David Duffus, chairman of the Board of the Pitt-Greenville Chamber of Commerce; Bruce Beasley, chairman of the Pitt County Development Commission, and John Chaffee, executive director of the commission.

Russell Recommended For PCC Interim Post

Dr. Charles E. Russell has been recommended as acting president of Pitt Community College, according to an announcement made this morning by Clifton Everett Sr., chairman of the college trustee board which made the selection today.

Everett said all members of the board were present except Sen. Vernon White, who could not leave the General Assembly in Raleigh to attend the meeting. The board concurred with a report by a special committee made up of Everett, Kay V. Whichard, A.B. Whitley, Henry C. Oglesby and Ed Davenport. This committee had looked only at candidates from "within house." Everett said, and selected Russell from among several local candidates whom he declined to name.

Everett said the recommendation of Russell to act as president while President William Fulford takes a year's leave of absence which begins June 1 is being made to the State Board of Community Colleges which will meet June 9. He said he does not expect disapproval and that Russell will begin his duties June 1.

In the event that Fulford does not resume his duties after a year, Everett said, Russell — if approved by the community college board — will remain as acting president until a president is named.

Russell has been at Pitt Community College since 1971. From 1971 until 1975 he was director of adult basic education and public relations, and in 1975, he was named assistant to the president, a post he has held until the present. Prior to coming to PCC, he was an administrative assistant in the N.C. Farm Bureau Office in Raleigh for 10 years. A Jamesville native, he has a B.S. degree from N.C. State University, a master's degree from East Carolina University, and a doctor of education degree from N.C. State University.

He is a member of the N.C. Internship Council appointed by the Governor, the board of directors of the Pitt-Greenville Chamber of Commerce, a former member of the board of the Pitt County Boys Club, a past member of the Greenville Noon Rotary Club, and a former member of the board of the N.C. State University Alumni Association. A deacon and Sunday school teacher at Little Creek Free Will Baptist Church, Hookerton, he is a Mason and a Scottish Rite Shriner. His wife is the former Lorraine Vandford.

Chaffee Named Director

The Pitt County Development Commission announced today that John D. Chaffee of Henderson has accepted the position as the commission's new executive director.

Chaffee, now serving in a similar capacity with the Henderson-Vance County Planning Commission, will begin his duties here on July 1, according to Bruce Beasley, chairman of the Pitt board.

The new director succeeds Robert J. Dunn, who resigned as executive director March 31 after serving with the commission since June 1981.

Chaffee, who attended the "Industrial Appreciation Day" activities here Thursday, said he had the opportunity to see the community when he interviewed for the new post and was "very impressed with what I saw and heard." He added, "The people are very positive, energetic and eager to provide whatever is necessary to build upon the solid foundation they've created."

A Durham native, Chaffee has served in his present position since October 1980, managing the economic development program for the city-county area. During his tenure, he achieved success in the location of two companies to his area and the retention and subsequent expansion of three companies, resulting in $5 million in investments.

He was director of industrial development for the Sampson County Planning & Development Commission from March 1979 until he joined the Henderson-Vance

Reagan Expects Smooth Sessions At Trade Meet

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan, flying to a restored 18th century village for three days of meetings on today's global economic problems, says he expects no confrontations at the seven-nation economic summit conference.

But Reagan, who is chairman of the meetings for the first time, could face disputes over the high U.S. budget deficit, interest rates, and suggestions of protectionist trade practices.

Before leaving for Williamsburg, Va., this afternoon, the president was meeting with Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone of Japan.

Even before the summit began, a flap arose over an official U.S. news release that described Japanese trade limitations as being structured in such a way that "foreigners cannot easily pinpoint where and how the restrictions are being applied."

The Reagan administration agreed to remove the material, after receiving protests from Japanese Ambassador Yoshio Okawara, who was described as "pretty upset."

A State Department official, who spoke on condition that he not be identified by name, said the comments in the press kit were unbalanced, and were "not in the spirit of what we are trying to do at Williamsburg."

The summit of the major industrialized democracies — the United States, Canada, Britain, France, Germany, Italy and Japan — will be the third Reagan has attended, and the ninth such annual meeting.

"The theme song of the summit" will be jobs, said (Please turn to Page 10)

Pitt Industry Is Saluted

Lauch Faircloth, secretary of the North Carolina Department of Commerce, was a special guest at a pig-picking held Thursday night at the Greenville Country Club to celebrate Industrial Appreciation Week in Pitt County.

In a speech at the country club, Faircloth said, "No group of industrial people deserve a day of appreciation more than the people in Greenville and Pitt County. There is a greater variety of industry in Pitt County than any other county in North Carolina."

Earlier, at the Pitt-Greenville Airport, Faircloth was asked if he would run for governor of North Carolina in 1984. His only comment was, "Word (that he would run) might be right."

Despite the rain showers, about 200 members of the industrial community attended the pig-picking. Special guests included Bruce Beasley, chairman of the Pitt County Development Commission and John Chaffee, newly appointed executive director of the commission, and members of the Pitt County Board of Commissioners.

Another speaker, W.L. Robinson, secretary of the North Carolina Department of Transportation, said that the building of a new freeway between Greenville and Wilson "is on schedule."

Blinson Defends U.S. Education As Rose Cites Student Honors

Dr. Delma Blinson, superintendent of the Greenville schools, told participants at the Rose High School 1983 Scholars Banquet Thursday that he was "very proud of these youngsters who are being recognized tonight."

Blinson also told the students not to believe the news reports that say the United States is behind other countries in education.

"That report is comparing the average American students with the best students in other countries. Unlike other countries, America has a mass education program. If they compared the best students in America, they would find that American students are better than in any other country," he said.

Other speakers at the banquet included Howard Hurt, principal of the school, and Billy Stinson, art teacher. Entertainment was provided by Elizabeth Ellen and Carol Moore. Members of the Blue Rose Cafe served the meal.

Students who were honored are:

Education Is Investment

Charlotte Mayor Eddie Knox told graduates of Pitt Community College Thursday night that education is "is not a gift."

Knox spoke at exercises in which associate in applied science and associate in arts degrees and diplomas were awarded graduates of technical, vocational and college transfer programs.

Education, Knox said, for PCC students is "not a gift, not some favor the state bestowed on you ... but an investment, one that North Carolina makes willingly and gladly in its people, one that pays off for all of us in hundreds of ways."

Designer Is Serious About Men In Skirts

By VICTORIA R. BOWLES
DENTON, Texas (UPI) — Dorcas Taylor won't skirt the issue. In fact that's just one of the puns she employs to ease into the subject of designing skirts for men.

"I'm serious about the concept, though I want to drop a few taboos," she said as she lounged on the sunny student union plaza at North Texas State University.

Behind her stood her husband, Paul Reeves, and two professor friends, Henry Swartz, who teaches fashion design, and Bill Evans from the advertising art faculty.

All three wore skirts. Passing students wore expressions ranging from amusement to incredulity.

"This is something for a typical man," Ms. Taylor continued. "I don't want them to think I'm designing tutus."

Indeed, Swartz and Evans both looked very traditional in their dress shirts, ties and sweater vests. It was when the eye traveled below the waist that you could see traditional blue wool and gray tweed had been translated into pleated skirts.

Reeves, whom his wife describes as "a perfect 32 in a skirt," was more daring in a takeoff on the popular camouflage look — straight skirt, olive drab T-shirt and vest complete with bogus canteen and ammo packs.

Maybe the skirt should stop above the knees so he could run faster, Reeves mused, lifting it to expose muscular calves.

A student bystander in white bermuda shorts and preppy-looking striped pullover shook his head when asked if he could see himself in a skirt.

"I couldn't very well walk into a board of directors (meeting) wearing a skirt," he said.

"Come on, now," responded Ms. Taylor. "Men originally wore pelts and drapes. I mean, you've seen 'Ben Hur' Caesar draped."

Her iconoclastic designs arose from her search for the perfect master's thesis project in fashion design. She wanted something unique. Swartz suggested the history of skirts, kilts, and such, and Ms. Taylor was off and running.

Aside from the historical research that has occupied much of her project, Ms. Taylor saw an opportunity to bring a little liberation into men's lives. After all, women can now wear pants just about anywhere.

"A man is not liberated," Ms. Taylor said. "Men don't have that freedom of choice in garment design that women do."

She believes the skirt is an obviously more comfortable design than tight pants, allowing more freedom and air circulation around the genitals. All her skirts have pockets for wallets, keys, change and anything a man now carries in his pants pockets, and all are equipped with zipper flies.

"How is a guy going to go to the toilet?" she asked, rhetorically. "Lift his skirt?" No.

"Form has to follow function. If you're going to be in activities that you're going to be a little exposed you might have to design culottes or something," she said. "If you're going to climb a telephone pole, well, a woman wouldn't wear a skirt."

She is not a crusader for men in skirts, as opposed to David Hall of Palo Alto, Calif., whom she interviewed for her thesis.

Hall, who has made a number of appearances on national television in his full-length wrap, skirts, practices yoga and has spiritual justifications for wearing skirts, as well as practical considerations of comfort.

Ms. Taylor's motivation is not nearly so somber. When she finishes her degree in August she would like to go into fashion design full time, but not necessarily stick with skirts.

"I just wanted to re-introduce the idea and if it works that's fine. And if not, that's fine," said the 37-year-old Fort Worth, Texas, native. She began pursuing her degree in earnest last year when Braniff International folded, ending her 16-year career as a flight attendant.

The pants-and-coat suit of today is really a social uniform, according to Ms. Taylor.

Pants came into being as recently as the 1500s, she said. Even in pants, though, men cornered the market on satins and lace.

It wasn't until the 19th century reign of England's Queen Victoria and her Prince Albert that men stopped being peacocks. The idea was that no man was better than another, Ms. Taylor said, so they began dressing alike.

Don't try to tell her men aren't vain. One she spoke with about modeling her designs for a show at the Dallas Apparel Mart this month is a football player who said he would be willing, except that "my legs are all beat up."

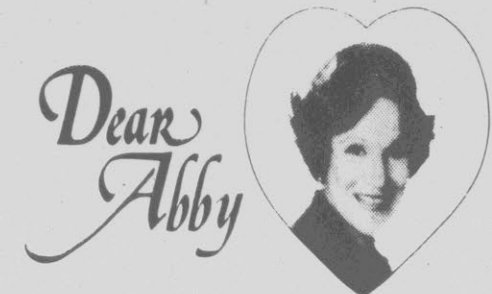

Clothing manufacturer Joe Haggard, who donated the material for her designs, said he couldn't wear skirts because "I've got bird legs."

Ms. Taylor's 12-year-old son, Tory, whom she described as "very peer conscious and very macho," loves helping his mom as a model. He wore a tartan plaid skirt and navy blue blazer in the show.

As for Ms. Taylor herself, she wears pants most of the time.

