit of compromise from the executive and legislative (branches), perhaps we can attack some of the needed items, such as unemployment," Jones said.

In general, Reagan's address was greeted with predictable reactions by Democratic and Republican leaders in North Carolina — with Republicans praising the speech while Democrats found fault with it.

Democratic Rep. Stephen Neal said it was hard to pass judgment on Reagan's speech "because there's not much there. He says America's on the mend, but it does not appear to be."

Neal said Reagan's program will double the national debt, and that Reagan will add as much to the budget as any president ever has.

Demos Offer Reform

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic Party leaders, trying to blunt Republican criticism that they don't have an alternative economic program, have spelled out proposals to reform taxes, reduce interest rates and control spending.

During a 28-minute filmed response to President Reagan's State of the Union address Tuesday night, the Democrats described the economy as "sliding backwards toward catastrophe."

But early in the film, Sen. Joseph Biden Jr., D-Del., said: "It's time we put up or shut up."

Produced at a cost of $120,000, the Democratic film aired on the three major commercial television networks shortly after the president's speech. Democratic members of Congress described 18 alternatives to Reagan's policies.

At a briefing earlier in the day, Rep. Tony Coelho, D-Calif., acknowledged the Democrats believed they had to counter the claim from the president and other Republicans that only the GOP was offering a program to deal with the nation's economic problems.

"Our polls have indicated the people just don't know we have alternatives," said Coelho, chairman of the House Democratic Campaign committee.

The president's address was one of the few occasions he didn't chide the Democrats for failing to offer alternatives.

Frank J. Fahrenkopf Jr., scheduled to be installed Friday as Republican Party chairman, took that role.

In a statement issued hours before the Democratic film was aired, Fahrenkopf said, "If the Democrats have one new idea as to how we can solve the problems which confront this nation, it is time to come forward with it."

Like the president, the Democrats focused in the film on the record budget deficits of the past two years.

DAR Hears Talk On Procedures

A short history on procedures of Navy recruiting was given at the meeting of the Susanna Coutanch Evans Chapter Daughters of the American Revolution held Thursday evening.

Chief Johnnie Stevenson, Navy counselor, was speaker and emphasized the educational opportunities afforded men serving on ships. He has served in the Navy for 19 years.

The chapter good citizen winner Angie Michel read her essay entitled "The Importance of our American Heritage." She placed second in the district. Her mother, Mrs. William Michel, was a guest.

Delegates and alternates were elected to attend the state conference at Pinehurst and continental congress in Washington. State delegates are Mrs. Donald C. McLane Jr., regent, Mrs. D.W. Johnson and Mrs. Everett Ballengee. Alternates are Beth Winstead, Mrs. Wetzel Smith and Dr. Mildred Southwick. Mrs. McLane will be the Washington delegate and her alternates are Mrs. Ballengee and Mrs. Johnson.

Plans were completed for a membership coffee to be held Saturday at the home of Mrs. Smith. Assisting will be Mrs. Frank Thompson and Mrs. Larry Whitlow and chapter members.

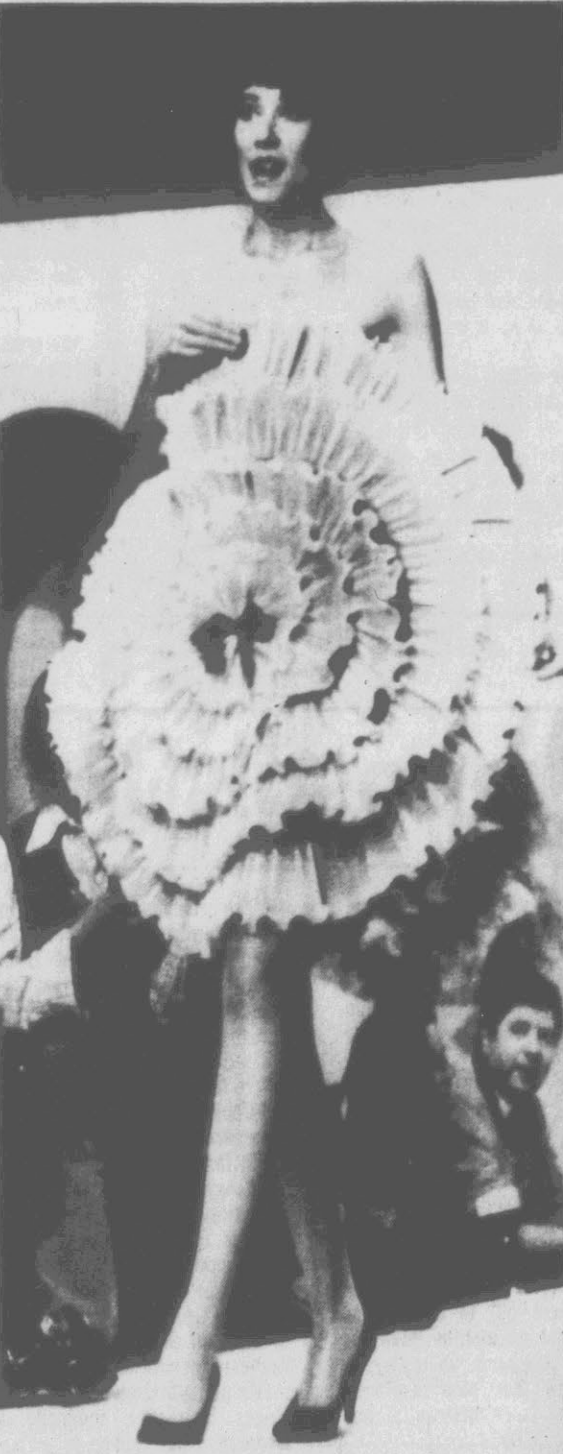

Mrs. Winstead presented the president general's message.

The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Thompson.

Dear Abby

Family's Trauma Requires Care

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1983 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: I just found out that my mature 13-year-old son has been molesting my daughters. They are 3 and 6 years old. I think I should have the girls checked by a doctor to make sure they are OK, but I need some information first.

How much do I have to tell the doctor? Does a doctor have to report such cases to the law or the social service people? Would the police or social service people take my son or the girls away from me and put them in a foster home? I don't want to lose any of my children.

I talked to my son and he promised it will never happen again. If my children need counseling, is there free or low-cost counseling available?

I don't feel close enough to anyone I know to ask these questions and I don't trust my mail to be private. Answer, please, in your column. Sign me ...

UTAH MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: The welfare of all your children should be your first concern. Take the little girls to a doctor to be examined and tell the doctor the truth. Your son should be examined by a psychiatrist. Take him to your local mental health facility and be honest with the people there. Please don't worry that your children will be taken from you. You need to put your problem into the hands of professionals. Even though your son has promised it will never happen again, he should be evaluated and counseled. And on the chance that the little girls have been psychologically damaged, they need counseling, too. Please follow this advice and let me hear from you again. I care.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 19-year-old housewife with a 13-month-old baby boy. My problem is I always seem to start an argument with my husband over the slightest little thing. For example:

He has started to grow a beard, knowing I don't like beards. I stupidly asked, "Who are you growing that for?" Of course he got mad and we had a big fight. Now he's threatened to walk out on me, and I really need him for my sake as well as the baby's. Can you give me some advice on how to keep my big mouth shut?

STUPID IN ARDMORE, OKLA.

DEAR STUPID: Think twice before you speak. And make sure your brain is engaged before you put your mouth in gear.

Cooking Is Fun

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor
Linda Anderson of DeKalb, Ill., is one of my best recipe scouts. Her mother taught her how to bake cakes and cookies when she was in her early teens, and she's been ferreting out recipes for delicious desserts ever since.

Linda majored in home economics in college and taught food and nutrition to high-school classes for about 15 years. Last summer she spent three weeks at France's La Varenne, the prestigious cooking school in Paris. Although Linda learned to make several marvelous French desserts, she still prizes her American recipes. One of them, passed along to her by an Illinois friend, is for a fabulously good carrot cake dessert. Tried at our house, it was a smashing success.

CARROT CAKE WITH RUM SAUCE

8-ounce can crushed pineapple in syrup
3 cups all-purpose flour
2 cups sugar
1½ teaspoons baking soda
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons ground cinnamon
3 large eggs
1½ cups corn oil
2 teaspoons vanilla
2 cups coarsely shredded carrots, not packed down
½ cups broken pecans
Rum Sauce, recipe follows
Grease a 10 by 4-inch angel cake pan. Drain pineapple and reserve syrup.

In the large bowl of an electric mixer stir together flour, sugar, baking soda, baking powder, salt and cinnamon. Make a well in the center and drop the eggs, oil, reserved pineapple syrup and vanilla into it. Beat at medium speed until blended. With a spoon stir in reserved pineapple, carrots and pecans. Turn into prepared pan. Bake in a preheated 325-degree oven until a cake tester inserted in the center comes out clean—1½ hours.

Place pan on a wire rack to cool for 10 minutes. Loosen edges; turn out on rack; cool completely. Serve warm or cold with Rum Sauce.
Makes 16 servings.

RUM SAUCE

1 cup firmly packed dark brown sugar
½ cup dark corn syrup
½ cup light cream
½ cup butter
½ cup light rum
1 teaspoon vanilla

In a 2-quart saucepan over low heat, stir together constantly the sugar, corn syrup, cream and butter until boiling. Cool to warm, stirring occasionally. Stir in rum and vanilla. Serve warm with Carrot Cake. Sauce may be made ahead, stored in the refrigerator and reheated gently.
Makes about 2 cups.

WOW Have Installation Ceremony

Lillie B. Randolph has been installed as president of Lodge 218, Woodmen of the World Insurance Society. The installation took place at the group's covered-dish dinner Thursday.

Walter E. Briley, outgoing president, conducted the ceremony. Lewis Ricks was named treasurer. Loran Norris will be installed as vice president at a later date. For outstanding service Briley was presented a "Mr. Woodman of the Year" plaque and pin.

Mrs. Randolph gave her pledge and said membership participation would be one of her goals this year.

Acknowledgements were received from Eastern Pines Fire Department and Unity Free Will Baptist Church expressing appreciation for flags presented from the lodge.

J.B. Newman announced that a new building at Fort Barnwell will be dedicated June 12.

Norris, Mrs. Randolph, Esther Newman and Annie Turner were appointed delegates to attend the jurisdiction meeting of North Carolina in May at the Royal Villa Hotel in Raleigh.

The next covered-dish dinner meeting will be held at the home of the president Feb. 17.

Wins Sheriffs' Scholarship

ECU NEWS BUREAU
Former state trooper Dewey Thomas Hales, a native of Washington, N.C., has been selected to receive the annual $1,500 N.C. Sheriffs' Association Scholarship to study law enforcement and corrections at East Carolina University.

Hales, 32, is employed as a campus public safety officer while attending ECU. Academically, he is a junior majoring in corrections with a concentration in law enforcement in the department of social work and correctional services.

He enrolled at ECU in 1980 after eight years' service in the Highway Patrol in Brunswick, New Hanover and Pender counties. In 1976, Hales was selected as the Outstanding Young Law Enforcement Officer in the area by the Burgaw Jaycees. He holds an advanced law enforcement certificate issued by the N.C. Criminal Justice Education and Training Standards Commission, awarded in 1981.

A graduate of Washington High School, he received an associate arts degree in police science in 1971 from Beaufort Community College and attended the Highway Patrol basic school in Chapel Hill in 1973.

The N.C. Sheriffs' Association annual scholarship was established at ECU four years ago to support the education of law enforcement officers and the children of law enforcement officers.

Big Turnouts For Brzezinski

NEW YORK (AP) — Former national security adviser Zbigniew Brzezinski is drawing sellout crowds on the lecture circuit — at Columbia University.

The Carter administration official is attracting so many students to his course that the meeting place had to be changed to a larger room in the School of International Affairs.

A class of 100 is considered large at the university, but 400 turned out Monday to hear Brzezinski lecture in his course, United States National Security Policies for the 1980s.

He told the students not to expect a "standard academic enterprise" because he does not intend to be objective. "What you'll be hearing is what I think and why I think so. That is the purpose of this course," said Brzezinski, leaning over a lectern.

Workshop For Dance Teachers

ECU News Bureau.
The ECU Department of Drama and Speech will sponsor a special program for teachers of all types of dance entitled "Dance Update."

Workshops will be held in ballet, tap dance, jazz and modern dance, creative movement and in choreography, with sessions also on building facilities, career opportunities, expectations of university-level dance programs, etc.

Instructors and workshop leaders include ECU faculty members Lorraine Graff, Paula Johnson, Petrus van Muyden, Patricia Pertalion, Mavis Ray and Patricia Weeks, as well as private studio teachers Marie Wallace, Beth Moye and Sherry Mercer.

All sessions will be held in the Messick Theater Arts Center on campus. Since places are limited, pre-registration is advised.

viser, "and the longer Israel stays, the harder it is to limit a Soviet buildup in Syria."

Reagan now reasons he has nowhere to turn but to the cutoff of American arms. If the Israeli occupation continues, the early-March deadline set for bringing Jordan's King Hussein into the crucial West Bank peace talks will come and go. An expression of the king's regret, predictable unless Israel moves out of Lebanon, would mean collapse of the administration's most imaginative foreign policy effort. That is why the president is ready to buck the political furies and sign the arms embargo papers drafted for him.

Disarmament Negotiators Gather Today In Geneva

By W. JOSEPH CAMPBELL
Associated Press Writer
GENEVA, Switzerland
(AP) — The United States hinted at possible compromise, but the Kremlin's chief delegate to the medium-range nuclear missiles reduction talks said American and Soviet negotiators are running out of time for reaching an agreement. Soviet negotiator Yuli A. Kvitsinsky predicted a "new round of the arms race" if the two sides fail to reach an accord on reducing intermediate-range nuclear arsenals in Europe. In Washington, President

Counselor At Session

Charles Alford, vocational rehabilitation counselor for Pitt County schools, was one of numerous counselors across North Carolina who attended a workshop on autistic children recently at Southern Pines. "It was most interesting to note autism is no longer considered a mental illness but a developmental disorder of communication and behavior which seriously impairs the way a brain processes information," Alford said.

"The conference provided information that will better equip us to make realistic plans for autistic students after they have completed programs offered in public schools."

He said the workshop was designed as an introduction to the disability of autism and to the programs and procedures of the North Carolina Division of Vocational Rehabilitation which might lead to employment for the autistic person.

Agency eligibility standards were discussed and question-and-answer sessions with the parents of an autistic child and an autistic adult were held.

Alford said the level of cooperation between Pitt County schools and alternative programs is "good."

"Between the services offered by Pitt County schools, the TEEACH Program and East Carolina Vocational Center, the future of autistic students in Pitt County is hopeful," he said.

Reagan hinted strongly in his State of the Union address Tuesday that he is prepared to compromise at the negotiating table if the terms are right.

U.S. negotiator Paul H. Nitze had signaled Reagan's new stance earlier, telling reporters here the president "certainly is not locked into" a nuclear arms reduction plan repeatedly rejected by the Soviets.

Nitze conferred with his delegation today, one day before the talks resume following a two-month recess and a stepped-up public relations drive by the Soviets to influence opinion in Western Europe — where 572 new U.S. nuclear missiles are slated to be based.

Kvitsinsky told reporters Tuesday: "The time is approaching when a choice will have to be made between an agreement on joint steps to reduce the level of nuclear confrontation, or a new round of the arms race."

Kvitsinsky heads the delegation at the medium-range missile talks, which have been running parallel to negotiations on strategic, or intercontinental, nuclear forces. Those talks are scheduled to resume Feb. 2.

The Soviet delegate urged the United States to show its willingness "to come to an accord" and said the issue of nuclear arms in Europe "is becoming increasingly urgent and acute."

He said the offer last month by Soviet leader Yuri V. Andropov "provides an opportunity" for negotiated settlement.

Andropov offered to reduce the number of Soviet intermediate-range nuclear missiles aimed at Western Europe to 162 if NATO scraps plans to deploy new U.S. missiles. The United States has rejected the plan as giving the Soviet Union a nuclear edge.

Reagan last year proposed his so-called "zero option," which provides for the Soviet Union to dismantle SS-20 missiles aimed at Western Europe in exchange for the United States scrapping plans to deploy the 572 new Pershing 2 and cruise missiles in NATO countries.

The president said in his address Tuesday night that "we are also prepared to carefully explore serious Soviet proposals."

Reagan's remarks apparently were aimed at Western Europe, where pressure is building for pursuing a compromise with the Soviets that might fall short of the "zero-option" plan but would sharply reduce missile arsenals.

At the same time, however, Reagan appealed to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization allies not to buckle in their commitment to deploy the new U.S. missiles if negotiations fail.

On his arrival in Switzerland, U.S. negotiator Nitze also said: "We are prepared to examine every kind of proposal that secures the security interests of our NATO allies as well as ourselves."

He added that the United States "certainly is not locked into the zero option."

But he said that in recent talks with Reagan "the president reaffirmed his conviction that the entire elimination of the most dangerous and destabilizing class of intermediate-range missiles on both the U.S. and Soviet sides is the best way to achieve the peace and security which mankind desires."

The zero option has been the fundamental U.S. offer since the negotiations began on Nov. 30, 1981.

Nitze privately explored a compromise on the zero option last summer with his counterpart, Kvitsinsky, but the proposal was rejected by Moscow and Washington.

Starting in December, NATO plans to begin deploying 108 Pershing 2 missiles in West Germany and 464 ground-launched cruise missiles in Britain, Belgium, Italy, the Netherlands and West Germany if the Geneva talks fail.

The new weapons, the Western allies say, are needed to counter the Soviet arsenal of about 600 intermediate-range nuclear weapons, including about 250 highly accurate SS-20 missiles aimed at Western Europe.

