City Summer School Plans Approved

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

Recommendations for the operation of a summer school program in the Greenville schools were approved Monday night by members of the city Board of Education. Under terms of the recommendations, teachers contracted for the six weeks of summer school in two three-week sessions will be paid a salary of $1,200 for the period regardless of seniority or level of certification.

The first session is to begin June 20 and end July 8, with the second session to begin July 11 and end July 29. Registration is from June 7-19, with a late registration date of June 20-22.

Tuitions set for students are: Greenville students — $80 for both sessions, $50 for one session; Out-of-district students — $90 for both sessions, $60 for one session.

A $20 deposit, non-refundable if the desired course is offered, is required, with payment in full by June 19. A fee of $10 will be charged during the late registration period.

Summer school will begin at 8 a.m. daily and end at 1 p.m. and will be held at Rose High School. Any course taught in regular session will be offered, subject to enrollment. Course credit is the same as for regular school sessions.

Lunch will not be served, nor transportation provided for the summer school.

Other agenda items approved at Monday's informational meeting were:

•The addition of elective curricular offerings at E.B. Aycock Junior High. One is an introduction to computers course. Another is a standard first aid, personal safety and CPR course, and a third is a course that combines modern dance, dance simnastics and tumbling. Justifying the latter course, Aycock Principal Kay Whitehurst said this elective has been designed for students who need physical exercise but who do not have the opportunity to participate in team sports.

•The adoption of a small size 12-manifold report card for use at Greenville Middle School to replace the one copy cardboard report card currently in use.

•A recommendation for the nomination of six area-based businesses for the Statewide Business Awards Program. The six nominated are: IBM, Eaton Corp., Burroughs Wellcome Co., Wachovia Bank, TRW and Cable TV.

•Adoption of Plan B outlined in a recommended Magnet Program designed to achieve three purposes — to bring about and maintain the racial percentage within equal proportion between the K-3 schools, to retain the present K-3 population, and to attract back into public school children presently being served in private schools. To achieve these goals, the program will be based on several provisions. Three of these are: to establish a gifted pilot program in the two K-3 schools with the highest minority population, with plans to extend the program into all K-3 schools after two years, establish a Gifted Enrichment Committee to provide activities for all children attending all K-3 schools and establish an Enrichment Center in the two pilot schools.

Guidelines call for opening enrollment in the program to students not presently attending Greenville schools regardless of residence, and accept inter-school transfers from

Additional Spending Plan Is Unveiled

By MARY ANNE RHYNE
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) —

Legislative leaders today passed out a plan for additional spending in the 1983-85 biennium which includes about $27 million for matching federal highway funds and $86 million for University of North Carolina building projects.

Last week, Rep. William Watkins, D-Granville, said the expanded requests would total $238.4 million.

Lists of the additional spending proposals were given to House-Senate Appropriations Subcommittee, which already have considered ways to spend money on continuing operations. The proposals deal with expanding programs or starting new projects.

Meanwhile, House and Senate Finance Committee leaders are looking for ways to pay for the additional spending plans. A group of House members met privately this morning to come up with a plan which is expected to include a higher sales tax ceiling on new cars. The group was keeping details of the plan secret.

Sen. Marshall Rauch, D-Gaston, co-chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, said he has given House leaders four plans for raising $204 million a year and is awaiting their reaction. He said the various plans would raise the sales tax ceiling on new cars, tax used car sales and raise the tax on alcoholic beverages.

Among the spending items proposed today were:

— $19.8 million in 1983-84 and $6.8 million in 1984-85 for money to match federal highway funds.

— $28.5 million and $11 million for resurfacing, repaving and construction of new roads.

— $4.5 million each year for the driver education program.

— $1 million and $1.6 million for a vocational education program suggested by Lt. Gov. Jimmy Green.

— $2.2 and $2.1 million for duty-free lunch periods for teachers.

— $3.8 million a year for community college equipment purchases.

— $7.7 million and $11.9 million for increasing community college enrollment.

— $2.4 million a year to increase the grant to private colleges by $100 per student.

— $52.6 million and $33.3 million for UNC system capital projects.

— $3 million and $4.8 million for indigent defense.

— $5 million a year as a reserve to phase out McCain Hospital in Hoke County as a tuberculosis hospital and conversion to a prison hospital by November.

— $15 million and $45 million as a reserve for repairs and renovations to buildings.

ECU Announces Reorganization Plans

ECU News Bureau

East Carolina University announced today a reorganization of the administrative and policy-making governance structure of its teacher education programs.

University officials said the action is expected to meet and fully comply with the organizational criteria of state and national accrediting agencies.

Citing a lack of centralized authority over the teacher education programs throughout the university, visitation teams from the National Council For Accreditation of Teacher Education and the North Carolina Department of Public Instruction made recommendations which resulted in NCATE denial of accreditation effective Sept. 1. The State Board of Education approved provisional accreditation and, in effect, called for a structural reorganization.

The changes announced today will place centralized authority and oversight responsibility for nearly 40 ECU teacher education programs with the dean of the school of education and create a new university-wide Council for Teacher Education.

Details of the reorganization were presented to the Faculty Senate for endorsement at a special meeting Tuesday afternoon.

In a formal announcement, ECU Chancellor John M. Howell said, "Today we have completed an administrative and policy-making organization that we confidently expect the teacher education accrediting bodies will find acceptable. A large number of people, under the leadership of Vice Chancellor Angelo Volpe and acting Dean of Education Charles Coble, have been in the process of responding to accrediting body reservations since last fall.

"As we have pointed out before, the major criticism reflected the preference of those bodies for more centralized control in the hands of the dean of education than was the case at ECU at the time of the visit. The document that we have approved today vests more administrative power in the office of the dean of the school of education by assigning him the university-wide function of director of teacher education and establishes a new Council on Teacher Education to assist and advise the dean in a wide variety of educational matters.

"I am particularly pleased with the manner in which this new organization has been accomplished. The cooperative spirit in which faculty and administrators, not only in teacher education

Bell Arthur Fire Department Asking For Financial Support

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

The Pitt County Board of Commissioners Monday was asked for assistance in establishing a fire district tax to help support the Bell Arthur Fire Department.

Spokesman Sparky McCaskill, who said the department has been "self supporting in the past," said any future capital outlay projects are "beyond hope" in the future, due to inflation. He said it is "imperative in the near future" that the department purchase a new fire truck, estimated to cost $54,000, if service in the area is to be maintained.

"We have chosen not to get involved in FHA or other long-term government loans," the spokesman said, and "are asking your assistance" to "set up and call for a referendum for our district."

McCaskill said, "We feel like we have reached the point that we can't sustain ourselves."

Commissioners told McCaskill they would study the request and see what can be done.

New legislation adopted by the N.C. General Assembly in May requires 35 percent of the property owners in the proposed district sign a petition requesting the referendum. The new law takes effect at the end of this month.

The old legislation required that only 15 percent of the property owners request the vote.

In other business Monday, commissioners approved applications for $39,220 in federal funds, to be matched with $4,358 in local in-kind services, to renovate the first floor of the old nurse residence home behind the county office built for a senior citizens center, and a Small Business Administration parks and recreation area development grant to do landscaping and rehabilitation work on recreation areas established by the Community Schools program.

The board also approved the sale of more than 300 items of surplus equipment, including several mobile homes, on June 25. The auction will be held at the county home property near Bell's Fork.

Commissioners reappointed Josephine Reaves of Ayden, Dr. James Bailey of Greenville, Sam Hobgood of Farmville and Pattie Leary of Vanceboro (in Pitt County) as members of the TRIBUTE TO "MISS SALLY" ... Charles Ross, director of education for Greenville's school system, reads a poem in tribute to the late Sally Klingenschmitt to one of "Miss Sally's" nieces, Ann Duffus. The poem, with decorations by Kay Whitehurst, was one of several tributes paid to Mrs. Klingenschmitt for the work she did in nature therapy for students at Aycock Junior High.

Eight Teachers Honored After Lengthy Service

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

Recognition for long service to education and for dedicated achievement in a nature project was given at Monday night's meeting of the Greenville Board of Education.

Eight teachers who are retiring this year, with service ranging from 21 years to 31 years, including a husband-wife teaching duo, were presented certificates of appreciation by school board chairman Jack Wall.

Teachers honored and the number of years they have taught are:

- Mavis Alder, 26 years.
- Catherine Byrd, 30 years.
- Anna Cartner, 31 years.
- Margaret Hadden, 21 years.
- Robert G. Jones, 30 years.
- Nancy Walters, 21 years.

•Mildred (Mickey) West, 30 years.

•Claude (Kip) West, 30 years.

Several joined in recognition and praise for the late Mrs. Sally Klingenschmitt, a former teacher who initiated the garden therapy plant program which won a $500 Sears Award for the garden-courtyard project at E.B. Aycock Junior High School. Those paying tribute noted she was affectionally known as "Miss Sally."

Aycock Principal Kay Whitehurst said the school "is fortunate to be able to continue to move along with this activity, and we've now gotten to the point where garden club members are putting in new plants in the courtyard, reconfirming the commitment first made by

Operating Budgets Set By Housing Authority

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer

Operating budgets for fiscal year 1984 were approved Monday night by the Housing Authority for the agency's conventional low-rent housing and for the University Towers mid-rise development for the elderly.

The authority, which will submit the financial packages to the Department of Housing and Urban Development for review, adopted budgets of some $1.5 million for the conventional housing segment and $320,000 for University Towers.

Ken Noland, director of operations, said the conventional budget for the 702 housing units projects an increase of approximately 3 percent in operating income and a 13 percent reduction in operating expenses. The only major increase involves utilities and, based on estimates by Greenville Utilities Commission, a 9 percent increase is expected over the current fiscal year. The new budget, which also provides for one step merit increases for employees, projects a surplus of $16,000 for the authority's reserve funds.

The University Towers package projects an increase in income of approximately 8 percent and a 6 percent jump in operating expenditures, due primarily to the expected rise in utilities. The budget includes funds for replacing carpets in the hallways and common areas with vinyl flooring. The projected surplus of some $20,000 would be turned over to the project's trustee for investment.

Two changes were approved for the authority's admission policy. The current policy's definition of a family provides deductions for foster children as dependents although their income is not charged in figuring family income. The policy was changed to eliminate the double deduction for foster children. Commissioners also changed the policy to reduce the number of times a prospect at the top of the housing waiting list may refuse an available unit, from three to one. The change is aimed at speeding up the waiting process.

Noland said the staff has narrowed the list of pro-

Reader Has Telephone Suggestion

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1983 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: "Been Through the Ring" complains because concerned friends telephone constantly to inquire about the condition of a seriously ill family member. Because I have also been through the ring, I offer this solution.

Rent, borrow or buy a telephone answering machine. Record your message on the tape. It should be brief. Example: "I'm condition is unchanged, and we are still greatly concerned. No visitors at this time. When we hear from the doctor, we will update this message. Please leave your name and phone number so we will know that you cared enough to call. We'll get back to you as soon as possible. Thank you for understanding why we are not taking personal calls at this time."

Abby, you'll probably get a thousand letters with this same suggestion, but by publishing just one, you could lighten the burden of thousands of exhausted people.

SMARTER NOW

DEAR SMARTER: Thanks for a helpful suggestion.

DEAR ABBY: "Empty Mailbox in Yorba Linda" enlisted your help to get sons and daughters who are far from home in the military service to write home. All the parents wanted was an occasional note assuring them that their children were alive and well.

