Mideast Peace Envoy Is Taking A New Message

By R. GREGORY NOKES
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan's new Mideast peace envoy, Robert C. McFarlane, will travel to Arab capitals this weekend carrying a message that Israel is firmly committed to leaving Lebanon if Syrian troops also leave.

McFarlane participated in talks with Israeli leaders this week at which they assured the administration their plans for a partial troop withdrawal should not result in a permanent partition of Lebanon. A senior State Department official said McFarlane will be carrying some new ideas for gaining a withdrawal of Syrian forces, but that the ideas are consistent with the May 17 Israeli-Lebanese troop withdrawal agreement that Syria opposes.

Another official, who insisted on anonymity, said McFarlane will try to encourage the Saudis and other moderate Arab nations to pressure Damascus to withdraw, on grounds its refusal is all that is keeping Israeli troops in Lebanon.

However, such pressure tactics have failed in the past.

McFarlane will visit Syria, Lebanon, Israel, Egypt, Saudi Arabia and Jordan during the next week. Syria has agreed to receive McFarlane — it wouldn't receive his predecessor, Philip C. Habib — but has been cool to his mission.

Secretary of State George P. Shultz said following a 30-minute meeting Thursday between Reagan and Israel's foreign and defense ministers, Yitzhak Shamir and Moshe Arens, that the Israelis had made clear they intend to withdraw all their forces from Lebanon eventually.

"Any notion that this re-deployment is part of an effort to divide Lebanon is totally wrong," Shultz said. "Exactly to the contrary, it's a step in the direction of total withdrawal."

Shultz said he hoped the Israeli position "will have some impact" on Syria.

Arens and Shamir continued to insist that Israel won't completely withdraw its troops until Syrian forces also leave.

Syrian troops pulled back unexpectedly Thursday from Lebanon's northern port of Tripoli, an action Lebanese police accounts suggested was staged to show Syrians are needed to keep peace among more than a dozen rival militias seeking to dominate Lebanon's second largest city.

Syrian soldiers manned checkpoints on the outskirts of Tripoli, 50 miles north of Beirut, but none was seen in downtown areas.

Arens told a group of reporters later that the Israeli withdrawal was being done "in the anticipation that this will be a first move that would lead to the evacuation of all of Lebanon by all foreign forces."

ASSISTANTS, LPN'S BEING LET GO BY HOSPITAL?

I am a nursing assistant (nurse's aide, they used to call us) at the hospital. The word's going around here that after Oct. 1 (the beginning of the new fiscal year) there will be no more nursing assistants and licensed practical nurses hired by the hospital, that all of us are to be laid off and RN's hired to do our jobs. I think this is grossly unfair, especially to those of us who are getting older and will no doubt have trouble getting other jobs. And what a waste of taxpayers', individuals' and insurance company's money! Paying RN's to carry bedpans and bathe bodies! Is this the cost containment the administrators talk so much about being committed to?

Hospital Vice President of Nursing Services Betty Trought says it is not true that nursing assistants and LPN's are all being eliminated by Oct. 1. It is true, she said, that some positions on the nursing assistant, LPN and RN levels are being deleted to meet budget requirements. Not all of this process will be completed by Oct. 1, she said, as the hospital policy is to eliminate jobs through attrition, turnover, transfer to other departments within the hospital, or assistance with placement in other institutions.

She said your alarm probably comes from the fact that, in certain departments, licensed practical nurses are being eliminated, i.e., either moved to other departments or assisted in finding jobs in other institutions. This, she said, is because, under the new Nurse Practice Act, LPNs cannot perform many procedures and assessments that are needed by acutely ill patients. All LPN's, she said, are being eliminated in the emergency department, as they have been for some time in the critical care units. Some LPN positions in the medicine and surgery care units are also being eliminated. LPNs who are working toward B.S.N. degrees are being kept on, she said, and as many as possible are being transferred to less acute-care areas like rehabilitation.

It is true, too, she said, that the trend is toward having whole-task RN care, i.e., having the RN perform practical duties like the bathing and bedpan-carrying you mentioned, while they assess the degree of illness and perform the complicated procedures only they are qualified to do. Believe it or not, she said, cost-studies show that money is saved for the patient with this kind of care.

She asked that you, specifically, contact her at 757-4470, and that other aides and LPNs who are concerned talk with their department managers.

The total number of jobs to be eliminated to meet budget requirements is about 50, she indicated.

Leaf Prices Low Due Poor Demand

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The general manager of the Flue-Cured Tobacco Cooperative Stabilization Corp. says lack of demand, not quality, appears to be the reason behind low opening prices on the Georgia-Florida tobacco markets.

It's a disappointing opening, said Fred Bond of Cary, who traveled to Georgia for the market openings. "It's difficult to judge what will happen (when markets open Tuesday in North Carolina), but I think there will be a similar trend."

"I don't think quality is the problem," Bond said. "Demand was the problem. The primings were as good as any I've seen in several years. If quality is a problem, I did not detect it as far as that kind of tobacco was concerned."

The southernmost markets opened Wednesday with prices averaging about $12 per 100 pounds below the opening prices last year. Prices on some lower grades were down even more Thursday. The markets reported 37.1 percent of sales on opening day went to Stabilization, compared to 14.1 percent last year.

Tobacco that does not bring at least a penny a pound over the federal support price goes to Stabilization under government loan. A record 26 percent of last year's crop went to Stabilization.

The weak opening has stunned North Carolina tobacco officials who believed a high quality crop and a freeze on federal price supports this year would bring better prices.

"We're all down in the mouth right now, the farmers I've talked to," said William E. Little, commodities director for the N.C. Farm Bureau Federation.

Dr. T. Carlton Blalock, executive vice president of the Tobacco Growers Association of North Carolina, described himself as "bordering on scared."

"If our price drops as much as in Georgia-Florida, there are going to be a lot of scared farmers out there because they'll be afraid that they're not able to recover what they put into their crop," said John R. Cyrus, tobacco affairs chief for the N.C. Department of Agriculture.

Stabilization pays storage costs and interest out of fees assessed to farmers under the no-net-cost tobacco program mandated by Congress last year. The fee this year is $7 per 100 pounds, but some officials have warned that another heavy buying year for Stabilization could push the fee to $10 or more.

"That will take the cream off the milk," Cyrus said. "The weight of the no-net-cost program could cause the self-destruction of the whole tobacco program."

Cyrus said last year's Georgia-Florida opening day prices were much higher than those in North Carolina.

Niven Dies

LONDON (AP) — David Niven, the veteran British actor, has died in a Swiss hospital at age 73, his public relations agent in London said today.

Niven, who suffered from a debilitating neuro-muscular disorder for more than a year, died Thursday night, said Jane Sylvester of publicity agents Cowan Bell.

Asked the exact cause of the actor's death, she said: "We don't know but obviously it was from the illness he's had for some time."

Blame Military Moves For Covert Aid Cutoff

By W. DALE NELSON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Some of President Reagan's allies in Congress say recent and planned military moves by the administration probably contributed to House rejection of U.S. undercover aid to Nicaraguan rebels.

With a handful of GOP members joining most of the House's Democratic majority, the lawmakers voted Thursday to call off all secret military and intelligence aid to the Nicaraguan guerrillas by the end of the year.

With Republicans in control of the Senate, there is little chance the measure will reach Reagan's desk, where he would probably veto it anyway.

"It was a free vote," said Rep. Trent Lott of Mississippi, the Republican whip. "They know it really won't go into law."

"We will have to wait and see what the Senate does, but I think it sends a very powerful signal," said Rep. Jim Wright of Texas, the Democratic leader.

Lott said he thought the opponents of administration policy probably picked up two or more Republican votes because of announcements of naval and troop maneuvers in Central America, and the same developments may have "hardened" some Democratic votes against the administration.

Rep. W.C. Young, R-Fla., said, "Probably politically, it would have been better if this legislative debate and the exercise had not come at the same time."

Rep. William Whitehurst, R-Va., however, said he did not think the maneuvers had any effect.

The final count was 228-195, but Lott and others said the key to the outcome was an earlier vote of 223-203 against an administration-backed amendment to allow covert aid to continue.

Firm Rules Best For Children

Are you raising a spoiled, cranky, very aggressive child? Or is junior timid and clinging? Researchers have found that the parent's style of discipline may be the problem. "Parents who have few rules and allow the child to do just as he or she pleases often find themselves living with a person who is spoiled, cranky, whining and very aggressive," says Ellen T. Miller, Chatham County home economics agent with the Agricultural Extension Service. On the other hand, some parents expect immediate obedience, give little or no explanation for demands and often use physical punishment. They often have children who are timid and withdrawn and very dependent, or children who are extremely rebellious. Children who are responsible, cooperative and considerate of others usually have parents who are somewhere in the middle, researchers have found. These parents have a few important rules and enforce them consistently. They are firm, but also offer kindness, warmth and love. They take the child's age and uniqueness into account, recognizing that all youngsters have times when they are cranky or timid, rebellious and aggressive. They try to understand why the child acts the way he or she does, Mrs. Miller says.

Should She Believe Him?

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1983 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: My boyfriend moved in with me three months ago. (He's in his early 40s, and I'm in my early 30s.) He is a salesman and sells products in people's homes. There are times when he comes home as late as midnight — sometimes with makeup and lipstick on his shirt. (I don't wear makeup.) He swears he does not fool around. Should I believe him? Or should I throw him out?

CONFUSED

DEAR CONFUSED: No to your first question, and yes to your second.

DEAR ABBY: When Liz and I were married, she had a cat named Snowball. No problem. But when Snowball went to that big cathouse in the sky, Liz carried on as though she had lost a child. We gave Snowball a beautiful funeral and buried her in the pet cemetery in a velvet-lined casket the size of a shoebox. The price tag on that, believe it or not, was $2,500. Two years later we moved from Torrance, Calif., to Pittsfield, Mass., and Liz didn't want to leave Snowball, so she had her dug up and shipped to Massachusetts to be buried. That move cost me $1,200. OK, so now Snowball is in Massachusetts. I am now being transferred back to California (San Diego this time), and you guessed it, Liz wants to move Snowball again. I don't want to be a meanie, but I am the sole breadwinner in this family, and I have had it with moving dead cats! Liz says if I won't pay for moving Snowball to San Diego, she'll hock her engagement diamond to pay for it. What do you think?

COMPUTER EXPERT

DEAR EXPERT: Only a true cat lover can understand how another cat lover feels, so don't get your back up. Consider this: Have Snowball's remains cremated and kept in a lovely urn that can be easily transported without further needless expense. You and Liz could enjoy a lovely holiday if you'd just let sleeping cats lie.

DEAR ABBY: My father, who is 68, went to the hospital for what was supposed to be minor prostate surgery, but it turned out to be much more serious. The doctor discovered cancer so far gone he closed Dad up. My mother made the doctor promise he wouldn't tell Dad. Don't you think Dad has a right to know? It will just be a matter of time before he catches on. We, the children, are trying to persuade Mother to change her mind, but she insists that Dad is better off not knowing. She says, "Ignorance is bliss." What do you think?

THE CHILDREN

DEAR CHILDREN: There is little "bliss" in ignorance that creates false hope. I think your father should be told in order to attend to any unfinished business.

DEAR ABBY: I met a guy four months ago at the home of mutual friends. I took one look at him and I knew he was for me. He told me later it was the same for him. There is just one problem — he's living with a woman and has been for nearly two years. I know he loves me, but he's a very decent guy and doesn't want to walk out on her. He says she needs him, and she would probably kill herself if he left her. Abby, I need him, too. He is the first guy I have ever loved like this, and I know he loves me just as much. We have to sneak around to be together, and I hate it! He's on my mind night and day. Now I know what it's like to be lovesick. Please tell me what to do.

LOVESICK

DEAR LOVESICK: Face it, this "decent guy" is cheating on the woman he's been living with for two years. And you're helping him. Tell him you can no longer be a party to this sneaky business, and refuse to see him until you can meet openly and honestly. The rest is up to him.

INSULTING BEHAVIOR
NEW YORK (AP) — Don't wear green clothes in Southeast Asia, warns a consulting firm that advises U.S. businessmen on foreign protocol. The color is regarded as a sign of disease. Other cultural quirks businessmen should know include familiar gestures. Pointing a finger at some Africans or giving the "OK" sign to a Greek are both considered insults.

Americans Spend Money Unwisely On Diet Programs

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) — Are Americans spending their dollars and time wisely on diet and exercise programs?

"No," says Dr. Peter Wood, professor of medicine (research), Stanford University School of Medicine, and deputy director of the Stanford Heart Disease Prevention Program.

"In view of the millions of dollars Americans spend on weight loss programs and fitness, it is incredible that they swallow so much dietary nonsense," he says.

"We pay large sums of money to support legitimate scientific research on health, and then perversely choose to follow the latest unschooled huckster who promises to show us how to lose 20 pounds in a week," adds Wood, a researcher on nutrition and fitness for more than 30 years and author of a recent book, "California Diet and Exercise Program."