"I'm not a real fussy, feminine-type lady," she said.

Uncle Sam Wants Dogs

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1983 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR READERS: Just when I think I've heard everything, I get a letter from the Department of Defense Dog Center at Lackland Air Force Base, Texas, asking me to help recruit dogs for a rewarding career in the military!

Dogs are needed to be trained for guard duty, narcotic detection and explosive detection work.

Some facts: The dog must be between the ages of 1-4, weigh a minimum of 50 pounds and can be either male or female. German shepherds and Rottweiler breeds are desired. The dog does not have to be purebred or registered, but it must have the predominant features of the breed it represents.

The Defense Department will pay $250 per dog. If you have a dog that you think qualifies, write to: D.O.D. Dog Center, Detachment 37, Lackland Air Force Base, Texas 78236.

You will receive a form to fill out. If your dog qualifies, take it to a local military veterinarian to be evaluated and examined. The examination is free. If you use a private veterinarian, you must pay the charges.

If your dog passes his physical, a large metal crate will be provided for shipping purposes. All you have to do is take the dog to the airport and put it in the crate. It is then flown to Texas at government expense.

So if you want to do something patriotic for your country, send your dog.

ABBY

DEAR ABBY: I have a friend who worries me. When she is in a group, she either does all the talking or she is completely withdrawn. There is no conversing with her. She either talks non-stop without letting anyone else get a word in, or she just sits there and pays no attention to what's being said.

Every once in a while she will break into a conversation while others are talking and introduce an entirely different subject!

What on earth could be wrong with her? She is very intelligent and extremely well-read. I really care for her.

A FRIEND

DEAR FRIEND: Your friend's behavior is typical of one who has a serious hearing loss. If you "really care for her," tell her in a kind and gentle way what you have observed. Urge her to have her hearing checked. And if she is hard of hearing, encourage her to get the help she needs immediately.

DEAR ABBY: I am the wife of a clergyman (please don't say which denomination or what town).

My husband visits members of his congregation for a variety of reasons. It's part of his job. He is a very busy man who is well-respected in the community. As a matter of policy he never telephones in advance to make an appointment for his visits. He doesn't want anyone to fuss or go to any special trouble for him, so he just drops in unexpectedly.

A few women have told me that while they appreciate my husband's visit, they would prefer that he call in advance to let them know he is coming.

What is your thinking on this, Abby?

MINISTER'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: I think everyone has the right to know when a visitor is coming regardless of who the visitor is.

A visitor is always more welcome when the host or hostess has had an opportunity to prepare. I could be wrong. And if I am, I'm sure to hear from those who take an opposing view.

Female Official Says Job Just 'Umpiring'

By BETH WICKENBERG
The Arizona Daily Star
TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) —
When Pam Postema cleans the plate, she's not risking dishpan hands.

Ms. Postema, 29, is the only female umpire in professional baseball. After paying her dues like any other ump — two years each in the Rookie League, Class A and Class AA — she is an old hand at a profession that's relatively new to women.

This year, she has moved up to the Class AAA Pacific Coast League. By getting that close to the major leagues, which have never had a female umpire, Ms.
Postema has become the focus of a lot of attention.
That makes her uncomfortable, she said, for she sees herself as an umpire — not a woman umpire.

The hardest thing about being a woman umpire is "umpiring, just doing the job," Ms. Postema said in a telephone interview before coming to Tucson to officiate games for a week. In fact, she said that being a woman had not hindered or helped her.

"There isn't any problem," she said, a bit testily. "There isn't any problem with fans;
there isn't any problem with ballplayers or anything.
When you're on the field,
you're just another umpire.
As long as you're consistent,
they leave you alone."

But they didn't always leave aspiring women umpires alone.

Bernice Gera, a 40-year-old housewife from Jackson Heights, N.Y., made her umpiring debut in the Class
A New York-Penn League in 1972. She is believed to be the first woman to umpire a professional baseball game and was allowed to officiate only after a five-year struggle in which the New York State Court of Appeals agreed to her contention that existing physical requirements for umpire were discriminatory to women.

She umpired a game between the Auburn Phillies and the Geneva Rangers June 24, 1972. It was her first and last appearance. She quit in tears after the game, in which she was involved in three disputed calls and ejected one of the managers.
Newspaper articles at the time said she set women's chances for advancement in the field back considerably.

But not totally. Ms.
Postema graduated from umpiring school in Daytona Beach, Fla., five years later.

"I was living in Gainesville, Fla., and my sister was attending the University of Florida," she said.
"I was thinking about going there, too. But I read an article about Al Summers' umpiring school and decided to give that a try."

She said she had a bit of trouble getting in Summers' classes "because he had never had any women go to his school before. But he eventually let me in, and I was lucky enough to get a job out of it."

"I've always been athletic.
I played softball on a girls' team and with my brother," said Ms. Postema, who is from Willard, Ohio. "I'd play baseball and football with him and his friends."

In her six-plus years in pro baseball, Ms. Postema has been involved in many on-field disputes with managers and players. At 5-foot-8 and 140 pounds, she isn't petite, but she's not foolish enough to try to break up fights between ballplayers, either.

"You just stand back and wait until everything clears," she said.

The crew rotates positions clockwise from game to game. "I like behind the plate best," Ms. Postema said. "You feel more in control of the game. There's always a lot of action."

She says she's seeking even more action, in the majors, where there has yet to be a female ump. She says she hopes to remedy that but knows it will take time.

Looking out from behind an umpire's mask, she has learned to deal with a different view of baseball. For instance, she used to be a Cleveland Indians fan.

"I don't have any favorites anymore," she said, somewhat sadly. "When it's your job, you don't have the same interest. You watch the umpires; you don't watch the baseball game.

"That's why I don't want to become a football referee. I love football. I love to watch
it. I don't want to spoil it."

Jamscam Put To Rest

Jamscam, which saw funds raised by the Jaycees through jelly sales diverted from its intended beneficiary the N.C. Burn Center in Chapel Hill, has been laid to rest insofar as the state organization is concerned.

The N.C. Jaycees have raised enough money through contributions and pledges to repay the $153,000 to the Jaycee's charitable foundation.

Jaycees Executive Vice President Jerry Wall said that, though none of the present Jaycees were involved, "the name of the organization was at stake."

The memory of Jamscam can never be erased, of course, but certainly the present Jaycee leadership and membership have done all they can do to rectify the situation.

Jaycees in North Carolina have a proud reputation of public services and taking on civic responsibilities that no one else will tackle. With its reputation besmirched, the current members have succeeded in restoring the funds to the burn center.

With Jamscam in the past the N.C. Jaycees can go on to rebuild the high ideals for which the organization is noted and to be of further service to our state and its communities. More than ever the organization needs the participation of young men of the community and the support of all of us.

Proper Procedure

We won't even attempt to guess what an investigation by the District of Columbia police of Sen. John East's aide, Qention C. Crommelin Jr., is about.

Crommelin has good credentials. He is a graduate of the University of Virginia Law School and served on the staffs of several other senators, including Sen. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina.

There have been no charges brought against him and there may not be.

East, however, acted swiftly and properly to put the aide on suspension with pay pending resolution of the matter. As an attorney East did not want to prejudge or prejudice the case but he recognized it was best that the aide not work in his office until the matter is resolved.

That is the proper procedure for East to follow.

Familiar Warning

WASHINGTON — A sign that President Reagan really means business in his resistance to further big tax increases came at the May 18 Cabinet meeting when James A. Baker III, the White House chief of staff, weighed in on the anti-tax side against budget director David Stockman.

Stockman replayed for the Cabinet his familiar warning of ruinous budget deficits for years to come because of unrestrained spending unless Congress adopts a three-year budget resolution — which would contain somewhat smaller defense spending and far hotter tax boosts than the president wants. As usual, Secretary of Defense Caspar Weinberger disagreed. Less expectedly, so did Secretary of State George Shultz.

But the real surprise came when Baker, Stockman's ally and patron in past budget wars, backed Weinberger and Shultz. Baker argued that Reagan could fight for lower spending through vetoes without a budget resolution. To those present in the Cabinet Room, that meant the canny chief of staff had read the president's determination and at least momentarily was retiring from the tax-boost war.

Although the top political gathering included many former high-level officials who got their start under Richard M. Nixon, the name of the former president received not even a mention, much less a kudo, as Henry Kissinger was honored at a Washington dinner May 17 that praised Nixon-era foreign policy.

Gerald Ford, who succeeded Nixon in the Oval Office, spoke glowingly about Republican successes in the Middle East and China and in detente with the Soviet Union, but gave Kissinger, not Nixon, the credit. Likewise, old Nixon pal Anne Armstrong, former U.S. ambassador in London, ignored the president who resigned in disgrace.

Even the former secretary of state, whom the dinner honored with the creation of the Henry A. Kissinger chair at the Georgetown University Center for International and Strategic Studies, neglected to give his old boss a mention. Nixon obviously did not attend the posh affair at the International Club, but was the most conspicuous person in the room — by his absence.

Although Big Labor all but decided three weeks ago to hasten its endorsement of Walter F. Mondale for the Democratic presidential nomination, the former vice president's slump in current public opinion polls is causing worried second thoughts by the union chiefs.

A private informal poll last month of its international unions showed such overwhelming support for Mondale that leaders of AFL-CIO were about ready to endorse him in September, instead of December at the labor organization's convention as scheduled. However, doubts have been planted at AFL-CIO headquarters by the Los Angeles Times Poll showing Mondale trailing Sen. John Glenn nationally among Democrats and the Gallup Poll showing Glenn running much better than Mondale against President Reagan.

As a result, this coming summer may be crucial to Mondale from the standpoint of getting labor's endorsement. If his standing in the polls stays soggy, the AFL-CIO may well decide to bide its time until December.

President Reagan's unannounced decision to withdraw his nomination of career diplomat John D. Scanlan to be ambassador to communist Poland delivered this message to Warsaw: We will not be blackmailed.

Scanlan, now in charge of Polish affairs in the State Department, was selected several months ago by Reagan as the new envoy to Warsaw, but the normally automatic acceptance of a new ambassador by the host country was not forthcoming.

After the long wait, Reagan lost patience and ordered the proposed nomination withdrawn. That was no repudiation of Scanlan. Instead, it was sending the harsh military regime that governs Poland this word: The U.S. will not be blackmailed into softening economic sanctions imposed on Poland for its repressive military actions against Lech Walesa's Solidarity union.

Last-ditch use by retiring Senate Republican leader Howard Baker of a private pool in trying to talk his protégé, Gov. Lamar Alexander, into running for his Senate seat from Tennessee was a failure — largely because of the power of the Tennessee Education Association, the state's school-teachers union.

RALEIGH — We'll have to excuse officials of the University of North Carolina if they can't tell us the cost of tuition on the 16-campus system next year. No less than eight bills affecting state college tuition have been introduced in the assembly this year and none has been passed, as of this writing.