Your "To Whom It May Concern" message, addressed to those in the military, was fine, but I submit some additional advice.

Parents not receiving mail from their sons or daughters in the military may write to the command-chaplain or commanding officer at the military member's address. The chaplain will "officially" counsel the serviceman or woman regarding family responsibilities and encourage him/her to write the parents. The commanding officer will "officially" counsel the member and "strongly" encourage family correspondence.

Writing these officers will not result in any trouble for the service member, unless he or she persistently refuses to follow the counsel given.

A CHAPLAIN IN OKINAWA

DEAR CHAPLAIN: I cannot imagine a more effective way to "encourage" our men and women in the military to write home. One "official" counseling session with the commanding officer should be sufficient.

Now let's hear it from a chaplain in Korea:

DEAR ABBY: I sympathize with "Empty Mailbox in Yorba Linda," but what's wrong with the parents? Abby, soldiers have told me that their parents didn't even send them a Christmas card, but their pen pals came through!

Tell Mom and Dad that their child away from home needs their letters even though the young men and women in the service don't write home much. Being away from home is a new experience for most of them. Their days are often boring and monotonous, there isn't much to write about because they've said it all in the previous letter.

I've had many soldiers tell me they hate to write home because they're trying hard to act grown up, and they don't want to depress their parents by telling them they feel homesick and blue, so they just don't write at all.

So, have a heart, you folks at home, and write anyway.

Miss Carraway, Mr. Butler Are Married

WALSTONBURG — Mary Beth Carraway of Snow Hill and Thomas Peter Butler of Greenville were united in marriage May 28 at ten o'clock in the Free Union Free Will Baptist Church here. The Rev. Calvin Heath officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tommie Carraway of Snow Hill. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Thomas P. Butler Jr. of Greenville.

The bride was escorted by her father. She wore a formal gown of white French chantilly lace over peau de soie designed with a Queen Anne neckline outlined in beaded silk Venice lace. French chantilly lace fashioned the full bishop sleeves. Matching lace enhanced the fitted bodice. The full circular skirt and attached chapel length train were overlaid in French chantilly lace. She wore a bridal hat overlaid in silk Venice lace accented with fingertip illusion. She carried white daisies and roses with baby's breath.

Serving as her sister's matron of honor was Wanda Walston of Stantonsburg. Bridesmaids were Elizabeth Butler and Dora Butler, both sisters of the bridegroom from Greenville, and Tammy Edwards of Ayden.

Herbert Oliver Jr. of Greenville was best man. Ushers were Vance Walston of Stantonsburg, brother-in-law of the bride, Mike Jaboni of Greenville and Dave Winkler of Boone.

A reception with a cake-cutting was held in the fellowship hall of the church immediately following the ceremony.

A rehearsal dinner given by the parents of the bridegroom was held in the church fellowship hall.

The bride and the bridegroom are both graduates of North Carolina State University with bachelor of science degrees in mechanical engineering.

The bride is an associate engineer at Singer Link. The bridegroom is employed as an associate engineer at McDonnell Douglas.

After a wedding trip to Bogue, the couple will reside in Houston, Tex.

MORNING COFFEE
Pecan Cookies & Coffee
PECAN COOKIES

We used a cocoa mix that does not have artificial ingredients.

1/2 pound stick (1/2 cup) butter, room temperature or cut in 8 pats

1/2 cup sugar

1/2 cup milk-chocolate flavor cocoa mix (from a 14-ounce can)

1 large egg

1 cup all-purpose flour

1/2 cup (about) chopped (medium-fine) pecans

Thoroughly beat together until blended butter, sugar, cocoa mix and egg. Add flour and stir until blended. Chill, tightly covered, until firm enough to handle.

Using a level tablespoon for each, shape into balls. Roll, pressing slightly, in pecans. Bake 2 inches apart, on ungreased cookie sheets in a preheated 375-degree oven until slightly browned around edges — 10 to 12 minutes. With a wide metal spatula remove to wire racks to cool completely. Makes 2 1/2 dozen. For softest texture, serve cookies the day they are baked.

Scholarships Are Awarded

Alpha Nu Chapter of Alpha Delta Kappa has awarded two scholarships to Pitt County students this year.

Named were Janet Beatrice Little of D.H. Conley High School and Rebecca Faye Godley of Farmville Central High School.

They were recommended by the scholarship committee and selected by sorority members.

Miss Little is the daughter of W.C. and Beatrice Little of Route 1, Winterville and plans to enter the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. Miss Godley is the daughter of Ms. Lois Godley of Route 2, Farmville, and the late William Thomas Godley. She plans to attend Free Will Baptist College in Nashville, Tenn.

Pat's Pointers

By Pat Trexler

The biggest news in sweatering for '83 is the twin sweater set, pairing a cardigan with a sleeveless or short sleeve shell. The knitted set featured today is a real season spanner, perfect for outdoors on mild days and for indoors in mid-winter. Multiple strands of Flere Troder yarn give you quick knitting properties without bulk or heaviness.

Easy-to-follow directions are written for small (8-10), medium (12-14) and large (16-18). Information on use of an alternate yarn type is given in case you are unable to find the Flere Troder yarn.

To obtain directions for making the twin sweater set, send your request for Leaflet No. KL-60583 with $1 and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to: Pat Trexler ("The Daily Reflector"), P.O. Box 810, North Myrtle Beach, S.C. 29597.

Or you may order Kit No. KK-60583, containing Flere Troder yarns, by sending a check or money order for $19.50 for small and medium sizes or $24 for large size to Pat Trexler at the same address. Please specify your choice of blue, lavender, green, beige, peach or pink. A complementary darker tone for the trim is included.

Here's a great picot trim for knitted items — worked on your bind off row. Step 1: Bind off 1 stitch. Step 2: Slip the last stitch from the right-hand needle back on to the left needle. Step 3: Cast on 2 stitches. Step 4: Bind off 4 stitches. Repeat Steps 2 through 4 to end of row.

Then, many knit items take on a special air when finished with bias trims. These can be made either single or double.

For a single bias piece, cast on any number of stitches — the number to be determined by the desired width. To practice, cast on about 10 stitches.

Purl the first row. Knit the second row, increasing one in the first stitch and decreasing one at the end of the row by knitting 2 stitches together. Repeat these two rows for the desired length.

Although the double bias is not quite so simple, I think most of you will prefer it. This, by the way, is different from any double bias I have ever seen and is, in my opinion, an improvement over others I have used. As so often happens, I discovered this by accident, while experimenting with double decreases.

Dr. Charles Best, the co-discoverer of insulin for the treatment of diabetes, died in 1978. He was 79.

The Recreation and Parks Department summer program schedule is ready! Brochures may be picked up at any Recreation and Parks facility. For more information, call 752-4137, Ext. 202.

TWIN SWEATER SET...can be knitted with Flere Troder yarn for quick knitting without bulk or heaviness.

To make the double decrease used in this trim, you slip 2 stitches from the left needle to the right needle in this way: Insert right needle into the first 2 stitches on the left needle as if you were going to knit two together, but instead of knitting them together, simply pass them from left to right needle. Next, knit 1 stitch as usual and then pass the slipped stitches over the stitch you have just knitted.

To practice the double bias trim, cast on 11 stitches and purl all stitches on the first row. On the second row, increase one in the first stitch, and knit the next 3 stitches. Then on the next 3 stitches, make the double decrease described above.

After the slipped stitches are passed over the knit stitch, knit the next 3 stitches and increase one in the last stitch. Repeat these two rows until the piece is the desired length.

You will see that there is a well defined fold at the center of the strip and that the two ends can easily be mitered for a neat joining.

Act Of Troublemakers

Instigators of that "class action" suit against the Army, seeking reinstatement of all soldiers who flunked their marijuana test, are just troublemakers.

They're not doing the ex-soldiers any favor (they wilfully violated a big no-no), and it's no favor to the public at large, which takes a very dim view of a pot-head entrusted with deadly weaponry or in a position where dependability, clear thinking and quick, reliable reflexes are all-important.

For more than a year the armed services have been weeding out the incompetent, the unstable personalities, the malcontents and undependable. Combined, they pose a very risky and expensive element for the public to support; the military branches want to be rid of them, too. Any employer would.

The urinalysis process for determining those who use marijuana was a long time in coming. The procedure is neither inexpensive nor quick. It leaves little room for error.

Joining the armed services is voluntary. One does not have the "right" to be accepted, nor a "right" to remain as long as he or she wishes. Service can be terminated with flagrant disregard of any number of common-sense rules.

That's the way it is.

When Action Is Needed

You just have to have a feeling of sympathy for the commissioners out in Polk County. The board, faced with a new fiscal year starting July 1, has proposed a 46 percent tax increase for the foothills county.

It's not a fickle decision. Polk has run out of funds for the current fiscal year and has no emergency funds on hand. Henry Hunsinger, who was sworn last December as chairman of the Polk board, says he isn't worried about another term as a commissioner but he is worried about the quality of the county, especially its schools. "When I leave here, I want to leave this county in the best shape as I can," Hunsinger explained.

The proposed increase would be the largest in the county's history and one of the largest in North Carolina's history. Most of the new revenue would be used to increase county funding to the public schools by 76 percent. Polk students last year had the lowest competency test scores in the region.

No one wants to see anyone else taxed, but you have to find admiration for a political board that has decided something must be done — and agreed to do it.

Misery Index

NEW YORK (AP) — Though catchingly named, widely understood and often referred to by presidential candidates, the misery index has never achieved status as an official economic indicator.

It isn't likely to do so either, at least in its present form, because it is incomplete. To be sure, it measures a considerable amount of misery, but it falls short of measuring most of it.

There is, that is, a lot more to misery measurements than the rates of inflation and unemployment, which the index combines. There are taxes, for example, and interest rates. Lamentably, the index fails to include them.

In spite of this failing, its very simplicity dictates that it be used, a dictate observed by candidate Jimmy Carter in defeating President Gerald Ford, and by candidate Ronald Reagan in unseating President Carter.

And now that it is falling again, from a high of 20.1 in November 1980 — made up of 7.5 percent unemployment and a 12.6 percent rise in the consumer price index — there are indications Reagan will use it again.

He will be cautious in doing so, however, because the index is easily dissected to show a double digit rate of unemployment, offset by the lowest inflation rates since the 1960s. A year-over-year rise of 3.7 percent in the inflation rates is impressive, but a 10.1 percent jobless rate is not.

Neither is the level of the index impressive.

If you go back to the late 1950s and early 1960s you can find single-digit misery indexes. In 1962, for example, when the index was only 6.6, made up of 5.5 percent unemployment and a 1.1 percent rise in the consumer price index.

But all this tells only part of the story, only part of the dramatic rise in misery. If you add in taxes and interest rates, both of which have risen sharply in recent years, you can feel how thick the misery is.

Consider this: The annual tax index has risen for 24 straight years. Yes, in spite of the recession and recent federal tax cuts it moved higher in 1982, and it probably will do so again this year.

The Tax Foundation, which maintain the index and relates the sad story that goes with it, reports that in 1982 it reached 413.9, up from 412.4 in 1981, or more than four times what it was in 1967, when the base of 100 was set.

Examination of the figures shows that federal taxes did indeed fall slightly, but as you already know or have surmised, state and local taxes rose. Local property taxes topped the rise, up 14 percent in one year.

These figures, which few people will argue have a powerful impact on their state of mind, are absent from the misery index, as are some of the highest interest rates experienced this century.

