U.S. Embassy In Beirut Bombed; 28 Die

By TERRY A. ANDERSON Associated Press Writer

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) - A car bomb blew up outside the U.S. Embassy today, and authorities said 28 people were killed and 105 wounded in the fiery blast that collapsed the center section of the seven-story building. Six U.S. Marines and two U.S. Army soldiers were reported among the dead.

U.S. Marine commander Col. James M. Mead told reporters that people were still trapped alive in the rubble and that rescue efforts were under way.

A police officer on the scene said an estimated 330-pound bomb was hidden in a Lebanese police car and detonated by remote control in the embassy's driveway. There is no fence separating the embassy from the seaside road.

The Christian Voice of Lebanon radio said a Moslem suicide terrorist drove the car and that it had diplomatic license

A group called Moslem Holy War claimed responsibility, telling the newspaper Al Liwa, "This is part of the Iranian revolution's campaign against imperialist targets throughout the world. We shall keep striking at any imperialist presence in Lebanon, including the multinational force." Moslem Holy War has claimed several previous attacks on the multina-

White House spokesman Larry Speakes said in Washington that two people wearing U.S. Marine uniforms were among at least 21 killed in the blast, "but we cannot verify that there are any American dead."

However, doctors at the American University Hospital in Beirut said the morgue had 28 bodies from the blast, including those of six U.S. Marines. U.S. Army Capt. Alfred Martin said two U.S. Army soldiers also were among the dead. They apparently were from a special group helping rebuild the Lebanese army.

Doctors at the hospital reported 105 wounded. Lebanese police reported 28 dead and said 78 were wounded.

The blast at 1:05 p.m. (6:05 a.m. EST) collapsed the entire front of the central wing of the seaside building and blew a large hole through the ground floor visa section in the northern wing.

An Associated Press reporter said the building's center section from the ground to the roof collapsed like a layer cake and a body could be seen dangling from the fifth floor, its arms and legs hanging down and dripping blood.

Two other wings of the embassy were still standing, although they sustained heavy damage, Anderson said.

Witnesses at the scene said the explosion was caused by a car bomb in a vehicle parked in the circular driveway or just beside the embassy, in the seaside in west Beirut's predominantly Moslem Ein Mreisseh neighborhood.

White House aide Robin Gray said in Washington that U.S. Ambassador Robert Dillon was in the building at the time of the blast, but was unharmed.

Special U.S. envoys Philip C. Habib and Morris Draper were in the presidential palace five miles away at the time of the explosion, but Draper's wife was visiting the embassy and he raced back to the compound to search for her. A U.S. Marine said she was taken to a hospital with cuts on the

A towering cloud of smoke was seen rising from the area of the embassy shortly after the explosion.

A U.S. Marine standing in front of the embassy said, "There is a soldier and some others in there," pointing to a

At least a dozen ambulances rushed to the scene along with French and U.S. members of the multinational peacekeeping force serving in Beirut. Sirens were screaming and hundreds of onlookers crowded the area near the compound.

Record Cold Still Plaguing The East

DANISZEWSKI Associated Press Writer Record cold settled on the East today and snow fell in scattered areas from Kentucky to Maine on the heels of a storm that left seven people dead or missing in floods and snow up to 2 feet deep in New England. The snow over the weekend darkened 32,000 homes and forced cancellation of two major league baseball games.

Dozens of cities from Duluth, Minn., to Miami posted record lows for the date today as the mercury dipped into the teens in the upper Mississippi Valley and the Great Lakes region and into the 20s from the central Appalachians to the northern Plains. It was 12 degrees this morning in Duluth, 5 degrees colder than the record for the date set in 1928, and 50 in Miami, 8 degrees below thre 1962 record.

"The calendar may say it's spring, but the weather maps are determined to conclude it's still winter," said a statement from the National Weather Service in North Carolina, where up to 4 inches of snow was forecast

Up to 26 inches of snow fell on the mountains of central Vermont and western Massachusetts during the weekend, leaving 17,000 residents without electricity Sunday. Power lines also snapped under heavy snow in southern Michigan, where as many as 15,000 customers

Eight inches of snow fell Sunday at Des Moines, Iowa, breaking a record for late season snowfall stretching back to April 29, 1907, when 7 inches fell in the city.

Snow was scattered Sunday from Iowa to Illinois and across eastern Ohio, western Pennsylvania and western New York.

The winter-like weather played havoc with four National League baseball teams. Games between the Pittsburgh Pirates and the Chicago Cubs, in Pittsburgh, and the St. Louis Cardinals and the New York Mets, in St. Louis, were snowed out

Soaking rains fell from Virginia to New England during the weekend, drowning one teen-ager, killing two people in traffic accidents and leaving four others missing, one in a flooded storm drain, one in a boating accident and two canoeists in a swollen Pennsylvania river.

Hollings In The Running

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) -Pledging to put the nation's jobless back to work, U.S. Sen. Ernest Hollings of South Carolina announced his candidacy today for the Democratic presidential nomina-

"Fritz" Hollings, 61, a three-term senator and former South Carolina governor who joined a growing list of contenders for the Democratic nomination, said the nation has all the elements of economic success human ingenuity, industrial muscle and scientific imagination.

"But we lack the leadership to combine these precious resources into a partnership," he said. "Only a president can mobilize these resources in a common cause. I intend to be such a Hollings made his announcement at Midlands Technical College, a two-year school in a statewide technical training network created while Hollings was state governor.

Hollings said he would use his 30 years experience in public office "to put the people of our country back to work by putting government back to work for the people."

The Democratic Party lost the 1980 elections, he said, because "every time a problem arose, we offered a single solution — send more money." Previously, Democrats had managed the economy responsibly for generations, he said

"We will not be returned to the White House until we prove we can do this again,' Hollings said President Reagan has delivered "disastrous deficits, caused depression-level joblessness and he has demolished the consensus we needed for the rebuilding of our depleated defenses.

