Pitt Thank-You At Raleigh Reception

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

RALEIGH — The citizens of Pitt County said "thank you" to the members of the General Assembly and other state officials at a reception at the Hilton Inn in Raleigh Wednesday night.

More than 500 persons attended the affair, sponsored by the Pitt-Greenville Chamber of Commerce, including 211 people from Pitt County, who paid $50 a ticket to help fund the event.

Rep. Ed Warren said about 48 of the 50 members of the Senate and more than 100 of the 120 members of the House of Representatives were there, including House Speaker Liston B. Ramsey.

Also attending were Lt. Gov. Jimmy Green, president of the Senate; Secretary of State Thad Eure, Commissioner of Agriculture Jim Graham; Labor Commissioner John Brooks; State Treasurer Harlan Boyles; Insurance Commissioner John Ingram; Attorney General Rufus Edmisten; Transportation Secretary W. R. "Bill" Roberson; State ABC Board Chairman Marvin Speight; Commissioner of Motor Vehicles R. W. Wilkins, and Superintendent of Public Instruction Craig Phillips.

Included in the receiving line with Pitt government, East Carolina University and chamber officials were University of North Carolina President William Friday, UNC Board of Governors Chairman John Jordan, ECU Board Chairman

Ralph Kinsey, Green and Ramsey.

Chamber of Commerce President Ed Walker said "this is to say 'thank you'" to the law-makers "for the stuff we now have" such as East Carolina University and the medical school, and to "increase the visibility of Pitt County and its citizens with members of the General Assembly."

From the comments heard, the reception seemed to succeed.

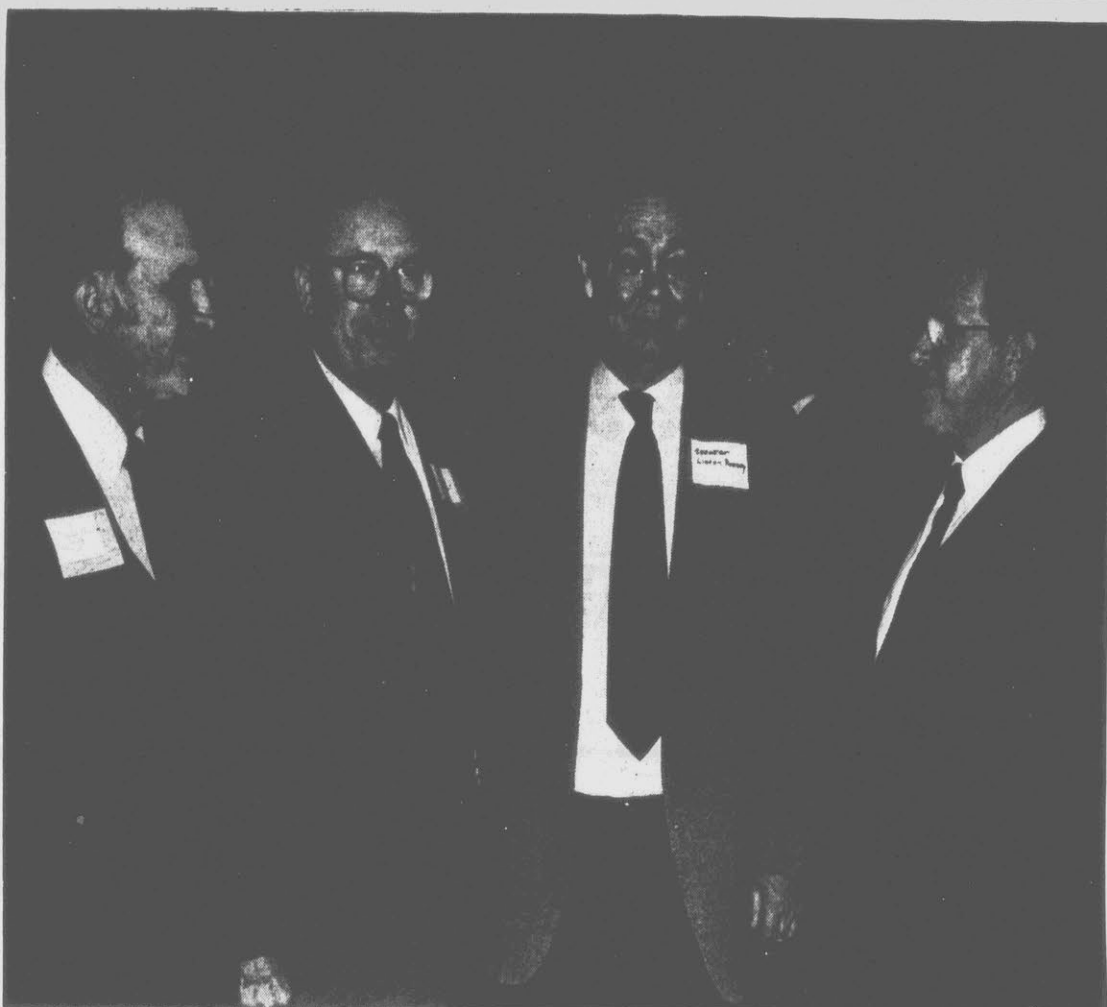

Eure, who has the longest tenure of any secretary of state in the nation, seemed to sum up the comments heard from the other guests. "This is the best and finest (legislative reception) they've had and the best attended. Everybody has had a good time. You've done yourselves proud. You ought to be proud of it."

Walker said the bill, including arrangements at the Hilton and the four buses chartered to take the local delegation to Raleigh, amounted to some $15,000 — $13,000 of which went to the Hilton.

"We were doing it as a 'thank you,' to show our gratitude ... an awareness campaign that we're thankful" for the money the General Assembly spends in Pitt County, he said.

Walker added that "we've still got a lot of things still in the pot," such as the new U.S. 264 and a highway loop around Greenville that officials in Raleigh can help provide.

San Francisco Is Chosen For Democrat Convention

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democrats decided today to hold their 1984 national convention in San Francisco, heading for Ronald Reagan's home state to pick the candidate they hope will replace the GOP incumbent in the White House.

The party's site selection committee voted 23-2 on a second ballot at its meeting today in favor of San Francisco despite a last-minute effort by Chicago mayor-elect Harold Washington to win the meeting for his city.

San Francisco fell one vote short of a majority of the 27-member committee on the first ballot but easily triumphed in a second round of voting over Chicago.

Three other cities — New York, Detroit and Washington — also bid for the July 1984 convention where the party will select its presidential and vice presidential nominees.

San Francisco had long been the favorite to host the convention, with party chairman Charles Manatt of Los Angeles anxious to bring the meeting to his home state.

But Washington, elected mayor of Chicago last week, lobbied the selection committee members at a Wednesday night congressional dinner in a last-minute effort to overcome what he admitted was a San Francisco advantage.

Washington, Detroit Mayor Coleman Young and District of Columbia Mayor Marion Barry met past midnight in a last-ditch strategy session aimed at wresting the convention from San Francisco and sending it instead to one of their hometowns.

Washington emerged from the closed-door meeting in Young's hotel suite early this morning to tell reporters he believed San Francisco could count on only 10 or 12 solid, first-ballot votes when the 27-member site selection committee met.

Young said before the committee took its vote today that picking San Francisco would "be a very serious mistake."

cal and Wilson Memorial — were surveyed and visited.

Salary ranges recommended are from $55,952 to $74,602 for the president; from $47,815 to $63,754 for the senior vice president; $40,841 to $54,455 for the chief financial officer, the vice president of nursing services, the vice president for patient services and the vice president for human resources; $35,030 to $46,706 for the vice president for facilities management and the vice president for supplementary services; and $29,218 to $38,957 for the director of computer services and the director of procurement.

The plan calls for salaries below the minimum of the designated range to be increased immediately to the minimum and for decisions about quality of performance of each executive to be made

Salary Administration Plan For Senior-Levels At Hospital Approved

By CAROL TYER
Reflector Staff Writer

A consultant-prepared salary administration plan for hospital senior-level managers was approved by the Pitt County Memorial Hospital Board of Trustees Tuesday night.

Recommendations in the report, prepared by Dr. Bernard Ingster of Consulting Services in Human Resources Management of Philadelphia, was said to have been arrived at by job evaluation — "comparing the duties and responsibilities of positions within the organization and then using the results of those analyses to set pay levels — emphasizing internal relationship among jobs, rather than market pricing — judging of what to pay based on what comparable jobs in comparable organizations pay."

However, five similar hospitals — including Durham County General, Memorial Mission, North Carolina Baptist, Wake County Medi-

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — A North Carolina native and her husband are among the 25 people still missing after a terrorist bomb exploded at the U.S. Embassy Monday.

Dr. Robert Getchell of Goldsboro, N.C., said his daughter, Monique Lewis, and her husband, James, were employed by the U.S. Foreign Service. He said the State Department told him the morgue and hospital had been checked for the couple and they may still be in the rubble of the embassy.

The State Department says the couple is now listed as missing and presumed dead.

Before she was married, Mrs. Lewis worked at ICA Americas in Wayne County. Her husband is a native of California.

Meanwhile, Anna

Massengill of Princeton found out her Marine son was alive and well when she saw a black-and-white photograph of him on television.

Marine Sgt. Jack Massengill, 21, has been stationed for nearly a year at the embassy.

"I have known something bad could happen any day, any time," Mrs. Massengill said Wednesday. "But I thought if there was any way to get out of trouble, he would find that way."

Mrs. Massengill was watching television Monday several hours after she heard initial reports of the explosion. The report included a still photograph of two men. One of them was Jack.

"Hey, there's the boy," I told everybody," she said.

U.S. Embassy spokesman John Reid told reporters that the embassy's latest casualty toll listed 24 people as confirmed dead and 25 others as missing and presumed dead.

This figure included nine Americans confirmed dead and eight missing, as well as 15 Lebanese embassy employees dead and 17 missing, Reid said. Other embassy officials said there were five to 10 Lebanese in the building applying for visas when the bomb exploded.

There still was no precise count of the dead. The explosion Monday caused massive destruction and workers were finding body parts and corpses so mangled that identification was difficult if not impossible.

N.C. Peach Crop Wiped Out By Frosty Weather

By The Associated Press

Cold weather has virtually wiped out North Carolina's peach crop for the second year in a row and farmers estimate that as much as 40 percent of the state's blueberry crop has been destroyed.

Most of the damage to the peach crop, estimated at 98 percent to 100 percent, occurred Tuesday night when temperatures plunged into the mid 20s for several hours.

Leonard Sanson of the Carolina Blueberry Association in Burgaw said Wednesday that Tuesday night's cold had hurt those crops, but said another freeze last night may have been the telling blow for some berry crops.

"If a man had a gun on me right now, I'd have to say 25-to-40 percent of the crop is destroyed," Sanson said this morning. "That's strictly a guess. The growers are skeptical, but it's too early to tell."

Sanson said one farmer recorded 24 degrees in a field between Burgaw and White Lake.

"I think some areas got a break last night, but you can't get this kind of weather and not get hurt when the crop is in this tender stage," he said.

Moore County Extension Agent Tom Colson of Carthage said the peach crop appears to be 100 percent destroyed in his area, and estimates damage at $10 million.

"We were out yesterday and looking at four or five orchards and didn't find any alive," Colson said. "There's nothing farmers can do. I guess they'll have to find something else to work on."

Clarence S. Black, superintendent of the Sandhills Agricultural Research Center, said yesterday that damage to the peach crop likely would be worse than last year, when a spring freeze caused the worst damage since 1955. This was the first time the peach crop has been ruined two consecutive years, he said.

Black said nearly every peach in the counties of Anson, Montgomery, Moore and Richmond was killed by Tuesday night's freeze.

North Carolina's peach crop, the nation's sixth largest in past years, normally produces about 45 million pounds of peaches from about 1,700 acres, the state Department of Agriculture reported.

Despite the fact that last night's temperatures didn't drop as low as the National Weather Service had predicted for some areas, there were several record cold temperatures recorded.

Asheville and Charlotte each had 30-degree readings for their fourth straight day of record low temperatures. Raleigh-Durham broke a 1956 record with 28 degrees and Wilmington snapped a 1961 mark with 32 degrees.

Teenagers Gain By Helping Younger Abused Children

By DENNIS O'SHEA
SOUTH BEND, Ind. (UPI) — Not long ago, Brenda wasn't sure she had a friend in the world. Now she is a friend — a good friend — to other kids like her, targets of physical or sexual abuse.

Brenda, 17, helps abused and battered children deal with their pain and guilt, express their fears and unleash their anguish. She helps them make the transition she says she already has made, from victim to survivor.

The federal government estimates there are 1 million cases of child abuse nationwide each year — 2,000 of them fatal.

Brenda and two friends, Sue and Ann, brought those cold statistics to life in South Bend at a recent national conference on child abuse. Only their first names were used to protect their privacy.

"When we're there with them, we almost regress to their level," Brenda said, recalling her own trauma at the hands of her stepbrothers. "You look back, and you feel back. You relate to what those kids are going through and you can help them."

"We feel it's important not to have just any teenager working with abused kids, but teenagers that have been abused themselves," Sue said.

Sue, sexually molested four years ago by an adult in her church-sponsored drug therapy group, recently finished leading nine young girls through several months of weekly therapy sessions.

Brenda and Ann, a 16-year-old molested by her brother from age 9 to 14, work together as teenage "co-facilitators" of once-a-week sessions with nine bruised and battered 5-to-8-year-olds at the Parental Stress Clinic-Parents Anonymous in Madison, Wis.

Working with professional counselors, the teenagers say they do whatever they can to win the trust of kids who are afraid to be touched, afraid to be loved.

A typical session includes exercises, a snack, activities to help kids act out through painting or acting the horrors of a home life they cannot verbalize. The sessions also include discipline that — for once in the youngsters' lives — is firm but loving.

The teenagers say reliving their past through the children who are living it now is both awful and therapeutic.

"I wouldn't remember being sexually abused when I was eight until I was with these kids," Brenda said. "Then, all of a sudden I was having flashbacks and dreams."

"When you look at kids going through the same thing you went through, you can't run away from it anymore. You have to deal with it."

Brenda's toughest assignment was a young boy — sexually abused by three different men — who had withdrawn so far he couldn't stand to be touched by anyone. He refused to take part in group sessions.

One night, Brenda said, "He smacked me real hard," touching off a 10-minute wrestling match to get him under control. The struggle unearthed old horrors for her.

"It was real hard for me when I was on top of Scott," she said, "because I've been underneath people. Was I victimizing him? Was I raping this kid in his head? Was I underneath? My mind went nuts. I was right back there."

Brenda finally got the boy under control. That was the turning point in their relationship.

"Finally, he just sat there and looked at me, and I got off him and he laid his head on my lap," she said. "The only way he trusts me is that I have physical power over him without hurting him. He knows he can relate to me, touch me without getting hurt."

Ann is looking for a chance to make the same kind of breakthrough with Rachel, a little girl so scared of her real life she sometimes creates a fantasy to replace it.

"She's having a really difficult time letting it out," Ann says. "She doesn't want to. I'm trying really hard to get her to talk about it."

"She is exactly like me, exactly. If I could help her in terms of her problem, I know it would help me. If I could think about her having the problem instead of just thinking about me, I could learn through what I say to her and put it to my own use."

Ann is encouraged by the progress they have made, and by the lessons she has taught herself.

Once, she said, she was afraid of being a future parent. Would she inflict on her own children the misery that had been dealt to her?

"I had a real fear about me with my own kids," Ann said. "Now, I think I can really handle having kids. I can tell already that it's helped."

PHYLL'S CLAM SOUP
My sister's pantry-shelf version.
2 slices bacon
1 medium onion, diced (1/4 inch)
1 tablespoon flour
1 medium potato, cubed (1/2 inch)
6 1/2-ounce can minced clams, undrained
1 cup milk
Salt and pepper to taste
Minced parsley

In a 10-inch skillet, cook bacon until crisp; drain and crumble; leave 1 tablespoon of fat in skillet. Stir in onion; cook over low heat until wilted; stir in flour. In a 2 1/2-quart saucepan, in 1 cup water, gently boil potato until soft — 20 minutes. Stir in onion, clams with their liquid, milk and salt and pepper. Bring to simmering, stirring often. Garnish with crumbled bacon and parsley. Makes 3 servings.

SWISS STEAK

No watching needed because it goes into the oven.