So accustomed to double digit rates are most Americans that it comes as a shock to hear that between 1929 and 1965 the prime never got above 5 percent, and usually was only a fraction of that level.

The rise since then has been phenomenal. In December 1980 the prime hit 21.5 percent, more than 10 times the rate that existed in 1949. It has since retreated to 10.5 percent, but that is double the rate of 1972.

Miserable figures indeed.

No Special Status Is Needed

WASHINGTON — The president announced on May 25 that he intended to replace three members of the U.S. Commission on Civil Rights with nominees of his own choosing. Within 24 hours the liberal pack was in full cry.

"A bad turn," said Speaker O'Neill. "A purge," said the acting executive director of the NAACP. "A perversion of the independence of the commission," said one of the ousted members. "A disgraceful and blatant move to stack the commission," said a columnist in The Washington Post.

The quotation that prompts me to comment came from Rabbi Murray Saltzman of Baltimore, another of the departing commissioners. He termed the president's action "a really unprecedented invasion of the integrity of the commission" because of "the assumption that the commission should reflect the political ideology of the president."

In the name of the founding fathers, what on earth is wrong with that assumption? I venture the thought, based upon 40 years of covering politics, that that is what elections are all about. Why do we elect a president, except to have him organize a government that reflects the philosophy he has espoused?

The Civil Rights Commission is no more sacrosanct and untouchable than any other independent agency of the government. A presidential administration — any administration — has both a right and an obligation to "pack" these agencies or "stack" them, in the pejorative verbs, in line with administration policies.

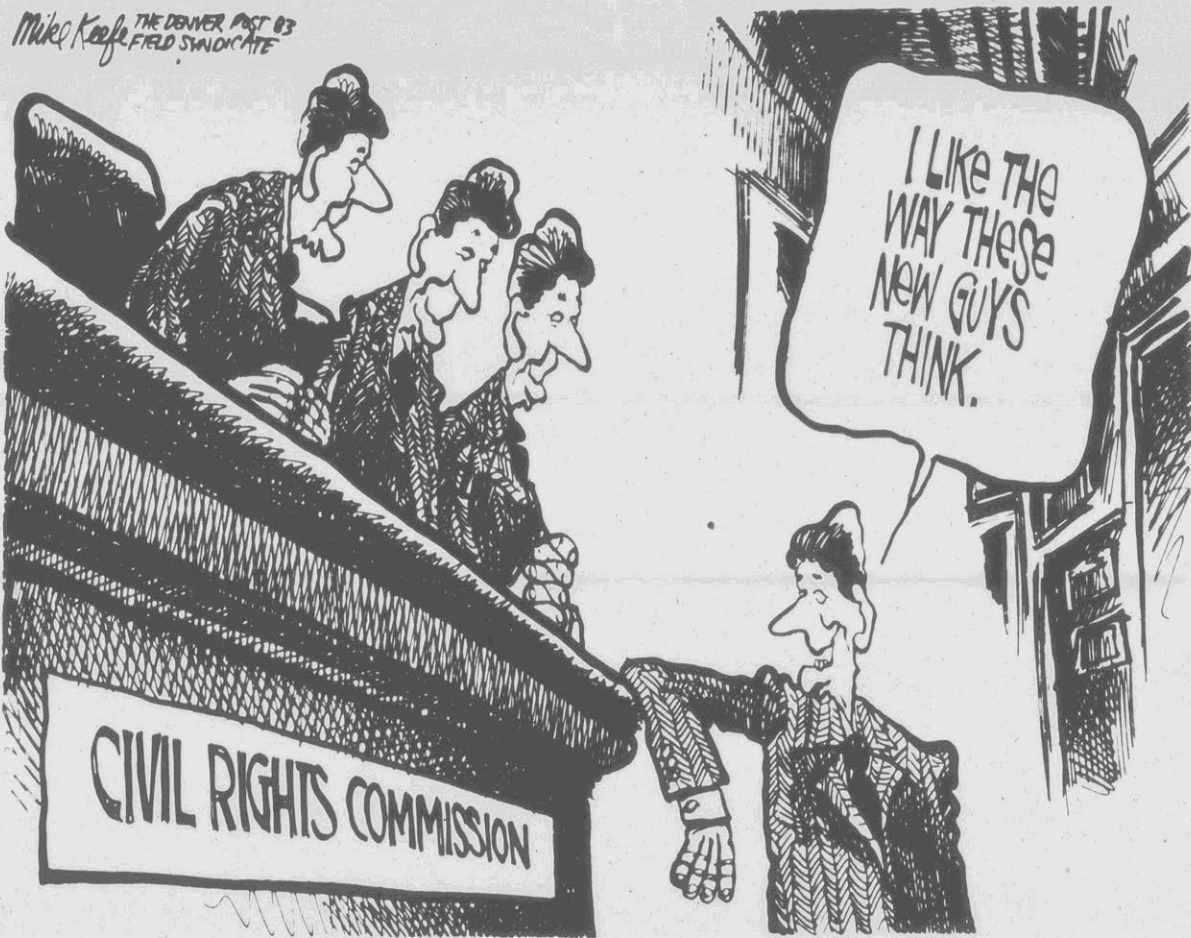

This is how the system works. It is indeed the only way it can work. A president is not some exalted city manager, charged with naming technicians to run the water works. A president is expected to have ideas, policies, points of view. Jimmy Carter named Michael Pertschuk, a dedicated liberal, to serve as chairman of the Federal Trade Commission. Ronald Reagan replaced Pertschuk with Jim Miller, a dedicated conservative. This was no invasion of the integrity and independence of the FTC. This was political action within the rules of the game.

Discrimination by any euphemistic name is — discrimination. It is a violation of civil rights.

It is sometimes acknowledged by my liberal friends that, yes, quotas and busing are discriminatory, but it is said that discrimination of the past can be remedied only by discrimination for some indeterminate future period. Constitutional law is said to demand this. But there is an older law that says two wrongs cannot make a right.

If our nation has one fundamental principle, it is the principle carved in stone on the Supreme Court's portico: Equal Justice Under Law. That principle is not served, it is perverted, by the Orwellian exception that some are more equal than others. I assume that the president's three nominees are dedicated to promoting equal civil rights not merely for some Americans, but for all Americans. Once that has been established, they should be swiftly confirmed.

Tennessee Seeks New Teacher Program

RALEIGH — In the debate over improving the nation's public schools one idea really creates controversy. Should we tie the salaries that we pay teachers to their performance in the classroom? Should we pay our best teachers extra?

When the issue is raised, organized teachers' groups say it is an unworkable idea. They question if we can objectively determine who are the best teachers and if a differential pay system might not bring favoritism and politics back into the public schools. They also predict monumental complaints when parents learn that little Johnny's teacher isn't considered as good as little Mike's.

In Tennessee, Republican Gov. Lamar Alexander is trying to create the first statewide teacher pay system which ties teaching performance to the size of a teacher's paycheck. He hasn't gotten his entire package through the Tennessee Legislature yet. But, he predicted when in Raleigh for a meeting of the Education Commission of the States, he'll have a program for North Carolina to watch operating soon.

The Tennessee program sets up four tiers of teachers — apprentice, professional, senior and master. As you go up each grade, it means $1,000 annual salary difference, at the least. And, for senior and master teachers, there are opportunities to earn more money by working through the summer.

Each apprentice teacher is given five years to meet the performance requirements of the professional teacher level. If the apprentice does not reach that achievement, he or she must leave the state's public schools. For the other three grades, the teachers receive a five-year license to practice at that level. At the end of the five years, they must requalify for their ranks.

The State Board of Education will award and renew licenses although the teachers will remain employees of the local school district. The board is supposed to make its decisions based on a report from a Master Teacher Certification Commission. The teacher will be observed in the classroom by other teachers and records of his students' achievement scores will be examined.

This program is not mandatory. Any teacher currently employed in Tennessee can opt out of it. But, if he does, he'll see his opportunity for this extra money slip away. (Although, Alexander does promise to seek a 20 percent increase in base teacher salaries over the next several years.) Any current teacher can join the program and then opt out later, if he doesn't like it.

A similar program has been developed to cover principals and school administrators.

The master teacher and principal program is just one of 10 recommendations for improving education which a Tennessee legislative study commission made. Some of the other changes are already in place here in North Carolina — like kindergarten for all children and increased math and science requirements.

Alexander feels that the master teacher program is the most important recommendation, however. Not only does he expect it to bring better people to the teaching profession, he expects it to help keep good teachers in the classroom. And, by making jobs available in the summer, he hopes Tennessee students will voluntarily extend the length of their school terms.

The program will not come cheaply. After being phased in over four years, it will cost $210 million annually, by the fourth year. Alexander proposes to pay for the program with an extra penny of sales tax.

Strength For Today

"And seek ye not what ye shall eat, and what ye shall drink, neither be ye of doubtful mind. For all these things do the nations of the world seek after."

According to worldly standards, success is measured by abundance; according to God's standards, success is measured by use. God gives us money — much or little — to see what use we will make of it. It is one of the most important means of testing men's lives and gauging their purpose.

Jesus regarded possessions as part of the equipment by which God trains men's souls for eternity. Put possessions in their right place, said Jesus, and they are a blessing; put them in the wrong place, and they will curse the soul and plunge it into hell.

"Seek first the kingdom of God and his righteousness; and all these things shall be added unto you." And the kingdom we can surely have if we but seek after it.

Move Chills Cool Wind Even More

portend a dramatic Chinese policy switch. While hints are dropped that ties with Japan and western Europe will be improved at U.S. expense, there are no threats, much less any real possibility, of Peking playing the Soviet card.

But the intimacy with China sought by Alexander Haig as secretary of state is buried. Haig's notion of a U.S.-Chinese united strategic front against the Kremlin looks incapable of revival, considering the demands of the Chinese.

The last faint hope for such a resurrection was carried here two weeks ago by Secretary of Commerce Malcolm Baldrige. His message: A decision to put China in the general category of U.S. allies had been reached in Washington, over anguished protests by national security hard-liners.

The immediate official Chinese reaction constituted Peking's warmest comment about the U.S. in months, delighting foreign service officers at the U.S. embassy who have been fighting an uphill battle for the Chinese connection throughout the Reagan administration. They rejoiced too soon. By the time we arrived here, Chinese officials were in lockstep minimizing Baldrige's overture.

Aware that there can be great variations within a single U.S. category of technology transfer, the Chinese were not impressed. "What we fear is that there will be some petty maneuvers on this question," said Yao Yilin. "Nominally, China will be put in the same category as Japan and the Western European countries. But there will be additional conditions on the transfer of technology to China."

Yao was similarly gloomy on other issues. On Chinese demands that the U.S. quickly phase out arms sales to Taiwan: "As I see it, there are no good signs for the resolution of this question." On Reagan's invitation to Zhao: "If these serious questions remain unresolved, then I don't think his visit would be fruitful." Yao showed no particular interest in a Reagan visit.

The icy mood is best reflected in the rhetoric of lesser Chinese officials. One Foreign Ministry official regarded as pro-American dilated at length about "the scar" on Sino-American relations left by U.S. support of Chiang Kai-shek's 8-million-man army in the civil war 33 years ago. Jia Shai, vice minister of foreign trade, belittled U.S. sweet talk: "We hate to see a lot of thunder without rain. The thunder is very loud, but the raindrops are very few."

