Commissioners Act On Ayden Dilemma

Reflector Staff Writer

The Pitt County Board of Commissioners this morning, at the request of Mayor Ross Persinger of Ayden, named two members to serve on a joint committee to resolve problems with the location of a proposed new ABC store in the Ayden

Persinger, saying there had been problems with the proposed store's location, asked the board to name two representatives to meet with two representatives of the Ayden town board and members of the Pitt ABC Board in an effort to resolve the difficulties.

Persinger said the ABC store closed in Ayden a month ago and he said as far as he could determine, no effort has been made since then to find a suitable location for a store.

"As far as I'm concerned," he said, "the store closing was named Charles McLawhorn and Bob Martin to serve on the committee with Ayden Town Manager Don Russell and Persinger

The board of commissioners adopted a resolution complaining about the excessive paperwork in social services programs and requested the state Department of Social Services to make every attempt to lessen the paperwork load.

According to the resolution, there are 206 different forms that have to be filled out in the various social services programs. The resolution suggests the creation of a single multi-page form which could be used as a point of entry for

The resolution also asks the state to coordinate eligibility requirements with the federal government to make the eligibility specialist's work easier in determining who is eligible under the various assistance programs

The county board also approved a revised Pitt County Transportation Plan. The revision involved the deletion of four 15-passenger vans and the addition of the purchase of two 18-passenger vans and two 24-passenger buses in their place. The change involves no county money

Hijacked Airliner With 212 Aboard Back In U.S

MIAMI (AP) - A Capitol Air jet with 212 people aboard hijacked to Cuba returned to Miami today after being grounded overnight in Havana because the crew couldn't free the plane's jammed emergency doors, officials said.

Capitol Air Flight 236, carrying 202 passengers and 10 crew members, had originated from Puerto Rico and was hijacked by a man claiming to have explosives about 70 miles northwest of Grand Turk Island, said Roger Myers, spokesman for the Federal Aviation Administration in Atlanta.

clear Customs in Miami today said the hijacker was "a small, old guy, about 65," armed with a "gasoline-type bomb," who passed notes to the flight attendant from the front bathroom.

The DC-8 landed in Havana at 8:27 p.m. Sunday. Although Cuban officials authorized the plane to return to the United States, it couldn't leave Jose Marti International Airport before 5:28 a.m. today because crew members were unable to close the jet's two emergency doors. It finally arrived in Miami today at 6:16 a.m

FBI spokesman Steve Torres said the man who hijacked the flight bound for Miami and Chicago had a weapon, but he didn't know what kind. The man also claimed to have "some type of explosive, some type of U.S. officials know nothing about the hijacker's identity according to Torres.

The gray-haired hijacker threw a handful of notes saying he was "hungry and poor," then locked himself in the front lavatory with a briefcase, said captain Jeff Miller, the flight's pilot. He said the man appeared to be Hispanic and about 50.

Miller said the hijacker told the crew in notes passed under the door "that he was carrying one, maybe two bombs, and that he'd blow up the aircraft if we didn't go to Havana.

Uniformed Cuban soliders boarded the jet in Havana, battered down the bathroom door and took the hijacker into custody, Miller said.

A Havana radio broadcast monitored in Miami didn't identify the man or specify the charges. Miller said he didn't tell passengers about the hijack attempt because he feared the volume from the speaker the lavatory would make the man "frantic."

The job of fixing the emergency doors usually is performed by mechanics, Chuck Oldenburg, Capitol Air operations control director, said from company headquarters in Smyrna,

Capitol Air officials said a radio link was set up between technicians at the company's headquarters and some Havana-based mechanics from Iberia Airlines helping the crew of the grounded jet reset a complicated set of latches on the rear-mounted

"Our maintenance personnel here talked with the flight engineer and they had the manuals open here and were taking them through it, step by step," Oldenburg said.

The airline's chief of maintenance, Bud Andrews, said the company had received no word about why the doors had been opened in the first place. As crew members were puzzling over the doors, the passengers were "holed up in the terminal," Andrews

A bomb- and drug-sniffing dog was taken up the aircraft's empty aisles, Miller said.

Ramp Lures Politicians, Too

WAYNESVILLE, N.C. (AP) — It was a time to honor the ramp, but politicians managed to slip in some campaigning as about 7,000 people in western North Carolina gathered for the 51st annual N.C. Ramp Convention Sunday

"I learned a long time ago that if you're a Democrat in North Carolina and want to get anywhere, you'd better attend the ramp convention," said Lt. Gov. Jimmy Green.

The American Legion Post 47 grounds served as the site in this small Haywood County town for the event begun in 1932 by 13 local Democratic activists to pay homage to the nororiously pungent but edible wild plant of the Appalachian

Over the years, the spring ritual has evolved into one of North Carolina's top political and social events.

During the weekend, nearly 20 politicians greeted the crowd, dropping hints about or openly boosting their 1984 candidacies for governor, lieutenant governor, Congress, attorney general, insurance commissioner or the state legislature.

Politicking, however, wasn't the only activity. Bluegrass music, clogging and a wide variety of mountain food featuring the ramp kept the thousands busy. The ramp, a leek that grows on shady, cool mountainsides, has a long, green stem, and its thin, white bulb resembles a wild onion. But its odor and taste make the strongest onion seem mild by officers to arrest people regarded as suspicious merely because such people refuse to identify themselves. In a 7-2 decision, the court handed civil libertarians a victory by declaring unconstitutional a California law that made it a crime for a person who "loiters or wanders" not to identify himself when stopped by a police officer.

The court said that the law was too vague. But the decision stopped short of saying any such law demanding identification from pedestrians and joggers would be invalid.

The court's majority, led by Justice Sandra Day O'Connor, said that a more specifically worded law might be acceptable.

Mrs. O'Connor said the California law, in effect, leaves it to "the whim of any police officer" to decide who may walk the public streets. The law "as presently drafted and construed by the state courts, contains no standard for determining what a suspect has to do in order to satisfy the requirement to provide a 'credible and reliable' identification," she said.

"As such the statute vests virtually complete discretion in the hands of the police to determine whether the suspect has satisfied the statute and must be permitted to go on his way in the absence of probable cause to arrest." The law had been interpreted by police officers to mean they may arrest anyone if they are not satisfied that the identification they are offered is reli-

Two Convicted In Robbery

HOBGOOD - Two men charged with the armed robbery of the Peoples Bank and Trust Company officer here on February 7, were convicted and sentenced in federal court in Wilmington, Wednesday.

Larry Cornell Brady, 20 of Williamston, who actually went into the bank, received a 15-year prison term, while Rowland Lovingood, also of Williamston, who provided the sawed-off shotgun used in the robbery and drove the getaway car, was sentenced to 24 years in prison. Lovingood has previously served a 12-year prison term for armed robbery.

U.S. Attorney Samuel T. Currin said the case was an example of swift justice which resulted from the cooperative efforts of all levels of law enforcement.

Currin praised the efforts of the citizens of Hobgood escpecially Timothy Hopkins, 16, and bank manager Frank Avent - who not only assisted in the capture of Brady but also provided much assistance to law enforcement officers in the investigation and returned all of the stolen money which was scattered during the chase of Brady.

He said the Halifax County Sheriff's Department, the N.C. Highway Patrol, the Williamston Police Department and the Federal Bureau of Investigation cooperated in the investiga-

COOKING IS FUN!

By CECILY BROWNSTONE Associated Press Food Editor

Jacques Pepin is a man to watch. And you can, because he has a new cooking program on Public Television.

Shortly after my niece - a sculptor who loves to cook - saw the program for the first time. she phoned me. "The way Jacques Pepin uses his hands is fascinating - his dexterity is extraordinary. As soon as his program was over, I ran out to buy his book." The book. Everyday Cooking with Jacques Pepin," is a companion volume to his television series and is published by Harper & Row.

My niece's enthusiasm for Jacques Pepin didn't surprise me. I have known him for many - ever since he wrote his first food columns for "House Beautiful," of which my friend, the late Helen McCully, was the renowned food editor. In those days, I saw him often at Helen's New York City penthouse.

