City Schools Budget Is Adopted By Board

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

The recommended budget for the Greenville City Schools for 1983-84, totaling $11,521,142, was approved by members of the Board of Education at their meeting Monday night. The budget request will now be presented to the Pitt County Commissioners for consideration and action.

No changes were made by board members on the budget request presented to the board by Superintendent Delma Blinson at the May 2 board meeting.

The approved budget of $11,521,142 falls into five categories: State Public School Fund, $6,064,567; local current expense fund, $3,309,525; federal projects, $796,517; local capital outlay fund, $520,283; and food service fund, $830,250. Of these five categories, county commissioners will be concerned with local current expense funds and local capital outlay funds, the two categories budgeted locally from Pitt County tax-fund sources.

Approval of the budget carries a stipulation that Finance Officer Naomi Edwards is authorized to make minor line-items adjustments as needed to assign proper fund functions, primarily as change are received in state allotments.

Other actions considered and/or approved at Monday night's meeting are:

•Approval of two budget amendments to the current 82-83 budget. Budget Amendment No. 1 to the School Food Service increases the fund by $77,633 for a year's total of $831,802. The increase was made possible by an increase in U.S. Department of Agriculture grants.

In the state public school fund, Budget Amendment No. 5 decreases the driver education budget by an amount of $3,291.

"State officials have informed us this cut is the result of a downfall in the number of vehicles registered and licensed," Blinson commented. "This comes at a time when there's more youngsters than ever to be trained."

Board member Sue Zadeits remarked "since this is a state mandated program, I think the cut stinks. State officials ought to find some way to pay for it."

"They will," countered board member Lena Brown. "Watch for a $5 increase in the cost of license plates."

•Approved on second reading the city school's Affirmative Action Plan. This approval also makes effective the regulations accompanying and governing procedures to be used in carrying out the policy.

•Approved authorization for a four-day, three-night (Please turn to Page 5)

Russian Families In Beirut Exodus

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Soviet Ambassador Alexander Soldatov said today that families of Soviet diplomats in Beirut were sent home for summer vacation and the move was "wrongly interpreted" as an indication war was imminent.

An Israeli official in Tel Aviv said his government had no clear interpretation of the move, and a State Department official traveling with Secretary of State George P. Shultz urged caution in assessing it.

Meanwhile, Western diplomats in Damascus said 2,000 Palestinian guerrillas may have slipped back into Lebanon from Syria in the last few weeks. Israel radio quoted Israeli sources as confirming the infiltration.

Soldatov spoke to reporters after a 90-minute meeting with President Amin Gemayel concerning Lebanon's troop withdrawal plan with Israel. Gemayel also met separately with the U.S., British, French and Chinese envoys.

Asked why Soviet families were sent home from Beirut on Monday, Soldatov said, "We sent the children and students for the summer holiday in the Soviet Union. They will join student camps at home."

Asked about press speculation the move might indicate war was imminent, Soldatov said through an embassy interpreter: "There is a misunderstanding. It (the evacuation) has been wrongly interpreted."

Soldatov said the Soviet Union was the only country that allowed children of diplomats to return to Beirut after Israel invaded last summer to smash the Palestine Liberation Organization.

Reports differed on the number of Soviet dependents sent home. Lebanon's state radio said they totaled 87 — 49 boys and 38 girls — while private radio stations placed the total at 115. Airport officials said 142 left, most of them women and children.

Although Soviet diplomats in Beirut said the evacuation was tied to summer vacations, the Christian Voice of Lebanon radio pointed out Monday that the academic year still had another month to go.

The official Soviet news agency, Tass, said in Moscow Monday that Israel was preparing for war against Syria, the main Soviet ally in the Middle East.

Concern About Cemeteries Is Cited In Ayden

BY MARY SCHULKEN
Reflector Staff Writer

Citizens in Ayden are concerned about the condition of the town's cemeteries. Mayor Ross Persinger reported to the Town Board of Commissioners Monday.

Persinger said at the town's monthly meeting he had received calls about high grass and graves sinking, but that when he went to check out the complaints, public works employees were cutting grass and he could find no sinking on the grave that was specified.

"I looked and there were some graves that were sinking, but I'm told by public works that it takes about eight weeks for a grave to settle enough to fill in," said Persinger.

"I've also had calls about graves being bad-looking," said Commissioner Marvin Baldree, "and I told the people that with all the rain we've had and the amount of help we (the town) have it's hard to keep that grass cut."

"Also, I noticed one thing that makes the cemeteries look bad is the old flowers that are left and blow over and litter the area," Baldree added.

"Persons who have plots have some responsibility, too — they need to throw away these old flowers instead of leaving them for the mowers to move and mow around," he said.

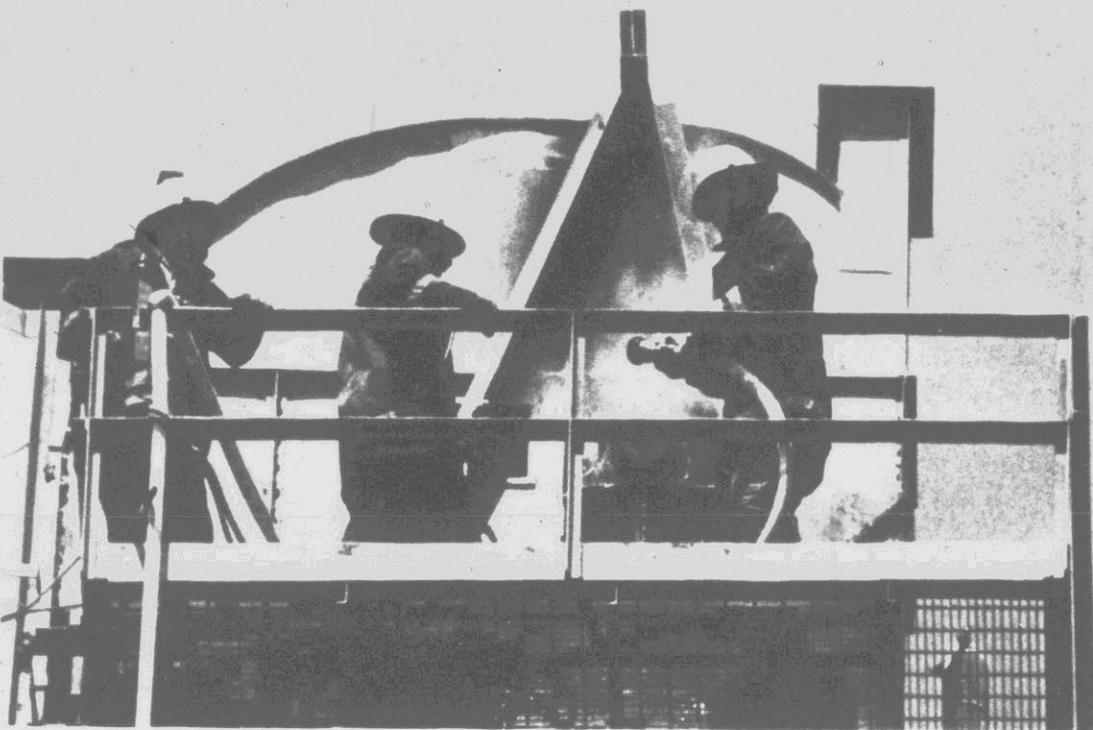

Baldree said when he visited the town's cemeteries after complaints they had been cut.

In other business: •The board considered bids on a new computer system for the town. The bids included NCR, $39,120; IBM, $48,723; Data General, $42,230; Micro Data, $47,695. Some bids represent hardware prices only, reported Town Clerk Ralph Ford, and bids were on varying types of computers. No action will be taken, the board agreed, until each company and machine can be checked out.

•Bids on street improvements were returned to the bidders and the job will be readvertised, voted the board, because only two bids were received and three are required by law. Bids will be opened again May 20.

•The board appointed Persinger and Town Manager Don Russell to meet, along with two members of the Pitt County Commissioners, with the Alcoholic Beverage Control Board concerning the location of the Ayden ABC Store.

•Board members voted to participate in the United States Geological Survey's aquifer and ground water study.

'Record' Height

HIGH FIRE — Greenville Fire-Rescue Department Chief Jenness Allen said no damage resulted from a 1:15 p.m. fire Monday atop a grain bin at Fred Webb Inc. on North Greene Street. Here, firefighters stand by a bearing 160 feet from the ground that over-heated, setting grease and grain dust on fire. Allen said the blaze holds the record for the city's "highest fire." (Reflector Staff Photo by Tommy Forrest)

Blinson Directed Prepare Summer School Program

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

After exploring several factors and defeating the first three motions offered, the Greenville Board of Education Monday night approved a fourth motion for Superintendent Delma Blinson and his staff to work out a summer school program.

The directive given to Blinson by the board is to "try in the best way possible to work out details for a summer school program that will keep the tuition fee per student to less than $100." The motion also stipulates that "the subsidy to be provided from the school budget not exceed a total of $3,000."

Factors considered, incorporated into the three defeated motions, included recommendations: to increase the salaries of summer school teachers from the current flat $1,100 rate for six weeks to five-sixths of the teacher's base pay; to make the program entirely self-supporting by charging a tuition sufficient to cover all costs of the program; to charge a set fee of about $90 to $95 for students from Greenville and Pitt County with a subsidy to pay for the rest of the program, and to charge an actual cost fee to out of area students from Greene, Martin or other counties.

Primary focus was on the summer school program at the secondary level. Last year, 142 students attended the summer program at Rose High paying a tuition fee of $60 per student — the same fee that has been in effect for the past two or three years. Summer school teachers last year received the standard $1,100 fee for the five-plus hours, six-week program regardless of their level of certification or seniority. Payment of a salary based on five-sixths of a teacher's regular pay would considerably increase the cost of the program.

Since the number of students who will be enroll is unknown, it is impossible to determine the tuition required to make the program self-sustaining. Estimates range from $90 to more than $130 per student.

Rose High Principal Howard Hurt pointed out that, in last year's program, about "ten percent of the students were from schools other than Greenville City Schools. Of the 142, approximately 60 percent were those attending summer school for remedial work needed to pass a course. About 40 percent," he added, "attended the program for the sake of enrichment studies."

Several board members expressed a fear that a high tuition fee of $95 or more would drastically lower the number of students opting to attend summer school, particularly among students from poorer families who likely are in most need of the remedial work.

Blinson assured the board that he, Hurt and the administrative staff would work on formulating a summer school program using the guidelines provided by the board. Blinson added the matter would be expedited so that students and the public would know as far as possible in advance what to expect in terms of program offerings and tuition.

Senate Leaders Consider A New Budget Compromise By Holdouts

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate leaders are considering a new budget compromise from five Republican holdouts who want to raise taxes by $14 billion next year and make further cuts in President Reagan's defense buildup.

The group has proposed a budget that would partially repeal some of this year's tax cut and include lower federal deficits than those recommended by Republican Senate leaders, according to sources who spoke on condition they not be identified.

Because the five GOP moderates hold a temporary balance of political power in the Senate, their plan, agreed upon privately Monday, was likely to get serious attention.

As behind-the-scenes maneuvering continued, votes were scheduled today on various proposals to modify the budget approved by the Senate Budget Committee.

For over a week, Senate Majority Leader Howard H. Baker Jr., R-Tenn., has been trying to find 51 Republican votes for a budget blueprint so no Democratic support would be needed.

Baker and Sen. Pete Domenici, R-N.M., chairman of the Senate Budget Committee, have been pushing a budget scheme that would permit almost no tax increase and a defense hike reluctantly accepted by President Reagan.

See Widespread Contamination Of Wells

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — Substandard well construction in North Carolina is a common problem that could lead to widespread contamination, health officials say.

Three Durham families had to leave their homes in January when their wells were found to be tainted with powerful pesticides that could lead to liver damage, injury to the nervous system or cancer.

Given the nature of well construction in North Carolina, it is not surprising that impurities crept into their water, said Dr. John Fletcher, Durham County health director.

"It all goes back to substandard wells," Fletcher said. "It all goes back to the state not having a single rule or regulation about the construction of wells prior to 1972. And since then, there are no guarantees. All we're talking about is public health and good drinking water."

The 1980 census shows that some 822,000 households in North Carolina use water from private wells. Another 1.3 million homes are served by public water systems and private companies. About 77,800 more receive their water from some other source such as springs, creeks or cisterns.

"A very small percentage of the wells are ever inspected," said Perry Nelson, chief of the groundwater section of the N.C. Division of Environmental Management. "Some counties have set up ordinances requiring that they be inspected. But at best, we (the state) could never expect to inspect more than 10 of the wells drilled."

Some 8,000 to 10,000 new wells are constructed each year, he said.

The Gett family well in Durham is 17 years old. When the Getts bought their house 11 years ago, they assumed the well beneath the concrete patio was properly built.

But Fletcher said it is too close to the house and it is cut off below ground level, which means the seal can break and runoff can seep inside.

The family detected a chemical smell in the water two days after the house was sprayed for termites.

Tests by the county health department showed unsafe levels of the chemicals lindane, heptachlor and — the most dangerous and potent of the three — chlordane.

Ethnicity May Help People Maintain Emotional Health

By DAVID E. ANDERSON
UPI Religion Writer

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Ethnic, religious and racial identities still exert a profound influence on people and should play a more central role in psychological and psychiatric therapy.

That is the conclusion of a growing number of ethnic experts and psychologists who are developing an experimental group therapy technique they call "ethnotherapy."

The basic idea of the movement is that there is a strong relationship between ethnicity and emotional stability.

"Ethnicity remains a vital force in this country, a major form of group identification and an important determinant of family patterns and belief systems," according to Monica McGoldrick of the University of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey.

"There is increasing evidence that ethnic values and identification are retained for many generations after immigration and play a significant role in family life and personal development throughout the life cycle."

Until recently, however, most therapists paid little attention to either the positive or negative elements of group identification.

"But every group has a historical memory of prejudice that is evident in all immigrant experiences," said Joe Giordano of the Jewish Committee's Louis Caplan Center on Group Identity and Mental Health.

"This memory is such that even second and third generation members never quite feel comfortable with the main group. And because of their shared group memory, ethnic minority members, no matter how much they achieve, never feel that they have quite made it or feel that they are not really deserving of it when they have."

"Only by an acceptance of one's ethnic identity can you feel better about yourself and enhance your self-esteem."

The American Jewish Committee has pioneered in the development of "ethnotherapy," — a theory first developed in the early 1970s by Dr. Price Cobbs for work among blacks. Cobbs, co-author of the widely read 1972 study "Black Rage," argued that the toll of racism among blacks showed up in unresolved anxiety and suppressed rage.

Recently, the Jewish Committee shared in the preparation of the book "Ethnicity and Family Therapy" (Guilford Press), which looks at both the theory of ethnotherapy and its application to more than 20 ethnic groups, including American Indians, Jews, blacks, British, Irish, Italians, Germans, Puerto Ricans, Mexicans, and Scandinavians.

Ms. McGoldrick, Giordano and Dr. John K. Pearce of the Cambridge Family Institute, Cambridge, Mass., edited the 600-page study.

The AJC also has developed a videotape of an experimental group therapy session using the techniques of ethnotherapy with a group of young Jewish adults under the supervision of Dr. Judith Weinstein-Klein, a clinical psychologist.

The film shows dramatic group encounters concerning a host of ethnic and religiously related problems such as body image, sexual and mating patterns, feelings of oppression and powerlessness and confusion brought on by ambivalent parental and personal attitudes toward Jewishness.

Ms. Klein, in summarizing the sessions, said, "For minority group members, group pride and self pride are inextricably bound. Struggling with and resolving conflicts in Jewish identity releases tremendous energy formerly stifled by ambivalence and disaffiliation."