2 1/2- to 3-pound bone-in chuck beef steak (center cut and about 1 1/2 inches thick)
3 tablespoons flour
2 teaspoons salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1 or 2 tablespoons oil
1 large (5 ounces) onion, thinly sliced
1 large (5 ounces) green pepper, seeded and thinly sliced
1 large rib celery, thinly sliced
1-pound can tomatoes, undrained
1 teaspoon sugar

Trim most of fat from around beef; pound a mixture of the flour, salt and pepper into both surfaces. In a 4- to 5-quart Dutch oven or saute pan (with an ovenproof handle) in the hot oil, brown meat on both sides. Add onion, green pepper, celery, tomatoes and sugar; bake, tightly covered, in a preheated 300-degree oven until beef is very tender — 2 1/2 hours. Skim excess fat from sauce. Makes 4 servings.

Bring A Friend!

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

In a lot of things in life, the rich have a decided advantage.

No one will ever convince me they cannot buy happiness along with thinness, popularity and friends. And if you've looked at the price tags recently on lifts and tucks, you'll realize that the rich are the only ones who can afford another commodity that has become a status symbol: youth.

You never realize this until you're in the soufflé of your life and someone slams a door. Then you face reality. To regain what you were too young to appreciate costs big bucks.

Are there alternatives, you ask? Of course there are. Who has not been hypnotized by magazine articles telling you that you can bring the glamour and routine of an $1800-a-week health spa right into your own home by substituting cucumbers over your eyes for expensive creams and closing your eyes and flushing and pretending you have a Jacuzzi?

But I am offering you bona fide ways to combat the high cost of plastic surgery.

Silicone injections to reduce forehead furrows ($275 per injection) and forehead lifts to correct drooping eyebrows, bags and sags ($3,000). Home solution: Find new homes for your teenagers.

Cyrosurgery — the freezing to remove raised and flat brown age spots from hands ($100 for an office visit). Home solution: Connect the liver spots and tell everyone mesh gloves are coming back.

Chin lift to eliminate double chin and lift and tighten chicken-neck throat ($2,500). Home solution: Wear a turtleneck sweater even during the summer and start a novel. No one questions the behavior of anyone who wears a turtleneck sweater in the summer.

Chemical peeling to erase laugh lines around eyes and mouth ($500). Home solution: Buy an untrained puppy. You will never laugh again.

Saline solution injections to erase varicose veins ($35 a shot). Home solution: Outline veins with Magic Marker and palm them off as textured stockings.

Breast lift surgery ($4,500). Home solution: Controlled slouching until shoulders and head keep pace with falling body.

And remember, money can't buy everything. Only the things that count.

Dear Abby

Hothead Gets Cool Reception

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1983 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: "Judy," our 19-year-old daughter, has been going with "Vern" for two years. She's always shown excellent judgment and is an honor student. Vern, 23, comes from a good family and has always been a perfect gentleman in our presence. Last Christmas Vern came bearing gifts for the whole family, and appeared to be serious about Judy.

About a month ago Judy stopped seeing Vern for two weeks, and she told her mother that she was hurt and angry because Vern had slapped her on several occasions!

Now Vern is back, but I no longer feel friendly toward him. In fact I told Judy that if she wanted to see him it will have to be elsewhere, because he was no longer welcome in this house.

Was I correct in doing this?

WORRIED FATHER

DEAR FATHER: No. Barring Vern from your home will probably alienate Judy and drive her closer to him. Tell Judy that a man who would "slap a woman on several occasions" has serious problems controlling his temper, so if she's considering a long-term relationship with him she should be aware that a "few slaps" almost always escalate to more violent behavior until the slapping becomes a "beating." And if Judy's judgment is as good as you say it is, she will get the message.

DEAR ABBY: I'm having a problem in my marriage I can't seem to handle. I slept around a lot while I was in college. Most of the girls I knew did. It was no big deal. My husband knew it before we were married, and at the time he said it didn't make any difference as long as I was exclusively his after we got married.

I have been 100 percent faithful to my husband, but now every time we have a disagreement, he calls me a "slut" and accuses me of sleeping with every man in town. I know I'm not the only girl my husband ever slept with, but as long as he's true to me now, that's all that matters.

We really love each other, and our marriage would be nearly perfect if it weren't for his bringing up my past.

Abby, why are men less forgiving than women when it comes to the past? What should I do?

MISSISSIPPI MRS.

DEAR MRS.: All men aren't less forgiving than all women. Your husband's inability to let go of the past is his problem. Don't make it yours by reacting with hurt and anger. If he really loves you and values your marriage, he will get some counseling and learn how to permanently bury all the garbage he has stored in his memory.

Getting married? Whether you want a formal church wedding or a simple, "do-your-own-thing" ceremony, get Abby's new booklet. Send $1 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped (37 cents) envelope to: Abby's Wedding Booklet, P.O. Box 38923, Hollywood, Calif. 90038.

After The Fact

The question of whether a private psychiatric hospital should be constructed here has been carefully studied by the Eastern Carolina Health Systems Agency and that body has recommended against the proposal.

A Pitt-Greenville Chamber of Commerce task force was badly split on making any recommendation. Consequently, one has to wonder why the chamber board of directors voted 11 to 7 in favor of supporting the private hospital plan.

The chamber board's action was taken Tuesday night even after the group had heard from Dr. Joh Tinglestad that Pitt County Memorial Hospital has the capacity to provide for psychiatric bed needs.

The chamber board has acted virtually after the fact on this issue. Certainly the board would have done the chamber and the community a better service if it had simply let the entire matter drop.

Another Test

Our community can heave a collective sigh of relief that there were not more serious injuries in the school bus accident which involved 65 students at Third and Memorial Drive Monday.

The bus overturned as it was making the turn and sent students and school books tumbling in the bus. The driver was charged with careless and reckless driving and it will be up to the courts to determine the facts of the case.

The accident, however, involved large numbers of students and all of them had to be transported to Pitt County Memorial Hospital for treatment or admission. Fortunately only five had serious enough injuries to require hospitalization.

For the second time in two months the rescue capability of the Greenville Fire-Rescue Department was tested. And again the ability of the emergency department at Pitt County Memorial Hospital to handle large numbers of injured people was taxed.

Both were up to handling the emergency. Fire-Rescue Chief Jenness Allen said 13 on-duty employees responded along with four off-duty men. Winterville Rescue Squad dispatched one rescue vehicle to the scene. Director of Emergency Services at Pitt County Memorial Hospital Jack Allison said first shift personnel stayed on duty and assisted second shift personnel in handling the large number of cases.

Once again the rescue-fire units and the PCMH emergency services have been tested by what could have been a disaster. The personnel performed well and gained valuable experience that would be impossible to obtain through practice sessions.

Legal Costs Rise

RALEIGH — Over the past decade, the state has seen the cost of providing legal counsel for indigent defendants increase fivefold. During the same period, the governor has seen the legislative appropriation for that program run out of money on several occasions and it's been his responsibility to find money elsewhere to keep the program going.

This year, the state's $6.4 million appropriation for indigent defendants ran out in March. With all surplus monies being plowed back into the budget to cover the tax collection shortfall this year, there is no money to keep that fund going. The mess has finally come home to roost.

Legislators familiar with the state's indigent defense fund say it's time to put things in order. One bill that aims to help reduce state costs has already passed. Another, which would make major changes in the program, is bouncing back and forth between the House and Senate as lawyer-legislators try to get it just the way they want it.

In 1971-72, the state paid $1.6 million for indigent defense. In 1981-82, that figure was up to $8.2 million. The problem doesn't rest with accelerating lawyers' fees. On average, lawyers are getting only 15 percent more for a case today than they did back in 1971. Rather, the problem lies with the growth in the number of cases being handled. In the first year of the program, 11,000 defendants were served. Last year, 45,000. The caseload grew by an average of 20 percent a year from 1978 until last year. This year, by about 10 percent.

Sen. Cecil Jenkins, D-Cabarrus, sponsored a bill that should help in a small way. When an indigent is able to pay his fees, the new law will allow him to make that payment directly to the lawyer. The indigent fund won't get involved in these cases. But, the impact of this is expected to be small because not many indigents are able to pay their legal fees.

A bill put forth by the Courts Commission would establish a specific rotating fund for indigent defense. All money for indigent expense would be paid out of this fund. Whenever an indigent raised the money to pay back the state, as is sometimes ordered as a condition of parole or work release, that money would go into the fund.

Under this bill, judges would have to consider how much money is in the fund when they set a lawyer's fee. Now, they only consider the amount of work the lawyer performed. This is considered a way of capping legal fees and protecting the indigent defense fund from being drained.

Although the bill is moving through lawyer-dominated committees, lawyers don't like it. First of all, as Rep. Austin Allran, R-Catawba, said, "If we do this, we're cutting back on the fees of lawyers and that necessarily will cause the quality of service to poor people to go down."

One lawyer privately described the bill as "a constitutional time bomb" for the reason Allran mentioned. The U.S. Supreme Court ordered that these defendants be given counsel. The court will not be happy with a cheap defense program.

Lawyers also complain that the bill attacks the wrong problem. Lawyer's fees haven't been going up that quickly. Rather, the shortage comes from the growth of cases and this bill can't fix that.

Rep. Joe Hackney, D-Orange, said the bill will only hasten the movement to more public defender offices in the state. Rep. Bobby Etheridge, D-Harnett, said it is hoped that the bill will make the Appropriations committees face the recurring problem and properly finance indigent defense.

GREENVILLE, S.C. — This was the topic for the evening's lecture at Furman University: "A Southerner Looks at the South." It seemed an easy assignment. I am a Southerner, born, bred and brought up in the South, and my credentials are all in order. On examination, the topic proved tougher than it looked.

We speak casually of "the" South, but "the" South is little more than a statistical device. We can define the South geographically. We can view it historically in the context of the War of Southern Independence. We can think of it politically and racially, and we can talk of the South as a state of mind.

But the self-evident truth is that the South is composed of many Souths. Historically there always were at least two Souths — the South of the black people and the South of the white people. For generations they lived at once together and apart. The rural South of Georgia and Tennessee, culturally speaking, is removed by light-years from the urban South of Houston and Atlanta. These days it's not easy to generalize about the South.

—James Kilpatrick—

South Has Several Faces

Fifty, 60 or 100 years ago the task of self-examination would have been easier. We had many common denominators then. The South of the Confederacy could claim one sad distinction: Ours was the only region of the United States to have known that most un-American of experiences. We had known defeat. Moreover, we had known defeat in a shameful and inglorious cause. Stripped of romanticism, the war that was launched at Fort Sumter was a war to preserve that most odious of institutions, human slavery; and that bitter indigestible truth lay in the belly of the South like a stone.

The sacrifices of that war and the hardships of Reconstruction contributed mightily to an economic and social entity that truly defined "the" South. There were other things. Except for a few defections to Hoover in 1928, we were the one-party South. We were overwhelmingly rural; ours was the cotton, tobacco and sugar cane South. We were the poorest of regions. Slavery had ended, but for 90 years after Appomattox our public institutions were governed by the laws of racial segregation.

Little remains of the old ties that bound. Mississippi and North Carolina still are statistically rural, but the rest of the South has gone urban. The one-party South fell apart in 1948. Owing largely to the Voting Rights Act of 1965, the black vote that once was ignored is now assiduously wooed. In a few quarters, memories of the Confederacy still are lovingly cherished, but the flags fade. When we speak of "Yankees," we speak of the baseball team.

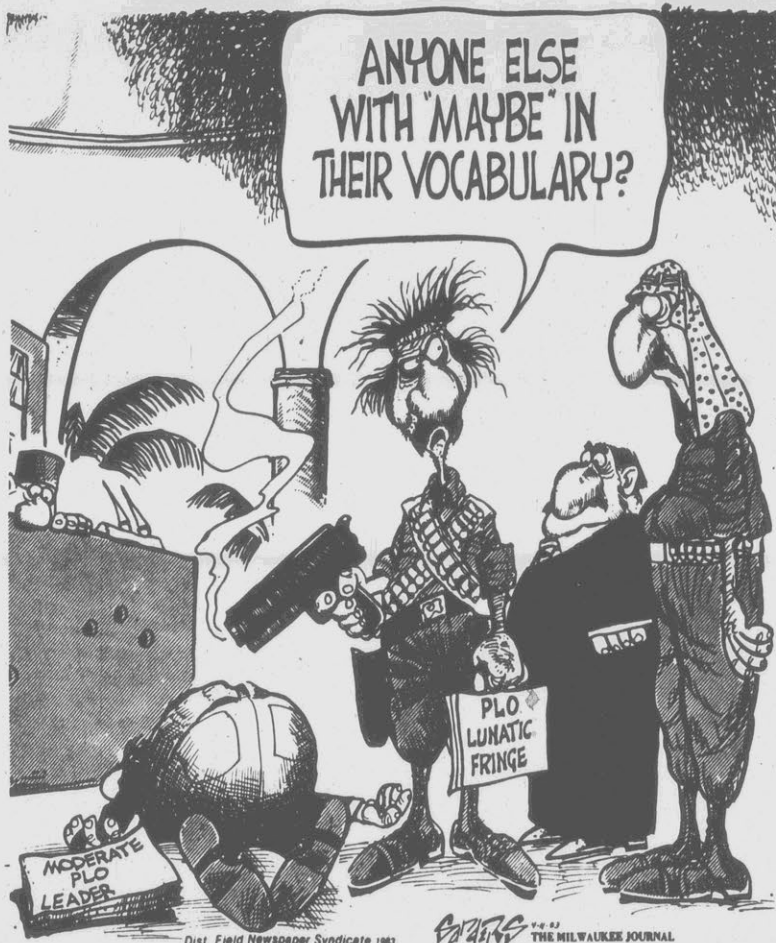

Yet some of the old state of mind is still here. As Southerners, we still tend to bevel the hard edges of reality. The Spanish moss of South Carolina provides a metaphor. The moss obscures, softens and conceals. The gift (if it is a gift) of self-illusion, which once enabled us to see segregation through the songs of Stephen Foster, is still engrained in the Southern character.

Statistically speaking, we are still the poorest, the least educated and the most religious of all regions. The homogenizing processes of the 20th century have brought us the same six-pack suburbs and the same glassy towers that one finds in Cleveland or Phoenix, but Southern accents persist and Southern menus still offer to the old dishes. Segregation by law has ended; the races still live at once together and apart.

It is pleasant to believe that the old Southern graces remain, and it may be so. Manners still count. For the most part our politicians speak the parliamentary speech. We talk longer on the telephone than others do. The pace of life is slower here. Even in the poorest neighborhoods, we plant gardens of flowers to soften the clapboard walls. For good or ill, we maintain a 19th-century view of the role of women. Ten of the 15 states that rejected the Equal Rights Amendment were Southern states. I have lived 62 years in the South and have seen tremendous change. There still is at least "a" South, but we're pretty much back in the Union now.

White House Truce Is Severed

WASHINGTON — Ronald Reagan understood the implication when presidential counselor Edwin Meese told him last week that Leslie Stahl's April 8 criticism on The CBS Evening News of national security adviser William P. Clark was "the most vicious personal attack on anyone" so far in the Reagan administration.

The implication: Stahl was reporting the views of chief of staff James Baker or his aides when she said that Clark's "critics" blamed him for defeat of the president's bill and for the emergence of Reagan as a "warmonger." A page-one Washington Post story April 9, attributed to White House officials, gave Clark similar treatment; he was pushing Reagan onto a "militant course" in international affairs.

That signaled the end of a three-month truce in the relentless quest for power at the White House. This time Baker's "pragmatists" have targeted Clark after failing to bring down Meese. But much more is involved than ambitious men fighting for the president's mind. The renewal of incivility in the West Wing is linked to the body blows Congress has inflicted on Reagan's budget and defense policies.

Well into the second half of the first Reagan term, decision-making machinery at the White House tends to break down whenever subjected to abnormal strain. It broke down at the beginning of April as a result of Reagan's humiliating defeat when the Republican-controlled Senate Budget Committee cut in half his request for a 10 percent increase in defense spending.

Baker's pragmatists pinned the blame for that defeat on Clark for supporting Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger's insistence that it was too early in the battle to give the Budget Committee the reduced 7 percent compromise it might have accepted. Clark, in conversation with White House intimates, ridicules that charge against him as a cover-up for foul play in the White House.