According to Wood, to be acceptable, any diet plan should incorporate these 10 features:

—Safety: The diet must provide through various foods sufficient nutrients and vitamins to meet the body's needs.

—Effectiveness: Proper, well-balanced diets take time. Diets that are too fast, too ambitious or make ridiculous claims will usually fail.

—Maintenance: Look for a plan that puts you on a temporary calorie-restricted

Additives are ingredients added to foods in which they are not naturally present. Vitamin A is a natural ingredient of butter, but is an additive when put in margarine.

diet. People do not like permanent diets, with the result that most quit. Look for a diet plan that tells you not only how to lose weight, but how to maintain weight loss as well.

—Scientific: A successful and permanent reduction of weight is based on science. It is always nice to dream about effortless and struggle-free weight loss programs, but science tells us otherwise.

—Healthful: A successful weight loss plan not only reduces the risk of chronic disease, but also improves your quality of life. A proper diet and exercise program means better health in general, and this aids the body in fighting many physical disorders.

—Fitness: A person attempting to lose weight must participate in some form of daily exercise. Scientific evidence shows that weight maintenance is much easier for active people than for sedentary people. Regular exercise promotes physical fitness and frequently brings on other health benefits which cannot be achieved through weight loss alone.

—Exercise: As your level of activity increases, it becomes possible to eat more and still maintain a desirable weight.

—True Loss: A gradual weight loss plan will promote the loss of body fat rather than merely water. This plan helps keep the weight off permanently.

—Inexpensive: A successful weight loss diet will stress inexpensive, healthful foods as well as exercise that can be designed to suit your lifestyle. Walking, cycling, swimming and jogging are basically sound, inexpensive exercises and burn off many calories. No pills, expensive "diet aids" or health spas are needed.

—Enjoyable: Progressive weight loss and enjoyable exercises can make dieting bearable. If the weight loss process is pleasant it will naturally tend to be successful.

CONSUMER PROTECTION
The Food and Drug Administration and the Consumer Product Safety Commission set standards for products and ban those which represent a real hazard to consumers, but many people are still injured each year.

The government can never completely protect consumers, say family resource management specialists at North Carolina State University. What may be safe for one person is not necessarily safe for another, and almost any product used incorrectly has the potential to harm someone.

The consumer also has a responsibility for safety. Follow instructions and practice good maintenance of appliances and equipment. Use good sense and watch out for others to prevent dangerous situations.

Thrift In Dining

Reading where Agriculture Secretary John R. Block and his family would skip fancy dinners for a week and live on food stamp fare brought visions of the Block family dining on molasses, corn meal and fat back.

Further reading, however, tells us that the Blocks can have nutritious meals on a food stamp budget. In fact the $58 per week which a family of four would receive in food stamps is about the amount the Block family normally spends although, of course, they often dine elsewhere.

Nevertheless, the $58 per week does not seem to be a skimpy amount for a family of four, particularly when one considers that non-food items so often picked up in a supermarket are not part of the food stamp allowance.

The Block family will use the Agriculture Department's thrifty food plan as its guide. Any family can do the same.

Prospect Is Unappealing

The prospect of rewarding a political campaigner, who was allegedly behind the circulation of what some see as racist literature, with an appointment to a post in government broadcasting is unappealing.

Thomas Ellis of Raleigh is said to have been a force in the 1976 N.C. primary campaign which saw the distribution of the material.

A majority of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee had asked that Ellis' name be withdrawn as a candidate for a position on the Board for International Broadcasting. Today he obliged.

Ellis acknowledged he circulated a handbill in behalf of Ronald Reagan in that campaign ... and that when Reagan visited North Carolina he was told by an aide "we would like you not to distribute it"; the handbill claimed then-President Ford wanted Sen. Edward Brooks as a running mate. (The judgment as to whether the handbill was "racist" is best left to the individual.)

Our government does not need that kind of embarrassment to detract it from work in a multitude of fields in which it operates. There are a many fingers waiting to be pointed at Washington if this nomination had come to pass.

Thomas Ellis was too heavy a load to be carried by Washington.

Legislature Is Not A Private Domain

—Paul T. O'Connor—

RALEIGH — North Carolina now has an Official Secrets Act.

During the final days of the 1983 session, the General Assembly passed into law a gag on all legislative employees. They will be in violation of state law, from here on in, if they reveal any information given to them in confidence by a legislator. There are no criminal penalties for this law but they can be fired for breaking the law.

The legislative staff is often requested to either prepare reports or legislation for legislators. Under current personnel rules, that information is confidential. The assembly has put that rule into the statutes and in the process appears to have severely damaged staff morale and created a mechanism for keeping information from the public. The new law might also boomerang on them by making it more difficult for legislators to get information out of the staff.

Sen Gerry Hancock, D-Durham, opposed the bill on the grounds that it's not needed. "We're trying to codify a rule and it's a silly rule in the first place," he said. Hancock predicts that the law will put a "chill on communications" between legislators and staff. If eight legislators are working with one staffer on a bill, Hancock asks, how is that staffer going to keep clear what is confidential and what is not. If one senator asks how another senator stands on a possible amendment, how is the staffer going to remember if the second senator's stand is public or confidential?

The public can expect this law to be used to help hide studies which are prepared at state expense. For example, a legislator asks a staffer to prepare an economic forecast. The results, instead of proving the legislator's political point, disprove it. So, the legislator sits on the report. We've paid for that report, it could be essential to public policy, but no one can see it. If the staffer releases the report, he gets fired and it goes down on his record that he broke the law.

As the public records law used to read, it was up to debate as to whether the public had a right to see that report. Now, there's no question. We can't. Terry Sullivan, director of general research for the assembly, said he requested the law to make sure those records wouldn't be made public. "You can argue that everything we produce at any time is a public record," he said in an interview. He argued to the House Judiciary I Committee that the law was needed so that reports would not be considered public.

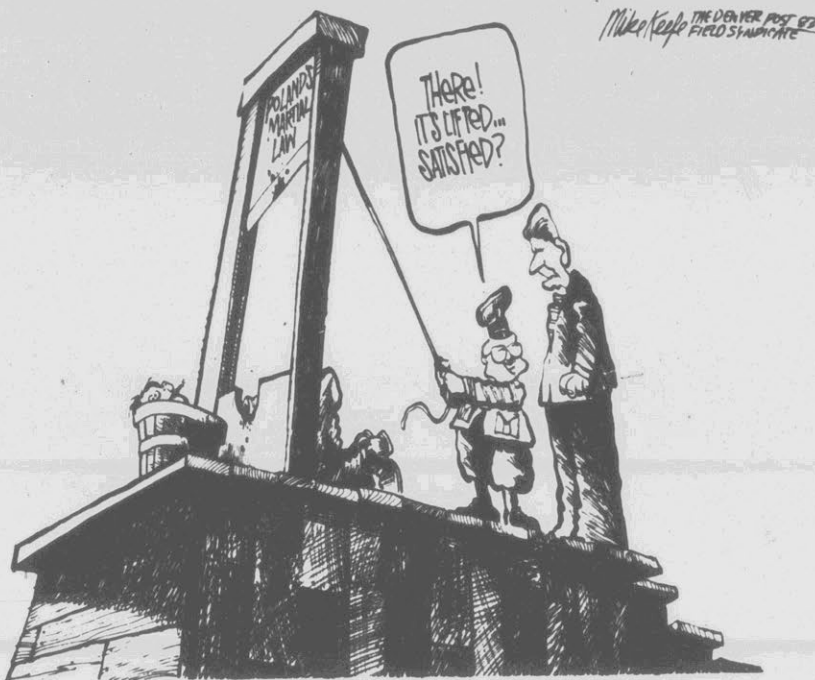

Hugh Stevens, lobbyist for the N.C. Press Association, says he isn't concerned about the bill because "the staff isn't leaking information to the press. The legislators are." Stevens said, in reference to the staff, that the law "created one heckuva morale problem down there."

Stevens is absolutely right about the staff. They don't leak information to the press. What they do is provide the press with solid, objective public information — stuff that's already been released. They explain state and federal rules and, in that way, are extremely valuable in making legislative developments understandable to the public. Legislators themselves will often defer to staff to explain what they've just voted upon.

One staffer said the law was "ridiculous" and a case of "overkill." The law is "a tool of intimidation." Another described the law as totally unneeded, saying: "Every committee talks about abuses. I haven't seen any."

Supporters of the bill say legislators need this confidentiality. They forget that the Legislature is not their private domain. It's a public body and information the staff gathers — at public expense — should be public.

Disaster Helps Sell Insured Investments

NEW YORK (AP) — There's nothing like a disaster to help sell insurance.

That's equally true in the wake of financial storms as it is when floods, earthquakes or fire strike. Investors are just as eager to protect themselves against losses as homeowners, motorists and businessmen.

The latest disaster to hit the financial world was the record default this week of the Washington Public Power Supply System on $2.25 billion in bonds for its canceled nuclear plants 4 and 5.

With bonds on those projects now trading at under 15 cents on the dollar, with investors shaken by four years of volatile interest rates and with doubts remaining about the chances for a sustained economic recovery without a resurgence of inflation, it is not surprising that insured investments are thriving.

"The growth of the industry is phenomenal," said Sharon Winfield, a vice president and manager for institutional marketing at American Municipal Bond Assurance Corp., a company that insures tax-exempt bonds. "A lot of it is peace of mind."

For example:

— Deposits in insured money market accounts at banks and savings associations have swollen to $368.6 billion in the first seven months of their existence, according to the Federal Reserve Board. Up to $100,000 in such accounts is insured.

— Sales of insured, tax-exempt unit investment trusts soared to a record $1.82 billion in the first six months of the year from $999.5 million in the first half of 1982, according to Van Kampen Merritt

Inc., the leading sponsor of such municipal bond funds. Investors, who buy shares of a diversified bond portfolio, typically give up about a quarter of a percentage point to a third of a percentage point in yield on the investment in return for insurance guaranteeing payment of the principal and interest for the life of those bonds.

— Between 1971 and 1982, the value of new bond issues covered by either of the two leading insurers grew from $2 million a year to $6.2 billion, according to the American Municipal Bond Assurance Corp., known as Ambac. The Municipal Bond Insurance Association, the largest insurer of municipal bonds and notes, says the value of new bond issues it insured in the first half of this year, about $3.6 billion, outstripped its coverage for all of 1982.

Standard & Poor's Corp. gives its highest credit ranking, AAA, to bonds insured by either issuer. Borrowers, such as state and local governments, often find it easier and less costly to sell bonds with such insurance.

The reduced return in exchange for an insured investment may not be for everyone.

"If you are a sophisticated investor maybe you are able to do much better. But you may want to sacrifice yield knowing you are getting insurance backing," said Howard Sitzer, vice president for municipal bond research at Thomson McKinnon Securities Inc.

Ms. Winfield at Ambac called the Washington state power system default "a good story for us."

Ambac has guaranteed payment of principal and interest totaling $76.5 million over the life of the defaulted power system bonds it has insured.

"It's the biggest hit we've ever had, but it would not pose any problem to us to pay the policyholders," Ms. Winfield said.

Leon Karvelis Jr., a senior vice president at Municipal Bond Insurance Association, said his company did not insure any Washington power system bonds. But he said the unrest resulting from the lengthy financial turmoil in the Pacific Northwest has improved his firm's business.

"Sure it's of comfort to investors to know they have a triple-A investment," he said.

Jack Merritt, president of Van Kampen Merritt, said, "You are seeing more municipalities than ever with a question mark on security."

Van Kampen stopped buying bonds in Washington Public Power Supply System projects 4 and 5 in April 1981. But he said some of those bonds make up a small portion of both insured and uninsured trusts.

Insured trusts at his firm carry $23.3 million in bonds issued by the power system, including some of the defaulted bonds, he said. Uninsured trusts at Van Kampen carry about $19 million in the power system's bonds, most of them for the defaulted projects.

Sitzer said that while insurance provides additional security to investments, some uncertainties have touched some insurers.

He cited the image problems faced by Ambac, a unit of Baldwin-United Corp., a financial services company that is struggling to avoid collapse.

It Costs More For Armed Forces

The Department of Defense's inspector general has revealed that 15,000 Air Force and Navy spare parts have skyrocketed more than 50 percent from 1980-82. Twenty-seven percent of 4,000 items checked had risen more than 500 percent. These were not sophisticated items but things you can buy in any hardware store.

I was skeptical of the figures until I went into a hardware store near the Pentagon for a few household items.

"I would like a two and a half inch bolt," I told the man.

"Is this for yourself or for the Air Force?" the man asked.

"It's for me," I replied. "What's the difference?"

"Well, if you were buying it for the Air Force it would cost you $17.59. But since it's for you I can let you have it for 67 cents."

"How come there are two prices?"

"If we charged the Air Force 67 cents they wouldn't believe the bolt was any good. But if they pay $17.59 they feel they're getting something for their money."

