Sharon Resists Stepping Down

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Pressure mounted on Defense Minister Ariel Sharon today to resign as recommended by the judicial report that gave him a large share of blame for the Beirut massacre. But Sharon was said to be resisting efforts to force him out.

The three-man panel urged Prime Minister Menachem Begin to fire Sharon if he did not step down voluntarily, and Israeli newspapers said most Cabinet ministers favored removing the defense minister.

Israel radio said most Parliament factions believed that in light of the commission's criticism of himself and his government, Begin's only viable option was to resign and schedule an early election.

The prime minister met with his Cabinet for two hours Tuesday without reaching a decision on Sharon's status and scheduled a second meeting for today.

The news reports said some ministers were willing to give him another government post, but Sharon was determined to keep his ministry.

Most major newspapers urged the government to accept the findings of the commission.

The daily Haaretz editorialized, "The commission having said what it said about Mr. Ariel Sharon, he has no place in the Israeli government, plain and simple."

Maariv, which usually is more friendly to Begin than other papers, said: "If we throw the conclusions of the commission in the trash can, we will once again be giving ammunition to all the enemies and slanderers whose arguments were silenced when Israel decided that there would be an Israeli investigation into the circumstances of the massacre."

The right-wing Tehiya faction, which belongs to Begin's coalition, sought to forestall Sharon's ouster by presenting a private bill to Parliament setting elections on Oct. 25, two years ahead of schedule. It was not clear when the bill would come up for debate.

A key figure in the ruling coalition said Begin would not dismiss the former general, a bulwark of the prime minister's popularity with his right-wing constituency.

"It's hard for him to do such a thing," Avraham Shapira, chairman of the parliamentary coalition, told reporters after meeting with Begin. "Anyone who knows the prime minister knows he is a noble man, and he respects Arik (Sharon's nickname)."

As to what happens next, Shapira said, "That is in the hands of Menachem Begin."

Dozens of people protesting in Tel Aviv's Dizengoff Square demanded the whole government resign after the findings were released Tuesday. But many Israelis viewed the report as a testament to the country's democracy.

"Only a nation with the moral strength of Israel could afford to publish such findings," said an insurance salesman, who asked not to be identified. "The state of Israel has been saved."

Pro-government protesters who gathered at the prime minister's office during Tuesday's Cabinet meeting sang, "Arik, king of Israel" when Sharon emerged.

"We're with you, Arik!" they yelled.

Much of Begin's political travail would end if Sharon would resign voluntarily, but the 54-year-old defense minister declined a public opportunity to state his intention Tuesday night. He told a gathering of political supporters in Tel Aviv that the government would discuss the matter in private.

Sharon indicated that he would continue to fight, and that he considered his domestic political enemies on a par with Palestine Liberation Organization chief Yasser Arafat.

Sharon strongly defended the army officers who were recommended for punishment, and he said there were people in Israel who would jeopardize national security "for the sake of minor political gain."

Of the commission's findings, he said, "I heard that Arafat was little pleased ... Here, too, there are some who are a little pleased."

Sharon also implied that his ouster would be a reward to the United States, which has been pressuring Israel to make concessions during talks on the withdrawal of its troops from Lebanon.

Begin, trusting his enduring popularity, let it be known months ago he might go for early elections if the commission report blamed his government or the army. But some of his coalition partners are not eager for elections because their standing in the polls is low.

Some members of his coalition, notably the National Religious Party and the Liberal faction of his Likud Bloc, want Sharon to leave, and their pressure threatens his 64-56 majority in Parliament.

If they were to defect, the opposition Labor Party might try to form a coalition without new elections.

Begin cannot just resign and call an election, he must gather a majority in Parliament to set an election date. Political observers believe that Begin might not get a majority if he sought new elections, at least partly because the Labor Party also is not optimistic about its chances against Begin.

The 69-year-old prime minister himself was not severely criticized by the report. But it said he failed to pay enough attention to the decision to permit Lebanese Christian Phalange troops into the Sabra and Chatilla refugee camps where hundreds of Palestinians were slaughtered last September.

Continue Study Noise Levels

The City Council, which visited a nightclub in December to hear a noise level demonstration, got a first-hand idea of noise situations in a residential area this week as it continued to study redrafts of the local noise ordinance.

Some 20 residents joined the board members at the home of Councilman Stuart Shinn on Rotary Avenue as Dr. Garrett Hume, a faculty member in the speech and hearing department at East Carolina University, measured stereo music levels.

The gathering, positioned in the front yard at the street edge of Shinn's property, heard various music levels from Shinn's house that measured between 40 and 75 decibels. A reading on the ambient noise level of the area measured 42 decibels.

The city is considering a redraft of the ordinance that would permit a residential level of 60 decibels until around 10 p.m. and then 55 decibels after that hour.

During the demonstration, noise levels were measured from the yard with windows and doors of the house open and then with the house closed up. A reading of 98 decibels was recorded inside the house with the stereo turned up and a level of 48 decibels was measured from the yard with the doors and windows closed. The yard reading was over 70 when the windows were opened. The yard measurements were taken from a point 49 feet from the front door of the Shinn home.

Some of the residents on hand for the demonstration expressed concern with the noise levels, indicating they felt the levels were too high.

Mac McCarley, assistant city attorney who is working on the proposed ordinance redraft, said a review of the city's complaint file relative to noise indicated that most of the complaints are lodged during the spring and summer when doors and windows are open. Some of the complaints have generally been directed at fraternities.

The council, which will have another workshop to decide the remaining policy issues for the ordinance, will consider how to treat residential area enforcement relative to noise levels, time of day, and whether to include the areas in a permit process that would allow higher levels.

McCarley and ECU student intern Tom Marzilli have conducted public meetings on the proposed ordinance and have discussed the regulation with ECU officials. The council hopes to take action on the redraft in order to have the ordinance ready for enforcement this spring.

Relax Policy

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

Members of the Greenville Utilities Commission Tuesday night relaxed the water and sewer outfall line extension policy by voting to allow developers to pay the sewer acreage fee in stages as property is developed.

Under the old policy, developers were charged a sewer acreage fee, based on the total gross area of the total parcel of land to be served by the sewer outfall, at the time of application for service.

The relaxed policy will allow developers, if the land is to be developed in phases, to pay the acreage fee as service to the various phases is requested.

The change in policy will serve to lessen the financial burden on a developer if a parcel of land is to be developed in stages, rather than all at once.

The fee — $700 per acre — is charged to help offset the cost of installing sewer outfall lines. Developers are still responsible for installing sewer and water lines and taps within the development at their own expense.

The commission also approved an electric resale rate schedule. Currently the town of Winterville is the only GUC customer which purchases power from the GUC for resale to its retail customers.

The new schedule, basically the manner in which Winterville has been billed for some months, amounts to the resale customer paying the GUC wholesale power cost plus cost of delivery.

In other business, the commission declared a 1965 TD-9 bulldozer as surplus and authorized a negotiated sale of the piece of equipment.

Lengthy Agenda Faces City Council Tomorrow

A lengthy agenda, including two rezoning requests and five community development items, faces the City Council at Thursday's 7:30 p.m. meeting at city hall.

The council will consider requests by: James H. Ward III to rezone two acres, located south of Section 3 of Sedgfield Park subdivision; and Pinehurst Drive, east of Memorial Drive, from R-15 (residential) to office and institutional; and by Phillip Joseph, and William Goodson, to rezone .82 acres, located north of 12th Street, south of the Walter Perkins property, west of Clark Street, and east of the William Taft Jr. and Seaboard Coast Line property, from R-6 (residential) to unoffensive industry.

The CD items include consideration of: an amendment to the resolution authorizing city officials to exercise administrative powers relative to redevelopment policies, programs, and plans of the city; CD budget amendments; an ordinance establishing the 1982-83 Small Cities/South Evans grant project budget; and resolutions approving the sale of two disposal parcels in the Southside project.

Other business on the agenda includes: appointments to boards and commissions; special use permits for mobile homes; consideration of a resolution endorsing and supporting the establishment of a Recreation and Parks Department Trust with the Greenville Foundation; receipt of the annual report of the planning board; consideration of a resolution declaring intent to close a portion of Sedgfield Drive between St. Andrews Drive and Memorial Drive;

Consideration of three recommendations by the Comprehensive Plan Committee; consideration of two Greenville Utilities items; tax releases and refunds; privilege license applications; adoption of a resolution declaring equipment surplus to the city's needs; amendments to the city personnel policies ordinance; and consideration of a Traffic Commission recommendation.

The council will also consider: a contract for city code supplement services; an audit services contract; a resolution authorizing the execution of an agreement with Southern Railway Co.; a resolution authorizing absentee voting in municipal elections; a technical amendment to the city code;

An amendment relative to the contract for the second phase of the comprehensive community energy management program; a resolution requesting the General Assembly to dissolve the Tar River Port Commission; and a resolution endorsing and supporting the Carolina Association of Passenger Train Advocates in an effort to promote and secure Amtrak service from Greenville to Raleigh and Charlotte.

House Rules

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The state House Tuesday adopted new rules limiting debate and putting House members in their places — at least when votes are being taken.

Among changes adopted are rules limiting a member's debate on adopting a minority report to 20 minutes, prohibiting members from speaking on a bill during its first reading and requiring members to be in their seats to push the buttons during electronic voting.

Also, House members will no longer be allowed to use the "question of privilege" to take the floor, said Rep. John J. Hunt, D-Cleveland, who chaired the House Rules and Operations Committee.

He said the rule is strictly interpreted to apply only to actions affecting the "safety, dignity and integrity" of the House and its members.

"We've abused this rule of privilege," he said. "We've talked about the score of the (North) Carolina-Wake Forest game."

Other changes adopted:

- Allow only the Speaker of the House to extend the courtesy of the House to visitors in the gallery.
- Change the time allowed for changes of committee assignments from 10 legislative days to 10 days.
- Stipulate that a bill must be in a jacket with 30 copies to be introduced.
- Require that adoption of a substitute bill be immediately followed by a vote for an unfavorable report on the original bill.
- Require reporters, but not television cameramen, to wear "dignified dress" in House chambers.
- Require the reconsideration of amendments rather than additional amendments deleting them.

Still Investigate Shooting Death

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

The shooting death of 25-year-old Donald Minges of 105 Templeton Drive early Tuesday morning has been ruled a homicide by Medical Examiner Stan Harris. But Police Chief Glenn Cannon suggested that investigators are still not satisfied.

"The medical examiner ruled the death 'homicide,'" Cannon said this morning, "but we haven't made any ruling. There are still several items of physical evidence that have to be examined by the SBI (State Bureau of Investigation) lab."

The dictionary definition of "homicide" is the killing of one human being by another.

Minges called the police department about 5:58 a.m. Tuesday to report that he was hearing "a lot of strange noises" and thought someone was trying to break into the rear of his house.

Officers arriving at the Minges home about 2½ minutes later found the rear door open. When they entered the house, they found Minges lying on the floor of the den.

He had been shot one time in the left side of the chest. A 9mm automatic pistol was found on the floor beside the body.

Cannon said today that, while the rear door was found open and there were marks on the door, investigators were told that Minges sometimes left the door open. He also said investigators were unable to determine how long the marks had been on the door.

Other sources close to the investigation said the bullet that killed Minges will be sent to the SBI lab for examination. But they said the bullet appears to have come from the pistol found beside Minges body.

The sources noted that investigators are trying to determine if the pistol belonged to Minges.

Dr. Harris, who conducted an autopsy Tuesday, said this morning that he had "decided the death was homicidal. There were too many things going on for it not to have been homicidal."

He said Minges was "dead in moments" after being shot, because the bullet "perforated the heart."

Skip Bright, who worked with Minges at Hooker and Buchanan Inc. for about 4½ years, said today that Minges was "one of the finest young men I've ever known in my life," and said his death was shocking.

Gilbert Cox, a high school classmate, termed Minges "a close friend."

Cox said, "I've known him for 15 years or longer. We've done a lot together. I feel like he could get along with anybody."

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1983 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: This isn't a problem, but as it concerns you, I thought it was worth sharing.

I love children and have served as a summer camp director for many years. A few years ago, the children asked me to tell them a Christmas story, so I told them about the story of Abigail, the innkeeper's daughter in Bethlehem. Briefly, my story goes like this:

An innkeeper had a daughter named Abigail who was the brat of the village. Nobody could stand her, and she was generally known as the Bethlehem brat. However, on the night that Jesus was born, when she heard the goings-on in the stable, she went down to have a look, and there she found Mary and Joseph and the baby. Mary let Abigail hold the baby Jesus, with the result that she became a very changed little girl, and she never again was known as "that brat, Abigail," or the brat of Bethlehem.

At this point in the story, a 10-year-old boy raised his hand and said, "I'll bet I know what they called her!" I said, "Do you, Luv?" And he replied, "Yes, 'Dear Abby!'"

I'd never have thought of that in a million years, would you?

KATHLEEN PEATIE CUMMING, VICTORIA, B.C.

DEAR KATHLEEN: Probably not. But the folks back in Sioux City, Iowa, might have guessed: "One of the Friedman twins."

DEAR ABBY: I had guests for dinner three times during the holidays. I set a beautiful table and take a great deal of pride in my cooking.

I made everything from scratch, including the turkey dressing, hot breads and desserts. All my efforts seemed so worthless because my guests tore into the food and ate so fast you would have thought they were on a 15-minute lunch break at a hamburger stand!

What is a hostess to do? Should I have tapped my water glass with a fork to get everyone's attention, and said, "Whoa... please slow down?"

DISCOURAGED

DEAR DISCOURAGED: Although it's discouraging to see hours of careful preparation gobbled up in a matter of minutes, hold your tongue. Your guests are paying you a compliment.

To suggest that they slow down would only embarrass them and make everyone feel self-conscious.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been invited to a wedding in Chicago next June. Our host and hostess (distant relatives) have asked us to let them know soon if we plan to come so they can reserve "a block of rooms" for all the out-of-town guests. We do plan to attend.

My question: Who pays for the room they reserve for us? If we are expected to pay for it, we don't want to be stuck with one that's too expensive.

How do we handle this? We don't want to be crude, but neither do we want to risk a surprise we can't afford.

COUNTRY COUSINS

DEAR COUSINS: Unless your relatives are very well-to-do, and generous to boot, the guests are probably expected to pick up their own tabs. But leave nothing to chance. Call or write, and ask: (1) Who is paying for the room? (2) How much will it cost?

DEAR ABBY: Thank you for saying that a doctor doesn't always "know" how long a patient has to live; he can only predict.

My grandfather was told that he had six months to live in 1919, 1924, 1927, 1944, 1958 and then again in 1968.

Grandpa went to be with the Lord in 1982, outliving every doctor who told him when he was going to die.

Valentine's Day Can Put Romance Back In Marriages For Good

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — A psychologist named Hart says Valentine's Day can help put romance back in your marriage for good.

"Valentine's Day can be the first step for many married couples to enhance their relationship," says Temple University professor Gordon Hart, who is also a counseling psychologist with a private practice. His specialty is couples and family therapy.

Our society doesn't encourage romance, Hart says. "We're too busy, we work too much, and we just don't take time for tenderness.

"For couples who aren't as romantic as they used to be, Feb. 14 is the one day out of the year when it's all right to be mushy."

Hart divides married couples into three groups.

The first includes couples who are OK in the romance department and who make it a point to include romance in their relationship.

He says Valentine's Day gives them another chance to express their love. Newlyweds tend to be in this group.

The second, and largest group, stands to gain the most.

Hart calls them mid-range couples. "Although couples who have been married two to 10 years fall into this category, couples of all ages may be middle-of-the-road, romantically."

He says the mid-rangers are committed to each other. Divorce is far from their minds, but kids tend to dominate their lives.

"How can you be romantic with your wife when one of your kids comes into the room crying and says, 'Tommy punched me in the mouth,' or, 'The dog just got sick?'"

The psychologist says Valentine's Day gives these couples a chance to pick out a card or, better yet, write their own message on a card and give some candy or other present.

"It's a chance to be expressive with each other."

The third group of couples doesn't fare well during any holiday.

You'll usually find cynics among them, the "ones who are in every shaky relationship and believe Valentine's Day is stupid and a waste of time and money."

They use the occasion to rationalize and help fight off resentment and stress, Hart says.

Intern Toured With Jazz Show

Joni Buck of Greenville traveled last summer as a R.J. Reynolds Industries intern. She did public relations work and accompanied the "Jazz In" troupe from the North Carolina School of the Arts in Winston-Salem.

Miss Buck wrote of her experiences in a recent issue of JAFSA News, alumni magazine at the University of North Carolina, where she is a graduate student.

"When I first accepted the internship, I envisioned a relaxing summer writing press releases, clipping news articles and doing research. I did all those things and more, but the pace was anything but relaxing," said Miss Buck.

During its five-week tour, the 27-member troupe gave more than 50 performances in 20 cities across the country. Performance sites included Lincoln Center in New York, Louisville Downs, the Houston Astrodome, Disneyland and an oil rig off the California coast.

"Besides being a wonderful way to see the country, 'Jazz Is' provided some valuable on-the-job experience. By necessity, I could not sit back as an intern and wait for step-by-step instructions. I was forced to perform as a full-time, experienced employee, becoming at once a reporter, tour guide, PR representative and mother hen."

"The internship also gave me the opportunity to work under some of the most talented practitioners in the public relations field. Their willingness to trust my judgment in some difficult situations was a tremendous incentive and confidence builder," Miss Buck said.

"Difficult situations can certainly add up during five weeks on the road. Because of the tight performance schedule, time was always of the essence. At one point in the tour, bus trouble made it necessary to fly the entire troupe from Louisville, Ky. to New Orleans to make a performance date. In another bus-related incident, I learned that is costs approximately $220 to recover two buses towed from a San Francisco parking lot," she continued.

"By and large, learning experiences on the tour were pleasant ones. I learned to work with various media situations, from press conferences to radio interviews to early-morning talk shows. I also was able to work closely with a team from the Center for Public Broadcasting which followed the troupe in connection with a documentary on the School of the Arts."