Specifically, Weinberger aides charge that the West Wing pragmatists, worried about deficits piling up over the next five years, wanted to limit the defense buildup to as close to 5 percent as possible. Therefore, say accusers, they secretly plotted to block any compromise with the Senate committee.

That accusation borders on a charge of sabotage and was flatly denied to us by Baker. Nevertheless, during tense hours in the afternoon of April 7 leading up to the Senate committee vote, if there was any White House lobbying of Republican senators attempting to woo them to the president's position or the stiff compromise Weinberger was prepared to accept, not one member of the Budget Committee can recall it today. "There was only one team on the field," commented one Senate Republican. Significantly, lobbying Congress is a function of Baker's West Wing, not Clark's White House basement.

Whatever the truth of the sabotage charges, there is no doubt that the machinery of government was immobilized at a critical point in the unfolding of Reagan's national security policies. The reflexive attack on Clark that followed over CBS and in the Washington Post, blaming him and Weinberger for the defeat, was an effort to explain away the humiliating breakdown — and to weaken Clark.

But Clark is a more formidable foe than Meese, who has played a secondary policy role while surviving a palace putsch this past winter by deputy chief of staff Michael K. Deaver and his ally Baker. On national security, Clark has become Reagan's closest, most confidential aide. He and Weinberger precisely reflect the president's innermost convictions on what is needed for American survival.

Meese's private remark to Reagan about Stahl's commentary signaled quiet-spoken, amiable Judge Clark's refusal to take attacks on him lying down. "If he hasn't gone to the president doesn't stop the anti-Clark campaign, he'll quit," one senior White House aide told us. Other Reagan insiders believe that if anyone "quits" it is more likely to be Baker than Clark.

No matter how it turns out, renewal of civil war in the West Wing is tragic evidence that the president is being ill-served. Instead of agreement on a common strategy to put into effect the policies to which Ronald Reagan is undeniably committed, the battle of leaks roars on amid deep mutual suspicion.

Meese's visit to the Oval Office might be expected to induce the president to put an end to it once and for all, but that would be contrary to all the evidence of the last 27 months.

Strength For Today

The philosopher Immanuel Kant once admonished his readers to live in such a way that "if everyone lived your way the world would be perfect."

When people live the best way they know how, they do indeed set an example which, to a greater or lesser extent, pushes the world a bit farther toward completion and perfection.

Our first responsibility is not to change the world but to change ourselves. If we do that, we will have our hands full and we will have made a genuine contribution to human improvement.

Without changing ourselves for the better, our ability to bring about this change in the world is very limited indeed. "So live that if everybody lived your way the world would be perfect."

If we attain three-score years and 10, we live about 25,000 days, 40 percent of which is spent in sleep. This is little enough time to fulfill God's eternal purposes in our soul.

—Michael Putzel—

Getting The President's Eye

of his aides, James Coyne, who with a few telephone calls managed to fulfill the Peace Corps worker's request.

It was reminiscent of another case early in the administration in which Reagan learned through a letter that a 3½-year-old girl in Iowa was living in a hospital because Medicaid rules would not permit the government to pay her $1,000-a-month medical bills if her family cared for her at home.

Reagan blamed the bureaucracy for unreasonable and inhumane treatment of the little girl, and Katie Beckett, who hadn't been home since viral encephalitis left her brain damaged and paralyzed at age 4 months, went home to her family in Cedar Rapids. Under a special waiver of federal regulations, Medicaid rented a respirator and other equipment for her to use at home.

Perhaps the most widely publicized presidential intervention in a personal case came two weeks ago in Pittsburgh when Reagan was touring a computer training facility and offering encouragement to 140 trainees, most of them laid-off steelworkers from mills in the surrounding area.

As the president finished his remarks and started out of the room, one of the jobless steelworkers, Ron Bricker, thrust his resume into Reagan's hand and asked for help finding work.

The president, saying Bricker was just the sort of person who deserved help, got him an interview. And a week later Bricker landed a job repairing computers for Radio Shack.

Bricker noted that he was only one of thousands — the United Steelworkers Union estimates 34,000 in the Pittsburgh area alone — who have lost their jobs in the mills and are looking for work. Indeed, Reagan spoke to about 140 in the same room with Bricker.

But the others failed to catch the president's eye.

And when a group called the Tri-State Conference on Steel launched a campaign to send resumes to Reagan, the White House hardly noticed.

White House spokesman Larry Speakes acknowledged that resumes had begun to flow into the mailroom and pledged to "do whatever we can."

But that's not the way to get Reagan's attention.

Party Time

Today the Democratic Party is scheduled to announce its choice for the site of its 1984 convention where it will nominate the party's choice for the presidential race. William F. McLaughlin of the Detroit Convention Bureau hopes his city will get the nod. But San Francisco, New York, Chicago, and Washington, D.C. are also in the running. Washington has never hosted a convention for either party. Chicago has been the site of 24 Democratic and Republican national conventions—more than any other city. In fact, 10 U.S. Presidents first won their parties' nominations at Chicago conventions. But San Francisco, New York, and Detroit have also picked winners—Eisenhower, Carter, and Reagan.

Issue Recall Order For Baby Shampoo

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Pennsylvania company is recalling 234,000 bottles of baby shampoo because of bacterial contamination that can infect scratched or cut skin and eyes, the Food and Drug Administration says.

The shampoo was packaged by Pennex Products Company Inc. of Verona, Pa. It is sold under more than two dozen house brands.

Consumers with bottles of the shampoo should return them to the place of purchase for a refund, the FDA said.

Pennex began the recall after FDA tests showed the bacteria in one isolated lot. But further tests by the company and by FDA showed the problem to be more widespread and led to the broad recall.

The company has stopped using equipment which it believes is the source of the contamination.

Pennex distributed the product nationally as Soothex and Mara Lynne brands or with a generic label saying simply "Baby Shampoo."

The product also is sold as the Treasury brand baby shampoo by the Treasury Drug Division of J.C. Penney Co., New York, N.Y., and as the Army and Air Force Exchange Service's AAFES Baby Shampoo.

In the South, the baby shampoo was sold as Kerr brand by Kerr Discount Drug Stores of Raleigh, N.C.; Our Brand by SAS Products of Jacksonville, Fla.; Rose's by Rose's Stores of Henderson, N.C.; and Shopper's Drug Mart of Shopper's Drug Mart Inc., Boca Raton, Fla.

The lot numbers under recall carry these codes: A13F, A17F, A28F, D20E2, F14E, F16E, G13E, G14E, G14E1, G22E, G29E, H12E, H13E, H16E, H18E, H19E, H24E, H24E1, I1E, J4E, J5E1, J5E2, J6E, J6E1, J8E, J8E1, J12E, J20E, J20E1, J21E, J22E, J25E, J25E1, K22E, K30E, L1E, L3E, L6E, L6E1, L7E, L13E, L20E.

Downplay Effects Of Food Stamp Cutback

By BOB FICK
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan's plan to cut what he calls $1 billion in "waste and corruption" from the food stamp program next year will reduce benefits for those who need them — but not nearly as much as congressional analysts predict, administration officials say.

"There are going to be people who gain and people who lose," says Robert Leard, head of the Agriculture Department's Food and Nutrition Service. "We hope the majority of the people who gain are at the bottom of the scale and those who lose are near the top."

The Congressional Budget Office said last week its analysis shows the reductions would cut straight through all program recipients with nearly two-thirds of the eight million food stamp households suffering benefit cuts that account for nearly half the overall savings.

Deputy Assistant Agriculture Secretary John Bode says the reduction in benefits under Reagan's 1984 food stamp proposal will account for only a small percentage of the overall savings envisioned by the president.

But Bode told the House

Agriculture nutrition subcommittee on Wednesday that a reduction in some food stamp benefits is the price that must be paid to eliminate costly misexpenditures in the multibillion-dollar nutrition program.

"We've seen an increased need for nutrition assistance today," Bode said, but added, "We (in the administration) are willing to accept some benefit reductions as a result of standardizing benefit deductions and simplifying the program."

Bode said the discrepancy between administration and congressional estimates of the plan's impact comes mainly from CBO's use of outdated economic assumptions that overstate anticipated food price inflation.

But under stern questioning from both Republican and Democratic members of the panel, he acknowledged that even by administration projections benefit cuts in 1985 as a result of Reagan's plan will be nearly four times greater than in 1984.

About 22 million people receive aid under the food stamp program, which is costing the government about $12 billion this year.

Since Reagan took office, he has won more than $3 billion in food stamp reductions, and he wants to cut another $1 billion next year by changing the way benefits are calculated.

His proposal would include standardizing various deductions used in the formula for determining who gets stamps and shifting much of the financial responsibility for erroneously issued food stamps to the states.

"If we (in Congress) would have done the same thing with other programs like Social Security none of us would probably be in this room," said Rep. James Jeffords, R-Vt. "There would have been an open rebellion. The problem is the poor are not a very strong group" in influencing Congress.

As to the actual impact of Reagan's plan on food stamp benefits, Bode, like Agriculture Secretary John Block, stood by the administration's long-standing claim that nearly 80 percent of the billion dollars to be slashed from 1984 food stamp costs will come from reductions in error and waste. He said net losses in benefits will total only about $100 million.

The CBO analysis, on the other hand, said only 3 percent of the savings could be attributed to curbing error and waste. It put the net loss in benefits at $490 million.

Plan Cutback In Car Tests

WASHINGTON (AP) — Japan plans to reduce the elaborate testing of cars coming into that country — from three out of each shipment to one, the Treasury official in charge of U.S. Customs says.

"Our cars are accepted here and they're accepted in the rest of the world," said John M. Walker Jr., assistant secretary for enforcement and operations. "They ought to be acceptable in Japan."

Walker spent last week in Japan seeing officials in an attempt to get customs rules for cars liberalized. The change from three samples to one is to be made under a bill the Japanese government is planning to submit to the Diet before it adjourns next month, he said.

Askew Has Big Campaign Chest

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Gov. Reubin Askew of Florida has more than half a million dollars in the bank for his presidential campaign, according to financial disclosure reports filed at the Federal Election Commission.

Although regarded as one of the darkest horses in the race for the 1984 Democratic presidential nomination, Askew reported that he had raised $799,047 since Jan. 1, and has $524,095 in the bank.

In 1985, Bode said, about 46 percent of the overall net savings under the president's plan would come by reducing benefits. Although the administration did not provide a dollar figure, subcommittee officials placed the impact at between $400 million and $500 million. The bulk of that would come from a six-month delay in adjusting food stamp benefits to offset rising food prices.

Even though Bode said the administration's plan is intended to preserve benefits for eligible households, striking more at those prone to high error rates, he admitted that in the case of elderly households, which have low error rates, 33 percent — or about 750,000 households — would sustain cuts next year.

CBO put the number of elderly households suffering benefit reductions at more than 1 million, about 44 percent.

"Surely, this is the wrong time and the wrong program to seek short-term savings at an unacceptable cost of aggravating hunger in this nation," said Rep. Leon Panetta, D-Calif., subcommittee chairman.

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, APR. 22, 1983

YOUR DAILY Horoscope

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: This could be a day of arguments and much tensions coming into the open unless you make a point to maintain self-control. The poise you display can impress others.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Ask questions of an associate and then you will know better what is expected of you. A private matter can be resolved now.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Make certain you know the motive behind a favor a friend wants to bestow upon you. A social affair could be costly.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Carry through with what a higher-up expects of you instead of being obstinate. Safeguard your reputation tonight.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Be sure to handle important business matters before engaging in social activities. Show that you have wisdom.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Keep friends and advisers apart today and avoid trouble. You have latent talents that should be put to work.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Contact higher-ups and gain the support you need. Show kindness with one who offends instead of becoming vengeful.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) It's important that you carry through with regular routines today instead of going on a foolish fun spree.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Don't jeopardize your security by spending lavishly for entertainment. Save your money instead and invest it wisely.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Don't join an argument between a family tie and a friend at this time. Streamline your social activities.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Although you may be provoked, don't argue with a co-worker who happens to be out of sorts at this time.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Find a more practical system for operating in the days ahead. Listen to what a successful friend has to suggest.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Try to get at the bottom of an unpleasant situation at home and establish more harmony. Strive for increased happiness.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will be inclined to get in arguments and with little accomplished, so teach to get at underlying causes of trouble. Make sure your progeny develops the right philosophy of life. Don't neglect ethical training.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

Baby Requires A Second Liver Transplant; Outlook Is Grave

By JERRY GRAY
Associated Press Writer
MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Thirteen-month-old Brandon Hall was fighting for life today as doctors issued a nationwide appeal for a donor liver to replace the transplanted organ he received last week, not functioning now because of a clogged artery.

Officials said Brandon was in critical condition, his outlook "more desperate" than before the first transplant, which was performed April 13 hours after Brandon's mother appealed to a congressional committee for federal aid to transplant patients.

"The blood supply to his liver no longer exists," Dr. James Williams of the University of Tennessee Center for the Health Sciences told reporters at a news conference. "We noticed about 36 hours ago that he was showing signs of liver deterioration. He was turning yellow, jaundice.

"The only treatment for this is to get him a new liver, and we have initiated an all-out call for another pediatric liver."

"If we find a liver, maybe we can save his life," said Brandon's mother, Willie Hall, on ABC News' "Nightline" Wednesday. "If we can't find one within the next couple of days, Brandon will die."

Mrs. Hall and Dr. Peter Whittington, the boy's pediatrician, also attended the news conference Wednesday at LeBonheur Children's Medical Center.

"He's fighting," Mrs. Hall, of Walnut, Miss., said. "He's been fighting for 13 months or he wouldn't be alive now."

Mrs. Hall, 38, unemployed and separated from her husband, was accompanied by Brandon when she testified before a House science and technology subcommittee studying the plight of transplant patients.

A 6-year-old Indianapolis boy, Jerry Harrison Jr., also is at LeBonheur awaiting a liver transplant at the nearby University of Tennessee's William F. Bowld Hospital.

Both children were born without bile ducts, making their livers unable to filter poisons from their bodies.

Doctors had said this week that the critically ill Harrison child was first on a national liver donor priority list. The boy needs a liver from a donor weighing between 20 and 30 pounds.

Doctors have said that the Harrison child has only a few weeks to live without a transplant.

But Whittington, Brandon's pediatrician, said his patient's condition was more urgent and if a liver was found that was compatible to both boys, Brandon would get it.

"The real problem is we have no effective therapy for absolute liver failure," Whittington said. "If that happens, we're in a really desperate situation."

In the first search for a donor, doctors sought an organ from a child weighing 10 to 20 pounds; the liver used came from a 9-month-old Virginia girl. Williams said the second donor could weigh 10 to 25 pounds.

"We're in a more desperate situation and we'll be less selective about the size of the donor," he said.

Williams headed the three-man surgical team that performed Brandon's 12-hour operation on April 13-14.

He said fresh blood was being pumped into the boy's body to replace blood carrying impurities normally cleaned by the liver.

"No one knows for sure how long the liver will remain in good enough condition to sustain life," Williams said. "It could be a couple of days, several days, no one can say."

Before the transplant, doctors said Brandon would die within days without surgery. Williams said Wednesday the boy was "sicker than he was before we started."

"But his condition is not so bad that it would preclude another operation. A second operation would be simpler and shorter," he said.

Greeting Is 47 Years Late

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — Chester Kloska was surprised last week to receive a post card from his brother Harry's Bermuda vacation. Harry's trip, which he won in a sales contest, was in 1936.

"It's a very bizarre story, and it's difficult to figure where the stall came," said Darrow Andrews, a spokesman for the U.S. Postal Service in Chicago. The card had an April 11, 1983, Chicago post mark, but it was missing its stamp.

Andrews said the card could have been stuck in a machine or in the bottom of a mail sack.

"Sometimes when you deal with mail outside the continental U.S. you have delays," he said.

The card was addressed to Chester, who now is 71, at the Grand Rapids grocery store where he and Harry worked 47 years ago. Local postal officials found him with the aid of Frank and Norbert Kloska, two of his nephews who work at the post office.

Harry Kloska, 74, said the delayed delivery spurred him and his brother to reminisce about "the good old days."

Libyan Arms Cargo Rooted In Brazil?

By BRUCE HANDLER
Associated Press Writer
RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) — The weapons bound for Nicaragua on four Libyan planes seized by Brazilian authorities may have been manufactured in Brazil, a leading Rio newspaper reported today.

The Jornal do Brasil also quoted the navy minister, Adm. Maximiano da Fonseca, as saying, "I don't know what the cargo is, but (Libyan leader Col. Moammar) Khadafy has sold our arms to many countries."