Permanent Part

North Carolina's Community Schools program is a permanent part of the public education system, the state superintendent of public instruction told local coordinators at a recent reorganization meeting.

"We are committed to the program on the state and local level," A. Craig Phillips said. "We feel the program has proven itself as a viable element of public education."

"The support generated by Community Schools through after-school use of facilities, volunteers, interagency cooperation and public information is a tremendous boost to our schools."

Phillips and Gov. Jim Hunt spoke at the meeting, which outlined the recent reorganization of the program.

Community Schools is now under the official title of Division of Community Schools and Special Projects and is under Phillips' office. The changes were announced at the meeting.

"Your work," Hunt told the coordinators, "has shown the potential Community Schools programs have in building strong support for public education in North Carolina."

Safe Driving Bill May End Up Other Than Given

By F. ALAN BOYCE
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — A provision designed to keep beer or wine out of the hands of drivers might have a sobering impact on passengers as well, legislators say. Members of House and Senate judiciary committees meeting Tuesday expressed doubt that the interpretation of Gov. Jim Hunt's safe driving bill would end up as the task force on drunken driving has intended. "The question is how the courts will interpret possession," said Rep. Martin Lancaster, D-Wayne, chairman of the House Judiciary III committee. Lancaster said the provision was intended to keep the driver sober while others in the car or bus could drink. But he said the bill could let drivers avoid prosecution by handing their beers to a passenger, or it could end up abolishing all alcohol from the passenger compartment. "If we mean what we say ... open beer should be restricted to a non-passenger area of the car," said Sen. James H. Edwards, D-Caldwell, of the Senate Judiciary III committee. "I think the whole bill ought to be rearranged" to include all drugs. If we're gonna do it, let's do it right."

Under the bill, the penalty for having an open can of beer in a vehicle would be the same as current penalties governing open bottles of liquor, with fines ranging from $25 to $500 and a possible jail term of 30 days. Sen. Robert M. Davis Sr., D-Rowan, said the wording of the bill would make it hard to enforce, and he suggested a change. "We could just reword it to say there's just no drinking in the car," he said. Rep. Daniel T. Blue Jr., D-Wake, had similar misgivings during House consideration.

"Does it not make it a crime for anyone driving a motor vehicle to have anyone in the car with an open container of beer?" he asked. Senate committee members also were concerned over provisions in the bill that would keep drunken drivers in jail for up to 24 hours or until they were sober. They said sobriety tests given while in jail could end up being used in trials.

The House committee reviewing its own version of the bill adopted an amendment answering some of those objections. The amendment prevents all but the first Breathalyzer exam from being entered in evidence by either side. Meanwhile, a Senate subcommittee addressed the most controversial part of Hunt's package, a provision that would make alcohol vendors liable for damages if they served alcohol to underage or intoxicated customers who then negligently caused traffic accidents. Lobbyists for vendors told the panel the so-called dram shop law was unnecessary and would place a severe financial burden on restaurants, taverns and convenience stores. "The best way to regulate sales of intoxicating beverages to minors or intoxicated persons is to take the permits of those who serve the beverages," said attorney Ruffin Bailey, who represents the N.C. Beer Wholesalers Association and the American Insurance Association.

Mandatory liquor liability insurance under the bill could cost up to $5,000 a year and might not be available to all retailers, Bailey said. But Alan Briggs of the N.C. Academy of Trial Lawyers said the bill would accomplish what it set out to do.

"Really, what we're trying to get at is someone who has reason to know someone was intoxicated," he said. "A lawyer isn't going to court with a case unless there is some egregious negligence involved." The panel took no action on the proposal. Education Sen. Marshall A. Rauch, D-Gaston, suggested that the Senate Committee on Higher Education consider adopting a resolution supporting the National Collegiate Athletic Association's decision raising the academic standards to be met by college athletes.

Sen. Wanda H. Hunt, D-Moore, urged that ending the pay freeze on state employees and teachers be a "top priority," saying that the freeze was costing state colleges some of the top educators.

"We have lost 12 professors at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill due to the salary freeze," she said. "They are looking for other jobs."

Human Resources Members of the Senate Appropriations Committee started looking at their $1.7 billion budget and were warned not to spend too much time on line items.

"If you're going to make an impact on a $1.7 billion budget, you're going to have to do something big," said Robert Daughtry of the Fiscal Research Division. Justice and Public Safety Sen. Robert Swain, D-

Buncombe, said he wanted to take a closer look at the use of computers by sheriff's departments and others in law enforcement with an eye toward possible budget cuts.

"I just question that business," he told the Senate Appropriations Committee on Justice and Public Safety. "I'd also like to look at this witness coordination program we do with the FBI. A good secretary used to do it in our day."

Tobacco Growers Urge New Laws For Control

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The Tobacco Growers Association of North Carolina has recommended passage of new laws calling for price controls on allotment leasing rates and a requirement that tobacco grown in excess of quotas be destroyed.

The association, in moves aimed at helping growers fight declining profits and make them more competitive with foreign tobacco, also recommended that Congress freeze federal price supports for up to two years.

Support prices are tied by formula to rising production costs and have increased each year.

The proposals would improve growers' competitive edge by destroying tobacco grown in excess of quota, officials said in interviews Tuesday.

Association officials also suggested controlling lease rates with a proposal calling for allotment holders to grow tobacco or share in the risk of growing it. Under the proposal, owners who fail to do either would lose their allotment.

Association speakers told a meeting of about 300 farmers Monday night that their proposals would help alleviate financial problems for both growers and manufacturers.

Rep. Charles Rose, D-N.C., who is chairman of the U.S. House subcommittee on peanuts and tobacco, told the group his committee would study the proposals. Rose said he would consult with other segments of the industry before deciding whether he would back specific recommendations.

He told growers his top priority in new legislation would be the elimination of a double assessment on tobacco growers who lease their allotments. This year, for the first time, allotment holders who lease and transfer tobacco allotments off their farms are required to pay the no-net cost tobacco fee, which is 7 cents a pound in 1983.

Some growers have complained that many allotment holders are adding the fee to their lease rental price, so the grower, in effect, has to pay the fee twice.

The fee is designed to ensure that taxpayers do not end up paying for the tobacco program.

N. C. Lawyers Will Be Judging Judges

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — The 6,000 lawyers in the N.C. Bar Association will soon get the chance to judge the performance of judges in a survey sanctioned by the association.

"The idea is to assist judges in self-improvement," says Frank Wyatt of High Point, the lawyer who chaired the association's committee that planned the survey.

"Several years ago the feeling developed within the association that we should do something about the performance of our judiciary," Wyatt said.

Evaluations will be in the form of surveys that lawyers can answer anonymously in their own homes. They will be filled out around the first week of March.

Every judge in North Carolina who has served at least a year on the bench — including federal judges — will be listed for evaluation on the 6,000 questionnaires. Judges will receive scores ranging from 1 to 5, with 1 indicating excellent performance, and 5 meaning very poor performance that is unacceptable, according to the survey.

Judges will be evaluated on such criteria as "knowledge and application of substantive law," "ability to perceive factual and legal issues," "promptness in making rulings and giving decisions," and their "patience, courtesy and judicial temperament."

Lawyers also will judge the judges on how much their decisions might have been influenced by political considerations and on whether decisions are influenced improperly by certain lawyers or other people appearing before them.

Only N.C. Chief Justice Joseph Branch will see how all the judges are rated. An individual judge will learn only how he or she was rated relative to other judges in the same court level. The results will not be made public.

Wyatt said the criteria the lawyers came up with are based on "the most important characteristics a judge should have."

Tobacco Group Picks Officers

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The United Tobacco Growers has elected officers to lead the grassroots organization of flue-cured tobacco farmers.

About 300 farmers from several of the state's 62 flue-cured tobacco producing counties met Monday at the State Fairgrounds. They elected T. Edwin Atkinson of Zebulon as president, W.R. Vaughan of Wendell as vice president, and Fred Kirk of Knightdale as reporter.

But attendance from the 62 counties was too sparse to elect a permanent representative board of directors, and the farmers failed to agree on adopting any specific program to urge Congress for changes in the current tobacco program.

The group agreed to hold another meeting in February before U.S. Rep. Charles Rose, D-N.C., holds a tobacco hearing in Washington.

Leaders say they want changes in the present allotment system, which is costing farmers more and more to rent allotments and grow their crops.

Leaf collection services are provided by the City's Public Works Department. For information, call 752-4137.

Angered Over Parking Meter

ASHEVILLE, N.C. (AP) — A 25-year-old Asheville man who said he had been victimized by a parking meter was charged with vandalism Monday after he pulled out the meter, pole and all, and brought it to the police station as evidence.

Guy Stuart Wedthohl was released on $200 bond after he was charged with damaging city property.

Police spokesman Ann Peterson said the man was angry because the meter took his dime and didn't register the proper amount of time. She said he brought the meter to the police station to prove that he had put in his money.

"I guess he just pulled it up out of the ground. He had the meter, the pole, the whole bit," she said.

"He was even madder after they charged him," she said.

A hearing on the charge was scheduled for Feb. 16 in Buncombe County District Court.

Fast Action On Robbery

MONROE, N.C. (AP) — Authorities say the first attempted bank robbery in Monroe since the 1920s was foiled Tuesday when police arrested a suspect before any cash changed hands.

Monroe public safety officers, Union County sheriff's deputies and state troopers brandishing shotguns, rifles and handguns swarmed around the bank at around 11:30 a.m., moments after the teller tripped a silent alarm.

Public Safety Chief Malcolm Niven said an unarmed man handed a note to the teller, demanding $4,000 be put in a bank bag.

The suspect, Charles Edward Walls, 26, of Monroe, was charged with attempted bank robbery, Niven said. Walls was in the Union County jail Tuesday without bond until FBI agents from Charlotte could take him into their custody.

"The bank personnel did an exceptional job in talking to the man, taking their time with him and giving us enough time to get there before any money changed hands," Niven said.

Walls was arrested without incident and quickly hustled away in an unmarked police car.

Niven said the attempted bank robbery was the first in Monroe since about 1924.

"I don't know if that's official or not, but that's apparently the last time we ever had one here," he said.

Louisiana Arrests Six People For Threats To Poison Water

HAMMOND, La. (AP) — Six people have been arrested for allegedly threatening to poison water systems with cyanide, and state officials, believing dozens of calls are "copycat" hoaxes, urged local authorities to keep water flowing unless poison is found.

The threats have disrupted service to 220,000 people and prompted emergency tests on 55 waterworks in the state. Of the six people arrested, five were teen-agers.

One test, performed Monday night in Hammond, found traces of cyanide, but not enough to be hazardous. A second test Tuesday found no cyanide at all. Health officials said they could not tell whether the cyanide in the Hammond water occurred naturally or had been introduced deliberately.

Sue Ellen Lewis, spokeswoman for the state Department of Health and Human Resources, said Tuesday night that since the first threat Thursday in St. Gabriel, 55 threatening calls had been received by waterworks for parishes, cities, towns, subdivisions and private industries.

Ms. Lewis said she had no comprehensive list of the communities that cut off water after getting the threats, but an estimated 220,000 people were without water for at least part of Tuesday.

Gov. Dave Treen termed the callers "kooks" and vowed to find the money for a thorough investigation, even if it means taking funds from other state budgets. And Louisiana State Police and the FBI were forming a joint task force to find all the callers.

Gregory Larks, 20, of Gonzales, was arrested late Monday and booked for investigation of criminal mischief for allegedly making anonymous calls threatening contamination of the Gonzales water system, state police said Tuesday.

Three 14-year-olds were arrested Tuesday, two from Basile and one from Abbeville, troopers said. On Monday, a 14-year-old was arrested in Lake Arthur, and a 13-year-old boy was arrested in Scotlandville, and booked on criminal mischief and telephone harassment charges, according to the state police.

The identities of the teen-agers were being withheld.

Ms. Lewis said the health department was urging local officials to keep water flowing unless tests find it to be contaminated, because most of the telephone threats appeared to be from "copycats."

"Water systems need not be shut down in most cases," said Gwen Stewart, another health department spokeswoman in Baton Rouge. She said the state was recommending that citizens simply be notified quickly about threats to their water.

Ms. Stewart also recommended that residents around the state put aside a few gallons of water for use during the period after a threat is received and before water is tested.

"Health officials advise that even if water supplies are contaminated with cyanide, the use of such water for bathing purposes would involve little or no risk," she said.

Hammond Mayor Debbie Pope said chemists at West Payne Laboratories in Baton Rouge found about 7 parts of cyanide per billion parts of water from her city's system, but the level was so low that "an individual would have to drink about a swimming pool full to kill himself."

David Strecker, the West Payne chemist who tested the Hammond sample, said the cyanide could have been come from natural sources.

"Cyanide does occur naturally in trace levels, but it's hard to make a comparison," he said. "We can't make any determinations at this point whether it was introduced by a person."

Hammond was the only place where cyanide was detected, state officials said.

Inside-Out

Caswell Center, a state institution in Kinston for the mentally retarded, will host approximately 50 university students and faculty members who will participate in the center's Project Inside/Out '83 Wednesday through Saturday.

The project is an intensive, live-in learning experience designed to let students and faculty see the practical application of methods in working with the mentally retarded.

Participants will spend their time with professional staff, in discussion groups and lectures and observing residents in their living units. They will sleep in living units and work daily with residents in leisure-time activities, training sessions and meals.

Now in its eighth year, Project Inside/Out will include primarily college juniors and seniors in human service fields.

CYANIDE CHECK — Jeanne Mixon, a lab technician for the Louisiana Department of Health, checks a water sample for possible cyanide poisoning. Thus far, only harmless traces of the poison have been detected. (AP Laserphoto)

It's hard to imagine an insured money market account more convenient than this.

BB&T's new Money Rate Savings Account has just about everything you want in an investment.

To begin with, it pays market rates. But unlike traditional money market funds, it's insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation for up to $100,000. To top it all off, it's convenient. You can withdraw your money anytime, without penalty, at any BB&T office or 24-hour teller machine. What could be more convenient than that?

BB&T's Money Rate Savings

BB&T's new Money Rate Checking Account also pays market rates, is insured and lets you make withdrawals any time. But with this account, you can also write checks whenever you want.

How do you decide which account is right for you? Well, a lot of investors keep their checking and savings money separate. So, like them, you might want both. And you can open both with minimum deposits of $2500 each at any BB&T office. What could be more convenient than that?

Colleges, Universities Trying To Assist Jobless

By LEE MITGANG
AP Education Writer

Colleges and universities, responding to the troubled economy, are starting to provide direct help to at least some of the nation's 12 million jobless, offering tuition-free courses, job counseling and retraining.

Economists generally agree that many of the jobs lost by America's unemployed — especially in heavy industries like autos and steel — are gone forever. Such workers desperately need retraining for jobs in growing new fields such as microelectronics.

Some schools have formed partnerships with state governments, private foundations and industry to provide the new skills unemployed workers need to get back to work, as well as career counseling and other services for the jobless.

"If you are being laid off in autos or steel mills, it's highly unlikely that there'll be new jobs in those areas. We're saying take time to think about it," says Vilma Allen, director of continuing education at Fairfield University in Fairfield, Conn., which for a $70 fee has been giving career counseling to laid-off teachers from nearby Bridgeport.

Career planning centers like the University of Fairfield's are perhaps the most common form of help higher education is offering the unemployed. Most, such as New York University and Kansas State University, provide help with job seeking skills like writing resumes and interviewing.

Massachusetts announced last week it was putting up $1 million to provide free tuition this semester at campuses around the state to help retrain as many as 3,000 unemployed.

The state came up with the money after Greenfield Community College made a tuition-free offer to the unemployed earlier in the month and was overwhelmed with applicants.

Also last week, Bradford College in Haverhill, Mass., announced it was offering five full scholarships to children of the unemployed starting next September.

Pennsylvania, where tens of thousands of steel workers have been laid off, plans this year to establish "Ben Franklin High Tech Centers" that will use $1 million in state grants to help universities retrain workers for jobs in emerging industries such as microelectronics and biotechnology.

Lehigh University, Carnegie-Mellon University, Pennsylvania State University and the University of Pittsburgh are among the schools that have submitted proposals to set up Ben Franklin centers.

Michigan State University has begun a program to teach that state's jobless how to start home businesses such as baking and clothing alteration.

MSU has also started a "stress management program" for unemployed farmers to help prevent them from becoming alcoholics or committing suicide.

Several colleges are offering tuition-free courses to the unemployed.

Since November, Mount Aloysius Junior College, in Cresson, Pa., has offered free career development courses and a general studies course to the poor and unemployed in Cambria County, an area of high coal and steel unemployment.

"Teachers have volunteered extra hours to do this," said Sister Kathleen Mary Smith, dean of student services.

A semester of tuition-free college courses is being offered by Sacred Heart College, a tiny liberal arts school in Belmont, N.C., where nearby textile mills have fallen on hard times. The college received a $100,000 grant from a local yarn mill, R.L. Stowe Mills Inc., and $50,000 from the Joseph M. Bryan Foundation in Greensboro, N.C.

Thirty-five jobless people took free courses in October, when the program began. About 80 are enrolled in the second session that started this month, taking courses like "Introduction to Business Management" and "Career and Life Planning." The courses are good for credits toward eventual degrees.

"I'll tell you the truth. It's the best thing that's happened to me," said Richard Pullen, 37, who has been out of work since a commercial print firm he worked for went out of business 7½ months ago.

"With a few business courses, maybe I could make a go of it as a radio and TV serviceman," he said.

Another unemployed student, Richard Newsom, held a managerial job with a local manufacturer of picture frames that was forced to lay off workers in September.

Newsom, 46, with a wife and daughter now in college, has two years of college credit at Clemson University and decided to go to Sacred Heart to finish his degree and make himself more employable.