"The internship called for a lot of hard work. The hours were extremely long and I was physically and emotionally drained at the end of the tour. But I was also a much better writer and much surer that I wanted a career in the public relations field," she concluded.

Sausage, Apples For Brunch

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor
When winter brunchtimes come around, good cooks know sausage links and apple rings make a delicious and thrifty main course. And for a really hearty menu, scrambled eggs and buttered grits are great go-alongs.

GOOD BRUNCH — Apple Rings served with golden brown pork sausage links.

Because recipes for Sausage Apples are on the vague side, we worked out a precise procedure. If you are the sort of cook who likes to know exactly how many apple rings may be fried successfully in a specific skillet, you'll probably appreciate the following recipe. Because the sausage links are fried first, and all or part of their fat is used to cook the apple rings, there is only one utensil to wash, dry and put away. And if you use an electric or other attractive skillet, you can bring it right to the table.

SAUSAGE APPLES

½ pound (8 small) pork sausage links, thawed if frozen
3 medium (1 pound) red apples
1½ teaspoons sugar

Choose a large skillet — we used a non-stick one measuring 12 inches across the top and 10 inches across the bottom. In the skillet, over medium heat, cook the sausages with 2 tablespoons water, covered, for about 4 minutes. Continue cooking, uncovered, turning the sausages with tongs, until golden brown on all sides. Drain on paper toweling and keep warm in a slow oven. If there is more than 2 or 3 tablespoons of fat in the skillet, remove the excess.

Meanwhile wash and dry the apples; do not peel; core. Cut each apple into about ½-inch thick rings — there should be 12 rings in all. Add half the apple rings to the hot sausage fat in the skillet; cook over medium heat, turning as necessary with a large spatula (plastic if skillet is non-stick) until the apples are tender when pierced with a fork but still hold their shape. (Time will depend on variety of apple used.) Sprinkle the rings with half the sugar. With the spatula, remove apples and keep warm in a low oven. Add the remaining apple rings to the skillet (using more sausage fat or butter if necessary) and cook the same way. Serve at once with the sausage links.

Makes 2 large or 4 small servings.

2 tablespoons grated (medium-fine) cheddar cheese

Drain hominy well and turn into a buttered 9-inch glass pie plate. Make a white sauce of the butter, flour, ¼ teaspoon salt and ½ cup of the milk. Gently spread sauce over hominy but not quite to edges. Pour remaining ½ cup milk around edges to flow down and under hominy as much as possible. Sprinkle with salt and cracker crumbs, dot with butter and cheese. Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven until golden brown — 60 minutes. Let stand at room temperature for 10 minutes, serve at once. Makes 3 servings.

OUTLET SALES
NEW YORK (AP) — Factory outlet sales of men's and boy's wear are expected to reach $6 billion this year, up from $4 billion in 1982. Such sales were $1.25 billion in 1977.

"The reason for this rise," says Marvin A. Blumenfeld, president of April-Marcus Inc., a merchandising consulting firm, "is that people today are more interested than ever in getting their money's worth and there's economy at these stores."

Outlet stores are no-frill, self-service clothing stores at which alterations are not available or are available only at an added price.

Industry Selling Tool

Gov. Jim Hunt made it official on a visit here last week that Greenville can expect to receive a $7.8 million federal grant to construct its new 10.5 million-gallon-per-day wastewater treatment plant, probably this year.

The grant, accompanying a state grant, and the $2 million fund the local utilities has saved for the project will mean that none of the $4 million in bonds which voters approved for the project will have to be issued.

The governor praised local efforts to plan the facility and noted that there might be another 10 percent grant as a bonus from the Environmental Protection Agency for advanced technology incorporated in the project.

He offered commendations for the plan, which provides land to meet Greenville's needs for 40 years rather than the usual 20.

The governor said the project will mean Greenville "will no longer have to turn away new industry or discourage population growth. In short, this project means that Greenville is back in business, and no one is happier about that than me."

The turn this project has taken will mean a great deal to every Greenville Utilities customer since the customers will not have to pay off the $4 million in bonds originally anticipated.

Equally important, those who are entrusted with seeking new industries for Pitt County have no excuse not to push forward with their mission. It is not necessary to wait until the waste water plant is completed to use it as a selling tool in seeking new industries and the jobs they will provide for area workers.

Let us sell our advantages to industries now.

Other Side Of A Coin

WASHINGTON — Larry Speakes, as all presidential press secretaries seem to do when their boss is in trouble, took out after the press the other day. In a speech he complained about coverage of the bad economic news by the media, as opposed to the good news.

When inflation was at 13 percent, he complained, the media reported it. Now that it is 3 percent (that's Larry's figure, not mine) the press has ignored the fact that the Reagan administration licked the country's number one problem.

Speakes also questioned the public opinion polls that indicated the American people considered unemployment the present No. 1 problem.

"And why not?" he asked his audience. "Every night we have seen the unemployed line up and march across the television screen, and I certainly would not make light of the people who are unemployed. But why is it that 10.8 percent is news, but 89.2 percent of Americans who are employed and enjoy the highest standard of living is not?"

Larry posed a good question. Why aren't the news programs covering the employed people instead of the unemployed? And how would they handle it, if they did?

"This is Tom Brokaw in New York. The big news tonight is that 89.2 percent of all Americans who want jobs have them. Irving R. Levine reports on the plight of one of these men in Scarsdale, New York."

"This is Irving R. Levine and I'm standing here with Frank Davis, broker for E.F.

ART BUCHWALD

Hutton, who is one of the millions of people now employed in the United States. To the Reagan administration, Davis is just another statistic. But in human terms, he and his family tell the real story of what is going on in America today.

"Frank, this is a lovely house you have."

"Yup. It's worth $250,000. But since I'm working, I'm not about to sell it."

"How much do you make a year?"

"With bonuses about $100,000."

"Then you don't have to depend on food stamps, unemployment insurance or use up your savings to keep going?"

"Certainly not. We eat very well, and we have enough money left over to own a boat, and send our kids to private schools, and go out to a good restaurant when it moves us. If the stock market keeps up the way it is, we might buy a second home in East Hampton."

"Does being employed make you feel any different than being unemployed?"

"Very much so. It makes me feel good. I like to work, and I enjoy being paid for it, and I'm not mad at anybody."

"How does your wife feel about you being employed?"

"She thinks it's just great. She's very supportive, as are the children, that I'm making it during the recession. I don't know what I'd do without them."

"But don't you get discouraged sometimes and say to yourself, 'I'm sick and tired of working, and I'm going to throw in the towel'?"

"I imagine the thought has occurred to me. But my wife and I like nice things, and if I threw in the towel, we couldn't afford them. We're going on a ski trip next week to Vail."

"Then you're not angry at President Reagan because you have a job?"

"Why should I be made at Reagan? He's not to blame because I'm making a good living."

"Cut to Irving R. Levine standing beside the Davis swimming pool, alone."

"Frank Davis is an example of one of the 89.2 percent of the American working class, blessed with all the things this country has to offer. Unlike the 10.9 percent who are unemployed, he believes in tax cuts, military aid to foreign governments and an increase in defense spending. He may not represent all the employed people

Nixon Keeps Up Interest

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON — Although ex-representative Margaret Heckler's liberal voting record did not dissuade President Reagan from nominating her to be secretary of health and human services, Richard M. Nixon was outraged that an anti-Reaganite should join the Reagan Cabinet.

Nixon minced no words in unloading his feelings to a Reagan aide in private conversation. Showing how closely the former president still follows national affairs and politics, he detailed Heckler's voting record against the principles of the Reagan administration. Heckler's name rang no such alarm bells with Reagan himself when it was presented to the president by his staffers.

Nixon also disputed the wisdom of naming another woman to the Cabinet immediately after the selection of Elizabeth Dole as secretary of transportation. Contending Reagan's Cabinet needs balancing in other directions, Nixon asked rhetorically: What about an Italian? What about a Jew?

The Pope In Poland

President Reagan's top foreign policy advisers hope that the trip by Pope John Paul II to his native Poland planned for this summer will "stir up" trouble among the oppressed Polish people and perhaps force Gen. Wojciech Jaruzelski to relax his Stalinist rule.

That explains why word has been quietly passed to the Vatican from Washington that the Reagan administration strongly favors the papal visit despite outrageous restrictions insisted on by the communist regime in Warsaw. Jaruzelski is demanding total control over the pope's sermons, homilies, schedules and street crowds in Poland to protect against anti-communist incidents.

The pope has not yet officially confirmed that he will make his second papal visit to Poland. Nevertheless, White House officials believe the trip is certain unless blocked at the last minute by fear of the Warsaw regime that John Paul's presence would generate uncontrollable outbursts against Jaruzelski.

Cold-Shouldering Jerry Falwell

Although the Rev. Jerry Falwell has been a tireless booster of Ronald Reagan, the president's senior aides prefer that the head of the Moral Majority keep his distance from the White House.

When a routine request from Falwell to see Reagan came before the senior staff meeting last week, widespread concern was voiced about adverse public relations. "Maybe we can invite him (Falwell) over to the mansion for a drink with the president," cracked deputy chief of staff Michael Deaver. It was decided to postpone consideration of the Falwell visit until the next staff meeting.

That treatment of Reaganite Falwell fits the present White House strategy of trying to mute the president's conservative image and seek broader associations. For example, Chrysler chief Lee Iacocca is being lionized at the White House despite no past record of support for either Reagan or Reagan programs.

Kissinger's Return

Secretary of State George Shultz has elevated Henry Kissinger to the eminence of an unofficial senior adviser by conferring, more often than he lets on, in quiet, tete-a-tete lunches with his heavily-publicized predecessor.

The lunches, held in Shultz's private dining room on the seventh floor of the State Department, take place once every two or three weeks. As a result, some Shultz intimate worry that the world's most famous diplomat is having entirely too much influence on the world's newest diplomat. When named by President Reagan, Shultz had no diplomatic experience.

Shultz still intends to keep tapping Kissinger's brain for advice, and neither the president nor any White House staffer has complained. That poses this irony: Loathed by hard-line Reaganians during Reagan's campaign for the presidential nomination, Kissinger now has become "essential" (the word of one State Department official) to the making of Reagan ad-

THIS AFTERNOON

The Consequences

By PAUL T. O'CONNOR
RALEIGH — One development which has made this recession so much worse than others in recent years is that heads of households have been particularly hard hit by unemployment. The news media has correctly emphasized the hardships caused when a family's primary wage earner loses his job.

But another aspect of the unemployment problem may have far more serious long-term implications for both North Carolina and the nation. Youth unemployment is at a crisis level and one researcher writing for the N.C. 2000 Commission says today's youth unemployment spells trouble down the road.

Clark G. Ross, an economics professor at Davidson College, says youth un-

joblessness is a problem that has long-term consequences not just for the individual young person but for society as a whole", he writes in Popular Government magazine.

The state's December unemployment rate was nine percent. The latest figures available on youth (age 16-19) unemployment in North Carolina show that the average annual rate during 1981 was 17.2 percent. Remember, the recession got worse in 1982.

Ross says high youth unemployment raises four especially disturbing consequences for society.

As with all unemployment, joblessness among the young denies our economy of their potential contributions. For every one percent increase in the jobless rate, there's a three percent change in the gross national product.

"Second, being unable to get a job can lead young people to withdraw permanently from the labor force, a phenomenon that economists term the discouraged worker effect", he says. Faced with constant frustration in his attempts to

Other Editors Say Important Ruling

(Washington Daily News)

In no way do we offer criticism of anyone's religion here nor do we imply any such criticism. We are dealing solely in the educational field, and we do have some pertinent questions regarding teaching children at home rather than in either public or private schools.

In a Harnett County case, Superior Court Judge Gordon Battle has ruled that teaching children at home does not violate North Carolina law. Judge Battle based his decision on that part of the N.C. General Statutes which says "The General Assembly shall provide that every child of appropriate age and of sufficient mental and physical ability shall attend the public schools unless educated by other means."

Those last five words form the key this decision. "Unless educated by other means", in Judge Battle's decision means that parents may teach their children at home. But this decision is bound to bring up many good questions, and surely the decision will be appealed to higher court.

Firstly, are parents truly qualified to teach at home? Are adequate facilities available? Is the association with other children a real part of the educational processes? From where does adequate supervision, testing, and the like come from?

In this case the parents say they are teaching their two children (ages six and seven, one a boy and the other a girl) at home because they believe the Bible instructs them to do so. So this family is teaching its two children at home, according to testimony given in court, for religious reasons.

But as we look at the problem, parents trying to teach two children are almost sure to fail because they cannot have the adequate materials, the proper atmosphere and the association with other children which we consider vital and important for well-rounded educational process.

The Harnett County educational officials claim that failure to send these children to public schools violates the state's compulsory attendance law. This family was brought into court by the Harnett County School Board on this charge.

In truth, the final court decision on this case is most important. It will be an answer as to the very fitness of parents to seek to educate their children at home versus the law which requires attendance at public or private schools.

To the editor:

So many of us who have passed 70 years of age and have worked all our life and have been paying Social Security ever since there has been a Social Security Administration are having to pay bills on top of bills. We can't pay our doctors. We keep getting bills from our doctor. Medicare doesn't pay and some of our checks don't amount to $200. I have not heard of a Democrat or a Republican who is concerned about us. Sometimes I am in awe some wonder. Just why should we vote Democratic or Republican?

Number Of Jobs Did Not Rise

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — It is a tossup whether it was the slide in the January jobless rate or the White House's exultant response to it that was the most interesting economic news of the past few days.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics announced a decline in the jobless rate to 10.2 percent in January from 10.8 percent in December, creating confidence in and beyond the White House.

But muffled by it all was the disturbing news that the number of jobs didn't rise at all. And even worse, that the number of jobless actually rose to 12,517,000 from 11,628,000.

And perhaps worst of all: A process designed to remove statistical aberrants might actually have introduced some.

Several things made the results appear positive, chief among them being seasonal adjusting, which is a technique for processing the raw count, and the addition to the employed rolls of military personnel.

If you think such procedures are unfair, you have lots of company. But you must remember that no matter what emerges from the statistical machinery will be questioned. Statistics appear to be hard and precise; they really are soft.

This is how Janet L. Norwood, BLS commissioner, explained the procedure to Congress last Friday, Feb. 4.

"Seasonal adjustment is a statistical process designed to remove or to filter out from the data movements in the time series due to such seasonal events as changes in the weather, major holidays, Christmas sales, and the opening and closing of schools."

The purpose of such tampering is to remove temporary statistical changes that blur the longer-term underlying trend.

"This January," she continued, "there were several departures from the usual seasonal patterns." Winter was milder than usual, sales slower than normal, fall hiring and January firing less than usual.

Therefore, she concluded, "The evidence suggests that the seasonal adjustment process may have somewhat exaggerated the December to January change in the data released this morning."

But wait. Wasn't the seasonal adjusting process supposed to eliminate exaggerations so as to create a clearer picture of the economy? Yes, it was. And so was the latest change in the Consumer Price Index.

In this year's monthly CPI reports, a rental equivalent will be substituted for the price of homes and the cost of mortgages, one reason being criticisms that high home and mortgage costs exaggerated the index.

These high costs, critics pointed out, were confined to those who bought houses or renegotiated mortgages, a relatively small percentage of all families. Existing owners, for example, generally weren't affected.

The new standard begins with the January figures, scheduled to be released Feb. 25. Because of a shift in housing-rental costs, the timing could prove unfortunate, especially for those trying to prove inflation is waning.

Mortgage costs, for example, have been falling, and housing prices have almost stabilized. But those who make a living renting out apartments say that rents are poised for a sharp, abnormal ascent.

Landlords - among them the operators of huge real estate limited partnerships that own many thousands of units - argue that rents have lagged increases in other living costs. As they put it, rents will be "adjusted upward."

If home-ownership costs rose sharply enough to exaggerate the CPI, can't the same be said for sharply rising rental expenses? It would seem so.

And it would seem also that those tight little numbers through which so many people interpret the economy's movements might bear sharper examination.

get a job, the teen decides the situation is hopeless. He stops looking and, in many cases, he loses a great deal of self-respect. "This decision can be permanently debilitating", Ross says.

Third, the young person is not learning how to work. At a time when he should be learning job habits like punctuality, responsibility, dependability and the ability to accept supervision, he's not working at all. "Without these characteristics, a young job-hunter is permanently handicapped in finding employment. Also, employers often view skeptically applicants for employment who have not held a job or been in school during the 16 to 24 age period.

Fourth, the worst unemployment is hitting the poor. The black teen unemployment rate has been as high as 50 percent. No doubt there are many other young blacks who aren't even counted in that statistic. The current high youth unemployment, therefore, is likely to perpetuate the economic disadvantages of whole classes of current poor. If the poor kids can't get jobs and learn how to work, if they can't build the resume they'll need to get jobs as adults, they're as likely to be poor as their parents were.

Ross doesn't highlight one other consequence of high youth unemployment — social turmoil. History can point to many cases of political rebellion helped in great part by the energy of young people angry about the absence of a role for them in society. While the youth unemployment rate may not bring social or political revolution to the United States, it is bringing turmoil.

Common sense tells you that a youngster unable to find work to earn an honest living is much more susceptible to the temptations of seeking a dishonest way of making some money.

in this country, but his story is worth telling because it gives a true picture of what is really going on in the country today.

"Tomorrow we'll talk to another employed person who is doing very well as a golf pro in Palm Springs, California. This is Irving R. Levine in Scarsdale, New York."

Shot To Death In An Exchange

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Larry Oakley, 32, was shot to death in an exchange of gunfire with a cab driver early Tuesday, police said.

Oakley, of Raleigh, entered the Ebony Cab Co. downtown at 3:30 a.m. and fired three or four shots from a .22 caliber pistol at cab driver Melvin Scott, who pulled out a gun and shot back, officers said.

