Shultz And Ambassadors Begin Mission

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — Secretary of State George P. Shultz and the U.S. ambassadors to five Middle East nations gathered in Cairo today at the start of Shultz' mission to arrange a withdrawal of Israeli, Syrian and Palestinian forces from Lebanon.

"We know that we cannot substitute for the commitment and the effort of the people of the Middle East," Shultz said after his arrival at 1:30 p.m. (7:30 a.m. EDT). "We will complement it and we will play a full part, as full partners, in this great enterprise for peace."

Reagan's special Mideast envoy, Philip C. Habib, also was in Cairo to meet with Shultz and the U.S. ambassadors to Israel, Syria, Jordan, Lebanon and Algeria.

Shultz was scheduled to meet with Egyptian President Hosni Mubarak on Tuesday and on Wednesday with Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin, who sent troops into Lebanon on June 6, 1982 to rout the PLO.

In his airplane en route to Egypt, Shultz was optimistic — saying a withdrawal agreement "is a very do-able thing" — and vowed to stay in the Mideast as long as there is a chance of carrying out his mission.

Shultz said he is prepared to shuttle back and forth between Israel and Lebanon if that would help produce an agreement on troop withdrawal. He plans to go to Beirut on Thursday.

Cannon Retiring

Greenville Police Chief Glenn Cannon (above) said today that he will retire effective Dec. 31, after more than 27 years with the department.

Cannon, a Pitt County native, attended Stokes High School and entered the U.S. Army in 1944, spending a year in the South Pacific.

He then worked for a car dealer in Williamston for nine years before joining the Greenville police department in August 1956.

Cannon, who will be 58 years old Dec. 16, became chief of the department July 1, 1971.

Cannon, who said "I've enjoyed it and I'll miss it," said the department had about 30 policemen when he joined the force. Today, there are 76 sworn officers.

Doubt Persisting On Hitler Diaries

HAMBURG, West Germany (AP) — Two prominent historians, including one who had at first vouched for the authenticity of the purported Hitler diaries, said today that further study was needed before they could decide if the papers are genuine.

British historian Hugh Trevor-Roper had written in the Times of London Saturday that he believed the papers were Adolf Hitler's own, but said today he had new doubts about the way Stern magazine had obtained the hand-written documents.

Trevor-Roper and American historian Gerhard L. Weinberg appeared at a news conference here at which the magazine had said they would back its claim of having discovered Hitler's 60-volume diaries.

However, the historians took a more cautious view than the magazine apparently had expected. There was no immediate comment from Stern officials on the historians' statements.

In opening the press conference, Stern Editor-in-Chief Peter Koch described the magazine's discovery of the purported Hitler diaries as "the journalistic scoop of the post-war period."

Koch, who said Stern would give the documents to the government after publishing a series of excerpts, declined to say who gave the papers to the magazine or how much it paid for them.

Trevor-Roper, who holds the title Lord Dacre, said, "A final judgment (of authenticity) cannot be given until the whole text of the documents can be examined."

The Hitler-era expert said he had thought one man could prove the papers were the same materials reportedly found in a wrecked airplane carrying documents taken from Hitler's Berlin bunker shortly before he committed suicide in 1945.

"I am now told that this is not so, and that I must have misunderstood," Trevor-Roper said.

"There can be such a thing as a perfect forgery, so I defer to experts on that," he added.

Weinberg, a professor at the University of North Carolina and author of two books about Hitler, said: "I don't consider (the documents) a forgery, but there are further tests that are necessary. It seems to me essential that scholars familiar with the period have an opportunity to examine a transcript of the whole text."

Stern began publishing portions of the purported Hitler diaries today.

Trevor-Roper, author of a 1947 book "The Last Days of Hitler," wrote in Saturday's edition of the Times of London that he had reviewed the diaries and believed they were genuine.

Grant Offer Is Received

The Greenville Utilities Commission today received a grant offer of $7.86 million from the Environmental Protection Agency to help fund construction of a new 10.5 million gallon waste water treatment plant.

The proposed $10.4 million plant, to be built on a site north of the Tar River and east of the Eastern By-pass, has been in the planning stages for some 10 years.

GUC Director Charles Horne said late this morning that the commission received final approval from the EPA, and the grant offer, by mail this morning.

The state Division of Environmental Management has also approved the project and a $1.3 million grant from the state is expected soon. Some $1.3 million in local funds will complete the funding of the facility.

Bids for the project are scheduled to be received May 18, and construction of the plant, expected to take two years, should get underway in July, after a final review of the bids by the DEML and EPA.

Smith, who has served the past year as vice-chairman, will succeed Dr. Caroline L. Ayers of the chemistry faculty in August. Dr. Ayers was not eligible for re-election.

Strive For Vital Mental Health Funds

By CAROL TYER
Reflector Staff Writer

"It's the squeaky wheel that gets the oil," Mental Health Association in Pitt County Legislative Committee Chairman Terry Shank said, as she addressed the needs of eastern North Carolina for mental health funding from the legislature during a legislative breakfast hosted by MHA-PC this morning.

"All the state's wheels are squeaky," State Sen. Vernon White responded, alluding to a $92 million shortfall in the state budget and a possible $3.1 million deficit in the state mental health budget.

Rep. Ed Warren said he is ready to take a stand to increase taxes if necessary to provide for unfreezing state salaries and for providing for some of the continuing mental health and other needs in the state.

Much of the talk at the meeting concerned deinstitutionalization, the channeling of residents of state institutions back to the community and the use of community programs to meet new mental health needs. Rep. John Gillam said he believes new state mental health chief Dr. Gene Douglas is going to be the savior of the state's mental health program. He said he personally supports Douglas' plan to phase out Dorothea

Dix Hospital and that he believes "it was renewed up because of politics."

Dr. Stephen Creech, Pitt County area mental health director, supported Gillam's contention, saying that the populations of each of the four mental hospitals in the state have decreased to from 1800-2200 in 1964 to 600-700 now. Eighty percent of the state appropriations to mental health still go to the hospitals, he said, when 80 percent of the clients served by the state are out in the community.

Dr. Frank Fuller, a MHA member, commented that there are now two staff members in the state hospitals for every patient and that this ratio seems ridiculous.

County Commissioner Bob Martin said he sees local government taking on more and more responsibility for the mental health care with no new funds being created. These funds have to be shifted from state hospital to local programs, he said, and he, like Gillam, said he personally has faith in Douglas to effect this shift with support from the people. He alluded to Douglas' success in an area program in the Lumberton area in which he, for several years, did not let a single person go into an institution.

Rep. Walter B. Jones Jr.

said legislators must make themselves aware of how to best support area mental programs in meeting the mental health needs of the state's citizens.

Shank explained several mental health bills now before the House and Senate. She said House Bill 124, which seeks to expand the use of outpatient facilities rather than state hospitals for the involuntary commitment of the mentally ill, must be packaged with Senate Bill 116 which would provide funding to reimburse counties and the courts up to $2,000 per year per case.

House Bill 481 would increase the monthly subsidy to each participant in Adult Development Activities Programs by about $20 to $191 a month, she said.

April continued to be a month of April showers during the weekend with light rains falling on both days, and April's wetter than usual April has delayed spring planting of crops to a considerable extent.

The Greenville Utilities Weather Station reported that from 7 a.m. Friday to 7 a.m. Saturday .83 inches of rain fell, with .90 inches falling from 7 a.m. Sunday to 7 a.m. this morning, for a weekend rainfall total of 1.2 inches.

The weather station further reported that at midnight Friday, the level of the Tar River in Greenville rose to 16 feet, a foot above the 15 foot flood level stage. From midnight Friday until 8 a.m. this morning, the river level dropped 1.2 feet to 14.8 feet.

On the farm scene, Pitt County Extension Chairman Leroy James reported this morning that "generally, farmers are behind the average year in their spring planting. This is especially true in corn planting, with only about 15 to 20 percent of the crop planted as of the end of last week. If the sunny weather holds up, most farmers should be able to get their corn planted this week.

"Tobacco planting is behind too," James said. "The acreage that has been planted is suffering from the cold weather and winds of the past week or two so that much of it will have to be replanted. We're also advising farmers to throw away plants that are too large as it appears there will be adequate plants for everybody. The warm winter weather resulted in good plant beds."

James noted that, "Next week is the prime time for planting peanuts, so if the land dries out, most farmers will be able to plant at the regular time of May 1 and after.

"Soybean planting," James added, "is usually carried out from about May 10 to 20, so unless it rains a lot more, farmers will not fall behind on planting their beans."

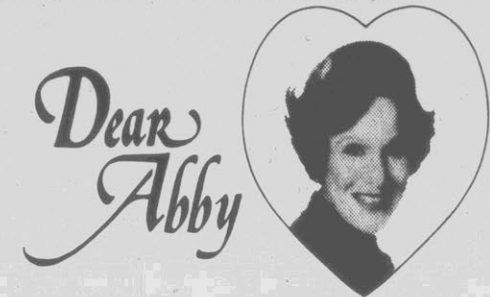

James said that March and April rains resulted in "lots of very wet fields. That, combined with the overflow of streams and creeks has meant wet farming conditions to date. We can only hope today's sunshine will hold out and that we'll have some warm days so that the land will be dry enough for farmers to finish spring land breaking and get their crops planted."