"I also need a connector socket."
"For your private use or the Navy's?"
"I'm not sure yet."
"Well, please make up your mind. If you're buying it for yourself it will cost you our advertised price of $13.03. But if you're with Navy procurement we'll have to charge you $143.28."
"How come the Navy has to pay so much more for a connector socket?"

"Quality control."
"Won't they wind up with the same one I'm buying?"
"Of course. But whoever heard of the Navy paying wholesale for a connector socket."
"You must like doing business with the armed services."
"We certainly do. This engine bushing which sells for $2.83 to the man on the street costs the military $57.52."

"Don't you feel bad about overcharging the defense people?"

"We don't set the prices. They're decided by the defense contractors who make equipment for the armed forces. There's a spare parts list for the Pentagon and there is another for the consumer. If the people who buy spare parts for the Navy and Air Force are willing to pay the price, we're not going to fight them."

"As a taxpayer I think this is outrageous. Surely they must have comparison shoppers in the military who keep track of what things really cost."

"They do. They're called whistleblowers. Everytime one reports that the Air Force and Navy is paying too much for its spare parts, he gets moved to another department where he can't do any damage."

"How do the defense contractors get away with it?"

"Spare parts are the key to a war machine. The contractors have to bid openly on a plane or ship, so they can only make a reasonable profit on it — but once they build it they can charge anything they please for spares that go with it."

"I thought that Casper Weinberger said there was no waste in the military budget."

"He says a lot of things, because he doesn't want to rock the Pentagon boat with Congress. But between you and me he doesn't know beans about spare parts."

"Is the inspector general going to catch it for his report that the spare parts situation is out of control?"

"On the contrary, they'll probably send him to the Aleutians, for a few years to further his career."

"Why doesn't the Pentagon just send their men in civilian clothes out to all the hardware stores in the country and buy what the military needs at the same price you sell it to us?"

"I asked that question of an Air Force procurement officer the other day," the hardware salesman replied, "and the only reason he could think of is that when the military purchases spare parts they insist on having them gift wrapped."

—Elisha Douglass—

Strength For Today

Many people profess to be skeptical at the suggestion that, spiritually, a person can be born again. They look askance at those who speak of themselves as reborn or twice-born Christians.

But why? Anybody who believes in spiritual realities at all believes that man is both a physical and a spiritual being. And certainly the Bible maintains this to be true.

Man is made in the image and after the likeness of God. He has a soul, and the soul is definitely related to the spiritual Being who created him. And of course he has a body.

As it takes an earthly father to bring about our birth as physical beings, so it takes a spiritual, heavenly father to bring about our birth as spiritual beings.

The experience of spiritual rebirth does not always come about in the same way for all people, but the impartation of spiritual life into the soul must somehow come about. "Ye must be born again."

'I told 'em to come back tomorrow—we've got a good deal on the Brooklyn Bridge!'

Ellis Drops Nomination To Position

By W. DALE NELSON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — In the wake of a racial dispute that prompted the withdrawal of his nominee to a government broadcasting post, President Reagan says "nothing has frustrated me more" than claims that he is prejudiced.

In remarks to a group of black women Thursday, Reagan made no reference to the withdrawal of Thomas Ellis, a Raleigh, N.C., attorney as his nominee for a seat on the Board for International Broadcasting.

But he said it frustrates him to be considered "prejudiced, if not an outright bigot."

"I've lived a long time, and I can't remember a time when I didn't believe that prejudice and bigotry were the worst of sins in the sight of man and God," Reagan said in prepared remarks for the National Council of Negro Women.

Ellis, in a letter asking the president to withdraw his name, told Reagan that racial charges against his nomination were "an obvious partisan political effort to drive a wedge between you and the black community."

Sen. Paul Tsongas, D-Mass., who led the criticism of Ellis in the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said, "I think if he would look he would see that there was a wedge long before I got there. If the president wanted to remove the wedge, why this appointment?"

Tsongas and Sen. Joseph Biden, D-Del., lined up a majority of the committee as signers of a letter to Reagan on Wednesday requesting him to withdraw the nomination.

"Frankly, I do not mind taking whatever heat these two ultra-liberal senators want to generate in my direction," said Ellis, who heads the National Congressional Club, a political action committee formed to support Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C. "However, I believe it is vital to America that they and their ilk be denied the opportunity to use me to hinder your struggle to return to economic stability and provide an adequate national defense to our nation."

In a letter to Ellis, Reagan said: "I regret the circumstances that have led to your decision, but I want to add that during this affair, you have acted in a manner consistent with the reputation for honor that you have always possessed. I know that reputation among your friends and associates will continue to be strong."

"Please accept my best wishes for future success."

Ellis said his withdrawal was not requested by the administration.

Questions were raised at the hearing about Ellis' past membership on the board of the Pioneer Fund, which his critics said financed research on the theory that blacks are genetically inferior to whites.

Ellis acknowledged in his testimony that in 1976, as Reagan's campaign manager in the North Carolina presidential primary, he circulated a reprint of a newspaper article saying President Ford was considering then-Sen. Edward Brooke, R-Mass., a black, as his running mate. Use of the material was discontinued at the request of Reagan aides.

Tsongas said he believed Ellis "showed good judgment and saved a lot of unnecessary travail" by withdrawing, but, "Obviously he did not understand our concern about the racial issues."

N.C. Blue Mold Said In Decline

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — Blue mold is on the decline in North Carolina, says N.T. Powell, North Carolina State University tobacco specialist.

Powell said most flue-cured tobacco producing counties report the fungus has subsided, although there is still some problem in Stokes County.

He said most other tobacco states also reported a decrease in blue mold, a disease which attacks tobacco plant beds not treated with a fungicide.

First Colony War Won By North State

North State Savings & Loan Corp. of Greenville has come out on top in a battle for control of a Southern Pines financial institution to score what the president of the local firm termed both a "moral and financial" victory for the four-year-old S&L.

The victory came in an agreement between North State and First Financial Savings & Loan Inc. of Kinston giving North State the right to gain control of First Colony Savings and Loan. Officials of all three firms said the agreement was amicable.

North State President William D. Reagan Jr., First Financial President Thomas W. Heath Jr. and First Colony President Paul W. Clark jointly announced that the agreement calls for First Financial to tender and North State to accept all shares of First Colony previously bought by First Financial.

The officials said in a news statement that North State will pay First Financial $17 per share until midnight Aug. 4.

Reagan said that as a result of the transaction, North State had purchased to date 469,344 shares of First Colony common stock representing approximately 69 percent of the firm's outstanding shares.

According to Reagan, effective immediately First Financial has withdrawn its offer to purchase all First Colony shares and has instructed its depository, North Carolina National Bank, to return any shares received by First Financial after Thursday to the tendering shareholder and advise that those shares be tendered to the Greenville corporation.

The North State spokesman said the agreement represented a "very important victory for us. It was, I believe, both a moral and financial victory." He added that, "We are happy that it appears it turned out to be an amicable agreement."

Reagan said, "Our image as a 'white knight' was very important and was paramount with other considerations. It increased our rapport and understanding with the First Colony people, which is sometimes very difficult, and we feel very proud of that." He said North State's next step is to "make certain our victory was also a financial victory."

Reagan said that within the next 12 months, there will be a merger of First Colony with North State Savings or one of the subsidiaries of North State Financial Corp.

The addition of First Colony gives North State over $300 million in assets and upwards of 20 offices in an area extending from Greenville to Windsor and Wilmington and westward to Albemarle-Stanley County and Charlotte.

First Financial had initiated the battle for First Colony control when it made an offer of $13 per share to First Colony's shareholders in early June. North State entered the race after First Colony invited the firm to submit a higher bid. Subsequent bidding resulted in the per share offers reaching the final $17 figure.

Hunt Discloses Landfill Plans

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Gov. Jim Hunt today recommended that North Carolina adopt federal regulations for hazardous waste disposal — with four exceptions he called “essential to the protection of public health and the environment.”

Hunt also said he would oppose any permit for a hazardous waste landfill until the Legislature enacts a new waste disposal law. The Legislature adjourned last week after abandoning efforts to reach a House-Senate compromise on the subject.

Under a 1981 provision, North Carolina is prohibited from imposing any hazardous waste regulations stricter than those set down by the federal government.

That provision, known as the Hardison amendment for its sponsor, Sen. Harold Hardison, D-Lenoir, would be repealed under a hazardous waste bill approved by the state House. But the Senate rewrote the House bill, deleting the Hardison amendment repeal but allowing the state to exceed federal standards in four areas.

Those exceptions include:

- More stringent landfill liner requirements;
- A ban on disposal of liquid wastes in landfills;
- Requiring annual reports from all hazardous waste generators in the state; and
- Use of alternative disposal technologies whenever possible.

Because the Legislature couldn't agree on a law, Hunt said he would ask the Commission on Health Services to adopt the federal standards with the four exceptions beginning next month.

Otherwise, he said, the federal Environmental Protection Agency will take over the state's hazardous waste program and operate it out of Atlanta.

“I have said many times that the federal regulations are clearly inadequate,” said Hunt. “I therefore believe it is essential that the General Assembly enact legislation in 1984 that will put teeth in our regulations.”

Police Resume Videotaping

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Reacting to eight unsolved killings of young men linked to the city's homosexual community, police have resumed videotaping male prostitution in downtown areas.

The taping, done both openly and covertly, began Wednesday night, and is “the most effective deterrent” to prostitution, Police Chief Joseph G. McAtee said Wednesday.

Police taped male prostitutes downtown for a short time last fall, and began taping female prostitutes on the north side this summer.

Police have said they believe at least two killers are involved in the slayings, which began in June 1980.

$35,000 To Zoo Visitor

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — A zoo visitor has been awarded $35,000 for injuries he received when he was hit on the head by a rock heaved by an African bull elephant.

Douglas County District Court Judge Theodore Richling ruled Thursday that the Henry Doorly Zoo was liable for Thomas M. Caron's injuries, and a jury awarded the money for medical costs, lost earnings and unspecified general damages.

Using Panama Canal To Ship Weapons

By MIKE FEINSILBER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — It is an irony of history that the Soviet freighter Ronald Reagan says is "right now" heading for Nicaragua with a load of helicopters will first pass through the Panama Canal — with a helping hand from America.

American technicians still run the Panama Canal whose "giveaway" Ronald Reagan emphatically denounced in the campaigns of 1976 and 1980.

Everywhere Reagan went in 1976, he said this about the Panama Canal: "We built it, we paid for it, it's ours."

Jimmy Carter negotiated two treaties turning the canal over to Panama, but the transfer won't be completed until Dec. 31, 1999.

Until then, "it's ours."
The Panama Canal Commission, an agency of the U.S. government, runs it. Some 1,100 Americans work with Panamanians, opening and closing the locks.

And it would be an act of belligerency for the United States to keep the Soviet ship U/Yanov from passing through the canal en route to the port of Corinto on the western coast of Nicaragua.

"By long-standing U.S. and international practice, the canal is a waterway that's open to the ships of all nations," says a State Department expert, who discussed the situation only with assurances of anonymity.

"The United States doesn't have a legal right to stop Soviet ships just because they're Soviet ships," he said.

The Panama Canal treaties won't alter that. They provide — at American insistence — that the canal will remain a neutral passageway.

Reagan made no threat against Soviet ships at his news conference Tuesday night. He pointed to the peaceful passage of the U/Yanov as evidence of American moderation.

"It is carrying a load of military equipment, helicopters for military purposes and so forth," he said. "And no one shot at them."

Other Soviet ships have passed through the canal en route to Corinto, the only Nicaraguan port capable of accommodating big vessels. This spring, the White House distributed what it said were reconnaissance photographs showing Soviet vessels unloading military cargo at Corinto.

The United States claims that weapons are smuggled through the leftist Sandinista government of Nicaragua to guerrillas fighting the American-backed government in El Salvador.

The Reagan administration cut off aid to Nicaragua in 1981 for that reason and lent support to anti-Sandinista rebels based in Honduras.

Now Nicaragua, with the help of the Soviet Union and Bulgaria, is building a Caribbean coast deep-water port at El Bluff. It will be capable of handling 25,000-ton ships, ending Nicaragua's dependence on the Panama Canal.

All this makes American conservatives, recalling Reagan's campaign against the canal treaties, scratch their heads.

"Yes, it is ironic," Richard Viguerie, publisher of Conservative Digest, said Wednesday. "Reagan got to the White House probably on the Panama Canal issue more than any other. It was what launched his campaign in '76. He took off after losing three primaries in a row when he went after the Panama Canal."

Midler Out Of Hospital Care

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — Singer Bette Midler planned a concert in Minneapolis tonight after a two-day hospital stay for treatment of exhaustion and a stomach disorder, a hospital spokeswoman said.

The 40-year-old entertainer was released from Pontiac General Hospital Thursday in good condition, said nursing supervisor Sue Edwards.

Ms. Midler was performing on the last night of a three-day stint at the Pine Knob Music Theater near Clarkston when she fainted Tuesday night. Theater officials canceled the concert and offered ticket refunds.