An Orbiting Junkyard

Soviet satellite Cosmos 1402 plunged harmlessly back to Earth last month. But the satellite's fuel core, which may still contain radioactive materials, remained in orbit. Experts thought it might fall to Earth this week. Cosmos 1402 is one of more than 13,750 satellites that have been launched into orbit since 1957. At present count, almost 4,800 of these satellites and other bits of debris are still out there. Every year, up to 550 man-made objects in orbit fall back to Earth — out of control. Most burn up when they enter Earth's atmosphere. But, in 1978, Cosmos 954 — another Soviet satellite — dropped out of orbit and scattered radioactive debris over the Northwest Territories of Canada.

DO YOU KNOW — Which nation has the most man-made devices in Earth orbit?

Wooing Bert Lance

Walter F. Mondale is seeking to attract Southern delegates* to the 1984 Democratic National Convention through one of Jimmy Carter's closet political associates: former budget director Bert Lance, who is not Georgia Democratic state chairman.

Lance is a key figure in trying to get the Southern Democrats to work together in picking the party's presidential nominee, insisting that and Democrat who hopes to carry Dixie in the general election had better campaign there during the primaries. Despite Mondale's concern over being linked too closely to Carter, his well-organized campaign operation understand and is attentive to Lance's desires.

Accordingly, Mondale will tour the South early — on March 6 and 7, winding up in Atlanta March 8 for a Georgia Democratic dinner run by Lance. Beyond that, the former vice president has renewed old ties with Lance from the first year of the Carter administration, established before he resigned under fire from the office of Management and Budget. TALLYING RESULTS ... Pitt County Schools volunteers began work Tuesday compiling the information from the completed needs assessment survey filled out by employees, school advisory council and PTO members. The surveys went out last fall and the results will be used, county school officials said, to set up a five-year plan based on need for the individual schools and the central office. (Barry Gaskins Photo)

Large Turnout For School Bd. Meet

WILLIAMSTON — A large number of persons were on hand at the February meeting of the Martin County Board of Education, seeking action to upgrade Skewarkee Park, an aging athletic facility where the school's baseball and football teams play.

A request has been presented to the board for funding totaling $175,362 for improvements and constructions at the field. The request includes $75,000 each for a new field house and aluminum bleachers. Johnny Rogers, spokesman for the group, urged the board to support the idea.

In their response to the public request, board members said it will need to be considered as a special budget item in the 1983-84 budget.

It was pointed out that even if a new sports field was constructed at Williamston High School at a future date, there is not sufficient space for both a football and baseball field, so that the old Skewarkee facility would still be needed for play.

The school board approved funds left over from a parking project at Farm Life School to be used for beautification of the grounds. Wayne Peel reported to the board that because of citizen volunteer help on the paving project, the work was done at about $5,000 less than was budgeted.

Dr. Danny Price reported that the Martin County Social Services Department has been asked to help to control a persistent lice problem which has been going on at Rodgers School since September.

Projects Announced By Pitt-Greenville C-of-C

A legislative workshop and a program called "Coffee With Your N.C. Legislators" are two projects announced by the State Concerns Task Force of the Public and Governmental Affairs Council of the Pitt-Greenville Chamber of Commerce after its recent meeting.

The projects are planned in addition to the task force's regular program of work, said David Searce, task force chairman.

The legislative workshop is scheduled Thursday at the Holiday Inn in Greenville and will feature Gene Hill of the North Carolina Citizens for Business and Industry headquartered in Raleigh.

"Coffee With Your Legislators" will feature state Reps. Ed Warren, Walter B. Jones Jr. and John Gillam and Sen. Vernon White. These four will meet informally with interested persons at 10 a.m. every second and fourth Monday at the Fleming House.

In addition, Searce said, a reception will be held in Raleigh for all the General Assembly on April. Representatives from East Carolina University, the ECU

Town and Country Senior Citizens Club held its business meeting recently with 80 members and guests attending.

Rosemary Fischer spoke to the group concerning music lessons for the elderly. The classes, she said, will run eight weeks with two 45-minute sessions per week at 10 a.m.

Members who signed up for the music lessons are requested to meet at Hooker Memorial Church on Greenville Boulevard Monday at 10 a.m. Interested senior citizens should contact Mrs. Fischer at 752-4357.

It was reported that members will help the March of Dimes at the Mall-A-Rama at Carolina East Mall March 24-26.

The deposits for the Disneyworld trip scheduled for May 9 must be paid by Feb. 17, club President Sarah Ashton said.

Medical School and members of all four councils of the Pitt-Greenville Chamber of Commerce will be attending, he noted.

"We have never hosted a gala party for our legislators as have other universities around the state," said Searce, "so now with the medical school in full swing the opportunity for doing so has presented itself."

Details on the trip, he said, may be obtained by calling the chamber of commerce.

The Forecast For Thursday, February 10

• Low Temperatures

Rain  Snow
Showers  Flurries

Fronts: Cold  Warm  Occluded  Stationary

WEATHER FORECAST — The National Weather Service forecasts rain and showers Thursday for the Southeast. Rain is expected for the Pacific Northwest and mixed showers and snow flurries are due in the central and northern Plains. (AP Laserphoto)

By The Associated Press
Rain will fall in many parts of North Carolina tonight and Thursday, while mountain areas should be spared for snow.

Occasional rain will spread into southwestern North Carolina by this evening and slowly across the west and south portions of the state later tonight.

Precipitation will likely take the form of light snow across the northern half of the mountains tonight and become mixed with rain on Thursday.

Thursday will be cloudy with periods of rain and temperatures mostly in the 40s with the exception of some 50s near the coast and some 30s in the northern mountains. Some rain will linger into Friday as an area of low pressure moves northeast through the Carolinas.

High pressure extending down across the Ohio Valley region and into the southeastern states continued a clear sky across most of the state during the night. A few clouds were noted across the mountains.

High pressure gave us a sunny sky across the region on Tuesday. Rather cold air covered the state and in spite of the sunshine, temperatures only managed to reach the 40s. The northern mountains stayed in the 30s. The actual range was from 35 at Boone and Spruce Pine to 50 at Fayetteville.

High pressure started today off on a sunny note, but some increase in cloudiness was brought in by our next weather-maker now developing over west Texas. This low pressure area is expected to move eastward along the Gulf Coast states later tonight and Thursday. This will bring an increasing chance of rain spreading our way by tonight and into Thursday.

Senate Prepares Dram Shop Bill Amendment

By JOHN FLESHER
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Gov. Jim Hunt's drunken driving legislation may emerge from state House and Senate committees next week — but not without changes in its dram shop provision, lawmakers say.

Bill sponsors Sen. Henson Barnes and Rep. Martin Lancaster, both D-Wayne, say they hope to end committee work on the package next week, though some legislators were skeptical it would happen that quickly.

"Lieutenant Governor (Jimmy) Green has indicated that he is very anxious for us to get finished on this," Barnes said. "It's been debated for a long time and we need to get it to the floor."

Meanwhile, a Senate Judiciary III subcommittee prepared to discuss possible amendments to the dram shop statute being drafted Tuesday by legislative staff attorneys at Barnes' request.

The amendments were said to deal with the statute's controversial requirement that establishments selling alcoholic beverages be insured and the extension of liability created by the statute to firms that sell alcohol for off-premises consumption.

Sen. Ben Tison, D-Mecklenburg, chairman of the subcommittee considering the dram shop section, said he might convene his panel today if the amendments are ready.

Barnes, chairman of the full Judiciary III committee, said the amendments put into writing some of the most frequently mentioned objections to the dram shop statute. He said they're not necessarily favored by anyone on the committee.

"We feel that it's best to have some possible amendments drafted before we get started, rather than deciding what we want and then having to start from scratch," Barnes said.

As presently written, the bill would make people who sell alcoholic beverages subject to civil suits if they serve people already drunk or underaged who later cause accidents — whether the beverages were sold for on-premises consumption as in a restaurant or for off-premises drinking such as by a grocery or convenience store.

It would require that any business selling alcohol be insured to make certain it would be able to pay in case it's sued.

The off-premises provision has come under strong attack from some lawmakers and lobbyists for the businesses, who say it would shift responsibility from the drinker to the seller.

Supporters respond that it's only fair for the dealers to have some liability. Lancaster, chairman of the House Judiciary III Committee, said a weekend accident in Greensboro that killed four teenagers shows the dram shop statute is needed.

The youths were killed Saturday when a car driven by a fifth teenager smashed into several trees. Greensboro police say the victims, all below the legal drinking age, had purchased beer earlier that night without being asked to show identification.

The driver, who wasn't hurt, has been charged with manslaughter and driving under the influence.

"It is indeed sad that it takes a tragedy such as this to graphically illustrate the need for this bill," Lancaster said. "Clearly, there is a need to impose responsibility on dealers with so little regard for the law."

Tison said he would introduce a bill making it illegal for minors to attempt to purchase alcoholic beverages. It's illegal for anyone under 18 to buy beer and wine, while the minimum age for drinking hard liquor is 21, but attempted purchases by minors are not illegal.

Gov. Hunt Urges Truckers To Return To Highways

By The Associated Press
Gov. Jim Hunt says North Carolina is taking extra precautions to ensure the safety of truckers on state highways, and Hunt is calling on independent truckers to resume their normal shipment schedule to help the economy.

"The state is working in every way it can with local law enforcement agencies to ensure the safe flow of truck traffic on our roads, and highways, and I hope truckers will return to the road as soon as possible," Hunt said in a prepared statement Tuesday.

Hunt said the drivers play an important role in the state's economy and that "interruptions in normal truck traffic cost the people of our state jobs and money."

Elbert Peters, executive vice president of the N.C. Motor Carriers Association, said safety officers at trucking companies and state weigh stations indicates that traffic is increasing on North Carolina highways.

"We think the strike's beginning to diminish some," Peters said.

Lt. Walter Chapman of the North Carolina Highway Patrol also said there have been more trucks on the highways this week.

"Truck traffic is picking up not only during daylight hours but during night hours too," Chapman said, adding that troopers across the state reported that truck traffic was noticeably heavier Monday night than it had been for nearly a week.

Officials at the State Farmers Market in Raleigh said 50 trucks checked in between Friday and Monday — seven more than the number unloading the week before as the strike was gearing up.

Meanwhile, reports of violent incidents have dropped from a high of 16 last Wednesday to three on Tuesday.

The patrol said early today that it had not received reports of any incidents late

Tuesday night or early today.

Larry Philbeck, 30, of Rutherfordton said two tires on his rig were blown out by gunfire as he drove on Interstate 85 in Granville County. Philbeck, who was not injured, said he heard a shot hit over the cab of the truck about 150 yards from an overpass near Creedmoor.

"I thought they'd hit the side window. I wasn't about to stop. I was too scared," he said. "The next thing I knew something was vibrating and I knew they'd hit the tire." Philbeck said he continued several miles down the highway before stopping.

The incident was not reported to authorities, however.

Meanwhile, police reported two incidents of objects being thrown through tractor-trailer windshields.

Ronald Louis Whitted of Fayetteville told state troopers an object was thrown through his windshield as he drove on U.S. 401 south of Fayetteville Tuesday morning, Chapman said. Whitted was not injured.

In the another incident, a snowball with a rock in it was thrown through the windshield of a tractor-trailer south of Kernersville on N.C. 150, Forsyth County sheriff's officials said.

James K. Bray, 49, of King, was treated at Forsyth Memorial hospital for glass in his eyes after the incident which happened just outside Kernersville Monday night.

EXTENDED WEATHER OUTLOOK FOR N.C.

Chance of statewide precipitation Friday and Saturday, mainly in the east. Sunday, highs in 50s for east Friday; highs Saturday and Sunday mostly in the 40s. Low each night in the 30s except near 40 in southeast.

Open Ball Field To School Team

WILLIAMSTON — Against considerable opposition, members of the Williamston Town Board Monday has agreed to permit the Williamston High School team to use the ball field at the public Youth Park six nights a week.

The high school team will be permitted use of the park with no charge for lights.

One commissioner, George Bagley, expressed his opinion that giving the high school team use of the field for all but one night in the week made it difficult for town residents to use the facility.

Another dissenter to the decision Monday night was Eddie Beach, head of the Williamston Recreation Department. Beach pointed out the disparity of the situation created by the town board's decision. He said when he has a program that needs the use of a gymnasium, the town must pay the school for such usage, but now the school teams can use the ballpark six nights a week without paying anything.

Defending the decision, Commissioner John Swain said the scheduling of high school use had not created an unbearable situation in the past. He added it would be a great help to the school's athletic program.

In a related matter, the board failed to approve a request for $5,500 for the repair of the Little League Field adjacent to the National Guard Armory. Board members insisted that because of a tight budget, there was no source of funds available for the proposed repair. The field has not been used for the past year due to the bad condition of the poles and lights. The field is needed primarily as a place for girls to play softball.

One suggestion is that efforts be made to receive funds and/or work assistance through volunteer efforts.

In other matters:

— The board opened four bids for a new garbage collection truck, ranging from a low of $38,272 to a high of $39,913.50. The board will study all the bids before making an award decision.

School Displays Special Exhibit

Sadie Sautler Elementary School is participating in the statewide celebration of the "Year of the Public Schools" by placing an exhibit on view in a Greenville bank.

The exhibit, entitled "Sadie Sautler Prepares Children for the Future," is being shown in the lobby of the main branch of the North Carolina National Bank.

Using photographs and illustrations, the standing exhibit shows students involved in computer activities to learn new technology skills, the school counselor's guidance role, student activities using money to develop consumer skills, and student activities to promote good nutrition and its relationship to health.

Farming Group Looks To Year 2000 In N.C.

By JAMES GOGKEK
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Tobacco will never disappear from eastern North Carolina, but leaf farmers will need to diversify in the future, says the dean of North Carolina State University's School of Forest Resources.

Speaking before a Tuesday conference on farming in the year 2000 in eastern North Carolina, Eric L. Ellwood said farmers should look at opportunities in other crops such as intensive farming for vegetables, livestock raising and forestry management.

"The South is becoming the woodbasket of the nation and internationally," he said. "There has been a move by the forestry industry from the Pacific Northwest to the Southeast."

From an economic viewpoint, financial returns for forest investments are competitive with other commodities, Ellwood said. "But it's a deferred income," he said. "Financial returns are 25 to 30 years down the road."

On the average, Ellwood said, private land owners in the state are not managing their land for forestry.

"The opportunity is there for a very good income if they do manage land for forest products," he said. "It's an under-recognized source."

Ellwood added that North Carolina has an especially favorable climate for forestry investment because of tax benefits for re-forestation by private land owners.

Gov. Jim Hunt, speaking to the conference, said education and conservation are important to farming development in the next 17 years.

"As we look toward the 21st century, we know that agricultural research and education will need our full support," he said. "Farm surpluses today may be followed by shortages of farm products within two decades, especially if we slacken our efforts in agricultural research, teaching and extension work."

Hunt also stressed the need for increased conservation in the future to protect natural resources and use them wisely.

"Each time the productive topsoil from another acre of land washes away, or another body of water becomes hopelessly polluted, every resident of our state becomes poorer," Hunt said. "Each such loss also further limits the opportunities that our future will bring."

William C. Friday, president of the University of North Carolina, addressed the conference on the findings of the Commission on the Future of North Carolina, a committee established two years ago by the governor.

Friday is chairman of the committee which has 68 other members.

"We're a very diversified group," Friday said, adding that group members include legislators, teachers, farmers, bankers, church laymen and various citizens' group leaders among others.

Friday said the results of the commission show that the priority for North Carolina in the future must be the "strength and quality of education in the state."

He said the commission's report, due this spring, "lays out a plan of action for the next 17 years" in areas of the state economy, environment, natural resources and education.

Despite Rumors, No Number 8

NEW YORK (AP) — Despite rumors reported in a London tabloid, actress Elizabeth Taylor says she has no plans for an eighth marriage.

The London Daily Express reported Tuesday that Miss Taylor was engaged to marry Victor Gonzales Luna, 55, a Mexican lawyer. The newspaper said the wedding plans were disclosed by Luna's daughter, Irma.

Chen Sam, Miss Taylor's spokeswoman in New York, issued a statement saying the report "has no basis in fact."

The spokeswoman said Miss Taylor and Luna were friends and had spent Christmas and New Year's together.

Jury Loses No Time In Its Conviction For Bigamy

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—A jury deliberated just 90 minutes before returning fraud and bigamy convictions against a man who admitted marrying more than 100 women but didn't "keep score"—and who was brought to justice by one of his victims. Giovanni Vigliotto, 53, was convicted of two felony charges Tuesday in Maricopa County Superior Court by an eight-man, four-woman jury. The fraud and bigamy charges against Vigliotto stemmed from his marriage to Patricia Ann Gardiner, 43, of Mesa, Ariz., who had testified that he vanished with $36,500 of her cash and property two weeks after their Nov. 16, 1981, wedding and abandoned her in a San Diego motel. "The romance was quick and the courtship was short," Ms. Gardiner testified. "I made an impulsive decision." Ms. Gardiner brightened when the verdict was read and hugged a female employee from the county attorney's office sitting next to her in the gallery. "Both counts," she said, beaming.

Vigliotto was arrested Dec. 28, 1981, in a Panama City, Fla., shopping center. Sharon Clark, of Ray, Mich., had testified she tracked him there in a six-month, $10,000 search based on a map he left behind when he deserted her.

Ms. Clark said she was managing a campground and flea market in Indiana when she met and married Vigliotto. She said $49,000 of her cash and property vanished with him two weeks after their June 1981 marriage in Tennessee.

Contacted by telephone after the verdict was announced, Ms. Clark said: "All I can tell you is I'm so glad."

Joan Bacarella, 45, of Manalapan, N.J., another prosecution witness, had testified Vigliotto left her and her three children stranded in a Florida motel and "I realized I had been victimized and my prince turned into a frog." She said $40,000 worth of merchandise from her retail store vanished after she entrusted it to two friends of Vigliotto. Ms. Bacarella said she met Vigliotto in February 1981 but never married him because she was not divorced from her estranged husband. Vigliotto, who looked surprised upon hearing the verdict, lowered his head and conferred briefly with his attorney, David Steiner.