Others who formally have announced their candidacy for the Democratic nomination are former Vice President Walter F. Mondale, Colorado Sen. Gary Hart, California Sen. Alan Cranston and former Florida Gov. Reubin Askew. Ohio Sen. John Glenn is scheduled to announce Thursday.

Hollings would like to follow the trail blazed by another former Southern governor, Jimmy Carter of Georgia. He said the country now is ready for his middle-of-the-road politics.

WARSAW, Poland (AP) -Police stopped Lech Walesa's car about 60 miles outside the Baltic port of Gdansk today and detained the labor leader as he drove toward Warsaw, according to Western newsmen who saw the incident

Walesa's friend and priest, the Rev. Henryk Jankowski, also was in the car when it was reported stopped, but his whereabouts were unknown.

The newsmen, members of a CBS-TV camera crew, said police stopped Watesa's car near the city of Olsztym. They said they had been following Walesa in their own car and that they were detained by police for several hours after Walesa was taken into custody.

Walesa, who led the Solidarity union until it was suspended and outlawed earlier that he would go to Warsaw today to lay a wreath at a monument to the 1943 Jewish uprising in the Warsaw ghetto.

On Sunday, police broke up a gathering of about 1,000 Solidarity supporters who sang union songs following a ceremony at the monument to mark the 40th anniversary of the uprising against the Nazis.

"I don't confirm and I don't deny," said the Interior Ministry spokesman who was asked about Walesa's reported detention. "I have not been authorized, as a man who is in charge of information here, to give any in-formation on this case to the press."

The reported detention of Walesa comes six days after he announced that he had met with leaders of the Solidarity underground, and later defied police pressure by telling reporters he planned to meet again with underground leaders and

To "knit a triple throw," insert the needle into the next stitch as if to knit but wrap the yarn three times around the needle - instead of the usual one time complete a knit stitch. This will give you three loops on the needle for each knit stitch so, obviously, your stitch count will be different on this

The "slip cluster" is more easily understood if it is broken down into separate steps. Step 1: Bring the yarn forward (to the purl position). Step 2: Insert the tip of the right-hand needle into the front of the first strand of the triple throw stitch that is on left hand needle. Step 3: Slip this stitch from left to right needle, thus creating one long slip stitch. Repeat Steps 2 and 3 until the specified number of long slipped stitches (in this pattern the specified number is 5) are on the right-hand

Step 4: Take yarn to back of work (to the knit position) and slip all 5 long stitches to the left needle. Step 5: Bring yarn forward and slip all 5 long stitches to the right needle. Repeat steps 4 and 5 once more and return yarn to back of work. A slip cluster is completed. Repeat all of the above steps each time you are told to "slip cluster the next 5 stitches." On the following row, each of the 5 loops of the cluster is knitted separately, creating 5 knit stitches from each cluster. A pattern similar to this one is used to create the spider web effect in the shell that is featured today, so if you can master this stitch you will have no problems in making the shell as shown.

Do try it out on a sample swatch for I think you will find that it is easier to work than you might expect from just reading the directions.

Living with an alcoholic seriously effects our feelings of self worth. Guilt for thinking that we caused the problem, doubt in our ability to do anything right, and fear of fear develop into a sense of self hatred. TRUE STORY FROM VIRGINIA

The Daily Reflector, Greenville, N.C.-Monday, April 18, 1983-3 DEAR ABBY: A spurned lover, "Dear John," sued his ex-fiancee for the cost of the diamond engagement ring she refused to return. John hadn't really tried to collect, the debt was not worthless at the end of the year.

On appeal, the Tax Court sided with the IRS: Dear John had failed to prove that the debt became worthless during the year in question.

Where Does It Go?

Disclosure that The National Congressional Club spent $10.4 million in 1981-82, but only $147,119 went to the candidates, tells a lot about political action committees.

Other political action groups are said to spend similar percentages on candidates.

Common Cause, the citizen's lobby, claims the club and other PACs are raising money mainly to support themselves, not help candidates. That opinion seems supported by the

The National Congressional Club's explanation: most of the money went for advertising and mailings, and to raise more money as well as paying staff and administrative costs. We'll assume other such groups have the same story to tell.

So on the face of it, donors get precious little for their money ... certainly their candidates get only a tiny share of the contributions. The results tell a lot.

An Associated Press report says the club contributed money or services to 62 candidates running for the U.S. House or Senate. Only six won. Losers included all nine North Carolina congressional candidates the club backed.

We have long had some misgivings about a Democratic group's organizing a N.C. Campaign Fund (linked to Gov. Jim Hunt)

It seems much more reasonable for prospective contributors to simply send their sums directly to a candidate's campaign through his campaign manager. At least that way the man or woman of one's choice gets all the money to use to their best advantage

Dealing through a very independent "middle man" is not the most economical way of getting things done (or undone).

Fingerprints Worthwhile

Fingerprinting of children conjures up visions of such identification being on file with the Federal Bureau of Investigation for the rest of the child's life.

The fingerprints, however, can be of great benefit in locating the child if he or she ever becomes a runaway or is kidnapped.

There is another way. The child can be fingerprinted and the set of prints given to the parents, who can keep them safely only to be turned over to law enforcement authorities in the event the child is ever missing.

Such fingerprinting is being done right now at Winn Dixie supermarkets through their child identification program. In addition, Greenville police are working on the development of a child fingerprinting program.

It seems to be a good safeguard for any parent to take. The fingerprinting is not difficult, and what child does not enjoy getting his fingers inky?

Withholding Issue

WASHINGTON - Although President Reagan has not yet agreed, key advisers are exploring an alternative means of recapturing evaded taxes on interest and withholding advice passed by Congress

The reason: Repeal of withholding now seems sure to pass Congress, and may even collect enough votes to override the promised presidential veto. Rather than fight out a veto battle that would sharply divide Republicans, Treasury officials are working an alternative scheme to catch the tax cheaters without withholding.