"I now have something to do with myself," he said. "It only takes so long each day to trim your shrubs back and stuff envelopes with your resume."

Texas A&M University is operating an "Oil Rig School" in the Abilene area that is training unemployed workers for jobs as roughnecks paying $30,000 or more. A group of oil and exploration companies donated the rigs, equipment and land for the program.

"A lot of folks from Michigan and other depressed states who migrated into Texas looking for job opportunities are taking advantage of this program," says Milton Radke, who heads the school's program.

He says the waiting list to get into the Oil Rig School, which graduated its first group a year ago December, has reached 3,000 despite a $600 tuition fee. But the cost seems worth it, since all 200 rig school graduates now have oil field jobs.

Historic Bells Continue Peal

By CINDY COX
Lancaster New Era

LANCASTER, Pa. (AP) — The clean tone of clapper against cold steel clangs out across the clear, crisp air.

It's a perfect day for ringing bells — a cool, snappy, bright Saturday morning. With a resounding "bong," Eric Pippart lets loose with a chorus of "A Mighty Fortress Is Our God" from the steeple of the Trinity Lutheran Church.

He pushes down vigorously on wooden paddles attached to bright yellow ropes attached to the clappers of nine bells high in the steeple.

As the last note fades from the air, Pippart, 38, steps aside to let his co-ringer, William Paul, take a turn. Paul, 56, signs on with his trademark song, "Hark the Voice of Jesus Calling," and then launches into a 17th century hymn by Johann Crüger that he discovered while on a trip in Waldkirch, West Germany, last year.

Paul, a Millersville resident, and Pippart, a Lancaster city resident, are practicing for their performances that take place after the 8:45 a.m. and 11 a.m. Sunday services at Trinity.

The two men take turns ringing the bells every week.

Paul pushes down the paddles powerfully as he plays, carefully following a series of numbers jotted on the back of an envelope that correspond to numbers chalked onto the paddles.

"You must develop a good left arm to play the bells," Paul says. "The heavier bells are on the left."

The two men ring the bells from a tiny wooden chamber inside Trinity's steeple. To get there, they have to climb a staircase to the church's organ chamber, thread their way through that skinny room and climb another 22 narrow, winding steps up to the stone room that houses the bell-ringing chamber.

The little room is literally surrounded by history. On the opposite walls are hundreds of signatures — graffiti from the steeple's painters who signed their names, and the date of each painting.

Paul and Pippart have been chiming at their church since February 1980. They were both recruited by Trinity's organist, Peter Brown, who was searching for a replacement for former ringer Bill Hutchinson.

The two men never really had any formal instruction on how to ring the bells, but learned as they went along.

"I can't play any instruments and I can't read music," Pippart says. "But it's really not too hard. The hardest thing to get is the rhythm of playing."

Paul, who plays the clarinet, adds, "Some of the ropes are sticky and that's something you have to compensate for on a Sunday morning. There is a certain touch to playing."

For their repertoire, the men have a little recipe file with over 200 hymns, transcribed into numbers, at their disposal. And, if necessary, new music is transcribed by Paul or Pippart's wife, Jane, who is a music teacher in an area school district.

Although their little bell-ringing chamber is stifling in the summer and freezing in the winter, the two men say they would not give up the privilege of ringing Trinity's bells.

"It's the challenge of doing something different musically," Paul says. "I think a lot of people think we just push a few buttons and then they play automatically. They don't realize we play them one bell at a time."

Pippart and Paul have shared in what they do with hundreds of other bell-ringers who have played at Trinity since 1768. In that year, the largest and oldest bell in the steeple was cast in London and sent to Lancaster.

This 1,000-pound bronze bell was installed in the church's old stone building on South Duke Street, while a new church was built across the street.

While hanging there, the bell rang for the signing of the Declaration of Independence. In 1794, the 195-foot steeple of the new church was completed and the bell was moved across the street.

In 1860, eight other 350-pound steel bells were designed especially for the church steeple in Sheffield, England.

Since then, the nine bells have tolled thousands of times.

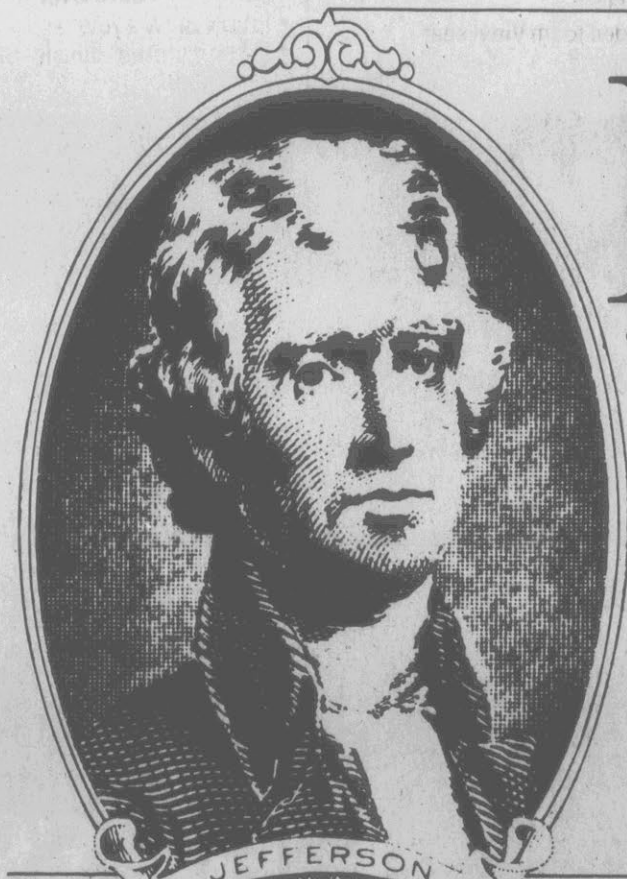

When the 52 American hostages were released in Iran, Paul had the privilege of ringing the bells, which can be heard a mile away.

"I rang them so hard that the rope broke," he says.

4 WAYS TO SAY

Marines In Lebanon Unsure Of Who's Real Threat

By TERRY A. ANDERSON
Associated Press Writer
BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — The long months of drills, field exercises and practice have ended. The guns and artillery are real. Although the 1,200 U.S. Marines in the multinational peacekeeping force here are not in combat, they see and hear it every day and could become involved.

"They know it's for real this time," said Cpl. Jonathan Heussi, a 22-year-old squad leader from Essex, Md., after a foot patrol through the village of Hay El-Sellom, south of Beirut.

Like the Italian and French paratroopers in the multinational force, the Marines are here to lend their authority and backing to the Lebanese government and its army, to help reassert government control over the country after eight years of civil strife.

But the Marines are unsure who represents a danger among the many armed factions and occupation armies in Lebanon. One soldier was killed when he stepped on a cluster bomb, and another slightly wounded by a car bomb.

"It's the biggest puzzle I've ever been faced with," said one officer who asked not to be named. "At first, I thought it was terrorists and unexploded bombs."

"I'm not really sure any more."

Shweifat, where rightist Christian and leftist Druse Moslems battle almost daily just a few miles from the Marines, "is a tenuous situation," the officer said. "On Christmas Eve, 150 to 200 artillery rounds were fired. With all that artillery, suppose a Druse or Christian is wrong in his deflection?"

(Deflection refers to the angle of fire.)

The Marines are also concerned about the Israeli soldiers who occupy the territory immediately east and south of the American area. Stray rounds from Israeli patrols, who fire random bursts from automatic weapons to discourage ambushers, have landed near Marine positions.

The Israelis also have probed Marine lines at least four times in two weeks, provoking confrontations with the Americans who have orders to keep them out. "We have told them, 'This is our turf, get off,' and they have," a senior Marine officer said.

The Israeli actions have been protested by U.S. officials and the Israelis promised to stop, but so far have not.

Some Marines consider it minor harassment — annoying, but not serious. "One fear is that someone will get between the Israelis and us and fire at them," the senior officer said.

Still, the Marines are proud of their role as peacekeepers. A Christmas card made by one Marine and adopted by their commander shows several Marines planting a Lebanese cedar tree, with the slogan "Helping make things right" above it.

"We help just by being here," said Cpl. Glyndale McLaughlin, 21, of Fairview, N.C. "There's no factional fighting in our area."

Heussi and McLaughlin spent several hours planning the recent patrol through Hay El-Sellom. They wrote out and read to their 15-man squad instructions on what to do if fired upon from the front, the rear or either side, what radio frequencies to use, how to react to any provocation.

The two young men, each with three years experience in the Marines, then walked the patrol through a practice drill.

"Smile and nod or a small wave to show we're friendly. That's all, no conversations," McLaughlin cautioned. "Don't encourage the 'hey-Joe's'" — the children who often trot along beside the Marines.

The Marines, laden with radios, field gear and M-16 automatic rifles — unloaded but with full magazines in their belts — wound slowly in drizzling rain through the mud-filled streets of the village. Residents waved and smiled, calling "ahlan; ahlan (welcome)."

"We get a few smart guys who make cracks, but not many," Heussi said.

The people of Hay El-Sellom are Shiite Moslems, and many support Iran's revolutionary leader, Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini. Once fervent backers of the Lebanese leftists and Palestine Liberation Organization guerrillas who occupied this suburb before the Israeli invasion, most seem happy to see the Marines.

"Nobody is shooting at us," shrugged Sgt. Talmadge Murphy of Atlanta. "Nobody wants to attack us. I like these people and they like me."

The Marines are also training several companies of Lebanese soldiers in air assault tactics, basic combat techniques and other things. Officially, according to Col. Thomas Stokes of Raleigh, N.C., the marine commander, the Lebanese show promise. "They have the beginning of a capability of a quick reaction force," he said.

But privately, Marine officers and NCOs have little confidence in the Lebanese soldiers' abilities or willingness to fight.

"They haven't shown us much," one said about the Lebanese who man joint checkpoints with the Marines.

Nat'l Archives Has A New Look

By RANDOLPH E. SCHMID
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Archives has a new look inside.

The Constitution, Declaration of Independence and Bill of Rights still stand in the middle, but the 26 display cases arching in a semi-circle around those centerpieces of democracy have been redone for the first time since 1952.

A few tourists have already visited the new display, which was finished ahead of schedule. The formal opening is slated to follow a reception Thursday night.

Lights in the display cases have been moved to the edges to reduce glare and make it easier to read documents. And explanations are now printed on a white background to make them more legible.

The 26 cases tell a coordinated story entitled "The Formation of the Union, 1774-1789."

Opening the exhibit is the Articles of Association of 1774, in which representatives of the colonies brought their grievances to the attention of the King, but stressed their loyalty at the same time. The document begins "We, his Majesty's most loyal subjects."

The battles of Lexington and Concord followed within six months, however, changing the colonists' attitude and the course of history.

One exhibit includes a signed statement by a witness at Lexington, asserting that the British opened fire after the Minutemen began to disperse. Another features George Washington's account book.

Washington agreed to serve as head of the Revolutionary Army without pay, but he wanted to be reimbursed for expenses, and kept track of them carefully.

Another case contains Continental money, and another a table of postage rates under Benjamin Franklin, the first postmaster general.

Other exhibits detail the treachery of Benedict Arnold, the efforts of the Continental Congress to get the states to pay for running the federal government, scale models of Revolutionary War soldiers and a report from Alexander Hamilton on the need for a national bank.

Williamston Native Marked 100th Birthday

By Audrey Bishop
Columnist
News American
Baltimore

BALTIMORE — Mack Hardison, who celebrated his 100th birthday Dec. 29, is almost blind in his left eye and doesn't exactly have 20-20 vision in the right, but there's nothing wrong with his hearing. And that's the reason his birthday party at Pennsylvania Avenue Zion AME Church wasn't a surprise after all.

"I always keep my ears open, which is how I found out about all the doings," he said as he sat in the living room of his one-bedroom apartment in Zion Towers, a highrise for the elderly next door to the church.

His 20 grandchildren were on hand for his centennial bash along with Annie Mack Lynch, a daughter from his first marriage, and four children from his second: Charles Hardison, Margaret Mitchell, Ada McClurkin and Mack Jr., all of whom live in Baltimore. Also attending were 23 great-grandchildren, 10 great-great-grandchildren and two great-great-great-grandchildren.

Born in Williamston, N.C., Hardison spent much of his boyhood in Princeton, N.J.

"My mother died when I was very young and the 11 children got scattered. The man who raised me bought a 50-acre farm near Robersonville for $500, started paying for it by renting the land in exchange for 50-pound bales of cotton, then took a job as a laborer in Princeton in order to come up with the rest of the money," Hardison said.

"While we were there I was tutored a little by (singer) Paul Robeson's mother, Louise, who held classes in her home. Altogether, I don't guess I had more than three years of regular schooling."

After returning to North Carolina with his guardian, he served as a farmhand for a while. At 18, he decided to "take a chance for myself" and went to Greenville, working first on the railroad, later in a tobacco factory.

Except for a stint in Baltimore during World War I at one of Bartlett Hayward's munitions plants, he remained in North Carolina until 1931, when he came here as a utility man and assistant chef of the Merchant's Club, an association that lasted 39 years.

Hardison still enjoys cooking. Fried chicken is one of his specialties and although he had Christmas dinner at the home of a granddaughter, Mary Lonesome, he baked a ham beforehand for the enjoyment of holiday visitors to his bachelor quarters.

Television holds little interest for him and he's cut down on his reading because of his failing sight.

"I'd like my eyes to hold out as long as I do. About the only thing I watch regularly on TV is 'The People's Court.' I listen to a lot of radio, though, and usually stay up to hear Alan Christian's talk show on WBAL. That helps make the night not so long," he said. "The nights can be very long when you go to bed early."

"And I get up whenever I get hungry, fix myself a couple of soft scrambled eggs, a side dish of apple sauce and heat up a couple of rolls."

Although arthritis in his knees has slowed him down, Hardison manages to do his own supermarket shopping and banking, thanks to a friend that drives him to and from.

"I consider myself in fair shape. My head gets dizzy sometimes and I have to use a cane because of my bum knees but I keep pushing myself. I don't want to give up."

He's given up cigars, which he once smoked at the rate of seven or eight a day. He never was a drinking man.

At his party, the birthday celebrant received a congratulatory letter from Ronald and Nancy Reagan, red roses and a plaque from Mayor William Donald Schaefer, along with a City Council resolution honoring him.

What does he think of President Reagan?

"I don't think nothing of him." Then he reconsidered and added, "I've lived as good under him as anyone else. I believe he's done the best he could."

New Food Stamp Cuts Opposed In Congress

By BOB FICK

Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional supporters of food stamps are erecting a wall of opposition to President Reagan's call for a new assault on the multibillion-dollar nutrition assistance program.

Even before Reagan targeted food stamps for another round of legislative changes in his State of the Union address, the chairmen of the Senate and House nutrition subcommittees said they intend to leave the program alone this year.

Rep. Leon Panetta, D-Calif., who heads the House panel, said Republican and Democratic members will ask the House to go on record against any spending reductions for federal nutrition programs during the 1984 budget year.

And Sen. Bob Dole, R-Kan., chairman of the Senate Agriculture nutrition subcommittee, told civil rights leaders Tuesday he saw no further need for changes in the food stamp program that has already undergone billions of dollars in cuts since Reagan took office.

After Reagan's speech Tuesday night, Dole added, "I don't think we can do much more in the food stamp area, though he (Reagan) cites it frequently."

"Again, it's a lot of people out of work and a lot of people need food stamps," Dole said. "I don't quarrel with his general concern about entitlement programs, but I think for food stamps we've done quite a bit in that area."

Reagan, in his address, singled out food stamps as one of the "automatic spending programs" that must be reined in but can't be controlled through a simple budget freeze.

He said that last year about $1.1 billion in food stamps, or 10 percent, were issued to persons who didn't deserve them.

"The taxpayers are not the only victims of this kind of abuse," Reagan said. "The truly needy suffer as funds intended for them are taken, not by the needy, but by the greedy."

Reagan did not outline the specific food stamp plan he wants Congress to approve, saying only that it will insure "the taxpayers' hard-earned dollars go only to the truly needy, that none of them is turned away but that fraud and waste are stamped out."

The Office of Management and Budget, however, has recommended that Reagan, in his budget message next week, propose changes in the food stamp program that will cut spending this year by about $600 million and next year by nearly $1 billion. OMB has also recommended cuts in child nutrition programs, including the school lunch program, totaling nearly $400 million in 1984.

The bulk of the food stamp savings would be achieved by requiring states in 1984 to pay for the benefit losses that Reagan cited Tuesday night.

Congress has already mandated that states bring their food stamp losses down to 5 percent by 1985 or cover the excess from the own treasuries, and Republicans and Democrats alike claim any attempt to reduce overpayments further is unrealistic.

Rep. Thomas Coleman, R-Mo., the ranking Republican on Panetta's subcommittee, said he "will point out the fallacies of trying to come up with that kind of unrealistic approach" when he attends a White House briefing on the new budget next week.

Noise Lawsuits Are Piling Up

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — More than 225 noise lawsuits filed against the city of Charlotte over a runway at the Charlotte airport are scheduled to be heard in two special sessions of Mecklenburg County Superior Court this spring.

The case will be the most expensive court battle in the city's history, according to city officials.

The total amount originally sought by the suits was $240 million.

NEW YORK (AP) - The stock market was mixed today, registering no strong response either way to President Reagan's State of the Union speech.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials dropped 1.19 to 1,040.84 in the first hour.

But advancing issues outnumbered declines by about 2 to 1 among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Analysts said traders found no big surprises in Reagan's message Tuesday night, in which he called for a "freeze" on federal spending and stand-by tax increases for future years.

In his speech, the President alluded to the persistent problem of high interest rates. Wall Street has been unsettled of late by an upturn in open-market money rates.