She found the ethnotherapy sessions helped participants in a number of ways:

—Negative feelings and negative stereotypes about one's self and one's ethnic group are expressed, explored and divested of their magic.

—The dominant culture's influence on shaping attitudes and feelings about oneself are exposed and re-evaluated.

—Personal problems are seen in a social-historical context that can lead to more effective problem solving.

—The positive feelings toward members in the ethnotherapy group get generalized to include the larger ethnic group, which increases self-acceptance and also broadens the ability to empathize with other ethnic groups.

She said that for the participants of the filmed therapy sessions, "There were as many different outcomes as people in the group."

"For example, some people made new efforts to reconnect to parents. Others renewed an interest in taking Jewish partners, new appreciation for the struggles of other ethnic minorities, or a desire to start one's own Jewish family without repeating inherited negative messages."

"Some members connected themselves to social achievement — campaigning for Soviet Jewry, starting an educational and therapeutic group for children of Holocaust survivors in the area, or founding a single-parent group."

Critical to the process is the therapist's sensitivity to ethnic differences as well as an understanding of his own ethnicity.

Dr. Jaime Inclan, project director for the Hispanic and Bicultural Clinic of Gouverneur Hospital, New York City, who specializes in clinical work among Puerto Rican families, said:

"I often hear the complaint that the husband in a Puerto Rican family refuses to come in for therapy: in my culture, a man believes that to ask for help is a threat to his image — his machismo. Then, when the wife asks the therapist to help convince the husband to come in for therapy, the therapist interprets this behavior as being manipulative."

"Most therapists do not understand that the wife feels powerless, and her asking an authority for help is legitimate in the Puerto Rican culture. If the therapist persists in forcing her to take initiatives that are counter to the culture, he will soon find that she will withdraw from therapy."

According to Giordano, a therapist's own ethnic background can be a problem.

"Whether we want to admit it or not, therapists also continue to carry cultural baggage that has been passed on from our grandparents to our parents to us, and will probably be passed on to our children," he said.

He cited his own background and clinical work as an example.

"As a third-generation Italian-American growing up in a Roman Catholic working class family, I remember experiencing 'cultural shock' when first working with ethnic families," he said.

"I was sometimes overwhelmed and a little threatened by Jewish families' ease in verbalizing their feelings; their intense drive to find the cause of their emotional problems and the challenging questions that Jewish children posed to their parents. I felt they knew more than I did."

"With Irish families, I found another set of difficulties. Their embarrassment and reluctance to talk about family problems seemed to me to be a form of resistance to treatment or a result of my failure to communicate with them."

"And with Italian families I would often get trapped by the familiar values and probe on areas that touched on 'family secrets.'"

"The point is that ethnicity counts," Giordano said. "It counts as a positive; it counts as a way to understand the conflicts people have."

In order to survive, a bird must eat at least half of its own body weight every day.

Dear Abby

Daughter With Polio Discovers A Solemate

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1983 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: Your item about the mismatched shoes brought back a flood of memories. Our daughter had polio at age 2, leg braces for five years and then a series of operations. Today, at age 35, she is a successful homemaker and has a career as well. She walks normally unless in a hurry. We, too, have spent a fortune for shoes!

Ten years ago she was hurrying across the bank lobby and was greeted by a new teller who was about her age. The girl asked, "Did you have polio?" When our daughter said yes, she continued, "What sizes of shoes do you wear?"

Our daughter answered, "4½ and 6½. What sizes do you wear?" knowing full well that only a person similarly afflicted would ask such a question. The teller answered, "Same sizes — opposite feet!" They have been solemates ever since, exchanging dozens of pairs of shoes. Sign us

DEAR FOOTLOOSE: Wonderful story! And for those who may have missed the item: For information on how to "register" for shoes when the left foot is not the same size as the right, write to: Jeanne L. Sallman, Odd Shoe Exchange, Rural Route 4, Indianola, Iowa 50125.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are both 25. We have a 4-year-old son we love a lot. I consider our marriage a good one with one exception. Whenever I get really mad at my husband, I start throwing punches and fight like the devil. When I start hitting him, he hits back, and pretty soon the two of us are slugging it out for all we're worth. Meanwhile our son is watching the whole ugly battle. Soon he is hitting his father to stop him from hurting me.

My husband feels bad when his son strikes him, and I feel worse because I know I started the whole thing.

I value our son's personality and character, and I pray that what he witnesses on occasion will not affect him emotionally. We are really a loving family except for these fights we have occasionally. Please tell me where to go for help to control my terrible temper.

A RAGING FOOL

DEAR RAGING: Call your local mental health association and find out where there is a clinic near you. Both you and your husband need to learn how to control your aggressive behavior, not only for the sake of your marriage, but because of the effect it is bound to have on your son. Children who witness violence at home grow up to believe that it is an acceptable way to deal with their anger and hostility. You are wise to realize that you need help. Please don't delay.

DEAR ABBY: It's my turn to air my gripe. I am a single young woman who is a secretary. Where I work, whenever someone leaves the company, we give that person a little going-away party. This involves punch, a cake, gift, etc. Anyway, it's up to the secretaries to see that the work gets done. This includes collecting money for the cake, gift, etc.

There are 64 people in this office, and about one-third of the people here do not donate a dime, but they are the ones who take the biggest piece of cake and have the largest signature on the card!

Today I tried to collect from the penny-pinchers (after the party was enjoyed by all) and got a lot of sour looks and excuses.

Any suggestions?

MONEY COLLECTOR

DEAR COLLECTOR: Perhaps this is one custom whose time has come — and gone. Instead of the entire office enjoying a "going-away" party for which a third do not contribute, perhaps just the close friends of the honored one could organize a no-host private luncheon. Suggest it.

DEAR ABBY: About picking one's teeth in public: The only socially acceptable time to pick one's teeth is when selecting dentures.

SOUTHERNER

DEAR ABBY: My mother, who has found fault with almost everything I have ever done, is now ruining my wedding plans.

I left my hometown four years ago to work in a city 200 miles away, and this is where I want to get married. My fiancé is from this city and so are my friends and his. We're planning to get married in his church here, but my mother says if I don't get married in my hometown in the church she attends, she won't come to my wedding. She accuses me of wanting to get married here to hurt her, and says if I loved her, I'd get married in her church. I do love her, but she makes me feel so guilty.

I can't talk to my father about this because he always agrees with Mother to avoid an argument. I've talked to my priest, who agrees that the problem is my mother, but he has offered no solution.

My fiancé's parents have tried to get Mother to change her mind, but it's no use. Who's wrong? My mother or me?
THE SOMETHING BLUE IS ME

DEAR BLUE: I can understand why your mother would rather have your wedding in her church, but I think she is wrong to refuse to attend unless you do.

I hope she sees the light and changes her mind because it's your right to be married where you choose.

DEAR ABBY: We had three teen-age sons. The eldest (I'll call him Sam) was 18. About six months ago I sent for your booklet, "What Every Teen-ager Ought to Know." All three boys read it, and although we've always answered their questions frankly and openly, there is always something to be learned.

One evening while my husband and I and Sam were watching TV, I asked Sam what he thought of your booklet. He said it was OK, but he didn't agree with your statement that masturbation was normal. (I think he just wanted our reaction.) Sam had not dated yet, but we were aware that he had masturbated because his brother told us that he had seen him. We weren't shocked or upset because we've always felt that it was normal. My husband and I both assured him that it was perfectly normal and nothing to be ashamed of. I hope we succeeded.

He died two weeks later of juvenile diabetes. Thank you, Abby, for helping us to ease his guilty conscience.

HIS PARENTS IN OKLAHOMA

DEAR PARENTS: Please accept my heartfelt sympathy. The most painful of all human experiences is for a parent to bury a child. How kind of you to write and offer thanks to a stranger while your hearts still ache from your tragic loss.

United By Motherhood And Poverty, They Coach Each Other

By RUTH YOUNGBLOOD
PEABODY, Mass. (UPI)

— The only qualifications for admission to a special school for the downtrodden are motherhood and poverty.

Single and divorced mothers, humiliated by their dependence on welfare and society's scorn of their plight, are finding a way out by sharing experiences.

"People are having a much harder time coping with poverty emotionally under President Reagan's 'blame the victim' attitude," said Caroline Chauncey, administrator of the Women's School.

More than 250 mothers have so far benefited from the two-year-old program, financed privately on a budget of $16,000 per year.

"By pulling together in a time of crisis, women who already know the ropes are helping others develop the confidence to take the first steps toward change," Ms. Chauncey said.

Every Saturday night, women who once felt alone and in despair join others in pursuit of opportunities they thought unobtainable.

"When life is so rough that there is no one on your side, it's hard to build a positive self-image," Ms. Chauncey said.

Kit Young, deserted by her husband and left with their four young children, said she had no other recourse but welfare.

"I felt so low and ashamed," Mrs. Young said. "Then there was this terrible sense of isolation, that somehow I was beneath everyone."

At the Women's School, she said, "It was like discovering sisters I never knew existed."

Courses offered at St. Joseph's Church in assertiveness training and study skills, taught by women with a first hand knowledge of poverty, made all the difference, Mrs. Young said.

"They knew what I was going through because they experienced and conquered the same feelings of inadequacy."

"My children were without their father, and I felt I owed them all my time," she said.

"I didn't deserve anything for myself."

After the workshop on building confidence through positive thinking, Mrs. Young felt strong enough to let her family know "there had to be some time for mommy."

Her 10-year-old son, 9-year-old twin girls and 6-year-old daughter have learned their mother needs room to grow.

Classes on setting short and long-term goals, discovering resources for education and employment, learning about career interest patterns, time management and even meditation and relaxation exercises to relieve stress helped redirect Mrs. Young's life, she said.

When teachers and students sincerely praised her attempts at creative writing, Mrs. Young, at 36, returned to college. The high grades she receives plus the reinforcement of her friends have prompted her to consider writing as a career.

Returning to college after so many years out of high school was frightening, but Mrs. Young said the Women's School class on basic reading and writing skills, note-taking, outlining, skimming and maintaining realistic expectations got her off to a good start.

While she is still on welfare, Mrs. Young said she is confident it won't be for much longer. "I have all kinds of hopes. I know I can help my family because I can help myself."

"I finally feel good about being a woman, and I never would have come to this point if it hadn't been for the school."

When Emma Jones registered for the Women's School, she was so shy she brought her mother along to answer questions. Now, when she talks to members of her class, "It's like seeing myself a year ago."

Mrs. Jones, a 34-year-old mother of two deserted by her husband, is teaching a course on welfare and hopes others will benefit from her initial, inadequate knowledge.

"I remember putting my pride in my pocket and going to the Salvation Army to get food because I didn't know what I was entitled to receive," she said.

"The greatest myth is that mothers don't want to get off welfare. But it is crucial during those years when a poor single parent must take care of her young children."

"Many women are justifiably intimidated by the welfare system, particularly the negative attitudes of some social workers and the complicated regulations."

"They lose out because they don't know what they deserve to receive."

Mrs. Jones said cuts in Aid to Families with Dependent Children funds, Food Stamps and Medicaid have necessitated the "confidence to fight for what you deserve."

"Knowledge of the regulations dictate how a recipient is treated," she tells her class. "Prepare for even the first encounter by knowing the basics, such as the maximum amount one can have in a bank" to remain eligible for assistance.

Her new found self-confidence has been a boon to her family, she said. The psychological counseling her daughter needed during the emotional upheaval of the marital breakup is no longer necessary, Mrs. Jones said. "She is spending free time as a Brownie instead."

Duplicate Winners

North-South winners in the Saturday afternoon duplicate bridge game played at Planters Bank were:

Mrs. Ray Gunderson and Mrs. Dot McKemie, first with 641 percent; Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Webb, second; Mrs. W.R. Harris and Mrs. J.M. Horton, third; Mrs. Sara B. Bradbury and Dr. Charles Duffy, fourth.

East-West: Mr. and Mrs. Kent Leggett, first with 581 percent; tied for second were Mrs. David Stevens and Mrs. Effie Williams with Mrs. C.F. Galloway and Mrs. C.D. Elks; Lee Hastings and George Martin, fourth.

Afternoon winners Wednesday were North-South: Mrs. Eli Bloom and Mrs. M.H. Bynum, first with 601 percent; Mrs. J.S. Rhodes Jr. and Mrs. Roger Critcher Jr., second; Mrs. William Parvin and Claude Goodman, third; Mrs. Beulah Eagles and David Proctor, fourth.

East-West: Mrs. William McConnell and Mrs. David Stevens, first with 638 percent; tied for second were Mr. and Mrs. Andrew de-Sherbinin with Mrs. George Martin and Forest Gray; Mrs. Clifton Toler and Mrs. Bernice Tayloe, fourth.

North-South winners Wednesday morning were Mrs. Tom Lunney and Mrs. Jim Foster, first with 565 percent; George Martin and Mrs. J.W.H. Roberts; Mrs. Fred Sorensen and Mrs. Sibyl Basart, third.

East-West: Mrs. Ray Martin and Mrs. George Martin, first with 604 percent; Mrs. Clifton Toler and Mrs. Bernice Tayloe, second; Mrs. Chris Langley and Mrs. Yauck, third.

Club championships will be held Wednesday morning and afternoon and Saturday afternoon.

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

Every home has its last bastion... that retreat away from the rest of the family where, for a few hours, one may enjoy diplomatic immunity from discipline, chores and conversation.

They're called bathrooms. Some homes have two of them. From the first day a child is introduced to one, he learns how to use it to his advantage. They know instinctively that once they are entrenched behind those doors there is nothing that can touch them. Nothing that can question them. Nothing that can speed along their re-entrance into the family atmosphere.

For example, never in my entire life have I walked into a house from the grocery store and yelled, "Will someone help me unload the groceries from the car?"

Serves As Session Page

The 89th Supreme Shrine Session was held in Reno, Nev. last week. It was the "Sound of Music" session.

Emma S. Youmans and Albert E. Youmans, W.H.P. and W.O.S. of the Greenville Shrine No. 7, O.W.S.J., and Blanche W. Jackson, P.W.H.P. attended. Mrs. Jackson served as supreme page during the event.

The Shrine received appointments which will be announced at its meeting Wednesday evening.

Bride-Elect Entertained

A floating bridal shower was given Sharon McGowan, bride-elect of Warren Averette, recently and was held at the Timothy Christian Church fellowship hall.

Friends of the couple were hostesses.

The honoree was given a white carnation corsage. The refreshment table was centered with an arrangement of spring flowers.

without a muffled sound shouting back, "I'm in the bathroom."

In 20 years, you would think that just once, I would catch someone in the kitchen or even in flight.

Never, in my entire life, have I ever announced "Whose turn is it to do dishes?" that I have not heard a plaintive, "As soon as I'm out of the bathroom."

It's positively weird how a child can know that the phone is for him and make a hasty retreat just in time to yell out to you, "Can you get the phone and take a number? I'm in the you-know-where."

Sometimes it seems that children grow up in there among the plumbing and the tile.

"Are you in bed?" ("No, I'm in the bathroom.")

"Are you doing your homework?" ("I'm in the bathroom.")

"Come in here and meet these nice people." ("I'm in the bathroom.")

"Could you let the dog out?" ("I'm in the bathroom.")

"Come to dinner!" ("I'm in the bathroom.")

Throughout the years I've had great respect for the exclusivity of this room, but recently I couldn't stand it. We were all in the car waiting for Bruce who was guess where.

I ran into the house, pounded on the bathroom door and yelled, "Why is this door shut?"

"You always said, 'Shut the door.'"

"What are you doing?"

"You always said, 'Go before you leave home.'"

"Why is this door locked?"