Just how divisive the withholding issue is to Republicans was clear in a recent Reagan meeting with his party's congressional leaders. Most supported the president on withholding, but Sen. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina and Rep. Jack Kemp of New York dissented

Why Bumpers Quit Despite Sen. Dale Bumpers' public declaration he would not seek the Democratic presidential nomination for lack of organization and money, he privately told friends a television news

Bumpers also had been telling people that he would get the "fire in my belly" once he decided to run. But then, he told friends, perhaps he should experience that "fire" before he ran. Reagan's Wrath Republican Sens. Charles Grassley of Iowa and Slade Gorton of Washington were personal targets of unusually strong presidential wrath during the tense meeting April 5 between President Reagan and Republicans on the Senate Budget Committee.

Both Grassley and Gorton got under Reagan's skin by joining Sen. Pete Domenici, Budget Committee chairman. in pushing for a major cut in Reagan's planned defense program. The president was well aware that turning Domenici around in the defense issue was next to impossible. But Grassley, a Reaganite, and Gorton, a moderate, angered Reagan with their resistance to his defense plan.

When Reagan told the two senators that they would never vote against his intervened. The president, they said, "should tell that to the country.

White House congressional lobbyists decided recently to insulate Congress from Defense Secretary Casper Weinberger in the tough job of selling the MX missile that lies just ahead on Capitol

The White House argument, backed by leading members of the president's MX Commission, is that Weinberger's utility as an arms salesman to Congress has been severely reduced by all his previous budget battles. That indicates caution as Reagan mobilizes his political resources to persuade Congress to accept the MX, one of the most controversial new weapons ever pushed on the legislature.

A footnote: Weinberger's failure to line up the Joint Chiefs of Staff behind Reagan's now-discarded dense-pack MX system has not been forgotten. All the chiefs are now on line to testify publicly in

Legislators Hold The Power

RALEIGH - Which is more likely to make you slow down on the road? The occasional sighting of a black and silver Highway Patrol cruiser, or the knowledge that the patrol is operating unmarked cars in your county.

That question constitutes what is known at the "halo effect" debate. Law enforcement studies show that in the flow of traffic, the presence of a marked police car will slow things down for a mile in each direction. Catch a gander of a cruiser in you rear view mirror and while your heart pumps hard enough to knock the pens out of your shirt pocket, your foot automatically jumps off the accelerator. And you smile, like an angel, as the trooper passes you by.

But there aren't enough cruisers to cover all the roads. So some police officials think we're better off dressing up a few cruisers like private cars. If, on occasion, you see some unfortunate speeder getting a ticket from such an unmarked cruiser cop, you'll never feel comfortable speeding. You'll always have doubts about those cars behind you. They may be cops

Now both of those arguments make sense and it would seem reasonable that we'd want professional law enforcement officers deciding how many cruisers should be marked and how many should be unmarked. But that is not the case. North Carolina law currently says the Highway Patrol can have no more than 17 percent of its fleet unmarked. When patrol officials asked the assembly this session to give them flexibility in this area, they were rebuffed in an Appropri-

Sen. Bob Swain, D-Buncombe, chairman of the subcommittee, was most vocal about the patrol's request for more flexibility. As he sees it, this is a major policy question, one that the legislators to decide. You know that the legislators - lawyers like Swain, bankers, realtors, teachers and farmers are all experts on the best practical approaches to traffic control.

In an interview, Swain was hardpressed to explain why the percentage of unmarked cars on the road is a legislative concern. He was asked, simply, if the assignment of automobiles isn't more an administrative detail which should be left to the professionals?

No, he said, that really isn't the reason. It's traditionally been a legislative function. The Legislature sets policy in many areas amd this is one. Quickly recognizing the weakness of that argument, Swain added, "They evidently questioned whether this was a status symbol thing."

He was referring to the subcommittee's vote against further study of the ques

Swain's concern, voiced in the subcommittee meeting, was that only patrol big-shots get unmarked cars and that the request for more unmarked cars was simply an attempt to make more officers feel important. Other legislators had also expressed concern that many of the 193 unmarked cars in the state are assigned to patrol bureaucops in Raleigh

During a session where the proper separation of government powers has been a major source of debate, it was left to a freshman medical doctor, Rep. Bill Grimsley, D-Guilford, to remind his colleagues that the assembly shouldn't try to run everything. "I think we ought to entrust them with administration of the department. I don't think we are in a position to do that," he said.

A Question Of Patience In France

"Is Paris Burning?" You bet your sweet croissant it is.

President Francois Mitterrand, in order to get his financial house in order, has just issued the most controversial edict since he took office. He has told the French if they want to leave the country on vacation they may only take the equivalent of $427 with them, and they can't use their credit cards outside of France's borders.

This is the equivalent of pulling an Iron Curtain down on French tourists who, contrary to myth, are far more passionate about their vacations than their love

I just received a letter from a Parisian friend.

Cher Ami,

You have probably read by now that our crazy French President has made it impossible for us to leave the country for vacance.

Until his proclamation, our main concern was the placement of American missiles on the Continent. Now our only worry is how we can get out of France in the summertime.

Everyone knows the one thing that makes the Frenchman happy is to travel abroad to see how primitive other cultures are. Once we taste their food and drink their wine, we come home reinforced in our belief that France is still the only civilized nation in the world.

Besides, a trip outside the country is the only opportunity we have to get away from foreign tourists who make our lives so miserable by telling us how happy they are that the French franc is so weak and that Paris is once again the tourist bargain it used to be.

I am not saying the French are not to blame for this sad state of affairs. We all voted for Mitterrand because we were bored with watching Giscard d'Estaing on television. Mitterrand said he was going to do a lot of stupid things, such as nationalizing all the banks and the industries, which sounded like good fun at the time. But he never said anything about only letting us take the equivalent of $427 out of the country for our

Had he mentioned this just once in his campaign, he wouldn't have even won the votes of his own family

When I told Giselle that we couldn't go to England for our holidays she was griefstricken. Giselle hates the English and was looking forward to spending four weeks there, so she could show the children how miserably the British live, how awful the weather is, and how fortunate they are to be French.