Today both the stock and credit markets were awaiting details of the Treasury's quarterly plans for the sale of notes and bonds.

Sony led the active list in early trading, up 1/4 at 14 1/4. A 100,000-share block traded at that price.

On Tuesday the Dow Jones industrial average rose 11.86 points to 1,042.03.

Gainers outnumbered losers by 2 to 1 on the NYSE.

Big Board volume slowed to 79.74 million shares from 90.80 million in the previous session.

The NYSE's composite index rose .90 to 81.82. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index edged up 0.05 to 352.48.

Two Pitt County farmers will attend the Modern Farming Short Course at North Carolina State University Monday through Feb. 11.

Johnnie Cates of Stokes and Charles Lee Gaskins of Grifton have been selected as Pitt County's representatives at the course and will attend on $325 scholarships, sponsored by county banks.

Cates farms 160 acres of corn, an average of 40 acres of tobacco and 40 acres of soybeans. Gaskins farms 30 acres of tobacco and 200 acres of soybeans and 200 acres of corn with his father.

The short course offers courses such as farm planning, entomology, horticulture, producer marketing strategies, forestry, bankruptcy, microcomputers, financial management, animal science, veterinary medicine and water and soil conservation.

Rep. James M. Clarke, D-N.C., said he supported Reagan's proposal that government take leadership on getting the economy on a strong basis.

"That's something all of us can support," he said.

However, he disagreed with Reagan's position on the budget deficit. He said increased spending is part of the problem, along with tax cuts and "enormous defense spending."

Rep. Robin Britt, D-N.C., said he thought the stress on the bipartisan approach to solving America's problems is the right approach.

"I was very encouraged by the fact that the Social Security Commission, along with the president, the speaker of the House and the Senate majority leader, was able to reach a bipartisan proposal, and I think that is the right approach for the very difficult problem we face in the economy of this country."

He added, "To say that America is 'on the mend' as we still face unemployment in excess of 10 percent with over 12 million Americans out of work is a little premature. I will be happy - I will feel that we're 'on the mend' - when that number starts to come down, when plants begin to produce above 60 to 65 percent capacity and when America begins to go back to work."

Rep. Charles Rose, D-N.C., said Reagan's speech lacked substance.

"I think he gave us a great platter full of generalities. I think we're going to have to wait and see what the specifics look like," said Rose. "He was moderately successful with his theatrics but woefully short on details."

Rose also criticized cuts in defense spending, noting that the president said there needs to be cuts in domestic programs as well.

"I absolutely think he's way off base in saying we've cut enough from defense and need to cut more on domestic," he added. "The president has suggested our cuts in defense be in personnel areas and I think personnel areas have been cut enough."

But he praised Reagan for his statement on the government's responsibility for the country's economic woes.

"The key statement was the president's acknowledgment that the government has the prime responsibility in restoring the economy," Rose said. "The president has contended that government was the problem and not the solution."

Rose said he was not completely satisfied with the Democratic Party's response to the speech, although he said he was impressed with appearances by North Carolina Gov. Jim Hunt and House Speaker Thomas P. "Tip" O'Neill.

Obituaries

Jones

VANCEBORO - Mr. Sim Jones, 73, of Route 1, Erul, died Tuesday in Craven County Hospital. His funeral service will be conducted Thursday at 2 p.m. in the Fort Barnwell Church of God by the Rev. Otis Crisp and the Rev. Danny French. Burial will be in the church cemetery.

Mr. Jones was a retired farmer and a member of the Fort Barnwell Church of God.

Surviving him are his wife, Mrs. Dorothy Jones; three sons, Melvin Jones of Fort Barnwell, Ervin Jones of Huntington, W.Va., and Vernon Jones of Kinston; five daughters, Mrs. Addie Powell of New Bern, Mrs. Mary Anne Mills of Vanceboro, Mrs. Shirleen Coward of Cove City, Mrs. Katherine Heath of Jacksonville and Mrs. Patsy Carraway of Grifton; a sister, Mrs. Callie Jones of Fort Barnwell; four stepdaughters, Mrs. Dianne Jenkins of New Bern, Mrs. Essie Fay Hoell and Miss Carolyn Godley, both of Vanceboro, and Miss Tammy Godley of Erul; 17 grandchildren; one great-grandchild and two step-grandchildren.

The family will receive friends at the Wilkerson Funeral Home in Vanceboro Wednesday from 7 to 9 p.m. At other times they will be at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Linwood Jones near Askins.

Crime Program

sure judges should be allowed to see a juvenile's record because juveniles are not tried like adults and don't have the privilege of going before a jury.

Hunt also urged the Legislature to provide more help for victims of crime and to begin paying medical expenses for robbery victims when the money becomes available.

"North Carolina does a better job than any other state when it comes to making the criminal pay restitution to his victim," he said. "But if we are really going to get serious about putting the victim first, we have to make the victim first to be paid - before the court costs and before anything else."

In the last General Assembly session, restitution was made the fourth priority when the court distributes money collected in a case.

Hunt also recommended that:

- Armed robbery be given a minimum prison sentence of seven years.

- Facilities like training schools and Dorothea Dix mental hospital be used to house young criminals.

- Resisting unlawful arrest be made a crime.

- Minor traffic cases be taken out of District Court.

- Defendants and prosecutors be allowed to choose trial before a judge instead of trial by jury.

"The significance of this speech is that there are many other issues relating to crime besides drunken driving that we need to be involved with," said Rep. Parks Helms, D-Mecklenburg.

He praised the governor's priorities and said he was glad Hunt accepted a recommendation from the state Courts Commission to decriminalize minor traffic offenses to free time for more serious cases in District Court.

WARSAW, Poland (AP) - Nearly 5,200 Poles have applied to emigrate for political reasons since last March 1, including former leaders of the banned union Solidarity, Information Minister Jerzy Urban has announced.

Cold-Shooting Rampants Fall To Hunt, 44-32

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

WILSON — Rose High School's Rampants went through an icy night shooting the basketball last night, and Wilson Hunt's Warriors took full advantage of it to claim a 44-32 victory in the Big East contest.

Earlier, the same problem plagued the Rampettes, as they bowed to Hunt, 37-26. The varsity boys shot only 26.9 percent for the game, including a horrid 11.1 percent in the third period, when Hunt made its biggest move. Until then, it had been a close game as Rose controlled the tempo of the contest.

That tempo was one of slow deliberation. "We weren't trying to hold the ball," Rose Coach Jim Brewington said. "We were trying to get them out of their zone defense."

Hunt, however, crossed Rose up, sending out two guards to chase the ball while leaving three men still in a zone. "They were packing in the lane, and we wanted to get them a little more opened up," the coach continued. "But they were never willing to come out and get us."

Unfortunately for the Rampants, Rose was unable to control the ball effectively enough to work it in for shots, and resulting turnovers allowed Hunt to ease out into a slim 12-11 lead at the end of the first half.

"It was just one of those nights," Brewington said. "We just couldn't get the ball into the basket. I don't understand it after we played so well the other night (90-62 win over Wilson Pike)."

Both teams missed early shots, before Rose took the lead with 4:35 left on a driving shot by Tony Clemons. Bobby Hines then tied it 14 seconds later before Jeff Hopkins put Rose back out, 3-2. Eric Ingram's jumper put Hunt ahead, 4-3, but Donnell Lee put Rose ahead 5-4, and Mac Walston's free throw ran the lead to 6-4.

After a Hunt free throw, Hopkins tapped back a missed shot for an 8-5 lead, the biggest Rose was to enjoy before Larry Carter slammed through a dunk to cut it to 8-7.

The two teams swapped the lead early in the third period, with Rose moving back ahead, 10-9, then 11-9 on a free throw by Lee. Rose then controlled the ball for nearly four minutes before a missed shot returned it to Hunt and Ingram tied it up with a driving layup at 11-11. With 58 seconds left, after Rose missed again, Glen Coley's free throw put Hunt ahead, 12-11, at intermission.

Rose never caught up again. The Rampants missed 13 consecutive shots at the basket to start the third period, hitting just two of 18

North Pitt Hits 16 of 21 FTs In Final Period

Panthers Beat A-G, 60-50

By RICK SCOPPE
Reflector Sports Writer

LITTLEFIELD — North Pitt proved Tuesday that practice may not make perfect but it certainly helps as the Panthers tightened the chase for the Eastern Carolina Conference title.

The Panthers, who have had their problems at the foul line this season, nailed 16 of 21 free throws in the final quarter to hold off ECC-leader Ayden-Grifton, 60-50.

In the girls' game, North Pitt defeated Ayden-Grifton, 47-45.

The Panthers, ranked the second worst foul shooting team in the league, stayed after practice to work on their free throw shooting Monday night. The work paid off and quickly as North Pitt hit 71.2% (28 of 39) of its free throws as it won its sixth game in seven outings.

"We shot free throws well for the first time this season. It could be because we worked on it some (Monday) night," Panther coach Cobby Deans said after his team upped its record to 12-4 overall.

The Panthers are now tied with Ayden-Grifton for first in the ECC at 5-1. A-G, which has now lost two straight, is 10-5 overall.

The Panthers led, 13-9, after the first quarter and pushed their lead to 25-19 at intermission. North Pitt upped its lead to 33-21 — its biggest of the game — midway the third period and led at the end of the quarter, 36-29.

Ayden-Grifton sliced lead to 44-41 with 4:49 left in the game on a follow shot by Tyrone Gay. A-G used a bucket and two free throws by point guard Greg Briley to make it 48-41 with 3:15 to go.

The Chargers never got closer than five after that as North Pitt hit seven of 10 free throws to seal the win. Center Ken Whitehurst hit three of four over that span, but it was point guard Greg Briley who set the stage early.

Briley hit four straight free throws to open the quarter and canned nine of 10 before the game ended. Briley, who finished with 18 points, hit 12 of 15 FTs on the night. He also had seven rebounds.

"He just had a good game," Deans said. "He's a good guy for taking what the defense gives him."

Added A-G coach Bob Murphrey: "Briley is an excellent guard. He seemed a step quicker than our guards."

Dennis Bradley led North Pitt with 21 points. He hit seven of 11 from the line and also had a team-high eight rebounds. Greg Hines started and scored 11 points despite playing on a still-healing ankle.

A-G was led by Thomas Anderson with 13 points. Jeff Dixon added 11. Tyrone Gay had 10 and eight rebounds as A-G out rebounded North Pitt, 28-22.

The Panthers, who had but four field goals in the final quarter, hit 51.6% (16 of 31) from the floor compared to 33.8% (21 of 48) for A-G.

"I thought they controlled the tempo," Murphrey said.

"They are so patient offensively they just take the starch out of you."

"I didn't think we played hard until the third quarter," he said. "I didn't feel like we had a lot of intensity the first half and I don't know why. We had some opportunities but we squandered them away. You pay the price when you play a team like North Pitt and do that."

Early on, North Pitt forced the ball inside to Bradley, who used all his ample muscle for eight points to help the Panthers take a 13-9 lead at the end of the first period.

A drive along the left baseline and a free throw by Bradley upped the bulge to 18-9 early in the second period. Two free throws each by Briley and Bradley put the margin at 22-11 with 3:56 left.

Gay, who Murphrey credited with helping to keep A-G in the game, did just that with a rebound of a missed free throw and two foul shots that helped narrow the lead to 22-17 with 2½ minutes left.

The Panthers came out in the second half and immediately stretched their bulge to 29-19 on two free throws by Bradley and Hines. A pair of jumpers by Anderson sandwiched around a drive by Gay cut the lead to 36-29 after three periods.

North Pitt maintained its seven-point lead early in the final period thanks to four free throws by Briley and buckets by Bradley and Hines. But, A-G came back to cut the lead to 44-41 with 4:30 left on a layup by Dixon.

But, the Chargers could get no closer as the Panthers used free throws to keep A-G at bay.

In the girls' game, North Pitt outscored Ayden-Grifton 10 to 2 in the second half and the Pant-HERS held on in the final minute to end a three-game losing streak.

The score was tied, 21-21, at the half, but North Pitt scored eight straight point to open a 31-23 lead with 2:55 left. DeLores Pittman, who had a pair of buckets during the run, gave the Pant-HERS their biggest lead at 35-26 with a field goal as the period ended.

The Lady Chargers, who have now lost four straight, rallied to within two at 41-39 with 1:49 left but could get no closer as Linda Harrell put in a missed show and hit a free throw in the last minute to seal the win.

North Pitt, without starting sophomore center Sudie Sharpe who quit the team this week, is now 2-4 in the ECC and 7-10 overall. Ayden-

Face Rams Tonight, Patriots Thursday

DHC Wrestlers Go For Title

By RICK SCOPPE
Reflector Sports Writer

HOLLYWOOD — D.H. Conley stands just one win from clinching its second straight Coastal Conference championship. But, standing between Conley and the title are two teams the Vikings rallied to beat earlier this year.

Still, the fourth-ranked Vikings figure to come away with at least one victory this week when they entertain Havelock tonight and West Carteret Thursday night as DHC closes out its regular season.

D.H. Conley stands alone atop the league with a 4-0 mark. The Patriots, ranked 11th in the state, are 3-1-1 and Havelock, ranked 19th, is 1-2-1. The Patriots, 8-1-1 overall, and the Rams tied earlier in the year, but West Carteret whipped the Rams, 45-18, last Monday.

D.H. Conley, which is 12-1 overall, downed West Carteret, 42-25, and Havelock, 36-22. DHC's lone loss was to then top-ranked Sanderson, 31-30.

"It's a good challenge for us. The conference has really been tough this year and that's been good for us — and, I think, Havelock and West Carteret. Getting ready for Havelock and West Carteret has really pushed the team."

The Vikings come into the match with two unbeaten wrestlers — William Bridgett 19-0 at 157-pounds and Mike Long 17-0 at 187 pounds. Both Bridgett and Long won individual titles at the WRAL and West Carteret Invitational.

Long is a defending state champ and Bridgett was a conference champ last year, one of Conley's five returning conference champs. Along with Long and Bridgett, Conley's Willie Greene, Paul Menichelli and Reginald Moore also were conference champs.

Greene is 12-2 this season at 169 pounds and Menichelli is Knox Quits, Headed To Seahawks?

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Chuck Knox has given up his job as head coach of the Buffalo Bills to assume that position with the Seattle Seahawks next season, according to several reports.

WKBW-TV and the Buffalo News said Knox, one of the most successful National Football League coaches over the last 10 years, was expected to announce his plans at a news conference today. The time was uncertain.

Knox, who quit the Bills Tuesday, didn't return several calls placed to his home. Spokesmen for the Bills and the Seahawks said they knew nothing about Knox's plans.

The News also reported that defensive coordinator Tom Catlin may replace Knox, and was set to meet with club owner Ralph Wilson today in Detroit.

Knox, who had one year left on a six-year contract, met with Wilson Tuesday. Upon his return here, he told reporters at the airport:

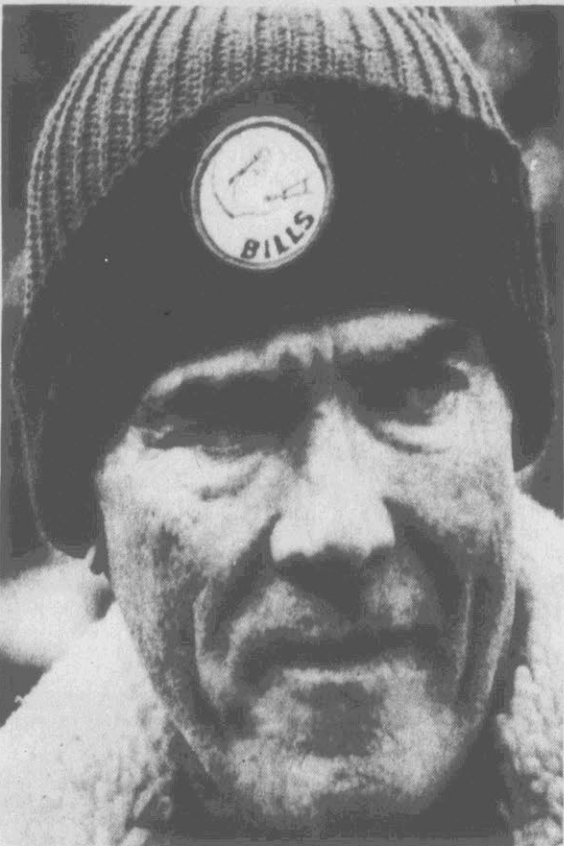

"I was offered an extension of my contract, but I decided that I should resign and be relieved of any contractual obligations."

Differences between Knox and Wilson reportedly stemmed from the team's refusal to sign or keep satisfied top players such as linebacker Tom Cousineau, running back Joe Cribbs and nose tackle Fred Smerlas.

Cousineau, the first player picked in the 1979 draft, rejected a Bills' contract and played in Canada. When the Bills had a shot at signing him last summer, they traded him to Cleveland.

Cribbs, who held out unsuccessfully from training camp and the team's first two games this year to force a new contract, and Smerlas are All-Pro.

Fifteen players on the 49-man roster become free agents Feb. 1 and Knox reportedly was unhappy at the slow progress being made to re-sign them, and to extend his own contract.

As usual, however, he kept his views of the team to himself.

"In order for me to remain, a lot had to be resolved and a lot had to happen," he said. "I don't want to go into anything like that right now. That's not my style."

Knox and players said Catlin, a linebacker coach with the Los Angeles Rams for 12 seasons through 1978, would be a worthy successor.

"I couldn't give anybody a higher recommendation," Knox said. "Tom Catlin is an excellent football coach."

"If they move up someone from the ranks, like Tom Catlin, maybe rebuilding wouldn't be affected," reserve wide receiver Lou Piccone said.

Catlin, 51, told WKBW that he would like to move up.