One of the most memorable mes was when Helen gave a christening party for Jacques' daughter Claudine. Along with the charm and beauty of the occasion, I still vividly remember the French fruit tarts long strips of puff pastry topped with a beguiling array of glazed fresh fruits - that Jacques had made with tender loving care. Eventually Jacques became widely known all over the country for his demonstrations and lessons. In the mid-1970s he wrote his illustrated guide to the fundamental techniques of cooking, "La Technique," and a few years later its companion volume, "La Methode.

Now Jacques has extended his province. His "Everyday Cooking" is a rich yield of recipes learned in his family's French kitchen, simple enough to be of use in kitchens everywhere.

Yes, if you are interested in the ascendancy of a culinary star, the man to watch is Jacques

Adoptive Mom's Letter Brightens Mother's Day

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Because of a letter you ran two years ago signed "Mother of Two Plus One," my prayers were answered. I am enclosing a copy of it with the hope that you will run it again.

Thirteen years ago I, too, gave up a baby girl born out of wedlock. Last year, the day before Mother's Day, I received a beautiful letter from the woman who adopted my daughter when she was five days old. She not only told me a great deal about my birth child's personality and character and interests, she enclosed some pictures of her. (I had to pinch myself to make sure I wasn't dreaming!) I don't know this woman's name or where she lives and I will not try to locate her. (Her letter was forwarded to me from the adoption agency that placed my Abby, never in my life did I expect to receive a gift so precious! Please run that letter every year before Mother's Day. It may inspire other mothers of adopted children to do what this generous, understanding woman did.

The letter that followed it, signed "Blessed in New Jersey," also deserves a rerun. I'm sure it would gladden the hearts of all women who bore children they could not keep. Sign me . . . MOTHER OF THREE PLUS ONE

DEAR MOTHER: With pleasure. Here they are:

DEAR ABBY: Ten years ago I gave birth to a daughter out of wedlock. I was very young and decided that my child was entitled to a better life than I could give her, so I gave her up for adoption.

Even though I subsequently married and have been blessed with two more daughters to love and raise, Mother's Day is the hardest day in the year for me. Not only was I unable to keep my firstborn, I know nothing about what kind of person she is; indeed I don't even

Abby, you could do a tremendously important service if you would print this request to all mothers of adopted

Once a year, on Mother's Day (or on your child's birthday, Thanksgiving, New Year's or any day at all) write to the agency that placed your child with you and provide updated information about your child's development, interests, activities, and a little about your family life if you are willing. Request that your letter be forwarded to the child's natural mother. No identities need be revealed.

Believe me, Abby, for a mother who has had no word of her child for 10 years (or five or 15), there could be no greater Mother's Day gift.

DEAR ABBY: I am a new mother whose heart is overflowing with gratitude to a 15-year-old girl I have never seen. PLANNING THE SMALL WEDDING For every hig wedding, there's a little one that offers lower expense and a sense of intimacy. However, even the small wedding can run into problems of its own

Whom to invite? If your wedding is small, keep it to family. If you include friends, make them the "like family" kind—those neighbors you've always called "Aunt Jane" and "Uncle Bill." etc. That way, no one else's feelings will be hurt

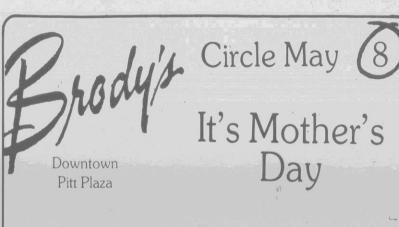

Where to have the reception? If you're lucky and have the space or a generous relative—you may choose to have your reception at home. Otherwise, look into nice restaurants with private dining

If you're marrying in a church or other place of worship, the main area may he too large. You may prefer to use the chapel or other small area. Some have choir stalls, which may be used to seat your guests. If the church area is much larger than your wedding you can separate the area you intend to use by concer trating the lighting, and by marking the last row of seating with

Large or small, your wedding is important to us

No Reason For Concern

There is no reason to be concerned about the job the East Carolina University School of Medicine is doing in improving health care in North Carolina.

It was reported last week that 15 percent, or six of the 41 members of this year's graduating class, report they will doing residency training in family medicine.

It would be nice if the percentage of graduates going into family medicine were higher. Nevertheless the school also has large numbers of graduates who intend to train in primary care medical fields. Twelve of the graduates say they will specialize in internal medicine, seven in pediatrics, five in obstetrics-gynecology and one in emergency medicine.

Thus there can be no question this graduating class of the medical school will contribute enormously to better primary health care in North Carolina.

Dean William Laupus has pointed out it was never the intent of the school to teach only family medicine. Accreditation committees require the development of broad programs in various medical specialities.

Establishment of the ECU medical school pitted far ranging grass roots support against powerful interests in North Carolina. No doubt the complaining will go on for years in the future. The facts show, however, that the school has been soundly planned and developed. The school has already had major positive impact on medical care in Eastern North Carolina, and its graduates will be steadily growing in numbers so that properly trained physicians will be available to the people of our state, be it an adult or a sick child.

Question Unanswered

White haired and 70 years old, House Speaker Thomas P. "Tip" O'Neill Jr., a Democrat, predicted last week that 72-year-old President Reagan would not run for Re-election in O'Neill noted Reagan would be 74 when a new term begins and would be 78 at the end of the term.

O'Neill sees a gruelling campaign in 1984. "I wouldn't be surprised if he doesn't step down," the speaker said.

The comments only brought a smile from Reagan who commented, "It's just a youthful mistake on his part."

Despite the partisan jockeying by two old political pros, we are not even close to an answer to the burning question of 1984. That is, will President Reagan seek re-election? No doubt the question has not yet been resolved even in the White House.

neasure the mood you might find it even higher than the prices, which are high indeed. Since last August the Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks has risen almost 55 percent.

But 55 percent, you might be told today, is really nothing, although it is almost double the average gain in the same time frame of eight other bull markets since World War II. Bigger things are coming, you are told.

Business Week magazine, which some time ago declared in a front-page article that stocks had seen their days, has now resurrected them in another front-page article called "The Rebirth of Equities, the first line of which is the quote, "I think this bull market will last for most of the decade.

After long gray years, and days that seemed endlessly dull and without even the prospect of drama, a verdant, vibrant spring seems to have enveloped the stock

NEW YORK (AP) - If you could market, including warhorses such as General Motors and IBM and Chrysler.

The latter has steadily risen and is now more than eight times the $3 or so that it sold for just a couple of years ago, inspiring similar hopes for the shares of International Harvester, which have leaped from $2.75 to as high as $12.87 within a year, despite financial problems that endanger its existence.

The Dow now rests above 1,200 points, and some of the very people who thought they'd never see that level this year or next are now pointing out that it is really not very high at all.

And it isn't, if you believe that the Dow like the purchasing power of the dollar, should be adjusted for inflation. Using today's dollar, the Dow reached close to 2,800 points points near the beginning of 1966, more than 17 years ago

The Dow today is priced at a 57 percent discount from that figure, or to say it differently, as does John Wright, the Bridgeport, Conn., money manager, "Based on this arithmetic, the DJIA could increase in price twice again as much as it has already before returning to its historic real-dollar high.

Wright and most other experienced money men will avoid making that forecast, and Wright, in fact, mentions the increasing probability of a retreat from current highs. But for many reasons, the urge to bet on the market exists.

Among the reasons listed by Business Week is the decline of inflation; the existence of price-earnings ratios that are still around 10, in comparison to more than 18 in 1973; and "an untapped market of investors. There is substance to the last named reason, and Wall Streeters bargain on it. They know it takes years for experienced investors to forget their wounds, but they know too that an unscarred and naively hopeful generation is always on the way

For the time being, at least, the market seems to offer so many thrills that the shouting has drowned out the bears, who continue to shut hoarsely that the stock market is a roller coaster that dips after the big ascent.

When the dip will come nobody really knows, but it has come in the past when the little guy was falling prey to the enticements and the shoeshine boy and the elevator operator were giving out tips, and the shouting was deafening.

Soon after, the dip begins and the shouting stops.

Hunt Joins Effort To Rework Rules

RALEIGH - Rep. Billy Watkins, D-Granville, has found an important ally in his bid to restructure the state's administrative rulemaking procedures. Gov. Jim Hunt, head of the executive branch which writes administrative rules, agrees with Watkins that things have gotten out of hand.