My brother Gerard already had made his reservations for Portugal this summer, just to let the family see how bad European plumbing really can be.

Uncle Jacques was prepared to go to Switzerland, which he despises, but considers the perfect vacation spot because it is the dullest place in Europe. When he returns to the madness of Paris, he feels like a new man.

Now our entire family must cancel their plans and find a place in France for our holidays, which is impossible, because nobody expected the French to stay home this summer.

The reason I am writing to you at this time is that if you had any plans to come to Paris this year, please let me know. Do not bring any money with you. I will be happy to supply you with all the French francs you need at a very good rate.

If you spend enough money here I could come to the United States and you could repay me in dollars without that idiot Mitterrand being any wiser.

I must be honest with you. America was not my first choice, particularly since Giselle is afraid the children will have a good time and spoil the vacation for all of us. But we will have to take this chance just so we can get out of the country for a few weeks

If you weren't planning on coming here, I urge you to do so. If Mitterrand does not rescind his order by August 1, you could be a witness to the second French revolution.

Last week 10,000 people marched to the Ministry of Finance. gates shouting, "Vacances, liberte," and do you know what Mitterrand said when he heard the noise? He said' "Let them eat credit

Where's The Mystery?

NEW YORK (AP) - What's all this talk about consumers failing to hold up their end of the economic bargain - that they are restraining their greed, ignoring incentives and pinching pennies instead of spending?

There should be no mystery to their behavior, but you'd never think that if you scanned the profound analyses that economists and other thinkers are producing these days.

This is nothing new. In a massive

United States, the consumer is a natural focus of study. The consumer is the vital force, bigger than government and industry combined

And so they are studied in all their complexity. Arnold Toynbee, the historian, was fascinated by consumers. Vance Packard, the writer, devoted books to the subject. And John Kenneth Galbraith, the economist-essayist, thought he had finally figured out the species.

But instead of dealing with the complexities, is there perhaps any merit in studying comsumers in all their simplicity? It would seem so.

It would seem, for example, that consumers might be sitting on their wallets because they have so little to spend, nothwithstanding statistics that show that money sufficient for recovery lies in the consumer sector.

But the statistics are much less clear on the distribution of that money.

Is it concentrated in the hands of older people, who are less inclined than younger people to spend their assets? Are the younger people, with their lower incomes and bigger expenses, fighting just to stay ahead of bills?

There is the matter of psychology. Anybody who experienced the inflation, recession and unemployment of recent years isn't likely to forget so soon. They cannot afford to do so; such episodes are too costly to them.

It seems obvious that spending is also restrained by high interest rates. No, interest rates in general have not fallen to affordable levels, even if some people think mortgage rates have. Many people who examine their monthly credit card numbers still find rates of 19.5 percent on their balances

Moreover, many areas still haven't emerged from the recession. Millions of Americans are still without work, and some of them are structurally unemployed, meaning their jobs aren't coming

You may agree also that those people caught up in the economic mess aren't inclined to listen to rhetoric - not after hearing every president since Dwight D. Eisenhower proclaim imminent victory over inflation.

It seems logical also to assume that consumers are a bit disheartened to hear all the talk in Washington about repealing the third-year tax cut, scheduled for

It takes no complex study to reveal that many consumers will reach the conclusion that if they're not going to get a tax cut then they'll have that much less money to spend, whether on necessities or on luxuries.

And certainly, confidence of consumers cannot be enhanced by the developing talk about eventually taxing consumption. Until that matter becomes clearer, how can consumers be confident that the tide has turned in their favor?

And while Washington debates taxes, as it always does, there is another little tax matter that might be further hampering consumption. There is, that is, a processing backlog in the matter of tax refunds. Through March 25, refunds were down $2.6 billion from the same period a year ago. You need not study that situation to determine the impact.

In his 1964 book, "The Mass Consumption Society," the late Professor George Katona, a pioneer in the study of consumer behavior, declared that the consumer "is neither a puppet nor a

If we only realized the materials we are dealing with in the natures of our young people, we might find outselves switching our whole domestic and educational procedure.

The plasticity of the young mind cannot be overemphasizewd. Between the ages of 15 and 25, the future of most individuals is settled, either for better or worse. This does not mean that it cannot be altered after that period. It can always be altered, but the task becomes more difficult with every passing year after the mid-20s are reached.

In this connection we can see the almost indelible impression left on the minds of young people who have been raised in homes indifferent or hostile to religion.

The plasticity of youth is one of the greatest challenges facing the mature generation. Whether we like it or not, we are role models, not only in what we do and say, but also in our altitudes.

DOCKET NO. P-100, SUB 64 BEFORE THE NORTH CAROLINA UTILITIES COMMISSION

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the North Carolina Utilities Commission has instituted an investigation into the rates, charges, and regulations applicable within North Carolina for long distance, WATS and interexchange private line service. This action is made necessary as a result of the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company's application for a rate adjustment as filed in Docket No. P-55, Sub 816, wherein Southern Bell proposes changes in rates, charges and regulations which, if approved in whole or in part for Southern Bell alone, would result in non-uniform rates for long distance service in North Carolina.

The Commission is of the opinion that it is in the public interest for uniform intrastate long distance, WATS and interexchange private line rates to be maintained for all telephone companies under its jurisdiction. Accordingly, the Commission has assigned this matter in Docket No. P-100, Sub 64; has instituted an investigation into said intrastate long distance, WATS and interexchange private line rates; has made all telephone companies under its jurisdiction parties to the investigation and has set the matter for hearing. The Commission's investigation is for the purpose of determining if changes should be made in the present intrastate rates for these services and, if so, if the rates should be made applicable to all telephone companies under the Commission's jurisdiction.