The four tuition bills which have received the most attention would raise the tuition for out-of-state students attending North Carolina colleges. Three of those bills were sent to a special subcommittee of the House Higher Education Committee. That subcommittee recently reported out a compromise that would raise tuition for out-of-staters by $300 a year.

Observers think that $300 is the rock bottom increase and that it will be upped as the bill progresses.

The fourth of those bills was introduced earlier this month by Sen. William Martin, D-Guilford. It would increase tuition for all students by $1,000 but give back that $1,000 to all North Carolina students at the university. The bill also calls for loan incentives and grants for out-of-staters.

Three other bills would reduce tuition for certain students. One bill, introduced by Rep. Louise Brennan, D-Mecklenburg, would provide that the children of any University of North Carolina worker killed while on the job could attend the university for free.

Another, introduced by Sen. Dick Barnes, D-Forsyth, would grant in-state tuition rates to the children of Vietnamese-era military personnel currently listed as missing in action.

The third of these bills, and the one which has gotten the most publicity, would grant in-state tuition rates to the dependents of military personnel stationed in North Carolina, granted that their home state provides the same privilege to North Carolinians stationed in that state. Right now, 43 other states do so.

Sen. Henson Barnes, D-Wayne, sponsor of the bill, says it will reduce tuition for about 400 students each year. That may, or may not, represent a loss of revenue for the state. If those students make up part of the limited contingent of out-of-staters who are admitted to attend North Carolina universities, then it will cost the state some money. If, however, the military dependents are considered in-staters, the schools will still admit the same number of out-of-staters, at higher tuition rates, and there'll be no decrease in total tuition collected.

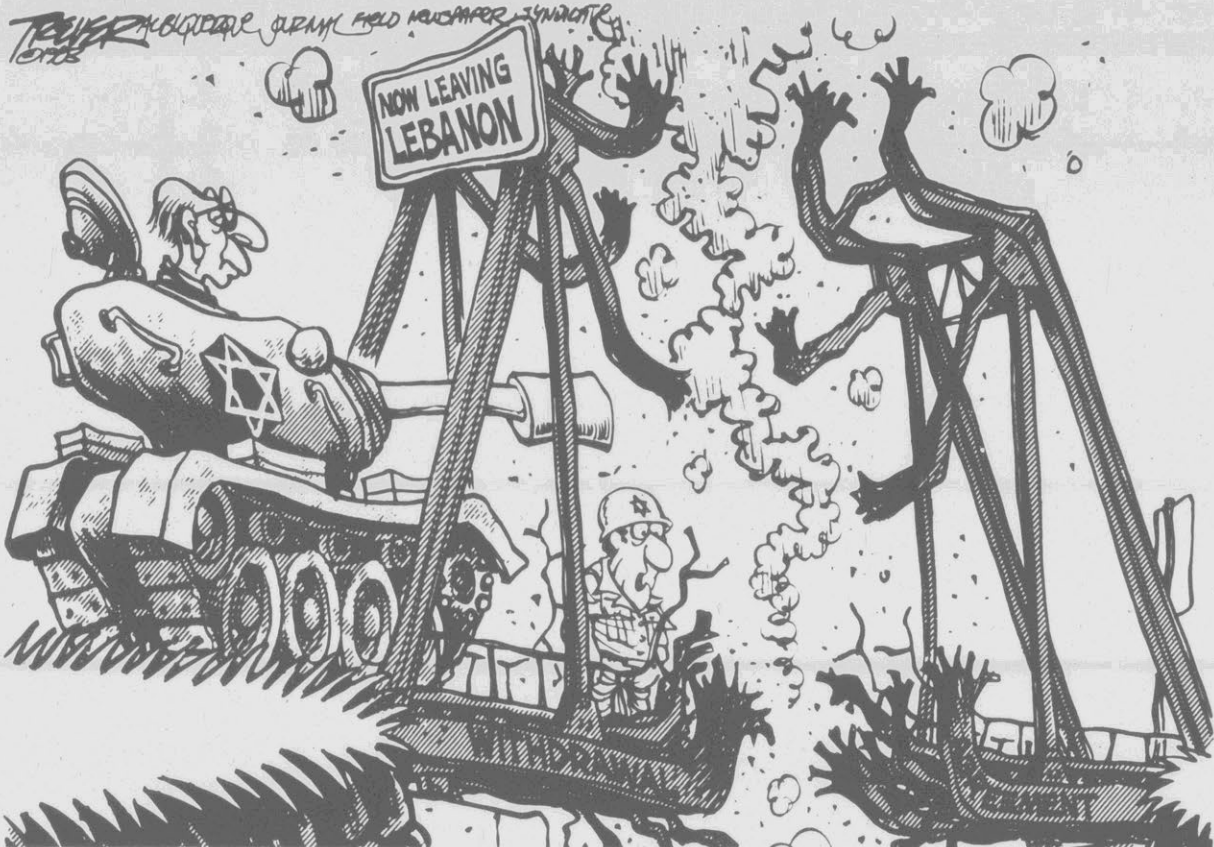

The flip side of that, however, is that those out-of-state military dependents will take seats otherwise reserved for North Carolina residents in the university system.

One other bill could affect the costs of going to college next year. Rep. Dan Lilley, D-Lenoir, proposes that we repeal the state gift tax when the money involved is given for tuition or medical expenses.

In addition to those eight bills, there are House and Senate bills to increase the grant for students attending private colleges in the state and the Legislature has already expressed, in the form of a resolution, its opposition to a federal tuition tax credit.

UNC President Bill Friday said the eight tuition bills represent an unusually large number for one session. But, every third or fourth session, this many tuition bills will get filed, he added.

Felix Joyner, UNC vice president for finance, said the tuition increase bills show that legislators are more amenable to raising fees, than raising taxes, to make up for revenue shortfalls.

How Reputations Are Made...Or Broken

I was walking by my son's room the other day and heard him typing. "What are you up to?" I asked him.

"I'm writing my memoirs on what it was like to be your son."

This pleased me, and I said, "I hope I come out all right in the book."

"I'm sure you will," he said. "Hey, Dad, how many times should I say you took me out in the barn and whipped me with your belt?"

"I never took you out in the barn and beat you with a belt! We don't even have a barn."

"My editor said in order for the book to sell I'm going to have to write a lot of stuff about how you beat me up and locked me in my closet when I did something wrong."

"I didn't lock you up when you did anything wrong."

"I know that, but he wants a story like the ones Gary Crosby and Christina Crawford wrote about their parents. He says the reading public wants to know about the private life you lead, as opposed to the public image you have. All the kids are writing one now and they're best sellers. Would you mind if I portrayed you as a rotten father?"

"Do you have to?"

"Of course I have to. I got a $10,000 advance and they don't put up that kind of money unless you really blow the whistle on your parents. You should read chapter two. I tell how you made everyone laugh at a speaking engagement, and then you came home drunk and dumped us all out of our beds and made us scrub the floor."

"I never did that and you know it."

"Gosh, Dad, it's only a book. My editor loves it — almost as much as chapter three where I have you beating up Mom."

"You've got me beating up your mother?"

"I don't say you really hurt her. But I tell how we kids used to hide under the blankets so we couldn't hear her screaming."

"I never laid a hand on your mother."

"I can't say that. My editor said people are not going to plunk down $15.95 for 'Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm.'"

"Okay, so I strapped you with a belt and I beat up your mother. What else did I do to you?"

"I'm just getting into the sex stuff in chapter four. Do you think if I wrote you used to bring show girls home at 3 o'clock in the morning people would believe it?"

"I'm sure they would. But don't you think that's going a bit far, even for best seller?"

"My editor suggested the idea. You don't have a big reputation for messing around, and this would really come as a surprise to the reader. It can't hurt."

"It can't hurt you, but it sure has hell can hurt me," I yelled at him. Don't you have anything good to say about me in the book?"

"I had a chapter on how you bought me my first bicycle, but my editor made me take it out. He said people might get confused after the stuff I wrote about you dumping a bowl of mashed potatoes on my head at Christmas time because I gave you some lip."

"Why didn't you write I threw you in a cold shower with all your clothes on because you only got a B in math?"

"Hey, that's good. I'll say I got pneumonia and you never even bothered to visit me in the hospital."

"You'd sell out your own father for $10,000?"

"It's not just the money, Dad. My editor says if I let it all hang out Barbara Walters might even interview me on 20/20. I wouldn't have to live in your shadow any more."

"Well, if it means that much to you, go right ahead with the book. Is there any way I can help?"

"Yeh. There is one thing. Could you buy me a word processor? If I could speed up my typing I could have it out by Christmas. I'll pay you back as soon as my agent sells the book rights to the movies."

Central America Policy Invites Questions

troops would not be involved:

"Let me say to those who invoke the memory of Vietnam: There is no thought of sending American combat troops to Central America; they are not needed — indeed, they have not been requested there."

Then, and since, he emphasized that the stakes in Central America are immense.

"Our friends cannot be expected to stand unarmed against insurgents who've been armed to the teeth by the Soviet-Cuban-Nicaraguan axis," the president said in Miami last Thursday. "Any excuse for not providing our friends the weapons they need to defend themselves is a prescription for disaster."

He added that events in the Caribbean will shape the U.S. image everywhere. "If we cannot act decisively so close to home, who will believe us anywhere?"

In the speech to Congress, Reagan said his request was minimal, about $600 million in economic and military aid, "less than one-tenth of what Americans will spend this year on coin-operated video games."

But the administration isn't getting the sums or the swift action Reagan sought, and there has been growing resistance, particularly among Democrats, to covert operations against guerrilla supply lines from Nicaragua into El Salvador.

On Sunday, the Washington Post published an interview with Lt. Gen. Wallace H. Nutting, completing a tour as U.S. commander for the region involved, who said the administration should not preclude the use of American forces if necessary.

Nutting said there are many reasons for avoiding U.S. intervention, but if the guerrillas are assured it won't happen, they will persist. "I can't say at this moment that 150, 200, 500 or 1,000 trainers in El Salvador is sufficient," he told the Post. "I'm pretty certain after a couple of years' experience that 55 is not."

Goldwater, chairman of the Senate Intelligence Committee, said he agreed with the general. "If I were the president ... I would say if it becomes necessary to save Central America, we will use our troops, our aircraft, our forces," the Arizona senator said on the CBS-TV program "Face the Nation."

He said the threat, if believable, would suffice. "I think if the president made it abundantly clear that the Caribbean is our problem now, starting with Cuba, and we would use what force is necessary to maintain Central America, I have a strong feeling we would not have any further trouble," Goldwater said.

His Intelligence Committee has told the president to come up with a new statement of Central America policy before Oct. 1, when the panel will again consider funds for covert operations there. He said it should include a warning of more direct U.S. involvement if necessary.