Khadafy said Wednesday in Tripoli that the four planes were loaded with weapons for the leftist Sandinista regime in Nicaragua, adding he regretted any problems caused to Brazil.

In a statement reported by the official Libyan news agency JANA, Khadafy expressed regret for the incident and blamed the "insincerity" of an unnamed Libyan civil aviation official "who failed to inform the friendly Brazilian authorities of the entire contents of the cargo."

A Brazilian Foreign Ministry source said that when requesting permission on April 12 to make a future "technical stopover" in northern Brazil, Libya claimed the four aircraft carried "ambulances, hospital equipment and medical supplies."

Brazilian President Joao Figueiredo's press spokesman Carlos Atila said authorities will examine the cargo on Friday and "if any war material is found, it will be impounded." He said Libya would be asked to send a representative to the inspection.

Atila said the planes would be allowed to leave Brazil after the examination, which was delayed until Friday because today is a national holiday. It honors a revolutionary hero who unsuccessfully tried to overthrow Portuguese colonial rule and was hanged in 1792.

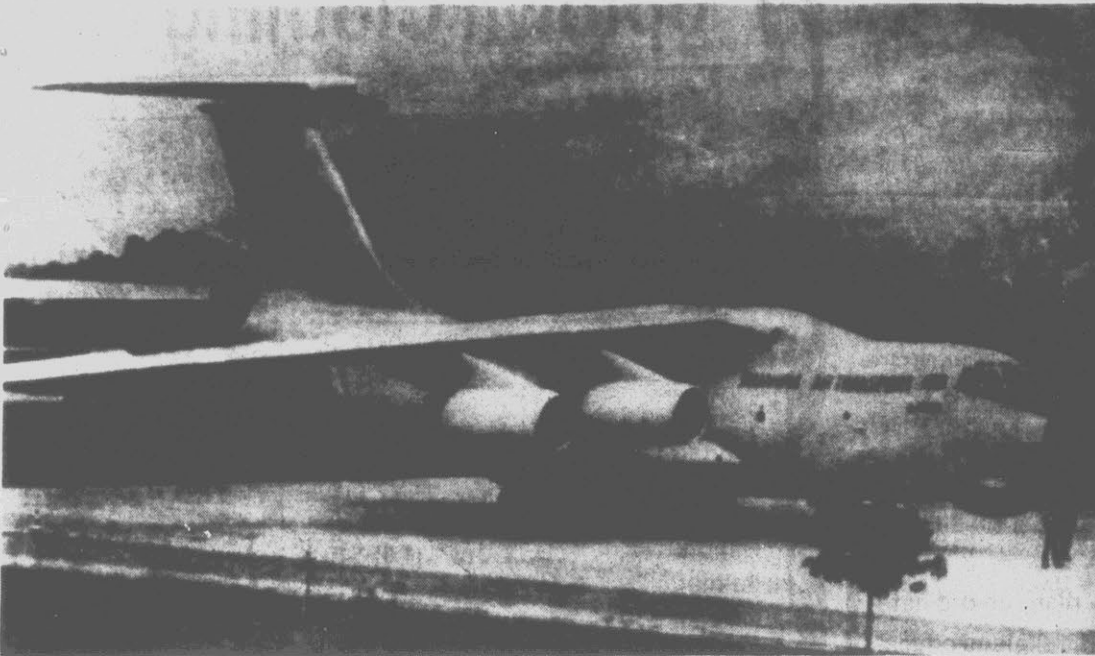

In Washington, the State Department said the arms discovered aboard the planes offer new proof of Libya's "deep involvement" with the Sandinista government.

"This report of clandestine arms shipments is yet another indication of Libyan support for the Sandinistas' arms buildup and their destabilization activities against their neighbors in Central America," the department's statement said.

Nicaragua is trying to put down insurgents who are believed to be receiving U.S. arms and other American support. The Reagan administration has accused the Sandinistas of supplying arms to leftist guerrillas in El Salvador.

The Jornal do Brasil, citing a military source who requested anonymity, said the weapons aboard the planes might have come from Brazil in the first place. There was speculation the government was trying to avoid a diplomatic incident so as not to interfere with its weapons sales, which are helping to pay off a $90 billion foreign debt.

Brazil, while avoiding political alliances with radical

GROUNDING — A Soviet-built Ilyushin cargo plane of Libya's Jamahiria Air Transport sits grounded under guard in northern Brazil on Third World governments, is the biggest arms supplier to developing countries. Weapons sales from private and government manufacturers normally are not disclosed, but the business is thought to total $1 billion annually and likely to reach $2 billion this year.

The privately owned AJB news agency said Wednesday suspicion they were ferrying arms to Nicaragua. The arms were unloaded and inspected by Brazilian officials. (AP Laserphoto)

a diplomatic incident could wreck negotiations between the Brazilian government-controlled airplane company Embraer and Libya for the sale of 150 Tucano trainers.

The single-engine turboprops, which can be converted to tactical use, so far have been approved for sale only to the Brazilian air force. Embraer told The Associated Press last year foreign countries were interested in the Tucano but wouldn't say which ones.

Libya also supplies oil to Brazil. The sales volume in 1982 was roughly 4 percent of this country's total purchases of crude.

Three of the Libyan transports — Soviet-made Ilyushin jets — were in the Amazon jungle city of Manaus. The fourth — a U.S.-built C-130 Hercules turboprop — was in Recife on the northeast Atlantic coast.

The Foreign Ministry said the government authorized the requested stopover, and the transports arrived last weekend in Recife.

Atila said the air force commander in Manaus, the Libyans' second and final stop, detained the Ilyushins when a Libyan pilot said, upon being questioned, that he was carrying arms and explosives, not medical supplies — as Libya had declared when it asked for landing permission.

The C-130, which stayed behind in Recife with mechanical problems, was ordered held there.

The Foreign Ministry charged Tuesday that Libya "abused Brazil's good faith" by misrepresenting the cargo.

Khadafy's statement said he had no intention of trying to hide the nature of the cargo: "Libya does not hide its responsibility, before the world, for strongly standing by the people of Nicaragua. This is a just, and even sacred, cause. Libya will continue to back the Nicaraguan people and all the peoples struggling for freedom, peace and progress."

Some Changes For Itinerary

The previously published itinerary of the visiting ambassadors from Canada has been modified.

Claire Pittman, publicity coordinator for the Greenville Friendship Exchange program, notes that originally two Canadian groups were scheduled to visit eastern North Carolina for a two-week stay, with one group coming to Greenville and the other to Wilson. Under the new schedule, only one group will make the trip and will divide its time between the two cities — with the first week to be spent in Greenville, the second week in Wilson.

The modified itinerary is:

- Saturday — arrival scheduled in late afternoon.
- Sunday — Welcome at Fleming House by Mayor Cox at 5:30 p.m., with lemonade on the lawn at 6 p.m.
- Monday — Coffee at the ECU Alumni House at 10:30 a.m., a walking tour of the campus at 11 a.m., and tentatively scheduled is a tour of Burroughs Wellcome at 1:30 p.m.
- Tuesday — A GREAT bus tour of Greenville during the day, and tentatively, a tour of the Greenville Museum of Art from 7 to 9 p.m.
- Wednesday — A trip to Raleigh, leaving Greenville at 8 a.m. and returning at 6 p.m., and at 8 p.m., attendance at the Carolina Opry House.
- Thursday — A hospital tour at 10 a.m., and at 2 p.m., a tour of the ECU Medical School.
- Friday — A tour of Eastern Carolina Vocational Center at 11 a.m., followed by lunch and a swim at the center's pool; and at 5:30 p.m., a tour of Worthington Farms with a farewell pig pickin' at 6 p.m.
- Saturday — Ambassadors depart for Wilson.

GOING TO MOSCOW

BONN, West Germany (AP) — West German Chancellor Helmut Kohl will fly to Moscow in July for talks with Communist Party leader Yuri Andropov, a government spokesman says.

Fewer Jobs Are Offered Seniors

WASHINGTON (AP) — Employers are making only half as many job offers to college seniors as they did last year and some starting salaries are down, the College Placement Council says.

The council, based in Bethlehem, Pa., said Wednesday that petroleum engineering graduates still command the top dollar of any group leaving college with a bachelor's degree: $31,044. Next were chemical engineering graduates, who are getting offers averaging $27,336.

The council draws its figures from data supplied by 185 placement offices at 100 colleges and universities.

HICCUPS

NEW YORK (AP) — Want a cure for the hiccups? Try a teaspoon of sugar. Recent studies indicate that swallowing a teaspoon of ordinary granulated white sugar can stop an attack of hiccups in minutes. Although they aren't sure how it works, researchers found the treatment to be effective in 95 percent of test subjects, according to a book about everyday problems.

Death Penalty Review In Armed Forces

By JIM DRINKARD
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The military death penalty is under review of the military's highest court for the first time since the Supreme Court struck down similar statutes in many states more than a decade ago.

The Court of Military Appeals heard arguments Wednesday in what is considered a pivotal case: whether Army Pvt. Wyatt L. Matthews should be executed for stabbing to death Phyllis Villanueva, a 29-year-old warrant officer's wife, four years ago in West Germany.

Matthews, 25, of Chester, Pa., is one of seven people now on the military death row at the U.S. Disciplinary Barracks at Fort Leavenworth, Kan. His is the first capital case to reach the highest level in the military appeals process.

Most states have rewritten their capital punishment laws to comply with a 1972 Supreme Court order requiring that sentencing authorities be given specific guidelines on when the death penalty is warranted. Military law still says the defendant is to be punished "as the court martial shall direct."

Matthews' military attorney, Capt. John Lukjanowicz, called it "an easy case" for the court. "The government wants this honorable court to allow the military to impose the death penalty on an arbitrary and capricious basis, but they can't say why," he argued during the 3½-hour hearing.

Matthews' attorneys said he had been denied a fair trial because the trial judge gave "cursory" instructions to the eight-member jury that offered no clear guidance on whether the death penalty was legally warranted.

Arguing the government's case, Capt. Michael Pfau said the military justice system has even more safeguards than its civilian counterpart, including several layers of appeals and a requirement that the murder be premeditated for execution to be a possibility.

No decision is expected from the court for several months, and if it affirms the death penalty, the sentence would be subject to presidential review and possibly further appeals in civilian courts.

Mrs. Villanueva was a substitute librarian at a military camp in Grafenwoehr, West Germany when the murder occurred. She was raped and stabbed 53 times in the head, chest and back.

Lukjanowicz argued that the military death penalty law is so loose that it could not be determined in Matthews' case why the jury decided upon execution.

He said, "Members of the jury could have been so inflamed by the rape of a white officer's wife by a black private that they imposed the death penalty for rape," which government lawyers conceded would be unconstitutional under another Supreme Court ruling.

Defense lawyers had argued at the trial that Matthews was an alcoholic with mild mental retardation and an "explosive" and "suicidal" personality. Those mitigating factors should have ruled out premeditation in the murder, they said. The maximum penalty for unpremeditated murder is life imprisonment. The court martial rejected those contentions.

Emergency Pipe To Bring Water

BYRNESVILLE, Pa. (AP) — An emergency surface pipe may be installed for this northeastern Pennsylvania village, which was left without water after a cave-in caused by an underground coal mine fire.

A hole about 15 to 20 feet wide opened up in the ground Tuesday night or early Wednesday and ruptured the village's 4-inch water line about 200 yards south of neighboring Centalla, said James Shober of the state Department of Environmental Resources.

Roaring Creek Water Co. of Shamokin said it may set up the emergency water line. Residents on Wednesday were getting water from relatives and friends.

Guardsmen Will Jet To Europe

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — During World War II, many N.C. National Guardsmen were put on slow boats and shipped to Europe. They stayed several years and helped win a war.

This summer, a battalion of the modern-day N.C. Guardsmen will return to Europe. They will jet across the ocean, stay three weeks, play war games and return home to civilian jobs.

Times have changed. And the old-timers are bound to be shaking their heads when 1,000 retired and active guardsmen began arriving in Greensboro today for the 23rd annual N.C. National Guard Association convention.

Serious business will be conducted by the fraternal group, but many hours will be spent refighting old wars and reliving miserable summer camps of long ago at Fort Bragg and Camp Gordon.

There's plenty to reminisce about.

While the other branches of the armed forces seem to garner more glory and publicity, the National Guard has been around longer and has done more dirty work.

The modern N.C. Guard traces its origins to ragtag citizen militia units that routed the Cherokee and Tuscarora Indians in eastern and western North Carolina during the 1700s.

Besides fighting Indians at home and enemies abroad, the Tar Heel Guard has been called out to quell labor unrest, including the independent truckers' strike in Greensboro in 1979, and violent textile mill upheavals in Gastonia in the 1920s and Henderson in 1959.

Guardsmen rushed into Greensboro to stop campus rioting at N.C. A&T State University in 1968 and 1969. The occupation put the city under virtual martial law.

The Guard has even parked cars at football games.

In the 18th and 19th centuries, every white male, except very old men, belonged to the militia. They received no training and little pay.

Today, the Guard accepts only qualified volunteers. And all inductees must endure regular Army boot camp and other active duty training for at least 120 days before returning to a Guard unit.

For whites only until 1964, the N.C. Guard is now 29 percent black. And there are about 500 women "guardsmen," including one lieutenant colonel and several majors.

After a sharp decline in enlistments following the Vietnam War, the N.C.

Guard has rebounded dramatically, now operating at 105 percent capacity. It is at an all-time peak strength — 13,000 members and a $65 million plus budget (nearly all supplied by Uncle Sam). The Guard has units in 74 counties. Guardsmen train at more than 100 armories and two air bases.

"The Guard is feeling better than it's ever felt, and it's truly representative of the population of North Carolina," says Col. S.T. Arrington of the Guard's state headquarters in Raleigh.

He cites several factors for the comeback, including better pay and educational benefits. "And, hopefully, a feeling of patriotism is being rejuvenated in this country," he says.

Whenever old guardsmen and new guardsmen gather, they inevitably argue over whose war was the toughest, whose outfit was the best.

There's no arguing, however, about one point: Guard pay has improved.

Hardy Root remembers when he was a buck private and getting 75 cents for attending a drill in 1940.

Today, a private receives more than $100 for a weekend at the armory.

N.C. Schools' Needs Itemized

WASHINGTON (AP) — A North Carolina education official Wednesday told a congressional subcommittee many public schools in the state are "obsolete, unattractive, unsafe and in substantial need of major renovations or replacement."

Lacy M. Presnell Jr., school planning director for the Department of Public Instruction, was one of several educators who urged passage of a $4 billion public works bill to repair schools, roads, bridges and other public facilities.

The public works bill, Presnell said, "may make the difference in local boards of education being able to proceed with school construction to meet the growing facilities needs of North Carolina's schools."

He told the House Public Works subcommittee local school boards in the state estimate they need $2.4 billion for capital improvements.

Presnell said 27 percent of Tar Heel classrooms were built before 1949 and that many of them were not fire resistant, had inadequate wiring and plumbing and were too small. He said many of the older schools had wooden stairs and floors that were potential fire hazards.

"Many buildings are brick or rock veneer whose wood structural systems have been seriously damaged because of poor maintenance, water damage or termites," Presnell said.

Presnell said many school systems already have architectural plans for new schools or repairs. He said many systems could begin construction or repairs 30 to 60 days after the public works bill passed.

"Hearing your story, I am overwhelmed," said Rep. James L. Oberstar, D-Minn., the chairman of the subcommittee and a sponsor of the public works bill. "I wouldn't know where to begin."

Other witnesses said many school systems had problems similar to those in North Carolina.

Aid For Peru's Drug Trackers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Attorney General William French Smith says he plans to send a U.S. team to train Peruvians in tracking the finances of drug traffickers, and he wants to return to Latin America for a visit to Colombia.

Meeting with reporters, Smith described some of the results of his 13-day tour of Mexico, Peru, Bolivia and El Salvador earlier this month. With the exception of El Salvador, the visits were designed to increase foreign assistance in stopping the flow of illegal drugs into the United States.

Smith said Peruvian officials expressed interest in U.S. expertise in the financial aspects of drug investigations. "We were requested to send a team to advise how they could follow the money flow," Smith said. "We have every intention of doing that."