"I'm interested in the head job, sure," Catlin said. "Most coaches are."

The Bills were 5-23 combined the two years before Knox took over. By his third year, they won the American Football Conference East title, and have been competitive ever since, this season's 4-5 record notwithstanding.

The Bills' defense was one of the weakest in the league in 1977. In 1980, after three years under Catlin, it was the best in the league.

This season, the Bills broke to a 2-0 start and were talking Super Bowl. After the strike, the team lost five of seven games and didn't even qualify for the playoffs.

Knox said it was his most disappointing season.

Knox joined the Bills after leading the Los Angeles Rams to five straight division titles. His five-year record with Buffalo is 38-37. His overall record as an NFL head coach is 95-58-1.

Bear Bryant In Hospital With Chest Pains

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (AP) — Former Alabama Coach Paul "Bear" Bryant, who won more games than any other college football coach, was kept overnight for observation after he was admitted to a hospital complaining of chest pains.

John Lucas, assistant administrator at Druid City Hospital, said the 69-year-old Bryant was brought into the emergency room at 6:15 p.m. Tuesday.

Lucas said Bryant did not suffer a heart attack, and "there appears to be no present danger."

The former coach, who stepped down in December, was "resting comfortably," and his vital signs are stable," said Lucy Jordan, spokeswoman for the hospital.

Hospital officials aren't sure what caused the chest pains, and some tests were scheduled for today. Lucas said he did not know how long Bryant would be hospitalized.

Bryant's wife, Mary Harmon, was by his side Tuesday night.

Bryant announced Dec. 15 that he was resigning after 25 years as head coach at the University of Alabama.

Bryant continued to serve as athletic director, but he was replaced on the field by one of his former stars, former New York Giants Coach Ray Perkins.

In 1982, the crease-faced, gravel-throated Bryant set a record for the most victories by a college football coach, passing the mark of 314 set by Amos Alonzo Stagg. Bryant's career total wound up at 323.

He closed out his career Dec. 29 with a victory over Illinois in the Liberty Bowl in Memphis, Tenn.

'Down And Dirty' Defense Helps Dolphins, Redskins

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Today's witnesses for the defense are Miami's A.J. Duhe and Darryl Grant of Washington, who will work in the trenches at Sunday's Super Bowl between the Dolphins and Redskins.

They are the grunts of pro football, the game's foot soldiers, who earn their living as Duhe likes to say, "playing down and dirty."

Let the receivers and running backs do the end zone dances and high-five handslaps. Duhe and Grant will settle for grass-stained uniforms. That's their style.

Then, along come the conference championship games, the Super Bowl semifinals, and who should find themselves in the end zone with the football but Duhe and Grant.

That's what interceptions will do for you.

"I'll tell you, I was surprised," said Duhe, the linebacker who had three of Miami's five interceptions in the American Conference championship game against the New York Jets. "Three interceptions in a game? I never did that before, not in sandlots, not even when I was playing in my backyard."

The last one was the touchdown as Duhe first deflected and then grabbed Richard Todd's toss to Bruce Harper. As he headed for the end zone, the big linebacker kept peeking back over his shoulder, looking for company.

"I thought Harper would get me. He's faster than me. He can outrun me. I guess he must of slipped or else somebody blocked him."

When he reached paydirt, Duhe played it cool, holding the ball high. But there were no spikes for him.

"I never considered it," he said. "Some of the guys wanted me to, but I didn't think of it."

Duhe was blasé about his TD. He has, after all, been in the end zone before. "Oh sure, in high school and junior high school. Everybody scores in high school."

That's what he thinks.

"I never scored before," said Grant, a defensive end. Not even in high school?

"Never."

Then, against Dallas, Dexter Manley deflected a pass into the air. When it wafted down, there was Grant waiting for it.

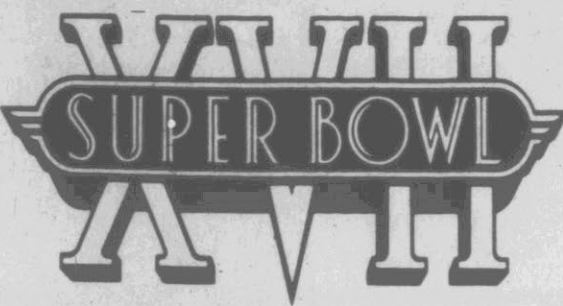

"I thought it took an awfully long time to come down," he said. "We were in a basic 4-3 defense and when I slipped in so easy, I thought the screen pass was coming. So I stopped. That's when Dexter tipped it."

Grant had company on the road to the end zone.

"I didn't know it was going to be a touchdown," he said. "I felt somebody starting to brush against me, but I kept right on running."

He had less distance to go for his TD than Duhe. It was just 10 yards to the end zone, and when he got there, he did a spike that would make the most flamboyant pass-catcher proud.

"I definitely wanted to spike it," he said. "I come from Texas, and I always take a lot move against the Jets.

"I lined up on every position on the front line, tight end, both tackles, both guards and center," he said.

And what will he do against the Redskins?

Duhe just smiled. Washington can find that out Sunday.

of flack about the Cowboys."

But he's a defensive player. Certainly he has been on the field enough times when other teams were spiking the ball to know how irritating that could be.

A tiny twinkle crept into his eye.

"Yeah," he said. "It was fun."

Duhe and Grant represent two proud defenses.

The Dolphins led the league in fewest yards allowed, 2,312 to 2,560 for the Redskins, who were fourth. Washington allowed the fewest points, 128 to 131 for Miami, which was second.

There is little to pick and choose between them, except that Washington uses the traditional 4-3 front while Miami lines up in a 3-4.

"Our team plays better defense than anybody else," proclaimed Duhe.

Unless it's Washington.

"We're happy with our defense," said Dave Butz, one of Grant's partners up front for the Redskins. "In years past, teams could save one play to get out of bad situations against us. But we're a lot quicker, a lot more unified now."

Against the Dolphins, Butz said Washington's defenders would have to be concerned with the mobility of quarterback David Woodley. "I think containing the run will be the major goal, and then we can tee off on the passing game."

Miami's Duhe, of course, has the same idea.

Tackle Joe Jacoby, one of the main men on the Redskins offensive line, knows that Duhe will pose a major problem for the Hogs.

"A.J. can do many different things," he said. "He's all over the place, from tackle to tackle."

Jacoby obviously is paying attention. Duhe was on the

The Dolphins began preparation for the Redskins Tuesday, practicing at nearby Fullerton State. Shula said place-kicker Uwe von Schamann, playing with a hairline fracture of a small bone in his back, did not aggravate the injury against the Jets. Franklin, who suffered a mild concussion during the game, also was reported healthy.

Everett Leads Redskins With 22

Roanoke Nips Edenton

EDENTON — Greg Everett pumped in 22 points and Garrett Baker added 14 as Roanoke maintained its hold on first in the Northeastern Conference by beating Edenton, 58-56, Tuesday night.

In the girls' game, Roanoke ripped Edenton, 43-23.

Everett, who has now scored 54 points in the last two games and has scored 20 or more points five times this season, canned 10 field goals and two of two at the foul line to lead Roanoke.

The Redskins are now 11-2 overall and 9-1 in the league. The Aces are now 7-8 overall and 2-8 in the conference.

Roanoke trailed, 12-10, after the opening eight minutes and saw the Aces push their lead to 29-24 at the half.

The Redskins rallied in the third period, however, outscoring the Aces, 16 to 6, to take a 40-35 lead after three periods. The Aces sliced the Redskins lead in the final period but could not take the lead as Roanoke held on.

Edenton was led by David Walker with 20 points and Wayland Stallings with 11. Edenton hit 19 of 31 foul shots, Roanoke eight of 10.

In the girls' game, Roanoke jumped out to an 11-2 lead after the first period and never looked back. The Lady Redskins led, 19-10, at intermission and 27-16 after three periods.

Roanoke then extended its lead to the final 20-point margin by outscoring the Lady Aces, 16-7, in the final eight minutes.

Roanoke is now 10-3 overall and 9-1 in the league. Edenton is 12-3 and 7-3.

Neither team had anyone in double figures.

Roanoke travels to Plymouth Friday.

Hunt, 56-32

Greenville Rose captured five of the last seven bouts to slip by Wilson Hunt, 56-32, Tuesday night in a Big East Conference wrestling match.

Rose, now 8-3 overall and 4-2 in the league, and Hunt were tied, 24-24, going into the 140-pound class. But Rose won the next three bouts and then, after a tie at 169, won two of the next three to win.

Rose travels to Northeastern Friday for its season finale.

Belhaven Edges Bullets

BELHAVEN — Leslie Davis scored 16 points and Ed Burrus had 13 as Belhaven raced to an early lead and held off a late Jamesville rally to nip the Bullets, 59-57, Tuesday night in a Tobacco Belt Conference game.

Earlier, in the girls' game, Belhaven ripped Jamesville, 60-39.

Jamesville trailed, 46-37, going into the final period but the Bullets rallied to cut the lead to 58-57 with 16 seconds left. But Belhaven hit one of two foul shots and the Bullets failed to get off a last second shot as they fell to 0-13 overall and 0-10 in the league.

Jamesville jumped out to a 16-15 lead after the first period, but the Bulldogs outscored the Bullets, 19-12, in the second period to go up, 34-28 at the half. Belhaven upped its lead to 46-37 after three periods and held off Jamesville in the final minute for the win.

Belhaven is now 7-7 overall and 6-4 in the league. Joining Davis and Burrus in double figures for Belhaven was Al Whitney with 11 points. Jamesville was led by Tracy Peele with 19 points and Kenny Moore with 16.

In the girls' game, Tellie Cotton scored 23 points to lead unbeaten Belhaven to an easy victory over the Lady Bullets.

The win left Belhaven at 14-0 overall. The Lady Bulldogs lead the conference with a 10-0 mark. Jamesville is now 4-6.

Panthers Beat A-G...

Grifton falls to 2-4 and 5-10. "It was slow-motion out there but we won," Pant-HER coach Randy Avery said afterwards. "We needed it bad. "This is a big win for us. We still have our goals," Avery said. "We want to finish the second half strong and make the districts, and Ayden-Grifton on the road is a big win for us."

Harrell led the Pant-HERS with 13 points. Sherri Bradley chipped in 11 while Pittman added 10.

Ayden-Grifton was led by Cora Faison with 15 and Linda Brown with 10.

The Lady Chargers jumped ahead early, using a three-point play and a driving jumper by Faison for an 11-4 lead with 1:59 left in the first period. But the Pant-HERS rallied to cut the lead to 13-12 at the end of the quarter.

North Pitt took its first lead (16-15) midway through the first quarter. The two teams exchanged the lead five times before finishing the first 16 minutes 21-21.

"I'm disappointed but I'm pleased, too," A-G coach Kathy Frazier said. "I am disappointed because after we got behind in the third quarter we came back but didn't win."

"I'm pleased," Frazier added, "because we played well compared to the way we played last Thursday and Friday." Ayden-Grifton lost to Farmville (54-39) Thursday and D.H. Conley (43-36) Friday.

Ayden-Grifton entertains SouthWest Edgecombe Friday and North Pitt is a C.B. Aycock.

Viking Wrestlers

Conley Goes For Title...

14-5 at 197 pounds. Both are seniors.

The Vikings' strong suit is the upper weight classes, but DHC is not without a few outstanding wrestlers in the middle and lower classes — where both the Rams and Patriots are strongest.

Andy Majette, a senior, is 15-3 at 140 pounds and Moore, a junior, is 16-4 at 114 pounds.

Sherman said he was particularly pleased with the improvement in Majette, who was second in the conference meet a year ago, and in Bridgett. Said Sherman: "Majette worked out with the weights in the off-season and he's mentally tougher this year."

As for Bridgett, the coach said: "He realizes that he is a senior and this is his last year and he's going out there with that in mind." Bridgett leads DHC in takedowns (19), pins (15) and team points (119).

Sherman also praised sophomore Kerry Farris. Farris, JV captain a year ago, is 10-3 at 121 pounds this season.

"He has been determined to make a good transition from the junior varsity to varsity level," Sherman said.

Completing the starting lineup for the Vikings are:

100 pounds — Todd Cochran (sophomore, 12-5); 107 — Allen Nethercutt (freshman, 3-2); 128 — Chad Clark (sophomore, 2-2); 134 — Shawn Hardy (junior, 12-7); 147 — James Edwards (junior, 2-6); HWT — Stacy McCarter (junior, 12-4).

McCarter has Conley's fastest pin of the year at 12 seconds, only two seconds off the school record.

Clark, who normally wrestles at 114 pounds, will move to 128 for Joel Maye, a sophomore who was 8-8 before cracking a bone in his wrist last weekend against Washington. Maye is lost for the season.

Reserves for Sherman include: 140 — Chun Duncan (sophomore, 1-5); 169 — Ricky Rice (sophomore, 4-0); HWT — Gerald Harper (sophomore, 2-0).

Sherman said the Vikings started slowly but have improved steadily as the year has gone on.

"During December, we didn't seem to be as hard-nosed as we should have been. We seem to be improving in that regard and they seem to really want to win the conference again," Sherman said.

The Vikes get their shot at clinching the championship this week — against two teams that are strong where DHC is weakest. "Both Havelock and West Carteret are strongest in the lower and middle weights," Sherman said. "We've got hang tough in the first eight weights and try to beat them in the upper weight classes."

"We've got a great deal of respect for both teams," he said. "The matchups at various weight classes could be very important. I had (West Carteret) just where I wanted them last time."

That may change this time. Said Sherman: "If Havelock and West Carteret makes certain shifts it'll make it tougher for us to beat them."

West Carteret did just that against Havelock last week. Roy Heverly moved from 140 to 157, which put Jeff Nesom at 140. Also, Tim Tucker moved from 157 to 167 and Tony Davis moved up one class to 187.

Heverly is a three-time all-stater who was a state champion as a freshman and has since finished third and second. Heverly is 15-0 this season. West Carteret has three others with just one loss: Danny Iwanicki (14-1 at 107), Ricky Gentry (14-1 at 134) and Davis (13-1-2 at 169).

The Conley-West Carteret match may also be the final regular-season match for Patriot coach Gordon Patrick. Patrick has won 180 matches while losing only 23 during his 18 years at West Carteret.

Asked if he was retiring at the end of the season, Patrick said: "That's what I've been telling everybody. It's been 18 good years, but there have been some long years. I've got some other interests I'm looking at right now."

Among Havelock's top wrestlers are: D.J. Fleming (15-0 at 147), Scott Littrell (14-0 at 121), Steve Jarvis (14-1 at 121) and Mike Rook (10-5 at 157). The Rams are 5-3-1 overall.

Chuck Anderson, who is 11-3 at 114, may not wrestle tonight. Anderson has been out with mononucleosis since Christmas and practiced for the first time Monday. "He wants to wrestle, but I don't think he's going to," Havelock coach Wilbur Sasser said.

"But," Sasser said, "really and truly, (Conley) doesn't have a whole lot to worry about. We are not going in at full-strength — and they beat us earlier in the year when we were at full strength."

Hunt Defeats Rose...

shots during the quarter. Meanwhile, Hunt was running through 10 unanswered points to run its lead out to 11 points, 22-11. Later in the period, that was stretched to 12, 26-14, and Hunt took a 26-16 lead into the final frame.

Rose rallied, however, cutting that back to five, 31-26, on six points by Lee, but that was as close as they could come. Turnovers and missed shots cost them as Hunt came back to score eight straight and take a 39-26 lead as Christy Rodri and Carter each scored four points. With 3:38 remaining at that point, it put the game away for the Warriors.

Carter led Hunt with 14 points, while Bobby Hines had 12. Rose was led by Lee with 12.

"We came on pretty good there in the fourth period," Brewington said. "But we were really already out of it. We just couldn't shoot, that was the game."

Hunt hit 53.1 percent of its shots from the floor, and also made good on 10 of 18 at the line. The Warriors held only a 32-30 rebounding edge and committed four more turnovers, 22-18.

The loss drops Rose to 2-3 in the Big East and 3-8 overall. Hunt climbs to 2-3 and 9-4.

Rose's girls suffered an almost similar fate. After a horrid fourth period against Fike, the shooting woes of the Rampettes continued against Hunt as they hit only 38.7 percent. Hunt meanwhile hit 47.8 percent of its shots.

The Lady Warriors also enjoyed a 29-19 rebounding edge, and shot 20 more free throws, hitting 15 of 27 as compared to Rose's two of seven.

"Anyone can see we're not playing for four quarters," Coach Dennis Gibson said. "Our percentage was a little better (than against Fike), but it's still too low. We can do better offensively and defensively."

Rose was without the services of center Doris Richardson, who missed the bus and arrived too late for the game. "I don't want to put any blame on her," Gibson insisted, "but she could have helped us had she been here."

Of the fouls, Gibson said, "Once we get behind, we tend to get too aggressive and forget our fundamentals and start reaching. Then, we make the cheap foul."

Rose led early, taking a 4-0 lead on baskets by Sheila Carmon and Alma Atkinson. Following a free throw by Ann Ellen, Frances Barnhill hit to raise the lead to 6-1, Rose's biggest. It was 6-3 at the end of the quarter.

Hunt rallied and pulled even at 8-8 on a basket by Angie Anthony, and finally took the lead at 12-10 as Rhonda

Ahoskie Outlasts Tigers In 2 OTs

AHOSKIE — Williamston and Ahoskie battled on even terms through two overtimes before Ahoskie finally pulled out a 52-49 victory in their Northeastern Conference basketball game last night.

In the girls' game, Williamston nipped Ahoskie, 40-39.

Williamston held a slim 11-10 lead after one period and carried that through the second period to take a 21-20 halftime lead in the boys' game. Ahoskie came back to ease ahead, 30-29, in the third quarter, but Williamston went back out in the closing minutes, 40-39.