"You always said, 'Lock the door.'"

"Now what are you doing?"

"You always said, 'Wash your hands.'"

The trouble with mothers is they talk too much!

Engagement Announced

Courtship — Then Marriage

HAROLD AND RAMONA — I DO — After a 45-year courtship, Harold Forbes, 86, and Ramona Forbes, 65, both of Middlebury got married in a lakeside ceremony Saturday. Because they are uncle and niece, they were barred from marrying under Vermont law. They found Canada's laws a little less stringent. (AP Laserphoto)

Bridal Policy

A black and white glossy five by seven photograph is requested for engagement announcements. For publication in a Sunday edition, the information must be submitted by 12 noon on the preceding Wednesday.

Engagement pictures must be released at least three weeks prior to the wedding date. After three weeks, only an announcement will be printed.

Wedding write-ups will be printed through the first week with a five by seven picture. During the second week with a wallet size picture and write-up giving less description and after the second week, just as an announcement. Wedding forms and pictures should be returned to "The Daily Reflector" one week prior to the date of the wedding. All information should be typed or written neatly.

Opportunity Is Here

A Census Bureau report on the 1970-1980 decade confirms earlier reports that more blacks were returning to the South than were leaving the area.

Since the out-migration was attributable to the promise of greater opportunity elsewhere, then fairness dictates the in-migration may be attributable to the promise of greater opportunity in the South today.

In North Carolina, for example, the decade saw the black population level grow from 22.2 percent to 22.4 percent of the state's population. This, despite an influx of many whites and people of other racial backgrounds. (More than half of the blacks in the United States are living south of the Mason-Dixon Line, and changes in that share of the black population have been small.)

Proportionately speaking, the Census Bureau's figures are something of an anomaly. The actual numbers of blacks throughout the South are increasing, but their percentage of the population was largely unchanged because of whites moving into the Sunbelt and the arrival of many Hispanics from points south.

The mix of newcomers in this region is heady stuff. Growth is an indicator of promise and people themselves represent a tangible and intangible wealth to North Carolina in particular, and to its neighbors, as well.

Dawkins Helped Center

Howard G. Dawkins, director emeritus of the Eastern Carolina Vocational Center, is the recipient of a distinguished service award from the President's Committee on Employment.

The award was presented in ceremonies in Washington last week.

Dawkins was cited for his work in developing the vocational center. Dawkins played a major role in obtaining a federal grant for construction of adequate facilities for the center and worked to raise the matching local funds. He has been active in the fund raising efforts since his retirement Dec. 31, 1981.

Dawkins was recipient of the Pitt County Committee on Employment of the Handicapped distinguished service award in 1981. He later received the state award from Gov. Hunt who nominated him for a national award.

It is reasonable to say that the Eastern Carolina Vocational Center would not exist as it is today if it had not been for the efforts of Howard Dawkins. He earned in every way the honors he has received.

Setting It Straight

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Jack Kemp, R-N.Y., calling himself a "very, very old" football player, tried the other day to set the House straight on the difference between football and soccer.

It was as the House was discussing a resolution to support efforts to have the United States host soccer's 1986 World Cup.

Kemp, the former Buffalo Bills quarterback, took issue with the name of the international soccer association that oversees the World Cup competition — the Federation Internationale de Football Association.

"They should change their name and stop confusing all of those young boys and maybe some young girls who think of football as football," he said.

"Football is football; soccer is soccer. Soccer does not have a quarterback; only football has a quarterback," Kemp said.

Kemp was told by colleagues that, in other parts of the world, soccer was often referred to as "football."

Kemp said he didn't care. "I think it is important that for all of those young people out there, who some day hope to play real football, where you throw it and kick it and run with it and put it in your hands, a distinction should be made that football is democratic, capitalism, whereas soccer is a European socialist."

Several colleagues challenged Kemp to elaborate on his contention that soccer was socialist while football was democratic. "It's a challenging intellectual concept," said Rep. Gerry E. Studds, D-Mass.

"I am going to have to revise and extend my remarks (in the Congressional Record)," Kemp said. "I do not think I want to leave this on the Record."

But whatever Kemp's editing plans, his remarks were printed the next day in the Record for all to read.

Kemp isn't the only member of Congress to talk about his athletic abilities. The other day, Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., put out a press release announcing he'd just been awarded a gold medal from the International Swimming Hall of Fame in Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

Said the release: "Goldwater joins a long line of distinguished statesmen who were swimmers, including Plato, Alexander the Great, Julius Caesar, Charlemagne, Benjamin Franklin..."

"As a swimming author, he joins Ernest Hemingway and Lord Byron, who, like Goldwater, were competitive swimmers," it added.

There must be a gremlin at work in the Government Printing Office. The newly published 1983-84 Congressional Directory, in its section on state governors, has this listing for the governor of Washington: Republican Dixie Lee Ray.

She's neither the governor nor a Republican.

Democrat Dixie Lee Ray was governor from 1977 to 1981 and was succeeded by the present governor, Republican John Spellman — who, inexplicably, was correctly listed as governor in the 1981-82 edition of the Directory.

NEW YORK (AP) — Has the solvency of the Social Security system really been assured for the next 75 years, as the president and many members of Congress indicated in signing a recent amendment to it?

"Innocent, wishful thinking," says A. Haeworth Robertson, who was chief actuary of the Social Security System from 1975 to 1978.

NEW YORK — James R. Hassett, trustee in bankruptcy, closed his books on the case of Mork and Mindy. That is how Mordecai Weissman and Myron Goodman came to be known on Wall Street. They will be known in the annals of white-collar crime as two of the most talented swindlers that ever came along.

The story of Weissman and Goodman is a sad story, as all stories of crime must be, but it is an instructive story also. The story has a sad ending: Both the principals and four of their accomplices are in prison. Their billion-dollar company is in bankruptcy. The story has a moral that is as old as trade itself. This is the moral: Always look a gift horse in the mouth.

The tale begins in July 1970, when 23-year-old Mordy Weissman, a graduate of Brooklyn College, borrowed $10,000 from his family in order to go into the business of leasing equipment. A few months later he brought in his 24-year-old brother-in-law, Myron Goodman, who borrowed $8,000 to buy a 42 percent interest in the firm.

They called their company O.P.M. Leasing Services, Inc., and they made a small joke of the name. It stood for "Other People's Money." That was how they proposed to make their fortunes, and until the whole sand castle collapsed in 1981, that was what they did: They used hundreds of millions of dollars of other people's money. Their company never had a single profitable year, but in the mid-'70s it had paper assets in excess of $2 billion. The partners paid themselves handsome salaries; they built themselves lavish estates on Long Island; they gave away millions in philanthropy. They earned their money the easy way: They stole it.

Actually, it wasn't easy. Swindling is hard work. Goodman's working day typically began at 4:30 a.m. and continued far into the night. Weissman labored almost as assiduously. If you are going to kite $4.4 million in checks over a three-month period, you have to maintain a high level of concentration. Give the two crooks credit.

But, no! Watch that credit business. That was how they took the suckers. O.P.M.'s business was in leasing large mainframe computers. Their customers included such industrial giants as American Express and Rockwell International. The deals were intricate, but basically they worked in this fashion:

O.P.M. would lease, say, an IBM 370 to a customer; then O.P.M. would take the lease to a lender, for example, Manufacturers Hanover or the investment bankers of Lehman Brothers Kuhn Loeb, and borrow money with the lease as collateral. The lease payments were intended to retire the loans.

Trouble was, O.P.M. made its terms unbelievably generous — early terminations, short terms, low rentals. The customers, described by Trustee Hassett as a veritable Who's Who of American industry, were delighted. By the time the collateral papers were shown to bankers, the bankers were delighted. Alas, they were not the same papers. As time passed, and problems of cash flow became desperate, the partners turned to every form of fraud known to man.

They forged signatures. They faked balance sheets. They contrived fictitious leases. They borrowed two or three times on the same paper. They impersonated vendors and customers. They altered leases. One lease to American Express, at $3,200 a month, was converted by the stroke of a typewriter key to $63,200 a month.

This went on for 10 years, until a sharp-eyed fellow at Rockwell caught a major discrepancy and began to make telephone calls. And that was the incredible thing: No one ever had made a critical call before. At any point over the entire decade, if the bankers had ever checked closely with the customers — if anyone ever had troubled to confirm that the figure was $63,200 and not something else — the balloon would have popped. But big names trust big names. The bankers had Mork and Mindy to dinner, but when the guests had departed the hosts forgot to count their spoons.

In the end, the two partners bilked financing institutions out of more than $228 million. Hassett's final report, two years after proceedings in bankruptcy began, is the stuff of which novels are made. One puts down the thick volume with a bemused reflection. Here were two young men who had everything going for them — good education, ambition, imagination, perseverance, the respect of their Orthodox Jewish community, the nerve of professional gamblers — and they turned their manifest talents to crime. On the right road they might have gone far. They took the wrong road, and it led them to prison.

Kirkpatrick Raises More Doubts

WASHINGTON — Jeane J. Kirkpatrick lost her advantage in the Great Free Speech Debate when she turned down honorary degrees from two prestigious colleges. In effect, the U.S. ambassador to the United Nations shifted public concern about the health of campus discourse to similar doubts about her ability to stand up to criticism.

Earlier this year, Kirkpatrick had won the unlikely support of both Civil Libertarians and conservatives when hecklers at the University of California-Berkeley and the University of Minnesota refused her the floor. Newspapers and magazines decried the students' shabby behavior; in her name, both George Will and Tom Wicker rushed to the defense of the First Amendment.

To be sure, the outspoken apologist for "moderately repressive" regimes didn't go over big at either campus. At Berkeley, the birthplace of the Free Speech Movement, Kirkpatrick canceled two appearances when hecklers chanted "40,000 dead!" (in reference to El Salvador) and "apartheid!" (in reference to conciliatory relations with South Africa). In Minneapolis, opponents unfurled Nazi banners and held sway for five minutes before relinquishing the floor.

By mid-March, the former Georgetown University professor had earned a sort of heroic stature for not only exposing academia's soft, liberal underbelly, but also challenging its supposed devotion to free discourse.

The "debate-debate" was complicated, however, when Massachusetts' Smith College had second thoughts about Kirkpatrick's scheduled appearance at the school's May 22 commencement exercises. More than half of Smith's faculty petitioned the college's trustees to withhold the honorary degree while Smith students (under the aegis of CROAK — Committee Responsible for Organizing Against Kirkpatrick) held teach-ins on Reagan foreign policy.

Perhaps overestimating dissent on campus and in the local community, Smith officials told Kirkpatrick that they couldn't guarantee her security; Kirkpatrick backed out to keep Smith's commencement "a joyous occasion." In return, Smith promised to confer the honorary degree in absentia.

A similar drama was staged two weeks ago at Kirkpatrick's alma mater, Barnard College, in New York City. Learning April 25 that Kirkpatrick was slated to receive a Medal of Distinction at commencement, Barnard's faculty voted by a 4-1 margin to oppose the honor; 200 students later met peacefully with deans to discuss the matter.

Though Barnard President Ellen Futter explained that the medal meant no endorsement of Kirkpatrick's policies, campus critics thought otherwise. As if to thumb her nose in return, Kirkpatrick refused both honors last week.

"Doubtless, we will all want to reflect on the events surrounding this episode, and what they tell us about who we are and what we've become," Kirkpatrick wrote to both Futter and Jill Conway, Smith's president.

Are the colleges, as Kirkpatrick implies, chicken-hearted censors? At commencement time, the answer is always yes. The vernal exercise in pomp and circumstance is thoroughly uncharacteristic of the everyday collegiate experience. Colleges insist that everything go perfectly: Celebrity speakers and honorary degree recipients confer status on the institutions — not vice versa, as it may seem.

Actuary Doubts Social Security Is Solvent

To fund the payouts, Robertson says, would eventually mean an increase in the Social Security tax system two to three times its present level, meaning workers and employers each would pay 20 percent of payroll.

Under the recent legislation, the tax rate is scheduled to rise from its present 6.7 percent to only 7.65 percent by 1990, remaining level thereafter.

"Grossly inadequate," snaps Robertson. "We have promised more than we will be able to deliver." Anyone who doesn't think so, he adds, "is engaging in wishful thinking, and has a very dangerous false sense of security."

It was Robertson's job as chief actuary to project numbers far into the future, a future he continues to examine in his current role as a managing director for

William M. Mercer Inc., a compensation consulting firm.

Robertson, whose views were offered in a paper prepared for a conference last week at Stanford University, claims that other, very serious, more subtle and less tangible costs are also involved in current assumptions.

"Social Security is not merely responding to our economic security needs," he argues, but "is shaping and even creating those needs." Indeed, he says, "it is exacerbating the needs it purportedly exists to resolve."

Even now, he argues, Social Security trespasses upon many aspect of lives by imposing straitjackets on behavior: when to retire, how much to earn between ages 62 and 70, when to divorce, whether to remarry (and to whom).

Investigating Shooting Death

AYDEN — Investigation continued today in the shooting death of David Carl Swindell, 30, of Greenville and the wounding of Marion Barrett Brown of Ayden on Monday, according to Ayden Police Chief Tommy Burney.

Burney said police received a call to 814 Belevedere Court at 7:05 a.m. Monday and, when they arrived, found Swindell dead and Ms. Brown injured. Both victims had been shot, said Burney, and a .410-gauge shotgun was found at the scene.

The medical examiner's report on Swindell was unavailable this morning.

Law enforcement officials term the incident a possible attempted homicide-suicide.

Ms. Brown, who resided at Belvedere Court, was shot in the face and hand, Burney said.

Burney said Ms. Brown's two children, ages 2 and 6, witnessed the shooting and ran to a grandparent's house nearby to call for help.

Space Agency Inching Stray Satellite In Orbit

By HOWARD BENEDICT
AP Aerospace Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The space agency, confident of success, today began edging a $100 million shuttle-launched communications satellite out of a lopsided path into stable orbit 22,300 miles above Earth.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration had to cut today's maneuvers short because two thrusting jets on the satellite overheated, but officials still were satisfied with the progress they made and will continue the attempt Wednesday, a spokesman said.

Several future spacecraft launches, including a European Space Laboratory aboard a shuttle next fall, could be delayed if the Tracking and Data Relay Satellite cannot be shifted to its proper outpost. After today's maneuvers the satellite still was more than 8,000 miles lower than it was supposed to be.

The first firing signals to the satellite's thrusters were sent at 12:12 a.m. EDT through the agency's deep space tracking station near Madrid, Spain, while TDRS was spinning in its misshapen orbit high above the South Atlantic Ocean.

Jim Elliott, a spokesman for NASA's Goddard Space Flight Center in nearby Greenbelt, Md., said that at 1:34 a.m. the maneuver was halted because temperatures on two jets reached the safety limit of 240 degrees Fahrenheit.

NASA officials initially planned to refire the thrusters after giving them an hour to cool down, but "we decided not to start another burn after all and just settle for the hour and 22 minutes" of maneuvers, Elliott said. "We're doing that to more closely evaluate what happened on the burn."

Under the procedure adopted by NASA for the maneuver, two of the satellite's seven thrusters were in continuous operation while the rest were being fired sporadically. It was two of the five in sporadic operation that overheated, Elliott said.

"They're still trying to figure out just how to work this out," he said. "They made more progress today, they feel, and they're still confident they can get the thing into (the proper) orbit."

The result of the maneuver was that the satellite gained 217 miles in altitude at the low point of its orbit but lost 41 miles at the high point. However, Elliott said the loss at the high point didn't bother the scientists.

The salvage effort will require at least 13 different firings of the satellite's jet thrusters — and perhaps as many as 39 — over several weeks. After two tests of the small jets last week, NASA officials expressed optimism they could get the satellite into the right orbit.