LONG DISTANCE MESSAGE TELECOMMUNICATION SERVICE

The basic long distance message rates are not proposed to be changed, however, the additional operator assistance charges per call are proposed to be changed as follows:

STATION-TO-STATION

Present Proposed Customer Dialed Credit Card .50 All Other .70 1.25

PERSON TO PERSON

All Calls 1.70 2.50

Other changes in long distance rates herein under consideration include: the application of time-of-day discounts to the actual time periods a call is in progress; the application of holiday discounts only on December 25, January 1, July 4, Thanksgiving Day and Labor Day; and restructuring of charges for conference service. The Company is proposing a charge of $.35 for each request for long distance directory assistance. Under the Company's proposal there will not be a free allowance for long distance directory assistance requests nor a provision for offsetting such request with long distance calls.

WIDE AREA TELECOMMUNICATIONS SERVICE

Increases in the nonrecurring charges for WATS and 800 service arrangements are being proposed without associated increases in the recurring monthly rates.

INTEREXCHANGE PRIVATE LINE AND FOREIGN EXCHANGE SERVICES

Many of the monthly rates and nonrecurring charges applicable to interexchange private line service, Dataphone Digital Service, Telpak and foreign exchange service are proposed to be increased. The prices for Telpak station terminals are proposed at the same level as for single channel service station terminals. Telpak services are proposed to be obsoleted in this proceeding. Services to existing customers are proposed to be continued for a period of two years after which time these arrangements would be withdrawn entirely.

FURTHER DETAILS

The details of the changes in rates, charges and regulations for long distance service, WATS... interexchange private lines and foreign exchange service are available at telephone company business offices or at the North Carolina Utilities Commission, Dobbs Building, 430 North Salisbury Street, Raleigh, North Carolina, where a copy of Southern Bell's application is available for public review. The Commission will consider additional or alternative rate proposals which were not included in the original application and may order rate increases or decreases which differ from those proposed by the Company. With the depressed economy on everyone's mind, it is exciting to tell about an industry that is growing, the poultry and egg business. And what better time than April 1983, which was proclaimed Poultry and Egg Month by Gov. Jim Hunt.

Not only has the poultry industry had continued growth, but it has grown at a whopping 167 percent rate during the last decade. One of the main reasons that poultry continues to grow is that demand is increasing. This increase is attributed to the public's need for an economical, nutritious and wholesome product.

The poultry industry is proud of the significant impact it has had on the economy of North Carolina. Final point of sale value for poultry products produced and processed in the state well exceeded $1 billion in 1982. Another significant contribution to the state are the jobs the industry provides in processing plants, feed mills, hatcheries and other poultry industry openings. More than 11,000 North Carolinians are employed in the poultry business.

The major consumer products produced by the North Carolina poultry industry are broilers, turkeys, eggs and ducks. Broilers contribute 53 percent of the total poultry farm income; turkeys, 23 percent; and eggs 22 percent. The remainder of the income is largely made up of the newest segment of the poultry industry - duck production. While broilers are the largest poultry commodity in the state, it should be noted that North Carolina produced more turkeys than any other state in both 1981 and 1982.

Poultry and Egg Month is a good time for both the consumer and the poultry industry to celebrate. The consumer can celebrate because poultry and eggs are one of the best bargains in the food market. The poultry industry can celebrate because it makes a significant contribution to the economy of North Carolina while providing good poultry and egg products to the

The Economic Research Service said it had not been able to verify an estimate of coupon fraud. But the researchers noted that industry studies show between one-tenth and one-fifth of the value of redeemed coupons was obtained illegally

Since manufacturers' coupons can be redeemed in any store, they do little to attract customers to a particular outlet. Some retailers have tried to change that situation in recent years, however, by offering to double - and occasionally even triple the value of manufacturers' coupons. The USDA researchers said such programs can provide extra savings for consumers, but they also noted that retailers may increase the price of non-couponed items to offset the cost of double couponing.

Coupons are not without criticism. Some consumer activists claim that overall prices would be lower without coupons; they say the cost of issuing the coupons - most of which are never redeemed - is simply passed on to shop-Manufacturers counter that if coupons were eliminated, other promotional tools would be substituted; there would be no saving.

To get the most from coupons, you'll have to be selective and compare prices. Among the rules to follow:

-Do not use a coupon to buy something you don't need. If you spend 79 cents instead of 99 cents to buy something you wouldn't otherwise purchase, you haven't saved 20 cents. You've wasted 79 cents. Josephine Swanson, a consumer educator at Cornell University in Ithaca, N.Y., says that most coupons are for convenience or non-essential items. "You could never feed a family on couponed items only and could probably eat well without any items that are couponed," she

-Make sure the couponed brand is not more expensive - even with a discount. House brands or generics may cost less; unless there's a difference in quality, it doesn't make sense to buy the brand-name item just to use the coupon.

- Organize your coupons. Keep all coupons in one place and circle the expiration dates so you don't miss the deadline for savings

-Watch out for strings attached to coupon offers. Some retailers require a minimum purchase in connection with coupons. Make sure prices are competitive so you don't wind up paying more than you ordinarily would for lina jumped out to a 2-0 in the top of the first, but a three-run homer by Andy Allanson of Richmond in the third paved the way to a 6-3 win by Spiders in the Pirates final ECAC-South contest of the rainmarred season.

East Carolina finished its conference campaign with a 2-3-1 record including a 1-2-1 performance in a weekend trip to Virgina. The Pirates defeated American University in Williamsburg 8-4 Friday in the first game of a doubleheader, but the second game was tied 1-1 in a game ended by darkness. The Pirates dropped a 5-4 decision to William & Mary on a pair of unearned runs in the seventh.

The Pirates, now 16-14-1 overall, travel to UNC-Wilmington Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. Despite the Pirates results this weekend, their winning record still keeps them in contention for a berth to the four-team ECAC Tournament to be held March 12-14 at James Madison University in Harrisonburg, Va. A decision on the four teams will be made March 8-10 by a selection committee composed of ECAC athletic directors.