Dear Abby

Beepers Are Helpful To Patients

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1983 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: Please tell "Tired of Waiting" that somebody is doing something about the frustration of long waits in doctors' offices.

Recently a group of doctors and dentists from Shawnee Mission Medical Center in Merriam, Kan., got together to form health care centers in two suburban shopping malls in the Kansas City area (a third is planned). When you arrive for your appointment, if there is going to be more than a 15-minute wait, the receptionist gives you a little beeper to carry while you browse, shop, eat, play video games or whatever. When you hear a "beep," it means the doctor will be ready to see you in 10 minutes.

The beeper can also be used by the friend or family member who brought the patient to the doctor. This frees them to come back for the patient when the visit is completed.

Doctors carry "beepers" to conserve their time. Why not patients?

BEEP BEEP

DEAR BEEP: Why not, indeed? Everything's up-to-date in Kansas City!

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been married for 43 years. Yesterday when I arrived home from work, I found a birthday card addressed to his former girlfriend who jilted him 45 years ago! It was marked "Return to Sender," because the girlfriend was not at the address my husband used, and there was no forwarding address. I was burned to a crisp!

How would you handle a situation like this, Abby? I have not spoken to him since.

Please answer soon, as I am terribly upset.

LOST LOVE

DEAR LOST: Your husband was probably just reminiscing about years gone by and sent the card in a playful mood. Not to worry. The card came back, which proves that he doesn't even know where she is now.

DEAR ABBY: I had to write when I read the letter from the woman who's afraid to date because she has terrible hair and wears a wig. She thinks if a man finds out she's wearing a wig, it will turn him off.

Abby, I'm 17, and I've been completely bald since I was 8 and have worn a wig for two years. I have "alopecia areata," a condition many people have, although doctors still don't know what causes it.

Honestly, that lady is using her wig as an excuse not to date. I date a lot, and all the guys know about my wig. One special guy calls it "Wiggy" and treats it like a pet!

When I was younger I even thought of self-destruction, but now I see how dumb that was. Believe it or not, this condition has helped build my character and develop a sense of humor. Almost everybody has something he or she has to learn to live with, and there are plenty of people lots worse off than I am.

I want to tell that woman who wears a wig not to feel like a freak, and other people will accept her as she is.

If you print this, sign me...

WIGGY AT 17

DEAR WIGGY: What a terrific young woman you are! A dermatologist in Schenectady, N.Y., wrote to tell me about the National Alopecia Areata Foundation, a support group for people who have suffered permanent hair loss. He sent one of the organization's newsletters, which I found very informative and extremely encouraging.

For information, write to: The Alopecia Areata Foundation, P.O. Box 5027, Mill Valley, Calif. 94941. This is a non-profit organization, so please include a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Problems Of Farm Workers Are Discussed

Joan Papert Preiss, spokeswoman of the National Farm Workers Ministry, an ecumenical group dedicated to helping farm laborers, says the virtual enslavement of farm laborers is widespread across North Carolina and the problem will not get better until laborers have legislation to protect them.

During a visit to Greenville Friday in celebration of Farm Worker Week (April 25 through May 1), Ms. Preiss spoke on some of the problems farm workers face.

"Currently, North Carolina has no protection for children laborers. Agriculture has the lowest age limit nationwide and it is also the third most hazardous job one can have. Do we want our children working under those conditions?" she said.

Additional problems the NFWM is trying to help laborers with include minimum wage laws, protecting workers from pesticide poisoning, improving sanitary and housing facilities, supplying drinking water in the fields and ensuring workmen's compensation.

"The family of farm workers continue to feed us all despite their own suffering and struggle to survive. During farm worker week, we call attention to the many injustices they still suffer, including slavery," Ms. Preiss said.

"Now they are organizing to bring about a better life for themselves and they call on us to join their family in the struggle, lending our faith, our resources, our love, to make more real the family of God," she said.

Pat's Pointers

By Pat Trexler

When you want to look your prettiest, drape a lacy flower petal shawl around your shoulders. Inspired by a romantic Portuguese design, this shawl is crocheted in separate squares that are then joined together as you work.

Done in fingering weight yarn or double strands of "Miracle Thin" yarn, it is the height of understated elegance worked all in one color, perfect for daytime or evening wear. For a totally different look, try making the flower centers in a contrasting color.

To obtain directions for making the Flower Petal Shawl, send your request for Leaflet No. CL-40483 with $1 and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to: Pat Trexler ("The Daily Reflector"), P.O. Box 810, North Myrtle Beach, S.C. 29597.

Or, you may order Kit No. CK-40483 by sending a check or money order for $13.50 to Pat Trexler at the same address. The kit price includes instructions, Miracle Thin yarn and the shipping charges. To make a solid color shawl, specify your choice of white, blue, yellow, pink, sea aqua or lilac. Kits for making the shawl with contrast color flowers will be sent with white for the background and your choice of any of the above colors for the flowers.

Carry-along crochet, portable crochet, granny squares and motif crochet are all terms used interchangeably to describe the type of crochet that is done in any of a variety of separate geometric shapes that are then joined to create a finished item.

This is an ideal type of needlework for the summer months as you are only working on one small piece at a time instead of one large piece, as you would when crocheting or knitting a sweater or afghan.

The shawl featured today is an example of this type of crochet at its best. The basic motifs are worked in squares with open chain stitch corners. The method used for joining the squares at the corners creates the open "starburst" effect.

The more traditional "granny" squares, while less elegant, have an even wider variety of uses and are great for using up odds and ends of leftover yarns.

For those who have never done this type of crochet, try the following directions for a basic square.

Starting at the center with knitting worsted-weight yarn in a light color and a size H hook, make a chain of 4 stitches. Join to the first chain made with a slip stitch, thus forming a ring.

Round 1: Use the same color. Step 1: Chain 3 and work 2 double crochets into the ring, forming the first "group stitch." Step 2: Chain 3 and work 3 double crochets in the ring for the second group stitch. Work 2 more group stitches by repeating Step 2 twice more. Join with a slip stitch to the top of chain-3 made in the first group stitch. Fasten off the light color yarn.

Round 2: Join in a strand of a medium color in any of the chain-3 spaces of the previous round. Step 1: In the same space, chain 3, work 2 double crochets, chain 3, work 3 double crochets, thus making the first corner. Step 2: In the next chain-3 space of previous row, chain 1, work 3 double crochets, chain 3, work 3 double crochets (second corner made). Make two more corners by repeating Step 2 twice more; chain 1 and join with a slip stitch to the top of chain-3 made at beginning of this round. Fasten off medium color yarn.

Round 3: Join in a strand of a darker color in any of the chain-3 spaces of the previous round. Chain 3 and work 2 double crochets in same space. Work a double crochet in each stitch around, including the chain-1 spaces, and also work 3 double crochets in each corner. At end of round, slip stitch to top of beginning chain-3.

Make a number of identical squares and then experiment to see how many things you can make from them. A number of squares laid end to end form a scarf. Or join four squares side by side for a strip of squares. Make two more strips and join so that you have three strips forming a rectangle — how about using that for a place mat?

Or join four to make a cylinder or ring; then join another square by sewing each edge of this fifth square to one edge of the first four and presto — you will have a hat!

Use any yarn you have on hand — finer yarn will make smaller squares and bulky yarn will make larger squares. Use the appropriate hook size for different weights of yarn. Each square can have its own color sequence or just work at

The Daily Reflector, Greenville, N.C.—Monday, April 25, 1983—3 random picking any color that suits your fancy each time you start a new round. Experiment and enjoy.

Question Mark For '84

Harold Washington's election in Chicago stands as a question mark for all of us as the preliminaries get under way for the 1984 presidential campaigns.

Washington is a Democrat who unseated former Mayor Jane Byrne and then edged Republican Bernard Epton — who was barely known outside his own precinct until Washington beat Mrs. Byrne and became a viable black candidate for mayor. But political party had little to do with their race and will have little to show in planning for the future by other candidates.

What does matter is race — the kind that produces ethnic prejudices. Washington may have started it in Chicago with his public utterances to black audiences of, "It's our turn." Mrs. Byrne and Epton certainly did nothing to diminish the racial overtones.

When the Chicago elections came up, it was down the line — about 90 percent of the blacks who voted casting their ballots for a black candidate and about 90 percent of the whites who voted casting their ballots for the white candidates. When that kind of lineup at the polls occurs in one of the nation's largest cities, you can imagine the concern over what might happen two years from now across the nation.

The questions are valid: will there be a return to the old ethic and religious barriers at the polls — no black vote for a white candidate or vice versa; no Protestant for a Catholic and no Catholic for a Protestant?