"I have a lot of confidence we're going to get TDRS into geosynchronous orbit and have it in place and operating by mid-June," said Robert Aller, the NASA official in charge of the program.

In geosynchronous orbit, where both the high and low points of the path are 22,300 miles high, a spacecraft's speed matches that of the Earth's rotation and thus hovers over one spot on the globe at all times.

TDRS was kicked into orbit on April 4 by the astronauts of the space shuttle Challenger. A rocket motor was to have boosted it to geosynchronous orbit, but the rocket malfunctioned and sent the satellite into an elliptical path ranging from 13,600 miles to 21,972 miles.

The two test firings of six of the satellite's thrusters last week raised the low point to 13,938 miles, but both had to be terminated early when one jet overheated.

To try to avoid overheating, Aller said seven thrusters were to be used initially today in a computer-calculated firing pattern.

Without an overheating problem, the firings could be conducted for as long as three hours a day. Otherwise, they might be limited to an hour a day. Aller said a total of 39 hours of firings are needed to elevate TDRS to its proper orbit — thus the number of individual exercises could range between 13 and 39.

The satellite is intended as an orbiting switchboard to relay information to and from as many as 26 satellites, including the space shuttle. It will be essential to the operation of the European Spacelab, now set for launch next Sept. 30.

NASA had intended to orbit a second TDRS as part of a three-satellite network on a shuttle flight in August. But that effort has been postponed until engineers analyze and correct the flaw that sent the booster rocket off course during the April flight.

Polish Govm't Charges Illegal Walesa Actions

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — The Polish government charged today that Solidarity leader Lech Walesa and his aides were "political activists" engaged in illegal activities.

Government spokesman Jerzy Urban termed their clandestine session over the weekend an "organizational meeting" banned under martial law. Walesa and more than 12 aides were detained temporarily after the meeting.

But Urban told a news conference that "no complaints of a legal nature have been advanced against anybody" at the meeting.

Walesa and others at the meeting drafted a letter appealing to the Parliament on Monday for union freedom, and amnesty or reinstatement to jobs of workers imprisoned or fired for their politics.

Responding to questions, Urban called those at the meeting "political activists," not unionists, and said activists "of this type are illegal."

"This type of organizing has led the appropriate institutions of public order in Poland to take actions aimed at clearing up the circumstances under which they were taken, because their aim is to prevent this type of activity from disrupting public order," Urban said.

Snowstorm

HELENA, Mont. (AP) — A "dangerous" spring snowstorm plastering Montana with almost 2 feet of snow in places today clogged highways, tore down power lines, and closed schools in the state's major cities.

More snow had fallen in parts of Montana than was delivered by any storm of the past winter.

Drifting snow closed Interstate 15 between Helena and Great Falls, as well as all highways in the Great Falls area. Emergency travel only was advised in some areas. Roads across several mountain passes on the Continental Divide were blocked.

Officials reported near-blizzard conditions from Great Falls to Lewistown and across the mountains and foothills of north-central Montana.

Forecasters said up to 2 feet of wet snow was likely to accumulate across the central portions by this evening. Ranchers were warned to provide protection for new-born calves and lambs.

Twenty inches of snow already was on the ground in the small mountain community of York northeast of Helena. School buses were not running in the Helena area, where 6 inches of new snow fell overnight.

Bloodmobile

Ruth Taylor of the Pitt County Red Cross reminded area citizens that a bloodmobile is scheduled for Wednesday from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m. at the city's public works facility on Beatty Street.

Mrs. Taylor said city employees and the general public are urged to participate in the blood drive.

Wachovia BankLine

Now, a prearranged line of credit up to $25,000, at a preferred rate of interest based on the prime.

Wachovia BankLine is a way to increase your personal financial resources by $2,500 to $25,000, without making a special trip to the bank when you need money. You just write a BankLine check. And the interest you pay is tied to the Wachovia prime rate.*

If your line of credit is:	Your interest is:
$10,000 or over	Prime + 1%
$5,000 to $9,999	Prime + 1½%
$2,500 to $4,999	Prime + 2½%

*The BankLine prime rate for May, 1983 is 10%.

Right now BankLine is just about the least expensive loan source you'll find. Your interest rate is determined by the size of your credit line, so you pay the same low rate no matter how much you borrow.

You can save interest by repaying quickly, or choose from several repayment options.

Since it's all prearranged, you have absolute discretion and control over when and how you use the money. Just write a special BankLine check. And there are no fees, so it costs you nothing unless you use it.

Your Personal Banker can help you decide whether BankLine is right for you. Even if you're not a Wachovia customer, ask a Personal Banker about BankLine. It's a better way to borrow money.

Wachovia

Under present North Carolina law, 17.99% is the maximum that can be charged for loans of this type. If the law should be changed, the 17.99% annual percentage rate ceiling of BankLine loans would be subject to change. There is a minimum annual percentage rate of 8%.

Some 65 children participated in the Greenville Citizens Bikeway Committee-sponsored Bicycle Safety Rodeo last weekend.

Three divisions of winners were announced. These are listed in first- through fifth-place order: kindergarten through third grade — Edward Rampersand, Will Stanley, Renee Cobb, Henry Clark and Michael Cyriaque; fourth through sixth grades — Joey McKinney, David Caldwell, Brian Moore and Brett Gibbs; and seventh grade and up — Justen Vick, Art Young and David Ross.

Bikeway Committee members were assisted by members of the Greenville Optimist Club and the Greenville Host Lions Club in holding the event.

Martin Building Now Unoccupied

Williamston building Inspector Robert Godard says the old Martin County Courthouse, which was recently declared unsafe, is now unoccupied.

Godard said it would be up to the Martin County Commissioners to take action on what to do with the building — whether to demolish it or to renovate it so that it will meet state building safety standards. He has said that the county jail, located at the rear of the building, "is not included in the condemnation of the main old courthouse building."

Pitt Plans Summer School

Pitt County's school system will offer summer school for students in Grades 4 through 8.

"Although the primary purpose of this program is to provide an alternative for the student who has failed no more than one of the four academic areas he or she must pass to be promoted to a new grade — language arts, science, social studies or mathematics — any student who feels the need to strengthen skills or broaden content background may enroll, if otherwise qualified," Supervisor Lillian D. Bradley said.

The school will run from June 20 to July 22 from 8 a.m. to noon with July 4 as a holiday. Tuition is $50 and must be paid in full at registration time prior to 4 p.m. June 16. Transportation must be furnished by the parent or guardian.

A.G. Cox School has been designated as the site of the school, but other locations may be established if enrollment warrants.

Senior Competes In Contest

Gail Nobles, a senior at Ayden-Grifton High School, represented the school at the fifth annual State Mathematics Contest held in Raleigh recently, according to school Principal Bill Wiggins. She competed with 110 students from across North Carolina at the contest.

Rose Senior Wins Contest

Rose High School senior Regina Hathaway won first-place in a state health display contest held during the seventh annual Health Occupations Students of America (HOSA) Congress in Winston-Salem last weekend.

Miss Hathaway is the first state winner from Rose High. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W.H. Hathaway of Greenville. Accompanied by the Rose High HOSA adviser, Dottie Sugg, she will advance to national competition in San Antonio, Texas, in late June. She placed first in the Extemporaneous Health Display category.

Further information about these qualifying examinations is available from the ECU Testing Center, 105 Speight Building.

James Heads Farmers Market

Robert L. James has been elected president of the Pitt County Farmers Market Association for 1983.

The association elected James at a meeting Monday. Other officers include Andy McLawhorn, secretary, and Lois Briley, treasurer.

Members voted to open the market for the year Saturday at 8 a.m. at Pitt Plaza. According to James, items offered for sale will include strawberries, broccoli, onions, cabbage and salad.

The market will be open each Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday mornings at 8 a.m. and on Friday afternoons at 3 p.m.

The Farmer's Market is still seeking a location to build a permanent facility on, James said, but will be open at the Pitt Plaza location this year.

Chocowinity Man Arrested

Thomas Earl Midgett, 20, of Route 1, Chocowinity, was arrested Monday on breaking, entering and larceny charges by Greenville police.

Chief Glenn Cannon said Midgett was charged in connection with the theft of a coat, boots, and stereo system, valued at $370, from 400 W. Fifth St. on Dec. 21, 1982.

Collision Causes $850 Damage

Greenville police reported that a car driven by Jay Nicholas Hagans of 707A Hooker Road collided with a parked car owned by Charles Ray Boyd of Greenway Apartments about 12:25 a.m. today on Vance Street, 45 feet north of the Fairfax Avenue intersection.

Damage from the collision was estimated at $500 to the Hagans car and $350 to the Boyd vehicle.

See Mascot Idol Threat

UTICA, Mich. (AP) — A high school track team's mascot should be run out of town because athletes "seem to be worshipping" the 18-inch statue of a rotund Oriental man, a minister and some parents say.

Members of the boys' track team at Utica High School dance around the figure named Ho Tai before track meets. Sometimes they chant "Ho Tai lives" and pat or kiss its belly for good luck.

Track Coach Frank Morrow found the statue 14 years ago in a ceramics shop, and the team has rallied around it ever since, he said.

But "each year it seems the ceremony has grown," said Juanita Strong of Sterling Heights. "Now they seem to be worshipping the statue."

The Rev. Mark Press, pastor of Trinity Lutheran Church in Utica, said he and the parents object to the figure because Ho Tai teaches the students to depend on luck and chance instead of God.

Utica School Superintendent Donald Bemis has said he will consider the complaints. But Principal Jack Francis said Ho Tai is "just a mascot, like the Navy goat or the Army mule."

Again Seeks To Practice Law

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Jerry Banks Moore, 42, appealed to the state Supreme Court Monday for the second time for the chance to practice law in North Carolina.

Twice Moore has had applications rejected. He was charged in 1966 with second-degree murder in the death of his estranged wife's boyfriend, Barney O. Adler of Raleigh. After serving seven years of his 25-year sentence, he completed law school.

Subcommittee Favors Animal Sale For Research

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — A legislative subcommittee voted Monday to allow dogs that are left unclaimed at animal shelters to be sold to medical research laboratories but not to animal dealers.

The compromise was reached by a subcommittee of the House Health Committee and Senate Human Resources Committee, which are examining a lengthy rewrite of the state's public health laws.

"The subcommittee felt it was important to satisfy allegations made about the mistreatment of animals by dealers, particularly when the animals were transported out of state," said Sen. Gerry Hancock, D-Durham, co-chairman of the subcommittee.

"But the subcommittee wanted the reserve of available animals for appropriate medical research," he said.

Existing law requires that animals left unclaimed at shelters after five days be disposed of in a humane manner, which has been interpreted to mean putting them to sleep or selling them to research facilities and animal dealers who work as intermediaries.

But the state Attorney General's office, in an advisory opinion, said the law does not permit the sale of animals.

The bill is aimed at clarifying what is considered humane disposal. As approved Monday, it would continue to require that animals be returned to their owner or put up for adoption but would add a provision that if the animals are not claimed within five days, they may be sold to a licensed research facility or disposed of in a manner approved of by national humane groups, possibly putting them to sleep.

The subcommittee also voted to improve the record-keeping system at shelters to help pet owners track down their lost animals.

The bill would require animal control officers record the date the animal was impounded, length of time the animal was impounded, the method by which the animal was disposed and the name of the person or institution to which the animal was released.

Meanwhile, Rep. Margaret Stamey, D-Wake, has introduced a bill that would prohibit the sale of shelter animals for research.

Rep. John Varner, D-Davidson, said he didn't think the new language would satisfy all those who testified before the subcommittee about the bill.

"They don't want animals to be used in experiments," Varner said, adding that, "They don't want to admit it."

In other legislative action:

Railroads

The Legislative Research Commission's Railroad Study Committee appointed a subcommittee to begin talks with directors of the North Carolina Railroad Co. and the Atlantic and North Carolina Railroad Co. about buying or renegotiating the lease on two railroad lines.

The railroads, running from Charlotte to the coast, were set up as two private corporations in the 1850s. The state owns about 75 percent of the outstanding stock in each.

The tracks are leased by Southern Railway Co. under agreements as old as 99 years that expire in 1994.

If the subcommittee determines whether to pursue negotiations, the Legislature will consider retaining a New York research firm to conduct the talks. The firm already has appraised the value of the railroads.

State Senate Taking Its Show On Road

By MARY ANNE RHYNE
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The state Senate was to visit Cherry Point Marine Air Station and hold a short session today at Camp Lejeune, one of its first sessions outside Raleigh in years and perhaps its first away from the House.

Lt. Gov. Jimmy Green, 33 state senators, 27 staff members, a chaplain and seven journalists were set to take the legislative show on the road courtesy of the U.S. Marine Corps.

"I don't recall a time when one (chamber) met without the other," Green said Monday.

But he noted that it's not the first legislative session outside Raleigh. He said that in recent years, the House and Senate have met at East Carolina in Greenville, Carowinds amusement park in Charlotte, Western Carolina in Cullowhee and the battle ship USS North Carolina in Wilmington.

Sen. Cecil Jenkins, D-Cabarrus, obtained an advisory opinion from the state attorney general's office last week saying it was not illegal or unconstitutional for the Senate to hold the meeting at Camp Lejeune.

There were at least five bills to be considered today, including one that would give military personnel and their children in-state tuition rates at University of North Carolina campuses. Most states with military bases already offer service families the tuition break.

A Marine C-9 airplane with a 107-passenger capacity was to pick up the senators at the Raleigh-Durham Airport by 8 a.m. Thirty-three of the 50 senators were riding the military plane while five others were taking a private plane and two others were driving to the base.

The military plane was to touch down at Cherry Point Marine Air Station about 8:40 a.m. and the legislators were to be driven by bus to the Naval Air Rework Facility, where aircraft are reworked and rebuilt.

Then the legislators were to board two CH-53E helicopters for Camp Lejeune, where they were to tour the recently dedicated Naval Regional Medical Center.

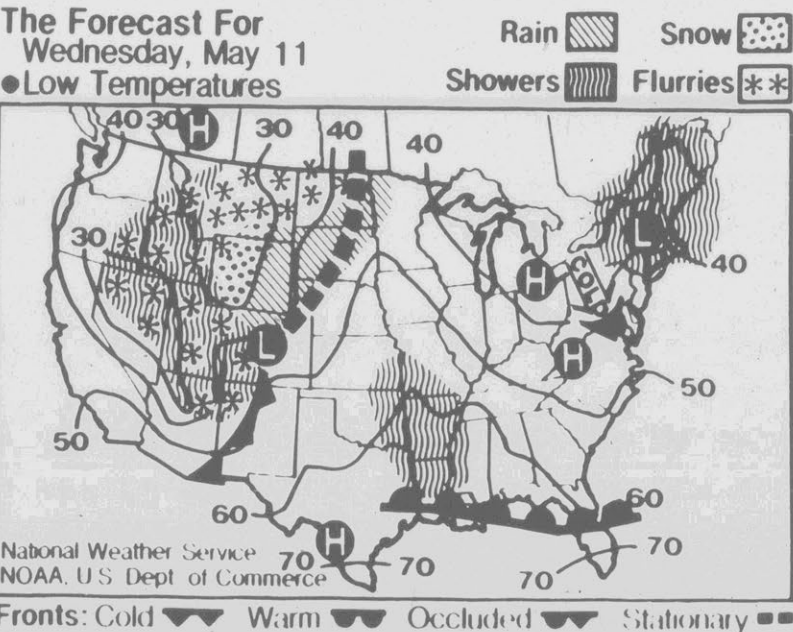

The session was to convene about 11 a.m. in the officer's club at Camp Lejeune and the legislators were expected to be welcomed by Maj. Gen. Donald J. Fulham, commanding general of the base.