Remedial Program Raises Academic Eligibility Questions At South Carolina

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) - Aspecial remedial program for University of South Carolina athletes has prompted senior faculty members to raise questions about possible violations of the school's academic regulations, said The State newspaper.

Among those taking the program are eight USC freshman on football scholarships who could barely read or write, the newspaper said Sunday. A total of 28 entered USC on football scholarships last fall.

It said three of the eight had scored the equivalent of a zero on the verbal portion of the Scholastic Aptitude Test, the college entrance exam. The test is broked down into verbal

The remedial program offered under a course titled "Independent Study in Education Psychology 399" - has been used to provide in-tensive, individualized instruction to freshman and sophomore athletes, most of them football players, who have minimal reading and math skills, the newspaper said.

In a memo to College of Education Dean John Mulhern last November, senior faculty members objected that the appropriate faculty members had not approved the course designation or the awarding of academic credit, the newspaper said.

It quoted the memo as saying the use of the course designation "is dubious at best and contradicts the stated purpose of independent study

Rangers Win 14-Inning Pitching Due

Boston's Fenway Park, that renowned graveyard for left-handers, proved to be a pitchers' paradise, for a change. Instead, it was a right-hander - shortstop Glenn Hoffman whose arm did the Red Sox in.

Texas' Larry Biittner scored on Hoffman's wild relay throw to the plate with two out in the top of the 14th inning Sunday, breaking up a marathon pitching duel and lifting the Texas Rangers to a 1-0 victory over the Red Sox, the first 1-0 game at Fenway in almost three years.

With two out, Biittner singled off Bob Stanley and Pete O'Brien doubled into the left-field corner. Hoffman took Jim Rice's throw and Biittner appeared to be a sure out at the plate, but the shortstop's throw sailed high and wide

"Good Lord, I thought Biittner was out by a mile," said Texas Manager Doug Rader

"I looked and figured I had him by 20 feet, but as I threw the ball just slipped out," said Hoffman. "As soon as I let it go I knew it was going to be over his (catcher Rich Gedman's) head. I wish I had it back.

In other American League games, the Oakland A's beat the Seattle Mariners 7-4, the Milwaukee Brewers defeated the Kansas City Royals 6-3, the Baltimore Orioles trimmed the Cleveland Indians 6-1, the Minnesota Twins outslugged the California Angels 11-8, the Chicago White Sox whipped the Detroit Tigers 6-1 and the New York Yankees downed the Toronto Blue Jays 7-5.

Texas' Rick Honeycutt blanked Boston on five hits over eight innings, while John Tudor of the Red Sox hurled 10 scoreless innings, yielding only four hits. Winner Odell Jones allowed three hits in five innings and Dave Tobik pitched a one-hit 14th. Stanley went the final four for Boston and was nicked for four hits, plus that one unearned run.

The Red Sox loaded the bases with one out in the ninth, but Jones retired Reid Nichols and Dave Stapleton on easy fly balls. The Rangers had runners on first and third with one out in the first and seventh, but failed to score.

A's 7, Mariners 4

Mike Norris scattered five hits and struck out 11 in eight innings as the A's won for the sixth time in the last seven games. Norris gave up homers to Ken Phelps, Dave Henderson and Domingo Ramos to account for all the Seattle runs. Jeff Burroughs and Dwayne Murphy homered for Oakland.

Jim Gantner drove in three runs with a homer and sacrifice fly, while Mike Caldwell, who had been rocked for 19 hits and 11 runs in his first two outings, scattered eight hits and one run over seven innings. Relievers Jamie Easterly and Pete Ladd struck out George Brett and Amos Otis, respectively, with the bases loaded to end the game.

Mike Flanagan hurled a three-hitter and Eddie Murray put the Orioles ahead 3-1 with a first-inning single, Flanagan, who lasted only two innings in his last start while yielding six runs, allowed singles to Manny Trillo in the first inning, Andre Thornton singled in the sixth and Julio Franco in the ninth.

Loser Bert Blyleven walked the first three Baltimore batters in the bottom of the first. The tying run scored on a passed ball by Chris Bando before Murray delivered his two-run single. Baltimore made it 4-1 in the third when Murray singled, took second on an infield out and scored on a single by Jim Dwyer and added two runs in the on Joe Nolan's single, Al Bumbry's RBI double and Dan Ford's single.

Twins 11, Angels 8

Dave Engle's tie-breaking two-run double in the seventh inning helped Minnesota snap a four-game losing streak and end the Angels' three-game winning streak. Before Engle's decisive hit in the three-run seventh, the Twins tied the score 7-7 on singles by John Castino, Gary Ward and Tom Brunansky. Engle then ripped his second double of the game off Andy Hassler. The Twins added two runs in the eighth on singles by Mickey Hatcher, Castino, Ward and Gary Gaetti.

Kent Hrbek hit a three-run homer for the Twins, while Reggie Jackson had a three-run shot — his third homer in three games - and Fred Lynn hit a two-run homer for California White Sox 6, Tigers 1

Rookie Ron Kittle's two-run homer, his fourth homer this season, capped a four-run first inning and Dennis Lamp hurled a two-hitter. The game in Chicago was played in 34-degrees and a 14-mile-an-hour wind lowered the wind chill factor to 17.

Rudy Law opened the Chicago first with a single and scored on a double by Tony Bernazard, who reached third when third baseman Howard Johnson dropped the relay throw for an error. Bernazard scored on Johnson's second error, a wild throw home on Greg Luzinski's grounder, and Kittle lofted a shot into the upper deck in left field. Lamp gave up a single to Lou Whitaker leading off the game and lost his shutout bid in the fifth when Larry Herndon hit his third homer.