That would raise the administration ante to match the stakes. But it also would escalate administration problems on other congressional fronts.

NOSHIRO, Japan (AP) — Authorities counted 47 dead and 55 missing today after a full day of air and sea search operations along coastal areas battered by tidal waves that followed a major undersea earthquake.

The National Police Agency said almost all the victims in Akita, Aomori and Hokkaido prefectures were swept away by a series of tsunamis, or tidal waves, that pounded the shoreline of northwestern Honshu, Japan's main island, minutes after the tremor at noon Thursday.

The victims included at least 12 children washed away by a wave while on a school outing at a beach. The search continued for the body of a 13th child.

At least 88 people were injured in the disaster, which affected a 120-mile stretch of coastline, the police agency said.

With most of the missing victims feared dead, the earthquake-tidal wave disaster appeared certain to be the worst in Japan since 119 died from a tidal wave that was caused by a major quake off Chile in 1960.

Kyodo News Service reported that three more people had been washed out to sea and two were missing on the South Korean coastline, which also was struck by tidal waves from the quake, which was centered about 420 miles from Korea.

Reagan Chides NEA For Opposing Merit Pay

By CHRISTOPHER CONNELL
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan says the National Education Association's opposition to merit pay is "a major obstacle to paying our outstanding teachers what they deserve."

Reagan, in a letter to NEA President Willard H. McGuire, chided the union for its stand and expressed surprise that the union had accused him of making a "disgraceful" assault on the teaching profession.

McGuire told reporters the union has no intention of dropping its opposition to paying teachers by merit instead of seniority, but he said he welcomed a letter from Reagan after 2 1/2 years of virtually no communication between the liberal union and the White House.

Reagan drew the wrath of the 1.6-million-member NEA and the 580,000-member American Federation of Teachers for declaring in a commencement address last Saturday that "we just haven't been getting our money's worth" from the schools, and that part of the problem stemmed from unions' resistance to changing the pay structure.

Reagan, in a letter distributed to reporters by the White House press office, noted that the National Commission on Excellence in Education recently recommended higher standards for students training to teach and better salaries tied to performance. The commission endorsed the concept of a higher pay scale for "master" teachers.

That concept has long been opposed by the unions, which contend that with salaries averaging less than $21,000 a year, virtually all of the nation's 2.2 million elementary and secondary school teachers need a raise, not just a select few. NEA's state affiliate recently helped derail a master teacher plan in Tennessee.

Reagan wrote that he incorporated some of the commission's recommendations in his speech at Seton Hall University. "I cannot understand how the NEA concluded that these remarks, intended constructively to support the commission's recommendations on how to improve the teaching profession, constitute an assault on teachers."

"Until NEA supports badly needed reforms in salary, promotion and tenure policies," he said, "the improvements we so desperately need will only be delayed. ... I fear that NEA's long-standing opposition to new ideas like the Tennessee master teacher proposal has been a major obstacle to paying our outstanding teachers what they deserve."

"Let's all join together and improve teaching and learning in America."

McGuire called merit pay "an old idea that hasn't worked in either the public or private sector."

"It assumes that a few will be meritorious, but the many will be less than meritorious. ... It says to the majority of parents in the school district, 'Your children will have to be with less than meritorious teachers, but a few lucky ones will be with meritorious teachers,'" McGuire said.

McGuire said he'd welcome a chance to sit down and discuss education issues with Reagan, but "I don't see our position in that area changing."

Mary Hatwood Futrell, the NEA secretary-treasurer, told a House Education and Labor subcommittee Tuesday that "for the president of the United States to launch an attack on (teachers) is disgraceful."

She also derided Reagan's "absurd responses" to the commission's recommendations and accused him of pushing "platitudes, prayers and private schools instead of focusing on the real needs of American public education."

Reagan has said repeatedly that he believes restoring prayer to public schools, providing tuition tax credits for private education and dismantling the U.S. Department of Education will help improve all schools. He contends that more money is not the answer.

LUXURY TEEPEE — When Elbert Lowdermilk of Helper, Utah, was growing up among the Indians in Oklahoma during the early 1900s, he was fascinated by their traditional teepees, brightly painted with symbolic pictographs. Lowdermilk, 86, plans soon to move into his own carefully painted tepee.

No-Frill Airline Starts Service

LONDON (AP) — People Express and its no-frills approach to flying touched down in London today, opening a new chapter in airline history with $149 trans-Atlantic flights — plus plastic cups of champagne for passengers on the maiden flight.

The Boeing 747 that People Express leased from bankrupt Braniff Airlines for its five round trips a week arrived at 7:27 a.m. with 101 passengers — 98 rode economy class and three paid $439 for first-class seats.

That was 25 percent of the jet's capacity, but the airline had restricted bookings on the first flight because it was uncertain whether the British Trade Department would grant an operating permit. The British approved the permit Thursday morning.

The $149 fare is slightly more than half the lowest trans-Atlantic fare of $275 available for standby bookings on other airlines. The bargain airline's strategy recalls that of British businessman Sir Freddie Laker's popular Skytrain service, which collapsed in debt last year.

Workers refueled the jet for its 10:25 a.m. departure on the return trip to Newark International Airport, just across the Hudson River from New York.

Flight attendants gave passengers champagne in plastic cups when they boarded for the inaugural trip, the only instance the airline strayed from its no-frills policy.

Food and drink cost an additional sum that can exceed $25 for a four-course meal.

Several passengers packed their own food for the trip, including 20-year-old Scott Miller of Englishtown, N.J., who carried a plastic bag bulging with sandwiches for him and a friend.

"We've got about five sandwiches each. Ham, turkey, everything -- we're really roughing it," Miller said.

Others in the economy class say they didn't mind paying $6 for a choice of three baskets that each included sandwiches, fruit and desert.

"They've saved me so much, why shouldn't I buy their food?" said passenger Alexis Levitin of Plattsburgh, N.Y.

His Breathing Stopped

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — For 15 minutes, Joey Chalifour was dead, pinned underwater in a ditch by his 3,000-pound tractor.

But rescue personnel brought him back to life from his April 26 accident.

"It gives you an odd feeling to know that you were dead and they brought you back to life," said Chalifour. "You might say it's a lost feeling because you've got no explanation either way."

Chalifour, a retired mail carrier and part-time farmer, said he remembered almost nothing about his brush with death or the rescue by the Wendell Rescue Squad and the Knightdale Fire Department that started him breathing again.

"It's just something I can't believe," he said. "I can't believe it happened to me. It's like it happened to somebody else."

Chalifour said he had been plowing at his farm between Wendell and Rolesville and was headed back to the barn to change equipment. His 5-year-old grandson, William Berry, was sitting on his lap. The shoulder of the road, apparently weakened by April's heavy rains, gave way and the tractor flipped, pinning Chalifour in a ditch under 3 feet of water.

William, who was thrown clear, caught the eye of a passing motorist. The first rescue volunteer at the scene timed seven minutes from the last air bubble he saw come from where Chalifour was pinned until rescue crews arrived. It took rescue units eight more minutes to free Chalifour and begin resuscitation.

Annexation Changes Win Approval

By JOHN FLESHER
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The state Senate has tentatively approved a bill rewriting North Carolina's annexation law after beating back two proposed amendments that would have let residents in annexed areas veto the plans.

Sen. Aaron Plyler, D-Union, whose bill was subjected to lengthy committee deliberations, said it was "a good compromise... one that volunteer fire departments, the (N.C.) League of Municipalities, and the (N.C.) Association of County Commissioners can live with."

But Sen. Cary Allred, R-Alamance, said annexation against residents' wills violated the "principles on which this country was founded."

"They're being taxed without representation," he said, and offered amendments to let annexed residents veto the plan. The first called for a simple majority, while the second amendment sought a two-thirds rule. Both were soundly defeated.

The bill, the first annexation rewrite since 1959, would require that reports of a proposed annexation be available for 30 days instead of the 14 days under current law.

It also would require that a public hearing be held 45 to 90 days after a municipality's approval of a resolution to annex. Currently the hearing must be within 30-60 days.

The bill makes new provisions to ensure that everyone affected is notified and provides that volunteer firefighters extend equal service to annexed areas in return for appropriate benefits.

Sen. Donald Kincaid, R-Caldwell, raised several questions about insurance provisions in the bill and warned that it would be unpopular with North Carolinians. But Sen. Charles Hipps, D-Haywood, said the bill had the support of virtually every interested group.

The Senate also defeated an attempt by Sen. Henson Barnes, D-Wayne, to bar Walnut Creek, a town east of Goldsboro, from annexing surrounding farmland. Hipps said one exception would open the floodgates to a wave of similar requests and eventually gut the bill.

aid. He is a 1982 graduate of North Pitt High School.

Pvt. William J. Stanley, son of Gerladine Stanley of Robersonville, completed basic training at Fort Knox, Ky., where he received instruction in drill and ceremonies, weapons, map reading, tactics, military courtesy and justice and first aid.

In other legislative action: Condemned criminals in North Carolina would have the choice of being executed by lethal injection or in the conventional gas chamber under a bill approved by the Senate Judiciary III Committee.

The bill, introduced by Sen. Bob Davis, D-Rowan, originally would have required that all state executions use lethal injections. But a subcommittee decided to make it optional, with the decision to be made within five days of sentencing.

The subcommittee defused another major objection to the bill by removing the requirement that physicians administer the injection. The N.C. Medical Society and many doctors had opposed that as a conflict with the Hippocratic Oath, which says they may not take a life. The compromise bill requires injection by a pharmacist under orders by the warden of Central Prison — a move pharmacists did not oppose.

"We struggled with the oath of physicians. We struggled with the oath of pharmacists. We struggled with the fact that you are executing people," said Sen. Charles Hipps, D-Haywood, who chaired the subcommittee. "Even though this is an execution, it will dignify the last moments as much as possible. That was the committee's feeling."

Debate over beach access at Emerald Isle overflowed into a dispute among legislators, town residents and the news media, but no action was taken on the controversial bill.

Rep. Al Adams, D-Wake, said he introduced a bill to require public beach access and close a vehicle ramp as part of his commitment to statewide access. He hotly criticized reports that Sen.

Kenneth Royall, D-Durham, might have signed the legislation to protect his own Emerald Isle cottage.

Guerrilla Faction Says Killing Was In Reprisal

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — A communique purporting to be from the main leftist guerrilla faction claimed responsibility for the first slaying of a U.S. military adviser in El Salvador.

The communique said the killing was in reprisal for "the criminal intervention of Yankee imperialism." But there was no confirmation of the claim, either from rebel radio stations or other sources.

The communique, broadcast by two private radio stations Thursday, claimed that urban commandos of the Popular Liberation Forces (FPL), the largest of five rebel bands fighting the U.S.-backed government, killed Navy Lt. Cmdr. Albert A. Schaufelberger III on Wednesday evening.