Lunch was to follow in the mess hall and then a trip to Goose Landing Zone for a briefing by the 2nd Force Service Support group and to an observation post for a briefing by the 2nd Marine Division before returning to Cherry Point and then Raleigh.

A spokesman at Marine public affairs headquarters in Washington said it cost about $800 an hour to use each helicopter. He did not know the cost of the plane. The Marine Corps is picking up the tab for the trip.

Sen. A.D. Guy, D-Onslow, who represents the area including the bases, said he Unseasonably cool weather forced the temperature to a record low at Cape Hatteras early today.

The National Weather Service reported a temperature of 41 degrees at Cape Hatteras at 5 a.m. today, breaking the 1976 record of 43 degrees.

Other cities around the state reported lows in the 30s for the mountains and the mid to lower 40s in the east.

A large ridge of high pressure will dominate North Carolina weather for the next few days, keeping skies sunny and conditions dry.

It will be fair tonight and sunny Wednesday. Lows tonight will be in the 40s, except for the upper 30s in the northern mountains.

Highs Wednesday will be in the 70s.

Along the coast, winds will be out of the northeast at around 10 knots tonight and 10 to 15 knots Wednesday.

Six-Year-Old Just Took Car For Trip

KINGS MOUNTAIN, N.C. (AP) — Six-year-old Charles Boyd wanted to visit his father's job Monday morning, so he hopped into his mother's car and started driving for Bessemer City.

One-half hour and five miles later, just as he was getting ready to turn onto Interstate 85, the car rolled off a road and bumped to a stop.

Charles opened the door and climbed out, startling the man who had been driving behind him.

"He thought he was following a drunk, but he never saw the driver," Kings Mountain police dispatcher Roy Dyer said.

A little lost, Charles rode with the man to his father's place of employment, Garlock Industries in Gastonia. That's about 20 miles from his home.

Kings Mountain police were investigating a possible kidnapping and motor vehicle theft when a call came from Gastonia that Charles was safe and sound.

Virginia Boyd said her son has often expressed a desire to drive and learned how "by just watching, I guess."

Dyer said an officer asked Charles how he worked the brakes and the accelerator, "and he said he looked through the windshield until it was clear, and then he'd get down and push the gas. Then he'd jump back up and steer until the car slowed down."

"He's sharper than I gave him credit for, I'm afraid," Ms. Boyd said.

Poultry
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) (NCDA) — The North Carolina f.o.b. dock quoted price on broilers for this week's trading was 42.50 cents. The final weighted average was 43.31 cents f.o.b. dock or equivalent. The market tone for next week's trading is steady to firm and the live supply light to moderate for a good demand. Weights desirable. Estimated slaughter of broilers and fryers in North Carolina Tuesday was 1,826,000, compared to 1,620,000 last Tuesday.

Hens
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) (NCDA) — The North Carolina hen market was 2 cents lower. Supplies fully adequate. Demand light. Prices paid per pound for hens over 7 pounds at farm for Monday and Tuesday slaughter was 13 cents.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market renewed its climb into uncharted territory today, following a pause in a mixed showing Monday.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks, which fell 4.36 points Monday in a retreat from record heights, was up 4.45 at 1,232.68 at noon. The record close for the blue-chip average was the 1,232.59 finish Friday.

Nearly nine stocks rose in price for every five that fell in the midday tally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Analysts said mining and metals stocks helped pace the advance, amid expectations that an economic recovery would increase industrial demand for silver and copper. At the same time, concern that inflation may be rekindled by rapid growth of the money supply and huge federal deficits was making precious metals more attractive.

Inco rose 1/2 to 16 1/2, Asarco jumped 2 1/2 to 42 1/2, ASA was up 1 1/4 at 75 1/4, Dome Mines gained 3/4 to 21 1/2, and Sunshine Mining advanced 3/8 to 17 1/2.

Petroleum issues also rose, with Mobil up 1/2 at 30 3/4, Gulf Oil up 1/8 at 35, and Exxon up 3/8 at 35 1/2.

The NYSE's composite index was up 25 at 95.60. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up 2.93 at 447.30.

Big Board volume was 48.01 million shares a third of the way through the session, up from 40.56 million in the same period Monday.

Signal Companies topped the active list in the early going on the NYSE, off 3/4 at 30, in trading that included a block of 1,316,000 shares changing hands at 29 3/4 a share.

BY THE BEAUTIFUL SEA — It may be cool for May, but the lure of the sea beckons young and old to its side even when the chill of the ocean water confines activities mostly to the seashore sand. At Emerald Isle Beach

Saturday, among those soaking up sun were a quartet of marines, four youngsters, and a trio of beauties. (Reflector Photo by Jerry Raynor)

Aycock Is 2nd In History Bowl

Students from E.B. Aycock Junior High School placed second in the Caswell-Neuse State Historic Site's second annual North Carolina History Quiz Bowl held in Kinston last Saturday.

Aycock's team defeated Frink Middle School in the preliminary match, the Eastern Wayne Junior High in the semifinals and lost to Kinston Junior High in the finals. Last year, Kinston and Aycock were matched in the finals, with Aycock winning top place.

Members of Aycock's team were: Christy Garrison, captain, Drew Rhodes, Lara Perry, and Julie Mayberry. As second place winners, the Aycock team won a $50 cash award for their school. Teachers serving as coaches for the Aycock team were Faye M. Creegan and Patricia W. Sheppard.

Nelson Is Not Worried

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Milwaukee Bucks Coach Don Nelson insists he's not worried about Sidney Moncrief.

Moncrief, who averaged 22.5 points in the regular season, collected just seven Sunday as the Bucks lost to the Philadelphia 76ers in the opener of their National Basketball Association Eastern Conference final.

"I've never seen Sidney have poor back-to-back games," said Nelson before practice for Wednesday's second game of the series here.

"Philadelphia did a good job on him. They took some of his favorite things away. But he'll make the adjustments I'm sure."

The 76ers won the first game of the best-of-seven series in overtime, 111-109, with Clint Richardson scoring the winning basket after Bobby Jones stole an inbound pass and flipped to the little guard under the basket.

The Bucks held Moses Malone to 14 points and 12 rebounds, well below his 24.5 and 15.3 regular-season averages.

Nelson said he would make a few minor adjustments.

"But we're not going to change much in our game, whether we lose by two or 30," the coach added.

Sixer Coach Billy Cunningham said the Bucks had to be pleased with their set offense.

"Even though Sidney (Moncrief) didn't score a lot, they executed very well. Moncrief doesn't have to score for them to win. He was aggressive and going to the boards. His lack of offense didn't take away from the rest of his game."

Cunningham said he planned some adjustments against the Bucks' set offense, adding that he was pleased with the way Toney moved, considering the sharp-shooting guard wore a heavy wrapping on his deep left thigh injury.

Toney, who practiced well Monday, said his thigh felt pretty good.

Julius Erving did not work Monday because of what Cunningham said was a sore knee.

"Julius' left knee was sore. We didn't even know he hurt himself until we saw the films," said Cunningham, who didn't appear overly concerned about the injury.

Although the 76ers haven't lost a playoff game (they swept the New York Knicks in four), Cunningham insisted that his team hasn't had a game in which all the players performed well.

"Hopefully that will happen very soon," Cunningham said.

The Bucks are hoping for a split in Philadelphia before the Central Division champions go home for the third and fourth games Saturday and Sunday. The Sunday defeat was their first playoff loss of the post-season competition following a four-game sweep of Boston in an Eastern semi-final.

Artis Gets 2nd Chance To Win Battle Of Big Men With Jabbar

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — The first round of the battle of the big men clearly belonged to Kareem Abdul-Jabbar.

But 7-foot-2 center Artis Gilmore and the San Antonio Spurs get another chance to-night when they face Abdul-Jabbar and the Los Angeles Lakers in the second game of the National Basketball Association Western Conference finals.

The defending NBA champion Lakers jumped out to 1-0 edge in the best-of-seven series with a 119-107 victory Sunday at the Forum, as Abdul-Jabbar, also 7-2, led the way with 30 points and eight rebounds.

Gilmore scored just seven points and had six rebounds when he fouled out with 5:18 remaining in the contest.

Among those who believe Gilmore will fare better in the future, however, is Abdul-Jabbar.

"Artis was in foul trouble and they couldn't afford to go inside to him when they were playing catch-up," the Laker center said. "But it was only one game, and I'm sure he will be heard from before this series is over."

San Antonio Coach Stan Albeck, whose club beat the Lakers four times in five meetings during the past regular season, said he'll try something new for the second playoff game.

"We are going to look at the films and devise some strategy and hopefully it will work," said Albeck. "I think it will. We are not disillusioned. I remain optimistic and so does the team. You will see a better team..."

While the matchup at center is the focal point for the playoff series, the Lakers received some excellent play in other areas. Guard Norm Nixon popped in 30 points for Los Angeles, and the Lakers also got a morale booster when Bob McAdoo was able to play 22 minutes.

It was the first appearance for the reserve forward-center since he dislocated a toe on his right foot in practice Feb. 16. The Lakers had been thin in the frontcourt since McAdoo was hurt and rookie forward James Worthy went out with a broken leg.

McAdoo was a key player in the Lakers' drive to the NBA title last year — including a 4-0 playoff sweep of San Antonio. In his return to action Sunday, he scored four points and had six rebounds.

"Bob was rusty, but he did some big things on defense and the boards," said Laker Coach Pat Riley. "He's going to get better as the series goes on. Just having him on the bench was an inspiration."

ACC Is Celebrating Its 30th Anniversary

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — Thirty years ago this week, representatives of seven colleges met at a Greensboro country club to form an informal coalition and withdraw from the Southern Conference.

From that meeting May 8, 1953, at Sedgefield Country Club sprang the Atlantic Coast Conference.

Seven of the league's original eight members had gathered the night before to form the allegiance. The seven were Clemson, Duke, Maryland, North Carolina, North Carolina State, South Carolina and Wake Forest.

When Dr. James Penney of South Carolina told the other Southern Conference members those schools were withdrawing, it was something of a shock although the decision had been rumored for some time.

The secession came about mostly because of the Southern Conference's football policies. In 1951, Clemson was invited to meet Miami in the Gator Bowl while Maryland was chosen to face Tennessee in the Sugar Bowl. The college presidents of the Southern vetoed any bowl participation, but the schools defied the ban.

Clemson lost to Miami 14-0, while the Terrapins downed Tennessee 28-13. The schools were then barred from conference games during the 1952 season, except for meeting each other. Clemson was permitted to play South Carolina because of the intense nature of the rivalry.

"We wanted to pull out and form a new conference," Clemson's Frank Howard said. "We thought we had more in common with each other with good programs in all sports. There were so many schools in the Southern Conference (17) that we could never decide who was the champion."

The first official meeting of the new conference was in Raleigh on June 14, 1953, when the name was adopted. Six months later, Virginia was accepted as the eighth member.

Jim Weaver, athletic director at Wake Forest, was named commissioner on May 7, 1954, and was given a five-year contract estimated between $12,000 and $15,000. Nancy Thompson, who joined the ACC staff in 1954 and who is still there today, calls Weaver "one of a kind."

"No matter how bad things got, he could always find some humor in it," Mrs. Thompson said. "He could always see the light side."

"Being commissioner is like a mouse getting his tail caught in a trap," Weaver said once. "I'm no longer interested in the cheese. I just want to get my tail out of the trap."

The first ACC basketball tournament was held in 1954. Frank Weedon, associate athletic director at N.C. State, handled the radio broadcasts back to Maryland as a student at College Park. Raleigh's Ray Reeve started broadcasting over a radio network and in 1958, the conference pursued television.

"I went with them to talk to Pilot Life about sponsoring the telecasts," said former Greensboro Daily News sports editor Smith Barrier. "We had a tough time getting 12 stations."

Basketball has grown into the stellar attraction in the conference, boasting four national champions in its short history. Football has claimed its share of the spotlight with Clemson taking a national championship in 1981. But it was basketball that may have provided the ACC with the impetus.

"We knew basketball would be good in the ACC," said Vic Bubas, former Duke coach and an assistant to the late Everett Case at N.C. State. "But I don't think we truly envisioned what it could become, so strong from top to bottom."

Rampants Win Big East Golf

ROCKY MOUNT — While all the attention was placed on the battle between Northern Nash and Hunt in the Big East Golf Championships yesterday at Rose High School's Rampants pushed through the pack and came away with the title.

Rose, which was dethroned by Hunt last year after winning the two previous seasons, returned to the top of the heap with a 320 team score, four stroke ahead of Northern Nash, which finished with 324. Hunt, the defending champion, and unbeaten until two weeks ago when the Bruins lost in succession to both Northern Nash and Rose, couldn't even finish third, as cross-country rival Beddingfield shot a 330 to take that spot, leaving fourth for Hunt, at 333.

Rocky Mount finished fifth with a 336 total, while Kingston and Fike tied for sixth at 350. Northeastern finished eighth at 357.

Brian Hill led Rose through the match with a 74 total, good enough to earn the individual championship. Craig Davies added a 78, while Chris Evans had an 83 and Tee Davies had an 85.

The top eight individual finishes each earned all-conference honors. They included: Hill, 74; Beddingfield's Joey Exum, 77; Davies, 78; Northern Nash's Tim Hoyle, 79; Rocky Mount's John Baker, Northeastern's Harry Umphlett and Northern Nash's David Brady, all in at 80, and Hunt's Craig Parrish, who finished with an 81.

Rose will return to action next Monday at Rock Creek Country Club in Jacksonville, in the eastern sectionals.

Jaguars Take ECC Golf Title

FARMVILLE — Senior Gary Hobgood fired a 72 to lead Farmville Central to a 309-332 victory over Ayden-Grifton in the regular season finale to give the Jaguars the Eastern Carolina 3-A Conference golf title.

Mel Williams shot a 78, Alan Wooten 79 and Sean Thompson 80 for Farmville Central.

Ayden-Grifton's Warren Agee fired an even-par 71 to earn medalist honors. Marc Davis stroked an 82, Brian Heath 87 and David Listen and Danny Biezeffer 92 for the Chargers.

Members of the all-conference team were announced following the match, with Hobgood and Agee heading the list. Hobgood shot a 75.0 average against conference opposition, while Agee was close behind with 75.67. Also in the elite group are Wooten with 78.0, Scott Lewis and Williams of Farmville with 80.0 and 80.67, respectively, and Andy Martin of Ayden-Grifton with 82.67.

Farmville Central ended the season with a 17-5 record, with 1272 strokes as a team — 63 ahead of second-place Ayden-Grifton with 1335. During the four years Hobgood and Wooten participated at Farmville Central, the Jaguars posted a mark of 90-18-2.

Both Farmville Central and Ayden-Grifton will participate in the sectionals Monday at the Rock Creek Country Club in Jacksonville.

On The Slow Lane

Norwood's Field Goals Lead Stallions To Win

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) — Birmingham's Scott Norwood refused to hog the limelight.

His record five field goals propelled the Stallions to a 22-9 United States Football League victory over the New Jersey Generals and showed up rushing leader Herschel Walker, who was held to a career-low 28 yards on 11 carries.

"The defense did a super job. They were the ones who shined," said Norwood, who booted field goals of 39, 28, 31, 37 and 25, to erase the league record of four. He missed a 41-yarder in the fourth quarter before a crowd of 38,734.

The Stallions' offense also shined, holding the ball for 43:28 in the fourth quarter's possession time of 16:32.

Four Birmingham players outgained Walker — Ken Talton (20-64), Earl Gant (12-56), Billy White (15-53) and Cornelius Quarles (11-47) — as the Stallions outtrashed the Generals 242-38. White had a 1-yard touchdown run in the first quarter, accounting for the Stallions' only scoring other than Norwood.