Yankees 7, Blue Jays 5

Dave Winfield smashed a two-run homer and Steve Kemp scored from second base on a sacrifice fly as New York rallied with four runs in the fifth. Doubles by Buck Martinez and Cliff Johnson had given Toronto a 4-3 lead in the top of the fifth, Ken Griffey singled to open the Yankees' fifth against Jim Clancy and Winfield followed with his fourth home run of the year, a 400-foot drive over the left field fence. Winner Shane Rawley scattered eight hits, including Johnson's second home run of the season in the eighth.

Walker Pulls Even With USFL Rushing Leader

While New Jersey's Herschel Walker pulled even with Kelvin Bryant as the top rusher in the United States Football League, the Generals would have been all alone in last place if Washington's Ken Olson could have kicked a 33-vard field goal.

Walker, after scoring two touchdowns and rushing for 142 yards on 28 carries, had to watch helplessly on the sidelines with eight seconds to go as Olson lined up his gamedeciding kick.

"I was thinking, 'They'll miss it," said Walker, the multi-millionaire 1982 Heisman Trophy winner who is tied with Bryant with 713 yards.

Walker was right. Olson's kick faded to the right of the uprights and the Generals had held on to beat the Federals 23-22 Sunday

Elsewhere in the USFL, Denver edged Birmingham 9-7, Michigan tripped Chicago 17-12 and Boston bombed Arizona 44-23. On Saturday, Philadelphia beat Oakland Olson's boot was his first official field goal attempt as a professional. Earlier in the game his miss from 37 yards was nullified when Dana Noel was penalized for roughing the kicker.

Olson refused to talk about his miss, but holder Joe Gilliam, the Federals quarterback who threw three touchdown passes - two of them in the fourth quarter said, "I put the ball down good. It was a good snap. It was just one of those things.' "I've learned over the years you take them any way you get them," said Generals Coach Chuck Fairbanks, whose team boosted its record

Washington Coach Ray

Jauch, whose team fell to 1-6. said: "It's the same old story. We almost won. We fell short

Gilliam came off the bench in the second quarter with the Federals trailing 14-2 to guide their comeback bid. His 9yard scoring pass to Joey Walters cut New Jersey's lead to 23-16 early in the fourth Gilliam closed the gap to 23-22 on a 52-yard pass play to rookie Craig James, who took the ball at the 35-yard line, was spun around at the 28 and regained his balance to dash into the end zone. The Federals, trying to take the lead, missed the two-point conversion when Gilliam's pass was batted down.

"You've got to play to win," Jauch said, explaining the reason he opted for a twopoint conversion rather than an extra-point kick that may have sent the game into overtime. The Generals scored 17 points in the second quarter, scoring on Bobby Scott's 40yard pass play to Victor Hicks, Walker's 2-yard burst and Dave Jacobs' 32-yard field goal to take a 17-8 halftime

Walker later scored on an 8-yard run to make it 23-8. He also had a 38-yard run, his longest since passing up his senior year at the University Georgia to accept the richest contract in pro football

Richard Crump ran for two touchdowns and caught a pass for another score to lead Boston over Arizona. Tim Mazzetti kicked tgree field goals to run his consecutive streak to 12 for Boston, now

Crump had two 4-yard touchdown runs in Boston's 21-point fourth quarter as the Breakers handed the seven games John Williams, a rookie running back from Wisconsin, gained 133 yards in 19 carries to lead Michigan over Chicago and drop the Blitz to 4-3 in the Central Division.

Wranglers their fourth loss in

The Panthers, 3-4, trailed 6-3 at the half. But they went 72 yards in four plays for a touchdownon the first drive of the second half, with Williams first running for 24 yards, then bursting 31 yards up the middle for a touchdown that put them ahead to stay.

In Birmingham, Denver beat the Stallions on Brian Speelman's 50-yard field goal with six seconds left. The drive was prolonged by a roughing penalty after Speelman had failed from 52

The points were the first scored since early in the second quarter when Birmingham took a 7-6 lead on Earl Gant's 4-yard touchdown run. Denver scored in the opening period on a 15-yard pass from Ken Johnson to Bo Matthews, but failed on a two-point conversion attempt.

On Saturday night, Bryant ran 35 yards for a touchdown and 47 yards to set up a David Trout field goal as Philadelphia improved its record to a league-best 6-1. He rushed for 118 yards overall, 99 in the second quarter.

Tonight, Tampa Bay hopes to equal Philadelphia's record with a victory at home against Los Angeles, 3-3.

Only three batters, Mickey Mantle, Reggie Smith and Tom Tresh, have hit home runs both lefthanded and righthanded in World Series competition.

Atlee Hammaker. Pitching the best game of his young career, the lanky left-hander hurled perfect baseball for seven innings and wound up with a nifty twohitter as the Giants defeated the Cincinnati Reds 3-0 in the opener of a doubleheader Sunday

It was the third serious bid for a no-hitter by a major leaguer over the weekend. On Friday night, Detroit's Milt Wilcox pitched a one-hitter, coming within one batter of a perfect game. And on Saturday, Montreal's Charlie Lea yielded only an eighth-inning hit in another one-hitter.

"I'll tell you, the way the pitchers have been flirting with no-hitters and perfect games the last few days, I was thinking maybe the third time was the charm and he might get it," said Reds Manager Russ Nixon.

"It was fun. I'd like to try it again," said Hammaker, whose attempt at perfection was cheered loudly by a crowd of 37.094 at Candlestick Park as he mowed down the Reds with his sliders and fastballs.

Bench: "The pitch I got the hit on was the same pitch I hit in the second inning, a slider up over the plate. I was sort of guessing with him in the eighth. I was confident I'd get a pitch to hit, and I was going to hit it. It happened to be the first pitch.

Hammaker, 1-1, who also gave up a ninth-inning single by Dann Bilardello, faced only 28 men, one over the limit, struck out 10 and walked none in the brilliant performance. Jeff Leonard homered for one of the San Francisco runs.