Poultry
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) (NCDA) — The North Carolina f.o.b. dock quoted price on broilers for this week's trading was 40.50 cents, based on full truck load lots of ice pack USDA Grade A sized 2½ to 3 pound birds. Too few percent of the loads offered have been confirmed. The market is firm and the live supply is moderate for a good demand. Weights desirable. Estimated slaughter of broilers and fryers in North Carolina Thursday was 1,796,000, compared to 1,827,000 last Thursday.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market turned mixed today, interrupting a rally that had propelled the Dow Jones industrials average into uncharted territory and within striking distance of the 1,200-level.

The stock market's best-known indicator, up 16.93 points Wednesday to a record-high close, slipped 2.81 points to 1,188.66 after two hours of trading. Earlier in the session, the blue-chip average had been up more than 3 points.

But four stocks rose in price for every three that fell in the midday tally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Automotive stocks, which paced Wednesday's buying spree, were mixed. Chrysler rose ¾ to 23¼ and American Motors gained ¼ to 7¼. But General Motors fell ¼ to 64¼ after soaring 2¾ Wednesday, and Ford was unchanged 45¾.

The market rallied Wednesday as General Motors reported a more than five-fold surge in profit in the first quarter. Today, Chrysler said its earnings were up nearly 15 percent, and that earnings of $172.1 million were a record for any quarter in its history.

Manteo Looking To Anniversary

MANTEO, N.C. (AP) — The waterfront town of Manteo, using nearly $3 million in state, federal and local money, is gearing up to host the 400th anniversary of the first English attempts to colonize the New World.

The Dare County seat, with a year-round population of 1,000, will use these government dollars to leverage more than $10 million in private development for the festivities. The dilapidated waterfront will be rebuilt to feature condominiums, restaurants, a new hotel and small boutiques on a redeveloped boardwalk.

The three-year celebration, beginning in the summer of 1984, will commemorate the arrival of more than 40 English ships on the shores of Roanoke Island between 1584 and 1590 — two decades before the settlement in Jamestown, Va. The island settlers later disappeared mysteriously.

State officials and Manteo leaders hail the event as a chance to turn the town into a popular port and boost North Carolina tourism. Besides the 50,000 feet of commercial development along the waterfront, Manteo's revitalization will provide $2 million for low-income, elderly housing.

But some residents, especially fishermen, say they're worried about the development. A new bridge linking Manteo and the peninsula site of the celebration will cut off access to the sounds for a half-dozen fishermen.

The state is digging a canal around the peninsula, but the fishermen say they fear the state will lose interest in maintaining the canal.

The U.S. Corps of Engineers is deciding whether a $1 million dredging project is needed to deepen Shallowbag Bay so replicas of the English ships can reach deep water.

Fishermen say the money should be spent instead on dredging Oregon Inlet, a vital passageway between the sounds and the ocean.

Son-In-Law Said In Betting Ring

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A son-in-law of former Mayor Frank Rizzo was free on $25,000 bail today after being charged in what police called "the biggest bookmaking business on the East Coast."

Joseph V. Mastronardo Jr., 33, of Hunting Valley, faces a preliminary hearing Monday in municipal court following his arraignment late Wednesday.

Seminar For Teachers

Will classrooms try to change their curriculums to meet the changes in new technology or will classroom curriculums hang on to the past? This question was addressed to a group of business and office education teachers by Loretta Martin, president of the North Carolina Association of Educators.

Ms. Martin spoke at a Business and Office Education Seminar and Awareness Luncheon this morning at the Holiday Inn. "The Impact of Technology in the Business Education Curriculum" was the theme for the seminar.

"We have shifted from an agricultural society to an industrialized society and now to an information society. Classrooms need to adapt to this changing world," Mrs. Martin said.

Suggesting that televisions should be used as a teaching method in the classroom, Mrs. Martin said the average 18-year-old person has watched 18,000 hours of television, but has only been in the classroom 13,000 hours. She added that those same 18-year-olds have viewed one million television commercials.

Dr. Craig Phillips, state superintendent of public instruction, spoke at the luncheon.

"as soon as practicable" and increases granted accordingly. No reductions in current levels of pay should occur as a result of the adoption of these recommendations, the study suggests.

The executive committee of the board of trustees should adjust the salary of the president and the president should decide on salaries of the other executives included in the program, the board agreed by adopting the plan.

The board voted to extend the workers' compensation policy of the hospital for 18 months, until October 1984, so all policies would be due at the same time and to purchase a workers' compensation self-insured policy from St. Paul Fire and Marine Insurance Company with the following limitations: The hospital will retain $100,000 for each occurrence (last year the occurrence was $50,000) with the aggregate specific unlimited (last year's limits were $3 million). The estimated deposit premium for this policy will be $24,131 per year or $36,195.50 per 18 months. (Last year's yearly premium was $22,532.)

Katheryn Lewis of Pactolus and Charles Joyner of Farmville were welcomed as new trustees.

An education program on the department of clinical pathology and diagnostic medicine was given by Dr. H. Thomas Norris.

Trustees were invited to the sixth annual hospital picnic and the Gaskins-Leslie Building dedication, both to be held April 30.

Vice President Fred Brown reported on how the hospital's disaster plan worked on the previous day when 65 children involved in a bus wreck were brought into the emergency department.

Building committee chairman Charles Gaskins said schematic designs on hospital additions now being planned are finished and it's hoped that bids can be made up by mid-June. The project for adding to X-ray, lab and emergency areas hopefully can be completed by March 1985, he said.

Medical Staff Chief Dr. Jack Wilkerson reported that an ethics committee to review cases that call ethics into question is being appointed by him. It will contain not only doctors but the hospital chaplain, an administrator and lay persons, he said. One of the tasks before them, he said, is to review the hospital's brain death policy, which he said is four years old and out-of-date.

Big Rose Rally Whips Kinston, 18-11

By JIMMY DuPREE
Reflector Sports Writer
KINSTON — Not only did the Greenville Rose Rampants erase a 9-0 lead amassed by the Kinston Vikings in the first two innings of their Wednesday Big East 4-A Conference baseball game, they doubled the score after five and then silenced a rally for an 18-11 victory.

Greenville's Bobby Buie, pitching for the first time of the 1983 season, scattered eight walks and two hits while striking out nine Kinston batters to record the win. He came on to pitch in the second frame after starter Bill Owens was tagged for seven runs. The Rampants committed four errors, and the Vikings had just four hits while taking the 9-0 advantage.

After threatening in the second, the Rampants' first 11 batters of the third got on base and eventually scored. Rose sent 17 batters to the plate in the inning and added two more runs after one out on a fielder's choice by Eric Woodworth and a double by Bill Johnson.

"I'm really impressed with our guys," said Rose coach Ronald Vincent, whose team is now 4-0 in the conference and 8-0 overall. "I thought Bobby Buie did a super job for us in relief."

"The cold weather with the wind blowing out really made it tough on the curve ball pitchers for both teams today. The ball just kind of hangs there, and it makes it easy to just tear into it."

Rudy Stalls led off the third with a single and scored on a double by Traye Fuqua. Fuqua moved to third on a throwing error by Kinston shortstop Paul Beaman, and Randy Warren followed with a base-on-balls. A passed ball allowed Fuqua to race home and Warren to move to second.

Kenny Kirkland drew a walk, and a double by Mike Kinley drove in Warren and Kirkland. Woodworth got to first on another Beaman error, allowing Kinley to move to third. Singles by Johnson and catcher Curtis Evans loaded the bases, and Buie drove in Woodworth with a single to left.

A double by Stalls drove in Johnson and Evans, and Buie scored when Beaman committed his third error of the inning on a grounder by Fuqua. A sacrifice fly by Warren for the first out of the frame pushed Stalls home and advanced Fuqua.

A triple by Kirkland plated Fuqua, and Kinley followed with a walk. Kirkland came home on Woodworth's fielder's choice, and Kinley scored on Johnson's double. The Vikings finally got out of the inning on a tapper to the mound by Evans.

But the Rampants came out in the top of the fourth and again pelted the Viking pitcher — this time for five runs. Buie led off with a triple and quickly scored on a sacrifice fly by Stalls. Fuqua and Warren walked and Kirkland singled to load the bases, and a single by Kinley and a pair of RBI fielder's choice on grounders by Woodworth and Johnson cleared the bases.

Kinston, now 3-2 in the conference and 7-7 overall, jumped out to 3-0 lead after one inning. Harold Fleming walked and Beaman followed with a double. A sacrifice fly by Rod Brown scored Fleming and moved Beaman to third. A single by Jon Hooks drove in Beaman, and Hooks later scored on a base hit by Neal Pate.

The Vikings bounced back in the second frame with six runs off just one hit and three Rampant errors. Only a single by Beaman and a fielder's choice by Hooks actually batted runs in, as Rose errors and walks allowed the other four runs to cross the plate.

Kinston tallied two more runs in the sixth, as Steve Nesbit, Thomas and Jay Hudson drew walks to load the bases. A single by David Mitchell plated Nesbit, and Thomas scampered home on a wild pitch by Buie.

Stalls and Kinley each went two-for-three at the plate for Rose with a three RBI, and Johnson emerged from a slump with three hits in four trips. Kirkland and Buie also added a pair of hits for the Rampants.

Despite a trio of errors in the field, Beaman paced the Vikings at the plate with three hits — two of them doubles — in five at-bats. Hooks drove in a pair of runs with one hit.

The Rampants host Wilson Fike today at 4 p.m. at Guy Smith Stadium and travel to Wilson Hunt Friday at 7 p.m.

Panthers Rip Cougars, 10-2

BETHEL — North Pitt High School spotted SouthWest Edgecombe a 2-0 lead then stormed back to take a 10-2 win over the Cougars yesterday in an Eastern Carolina Conference baseball game.

SouthWest scored single runs in each of the first two innings, but were shut out after that by the Panthers' Junior Huber.

North Pitt, meanwhile, exploded with eight big runs in the third frame. Alvin Grimes led off, reaching on an error.

ECU-Seahawks Are Postponed

East Carolina University's baseball game with UNC-Wilmington, scheduled for last night at Harrington Field, was postponed because of cold weather.

There was some question as to whether it will be rescheduled.

The Pirates host Campbell on Friday night at 7 p.m. at Harrington.

Brian Briley walked and Jay Hines singled. An error on the play let Grimes score. Greg Briley then singled to score Brian Briley and a balk scored Hines. Greg Briley stole third and Ken Whitehurst walked, then stole second. Huber walked to load them up, and Lee Manness' sacrifice fly brought in Briley. Scott Rawls reached on an error, scoring Whitehurst, and Grimes doubled in Huber. Brian Briley's single drove in both Rawls and Grimes for the 8-2 lead.

The Panthers picked up single runs in the fourth and fifth for their ten-run total. Hines and Daniel Keel led the Panther hitting with two each. No one had more than one for SouthWest, which got only three hits off Huber.

Now 8-5 overall and 2-2 in conference play, the Panthers travel to Ayden-Grifton on Friday.

Heels, 'Pack, Tigers, Terrapins Win Openers

By TOM FOREMAN JR.

AP Sports Writer

CHAPEL HILL (AP) — It's

likely that North Carolina's Christ Bankhead won't pitch again in the Atlantic Coast Conference baseball tournament, but with the Tar Heel pitching staff in high gear, he won't have to.

The young, but stingy, staff has led North Carolina to its best season ever, and Bankhead continued that roll Wednesday, striking out eight as the top-seeded Tar Heels took a 4-2 victory over Duke in a first-round tournament game.

Second-seeded North Carolina State raced to a big lead, then had to hold off Georgia Tech for a 10-7 victory in the final game. In other first-round action, Clemson whipped Virginia 12-5 and Maryland started Wednesday's play with a 11-1 victory over Wake Forest.

North Carolina meets Maryland at 4 p.m. today, while the Wolfpack and the Tigers tangle at 7 p.m. In the morning session, Wake Forest faces Duke and Virginia meets Georgia Tech.

Bankhead scattered five hits over seven innings, but a hit batter in the eighth inning signaled his demise. Despite not getting a complete game, Bankhead was not upset.

"If we can get seven or eight innings out of our starters, we'll be on top," Bankhead said.

"I think we were fortunate to get four runs," North Carolina coach Mike Roberts said of his team's efforts against Duke starter Ken Fay. "I wanted to be aggressive in the opening game."

Roberts has three other pitchers with six victories and a bullpen that's recorded 12 saves. He figures a complete game or a repeat performance by Bankhead may not be necessary.

"I don't expect them to go nine innings," Roberts said. "We've got an awful lot of relief appearances."

North Carolina took a 1-0 lead in the second inning on an RBI single by Mike Jedziniak. The Tar Heels extended the lead in the third on a two-out single by Pete Kumiega.

Duke cut the deficit to 3-2 on Fred Donegan's two-run double with two outs in the top of the fourth. The Blue Devils were stymied after that point as Bankhead fanned six of the next batters.

After Bankhead hit leadoff batter Jeff Ziegler in the eighth, Tim Kirk relieved him and held the Blue Devils to one hit.

Ricky Hester hit a three-run homer to give Clemson a six-run first inning in their 12-5 rout of Virginia.

The Tigers banged out 20 hits against five Cavalier pitchers and took advantage of three errors to put Virginia out of contention.

Clemson's Frank Russ reached second when right fielder Bob Stevens dropped his line drive. Russ moved to third on Jim McCollum's single and scored on a Bob Paulling hit.

Hester followed with his homer to the screen in center field. David LeMaster and Steve van Dyke singled and LeMaster scored on an error.

Scott Powers' single brought van Dyke home to complete the first inning outburst.

LeMaster had five hits and three RBI, while Hester added four hits.

Clemson's Tim Rice got credit for the victory, raising his record to 6-2. Rice pitched five innings, gave up eight hits and struck out four. Yogi Biggs, 2-1, was the loser for Virginia.

Kevin Johnstone's four RBI and Mark Ciardi's 7-hit pitching gave Maryland their 11-1 victory over Wake Forest.

Lady Jaguars In First Win

E.B. Aycock Junior High School's girls rolled to a 10-4 softball victory over Wilson Fike yesterday.

Kathy Kinley got the win for Aycock, now 1-4 on the year. Michelle Bender and Vicki Parrott led the Aycock hitting with two each. Bender had a double and Parrott, a triple, among the hits. M. Norman led Fike with two.

Aycock returns to action on Friday at Hunt.

Tom Seaver Proves He's Still Got It

By The Associated Press

Tom Seaver proved he still had it. Steve Carlton continued to show he has it ... even when he supposedly doesn't.

Mowing down batters right and left, two of baseball's most enduring pitchers each fashioned shutouts Wednesday night — Seaver blanking the Pittsburgh Pirates 6-0 and Carlton stopping the Chicago Cubs 2-0.

"If I could pitch like that every time out, I wouldn't ask for anything more," said Seaver after pitching a three-hitter in the opener of a two-night doubleheader. The Mets also won the second game, 7-5.

Seaver, who returned to the Mets this season after 5½ years in Cincinnati, recorded his first victory since Aug. 2, 1982, a year in which he struggled with a 5-13 record. And it was his first victory as a Met since June 12, 1977, the year he was traded to Cincinnati.

"Now, I just have to keep it going," said Seaver after recording his 55th career shutout, tops among active National Leaguers. "It's a day-to-day thing, a game-by-game thing. It's not just a matter of one game. I'd like to get a long string together."

Carlton, meanwhile, didn't look as sharp as he usually does to Chicago Manager Lee Elia, but still four-hit the Cubs, striking out 10 for his 53rd shutout. Elia said he thought his team would eventually get to the left-hander.

"I've seen him better," said Elia. "Don't get me wrong, though, he can flat-out pitch. He's got that great slider, and he's into the game on every pitch."

Carlton looked better to Phillies Manager Pat Corrales.

"He had great stuff to start with and got better as the game progressed," Corrales said.

In other National League action, it was Cincinnati 6, Houston 4 and San Francisco 3, Los Angeles 2 in 10 innings.

The Atlanta-San Diego game was rained out and cold weather postponed the St. Louis-Montreal contest.

New York's opening-game victory snapped a six-game losing streak. The Mets had not won a doubleheader since July 13, 1980 against St. Louis and, in the meantime, had been swept eight times and split 10 others.

"Seaver didn't face us but once last year," Pirates Manager Chuck Tanner said, "and he was having his problems. He's a lot better than when we saw him last."

Seaver not only pitched well, but tripled home a run in the Mets' three-run second inning. In the nightcap, Mookie Wilson singled home the tie-breaking run in the eighth to give the Mets the sweep.