Watkins filed a bill early in the session which could "sunset" all administrative rules in mid-1985. The Legislature would have until that time, Watkins says, to study the procedures currently being used to write these rules and to decide which rules should be kept, which should be changed and which should be allowed to expire - or "sunset." He hopes that the 1985 session of the General Assembly vould then re-write the Adminstrative Procedures Act, under which rules are written, to correct some of the problems

What problems does Watkins see? First, too many rules are being written. "We currently have 18,000 pages of adminstrative rules, and it's growing by two sets of new rules for every working day," Watkins says. "The entanglement of state government through adminstrative rules is just one step away from a Gestapo state.

Second, the rules can be exhorbitant Watkins' law partner asked the Department of Human Resources a question about Medicaid eligibility and was sent 600 pages of governing rules

Third, everybody is writing rules. "I have been told recently by a trustee of an historic site that the Department of Cultural Resources has instructed them to draw up adminstrative rules. Now, what do they need written rules for?"

Fourth, and maybe most importantly, some of the rulemaking is violating our civil rights. The Constitution says the Legislature writes tha laws, the executive enforces them and the judiciary tries alleged offenders.

But, with administrative rulemaking, bureaucrats are writing rules and laving on large civil penalties for violators. With other rules, the bureaucrats are making violations two-year misdemeanors. Hearings on these charges aren't heard in court, they're taken before an administrative panel which has the power to levy the civil penalty ("a fine by any other names costs as much," Watkins says.) Your day in the real courts comes only after you've gone to the expense of defending yourself before an administrative panel. And then your court appearance is not a trial, just a review of the administrative court's findings.

'The idea, when we wrote the Administrative Procedures Act, was to give them the authority to make procedural rules to carry out their functions. Instead, they've turned into another Legislature," Watkins says.

Watkins recently met with Hunt who would naturally be expected to fight any weakening of the executive branch. But. according to his press secretary Gary Pearce, Hunt also recognizes the mess the Administrative Procedures Act has created. Hunt "is willing to go along with a bill that sunsets all the rules and regulations and forces a one-time legislative review of all of them because we're got too many rules and we need some means of getting them under control." Pearce said.

Watkin's bill would require that all rules be approved by the Legislature. He says he doesn't expect that provision to be passed and that he only hopes that his 'sunset'' provision will hold the Legislature's feet to the fire so a thorough study can be undertaken before

In 1985, he'd like a law passed that would allow bureaucrats to write the rules, with the Legislature approving penalties and the courts, only, imposing

Banking Bill Goes To The House

WASHINGTON (AP) — It was called compromise, but the banking industry's Senate victory on legislation to block tax withholding from interest and dividends looked more like a mortgage foreclosure. The issue is far from settled, and while they claim to be the majority, advocates of repeal are going to have more difficulty foreclosing on the House. Democratic leaders there are opposed to repeal of the requirement that banks begin withholding 10 percent of interest and dividend payments for federal income taxes effective on July 1. After a massive lobbying campaign an estimated 22 million letters -Senate voted 10 days ago to stall and effectively kill the withholding requirement. President Reagan said it was a triumph for people who want to cheat on their income taxes.

He had said earlier that he would veto any bill to repeal the withholding provision, enacted in the 1982 tax bill he embraced under congressional prodding to whittle at the budget deficit.

The Senate measure stops just short of repeal. It would put off withholding until at least July 1, 1987. At that point, the requirement could be reinstated by Congress, but it wouldn't even have to be considered unless government auditors reported that more than 5 percent of taxable interest and dividend payments were not being reported to the Internal Revenue Service.

Estimates now are that 10 percent to 15 unreported for tax purposes.

The bill would increase penalties against taxpayers who fail to report interest earnings, and it also would impose more stringent reporting rules. The administration contends that those changes wouldn't accomplish much.

The Senate vote was 95-5, after opponents of repeal acknowledged they didn't have the votes to prevent it and accepted the so-called compromise instead.

Sen. Bob Dole, R-Kan., chairman of the Finance Committee, battled to prevent repeal, swallowed the compromise, then said he hopes it will be rejected.

He said withholding would capture $4 billion to $5 billion a year in taxes that now go unpaid, on interest earned by 19 million to 20 million taxpayers who

'My banker came by yesterday and picked up my toaster and dishes," Dole said after his unsuccessful stand against the industry campaign.

He said he would expect a Reagan veto if the Senate measure passed, but still hopes to see it blocked in the House. "It's a very much misunderstood issue," Dole said. He said the banking lobby convinced people that withholding would impose a new tax on their savings, which

While there are no firm head counts, the concensus is that a majority of the House would side with the Senate and repeal withholding in a straight up-or-

But House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr. of Massachusetts and Rep. Dan Rostenkowski, D-Ill., chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, oppose repeal, and they are in no hurry to get the issue to a vote. The bill is in the Ways and Means Committee, and while a chairman can't bottle up legislation forever, he can take his time

Repeal advocates are trying to force takes 218 signatures. They are said to be about 50 short of the majority that could take the repeal bill away from the committee and send it to the floor.

House Democratic leaders decided Thursday to hold hearings on the withholding issue beginning on June 2. That process would take a while - and less than a month before the withholding requirement will go into effect under current law.

Time For A Lesson In Rejection

This month is the moment of truth for a lot of students. They are being informed by the colleges and universities they applied to whether they have been accepted or rejected. For high school students it is a particularly traumatic experience, because, for many teenagers, it's the first time that anyone has turned them down for anything.

How do you deal with rejection when you get a letter that says you can't come to a school you had your heart set on?

One of the ways is to write to the admissions director pretending you did not receive his or her letter.

It could go something like this: Dear Sir.

It is with deep regret that I ask you to withdraw my application to your school. After careful consideration and investigation I have discovered that your institution does not provide the educational experience I am looking for.

I have discovered that your exorbitant tuition fees have no correlation with the quality of your faculty, or the living facilities that you are providing for your students.

I was shocked to discover, in a recent visit to your campus, how many of your buildings are rundown and covered with ivy. Your athletic facilities are second rate and your student activity programs leave much to be desired. I also can't see spending what should be the four happiest years of my life at a school that does not have adequate parking space for those of us whose parents are making such a great financial sacrifice to see that we get the best education that money can buy. In withdrawing my application from your school I am not personally blaming you for not maintaininga first-class university plant.

Your job is to provide the school with warm bodies, and fill the freshman class. In order to hold on to your position (the college job market being what it is), you can't level with student prospects as to what the catalog says about the institution, and what the facts really are.

But in selecting a school, I have to put my own self-interest before your interest, which is finding outstanding applicants to raise the standards of your university.

In my original letter to you I expressed a desire, after completing my undergraduate work, to attend your law school. I did this under the impression that you had one of the top ones in the country. But in talking to my uncle, who is a lawyer, I discovered that you were living on a reputation from the past, and there are now many law schools in the nation far superior to yours, who only charge half as much in tuition.

I could go on with many other reasons why I have lost interest in attending your university, but it would serve no useful purpose for either of us.

I hope you don't take my rejection must make this decision on the basis of the number of excellent institutions available to us at this time. The fact that you failed in recruiting me should not be considered as a black mark against your I wish it were in my power to go to every school that wanted me. But I can only choose one, and unfortunately the criteria my parents and I have set up for my education has forced me to eliminate your institution as one of our preferred choices. I am certain you will find other students who are less demanding than we are when it comes to investing their money and time. They may even have better academic high school records and higher S.A.T. scores than I have. I hope for your sake that a majority of them will find what they are looking for in a higher education, because this country needs every college graduate it can get.

I appreciate that you would want me to be a part of your student body. I know you had high hopes for the school when you received my application, but your failure to recruit me does not mean the end of the world for your admissions office. The toughest job of being a high school graduate is to say no to a university who had its heart set on a student's going

If it will make you feel any better, you were originally my sixth choice' which isn't bad considering all the schools I had to pick from in the country. Good luck and God Bless. Victoria Hackett Bethesda Chevy Chase High School

Sen. Cass Ballenger, R-Catawba, has acknowledged that the philosophy behind the bill could be part of a campaign platform in 1984. That has concerned supporters of the philosophy that endorsement of the bill could be misinterpreted as support for Ballenger's candidacy

Hugh Stevens, attorney and lobbyist for the North Carolina Press Association, said the bill is more concise and workable than existing law but the association perceives that the circumstances are not very right for it.