Such rhetoric less reflects serious hope that the Reagan administration will meet demands than deep-seated feeling within the Chinese hierarchy that Deng Xiaoping, China's real leader, went too far in his American involvement. Certainly Deng's stress to us on our last visit here in December 1978 of a common Sino-American interest against the Russian polar bear is heard no longer.

However, Chinese exploratory talks with the Soviets have also gone badly, undermined by Soviet-controlled Outer Mongolia's ouster of Chinese residents. When Yao warned in our interview that China might have to seek out "other countries," he specified Japan, France and West Germany — but definitely not the Soviet Union.

Wachovia Prime-Plus MasterCard®

Compare the interest rate you pay on other credit cards with Wachovia's new Prime-Plus rate.

Wachovia is introducing a new approach to credit card interest rates that lets you save on finance charges, and makes the Wachovia MasterCard the one card you'll want to have.

Here's how it works. After July 1, 1983, all Wachovia MasterCard customers will be able to benefit from a new floating interest rate, which can vary monthly, based on Wachovia's prime rate plus 5%, but under current law will not exceed 18% annual percentage rate (APR).

For example, if the new Prime-Plus MasterCard rate had been applied for the month of June, MasterCard customers would have been eligible to be charged just 15½% APR. So the Prime-Plus rate can mean a substantial savings from the rates charged by most other financial institutions.

Like many other bank cards, the Wachovia MasterCard is available for an annual fee of $18. This chart shows you how the new Prime-Plus rate structure can offset all or part of the fee.

Why Wachovia Prime-Plus MasterCard is the one bank credit card to carry.

If Your Balance Subject To Finance Charges Is:	And The Prime Rate Is:
	12%	10½%*	8%
	You Would Be Charged This Prime-Plus Rate:
	17% APR	15½% APR	13% APR
Your Annual Savings Would Be:
$ 250	$ 2.50	$ 6.25	$ 12.50
$ 500	5.00	12.50	25.00
$1000	10.00	25.00	50.00
$2500	25.00	62.50	125.00

* The Wachovia MasterCard prime rate that would have been in effect for June, 1983.

 Comparison based on the 18% APR ceiling currently permitted by North Carolina law and commonly charged for revolving credit by North Carolina financial institutions. Other states may have different regulations and even higher rates may be charged. For illustrative purposes, the chart assumes a constant prime rate and a fixed balance, subject to finance charge. The prime lending rate is set by Wachovia from time to time as its interest rate basis for commercial borrowers. This rate may vary with economic conditions.

And you can save even more by consolidating all your bank cards and charge accounts into your Wachovia MasterCard. Your Personal Banker can show you how.

Lt. Gov. Green Said To Face Grand Jury's Scrutiny

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The Wake County grand jury will be asked Monday to decide if charges should be brought against Lt. Gov. James C. Green in connection with the FBI's Color investigation, according to a Raleigh newspaper.

Green, a potential candidate for the 1984 Democratic gubernatorial nomination, has been under investigation since July, the News & Observer reported in today's editions.

Wake Superior Court Judge James H. Pou Bailey ordered the grand jury after its regular meeting Monday to reconvene in special session in a week, Bailey said in court that the jurors would hear evidence in one case and that it would involve names they would recognize.

Bailey did not elaborate in court and declined to comment afterward.

"I told them we'd need them Monday for a special inquiry at which they would be shown evidence and asked if there should be a trial," Bailey said.

Sources said the Wake District Attorney's Office would present to the grand jury evidence gathered in an investigation of Green by the State Bureau of Investigation and would allow the jurors to decide whether charges should be brought, the newspaper reported. If the jurors decide charges should be brought, the grand jury would have to request an indictment from the district attorney, the paper said.

Acting Wake District Attorney C. Colon Willoughby and District Attorney Michael Easley of Southport, who are handling the probe together, both declined to comment, according to the newspaper.

A Charlotte newspaper quoted Bailey as saying that Willoughby will present only evidence. If the grand jury believes a crime has been committed, they will seek an indictment.

"This will be the first time I've seen it in 18 years," Bailey told The Charlotte Observer.

The Associated Press made repeated efforts to reach Green Monday night and early Tuesday morning, but his Raleigh telephone number is unlisted. His wife, Alice Green, said from her Clarkston home that, "He called me about 9:30 p.m.

after the (Monday night legislative) session and said he was exhausted and was going to bed. I can't let you wake him."

"I haven't heard a word," Green told the News & Observer in an interview. "Nobody's told me a thing."

Green has charged earlier that the investigation is "harassing and without merit," the newspaper said.

The state probe surfaced Feb. 17 when the State Bureau of Investigation requested Green's telephone records for January through April 1982 from the N.C. Department of Administration. Administration Secretary Jane Patterson notified Green of the request.

In response, Green confronted Attorney General Rufus Edmisten and questioned him on the reason for wanting the records.

No evidence has surfaced in the Green investigation. In a federal trial in Tennessee last fall, Assistant U.S. Attorney Guy Blackwell told the judge that Green, a tobacco warehouse owner, was under investigation in Tennessee and North Carolina by the U.S. Department of Agriculture and the FBI.

Green told reporters last summer about a $2,000 campaign contribution that he says was mailed to him by FBI agents. He said he returned it.

An Endangered Landmark

One hundred square feet of the West Front wall of the Capitol Building in Washington, D.C. collapsed recently. The event underscored what government officials have known for many years—that the Capitol needs restoration. Congress moved there in 1800, but the original facade needed repair after the British burned Washington during the War of 1812. That first Capitol Building later became the north wing of the building we know today. The iron dome was added during the Civil War, while the building itself was being used as a hospital and barracks for Union soldiers. Today many preservationists fear that, if repairs are not made soon, the illustrious center of our government could sustain irreparable damage.

Fear Foul Play In Finding Body

SCOTLAND NECK, N.C. (AP) — The body of a 23-year-old Scotland Neck woman was found along the roadside Monday, and authorities suspect foul play, said Halifax County Sheriff W.C. Bailey.

The victim was identified as Bernice Tillery Smith, 23, Bailey said.

The unidentified farmer was driving between his two fields in the southeastern portion of the county when he discovered the woman's body and called police around 2:30 p.m.

The body appeared to have been dead for some time, and part of the skull was damaged, Bailey said, adding that authorities have no motive, weapon or suspects.

Bailey said an autopsy was ordered.

Too Much Leaf Despite Cutback

WASHINGTON (AP) — Declining domestic and export demand, plus increased imports, will create excess supplies of America's major types of tobacco again this year, analysts with the U.S. Agriculture Department said Monday.

"Use is expected to be 15 percent below production so despite a smaller 1982 crop, stocks carried over to the new marketing year will likely climb from last year's 3.55 billion pounds," the analysts said in a summary of the latest Tobacco Outlook and Situation report.

For flue-cured tobacco, the nation's most abundant type, the new marketing year begins July 1. For burley tobacco, the second most abundant type, and other tobacco types, the new marketing year begins Oct. 1.

"The economic recovery is expected to keep world consumption stable, but continued large supplies, high U.S. prices and a relatively strong dollar will likely inhibit exports," the summary said.

Although the USDA's official 1983 harvest estimate will not be issued until mid-July, flue-cured farmers have indicated they plan to cut plantings by 9 percent, meaning a crop reduction under normal conditions of 14 percent from last year, to 860 million pounds.

But, the analysts said, "marketings may again exceed use, further boosting stocks."

The mounting problem of excess tobacco supplies has prompted another round of congressional action on the government's much-debated tobacco price support program.

Although farmers have been contributing a portion of their receipts to a special fund intended to cover any future losses to taxpayers from the support plan, criticism of the program has continued.

In an effort to preserve the system from opponents who are calling for its complete abolition, tobacco state lawmakers have proposed freezing price support protection this year and next at the 1982 level. Neither the House nor the Senate has yet to act on that or any alternative.

Homer Helps Erase Kemp's Misplay

By The Associated Press
For New York Yankees' right fielder Steve Kemp, the top of the eighth was nothing to laugh about — but he was all smiles in the bottom of the inning.

He misplayed Domingo Ramos' fly ball into a triple to help Seattle take a 2-1 lead in the top of the eighth Monday night. Then, with the score 2-2 in the bottom of the inning, he smacked a three-run, inside-the-park homer that boosted the Yanks to a 6-2 victory.

"That's what's so funny about this game," said Kemp. "You can go from being in the gutter to the top of the world. That's what's unique about this game and why you have to have a lot of confidence. You can't lose confidence or you're shot, and you have to have pride in yourself — and I have both."

Elsewhere in the American League, Milwaukee outlasted California 9-7, Detroit defeated Boston 11-6 and Baltimore beat Toronto 8-1 in a game halted by rain in the top of the sixth inning. Oakland's game at Cleveland was rained out. The National League was idle.

After Ramos' tainted triple and Dave Henderson's tie-breaking sacrifice fly gave the Mariners a temporary lead, the Yankee Stadium crowd went to work on Kemp, booing lustily as he trotted in from right field. Then the Yanks went to work on Seattle's relief corps, which was following Gaylord Perry to the mound.

Willie Randolph nailed Mike Stanton for a single. Ed Vande Berg took over and promptly threw Ken Griffey's sacrifice into center field trying for the force at second. Randolph reached third, then scored when Bill Caudill gave up a sacrifice fly to Dave Winfield.

After Oscar Gamble singled, Kemp sliced the ball to left. It caromed off the wall and skipped past rookie Ricky Nelson, and Kemp had his first Yankee Stadium homer.

"I never thought I'd get it that way," said Kemp. "I wanted to just get a base hit, to score at least one run — and then not mess up another fly."

With two away, Graig Nettles capped the five-run burst with his second solo homer of the game.

Ron Guidry, tying Toronto's Dave Stieb for the AL lead in wins with eight, fanned seven Mariners and scattered six hits en route to his fifth consecutive victory and fifth complete game. Perry pitched seven innings and slipped past Warren Spahn into fourth place on the all-time innings-pitched list with 5,246 1-3.

Brewers 9, Angels 7
Paul Molitor, his injured wrist obviously healed, went 4-for-4 with a single, two doubles and a homer and drove in three runs for Milwaukee.

"My wrist still isn't 100 percent, but my confidence is nearing 100 percent again," said Molitor.

"Getting Paul back in the leadoff spot, especially the way he's hitting, has been a real lift," added Brewers Manager Harvey Kuenn.

Jim Gantner's two-run triple and Robin Yount's two-run double contributed to the Brewers' 16-hit assault. "For a change we got a lot of hits with men on base," Molitor said. "Maybe that's a sign that things finally are going to start going our way."

The Brewers built a 9-1 lead before California woke up with a six-run eighth inning. Ron Jackson's grand slam chased Milwaukee starter Bob McClure and Bobby Grich's homer greeted Tom Tellmann.

"We came back offensively," Angels Manager John McNamara said. "At least we didn't just roll over and die."

Tigers 11, Red Sox 6
Enos Cabell hit a solo homer and Lou Whitaker a two-run shot before Alan Trammell highlighted a five-run eighth inning with his three-run homer that boosted Detroit past the Red Sox. Dwight Evans and Glenn Hoffman homered for Boston.

Orioles 8, Blue Jays 1
Leo Hernandez' three-run homer and a two-run belt by Cal Ripken Jr. gave Baltimore sole possession of first place in the East, one game ahead of Toronto and Boston. Cliff Johnson homered for the Blue Jays. The game was delayed 45 minutes at the start and called after a 52-minute wait in the sixth.

Plesac Heads Area Draft Picks

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — North Carolina State pitcher Dan Plesac was picked by Milwaukee in the first round of Major League baseball's free agent draft Monday, one of four players selected with Tar Heel state ties.