In Philadelphia, Joe Morgan belted a two-run homer in the fourth inning for all the runs Carlton needed.

"I hit a breaking ball outside," said Morgan of his first home run of the season, off Chuck Rainey.

"I finally stayed in there and hit the ball properly," said the second baseman, who has been struggling with a .161 average.

Morgan attributed his lack of production — he has just seven hits and three RBI — to the unseasonably cold weather.

"I'm not using it as an alibi — other hitters have the same problem — but even in San Francisco I didn't have to wear gloves," he said.

The temperature at game time was 42, dropping into the 30s before it was over.

Reds 6, Astros 4

Cesar Cedeño's two-run double highlighted a six-run fifth inning to lift Cincinnati over Houston.

Houston went in front 2-0 in the second inning when Ray Knight belted an RBI double and Alan Ashby, who had four hits, drove in a run with a single.

Losing pitcher Mike LaCoss had retired 11 straight batters before the fifth inning, but the Reds sent 12 batters to the plate in taking a 6-2 lead.

Greene Central Downs Firebirds

STANHOPE — Greene Central scored four times in the first inning and eventually doubled that as the Rams took an 8-5 baseball victory over Southern Nash yesterday.

Michael Warren led off the first with a single and Chris Suggs reached on an error. Suggs was later picked off, however, but Warren dashed home on the play for the first run. Tommy Goff got things going again with a single and Richie Chase doubled him in. James Moore singled and Elmer Dixon walked to load the bases. Brian Hall reached on a fielder's choice, scoring Chase, and an error on the play let Moore score also.

Southern Nash rallied with one in the bottom of the frame, then added three more in the third after the Rams had added a fifth run.

Greene Central got what proved to be the winning run in the fifth. Chase reached on a fielder's choice that left two away, and moved up on a passed ball. Moore was hit by a pitch and Chris Harris walked, loading them up. Carlton Joyner then singled to drive in Chase for a 6-4 lead.

The Rams added two more in the seventh, after Southern had picked up one in the sixth.

Moore and Chase each had three hits for the Rams, two of Chases' doubles. Carl Blackman and Darrell Lucas each had two hits for the Firebirds.

Now 3-1 in the Eastern Carolina Conference and 9-3 overall, the Rams play host to Farmville Central today.

Jaguars Run To Track Win

FARMVILLE — Farmville Central edged out Greene Central in a three-way track meet yesterday at Farmville. The Jaguars finished the day with 99 points, while the Rams had 71. C.B. Aycock was a distant third with 17 points.

Farmville had one double winner in Wesley Carmon. Carmon won the 100 and 220-yard dashes and anchored the 440 and mile relays. Greene Central's Earl Campbell was also a double winner, taking the mile and two-mile runs.

Farmville, now 144, returns to action on Saturday, participating in the Beddingfield Invitational.

Rampant Cubs Defeat Fike

WILSON — Rose High School's junior varsity baseball team won its third game of the year yesterday with a 13-7 victory over Wilson Fike.

Lark Weatherington led the Rose hitting with three, while Tony Taylor, Mark Nover, David Jester and Doyle Kirkland each added two.

Steve Wall was the winning pitcher.

Now 3-1, Rose plays host to Wilson Hunt on Friday.

Williamston In Win Over Aces

WILLIAMSTON — Williamston High School held off an Edenton rally in the sixth inning and gained a 7-4 baseball victory over the Aces yesterday.

The Tigers took the lead with a pair of runs in the first inning and added two more in the third. Edenton then rallied for four runs in the top of the sixth to knot the score at 4-4.

But in the bottom of the sixth, Williamston pushed over three to gain the victory. Jesse Ward reached on an error and Mike Leggett was also safe on a misplay, moving Ward to third. He scored from there on Jack Mobley's sacrifice. James Ward then cracked a two-run homer for the final 7-4 margin.

James Ward and Grant Hardison each had two hits to lead Williamston, while Carey Parker had a pair for Edenton.

Now 5-2 in Northeastern Conference play, the Tigers are 6-4 overall. The Tigers play host to Plymouth on Friday.

Jack Clark's bases-loaded, fielder's-choice grounder with one out in the 10th inning broke a tie and lifted San Francisco over Los Angeles.

Left-hander Fernando Valenzuela, 2-1, was the loser, dropping his sixth consecutive decision to the Giants dating back to 1981.

Clark came through off reliever Alejandro Pena after the Giants had loaded the bases off Valenzuela on singles by Mike Vail and Johnnie LeMaster and a walk to Joe Pettini.

Byrd, Wilder Pace Rose Girls To Track Victory

ELIZABETH CITY — Rose High School's girls' track team blitzed Northeastern High School of Elizabeth City yesterday, rolling to a 106-25 victory.

Rose won all but one event, the shot put, and had two double winners. Jennifer Byrd took both of the hurdle events, and Trina Wilder won the 100 and 200-meter dashes.

The win leaves Rose with an 8-1 record as it ends its dual meet season. Its final outing before the Big East Conference meet next week will be Saturday when the Rampettes participate in the Beddingfield Invitational.

Edmonds Honored

ROCKY MOUNT — Former Farmville Central athlete Rose Edmonds has been named the Most Valuable Player for the North Carolina Wesleyan women's basketball team.

A 5-11 forward who played center the second half of the season, led the team in field goal percentage with a 50.9 mark and rebounding with 8.8 per game. She was second on the team in scoring with a 13.3 average.

She was named to the Dixie Intercollegiate Athletic Conference's second team all-conference unit and twice was selected as the school's athlete of the week during the season.

Edmonds is the daughter of Ms. Carrie Pettaway of Fountain.

WO's Appleton No-Hits Conley, 2-0

By ALAN WOOTEN
Reflector Sports Writer
HOLLYWOOD — Gary Appleton was near perfect when he took to the mound on Wednesday night at D.H. Conley.

Appleton mowed down the first eleven men he faced before giving up a walk with one out in the fourth. However, Appleton only allowed three more batters to reach base and notched a no-hitter to lead the Vikings past Conley, 2-0.

Appleton walked two and struck out 14 in raising his record to 2-0.

"When I came out tonight, I didn't think I would throw the ball well," Appleton said. "But I got loose and everything started going together. I knew about it but all the guys in the dugout were not saying anything."

The win improved White Oak's conference record to 2-0 and 5-1 overall. Conley dropped to 0-1 and 6-5.

"It was definitely a pitching game," Tom McGirt, White Oak coach, said afterward. "Both pitchers looked good, especially considering the weather. I think about the only things cold were the bats."

The game, played in temperatures below 40 degrees, also saw another stellar performance by Conley southpaw Darryl Edwards. Edwards, only a sophomore, pitched the distance, giving up only four hits, striking out ten, but walking six.

"Both pitchers did an exceptional job," DHC's Gerald Garner said. "He (Appleton) was just super. He did a good job of getting his breaking ball over."

The win was not assured until the seventh inning, when White Oak pushed across two runs in the top of the inning.

With one out, Kenny McAllister reached on an error by Eddie Roberson and stole second. Joseph Hopkins walked. Israel McAdawn followed that with a deep fly to rightfield which moved McAllister over to third. Hopkins then stole second.

Having two outs with first base open and the #4 hitter, Richard Sloan due up, Garner elected to put Sloan on, loading the bases.

Brent Banks then slapped a solid single to leftfield to score McAllister and Hopkins. Sloan was thrown out trying to steal third to end the inning.

"I don't second guess my call for the walk one bit," Garner said. "Darryl had pitched out of jams all night and that gave us a force at every base. Darryl said it was a fastball that he got up just a little bit and he hit it."

"We needed this win bad," Garner said. "But, we're still young. We saw some positive things out their tonight. They saw they could play with the best. Edwards did a good job a getting out of the jam in the sixth. We showed a lot of class then."

Garner was referring to the bases loaded and no out jam in the sixth. McAdawn led off with a walk and stole second. Sloan walked, as did Banks to load the bases.

But Edwards settled down and found a little rhythm. He struck out Appleton and got Ricky Pead on a pop-up in foul territory at first. Edwards retired Brian Jernigan on strikes to end the inning.

"We felt it was just a matter of time after the sixth inning," McGirt said. "We had tried bunting the ball but could not get a runner over. But Banks came through with the hit. He's been hitting the ball well lately."

Banks, a .333 hitter thus far on the year, ripped two home runs against North Lenoir in last game, a 12-6 win for the Vikes.

The closest Appleton came to losing the gem was in the seventh inning, ironically enough, on his on play. Todd Rouse hit a slow roller back to the mound, which was fielded by Appleton. Appleton threw to first but the throw was in the dirt. Appleton was charged with the error but he came back to strike out Mike Gurnkins and get Edwards on a flyout to right.

Appleton struck out the first five batters he faced and got at least two in every inning, except the third.

White Oak only made one other serious threat, that coming in the third. With two

Rampettes Top Fike, 8-5

Rose High School's girls' softball team picked up its third Big East victory of the year yesterday, downing Wilson Fike, 8-5.

The Rampettes pushed ahead in the first inning scoring three times, then added one in the second. Fike rallied to tie it up in the top of the fourth with four, but Rose went back out with a fifth run in the bottom of the frame.

The Rampettes then sewed it up with three in the fifth. Fike got one more in the sixth.

Lisa Leggett led the Rose hitting with three, while Linda Winstead and Doris Dudley each had two. Jenene Webb, Karen Bisette and Tonya Fuller each had two hits for Fike.

Rose is now 3-2 in Big East play and 5-5 overall. The Rampettes travel to Hunt on Friday.

with two in the top of the first. Conley came back with four in the bottom of the frame and both teams scored twice in the second to leave Conley ahead, 6-4.

White Oak tied it up with two in the fourth and each team scored twice each in the fifth and sixth to make it 10-10 going into the seventh.

Neither scored in the seventh, but Conley pushed over the winning run in the eighth. Irish Barnhill singled and Darlene Cannon walked. Both advanced on the second out of the frame, before Michelle Waters singled to score Barnhill with the winning run.

Conley is now 6-2 overall and 2-0 in CC play. The Valkyries host Ayden-Grifton today in a non-conference affair.

Bullets Nip Bath By 2-1

JAMESVILLE — The Jamesville Bullets kept their Tobacco Belt Conference winning record intact yesterday with a 2-1 baseball victory over Bath High School.

Jamesville got both of its runs in the fourth inning. Rex Bell singled and stole second, moving to third on a sacrifice. He scored on Matthew Moore's single. Moore stole second and came around on a hit by Greg Hardison.

Bath rallied with one in the top of the seventh, but the Bullets gunned them down before they could tie it up.

No one had more than one hit for the Bullets, but Richie Ange and Terry Perry both contributed doubles. J. Chipman had two hits to lead Bath, which got only three hits off Rusty Holliday.

WILLIAMSTON — Williamston's girls' softball team romped to a 13-2 victory over Edenton yesterday in a Northeastern Conference game.

Williamston scored once in the second, only to see Edenton come back with two in the third. But that was to be all for the Lady Aces.

The Lady Tigers, meanwhile, added three in the third to take the lead for good, and then picked up five in the fourth and four in the fifth.

Timberly Rodgers highlighted the fourth with a grand-slam homer, while Valerie Smith had a three-run homer in the fifth.

Tar Heel Pitching Has Made Carolina Winner

By TOM FOREMAN Jr.
AP Sports Writer
CHAPEL HILL (AP) — Having the home field advantage might be enough to convince the rest of the Atlantic Coast Conference that North Carolina will win the league's baseball tournament, but there is another factor to consider—pitching.

Relying heavily on a staff of sophomores and freshmen, the Tar Heels have glided to their best record ever and are strong favorites to be a conference representative in the NCAA playoffs.

North Carolina has been stingy when it comes to allowing runs. The 10-man staff has an earned-run average of 2.81. Three pitchers have won six games apiece as the Tar Heels have run up a 37-7 mark.

In the first round of the ACC tournament Wednesday, sophomore Scott Bankhead recorded nine strikeouts as the Tar Heels defeated Duke 4-2. Bankhead raised his record to 7-0.

Although last year's team won the tournament title, its ERA was 4.53 with eight complete games. With a lower average this season, North Carolina starters have gone the distance 13 times.

"You could see our freshmen pitchers getting better last year," Tar Heel coach Mike Roberts said. "Assistant coach Howard McCullough did a tremendous job with them. We knew they were getting better and we were fortunate at the end of the season to win 12 of our last 13 games."

Those young arms are also getting much better support from the offense than in 1982. From a .247 team batting average, the Tar Heels were hitting .326 entering the tournament, best in the ACC.

Roberts says the coaching job has also helped his pitchers learn their roles better.

"I think they've learned to use three pitches, and I think they realize that in college you have to be a pitcher and not a thrower in order to win consistently," Roberts says.

Nash Tops EBA By 5-1

NASHVILLE — Nash Central handed E.B. Aycock Junior High School its first loss of the season yesterday, taking a 5-1 baseball victory.

Ricky Outlaw led the Jaguar hitting getting two of the three hits allowed by Nash Central. Nash was led by S. Vines with two hits and J. Adams with a homer.

Now 3-1, the Jaguars play at Rocky Mount on Friday.

Rose Netters Capture Tenth

Rose High School's tennis team continued its roll through its Big East Conference opponents with a 7-2 victory over Wilson Fike yesterday.

Rose took five of the six doubles matches to sew up the victory, losing only in the number four singles. Fike was able to wrest one more match from the Rampants, in the number two doubles.

Rose is now 10-0 overall and 9-0 against conference foes. The Rampants travel to Hunt on Thursday.

Brett Off To Sizzling Start On The Season

By The Associated Press
The Kansas City Royals have played only 10 games, but it may be time to start the George Brett watch again.

Harken back to 1980, when Brett flirted with the magic .400 mark for much of the season, finishing with .390, the highest batting average since Boston's Ted Williams hit .406 in 1941.

In the first 10 games of 1983, Brett is hitting a sizzling .475 — 19-for-40, with eight doubles, four homers and 13 RBIs. Three of the homers and seven RBIs came Wednesday night as Brett powered the Royals to an 8-7 triumph over the Detroit Tigers when he greeted reliever Howard Bailey with a two-run blast in the top of the ninth.

"I thought about it (.400) in 1981 and I hit .314," he said. "It's just one of those things that when you're swinging the bat good, you can hit anybody. When you're swinging bad, you can't hit anybody."

Three years ago, Brett was hitting "only" .337 at the All-Star break, then was a torrid .420 the rest of the way.

"I've never really gotten off to a fast start like this, except maybe in 1976," Brett said, referring to the year in which he won the first of his two American League batting crowns with a .333 average. "I had a lousy 2-for-32 my last week in spring training."

In other AL games, Boston nipped Milwaukee 5-4, Texas crushed Baltimore 11-2, the New York Yankees downed the Chicago White Sox 6-4, Toronto defeated Cleveland 4-1 and Minnesota thumped Seattle 11-2. Oakland and California were washed out for the second night in a row, the first time consecutive rainouts have occurred in Anaheim in the Angels' 18 years there.

Brett paced the Royals to a 6-1 lead over Detroit with a solo home run in the first inning, an RBI single in the third and a three-run homer in the seventh, all off Jack Morris.

But the Tigers shelled Larry Gura and Dan Quisenberry for six runs in the bottom of the seventh and the Royals trailed 7-6 when Willie Wilson began the ninth with an infield hit. One out later, left-hander Bailey replaced Aurelio Lopez and Brett slammed a 2-0 pitch into the right field stands.

Red Sox 5, Brewers 4
Jim Rice belted a game-tying two-run homer in the bottom of the ninth inning and pinch hitter Tony Armas walked with the bases loaded and two out as the Red Sox pulled it out against Milwaukee relievers Pete Ladd and Jamie Easterly. Boston snapped a string of 30 scoreless innings with two runs in the fifth off Moose Haas, but Ladd came on after a 27-minute rain delay in the middle of the eighth.

He began the ninth by walking Wade Boggs and Rice homered one out later. Carl Yastrzemski's single, Dave Stapleton's double and an intentional walk to Rich Gedman loaded the bases and Reid Nichols fouled out before Easterly walked Armas on a 3-2 pitch. Paul Molitor and Cecil Cooper homered for the Brewers.