Meanwhile, Ballenger has used the bill to collect editorials in more than a dozen of the state's newspapers.

But Ballenger said he introduced the bill "because it's right:" It would bar secret meetings by all elected and appointed groups. Violations would be a misdemeanor punishable by

Under the existing open meetings law, governmental groups may hold secret meetings to discuss more than a dozen topics, including real estate transactions and personnel matters. There is no penalty for violating the law.

The bill is based on a 1967 Florida law

"The Legislature itself doesn't feel that it would be nice to have their meetings open," Ballenger said, pointing to recent House and Senate closed meetings to prepare for a conference committee on Gov. Jim Hunt's proposed drunkendriving law.

Ballenger said there also is a great deal of opposition to opening up Advisory Budget Commission meetings. As a former ABC member, he said the meetings keep the public from finding all the 'doo dads'' hidden in the budget.

His efforts to get the bill passed resemble a miniature political campaign. He has visited state newspaper editors to explain the proposal and prepared packets of information on it. What do you bid now? A.-Despite the fact that you could do no better than make a simple raise at your first turn, partner has expressed interest in slam. His jump to four diamonds is a cue-bid. You have an absolute maximum for a single raise, so you should want to cooperate. Since you have no first-round control to show, cue-bid five diamonds to show second-round control of

What do you bid now?

A. - A similar problem to the first. Again you have a maximum raise to two spades, but this time you have nothing to cue-bid - you can't try five clubs, because that would promise the ace. The solution is to jump to five spades - that shows good trumps and will allay partner's fears about the trump suit.

Therefore, you should pass. Don't endanger a plus score by straining for a game that is almost surely beyond your side's resources.

Quota Rules Are Offered

The United States De partment of Agriculture has proposed rules to implement legislation which requires persons not significantly involved in the management or use of land for agricultural purposes to either sell or forfeit their burley or fluecured tobacco acreage allotments and marketing

The legislation - the No Net Cost Tobacco Act of 1982 does not include individuals but does include governmental entities, public utilities, educational institutions and religious institutions, among others.

According to Stacy Evans, county executive director for Pitt County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, quotas must be sold by Dec. 1, 1983 or Dec. 1 of the year after the year in which the farm is acquired, whichever is later.

If the quota is not sold by the applicable date, the person shall forfeit the quota to the county ASC committee, he said.

The proposed rules also set down guidelines for county ASC committees to determine whether such a person is "significantly involved," and establish provisions concerning forfeiture of allotments and quotas, Evans said.

The proposed rules specify that required sales may be made only to producers who are or will become active burley or flue-cured tobacco producers within the same

The proposed rules appeared in the April 22 Federal Register. Copies will be available at the Pitt County ASCS Office in a few days.

Written comments on the proposed rules should be sent to the director, tobacco and peanuts division, USDA/ASCS, P.O. Box 2415, Washington, D.C., 20013, and must be received by May 23.

Temperatures Need Checking

Many hog producers fail to realize that spring temperatures are still below what a pig requires, according to Miriam Nance, Pitt extension agent.

"With the onset of spring, many hog producers are tempted to air out their farrowing rooms," said Ms. Nance: "Newborn pigs need to be in a warm -90-95degrees Fahrenheit environment. It should be clean, dry and drafty to cut pig mortality Often, said Ms. Nance, opening a door for fresh air creates a draft, chilling the baby pigs and increasing mortality.

Remember to check your farrowing room temperature on the pigs level and not your ' she cautioned. "Heat lamps, pads and brooders may be needed year-round.

Farm Scene

By ROGER COBB Agricultural Extension

Continued rainfall and cold weather have delayed tobacco transplanting for many Pitt County tobacco farmers. The weather has damaged plant beds and has caused transplants to be in short supply for many farm-

Water injury, cold injury and damping off has drowned out many plants and severely restricted root development in others. Damping off has appeared in many plant beds. Damping off sometimes attacks plants after they have been opened up to disease by something Growers sometimes react to plant bed problems by applying more soda. This in turn often hurts the plants much more than it helps. A buildup of salts along the soil line can injure the plants and may reduce the plant stand.

Growers transplanting to the field may begin to experience problems in the field. Usually an early season plant problem can be traced to the root system. The first month the plant is trying to grow a root system so naturally you need to look for problems here first.

Wireworms often attack tobacco plants soon after they are transplanted. The wireworms tunnel into the plants stunting growth and open the plants up to disease

Fumigant injury can be another problem. If a multipurpose fumigant has not left the soil prior to transplanting it can cause a swelling of the main root and restrict smaller roots. Check and make sure the fumigant smell has left the soil before transplanting. Digging into beds at several different places can accomplish this. Herbicide injury can be another early season tobacco problem. Avoid incorrect herbicide rates, mixing two preplant incorporated herbicides, or improper incorporation techniques. Tobacco needs to be placed on a high, wide, bed. With all of the rain we have received this year no one should have to be reminded to do this. A high bed offers the tobacco the chance the keep a dry root system. Tobacco does not like to have wet roots and will drown out if roots continually stay wet.

Often when tobacco is not growing, maybe due to one of the previously mentioned problems, growers will add soda. This often hurts tobacco production more than it helps. If the roots systems are injured, they are unable to take up the soda When they recover often too much total nitrogen has been added and quality is hurt.

Surprises Meat Industry

WASHINGTON (AP) -Meat industry officials say they are "disappointed and surprised" about a recent federal court decision that upheld the right of California to impose assessments on out-of-state packers who ship beef into the state.

The National Meat Association, the American Meat Institute and a dozen packers who ship beef into California had challenged the constitutionality of 1982 amendments to the . California Beef Council Law.

WASHINGTON (AP) The Agriculture Department has a won six out of 10 legal challenges by farm groups opposing a fee of 50 cents for each 100 pounds of milk sold by producers. But the issue of federal dairy supports is far from dead.

Congress is trying to come up with legislation that will help reduce the huge dairy surplus and at once be acceptable to the Reagan administration and farmers.

The fees were initiated last fall by Agriculture Secretary John R. Block. The authority was provided by Congress in a budget bill as a means of

Fighting Hunt Landfill Plans

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) -Industry and environmental groups are fighting Gov. Jim Hunt's legislative proposals for hazardous waste landfills, but because of different reasons.

The failure to encourage their establishment as soon as possible could stymie development and possibly endanger the health and well-being of North Carolinians in the not-too-distant future," Charles Dunn of the N.C. Textile Manufacturers Association Inc. said.

'You're not solving a problem," said Wes Hart, president of N.C. CATCH (Citizen Action on Toxic & Chemical Hazards). "You're just creating new and larger problems - landfills are no

'The bottom line is we found that all landfills leak."

said William Sanjour, chief of the Environmental Protection Agency's hazardous implementation

In recent reports, the EPA, the Office of Technology Assessment in Congress and the National Academy of Sciences have reached the same conclusion.

Hunt's legislation would allow burial of certain concentrations of hazardous materials and prohibit burial of ignitable, reactive and corrosive substances.

Charles Case of N.C. Citizens for Business and Industry said industry opposes Hunt's bill because it would create "an unworkable administrative system, requiring higher expense both to industry and the state.

$900,000 For Wheat Projects

WASHINGTON (AP) -The Wheat Industry Council will have a budget of $900,000 to finance research and nutrition projects in 1984, up from $700,000 this year.

Manufacturers of bread, cookies, cake and other 'wheat end products'' pay an assessment to finance the council's program. The Agriculture Department oversees the operation.

The assessments are one cent per 100 pounds of wheat bought by end-product manufacturers, who can get refunds if they follow application procedures.

Thomas H. Porter of USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service said that the new budget - for the fiscal year beginning July 1 — includes money for "a consumer nutrition education program to tell the public about the nutritional value of foods containing wheat.

The council, which prepares the budget and administers the program, includes wheat producers, processors and end-product representatives.

Congress authorized the program in the Wheat and Wheat Foods Research and Nutrition Act of 1977 trimming costs of the $2-billion-a-year milk support program and to discourage further surplus production.