Tim Lassiter then made a free throw to tie it up before both teams had a couple of other opportunities to win it. Roosevelt Everett missed the front end of a one-and-one for Williamston with two seconds left that could have ended it.

In the first overtime, Ahoskie went out by three points, but Williamston came back with Everett again at the line, this time for a pair. He missed both, but on the second, David Little got the rebound and scored to make it 44-44. Williamston stole the inbound pass with two seconds left, but failed on a long shot at the basket.

In the second extra period, Ahoskie moved ahead, thanks to a 3-for-5 effort by Lassiter at the line to pull out the victory.

Kelly Burden led Ahoskie with 18 points and Weiling White had 12, while Little had 18 and Maurice Carter had 13 for Williamston.

In the girls' game, it was just as close — at the end at least. Williamston shot out into a 9-2 lead after one period and took an 18-11 lead into intermission.

The Lady Tigers eased their lead out to 31-23 during the third period, but had to withstand an Ahoskie rally, 16-9, in the final quarter that nearly pulled it out. Williamston missed several chances at the foul line in the closing minutes that could have made it a bit more comfortable for the Lady Tigers.

Valenzuela Seeking $1,000,000

By The Associated Press
Pitcher Fernando Valenzuela of the Los Angeles Dodgers is seeking a salary of $1 million a year and this time there will be no holdout if he doesn't get it.

Valenzuela, the National League's Cy Young Award winner as a rookie in 1981 and a 19-game winner last season, formally requested that an arbitrator set his salary at $1 million for the 1983 season. The Dodgers reportedly are offering $750,000.

Valenzuela held out for $1 million last year and settled for $350,000 without formally signing a contract. As a first-year player, he wasn't eligible for arbitration.

Under the rules, the arbitrator must decide on either the player's figure or the club's offer. That means Valenzuela's salary will be more than the previous high arbitration award — $700,000 to relief pitcher Bruce Sutter of the Chicago Cubs in 1980. Sutter now plays for the St. Louis Cardinals.

Tuesday was the deadline for filing for salary arbitration and 48 players did so, bringing the total to 84. Among the latest to file was Oakland A's outfielder Rickey Henderson, who won a $535,000 contract from an arbitrator a year ago. This time, Henderson has even more ammunition, having stolen a record 130 bases last season.

Two key Montreal pitchers — starter Bill Gullickson and reliever Jeff Reardon — also filed for arbitration, along with third baseman Tim Wallach.

Anthony Named Bowler Of Year

CHICAGO (AP) — For the fifth time in his career and the second straight year, Californian Earl Anthony has been named Bowler of the Year by the Bowling Writers Association.

The honor leaves 44-year-old Anthony, a southpaw from Dublin, Calif., one behind Don Carter, who has been selected a record six times. Anthony previously was named in 1974, 1975, 1976 and 1981.

Anthony was named on 209 of the 211 ballots cast by a panel of writers and broadcasters, receiving 194 first-place votes and a total of 1,615 points.

Dave Husted of Milwaukee, Ore., was a distant second with nine first-place votes and 814 points.

Valvano's Contract Extended

RALEIGH (AP) — North Carolina State head basketball coach Jim Valvano says he's excited about the "dual commitment" for a long-term agreement that he and North Carolina State officials have made.

Chancellor Bruce Poulton announced on Tuesday a new, long-term contract for Valvano, who is currently in his third season at the school.

"This is the most important commitment of my life," Valvano said of the contract. "I've indicated to the university my strong desire to remain at N.C. State for the rest of my coaching career."

"We love North Carolina, my wife, family and I," Valvano said. "I am committed to the university and I was the one who went to the university."

Valvano, 36, came to N.C. State from Iona, where he turned a lackluster program into a nationally recognized contender. In his last two seasons there, Iona registered a 51-10 record and twice went to the NCAA tournament.

At N.C. State, Valvano has compiled a 44-29 record. Last year's Wolfpack team went 22-10 and received an invitation to the NCAA tournament, where it lost to Tennessee-Chattanooga. His career record is 180-126.

A 1967 graduate of Rutgers, Valvano began his coaching career as an assistant with the Scarlet Knights after starring as a player for three seasons. He also served as an assistant at Connecticut and has served as head coach at Johns Hopkins and Bucknell.

"I am delighted that Jim wants to be with N.C. State for a lengthy period of time," said Athletic Director Willis Casey in a prepared statement. "I hope this ensures that he will remain with us for the rest of his coaching career."

"I feel so excited about the dual commitment," Valvano said. "That's a nice feeling back and forth. I told them I'm very happy here."

Details of the paper were not announced.

Ex-ASU AD Outlines Playoff Idea

By The Associated Press
With the Super Bowl about to decide the king of professional football and runner-up Southern Methodist University still refusing to concede that Penn State deserved the 1982 national championship, talk of a possible major college playoff is surfacing again.

Dr. Fred Miller, former athletic director at Arizona State University, has a plan for such a playoff to begin in the mid-1980s. It would involve pay television and, Miller says, could result in a staggering annual gross of $1 billion on pay subscription TV and perhaps $2 billion on pay per view TV. It would be, he says, "the most significant sporting event in the U.S."

Miller outlined his plan in the winter edition of "Athletic Administration," the official publication of the National Association of Collegiate Directors of Athletics.

"I don't hold this plan sacred," he says. "But not only can this be the most quality athletic event in this country, but the cash flows generated will help fund total university athletic programs and reverse the alarming trend of sports reduction, primarily in Olympic development sports."

Miller's playoff formula would involve 24 teams, with 16 unseeded teams playing during the first week of December and the winners of those games playing seven seeded conference champions plus one independent during the second full week of December. The last two weeks of the year would be reserved for final exams and Christmas holidays.

The post-season bowls, of course, are vehemently opposed to any sort of playoff, even one utilizing their games, as Miller's proposal would do. It would, in fact, involve all of the current bowls, except possibly the Independence Bowl, and would even establish a few more.

"All bowls in a championship format will have meaning and are the primary vehicle with which the championship is organized," Miller says.

The plan assumes there will be two pay TV networks with an average of 25 million households during the period from 1986-1996. An average $10-a-month charge per household, Miller says, would produce $3 billion annually per network ($10 per month equals $120 per household per year, multiplied by 25 million households). With two networks, that means a $6-billion annual gross. The football playoffs, involving 16 games in December, would share in one-twelfth of that gross and seven January games would share in another one-twelfth.

"This yields a total of one-sixth (two months out of 12 programming months) or $1 billion gross for the football championships," Miller says.

His sample playoff schedule looks like this:

Sites for the first week in December would be the Tangerine, Peach, Liberty and Aloha Bowls, plus new bowls in Las Vegas, Tucson, Seattle and Indianapolis. Each first-round participant would receive $2.5 million and each bowl would get $1 million.

The second week in December would match the Atlantic Coast Conference champion against a first-round winner in the Gator Bowl; the Big Eight champ against a first-round winner in the Sun Bowl; the Southeastern Conference champ against a first-round winner in the Hall of Fame Bowl; the Western Athletic Conference champ against a first-round winner in the Holiday Bowl; the Pacific-10 champ against a first-round winner in the Fiesta Bowl; the Southwest Conference champ against a first-round winner in the Bluebonnet Bowl and the Big Ten and top-rated independent against first-round winners in the Pontiac, Mich., Silverdome and Syracuse University's Carrier Dome.

Each second-round conference champion would receive $4.5 million and the first-round winners another $2.5 million. Each bowl would receive $1.5 million.

On Jan. 1, quarter-final games would be held in the Orange, Cotton, Rose and Sugar Bowls, with each team receiving $5 million and each bowl getting $2 million.

The semifinals (Orange-Sugar winners, Cotton-Rose winners) at sites to be selected on the second full Saturday in January, would produce $6 million for each participating team, with bowl costs to be absorbed by the management consulting company fee. The finalists in the championship game would receive $8 million apiece, with bowl costs absorbed as the semifinals.

Miller says a partnership concept should exist between the colleges and the pay TV networks.

NFL Argument Ends In Wounds

MORGANTON (AP) — Two men arguing about the National Football Conference championship game between the Dallas Cowboys and Washington Redskins suffered cuts when their debate grew heated, authorities say.

George N. Moore, 45, was kidding Paul Rutherford, reportedly an avid Cowboy fan, about the 31-17 Washington victory in Saturday's game when the two men began arguing Monday afternoon, Burke County sheriff's deputies said Tuesday.

Rutherford allegedly pulled a knife and chased after Moore, who was treated at Grace Hospital for multiple stab wounds to the chin, left shoulder and back, sheriff's deputies said.

Rutherford is scheduled to have surgery on his hand and was in the hospital Tuesday night. Rutherford told hospital officials he was cut while working with an ax, but deputies said they believe his hand was hurt as a result of the argument.

No charges had been filed by Tuesday night, authorities said.

Reese Begins Term

MIAMI (AP) — Former pro football player Don Reese, who detailed his cocaine use in a national sports magazine story last summer, began serving a minimum six-month prison term for violating his 1977 drug probation.

Reese faces an indeterminate sentence of six months to five years, with the Florida Department of Corrections determining how much time he actually serves.

Dade Circuit Judge Judge Ellen Morphonious Gable also ordered Reese to enroll in a prison drug program.

EBA's Boys Win First

Dwight Smith poured in 25 points and Wayland Moore chipped in 24 as E.B. Aycock defeated Wilson Hunt, 83-56, for its first victory over the season last night.

In the girls game, F.B. Aycock defeated Wilson Hunt, 66-53.

The EBA boys are now 1-4 overall. EBA's girls are 4-1.

Reagan Defense Cut Proves To Be Only A 'Nick'

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Minutes after President Reagan proposed a five-year, $55 billion reduction in his defense buildup, Pentagon planners acknowledged the cutback will only nick the projected $1.6 trillion he plans to spend through fiscal 1988.

They said no major weapons programs would be affected.

In his State of the Union speech Tuesday night, Reagan said that he will scale down his program to rebuild American defenses beyond the $8 billion spending rollback announced earlier in the month by Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger for fiscal 1984.

By one measure, Reagan is proposing to trim $55 billion from his defense spending between 1984 and 1988. That's authorized spending over the period, but translates to $47 billion in actual outlays during the period.

But first reaction from Capitol Hill indicated Congress would seek greater reductions.

"The president will have to give more on defense than he would like," said Sen. John Danforth, R-Mo.

Sen. Christopher J. Dodd, D-Conn., called the proposed defense cut a "token gesture."

Fellow Connecticut Sen. Lowell P. Weicker Jr., a Republican, said Congress would insist on more.

Rep. Stephen Solarz, D-N.Y., said the reduction "is at best a mere pittance."

Weinberger had previously announced willingness to shelve $8 billion worth of defense increases planned for 1984 alone. Tuesday night, Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., told interviewers that a $20 billion cut would be more acceptable. Senate Republican leader Howard Baker Jr. said last weekend that the 1984 defense reduction ought to be on the plus side of $15 billion.

Reagan has embarked on a broadscale military weapons modernization and growth program and defense officials, who spoke Tuesday night on condition of anonymity, said Reagan's new spending plans would not effect major weapons programs.

As in the case of the projected $8 billion saving in fiscal 1984, Pentagon officials said they anticipate that the five-year reductions can be achieved from lower prices stemming from anticipated curbs in inflation.

For example, they believe the price of fuel to run the nation's planes, ships and armored vehicles will continue to go down.

In his speech, Reagan noted that most of the major weapons systems being pushed by his administration "already are under way." He meant production of the B-1 bomber and construction of two big nuclear powered aircraft carriers, among others.

At the same time, Reagan apologized to the 2.1 million men and women in uniform who will be denied pay increases next year.

"I'm sorry" to ask Americans in uniform to make this sacrifice, the president said, adding that he feels they will understand the need.

Two million federal civilian workers also are having their pay frozen, but Reagan voiced no words of regret.

The president claimed that "our armed forces are finally properly paid" after years in which military salaries lagged behind the civilian sector.

These pay gains for the military totaled about 26 percent in the last year of the Carter administration and the first year of the Reagan administration, but dropped off to only a 4 percent hike last fall. And now military personnel face a freeze for at least a year beyond next year.

Land 'Gulped' By A Sinkhole

EAST RIDGE, Tenn. (AP) — With a roar like thunder, a sinkhole swallowed part of a road and portions of a yard and driveway in a residential neighborhood of this Tennessee-Georgia border town.

The sinkhole caused no injuries when it opened Tuesday, but did alarm William Dempsey, who rents a house threatened by the huge cavity.

"I heard a thunder sound," Dempsey said. "I thought it was somebody downstairs. You know, my landlord's been doing some work down there. And then I heard it again. It was louder. And then I looked out the window and saw my yard falling in."

The hole, about 40 feet deep and 75 feet wide, is approximately 50 feet from Dempsey's home.

Police roped off the area, leaving street crews with a challenging repair job.

The collapse ruptured a water line, but workers were able to seal it off and restore service to the neighborhood. The quick repair was possible because the line was fed from both ends, said Francis Alexander, a spokeswoman for Tennessee-American Water Co.

Matters weren't so simple, however, for employees assigned to cope with a threatened sewer line.

"You can just stand around the edges of it and watch the dirt falling in," Mrs. Alexander said of the sinkhole. "You could put 10 cars in this hole and still have room to shake them around."

Sinkholes commonly form in the Southeast where there are large underground deposits of soluble minerals like limestone or dolomite, said Don W. Byerly, a University of Tennessee associate professor of geology. Limestone and dolomite frequently dissolve in ground water to form underground caverns that become sinkholes when the ground above collapses, he said.

Grant Focuses On The Children

NEW YORK (AP) — The physical and mental health of poor children in the United States and Third World countries will be bolstered with Ford Foundation grants expected to total $6 million over the next two years.

In the United States, funds will be spent to help children of farm workers in Florida and of Mexican-American laborers in Texas, and to assist women in Appalachia and teen-age mothers in some major cities.

Franklin A. Thomas, president of the Ford Foundation, said that the need was great, since one in four children died before the age of 5 in Third World countries.

In the United States, one in five children lives in poverty, he added.

Besides grants for projects, the Foundation has provided about $284,000 for a research program to be conducted by Columbia University and medical specialists in Cuba, with the aim of appraising Cuba's success in reducing infant mortality.

COSTLY YEAR
LONDON (AP) — Payments on claims from 18 jet crashes, the sinking of the "Atlantic Conveyor" in the Falkland Islands and the loss of the drilling platform "Ocean Ranger" helped make 1982 the most costly year on record for the London Institute of Underwriters.

Film Capitalizing On Broken Families

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — "Running Out" is not a film about jogging. But tonight's CBS movie does capitalize on another craze — television's fascination with fractured families, in particular, stories having a parent run away for a decade or so and then drop by to say hello.

That same subject was covered quite well last month in CBS' "Memories Never Die" with Lindsay Wagner as the mother who left her family for psychiatric treatment and then the de-pressurized security of a mental hospital.

"When something works, TV can get very imitative," says Steve Mills, who heads CBS' TV movie department.

The missing mother routine returns tonight in "Running Out." The wrinkle here is that Elisabeth St. Claire (Deborah Raffin) got married at 15, had a baby at 16 and contracted a case of "Mommie Dearest" four months later.

As we learn from Elisabeth, this strain of "reluctance responsibility" is not uncommon in teen-agers, burdened with harsh reality when they should be dream- ing of sweet 16's, especially when they're married to young husbands who may not be running out but are run- ning around.

Elisabeth — she was known as Lizzie then — abandoned Paul Corsini (Tony Bill) and their daugh- ter, Jenny (Ari Meyers). She opted for Paris, where, in the intervening 12½ years, she found culture, sophistication and some guilt over her trans-Atlantic double-cross.

Although she hasn't made any contact since defecting, Elisabeth is intent on re- establishing relations when she returns to New York for a short business trip. She's serving as an interpreter for a French businessman.

Meanwhile, her daughter, who isn't much younger than Lizzie was when she got married, has turned out fine. Jenny's father is caring, if not indulgent. He's already taught Jenny to drive. Among her legal pursuits, Jenny is quite good at the violin and is practicing for her first public recital.

"Running Out" deals with the untapped and unknown emotions that surface when Elisabeth visits the happy home now occupied by Paul, Jenny and, occasionally, Paul's girlfriend, Shelly, played by Toni Kalem, the actress who beat up Goldie Hawn in "Private Ben- jamin."

Right away, there's Paul's anger and Jenny's curiosity, which all too quickly ripens into love for the mother she's never known. And there's remorse and regret from Elisabeth. "I wanted to be a mother to you, but I didn't know how," she says during a mother-daughter jaunt through New York City.

This is one of the movie's many nice little moments that, alas, don't add up to the "Great Moments" the CBS slogan promises. The script is full of contrivances and an incredible, sappy ending that fine acting can't erase.

At the top of the list is Miss Meyers, who portrayed Al Pacino's daughter in "Author! Author!" Although she's only been acting for a year, her feelings go directly from her sleeves to our senses. Her sunny smile should be around for a while.

Miss Raffin is called upon to anguish too much, but she overcomes the limited material, proving that she's matured from the days in "Once Is Not Enough" and "40 Carats" when this model-turned actress was more mannequin than the- pian.

The multitasking Bill, who co-produced "The Sting" and directed "My Bodyguard," also gives a winning performance.

"Running Out" is a "G.E. Theater" presentation ("Bill," "Something So Right" and "Two of a Kind"). As such it has the required sentimental appeal for that desired TV staple, Mr. and Mrs. Whole Family and Kids.

Coalition To Launch Drive On Sponsors Of Violence On TV

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP) — A coalition that counts "Smurfs" and "Pac-Man" among Saturday morning's most violent television shows says it will launch a year-long campaign against leading advertisers on the programs.