Rangers 11, Orioles 2
Jim Sundberg and Mike Richard drove in two runs apiece as Texas scored seven of its nine unearned runs in the third inning. Billy Sample had a home run among his three hits and drove in three runs for the Rangers, while Mickey Rivers contributed four hits and Sundberg three to a 16-hit attack against Dennis Martinez and two relievers. Winner Mike Smithson scattered eight hits, including a home run by Eddie Murray.

Yankees 6, White Sox 4
New York's Dave Righetti flirted with a no-hitter for 51-3 innings and allowed two hits in eight shutout innings before Chicago scored four times in the ninth. Righetti allowed only three baserunners until he walked two batters to start the ninth. The Yankees nicked LaMarr Hoyt for a run in the first on Willie Randolph's leadoff double and grounders by Ken Griffey and Dave Winfield. They made it 6-0 with five runs in the sixth, including an RBI single by Winfield and a run-scoring double by Don Baylor.

Blue Jays 4, Indians 1

Dave Stieb pitched his way out of a bases-loaded jam in the first inning and went on to scatter nine hits. Cleveland loaded the bases with none out on a walk and two singles, but Stieb struck out Andre Thornton on three pitches, got George Vukovich on a soft liner to third and fanned Pat Tabler. Toronto took a 1-0 lead in the bottom of the first against Lary Sorensen on Dave Collins' single and a triple by Willie Upshaw and added three in the second.

Twins 11, Mariners 2
Gary Gaetti backed the five-hit pitching of Bobby Castillo and Rick Lysander by driving in three runs with a single and double as Minnesota had a club record seven doubles and posted its fourth straight victory. Castillo, making his first start of the year after coming off the disabled list, allowed four hits, struck out six and walked one in seven innings for his sixth consecutive triumph over two seasons.

Bills Offer Changes For Assembly

By JOHN FLESHER
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — A bill that would make fundamental changes in General Assembly operations including a limit on session lengths is before the state Senate, while the House is examining a less sweeping proposal.

Sen. Gerry Hancock, D-Durham, and Rep. Jack Hunt, D-Cleveland, filed Wednesday the bills that reflect sharp philosophical disagreement between the Senate and House leadership over the best way to stop the trend toward a full-time Legislature.

Hancock's bill was produced by a subcommittee of the Senate State Government Committee, which for several weeks has studied ways to limit sessions and take other measures to avoid becoming a full-time legislature.

"My concern is that if we don't act favorably on legislation of this kind, we will continue to move toward the professional legislature model most other states of our size already have adopted," said Hancock.

The bill proposes: — A 75-day legislative session every two years that could be extended 25 days on a vote of both chambers. The term would begin in March, instead of January, and would end about the end of June as is now the case.

— An organizational meeting in January of odd-numbered years (when the full session would be held) during which the Legislature would elect its officers, organize committees, adopt rules and do other preliminary work.

— A system of deadlines for such things as introduction of local, departmental and public bills and reporting general appropriations bills to the Senate and House floors.

— Allowing standing committees to continue functioning during legislative recesses, thus reducing the need for study commissions. The panels would process bills but wouldn't be allowed to take final action on them.

Hancock said he believed his program had substantial support in both chambers.

"It's been looked at carefully by a large number of people," he said. "We think the time has come to act on this, to ensure that ordinary citizens will feel free to serve as legislators now and in the future."

Hancock, chairman of the State Government Committee, began the study at the request of Lt. Gov. Jimmy Green.

Hunt said House Speaker Liston Ramsey, who has opposed previous attempts to limit sessions, asked him to introduce his bill that would cut approximately three weeks off the beginning of the 1985 session.

"I look at it as a way to shorten the session," said Hunt. "The beginning of the session is the time to do it."

Under the bill, the session would begin on the first Tuesday in February, instead of the first Wednesday after the second Monday in January now set in the constitution.

Hunt said he had been considering ways to cut session length for a long time and said studies of the legislative calendars indicated the first three weeks had the least activity.

Hunt said some of the delays in figuring the budget came because revenue figures are not available until April or May and suggested the 1985 picture may be clearer.

The bill stipulates that if the experiment fails, the session would go back to its current starting time — the first Wednesday after the second Monday in January. In other legislative action: Insurance Bills

A legislative package endorsed by Insurance Commissioner John Ingram and opposed by the industry was sent to a subcommittee. The package includes barring point assessment to drivers convicted of speeding by 15 mph or less, speeding in a school zone and speeding within three years of conviction on a similar charge.

Other bills in the package would:

— Amend the Safe Driver Insurance Plan to require separate surcharges for "major" and "minor" accidents. Under the bill, sponsored by Rep. Mary Seymour, D-Guilford, surcharges for major accidents would be assessed when there is bodily injury, death or damages valued at $500 or higher. A lesser surcharge for minor accidents would be for accidents resulting in damages of less than $500.

Eliminate surcharges altogether for property damages of less than $200.

— Require that recoupment surcharges assessed by the N.C. Reinsurance Facility be a percentage of the premium surcharges provided for by a subclassification plan instead of a percentage of the premium as now is done.

— Require insurance companies that are allowed to deviate from established auto liability rates to offer those lower rates to all their customers, including those insured by the reinsurance facility.

Prison Time

Sen. Tony Rand, D-Cumberland, filed a bill clarifying the state's law on releasing prisoners early for good behavior.

The bill stresses that people given split sentences — those combining active and suspended time — may not be released early since no one given such a term serves more than six active months. Commitment Counsel

The Senate unanimously approved a bill that would lift a ban on appointment of attorneys who live more than 20 miles from mental hospitals to represent patients during commitment hearings.

Sen. R.C. Soles, D-Columbus, said the bill was especially designed to allow Chapel Hill attorneys to represent indigent patients of Dorothea Dix Hospital in Raleigh.

Attorneys who drive further than 20 miles will get no extra compensation, he said.

Child Abuse
A bill requiring that Social Services officials report child abuse to local district attorneys was unanimously approved by the state Senate.

Sen. Bob Swain, D-Buncombe, asked whether the bill would require reporting of squabbles between school children.

"When I was a kid, I didn't think I'd been to school unless I came home with a bloody nose," said Swain.

Sen. R.C. Soles, D-Columbus, said he didn't expect that problem to arise. House Action

The House moved through a cluttered calendar, approving bills to require that district attorneys be lawyers, increase the fines for illegally parking in handicapped spaces and require that notaries public take a course before being certified.

The House voted 96-11 in favor of letting the public vote on whether district attorneys and the attorney general should be lawyers. On Tuesday, several members rejected the idea, saying there should be no restraints on who may be elected to public office.

The bill to increase from $10 to $25 the fine for illegally parking in a space for the handicapped won approval after technical aspects were explained.

Rep. Paul Pulley, D-Durham, derailed two attempts to amend the bill requiring a community college course of notaries public before it was approved 94-5.

House Bills

New bills were introduced in the House to require that all checks indicate the month and year the checking account was opened and to establish a conference of district attorneys.

Resolutions were introduced to continue a Legislative Research Commission study of college science equipment and to start an LRC study of means by which the marketing of seafood could be improved.

High School Registration

The Senate State Government Committee delayed action on a bill that would allow certain high school employees to register voters.

A vote on the bill was held up when Sen. Kenneth Royall, D-Durham, said it wasn't clear that schools would be allowed, but not required, to permit voter registration. An amendment is to be added clarifying the bill.

Auto Insurance

A Senate Finance Committee subcommittee was told to study closing a loophole in a 1981 law that effectively allows people to drive without liability insurance without losing their license tags.

Sen. Craig Lawing, D-Mecklenburg, said he and most other legislators were unaware of the loophole, which permits people to drive 15 days without liability insurance and retain driving privileges simply by paying $15. People who drive without insurance longer than that can keep driving if they pay a $60 penalty, he said.

"I've always told customers if they drive even one minute with no insurance, they'll lose their tags for 60 days and even the governor can't do anything about it," said Lawing.

Local Taxes

The Senate Finance Committee approved a bill that would allow local government to contract with banks to collect their tax payments and immediately deposit them, accumulating more interest than at present when deposits sometimes are delayed for weeks.

Uranium Mining

The House Committee on Water and Air Resources approved a bill to give the Department of Natural Resources and Community Development and the state Mining Commission control over uranium exploration in North Carolina.

Rep. Robert McAlister, D-Rockingham, who introduced the bill, said it was spurred by uranium exploration in Virginia and the belief that uranium deposits may draw developers into North Carolina.

"It is an industry that I think needs developing in our state," he said. "Yet at the same time we want to make sure it's environmentally safe."

The bill would require that mining companies put up bonds before drilling, that exploratory holes be filled with concrete or other non-porous materials within 30 days of abandonment and that bonds surrendered for noncompliance be used to pay for restoring drilling sites.

One Hitch In A Solution

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The state Senate's Republican majority has a new method for dealing with Democrats who have been stalling action in the house for two weeks — lock them up and throw away the key.

The only hitch to the "closed call" plan, set to begin Monday, is that the GOP senators will be locked in the same room and everyone will have to suffer together.

Under a closed call, the 61 senators will not be allowed to leave the Senate chambers during a day's session unless they get permission from the Majority Leader.

The tactic has been used from time to time, usually during end-of-session deliberations when hundreds of bills await action.

Democrats have slowed the flow of bills in the Senate since last week by strictly adhering to house procedures and by launching lengthy debates on minor rules.

Senate Democrats claim Republicans have decided to block most of their bills in the GOP-controlled Senate committees and virtually deny the Democrats sponsorship of the legislation.

Seek To Save Launch Gantry

WASHINGTON (AP) — Several historic preservation groups are suing the national space agency to prevent demolition of the launch tower gantry from which men first went to the moon.

The National Trust for Historic Preservation and four co-plaintiffs asked the U.S. District Court here to issue a temporary restraining order to preserve the tower until options for it are explored.

The suit charges that the National Aeronautics and Space Administration breached a 1974 agreement with preservation organizations to disassemble the rusting red-orange gantry rather than demolish it and sell the components for scrap. The 399-foot tower is located at the Kennedy Space Center in Florida.

Says Mussolini Had Ambitions

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Mussolini wanted more than control of the Mediterranean basin for Italy when he joined forces with Hitler before and during World War II, according to a new book by a University of Rochester historian.

Mussolini hoped to use prestige gained in battle to smash the remaining limits on his power: the monarchy, the upper classes, and the public's loyalty to the Church, writes Professor Mac Gregor Knox. Victory, Mussolini believed, would allow him to remold the Italians into a master race.

Knox presents his views in "Mussolini Unleashed, 1939-41," which recently won the American Historical Association's George Louis Beer Prize.

ECU Jazz Ensemble In Spring Concert Friday

The East Carolina University Jazz Ensemble, directed by George L. Broussard, will present its annual spring concert at 7:30 p.m. Friday in the A.J. Fletcher Recital Hall.

The concert is being given in conjunction with the 1983 Phi Mu Alpha Jazz Festival. There is no admission charged for this or any of the festival concerts, which are open to the public.

This year's festival, sanctioned by the National Association of Jazz Educators, has as its guest clinicians the Rev. George Wiskirchen, director of the Jazz Ensemble and assistant director of bands at the University of Notre Dame, and jazz artist Ray Codrington.

Wiskirchen has long been a leader in the development of jazz education and was instrumental in the founding of the National Association of Jazz Educators. Codrington

Ethel Merman Up And Around

NEW YORK (AP) — The Broadway star with the booming voice, Ethel Merman, is "up and around her room" and continuing to gain strength following removal of a brain tumor a week ago, a hospital spokesman says.

Berni Wisneski, a spokeswoman for St. Luke's-Roosevelt Hospital Center, said Wednesday that the 74-year-old musical comedy star has been surrounded by friends and family for the past several days and has been active since Saturday.

"She's very pleased," Ms. Wisneski said.

Baby Son For Marie Osmond

PROVO, Utah (AP) — The 7-pound, 7-ounce boy named Stephen James Craig born to singer Marie Osmond arrived two weeks earlier than expected, but mother and child were doing fine, a spokesman said.

Osmond family spokesman Ron Clark said Wednesday that the child, the first for the 23-year-old Miss Osmond and her husband, Stephen Craig, looked "really great" and has "loads of coal-black hair."

"Miss Osmond's private physician, Dr. Robert Romney, indicated there were no complications to the natural childbirth and stated that both mother and baby boy were in excellent condition," Clark said.

The child, named Stephen James Craig for Craig's father and Miss Osmond's younger brother, Jimmy, was born at 9:25 a.m. Wednesday at Utah Valley Hospital, he said.

Craig, 26, a former Continental League basketball player who now works in real estate and financial planning, said, "I finally got me a basketball player."

Documentary Critique On PBS

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — This is the conclusion of the Carter of public television's "Inside Story" reaches to-night about CBS News' controversial documentary, "The Uncounted Enemy: A Vietnam Deception."

"History may yet decide there was indeed a conspiracy in Saigon to fake the numbers. But at this point the evidence is less compelling, the witnesses more contradictory and the possible conclusions less obvious than the documentary suggests."

"CBS is entitled to its opinion, but we were entitled to a more balanced presentation. Even if you are sure of guilt, there is a vast difference between a fair trial and a lynching. It's a distinction that was badly blurred when CBS made 'The Uncounted Enemy: A Vietnam Deception.'"

However, a week after the Jan. 23, 1982 documentary was broadcast, Carter, writing in the Wall Street Journal, called the program "a great public service."

"I was duped," he said this week in an interview with The Associated Press. "But I was predisposed that way. I'm an old dove."

The 90-minute CBS documentary, produced by George Crile and narrated by Mike Wallace, has left a trail of controversy. Three days after its broadcast, Gen. William Westmoreland held a press conference denouncing the documentary's premise that he had led a conspiracy to falsify enemy troop strength during the Vietnam War.

Westmoreland demanded, among other things, a 45-minute retraction broadcast over which he would have approval rights. CBS' response was the unusual offer of giving Westmoreland 15 minutes of unedited air time. Westmoreland rejected that and filed a $120 million libel suit against CBS News.

A TV Guide article, published last May, called the documentary a smear.

Last July, after an internal investigation of the documentary, CBS News President Van Gordon Sauter said he supported its content, but acknowledged violations of CBS News' guidelines in putting together the program. These included not providing enough interviews from Westmoreland's point view. In addition, Sauter said the word "conspiracy" was inappropriate.

"Not all these events are individually unprecedented," Carter, chief correspondent and anchor for "Inside Story," said in the interview. "But all of them together are just unbelievable."

"Inside Story," the weekly program examining press behavior, conducted a two-month investigation into the CBS News documentary that took 15 months to make.

Carter said the "Inside Story" investigation has not uncovered new information "but a lot of old information that was not included in the documentary. ... If you're going to make a case that there was a conspiracy at the highest levels of American intelligence (as CBS did at the beginning of the documentary), then you have to go to the highest levels and allow the chief conspirators to talk."

Carter said Crile and his staff did not talk to or did not include remarks from Gen. Phillip Davidson, head of the Military Assistance Command in Vietnam; Gen. George Gooding, commander of intelligence troops during the Vietnam War; Robert Komer, head of the Vietnam Pacification Program, and Walt Rostow, National Security Advisor to President Lyndon Johnson.

"Inside Story" interviewed these men for tonight's broadcast.

According to Carter, Crile said Gooding didn't speak to the issues raised. CBS said Davidson was ill, although the general told "Inside Story" he had just gotten married, was playing lots of golf and was accessible.

Carter said Crile's response to not having certain significant people on the documentary was that "there always are people you should have talked to."

Rostow was one of 139 people interviewed by CBS but nothing of his three-hour conversation was used.

"It's not that CBS didn't conduct enough interviews," said Carter. "It's that the interviews that were inconsistent with its thesis were eliminated." Carter said CBS used on-camera interviews with Westmoreland and one ally, Daniel Graham, a colonel during the Vietnam War. "After that, it's all prosecution," Carter said.

Carter said he didn't know why CBS would handle its documentary in this way. "I think they think this is the truth." But Carter, who has the advantage of hindsight from a follow-up investigation, said: "We're a damned sight less sure of what the truth is."

Puppeteer's 2nd Career

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Ex-television puppeteer Shari Lewis is pulling new strings — the musical kind. The hand that once made puppet Lamb Chop talk now twirls a conductor's baton.

Ms. Lewis, 50, is one of the nation's few women conductors. She has led about 50 orchestras since 1977, ranging from one in Erie, Pa., to Washington's National Symphony Orchestra.

"Sometimes there are tolerant smiles when I step up to the podium," the entertainer said recently. "But then, when you clearly know what you are doing, everybody relaxes."