Aside from Walker, quarterback Bobby Scott was the only New Jersey player with rushing yardage. Scott, whose 37-yard touchdown pass to Tom McConaughy early in the first quarter was the Generals' only score, had 10 yards on two carries.

"It's always good to have more than one running back. This way you can't key on anybody," Gant said. "We knew we had to run to control the ball and keep Herschel off the field."

"I never played against a team that controlled the ball the way they did," said Walker, whose previous low was 39 yards on 19 carries against Tampa Bay in the third game of the season. He had only 19 yards on five carries in the first half against Birmingham.

The Heisman Trophy winner failed to gain more than 100 yards for the first time in six games, but still leads the league with 1,051 yards on 232 carries.

"I reckon I should have brought my rabbit's foot or something. We didn't have any luck at all," Walker said. "Our offensive line dominated them on the line of scrimmage and wars are still won up front," said Birmingham Coach Rolie Dotsch after his team evened its record at 5-5.

"They totally outplayed us," said Generals Coach Chuck Fairbanks, whose team fell to 3-7. "Whenever we did have (the ball) we didn't do much with it."

Norwood, meanwhile, said his sterling performance was tarnished by his single miss, a kick that faded wide to the right.

"There's always room for improvement," said Norwood, who has made 13 field goals in 18 attempts.

Mays: Too Early For Judgement

By DAVE GOLDBERG
AP Sports Writer

The parallels are striking. Heralded minor leaguer joins struggling New York team, ballyhooed as superstar and is blown away by major league pitching.

Darryl Strawberry, meet Willie Mays.

"As soon as he gets out of New York and relaxes a bit, I think he'll do fine," Willie Mays said Monday of Darryl Strawberry, career major league average .125. "He's trying so hard to live up to what they're saying about him that he's putting pressure on himself."

Strawberry came to New York Friday night — Mays' 52nd birthday, by the way — wearing the mantle of savior for a team that started the season 6-15.

He promptly went 0-for-11 — striking out eight times — before driving in a run Sunday with an opposite field single in the Mets' 10-5 win over Cincinnati. Playing on the road for the first time, Strawberry went 1-4 against the Houston Astros Monday night, hitting a double, but also striking out two more times.

Let's go back 32 years, to May, 1951. Willie Mays, hitting .477 at Minneapolis, joins a New York Giant team that opened the season by losing 11 games in the first two weeks. He goes 0-for-12, hits a home run off Warren Spahn, then goes 0-for-14 and tells Manager Leo Durocher that he can't hack it, to send him back down.

"Leo just told me, 'you're my centerfielder,'" says Mays. "You'll be out there every day. Just relax and have fun."

Mays went on to finish the season hitting .274 with 20 home runs, and was named the National League's Rookie of the Year. He was in the on-deck circle when Bobby Thomson hit his famous playoff home run to win the pennant.

Nobody is expecting a pennant for Darryl Strawberry this year. It's enough that his presence seemed to wake up the Mets, who took two of three from the Reds. But the pressure of succeeding in New York remains. The 11 o'clock news last weekend was a montage of videotape replays of Strawberry strikeouts, mixed in with one loud foul ball.

"This kid, he comes up from ... Tidewater, I guess it was ... he never saw so much press in his life," Mays said. "He's answering all these questions, trying not to say the wrong thing or be a wise guy. It's hard to concentrate on the game."

In fact, there's been pressure on Strawberry from the start. Even before the Mets made him the first pick in the 1980 draft, he was featured in a national magazine as the best prospect in decades. Since that draft, the New York press has religiously followed his minor league progress.

Last season, playing at Jackson, Strawberry was the Most Valuable Player in the AA Texas League, hitting .283 with 34 homers, 97 RBIs and 45 stolen bases. Last week, after 57 at-bats and a .333 average in AAA, the struggling Mets decided it was time.

Manager George Bamberger, who played with Mays in the early '50s, drew the inevitable comparisons to Willie.

But Mays says: "Let him compare himself to himself. I did it for 22 years, he's played three years in the minor leagues. Just let him go out and play and have some fun. It will all come if he does that."

Ironically, another rookie toiled at Shea Stadium last weekend.

Gary Redus of the Reds went 5 for 13 with a homer (off Tom Seaver), a triple and two stolen bases. He's hitting .320 with five home runs in only 50 at-bats.

But he's a 15th-round draft choice and he plays in Cincinnati, not New York. Which makes him quite happy, thank you.

"I think he's a good player," Redus said of Strawberry. "But it's unfortunate that he has to come up in that town. I think it helps playing in Cincinnati."

"I'm not really under a microscope."

Rogers Has Luck Anywhere But Atlanta

By The Associated Press
Steve Rogers has won 138 games in 9½ major league seasons and 137 of them came somewhere other than Atlanta.

The sunny South isn't Rogers' favorite place despite Monday night's six-hitter as the Montreal Expos defeated the Atlanta Braves 5-3. It was his 10th victory in his last 11 decisions against the Braves, but his first triumph ever at Atlanta, where he had been 0-6.

"Steve's not a hot-weather pitcher," said catcher Gary

Carter, who homered in support of his batterymate. "It was warm (upper 60s), but not like it usually is here. It didn't drain him."

In other National League games, Los Angeles and San Francisco stretched their winning streaks to six games with ninth-inning heroics, the Dodgers nipping the Chicago Cubs 4-3 and the Giants downing the St. Louis Cardinals 5-4. Elsewhere, the Pittsburgh Pirates outlasted the San Diego Padres 5-3 in 13 innings and the Houston Astros defeated the New York Mets 6-4. Cincinnati and Philadelphia were not scheduled.

Rogers not only pitched a complete-game victory to snap his Atlanta jinx — "I would have hated to retire without one," he quipped — but also delivered a run-scoring single to cap a two-run second inning against loser Rick Camp.

Carter belted his fifth home run in the eighth. The Expos scored in the fifth when Tim Raines walked, stole second and came home on the third of Warren Cromartie's five hits. Carter homered in the eighth and singles by Raines and Cromartie plus an error gave the Expos a run in the ninth.

"We usually beat him (Rogers) at home," said Atlanta's Chris Chambliss, who homered and tripled. "He's really good. You don't want to get behind him. He doesn't give you much to hit. He's really good."

"I was aware of it," Rogers said of his failure to win in Atlanta. "It's a fact. But that gave me no extra drive to win tonight. Early in my career it was a worry. I was 0-4, but I really haven't pitched here very often."

Cromartie, who had hits in his last two at-bats in his previous game, tied club records with five hits in a game

— a double and four singles — and seven consecutive hits.

"I don't want to brag, but I did that three years ago in Chicago," Cromartie said of his five hits. "But this is by far the best game I've had in two years."

Dodgers 4, Cubs 3

Bill Russell scored from third base as Ken Landreaux beat out an infield hit with two out in the ninth inning as the Dodgers won for the 19th time in the last 24 games. Earlier, Landreaux cracked his fifth home run of the season and rookie Greg Brock hit his sixth, a two-run shot. Dave Stewart, 3-0, the third Los Angeles pitcher, earned the victory by working two scoreless innings.

Giants 5, Cardinals 4
Darrell Evans tied the game with a run-scoring double in the bottom of the ninth and pinch hitter Dave Bergman won it with a bases-loaded single as the Giants defeated St. Louis relief ace Bruce Sutter. The Cardinals, who have lost four in a row, scored three runs in the top of the ninth on an RBI double by Darrell Porter and a two-run single by Rafael Santana to take a 4-3 lead.

But Sutter walked pinch hitter Milt May and, when Johnnie LeMaster bunted, pinch runner Max Venable beat Sutter's throw to second. Evans then hit a ground-rule double that bounced over the fence in left-center to tie the score. Chili Davis, who drove in two earlier runs, with a single and triple, was walked intentionally and Jack Clark struck out before Bergman delivered his game-winning single.

Pirates 5, Padres 3
Jason Thompson cracked a tie-breaking two-run double with two out in the 14th inning to cap the first five-hit performance of his career as the Pirates ended a five-game losing streak. With two out in the 14th, Johnny Ray doubled off loser Mike Couchee for his fourth hit. After Richie Hebner was intentionally walked, Gary Lucas, the fifth San Diego pitcher, came on and was greeted by Thompson's tie-breaking double.

The Pirates took a 3-2 lead in the seventh when Lee Mazzilli belted his third home run of the season but San Diego's Steve Garvey tied it in the eighth with a shot over the center field fence, his sixth.

Astros 6, Mets 4
Alan Ashby triggered Houston's five-run fifth-inning rally from a 4-0 deficit with his third home run of the season and Frank LaCorte pitched four innings of one-hit relief. Ashby's home run accounted for the first run off loser Rick Ownbey and Phil Garner, whose two-run double tied the score, scored the go-ahead run from second base when Mets first baseman Danny Heep forgot about him and argued a call with umpire Terry Tata on Jose Cruz's two-out infield hit.

Omar Moreno singled home the Astros' second run of the inning and drove in an insurance run in the sixth with a single.

Technology Allows Indy Speeds To Remain High

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Impressive practice speeds at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway this month, accomplished even with new engine and aerodynamic restrictions, prove that progress can be slowed but not stopped, says track record-holder Rick Mears.

"As long as there's technology around, things will always continue to gain. They've made changes (in rules), and in a sense it's worked. It's kept us at least, so far, where we were," said the 1979 Indy winner, who again led all drivers in practice with a lap at 203.850 mph on Monday.

Four other drivers, Bobby Rahal, Kevin Cogan, Mike Mosley and Howdy Holmes, also topped 200 mph for the first time on Monday, while Al Unser Jr. and Pete Halsmer raised their top practice speeds to more than 199.

Mears won the pole position last year with a record four-lap run at 207.004 mph. In the race, he was runnerup to Gordon Johncock by .16 second, the closest margin between first and second place in Indy history.

Prompted, in part, by the high speeds and by the fatal crash by driver Gordon Smiley during qualifications, the U.S. Auto Club and Championship Auto Racing Teams modified their technical specifications this year, lowering the engine boost and eliminating the use of aerodynamic "skirts" beneath the bottom of the chassis.

Speeds are again climbing, however, "because of technology," says Mears. "In other words, we'd have gained another 5-10 mph. If we could go back right now to our rules last year with skirts and everything, with what we've learned with aerodynamics, we could definitely run a lot quicker," the former Indy winner said.

"So in a sense, by changing the rules the way they have, they've done their job. They've kept us at least close to where we're at. And I don't know, it may slow us down some. I'm not so sure we'll be able to get where we were at here last year. I won't know until later on this week."

pends on if I know I have a shot at it or not. If I know I'm in the ball park, I definitely will try for it. I won't know until I find out if I'm in the ball park."

Mears' top speed on Sunday was 202.565 mph.

The second driver to top 200 mph in practice this week was Rahal, who piloted his new Cosworth-powered March race car to a lap at 201.207. That's nearly 7 mph faster than his qualification speed as a rookie last year.

Rahal, 30, finished 11th a year ago. He competed in 10 other champ-car races last year, including victories at Cleveland and Michigan, and he finished among the top five in five other races, good enough for second place — behind Mears — in the CART season point standings.

Cogan later came in at 201.929. Mosley was clocked at 201.838, and Holmes had a lap at 200.088.

Mears said his new Penske-Cosworth PC-11 "seems to be working pretty well. It took us a while in the middle of the off-season to get it sorted, get the car where it seemed we found what it liked."

"And then here (Saturday), the first day on the track with it. This is a brand new car. This is the first time this car has ever turned a wheel. It's never been in a test, and within five or six laps it's running 197 with a pretty strong wind blowing. So I feel this is a very good car and we ought to have as good a chance as anybody."

"How quick we'll be as yet I have no idea, and I never know until I qualify," said Mears.

Coastal Netters Down PCC, 5-4

JACKSONVILLE — Mark Etheridge took a 6-2, 6-4 victory over Will Jones in singles and later teamed with Steve Thompson for a 6-4, 1-6, 6-3 win over Jones and Brian Williams to lead Coastal Carolina Community College to a 5-4 win against Pitt Community College.

Coastal clinched the Eastern Carolina Community College Athletic Conference title with a 7-1 record, while Pitt finished second at 6-2 on the season.

Kent Perry and Arvin Williams won in the number five and six singles, then teamed for a 6-1, 6-1 victory in the third doubles to keep Pitt in the match. Coastal needed three sets win the first and second flight doubles to insure victory.

The ECCAC Tournament will be held Friday at Coastal Carolina Community College.

True Value 0

Julius Smith fired a no-hit shutout at True Value Hardware yesterday in the Tar Heel Little League as Carroll & Associates won its first game of the year in the league, 11-0.

In gaining the gem, Smith just missed a perfect game, as a second inning walk to Eric Daniels represented the only True Value player to reach base. Smith struck out 15 of the 18 batters retired in the contest.

Carroll & Associates got all it needed in the first inning, scoring once. With two away, Toure Claibourne walked and moved up on a passed ball. A wild pitch allowed him to take third, and he scored on an error on the attempt to get him at third.

C&A then added three more in the second, two in the fourth, and five in the sixth.

Joel Daughtry and Smith each had two hits to pace C&A.

Sportsworld 22

Coca-Cola 10

Sportsworld remained unbeaten yesterday in the North State Little League while handing Coca-Cola its first defeat of the year, 22-10.

Sportsworld took the lead in the slugfest with two runs in the first inning, but Coke came back with three in the bottom of the second to take the lead, 3-2. Sportsworld then went back up with five in the third, two on a homer by Tim Moore.

Then, in the fourth, Sportsworld pushed over ten runs in the fourth to put the game on ice with a 17-3 lead. With one out, Moore was hit by a pitch and Jamie Brewington reached on a fielder's choice. Kelvin Yarell doubled in Moore, and Dee Williams singled to score both Brewington and Yarell, moving to second on the throw. Galen Brinn then doubled in Williams, scoring himself when Tye Fickling homered. Jeremy McAllister kept it going with a single and Jason Wing walked. Ledowick Johnson walked, loading the bases. Brewington then singled with two away, scoring McAllister and Wing. Yarell reached on an error, allowing both Johnson and Brewington to score with the final runs of the inning.

Sportsworld added five more in the fifth for its 22-run total. Coke came back with six in the bottom of the fourth and got one more in the fifth.

The game was called in the bottom of the sixth due to darkness.

Moore led the Sportsworld hitting with three, while Brewington, Williams and McAllister each had two. No one had more than one for Coke.

Extra Rest Lifts Stanley

By The Associated Press
A week's rest didn't hurt Bob Stanley...nor did it help the California Angels.

"I felt pretty strong," said Stanley, who pitched for the first time in six days to lead the Boston Red Sox to an 8-2 victory Monday night over the Angels. "I've learned a little about when you feel too strong. You throw nice and smooth...don't try to throw too hard."

Boston's relief ace entered the game in the third inning with a 4-2 lead, the bases loaded and one out and completely shut down the Angels, allowing only two hits the rest of the way.

The performance lowered Stanley's earned run average to 1.11. In his last 212-3 innings, covering nine games, Stanley has allowed just one unearned run and 14 hits.

"I'm eating it up," Stanley said of his outstanding start, "particularly when you have a six-run lead and mostly righthanders up there. I had a good sinker. I threw just a couple of sliders."

The victory was the sixth in seven games for Boston, the American League East leader.

"Stanley came in and just shut the door on us," said Manager John McNamara of California, the AL West leader which had won three of its previous four games. "I'm not surprised to see where the Red Sox are in the standings. They look like a very good ballclub."