We hope not. This nation has had enough of the elections that barred people of any ethnic group simply because of the color of their skin; or banned candidates because of their religion, or allowed the election of the likes of Kansas City's Tom Pendergast, New York's Jimmy Walker or Boston's James Curley, who was re-elected mayor while serving in a federal penitentiary.

Harold Washington, at least, has served his jail time and presumably has been rehabilitated. The ethnic madness in Chicago must stop with him.

Popular Choice

The Democratic Party is looking to San Francisco as the site for its 1984 convention.

The city was chosen by the party's site selection committee. Apparently San Francisco was a popular choice. The committee voted 23-2 in favor of the location.

As always in politics, however, it was not an easy fight. Newly elected Chicago Mayor Harold Washington made a strong bid to bring the convention to his city. New York, Detroit and Washington also wanted the convention.

San Francisco, no doubt, will be popular with the Democratic delegates. It is, for one thing, an interesting place to visit. It is also located in the home state of President Reagan, who might or might not be the Republican candidate that the Democratic presidential candidate will oppose.

No doubt there will be considerable Democratic enthusiasm in San Francisco in 1984.

Fancy Gadgetry

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration is throwing some of the Pentagon's fanciest gadgets into its war against drug smugglers, but skeptics in Congress fear that the effort may be crippled by broken promises and bureaucratic rivalries.

Acting under orders from Vice President George Bush, the Navy made its sophisticated E-2C Hawkeye radar reconnaissance planes available 85 hours a month to help the Customs Service spot low-flying planes landing in South Florida with illicit cargoes of marijuana and cocaine.

But Customs Commissioner William von Raab said the Hawkeyes have averaged far less flying time than that in the past six months, with only 20 hours logged in February and less than 10 in March.

The Navy was ordered to help in South Florida because the most of the Customs Service's 65 planes are hand-me-downs confiscated from drug smugglers, say Customs officials. The planes generally lack the long-range radar and high-speed maneuverability required for the task of spotting and grounding airborne smugglers.

At one point, say congressional investigators, the military decided it could reduce reliance on Navy air support by using a large Air Force radar balloon tethered at Cudjoe Key off the Florida coast.

But Von Raab said the balloon did not begin supplying usable surveillance data on illicit drug flights until March — a full seven months later than promised. A second radar balloon at Patrick Air Force Base, Fla., won't be ready until next August.

Such is the news from the battlefield more than one year after President Reagan, amid much fanfare, created a multi-agency task force under Bush on Jan. 28, 1982, to "reduce and, hopefully, eliminate" crime and illicit drug trafficking in South Florida.

Rep. Glenn English, D-Okla., chairman of a House subcommittee studying the air war against drug smuggling, says the government has misled the people of Florida about the extent of military air support provided under Bush's orders.

"The fact of the matter is, it appears the emperor has no clothes," English said during subcommittee hearings in Miami last February.

In a recent interview, English described the situation as: "an awful lot of bluff by the end of the year and not much coverage — not much protection"

The government has seen evidence lately that with the spotlight on South Florida, air smugglers are seeking alternative routes of entry across U.S. borders. The military, goaded by English's subcommittee, is responding with a promise to commit a new fleet of aircraft to help Customs in the widening war.

English, however, said problems with the Navy planes and Air Force balloons in South Florida had made him cautious about taking the government at its word. "I'll believe it when I see it," he said.

The congressman is worried, too, about the threat of renewed interagency rivalries resulting from the creation of new anti-drug task forces to conduct long-term investigations of the drug-dealing hierarchy and its financial operations in a dozen major cities — Baltimore, New York, Boston, Atlanta, Houston, St. Louis, Chicago, Detroit, Denver, Los Angeles, San Francisco and San Diego.

Unlike South Florida, where the anti-drug effort is unified under Bush's control, the urban task forces will operate under the Justice Department. But Justice has no direct authority over agencies like the Customs Service, which are responsible for intercepting smugglers at the border.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Critics of the Reagan administration's easing of auto safety regulations are welcoming the resignation of the president's top highway safety official, calling it an opportunity for change.

Raymond A. Peck announced Friday that he would leave as head of the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration next month, but gave no reason for his resignation and declined to discuss the matter with reporters.

Peck has been under fire from members of Congress and from auto-safety groups while directing a broad rollback of auto safety regulations imposed by his predecessor, consumer activist Joan Claybrook.

Transportation Secretary Elizabeth Dole did not elaborate on Peck's resignation, but said she had "respect for Ray's desire to seek new challenges."

Administration sources, speaking under the condition that they not be identified by name, said that while Peck was not fired, he had been given little choice but to depart. Both White House and top ranking department officials, including Mrs. Dole, had shown general dissatisfaction with Peck, the sources added.

Peck, 43, a former lobbyist for the National Coal Association, came to the job with little background in highway safety and a mandate from the White House to cut back on the government's regulation of the auto industry.

During the past four years his agency scrapped a requirement for automatic seat belts in new cars, softened a rule on bumper strength, eliminated part of a tire grading standard, discontinued development of side-impact standards, and canceled publication of a consumer book comparing cars' safety characteristics.

But, according to several sources, Peck's trouble within the administration stemmed from his repeated clashes with key members of transportation committees in Congress.

At one hearing, Sen. John Danforth, R-Mo., chairman of the Commerce transportation subcommittee, accused Peck of conducting a "search and destroy mission against any useful idea that is put forward to make the highways safer."

At another, the chairman of a committee accused him of filibustering and cut off his testimony. During another hearing, Rep. Timothy Wirth, D-Colo., charged that Peck had abandoned safety advocacy to "helping the auto industry" cope with its economic troubles.

Danforth and Wirth issued statements Friday evening welcoming Peck's resignation and urging Reagan to move quickly to name a new NHTSA administrator with a commitment to highway safety.

"The appointment of a new administrator means the administration has an opportunity to turn over a new leaf," declared Danforth, a staunch advocate of the air bag in automobiles.

Other critics of Peck doubted the resignation will substantially change the direction taken by the highway safety agency.

"You're getting a change of faces, but it's still the Reagan administration which is committed to auto deregulation," said Clarence Ditlow, head of the Center for Auto Safety, a group founded by Ralph Nader. "It doesn't mean that the administration is going to become pro-consumer on auto safety issues."

Peck in a brief statement defended his leadership of the agency, saying the past two years marked "a watershed in the history of protecting health and safety" for the nation's motorists. He noted the number of highway deaths has dropped "to its lowest level in decades."

Various highway safety experts, including a number within NHTSA, say, however, the decline in traffic deaths has been primarily related to changes in driving habits because of the economic recession and not federal regulatory policies.

IRS Sometimes Pays For Squealers

I know it is going to come as a surprise to some people, but the Internal Revenue Service has a "squeal" rule. If someone is cheating on his or her taxes, and you tell the IRS where to look, and they manage to collect the hidden money, you can get a reward of up to $50,000.

You would think that the tipster money is what attracts income tax whistle blowers to the IRS, but this is not always the case.

"I would like to see the man in charge of tax cheaters."

"I am that person. May I help you?"

"I want to tell you about a man who bilked you out of two million dollars over five years."

"Before you do, may I ask you why you are telling me this?"

"Because I'm a patriotic American, and I feel everyone should pay his fair share of taxes, so we can protect our way of life."

"That's good to hear."

"The person also happens to be my third husband, and you'll never meet a more devious rat in your life."

"Then you have a personal motive in turning him in?"

"There's nothing personal about it. I'd turn him in if he were a stranger. Anyone who runs off with his secretary when he's married to a wonderful woman who gave him the best years of her life deserves to feel the full weight of IRS on him."

"You say he's been cheating on his taxes for five years. Why did you come to us now?"

"I found these love letters in his closet last week. Smell them. Have you ever sniffed such cheap perfume? Now most women would have immediately gone to a lawyer like Marvin Mitchelson. But I'm not the vengeful type. I decided to come here instead. I said to myself, 'Rose, isn't what he did to you that matters, it's what he did to his country. The money he has cheated from the United States could be the difference between war and peace, freedom and slavery, and prosperity and recession."

"Did you say anything else to yourself?"

"Come to think of it, I did. I said, 'Rose, I'd like to see that blonde floozy's face when she sees Milton behind bars.' But that was just a second thought, and it's not why I'm here today."

"I understand that. You say Milton cheated us out of two million dollars. Do you know where the money is?"

"He spent a lot of it. He had a boat, he bought me fur coats, jewelry, and a new BMW. Believe me if I knew it was Uncle Sam's money I wouldn't have accepted any of it."

"How did you find out he was not declaring his full income?"

"I discovered he was also paying for a penthouse apartment on Park Avenue for his tootsie, and it suddenly dawned on me it must be coming out of the IRS's pocket. So I immediately came down here to let you know. I can't live with a man who lies on his income tax return."

"Are you aware that the IRS pays rewards to people for turning in tax cheaters?"