During the trial, Vigliotto testified he married 105 women but never got a divorce. "I don't keep score" he said when asked how many women he married in a six-year period.

He denied defrauding any of the women who testified against him.

"Bigamy is merely something this man does to perpetuate a fraud," David Stoller, a deputy county attorney, said in his closing argument Tuesday. "To use marriage, to use the values of family in this way, is, I think, despicable."

Steiner said in his closing statement that the state did not prove Vigliotto defrauded Ms. Gardiner.

Judge Rufus Coulter ordered the panel to return to the courtroom today but did not explain his order beyond saying, "There are still some issues that must be resolved."

More jury consideration, however, would be needed if prosecutors were to use Vigliotto's previous convictions in seeking an increase in his sentence to a possible 34 years in prison.

Court records indicate Vigliotto, using an alias, pleaded guilty to illegal transportation of a car in 1956 and was convicted in 1969 for unlawful transportation of a stolen security.

Vigliotto claimed that his real name was Nikolai Peruskov and that he was born of Russian parents in Sicily in 1929. He testified that his family was killed by Nazis when he was 8 and he begin traveling the world, marrying 105 women while using more than 51 aliases.

But the prosecution maintained that he was born Frederick Jipp in New York City in 1936 and used the story about his family's deaths to make himself appear vulnerable to the women, most of whom were in their 40s, independent and with substantial property when Vigliotto came into their lives.

Egg Inside An Egg For His Breakfast

NEW LONDON, Conn. (AP)—George T. Woodhall got three for the price of two for breakfast — along with a lesson in chicken reproduction.

Woodhall, a laborer at the Millstone III nuclear plant construction site in Waterford, stayed home from work Monday because of snow. He made himself breakfast by dropping two extra-large eggs into a pot of boiling water.

"As the snow fell, he sipped a cup of coffee and put bread in the toaster."

"All of a sudden I heard a pop," recalled Woodhall. "When I put the pot under the cold water I saw that one of the eggs was cracked all around the top."

Inside the shell was the white of the egg — and another whole egg, shell and all. Woodhall finished his breakfast and then reported his finding to the New London Day newspaper. Dr. Aaron Spandorf, a poultry specialist with the University of Connecticut's Cooperative Extension Service, said the egg-inside-an-egg is an unusual occurrence.

"It doesn't happen very often — maybe one in a million," said Spandorf, who serves as a technical adviser to the poultry industry.

"After the egg was formed, it reversed itself in the chicken's oviduct and therefore was treated as if it were a new yolk coming through," Spandorf said. "That's why there was white between two shells."

Reprimanded In Accident

PORTSMOUTH, Va. (AP)—The Oregon Inlet Coast Guard Station commander and five others were reprimanded Tuesday for failing to report an accident that damaged the William B. Umstead Bridge last year.

A three-month probe followed the accident, which occurred the morning of Nov. 5 when a barge struck the bridge. The span across the Croatan Sound was shut down nearly two months for repairs.

Seaman's Apprentice Robert Chatman, the radio operator at Oregon Inlet, received the message from the skipper of the tug Columbia that a barge he was pushing had chipped a piece of concrete from the bridge.

Chatman was exonerated because he acted properly by reporting the incident to his superiors, investigators said.

But the accident was not reported to state highway officials until nearly three days later after a fisherman reported cracks in a piling.

Coast Guard Fifth District Commandant John D. Costello issued letters of reprimand to Chief Petty Officer James McQueen, commander at the Inlet, and Oregon Inlet Duty Officer Elwood Eppard.

Costello also sent letters to Richard Brady, duty officer at Cape Hatteras Station at the time of the accident, and William Ingram, James Wallach and Fred Parsons, all petty officers on duty at Oregon Inlet.

In 'Good Shape'

HOUSTON (AP)—Comedian Jerry Lewis, who underwent a series of tests administered by noted heart surgeon Dr. Michael DeBakey, was found to be "in good shape" and can return to work.

Lewis, 56, underwent double bypass heart surgery six weeks ago in Las Vegas after experiencing chest pains caused by blockage in an artery pumping blood to the heart.

After seeing DeBakey, Lewis was released Tuesday from Methodist Hospital.

"Dr. DeBakey ran a series of routine tests that are done on all patients who have heart surgery," said hospital spokeswoman Colleen Fox. "Dr. DeBakey said Mr. Lewis was in good shape, gave him a clean bill of health and told him he could go back to work."

Doctors determined one of Lewis' arteries contained a lesion, which was blocking the flow of blood to part of the heart. A section of vein was removed from Lewis' thigh and spliced around the blocked artery to form a new path.

Voice Concern For Mental Patient Confidentiality

By F. ALAN BOYCE
Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — A bill designed to promote efficiency among mental health facilities met resistance from a state House committee Tuesday because of a provision to allow officials to share patient records without their consent.

Rep. Christopher Barker Jr., D-Craven, chairman of the Mental Health Committee, said there was no need to worry because records could only be transferred from one mental health facility to another. But Reps. Ruth Cook, D-Wake, and J. Paul Tyndall, D-Onslow, were skeptical.

"I think we have to tread very lightly in terms of confidentiality," said Mrs. Cook. "I'm afraid if a patient knows that his records are not confidential he may decide not to seek that treatment."

"I'm concerned about records that might go out into the community," added Tyndall. "I think either the person or his family should sign a release to share information."

The bill is designed to encourage groups of mental health facilities to use one "port of entry" to help keep track of patients, said Angelyn McMillan, assistant secretary of the Division of Mental Health. She said it would help coordinate county and state mental health facilities while improving efficiency and reducing costs.

"There are times when people slip through the cracks," Ms. McMillan said. "We want to see that a person who needs care is moved to the best possible place to get that care and we want to be sure that in the process of moving patients no one is lost in the cracks."

In other legislative action:

Social Workers
Sens. Cecil Jenkins, D-Cabarrus, and Ollie Harris, D-Cleveland, introduced a bill that would require social workers to be certified by their own board of examiners.

Jenkins said the measure, which emerged from a committee studying the possible licensing of social workers, fell short of that goal.

"Requiring licensing that would bar some people from practicing social work would be an unreasonable restraint of trade," Jenkins said. "Besides, there's no evidence that it's needed."

The bill would not prohibit people without certification from doing social work, but would help those who use social workers determine who is most qualified, he added.

Under the bill, the governor would appoint a seven-member North Carolina Certification Board for Social Work. A person would be certified as a social worker, master social worker, clinical social worker or social work manager, depending on experience.

"Social workers themselves seem to be in favor of this legislation," Jenkins said. "It won't expand the bureaucracy or cost the state anything. It's sort of like setting up a counterpart of the medical society for social workers."

Session Length
The Senate Rules Committee sent to subcommittee a constitutional amendment introduced by Sen. Donald Kincaid, R-Caldwell, limiting legislative sessions to 70 work days.

The full Senate on Monday night approved a resolution calling for a study of limits on the length of legislative sessions, a proposal backed by Lt. Gov. Jimmy Green. That resolution suggested a 60 work day limit.

UNC Board
A bill to shorten the length of terms of University of North Carolina Board of Governors was sent to a subcommittee of the Senate Rules Committee.

The measure would allow board members to serve two consecutive four-year terms instead of the current two eight-year terms.

Sen. Craig Lawing, D-Mecklenburg, said the subcommittee would write an amendment to allow current board members who have served no more than 11 years to seek one more four-year term. Lawing said the committee would then consider the bill as amended.

Parents
The Senate unanimously approved and sent to the House a bill that would cut off a parents' rights after leaving a child in foster care for more than two consecutive years without showing progress in getting the child back.

Current laws deal with removal of the child from the parents because of neglect.

Opponents charge that the bill could take children away from parents who are in prison or who are in an institution and fail to return home within two years.

NCAA
A Senate committee fell short of commending the National Collegiate Athletic Association for strengthening academic standards for athletes after questions arose about whether the standards would discriminate against minorities.

Sen. Marshall Rauch, D-Gaston, had wanted the Higher Education Committee to commend the NCAA. But Sen. William Martin, D-Guilford, the state's only black senator, said there was a possibility such a resolution "would be seen as racist."

He said there are serious questions whether the Scholastic Aptitude Test scores are racially biased, adding that colleges recruiting minorities occasionally waive SAT requirements for admissions.

But Martin said he felt blacks could support higher course requirements and grade averages so the committee sent the matter to a subcommittee for more work.

Education
Dr. Jerome Melton, deputy superintendent of public instruction, told the House Education Committee that the state Board of Education was considering changes in rules governing out-of-field teaching.

Melton said the board might require any teacher spending more than half his time in a given area would need to be endorsed or certified for that area.

But he said that would mean "going back and providing instruction for those teachers" at state expense.

Amendment
Sen. Helen Marvin, D-Gaston, said the House and Senate Constitutional Amendments Committees will hold a public hearing soon on proposals to require that constitutional amendments be put to voters only during statewide general elections.

Voters now may consider constitutional amendments at any statewide election or primary. Supporters say that helps prevent the proposed amendments from becoming partisan issues.

Sen. William Redman, R-Iredell, has introduced a bill to allow constitutional referendums only in the November general election. A similar measure is expected to be introduced in the House.

Pets
The Senate Judiciary I Committee approved and sent to the floor a bill that would make the theft of dogs and cats valued at more than $400 punishable as a felony.

Theft of pets has been a misdemeanor regardless of their value while the theft of horses, mules, pigs or cattle has been a felony carrying a presumptive prison sentence of three years.

Architects
A bill was introduced to allow people over age 18 to take one test to apply for a license as an architect regardless of their training. While the bill would remove the requirement of a qualifying test to take the licensing exam, it would also make the licensing test more difficult.

Spotlighting
A bill to extend the hours when it is illegal to use spotlights hunting deer won tentative approval in the House but was delayed because of the addition of several counties. A final vote was set for Wednesday.

Under the bill, it would be illegal to use spotlights from one-half hour after sunset until one-half hour before sunrise. Previously it was illegal only from 11 p.m. to one-half hour before sunrise.

The original bill included Alamance, Iredell, Randolph, Rockingham, Rowan and Wilkes counties, but the amendment adds the counties of Alexander, Alleghany, Anson, Ashe, Catawba, Cumberland, Guilford, Stokes, Surry, Watauga, Yadkin, Cabarrus, Richmond, Scotland, Stanly and Union.

Day Care
The House tentatively approved a bill that would clarify the definition of a day care facility to include centers that care for more than five children more than four hours a day.

Under the bill, only children younger than 13 are counted, the operator's after-school children are not counted and care must not be provided 24 hours a day. The bill also eliminates exemptions from licensing for day camps and adds exemptions for bible schools during vacations or cooperative arrangements among parents.

Rep. Margaret Keesee-Forrester, R-Guilford, who filed the bill, said it would bring 75 to 100 more facilities under state licensing but would not require any additional state funds.

Birth Defects
Rep. Margaret Tennille, D-Forsyth, filed a bill seeking $1.1 million in the next biennium to screen for fetal neural tube defects.

Resume Probe Of Shootings

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — One of six witnesses to go before a special federal grand jury probing the 1979 slayings of five Communist Party Workers has been ordered to appear again today after declining to answer questions Tuesday.

John Harris, 40, of Wilmington told reporters outside the hearing that he was a member of the Ku Klux Klan. But Harris said he took the Fifth Amendment when asked a similar question during Tuesday's hearing.

"He (a federal prosecutor) just asked me if I was a member of the Klan in 1979, and I just said, 'I refuse to answer on the grounds it might incriminate me,'" Harris said.

He said prosecutors told him he must appear again today before a federal judge who will order him to answer.

Harris has said he doesn't want to testify before the grand jury because he thinks the government wants to destroy the Klan and favors Communists.

Five other witnesses, most believed to be Klan or Nazi associates, were called before the jury Tuesday. Most of those witnesses declined to answer reporters questions about their appearance.

Harris told reporters he was a member of the Invisible Knights of the Ku Klux Klan and said he was in the procession of Klan and Nazi members that clashed with Communists on Nov. 2, 1979. But Harris said he didn't do any shooting.

The jury reconvened Tuesday after a five-month recess.

Former Colonels Help Refugees In MIA Search

By JOHN RICE
Associated Press Writer
SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Some say Americans are haunted by the trauma of Vietnam. Others say Vietnam is haunted by America. Jack Bailey and Don McCullough are looking for the ghosts.

Aboard an old smuggler's ship, they cruise the monsoon-washed Gulf of Thailand to guide teeming boatloads of starving refugees past scores of pirates.

From those refugees, the two retired Air Force colonels who run Operation Rescue seek clues about lost comrades, the 2,500 Americans missing in the jungles of Indochina.

"If you pick up a boatload of people that have been starved and raped and murdered ... you find that some of these people have information on Americans that are held by the Indochinese communists," said the 60-year-old McCullough.

Bailey, 59, thinks at least 200 men may still be alive. In northern Vietnam, Bailey says, there's a prison camp where English-speaking Westerners have been seen.

"Tell the world we're here. Tell the world we're here. Don't forget us," one yelled to a passer-by, according to Bailey.

Operation Rescue started in 1978 when Food for the Hungry of Scottsdale, Ariz., launched a ship, the Akuna, to help the flood of refugees survive their journey.

Bailey and McCullough were operating an air crash investigation service here when they became interested in Operation Rescue.

The Rev. Larry Ward, head of Food for the Hungry, talked Bailey and McCullough into taking over the anti-piracy program in 1981 and gave them the ship.

Although the flow of refugees has declined, thousands still sail every month in tiny, overloaded fishing boats for Thailand or Malaysia. McCullough says about half don't make it.

Most run into pirates. Refugees report being robbed and beaten, watching family members raped and enslaved, watching their boats rammed and sunk.

Operation Rescue, which runs the 275-ton Akuna III out of Songkhla, Thailand, normally just offers assistance and escorts refugees past bandit ships, but it will pick up people in danger of sinking.

"The last boat we picked up, there were 81 people on the boat," Bailey said. "They'd been drifting for 17 days, with no food for the last 15 days, no water for the past five days. ... And they were starting to actually physically eat their dead."

Said Bailey: "I'd never seen anything in three wars like what I saw out there."

But Bailey and McCullough have been dogged by money problems. They sold their first ship, a 750-ton vessel that cost $3,000 a day to run, and bought the smaller boat, a smugglers' ship impounded in Singapore.

The Singapore-based crew hasn't been paid in 3½ months, Bailey said. "Our chief engineer's wife even hocked her wedding band for them to live because they believe ... in what we're doing."

The two men have returned to their ramshackle office on a San Francisco pier to raise money. Much of their financial support comes from refugees who have made it to the United States. They said they planned to return to Southeast Asia and the Akuna III early next week.

Bailey said that he had helped plan the raid into Laos last fall, led by former Green Beret Lt. Col. James G. Gritz. The raid, reported this week, had aimed at finding and retrieving missing Americans, but Bailey said he had been forced to pull out.

"The primary thing was that I could not financially support the number of people that was involved," he said. Gritz went ahead with the Nov. 27 raid, but his force of three Americans and 15 Laotians fled under attack.

Bailey moved across the room cluttered with military decorations, mementos and model planes. He tossed aside snapshots he says are of Lao and Cambodian resistance fighters and spread out a hand-drawn tissue-paper map marked with places Americans have been seen.

Earlier this year, President Reagan said his administration assumes that at least some of those missing Americans remain alive and that the remains of others can be recovered.

There have been more than 460 reported sightings of Americans in Indochina and only about half have been identified as people there voluntarily, said Col. Jerry Venanzi, who monitors the situation at the Pentagon.

Bailey said the Laotian resistance has provided information about missing Americans and has given the remains of several to U.S. officials, although "they are people that are getting no credit from our government and no support whatever."

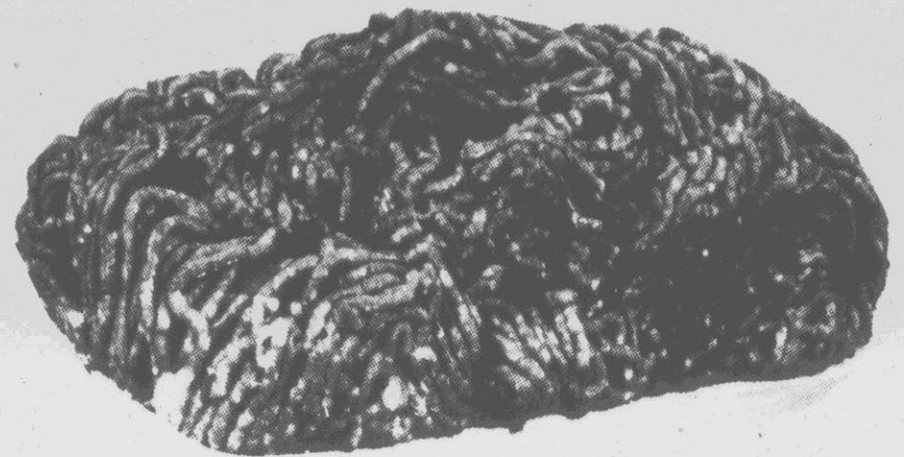

He said the Laotians have told him they know the locations of at least 35 more bodies.

Venanzi said he didn't know of any American bodies turned over by the Laotian underground.

Bailey has been involved with Vietnam since 1965, first as a highly decorated fighter pilot and teacher, later as a civilian worker. He was working for a U.S. engineering company in South Vietnam in April 1975 when the government began to crumble. Bailey took a leave and, with two boats financed by evangelist Billy Graham, tried to carry refugees out of the country.

He said he was arrested by South Vietnamese forces, who demanded a bribe for his freedom, and was thrown in jail. "I walked out of there when everybody deserted, when Vietnam fell," he said. McCullough says they have been accused of working for the CIA. "We are not working for the U.S. government on any kind of intelligence operation," he said.