Plesac, a southpaw from Crown Point, Ind., was picked on the draft's 26th pick.

George Threadgill, an outfielder from Whiteville, and Wake Forest shortstop Bill Merrifield were second-round picks while pitcher Blaine Deabinderfer of Louisburg Community College was taken on the fifth round of the draft's secondary phase.

Threadgill was drafted by Texas, Merrifield by California and Deabinderfer by the New York Yankees.

Plesac said in a telephone interview that the Brewers' personnel were scheduled to visit his home late Monday. He said he expects to turn pro.

"As far as I know, they're probably going to talk signing bonus," he said. "At the end of this week, they send all of their draft picks to a camp somewhere and from there they decide where they'll send you."

Plesac, who was 5-2 with a 4.85 earned run average this past year, posted a career mark of 15-6 with a 4.20 ERA. He averaged more than one strikeout per inning.

"I kinda expected it," he said of his high draft. "I had no idea it would be Milwaukee. I thought I had a decent shot at going late in the first round. I was crossing my fingers. I had figured either Atlanta or California and it just didn't turn out that way."

Merrifield has another season of eligibility left at Wake Forest, but has already hit 45 home runs and driven in 178. As a junior, he struck an Atlantic Coast Conference 20 home runs and this past year posted 17 homers, 64 RBI and hit a league record .476.

"Knowing that I am a second-round pick, it defines my options a little better," Merrifield said from his Rocky Mount home. "It makes it a little easier on them and me to know the limits of what's going to happen."

"I've really got my mind more set on what I want," he said. "I just have to wait on their offer. If it's not what I need, I'll be back at Wake Forest. From what I hear about them, they're fair. I'll be fair if they will. I may take less money for that chance, but I'll have to be financially satisfied enough."

"They really have to make it worth my while, but there's that compromise to play pro ball," he added. "I want to go out and play pro ball this year. My heart's really set on it."

Threadgill is a 6-foot, 165-pound senior from Whiteville, a team currently in the state Class 2A title series. Through 28 games, he was hitting .440.

The Yankees drafted Deabinderfer, of Indiana, Pa., for the second consecutive year.

"He's a big kid, about 6-3, 215 pounds," said Louisburg coach Russ Frazier. "He throws hard, but he's very green. He's a very intelligent boy, almost an 'A' student."

Frazier said Deabinderfer has a strong arm, but added that "his weakness is that he's never learned yet how to be a pitcher. He did a pretty good job for us, but he'd go along a couple of innings and then he'd get wild. He has a lot of potential."

Cowboy Defector Helps Texas Top OSU, 6-5

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Jamie Doughty's double scored Mike Trent with the winning run in the bottom of the 11th inning to lift top-ranked Texas to a 6-5 victory over No. 3 Oklahoma State in the College World Series.

But had things happened slightly different, Doughty says he may have been playing his baseball at Oklahoma State.

"We recruited him, helped put him in junior college, we knew he's a fine ball player," said Oklahoma State Coach Gary Ward after Monday night's game.

"He put me everywhere but at Texas," Doughty said of Ward. "How close was I to going there? I had the papers in my hand. I had the pen in my hand. That was until (Texas) Coach (Cliff) Gustafson called and sent me a plane ticket. I went down and loved it."

Doughty's game-winning hit advanced Texas, 63-14, into the winners bracket finals Thursday at 7:10 p.m. against the winner of tonight's Michigan-Alabama contest.

Oklahoma State, 48-15, dropped into the losers bracket to face Arizona State, 43-23, at 5:10 p.m. Wednesday.

Trent, who tied a College World Series record by scoring four runs Friday night, walked with one out and advanced to second on a wild pitch in the decisive 11th inning. He scored easily when Doughty, who replaced Brian Burrows at third base, lined a fast ball deep to right-center.

Both teams snuffed 10th-inning rallies as Oklahoma State's Robbie Wine opened the top of the inning with a double and moved to third on a groundout. But Texas reliever Kirk Killingsworth retired the side to keep the contest at 5-5.

Texas then loaded the bases with two outs in the bottom of the 10th when Mike Brumley doubled, Jose Tolentino and Jeff Hearn walked to load the bases.

Oklahoma State reliever Gary Kanwisher, 9-4, then worked the count to 3-2 on Steve Labay and fired a called third strike past the Texas outfielder to keep the game going.

Longhorn starter Roger Clemens, who tossed a five-hitter last year against OSU in the College World Series, struck out 12 and scattered seven hits in 8 2-3 innings Monday night before being sidelined by OSU's game-tying rally in the top of the ninth.

Mike Brumley, a second round draft pick Monday, set up a dramatic finish with a go-ahead run in the eighth inning when he scored on a wild pitch by Kanwisher.

With two down in the top of the ninth, Oklahoma State pinch hitter Kevin Jagielo and Tim Knapp singled to send Clemens, a first round draft pick, to the bench.

Scott Wade then greeted Texas reliever Killingsworth, 12-3, with a single to score Jagielo to even the game at 5-5.

Texas gave up two runs on three errors in the third and single runs in the fifth and sixth. Trailing 4-1, Texas came up with three runs in the seventh to even the game and set the stage for the late-inning excitement.

Snow Hill Tops Wayne County

GOLDSBORO — Snow Hill scored three early runs and went on to claim a 5-2 American Legion baseball victory over Wayne County last night.

The victory was the first in two starts in the Area 1 East Conference for Snow Hill, while Wayne County was tumbling to a 3-3 record.

Richie Chase hurled the win, going the distance and walking only one. He scattered nine hits, and held Wayne scoreless for the first three innings, giving up one in the fourth and another in the seventh.

Snow Hill pushed into the lead in the second inning, getting one run. With one away, Tommy Goff reached on an error and Anthony Russo was hit by a pitch. Greg Frederick's grounder got Russo at second, but Chase helped himself with a single that drove in Goff.

The Snow Hill team came back with two more in the third, wrapping it up. Nat Norris singled and stole second. He scored on a double by Steve Sides, and Sides came around when Jeff Ginn doubled.

Snow Hill later added single runs in the eighth and ninth to salt away the win.

Sides, Ginn and Chase each had two hits for Snow Hill. Sides having a double and a triple, and Ginn having two doubles. Scott Edwards and Dol Yo Lim each had a pair for Wayne County.

Snow Hill returns to action on Saturday, hosting Edenton in a 3 p.m. game (that time a change from the original 8 p.m. starting time). Wayne County is idle until Sunday when it hosts Rocky Mount in a game delayed by rain from last Saturday night.

Wesleyan Eliminated In Division III World Series

MARIETTA, Ohio (AP) — North Carolina Wesleyan, top-ranked in NCAA Division III baseball going into the World Series, was eliminated from the tournament Monday with a pair of losses to Ohio schools that didn't even win their own conference championship.

The Bishops fell to Otterbein 10-9 in Monday's first game, then lost 6-4 to host Marietta, putting them out of the double-elimination tournament. Wesleyan finishes the season with a 38-7 record.

Otterbein (27-10-1) and Marietta (47-9) meet at 1 p.m. Tuesday for the championship.

John Mastel, hitless in four previous trips to the plate, won the opening game for Otterbein with a two-out, two-run single through the middle in the bottom of the ninth.

Wesleyan had taken a 7-2 lead, scoring five runs in the fourth on four hits, including doubles by Ronnie Shorter, Willie Arrington and Mike DeLeone, and an error.

Otterbein pulled to within one in the fifth when Mike Blythe and Dave Whitehead hit back-to-back homers, and tied the score at 7 in the seventh when Blythe doubled off the wall and came home on Whitehead's single.

Wesleyan went ahead 9-7 in the eighth when Charlie Simpson hit an 0-2 pitch from Kirk McDonald for a two-run homer.

In the bottom of the ninth, Brett Brownfield blooped a single off Mike Siciliano and Blythe chased him with another single. Whitehead's fifth hit of the day, a grounder through the legs of pitcher Carl Payne, brought Brownfield home.

Jim Hoyle reached first on a fielder's choice and then a walk loaded the bases. After a fly to short left for the second out, Mastel rapped out his game-winning hit.

It was the seventh one-run game of the series, and the fifth decided in the ninth inning.

Payne, losing pitcher in relief in the first game, started the second and again was tagged with the loss, only his third in 14 decision this year.

Marietta capitalized on a pair of errors and a passed ball in eliminate the Bishops from the tournament.

Wesleyan took a 1-0 lead in the first on Richard Mattocks' double and a single by Arrington. But Marietta tied the score in the second when Arrington dropped a fly ball with the bases loaded.

And the Pioneers never trailed after taking a 3-1 lead in the third on Mark Talarico's RBI double and a passed ball by DeLeone.

Wesleyan threatened in the bottom of the ninth, scoring once on back-to-back doubles by Mochie Medley and Jim Provenzano. A single by Mattocks, who had homered earlier, left runners at first and third, but then Jim Kennedy got Arrington to pop a bunt to third, ending the game.

This is the only tournament most of the men stars will play on grass courts before Wimbledon. For Connors, and many of the other contenders, it is a big change from the slow red clay of Roland Garros stadium in Paris, where Connors lost in the quarterfinals of the French Open last week.

"The surfaces may be different, but the French Open was good practice for me," Connors said. "I played five matches and I hit a lot of balls."

"I'm sorry I didn't win Paris. Of course I would love

Fire Still Burns Inside Connors

LONDON (AP) — Jimmy Connors explained why he is a calmer personality on the tennis courts these days than when he first won Wimbledon in 1974.

"Ten years ago I used to rant and rage and shout and jump around," the 30-year-old left-hander said.

"I don't do that now because I'm 10 years older and I need the energy for my tennis."

"But the fire is still burning, deep down there," Connors added. "Nobody should try to bring it out."

Connors won Wimbledon again last year after an eight-year lapse and will start the defense of his title in two weeks.

Monday, he made a good start to his warming up campaign by beating Lloyd Bourne 6-3, 6-3 in the opening round of the $203,000 Stella Artois Grand Prix tournament at London's Queen's Club.

This is the only tournament most of the men stars will play on grass courts before Wimbledon. For Connors, and many of the other contenders, it is a big change from the slow red clay of Roland Garros stadium in Paris, where Connors lost in the quarterfinals of the French Open last week.

"The surfaces may be different, but the French Open was good practice for me," Connors said. "I played five matches and I hit a lot of balls."

"I'm sorry I didn't win Paris. Of course I would love to win the French title. But for the moment I am just thinking of getting ready for Wimbledon."

"I enjoy playing on grass," Connors said. "But it has to be good grass. So long as the ball isn't bouncing about all over the place, I like it."

"The courts here are in good shape — as good as Wimbledon. But it was slippery out there for the first match."

Connors is the top seed in the tournament.

John McEnroe, the No. 2 seed, was due to start his bid with a match against Jeff Borowiak today. Ivan Lendl, the No. 3 seed, was paired against Nick Saviano.

Vitas Gerulaitis, seeded fourth, had a difficult time Monday overcoming Ramesh Krishnan of India 7-5, 6-7, 7-5.

The Indian, one day after turning 22, served for the match after breaking Gerulaitis' service for 5-3 in the final set. But Gerulaitis won the next four games for the match, and dropped only three points in the last three games.

Form was unpredictable as the players sought to get the feel of grass — many of them for the first time since last year's Wimbledon.