"I'm not here for the money. I just want to help my country and President Reegan and our fine boys in the armed forces, and the senior citizens and the poor and the homeless, and everyone else who depends on our tax dollars for support. If Milton has to suffer horribly for his cheating ways, I can live with that too."

"Well, Rose, I'll turn you over too our criminal investigators, and you can provide them with the leads for a full investigation. We can't tell you how much we appreciate your visit."

"I was only doing my duty as a citizen."

"We know that, and as a small token of our appreciation we'd like to present you with this American Flag. If it weren't for selfless patriots like yourself, our job would be so much harder."

Glenn Running With Shakey Base

CLEVELAND — Sen. John Glenn's lack of rapport with Democratic activists extends to his Ohio base, as shown by a recent meeting at Stouffer's Hotel in Cleveland when he unsuccessfully sought endorsements from two prominent young party stalwarts here.

Glenn's shaky base was revealed not merely by refusals from Cuyahoga County Commissioner Tim Hagan and Congressman Ed Feighan but by their reasons: The senator has been inexcusably tardy in cultivating them, well behind front-running Walter F. Mondale. Thus, Hagan will be Mondale's point man in Ohio and could be joined in time by his sidekick, Feighan, who will remain neutral for now.

Mondale's alert operatives have been fishing in Ohio's waters to embarrass Glenn. But beyond encouraging such raids, the senator's petty pains at home are a microcosm of his massive headache nationwide: a projected superstar against Ronald Reagan in the general election, he looks like a loser in the primaries.

He looks that way partly because of the perception, in Ohio and elsewhere, that he had not pulled his act together before this week's curtain-raiser. Indeed, his conversation with Hagan and Feighan at Stouffer's came months too late.

Hagan, who as Democratic county chairman in 1980 broke from the Carter-Mondale standard to support Edward M. Kennedy, told Glenn that Mondale had repeatedly contacted him this year — five times on the telephone, three personal meetings. And Glenn? That meeting at the Cleveland hotel was his first overture. Feighan told the senator he was congratulated on his election to Congress last year by Kennedy, Mondale and other Democratic luminaries, but not by Glenn.

Hagan then posed this question for Glenn, a question that goes to the heart of his campaign's viability: Had John Glenn romanced any county-level functionary in Minnesota as Fritz Mondale had romanced Tom Hagan in Ohio? There was no answer, but the fact that it would have been "no" underlines doubts in Glenn's home state about the professionalism of his campaign.

Those doubts were fanned by Glenn's abysmal showing at the recent Massachusetts Democratic Convention.

Some Ohio Democrats who went out to help were shocked by the lack of preparation and the fact that Glenn had made only one visit to Massachusetts. As a result, one Ohio party wheelhorse told us he would not go all-out for Glenn until he became convinced that his campaign was truly serious.

Considering their blood feud dating back to 1974 when Glenn unseated Sen. Howard Metzenbaum in the Democratic primary, it is no surprise Metzenbaum decided not to be at his colleague's side in New Concord. What is more surprising is lack of endorsement from up-and-coming State Attorney General Tony Celebrezze Jr. (son of the former Cleveland mayor, former Kennedy Cabinet member and present federal judge).

Not overly enthusiastic for Glenn, Celebrezze has been a secret Ohio target-of-opportunity for Mondalites: While delaying any endorsement, however, Celebrezze decided to attend at New Concord. That not too many Ohio Democratic politicians go public against Glenn may be attributed to Gov. Celeste's strong endorsement.

Contending that talk of Ohio defections is "just wishful thinking" by Glenn's opponents, Celeste told us: "I would be very disappointed if any of my supporters do not support Sen. Glenn." Nevertheless, Ohio politicians are skeptical about the governor's intensity.

Board Opposes Reincorporation

EMERALD ISLE, N.C. (AP) — The Emerald Isle Board of Commissioners voted 4-1 Friday to oppose the reincorporation of Inlet Dunes, which contains a house owned by Sen. Kenneth Royall, D-Durham, who filed a bill to allow the secession.

However, the board approved a bill filed by four state House members to open a public parking lot for tourists in the Inlet Dunes area and to close a ramp there that allows four-wheel vehicles on the beach.

Emerald Isle Mayor Richard Smith said the bills address to an issue that has split the town for 10 years — public access to area beaches.

TO ALL TELEPHONE COMPANY SUBSCRIBERS NOTICE OF HEARING

DOCKET NO. P-100, SUB 64

BEFORE THE NORTH CAROLINA UTILITIES COMMISSION

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the North Carolina Utilities Commission has instituted an investigation into the rates, charges, and regulations applicable within North Carolina for long distance, WATS and interexchange private line service. This action is made necessary as a result of the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company's application for a rate adjustment as filed in Docket No. P-55, Sub 816, wherein Southern Bell proposes changes in rates, charges and regulations which, if approved in whole or in part for Southern Bell alone, would result in non-uniform rates for long distance service in North Carolina.

The Commission is of the opinion that it is in the public interest for uniform intrastate long distance, WATS and interexchange private line rates to be maintained for all telephone companies under its jurisdiction. Accordingly, the Commission has assigned this matter in Docket No. P-100, Sub 64; has instituted an investigation into said intrastate long distance, WATS and interexchange private line rates; has made all telephone companies under its jurisdiction parties to the investigation and has set the matter for hearing. The Commission's investigation is for the purpose of determining if changes should be made in the present intrastate rates for these services and, if so, if the rates should be made applicable to all telephone companies under the Commission's jurisdiction.

LONG DISTANCE MESSAGE TELECOMMUNICATION SERVICE

The basic long distance message rates are not proposed to be changed, however, the additional operator assistance charges per call are proposed to be changed as follows:

STATION-TO-STATION

	Present	Proposed
Customer Dialed Credit Card	.30	.50
All Other	.70	1.25

PERSON TO PERSON

All Calls	1.70	2.50

Other changes in long distance rates herein under consideration include: the application of time-of-day discounts to the actual time periods a call is in progress; the application of holiday discounts only on December 25, January 1, July 4, Thanksgiving Day and Labor Day; and restructuring of charges for conference service. The Company is proposing a charge of $.35 for each request for long distance directory assistance. Under the Company's proposal there will not be a free allowance for long distance directory assistance requests nor a provision for offsetting such request with long distance calls.

WIDE AREA TELECOMMUNICATIONS SERVICE

Increases in the nonrecurring charges for WATS and 800 service arrangements are being proposed without associated increases in the recurring monthly rates.

INTEREXCHANGE PRIVATE LINE AND FOREIGN EXCHANGE SERVICES

Many of the monthly rates and nonrecurring charges applicable to interexchange private line service, Dataphone Digital Service, Telpak and foreign exchange service are proposed to be increased. The prices for Telpak station terminals are proposed at the same level as for single channel service station terminals. Telpak services are proposed to be obsoleted in this proceeding. Services to existing customers are proposed to be continued for a period of two years after which time these arrangements would be withdrawn entirely.

FURTHER DETAILS

The details of the changes in rates, charges and regulations for long distance service, WATS, interexchange private lines and foreign exchange service are available at telephone company business offices or at the North Carolina Utilities Commission, Dobbs Building, 430 North Salisbury Street, Raleigh, North Carolina, where a copy of Southern Bell's application is available for public review. The Commission will consider additional or alternative rate proposals which were not included in the original application and may order rate increases or decreases which differ from those proposed by the Company. Upon request the Commission will place copies of the application and prefilled testimony in centrally-located public libraries. The material may be copied without prohibition at the library.

The Utilities Commission has suspended the proposed rate adjustments, has set the application for investigation and hearing and has required each regulated telephone company in North Carolina to comply with all provisions of law and Commission Rules in connection with the proposed adjustments.

The hearing on the matter has been scheduled to begin Wednesday, June 1, 1983, in the Commission Hearing Room, Dobbs Building, 430 North Salisbury Street, Raleigh, North Carolina at 10:00 a.m. and will continue through June 3, 1983, as necessary. On these dates, the Commission will hear the testimony and cross-examination of witnesses for all telephone companies, the Public Staff, intervenors and public witnesses.

The Commission requires that each company inform its customers of the following procedures by which comments regarding the rate application can be made part of the record of the case upon which the Commission must base its decision. Persons desiring to intervene in the matter as formal parties of record should file a motion under North Carolina Utilities Commission Rules R1-6 and R1-19 ten days prior to the hearing. The testimony of intervenors shall be filed on or before May 23, 1983. Other persons desiring to present testimony for the record should appear at the public hearing. Persons desiring to send written statements to the Commission should submit their statements prior to the hearing and should include any information which those persons wish to be considered by the Commission in its investigation of the matter. The contents of letters and petitions will be received in the official file as statements of position. Specific facts, however, will be considered on the basis of testimony presented at the public hearing. Interventions or statements should be addressed to the Chief Clerk, North Carolina Utilities Commission, Post Office Box 991, Raleigh, North Carolina 27602.

Every year as leaves begin to unfold and green color returns to the woods and low lands, an insect makes its appearance once again. Anyone who looks around a little, either in town on fruit and ornamental trees or in the country on wild plum trees can find ample evidence of the eastern tent caterpillar.