If you think the cheapest ground beef you can find is a bargain, Overton's says, "Baloney!"

You can be sure of just one thing if you buy the cheapest ground beef you can find: it will be made of the cheapest ingredients. With all the fat that can legally be put into it.

The fact is, at $1.69/lb. the ground beef we make and sell at Overton's is a much better value than the $1.19/lb. specials they run at some other stores. There's less fat. Less shrinkage. And it's made from choicer meats. Plus we don't truck beef in already ground. We grind our beef fresh several times daily.

Oh, we could sell you ground beef for $1.19/lb. But we won't do it. Our quality standards are too high.

At Overton's, we believe we sell the finest meats in town. And if that means our ground beef costs a little more, we think we make up for it by offering you a better value.

So, try some ground beef from Overton's. And after you've tasted it, we think you'll say, "Hot dog!"

Report Fewer Students Are Scoring High On SATs

By JOHN RICE
Associated Press Writer
SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The brightest products of America's high schools aren't shining as brilliantly on college entrance exams the way they did a decade ago.

The number of students achieving high scores on the nationwide Scholastic Aptitude Test has fallen markedly over the past decade — by half, in one major category.

"It does worry me," Robert Sawyer, who runs a program for gifted youngsters at Duke University, said Tuesday.

"Some would say it's just a test score, but it's a pretty good predictor of how people do in higher levels of their education, and I think it's symptomatic of things that are going on in education today," added Sawyer, a professor of education and psychology.

In 1972, 53,794 students achieved scores of 650 or better on the SAT verbal section. A full 17,560 scored 700 out of the possible 800. But by 1982, 29,236 were above 650 and only 8,240 hit 700. The number of students taking the test declined by only 3 percent.

The drop in top math achievement wasn't quite as steep — from 93,868 to 71,916 at the 650 level and from

Over the same period, the median score fell from 453 to 426 on the verbal section and from 484 to 467 in math.

"I just see no reason why students today don't have the same potential as students 10 years ago. Nothing has happened to give us a less capable group of people," said Stanford University admissions dean Fred Hargadon, former chairman of the College Board, which sponsors the SATs.

"My sense is that they make up for a lack of preparation as they work their way through college," Hargadon said. But he added it seemed a waste of money to perform the catch-up work in college.

SAT scores are used by most colleges to help select the pick of the yearly high school crop for admission. Many administrators have voiced concern at the declining median, or mid-range, scores, but Hargadon said he's "not sure anybody's paid as much attention to the drop in top scores."

Neither Hargadon nor Sawyer could say for sure what has caused the steep slide in the number of top scorers. But both said the quality of high schools may be declining — due to tight budgets, difficulty in attracting good teachers and a stress on equality that discourages challenges for top students.

Hargadon noted that teachers have lost some of the esprit and respect they once had. Bright female college students once funneled into teaching are now sought by other, better-paying professions.

But Julian S. Stanley of Johns Hopkins University, a pioneer in special programs for gifted youth, said other factors are involved.

"I wouldn't blame the poor old teachers," he said. "I think the culture has made it very hard to be a teacher now."

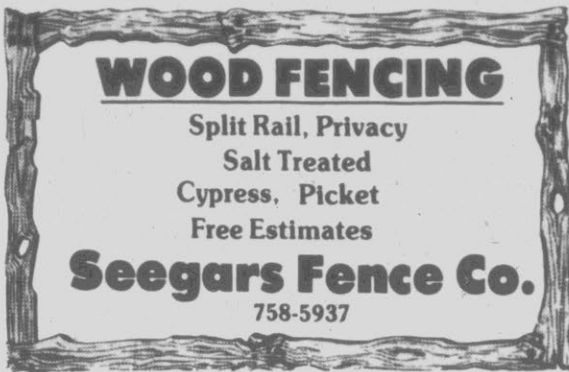

Television and video games compete with homework, drugs are not uncommon and student work habits may be less rigorous than in the past, he said.

Ask Added Time On MX Basing

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Commission on Strategic Forces, named by President Reagan to find a politically acceptable MX missile basing system, is having difficulty making a recommendation and will seek an extension of its Feb. 18 deadline, a published report said today.

The Washington Post quotes administration sources as saying the panel is struggling to devise a proposal that would win backing in the White House and broad support in Congress.

"We're not going to report until we're done," a high-ranking official was quoted as saying in today's editions of the Post.

School Lists Honor Students

The following students at Greenville Christian Academy received honors for work done during the third marking period:

HONOR ROLL: Christy Briley, Sharon Dixon, Stuart Dixon, Heather Gray, Deborah Harrell, Neil Harrington, Kerry House, Tammy Huggins, Byron Johnson, Ivela Jones, Kim May, Alisha McLawhorn, Kristi Overton, Clint Parker, Denise Robinson, Troy Stox and Kathy Vernelson.

DEAN'S LIST: Terry Baker, Stephanie Bell, Tonya Bess, Tim Bland, Chuck Branch, Lisa Brock, Sheryl Brown, Chris Buck, Jennifer Collie, Tate Corney, Jessica Everett, Kim Faulkner, Brian Fleming, Kim Grant, Jennifer Gupton, Tracey Hardee, Steve Harrell, Elizabeth Harrison, Chad Hedgepeth, Billy Hodan, Franklin Huggins, Sandy Johnston, Kevin Joyner, Candy Little, Garrett Little, Lisa Mayo, Anita Mills, Brenda Mills, Tonya Mills, Robin McGowan, Bobby McLawhorn, Amy Newsome, Tanya Oliphant, Kathy Parker, Valerie Person, Amanda Sadler, Geri Smith, James Stokes, Niki Taylor, Danny Vernelson, Laurie Vernelson, Ginger Wainwright, Suzette Wells, Jo Williams, Genena Buck and Lisa Mayo.

Commission sources said the 11-member panel is leaning toward a two-phase solution to the basing problem, the newspaper reported.

In the first phase, up to 50 of the new MX intercontinental nuclear missiles would be put into existing Minuteman missile silos in Wyoming. The second phase, intended to meet U.S. missile needs in the 1990s, includes a variety of long-term proposals, including underground basing and moving missiles on trucks, trains, or helicopters.

PULLOUT? — Rep. Morris K. Udall of Arizona, who lost the quest for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1976, has decided not to try again in 1984, knowledgeable sources said Tuesday night. (AP Laserphoto)

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was mixed today in an atmosphere of caution on Wall Street.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials rose 1.20 to 1,076.53 in the first half hour. Gainers and losers ran about even in the early tally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Analysts said more and more investors have become convinced that a recovery from the recession, possibly stronger than most economists had fore-cast earlier, has begun.

But they also said the market had already taken a substantial improvement in business conditions into account with its sharp rise since last summer.

Lately, concerns have arisen on Wall Street over whether an economic upturn might put new upward pressure on inflation and interest rates.

Detroit Edison led the active list, unchanged at 14. A 180,000-share block traded at that price.

On Tuesday the Dow Jones industrials fell 11.77 points to 1,075.33.

Nearly nine stocks fell in price for every seven that rose on the NYSE.

Big Board volume fell to 76.58 million shares from 86.03 million Monday.

The NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stocks fell .61 to 84.16. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was off .30 at 369.32.

PTL Talks Condo Sale

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — The PTL Club is considering selling the $375,000 oceanfront condominium it bought in Florida last October for president Jim Bakker and his family, PTL spokesman Brad Lacey said Tuesday.

"Because of the invasion of privacy in exposing the Florida retreat for the Bakkers, due to security reasons only, the sale of the condominium has been discussed," Lacey said. "These discussions center around the security of the Bakker family only."

Details of the condominium purchase were first published in Sunday's Charlotte Observer, which reported that after PTL bought the condominium Oct. 29 it spent another $81,000 to furnish it, including $22,000 for floor-to-ceiling mirrors. The purchase came at a time when the organization

Pirates Have Only 4 Home Games In '83

A four game home schedule and a road slate that includes three trips to Florida highlight the 1983 East Carolina University football schedule, announced this morning.

Dr. Ken Karr, ECU Director of Athletics announced new ties with Temple University and the University of Miami (Florida) in presenting the new schedule. Both of those teams appear

The schedule:

Sept. 3	 at Florida State
Sept. 10	 at N.C. State
Sept. 17	 MURRAY STATE
Sept. 24	 at Miami (Fla.)
Oct. 1	 at Missouri
Oct. 8	 SOUTHWESTERN LOUISIANA
Oct. 15	 at Temple
Oct. 22	 at Florida
Oct. 29	 EAST TENNESSEE STATE
Nov. 5	 Open Date
Nov. 12	 William & Mary
Nov. 19	 at Southern Mississippi

on the road schedule and will both come to Ficklen Stadium in 1984.

Home games for the Pirates include dates with Murray State, Southwestern Louisiana, East Tennessee State and William & Mary.

The rugged road slate has the Pirates facing not only Miami and Temple, but Florida and Florida State, Missouri, Southern Mississippi and traditional rival N.C. State.

Southern Mississippi will be paying a return visit to Ficklen in 1984, giving the Pirates at least three top opponents on their home turf during that campaign.

Reserves Key Rocky Mt. Past Rampants By 68-53

ROCKY MOUNT — A math problem: when is the sum of five minus three greater than the sum of five minus one?

The answer, when Rocky Mount rolls up a 68-53 Big East Conference basketball victory over Rose High School.

The Gryphons, who had lost three of their last four games, lost three of their starters, including their point guard and two others averaging in double figures, leaving them with only two starters. Two were declared academically ineligible and a third was dismissed from the team for disciplinary reasons. One of those was point guard Tony Joyner, and the other two were forwards Brian Hunter, averaging 13 points and eight rebounds, and guard Darrell

Rose, meanwhile, lost center Jeff Hopkins to a dislocated knee last Friday, and had only four regulars on the floor.

Nevertheless, the two Rocky Mount regulars (plus three reserves now starting) were more than enough to handle the four Rose regulars (plus one).

Earlier in the evening, Rocky Mount's girls, unbeaten in league play, romped to a 54-32 win over Rose on a 35-point effort by Kim Taylor.

Rose's boys gained an early lead, holding it through the first period and into the second, where the Rampants built up as much as a seven point lead.

But after that, Rocky Mount stormed back, moving ahead by three at the half. Then, in the third quarter, Rose lost control of itself, put up too many ill-thought shots and fell back by 15 before the period ended.

That third period was the death knell. Too many times, players tried to put up jump shots in the lane against a tightly packed zone defense that collapsed three defenders around the shooter. Many times, those shots were blocked or partially blocked, as Rose hit just one of 13 shots from the floor during the period.

In contrast, Rocky Mount made good on eight of 12 to run up the 15-point margin.

"We didn't play smart," Coach Jim Brewington said. "I really thought that we could play better than this. I don't think it was a question of overconfidence. We have the kind of ball club where every-

Hanging In The Air

Farmville Central's Terrance Pettway (44) hangs in the air while trying to get off a shot against North Pitt in a key Eastern Carolina Conference game last night. FARMVILLE — Whoaaaaaaa! Hold everything. The Eastern Carolina Conference title stakes is not over. It has just begun.

Farmville Central made sure of that Tuesday evening as the Jaguars used a 3-2 zone to stifle North Pitt and controlled the boards for a 42-37 win which left the ECC in a virtual dead heat.

Earlier, in the girls' game, North Pitt defeated Farmville, 52-47.

"This game was do-or-die for us," Farmville Central coach Mike Terrell said afterwards. "We've still have an opportunity to win it."

The win left the Jaguars at 7-2 in the league, a half-game behind North Pitt, which fell to 8-2. Farmville can do no worse than tie for the title by winning its final three ECC games.

North Pitt, which could have clinched a tie for the ECC crown with a victory, now must win its remaining games and hope Farmville loses at least one. If the two teams tie, Farmville would get the No. 1 in the ECC tournament by virtue of having beaten North Pitt twice.

The win also kept Ayden-Grifton's title hopes alive. The Chargers are now 7-3 in the league after beating Greene Central, 54-52, in overtime last night. A-G entertains the Jaguars Friday and is at North Pitt next Friday in its last two ECC games.

Farmville led, 11-10, after the first period and ran off an 8-0 spurt to open the second period for a 19-10 lead and led at intermission, 20-14. North Pitt, which never led, trailed, 32-24, after three periods before putting together a 9-3 spurt that cut the lead to 35-33 with 4:56 remaining on a three-point play by Charles Harris.

The Jaguars extended the lead to 37-33 after Terrence

Pettway stole a rebound from Ken Whitehurst after a missed foul shot and laid the ball in with 2:42 to go.

Harris' 18-foot jumper cut the lead to 37-35 with 1:43 to go, but Pettway hit a wide open Tony Hargrove underneath for a bucket and Hargrove nailed two foul shots moments later to give Farmville a 41-35 lead — and the win.

"I think they're better than us," North Pitt coach Cobby Deans said. "Well I don't think they are, but the kids do — and that's what matters. We just got outlasted and beat on the boards again."

"And," Deans added, "we missed free throws."

The Panthers, who were last in the league in free throw shooting at one point but are now fifth, hit five of 15 from the line. Center Dennis Bradley had the worst night, missing all six of his free throws.

Farmville had nothing to do with the Panthers' foul shooting problems but did have something to do with their rebounding woes. The Jaguars won the battle of the boards, 33-21, led by two guards.

Guard Gary Hobgood grabbed nine rebounds and backcourt mate Reggie Gorham and forward Terrence Pettway each had seven rebounds. Bradley had nine rebounds to lead North Pitt.

Bradley also led the Panthers in scoring with 12 points. The Jaguars were led by Andrew Edwards with 12 and Pettway and Hargrove with 10 each.

Farmville hit 43.9% (18 of 41) from the floor compared to 35.6% (16 of 45) by North Pitt.

"It looks like North Pitt brings the best out of us," Terrell said. "Every one of our kids did a real good job. All six players (who played) contributed, in some way, to the win."

"I thought our execution both on offense and defense was excellent. I thought we carried out our game plan as well as we could have."

The gameplan included (a) controlling the backboards and (b) controlling three North Pitt players: Bradley, Harris and Greg Hines.

Farmville did both. Hines scored just seven points and was ineffective outside and Harris and Bradley five points between them in the first half as Farmville built a six-point halftime lead.

But, Terrell said the game may have been won elsewhere. "I really think," he

Waters Inks With ECU; Wallace To Tar Heels

Two outstanding area football players signed NCAA letters-of-intent with North Carolina and East Carolina this morning, according to reports received here.

Bubba Waters, an outstanding running back from Bath High School, inked a grant with East Carolina University. Waters, 6-1, 205, rated as one of the state's top runners, piled up 2,360 yards and 24 touchdowns this past year in leading Bath to the runner-up spot in the state's 1-A playoffs. He was an honorable mention player on the North Carolina AP All-State team.

Waters on the Blue Chips Magazine 'Gold' list — the publication's top list. He was also among the top 25 selected by the Roanoke News and was All-East three straight years.

Waters gained 1,800 yards in his junior year and had 26 TDs while as a sophomore he had 1,340 yards and 17 touchdowns.

Win, North Pitt Loss, Keeps Chargers In Title Race

SNOW HILL — It took an overtime to do it, but Ayden-Grifton kept itself in the race for the Eastern Carolina Conference title with a 54-52 victory over Greene Central last night.

The win coupled with Farmville Central's 42-37 win over North Pitt, left Ayden-Grifton with a 7-3 league record, while North Pitt is 8-2 and Farmville is 7-2.

Greene Central's girls took a 55-39 win in their meeting with the Lady Chargers.

Ayden-Grifton, which can control its own destiny in its two remaining league games — at home against Farmville and on the road at North Pitt — had a struggle on its hands, and had to hit the final shot of regulation to stave off what would have been its fifth loss in the last six games.

Greene Central struck for the early lead, building up a 13-10 margin in the first quarter. The Rams remained in charge during the second quarter, outscoring the Chargers, 13-11, for a 26-21 margin at the half.

The Rams kept it up during the third period, building the lead out to 36-28 as the final quarter got underway.

Finally, however, the Chargers came to life, and when Greene Central lost three starters to fouls, trailed by two points late in the game — and the Rams had the ball. But a turnover gave the ball to Ayden-Grifton and Thomas Anderson hit with 14 seconds left to tie it at 46-46. The Rams then missed at the horn with the chance to win.

In the overtime, Ayden-Grifton scored the first four points and the Rams never got closer than two after that.

Anderson led Ayden-Grifton with 19 points while Jeff Dixon added 13. James Thompson had 14 points, while Theodore Edwards and Tracy McLawhorn each had 12 for the Rams.

Ayden-Grifton is now 12-7 overall. Greene Central is 3-6 in the league and 5-14 overall.

In the girls' game, Ayden-Grifton took a 10-7 lead in the first period, but couldn't hold it. Greene Central came

Gatlin's 38 Keys Vikings

JACKSONVILLE — D.H. Conley's Vikings brought the Keith Gatlin show to Jacksonville's White Oak High School last night — and Gatlin did indeed put on a show.

By the time it was all over, Conley's Coastal Conference leading Vikings had romped to a 73-44 victory behind the play of the 6-5 guard.

For the night, Gatlin's stats read like this: five rebounds, three steals, one blocked shot, no assists, four of five from the foul line (80%) and 17 of 23 from the floor (74%) — a total of 38 points.

That was only six less than White Oak scored as a team. Earlier in the evening, Conley's girls ripped White Oak, 70-16.

The Vikings pulled away quickly from the cellar-dweller in the league, running up a 20-7 lead in the first period. They kept it up in the second frame, outscoring their hosts, 17-10. That made it 37-17 at the half.

Conley continued to pull away in the third frame, with an 18-10 margin for a 55-27 lead going into the final period. In that, Conley held an 18-17 margin.

No one else scored in double figures in the game. Conley's girls' had little trouble with the White Oak lassies, rolling out to a 23-6 lead after one period. They increased that to 39-8 with a 16-2 advantage in the second quarter.