The National Coalition on Television said the campaign will go on even though the number of violent acts in the shows is apparently declining. NCTV said its monitors charted a 40 percent decrease in violence during what it calls the "Saturday morning mayhem" television time slot.

Several of the advertisers denied Tuesday that they were sponsoring shows harmful to children.

Nevertheless, the Cham- paign, Ill.-based organization is seeking to apply public pressure on McDonald's Corp., General Foods Inc., General Mills Corp., Mattel Toys and Kellogg's Co. as the five leading advertisers during the time slot.

"Advertisers must be more responsible in the Saturday morning educational diet they feed our children in their efforts to sell breakfast cereals, toys and ham- burgers," said Dr. Thomas Radecki, a psychiatrist and director of NCTV.

The coalition is asking civic, church and medical groups to mount a "pressure campaign ... until further progress is assured," re- lease.

"Research has proven that high violence of many car- toon programs is harmful to children viewers," said Radecki. "Cartoons still on the air have been proven harmful."

NBC's Flash Gordon was the most violent show in the time slot during the October to December period with 50 violent acts per hour, ac- cording to NCTV statistics.

During that time, NCTV monitors logged an average of 22 violent acts per hour. That represents a sharp de- cline from the summer season, when a record average of 36 violent acts were recorded, and CBS' Bugs Bunny-Roadrunner cartoons led the way with 65 acts of violence an hour.

NCTV attributed the de- cline to the release of what it called "a number of low- violence cartoon programs" in the fall.

Behind Flash Gordon, the most violent shows during the fall season, according to NCTV, were: Bugs Bunny- Roadrunner, with 48 acts of violence per hour; Blackstar, CBS, 46; Pandemonium, CBS, 36; Pac-Man, ABC, 36; Hulk, NBC, 34; Smurfs, NBC, 28; Richie Rich-Little Rascals, ABC, 24; Superfriends, ABC, 24; and Flintstones, NBC, 23.

Spokesmen for each of the three networks said they had no comment on the NCTV report. However, three advertisers defended their advertising schedules.

'Hill Street' Up In The Nielsen Ratings

LOS ANGELES (AP) — ABC tied CBS with four shows in the Top 10 to win the television ratings last week, only the second victory this season for ABC, although CBS' "60 Minutes" was again the No. 1 show.

ABC earned a 17.9 in the ratings for the weekend ending Jan. 23. The networks say this means that in an average prime-time minute 17.9 percent of the homes with television were tuned to ABC. CBS was second with 17.4 and NBC was third with 16.4.

Earlier this season ABC won the ratings for the week ended Nov. 28, 1982, finishing one-tenth of a ratings point ahead of CBS.

The ratings were delayed Tuesday by a computer fail- ure at the A.C. Nielsen Co. and late in the day only ABC had the ratings. The list here is from ABC. Spokesmen for NBC and CBS said they did not have the ratings.

The current ratings period is the first in weeks in which post-season football games did not play a role. The National Football League playoffs on Saturday and Sunday were played during the afternoon and did not run into prime time.

The CBS magazine show "60 Minutes" kept its hold on first place despite the ABC victory. ABC and CBS each had four shows in the Top 10 and NBC had two.

NBC's "Hill Street Blues" was in second place. That's the highest the police com- edy-drama has placed since December 1981, when it also came in second.

ABC's highest-rated show was "The ABC American Music Awards," which placed third. It was the highest rating and largest audience the show has re- ceived in its 10 years on the air.

Settling the Land Down Under

Today marks the anniversary of the founding of Australia. It is a time for celebration in the "land down under," though the first colonists were not happy to be "founding fathers." They were convicted criminals, and Australia was Britain's new penal colony. Before the Revolutionary War in America, Britain had sent convicts there. But after the loss of the 13 colonies, Britain needed a new home for its criminals. And so, on January 26, 1788, Captain Arthur Phillip and the first boatload of convicts established a settlement at Sydney. During the 80 years that Australia served as a penal colony, Britain sent about 168,000 prisoners there.

DO YOU KNOW — To what penal colony near Guiana did France once send prisoners?

At times, high cards can create a false picture. Had declarer been dealt a low club instead of the queen, he probably would have made his contract.

The auction was routine. Both North and South had minimum holdings for their first actions, so neither was inclined to move beyond game.

West led his fourth-best club. Even if hearts were divided 3-0, declarer was delighted with his contract. He saw that he would still succeed if West held king of clubs or if East held one of the two missing spade honors — a 76 percent chance.

So declarer finessed the jack of clubs at trick one. East won and shifted to a spade. Declarer finessed, West won the queen and exited with a club. Declarer tried two rounds of trumps, ending in dummy, and then took his last shot at the contract — he repeated the spade finesse. When this also failed, a line of play that had considerably better than a 90 percent chance had foundered.

Had declarer not been dealt the queen of clubs, he might have noticed that he had a sure-fire line. Instead of taking three finesses, he should not have taken any!

Declarer should go up with the ace of clubs at trick one, then cash the top hearts. When he discovers he has a trump loser, declarer should cash the king-ace of diamonds and ruff a diamond in hand. Then he eliminates the minor suits by exiting with a club.

East can win the club and cash his high trump, but his only safe exit is a spade. Now declarer takes the finesse. West wins, but he is end played. A spade return would be into declarer's ace-jack tenace; any other return would allow declarer to sluff his spade loser while ruffing in dummy.

Only one finesse too many? Yes, the first!

Rubber bridge clubs throughout the country use the four-deal bridge format. Do they know something you don't? Steelmakers Post A Year Of Losses

PITTSBURGH (AP) — High earnings for U.S. Steel Corp.'s newest acquisition, Marathon Oil Co., failed to keep the nation's leading steelmaker from losing $380 million last year, when its steel shipments hit a 44-year low.

The nation's top steel producer said Tuesday its loss equals $3.99 a share on sales of $18.9 billion. It reported a fourth-quarter loss of $360 million, or $3.75 a share, on sales of $4.3 billion. Meanwhile, eighth-ranked Wheeling-Pittsburgh Steel Corp. said Tuesday it lost $58.8 million, or $15.98 a common share, in 1982, compared with net income of $60 million in 1981.

Bethlehem Steel Corp. was expected to announce today a major deficit for 1982, including huge operating losses and the $750 million to $800 million cost for the planned closing of basic steelmaking at Lackawanna, N.Y., and the reorganizing of two other plants.

"Clearly business conditions are the worst since the 1930s," said Charles Bradford, a steel analyst for Merrill Lynch. "These numbers are catastrophic."

U.S. Steel Chairman David Roderick said the company's steelmaking business lost $852 million, but Marathon Oil, acquired in a celebrated $6 billion deal earlier in 1982, had income of $1.2 billion before taxes.

"The acquisition of Marathon Oil has transformed us from a company that was primarily engaged in steel and related businesses to a better balanced, diversified corporation," Roderick said. "Oil and gas sales accounted for 51 percent of our total sales in 1982 vs. 28 percent for steel," he said.

Roderick said steel was hurt by "shipments at the lowest level since 1938, the virtual collapse of the market for tubular products, record penetration of domestic markets by unfairly priced imports, and continued escalation of labor costs."

"Our steel order book is beginning to show some improvement over previous levels," Roderick said, and

Yesterday's Cryptiquip — OLD CLOCKMAKER MERITED TICKER-TAPE PARADE.

Today's Cryptiquip clue: L equals D. The Cryptiquip is a simple substitution cipher in which each letter used stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words, and words using an apostrophe can give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is accomplished by trial and error.

FORECAST FOR THURSDAY, JAN. 27, 1983

YOUR DAILY Horoscope from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A good time to observe the progress you have made in the past and to draw up new plans for greater progress in the future. Strive for success and happiness.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Go to the right sources for information you need. Take time to visit with friends and relieve tensions you are under.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You may find it difficult to handle monetary affairs early in the day but later they work out fine for you. Be wise.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Radical changes may be required to gain your most cherished aims at this time. Be sure to improve your appearance.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Make a deep study of what is really important in your life and then go after your aims in a positive manner.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Friends cannot be of much help to you during the day, but can be relied upon in the evening. Much pleasure is yours tonight.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Follow every rule and regulation that applies to you today and gain the respect of others. Be poised at all times.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Situations may not work out as fast as you would like at this time, but don't force matters, or you could get into trouble.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Compose yourself so that sudden situations today will not get the best of you. The evening can be a most happy one.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Try to please others as much as possible today and avoid unpleasantness. Take time to meditate.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Be careful in the handling of important work at this time. Taking risks could bring trouble at this time.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Don't permit anyone to force you into some situation that you know is not right for you. Be poised at all times today.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Express your fine ability when called upon to do so today and please higher-ups. Come to a fine accord with associates.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... Be sure the child will be one who can easily get along well with others. Be sure to give the best education you can afford and future success is assured. Give ethical training early in life. Sports are a must in this chart.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

he expects shipments to rise to 71 million tons in 1983 from about 60 million tons in 1982.

U.S. Steel's fourth-quarter loss is second only to the $668.9 million loss reported in the final quarter of 1979 when it closed 16 steelmaking operations employing 13,000 workers in eight states. Roderick called for a "more competitive" labor agreement. The current contract between eight of the industry's biggest producers and the United Steelworkers union, which twice rejected concession contracts in 1982, expires this August.

TREASURE TROVE — Nona Bunch stands in front of the Diamond M Museum in Snyder, Texas, where she is a tour guide. The small, oil-rich, West Texas town's private museum has as fine a private art collection as any between Fort Worth and Los Angeles, according to art observers.

Treasure Of Small Town

By RANDALL HACKLEY
Associated Press Writer

SNYDER, Texas (AP) — Nona Bunch has a secret: this small, oil-rich Texas town of 13,000 has a private museum housing priceless N.C. Wyeth paintings that brightened the books of many children's classics, an exquisite delicately carved ivory elephant tusk, and many other treasures.

Ms. Bunch is a tour guide for the few who venture into Snyder's Diamond M Museum, which art observers say has as fine a private art collection as any between the Amon Carter Museum in Fort Worth and the Henry E. Huntington collection in Los Angeles.

Fifteen original N.C. Wyeth paintings, including drawings that adorned James Fenimore Cooper's "The Last of the Mohicans" and Jules Verne's "Mysterious Island," are found in the two-story museum.

Also housed in the inconspicuously marked building along Snyder's main street is a hollowed-out, 5-foot-long ivory tusk laced with figurines that was carved by three generations of a Chinese family.

But few of the residents of Scurry County — on the edge of the Permian Basin, the highest oil-producing county in the nation — and Snyder, one of the richest towns per capita in Texas, even know the museum exists.

"Hardly anybody knows we're here," said Ms. Bunch, who occasionally conducts tours for local schoolchildren and art aficionados who have discovered the museum. She is also a family friend of the Diamond M Museum's founder, C.T. "Mr. Mac" McLaughlin.

McLaughlin, an entrepreneur and pen-pal of the late President Lyndon Johnson, first came to Texas from Pennsylvania in the 1920s with less than $100 in his pocket, according to his daughter, Evelyn Davies.

"Daddy came to Texas as an adventurer, to seek his fortune," she said.

When McLaughlin died in 1974, the multimillionaire owned an oil drilling company, about 5,000 acres of petroleum-blessed Scurry County land and one of the richest private collections of art west of the Mississippi.

"His Wyeths are priceless. We've been told there is no finer private art collection between Fort Worth and the West Coast," says Mrs. Davies, who now lives on her father's Diamond M Ranch.

The collection contains about 300 pieces, so many that dozens of paintings and rare Currier & Ives lithographs are locked in a closet, said Ms. Bunch.

The pieces placed about the dimly lit museum show off the splendor of the Diamond M collection: 150-year-old Dresden china pieces made in one-of-a-kind molds in West Germany fill part of one room. W.H.D. Koerner's cleanly lined paintings of Indians and rogues of the Wild West fill another room.

In another of the half-dozen museum rooms, bronze sculptures by Frederic Remington and pieces of the Helena Rubinstein jade collection can be found in odd nooks and crannies. Another darkened room has delicate pieces of carved ivory in glass cases.

The prize of the collection, though, is the immense ivory tusk that is pierced through and through with a spiral of hand-carved figurines that start at the base and end five feet away at the tip.

Quarter-inch figures of Chinese farmers and horsemen near a pagoda or wall ring around the hollowed-out tusk. The tusk reportedly was carved by three generations, and depicts about 400 years of a Chinese family's life and livelihoods, said Mrs. Davies.

But Wyeth's works are probably the most renowned of any in the museum.

Wyeth, who died in 1945, has 15 works in the Diamond M, including paintings from Verne's "Mysterious Island," Cooper's "Mohicans," Mark Twain's "The Mysterious Stranger" and Robert Louis Stevenson's "Kidnapped" and "Treasure Island."

Wyeth's son, Andrew, now one of America's most famous artists, also has one painting — "The Winter Apples" — in the collection.

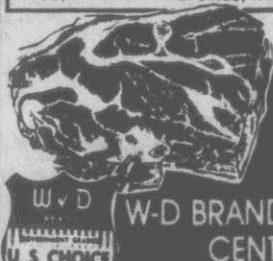

The Diamond M has been operated by the Diamond M Foundation since it opened in 1964.

ARRIVES, ARRESTED
TAIPEI, Taiwan (AP) — Yang Huan-si, a 68-year-old Taiwanese resident of the United States, was arrested upon arrival here from the U.S. on January 5 on suspicion of spying for the Chinese communists.

Big Surplus Keeps Corn Prices Low

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The huge U.S. corn surplus will be a bit smaller than Agriculture Department experts had forecast, but it still will be enough to keep prices depressed through the remainder of the 1982-83 marketing year.

A new USDA supply-and-demand analysis issued Monday said that a Jan. 1 inventory of grain stocks showed that the use of corn as livestock feed has been larger than previously projected.

Further, Jan. 1 surveys indicated the number of cattle in feedlots was "a little above expectations, suggesting slightly larger beef production in the first half of 1983 than previously estimated," the report said.

The result is that there will be about 100 million bushels more corn fed to livestock in the 1982-83 marketing year than had been previously estimated.

Thus, the carryover "surplus" of corn next Oct. 1 — the beginning of the new marketing year — is expected to be 3.38 billion bushels, 5 percent less than previously forecast.

Even so, 3.38 billion bushels of corn in the U.S. stockpile would be a record, nearly 50 percent more than the inventory of 2.29 billion bushels last Oct. 1.

The report said that corn prices at the farm still are expected to average $2.20 to $2.40 per bushel this marketing year, unchanged from the previous estimate. The average in 1981-82 was $2.45 per bushel, and in 1980-81 it was $3.11.

Looking at the balance sheet, analysts said the total U.S. corn supply this year was nearly 10.7 billion bushels, including nearly 2.29 billion on hand last Oct. 1 and a record harvest of almost 8.4 billion bushels.

In 1981-82, the supply was about 9.24 billion bushels, also a record.

An estimated 4.3 billion bushels of corn will be fed to poultry and livestock this year, up from less than 4.2 billion in 1981-82. About 900 million bushels will be used for food, seed and industrial purposes, up from 811 million bushels last season.

Exports of corn in 1982-83 will account for 2.1 billion bushels, up slightly from 1.97 billion last season but still below the mark of 2.36 billion bushels shipped abroad two years ago.

In all, about 7.3 billion bushels of corn will be used this year, up from 6.95 billion in 1981-82, the report said.

That will leave more than 3.38 billion bushels of corn in the U.S. stockpile on Oct. 1. An estimated 2.5 billion bushels of that will be under government loan, in the farm-owned reserve, and thus not available for immediate sale.

The figures, however, relate only to the 1982-83 situation and do not take into account what may happen under the administration's payment-in-kind program in which farmers cut 1983 crop acreages will get surplus grain as compensation.

Impact of the PIK program will show up in the future in projections for the 1983-84 grain marketing year.

Few Truckers In Protest Convoy

WASHINGTON (AP) — A spokesman for independent truckers says he's not disappointed that only 42 trucks took part in a convoy past the Capitol and through Washington, D.C., streets to protest new highway taxes and fees.

Mark Perry, spokesman for the Owner-Operators Independent Drivers Association of America, which sponsored the demonstration, said truckers made a point to Congress and the Reagan administration despite the relatively small turnout.

Leaders of independent driver-operators said last week that 150 to 200 trucks would take part in the convoy to protest the fees, which they say will increase trucker costs from $1,700 to more than $4,400 a year over the next six years.

Child Finder Balked By Ex-Spouse

By SUSAN LISOVICZ
Associated Press Writer
NEW PALTZ, N.Y. (AP) — Gloria Yerkovich has spent $40,000, appeared on network television and argued with officials from rural Ulster County to Washington, D.C., in her search for a daughter she last saw eight years ago.

Today, she leads a private organization that has tracked down 260 missing children since 1981, but her daughter, Joanna, was not among them.

Joanna Harriet Pierce, then 5 years old, vanished the weekend before Christmas 1974 on the first court-ordered overnight visit with her father, Franklin Pierce. The girl, crying, did not want to go and had to be physically removed by a man accompanying her father, Mrs. Yerkovich said.

The police list Joanna as a victim of parental abduction, a crime that has increased along with the divorce rate in the United States.

Child Find, a non-profit group based in this Hudson Valley college town, was founded by Mrs. Yerkovich as a last resort when she could not break through legal roadblocks — and when her loans dried up.

A slim woman who looks a decade younger than her 40 years, Mrs. Yerkovich learned her plight was far from unique. The group estimates that 150,000 children are reported abducted each year. Congressional aides say studies conducted in 40 large cities indicate that figure is too low.

Determined to find her daughter, Mrs. Yerkovich borrowed and spent $40,000 on private investigators. She was horrified, she said, at a system that had a national computer for stolen cars but not missing children.