The tent caterpillar is an insect whose numbers can be alarming to anyone who has a large tree that is one of the preferred hosts species. This caterpillar constructs tents in the crotches of wild cherry, apple, peach and plum trees primarily. Trees that are attacked more rarely are witch hazel, rose, beech, birch, barberry, oak, willow and poplar.

The tent caterpillar spends the winter as a dark-brown collar-like mass of eggs attached securely to links and twigs of favorite host plants. The egg masses are about three-quarter inch long by one-half inch in diameter and contain several hundred eggs. The egg mass appears to have been varnished.

The eggs hatch in early spring and the young caterpillars gather in a fork of the limbs of a tree. Once the young caterpillars have congregated they construct a web of spun silk. The worms will amass in the tent during the rainy weather and at night. During daylight, the caterpillars feed on the newly-expanded leaves.

Trees that are severely infested with tent caterpillars can be stripped of their leaves. Usually the trees will leaf back out a few weeks after defoliation. In some years, birds and parasites limit the outbreaks of tent caterpillars. Baltimore orioles are particularly fond of this pest. But every ten years or so, tent caterpillars reach very high populations.

If control measures need to be taken on tent caterpillars it is best that physical removal of the tents or nests be tried first. Burning out the nests with torches or flaming rags is not recommended because of possible damage to the tree. It is better to prune out the egg cases in late winter when they are found, or prune out branches containing nests. Often a pole can be used to destroy the nest in the tree.

There are also several chemicals that may be used on tent caterpillars while young. These chemicals include Bacillus thuringiensis, (Dipel or Thuricide) Sevin, Diazinon, Malathion or Methoxychlor. Any of these chemicals can be found in local garden stores. The label directions should be followed and sprays should probably be made in the evening when the caterpillars have returned to the nest. Control is better when worms are small in size.

Eye Small Subsidized Woodlots

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — One of the ways in which the administration hopes to reduce the government's role in agriculture involves the subsidized development of small, privately owned woodlots.

A decade ago Congress authorized the Forestry Incentives Program to help pay the cost of tree planting and timber stand improvement on tracts no larger than 500 acres.

Under the program, the federal government pays 50 to 75 percent of the cost of upgrading the woodlots. Total federal spending has generally been less than $15 million annually — not a major item when compared to the billions that go to other agricultural programs.

In the fiscal year that began last Oct. 1, the program has about $12.5 million to help farmers and other woodlot owners upgrade timber production.

The budget proposed by President Reagan last January included no specific funds for the program in the fiscal year which will begin on Oct. 1. Officials say, however, that money will be available for "discretionary" use by local federal program administrators as the need arises.

Assistant Secretary John B. Crowell, who oversees natural resource and environment programs in the Agriculture Department, says that "non-industrial private forests" represent a major resource that should be developed further through capital investment.

The Forest Service

estimates that there are 124 million acres of such private forests in the United States, most of the area in units of 100 acres or more.

Those tracts are owned by about 600,000 owners. A thousand or so have holdings of more than 10,000 acres each, Crowell said.

"Going a step further, almost 40 percent of non-industrial private forest land is concentrated in tracts of 500 or more acres, with the tracts owned by 63,000 owners," Crowell said.

"While it is true that there are 5.5 million owners who have holdings of less than 10 acres, and that there are another 1.2 million owners who own 10 to 50-acre holdings, these figures are put into their proper perspective when one realizes that lands owned by such high numbers of individuals constitute only about an eighth of the total non-industrial forest land base," he said.

A new Forest Service study, he said, shows that while private land management can still be viewed as a problem needing attention, owners "are making more effort than is generally realized to regenerate their harvested lands."

Crowell said that "the federal government cannot, in my opinion, reasonably be expected in the foreseeable future to provide any major increase in the level of investment needed" to accomplish improvement goals.

"I am under no illusion that there is any original thinking on my part in identifying these two basic ingredients — re-education of landowners about the opportunities, and the need for investment capital so these opportunities can be realized," he said.

Tobacco Care

According to Roger Cobb, Pitt extension agent, the extremely wet conditions this spring in Pitt County have created perfect conditions for damping off to occur in tobacco beds.

Cobb said growers need to spray an additional application of Ridomil 70 days after the initial soil application. The Ridomil 2E should be tank-mixed at the rate of one pint per acre in 50 gallons of water with a protectant fungicide such as zineb 75 WP, ferbam 76 WP, maneb 80 WP or metiram, he added.

Applications of the mixture of Ridomil and a protective fungicide may be repeated at seven-day intervals until plant beds are destroyed, said Cobb.

Yellow nutsedge

Purple nutsedge

You're looking at the best reasons for using Vernam® in peanuts.

Nutsedge. It's your biggest weed problem. If you treat only yellow nutsedge, you could be overlooking another problem weed: purple nutsedge. But there is one herbicide that can control both varieties. Only one, Vernam.

And Vernam has a lot going for it besides nutsedge.

Like the 20 other grass and broadleaf weeds Vernam can control by itself. (In a tank mix with Balan,* it gets tough buffalograss as well.) Or, that you incorporate Vernam, so it gives you reliable coverage in wet weather or dry. With Vernam, you don't have to rely on precisely the right amount of rain to do the job.

You know nutsedge is a problem in your peanuts. And you know Vernam can get the job done. That's why peanut farmers like you have been relying on it for the past 15 years.

WHITE SANDS MISSILE RANGE, N.M. (AP) — A Pershing 2 missile flew 75 miles in nine minutes to hit a target accurately in the ninth test-launching of the new weapon, Army officials said.

The test Sunday had been postponed two days to check the missile's hydraulic system after air was found in the same system of a similar missile in Orlando, Fla., said Maj. David Olmsted, an Army spokesman.

Views On Dental Health

Kenneth T. Perkins, D.D.S.P.A.

WHY A SPACE MAINTAINER?

A primary tooth (sometimes called a "baby" tooth), normally stays in place until the permanent tooth is ready to replace it. If your child's tooth is lost too soon, your dentist may recommend inserting a "space maintainer" to hold the space open until the permanent tooth can erupt in the proper position.

If a space maintainer is not used, your child can have a number of problems. Over a period of time, the teeth on either side often drift into the empty space. Then, when it is time for the permanent tooth to come in, there is not enough room. This is one cause of malocclusion or "crooked teeth". If teeth drift and become crooked, plaque will be hard to remove. This can result in severe tooth decay, and will contribute to periodontal (gum) disease.

Prevention of malocclusion caused by early loss of a primary tooth is simple. On the other hand, if nothing is done to maintain the open space, the resulting crooked teeth could lead to more complicated and expensive orthodontic treatment.

Prepared as a public service to promote better dental health. For the offices of: Kenneth T. Perkins, D.D.S.P.A. Evans St., Phone: 752-5126.

NEW YORK (AP) — The Dow Jones industrial average reached the 1,200 level today as Wall Street kept its eight-month-old bull market in high gear.

The widely recognized average of 30 blue chip stocks climbed 4.16 to 1,200.46 by noon. Last Aug. 12, the average stood at 776.92.

Advancing issues outnumbered declines by about 7 to 6 in the midday tally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

On Friday, the Dow Jones industrials rose 8.03 points to a record-high 1,196.30, finishing the week with a gain of 24.96 points.

Analysts said the market got a boost from the news late Friday of a $3.1 billion drop in the basic measure of the money supply for the latest reporting week. The figure was seen as improving the chances that the Federal Reserve might seek to foster further declines in interest rates.

RESPONSIBILITY

By Janice Wynne, R.N., Substance Abuse Services

The word responsibility when divided actually means our "ability" to respond to our own needs and to the needs of those around us. Years of living with active alcoholism affects most of us so that we are unable to respond, we simply react. Many of us confuse our responsibilities to others with a feeling of having to be responsible for everyone and everything that happens. The result is many distorted relationships with family and friends.

An honest look at our responsibilities can help to increase our self-esteem and to improve those relationships which add so much meaning to our lives.
Do I accept responsibility to do something about my problems as they arise?
Do I set goals realistically?
Do I consider my welfare when making decisions?

Am I true to my ideals, refusing to compromise myself just to keep peace?
Can I accept love from family as well as giving it?
Can I apologize when wrong?
Am I a good example for children?
Do I treat my co-workers with dignity and consideration?
Do I use activities just to escape the problems at home?
Have I learned all I can about the disease of alcoholism?
Am I grateful for my blessings?

As we begin to clarify our responsibilities to ourselves and others, we will develop a willingness to take them more seriously. That willingness is the first step toward being able to respond with meaning to our needs and those of the people around us.

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to express my appreciation and thanks to the many friends and sisters and brothers in Christ for the many visits, telephone calls, flowers and donations of any kind while I was in Pitt Memorial Hospital. I do not have adequate words to fully express my sincere thanks.

Thanks to my Dr. Artis and the other doctors who were so concerned in my recovery. The nurses, aides, even the domestic staff were superb. May God continue to bless you every one. I have not fully recovered, but thank God I am much better, and am recuperating at home.