Breakers 'Blitz' Chicago With 21-15 Rally

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Breakers may not be crazy about their usual halftime position. But by now, they at least should feel comfortable starting the second half with ground to make up.

For the third straight week, the Breakers trailed at

Youth Baseball

Little League

True Value 2

First Federal 0

True Value Hardware's Ken Sawyer tossed a one-hit shut-out at First Federal yesterday and his team gained a 2-0 victory in the Tar Heel Little League.

The loss dropped First Federal to only a half-game lead over Wellcome in the league standings.

Sawyer gave up his only hit early, to the second batter in the game, but was solid after that. He struck out ten and walked just two. Losing pitcher Frankie Pugh allowed only four hits, fanning ten and walking one and hitting one.

True Value got all it needed in the fourth inning, scoring once. Eric Daniels reached on a out-out error and Jerome Vines was hit by a pitch. With two away, Sawyer slapped a single, scoring Daniels for a 1-0 lead.

The other run scored in the fifth.

Matthew Cagle had two hits to lead True Value, while Drew Johnson had the only hit for First Federal.

Coca-Cola 17

Lions 5

Coca-Cola kept itself close to the leaders in the North State Little League with a 17-5 romp over the Lions yesterday.

Coke got all it would need in the first inning, blasting the Lions for 12 big runs. Mark Taylor led off the inning with a walk and Derrick Hines reached on an error. With one down, Walter Gatlin cleared intermission. And, for the third straight week, they won, overtaking the Chicago Blitz 21-15 in the United States Football League Monday night.

In those three games, Boston has outscored its opposition 19-0 in the third quarter and 30-9 in the fourth after a cumulative 37-14 deficit in the opening halves.

"I just wish we could play that well in the first half," said Breakers' Coach Dick Coury.

"When adversity strikes, we always know something good's going to come out of it," said Boston linebacker Bill Roe. "We don't panic because we know we're going to come back."

The Breakers came back from a 13-0 deficit against Chicago to stretch their winning streak to four games and tie the Blitz in the battle for the league's single wild-card playoff berth. Boston is in second place in the Atlantic Division, Chicago is in second in the Central, and both have 9-5 records.

"It keeps them in the race," Chicago Coach George Allen said of the Breakers' win. "It puts our football team in the hole in our division. We're fighting for our lives."

The Blitz are one game behind Tampa Bay, which visits Chicago Sunday. Boston, which trails Philadelphia by three games, is at Birmingham Saturday night.

Chicago grabbed a 13-0 lead on field goals of 33 and 29 yards by Frank Corral and a 29-yard touchdown pass from Tim Koegel to Trumaine Johnson. Corral's 29-yarder came one play after Tim Spencer's 1-yard run into the end zone was nullified by a holding penalty against right guard Tim Norman.

The Breakers sliced the margin to 13-7 at halftime on Johnnie Walton's 10-yard bootleg after Chicago's Kevin Long fumbled and Roe recovered at the Blitz 15-yard line.

A defensive pass interference call and a 50-yard pass play from Walton to Nolan Franz on a flea flicker set up Richard Crump's 6-yard touchdown run that put Boston on top 14-13 with 6:40 left in the third quarter.

Walton hit Crump for a 9-yard touchdown on a fourth-quarter pass after Mike Brewington recovered Mack Boatner's fumble. Chicago got its last two points with three seconds left when Boston punter Joe Restic took a deliberate safety rather than risk a blocked punt.

Boston was outgained 328 yards to 123, had just eight first downs and held the ball nearly 10 minutes less than Chicago.

"I don't remember in my coaching career where we held the opposition to eight first downs and lost, so that's like losing a three-hitter in baseball," Allen said. "We fumbled twice where no one even hit us. You can't make mistakes. They're an opportunistic team and they take advantage of them."

At age 35, Walton isn't noted for his running, but he took the Blitz by surprise on his touchdown dash around left end 1:38 before halftime.

"I saw the defensive linemen cutting down and there was nobody between me and the (goal) line," Walton said.

On the flea flicker, which set up Boston's go-ahead touchdown, Walton handed the ball to Tony Davis, who flipped it back to the quarterback.

"We thought we could do it. We can run it out of any formation," Coury said.

On the previous play, Chicago made another of its many costly mistakes. Boston had a third-down-and-4 at its own 29. Walton threw the ball behind receiver Frank Lockett, but Lance Shields was called for pass interference, giving the Breakers a first down at their own 44.

The errors overshadowed the second consecutive brilliant performance by Chicago's defense, which is ranked first in the league. In a 36-11 win over Arizona the previous Monday night, Chicago allowed just 108 yards and seven first downs.

"That's as fine a football team as we'll face," Coury said. "They've got a lot of talent."

New Coach Defines Fun For Wolfpack

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP)

In his first team meeting last December, new North Carolina State football coach Tom Reed told the team he wanted them to have fun. Then he announced a workout for the following day at 5 a.m.

"Then we had to define what I meant by fun," Reed said. His definition is "a hard day's work that will instill satisfaction, increase the ability to endure and produce winning results."

The former Miami of Ohio coach replaced Monte Kiffin last December, and he says his style of coaching will be different from Kiffin's.

He will have a set of stringent rules for players. For starters, they will wear ties on school trips, and they will be clean-shaven and short-haired. He says he isn't concerned whether his players like those rules or not.

"I detest the word 'relate,'" Reed, 38, said in an interview. "To me that's a cop-out. I graduated from school in the late 1960s and the theme then was to relate and understand. Baloney."

"I want (my players) to cuss me now, not 10 years from now — as I did my coaches whom I love now," Reed continued. "I am going to set extremely high standards and they are going to do it — or else. I am simply telling them what they want to do for themselves."

Reed's expectations extend to academics as well. After 11 players flunked out at Miami during his first season, he set aside the final six weeks of every year for career counseling and scheduling advice. In Reed's last three years at Miami, all 61 seniors graduated.

"The day N.C. State called me, I had just finished totaling those numbers up," Reed said. "They asked what I enjoyed most and I told them working with kids. They asked me what my record was and I told them I didn't know. I was even concerned I was rude."

Reed faces a fall without experienced players on the offensive and defensive lines, and has no proven talent at quarterback.

"I do like to think of myself as realistic," Reed said. "But I am also an extreme believer that you are a creation of your thoughts. The basketball team here at N.C. State summed that up."

"The first thing I tell a player is not to let his mind shackle his accomplishments. You don't have to defeat a task or an opponent, you have to beat yourself," he said. "What you think will happen, will."

Presbyterian Wins Putt-Putt

Farmville Presbyterian captured first place in last night's Church League Putt-Putt action at the Greenville Putt-Putt and Games.

Farmville finished the evening with a team score of 273, while Salem Methodist was second with a 290 score.

Jarvis Memorial took third place, followed by Hooker Memorial.

Scott Lewis led Farmville with a 60, while Mark Williams added a 70. Jeff Taft sparked Salem with a 67, while Ray Taft and Jenny Brinson each carded a 74.

John Jolley led Jarvis with a 76.

The Legislature

House Approves Repeal Of Utility Tax Exemption

By MARY ANNE RHYNE
Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Power companies would be unable to claim at least $6 million in local property tax exemptions under a bill tentatively approved Monday by the state House.

The bill partially would repeal a 1982 law giving industries an exemption from local property taxes for equipment used to abate air pollution inside manufacturing plants.

It was approved 101-1, without debate and was scheduled for a final House vote today.

Rep. Dan Blue, D-Wake, said legislators believed the law would help the textile industry fight byssinosis, or brown lung, by removing cotton dust from the air in plants.

But he said it soon became apparent that power companies could use the exemption for costly equipment to reduce radiation inside nuclear power plants and other companies, including those in the chemical and microelectronics industries, could use the exemption for pollution equipment in their plants.

"The bottom line is that it became possible to reduce local tax revenues by an amount approaching $30 million," Blue said, adding that the law can be repealed now because no taxes will be paid until July 1.

Blue's bill would repeal the exemption for all plants except those in the textile industry. It would no longer cover any pollution-control equipment except that used to reduce cotton dust.

The major exemptions affected by the bill would be in Mecklenburg County, where Duke Power's McGuire Nuclear Unit could cost about $4 million in property taxes; Wake County, where Carolina Power & Light Co.'s Shearon Harris Nuclear Unit could cost $1.5 million; and in Brunswick County, where CP&L's Brunswick Nuclear Unit could cost $750,000.

The Association of County Commissioners estimates that some of the other large exemptions would be for Cannon Mills in Cabarrus County, $16,500; for CP&L's five steam generators in Person County, $109,680; and International Business Machines' plant in Durham County, $22,886.

In other legislative action:

Sheriffs

The Senate voted 46-2 to approve and send to the House a bill establishing a N.C. Sheriffs' Education and Training Standards Commission.

The commission would decide on minimum educational and training standards for employment as a sheriff, deputy, dispatcher or other department employee. The group would certify schools, programs, courses and teachers of the prospective employees.

The N.C. Sheriffs Association and the state attorney general's office endorse the bill. Some police chiefs have fought the bill, saying the current standards for police should be good enough for sheriffs and their deputies.

The N.C. Criminal Justice Education and Training Standards Commission now provides instruction for both kinds of law-enforcement officers.

Prisoners

Senate action was delayed on a bill aimed at opening to public scrutiny the transfer of prisoners when an estimate of the bill's cost was requested.

Sen. Charles Hips, D-Haywood, said the bill was prompted by the transfer of convicted murderer J. Wilton Clary to Florida. He said the transfer resulted in "tremendous public outcry" which could be avoided by making the transfer process more open.

The bill originally required public notice of transfers but was amended to give the state correction secretary discretion in the matter.

PCB

Action was delayed in the House on a bill designed to keep another PCB landfill out of Warren County and to detoxify the existing landfill as soon as the technology is available.

The delay came after Rep. Martin Nesbitt, D-Buncombe, inserted an amendment tied to another House-approved bill regulating hazardous waste landfills in the state.

That bill would prohibit landfill disposal of certain wastes and limit burial of other wastes to certain concentrations. Nesbitt's amendment would set a deadline for establishing the concentration thresholds.

House Speaker Liston Ramsey noted that the threshold bill is awaiting Senate action and should be disposed of before the amended bill affecting Warren County was considered. The House voted to hold the bill for another week.

Insurance

The House tentatively approved a bill that would force insurance companies to extend rate discounts to drivers in the N.C. Reinsurance Facility, the pool through which companies insure high-risk drivers.

Currently insurance companies do not have to extend rate benefits to those drivers in the facility. Opponents have argued that the bill will discourage discounts because they will be spread to more drivers.

Supporters argue that many drivers who have had no accidents are being penalized.

Bloodmobile Collects 141 Pints

A bloodmobile visit Monday at Pitt County Memorial Hospital netted 141 pints of blood, according to Red Cross spokeswoman Ruth Taylor.

Mrs. Taylor said 42 people were deferred for various health reasons during the blood drive, which was coordinated by Craig Quick of the PCMH staff.

The next blood drive will be Monday at Procter & Gamble for plant employees, while preparations are also underway for the second annual "Liberty Drive" on July 1 at the Moose Lodge. Mrs. Taylor said that donor appointments for the July visit are being sought.

Tugwell Appointed Postmaster

Gerald W. Tugwell has been appointed the new postmaster at Falkland effective Saturday, according to Sectional Center Manager-Postmaster Gold Joyner Jr. of Rocky Mount.

Tugwell, 37, a native of Farmville, has served as a city carrier at the Tarboro post office for the past 10 years.