"Now we see these issues come full circle. He ran for president attacking Henry Kissinger and the Panama Canal and now we see Kissinger helping make policy for Reagan and the Soviets using the Panama Canal. It gets curiouser and curiouser."

Howard Phillips, chairman of the Conservative Caucus, recalled that supporters of the treaties, during the debate, argued the canal had lost strategic importance because it could be taken out of use with a single bomb or by closing a lock.

"If they are right," said Phillips, "let's close one of those locks and stop that ship from going through. The fact is the communists are at war with this country in this hemisphere, and on that basis it can be justified."

Facts About The BIBLE BY JOHN LEHTI

EATING CUSTOMS

THE ISRAELITES USUALLY ATE IN THE MORNING AND IN THE EVENING. (EXODUS 16:12, I KINGS 17:6) HOWEVER, THIS CUSTOM DID NOT FORBID EATING AT OTHER HOURS. LABORERS ALSO PARTOOK OF A MEAL AT NOON. (RUTH 2:14) THE ESSENEES WERE STRICTER AND DID WITH ONLY TWO MEALS, THE FIRST BEING ABOUT ELEVEN O'CLOCK, AFTER THE MORNING PRAYERS FOR THE DAY, AND THE OTHER IN THE EVENING. LATER, ABOUT THE TIME OF JESUS, STRICTER JEWS BROKE THE FAST OF THE NIGHT BY A MEAL AFTER THE NINE A.M. PRAYERS, AND ON THE SABBATH FOOD WAS NOT SERVED BEFORE TWELVE NOON AFTER THE SYNAGOGUE SERVICE, BUT THE CHIEF MEAL OF THE DAY ALWAYS TOOK PLACE IN THE EVENING HOURS. LIKE THE MODERN ARABS, THE ISRAELITES WASHED THEIR HANDS BEFORE EATING SINCE GENERALLY THERE WAS A COMMON DISH INTO WHICH EVERYONE'S HAND DIPPED. A PIECE OF BREAD SERVED AS A SPOON AND WAS DIPPED INTO THE BOWL OF MEAT OR THICK SOUP OR POTTAGE AND WAS LADLED OUT WITH THE HOLLOW OF THE HAND INTO A DISH.

Re-Examine Judaism Tie

NEW YORK (AP) — Upset by Reform Judaism's action to recognize the child of a Jewish father as Jewish when the mother isn't Jewish, Orthodox rabbis are examining whether they can continue to work in umbrella groups with Reform rabbis.

The Orthodox representative body, the Rabbinical Council of America, is "finding it more difficult to maintain its relationship with the Reform movement," says the council's president, Rabbi Gilbert Klaperman.

The council has named sociologist Chaim Waxman as a consultant to its special re-evaluation commission, which is issuing a questionnaire seeking attitudes of Orthodox rabbis.

The council earlier denounced the Central Conference of American Rabbis, representing Reform Judaism, for saying a child's Jewish identity can be determined by father's Jewishness if the mother is non-Jewish.

Traditionally, a child had to have a Jewish mother to be considered Jewish. Orthodox rabbis say changing the rule would destroy the unity of Judaism and encourage intermarriage.

Constructing WMU Offices

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Construction has been launched on a new $5.5 million national headquarters for the Southern Baptist Woman's Missionary Union.

WMU president Dorothy Elliott Sample, a Flint, Mich., psychologist, said the building with three wings will be more than twice the size of the present offices. Occupancy was expected by next June.

The organization, with a staff of 150 and 1.1 million members, designs and plans missions education and promotion for Southern Baptist congregations.

Have Come To Bring Them Life" (John 10:10).

Scoundrel His Biblical Choice

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP)

McCurley of Philadelphia's Lutheran Theological Seminary who led daily Bible studies at the affair, replied:

"Jacob, because he was such a scoundrel. Everything he does is cheat, cheat, cheat. God nevertheless keeps coming to Jacob and saying, 'I promise to you...' God's promises don't depend on us being perfect people. I can identify with him as being a scoundrel and depend on God's love nevertheless."

The market is steady and the live supply is moderate instances short for a moderate to good demand. Weights light. Estimated slaughter of broilers and fryers in North Carolina Friday was 1,367,000, compared to 1,600,000 last Friday.

Hens
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) (NCDA) — The North Carolina hen market was steady

trending higher for next week. Supplies short due to lower egg production from hot weather. Demand good for short supplies. Prices paid per pound for hens over 7 pounds at farm for Wednesday, Thursday and Friday slaughter was 14-16, mostly 16 cents.

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices continued a broad slide today amid concern over rising interest rates.

Three stocks fell in price for every one that rose in the midday tally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues, with oil issues leading the decline.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, down 27.34 points since Wednesday, fell another 6.81 points to 1,219.54 at noon. The blue-chip average had been down 11.52 points in the opening 30 minutes of trading.

Before the selloff began at midweek, the Dow Jones industrials had flirted with record heights and briefly topped the 1,250 mark.

The market's retreat was triggered by heavy losses in the technology stocks and widened Thursday as interest rates began rising again in the bond market. Rising interest rates make returns on stocks less attractive as well as threatening to disrupt the economy's broad recovery.

There were new signs today that economic growth remains strong as the Commerce Department said its index of leading indicators, the government's main gauge of future economic activity, rose 1 percent in June. It was the 11th monthly gain over the past 12 months.

But traders are wary following congressional testimony Thursday by Federal Reserve Board Chairman Paul Volcker, who warned that rising private demand for credit in the recovery is beginning to clash with the government's huge appetite for funds, something that could push interest rates higher.

The Treasury is set to begin another record round of borrowing next week.

The NYSE's composite index fell .77 to 94.94. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was off 1.60 at 239.25.

Big Board reached 40.26 million shares a third of the way through the session, against 33.54 million in the same period Thursday.

Standard Oil of California topped the active list on the NYSE, down 1½ at 35½, in trading that included a block of 622,300 shares changing hands at 32½ a share.

Other active energy issues included Phillips Petroleum, down ¾ at 34½; Atlantic Richfield, off 1¼ at 47¾; Mobil, down ¾ at 30¾; and Unocal, off 1½ at 30¾.

Analysts said oil stocks were being carried lower by the general market retreat and by disappointment that recent industry earnings reports showed only gradual gains in profit.

Publisher In Wilson Dies

ELIZABETH SWINDELL

WILSON, N.C. (AP) — Elizabeth Gold Swindell, publisher of the Wilson Daily Times for 28 years and daughter of its founder, died Thursday. She was 86.

Mrs. Swindell began her newspaper career in 1933 when her husband, Frederick Dudley Swindell, died. In 1955 she bought out a former partner.

In 1963 Mrs. Swindell became the first woman to be elected president of the North Carolina Press Association. She had served as vice president in 1945-46 and on the board of directors in 1943-48.

Daily Times editor Roy Taylor praised her as a master in her field.

"Mrs. Swindell was a hard task master," he said. "There was no place in her newspaper for poor workmanship, whether in the printed word, the makeup or the art work...but Mrs. Swindell was completely fair and understanding and she considered her employees her most valuable asset...She set an example for us and gave us a model to go by."

The funeral was scheduled for 3 p.m. Saturday at St. Timothy's Episcopal Church in Wilson.

MacPhail Reverses Ruling

NEW YORK (AP) — George Brett spoke of the "courage" of American League President Lee MacPhail. Rick Cerone wondered why MacPhail would overrule his umpires. And Joe Brinkman, one of those umpires, hoped the rule in question would be changed.

They were reacting to Thursday's decision by MacPhail to overturn the ruling of the umpires and uphold a protest by the Kansas City Royals, who wanted Brett's two-run, two-out homer in the top of the ninth inning at New York last Sunday restored.

The home run gave the Royals a 5-4 lead...until Brinkman and crew ruled Brett's bat was illegal because it had too much pine tar on it.

"I think it showed a lot of courage," said Brett. "He's a native New Yorker and he lives there. I would not have wanted to make that decision."

"That was a very, very tough decision."

In a long statement read at a news conference Thursday, MacPhail said the fact that Brett had too much pine tar on his bat was not sufficient grounds to nullify a potential game-winning homer.

MacPhail said in the statement that the intent of the rule was to discipline batters using doctored bats "to increase distance potential, but not to treat pine tar excesses in the same manner." The intent, he said, of the pine tar rule was to keep baseballs from getting dirty.

So, the game will be resumed with two out in the top of the ninth inning and the Royals leading 5-4, instead of the Yankees winning 4-3 through the nullification. They could resume on Aug. 18, an open date for the two clubs, or continue after the season, if it has a bearing on either division title, MacPhail said. If it can't be replayed during the season and is unnecessary at the season's conclusion, Brett's homer still stands, but the game will not count.

Cerone, who was the catcher when Brett blasted Rich Gossage's pitch into the seats, thought the umpires weren't getting a fair shake.

"What makes me feel funny is that the integrity of the umpires is being questioned," said catcher Rick Cerone. "They showed me a lot of character that day and if I was an umpire, I know I'd be making some pretty strong statements right now."

Added Brinkman, the crew chief for the game:

"In definitions of an illegally batted ball, it definitely states that any pine tar or any substance beyond the 18 inches will constitute an illegally batted ball," said Brinkman. "Therefore, you have to call the batter out. That's in Rule 2. That's the rule that everybody seems to be missing. Everybody's going from Rule 110 to Rule 66 and they're leaving out Rule 2 which definitely states that the batter shall be called out for illegally batting a ball. "We did what we had to do on the field," Brinkman added. "Lee MacPhail, of course, is the judge. He can overrule us and he did in this case. I wasn't happy with it, but he is the judge, he is the president and he is the boss."

"I don't think it's going to change the umpires' thinking at all. You're still going to have to do what you've been trained to do. We can't get into what would've happened or what should have happened, which team should have won the pennant, which team should have won the ballgame. We just have to officiate balls and strikes and safe and out."

"I definitely think it (the rule) should be changed. I was hoping they would change it after the fact, maybe at the end of season or after the incident. But he sees fit to change it now and overrule us, and I think it's a good rule to be changed..."

The ruling ended one of the most celebrated investigations in baseball and also marked the first time in his tenure that MacPhail has upheld the protest by a club of an umpire's decision.

The ruling also, at least temporarily, knocked the Yankees out of a first-place tie with Baltimore in the American League East. Club owner George Steinbrenner, at his Tampa, Fla., office, called the ruling "ridiculous" and said:

"If the Yankees should lose the Eastern Division race on the ruling of American League President Lee MacPhail, I would not want to be poor Lee living in New York City. He better start house hunting out in Missouri, close to Kansas City."

The original umpires' ruling, made by Tim McClelland at home plate and backed by Brinkman, was made when Yankees Manager Billy Martin protested Brett's bat immediately after the homer.

The rules say pine tar may be applied to the bat no farther than 18 inches from the end of the handle. Brett's bat was illegal. That was never in contention, MacPhail said. The

Two-Out Rally Lifts Snow Hill To Area I Title

GARNER — If Garner's American Legion baseball team is wondering what it takes to beat Snow Hill, it's no wonder.

Snow Hill needed a two-out rally in the top of the ninth and a "spectacular" play at shortstop to defeat Garner 14-11 for the Area I American Legion baseball crown Thursday night.

Snow Hill advances to the Eastern Finals against Hamlet, which won 7-5 over Whiteville in the sixth game of its series.

With Garner holding a three-run lead going into the ninth, Todd Grant cracked a leadoff homer to pull Snow Hill closer. Relief pitcher Ron Jones then retired the next two batters giving Garner players and fans hopes for a celebration.

But Anthony Russo yanked a solo homer to cut the margin to a run. Jones got two strikes on Jeff Ginn before he singled, and Greg Frederick followed with another hit.

A two-strike single by Mike Sullivan knotted the score, and Snow Hill Coach James Fulghum followed with Bobby Carraway as a pinch hitter.

Carraway proceeded to record a pair of strikes as well, but whipped the next pitch to right-center for a triple to drive in two more runs. Tommy Goff singled in Carraway to put the game out of reach — as it worked out.

Mike Sullivan took over on the mound for Snow Hill in the bottom of the ninth and after two outs, Ron Jones and Roy Hill singled to set runners on first and third.

Don Jones ripped a shot to shortstop, where Carraway backhanded the ball and fired to first base for the final out and the championship.

Four of Garner's 16 hits on the night were homers, with Billy Lee snapping the first pitch out of the park in the bottom of the first. Ron Jones added another solo shot to give Garner a 2-1 edge.

Snow Hill played the long ball, as well, with Chase adding a leadoff homer in the top of the second to tie the score. Snow Hill took the lead with a run in the top of the third, but Garner retaliated to knot the score at 3-3 in the fourth.

After two out in the fifth, Frederick doubled and scored when a single by Sullivan got loose in center field. Chase followed with a single, and Tommy Goff singled to score Sullivan.

Garner scored four runs in the bottom of the fifth and four more in the sixth to pad the lead at 11-6.