But copies of the communique did not carry the official FPL emblem. The group's clandestine Radio Farabundo Marti, as well as Radio Venceremos, the official voice of the five rebel bands, reported the slaying without indicating who was responsible.

The message claimed guerrilla commandos "recovered" a pistol, a submachine gun and a radio transmitter that belonged to the slain American. It also said Schaufelberger, 33, of San Diego, Calif., was "executed" in reprisal for American intervention.

U.S. Ambassador Deane R. Hinton said Salvadoran police have begun an investigation and would likely receive FBI help to probe what he called the "shocking, cowardly murder" of Schaufelberger, who was deputy commander of U.S. military advisers in El Salvador.

Schaufelberger was one of 52 American noncombat military advisers training the Salvadoran armed forces in their 3½-year-old civil war against leftist guerrillas. He also was in charge of security for the American military group.

Before the purported claim of responsibility, Hinton implied leftists were to blame.

"We do not have evidence that would confirm who the killers were," he said, but added: "You can imagine who it is in this country who have been saying venomous things and lies about the role of the military trainers and would conceivably carry out such a terrorist act."

Schaufelberger is the first American adviser slain in El Salvador since the Reagan administration sent them here in 1981. In February, another adviser was wounded by gunfire while flying in a helicopter over U.S. military province.

On Thursday, witnesses of the slaying at the Central American University campus in San Salvador said four gunmen acting with the cool manner of professional killers murdered Schaufelberger as he alone waited in his car for a woman friend, Consuelo Escalante, 34, manager of a faculty cooperative.

The shooting occurred after dark and the street was crowded with vehicles, students leaving classes and other pedestrians.

The killers acted with "shocking calm" and "gave the impression of great professionalism," one witness said.

Four men in civilian clothing pulled alongside Schaufelberger's green Chevrolet Malibu, a U.S. government vehicle in which he had replaced the bulletproof glass windows with ordinary glass recently because the air conditioner did not work.

One of them aimed a revolver through an open window and fired four times. Three 22-caliber Magnum hollow-point, explosive bullets struck the Navy officer in the head.

According to witnesses, one of the assassins told the gunman to "finish him off."

"Why?" the gunman replied. "He's already dead."

The gunman and two fellow assassins walked unhurriedly back to their car, urging bystanders to stay calm, the witnesses said.

After he was shot, Schaufelberger's car lurched forward and smashed into another vehicle, coming to a halt on the sidewalk with its wheels still spinning on the pavement, several witnesses said.

One of the gunmen walked over to the car, reached into the open window and switched off the ignition, they said.

The witnesses, all of whom asked not to be named, said the assailants were dressed in civilian clothing and at least two of them were armed with submachine guns in addition to the pistol that killed Schaufelberger.

They drove away at a normal speed, the witnesses said.

"They left quite calmly," one witness said. "Too calmly."

At a news conference Thursday, Hinton said the murder would not change U.S. policy here.

"Neither the government of the United States nor Al's bereaved colleagues and friends in the embassy will be deterred from our efforts to help defend and advance democracy," Hinton said.

In Washington, President Reagan said: "This tragedy, this young man being murdered, follows reports that we've had that the guerrillas were going to move in with terrorist groups and move in close to the capital and try to bring terrorist activities right to the very heart of El Salvador."

"It is not going to change our attitude about the economic or military aid we are giving," he said.

Hooks Regains NAACP Post

NEW YORK (AP) — Supporters of Benjamin L. Hooks, who was reinstated effective today as executive director of the NAACP, say they will try to limit the power of the organization chairman who suspended Hooks last week.

Margaret Bush Wilson, chairman of the nation's oldest civil rights organization, announced the reinstatement Thursday.

Although Mrs. Wilson never has revealed why she suspended Hooks on May 18, she said he was being reinstated because, "essentially, the purposes for which the action was taken have been served, and no useful purpose will be gained by its continuance."

Efforts to reach Hooks for comment Thursday were unsuccessful. He did not return calls to his office and repeated calls to his home reached a busy signal.

Hazel Dukes, head of the New York state chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People and one of Hooks' most outspoken supporters, said 46 members of the 64-member board plan to meet Saturday to launch a move to limit the chairman's powers. The legality of that meeting has been questioned by Mrs. Wilson's supporters.

Ms. Dukes said the reinstatement of Hooks would not deter the group's effort.

"I think for the chairman of the board to announce on a Thursday afternoon — when her board had called for a meeting for Saturday — that she had reinstated the executive director, well, it's not enough," she said.

A board member who asked not to be identified told The New York Times. "This is no longer a fight between Ben Hooks and Margaret Wilson. It is now a fight between Margaret Wilson and the rest of the board."

Judge Clears FBI Spy In 1965 Alabama Death

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — A federal judge ruled today the federal government was not responsible for the death of Viola Liuzzo, a white civil rights worker who was gunned down on an Alabama highway in 1965.

U.S. District Judge Charles W. Joiner said the government was not negligent in its handling of FBI informant Gary Thomas Rowe, who was among four Klansmen in a passing car from which Mrs. Liuzzo was shot March 25, 1965.

"The evidence fails to show that Rowe was in concert with those who did the killing and there is nothing to indicate that the FBI directing agent had anything in mind but the acquisition of valuable information about a subversive organization," Joiner ruled.

The 39-year-old Detroit housewife had been driving marchers participating in a 50-mile walk from Selma to Montgomery, Ala., in support of the 1965 Voting Rights Act.

The ruling came in the case of a lawsuit filed against the government by Mrs. Liuzzo's children, who asked for $2 million.

Mrs. Liuzzo's five children claimed in their 1979 lawsuit that the FBI should have known that Rowe and the three Klansmen with him in the car had a penchant for violence, and that the government should have protected civil rights workers.

The government had sought dismissal of the Liuzzo case because too much time had elapsed between the slaying and the filing of the lawsuit. It contended that because Rowe was, in effect, a contractor rather than an FBI employee, the government should not be liable.

Eugene Thomas and Collie Leroy Wilkins Jr., two of the Klansmen, were convicted in 1966.

Houston Mayor Bowing Out

BOSTON (AP) — Kevin H. White, the dean of the nation's big-city mayors whose administration has been marred by a federal corruption probe and high-level indictments, says he won't seek a fifth term because the joy has gone out of the job.

"I'm going to have fun again at something else, but not at mayor of Boston," White said after announcing his decision in a recorded statement broadcast Thursday, ending weeks of speculation on whether he would seek an unprecedented fifth term.

The 53-year-old White, now in his 16th year as mayor, said investigations of his administration by the U.S. attorney were "debilitating" but did not influence his decision. He contended that since the Watergate scandal of the early 70s, all mayors have had to contend with probes.

White has not been accused of any wrongdoing, but seven members of his administration have been indicted or convicted on charges of extortion or fraud connected to their official jobs.

His withdrawal throws September's nonpartisan primary into a wide-open race among 10 announced candidates.

"There does come a time in the life of every man when a change is appropriate, and that time has come for me," White said.

Researcher Attends Conference

Nina Mikkelsen, researcher and consultant in the field of children's literature and children's writing, recently represented Greenville schools at the 16th annual Conference of the Canadian Council Teachers of English at McGill University in Montreal.

The conference, titled "Springboards '83: Patterns of Development," brought together elementary, secondary and college educators from Australia, North America and Europe to explore the subject of student development in language and literature.

Data for Dr. Mikkelsen's presentation grew out of writing workshops for children conducted in the summer of 1982 and an earlier study of the composing processes of six Greenville children which was published by the University of London Institute of Education in September 1982.

In June, Dr. Mikkelsen will continue working with children in the process-writing approach and literature-based reading experiences, when students enrolled in the Greenville schools' Summer Writing Workshop explore the theme "Fantasy Creatures."

community college graduates, Knox said, is an enhanced competitiveness in the marketplace as North Carolina more aggressively seeks new industries to improve the state's economic mix. The new industries will, in turn, increase revenues and help provide upgraded services for the state's citizens, Knox said.

"In just 20 years," the speaker noted, "North Carolina has built a college system that you as a graduate can be justly proud of."

"An institution like Pitt Community College has the strength and vitality and is a basic ingredient in the prescription for our future," Knox explained.

Knox urged the graduates to "keep your alma mater a viable option for your children and your grandchildren. What it has done for you and will continue to do for other members of the community, it can do for future generations — if we pledge ourselves right now to support the open-door policies that have made this college and others like it the answer for thousands of students."

Garry Linton, a graduate in commercial art and graphic design, gave the graduates' response to the college. He emphasized that the faculty and staff of Pitt Community College had provided the graduates with challenges throughout their college careers and without their help and encouragement this day of graduation would not have been possible.

"The task is now left up to us to pursue our dreams in order to become successful in today's world. We have not only acquired skills but patience and ability to deal with stressful situations and our own personal fears," stated Linton.

The commencement speaker was introduced by Carol Lowe, president of the Student Government Association.

Dr. Charles E. Russell, assistant to the president, made opening remarks and welcomed the assembly. Dr. Edgar L. Boyd, dean of students, introduced the candidates, and Clifton W. Everett Sr., chairman of the board, conferred the degrees and diplomas. He was assisted by Dr. Edward B. Bright, dean of instruction.

Reagan ...

Secretary of State George P. Shultz.

Treasury Secretary Donald T. Regan said the summit's priorities will be discussion of "sustained non-inflationary growth of income and employment, interest rates, monetary policy, budget deficits, combating protectionism, East-West trade and economic issues, (and) exchange market intervention."

The president told reporters Thursday that he is "ready as I'll ever be" for the summit conference, after a pre-summit meeting with President Amintore Fanfani of Italy.

Earlier in the day, he was interviewed by television journalists from the other summit countries, and told them that "we are not ignoring our economic responsibilities."

The summit partners are expected to express concern that the U.S. budget deficit, which the government forecasts will reach $190 billion in fiscal 1984, is keeping interest rates high and strengthening the dollar. The end result, they are expected to argue, is weakened foreign currencies, continued inflation in the other nations and delayed economic recovery.

In addition to Reagan, Fanfani and Nakasone, the participants in the summit are Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher of Britain, Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau of Canada, President Francois Mitterrand of France, and Chancellor Helmut Kohl of Germany.

Mrs. Thatcher is interrupting her campaigning in the June 9 British parliamentary election to make an abbreviated visit to the summit, arriving for dinner Saturday and leaving for home before dinner Sunday.

"We didn't ask for the strong dollar," said Reagan. "The strong dollar came about because of our success, so far, in reducing inflation in our country in comparison to the decline in inflation in other countries."

Mitterrand is expected to express interest in an international conference on returning the world monetary system to a fixed exchange rate.

Reagan appeared to signal his opposition to this when he told the interviewers: "The relationship between the currencies must be resolved by (the) general recovery and by more stability and more closeness as to inflation rates worldwide."