Embittered and broke, Mrs. Yerkovich began laying the groundwork for Child Find. With two donated rooms from the police department and a few volunteers, the agency began operation in August 1980.

The group assembled pictures of missing children to distribute to schools, got a toll-free number for people who spotted missing children and organized a network of detectives and support groups in every state.

Their work and the cries of Congress paid off. Last October President Reagan signed the Missing Children Act, which requires police to enter names and descriptions of missing children into an FBI computer and gives parents access to that list.

Child Find has become well known, and every time reporters write about the organization, the bill for the toll-free number leaps. But none of the calls have returned Joanna, who would have turned 14 on Dec. 29.

Finding Joanna is difficult because Pierce, a former Dow Chemical Co. chemist who later started his own business, is wealthy and able to move himself and his daughter around easily, Mrs. Yerkovich said.

Mrs. Yerkovich will speak about one close call. About two years after she last saw her daughter, Mrs. Yerkovich was sent a photo by a friend in Florida, an investigator who knew of Joanna's case and had come across the photo by accident. The brown-haired girl was on a merry-go-round, smiling.

"I was able to get at least a window into her life," Mrs. Yerkovich said.

There have also been moments of despair. Child Find worker Linda Mattsen told of an incident several months ago in which a caller on the toll-free line, who sounded like a child, identified herself as "Joanna" and asked for her mother. Ms. Mattsen asked what her mother's name was. "Gloria."

Ms. Mattsen ran to Mrs. Yerkovich's office and frantically told her to pick up the phone.

It was a crank call. "Gloria just broke down and sobbed for about an hour," Ms. Mattsen recalled. "Then she just got up and just kept going."

Doctors Look For A Definite Cancer Personality

By DANIEL Q. HANEY
Associated Press Writer
BOSTON (AP) — Can the way people react to life's problems make them more likely to get cancer? Many researchers now think so, and they say there is a definite cancer personality.

Cancer strikes about one in three Americans. Now, several studies indicate that people who get the disease are more apt to have a particular group of habits and attitudes.

It is a kind of passive, emotionless outlook on life that doctors call the cancer personality.

Although this profile has emerged from many years of psychological testing, new research into the intricacies of hormones is providing an explanation of how it makes people sick.

Their theory: A lifetime of pent-up emotion causes the release of a variety of hormones that weaken the body's immune system. Instead of seeking out tiny cancers and killing them, their bodies let them get away. And they grow and spread and kill.

People with the cancer personality have trouble dealing with stress, studies indicate. They are quiet, placid, emotionally repressed people.

"They tend to be the kind of person who outwardly views the world uniformly as a positive, non-threatening place," says Dr. Joan Z. Borysenko. "They will describe things as very nice, be very calm and helpful and not express negative emotions of any sort."

In fact, they have trouble expressing any feelings at all. When something bad happens to them, they do not blow up in anger or fight back. Instead, they withdraw into a cocoon of helplessness and despair. They simply give up.

Many have had emotional trouble early in childhood that makes it hard for them to relate to others. They feel that close relationships will bring pain.

Mrs. Borysenko, a psychologist and cell biologist at Harvard Medical School and Beth Israel Hospital, is one of a group of doctors looking into the links between personality and cancer. The effort to understand the chemistry involved has opened a new field of research called psychoneuroimmunology.

These researchers point out that many things can cause cancer: smoking, radiation, food, sunlight, chemicals and more. Even though personality probably does not belong on this list, it may increase the likelihood of cancer by hamstringing the body's tools for crushing it before it spreads.

Psychologists first started talking about a cancer personality after measuring the attitudes of people who already had the disease. But doubts persisted. Did they get cancer because they had this personality? Or did they have this personality because they got cancer?

Newer studies have measured people's personalities and then waited to see if they got cancer.

One of these long-term studies was conducted at Rush-Presbyterian-St. Luke's Medical Center in Chicago. Dr. Richard B. Shekelle and colleagues gave a personality test to 2,020 men. When they followed up 17 years later, they found that those who had shown depression on their tests were twice as likely to have died from cancer.

Such studies take so long that some are just beginning to provide results. For instance, Dr. Carolyn B. Thomas has been working on one at Johns Hopkins since 1948. Researchers gave psychological tests and questionnaires to 1,337 medical students. By 1979, 48 of them had gotten cancer. Questions the cancer victims had answered about family attitudes revealed a "lack of closeness to parents."

Another study at King's College Hospital in London took a different approach. Doctors looked at 160 women who were admitted for biopsy of breast lumps but who didn't know whether they had cancer. They found far more suppression of anger in those whose lumps turned out to be cancerous.

Not only do people with this personality get cancer more often, but they are also more likely to die quickly from the disease once it strikes. A variety of studies show that the patients who keep fighting, hope for a turnaround and express their emotions will live longer.

At King's College Hospital, doctors studied 57 women who were given psychological tests after surgery for breast cancer, then reviewed their cases five years later. They concluded, "Recurrence-free survival was significantly common among patients who had initially reacted to cancer by denial or who had a fighting spirit than among patients who had responded with stoic acceptance or feelings of helplessness and hopelessness."

Mrs. Borysenko notes that the cancer survivors are often feisty complainers.

"They tend to be rather difficult patients to work with because they may not comply very readily," she said. "They ask, 'Why are you doing this to me? What are my choices? What's happening?' They do much better than the very nice, compliant sort of person who can't seem to express their anger at all."

The culprits in all this may be two kinds of hormones — corticosteroids and catecholamines. Both are known to inhibit the white blood cells that patrol the body in search of cancer.

The doctors believe that people with the cancer personality are subjected to a lifetime of these hormonal secretions.

Asks Effort On Hard-To-Place

WASHINGTON (AP) — Health and Human Services Secretary Richard S. Schweiker has asked the nation's governors to step up state efforts to put hard-to-place children from foster homes in permanent, adoptive homes.

Schweiker asked that the states double the number of permanent placements this fiscal year and to decrease the number of such children in foster care by 10 percent.

Eleven states used federal aid to help place 1,324 such children in adoptive homes during fiscal year 1982. Michigan, which placed 669 children, accounted for more than half of the national total, department records show.

Children whose placement in adoptive homes can be subsidized because of their special circumstances include sibling groups, older children, emotionally or physically handicapped children and minority children. The department estimates that there are about 50,000 children in foster care nationwide who are eligible for such aid.

FBI Going After Parents Who Kidnap Children

By JANE ANDERSON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The FBI was unleashed this month to go after parents who kidnap their children. Six states are fingerprinting their young people. Children's names are being punched into computer databanks.

In the three months since President Reagan signed the Missing Children Act, a new awareness of a vast, heart-wrenching problem — that tens of thousands of children vanish each year from their parents' sides — has spread across the country.

The FBI has been listing missing children in its computer since 1975, but the Missing Children Act made it possible for parents to ask the FBI directly whether the names of their children are in the computer and to request that the police enter the names if they are not there.

The act itself does not require the FBI to put the children's names into the computer. But FBI director William Webster assured the Congress in a letter accompanying the measure that the agency would enter names in the event that state and local officials refused to do so.

Kristin Cole Brown of Child Find, a private update New York group established to try to locate missing children, said in a telephone interview last week that some parents had complained the police were refusing to send names to the FBI. The police reportedly told some parents they wanted to spend their money on "real crime," not parental abductions, Ms. Brown said.

Jay Howell, chief counsel to the Senate Labor and Human Resources investigations subcommittee, said, "It's too early to make a judgment call on how the law is working."

The Missing Children Act also requires the FBI to set up a computer system to keep track of the 2,000 to 5,000 unidentified bodies found each year in the United States. Officials say the list of dead could provide links with children reported missing. Howell said up to half of the unidentified bodies are children.

The FBI is still programming its computers to take statistics on the unidentified bodies, Howell said.

"We never expected this problem to be solved overnight," he said.

No reliable national statistics exist on the number of missing children in the United States, but Child Find has estimated that 150,000 children are reported missing each year, including 100,000 who are abducted by parents.

Howell has said that, based on studies of 40 major U.S. cities, the 150,000 figure is probably far too low.

FBI special agent Lane Bonner said that as of Jan. 6, the FBI's computer listed 23,503 missing persons. Of those, 16,851 were juveniles, although the definition of juvenile varies from state to state.

As of Oct. 1, when the Missing Children Act became law, the FBI listed 24,354 missing persons, about 18,000 of whom were juveniles. Bonner said he did not know why the statistics had declined. He said the number of missing persons always varies from month to month.

This month, the Justice Department began a one-year experiment and relaxed restrictions on FBI involvement in parental abduction cases.

In the past, the FBI had refused to get involved in such cases without proof the child was in physical danger or had been abused or neglected, and without authorization from the Justice Department's Criminal Division.

In a letter to Sen. Paula Hawkins, D-Fla., Robert A. McConnell, assistant attorney general for the Justice Department's Office of Legislative Affairs, said those two requirements would be suspended in 1983.

"For a one-year trial period," McConnell said, "parental kidnapping cases will be handled on the same basis as other fugitive felon cases."

Mrs. Hawkins, who sponsored the Missing Children Act along with Democratic Rep. Paul Simon of Illinois, said she was elated.

"This policy ... will provide a dramatic breakthrough in the FBI's ability to find and return missing children to their homes," she said.

Programs to fingerprint children are being started in several states, including California, Florida, Virginia, Utah, Wyoming and New Jersey.

At St. Elizabeth's Grammar School in Linden, N.J.,

380 of the 417 students will be fingerprinted, starting Tuesday, in a program begun by Union County Undersheriff John Troiano and Sgt. Charles Harris.

Harris said that no child would be fingerprinted without written permission from parents or guardian. Parents may leave the prints at the school or take them home, but Harris said officers preferred that parents keep them at home.

"We refuse to keep the fingerprints because we don't want them," Harris said. "We will make no copies. We're doing this only as a service for the parents in case their child is missing someday."

Harris described the program as "an insurance policy which you hope you never have to use."

The police would see the fingerprints again only if that child is reported missing. Then, the fingerprints can be used to help determine the child's identity, along with photographs and dental records, Harris explained.

"You hope that missing children will be found alive, but if not, they don't know."

NOTICE TO OWNERS OF PROPERTY IN PITT COUNTY

The listing of property for tax purposes in Pitt County will begin January 3, 1983, and will continue through January 31, 1983.

Any person, firm, corporation or organization owning property in this county as of January 1, 1983, whether real or personal, must list such property within the listing period or be subject to the penalties prescribed by North Carolina Law. Property must be listed in the township in which it is located.

Persons who requested to list by mail should receive their listing forms early in January. These forms must be completed and returned to the office of the Tax Supervisor before the deadline of January 31, 1983.

Bring your social security number and your motor vehicle registration cards with you when you come to list.

Application for the Age and Disability Exemption should be made at the time of listing, but no later than April 15th. Once application is made and approved, you will not have to reapply unless circumstances change within the household.

Owners and operators of parks or storage lots renting space for three or more trailers or mobile homes are required by law to furnish the Tax Supervisor of the county in which the lot is located, the name of the owner and a description of each trailer or mobile home situated thereon. This list must be submitted by January 15th of each year. Owners and operators failing to comply with the law shall be liable to payment of tax in addition to a penalty of $250.

Persons having custody of taxable tangible personal property belonging to another firm or individual that is held for storage, sale, rent, or any other business purpose shall furnish the Tax Supervisor a report of such property by January 15th or will be liable for the tax on the property plus a penalty of $250.

Snails Deployed To Fight Snails

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP) — Officials at the Los Angeles State and County Arboretum have called in the foreign legion, snail-style.

An army of 2,500 North African decollate snails has been deployed to munch their local cousins, who threaten valuable plants and fruits at the 127-acre preserve.

The troops were released in the South African section, where brown garden snails attack bulbs, one of their favorite foods. The brown snails also eat exotic plants such as the blood lily, said arboretum Superintendent John Provine.

Luckily, the favorite food of decollate snails is brown snails, along with rotting leaves and fallen fruit. They usually ignore healthy plants when brown snails are around, Provine said.

Understandably, the battle is a slow one. It could be a year or two before the new snails gain control, said Bob Hogenson, a plant pathologist at Pacific Agricultural Laboratories, which bred the snails and donated them in November.

"It's not an overnight sensation," he said.

CRIME-WATCH

New Life In $7.5 Million

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — A man who suffered burns over 90 percent of his body in a 1972 Pinto crash says a $7.5 million settlement with Ford Motor Co. one year ago can't erase his sufferings, but it is starting to reshape his life.

Richard Grimshaw, who had to undergo nearly 70 operations as a result of his injuries, has been taking helicopter lessons, buying new homes and cars for himself and his mother, producing a rock recording and making investments.

"I was glad for my mom, especially," said Grimshaw. One of the first things he did after the settlement was tell his mother to retire from two jobs she held to support her two children and keep up insurance payments for his medical bills.

He also donated $30,000 to a local hospital's burn unit.

Grimshaw was 13 when a 1972 Pinto driven by a neighbor, Lily Gray, stalled on Interstate 15 near San Bernardino on May 28, 1972, and was struck from behind by a car going 35 mph.

The Pinto's fuel tank ruptured and the car was engulfed in flames that killed Mrs. Gray and left Grimshaw with serious burns. He still carries scars from the crash, and surgery was required to rebuild his nose and left ear.

In 1978, a jury awarded Grimshaw $127.8 million. Trial testimony indicated Ford's own crash tests had shown the Pinto fuel tank — six inches from the bumper — could explode on an impact of as little as 20 mph, and that the hazard could have been corrected by the installation of a $10 device.

Evidence also included a confidential Ford memo saying the company could save $20.9 million by delaying installation of the device by four years.

Ford officials had argued that the fuel tank design was safe and met all federal standards at the time of the accident. Federal authorities, however, persuaded the automaker to recall Pintos for modification soon after the Grimshaw case gained national attention.

A judge later reduced Grimshaw's award to $6.6 million. Ford's appeal to the California Supreme Court was set aside in September 1981 and the company was preparing to appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court when the settlement, one of the first involving Ford Pintos, was reached last January.

The settlement included an agreement that terms would not be disclosed. But they surfaced last week when one of Grimshaw's lawyers, Art Hews, said his client got $6.6 million plus interest.

In a similar Pinto case, a grand jury in Indiana indicted Ford in 1978 on charges of reckless homicide. That action stemmed from the deaths of three teen-age women after their 1973 Pinto exploded and burned when it was rear-ended while stopped on an Indiana road.

After a 10-week trial, which ended in March 1980, the automaker was cleared of the charges.

But shortly after the trial — the first time a manufacturer faced criminal charges for an alleged product defect — Ford reached an out-of-court settlement with the victims' parents.

When Grimshaw's settlement came through, he was working for $25.0 an hour at a government-subsidized street repair job for the city of Garden Grove.

"It was like we were trapped all those years with the lawsuit going on," Grimshaw recently told The Register of Orange County. "Then all the sudden it was a chance to have freedom."

Grimshaw once studied music at Fullerton College. Now he plans to return to learn audio engineering. Last year he produced a record for a Hollywood band under a company he founded. He broke even on the venture and currently plan to build a recording studio.

But the money hasn't softened his feelings about Ford, nurtured during all those years in hospital beds.

"It could have been more just," he said of the award. "Not that I'm greedy. But there was no punishment. It was no sweat to Ford."

"You always wish you could be the way you were in the beginning. And someone dying in the accident. You can never replace that."

Produce Stand Now Fancy Wine Shop

By ELISSA MCCRARY
Associated Press Writer
CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Twenty-eight years after Bob Redd had his first taste of French champagne, his produce stand has grown into a store with what he says is the largest selection of wines between Atlanta and Washington, D.C.

The 20,000-square-foot wine shop carries about 6,500 different wines, and Redd has become recognized by French wine merchants as an expert on wine from all over the world.

"I've learned what I know about wine because my customers are so knowledgeable," said Redd, who owns the wine shop and two restaurants in Charlotte. "I found out early on that I can't fake knowledge. I had to read about wine and taste it to be able to answer my customers' questions."

Customers range from housewives who ask his advice on what type of wine to serve with steak to connoisseurs who come to Charlotte to browse through his shop.

"Walking into Redd's Wine Shop is like stepping into a gourmet food supermarket. Shelves overflow with imported candies, pastries of all types, cheeses and row after row of wine. Redd keeps a table at the front of the store filled with wine magazines and brochures for his customers to leaf through.

"With wine, you never stop learning," he said. "I still refer to my wine encyclopedia just about every day. I would be lost without it."

Two years ago, Redd was invited to Bordeaux, France, where he was inducted into a prestigious society of Bordeaux wine growers and merchants. He is one of a handful of Americans who are members of the society.

Meanwhile, Redd is trying to get more people interested in tasting wine through wine-tasting parties at the shop.

Last year, he organized Le Courdon Rouge Wine Society with 25 members. He expects to have at least 100 members by the middle of this year.

"What I'm hoping the society and the wine tasting will do is to take some of the snobbery associated with wines away," Redd said. "I want all kinds of people, from novices to experts, to be able to come into my shop and feel comfortable buying a bottle of wine."

Bar Shipping Sensitive Items

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal agents have blocked shipment of $420,000 worth of sensitive electronic equipment bound for Italy, citing national security reasons and the lack of required export licenses.

The equipment, a photoreading system used in the manufacture of semiconductor devices, was seized at John F. Kennedy Airport in New York by special agents of the Commerce Department's office of export enforcement.

Theodore W. Wu, deputy assistant secretary for export enforcement, said the photoreader is highly sought by the Soviet Union and Soviet bloc countries. The photoreader is manufactured by CCA Corp. of Burlington, Mass., which Wu said isn't under investigation.

Wu said the equipment belonged to Buel Electronic Connectors and was destined for a company in Italy.