Block made the first 50cent fee effective on Dec. 1. Another 50-cent charge was supposed to go into effect on April 1. If both had been in effect as scheduled, dairy farmers would have paid around $900 million toward operating the milk support program this year.

However, a decision by the U.S. District Court in South Carolina forced suspension of the plan until the Agriculture Department satisfied the court that proper rulemaking procedures had been followed.

On March 16, Block announced that the 50-cent fee would be resumed - but not retroactively - on April 16 and that if Congress failed to solve the milk situation by Aug. 1 he might resurrect the second 50-cent fee, too.

Meanwhile, other lawsuits were filed, most of them challenging the milk fees on constitutional grounds.

At a meeting of the Commodity Credit Corp. last week, James Hinchman, USDA, submitted a status report on 10 lawsuits which challenged the milk fees.

After a three day hearing. the South Carolina court, where it all began, on April 14 declined to block the fee collections at this time and indicated that it "appeared likely" Block had followed the rule-making procedures correctly

Other lawsuits, including constitutional challenges. were filed in New York. Wisconsin, Idaho, Utah and Pennsylvania. All were decided in favor of the government.

Still pending are two other suits in New York, along with cases in Texas and Puerto Rico, Hinchman said.

The basic milk price support is $13.10 per 100 pounds of milk. Under law, the department must buy surplus butter, cheese and non-fat dry milk to keep prices paid to farmers from dropping below that level.

The House Agriculture Committee has a bill under consideration which would replace the milk fee plan. beginning on Oct. 1. Dairy farmers who produce no than they did in 1981 and 1982 would remain eligible to supports at the $13.10 level.

But if they agreed to cut production from their 1981-1982 average by 5 to 30 percent, they would get a direct government payment of $10 for each hundred pounds of production they eliminated.

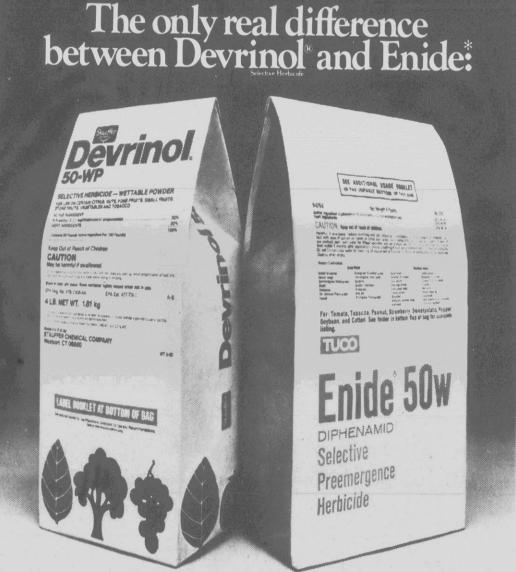

Producers who exceeded their base would have supports cut to $12.10 per 100

The Reagan administration is asking for a simple dollar reduction in milk supports as the most effective way of discouraging farmers from continuing to pile up surpluses.

Farmers are showing no sign of cutting back on milk output. The latest USDA projections indicate 1983 milk production will rise to another record of nearly 138.9 billion pounds from 138.2 billion in 1982.

Overpopulation in U.S. Prisons

Just as crime continues to be a major problem in our nation's streets, the growing number of convicted criminals is becoming a major problem in our nation's prisons. The national crimewave of the 1970s has inspired judges to send more convicts to prison and to hand out longer sentences. As a result, the number of convicts in U.S. prisons has doubled since 1970, and it is expected to double again by 1988. Today more than 1 of every 600 Americans is in prison. Many prisons throughout the country have half again as many inmates are they were built to house. The situation has contributed to riots and increased violence within prison walls

A chance of scattered showers and thunderstorms is on the way following several days of clear skies and warm temperatures across North Carolina, the National Weather Service reported.

A cold front, moving east into the Ohio Valley region, will approach the Appalachians by Tuesday morning and slowly work across western North Carolina during Tuesday.

During the night, fair skies prevailed over the east while more cloudiness was evident over the west. Winds were quite light over the east, but remained fairly brisk out of the south over the western half of the state. Temperatures ran in the 60s into the pre-dawn hours.

Pirates Await ECAC Decision After Split

By WOODY PEELE

Reflector Sports Editor
WILSON — Robby McClanahan tossed a two-hitter at Atlantic Christian as East Carolina downed the Bulldogs, 4-1, in the second game of a doubleheader Sunday at Wilson's

But three errors — one physical, one mental and one by the umpire - each contributed to a 3-2 victory by Atlantic Christian in the first game.

The net result, the split of the two games, finished the regular season for the Pirates with a 21-17-1 record.

It now becomes a question of whether the ECAC-South baseball committee will think that good enough to include the Pirates in next week's league tournament. ECU is the defending champion.

"We're at the mercy of the committee," Coach Hal Baird said. "If we had gotten a sweep, I think we would have had a decent shot at it. We had so many chances to win the first one, and it's a shame we couldn't do it.

"Robby gave us a lift in the second game, and kept us in the

Baird said the first game - with its breaks going the other way - seemed 'a microcosm" of the 1982 season. "We get a single and a triple with one out and only get one run out of it, then the bad hops all go their way. Their kid threw a good game. I just hope we can still get a favorable nod from the committee, but I just don't know what our chances are now.

The Pirates took the lead with a run in the top of the first in the opening conest. With one down, John Hallow beat out an infield hit and scored on a triple to center by Todd Evans. But a strikeout and an infield out ended the threat.

Atlantic Christian tied it up with one in the third, an unearned run. With one down, Russell Williamson doubled to left center. Then, after two outs, David Lawhon reached on an error — the physical one — allowing Williamson to score.

ECU, after failing to convert threats in the second and third, took the lead again in the sixth. Evans and Winfred Johnson both singled, but Evans was thrown out at third on David Horne's grounder back to the mound. Robert Wells then walked, loading the bases. Tony Salmond grounded to the mound and again, the lead runner was cut down. Mark Cockrell walked, forcing in Horne, but a strike out again brought the threat to a close.

Mack Smith opened the bottom of the sixth with a single and courtesy runner Mike Diguglielmo moved up on a sacrifice. Perry Bagley then grounded back to the mound and the play was made on Diguglielmo, diving back into second base.

Umpire Charlie Stevens, a former ECU player, called the runner safe, despite protests from Kelly Robinette, who claimed he had made the tag.

'He got me," Diguglielmo said afterwards. "He blocked me off the bag and I had my hand on his shoe, not the bag.

It proved fatal for the Pirates. With two away - instead of three - Williamson singled to score Diguglielmo, tying it at

By The Associated Press

It's an old story - Tony Perez just keeps on hitting.

'He'll be the first baseman until he cools off; everybody else will have to wait their turn," said Philadelphia Manager Pat Corrales after watching his rejuvenated veteran continue to tear up National League pitching Sunday in an 11-3 rout of Perez socked a single, double, sacrifice fly and his first home run of the season, and batted in five runs. The performance raised Perez's average to .391 and extended his hitting streak to 10 games.

'He can hit that ball, and that's why we got him," said Corrales. "At the moment, he is not just a pinch-hitter and utility first baseman.

Perez, who will celebrate his 41st bithday May 14, was signed by the Phillies this year strictly as a pinch-hitter and backup first baseman. But he was forced into full-time service when Von Hayes was sidelined with an injury and first baseman Pete Rose was shifted to the outfield.

"I'm surprised I'm playing so much," said the former Cincinnati star who also played with Montreal and Boston. 'Right now I feel nobody can get me out.

Perez singled home the first run in a five-run first, hit a sacrifice fly in the third, doubled home a run in the fourth and slugged a two-run homer in the sixth.

The Phillies' first five runs were unearned off Houston starter Bob Knepper, 1-3, as the Astros made two errors for a total of nine in the three-game series.

Mike Schmidt also had three hits and two RBI, and catcher Ozzie Virgil a two-run homer for the Phillies. Winner Larry Christenson, 1-2, pitched seven innings and allowed just three hits and one run.