Asked whether he expected a direct confrontation with Mitterrand, Reagan said: "No. I don't really expect confrontation there."

The president also reiterated his opposition to protectionist trade policies, and said "open trade, fair trade, is what we must have."

Mitterrand, like the other visitors, is under political pressure at home to see that the summit is successful. He is also expected to pressure Reagan about the U.S. budget deficits.

The formal summit meetings begin Sunday morning in the House of Burgesses, where the Declaration of Independence originated in a motion eventually approved by the Continental Congress in Philadelphia.

Court Rules That Parents Can Reclaim Soviet Youth

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Fifteen-year-old Walter Polovchak, who ran away from home rather than go back to the Soviet Union with his family, can be returned to his parents' custody if they come to the United States to get him, the Illinois Supreme Court ruled today.

However, the justices acknowledged that the youth will not be sent back immediately to the Soviet Union. That is because a lawsuit challenging a federal grant of asylum to the boy is pending in U.S. District Court in Chicago.

The federal Immigration and Naturalization Service also has issued an order barring Walter's departure from the United States.

The case began in 1980 when the boy fled his parents' Chicago home and took up residence with a relative.

Judge Joseph Mooney of Juvenile Court removed the boy from his parents' custody and they later left for the Ukraine without him. Mooney's ruling was overturned by a state appellate court and then taken to the state Supreme Court.

Walter's older sister, Natalie, also refused to return to the Soviet Union, but her parents did not oppose her decision.

During oral arguments in the case before the Illinois Supreme Court in March, lawyer Steven Lubet had said Walter's parents, Michael and Anna Polovchak, would return to the United States to take custody of their child if the justices ruled favorably.

However, attorneys for the boy discounted that claim, saying the parents' decision to return to the Soviet Union without the boy and other evidence indicates they are not very concerned about him.

In their decision, Supreme Court justices said Mooney erred when he ordered Walter removed from his parents' custody and made a temporary ward of the state.

The state's high court said the ruling ran contrary to evidence, which showed there was no urgency for such an order and that Walter was not "beyond the control of his parents," as required by Illinois law for such a declaration.

"Walter's actions, which can hardly be characterized as those of a runaway, and posed no hazard to him or anyone else, simply do not establish that he was beyond parental control," Justice Robert Underwood said in the court's 11-page written opinion.

Legion Planning Program Trial ...

Members of American Legion Post No. 39 have announced plans for the annual Memorial Day service to be held on the grounds of the post home at 3 p.m. Sunday. The service is open to the public.

Paul E. Waldrop Jr., 2nd vice commander of Post 39, will be the guest speaker.

The Memorial Day service, a yearly program of the post, is held to pay tribute to all who have died in this nation's wars.

The program gets under way at 2:30 p.m. with the Greenville Middle School band directed by Johnny A. Wooten providing music. The invocation will be given by Harrell D. "Buck" Weaver, the post's chaplain, and ROTC cadets of D.H. Conley High School, commanded by Cadet Capt. Jesse Blount, will be in charge of the raising of the colors ceremony.

Adrian Adams, Post 39 commander, will lead in the pledge of allegiance, with the welcome to be given by adjutant Ernest L. Avery. Dr. R.M. Helms, past District III Commander of the American Legion, Department of North Carolina, will introduce the speaker.

Following the speech by Waldrop, Mrs. Adrian Adams will lead in the singing of "America the Beautiful," with the Conley ROTC Cadets to be in charge of the lowering of the colors ceremony. Sgt. William Creech will command a firing squad from Det. 1, 213 Military Police Company, which will fire the honor salute, and taps will be played by Chun Duncan, a Conley ROTC cadet. Weaver will give the closing prayer for the service.

The observance of Memorial Day in special services has been a tradition for more than 100 years. In 1868, Gen. John A. Logan of the Grand Army of the Republic issued his historic order for such an observance which established the tradition of public ceremonies "to respect comrades who died in defense of their country."

In keeping with its annual custom, member of Post 39 will place American flags on the graves of deceased veterans in the Pitt County area.

Wanted Big Prize

Speedy Bodine Unhappy

HARRISBURG, N.C. (AP) — Geoff Bodine was the fastest qualifier Thursday for Sunday's World 600 race, but it came a day late and left him several thousand dollars short.

Bodine's speed of 161.161 mph placed him 16th in the 42-car field at Charlotte Motor Speedway's 1.5-mile tri-oval. He had tried to qualify for the pole Wednesday, but mechanical trouble ended his bid for the $31,000 pole prize.

"I was sick to my stomach because I didn't get the opportunity to get the pole," Bodine said. "You're always prepared to not get it by being beaten at it. You can't be number one all the time, but it does feel awful good when you are."

Bodine had pulled into the pits Wednesday thinking he had tire problems, but his crew later discovered a broken ratchet in the rear differential.

"I knew something was wrong when I left the staging area," he said. "The car started darting to the right. Then when it did it on the warmup lap and I nearly lost it on the first lap. I decided it wasn't my day."

Bodine, who turned in the fastest speed in Tuesday's practice session, said that starting 16th would necessitate few strategy changes.

"You have to be a little more cautious at the start of the race is all," he said. "That's the only disadvantage. There'll probably be a caution 30 to 40 laps into the race and we could get the lead. Victory is what we're really after."

Richard Petty qualified second fastest on the second day, clocking in at 161.021 mph. He'll start in row nine along with Ken Ragan, who posted a speed of 160.835.

"Someone told me to stand on it, and I really went deep in the corners and the car drove good," said Ragan, a rookie from Unadilla, Ga. "For a bunch of green rookies, we done good. After I pulled in, someone told me I near held it flat out all the way around."

Buddy Arrington and Mark Martin earned rowed 10 berths, while row 11 has Kyle Petty and Morgan Shepherd.

Dean Combs and D.K. Ulrich are in row 12 ahead of Tom Gale and Slick Johnson. Ron Bouchard and rookie Bob Senneker are in row 14 with the top 30 qualifiers for Sunday's $478,010 World 600 NASCAR Grand National stock car race with type of car and average speed. Valentine Seeks To Negotiate

WASHINGTON, N.C. (AP) — Former East Carolina University linebacker Zack Valentine should be able to negotiate with any National Football League team, his agent said Wednesday.

Agent Ken Hutcherson said Valentine should not have to wait for NFL teams to contact him. Valentine was in Washington along with his agent to speak before the Washington High School All-Sports Banquet.

After Valentine's contract wasn't renewed with the Philadelphia Eagles this year, Valentine became a free agent, able to talk to United States Football League and Canadian Football League teams, Hutcherson said. But, the NFL management council hasn't allowed free agents to contact other NFL teams.

"We hope that the management council will rule shortly that he (Valentine) can contact other NFL teams," Hutcherson, a former ECU coach, said in an interview Wednesday.

Valentine was drafted by the Pittsburgh Steelers in 1980. In 1981, following a trade to the Baltimore Colts for a No. 2 draft choice, he was released by first-year Coach Frank Kush before he ever wore a Colts' uniform.

In 1982, the Eagles signed Valentine shortly before the NFL players' strike began. When Valentine signed with the Eagles, Hutcherson said the team forgot to eliminate his option clause.

"That was incorrect since players cannot have back-to-back option years," Hutcherson said. "We feel that Zack is a free agent. But that doesn't mean he wants to leave the Eagles."

Defense Helps Philadelphia Top Lakers, 103-93; 76ers Lead 2-0

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A sticky defense that shut off the Los Angeles Lakers for most of the fourth quarter saved the Philadelphia 76ers when Moses Malone, who had saved them many times before, was not around to do the job.

The 76ers beat the Lakers 103-93 Thursday night, rolling to a 2-0 advantage in the best-of-seven National Basketball Association championship series.

Philadelphia held the Lakers to 12 points in the first 11 minutes of the fourth quarter, breaking open a close game to take a 103-90 lead with 23 seconds left.

With Malone on the bench with five fouls, 7-foot-2 Lakers center Kareem Abdul-Jabbar scored 10 of those 12 points and finished with a team-high 23.

"We knew they would go to Kareem Abdul-Jabbar more, because it definitely was a mismatch with me giving up five inches," said Earl Cureton, the 76ers' 6-9 reserve center who was called to fill in for Malone.

"But I've played him before, and I knew my best bet would be to try and get in front of him and deny him the ball."

"We tried to make them beat us from the outside," added Sixers guard Maurice Cheeks. "We got some steals, and good weakside help."

Malone led all scorers with 24 points and hauled down 12 rebounds. Cheeks and Andrew Toney added 19 points apiece for Philadelphia and Julius Erving and Bobby Jones had 14 each.

Jamaal Wilkes scored 17 points for the Lakers while Michael Cooper and Earvin "Magic" Johnson added 12 apiece.

The Lakers held a 55-51 lead at halftime after outbounding Philadelphia 26-17. In the first quarter, Los Angeles got seven rebounds on its own end while the 76ers got just one.

"They were in the right place at the right time," said Cheeks.

"In the second half, we stopped them from getting the offensive rebounds, and we stopped their transition game."

The 76ers also held an advantage at the foul line, where they connected on 23 of 32 shots while the Lakers made only three of five.

Cureton, who became Malone's backup when regular reserve center Clemon Johnson developed an infection earlier in the week, said he was thrilled just to get the playing time. He only scored two points, but they came on a hook shot over Abdul-Jabbar with 4:36 left to give the 76ers a 91-85 lead.

"I'd practiced that shot a lot. I just felt comfortable taking it," he said.

"It was sort of ironic that when Moses got his fifth foul, they opened up the game," Lakers Coach Pat Riley said.

"It wasn't a matter of who were going to in the fourth quarter. You have to give them credit for being aggressive."

"We're going home now," the Lakers coach added. "We have to regroup. And I'll guarantee you this: They won't take our title from us the way they did tonight."

Los Angeles, which beat Philadelphia in the finals in 1980 and last year, wants to become the first NBA team to repeat as champion in 14 years.

Floyd Slams Two In Jamesville Win

JAMESVILLE — Kim Floyd banged two homers to pace Jamesville High School to a 9-5 victory over Currituck in the third round of the State 2-A, 1-A Softball Playoffs yesterday.

Currituck took the early lead in the game with a run in the top of the first. S. Maxwell opened the game with a triple and later scored for the 1-0 margin.

But Floyd quickly put Jamesville back into the lead, slamming a two-run homer in the bottom of the inning.

Jamesville added another run in the second and scored four times in the third for a 7-1 edge.

The Lady Bullets climaxed their scoring in the fifth scoring twice more as Floyd again rapped a two-run round-tripper.

Currituck came back to score four times in the sixth as Jamesville committed six errors during the frame.

Floyd led the Jamesville hitting with three, driving in five runs. Kim Hale added two, one of them a triple. Maxwell had two hits to lead Currituck.