A generation ago, she was known to children as the companion of Lamb Chop, a curly, sharp-witted hand puppet.

The pair appeared regularly on children's shows in the 1950s and '60s. Many former fans now have children of their own who attend her orchestra concerts, said Ms. Lewis, adding, "We sell six tickets instead of two."

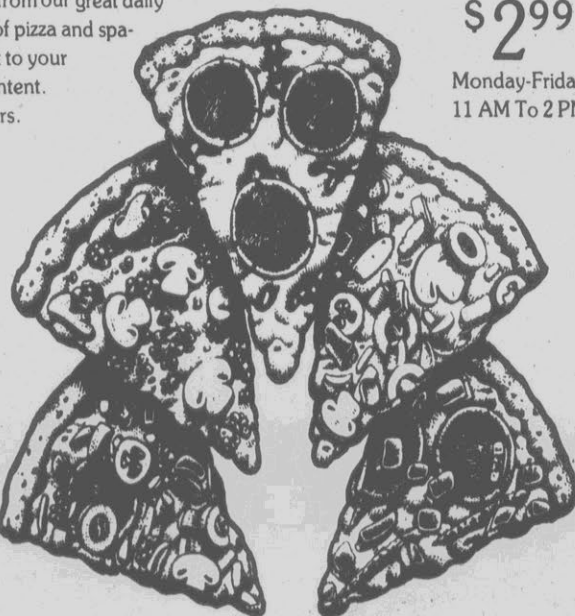

Ms. Lewis also is an author and businesswoman, having written 21 books and some television scripts. She said she would like to star in a situation comedy she has co-written.

"It's legitimate comedy — no puppets," she said.

Urge Alarms In Sleeping Cars

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal safety board is urging that smoke detectors be installed in all Amtrak sleeping cars, saying they could have prompted a quicker response to a train fire last summer in which two passengers died.

The National Transportation Safety Board concluded that the fire probably began as a result of cigarette smoking and became more serious because of a "lack of response to the fire" by crew members.

Among 13 recommendations, the board said sleeping cars should be equipped with smoke detector alarms that would automatically shut off air circulation systems in the cars and give warning to passengers.

NOTICE OF SALE OF LAND BY COMMISSIONERS
Pursuant to and by virtue of the authority of the Order of Honorable Sandra Baskins, Clerk of Superior Court of Pitt County, entered March 24, 1983, in that proceeding entitled "Robert Lee Smith, et al vs. Philip L. Goodson, Jr., et al," being the Plaintiff's Clerk of Superior Court File No. 85-SP-62, the undersigned will, on Friday, April 22, 1983 at 12:00 Noon at the Pitt County Courthouse in Greenville, North Carolina, offer the real property hereinafter described to the highest bidders for sale for cash, in parcels and in the manner as set forth in the Order mentioned above:

TRACT NO. 2 Lying and being in Greenville Township, Pitt County, North Carolina, and being that portion of Lot No. 6 of the Warren Tucker Division lying south of the Norfolk Southern Railroad as shown on that map entitled "Division of the Lands of Warren Tucker, Deceased", which map is duly of record in Map Book 1 at Page 43 in the Office of the Register of Deeds of Pitt County.

TRACT NO. 2 Lying and being in Greenville Township, Pitt County, North Carolina, and being that portion of Lot No. 6 of the Warren Tucker Division lying south of the Norfolk Southern Railroad as shown on that map entitled "Division of the Lands of Warren Tucker, Deceased", which map is duly of record in Map Book 1 at Page 43 in the Office of the Register of Deeds of Pitt County.

TRACT NO. 3 Beginning at an iron stake located in a ditch, a corner common with Lot No. 9 and Lot No. 10 of the Warren Tucker Division and the lands of the Heirs of J. R. Moye, and running from said Beginning Point thence South 84° 55' East a distance of 382.52 feet to a concrete monument, an agreed corner; running thence South 34° 02' East a distance of 104.86 feet to a concrete monument, another agreed corner; running thence South 89° 17' East a distance of 176.06 feet to an iron stake, a corner; running thence South 83° 14' East a distance of 147.00 feet to an iron stake, a corner; running thence South 18° 18' West a distance of 113.06 feet along and with a chain link fence to an iron stake, continuing South 17° 11' West a distance of 72.25 feet and to the West a distance of 20.54 feet to an iron stake, a corner; running thence South 24° 02' West a distance of 18.46 feet and thence South 14° 14' East a distance of 115.15 feet to an iron stake, a corner; running thence South 16° 47' West a distance of 147.00 feet to an iron stake in the line of Lot No. 9 of the Warren Tucker Division, a corner; running thence along and with the line of Lot No. 9 and Lot No. 10 of the Warren Tucker Division, North 38° 50' West a distance of 139 feet to the Point of Beginning, and containing 11.7 acres, more or less, according to survey made by A. S. Johnson, Jr. in December, 1976.

TRACT NO. 4 Lying and being in Greenville Township, Pitt County, North Carolina, and being that small triangular shaped parcel of land bounded on the south by the right of way of the Norfolk Southern Railroad for a distance of about 100 feet, bounded on the west and north by lot to W. G. Dunn under Special Proceeding No. 5285 in the Records of the Office of the Clerk of the Superior Court of Pitt County in 1950, and bounded on the north and east by the lands formerly known as the R. L. Smith tract for a distance of about 100 feet on a course leaving the railroad of North 2° 30' West surveyed in December, 1913 by J. B. Harding, Civil Engineer, for an eastern line of Lot No. 10 of the Warren Tucker Division as shown on that map entitled "Division of the Lands of Warren Tucker, Deceased", which map is now duly of record in Map Book 1 at Page 43 in the Office of the Register of Deeds of Pitt County.

The highest bidder for each parcel or tract of land will be required to deposit ten per cent (10%) of the first $1,000.00 thereof, plus five per cent (5%) of any excess above $1,000.00, as evidence of good faith pending confirmation of the sales by the Court. All property will be sold subject to 1983 City of Greenville and Pitt County ad valorem taxes.

Yesterday's Cryptiquip — BIG BASKETBALL STAR BANKS NET EARNINGS.

Today's Cryptiquip clue: O equals E.

The Cryptiquip is a simple substitution cipher in which each letter used stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words, and words using an apostrophe can give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is accomplished by trial and error.

The time to consider your line of play is before playing to the first trick. That is when you can determine how to combine more than one chance, if it is possible.

North judged well in the auction. When South persisted in looking for game despite the fact that his partner had promised nothing, North decided that his king-third in partner's first-bid suit and doubleton in the other merited a shot at game.

West led the king of hearts and declarer considered the possibilities. If trumps were 2-2, he could handle even a 4-2 club break. If trumps were 3-1, it seemed that declarer would have to rely either on a 3-3 club break or a finesse for the jack. But there was an even better line that allowed for a 3-1 trump break and a 4-2 club division.

West continued with a second heart, ruffed by declarer. The ace-queen of trumps revealed that that suit was indeed divided 3-1, so declarer turned his attention to clubs.

He cashed two high clubs and, when both defenders followed, declarer could claim. He ruffed a low club with the king of trumps, returned to his hand with a heart ruff and drew the outstanding trump. After running clubs, declarer conceded a spade and claimed his contract.

Investigate 4 Collisions

An estimated $4,500 damage resulted from four traffic collisions investigated by Greenville police Wednesday.

Heaviest damage, officers said, resulted from a 5 p.m. collision on Greene Street 2 mile South of the Farmer Street intersection, involving cars driven by Julius Linwood Stoneham of 1311 North Overlook Drive and Jarvis Carl Tetterson of Route 8, Greenville.

Damage from the collision was estimated at $1,000 to the Stoneham car and $800 to the Tetterson vehicle. Cars driven by Norwood Brent Lee of 212 Sumrell St. and Janie Garris Harris of Winterville, collided about 9:32 a.m. on Memorial Drive, 7½ feet north of the Greenville Boulevard intersection, causing $700 damage to the Lee car and $800 damage to the Harris vehicle.

A 6:20 p.m. mishap at the intersection of Red Banks Road and Dellwood Drive involved cars driven by Johnny Ralph Spain of Tice Trailer Park, and Michael Chun Duncan of 124 Harrell St.

Police said damage from the collision was set at $400 to the Spain car and $390 to the Duncan auto.

Officers charged James Alvin Clark of Route 2, Winterville, with driving under the influence, hit and run driving, and driving while his license was suspended following investigation of a 3:35 p.m. collision at the intersection of Dickinson Avenue and Hooker Road.

According to investigators, the Clark car collided with a vehicle driven by Tony Micah Sutton of Route 4, Greenville, causing an estimated $400 damage to the Sutton car and $100 damage to the Clark car.

BRIGHT

"A fresh, clean taste unlike any cigarette I've ever tried!"

Phil Seniura, Waco, Texas

New Bright has given smokers a fresh new taste experience that outshines menthol. Although they weren't asked to write us, they keep sending raves like these:

As I lit my first Bright, my first comment was, "Ooooh it's terrific!" It tastes so clean.

Laurie Ciruello
 Stony Creek, CT

Bright is a fantastically refreshing taste! I have been a Belair smoker for over 15 years. Bright has the cleanest, coolest taste I have ever experienced!

Robin York
 Michigan City, IN

Your new Bright 100's are smashing! Finally a truly refreshing menthol in a low tar cigarette! I am thrilled to have found Bright. My search is over, I'm convinced there really is great taste in a low tar cigarette.

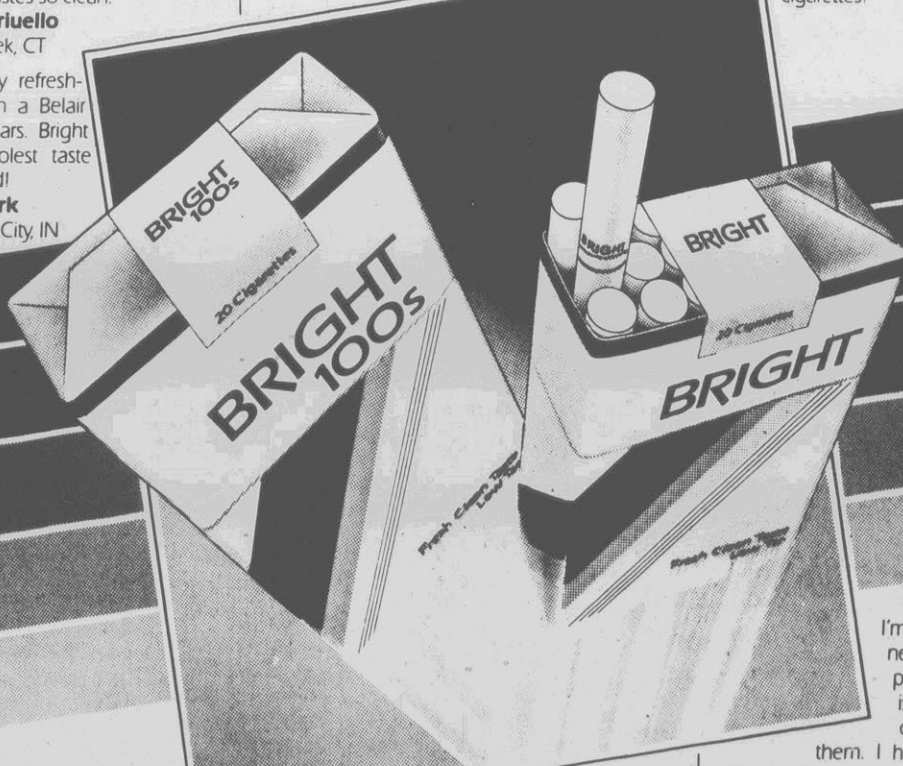

Michael McNabb
 Chattanooga, TN

You've got a winner on your hands. Bright is a new and exciting addition to the cigarette family.

Mervin Silverman
 Cleveland, OH

I've only smoked Benson & Hedges Menthol since they've been out. I'll never go back. Brights are so light and tasty. I love these cigarettes!

Barbara Norwood
 Bryan, TX

I'm really not one for trying new cigarettes, but I bought a pack to try. Believe me, Bright is a cool and light tasting cigarette. I totally enjoyed them. I have smoked Benson and Hedges Menthol for years. But I am surely going to switch to Bright 100's now.

Sharon A. Taylor
 Wheeling, WV

Bright has a crisp, clean all around good taste. Bright was a bright idea! Thanks for making such an excellent cigarette!

R.F. Welp
 East Dubuque, IL

Purchased two packs of your new Bright 100's—and found the taste delightful—smooth and, like you say, fresh and clean.

Hal J. Georgi
 Brick Town, NJ

I am very pleased to tell you Brights are as advertised: very cool, tasty and refreshing. I really enjoyed them.

Evelyn C. Booth
 Clearwater, FL

They have a nice, pleasant, fresh taste which I've never tasted before. Merit Menthol was O.K. until last week when I tried your Bright cigarettes, and I made up my mind to smoke Bright from now on.

Ray Colella
 Tom's River, NJ

I usually smoke menthols, but I love this minty fresh taste. Thanks for a really new and unique tasting cigarette.

Joyce Perry
 Florence, NJ

I enjoyed Brights very much. I passed a few out to friends at work and three of them say they are switching from their regular menthol cigarette to Brights.

Vicki L. Lavole
 Nashua, NH

Bright is the most enjoyable and delightful cigarette I have ever had the pleasure to smoke.

Marie Knelly
 Sugarloaf, PA

I love the clean, fresh taste it leaves in my mouth. It has no "after taste" and that's great.

Mary O'Brien
 Charlotte, NC

I recently purchased a package of your new product, "Bright 100's." I must say that I truly enjoyed the taste. There was no "empty" taste like the other low tar cigarettes. I thought for a moment that they really weren't low tar! I would like to thank the company for such a wonderful tasting cigarette.

Mary Stewart
 Evansville, IN

Life Sentences Plus 50 Years

MIAMI (AP) — Two men convicted of murdering one federal agent and wounding another in a shootout at a Miami hotel were sentenced to life in prison plus 50 years, and five other men involved in the attack were sentenced for lesser crimes.

U.S. District Judge James Lawrence King on Wednesday sentenced Mario Simon, 41, and Augustino Alvarez, 42, both convicted of the first-degree murder of Ariel Rios, an agent with the U.S. Bureau of Alcohol Tobacco and Firearms.

Three others were sentenced to shorter terms for second-degree murder, conspiracy to distribute cocaine, cocaine distribution and assault. Two others were sentenced only on cocaine charges.

Lowe's Low Payment Credit Terms

Your credit must be satisfactory. Lowe's cash price does not include sales tax or Life and Property insurance. The monthly payment and deferred payment price includes Life and Property insurance and sales tax at 4%. If sales tax is different in your area, the monthly payment and deferred payment price will vary slightly. Delivery charges, if any, are not included. Stop in for more information.

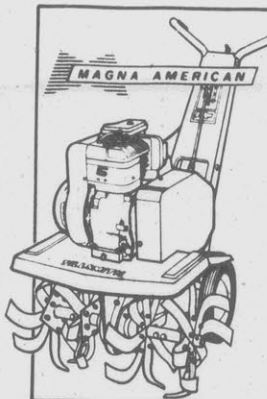

Lowe's Pricing Policy

Many items in this tabloid carry a reference retail price. The reference is intended to provide a guide to the range of retail selling prices in our area and may be useful in identifying different units of the same manufacturer. An item's reference retail price is either the manufacturer's suggested retail price or our determination of its full retail price based on prices at which it or similar merchandise is offered by principal retailers (department stores, specialty shops and other non-discount sellers) in our selling area. While we believe our reference retail price does not appreciably exceed the highest retail prices at which sales are made in our selling area, we cannot assure you that our reference retail prices, as described above, represent the prices in every community on any given day. Some items in this advertisement are listed at "regular" selling prices. The merchandise is offered at this price except during a special sale. The purpose of showing a reference retail price (or a regular price) is to assist you, our customer, in making a knowledgeable and better informed buying decision. We suggest that you also do comparative shopping and compare our prices. (Prices in this tabloid do not include delivery charges. Ask us about delivery rates.)
Lowe's Raincheck Policy: If we sell out of an advertised item, we'll issue you a raincheck. When we restock, you'll be notified so you can buy at the previously advertised price (except for products marked "Limited Quantities"). Our smaller stores may not stock all advertised items. But every item shown here can be ordered for you.