Ensley Gets Democratic Post

North Carolina Democratic Chairman Russell Walker has appointed Dr. Donald Ensley of Greenville as the state chairman for minority affairs for the Democratic Party. Ensley's responsibilities began June 1. As a chairman, he is a voting member on the party's state executive council and the state executive committee.

Ensley is an associate professor at East Carolina University in the school of allied health.

Students Chosen For Boys State

Five area students have been selected by American Legion Post 39 to attend Boys' State this summer.

Attending from North Pitt High School will be Clyn Morris, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Morris and Daniel Keel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Keel. Studnets attending from J.H. Rose High School are John Ward III, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Ward Jr.; Charles Derek Dickens, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Dickens, and Chris Love, son of Dr. and Mrs. Nash W. Love.

Boys' State will be held on the campus of Wake Forest University June 12-18. It is a six-day intensive workshop in state government and politics aimed at improving citizenship.

Food Service Workers Recognized

Two Pitt County school food service employees received top honors at the Pitt County Child Nutrition Program's annual awards banquet held recently. Hazel Worthington was named cafeteria manager of the year and Effie Taft was named cafeteria employee of the year.

EFFIE TAFT

HAZEL WORTHINGTON

Mrs. Worthington manages the Ayden-Grifton High School lunchroom and has worked in school lunch for 16 years. Mrs. Taft works at Wellcome Middle School cafeteria and has been a school lunch employee for nine years.

Other awards given to each school cafeteria that averaged a 95 or better sanitation grade for the year went to Ayden Elementary, Ayden-Grifton, D.H. Conley, Farmville Middle, Grifton Elementary, G.R. Whitfield, Pactolus Elementary, W.H. Robinson and Wellcome Middle.

In addition to the awards, the Pitt County Food Service Association presented a cash donation to Beverly Burnette for the Hospice of East Carolina.

The banquet concluded with the installation of the following school food service officers: Mary Tyson, president; Dorothy Hamill, president-elect; Ann Evans, secretary; and Betsy Mills, treasurer.

Robert Howell will be toastmaster of the evening. Steve Johnston, Bennett Okundaye and Steve Sanders will present prepared speeches.

Wednesday's program will feature the fourth lesson in the club's mini-course on parliamentary procedure. For more information about the club, call Tom Houston, 756-8171.

Collision Causes $2,200 Damage

Greenville police reported an estimated $2,200 damage resulted from a 10:46 p.m. collision Monday at the intersection of Hooker Road and Sylvan Drive.

Officers identified the driver of the car involved as Bobbie Jean Stokes and listed the driver of the truck as Terry Lee Gearhart. Police said the addresses of the drivers were not immediately available.

Damage was set at $2,000 to the car and $200 to the truck.

Purse Stolen At Station

Greenville police today were looking for a man who took a purse, containing $180 in cash, from a car at the U Fill 'Er Up gasoline station at 738 Greenville Boulevard.

Chief Glenn Cannon said a man took the purse, belonging to Kare Cameron of 401H Eastbrook Apartments, from a car parked at the station. Witnesses chased the thief to an area near the intersection of Evans Street and Arlington Boulevard but lost him in a wooded area. Officers searched the area but failed to find the man.

Theft Of Sandwich Reported

Alfred Cornelius Alston, 22, of 800 W. Fourth St. was arrested shortly after 5:30 a.m. today on charges of defrauding an innkeeper.

Chief Glenn Cannon said Alston allegedly ordered a sandwich from the Riggs House at 1201 Dickinson Ave., then ran from the building without paying for the sandwich. Value of the sandwich, Cannon said, was set at $1.51.

Missing Man Found Dead

Karl Pace Stocks, 50, reported missing from his Route 8, Greenville, home since 10 a.m. Sunday, was found dead Monday in a pine thicket 500 yards from his home on rural paved road 1202, Sheriff Ralph Tyson said today. Tyson said Stocks died from a self-inflicted gunshot wound in his chest.

The sheriff said officers had been searching for Stocks, a former Greenville Police Department radio dispatcher who retired in May 1981 on medical disability, since Sunday, when family members found a note which suggested Stocks might take his own life.

The body was found, Tyson said, after a police department shift supervisor for whom Stocks had worked received a letter in the mail telling where he could be found. Tyson said Stocks' body was on the front seat of his car. A .38 caliber revolver was beside the body.

In addition, Tyson said, a rubber hose had been connected to the exhaust pipe of the car and then run inside through a window. The ignition on the vehicle was in the "on" position and the gas tank was full, but the motor was not running.

posals for a new in-house computer system down to two firms and a recommendation will be made for consideration by the commissioners at the July meeting. He said the data processing proposals were submitted by Management Data Service from Madison, Wis., and Computer Generations Inc. of Atlanta.

The spokesman said bids for the Kearney Park modernization project will be opened on June 21.

An application has also been submitted to HUD for some $132,600 in weatherization funds. Noland said, including $79,000 for the larger of the two Moyewood developments and $18,000 for the smaller 40-unit section of Moyewood, $33,000 for Newtown, and $1,500 for Hopkins Park, the newest project. The funds would be used to enhance existing insulation and provide for items such as weather stripping and caulking.

Joe Laney, executive director, said that design documents for the proposed 40-unit conventional housing project in West Meadowbrook received informal approval during a recent visit by a HUD architect. Laney said formal approval is expected soon and the architect told the authority to go ahead with preparation of construction documents for the project. He said the authority hopes to have the project ready for bids by this fall.

Site work is now underway for the new 40-unit Greentree Village townhouse development off East 10th Street, Laney said. The Westminster Co. of Greensboro will build and manage the complex.

Commissioners approved a proposal of $3,925 from the Worsley-Collins CPA firm of Greenville for the authority's biennial audit. The proposal is subject to HUD concurrence.

Laney said that 99 of the 100 units authorized for the agency under the Section 8 existing housing program were rented in May while 108 out of 109 authorized under the moderate rehabilitation program were leased. All 60 units in University Towers were rented during the month.

A transfer resulted in one temporary vacancy among the 702 conventional housing units during May, according to Mrs. Sallye Streeter, director of resident affairs.

Average rents included: N.C. 22-1 (Meadowbrook), $92.42; N.C. 22-2 (Kearney Park), $104.35; N.C. 22-3 (Moyewood), $96.54; N.C. 22-4 (Moyewood), $101.78; N.C. 22-5 (Hopkins Park), $72.05; and N.C. 22-6 (Newtown), $130.49. The overall average rent amounted to $91.57, she said.

Insurance Fraud On Dead Dogs

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP)

A Greensboro man was indicted Monday for allegedly reporting 67 non-existent dead dogs to collect a total of $3,500 from several insurance companies.

That indictment was among 26 insurance fraud charges and four charges of conspiracy handed down by a Guilford County Grand Jury against Jimmy Lee Crawford, 26.

The indictments said that several times Crawford reported as many as eight dogs at a time had been run over by cars. He collected the payments from companies insuring the cars he said had killed the animals, according to the indictments.

Other indictments allege that Crawford staged bogus traffic accidents or reported and collected insurance money for accidents that never happened.

State Bureau of Investigation Agent Dan Stone said the three-month investigation included 39 auto-related accidents, including 44 that directly involved Crawford. Stone said that in 1981 and 1982, $32,800 was paid out on the claims from the 59 accidents. Crawford got more than $20,000, Stone said.

Others indicted were Crawford's brother, Carl Crawford, on one count of insurance fraud; Veola Roseboro Isiah, on one count of conspiracy; and Kenneth Covan, on three charges of insurance fraud and three charges of conspiracy.

Yesterday's Cryptiquip — COULD THE OLD, SPIRITED NUMISMATIST COIN A PHRASE?

Today's Cryptiquip clue: X equals O.

The Cryptiquip is a simple substitution cipher in which each letter used stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words, and words using an apostrophe can give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is accomplished by trial and error.

Panel Evaluates Series Actors

RADNOR, Pa. (AP) — Alan Alda is "the consummate actor," Carroll O'Connor a "super craftsman," Larry Hagman "multitalented," and John Forsythe a "skilled actor with great range," says a panel of casting directors asked to pick the best actors on television.

Television actors and actresses were rated by Jane Feinberg and Mike Fenton, who cast for TV movies and mini-series; Bobby Hoffman of Paramount Television; Jane Murray of Embassy Television and Tandem Productions; Joyce Robinson, an independent agent who originally cast "M-A-S-H"; and NBC's vice president of talent, Joel Thurm.

Their findings will be reported in the June 11 edition of TV Guide.

Despite some glowing praise, two stars got mixed reviews. The panelists said it might be too early to forecast the career of Farrah Fawcett, who gained fame in "Charlie's Angels."

"Farrah has some depth. She's come a long way and has a long way to go," said one. Another panelist called her "the dullest actress I've ever seen ... but I love her look."

Linda Evans, who plays Forsythe's wife on "Dynasty," is limiting herself by playing a nighttime soap opera role, one casting director said.

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, JUNE 8, 1983

YOUR DAILY Horoscope

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Your mind is logical and sharp so you see all kinds of means to achieve success. Don't get overtired or nervous today. New arrangements in business are favored.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Use extreme care in communicating lest some strange remark cause problems for you. Be alert for helpful data.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Monetary affairs are most vital to you now, so study any changes to be made. Avoid one who is detrimental to you.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Your personal life is not going as you wish, so get busy and put new ideas to work. See only true friends today.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You feel like replacing some of the old friends with the new, but do so tactfully. Relax at home this evening.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You have hastily misjudged an old and dear friend. Rectify that situation today. Pay more attention to your finances.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Don't do things that could cause one in authority to feel you are dispensable. Make sure your car is in good repair.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Add to your present philosophy of life so that you gain more benefits from it. Learn to express yourself better.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Listen to the suggestions of a business expert and profit by following them. Beware of interlopers who are jealous.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) There may be changes in personnel at work so go along with it. Conditions are changing everywhere.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) A co-worker can be helpful with new ideas. Be sure to listen to them. Take it easy tonight and relax at home.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Keep quiet if arguments start at home. Look about for new gadgets that will make home life easier.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Study problematical affairs in a calm and poised manner. Come to right decisions, but don't take action yet.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will require more rest than other children early in life. A fine mind develops early. This could be a very artistic nature and the education should be slanted along such lines. Pay attention to diet. Light sports are best.

"The Stars imply, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

Readers will remember this problem from April. We received some 6,000 replies, and there were about 1,000 correct entries. Some answers were eight pages long, and we often had to read all eight pages before we found out that they were wrong. There were two common mistakes. Many readers thought that South would have two entries to his hand at his six no trump contract if, after a diamond lead, he won in dummy and led the ten of hearts from the table. Not so! East simply ducked, declarer had one entry and he had to resort to the line of play we recommended. If you continued correctly with the right squeeze, you will be receiving your prize shortly. Others found a squeeze that does not work. They won the opening lead in dummy, finessed hearts and then cashed their red suit winners to reduce the hand to this position:

They now end played West by leading ace of clubs and another. But West can counter. After winning the king of clubs he exits with the queen of spades! Now declarer is stranded with either a spade lose in hand or a diamond loser on the board.

We would like to thank all those who took the time and effort to enter. Winners will be receiving their prizes shortly.

CBS Wins Big Slander Suit; Called Victory For Free Press

By LINDA DEUTSCH
Associated Press Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Attorneys for Dan Rather, CBS and the top-rated show "60 Minutes" claimed a victory for a free press after successfully defending a $30 million slander suit filed by a California doctor.