Conley again outscored White Oak, 23-6, in the third period, upping the lead to 62-8. They finished things off with an 8-2 advantage.

Karen Barrett led Conley with 18 points, while Irish Barnhill added 16 and both Darlene Cannon and Mechio Kornegay had 13. No one scored in double figures for White Oak.

Conley's boys are now 7-0 in the Coastal with a 16-3 overall record. The girls climb to 6-1 and 18-2. White Oak's boys tumble to 0-7 in conference play and 4-15 overall. The girls are 0-7, 2-17.

Conley returns to action on Thursday, hosting North Lenoir in a game that will start one-hour earlier than usual. The junior varsity game will begin at 4 p.m.

Holland Trying To Downplay UNC-UVa Clash

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (AP) — Virginia coach Terry Holland is trying to downplay the significance of his club's Thursday night contest against top-ranked North Carolina.

Virginia lost to the Tar Heels 101-95 in their first match of the season Jan. 15 in Charlottesville. It was their last defeat. Meanwhile, North Carolina, 20-3, has won 17 straight.

"We've been involved in so many showdowns in the last few years, I think people down here probably can't get excited about another game of the century," said Holland, whose No. 3-ranked team is 19-2. "But it is a big game and it is a game that everyone can get excited about."

"We'll have to play a great basketball game" to beat the Tar Heels, Holland said. "They definitely have two of the premier players in the nation in (Sam) Perkins and Michael Jordan."

Perkins scored 36 points, including four 3-point goals, in the earlier game. But Virginia's All-America center, 7-foot-4 Ralph Sampson, has been on a streak recently, scoring 76 points in Virginia's last three matches.

"North Carolina will be concerned about Sampson, but not too concerned," Holland said, adding that expects a combination of zone and one-on-one defenses against his star center.

"I think North Carolina is awfully strong and awfully deep and we'll have to play extremely well," Holland said. Meantime, North Carolina Coach Dean Smith is preparing for a fight.

"Virginia is playing better than anyone in the country right now," said Smith, whose team's 78-43 win Saturday over Furman gave him a 13th straight 20-victory season. "It will be a battle, and we have a chance to win. Virginia is really at the top of its game now."

The Cavaliers embarrassed ACC rival Duke on Saturday, 105-84. Sampson was limited to 10 points in the Duke game but grabbed 14 rebounds in just 23 minutes of playing time.

"I think we're playing well," Holland said. "But I think we can play better. It will be a great test for us to play down there."

Roanoke Whips Tarboro; Girls Nearing Title

ROBERSONVILLE — Roanoke High School's girls took a big step toward clinching the Northeastern Conference championship with a 50-44 victory over Tarboro last night. Roanoke's boys also stayed atop the boys' standings with a 65-50 win over the Vikings.

The Roanoke girls are now 13-1 in league play and 14-3 overall. Tarboro drops to 11-2 and 14-3.

Tarboro pushed out into a 10-5 lead in the first period of the game, but Roanoke took charge in the second quarter, outscoring the Valkyries, 17-8. That pushed the Lady 'Skins into a 22-18 halftime advantage.

Tarboro rallied in the third period, 12-8, knotting the score at 30-30 as the final quarter opened. But in that, Roanoke outhit the Valkyries, 20-14, to claim the victory.

Sheila Howell scored 23 points to lead Roanoke, while Mona Jackson had 14, Pam Long had 12 and Valerie Battle had 11 for Tarboro.

In the boys' game, Roanoke moved out early, grabbing a 15-10 lead after one quarter. The Redskins held it with a 12-7 margin in the second period, taking a 27-17 lead into intermission.

The third period saw Tarboro rally, 18-14, cutting the lead back to 41-35. But Roanoke held the Vikes off, 24-15, in the final period to wrap up the win.

Greg Everett led Roanoke with 15 points, while James Duggins had 14 and Ricky Highsmith had 11. Curtis Bryant had 17 and Alfonso Williams had 12 for Tarboro.

Perkins: Dons Offered Money

CHARLOTTE (AP) — North Carolina basketball star Sam Perkins says University of San Francisco recruiters offered him "things such as stereos, cars, money, whatever."

Breaking a year of silence on the allegations, Perkins said in an interview with television station WBTV in Charlotte that "there were some" offers of cash, but it went beyond that.

"They just went around the area saying, 'You'll be getting things such as stereos, cars, money, whatever,'" he said.

The allegations became public in March 1982, after it was announced that possible recruiting violations were being investigated.

Perkins was linked to the probe after investigators said NCAA officers noticed that Perkins and a coach from San Francisco were missing after the Dapper Dan Classic. The investigators staked out a hotel where Perkins was staying, and saw him return at 2 a.m. with a coach from the university.

Jags Down Panthers...

said, "the key was that we were so well-prepared for their 1-3-1 zone. That is what makes them click."

The Jaguars actually forced the Panthers out of their 1-3-1 into a man-to-man late in the first half and North Pitt never returned to the zone the remainder of the game.

The game started slowly. A jumper and a free throw by Pettway gave Farmville a 9-6 lead and the Jaguars led, 11-10, after the first eight minutes, which ended with Bradley missing two free throws.

The Panthers turned the ball over three of their first five possessions to begin the second period. Farmville, meantime, used follow shots by Edwards and Gorham to key a 8-0 run that gave the Jaguars a 19-10 lead.

Farmville stretched its six-point halftime gap to 10 twice in the third period as Edwards muscled inside for three buckets and Hargrove added two. The Jaguars led by eight going into the final period, only to see North Pitt slice the lead to two before holding on to win.

In the girls' game, North Pitt outscored Farmville, 21 to 10, in the second period to rally from a five-point deficit and then held off a late charge to defeat the Jaguars.

"We had some tight spots tonight," Pant-HERS coach Randy Avery said. "We tried hard at the end to help them out."

North Pitt led by nine going into the final period and upped its lead to 14 before being outscored, 17 to 4, over a five-minute span as the Lady Jaguars sliced the lead to 48-47 with 1:09 left.

But, Delores Pittman maneuvered inside for a bucket with 48 seconds left to make it 50-47 to seal the win, the Pant-HERS' eighth in 21 games.

Farmville, now 4-16 overall and 3-6 in the conference, led, 10-5, after the first quarter, but the Pant-HERS scored the first eight points of the second period to take a 13-10 lead.

Pittman scored six of her 14 points in the run. Farmville regained the lead later in the quarter before a three-point play and a jumper by Linda Harrell gave North Pitt a 26-20 halftime lead.

Pittman hit a jumper and two foul shots to help the Pant-HERS go up, 39-30, after three periods. Two layups — both after turnovers against the Pant-HER press — by Sherri Bradley upped the lead to 44-30 with 6:31 left.

Farmville outscored North Pitt, 17 to 4, the next five minutes to slice the lead to 48-47. Cynthia Hart scored seven of her nine points to key their run, but the Pant-HERS held on to win to up their ECC mark to 3-7.

"One of our girls said, 'Gosh, I don't know what it feels like to win it's been so long since we won.' It feels great," Avery said.

Farmville was led by Stephanie Newton with 17 points. Harrell had 10 points for North Pitt.

Winless Bullets Fall, 72-44

JAMESVILLE — Jamesville High School continued to look for its first victory of the season last night without success as 3-A Plymouth whipped the 1-A Bullets, 72-44. Plymouth also won the girls' game, 65-36.

The Bullets, now 0-17 on the year, had little luck in trying to snap their string. Plymouth jumped out into a 14-9 lead in the first period and held off a rally by the Bullets in the second period. The Vikings outthit Jamesville, 15-14, and led, 29-23, at the half.

In the third period, Plymouth again pulled away, building its lead out to 45-31. The Vikings then outscored the Bullets, 27-13, in the final period to win going away.

Tony Brown, Myron Bell and Ray Jordan each had 12 points for Plymouth with Lonnie Ford adding 11. Tracy Peele led Jamesville with 18 points, while Rex Bell and Kenneth Moore each had 12.

But the bottom fell out in the third quarter on the Lady Bullets. Plymouth poured in 29 points, while holding the Bullets to zero. That made it 56-23 going into the final period. In that, Jamesville was allowed a 13-9 rally.

Fondella Biggs led Plymouth with 12, while Angie Downing added 10. Jamesville was led by Kim Floyd with 15, while Crystal Perry added 10.

one of the premier players in the country, signed this morning with the University of North Carolina. Wallace was twice selected to the AP All-State team and played in the Shrine Bowl this past December in Charlotte.

Roanoke coach Nolan Respass said Wallace narrowed his list of schools to four: Notre Dame, N.C. State, Wake Forest and UNC out of over 200 schools. Wallace then eliminated Notre Dame last week.

From there, Respass said: "It was down to the last three until the last moment. He made the decision last night after the (Roanoke-Tarboro) basketball game."

Respass said Wallace told a press conference this morning that "Since he was a kid he's followed Carolina. He tried his best to block that out of his mind, but he said that in the end he felt more comfortable in Chapel Hill."

Added Respass: "The kid used a lot of savvy and character in eliminating the schools (from his list). I'm proud of him."

Others signed by East Carolina this morning include: Terry Paige, 6-0, 185-pound tailback from Whiteville; Bruce Simpson, 6-2, 205 linebacker from Jacksonville; Ellis Dillahunt, 6-0, 177-pound defensive back from Jacksonville; Ron Gillard, 6-2, 222-pound outside linebacker from Garner; Darrell Speed, 6-0, 195-pound quarterback from Lee County; John Williamson, 6-2, 218-pound outside linebacker from Scotland County; and Petey Davis, 6-3, 260-pound offensive lineman from Scotland County; Brian Goodwin, 6-0, 180-pound defensive back from Paige gained over 4,500 yards in three years, his senior year over 1,800 as he led his team to two second-place finishes in the state. Paige also had 26 TDs in 1982.

Simpson, Dillahunt, Speed and Williamson also all made the Roanoke News top 25, which includes players from the North Carolina-Virginia area.

Simpson was All-State and All-East. Dillahunt was also All-East and played in the Shrine Bowl.

Slow Opening Quarter Sinks Knights By 53-31

WILSON — Todd Boykin and Tony Joyner poured in 16 points each to lead Wilson Christian to an easy 53-31 victory over Greenville Christian Academy Tuesday night in a high basketball game.

Earlier, in the girls' game, the Lady Knights whipped Wilson, 39-29.

GCA sputtered early, falling behind, 16-4, after the first period and never recovered as the Knights fell to 6-10 this season.

"The slow first quarter really hurt us," Greenville Christian coach Dale Thatcher said. "That first quarter gave them a lead they never really lost. And free throws hurt us, again."

GCA, which did not have anyone in double figures, hit just three of 11 from the foul line and "it was worst than that," Thatcher said. "A lot of those misses were on one-and-ones."

The Knights played Wilson nearly even the second period but trailed at the half, 28-15. Wilson built its lead to 42-23 before coasting home in the final period to win by 22.

In the girls' game, GCA jumped out to an 11-3 lead after the first period and never looked back in upping its record to 6-7.

The Lady Knights, who were led by Stephanie Brown's 16 points, led at the half, 17-8. GCA upped its lead to 30-18 after three periods before winning by 10.

Jo Williams had 10 points for GCA. Melinda Deans led Wilson with 13 points.

GCA returns to action Friday when it plays host to Terraccia Christian out of Pantego. GCA was originally scheduled to play Springfield Christian, but that game was cancelled.

GCA's girls will play Bethel at home Friday night. In another schedule change, GCA's girls' game with Faith Tuesday night has been cancelled. The jvs and boys will both play Faith Tuesday.

R. Rapids Whips Tigers

WILLIAMSTON — Roanoke Rapids High School took advantage of a cold first quarter for the Williamston Tigers and rolled up a 61-43 victory last night in a North-eastern Conference basketball game. Williamston's girls won their outing, 30-23.

The game was played at the Williamston junior high school gym after some of the bleachers in the high school gym collapsed without personal injury on Saturday at the North-eastern Conference wrestling tournament.

Williamston could manage only three points in the first period of the boys' game while the Yellow Jackets put through 12 points. The Tigers rallied in the second period, 18-13, but still trailed at the half, 25-21.

In the third period, Roanoke Rapids again shot away from the Tigers, 18-6, building its lead to 43-27. The Jackets outthit the Tigers, 18-16, in the final quarter.

Keith Sledge led Roanoke Rapids with 21 points, while Rodney Ramsey had 11 and Ed Pant had 10. No one scored in double figures for Williamston.

The Tigers drop to 2-11 in the conference and 4-13 overall. Roanoke Rapids is now 8-6 and 8-8.

The Williamston girls pushed out into a 9-2 lead in the first period, but managed only four points in the second period. That, however, was two more than the Lady Jackets got, making it 13-4 at the half.

Both teams scored six points in the third period, running it to 19-10, and a Roanoke Rapids rally, 13-11, in the final frame, fell short.

Lynn Mills led Williamston with 12 points, while no one scored in double figures for RRHS. Sonya Purvis led Williamston on the boards with 10 rebounds, while Timberly Rodgers added eight.

The Williamston girls climb to 5-8 and 5-12, while Roanoke Rapids is 0-14, and 0-16.

In Pirates' Home Schedule

Karr: Improvements Coming

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

Dr. Ken Karr said he expected improvement in the home schedule for East Carolina University's football program — but noted that some of that improvement would come only as ECU and other schools drop Division I-AA schools.

Karr, speaking at the Greenville Sports Club, noted that the ECU 1983 schedule would be released later this week. (It was actually released this morning — see elsewhere in today's sport section.)

Karr said that there is "light in the tunnel" for scheduling, pointing out that Southwestern Louisiana (a Division I-A school) would be here in 1983, while both Temple and Southern Mississippi appear on the home schedule for 1984. The 1985 schedule will include home games with Temple, Southwestern Louisiana and Miami of Florida, while the 1987 slate features both West Virginia and Florida State, with West Virginia here again in 1988.

"Traditionally, East Carolina has had five home and six away games. While we will have four home games in 1983, it appears likely that we will again have five in 1984 and on down the line," Karr said.

Karr said that at the most recent NCAA meeting, Division I-AA just did defeat a proposal to limit that group to 65 scholarships. "Should this pass in a year or two, that would make a wide gap between Division I-A with 90 and Division I-AA. This would virtually eliminate the question of who would win in games between the two. So I would expect to see very few games between teams of the two divisions."

For this reason, Karr said, ECU is moving forward to schedule an all Division I-A schedule as quickly as possible. If this comes about, there is little question that the quality of home games will improve, he said.

As far as rumors of upcoming tie-ins, he said that Navy appears booked solid through 1990, but that the Pirates are working to get a series with South Carolina — with the possibility of a home game. Talks with other schools in the area are currently being met with no success. "But we will continue to approach these schools and hope that the 'no's' we're getting now will turn to 'maybe's' in the near future."

Karr said that he saw little hope in scheduling Wake Forest or Duke in football until the time that ECU established its credibility "in Pitt County, in North Carolina, and across the nation, and people start asking these schools, 'Why aren't you playing them?'"

As for other sports, Karr said he hopes that East Carolina can continue its ECAC-South membership in both basketball and baseball and become more competitive in the former. He also said that he hopes that the women's programs will continue to grow stronger, although there may be some problems with softball since the NCAA has a fast-pitch championship but no plans for a slow-pitch title — and ECU and most southern schools play slow pitch.

Karr also said he hopes that the financial problems of the school will be met and that much of that will be up to the people who support the athletic program through season ticket purchases and Pirate Club memberships.

Rose Beaten...

thing has to go right for us to win.

Brewington said he didn't know how much not having Hopkins hurt, but he said he felt that the center was a valuable part of the club. "He was just beginning to come into his own," he said.

"But we didn't shoot well. And I don't know what some of them are trying to do out there," he moaned.

Whatever it was it didn't help things. Rose finished the game with only a 37.0 percentage from the floor, while Rocky Mount made good on 63.0 percent of its shots. Rose held a slim 35-32 rebounding edge, and had four fewer turnovers.

Donnell Lee put the first four points on the board for Rose as the Rampants to a 4-0 lead. That was stretched to six at 12-6 on baskets by Alan Dickens and Tony Clemens just beyond the halfway point of the first period. The frame ended with Rose up, 15-10.

Lee hit a baseline jumper to open the second quarter, giving Rose a 17-10 lead, but Rocky Mount took charge at that point. Sparked by two baskets by Ernie Griffin, the Gryphons scored six straight to cut the lead to one, 17-16. Then, a three-point play by Chuck Robbins tied it up for the first time at 21-21 with 5:15 left in the half.

Rose regained the lead on a steal by Lee and a free throw by Hunter Bost, but Rocky Mount pushed ahead for the first time on a basket by Kelvin Brinkley at 27-26.

Rose pushed back ahead, 28-27, on a goaltending call on a shot by Lee, but Brinkley hit two free throws with 2:01 left, and Byron Bellamy tapped in a shot with 51 seconds left to give Rocky Mount at 31-28 lead that held the rest of the way.

Rocky Mount scored the first two baskets of the third period and after Rose scored its only field goal of the period, ran off ten more in a row, including two by Brinkley off the fast break. Rose was never able to stop the transition basket against the Gryphon break.

The quarter ended with Rocky Mount leading, 48-34.

Rose never got closer than 15 the rest of the way, and trailed by as much as 19, 64-45.

Brinkley led Rocky Mount with 18, while Jerome Garrett had 14. Griffin had 12 and Bellamy, 10. The Rampants were paced by Lee with 18.

Rose's girls took an early 4-2 lead on two baskets by Frances Barnhill, but never led again. The 6-2 Taylor dumped in three straight baskets as Rocky Mount scored the final eight points of the quarter for a 10-4 lead.

From there it was a gradual pullaway as the Lady Gryphons continually lobbed the ball over the defense to the taller Taylor, who scored eight more in the second frame for a 26-10 halftime lead.

In the third period, they kept it up, moving out to a 40-16 lead, as Taylor scored 11 more. She finally left the game after adding ten more with Rocky Mount leading, 50-24. Rose then outscored Rocky Mount, 8-4 the rest of the way.