In other NL action, it was Atlanta 2, New York 1; St. Louis 10. San Francisco 9; Los Angeles 3, Chicago 2 in a rain-shortened, five-inning game and Montreal beat Cincinnati 5-4 in the first game of a doubleheader before losing the second 6-3. Rain washed out the San Diego-Pittsburgh game. Braves 2, Mets 1

Phil Niekro won his first game of the season and Bob Horner doubled home the winning run in a two-run sixth, leading Atlanta over New York.

Winning the 258th game of his career, Niekro, 1-2, allowed five hits, including Hubie Brooks' RBI single in the first, and struck out six before he was lifted with none out and two on in the eighth. Reliever Steve Bedrosian squelched the Mets, recording his second save.

Met right-hander Tom Seaver, 1-2, had a shutout going until the sixth. But with one out, Rafael Ramirez singled and stole second. One out later, Dale Murphy's single sent Ramirez home to tie the score and Horner's double gave the Braves their winning run.

"It was a typical Niekro victory," said Braves Manager Joe Torre. "He got better as he went along, going at them with 98 percent knuckleballs. When it got close, he shut the door. When he gets that knuckleball over, he's near unbeatable.'

Cardinals 10, Giants 9 Willie McGee slugged a three-run homer and George Hendrick and Lonnie Smith drove in two runs apiece to power St. Louis over San Francisco.

St. Louis starter John Stuper, 2-1, weathered seven San Francisco hits and five walks before leaving in the sixth. Relievers Jeff Lahti and Bruce Sutter finished up, with Sutter recording his third save.

Four of the Cardinals' hits, including RBI shots by Ken Oberkfell and Smith in a three-run first inning, were triples. San Francisco starter Fred Breining, 2-3, yielded the Cardinals' first five runs, including the additional run in the first on Hendrick's single Pedro Guerrero drove in a run with a sacrifice fly and Greg Brock doubled home another to pace Los Angeles over Chicago. The game was called after a 90-minute downpour in the sixth inning, although Chicago Manager Lee Elia was ejected in the bottom of the fifth for arguing that it should have been halted then.

Guerrero's sacrifice fly came in the first inning after Ferguson Jenkins, 1-3, walked Ken Landreaux, who took third on a single by Rick Monday. Brock followed with his RBI double, giving the Dodgers a lead they never relinquished.

Reliever Dave Stewart, 1-0, was the winner. Expos 5-3, Reds 4-6

Warren Cromartie's sacrifice fly in the sixth inning brought in Tim Wallach with the go-ahead run and Andre Dawson added a two-run, inside-the-park homer in the eighth, leading Montreal over Cincinnati in the first game of their

Ron Oester tripled in two runs with one out in the ninth inning to snap a 3-3 tie and the Reds went on to beat the Expos in the nightcap.

Montreal reliever Ray Burris, 0-2, had retired all 11 batters he faced before giving up the Reds' winning runs. Joe Price, 2-2, tossed an eight-hitter over eight innings for the victory. Tom Hume pitched the ninth and earned his fourth save.

Winston 500

King Richard Reigns Suprème Another Sunday

'Darrell's side-door was right in front of me, but the car slipped off to my left and then cars started spinning all around me," Petty said, shaking his head at the memory. "But, there was a little pocket there for just a second, and I slipped through it before it closed up. I was real lucky

Petty, managing to avoid the wild 11-car mid-race wreck that took out a couple of top contenders, fought off Benny Parsons and Lake Speed at the end and won Sunday's race at Alabama International Motor Speedway.

That gave the 45-year-old "King" of stock car racing the 197th victory of his career - 92 more than his nearest competitor; moved him within $15,290 of becoming the first man in motorsports to earn $5 million, and made him the only man to have won every Grand National race at least once.

Petty's only previous victory on the 2.66-mile banked oval came in the 1974 Talladega 500

"Winning at all the tracks don't really mean a whole lot to me, and the way people can win money so fast nowadays. the career winnings don't mean so much, but I'll take any victory I can get." said Petty, who had gone 42 straight races without a triumph until the Warner Hodgdon 500 at Rockingham, N.C., in March.

Six drivers qualified for this race at more than 200 mph, led by Cale Yarborough, who set a new closedcourse stock car record of 202.650 mph. And, with the fastest starting lineup in the history of the stock car sport, there were drivers, race officials and fans who were worried about a crash just like the one that occured on the 72nd lap of the 188-lap event.

Waltrip appeared to collide with Phil Parsons, Benny's younger brother, in the first turn. Parsons' car suddenly began barrel-rolling through the air, slammed into the concrete wall at the top of the banking and landed hard on the rear deck of Ricky Rudd's car.

The rest of the field, coming into the turn at speeds up to about 198 mph, began looking for places to go in a hurry. A lot of them didn't make it through

The crash eliminated Yarborough. who led much of the early going and looked like he had the strongest car in the race, as well as defending race champion Waltrip, Parsons, Kyle Petty Richard's 22-year-old son — David Pearson, A.J. Foyt, Jody Ridley and Tim Richmond. Rudd, Morgan Shepherd and fifth-place finisher Bill Elliott all were involved, but managed to continue.

Most of the huge Talladega crowd, the death of driver Ken Kalla in a crash in Saturday's ARCA stock car race still fresh in their memories, quieted down after the accident, waiting for word on the drivers. When it was annunced that nobody had been seriously injured, the entire throng, estimated at 110,000 raised the biggest cheer of the day even bigger than the screams for the victory by the always-popular Petty.

Phil Parsons suffered a "minor fracture of his left shoulder blade" and bruises around the neck from his shoulder harness. He was held overnight in a nearby hospital for observation. Kyle Petty suffered a sprained shoulder blade and the same type of bruises, but was released.

Richard Petty, who learned of the 6-foot-2 Kyle's condition almost immediately after the crash by radioing his crew, joked, "I guess he just stretched his neck some. He's about 6-5 now.'

There was no joking in the determined Petty at the finish, though, as he had his hands full holding off the older Parsons and the surprising Speed, who'd never before finished higher than sixth in a Grand National race.

The seventh and final caution flag of the day - six of them brought out by minor incidents or debris on the track came on lap 177 when the engine blew in Lennie Pond's car. That gave all the leaders an opportunity to top off their

'When that boy blew going into (turn) three, that was the lap I was going into the pits for gas," Petty explained. "We knew everybody had to get some gas to finish, and we wanted to be the first in so we could put some pressure on them. We felt we could make a pit stop as quick as

Then, I came out (of the pits) first and decided that's where's I'd try to Red Sox Reverse Ro retired Glenn Hoffman for the second out before Remy, who began the game without an RBI this season, singled to score Stapleton. "I like to hit with men on base," said Remy. "I just tried to stay on the sinker and hit it up the middle.

Armas led off the Boston fourth with a homer and, after two walks, Rich Gedman homered.

A's 8-2, Tigers 3-0

Bob Kearney hit his first major league home run and Dan Meyer had a run-scoring single for two of Oakland's four hits off Detroit's Milt Wilcox, giving Mike Norris and the A's the doubleheader sweep.Norris allowed six hits in 71-3 innings. In the opener, rookie Chris Codiroli pitched a three-hitter to settle a score with the Tigers, who released him two years ago when he was trying to come back from arm problems.

The A's won the opener by scoring six runs in the fifth inning. Rickey Henderson drove in the last three with a bases-loaded double after Wayne Gross singled home a run and Tiger reliever Juan Berenguer walked two batters with the bases loaded.

Brewers 8, Twins 4 Paul Molitor's tie-breaking single and Robin Yount's three-run homer highlighted a six-run ninth inning as Milwaukee ended the Twins' three-game winning streak. Don Sutton, 4-1, recorded his fourth straight victory by holding the Twins to five hits before needing help in the ninth.

The Brewers erupted after Roy Howell walked with one out in the ninth. Howell was thrown out trying for third on Charlie Moore's single, but Moore took second and Jim Gantner was intentionally walked by loser Al Williams. The strategy backfired when Molitor singled on an 0-2 pitch to score Moore with the go-ahead run and Yount followed with his fourth homer of the year and 100th of his career. A two-run double by Gorman Thomas closed out the Brewers' scoring.