Andruzzi Pleased With 1983 RecruitsLady Pirates Sign Four

East Carolina University coach Cathy Andruzzi has announced the signing of four athletes to basketball grants-in-aid. The four are 5-10 forward Annette Phillips of Louisburg Junior College, 6-0 forward Lynn Nance of Ashboro, 6-1 center Juili Davis of Alexandria, Va. and 5-9 guard Jody Rodriguez of Fayetteville.

"We are pleased about the four athletes we have signed," said Andruzzi. "Not only are they fine athletes, but they are good students. They have outstanding overall credentials. They are the four girls we have been interested in all year. They bring us some size which we wanted to add, and they are really enthusiastic. They wanted to come to ECU and to be a part of our program."

Phillips, a starting forward on the Louisburg squad which finished second in the National Junior College Tournament last season and fourth this year, attended Princeton High School in Smithfield. She was all-tournament in the East Coast Classic and the St. Augustine's College Tournament as well as co-most val-able player at the East Coast Classic. Phillips was all-Region 14 both athletically and academically in 1982 and 1983 and was the outstanding defensive player. At Princeton, she was the Player of the Year in the Carolina Conference as well as all-East.

"We've wanted Annette for a long time," admits Andruzzi. "She is a hard worker on and off the court. She is not flashy but gets the job done. She's a smart ballplayer — she hustles."

Nance, a forward-center for Wouthwestern Randolph High School, was all-Central Carolina Conference in 1982 and 1983. Ranked fourth of 135 in her senior class, Nance was the Player of the Year in Randolph County in 1983 and the Southwestern Female Athlete of the Year. She averaged 19.8 points and 10.2 rebounds per game as a senior and 14.9 points and 9.4 rebounds as a junior. She holds school records for most points in a season with 459 and most points in a game with 45.

"Lynn has a lot of potential," said Andruzzi. "She played on a young team in high school and had to carry a lot of responsibility. She has a great deal of character and is hard-working."

Davis, a 6-1½ product of Lake Braddock Secondary School in Alexandria, was an all-region choice by the Washington Journal and a second-team selection on the Washington Post Northern District Team. Davis was second team all-league and third team all-Northern Region. In addition to being the MVP at Lake Braddock, Davis holds career school records for most point scored 916, most rebounds 691, and most blocked shots 123. She is the first female athlete to receive a scholarship at Lake Braddock in the last 10 years.

Juili is big," said Andruzzi. "She was under four different head coaches in four years, but she has the size and potential for us. She will need some consistency, but we're excited about getting her."

The only guard signed is Rodriguez of Terry Sanford in Fayetteville. All-Southeastern 4-A Conference in basketball, softball and volleyball, Rodriguez was all-city, all-county and player of the year in Fayetteville. She was all-east and honorable mention all-state and a nominee for high school all-America status. She scored over 1,000 in her four-year career and was the MVP of the local Christmas tourney.

Bryant Runs Stars To 23-16 Victory

By The Associated Press
The Philadelphia Stars handed Boston two points, then the Breakers handed Philadelphia the football — and their United States Football League game.

The Stars, whose 7-1 record is the best in the league, downed 5-3 Boston 23-16 Sunday. Kelvin Bryant ran for 110 yards and a touchdown, but the key play came late in the game.

Stars punter Sean Landeta ran out of his own end zone with Philadelphia ahead 20-14 for a safety. On the ensuing kickoff, however, Boston's Ira Matthews fumbled at his own 30 and John Sutton recovered for the Stars. With 1:49 left, David Trout put the game out of reach with a 42-yard field goal.

"I think the Stars made a poor decision in calling for the safety," said Breakers Coach Richard Coury. "It gave us a chance but we fumbled it away and that cost us the game."

"Our kicking coverage was excellent," noted Stars Coach Jim Mora, "and the fumble recovery was the turning point of the game."

Sutton said the Stars did everything they planned to do on Matthews' kick return.

"The biggest thing we wanted to do was make sure we made the tackle to keep them from getting good field position," said Sutton.

Boston quarterback John Walton hit 31 of 44 passes for 367 yards.

Elsewhere Sunday, it was Tampa Bay 30, Washington 23 and Birmingham 21, Oakland 9. On Saturday night it was Michigan 34, Los Angeles 24 and Arizona 24, Denver 3.

Monday night, New Jersey visits Chicago.

Bandits 30, Federals 23

Carl Franks' 18-yard touchdown run with 2:25 remaining lifted the Bandits to 6-2, tops in the Central Division. Washington fell to 1-7.

Jimmy Jordan threw three

Tampa Bay touchdown passes to Eric Truvillion and finished with 29 completions in 45 attempts for 345 yards. It was Jordan's first start at quarterback. He replaced John Reeves, who broke his wrist last week.

Franks, a rookie from Duke, did not report to Tampa Bay until last Thursday because he is completing undergraduate requirements.

Stallions 21, Invaders 9

Reggie Collier and Cornelius Quarles ran untouched into the end zone on key runs for the Stallions. Quarterback

Collier scored on a 17-yard draw play and Quarles scampered in on a 25-yard run up the middle.

Both teams now are 3-5.

Panthers 34, Express 24
Bobby Hebert connected with Anthony Carter on a 26-yard touchdown toss and then threw a yard to Mike Cobb to pace Michigan. Novo Bojovic kicked four field goals as the Panthers, 4-4, rallied in the second half. LA also is 4-4.

Waltrip Captures VNB 500 Title; Rudd, Ruttman Bump

MARTINSVILLE, Va. (AP) — With victories in his last two starts, two-time Grand National stock car champion Darrell Waltrip says "I'm like a pig in a trough right now. I'm right where I want to be."

While Waltrip may have been happy with his relatively easy triumph Sunday in the Virginia National Bank 500 at Martinsville Speedway that earned him a record $35,225 paycheck, there also were some unhappy drivers.

Pole-winner Ricky Rudd and Joe Ruttman were bumping at the finish, almost touching off a fight along pit row, and Tim Richmond was complaining because he was penalized five laps for putting left side tires on the right side of his car while leading early in the race.

All this came on top of early intermittent rain and 10 caution flags for a record 103 laps caused by the weather and several wrecks that slowed Waltrip's average speed in his Junior Johnson-prepared Chevrolet Monte Carlo to 66.460 mph on the .525-mile track.

But the key to the race may have been the 48th lap, where Bobby Allison went in front after Waltrip had been ahead since lap 356.

"There were a lot of things happening at that point," Waltrip said. "I had a sizeable lead and all of a sudden I was behind Bobby because of oil on the track. I was talking to Junior all down the backstretch and through turns three and four and was tucked in right behind Bobby."

Waltrip said he started to swing down pit road, "and Junior hollered, 'Stay out,' just at the exact moment I was going in. It didn't really matter that Bobby passed me at that point. I think he was set to go in, no matter what we did. And I really didn't think we were considering changing tires."

Both Allison and defending VNB 500 champion Harry Gant did go to the pits, Waltrip went back in front on the 48th lap and beat Gant by three car lengths with Allison third, Ruttman fourth and Rudd fifth.

Brett Helps Royals Continue To Win

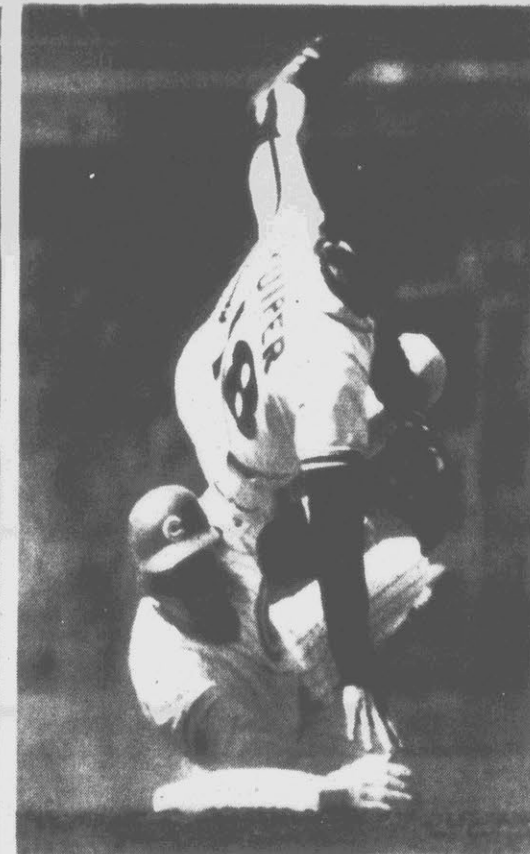

By The Associated Press

Mr. Consistency is at it again. "He doesn't surprise me," said Toronto Manager Bobby Cox of Kansas City's George Brett. "He and Cecil Cooper (of the Milwaukee Brewers) don't surprise me by anything they do." Brett, who seriously challenged the .400 batting mark in 1980 before finishing at .390, continued to hit the ball hard, hitting a double and run-scoring single in three trips Sunday to boost his average to .471 and lead the Royals to a 7-1 victory over the Blue Jays. "I really can't remember the last time I didn't hit the ball hard," said Brett, who extended his current batting streak to 13 games and also improved his American League lead in doubles to 11 and slugging percentage to .961. In addition, he has 17 RBIs. Hal McRae added two RBIs to the Kansas City attack, giving the Royals a 1-0 lead in the third inning with a bases-loaded ground ball and contributing a run-scoring single during a five-run fifth inning that included five walks.