"We had a good game plan for about four minutes," Rose Coach Dennis Gibson said. "We wanted to get them out of their zone, and it worked until they ran off several in a row and got the lead back."

"And we just couldn't contain Taylor. We tried a box on her and that didn't work, either."

While Taylor had 35, Sharon Pratt added 12. Rose was led by Alma Atkinson with 13.

Rose's boys are now 3-6 in Big East play, and are 4-11 overall. Rocky Mount climbs to 6-3 and 11-4. The Lady Gryphons are 9-0 in the league and 10-5 overall. Rose's girls fall to 5-4 and 7-9.

Medical Advice Dispensed By Long Distance Phone

By KATHY MCCARTHY
Associated Press Writer
SEATTLE (AP) — The phone number Dr. Greg Hemingway found glued to the office telephone when he arrived in tiny Jordan, Mont., has linked him to expert medical advice on everything from heart attacks to delivering babies.

call connects Hemingway, and thousands of other physicians throughout a five-state area, with 190 full-time faculty members of the University of Washington School of Medicine.

"Knowing that it's there and I can reach an expert at any time of the day or night is a wonderful feeling," says Hemingway, since 1978 the only physician serving Jordan's 700 residents.

In eight years, MEDCON has logged more than 104,000 calls from physicians in Alaska, Washington, Idaho, Montana and Oregon. Now a 24-hour service, MEDCON fields about 2,000 calls a month.

Hemingway once phoned at 3 a.m. to ask emergency advice on setting a 3-year-old boy's fractured thighbone.

"I got the chairman of the Department of Orthopedics," he said. "I woke him up, but he very graciously talked with me and walked me through the procedure."

For 10½ hours each day, the calls are referred by a three-woman MEDCON staff headed by program supervisor Dorothy Wright-Budke. At night and on weekends, calls are handled by University Hospital operators.

was no one (in his town) who could manage that," Kirby recalled. "I told him about Airlift Northwest. ... The next thing I heard, at 6 a.m., was that my son, who happened to be the chief orthopedic resident at Harborview Medical Center then, was operating on this patient."

Airlift Northwest is a program which provides an airplane on 24-hour call to fly patients from anywhere in the Pacific Northwest and Alaska to one of four Seattle-area hospitals — University, Harborview, Children's Orthopedic and Providence.

MEDCON also can link doctors to specialists in the care of newborn infants through University Hospital's Newborn Care Program.

Their patients may be faceless case histories but the MEDCON staff finds it "very hard not to get emotionally involved because most of our calls are very, very sad, especially the pediatric calls," says Ms. Wright-Budke.

By chance she did meet one MEDCON patient, a young Skagway, Alaska, mother who gave birth to twins last September in Alaska with her physician in telephone contact with MEDCON.

One of the premature babies died and the second, weighing little more than a pound, was flown to University Hospital, where it remains on a respirator.

Only rarely do consulting doctors learn how their advice turned out.

"Occasionally, a doctor will call back and say, 'You know that case I told you about two weeks ago? You were just right ... the patient's doing great,'" says Kirby. "It doesn't happen very often ... but it's very rewarding."

MEDCON — Dorothy Wright-Budke, program supervisor of the MEDCON staff, checks out a physician's phone number. MEDCON is a single, toll-free link between physicians in Alaska, Washington, Idaho, Montana and Oregon. The service has been in operation eight years. (AP Laserphoto)

Open House Events Set By 'Friends Of Music'

Three open houses' events have been announced by the East Carolina University School of Music for the 1982-83 spring semester. The series of monthly open houses, initiated last September, is designed for Friends of the ECU School of Music, a liaison group between the school and the community. Membership in the Friends is now over 400.

The open houses will all be held on the East Carolina University campus. Hours for each open house will be from 10:30 a.m. until noon. The featured program and a "coffee hour" will be incorporated into each event.

The first two events are open to those who hold individual or family memberships in the Friends of Music. The third, the April open house, will be open without charge to the general public.

Open houses scheduled to date for the 1982-83 spring semester are:

- Friday — "Putting an Opera Scene Together", with Clyde Hiss, director of Opera Theater, discussing the mechanics of getting a piece of music out of the operatic score and onto the stage. This event will be held in the Recital Hall of the A.J. Fletcher Music Center.
- On March 18, the open house theme is "Music Library: Community Service" to be held in the ECU Music Library. A tour of the facility by music librarian Geraldine Laudati will be featured, encompassing a look at present and projected services for community members.

- The open house event open to the general public is scheduled for April 8, in a School of Music site to be announced later. The April open house will be a special one devoted to "Wedding Music" to be conducted by E. Robert Irwin, professor of organ and church music. Irwin will discuss suitable music wedding music literature for organ, voice, chorus and other instruments. The open house will be highlighted by live performances by students and faculty.

Anyone interested in additional information on membership in the Friends of Music can contact the school of music, 757-6851. Membership fee, individual or family, is $15 annually.

Doctors with questions are linked to faculty members, never doctors in training.

"It's really a one-on-one medical education endeavor," he said of the free consultation service. "It allows a physician with a particular problem to talk to a specialist in that area ..."

"Often it's a matter of reassurance," says Dr. William Kirby, an infectious disease specialist who often answers MEDCON calls.

"He (the phoning physician) says, 'Here's what I'm doing and I just want you to reassure me I'm doing the right thing.'"

Kirby recalled a late-night call from an doctor in eastern Washington who described a patient Kirby concluded was suffering from gas gangrene in the abdomen.

"I said, 'You better get a surgeon,' and he said there

Terminations For UPI's Employees

NEW YORK (AP) — United Press International has announced it is dismissing 45 employees, mostly at its New York headquarters, and is adding 30 news people to bureaus around the country.

Meanwhile, the New York Times disclosed in today's editions that Tennessee businessman John Jay Hooker purchased a one-third interest in the agency from Media News Corp. for $1 and other considerations.

The Times account also said that the E.W. Scripps Co. had bought away the agency to Media News Corp. from the Nashville-based company last June.

Braddick, UPI's vice president for development, said in a telephone interview last night that about half of the new positions have already been filled.

The positions eliminated were described in a statement by Douglas F. Ruhe, UPI's managing director, as "overhead management jobs." Braddick said the positions were all non-union and included clerical and other support jobs. He said no news jobs were affected.

The Times story said UPI planned to cut 100 management and clerical positions in the next few days for an expected savings of $3 million. Braddick declined to say if there would be any further terminations.

The sale of UPI, which has lost money for years, stirred controversy within the industry when financial details of the transaction were not disclosed.

Media News is headed by Ruhe and William Geissler and had included Len R. Small, a newspaper executive in Moline, Ill., and Cordell Overgaard, a Chicago lawyer.

For a while we will be studying the technique of some of the world's great players. The hands will be from the recent World Olympiad, held in Biarritz, France.

Our first hero is Tony Priday who, with his partner Claude Rodrigue, has been the mainstay of Britain's teams for the past 20 years. North's double was for penalties, but Priday was not prepared to settle for a non-vulnerable set. Instead, he overbid to game and then proceeded to make it. West's double was predicated on the fact that the suits were going to break badly for declarer.

West led the ace of hearts and shifted to his singleton club. Declarer won in hand and led a low spade. West played low and dummy's king won. Four club winners followed, and West found himself under pressure. He sluffed three diamonds and the jack of hearts, but the writing was on the wall.

West was thrown on lead with the ace of spades. He cleverly exited with a low diamond, in the hope that declarer would carelessly win with dummy's nine and so get his entries tangled. But Priday won the king, cashed the ace and tucked West back on lead with a diamond. The best that West could do was to cash the king of hearts and then present declarer with the queen of hearts and his ninth trick.

ABA Official Warns Code Invites Lawsuits

By JAMES H. RUBIN
Associated Press Writer
NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The American Bar Association is adopting a new code of ethics that may lead fraud victims to sue lawyers for negligence, a top ABA official says.

John C. Shepherd of St. Louis, who is in line to become president of the ABA in 1984, said Tuesday the new rules create a dilemma for attorneys who learn their clients are engaging in fraud. If the lawyers reveal what they know, they would violate their own ethical standards, he said.

But if they keep quiet, they could be sued by a victim of the fraud, said Shepherd.

"If they know a fraud is about to be committed, they may be in court as a defendant, not as an advocate," Shepherd said. "That's the dilemma, isn't it? At least, I see it as a dilemma."

The ABA's policy-making House of Delegates adopted the new rules in principle after an unusual evening session Tuesday. They were to wrap up loose ends today before adjourning until the summer convention in Atlanta where they will adopt the code in its final form.

Shepherd told reporters he will try and convince his colleagues to put in writing his doubts about the impact of the new rules which he said he supports.

The delegates voted to kill a proposed rule that would have encouraged lawyers to "blow the whistle" on clients they believe are involved in fraud.

Instead, they adopted a watered-down version of the rule that permits them to reveal a client's secret only to save someone from death or bodily harm.

They took a different approach in dealing with courts, however, and approved rules requiring lawyers to tell a judge when their clients are lying in court.

The rule is stricter than the current regulation and requires a lawyer to disclose a client's perjury if he has failed to prevent the client from lying in court.

Shepherd acknowledged earlier that the broader rule on whistle-blowing poses problems for the lawyers. Asked how he intends to explain in the code that it invites lawsuits against attorneys who keep their client's secrets, he said, "It's a tough drafting problem."

He initially seemed to suggest that the new ABA rules would permit a lawyer to reveal a client's secret to prevent a fraud. When a reporter said the delegates acted otherwise, Shepherd said, "I know what they did."

The ABA delegates also voted to limit the obligation of lawyers to expose corporate wrongdoing by rejecting a rule authorizing them to tell shareholders if the head of the corporation is breaking the law.

The ABA's code of conduct, while not carrying the force of law, serves as a guide for most states to discipline lawyers for misconduct. About two-thirds of the states have formally adopted the current ABA code which was written in 1969.

Two New TV Comedies Thursday Night

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — In a television breakthrough in 1971, Archie Bunker hated everything he didn't understand, which covered much of the universe. ABC's new comedy series, "Condo," beginning Thursday night, also is built on prejudice. But the fatal flaw is that its white bigot should know better.

Archie was a lower middle class WASP from Queens. In "Condo," McLean Stevenson plays an educated, upper middle-class WASP from Los Angeles. Besides moving bigotry cross-country, television hasn't come very far in 10 years.

"Condo" is offensive. While "All in the Family" managed to enlighten as it probed human weaknesses, "Condo" merely wallows in racial putdowns and prejudices.

The show provides 30 minutes of verbal pingpong. James Kirkridge (Stevenson) insults his next-door neighbor just because he's a Mexican-American, and the provoked Jessie Rodriguez (Luis Avalos) slings the abuse right back.

"Condo" hits rock bottom whenever James is calling Jessie a "taco" or a "tortilla."

There are, however, a few funny moments, but how long can you take a steady diet of jokes about James' neon golf pants (three different lines in the first episode) and the fact that Rodriguez is not the house gardener?

Meanwhile, the condominium complex is a rung upward for the Rodriguez clan, a TV family that is less burlesque than past Hispanic stereotypes. The Rodriguezes are more reasonable than the Kirkridges, and the only be-bopper in the two households is the youngest Kirkridge son, an ear-to-ear stereo freak.

The function of the wives is to mediate domestic peace between the husbands. James' wife, Kiki (Brooke Alderson), is a chowderhead, while Yvonne Wilder, as Maria Rodriguez, is allowed to give her character more dignity.

One element of conflict — besides the blatant prejudice — is the "West Side Story" romance between a Kirkridge son and Rodriguez daughter.

Since Stevenson left "M-A-S-H," all three networks have searched for a vehicle for his questionable comedy charm. "Condo" appears headed for the same dark hole as "The McLean Stevenson Show." "In the Beginning," "Hello, Larry," and "Celebrity Challenge of the Sexes."

ABC's other new comedy, "Amanda's," also begins Thursday night. This, too, is an angry, insult-infested show, but minus the few good comedy lines.

Good putdown humor has compassion and concern beneath the sharp needle. Cut the characters, and they bleed humanity.

"Amanda's" is pure barbed wire: obvious, vicious and unsympathetic.

What a comedown for Bea Arthur, who plays the proprietor of this sleazy seaside hotel. It wasn't too long ago, as "Maude," that Miss Arthur was making a small TV contribution by giving issues like abortion a national forum.

Now she gets to preside over some seasickening slapschick, while shrieking such immortal lines as: "This blouse sucks eggs," or "Anything you want, you can take a flying leap."

The laugh track, with outbursts of applause, really outdid itself this time. The people who might find this funny would laugh at "The Gong Show." Where else would there be raucous applause for somebody getting banged on the noggin?

There isn't a single amusing or enjoyable character — from the shrill Amanda to the chef who talks too much (Rick Hurst) to the alien bellhop who talks too little (Tony Rosato from "Saturday Night Live.") "The oven, she dead," is one of Rosato's immortal lines.

This show, she should be condemned!

Huge Audience For Opening Of 'Winds'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "The Winds of War," ABC's 18-hour epic on the events leading to World War II, attracted a record audience estimated at 85 million for the first episode Sunday night.

ABC said the opening chapter of the seven-part program drew the largest audience ever for the opening of a miniseries. The rating was slightly lower than "Roots," still television's No. 1 miniseries, but the total audience has grown since 1977.

"The Winds of War" was the No. 1 show of the week ended Feb. 6 and boosted ABC to a big victory in the network ratings.

Figures from the A.C. Nielsen Co. showed the three-hour telecast had 39.1 rating and a share of 53. This means that 39 percent of the nation's homes with television watched some part of the show and 53 percent of the homes watching television at the time were tuned to ABC.

ABC estimated that 32.5 million homes and 85 million people saw some part of the $40 million miniseries. The number of viewers was higher than "Roots" because the television audience is larger. "Roots" had a first-night rating of 40.5 and a share of 61. A ratings point represented 712,000 homes in 1977, but today it represents 833,000 homes.

The second chapter of "The Winds of War" had a drop in viewership Monday night in six cities. New York had the highest rating, 42.5, compared to 45.5 on Sunday. Audience shares in New York, Chicago, Los Angeles, Philadelphia, Detroit and San Francisco all exceeded 50 percent.

ABC won the week with a rating of 21.2. The networks say this means that in an average prime-time minute, 21.2 percent of the nation's homes with TV were tuned to ABC. CBS was second with 18.5 and NBC was third with 16.6.

The second highest-rated show of the week was CBS' "Magnum, P.I.," closely followed by CBS' "60 Minutes." CBS had six of the Top 10 and ABC had five. Both the Top 10 and the second 10 had 11 shows each because of ties. NBC's highest-rated show was the first part of the rerun of the "Shogun" miniseries, which was in 14th place.

Cruises: Royal Treatment At Affordable Prices

By JAMES V. HEALION

STAMFORD, Conn. (UPI) — "Most Americans don't know anything about cruising," says Ralph M. Bahna, 38, chief executive officer of the British-owned Cunard Line Ltd.

Bahna should know, because apart from his association with Cunard he is chairman of Cruise Lines International Association, a trade group of 27 companies with an armada of 91 ships. He also is the first American head of Cunard, a native of Grand Rapids, Mich. and was a Big Ten wrestling champion while at the University of Michigan.

"There's probably a slightly higher awareness at the top end of the market because that's where the market has been historically," Bahna said in an interview at his Stamford home.

"But in the last 12 to 15 years, the business has changed and the change has produced rather sensational growth. As would be expected, if you have sensational growth, it's not coming from rich people."

The switch began in the 1970s when the industry changed its marketing strategy. Then television's "Love Boat" came steaming into the nation's living rooms in 1974 and made cruising seem more democratic.

Samuel Cunard, who founded the line in 1840, was a successful 53-year-old Halifax merchant who figured correctly that regularly scheduled liners would be an acceptable way for people to travel.

He sent the first of four, the 1,154-ton Britannia, a tiny paddlewheel steamer, across the Atlantic from Liverpool. The ships made the voyage in 14 days at 8½ knots.

The flagship of today's Cunard fleet, the Queen Elizabeth 2, is a 67,107-ton leviathan, the latest of more than 175 Cunard ships. It makes the voyage eastbound in five days and westbound in six days, the extra day due to its docking schedule and a time change.

QE2 divides its time between making crossings — those voyages with no scheduled ports of calls — and cruises to the Caribbean, the Mediterranean and the Canary Islands.

"It's easy to see a lot of places by ship," says Bahna, "and we're the king of ports of call."

A typical Caribbean cruise has the Princess touching nine Caribbean ports in seven days, with fares starting at slightly less than $1,000, which includes air fare to and from Puerto Rico.

"You know who you're dealing with, too," says Bahna. "You're not going to Europe or Mexico. It's all regulated by the U.S. Public Health Service, the Coast Guard."

"When you're on a ship you have your choice of casino, disco, movies, physical fitness, jazz, tennis, Chinese cooking, yoga. Then while you're sleeping, the ship's traveling. You wake up in Caracas. It's upbeat, active, economical, comfortable. The service is good. You enjoy a lifestyle you didn't think you could afford."

"I don't want people to think they're going to get caviar in bed, though. You get those things on the QE2."

Cruise ships serving the North American market carried 115,000 passengers in 1970. In 1982, they carried 1.4 million passengers, earning gross revenue estimated by the industry at $3.5 billion, up from 1.1 million passengers and $2.1 billion in 1979.

The industry predicts 4 million people will be taking their ease aboard cruise ships in 1990. It looks so lucrative to Norwegian shipping magnate Helge Naarstad he plans cruise ships that will accommodate just 120 passengers who will pay $450 for the pampering. Naarstad's new service gets underway in 1985.

The dawn of the jet age in the 1960s caused the demise of the cruise business as it was then structured. After 10 years of fighting a losing battle with the airlines, shipowners, particularly the new breed, decided to call it quits.