Five walks by Garner's pitchers after two outs in the seventh cut the margin to 11-8 before the ninth-inning Snow Hill barrage.

Frederick and Goff went 3-6 for Snow Hill, while Sullivan and Steve Sides were 2-5. Ginn had two hits in three trips to the plate, with Chase 2-4.

Billy Lee and Don Jones were 3-5 for Garner, while Dorsett Clement, Ron Jones and Doug Phillips went 2-5.

Rusty Murphy picked up the victory on the mound for Snow Hill, with Sullivan credited for a save.

Record Time Easy For Yarborough

TALLADEGA, Ala. (AP) — His part was easy, Cale Yarborough said after hitting in a record time to win the pole for Sunday's Talladega 500 NASCAR Grand National stock car race.

Yarborough went around the 2.66-mile Alabama International Motor Speedway track at 201.744 mph Thursday.

He now holds the record for the fastest qualifying speeds for both 500-milers at the track. He won the top starting spot for the Winston 500 in May at 202.650 mph. His time Thursday erased the 199.400 mph mark for the Talladega 500 set a year ago by Charlie Glotzbach.

Yarborough said his crew, headed by Waddell Wilson, "fixed the car up just super, and all I had to do was drive it."

He had skipped last Sunday's race at Pocono to try out a new Chevrolet here and, he said, that "obviously didn't hurt us any, but I really didn't think we'd run that fast. The car just ran super good...I guess this is just a 200 mph race car, no matter what we do on these big tracks. I just hope we can do it all day long Sunday."

If he can, it will be his first victory in the Talladega 500, which has had 13 different winners in its previous 14 races. Yarborough won the Winston 500 in 1978. Lining up beside him Sunday will be Bill Elliott, timed at 199.605 mph. Benny Parsons, 199.591 mph, and Dale Earnhardt, 199.309 mph, will be on the second row.

The slowest speed of Thursday's 20 qualifiers was 195.401 mph, by Jody Ridley. The other 20 starting places were being filled in time trials today.

One driver, Jimmy Means, was injured during a practice run Thursday and will miss the race. He suffered a fractured shoulder and pelvis when his Buick slammed into the wall coming out of the third turn.

Here are the top 20 qualifiers for Sunday's Talladega 500 NASCAR Grand National stock car race. The remaining 20 qualifiers will be determined Friday.

Natural Ability Was Robinson's Edge

COOPERSTOWN, N.Y. (AP) — Like so many things that come so naturally, Brooks Robinson has a hard time explaining how he became one of the finest-fielding third basemen in baseball history.

"I always had that sense of timing," he said with a smile. "It's nothing that you can say you're going to go out and learn. It's something you're born with."

On Sunday, Robinson, who won 16 consecutive Gold Gloves and played in 18 All-Star games, will receive the game's highest honor when he, along with Juan Marichal, George Kell and Walter Alston, will be inducted into the Hall of Fame.

"I knew I could field," recalled Robinson, "but the big question when I came to the major leagues was whether I could hit."

In his 23-year career, all with the Baltimore Orioles, he batted .267 with 268 home runs and 1,357 runs batted in. He was the American League's Most Valuable Player in 1964 and was the MVP of the 1970 World Series as the Orioles crushed the Cincinnati Reds.

During the series, Robinson turned in a slew of sensational fielding plays and hit 429.

"You know, a lot of people forget that I made an error on the first ball I handled in that series," he said. "But at no time in my career did I ever have five straight games like that."

Robinson, now 46 and a television announcer with the Orioles, became the 14th player to ever be elected on the first ballot — not including the original five elected in 1936 — when he received 344 of 374 votes cast in the Baseball Writers Association of America election in January.

Not coincidentally, Baltimore will play the St. Louis Cardinals on Monday in the Hall of Fame game. Orioles officials, anticipating Robinson's election in 1983, had asked several years ago to be scheduled for the annual exhibition game.

Also voted into Cooperstown in January was Marichal, renowned for his high-kicking style and blazing fastball.

Marichal compiled a 243-142 record with a 2.89 earned run average in his 16-year career, all but the last two years with the San Francisco Giants. He pitched a no-hitter against Houston in 1963, and won more than 20 games in six seasons.

Marichal, 44, and director of Latin American scouting for the Oakland A's, missed election in his first two tries, and some voters publicly said a 1965 incident in which he hit Los Angeles Dodgers catcher John Roseboro over the head with a bat during a game had something to do with their ballots.

Kell, a third baseman, hit .306 in a 15-year career, primarily with the Detroit Tigers. He was selected to the Hall by the Committee on Veterans in March during his first year of eligibility of the "repechage" — or second chance procedure.

Kell, 60, is now a Tigers television announcer and also runs an automobile dealership in his hometown of Swifton, Ark.

"Even now, when I think of being in the Hall of Fame with Babe Ruth and the rest, I'm in awe," he said. "It really is overwhelming."

Alston, a manager for 23 seasons with the Brooklyn and Los Angeles Dodgers, was also selected by the veterans committee.

He guided the Dodgers to seven pennants and four World Series triumphs before retiring after the 1976 season. Alston made it to majors as a third baseman in 1936, but struck out in his only at-bat.

Alston, 71, suffered a heart attack in April and has been confined to his home in Dartmouth, Ohio, since then. Two of his grandchildren will accept the award Sunday on his behalf.

Also to be honored is Jack Brickhouse, who will receive the Ford C. Frick Award for broadcasting.

MacPhail 'Showed Guts' In Ruling On Illegal Bat

KANSAS CITY (AP) — George Brett believes Lee MacPhail "showed a lot of guts" when the American League president upheld the Kansas City Royals' protest in the "pine tar" home run case.

"That was a very, very tough decision," said the Royals' third baseman. "I think it showed a lot of courage. He's a native New Yorker and he lives there. I would not have wanted to make that decision."

MacPhail announced in New York Thursday morning that he had ruled in favor of the Royals, who said the two-run homer Brett hit with two out in the ninth inning at Yankee Stadium last Sunday should not have been nullified just because Brett had used too much pine tar on his bat.

Under MacPhail's ruling, Sunday's game now must be treated as though it had been suspended, with the Royals batting with two out in the top of the ninth and leading 5-4. The game originally was ended by the umpires with Brett's homer nullified and the Yankees winning 4-3. MacPhail left open the possibility that the game might be played to its conclusion.

Brett was playing golf when MacPhail's decision was announced. He said a course employee came out to tell him the good news.

"I almost got my only birdie of the day," said the two-time AL batting champion.

Brett had expressed pessimism Wednesday night, saying he did not expect to win the protest.

"I was somewhat surprised, yes," he said, "but I knew my bat wasn't an illegal bat."

Brett bristled when asked to comment on remarks by Yankee owner George Steinbrenner that the decision "will play havoc with our game."

"Hey, you're not going to get me with a controversy with George Steinbrenner. I have a lot of respect for him. He's a very intelligent man, and if you think it's going to cause problems with the game, then you say so."

Brett declined comment when asked if he believed the rule should be clarified.

The Royals pick up their schedule against the Tigers tonight.

Baseball Rulebook Changes Slowly

NEW YORK (AP) — The controversy over George Brett's pine-tarred bat focused attention on one of baseball's worst sellers — the rulebook — and the little known process of changing the rules.

Baseball rules, from Little League to the major leagues, are made by the Playing Rules Committee. The committee is composed of three members from each major league along with three minor league representatives.

According to Charles "Chub" Feeney, president of the National League and a member of the committee, the rule-making process is intentionally low-key.

"I've been on the committee 20 years, and the great majority of the rulebook was written long before my time," Feeney said Thursday.

The group meets twice a year, including once at baseball's winter meetings. It does not meet primarily with an intention to change the rules, Feeney said. Rather, it considers proposals for rule changes from baseball officials, umpires or even fans who submit written suggestions.

Much of the committee's business these days, Feeney said, is centered on equipment changes — glove and bat sizes mostly. Recently, the committee was required to rule on a Florida minor league team wearing advertisements on their uniforms, he said. He said he couldn't remember how the committee ruled.

Directives to umpires on rule interpretation, such as speeding up play, are handled by the leagues.

When the committee does act, the rules it writes are binding on all baseball leagues, unless the rule is written to be optional. The designated hitter rule, for example, states that a league may or may not choose to exercise the option.

Feeney said he expects the Playing Rules Committee to perform its primary function in response to the Brett case — rewording the rule on illegal bats so that future protests are not necessary. That won't be until this winter, when Brett's pine tar will be frozen solid.

Winning Pirates Sharing The Credit

By The Associated Press
Even when the Pittsburgh Pirates were losing, Manager Chuck Tanner said, "no one was pointing any fingers at each other." Now that they're winning, he's pointing at everyone — sharing the credit.

"We're blending our young players with our old ones," Tanner said Thursday night after the Pirates beat the New York Mets 6-2 to remain first in the National League East, one-half game ahead of the streaking St. Louis Cardinals.

"Our attitude has been great all season," Tanner said. "No one is overconfident on this team, but we do have a very good attitude. They said we weren't that good. They're always saying we aren't that good. When we won the pennant and World Series (in 1979), they said we weren't that good."

The Pirates, striking for five runs — two on Mike Easler's double — in the first two innings, won for the 18th time in 23 games since the All-Star break (a real break for the Bucs) while the Cardinals stretched their winning streak to six games by sweeping a two-night doubleheader in Montreal, 3-2 in 10 innings and 10-1.

In the only other NL game, Philadelphia edged Houston 6-5. In the only American League game, Detroit defeated Seattle 6-1.

Tanner said he rested the Pirates during the All-Star break, wouldn't let anyone come to the ballpark. "I told my players to go home and go fishing, just forget about baseball," he said. "Of course, I've had times when that didn't work but it seems to be working this year."

Thursday night's "savers" for the Pirates were veteran reliever Rod Scurry and rookie center fielder Marvell Wynne.

Scurry came on in the bottom of the ninth with the bases loaded and one out, struck out pinch-hitter Darryl Strawberry, then ended the game by serving a routine grounder to Mookie Wilson, who had homered in New York's two previous games.

"Scurry will take the bat out of anyone's hand," said Tanner. "He has as good a curve ball as there is in baseball and his fastball moves at 90 miles an hour. He was like a surgeon out there. He just cut them out of the ballgame."

Earlier, Wynne, acquired from the Mets' minor-league system this season, robbed pinch-hitter Danny Heep of a potential extra-base hit with a long, running catch in left-center field with two on and nobody out.

"That catch was the game-saver," said Tanner. "They didn't have any outs and everyone was running. There was no way of knowing what would have happened."

Cardinals 3-10, Expos 2-1

St. Louis won the first game when Tommy Herr drew a two-out, bases-loaded walk in the top of the 10th from Jeff Reardon, then made it a sweep as Bob Forsch scattered eight Montreal hits while Ozzie Smith and Mike Ramsey drove in three runs apiece.

The Expos lost both Steve Rogers and Woodie Fryman in the 10th inning of the opener. Rogers got the first out before experiencing a cramp in the palm of his right hand. Fryman got the second out but with a full count against pinch-hitter Floyd Rayford he reinjured the ligaments in his left elbow.

Reardon then gave ball four to Rayford, yielded an infield single to Ozzie Smith and walked Lonnie Smith and Herr to force in the deciding run.

In the second game, Ozzie Smith had two doubles and a single and Ramsey a three-run triple in St. Louis' 17-hit attack. The Cards jumped on Dan Schatzeder for five runs in the first two innings.

Phillies 6, Astros 5

Mike Schmidt followed Joe Morgan's run-scoring triple in the top of the eighth inning with his 23rd homer of the season, tops in the NL and tied for the major-league lead, to catapult the Phillies to victory.

Landrum said.

And Landrum, playing in his first tournament as a full-fledged member of the PGA Tour, responded with a 6-under-par 65 that gave him a tie for the first-round lead with Vance Heafner.

The field was short, with 144 starters against the authorized strength of 156.

Cal Peete, who had scored his second victory of the season last week in the Anheuser-Busch Classic, suffered a recurrence of a chronic back condition and had to pull out.

Landrum, who got into the field only at the last minute, gained his tour playing rights by meeting the money-winning requirements.

"I understand it became effective today," he said Thursday.

Landrum, 25, a club pro from Florence, Ky., had used sponsor's exemptions and open qualifying berths to fight

"I can just feel things starting to come together," Manager Paul Owens said after Philadelphia won its third in a row.

Schmidt wasn't so certain. "I can't say this will get us started," he mused. "All it means was we won three games in a row. Now we have to go out and try to win four in a row and then five in a row."

Steve Carlton fanned nine Astros to put his career-record strikeout mark at 3,597, six ahead of Houston's Nolan Ryan. But Lefty wasn't around at the end, chased during a three-run seventh inning.

Tigers 6, Mariners 1

In Detroit, doubles by Chet Lemon and Tom Brookens triggered the Tigers' four-run second inning, but the surprise play was Alan Trammell's suicide squeeze — on Manager Sparky Anderson's orders — that brought Brookens home with the second run of the inning.