Now 19-0, Jamesville is scheduled to face Dixon in the next round of the tournament. The time and site for that game have yet to be set.

Madison Stuns Gamecocks, 9-4

CHAPEL HILL (AP) — James Madison, spurred by the pitching and hitting of Dennis Knight, beat South Carolina 9-4 in Thursday's first round of the double-elimination NCAA East Regional baseball tournament.

Knight hit a home run in the bottom of the eighth inning, scoring two runs.

South Carolina's Chris Boyle and Phillip Wilson also had home runs.

Heavy showers and thunderstorms forced officials to call off a game between Delaware and The Citadel scheduled for Thursday night and the following game between host North Carolina and William and Mary.

The game between The Citadel and Delaware was rescheduled for 10:45 a.m. today, while South Carolina was scheduled to play the loser of that game at 5:30 p.m.

North Carolina was scheduled to play William and Mary at 2:15 p.m., with the loser playing James Madison at 8:15 p.m.

South Carolina led off the scoring with a run in the second inning, which James Madison quickly matched.

In the third inning, James Madison held South Carolina scoreless and then came back with six runs.

With runners on first, second and third, Jim Nicely scored on an error by Gamecock shortstop Kent Anderson. Catcher Steve Cullers then doubled to score Tony Marant, Knight and Mike Reeves. Two others scored after South Carolina relieved pitcher Gary Parmenter.

It was Parmenter's first loss this year.

South Carolina tried to get back in the game with a two-run homer by catcher Chris Boyle in the sixth and a solo in the seventh, but Knight came back with a two-run homer in the eighth.

Yaz Powers Red Sox Over Toronto, 7-2

By The Associated Press

About the only honor that has eluded Carl Yastrzemski in his 23-year major league career is a world championship. And in his last hurrah, the 43-year-old slugger is finally making his presence felt.

Playing in just his 19th game of what he has said will be his final campaign, Yastrzemski hit his first home run of the season and 43rd of his career Thursday night and Dwight Evans and Jim Rice also homered, powering Boston to a 7-2 victory over Toronto. It gave the Red Sox a one-game lead over the Blue Jays in the American League East.

"I haven't felt better all year," said Yastrzemski, who spent 10 days in traction recently for muscle spasms in his lower back. "Tonight is the best I've felt this season."

In the only other American League games, the Kansas City Royals extended Baltimore's skid to seven games by defeating the Orioles 8-2 and the Texas Rangers beat the Chicago White Sox 3-1.

With a .258 batting average entering the game, only three previous runs batted and a nagging back problem, Yastrzemski's final season seemed destined to be one to forget. But his two-run homer in the second inning gave the Red Sox a 3-0 lead against Toronto ace Dave Stieb and the old warhorse also singled for a 2-for-2 night.

Yastrzemski said he had felt uncomfortable at the plate since his return to the lineup, but a recent chat with Manager Ralph Houk helped solve his dilemma.

"Ralph told me I was too tight, trying too hard."

Yastrzemski said. "He told me to just go up there and relax. I took extra batting practice and I felt super tonight. I just hope to keep it up."

Stieb, 8-3, who had allowed only three runs while winning his last five starts and hadn't surrendered a home run in 80 2-3 innings, lasted only three innings and gave up five runs on five hits. Evans hit a wind-aided, opposite-field homer to right for a 1-0 lead in the first inning and Yastrzemski made it 3-0 in the second after a leadoff walk to Wade Boggs.

~Boston added two runs in the top of the fourth —

Yastrzemski contributed his single — and sent Stieb to his earliest exit of the season. And Rice hit a two-run homer in the sixth.

Boston reliever Bob Stanley entered the game with two out in the fourth after Bob Ojeda walked three consecutive batters following a two-run homer by Cliff Johnson. Stanley went the rest of the way, allowing two hits.

Royals 8, Orioles 2
At Kansas City, Frank White's three-run homer capped a four-run third inning as the Royals extended the Orioles' skid to the longest of the season in the AL. Kansas City's Steve Renko survived a rocky start and scattered six hits through seven innings. Mike Armstrong pitched the final two.

White's blast off loser Mike Boddicker made the score 6-2. Rookie Pat Sheridan started the uprising with a one-out double. With two out, Hal McRae walked and went to second on an RBI single by Amos Otis. White then chased Boddicker with his fourth home run.

"I went up there looking for a breaking ball to hit to right field," White said. "He threw me a fastball away, then a fastball in. I was still looking for a breaking ball and he gave me a fastball in the middle of the plate and I was able to hit it out."

"We have a thing going where we don't know how to get out of it," said Baltimore Manager Joe Altobelli, who didn't have the happiest of 51st birthdays.

Rangers 3, White Sox 1
At Chicago, Rick Honeycutt checked Chicago on two hits over eight innings and Larry Parrish singled home one run and scored another as Texas snapped a four-game losing streak.

Honeycutt gave up a leadoff single to Rudy Law in the first inning and didn't allow another hit until Marc Hill hit his first home run of the season with one out in the eighth. He walked five, struck out three and twice picked off runners attempting to steal.

"They kept hitting 'em to warning track and there was somebody there to catch 'em," said Honeycutt. "I was struggling all the way. Five walks is not my game. I usually don't give up five walks in two or three games. Mechanically, I did not have it together."

The Rangers nicked loser Floyd Bannister for a run in the third inning when Billy Sample led off with a single, stole second and scored on Parrish's two-out single. Texas added two runs in the eighth on singles by Parrish, Pete O'Brien and George Wright and a bases-loaded walk to Bucky Dent.

Moose 13
True Value 4

The Moose won their third straight game yesterday as they romped to a 13-4 Tar Heel Little League victory over True Value Hardware.

The Moose pushed ahead in the second inning, scoring twice, while True Value came up with one in the top of the third.

In the bottom of the third, the Moose scored three more times to put the game out of True Value's reach. Chris Christopher led off with a single and moved up on an error. After taking third on a wild pitch, he scored on a sacrifice fly by Wes Jackson.

Darin Bullock kept the rally going with a single and Allen Speight doubled him to third. An error on the relay allowed Bullock to score and moved Speight to third. He scored from there on a passed ball.

The Moose went on to add seven more in the fourth, and one more in the fifth. True Value scored one in the fourth and two in the fifth on an Eric Daniels' home run.

Andy Everett and Christopher each had two hits for the Moose, while no one had more than one for True Value, which got only three off Everett's pitching.

The North State Little League game, between the Optimists and Coca-Cola was rained out and rescheduled for Sunday afternoon at 2 p.m. at Elm Street Park.

WINTERVILLE — Terry Williams slammed a double and a home run to lead a 15-run first inning rally as Thompson Insurance blasted Sunshine Garden Center 24-8 in Winterville Little League baseball Thursday.

Williams led Thompson with three hits on the night, while no one had more than one hit for Sunshine. Robbie Nichols went the distance on the mound to record the win for Thompson.

Thompson picked up four runs in the second and three in the third, before Sunshine managed six in the bottom of the third.

Both teams notched a pair of runs in the fourth.

Laskey Sees Red As He Pitches San Francisco Past Dodgers, 5-3

By The Associated Press

"Dodger Blue" makes Bill Laskey see red.

"It really pumps me up," says the San Francisco pitcher of the Giants' rivalry with the Los Angeles Dodgers.

The adrenaline was obviously flowing for Laskey Thursday night when he helped the Giants beat their intrastate California foes 5-3 for his sixth straight victory.

"I really didn't learn about this rivalry until last year, when I beat Fernando Valenzuela, and then I saw how our guys and the fans reacted," said Laskey, 6-4, who pitched into the eighth inning before needing relief help from Greg Minton.

Jeff Leonard slugged two home runs and Jack Clark added a solo shot to power the Giants to their sixth straight victory in Los Angeles. The loss snapped the Dodgers' four-game winning streak.

In other National League action, it was Pittsburgh 6, Cincinnati 4; Chicago 5, Atlanta 1 and St. Louis 5, Houston 3. Rain washed out the Philadelphia-Montreal game.

Leonard hit a two-run homer in the second inning, then belted a solo shot in the fourth. Jack Clark also walloped a home run for the Giants to offset a two-homer night for Los Angeles' Rick Monday.

Both of Leonard's homers came off Dodger starter Jerry Reuss, 5-3.

"He's tough, usually he breaks my bat," Leonard said of Reuss.

Pirates 6, Reds 4

Mike Easler drove in three runs with a sacrifice fly and two-run homer to lead Pittsburgh over Cincinnati.

Easler's sacrifice fly drove in the second run in a four-run rally in the fourth inning that gave Pittsburgh a 4-1 lead. In the sixth, Easler's homer made it 6-1 and provided the Pirates with their eventual winning runs.

Lee Tunnell, 1-1, pitched 5 1-3 innings to gain the victory. Two relievers finished up, including Kent Tekulve, who recorded his second save.

"I feel we're about to yell," Easler said. "What we've been in, you can't call it a slump. We're just not getting the hits with men on base. I feel it's starting to come. I think we've had our rough time."

The slow-starting Pirates had a 15-21 record before Thursday night's game.

Cubs 5, Braves 1

Bill Buckner hit a two-run double and Jay Johnstone slugged a homer as Chicago defeated Atlanta behind the combined pitching of Paul Moskau and Bill Campbell.

Moskau, 3-2, scattered nine hits, walked one and fanned five before needing Campbell's relief help in the eighth, when the Braves scored on a triple by Brett Butler and a single by Rafael Ramirez.

Buckner's double came after consecutive two-out singles by Ryne Sandberg and Larry Bowa in the seventh inning. Johnstone belted his second homer of the season in the eighth, giving the Cubs a 5-0 lead at that point.

"Everybody's got a different idea about what you're doing wrong, and I've been listening to all of them," said Buckner, who had entered the game with only a .228 batting average.

Buckner said he was using teammate Ron Cey's bat during the game and now has five hits in seven trips with it.

Cardinals 5, Astros 3

George Hendrick's three-run double keyed a four-run first inning that triggered St. Louis over Houston.

Tom Herr opened the game with a walk, took second on Ken Oberkell's single and went to third as Lonnie Smith hit into a forceout. Keith Hernandez was intentionally walked to load the bases before Hendrick stroked a two-bagger to left-center field to make it 3-0.

Willie McGee followed with a double off loser Mike LaCoss, 3-4, to give the Cardinals a 4-0 lead and their eventual winning run.

Dave Von Ohlen, who relieved starter Bob Forsch in the third, gained the win in his first decision of the year. Von Ohlen pitched 5 1-3 innings and gave up three hits before getting relief help himself from Bruce Sutter, who picked up his fourth save.

Rookies Flourish At Indianapolis After Decade Of Few Newcomers

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — In the 1970s, 47 rookies made it into the Indianapolis 500. In the 1980s — only four years — 35 have made it.