"We're just very pleased," said CBS lawyer William Vaughn, who called the 10-2 jury verdict Monday "a moment that strikes a blow for the First Amendment."

Dr. Carl Galloway, who claimed he was unjustly accused in a "60 Minutes" report on insurance fraud, said that during the trial he felt "like David up against Goliath. I don't have my own network."

In New York, CBS issued a statement saying, "From the outset, we were convinced that a dispassionate examination of the evidence would demonstrate clearly that the broadcast was fair and accurate."

Roone Arledge, president of competing ABC News, hailed the verdict in a statement issued from New York, saying the decision "was both appropriate and pleasing to those of us concerned with the vitality of investigative reporting."

Rather could not be reached for comment Monday; his phone number in New York is unlisted and a CBS-TV editor said Rather could not be contacted. He was at his regular post as anchorman of the CBS evening news Monday night, and introduced a brief report on the verdict in his own case.

The disputed report, titled "It's No Accident," was broadcast Dec. 9, 1979. It told of insurance fraud schemes in Los Angeles' black community and pinpointed the Manchester West doctors' office as one clinic which allegedly churned out phony medical reports for bogus accident claims.

Galloway, 35, admitted he had worked at the clinic part-time but said he left two months before the "60 Minutes" crew arrived.

The doctor said that when he saw legal instructions that would be given to jurors before they deliberated, he began to suspect that "we were in a heap of trouble."

To find in Galloway's favor, jurors would have had to determine that Rather and his producer, Steven Glauber, "entertained serious doubts" about the truth of their report at the time they filmed it and that they acted "in reckless disregard for the truth."

One juror, Betty Riordan, said that instruction made the verdict for CBS inevitable.

"I felt at the time the show was filmed, they not only didn't have serious doubts, I don't think they had any doubts at all about it," Mrs. Riordan said.

Superior Court Judge Jack

Swink earlier ruled there was no malicious intent behind the broadcast and told jurors they could not consider punitive damages.

It took the jury 10 hours of deliberations over three days to decide that Galloway was not slandered by the "60 Minutes" segment.

Galloway's attorney, Bruce Friedman, said he would file a motion for new trial within 30 days but had not decided yet whether to appeal. "We're thinking about it," Galloway said.

At the show's behest, a woman named Rosa Bravo visited the medical clinic and obtained a phony report. On the segment, Rather displayed the report and noted it was signed by Dr. Carl A. Galloway.

Galloway proved to the jury's satisfaction that the signature was forged, said jury foreman David Campbell, but Campbell said that was not enough to sway the jury in the doctor's favor.

"I think the general consensus was that he (Galloway) had not signed the paper," said Campbell.

"But I felt the turning point was that Dan Rather did act in good faith. He did try to get in touch with Dr. Galloway, and as long as he did that it didn't matter."

Galloway said he felt CBS had successfully shifted the focus of the trial from its duty to be fair and accurate to what he called "guilt by association" with the questionable medical clinic.

Friedman won a pre-trial legal battle to show jurors "outtakes" of film recorded for the show but never broadcast, but said he found out from jurors that the strategy worked in Rather's favor.

"In looking at the outtakes, they said Dan Rather seemed so positive that Dr. Galloway had done it that he couldn't possibly have entertained any serious doubts," Friedman said.

Arafat Says Rebellion Reports In Ranks Of PLO Exaggerated

By The Associated Press
Palestine Liberation Organization leader Yasser Arafat said today that reports of rebellion in PLO ranks were "greatly exaggerated" and that "the situation is under control now," the Indian government reported.

An Indian government spokeswoman briefed journalists about Arafat's meeting with Prime Minister Indira Gandhi in New Delhi, where he arrived from Saudi Arabia for a one-day visit.

The spokeswoman, who declined to be identified, would not say whether Arafat had sought Mrs. Gandhi's help in the problems facing the PLO. But she said Mrs. Gandhi assured Arafat of "continued and complete" support.

In another Mid-East development, a coalition of Arab Communist parties and trade unions published a manifesto pledging to undermine the troops withdrawal agreement between Israel and Lebanon.

Before flying to New Delhi, Arafat won a public endorsement from Saudi Arabia's King Fahd.

"We are fortunate to have with us today Yasser Arafat, the leader of the Palestine Liberation Organization, on whom we pin great hopes," Fahd said in a show of support at the inauguration of an airport in Jidda. "We (in Saudi Arabia) and the PLO are moving within the same framework."

The Palestine Liberation Organization chief, who went to Saudi Arabia from Algeria, had been unhappy about an apparent growing rapprochement between Saudi Arabia and Libya, according to Arab diplomatic sources.

Arafat blames Libya for inciting rebellion in Fatah, the largest of the eight PLO factions, in eastern Lebanon. The mutinous guerrillas, with some support from Syria, have complained that Arafat is pursuing a diplomatic rather than military solution to quest for Palestinian statehood.

Fahd dispatched Crown Prince Abdullah to Libya and Syria in an effort to resolve differences.

Arafat said: "We have great hopes that the liberation of Palestine and Jerusalem will be accomplished at the hands of His Majesty King Fahd."

In Tel Aviv, the opposition Labor Party submitted a motion Monday in the Knesset, Israel's parliament, demanding a judicial inquiry into the government's handling of the Lebanon war. No date was set for action on the motion.

Parliamentary sources said a vote was likely later this week and it appeared that Prime Minister Menachem Begin's Likud bloc would have enough votes to avoid an inquiry.

In Lebanon, Moslems staged a "national day of mourning" strike Monday to protest the occupation of southern and central Lebanon one year after the Israelis invaded to rout PLO guerrillas.

Israeli troops opened fire to break up a demonstration in eastern Lebanon, and Lebanese radio stations said eight people were wounded and at least 15 arrested. The demonstration occurred in the Bekaa Valley village of Kamed el-Loz on the Israeli-Syrian cease-fire line.

An Israeli military spokesman denied there were any casualties. He said the soldiers fired in the air to disperse the protesters.

Most Moslem-dominated areas of Lebanon observed the protest strike, including Sidon and Tyre in the south; Baalbek and Chitaura in Syrian-occupied east Lebanon, and in Tripoli, the biggest northern city.

Beirut's main commercial center was busy but Moslem-populated slum neighborhoods were quiet.

Lebanese Christian radio stations said the strike was enforced in north Lebanon by the Syrians and Palestinians.

The Syrians moved into Lebanon in 1976 during the Moslem-Christian civil war, and 30,000 troops remained as a peacekeeping force. The Palestinians relocated in Lebanon following their expulsion from Jordan in 1970, but an estimated 8,000 guerrillas were forced out of Beirut by the Israelis at the end of last summer.

In Beirut, a coalition of 11 Arab communist parties and trade union movements published a manifesto today pledging "collective struggle" to undermine the troop withdrawal agreement between Lebanon and Israel.

The document, published by the Lebanese Communist Party's newspaper, An-Nida, also vowed to block President Reagan's plan for an overall Arab-Israeli peace settlement in the Middle East.

An-Nida and other Beirut newspapers said the manifesto was signed by the communist parties of Lebanon, Syria, Jordan, Iraq, Saudi Arabia, Egypt, Sudan and Tunisia as well as the Palestinian Communist Party, the Bahrain National Liberation Front and the Socialist Vanguard Party of Algeria.

area mental health board, and appointed Phil Dixon to replace Allen Hahn as mental health board attorney. Reappointed to the Pitt County Community Advisory Board were Lillie Graham, John Bizzell and Samuel Hemby, while Susan Mullen and Reba Crandall were appointed as new members.

Commissioners also approved a request by the Greenville Jaycees to hold a fireworks display on July 4.

In other business, commissioners approved awarding the audit contract to Lloyd Moody for $14,750; approved turning over the $23,793 received from the dissolution of the Tar River Ports Commission to the East Carolina Vocational Center's building fund; and approved a contract to lease the U.S. Department of Agriculture an office on the second floor of the county office building, and provide limited secretarial service and copy machine use from July 1 to Sept. 30 for $2,412. The lease is expected to be renewed for the coming federal fiscal year for $9,448.

Commissioners met at noon with the county ABC Board to discuss budget matters and the location of an ABC store in Ayden.

ABC officials said several options are being looked at for the location of a new store in Ayden.

Promotions In ECU Faculty

ECU News Bureau
Eleven members of the East Carolina University faculty have received promotions to the rank of professor in departments and schools of the division of academic affairs.

Twelve others have received promotions to the rank of associate professor, according to Dr. Angelo A. Volpe, vice chancellor for academic affairs. All of the promotions will be effective Aug. 22.

Promoted from the rank of associate professor to full professor were:

Dr. W. Keats Sparrow, English; Dr. Scott W. Synder, geology; Dr. Mary Jo Bratton, history; Dr. Ramesh C. Ajmera, physics; Dr. Edward J. Seykora, physics; Norman B. Keller, school of art; Dr. William H. Collins, school of business; Dr. John D. Longhili, school of business; Dr. Edward W. Markowski, school of home economics; Dr. Joseph Distefano, school of music; Dr. Betsy W. Harper, school of technology.

Promoted from the rank of assistant professor to associate professor were:

Dr. Gerhard W. Kalmus, biology; Dr. Karen Baldwin, English; Dr. Bertie E. Fearing, English; Dr. Charles W. Sullivan III, English; Dr. Robert C. Barnes, health, physical education, recreation and safety; Dr. Martin J. Lutz Jr., psychology; Dr. Jasper C. Register, sociology, anthropology and economics; Dr. Dorothy H. non-magnet schools as long as this facilitates achieving racial balance.

One option included in the Magnet Program is to charge a fee to offset the expense of the program.

The agenda item scheduled for action but for which action was delayed until the June 20 meeting was that of adoption of five grade levels at Aycock Junior High for the coming school year. Following lengthy discussion on the pros and cons of the recommended changes, board members voted to have Superintendent Delma Blinson bring more information on the proposal to the board and to attempt to get a clear-cut consensus from the various committees who have been active in formulating the basis for the change from the current four levels to the proposed five levels of classes.

Other agenda items scheduled for action at the June 20 board meeting include the North Carolina Scholars Program for students at Aycock Junior High; an audit contract with J.C. Proctor and Co. for fiscal year 1982-83 not to exceed $10,000. The $10,000 limit is more than double the audit contract for the 81-82 fiscal year. The reason for the big jump is due to the fact the federal funds budgets as well as some categories of state funds will be included in the local audit as the result of new auditing procedures directed at state level. Blinson said he hopes the transfer of additional auditing responsibilities to local agencies will be accompanied by sending money with the switch in procedures.

Board members have been asked to review school bus routes with the idea of identifying routes that have possible traffic or road hazards that need to be corrected or eliminated.

A report presented by Director of Education Charles Ross reveals that according to unofficial figures received, students in grades 1, 2, 3, 6 and 9, with the exception of the first grade, are all on or above the national norm. Ross said the scores for the ninth grade were the highest ever achieved.

areas but across the entire university, have worked together will be a strong plus for teacher education programs that will undoubtedly impress the next NCATE (delegation) when it visits in the spring of 1984."

Coble, professor of science education who will become dean of the school of education, said the new structure has been discussed at length with officials of NCATE and the state department.

"Since governance was one of the major issues leading to the loss of accreditation by NCATE and to provisional approval by the Department of Public Instruction for all teacher education programs at ECU, I feel confident we will be able to fully meet this standard," Coble said.

Officials said the accrediting agencies will be invited to return next spring.