"When I went up there, he told me to be looking for the bunt sign," Trammell said of Andersn. "When the count got to 3-and-2, though, it was the only thing I wasn't looking for. It was a slider, down. But you are taught not to be cute. I just made sure I got it down somewhere and Brookie got a good jump."

Trammell wound up on second when Seattle pitcher Bryan Clark fielded the bunt and threw wildly past home. Trammell stole third and scored on Enos Cabell's triple and Larry Herndon capped the outburst with a sacrifice fly.

Poteat Takes Carolinas Golf

NORTH MYRTLE BEACH, S.C. (AP) — Bill Poteat of Columbia, who charged from three strokes behind to capture the $29,000 Carolinas Open Golf Championship at Bay Tree Golf Plantation here, says it took him 33 years to keep from choking at the finish.

"I may never choke again," said the 39-year-old University of South Carolina anatomy professor and amateur golfer, who began playing in tournaments at the ripe old age of 6.

Poteat was jubilation personified after finishing with a 3-under-par 69 Thursday for a three-day total of 210 and a two-stroke victory.

"They said it couldn't be done!" Poteat shouted. "They were wrong!"

Poteat won a $350 gift certificate, the trophy and the glory in the 54-hole Carolinas Professional Golfers' Association Sectional tourney.

Tied for second place at 212 were Vic Lipscomb of Orangeburg, who held the lead going into the final round, and Larry Hinson of Flat Rock. The low pros each got $2,250 to console themselves with. Tied for third with 214 totals were Mike Bright of Mount Pleasant and Mike Schlueter of Clover, who each earned $1,512.50.

Poteat, who carried a one-shot lead into the final hole at the 7,130-yard Gold course, needed only par when Lipscomb put his second shot on the par-5 18th into the pond guarding the putting surface.

The amateur did it by laying up safely left and short of the pond, wedging pin high into the safe left fringe and two-putting.

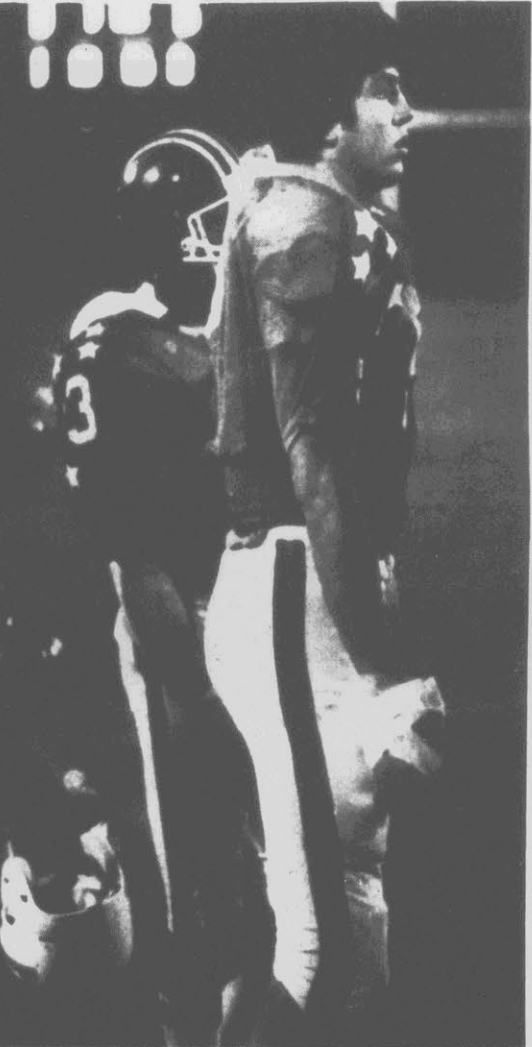

Lipscomb, who had begun the day with a two-shot advantage over Hinson and led Poteat by three, wound up bogeying the hole.

Farmville teenager Gary Hobgood, who had been tied for the lead after the first round of play failed to finish among the top 30 and was 16th among amateurs. Farmville Country Club pro Tom Braswell also was not in the top 30.

Early Injury To QB Mark Maye Results In West Losing, 8-6

GREENSBORO (AP) — Solid defense and a first-period hand injury to West quarterback Mark Maye combined to give the East All-Stars an upset 8-6 victory Thursday in the 35th annual East-West All-Star football game.

Maye, the sixth-leading single game high school passer in U.S. history, was injured on the second play from scrimmage, when he fumbled a center snap and suffered an apparent sprain in his throwing hand. Although he played two series, swelling ultimately forced him out of the game for good late in the first period.

The loss of Maye threw a monkey wrench into the West game plan, which was designed around his passing ability.

"The other guys are outstanding quarterbacks," said West head coach Danny Williams of East Burke, "but we put much of our time into throwing the football the past week, because Mark is just so accurate."

"When he went out, we had to go away from all our big-play type stuff. Although we ran the ball well at times and moved it, the inevitable happened. We had turnovers."

"Maye was hurt early and still tried to play. And we tried to see if he could go at halftime, but he couldn't grip the ball and it was obvious he was through. Maybe at that point we should have called time out and gone home."

It was evident East head coach Ken Browning of Northern Durham had his team prepared. They seized the momentum early, particularly on defense, and never let it go.

Edenton Holmes' Ernest Riddick, Jacksonville's Bruce Simpson and Clinton's Sandy Kea led a defensive front which kept the West offense in check most of the night.

"We really came out and executed well," said Browning. "But all week long I thought we would be ready to play. I felt good about our preparation. I didn't feel like we left anything uncovered, even though we only had a week to get ready."

"When Maye went out it really put the pressure on our defense. I actually thought they played better when he was in there. We had geared every thing all week to facing him, and the kids were excited about it. They had a great deal of respect for him and wanted to play against him."

The East took an 8-0 lead on its first possession, driving 65 yards in eight plays. Robert Hargrove of Henderson Vance went the final eight yards and Durham Hillside's Delatha Self, who led the East in rushing with 81 yards on 14 carries, rambled in for what would become the deciding two-point conversion.

The West turned the ball over twice, before closing the gap to 8-6 with 1:17 to go in the half. They marched 63 yards in just five plays, with Franklin's Walter West bulging in from three yards out.

The West appeared to tie the game, when Brevard's Kenny Edwards passed to Mt. Airy's James Brim, but the West was called for an ineligible receiver. Edwards' pass from the 18-yard line missed the mark.

With 5:16 to play, the West took over on their own 23 and drove to the East 17. On second down, Edwards rolled left and hit Brim for an apparent TD. Officials ruled Edwards over the line of scrimmage. On fourth down, Page's Mack Jones came on to try a 36-yard field goal, but after a high snap, the kick drifted wide to the left.

The West got one more chance when it recovered a Brian Watts fumble at the East 26 with 55 seconds left. But on the first play James' pass was intercepted by Lee County's Darrell Speed.

NEW YORK (AP) — Michael "Dynamite" Dokes and South African Gerrie Coetzee, both aware of possible outside pressure because of South Africa's racial policies, will fight for Dokes' World Boxing Association heavyweight championship Sept. 23.

Dokes said Thursday that he realizes there could be protests against the fight, but that he has not received any outside pressure as yet against fighting Coetzee, a white.

"I consider him a competent opponent," Dokes said Thursday at a news conference called by promoter Don King to formally announce what will be Dokes' second title defense and Coetzee's third championship bid. "He is the No. 1 challenger as far as the WBA is concerned."

But Dokes, a black, did say he would not fight Coetzee in South Africa. Both of Coetzee's previous unsuccessful WBA title bids were in South Africa.

No site has been set for the fight, but promoter Don King mentioned Seattle, Las Vegas, Nev., and Akron, Ohio, Dokes' hometown, as possibilities.

Coetzee, a power puncher with a brittle right hand, also is aware of likely demonstrations against the fight.

Coetzee, who has been living in the United States, said: "I am a South African. I was born there." But, he added, "They know I don't agree with their policies. It's not right what they're doing."

The challenger, who has had 15 operations on his right hand — a hand he has broken twice, the first time in 1977 — has scored 17 knockouts in winning 28 fights against three losses and a draw. The losses were on a 15-round decision to John Tate in a title bid Oct. 20, 1979; on a 13th-round knockout against then-champion Mike Weaver on Oct. 25, 1980, and in a 10-round bout against Pinklon Thomas last Jan. 22.

Dokes, 26-0-2, with 15 knockouts, won the title when he stopped Weaver in 63 seconds last Dec. 10, and kept it on a 15-round draw with Weaver May 20.

Winterville Tops Tourney

Bambino League

Winterville 3
Southern Pitt 1

WINTERVILLE — Winterville got homers from Bronswell Patrick and Jim Faulkner to gain a 3-1 victory over Southern Pitt in the championship game of the District 5 Bambino League tournament last night.

The victory advances Winterville to the state tournament, to be held starting August 6 in Louisville.

Winterville pushed into the lead in the first inning with a run, but Southern Pitt came back with one in the second to tie it up.

In the third, however, Patrick got his homer — an inside-the-park affair — to put Winterville ahead for good.

It stayed that way until the sixth, when Faulkner's roundtripper added icing to the cake.

Patrick and Kervin Vines each had two hits to lead Winterville. No one had more than one for Southern Pitt, which got only three hits off Patrick's pitching. He struck out 11.

Brett's Homer Allowed...

question arose from McClelland's decision to call Brett out and pretend as though the homer just didn't exist.

"Although Manager Martin and his staff should be commended for their alertness," MacPhail said in a statement, "it is the strong conviction of the league that games should be won and lost on the playing field — not through technicalities of the rules..."

The league president said later, "The pine tar was excessive, but the fact that it was beyond the 18-inch limit is not sufficient reason to call him out."

When McClelland raised his arm to signal that Brett was out, Brett ran full-speed from the dugout, nearly missing a train-wreck collision with the umpire when he was restrained by Brinkman. Also involved in a wild argument were Royals Manager Dick Howser and coach Rocky Colavito.

That prompted Richie Phillips, attorney for the Major League Umpires Association, to say that when the game is resumed, Brett, Howser and Colavito will be ejected "for behavior that followed the conclusion of the game."

MacPhail said that was news to him. There had been no ejections mentioned in the umpires' reports on the dispute, he said.

"That's something we'll have to consider," MacPhail said. "We'll have to take that under consideration along with the events that took place after the incident."

McClelland, a rookie umpire, said he had been assigned to work home plate tonight when Detroit plays host to Kansas City. He said he wouldn't be looking for tar on Brett's bat though. Once in a rookie season is enough.

"I would have liked to have had Mr. MacPhail back our decision," McClelland said. "We went right by the rule book. We were only doing our job. We weren't trying to give the game to New York or take it away from Kansas City."

According to MacPhail, the umpires might have going by the wrong book.

McClelland said that after applying rule 1.10(b) to determine that the bat had too much pine tar on it, thus making it illegal, they turned to rule 6.06(a), which says: "A batter is out for illegal action when he hits an illegally batted ball."

"Having pine tar 18 inches above the handle makes the bat illegal, and that means it's an illegally batted ball," McClelland said. "The rules say we were right."

MacPhail, however, said that after referring to 1.10(b), the umpires should have referred to 6.06(d), which says a batter can be called out for using a bat doctored "in such a way to improve the distance factor or cause an unusual reaction on the baseball" such as corking.

"League regulations and bulletins specifically provide that pine tar violations do not fall under the provisions of this rule," MacPhail said.

In his ruling, MacPhail commiserated with the umpires in their difficult task of interpreting a confusing, antiquated set of rules that "should be rewritten and clarified."

MacPhail said baseball's rules committee could consider rewriting the rules during December's Winter Meetings.

"I can honestly say that I predicted this from the start," Steinbrenner said. "As much as I hate to admit it, I figured he (MacPhail) would do just what he did...but I can feel for Lee because he is a fine and decent man, and I am a supporter of his."

Yankees General Manager Murray Cook, who attended MacPhail's news conference, said as far as the Yankees were concerned, the incident was closed.

Royals General Manager John Schuerholz, from Kansas City, expressed delight, while adding, "I thought all along we had a chance to win."

Brett bristled when asked to comment on statements by Steinbrenner that the MacPhail ruling "would play havoc with the game."

"Hey, you're not going to get me with a controversy with George Steinbrenner," said Brett. "I have a lot of respect for him. He's a very intelligent man, and if you think it's going to cause problems with the game, then you say so."

and never let it go.

Heat Near Winner At Open

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — There were only survivors following the opening round of the 31st U.S. Women's Open golf tournament on the hard, baked Cedar Ridge Country Club course.

"I really feel like I survived," said Patty Sheehan, who battled the sun-blasted course to an even-par 71 to tie Betsy King for the lead going into today's second round. "I feel like, thank God it's over and I don't have to play another hole."

The 6,298-yard layout was hard, fast and mean as only 14 women came within two strokes of par. Sixty-five women logged scores of 80 or higher. The average score was 79.

"I don't know. I think the course is fair," said Buddy Phillips, the course pro. "It rewards the good players and penalizes the bad shots."