Over And Under
San Francisco Giants second baseman Duane Kuiper jumps in the air (left) to avoid Chicago Cubs Leon Durham and then falls to the ground

"You can't win walking that many people," said Cox. "We walked too many guys. You hate to be blown out by your own wildness." The victory went to Kansas City starter Steve Renko, who scattered nine hits in seven innings and had a shutout until Jesse Barfield's home run in the seventh. In other American League games, it was Milwaukee 3, Texas 4; California 7, Baltimore 3; Chicago 9, Cleveland 3; Boston 4, Oakland 2 and Detroit 4, Seattle 2. The Minnesota-New York game was postponed by rain. Brewers 3, Rangers 1 Don Sutton allowed just four hits in eight innings to beat Texas and move into 29th place on the all-time victory list with his 261st major league triumph. The 38-year-old Sutton, 3-1, moved past Hall of Famer Ted Lyons on the victory list and passed him for 27th place in innings pitched, 4,167.2. Roy Howell hit a solo home run off Texas right-hander Charlie Hough in the second inning and Cecil Cooper singled home the game-winning run in the third. "I thought I was lucky to get in eight innings," said Sutton, who was hit on the knee by a line drive off the bat of Boston's Carl Yastrzemski last week. "Yaz taught me a lesson. You don't follow a good changeup with a bad one." Angels 7, Orioles 3 Brian Downing homered to snap a 3-3 tie in the sixth inning to lead California over Baltimore. Following Downing's second homer of the season, Juan Beniquez doubled to knock out Dennis Martinez and Rob Wilfong singled off reliever Sammy Stewart to score Beniquez for a 5-3 California lead. Mike Witt relieved starter Dave Goltz with two out in the sixth and blanked Baltimore the rest of the way. "The way I'd been swinging, I figured he (Martinez) would have to throw me a fastball, and I started my swing early," said Downing. Downing began the game hitting .250 but with only one home run and three runs-batted-in. Last year, he hit 28 homers and drove in 84 runs. White Sox 9, Indians 3 Scott Fletcher knocked in four runs and scored another as the Chicago snapped a three-game losing streak with a victory over Cleveland. Chicago right-hander Richard Dotson allowed seven hits, walked four and struck out three in seven innings before getting relief help from Kevin Hickey. "I've always made good contact as a hitter," Fletcher said. "And when you bat ninth, you're going to get good pitches to hit, so you should hit the ball hard." Fletcher entered the game with five hits in his last 14 at bats, then went 2-for-4, reaching base once on an error. "Charley Lau (Chicago's batting coach) and I have been working on some things, and I think my hitting will get better,"

Fletcher said. "I'm just bearing down, seeing the ball pretty well and trying to hit it hard some place." Red Sox 4, A's 2 Dwight Evans smashed two homers, including a game-winning, three-run blast in the eighth, to lead Boston over Oakland. Evans opened his one-man show with a first-inning solo shot against A's starter and loser Mike Norris. After Norris departed following singles by Ed Jurak and Wade Boggs in the eighth, Evans greeted reliever Steve Baker with another homer, his third of the year. "I know the man (Baker) has a good breaking ball, so in that situation I'm not trying to pull it," said the right-handed Evans, who hit the game-winning homer into the right field seats. Tigers 4, Mariners 2 Larry Herndon's RBI triple keyed a two-run, third-inning rally as Detroit beat Seattle to complete a sweep of their three-game series. With the Mariners winning 2-1, Lance Parrish singled in the Detroit third and scored on Herndon's triple to tie the game. Seattle first baseman Pat Putnam then bobbled Johnny Grubb's grounder, allowing Herndon to score the winning run for the Tigers. Winner Jack Morris scattered eight hits, struck out six and allowed just one walk in 71-3 innings. "We're much better than we're playing," Manager Sparky Anderson said after the game played in cold weather with a strong wind swirling around inside Tiger Stadium. "Not that we're playing that bad, but the weather has kept us from getting into a groove."

Double Plays Help LaPoint, Cards Shut Out San Diego Padres 2-0

By The Associated Press Dave LaPoint, the St. Louis Cardinals' second-year pitcher, set the scenario. "The first pitch I was throwing was low to the backstop for a ball," he says. "The next pitch is two inches higher, and they hit it into a double play." LaPoint teamed with Bruce Sutter Sunday to pitch a 2-0, six-hit shutout against the San Diego Padres. But LaPoint's 71-3 innings were not without incident. He yielded only four hits but walked five, benefiting from three double plays. "It looked like my game plan was to walk them and get a double play," said the Cardinal left-hander. "But, honest, I was trying to throw strikes." Keith Hernandez and David Green drove in the Cardinals' two runs, and Sutter pitched 12-3 innings of two-hit relief. LaPoint's record is 2-0. In other National League games Sunday, Montreal edged Cincinnati 5-4, Chicago downed San Francisco 5-1, Houston beat Philadelphia 3-2 in 11 innings and Atlanta swept a pair from New York, 6-3 and 5-3. Los Angeles at Pittsburgh was rained out. St. Louis scored one run in the first inning off Padres right-hander Andy Hawkins, 0-1. Lonnie Smith led off with a single, took second on a ground ball and scored on Hernandez's single. Green's infield hit in the eighth scored Darrell Porter from third. San Diego Manager Dick Williams said LaPoint received more help than he really needed in the game. "We were up there hacking," Williams said. "We swung at a lot of bad pitches. I like us to be a little more selective." Expos 5, Reds 4 The Expos rallied twice, from 1-0 and 3-2 deficits, to beat Cincinnati behind three RBIs by Andre Dawson and two by Brian Little. Little's run-scoring single in the eighth inning pulled Montreal into a 3-3 tie, and Dawson followed with a homer, his fourth, for the winning runs. The Reds pulled within a run in the eighth inning when Jeff Reardon walked Jeff Jones with the bases loaded. Bryn Smith pitched the ninth for his second save. Mario Soto, 3-2, the victim of Dawson's homer, was the loser. Montreal starter Charlie Lea lasted only 22-3 innings after walking six. Cubs 5, Giants 1 Leon Durham's two-run homer in the fourth inning snapped a 1-1 tie, and Wayne Nordhagen drove in a pair of insurance runs in the eighth with a pinch single to lead Chicago over San Francisco. Durham's homer, his third of the year, followed a single by Bill Buckner and made a loser of Andy McGaffigan, 0-2. Paul Moskau, 1-1, was the winner, yielding four hits in five innings. Astros 3, Phillies 2 Jose Cruz stroked a run-scoring single in the bottom of the 11th inning to beat the Phillies. Omar Moreno led off the inning with an infield hit off Ron Reed and stole second. He went to third on a fly ball, and Dickie Thon and Phil Garner were walked intentionally. Tug McGraw relieved Reed, and Cruz singled up the middle to snap the tie. Mike Madden pitched the 11th and got the victory, his first major league decision. Braves 6-5, Mets 3-3 Bob Horner homered in both games to help Atlanta remain unbeaten in nine home games this season, while the Mets remained winless in eight road games. Rafael Ramirez's squeeze bunt broke a seventh-inning tie in the nightcap. The bunt-singler scored Brett Butler, who was running for Bruce Benedict. Benedict had singled, and Butler reached third when Steve Bedrosian's grounder went through second baseman Brian Giles' legs. Dale Murphy also homered in the second game.