But this new generation is not just new faces. It's a new breed — faster, better educated and, some say, less skillful.

Certainly, they've traveled a different road to the 2½-mile Indianapolis Motor Speedway.

Six rookies have qualified for Sunday's 67th Indy 500. Al Unser Jr., the son of a three-time Indy 500 winner, is the youngest at 21 and Pat Bedard, a veteran racing journalist, is the oldest at 41.

Of the six, Chris Kneifel wants to play professional basketball, while former drivers Derek Daly and Teo Fabi arrived as experienced road racers. Only 38-year-old Steve Chassey took the traditional path through sprint and midget car races.

Nineteen of the 33 drivers in this year's field weren't here as recently as four years ago. Four are from last year's group of nine rookie qualifiers and six are left over from the 10-rookie crop in 1981.

The newcomers hope to become the men who will replace the likes of Bobby Unser, Al Unser, A.J. Foyt, Gordon Johncock, Mario Andretti and Johnny Rutherford — men who dominated the sport until Rick Mears joined them in 1978.

Those seven drivers have won every Indy since 1967, with the exception of 1972 when the late Mark Donohue made the coveted trip to Victory Lane. Bobby Unser is retired. Rutherford spent more time in the hospital this month than he did on the track after crashing twice during practice, while Foyt, 48, is prepared to add more statistics to his collection of records as he starts an unparalleled 26th race.

Age has caught up with names like Lloyd Ruby, Joe Leonard, Roger McCluskey, Jim McElreath and Wally Dallenbach, while Bob Harkey's dream of another Indianapolis start at age 52 ended when he was seriously injured in practice this year.

Those veterans moved to Indianapolis after experiencing the hazards of dirt racing, with grease under their fingernails and a wrench in their hands — learning as they went what will work on a car.

Drivers like Chet Phillip, Bobby Rahal, Howdy Holmes and Tom Sneva arrived with college degrees. Other had to sell themselves to sponsors before they could get into a race car.

'Big Bird' Will Bring Chinese Culture To U.S. TV

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—First there was pingpong diplomacy, then President Nixon swapped toasts with the Chinese. On Sunday night, Big Bird from "Sesame Street," possibly our best ambassador, opens China to American television again with a 90-minute special on NBC.

"Big Bird in China," part treasure hunt and part travelogue, is the first Chinese-American co-production for family viewing. In the story, Big Bird, played by Carroll Spinney, searches through some of China's most picturesque scenery and historic sites for the legendary Chinese bird, the Phoenix.

Anything involving the 8-foot yellow canary, Big Bird, is bound to enthrall young viewers. But, for adults, the humor and story line aren't up to the high standards of "Sesame Street" or "The Muppets."

The older set, though, will enjoy some spectacular photography and the tour of China's most famous landmarks, including the Great Wall, the Temple of Heaven and the Ming Tombs. They also will marvel at Big Bird's companion, Barkley the sheepdog, whose alter-ego, Brian Muehl, is a master at making his movements resemble a dog's rhythmic four-legged gait.

Playing a character on all fours inside a 35-pound costume is physically demanding, especially when he's bounding up the Great Wall of China. As preparation, Muehl underwent an arduous regimen of weightlifting and swimming to strengthen his upper body.

Once in China, Muehl encountered another problem. Chinese children of all ages delighted in pulling Barkley's tail, a situation which was corrected when the program's 6-year-old Chinese tour guide, Ouyang Lien-tze, taught Muehl how to say, "Don't pull my tail," in Chinese.

Lien-tze, who was chosen by director-writer-producer Jon Stone from among 100 contenders, is a sparkling discovery. Stone picked her because of the youngster's talent for mimicking English, and for her cheerful face and personality. She doesn't speak English, but memorized her 64 lines by listening to a tape.

The most captivating thing about "Big Bird in China" is Lien-tze's smile. It really speaks the universal language.

When terrorists use violent forms of blackmail to achieve their aims, they generally don't receive a lot of sympathy. In ABC's Monday night movie, "Ghost Dancing," the extremist is an idealistic old lady, and viewers probably will admire her most of the time.

Dorothy McGuire breathes fire and crazed determination into the role of Sarah Bowman, a widowed farm owner whose land is wasting away because its water supply has been usurped by a developing city.

Mrs. Bowman is the kind of character who may seem foreign to many viewers. Her commitment to a cause is so fierce that she jeopardizes everything for it. When bureaucratic red tape and environmental hearings don't get her water restored, she dynamites the local reservoir to dramatize her plight.

The local authorities are stuck between flying rocks and a hard place because a trial will only publicize Mrs. Bowman's cause, and put the water department in the villain's role. As the water department's chief engineer, Bo Hopkins gives such a sensitive performance that the standard black-and-white depiction of Big Government vs. Little Environmentalist becomes blurred.

Mrs. Bowman won't listen to reason, nor make any accommodation with progress. She may have principle on her side, but she also is living in the past. As her Indian friend (Bill Erwin) tells her: "Those times are gone... I remember the past. I don't try to bring it back."

Ghost dancing, the Indian says, characterizes the fantasy of Indians regaining their land, and it symbolizes Mrs. Bowman's battle. The moral questions here are provocative, particularly in an age when power companies and environmentalists often are at odds.

In fact, the movie reportedly was to be filmed near Los Angeles, but that city's Department of Water and Power objected to the script, and the production was moved to St. George, Utah.

"Ghost Dancing," written by Phil Pennigroth, is this year's "ABC Theatre" presentation.

Facts About The BIBLE

BY JOHN LEHTI

SWIFT RETRIBUTION

ACTION WAS SWIFT WHEN A WRONG HAD BEEN COMMITTED AMONG THE ANCIENT INHABITANTS OF WHAT IS TERMED "THE BIBLE LANDS." THE IMMEDIACY, AND THE AVENGING BEHAVIOR WAS SOMETIMES RASH AND SOMETIMES A FAR CRY FROM JUSTICE. TAKE THE CASE OF DINAH, JACOB'S DAUGHTER BY HIS WIFE LEAH, WHOM SHECHEM, A PRINCE OF THE HIVITES, LOVED AND SEDUCED AND THEN OFFERED MARRIAGE. ANGRILY, JACOB REFUSED TO PERMIT THE MARRIAGE BECAUSE SHE HAD BEEN DEFILED. THE RESULTING CATASTROPHE (GENESIS CHAPTER 34) ENDED IN THE SLAYING OF SHECHEM, HIS FATHER HAMOR, AND ALL THE MALES OF THE CITY OF SHALEM. HARSH TREATMENT, INDEED! EQUALLY AS HARSH WOULD HAVE BEEN DAVID'S RESPONSE TO NABAL, THE WEALTHY SHEEP OWNER, WHEN HE REFUSED TO FEED DAVID AND HIS MEN AFTER THEY HAD PROTECTED HIS SHEEP FOR A LONG PERIOD OF TIME (I SAMUEL CHAPTER 25). DAVID, WITH A CONTINGENT OF HIS MEN, WAS RAPIDLY DESCENDING ON NABAL'S DOMICILE WITH THE EXPRESS PURPOSE OF WIPING HIM OUT, WHEN ABIGAIL, WIFE OF NABAL, INTERCEDED BY DELIVERING THE FOODSTUFF TO THE INDIGNANT AND RUTHLESS MEN. HOWEVER, NABAL'S OWN FEARS DID WHAT DAVID'S MEN PROPOSED TO DO--HE DROPPED DEAD OF FRIGHT! OF COURSE NOT ALL RETRIBUTION WAS AS HASTY AND HARSH AS THIS---CONSIDER THE WISE AND JUST ACTIONS OF MEN LIKE SOLOMON AND JOSEPH!

Murray Changes Outlook On Life

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

When William J. Murray was an atheist and part of the battling campaigns against religion by his mother, Madalyn Murray O'Hair, he says "it was a life of misery."

"I was in bad shape," he adds. "It nearly destroyed me."

His outlook now is drastically changed and he has become a dedicated advocate of Christian faith, but looking back on his anti-God time, he said in an interview:

"It left me with no sense of purpose, like a flea on a dog's back. Nothing made any difference, no matter what you did... There were no rules, no absolutes of right and wrong, no order in the universe, no meaning to life."

"I couldn't handle the negativism."

While committed atheists see it differently and maintain their view is liberating and satisfying, Murray's experience is a particularly dramatic one of public interest because of his role in setting a U.S. policy on religion.

As a Baltimore school teen-ager, he was plaintiff of record in his mother's lawsuit that gained the 1963 U.S. Supreme Court decision banning group prayer and Bible reading in public schools.

"It was terribly wrong," he said. "I played a part in outlawing freedom of religious expression, and now I'd like to play a part in bringing religion back in our society."

Now a Baptist and head of the William J. Murray Faith Foundation of Garland, Texas, Murray's evangelistic efforts are directed mainly toward agnostics and atheists whose viewpoint he once shared.

"My goal, in a limited human perspective, is to serve God by serving others," he said. "There's joy in serving. I know now my life has purpose in a greater reality than myself."

Murray, 35, spends considerable time lecturing, financing his foundation mostly through such appearances and sale of literature and tapes. His book, "My Life Without God," published by Thomas Nelson Publishers of Nashville, has passed the 100,000 mark.

The anti-God life, he said, was one of "constant conflict and inner chaos. It's a philosophy of dog-eat-dog, survival of the fittest. There's no universal moral code, no Ten Commandments."

"Everybody sets their own rules and tries to impose their own will. That's what causes the conflict. It was sheer narcissism and self-gratification. The devout atheist is really playing God. You've got to have a lot of faith to believe there's nothing greater than yourself."

For him, he said, it was increasingly "self-destructive. I drank heavily and took a lot of tranquilizers. The years I worked at the atheist center nearly destroyed me. By the time I left in 1977 I knew there was a God."

But his deeper conversion didn't come until 1980, he said, sparked initially by attending Alcoholics Anonymous meetings where prayer and dependence on a "higher power" are part of the program.

He said he was helped in his new outlook by numerous people but he credits studying the Bible "for at least 75 percent" of his change of heart.

FOCUS

"The Big Seven"

Tomorrow the leaders of the U.S., Canada, Britain, Italy, West Germany, France, and Japan are scheduled to meet in Williamsburg, Virginia for their annual Economic Summit Conference. Despite the economic recovery, the "Big Seven" economic leaders still face serious problems. For the second year in a row, trade among them has declined. The U.S. trade deficit alone is more than $40 billion. In addition, about 35 million citizens of these seven nations are unemployed, and some countries, like Canada, still have double-digit inflation. Leaders at the conference are expected to discuss ways of encouraging economic recovery without resorting to protectionism on the part of individual nations.

DO YOU KNOW—Which of the "Big Seven" nations is our largest trading partner?
THURSDAY'S ANSWER—Mt. McKinley in Alaska is the highest point in the U.S.