There weren't many rewards Thursday. Most of the pre-tournament favorites — including JoAnne Carner, Donna Caponi, Kathy Whitworth and Janet Anderson — shot themselves out of contention, and several others scrambled to stay alive in the 103-degree heat.

"The greens were really baked out, and when they're like that you can't be aggressive," said Amy Alcott, a pre-tournament favorite who couldn't negotiate with her putter and was 4-over-par after her first round. "But that's the way the USGA (United States Golf Association) likes it. They don't like for people to come in like under par."

Sheehan, who earlier this year won another of the major tournaments on the women's tour, the LPGA Championship, expressed surprise that her 36-35-71 score would lead the tournament.

But Jan Stephenson, who logged a one-over 72 to stay in the hunt, expected such high scores.

"I said a long time ago that 4- or 6-under would win, but now I think even par will ... maybe even 4-over will win," she said.

Carner, the leading money-winner on the tour this year with more than $153,000, suffered through a dismal 10-over-par 81 that threatened to cause her to miss the cut for the first time in the 19 Opens she has played.

Whitworth, who has never won the Open in her record 84 tour victories, was nine strokes off the pace after a 39-41-80, while Anderson, the defending Open champion, blew to a 45 on the back nine and came into the clubhouse with an 82.

Caponi, a two-time Open winner, shot a 41 on the front side — including a double-bogey 7 on the fifth hole — en route to a 7-over-par 79.

And Kathy Young, who has never won a tournament in her four years on the tour, recorded a 45 on the front nine and withdrew from the tourney.

King, a 27-year-old pro who has never won on the tour, played the front nine in 36 and the back side in 35.

Beth Daniel, who earlier this week was unsure whether a bad back would prevent her from playing, shot a 74, while Hollis Stacy, another pre-tourney favorite, overcame a 42 on the front side and logged a 78.

Things Not Humming For Raider Backup QB

By The Associated Press

The Los Angeles Raiders' newest quarterback has had a ho-hum career in the National Football League. In eight pro seasons he was a perennial backup to, among others, Ken Stabler, Joe Ferguson and Bert Jones.

Hardly the best way to gain exposure.

The odds are even worse this time around for David Humm. He is one of seven — count 'em, seven — quarterbacks wearing black and silver and red jerseys in Santa Rosa, Calif., where the Super Bowl XV champs are working to atone for last year's loss to the New York Jets in the AFC playoffs.

"They didn't promise me anything, just that they'd take a look," said Humm, who is in his second tour of duty with the Raiders after being dropped by the woeful Baltimore Colts after last season.

But as Humm looked around, he saw Jim Plunkett and Marc Wilson, who are pretty much expected to retain the 1-2 ratings they had for the past two seasons. Also on hand is seven-year veteran Matt Robinson, who saw action with New York, Denver and Buffalo of the AFC before the Raiders picked him up during the offseason.

"There's a lot of guys waiting to see," Humm said, referring to an anticipated decision by NFL owners on whether or not to expand rosters from 45 to 49 players. That decision will dictate whether there will be third-string quarterbacks throughout the league.

Injuries are dictating some shuffling around the NFL. The Chargers lost Chuck Loewen for the season with a ruptured dick in his back, leaving San Diego with a huge gap in the offensive line. Veteran Russ Washington has remained unsigned, reserve Andrew Gissinger is nursing an injury suffered in a mini-camp and Bob Rush was traded during the offseason.

The Washington Redskins' injury list grew with the addition of offensive lineman Mark May, who will miss at least three weeks with a torn triceps in his right arm. Also ailing are safety Greg Williams, tackle Todd Hallstrom, tight end Rick Walker and defensive end Mat Mendenhall.

Pro Football (NFL Style) Makes Return Saturday

CANTON, Ohio (AP) — Five more immortals will step into the Pro Football Hall of Fame shortly before the Pittsburgh Steelers and New Orleans Saints meet in the season's opening exhibition.

Sid Gillman, only the fourth modern-era coach to be enshrined, will join former players Sonny Jurgensen, Bobby Bell, Paul Warfield and Bobby Mitchell in the Hall of Fame Saturday, pushing its 21-year membership to 119.

In the opening exhibition, Terry Bradshaw won't play at all and Kenny Stabler will make only a cameo appearance when the Steelers and Saints square off at 2 p.m. EDT (ABC-TV) before a Fawcett Stadium sellout of more than 23,000.

Bradshaw is expected to miss a minimum of two exhibitions in recovering from right elbow surgery in March. In his place, Steelers' Coach Chuck Noll will open with seldom-used veteran Cliff Stoudt. Mark Malone also will see action at quarterback for Pittsburgh.

Bum Phillips, the Saints' coach, indicates he will start Stabler and use him on a limited basis before turning the quarterbacking over to Dave Wilson and Guido Merkins.

Both teams are expected to be title challengers in their divisions after their 1982 finishes.

The Steelers, 6-3 and second to the Cincinnati Bengals in the AFC Central, made the National Football League playoffs for the first time since 1979, but lost to the San Diego Chargers 31-28.

New Orleans, rebuilding under Phillips, was only 4-5, but still finished in a second-place tie in the NFC West behind the Atlanta Falcons.

This will mark Pittsburgh's third appearance in the Hall of Fame exhibition, but first since 1964, when the Steelers lost to the Baltimore Colts. The previous year they beat the Cleveland Browns. New Orleans' lone previous appearance in Canton resulted in a loss to the Minnesota Vikings in 1970.

Gillman, 71, joins Weeb Ewbank, Paul Brown and the late Vince Lombardi as the only modern-day coaches to be elected to the shrine.

Gillman, now general manager of the new Tulsa franchise in the U.S. Football League, will be presented by his long-time coaching associate, Joe Madro.

His high school coach, Gene Slaughter, will present Warfield, the swift wide receiver for the Cleveland Browns, Miami Dolphins and defunct World Football League's Memphis Southmen.

Mitchell, first a runningback with the Cleveland Browns and then an outstanding receiver with the Washington Redskins, has chosen Redskins' owner Edward Bennett Williams as his presenter.

Williams, a all-time American Football League all-star with the Kansas City Chiefs, will be presented by Hank Stram, his Kansas City coach. Jurgensen, second in all-time NFL passing rankings behind Roger Staubach, also chose Williams. Jurgensen played with the Redskins for seven years after 11 seasons with the Philadelphia Eagles.

Italian Team Presence Felt In Cup Trials

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) —

When the Italian team arrived in the United States last spring to take its first shot at the America's Cup, little was expected from an inexperienced crew sailing a new, lightly tested 12-meter yacht.

Now, with nearly two months of action behind them, the men who sail Azzurra are making their presence felt in a big way. And a victory Thursday by roughly a boat length over Britain's Victory '83 has propelled the upstart Italians into the heart of the race among prospective challengers for the Cup.

"We have worked day by day and learned how to play the America's Cup game," said skipper Cino Ricci, who steered Azzurra to an 11-second victory over the British. "We now understand the tactics better."

The victory moved Azzurra into third place in the complicated foreign standings with 9.20 points. Azzurra, which bettered its record to 18-15 for the campaign, overcame a four-second deficit at the start, tacked to a 22-second lead at the first weather mark and held it the rest of the way.

The loss left Victory '83, now 20-14, in fifth place in the standings with 8.44 points.

In other action, Canada 1 whipped France 3 by two minutes, 19 seconds, and Challenge 12 won a battle of Australian boats by 1:56 over Advance.

The Canadians, second to idle Australia II with 9.72 points, evened their record at 17-17 after spotting the French a three-second advantage. But Terry McLaughlin steered Canada 1 to an 11-second lead in the first beat to weather and broke the race open in the second weather leg in southwesterly winds of 7-11 knots on Rhode Island Sound.

France 3, sixth in the standings at 2.12, has a 7-26 record.

Challenge 12, with John Savage at the helm, also moved ahead of Victory '83 with its triumph over Advance. Challenge 12, 22-12, has 8.60, while Advance, which fell to 2-31, has 0.80.

The bottom spreader on its mast broke before the race, nearly forcing Challenge 12 to scratch. But repairs were made, and valuable points gained when the boat was able to compete.

The boats, sailing on a 24.3-mile America's Cup course, started dead even. By Challenge 12 took a 35-second advantage at the first weather mark and stretched it out the rest of the way. Australia II, 30-3 and far ahead in the standings with 13.88, is back in action today against Azzurra as the round-robin series moves into its final 10 days. In other action, France 3 meets Challenge 12 while Advance sails against Victory '83. Canada 1 has the day off.

Squires Wins Amateur Putts

Jock Squires won the Thursday Night Amateur Tournament at the Greenville Putt-Putt and Games.

Squires combined scores of 31 and 37 to finish with a four-under-par 68 after two rounds of play.

A three way tie for second between Diane Pollard, Sam Weatherly and Phil Martin was settled when Pollard made the second hole of a sudden death playoff. The trio were tied with par 72's after the two rounds. Weatherly took third place.

Network Video Music Show Makes Debut Tonight

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — How do you like your rock music? Heavy metal, soulful or just plain loud? A new generation may be growing up and answering that sound doesn't matter, just give us sight. Video music is here to stay, it may never die. That's the assumption of the newest entry into the teen-age television market, NBC's "Friday Night Videos," which debuts following Johnny Carson's show tonight. The weekly 90-minute program revolves around what NBC calls "musical minifeature films," a Feini-esque elitism for what everybody else calls "music videos"—the kind broadcast 24 hours a day on cable television's MTV.

The new program is part of a wave of video-music clip shows. Pay-cable's Playboy Channel has a raunchy one, "Hot Rocks," showcasing the tapes that MTV censored or didn't want. WABC-TV in New York has "New York Hot Tracks," featuring black performers who don't get much play on MDV.

MTV has been criticized for being too suburban, and not reflective of black musicians or black audiences. MTV's response is that its format is rock 'n' roll, not rhythm and blues.

"Friday Night Videos" will include any musician who meets the show's criteria, says executive producer Dick Ebersol. "Videos have to be exciting and good visually, and either good rock or good rhythm and blues."

The fact that "Friday Night Videos" is stealing MTV's format may be one indication of cable's ability to create programming tailored to individual demographic groups. "Besides sex, the two things kids really want to do are listen to — or watch — good rock music, and go to the movies," says Ebersol.

Ebersol claims that NBC's use of video music will benefit MTV. "They're in 15 percent of the country. We're in 100 percent. This will whet the appetite."

The popularity of MTV, which is in the red but expects profits in the near future, paved the way for "Friday Night Videos." The idea came to Ebersol when he saw a piece on video music on the "CBS Evening News" last year.

Ebersol, also executive producer of "Saturday Night Live" and, previously, the concert-style "Midnight Special," decided to combine the formats of both those shows in "Friday Night Videos."

Besides videos, the show will have classic footage of famous rock acts from the past, and lifestyle feature reports on current and past performers. Ebersol promises a visit with Sam of Sam the Sham and the Pharoahs, and "Woolly Bully" fame. Ebersol says Sam's current gig is as captain of a New Orleans tugboat.

A more frivolous segment is the Video Vote, which is inspired by the call-in campaign on "Saturday Night Live" when the decision to keep Larry the Lobster alive or drop him into hot water was put to a phone referendum. Viewers tonight will be asked to register their preference between two competing videos.

The late hour gives "Friday Night Videos" some leeway with the censors, probably placing it between MTV and Playboy, which specializes in soft-porn set to hard rock. Like MTV, there is a wide disparity in the video efforts on Playboy, ranging from humorous and imaginative to freaky and tasteless.

With less time to fill than MTV, "Friday Night Videos" can be choosy and select only the classiest cinema. Tonight, the NBC program will introduce Elton John's "That's Why They Call It the Blues." The show also features Michael Jackson's $125,000 effort, the energetic and menacing "Beat It," a music-video sequel to "West Side Story."

"Beat It" exemplifies the creative possibilities of this new art form, which began as a promotional tool to help American artists crack European markets. Now, for a group like Duran Duran, the film comes before the music.

"We're going to see the birth of a whole new field of filmmakers," says Ebersol. Fine, but will they be able to carry a tune?

Nick NolteFiles For Divorce, Too

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actor Nick Nolte, who recently settled a $4.5 million "palimony" suit by a Minnesota model, has filed for divorce from his wife of five years, a spokesman says.

Nolte, 46, cited irreconcilable differences when he filed Wednesday to end his marriage to singer Sharon Lee Haddad, spokesman Paul Bloch said Thursday.

The couple, married in Las Vegas in 1978, separated last month. They have no children.

In April, Nolte reached an out-of-court settlement of a "palimony" suit brought by 37-year-old Karen Eklund. Terms of that settlement were not revealed, but Miss Eklund said at the time that she still loved Nolte and hoped to remain his friend.

In her suit, Miss Eklund claimed the couple lived together for 5½ years, from 1972 when he was earning $138 a week in a Minnesota repertory company until he became a wealthy film and TV actor.