Mariners 6, Orioles 4
Jamie Allen drove in three runs and Al Cowens scored twice and stole three bases as Seattle defeated Baltimore. Allen hit a solo homer in the first inning and rapped a two-run single in the second following a walk to Jim Maler and a double by Julio Cruz.

"I don't consider myself a home run hitter," said Allen, who also homered in his final time at bat in Boston Sunday. "At first I thought to myself, three homers in a row would be great. But I told myself that I'm a line drive hitter, and it worked out pretty well the second time up."

Blue Jays 6, White Sox 1
Cliff Johnson snapped an 0-for-18 slump with a home run which triggered a six-run sixth inning, leading Toronto and Luis Leal over Chicago. Leal, 2-3, checked the White Sox on three hits, struck out six and walked two.

Five of the runs in the sixth inning were unearned as a result of two errors by shortstop Jerry Dybzinski, spoiling left-hander Britt Burns' season debut after coming off the disabled list because of a shoulder injury.

Gretzky, Bossy Getting Set For NHL's Big Showdown

EDMONTON, Alberta (AP) — Like two gunfighters in the old West, Wayne Gretzky and Mike Bossy are loading up for the big showdown.

It won't be a classic hand-to-hand kind of combat because Gretzky is a center and Bossy a right wing. But when the Stanley Cup finals begin here tonight, it wouldn't be surprising to see sparks flying off the sticks of these two super scorers.

Gretzky has led the Edmonton Oilers into their first National Hockey League playoff final. The record-shattering 22-year-old star leads all this post-season's scorers with 34 points, one shy of Bossy's record. He is just off a 71-goal, 125-assist campaign, the second best scoring season in NHL history — behind Gretzky's own 92-goal, 120-assist-season the year before.

Bossy is the consummate playoff performer, the most valuable player of the 1982 Stanley Cup tournament as the New York Islanders won their third straight championship. He boosted the Islanders into these finals by scoring the game-winning goals in all four victories over the Boston Bruins in the Wales Conference championship series, tying an NHL record with nine goals in that series, including a three-goal and a four-goal night. Bossy, 26, has never scored fewer than 50 goals in any of his six NHL seasons and has scored at least 60 in each of the last three campaigns.

Neither Bossy nor Gretzky are looking at this series as a two-man confrontation, however, even though they are the centerpieces. It is likely one of them will provide the decisive edge for his team.

"I don't have anything to settle with Wayne," said Bossy. "He does his thing and I do mine. What concerns me is winning the Cup. That, to me, is the most important thing."

"I don't look at us playing Edmonton as a matchup of me against Gretzky. We don't even play the same position. I don't think he will beat us singlehanded and I don't think I can beat them singlehanded."

Gretzky felt basically the same.

"Mike is a great player but my job is not to match him. It's to help us win the Stanley Cup," he said. "We play this game and it's a team sport and we're all here for one reason to win the Cup."

"We grew up as kids in Canada thinking that maybe one day we'd be able to have our name on that trophy. We've watched Stanley Cup finals as we're growing up."

"It would be one of the biggest things that's ever happened to me if I have my chance to put my name on it."

Islanders center Butch Goring, who joined the team just prior to its first Cup triumph in 1980, marvels at both Gretzky and Bossy.

"Gretzky makes you wonder how he does the things he does," said Goring. "Mike's the same way. They're the two best scorers in the game and are at their best when their teams need it the most."

Gant Keeps Slim Lead

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Harry Gant has maintained a slim lead in NASCAR Winston Cup Grand National point standings after finishing third Saturday at the Marty Robbins Memorial 420 in Nashville, Tenn.

Gant, of Taylorsville, N.C. is six points ahead of Bobby Allison, 1,352 to 1,346, after the ninth event in the 30-race season. Allison finished second in Saturday night's race.

Joe Ruttman of Upland, Calif., is third in point standings with 1,262 points, while Neil Bonnett is fourth at 1,257 and Bill Elliott is fifth at 1,248.

Rounding out the top 10 are Richard Petty, 1,210; Dick Brooks, 1,146; Darrell Waltrip, 1,138; Ricky Rudd, 1,134; and Terry Labonte, 1,127.

Waltrip moves into the earnings lead with $179,835, while Cale Yarborough is second at $171,170. Allison is third at $146,420, followed by Gant, $144,965; Petty, $140,120; Elliott, $123,610; Ruttman, $114,550; Bonnett, $113,320; Dale Earnhardt, $107,726 and Dave Marcis, $84,645.

Sterling Marlin of Columbia, Tenn., leads in Champion Spark Plug Rookie of the Year standings with 90 points while Ronnie Hopkins of Greenville, S.C., is second at 66.

Drivers on the circuit now head for Dover Downs International Speedway in Delaware for Sunday's Mason-Dixon 500.

Gemborys Tops GTCS Singles

The GTCS Tennis Tournament, co-sponsored by the Greenville Tennis Club and the Greenville Recreation and Parks Department has completed play.

The men's singles championship went to Paul Gemborys, who defeated Ted Lepper in the finals, 6-1, 6-1.

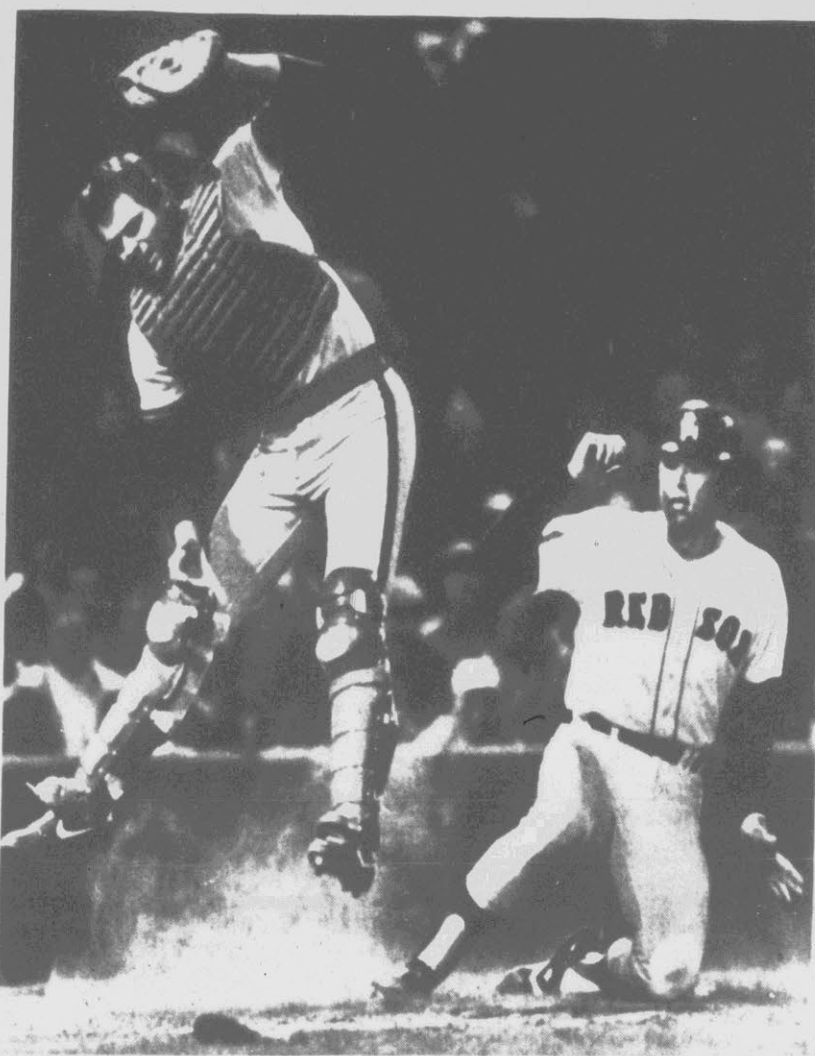

Randy Bailey and Dee Blankenhorn combined to down Don Rutledge and Mark Gray in the men's doubles, 6-4, 6-4.

In the men's 35 singles, Hight Redmond defeated Jim Shackleford, 7-5, 6-2. In the women's 35 singles, Juanita Sims beat Janice Rich, 6-4, 6-4. In women's 35 doubles, Kay Shelburne and Carolyn Gross defeated Rich and Jean Coleman, 6-1, 6-4.

In the men's 45 singles, Frank Sabiston downed Walt Conner, 6-4, 6-2. In doubles, Connor and Jack Mitchell beat Tom Sayetta and Al King, 7-6, 6-3.

Tony Giacomini downed Len Hingite, 6-2, 6-1, in the men's senior singles, while in the doubles, Tom Norfleet and Kelly Abeyounis beat Dennis Warren and Jim Wells, 6-2, 6-4.

In the mixed 35 doubles, Gordon White and Pat Sherman beat John Hobgood and Teri Elramey, 4-6, 6-2, 6-4.

Two Awards Each For Willie, Alabama

WINNING ON WILLIE'S MIND — day. Nelson won the "Album of the Year" and "Single Record of the Year" awards. (AP Laserphoto)

By YARDENA ARAR
Associated Press Writer
BUENA PARK, Calif. (AP) — Mellow Willie Nelson and upbeat Alabama — fresh from Grammy triumphs — continued to dominate the country music scene by winning two awards each at the 18th annual Academy of Country Music Awards.

Also honored at the Knott's Berry Farm awards ceremony Monday night were Sylvia, Ronnie Milsap, David Frizzell and Shelly West, Merle Haggard, Karen Brooks, and Michael Murphey.

Nelson's "Always on My Mind," a gentle ballad dating back to the early 1970s, was named single of the year, and the album of the same name won top LP honors.

"Always on My Mind" had earned two songwriting awards and a country male performing award for Nelson at the Grammy awards in February.

Nelson, who rarely appears in person at awards shows, not only accepted his cowboy hat-shaped trophies but took the stage to perform "Why Should I Have to Choose," a tune from his new album of duets with Waylon Jennings.

The ever-casual entertainer, unshaven and clad in denim, gave quiet thanks on camera to "all the people who met me on the highway playing music."

Randy Owen of Alabama, which won entertainer of the year and best vocal group awards, credited the group's fans for its success.

"They're the ones that determine how people (in the Academy) vote," Owen said. "Alabama is a full-time job."

Milsap, something of a dark-horse winner in the best male vocalist category, was not on hand to pick up his first award from the academy, a Los Angeles-based group with 2,400 voting members.

Also absent was Haggard, whose "Are the Good Times Really Over" was named song of the year — his 15th award from the country music academy.

Sylvia, who had a big hit this year with a song called "Nobody," bubbled enthusiastically over her first Academy of Country Music Award in four tries.

"I'm shaking like a leaf," said Kokomo, Ind., performer.

Murphey was named best new male vocalist, an ironic award for a singer well-known to many for his 1975 hit "Wildfire."

Murphey made waves in country circles during the past year with an album called "Michael Martin Murphey."

"Just think how long it takes to get old if it took this long to get new," he quipped.

The best new female vocalist award went to Miss Brooks, from Dallas. She credited her win to "Faking Love," a duet with T.G. Sheppard that went to the top of the country charts.

Frizzell and Miss West won as best vocal duo for the second straight year.

The motion picture of the year award went to "The Best Little Whorehouse in Texas."

The Academy saluted several veterans. Guitarist Chet Atkins was given the Pioneer Award for his lifelong contributions to country music.

Shooting Movie In Henderson Co.

HENDERSONVILLE, N.C. (AP) — The Henderson County Courthouse, usually the scene of real-life drama, Monday became the backdrop for the movie "A Breed Apart," filmed by a California company.

The all-day filming took place outdoors, but today the movie-making will move into the main courtroom.

The $6 million motion picture is being shot in Lake Lure, Chimney Rock and Shelby as well as Hendersonville during the nine weeks of filming which began April 25.

The movie is about members of a rare subspecies of the American bald eagle, the efforts of an island recluse (Rutger Hauer) to save them and the attempts of a would-be egg poacher (Powers Boothe) to steal them.

Kathleen Turner plays the single parent of a 10-year-old (Andrew Fenwick) and operates a boat landing on the lake near the eagles' nest.

Water scenes are filmed at Lake Lure; egg-stealing efforts are filmed at Chimney Rock.

During an attempt to drive off the poachers, a fight occurs at the boat landing, where the poacher's partner (Brian James) is killed. The resulting coroner's inquest is the scene filmed at the courthouse.

The Cleveland and Polk county courthouses were considered for shooting sites, but Henderson County Courthouse was chosen because it was near the filming at Lake Lure, said Joe Santley, in charge of public relations.

Han Solo To Thaw, Luke Will Meet Daddy Darth

By DOLORES BARCLAY
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — "Star Wars" fans can breathe easy. The irascible Han Solo thawed out.

And pure-of-heart Luke Skywalker finally confronts Darth Vader, who turns out to be... gasp... his father.

The plot line of "Return of the Jedi," latest in George Lucas' nine-part adventure-fantasy epic, has been a more closely guarded secret than the CIA's personnel files.

Even the line of toys that accompanies the latest "Star Wars" movie was held back from toy fairs and catalogs until the film's release May 25. Executive producer George Lucas, the head of Lucasfilm Ltd., wouldn't discuss the film with the press and discouraged visits to his Marin County, Calif., headquarters.

But a screening Monday night has let the Ewoks — little fuzzy creatures who help the good guys — out of the bag.

Episode VI — though only the third to be completed — opens with Luke's return to his home planet, Tatooine. Luke plans to rescue the carbon-frozen Han from the obese, reptilian Jabba the Hutt — the gangster who snatched him at the end of "The Empire Strikes Back" because Han had reneged on a deal.

Meanwhile, the evil Galactic Empire has begun construction on a spanking new Death Star. And the Emperor himself plans to oversee the plans with Darth Vader, whose labored breathing is still labored. The Emperor also hopes to entice Darth's son to the dark side of the Force.

C3PO and R2-D2 arrive at Jabba's with a message from Luke: He offers the two as a gift, in exchange for...

...dice, belches Jabba, a lump of folded protoplasm.

Courage. Heroes abound in this terrible place — Lando Calrissian is disguised as one of Jabba's guards and Chewbacca comes in with a rather short and feminine masked bounty hunter. Guess who?

Anyway, Princess Leia unfreezes Han. But Jabba recaptures everyone, including Luke, who arrives very much the Jedi warrior.

Lando hangs by a thread. Han hangs by his heels and

The Rebel commanders gather to make their move against the Empire. Lando leads the fleet. Luke tackles some rather embarrassing news from Yoda regarding his parentage and learns that Leia is really his sister.

Han, Chewbacca, Luke, Leia and the droids head for the moon the Death Star is orbiting so they can destroy the force field surrounding it and allow the Rebel commanders to enter. It's a trap, folks.

Lando dodges lasers in space. Luke dodges his feelings on the Death Star. Han dodges just about everything on the moon.

And how does it all end? That would be telling.

LCKNEJO PNEJXWL'H HVCKWXCH ANTO: "VOKTNAOAP VKOHH."

Yesterday's Cryptoquip — PLENTY OF PIZZA PARLOR PATRONS PREFER NOT TO PAY FOR PIES.

Today's Cryptoquip clue: N equals A.

The Cryptoquip is a simple substitution cipher in which each letter used stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words, and words using an apostrophe can give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is accomplished by trial and error.