Nuggets Give Suns 'Taste Of Poison'

By The Associated Press The Denver Nuggets gave the Phoenix Suns a taste of their own poison. A year ago, Phoenix beat Denver to become only the fifth team since 1975 to come back to win a National Basketball Association mini-series after losing the first game. On Sunday night, the Nuggets got even, beating the Suns 117-112 in overtime to advance to the second round against San Antonio, starting Tuesday. "This team has a lot of character and it showed tonight," center Dan Issel said. "We've been the underdog all season, but we've handled the adversity. We had to win three games last week or be eliminated and we won them all." The Suns had won the series opener in Phoenix last week before the Nuggets evened it in Denver. Elsewhere in the NBA playoffs, Boston advanced to the second round of the Eastern Conference playoffs against Milwaukee with a 98-79 victory over Atlanta. The Celtics won that best-of-3 mini-series 2-1. In the openers of two second-round series, defending champion Los Angeles whipped Portland 118-97 and Philadelphia outlasted New York 112-102. Denver, which won its first best-of-three series in four playoff appearances, got 42 points from NBA scoring champion Alex English and clutch shooting down the stretch from substitute guard Mike Evans. "We earned it," said Denver Coach Doug Moe. "We played hard to get the breaks. We just kept gutting it out." Evans hit a three-point basket with 37 seconds left in regulation to send the game into overtime deadlocked 106-106. A free throw by English and a basket by Evans put Denver ahead 111-108 and a steal and layup by Evans gave the Nuggets a 113-108 margin with 2:02 left. Kiki Vandeweghe added 28 points for Denver, while Issel had 16 and Evans 13. Walt Davis led Phoenix, which played without injured all-star Maurice Lucas, with 29 points. Celtics 98, Hawks 79 Boston literally battled its way past Atlanta, but guard Danny Ainge was the only major casualty. Faced with elimination at the hands of the Hawks, a team that lost 13 more games than Boston this season, the Celtics got 26 points, nine rebounds and nine assists from Larry Bird, who hit only four of 18 shots in Boston's second-game loss. Midway through the third period, with Boston in front 68-52, the 6-foot-5 Ainge, after being elbowed by Tree Rollins, put his head down and tackled the Hawks center. Both benches emptied, but Boston Garden security forces and cooler players prevented a free-for-all. Ainge, however, was bitten on the finger and sustained a five-stitch cut. The Celtics guard blamed Rollins and photographs appeared to back him up, but Rollins denied it. "He just stuck my finger in his mouth and I thought he was going to bite it off," Ainge said. "When I play aggressive, people call me dirty," Rollins said. "When other players play aggressive, they call it aggressive." The Celtics, who play host to the Bucks on Wednesday, raced to 11-2, 21-8 and 32-13 leads in the first period. They widened the advantage to 59-45 at halftime with Kevin McHale hitting 14 of his 16 points in the second quarter. "We came out of the blocks pretty good," Boston Coach Bill Fitch said. "Our guys took their pride, their intensity, whatever it took and came right out and did it." 76ers 112, Knicks 102 Moses Malone, despite two injured knees, thoroughly dominated New York inside, scoring 38 points and pulling down 17 rebounds for Philadelphia. "The post-game questioning hurts more than my knees," said Malone. "You (the media) all make it seem like I'm dying in here. I just like to keep a low profile." Malone, who hadn't played in two weeks because of tendinitis in one knee and inflammation in the other, hit 15 of 23 shots from the field. "I was very concerned about his timing on the boards and his stamina," said Philadelphia Coach Billy Cunningham. "But he played a perfectly outstanding game." The second game is in Philadelphia on Wednesday. Lakers 118, Blazers 97 Kareem Abdul-Jabbar scored 14 of his 32 points in the first quarter as Los Angeles took a 29-12 lead eight minutes into the game and held off Portland rallies thereafter. The Lakers play host to Portland again in the second game on Tuesday.

Connors Downs Edmondson

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Defending champion Jimmy Connors had some problems in the first set, but once he got on track had little difficulty beating Mark Edmondson, 7-6, 6-1 Sunday to win the $312,000 Alan King-Caesars Palace Tennis Classic. It was the fourth Alan King singles title for Connors, the tournament's top seed, who garnered the first prize of $62,500 with the victory in a final played in gusty winds on the center court at Caesars Palace. "I enjoy playing here, I've done well here," said Connors, who beat Edmondson for the sixth time in his career without a loss. "What's important to me is winning the tournaments I get involved in." Connors jumped off to a quick start in the outdoor final, breaking Edmondson's serve in the first game and then taking the second for a 2-0 lead. But Edmondson, an Australian ranked 24th in the world, came back to take the next two games, then broke Connors' serve twice as the two battled to a 6-6 draw in the first set. Edmondson, who was not seeded in the tournament, appeared to have the advantage in the tiebreaker, leading 3-1, but Connors came back to take six of the next seven points to win the tiebreaker, 7-4, and the set, 7-6. Losing the tiebreaker seemed to shake Edmondson's confidence and the Australian won only one game in the second set, losing the last five in a row, to go down to defeat.

Dale Roberson In Hall Of Fame

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Actor Dale Roberson, whose roles on television's "Death Valley Days" lifted him to stardom, and singing cowboy Rex Allen have been inducted into the Hall of Fame of Western Performers.

"I'd rather have this than an Academy Award," said Roberson, 59, who has made 63 movies in his 36-year acting career. He joined such performers as Will Rogers, Ben Johnson and Slim Pickens as members of the Hall.

Allen, who has made about 50 films, said the induction Saturday night at the National Cowboy Hall of Fame's Western Heritage Awards banquet was the highlight of his career. "I feel very humbled," he said.

What do you bid now?

A.—You have a five-card major suit, but there is no need to advertise that fact. Partner has already told you that he has a balanced hand, and yours is balanced, too. Make the value bid of three no trump — three spades tells partner you have a six-card suit and an unbalanced hand.

Q.2—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:

♦AKQ ♥AKJ105 ♦J87 ♦92

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

1 ♥ Pass 3 ♥ Pass

3 ♦ Pass 4 ♦ Pass

4 ♦ Pass 5 ♦ Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—You have a very good hand, yet you can do no more than bid five hearts. If you trust partner's cue-bids, your side may not have a club control. Partner had two opportunities to cue-bid clubs, but bypassed both. If he does have a club control, he is free to bid over five hearts.

Q.3—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♦KQ5 ♥82 ♦AQJ98 ♦763

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West

1 ♦ Pass 1 ♦ Pass

2 NT Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—This is a matter of simple arithmetic. Even if partner has 20 points, your side has only 32 HCP. Not even your fifth diamond is enough for you to presume that your combined holding will stretch to slam. Bid three no trump.

Q.4—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:

♦K93 ♥Q875 ♦AKJ6 ♦72

The bidding has proceeded:

East South West North

1 ♦ Dble Pass 2 ♦ Pass ?

What action do you take?

A.—If you bid again because you thought that partner's jump was forcing, we suggest you read again the chapter on takeout doubles in your bridge book. Partner's jump is invitational, and you have a dead minimum takeout double. To make matters worse, you have only three spades and partner may have only a four-card suit. Pass.

Q.5—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:

♦KQ5 ♥82 ♦AQJ98 ♦763

The bidding has proceeded:

East South West North

1 ♦ Dble Pass 2 ♦ Pass ?

What action do you take?

A.—In support of spades, your hand revalues to 11 points. Therefore, you are too strong for a simple raise to two spades. Jump to three spades — that is not forcing, only invitational. If partner has full values, he will carry on to game.

'Sniglets' Are The Words Noah Webster Left Out Of Dictionary

By FRED ROTHENBERG

AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — For the romantic, it's OK that words can't express certain experiences. But for the realist, there are holes in the dictionary, words that Noah Webster left out — like the junk that accumulates on the neck of old ketchup bottles, or the wrinkles caused by extended stays in the bathtub.

Some of those holes now can be filled, thanks to comedian Rich Hall and his "Not Ready for Network Players" who appear on Home Box Office's monthly spoof, "Not Necessarily the News." Henceforth and forevermore, there will be "sniglets" for once-wordless situations.

"Whenever you can say, 'Oh, that thing,' you've got a sniglet," says Hall. "It's something that should have a name but doesn't."

According to Hall's unabridged dictionary, "flen" is the black crusty residue found on the necks of old ketchup bottles. "Grackles" are the strange wrinkles that appear on your body when you've stayed in the tub too long.

Sniglets are all over the place. During the conversation with Hall, he spied a Bic pen and decided that the innocuous hole on the side of the pen deserved a name. It was dubbed "blint." "You try for a name that fits the image," he says. "But we find a lot of these words have some of the same sounds."

"Lub" is any particle of food that becomes lodged in one's teeth, prompting the fear of same, "lubophobia." "Lebbetts" are the mangled pieces of bread in a bag that are passed over for fresher pieces. "Chwads" are those hard pieces of gum that seem to be part of the furniture, at least they're frequently found under chairs and tables.

Hall says "flen" is the most popular sniglet. "Research says HBO's primary audience is males from 18-25, and that describes the kind of guy who's bound to have an old ketchup bottle around," he says.

The idea for sniglets came when Hall was mailing a letter, then checking and rechecking to make sure it went down the mailbox. He calls that "pre-mblemblemation." Many viewers must have experienced it when they mailed their sniglets to HBO. Hall says about 10,000 suggestions have been received.

"Many of them are crude and dwell on bodily functions," says Hall. "One we keep getting is the goo that's in the corner of your eyes when you wake up. Some suggestions are written in crayon. We got one from an HBO vice president, but it was deemed to be below standards."

None of Hall's sniglets have achieved official sanction. "When I called, both Funk & Wagnall were both out, and Daniel (he means Noah) Webster is dead," says Hall, a stand-up comedian by profession.

Hall is a writer and on-camera company member of HBO's "Not Necessarily the News," a fast-paced collection of send-ups, news spoofs and splice jobs on politicians. Some segments were part of the underground tapes that recently were making the rounds in Washington, including the White House's close-circuit TV system.