EAST HAMPTON, N.Y. (AP) — Residents of this wealthy beach community say "The Hamptons," a new soap opera, has nothing to do with life in this part of Long Island, and some have threatened to sue for defamation of character.

"It's Hollywood's view of what the Hamptons should look like," author Kurt Vonnegut Jr., a longstanding Hamptonian, said Thursday of the new show which premiered Wednesday night.

"I've never seen anyone drive a Ferrari or a Porsche up to a party here. Everyone drives BMWs or Mercedeses," Vonnegut said. "No one wears tuxedos and this is the last place you would go to scuba dive. The sea bottom here is as black as coal."

"It's fake, plastic," said Deborah McGinley, a summer resident of Southampton.

"We're all considering suing for defamation of character to the Hamptons," said Judith Hope, a former East Hampton town supervisor.

Patricia Murray Wood, a member of the Vanderbilt family and resident of East Hampton for more than 50 years, thought the show was "horrendous."

"It's Southern California's view of the Hamptons," said Mrs. Wood, whose husband, Sidney, holds the record as Wimbledon's youngest singles title winner. "I've never seen anyone in black sequined dresses cut down to the navel. Most women here wear honest cotton."

The five-part ABC-TV series is about two East Hampton families, the Duncans and Chadways, both very rich, powerful and contentious.

The families are co-founders of the Duncan-Chadway department store chain, but whatever harmony the partnership once held has long since vanished.

The first episode featured a family patriarch's stroke; a mysterious financier who wants to take over the store; a Romeo-and-Juliet romance between scions of the two families, and an alcoholic woman and her husband, who sleeps with his stepdaughter.

Glimpses of local landmarks — the Windmill at Water Mill, the beach at Southampton, the East Hampton railroad station and some of the familiar gray clapboard saltbox houses — could be seen.

But critics and residents agreed "The Hamptons" had little to do with the Hamptons, about 100 miles east of New York City.

"It has dirt in it, but not enough sand," was how Newsday's Marvin Kitman put it.

The real Hamptons are a summer playground for famed authors, artists and actors, the newly rich and anybody who wants to be somebody.

Founded in the early 1600s, it has traditionally been a haven of the "old money families" in the manner of Newport, R.I., and Palm Beach, Fla. But it is also home to working people — farmers, fishermen, shopkeepers.

Winterville Mails Notices

Residents of the town of Winterville should find their 1984 tax notices in the mailbox in the next few days, town officials say.

The bills were mailed today and are payable at the town hall during business hours. Citizens who pay their taxes before Sept. 1 will receive a 2 percent discount, according to Town Clerk Elwood Nobles.

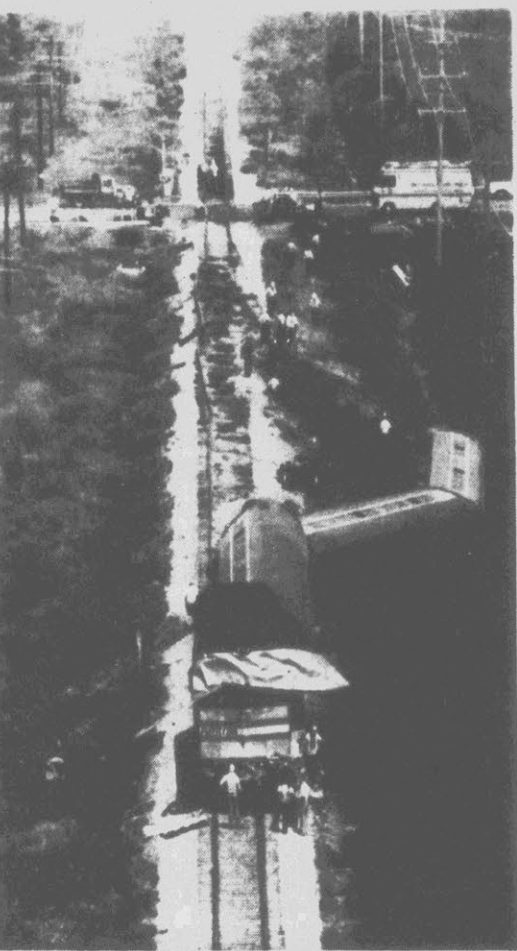

Nobles said 1,466 notices have been sent and residents have been billed for $24,713,330 of real property and $9,555,756 of personal property at the same rate as 1983 — 40 cents per $100 of value.

Suggs is a graduate of Greene Central High School and Pitt Community College. He serves as Ayden's representative on the Eastern North Carolina Municipal Power Agency. In addition, he serves on the board of directors of the North Carolina Wildlife Federation.

Sentence Four In Mail Thefts

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP) — Four Fayetteville residents who followed mail deliverers and stole Social Security, government retirement checks, and military paychecks from mailboxes have been given federal prison terms.

Robert Lee Johnson and Cynthia Ann Cole were each sentenced this week to three years in prison, and Ramona Simmons Bolden and Avon Antonio Blanks received five-year sentences for their participation in the theft-forgery ring.

Assistant District Attorney

Robert Showers estimated that the group stole between $100,000 and $150,000 from 1980 to 1982.

The four used false identification cards to cash the checks with their photographs and information from the checks. They cashed them in selected places in Fayetteville, Lillington and Southern Pines.

Morris Everett Farmer, another member of the ring, was convicted of forgery by a federal jury earlier this year and was sentenced to 10 years in prison.

Man Arrested On Burglary Charge

Greenville police have arrested a 31-year-old man on a first degree burglary charge following investigation of an early morning incident last Friday at a Greenville residence.

Chief Glenn Cannon said Paul Edward Spurling of 1103A Forbes St. was charged after police investigated a complaint by Teresa Lynn Sutton of 1018 S. Evans St., who reported that she was awakened from sleep to find a man standing at her bed. Cannon said she told officers she jumped out of bed and ran into the kitchen before managing to open the door and flee downstairs.

Cannon said that Ms. Sutton, who has an apartment in the South Evans Street residence, reported that she fled to the living quarters of the home owner, Myrtle Wilson. The man allegedly broke a glass out of the front door and ran from the home, Cannon said.

The incident was reported at 3:42 a.m., the chief said.

Apartments Gain Conditional Permit

Phoenix Development Associates has been granted a conditional use permit by the Winterville Board of Adjustments to locate a 48-unit apartment complex on North Mill Street in Winterville.

The complex will be located on a 5.48-acre site adjacent to Pinewood Village. According to Don Brady of Phoenix Development, the complex is presently in a "preliminary stage."

The Board of Adjustments also recommended recently that the Town Board of Aldermen take action on a billboard located on N.C. 11 near Waller Tractor that reportedly does not comply with the town's ordinance on advertising signs. According to the Board of Adjustments, the billboard is oversized.

Newly appointed members of the board include Fran Whelihan, J.H. Weathering, Paul Braxton, Calvin Henderson and Claudie McLawhorn. They will serve a three-year term ending in July of 1986.

Single letters, short words, and words using an apostrophe can give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is accomplished by trial and error.

Four Unhurt In Plane Mishap

FOREST CITY, N.C. (AP) — Four people escaped injury Thursday when a small plane's right brake failed, causing the plane to skip off the runway and over an embankment at Rutherford County Airport.

The other passengers were identified as Virginia Rucker and Chuck Eaton.

The bidding:

Opening lead: Ten of ♥.

We have often remarked that winning bridge players are pessimists. You have to be alert for bad breaks on hands where you seem to have an abundance of tricks.

The bidding was a matter of simple arithmetic. North added his 9 points to his partner's announced minimum of 25, and got enough for a slam. So he wasted no time getting there.

West led the ten of hearts, and a careless declarer would go down in no time flat. He would win, cash the ace-queen of spades and enter dummy with the ace of clubs. He would then cash the table's high spades and lead a club. When that suit did not break and declarer had to surrender a trick to East to set up his long club, East would cash the thirteenth spade for down one.

The careful declarer is aware of the fact that there might be bad breaks in the black suits. He also realizes that he needs only four tricks from the club suit for his slam — he has four spade tricks, three hearts and a diamond as well.

So after winning the opening lead and clearing the high spades from his hand, the wise declarer leads a club and finesses the ten. He does not care whether it wins or loses — the contract is safe in either case.

As the cards lie, East wins the jack of clubs and his best return is a diamond. Declarer rises with the ace of diamonds, crosses to the ace of clubs and cashes dummy's winning spades, discarding diamonds from his hand. He can then return to hand with a heart to cash the king-queen of clubs, extracting the enemy clubs, and the fifth club is declarer's twelfth trick.

FOCUS

Saluting 'The Boys of Summer'

On Sunday, both of these men will join the ranks of baseball's immortals. Brooks Robinson (left) and Juan Marichal will be inducted into the Baseball Hall of Fame in Cooperstown, New York. Although Robinson's lifetime batting average was only .267 in 23 seasons with the Baltimore Orioles, his 16 Gold Glove awards lead many to call him the greatest third baseman ever. Marichal, a native of the Dominican Republic, is only the second Latin American-born player elected to the Hall of Fame. His 243 wins, 2.89 earned run average and six 20-win seasons rank him among baseball's greatest recent pitchers. Marichal played with the San Francisco Giants from 1959 to 1973.

DO YOU KNOW — Who was the first Latin American player elected to the Hall of Fame?

THURSDAY'S ANSWER — Thomas Edison was nicknamed "The Wizard of Menlo Park."

Going Ahead On Beach Access

EMERALD ISLE, N.C. (AP) — The state is moving ahead with plans for a beach access facility at the western end of Bogue Banks despite opposition from the town of Emerald Isle and some area residents.

The proposed $148,000 facility developed from compromise legislation in the General Assembly. Some residents of the town opposed a vehicle access ramp developed by the town and attempted to form their own community.

The facility would include restrooms, a parking area and dune crosswalk. Town officials have opposed the facility because it includes plans for the town to maintain the project after it is constructed.

Say N. C. A Segregated Society

By BILLY PRITCHARD
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Several black witnesses testified Thursday that blacks in North Carolina live in a mostly segregated society with little political representation at the state level.

The testimony came in a federal suit brought by four black voters who oppose multi-member districts in a legislative redistricting plan approved in 1982. They claim that single-member districts are the only way to avoid diluting minority voting strength.

Joe P. Moody of Roanoke Rapids, one of the plaintiffs in the class action suit, testified that blacks in Halifax County still face many of the same obstacles he faced 18 years ago when he first registered to vote.

Moody, who cannot read or write, said it took him all day to complete a simple registration form in 1965 but that he was determined to complete it.

Black progress in the electoral process has been slow and only recently improved, according to G.K. Budtefield, a black attorney from Wilson.

Butterfield said his father became the first black member of the Wilson Board of Aldermen in 1953, when town aldermen were elected by single-member wards.

But after his father won re-election in 1955, the town changed the election process for aldermen to an at-large system, and his father was defeated in his re-election bid in 1957. Butterfield said no other blacks were elected to the town board until 1975.

He said Wilson schools were segregated until 1972 and that blacks and whites still live in separate residential areas.

Butterfield testified that after 2,000 new black voters were drawn by a massive registration drive, the Wilson County Board of Elections adopted a new set of rules restricting such drives.

The rules weren't enforced, however, because they had not received approval from the U.S. Justice Department under the 1965 Voting Rights Act. Wilson and 40 other North Carolina counties are under the protection of the act, which prohibits racial discrimination in elections.

Willie Lovett of Durham, an industrial engineer for IBM and a former chairman of the Durham County Democratic Party, testified that no blacks serve on the county's board of elections. He said race has always been an issue in Durham County politics and that it has been fueled by the media.

Larry Donnell Little of Winston-Salem, a member of the Winston-Salem Board of Aldermen and former member of the Black Panthers, said blacks have similar difficulty in Forsyth County. But he said they have a better chance of being elected Winston-Salem aldermen because the city has a single-member-ward district election system.

Under cross-examination by the state, Little said two out of five Forsyth County state representatives are black, although only 25 percent of the registered voters in the 39th House District are black.

Little said he wouldn't have won a seat on the town board if it had not been under an at-large election system. He said black candidates encouraged to run under an at-large system usually have to be "Uncle Toms," or candidates with low profiles and platforms that appeal to both black and white voters.

"Essentially, we are a segregated town," Little said of Winston-Salem.

The plaintiffs were expected to conclude their case Friday before three federal judges. A spokesman for the defense said the state, which plans to call several state legislators, should complete its case by the middle of next week.

Dr. Theodore Arrington, an associate professor of political science at the University of North Carolina at Charlotte and a key expert witness for the plaintiffs, testified Thursday that multi-member districts discriminate against blacks.

"The continued use of multi-member districts in North Carolina is an impediment to the election of blacks," Arrington said, adding that he did an extensive analysis of state campaign and election records.

The state has tried to show that blacks can be elected to the General Assembly under the current system, including areas specified in the lawsuit.

The state noted in a pre-trial brief that 11 blacks were elected to the Legislature in general elections last November and that blacks hold more than 250 elected offices in North Carolina.