The Reds were a different team in the second game, pounding out nine runs in the first inning, including a three-run double by by Tom

"You don't play in snow and you're not supposed to be play when it's in the 30s," said Elia. "I've never been so cold. not even in Montreal. And I've never been in a snow delay before. I've been around the game for 25 years and never seen a game where snow was involved.

came through like ... nuggets. English, the National Basketball Association scoring champion with a 28.3 average, had 31 points, a career-high 20 rebounds and eight assists. Vandeweghe added 29 points and 10 rebounds and Issel 31 points as the Nuggets earned a postseason berth in the Western Conference with a season-ending 125-116 victory over the Kansas City Kings.

Lendl Leaves Vilas, Tiriac Shaking Heads

S.C. (AP) - Guillermo Vilas' tennis coach, Ion Tiriac, spent the early part of his student's match grunting instructions and shouting encouragement from the stands at the $250,000 WCT Spring Finals at Shipyard Racquet Club.

But by the second set Sunday, Czechoslovakia's Ivan Lendl had the gruff Romanian coach shaking his head in dismay. Lendl, the top-ranked tennis player in the world, soundly beat the 30-year-old Argentine in every phase of the game, claiming an easy 6-2, 6-1, 6-0 victory.

He took home $125,000 in first prize money, while Vilas won $40,000 for his secondplace finish in the eight-man field.

Lendl played to near perfection in the 94-minute match against Vilas, the third-ranked player on the WCT computer and the fourth-ranked player on the ATP rankings

He broke Vilas' serve eight times and was broken only once. He dominated with his serve, scoring six aces. The beginning, with Lendl breaking Vilas' serve in the first game of the first set.

When Vilas charged, Lendl stroked it past him. When the Argentine lobbed, Lendl slammed it for a winner.

After the match, Vilas admitted his rigorous travel schedule had left him tired. "We travel so much, and play so much that there are times in the year when you just get run down," he said."I was getting to every ball a little bit late and he was taking advantage of it."

His 23-year-old opponent said he has been working hard on conditioning the past two months and felt strong. On some of the volleys, Lendl simply wore Vilas down, waiting for the inevitable mistake.

"When I play well, I don't miss too many shots," said Lendl. "I was getting more and more confident. "The major factor is how good a shape you're in."

Lendl, who earned more than $2 million last year but has had difficulty winning sided victory should help his confidence. He will play in the French Open in several

The final of the $255,000 Pacific Southwest championship was postponed because of rain. The match between second-seeded Gene Mayer and No. 5 Johan Kriek was rescheduled for today.

Chris Evert Lloyd held off Carling Bassett of Canada 6-3, 2-6, 7-5 to win the $250,000 Lipton women's tournament. Bassett, at 15 the youngest player on the women's tour, kept Lloyd off-balance in the second set and most of the third. But Lloyd, who lost a set on her homecourt at Amelia Island, Fla., for the first time in five years, used her experience edge to hold on and win $32,000. Bassett collected $16,000 in her first major final.

Adams Ready To Prove Herself After First LPGA Tourney Victory

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) Lynn Adams characterizes herself as a "gutsy, ag-gressive golfer" — the type who is capable of becoming a dominant force on the LPGA

And after capturing her first professional title Sunday, the six-year veteran said she is ready to prove that see indeed is one of the best plants in the game today.

"Winning the first is always the toughest," she said after overcoming a triple-bogey and three-stroke deficit to beat JoAnne Carner and Janet Anderson by two shots in the $150,000 Combanks Orlando

"I honestly think there's no stopping now," she added. "I'm a gutsy, aggressive golfer and think that's what you need to be to become a consistent winner. "Now that I've won, I'm ready to go out and win some more. I really think I will."

Adams finished with a 54hole total of 8-under-par 208, while Carner and Anderson had 210 totals over the 6,274-yard Cypress Creek Country Club course.

Her triple-bogey on the first hole cost her the one-shot lead she held over Carner when the day began, but she regained the advantage with an eagle on No. 12.

"I was fighting embarrassment after that (triple bogey)," said Adams, whose best previous finish was second in the Samaritan Turquoise Classic in Phoenix last month. "But it's better to take it there than late in the round.

I had 17 holes to recoup." Carner led Adams by three shots after she birdied No. 2, but the eventual winner launched her comeback with birdies on seven and eight. Carner's hopes for her 38th career title, but first in 1983, began to fade when she bogeyed three straight holes She had owned the par-5, 453-yard 12th with eagles there the first two rounds. But Sunday, it was Adams who mastered the hole despite tricky winds.

"Twelve cost me the tournament," Carner said simply.
"I came in this week playing awful," she continued. "Usually when I get something that clicks, I just take off. I never really found it this Carner birdied No. 16 to pull within two shots of Adams, but could move no closer as the champion matched par the rest of the way to claim the $22,500 winner's check.

Debbie Massey shot a 70 Sunday to finish at 5-underpar 211, while Patti Rizzo, Alice Miller and Donna White, who won her first LPGA title here in 1980, were bunched at 212 - four shots off Adams' pace.

The recent success of "The Winds of War" and "The Thorn Birds" confirmed that women will eagerly sit still for long-form broadcasts. Klein says the Playboy Channel is currently shooting a miniseries called "A Matter of Cunning," which will bear a resemblance to the executive-suite contretemps involving Mary Cunningham.

Klein says "4Play" is another example of programming for women. "It's a drawing-room comedy, and women will like it because a woman is the hero," he says. In addition, Playboy is preparing to tape "The Friday Files," a multipart program combining news, docu-mentary and drama. Novelist Nancy Friday will be the host.

Even if women are going to be a major part of the Playboy audience, Klein isn't considering expanding the channel's current 8 p.m. to 6 a.m. EST schedule into the daytime, where many women traditionally are home watching network soap operas.

"Our women tend to be a working, middle-class audience," he says. "Daytime audiences tend to be low