Orioles 8, Mariners 2

Ken Singleton's three-run homer, John Lowenstein's solo shot and a pair of two-run singles by Eddie Murray accounted for the Baltimore runs. Singleton's home run capped a five-run first inning off 44-year-old Gaylord Perry and Lowenstein homered in the third, also off Perry, who has been tagged for 10 homers in 34 innings this season. Baltimore's Storm Davis. a late replacement for Jim Palmer, worked 51-3 innings and gave up both Seattle runs and four hits. Palmer missed the start because of a sore lower back.

Yankees 8, Rangers 4

Jerry Mumphrey drove in two runs, one with a homer off Mike Smithson on the game's first pitch, and Roy Smalley's two-run double capped a five-run seventh inning for New York. Winner Dave Righetti scattered seven hits before leaving with two on and none out in the seventh as the Yankees, who have never lost an entire series to Texas, salvaged one victory in the three-game set.

Indians 2, Royals 1 Mike Fischlin doubled home the tying run in the eighth inning against Larry Gura and scored on a single by Pat Tabler, while reliever Dan Spillner pitched out of a bases-loaded, none-out jam in the bottom of the inning. After the Royals loaded the bases against Spillner in the bottom of the eighth on two singles and a walk, he struck out Hal McRae and got Willie Aikens to hit into a double play.

Blue Jays 8, White Sox 0

Dave Stieb pitched a three-hitter and Barry Bonnell capped an eight-run uprising in the seventh inning with a grand-slam homer. Chicago's Floyd Bannister held the Blue Jays to four hits until he walked Cliff Johnson to start the seventh and Jesse Barfield followed with a single that sent pinch runner Lloyd Moseby to third. Moseby scored on Garth lorg's grounder and, after Mickey Klutts was walked intentionally, Buck Martinez singled to score Barfield. Reliever Dick Tidrow yielded Alfredo Griffin's run-scoring single and committed a throwing error before walking Damaso Garcia intentionally Bonnell followed with his

Stacy Makes It Two Straight With CPC Title

HILTON HEAD ISLAND, S.C. (AP) -- Hollis Stacy won her second LPGA championship event in a row Sunday, pulling off a one-stroke victory in the $175,000 CPC International women's golf tournament

Stacy, who led throughout the tournament, parred every hole except No.17, where she bogeyed, to take home $26,250 in first-prize winnings.

She fired a 1-over-par 73 for a four-day, 3-under total of

"I played some very, very solid golf," Stacy said. "It was nothing extravagant today.

Stacy said she felt the turning point in Sunday's round was the second hole, where she made a 20-foot putt to save par. Challengers Kathy Whitworth and Jan Stephenson, who were tied for second, lost a stroke on that hole.

Beth Daniel, who was not a strong contender until Sunday, fired a 3-under-par 69 and finished the tournament second. Daniel, whose four-day total was a 2-under 286, made her best showing in the best CPC since turning pro.

Leads Generals To 34-29 Win

Walker Breaks 1,000

To no one's surprise, Herschel Walker is the first United States Football League player to rush for more than 1,000 yards. What is surprising is that it took him eight games to make a long, tacklebreaking, crowd-pleasing run.

The multi-million dollar running back increased his rushing total to 1,023 yards Sunday, but it took an 80-yard gallop in the fourth quarter to put him over that milestone and give the New Jersey Generals a 34-29 victory over the Denver Gold, before 47,940 fans at Mile High Stadium. Walker, whose longest run before Sunday was 38 yards, finished with 172 yards on 29 carries In other USFL games, Michigan outscored Boston 28-24. Birmingham bombed Washington 35-3 and Chicago beat Los Angeles 38-17. On Saturday, Philadelphia thrashed Tampa Bay 24-10, and Oakland is at Arizona tonight

New Jersey, which won for only the third time in nine games, held a slim 27-22 lead before Walker ran off left tackle, bowled over a would-be tackler at the line of Denver secondary en route to

"Once I got past the line of scrimmage, I figured I could outrun the last two guys, Walker said. "If I couldn't, I figured I shouldn't be in this league.

Meanwhile, quarterback Bobby Scott completed 21 of 29 passes for 293 yards, including a string of 13 straight that helped the Generals on three touchdown drives. "Herschel had an outstanding game, Bobby did a real good job passing the ball, and our tight end (Sam Bowers) made some good catches, New Jersey Coach Chuck Fairbanks said. "We had better balance in running and passing.

Allen had coached the Los Angeles Rams of the National Football League.

One of Lane's TDs came with four seconds left in the first half as he threw a 44-yard pass into the end zone. The hall bounced off Johnny Dirden's helmet into the hands of Ron Frederick.

John Williams put Michigan ahead on a 1-yard touchdown plunge with just 83 seconds left to play and then the Panthers held off a final Boston thrust three yards short of the end zone to beat the Breakers. Boston's Johnnie Walton completed 37

Funseth Takes Bigger Prize As Last-Minute Substitute

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) While Argentina's Roberto DeVicenzo was trying to convert his $50,000 Liberty Mutual Legends of Golf windfall into pesos, Calfornian Rod Funseth was counting his blessings. Funseth was supposed to be playing Sunday in the Al Guisti Memorial Tournament in Portland with a first place prize of $6,000.

Instead, he won $50,000 Sunday as DeVicenzo's lastminute, substitute partner because Bob Goalby injured his back lifting his golf bag at the airport.

"Maybe Bob and Roberto wouldn't have won, who knows.' said the thankful Funseth. "He (Goalby) makes enough on TV (as an NBC commentator). I'm unemDeVicenzo quipped, "Bob had a bad back at a bad time." time.

Burke and Harney had a final round 7-under par 63 for a 260 total, earning them $27,500 each.

For DeVicenzo, it was his fifth tornament victory in Texas, including two Legend titles.

"I like the Texas golf courses, the Texas people and the Texas money," said De-Vicenzo, who has won $148,000 in the six years of the Legends of Golf best-ball event.

Just last week De Vicenzo won the $25,000 first-place prize in the Doug Sanders Celebrity Invitational in Houson. Funseth was two shots behind and earned $7,500.

"I have never won so much money in my life in two weeks," DeVicenzo said. "It's too much. The Argentine peso is 10,000 to the dollar. How much is that?' Funseth echoed DeVicenzo, saying "It's raining money out of the sky. I even won $1,000 here in the sand trap competition.'

DeVicenzo, who has won over 220 tournaments in his career, sank a title-deciding 15-foot birdie putt on the next to last green. Funseth then holed his long birdie putt to ice things on the 18th.

AP Drama Critic

NEW YORK (AP) — "My One and Only," the Broadway musical starring Tommy Tune and England's Twiggy, finally is open, after several delays and enough well-publicized tryout woes to make Job seem the warm-up act. And'

By George, it's fun, this shiny new $4 million dance-a-thon wrapped around 17 grand old George Gershwin tunes. Set in 1927, broad in humor and elegant in terpsichore, it's a frothy, old-fashioned, tap-dancing delight with a radical plot: boy meets girl, boy loses girl, boy gets girl

Tommy and Twiggy are no threat to Fred and Ginger, but they are thoroughly enjoyable, with Twiggy's hoofing a pleasant surprise even though she often looks down as if to make sure her feets do their stuff.

Tune is appealing as a bashful barnstormer, a rawboned young aviator from Texas fixing to be the first in history to fly non-stop from New York "to Paris, France." Ah, but he falls for blonde, lovely Twiggy, the "third woman to swim the English Channel but the first attractive one.

When they meet, she's the very unhappy star of an aquacade (run by a very hissable villain, a phony Russian prince on a "secret mission" for Mother Russia). She longs for love. Wooing commences.

It wanders from Pennsylvania Station to a Harlem night club to a silent-movie house to an apparently deserted island where our lovers crash-land, sing "'S Wonderful" and do a delightful splash-dance in a shallow pool

Then, troubled by such things as blackmail and her 'past," she flees. Of course her beau pursues her. All this leads to the Casbah, no less, and eventually to a glittering, rousing "Kicking the Clouds Away'' finale followed by a gaudy, flashy, flag-waving "Strike Up the Band' encore

There's also an undercover revelation and a love subplot of sorts that occurs after Tune's chubby, foul-mouthed lady mechanic, played by Denny Dillon, shoots the mustachioed, malapropfilled villain, played by

Another Award Is Voted Julie

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) -Julie Andrews, an Oscar nominee as best actress of the year for her performance in "Victor-Victoria," has been named recipient of the 1983 Woman of Achievement Award by the Anti-Defamation League.