"We're out of the business of taking people from A to B and we're not going to get back in it," said Bahna, who moved to Cunard in 1973 from Trans World Airlines.

The industry stayed afloat in the early days of its resurgence by promoting tours. Then it engaged its old nemesis, the airlines, to fly its customers to and from its ships. Now Cunard is one of the airlines' biggest customers.

"Once you get a winning formula," Bahna said, "you start varying the theme by whetting passengers' appetites. Say you want 'education,' well, there are at least 50 educational programs. We've even given courses for college credits."

"Then there's sports, physical fitness. There must be several thousand combinations offered by the 27 companies that are in the Cruise Line International Association for Americans in 1983."

Business is so good and the competition for the passenger dollar so intense that three of the largest Miami-based cruise companies are offering discount prices, flying "free," or for "next to nothing."

There's also a campaign to keep travel agents on their toes. Undercover agents for Carnival Cruise Lines pose as prospective customers and ask the agents to recommend a vacation. If they suggest a cruise, it's worth $10. If they say, "Carnival Cruise Line" vacation, it's worth $1,000.

Some cruise lines are even offering male escorts as unofficial cruise hosts to keep their single women passengers happy and to attract new business. Royal Cruise Lines of San Francisco says 120 "distinguished gentlemen" survived screening by the line's president, Richard Revnes, and are serving aboard Royal's 17 winter cruises.

"Isn't it about time," Royal writes travel agents, "someone

Says Bahna, "It looks like the industry is competing against itself if you pick up a travel section. But we're really not. Our real competition is just getting awareness."

The potential market is everybody and anybody says: "Educated people, uneducated people, wealthy people, young ones, old ones, ones that want luxury, ones that want something simple, ones that want formal, ones that want informal. Modern, classical. It's a whole new business."

Bahna says the workhorse for the industry still will be the short cruise with several ports of call.

"It's a response to the old concerns about ships, that they were for very old people who were wealthy, very inactive, stuck on the high seas for days on end — the men in tuxedos, the old girls with a lot of jewelry around their necks, bored to tears, and probably getting sick. That's the image of 85 percent of the American market," Bahna said.

Cunard promoted the slogan, "Getting there is half the fun," and these days Bahna strives on behalf of the industry to improve the reception given tourists once they get there.

He is on record warning government tourism officials in the Caribbean that if things don't change in some places, destinations will.

He told a trade conference in San Juan, Puerto Rico, that for too long government tourism officials have taken cruise passengers for granted. He said passengers are "attacked by beggars and merchants when they step off the ship," and mugging are prevalent in some ports.

With eight new cruise ships scheduled for service in the next few years and none assigned for regular Caribbean service, Bahna said the handwriting is on the bulkhead.

High Hopes For Planned Algae Farm

By RICHARD M. HARNETT
SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Scott A. Brown wants to become the biggest algae farmer in the country.
His farm is not in operation yet, but he hopes to start marketing algae products this year.

The harnessing of algae for food, medicine, sewage processing and other industrial uses is one of the exciting new applications of modern science.

"I do not see our approach to commercial algae products as a breakthrough as much as an evolution," said Brown, who quit studying dentistry several years ago to get an MBA from Stanford in preparation for his algae farm.

He says he picked this business because he saw no other strong American entry.
Most algae products are now imported from Japan or Mexico.

Brown teamed up with Dr.
William J. Oswald, a professor of biomedical and environmental health sciences at the University of California, to form Microbio Resources, Inc.

"We are now past the development stage," said Brown. "I expect that during 1983 we will have the first four or five products stemming from algae ready for the market."

These products include spirulina, a popular protein health food, beta-carotene, and live algae for use in cleaning up sewage water.

"There are a lot of different processes that can be developed," said Brown.
"Dr. Oswald's research work formed the technical basis for Microbio's entry into the marketplace. Our first focus is to get the various algae nutrients on the market for human consumption."

Microbio plans to build its algae farm near the Salton Sea in California's Imperial County, where brackish water from the Colorado River and the warmth of the sun should produce masses of algae efficiently.

"Nutrients will be added to the culture just like fertilizer is to crops," Brown said. He believes a first-class algae farm in the United States, using the latest scientific knowledge and operating in a clean, highly efficient manner, will be able to compete in the booming market for nutrition products now imported.

ple, is an increasingly popular food supplement. It is a source of Vitamin A, which scientists are looking at as a possible cancer preventative.

While Vitamin A itself can be dangerous in large amounts, Brown said beta-carotene is not.

Brown said his company has raised $1 million in venture capital to begin operations and hopes to have $3.5 million funding when it starts setting up the algae farm within a few months.

While its initial thrust is on selling the algae for health food items, Brown believes there is a much wider potential market for his business.

"In another five years, human and animal waste may be possibly converted to protein and diet supplement for consumer use. Algae will take its place in the agricultural world. It's the most efficient plant there is."

He said some chicken farms are already using chicken manure to grow algae which is in turn fed back to the chickens.

Aid From U.S. For Displaced

WASHINGTON (AP) —
The State Department says the United States is giving 810 tons of food and $70,000 for medical and emergency supplies for the several hundred thousand undocumented aliens ordered to leave Nigeria.

Deputy spokesman Alan Romberg said 720 tons of food were donated in Benin, 30 tons in Togo and 60 in Ghana. He said the United States is coordinating with other donors, under U.N. auspices, on the possibility of shipping additional aid to Ghana and other countries.

Most of those affected by the Nigerian order are Ghanaians. The government of Ghana has estimated that 350,000 of its citizens have returned home.

Texas Town Climate Said 'The Best'

By RANDALL HACKLEY
Associated Press Writer
SIERRA BLANCA, Texas
(AP) — Forget frost-free Key West, Fla., and the tropical lure of Hawaii. The world's finest weather is not in those places.

It's in Sierra Blanca, this West Texas town boasts.

"Our weather 'Our weather is pretty close to perfect,'" says "Dogie" Wright, former Texas Ranger and Hudspeth County sheriff.

Residents agree: "I rate it terrific," says secretary Brenda Bullock. "I'd have 12 feet of snow right now if I was back in Schenectady (N.Y.)."

It's a sparkling clear day in the mid-40s, and a dusting of snow from a surprise storm that struck Christmas Day still lingers.

But no one here lingers long in his or her assessment of the Sierra Blanca climate.

"Climate is one of our finest assets, something we feel we can vie with El Paso and most cities in the Southwest," says Beth Sweiven, head of the local Chamber of Commerce.

It was Chamber of Commerce honchos who baked up the world's best climate concoction: Crudely painted billboards placed along both sides of Interstate-10 proclaim Sierra Blanca as the site of the world's best climate.

"We need something to attract people," Mrs.
Sweiven says. "We hoped this would attract people from the East and West."

She says that monthly temperature medians compiled nationwide from popular resort centers prove Sierra Blanca year-round has better climate than anywhere else.

Key West, the southernmost city in the continental United States and famed for its frost-free weather, hardly compares to Sierra Blanca, Wright says.
The same applies to Mauna Kai near Kona, Hawaii, which banker David Rockefeller claims has the best climate on Earth.

"Both those places hit nearly bypasses the town, leaving State Highway 80 devoid of much traffic, Mrs.
Sweiven says.

"So we decided to come up with a logo," she says.

But isn't the world's finest climate a little pretentious?

and some wind," admits secretary Juanita Ramirez.
"And this year has gotten awful cold."

But citizens say the town's 4,500-foot altitude and an average of 11 inches of rain per year makes its climate benevolent, especially when the rest of the Southwest sweats each summer.

"It never gets too hot or too cold," says Wright, at 81 the dean of the town. "I do remember once around 1947 when it got 20 degrees below zero from a bad storm.
Killed eight big trees around the courthouse overnight."

The courthouse is the largest structure in Sierra Blanca now that the Palace Hotel is closed and boarded up. The town also houses a border patrol office, has an aged railroad depot and two residential developments.

But Mile High and Country Club Estates seem almost lost on the high plains around Sierra Blanca. A 7,000-foot mountain devoid of trees — Sierra Blanca, or White Mountain, hovers near the town.

Country Club Estates, with 18 homes planted around a yellowed 9-hole golf course, is touted as the site where the town can expand.

But the town has lost about two-thirds of its population since it was founded as a railroad transportation center in 1881. The Southern Pacific and the Texas and Pacific railroads met here 101 years ago to connect railroads for the first time between coasts.

A silver spike was driven into the ground by business tycoon Jay Gould to commemorate the occasion, but officials here say their historical thunder was stolen when El Paso claimed the railroads were first connected about 90 miles away in that far West Texas city.

"But we were first," says
Mrs. Sweiven.

Sierra Blanca is also first among pretenders to the world's climate crown, she insists.

Interiors Of Old, Failed Businesses In A Museum

By ROBERT LEE ZIMMER
Associated Press Writer
DECATUR, Ill. (AP) — When old businesses die, their furnishings can go to heaven in John Ballog's private museum.

Balog has made it his business to save the interiors of failed enterprises like Michl's Cigar Store and the Williamsville Barbershop from the trash heap.

Then he restores the look and feel of the old companies in displays on the second story of his office building.

His exhibits are complete with brass cash registers, oak display cases and dusty 60-year-old prescriptions.

"I just enjoy the original beauty of old things," said Ballog, who began his collection in 1980.

Balog, who sells office furniture and business machines for a living, says restoration of five businesses is nearly complete. But he has no timetable.

"It is a labor of love, and I haven't set any deadlines because that would make it work," said Ballog, who has invested more than $15,000 and 3,000 hours in the project.

The hallway where Ballog rebuilds the businesses resembles a turn-of-the-century sidewalk, lined with now-defunct businesses like the cigar store and barbershop.

Also on his restoration list: the Hotel Orlando, Roth Johnson Drugs and the Williamsville Barbershop.

When the stores are finished, Ballog says he may rent them to people who sell antiques and collectibles, or he may turn the second floor into a museum of early 20th century commerce open to the public.

He frequently gives impromptu tours.

"I like to see somebody else get to enjoy this too," said Ballog.

On Ballog's second floor, a visitor can find the original store acquired for the collection, Michl's, founded in 1858. It served as a recruiting center for Union soldiers during the Civil War.

"In all those years, it never was remodeled, altered or changed in any way," said Ballog. "It is just the way it was when it opened, and that's why it holds so much charm for me."

Except for its location, Michl's still hasn't changed. Ballog photographed, then disassembled everything at the store's original downtown Decatur location. Using the pictures as his blueprint, he reassembled Michl's in a room just six inches larger than the original.

It's all there: the wooden display cases with curved glass; ceiling fans and light fixtures; the rolls and presses used to make cigars; pipe tobacco with names like Wild Cherry No. 525, and even a couple of packs of Marvels cigarettes.

The Bulpit Saloon includes a 24-foot long mahogany bar and matching backbar. Ballog found it frozen in the dirt floor of a leaking shed and pried it loose with a crowbar. Since the bar is one piece and would not fit in the elevator or stairwell, it had to be hoisted through a second-story window with a block and tackle.

Included with the purchase of Roth Johnson Drugs were pill-making devices, old chemicals and medicines,

In an adjoining room, is a three-chair barbershop that opened in the lobby of a Chicago hotel, was moved to Springfield, and later to Williamsville, where it closed. The mirrors in etched glass frames reflect tall bottles of oily hair tonic and sweet-smelling aftershave lotion.

Often, Ballog has to act quickly to buy a defunct business while it still is intact. His offer for Michl's was accepted just before the building was to be torn down.

"We had to fight the wrecking ball to get everything out," he said. "The crew was knocking down the upper floors while we worked downstairs."

Balog enjoys restoring the big pieces of a business, but his real love are all the tiny details, like the canceled checks and bills that came with Michl's.

"Some of the things that are of the most interest to me," Ballog admits, "are junk to other people."

Allowed Set Up New Nat'l Bank

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Dreyfus Corp., a New York-based mutual fund firm, has been given government permission to set up a new national bank.

The action by C.T. Conover, the comptroller of the currency, is unprecedented and further blurs the distinction between securities and banking. It likely puts the comptroller's office at odds with the Federal Reserve Board, which earlier had expressed concern about the legality of any such approval.

The new bank — Dreyfus National Bank and Trust Co. — will have full banking powers but will not make commercial loans or offer checking accounts. It will initially provide trust services and investment management for employee benefit and personal retirement plans, said Conover.

In the past year, the comptroller has given two other mutual fund advisers permission to charter national banks, but they were limited solely to trust activities. It has also let two banks set up discount brokerage subsidiaries.

NOT IN CLUB
BARTLESVILLE, Okla. (AP) — The top oil-producing nation in the world is not a member of OPEC, the oil cartel.

It's the Soviet Union, which in 1981 produced more than 12 million barrels of oil a day, according to Phillips Petroleum. That is nearly 22 percent of the world's total daily production.

Affected By The Ordeals

PICKING UP THE PIECES — Penny Capstick, repairing her dreamhouse at Times Beach, Mo., says residents of the flooded and dioxin-tainted town have been affected psychologically by the double disaster. (AP Laserphoto)

By RAY FORMANEK
Associated Press Writer
TIMES BEACH, Mo. (AP) — Angela Capstick, 7 years old, has nightmares of "spacemen" in white suits digging up the dirt outside her flood-ravaged home. She wakes up screaming.

More serious than the dreams of the government cleanup workers, says her mother, Penny Capstick, is the child's burden of guilt, brought on first by the floods that devastated Times Beach, then the threat of the poison, dioxin, in the soil.

As evidence, the mother of four displayed a prayer her daughter had composed as an assignment in school.

"I'm sorry I was mean," reads the prayer. "Jesus help me. I can't do it by myself. Please make some of my friends come back."

The rest of the family is also affected. "You feel like you're on an island all by yourself," said Mrs. Capstick, whose neighbors were driven away by flooding and urged not to return because of the dioxin. "There used to be lights and other people around. Now there's only darkness."

Although officials have measured the physical damages caused by December's floods on Times Beach and surrounding communities, the authorities say they are just beginning to tally the medical, emotional, social and psychological costs.

Four suicide attempts, two of which required hospitalization, have been recorded along with cases of severe depression, withdrawal from reality and increased alcoholism.

"Generally what we're looking at is normal people under a lot of stress," said Dr. Karl Wilson, a psychiatrist who is organizing the counseling for the victims.

"We know that under similar stress, suicide, child abuse and homicides all tend to increase," he said.

"A lot of them have had their nerves stretched to the limits," added Judy Finnegan, a counselor for the Missouri Department of Mental Health. "Most of them have been living in motels at government expense since early December and they're going crazy."

"The government pays for the room but they have to eat out so they're going broke, too."

The anger and frustration of the survivors has been perhaps more painful than the original flooding and dioxin discovery, Ms. Finnegan said.

"They've lost their support — their friends, neighbors and mementos which can never be replaced," she said. "It's especially hard on the children. We've seen as many kids as adults. Some of the children in Times Beach aren't being let outside because of the dioxin. They can't play and none of their friends are around."

The isolation and uncertainty has made Mrs. Capstick and her husband, Joe, angry at forces that seem to be conspiring against their hopes and plans for the future.

"We don't have much money left," she said as she patched a hole punched in her living room ceiling by her floating furniture. "We can't just walk out. This is everything we own."

"My husband went to church again for the first time since the flood last week," Mrs. Capstick said. "He's just so angry. He's still angry with God. Joe works all day and then works all night on this place."

Ms. Finnegan listed pent-up anger and depression as the two most common symptoms seen by the interviewers.

"We try to get them to talk about their anger and sadness," she said. "Once they get it out they're on their way to getting better."

Ms. Finnegan said, however, that the victims' mental health depended on how they're received by their new neighbors as they move into government-sponsored temporary housing.

"A lot of them are saying that people are treating them like they have a disease or something," Ms. Finnegan said. "And those still living in Times Beach are being called crazy by those who moved out."

"We're being treated like lepers," agreed Mrs. Capstick angrily. "The mailman won't come down here. We can't get a serviceman to fix the washer. The phone company won't even come out because of the dioxin."

As residents grapple with the problems of the flood and possible exposure to dioxin, doctors from the Centers for Disease Control in Atlanta and state health officials are well into the first phase of identifying and treating those exposed to the deadly toxin.

"We've interviewed about 700 people so far," said Dr. Denny Donnell, an epidemiologist for the Missouri Division of Health. "We anticipate seeing about 2,000."

Army Explores Missile Defense

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army says it is analyzing results from the first in a series of experimental missile firings exploring technology needed for use of ballistic missiles as defensive weapons above the Earth's atmosphere.

An experimental firing involved a target intercontinental missile launched from Vandenberg Air Force Base, Calif., being intercepted above the Pacific Ocean by a missile fired from the Kwajalein range in the Pacific, a Pentagon announcement said.

A ballistic missile defense involves sending weapons aloft to intercept and destroy enemy missiles before they can strike their intended targets.

Lowe's Pricing Policy

Many items in this tabloid carry a reference retail price. The reference is intended to provide a guide to the range of retail selling prices in our area and may be used in identifying different units of the same manufacturer. An item's reference retail price is either the manufacturer's suggested retail price or the determination of its full retail price based on prices at which it or similar merchandise is offered by principal retailers (department stores, specialty shops and other non-discount sellers) in our selling area. While we believe our reference retails do not appreciably exceed the highest retail prices at which sales are made in our selling area, we cannot assure you that our reference retail prices, as described above represent the prices in every community on any given day. Some items in this advertisement are listed at "regular" selling prices. The merchandise is offered at this price except during a special sale. The purpose of showing a reference retail price (or a regular price) is to assist you our customer, in making a knowledgeable and better informed buying decision. We suggest that you also do comparative shopping and compare prices. (Prices in this tabloid do not include delivery charges. Ask us about delivery rates.)

Lowe's Raincheck Policy

If we sell out of an advertised item, we'll leave you a raincheck. When we restock, you'll be notified so you can buy at the previously advertised price (except for products marked "Limited Quantities"). Our smaller stores may not stock all items. But every item shown can be ordered for you.