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, MAY 11, 1983

YOUR DAILY Horoscope

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Delays and obstacles disappear later in the day and financial matters clear up. Use an opportunity presented to improve the appearance of your environment.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Exercise punctuality for appointments and good results follow. Use wisdom in family decisions. Take health treatments.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Don't let your past hold you back from attaining cherished wishes now. Socialize tonight to lift your spirits.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Shake off negative feelings in order to attend to practical affairs. Improve relations with your partner.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Take time to assist a good friend. Socializing tonight creates interesting results later.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Get busy early at career work and do an admirable job. Consult with an adviser on a mutual project which proves lucrative.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Ease up on your social life to build up your strength. Concentrate on wholesome fun instead. Look for added income.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Get those work problems solved that have been awaiting your attention for some time. Romance is ahead.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Work out new arrangements with a partner before discussing further desires. Use diplomacy.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Conserve your energy so that health is maintained. Solve problems at work. Show that you have wisdom.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Don't lose your temper with your spouse. Situations await your careful decision. Strive for increased happiness.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Make sure you do what family expects of you. Be tactful and considerate during the day. Plan for the future.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Listen to complaints of associates. Be conciliatory. Spend some time with friends and relatives. Be more active.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will be able to solve problems others have never been able to solve. Your progeny can be very successful in business, banking or government work and will be steadfast. Emphasize religion and sports.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

Ordered To Pay $21,000

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — Anne B. Sorrell said she paid over $33,000 in 1980 for dancing lessons, some of which she never received. Monday, a judge ordered the dance studio's owner to repay her for those lessons.

Durham County Superior

Court Judge Thomas H. Lee ordered Jerry M. Fouts of Greensboro to sign a $21,000 promissory note, which was secured by the deed of trust on Fouts' house.

In addition, Fouts agreed to pay Ms. Sorrell another $5,000 in installments.

Brooklyn Bridge Celebration May 24

By JERRY SCHWARTZ
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — On May 24, 1883, when the Brooklyn Bridge first linked Brooklyn and Manhattan, the president came to New York, magnificent watercraft paraded around the harbor and spectacular fireworks lit the sky.

This May 24, if all goes according to plan, it will all happen again.

Of course, this time the president will be Ronald Reagan, not Chester A. Arthur. The watercraft will use electric navigational aids 19th-century sailors never imagined. And the fireworks will be reflected by windows a thousand feet off the ground.

"We pretty much attempted to replicate what happened 100 years ago," said Richard Perry, a vice president of Citibank and chairman of the Brooklyn Bridge Centennial Commission Inc., organizer of the celebration.

But after two years of work, the commission — 38 politicians and leaders of business and culture — has come up with much more: a five-month celebration, plus a new museum that is expected to draw tourists for years.

"The Brooklyn Bridge is a symbol — not only a symbol of New York, it's a symbol of the nation," Perry said. It is "something that has been part of New York City for 100 years, and it has never been shown off."

On May 24 — "Rededication Day" — the bridge will be closed to traffic.

The festivities will kick off with a parade of dignitaries, antique vehicles and marching bands, starting at Brooklyn Borough Hall, crossing the bridge and winding down Broadway to Battery Park.

The U.S. Postal Service will release its new Brooklyn Bridge stamp with first day of issue ceremonies at Borough Hall. "We would like to sell you the Brooklyn Bridge STAMP," says one Postal Service handbill.

A permanent museum will open in the anchorage of the bridge's Brooklyn side, including an exhibit in which artists depict the cathedral-like spaces of the anchorage, which has never been open to the public.

"If you think the bridge is beautiful standing there, you ought to see what's under it,"

Perry said.

The evening will start with a waterborne tribute — a flotilla of military vessels, fishing boats, fireboats, tugs, freighters and private craft that will gather at Liberty Island, round the southern end of Governor's Island and sail through Buttermilk Channel and under the Brooklyn Bridge.

Reagan is expected to attend formal re-dedication ceremonies at 8 p.m., which will feature the premiere of "Keys to the City," a work for piano and symphony dedicated to the bridge's anniversary by Tobias Picker. The composer will perform the piece with the Brooklyn Philharmonic.

Picker said he was inspired by "the bridge itself, the undeniable elegance and importance of the bridge. I spent quite a bit of time looking at the bridge and walking across it, and it is magnificent."

A sound-and-light show, "The Eighth Wonder," will follow. Audiences on both river banks will watch as lights play on the span and taped voices re-enact the story of how the Roebling family built the bridge.

Perry said 225 members of that family would be in New York for a reunion. One of them — Paul Roebling — co-stars with Glenda Jackson and Farley Granger in the audio drama, which will be shown twice each night through the summer.

Weather permitting, the sound-and-light show will end with an extraordinary bang — a 20-minute, 6,150-shell fireworks exhibition choreographed to popular music of the 1880s.

The fireworks will come from the bridge itself and from two barges to the south of the bridge and another to the north. A state law bans fireworks within 200 feet of a highway, and the state Legislature had to approve a special exemption for this spectacle.

Bonnie Brook, a spokeswoman for the Grucci fireworks family, said the show would start with a blue aerial starburst, the same way the show began in 1883. But it will end with a 3,600-shell finale, in which a cascade of white fireworks will pour from the bridge to the water, from tower to tower.

The bridge's anniversary has spawned plenty of souvenirs, including an Andy Warhol commemorative poster as well as the more conventional tote bags, caps, pins, shirts, plaques, coasters, beach towels, cups, spoons and key chains.

Two of the keepsakes give the public an opportunity to buy the Brooklyn Bridge, or at least part of it. A paperweight is made of wood from the bridge's pedestrian walkway, coupled with a commemorative medallion.

And the Green Duck Corp. of Hernando, Miss., has minted medals in bronze, silver and gold at prices ranging from $5 to $600. For $10, bridge enthusiasts can buy a medal in which a sliver of Brooklyn Bridge cable has been inserted.

The medal was the idea of Martin Stewart, vice president of the mint, but he admits it wasn't easy. He bought 30 feet of bridge cable that had snapped then found the cable was harder than the mint's dies.

So the cable was rolled flat and cut, inserted in an indentation in the face of the medal and sealed with clear epoxy. Stewart thinks he can sell 250,000, and he says he's loving every minute of it.

"I go up to people and I say, 'How would you like to buy the Brooklyn Bridge?'" he says. "There's always a grin on my face."

Refuses Resolve Custodial Issue

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — A federal judge Monday rejected a motion by a New Jersey man who alleges his two sons were abducted to North Carolina.

U.S. District Judge Frederick B. Lacey ruled he has no jurisdiction in a suit by Douglas DiRuggerio, 36, of Summit, to have his sons returned. DiRuggerio said he had been granted custody of the children by courts in New Jersey and North Carolina, but a North Carolina court later gave his ex-wife custody.

Lacey said previous rulings show the federal courts have no jurisdiction in divorce, alimony, child support or custody cases.

But Lacey ruled that DiRuggerio, an accountant, can sue his former wife and her North Carolina attorney for financial damages. DiRuggerio claims in his suit that the attorney advised his client to take her children to North Carolina, according to his attorney, James P. Yudes.

DiRuggerio claims in his suit that his former wife, Rebecca, and her new husband, Ted Rodgers, of Charlotte, kidnapped his son, Douglas Jr., 12, from Summit Junior High School on Nov. 1.

DiRuggerio also claims that his other son, Paul, 10, was kidnapped from a relative's home on Nov. 8, but did not say who was responsible.

DiRuggerio, who was divorced from his wife in North Carolina in 1980, said that he was granted custody of the two boys in 1979, when the couple separated.

He said New Jersey courts granted him custody of the boys after he moved with them to Summit in December 1981, and a North Carolina court said that New Jersey had jurisdiction in the matter.

But a three-judge North Carolina court ruled in October that Mrs. Rodgers had custody, Yudes said. A New Jersey court later ruled that DiRuggerio still had custody of the children.

Honor Kaye For Real-Life Role

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — Danny Kaye, well known for such film portrayals as Walter Mitty and the Inspector General, has been honored for a 30-year-run in his real-life role as the No. 1 goodwill ambassador of the U.N. Children's Fund.

The 70-year-old entertainer, recovering in Los Angeles from a quintuple-bypass heart operation, listened by telephone Monday as he was showered with honors at a meeting of UNICEF's executive board.

Kaye heard the board adopt a resolution making him an honorary delegate and listened to the public reading of a letter from U.N. Secretary-General Javier Perez de Cuellar praising his "extraordinary service" to UNICEF and his "dedication to the world's children."

He also was awarded an 18-inch brass statue, the work of the Brazilian sculptor Guerra, that portrays a mother and child and is inscribed, in Portuguese, "For your support to the cause of children."

Savalas Donates A Testimonial

DULUTH, Minn. (AP) — Telly Savalas, who starred as television's "Kojak," is back on the airwaves promoting this lakeside community as the city that "took my breath away."

In a 30-second commercial that he wrote and for which he donated his name and time, Savalas, 59, delivers a testimonial to the charms of the city of 100,000 overlooking Lake Superior.

The Duluth Convention and Visitors Bureau wants to attract a record $80 million in tourist spending this year, says the bureau's executive director Dan Russell, and is counting on the commercial, which started running Monday, to help.

Savalas been dating a Duluth woman, Julie Holland, for several years and has visited the city with her frequently.

In the auction, you are correct to devalue honors in the enemy suit. But don't overlook them in the play.

When this hand was dealt in a recent pair tournament, most pairs reached a four heart contract after an opposing opening bid. Unfortunately, most declarers failed to bring home ten tricks. We do not recommend West's featherweight raise to two diamonds, even though it is a fairly common practice at duplicate.

The declarers tried to bring home the contract via a crossruff, or by trying to ruff out the ace of clubs, or even by leading a spade to the king. All those lines were doomed to failure.

Declarer has six fast tricks. If he can score a second diamond trick and a club trick, he needs only two ruffs in dummy to bring his total to ten.

The winning line is to take the queen of diamonds with the ace and immediately return the jack, discarding a spade from dummy. East's best defense is to return a trump. Declarer wins, cashes the ten of diamonds for another spade sluff, then ruffs a diamond on the table and exits with the king of spades.

If West wins the ace of spades, East must have the ace of clubs for his opening bid and a ruffing finesse can be taken against that card. As the cards lie, East wins the ace of spades, and since he can't lead another trump, declarer is able to ruff two of his spade losers on the table. But even if East could return a trump, the contract is safe. Declarer wins in dummy and leads the king of clubs, discarding a spade. He will still be able to ruff a spade in dummy and discard one on the queen of clubs. Declarer will lose one trick in each side suit.

Winterville Bd. Advised Change Policy On Deposits

By TOMMY FORREST
Reflector Staff Writer
WINTERVILLE — In a response to a letter from the North Carolina Department of Natural Resources and Community Development, the town of Winterville was advised to change its policy regarding the acceptance of a $1,000 deposit on bids for work in Winterville's Community Development Block Grant program.

Dale Holland, of Talbert, Cox Associates, explained to the board the change was in response to a letter of complaint received by the town from Lyman L. Cox concerning contracting and bid procedures.

Holland said, "The $1,000 deposit does create some obstruction for the small businessman."

Holland continued, "After some consideration and talking with people in Raleigh, we have reached a possible solution. The $1,000 will be deducted from the first payment of the first contract executed."

Holland pointed out three items that the town was doing that was not required by law during the letting of the contracts: getting competitive bids, advertising work in the newspaper and not requiring a license by the contractor performing the general carpentry work. Holland said minorities make up more than half of the town's mailing list for those to be notified when bids are asked.

In summation, Holland said, "We have only a minor technicality here that the state wants corrected."

The board ordered that a letter be written to Cox explaining the change and also explaining in further detail the town's bid process.

Holland said during a bid opening May 2, seven of the nine projects were accepted and two were rejected for further study.

Lyman Cox was low bidder on two of the houses with bids of $11,999 and $9,990;

Alligood Roofing, three houses, $11,040, $10,190, and $11,000; and Joyner Construction, two houses, $11,350 and $12,960. Two bids submitted by Joyner Construction were questioned by Holland as being possibly too low. Holland said they would meet with Joyner and discuss the matter. Holland said that all the bids were within 15 percent of the estimates their office performed. The board approved the acceptance of the seven bids.

The board also asked that the mayor be given authority to sign a change order on the projects not exceeding 10 percent of the bid. The board approved the request.

A contract from Greenville Utilities was approved and signed for power being received.

Town Clerk Elwood Nobles reported there were certificates as to the sufficiency of footage and signatures for parts of Jones and Worthington streets for curb and guttering. Nobles said the next step in the process is to set up a public hearing on the matter. The board approved a public hearing for the regular scheduled board meeting.

A public hearing was held for the purpose of getting input from citizens for the use of the revenue sharing funds being received by the town. Nobles said the town would receive approximately $30,000. Representatives from the fire and rescue departments suggested that some of the funds be used for roof repairs, and others suggested the establishment of a public playground.

Clinton Person approached the board with a document from the State Court of Appeals regarding the Person Street court injunction. The town took no action on the document until it could be studied by the town attorney.

Nobles said the suggestions were noted and no action was immediately taken.

Approval was given to the Winterville Jaycees for a car wash to be held May 14. The car wash is to benefit the Pee Wee baseball team supported by the club.

In final business, budget meetings were announced. On May 17, requests from fire, rescue and police departments will be heard. On May 31, the tentative budget will be presented to the board. On June 17, a public hearing will be held on the budget, and on June 30 the budget will be adopted. All meetings will be held at 8 p.m. at the town building.

Retirement Impact Study Is Scheduled

A program to study changes which take place following retirement and how people go about handling these situations will begin in Pitt County May 19.

The group will be limited to 10 or 12 persons and, once formed, will meet from 11 a.m. to noon each Thursday for a period of six to eight weeks. Meetings will be held on consecutive Thursdays beginning on May 19.

The project is being coordinated by Dr. Marlene Rosenkoetter, an associate professor and chairman of the nursing department at UNC-Wilmington. She is also a graduate nursing student at East Carolina University.

Dr. Rosenkoetter said that persons wanting to take part in the program will be screened at the time of their telephone contact, and that the group must be limited to no more than 12 persons.

The study program will consider factors in six major areas that affect retired persons — changes in roles, changes in relationships, how retirees feel about themselves, how they are restructuring their lives, how they depend on support groups, and how they use their leisure time.

Persons who wish to be considered for the group study or those who want more information may call Jeffrey McAllister at the Council for the Aging, 752-1717, Kathryn Howard at 752-4137, or Dr. Rosenkoetter in Wilmington at 799-3559 after 5 p.m.

There is no fee involved for those who volunteer to become members of the proposed study group.

Hot Pursuit

HOOD RIVER, Ore. (AP) — When Oregon State Policeman Joe Bates chased a speeding motorcyclist, it turned into a real hot pursuit.

Bates tailed the rider for about 30 miles before pulling him off the road. Moments later, Bates' cruiser burst into flames, and the car was a smoldering hulk within minutes.

FERTILITY RITE
CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — Millions of Egyptians ate salted fish, onions and colored eggs on Monday, and city dwellers headed for country retreats in celebration of a spring fertility rite that dates from the time of the Pharaohs.

TOMORROW Wed. May 11 at Kroger Sav-On

Clip the Manufacturer's cents off Coupons from Your Mail, Newspapers and Magazines...
Then Bring Them to Kroger Sav-on

On Wednesday, May 11, we will redeem all national manufacturer's cents-off coupons up to 50¢ for double their value. Offer good on national manufacturer's cents-off coupons only. (Food retailer coupons not accepted.) Customer must purchase coupon product in specified size. Expired coupons will not be honored. Coupons for free merchandise excluded from this offer. Offer does not apply to Kroger or other store coupons whether manufacturer is mentioned or not. When the value of the coupon exceeds 50¢ this offer is limited to $1.00. If double the value of a coupon exceeds the retail of the item, this offer is limited to the retail price. Limit one cigarette and coffee coupon per customer. Limit one coupon for any particular item. If you, for example have two coupons for 15¢ off on Miracle Whip and intend to purchase two jars of Miracle Whip-only one of these coupons will be doubled. You may use the second coupon but it's value remains at face value.