The actress will be honored at a dinner dance later this month in Palm Springs by the B'nai B'rith, which sponsors the award.

Nathan Perlmutter, national director of the Anti-Defamation League, said, "Julie Andrews is being honored with this year's Woman of Achievement Award for her long-time commitment to the cause of human rights and improvement of the human condi-

It's not an expose, but a country-pie look behind the scenes, where you'll see that the Rockettes let their hair down in their dressing rooms, like athletes do in their locker rooms. They have water fights, they gossip and they share each other's highs and lows.

What comes across in "Legs" is that the 36 members of the world-famous chorus line are a family, seemingly freer of the rivalries and back-biting that pervade other entertainment forms. One reason is that nobody gets star billing. They also all share the same grueling schedule of four or five shows a day, rehearsals, dance classes and, sometimes, auditions for other jobs. At times, this line doesn't seem any more glamorous than an assembly line. The movie paints an interesting picture of the grind behind the grins and some of the career-vs.-family sacrifices that have to be made.

This time around Miss Montgomery will play a woman marked for death when she turns detective and attempts to track down her husband's murderers.

Co-starring with Miss Montgomery will be Ron Karabatsos and John Reilly. Doug Chapin produced the film with Mike Hodges directing from his own teleplay based on the novel by Karl Alexander.

The stories and malefemale relationships in "Legs," however, are entirely inconsequential.

Three summer replacements, relief hoofers so to speak, are vying for one opening in the line. Lisa (Shanna Reed from 'Dancin' and "A Chorus Line") is a former Rockette who's returning after the break-up of her marriage. She also falls in love with a journalist (John Heard) doing a story on the Rockettes.

Recent studies of television viewing patterns showed that Americans were watching more TV but getting involved in it less. "Legs" is the kind of sugar-coated program that can be used as background music. It's painless entertainment.

NEW LEGS — Actress Sheree North, who once danced in a chorus line at the Paramount Theater with the Fanchonettes, the West Coast version of the Rockettes, but who was later fired for speaking to the union about unfair working conditions, is back in the chorus line starring in "Legs", a backstage story about the Rockettes. Reflector Staff Writer NEW BERN - At midmorning Saturday, a bronze plaque marking the site where Calel Bradham first made and sold the drink that was to become Pepsi Cola was unveiled.

The plaque is imbedded in the Pollock Street corner of Hearne's Jeweler's, the firm now occupying the former Bradham drugstore.

Taking part in the 85th anniversary Pepsi founding ceremony were New Bern Mayor Paul Cox; Roger Enrico, president and chief executive officer of Pepsi Cola, USA: George Bradham of Greensboro, son of the founder; and Miss Gertrude Carraway, a New Bern's leader of historic preserva-Enrico traced the highlights of Pepsi's history from 1898 to date, recalling it was first known as "Brad's Drink,' changed to Pepsi-Cola to focus more prominently on the pepsin in the drink. In 1904 Bradham purchased the vacant Bishop factory on the

Net Income Rises For N.C. Utilities

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) Natural gas utilities in North Carolina lost money in 1982, while power companies relying on diverse electricity sources saw net income increase Industry officials say natural gas companies were hurt by a poor economic climate and a decrease in world oil prices.

The lower prices prompted industries burning boiler fuel to switch temporarily to oil, thus taking away profits from gas companies, officials said.

'That is lost margin and consequently lost profits on the bottom line," said Everette Hinson, senior vice president of finance for Piedmont Natural Gas Co. of Charlotte. He said the recession also caused a drop in energy demand. In 1982 Piedmont suffered a 27 percent drop in net income, the largest decline among the seven major regulated gas and electric utilites and two gas pipeline companies serving North Caro-

but was soon

But the drop in Piedmont's profits isn't as bad as the 27 percent decline suggests. Hinson said Piedmont's 1981 net income was boosted by a one-time accounting change that added $1.28 million, as well as $1.35 million in propane gas sales that year.

Those profits made the 1982 drop seem more severe. Some power companies experienced a surge in revenues last year. Rate increases pushed Duke Power Co.'s revenues up by 18 percent at the same time that electricity sales dipped 4 percent. Net income for Carolina Power and Light Co. of Raleigh rose 12 percent in Duke Power spokesman Richard Williams said a North Carolina rate increase of 15 percent at the end of 1981 buoyed revenues. Also, Duke cut its unrecovered expenses from $52 million in 1981 to just $4 million last year.

An economic recovery and leveling oil prices may bolster profits for gas utilities. And an unusually cold spring kept gas furnaces running through April in the corner of Hancock and Johnson Streets where he began bottling Pepsi-Cola and selling franchises. By 1910 Bradham had expanded his small drugstore beginnings into a marketing business with 280 franchises in 24 states.

Pepsi founder Caleb Bradham, a native of the little town of Chinquapin in Duplin County, attended the University of North Carolina in Chapel Hill, then studied medicine at the University of Maryland. In 1890 he returned to New Bern to help his father's financially troubled business. He also taught high school, did bookkeeping and in 1894 purchased C.C Green's Drug Store. It was here four years later he first created his popular drink that would soon become Pepsi-Cola.

"Pepsi is now marketed in many foreign lands, including Russia. Pepsi in fact is the only American consumer product currently being sold in Russia," Enrico commented.

Following the unveiling, a parade of a large number of floats, most of them related to the history of Pepsi through the years, marched down Pollock Street, past the reviewing stand. An estimated 10,000 spectators packed both sides of four blocks of Pollock, cheering the Pepsi delivery trucks and firemen's trucks of the early part of the century, all scaled to miniature size holding only one or two persons. Shriners in colorful costumes led the contingent of paraders.

Various Pepsi jingles of today and years past were sung and danced by ensembles riding on various flowts, and there was a traditional Pepsi Queen.

The 85th anniversary celebration opened Friday evening with Governor Hunt, South Carolina Secretary of State John Campbell and Donald M. Kendall, chairman and chief executive officer of PepsiCo, Inc. meeting at Tryon Palace to declare Saturday as Pepsi Day in North and South time or you could get into trouble. TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Contact a person who appears to be backward but actually is very clever and can help you solve an important problem. GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) A different attitude and perspective where your career is concerned brings fine results today. Think constructively. MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Take steps to get out of a rut and make your life more interesting. Make practical plans for the future.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Your hunches are fine so be sure to follow them and clear up any confused thinking you may have. Avoid a troublemaker.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Know better what is expected of you by associates and come to a better understanding. Be more diplomatic.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) State your finest ideas to associates and gain their cooperation to put them across. Try to improve your environment.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) A good time to engage in a new amusement that will be enjoyable. Be careful of one who is hypocritical. Use that winning smile.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Do something nice for family members and gain increased affection. Take no chances with your fine reputation.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You can now engage in new avenues of expression that will be more suited to your talents. Express happiness.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) A day to engage in activities that you didn't have time for recently. Cultivate new acquaintances and turn them into friends.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) A sudden inspiration could solve a long-standing problem you have. Avoid one who is a troublemaker. Show that you have poise.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will have good ideas to express and should be encouraged from early in life. Give a good education in modern schools where your progeny can make rapid progress. Permit to take part in healthful sports.

Society Urges Good Manners

CONCORD, Calif. (AP) -Please be nice. Thank you. That's all Thomas Danaher and his Civil Society ask.

And they do it so politely. The society, for several years a low-key group of about 250 people worldwide, has taken its crusade for good manners to the streets in a $1 bumper sticker that uses a heart symbol to spell out "I love good manners." Danaher, 57, also has come up with his first annual "List of the 10 Most Rude Habits:

-Being a buttinsky. -Not answering a greet-

-Refusing to shake hands. —Being silent when talk is in order. -Staring -Using body language to intimidate or shock. Shouting at anyone.Being a motor mouth. —Not using common polite expressions such as "please" and "thank you." "Those aren't terribly bad things," Danaher conceded.

"The people I've shown them to have immediately come up with lists of 20 or 30 other things, like cutting into a line or into traffic or putting someone on hold on the telephone for a long time."
